Motorcycle Crash Kills Dianna Allen

Services for Dianna Allen, 19, of 14100 Beck Road, Plymouth, were conducted Monday in the Schrader Funeral Home and at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in charge of Rev. Fr. Francis Byrne with burial in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Dianna, a member of the 1964 graduating class of Plymouth High School, was fatally injured shortly after midnight Thursday when thrown from a motorcycle which missed a curve near Flat Rock and struck a guard rail, according to police reports. Dianna was a passenger on a motorcycle operated by George Condash, 22, also of Plymouth. The reports show the motorcycle missed the curve, struck the guard rail and Miss Allen was thrown off. She died shortly after arrival at Seaway Hospital in Trenton. Condash is in serious condition in Wayne County General Hospital with two broken legs and other injuries, according to reports.

That was the comment of Congressman Wes Vivian when asked what he thought of the situation in an interview Friday afternoon.

Vivian had accompanied Postmaster General John Gronouski from Washington, D.C. for a reception and dinner sponsored by members of the various postal employes groups of the Second Congressional District. Both were honored Friday night at the reception in Adrian after which the Postmaster General was scheduled for appearances in Flint and other Michigan communities before returning to the National capital Monday morning

The proposed atom smasher would bring more than 2,000 scientists and technicians to the area, making it one of the nation's largest cultural and scientific centers.

The site proposed is midway between Plymouth and Ann Arbor. It includes 3,840 acres in Northfield Township, north of Ann Arbor. It takes in part or all of six to eight sections in the area bounded by Six Mile Road on the north, Dixboro on the east, Pontiac Trail on the south and extending to US-23 on the west.

The cost is estimated at $2.8 million.

Under present plans, the AEC will narrow the sites to 15 in a short time. These will be turned over to the National

Commission to Meet New City Manager Officially on Monday

Richard Blodgett, Plymouth's recently appointed City Manager, reports for duty Monday and will have his first official session with the City Commission at Monday night's regular meeting.

Blodgett resigned his post at Marysville, O., a week ago and has been spending a week's vacation visiting relatives in Ypsilanti while he and his wife look for a home in Plymouth.

Although he has given no indication of his opening day plans, it is believed Blodgett will hold a meeting of department heads to get acquainted and then have individual sessions with each during the afternoon.

He succeeds Albert Glassford. who resigned in mid-December to accept the City Managership at Albion.

GET READY KIDS !! Margaret Wilson, owner of the Penn Theater, hands a roll of tickets to John Close, who will have charge of the pet show that will be one of the features of the annual Plymouth Fall Festival. Tickets for matinee performances on Saturday, Sept. 18 and 25 will be given to all youngsters entering pet in the competition.

Tutor Approach Booster Talks At Oakland CC

A pioneer in the field of the Tutorial Approach for Individualized Instruction, Dr. Samuel N. Postlethwaite of Purdue University, conferred with the faculty of Oakland Community College, July 19-21.

Prof. Postlethwaite has used the tutorial method since 1961 at Purdue. He described how the tutorial method is used in the teaching of his courses in Botany.

Postlethwaite indicated to the OCC faculty that his experience has shown that the traditional classroom lecture situation has been of negligible value as a learning device.

At the conclusion of the 1964-65 school year, Dr. Postlethwaite received an award from the Delta Sigma Chi Fraternity which designated him as "The teacher who contributed most to education in 1964-65," and he was designated by a vote of the student body as the "Best teacher in the school of Science."

and the gents in their fancy Western shirts, ties and boots, swiftly moved into squares of eight persons to "listen to the call." For a little variety, round dances were presented between each tip of square dances.

Every summer this dance is held for all experienced Western square dancers, with couples coming from as far as Lansing, Michigan. This dance precedes the beginner classes which begin in mid-September.

After attending beginner classes, dancers are invited to join local clubs such as the "Tuca-Batchee Squares," which meet every second and fourth Saturday, and the "Tea-Cup Chainers," which hold their dances every first and third Saturday of the month. Other Livonia Recreation Department callers are Clete Carlton and Jim Martin.

A new square dance season will be starting again this coming September. All non-dancers cordially invited to join lavish books about Indians is "The American Heritage Book of Indians," by the editors of American Heritage magazine. The pictorial history covers the arts and crafts, tribal organization, and culture of the North American Indian from prehistoric times to the present.

Indians are "The National Geographic on Indians of Americas," by the editors of National Geographic magazine; "The Book of American Indians," by Ralph Raphael; "Indians of North America," by Harold Driver, and "Indians of the Americas," by Edwin Embree.

"Indians," by Edwin Tunis, is a pictorial re-creation of American Indian life before the arrival of the white man.

Books about Indian art and crafts include "Book of Indiancrafts and Costumes," by Bernard Mason.

Two other books-C. Fayne Porter's "Our Indian Heritage" and Alvin Josephy's "The Patriot Chiefs" - contain sketches of great Indian leaders.

The library also has numerous individual books on the history, life, customs, legends, and ceremonials of the various Indian tribes.

Having worked at the woman's desk for enough years to have written several thousand marriages it is seldom one stands out anymore. Unless of course it is something different.

There was such a marriage reported last week at a fashion show luncheon in down-town Detroit. It was held to announce the union of I. Miller fashion shoe authority with Sears, Roebuck and Company.

Beginning this September Sears announced they will merchandise a special collection of its shoes with the stamp of approval of the I. Miller design review board.

This is a first for I. Miller. They have a marvelous reputation for comfort as well as chic. They will extend their craftsmanship to a line of 25 styles in the Sears' own Featherlite shoes.

The shoes were very exciting to see-the design, material, color and heel height were all fashion news for Fall. The fact they will be available to the fashion con- Mrs. John Gribb Sr. of Descious suburban woman was even more interesting-and in a price range from nine to 15 dollars. Of course there will be the genuine alligator at 35 dollars if you can't live without it.

The collection which we were privileged to see and examine are all couturier styling, with exquisite workmanship. Real quality.

Of special note in the elegant new collection are the suede ghillies with lowered setback heels, gently rounded "half-dollar" toes. The little silk pump in a sumptuous fabric with a double arch of aurora borealis gems to light up the night; for the young, the open and demure "scooped out everywhere" look with the lowered museum heel and grosgrain bow; for the real fashion leader in the community who will adhere to the forecast of the rising hemline-this one will take to the lower and broader heel-a simple fashion axiom which helps a lady maintain an overall look of balance and proportion. Less spike look, but definitely sleek too.

Textures are designed with an eye for dramatic effect-prints mimicking the ostrich to the genuine lively lizard, alligator, patents (but, please not in color) and luxurious suedes.

Color was the most interesting of all. The biggest comeback I could see was in brown-they showed other colors, green tea, truffle, stillwater green, tristan red, sailor blue, tiger's eye-but it was filly brown, Persian brown; beautiful brown, woodsy brown-brown in silk, patent, and suede. I love it. The fashion story was brought to us most authoritively by Louise J. Gruber, Fashion Coordinator for the I. Miller Design Studio.

went on. Wigs go back as far as 4000 B.C. Today they are reaching a new peak. Formerly for people in theatrical professions or for those whom illness had made loss of hair an unsightly spectacle, today they are a "must for everyone,"

Time saving is the number one feature. With a wig at hand, milady can go straight from a day of shopping, meetings, or household chores to an evening on the town and appear perfectly groomed in seconds.

The models came out with their own hair first, then in wigs just like their own hair, and denied detection, as to which was their own hair-do.

After the show, during a perfectly elegant repast of champagn and appetizers, we decided to ask Robier the questions which we felt most people would ask.

Very young, tall, dark, and with a French accent, Robier was pleasant and affable to interview. We decided to use ourself as an example, "What should an average housewife, on a limited budget (could there be a more perfect description of your reporter) buy, when she can afford only one wig?" Robier replied promptly, "A wig as nearly like her own hair in style and color as possible." "This could be kept coiffed and she could put it on at a moment's notice and always be well groomed for any occasion.

"Did he think the average career girl or housewife needed wig?'

"Absolutely, no one has more demands made on her today than the American housewife or career girl." Next question was where the buyer should go for her wig.

Bud Gould Finds Self In Quandary

Loren 'Bud' Gould has been working on plans for a professional office mall at the northwest corner of Haggerty and Ann Arbor Roads for more than a year and wonders now if he's going to have to go through all of the red tape for a second time.

Gould appeared before the Plymouth Township Planning Commission for a public hearing on July 15, 1964 and then the matter was tabled and forgotten by the Board until revived at last week's meeting by Gould. He asked that it be removed from the table and action taken.

The Commission was agreeable to having it removed from the table but reluctant to take action pending an opinion as to whether it had passed the legal limitations.

After considerable discussion, Commissioner Clayton Koch made a motion that the Board approve the rezoning from single family residential to professional office and refer it to the Township Board and the Wayne County Co-Ordinating Committee for final approval.

However, Commisssioner John Welsher objected, asking that a legal opinion be secured before going to the Township Board.

That's where it stands now and Gould is wondering whether he will have to go through another public hearing.

He isn't too happy about the prospect of another hearing. "I wanted the hearing before the area built up," he said, "That was the situation a year ago

Area Realtors Report Sales Up 39 Per Cent Over 1964

Realty Association during the finding a buyer." first six months of 1965 were 39 per cent greater than in the same period of 1964, Marvin O. Moser, president, reported.

Covering the northwest section of Detroit and adjacent portions of both Wayne and Oakland counties, the UNRA cooperative listing service is the second-largest in the country.

Property sales by members of the multiple-listing organization, who are also members of Western Wayne-Oakland the County Board of Realtors, provide the most comprehensive and reliable index to residential real estate activity throughout the metropolitan area, Moser pointed out.

"Used homes, realistically priced, are selling extremely well in all sections of our territory," Moser said. "Any homeowner who lists his property with a Realtor and doesn't overprice it is likely to get fast action."

In the first half of the current year UNRA brokers rang up an all-time record of 4,260 house sales for a total value of $66,-166,000. This compares with 3.285 residential sales aggregating $47,667,000 in the first half of 1964. The average selling price also was up 6.8 per centamounting to $15,319 per house in 1965, as compared with the $14,340 average selling price per house in 1964.

June sales figures were equally impressive, Moser reported. During June of this year, UNRA members sold 876 houses for a total of $13,581.000 and an average price per house of $15,294, as compared with 652 houses sold for a total of $9.547,000 or an average price per house of $14,530 in June, 1964.

"Month after month, our members have been setting new sales records," Moser said. "Sales each month since January have not only exceeded the sales of the previous month, but sales for the same month last year, by impressive margins. Beginning with March, when our sales exceeded the $10,000,-000-mark for the first time, every month this year has established a new all-time high in sales volume."

While largest volume of sales continues to be in the $10,500-to-$15,000 price bracket, there has been a marked increase in demand for higher-priced homes, Moser reported. For June, he said, sales in the $25,000-to-$30,000 bracket were up 121 per cent from 1964; while sales in the over-$30,000 bracket were up 64 per cent.

"Houses 10 to 20 years old continue to be the most popular, in terms of sales to listings," Moser said. "One-and-one-halfstory continue to be favored over one-story, two-story and split - level. Three - bedroom houses seem to get the nod over those with fewer or more bedrooms, while brick construction is preferred to frame and houses with basements are definitely more popular than those built on slabs or over crawl space."

Membership in the multilist organization, at 45 years probably the oldest Realtors' cooperative in the country, includes 200 brokers offices with more than 1,200 affiliated salesmen, serving northwest Detroit and the western portions of Wayne and Oakland counties.

The more than 20 separate communities served by UNRA comprise over 800 square miles and nearly 1,900,000 people, the second largest multi-list area in the country, after San Fernando Valley, Calif.

Says UNRA's President Moser: "Multi-listing benefits the prospective home buyer by conserving his time and greatly widening his choice of properties. A visit to one member's office places at his disposal all the multi-listed properties in the area in which he would like to locate.

"Photographs and detailed information about each house for sale can be gone over uickly and conveniently in the comfort of the Realtor's office, those in which he is not interested eliminated and appointments made for a personal inspection of the others. "Multi-listing also benefits the seller, by placing his property in the hands of all the Realtors and their salesmen who are members of UNRA. A sales force of 1,400 experienced real-estate men is at his disposal immediately and at no

No More Closed Meetings?

A breath of fresh air was wafted when Warren L. Spurlin, new president of the Wayne Board of Education, said recently that the board would hold fewer executive sessions.

"We have found ourselves duplicating our work," he said, "by meeting in executive session to discuss a problem and then finding that it was necessary to have an open meeting to discuss the same problem.

But the fresh air blew away when the Wayne board went into a half-hour, closeddoor session last week, after hearing 101/2 hours of testimony, and emerged to declare it was upholding the administration in the firing of former custodian Vernon E. Capehart.

Why? Why do school boards insist on arriving at their decisions in private? This case was important to many people and the board split 4 to 3 in its decision.

What goes on in secret sessions does not stay locked up. Board members come out and tell their friends. But it should not be just their close associates, the rest of the public is entitled to know, too.

Garden City's board goofed recently on an appeal brought to it by a teacher, Hossain Mosavat.

His friends were there to hear why the board would not grant a tenure contract.

But the board held a private half-hour session of its own members, then met for an hour and one-half with Mosavat, and finally talked the matter over in public for a half hour

There is still innuendo being brought to bear in this case and nobody really knows yet why the board feels Mosavat does not qualify.

Board members and administrators claim that each teacher's file contains private information which might be harmful to the teacher were it to become public.

But when a teacher questions the judgment of his superiors, it becomes of public concern to know all sides to the story.

Apparently all sides were not to be made known in both of these cases.

School boards will subject themselves to less criticism if they will try to conduct their meetings with the doors open.

This week hardly a man, woman, or child is unaware of what is happening Thursday, July 29. Westland Center in Nankin Township will open its doors to the panting public.

We of The Observer staff also wish to extend a welcome to J. L. Hudson Company and the complex of over 50 stores in the Center.

As a suburban publisher of a newspaper, depending on advertising to get across my pearls of wisdom each week, it is always gratifying to see improvement in the area — upgrading so to speak.

Anything new, progressive and sparkling will draw people who might never have ventured into the rural community of Nankin Township and surrounding areas.

Other business people in the community will benefit from this development of Westland. Of course, there are the many community men and women who will find their mainstay of employment here as well as supplementing their income for contingent work-and their children working their way through college. For these things we thank Westland. They are meaningful.

The real estate people will benefit, the car dealers, the ice cream parlor, the grocer, the restaurant, yes, even the other giant shopping areas such as Wonderland and Livonia Mall. They have their special stores-and when a family has been drawn to Westland, as it will, it will remember Wards of Wonderland or Sears at the Mall-and then there are all of those other delightful stores-and of course you can use a universal charge plate. I haven't tried it yet, but I know people who have -and they say a charge plate will take you all around the world and back home complete with souvenirs. Do you suppose that is true?

Beauty is brought to the suburbs too by Westland. The Goose that laid the Golden Egg designed by Samuel Cashwan of Farmington; the clear glass elevator; the 12copper sculptural figures depicting the signs of the Zodiac, wall clock by Narenda Patel of Detroit-some thing to behold; the pool and fountain; The Acrobats, a sculpture by Earl Krentzin; the ornamental bird cage; the colorful aquarium; Jack in the Beanstalk, a sculpture also by Cashwan; Giraffe family; Fish Group by Richard Jennings of Ann Arbor; all there to provide background and delight for families to browse in colorful, musical contentment.

Developers of Westland say the basic difference between Westland and its famous sisters Northland and Eastland is that it is completely enclosed, all under one roof. This is true and the result is one of complete comfort.

There is another basic difference, I trust the powers that be have not overlooked. They have become a commercial neighbor. They are part of suburbia as they have not been in their other two locations so closely associated with the metropolitan area. Here they are suburbia.

In becoming a part of the community and social activity of the area we trust, that like their giant neighbors in Wonderland and Livonia Mall, they will participate in the task of bringing to the community the weekly area news. To bring their message via the weekly with their stories to tell, people to inform, battles to win-is all part of a new concept, that is apparently here to stay -action in the suburban area-to which we welcome our new neighbors-Westland.

LBJ Wrong On "Yankee Stay Home" Request Lyndon B. Johnson is doing all right as president in most departments, but he gets a thumping no-confidence vote from this quarter in his plea that Americans do their traveling at home. He gets even less when he makes his pitch on the grounds that it helps our trade balance if we spend our tourist gold in our own U.S.

As an inveterate bag-packer, I am not against home travel. My admirable spouse and I have traveled in 45 of the 50 American states; and if duty and a low exchequer didn't conspire against us, we'd be off tomorrow to see the other five. But shall we help L.B.J. to persuade Americans that travel should stop at the salt shore line?

No and No and No!

If Americans should take to staying home, a few dollars would perhaps be saved. The trade balance, or gold balance, or whatever the crucial factor is, might even be helped materially. But the non-monetary losses that would ensue would heavily outweigh the cash gains of such picayune parsimony. Money isn't even every other thing.

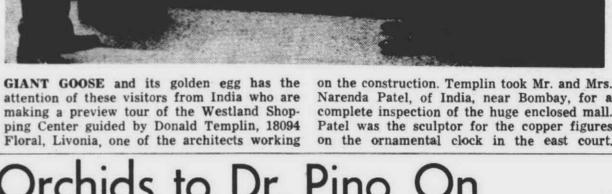

You travel abroad, among other reasons, in order to know your home country. "He knows only England, Who only England knows," sang Rudyard Kipling; and no true objective measure of any country is possible from the single vantage point of home. You learn by observing and comparing. And a regrettable truth is that, until you go abroad, there is absolutely no way to learn this one value of the many absolute values of going abroad. Except for cousin Canada, which no American ever really regards as a foreign land, we two Holdens had never been abroad until we were in our mid-40s. Ever since that trip, which took us to about 20 countries, as well as around the world, we have lamented the parochialism that kept us at home so long.

And what about the knowing of America? An Australian journalist once asked us, a bit sorrowfully, why the U.S. had to suspend its own and the great world's business every four years while we undertook the painful task of choosing a president. An underfed baldheaded, saffron-robed little Buddhist monk wanted us to take his picture in Rangoon at the Schwe Dagon Pagoda. Why? So we could bring it back to America as a symbol of Asia's millions who papers, movies and television want peace.

No. Don't stay home. Go abroad If Mr. Johnson really meant what he said, he'd call home all the occupation troops, close up the consulates and dissolve the Peace Corps.

We don't need less foreign travel. We need more and more. If it's their gold we need, a better way to get it is to bring foreigners here. Then maybe something of us would rub off on them. They'd know themselves and us better.

Meanwhile, there ought to be a law ordering that we send abroad, at age 21, for a trip lose their normal inhibitions around the world, wholly free, every young American. As a nation we might learn more of who and what we are in a world we know so very little.

A Quaker Heritage

On July 29, 30, and 31, the Farmington area will celebrate a Founders' Festival. The community has a past that is well-worth celebrating.

It was founded in 1824, as the first official meeting in Michigan of the Society of Friends, popularly known as the Quakers. This is a proud heritage. The Friends are among the most noble of the humans inhabiting this globe

In the century and a half since its founding, Farmington has grown into a vital and vibrant community. And, happily, the Quakerism from which it grew has remained a vital and vibrant force in our community.

The Quakers who migrated here from their community of Farmington, New York, believed that there was a seed of goodness, or as they put it "that of God" in every human being. They took upon themselves the responsibility for nourishing that seed.

This they would do through the testimonies of peace, truth, and simplicity. They were pacifists. They carried truth into their workaday life. Simplicity was the mark of their churches, homes and dress.

In the present day, the most active of the Quaker agencies is the American Friends Serv ice Committee. The AFSC has four functions:

It is a ministry of reconciliation. As such, in the south, it has created a line of communications between the races. And it has done the same for diplomats from both sides of the iron curtain

Another of its functions is what it calls "binding up the wounds of war." As such, it has provided relief in the war-torn areas of both world conflagrations.

The third function, "speaking truth to violence," is an educational program aimed at persuading people to seek and use alternatives to violence.

"Peace making," the fourth function, involves eliminating the factors, such as poverty and illiteracy, that lead to war.

With a heritage like this, Farmington has reason to be proud, and much to celebrate. -Allen Rosenfeld

Crime: To Summarize

The Observer newspapers started this series with the first article calling attention to the magnitude of crime, and the possibility that our country may have the foresight, will power, and skill to reverse the increasing downgrading of moral conduct in America.

In the second article we pointed out that the human brain is the most important thing that a person possesses; it is the instrument of his mind, of learning, and of human behavior, and many forces are constantly and selfishly waiting to destroy it for cash and for power.

The third article pointed out that one of the greatest single causes of crime, premature death, and juvenile and adult delinquency is alcohol. The effect of this habitforming narcotic on the brain and the financial power of its promoters and all who make money in promoting its use, is evident from bars at every possible corner where people pass by, and even in homes.

The 50 per cent of highway deaths and the 50 per cent of our prison populations being alcoholic emphasizes this dangerous problem, as does the fact that one out of every seven and one-half of our children will become either a chronic alcoholic with a pathologic brain, or an acute problem drinker. The acute problem drinkers gradually replace the chronic ones who die early deaths in pain, and in such numbers that the cause of death is not mentioned on the death certificate, nor in the Public Health vital statistics.

Our fourth article concerned the economics of crime, noting that the F.B.I. reports that crime in the United States in 1963 was estimated at 27 billion. In contrast we spent only 18 billion on our public schools to educate our children. Alcohol - the great tranquilizer, helps a massive part of our adult population to ignore its responsibilities to family and to our country.

When we hold a panel session on how many, where, how, and why, our children get and drink alcohol, we should discuss also what it does to the brain during the first hour destructively for many persons for life.

We must ask the question: "Do we want to control delinquency, reduce crime and try to give the future leaders of our country a better chance?" We know that millions of parents across America are waiting for help and a chance to help, as well as are our courts, police departments, and public officials. Freedom is one thing, but freedom of any segment of the population to enslave all in crime and delinquency is slavery.

Next week these methods will be reviewed.

Ralph H. Pino, M.D.

About A Quaker

At the Farmington Township Board of Trustees meeting on Monday evening, July 26, Rev. Robert Eddy, of the Universalist-Unitarian Church of Farmington was the target of very strong criticism.

Rev. Eddy is no stranger to controversy. In recent months he has taken strong positions on American participation in the war in Vietnam, and on an even more touchy subject-sex.

I hesitate to summarize his views on this latter subject. They are complex, and some of us in the press, including this paper, may have, in the past, oversimplified them in a way that has been misleading. However, to make this article understandable. I think I will have to summarize. In brief, Eddy seems to advocate trial marriages for teen agers.

Not unexpectedly, this idea has brought a storm of protest down on him. What has made the situation particularly stormy is that Eddy is Chairman of the Youth Guidance Committee in Farmington.

Public opinion against his chairmanship has apparently been growing. The inevitable finally happened at the Township Board meeting Monday night. A citizen arose to demand that Eddy be censured and driven off the committee. Township Supervisor Curt Hall displayed considerable statesmanship in his reaction to this demand. Indicating his own disagreement with tion of the Board to deal in personalities. I too disagree with what I understand to be his views on foreign policy. I believe we have not only a right but a duty to defend South Vietnam. But Eddy's opposition to that policy is that of a Quaker pacifist, not a disloyal person. He is, in fact, a man of intense devotion to his country.

I too disagree with what I understand to be his trial marriage theory. I agree that his value to the Youth Guidance Committee has probably been destroyed by his advocation of it. An interesting but little known fact however should be mentioned at this time: When the controversy first arose, he expressed his willingness to resign recognizing that he might no longer be an asset to the work of the Committee.

To become even more personal for moment, I offer my impression of Eddy, as I have observed him in the performance of his duties in the community. He appears to me a man of rather rigid morality; a strict disciplinarian as a parent, but, as he stresses in his sermons, one who believes parents need a little discipline too.

That this description runs counter to his sex theory is doubtless true. How he arrived at his theory I don't know. But people are complicated, and we should not expect them to be otherwise

Perhaps many of us have some "far-out" a contract for the purchase of Americans to jump from capisolutions for the problems of mankind. Perhaps a new home in Rosedale Gar- talism to communism, but we some of our ideas would get us in trouble if dens a new development by can assist their elected leaders great deal more misery than and keeping the people posted dope ever has. We become greatly shocked about the problem of dope addic- of meetings and such. Keep us tion while blandly accepting the use of liquor in our society which leads one in every 25 users to become alcoholics. Dr. Pino states we are leaving the door open to new recruits to per day. Experts in California have warned that at the present drinking rate there will be a million chronic alcoholics in that state by 1975.

Isn't it time we took another look at liquor-particularly the advertising and glamorization of it? Maybe it's like "The Emporer's New Clothes" in the childhood fairy tale-we think liquor is wonderful and drinking is necessary to business success because everyone has been tell-

Monday, when the Detroit Race Course opens its 84-day meeting. I believe we will pay a handsome dividend to you fans for your loyalty and support.

We have planned a big Opening Day program of nine races with post-parade at 3:20 p.m. There are surprises galore in store for you, for the DRC has a New Look.

Within 24 hours after we closed our meeting last October, work was started on a building and modernization program which makes the Detroit Race Course one of the finest sports facilities in the United States.

We are putting the finishing touches on our new $3,000,000 Clubhouse. It was designed with YOU in mind . . . designed for YOUR maximum convenience, comfort and pleasure.

We will have it ready to open shortly. Meanwhile, there are many additions and changes which will add to your racing pleasure Opening Day Monday and every day thereafter.

There's a bright and sparkling New Look everywhere at the DRC. You will begin to notice the changes, and be affected by them, from the moment you enter the track.

the third major shopping center to be built by Shopping Centers, Inc., a subsidiary of The J. L. Hudson Company, preceded by Northland in 1954 and Eastland in 1957.

Approximately 50 stores employing more than 2,300 will be ready to serve the public on opening day. A few additional stores are expected to open in the near future.

The basic difference between Westland and its famous sister centers is that it is completely enclosed, all under one roof. The building design and plans automatically brought about opportunity for other interesting design changes, notably that most entrances to Westland's stores are from the inside-from two main courts, a connecting mall and seven arcades.

The shopper moves throughout the entire center in air-conditioned comfort and does not need to go outside the center to enter its stores. The effect is a sort of winding sub-tropical parkway flanked by well-known stores and shops and services.

The two main courts are at the east and west ends of the Center, connected by a central mall. Seven arcades lead from these areas to seven entrances from the seven parking lots surrounding Westland.

Entrances to Westland's stores from the enclosed public areas have been developed in a wide variety of interesting forms. Most entrances are separated by framed painted piers, permitting individual treatments in design. The two entrances to the Hudson store are extra wide openings formed by huge disappearing glass doors.

a lower level display, to mention just a few. The preparation of the various stores for occupancy was made in a manner to provide maximum opportunity for individual development as dictated by imagination and needs for merchandise display and storage. Each store began with four bare walls and from that point it was up to store principals, architects and contractors to create the kind of store setting and equipment desired.

Many of the larger stores in the center will operate on two levels, lower and main floor. In addition, Westland has a separate concourse area with many smaller stores and services, as well as public service facilities. Included among the latter is a public auditorium, with adjacent meeting rooms, available for community, civic and social groups at cost of service.

Most importantly, Westland will provide for this growing west Detroit suburban area the same kind of shopping facility, environment and polices which have made Northland and Eastland America's most successful shopping centers.

A complete J. L. Hudson Company full line department store branch, with 352,000 square feet of space is at the core of the center, surrounded on three sides by competing stores and services-most of them already represented in the two sister centers-bringing the total area devoted to stores 656,851 square feet.

Courts, mall and arcadesthe public areas—account for an additional 58,103 square feet and institutional service areas still another 72,151 square feet, so that Westland's total building area measures 787,795 square feet.

gust 2. Changes and additions to the DRC were started the day after the 1964 meeting closed last October.

The expansion program is topped by a magnificent $3,-000,000 clubhouse. The finishing touches now are being put on the new clubhouse and it will be open soon.

"Naturally, there is some disappointment we could not have the new clubhouse ready for our fans on Opening Day," DRC President Dale Shaffer said. "However, we have many other new things and it will be only a matter of a few days before the Clubhouse will be ready. Then, I think Michigan fans will enjoy a facility which ranks among the finest in the United States.'

The big Opening Day racing program will be highlighted by the $15,000 Curtains Up Handicap.

There will be nine races on weekdays with a post parade at 3:20 p.m. The Saturday program will comprise 10 races with a post parade at 2 p.m.

The Twin Double, which the DRC introduced to Michigan fans a year ago, will be offered again. The Twin Double races will be the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth races. There will be the regular Daily Double on the first and second races.

The many changes and additions at the DRC include a completely re-designed interior road system and increased parking facilities. The new close-in lots and relocation of the admission gates make it only a few steps from the fan's car to the admission gates.

SPORTS

By George Maskin

OBSERVING

One reads in the television columns where a leading actor on a western show advocates that high school sports be abolished.

The gent claims that something must be done to eliminate the athletic hero in the high schools . . . thereby making it possible for the smart students to receive more of the glory due them.

The TV celebrity advocates further that communities do more to sponsor sports on a recreation-department basis to offset the elimination of athletics from the school program.

Now, how ridiculous can a man be. Why doesn't he assert that all athletics for school-aged students should be tossed out of the window?

It's been our good fortune to have followed schoolboy sports in Michigan for something like 30 years now. We'll grant that there are heroes who arise in every school because of their athletic abilities.

But, from those who know - the administrators - we're told that the outstanding students get their chances to shine, too.

The fact is that when time comes for high school students to apply for college, there are far more opportunities and scholarships for the "A" and "B" students than there are for athletic idols who struggled through school with C's and D's.

Talk to anyone of the principals or superintendents of schools in the area Observer newspapers appear. Or, for that matter, any other area - including Detroit proper where sports have produced headaches in the school system.

They all advocate sound athletic programs.

"Good athletics are just as important as good class-room situations," one principal recently told us. "We strive for an all-around program which includes music, dramatics and athletics, along with the work achieved in the study room proper.

"Besides, no event we stage has a greater rallying power than those which involve our athletic teams. Look at the number of people who come out to watch at the high schools.

'Don't forget. When one of our teams play, more than just the players are involved. Our band gets a chance to perform. So do our cheerleaders and often other groups.

"No, sir . . . it would be ridiculous to eliminate athletics At Fairgrounds Track from our high schools. We'd all wind up losers in the commu-Iggy Katona, of Willis, Mich., dity.

"We should either have a fourth week, or maybe permission to hold some practice in the spring."

It's because of what Hudnut said that many high school coaches "cheat" on the football practice rules. More than one coach has been known to gather his players in somebody's basement during the summer.

In some playfields, you'll see preps drilling on what appears an informal basis during July and August. In actuality the boys are working on specific details outlined for them by their coach the night before in one of those basement huddles.

An incident of the past week shows once more why Michigan is blessed with perhaps the No. 1 high school athletics administrator in the country in Charles Forsythe.

We have known Forsythe and written about him - usually on the complimentary side - for about 25 years.

We goofed in filing our registration blank before July 1 to officiate in football, etc., during the coming school year. Anybody checking in for football after July 1 must pay a $3 penalty in addition to the regular $4 fee.

So we dropped a note to friend, Charles. We tried to get away with avoiding the penalty assessment. Perhaps, we figured that since we had been so nice to him, he'd blink . . . and say: "Let's give George a break."

Rosedale Retains Crown In City Olympic Games

The Eighth Annual City Olympics, conducted Thursday by the City of Livonia, Department of Parks and Recreation, was a huge success with over 750 contestants participating at Henry Ford Centennial Field.

In the final playground totals, belt was second with 27 points and McKinley and Jefferson tied for third with 24 points.

First place winners in each event will represent the City of Livonia at Metropolitan Beach for the combined Metropolitan Olympics on Thursday, July 29.

Kendrick wound up with three hits in three tries. Ziegler had two for three.

The game marked Barryman's third appearance of the week

On Tuesday he had achieved a spectacular no-hit triumph in blanking Inkster, 7-0. But on Thursday he was the loser in relief as the Plymouth Optimists dumped the champs, 5-3.

Against Inkster Barryman fanned 13 and walked only five. Livonia's DRC squad took a big 5-3 verdict over South Dearborn as Larry Sladek turned in a five-hit effort on the mound.

A double by Jim Rose and singles by Woods started the DRC run production. Jones' double and two errors made it 3-0 in the second. Dobson doubled and crossed on Miles' single in the third . . . then Rose and Woods clicked again with base hits for the fifth DRC tally in the fifth inning.

DRC then followed by blanking North Nankin, 4-0, as Rose recorded a brilliant shutout victory to earn the Livonians a tie for the divisional lead and a chance to play off for the right to enter the Connie Mack district action. South Redford, also fighting with its back to the walls, came through with a pair of Connie Mack triumphs in the last week of the regular schedule.

First there was a 9-3 verdict over North Dearborn, then a 6-4 win against the Plymouth Elks. Jim Sproul checked North Dearborn on three hits. A fiverun second inning gave South Redford a commanding edge. Bob Holmes opened the rally with a single. After a walk to Rick Collins, Dave Woloch singled. Terry Rothwell walked and Marty Inglesolian and Barry Sinescu followed with big singles

Against the Plymouth Elks, Mike McCrumm did the pitching. South scored four times in the third inning when Mc-Crumm walked, Holmes and Tim Fisher singled, Woloch walked and Sinescu singled. Errors helped the Elks to cash a pair of runs in the third. Walks figured in the other two runs scored by the Plymouth team.

A neat two-hit effort by Tom Cannon brought North Nankin a 2-0 win over Wayne. Cannon Charlie Forsythe noted our letter and wasted no time sending it back - check and all.

In short, Forsythe pointed out that a rule was a rule . . . and if he broke it for George Maskin, he could break it for anybody else. This would precipitate only troubles.

This same approach has marked Forsythe's handling of prep sports for almost 40 years now in Michigan.

He cares not who you are - whether you represent a school with 3,000 students or 50 - Forsythe acts the same way.

The rule is there . . . to be followed. It's as simple as all that. Hence you never hear that Charlie Forsythe has played favorites. He rules with an iron hand, which is the way it should be.

Little wonder that you hear so much nice said about the Michigan prep program when you travel in Illinois or Missouri or Massachusetts or New York or anyplace else.

We have a great deal to be proud of - in Michigan - when it comes to prep sports.

ODDS AND ENDS: Jot this down in your black book: the Detroit Lions will be in the thick of contention in the National Football League this season . . . After a slow start, Livonia's Bob Bruce is doing a great job for the Houston Astros in the National League. He won a shutout the other night before some 45,000 fans in Houston . . . Wonder when Bruce will pitch against another Livonian, Ray Herbert of the Philadelphia Phillies?

You'll enjoy yourself at the DRC where the horses start running next Monday. All signs point to a record season according to our good friend Tommy Devine, the DRC publicist . .

Several baseball tournaments are carded for Livonia's Henry Ford Field during the next few weeks. "They like our diamond and our lights," says Livonia's Al Roscoe, who runs athletics for the city's recreation department.

The Big Top Is Coming To Area on Sunday, August 1

AT MAI KAI 'The Sandpiper' Is Warm, Tender Story

BY JERRY WENDT

Lack of opportunity is the cornerstone of virtue. Few men could resist the opportunity to be loved by Elizabeth Taylor. Dr. Edward Hewitt, Episcopalian minister and headmaster of a private school for boys, is not one of these exceptions although he struggles valiantly with his conscience and principles.

'Sandpiper'' set against what is surely the most gorgeous scenic background ever filmed. This is the Big Sur area on the northern California coast near Monterey, often termed "the most beautiful coast in the world."

opinions, both Richard Burton and Miss Taylor are a magnificent acting team. "Sandpiper" is a warm, tender and strictly adult love story.

The American Drama Festival completed its repertory last weekend when a "serious dramatic tale of the 17th Century" entitled "Superstition" opened.

It was on the whole a rather anemic evening.

Ted Payne, producer of the Festival, believes that in order to "restore and present American dramatic literature that reflects our nation's history and its dramatic arts" the Festival must include a representative drama from the period.

It's a valid point. The only problem is the cold, hard fact of the dramatic conventions and quality of nineteenth century American Theatre.

"Superstition" is set in New England in 1675. The fanatic Puritans' dominate the play, trampling under the not too articulate voices of tolerance and reason in the person of Isabella Fitzroy, "a gentlewoman," and the "unreasonable" Puritan Walford.

No more need to be said about the plot.

When the audience could hear the actors beyond the first six rows of the house the general level of work was competent.

Samuel Misgewski, who appeared as "The Fanatic Father" Ravensworth, was excellent. Maybe it was just that he could always be heard, McKee also performed well in their supporting roles.

Karen Cutler turned in a much better performance as Isabella Fitzroy than she did in 'Almighty Dollar."

We Service What We Sell

No Matter Where You Live in The U.S.A.

Put Sears Under Service Contract to You

There are Service Contracts available for Sears major appliances. These contracts mean much more than just an extended guarantee. Contracts include: preventive maintenance, all parts and labor for repairs or replacement. You have unlimited Service Call privileges, and any emer-

Contract places the performance responsibility squarely up to Sears. Let your Sears salesman or Service technician explain the contract.

24-Hour-A-Day Emergency Service . . . means Sears Service technicians are ready to meet emergencies in Refrigeration. Ranges, Air Conditioning, Freezens or Home Heating.
