Administration to make a quick study of the situation on an overall basis and report back at Monday's meeting with facts and figures. Blunk made the Administration's report and told the Board a change in policy, involving transportation for grades three through five, would add 378 to the daily load from the public schools with additions from the parochial schools that would boost the total to 426.

"We estimate this would require an additional two buses and drivers and would cost the school system $13,000 for the buses and $15,000 for the drivers," he said.

Blunk broke down the figures as follows: Allen, 71 more; Bird, 134; Farrand, 56; Gallimore, 34; and Smith, 83.

In his report, Blunk pointed out that the additions would come from all sections except one in which there were no sidewalks available for the students.

debtedness resulting from sewer and water expansion over the past seven years.

The debt retirement schedule calls for the bonds to be repaid by the year 2000, but with further Township expansion looming large on the horizon sewer and water indebtedness may be expected to increase before it starts to decrease noticeably.

The Township's property owners will be greeted by a considerably larger tax increase than just the half-mill hike when they open their statements this winter.

The 3.25 - mill additional school tax, when equalized for the Township, is expected to cause a boost of about $4 per $1,000 of assessed valuation across the Township.

In other matters last week, the Township Trustees became embroiled in a problem involving the payment of $98 in bills which resulted when firemen fighting the recent gas well explosion on Shearer Drive-were fed hamburgers and coffee during the course of their efforts.

The price of a carton of cigarettes was included in the bills. In considering the matter, the Trustees estimated that some 150 hamburgers were provided. The fire-fighting chore lasted approximately 22 hours. Trustee Ralph Garber was particularly opposed to the idea of the Township having to pay

He and Fire Captain Barney Maas engaged in heated discussion over the merits of the subject with Maas contending it was a responsibility of the Township to feed the firemen, many of whom were from Canton, Salem and Northville.

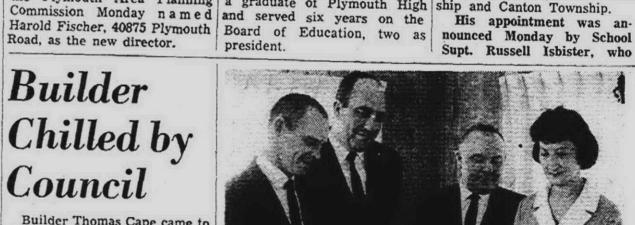

Trustee Elizabeth Holmes noted that it was the first time, ney's office. in her memory, such a bill had been submitted. Garber remarked that paying the bill would set a precedent.

Diabetes Experts to Speak

Dr. Hubert Baker, Executive Director of the Michigan Diabetes Association, will head a program on "The Adult Diabetic" in the Community Room of Livonia Mall Shopping Center. Middlebelt at Seven Mile Road, 8 p.m. Thursday, September 23.

The meeting is designed to provide basic information on the work of the MDA and discuss possible formation of a Livonia-Farmington unit of the association.

Herbert Eiges, chairman of the Lay Society of MDA will speak on organizational matters and the movie, "If You Have Diabetes," will be shown.

Following the film, a question and answer period will be con-ducted with participation by Dr. Herbert W. Rossin, M.D., and nutritionist, Mary Griffin, of St. Mary Hospital, Livonia. There is no admission charge for the program.

Livonia Ford Plant Gets Safety Award

Three Detroit-area facilities are among 15 Ford Division locations that have earned National Safety Council citations for superior on-the-job safety

Announcement of the awards was made by Howard Pyle, National Safety Council president.

Locally, the division's National Parts Depot, 29500 Plymouth Rd., Livonia, earned an Award of Merit, and Certificates of Commendation were granted the Detroit Area Distribution and Packaging Group, located in Ford's Highland Park tractor plant on John R., and the Industrial Engine Department, which has operations at both the Highland Park plant and Ford's Detroit Parts Depot, 12723 Telegraph Road.

Other Safety Council awards were made to 12 Ford parts de-

"These National Safety Council tributes are the result of cooperation in safety programs by Ford men and women who realize the importance of onthe-job safety," E. B. Rickard, Ford Division parts and service manager, said.

Employes at the National Parts Depot worked 2,266,320 man hours without a disabling injury from July 16, 1963 through Dec. 31, 1964, to earn the Safety Council's second highest honor.

Employes at the Detroit Area Distribution and Packaging Group, and the Industrial Engine Department worked 818,378 and 300,089 man hours respectively, from Jan. 1, 1963 through the end of last year, to earn their citations.

The awards followed evaluation of 1964 injury rates at all Ford Division facilities.

The department has temporarily taken over the operation of the city's refuse dump in Salem Township until a new contractor is found. The contractor, who had handled the work for the past two years, resigned recently due to health reasons.

DPW workers were busy last week cleaning up Kellogg Park, opening Penniman Ave. from S. Main to Union, removing banners and getting everything in the central downtown business section back to normal after the four-day Fall Festival.

The business section was swept, two funerals were held at Riverside Cemetery and workers continued the mowing and cleaning there. A fire hydrant, damaged by an accident on Penniman, was replaced.

A basement at the corner of Hartsough and Fairground in the Symar Subdivision, that had been left open by the developer for several months, was filled as a safety measure. Then the contractor moved in with his equipment and finished filling all of the open basements. He had planned on using the basements for homes but FHA approval was slow in coming and he had to go ahead with the fillins in accordance with an order from the city.

Several traffic signs were replaced and others repaired. Voting machines were moved into the precincts on Monday and removed Tuesday after the elec-

Madonna Gets $5,000 Grant

"Mrs. Frances S. Willson of 10001 Genesee Bank Building, Flint, has donated $5000 to Madonna College," announced Sister M. Danatha, President of Madonna.

The contribution represents a share of the seventh annual grant to the Michigan Colleges Foundation by Mrs. Willson The grant for 1965 is $61,000; the total of Mrs. Willson's contributions to the Michigan Colleges Foundation is now $236,-

"Mrs. Willson is one of the voluntary supporters of privately controlled colleges who has come to realize that systematic voluntary giving and private enterprise go hand in hand; that funding the freedom of our independent colleges is not a charity, but a wise business investment." Sister Danathe said.

Mrs. Gemperline Head of DAR Program To Give State Park Pines

Mrs. Walter Gemperline, of Plymouth, state conservation chairman of the Daughter of the American Revolution and conservation chairman of the Sarah Ann Cochrane in Plymouth, was in charge of a program last week when the State DAR dedicated 33 acres of Memorial Pines to the Huron National Forest near Glennie.

The dedication was part of a program that started in 1948 when the DAR donated an original 100 acres to the project. Since then the organization has been responsible for the planting of 600 acres of tiny red pines in the Huron-Manistee Forest near Cadillac.

Participating in the latest dedication with Mrs. Gemperline were: State Chaplain Mrs. Willard Wilson, State Regent, Mrs. James Zeder and Forest Supervisor John Von Bargen. The newest donation cost the DAR more than $8,500.

(Continued from Page 1) the Board doing everything possible to have sidewalks installed in that area, spending the money on that project rather than for additional buses.

Trustee Ernest Henry indicated he didn't feel the School Board should allow dollars and cents to enter into the final decision. "I feel these people are complaining about transportation because of the traffic conditions and the fact that no sidewalks are available for walking," he said.

Trustee Carl Schultheiss asked "Are you willing to draw a distinction between fifth and sixth graders? Would you suggest that we transport fifth sion: graders and at the same time tell sixth graders they have to erate the sanitary land fill site walk in the same traffic condi- in tions? Is there that much dif- week period; ference between a fifth and sixth grader?

Trustee John McLaren felt that the situation had been created by the installation of the easement and asked, "Why can't we follow the practice of last year and transport those in grades three through five? I would go along with this but I would not favor a change in policy."

That's when Robert Visser, serving as spokesman for the parents, suggested the Board turn to the County Board of Education for an impartial study and recommendations in gutter installation on Suthertime for the next meeting.

His suggestion was adopted, study; approved and the meeting adjourned within minutes.

Ray Hulce, another nearby resident of the Stoller land, raised similar objections, stating that the zoning for one-acre lots in that area had been accepted in good faith and that he felt rezoning to smaller lot use was a breach of the faith expressed by homeowners when they purchased their land.

Planning Commissioner John Welsher scuttled much of the prevailing objection by asking why residents of Woodlore, who objected to Stoller's request for half-acre lots but owned homes which stand on half-acre sites, could justifiably urge denial of the request.

It quashed much of the opposing arguments and was followed by a 5-2 vote to approve the zoning change. Austin Stecker and Clayton Koch voted

Before Stoller can hope to go further with the development of the area, his zoning change must be approved by the county and the Plymouth Township Board.

Stoller claimed after the meeting he would be "at least a part owner" in the company which will someday handle the actual development of the land.

There are those, however, who suspect he will sell it before that time. Stoller owns property at Warren and Lilley Roads in Canton Twp. and appears hopeful of turning a speculator's or developer's profit on that land, too, eventually.

The Tritten application for apartment zoning was similarly opposed. Long a resident of Plymouth Township, Tritten had teamed with Builder Fred Gar-

U-M Economists Cite 'Guilt' Over Installment Buying ANN ARBOR-Americans are | No. "Selective direct control | administration and equity." | ment credit? "Our analysis in- | operate in the future. Three | stallment credit during the | continue to grow, but at a lower | strong case exists for direct

consumer credit - but we are not always happy about our borrowing habits, three wellknown University of Michigan authorities point out in their new book.

Consumer installment credit outstanding grew in four decades from about $1 billion at the end of World War I to $48 billion in the early 1960's, a rate of growth that was about double the average rate of increase in the national income, it is explained in "Consumer Installment Credit and Public Policy" published by the Bureau of Business Research in the U-M Graduate School of Business Administration.

Author Paul W. McCracken, a former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, James C. T. Mao, a specialist in the theory of finance, and Cedric Fricke, one time economic researcher with a major automobile manufacturer, point out the advantages of this economic development:

"The rapid growth in the volume of installment credit was accompanied by an equally vigorous development in other characteristics of the industry. The purposes for which credit can be obtained have broadened considerably from those of earlier years. From financing people in distress, or in want of a piano, sewing machine, or piece of furniture, consumer credit has come to be used widely by consumers in financing the array of consumer capital goods with which the typical modern household is equipped.

"Lending institutions have also displayed a characteristic American penchant for innovation by adapting the form and terms to meet new needs," the U-M authorities say.

"Down payment requirements have been reduced and terms liberalized . . . And in the process additional numbers of families have found it financially possible to acquire some of the appurtenances of a higher material level of living than had heretofore been within their reach. With these developments installment borrowing achieved respectability and status."

Emergence of a well-developed installment credit industry was essential to the whole process of mass production for new mass markets, which require that means of financing be readily available to consumers, they add.

"At the same time that we recognize intellectually the role of the installment credit industry in promoting our economic progress, as a nation we are still not entirely sure whether we feel very happy about the rapid expansion in the use of credit by consumers," they declare. "To some extent this may reflect a cultural lag, another manifestation of how the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children.

"In its early history, lending to consumers did have its less happy aspects: costs were high, and advantage was often taken of borrowers' ignorance. It may well be that subconsciously we continue to wonder if those evil practices are lurking in the shadows, awaiting an opportunity to spring out at us if we do not keep up our guard."

As a result of this ambivalent view, we can welcome and applaud the automobile, appliance, and other great industries as "evidence of America's peculiar genius for progress," and at the same time feel uneasy about the rise in use of consumer installment credit, the authors explain.

The book raises five key questions and answers them this

1) Do movements in consumer installment borrowing make the economy significantly more unstable? Not significantly, the authors say. They are a source of changes in general business conditions but not a major part of the problem.

2) Is direct regulation of installment borrowing essential for the effective operation of general monetary and credit policy? No. Present instruments of monetary control can be expected to limit appropriately the expansion of total credit, the authors point out. Since 1951 the Federal Reserve has been fully capable of bringing pressure on the money market when it deemed that course to be good economic policy.

3) Would government regulation of installment borrowing enhance the welfare of consumers themselves by curbing their propensity to buy on time? No, the authors say again. "First, we believe in the sovereignty of consumers; it is for them to decide the best way to allocate their resources. Second, the variable reasons for defaults and the remarkable similarity in the characteristics of good and delinquent loans make us doubt the feasibility of government regulation." 4) Do the lessons from our past experience of controls on consumer credit suggest a need for their continuation?

the world's greatest users of of installment credit poses 5) What are the projections were made to illus- 1960's. These projections sug- rate than in the past . . . To the Citizens: Your attention is called to the financial and statistical report of the Plymouth Community School District for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965. The financial records of the School District were audited by Sutherland and Robson, Certified Public Accountants, and the following statement is taken from their report to the Board of Education:

"In our opinion the accompanying combined balance sheet of the various Funds and the related statements of revenues, expenditures and fund equity present fairly the financial position of the various Funds of the Plymouth Community School District of Wayne and Washtenaw Counties at June 30, 1965, and the results of their operation for the year then ended, in conformity with accounting procedures recommended for educational institutions by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year." Of special interest are the three projects financed from the Building and Site Sinking Fund; namely, the Allen, Farrand and Senior High School Additions. Building projects started and for the most part completed during the 1964-65 school year included a seven classroom addition to Farrand Elementary School, an eight classroom and library addition to Allen Elementary School and a Vocational Education Addition to Plymouth High School. These projects were financed from the Building and Site Sinking Fund, composed of funds both from a current tax levy voted for that purpose and the sale of short term bonds authorized by the Municipal Finance Commission.

The excess of expenditures over revenues in the general fund amounting to $139,-426.42 will be partially offset by an increase in anticipated 1965-66 revenue from a 3.25 mill increase in general fund taxes voted by the electorate in March, 1965, and additional state funds.

The Board of Education solicits continued interest and participation on the part of citizens in the long range development of the school system. Careful planning is essential to cope with the rapid growth in population.

Citizens are invited to call the Central Administration Office, 453-0200, for further information regarding the Annual Report.

Respectfully submitted, Russell L. Isbister Superintendent of Schools

A Strong Probe Needed

A little less than two years ago, Jessica Mitford attacked American burial practices as a "huge, macabre and expensive practical joke" in her best-seller. The American Way of Death.

The book, despite its long tenure on the sales charts, won her no popularity with undertakers and gravediggers. And, today, there's no attempt by The Observer to judge the general validity of her views. But, set against the backdrop of Livonia's scandal-ridden Brookdale Cemetery, Miss Mitford's harsh words ring

For the three adjectives which she employs - "huge, macabre and expensive" - can be applied to any one of a score of events at Brookdale brought out in recent weeks.

This cemetery's questionable practices reach into the lives of a huge number of people relatives and friends of the 6,000 persons buried in unmarked, hard-to-find, mislabeled plots.

The personal tragedies are uncountable. Observer reporters paid two brief visits to the cemetery this week. During one visit, they found a family which had journeyed to Livonia with flowers for the grave of a dead five-yearold son. Sloppy record keeping and contradictory maps stymied their search for the son's grave for an hour.

In another visit, reporters stood helplessly by while a grieved widow, accompanied by representatives of a committee of 300 relatives of persons buried in Brookdale, found the body of her husband buried under another man's tombstone. The carnival atmosphere and general poor taste at the exhumation bordered on the macabre.

The expense borne by these and other victims (mistakes are the rule, not the exception here) are more than emotional, however. They are deeply financial. Six thousand gravesites at costs ranging from $60 upward add up to

The statement from a recent New Jersey Supreme Court decision that a cemetery, even if privately owned, is a public burial ground "whose operation for purposes of profit is contrary to public policy" has apparently not sunk in yet with the owners of Brookdale.

Brookdale's roots go back to 1937. For the past seven years a well-paid receiver has been "in charge" of the operation. Brookdale has no fulltime caretaker and a president who has no power.

How will the complications end?

Many of us are pinning our hopes on the Senate investigating team headed by Senator Ray Dzendzel which starts hearings today in Lansing. Some surprising revelations have been promised on all sides. Our hope is for a final, binding agreement among all parties for the improvement and the perpetual care of Brookdale, so that emotional suffering can no longer be callously exploited.

We may send up an extra squawk or two when the abridgement involves public agencies that shut the door on information we feel should rightfully be in the public domain, because this hits us right in the bread basket.

It is our business to report news and if we can't get it, our product suffers.

Pause To Reflect

The fact that we are here today is in itself an historic event. And, it is appropriate at this point to comment briefly on this event and to state the significance of what we do here today.

The things that are basic in our community heritage are stated by the words on this marker before us. It is quite possible that, only a couple of generations ago, an event of this kind might not have taken place. The interest was there, but is was sleeping.

Then, only the present and the future were real. The oldest traditions of our community had been its youthful character and hopeful future. As the community matured, it realized that there were some things in its past that must be held on to, or there would be an aimless drifting into uncertainty. As we have become aware of that realization, our spirit has become awakened. Indeed the spirit of Americans in general, not just in our community alone, has become awakened. The past is no longer a "bucket of ashes" as the poet once put it, it is no longer "bunk" as a great industrialist once called it many years

We are now in a renaissance of the spirit of our heritage. We, in our community are in step with this awakening for it is going on all over the land. We are organizing to preserve the artifacts of our story. Old houses have almost become shrines. Many old buildings are being saved from the wrecker's hammer. Local museums are on the increase. Old cars are precious. Ladies vie with one another to model vintage clothing and millinery. Young and middle-aged men make desperate efforts to grow beards. There is a new understanding that ceaseless change is not ceaseless progress; that if old roots are cut, present blooms will wither. There is a hunger for identity and an awareness that a people who do not know where they have been and what they were cannot know where they are or who they are.

Our first settlers were Quakers. One hundred and thirty years ago, on a day like today, they held their religious meetings in their meeting house next to their cemetery, one-half mile to ity than an apathetic public drive. the west of here.

Sign Here For Peace

It has been announced that planes will be sent over North Vietnam in the future to drop toys to the children there. Is it possible that in the lives of those children, the toys will replace their parents and relatives who have been killed and who will be killed by bombs from those same planes? Would toys be satisfactory substitutes to the American children whose fathers have died and will die in Vietnam? In this senseless war of politics thousands of innocent people have died. Thousands, and very possible millions, of others will die before it is ended. The newspaper and magazine editors of the United States can stop this war. The method is not difficult. All that is required is that you advocate, from now until the end of the year, the need and desirability of peace, to the same extent that war has been advocated for so many months in the past.

This letter and the enclosed petition is being sent to more than 600 editors and publishers throughout the United States. The petition is self explanatory. I request that you please give serious consideration to publishing it.

Results of the petition will be compiled by volunteers from various churches and will be made available to all interested persons. The petitions will then be forwarded to the U.S. Congress.

Observing the Scene ...

By MYRA CHANDLER

Distaff politicians are making the scene this week in what has been the liveliest contest ever staged by the ladies of any party, any time, since the power struggle between Young Queen Bess and Ann Boleyn.

Unlike that 14th Century donneybrook there was no bloodshed visible this week at the Jack Tar in Lansing when Beatrice Zilly, leading the ultra-conservatives, fought Ruth Hobbs, carrying the banner of the Romneymoderates of the Republican Party, for the presidency of the Michigan Federation of Republican Women.

phone calls and trial polling kept the lady-politicos wide awake until the small hours of the morning Monday and Tuesday. Press deadline came before the final polling. However this observer would say candidate Ruth Hobbs, the moderates' choice, will be the new president. With the Romneys and State Republican Chairman

Elly Petersen in her corner Mrs. Hobbs was well insulated against the attacks of the opposition, supported on the scene by Chairman of the Fighting 14th District Richard Durant, the local Barry Goldwater. Despite their political differences the two women seem to have much in common. They are both feminine in appearance, soft-spoken and have outstanding records for civic and political achievement. Both stated that regardless of the outcome they will continue to work for political unity in the Republican Party.

The fighters in the field, however, have not been so gentle. Some of the larger outstate districts have each threatened to leave the party en masse if their candidate is not elected.

Mrs. Ruth Hobbs resides in Ann Arbor with her quotation appearing not once By carefully training myself the Detroit News have any ideas husband, Wendell, who is the second Congressional District Chairman. ### HATPINS, THE SLIDE RULE, AN ABACUS AND YOU.

The Quip Is A Clever One:

"Figures lie and Liars figure."

I concede statistics at times can be twisted to serve a particular purpose. It is equally true they can reveal some startling things about your Fans and your business. I recently had such an experience.

I made an appeal to Detroit Race Course fans for their views on the Twin Double. The response was amazing. I had thousands of answers. The answers were thoughtful, interesting, constructive and provocative.

The Fans indicated a 20-to-1 preference for The Twin Double.

What is the reason for the great popularity of the NEW Twin Double now operating at the DRC?

I think it is simple to explain.

Every day the NEW Twin Double gives racing fans a chance at a Once-In-A-Lifetime Thrill. It blends fictional touches with real life drama.

Who wins the Twin Double at the DRC? It may be a 23-year-old Windsor housewife who, when she returned home, couldn't convince her husband she had won $48,555 on a $2 wager. Or the 22-year-old Dearborn Heights waitress, who came to the track for the first time in her life and won $14,878. Or the unemployed truck driver who had been down on his luck, and the Flint automobile factory worker who confessed he "couldn't handicap the horses" but still picked winners. We had THREE THOUSAND, THREE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SIX (3,366) fans who held winning Twin Double tickets last season. They shared in a payoff pool in excess of $4,000,000.

There were 35 Twin Double ticket holders who collected $10,000 or more on a winning $2 wager. It is great to be a big winner, naturally.

But I know from the comments of thousands of fans, that even those who never succeeded in picking a Twin Double winner had pleasure in just matching their systems with those of other fans.

And there are as many Twin Double systems as there are players. Some make their selections by sticking a Hatpin through their programs. Others use a Slide Rule, an Abacus, a Crystal Ball, or Tea Leaves.

The NEW Twin Double is only one of many reasons you should visit the Detroit Race Course soon.

We have a new $3,000,000 Clubhouse, which makes the DRC one of the nation's finest sports facilities. There are outstanding restaurants, "The Winner's Circle" and "The Mile Terrace"; a picturesque old world tavern, "Ye Tired Olde Horse Pub"; the colorful French Quarter Lounge. There is close-in parking for 12,000 cars; new entrances to speed the flow of traffic and top racing. We invite you to visit us soon and share in Racing Pleasure.

Rep. Vivian Tells The Observer How Oldsters Are Being Defrauded

By CONGRESSMAN WESTON E. VIVIAN

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Weston E. "I will be happy to send them, at no cost, the latest U.S. government publications on the Social Security Amendments of 1965, including Medicare," Vivian concluded.

Vivian also pointed out: "Hundreds of high school stu-

Many, tempted by the lure of immediate income, will be in- 10. clined to drop out. Before any may so decide, I urge that they consider the following facts:

"1. Employment statistics show that the school drop-out, inroughout his entire lifetime will have less than half the chance of keeping a job as does the youth who completes high school.

"2. Even during the months of his life in which he does find work, the drop-out who does not go to high school earns on the average less than 3/5 the wages of the youth who does finish high school.

"Most of us can expect to be in the job market for about 40 years. The extra income which a high school diploma will guarantee over a working life of some 40 years enormously exceeds any amount which a dropout can earn during the few years needed for high school.

"And the excitement of being "out on your own," right now, of earning your own cash, right lower income — or, worse, the frustration and boredom of vainly trying to land a job from which one is blocked by an incomplete education."

Defense Wins for R. Union

The best way to win is with great defense.

Redford Union High School had such a defense last Friday night in beating Taylor Center in the season's opener, 12-0.

"What a job our boys did on defense," exclaimed Coach John Rogers.

Taylor was held to a total of 53 yards in the game and only four first downs. Not one of Taylor's 10 passes hit the mark.

Rich Carlson, a linebacker, were Rick Beckerleg, Kent Griffith, Carl Dendrenio and Bob Gigiolli.

Ronnie happens to scale some 284 pounds. He was a pleasant surprise for Redford Union. "The kid didn't do much for us a year ago," said Rogers. We had our fingers crossed going into this season. He sure was a dandy against Taylor."

With Olm's beef, the opposition had to use two men to block him instead of the usual one. Winning wasn't too easy for Redford Union. Both of the Townshippers' touchdowns came in the final two minutes of the game as Taylor matched Redford Union with a stalwart defense of its own.

Santangello, incidentally, was listed as a second-stringer at drive that brought the ball to the game's outset. He took over the Taylor three from where Terry Shirkey slammed across for a touchdown.

One minute and 40 seconds showed on the scoreboard clock. After RU kicked off to Taylor, Carlson was right on the spot two plays later. He picked off a fumble and scooted 42 yards to a touchdown to put the game out of reach. Until the final two minutes, Redford had not put together any kind of a serious threat.

"Fumbles and penalties hurt us." lamented Rogers. Redford Union was slapped with 70 yards in penalties during the game. Offensively, Redford Union totalled 162 yards-133 on the ground and 29 through the air. Shirkey, Glen Davis and Jim Johnson did the bulk of

OBSERVING SPORTS

By George Maskin

Football's back . . . and on all levels.

The pros, the collegians, the high schools, the grade schools, etc., are all in action.

For a few moments, let's talk about the brand of football as played by youngsters in the 13-year-old and down age bracket. In some circles, such loops are refered to as "juniors;" elsewhere as Little Leagues.

To our office have come requests to publicize such leagues. After considerable thought on the subject, we have to say "No."

We will print standings and results, if such are made possible by the leagues and when space permits.

But, it long has been our contention — and again we date ourselves by stating we have been reporting on schoolboy athletes for some three decades now — that it's detrimental to write rave notices or the like about boys not yet in their teens.

This goes in all sports — basketball and baseball and anyone you care to mention. So we are NOT picking on football.

Those familiar with this column know that we have sounded off numerous times in the past about Little League or Junior baseball. It's been our argument that a community could do better for more teenagers up around 17 and 18 when it comes to sports and worry less about the 11 and 12 year olds. Why should football be different?

On the subject of Little League and grade school football, we should like to remind those who run such enterprises to make the proper steps to guard against players suffering serious injuries.

Too often we have noticed at such games that a youngster hardly in his 20's draws the job as coach. That he lacks knowledge and experience in handling boys is bad enough.

Criminal is the fact that very often no trainer or doctor is present in the case an emergency arises. We remember a game in which we were officiating one afternoon. A vicious tackle sent the ball carrier to the ground. He couldn't get up. Tears soaked his Out came the coach, who knew nothing about how to cope with the situation. Nobody else did either. The boy groaned in pain. Finally, it was suggested to call the police who rushed an ambulance to the scene.

All of this consumed some 15 or 20 minutes. A life can be snuffed out in that time.

Sports are great, but not at the expense of crippling a competitor . . . or killing him.

Therefore we make these suggestions to parents who permit their boys to play Little League or Grade-School

1 — Make certain the team is coached by a gentleman or gentlemen with experience.

2 — Be sure only top-flight equipment is used. 3 - Don't permit any game to be played unless there is a qualified doctor present.

4 — It wouldn't hurt either if arrangements were made to have an ambulance in the near vicinity or at least a police car. It's an ugly thought to have such a vehicle parked at the end of the field, but if it's your boy who's hurt, a few moments could make a great deal of difference in the long run.

There's a dandy football movie being made available these days by the National Bank of Detroit. The film is entitled: "How to Watch Pro Football."

Thanks to John Creecy of the NBD, we were treated to a preview at a luncheon and we left the viewing room better prepared to eye football this fall . . . be it live or on television.

There's much more to the game than seeing what happens to the ball.

Take a close inspection sometime of the way the guards pull out to block, or what the tackles do on defense, or how the linebackers rush in.

The NBD also has made available an interesting pamphlet which deals with some of the most frequently heard expressions on the part of football broadcasters like Van Patrick and Bob Reynolds.

For example -

What's a trap play? It's a maneuver on which an opposing lineman is permitted to penetrate without opposition into the offensive backfield. But it's only a trap. He's suddenly hit by another member of the offensive official had detected a Sorrows' team who drives him out of the way and clears the way player clipping. for the ball carrier.

And the draw play? Offensive linemen drop back as if to set up a pass. But when their onrushers swoop in, they are pushed aside, thus permitting the ball carrier to dash up the middle for a gain.

The bomb? A long forward pass that's caught, usually for a touchdown.

The Down-and-Out Pass? The player who'll receive the pass runs straight down the field, cuts sharply to the sidelines to catch the ball before he steps out of ers. bounds.

The Blitz? It's a defensive maneuver when a line-but this Sunday, meeting St. attack, especially when the backer vacates his usual spot to rush in and tackle the Francis de Sales with the kick- team penetrated deep in the passer before he can let the ball go.

will be effective, two offensive linemen team up on a single defensive player. One blocker usually will hit Pistol Course the defender high, the other aims low. Clipping? A sometimes misunderstood penalty play.

In making the announcement, Kaye said, "Many people tend to minimize Detroit's influence as a world cultural center and to belittle her efforts to broaden the scope of cultural activitiy Good art does exist in our city."

The case for Detroit becomes even stronger this month with the opening of this large international exhibit and auction sale, running from Sept. 21 through the 26. The exhibit, which features a great variety of work from 15th century old Master and their pupils to the as yet unrecognized talent of our time, will be hung in the main ballroom of the Park Shelton Hotel, 15 E. Detroit.

Not only is there great historical significance to this highly representative exhibit, but also the current and future trends of painting on the coninent are indicated.

A matter of particular interest will be the combination of exhibit and auction sale. This will be a notable opportunity to view and perhaps to acquire the work of a famous old master and/or the work of his students. Master and pupil alike will be chance to compare them side by

The new Julie Harris musical "Skyscraper" is a curious amalgam of bits and pieces left over from many former musicals O'Nians, Wren Gallery, and and plays. The telescope bit in Act I was done in "Mister Rob-Grabowski Gallery, all of Eng- erts." The sexy song that ends Act I ("That, It") has all the land. > A rousing production number entitled "Local 403" is a show-stopper, but it had its origin in "South Pacific." Instead of lonely men on an island dreaming of women, songwriters Jimmy Van Heusen and Sammy Kahn present a group of construction men surrounded by women passing by. The men feel it their duty to whistle, leer, and shout earthy terms as the gals bounce by. And believe me, the gals really bump and grind their way across the stage in this number. The results are the same in "South Pacific"; the audience loves every minute of it.

"Local 403", the fourth number in the show, almost makes you believe that "Skyscraper" is going to make the grade, But the authors, the songwriters, and the producers stopped creative construction right after this number. The musical comedy "Skyscraper" collapses completely at 9:10 p.m.

The DEW LINE

John Dew

Unless one is completely oblivious to the happenings currently taking place in the realm of popular music, a drastic change is evident. The overwhelming trend is so powerful that it's enough to have the Supremes, Elvis, and even the Beatles shaking in their blue suede boots.

They have different names time after time in what were for it, of course. Some call it supposedly to be exciting "Folk-Rock," others prefer Old Films "Protest Songs" and so on. It's powerful enough at this point to have five of the top 10 songs Scheduled nationally listed in this category. The foremost example of transform the book store of the course, is Barry McGuire's "Eve of Destruction."

The trend has progressed from such pseudo-ethnics as Sonny and Cher, the Byrds, and the Turtles, to the point where even Joan Baez has come up with a hit record, "There But for Fortune." Just when, where, and why this has all come about is not immediately clear. Perhaps teens have tired of the thoughtless, formatted, stream of time. temperature, and call letters which constitute the total vocabulary of most radio "personalities." Perhaps they want something with a little more meaning and scope. Perhaps the socalled "silent generation" finding a voice and purpose.

It is interesting that many of the current voices of protest gained their initial following among the college "ethnic cults." As soon as the singers progressed to the point of popularity with the general public, however, the 'ethnics" looked elsewhere for entertainment idols.

Just how long, how powerful, nd how overwhelming this trend will be before its peak is reached, only Father Time's crystal ball can see now.

In the meantime we sit and "Rip Van Winkle" arrives in wait as imitators and pretendpet Theatre season at The De- the air with protests ranging from pacifism, to the PTA.

And, as we see it, the only real benefit from the entire situation is the fact that, at least to some degree, lyrics in popular music have again come to mean something more than a "Rama lama ding dong" or "Dum de dip

Will Discuss West Coast Art

"West Coast Art" is the topic of study for the Palette Guild when it opens its fall series of meetings Monday, Oct. 18, at Archdale, Detroit.

for Showing

Aficionados of Marlene Dietrich and old movie buffs will rejoice at The Film As An Art lineup scheduled by the Theatre Arts Dept. of The Detroit Institute of Arts for fall showing: The scheduled classics featuring the glamorous actress are:

Sept. 14-"Morocco" (1930). Oct. 12-"The Garden of Allah" (1936).

Nov. 30-"The Devil Is a Woman" (1935). Dec. 7 - "Destry Rides Again" (1939).

Each film will be shown in The Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium at 8:05 p.m. "Morocco" is one of the first films which made the reputation of the almost unknown German actress. In "Morocco" Dietrich portrays a tantalizingly beautiful carbarct singer who throws aside the love and riches offered by Adolphe Menjou to follow French Legionnaire Gary Cooper out into the des-Tickets are available to the
