

Goading Tactics Of Commission Find Mark Again

By R. T. THOMPSON

Plymouth's City Commission will have to go down in annals as the greatest group of marksmen in the city's history. No other governing body in the past can boast of setting up five targets and shooting all down with dead center hits.

That's quite a remarkable feat considering that all was accomplished by an apparent campaign of public harassment over a period of time that eventually resulted in the desired goal.

For the record—the fallen include, and all over a period of three years—longtime City Manager Albert Glassford, City Clerk Richard Shafer, longtime Department of Public Works Supt. Joseph Bida, longtime Chief of Police and Director of Public Service, Kenneth Fisher, and now City Attorney Thomas Healy.

Judging from the activities at recent meetings, the next targets in whatever order one prefers are City Manager Richard Blodgett, who has been under constant fire from Commissioner Arch Vallier, and recently appointed Police Chief Robert Corrington, who became a target after a heated discussion with Vallier in last Monday's meeting.

The newest victim of the harassing tactics was Healy who turned in his resignation last Monday after a long period of verbal abuse from Commission members, especially Vallier, who, in an open meeting, questioned the legality of an opinion handed down by the City Attorney.

Healy has been non-committal about the true reasons for his resignation. In his letter he stated the pressure of his law business was making it impossible to continue with the duties of City Attorney.

But there are persistent rumors from those close to the situation that he became disturbed over the failure of the Commission to appoint him to the Municipal Judgeship which will be vacated by Judge Edward Draugelis at the end of the month.

At the time of his resignation, Draugelis indicated he was leaving as of July 1 so that his successor could be in office prior to July 5. A state statute, which is under fire, gave the person holding office on July 5 the title of incumbent in the voting for a proposed District Judge late in 1968.

The proposed district court would include, among other areas, the Cities of Plymouth and Northville. Each has a new City Hall with modern court room facilities.

On this theory, then it would appear that the district judgeship would be between candidates from the two cities. And on the same theory, each city would consider it a feather in its cap to win the judgeship and become the center of activities for a district court.

It should be pointed out that the City of Northville was faced with an identical situation as the City of Plymouth—Municipal Judge Charles McDonald resigned and the city quickly named City Attorney Philip Oglvie to fill the vacancy.

However, the city fathers of Plymouth have been reluctant to appoint Healy or anyone else.

In a committee of the whole meeting two weeks ago, Mayor James Jabara announced that a poll of the Commission, with

depth report

James Houk on vacation, resulted in a 3-3 vote. Matters will remain at that point until next week when Houk returns from a vacation in Europe.

Whether politics has entered into the situation isn't known but it appears that way from the 3-3 vote. Healy is a Democrat and there are Republicans and Democrats on the Commission which is elected on a non-partisan basis.

The fact remains that the City Commission, and one must consider all of the Commissioners being a party to the harassing tactics, have forced five top city administration officials to resign over a period of three years.

It may be the tactics of one or two members but when it is allowed to take place in meeting after meeting without the other Commissioners taking a stand, then it must be taken that the Commissioners are in accord with the harassment. Healy's resignation is effective in August.

Methodists Will Move Outdoors

Members of the First Methodist Church of Plymouth will hold one all-church outdoor service at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, June 25, at the building site on North Territorial Road which is located across the road from New England Village and west of Sheldon Road.

The Church School will not meet that day. Children and teachers will worship with the congregation.

Members are urged to bring chairs or blankets for seating. There will be ample parking space.

City Seeks Help of Livonia To Solve Garbage Problem

Gould Park 'Split Lots' Snag Board

Plymouth Township's Planning Commission came face to face with a brand new problem this week, that of "double zoning" for a single lot, and conventionally left the issue hanging in mid-air.

The property involved is the important Gould Industrial Park subdivision, slightly more than 100 acres bounded by Ann Arbor Road on the north, the C&O Railroad on the east, Joy Road on the south, and Lilley Road on the west.

The land was acquired by Loren (Bud) Gould in 1965 with the purpose of developing it for resale to industries. Already one new firm, Metropolitan Imprinters, has broken ground for a building on one segment of the subdivision, and more are in the offing.

Wednesday night Gould submitted a request to the Commission asking preliminary plat approval for the layout of the total subdivision, which he has arbitrarily divided into 15 parcels, and the resulting verbiage between commissioners kept them in session past midnight.

All was serene until it was discovered that four of the parcels are "split lots."

That is, part of each of those lots falls in an area zoned M-1 (light manufacturing) with the remainder of the lot in the M-2 zone (general manufacturing). The other 11 are M-2 in their entirety.

While both categories are industrial, there is a difference as to the type of activity which can be conducted under the separate designations.

Fearing loss of Township control over use of the "split lots" as well as scenting possible legal problems, the Commission groped for an answer through half a dozen proposed resolutions, only three of which came to a vote:

A motion to table the whole "bloomer" matter lost, 6-2.

A motion that Gould's request for preliminary plat approval be denied also lost, 5-3.

A motion referring the subject to Commission Attorney Ralph Cole for legal study produced a 4-4 vote, failing for lack of a majority.

Despite those ballots, it was obvious that outright approval was not about to be granted so Gould resolved the situation temporarily by withdrawing his request and a Commission that had begun to bristle breathed more easily.

The problem now is strictly Gould's, not theirs.

Among his alternatives are to redraw plans to put all lots in one zoning category or the other, or go through lengthy rezoning hearings. Nothing can be accomplished, in any event, until the Commission's next scheduled meeting, July 19, and a month's running start on the over-all project has been lost.

Busy Summer Set For Boys

The Plymouth YMCA will launch its summer program for youths of junior high age Monday morning, June 26, at Junior High West.

Unusual Gift Exchange Links Plymouths Of Two Continents

Through an exchange of unusual gifts the Plymouth Centennial will be remembered on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean for years to come.

This was assured during the past week when the Centennial Committee, after seeking advice from abroad, hit upon the idea of presenting to the Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England, for the people of his city, a group of Imperial Locust trees to be planted in the city park as a token of friendship between the two cities.

The trees will be in exchange for the priceless piece of granite that is to be presented to Mayor James Jabara at the civic dinner on Thursday evening, July 6.

This piece of granite is being carved from the steps at the dock from which the Mayflower sailed away back in 1620. It will bear a bronze plate with a message of friendship and it will be the only "official" Plymouth Rock in the United States.

No site has been selected for the permanent home of the granite, but it will have a favored spot somewhere in the City Hall—or on the lawn.

The idea of the gifts and their shipping came from officials of the British Overseas Aircraft Company, and they will oversee their transfer on both sides of the ocean.

John Jarvis, a resident of Plymouth, who is one of the BOAC officials, has been overseeing all of the background work for the unusual exchange.

The Centennial Committee, at a loss for a gift in exchange for the "rock", sought advice from England as to what would be a suitable selection. It was informed that the most suitable gift would be an Imperial locust tree.

Unusual as it seemed, the idea was born for a cluster of four trees, with a suitable marker, to stand forever.

Township To Delay Police Contract

Although the State Legislature has passed a bill permitting cities, villages and townships adjacent to each other to enter into contractual agreements for additional police protection Plymouth Township is not going to be in a hurry to act.

Results of the unification study that is to be made by the Citizens Research Council and learn what recommendations will be made before we enter into contracts with anyone," Township Supervisor John McEwen explained.

The new legislation, which is the outgrowth of a recommendation made at the Leadership Conference at Schoolcraft College several months ago, was made possible when State Representative James Tierney, of the 36th District, succeeded in placing an amendment on Senate Bill No. 50 and guided it through committees.

After passing with what he termed "flying colors" in the House, the Senate approved the bill, 26 to 0.

It is now awaiting the Governor's signature.

The results of the unification study which Supervisor McEwen is now awaiting may not be ready until next spring. The study, while approved by the Michigan Research Council will not begin until fall.

Delay In Study Irks Officials

The City of Plymouth is going to ask its neighbors in Livonia for help in an attempt to solve the garbage disposal problem.

Growing impatient for the City of Detroit to complete its study for the proposed incinerator at the House of Correction on Five Mile Road, the City Commission has agreed to go to other sources for assistance.

"One of these days", Commissioner Arch Vallier pointed out, "if we don't watch ourselves we will be in real trouble. We should act now and be ready. This isn't a problem to fool with any longer."

At the present time the garbage is collected under private contract and disposed of by land fill in Salem Township. But it has been evident for some time that some improvement should be made.

In looking for a remedy it was agreed to join forces with the City of Detroit for the operation at the House of Correction. Several meetings have been held and some preliminary plans discussed, but nothing definite has been done.

"We are waiting for a report from the City of Detroit", City Manager Richard Blodgett informed the Commission last week. "We can't do anything until we get the result of this study."

"I don't think we can wait any longer", Commissioner Vallier countered, "without making some plans of our own. The problem is going to get worse instead of better. And I think we should ask the help of other communities in the area."

"I understand the City of Livonia is working on a program for disposal and an incinerator, too. Why not ask them for help. Perhaps, we could join forces with the people in Livonia. At least it is worth a try."

It was then agreed that an official approach would be made with the hope that some plan could be worked out independent of the Detroit program.

The incinerator problem is one that has been studied for quite some time and has proven troublesome.

Much of the trouble is the fact that the City of Plymouth has little room in which to move. For that reason the garbage collection is being done under private contract and disposed of in Salem Township. That location is not going to last.

That's why Commissioner Vallier suggested that something be done now by asking Livonia for assistance.

Public Hue Balks Plan On Zoning

Public clamor against the proposals successfully blocked two Plymouth Township zoning changes this week as the Township Planning Commission took heed of the protests to reject both matters by unanimous votes.

Beaten back were requests for commercial development of the southeast corner of Haggerty and Five Mile Roads, across from Tanger School, as well as construction of an apartment building complex north of Joy Road between Lilley and Morrison.

The Union Oil Company of California, which owns the five acres in question at Haggerty and Five Mile, had petitioned for a change from R-1 zoning designation (one family residential) to C-1 (neighborhood shopping) and C-2 (commercial).

Petitions from 44 Lake Pointe residents objecting to the change were presented to the Commission Wednesday night, and half a dozen speakers presented strenuous vocal opposition.

They were led by Attorney Paul T. Dwyer, Jr., a resident of the area, and George Foster, chairman of the Board of Trustees of St. Luke's Methodist Church, which owns adjacent property on Five Mile.

Despite the fact that the Commission's own planning consultants, the firm of Waring and Johnson, recommended the C-1 designation for a shopping center, the wave of protests proved more effective. The vote was 8-0 to leave the zoning unchanged.

New Candy Shop

Plymouth added another new business this week when the Village Sweet Shoppe opened Thursday at 570 S. Main St., next to the Pease Paint Store. Pennsylvania Dutch candies and foods will be featured.

NEARING DOOM: Once the center of social activity in the city, the P & A theater may become only a memory as it is turned over to the city.

One of the oldest landmarks in the city—the P & A Theater on Penniman Avenue is doomed to become just a memory unless some civic-minded group comes to its rescue in a hurry.

This came to light during the past week when Mrs. Katherine B. Stockwell, of Grosse Pointe Farms, presented the ancient theater to the city for "the benefit of all of its citizens."

In her letter of presentation Mrs. Stockwell wrote

"I have been advised that a community need for this property exists and that the theater can be well utilized the year round for various community and cultural activities.

"The gift is made without restrictions or conditions, it being understood that the theater will be the property of the city and the City Commission will direct its best use for the people."

In accepting the gift, the City Commission made it plain that, unless some civic-minded group came along, quickly, with a program for the benefit of all of the people in the city, the building would be razed.

Far from the center of social activity it once was, the old theater is badly in need of modernization. It would cost approximately $20,000 to install an air-conditioning system. The stage needs enlarging and the entire interior needs refurbishing, if it is to be made attractive for any group.

The feeling voiced by the City Commission was that unless some civic-minded group could prove it worthwhile to retain the theater it would be razed to make way for a new building or another parking area.

Thus, the old theater is on the verge of becoming a memory.

PS: The taxes on the theater are approximately $1700 a year.

Olympic Berth In '68 Eyed By Plymouth's Bob Steele

If it's "Old Glory" that is hoisted to the top of the staff after the 400-meter hurdles are run in the 1968 Olympic Games at Mexico City, it may be in tribute to a Plymouth lad's triumph in one of the most gruelling of all track and field tests.

Plymouth's Bob Steele has climaxed a brilliant college career in track at Michigan State.

After hauling in Big Ten honors in the hurdles, Steele last weekend won the 400-meter hurdles in the NCAA competition.

Now he's shooting for AAU honors and the right to represent the United States in this summer's Pan American Games at Winnipeg, Canada.

Steele also plans to keep in shape so that he can qualify for the 1968 U.S. team which will invade Mexico City for the Olympic Games.

As a Michigan prep star at Plymouth High School, Steele competed in both hurdle events and the sprints. He finished fifth in the 180-yard low hurdle events and the sprints. He finished fifth in the 180-yard low hurdles in the 1963 state meet.

He has since become a versatile trackman for MSU. His specialty is the 440-yard intermediate hurdles, but with his speed and endurance he can run anything from the 100-yard dash to the 660-yard run.

Last year, Steele was clocked in 50.1 for the intermediate hurdles and captured the NCAA championship in the event. This year he has run a good early season effort of 52.2.

He capped the season with his second straight NCAA title last week when he galloped through the 440-yard intermediate hurdles on Brigham Young University's track to prove he's definitely the college track world's best in the event.

At the Drake Relays, April 28 and 29, in Des Moines, Iowa, he placed third behind two highly rated southern 440-yard hurdlers. "They have had the benefit of months of good training weather and they start the season by running fast times. My best times usually come at the end of our season," Steele explained.

This year Steele is approaching the intermediate hurdles "scientifically." "I get my times recorded at every hurdle," he said, "this helps me find out where in the race I might be losing too much time." "Monday's workout usually includes a 660 for endurance and two or three flights of 330 hurdles," said Steele. During the week he runs 220's and 440's to build up leg speed.

His approach to track is simple. He calls his "style or form, running to win." His style of running suggests an aggressive attitude and little fear of hurdles: he whips out of the blocks fast, charges over the barriers with an apparent lack of concern for missing a step and bears down the home stretch with a considerable will to win.

"I hope to reach my peak this year in early July at the Pan-American Game trials in Minneapolis, Minnesota," Bob said. This fall he will begin graduate studies in physical education at MSU. Eventually he hopes to coach track at the college level.

"My stiffest competition should come from Geoff Vanderstock from the University of Southern California and Dave Adkins from the University of Alabama," said Steele.

He trains seven days a week, 10 months a year and engages in light weight training. He hopes to continue competing until he is 26. "By then I should have run my best times and will be ready to settle down," the hurdler said.

Township Board Proceedings

The meeting was called to order by the Supervisor at 8:04 P.M. All members were present. Opening of Bids for Air Conditioning the Township Hall and Meeting Room.

A motion was made by Mrs. Holmes, supported by Mr. Norman, that bids for air conditioning the Township Hall in accordance with advertised specifications be closed at 8:04 P.M. The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. Herbert Smith, Building and Refrigeration Inspector, in accordance with request of the Supervisor, came before the Board and opened and read the following bids: Otwell Heating - $4486.00 and Charles Olson - $5340.00. Mr. Smith read the respective specifications covered by each bid and stated that the electrical wiring costs were not included in the bids. He further stated that due to the changes in the partitions in the present offices, the entire system as called for in the specifications would have to be changed. Mr. McEwen also reminded the Board that the amount appropriated in the budget for air conditioning would not be sufficient to cover the above quotations.

Discussion then followed, by the Board, on reducing the area to be air conditioned, and also necessity for unit that would be large enough for more space, if and when such space was required.

Following this discussion, Mr. Lauterbach moved that the Board reject the two bids submitted, and request Mr. Smith to prepare for advertising complete specifications covering air conditioning the office section only of the Township Hall. Supported by Mr. Norman and carried unanimously.

Mrs. Richardson moved that the Board reject the Wayne County Board of Road Commissioners' request for $2,611.38 for payment of a share of the cost of the flashing light signal installation at Ridge Road, south of Five Mile Road, because under the provisions of Act 336, of the Public Acts of 1931, the Township has no responsibility for said cost. Supported by Mrs. Holmes and carried unanimously.

Mr. McEwen advised the Board that following the writing of the communication, and it being put on the agenda, the Board had been served with a complaint from the Wayne County Circuit Court to show cause why an injunction should not be issued to restrain the Township from enforcing Ordinance No. 1, hearing to be set for June 16, and suit being started by the O'Hara Catering Company. Mrs. Holmes moved that the Board concur in the engineer's recommendation and approve payment of the $6,862.00. Supported by Mr. Overholt and carried unanimously. Mrs. Holmes then stated that in connection with the same contract, she would move that the Board authorize the final payment of the engineering plans and specifications, and inspection of the Tramp Hollow Storm Sewer in the amount of $5,026.90 and authorize the treasurer to transfer from the Sewer Receiving Fund to the Construction Fund the necessary monies needed to pay these amounts. Although she is the mother of an active four-year-old son, Ross, Mrs. Rhinehart finds time to knit and make many of her own clothes. She has recently taken on a big job as membership chairman of Newcomers Club, and she is also a member of the Symphony League.

Mrs. Haas Attends Convention

Mrs. John Haas, of Rocker St., just attended the AAUW convention in Miami Beach from June 18 to 22. Mrs. Haas, the local branch president, was one of the 2,000 college-educated women at the five-day meeting.

According to Mrs. Haas, women at the convention discussed AAUW's legislative program, and proposed dues increase, while taking a searching look at the association.

National officers analyzed the role of the volunteer and the voluntary organization. The convention keynote was Dr. Blanche Dow, of Liberty, Mo., AAUW president who addressed the delegates on "The Source and the Time," considering how educated women can meet present day demands.

Dr. Pauline A. Tompkins, of Washington, D.C., who will become president of Cedar Crest College, Allentown, Pa., in September, also urged women to meet today's challenges in her speech "Unless the Builder Also Grows", which was based on the Edwin Markham line, "In vain we build the world unless the builder also grows."

Let's Not Place Too Much Emphasis On Necessity Of A College Degree

There are times when we allow our enthusiasm to run away with us.

Much like trotting horses wearing blinkers our eyes are focused in one direction and we oftentimes fail to see the things about us — many of them very important.

This is especially true at this season of the year when heart-breaks are mixed with the joy of vacation time because some of the young graduates, for one reason or another, can not go off to school to further their education.

It may be that they have not been accepted at the school of their choice or that the economy of their families is such that they can't afford it.

In our present trend of thinking such cases are looked upon as tragedies because we have been stressing higher education in the modern world to the point where young men or women feel they will be useless without a degree in science or some other facet of education that gives them an experts' rating.

In stressing the value of higher education we have reached the point where we have lost sight of the fact that there are many plateaus of life where we can be valuable to society without benefit of a college degree.

We have almost reached the stage where we could become — to use the vernacular — a nation of chiefs with no Indians.

We must remember that behind every scientist or specialist there must be a number of persons doing the "heavy" work — the detail that is necessary to make the completed job possible.

Where would the great surgeons be if there was no one on hand to answer their calls — sponge . . . suture? They would be helpless and chances are the patient would die. It is much like the old story they tell of the great organist who, after completing a number, arose and took all the bows and said to his audience, "I appreciate your response."

Then, when he sat down to the organ again there was no response to his pressing of the keys. For a moment he was embarrassed until the young lad who pumped the organ, stuck his head around the edge of the big instrument and shouted, "Next time, say we."

We can't be a nation of experts and that knowledge should give the young men and women who can't go on to college some satisfaction. We have reached the station in this modern area when we must turn again to the tradesman, to the handyman, and to those who can perform the detail that is necessary for great jobs to be done.

The great need is shown more and more each day as it becomes increasingly difficult to obtain the services of repairmen to make house calls.

Not much was thought of the trend when doctors started the custom of limiting house calls to the minimum. But when plumbers, electricians, and the like also took on the aura of experts and made you come to them we have reached the heights of modern times. And it is time we returned to the old way.

With our present demands for higher education everyone now is inclined to assume a high rank.

Janitors have become custodians and sanitary engineers . . . garbage collectors have become purveyors of culinary by-products and just plain stenographers have become executive secretaries. The list is almost endless.

With these titles also goes more independence and it has reached the stage where there are no common workers any more . . . or at least not many.

So, our nation now needs workers of all sorts to keep the "experts" at work. There are all kinds of openings — and these openings are real opportunities.

Have you attempted to get your lawn mower repaired lately?

That will give you an example. At the earliest you will have to wait two and three weeks for service. It is much the same with other types of repair work.

Without belittling the repairmen one must admit that it doesn't require a college degree to be able to repair a lawn mower — or an automobile — or any type of electrical appliance.

There are great opportunities for those who will again resume the old trend of making house calls to provide service.

It has reached the point where the only persons now making house calls are bill collectors, newsboys, mailmen and the "purveyors of culinary by-products."

It's about time this was changed. The point is this — all is not lost just because you can't go on to a college degree after being graduated from high school.

The time has come to take the blinkers off and see some of the many opportunities we have been missing in our quest for affluence.

One of the rare treats of life is to be able to see ourselves as others see us.

This came to mind the other afternoon while strolling along Kellogg Park in company with Mr. R. V. Juchaw, the British Consul, who was making his first trip to Plymouth.

As we approached Penniman Avenue and he caught sight of the park, he stopped short for a second and said in rich English accent, "How delightful."

Surprised to see what he termed a "village green" he pointed out that such areas display the real heart of a city and tell more than anything else the type of people who live there.

"It is so nice to see that the people of Plymouth have seen fit to carry on the great tradition of 'meeting places' on the Village Green. Few cities in America have such things any more."

Even after he returned to his office he still was talking of the pleasant visit.

Over the phone the other morning he told The Stroller, "You have such a delightful city and I was duly impressed with the parkway you directed me to for my return to Detroit. It was a most pleasurable trip and I enjoyed every minute of it."

When informed of the rolling hills to the north he countered, "I have seen them, too. You know when I went out to see you the other day I went by way of Novi, so I had to come down through the hills. And it really was delightful."

Would that all residents of Plymouth and the surrounding area felt the same enthusiasm and appreciation of the fine things in our midst.

THE HIGH COST OF POLICE PROTECTION

How much does it cost to keep a single police car on the road?

The answer may surprise you. The Stroller inquired the other day when he learned that the Wayne County Sheriff's Patrol now has two cars in the Township area.

"The cost runs somewhere between $30,000 and $50,000 a year," one of the County officials explained. When it was pointed out that this seemed a high price, the cost was broken down in this fashion:

Two officers in each car on each of three shifts means that it requires six men to operate the car. Add to this the replacements needed to give the regular officers their days off each week and you run into a force of eight to nine men per car.

Even if they were in the lowest income bracket of about $3,000 per year, their salaries would run $27,000. Then add the cost of oil and gas, plus the wear and tear on the car, and the radio and you soon come to realize that police protection is a costly item.

THERE'S GOOD REASON FOR RED FACE

If you should happen to see "Doc" Salan on the street these days and notice his red face, don't be alarmed. It isn't all sun burn.

"Doc" has just returned from what was to have been a fishing trip in the northern regions of Canada. And what happened to him is enough to make a n y person's face red.

Before he departed he promised every one at the lunch table a nice fish.

"We're going to where we really can get 'em," he told all who would listen.

As luck would have it, he returned without the promised fish.

When asked what happened, he sort of sheepishly said, "The black flies . . . they were terrible. Nobody could catch fish under those conditions."

To make matters worse, he finally smiled, when he helped carry in the week's supply of groceries he dropped the basket containing the eggs and broke three of the six dozen.

Well, batting .500 in any league isn't bad, except when it comes to breakfast.

THE DRAMA AT CITY HALL

The lovers of comedy and drama missed a real treat last Monday evening by not being at the Commission meeting in City Hall.

Commissioner Arch Vallier and Police Chief Robert Corrington collaborated in a skit that would have done justice to any summer stock company.

It all started when Commissioner Vallier questioned the expense of Plymouth police officers who attended a training school in Flint.

At one point Commissioner Vallier shouted "I am a Commissioner and we'll tell you what to do."

"Yes," shouted Chief Corrington, "and I am the Chief of Police and I'll take care of the training of the police officers."

It was the first time Commissioner Vallier had met his match — and it was great fun, played before a "poor" house.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Don't look over your neighbor's fence in envy. There's enough happiness in the world if you make the most of what you have.

Letters To Editor

Civic Dinner Open To Public

Dear Editor:

Perhaps the most impressive and significant event of our Centennial Year will be the Civic Banquet on the evening of July 6 in honor of the Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England, and his government associates.

Interest in this unusual event is high and reservations are coming in fast. However, there obviously is some misunderstanding concerning who may attend.

It should be understood—without any doubt—that anyone is welcome, that attendance is physically limited to approximately 400 persons, and that reservations will be honored on a first-come, first-served basis.

An evening of this stature involving our highest national, state and local political personalities, foreign dignitaries, and with historical overtones, naturally demands full participation. Accordingly, invitations were sent to industry, business, governmental people and civic leaders which may account for some feeling the affair is by invitation only.

May we assure all that attendance at this wonderful evening is yours to decide as long as space is available. Simply telephone the Chamber of Commerce office, 453-1540 for your reservation.

Yours very truly,
H.E. Guenther

Much to my surprise I didn't suffer any pangs of homesickness which I had expected. I was so busy getting settled and growing fonder of the new home, by the minute.

Then I was invited by some new friends to visit them a few blocks away—and now I am puzzled, and beginning to feel the horror of disappointment.

It all happened after I tasted of the water in my new-found friend's home. I mentioned that the water had a much different taste than that in our new home. She explained that they lived in what she called the Township and that our new home is in the city. I didn't think that a difference until she told me that each area had a different water system. She pointed out to me that the Township water came from Detroit.

This all sounded so strange and I just couldn't believe that two areas so close could have different water.

Then I began to think that, maybe, it was my imagination. It happened to be the day of the big rain storm and when I returned to our home I tasted the water. Honestly, I could barely swallow it. It tasted much like I think rain water would taste.

Then I began to notice other things. I notice that my bowl and sink show rust spots and stains and the clothes I wash seem different. I am really upset by the conditions I now find.

JUSTA RIVED

Rust In Water Proves Provoking

Dear Editor,

I see by your reports and activity that the City Commission is spending a great deal of time on alleys. As a taxpayer for a good many years I am wondering why they don't provide good quality water.

We have ruined many clothes, changed pipes and purchased a soft water unit to help alleviate the problem.

Some years ago, about 1964 I believe, the U. of M. did a study of our water and recommended that we move into the Detroit water system. The longer we wait the more it will cost us.

I have heard said that the City is interested in using the water system as a profit utility to support other departments and salaries.

If up-to-date facts and meetings with the Detroit Water Board are needed then let's spend the time wisely and get to work.

Sincerely,
Rusty

P.S. It might help build some unity with the Township too.

Change In Water Comes As Shock

Dear Sir:

Several months ago my husband was transferred to Plymouth and while I hated to leave the town in which I was born and raised I took a liking to the City of Plymouth.

The first time I saw the park in the business section I was delighted and thought how wonderful it would be to sit there on a summer afternoon after shopping, or on an evening to watch a city in action.

Readers Invited To Write Letters

Down through the years one of the most popular public forums is that part of the newspaper devoted to "Letters to the Editor."

Not all persons can talk before a group and, if they could, there are so few opportunities to speak. But most everyone can write and put their thoughts on paper.

So the Letters to the Editor column has become popular.

With that in mind, the Mail-Observer extends an invitation to its readers to make use of the columns for provocative subjects and events of interest in the community.

They should be typewritten, double spaced, and not more than 200 words in length. The letters must be signed and also contain the address of the sender, though names will not be used if requested.

Review Of Charter Comes At Right Time

It isn't often that the occasion arises to pay compliments to governmental units for the job of governing is not conducive to making friends. There always will be some criticism of any move — regardless of the overall benefit to the community, state or country.

But the time has come to hand a bouquet to the Plymouth City Commission for its decision to review the city charter and make any necessary revisions.

The present charter is not a real old document. It was written and approved less than 20 years ago. But in the swift pace of today's world things change rapidly and too many persons are reluctant "to keep up with the times."

Such is not the case with the City Commission. It is not waiting for a citizens' group to concentrate its criticism on the charter and then ask — or demand — a revision.

When these things happen it is a long, tedious and expensive process.

First, the demand has to be approved. Next, a Charter Commission must be chosen. This means an election with its added costs in most cases. Then come the months of study and countless meetings by these "outsiders" as they attempt to put together rules and regulations for an "ideal" government.

And, as often happens, the first draft of these charters is rejected by the voters and the task must be started all over again.

Aside from that, after going to the expense of elections and other activities the new charter commission finds that the charter wasn't so bad after all.

A case in point is the City of Livonia where a great hue and cry went up for a new charter. Yet, after 18 months of study and the expenditure of $9,000, little has been found to change. Even the few changes in the old charter that have been suggested are controversial and may be turned down by the voters.

That's why the action of the Plymouth City Commission is so commendable.

At the behest of Commissioner George Hudson they are going to undertake the study themselves. This is a short cut, to be true. But the changes, if any, will be made by the officials who have worked by the terms of the charter and who are in a much better position to know what is needed.

True the Commission was, more or less, put on the spot when Circuit Judge Victor Baum ruled that portions of the document were unconstitutional some time ago. But the provisions in the charter that placed limitations on eligibility for public office and caused Rev. Peter Schweitzer to bring his now famous suit, are only part of the proposed study.

There are several other sections that need revision. For example, the present charter requires the printing of 500 copies of any codification of city ordinances. In this day and age that is not necessary.

There are other sections that are out-moded. And it is Commissioner Hudson's idea to make a thorough study of the document, work out the revisions and then take the suggestions to the voters for their approval.

This is a sensible approach. It takes the possibility of a charter provision out of politics and makes for stronger, sounder and more sensible government.

Guest Sermon The Hope of the World

By Dr. Henry J. Walch,
 First United Presbyterian Church

Text: Matthew 18:1-10 — "At the same time came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven? And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them, and said, Verily, I say unto you,

Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. And whosoever shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me... Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, That in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven."

The disciples of Jesus were concerned about the values of their world. And in a strange way, those values are still with us. They wanted a rating of people according to some external standard of judgment which was based on a comparison of who was better than whom. And Jesus took them utterly by surprise. He set a little child in the midst of them and told his followers that unless they became as little children, they could not even see the Kingdom of God. But what did he mean?

Christ was talking about the way the child looks at life. For the child, life is an adventure and a discovery. Things, for the child, are for use—to play with, to enjoy. Things for the child are not ends in themselves. Every child possesses what he has, in his heart; therefore he cannot lose anything, even if the object is taken away. This is what makes children so rich—they possess all they touch, without owning anything. It is a quality of the spirit.

The values of the adult world change the child. As we grow older we are taught to want things for the sake of ownership, not just for the joy they bring. External standards of judgment for the good life take over, and the purity of life's joy is sullied by greed. The good life now becomes a matter of the possession of status symbols.

We teach children our values; consciously, or unconsciously. We shape them to our image if we can. This does violence to life. It is a form of death when we substitute limited values for eternal ones. This history of our values is a long record of violence, of estrangement from our neighbors, of prejudice in its most wicked form, and of a succession of wars which has killed off the flower of our manhood and wasted the resources of life quite utterly. Our values are weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Jesus took his disciples with him into the joy of the kingdom of heaven by the road of love. They never forgot it, and it made them heroic. They would have laughed to be called heroic, but without them there would be no gospel today. Christ is the lord of life, and by "life," Christ did not mean a collection of atoms of protoplasm simply ingesting things. He was speaking of life in its eternal nature. He knew it, --the child knows it. But our distorted vision makes us think he was wrong. All the proof to the contrary that any honest man needs is to look about him, at home, or abroad through the world. And then let him say, if he can, "Christ was wrong, we are right!" The verdict of history and our own day will not support that statement.

GREAT CAR INSURANCE!

People all over Michigan are talking about MONEY BACK on Exchange car insurance—and leading the way with Triple-A!

Beginning July 1, 1967, a 10% premium refund will be paid to Exchange-insured Auto Club members as their car insurance policies expire.

This premium refund, which can return $9,000,000 in the next 12 months to more than half-a-million Michigan drivers, will be continued in the future for as long as the Exchange's favorable underwriting conditions will permit.

In addition, a $1,000,000 rate reduction on Uninsured Motorist and many Comprehensive coverages will go into effect on policies issued July 1, 1967 and after.

This projected $10,000,000 saving over a 12-month period is in keeping with the Exchange's traditional policy of providing Auto Club members with the best possible insurance protection and service at the lowest possible cost.

CANOEING CLOSE TO HOME

ENTIRE GROUPS FIND CANOEING AN EXCELLENT OUTDOOR ACTIVITY

You don't have to go to the upper peninsula, or even into the northern lower peninsula, to absorb the tranquil, sporty fun of canoeing.

There's a nearer spot—safe, nearly primitive in its shoreline, easy of access, ample in its facilities. It's the Huron River, only a half-hour's drive west of these suburbs.

You can bring your own canoe or rent one; take a short jaunt or camp overnight; take a whole Scout troop or go alone.

You'll find it a lot different from boating on a lake.

There are no outboard motor blasts, no blares from transistor radios; the Huron in most northern stretches is rarely more than waist deep; since everyone is moving downstream with the same current at the same speed, you rarely see other people.

If it's cold or windy, boating on an open lake is rough, but a river is sheltered by its banks, and so you have far more good canoeing days than lake-boating days.

THERE ARE TWO GOOD places to get information on canoeing facilities and maps.

They are the Michigan Department of Conservation, located in the Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, and the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA).

HCMA is the five-county agency that operates a string of parks on the Huron and Clinton Rivers, the most famous being Kensington, west of New Hudson on I-96. You can pick up HCMA's excellent, free color maps and list of facilities either at one of its parks or from its office, 1750 Guardian Building, Detroit.

HCMA's maps divide the Huron into four segments: (1) Pontiac to Kensington, (2) Kensington to Dexter, (3) Dexter to Belleville and (4) Belleville to Lake Erie.

The Kensington-Dexter section is closest to home. A team in condition could do the 28 miles in a day if it worked hard.

THERE'S A RENTAL agency at the south end of Kent Lake. Prices: $1 an hour, $5 a day, other rates for groups; you can try the lake or portage around the dam and go southwest on the river. A pickup service is available.

With your own canoe, you can launch at the lake, at Kensington Road, at Sutherland Road, off Bishop Road in the Island Lake State Recreation Area, at the Conservation Department fishing site on Portage Lake, or at HCMA's Hudson Mills Metropark.

You can camp on an island in Kent Lake, at a site in the Island Lake SR Area; at an HCMA canoe camp south of Hamburg Road or in Hudson Mills Metropark.

You can pack chow and dine along the river bank. There are fishing spots, bluffs to climb, ever-changing scenery.

In a canoe you see nature a lot closer than in a boat or on foot. There are marsh birds and wood birds—species you never see or hear in suburbia.

You don't have to take a full vacation up north to go canoeing. The Huron River is just a half-hour away.

Cross-Breeding Of Roses Done Very Carefully

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two articles on suburbia's all-time favorite flower, the rose.)

By BETTY FRANKEL
Special Writer

June is the month of roses. Their lush, fragrant blooms are growing everywhere. Since earliest times roses have been the favorite flower. They were one of the first flowers to be domesticated, and their praises have been sung by poets of all ages. Roses are described in the literature of the ancient Greeks, and Roman matrons arranged roses for flower shows.

Roses grow wild in all parts of the Northern hemisphere, and there are about 100 wild species of roses. These are upright or climbing shrubs that have single flowers and leaves divided into numerous leaflets.

IN NATURE, the cross-breeding is a haphazard process, but it is a carefully controlled process when done by rose breeders.

All of the cultivated garden hybrids were developed by crossing and re-crossing, and over the years many strange and lovely roses have been developed.

Cultivated roses probably originated from Rosa gallica, a native of central and southern Europe. The cabbage rose, Rosa centifolia was also used in early hybridization.

Later roses from India, China, and Japan were used also.

The Damask rose was brought to Europe from its native Damascus and Syria by the early crusaders.

ROSA MOSCHATA, the Musk rose, and Rosa odorata, the original tea rose are not hardy in this part of the country but are of interest because they figured prominently in the crosses that give rise to tea roses and then to Hybrid tea roses.

These latter flowers, with their large, beautifully formed individual blooms, are the most popular of all roses. There is a wide range of color and many are fragrant. New varieties are introduced each year and many gardeners "collect" Hybrid tea roses.

Floribundas resulted from a cross between Hybrid Teas and dwarf polyanthas. They are becoming more popular because they are hardy and relatively resistant to disease, and flower freely all summer.

The flowers, born in clusters, are somewhat smaller than tea roses and have a less elegant form. They grow into bushy plants that make good landscape material. Among the more popular floribundas are Fashion, coral, Spartan, red-orange, and White Bouquet.

Within recent years a new type of rose, the Grandiflora, was developed by crossing Hybrid Teas and Floribundas. Large flowers are born on bushy plants.

"Peace", a blend of pale yellow edged with pink, is undoubtedly the most popular rose at the present time. It has beautiful glossy deep green foliage and is relatively disease resistant.

Telephone Group Praised For Book Machine Project

Members of the Fort Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America have been honored for their work in repairing and improving talking book machines for use by blind persons. Telephone Pioneers of America is an organization open to men and women who have spent more than 21 years in the telephone industry. The Fort Council of the Pioneers includes members in Plymouth, Livonia, Farmington and other suburbs.

John Jergovich, of Livonia, who is in charge of the talking book machine program, accepted a certificate of appreciation from the Library of Congress. The award was presented at a meeting of the Fort Council executive committee. The Telephone Pioneers are involved in several community service projects which aid the blind or other handicapped persons. Some of these projects are: reproducing Braille material for textbooks, illustration of Braille texts, recording books and repairing tape recorders for blind students, making therapeutic aids for handicapped children and participating in parties for handicapped children.

OK To Lose In 7 Games

The slow start of Farmington's American Legion junior baseball team doesn't disturb manager Harry Kujawa.

Despite the fact the Farmington team stood 1-4 entering this weekend's action, Kujawa still thinks his forces will repeat as district champions.

"I've told the boys to forget about their first seven games," declared Kujawa. "We'll still have 19 more left after that."

It's Kujawa's opinion it will take seven contests to get his team organized.

"We have many new players this season," he declared as he watched the rain wash out a game at Southfield Wednesday.

"Besides we have a lot of teaching to do, especially with the 15-year-olds on the team. They're making mistakes which will be corrected in due time through instruction and work."

THE TEAM IS made up of players from Farmington's three senior highs—Farmington, North Farmington and Our Lady of Sorrows.

Kujawa has Terry Tinkle and Steve Sayer alternating at first base. Tinkle is a veteran from Farmington High. Sayer is from North Farmington.

Al Kilkka (Farmington), Dennis Perry (Sorrows) work at second. It's Jim McGrath (Sorrows) and Kilkka at short with Joe Himmelspach (Farmington) at third, unless he's pitching. Then Tom Snyder (North Farmington) moves into the hot corner.

Chris Norton (Farmington), Doug Drapski and Gary Zeran, the latter two from North Farmington, give the team "the fastest outfield in the league," according to Kujawa.

Tom Webster (Sorrows) tops the catching department which includes Mark Kajawa (Harry's son) and Gary Mime, Garry Carr (NF), Mike Thompson (Farmington), Bruce Ballenoff (NF) and Himmelspach do most of the pitching.

FARMINGTON FACES Berkeley in a doubleheader Sunday at the Farmington varsity field at 2 p.m. On Wednesday Farmington hosts Milford. Then follows a Friday date at Walled Lake.

The district winner advances to the regionals and from the regionals the survivor marches on to the state championships.

Then follows the national competition which ends with the annual Junior World Series.

Plymouth Driver Makes A Comeback

Dick Simmons of Plymouth is staging a comeback at the Flat Rock Speedway.

He was shooting for his fourth straight victory in the figure-8 competition in Saturday night's action at the pretzel-shaped course.

Simmons is one of the regulars who vies for honors at Flat Rock. Others include Fran Hardin of Wayne and Joy Fair, the circuit's top performer to date this season.

The cars race every Saturday at Flat Rock with trials at 7 p.m. and the first race at 8:30.

Dragsters

Speeds of up to 215 miles per hour are being hit by drivers each Saturday night at the Motor City Dragway.

The admission to the track is $3.50 for adults with children under 12 free.

Observing SPORTS

By George Maskin

One of the nicest features about sports is the people you meet.

Take Harry Kujawa of Farmington, a stereotype-printer by profession on the midnight shift at The Detroit News.

He chooses those working hours so that he can spend the greater part of each day teaching the boys of Farmington and Livonia how to play baseball.

"The kids are crying for baseball knowledge," Kujawa tells you. "And there's so much they can learn. Too many of them never have been taught any fundamentals, and that goes for boys who have reached high school age."

Because of his passion for teaching baseball, Kujawa has arranged a series of clinics which he'll stage during the summer months at Our Lady of Sorrows' diamond in Farmington.

He started this past week and he has broken the boys down in age groups—those 8-10, 11-12 and 13-14.

And there are the boys over 15 who play on Farmington's American Legion team which Kujawa is managing this season.

"YOU KNOW, MOST SCHOOL teachers have to find an extra job July to September until they go back to the class room," says Kujawa. "So what's wrong with me performing an extra job during the summer, too?"

The only difference is that Kujawa receives next to no remuneration for his extra-curricular activity. By the time he's through, he has to dig into his own pocketbook.

"But I love kids and I love sports . . ." Kujawa says.

So what else really matters?

Kujawa was a three-sport star at Detroit Catholic Central High School. He was there when Art Houtteman and Ray Herbert, who later made it to the major leagues in baseball, attended the school.

When he graduated, Kujawa had a chance to attend college. But the military dictated otherwise.

"I never did get to college," he explains. "But if I had, I would have become a teacher. And I think I'd have made a good one, too."

Those who know Kujawa have no doubts he's made a top-flight instructor.

"There's nobody like Harry," one of his neighbors said on the telephone. And she called on her own, because as she added: "Mr. Kujawa is the greatest. None of us can say too much nice about him."

GETTING BACK TO THE RIGORS of baseball, Kujawa declares.

"What we strive to do is to teach boys how to throw a ball, how to catch one, how to play the various positions, how to hold a bat properly, how to step in the right direction, etc.

"It's a big job. We spend two hours each week with each group demonstrating, and then we spend more time letting the boys play baseball under fun conditions."

Kujawa stressed the word "fun." He gave the impression that many of the boys playing in Little League weren't truly enjoying themselves. The pressure from their parents . . . the pressure for winning was too much.

In fact, Kujawa proclaimed: "Maybe they should get the fathers out of Little League. It would be a better game then."

There's more in the Kujawa "school" for baseball than working to develop a boy's fundamentals.

Kujawa also strives to:

- Have the boy learn the proper respect for his manager and his coaches.
- Teach respect for umpires and parents.
- Impress the boy how important discipline is.

Mound Gems For Livonia

It's unfortunate Jerry Portney, Jim Rose, Roger Frayer, Herry Allen and Pete Hembrough all came out of the Livonia school system, attending either Bentley or Franklin.

Schwalm, who attended Eastern Michigan University, has turned in two masterpieces in his last two starts to keep the Livonians hot on the heels of front-running Redford Township in the Western Wayne County "A" circuit.

A week ago he toiled a 7-0, no-hitter against Inkster. On that occasion he struck out 14.

Last Monday he came back with a one-hitter in downing Dearborn Heights, 4-1.

ONCE MORE Schwalm fanned 14. No Dearborn batter hit the ball out of the infield.

Most of the team hails from Livonia. Players like Paul Portney, Jim Rose, Roger Frayer, Herry Allen and Pete Hembrough all came out of the Livonia school system, attending either Bentley or Franklin.

IN THE GAME against Dearborn Heights, Livonia jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Leadoff man Portney was safe on an error and pranced home on Rose's triple. Rose in turn crossed on an infield tapper.

In compiling a 4-2 record, Livonia has had its problems against Redford, losing to the strong Townshippers twice.

Teams play three games a week—on Sunday, Monday and Wednesday.

Tough To Beat

Livonia area baseball fans this summer are being treated to some of the finest sandlot action in the state.

The Greater Livonia-Detroit Free Press League is loaded with standout talent from area high schools and also many of the state's colleges, including Michigan and Michigan State.

Five teams comprise the circuit. They are the Livonia Giants, managed by Lucky Birkett; Garden City Sporting, Dependable Hard Chrome of Redford Township, the Dearborn Heights Dad's Club and the Westland Red Sox.

GAMES ARE PLAYED ON Sundays, Wednesdays and Friday with Livonia's Henry Ford field the center of operations. Diamonds at Franklin High, Haggerty Field, Bell Creek and Garden City also are used.

current loop leader, plays a doubleheader at Henry Ford Field Sunday, meeting the Red Sox at 6 o'clock and then tangling with the Livonia Giants at 8:30.

The Giants are paired with Garden City at Garden City at 2 p.m. Sunday while at 5 p.m. while Livonia Giants meet Garden City at 8:30 in a pair of tilts under the Henry Ford lights.

ON WEDNESDAY, the Red Sox engage Hard Chrome at 6:15 p.m. while Livonia Giants meet Garden City at 8:30 in a pair of tilts under the Henry Ford lights.

Just how strong the league is was proved last year when Redford went on to win the playoffs and then the outstate Free Press competition to qualify for the national all boys tournament held at Johnstown, Pa.

It marked the first time an area team had won a spot in a U.S. tourney.

COACH HARRY KUJAWA offers bunting advice to batter Joe Himmelspach and catcher Tom Webster.

And, oh, yes, Kujawa centers his discussions around helping the boy to grow up to be "A Man."

Kujawa admits he wishes he had more time, especially now that the Recreation Department in Livonia has heard of what he is doing and wants to hire him next year to run a series of baseball schools for boys.

All of which doesn't leave Kujawa with too much time to waste or to sleep.

"Kids, my they're wonderful!" he repeats and repeats.
