Plymouth Township's fourth shopping center was granted appropriate zoning last week by the planning commission. The center, being developed by Robert Wedler, is located on the southeast corner of Ann Arbor Rd. and Haggerty Road. Other such areas in the Township are located on two corners of Sheldon and Ann Arbor Rd. and in Fred Greenspan's

Lake Pointe at Schoolcraft and Wilcox Roads. Wedler sought a broader rezoning back in May to allow him to put up a bowling alley and bar. That matter met with such local opposition that his request was denied, after a long public hearing. Following several requests since by Wedler, to have the matter re-considered, the planners, on their own motion, listed the center for a second public hearing last Wednesday at a regular meeting of the planning commission. This time the motion did not include a bar or bowling alley (C-2, broad commercial) but did include C-1 rezoning. There was little or no opposition to a neighborhood shopping center, and the rezoning was granted by the planning commission.

WEDLER told the commissioners that the Bank of the Commonwealth had expressed interest in the site, as well as the Food Fair chain, and a leading drug store chain. Wedler's plans also call for several neighborhood service stores. In the action, the planning commission followed the recommendation of their professional planner, W. C.

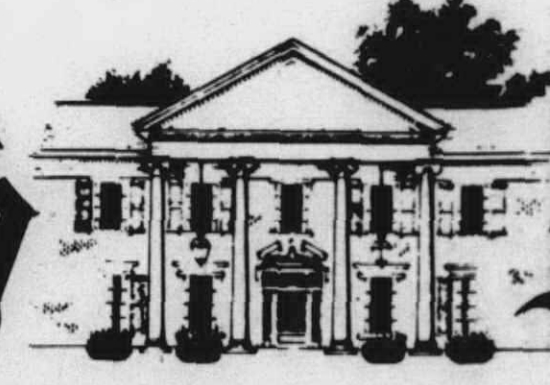

Johnson. He had suggested that Wedler apply for a C-1, a more specialized commercial rezoning; the more liberal C-2 permitted bowling alleys and bars, which Johnson, the commission, and residents opposed. About 5.2 acres of land is involved. Commissioner Russell Ash spoke in behalf of the rezoning: "When we've gone over the growth of the Township it has been our feeling the area should grow in neighborhood units. It has been expressed many times that the Township will grow in the manner of small neighborhood units. In my opinion, this is one area where such a neighborhood unit does fit." The matter passed through the commission with all members voting yes except for

Clayton Koch, who abstained because he owns commercial property nearby. THE COMMISSION had held the matter several weeks, seeking a legal opinion on whether or not Wedler could re-apply. Because of Township attorney Earl Demel's extended sickness, the opinion was not available, and they decided the rezoning could be made upon their own motion, not Wedler's. Wedler, however, has another snag to overcome: C-1 rezoning does not provide for banks. Planning commissioners discussed the possibility of changing the requirements in C-1 and C-2 commercial (Continued on Page 2)

Bids let for Lake Pointe school, elementary add ons

Bids were let Monday night for a new Lake Pointe elementary school and two additions elsewhere as the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education spent nearly $700,000. A total low bid of $466,540 for a 12-room elementary school on a site just across Five Mile Rd. in Northville Township gave the contract to the Armstead Construction Co. of Dearborn. Gilles Electrical Co. will receive the sub-contracts from Armstead for the electrical and mechanical work. A local company, Burger Construction, won the bidding for two additions - a four-room add-on at Gallimore School, and a similar one at Bird School. His bid will total $192,083, with the sub-contracts also going to Gilles Electric Co. All projects are slated for completion by September of next year. Bids were about $27,000 over architect's estimates.

gives them a much needed contingency fund. The projects are being financed by 6 year bonds issued last summer. It is not being financed by the so-called pay-as-you-go system - a system which for all intents and purposes is no longer used. BOARD officials were quick to point out that there was no cash on hand problem - just a commitment problem.

The bids were reviewed by assistant superintendent Melvin Blunk and a representative from the architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach. On other matters, the Board named the Plymouth Education Association the sole bargaining agent for the teachers' group. Under a 1965 amendment to the State laws, each school board must designate an agent with which they will bargain. The PEA, affiliated with the MEA and NEA, reported about 90% of the teachers signed in favor of the PEA. The PEA now becomes the agent for "professional negotiation and collective bargaining." The Board passed the resolution unanimously. The PEA now has one year in which to negotiate a contract for either one, two or three years. A similar request from the Plymouth Educational Society's Association was tabled (Continued on Page 2)

CHILDREN PLAYING with matches caused a fire which swept through the inside of this home at 289 Pearl St. Saturday around noon. City firemen report the fire had gone too far for them to stop extensive damage to the interior of the two-family home.

Careless children cause two fires

Children playing with matches were the cause of two fires, one of which completely gutted a house, in the City of Plymouth last week. A two-family house at 289 Pearl suffered extensive damage inside when a fire broke out around noon Saturday. The fire started in a first floor bedroom that was being used as a storage room. Mattresses, cardboard boxes and clothes helped the fire get a good start, according to City assistant fire chief George Schoeneman. The tenants, Mr. and Mrs. James Homan, and their two small sons, on the first floor, (Continued on Page 2)

In a nutshell

★ Dr. Eric J. Bradner, president of Schoolcraft College, said today that the college had completed a major step towards North Central accreditation. A diagnostic team sent by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools seemed quite pleased with the developments at the college, he said. If the report of the team is satisfactory, the College will be formally "admitted to candidacy."

★ City DPW workers and private plumbers were kept busy last week as the City kicked on its new reservoir and pumping set-up. A few old connector mains broke, according to City Manager Richard Blodgett. "This is to be expected," he said. "We increased pressure about 20 pounds. Some of these lines are old galvanized metal."

★ The Chip, Plymouth High School Youth Center, will open Saturday night, Nov. 27 with a dance. "The String Benders" will supply the music and the Hi-Y Club under the leadership of Tom Leckie will host this party. The Chip will be open from 8:30 to 11 p.m. and ping pong and pool tables will be available as well as refreshments. Students of Plymouth High School showing I.D. cards will be admitted.

★ According to a news release issued by Congressman Weston E. Vivian's office and the Otherlander Thanksgiving Committee, Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver will be unable to meet her scheduled engagements the first week in December. They included a dinner on Dec. 7 at the Mayflower Hotel for all area exchange students

THE BIRD School addition is designed to handle the increased student load expected from the 125-home New England Village subdivision nearby. The rooms on Gallimore are expected to be filled with students from soon-to-develop subdivisions down in that area (Joy Rd.-Sheldon Rd.)

Mike Beyer begins carrier series

Editor's note: This young man is one of the many who each week deliver the Plymouth Mail to your doorsteps. He begins a continuing series which will be called "Carrier of the Week."

Mike Beyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beyer, 725 N. Mill, may or may not follow in his father's footsteps. His dad is a registered pharmacist, and owns and manages three drug stores in the Plymouth Community. But young Mike, 13, says he's not sure what he'll do. College? "Probably," answers Mike, as he flashes a big grin. He attends St. Peter's Lutheran Day School, and has been a Plymouth Mail carrier since they first began door-to-door delivery last April. Outside of the classroom, Mike plays end on the school football team. IN HIS SPARE time he collects records, and works long hours with model automobiles. His route covers Plymouth Road, N. Holbrook, York St., E. Liberty St., E. Pearl St. and Caster St.

Collections

Each Plymouth Mail carrier will be collecting again next week for the month of November. In the past, subscribers paid annually for post office distribution. Now, your carrier will collect 35 cents a month—if your paid-up subscription has run out. He will not collect if your subscription has not run out. The change to carrier was made to give you later, fast breaking news, sooner. It also provides several young men with their first job and first business venture.

Good crowd hears Fisher on renewal

Approximately 50 local residents turned out last Thursday evening to hear Plymouth Urban Renewal Director Kenneth Fisher discuss past and future plans for urban renewal in Plymouth. The meeting was another in a series on issues in the public interest sponsored by the Plymouth-Northville Township Republican Club. Fisher gave background information on the development of Urban Renewal planning since 1958 and reviewed the Mill Street Project which entered its final phase with the recent purchase of land (Continued on Page 2)

Modern pilgrims bag turkeys in Mail contest

A total of 20 happy Plymouth families will sit down to succulent, golden brown Thanksgiving turkeys this Thursday — birds that didn't cost them a cent. They are the lucky winners of The Plymouth Mail's first Thanksgiving turkey contest which concluded Monday evening with the drawing of names at the stores of the local merchants who participated. Each winner will be presented with a certificate good for a Turkey at Plymouth's Kroger Store at 240 N. Main St. One of the first winners to claim her turkey was, appropriately enough, Mrs. Priscilla Alden Snyder of 232 Blunk St. Mrs. Snyder's name was drawn at The Photographic Center owned by Les Wilson. MRS. SNYDER'S husband, Edmund, is assistant librarian at Schoolcraft College. She was born near Boston, Massachusetts. Other winners and sponsoring businesses were: Eddie Dee of 9629 Russell St., Schrader's Furniture; (Continued on Page 2)

Heart fails while deer hunting

Norman Clarence Fulton, 51150 Ford Rd., died Nov. 22 of a heart attack suffered while on a hunting trip in the woods north of St. Helen. He was 53 years old. Final funeral arrangements are awaiting the arrival of his son, William, who is with the U. S. Navy in Spain. Mr. Fulton had lived in the Plymouth community since 1940, moving here from Coalport, Pa. He was a Hi-lo driver for the Ford Motor Co. and a member of Western Wayne County Conservation Assoc. Born Feb. 27, 1912 in Coalport, Pa., he was the son of (Continued on Page 7)

Student charges play censorship

The director of the two controversial Plymouth High School plays that were cancelled last week will resign as drama coach, and one member of the student cast has raised the question of censorship. John P. Kontos said Monday he had asked the school's administration to allow him to resign. He noted that he had not received an answer. He will remain as PHS reading teacher. Kontos also said he would take his case back to the Faculty Advisory Committee, a school group that handles problems and issues raised by staff members. The two plays, Edward Albee's "The American Dream," and "The Sandbox," were scheduled for presentation on Nov. 19 and 20 at PHS. But administrator Carvel Bentley and parents of the cast felt that there were objectionable passages, and the plays were stopped. The student body has also apparently taken an interest in the plays' cancellation. In an article titled "Censorship" and signed by Mary Arnold, a member of the cast, the administration is charged with censoring the plays with "no adequate reason." The paper was circulated among the students Monday and charged that neither the general public nor the students were given adequate reasons. THE ARTICLE urges the students to question the action. "The School Board, the School superintendent, and the principals of PHS must give the general public and the students of this high school a reason—one that is not absurd or subjective," the paper said. Other portions of the article read: "Perhaps the minds of our school administrators are so closed and narrow that viewpoints and ideas that challenge or oppose their own are squelched, suppressed and censored. Let's hope not, for such was the mind of Hitler—the greatest book-burner... Such minds refute the spirit of a Democracy. "In a Democracy, diverse viewpoints must have the opportunity to be openly held and freely expressed without fear of censure" (Continued on Page 8)

Plan private senior home

A private senior citizens' community which would include a convalescent home and apartments has been proposed for a site along Ridge Rd. in Plymouth Township. The proposal was brought to the attention of the planning commission at their regular meeting last Wednesday; the developers must receive R-3, multiple dwelling rezoning. Theodore Brown spoke in behalf of the project, which is to be called Plymouth Glen Community. Plans call for 250 apartments, a 125-bed convalescent home, a large park area and a lake. LAST MONTH the planning commission had turned down a request from Brown, who had proposed a convalescent home on the corner of Ridge and Territorial. The matter had met with only one objection (Continued on Page 8)

A Thanksgiving Message

THANKSGIVING — THE HARD WAY by Rev. David M. Strang, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Epiphany

"... I urge that petitions, prayers, intercessions, and thanksgivings be offered for all men." (1 Timothy 2:1)

It's a tough job to be thankful for all men. I mean, did the man who wrote those words really mean what he said — urging people to give thanks for all men? Certainly we will be thankful for our friends and families, but for everybody? That includes a lot of people. Think of the list of men and ideas and things we would have to be thankful for if we took the Biblical urging seriously: next-door neighbors, school teachers, anti-Viet Nam demonstrators, Martin Luther King, Jr., atheists, agnostics, right-wing extremists, poor people, Edward Albee, Negroes, lonely people, Saul Alinsky, teen-agers. Who wants to offer thanks for that assorted array of the world's non-conformists? Thanksgiving is a time to "count your blessings" is it not? Thanksgiving is a time to bless God for being on "our side," a time to tell Him how glad we are (Continued on Page 8)

They were beating down the doors over at West Brothers last week when the Mail ran one of their 1961 Mercury Monterays with full power equipment as a 1966 model for $695. The West boys were so impressed by the response they decided to make good on the offer although you'll have to wait five years for delivery.

There's nobody in Plymouth like Fran Booth, Chamber of Commerce coordinator and our city's one-woman public relations firm, legal council and good-will ambassador all rolled into one. The picture of her turkey on the front page of the tab section this week is her way of offering help following the failure of Mail staffers' efforts to locate a roasted turkey, real or otherwise.

Robert Beyer of the three-store drug chain in and around Plymouth reports that he is opening up his Christmas post office again for the fifth straight holiday season.

It's an ideal situation as statements, handbills, dunning letters, etc. will be thrown out as they only capacity for mail headed for Plymouth children via via the Santa Claus, Indiana postmark.

Each week, following deadline, we add up our advertising inches and give a little thanks to all advertisers, large or small. This week, we'd like to give a big thanks to two of our faithful followers, Dean Saxton and Walter Ash. Liz Hartwick tells us we've advertised Walt Ash Shell for some 27 years and Saxton remembers when he opened his feed store in Northville 37 years ago with the late Sterling Eaton (Mr. Northville Record at that time) helping him with his first display advertisement.

reasoning, but determined no course of action.

The planning commission acted on several other items:

A BANK
Detroit Bank and Trust Company was granted commercial rezoning for lots on Ann Arbor Rd. and Lilley Rd. from manufacturing to commercial near the intersection. In their action, the planners made the entire corner commercial.

APARTMENTS DENIED

Apartments to be located on land along Ann Arbor Rd. between Sheldon and Canton Center Roads were denied rezoning after objections from residents in the area and from consultant W. C. Johnson, at a public hearing.

The new 701 master plan calls for multiple dwellings to buffer the area along Ann Arbor Rd. just west of the Michigan Bank and shopping center area. The multiple dwellings would run about midway to Canton Center Rd., just short of the proposed apartments.

Developers Bernard and George Stadtmiller said they felt they had come "within an inch" of meeting planning commission plans, and that rezoning should be granted.

E. D. Mogle, speaking for the Western Homeowners Association, said his group opposed the rezoning. Ray Hulce 9275 McClumpha, Albert Allon 44881 Ann Arbor Rd. and Eldon McGee 45145 Ann Arbor Rd. also opposed the rezoning.

Clayton Koch said he recognized the need, liked the plan for the apartments, but felt that they were in the wrong place. He moved denial, and his motion passed unanimously.

MORE APARTMENTS

Another apartment development on the southeast corner of Five Mile and Bradner Rd. was denied rezoning from single family residential to garden apartments.

The developer, Gerald Loisel proposed to build 112 units on the land, but was turned down without a public hearing. W. C. Johnson had recommended that request be denied, pointing out that the entire area was surrounded by single family homes.

The commission agreed, and Loisel's request was voted down unanimously.

by the Board until the two absent members could review the matter.

Their request represented nearly 100% of the employees involved.

Mrs. Ruth Hoeprich, president of the group submitted the request, along with the signatures.

IN BOTH CASES, the signatures were verified by George Lawton, Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union manager.

Fisher speaks on renewal

by Duratiner Corporation. Other industries now located in that area are Bathey Mfg. Co. and Ossie Hinote's welding firm.

Development of the Mill St. project has created a better tax base and gained a probable commitment of additional employment, Fisher said.

IN FIELDING questions on the proposed Project No. 2, affecting the area on S. Main St., from Food Fair to Ann Arbor Tr., plus E. Maple St., Deer St., and Kellogg St., Fisher indicated that because the project was still in the very early stage solutions to specific problems have not been found.

Questions put to the speaker included 1) Relocation plans for residents involved; 2) How residents could afford to move; and 3) How determination of sub-standard or structurally unsound buildings was made. (Sixty percent of buildings in the area must be classified as structurally unsound before an area can qualify for Urban Renewal); and 4) How does an individual take a positive attitude toward Urban Renewal when he is faced with demolition of his home.

Fisher urged interested residents to attend the City Commission meeting when the issue is presented and give their views to members at that time.

The fundamental philosophy of Federally assisted Urban Renewal, according to a report by Vilican-Leman & Associates, Plymouth's planning consultants, is to help urban communities help themselves in the prevention and elimination of slums and blight. The report further states that Urban Renewal action consists of two basic operations: 1) Redevelopment and 2) Conservation.

Redevelopment is used when areas become so badly deteriorated that only clearance of all, or nearly all, of the area will remedy the situation.

THE AUDIENCE for Thursday night's meeting was comprised of business men, residents from the proposed Project No. 2 area and interested citizens.

The Plymouth-Northville Township Republican Club will sponsor another public meeting the first part of 1966 as a follow-up on last week's meeting, at which time alternate programs for community development through the use of private capital will be discussed.

Two fires

and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Burrell and a son, on the second floor, all escaped without injury.

SCHOENNEMAN said that the fire began in a corner where there was no heating unit or wiring, and because of that he suspected children playing with matches.

His investigation confirmed what he suspected. Schoenneman said, but he was unable to pinpoint exactly how it happened because of the young age of the children involved.

The fire was "going good" when the department arrived. Schoenneman said, and it caused extensive damage throughout the interior.

Flames had spread from the bedroom into another room, and upward to the second floor. It took about 15 minutes to bring it under control, Schoenneman reported. A total of 12 men fought the blaze.

A FIRE with a similar cause — children — did much less damage to the upstairs of a home at 794 York last Wednesday at 6:45 p.m.

Mrs. Maureen Barham's two children were playing in the bathroom when the fire started.

School committee lacks teacher representative

A committee whose work is of prime importance to the future direction that education will take in The Plymouth Community began its work this week.

It is the Citizens' Facility Study Committee of the Plymouth Community School District, headed by William Fronk — an automotive manufacturing firm executive.

The chief purpose of the group is to chart the moves the school district must make in terms of new building, and specifically the problem of planning the second high school which population growth makes imminent.

Appointment of the 13-man committee was made by School Board President Gerald Fischer of Plymouth; an executive of the same company that Fronk works for. Other members include:

F. Richard Merriam, an engineer for the same firm; Mrs. Ray Hulce, whose husband works for the same company; a medical doctor, Dr. Ensign Clyde; a dentist, Dr. Frederick Foust; and a Plymouth pharmacist, John Wiltse.

Also named to serve are Canton

Township Trustee and farmer Richard Palmer; Plymouth Township Trustee and Dearborn schoolteacher Richard Lauterbach; Real Estate Agent Mrs. Norma Schmemman; Burroughs Corp. executive Robert Tripp; Mrs. Evelyn Gilbert, a housewife who lives in the recently annexed Geer School District; National Bank of Detroit Vice President Robert Barbour; and Kelsey-Hayes executive William Birge.

While we would not quibble with the individual qualifications of any of the persons on the committee, an analysis of the roster indicates a degree of unbalance that should be rectified.

First of all, some of the names are those of persons who have served on virtually every citizens' committee appointed by the school district in recent years.

While they may have contributed much to such efforts in the past, surely it is not inconceivable that fresh faces and viewpoints could add new dimensions in terms of thought and resultant committee conclusions.

Secondly, while the committee is obviously well armed with professionals and executives, it would not be out of line to include factory labor representation or persons from the clerical or sales fields.

Perhaps people in these occupations haven't been willing to serve on school study committees in the past; or, on the other hand, maybe they simply haven't been asked.

Additional and better facilities for Plymouth Schools will come only with the enthusiastic support of all elements of the community. And one element that seems to be consistently ruled out is perhaps the most important to local education.

It is the Plymouth teacher.

After all, the classroom teacher is one factor without which schools could not exist. It seems that their experience, their outlook and their knowledge would be of value to a study group.

It would be well to appoint a member of the teaching profession from Plymouth Schools to the study group, even now.

Even though the committee as it now stands may not seem like balanced representation, there are encouraging sounds emanating from some of the membership.

It appears that they are determined to do their own research and reach their own conclusions based not only on committee materials, but on information they have gathered in their spare time.

This is refreshing and indicates that viewpoints of other segments of the community may still be heard.

But it still doesn't justify omitting large population segments who could contribute much to the group.

The Sporting Life

Play cancellation not necessary

by Doug Johnson

Plymouth lost a chance to grow up a little bit last week.

Two plays by Edward Albee were stopped in the final stages of production by the Plymouth High School administration, who cited "objectionable words and phrases unfit for students."

The two plays — "The American Dream" and "The Sandbox" were set for production on Nov. 19 and 20 by a cast from the PHS student body.

I personally didn't like the cancellation; it was untimely and unnecessary.

Carvel Bentley, PHS principal, will no doubt win praise for his quick and swift action. He called for a parental review to confirm what he thought was true — that the plays as they stood were too raw for the Plymouth High School stage.

About the only people who have questioned the action are members of the PHS student body, and the director himself, John P. Kontos.

Kontos has raised the hue and cry of censorship, and has attracted the attention of one big city newspaper, the press associations and the radio.

Censorship is only a peripheral issue as far as I am concerned.

The crux of the cancellation goes beyond mere censorship, beyond stifling of a good piece of literature, beyond the ill-timed stopping of a play almost at curtain time.

The cancellation touches on a key issue of our educational system.

To wit:

To what lengths must a high school go to see that its students learn and read and discuss and regurgitate for public and parental glee, only those things that are safe and traditional? How far must they water down life's problems, mitigate the world's dilemmas, to satisfy parents and frustrate students.

We are in a position where glass and brick high schools are laboratories that turn out only faceless molds of what we hope our children should be. They have gone through 13 years of public education unable to discuss religion, politics, sex and practical government in their schools, and then, suddenly, are asked to become productive members of our society.

Are children learning if they are merely doing our bidding?

Now try this. Suppose I proposed to put on a play about a white woman married to a Negro man, who accuses her of adultery, falsely, and ends up smothering her to death.

So much trash — you know, like those 'dirty' Albee plays that were cancelled.

Suppose I slap a fancy title on it like "Othello," and tag on a magic name — William Shakespeare. Change your mind?

"Well I'm not sure. I never really read Othello that closely," you say.

Chances are you never read it at all.

"Othello" must sit on the shelves at the High School Library. If it doesn't, anyone is welcome to my dog-eared copy.

I had a brief experience with teaching as a student teacher in a school system south of Lansing, in a town called Charlotte.

I had a speaking acquaintance with a young art teacher who presented a $50 book with beautiful photographic reproduction of Michelangelo's art. Yuo know, the one who lay on his back for many years and painted the Sistine Chapel.

The art teacher gave the book to the library to help build its collections of great works.

The ancient librarian turned down the book because of the nude statuary pictured in it — statuary which included Christ, God and Adam.

"That's toilet literature" she said. I'm not kidding.

I hope that Plymouth has grown up past that stage. I hope someday any great play can be done by the high schoolers. I would much rather see them do "The American Dream" than "Archy and his Friends," "My Sister Sarah" and similar pap.

I salute Kontos and his efforts to tackle serious drama. And certainly, Albee is one of the modern dramatic giants.

The issue of censorship is diluted somewhat by the fact that copies of both plays are available in their unexpurgated forms. They are even in the high school library, along with, I suppose, "The Scarlet Letter," "The Catcher in the Rye," the Bible and other works that at one time or another have been controversial.

The cancellation was unfortunate but not fatal. It was unfortunate because the hearing and seeing of the plays would not have sent a single Plymouth soul to Hell.

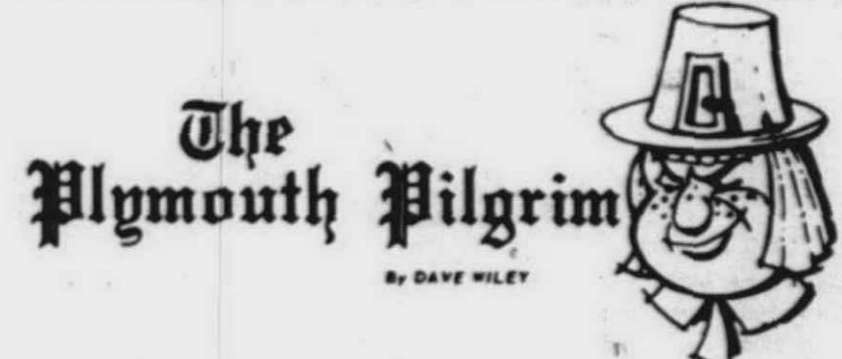

The students would have had a chance to work with good drama, rather than useless grade school plays, despite a few raised eyebrows.

Now everybody can pretend that the plays don't exist, that the issue and commentary in them are irrelevant, and that Plymouth is just a little bit better because they weren't put on.

INSTALLATION OF THE three Carillon Bells at Schoolcraft College was completed Friday, Nov. 19. Donated by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kehrl, the bells were ordered in the fall of 1964. Because of the dock strike in New York at that time, they could not be unloaded and were sent back to England. When they finally arrived, it was discovered that one of the bells was cracked and had to be returned and recast. Consequently, two of the bells are dated 1964 and one, 1965. The bells will ring on the quarter hours and the hour in a sequence requested by the college. The four small bells which hang below the Carillon bells do not ring and are symbolic of the four original school districts in the Schoolcraft College district.

"Darien's children are disadvantaged." This is a statement that emanated from the superintendent of schools of the wealthy Connecticut commuter town that took so many knocks last year for a teen-age beer blast given wide national publicity.

Dr. Gregory Coffin's remarks are reported in the November 20 issue of "Saturday Review" magazine in an article titled "Integrating a White Ghetto."

The report raises all sorts of interesting possibilities since Darien and Plymouth share certain similarities. Both are wealthier than average; and both have a good share of commuters.

They both have teen-age booze parties too, with and without parental knowledge, in case you wondered. And Russell Isbister, Plymouth's Superintendent of Schools could with a good deal of justification make the same comment about Plymouth's youngsters.

Dr. Coffin, queried about how kids with boats, tennis courts and country clubs could be disadvantaged, explained they are brought up in an all-white suburban community isolated from many of life's realities, according to the SR article.

— Realities "such as mixed racial, social and economic situations, the poverty of slums, and sheer desperation."

As one Darien teacher quoted in the article put it: "The current struggle for civil rights seems as relevant to the average student at Darien as an earthquake in Japan."

All of this was made a bit more painfully apparent Sunday afternoon when I participated in an interracial discussion, sponsored by the Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity, and held in a Plymouth home.

It was one of four similar sessions being held simultaneously throughout the community. There, gathered in a circle in the living room with a Negro couple from Detroit, their two children and a teen-aged nephew, we got a little insight into life in Detroit's inner city and — more importantly — into the relations that presently exist between our respective races.

I came away with more questions than I had to begin with.

What would I do, for instance, if I found that city services were sharply reduced in my neighborhood because it had begun to "deteriorate"?

What would I say if my children were attending a school where classroom size exceeded 40 students and books were scarce, a school where the faculty turnover was rapid and thorough?

What would I do if the hard facts of everyday life contradicted all the cant and hypocrisy I keep hearing about the brotherhood of man?

What indeed? I fear my patience would be thin, my tolerance far less than that of some of my black brethren.

I would suggest that my reaction would be similar to a Negro I met once who commented, "I'm not one of the non-violent ones. My momma never taught me I couldn't hit back after I turned the cheek one time."

Perhaps some of the educational alternatives that Dr. Coffin has proposed and implemented for Darien would be in order here.

For instance, a neighboring community of more than 70,000 does have a population that includes ethnic minority groups; and its high school offers courses that Darien's does not.

So an exchange program has been set up. Students from Darien have taken courses there and students from the other town have come to Darien to enroll in courses that their school doesn't provide.

Darien teachers are encouraged to have non-white speakers from foreign countries and in different professions.

And a student exchange weekend has brought Negro, Puerto Rican, Japanese and Jewish students from New York to the Connecticut community.

Some people, of course, will hasten to point out that Plymouth doesn't have a problem. This they have done in the past and this they will continue to do. I have lost, in the past year or so, a couple of subscriptions from people adhering to this view. In a talk at Columbia University, Dr. Coffin commented:

"The statement 'we don't have a problem which create one' is the index of the problem itself. . . Unless the direct experience of contact with Negroes only as maids and garbage men can be changed, the attitudes of children in all-white communities will continue to be shaped significantly by the direct experience no matter what is taught in school."

Maybe you can ignore the problem and hope it will go away. I can't. I let it bug me. I will continue to. Why?

Dr. John H. Fischer, Head of Columbia University's Teachers College and a former superintendent of schools, commented on the Darien experiment. His remarks answer the question:

"Negro Americans will never become part of the mainstream of American life unless specific, deliberate steps are taken toward that end. And, because in virtually every community and at every level of government, the white group has effective control, it is through white initiative, in most cases, that the necessary corrective action must begin."

So you see, Charlie, it's not only President Johnson's and Governor Romney's and Mayor Cavanagh's problem. It's Mayor Houk's and Supervisor McEwen's and Superintendent Isbister's. And yours. And mine.

Set up Home School Guild at OLG

The first meeting of the Home School Guild, composed of the parents and teachers of Our Lady of Good Counsel School, was held on Tuesday, Nov. 16, in the Parish Hall. About 250 persons heard Theodore J. Karpowicz, Assistant to the Superintendent for Special Programs, Archdiocese of Detroit, speak on State and Federal Education Acts of 1965.

Sister Christine, principal of Our Lady of Good Counsel, told the audience of the excellent cooperation received from the Plymouth school system in providing the services outlined in these acts.

Officers of the Home School Guild for the 1965-66 school year were elected. They are president, R. C. Koepke; president-elect, W. Penrice; secretary, Mrs. W. Wheeler; and treasurer, R. Laffey.

A social period followed the meeting. Refreshments were served by the first and second grade parents.

Louis Normans wed 25 years

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Norman of Ann Arbor Trail were guests of honor at a Silver Wedding open house hosted by their children, David and Marilyn, on Sunday, Nov. 7 at the Plymouth Grange Hall.

Among the 100 guests who attended the celebration was the Rev. George Nevin of Chelsea who performed the wedding ceremony 25 years ago.

Cornish hens a speciality

SERVING HER CORNISH GAME hen is Mrs. Eugene Wingerson of 15047 Lakewood Dr. who uses a special wild rice dressing for this company dinner. She says she received the recipe from a chef many years ago in a restaurant which specialized in Cornish Game Hen.

For that special dinner or for a real family treat try this Cornish Game Hen with wild rice dressing suggested by Mrs. Eugene Wingerson of 15047 Lakewood Dr.

Mrs. Wingerson sends to Minnesota for a special duck marsh, long grained rice for her dressing, but, she adds, any wild rice may be used. She received the recipe from a restaurant chef many years ago.

Residents of Plymouth for two years, the Wingersons moved here from Allen Park. Their children are Liana, 15, who is a student at Plymouth High School, and John, 12, a seventh grader at Our Lady of Good Counsel school.

Mrs. Wingerson is a member of Newcomer's Club and especially enjoyed their gourmet group last year and also the golf group. She also enjoys cooking and says she is a beginning knitter.

She says she cuts the cornish hens in half and lays them in a pan on a layer of the dressing for easier eating.

CORNISH GAME HENS WITH WILD RICE

Four small, 1 1/2 lbs. (approx.) Rock Cornish Game Hens (may use frozen).

Boil necks, gizzards, hearts, liver with sliced onion in 3 cups boiling salted water. Cook till tender.

Cut 3 large or 4 small onions in 1/4 inch slices, then half those.

Chop in 2 stalks celery, diced with some celery leaves, cut fine.

Easy method to roast your turkey

You can prepare your Thanksgiving turkey in 10 easy steps, according to the Michigan State University Extension service. They suggest that frozen turkeys should be cooked soon after thawing using this easy method:

- 1. Remove thawed turkey from bag, rinse, and pat dry. 2. For roasting unstuffed bird, rub inside with salt (about 1/4 teaspoon per pound). Do not salt if bird is to be stuffed. 3. If stuffing is to be used, allow one cup per pound of turkey. 4. Fill neck cavity lightly, but do not pack. Fasten neck skin to back of turkey with skewer. 5. Stuff body cavity lightly, do not pack, since stuffing will expand while cooking. 6. Tuck legs under band of skin at tail or tie with heavy string; when 2/3 done, cut skin or string to free legs. 7. Fasten wings to body, using skewers or string. 8. Brush entire bird with shortening, oil or melted butter. For deeper color, 2 teaspoons paprika may be added to melted shortening. 9. Roast as desired at 325 Degrees F. 20 Minutes per pound. 10. When turkey is done, remove from oven, cover tightly with aluminum foil, and allow to stand about 20 minutes for easiest carving.

PHS swimmers, cagers prepare for December openers

NEW HEAD COACH Richard Bearup will count on three returning lettermen this year to improve on last year's 4-11 record in Plymouth basketball. Chuck Catlett, Jim Scharmen and Rick Jones are his only three returning lettermen. The team opens its season Dec. 3 at Walled Lake.

Winter sports for Plymouth High School kick off the first week in December.

Both swim coach John McFall, and new head basketball coach Richard Bearup will be trying to improve on last year's records.

McFall's swimmers posted a 3-11 record last year, and the cagers did little better with a 4-11 record.

McFall swimmers should be strong this year, with ten returning lettermen: Al Saxton, team captain, Pat Brady, Jeff Gustafson, Dick Lorenz, Bob Shirey, John Skinner, Ron Witthoff, John Larson, Bill Wolfe and Craig Zurn.

FINISHING third last year because of a strong performance at the season-end league meet, the swimmers open their season with a non-league foe, Wyandotte, away, Dec. 2. That meet starts at 7 p.m. They begin Suburban Six competition on Dec. 9, at home, at 7 p.m.

Both the league meet and the Suburban Relays will be held here this year, giving swim fans a chance to see a wide variety of individual and team performances.

The swimmers began practice Nov. 11, and will swim in 15 dual meets.

The JV swimmers, under assistant coach Tom Workman, will swim a similar schedule.

Dick Bearup took over from retiring Charles Ketterer as head basketball coach this year, and will have a tough row to hoe. Plymouth team's have suffered from a lack of training in the lower grades, and this was changed only last year with the founding of the Junior Basketball League.

Bearup must go with three returning lettermen: Rick Jones, who came a long way last year, who plays hard and thinks well; Jim Scharmen, lanky center who could make or break Plymouth on the backboards, and Chuck Catlett, who was overshadowed last year by other more experienced players.

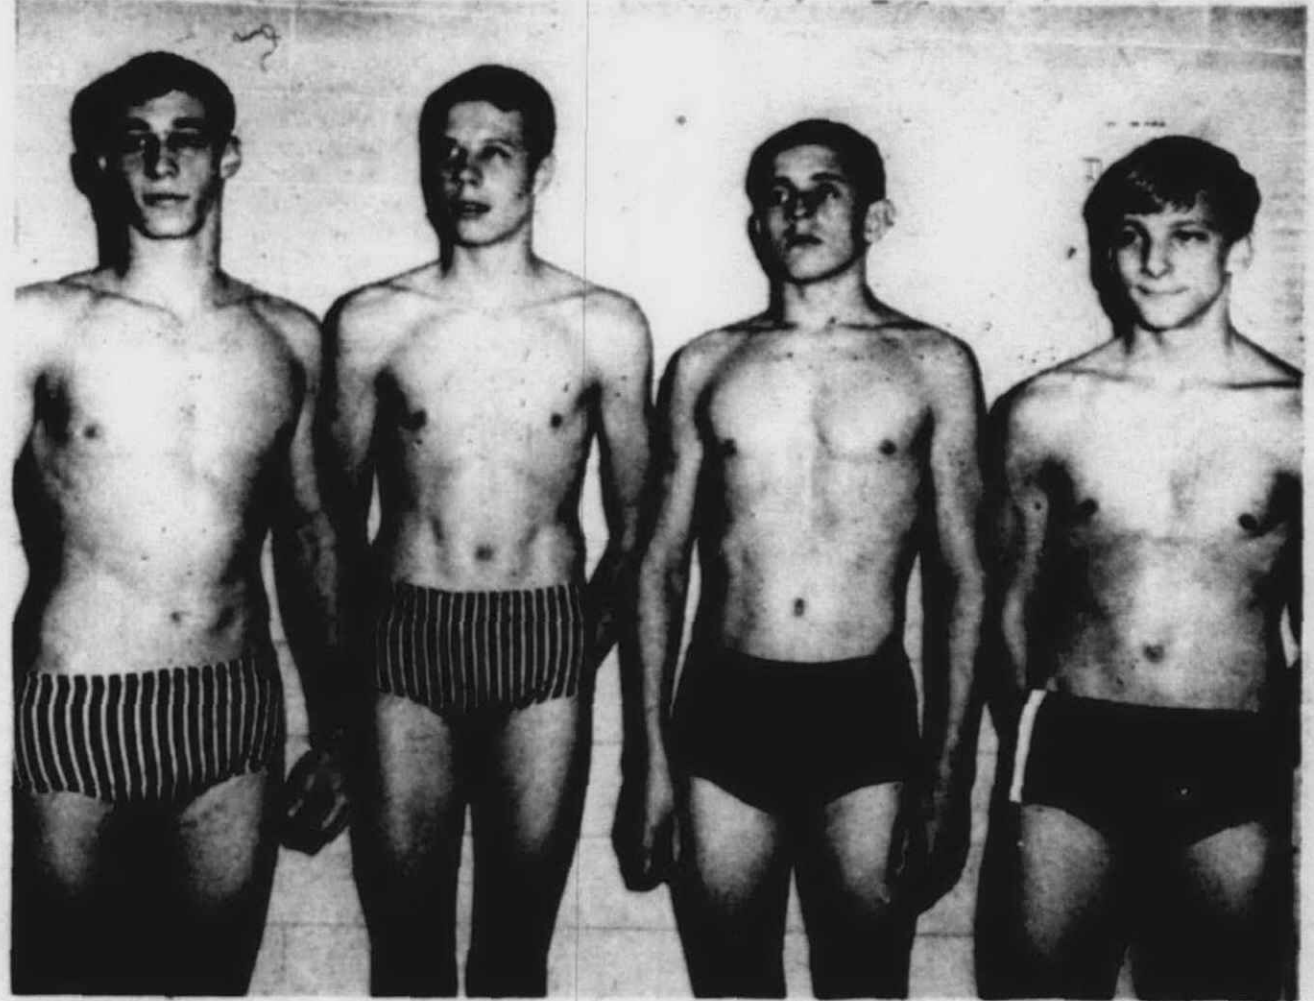

Other players expected to aid the Rocks are Ron Lowe, Steve Hulce, John Davis, John Ellison, Nate and John Luitbrand and Bill Way.

SOPHOMORE stand out Mike Stakias will probably also play; just where remains to be seen. Stakias caught the eye of the coaches last year with his work on the freshman team as a squad leader and top scorer.

He may be given a starting nod when they open their long season Dec. 3 at Walled Lake.

Junior varsity basketball will be coached by Pat Montagano, who is new to the school system. Montagano assisted John McFall and Workman with varsity football this fall.

Both the swimmers and the hard court boys stand a better than even chance to improve over last year. Just how much depends on how fast a lot of inexperienced help can jell.

Slate coaches clinic for Junior league basketball

A special rules clinic will be held Dec. 2 for all players and coaches in the Plymouth Community Junior Basketball league.

The new varsity basketball coach at Plymouth High School, Richard Bearup, will head up the clinic which will begin at 7:30 in the gym.

The varsity PHS team will be on hand to demonstrate some of the rules and concepts Bearup feels are important.

John Sandmann, athletic director at the High School, will explain various rules and fouls as the team makes them during a special demonstration scrimmage.

JOHN HOBEN and Jim Doyle, PHS guidance counselors and ex-PHS coaches, will call the fouls.

Bearup urged all players and coaches to attend the meeting. The junior leaguers will get a chance to meet the team, watch basic warmup drills, see fouls called, and watch a 10-minute scrimmage.

The clinic is one more step on the part of Plymouth's athletic leaders to help rebuild basketball in Plymouth. Last year was the first year for the junior basketball program, and it was termed a whopping success.

Plymouth youngster in national PPK finals

One Plymouth boy was among six Michigan football stars of the future who have earned the right to represent the Detroit Lions in the national semifinals of the Punt, Pass and Kick competition at Los Angeles December 18.

One title winner was David Brandon, 13, of 2195 N. Territorial Road.

Before winning area championships at halftime of the Lions-49ers game Sunday, the six Michigan youths won zone and district titles in their age brackets.

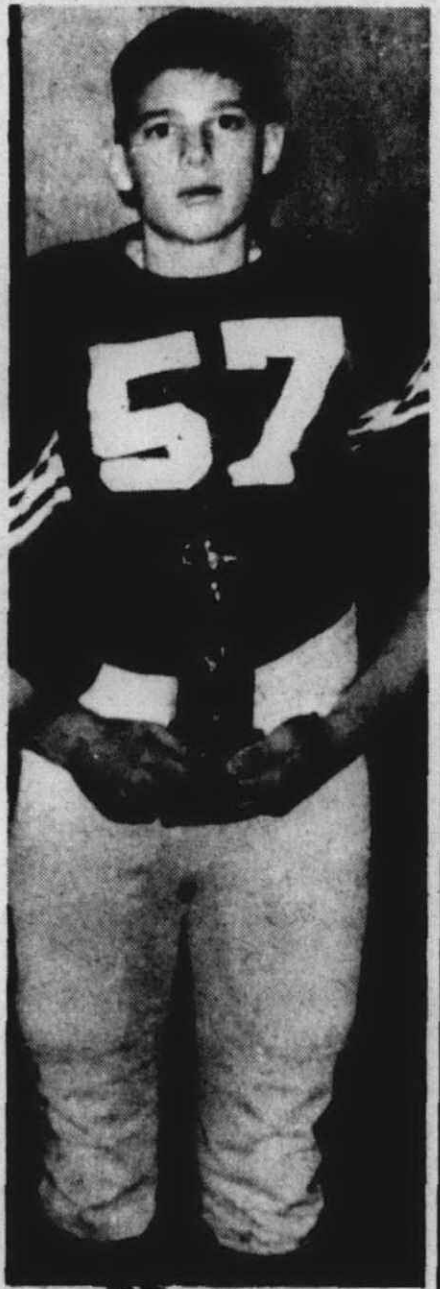

At halftime of the game between the Baltimore Colts and the Los Angeles Rams at the Coliseum next month, the six Michigan youths will square off against champions representing the six other Western game in Miami January 9. Eastern Division champions will be determined in that Division's showdown competition at Dallas December 11.

The winners at Dallas and Los Angeles — and their parents — will participate in an all-expense "Tour of Champions." It will begin with a visit to Washington, D.C., and a special tour of the White House January 7. It will be climaxed by the showdown competition in Miami's Orange Bowl January 9.

PP&K pits the punting, passing and place-kicking skills of youths 8 through 13 against those of other participants of the same age. Since its inception in 1961, the program has attracted more than 2,400,000 entries including a record 715,000 this year.

The competition is sponsored by the National Football League and the Ford dealers of America.

Now! New Chevelle SS 396 by Chevrolet

New '66 Chevelle SS 396 Convertible and Sport Coupe.

Equipped with a Turbo-Jet 396 V8, special suspension and red stripe tires.

These cars weren't meant for the driver who is willing to settle for frills.

They're engineered from the chassis on up as no-compromise road machines.

Standard output of the new Turbo-Jet 396 V8—which powers both models—is 325 hp. This remarkably efficient power plant is also available in a 360-hp version.

So much for what happens on straightaways. How about curves? You ride on a special SS 396 chassis—with flat-cornering suspension and wide-base wheels.

A fully synchronized 3-speed transmission is standard. Or you can order a 4-speed or Powerglide—also Strato-bucket front seats, center console and full instrumentation.

Sound like a car you could get serious over? That, as you'll see at your dealer's, is precisely how Chevrolet engineers planned it. Seriously.

See the new '66 Chevrolet, Chevelle, Chevy II, Corvair and Corvette at your Chevrolet dealer's

Call for Goodfellows

A renewed call for Plymouth Goodfellows to attend the meeting scheduled for Wednesday, December 1 at 7 p.m. in the Fire Hall at Plymouth's City Hall was issued this week.

The Old Newsboys will make final plans for their December 11 paper sale at the meeting and a photograph of the group will be taken.

As usual, on the day of the sale, the newsboys will meet for an early morning breakfast at Ellis Restaurant on Main St. across from The Plymouth Mail. Proceeds from the annual drive will be used to assure that no Plymouth child goes without a Christmas.

Heater fire doused by quick worker

A space heater being used by workers repairing the old Transport Container Inc. building near Farmer St. and the C & O tracks caused a small fire last Sunday.

According to City firemen, the fire spread when oil leaked from the heater, but a worker grabbed a pail of water and put it out. "They were lucky," reported assistant fire chief George Schoeneman.

The building is being remodeled to house Tower Industry Inc.

Make plans for Christian Science Thanksgiving

The traditional Thanksgiving Day service of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1100 W. Ann Arbor Trail, will be held at 10:30 Thursday morning.

The public is invited. This annual service is distinctive for its concluding testimony period when any Christian Scientist in the congregation may rise and openly express his individual thanks to God for blessings received.

What you need to get new plates

Michigan's responsible motorists can have as bad a time with the new Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Act as the uninsured' it's intended to penalize, but the insurance industry is making every possible effort to see that they don't.

What you need to get new plates

MANY POLICIES don't qualify. Some lack the vehicle number. Some are continuous, with no specific expiration date. And there's a lag between the original evidence of newly-acquired insurance and the issuance of a policy with a number. In addition, the administrators wanted something which could be checked quickly, and the information on policies is in many forms.

The insurance industry proposed a simple solution - that each motorist be permitted to make an affidavit, which could be verified at any time with the named insurer. This was declined on the grounds that it would invite perjury to avoid the $35 charge, and thus cut the revenue of the Claims fund.

With the evidence, an owner pays $1 to the Claims fund, in addition to the regular license plate cost. Without it, he faces the frustration and lost time of having to go after it and to make a second trip for his plates, unless he wants to pay the $35 charge for uninsured vehicles.

The Claims Act places the responsibility on each vehicle owner to produce evidence that he is insured. It doesn't define evidence. But logically it shouldn't need to. Each motorist's insurance policy, which is the actual insurance contract, is the best possible evidence.

This has been accepted by the Secretary of State's Office, which administers the Act - but with an important if. The policy must include: The owner's name; the year, make and number of the vehicle; and the insuring company's name (preferably also the agent's name), the policy number, an expiration date later than the date of license plate purchase, and the signature of an authorized representative of the company.

Red brick, one-room schoolhouses part of Plymouth's modern system

By DOUG JOHNSON
Mail News Editor

The one-room schoolhouse is one of those vanishing sentimental remembrances of the "good old days."

The Plymouth Community School District has from time to time added outlying districts, and thus acquired one-room schoolhouses. They have been shut down. This fall, two new districts, South Salem Stone and Geer District, became part of Plymouth's, and thus two more one-room schoolhouses were added.

They are open this year. The one at Geer is technically a two-room schoolhouse, being divided to accommodate two teachers. A third, called Truesdell, is in Canton Township, is about 70 years old, and houses only first and second grades.

The little red brick schoolhouse stands as one of the cornerstones of American democracy and education. Ojtimers from the rural areas fondly remember the long walk to school, the wood stove, the ink wells and the smell of chalk.

The schools stand in our minds as monuments to old-fashioned ideals, humble beginnings, practical education and rural life.

Part of American heritage, it is with some reluctance, both in Plymouth and elsewhere, that they are closed.

SO THIS year, both for a sentimental and a practical reason, the Stone and Salem schools were kept open.

Stone is located on the corner of North Territorial Road and Curtis Road. Built in 1859 of stones probably gathered from nearby fields, it has withstood 106 years of screaming youngsters, the elements and countless community meetings. Today it looks the same on the outside as the day it was built. Inside, however, it has been remodeled, with modern lighting and plumbing added.

The Geer School on West Ann Arbor Rd. is of red brick, and has the traditional weather vane atop its sturdy roof.

This one was built in 1880, is also remodeled inside, and has had an addition built on it to create a second class room.

In both schools, the teachers teach more than one grade. Mrs. Elizabeth Haliker, and Mr. George Dodson teach at Geer. In a recent interview, conducted on the day of Halloween parties in the schools, they commented on their feelings about their school:

"We don't have a lot of the frills," Mrs. Haliker said. "But rural schools are a part of my life. I'll be sorry to see them go."

Mrs. Haliker, a bustling, kindly and friendly woman, said she stuck to the fundamentals in her teaching.

"There's just something about a rural school. It's democracy to the 'enth' degree. The children are even responsible for the school building. This is the first year we have had somebody to sweep the floors."

George Dodson is the other teacher at Geer. He is a quiet, handsome man with a soft southern accent.

"THE THING I appreciate about a rural school over other schools that are so large is the liaison, or rapport between parents and teachers. You get to know the whole family. You even know who's sick in the family."

Both Mrs. Haliker and Dodson said they felt the school was the center for the little community in that area. She teaches the lower grades, Dodson the upper (4-6).

Both say that their students might not have the polish of the students that come out of one of Plymouth's more modern schools, like say Farrand.

"But I'll put my little readers up against any school in the state," Mrs. Haliker says proudly. "I will too," Dodson added. "They don't miss a thing out here."

Some of the "frills" have made their way into the school. A physical education teacher comes out on a regular basis. They get their music over FM radio from Ann Arbor and the University of Michigan. An art teacher also visits the school.

Both teachers use the closeness of nature to teach science, and feel that it is another advantage they hold over urban schools.

Mrs. Nancy Malecki teaches at the Stone school. "One of the things nice about it is that all the children from one neighborhood are in one room," she said. "That way they are more of a single group. In the bigger schools the children often see their neighbors only on Saturdays."

She has kinder garden through fourth grade. She notes that the parents of some of her students went to the school many years ago.

The older children help the younger ones, she said, and commented on several children in one room from the same family:

"They come with their older sisters and brothers so there is no traumatic experience in adjusting to the school. The adjustment is very, very easy."

Mrs. Malecki devotes much of her time to the school, and often has to stay late to clear up work. She feels one disadvantage arises because she is with the children virtually all day. "There's no chance to get away from them," she said. "But I like it."

Russell Isbister, superintendent of schools for the Plymouth Community School District, likes the schools, provided they are adequately equipped and staffed.

"There are certain work habits, personal habits that in the past took place in that setting that are hard to duplicate, and are difficult to transplant into an urban school," Isbister commented recently.

The teacher-student relationships are unique and valuable, Isbister feels. But the teacher needs up to date equipment.

He himself feels a sort of nostalgic attachment to the one-room schools, having attended one for eight years.

CONSIDERABLE self-direction and personal attributes can be developed in such a setting. And, in modern terms, it is an ungraded school in which children learn from each other," he said.

Isbister said the parents involved with the two schools urged that they be continued, and were pleased when told they would be.

The other one-room school house, Truesdell, is a miniature version of Plymouth's larger, modern elementary schools. It is not the ungraded, old one-room schoolhouse. Only kindergarten and first graders attend it.

A position in a one-room school house is one of the most difficult of all teaching assignments. It demands modern training and broad experience, coupled with patience, and the best modern equipment available.

The one-room schools were born in rural America and served the children of families in farm communities and isolated areas.

They were created to solve a problem—remoteness and isolation. That problem has been solved by rapid transportation and consolidated community school districts like Plymouth's.

The romantic feeling towards the value of a rural school setting still exists; but modern school systems have many more resources than a single one-room school district.

IN THE END, the one-room school houses will be shut down. The children will be packed off to the cinder block, glass and terrazzo palaces of the city.

For some it will be a sad time; the one-room school house has become like the Model A and crystal radio set—monuments to a cherished but dead era.

THE OLD-FASHIONED red brick school house is passing from the American scene. The Plymouth Community School District has one, located on W. Ann Arbor Rd. and run by two teachers, Mrs. Elizabeth Haliker and George Dodson. The school, known as the Geer School, was built in 1880, and was annexed to Plymouth's district last summer.

Thanksgiving message from Lutheran pastor

that He has given us turkeys and birds and bees and families and warm homes and flags and discount stores and a free nation and pilgrims (without whom, after all, Plymouth would be non-existent) and money-in-the-bank and school busses and charge accounts and colonial architecture and . . . all the other people and things which please us.

Dare we take the time to be thankful for the rest of life, for the "left-over" people whose ideas never quite reach the plateau of acceptance by the multitudes who compose the "majority"? Perhaps we, for whom the Bible is authority, will have to ignore it this time, unless we want our Thanksgiving marred by what appears to be an unrealistic injunction to offer thanks for all men.

But, on the other hand, what's the sense of Thanksgiving if we can only say, "Lord, I thank thee that I'm not like that other guy."? What's the sense of Thanksgiving if we never look beyond the over-filled table and out the window into a world made by a God who created more than "our kind"?

So we must give thanks for all men: For communists who not only help us understand what freedom means, but who also serve as an arm of God's judgment against our national self-satisfaction; for agnostics who continually question our "little faith" until at last we are able to know what we believe; for demonstrators, both civil rights and anti-war, who force us to recognize that God's world has room for more than one point of view, even if that point of view comes from the Pentagon itself.

We must give thanks for all men, even for the prophets of our age, the Albees and Kings and Alinskys, who will not let society rest with a false peace of mind, men who help us see ourselves for what we are so that we might also see what we ought to be.

Is it not possible for us just once to turn from our self-chosen blessings and offer thanks for a world not-of-our-making, a world infinitely filled with a knowledge greater than our own, a world of people who serve us and save us even when we don't want to be served or saved?

Offer thanks for all men and, who knows, having done so we might also learn to love all men. How can we remain separated from those for whom we are led to offer thanks? How can we remain alienated from those whom God has made and loved even though they fail to conform to our standards? One of the other meddlers of the Bible wrote, "He who says he loves God and hates his neighbor is a liar."

So be it. It isn't a very big step from thanking to love. If we can offer thanks for all men, perhaps we can also love the unlovable and accept the unacceptable. That, after all, is what makes for peace — and until that comes there isn't much else for which to be thankful.

So let Thanksgiving Day come, but let it be more than the opening of the Christmas season, more than a time for self-satisfied suburbanites to gorge themselves on heaps of blessings with all the trimmings. Let it be a day for a new beginning and a new thankfulness and a new love.

Let it be a time to understand that, as W. H. Auden wrote, "We must love one another or die."

and censure. If Americans truly believe in freedom in Democracy, this freedom must be a reality. If it is not reality, Americans are absolute hypocrites and the 'American way of life' is a farce and a doomed lie.

"Censorship is absolutely contrary to the spirit of democracy for it shows intolerance of opinions which are different from the accepted and the norm or which differ from the ideas and opinions of the censor.

"If the school administrators choose to become censors and ban or suppress every new concept that comes into this school, we may as well forget it."

"There will be no intellectual, physical or artistic freedom or democracy in PHS."

KONTOS said he hoped the Faculty Advisory Committee took a long look at the situation.

"It's still on the agenda. It needs further explanation and some recommendations for specific policies — consistent policies," Kontos said.

If the FAC group can not handle the matter, Kontos has indicated he will take the matter before the Plymouth Education Association, the professional teachers' group.

PEA president Jim Doyle said he would reserve speaking on the issue until Kontos came before the PEA.

"Our professional problem committee will hear the case," Doyle said.

Brown was to seek waivers from area residents, but failed to produce them. The planners had denied the request on a split vote citing spot zoning as their reason. Russell Ash and John Weisler had moved for approval with Clayton Koch abstaining.

The new plan, on a site across from the new trailer court on Ridge Rd., is more complex.

"It's a cohesive community molded around the needs of senior citizens," Brown said.

The rest home complex is located on 27 acres, and will be up for a public hearing in December, at the regular meeting of the commission.

Play cancellation is breath of fresh air

November 19, 1965

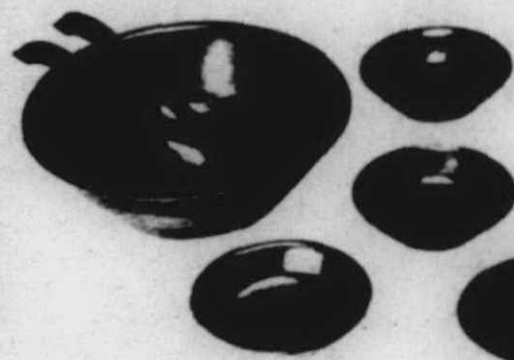

Editor Plymouth Mail Plymouth, Michigan Dear Editor

Would like to commend Mr. Bentley, our High School principal, Mr. Isbister, superintendent of schools, and other school officials for their recent action in cancelling two plays, deemed objectionable, which had been scheduled for production by students in the High School.

It's like a breath of air in this day when "moral decay in the U.S. is a problem of growing concern" (Jenkins Lloyd Jones, Editor, Tulsa Tribune).

Yours sincerely, Mrs. Dunbar Davis 1325 W. Ann Arbor Trail

Bones are arched with foot at rest

On weight-bearing, 'arch' flattens and disappears

Cavity formed in insole across ball and arch becomes 'depressed'

Actually, according to an article that Willoughby spotted in a trade publication, metatarsal distress is very common among women - simply because they wear heels over one inch in height. The higher the heel, the more the body weight is borne in the metatarsal area.
Uh huh, you reply, what's the metatarsal area?
Well, that's the part of the foot often referred to as the metatarsal arch - but the existence of which is doubted by some.
What is supposed to be the metatarsal arch consists of the heads of the five metatarsal bones across the ball of the foot.
The basis of the differences of opinion about the arch, however, is because when the foot is at rest (not bearing weight), there is an arch in this area.
But when the foot bears weight as in standing or walking, the arch flattens out and disappears.
More foot ills are experienced in the metatarsal area than in any other part of the foot. It is a common site of heavy callouses, sometimes corns; and sensations such as burning, numbness, toe cramps, aches and pains are also found here.
Ordinarily, 50 per cent of the weight is supposed to be borne by the heel. But when military pulls on a pair of high heels, most of the heel's share of weight shifts to the ball of the foot.
Metatarsal heads aren't built to take all this weight and that's where the trouble starts. Nature tries to form a protective coating of callous under the ball. But after a while this accumulated callous causes more harm than help.

To relieve these distressing symptoms, shoemen and doctors will usually use a pear-shaped metatarsal pad placed just behind the metatarsal heads in an effort to give some "lift" to these bones and relieve direct pressure on them.
This usually offers some temporary relief, but it's no cure.
The best cure or remedy is to get the foot to resume its normal stance in flat or low heels, so that the heel of the foot can bear its normal share of the weight, and the ball of the foot can be relieved of excessive weight-bearing.
In "fallen" metatarsal arch, shoemen can usually find a cavity in the center of the ball of the insole area of the worn shoe. This is because the three middle metatarsal heads have been depressed below the flat level.
The use of the metatarsal pad is actually to fill in this cavity, and to once again create a flat level which is more normal for the metatarsal "arch" on weight-bearing.
So, if your feet hurt, maybe you've been suffering all this time from metatarsal distress and didn't know it.
Now, if you'll pardon the pun, you can take steps to "de-feet" it.

Mr. Robert Mallory-Plymouth, Inc., Mallory Chrysler-Plymouth, 111 Lilley Rd. (Mill St.) corner of Ann Arbor Rd., Plymouth, Michigan

Dear Mr. Mallory:

I am compelled to write you this letter to inform you I just how pleased I am with my 1966 Plymouth Fury 111 just how pleased I am with my four-speed transmission and just how hardtop with the over 40 years of two-door hardtop from you last week. In appearance, purchasing this is the finest automobile...appearance, driving, safety and operation that I have been privileged to drive.

It was also a great pleasure meeting service manager Harry Mowen. He gives me the feeling of utmost confidence in the service performance of your dealership.

Allow me to ask now about a service appointment to obtain the item you had advised me was missed by the factory upon delivery...the motor.

Love and kisses,
Grandma

P.S. You might also advise your customers of the other great advantage in buying those beautiful Plymouth...and Chrysler cars from Mallory Chrysler-Plymouth...and this is it ingratiates them with the Irish...and this is important...what with St. Patrick's day almost upon us!

Park-Woods Wanderings

From the smell of pumpkin in the air and the slightly raised look of some of our busy homemakers, it's not hard to tell that come the Thanksgiving celebration, there will be a great deal of traffic headed toward, and away from, our little community.

A very special feeling of Thanksgiving will prevail in the home of Dr. and Mrs. David McCubbery. They will not only celebrate the holiday with Mrs. McCubbery's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Lambert, but their new born daughter, Doris Ann, born Nov. 13, will swell the ranks.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Shultz of Elm Street are preparing to entertain the Joan Breeden family from Dearborn. The tradition of these old friends joining forces for the annual feast has been going on for several years.

A full house is expected at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Jacobs, his brother, Dr. James Jacobs, and Mrs. Milton T. Obee in Ann Arbor, where they will be joined by the Robert P. Coopers, Patricia and Tom, from Grand Rapids. Mrs. McCord and Mrs. Cooper are sisters.

Friends of Jeff Cardinal will be pleased to know that his daughter, Nancy, will journey to Interlochen for a visit with their son, Norman, who is a student there this year.

An interesting note from St. John's Episcopal Church - the bread and wine to be used for the Thanksgiving Com-

Assembly to vote on scholarship for Negro

The Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity will meet Wednesday, Nov. 17, at which time the proposed Scholarship Program will be presented for vote of the membership.

The intention is that this scholarship fund will send a Negro student to School each year. Selections will be made from the Detroit area, based on the individual's financial need. Members of the Assembly's school committee will be on hand to outline the plan.

Fifty dollars of the estimated $1,000 necessary to set up the fund has already been received, a gift from the Plymouth Ministerial Association.

Voting will be limited to members whose dues are currently paid; it is hoped that all members of the Assembly who haven't attended to this matter yet will be on hand to pay their dollar and cast their vote.

In addition to the scholarship fund vote, the group will relate the Fourth Petition of the Lord's Prayer to the reaction of citizens to the affluence of our present economy. The children of the Lutheran Day School will sing the traditional Dutch Hymn of Thanksgiving under the direction of Richard Scharf.

St. Peter's service

The National Thanksgiving Day will be observed in a special service at 10 a.m. Thursday, at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, 1343 Penniman at Evergreen. The service is open to all people of the community.

The Thanksgiving sermon by Pastor Norman Berg will relate the Fourth Petition of the Lord's Prayer to the reaction of citizens to the affluence of our present economy.

The children of the Lutheran Day School will sing the traditional Dutch Hymn of Thanksgiving under the direction of Richard Scharf.

Evans buys pre-cut home company

Evans Products Company today announced agreements for the acquisition of the Capp-Homes group of companies, leading manufacturer of pre-cut and custom-built homes in the Middle West, for approximately $9.5 million in cash and common stock.

The Capp-Homes group consists of M. Capp Manufacturing Company, International Housing Corporation and Rand Acceptance Corporation, all headquartered in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Evans will acquire the assets and liabilities of Capp and International for cash and the stock of Rand in exchange for 23,000 shares of Evans common stock.

The Rand acquisition is designed to be a tax-free exchange and will be accounted for as a pooling of interests. The International transaction is subject to the approval of its stockholders at a meeting to be held in Minneapolis on Nov. 30.

In 1964, the Capp-Homes group had total revenues in excess of $10,757,000 and net earnings of approximately $1,000,000. For the first nine months of 1965, Evans reported revenues of $138,571,000 and net earnings of $9,000,000.

This acquisition, which

The Passage-Gayde Unit No. 391 was honored at our meeting by the presence of our 17th District President, Laura McDougall. Mrs. McDougall stated that the 17th District was in first place in the state of Michigan in the membership race as of Nov. 11.

Mrs. McDougall and her husband, David McDougall, currently the Department Membership Chairman of the American Legion, had attended the 9th Zone meeting in Cadillac. At this meeting it was announced that a special discussion of the "Homestead Act" would take place in Lansing on Dec. 7 at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. McDougall urged all Post and Unit members to attend the area that day.

CP issues College begins 'co-op' program

Thirty-five students have been selected to participate in the Cooperative Training Program in January, at Schoolcraft College.

These students will receive training at the college in the area of office and distributive education.

Their schedules are arranged to permit them to work for a minimum of 15 hours per week for businessmen in the community.

Local businessmen and women are invited to participate in this program by offering on-the-job-training to these young people. The student-trainee is provided with a flexible college curriculum which includes both general and specialized education.

The coordinator works with the employer to evaluate the progress of the trainee and to serve as a liaison between the school and the community.

The training is a joint project between the business and the college with both working toward a common end.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the college coordinator, Mrs. Sanborn, at 391-6400, extension 341.

The new rate provides for a minimum monthly bill for $5,000 per month except on January, February and March when restrictions on usage allow the elimination of the minimum charge.

The company said the charges are designed to increase the volume of gas sales and to help attract additional industrial and commercial customers to its service area.

THIS IS ONE of a series of Consumers Power rate reductions approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission which have totaled more than $6,500,000. These included a cut in the company's gas rates to residential, commercial and industrial customers on May 18, 1964, totaling $1,700,000.

Associated Spring Dividends

Directors of Associated Spring Corporation today declared a fourth quarter dividend of 35 cents per share and a year-end extra of 20 cents per share.

Both amounts are payable Dec. 10, to shareholders of record as of the close of business Dec. 1. The corporation has 1,143,029 common shares outstanding.

In the second quarter this year, the dividend was increased to 35 cents from 25 cents.

Watchtower representative will speak

T. L. Eleas of Brooklyn, New York, accompanied by his wife, Nola, is visiting the Plymouth congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses this week.

Eleas is an ordained minister and is serving as a special representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York. He is currently supervising the Christian activity of sixteen congregations in southeastern Michigan and northern Ohio.

Previously Eleas was circuit supervisor in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa. He is a graduate of the Watchtower Bible School of Gilead of New York.

The week of activity will include a program on Saturday evening at 8 p.m., entitled, "New Things Learned." During the hour long program there will be a review of some of the things that the congregation has studied during the past several months.

THE CLIMAX of the visit by Mr. and Mrs. Eleas will be Sunday afternoon at 6 p.m. when Eleas will speak on the subject, "What to do to Gain Lasting Life in Happiness." All sessions are open to the public.

The Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses is located at 774 N. Sheldon Road.

Serving Our Country

Machinist's Mate Fireman Apprentice Mackie D. Golden, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Golden of 354 N. Main St., is participating in the U. S. First Fleet's training exercise, "Range Bush" Nov. 18-24, while serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Ranger.

The week-long exercise off the coast of Southern California involves ships of the First Fleet and several naval air units, comprising "friendly" forces, in aerial reconnaissance, anti-air and anti-submarine warfare operations against the "enemy" air, surface and sub-surface Navy units. The exercise will increase the combat readiness of the First Fleet.

Airman George J. Flora, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Flora of 45260 N. Territorial Road, has returned to Alameda, Calif., aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea after an 11-month deployment to the Western Pacific.

Coral Sea received her first taste of combat Feb. 7, when she was ordered to launch the first wave of Navy strike aircraft to hit the Dong Hoi military complex in North Viet Nam.

Following the first retaliatory air strike against North Viet Nam, Coral Sea and her embarked air wing-carrier Air Wing 15, launched more than 60 major strikes against military targets in North Viet Nam. She also flew numerous strikes against Viet Cong strongholds in South Viet Nam.

Plymouth Hi-lites

by Judi King

It's Thanksgiving—time for all PH'Sers to give thanks for—Turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce...
Two extra days to work on fast approaching due dates for term papers and book reports...

But most of all, for another little town called Plymouth—a town which first gave its thanks to God on this same day for the hardships it had sustained.
A town for which there might not have been a Plymouth, Michigan 1965 had it not survived to give those thanks.

It's something to think about...
Mrs. Brigitte Rauer, German teacher, the Reverend Peter Beckwith, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, and senior Mary Arnold all spoke at the annual Thanksgiving assembly last Thursday.

Reverend Beckwith spoke on the topic of "Thanksgiving and Teenagers." Mrs. Rauer told of her trip to Russia this summer, and Mary gave a reading.

The Choir sang "Triumph Thanksgiving," "Sing to the Lord of Harvest," and "O Holy Lord."
The assembly was sponsored by the Student Council, with Mistress of Ceremonies, Rhea Fluckey, as assembly chairman.

Newly-elected officers of the German Club are Mary Fink, president; Rick Jones, vice-president; Cindy Erdelyi, secretary; Kay Zoet, treasurer; and Mary Vallier, program director. The club extends an invitation for all those students interested in

Name Barber head of cancer foundation

Plymouth was well represented Wednesday evening as Dr. Ray R. Barber, 1029 Harding, became president of the Michigan Cancer Foundation's Western Wayne County Board of Trustees.

The event was the group's annual dinner meeting at Lofy's. Besides Dr. Barber there were three other board members from Plymouth.

Dr. David McCubrey, 1490 Maple, retired as vice-president, but remains on the board. Mrs. Harry Bartel, 12700 Dunn Court, and Dr. Robert Meek, 1329 Beech, are also board members.

The board is made up of business, professional and volunteer people in the various communities served by the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

A Torch Drive Agency, the Foundation maintains a service center for cancer patients at 173 N. Main as well as providing educational programs, films and other free services to local organizations and groups.

3.) By visiting special programs in other schools.
4.) By talking to PHS alumni.
Members for a committee will be chosen by Tom and Mayor Mary Theeke.

Roberta VanMeter and Norman Fischer are now attending Interlochen Arts Academy this year. The violinist and cellist will attend the well-known school of music for the rest of the semester.
The Choir attended a Suburban Six League Festival last Thursday, Nov. 19, at Bentley High School. The six schools formed one choir and presented a concert.

Seniors are reminded that the deadline for Christmas cards and money is coming soon. Today was the last day for ordering engraved cards, and next week will be the last week to order any other cards. Money and samples are due in the Christmas card room by Dec. 16.

Just to end the column on a hi-lite—
For all you "swingers"—here is the calendar for the next few dances—
This Saturday—at the Chip, the Stringbenders will be performing.
Friday, December 3, the Pilgrim Prints dance.
Friday, December 10, the Sophomore-sponsored dance.
So—have a ball!

An idea proposed by Senator Class President Tom Chandler has raised quite a lot of interest and enthusiasm from the Student Council. The idea—to allow students to have some say in the choosing of classes for a school's curriculum.
It was Tom's plan that this would be accomplished in four ways:

1.) By questioning a proportional cross-section of the student body to find out their ideas about the weaknesses and strengths of the present system and how to improve it.
2.) By sitting in on school board meetings.
