

Schools OK $3,493,875 budget; it's up one-half million

The big business of running the Plymouth Community School District gets bigger every year, as a $500,000 increase in the 1965-66 operating budget was approved at the public hearing Monday night.

No one other than school officials were at the meeting of the School Board to discuss the record $3,493,875 budget.

Most of the money goes for teachers salaries, and directly related personnel and supplies.

The budget, the work of assistant superintendent in charge of business, Melvin Blunk, was figured on the basis of 6900 students for next year. About 7,000 had been projected back in March when a 3 1/4 mills for operation was approved by the voters. That vote brought the operating millage to 19.65.

An increase in receipts is anticipated because of the increased tax base, which now stands at $13,312,280, state equalized assessed valuation, and increased state aid, which is up about

Here's how the budget breaks down:

Elementary instruction will cost $1,239,320, a jump of $156,150 over last year.

Secondary instruction will cost $1,232,835, a jump of $177,515 over last year.

Summer school will cost $11,820 next year, only a climb of $140.

Administrative costs jumped $18,600 to a record $124,000.

ONLY a $440 increase over last year in the nursing and health area is budgeted, for a total of $15,250.

Transportation costs went up slightly; $115,250 budgeted, a $12,350 increase.

Operation, or the utilities and supplies, will cost $400,900 next year, with a substantial $24,460 increase.

The maintenance budget will climb to $116,500, a $21,500 jump.

In the area of fixed charges (insurance) a $6,685 charge is seen, bringing the total to $57,000.

Capital outlay expenses increased to a record $157,040, which is $87,200 over last year's money.

The budget has been in the works for several months, and it is extremely difficult to pin down as enrollment, state aid formulas and assessed valuations can change rapidly. For example, the district may add well over two million more to its assessed valuation with the addition of two new school districts.

Why the increases?

MANY OF them are caused by sheer jumps in the enrollment. For some more facts and figures, here's a breakdown:

Normal salary increase, built in to contract agreements, will cost an additional $53,620.

Increased enrollment costs bring another $211,065 into the budget requirements.

Also approved was a $46,803 allowance for program improvements: Typewriting at Junior High East, additional business education equipment, improved curriculum study, scheduling and record keeping.

Transportation costs are up $16,537, with some of the money coming from the transportation account, some from the maintenance account under equipment.

Cost of utilities and personnel for new rooms total $16,220.

Buildings and grounds improvements, which include paving at the High School, locker room remodeling, new lights at the PHS football field, and several other projects, will cost a total of $74,950.

Finally, the across-the-board pay raise granted to every employee of the district, will cost $82,204. It had been estimated at the March millage election that this cost would be $74,000.

General changes over the past years include:

1963	$2,659,915.00
1964	$2,990,835.00
1965	$3,493,875.00

Give Geer area go-ahead on its annexation bid

Another school district, Geer, which straddles Salem and Superior Townships, was granted annexation approval at last Monday's regular meeting of the School Board.

The next step is for the district to hold an election within 120 days approving the final annexation.

This was the second such district to get approval in the last two weeks. The week before the board approved the admission of the South Salem Stone School District.

Spokesmen for the district, the three school board officers, said there would be unanimous approval for the annexation.

R. Bruce Scott, president of the group, presented the District's case. He said the district had a total assessed valuation of $1,407,000, that the annexation would bring in 72 students next year (28 of them go to the Plymouth schools now on a tuition basis.)

The annexation will mean a 60% increase in taxes for the families of the area.

The district is roughly bordered by Powell, Hanford, Ann Arbor and Berry Roads.

Mrs. Evelyn Gilbert and George Rowland, were also present at the meeting; Mrs. Gilbert is the Geer Board of Education secretary, Rowland the treasurer.

Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister indicated that the board may keep the two-room schoolhouse that belongs to the district

Housing two years away

The City of Plymouth's senior housing project took one more step toward completion Tuesday night as the architects were commissioned to go ahead with plans.

The approval came at a meeting of the Plymouth Housing Commission.

The firm of Harley, Elington, Cowin and Stirton, Inc., of Detroit have been with the project since the start, and will draw up plans.

Executive director of the project, City Clerk Richard Shafer, said he had had a few calls on the project, but noted that completion of the plans were a long way away.

"We're getting calls . . . but it will be at least two years before occupancy. There is a lot of time, lot of involvement," he said.

Shafer noted that a questionnaire sent out many months ago may be mistaken for an application for the low-rent housing.

"The questionnaire was not meant to be an application, but we have no applications prepared at this point."

SHAHER also noted his group, the Plymouth Housing Commission, hadn't decided when they would take applications.

"I know it is something to get excited about," Shafer commented last week, but it's something that takes time. I would be excited too if I was an elderly person."

Shafer said a few of the people involved had asked him several questions, and a few others had called acting City manager Kenneth Fisher.

A policy regarding the rental of the one and two bedroom units must be decided, Shafer indicated. Also, an applicant must be investigated financially to see if he or she qualifies.

He noted that the federal government had set the age limit at 62, or older. Rental rates would be established on a percentage of the person's income.

The figure discussed equals a little more than 20% of an applicant's income.

Both the housing commission and the City commission have been working on the project. Word of approval reached Plymouth two weeks ago from the offices of Rep. Weston E. Vivian. About $688,000 in federal funds were earmarked for the Plymouth project. The original plans began in 1964, when the commission was appointed.

EXACTLY 60 units have been proposed, with a unit cost of about $10,780 each.

BEATING THE heat. While dads sweltered at work early this week, Plymouth kids looked for ways to cool off. Nancy Merriam, daughter of the F. The Merriams generously open up their pool to neighborhood children during the summer months — even providing life guard protection.

Owens — five years and a millionaire

Stories of how a man parlayed a $1200 debt into several million dollars belong only in the movies. But the story fits for one Plymouth man.

E. Keith Owens, chairman of the board of the fastest growing life insurance company in America — Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. — reflected on the past five years in a recent interview:

"If I have a hobby, this is it," he said, sweeping his hand around his posh office on the second floor of Hamilton's Home Office on Penniman Avenue. "If I had a choice of whether to stay in the office or play golf — I would stay here."

Owens' inner office is decorated in deep blue, with Georgian style furniture to enhance the colonial affect . . . but Alexander Hamilton never had it so good.

Owens is a boyishly handsome man of thirty, with a slightly receding hairline. His photographs make him look like a rather ascetic graduate student majoring in English.

AT ANY RATE he doesn't look like the standard top man in insurance companies; he is not a stooped, gray haired man that talks in a gravelly voice about annuities, and dividends and actuarial reports.

Owens instead talks about making his fledgling company the biggest in the world. He talks in terms of a billion dollars in five years, which staggers the imagination of most, particularly the people who know the life insurance business.

It's not idle talk by early indications.

His company will make a first year profit, which has never been done in the life insurance industry; the closest try is some five years before a profit. They have over a $100 million in force, twice the world's record for new life insurance written.

But there is something about him, at least according to the hard core of men around him, that makes him different.

AFTER AN interlude with Sears as a management trainee, he moved into the insurance field, learned rapidly, and became a consultant of sorts, which allowed him to study the inner workings of 40 or 50 companies.

"I decided I could develop a group of people with an unusual and unique concept. I brought six men together . . . they all had one quality . . . they were extremely successful in what they were already doing."

This statement from Owens only taps the surface of what happened. Owens took some of the best from other places, convinced them solely on his own idea, told they might not earn a salary for a year or so, and organized his company.

He worked on the old fashioned free enterprise system . . . a man gets paid for what he earns. Owens was told he had to guarantee his men a salary, at first, especially. He said nuts to the idea.

Two large building projects are well on their way in Canton Township . . . a large subdivision and a trailer park, according to Canton Township treasurer, Philip Dingledey.

The trailer park was given tentative approval at the regular meeting of the Canton Township planning commission last week.

The planners looked over the plans and ok'd them, contingent upon approval of their planning consultants, Parkins and Rodgers, and Associates, Inc., who were absent from the meeting.

The new development, on the corner of old Michigan Avenue and Haggerty Road, will provide space for 100 trailers. It is immediately adjacent to an existing trailer court.

The land is already zoned "T" for trailer park, and will be developed by Lester Share, of Detroit.

The commission also continued its study master plan proposals, particularly land use maps.

Dingledey reported this to the Mail in a telephone interview Thursday.

He also noted that the 533-home Holiday Park subdivision just south of Joy Road broke ground for model homes recently.

City not interested in Twp. water query

No particular interest was expressed by Plymouth's City Commission Monday evening to a query from the Township of Plymouth about transfer of the Plymouth Colony water system from city to township control.

Plymouth Colony is located west of Sheldon Road and between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail.

The city's legislative body listened to the request which came from Township Supervisor John D. McEwen, a resident of Plymouth Colony, through Mayor James C. Houk.

And then they instructed Houk to indicate that the city wasn't particularly interested.

Commissioners covered the gamut of possible ways to effect a transfer of the system, including outright sale, transfer based on recovery of estimated profit over a period of years, and amortization of water main value over their useful lifetime.

"I'm not sure we should give them these mains," Commissioner George Lawton commented. "I think they (the mains) should be amortized over their life and a price tag set on them."

"Even then," he noted, "the Township is getting a darned good buy."

Superintendent of Public Works Joseph Bida expressed some reservation about transfer of the Plymouth Colony system. Bida told commissioners that Plymouth Township had agreed to cut off city mains on the city side of Ann Arbor Road when the Green Meadows system was transferred to township control.

However, he said, Plymouth Township severed the connections on the far side of the road and left the city with stub mains at the site.

Consequently, if one of the stub mains broke, the city would be liable for repairs, including excavation of the roadway. Following Bida's remarks, Commissioner James Jabara suggested that no definite expression be made on the query about the Plymouth Colony system.

"I think we should make them live up to their agreement (on Green Meadows) before we give them anything," he noted.

Estimated profits should be gotten out of the Plymouth Colony mains to protect city residents' interests, according to Commissioner A. E. Vallier.

Vallier pointed out that water system bonding is based on estimated revenues and he argued that the city should be paid for the money it will lose if the Plymouth Colony mains are transferred. Mayor Houk agreed with him. He said:

THE PERMITS for sewer, water and sanitary sewer were issued some time ago to Joseph Bloch, who will develop the land. The plot of ground is in the N.E. corner of the Township near the Nankin Township line.

Dingledey said five building permits had been issued for homes to be built on Holly Dr., one of the proposed roads in the subdivision.

Let's hear it for parking

A public hearing will be held on establishing a two hour limit in the City of Plymouth's central parking lot.

The hearing will be set for Monday evening, Aug. 23 in City Commission chambers. City fathers agreed to establish the hearing at a special meeting of the commission Monday evening.

The two hour limit was recommended by the city's parking committee after a detailed study.

Gasoline vapors hit heater fire; quickly go 'poo'

Gasoline vapors ignited in the basement of a home owned by Isham Long at 352 Adams last Thursday and City firemen were summoned to douse the flames.

Black smoke poured out of the house for a few minutes, until firemen had the fire under control, and fans hooked up clearing the house. A crowd gathered quickly because of the amount of smoke.

City assistant fire chief George Schoenneman reported the house suffered heavy smoke damage.

Long and his wife were both burned slightly when the gasoline vapors ignited. He was in the basement cleaning a new fuel oil tank with gasoline; the vapors traveled over to the gas hot water heater and ignited. His wife was nearby watching.

The fire burned old fuel oil on the floor and near the tank.

Firemen entered the basement almost immediately, using gas masks.

Schoenneman commented that Long had been doing an extremely dangerous thing in using gasoline as cleaning agent:

Bloch, in a telephone interview with the Mail, Tuesday said that the models would be done in 60 to 90 days. He commented that he had extensive holdings in both Canton and Plymouth Townships.

He figured underground improvements were ready on about 300 lots.

Educational portent

The need for a community auditorium was graphically detailed a week ago Monday evening when a special committee made its report to the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education at a special meeting.

The need is nothing new. Community leaders have agreed for years that such a facility is required. Only the means for achieving the end were in question.

Some thought a climate might be achieved wherein the various local governmental units could figuratively join hands and work toward this impressive community goal.

Others said the auditorium should be tied in with and connected to the school district for obvious reasons. The Plymouth Mail agrees with the latter course because of a number of factors.

First and foremost, the school district is sorely in need of a decent auditorium and staging area for musical, dramatic and assembly purposes.

They presently can choose from the high school annex which is pitifully small, the combination auditorium-cafeteria which — at best — is make-shift or the Plymouth High gymnasium where the acoustics are, in a word, lousy.

Secondly and unfortunately, while there are those of us in the area who pay loud and unctuous lip service to the concept of The Plymouth Community, there are others who are possessed of an unbelievable talent for sitting on their hands.

If the community waited for some segments of its official population to be galvanized into action, the millennium could well be upon us.

So it's obvious that the school district should be the vehicle for such a proposal. Another thing was made quite clear at Monday's meeting.

The auditorium proposal should not be attached to any other school district project.

If it must die, it should die a lonely death and not take more pressing educational programs with it.

But the auditorium should be considered a pressing educational program in itself. During the summer of study that school board members expect to devote to the auditorium committee's report, they should keep in mind the educational portent such a project would have.

And then, if they've established the worth in their own minds, they should seek methodology for convincing the voters of its worth.

Shafer also commented on the nature of the architectural plans for the buildings: "There is a question of how much 'Colonial' you can get with federal funds. The architects have to work with the funds provided. How much do you sacrifice facilities for the elderly for a colonial look."

Shafer said also he assumed the City commission might take a hand in deciding the building's appearance. He speculated about a "colonial entrance, or colonial touch."

Citing the long months ahead of work for the housing commission Shafer said that many policy items were as yet to be set. He is presently studying the policy statements of other such projects, including those from Dearborn and Inkster.

The site, which has been approved by the federal government, has not been purchased yet. Discussions and announcement of the site is being kept closed until details of agreements can be worked out.

FINAL approval is still in verbal form from Vivian's office; followup documents confirming the grant have not as yet reached City Hall.

The government finances the project, then bonds are sold, the buildings paid for, and then the government will help make the payments on the borrowed money.

The senior citizens housing project is one of several being aided by federal funds in the City of Plymouth. Other projects included master planning, new land use studies, and the Mill Street Urban Renewal Project.

More fun than no taxes

How much the Plymouth Community is growing, and how well it's doing it, was pointed out again Monday night at the regular meeting of the School Board.

The board approved a $3,493,875 general operating budget, close on the heels of borrowing $760,000 for building purposes. The operating budget has jumped almost a million dollars since 1963. This makes the Plymouth Community School District easily the biggest governmental unit in expenditures in the area.

Land was added too, as the Geer School District annexation was approved. The week before, the South Salem Stone School District was annexed.

The move reflects several things. For instance, the Geer families, whose spokesman has said will approve the annexation to a man, will be voting themselves a 60% increase in taxes. That's a pretty substantial blow to the pocketbook.

The Geer district lies about at the half-way point between here and Ann Arbor. It is closer to Willow Run than either place.

Yet apparently the Plymouth Community has made its influence felt to these families. Two weeks ago the same thing was noted. Exactly 44 families of the 52 involved in the Salem district said they shopped in Plymouth for most of their necessary items.

So now the Plymouth School District reaches deep into Canton Township, into a chunk of Northville, and several raggedy portions of Salem and Superior Townships.

Many people in the Geer District are Plymouth oriented; Mrs. James Gilbert, board secretary, is president of the Plymouth Garden Club. The annexation also nicely coincides with a general policy of the State Department of Public Instruction that has always held school districts ought to be around natural community centers.

In any event, the recent additions put Plymouth well on the way to being one of the largest school districts in the Detroit Metropolitan area, at least in terms of area.

We see only one danger in this. If we are land-wise a rural school district, then it becomes increasingly hard for us to compete with the other schools in the Detroit area. The assessed valuation behind each child in school has been below many other schools, and may even go lower.

The problem is, however, that the Plymouth School District has really no choice. The additions can be made out of hand by the district wishing to join.

But, we don't really feel it is fair to say 'no' to these people, even if we could, and must be flattered because the influence of Plymouth apparently spread so far.

But we do wonder about paying for what is sure to come to the area. Right now the Plymouth district blankets portions of five governmental units.

What these areas plans are for industrial tax base is known only partially. It's going to take some pretty careful planning to continue to maintain a quality school system and build new schools all over the country side as subdivisions grow.

In fact, it staggers our imagination to think that someday Plymouth will have to have an elementary school on the corner of Napier and Ann Arbor Road.

All we can say is if area homeowners are looking for cheaper taxes, they might as well move to Andorra in the Pyrenees Mountains between Spain and France.

There they have no taxes, believe it or not.

As for us, we think it's going to be more fun staying here and watching the fireworks.

LETTERS:

City police excellent

Dear Editor:

We have now been members of the Plymouth Community for a period of two years and have found one of the biggest assets among many is the Plymouth Police Department. This department is second to none anywhere.

I believe there are many factors contributing to this highly efficient organization. Some which are, competent and friendly clerks, officers that practice public courtesy at all times, commanding officers out on the streets working, and a regard for the public's money, by purchasing and utilizing only equipment that is necessary to handle any situation that may arise.

The Plymouth Police Department, like other departments, needs more manpower, plus a wage adjustment, (which our officers have earned).

I believe all individuals and service organizations should support these needs.

Mr. Richard David

The Grim Pilgrim

By DAVE WILEY

Citizens who appeared before Plymouth's City Commission a week ago Tuesday to voice complaints about fast drivers on their streets and issue a plea for more police protection, should recognize one thing:

It's going to cost them money.

In fact, they may have to shell out just to retain the present degree of protection.

Because, while it's no deep, dark secret that Plymouth could use more law enforcement officers, neither is it difficult to determine that we're one of the low men on the totem pole of police pay.

Last week, one of the Detroit metropolitan daily papers engaged in some public breast beating about remuneration for policemen in the suburbs. The story noted, for instance, that neighboring Livonia is having its problems attracting and keeping officers.

Well, Virginia, the nitty-gritty of the thing is that Plymouth doesn't pay as well as Livonia and we, too, are and may be having our troubles.

In the past year or so, we have lost three officers — all with more than eight years experience.

And our pay schedule is such that we might be able (as one official put it) to hire the "best of the worst," which could be a practice that would result in attracting men with something less than high integrity and qualifications.

Being something of a land holder in Plymouth, I would cheerfully add a few more shekels to my tax bill for more officers and better pay for the ones we have.

During my young years in this racket, I have had opportunity to ride with lawmen, to talk with them and to see — first hand — what their duties involve.

It's no picnic to be summoned to where a bleary eyed and belligerent drunk is picking a fight. It's less fun to haul him home or to the tank and have him vomit all over you and your squad car.

It tries the patience to handle with care an obscenity spouting punk who knows you won't clobber him because "juvenile law" protects him.

I have ridden in State Police cars and sheriff's patrol vehicles and with conservation officers in the dead of night when a warm bed would be far more inviting.

I have seen them chase speeders and raid gambling parties and take all kinds of crud from the public for their trouble.

And I have watched while they struggled to hold back throngs of gore seekers — the human vultures that congregate at any scene of death or disorder.

"Nothing is too good for our policemen," some people say; and that's what they give them.

Nothing.

"Come to our street," the people holler. "There are hot-rodgers racing back and forth."

"Send a car over," they shout. "Kids are breaking windows in the new house next door." And so it goes. But when the officer arrives, the cars are gone and the kids have disappeared — leaving shards of shattered glass in their wake.

"Oh, no," the caller says wistfully, "I can't sign a complaint."

"It would get me in bad with the neighbors."

Nuts.

Nuts to idiots who pick residential streets to show off their car's power.

Nuts to undisciplined little monsters who heave bricks through windows and kick holes in the walls of newly built homes.

And an extra vigorous raspberry to the milk-toast who won't help police by signing a complaint when he knows who's at fault.

Because police deserve that kind of assistance if they're going to do a job.

And they deserve more money and more help.

I just hope the city commission finds some way to give it to them.

Treasures from Plymouth pantries

CUTTING HER "Frosted Marble Squares" is Mrs. Ralph Howitz of Pacific Ave. Mrs. Howitz is cafeteria manager at Bird School.

Mrs. Ralph Howitz of Pacific Ave., Bird School cafeteria manager, suggested her "Frosted Marble Squares" as one of her favorite recipes.

A recipe collector for about 40 years, she explained she started her hobby when she lived on a North Dakota farm and cooked for farm employees.

When the Howitzs moved to Plymouth 12 years ago, Mrs. Howitz said she got a job as assistant cafeteria manager at Starkweather School. She has been at Bird School for six years now, she added.

The Howitzs have two daughters, Janice, who is at home, and Bonnie, a Michigan State University student.

There is quite a difference between cooking for between 150 and 300 persons and then coming home and cooking for three or four, Mrs. Howitz injected into the conversation.

The recipe for "Frosted Marble Squares" is one she said she has been making for a number of years and is a favorite with her family. Mrs. Howitz recommended serving it with coffee or as a dessert.

FROSTED MARBLE SQUARES

- 1 C. butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 tsp. vanilla
- 2 C. sugar
- 4 eggs
- 2 C. sifted flour
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 C. chopped nuts
- 2 squares unsweetened chocolate

Cream butter, vanilla and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour and salt; mix until blended.

Stir in nuts. Divide batter in half; add cooled chocolate to one part.

Drop batter alternately by teaspoonfuls into greased 13 x 9 x 2 inch pan. Run knife through batter several times to marbleize.

Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 45 minutes. Turn out on rack to cool. Spread with Velvety Chocolate Frosting. Cut into squares.

VELVETY CHOCOLATE FROSTING

- 4 squares unsweetened chocolate
 - 1/2 C. hot water
 - 2 1/2 C. sifted confectioners' sugar
 - 4 egg yolks
 - 1/4 C. melted butter or margarine
 - 1 tsp. vanilla
- Melt chocolate, add hot water and sugar. Then add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Gradually stir in melted butter. Add vanilla and beat until smooth.

How to cook vegetables over charcoal fire

For easy summer living, Michigan State University Extension home economists suggest cooking vegetables on your patio grill along with your meat.

Frozen French fried potatoes or onion rings can be wrapped in aluminum foil and cooked on a grill. The above procedure also can be followed for any frozen vegetable.

Baked potatoes wrapped in aluminum foil should be baked for about one hour over hot coals. Potatoes, diced, sliced or cut into strips with milk and seasonings added can be cooked over charcoal in an air-tight foil package.

A delicious addition to a grilled meal are firm, ripe tomatoes wrapped in foil and cooked outdoors.

To cook corn-on-the-cob on the grill, leave it in the husks but strip off the silk and soak it in water to prevent browning. Corn should be roasted ten to 15 minutes over an open fire.

Trefoil doings

Come July 15, 9,000 teenage girls will pitch 6,000 tents in the hills of Farragut, Idaho, for Roundup, a kind of summit conference of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

In preparation for this get-together, most of the girls filled out a comprehensive questionnaire studded with searching queries about their lives and thoughts.

These Girl Scouts, 15-17, indicated interests in higher education, helping others, serving in the Peace Corps, eradicating prejudice, enjoying folk music, dating without going steady and earning their own spending money.

The teen-ager who emerged from this survey, a composite of girls from all 50 states and from all types of homes, is serious, purposeful, industrious.

She has earned some or all of her cost of attending Roundup. Tutoring math, babysitting, working as a mother's helper, washing cars, mowing lawns and life guarding are just some of the ways she accumulated it.

Her hobbies are varied — from knitting, sewing and cooking to collecting stamps, coins and fossils. She is musical; she and her fellow scouts will arrive in Farragut laden with 1,375 guitars, 1,156 ukuleles, 211 harmonicas, 199 recorders, 84 bongos plus an armful of banjos, flutes, piccolos, tonettes, kazoo's and a assortment home-made instruments.

Fashion and its vagaries spurred the girls to outspoken opinions. They loathe "too tight and too short clothes." The pale look, long hair that "hangs in your face," heavy mascara and teased hair are intolerable.

Of all the subjects touched on by the survey, dating gave the most surprising — and comforting — answers. The teen-ager, according to these Girl Scouts, has had her fill of going steady. She likes dating with another couple and observes cheerfully that more teens are going to chaperoned affairs. She prefers going out strictly for fun, and enjoys teen centers. Beach parties and hootenannies are preferred by far to parking or parties with no games.

Log-rolling demonstrations, tree climbing contests, beach picnics and campfire sessions, tours of the Kaniku National Forest and forum discussions will be some of the Round-up activities.

At forum discussions the Scouts will discuss such topics as juvenile delinquency, curfews, driving ages, the role of a good wife at home and at the office and the Negro's problems. They also want forums on the Peace Corps, the situation in Vietnam, the spread of Communism, drug addiction, birth control, world peace, the space age and how to achieve a better understanding between teen-agers and their parents.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE RADIO SERIES

SUNDAY 9:45 A.M. CKLW - 800 KC

Come to Church

We spend our summers by the Inlet. Eddie and I love to walk the beach, watching with fascination the wild churning of the water where the ocean waves meet the strong river current.

"That's my name," he said, when I told him the churning water was called an "eddy."

It's more than his name. It's a picture of his life — and every child's.

Growing up is a succession of crosscurrents. The influences of the home meet those of the school — the playmates — the community — the times. Strange, new experiences must be fitted into the child's ever-widening world.

Religious training is the surest stabilizing force in this turbulent period of growth. Strengthened by parental faith and example, a child discovers in his Church that there are values greater than whim or adventure. He realizes that his own and his family's standards are rooted in the truths of God. And he learns with the firm rudder of faith to steer a bold course — out of the Inlet's swirling eddies — across the sea of life.

It's Cubs vs. Indians in series

The Cubs and the Indians appear headed for the Plymouth Community Junior Baseball League World's series which begins July 19.

The Cubs whitewashed the Pirates in the National League July 7, and stand at the head of the league with a 15-2 record. Only a major disaster could keep them from winning, and beating out the second place Dodgers.

Both leagues play three games next week, including a grand finale round on Saturday, July 17.

In the American, the league leading Indians split, topping the Red Sox 5-0, but losing earlier to the Yankees 5-2. The Yankees are a possible contender in the American flag race.

Saturday night under the lights at the field across from Burroughs saw the umpires and league officials beat the coaches 5-2 in a rugged game of donkey basketball.

"It was brutal," according to one onlooker; a large crowd appeared for the game.

The Sporting Life — Playgrounds are a big headache

Doug Johnson

Once again into the breach. I, and my boss, Dave Wiley, think it's great fun to tilt at a few local windmills, and this we did two weeks ago when we ran a picture of the "tired and rusty" swing on the Mill Street playground in what we hoped would be an inspired crusade for more playground equipment.

We were after more equipment for the Mill Street lot in particular, and the Mill picture ran along one with the fully-stocked Hough Park playground.

The photos drew sharp retorts from Superintendent of Public Works Joseph Bida, and City commissioner George Hudson.

"I'm pretty bitter about this thing," Hudson said last week. "The equipment in the Hough playground was donated by the residents."

"You ought to check your facts more closely," he concluded, with a note of finality.

Bida was less direct, but as effective.

In his column in the Livonia-based Observer, he noted that the swing in question was not rusty and old, but purchased this spring and installed in April. He went on to say that the Starkweather school playground was a hoop and a holler away, and could be used, and concluded that as soon as the DPW had time, they would install more equipment.

Later last week, Bida summoned me to his paneled office at the DPW headquarters, and we hopped in my tired and rusty Pontiac (purchased and installed in February) to look at some tired and rusty equipment at other City-managed playgrounds.

First stop was Auburn, where vandals had banged up a green "Keep Our City Clean" can, bent swings, cut chains, and took apart a picnic table.

One bluejean-clad youth cornered Joe and said: "Hey Mr. Bida, when are we going to get our backstop fixed."

Bida replied as soon as the DPW had time. He went on to relate how one fathead near the playground had complained about baseballs hitting his garage every once in a while, and wanted the City to shut down the playground.

Really. A real Scrooge. Close a playground?

We toured the other areas, and Joe said his crew was busy with the parks, and several were on vacation, and he didn't know when he would get more equipment into the Mill Street playground.

He also didn't know what to do with deaf neighbors who let neighborhood offspring beat a poor green can into a lump, and then fail to summon the police.

Now, quite frankly I don't care if Hudson is bitter about it, or that Joe Bida doesn't have time to put in more equipment, or even that Starkweather School is only a few blocks away from the Mill Street lot.

If the Mill Street lot is a playground, it's a poor one. The equipment is available, I have been assured.

The YMCA is seeking equipment for the playgrounds, and Mrs. Norma Cassidy donated a piece of equipment for the cause. Nothing has been done with it yet.

The equipment in the Hough Park playground was donated by E. C. Hough way back when.

To me, the roles are simple. George Hudson as a commissioner might see to it that about a half a day was spent putting in the Mill Street equipment. Or Joe Bida might find time now before the snow flies, and the equipment lies uselessly.

As for my role? I'm going over to the Auburn playground and throw rocks at the fathead's garage.

Not enough time for playgrounds.

Gold Seal completes expansion

Extensive modernization and expansion of the Plymouth Photo Service, Inc., is now complete, according to an announcement by Harold Head, President. Over 10,000 square feet of floor space has been added to existing structures at 775 Davis Street.

Designed in cooperation with Eastman Kodak engineering, the expanded facility can process five million rolls of film annually, and is considered the most highly automated photo finishing plant in the Midwest.

Present operations cover a 22-hour day, with nearly 100 employees working two shifts to serve nearly 400 camera shops and drug stores throughout Southern Michigan and Northern Ohio.

Negatives are "read" by an electronic printer for density and color balance, making possible the correction of minor snapshotting errors.

Although prints are exposed on huge 500-foot rolls of Eastman Kodak papers, each picture is individually inspected for best results, and reprinted if necessary.

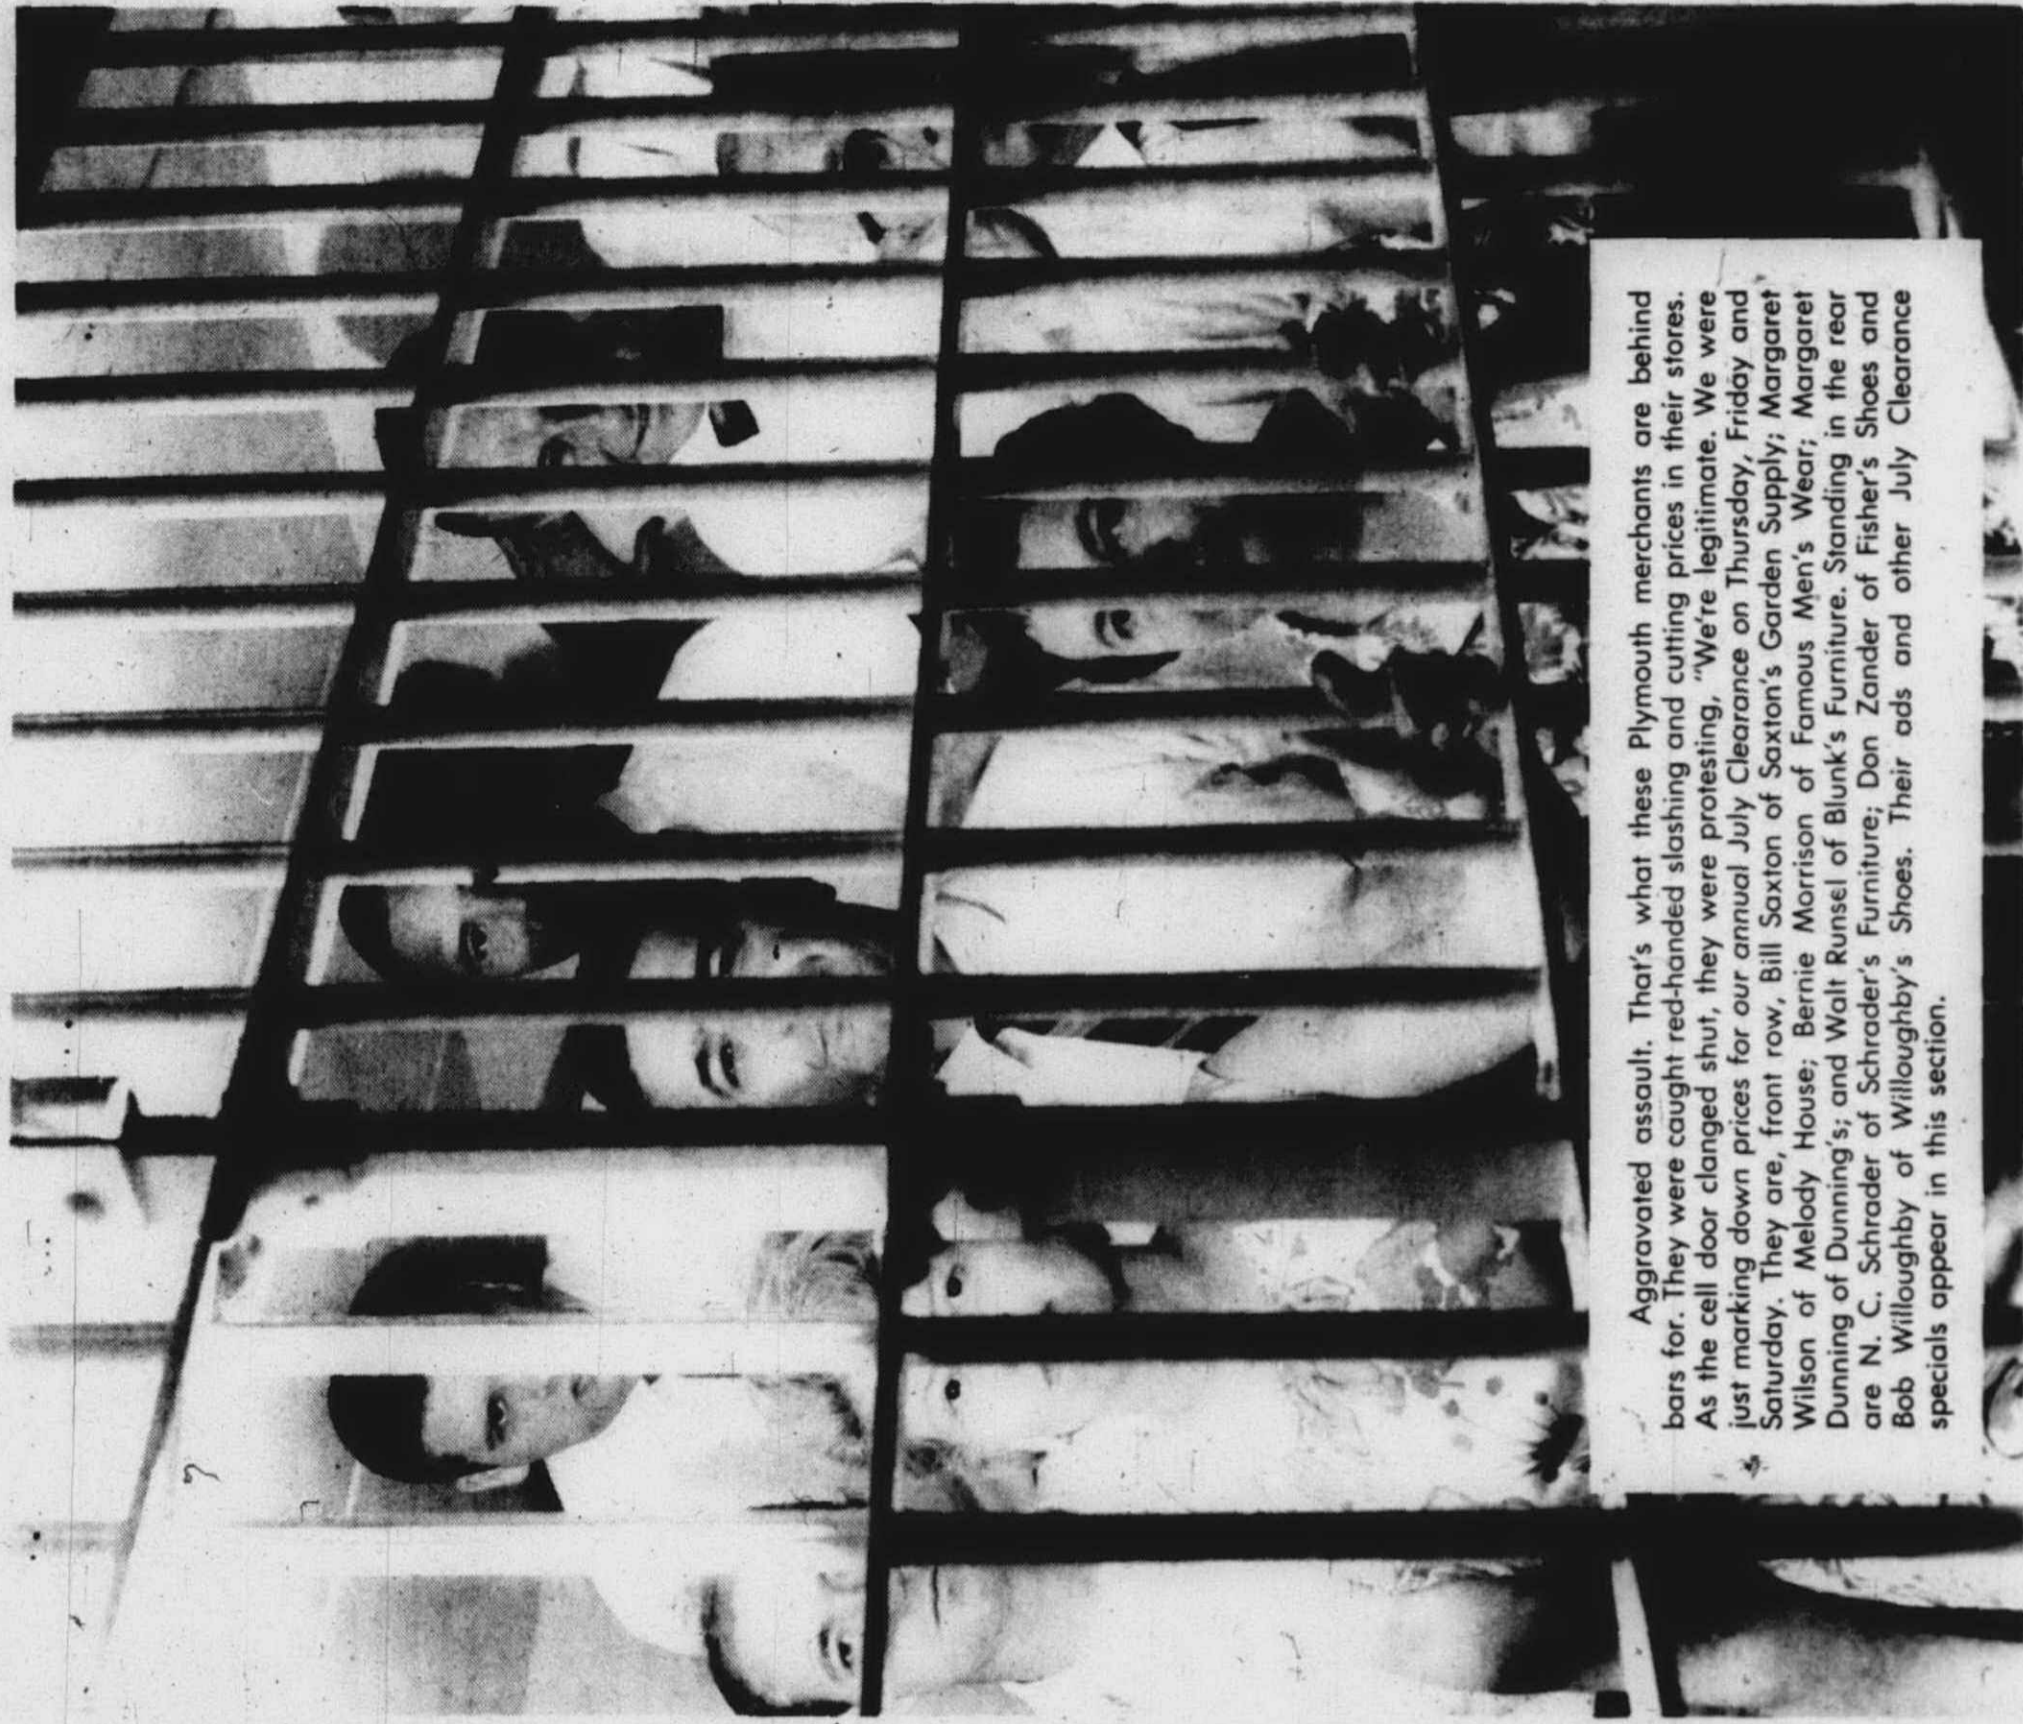

At the end of the processing operation, IBM machinery carries the rolls of film through processing and printing machines, into and out of correctly-balanced chemical solutions, with precise time and temperature controls.

Gold Seal Photo Service, Inc. is the result of the consolidation last year of Detroit Color Laboratories, Inc. and its subsidiary firms, the 50-year-old Robison-Phillips Corp. of Detroit, and Enterprise Photo Service, Inc. of Plymouth.

Also acquired by the firm in recent years were the former Kluge Photo Service and Saunders Photo Service of Detroit, and Ohio Photo Service of Toledo.

NEW, HIGHLY-AUTOMATED PLANT of Gold Seal Photo Service, Inc., where a program of expansion and modernization has just been completed. Facilities make possible handling of five million rolls of film annually for nearly 400 camera shops and drug stores throughout Southern Michigan and Northern Ohio.

Rename Draugelis Schoolcraft lawyer

The Board of Trustees of Schoolcraft College held its regular Annual Meeting on Wednesday evening, July 7. At this time the officers of the Board who had been serving for the past year were re-elected: Harold E. Fischel, Chairman; Mrs. Jane K. Moehle, Vice-Chairman; Paul Mutnick, Secretary; and L. Clarke Oldenburg, Treasurer.

The Board unanimously re-employed the firm of Suberland and Robinson as the College auditors and Edward F. Draugelis as legal counsel for the College for the 1955-56 College year.

James W. Boswell, newly elected as a trustee from Livonia, became an official member of the Board. Boswell was elected for a six-year term to replace Erwin S. Brown, who did not run for re-election.

The Annual Report of the President, Dr. Eric J. Bradner, included present status of the College and immediate needs and future needs. Dr. Bradner reported that 64 full-time contracts are now under contract and that 80 still are to be employed in the following fields: Business, Chemistry, Electronics, History, Nursing, and Philosophy.

The Board also was given details of the current enrollment figures for the College

Word has been received from National Headquarters that Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain, John D. Dingell and James Harvey from Michigan have introduced H. R. 2789, H. R. 3148, and H. R. 4395 which represent proposed legislation that will make possible the accomplishment of our American Legion Resolution 100. Fifty-one bills have been introduced in the first session of the 89th Congress to support the American Legion's position to extend benefits under Title II of the Social Security Act.

The passage of this legislation will bring benefits to a minimum of 11,000 students in Michigan when school starts this fall. Our estimate is that over half of these children will be children of veterans.

Sunday, July 11, at 2 p.m. in the Post Home, the Passage-Gayde Unit 381 and Post installed their new officers. A pot-luck dinner followed, for all Post and Auxiliary members and their families.

Passage-Gayde Unit First Vice-President Mae Hoelscher announced that the scrapbook kept on "Little Miss Poppy's" activities has been accepted in Department and will be placed in competition.

Unit member Melva Gardner is ill.

And this, dear God, is what Esquire says

Mike Ross

How could any adult pass up a bargain like this? A complete dossier on all the teens in America for just 75c, and all in just over a hundred pages. Remarkable to say the least, (I only regret I haven't time and space to completely analyze the magazine as well as they seem to think they've analyzed teens.)

According to "Esquire's" editors they conducted a nationwide poll and boiled their gathered information down to what appears. But their final composite lacks one basic adjective that otherwise would shed some light of truth on their work. "Some" is that adjective.

They've made no effort to make room for the exception. They've attempted to find or make a blueprint for the average American teen (which is impossible since no average teen exists any more than an average American adult) and have said that their findings are what all teens are. No deviations, no exceptions - according to them.

The first actual article, titled "Teen Time" is precluded with four full-page color pictures of four teens and their views on four different topics. The first is of a thirteen year old girl that states she doesn't believe in God because this is a too scientific era to leave any room for Him. "Esquire" doesn't say all teens don't believe in God but it failed to find another picture of equal size and placement of a teen that does believe in God.

This jumps quickly into a feature on "Hairs". No one found the teen-age girl's "rat-nest" of a few years ago more disconcerting than the teen-age boy. No one shouted louder than he in the chorus that was chanting "Simplify!" But now that hair-dos are simplified they seem to be under just as intensive scrutiny—at least by another author, Alice Glaser.

She's broken them down, cut them up, analyzed their differences and likenesses, etc. Also, a tidbit of information I found as surprising as many other teens did, that we, all of us males, that is, have our hair set, colored, dyed, tinted, straightened, waved and arranged in other processes done to it. And some Jerry who owns a barber shop in New York does Mr. Kenneth's hair and HE does Jacqueline Kennedy's hair so he is God to us.

THE WHOLE IDEA is absurd since most teens, especially guys, have never heard of, let alone laid eyes on, Jerry or Mr. Kenneth and could care less if they ever did or not.

Another bit of fact was that the average sixteen year old boy owns $150 worth of beauty investment. My first thought was a veritable "What? For Nob Hill, Beverly Hills, Bloomfield Hills, Shaker Heights, or the East side of Manhattan.

Maybe so, but for the average sixteen year old I doubt it very much. Another topic is teen language. Admittedly the language is changing, undergoing a perpetual metamorphosis.

But the word's "Esquire's" editors have limited solely to teens as their product and usage are fifty percent from the 1940 jazz musicians and the other fifty percent are used only by a relatively small minority of teens and then only sectionally across the country.

A good deal of the words I've never heard and most area teens haven't either. Hairs being referred as "brims" isn't so uncommon even among adults. But "skies" or the supposedly "tuff" phrase "Where's my sky?" leaves a rather blank face on most high school students in this part of Michigan. And the telephone being called the bell or the ring is as uncommon as "green bark" which is, incidentally, wages.

A "hustle" is a job, and T.C.B. is to take care of business. Putting 'eus' in a word is cool.

All three completely baffle most Plymouth Highers. Author Jim Wylie's summarization says that "suddenly your twenty-three and you see what's happening." All due, supposedly to language. I'm sure if I went back when he was eighteen, whether it be 1920 or 1948, I could find, if I searched, a great deal of the
