

YOUNG CHILDREN probably get more out of the great fun of the Fall Festival than anyone else. These two, Renee Cavell, 4, and Alan Cavell, 5, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Cavell, 1281 Carol, eye the giant Fall Festival bugler. They, and the rest of the Plymouth Community await the beginning of the four-day celebration, today, Thursday, Sept. 9.

Plymouth to welcome throng as Festival kicks off Thursday

"I want every peasant to have a chicken in his pot on Sundays."
—Henry IV of France Sunday, Sept. 12, won't find a chicken in the pot. But, there will be 12,000 chickens on the barbecue racks as the Plymouth Rotary Club closes the community's Fall Festival with their famous chicken barbecue.

And, while the peasant of King Henry's time is gone, Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth will be filled with thousands of people as the festival draws to a close.

Opening Thursday, Sept. 9, the festival closes Sunday, Sept. 12, with the barbecue.

Parent of the Fall Festival, the Rotary Club's chicken barbecue started a number of years ago serving a modest

Citizens rap urban renewal, ask fill for open basements

It was complaint night Tuesday evening for Plymouth City Commission as two groups were present in force to present gripes.

One called for action on the open basements in Symar Sub. in the Holbrook-Fairground area. The other rapped City plans for an urban renewal project in downtown Plymouth in the Wing, Deer, Kellogg and Maple Street areas of the Ann Arbor Trail-Main St. corner.

The group protesting the proposed $1 million urban renewal project presented a petition with 49 signatures representing 30 homes or businesses in the area.

Two other signatures were from out of the area, one from Joy Rd. and one from Beech Ct.

The petition registered the objections and serious protest of the group.

THE COMMISSION gave the group a chance to voice opinions on the matter, but cut the discussion short, indicating plans are a long way from final.

City Attorney Edward Draugelis said the matter would have a complete and formal airing in a public hearing.

"There has to be a public hearing on the matter at some stage in the proceedings," he said.

A couple of the unidentified speakers asked how some of the area's homes had been labeled "substandard" by the planning consultant's (Velican and Leman) report on the matter.

The report indicated that in order to qualify for the urban renewal funds, more than 50 per cent of the area had to be substandard. Velican and Leman reported 35 of 58 structures in the area "appear to be substandard."

Local cost of the project would be $137,000. The City's announcement of its plans for the area was merely an approval for an initial presentation to federal officials. An Urban Renewal Area Co-ordinator must view the area first

Forum told police efficient but underpaid

City spokesmen went before the Chamber of Commerce's Businessmen's Forum last Thursday to explain Plymouth's plans and problems.

New City Manager Richard Blodgett spoke on police protection and salaries, Assistant City Manager Kenneth Fisher spoke on urban renewal and Mayor James Houk discussed a senior citizen's housing.

"First, I am quite proud of your police department," Blodgett said, "and I'm sure you would be too. They are basically a young, energetic group of men who want to improve themselves."

"Basically, we have a problem of salaries. I think there is some basis for complaint. Our wages are below those in many other surrounding communities."

BLODGETT also pointed to a manpower problem—keeping shifts manned around the clock.

"Crime is on the increase across the nation, and it's not difficult to prove it's on the increase in Plymouth," Blodgett continued.

Blodgett also commented on the youth problem, and on a community relations problem.

"We also have problems outside our incorporation," he said, referring to the mass of Plymouth people who flock to the City for sporting and entertainment events.

"If Plymouth were an isolated city of 10,000 people in the U.P. we'd have a different picture. Certainly the surrounding area has to be considered."

Blodgett reported that he was studying the manpower problem and said it would be "premature" for him to report that the manpower was either inadequate or adequate.

Blodgett fielded questions from the newspapers, then Kenneth Fisher reported on urban renewal. He outlined the progress of the Mill St. project, and noted that plans of the industry in the area included:

A boost from 400 to 500 employees and an expanded building at Bathey Manufacturing Co.

Three additions to the Durstainer project . . . a 16,000 square foot office building, a 21,000 square foot addition to the present factory, and a 60,000 square foot building for manufacturing.

Fisher also had some comments on the second proposed urban renewal project for the downtown Wing, Deer, Kellogg and Maple Street areas.

"This fits into our plan; it wasn't just dreamed up. It's been in the planning for two or three years, and has been thought of, and talked about," Fisher said.

It's not just based on the substandard buildings; it fits into the area re-development plan for traffic flow, removal of substandard housing, and better use of the land," he noted.

Following Fisher's talk, Mayor James Houk discussed the senior citizen's housing project.

"We were given a grant of $987,688 to build a 60-unit elder citizens home within our area. We are going to be looking not only to the people of the City of Plymouth but to all the people in the Plymouth Community. Ply-

Evans reveals $15 million rail contract

Evans Products Company's Transportation Equipment Division has received orders for 800 freight cars from four railroads, including 500 insulated box cars for the Union Pacific Railroad.

Total selling price of the 800-car orders is approximately $15 million.

The 500 50-ft., 70-ton cars for the Union Pacific will be insulated and will be equipped with Evans DF-2 damage prevention device which prevents load-shifting in transit.

Each car will also be equipped with cushioned underframe. Delivery is to start during the first quarter of 1966.

New postmaster

Announcement of the appointment of John A. Mulligan, Plymouth school teacher, as local postmaster was expected later this week, according to information reaching The Plymouth Mail.

Sources close to the situation indicated that Mulligan, a Junior High School East math and science teacher and active Democrat, had been chosen for the post which has been vacant since the former Postmaster George Timpona of Livonia retired last year.

Since that time, numerous rumors have circulated concerning candidates. Those mentioned included Assistant Postmaster Ernest Henry and Acting Postmaster James Grater. Mulligan's name had not been mentioned until recently.

Rotary Foundation reports on loans

The Plymouth Rotary Foundation is one organization which has not sought, nor has it received, a great amount of publicity for its worthwhile activities.

However, as a non-profit organization, the Foundation makes loans available to college students at a low rate of interest and also donates funds to many local activities.

The recent financial report issued by Edward Sawusch, member of the Foundation, shows $20,164.50 in loans outstanding as of Aug. 31, 1965.

This means that many students are attending college who might not otherwise have had the opportunity.

The Foundation has also made contributions to the Plymouth Community school athletic lighting, Plymouth Community music fund, the Fall Festival and many others.

Newly elected to the Foundation executive board is John Kamego. Other board members are Edward Sawusch, John Herb, Fred Beitner, Wayne Dunlap, Harold Guenther, Russell Isbister, Charles Engstrom and Donald Sutherland.

Any board member can give further information concerning student loans.

Set goal for PCF fall drive

Torch lighting ceremonies which will kick off the 1965 Plymouth Community Fund Drive are slated for Monday, Oct. 11 at Kellogg Park, according to President Frank Palmer and Fund Drive Chairman John Kamego.

In setting the goal this year at $86,083 Palmer noted that this is an increase of about 7% over last year's goal. Last year the drive ran about $3,000 short of its goal.

Kamego, district manager of Michigan Bell Telephone Co., emphasized that the four week concerted drive to raise funds for worthwhile organizations is organized with the idea of "giving once for all."

"In this way," he said, "we can eliminate the many separate drives which would be necessary to raise funds for the various organizations."

The drive will end Nov. 5.

PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY FUND president Frank Palmer and fund drive chairman John Kamego Wednesday announced this year's $86,083 goal. The traditional torch light ceremony kicks off the "give once for all" drive Oct. 11.

Township planners, Board review 701 master plans

Plymouth Township planning commissioners and the Board of Trustees met in special session last week to consider the Township's 701 master plan.

One of the final drafts has been presented to the Township by planning consultant W. C. Johnson.

Township supervisor Jack McEwen had indicated recently he hoped the plan would be ready for public hearings early this fall. But Johnson noted at last Thursday's meeting that several steps were yet to be taken.

The members of the joint meeting agreed to break the plan down and study it by components.

The plan contains maps of utility lines, recreation and land use studies, major arteries, neighborhood unit plans, and fire hall locations.

THE STUDY also takes a long look at capital improvement financing and a rewritten subdivision ordinance.

The master plan indicates an area in the western portion of the Township design-

A shot in the dark

Doug Johnson

Writers have a habit of taking a shot in the dark when setting down ideas; this becomes apparent when you read, carefully, any supposedly erudite comment on modern times.

Take this, for example, from an article in the September issue of "The Instructor," a glossy book of ideas for elementary school teachers. Robert Havighurst, professor of education, University of Chicago, titles his piece "Education for the Great Society."

He writes of the "disadvantaged" child, then points to three areas of change in education, one of them being "faith in a democratic society."

Let the DAR rise in conditioned response, I agree faith in democracy is important. But Havighurst and I part ways on this statement. He writes:

"... this is not easy in a society which they (students) see as complex and perhaps bent on its own destruction through suicidal war. Sensitive and intelligent young people may be tempted to lose faith in a society and in themselves in such a setting. Furthermore, they are just at the age when they are reading some of the 'sick' literature—'Lord of the Flies'; 'Catcher in the Rye,' and other such titles that portray the evil and confused side of human nature. If human beings are so evil, how can one hope to make a good society out of them?"

Can you imagine a Ph.D. either asking such a naive question, or posing such an untenable situation as keeping the bad side of our world from impressionable youth?

In the first place, "Lord of the Flies" portrays the savage, the intelligent and the pragmatic side of man. The book is highly symbolic, highly intelligent, and extremely well written. There is not a single "sick" line in it. There is intrigue, violence, beauty, love, respect—everything human in it.

"Catcher in the Rye" is J. D. Salinger's story of one of his super-sensitive young men from a prep school who is overwhelmed by the everyday triviality and complexity of life. There is nothing sick about it, and not one person who has ever read it can honestly say that the book, in some way, did not touch on his memory or experience.

Havighurst suffers from the barbarian's intolerance of things he cannot understand. We cannot protect our youth from reading books in the name of saving democracy, any more than we can kill every known communist in the name of the saving the union.

Both democracy, and active young minds must stand on their own merits. Otherwise, the enemy of ignorance from within becomes worse than the enemy of force without.

The evil and confused side of nature exists. No one knows it better than today's youth; they were, after all, probably more grieved over the death of John F. Kennedy than any other segment of the population. Young people need to read everything, good, bad or "sick," if you will, they can get their hands on.

That torch that Kennedy talked about passing to a new generation in his famous Inaugural Address... let's not pass the torch only half lighted.

In the meantime, I have my own suggestion for elimination of the "sick" elements of our world. Why not start with the Ajax "stronger than dirt" white-knight-on-a-silly-horse-advertisement, and the 'white tornado' commercial?

In any event, let us begin.

NBD film for novices

National Bank of Detroit this week announced the release of a new motion picture "How to Watch Pro Football" which it will make available to qualified groups through its 84 offices in the metropolitan area and its correspondent banks throughout Michigan.

The bank telecast the film in color on Wednesday (Sept. 8) on Channel 7 (WXYZ-TV) in Detroit.

"How to Watch Pro Football" is an exciting half-hour film in full color produced for NBD by National League Films, Inc., the official motion picture unit of the NFL.

THE MOVIE was designed to help viewers get more out of the game of football, whether they are avid fans or just casual observers. It was assembled from a film library of more than 100 recent NFL games — including Championship games.

The narration and commentary are handled by Frank Gifford, a CBS-TV sports announcer and former backfield star for the New York Giants, and by Ray Scott, the broadcasting voice of the Green Bay Packers and Minnesota Twins baseball team.

All of the plays shown are live-action performances by NFL stars, taken from actual game combat. Nothing had to be staged.

Each game was filmed in the unique, and costly, multiple-camera technique (4 to 7 cameras focused on each play). This means the same play can be repeated from a different angle of the field or stadium. Slow-motion and freeze-action devices are also used to illustrate the finer points of the game.

Some of the action covered in the film includes what to look for in the interior line; what is a 'prevent' defense; pass patterns; when do the pros use a screen pass; the line backer and what he does; the 'blitz' is studied in depth; what to look for on third down and long yardage; how to get a defender off balance; what is a hip fake; and what to look for in the final 60 seconds of the ball game.

Gridders go, go, go for season opener

PHS football practice continued in earnest this week, twice-a-day drills ending yesterday, with school beginning today (Thursday).

Head coach John McFall ran his team through intersquad practice, and kept up work on conditioning summer-sluggish bodies.

McFall's team opens next week against Northville, there.

McFall indicated Tuesday that three young quarterbacks are in the running — Dave Prochazka, Mike Cederberg and Steve Hulce. All three ran the team through pass drills Tuesday.

VETERANS in the backfield are the Rocks sole pre-season strong point. Jon Adams and Jim Arnold are jockeying for a left half back position; Curt Irish is the number one man in the right half slot.

Larry Warnemuende appears slated for the full back position.

Returning lettermen include Jerry Warnemuende, Steve Stribley, Jim Gears, Roger Smith, Bill Koslowski, Bill Ward, Torb Guenther, Joe Whitman and Jim Elias.

McFall also went out on a limb and pointed to three promising newcomers to varsity football — Ron Lowe, a defensive end, Dick Dyer and Tom Elias.

About 30 of the 90 men out for football will play on the JV squad under Coach Paul Cummings. Cummings said Tuesday that he had some promising talent from last year's skimpy junior high program.

That program is due for expansion soon.

Both squads will continue conditioning and offensive and defensive drill during the rapidly decreasing days before the Northville opener, Sept. 17.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE continued this week for PHS gridders with heavy emphasis on conditioning and basic patterns of play. Here, Tuesday, the three quarterback candidates took turns running the team in an intersquad scrimmage of sorts.

College eyes second year in sports

Several Schoolcraft cross-country men have been practicing for the opening of the season Sept. 24 under coach Tony Rizzo.

They open the season at Flint, with Flint and Muskegon.

Marvin Gans, director of Physical Education and athletics at the college, commented on Schoolcraft athletics in a recent letter to the Mail:

"Schoolcraft College, now in only its second year of operation, is looking forward to its first season of competition in the Michigan Community Junior College Athletic Conference.

"Schoolcraft will be competing in five sports in this school year, cross-country, basketball, swimming, golf, and tennis.

"It is of interest to note that there are only five of the thirteen colleges in the Community College Conference that participate in swimming.

"It is only with the cooperation of the boards of education and the recreation departments in the communities which the college serves, that this program can be operated.

"It is hoped that not having its own facilities will not deter both spectator and participant interest in the sports program at Schoolcraft."

A feast

The Plymouth Community Junior Baseball League's annual parent-player banquet will be held sometime late this month.

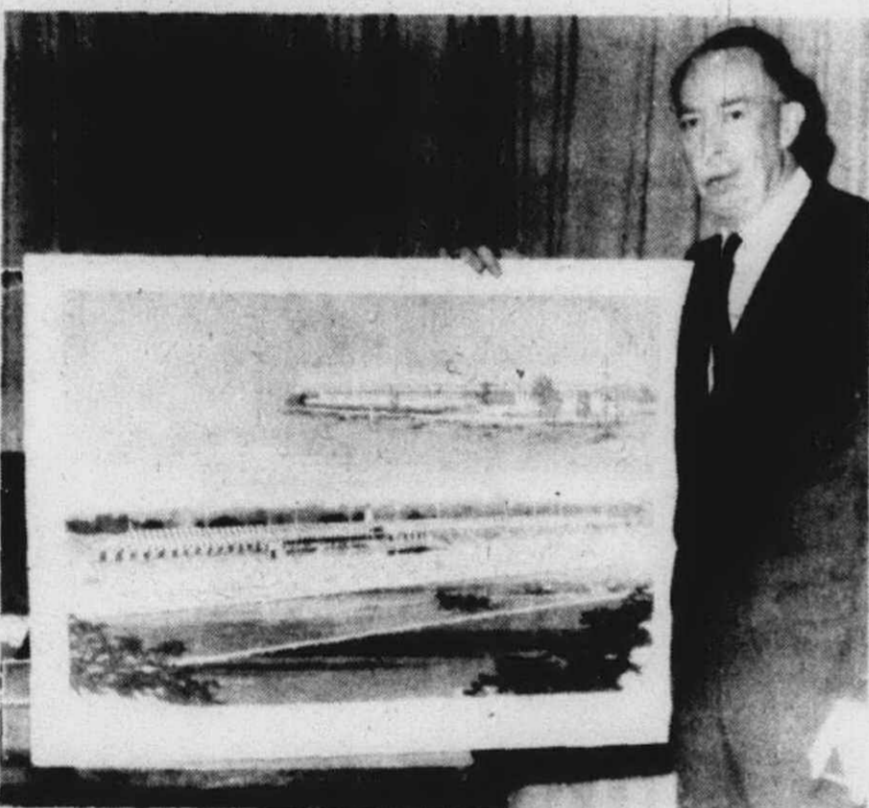

This was the announcement from league president Joe Bida.

Bida said Tuesday that the banquet will be held at the Elk's Hall as usual, but that a final date had not been set.

All players and parents are invited to the affair.

Irish trials

Mr. and Mrs. Ed McIvor, 40367 Ford Road (members of the Irish Setter Club of Michigan) invite participation in their club's annual Fall Field Trial on Sept. 18-19, at the Highland Recreation Area, Highland.

Thomas Foley qualified for judge post

Plymouth citizens will have the opportunity to vote for an unusually well-qualified man in the Sept. 14 special Third Judicial District primary. The man is Thomas Foley, a Detroit attorney who lives in Plymouth.

Foley will be one of 46 running in the election, a primary ordered by the legislature to add four men to the 20 judges presently on the Wayne County Circuit Court bench. The primary will narrow the 46 to eight for the election on Nov. 2.

Foley drew the endorsement of The Civic Searchlight, a highly respected non-partisan election newsletter. He, and Harry J. Dingeman, Jr., Charles Farmer, Cornelia Kennedy and George T. Martin were listed as "preferred and well qualified."

Foley comes to the primary with 15 years of solid and varied legal experience behind him. No corporate lawyer with a posh office, Foley spent six years as an assistant prosecuting attorney for Wayne County. He worked under then chief assistant Ralph Garber. Garber, now a trustee of Plymouth Township Board, referred last week to Foley as a "very able lawyer."

"I've known him a long time," Garber commented. "We used to ride back and forth from work. I have the greatest respect for him as a man as well as a lawyer."

Township Supervisor John McEwen issued a statement on Foley's candidacy last week.

"I welcome the opportunity," McEwen said, "to endorse the candidacy of Thomas J. Foley to the office of Circuit Court Judge of Wayne County. The position of respect and confidence which Mr. Foley holds in the community has been well earned. He is a man of the highest integrity and moral rectitude. In my close association with him during the past 15 years, I have come to admire in him the qualities of frankness, absolute honesty, even temper and sound judgement."

McEwen's words are sincere. "He's a good man," McEwen reports.

Foley has tried cases on both sides of the fence... as a prosecutor, and as defense counsel. He got a strong foundation of practical law during his six years as a prosecutor. His practice since has carried him all the way to the United States Supreme Court, trying cases for the individual and the big corporations.

His election would add a top man to the Wayne County Circuit Court, and would be a credit to Plymouth.

Fall Festival

ONE OF the many unique features of this barbecue is the corn-on-the-cob which is served. Picked fresh that morning, the corn is cooked in steam generated by a steam engine of the type used on farms before the advent of the modern tractor.

One of the many thrills that day is the shrill whistle of that engine which signals the opening of the barbecue at noon.

As in the past, a wide variety of entertainment and other activities will be available that Sunday. Among the many acts which will appear, this year's barbecue will again have the "Sweet Adelines."

The South Oakland County chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., is made up of nearly 80 non-professional women from the metropolitan Detroit area. Singing first-class barbershop harmony for fun, this group will be heard at 3 p.m.

Back again Sunday, Sept. 12, will be the parade of antique cars. Past visitors to the barbecue remember this impressive array of perfectly re-constructed antique cars of every year and make.

In keeping with this display of yesterday-year, will be the "turn-of-the-century" costumes worn by local residents. Judging of the best costume will be made Thursday evening, Sept. 9, by the Plymouth Historical Society.

Also winding up the festival will be the Antique Mart, sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League. Opening Friday, Sept. 10, the Antique Mart will close at 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 12.

Because of the wide variety of items shown by antique dealers from a wide area, this Mart has always proved to be a popular part of the festival.

You name it — you'll find it at the Plymouth Fall Festival Sept. 9 - 12.

THURSDAY'S opening night will find knockwurst and sauerkraut served by the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club.

Friday, the Lion's Club will hold their old-fashioned melon and ice cream social in the park that evening.

Saturday, the Kiwanis club will serve pancakes and sausage in the Masonic Temple from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Saturday evening will find square dancing in the park, with refreshments served from a chuck wagon operated by the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Four fun-filled days, the Plymouth Fall Festival offers activities for every member of the family. All roads lead to Plymouth, Sept. 9 - 12.

OLD CARS

The antique automobiles will be back with us again this year, Huron Valley Chapter, Veteran Motor Car Club with their vintage models of Fords, Buicks, and Maxwells and many others. Their proud owners are dressed in outfits of the same era, complete with dusters, bowlers, and sleeve garters.

ART

Three Cities Art Club comprised of many artists of the Plymouth and surrounding area will occupy one of the big parachutes in Kellogg Park. The art work will contain scenes which are familiar to all, of landmark buildings, landscapes, and still life. Don't miss the outstanding display of the Three Cities Art Club.

PEWTER

Joy Road Studios under the leadership of Mrs. Marion Sober will be presenting a group of art and handcraft exhibits. The life-like "Long John" paintings in primitive style are said to be most unusual. See pewter ware made before your eyes under the skilled hands of Mrs. L. H. Goddard. More than a dozen artists of the Plymouth area will be in this Joy Road Studio exhibit.

VIOLINS

The ancient and time consuming art of Violin Making will be both demonstrated and explained by Leo Kowalcik. Several violins in various stages of completion will be on display. Kowalcik is a craftsman who has created violins for several well known concert artists.

RADIO HAMS

A fast growing hobby and one that has hundreds of followers in Plymouth as well as throughout the whole country is the pursuit of Amateur Radio. Named in honor of a late Plymouth resident, Stu Rockefeller, this Amateur Radio club has been DX-ing and CQ-ing for some ten years.

Its membership roster includes auto dealers, engineers, shop-keepers, doctors, and students. On Fall Festival Saturday and Sunday they will be busy in the park talking by radio to people from all over the country.

HISTORY

The history of Plymouth has been kept accurately and devotedly by the Historical Society. Mementos and relics of a day gone by brings a twinge of nostalgia to mind. There is a living and growing history, and you may see the latest addition to the treasury of memory.

FLOWERS

The ladies of the Plymouth Garden club are to assemble one of the "best ever" displays at Calhoun Ford. This Garden Club display is under the direction of Mrs. Paul Wiedman. The Garden Club has always had a delightful display at the Festival.

Special election

Plymouthites will vote for eight of 46 candidates for the newly created Wayne County Circuit Court vacancy next Tuesday.

The special primary was ordered when the State legislature created four additional Wayne County Circuit Court posts. There are presently 20 in this, the Third Judicial District.

Thomas Foley, a Detroit attorney who lives in Plymouth, is a candidate for the election. Voters will ballot on Nov. 2, picking from the field of eight.

Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m., with anyone in line at 8 being able to vote. An extremely light turnout is predicted.

Township planners

Johnson reviewed land density plans with the members present, and discussed the route of I-275 and the Schoolcraft freeways.

Chairman of the planning commission, Irving Rozian, asked:

"Could the community have been more effectively planned if the City had been part of the plan?"

"No doubt," Johnson answered. "The center of Plymouth is the central business core of the City."

EDISON

Last week, this corner launched a short and not too sweet analysis of the fodder a newspaper is apt to get under the guise of "news."

"News," it seems, comes in many forms and dresses; and among the most prolific of the producers are professional and pseudo-professional groups.

The professionals, of course, are primarily medical doctors, doctors of dentistry and attorneys. Pseudo-professionals include education groups such as the monolithic Michigan Education Association — the glorified trade union of the teaching field, what Henry L. Mencken used to refer to as the practice of Chiroquackery and sundry other groups.

It is to the former group that this gentle little offering is directed. First, let's get a couple of things straight.

(1) I know medical men and attorneys spend many expensive years in colleges and universities.

(2) I know they spend a bundle when they begin their practices — often going in hock up to their ears.

(3) I know that the so-called "professional" restrictions against advertising were set up to prevent abuses by a relative minority of flamboyant practitioners.

But knowing all that, it still doesn't mean that every breath a professional man utters is worthy of publication as bona-fide news.

The local newspaper gets ream upon ream of material which is ostensibly editorial in nature. There are press releases from the American Medical Association, the American Bar Association, state medical and bar groups, and their local counterparts.

Very, very, very seldom do these groups design to drop a buck or two into the hopper in the form of advertising.

They are above it, you see.

So perhaps an explanation is due them: (1) Newspapers generally have a wad of dough invested in fantastically expensive plants and equipment.

(2) In order to meet expenses, every inch of news must be offset by a certain amount of advertising.

(3) There is just so much space in a given week for news.

No tickee, no washee. Recently the secretary of the Michigan Press Association, Elmer E. White, had this to say in his monthly column in The Michigan Publisher, a trade journal:

"For years we have grumbled about the medical and legal professions which have established ethical rulings that paid advertising is forbidden at the same time we have published stories which promoted medicine and law or doctors and lawyers.

"... When these professions perform their services, even to charity cases, (there) is provision for payment."

Yeah, you bet your sweet shirt there is. As a case in point, White presents the legal profession.

"At present," he writes, "lawyers, who are also told that it is unethical to work for less than $25 per hour, are promoting the idea (in news stories, of course,) that the government should provide legal advice in court cases for every one who can't afford it."

And so it goes.

Holy cow, when everyday Sam Stodge opens a haberdashery in town he buys a big ad to announce the fact and, normally, he will sheepishly inquire if he can have a news story on the opening.

But when Myron Mudnick, M.D. arrives, he drops in to ask for a news story, a good position please, and he couldn't announce it in an advertisement if he wanted to.

Newspapermen being what they are, the good doctor generally gets the story and the press gets the glory.

In addition it also gets handouts from the professional's trade association, occasional pictures of the man at conventions, another news story when he leaves town and someone temporarily assumes his practice, still another story when he moves his office, and more glory.

When he dies and a new man arrives, the cycle starts over.

Put!

I value the friendships I have struck up over the years with professional men. They are, by and large, witty, intelligent, articulate men.

But they squirm when the conversation veers into the area of professional non-advertising.

Essentially, they have been victimized by rules that were set up in the days of the Golden West when self-styled medics advertised their skill at digging out 45 slugs or sawing off shot up limbs and barristers ballyhooed their ability to save a cowpoke from the hangman's hempy embrace.

There is no reason why a doctor or lawyer couldn't run simple, dignified advertisements carrying only name and location.

But the stupid professional associations won't let him.

And, as long as newspapers give them a free ride, they never will.

Treasures from Plymouth pantries

PARING the pears for her "Pear Pie" is Mrs. Donald Tapp who is sharing her recipe this week. She says the sauce which you pour over the baked pie really is delicious.

Now that pears are in season, a Pear Pie suggested by Mrs. Donald Tapp of Gov. Bradford Rd. really should be on the menu. Mrs. Tapp said she has used this recipe for many years after reading it in a daily newspaper.

The mother of two Junior High students, Joy, 11, and Terry, 13, Mrs. Tapp enjoys sewing as well as antiqueing and refinishing furniture. She has antiques several pieces of furniture in her home. She said she also enjoys making hats.

The Tapps have been Plymouth residents for 12 years, moving here from Allen Park. Mr. Tapp is controller for the George F. Alger Trucking Co. in Detroit.

heard before the City will take the next step, a $750 study of the particulars of the proposal.

THE SYMAR SUB group complained about open basements, dug in January, that have become a health and safety hazard. They urged that the City Commission order them filled immediately, and at one point gave Commissioner George Hudson a round of applause for suggesting doing just that.

Richard Lake who lives in the area spoke on the problem.

"Water stands in the basements, and there is broken glass down there. Somebody's going to get hurt, or worse... killed. They should be filled up, or built on."

John Hinkly, 960 Fairground, said the open basements were "serious health, traffic and safety problems for the area."

The builder, who recently purchased the land, had indicated to City Manager Richard Blodgett earlier in the day that he was tied up with FHA financing.

The Commission decided to move on the matter, declaring them an immediate nuisance and ordered them filled. It will take several days, (until next Monday) for the contract for the earthmoving to be let. In the meantime, Blodgett is to seek word on the finances.

Commissioner George Lawton urged the extra time be given to the builder, and said he felt until next Monday would be long enough.

THE COMMISSION also asked the fire department and building department to inspect all apartments for violation of the building code. His action came in the wake of a basement fire at the newly constructed Crestwood Apartments last spring.

The fire had been started by a faulty incinerator, and had shot up cold air ducts and interior walls to first and second floor apartments.

The incinerators and several fire stops and other fire hazards have since been fixed.

In other action, the Commission:

- Awarded a contract for street marking to the Martin Stripping Service, of Plymouth.
- Approved plans for an alteration of the front of the Pease Paint and Wallpaper Store, 570 S. Main.
- Approved plans for a boulevard entrance to the City's huge new subdivision, New England Village on Territorial Road.
- Received for study two detailed reports from City finance officer, Kenneth Way, on the equipment fund, and on the 1965 street improvement program.

Attorney Edward Draugelis explained the ruling from the Fire Marshall's office, State Police Headquarters. He said that state law provided a maintenance clause which could require the repair of a defect in wiring, improper equipment or the removal of rubbish piles.

"Have we done everything we could to bring the buildings up to standards?" Vallier asked.

He was told yes.

Commissioner Arch Vallier had asked for the report as part of his campaign to improve fire protection measures in the City's apartments. HOUK NOTED that the building will be debt-retired from operating profits, at no cost in local taxes.
The structures, three of them, will have a "lot of the colonial atmosphere," Houk said. The site is to be within a half-mile of the Central Business District of the City.
Houk pointed out that the original concept was a five-story building. The decisions on the building come up for federal review in Chicago in the near future.

"Our right to progress"

Man's inalienable rights have deep spiritual roots. They grow the strongest when one grows spiritually — in a life governed by God. Hear a one-hour public lecture, "Our Right to Progress," by LENORE D. HANKS, member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Come to Church

NIGHT and DAY

In mills and factories across the country, they never stop working. By night as well as by day, the wheels of commerce grind out the goods we need as a nation.
It's a twenty-four hour job, this business of production, and it's a vital job — to you, your family, your town, our whole country. Like most vital jobs, it can't be stopped.
Faith is a vital job, too. It isn't simply something that God gives you, free of charge, on Christmas and at Easter. You have to work for real faith. You have to earn it. You have to keep at it.
Fortunately, to help you gain and sustain this vital faith, you have the Church to guide you. Start attending every Sunday and there absorb the wonders of God's teachings.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read your Bible daily:
(1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Mike
Ross

The last word

Editor's note: This is the final column for young columnist Ross, who is presently in Florida attending college.)

I love Plymouth. I know that's a rather odd thing to say after the continual, seemingly endless, bludgeoning I've given it, but it's the truth. In anything great there's still room for improvement and that's why I did what I did.

No one can sit back and say, "Well, I've created something outstanding, I'll stop." The reason it's outstanding disappears just over the period on the end of that sentence.

I'm not blind to the fact that economically Plymouth has soared to never-thought-of heights, that business has boomed to fantastic proportions and that our city is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful and modern in the state. I'm proud, proud as a new father, to say I live here.

I realize that I've expressed many ideas that a great deal of people thought the worst of me for. That's only human.

If I'd written material that everyone agreed with, such as recipes, or news from Hoboken Village, I would have been an unbearable failure. I was delighted when anyone asked me what the hell I said something for, and then stuck around to find out.

PEOPLE argued and agreed, screamed and were mute. All had their own opinions which they'd stand up and fight for, and for which I admired them immensely.

It's literally impossible to say which one got the most reaction, and I could really care less. If only one of my articles got only one person to think, it was, in my own mind, a success.

If I began to list every one who's ever helped in writing this column it would be endless. Certainly parents are an inexhaustible well of ideas, at least mine are. And thank heavens they are.

Another person that I owe endless thanks to is my right hand — the one responsible for a vast horizon of new opinions, and most of all for her undying stamina in faithfully typing this article up every week, Dianna Pry.

THE THIRD is a young man to whom I owe, entirely, my love and style of writing and to whom I'll respect and admire forever, Mr. Larry Ordowski.

Dave Wiley is the fourth factor, I'm proud to say. He is the one responsible for letting me start on the paper and for standing behind me through stormy as well as calm seas.

But Florida beckons. Fifteen-hundred miles is a long way, and ten months is an eternity, to be away from home. Even as this is being read I'll probably be trudging around some dreadfully hot football field thinking of the blessed cool breezes and gold and orange trees sweeping across Michigan.

Thanks for being tolerant, and may God bless and keep our town.

26 HELP WANTED - MALE OR FEMALE

This is Stanley West.
He is our used car appraiser.
Lately he has been missing things like dents, paint scratches, oil leaks and worn out tires.
We decided to take a collection for a new pair of glasses.
The eye doctor tells us that Stanley's problem is unique and a special order had to be made to the optical company . . . As a result, his new glasses will not be ready for another two weeks.
So maybe if you hurry you can still get a REAL GOOD DEAL on one of the few new '65 Mercys we have left.

FIDO
Boy: Was I in the dog house. My old car was a classic calamity on wheels and me with no cash and another six months to go on payments.

Then I sighted Bob Mallory's Arbor Chrysler-Plymouth dealership on Ann Arbor Rd. (you know where he is, at Lilley). I'd heard about the great deals he has been giving on his '65 stock so I decided to drop anchor next time I chugged by.

What do you know... they handed me cash for my old car and let me talk them into just $58.90 per month on a brand new '65 Plymouth Fury.

It's more fun to have a title in your hand than one over the door... try it.

ELECTRIC HOME HEATING

Now Sold and Installed in Western Wayne County by DETROIT EDISON

Here's important news! Especially if you're wondering how best to replace a fired out, old heating system. Or if you have a newly added room to heat. Or a room that's always been chilly.

All you have to do is phone or stop at your Edison Office. One of our Electric Heating Specialists will gladly call on you. He'll give you an estimate on the cost to install electric heat. He will recommend a system best suited to your needs. Then, if you'd like, he'll arrange for installation and financing. You'll get all the exclusive benefits of flameless electric heat PLUS the same prompt and considerate service you've come to expect from Detroit Edison.

HOW ABOUT ELECTRIC HEAT OPERATING COSTS?

Electric heat costs more than other types of home heating, but you will be surprised at how little more when you consider how much you gain in comfort and convenience.

And there's an All-Electric Domestic Rate which can reduce all your electrical operating costs, including those for electric heat. Yes, when your home is heated electrically throughout and when the major appliances you have are all electric, you qualify for a lower electrical rate.

Remember, if you'd like to know more about electric heat and the All Electric Rate, just stop or call your Edison office. It costs nothing to get the facts!

P.S. Recent downward rate adjustments can make supplemental electric heating lower in cost too. Supplemental electric heat's just the thing for cold corners and always-chilly rooms.

Personal service . . .

A business must develop personal service slowly, over the years. Famous Men's Wear has done just that. They remember names, even if you buy only once or twice a year. This is personal service at its most personal.

They, like this salesman here, not only show you a suit, but what shirt, what ties and maybe even what socks will go with it the best. Personal service was a long time in developing here.

Salesmen at Famous Men's Wear listen to what you ask for. As a result, several new brands have been added. . . Puritan, Jockey, Martin of California, Tom Sawyer.

The store sports the colonial look of The Plymouth Community, a look recently added. And the store wears the look with pride, because it is staffed and run by Plymouth people who, like the rest of Plymouth's businessmen add that personal touch because . . .

. . . Plymouth people care

MORE than just crowing . . .

While Chambers of-Commerce are traditionally expected to crow about their area, The Plymouth Community Chamber sees its role as far greater.

Under the auspices of the Plymouth Chamber, active programs designed to foster community action in education, housing, labor and good business practices are carried on.

In addition, the Chamber can provide detailed information on population and projected population, professional personnel, raw materials, recreation, retail shopping, utilities and truck and rail transportation.

Chamber personnel not only know The Plymouth Community is a fine place in which to live or locate your business, they can detail why.

Which, in itself, is something to crow about.

No commercialism

If this is your first visit to Plymouth's Fall Festival, you will notice that one aspect is missing—a feature that often goes hand in hand with community promotions in other areas.

The Fall Festival Committee, in agreement with large retailing merchants, engage in no large retailing promotions and sales during the four-day festival.

They prefer to maintain their traditional policy of offering quality goods at fair prices. Their store windows are decorated in keeping with the Fall Festival theme.

Gaylord container part of giant paper company

As part of the family of Crown Zellerbach Corp., the second largest paper company in the world, the Gaylord Container Division has been part of the Plymouth Community since 1958.

Located on General Drive, Gaylord Container produces corrugated boxes. In 1964 the Plymouth plant was the largest of the three sheet plants in operation.

The Plymouth box plant and sales office sells 155,000,000 square feet of board at a dollar value of $2,591,254. Annual gross sales of Gaylord Division in 1964 were approximately $96,000,000.

Founded in 1920, Gaylord merged with Crown Zeller-

HELPING guide the Gaylord plant in Plymouth are J. P. Tarantino IV, plant manager; William Davis, production manager; and George Burrows, business office manager.

Through the Gaylord Division, the company operates a shipping container plant in key market areas of the country and the Gaylord box and packer can form the box, traditionally stands as the symbol of quality in the container industry.

This equipment is used in railroad freight cars and truck trailers to prevent damage to loading and to car structure, to permit maximum use of car capacity, in addition to its major activity—railroad equipment.

The Transportation Equipment Division also manufactures and distributes nationally automotive equipment, material handling containers and low temperature warehouses. The Division's plants are located in Plymouth, Grand Rapids and Annapolis, Michigan, and in Annapolis, Maryland.

Gaylord Container

Our corrugated box containers are designed for use by our customers for shipping, for preservation, for strength and shock resistance. They are created for eye appeal in the store, durability in transit, for ease in handling and storing.

But for you it's a mundane thing in your everyday world—plain, and useful.

This fall you'll use one to collect leaves; in one, you use them as catchalls and as waste paper baskets.

The kids use the big ones as play houses, and you use the small ones to mail cookies to a daughter at college or a son in service.

They are handy, clean, neat.

And they are always available, because millions of items are shipped in them, from strawberries to missile parts.

Gaylord Container, a division of Crown Zellerbach Corporation, operates a corrugated box plant in Plymouth. Of the three sheet plants in the division the Plymouth plant is the largest.

Corrugated cardboard boxes . . . an everyday item with years of research and technology behind them . . . made in Plymouth, and other Gaylord Container plants across the country.

The Plymouth Pilgrim

By DAVE WILEY

As a relative newcomer to The Plymouth Community a year ago, it was with some degree of disbelief that I listened to stories of the Fall Festival. "Nothing," I told myself, "could be that good."

But I was wrong. Last year, I saw this community gear itself for a four-day celebration that seemed completely beyond its scope. And, as Plymouth has a habit of doing, it all went off according to schedule.

Achievement records were broken. Participating organizations. Attendance records were smashed by participating organizations. Enjoyment records were blasted, to all outward appearances, by those who attended.

The Plymouth Community, I have come to realize, has more going for it than any other area of its size that I have seen.

A visit during the Fall Festival gives you only an inkling. If you come back another time to see us under more normal circumstances, you will learn as I have that Plymouth Community people have an insatiable urge to be doing things.

Not only that, they get things done. Things like good government, things like a symphony orchestra that plays second fiddle to none, things like an industrial development program that has worked wonders, and things like a school system that's known for quality with a capital 'Q.'

There's a warmth here in The Plymouth Community that's second to no other area I know. So, come back and see us.

But maybe I'd better warn you. If you do come back to Plymouth, you stand a chance of becoming addicted.

You might end up wanting to locate your home here, or your business.

That wouldn't be so bad, though. You couldn't pick a better place.

PLYMOUTHS all over the world have received letters from this group of Campfire Girls, who are preparing a friendship tree for the Fall Festival. They are: Susie Armstrong, Kathy Toubey, Kathleen Meier, Laura MacQueen, Peggy Bradburn and Shelby Dean. They and the rest of the girls in the group have received answers from as far away as New Zealand.

Campfire Girls write Plymouths world over

The Ma-Ha-Ta Campfire Girls have written to pen pals in all the Plymouths of the world as part of a display they are preparing for the Fall Festival. It's part of their "Think Big - Widen Your World" annual project. Plymouths in Pen pals in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Massachusetts, family.

The pen pals are represented on a friendship tree by the leaves with the trunk representing the sponsors, and the limbs the members. The tree will be displayed in a booth at the Fall Festival where all the Campfire Girls and five Blue Bird groups will be selling baked goods, Saturday, Sept. 11.

Got a question you need answered? Need some detailed information on The Plymouth Community and what makes it tick? Or would you just like to talk to someone about Plymouth?

Then The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce is the place for you.

The Chamber is located in the large yellow brick building just across the street from the Mayflower Hotel on Main St. Inside, you'll find friendly Fran Booth, the organization's full-time co-ordinator and well of information.

If Mrs. Booth can't answer your questions, chances are she can refer you to someone who can.

Credit Union offers free meeting room, helps band

One of the boosters for the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union located at 500 S. Harvey.

One of its services to the community is the maintenance of a meeting room which will seat up to 100 persons for any community purpose. There is no rental charge and a kitchen is available for light refreshments. Call Mrs. Chandler, 453-1200, for reservations.

The Credit Union has also contributed space to the YMCA Youth Employment Service over the years. Located in an office of the building, the employment service is free to the young people and offers jobs such as baby sitting, cook, bookkeeper, cashier or delivery man.

Another Credit Union project is the sponsorship of the Plymouth Community Band. Without this sponsorship, the Friday evening summer band concerts in Kellogg Park would not be heard.

PLYMOUTH:

Sense of uniqueness, special identity

For the past month a wood cut-out of a stately colonial buxer has stood in Kellogg Park in Plymouth. He heralds the Fall Festival days, and stands as one of the symbols of the unique character of the Plymouth Community.

The Plymouth Community is the 35-sq. mile area served by the Plymouth Community School District, which covers all of the City of Plymouth. Plymouth is located 25 miles from the heart of Detroit, and 16 miles from Ann Arbor.

A few years back, community leaders watched Plymouth begin to awaken as a booming suburb of the Metropolitan Detroit area. As they watched they became determined to make Plymouth a little bit different.

So, before too many bulldozers had turned over land, the "colonialization" of Plymouth began.

A CAMPAIGN was started to give a colonial atmosphere to the whole community, remodeling buildings with that theme. The Plymouth Mail, the Mayflower Hotel, Plymouth City Hall, the Dunning-Hough library, and the First Federal Savings and Loan building adopted the theme.

Several recent structures have also adopted the colonial look. They include the Michigan Bank on the corner of Sheldon and Ann Arbor Roads, the new facade on the D.S.I. building, and the recently remodeled I.O.O.F. year.

NATE S. SHAPERO, noted Detroit business leader and philanthropist, shows Mary Ellen Gedman, Money Museum receptionist, the coin press recently added to the historic museum collection. Shapero is chairman of Cunniffham Drug Stores, Inc., and a director of the National Bank of Detroit.

NBD issues coin to fete Fall Festival

The National Bank of Detroit began its four-day observance of the Plymouth Fall Festival with the issuance of a special commemorative coin as a souvenir of the community's annual festival.

Two days of open house activities, featuring special historic displays and old fashioned costumes, are scheduled for regular banking hours Thursday and Friday at the NBD-Plymouth Office on Main Street.

Plymouth group vice president Floyd A. Kehrl said the historic displays have been gathered from bank archives and from material on loan from the Plymouth Historical Society. They trace the history and growth of banking in the community and illustrate the development through the years of NBD facilities as the city's local bank.

The NBD-Plymouth Office will also introduce a new type of coin (similar to the one taken struck for Founders Days) following the Civil War.

SERVING THE PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY

What is the Fall Festival?

By now, as you walk through downtown Plymouth, you're probably asking yourself, "Just what is this Fall Festival?"

"How did it come about?" "What is its purpose?"

Well, briefly, The Plymouth Community Fall Festival is an annual celebration of the Plymouth Rotary Club's annual chicken dinner.

This year, even more is on tap.

Rotary is gearing for 12,500 dinners. Kiwanians will turn out even more pancakes and sausage. JayCees will serve a beef rib dinner and chuck wagon snacks and Lions will produce another old-fashioned ice cream and melon social.

Entertainment? There's whatever your heart desires, including instrumental music, a calliope, folk-singers, an organ grinder, dancers, barbershoppers, a square dance and community singing.

Kids can enter anything from a turtle to a pet frog in a show especially designed for them.

For detailed information on when and where things happen at the Fall Festival, please turn to page 9C.

Meanwhile, The Plymouth Community welcomes you. Enjoy yourself.

IT HAS bloomed from a small service club into a fantastic four-day series of events that, last year, drew more than 40,000 persons to The Plymouth Community.

Dynavoice unique Plymouth product

Two short years ago Paul Richards came to Plymouth with a head full of ideas, a satchel full of market statistics, a few rough designs on paper for a new musical product, and an enthusiasm that sold everyone who took the time to listen to him. The result—Dynavoice.

The Dynavoice Portable Piano Player, has been developed in Plymouth to help those "regular pianos" enjoy good player piano music.

Now that the music roll manufacturers are in full swing making piano rolls with not only the old time tunes, but with all the latest tunes as well, there are thousands of selections available on rolls.

Player pianos have enjoyed an outstanding rebirth of interest over the past few years. Those people who had old player pianos in the basement have pulled them out and had them rebuilt. In most cases, the old "pumpers" have been replaced with electric vacuum motors.

People who have had no piano, have been out searching for "used player pianos."

As a result, used player pianos that are rebuilt and in good working condition frequently bring up to five hundred dollars. The cost of rebuilding a vacuum motor, and installing a vacuum motor, etc., now runs up to four hundred dollars.

THE PIANO manufacturers own.

The Dynavoice Portable Piano Player operates on a full 88 note piano signal is picked up from the tracker bar, just as it was in the old player pianos.

It was manufactured to sell at a reasonably low price, so that the vast majority of people owning pianos could enjoy it. This was accomplished by building high production tooling at the very start. As a result, the Dynavoice Portable Piano Player will retail for only $349.50.

Quiet Excitement

There is a quiet excitement at Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company today.

We've spent the last few months adding life to our dreams and spark to our ideas.

Success has come quickly, but only after long months of thought and work by many people. It is the result of our belief that 'as you sow, so shall ye also reap.' The belief is old and simple — service to the customer and integrity in all things will bring ample rewards.

You've heard the phrases... 'fastest growing life insurance company in the world'... '$100 million in force'... '$37 million dollar producers.'

We would tempt the unbeliever to loiter a moment at our doorstep.

The hundreds who participated in our formation experienced a unique sense of satisfaction when Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company was formed. That feeling has not gone away; indeed, it has grown — making us even more certain that what we have done is of value and is in keeping with our creed:

WE BELIEVE:

In God and human dignity; In individual freedom guarded by individual responsibility; And in a free market economy With a government limited to Defending the God-given rights of man.

THE STAGE FROM ANN ARBOR, shown here in front of the Adams Hotel, was the only way the Plymouth citizens received their news of the Civil War a few years later than this picture. Two "town pumps" show up—one at the right of the picture and one in front of the hotel. Ten years later the Village of Plymouth was incorporated at a meeting in this hotel. No pavement! No lights! No autos!

A HISTORY:

Indian crossing now Plymouth

The Main St. planks served to connect "Plymouth Corners" centered around Main St. and Ann Arbor Tr. with the main road. After this about 1870 when the railroad had no more hard surface roads until 1906 when the Main St. brick pavement was laid.

This rural type community continued until about 1870 when the railroad arrived. One depot was at the north end of Union St. on what is now the D.S.I. property, and the other in the present location of the C & O station.

With the coming of the railroad, small factories became numerous, and the people who kept coming from the east to add to Plymouth's population were of the same substantial stock as our founding fathers.

These families bought land, brought up their children and breathed a high pride in Plymouth as a place to live. They founded good schools and good churches which Plymouth has continued to maintain.

By 1860 a map of Wayne County shows that Plymouth now has one name, instead of the four communities of Northville, Waterford, Plymouth (more recently called "lower town") and Plymouth Corners.

However, it is still divided physically. There is still a gap in the Plymouth Plank Rd., on the neighborhood of the present railroad crossing, where there are no buildings. By the time the railroad came, the old plank road went out of existence.

IN A 1959 map one can see the crooked layout of the streets in Plymouth. Improvements have been made, but in the 1958 map between Mill St. and Plymouth Rd. a road starting from what is now Grand River and West Chicago ending at Northville is not one single street north the use of the new Village Hall began. One side continued that it was to be used purely for business purposes — the other that it should also be an entertainment center in the village.

It seems the enterprising group won, since history notes that in those days, Plymouth was noted for "exceptional theatrical talents" and many splendid entertainments were given in the new hall.

Apparently the hall was used both for council meetings, elections, band practices and also concerts, plays, church services, banquets and like gatherings, causing the citizens to wonder how they had been able to run the affairs of the village without it.

UNTIL 1918, when a commission type of government was adopted, Plymouth was under the council system. Since 1918, the commissions have been made up of substantial business men and women of high character.

Their only intent has been the good of their home town and in making Plymouth a fine place to live. The executives have been civil engineers or men trained in municipal administration.

A stable government has thus prevailed and the city has largely been without the local squabbles afflicting some cities. In 1932 Plymouth became a full-fledged city. There are now some 8,700 citizens living under its local government.

In recent years Plymouth has grown at a steady pace with no boom development. The continuance of the old fashioned image of Plymouth has made it attractive to many families who have moved here. They agree with the city's motto: "A City of Homes" and also can use the old slogan revised to read "In Plymouth, Life is Worth Living".

This growth in the number of homes in Plymouth, where life is worth living, has some effects in this modern day that bring problems to city government.

A GOVERNMENT runs on money raised by taxation and service charges. But residential property, no matter how important in Plymouth's image, does not contribute in taxes the necessary municipal funds. Our commercial establishments, roughly adequate for our local needs, about return their costs of government. So, to balance Plymouth's budget of property against taxes, reliance must be placed on the industrial property.

During the last several years many new industries have become part of Plymouth's tax base.

From its history it is certain that Plymouth must remain a residential community — attractive to its present citizens and to possible newcomers.

Besides being a "City of Homes," Plymouth has advantages of a cultural nature equal to those of most of the cities the size of Plymouth. Just to name a few, there are the Plymouth Symphony Society, Civic Chorus, Theater Guild, Tri-City Art Society, service clubs and many more.

All these facts of good city government, good churches and schools, cultural advantages, and a small town atmosphere make Plymouth attractive to some idea of residence. It grows on those coming here by transfer.

It is the same atmosphere which is so satisfactory to those who have lived here long enough to be classed as "old timers".

and south for half the depth of the city.

And not a single street runs east and west for more than half a mile — and only one or two that long.

Before the railroads, as with most pioneer settlements, local industry got an early start. Among the first flour, lumber and cloth mills saw mill and carding mill were in operation very soon. Later a canning factory was built and tanning mills and iron wind mills were manufactured.

Still later air rifles, with the Daisy Manufacturing Co. being Plymouth's own industry.

One of Plymouth's first industries was the Plymouth Mills run by S. Hardenbergh on Mill, or Wilcox Rd. where the Wayne County maintenance yard now stands. Henry Ford bought the old mill and replaced it with the building now on the site. This old mill ground flour until after 1920 when it was owned by John and George Wilcox.

With a somewhat booming community arising, Plymouth began to consider a Village Hall. On March 18, 1889 the village clerk presented to the village council a petition signed by leading taxpayers and voters asking that the question of a $2,000 loan for use in building a Village Hall be added at the regular spring election.

AFTER MUCH discussion and voting, a piece of land on Main St., the site of the old City Hall, was bought for $750.

By June 26 a proposal to build the Village Hall, 45 feet frontage and 80 feet deep, was adopted by the council. The total cost of the building was $4,519. On Jan. 6, 1900 the building was accepted as completed.

The Townships are closely allied with county government, and rely on them for police protection, road maintenance and many other services.

Inter-governmental relations are good, and various exploratory talks have been held by leaders of the three governments over the past few months concerning uniting police protection, such as police protection, and establishing a recreation authority to serve the area.

Public school officials look for 8700 students by 1967. Plans for the future include a new high school, (after six more rooms are added on the present one), elementary schools, and a new elementary school in the Lake Pointe area.

The three municipal governments — Plymouth and Canton Townships, and the City of Plymouth, are all in the midst of federal-supported master plan studies. In the City, plans call for urban renewal areas, senior citizens' housing, and improvement of the central shopping district.

IN PLYMOUTH Township, master planning is co-ordinated with the already existing subdivisions and soon to come new developments. Township plans call for an industrial park north of the C&O tracks along Sheldon Road, extension of sewer and water to the outlying districts, and utilization of the neighborhood unit plan.

In Canton, work centers around attracting developers to raw farm land, and extending utility lines to service new areas.

Plymouth has long been industry-conscious. The government, and several private individuals have worked long hours to attract new industry to Plymouth.

The problem came to the fore when the Daisy Air Rifle Company transferred its operations to Rodgers, Arkansas.

The loss left a large industrial complex vacant, and the problem resulted in the creation of the Industrial Development Corporation. They were successful in bringing a tenant, Distribution Services Inc., to the buildings.

Since THEN, the IDC has been active in finding industry for Plymouth.

The City formed an industrial park on land across from Burroughs on Plymouth Road and rapidly sold off the industrial plots. The City also undertook an urban renewal project along Mill Street, and encouraged industrial expansion of Bathing Manufacturing Co., and of the Duratiner Corporation.

The Township of Plymouth has recently set aside a vast 150 acre plot of land north of the C & O tracks for industrial use. They are also watching industrial development along Mill street next to the present Welduction and all day on Saturday.

Another agency, the Plymouth Area Planning Commission, was formed to encourage co-ordinated planning of the entire Plymouth Community, and to encourage industrial development.

New Michigan Bank building to open soon

With construction well under way, the Michigan Bank will be opening its new building at the corner of Ann Arbor and Sheldon Rds. in the very near future.

The bank has been in operation at the site in a trailer for almost a year.

As part of a proposed shopping mall, the $350,000 bank building will be a credit to The Plymouth Community. With its colonial styling, the branch bank will be located on a 150 by 150 foot portion of the nine acre shopping center site.

Michigan Bank vice president Edwin Jones stated recently that the shopping center, with the bank included, can be a community center. The Michigan Bank is open every day from 9:30 to 4:30 and all day on Saturday.
