

This attractive home is one of the oldest in Plymouth. Now on the corner of Church and S. Harvey, it originally was a smaller house that was moved from Penniman Ave. Owner, Allen Bernash is a landscape gardener while his wife is a professional cook.

Mrs. Allen Bernash mixes ingredients for pastry in an antique butter bowl in the kitchen of her old but modern home. A collection of antique pitchers are displayed on the divider shelves.

This attractive, up-to-date home is in reality one of the oldest houses in Plymouth.

Originally a small cottage, only 24 x 24, it stood on Penniman Ave. before it was moved to its present location on the corner of Church and S. Harvey St. Shortly after it was moved in 1935 Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bernash, newlywed, bought the house when it was still in its original form. They lived in the tiny house for two years before adding a bedroom, and enlarging the kitchen and living room.

A six-foot stone wall divides the back lot from the Presbyterian Church property. The reason for the wall was a cemetery that was located at the back of the house. Sand from the cemetery would blow across the lot and so the wall was built. The cemetery was moved from the location in 1937 while church and Harvey St. were still unpaved. The stone wall remains.

Allen Bernash is a landscape professional gardener who learned his trade in Germany. His wife is a professional cook who loves baking and homemaking. Together, the couple have given the old house a charm all its own.

A lovely garden surrounds the home. The back garden off the kitchen is completely enclosed with tall shrubs and trees that hide the stone wall. White wrought benches and chairs provide comfortable seating for the quiet retreat. A garden cart at the side of the house holds potted flowers. The effect is charming and inviting.

Inside the adjoining living room and dining room, shades of blue carpeting and walls provide a soft background for oriental accessories. The oriental rug in front of the gold velvet sofa was a gift to Mrs. Bernash from Mrs. C. H. Bennett who was her employer for 36 years.

It was at the Bennett home on Main St. where the Bernashes met while he was their gardener and she was cook. Mr. Bernash still is the part time gardener for the present owner of the Bennett home, while Mrs. Bernash has been a cook at Junior High East for the past ten years. "I baked 50,000 cookies this year and 18 loaves of bread yesterday," she said. "I love cooking and never seem to tire of it."

Mrs. Bernash's kitchen is modern and complete with built-in features which include a blender in the counter top. The room is bright and cheery with its copper appliances panelled wainscoting white cafes and counter tops.

Frequent visitors to the Bernash kitchen are their four grandchildren, the children of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Nyhus of Bradner St. The children always find fresh baked goodies waiting for them when they visit their grandparents.

Another daughter, Mrs. John Witte, who was recently married lives in Washington, D.C.

Pursell dismayed over legislative lawbreakers

Shock and dismay over the apparent gross lack of morality shown by two Democratic state senators last week were expressed by Carl D. Pursell, Republican candidate for the 13th state senatorial district seat.

Pursell was referring to Senator Basil Brown's June 2 arrest for driving while under the influence of liquor and Senator Bernard O'Brien's June 3 arrest on a morals charge.

"These two arrests, alone should give voters sufficient cause to take a long hard look at the type of men they have chosen to represent them, but when you consider these are just two more offenses added to a long list of infractions during the year, it becomes mandatory that something must be done," Pursell said.

Considered the party favorite, for the 14th senate seat, Pursell urged voters to give great consideration when choosing candidates.

"Morality is the backbone of a country; with it a country will continue to grow and prosper; without it a country faces destruction," Pursell concluded.

"When you add morality and drunken driving charges to previously publicized drunken driving, tax evasion and misrepresentation charges, again against Democratic state law makers, you come up with a pretty sordid image of what are supposed to be the state's leaders," Pursell maintained.

"Strong and capable leadership is desperately needed in Lansing and this obviously cannot be given by men who apparently give little regard to existing laws," Pursell said.

to Consider

PHARMACY AS A CAREER

Old As Yesterday • Modern As Tomorrow • Serving Today

TESTIMONY—The profession of pharmacy is so modern and fast changing in the handling of their equipment... that its beginning goes back thousands of years, to the dawn of history.

SERVING TODAY—Today Pharmacy is a profession and a science. The career drug store or community pharmacy is a vital part of community service in America. It is the health center of the community. It is the pharmacist practicing his profession — that of preparing and dispensing prescriptions from the physician. At one time or another the lives of most of the people in the community will depend upon his knowledge, skill and accuracy.

BOONER AS TOMORROW—Pharmacy is a member of America's greatest "health care" team. Its members are physicians, pharmacists, researchers, teachers, manufacturers and distributors. It is the people who are working together to develop modern medicines to bring the "boon" of health and to see that the time and money spent on them, had the drug being prescribed by the physician truly were a benefit to the patient.

YOU ARE INVITED to consider becoming a pharmacist—a member of your Community Health Team. The profession of Pharmacy offers wide-open opportunities for a modern, useful and well-paid career for qualified young men and women in an varied field which encompasses pharmacy, pharmaceutical education and research. The Birmingham Branch, American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, offers a program of study leading to a Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy. For additional information call or write the Association office, 353 Thawley Avenue North, Birmingham, Alabama.

EDUCATIONAL REQUIREMENTS—To become a licensed pharmacist you must be a graduate of an accredited high school, obtain a degree in pharmacy from an accredited college, and pass the examination of the Alabama State Board of Pharmacy and meet its requirements. Full information on college entrance may be obtained from either of Birmingham's four schools of Pharmacy at Auburn University, Auburn, and Howard College, Birmingham.

Here's the Answer

Honor four retiring teachers

Four teachers who will retire from the Plymouth School system this June were honored at a buffet dinner at Roma Hall May 31.

Honor plaques were presented to each of the teachers by James R. Doyle, president of Plymouth Education Association.

Honored guests were: Miss Elizabeth McDonald, of the language arts department; Miss Gertrude Fiegel, government; Mrs. Marjory Mackie, early elementary education; and Bill Campbell, senior high vocational teacher. Another retiring teacher, Mrs. Chris Witwer, of physical education, was unable to attend. Mrs. Mary Carless has also retired; but through an oversight was not included in the festivities. She will be honored with the retiring teachers of next year.

Miss McDonald has taught for 38 years. She is well known for her association with the Pilgrim Prints, the high school newspaper which she began 21 years ago. She also formed the original constitution for the Plymouth Education Association. Her six sisters and her mother are all in education. The seven sisters graduated from Central Michigan University between 1925 and 1932 during the depression and together have taught in Michigan schools a total of 140 years.

Miss Fiegel devoted much of her time to helping students in her government classes after school hours. Since government is a required class at the high school, some would have difficulty passing the class. She saw that her students not only passed the class but devoted hours of her own time to helping them.

Mrs. Mackie, who is a representative of the Delegates of Classroom Teachers, has been an outstandingly dedicated teacher. She also has been active in the Plymouth Education Association.

Bill Campbell has earned the respect of the faculty and his students through the years. A great many of the students who take vocational classes at the high school are potential dropouts. Quite a few of them owe their diplomas to Campbell's persistence in guiding them, according to school officials.

Mrs. Witwer has given freely of her time to the Girl's Athletic Association and other after hour activities.

OFF CAMPUS TEACHERS

Students learn, earn in cooperative education

A highly organized and complex training program allows 134 Plymouth High School students to get on-the-job training while still in high school — and earn credits for their efforts.

The little known phase of high school life is called Cooperative Occupational Training. It is run by two teachers — Phil Johnson and Dick Bearup.

Designed to give occupational skills that will lead to a full-time job once out of high school, the program enrolls a trainee in school and a part time job.

Not a new program (it's some 30 years old), several businesses like West Brothers, D and C store, Kresge's, Bell Telephone and the National Bank of Detroit have participated for many years.

Spending about half his time at each, a student takes a "balanced combination of subjects required to graduate and subjects related to his job," according to Johnson.

THE IDEA taps a wealth of community resources — not only jobs and salaries, but more importantly for skills taught first hand.

It has been long realized by educators that one of the limits of a classroom is its ability to relate to the outside commercial and industrial world.

Thus PHS offers practical, vocational training in many occupations in which classrooms cannot provide. "The employer is sort of an off-campus teacher," Bearup explained.

Students must be 16, a junior, must have parental consent, and a desire to both work and learn a skill or trade.

"For the work, each student receives high school credits the same as he would if he were enrolled in academic classes within this building," Johnson said.

If a student is out of school one day, he will receive one credit per year. Two credits are given for two or more hours out of school.

"We feel the real benefit of the program is the broadening of the curriculum," Johnson explained. "It enables us to use facilities, equipment and people outside of the school. And we feel it develops the good will of employers and even encourages them to cooperate on other school problems," he said.

Johnson and Bearup also point to several more intangible benefits: encouraging youth to seek employment in their home town; reduction of school dropout rates; earning money while learning; supplying incentives to apply everything learned.

JOHNSON handles retailing and trade and industrial placement; Bearup co-ordinates business and office students.

"And don't think we get only average or below average students. Some of the best academic kids in the school are in this program, and will go on to college. They can use what they have learned here in a part time college job," Bearup said.

In retailing, students work as sales personnel or stockroom help in grocery, variety, drug, shoe and department stores.

Office occupations include shorthand, typing and bookkeeping skills.

In industrial jobs, trades and manufacturing processes are learned.

Each trainee fills out an application and an agreement pledging punctuality, good citizenship and disciplined work and learning habits.

Employers also sign agreements pledging full training opportunities and evaluation of each student trainee.

"The emphasis is always on learning, not earning," Johnson said. "Each student must realize his prime purpose is to further his education."

Records or followup studies are kept on each student. They determine where each student finished in the program. For instance, 24 boys were in the retail sales section last year. At the time of the survey, six had entered the armed service, two were unemployed, six had part time jobs. Three were in the occupation in which they trained, one was a related occupation, and four were in other positions. These reports are made to the Division of Vocational Education of the State Department of Education.

COOPERATIVE STUDENT: Pat Siebert works for Plymouth High School as part of the cooperative occupational training program.

JOIN CLUB

Own part of DC 7 for inexpensive adventures

Ever want to own your own DC 7 and fly anywhere you want for vacations?

A new club, organized by Donald E. Baron of Plymouth, operator of a trucking business, offers that chance.

A group of people in the Detroit area have taken an option to buy a DC 7 just released by the airlines. To operate the aircraft, Baron has organized a non-profit travel club called Adventure DC 7, Inc.

Adventure, Inc. at $150, which includes both husband and wife.

"Dependent, single children of members, under the age of 21, may join for $25 each. Single persons may join our travel club for $100.

"This membership fee is only paid once. Each membership will pay $8 per month to offset administrative and operating expenses and to build a reserve fund. There will also be a charge of 2 1/2¢ per seat mile when traveling on the Club's airplane.

"Use of the plane once a year, however, should more than reimburse you for the cost of the membership. Use of the aircraft on two or more trips in one year should produce a substantial savings over regular airline fare," Baron explained.

"The Adventure Incorporated aircraft will be maintained and operated only by professionals. No pilot with less than ten years experience as a flight officer will be considered. No co-pilot with less than four years experience will be considered. Procedures of F.A.A. — as detailed by only Government supervision could make it — will be followed in every phase of operations. Further, the travel club airliner will be maintained well above that required by Federal regulations," Baron noted.

"THE DC-7 is the latest, most modern and fastest piston engine airliner manufactured. Our DC-7 will carry a crew of six—captain, co-pilot, flight engineer, flight director, two hostesses—and 90 passengers.

"The plane is fully equipped with radar, navigation and communication radios with complete back-up systems. The cabin is air-conditioned, pressurized, has reclining seats and all of the comfort items found aboard any modern airliner. The DC-7 cruises well above 300 mph and can fly any ocean," Baron said.

"Approximately 32 weekend trips annually leaving Detroit Thursday or Friday and returning Sunday evening. Naturally, everyone can't go the same weekend. Reservations are made one a first come, first serve basis, with more popular trips repeated on successive weekends," he added.

Sample costs:
Miami: regular price about $146; club: $55.
Nassau: regular price about $175; club: $67.
California: regular price about $252; club: $104.
Jamaica: regular price about $219; club: $89.
Puerto Rico: regular price: $179; club: $104.
Las Vegas: regular price about $225; club: $85.

In addition to longer one to three week trips, one day trips to special events like the Kentucky Derby are planned. The club also offers a chance to take advantage of ground accommodations packages at lower than average prices.

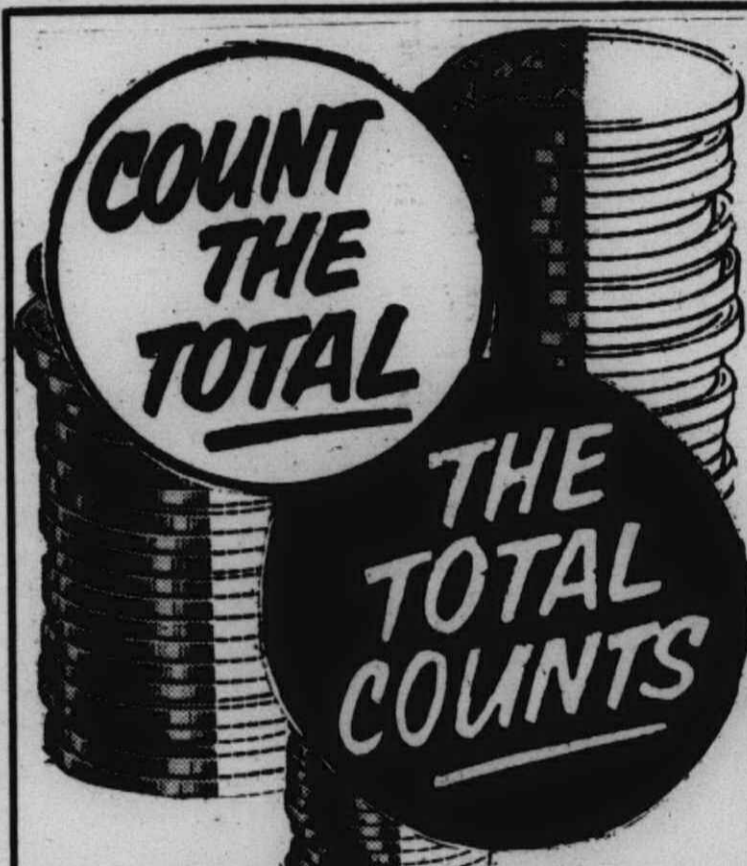

Membership is not open to the public; all members pass through a membership committee, headed by Baron.

Information on the club can be had locally by calling 453-8907, in the evenings.

Itineraries are posted several months in advance, with three weeks ahead being the deadline for signing for a specific flight.

Each member (about 750 to 1000) in the Club, will have three or four times to use the plane. The aircraft will be based at Willow Run.

THE IDEA comes from other similar successful travel clubs located throughout the United States; the plane is at club members' disposal for long and short trips.

Professionally operated, the plane is bought with memberships from popular subscription. Here's the way it works, according to Baron in this statement:

"Major airlines throughout the United States are rapidly switching from the standard propeller aircraft to the Jet Age; therefore, these same airlines are selling their DC-7's at a fraction of their actual value.

"By airline standards, these airplanes are comparatively new, but the jets have phased them out before their time.

"In 1963, over 200 DC-7's were in operation by the airlines. Presently, about half of this total are sitting idle, and the airlines are looking desperately for buyers. These aircraft that cost close to $3,000,000 new, are now selling for $90,000 to $140,000.

"We are taking advantage of this depreciation, because our initial investment would be just a small percentage of the original purchase price," he said.

"Purchase of the plane will be financed by memberships to the club." Baron noted.

Plymouth Christian Scientists attend annual meeting in Boston

Many Plymouth Christian Scientists, among them Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hermans, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Larkins, Mrs. Frieda Reh and Mrs. Richard Anest, will be in Boston this week as members of the Church convene in Boston for their centennial year, annual meeting.

Erwin D. Canham became the new President of the Christian Science Church Monday.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's new expansion of its headquarters area, known as The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

These were the climactic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

To the annual meeting, it brought the biggest attendance in the Church's history, flowing over into the adjacent Civic Auditorium and a nearby theater, where the proceedings were carried on closed-circuit television. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand.

Canham, who is a well-known journalist and Editor in Chief of The Christian Science Monitor, will serve as President for one year while continuing his Monitor duties.

"And now we move into the Second Century," began Canham, speaking before the annual meeting in his new capacity as Church President.

"It is a thrilling moment," but also "urgently challenging," he told the assembly.

Ypsilanti Greek Theatre has hectic moving day

It was moving day in Ypsilanti recently.

Amid scrambled telephone calls, misplaced desks and flying files the world's first professional Festival Theatre producing Greek drama in English somehow carried on business as usual (hectically) while transferring most of its personnel and assets 2 1/2 blocks to expanded quarters.

The Festival's 25 offices began operations smoothly this morning at 130 N. Huron St., in the historic Starkweather House, formerly the Ypsilanti City Library, just as if nothing had occurred.

The small former office at 203 W. Michigan Ave., in which staff had been figuratively and literally sitting in each other's laps, re-opened this morning as the Greek Theatre's principal box office. The box office had been housed before the monumental move in the basement of the crowded Michigan Ave. building. Normal operations were interrupted only once during the massive transfer, for half an hour at noon while telephone circuits were switched.

The new main offices at 130 N. Huron retain the Greek Theatre's previous phone number, HUNTER 3-7311. The box office may be reached at HUNTER 3-8913.

The Theatre renovated the building with a combination of donated labor and materials and some purchased supplies and assistance in a record three week's time.

THE FORMER LIBRARY, abandoned for a number of years and at one time condemned, has been rented to the Greek Theatre by the City of Ypsilanti for $1 per month.

The building overlooks Riverside Park, site of the planned $3 million Permanent theatre.

JAYCEE from Redford, Richard Headlee was keynote speaker at the annual Inter Club service dinner held last week. Headlee shakes hands after his speech.

INTER CLUB DINNER

Challenge clubs to exert leadership

The third annual Plymouth Community inter-service dinner was held May 31 at Lofy Arbor Lill, with the Plymouth Jaycees acting as the host club.

The service clubs attending and their presidents are: Chamber of Commerce, Carl Pursell; Jaycees, Calvin Strom; Kiwanis, William Lyons; Lions, Dr. R. R. Barber; Optimist, John Close, and Rotary, A. D. Johanson.

nicipal auditorium, entering politics for the benefit of the community, water pollution, and hungry nations, he said.

Our way of life is being challenged and it should be part of service clubs programs to bring the facts to the citizens and have the issues debated by competent authorities on various subjects to make it possible for communities to be enlightened on the issues of the day.

Wendell Smith, President of Michigan Jaycees, commented on his observations and comparison of Sturgis, Michigan, as compared to Plymouth. The city of Sturgis has provided an auditorium and youth recreational area, whereas Plymouth has no such facilities.

Headlee asked the question, "What kind of a town would my town be if everyone was like me?"

This applies to all citizens of the Plymouth community and we should all have the courage to exert leadership to meet today's challenges, Headlee concluded.

Also, there are four beautiful park areas available for the citizens of the community to be proud of and enjoy. Smith recommended all the service clubs encourage residents of the Plymouth community to be sure to vote June 13—school election.

The principal speaker of the evening was introduced by Smith.

Richard Headlee, of Richard Headlee Consulting Firm, Redford Township, discussed the role of service clubs and asked the question, "Are service clubs on the way out?"

Through Headlee's business management experience, he approached the subject as he would a client by analyzing the problem and making the necessary suggestions to improve the problem.

Service club programs should be related to the needs of today, and not carried out as in the past; the clubs should exercise their initiative to do something about worthwhile programs such as: compulsory automobile inspection, township-city mu-

Evening students keep Schoolcraft humming

During the past year Schoolcraft College enrolled 895 students in its evening program during the first semester and 745 the second semester. A large number of these were adults who were employed during the day; some were students taking part of their work in the day and part during the evening.

Particularly popular were courses in accounting, business, secretarial studies, science, mathematics, English, speech, history, government, and the technical area.

Many housewives enrolled with the idea of completing two years at Schoolcraft and finishing their degrees at some nearby senior college. Others came for upgrading on the job. Some came to learn special skills.

There were a number of evenings in which there was not a vacant room in the College from 7 until 10 at night.

There were, for example, during the first semester, 23 night classes of English, with approximately 400 students enrolled in English composition, advanced composition, children's literature, English prose and poetry, and American literature.

Courses in all types of secretarial work drew substantial numbers as did technical, architectural, and engineering drawing. Twelve different collegiate courses in mathematics were offered.

Evening College students showed interest in government, philosophy, sociology, and speech. The art studios were used almost to capacity, as were the facilities available for electronics, basic machine shop, metallurgy, and welding.

The College Evening Choir had an enrollment of 60, under the direction of Wayne Dunlap.

County 4-H plans workshop on horsemanship

On June 18, 1966 at 9 a.m. the Wayne County 4-H Horse Clubs are planning an educational workshop for all 4-H members enrolled in the horse project for this year.

It will be an educational workout with five guest instructors from four (4) different counties. The events will be as follows:

- fitting and showing - western and English, judged by Mrs. Leona Hull from Livingston County,
- English Pleasure and English Horsemanship - by Miss Donna Curry from Wayne County,
- Western Horsemanship by Don Decker from Washtenau County,
- Western Pleasure by Mrs. Carolyn Bay from Midland County.
- Reining and Trail by Miss Janet Keigl from Livingston County.

The instructors will tell generally what is expected from each rider, then they will go through a horse show routine and private individual comments as well as constructive criticisms will be the reward for every participant.

Although the activity is limited to 4-H members, the public is welcome to spend the day viewing and learning some of the reasons a judge has for his final results and the "hows & whys" he or she has picked the top horses.

Tom Janicki most valuable

Tom Janicki was voted most valuable golfer on the Rock squad as Plymouth wound up its season with a 502-519 victory over Northville. The record this year was 8-8-1, with a league championship included. Janicki shot a 78, Gary Robinson 81, Neil Goodman 84, Dave Dunlap 85, Bob McCall, 88 against Northville. Dunlap was named captain of next year's team by coach John Sandmann Monday. Varsity letters will go to the five above plus Jeff Scott and Dick Wolfram. Reserve letters go to Dave Hoffman, Mike Ellison and Terry Vanderveen.

RELUCTANT PARTNER

Pair win $1,000 in bowling tournament

He had to pay her way and almost force her to enter, but a Plymouth couple last week walked away with $1,000 cash, first prize in the Plymouth Mail's first annual Plymouth Bowl mixed doubles tournament. Chloe Dunson and John Kuzak, both of Plymouth, won the tournament by a slim two points. Kuzak, and his wife spent their half on a stove, refrigerator and washing machine. They only recently moved to Plymouth. Chloe Dunson, Kuzak reluctant bowling partner, was unsure what she would do with the money when it was handed over Saturday by Plymouth Bowl manager Frank Mocerri. Second place awards of $500 went to Anita and Robert Benson, also of Plymouth, with a 1245 total. Exactly $250 in cash went as third place prize to Veronica and Stan Gagacki, of Dearborn, who bowled at 1243. The first of its kind to be sponsored by the Plymouth Mail, the tournament began April 9 and ran for two months on weekends. The entry fee was $10. In the winners case, Chloe Dunson promised to return her half of the entry fee ($5) if they won. And win they did, over extremely close competition.

Outfielder drops ball as Rocks lose

Northville edged Plymouth's diamondmen 3-2 as an outfielder dropped the ball, allowing two runs to score.

Northville had scored once before on a homer.

For Plymouth Jerry Norquist homered with no one on, and John Bida singled and made it home on a sacrifice fly and an error.

Randy Williams pitched the game, the last of the season.

In a consolation game in the Livonia Les Anders tournament, Redford Union whipped the Rocks 6-1 with sheer opportunism. RU scored three runs in the opening stanza on three singles and three base-on-balls. They clinched the game in a later inning as they scored three more runs on no hits, four walks and a hit batter.

Pat Williams opened for Plymouth on the mound, and was relieved by Danny Camp.

Arnold and a sacrifice fly by Danny Camp scored Plymouth's lone run.

Many of coach Frank Fisher's team members will be back next year, after a summer in the Livonia Connie Mack 'D' league. Fisher, an English teacher, will be instructor in the summer school program.

DICK SCHRYER, outfielder from Plymouth on the University of Michigan baseball team.

Pick Schryer as 'M' baseball captain

Dick Schryer, a junior outfielder for the University of Michigan baseball team, was elected 'M's' next year captain last week.

Schryer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schryer, 110 S. Union in Plymouth, ended the season with a .316 batting average and 14 runs batted in.

Schryer, a husky, top ranking outfielder for the U of M, plays centerfield.

He was quick to show his ability when he joined the squad as a sophomore. That year he hit .331, and led his team with 24 RBI's.

LAST summer he competed in the Basin League in South Dakota where he turned in an excellent performance.

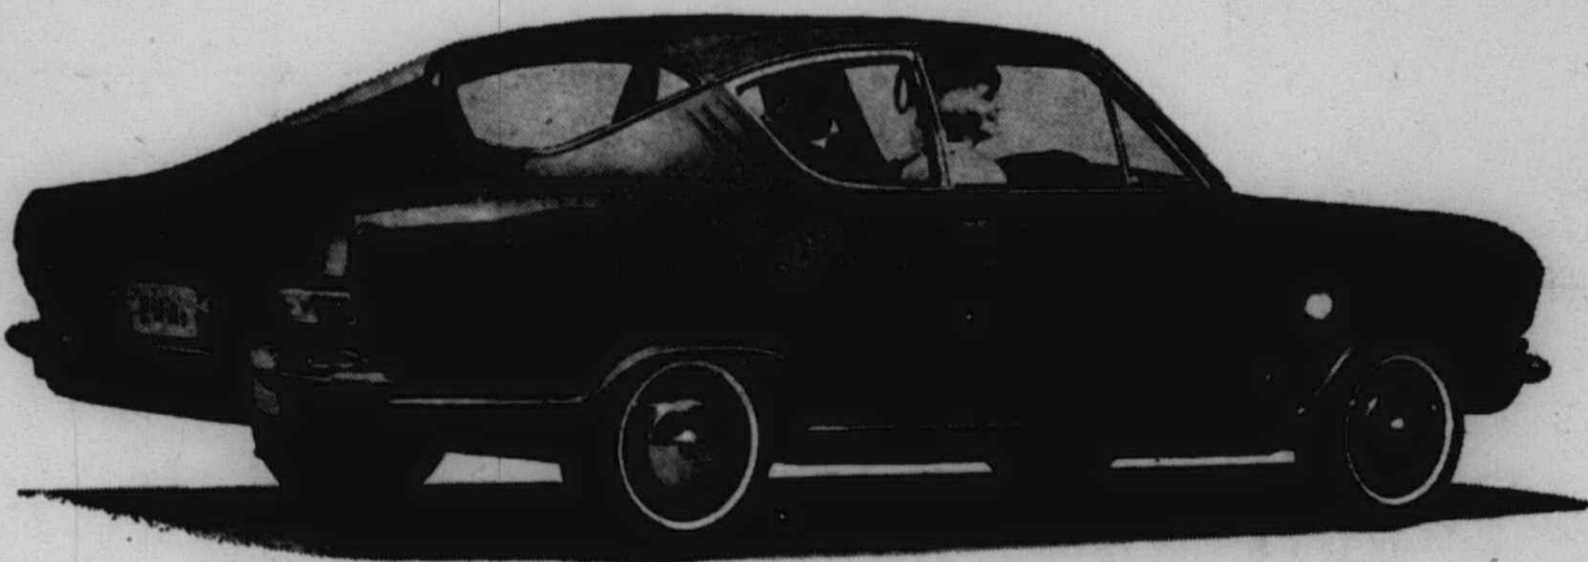

Seventh in the Basin League hitting with a .287 average, he was second in RBI's with 40.

Coach Moby Benedict sees him as a player with fine speed, a good arm and good range. He is 6' 1", 190 pounds, is 21 and is enrolled in Education.

Jack Selle Buick, Inc.

has just added Buick's new Opel Kadett to his line.

Can you blame him?

Opel Kadett is General Motor's lowest-priced car. Yet it comes with features you normally don't expect to find in a car of this price. Take the sport coupe, pictured above. Bucket seats. Carpeting in front and back. Console-mounted sport gearshift. But wait. Come get the rest of the surprises—in person.

Service facilities? Plenty. Liberally sprinkled with good manners. Come in and leisurely inspect Opel Kadett. No arm-twisting or hard sell. Opel Kadett stands on its own four wheels. So why don't you enjoy a demonstration drive in Buick's new Opel Kadett. There's one thing for sure. You'll look good doing it.

Offer free lessons in bowling for 8-12 group

Free bowling lessons to children who never have bowled before are being offered by Plymouth Bowl, 40475 Plymouth Rd., through the United States Bowling Development Institute. Known as the 100-plus Youth Bowler Development Program, the special event is run by the Institute, headed by ex-Oklahoma football coach, Bud Wilkenson. 100 new bowlers are needed. The first 100 to sign up at Plymouth Bowl will take the lessons. Shoes, lessons and lanes are free. The program, for both boys and girls, will begin July 5 and run for five weeks, with sessions meeting on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Free bowling booklets are available to all entrants. According to Frank Mocer, Plymouth Bowl manager, there is no obligation. Those entering must have never bowled, and may be between the ages of 8 and 12.

OPENING DAY: Junior baseballers parade down Main Street as the summer Plymouth Community Junior Baseball League opens its season.

Place in 4 relay events

Plymouth's track team placed in four events in the annual Snarey Relays. The relays cap the season for the trackmen and were held at Bentley High School in Livonia. Bentley won the meet. Results: Fifth, shot put, Pat Brady, Craig Stadmler and Tom Elias. Fifth, shuttle hurdles (low) relays, Mike Stakias, Dave Derr, Ron Pennington and Dave Martin. Fifth, broad jump, Ron Lowe, Jerry Warnemuende and Mark Neuman. Second, two mile relay, Doug Bates, Ken Evens, Bruce Caverder and Bob Kreitsch.

Need more help in 'E' & 'F' league

More managers are needed for 'E' and 'F' summer recreation baseball. Those interested should contact Herb Woolweaver at 453-3100. Parents who can help every once in a while, or once a week, are needed especially.

Junior leaguers march, play on opening day

The Plymouth Community Junior Baseball League opened its 1966 season last Saturday after a parade down Main St. League president Ken Vogras 'pinch hit' as master of ceremonies and Al Carlson, baseball commissioner, handled the flag raising ceremonies. City and Township officials participated in the opening day ceremonies, and tossed out the first ball. Of the six games played, four were decided by one run, an indication of what's to come in this year's pennant races. BOTH OF LAST year's pennant winners, the Cubs and the Indians, were beaten. Improvements in facilities have been installed including a new protective fence along Plymouth Rd. and additional seating capacity. Minor league activities will start the week of June 20 under Max Sommerville. Boys who have not registered may do so by contacting Sommerville. 25 HELP WANTED — MALE

Wide range of aid available to any Schoolcraft student

Scholarships and Loans Schoolcraft College is dedicated to the belief that no student should be deprived of an education because of finances. Those interested in any type of financial aid should feel free to talk with one of the college counselors, according to College president Dr. Eric Bratner. During the first two semesters of the 1965-66 College Year, approximately 170 Schoolcraft students received some type of financial aid or work through the College. These grants are made possible through many different types of funds. The College has to date a scholarship fund of approximately $4500. From this amount the committee on grants and scholarships awarded twenty-two scholarships varying in amount from $50 to $210 for the year. Donors included industry, business organizations, individuals, fraternal organizations, and civic groups. The College is hoping to increase its scholarship endowment substantially. Announcement of scholarship recipients for the fall of 1966 will be made in June, according to Dean Edward McNally. The college has a loan fund of over $2000. From this amount thirty-two loans were made during the year 1965-66, varying in amount from $8 to $150. Rehabilitation Aid The Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the Department of Education made possible assistance for seventeen students at Schoolcraft College during this past year. Included in the variety of conditions which made these students eligible were poor vision, deafness, crippled limbs, asthma, heart trouble, glandular malfunction such as diabetes and heart conditions, paralysis due to poliomyelitis, and hemophilia. The services available under the Vocational Rehabilitation Program include such aids as tuition, fees, books, and supplies. Medical evaluation and physical restoration are made available, as is vocational counseling. In some cases transportation is provided. Further information regarding eligibility may be obtained by calling Mrs. William Opland, R.N., Schoolcraft College, nurse at 591-6400, extension 251, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Campus Jobs Approximately 100 students were employed on the College campus at some time during the year. Seventeen of these worked in the Federal Work Study Program, which is made possible by Federal funds granted to students needing employment in order to continue their education. The campus work includes clerical and secretarial work; assistantships in the technical, science, and language laboratories; also assistantships in the library, in the building and grounds area, in athletics, and in audio-visual aids. During the coming year a considerable number will be employed in the new Campus Center as waiters and busboys. The Federal government granted Schoolcraft College $10,500 for the 1966-67 year. The College is required to add 10% of its own funds to the Federal grant. Another source of income for Schoolcraft College students is regular campus employment in which students act as assistants to the College security officer, as workers in the buildings and on the grounds, and in various clerical positions. Work also is available to those enrolled in the technical fields. Students will assist in electronic, manufacturing technology, and automotive laboratories. This fund is granted by the Federal government to the State Vocational Department. Students who will be enrolled in technical courses and who are interested in part-time work in any of the technical laboratories are advised to call Fernon Feenstra of Schoolcraft College for an appointment. Projected Scholarships and Loans Another source of funds for college students is provided by the Educational Opportunity Grants, a part of the Higher Education Act of 1966. These grants-in-aid are for students of high potential with financial need. The payments vary from $200 to $800 per year, depending upon need. Since the funds granted by this source must be matched by the College student aid funds, which are now currently limited, the College must find funds before the fall of 1966 in order to take full advantage of these aids for students. Financial aid for students also is granted by the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority, which provides a guaranteed loan fund. Loans of up to $1000 a year may be made, but the College must contribute to the loan fund to participate fully in the program. If the College makes a contribution of $100 the result would be a $10,000 loan fund available for the federal contribution, but it is hoped that during the summer, the College may be participating in this aid.

Exciting Negro actress at Ypsilanti Greek Theatre

Ruby Dee "I have rarely looked like all the things I could do. I've always looked too young, even though I had the power", says Ruby Dee. "I've looked like the girl behind the coffee pot or the ironing board, but when I'm able to stretch out everyone is surprised." The author of the above statements, actress Ruby Dee, is about to "stretch out" as Cassandra in Aeschylus' prize-winning (Athens, 458 B.C.) trilogy "The Oresteia" and Iris in Aristophanes' "The Birds" at the Ypsilanti Greek Theatre. Her most recent Broadway appearance was in 1962 as Lutie-belle Gussie Mae Jenkins in "Purlie Victorious", written by and also starring her husband, Ossie Davis. In motion pictures Miss Dee has been seen in "No Way Out" with Sidney Poitier and Ossie Davis. "The Jackie Robinson Story", "The Tall Target" with Dick Powell, "St. Louis Blues", "Take a Giant Step", and "Gone Are the Days", the movie version of "Purlie Victorious". Concerned about the spasmodic employment of young Negro actresses, "no matter how talented they are", Miss Dee, when asked by a Brooklyn women's group how they might honor her, suggested the founding of a scholarship fund in her name to enable young actresses to continue their studies. She has also done readings at Chatham College in Pennsylvania, Stillman in Alabama, a Jewish Community Center in Oklahoma, and West Virginia State College in Charleston, just to name a few. When not employed as an actress, Miss Dee has held an odd assortment of temporary jobs including giving out soap samples for Lever Brothers, painting buttons in a factory, and drawing medical charts for Harlem Hospital. She is also an accomplished painter and poetess, though she is reticent about allowing anything she's written to be published. Like many other Broadway actresses, Ruby Dee has also made many television appearances. She has been seen on "Camera Three", "East Side/West Side", "The Fugitive", "The Mike Wallace Show", and was nominated for an Emmy Award for her performance on ABC-TV's "The Nurses." Miss Dee says she is very excited to be doing classical Greek theatre in Ypsilanti.

SHORTLY after her birth in Cleveland, Miss Dee's family moved to Harlem where she was raised in the basement of a library. While attending Hunter College, where she graduated as a language major, she took night classes at the American Negro Theatre, an "invaluable experience" to her. Here she developed as an actress while working with classmates Sidney Poitier and Harry Belafonte. Miss Dee's first Broadway assignment was as an understudy in "South Pacific" (not the musical) in 1943. In 1946 she portrayed Libby in Robert Audrey's "Jeb". FIRST gaining prominence as Anna in the national company tour of "Anna Lucasta", she followed this up with roles in "The Smile of the World", "A Long Way From Home" (an adaptation of Gorki's "The Lower Depths"), and her memorable portrayal of The Defending Angel in "The World of Sholem Aleichem" starring Morris Carnovsky and Howard da Silva. However, most people will think first of her powerful performance as Ruth Younger in Lorraine Hansberry's "A Raisin in the Sun", first on Broadway and then in the subsequent motion picture version, co-starring in both with
