City lets street bid, hears citizens gripe

A handful of people were present Monday night to protest this summer's paving program before the City Commission as a bid of $126,633.50 was approved for the projects.

The bid went to Cadillac Asphalt Paving Company and Thompson-McCully, low bidder out of six; high bid was $135,170.

Superintendent of public works Joseph Bida noted: "The bids are a lot lower than we figured, and all the specifications have been met."

Hilton Ponto, 693 Maple, was one of the citizens protesting:

"I don't object to civic improvements, I relish civic improvements; everyone likes a lovely road . . . but it is apparent that we are going to open it up wide as a raceway by paving . . . The squeal of tires is music I do not enjoy."

Acting City Manager Kenneth Fisher answered some of Ponto's comments:

"We have a limited number of police officers . . . It would be well if a citizen would sign a complaint once in a while. It's a general problem. It has nothing to do with a good street." Continuing, Fisher said: "I don't see why it would increase the speed if two blocks were improved."

Fisher also noted the City was about to add a radar unit to its facilities.

Ponto replied that he did not like to "squawk on people."

Bida also noted that vandals rip stop signs off their posts and out of the ground, and no one hears it, or complains.

Also present was a spokesman for the petition signers on Maple St., Fred Andres, 1167 Maple. At the time of the public hearing in May, a petition with 16 signatures had been presented, protesting the paving of Maple St. from Harvey to McKinley.

ANDRES complained that the assessment would cost him about one-tenth his yearly salary, and that he didn't want to "donate part of my salary to improve a raceway."

Mayor James Houk noted that he too lived on the street and said:

"It's the only way we can hold the street. We're reaching that position. I don't like the assessments any more than you do."

All street projects are in the final stages except the widening of Main St. from Ann Arbor Trail to Sutherland, and a portion of that may be done as a result of a request from Ralph Lorenz, owner of the Mayflower Hotel.

Lorenz asked for an improvement of the curb and parking situation in front of the old Odd Fellows Hall across from the Mayflower Hotel on Main St. He noted that his banquet hall on the second floor of the building would be complete soon, and first use would be in August.

He sought to fix the curb and widen the street in front of the building to alleviate future parking problems, expected when the 450 seat banquet room is completed and in use.

The Commission agreed to seek engineer's specifications and plans for widening of Main to Maple, a block down from the Mayflower Hotel.

Lorenz said he would be "glad to share any costs."

In other action the commission agreed to consider Bathey Manufacturing Company's request to purchase three lots in the Urban renewal project—the three optioned by the Gay Blade Corporation. The Commission made the move after hearing Fisher report he hadn't heard from the developers of the skating rink, and their extension had run out June 7.

In a letter to the Commission, president of Bathey, Doug Bathey, noted:

"We recently made application for a building permit, to expand our present facilities, with an estimated cost of the additions totalling $62,000.00

"At that time, we notified

Cops rap rubber checkers

Bad check writers may be headed for more than normal trouble with the law in Plymouth as City assistant police chief Loren Johnson has begun a crackdown on the culprits.

Johnson said he's caught up with some of them but:

"I have a lot more checks I can't do anything with because I don't know who the people are. Neither do the people who took them. I'm cracking down . . . but I can't get merchants to help me."

Last week Johnson called for a closer identification of check cashers and urged every merchant to know who they are cashing checks for. If the person is unknown, his driver's license number should be noted on the back of the check.

Johnson has reported a rash of bad checks last week, and indicated that many merchants were sloppy in their check cashing habits.

A pair of the worst bad check passers, according to Johnson, are Ervin and Marilyn Nicholson, 634 Mill St., who stood mute before municipal judge Harry Deyo last Wednesday on bad check charges.

They were released on $500 bond.

Marilyn Nicholson wrote a series of bad checks totaling well over $500 according to Johnson, although not all of them have been accounted for.

Ervin Nicholson is out on bond from Livonia authorities for a series of bad checks there. Both of them have known records of bad checks.

ANOTHER man, Roy Louis Wells of Ten Mile Rd. was arraigned in court Monday on similar charges, and was fined $50 and $10 costs, and given 30 days in DeHoCo.

Rotary hosts 160 at district meeting

While honors normally come sparingly to organizations in a community the size of Plymouth, a meeting held Saturday afternoon at Junior High School East indicates that this area is a glowing exception.

And the community organization that perhaps best illustrates the point hosted the gathering.

Plymouth Rotary, which has quietly and matter-of-factly broken record after record, entertained more than 160 Rotarians from the 43 clubs in District 640.

The district stretches from here to the Ohio border, westward to Adrian and easterly into the Canadian province of Ontario.

The occasion was the Rotary District Assembly, chaired by Plymouth Past President Robert O. Beyer and including an appearance by Incoming Governor Perry W. Richwine who represents a record of sorts himself.

RICHWINE, who will serve during the 1965-66 year, becomes the Plymouth club's third District Governor—an honor that has come to no other club of Plymouth's size in the district.

Past Plymouth Governors include the late George A. Smith and Frank Henderson, still active in the local club.

When he takes over the reins of Governor, Richwine's name will be familiar to active Rotarians in the district. He has visited and spoken to most of the 43 clubs. He served as a delegate to six international conventions and is a past president of the Plymouth club.

Saturday's session included lectures and training classes for all incoming 1965-66 Rotary Club officers in the District. It marked the first time a combined Rotary District Assembly had been held here.

The service club organization, which is celebrating its 60th year of international service, now includes 172,000 members in 129 countries.

Music and entertainment for the Saturday program was directed by Wayne Dunlap, head of the music department at Schoolcraft college and conductor of the Plymouth Symphony.

A noon buffet luncheon was served by Loren J. Goodale.

PLYMOUTH Rotary, while it seeks little publicity, has distinguished itself at the local level by establishment of the Plymouth Rotary Foundation—a non-profit group which provides educational funds and scholarships.

Its best known achievement, however, is probably an annual chicken barbecue which has mushroomed into the Plymouth Fall Festival. While the initial barbecue was attended by a few hundred people, last year's Festival drew more than 40,000 persons to the Plymouth Community in four days.

Band to play in park Fri.

Planners o.k. 100 new apartments

The new $500,000 Ford dealership, 100 new apartments and a self-service car wash moved one step closer to completion at last Wednesday's meeting of the Township planning commission.

Postiff Estates finally got approval on a rezoning request for 100 apartments for the property behind Plymouth Stamping.

Richard Gearvn, spokesman for Postiff Estates, said they planned to build five apartment buildings with 16 apartments, a two with ten, ten duplexes and 12 single family residences. The zoning changes was approved by planning consultant W. C. Johnson:

"We believe the requested zoning changes to be a logical transition between the light industrial along Ann Arbor Road, and the single family zone south of the proposed rezoning change."

At an earlier public hearing, several citizens objected to the then proposed rezoning of the entire parcel for apartments, and the extension of Judson St.

Planning commission chairman Irving Rozian noted that there had been "violent opposition" to making Judson a through street at that time.

The new plans call for Judson to be deadend, and for duplexes to buffer the apartment and single family areas.

COMMISSION member Tivadar Balogh noted that the plans included a park along Tonquish Creek. He said:

"If this park is part of the development, I can't say it is particularly well located . . . If it does work it's something we can point to later as a good use of negative land. We have talked at great lengths about inclusions of this type in a development. Generally we have agreed it was a worthwhile addition."

The Postiff plat now goes to the Wayne County Co-ordinating committee for approval.

The commission approved listing the land west of Plymouth Bowl on Plymouth Road, optioned by Leo Calhoun, for public hearing after reading aloud a letter from the Ford Motor Co.

The letter said the site was acceptable by the company, and that it was the "preferred location." Johnson recommended the request be given consideration.

Calhoun was present and said that the company will issue a letter of intent promising the land as a Ford dealership site for 20 years.

About 13 acres are involved, Calhoun said. His new dealership, if approved, will employ between 75 and 100 people, and cover 38,000 sq. feet.

Haggerty, M-14 bowling alley bar hit by petition

The proposed bowling alley and shopping center at the corner of M-14 and Haggerty hit its first snag last Wednesday at the Township planning commission meeting as a series of petitions was presented opposing the plans for a bar in the bowling alley.

Ned Shirton, 9335 Marlyn, presented the petitions which had "150 names" on them. The petition read in part:

"We the undersigned are unalterably opposed to the establishment of a bowling alley and a bar at the corner of M-14 and Haggerty."

Oscar Himshoot and Robert Wedler are seeking the rezoning of the southeast corner for their development. They first appeared before the Township Board in May seeking a liquor license. They were told at that time there were "20 or 30 applicants" for the license, and that it wouldn't be fair to string him along, letting him think he might get it. Wedler at the time had called it "essential" for the success of the bowling alley.

Frank Millington, 14900 Beck, in a letter to the commission, urged the license be held up for a "better class development." He cited the liquor service problems at Plymouth Bowl, and said the one license the Township has should be held for "something like a Holiday Inn."

WEDLER said the project "had mushroomed" and that a super market had shown interest in locating there. The bank on the corner is still up in the air.

Commission member Carl Hartwick asked what the

He's a real rib-tickler

A warrant has been issued by City police for the arrest of John Noe of Detroit, on charges growing out of a fight at Galen Manufacturing, 425 Ameila, last Thursday.

Noe was being sought Tuesday on assault and battery charges brought by police in behalf of Ray Williams, 305 Roe.

According to police, Noe, Williams and William's brother, Kenneth, were arguing, when Noe, a foreman, called Ray Williams over and said "Let's have it out."

Williams refused, and left to seek the plant boss. In the meantime Kenneth Williams was back at work, sharpening a knife on a grinding wheel.

Noe, according to police, accosted him, the turned knife in hand, and Noe punched him in the ribs with a piece of steel tubing, then hit him on the shoulder and the hand.

Noe then turned to Ray Williams, who had returned, said something, poked him in the ribs, and then in the back as Williams turned away, according to police.

"The bowling alley is our prime concern. The stores supplement the area. The alley my partner and I would operate," Wedler commented.

The commission sought to establish the pair's intentions with the land. Chairman Irving Rosian noted: "We hesitate to rezone land contingent on something that may or may not come through."

No clear statement about alternatives to a "no" answer to the liquor license were offered by Wedler.

There was also some discussion of nearby school and church property. The commission decided to set the matter for a public hearing, handing the matter in the meantime, to planning consultant W. C. Johnson for study.

MESC seeks job corps applicants

The much talked about job corps has yet to register a youth from Plymouth, but one will soon be processed, according to Michigan Employment Security Commission branch manager Edward Dowling.

The local office completed processing its first applicant recently, a youth from South Lyon.

The job corps is a baby, just new-born from the minds of the administrators of the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity. The administrative details are just now filtering down to local offices.

Dowling is impressed with this program more than any of the others.

The corps is aimed at jobless youth from 16 to 21, and is particularly designed to fill the void for the high school drop out. Dowling said in a recent interview:

"First, we lay it on the line. If they join the corps they will have to get up in the morning. There will be discipline. We give them all the bad points first."

ANYONE WHO joins, enlists for two years; he may drop out at anytime. Basically he will be taught job habits and some vocational skill, so he, in Dowling's words, "will have something to offer an employer when he gets out."

Dowling said Michigan had a goal of enlisting 2100 this month.

"I feel that the job corps has the most to offer. The emphasis is on young people."

As an aside Dowling noted that in this area the need for the corps wasn't as strong as it is in others.

"We have 300 permanent jobs we can't fill. . . not $1.25 per hour jobs, either."

Who qualifies for the job corps? Dowling said a screening handbook is used to determine this. "Impoverished environment" is the catch phrase. "If he lives in a nice neighborhood, he's out at this point," Dowling noted.

THE CORPS takes selective service rejectees, and kids who have been in trouble. Lawbreaking of minor consequence is not a factor that would keep a youth out. A history or series of repeated offenses might put him on the borderline for consideration. Dowling commented:

"This kind of thing won't stop him. In fact, he's the kid that needs it."

The corps, formed in August, 1964, is only months old. Dowling said his office was ready to process all applicants, but they have to come into the office.

"We can't stand on a street corner and grab them. We could get a lot of them if we did, I guess," Dowling concluded.

The MESC office is at 987 S. Mill St.

City must pave despite citizen's protests

City of Plymouth's beleaguered citizens were heard once again Monday night by the commission as a hardy handful protested paving, or the cost of it.

One man said the paving was going to cost him one-tenth of his yearly salary—even though he will have five years to pay for it.

Many others were complaining that the paving of a street will make it a drag strip for the City's racers.

Mayor James Houk, acting City manager Kenneth Fisher and superintendent of public works Joseph Bida took turns fielding the gripes.

Fisher pooh-poohed the idea of paving creating a dragstrip and said:

"It would be well if a citizen would sign a complaint once in a while." Fisher later said that a license plate, positive identification of the driver and the car were necessary to catch the speeder, and that a complaint signer would have to appear in court.

Bida and Houk patiently explained that letting the street go was costing the City money in insurance claims on cars hitting holes, and on constant patching.

The commission also agreed to paving of Maple St. from Harvey to McKinley, although several people had signed a petition asking them not to. A vote of five or more of the Commissioners is needed to over ride a written petition, and the commission cast such a vote at a meeting earlier in June, with Arch Vallier voting no.

The public hearings were handled gently by Mayor Houk, and were wide open. All sorts of gripes were aired at the last two, from the City's rusty water (a jug of it was given to Bida to drive home a point) to drag racing to the street projects.

In general, when all was said and done, the main beef was money—the cost. Carried to its logical extreme, all paving projects that are objected to could be voted down—and all of them are, to one degree or another—and soon the City would have 1901 streets with 1965 traffic.

Public hearings air a lot of gripes, but that's about all. The City's practice has been to establish what is needed most in the way of paving and then go ahead, objections or not.

One possible exception might be the paving proposed a few years back in the York and Liberty St. area where total objection brought a postponement of paving from the Commission.

Public hearings are usually a time when an irate citizen, notice clutched in hand, rises to ask why the City is going to pave his street. He is told it is about to fall through to China and is costing the City untold hundreds of dollars in tar to keep up.

That's the last you ever see of him. The paving gets done, he has to pay, and he's quiet for 15 years, until the street needs repaving. Then the chuck holes hit the fan once again.

If this is truly the function of a public hearing on street improvements, we think it's often a waste of time. It gives the press some lively copy, true enough, and it is a form of democracy in action.

All in all it seems like a tableau. City decides to pave. Redface citizen protests. City says save money in long run. Citizen says make dragway. City says we see point but paving is needed. Citizen says hurts pocketbook. City says sorry, but must pave. Citizen hurts self falling off wallet.

Things are whirling again in the muddied maelstrom of state and national politics, drawing the intrusion of my pointy nose which has been absent, lo, these many months since November.

Politicians, being what they are, have apparently succumbed to the national craze for dance and—voilà—you have Politics-a-go-go.

Residents of the Plymouth Community, who by natural inclination are concerned with what's in, will want to know which dances are most popular on the political scene. Here is an up-to-date listing:

The varmint. Created by the king himself, the varmint marks the end of the honeymoon. It starts with the dancer facing the Washington Press Corps and then moving convulsively backward while the band plays "Baby, Baby, Don'tcha Go 'Way Mad" in rock and roll tempo while a discordant group chants, "Dirty varmint, don'tcha write them things."

The scorpion. This dance is big in the great southwest, not to be confused as part of the great society. Armed with a Bowie knife, the performer wriggles close to Ray Bliss and slashes away to a background of "Why Don'tcha Love Me Like You Useta Do?"

The scorpion is great fun at a large party where that portion of the audience on the far right can holler "yeah, yeah, yeah" during the performance.

The Lansing Leap. While the strains of "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain" are hammered out by a Beatle-haired combo, the dancer moves in a large, vacant area in the center of the floor. On one side of him is a platform marked "U.S. Senate," and on the other, a stand on which is stenciled "G.O.P. Presidential nomination."

Two variations of the Leap exist. In the Manhattan Muddle, the U.S. Senate platform is replaced by another labeled "Mayor of New York City."

The California Climb has one platform bearing the lettering "Governor of the Commonwealth of California."

The Fiscal Frug. Everybody dances in a maniacal frenzy while confettied scraps of appropriations bills and franked envelopes waft down from the ceiling. In Lansing, the walls are decorated with placards reading "Fiscal Reform . . . Someday." Singers intone "I Wanna Hold Your Purse."

An outstate county-seat weekly newspaper has been playing a macabre headline game that gained the attention of Sunny Side of the Streeter Bud Guest last week.

This is the way it goes.

All headlines contain the words "Grim Reaper" and must pertain to the occupation of the deceased.

For example, Grim Reaper Jolts Electrician. Grim Reaper Tackles Football Player. Grim Reaper Hooks Fisherman. Grim Reaper Nails Carpenter.

As an addition to the list, dedicated to our cast-wearing advertising gal, Kay Osborn, here's another:

Grim Reaper Wipes Out Surfer.

Got any suggestions to add to the list?

editorials

The gullibility of the general public is pointed up with great and tiresome regularity as people get filched out of time, effort and—for the most part—money.

There are roofing robbers and siding sharpshooters and furnace repair renegades. With practically no effort at all, you can lose a fast buck on magazine subscriptions, bargain basement studio portraits or dance lessons for the whole family, including Fido.

But the hoariest and tiredest and most prevalent of the bunch is the bum check game which—of late—has enjoyed a resurgence in The Plymouth Community.

Foolishness! Of all the practitioners of illicit trades, the fumbling, amateurish rubber check writer is probably the most inept and clumsy.

All it takes to trip him up are a few simple rules and regulations.

(1) Know who you're cashing a check for. In past years, local businessmen could be less stringent because Plymouth was a closely-knit little community where it was easy to know people and spot outsiders. This is no longer true.

(2) Require proper identification. "Proper" means a valid driver's license that shows no evidence of change or alteration. The number of the licensee should be noted on the check.

(3) Take a few minutes to call the bank and check on an account with which you're unfamiliar. Local financial institutions will be more than happy to verify an account for you.

(4) In all instances, report bad checks. Admittedly, it's a blow to the pride to learn you've been bilked; but proper enforcement is made possible only when police are notified of violations.

The occasional "pro" may slip through in spite of all precautions, but keeping a wary eye on the check casher will discourage amateurs and force them to beat a hasty retreat—minus what could be your margin of profit.

Which, after all, is what most of us are in business for.

A GIFT FROM FORD was given to Schoolcraft College last Friday. The gift—a cutaway version of the chassis of a 1964 Ford. President of the college, Eric Bradner, right, points out the intricacies of the actual model. Gib Brown, of Bill Brown Ford dealership in Livonia, and R. B. Dale, representative of the Ford Detroit district sales office, and L. Dell Reed look on. Reed, who is director of the evening college said the chassis will go into the school's new technical building, to be built in the near future.

City commission meeting

In The Good Old Days

TAKEN FROM THE FILES OF THE PLYMOUTH MAIL

(Continued from Page 1) The City commission that our expansion program would necessitate the acquisition of additional property, if we were to continue the expansion of our facilities.

"We understand that the City commission is considering the sale of Lots 642, 643 and 644 for a use other than manufacturing. This appears to be somewhat different than the information furnished our company over a year ago. We urge that you seriously consider the offer of Bathey Manufacturing Company to purchase Lots 642, 643 and 644, considering the fact that the property would be utilized for manufacturing purposes, which in turn would make available additional employment for people in the Plymouth area.

"Also, the fact that additional machinery and inventory would be acquired, which would increase the tax basis and fulfill the purpose of the Mill Street Urban Renewal Project."

Taxicabs came before the Commission and it was agreed to let acting city manager Fisher study the matter, and make some recommendations as to type of service expected.

City Attorney Edward Draugelis had drafted an ordinance that read in part:

"Taxicabs licensed to operate in the city of Plymouth must spend a sufficient amount of time in operation within the City limits to reasonably and adequately serve the needs of the public of the City of Plymouth and when, in the judgment of the City Commission such licensed taxicabs fail to provide reasonable and adequate service, said City Commission may revoke said taxicab license. No such license shall be revoked for inadequate service unless such licensee is given notice of the City Commission's intent to revoke said license and is further given an opportunity to be heard with regard to said revocation."

Attorney John Ashton was present in the absence of Draugelis, and explained the City attorney had thought the department of public safety should decide what was "reasonable and adequate service," and set some specific standards.

In other action the commission:

★ Listed for public hearing the proposed vacation of a portion of an alley-way behind the present Allison Chevrolet dealership; hearing set for July 21, 8 p.m.

★ Sent to the City manager for study a request from Tom Cape for the improvement of a portion of Byron St.

★ Received and filed a report on the urban renewal project that among other things, projected an estimated $10,839 yearly City revenue from the project in taxes, representing a "conservative estimate" according to City finance officer Kenneth Way.

★ Referred to the planning commission a Chamber of Commerce central business district committee's request for a sidewalk around the central parking lot.

★ Appointed Ron Coosain to the planning commission, Henry Walsh to the personnel service appeal board and John Blickenstaff to the cemetery board of trustees.

Plymouth hosts JC net tourney

The State Jaycee tennis tournament will get underway in Plymouth on Thursday, June 4, with over 100 entrants, including 14 from Plymouth.

The tournament, the first of its kind in Plymouth sports history, normally goes to a city of much larger size. The local Jaycees obtained the tournament by bidding for it. PHS tennis coach Jim Stevens will direct the tournament.

Here is a schedule of events:

June 24, Thursday, 9 a.m. Clinic 1st round, 7 p.m. banquet.

June 25, Friday, 10 a.m. second round.

June 26, Saturday, 1 p.m. semi-finals.

June 27, Sunday, 1 p.m. finals.

Plymouth youngsters who will compete include:

Dave Tidwell, Robin Wideman, Jim Bruff, Dick Streng, Rick Wagar and David Sibbold in the eighteen and under class.

In the sixteen and under class, Bob Stover, George Jackson, Steve Mogle, Jim Wibby, Chuck Wibby, Larry Wasalaski, Tim Robinson and Jim Bachelder will take part.

The state championship tourney is part of a national JayCee tennis tourney which is held in mid-August in Houston. The Plymouth Jaycees will send the eight winners of the state tourney to Houston.

Highlights of the tournament will include a clinic conducted by Bill Murphy, varsity tennis coach at the University of Michigan.

He will hold the clinic prior to the opening round of the tourney.

Mrs. Jean Hoxie will be a guest speaker at a banquet the evening of first round play. Mrs. Hoxie is a well known tennis coach from Hamtramck, and has been the tennis leader in Michigan for several years.

She has had more teams win state titles than any other Michigan coach. She has also coached several national champions, both boys and girls, and has taught tennis to several dignitaries of other countries.

The banquet, which will be held at the Elk's club, will also feature films of Davis Cup play taken during the annual September challenge rounds.

The high school furnishing locker and shower facilities, and lodging for the entrants is being provided by the individual Jaycees.

ALL ENTRANTS will be eligible for court prizes of a frame, tennis balls and tennis caps.

Trophies will be given to the finalists and the semi-finalists. The final matches will be televised over Channel 50, the UHF all-sports channel.

Both boys and girls are eligible for the tourney, and will enter two divisions, 18 and under, and 16 and under. An $8 entry fee will cover tourney costs for entrants.

National resources in boozers a go-go

Doug Johnson

"Biggest drunks alive. Boozers a go-go. Four on the floor and a fifth under the seat. Chug-a-lug. Class of 1965!"

Ah, the vanishing adolescent. These epigrammatic and arresting phrases were painted on a dirty green 1960 Chevrolet parked in the high school parking lot the night of commencement, Thursday.

Along with the phrases were the names of maybe 25 PHS students scrawled on the car in whitewash paint.

"Cheesch," I thought to myself, as I snapped a picture of the car, what a beautiful and glorious nose thumbing at parents, high school officials and the police. What a symbol of revolt — a car, booze and TEENAGERS! A nice neat slap in the face for every non-teen.

Now as a struggling young columnist working his way through writer's school, I had several choices when confronted with the facts:

(1) I could write a cute little commentary, noting that it was only one car in hundreds, and that the names represented only a small percentage of PHS students. After all, as everyone knows, not all teens are bad, only say about 6%, (or is it 7%) do or go wrong.

Nuts. (2) I could indict parents, school officials and parents for setting a poor example. After all, as everyone knows, everybody takes a drink now and then, and even drives his car after. This would include (gasp) teachers.

(3) I could say nothing, in fact, call for more teen activities like this, because adults have been failing to give teens a way of facing themselves, a way of making adolescent rules and behavior commensurate with adolescent's adult thoughts and desires.

(4) I could call for a crackdown on teen drinking, a closer control of retail merchants who fail to check for identification, and a re-examination of Plymouth's moral standards, because, dear Lord, this generation is surely going to hell.

(5) Last, and I'm sure least, I could say that this small group of teens have failed to face their adult responsibility, and have played childishly with an adult's toy.

None of these exactly fit, as far as I'm concerned.

The knights in shining white levis have been covered in depth by every major mass media, most recently by a 100 page-plus issue of Esquire. Dissected, analyzed, polled and vilified to death, teenagers have been bounced back and forth from every institution from social work to parenthood, from police to prison farms.

Nope, the problem goes beyond the things listed above, beyond the constant scrutiny. Teens want to race cars, dance, eat, meet at drive-ins, drink liquor and make love. Every once in a while they like to fight — make war. From time to time they are moved to discuss important public issues, and more often than not they have a job and a car.

All in all they seem to be motivated like the rest of the adult human race. They are no longer children. Playing with blocks and reading Golden books doesn't keep them occupied. They want to be good at things, and want to think well of themselves.

If they have been unable to do these things, they bear wounds that are often reflected in a hard-nosed campaign of real violence or real law-breaking — enough to show they mean business, enough to have some great fun.

What is needed is not shop III for the bumbling kids who can't write a coherent sentence, or even a teen spot to "keep them off the streets." These in themselves will not help.

Also needed is some one to admire, someone who can help to create a character and a thought process that can look at itself too clearly, too candidly, to agree to its own betrayal. What is needed is someone who can create a way of looking at things that says when you are driving, too drunk to see a stop sign on Ford Road, you go home, slowly, some other way.

It takes a nose-thumbed-at-every thing type of arrogance to survive as an individual in our times, and a fairly wistful and corny nature to want to sometimes. Teenagers seem to be able to avoid the slings and arrows with a little flare and imagination and seemed to assert themselves on a demanding world, while most of us can't, because we have an ax to grind, or an appearance to keep.

These are scarce outlooks on life, rare resources that should be guarded in the national interest. I, and everybody else, hopes everyone had a good time in the 'boozers a go-go.' and that the carload of drunk national resources didn't get killed. What else can we say?

The all-Elks member team, with John Larkins bowling for Harold Villerot, who was unable to bowl, entered the Tournament of Champions of the Greater Detroit Bowling Proprietors Association, of which Plymouth Bowl is a member. Competing in a field of 3500 team entries, this team was, until the final week, in first place.

They placed fifth in the finals and received beautiful trophies at a banquet held at the Latin Quarter, Detroit. The banquet was attended by many city officials. Sponsor Ralph Aldenderfer received a trophy wall plaque.

WHAT ARE ANTIBIOTICS?

To men of medical science, antibiotics are chemical substances produced by microorganisms that have the capacity, in dilute solutions, to inhibit the growth of and even destroy bacteria and other microorganisms.

Antibiotics are used in the treatment of infectious diseases with dramatic results. To the public, antibiotics are the "miracle" drugs which bring such swift and sure recovery from illness.

We take professional pride in keeping our knowledge of these amazing drugs abreast of laboratory and medical research and we are ready to supply any antibiotic your doctor prescribes.

Come to Church

BEEN SHOPPING LATELY?

Sure! People go shopping for many things. Even a Church! But, then, they take Dad along!

Before you go shopping for a Church, make sure you know what you're looking for. For a Church isn't a theatre to provide entertainment, nor a club to fortify one's social position, nor a foundation to channel our charities.

A Church is a SCHOOL that trains whole families in spiritual perception. It is a FACTORY that makes earnest Christians. They're in evidence all over town.

A Church is a TOWER, giving a glimpse of life's horizons, far beyond the petty problems of each day.

A Church is a WORK-SHOP where one volunteers his talents in the most challenging tasks that confront humanity.

And, of course, a Church is HOME — the place where we're appreciated, where we're one of the Family!

But it doesn't hurt to admit that in one respect our churches are like our stores: There wouldn't be one in town if we didn't need what they offer!

to gain understanding of the problems of the inner-city by, and for a short time, living and working there.

AAA STUDY A car in Plymouth costs $3.22 a day

The average Plymouth motorist pays $3.22 daily to own and drive a car 28 miles, according to research statistics released by Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Car owners in Wayne county spend approximately $1.2 billion annually on their automobiles," says Robert Cain, manager of Auto Club's Plymouth division office.

"For many persons, a car is the largest daily expense after food and housing," he adds.

These facts are derived from information in AAA's pamphlet titled "Your Driving Costs," which is issued biennially. Information in the latest edition is based on the performance of a 1965 eight-cylinder standard car of the lower price class.

Yearly cost for driving 10,000 miles is set at $1,177. This is up $15 as compared with 1963, according to figures compiled for Auto Club by two independent research firms.

EXPENSES for gas, oil, tire and routine maintenance remain unchanged since the last report at 3.7 cents per mile. Fix costs — depreciation, insurance and registration — are up slightly across the nation.

Auto Club separates car expenses into two categories, as follows:

1. Variable costs per mile (based on 10,000 miles yearly) — gas and oil, 2.53 cents; maintenance, .68 cents, and tires, .44 cents. This totals a little over $1.01 daily or $370 yearly.
2. Fixed costs per year — fire and theft insurance, $31; property damage and liability, $126; license and registration, $24, and depreciation, $626. This totals $2.21 daily or $807 yearly.

Motorists who travel 10,000 miles yearly spend 11.8 cents per mile, according to Auto Club's pamphlet. Traveling less than 10,000 miles yearly ups the cost per mile, whereas an annual mileage of 20,000 lowers it to 7.7 cents per mile.

Michigan car owners, however, pay less than the national average for car operation due to lower insurance rates than those paid in many other states.

Auto Club, which insures 22 per cent of all Michigan motorists, says that its average insuree pays $118 annually for liability, comprehensive fire and theft, plus $100 deductible.

This same insurance package would cost about $321 in New York City, $175 in Chicago and $248 in San Francisco.

Dave Prince

Detroit's Number one disc-jockey, Dave Prince, will be Plymouth's summer dance master of ceremonies.

Prince, radio and TV star of WXYZ, will be accompanied by a band each Wednesday night beginning Wednesday, June 23.

Jaycee chairman, Don Moore and Ray Jacobson predicted that this combination of Dave Prince and live bands will draw the largest crowds ever in their eighth year with the summer dance series.

The dance is restricted to Plymouth area teenagers, which includes Livonia and Northville. Dance time is 8 to 11 p.m. at Plymouth High School.

Jollof rice is one of Sierra Leone's most popular festive dishes. As with American dishes, there are numerous ways of preparing it. The recipe which follows is one of those which is particularly popular. It will serve four to six people.

Ingredients
1 1/2 lb. rice
1/2 medium sized frying chicken
1 lb. stewing beef
1/2 lb. lean pork
3 large onions
2 small cans of tomato puree
2 or 3 chili peppers
1 teaspoon thyme
1 clove garlic

Method
Cut all the meat into medium sized chunks, and fry them together in peanut or vegetable oil. Once the meat has browned add the onions which were earlier finely chopped, garlic, chili peppers, bay leaf, salt, and pepper.

When the onions begin to brown, remove the meat and add the tomato puree and thyme. Simmer for about five minutes. Add the rice and enough boiling water to cover the rice. Stir frequently and allow the rice to cook until it is tender.

Just before the rice is done return the meat to the pan together with the previously cooked cabbage and allow to cook over low heat for an additional two or three minutes. Once everything is thoroughly cooked, it is ready to serve.

Another favorite recipe is pepper soup. As with the jollof rice recipe, this recipe will serve four to six people.

Ingredients
1 lb. stewing beef
1 lb. oxtail

by Lon Dickerson

1 pig's foot
3 medium sized onions
1 small can of tomato puree
3 or 4 chili peppers
1 teaspoon thyme
salt and pepper

Method
Cut the beef, oxtail, and pig's foot into medium sized sections. Soak the pig's foot in cold water for four hours. Place all the meat in boiling water and allow to boil for 30 minutes.

Add the finely chopped onions, chili peppers, salt, and pepper. Boil over low heat until the meat is soft. Then add the tomato puree and thyme. Simmer for an additional 15 minutes.

WHEN ready, the soup can be served over boiled yams, potatoes, or rice.
These recipes for jollof rice and pepper soup are for special occasions. The average mid-afternoon meal contains only a small amount of meat.
