Schweitzer Wins Commission Post

City of Plymouth voters spoke Monday — that is 902 of the 4,271 eligible electors went to the polls — and made one change in the lineup of the City Commission.

George Lawton, wound up fifth in the voting and was replaced by Rev. Peter Schweitzer, Associate Pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Matter of fact, as expected, Rev. Schweitzer led the ticket with a total of 591 follow-

Incumbent James Jabara with 681 and Incumbent Arch Vallier third with 542. Each gained a four-year term to the Commission. There is a great deal of conjecture that Jabara may have won the selection as Mayor for the next two years.

The choice of a Mayor will be made by the City Commission shortly after Rev. Schweitzer is officially sworn in. That will come later in the month.

Incumbent George Hudson, who finished fourth two years ago, wound up in the same ranking this time with 465 to receive a two-year term.

The provisions of the Plymouth City Charter provide for the election of four Commissioners every two years with the one receiving the fourth highest total landing a two-year term. The other three are named for four years.

George Lawton missed the fourth spot by 28 votes and thus loses his Commission seat at the end of the month.

Popular Teacher Dead at 35

Overcome by carbon monoxide gas while apparently working on his car in the garage at his home, Joseph Lee, 35, of 6000 Napier Road, Plymouth Township was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

The Wayne County Medical Examiner said death was due to asphyxiation from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Lee, a machine shop teacher at Plymouth High, was one of the most popular and respected members of the faculty. He had been a member of the staff for three years, coming to Plymouth from Redford High in Detroit.

He was a former Cub Master at the Bird School and was interested in many activities for younger boys. He was a graduate of Wayne State University and received his Master's degree from the University of Michigan where he was affiliated with Iota Lambda Sigma fraternity.

Surviving are: his wife, Mrs. Joyce Hanawalt Lee; two sons, Kenney and Jim and one daughter, Jeanne; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lee of Detroit; two sisters, Mrs. Annabelle Dessy of Virginia and Mary Ellen of Detroit.

Services were conducted in the Schrader Funeral Home in charge of Rev. Henry Walch with burial in Riverside Cemetery.

Dems to Hold Fund Raising Dinner June 1

The Plymouth-Northville Democratic Club (Wayne II) has made tentative plans for a fund raising dinner June 1 at the Thunderbird Inn.

Expected to feature Senator Phil Hart, the dinner's funds will go to the 1967 budget.

The action came at the April Executive Board meeting of the group.

In other action the board approved a proposed $2,000 budget, made plans for attendance at the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner, and set April 27 for a membership meeting.

150 District Leaders to Join In Second Leadership Session

More than 150 representatives of business, industry, finance, civic and service organizations will attend the second annual Plymouth Community Leadership Conference Saturday at Schoolcraft College beginning at 9 a.m. and continuing through the afternoon until 4 p.m.

The program will be handled by Dr. Howard McClusky, of the University of Michigan, as moderator, with a member of his staff there serving as an assistant.

The Conference, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, is a continuation of that held on the Hillsdale College campus a year ago. The Hillsdale meeting has been tabbed as one of the most important ever held in the area.

It brought out studies of a police and fire authority, an incinerator authority and touched on the topic of unification of the community.

This year's session is expected to pick up where the 1966 left off with special emphasis on a demand for studies of unification.

Such studies have been endorsed by the Chamber and the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce as well as homeowners' association.

Talks in that direction were more or less stymied a year ago when Township Supervisor John McEwen pleaded inability to attend. Whether he will attend this year is still a question although reservations have been made for several members of the Plymouth Township Board.

McEwen, for at least two years, has advocated a study of unification of the entire community including the City of Northville, Northville Township, the City and Township of Plymouth and Canton Township. But he has shown a reluctance to make such recommendations at conferences for that purpose.

The Conference is expected to follow the format of a year ago with a brief meeting of all attending at which Dr. McClusky will lead the discussion and then break the assembly into 10 or 12 smaller groups for discussion of all subjects pertinent to the meeting.

The groups will report back with recommendations prior to the noon break and then the afternoon will be devoted to discussions and final recommendations of the Conference.

Those registered and the groups they represent:

American Association of University Women—Mrs. John Haas.

Canton Township—Philip Dingeldey, Supervisor, Forest Trussell and Richard Palmer.

City of Plymouth—Richard Blodgett, City Manager, Jamiel Jabara, James Houk, Mayor, George Hudson, George Lawton, James McKeon and Robert Smith.

Plymouth Township—Ralph Garber, Dick Lauterbach, Gene Overholt, Louis Norman and Elizabeth Holmes.

Plymouth Community School District—Russell Isbister, Superintendent, Esther Hulsing, Bruce Scott, Carl Schultzeis, John Moehle, Gerald Fischer, President, William Harding, and Jo Hulce.

Consumers Power Co.—James Thomas and Thomas Devereaux. O.A.R.—Mrs. Walter Hammond or Mrs. Harry Geitzey.

Glenview Homeowners' Association—E. Gustafson or Henry Albert, Jaycee—Jerry Yohey, Dr. Hall, R. Jacobsen and Cal Strom, Kiwanis Club—Robert Utter.

Housing Aide To Discuss Sr. Project

Questions as to what the "Senior Housing project will mean to the Plymouth Community" will be answered at the Plymouth Businessmen's Forum Thursday at noon in the Mayflower Meeting House by John J. McLaren, Director of the Warren, O. Metropolitan Housing Authority.

The City is in the midst of a housing project for retirees and the elderly, but the few if any, of the area's senior citizens actually understand what it means to them and the community.

Warren, Ohio has had housing authorities dating back to World War II when hundreds of units were constructed.

He is a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, the National Highway Research Board, the Association of Asphalt Paving Technologists and the American Society for Testing Materials.

great community. But this only can be done through unification.

"So, in my farewell to you, may I urge each and every one of you to look kindly on the proposed unification study and then take part in the activities that will bring about a solid front."

As the departing Chairman of the Centennial he also wished his committees and his successor, Bob Hay-

Warren Worth Ends 40 Years In Wayne Road Commission

Warren Worth, longtime Plymouth Township resident and chairman of the Township Civil Service Commission, retired Monday from the Wayne County Road Commission after nearly 40 years of service.

Worth was the assistant Wayne County highway engineer at the time of his retirement. He started with the Commission as a laboratory assistant shortly after his graduation from the University of Michigan with a Civil Engineering degree.

testing for the Road Commission in 1935.

Worth, 60, who resides at 51000 N. Territorial Road with his wife, Elizabeth, served in World War II as a lieutenant commander in the Navy. He was named assistant county highway engineer in charge of design and construction in 1966.

He is a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, the National Highway Research Board, the Association of Asphalt Paving Technologists and the American Society for Testing Materials.

The Worths are the parents of three children and have three grandchildren.

Tarantino Urges Unification Plan In Farewell Talk

In saying farewell to the people of Plymouth, Joe Tarantino, former general manager of the Gaylord Company who has been transferred to Dallas, Texas, made an urgent plea for the unification study and the eventual development of one government for the Plymouth Community.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and making his final appearance as a vice-president of the group he urged that the people of Plymouth cast all animosity aside and combine their efforts for the benefit of the community.

"I and my family have never lived in a place that we enjoyed so much as we have in our four year stay in Plymouth and now, looking at it from the outside again, I can see the vast potential and the good that can be gained by the solidifying of the two governments.

"The Plymouth area," he continued, "is on the verge of a great expansion and with this expansion comes an opportunity to build a

Symphony Season Ends Saturday

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Conductor Wayne Dunlap, will present the sixth and final concert of its 21st season Saturday in the Plymouth High Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

Symphony officials warn that there will not be baby sitting service for the concert since it is being held at night.

Reid Nibley, pianist and associate professor of Music at the University of Michigan, will be the featured soloist. He will play Concert-stuck in F Minor by Weber accompanied by the orchestra.

Nibley began studying the piano at the age of eight and four years later made his debut with the Glendale (California) Symphony and at 17 was soloist for the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

After several years concertizing in the West, he went to New York for further study which culminated in a Town Hall recital. There followed extensive solo, orchestral, radio and television appearances in the United States, Canada and Europe.

and seventh respectively. The former had 263 and the latter 178.

Those close to the situation figured Rev. Schweitzer would lead the voting because of the publicity he received during a recent court case. He challenged the City Charter provision, that a candidate must be a taxpayer, property owner for two years to be eligible, in Circuit Court and won.

The decision of Judge Victor Baum ordered that Schweitzer's name be placed on the ballot and declared the provisions unconstitutional.

The resultant publicity won considerable praise for Rev. Schweitzer for having enough courage to challenge the Charter. It was almost a foregone conclusion that he had gained enough favor in the city to lead the balloting. Monday's results showed that the experts knew what they were talking about.

It also was a foregone conclusion that either Lawton or Hudson would be the one to fall by the wayside. The former didn't enter the race until the final day to file nominating petitions and had told close friends more than once that he didn't think he would run again. Lawton changed his mind when it appeared there wouldn't be four candidates in the running.

None of the incumbents did much in the way of campaigning for re-election although Hudson did send out some fliers late last week.

Hudson was fourth in the voting two years ago and fourth again this time. Thus his two consecutive terms on the Commission—the maximum allowed by the Charter—will cover the minimum of four years.

Vallier and Jabara were named to four-year terms and will have eight years to their credit when their terms in office end.

Rev. Schweitzer was high man in two of the five precincts leading in No. 1 with 137 and in No. 2 with 72. Jabara was top vote getter in three including No. 3 with 126, No. 4 with 139 and No. 5 with 149.

City Clerk Eugene Slider, who also serves as chairman of the election commission, was amazed at the light turnout.

"It would appear that residents of the City aren't much interested in who will run the City for the next four years," he said. "It's amazing that in an election of this importance only 21.1 per cent of the eligible electors go to the polls. There are 4,271 eligible and only 902 cared enough to cast their votes."

Change City For Mayor Exchange

The Mayor of Plymouth, whoever he will be, will go to Beverly Hills this year to celebrate Mayor Exchange Day during Michigan Week.

The switch to Beverly Hills from Clawson was the result of a request made by the City of Plymouth through City Manager Richard Blodgett who was asked to seek a change.

Beverly Hills has no Mayor, but has a Council President in the person of Hugh G. Allerton, Jr.

Winter Highway Cost Set High

LANSING—The winter that came so early, hit so hard and lasted so long was indeed the worst and costliest in modern times—judging by a State Highway Commission report released recently.

Two principal criteria are used by the Highway Department in rendering judgment concerning the severity of the winter season, State Highway Director Howard E. Hill said.

The first—usage of salt and calcium chloride to keep highways free of snow and ice—hit an all-time high record by a wide margin.

An estimated 297,612 tons of salt (sodium chloride) and 5,617 tons of calcium chloride were spread on the 9,210 miles of state highways in efforts to keep them ice free, Hill said.

Previous high total was 243,882 tons of salt spread in the 1964-65 winter when slightly more than 6,102 tons of calcium chloride was used. The latter is mixed with the salt when temperatures are below 20 degrees above zero because salt loses some of its effectiveness at lower temperatures, Hill said. The second criterion—cost—hit a record, but by only a slight margin.

Total needed for the current winter has been $10,819,000, Hill said. This compares with a total expended of $10,771,000 in the 1964-65 winter.

The Highway Department has budgeted $7,593,926 for winter maintenance last spring and the record Lower Peninsula January storm sent costs up to $8,937,000, Hill said.

In order to meet costs for March, the Highway Department is seeking legislative approval of a $2.5 million deficiency appropriation and is transferring $700,000 from other accounts to make up the difference between the sum budgeted and the sum needed.

Total snowfall reports by the U.S. Weather Bureau for different sectors of the state are not yet compiled. But a spot check at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Lansing indicates the severity of the Highway Department's Maintenance Division problems.

In Lansing, for example, the total snowfall recorded through March 29 was 81.5 inches compared with 63.2 inches in 1964-65.

Art Festival Is Open At Livonia Mall

Michigan artists and craftsmen will present an exhibit of paintings and crafts at the Livonia Mall on Seven Mile Road and Middlebelt from April 6 through 15, daily, except Sunday.

The Mall Hours are from 9:30 to 9 with the exception of Tuesday and Wednesday, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Artists from the Metropolitan Detroit area will be on hand to demonstrate and show their handiworks in a great variety of materials and mediums, such as metal sculpture, glass etching, china painting, metal ceramics, lapidary and many other fascinating approaches to the creative arts.

Another feature will be a group of portrait painters, caricaturists and silhouette artists.

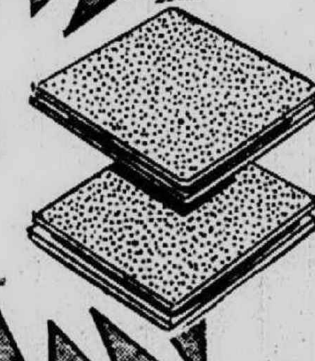

The exhibit is sponsored by the Merchants Association of the Livonia Mall and is one of the largest of this type ever held in Metropolitan Detroit.

In Trouble Shooting Competition at Schoolcraft

'Whiz Kids' Match Wits with Experts

More than 50 high school technology whiz kids from throughout Michigan will attempt to outguess the experts Friday, April 7, in a troubleshooting competition in the shops and technology laboratories at Schoolcraft College. The young students, survivors of regional elimination tests in electricity-electronics, automotive service, power mechanics, and drafting, will be required to solve a series of working problems such as "bugged" engines and electronic equipment and drafting board posers.

The test of skill and ability begins at 1:30 p.m. The competition is sponsored by the Michigan Industrial Education Society, and is staged in conjunction with the MIES annual convention at Cobo Hall, Detroit, April 6-8. Winners will receive awards at a luncheon for the finalists at Cobo on Saturday, April 8. Coordinator for the competition is Delavan W. Sipes, electronics instructor at Schoolcraft. In charge of the individual competition categories are Arthur J. Oetmeier and George Clark, automotive instructors at Schoolcraft, power mechanics and automotive service; Fernon Feenstra, chairman of the technical division at the college, electricity and electronics; and

Richard J. Reinhold, architecture instructor, and Leo J. Bigos, drafting instructor, in drafting. Student competitors include eight from area high schools; six from Bentley High in Livonia. They are Howard Comstock and Paul Smith, in automotive service; Marvin Steiner and Gary Niles, in electricity-electronics; and T. Renner and W. Ryan, in power mechanics. Comstock, Smith, Renner and Ryan are students of Tom Handy. Steiner and Niles are students of Paul Abar. Scott Jones and Doug Sutherland, students of William Lively at Franklin High, qualified for the competition by taking first place in radio service in the regional test.

Campus tours, conducted by members of the Schoolcraft Student Senate, are scheduled for competition spectators between 12:30 and 1:15 p.m., Friday. Displays and demonstrations of industrial and technical facilities and equipment at the college, will be on view from 1 to 4 p.m.

TERRY RICHTER

Local Youth Will Attend G.M. School

Bentley High School senior Terry L. Richter was recently appointed to the General Motors Institute in Flint, under the sponsorship of Fisher Body Division, Livonia.

Terry will pursue a cooperative educational program, alternately spending six weeks at the Institute in Flint, and six weeks at the Fisher Body Plant in Livonia, applying the knowledge and theory gained in school to practical work situations.

The program leads to a bachelor's degree in engineering.

Terry resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Richter, at 14619 Garden Road in Livonia.

Freight Firm Honors 12 From Area

Twelve area residents are recipients of service awards, given them last week by Middle Atlantic Transportation Co., Inc. of Detroit.

Those recognized are: Harold B. King, Garden City, Clarence Carson, Farmington; Richard E. Cagle, Livonia; and Andrew Liberis of Redford Township; 15-year awards.

Walter Graham, Howard E. Jackson, and William J. Pietila of Garden City received recognition for ten years and Richard B. Cogill, Wallace J. Schave, Norman T. Kaske, Hallie R. Grass, and Richard D. Clegg for five years of service.

Ward's Shows Record Sales and Earnings

CHICAGO, — Montgomery Ward today announced in its annual report to stockholders and employees that a new 25-system computer center in Chicago has begun processing control information for a large number of its retail and catalog merchandising operations, that a computerized national repair parts center soon will be complete, and that a million dollar merchandise research and development center has been equipped to serve the quality control testing requirements for all of its products. The company stated it will open 21 large, modern retail stores during 1967. Ward's report today goes into the mail to 86,000 stockholders and 100,000 employees.

Record sales of $1.89 billion and earnings of $16.52 million were previously reported. These compared with 1965 sales of $1.74 billion and earnings of $23.96 million.

Capital expenditures were $57.8 million in 1966, down from $68.2 million in 1965 and 1967 capital expenditures are estimated at $35 million.

In their letter to stockholders, Chairman Robert E. Brooker and President Edward S. Donnel state: "We have passed the peak of expense for new market development, for new store openings and old store closings."

The report states that 19 obsolete stores were replaced in 1966 by larger, modern stores and that 14 more will move into new modern buildings in 1967. Sixteen stores were converted to catalog outlets in 1966 and 28 will be converted to catalog outlets in 1967.

Statistics in the report show that 70 per cent of the Company's total retail sales, more than $1 billion, are being obtained from stores in the 105 major metropolitan markets in which Wards is represented.

Small stores doing less than $1 million of sales annually, now account for only 9 per cent of the Company's retail sales. Large stores with more than $3 million sales generated 69 per cent of the Company's retail sales.

Stockholders are told by Ward's management that "profits of large new stores in metropolitan areas exceeded those of stores in non-urban areas both in dollars and in relationship to sales."

The Company's principal executives also report that: "We have concentrated major efforts to establish bases in metropolitan communities . . . converting Montgomery Ward from a rural oriented merchandise company, with catalog profits as its backbone for most of its history, to a highly competitive national urban retail chain which now is prepared to obtain most of its future profits from large stores in metropolitan areas."

Other highlights of the Annual Report are:

● Growth prospects for catalog sales were never greater.

● Establishment of catalog sales agencies has been accelerated with 569 in operation at fiscal year-end compared with 287 a year ago.

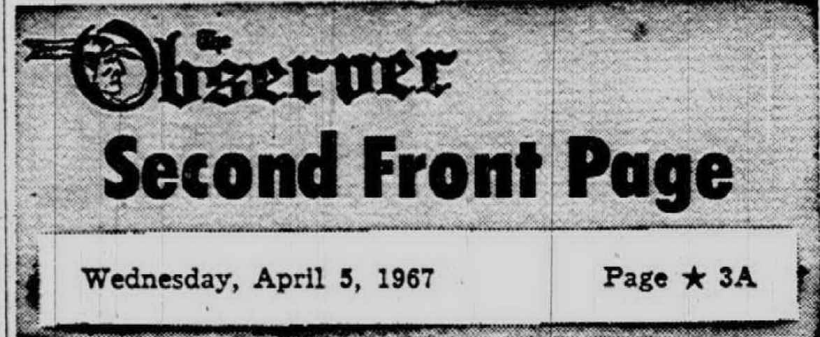

● Processing of catalog orders by computers, under test in Kansas City for 2½ years, will be installed in two additional catalog houses in 1967.

● A new method of catalog placement was used in 1966 resulting in 6 per cent more sales with 10 per cent fewer catalogs.

● 20,000 stockkeeping units of slow-moving and obsolete merchandise items were eliminated from the 1967 Spring and Summer General Catalog and results to date show no adverse effect on sales but substantial economies from the elimination of the effort and costs of buying, listing and handling of these 20,000 units.

● 50 million catalogs and 50 million of newspaper, radio and TV advertising, including 400 million roto and color sections, are being used to promote Ward's sales of merchandise and services in 1967.

● On February 1, Montgomery Ward was serving the needs of more than 50 million customers in 1,856 communities of the nation.

Sorna Is Ordered To Circuit Court

Jules V. Sorna, 25, of 20224 Purlingbrook, Livonia, was bound over to the Oakland County Circuit Court last week on a charge of armed robbery.

According to the charge, Sorna robbed the Paul and Vic's Market at 28734 Grand River, Farmington Township of $35 on Nov. 21, 1966.

Sorna and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Sorna of the same address, are currently facing trial for charges of conspiracy to murder in the Oakland County Circuit Court.

Police alleged that the Sornas hired a Detroit factory worker, Burt Davis, to kill Mrs. Victoria Gegates, owner of the Paul and Vic's Market before she could testify at Jules' examination last week in the Farmington Township Court.

Livonian Returns From Vietnam Duty

S/4 William McAndrew, son of Cyril J. McAndrew, 9912 Woodring, Livonia, has returned home, having received an Honorable Discharge after four years and nine months service with the Army.

William was a member of the Green Beret and served a year and two months in Vietnam. While in the service he received the Parachute Badge, the Good Conduct Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Medal and the National Defense Service Medal.

A brother SP/5 Robert McAndrew is presently serving as a Medic with the Army and stationed at Fort Wainwright in Alaska.

Joins Firm

Young & Rubicam, Inc. has announced the appointment of Mrs. Robert J. Adams as a buyer in the media department of the advertising agency's Detroit office.

JOHN YOUNG, of 37956 Donald, Livonia, has been promoted to domestic service manager of Ex-Cell-O Corporation's Pure-Pak Division. He is a member of the Rosedale Presbyterian Church and is active in Livonia Boy Scout work.

PANCAKE EATING contests are a new fad and 78 Stevenson High School students nearly eclipsed the record last week as they ate an official 1,965. According to Milton Burg, manager of Uncle John's Pancake House, 10,001 Telegraph Rd., the SHS youths came close to setting a record, and will come back before April 15, when the contest ends. Sponsored by WKNR and Uncle John's Pancake Houses, the gastronomic event drew, among others: Chuck Sobczak, Harry Mauthe, Dan Reynolds, Dave Mastny, Larry Meyers, Chuck Dickey Bob Macy.

Eric Bradner, Fischer At N.M. Conference

Dr. Eric J. Bradner, president of Schoolcraft College, spoke on, "The Role of the Community College President," at the Fourth Annual Community College Trustees Conference, at Albuquerque, N.M., on Thursday, March 30.

The conference, second of a series scheduled this year by the Midwest Community College Leadership Program, was attended by nearly 100 presidents and trustees of 20 midwestern states.

Harold E. Fischer, chairman of the Schoolcraft College board of trustees, and president of the Michigan Assn. of Community College Boards, served as moderator of a seminar for trustees at the Friday morning session of the two-day conference. Dr. Bradner also served as consultant to a seminar for college administrators.

For the second consecutive year a Bentley team member also won the award for third runner up. In 1966 and 1967 Jan Goulston, of 19621 Flamingo, was winner.

The MUN club is sponsored by the social science department of Bentley and is under the direction of Howard Tremble and William R. McQuesten.

The Hunt is on!

THOUSANDS SEARCH FOR HIDDEN CHECK WORTH $1,000.00

There's a $1,000 check buried somewhere in Livonia. Find it and it's yours. Get your free "treasure island" map now at stores shown at the right and start your own treasure hunt. For additional clues call 261-2700. There are new clues every day.

IF YOU MISSED THE FIRST 7 CLUES—HERE THEY ARE:

- (March 29)
The Sound of Music featured one, It's known throughout the nation, Find this spot and you've begun, To find the loot's location.
- (March 30)
We doubt if you will find a stream, That runs beside this dale, Look further south to fill your dream, And you will hardly fail.
- (March 31)
Men and gold both be-gowned, If they make the grade, Though on your treasure map its found, It's not the place to spade.
- (April 1)
This clue will tell you where, The Birdie's hard to come by, Our treasure's only 6 miles away, As you would watch a crow fly.
- (April 2)
If this one's got you in a trance, You'll never fill your mission, Go east young man and take a chance, You've made a wrong decision.
- (April 3)
You can bank on this latest clue, There's no need to be worried, Four miles south, you're on cue, To where the dough is buried.
- (April 4)
Round and round the olden train, At the wagons they did shoot, Here's where you feel that certain strain, When he takes away YOUR loot.

Plymouth Man Named To Committee

C. M. Harper, 5775 Proctor, Plymouth, quality control manager of Hygrade Food Products Corporation, Detroit, has been named a member of the Scientific Advisory Committee of the American Meat Institute.

Plan No Hike In City Taxes

There will be no raise in taxes in the City of Plymouth this year. The anticipated revenues will come from the following sources, according to the proposed budget:

General Fund—	$5,507,125
• Property taxes	$4,232,256
• Non-tax revenues	$1,274,869
M. V. Highway Bond	$180,783
Cemetery Fund	$13,548
Parking Fund	$13,001
Quit rent fund	$92,510
Water Department	$215,770
Sewage Disposal System	$114,450
Total	$1,592,712

After receiving the proposed budget the Commission set April 24 at the date for the annual hearing after which final action will be taken.

Aside from receiving the budget, the Commission finally passed a taxicab ordinance. This ordinance has been under study for months and in its present form is considered one of the strongest ordinances of its kind in the area.

The Commission also approved the report of the Beautification Committee and approved expenditures not exceeding $300 for plans and specifications for the work in Kellogg Park.

Action on the controversial vacated building on Penniman Avenue was delayed and the Commission turned the matter over to the Parking Authority to ascertain the possibility of the people on Penniman Avenue paying 50 per cent of the cost of acquisition of the property.

The Commission also agreed not to proceed with the plan on the Schrader parking lot until such time as a long term agreement can be made with Edwin Schrader.

The Sick-Leave and Injury-On-The-Job benefits were approved by amending the personnel rules.

Public Hearings also were set for May 15 regarding the petitions to vacate the alley between Arthur and Irvin and one north of Roe between Hamilton and the C & O railroad.

Kiwanis Charter Approved

A Charter for the new "Kiwanis Club of Plymouth Foundation Inc." has been approved by Kiwanis International. The Plymouth Board of Directors and incorporators approved the agreement with the International and adopted the by-laws last week.

The Plymouth Chapter has long thought of sponsoring a Foundation but it wasn't until recently that all of the mechanism was put to work to make the project a reality.

The incorporators and Board of Directors include: Bill Lyons, President; Bob Utter, Vice President; Ernest Henry, Secretary; Roland Lutz, treasurer; and Board Members, Harper Stephens and William Sempliner.

Sempliner, well-known area lawyer, was authorized to contact the Internal Revenue Service for approval and to file the necessary annual report for non-profit corporations with the Michigan Attorney General.

The purpose of the Foundation is to receive and administer funds. These in turn would be used to assist needy persons, particularly young people; to assist worthy youth in attaining vocational excellence; and to prevent cruelty to children.

Retired Wayne State basketball coach Joel Mason will serve as Tournament Director for the Wayne State Centennial Classic which debuts in December of 1967 as an eight-team basketball tournament.

Pick Barbour Chairman Of FSB Board

Robert Barbour, of the Plymouth Branch of the National Bank of Detroit, has been named chairman of the Plymouth Family Service Committee. He succeeds Rev. Donald Williams, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who resigned recently to accept a call to another church in Michigan.

George Andrews was named vice chairman and Mrs. George Bauer continues as secretary.

Other members of the committee are: Mrs. Ray Barber, Mrs. Carl White, Mrs. David Wood, Dr. James Marshall, Dr. Donald Davies and John Hoben.

The committee was formed by the Plymouth Community Fund Board to act as a liaison between the local office and the Ann Arbor Family Service Bureau and to promote better understanding of Family Service.

At the moment the committee is working with Ann Arbor and Detroit agencies screening applicants for the Directorship of the Plymouth office.

Longtime Plymouth Residents Form Partnership

Merriman, Merritt Join in Insurance Agency

A new business has been formed in the Plymouth Community, joining Earl Merriman, long known as "Mr. Insurance", and Joseph Merritt, of the Merritt Insurance agency.

The two longtime insurance agents have formed a partnership in which their respective talents in the profession may be used to the utmost.

Earl started his own agency several years ago but for the past six has been associated with one of Plymouth's leading agencies, dealing principally with commercial, business and professional accounts.

Joe is married to the former Margaret Allen and they are the parents of five. Their oldest daughter, Nancy, is employed by Detroit Mutual Insurance. Three of their children attend Our Lady of Good Counsel School and the youngest is still at home.

Earl was graduated from Airman Selected Airman Dale E. Ray, son of Mrs. Stella I. Ray, 2100 Morrison, Plymouth, has been selected for technical training at Keesler AFB, Miss., as a U.S. Air Force communications-electronics specialist.

is the policy writer. Altogether there are 90 years of insurance experience in the agency through the partners and their staff.

Merritt entered the insurance business in Plymouth in 1937 after graduating from Plymouth High the previous year. He spent five years in the armed services during World War II. He was wounded in action in Bataan, received the Bronze Star and five battle stars.

Even Jewelry Needs Sudsing Now, Then

Jewelry should be chosen thoughtfully, because fashion places special importance on it to accentuate every costume, says Mrs. June L. Sears, MSU Extension Home Economist. And because it is a prominent eye-catcher, all jewelry — real or fake — must be kept at its sparkling best.

The slightest speck of soot, smudge of make-up, or film of perspiration will dim the luster of metal, stones, and beads. This makes it necessary to "launder" jewelry after every few wearings — even more often, if soil begins to show.

The formula is simple: soap or detergent suds, thorough rinsing, and rapid drying. Lukewarm water is best for both washing and rinsing jewelry as extremes or changes in temperature may crack real or synthetic stones. Diamonds are the exceptions to this rule.

Stones held in place by prongs can be safely submerged in suds, then scrubbed gently with a well-lathered soft brush — such as a baby's hair brush — to coax dirt from their settings. After rinsing, shake off excess water, wipe with a lint-free cloth, and allow traces of moisture to evaporate.

Stones glued or cemented should be surface-washed with a soft brush dipped into thick suds. Then brush the piece with clear water, and pat it immediately with a dry tissue to keep moisture from seeping under the stones, advises Mrs. Sears.

Diamonds are so indestructible that dirt can even be boiled from their settings. Make a bath of hot suds in a sauce pan, add a dash of ammonia, and sink a folded cloth to the bottom as a "cushion".

Put the gem in a small strainer under warm running water. Drain the clean jewelry on a towel, and then dip it in alcohol and let it dry.

Untangle and straighten multi-strand jewelry before washing. Pin or tape the clasp ends to a hand towel. Grasp ends of the towel, dip it up and down in thick suds, then use the same method for rinsing. The strands won't shrink if the towel is pulled taut while they dry.

Real or simulated pearls should be swished through warm suds, holding the piece by its clasp. Handle gently to prevent puncturing the "skin" of opalescent material which give pearls their characteristic sheen.

If knots between pearls are soiled, lay the necklace on a towel and suds-scrub the cord gently with a soft brush. Swish the piece through clear warm water, pat it in a towel, and pin it to a clean towel to dry.

Clean costume jewelry with baking soda and warm water, using one teaspoon of baking soda to one-half cup of warm water. Brush jewelry until it glistens.

Don't wait until "the morning after" to store jewelry, preferably in a velvet lined box or a chamois bag. To prevent scratches, keep pieces separate from each other.

It is wise to have precious jewelry checked by a jeweler at regular intervals suggests Mrs. Sears. He will tighten prongs and look for signs of wear on the cords of real pearls.

ARTHUR F. SIPPOLA of Melvin Avenue in Livonia has been named manager of the Detroit Bank & Trust office at Schoolcraft and Dale. The new manager first joined the staff of the bank in 1958 and was made assistant manager at the Schoolcraft-Dale branch the following year. A graduate of MSU, Sippola is an active member of the Livonia Family YMCA, Lyndon Meadow Civic Association and the Livonia Republican Party for which he has served as an alternate delegate to the state convention in February this year.

National Bank Trims

Brochure Tells I-275 Benefits

A recently-issued brochure outlining the benefits of locating industrial plants near the proposed I-275 Freeway, to affect Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, and Westland, is now available for company officials.

The fact-filled literature, put out by the Wayne County Road Commission's Economic Development Commission, outlines the freeway route from where it enters the county at the Monroe County line and extends north to the Oakland County border.

In Western Wayne County, the freeway will enter Canton Township just west of Hannah Road, the western boundary line of Westland, and continue north with the community to have exit ramps at Michigan Ave. (US 12) and Ford Rd. (M-153).

After the freeway enters Plymouth Township, there will be exits at Ann Arbor Rd. and the proposed Schoolcraft Freeway (I-96) just west of Hannah Road.

The freeway will then curve east and enter Livonia at Five Mile Road and have exits at Six Mile, Seven Mile, and Eight Mile Roads. At those points, the road will be just east of Hannah Road.

In statistics on the area surrounding the freeway, the commission's brochure points out that Livonia "is one of the fast growing communities within Wayne County" and has grown to 100,000 population, a growth of 250 per cent in 10 years.

"In recent years, many nationally known firms have settled in the industrial areas adjacent to the C & O Railway line," the commission continues. "The community is well planned and provides an excellent educational system including Schoolcraft Community College, parks and recreational centers, and all the necessary municipal services."

Plymouth Township's 15,000 population "has a working force composed primarily of professional and skilled workers and the area would have a special appeal to management seeking an attractive living environment for its personnel to live close to their place of employment."

"A number of nationally-known firms already are established in the township . . . and the community is especially responsive to industry," the brochure points out.

For Westland, the economic development group stressed that the city of 73,600 people is "characterized by young skilled and professional people. Industry will find this area of several hundred industrially zoned acres with ample rail facilities and National Airport, a private general aviation airport in the immediate area, an attractive development location."

Northville Township, to be just west of the proposed freeway in the northern portion of Wayne County, has 1,200 acres along the C & O Railway and freeway zoned for industrial uses.

"The industrial area is suitable for warehousing, light manufacturing, and research-oriented industries. The township is considered a residential community and this is where its wealth may be realized. Investors with imagination can easily develop township areas into recreational assets, thereby enhancing the community, increasing the residential desirability, and providing a compatible land use for proposed industrial development."

Airman Assigned

Airman Thomas L. Braunscheidel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linus P. Braunscheidel of 18844 Norborne, Redford Township, has been selected for technical training at Amrillo AFB, Tex., as a U.S. Air Force aircraft maintenance specialist.

Braunscheidel is a 1966 graduate of St. Agatha High School.

Livonian Named To New Post at Detroit Edison

Lloyd W. Coombe, of 29043 Barkley, Livonia, has been named director of administrative systems planning, for The Detroit Edison Company.

A graduate of Detroit Cooley High and Michigan Technological University, Mr. Coombe received a master's degree in electrical engineering from Wayne State University.

He joined Detroit Edison Coombe in June, 1951, and advanced through various engineering staff and supervisory assignments. He specialized in the field of computer applications, and had served as director of the General Engineering Department's computer application division since last October.

Coombe is chairman of the Edison Electric Institute Computer Task Force and is a member of its sub-committee studying the role of computers in system reliability. This committee reports to the Federal Power Commission Advisory Committee on System Reliability.

He is author of numerous papers and magazine articles dealing with digital short circuit calculation, generation planning, manpower and resources scheduling computer program and other topics.

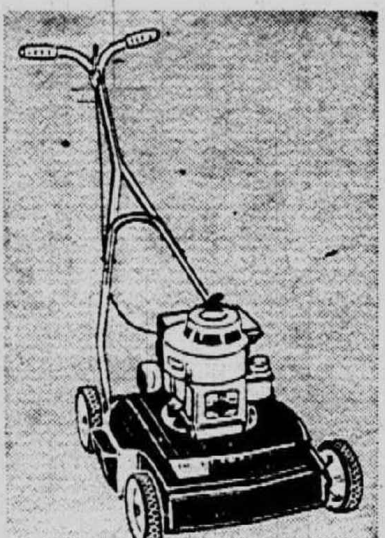

Mr. and Mrs. Coombe have three children, Donald, 12; Linda, 9; and Barbara, 3.

SHOWING OFF one of the four traffic safety signs posted recently near local schools is Earl Bridge of the American Legion Post 396 of Garden City, which is donating the cost of the signs. Eventually, Bridge said, there will be 50 signs posted near schools to warn motorists. The installation of the reflectorized-type signs is part of the state safety program and was praised at a recent City Council meeting by Police Chief Robert Behrendt.

Frozen Kosher Meals Solve Hospital Problem

Hospitals and nursing homes are welcoming the latest innovation in hospital nutrition—a problem that has troubled them for years. They are called upon occasionally to treat patients who observe Jewish dietary laws and eat only kosher food, and dietitians puzzled over the problem of how to provide for their patients physically without disturbing their spiritual well-being.

Now, however, kosher hospital dietary menus are available to ease that problem. Kosher food involves some religious detail, but basically these requirements:

The meat of only certain animals may be used. Meat and poultry must be ritually slaughtered in a prescribed manner which ensures all but the most minute part of the animal, and then pieces of to remove the blood.

Meat and dairy foods or derivatives may not be eaten together, nor may the same utensils be used to prepare or serve these foods.

Kosher utensils must be used. There are hospitals and institutions which are set up to serve the needs of patients who require kosher food. Sinai Hospital, in Detroit, for example, has its own kosher kitchen.

But for the most part, even the most helpful institutions have had to rely on makeshift solutions. Repeated meals of canned fish and vegetables become monotonous and unappetizing.

Last year the Great Lakes Chapter of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America acted on a doctor's suggestion, and out of this came kosher meals for any patient in the metropolitan area. The patient makes the request through his doctor. The hospital dietitian orders the necessary amount from the local food distributor. Frozen foods, which do not require cooking, are used.

The dietitian merely heats up the tray before serving, and both the tray and utensils are discarded afterward. The meals are prepared by a New York kosher food service organization which prepares similar trays for use on all airlines. There are thirteen different meals, some of them salt free, for special diets.

Mrs. Miriam Dachtel, president of the Great Lakes Chapter of POSCA, says that this service is now available in Detroit at Providence Hospital, as well as Mt. Carmel, Grace, Harper, Beaumont, Catherine, Deaconess and Ford.

LIVONIA BENTLEY HIGH school teacher Jim Brieske, whose precision placekicking set a 19-year record for the University of Michigan in 1947, tries on the new foot being made for him by Joseph Giacinto, University Hospital prosthethist. Brieske, who teaches business education, contracted a fibro sarcoma and his foot was amputated above the ankle earlier this year. His 1947 mark of 23 points after touchdown held up until this year when Rick Sygar kicked 24.

Family Gym Offered by "Y"

The Livonia Family "Y" will be presented. For further information contact the Livonia Family "Y" 261-0370.

The class is for Livonia Family "Y" members on a limited registration basis. It will involve a period of family controlled exercise and then special gym games for the children while the adults will be involved in games such as volleyball, badminton, etc.

To Sing Tenor In UD Concert

Leslie Halasz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Halasz, 27731 Buckingham, Livonia, is a member of the University of Detroit Chorus. He will sing tenor in the group's Spring Concert Sunday, April 9.

The concert begins at 8:15 p.m. in the U. of D. Memorial Building.

Varicose Veins Can Have Variety of Causes

What causes varicose veins? Many women, and quite a few men as well, are familiar with the unsightliness and the pain of varicose veins, but they are unaware of the cause.

"Hereditary weakness in the circulatory system, long periods of standing or straining, tight clothes, blows and bruises—all contribute to the development of varicose veins," said William O. Elson, medical research director of the Bauer and Black Division of the Kendall Company.

"Pregnancy, because of the extra weight, and also because of the pressure exerted on the pelvic veins, can create or aggravate varicose veins," Elson stated.

Half of all women over 40, and one out of five women who are pregnant, suffer from this ugly and painful condition, according to estimates by experts in vascular problems.

Elson explained that the problem is the back up of blood in the leg which the blood must make from the foot to the heart. This club is added by a series of valves in the veins, each of which must be capable of supporting a column of blood between itself and the heart.

"Veins nearest the surface are most likely to be unable to carry this load," said Elson, "because they have compression which is both prophylactic and therapeutic elastic stockings, he means is available to all.

"All today's woman with a varicose vein problem needs to know is that she will from April 11 should follow her doctor's through May 6.

Rep. Young Opposes Bill On Spending

A State Senate Bill calling for the expenditure of $32 million was passed in the House of Representatives this month but with the opposition of Rep. Richard A. Young, a Democrat, was one of eight out of 110 in the House of Representatives who opposed the measure.

Rep. Young stated that to begin the incurring of cost without sufficient proof to justify the erection of all the buildings, and knowing where the financing is going to come from, in view of the current financial status of the state, is not in his opinion a responsible attitude.

Young pointed out that the Governor's "tax package" is not even in bill form at this time and it is impossible to study his entire program until such legislation has been at least drawn up in writing. In view of this he had no alternative other than to vote against expenses of such a large magnitude.

2 Face Trial For Armed Robbery

Two men charged with armed robbery, and one man, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, face trial in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Livonia Municipal Judge James McCann bound the three over last week.

Police arrested Kenneth Johnson, 23, of 4642 Lovett, and Jerry Fortenberry, 24, of 3802 Tyler St. Detroit, after two bandits held up two women clerks and a customer at the Parkside Credit Union in Livonia.

The thieves fled after taking $411 at gun and knife-point. Johnson and Fortenberry were apprehended later in their car and were charged with the armed robbery which took place shortly after noon on Feb. 24.

Both men stood mute when arraigned.

The third man who must stand trial is Richard J. Moore, 31, of 211 Peters St., Milford. He waived examination on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Bond was set at $500.

Officers discovered a six-inch blackjack in Moore's belt, Dec. 18, when he was injured in an auto accident.

Seek Control On Teen Clubs In Westland

Westland's City Council, in an attempt to gain tighter control of teen-age clubs, instructed City Attorney John J. Nellis last week to draft an ordinance which would require such clubs to obtain City Council approval.

The instruction to the attorney came after the Council adopted an amendment to the city's zoning ordinance regarding standards for car washes.

The teen-age club, as recommended by the planning commission, is defined as an "establishment whose primary purpose is to provide entertainment, food, and non-alcoholic beverages for a profit, catering to a clientele composed primarily of teenagers."

Northville Girl Is Among Betty Crocker Leaders

Joyce Elaine Stuckey, a student at Northville High School, won honorable mention in the 1967 Michigan competition for the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow crown. First place in the state contest went to Janet Elizabeth Lewis of Edsel Ford High School, Dearborn, who received a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, and Barbara Ann Wilcox, Swartz Creek, won second place and a $500 scholarship.

Competing in the home-making tests were 23,206 senior girls in 557 of the state's high schools.

Awards were based on the 13th annual written Betty Crocker Knowledge and Attitude examination, prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Chicago.

Miss Lewis now is eligible, with homemakers from the other 49 states and the District of Columbia, for All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow honors.

Westland F.D. Off to Fast Start in 1967

Westland's Fire Department, which broke all department activity records in 1966, started off the new year last month at a hot pace.

Firemen responded to 123 alarms in January, equivalent to the monthly average of the previous year when a record 1,456 runs were made. This broke the 1965 record of 1,067 by nearly a 40 per cent mark.

Last month, firemen answered 85 rescue calls from citizens as compared to only 42 during the corresponding month in 1966.

Another indication of the department's activity is a short note which shows that there were five double alarms in January, when two fire calls were received at the same time, and one triple alarm.

The fire losses for the past month amounted to $12,360, less than one half of the $25,880 figure of the same month last year. There were also three personal injuries reported in January fires as compared to one the corresponding period in 1965.

In the breakdown of the actual 32 calls in January, 20 were in buildings, six in vehicles, and two in rubbish near buildings.

In other department statistics for the month, 17 inspections were made by the fire prevention bureau following 13 complaints received. One violation was found and a notice was issued.

Two other violations were corrected during the month.

A dozen talks were given before audiences with a total number of 402 persons in attendance.

Picture Brighter for PCHA

Things are looking better for the People's Community Hospital Authority, the publicly-operated hospital facility which includes Garden City and Westland among its 23 member communities.

In the past year or two, the PCHA has been on the receiving end of some bad publicity. But the newspaper business being what it is, a governmental agency or a public official gets more attention for a misstep in official duties than the positive accomplishments. Although things are looking up for the hospital authority, the situation of operating a $17 million system is still not perfect for the simple reason that the hospitals are run by people and people are not perfect.

Being a public agency, supported in part by property taxes and having the board of directors meeting in open and public session, gives the authority's opponents a tremendous advantage in outlining its faults. But the very existence of critics (and there will always be legions of those) doesn't necessarily mean that there is any serious flaws within the authority or its administration.

But the freedom of speech allows many irresponsible statements to be made by misguided public officials.

In addition, the PCHA has an excellent, built-in advantage which allows the citizens in its member communities to express concern about the hospitals for the very reason that the hospitals are publicly supported.

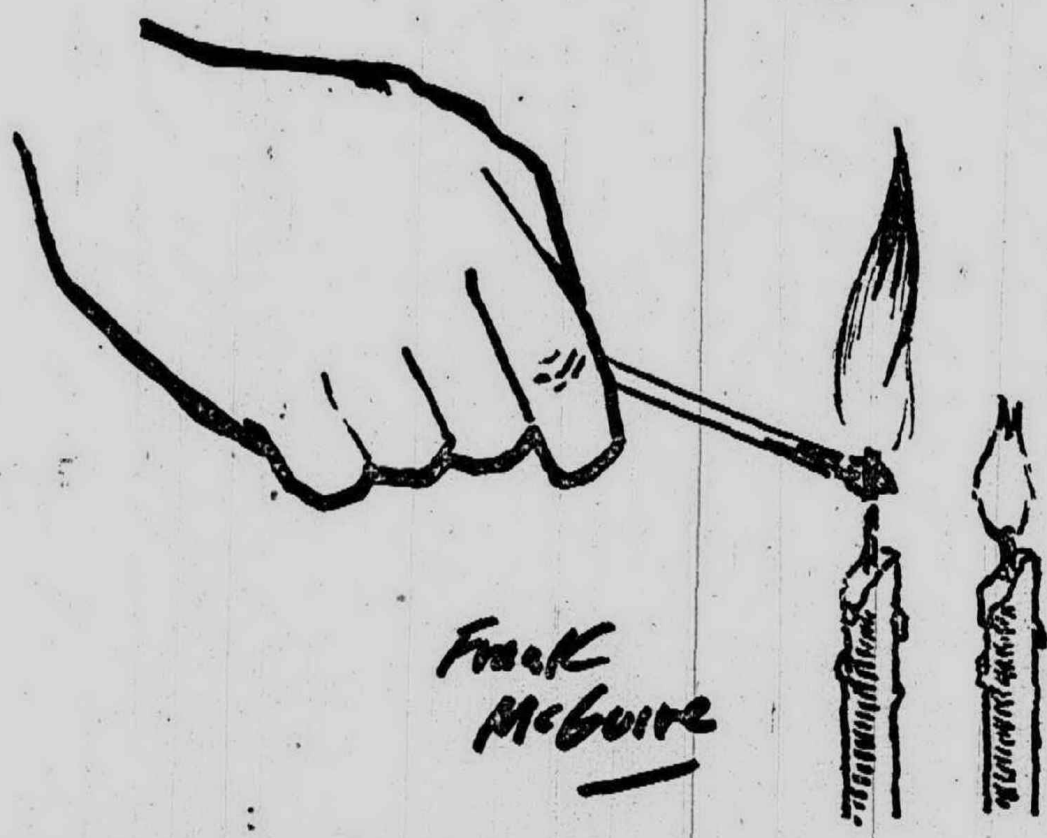

But since last fall, a number of events have occurred which indicated that considerable improvements have been made and more on the agenda.

Now, with all of the past legal problems apparently resolved, the PCHA now has an excellent opportunity to live up to the bright potential of public service it can offer the communities.

Letters to Editor:

Sees Duplication In Facilities

Editor:
In the Feb. 15 issue of the "Observer" there is an article on the third Senior High and another on a new library. The two sites are only one and a half miles apart. I propose that the School Board and the Library Board coordinate their efforts and build the new library as a part of the school.

This would avoid needless duplication of books and periodicals, professional staff, and physical plants. The greatest benefit would be to the high school in providing facilities far superior to an ordinary school library. The library would benefit by the availability of volunteer student clerical help, and the savings in costs could be used to augment the collection of books.

Certain practical problems remain to be worked out regarding financing and supervision, but I'm sure they are not insurmountable. How about a comment from the two boards?

Robert E. Fathman
Farmington

EDITOR'S NOTE: There are several legal problems involved in this suggestion. First of all the schools and the district library are completely separate units and operate under different state legislation. Their taxes are levied in different manners (the schools by a vote of the people, the library by the City Council and a vote of the Township residents). The school library and the District library also have different functions.

Teachers' Salaries Are Competitive

Editor:
Comment is warranted on the article, "The Teachers Speak," in last week's Livonia Observer by R. D. Stephon, Executive Secretary, Livonia Education Association. Such comment might be headed:

An Engineer speaks:
Livonia teachers are well paid. If one considers the teacher a seasonal employee, his salary is quite competitive with other professions. Or if he is a full time employee, paid for 12 months, two and one half months of paid vacation is certainly a compensatory factor for lower annual salaries. In fact, I suspect that those entering the profession are drawn to it at least in part by this extended vacation. Reducing Mr. Stephon's figures to a monthly average (based on a 9 1/2 month-year for teachers) brings out that teacher compensation ranks below only that of the engineering profession. This is not too surprising considering the engineer's higher academic requirements. (140 semester hours for a Bachelor's degree vs. 120 to 124) Average monthly starting salaries paid to graduates with Bachelor's and Master's degrees in 1965 were as follows.

Bachelor's Degree Ave. Start Salary: 1. Engineering, $632; 2. Accounting, $561; 3. Sales Marketing, $523; 4. Bus. Advertising, $520; 5. Liberal Arts, $518; 6. Prod. Manager, $568; 7. Chemistry, $588; 8. Math. Stat., $556; 9. Econ. Finance, $550; 10. Other fields, $530.

Master's Degree Ave. Start Salary: 1. $752, 2. $657, 3. $670, 4. $688, 5. $649, 6. $655, 7. $682, 8. $681, 9. $698, 10. $695.

The beginning salary of Livonia teachers with a Bachelor's degree is $589; those beginning with a Master's degree earn $637 per month. The argument will be made that teachers must "live the year around." Certainly, this is a truism but then should they not work the year around for the competitive annual salaries they desire?

By far the greatest percentage of our property tax dollar goes for education, approximately 70% of which pays competitive monthly salaries. I hold that Livonia teachers are well paid and that the LEA should find another windmill to tilt.

Where Is The Ice?

Editor:
In the tradition of the late publisher, Paul M. Chandler, I have admired your editorial comments on problems great and small, as they relate to Livonia.

It would be appreciated if you could determine the answer to this simple question: Why is it the Livonia Parks and Recreation people send out long activity lists, including a site list of ice skating rinks, which are not maintained?

There were two weekends recently that were perfect for ice skating and so off we go to the rink nearest us at Bryant Junior High (Merriman north of Six). The "rinks" were snow covered and useless. So we went all the way to Plymouth Township to skate (at the County Park at Hines - Northville Road). That was the weekend of Feb. 4 & 5th. Then, another weekend we tried again to find a Livonia rink at Ford Field, which we were led to believe was the major ice skating facility and again, just a lot of snow covered space.

So I paid 35 cents to let the kids skate at the Redford Golf rink, which is maintained by the Detroit Parks and Recreation Department. Doesn't it strike you as strange that with all the grand millage we voted to acquire land for park sites, construct swimming pools, playgrounds etc.—that we can't keep one ice skating rink going? There is something fishy going on with our Parks and Recreation budget money and it is beginning to smell.

It would be great if you find out what is wrong. I've written a note to Councilman Milligan too. I am concerned with higher taxes and less to show for them. Thanks for your time and any effort you can spend to get to the heart of this.

Roy A. Clark
Livonia

Ed. Note: Please, Mr. Clark—understanding brings support. Please understand the crew involved in this has been overworked and they are understaffed. They had a hard time building up a base for a rink—and spent most of their winter trying to do this. Next year Mr. Dujour of Parks and Recreation has included in his budget appropriation to purchase blue clay to dump on the sand, thereby building up a better base for the outdoor rinks. Also, by next winter, he hopes to have artificial rinks which will be much easier to maintain. Stay with it Mr. Clark—it can't get worse—it can only improve.

Cars Better In City Than Horses

Editor:
A few weeks ago there was a "letter to the editor" in the Observer concerning the City Council proposed ban on riding horses on Livonia public streets. The writer, a horse lover, commented that she had never seen horses perform some of the stunts drivers of some cars do.

Well, I've never had cars do some of the things that horses do either. I've never had a car drop a load of manure in my driveway and I've never had to chase runaway cars down the parkway in front of my house (never ride in front of their own—just the neighbors) and leave ruts from the cart wheels and piles of manure.

I've never gone outside in the morning to find cars eating my shrubs and lawn. Please — Livonia is a city now. Let's keep the horses where they belong — in the country. I'll certainly vote for any Councilman who will keep the horses off our public streets.

OBSERVING the Scene ...

By MYRA CHANDLER

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Hey, ladies if you are somewhere between 40 and death, as the song goes; if you are trim, and have a fair share of pep, this is your year.

There are several femme fatales who are setting the pace, year after year for you. This will long be known as the year of "glamour hits the 40's (would you believe, 50's).

With five days soaking up N.Y. and as many Broadway shows, it was delightful to see the cutie in her budding teens and early twenties taking a back seat to the full-bloomed (not a trace of fading) lady more-than-a stone's throw away from 40.

What was even more delightful was to meet these elegant and thoroughly active women on my side of the foot-lights and find out how really good they looked. Oh, a line or two—sure—for character. But they were such a truly, happy lot. Enjoying their work, their success,

The answer I guess—they were old enough to be smart enough to know how to enjoy success.

My favorite was Angela Lansbury as Mame. She was trim, full of fun, humor and great songs. Next to the lead song "Mame"—my favorite is "Open A New Window"—if you can get to New York I recommend the show. But if can't, the sound track of the music is fun and will give you a lift (if you are over 40. that is).

Our visit was geared to the opening the new Broadway show "Sherry", an amusing musical take-off of the "Man Who Came to Dinner." Eileen Boze of The Observer, is 'my sister Eileen' to Byron Webster who plays the part of Noel Coward and has a perfectly marvelous song, "Au Revoir." He is a natural-born mimic and does a proposal duet with the lead character that should surely bring him a Toni award for supporting actor next season.

Onstage and off his friend Eddie Lawrence as Harpo Marx is fun, light footed and pure entertainment. Eddie is also a composer and an artist.

In fact all of Byron's friends, we had occasion to be with this week, gave us a wonderful insight into the world of the theatre. This business of entertaining people—you and me—is taken very seriously by these people—and no amount of hardship or inconvenience is too great to accomplish portraying a good part—writing a good piece of music—a good song—or a dance arrangement to please us. They may rush to the newspaper and read the review before the headlines or the stock market—but they accept whatever happens to them, never stop hoping—and what I think I like best about them, generally, they are not afraid to live and never give up.

The male lead in "Sherry" is Clive Revill and brings a most sassy Alexander Wolcott to his audiences. Again, the female lead is no tender young thing, she is Dolores Gray, and has seen at least 49 summers, and maybe a couple of extra winters, but can she belt out a song. "Putty in Your Hands" is great.

Incidentally, Lotte Lenya (to further prove my point) several times on stage completely steals the show from Jill Haworth (sweet young thing). Lenya plays the part of Fraulein Schneider in "Cabaret," another great musical, and she must be in her late 60's.

No doubt these ladies take good care of them selves and certainly don't sit up 'til dawn as we did, in the village listening to a composer-pianist like John Wallowitch.

But no doubt, come Monday and reality, feeling like 30 in the shade it will still seem worth it to me—such sweet music—and he has an album, too.

SENSE and NONSENSE

A clergyman named David Noebel made a recent talk in this area under the auspices of the Christian Crusade organization. He expounded the thesis that music loved by American teenagers is the result of "infiltration" by "several communist controlled record companies" and that "beat music can hypnotize and demoralize high school students to a point of complete abandonment and often leads to riot and destruction."

The Rev. Noebel goes on to contend that Beatle-type music is part of "a systematic plan geared to making a generation of American youth mentally ill and emotionally unstable."

Aw, come on now, Reverend Noebel. Have you been listening to that catchy stuff yourself?

Old Bugaboo Crops Up Again—What is Society?

By W. W. EDGAR

IT LONG has been the custom, in many circles, to rate a working newspaperman just a little above the average in intelligence, not so much because he knows all the answers, but because he knows where to get them.

Folks have a habit of looking at a member of the working press with a certain degree of envy because of the many persons they know in high and low places—and always seem to have the contacts when a good story is in the making.

Well, a lot of this philosophy exploded one evening not too long ago when I had the pleasure of speaking before a group of young folks who were interested in journalism.

In extending the invitation the group informed me that they'd like to hear about such things as the "glamour of newspaper work," "the excitement of gathering news," the "thrill of attending outstanding events," and the fun of "meeting so many people."

It seemed like a big order, but it was simple after destroying the image of a working newspaperman as shown in the movies.

"SURE, newspaper work is exciting," I told them "because it is the writing of a daily history of the community."

I quickly informed them, too, that, contrary to what they may have seen in the movies, there is no chaos in a newspaper office when a big story is in the making.

"There is no time to get excited," I explained, "and each man must do his part—and do it on time."

All was going fine until I concluded and then asked, "Are there any questions?"

There was silence for a moment, then a young girl, seated in the front row, spoke up.

"If newspaper men know the answers—or where to get them—you should be able to help me."

I assured her I would be glad to try.

"Fine," she said, "can you tell me about the women's pages? What do they mean by society? Who selects the members of society and what are the qualifications?"

It was then that I learned all heroes have feet of clay. "Young lady," I began, "I wish I could answer your questions. But I have worked on and around newspapers for some time and no one has yet been able to define 'society' for me."

For a time, in my younger days, I always measured society in terms of money. I was led to believe that "society" meant the rich in worldly goods. But, after a while I got to know quite a few folks with sizeable sums of money, who wouldn't be considered for society's blue book by any stretch of the imagination.

Then I attempted to employ another measuring stick. I thought for a time that "society" was that group of folks of high mentality.

Then, one day, I happened to have an opportunity to mingle with this so-called "society" and found, to my utter amazement, that some of these folks were not too bright, either.

So, what is society? I'd like to find out so I can answer this young lady.

Impressions

by Sue Shaughnessy

Last week's meeting of the Farmington Township Board was a refreshing change. It was refreshing in that a considerable amount of open and free discussion preceded a vote on a very hot political issue—pay raises for the full time Township officials.

Before going further we had better explain that we have absolutely no quarrel with the Township Board's action. We agree completely with the philosophy that in order to attract competent people to public office a just and decent wage should be paid.

For a Township the size of Farmington Township the proposal of $15,000 salary for the Supervisor is not too high. In fact, this is closer to a just wage than the $13,750 finally agreed upon by the Board.

The Township trustees should be commended for, at long last, having an open discussion about a serious issue. Too often the Board comes to the table with the matter having been settled and agreed upon behind closed doors.

This method simply gave impetus to the grumblings among the citizenry that the Township Hall was a "closed corporation." A good case in point is the Board's tight security restrictions on who was going to be appointed to fill a vacancy on the Board.

Here again we have no quarrel with the final decision, but we think that the public's interest would have been better served had the public been informed about who was being considered for the post.

This seeming fear to discuss anything controversial openly is not unique to the Farmington Township Board.

Unfortunately, it is a malady that seems to be common to local units of government. In fact, the smaller the municipality the more cautious the Board becomes.

An interesting point is that it is not unique simply to this area. A weekly newspaper published in Chicago's north suburbs carried an editorial not too long ago which stated in part:

"The closed meeting of the Wilmette Plan Commission graphically illustrates the need for a proposed amendment to the state's open meetings law.

"Since the meeting was called simply to discuss the proposed $86,000 master plan for the village, the planners fulfilled the letter—though not the spirit—of the existing law, which merely requires that public bodies conduct 'official' deliberations and take final action at meetings that are open to the public.

"The key word is 'official' which can be defined to exclude almost any type of discussion.

"Public officials might argue that a public atmosphere often impedes free and open discussion. We can understand this, for human nature tends to inhibit men in public . . .

"The plan commission is not the only public body that fulfills the letter of the law and no more. The park, school and village boards or their committees also have met privately to discuss matters other than personnel or land acquisition."

The only change that would have to be made to make

Engineering

News—Views—Students Guidance by Daniel E. Warren, P-E

A question frequently asked by students is "What does an Engineer do after graduation?" Rouge Valley (local chapter of M.S.P.E.) has discussed this many times with students. Almost invariably this leads to another question, "But what if he gets out of Engineering?" This is hard to answer, since an engineer seldom gets entirely out of engineering; his type of educational background is invaluable in many related fields of endeavor.

CONSIDER SALES ENGINEERING.

Sales Engineers are graduate engineers, usually with a degree compatible with the field they serve. Many Sales Engineers are registered professional engineers, although this is not normally a requisite for the job. A Sales Engineer may start immediately after graduation with the firm he serves, or he may work elsewhere in his field as a Design Engineer, a Service Engineer, a Field Engineer, etc.

Prior to actual assignment as a Sales Engineer he must go through a training program presented by his employer; this may be from a month to two years. He receives specialized training in the product or services his employer sells. He must know all the capabilities, uses, costs, etc., as well as any disadvantages of his product.

He becomes a consultant-in-fact to the engineers and buyers whom he services. The work is interesting and varied. It entails meeting new people, visiting new places, and communicating his knowledge so it can be incorporated into the design of a product or project. A sale most often becomes involved in specifications of his product; engineering drawings; and particulars for installation or assembly. He may follow a project from its inception through design, construction, and finally to the finished product performing as it was originally designed to perform. Quoting: "Sales Engineering is a satisfying and vibrant field. New challenges are posed, adaptations of the basic product require the Sales Engineer to think, plan, and calculate. If you like to meet people, travel, can communicate intelligently, this is certainly a field to explore."

While not synonymous, management often is defined as supervision. "Middle Management" is the level of supervision one or more notches above the non-supervisory employee.

A good Engineer who also has the qualities of a good supervisor is highly desired. But as an Engineer goes up the ladder in supervision he deals more and more with management and less and less with the technical aspects of engineering. He is more concerned with the quantity and quality of output of his group, with personnel problems, with planning and coordinating, with studies, with costs, with keeping upper management informed and happy.

The student may say "That is just where I want to go—I want to be chief engineer of my company." What does it take to get there? Not just exquisite technical knowledge. Not just a reputation as an outstanding Engineer. But a working knowledge of the related fields—Economics, English—and the Humanities.

Why? Because one of a Supervisor's chores is to know how to handle people—to get along with them, to motivate them, and to challenge them to be part of the team.

He must know how to plan, organize, and control. He must know how to present studies and reports, how to write concise but complete letters, how to make oral presentations. Most of this is not learned in technical courses. There are some who say that you "either have these abilities or you do not," that they cannot be learned otherwise.

Summarizing, an engineer's technical training usually fits him to branch out into many other fields—related or unrelated.

advances above a previous important high, accompanied of followed by a similar advance in the other. When the averages both dip below previous lows, this is regarded as confirmation of a basic downward trend. The Theory does not attempt to predict how long either trend will continue, although it is widely misinterpreted as a method of forecasting future action. Whatever the merits of the Theory, it is sometimes a strong factor in the market because many people believe in the Theory—or believe that a great many others do.

Q. At a recent meeting of our stock club we got on a discussion of the Dow Theory and how it relates to the Stock Market. We ended up with a number of different opinions. What is your interpretation of this Stock Market tool?

A. The Dow Theory is a market analysis based upon the performance of the Dow-Jones industrial averages. The Theory says that the market is in a basic upward trend if one of these averages

That's Opinion of PCHA Executive Director

Hospitals Should Serve Community

A hospital is a community institution, built, owned and operated by the community for community purposes. A hospital is not just a doctor's workshop and a group of hospital administrators last week was told that "they could not continue to go their separate ways doing what they wanted."

The comments were made by Dr. Karl S. Klicka, executive director of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority, which includes Garden City and Westland among its 23 member communities in Western Wayne and Eastern Washtenaw counties.

He gave the main address at the organizational meeting of the West Central Regional Planning Council which met in Grand Rapids. Former Executive Director of the Chicago Hospital Planning Council, as well as former President of the Appalachian Regional Hospital System, Klicka also told Grand Rapids and other hospital administrators present that they could not continue to go their separate ways doing what they wanted.

Klicka said he believed the only way for doctors and hospitals to give quality care at a price which is fair and reasonable is for all health care leaders to work under a system with rules and regulations all would follow voluntarily.

Community-wide health planning is more than merely co-operating with one another by swapping statistics," said Klicka.

"It involves co-ordination under a central planning committee which exists for the good of the entire community not the privileged few," he added.

"Broad community welfare stands above individual personal interests," said Klicka.

"It isn't enough for conscientious physicians to keep incompetent fellow-practitioners off hospital staffs," said Klicka.

He said that this only results in the incompetent ones going out and building their own hospitals.

Turning to the hospitals themselves, Dr. Klicka has been head of PCHA since last September, told hospital trustees that it was not only their right but their duty to set the conditions under which physicians use community facilities.

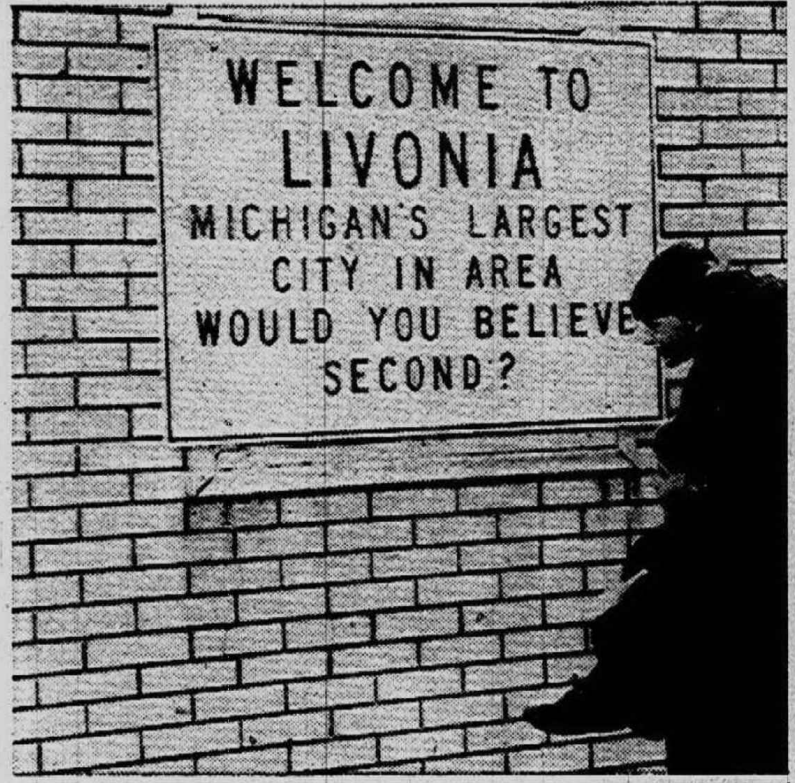

"The goal planning," he said, "is to develop long-range programs for a hospital system that would be beneficial to all."

Klicka then recommended a seven-point program for a successful, voluntary, community health care systems:

- 1—A strong planning committee with money to do the job;
- 2—Vigorous support by all health agencies, local and state;
- 3—Willingness on the part of doctors, administrators and trustees to pitch in and work with the committee;
- 4—Granting of Hills-Burton and other community funds only on recommendation from the planning committee;
- 5—Denial of Blue Cross membership to hospitals not co-operating in their building programs with the committee;
- 6—Withholding of private loans and mortgages until individual hospital programs are approved;
- 7—Issuance of building permits and zoning approvals only after consultation with the central planning committee.

Airman Second Class Richard M. Donnelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Donnelly of 17500 Lathers, Livonia, has been graduated at Lowry AFB, Colo., from the training course for U.S. Air Force air armament mechanics. Airman Donnelly a graduate of Bentley High School, is being assigned to Seymour Johnson AFB, N.C., for duty with the Tactical Air Command. He attended Schoolcraft College.

NOBODY KNOWS who put it there, who paid for it—but there it is, on the side of the Municipal Court Building. The Chamber of Commerce claim no responsibility—the Mayor of the City wants it removed and called the sign "ridiculous."

Ex-Director Urges PCHA Be Dissolved

The Peoples Community Hospital Authority, which serves the Garden City and Westland communities, should be dissolved with the member cities reimbursed for past contributions, a former executive director declared.

Kenneth Gremore, who was fired in late 1965 following charges of excessive funds spent for lobbying activities in Lansing, said that the authority, which operates four hospitals in Western Wayne and Eastern Washtenaw Counties should be ended.

Gremore's comments follow verbal criticisms from several of the 23 member communities of the PCHA who want to drop out of the public agency.

The former director, who had headed the PCHA since its formation 21 years ago, has criticized the recent retention of a public relations firm for $30,000 at a time member cities are facing drastic financial cutbacks.

Gremore pointed out that during the ten years just prior to his dismissal, the authority's 42-member board of directors and administrative staff costs for public relations totalled only $28,000.

Saying that the PCHA had done its job, Gremore said that the solution to current problems could be accomplished by dissolving the authority, returning monies to the member cities, thereby relieving their present financial crisis and eliminating future payments to the PCHA.

Watchman Killed in Garden City Plant

Garden City police, with the help of the State Police crime lab, are seeking the murderer of an elderly watchman who was shot six times early Thursday morning at the Wolverine Industries, 32400 Ford Road.

The victim of the shooting was Earl Seward, 68, of Inkster, who apparently surprised someone who had entered the plant and tried to burglarize a cigarette machine.

Garden City Police Chief Robert V. Behrendt said that Seward, alone in the huge plant at the time, heard the shattering of glass and when he went to investigate, came across the burglar at the machine.

Seward then dashed back to his lighted office to call police but the murderer, outside of the office, fired seven shots into the office, hitting Seward six times before he reached the phone.

The shooting victim worked for Manufacturers Private Police with offices in Taylor, and was assigned to the Garden City plant for the past nine months.

Behrendt said that Seward regularly made entries into the log every half-hour with the last entry made at 1 a.m. that morning. Seward's body was found about 6:30 a.m. by Bill Jamieson, Wolverine employee.

Jamieson told police that he found the front gate still closed and the plant's doors locked. He entered the building through another entrance.

No money was actually taken from the cigarette machine, which is about 200 to 250 feet from the office where Seward was shot.

An estimated 70 employees reporting for the morning shift were sent home, the police chief said.

Wolverine Industries is a Division of Mid-states Metal Products Inc.

Torch Drive Names Five

Councilman Edward McNamara of Livonia, Police Chief Robert V. Behrendt of Garden City, Dan Williams of Westland, and Milton Pollock and Mrs. Julius Zink, Redford Twp., have been appointed to the Western Wayne Planning Division of United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit (UCS), a Torch Drive Agency.

The Division, a group of volunteer community leaders, is charged with the responsibility of assuring that maximum use is made of the contributed Torch Drive dollars for local health and welfare services.

One hundred twenty-five, counseling, scouting, health, and other service agencies are supported through UCS. The Planning Division meets monthly to provide a channel for the expression of community sentiment and concern about social problems and to develop means of meeting these problems.

Also appointed or reappointed for three-year terms were: Mrs. John F. Brown, Northville; Thomas Eurich, Dearborn; Clyde Hamlin, Inkster; Raymond McKee, Dearborn Heights; for one year, Robert E. Penn, Inkster. Other members are Mrs. Charles E. Campbell, Livonia; Eldon R. Funk and Charles E. Barnett, Redford Twp.; Mrs. Peter Stevens, Livonia; Mrs. John Yori, Garden City; Wallace Arrowsmith, Wayne; William T. Crick, Dearborn; Philip Dingledey, Canton Twp.; Ted Kuckelman, Westland; and John F. Stubenvoll, Northville.

Attends Conference

Earl Keim, area realtor with offices in Plymouth, is participating in the 18th annual spring real estate clinic at the University of Michigan.

The all-day program is one of the year's top events for those in the real estate profession. It was held in Rackham auditorium in Ann Arbor.

Search Still On For $1,000 Check

Thousands of area residents, mostly vacationing students, have begun a search for a $1,000 check which Wonderland Center has secretly buried in Livonia.

The check, when properly endorsed, is negotiable for cash. Three telephone lines, all equipped with automatic answering devices, have been flooded with calls since the contest was announced last Wednesday.

Ernie Epps, promotion director for Wonderland, said more than 10,000 phone calls have been received so far.

The search began with the distribution of "treasure island" maps by 42 Wonderland stores. The maps, in puzzle form, are still available.

Scores of eager searchers were reported digging around well-known landmarks, including the Livonia City Hall.

Epps emphasized that the check is not buried on developed property. "The land where we hid the check is vacant, privately-owned property," Epps said. "It is, however buried near an easily identified landmark."

New clues to the whereabouts of the check are available daily. To obtain them, call 261-2700. A new clue will be provided at 9 a.m. each day until the check is discovered. As the contest progresses, each clue will become more obvious.

Busy Signal?

If you get a busy signal when calling for clues, keep trying at 5 to 10-second intervals. There are three trunk lines and your call is automatically transferred to the other two lines!

Teens Set To Dance For Scholars

On April 8, Stevenson High School will host a Keener Sock Hop for all students of Livonia High Schools. Dick Puritan, along with several name bands, will be present to promote the success of the dance which is being held by "Dollars for Scholars", a scholarship organizations.

The dance will be held from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. Student identification cards are required. However, any student will be permitted to bring one guest not attending the Livonia High Schools providing they accompany their guest.

Tickets are $1 and may be purchased in advance at any Livonia High School. They will also be sold at the door. Dress for the dance will be the normal school attire.

For President?

Editor:
I just wanted to try and express my thoughts on politicians.

Now that Mr. Ferency has retained his chairmanship of the state Democratic party, that same party can get to the business at hand and look at the real causes for the November defeat.

The voting public deserves a little credit for the results at the polls and I hate to see Mr. Ferency take all the credit.

Incumbents have to do a pretty poor job to be defeated. Voters do have some intelligence. Money, or the lack of it, isn't the only answer for hopeful candidates.

Mr. Ferency knows all the problems in Michigan, in fact so do I, however, like Mr. Ferency I have no satisfactory solutions.

Mr. Romney is in much the same fix on Vietnam. He can make many charges against the President, but I have yet to see or hear one valid workable alternative.

Apparently Mr. Romney doesn't give his November supporters credit for having many brains either.

He would have me believe that the Governor of Michigan always goes to Alaska and numerous other states to speak on national policy just to meet people.

I personally don't consider a half million plus margin a "landslide" victory in a state this size.

The November '68 election should prove to be interesting with the possibility of George Wallace and Adam Clayton Powell running for President.

I predict that by then Governor Romney will have made up his mind and President Johnson will be re-elected by the largest plurality ever.

Year Round School Answer?
Editor:

Last month, at the meeting at Bentley High School in Livonia on Tax Reform, a member of the panel came up with a proposal for spending reform. He recommended that we stop wasting our schools and teachers and put them on a year-around basis.

He pointed out that this proposal would not be without problems, inconveniences, and adjustments. However, the only alternative would be continued high or increased taxes. He did indicate that he and his family would be subject to the same problem as mine or anyone else as he has children in both elementary and secondary education.

James O'Neil, who is a member of the State Board of Education, is also from Livonia and therefore, I believe the Livonia School Board should give his proposal serious consideration.

This is one of the few alternatives ever offered to the taxpayers and if they should say "no" to this spending reform proposal then they are saying "yes" to supporting increased taxes and have made their choice.

MRS. GEORGE SYMONS

Ed. Note: A year ago The Observer suggested this idea and said all students could be in school on an alphabetical enrollment method. Thus all "A's" would vacation in one period, and all "Z's" in another.

Another issue, popped up this week, the money question in the City Clerk's office.

Here's one that smells of a bygone personal vendetta. So, the City has a ruling from the court, let them accept it and live with it, the rest of us have to do it. Why should the City be an exception just because the decision went against some of them, (or their feelings?)

The City attorney wants to continue to persecute someone to satisfy a whim of his, sure it is not his money he is spending so why should he care?

Keeping a grudge fight going only benefits the attorneys involved, enriches them financially and adds legal laurels to their already inflated ego. I say live with the verdict handed down by the court and let's get on with more important things.

Let's forget it, benefit from the experience, and go on with the job at hand.

Too Many Recesses
Editor:

Parents: remember when we were in school and sent out in the cold just to go home for lunch? We really learned something in school then. Nowadays it's a day off for this or that and two recesses a day for "play." Summer it is okay, but on these cold days with snow filled playgrounds?

The school where my children attend sends them out if it is 18 degrees or above. Even at 20 degrees or 30, if the wind is blowing (which it usually is) that's cold. And they cannot stand by the building.

My first grader has come home several times in the past two weeks with cold feet.

Teacher says "change into your tennis shoes and put your shoes on the register." So the shoes become hard and crisp and then they are put right back into these (by now, water and slush filled boots to come back home.

My daughter had the flu recently because of this. She has been back in school three days afterwards and is home again with a fever and a very bad throat. It was 20 degrees out and they were sent out to "play."

Without these 10 recesses a week, our children could have 2 1/2 hours more of schools. They can play and get fresh air after school and on weekends.

Concerning grade conferences, the children attend school a half day for one week. More time for learning lost. A waste of time. Bring back the old time report cards.

I don't think we are the only parents in Livonia, or elsewhere, that feel this way. Let's hear a few other opinions on these two subjects.

Open Letter to Judge James R. McCann

Today, by your own admission, I was guilty before I even entered your courtroom. Instead of our alleged belief that everyone is innocent until proven guilty — I was guilty because you feel only a police officer is capable of telling the truth. When I asked you why you did not consider the possibility that the officer's judgment might just be in error you informed me that you had to take his version instead of mine because he was an impartial witness—merely doing his duty. Since when is he not human and capable of error? Only God is this perfect and I'd hate to think our police force would assume this attitude! I strongly suspect your decision also went in favor of a seemingly rookie patrolman in order to bolster his confidence in future encounters. He did not speak with either confidence or surety when answering your questions but this also did not seem to influence you in your decision. He was right simply because he was the police officer!

We are making every attempt to raise our children to be law-abiding citizens with confidence and trust in our law-enforcement and judicial systems. What a blow to my daughter's confidence when you waived her words aside casually when she appeared with me as a witness. She feels rather strongly that her testimony should have been considered also and that our two accounts should, under normal conditions, have outweighed one opposite opinion. She also asked me rather curiously, after sitting for two and one-half hours in your courtroom listening to other cases which came before you, why everyone was found guilty. Was there not a single innocent person there?

What concerns me very strongly is the fact that the officer made three definite mis-statements on the traffic ticket which indicate that he, too, is capable of erroneous judgment, or carelessness, in that he stated that it happened at the intersection of Middlebelt and Pickford, which is not an intersection because Pickford does not cross Middlebelt but comes through only on the east side, and is further only two blocks from Seven Mile Road even though he was pursuing me with lights flashing long before I approached that corner; that it occurred on a four-lane road when in fact it is a five-lane avenue; and that he indicated my car as green when it is most definitely blue. Minor points you might say, but they only point out to me that he is just as capable of error as anyone else and that his testimony is therefore no more valid than mine; and that your decision was therefore biased against the defendant. I repeat, by your own words, everyone who appears in your courtroom to contest what they might consider an unfair violation ticket has no chance of being declared innocent because, naturally, they have a personal interest, whereas you feel the complaining officer has not.

Mary C. Potestivo
(Ed. Note: Mrs. Potestivo, if you feel strong on this, you could appeal to the Circuit court.)

How could anyone win against such an attitude?

When you pronounced your judgment you simply informed me that it was a $25 fine. Neither the attending court officer nor the court clerk would define whether this was the traffic violation charge or the penalty for requesting a court trial. Also, no one informed me that I had the choice of paying the fine or spending one day in jail. Had it not been necessary to take my daughter home, who had accompanied me, I would have elected the day in jail rather than have to pay the penalty of seeking justice.

Mary C. Potestivo
(Ed. Note: Mrs. Potestivo, if you feel strong on this, you could appeal to the Circuit court.)

Dem Leader Pledges Un Editor:

Let me express the thanks of the 19th Congressional District Democratic Organization for the fine coverage your newspaper gave our activities at the recent Democratic state convention.

It was an especially important convention for the 19th District (Livonia, Redford, Northville, Farmington and Western Oakland county) since it resulted in the creation of a unified Democratic district organization which can more effectively present the party's position on issues and give support to the congressional nominee in 1968.

While the many details of organization will be finalized soon by a by-laws committee the broad agreement worked out by the joint unity committee provides for the continuation of a Wayne section of the district to be headed by the elected chairman of the county's portion of the 19th — Jerry Ramond, who also serves as a vice-chairman of the over-all district.

The primary involvement of the new organization will be on the congressional level with emphasis being given to bringing before the voters the record of the present Republican holder of that office.

With the Republican party badly split in the 19th district, the Democrats have the responsibility of putting before the voters effective programs and able candidates who can work together at all levels to help solve the problems that are faced by our communities.

This we pledge to do.

Aldo Vagnozzi, Chairman
19th District Democratic Orgn.

RSL Says Thanks Editor:

As chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Redford Suburban League I want to thank those who worked, those who sold, and those who came to our Moonlight Serenade Dance.

We needed all of you to make the dance the great success it was.

Announcing Buick's new GS-340.

(The minipriced GS-400.)

If you read the papers, you know how great our new famous GS-400 is. (It's the one in the background.) And you also know you don't get a GS-400 for peanuts. It's a great car. But it's just a little rich for some people. So we set to work and designed the GS-340. It has a smaller engine (but the whole machine weighs less). Its interior is clean and simple and tasteful. And it has its own ornamentation, paint job (see the rally stripe and hood scoops!), and, of course, all the GM safety features. So now you have a car that costs less than the GS-400, but one with its own special brand of excitement. How can you beat that kind of a combination?

Why Not Two Tickets?

Open letter to Mrs. Robert Fox, chairman of Livonia March of Dimes:

A 'Crit' on Paper
Editor:

Haven't expressed any opinions in a long time, however, I have been keeping a close watch on conditions as they appear. I have to admit your "Observing the Scene" column is becoming more tolerant and seems to get to the heart of the problem under discussion more directly and expresses a more logical view.

As always "Just Chatter" is a real pleasure every week and this column certainly is a "Must" for the paper.

In last week's issue I was surprised by the "Mayor's Corner" column (subject — firemen). This is undoubtedly the most common sense I have ever heard His Honor expound, and I guess for the first time I have to agree with him.

In my estimation the general public is always for the underdog, but, if the working conditions, hours, salary etc. are as he says I would strongly advise the firemen to take a long close look. I believe it is possible to push the taxpayer just so far and then it is highly possible to lose his support, which in this case is a valuable and very potent weapon. Just maybe the could back off a little and still maintain this support. It is worth a lot of thought.

Tigers Outlook Bright Thanks to 2 Livonians

By GEORGE MASKIN
Sports Editor

LAKELAND, Fla. — "If our pitching is as good as we think it is, we'll be okay . . ."

The man talking was Mayo Smith, who next Tuesday leads the Tigers for the first time in a regularly-scheduled American League game.

When Smith talks about pitching, he is quick to mention two gentlemen who make their year-around home in Livonia, Mich.

One is Denny McLain, a 20-game winner for the Tigers in 1966. The other is Joe Sparma, who was pretty much of a flop a year ago as far as he himself and the Tigers were concerned.

McLain and Sparma along with Earl Wilson and Mickey Lolich comprise the Big Four of the 1967 Tiger pitching staff.

There is no reason to believe McLain will not retain the brilliance that made him one of the American League greats a year ago.

As for Sparma, he has emerged as the No. 1 surprise in the Tiger training camp this spring.

The future again has turned bright for the former Ohio State football and baseball star who smiles about what has happened to him in the Grapefruit League this spring and wonders if the good city fathers in Livonia have gotten around to paving the street on which he lives, while he's been in the southland.

Sparma's change in fortunes can be attributed a lot to his coming up with a good curve and change of pace.

"A year ago, I had to rely too much on my fast ball," he declared. "That would get me into a jam. The batters knew my trouble and would sit back and wait for me to come in there with a hard one."

"When I did . . . bingo, they really connected."

Thanks to new pitching coach Johnny Sain, Sparma has developed a curve and change of pace. His last time out, he allowed only one hit in six innings of pitching against the Phillies.

"He'll be one of my regular starters," Manager Smith declared. All of which brought more smiles to the face of the handsome Livonian.

McLain, meantime, hasn't had a great spring. But McLain isn't worried.

"Remember, I wasn't so hot down here last year either. But look what happened when the regular season began and the chips were down," the bespectacled gent who was just 23 years old the other afternoon declared.

Most of the experts are high on the Tigers for the coming season . . . and for more reasons than the pitching, which will feature the Sparmas, McLains, Wilsons and Lolichs.

The Tigers have the No. 1 outfield in the American League with Al Kaline, Willie Horton, and Jim Northrup leading the way.

The infield is very solid, except perhaps for the weak-hitting Ray Oyler at shortstop. Norm Cash is one of the best first basemen in the majors today. Dick McAuliffe has made the move from shortstop to second base in handsome fashion.

Find a better third sacker than Don Wert.

Oyler as a fielder is outstanding. It's his hitting that could pose a problem.

If Bill Freehan can regain his hitting prowess, the Tigers will have no problems.

Manager Smith told the reporter from the Observer-News:

"We can do it (win the pennant) with the material we have. It's just a matter of our pitching continuing to go the way it has . . . for our bullpen to move in and do the job we think it can do . . ."

"The hitting we're certain will take care of itself."

The Tigers open their season next Tuesday night in Anaheim, Calif., against the "Angels." They'll be home the following Tuesday (April 18) for their Tiger Stadium debut against the same Angels.

Livonia DPR Plans Golf For Youths

Golf instructions for boys and girls will be a feature of the spring schedule of recreational classes beginning the week of April 10 by the Livonia Recreation Department.

Group lessons for primarily fifth and sixth grades which will cover the basic fundamentals of golf will be initiated from 3:45-5:15 p.m. according to schedule at Cass, Tyler, Kennedy, and Hoover Elementary Schools; and, junior and senior high students will attend classes from 6:30-8:00 p.m. at McKinley and Grant Schools.

An umpire training and refresher course for adults and youths over 16 starts at the Police Building.

Bridge lessons for beginners and intermediates, folk guitar, and square dance offerings. For further information contact the Recreation Department, GA 1-2000.

Observing SPORTS

By George Maskin

LAKELAND, Fla.—Notes scribbled on a cuffless shirt in the Southland:

So, who says its nicer weatherwise in Florida than in the Detroit area? It's 70 when you leave Metro Airport and 64 and raining when you hit Lakeland.

But the grass is green here. Not only are the professionals playing baseball, but so are the high schools and the colleges.

And you're out of style if you wear a suit coat or sports jacket into the dining room for dinner.

The "easy-going" is a far cry from what you see in your journeys throughout the northland with the Pistons. Nobody seems to be in a rush down here.

What strikes you most at exhibition games involving the Tigers is the "old" crowd which makes up 80 per cent of the attendance. Retirees, both men and women, flock to watch the games.

Just as surprising are the numbers of Detroit area fans among the older folks who are enjoying themselves in this country far removed from snow and zero weather during the winter months.

When the Tigers played over in Clearwater, at least two-thirds of the audience had to be comprised of Michiganans. They all stood before the first half of the seventh inning to show their allegiances to the club they were cheering for.

The annual Tiger dinner held at one of the swankiest golf clubs here had to make one feel that he was right back home.

Flanking you at the dinner table were sports columnist Joe Falls and Pete Waldemier from the Free Press and News, respectively. George Cantor from the FP sat close by and a table or so away was Watson Spoelstra from the News.

At an adjacent table were Ernie Harwell and Ray Lane, who'll broadcast all the Tiger games this season starting with next Tuesday night's opener in Los Angeles. Bob Reynolds from WJR was there along with J. P. McCarthy, the ace disc jockey from WJR.

Throw in the official Tiger family and you found yourself in a home away from home situation . . . with some 1,500 miles separating you.

Tiger Publicist Hal Middlesworth declaring: "Who says it's a picnic down here in Floriada? You have a million things to do."

But Hal flashes a swell sun tan.

The new stadium the folks of Lakeland built for the Tigers has to be one of the finest you'll find anywhere in Florida for training purposes.

The stadium lacks lights, but the city will have those erected within a year or two.

Over in St. Petersburg, you finally see for the first time what you've heard Ernie Harwell declare in the past on the radio—how the baseball field sits alongside the bay from where ol' friend George E. Van used to sail off to Havana in the days when our country carried on peaceful relations with Cuba.

A BIG LEAGUE TIP: Livonia's Joe Sparma of the Tigers passes along some advice to Arnold Helwig (left) and Dave Woloch, Tigers camp, Woloch and Helwig face a both from Redford Township and now bidding for jobs in the Tigers minor-league system. Woloch attended Redford Union, Helwig Thurston. As raw rookies in the long climb before they can win a job in the majors.

It's Long 300 Yards For Township Pair

LAKELAND Fla.—You're name is Dave Woloch from Redford Township, Mich.

Or your name is Arnold Helwig from Redford Township.

Or you're one of 125 others in a place called Tigertown, U.S.A., located here in what is described as the "world's citrus center."

Tigertown is where the Wolochs, the Helwigs and all the others start who aspire to some day win a job with the Detroit Tigers.

For the Helwigs, the Wolochs and the others, it's a short distance—spacewise—from Tigertown to where the "big club," meaning the Tigers, operates in the spring.

It's something like 300 yards, maybe not even that much, from the diamonds which make up Tigertown to Marchant Stadium where the Tigers this week wrap up their preparations for the American League season which begins next Tuesday out in Anaheim, Calif.

But those are the toughest 300 yards any young man ever has to cover.

Three, four or five years! Stops in such places as Statesville, Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; Duluth, Minn.; back here to Lakeland a few times . . . and then to Toledo, O., before that final takeoff to Detroit and place from the Tigers.

However, those who make the hop are far and few between. Of the 125 in Tigertown today, the Tiger front office will leap with joy if four or five ultimately make it to the "big club."

If three get to the Tigers some day, general manager Jim Campbell, farm boss Don Lund and his staff, will register a flock of smiles.

"It's rough getting across from Tigertown to Marchant Stadium," Lund admitted. "The competition is tough, tougher than it ever has been. That's because there are fewer minor league baseball teams going today. We no longer can keep the fringe-type players."

"Yes, it's truly the survival of the fittest . . . in every sense of the word."

Helwig and Woloch, the two kids from Redford, stood there dreaming the other afternoon when they walked those 300 yards to pose for a picture with Joe Sparma, the Livonia home owner who has been the biggest surprise of the Tiger big camp this spring.

Like all others in Tigertown, Woloch and Helwig dress in the gray road uniforms the Tigers have worn in the past. This is one way the Tiger brass has of instilling quickly into a candidate at Tiger town that he is a part of the "Detroit" system.

Woloch has been to Tigertown before. He was here last year and didn't make the grade. But the Tigers figured they should take another look at him. So he's back and there's a good chance he'll win a job somewhere in the minor league system this year.

This is Helwig's first crack at playing for dollars. He was belted around the afternoon we saw him work. But the Tigers like what they see in him. They aren't about to give up on him quickly.

"We never rush to send a boy away," says Lund. "Many of these kids are scared. This is the first time they have been away from home. They're lonesome . . . They're nervous . . . they need encouragement."

That's why the Tigers bring a big staff of coaches, of scouts, of instructors to Tigertown.

Every time the players take the field for either a drill or a game, many pairs of expert eyes are looking at them.

"We want the judgments of all the experienced people we can assemble to determine on how good, or how bad a boy is," Lund tells you.

"There are times that one of us may miss something, even a manager. But the sharp eyes of a scout or another coach can catch something which will help to make the boy in-question a good prospect to make the trip over to where the Tigers are."

Besides, Lund admits, the toughest job he has is to tell a boy he must go . . . that there's no sense of him staying around any more. The young man's dreams have been crushed. Lund knows it. So the Tigers don't rush that fatal verdict.

The difference between Tigertown and the 300 yards over to Marchant Stadium is vast in many other categories.

Those who perform at the Stadium reside downtown at a swank motel with a swimming pool, or they can live with their wives and children in a spot of their own choosing.

At Tigertown, the candidates call home an old army barracks. It's more comfortable and roomier than what we remember in World War II days. And you only sleep three or four in a room . . . and on a real bed. But it's not like a first-class, or even a second-class hotel or motel.

The food at Tigertown, however, is hard to beat. And it costs the athlete nothing. The "big club" players each get a $8 a day in training and the players eat where they wish.

Then, of course, there's the pay check that comes when the season proper begins. Those on the big team will be making upwards of $7,000 per season. Some as high as maybe $50,000, like Al Kaline.

For the kids at Tigertown, $500 a month—and you play only four to five months—sounds like a fantastic deal.

Too, the big clubs always travel first class . . . in jet planes or down here in air-conditioned buses. When the Tigertown contingent moves, most times it's an old bus.

HAPPY STORY: That's what manager Mayo Smith of the Tigers has to tell Observer Sports Editor George Maskin in Lakeland. Smith is confident the Tigers will make a strong run for the American League pennant this season.

Socially Speaking Around Plymouth

By Dorothy Sincock

GL 3-0038

(Call to report social events in your family, neighborhood)

There will be door prizes hand-made lamp of crushed galore, and a special social hour at the spring fashion show sponsored by the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club. One of the many prizes to be given away is a pagoda ger at 453-5458 for tickets.

Tickets are now available for the upcoming "Look and Do Children's Antique Show" to be held Saturday and Sunday, April 29-30, at the Joy Road Studio, 48234 Joy Road, Plymouth.

Sponsored by the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, of the Daughters of the American Revolution, proceeds from the unique fund-raising project will be used for the organization's Michigan Indian Scholarship Fund.

Special feature attractions include two furnished doll houses, loaned by Mrs. C. R. Hill, of Plymouth, and Mrs. Kurnal Babbitt, of Northville; a Victorian big-wheel bicycle, loaned by Mrs. Sterling Eaton, of Plymouth; and a doll collection, owned by Mrs. Clara Truesdell, of Plymouth.

Tickets, priced at 50 cents for adults and 25c for children under 12, may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Norman Saunders at 453-9137. They also are available at Willoughby's Shoe Store, in Plymouth, and the Livonia Picture Framing Co. at 33684 Five Mile Rd.

Off on a canoeing trip were Senior Girl Scouts of troop 501, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The girls were guests of the Senior Scouts from Howell, and covered the chain of lakes at camp Linden.

The American Association of University Women held its seventh annual Legislative Day in Lansing on April 5.

Attending from Plymouth were Mrs. Richard Fritz, Mrs. John Haas, Mrs. Clinton Strobel, Mrs. John Barnes, Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing, and Mrs. Brian Kidston.

Guests were Senator Raymond Dzendzel and Representative James Tierney along with Lieutenant Governor William Millikin and House Speaker Robert Waldron.

The luncheon address was given by the Honorable Sander Levin, minority floor leader whose topic was "Evolution of Legislation."

Women's Club of Plymouth will meet April 7 at the Masonic Temple at 1 p.m. with Mrs. George Bauer, Chairman of the Day. Guest speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Tanger and their topic "Our Adventure in The South Pacific."

Tea Chairman is Mrs. Russell Roe. She will be assisted by Mrs. Richard Jones, Mrs. Edward Withhoff, Mrs. Marvin Sackett, Mrs. Robert Spayth, Mrs. John Quinn, Mrs. Max Nicol. Greeters are Mrs. Harold Niles and Mrs. Richard Newton.

Salvation Army Sets Dinner Date

The Salvation Army Advisory Board will hold the annual Salvation Army Board Dinner on Monday, April 17, at Lofy's, at 7 p.m. Guest speaker will be Major Raymond Carroll, the Divisional Secretary for the Salvation Army's Eastern Michigan Division.

Livonia Soldier Receives Coveted Honor Medal

Army PFC Kenneth R. Sabo, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve A. Sabo, 35540 Parkdale, Livonia, was awarded the American Spirit Honor Medal at the end of eight weeks basic combat training at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

The award is made to the trainee who best demonstrates honor, loyalty and high example to his fellow soldiers during basic training. He was graduated in 1962 from Bentley High School.

He has a wide experience as a speaker at such public functions. A delightful soloist, as well as performing duets with his wife, they have promised to sing for the entertainment of the evening.

At the annual meeting, the Salvation Army's printed report will be placed in the hands of each one attending, and a report will be given by Brigadier Ernest Hamner.

Chairman of the Board Frank Henderson will be Toastmaster.

Agriculture is the second largest source of income in Michigan's economy with a cash farm income of about $800 million per year and a retail value of the same products exceeding $2 billion.

Plan Banquet

The Plymouth Y.M.C.A. Indian Guides Federation will hold two father-son banquets on Monday, April 10 and Monday, April 24, due to the tremendous interest this year. Federation Chief Robert Petersen indicated the Iroquois and Superior Nations will have their banquet on April 10 under the direction of Chiefs Bob Evans and Bob Brandt.

The Algonquin and Plains Nations on April 24 under the supervision of Chiefs Lou Bradley and Jim Sonoga.

The programs will be held in the VFW Hall at 6:30 p.m.

Why do people with hard-to-heat rooms turn to electric heat?

It's pure and simple

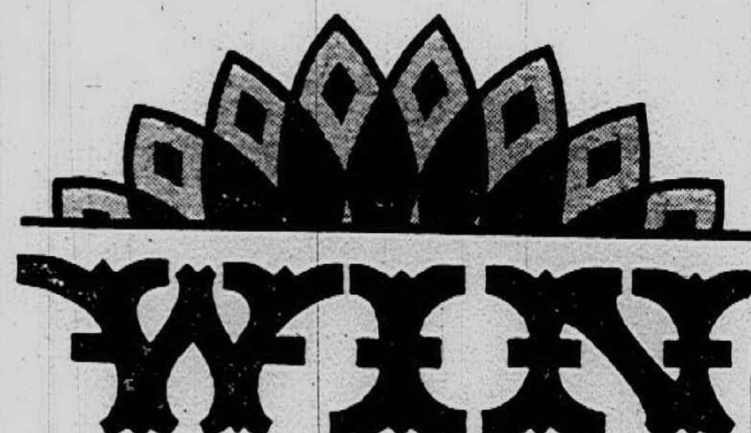

Electric heat is the clean, modern heat—no flame, no fumes. It's a snap to install—costs less, too—because it's more compact and needs no flue. And only electric heat is 100% efficient; the heat is created right where it's used. It's also economical. You can buy an attractive, low-operating-cost unit for as little as $35-$40 (plus thermostat and installation). And we're talking about a unit that can turn a 12' x 20' polar region into a tropical delight. Just dial the warmth you want, and you get it. Give us a call. We'll send an Edison Heating Specialist to discuss equipment, installation, and operating cost with you. No obligation, of course.

draws and the, "New Christian Minsterels," a folk singing group composed of the members of Thurston's Christian Club.
The gymnasium was filled to capacity with eager spectators of all ages. The lively event was concluded with junior class sponsor Eileen Livernois receiving a bouquet of red roses.
Profits from the supper and hootenanny will be used for the junior-senior prom that will take place on June 3 at Lovett Hall.

TOP DOWN weather prevailed over the weekend in the area as the temperatures hit the 70's and many teens spent Sunday afternoon touring main streets. It was the first convertible weather Plymouthites had seen since the Fall Festival.

Senator Kuhn Proposes Four Bills To Cut Crime Wave

LANSING — Voicing great concern at the rapidly rising crime rate in Michigan, Sen. George W. Kuhn (R-West Bloomfield) today introduced a package of four bills designed to strengthen the hand of law enforcement officers in their battle on crime.

"Society must be given the same, if not better, protection as the criminal is currently receiving in terms of law enforcement and justice," Sen. Kuhn said.

"It is the duty of every official at every level of government to provide means necessary to protect the public from marauding criminals. In Detroit alone, with 232 murders, or a 60 per cent increase, during the past year, we have an emergency situation that demands immediate action before it gets completely out of hand."

Sen. Kuhn noted that the rise of crime in the Detroit area in recent months is so serious that law abiding citizens are arming themselves with guns and knives for their own protection.

"We certainly cannot blame anyone for taking steps to protect himself against robbers, thugs, rapists and muggers, but this could become an intolerable and dangerous situation," he asserted.

"We must give law enforcement officers better tools with which to combat crime and see that they carry out their responsibilities. Civilians should not have to defend themselves with arms.

It is too dangerous." One of Kuhn's bills would make it unlawful to sell, give away or loan to any minor a knife with a blade more than three inches long and would prohibit persons under 17 from carrying razor blades, straight razors, knives of any description or ice picks in school or any public place.

Another bill would empower any peace officer to stop a person he "reasonably suspects" is committing, has committed or is about to commit a felony. The officer could demand his name, address and an explanation of his actions. The bill would permit the officer to "search the person for a dangerous weapon" if he "reasonably suspects that he is in danger of life or limb."

A third bill would strengthen the authority of officers to combat riots or potential riots and the fourth bill would require children to remain in school until they are 17, instead of 16 as at present or until they have graduated from high school.

"I feel that the matter of keeping children in school until they are 17 and giving them good vocational training is also important as a crime deterrent," said Sen. Kuhn.

"This would make many of them more productive to society and would help keep them out of cars and off streets where they tend to get into trouble with the law."

Farmington Scout Chairman Named

At this time of the year we usually announce the election of new Neighborhood Chairmen in the Farmington-Novi District. However, because of the new structure change that will be going into effect in March, 1968, the District Chairman, Mrs. Leona Stidwell, has asked that the presiding Chairmen remain in office until that time. They have all consented to do this and so were duly voted back into office this month.

So the Neighborhood Chairmen remain the same: Mrs. Edna Miller, Novi Neighborhood, Mrs. Eileen Schaeffer, Farmington City, Mrs. Bea Scaglione, North Farmington and Mrs. Judy Zahler, Southeast Farmington.

Troop 430, Beechview School Juniors, Mrs. Jean Iles and Mrs. Alice Francis co-leaders, made arrangements for the trip to Lansing on March 28. They visited the Capitol Building and Governor Romney.

Junior Troop 421, William Grace School, Mrs. Cathy Reske and Mrs. Elaine Salatine co-leaders, celebrated Girl Scout Sunday by attending services at St. Alexander Church in Farmington. At the recent Girl Scout birthday celebration these girls dramatized the Scout law "A Girl Scouts duty is to be useful and help others," and did it in a very entertaining way.

Around the Holidays the girls of Cadette 921 took charge of a drive to collect clothing for the Indians at Walpole Island. Many of the troops in the Southeast Farmington Neighborhood were involved in this with them.

Just recently the girls received belated thanks from the Rev. Keith Stokes of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church on Walpole Island. In thanking them he mentioned that these people were very grateful for the clothing for the adults as well as for the children.

May I again remind the leaders that their help is urgently needed to staff our day camp at Arapaho and Chippawa. We really would like to expand our day camp to two sessions at Arapaho but unless we get the help needed we will be unable to do so. Give the matter some

REPORTS FOR TRAINING

Ft. Knox, Ky.—Army Private Larry L. Ripaldi has been assigned, here in the United States Army Training Center, Armor (USATCA), to Company E, 17th Battalion, of the 5th Basic Combat Training Brigade, for his initial eight weeks of military training.

Following the completion of his basic training, Pvt. Ripaldi who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Pipaldi, of 20732 St. Francis, Farmington, will receive at least an additional eight weeks of either advanced instruction or on-the-job training to qualify him in a specialized military skill.

thought and then contact your Neighborhood chairman. Your help will really be appreciated by all our Girl Scouts.

The date for the Annual Council Meeting of the Southern Oakland Girl Scouts is Thursday, May 25, and it will be held at the new Holiday Inn on Telegraph Road. All Girl Scout leaders are invited to attend and registration forms will be in the Chat.

Plans for their Washington Trip are really snowballing for the girls of Cadette 1005, which meets at Farmington Junior High, Mrs. Martha Clifford and Mrs. Pat Osborne co-leaders. They will be going by chartered bus and will be gone for five days beginning June 26. They will be chaperoned by five adults: their own leaders and two other Girl Scout leaders known to many of us, Mrs. Jean Iles and Mrs. May Skellenger, and the mother of one of the Girl Scouts.

While in Washington they will visit the White House, the Treasury Department, Departments of State and Agriculture, the Smithsonian Institute, Arlington National Cemetery, Alexandria and Mt. Vernon to name but a few. Lets hope their Girl Scout hiking has prepared them for all the walking they will be doing.

Queen of Hearts

Chicken Livers Hit Spot

By FAITH GILLESPIE OUR QUEEN OF HEARTS

Who can stay indoors and scrub these beautiful days? Who can stay in the house when we've waited so long for release?

We know the ground is still too wet to work, and it is surely too early to plant petunias. Yet the bird song in the morning says, "Come out, come out," and the appeal of the breakfast dishes simply does not compare.

One of the world's pleasures has come: to stand with your back to the April sun, warming winter-numbed bones and soul, watching the hyacinths grow.

Who can make beds when there is a fat robin to watch as he pokes around to find materials for nest construction? Who can resist going out to see the forsythia preparing its brown branches to glow golden?

It's nice to feel the April air promising everything. Perhaps the nicest thing of all, you can see your neighbors again.

One of the reasons, I think, why winter grows so dreary, is that we find ourselves shut up away from the rest of the world, isolated day after day.

The danger for women in winter is that we can begin to think that our way of looking at things is the universal way, that everyone is thinking what we are thinking. We sit snowbound, worrying about the war and the weather, and we can come to feel that we don't need other people very much, because they're out of sight.

Then suddenly, there is our neighbor come out of her house, and when she smiles and says hello, we think how good it is to see her again. We realize all at once that we have missed her, and missed the other neighbors all the long frozen winter.

Then we know that the right thing to do is let the sock-sorting wait, put the ironing board away, and renew friendships.

Why not invite two or three to lunch?

It isn't such a chore to go to the supermarket, now that the snow is off the streets. Buy a bottle of sherry and a pound of chicken livers, and a bunch of daffodils if you can.

Put the children down for their naps, and make chicken livers in wine for your friends.

CHICKEN LIVERS IN WINE

For four servings, brown one pound of chicken livers in 1/4 cup butter. Do it quickly, in quite a hot frying pan, adding a small minced onion to cook with the livers.

When the livers are brown on both sides, add some minced parsley, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, and 1/4 cup sherry wine.

Cover and simmer eight or 10 minutes, till chicken livers are cooked through. Serve on crisp toast points, pouring the juices over. If your budget can stand it, 1/4 pound of fresh mushrooms may be sauteed with the livers, or you may use a can of mushroom caps.

You may serve asparagus with the chicken livers, or a fruit salad, with sherbet, maybe, for dessert. You want the meal to be easy as can be, the better to enjoy your friends.

... And to give, you more time to stand with your back to the April sun, watching the hyacinths grow.

CRANBERRY STUFFING

Mix together and cook 10 minutes:

- 4 to 5 cups dry cubed bread
2 tablespoons grated onion
4 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 teaspoon each of marjoram, mace, and thyme teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups cranberries, coarsely ground
Add 1/2 cup dry white wine.

Cool. Stuff bird. This amount will stuff a 6-to-8-pound turkey.

Airman Promoted

Daniel W. Beach son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe R. Beach, 28816 Rush, Garden City, has been promoted to airman 2/C in the U.S. Air Force. He is a 1965 graduate of Garden City High School.

ROBERT N. WALTER teacher at Franklin High demonstrates facts about quicksand.

Fellow-Teachers Share Visual Teaching Devices

Three devices which a Franklin High School science teacher devised to solve some classroom teaching problems were on display to thousands of science teachers at the National Science Teachers Convention at Detroit's Cobo Hall. Twenty-five other science teachers from throughout the United States also shared their teaching devices with fellow-teachers.

Robert N. Walter, Franklin High School Earth Science teacher, demonstrated his quicksand device, plus two models which he uses as aids in teaching topographic map reading.

Walter who is in his fourth year at Franklin, explained: "The quicksand device is probably the most dramatic of the demonstration devices

Like the others, it is relatively simple, but it gets the point across."

"Quicksand exists where sand can be lubricated by water from the bottom up," he said. "In nature, this would mean that if there were an intermittent stream which forced water up through the ground, the water would separate the sand and other soil grains and keep them lubricated. They would slip against one another, and anything put on top of them — or walking on top — would slide into the soil."

"Here the soil grains are being kept apart by the water. This is not the case with seemingly similar cases, such as water flowing down into the soil, which everyone is familiar with. The water usually flows down into the ground and the grains come back together to form a firm support."

"If the underground source of water were discontinued, as in the base of the drying-up of the intermittent stream, then the ground would no longer be 'quick.' This explains why some land can be 'quick' at one time of the year and not at another."

The device is simple: A bucket of sand through which water is forced from the bottom to the top. A heavy object sinks into the sand when the water is forced up through the sand. "This is a sure-fire classroom hit," Walter said.

Pupils Enter State Meet

Six Livonia Public School teams have been invited to compete in statewide competitions for industrial students to be held April 6 through 8 at Cobo Hall.

Two-man teams from Franklin High School took a first place in radio servicing and the third slot in electricity-electronics. Performing the radio servicing were Scott Jones and Doug Sutherland, while William Parsons and Mike Schwinsky took the honors in the electric field.

Bentley High School had four successful teams. Second-place honors were won in automotive servicing by Howard Comstock and Paul Smith; electricity-electronics by Marvin Steiner and Gary Niles; and power mechanics by Thomas Renner and William Ryan.

Russell Bunting and Marvin Wells wound up with a third place in radio servicing.

St. Clair Carpet Celebrates

"Manny" Gorman of St. Clair Carpet Company is accepting anniversary congratulations this week from his many friends and customers. He has been in Livonia since 1957 and has kept pace with growing Livonia.

His location on Joy Road has proven to be good for attracting business from other communities as well as building up a trade in his home community.

As a member of the Board of Directors of the Detroit Metropolitan Floor Covering Association he is able to keep abreast of all of the new discoveries and innovations of his business — which is economy without forsaking quality.

"Manny" is particularly pleased with the new Fortrel carpeting. He says it has the softness of wool and the durability of nylon and comes in lovely clear shades.

The most livable color, and one decorators enjoy working with because it blends so many ways, is gold or avocado.

Take time this week to stop in and wish "Manny" well — and while you are there take a look at what is absolutely the latest in rugs and carpeting for Spring, 1967.

Initial Driver Permits Will Be Probationary

LANSING — Starting January 1, all initial driver licenses issued in Michigan will be probationary in nature. Secretary of State James M. Hare said that in compliance with a new law passed by the Legislature, his Department is gearing up for issuance of the probationary licenses to all new driver licensees. "We have already ordered new forms in all examining stations as soon as they become available," Hare said. These will be issued to all persons obtaining original Michigan's driver licenses and will be designated and clearly marked as probationary for one year from the date of issuance. This does not include persons who were licensed drivers in other states, Hare noted.

"Licenses of probationary drivers will be suspended if the person is convicted of one moving violation in Michigan during the one-year probationary period or upon failure to appear before a magistrate to answer traffic summons.

"Suspension period would be determined at the re-examination of the driver, but according to law, cannot be for less than one month or more than 12 months," Hare stated.

He also advocated a state-wide network of "refresher driver training schools aimed at the 18-20-year-old group which has the highest involvement in accidents and violations against the Michigan's driver point system.

"Training these persons would have to be carefully accomplished to include both group and individual counselors to help these young drivers understand themselves in relation to their driving problems. Often these are family, drinking, and psychological problems.

"There should be more emphasis on the relationship of drinking and driving and the referral program for problem drinkers and under-21 alcoholics," Hare said.

He added that some counties already had the mechanics for such refresher schools through county driver safety schools. "There are 13 in operation which helped some 6,000 drivers last year, most of these through courts and driver improvement operations of the Michigan Department of State."

He pointed to the need for such schools in all sections of the state, designed to help the younger driver.

State Consultant Talks To Livonia Health Guild

Marion Raidl, Michigan Department of Public Health nutrition consultant, will be guest speaker at the Livonia Health Guild luncheon and annual meeting on April 13, at 12:30 p.m., in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 15218 Farmington Rd.

The meetings are open to anyone interested in better family and community health. Reservations must be made by noon of April 10 by calling Mrs. James Lynch at GA 1-7685. Luncheons are $1.50.

DISPLAYING the new Custodian Traveling Trophy is Joseph Huber (left) captain of the East High School, Garden City, basketball team, which won the trophy by beating West High School, its cross-town rival. Presenting the trophy, which will remain at East High for the rest of the year, is Everett Ferrier, head custodian at East.

Alpha Xi Delta To Celebrate Founder's Day

To celebrate Founder's Day, the Alpha Xi Delta Western Wayne County Alumnae Chapter will meet on Tuesday, April 11, at 6:30 p.m. in the Round Table Club in Plymouth.

All alumnae living in the Livonia, Dearborn and Plymouth areas are invited to the dinner. Reservations must be made by April 9 with Mrs. John Hopkins, GL 3-5558.

Alpha Xi Delta will observe State Day on Saturday, April 22, in Flint. The traditional Rose Luncheon is its highlight. Mrs. Hopkins, Western Wayne County alumnae president, will head a group of members planning to attend the event.

Southfield Minister To Preach in Trinidad

Pastor Raymond Bayne, of the Southfield Community Church, 21122 Indian (between Beech and Inkster, north of Eight Mile) leaves April 10 for a 10 day Bible teaching mission in Trinidad. He will be working with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gould, and will be speaking some 13 times to Chinese young people.

Pastor Bayne is chairman of the Chinese Gospel Fellowship, which sponsors the Chinese Bible Church of Detroit and the ministry of the Goulds in Trinidad. Ronald Furst, Missionary Intern at the church will preach on Sunday morning, April 16 in the Pastor's absence. In the evening, a film on Archeology and the Bible by Dr. Free of Wheaton College will be shown.

Wayne State University's 1966 crew won seven races, the winningest season in the sport at the school.

Mercy College Gets $38,000 Student Grant

A $38,500 allocation has been received by Mercy College of Detroit from the federal government for educational opportunity grants. They will be effective for the 1967-68 academic year. Under this federal program of financial aid, assistance ranging from $200 to $800 may be made to eligible students in accordance with the provisions of the award. In addition to the basic award, an additional grant of $200 may be made to students in the upper third grade level of their class. Each opportunity grant will be matched by financial assistance from other sources. Students in all classes are eligible to participate in financial benefits from the grant.

Lenore Romney Heads Program For Family Service Banquet

"Meet Mrs. Romney" will be the theme of the 17th annual banquet meeting of Family Service of Oakland County at 6:30 pm. Wednesday, April 12, in Devon Gables, Telegraph and Long Lake Road in Oakland County.

As the theme implies, the principal speaker will be Mrs. Lenore Romney, Michigan's First Lady, who will discuss "Goals for Family Living." Mrs. Romney, often referred to as a "lady with a cause," is particularly well qualified to discuss family service oriented problems and solutions.

For example, Mrs. Romney recently pointed out that "opportunities in Michigan (for healthy family living) are tremendous, but how we treat one another will determine the quality of life here."

An active participant in state-wide programs designed to strengthen family life and promote human understanding, Mrs. Romney will be introduced by Paul N. Averill, publisher of the Birmingham Eccentric and a member of the board of directors of Family Service of Oakland County.

Dr. John M. Dorsey, Jr., president of the board of directors will preside over the business portion of the meeting, during which new officers and board members will be elected.

All Oakland County citizens interested are invited to attend the banquet meeting for which reservations are necessary. Tickets are $5, and may be obtained by calling Family Service of Oakland County in Berkeley at 548-8411, or in Pontiac at 338-4583.

Fellowship of Mt. Hope Will Meet April 6

The Women's Fellowship of Mount Hope Congregational Church will meet Thursday, April 6, in the Chapel, 30330 Schoolcraft Road. Luncheon will be served at noon by the Rebekah Circle.

Mrs. Carl Ufferman, president of the Women's Fellowship, will preside, and devotions will be given by Mrs. George Mose.

The program, during luncheon, will be "Everybody's Birthday Party." Following the business meeting, there will be annual reports from circles and committees, election and installation of officers.

Information about the group may be obtained from the church office 425-7280 or Mrs. Ufferman, 261-1931.

PICTURED in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., are Mr. and Mrs. Ken A. Dec, 36429 Sunnydale, Livonia, on a recent vacation. Mr. Dec is an assistant engineer for IBM and this makes the couple's second trip there. The first was four years ago for their honeymoon.

Linda Schafer Wed To James Masterson

Linda Anne Schafer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schafer, of Livonia, became the bride of James Andrew Masterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Masterson, of Redford Township, in a double ring, candlelight service in the Redford Calvary Methodist Church.

The couple will take up housekeeping in their temporary home in North Carolina where the groom is stationed.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. John Barkley against a background of Easter lilies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length bouffant gown of chantilly lace with a tiered skirt and long sleeves. A pearl tiara held her shoulder length veil. The bridal bouquet was made of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Jerri Bentley was the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Lawrence Schafer, sister-in-law of the bride; and Debra Schafer, a sister. They wore sheath gowns with white lace over the bodice. They carried cascading bouquets of baby carnations.

Dale Bentley was the best man and the ushers were Michael Masterson, brother of the groom, and Charles Matson.

The bride's mother wore a dress of silver and white with pink accessories. Mrs. Masterson's ensemble was turquoise blue with matching accessories.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the American Legion Home on N. Sheldon in Plymouth.

Mrs. James Masterson

Church Women To Meet in Newburg Church

The United Church Women will hold a general meeting in the Newburg Methodist Church in Livonia on Friday, April 7 with Mrs. Mark Martin, of Birmingham, as the principal speaker.

Mrs. Martin, State Chairman of Christian Social Relations of the United Church Women will discuss "Strengthening the Family."

Dessert and coffee will be served at 12:30 p.m. All ladies from the Newburg Church are invited to attend.

Wayne BPW Is Told Of Complex 39

Victor Leabu, chief structural engineer of Giffels and Rossetti Inc., Architects-Engineers, discussed Lunar Launch Complex 39 before members of the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Club in the March meeting. Leabu lectured, presenting slides as he told of the Complex 39, located at the Kennedy Space Center on Merritt Island in Florida. The mammoth installation is sometimes referred to as "Spaceport U.S.A." Leabu has written many technical articles for national engineering publications on Launch Complex and other engineering subjects such as composite design with lightweight concrete and precast all panels.

Arts Council Hears Observer Publisher

Philip Power, publisher of the Observer Newspapers, was guest speaker at the Greater Livonia Council of Arts general meeting. He gave a stimulating talk to the newly organized group and made suggestions as to ways in which newspapers may further serve in presenting the arts to the public.

The Council is composed of 13 active member organizations. They are: Livonia Artist Club, Livonia Board of Education, Livonia Entertainment Guild, Madonna College, Metropolitan Creative Art Guild, Miss Jean's Dance Arts, Livonia Public Library, Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church, Theatr Guild of Livonia-Redford, Schoolcraft College. Three Cities Art Club, Town Hall and Livonia Youth Symphony Society. These organizations are working to bring top-quality entertainment, lectures, exhibits and other programs into the Livonia area. They are also bringing into focus and developing a wealth of local talent in the field of vocal and instrumental music.

Livonian C. Young Weds Virginian

Miss Diane Carol Lowery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lowrey, Round Hill, Virginia, became the bride of Cyrus William Young, son of Mrs. Herma Young, 12170 Arcola, Livonia and the late Calvin Young in colorful ceremonies in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Purcellville, Va. The ceremonies, on March 25, were in charge of Rev. David Voss with Walter Nash as organist and Mrs. Dorothy Berby as soloist. The bride, dressed in candlelight peau se soie trimmed with chantilly and with a full length lace mantilla carried a nosegay of rosebuds and carnations, was accompanied and given in marriage by her father.

peacock blue peau de soie. Judy Gray and Mrs. Mary Ann McGlohon, sister of the bride, were the bridesmaids. Thomas Hottenga, of Detroit, was the best man. The ushers were Denis White, Detroit, and Robert Lowery, brother of the bride from Round Hill, Va. The wedding reception, following the ceremonies, was held in Laurel Brigade Inn in Leesburg, Va. The bride wore a yellow dress and coat and matching accessories and a corsage from the bridal bouquet as her going away costume. The Youngs will make their future home in East Lansing, Mich.

The bride was graduated from Loudon County High in 1963 and from Michigan State University in 1967. The groom is a 1965 graduate of Wayne State University and a candidate for a doctorate at Michigan State University.

Farmington Delta Gamma Group Meets Monday

The Farmington Alumnae Association of Delta Gamma will meet at the home of Mrs. Richard Boysen, 16412 Ronnie Lane in Livonia on Monday, April 10 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Robert Jones, of Livonia, will be the co-hostess. The program will be a panel discussion with three American Field Service students from three countries participating.

Women on the GO!

It's happened more than once in Livonia.

A young mother, a graduate of Bentley High School, takes her kindergartener to the corner for his first ride on the school bus.

The figure behind the wheel is familiar, and she knows she's seen that driver's face before.

"Why," she gasps in sudden recognition, "you're Mrs. Searles. You were my bus driver when I went to high school!"

The reason it's happened more than once is that Mrs. Phyllis Searles has been driving Livonia children to school for more than 17 years.

She has had the longest service of any non-certified employe of the city school system, and a surprise party at the transportation offices made note of that fact this month.

Her fellow workers' thoughtfulness in throwing the party explains one of the reasons Mrs. Searles thinks she has a pretty fine job.

She feels she has good people to work with—and she means everyone from school administrators, Bill Bedell, Ron Upton and Mac Vickers, to the other women who drive buses, to the mothers and children on the routes she works.

Mrs. Searles this year drives youngsters from Whittier Junior High and Cooper elementary—with top seniority she picked that route because it's near the home she shares with a daughter and two pet poodles. She admits the going got a bit tough in this snowy winter.

"Several times I had to dig cars out of the snow so I could keep the bus going," she recalled. "And I hope the parents understood that the school bus is bound to be late on bad days."

There have to be funny incidents in the life of a school bus driver.

Like the time the small boy asked Mrs. Searles how old she was.

"Thirty-plus," she hedged. That didn't quite satisfy the next child in line. He wanted to know, "Plus what? Tax?"

Mrs. Searles took another kindergartener class on a farm field trip, and found it was up to her to open a barn door while she had several small charges in tow.

"Just inside was the biggest bull I've ever seen," she remembers. He was penned, but still pretty terrifying, and neither she nor the children tarried long at that barn.

Probably Mrs. Searles' most embarrassing moment as a driver came recently when she led a caravan of 15 buses taking high school students to a musical event.

"The kids were singing, and I got so interested listening to them that I missed the place where I was supposed to turn. And then trying to get back I made another wrong turn."

"Of course all 14 other buses followed, and the rest of those drivers won't let me forget it for a while. But the principal was wonderful. He said everyone's entitled to one boo-boo."

In Mrs. Searles' 17 years on the job, there haven't been many.

BARBARA ROSENBERGER

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Rosenberger, of Harding Street, Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Tennis J. Dorey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Tennis J. Dorey Sr. of Hubbard Avenue, Lincoln Park. The bride-elect is a graduate of Plymouth High School and is a student at Eastern Michigan University. Her fiance graduated from Lincoln Park High and attended EMU. A September wedding is planned.

Newlyweds Run Under Sabre Arch

Second Lt. Jonathan C. Henkel and his bride, the former Janice Nagy, ran under an arch of sabres after their marriage March 3 in Faith Lutheran Church in Flat Rock.

The R.O.T.C. honor guard from Eastern Michigan University, where both bride and bridegroom were students, presented the arms.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John C. Nagy, of Plymouth, and the late Mr. Nagy. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henkel, of Flat Rock.

The Rev. Harold Hammer officiated at the double-ring, candlelight ceremony, and a reception was held in the church basement.

The newlyweds will make their home at Fort Benning, Ga., where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Army.

Even Veteran Cooks Can Overcook Chicken

URBANA—Even a novice cook can get gourmet results when preparing today's tender young broiler-fryers if she remembers one important fact—chicken can easily be overcooked.

Chicken breasts often become dry and chewy because they cook quicker than the thicker parts, such as the legs.

When cooking cut-up chicken, give the legs a 10-minute head start before adding the breast, suggests Geraldine Acker, University of Illinois foods specialist.

She offers these additional suggestions:

If the chicken is to be fried, broiled or oven-browned, be sure to pat it dry after rinsing in cold water because a wet surface will not brown properly.

Broiler-fryer parts or cut-up chickens usually take an hour to cook in a moderate oven; pan-fried, deep fried or broiled parts cook in 30 to 45 minutes depending on the size of the parts.

Frozen chicken parts can be cooked without thawing. Treat them as you would fresh chicken, but extend the cooking time about 15 minutes.

Chicken is done when it is "fork tender", or when the meat on the thickest part of the drumstick is soft to the touch.

Miss Acker adds that proper care and storage of cooked chicken is just as important to the health of your family as the care of the uncooked chicken. Cool cooked poultry quickly and store it, loosely wrapped, in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Remove stuffing from cooked poultry and refrigerate it separately in a covered container. Broth or gravy should be refrigerated promptly and reheated to boiling before serving.

Use cooked poultry, stuffing, broth or gravy within one or two days. Flavor deteriorates if poultry is held under poor storage conditions or for too long a time.

British Royal Gardener To Speak in Farmington

Gordon Blinco, fifth generation Royal Gardener from the British Isles, will speak at the Farmington Savings and Loan Bldg., to several area garden clubs at 1 p.m. Monday, April 17.

Blinco is currently touring the country in his capacity of garden consultant for Bissell, Inc., of Grand Rapids.

His talk in Farmington, sponsored by the Botsford Garden Club, will be the first of several appearances in the Detroit area. He also is to make television and radio appearances.

The Botsford club has invited members of three Farmington garden groups and two in the Rosedale Park neighborhood to attend the talk. More than 200 women are expected to hear Blinco.

The speaker has worked in several of Britain's royal gardens, including one in which he converted a 30-acre woodland into a rhododendron garden.

The talk will be illustrated with slides of British gardens, and tea will be served afterwards.

Scientists Use Psalms as Lesson Text

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies."

This verse from Psalms is the Golden Text of this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon entitled "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"

Women to Salute UCS on 50th Year

Celebration of the 50th year of United Community Service of Metropolitan Detroit (UCS) will be "kicked off" by its Women's Committee at a special luncheon on Thursday, April 6, 12 noon, at Masonic Temple.

The luncheon is the first of a series of anniversary events planned by community leaders to draw public attention to the role of UCS as the instrument, historically and presently, for metropolitan-area citizens to participate in the planning of health and social services.

Featured in the special anniversary program will be Jerome C. Cavanagh and Dr. Dwight L. Dumond, Professor Emeritus of History at University of Michigan.

Dr. Dumond, scheduled as principal speaker is well-known nationally as a scholar, author and lecturer. He is regarded as the world's leading authority on the anti-slavery movement in the United States.

More than 600 lay and professional leaders are expected to attend the USC Women's Committee program.

Program chairman is Mrs. Fran Harris, Special Features Coordinator, The WWJ Stations.

GORDON BLINCO, a royal gardener from England, and Mrs. Blinco work with experimental garden tools made by Bissell, Inc., of Grand Rapids. Blinco will speak in Farmington April 17 during a nationwide lecture tour sponsored by the Michigan firm.

Marriage Vows Taken In Plymouth

Susan Kay Cooper and Brian Howe were united in marriage March 18 in a double-ring ceremony at the First Methodist Church of Plymouth.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cooper, of W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Howe, of Mason, are the bridegroom's parents.

Officiating at the rites was the Rev. Herbert Brubaker. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Deborah Howe, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and David Thurmon was best man.

Following the ceremony, there was luncheon for the bridal party and guests at the Round Table Club, Plymouth.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains before returning to their studies at Michigan State University. The bride is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and her husband's fraternity is Lambda Chi Alpha.

Southfield Church Adds Two Classes

Two new adult classes are being formed at the Bible School of the Southfield Community Church, 21122 Indian Street (between Beech and Inkster, North of Eight Mile), according to Pastor Raymond Bayne. The classes will meet at 9:45 on Sunday.

A class is being organized for young, married couples in the early 20's. This group will be taught by Robert Treat, who will begin with a course on "Building a Christian Home." Marriage and home problems will be discussed.

Another class on "Personal Peace and a Happy Home" will be taught by Pastor Bayne. Personality and emotional problems will be dealt with. Spiritual and emotional health will be the goal.

Red Cross Training Course in Nursing is Offered

Nursing Services of the Southeastern Michigan Chapter, American Red Cross, is offering an Instructor Training course for registered professional nurses, active or retired, and high school teachers. There is an urgent need for teachers in the regular and new courses in Home Nursing and Mother and Baby Care.

The courses will be held on four Saturdays, April 8 through 29 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, with coffee breaks, morning and afternoon and lunch hour, at the Chapter House, 153 E. Elizabeth St., Detroit.

This free course will include use of the standard instructors guide for teaching the six Home Nursing Lessons; how and when to use the Home Nursing Film Course, or the Programmed Instruction course for teaching.

Volunteer nurses are also needed to assist with the training of High School youth volunteers for the summer programs.

For further information and registration for service, please call Nursing Services, 961-3900, Ext. 274.

Judith Lutz Becomes Bride of Joseph Fresard

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Lutz, of Merriman Road, Livonia, announce the marriage of their daughter, Judith Ann, to Joseph L. Fresard of Grosse Pointe Woods, on Saturday, March 25, in Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church with Dr. Richard C. Dunkelberger officiating.

Judy was graduated from Franklin High School and attended Western Michigan University. Joseph was graduated from Notre Dame High School and attended Macomb Community College. The young couple will be at home on Winston Ave. in Detroit after April 1.

Human Relations Group to Hear Senator Brown

State Senator Basil W. Brown, of Highland Park, will speak at the Livonia Citizens for Better Human Relations meeting Sunday, April 9 at 8:30 p.m. in St. Matthews Methodist — EUB Church, 30900 Six Mile Rd.

He will discuss the controversial open housing bills which will go before the Senate this year.

Senator Brown has readied and introduced the comprehensive bundle of civil rights bills which aim to eliminate discrimination in housing transactions involving home owners as well as real estate brokers, and to outlaw "block busting" in fact as well as in advertising.

Standards of integration in urban renewal and highway development would be established and municipalities could enact their own civil rights ordinances if these suggested bills are passed.

Chamber Honors Pair Conference

Joe's remarks, which were spoken with a seriousness seldom noticed in his remarks before, took much of the play away from the remainder of the program and even overshadowed, to some extent, the tributes paid to Russell Isbister, retiring Superintendent of schools, and Kenneth Fisher, who had served as chief of police in Plymouth for years.

The two outstanding officials were given plaques as tokens of appreciation for the hard work they have done through the years.

Along with these presentations, Carl Pursell, President of the Chamber also outlined the program for the coming year and dwelt at length on the leadership conference being sponsored by the Chamber at Schoolcraft College on Saturday, April 8.

difficult time getting for themselves.

"For instance," he explained, "we are working on a uniform building code that would bring a savings of about five per cent to both the builder and the homeowner."

He also explained the workings of a training program in which officials are being trained for administrative posts in all of the political sub-divisions.

"There always is a need for good administrators," he said, "and we are hopeful of being in a position of providing them, along with well trained police officers."

This explanation of the Council of Government was well received and it helped to make the Chamber dinner one of the best in years.

"Learning Center" Included In High School Plans

(This is the third of a series devoted to plans for the new high school. The series is being written by members of the study group that is making recommendations for Senior High No. 2.)

The word "Library" has a familiar ring to most of us. It usually means a place where printed materials are kept for pleasure reading, or for digging out answers to questions, or for providing information in connection with studies.

It is not, however, a really accurate description any longer, of today's good libraries. A better name, more clearly defining its aims, would be to call it a "Learning Center."

To start with, man's knowledge of himself and his world doubled in the period from 1900 to 1950. It doubled again in the decade from 1950 to 1960. By the time you read this, it will have doubled once more.

Man's answer to the need for obtaining and spreading this increased and constantly changing fund of information has been the development of new tools which help us learn more quickly and more effectively.

These devices themselves are constantly improved, changed, and created, to meet new needs. We would be short-sighted indeed, and would fail to serve our schools properly, if we did not take advantage of what these tools of learning offer us.

Our students will be at a serious disadvantage if we cling to the old idea of what school libraries have been in the past. Reading alone, important as it still is and will remain, is not the only way to learn any more. Our ideas of what education may become, and what libraries must become, are due for some considerable change.

We must now think in terms of providing all means of transferring information to all our students—not merely the readers. This means that a library's collection should include audio-visual tools, such as recordings, tapes, films, filmstrips, microfilm (to save space) slides, and numerous others, as well as the equipment with which to use them, and proper space for storing and using all of these resources.

All our students do not learn at the same rate. What may be a poor resource for one youngster may turn out to be a valuable one for another. In fairness to each one's needs and abilities, the methods of teaching and the means of learning—in both the classroom and the Learning Center—should allow for these differences.

The Learning Center, built to offer all these tools of learning, with different kinds of study spaces, with staff trained to help each user get the most out of the Center's collection, can be the heart of the whole school program.

The staff of a Learning Center is made up of people especially trained in the fields of book material and non-book resources. They know the best use that can be made of these resources, and they can teach the best use to all who come to the Learning Center.

Staff members will work closely and to a greater extent than now, with the teachers—to plan better programs of learning for the students, especially to meet individual needs and differences.

To sum up, the Learning Center will be the core of the school's teaching program, reaching out to serve every phase of study and learning for student and staff alike. It will include in its resources, a full store of information in a great variety of printed and other forms.

It will acquire these resources, organize and prepare them for use, make them available for students and staff. It will teach the best ways of using these resources. It will have different kinds of study spaces—for the individual, for a small or for large groups.

It will encourage independent study, pleasure reading, use of different study tools, and hopefully, lay the foundations for life-long habits of learning and reading for many of its users. It will have a staff trained and dedicated to helping every student do the best job he can, to get the most from his school years.

was official pianist for the Utah Symphony Orchestra, during which he appeared as soloist more than 30 times, playing more than 20 concertos. He has also appeared in concert with such distinguished artists as the Roth and Paganini Quartets, Maria Kurenko, Herva Nelli, Martial Singher, Tossy Spivakovsky and others.

The complete program:—Divertimento for Orchestra by Robert Ward, solo by Dr. Nibley; Adagio for Strings by Samuel Barber and variations on a Hungarian folk song "The Peacock", by Rodolphe.

Immediately following the concert, the Symphony Society will sponsor an "Afterglow" in the Mayflower Meeting House. Reservations must be made by Thursday with Mrs. Roger Zerby, 453-1077; Mrs. Robert Petersen, 453-6434; or Mrs. Arthur Larson, 453-1073. The committee requests that reservations be made in groups of six or eight.

ted to take care of workers at a nearby United States Army Arsenal.

The director from that time to February of this year was Carl Feederle, who developed the Warren Metropolitan Housing Authority into one of the finest in Ohio.

Under Feederle, the Authority built and developed projects for senior citizens, slum eliminations and handled urban renewal developments.

However, Feederle, who has had McLaren as his No. 1 aide for years, recently took charge of a senior citizen project similar to that proposed for Plymouth. It is larger, going into five stories with more than 300 units, but the matter of finances is much the same as that proposed here.

And that's what the senior citizens want to know—how much will it cost? What is the ceiling on net worth? and What is the maximum annual income? They also would like to know whether the project is limited to the City, the Community or to this end of Wayne County.

McLaren, who succeeded Feederle in February, will tell of the operations in Warren and try to fit them into the Plymouth picture.

More than 75 are expected to attend the luncheon at noon in the Mayflower Meeting House and then 200 of the area Senior Citizens will sit in with the group after 12:30 p.m.

The program looms as one of the most important staged by the Forum this year and certainly one in which every senior citizen in the community will be interested.

Double-Pot Plants To Encourage Growth

For steady, stable plant growth, try "double-potting" in your indoor gardens and window boxes.

This means placing your clay-potted plant into outer container at least one or two inches larger in diameter.

The area around and above the clay pot is filled with moist planting mixture—peat moss or sphagnum.

The soil of the plant in its clay pot should be well-watered again. Instead, apply water only to the material surrounding the outside of the pot, whenever moisture is needed.

This method can only be used with plants in clay pots, since their porous walls allow necessary moisture to enter and feed plant roots. Non-porous, substitute containers allow no such interaction.

"Double-potting" provides an automatic watering system for excellent plant growth and insures against excessive moisture harmful to plant health.

For when a plant is over-watered, the water fills the air spaces in the soil, and chokes off oxygen which roots must have to "breathe." Overwatering slows down root activity resulting in plant fatalities.

Plants may need additional water fairly often during their first few weeks. However, after they have adjusted to their new environment, water can be applied less frequently, without permitting plants to wilt severely.

Double-potting is practical, too, when plants are to be set in an indoor planter box or plant well, or in decorative outer containers of brass or copper.

Since peat moss or sphagnum are not as heavy as soil, it cuts down on the weight of the planter. And, when the plant remains intact in its clay pot, it can be easily changed to suit the seasons.

Outdoors, it's a good way to insure a steady moisture supply for potted plants used around the patio and garden, planted in window boxes or hanging baskets.

Developer Insured By 100 Years Of Experience in Realty Office

"The Detroit Insuring Office through its branch in Flint today issued the first commitment for insurance of a land development mortgage," announced James F. Finn, local director of the Federal Housing Administration. The commitment issued under a program known as "Title X" provides for the development of 14 acres of land into 47 building lots.

The Commitment to insure a loan in the amount of $135,000 was issued to the Mutual Savings & Loan Association of Bay City. The development to be known as Gaslight Village and located in Bay County is being sponsored by Tecumseh Homes, Inc. of Bay City.

"While several land development applications are in process in this jurisdiction," stated Finn, "our Flint Service Office is issuing the first commitment under this program which was created in 1965 by amendment of the National Housing Act. Home buyers will receive the benefits of good land planning and adequate facilities."

The land development program authorizes FHA to insure mortgages for land acquisition, water and sewer facilities, roads, sidewalks and other improvements. It permits more orderly land development and provides greater opportunities to the developer, builder, as well as the lender.

The capital requirements for some of the extensive developments of today tend to limit participation to those with equally extensive resources; the creation of the Title X program permits greater involvement by all segments of the private lending industry.

Muskegon Coed Heads Madonna Student Body

Madonna College has elected student officers for the next school year. Mary Jo St. Amour of Muskegon, presently Student Association vice president, is the new Student Association president.

Also elected to the executive council were: Jane Balwinski, Marilyn Rushin, Sister M. Diane and Joan Schroeder.

Mary Jo, a junior biology major in secondary education, was SA corresponding secretary during her sophomore year. During her third year on the council, she plans to "continue the SA programs begun this year, better inter-student and student-faculty relations, and promote campus-sponsor activities."

Mary Jo is a graduate of Muskegon Catholic Central high school.

Succeeding her as SA vice president is sophomore Jane Balwinski. An English major in elementary education, Jane has served as SA recording secretary this year. In her new position, Jane intends to improve the freshman orientation program and to promote frequent student-faculty dialogues.

A first-year nursing student, Sister M. Diane, is recording secretary for the coming year. Sister Diane was graduated from Felician Academy in Detroit.

Newly-elected corresponding secretary is Marilyn Rushin, 9913 Seminole, Redford Township. A junior biology major in elementary

DBC Women's Chorus To Present Concert

The Detroit Bible College Women's Chorus, composed of 28 students chosen through competitive auditions, will present a sacred concert in the Evangelical Covenant Church at Eight Mile Road and Telegraph on Sunday, April 9.

The Chorus has been enthusiastically received throughout the greater Detroit area. The concert program includes hymns of the faith, choral compositions and spirituals.

Leon G. Anderson, director of the Chorus, attended Northwestern College and later was graduated from the Detroit Bible College. He received his Master of Music Degree from the Detroit Conservatory of Music and has continued graduate studies at Wayne University and recently at Oakland University under Robert Shaw, director of the famed Robert Shaw Chorus.

Anderson is a member of the NATS (National Association of Teachers of Singing) and is Regional Vice-President of NCMF (National Church Music Fellowship).

Area Catholic Parishes Open 8-Week Human Relations Study

Auxiliary Bishop Henry E. Donnelly opened Project Commitment, the Roman Catholic Education Program on Race Relations, for 33 parishes of Wayne County west of Telegraph Road, Tuesday night, at Madonna College in Livonia. Five hundred area Catholic lay leaders and Negroes from inner city parishes are participating.

The leadership training program also began in three other areas of the Detroit Metropolitan Community: 19 parishes of South Oakland County south of 14 Mile; 27 parishes of Macomb County south of 14 Mile; and 22 parishes of Oakland County north of 14 Mile.

The Catholic church and the need in society for racial justice to a leadership group in every parish in the archdiocese in the most practical way and in a minimum of time.

In launching Project Commitment last Spring Archbishop John F. Dearden told lay leaders: "We must be in the forefront of those who endeavor by positive action to root out of the world and the society in which we live, the very basic evils that beset us."

"We, who are committed to a manner of action that joins man with man, must be most of all intolerant of injustice, of discrimination, of oppressions, of all evils that man is subject to in the world in which we live today."

Besides providing information on the teaching of the Catholic Church in regard to racial justice and of background and knowledge on the problems on race relations, Project Commitment attempts to establish an arena in which Negro and White Catholics can discuss mutual problems together.

In each of the 33 parishes of Wayne County west of Telegraph Road, pastors have invited approximately 20 church, business and community leaders. Attendance is by invitation only.

Addressing the meetings will be top level city, administrative, business officials and human relations experts. Each meeting will break down into small discussion groups moderated by trained discussion leaders to analyze and apply the information and suggested procedures given.

During the eight week sessions the following topics are scheduled to be discussed: Post-Conciliar Catholicism and Race Relations; Race Relations Yesterday and Today; the Psychology of Prejudice; Poverty and its Social Consequences; Discrimination in Education and Job Placement; Community Change and How It Is Brought About; the Responsibility of the Church, The People of God.

The committee chairman for the program series are: Frank J. Murphy, General Chairman; Fr. Robert Zerafa, Divine Child Parish, Clergy Committee; William M. Daniels, Facilities Committee; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Grunow, Registration Committee; Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Pierce, Staff Committee.

The spring phase of Project Commitment will bring the total number of parishes involved in Project Commitment to over 230 Detroit area Parishes with more than 5,000 leaders taking part so far. Many of these parishes, in turn, have established their own Project Commitment programs on the Parish and neighborhood levels.

Project Commitment is an Archdiocesan Program on Human Relations designed to communicate the teachings of with Dr. Duane N. Vore, Conference Minister of the Michigan Conference of the United Church of Christ, as the speaker.

Other Convention speakers include Dr. Fred B. Craddock, Professor of New Testament and preaching in the Graduate Seminary of Phillips University of Enid, Okla.; Dr. Kenneth L. Tegarden, Administrative Secretary of the Commission on Brotherhood Restructure of Indianapolis.

On Friday evening, the Drama Department of Christian Theological Seminary of Indianapolis will present a chancel play, "A Cup of Trembling," a play based on the death of Dietrich Bonhoeffer. The Convention will conclude with the Sunday morning worship service in Bethany Christian Church.

Priests participating in the opening concelebrated Mass were: Msgr. Huber Weier, Divine Child Parish, dean, Fr. Jasper Sirrianni, St. Theodore parish, Fr. Lawrence Doyle, St. Damian parish, Fr. Ferdinand Wolbur, St. Genevieve parish.

Project Commitment is concentrating the Spring phase of its programming in the Detroit suburbs in an attempt to get a larger segment of the Detroit metropolitan community concerned about human relations problems.

Art Institute Slates Theatrical Workshops

Catering to a variety of theatrical interests, the Detroit Institute of Arts Theatre Arts Dept. offers an eight-week spring session of workshops for children and adults.

Registration is open through April 8 and all groups meet at the museum. "During the past five years more than 1600 persons have studied with the professionals selected to lead the workshops," said Dr. Audley Grossman, curator of Theatre Arts.

"Emphasis is on the individual and the age and interest groups are carefully coordinated." In Puppets classes, Mrs. Eve Sheldon and Mrs. Ellen Proctor introduce youngsters (6-9 and 10-13 years) to construction and manipulation of hand puppets and marionettes.

For the first time a special Story Drama group will be offered to stimulate the imaginations of 5 to 7-year-olds. This will be led by Mrs. Lynne Finn and Bennett Berman, who will also conduct the Acting Workshops. Acting sessions will be classified by ages: 7-10, 11-13, 14-18, 19 years and older.

Various techniques of Scene Painting will be taught by a master scenic artist, Dr. James Miller, who will analyze drops, flats and set pieces, and the properties of various dyes and pigments.

Fees vary for each workshop. Prompt enrollment is recommended since each section is limited to 15 students. Information on day of class, time and fee can be obtained from the Theatre Arts Dept., Detroit Institute of Arts 832-2730.

Casting Call for Musicals

The Theatre Arts Department of the Detroit Institute of Arts announces open casting for a series of four musical stock productions, among them "West Side Story" and "Funny Girl." Rehearsals will begin during June with performances continuing through mid-August, 1967.

Auditions for casting and interviews for technical positions will be held by appointment only at the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium Tuesday, April 11 and Wednesday, April 12. Appointments may be made with the Theatre Arts Department office at 832-2731.

These summer musicals will be presented in the Art Institute auditorium and in two other Michigan locations to be announced.

JULIE ANDREWS stars in the award winning musical "The Sound of Music" currently setting attendance records at the Mai Kai Theatre in Livonia. The film, now in its eighth week, will continue for a limited time at the theatre.

Schoolcraft Slates Lecture, Concert, Films

A lecture by social economist Robert Theobald and a presentation of the concert version of Henry Purcell's opera, "Dido and Aeneas," top a list of six events scheduled at Schoolcraft College during the coming weeks. All the events are open to the public without charge.

Theobald, a member of the Columbia Faculty Seminar on Technology and Social Change, will speak at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m., April 7, in the Lois L. Waterman Campus Center.

The Purcell opera will be presented by the Schoolcraft College Choir at 11 a.m., April 13, in the college library.

The schedule of events also includes three foreign language films, and a concert by the Evening College Choir. The films are: the French film, "Cleopatra From 5 to 7," on Friday, April 7; and the Italian film classic, "Bicycle Thief," on Friday, April 14. Each of the films will be shown at 2 p.m. and at 8 p.m. in the amphitheater in the Forum.

The Evening College Choir will present its final concert of the year on April 19.

Theobald was born in India and attended Cambridge University. After work with Dr. L. Rostas on a comparison of productivity levels in Europe and America, he became associated with the Organization for European Economic Cooperation in Paris.

The author of a number of books on socio-economics, Theobald is a consulting economist for the Foreign Policy Assn., General Electric, and the American Management Assn.

The College Choir will present the full concert version of the Purcell opera under the direction of Wayne Dunlap.

Soloists will be Margaret Hayes, Garden City, as Dido; Lawrence Wood, Northville, Aeneas; Linda Beyer, Redford, Belinda; Cathy Utley, Northville, Second Woman; Reggie Zacharias, Livonia, Sorceress; Jo Ann Kitzman, Livonia, First Witch; and Linda Crittenden, Livonia, Second Witch. Allen Shaffer will be accompanist.

The program will also include selections from "Man of La Mancha."

'Blow-Up' Is Slow Hitting

By WALLY ROBERTS
 Michelangelo Antonioni's "Blow-Up" is a visual experience which packs an emotional-intellectual impact not forgotten after you leave the Trans-Lux Krim.

Like radishes or Polish sausage it is the second savoring that makes "Blow-Up" an important cinematic triumph.

Viewing the movie is an exercise in mental gymnastics. What is Mr. Antonioni trying to tell us? You leave the theater still a bit querulous.

Suddenly it hits you. He's been talking about LIFE and how we must accept it, reject it, or try to ponder its many mysteries.

What is real and what is merely illusion during our short stay on terra firma comes clearly into focus before the film slides to its quizzical conclusion.

Antonioni's treatment of love and how it relates to our mundane existence is controversial and is probably the biggest reason why this cinema presentation is so exciting and the "picture" to see.

OCC Sets Faculty Recitals

The Oakland Community College Music Department, Highland Lakes Campus, will present two of its faculty members in recital at 8 p.m., Wednesday, April 5 at Highland Lakes Campus.

Mary Ann Budzinski, soprano, will perform art songs and arias by Bach, Mozart, Brahms, Leoncavallo, Puccini, Rachmaninoff and Gershwin. She will be accompanied by pianist, Dalos Grabe, accompanist for the Kenneth Jewell Chorale, and Mrs. John Tirrell, violinist with the Oak Park Symphony.

Mrs. Janice Feher, pianist, will perform works by Bach, Chopin, Schubert, Debussy and Poulenc. Admission is free and the public is invited.

Wally Roberts UP' GOING 'CURTAIN

"After The Fall," the controversial Arthur Miller drama, recently had its mid-western premiere at the Trueblood Auditorium on the campus of the University of Michigan.

In the capable creative hands of Director James Coakley, this second of three plays by Miller featured by the University Players "After the Fall" truly shimmered. Director Coakley drew every ounce of talent out of his student actors and moved them so that their every action had emotional impact.

"After The Fall" is a most difficult play to do since Miller has characters verbalizing their dreams, their innermost thoughts, and then coming quickly back to reality. Not an easy staging job.

The University production utilized the cavernous expanse of the Trueblood Auditorium excellently. Without the mobility and thrust stage of the Lincoln Center stage where "After The Fall" had its Broadway premiere, Director Coakley made some brilliant adaptations.

Mack Owen as Quentin handled his gigantic role with the ease of a professional. When the final scene called on Mr. Owen to deliver a parting emotional harangue, his forceful conclusion was a pillar of vocal strength.

Quentin's final speech indicates that "is love enough?" He keeps insisting that we have forgiven too many killings, murders, losses of reputation, unkind deeds all in the name of love. How long will we continue to know we do this in the name of the love. Continue to forgive yet go right, back and continue to make the world such an unhealthy mess.

Author Miller poses no solutions in his autobiographical polemic. He presents a stirring picture of his brief marriage to Marilyn Monroe. Many of his other troubles: the Communistic accusations, the guilt for the Jewish dead in World War II tend to clutter the script.

Old Wally would have loved to edit this script down to a more manageable two hours of playing time. The extraneous material lacked cohesiveness and generally weakened the entire play.

Had Author Miller stayed with the relationship of the three or four women in his life his "After The Fall" would have more savage bite and dramatic punch.

Katherine Ferrand and Paula Marchese as two other women in his life did magnificently in their supporting roles. Kathleen Thompson played Maggie with all the seductiveness and suggestion of Marilyn Monroe. Yet she did not slip into the trap of trying to vocally imitate the cinema sex kitten. Her control of the role was impressive and exciting.

All aspects of the production proved once again that the University of Michigan University Players can provide top dramatic fare under the aegis of a hard-working, creative director.

The final play in the Miller Festival is scheduled to open on April 5. "The Crucible" is all sold out for all regular performances. A special Sunday matinee performance on April 9 at 2:30 p.m. has been added to accommodate the heavy demand for tickets.

On April 6 at 4 p.m. in the University's Arena Theater a Studio production of Gerog Buchner's "Lena and Lena" will be performed. You might want to try and catch this seldom produced German play. Admission is free.

If you miss "Lena and Lena" at Ann Arbor, you might want to circle May 8-12 or 15-19 as possible dates to see the production at the Court Theater in Detroit. Incidentally, the Court Theater did an exceptionally fine job of "Under Milkweed" during its March run.

Old Wally hopes they keep this moving Dylan Thomas play in their repertory and repeat the production at an earlier date next fall. Director Vinson is to be commended for the excellent presentation of this difficult Dylan work.

Modern Art Is Featured At Institute

A group show of key living artists—the first organized in the United States this year by a major museum—will open at the Detroit Institute of Arts Wednesday, April 12.

Titled "Color, Image and Form," the selection from 29 painters and sculptors is brought to Detroit by the Friends of Modern Art of the Institute. It will be on display through May 21.

The survey, a virtual primer on contemporary art, will also present massive sculpture by Tony Smith on the lawn of the museum.

'Shrew' Is Colorful Guild Plans Fifth Production

By WALLY ROBERTS
 Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor are nightly tearing up the screen over at the Mercury Theater in Shakespeare's bawdy battle of the sexes, "The Taming of The Shrew."

Lush color photography encloses this salty salvo of the war between male and female. Zeffirelli's zesty direction never lets a moment go by without something magnificent happening on the screen.

"Shrew" is a film of great visual beauty. At times, the screen seems to be at the point of excessive bustle, beauty, and richness. Zeffirelli quickly shifts his cameras to lusty close-ups and the riotous nature of the Bard's explosive farce is retained.

Reserve your tickets right now for a classic comic treatment of an exhilarating motion picture presentation at the Mercury. You'll be overwhelmed with the dazzling cinematic display as set forth by Burton, Taylor, and Franco Zeffirelli.

Most important of all for those of you that have not had time to brush up on your Shakespeare, this lusty version of "The Taming" will let you see the Bard through new vistas. It's great, noble fun!

Bulman Group Announces Play

Redford Union Is Last Site of Kids' Shows

The last of four Saturday Children's Shows by The Junior Guild of The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford will appear at Redford Union High School April 8 at 11:30 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m. The annual youngsters' program features two plays rather than one as in past years. Boys and girls will see "Hansel and Gretel" and "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" plus clowns and intermission rock and roll with go-goers.

The Theatre Guild, which is sponsored by Adult Education of Livonia and Thurston High School is one of the original organizations in the Detroit area to bring children's theatre to local stages.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for 35 cents (adults 50 cents or reserved in advance by calling KE 7-8109 or 427-9060. Five cent candy will be sold in the lobby.

Proceeds from the children's show are used for the advancement of live theatre in the Livonia and Redford areas, scholarships, and the Guild building fund.

Folksingers Set UD Date

A popular folk-singer and a nationally-known recording group will appear on the University of Detroit Kaleidoscope Series at 9 p.m. Friday, April 7, in the Student Union.

Ron Coden will return to the campus for his second appearance and Bob Seger and the Last Heard, who recorded "East Side Story" and "Persecution Smith" will be entertaining the college-age audience in the Rathskeller and the Ballroom.

The college-age public is invited. Admission is $2.

'Young Abe Lincoln' Slated at EMU

"Young Abe Lincoln," the only musical for children ever to play on Broadway, will be presented at Pease Auditorium of the Eastern Michigan University campus at 8 p.m. April 7, sponsored by the EMU Children's Theatre.

Tickets are now on sale at Eastern's Quirk Theatre box office.

Musical For Garden City Children

The Garden City PTA Council will sponsor three performances of "The Elves and the Shoemaker" Saturday, April 15, with the children's play to be presented by the Millan Theatre Company.

The Millan Company is now in its 11th season of professional tours of children's plays with its latest production to be an original musical version of the famous fairy tale.

The PTA Council, to sponsor performances at 11 a.m., 1 p.m., and 3 p.m. in the West High School Assembly Room, said that tickets will be available at all local elementary schools starting this week.

Ticket chairman is Mrs. Pat Russell who may be reached at 421-6473.

Included in the musical are Doodledeed and Wump, the elves; their pet, Peepwilly; Mr. B o t c h e t t, a rich shoemaker.

Futurist Collection Goes to Art Institute

The largest single collection in the world of drawings and prints by Umberto Boccioni, central figure of the Italian Futurist movement, will be shown for the first time in its entirety at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Mrs. Lydia Winston Malbin has given the Institute a permanent loan of this collection.

The comprehensive exhibition—"The Lydia Winston Malbin Collection of Boccioni Drawings"—will open April 26 and continue through May 28. The drawings will be accompanied by Boccioni's related sculpture and paintings, also from the Winston collection.

Ellen Sharp, curator of Graphic Arts, describes the loan—263 drawings, 42 etchings—as incomparable in quantity and quality. "Boccioni's graphics are not merely preliminary sketches for future work in other media, but strong independent entities," she states.

The exhibition will be previewed by Founders members Tuesday evening, April 25, following a lecture sponsored by the Drawing and Print Club at 8 p.m. The lecture is open to the public without charge. Marianne W. Martin, Associate Professor of Art History at Brandeis University, a leading Futurist scholar.

Mrs. Malbin and her late husband, Harry Lewis Winston, acquired the Boccioni material between 1955-1957. In 1961, they loaned a number of these items to the Museum of Modern Arts, Futurism exhibition and New York Times art critic, John Canaday, wrote, "these collectors own close to two-thirds of the known total (Boccioni graphics) in the world. Their acquisition was a collectors' coup . . . futurist art and other art connective with futurism's spirit, which is one of lyrical expression by way of analytical method. Boccioni came closest to perfecting this difficult synthesis and the Winstons acquired some of his major works."

Town and Gown Sets U.D. Concert

The Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia, under the direction of Anshel Brusilow, will play on the University of Detroit Town and Gown Celebrity Series at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, April 8 in the Memorial Building.

The 36-member orchestra will present two of Mozart's works, Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," K.492 and Symphony No. 29 in A major, K.201; Lees' Concerto for Chamber Orchestra, and Brahms' Serenade No. 1 in D major, Op. 11.

Tickets are on sale at the Memorial Building Box Office, 342-1000, ext. 257 and at J. L. Hudson stores.

Cooley Class Sets 20-Year Reunion

A 20th Year class reunion has been scheduled for June 10 at Howard Johnson's New Center Inn for the 500 members of the class of 1947 at Cooley High School. Further information may be obtained by contacting the committee at 356-8546 or 647-3743.

Tickets at $15 per couple for dinner and dancing may be obtained by writing to the Cooley Reunion, Class of 1947, 18890 San Quentin, Lathrup Village.

5-14 Services Offered

Income tax season makes us not so conscientious. If you are not using FARMINGTON SECURITY SERVICE, it's time to investigate. A full time telephone secretary that takes your calls, types your letters, notes, etc. makes photocopies, mimeographs, symbolically apologizes for late deliveries or service calls, handles your in-out mail (using the Building address) and generally works as YOUR secretary. All of this [on an] hourly basis. You eliminate unemployment taxes, rent or salary—only pay for services rendered, at a sensible rate, and total feeable 35000 Grand River. GR 4-0727.
