LOFY'S NIGHT CLUB and restaurant at Ann Arbor and Lilley Rds. saw its final chapter this week as a wrecking crew demolished what was left of the structure following a September fire. The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has placed the establishment's license in escrow, insisting the license not be transferred out of Plymouth Township. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Local Architect Wins Acclaim On Club Plan

The design of a proposed recreational facility near Plymouth has brought a local architect one of the year's highest professional honors, a citation in the annual design competition of Progressive Architecture Magazine.

Tivadar Balogh, whose architectural offices are at 995 W. Ann Arbor Trail, received the award at a recent dinner which took place in New York City's Whitney Museum. Architectural equivalent of Hollywood's Oscar, the highly influential design competition is judged by the country's foremost architects, men who themselves are winners of U.S. and international design competitions.

Ada Louise Huxtable, Pulitzer prize-winning reporter of the New York

Times, has called the results of the annual judging "an uncanny forecast of architectural trends."

BALOGH'S ENTRY resulted from his being commissioned by John H. White to design a recreation complex which could be operated as a private club. The site which White has in mind is a 40-acre tract which he owns on the south side of Joy Rd., west of Ridge Rd. in Canton Township.

Michael Manore, Canton planning consultant, has recommended approval of the necessary rezoning which would make the development possible, and formal action by the township board is expected next month.

White is a teacher in the Redford school system and said plans call for the facility to include eight indoor tennis courts, four squash and paddle ball courts, a year-round swimming pool, club and locker rooms, plus eight to 12 clay type outdoor courts and bleachers.

White said the proposed club may ultimately include an indoor ice skating rink.

BALOGH'S DESIGN projects that the courts be arranged in two banks, separated by a three-level horizontal core containing locker rooms, lounge and squash courts. The swimming pool will be set within a surrounding berm system to diminish wind penetration and reduce transmission of pool activity noises a movable roof will cover the pool.

Efforts to develop private club membership will be launched within the next few weeks, said White, who anticipates drawing from the areas of Plymouth, Livonia, Dearborn, Redford, Farmington, Garden City, Westland, Northville and Ann Arbor. The membership price structure has not been finalized.

Balogh won his citation in competition with nearly 700 designs by U.S. and Canadian architects. All were works which have been commissioned but not yet completed.

Chairman of the eight-man judging panel was Richard Bender, professor of architecture at the University of California.

The development is listed officially as a project of Property Development Group, Inc., 320 N. Main, Ann Arbor 48104, an organization with which White is associated. He said he and his wife also are planning to build a home on the recreation center property.

Plymouth Brevities

FOR FOUR NIGHTS next week Plymouthites can get a good look at the initiative of the community's youth when the Junior Achievement organization holds its annual open house. The workshop upstairs at 585 W. Ann Arbor Trail (next to Saxton's) will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

After leading all other southeastern Michigan JA centers in sales over the last decade, the current crop of Plymouth achievers is a mite embarrassed by letting Wayne take a momentary 1972 lead. These teenagers got a big boost last weekend by putting their products on sale for two days at the Tel - 12 Mall and have the backing of such major local industries as Ford and Burroughs.

KAL JABARA, partner with his brother Jim in ownership of the Plymouth Tank and Fabricating Co., recently gained another title in professional circles.

At a dinner ceremony in the Raleigh House, Kal was installed as president of the Detroit Oil Men's Club. His two vice presidents are Bill Gravius of Marathon and Hugh Hanna of Boron. Kal also is treasurer of the Plymouth Rotary Club and is a past president of the Mancelona Rotarians.

DOG OBEDIENCE classes will open Wednesday, Feb. 2 in the community building, 200 Union, under sponsorship of the city parks and recreation department. George Grant of Novi will be the instructor and the series will continue on a weekly basis for 12 sessions through April 12.

The obedience course program was launched last summer and has proved so popular that this third series has been arranged and will be conducted on a first-come, first-served basis. The fee is $15 per pooch and dogs either from city or township are eligible as long as they are at least six months old.

THE UNITED STATES Army Field Band is expected to present a concert in Kellogg Park sometime in May.

The occasion may be given added glamor by having parachutists perform on the same date. Arrangements are being handled through Sgt.

City Splits Purchasing From Way

Plymouth's city government policy of combining the duties of treasurer, assessor and purchasing agent in one man has ended with the hiring of an administrative assistant to the city manager.

That new employe, Walter Adams, 45, of Livonia, has taken over the municipal purchasing assignment from Kenneth E. Way, leaving Way with the opportunity to devote full attention to his roles as treasurer and assessor.

This was an administrative step which had been recommended strongly three years in a row by the city's auditing firm of Sutherland & Yoe.

Adams is one of five new employes added recently to the city payroll. Funds for the administrative assistant and three of the other positions were provided under the Federal Emergency Employment Act.

In the other case, which has seen the hiring of William W. Sanders as a replacement for Building Inspector Charles Thompson, who retired Jan. 3, funds already were included in the existing budget to cover the position. Sanders, 52, also lives in Livonia.

THE THREE others added to the staff include Gary A. Bailey Jr., 23, of Plymouth, in the engineering department; Daniel Venezia, 23, of Plymouth, in the recreation department, and John E. Stout of Plymouth as community service officer in the police department.

In introducing his new administrative aide to the City Commission, City Manager Norman Gaffney said Adams "comes to Plymouth with a fine reputation as a civic leader."

Gaffney said Adams was selected for the $11,000 per year post "due to his experience in industrial purchasing and purchasing management of over 18 years."

He will assist the manager in various other tasks in addition to purchasing and fills a void in city government which had existed since Steven Walters resigned as administrative assistant in mid-1970 to become city manager at St. Ignace.

Problems Of Vision Identified

More than 3,450 students in Plymouth schools were screened for vision problems in the fall with the result that 594 students were re-screened and 231 were referred to ophthalmologists for further tests.

Dr. Edwin Page, special education director in Plymouth, said that all kindergarten, first grade, fifth grade and ninth grade students were screened as well as any other students referred by the teachers for tests.

He said that one tested child was found to have a serious eye infection that could have caused blindness.

"On that basis of that one child, the program proved its value," Dr. Page said.

The program was funded by a $1,200 donation from the Lions Club.

Before she even realized it was missing, Mrs. Connie Cavanaugh had a credit card case returned to her last week by young Martha Shearer of Drury Lane in Plymouth.

Mrs. Cavanaugh of 40205 Warren, Plymouth, said the case contained $50 plus a number of credit cards and due bills.

"I think it was just marvelous," Mrs. Cavanaugh said. "It is a credit to her very thoughtful parents. It was just too much to let go unknown."

Miss Shearer found the case in a puddle in the parking lot behind the Colony Office Building and rode her bike to the Cavanaugh's home to return it before Mrs. Cavanaugh returned from work or had noticed it missing.

Adistra Adds New Division

PLYMOUTH Adistra Corp., which is the parent entity of Plymouth's well known DSI and Scott Phillips divisions at 101 Union in the old Daisy Rifle plant, has acquired the assets of Metromail, a Dearborn-based direct mail firm which had been owned by Metromedia, Inc.

William P. Scott, president of Adistra, said in announcing the acquisition that "a new and expanded operation will be established immediately in the same location, at 12825 Ford Rd., as the Sampson-Hill division of Adistra."

"This re-establishment of the Sampson-Hill name in the Detroit area is of special interest," said Scott, "as J. Roland (Bud) Hill has been selected as general manager of the division and as a corporate officer of Adistra."

Adistra was founded in 1943 as William Scott Associates and is a marketing communication service agency which has been headquartered in Plymouth since 1961.

Through its three operating divisions, Adistra serves marketing, sales and creative agencies in marketing plans, programs, materials and products.

"THE COMBINING of the divisions and expertise of these two organizations under one management will insure a marketing service source with the capacity and capability to handle 'total' or 'packaged' assignments of any size and on almost any schedule," said Scott.

He added that all clients of each division have been assured "of an uninterrupted and even higher quality of service."

"Acquisition of the Dearborn operation will boost Adistra's full time employment figure to approximately 175, which is bolstered in peak production periods by as many as 250 part-time employees."

Both the Ford Motor Co. and General Motors are among Adistra's major year-around clients.

Model UN Trip OK'd

PLYMOUTH Fifty-one students from the international relations class at Plymouth High School have permission to travel to New York for an annual field study trip to the United Nations headquarters.

The Plymouth Board of Education approved the trip after the students got permission from 90 per cent of their parents for the trip.

They tentatively plan to leave for New York on April 30 and return on May 4.

During the five days, the students will visit the United Nations library and observe the UN in action. They also will visit selected delegations to gather information for the model UN session they will stage in the late spring at the high school.

Estimated cost for the trip is $125 plus spending money. The board rejected a request from the students for a magazine drive to help finance the trip.

In the last five years, students have raised the money for the trip without having any drives or sales in the community. The request was rejected on the basis of a policy adopted by the board.

Service Honors Church Construction Workers

Those often-forgotten men of church-building—the workers who turn bricks and mortar and electrical wire and plumbing fixtures into a sanctuary—will be honored in a new Farmington church Sunday, Jan. 23.

A special service at 11 a.m. in University Hills Church, located at Farmington Road and I-986, will be dedicated to "all ye who labored" in the construction of the church, said Dr. J. Harold Ellens, pastor.

Final construction work is being completed on the church, which broke ground Easter Sunday in 1971 and was dedicated Dec. 19.

THE SERVICE honoring the construction workers will include short talks by Dr. Carl Droppers, architect who designed the contemporary building, and Henry Haberkorn, Orchard Lake contractor who headed the building work, as well as Dr. Ellens.

The pastor's homily will be concerned with the Trinity as expressed in the basic triangular design of the building and will be the first in a series of sermons on symbols of the church.

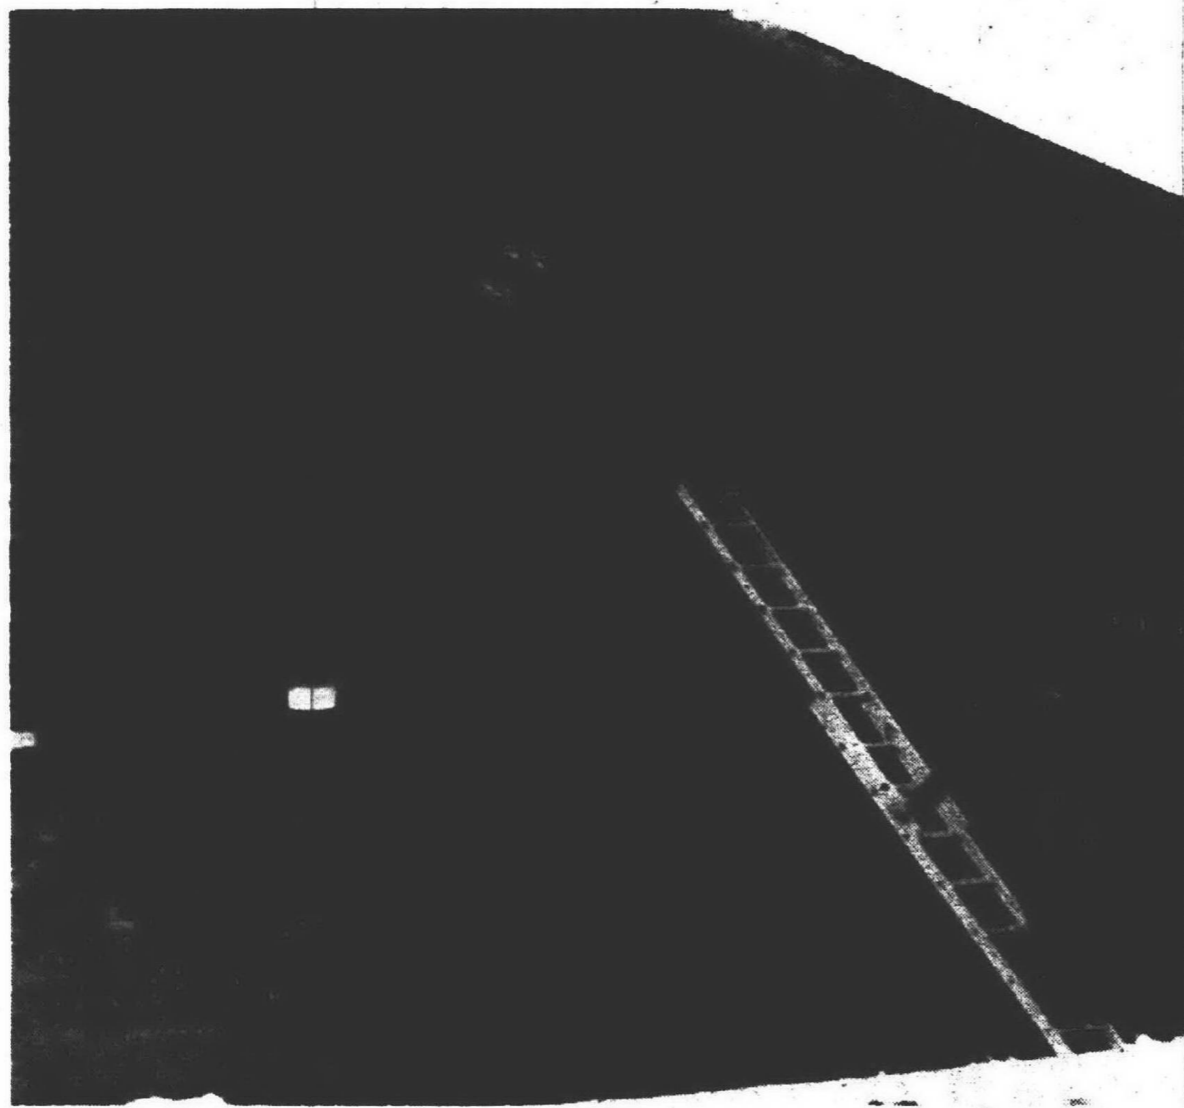

A litany of confession following his talk will begin with the words "These are our best efforts—receive them."

DR. DROPPERS, a member of the Cleveland firm of Chaty-Droppers and head of the architecture department at Case-Western University, will speak on "the presence and meaning of the Holy Spirit in this visible architectural design."

"We are delighted with a building that stands as a proclamation of the gospel!" is the start of the litany that will follow his talk.

Haberkorn's talk will be on the spirit of God in the Christian as expressed in the work of construction. The litany of dedication after his homily will begin with the words, "What we have done here defines us."

Special music for the occasion, arranged by Ronald Sharette, director of music, will be performed by an instrumental ensemble, the youth choirs of University Hills and the University Hills Singers. It concludes with an arrangement of "Rise Up, O Men of God."

WORKMEN WHO install roof lights, hang doors and perform other church-building tasks will be honored in a special service in University Hills Church in Farmington Sunday, Jan. 23. Above, building contractor Harry Haberkorn holds a ladder while his son, Harry Haberkorn, adjusts a flood light. Below, the younger Haberkorn (left) and Erol Hill set a door in its frame. Program Features Gilbert-Sullivan

The Farmington Musicals will hold its first all Gilbert and Sullivan program at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 26, in the Farmington Community Center.

Musicals members Joyce Bigelow, Sharon Cardecia and Lois Swanson will sing six trios from a variety of operettas written by the famous composers. Each artist will also perform a solo.

Accompanying at the piano will be the group's president, Eleanor Skillman, with Margaret Savely serving as narrator and program chairman. Tea will be served following the performance by Sandra Weiss and her committee.

The Community Center is on Farmington Road north of 10 Mile.

The Farmington Musicals, an affiliate of the National Federation of Music Clubs, is a women's club which serves the community through music. Each spring it provides scholarships for talented local youngsters from funds earned through various projects.

Interested musicians are invited to call the membership chairman, Mrs. Donald McDaniel, 7342 Edinborough, Birmingham, for additional information.

Local Camp Fire Girls Begin 1972 Candy Sale

Camp Fire Girls in Oberverland and throughout the Detroit area will participate in the annual CFG candy sale beginning Saturday, Jan. 22.

Proceeds of this sale are used, for the most part, to develop and maintain Camp Wathana, the CFG camp near Holly.

Funds collected also help provide camping opportunities for needy girls, and the remainder goes to the year-round operation of the Camp Fire program.

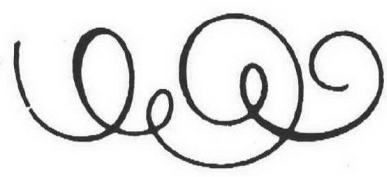

Last year 35 per cent of the total CFG budget was raised through the candy sale.

AS IN YEARS past, the girls will be selling two varieties of candy made by the Heath Co. - the traditional toffee and a chocolate mint. Boxes will be priced at $1 each.

The Camp Fire program has noted considerable growth during the last year, especially in the Oakland County and Farmington area.

GROUPS ARE SMALL, usually numbering about 10 girls in a single grade, and most meet in the guardian's home. In Farmington, Camp Fire girls are active participants in the Farmington Beautification Committee program and the Community Center.

Girls may become involved in Camp Fire in the first grade, when they join Blue Birds. Grades four to six are Camp Fire Girls, junior high girls belong to Discovery Clubs and there are Horizon Clubs for the senior highs.

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR
 You'll never get "Buzz" Probst to believe that lightning never strikes twice in the same place after what happened to him at Bel-Aire Lanes.

Bowling in the Westbrook Mixed League, he turned in a 686 series that included a 300 game between counts of 190 and 196.

Posting a 300 is unusual enough, but it so happens that this was his second perfect game on the same pair of lanes over a span of four years.

In all the excitement of his big count he recalled that in December of 1968 he had a 300 on lanes No. 17 and 18—the same pair on which he rolled his latest honor roll count.

"I also had a 300 last year," he said, "but it was in practice."

Very few bowlers get to roll more than one perfect game in sanctioned competition, especially in mixed leagues, so "Buzz" stands apart on the Honor Roll.

To get his new honor, "Buzz" was spurred on by his wife and teammate, Frank McKenna, who had to settle for a 636 series after games of 235 and 224.

THERE SEEMS to be no stopping the Garden Lanes team when it bowls on competitors' lanes.

Several weeks ago the team, captained by Bob Grenier, put together a 3485 series in the Wonderland Classic, and this week the team came right back with a 3317 count.

Showing the way this time was Johnny Ranes who opened with a perfect game and followed with counts of 258 and 194 for a 752, the highest series this week in Observerland.

Slim Freddie Ringrose, of the Koepfing team, was right behind with a 718 gained on games of 255, 227 and 236.

Aggies Edge St. Andrews

St. Agatha assured itself of a Catholic League Second Division West playoff berth with a 52-45 victory over St. Andrews.

The Aggies stand in third with a 7-4 record behind St. Alphonsus and Orchard Lake St. Mary who are tied for the No. 1 spot with 10-1 marks.

The first four in each division qualify for the playoffs... and it appears that St. Hedwig and St. Thomas will be battling it out for the No. 4 spot. Each boasts a 5-6 record.

THE AGGIES, whose basketball season resembles the likes of a "pogo stick", travel to Ann Arbor St. Thomas Friday with the final clash on the following Tuesday with OL St. Mary.

St. Agatha topped St. Andrews for the second time with 5-10 junior forward Pat Brown hitting for 27 points.

"It was the best game Brown has ever played in an Agatha uniform," said Aggies Coach Tom Sankovic.

Brown scored the first six points and Agatha jumped to a 14-10 first quarter edge. The score seasawed in the second quarter with St. Andrews capturing a 25-24 halftime lead.

Brown opened the second half with a go ahead bucket and the Aggies never dropped behind. St. Agatha outscored St. Andrews, 12-8 in the third and the Aggies led 36-33 going into the final stanza.

"We went up by as much as 11 in the fourth quarter," added Sankovic.

ST. AGATHA nipped St. Andrews, 16-12, in the final eight minutes and Coach Sankovic enjoyed one of his widest win margins... seven points.

"Most of our games have been going down to the wire, but it sure was nice to be in command the majority of the way," he said.

Brown paced all scorers with 27 followed by Tom Churches in the Aggie lineup with 11.

Jim Koterba hit for 15 for St. Andrews.

"We had our worst shooting game," added Sankovic. "We were 19 for 57 from the field and 12 of 21 from the line."

St. Agatha committed only eight turnovers to St. Andrews' 33 per cent shooting average.

ERV WATSON seems to improve with age.

The Bel-Aire veteran proved he has lost none of his old touch this week when he recorded a 739 series to lead the Classic. After posting an opening 214 he came back with a 279 and closed with 256 to take the night's top honors.

He had to be good for Andy De Camillo finished in the runner up position with a 702 that included a middle game of 268.

THERE WAS a wild scramble for scoring honors in the Garden Lanes Classic before Bob Grenier emerged the winner with a 693.

At that figure he beat out Fred McLean with a 653 while Bill Collett and Harry Topalian deadlocked for third place with 649 and Imer Santti was next in line with a 639.

Rose Aprahamian set a high mark for women in the metropolitan area when she registered a 715 series on games of 242, 247 and 226 in the All-Star Bowlerettes League.

BILL SPARGO, one of the best known bowlers in the suburban area, now is the top money winner in the Michigan Majors Association, following his second place finish in the recent tournament at Thunderbowl.

Over a five-year period he has collected $4,760.

The next event is scheduled at Mayfield Lanes Feb. 19-20.

THE SHARPSHOOTERS failed to break the 700 barrier this week in the Westland Classic.

Jerry Holt closed with games of 234 and 245 to show the way with a 673. Roger Helle tied for the runner up spot at 659 with Randy Rehandorf.

Mark Twain To Be 'At Home' Jan. 28

Tom Noel brings his highly acclaimed one-man performance of "Mark Twain at Home" to the Clarenceville High School Auditorium, 20135 Middle Belt, Livonia, on Jan. 28.

Currently on tour of college campuses across the nation, Noel has enjoyed great success portraying America's best loved humorist. His drama has been variously described as: "highpoint of an exciting year" "we actually had Mark Twain here" "Mark Twain lived on our stage" and "truly marvelous performance."

According to Noel, Mark Twain was the first swinger of the century - and he is still swinging today. He speaks to all generations, regardless of sex, of nationalities, of races, of political and religious affiliations. And he never goes out of date.

"Mark Twain at Home" is being sponsored by the Schoolcraft College Cultural and Public Affairs Committee. It will be performed at 8 p.m. Admission price is $1 for students and $2 for the general public. Tickets are on sale at the college bookstore and will be available at the door the evening of the performance.

Mail order tickets are available from the Schoolcraft College Student Activities Office, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia 48151.

THE ART DEPARTMENT at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus is a busy place, and life drawing, taught by John Davenport, head of the humanities department, is a popular course. Art Students Have Own Show

By BETTY MASSON

That there's rapport and enthusiasm among teachers and students in the art department of Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus is no accident. It's a reflection of the resurgence of interest in all forms of art.

It's also the result of careful planning by the college. It's especially noticeable these days among the students who are having their first all-student show. Works of five sculpture and ceramics students are on display in the Learning Resources Center through mid-February.

THE FIVE are Mike Dequin, who recently received an award for his sculpture, Lance Lawlor, Charles Sharbaugh, Lee Ayers and Mike DeFavro.

According to John Davenport, who was hired seven years ago to plan a program in commercial art. "We set out to develop a program that was the best possible and superior to most. We wanted our students to be able to transfer successfully to schools such as Wayne State, the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan, and not be at a disadvantage because they had not taken their first two years at these larger schools.

"We have had a great deal of success," he said. "This success is due to the quality of the faculty, the emphasis on small class size and the availability of the teachers. Teaching of art is so personal, the rapport is very critical. Our teachers have to be good artists, but first and foremost, they have to be good teachers."

This is a thing which can work two ways, according to sculptor Ted Striewski, one of the best-known teacher-artists on the campus.

Striewski gets what he calls "motivational energy" from his students. In other words, their enthusiasm is catching and vice versa. So essential is this, Striewski finds that he is able during the holidays to accomplish less and not more in creating his own art works.

BUT WITH THE students to spur him on, he has recently had pieces in the All-Michigan Exhibit in Flint, the 33rd annual exhibition of Contemporary American paintings at the Society of the Four Arts, Palm Beach, Fla., the "Silver and Gold" exhibition at Hudson's downtown, and the Middle Earth Gallery in Detroit. He was also awarded the $1,500 Zuita and Joseph James Akston Foundation Award, and is now preparing for a one-man show in Hudson's Franklin Mall store in Toledo. Another recent development is his association with a New York Gallery.

Bob Piepenburg, whose ceramics department is a busy and colorful part of the art setup, has work in the Traveling Michigan Craftsman Show and has exhibited at the Detroit Artists Market and Habitat Gallery in Dearborn, as well as the Eastern Michigan Ceramic Invitational, the Pewabic Invitational and the Michigan Craftsman Show at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Another OCC artist recently in the news is Donald Mendelson. One of his drawings was accepted for the Arrowhead National Drawing and Painting Exhibition, Duluth Art Institute, Minneapolis. He has also had a painting in the All-Michigan Art Exhibition in Flint. At OCC he teaches drawing and a course in acrylic painting.

Davenport is currently chairman of the humanities division of OCC, but still finds time to teach one course in life drawing.

THE COMMERCIAL ART course, and courses in print-making are handled by Hugh Ritchie, a former commercial artist who is completing work on a second master's degree at WSU.

Another popular teacher in the department is Kegham Tazian. A native of Lebanon, his specialty is painting and design. The school also hires part-time teachers where needed.

Enrollment figures vary from semester to semester, but Striewski now has about 100 students in his sculpture classes. Between 80 and 90 are studying ceramics with Piepenburg. Around 150 students are enrolled in drawing and painting and 150 in commercial art courses, with about 80 concentrating on design.

For those who talents are not necessarily creating works of art, a course in art history or appreciation is offered...and popular. Teacher Marilyn Finkel usually has about 210 students.

PLYMOUTH MUSICIANS Robert W. Jones and his wife, Anne, will play the harpsichord and viola da gamba when the Plymouth Symphony presents its family concert Sunday, Jan. 23, at 4 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the door of the Plymouth High School Auditorium, Joy and Canton Center Roads.

DICK BENSEK

New England baked beans are a tradition in American life. In the South and in the Caribbean, however, red beans are often served with rice. Then, of course, there is the highly seasoned chile of the southwest. In Iran, however, one of the oldest civilizations, red beans are soaked, simmered, mashed slightly, and added to onions and garlic which have been sauteed in buffalo butter--which is more delicate than cow's butter, they tell us. The beans are served with a crisp bowl of water cress and a fat pitcher of yogurt. Substitute plain cow's butter for the buffalo kind: could this ever become another American tradition?

There's no substitute for good service and food. DANISH INN, 32305 Grand River Ave., 476-5320 is well known for its excellent food, courteous personnel and charming atmosphere. We have all mixed drinks and cocktails plus an excellent wine list. Pat Flowers plays the piano Tues. thru Sat. from 8:30 PM to closing--enjoy his memorable jazz, boogie and classical music.

HELPFUL HINT: You can't slice a straight piece of bread? Keep your eye on the main piece and not on the slice you're cutting.

Picasso Film Will Open U-M Series

ANN ARBOR "Museum Without Walls," a fine arts film series produced at some of the world's greatest galleries, will open a five-week run at the University of Michigan on Jan. 31 with "Picasso: War, Peace and Love."

The series of five programs will be shown each Monday and Thursday night, at 7:30 p.m., in Rackham Lecture Hall.

Each program runs two hours. Series tickets may be purchased through the U-M Extension Service, 412 Maynard, Ann Arbor, 48104, at $10 for adults and $7 for students. Individual tickets, when available, will be sold at the box office.

The films range from an unusual study of light and movement to live sequences of Picasso displaying art never before shown to the public. Others show restoration processes used for damaged art products, innovations of Dada and the revolutionary Dadaist movement.
