

Evans spends $3 million to expand plant

Evans Products this week announced a $3 million expansion program, close upon the heels of a $1.5 million program revealed earlier this summer.

The expansion is in the car-building plant.

James J. Conway, vice president and transportation equipment division manager, said the latest addition includes $2,500,000 in building construction with the balance in machinery and equipment.

Conway noted that the addition would be completed in the spring and that it would add considerably to the production and product capabilities of the car-building facility.

Capacity of the plant will increase from the present five cars a day to ten new freight cars a day.

EVANS car building plant, originally built in September, 1964, covers 57,000 square feet. Conway said that the addition announced a few months ago plus the new $3 million expansion program will increase the size of the facility to approximately 300,000 square feet, including additional crane ways.

Evans orders for freight cars have been rapidly increasing, and totaled $21,600,000 by this fall.

Sam Hudson, director of advertising and public relations for the company, commented on the announcement:

"When we first announced the car building operation, we were building specialty freight cars. When we recently took an order for 500 box cars, that took us more out of the specialty line into all kinds of cars. It means further involvement by Evans in the whole business of freight cars," Hudson said.

HUDSON said he could not guess how much new employment it would mean. He did note that even now they were short of skilled labor, particularly welders.

Besides freight cars, Evans makes rail and truck damage prevention equipment at its Plymouth plant.

And through its recent acquisition of the Chicago-based United States Railway Company, the division manufactures, upgrades and leases freight cars at Blue Island, Illinois.

Evans manufactures freight car brake beams and box car doors through another recent purchase, the Chicago Railway Equipment Co.

Last week, Evans Products announced the purchase of a pre-cut home company—Capp Homes, for $9.5 million in cash and common stock.

TWO TOP EXECUTIVES at Evans Products Co. on Eckles Rd. oversee work on a gigantic expansion program. G. H. Deska, left, general manager of Evans railway car building facility, and Robert E. Mills, director of manufacturing, railway car division, look over a portion of a new assembly bay. A new phase of the expansion was announced Monday, with a $3 million expenditure planned.

Doors open Saturday for master plan

Two years of work by the Plymouth Township planning commission go up for public review Saturday, when the 701 master plan is scheduled for a six-hour public hearing.

The hearing has been set for 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4, at the Township Hall at 42350 Ann Arbor Rd.

The 701 plan is the federally aided comprehensive development and land use plan made possible by the Urban Renewal Administration of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, under the Urban Planning Assistance Program authorized by Section 701 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended, administered by the Michigan Department of Economic Development.

Maps and copies of the plan have been available at the Township Hall for the past 15 days. Supervisor John McEwen reported that response to the plan has been good, and that several people have been in to go over it, particularly last Saturday.

THE KEY FEATURE of the plan, as the planners and their consultant, W. C. Johnson see it, is the neighborhood unit development plan.

The plan calls for creation of neighborhood units within the natural boundaries formed by major highway arteries. Each unit would be served by a shopping area and an elementary school.

The total effect of the plan is the end to strip commercial development along major thoroughfares.

Appropriate zoning has been provided to assure the commercial development will be limited to key corners on high-traffic roads.

Another feature is the retention of the Central Business District of the City of Plymouth as the core of the entire area. Planners at earlier meetings pointed to this as a co-operative gesture toward the City by the Township.

Planners are quick to point out that the new plans will not hold up forever, nor solve all the Township's problems now, or in the future.

THE PLAN, some 150 bound pages, contains a complete map of new land use patterns (zoning), utility, freeway routes, major highways, traffic volumes, and locations of schools, fire halls, civic and municipal areas. Comprehensive tables outlining capital improvements are also included.

Industrial acreage has been planned for, totaling about 11% of the area available. Much of the land is north of the C & O tracks and west of Sheldon Rd.

Two proposals are urged for immediate action by the plan:

● Taking a long look at a proposed Township Center on a site along North Territorial Rd. The site would include a police and fire headquarters, an administration building, a library, (Continued on Page 3)

Businessmen's Forum: Vivian on space

Congressman Weston E. Vivian will speak to the Chamber of Commerce's Businessmen's Forum Thursday, Dec. 2.

The luncheon meeting will be held in the John T. Alden

Weston E. Vivian Room of the Mayflower Hotel.

Vivian is expected to discuss the United States Space Program and his work in this area as a member of the Science, Research and Development subcommittee and the Science and Astronautics Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Vivian will spend the entire day in the area meeting with constituents at the following times and locations:

- 10:00 to 10:45 a.m. - Superior Township Hall
- 11:00 to 11:45 a.m. - Plymouth Township Hall
- 3:00 to 4:00 p.m. - Northville Township Hall
- 5:00 to 6:00 p.m. - Plymouth Post Office

CONGRESSMAN Vivian will have returned the evening before from Los Angeles, where he is participating in a Congressional investigation of the reasons for the delays in the Surveyor lunar satellite program.

Recently he visited Cape Kennedy on the same mission and, also in Florida, he addressed an international conference on the application of satellite technology to civilian uses.

Await land appraisal in housing plan

Further decisions on the City of Plymouth's senior housing project will be held up momentarily, pending an appraisal on a site the owner has said he will not sell.

That was the informal decision arrived at by the City Commission and the Plymouth Housing Commission Monday night in a joint committee-of-the-whole session.

The sessions, although public, are informal, and no binding action can be taken.

The site in question is owned by Jack Wilcox and is located on the corner of Union and Penniman Streets near the tip of Kellogg Park. Two weeks ago he charged the City with secrecy in the project, announced he would not sell the site, and said he would fight it in the courts.

The Commissioners carefully skirted the issue of Wilcox's objections.

KENNETH FISHER, City administrative aide and member of the Housing Commission, told The Mail that the meeting should not be construed as one which determined the City would fight Wilcox.

The commission discussed the following problems with the project:

- (1) Lack of colonial flavor in the schematic drawings as they now stand.
- (2) A proposed extension (Continued on Page 2)

PLYMOUTH SYMPHONY

Handel's 'Messiah' part of concert

Christmas in Plymouth means, among other things, the annual holiday concert by the renowned Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

This year it will be held on Dec. 12, at Plymouth High School, in the gym, beginning at 4 p.m.

Two groups will add to the Christmas program: the Ann Arbor Cantata Singers and the Ann Arbor Recorder Society and singers.

The Cantata Singers—30 voices strong—are directed by Richard Crawford, teacher at the University of Michigan.

THE ANN ARBOR Recorder Society as formed in 1954 to provide an opportunity for ensembles to play ancient instruments in the traditional chamber or drawing room setting.

Both groups will perform at the concert. The program includes:

● Ceremonial Tower music with a brass choir from the orchestra, and the singing of the Ann Arbor Cantata Singers.

● Selections of Christmas music of the 16th and 17th centuries by the Recorder Society and singers.

● Selections from the "Messiah" by Handel, with the orchestra and the Cantata Singers.

● The Santa Claus Symphony, 4th movement, by William Henry Fry (1813-1884).

● A chorale—the prelude on Palmsong: "Veni, Sancta, Spiritus," by Yardumian.

● Selections from the "Nutcracker Suite" by Tchaikovsky.

The Christmas concert will be the third of this, the 20th season. Wayne Dunlay will conduct. The concert is free, and (Continued on Page 3)

Stops fireman with gun, threat

Plymouth Township fireman James Gignac's Thanksgiving was spoiled last week when a late afternoon call brought him to a house at 45170 Joy Rd. on a fire call.

He was greeted at the door by Charles McQueen who would not allow Gignac in his home to investigate a call placed by McQueen's wife, Judy McQueen, according to Plymouth Township fire reports.

McQueen backed up what he said with two shot guns placed near at hand, Gignac said.

Gignac reported that the man was belligerent, and drunk. Fearing a fire existed, Gignac said he called in the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol.

OFFICERS at the Road Patrol headquarters reported Monday that McQueen was abusive to the officers, resisted arrest, scuffled with one patrolman, and was finally carted off to jail.

Mrs. McQueen had called the fire department to report her husband had set a closet on fire.

Shortly after the incident, McQueen was taken from the jail to nearby Wayne County General Hospital, where, according to detective bureau officers, he underwent psychiatric care.

In the course of the fire and call and the summoning of the police, McQueen shot a hole in a ceiling in his home.

Township fireman Gignac said he heard the shot. Sgt. Fred Knapp investigated the fire, and reported a small area burned on the floor near the couch.

PLYMOUTH Township fire chief Barney Maes said their report indicated McQueen had been drinking heavily, and had had a fight with his wife.

City fathers await land appraisal on senior housing project

 of Union St. which would mean cutting off the end of Kellogg Park.
 (3) Land area that would not fit the City's current land per unit restrictions for multiple dwellings.
 The three items, and a long discussion of other possible sites, occupied the three-hour meeting.
 Kenneth Fisher opened the meeting and brought the City fathers up to date on the project.
 "Now what we need is site concurrence by the Commission before the next steps can be taken. No appraisal on the site has been returned yet. In the meantime, Wilcox has started a campaign of his own. I would like to point out that we aren't anywhere near step one in condemnation proceedings," Fisher said.
 Then representatives from the architectural firm —

Harley, Ellington, Cowin and Stirton, Inc. of Detroit — took the floor and discussed the plans as they stood now. Dean Riddle, project co-ordinator, and Dave Hawkins, architect, briefly reviewed their schematic drawings for a five-story, 60-unit high rise senior citizen development, financed by a Federal grant.
 They concluded by pointing out that the new plans would go before the Public Housing Administrators on Dec. 21, in Chicago.
 COMMISSIONER George Lawton raised several questions throughout the meeting.
 "I am in favor of the unit itself. My question would be the location, however." He later said he favored a building in keeping with City Hall and Library architecture, if it was to be put near the Park.
 Commissioner Arch Vallier

also agreed there were problems with the site, and said he did not like the way the schematic drawings looked.
 "The City of Detroit would not put a similar building next to Cobo Hall," Lawton added. "I question the use of a prime piece of commercial land for this."
 Commissioner George Hudson said he did not want the meeting to look like a criticism of the housing commission. He also said he did not favor violating the City's own ordinances to put up the unit.
 "We approved these studies, and these are the developments. We have to be careful in criticizing our own actions."
 The architect's representatives said that the site needed to be determined before final drawings were made.
 The Commissioners discussed at some lengths the problems with the site, then turned to the possibility of another, which has more land than the Wilcox site.

 BOTH VALLIER and Lawton urged consideration of other sites for the project in view of problems with the present one. Vallier noted:
 "I'm not sure we knew what we were getting into with this. That's why we felt we'd better talk it over before we go any further."
 Fisher suggested they sidestep the matter for the moment, and await the appraisal on the Wilcox property, which, he said, was due any day.
 Bob Webber, member of the Housing Commission, asked that the commissioners let them know if other sites were to be considered.
 City Manager Richard Blodgett said he felt the problem boiled down to the fact that the City was not getting a colonial building on their top priority site. He then hit out at the Federal government's control of these type of projects.

 "I KNOW of no other agency that dictates more than the PHA. The basic idea was for each town to do its own thinking."
 Blodgett was referring to a recent PHA ruling turning down a colonial building because it used too much land.
 Vallier emphasized that the money saved by use of a site already owned by the City, might free enough money to get the colonial look.
 "The whole thing is definitely not the question that Wilcox wrote a letter to the paper. It's just that we need a second look."
 Commissioner James McKeon noted that this was the first time in seven months they had looked at the project. Earlier he had said the most important thing to him was the way the building looked.

 "If we have to go back and look at another site, we'd better jolly well do it," McKeon said.
 Stewart Oldford, a member of the Housing Commission, said that the City Commission had not represented the project as colonial, and that they had gone ahead with what knowledge they had at the time.
 Kenneth Fisher urged that a determination on the site be made soon:
 "If the commission decides this is not the site, it's foolish to continue much further. We've spent many hours on this thing already," he said.

 Lawton said in his mind the cutting off of Kellogg Park was another item that was not desirable or feasible.
 No final decision was made on the matter, except to wait for the appraisal.

 The architects said the City needed an option on the property before they can take the next steps: final drawings, land survey and soil borings.

Township's master plan is significant feat

A front page story this week announces a public hearing for all residents of Plymouth Township.

The hearing is on the federally-aided 701 master plan and should bring out scores of people.

The Township planners wisely have set the meeting for Saturday, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. to give the working man a chance to be present.

The hearing on the comprehensive development plans for the Township climaxes two years of work by the Township planning commission, Township Board, and professional planning consultant W. C. Johnson.

Those two years have not been wasted.

The plan is "impressive" in the words of John McEwen, Township supervisor.

One particular feature will mean much to the continued development of the unique character of The Plymouth Community — an item called "The Neighborhood Unit Development Plan."

The plan is the brainchild of modern planners like W. C. Johnson

The plan creates neighborhoods within the natural boundaries formed by the major highway arteries. It calls for a school and small shopping center to serve the area.

The idea ends one of the modern municipal maladies which have blighted many communities — strip commercial development along major highways.

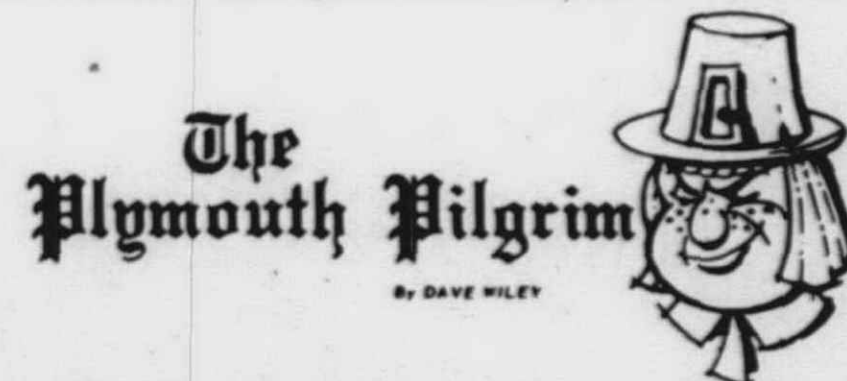

The planners have concurred in Johnson's idea, and have stopped all strip commercial development with proper zoning in the new plan. Commercial rezoning is limited to key corners like the Sheldon Rd. - Ann Arbor Rd. developments.

Other key features of the 701 plan include:

- A 16-page section on implementation of the plan, including capital improvements that will be necessary.
- A Township Center with an auditorium, police and fire headquarters, library and recreation building.
- Maps for existing and proposed utilities lines.
- A projected land use map.
- A complete background study, including history, land potentials, existing zoning and population projections.

The plans appear to be well-done, with few frills, and no long-winded and high-sounding ideas.

The plan, especially the neighborhood unit feature, is practical and deserves the scrutiny of all residents of the Township this Saturday.

One sometimes wonders about Thanksgiving. This venerable holiday, established by proclamation of President Lincoln in 1863, has come to faintly resemble, in thought and purpose, the original Pilgrim celebration.

Many editorial tears have been shed and many pulpits have been pounded because the day of thanks, having suffered through a sort of metamorphic malignancy, now serves as a kickoff for the Christmas selling season, a time for merchandising huge quantities of food and drink and an annual hallmark for football enthusiasts to look to.

Evans — big asset

Evans Products Co. this week announced another expansion program — this time for $3 million. Earlier this summer they began a $1.5 million expansion program. Just a year before, they completed a $1 million building expansion.

Total for the past two years: $5.5 million, all of which went for the creation of a rail car fabrication plant.

This summer, orders totaled over $21,000,000 for rail cars. Union Pacific even ordered a whopping 500.

The Evans' expansion means that more money has been allocated this year by an industry that has been allocated in almost 15 years in Plymouth. The total amount involved in the City of Plymouth's Plymouth Rd. industrial park doesn't equal the Evans' expenditure.

It marks 1965 as one of the most important years in the growth of Plymouth Township and The Plymouth Community.

Business is good, and Plymouth is lucky to have growing companies like Evans. The expansion means more local purchases, more employment, and more tax dollars for the already burdened school system.

The advancement of The Plymouth Community depends, to a large extent, on industrial developments like Evans Products.

Evans deserves a vote of thanks from the entire community for its faith in the area, and for its progress.

CHRISTMAS DOLLS are being sold again this year by Jaycees as a fund raising project. Jerry Yohey, Tom Lewis and Cal Strom gathered Saturday at the A & P supermarket on Ann Arbor Rd. to show the dolls, which sell for $1. They will be sold the next two weekends at Krogers on Main St., A&P, Stop and Shop on Forest Ave. and Food Fair on Main St.

My purpose here is not to bewail and bemoan these obvious deviations in direction — my lump of verbal coal in the fires of protest would do little. Rather, I should like to point out one of the lesser known side benefits of modern day Thanksgiving to a nationwide industry.

Surely no other time, with the possible nauseous exception of New Year's Eve, does so much in so short a time for the laundry and dry cleaning industry. For example:

The family has been exposed to Plymouth long enough to have absorbed much of the local folklore which has grown up about the magnificent Mayflower Hotel Thanksgiving dinner; and so we agreed to partake of the holiday meal at the local hostelry.

"No," my wife decreed before we left, "you cannot wear that foolish looking bib in public. People will stare."

"Yeah!" the kids said.

So it was in an un-bibbed but tuckered state that I confronted the menu, ordered and attacked the meal. While the hot, spiced cider was good, my hand was none too steady and a portion of it dripped down my cravat. A small lump of butter took wing from the golden yellow slice of squash bread on which I had placed it and skittered along the edge of my lapel.

When I cut junior's turkey into small boy size mouthfuls — so he wouldn't spill any on himself — my sleeve traversed the pool of gravy next to it, getting a liberal soaking in the process.

I found the Lorenz specialty, Plymouth succotash, a recipe from the original Massachusetts Thanksgiving, to be especially good. After we returned home I also found a bit of it in my left coat pocket where it had inexplicably landed during the dinner.

While stabbing at a particularly reluctant piece of dressing-coated lettuce, I propelled it out of the salad bowl and on its oily way down my left trouser leg.

And when I went out to the car to retrieve Mama's purse, someone left a morsel of turkey stuffing on my chair and I sat in it.

I am now the only man in the Plymouth Community with a hot, spiced tie, a buttered lapel, a gravied sleeve, a succotash-coated pocket, an oiled leg and a stuffed seat.

It doesn't look so hot, but people tell me it smells pretty good.

I hope I can save enough to get everything cleaned for Christmas.

As one who has been deprived of any intimate contact with the machinations of government at the State level, I have repeatedly had my interest caught in the past year or two by an intermittent flow of publications across my cluttered desk from the Michigan Civil War Centennial Observance Commission.

The thing that's most attracted my fancy has been this rubber-stamped plea on the cover page of each booklet:

"PLEASE DO NOT THROW AWAY"
Give it to your local historical museum or to your local library
MICHIGAN CIVIL WAR CENTENNIAL OBSERVANCE COMMISSION
1961-1965

Some of the titles of these perfectly enchanting little documents include "Mary Austin Wallace: Her Diary," "Michigan Institutions of Higher Education in the Civil War," "Michigan Labor and the Civil War," "The Dutch Churches in Michigan During the Civil War," "The Impact of the Civil War on the Presbyterian Church in Michigan," "The Methodist Episcopal Church in Michigan During the Civil War," "Catholicism in Michigan During the Civil War," and — need I go on?

"Publication of this book has been made possible by an appropriation of the Michigan legislature," according to a note in the forepart of each volume.

Oh, such wondrous and marvelous useage of the public treasury!

The Michigan Civil War Centennial Observance Commission is surely one of those vital governmental groups without whose efforts we could not possibly make do.

It's pleasant to wonder what its members will do until the War's two hundredth anniversary rolls around.

baby sitting service is available under the direction of Mrs. Clifford Wilkin and Mrs. George Baumgartner, and Girl Scout Troop 253, in room 106 at PHS.

The visiting Recorder Society is now affiliated with the Ann Arbor Recreation Department, and has a corps of 30 or 40 active members.

The Society plays on such instruments as the:

Recorder: an end blown wooden flute with a wooden mouth piece.

Viol da gamba: which is a bowed fretted instrument with a curved back.

Krumphorn: curved tube, usually of leather, with a capped double reed.

Harpichord: keyboard instrument which plucks a single string with a quill, or leather.

Most members of the group play several instruments, and often vary the same composition using varying instrumentation. The recorder blends well with human voices.

Director works on play policy

John P. Kontos, embroiled drama director at Plymouth High School, will draft a play selection policy as a result of his protest over the cancellation of two Edward Albee plays.

Kontos resigned as drama coach two weeks ago because the Plymouth High School administration canceled "The American Dream" and "The Sandbox" because of what are termed "objectionable words and phrases."

Kontos declined to change the passage, noting he not only would not, but under his license with Albee, could not.

Kontos reported Monday he had been given the job of drafting a play selection policy.

He said he was working on it, and that the policy would pinpoint who would select plays, and who would review them.

ALL questionable plays or passages would come before the administration, with whom, under Kontos' policy, the burden of proof of obscenity would rest.

The second proposal urges the construction of a new fire hall on the Township Center site in the year 1966-67, and considerable expenditures of funds for sewer and water lines for the next few years.

Guidance from the best of men - that's the Explorer program

(Editor's note: This is the first of a two-part series on the Explorer program—a program which is in the infant stage in Plymouth.)

You cannot preach citizenship and character building to high school boys. But if you can make it possible for them to be with the best men in their communities who are successful and respected, these men then become the image of our moral fiber which is the only way boys can rise to the challenge of ethics.

The words of William Spurgeon point to a central idea in the foundation of the Explorer program—a movement sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America.

Local Plymouth Scout leaders hope to get a similar program going here.

The Explorer program is not to be confused with the typical Boy Scout activities. It is entirely different in that:

- Uniforms for the unit are optional. Each unit may "explore" a variety of interest and seek new horizons in vocations, or Each unit may concentrate on one particular interest, like say, the East Lansing Explorer Post 100, which is sponsored by the Michigan State Police, and is aimed at boys interested mainly in law enforcement. Spurgeon, a Californian, the man quoted at the beginning of the article, was one of the founders of the program. In 1955, the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research, in conjunction with the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, conducted a survey of high school age young men.

Their study showed that the program as it existed did not meet the varied interests of this inquisitive and restless group.

THE GROUP Bill Spurgeon belonged to was in Santa Ana, California, Orange County. They took the study in hand, and determined to change the face of Exploring.

What they accomplished is now history, according to local Boy Scout community commissioner, of Plymouth.

Allen reported in a recent interview that locally the Scouts wanted to start increasing Explorer units.

He points to the Orange County experiment, where Explorer posts were organized touching on every facet of business. Hundreds of vocations were explored.

Basically, the program calls for the community's top leaders to act as resource people for each unit. According to the Boy Scout magazine:

"They knew, too, that it is more difficult to get a doctor to go camping with boys than to get him to share his knowledge in the field he knows best—medicine. This formula unlocks a vast reservoir of top volunteers eager to share their knowledge with youth."

The program puts youths in the hands of the best men in the community. A post could be organized by the local governments, for example. The members would be exposed to all areas of that field: Law enforcement, taxation, municipal finance, elections, politics, law, fire prevention, public works. The possibilities are unlimited.

Distinctly for Plymouth youths of high school age, the Explorer post may attract them whether or not they have been in Cub Scouts or Boy Scouts. Young men must be at least 14 years old.

In most cases, the specialty of the post becomes the center around which all activities are planned.

For instance, a post sponsored by a Detroit police precinct, held typical meetings one year as follows: July: a visit to the harbor master and a talk on water safety.

A similar post in Goshen, Indiana even went so far as to stage a mock trial, with the only actual adult participating being the judge.

The other type of Explorer post, the one involved in multi-interest, has been as successful.

One month a typical multi-interest post toured an employment agency, the next an aircraft plant, the third an oil processing plant, and the fourth, a Chrysler missile plant.

IN ALL CASES the posts' emphasis is on vocational interests, and a link between the youth and the expert. But the traditional Scouting values of citizenship and character are still present - faith in God, the American heritage, the dignity and worth of your fellow men. The young boys rub shoulders with the best America has to offer.

The prototype program succeeded beyond the wildest dreams, and local commissioner Don Allen feels it can succeed here.

Spurgeon and his pioneer group believed in the following:

- We cannot afford to generate scientists who do not have strong moral and ethical fiber. It is as important for a boy to find out that a profession is not for him as it is for him to find it is for him—in time. You can get any man in America to serve as a consultant for Exploring on a one night stand. There is a group of boys in your community who aspire to enter your business—if you provide the opportunity.

The birth of a great movement came about ten years ago. In Plymouth, it's only beginning.

(Next week, how a post begins and a look at the two now in Plymouth.)

- August: firearm safety and a visit to the Rouge plant. September: review of the cadet program and a visit to the dispatch bureau. November: Auto safety and a visit to the accident prevention bureau and a traffic court.

Plymouth Township Minutes

NOVEMBER 9, 1965 Supervisor McEwen called the meeting to order at 8:03 p.m. with all members present.

Supervisor McEwen called for the minutes of the meeting of October 12, 1965. It was moved by Elizabeth Holmes, supported by Gene Overholt, that the minutes be approved as distributed. Carried.

The minutes of an Executive Session held on October 26, 1965, were read and approved unanimously on a motion by Elizabeth Holmes, supported by Ralph Garber.

This list of bills and the list previously sent to the Board members with the agenda amounting to $20,444.96, were submitted. Dick Lauterbach moved, supported by Gene Overholt, to exclude $398.00 until this item was clarified, leaving the amount to be approved as $20,126.96. Carried.

Supervisor McEwen asked what action the Board wished to take, and on the motion of Dick Lauterbach, that we accept the recommendation of the Planning Commission and that the above described property be rezoned from R1E to R1H. Carried unanimously.

Motion by Louis Norman, supported by Elizabeth Holmes, that $5,000.00 be paid to the Plymouth Area Planning Commission to help finance the next fiscal year. Carried unanimously.

Motion by Gene Overholt, supported by Ralph Garber, that the following recommendation presented by Elizabeth Holmes on Sewer and Water Policy on corner lot connections be approved.

There is a need to establish a written policy governing connections to sewer and water facilities in subdivisions for lots that are located on corners. The Ordinance specifies for sewer $7.00 per front foot and for water $3.00 per front foot, however, in many cases in the Township the builder has been permitted to build his house lengthwise of a corner lot making that portion that faces the street be the long side of the lot, or the frontage according to the way the subdivision is laid out, so that where the benefit is the same the cost is also comparable.

Also, where the tap or connection charge is different on the two streets converging at the corner the tap or connection charge should apply to that side they face.

Motion made by Dick Lauterbach, supported by Louis Norman, and carried unanimously that Plymouth Township purchase Plat Sheets for Sections 22, 23, 25, and 35, total of 16 sheets, and loan them to the Township Area Planning Commission. Carried unanimously.

This completed the regular agenda and Supervisor McEwen asked if anyone present had anything to bring before the Board.

Mrs. Julia Mangogna, 42660 Ann Arbor Road requested the Township Board to rezone their property from R1E to C2, said petition to rezone having been denied by Plymouth Township Planning Commission on September 15, 1965, stating they are operating at a loss and cited a past case in Garden City where this was accomplished.

Motion by Ralph Garber, supported by Gene Overholt, that we request a legal opinion on whether this can be done. Carried unanimously.

Three communications read concerning Sewer and Water for the Plymouth Hills Mobile Court, on Ridge Road, whereby Louis J. Detroit Construction Company requested the Township to prepare plans and specification for approximately 1450 feet of sewer along Ridge Road.

The Louis J. Detroit Construction Company agreeing to pay the costs for plans, engineering, and construction and on completion will dedicate the sewer to the Township of Plymouth.

The Township Board did not feel this is a Township project and cannot order plans and specifications.

On a motion by Elizabeth Holmes, supported by Gene Overholt, the Board approved the connecting to the existing sewer on Ridge Road and to proceed south, to the south boundary of the Plymouth Hills Mobile Court property, on the east side of Ridge Road. The cost of construction, engineering, and inspection fees to be born by Louis J. Detroiters Construction Company and upon completion of the project said sewer would be dedicated to the Township of Plymouth. Carried unanimously.

Also, on motion of Louis Norman, supported by Dick Lauterbach, that permission is hereby granted to the Plymouth Hills Mobile Court to connect said Court to the proposed sewer to be constructed on Ridge Road, when sewer is completed and dedicated to the Township of Plymouth. Carried unanimously.

The third letter concerned the water supply for the Plymouth Hills Mobile Court, stating their offer to donate the costs of their wells to the Water Construction Fund. On the motion of Elizabeth Holmes, supported by C. Veach Sparks, that there was no money available in the Water Construction Fund and that this matter be tabled for further study. Carried unanimously.

Motion by Dick Lauterbach, supported by Louis Norman, that we approve plans for sewer and water for Lake Pointe Apartments "G", "H", "K", & "L", and that dedication of the system be approved and accepted before apartment construction is started. Carried unanimously.

Communication from Captain C. L. Maas requesting approval of estimate of $1,072.88 for repairs to Tanker. After discussion of this item it was moved by Dick Lauterbach, supported by Elizabeth Holmes, that this request be sent to Fire Administration Board for their recommendation. Mr. Garber voted no. Carried.

Communication from Plymouth Area Planning Commission stating that Spartan Stores, Incorporated had signed a purchase agreement to locate a warehouse on Haggerty Road, south of Ann Arbor Road, and required a written verification that approximately 1100 feet of sanitary sewer would be made available from Joy Road to the center of their property. Also, that written verification that the Wayne County Road weight restrictions be lifted on Haggerty Road (1500 feet) south of Ann Arbor Road.

Motion by Dick Lauterbach, supported by Ralph Garber, that Wayne County Road Commission be contacted as to procedures to relieve weight restrictions on 1500 feet of Haggerty Road, for the purpose of encouraging the Spartan Stores, Incorporated to locate a warehouse on approximately 31 acres of property in the Township. Carried unanimously.

Motion by Dick Lauterbach, supported by Ralph Garber, that Engineer Hamill be authorized to prepare preliminary plans and estimates of costs for the construction of approximately 2300 feet of Sanitary Sewer on Haggerty Road from Ann Arbor Road to Joy Road. Carried unanimously.

There being no further business to be brought before the Board, Louis Norman moved, supported by Gene Overholt, that the meeting be adjourned.

School out Wednesday Dec. 8, for curriculum study

School's out next Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 8, for the junior and senior high school students in order that the teachers may attend a curriculum study at various schools in the Plymouth area.

Set up under the direction of William Harding, assistant superintendent of schools, the curriculum study will be presented in Livonia schools, Schoolcraft College, and Plymouth High School. The study sessions for the teachers will begin at 12:30 p.m. and end at 3 p.m.

Included in the study will be the many facets of the secondary school program.

Edwin St. John, State Department consultant in Vocational Education, will discuss the Work-Study Program in Plymouth.

The art teachers will have an opportunity to observe the different methods in the art classes in the Livonia schools.

On the agenda for the language department will be a proposal to teach the Russian language to the students.

Home Economics teachers will finish the work on the "Human Growth and Development" curriculum.

AT SCHOOLCRAFT college the Industrial Arts and Vocational Education teachers will discuss, among other things, how Plymouth students are doing at Schoolcraft. Also how the high school teachers may assist in counseling students who are interested in a community college.

The English and Language Arts teachers will hear reports on college students' comments on the writing skills they acquired while in high school. This may help the high school teacher assist his students who plan to go on to college.

The newly organized strings program in the music department will be under discussion. Perhaps it can be a full-time program in the next school year.

One of the questions concerning the junior high science program will be "Should changes be made to make the program more specific and less generalized?"

The social studies teachers will observe the programs in Franklin, West Bloomfield, and John Glenn.

AFTER the sessions the teachers will be asked for their comments on what the Plymouth Community schools should consider in their future curriculum planning.

PLYMOUTH PANTRIES

Start baking now for Christmas

Do your Christmas baking early—and you can start with the Banana Molasses Bread suggested this week by Mrs. Ralph Dierich of S. Harvey St. She says this bread freezes beautifully.

Lifetime residents of Plymouth, both Mr. and Mrs. Dierich are graduates of Plymouth High School. Their two children are Pamela, 12, a student at Junior High West, and Connie, 10, who attends Smith school.

Mrs. Dierich is a teacher's helper at Gallimore School during the week and also has taught Sunday School at the First Methodist Church in Plymouth. She says she enjoys bowling, cooking and knitting.

She has been using this Banana Bread recipe for about five years since she read it in a Detroit paper.

BANANA MOLASSES BREAD

3 ripe bananas
1 egg, unbeaten
2/3 C. sugar
2 Tbs. light molasses
2 Tbs. melted shortening
2 C. sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1 C. chopped walnuts

Mash bananas until no lumps remain. Add unbeaten egg; mix well. Beat in sugar, molasses, and shortening. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; stir in. Blend in nuts. Bake in greased loaf pan, 8x5x3 inch, in moderate oven (325 degrees) about 1 hour.

KITCHEN HINT: This bread will have a better texture if stirred only until the flour is mixed in. Only a few strokes after each flour addition is needed.

MRS. RALPH DIERICH is peeling bananas for her Banana Molasses Bread which she suggests this week. This is especially good for the holidays and may be frozen until ready for use.

"The Cattle are Lowing" is the title of the drawing which is used for the Christmas cards being sold for the benefit of the Michigan association for Emotionally Disturbed Children. The drawing was made by a 10 year old emotionally disturbed boy and chosen by the association for their cards this year. The cards are again on sale at Minerva's dress shop on Penniman Ave.

All proceeds from the sale will be turned over to the association.

Plymouth Community Junior Basketball play begins Sat.

The Plymouth Community Junior Basketball league will start playing games this Saturday. Here, a series of pictures shows a handful of the coaches and players involved.

Above, the coach says, "let me show you what I mean." . . .

Games for the Plymouth Community Junior Basketball League begin this Saturday, Dec. 4, at Junior High East, at 8:30 a.m., and will continue throughout the season.

Over 250 youngsters, about 35 coaches, and many parents and league officials are participating in this year's effort.

Government leaders from both Plymouth Township, and the City of Plymouth are expected to officially open the 1965 program Saturday.

The new class 'AA' still needs more players. Tryouts have been set for Dec. 13 for all boys 13-15 in the new class at Junior High West.

The Class 'AA' season will start immediately after the first of the year.

All players, coaches and parents have been invited to a basketball clinic conducted by the Plymouth High School coaching staff and the varsity basketball team, this Thursday, Dec. 2. The clinic will be held in the high school gym at 7:30 p.m.

Next week's schedule:

- CLASS "A"
- 8:30 a.m. Bullets vs. Pistons
 - 10:00 a.m. Celtics vs. Stags
 - 11:30 a.m. Warriors vs. Royals
 - 1:00 p.m. Knicks vs. Lakers
 - 2:30 p.m. 76'ers vs. Hawks
- CLASS "B"
- 8:30 a.m. Celtics vs. Stags
 - 10:00 a.m. Warriors vs. Royals

The Sporting Life

Hey, coach

Doug Johnson

Bits and pieces.

Overheard at a local party store on Thanksgiving day:

"Hey, give me a case of Blatz beer. And do you carry Pepto Bismol?"

What a Thanksgiving. That poor boob should be happy he's alive and should declare his stomach a major disaster area.

After much heavy-handed hinting, and finally outright pleas, the higher-ups of the Plymouth Community Junior Basketball league consented to my appointment as an assistant coach. Myself and ace-accountant Harvey Zeil coach the Class B Royals.

We're not saying who's going to win the league, or who's going to get the most publicity, and pictures in the paper.

We're not saying. The league itself puts assorted boys of all ages, builds and shoe sizes onto teams. Play begins next week, Saturday, with the Class B Royals heavy favorites to win.

Plymouth varsity swimmers and cagers begin play this week. As one wag suggested, we hope all the bad luck of the Rocks was used up during the football season.

Deer hunters aplenty abound in Plymouth I have been assured, but nary a one phoned the Mail that they had bagged their deer. Maybe the hunters all got snowbound?

The only one I've heard of is from, of all things, a girl. Marvel Rogers, a veteran linotype operator in our backshop, got her deer the first day of the season. Forget it fellows. She's not about to tell her secret.

Jaycee he-men this year plan to sell dolls in all the supermarkets in town for $1 to raise money for all their youth projects and community development programs. They will sell during the next two weekends.

'Member the sick jokes? Well, this year for Christmas it's the sick game.

One, called the Big Funeral, is actually for sale for kids. The winner is the one who can manage to spend the most to be put away. Another is a game on Cheating — cheating the company and the government; still another is called Power Grab, or something, and the winner is the one who can buy the most influence.

The games, which I'm not kidding about, are a sad footnote to our times, and tell us more about ourselves than we care to know.

Cagers, tankers open play

Plymouth basketballers will open their season at Walled Lake Friday, there. They will play again Saturday night, Dec. 4, hosting Fordson.

Head coach Richard Bearup reports that four seniors and one sophomore will start at Walled Lake: Rick Jones and Bob McCall at the guards, Mike Stakias and Chuck Catlett at the forwards, and Jim Scharmen at center.

Stakias, a standout freshman last year and a sophomore this year, is being touted as a potential PHS cage leader.

John McFall's swimmers travel to Wyandotte Thursday night for their opening meet.

The swim meet begins at 7, the basketball game at 6:30 with junior varsity, and 8:15 for the varsity.

To hold clinic

All Junior basketball league members are urged to attend a basketball clinic Dec. 2 at 7:30 at the Plymouth High School gym. The Plymouth varsity will demonstrate, via a full-fledged scrimmage, some of the basic rules of basketball.

Schoolcraft dumped in openers

Schoolcraft opened their home cage schedule at the Clarenceville gym on Nov. 27 against last year's MCJAC basketball champions, Port Huron, and came out on the short end of a 106-65 score.

The first half opened slow with Port Huron's press bothering Schoolcraft at the onset. With quick passing, Schoolcraft picked up some easy baskets and left the floor at half time down 44-33.

Port Huron came back with a press which forced errors by the local quintet. The Hurons' rush was led by their high scoring guard, Al Hariston who picked up 15 of his 21 points in a 62 point second half spurge. Schoolcraft was led by Gary Alder with 12 points and followed closely by Ron Paige and Bob Geist with 10 each.

Schoolcraft will travel to Traverse City to play Northwestern Michigan College on Dec. 4.

SCHOOLCRAFT College opened its cage season at Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn, on Nov. 23.

Henry Ford, playing their first game in their new Physical Education Building, impressed the home crowd with a rousing 105-63 victory.

The contest was filled with many first game mistakes by both teams and it wasn't until the second half that Henry Ford's press and fast break began to take its toll on the local team.

Tom Janaulis netted 18 points for Schoolcraft with backup help from Ron Paige who totaled 12 points.

Schoolcraft College started its second season in basketball under coach Wilson Munn, who succeeds Marvin Gans, athletic director.

The Schoolcraft team has four members from last year's squad: guards, Gerald Allen, Livonia Franklin; Bob Geist, Detroit Catholic Central; Len Nordstrom, Livonia Bentley; and Tom Janaulis, also from Bentley. Rounding out the squad of 14 are: Gary Alder, Clarenceville, and Lance Hahn, Northville at center; Barrett Collett, Gary Gray, Livonia Bentley; Jeff Bolds, Detroit Henry Ford; Ron Paige, Belleville; Ron Bernet, Northville, at forward; Larry Schultz, Bentley; Jeff Stevens, Dearborn Heights Riverview and Wilson Grier from Columbus, Ga., at the guards.

ALTHOUGH just in their second year of competition, Schoolcraft became a member of the Michigan Community and Junior College Athletic Conference (MCJAC) in September. They will play a full 18 game league schedule which will take them all over the state of Michigan.

Another youthful singing group? Not this time. These are members of Miss Karen Cushman's fourth grade class in Lake Pointe's Farrand Elementary School. They have spent time the last few weeks making musical instruments. Members of this home-town Spike Jones outfit are: William Melow, left, and Michael McAllister, in front, David Matney, left, Dennis Ridge and Michelle Rick, in the middle row, and in the rear Renee Wheaton, left, Darcella Gray, Sheryl Mack, Cynthia Vollick and Julie Heilman. Instruments made include drums, a percussion section, guitars, a bell, cymbals, maracas musical and a bass fiddle made out of a washub. Can they replace the Beatles? Maybe - someday, says Miss Cushman, who reported that all 27 members of her class made instruments, and that they formed their own folk singing group, producing a music termed "impressive." The entire project ended a class study of the elements of sound.

Lincoln-Mercury
Lincoln-Mercury Division's record sales in October point to the growing demand for premium automotive products, Paul F. Lorenz, Ford Motor Company vice president and division general manager, said today. The division's dealers delivered 46,228 cars during the month, according to preliminary reports. "The automobile buying public's richer tastes in the 1966 car market are apparent in the record-breaking demand for our top-of-the-line cars and luxurious options," Lorenz said.

NBD Bonds
National Bank of Detroit has been named paying agent for $15,000,000 in bonds issued Nov. 18 by the Livonia Sewer District. Floyd A. Kehrl, NBD vice president, said that NBD itself purchased more than $2,000,000 of the bonds, as part of its program of supporting local community projects.

Polygamy in remote

Nigerian pagan village

There are numerous pagan villages around Jos. People wearing nothing more than a few leaves can be seen along the road in several places.

The most fascinating village I saw is located a few yards from the Geji Paintings, 70 miles from Jos.

Approximately 300 people of the Geji tribe live in this village. The tribe is an offshoot of the Hausa tribe, the major tribal grouping of the Northern Region of Nigeria. The men speak, read, and write the Hausa language. They pay an annual tax to the government of about $6.00 each, vote in elections, and wear shirts and pants when they go outside the village. Except for these traces of modern civilization, however, the people live a primitive life untouched by the twentieth century.

The man who took us to see the rock paintings could communicate with the men of this tribe by speaking Hausa. All the men freely answered our barrage of questions about their way of life.

The men wear loin cloths made from sheep skin. The staple of their diet is Guinea corn which they raise with crude farm implements. Some of the corn they plant is purchased with the tips of casual visitors give them to take photographs.

They also supplement their meals with fish they catch with bow and arrows.

MALE CHILDREN are initiated into the tribal society when they are about four years old. It is only then that the child starts to wear a loin cloth. At such times the village buys a large, "mighty" black cow which is sacrificed along with ten bushels of Guinea corn to their gods.

Africa & Me

made from calabash are inserted.

As she grows older these disks are removed and replaced by larger ones. The disks in some of the older women measure about five inches in diameter.

THE WOMEN are called "duckbilled" women by outsiders. Their lips are stretched around the plugs like a rope leaving the calabash exposed. We were even allowed to feel the disks. They are only removed to insert larger ones. They aren't even taken out to eat.

The women wear no clothing. Instead they secure a few leaves around their waists by a rope. Babies are tied to their backs by a goat skin. The women do not have a secret society which would correspond to that of the men nor are they ever allowed to leave the village.

While the men can marry outside the tribe, the women can not. Outside women brought into the tribe through marriage do not have to wear disks in their lips if they choose not to do so.

Nigeria is a modern and prosperous nation. Yet within that a nation a small society exists which is practically untouched by the modern world.

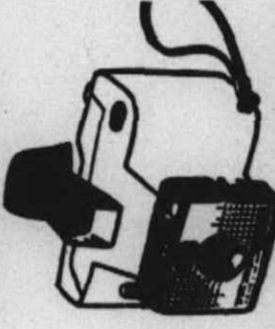

Once a member of this society the male is free to marry at any time. But a man must first pay for his wife. This is not done with money, but rather by working for four years on the farm of the girl's parents.

The three men with whom I spoke each had three wives. During the days of slavery the women of this tribe were carried away in large numbers by slave raiders and sold into slavery because of their exceptional beauty. To make the women less attractive and to insure they would be rejected by the slave raiders the tribal elders started putting wooden disks in the lips and ears of the women.

This practice has persisted through the years. Today a woman's beauty is judged by the size of the disks she wears in her lips and the scars she makes on her face when a man begins to suit her.

When a girl is about two years old a slit is cut in the upper and lower lips and round wooden disks or plugs
