Bulletin

Rev. Peter Schweitzer. assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church, won his battle to have his name on the ballot as one of the candidates for the City Commission election on April 4.

Circuit Court Judge Victor Baum declared the Plymouth City Charter provision that provides a candidate must be a taxpayer for two years was unconstitutional in a decision handed down late Tuesday afternoon.

In his ruling. Judge Baum said the charter provision robs a citizen of his right to office even though he might be wealthy and doesn't give electors an opportunity to pick a candidate of their choice by excluding non-taxpayers.

Complete details of the ruling and comments from the City Commission and Election Board may be found in this week's edition of the Plymouth Mail.

Start New Rubbish Schedule

A new schedule for residential refuse pickup in the City of Plymouth went into effect Monday. The purpose, according to DPW Supt. Kenneth Vogras, is to provide residents with more efficient service on a four-day basis instead of five as in the past.

Collections will start at 7 a.m. Vogras recommends that containers be properly located for pickup the evening before the scheduled collection to insure that none are missed.

The new daily routes are as follows: Monday — that area bounded by the C&O Railroad, Penniman Ave. and Main-Street; Tuesday — that section south of the C&O Railroad to Mill Street; Wednesday — the district bounded by Main Street, C&O Railroad, Mill Street and Ann Arbor Road; Thursday — the area bounded by Sheldon Rd., Penniman Ave., Main Street and Ann Arbor Road.

Vogras emphasizes that full cooperation of all is needed in following the regulations set forth in City Ordinance No. 194. Copies of the ordinance and the boundaries for each of the four collection days were mailed to every resident late last week.

Stevenson Whipped In Finals

An old story: Bentley High a district Class A basketball champion.

For the eighth time in 10 years Bentley copped the flag Saturday night when they downed Stevenson, 81-62. in the championship game at Franklin.

Thus Bentley moved on to this week's regionals at Franklin with Farmington, Catholic Central and Edsel Ford.

Stevenson, the surprising team of the area the aggregation without a senior - had upset Garden City West to gain the title game.

But against mighty Bentley, Stevenson just found matters much too rough.

It was Bentley by 28-15 after the first quarter and never in serious trouble thereafter, thanks to some great work from the free throw line.

Stevenson had the edge in baskets, 26-24, but at the charity marker, it was Bentley notching 33 out of 41 while Stevenson wound up with only 10 successes on free throws.

"Give that Stevenson team a great deal of credit," said Bentley Coach George Fefles. The played aggressively all the way and never let up.

They'll be tough as soon as they add a senior class."

As was the case throughout the tournament, Ken Bollin was the high man for Bentley with 23 points while Mike McCauley chipped in Schayes tried to stop his son short. But, he with 19, 11 coming from the free throw line.

of-town trips to important conferences seems to be in the same classification as being against sin and communism. It is easy to criticize and very few defenders can be found.

But The Observer feels that the Garden City citizens who are upset about several of their city officials making the June Mayors' Conference are on the wrong side of the fence.

The fact that the conference is being held in Honolulu, Hawaii, and therefore more expensive when it comes to airplane fares doesn't make the conference any more or less valuable .when it comes to gaining valuable information.

Garden City has nothing to say about the location of the annual conferences, which was held in Dallas, Texas, last year

Being against city officials taking out- with no public furor which matches the Hawaii trip scheduled for this summer.

> The conferences include numerous panel discussions and seminars where Garden City officials can acquire information and knowledge they couldn't gain in the week-to-week meetings and problems that occur only in their community.

By learning how full time mayors and councilmen handle similar problems, the Garden City officials would be better armed and educated when the problem lands in this community.

There is no foundation for objecting to spending $100 to learn how to save $1,000. The principle of municipal conferences is too valuable to be lost or damaged by the mere location of the conference itself.

See It Through

There seems to be a good deal of consternation on the part of some persons about what are called "two-way" or "see-through" mirrors in two of Livonia's schools.

These mirrors are located only: in Whitman Junior High School, where they look from the teachers' offices into the gymnasium; and in the boys' locker room at Franklin High School.

If the parents of children in these two schools are unduly alarmed, perhaps they should visit the buildings to see how the mirrors are used.

If, upon investigation, they feel the mirrors create a feeling of "spying"-then they should request that the school district. replace them.

This should not be too difficult for either parents or the district to accomplish.

OBSERVING the Scene By MYRA CHANDLER

Many times the right action comes about for the wrong reason.

I had a young friend this week put down his sign, shave off his beard, and go back to college. Do you know why? He said the ultra-liberals were too bigoted. They would not allow themselves to be criticized.

The promoters, likewise, of Adam Clayton Powell objected to his being unseated, not that he isn't guilty of flagerant behavior in Congress, but because they do not believe Congress has a legal right. Likewise he was recommended only to be censured by his peers, not because he was guiltless, but because they did not want him to be martyred. Maybe his constituents will be smarter than that.

For one, I am glad Jimmy Hoffa finally has to pay the penalty of his demeanors of public trust. But I do believe he was framed, railroaded and his trial was not legally within the framework of our courts. True, he is guilty of bribery and cheatingbut so is the government, in the way they finally nailed him. Does the end justify the means?

Daylight Saving Time may affect the farmers in Traverse City, but what if the entire State is on an entirely different time schedule from most other states for six months of the year? Could not the confusion affect commerce, transportation and communications? How about television and radio where the national networks and Federal Regulating Agencies will base their schedules on Daylight Saving Time-and Michigan is an hour off?

In the long run might this not even be bad for the farmers in our State and really affect the whole of Michigan's economy, being an hour out of step with the nation.

Well, that's something like the gap that exists between the ordinary Turk and the ordinary American suburban family.

In America, most families eat meat at least once a day; mostly, we have meat at least twice a day, even when meat prices are going, up. The ordinary Turkish family is lucky to have meat twice a week. Instead, people here eat a lot of bread, which is very filling but not particularly nutritious.

Most American families have enough clothes. Even though wives may complain they don't have a thing to wear, they have one or two dresses and a skirt and sweater or two. Husbands, have a suit, and the kids have enough clothes change them from day to day, before going off to school.

A Turkish family, particularly a peasant family. has clothes all right. One set; the set on their backs. There are men walking around in Istanbul today who have been wearing (and patching) the clothes on their backs for five or six years. Shoes are made out of old automobile tires, strapped to their feet like sandals with old rope.

But this is nothing like the bone-breaking fatigue of a Turkish man who carries 150 pounds of goods on his back, bent over until he is nearly parallel to the ground, 10 to 12 hours a day, day after day, week after week, year after year. Such a man will work like this all his life; he does not move up the job ladder. He works this way until he dies, and then there is someone else who does it.

Most American families have a car, sometimes two. Most Turks never have ridden in a car, nor will they.

Most Americans have heated home, with a roof that doesn't leak, and perhaps separate bedrooms for the kids. Most Turks have no heating except for a small wood or coal-stove, and most of them have a problem finding and paying for much more than one room for an entire family. You could go on with lists like this for pages. But the most discouraging thing about the whole thing is that most Turks are caught in their poverty like an empty beer can in a vice. They get crushed, and they have no way out. Nor do they expect it.

Is there a fancy moralistic lesson to be learned from this article?

Not at all, except insofar as it is useful, from time to American husbands come time, to remind ourselves back home tired after a hard that we are very, very rich, fat. The problem is that, from a Turkish point of view (and even from the point of view of most of the foreign colony living in Istanbul) it is the dominant fact of their existence. To a visitor, coming directly from the Detroit area to Istanbul in less than 12 hours, the poverty of the people is the overwhelming sensation. Gourmet Nite "Poverty is the every-

THE same is true with a lottery. There is no way of determining the amount of money wagered each week in this area in football and baseball "pools." But it must run into the thousands and thousands.

All attempts to stop these "pools" have been futile. So, the gambling goes on with the state receiving nary a cent in benefits.

Meanwhile, the individual home owner is being asked to dig deeper and deeper to meet tax increases-and there is no relief in sight.

There was a time when any thought of a lottery brought the remark "Not with a man so wrapped in his religion as Gov. Romney." But, lately, even he has shown ment, Democratic National a sign of weakening.

When asked recently about a lottery, he didn't give a flat "no" for an answer. All he said was, "I hope we never have to come to that."

New York, among other states, is considering a lottery. Why not Michigan?

An interesting sidelight to the Republican State Convention a few weeks back was the delegate who was passing petitions about the daylight saving proposal currently in front of the Michigan Legislature.

The matter began when the U.S. Congress passed a law asserting that all areas of the country would go on daylight saving time beginning this spring unless the state legislature passed a specific bill exempting that area from daylight saving time.

First, let me point out that as an urban dweller, I am wholeheartedly in favor of daylight saving time.

The GOP delegate, who hailed from Livingston County, was not. She said that more than 300 signatures from all parts of the state had already been collected on her petitions.

She asked me if I wanted to sign one. I said no and then. she insisted on discussing the matter with me in order to explain some points. Noting my press badge, she asserted that she was a member of a minority group (the farmers) which was constantly trampled upon by "both the press and the federal government."

She observed that city people are in favor of daylight saying time so that "they can spend more time on the golf precinct worker to full-time course." (I objected to this as I have never been on a golf Deputy State Chairman. course.)

However, the rest of her explanation did make some good points. The strongest was the problem of harvesting a crop. Dew settles on crops during the nighttime and the sun dries the moisture.

She says that dew must dry before anything could be picked from the fields and daylight saving time, in effect, loses an hour of work time in the field. She pointed to the problems with labor and said that hired help couldn't be expected to work after 6 p.m.

Many other points were cited by the delegate-farmers don't like to milk cows at 4 a.m. and the fact that, as a mother, she doesn't want her children catching a school bus in the dark.

"The state is already on fast time," she asserted, "just where he worked as orgabecause of some silly reason about keeping in step with the nizer, contract negotiator, east coast. The state should be on central time and we are brief writer, radio commenalready one hour ahead all year around."

So it is with "Illya Darling." Nothing is done halfway or the least bit underplayed. The intimate scenes become brassy. The brassy scenes go one step too far and become obnoxious. Songs that could be clever are labored.

Make a well in the flour, and slowly add 2 cups buttermilk. While doing so, constantly stir the mixture with your hand, mixing with your tingers.

Turn the dough out onto a well-floured board and knead lightly until smooth (approximately 10 minutes).

Sprinkle a 9-inch round cake pan liberally with flour, and place the dough in it, flattening the dough to the size of the pan. Cut a cross on the surface.

Bake at 400 degrees for 45 minutes. When it is done, remove it from the pan and let it cool standing on its side.

According to Mrs. Menton, the secret is in the kneading.

"Don't lean heavy on it when you knead," she says, with the Irish lilt to her speech.

According to the Jaycees, the Easter Bunny, who will be arriving a day early this year, is preparing to distribute well over 7,000 eggs and prizes. However, due to the financial success of other Jaycee events, there will be no doorto-door soliciting for donations. "Nevertheless, voluntary contributions for the annual hunt will be appreciated," a spokesman said. Anyone who wishes to donate eggs, cash, or prizes may contact chairman Ken Kelsey at 464-9972.

Norwayne Baptist Plans Romney and Want to Give Real Service? Hart Applaud Revivals Next Week Sharing Hour Try Becoming a Foster Parent The Rev. Karl E. Unger | Wednesday evening the

Governor George Romney and U.S. Senator Philip A. Hart have warmly endorsed the Spring appeals of America's great religious faiths ing to make a really meanfor support of their overseas relief programs.

These appeals are the Protestant "One Great Hour of Sharing" and the Catholić "Bishop's Overseas Aid Fund" appeal, both of which ! were observed in churches in Michigan and throughout the country on Sunday, March 5, and the "United Jewish Appeal", a continuing effort with special emphasis at this period of the year.

Through these independent but common-purpose efforts, it is possible to provide relief and rehabilitation for millions of the world's homeless, hungry and destitute. Among those aided are victims of man-made and natural disasters: war, flood, famine, earthquake and hurricane, refugees fleeing oppression and political upheaval, nourished and underprivileged.

"Again, it is my privilege to recognize and congratulate the three faiths for their efforts to help the less fortunate around the world. These efforts demonstrate anew that brotherhood in action is the key to self-fulfillment."
