City property assessments lowered for 1983

Property tax assessments in the city of Plymouth are being lowered by 2.3

percent City Manager Henry Graper told the Plymouth City Commission Monday night that residential property assessments in the city dropped from about $98.4 million in 1982 to some $95.2 million in 1983.

The result will be a loss of $52,210 in income from the property tax to the Commercial and industrial properties were not reappraised this year and an appraisal of apartments in the city is still under way, Graper said.

The total tax base of the city, when apartment appraisals are completed, is expected to reach $145 million compared to $148 million in 1982.

Earlier Great Lakes Reappraisal had been using a 24-month sales sample as a base for its work. Notices sent to homeowners earlier gave an appraised value based on the 24-month real estate sales samples.

SINCE THEN, said Treasurer/Assessor Ken Way, a 12-month sales sample study has been completed which has resulted in lower values for many properties. The new notices, reflecting the 12-month values, will be mailed out soon by the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation.

The new notices will be received by homeowners before the Board of Review meets March 8, 9, 10, 11, Way said, although homeowners may make an appointment with the Board of Review before receiving the notice.

Individual homeowners will see their values go up or down from 1982, said Graper, according to individual cirsee their property value drop from the first notice sent out and the one about to be mailed because of the difference in the 24-month and 12-month sales

In some subdivisions, said Graper, homes valued at about $80,000 in 1982 are now reflecting a value of about $73,000 because of the 12-month figures being used for the computations.

'8ut not all individual homeowners will be pleased," he cautioned.

Way noted that for Wayne County as a whole total assessments are down in COMMENTING ON Great Lakes' performance, the city manager said the reappraisal team of five individuals got inside 83 percent of the homes in the city.

When Great Lakes held its public meetings, Graper said, about 10 percent of the residents appealed their appraisals which is about the same percentage which appealed their assessments to the Board of Review in '82.

Graper said that the Board of Review this year will make appointments with residents so they won't have to wait in line results of the reappraisal, although all residents won't be. "If you feel your home still has the wrong value, you should plan to go before the Board of

This year the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation is accepting 12 month sales samples (an average of all sales in the city during the past year) as a basis for assessments, something it refused to do when municipalities overwhelmed with large numbers of appeals in 1982.

Officers fired twice at Gary Lee Willoughby as they entered his apartment, 369 W. Ann Arbor Trail, and found him armed with a gun. They later learned the gun was unloaded.

While executing a search warrant, police said Willoughby raised a .3006 rifle at an officer.

Willoughby said the gun never was raised and he surrendered to police as soon as they entered.

Willoughby originally was charged with felonious assault with a firearm, commission of a felony using a firearm, and conspiracy to commit breaking and entering.

The felonious assault and felony firearm charges were dropped during a Jan. 20 preliminary examination before 35th District Court Judge James

Willoughby was bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court on the conspiracy to commit breaking and entering charge. He pleaded guilty to a lesser charge (receiving and concealing stolen property) during a Feb. 3 arraignment. Sentencing is scheduled for March 2

Arthur Merritt of Lansing was killed when the car in which he was riding went off the road and struck a utility pole east of Lilley about 2:23 a.m. He was dead on arrival at Oakwood Hospital Canton Center, police said.

Merritt was a passenger in a 1982 Pontiac Trans-Am driven by his son, Victor Merritt, 37, of Normandy, Plymouth.

The elder Merritt's wife recently had died, and he was staying with his son in Plymouth, police said. The younger Merritt was treated at Wayne County General Hospital and released.

CANTON POLICE have filed manslaughter charges in connection with a recent, unrelated fatal car crash.

Arraigned Tuesday on a charge of manslaughter with a motor vehicle was Jeanne Koziarski, 37, of Turtlehead, Plymouth Township. She is charged in the Jan. 27 death of Lawrence Konkol, 33, of Canton, following a collision on Ford Road

According to tests, Koziarski's blood registered an alcohol content of 0.19, police said. A reading of 0.10 is legally intoxicated

Koziarski stood mute at her arraignment before 35th District Court Judge James Garber. A not-guilty plea was entered in her behalf.

Teachers fight proposed cuts in specials

By Dennis O'Connor staff writer

Principals and teachers hope to maintain art, music and physical education programs in Plymouth-Canton elementary schools.

Eliminating this service represents saving more than $450,000, according to Plymouth-Canton school officials. The administration projects a $3.5-million deficit on the district's $40-million budget for the 1983-84 school year.

Elementary school personnel do not believe this program is a "frill" to edu-

"If you cut back the arts, you are depriving our students of a well-rounded education," said Mary Martin, a music teacher at Starkweather and Far-rand Elementary School. "Art, music and PE (physical education) do make a difference in other areas of learning. I want you to understand that we are not just a frill to education.

Martin presented her arguments to board members at Monday night's workshop.

The board will decide on this issue next month, as it continues to examine different cost-cutting options. The budget must be balanced by the end of June, according to state law.

Currently, students, grades 1-6, receive one 45-minute period per week of art, music and physical education instruction. Sixth graders housed at middle schools are taught the same amount of art, music and physical education by middle school staff. Kindergarten students receive this instruction as part of their regular class day

IF THE PROGRAM is eliminated, the district would save about $459,000 with 22 fewer teachers, Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business. said. Twenty-one of the 22 elementary teachers have degrees in fine arts.

He said, however, that he believes residents stress academics more than fine arts. Both learning programs should be integrated not segmented or divorced from each other, he said.

Studies indicate fine arts help develop students' perceptual skills, said Pam Hoadley, an art teacher at Isbister and Ericksson elementaries.

Eliminating fine arts programs could limit students' abstract-thinking ability in dealing with mathematics and science theories, Hoadley said.

Expanding creativity, teaching basic skills and encouraging independent thinking are some of the goals of the program, Nichols said.

Hotel rebuilding debated what's inside

A debate continues over whether Old Village Inn can be renovated or if it must be demolished and rebuilt before it can be opened for business.

Ken West, city engineer, told the Plymouth City Commission that he believed the hotel was structually unsafe and should be rebuilt before occupied.

West said he would notify the owner this week of his decision but that an appeal could be expected. The hotel and land is zoned industrial and so is a non-conforming use, said In most cities non-conforming property cannot be rebuilt once destroyed, he said, but Plymouth's zoning ordinance does not contain that provision.

Instead the city engineer is relying on national building codes to declare the structure unsafe for occupancy.

The Old Village Inn at 886 N. Mill, owned by Eugene LaBlanc, was burned Jan. 5 in a fire which destroyed the back portion of the hotel.

WEST SAID the city has declared the building to be unsafe and is not allowing anyone to enter it without a permit from the city including a waiver of lia-"We are concerned the roof could that more than 50 percent of the building has been destroyed and does not meet code

LaBlanc disagrees, said West, and has hired two architectural firms who claim the building is less than 50 percent destroyed. "But we still think it's over 50 percent."

City Manager Henry Graper said that if necessary the city would hire an independent engineering firm to do a study on whether the hotel can be restored or not.

A letter stating the city's position will be mailed to LaBlanc this week, said West. The owner may, he said, appeal that finding to the building Board of Appeals which is made up of local architects, contractors and subcontrac-

State funding questionable

Schools examine community education financing

By Dennis O'Connor staff writer

Plymouth-Canton's community education department continues to generate sizeable profits and numerous programs for the school district.

But profits only will last as long as Plyomuth-Canton Community Schools receive financial aid from the state, according to Larry Masteller, community education director:

Initial state aid projections indicate a loss of more than $500,000 to Plymouth-Canton's program for the 1983-84 school year, Masteller said at Monday's workshop session. If Plymouth-Canton loses these revenues, then community education programs would cost the district about $200,000, Masteller said.

Gov. James Blanchard is examining cost reductions in state spending, including the $96-million budget for adult education.

Historically, community education classes produce monies that return to the district's general fund, said Masteller, who has directed the program for more than 13 years.

In 1980-81, for example, community education generated more than $460,000 to the general fund. In 1981-82, profits exceeded more than

We are very happy with this kind of ratio that we have lived with over the years," Masteller said.

But state aid decreased more than $250,000 for the 1982-83 school year, and projected profits for this year will drop to about $330,000, according to figures released Monday.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON SCHOOLS received state aid this year because of a large enrollment in community education, according to Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business. Some 1,700 students registered for classes geared to completing a high school curriculum, Hoedel said.

But the district may not receive state funding for the 1983-84 school year, even with community education enrollments.

If Plymouth-Canton does not receive state funding, Masteller urged the board to examine forming a consortium with another school district that gets state aid.

A consortium could recoup state funding and maintain a profitable com-

Last year, board members agreed to form a consortium with the Redford Union school district, contingent on large state aid reductions, Hoedel said. That plan was not implemented because Plymouth-Canton received almost $700,000 in state aid for community education.

Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

The medical job programs include dental assisting, nursing assistant and health occupations.

Other occupational programs include: distributive occupations — salesperson and store management; skills for living — commercial foods, child care, creative needle arts; office occupations — secretarial lab, clerical lab; trade and industry — secretari auto body repair, auto mechanics, construction technology, cosmetology, advanced machine shop, welding and vocational design.

THESE PROGRAMS are highlighted this week because it is Michigan Vocational Education Week.

The nursing assistant program, led by instructor Kathy McFall in Plymouth Canton High School, is for students interested in training for work in health facilities such as hospitals, convalescent centers and doctor's offices. Vocational technician Claire Hall works with McFall in the program.

Nursing assistant students are eligible for co-op placement either during or upon completion of their training. A trainee enrolled in a cooperative program divides his/her time between school and a part-time job. His school schedule includes a hal-anced combination of subjects required for graduation and subjects related to his job activities.

The dental assistant program prepares the student for employment as a dental assistant in a private office or clinic and also serves as an introduction to the careers of dentistry, dental hygienist or dental lab technician.

Mack fails to aid Lucas in 3 county board issues

By Tim Richard staff writer

Freshman Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, failed three times last week in attempts to do favors for County Executive William Lucas.

One of Mack's lost efforts caused Lucas to use his veto power against the Wayne County Board of Commissioners for the first time.

"He's the administration's man on the floor," 12year veteran Commissioner Richard Manning, D-Redford, said of Mack. "If he thinks he isn't viewed that way, he's crazy.'

Mack carried the ball for Lucas on three issues: 1) the legislative auditor general, 2) attorney Dennis Nystrom's legal bills and 3) an effort to cut the board's own staffing. Lucas himself does not usually attend commission meetings.

LUCAS FRIDAY vetoed an ordinance creating the office of legislative auditor general. His veto message was to be taken up by the commission today. The commission may either adopt Lucas's proposed amendments or try to override his veto by a two-thirds vote.

Commissioners were upset with Lucas's objections to the auditor general ordinance because he waited until Feb. 3 to complain about an action they had taken Jan. 20.

Mack broke the news Thursday that Lucas was unhappy with the ordinance, and that if the commission failed to make his suggested amendments, the executive might have to veto it.

"The board can't touch the ordinance during a veto (waiting) period," said attorney George Cross, former corporation counsel and legislative research chief for the commission. "The board has taken its final action," added

Commissioner Mary Dumas, R-Livonia. "It's up to the chief executive to veto it or let it become law without his signature." With that, the commission voted 10-4 to reject

Mack's motion to consider Lucas's suggestions. Of western suburban commissioners, only Mack sup-

THE AMENDMENTS suggested by Lucas would delete many of the specific powers of a legislative

The executive would drop the requirement that audits be performed "at least once every two years."

Lucas would eliminate the requirement that the chief financial officer (who reports to the executive) report to the auditor on the status of recommendations which aren't put into effect.

Finally, Lucas would drop the requirement that the auditor general "determine the validity of" all claims against the county "as received from the chief executive." This objection is a potential political time bomb because of the $269,000 legal bill Lucas submitted on behalf of his attorney, Nystrom, now chief of staff of his transition team.

IN FACP, Mack felt the wrath of his commission colleagues when he tried to push handling of Nystrom's legal bill.

Mack proposed sending it to committee of the whole (all 15 board members), bypassing the three-member public safety and judiciary committee. His motion was defeated by a chorus of "nay" votes, without a roll call.

"There would be more frank discussion, less formality," said Mack, admitting such a procedure would be "unusual."

"I am particularly disappointed Commissioner Mack would make such a recommendation," said Commissioner John Hertel, D-Harper Woods, chair of the public safety and judiciary committee. "Don't go around committees. I don't think any of us wants to be gone around."

"I did not intend to offend Commissioner Hertel," Mack apologized.

Over a two-year period, Nystrom represented both Lucas as sheriff and the deputies' union in a suit against the county. Lucas and the deputies lost. As county executive, Lucas has proposed dropping the case in the Court of Appeals if the county will pay Nystrom's legal bill.

Lucas's proposal was scheduled to be taken up this week by Hertel's committee, where, Mack admitted, it would likely get a cool reception.

MACK AND Commissioner Arthur Carter, D-Detroit, were in the minority when the commission gave 12-2 approval to a resolution setting up its

The bone of contention was whether each commissioner should be authorized $12,500 for six months to hire a legislative aide.

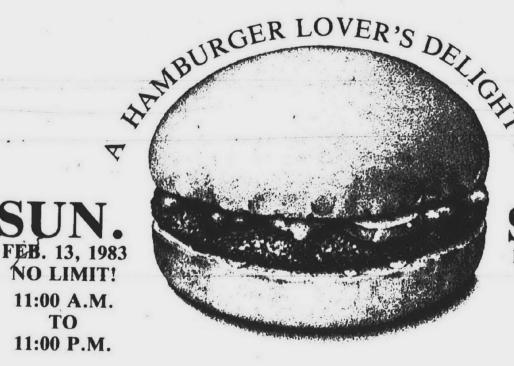

"The county's financial position can't justify our hiring aides," said Mack. "It's inappropriate to hire aides in a financial crisis.' Commissioner Joseph Jurkiewicz, D-Taylor, disagreed, pointing out the board's entire staffing amounted to $1.5 million, or 0.5 percent of the $283 million total budget. "We're supposed to be the balance of power (to the executive). We're not really luxurious. Some people are spending too much money, but it's not the county commission," said Jurkewicz.

A LAWSUIT was filed against Milliken, and now must be defended by Blanchard, said Graper, on the refusal to return revenues to cities and townships as mandated. The case is heading toward the Michigan Supreme Court,

Graper said that when Blanchard proposed the income tax increase the governor estimated the state's deficit at $900 million but this week the deficit has been identified as being $655 mil-

"State taxation is going to support more and more bad habits," said the city manager, adding that a number of cuts can be made yet before a tax increase can be justified.

Graper said that if a tax increase is needed he believed a more fair tax would be an increase in the sales tax.

Library offenders to be fined

From now on second notices sent to library patrons with overdue books from the Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library also will include a warning about enforcement.

The community's "Failure to Return" ordinances, which took effect in the city and township of Plymouth in June 1982, make it illegal to keep materials checked out from the public li-

Only about one percent of the books checked out from the Plymouth Library are not returned. However the specific books lost cut deeply into the library's services, says Director Patricia Thomas, because they often are

County loses some $93,000 in state grant revenues staff writer

Wayne County law enforcement officers may not be able to get as tough with drunk drivers as they had hoped because statistics indicate that drunk driving in this county is not as prevalent as in other Michigan counties.

Due to the statistics, state officials have eliminated all but $3,000 of a $96,000 grant which the Downriver and Western Wayne County Traffic Officers Association attempted to secure to fund a program in conjunction with ichigan's new drunk driving law.

In terms of alcohol-related accidents, statistics compiled by the Michigan Department of Highway and Safety Planning rank Wayne County 36th among the 83 counties in the state, according to Capt. Harmon Agar, of the Dearborn Heights Police Department traffic division.

"I was told recently by a representative of the highway and safety planning department that Wayne County's ranking may be too high for county police agencies to qualify for state grant money in the battle against drunk drivers, Agar said. He is also member of the Downriver and Western Wayne County Traffic Officers Association.

IN PREPARING to enforce the new drunk driving law scheduled to take effect April 1, the traffic officers association had planned a police training and saturation patrol to look only for drunk

However, county law enforcement officials are now concerned that loss of the grant money will inwart police efforts to crack down on drunk drivers.

"Part of the $96,000 in grant money

the county traffic officers association expected to receive was to be spent for the purchase of preliminay breath test-ing (PBT) devices that law enforcement officers could use at roadside to get an immediate reading of the alco-hol content in a person's blood stream,"

The change in the law that allows use of such devices is expected to increase the number of drunk driving arrests, but local police departments will now be on their own in financing such equipment. Each unit costs about $350.

"Studies have shown that police officers arrest the severely drunk drivers. but rarely arrest the borderline drunk drivers," Agar said. "Police tend to arrest the motorist they know is drunk, such as one who is driving erratically and has other obvious signs of being drunk - slurred speech and alcoholic odor. But no officer wants to make a

"CONSEQUENTLY, IT is likely a borderline drunk, who may be able to drive fairly well and pass the police officer's field sobriety test at roadside, will not be arrested," Agar said. "I think the absence of PBT equipment in police cars extremely hinders police efforts to carry out the intent of the new drunk driving law."

The new act allows roadside use of the PBT devices by police in contrast to the current law that allows police use of a breathalyzer to record blood alcohol content only in police posts.

Under the new law, results of PBT testing can't be used as evidence, but it can be used for validating arrests and refusal to submit to a PBT will result The grant money also would have funded a police alcohol training program that can help police detect a drunk driver, according to Robert De-Corte, a traffic engineer for Michigan AAA in Dearborn, who assisted the traffic officers association in the grant

"I understand that 20 or 25 counties received approval for state grant mon-ey," he said. "The ranking is based on alcohol-related traffic accidents per one million miles traveled. I don't know if there's a problem with that formula or with some police in completing accident report forms, but I got to believe Wayne County has more drunk drivers and more alcohol-related traffic accidents than the statistics indicate simply because of the shear volume of motorists traveling Wayne County roads.

"IT'S IRRITATING to lose the grant money when we've already got a program in place to be funded by that money," he said. "All the state will pick up is the cost of a March 16 seminar that will include dinner, slide and lecture presentations on alcohol-related issues and enforcement. Local police agencies could seek funding for the PBT units through local service club organizations as an alternative to the state financing.

Some police officials believe that not all officers are indicating, by checking the appropriate box on the traffic accident report forms, whether anyone in-volved in the accident had been drink-

Redford Police Chief Michael Manoog said either some officers are not checking the alcohol box or Wayne County doesn't have a drunk driving

HAVE YOU

HEARD ABOUT...

"I don't believe the latter is true," he said. "During the first six months of last year in Redford, our officers recorded more than 200 traffic accidents in which someone involved had been drinking. Other police departments in our area recorded as many as 300 such accidents. And Michigan State Police troopers have recorded more than double the number of such accidents than recorded by local departments; although they are on the road much more

"I would like to have had a PBT unit in every one of my patrol cars," said Manoog. "But they're expensive and don't know how many, if any, we'll be able to afford. And other communities in the county are experiencing the same financial problems as is Red

Township eyes new zoning code

Plymouth Township officials will scrutinize a proposed zoning ordi-nance at a joint study session next

The ordinance, more than two years in the making, will be discussed at a March 1 combined meeting of the township board, planning commission and board of appeals.

The last revision of the current zoning ordinance was completed in 1975, according to Richard Gornick, chairman of the planning commission. -

Gornick gave the township board a brief overview of changes in the document Tuesday night. The planning commission was responsible for writing the proposed ordinance.

The new ordinance was written for two or three paramount purposes," he said. Those reasons include:

 Recent passage of state legislation which affects a local government's authority and practices in ruling over land use

• Reoccurring problems at the board of appeals.

ssment of the "practical reality" of the current ordinance's application.

The new ordinance strengthens the correlation of the township's future land use plan and the zoning ordinance, Gornick said.

Such action could protect the township from possible zoning litigation in the future, he said.

"The basic zoning districts have remained substantially the same." However, some work has been done on the zoning of mobile homes. Zoning terms regarding "conditional uses" have been changed to read "uses subject to special conditions,"

This change complies with state laws regarding the zoning of mobile homes, but "still has all the safeguards that are important to the

The mobile home section incorporates recent court decisions, including such things as appearance.

The proposed document contains a section on flood-drain districts and 'spells out what has to be done in a flood plain," Gornick said. Another section "explains in greater detail" what can be done with corner house lots.

The planning commission has "lib-eralized" some parking requirements by dropping the number of parking spaces required for certain size lots.

The commission also hopes to alleviate some board of appeal problems concerning air conditioning units by spelling out requirements for their placement.

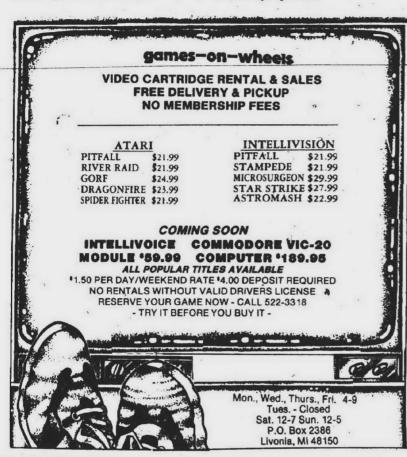

Other sections of the new ordinance, such as landfills, signs and mid-rises, leave the current zoning codes in place.

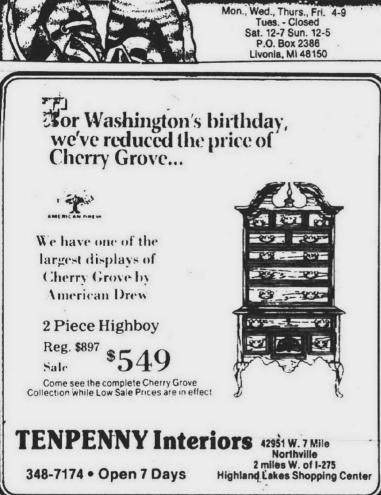

Supervisor Maurice Breen told the trustees to carefully study the administrative parts of the ordinance and make any suggestions at the joint study session.

At least four of the board members have worked with the planning commission They include Breen, and trustees Lee Fidge, Smith Horton and Barbara J.ynch.

The zoning ordinance usually is updated every 10 years, according to Gornick.

Lucas requests 1-mill county tax renewal

Wayne County property owners will be asked to renew a one-mill tax that is due to expire after next December in order to keep county government

County Executive William Lucas said the mill, which yields $18.3 million a year, "must be renewed."

Otherwise, Lucas said in his first state of the county address, he wants no new taxes and expects no additional revenue from the state or federal govon in 1984. For a house priced at $60,000, it would cost $30 a year.

'We must be prepared to deal with our problems ourselves. We cannot expect massive bailouts from other people in the state," said the former sher-iff who on Jan. 1 became Mikhigan's first county executive under a homerule charter.

LUCAS DEVOTED most of his address to the county's massive fiscal problems. He repeatedly expressed disappointment that his administration is unable to reach agreement with county unions on economic concessions and new work rules.

He was asked at a news conference afterwards to respond to criticism that he wasn't setting a good example by using a chauffeur and limousine at taxpayer expense.

Lucas said "those criticisms are unounded. The average citizen expects that I will have the accourrements of the office. They don't expect me to ride

BESIDES THE one-mill tax renewal, Lucas's plans for facing the $331 mil-lion deficit contained these five points:

• The Michigan Legislature will be asked to "eliminate expensive and re-strictive legislation which binds our hands." He cited a court decision to impose $5.4 million in fees for representing indigents and a law imposing $28 million in indigent medical care costs on county government. He called them "decisions which unilaterally impose the state's financial problems back onto local units of government."

• Later this week he will propose a study to "develop the alternatives for the county to discontinue operation of Wayne County General Hospital" while meeting charter obligations to provide a medical "facility." But Lucas warned hospital employees unions "there should be no mistake - Wayne County will not operate that facility at a loss."

· Also this week he will propose that a consulting team familiar with information processing update all computer and word processing systems.

 Within 30 days, he will propose a plan for large savings on insurance. The county has been managing millions of dollars worth of property and insuring 5,000 employees for health care, liability problems, workmen's compensation, and so forth, without the advantage of experienced insurance

• He asked citizens to "volunteer for the new programs in our parks, in our senior citizens programs" and other county programs.

LUCAS PLACED the county's red ink at $331 million - a larger deficit, for its relative size, than the state's. The various deficits, he said, are:

Mental health department blisters state budget cuts

The Mental Health Association in Michigan last week warned that Gov. James Blanchard's proposed budget cuts of $18 million for the Department of Mental Health (DMH) "will ensure the demise of the mental-health system as Michigan has known it.

"DMH has already suffered a multitude of budget cuts resulting in drastic reductions in mental-health personnel and services in both institution and community settings," the group's board of directors said in a statement released through its public relations

Founded by Clifford Beers, a person suffering from mental illness, the Mental Health Association is a nationwide advocacy organization that works to bring about change beneficial to the mentally ill.

THE STATEMENT also said: "In addition, as hospital staff-to-patient ra-

RV dealers try to change minds at Camper Show

outdoors writer

Recreation vehicle manufacturers and dealers will be trying to change some attitudes about RVs at the Detroit Camper and Travel Trailer Show which starts Friday for a 10-day run at the W. Eight Mile Armory in Oak Park.

They will be trying to convert critics who believe RVs are too expensive, get poor mileage and aren't used enough to justify their purchase. The manufacturers are asking the public to consider these points:

 Nearly 80 percent of all new RVs sell for less than $12,000. New travel trailers, which are the best selling type of RV on the market, average approximately $9,000. Folding camping trailers sell for an average of $3,000.

· Campgrounds are usually at least three to four times cheaper than staying in a motel or hotel. Some public campgrounds charge no fees.

• RV owners use their RVs an average of 23 days a year, and more than 25 percent of all RV owners use their vehicles one to four months a year, according to a University of Michigan study. The study said "the fear of nonusage is extremely ill-founded.

· Manufacturers have increased the fuel efficiency of motorized RVs over the last three years. Most of today's motorhomes, including the biggest, can get 10 to 15 mpg, and there are compact motorhomes on the market that can get more than 20 mpg.

THE U-M study, in which 1,500 telenone interviews were conducted, showed that nearly two-thirds of the heads of all U.S. households believe that "camping is the best vacation a family can take."

Nearly two-thirds of all families said they've been camping sometime in their lives, including 57 percent who said they've taken at least one camping trip in the past three years.

The survey showed that camping will likely increase. The median number of camping trips expected to be taken by active campers in the next three years is 4.5, compared to 3.5 over the past three years. And recreation vehicles are peceived to be a good value in the eyes of a majority of the families inter-

Asked to compare RVs with "other ways people spend their money," more than half of the respondents said they believe RVs give as much or more value for the money, while one-third said less value. Twenty-five percent said RVs give more value.

The percentage of respondents who say RVs give more value than other products is more than twice as high as the porportion of respondents who now own an RV," the survey said. "This indicates that the RV market is far from saturated.

THE DETROIT SHOW is the largest in the country and will include vans, motorhomes, travel trailers, pop-up tent campers and truck campers. Hitches, awnings, steps and porches, toilets, suspension systems, heaters and air conditioners will be among the accessories shown.

SHIP AHOY. The Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 12-5 will offer its Boating Skills course starting next Feb. 15 at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty,

The 10-week classes runs from 7:30-9:30 p.m. for 10 Tuesdays in room F-530 of the Forum Building.

For the first meeting, arrive a few minutes early to register and pick up materials. The class is free, but a small fee will be charged for materials.

Boat handling, legal requirements, rules of the water, aids to navigation, marlenspike seamanship, weather, marine radio, marine engines and the use of compass and charts will be covered.

The class will be taught by Jon P. Adams, retired dean of applied sciences at Schoolcraft. A Coast Guard certificate will be issued upon passing a final exam.

ANGLERS are reminded that Brest Bay in Lake Erie has unsafe ice. In bays where ice is safe, good catches of perch are being taken, such as inside the "banana" at the Pte. Mouillee State Game Area in Monroe County.

In Oakland County, panfish are being taken in Gerundegut Bay in Cass Lake, Lake Louise, Maceday, Square and White lakes.

Crappies are being caught in Lake Sherwood and in Gerundegut Bay of Cass Lake. Best baits are minnows for the crappies and chub for the pike.

Cedar Island and Oxbow lakes are also reporting good panfish catches. Bluegills are being caught on Kent lake using mousies or waxworms. And large pike are being taken on suckers in Union Lake. A 34-incher pike was caught there recently.

The DNR also reports that pike spearing has been good on Elizabeth, Big Seven and Cass lakes in Oakland County. If your pike decoy is attached to a line that has a barbed hook, it is considered a a fishing line.

Pontiac Lake is producing nice-sized perch - a 13-incher was taken out of that lake last weekend. Try using minnows or waxworms for bait.

HUNTERS are having some success on rabbits, but weather has been uncooperative with little snow in the field.

Application for the spring turkey hunt are available at licensed dealers as well as the DNR District Office. You have until Tuesday to return the application to Lansing. Fees are $7.25 and $1 for persons over 65.

There is still a week left in the extended goose season in southeastern Michigan. It closes Tuesday. Two surveys are being conducted this season by the DNR. One is for biological information - collecting parts of geese - and the other is for the hunter to describe his hunting experience - amount of time spent hunting, success, number of geese seen. Details can be obtained by calling the district headquarters at 666-

Do you feel powerless about your property taxes? If you've bought into the notion that you can't fight city hall, ead this carefully.

The appeal process has been estabished and refined as a part of Michigan citizens' assurance that the state's ax system will operate in a fair and equitable manner. The appeals process epresents a safety valve for property wners and it is your right to take adantage of it.

The process is not difficult if you ake the time to properly gather the acts, and then arrange them for presntation in an organized manner.

What Can I Do About My Property

You have the right to appeal your roperty tax assessment. Although this right entails some responsibilities on your part, you should understand your rights and take advantage of them if circumstances of your case provide a basis for appeal.

I think my property taxes are too high, and they are going up all the time is that a good basis for appeal? Not taken by itself ..

Of course, every citizen who brings an appeal does so to get the tax assessment lowered, but a successful appeal must be based on the validity of your tax assessment. You must be able to of your porperty's actual market value. show that the assessor's judgment of

The assessor may have valued your home way above the actual market value, the valuation may be above that of identical or similar houses in the area or there may have been inaccuracies in the structural appraisal on the

It's also possible there may have been an error in the computation of the assessment. An individual tax bill is computed by multiplying the assessed valuation times the local tax rate.

The tax rate is often referred to as the millage because it is expressed in mills. A one-mill tax means you pay $1 in tax for every $1,000 worth of property to which it applies.

For example, if your property is valued at $10,000 and the tax rate is 50 mills, your tax will be $500 ($10,00 X .050) or $50 for every $1,000 of property value ($50 x10).

What makes up an accurate appra-

The factors which are considered are the age, size, and type of construction of the house, the number of rooms, the size of the lot, the neighborhood in which the house is located and the usual selling price for properties with similiar characteristics.

how do I determine if the appraisal on my property is accurate?

The first point for you to determine is the actual market value, or "true cash value," of your property, then compare that figure with the assessor's judgment of the valuation.

The State Equalized Valuation, listed on all property tax statements or bills, and on notices of assessment increases, is 50 percent of the assessor's judgment

If you recently bought your home for the value of your property was in error. less than the value placed on it by the assessor, that is the clearest evidence that the actual market value is lower

If you have owned your property for some time and your own estimate of your property's value is lower than the assessed value, you can build a case by showing that similar homes in your area are selling for less than the assessor's value on your home.

A cooperative real estate agent or loan officer at a financial institution where you do business may be able to help you find the recent sales price for houses that are comparable to yours in size, construction, age, location, style,

Some real estate firms may be willing to provide an estimate of the market value of your home for a fee, or perhaps at no charge.

A professional appraisal of your property would probably carry the most weight on an appeal, but because there is some expense involved, you might want to reserve this option only for situations where you think there may be a large tax savings resulting from the appeal.

For example, if your assessed valuation is reduced by $1,000 and the tax rate is $50 per $1,000 (50 mills), your tax savings would be $50 for one year. Since a complete property appraisal might cost several times as much as the savings, it probably wouldn't be worth the expense.

What other inaccuracies should I look for?

Assessors occasionally make mistakes in recording the structural features of your house. Property tax records are public information and Michigan law requires that records of your appraisal be made available to you upon request from your assessor's off-

You should check to make sure that the recorded dimensions of the house and the lot are correct. The appraisal worksheet may have missed defects that might tend to reduce the house's value, such as settling or shifting on the foundation. Unfinished attics and basements might also be misrepresented in the record's description of rooms.

Remember that normal maintenance and repair factors are not considered structural features which would affect the assessed value of the property.

So if you don't repaint your house for a number of years, you can't hold that its value has decreased and have your assessment lowered.

If I do a good job of keeping my property up, will that be used as a basis to increase my tax assessment?

Generally, it would not. Normal repairs, replacement and maitenance cannot be considered by assessors in determining the cash value of your home, particularly when repairs are done using like materials.

If you are concerned that some work you have done on your home might be considered as increasing its cash value assessment, you may want to file Form L-4293, "Request for Nonconsideration of Normal Repair Maintenance," with your local tax assessor's office early in the tax year.

The form can be obtained from your assessor's office.

No one has been to my home for appraisal purposes in a long time, so how can my assessment keep changing?

Most of the changes in the assessments only reflect inflation in the housing market.

The assessor's office makes a direct appraisal of all properties only periodically and on only a small portion of all ments each year. Studies of property sales in the neighborhood or locality are often used to establish a basis for assigning a value to all properties.

If the assessor's office has not directly inspected your property recently, the assessment is generally made on the basis of their judgment of its value, based on the information they collect about each neighborhood.

That's why it's particularly important for you to double-check the appraisal records from your assessor's office when you are preparing your appeal. You may find that the assessor's appraisal was based on assumptions which you can easily prove are false and would weigh in your favor with the board of review.

What procedure do I use for bringing

Gather the facts along the lines listed above. You should be able to provide documentation of comparable housing sold at lower prices than your appraisal, or of appraisals you received through a private firm.

Before a formal appeal you should discuss your valuation with your assessor. Upon presentation of your facts. some assessors may be willing to adjust your appraisal, thereby saving you and themselves the nuisance of a formal protest to the local board of re-

If you find you must proceed through the formal appeal process, it is crucial that you observe the relevant deadlines. Each township and city has a functioning board of review, and all boards meet sometime between the first week in March and the first week

If your protest is 'not filed by this time, you will miss the opportunity to reduce the amount of tax you would have to pay for the entire year. So call your city or township assessor's office early in the year if you think you may want to file an appeal.

NOTE: Some localities, such as Detroit, require a protest to an assessor's review before a protest may be filed with the board of review.

By law, your assessment office must furnish you with the forms necessary to present the appeal. It is generally a good idea to ask any questions you have about the form and be sure you understand just what information you are required to supply before you leave the office. Look over the forms to be sure you don't leave any questions

Can the board of review's decision be appealed?

If you receive a judgment from your board of review that you find unsatisfactory, it is not the final step open to you. You can appeal further to the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

This body, established by the Tax Tribunal Act of 1973, operates independently of the state Tax Commission to hear appeals from judgments of the local boards of review.

You cannot take your appeal before the Tax Tribunal unless you have first protested through the board of review appeal process

If you wish to petition the Tax Tribunal concerning the decision rendered by the board of review on your protest, you must do so by the end of June during the year in which you initiated the appeal. Its address is: Tax Tribunal, Logan Center, 3222 S. Logan, P.O. Box 30232, Lansing 48909; telephone, (517)

SC has 6 workshops to help 70 unemployed

Schoolcraft College will offer free workshops to help unemployed workers make decisions about career changes.

The workshops are being offered because the college wants to become a support center for the unemployed, according to Barbara Geil, vice-president of student affairs.

Last month, a group of unemployed persons were surveyed to identify their personal and family needs, said John Webber, director of counseling ser-

From this information, he said, six seminars will be developed for presentation on three nights - Feb. 16, 23 and March 2

The workshops will run from 6-9 p.m. in Room B-200 of the Liberal Arts Building of the college, located on Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile

TWO SEMINARS - "Strategies for Career Planning" and "Creative Job Search" - will be presented Feb. 16 by counselors Gary Hershoren, William Heise and John Witten. Resume writing and effective interviewing will be cov-

"Emerging Occupations" - about current and future job opportunities and "Repackaging Your Job Skills" focusing on new approaches to job selection - are topics to be discussed Feb. 23. Saundra Florek and James Sylvester of the counseling staff will present the first topic, and Lowell Cook, cooperative training instructor,

A representative from the social service department of Michigan Employment Security Commission and John Coomey, director of financial aid at Schoolcraft, will speak on "Financial Survival for the Unemployed" March 2. An attorney will discuss "Legal Issues for the Unemployed" during the second session that day.

Registration information is available from the college, 591-6400, ext. 312. Enrollment is limited to 70 persons.

Pinkertons: America's 1st sleuths

When Allan Pinkerton began his professional career, local police forces

"Who are those guys?" Paul New-man and Robert Redford kept asking of the dogged pursuers trailing them after a robbery in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

"Those guys" were Pinkerton detec-tives, and as Butch and Sundance were to find out, the Pinkertons live up to their motto: "We Never Sleep."

Butch and Sundance, members of the Wild Bunch, eventually headed for Argentina to continue their bank robbing. In 1909 reportedly they died in a shootout with a cavalry troop at San Vincente, Bolivia.

Before he founded Pinkerton's National Detective Agency, Allan Pinkerton might have fit right in with some of the characters of the Wild Bunch. As a young man in Scotland during the tumultuous Industrial Revolution, Pinkerton was considered a rogue, an enemy of established society.

He was among the more radical adherents of a reformist movement which advocated violence, if necessary, to democratize Parliament. A warrant was issued for his arrest, and in 1843 Pinkerton headed for America.

Upon arrival, Pinkerton apparently forgot his unconventional past and established himself in Dundee, Ill. as a barrel manufacturer. This innocuous profession led to a flowering of his hidden investigative instincts.

One day, while collecting staves for his cooper trade on an uninhabited island in a nearby river, Pinkerton discovered the remains of a fire. Convinced something strange was going on, he returned late one night with the county sheriff and spied figures there silhouetted in the dark. They turned out to be coin counterfeiters.

THUS BEGAN Pinkerton's nearly 40 years of checkmating shady capers. He died in 1884, but his sons, Robert and William, who started working with the agency as teen-agers, kept the business

In the wake of his Dundee success, "I suddenly found myself called upon from every quarter to undertake matters requiring detective skill," Pinkerton said years later. In 1848, he readily accepted when the sheriff of Cook County asked him to come to Chicago to serve as deputy. A year later, he was appointed Chicago's first full-time de-

Pinkerton's talents seemed to demand an arena of operation that was larger. In 1850, he gave up his job on the city force to establish his own pri-

One of the first of its kind in the country, the new enterprise thrived from the start. In 1856, having signed lucrative contracts to protect the property of several Midwestern railroads with with requests for his services growing daily, he wrote to a friend in Dundee: "I am overwhelmed with busi-

TODAY, PINKERTON'S is headquartered in New York City, with a staff of 36,000 around the world, providing security and investigative services on a private contract basis. As in the past, agents often make citizen's arrests, holding suspects in custody until authorities arrive.

When Allan Pinkerton began his professional career, local police forces were often corrupt, usually understaffed and less than efficient. They had neither the resources nor the will to pursue criminals outside their assigned districts. What's more, the western frontier was wide open.

The Pinkertons, ready and willing, stepped into the gap, pursued criminals otherwise forgotten and gathered material on nefarious activities across the country, becoming a national clearing-house of sorts on illegal activities.

THEY WERE ALSO doggedly patient. Take the case of Max Shinburn, skilled bank robber of the Eastern seaboard. By the time he turned 30 in 1870, Shinburn had become an expert safe cracker, even devising a set of tools specifically for opening safes. The Pinkertons and the police relentlessly trailed Shinburn. So he moved to Belgium, establishing himself as a respectable, prosperous silk entrepreneur and self-proclaimed nobleman.

Shinburn's attempts at the straight life soon failed. His investments turned sour, and he returned to his old lifestyle in the states. The Pinkertons had him arrested for theft in New York, and, after serving time, the ex-convict wound up poor and alone.

William Pinkerton did not forget him. He asked Shinburn to describe some of his techniques, and Shinburn obliged with an intricate and carefully planned diagram on the art of safecracking.

The Pinkertons were even sought out by crooks in trouble. Such a man was Adam Worth, whose career was studded with diamond heists, forgery operations and bank robberies and was crowned in 1876 by the theft of Thomas Gainsborough's priceless portrait of the Duchess of Devonshire.

Worth had hoped to use the painting as ransom to spring a buddy from jail, but the friend was released before Worth could act.

The painting was too hot to sell, and Worth, afraid to return it lest he be caught, simply rolled up the canvas and shipped it to a warehouse in America, where it remained for more than

Then, aging and poor, Worth contacted the Pinkertons and offered to return the painting for cash. William Pinkerton paid the requested sum, but doubtless felt he had gotten the better of the dal. Not only did Worth return the portrait he also recounted the details of his biggest exploits and confessed to crimes of which he had never been sus-

IN THOSE GOOD old days, there were few top-flight women crooks to challenge the Pinkertons. One was Sophie Lyons, described by admirers as the international "Queen of the Un-

Jesse James (standing) and brother Frank terrorized the Midwest, looting bank safes and robbing trains. In the cartoon below, Oliver Perry, described by Pinkerton's as "one of the nerviest outlaws," is depicted in his last train robbery in New York in 1892. Atop a moving train, an upside-down Perry tried to steal gold and jewels said to be aboard.

derworld." Born in 1850, Lyons learned the art of picking pockets by the age of 6 and went on to bigger and more ingenious exploits. In the 1880s, posing as a prominent society woman, she head-ed for Paris and there was able to steal more than $200,000 worth of jewelry from her new-found upper-crust

LYONS ALSO MADE an attempt to lead a straight life. In 1894, she became proprietor of the Great Western Matri-monial Bureau in Detroit. "She claims she has settled down. . . If so, she ought to be encouraged," William Pinkerton wrote in an office memo.

The straight life didn't last. Within a short time.

short time, Lyons was under investiga-tion for mail fraud.

The Pinkertons began expanding their horizons then. By the 1870s, their beat included the territories of the frontier West. The Pinkerton name became so entwined with the gun-slinging the good guys from the adventures of

The Wild Bunch the band of bank robbers who traveled from Montana to Texas to New York City to the jungles of South America, topped the Pinkertons most-wanted list. Most sought-after were the ringleaders, George Par-ker (alias Butch Cassidy) and Harry Longbaugh (alias the Sundance Kid).

After robbing $30,000 from Union Pacific's Overland Flyer in 1899, the Wild Bunch was trailed closely by the Pinkertons. But other robberies followed, each more lucrative than the one before it. In 1900 and 1901, the bandits lifted $32,640 from a Nevada bank and stole $41,500 in banknotes from a Great Northern train near Wagner, Mont. — big sums in those days. This last robbery put a posse of 100 men on their trails, and the Wild Bunch disbanded.

The Pinkertons were not perfect. History-minded trade unionists still bristle over thier controversial role in bloody 19th-century union-industry clashes, and Civil War buffs argue about the value of Allan Pinkerton's intelligence advice to the Union Army.

But Allan Pinkerton and his sons did secure a place for themselves in the folklore of good vs. bad guys. Long before the FBI and Interpol, they spanned the continents in pursuit of their anti-crime motto: "We never sleep."

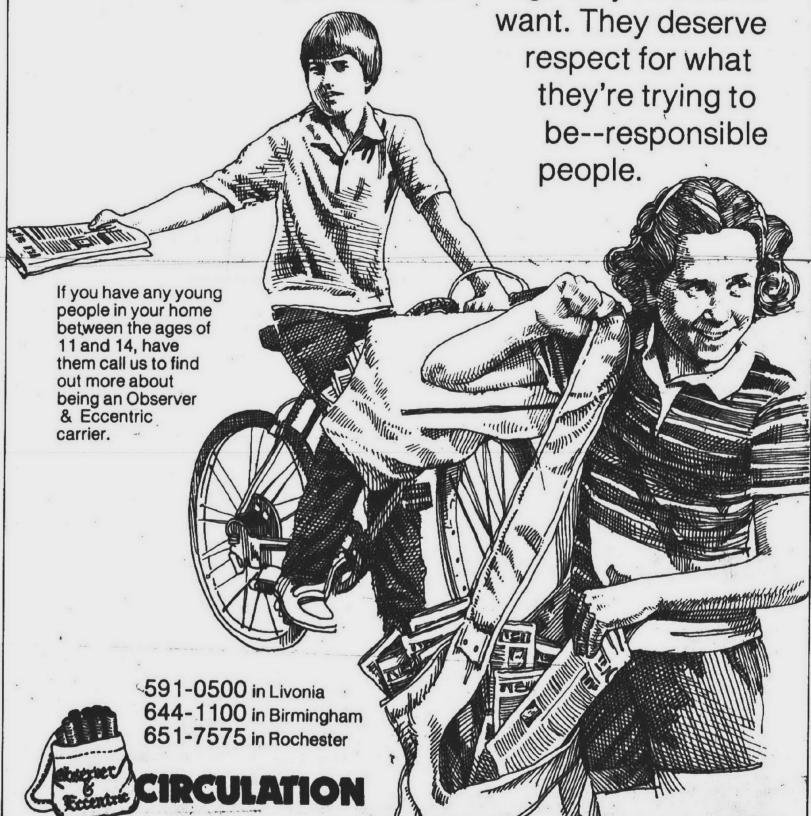

The Wild Bunch always managed to evade the Pinkerton's, but it is thought that the Pinkerton's pursuit led to the disbanding of the gang. Standing are William Carver and Harvey Logan. Seated (from left) are Harry Longbaugh (Sundance Kid), Ben Kilpatrick and George Parker (Butch Cassidy).

Computer camp for kids will be this summer

Most kids going camping this sum-mer probably wouldn't think of packing a computer along with their sleeping as, but that in a sense is what's on the program at a new computer camp nized by several Southfield resi-

"We think of it as a combination oldfashioned camp with a high-technology curriculum," said Gene Prandine, president of University Computer Camps Inc. "The kids get a chance to study hard and to play hard at the same

Developed in cooperation with Wayne State University (WSU), *the University Computer Camp is located on 80 wooded acres surrounding Pero Lake in Lapeer. It is one of a growing number of computer camps being offered by companies and organizations.

The camp, which features a number of cabins, a community center and facilities for sports activities, formerly was owned by the Mott Foundation. Prandine bought the camp two years ago with the idea of merging nature and technology to create an educational experience for young people.

"I think I just realized the importance of our future for kids and computers," he said, noting that he had no prior experience with computers before setting up the camp.

Prandine is depending on the computing talents of John S. Camp to guide the two-week sessions, which will be offered from mid-June through late August. Another Southfield resident, Camp is a professor of Mathematics Education and Instructional Technology at: WSU, He'll be working with a staff of six WSU instructors at the camp, as well as instructors drawn from Lapeer's school district.

IN ITS FIRST YEAR of operation, the camp will feature computer applications in programming, robotics, music, graphic arts, word processing and special projects. Young people attending the camp will spend their first week learning a smattering of each application, with the second week spent on specializing in one activity.

The camp will offer approximately $100,000 in computers, printers, robots, models, word processors, speakers, voice synthesizers and amplifiers. The backbone of the computer hardware is a collection of 35 Apple II E terminals. The robotics segment will offer the resources of a new Hero I robot made by Prandine said that he's been working for the past year-and-a-half on the camp with the provent of WSU. Last. year, the university approved a $181,000 contract with his firm to develop the program over the course of the next five years.

According to camp coordinator Lynn McCabe of Southfield, the only eligibili-ty requirement for the camp will be age — campers must be ages 9-18. Campers may enroll for one two-week session or for the entire summer.

"If someone wanted to attend for the entire summer, it would still be a chal-lenging experience with many possibil-ities for advancement," McCabe said.

THE PRICE TAG for two weeks at computer camp might put some parents off from urging additional sessions, however. The first session costs $795 per camper, with each additional session costing $750.

For the money, each camper receives four hours of supervised computer time per day plus three hours of planted recreation. Recreation for planned recreation: Recreation for boys and girls includes swimming, ten-nis, volleyball, fishing, softball, hiking, crafts, basketball, boating and socoer. The program will include the teaching of programming skills in languages such as Logo, Pascal and BASIC. puter and how computers are used in a variety of fields.

Campers who really want to dig into the program's software may spend as much as 6.5 hours per day at the termi-nals, if they wish. Also distributed throughout the day are two-and a-half hours of free time.

Persons interested in further in mation on the camp can write to University Computer Camp Associates, 2480 Crooks, Troy 48084.

Recession, police cut state's road toll

Michigan's 1982 traffic fatalities dropped to their lowest total in 24 years, and the state's preliminary death rate based on miles traveled was the lowest ever, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

The Michigan Department of Transportation estimates motorists drove 61.3 billion miles in Michigan in 1982, down 1 percent from the 1981 total of 62 billion miles.

National Highway Traffic Safety Administration figures show that in states severely affected by the recession, including those in the northeast and midwest, 1982 traffic deaths dropped between 12 and 22 percent.

Numbers are more subjective than we think

CLASSIC DIFFERENCE between Democrats and Republicans is that the latter are very adept with numbers.

Richard Nixon was great at using numbers to make himself look good or make Democrats look bad. Likewise, Bill Milliken was quite good at using numbers for the party's benefit.

Maybe it's because Democrats don't understand

Personally, I suspect the GOP holds seminars once a year at remote mountain lodges to train "Young Republicans" how to use numbers for political purposes.

If such seminars are not held, then it must be that some people are born with a natural ability to manipulate numbers while others aren't. Those who are born with it, grow up to become Republicans and those born without grow up to become Demo-

EXAMPLES of Republican manipulation of numbers came across my desk twice last week from local legislators who either were born with or are mountain lodge graduates.

The first was a press release from friend Bob Geake who is a state senator in the 6th District which includes Canton, Plymouth, Livonia and Red-Geake was expressing his opposition to Gov. Blanchard's "proposed 38 percent increase" in the state income tax.

Now I share Senator Bob's opposition to an increase in the income tax, but I would never think of referring to the proposal as a "38 percent increase." (What can you expect from a novice like me who goes to the mountains only to climb?)

In case you don't have a scorecard nearby, Geake is a Republican Senator while Blanchard is our newly elected Democratic governor. That's why the Senator refers to the proposed hike as a 38 percent increase, because it implies another Democrat is off on another spending spree and needs another tax increase to finance the spree.

To his credit, Republican Geake voted against the temporary income tax hike proposed last year by Republican Milliken. But if a Republican were proposing the current increase, I suspect the Senator would refer to it as a proposed increase from a rate of 4.6 to 6.35 percent, or an increase of 1.75 percent.

An increase of 1.75 percent sounds much more modest and reasonable than a whopping 38 percent increase in the income tax. Both statements are true, but the second has political emphasis lacking

ALSO IN THE mail was a press release from freshman lawmaker state Rep. Gerry Law, R-Plymouth.

Law's press release was about the state's increase in the gasoline tax and how, when linked with the fed's gasoline tax hike, will produce lots of money for Michigan to spend on badly needed road

Law does not refer to a $315 million spending spree on roads because it's Republicans who favor such expenditures. Neither does Rep. Gerry refer to a "38 percent increase" in the gasoline tax hike, although that is almost what has happened.

Lawmaker Law's press release noted that "The State Legislature raised Michigan's motor fuel taxes by two cents in 1982, and an expected additional two cents in 1984.

The gas tax hike approved in 1982 became effective Jan. 1, 1983, so within a year's time the tax will increase by four cents - from 11 to 15 or an increase of 36 percent!

But reporting a 36 percent increase in the gaso-line tax is something a mountain lodge grad wouldn't do because highway construction is a Republican ideal.

What difference is there between an income tax increase from 4.6 to 6.35 percent and a gasoline tax hike from 11 to 15 cents? Numerically, very little. Our "spend-thrift" Governor is going to out-collect the Republicans by about 2 percent.

I won't argue the long-term benefits of road construction and repair versus the short-term benefits of spending money for jobs and social service pro-

What catches my interest is the adept skills of my Republican friends at manipulating numbers for propaganda purposes.

Some got it; some don't.

Lucas makes office, team appear bad

ONE THING I can't blame County Executive William Lucas for is stealing my warm hat. It disappeared while I was covering a meeting last week of the Wayne County Commission.

Lucas doesn't attend those sessions, more's the pity. Clearly it's one reason Lucas is having troubles in his new job.

Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy attends meetings of the Board of Commissioners. Sa do other top administrators. Murphy, Michigan's first county executive, even attends Republican

In person, Murphy can answer tough questions, heading off trouble before it starts.

Strange Lucas didn't learn that lesson. Before taking office, he had dinner with Murphy to discuss county government. Lucas would have been better off attending an Oakland County Board of Commisioners meeting one Thursday morning and learning the ropes firsthand.

LUCAS HAS a gigantic job ahead of him in dealing with county employees unions. He wants concessions from some of the highest-paid governmental employees in Michigan. Yet the man persists in making himself look bad, which can only raise the hackles of the unions.

His limousince is driven by a deputy from the Sheriff's Department. (Murphy drives his own car.) At the same time his administration talks about union concessions, Lucas complains that $40,000 and $50,000 salaries for top administrators are too small. His case has merit, but his timing couldn't be worse. It's the most inept political statement since Ronald Reagan talked about abolishing the corpotate income tax while staring at a $200 billion AS SHERIFF until Dec. 31, Lucas was a co-plaintiff, with his deputies, in a suit against the county. They lost on every point. As county executive. Lucas is asking the commission to pay the whopping $269,000 legal fee of their attorney. Dennis Nystrom.

Incredibly, Lucas is having a first-term commissioner. Milton Mack of Wayne, try to steer the bill away from the public safety committee where it will run into certain trouble.

Lucas apparently has no idea how bad he looks. He has no idea how foolish poor Mack appears. But what can you expect from a candidate who didn't attend debates and an executive who doesn't attend commission meetings?

TWO WEEKS ago, Lucas asked the commission for more money for the jail. He sent in his political aide, former state Sen. David Plawecki, to handle Plawecki was totally unprepared to say where the money would come from. In Oakland County, Murphy would have had a source of funding. Lucas was royally blistered by some commissioners. Poor Plawecki was made to look like a dunce.

The Sheriff's Department needs money for jail annex guards, and yet there was a Sheriff's sergeant at the commission meeting — passing out agendas!

Lucas is trying to meddle in the commission's staffing - very bad politics. The commission is doing an excellent job hurting its own reputation with its paycheck games without Lucas's messing

Six weeks into his term, Lucas had yet to submit a line item budget on how we will spend his office's 3640,000 allocation.

To his credit, he is participating in the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. To his discredit, he hasn't submitted his list of delegates to the commission for confirmation.

NEVERTHELESS, Lucas's extraordinary efforts to make himself look bad are not the burning social issue of the day.

How Michigan State earned its 'Cow College' nickname

AFTER YEARS of remaining silent, The Stroller

is about to make a confession.

He is the fellow who officially nicknamed Michigan State the "Cow College." At the time, it brought chuckles from college officials across the nation.

This all came to mind again in recent days when the papers were filled with the hullabaloo over the manner in which the Spartans hired their new football coach and gambled close to $1 million to get

LONG BEFORE Michigan State was admitted to the Western Conference over the protests of the late Fritz Crisler of Michigan, the MSU football team played in Macklin Stadium, an athletic field with a seating capacity of a mere 25,000 that was donated by a Philadelphia alumnus.

It was a nice playing field, but it had one of the poorest press boxes in the country. On the windswept days of football season, it always was referred to as "Pneumonia Manor." And many were the times sports writers from the metropolis spurned the assignment to go to East Lansing, no matter who was playing.

Then one day came a note from Ralph Young, the likeable athletic director, apologizing for the facilities. With the apology came word that while he could do nothing immediately to correct the condition, he would supply foot warmers for the writers the following Saturday.

Sure enough, when we reported the following Saturday, there was a foot warmer at each position. It was a small black box which emitted electric heat. It made a fellow feel a bit more comfortable on another wind-blown day.

BUT JUST AS the final period of the game started, a worker in coveralls came in, disconnected each heater and was about to walk away with them. Informed that the game was not finished, he stared at the writers and explained it was milking time, and the heaters had to be returned to the cow

Immediately The Stroller, then writing for the Free Press, sent a short story to the paper reporting that on this day Michigan State had officially become the "Cow College.

It was printed in a small box on the Sunday sports page, picked up by the Associated Press wire service and sent all over the country.

THAT SUNDAY morning. The Stroller got a call from Young, who explained that the foot warmers which had been ordered had not arrived, so he had borrowed a few from the cow barns. He added:

"Those fellows who took them away knew nothing about football. They are farmers, and they couldn't let milking time go by. It was a laugh for a long time. John Hanna, then president of the college, got the biggest laugh of all. Every time he met The Stroller, even at major college functions, he made him relate the tale of the origin of the Cow College tag which was given to the school, and which it couldn't live down.

Now, with the handling of the firing of Muddy Waters as football coach, the hiring of a fellow who broke a contract to accept the job and payment of $175,000 to settle a case out of court, it looks as though the farmers are still on the job at the school beside the winding Red Cedar River.

State crisis is no time to grandstand

GOV. BLANCHARD'S proposal to deal with a state government deficit of more than $600 million dollars was only a few days old before state lawmakers began prophesying that the Legislature would not pass a 1.75 percent personal income tax

State Rep. Jack Kirskey, R-Livonia, predicted the Legislature would not pass a tax bill until 4 a.m.

Kirksey said he based his prediction on past legislative struggles to deal with tax issues and particularly on the passage last year of a six-month 1 percent hike in the state income tax.

The measure was approved, with hardly a vote to spare, but it took all of Gov. Milliken's and the legislative leadership's determination, perseverance and arm-twisting ability to get the last few votes.

MANY LEGISLATORS were convinced of the need for that increase to stave off the looming disaster. Others philosophically opposed a tax in-

But too many legislators opposed it simply because they felt that a yes vote would hurt their chances of re-election. Some legislators fear losing an election even more than state financial disaster.

Perhaps now circumstances are too dire and the elections too removed for more political posturing. The 1982 elections are history, representatives do not have to face another vote until 1984, senators are free until 1986.

Yet there is already ample indication many legislators intend to attempt to make political hay with the state's current vexing problems. Political rhetoric is being used to denounce Blanchard's economic plan calling for a 1.5-percent income tax increase for operations and another 0.25-percent increase for debt retirement.

BLANCHARD'S appointees say that the state needs more than a temporary tax. Whether a tax should be of a permanent nature may be debatable.

But there is ample evidence for thinking that a tax increase is necessary if Michigan's state government is to be even a pared-down version of a reasonable state government. Some claim the problem can be solved by cutting services further, as if burgeoning bureaucracy were responsible for the present financial dilemma. No doubt some programs can be considered non-essen-

But the real problem is the drastic decreases in tax revenue because of economic stagnation and unemployment. Falling employment has meant falling income tax revenue.

Government cannot be made solvent by merely cutting programs. And more cuts than those already proposed would damage the state in a serious

THESE ARE such serious matters that our elected officials should resist any temptation to flirt with shallow political gain at the cost of making headway on easing the state's financial problems.

Perhaps, as some legislators have already declared, any tax measure should be geared to the economy so that if and when the economy improves. the tax rate could be decreased.

But what is most necessary is individual and collective decisions by the entire Legislature and state government to act with diligence and statesmanship in dealing with the fiscal problem. We should be looking soberly and seriously at the alternatives without considering whether a vote can be lost here, or gained there.

Often we take photographs for granted, looking at the image only without considering the impact that color or lack of color can have on our senses and our interpretation of the image.

Today, I'm going to take a look at color versus black and white in hopes of conveying to you a better understanding of the differences between the Photographs are certainly an im-ortant part of our daily lives. two. Hopefully, you appreciation for both will be enhanced.

PERHAPS THE MOST significant difference is aesthetics.

When we look at a color photograph, what is the first thing that "reaches out" and grabs our attention? Color, obviously. Color is beautiful and is appealing to our senses.

It has a ring of familiarity and makes us feel at home in our colorful world. People are comfortable with color photographs because they reflect what is seen and encountered in our

Black and white photographs, on the other hand, present more of a chal-lenge, not only to the photographer, but also to the viewer. The subject is complemented and enriched by the tones, contrast shadows, and textures that give a black and white photograph it's

"depth."

Most serious photographers prefer working in black and white because they feel they can better express themselves in this form. And viewer can better get the photographer's message by the subtleties found in a good black and white print. You might say one's imagination is more stimulated by a black and white photograph.

ANOTHER DIFFERENCE between color and black and white photographs is the keeping quality. Most color photographs will eventually fade. Look at old family albums to see how the color has diminished.

And color pictures hanging on a wall will fade even faster because of con-stantly being exposed to light. Only expensive color processing methods such as Cibachrome or Dye Transfer will assure some longevity in a color picture.

Black and white photographs, properly processed, possess excellent properties and will retain a quality image for a very long time. This is one main reason photography collectors favor black and white photographs. Obviously, if an investor is going to purchase a fine art photograph, he's going to want it to last.

COST IS ANOTHER difference in color versus black and white.

Whether you have your own darkroom or rely on your local drugstore or camera shop for processing, black and white will save you dollars.

So, next time you bring out your camera, tune in your photographic vision to some of the differences between color and black and white. Feel free to add a little color to your life. Or if you wish, add a little black and white, too.

Parade won't feed homeless

To the editor:

Paula Blanchard (governor's wife) has helped form a foundation to help save the Thanksgiving Day Parade. Who cares? Why not start a fund to save the people of Michigan? A parade will not feed and clothe the homeless.

Congress has voted in pay raises for themselves, the governor and the Supreme Court Justices. Who cares? I do. and so should you.

Now the governor is trying to convince us we need an income tax increase to save Michigan. But think how many people those thousands of dollars in pay hikes would feed and clothe. Everyone is screaming for the federal government to create jobs. Why not create jobs on a state level with that money?

Everyone is being asked to make concessions, the unemployed, the auto workers, state employees, etc. Why not the elected officials in Lansing? Do they have their heads in the sand?

Detroit is receiving Care packages from Germany. How sad that Lansing can sit on its high horses and allow this to happen? Come on, Plymouth-Canton. There are starving, homeless, jobless people out there and it's not just the inner city poor. It could be you next.

Why leave it up to the charitable organizations? Let Lansing take some responsibility. These people don't need free cheese. They need jobs, money, and do something about it.

Find out who your legislator is (if you don't know) and let them know how you feel. A few letters will not do it this time. We all need to get involved. Do it today, right now. All of us!

Party store bad for Canton

Does Canton truly need another party store? A parcel of land located on Sheldon, between Warren and the Sheldon Center Connector, has recently been rezoned to C-1, or commercial zoning, that allows for a party store or liquor store.

According to Jim Kosteva of the Canton Township planning department, a recent Supreme Court ruling has overturned a Massachuttes law that prohibited bussinesses, such a liquor stores, being built within a prescribed distance of existing churches or schools. That paves the way for George Odish, the buyer of the parcel in question, to build a convenience store that sells liquor on that site if he so chooses. Township sources indicate that Odish plans to construct a liquor store. According to the real estate agent who sold the property, the intention is to put in a party store or convenience store that sells liquor.

The close proximity of such a store to Gallimore Elementary School, slightly to the north, may cause some pastor of the Canton Calvary Church located to the south, may view this as a wonderful opportunity to do battle with demons of the bottle instead of simply battling mythical demons as he did last year in the Dungeons and Dragons fracas with the schools.

Thescatch-22 is that while no one can prohibit Odish from building his convenience/liquor store, nor would anyone wish to, he must apply to the Canton Township Board for a liquor license. The board, of course, will hear any property owner's appeal to prohibit the granting of such a license.

Odish shouldn't worry, though. If he can't sell liquor, he can always turn the building into a party store. We all know how badly Canton needs another party store. Marilyn Rickard

Canton Parents: Check

one of the middle schools, I have observed that several of these students are purchasing "junk food" lunches (i.e., a milk shake and two bags of chips) rather than the nutritious hot lunch provided by the cafeteria person-

Many of these items are equivalent in price to the Type A hot lunch, so it is probable that these students are being given money to purchase a well-balanced meal.

The debate continues as to whether or not a la carte items should be served in the junior high schools. The negatives are obvious. On the other side is the fact that they help make the lunch program self-supporting, and the recurrent question of whether the majority of students who use these items properly should be deprived of them because of the minority who do not.

My point is not to debate this question but to ask parents who are giving their children money for a school lunch to check with their students to see what they are actually eating for lunch.

'Bendix brings us strengths' - Allied

Allied Corp. this week announced overwhelming shareholder approval of its plan to merge Bendix Corp. into Al-

At a special meeting of Allied's shareholders, more than 90 percent of the shares voted were in favor of issuing up to 15.2 million new shares of Allied common stock to complete the $1.8-billion transaction.

The first step of the transaction was carried out last December when Allied acquired a controlling interest in the Southfield-based Bendix and a large minority interest in Martin Marietta Bendix Chairman William Agee wound up as president of the merged corporation and a member of the board of directors.

"BENDIX BRINGS us many strengths," Allied Chairman Edward L. Hennessy Jr. said.

"It makes high-technology electronics equipment for aerospace and automotive markets. Its products are used in the newest commercial jets and in virtually every American fighter plane. Bendix will play a significant role in expanding our own electronics

This acquisition helps Allied meet some longstanding strategic objectives, Hennessy said. "It immediately brings us more domestic income. It helps us balance our oil and gas earnings."

Bendix increases the average technological level of Allied's product line. And its many overseas operations expand Allied's international interests.

THE 38-PERCENT interest in Martin Marietta Corp., which had 1982 sales of $3.5 billion, gives Allied a significant equity interest in one of the world's leading aerospace producers, Allied and Bendix together have more than 700 plants, research laboratories and sales offices and 100,000 employees worldwide. For 1982, Allied and Bendix had combined sales of $10.3

Wood-burning stoves selling like hotcakes

special writer

Wood-burning stoves not only can fry hotcakes, they're selling like them to meet today's demand for alternative energy resources in home heating.

Thursday, February 10, 1983 O&E

Imagine drifting off to sleep to the sound of a crackling fire, or picture dining by the warmth and cheeriness of a wood-burning stove. No matter where you put one, a wood-burning stove can create a mood of relaxation and pleasure.

Today, as they did more than a century ago, wood stoves are warming homes - and some models are also being used to cook meals. There is a variety in feature, size and design, but all are contributing to a self-sufficient lifestyle

One or more stoves can heat a house, or supplement a conventional heating system

WOOD-BURNING STOVES represent more than a charming touch to the decor, however. They have already become a necessity to many with the onslaught of today's rising prices for home heating.

Considering that Consumers Power Co. customers could pay 25 percent more for natural gas in 1983 under the most recent rate hike filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, wood stoves are an alternative in home heating.

About 70 percent of Michigan's households relay on natural gas for their heat, but the use of wood-burning stoves is catching on.

According to Craig Wroblewski, a salesman at A-1 Sales and Service in Westland, wood-burning stoves are selling 10 times as much this year despite the mild temperatures - as they were five years ago.

One of our customers came in today to testify that his heating bill was $100 last year at this time, and so far this year he has only paid $30," he said.

Scott Irwin, manager of The Energy Store in Livonia, said that overall sales on woodburning stoves have tripled in recent years

"OUR WOOD STOVE customers calculate the heat portion of their gas bill and find that if they heat with natural gas, they will have a 50 to 100 percent saving on their heating bill depending on their access to wood and how often they plan to use their stove," he said.

Do you have a heat-wasting, woodwasting fireplace that you would like to reform? Consider converting it to receive an insert model wood stove. By taking advantage of the existing flue and hearth, you can cut the cost of installation.

Irwin said, "Fireplace inserts are far more popular in terms of sales. People who already have an existing structure in their home find that a fireplace conversion works with greater efficiency than a fireplace alone

Some wood stoves have surfaces that can be used for cooking and baking. Most of the time, however, the "cooking" is confined to a tea kettle that doubles as a humidifier.

If you don't have an existing fireplace, free-standing, wood-burning stoves are available in many colors and finishes offering many decorative pos-

IF YOU ENJOY watching an open fire, you might want an insert or a free-standing model with front door that can be left open during use, or one with a glass front. However, open doors reduce heating efficiency, and glass doors must be cleaned to remove smoke residue. Detachable metal screens are utilized by many families when viewing the fire. A screen is a good idea to keep sparks from jumping out and igniting any nearby combustible material.

Some wood stoves have surfaces that can be used for cooking and baking. Most of the time, however, the "cooking" is confined to a tea kettle that doubles as a humidifier.

stoves range from a couple of hundred dollars to a couple of thousand dollars with the efficient airtight stoves costing more. The general rule of thumb is you get what you pay for.

If you're enterprising enough, you can build your own. There are plenty of books with detailed instructions and illustrrations on how to do it.

All store-bought wood burning stoves should meet rigid safety standards that are part of tests done by Unterwriter's Laboratory qualifying the stove to bear the U.L. label. Don't buy one without it is the advice of wood stove store personnel.

New stove owners should also seek out a specialist - sometimes it's an independent contractor - who can install the unit to match their individual set of circumstances, Irwin said. "Then, once properly installed, the biggest aspect to good safety is periodic inspection and cleaning of the chim-

A CHIMNEY GETS dirty with soot and creosote buildup. Creosote is a black, tarry substance, which when not removed can cause a chimney fire.

Irwin said the possibility can be eliminated if the chminey is cleaned a minimum of once a year; more often if the stove is used everyday You can tackle cleaning the chimney yourself, or you can hire a professional chimney sweep. They can be selected from the Yellow Pages. The average price is $50 and some offer off-season As a final safety precaution, it is recommended that stove owners phone the city building department to see if they are in compliance with local ordinances regarding the usage. It's also a good idea to let your home insurance agent know, too.

Along with the need for regular cleaning of the stove and chimney and finding and chopping wood, the biggest drawback to your stove will be reloading it and emptying the ashes on a regular basis. However, in these days of self-service gas pumps and other areas of self-reliancy, many people actually find the maintenance rewarding.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographe Mary Jane and Raymond LaBeau of Plymouth Township have enjoyed success, and savings, using wood burning stoves.

Triple reasons to play safe

Cleaning is Saturday ritual at LaBeau household

By Kathy Maday

Mary Jo and Ray LaBeau use three wood-burning stoves to heat their fivebedroom, 11-room house in Plymouth Township - so safety is one of their main concerns.

'Improper installation and poor maintenance are primary causes of home fires involving wood-burning stoves," said LaBeau, an engineer with Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

'Wood stove owners must meet local ordinances requiring the placement of the stoves a safe distance from all combustible materials. In addition, you must provide adequate floor protection around the stoves - at least 18 inches in the event sparks fly from them." he said

In the LaBeau's case, they had to remove some of the carpeting in their living room to make room for additional slate they had installed around the liv- scrape away any buildup ing room hearth

LaBEAU CLEANS each of their three wood stove chimneys himself once a month to prevent a fire from creosote buildup in the stove pipes that act as chimneys.

All three stoves are vented through the roof. To get a good draw of air, three sections of pipe had to be installed to reach beyond the peak of the Cape Cod-style house. The installation also required special roof bracing.

The Saturday morning ritual is "a messy job," he admits, but a necessary one. This winter it was a lot easier to do than last winter when record amounts of snow made the rooftop job dangerous as well as necessary.

Good maintenance means LaBeau has to climb up on the roof once a month and drop an expandable metal bristle brush down the openings to

He also brings the three chimney caps to ground level for a good brushing. The precautions are necessary, he said, because often fires start at the top of the openings where the creosote tends to build up and harden because of cooler air temperatures. Hardened creosote is the chief danger and anything over one-quarter inch is a potential fire hazard.

HAVING THREE stoves has also meant that the family - including the family pets - had to be trained to stay a safe distance away from them

The LaBeaus also have instructed their four children, Chris, 24, Joe, 20, Mike, 17, and Sue, 14, how to stoke the wood stove using asbestos gloves because "you can't be careless about loading them, or risk getting a serious burn either from the door handles or placement of the wood inside the stove, said Mary Jo LaBeau. Each stove has its own a pair of near-elbowlength asbestos gloves within easy

They advise anyone considering the purchase of a wood burner to read up on them. They liked the book "Wood Heat Safety" by Jay Shelton (Garden Way Publishers, 1979).

For safety's sake," LaBeau advises, 'you're better off buying the best wood stove you can afford." He added that he looked at over 100 models before he selected the three they now own. Why three?

We could have done the same thing with one stove and vents, but we didn't want to do that because of the size of the house and the area to be heated. Besides, it would have meant hooking up the stove to the furnace blower system and we didn't want to haul wood down the basement."

THE LABEAUS HAVE two free-standing stoves made by Gotol, a Norwegian manufacturer. One was installed in the living room and the other in an upstairs bedroom in 1979 and 1982, respectively. They also have a Vermont Castings Vigilant model which was installed in 1979 in the family room.

All three are air-tight stoves and two of them replaced free-standing fireplaces which turned out to be inefficient home heaters.

The LaBeaus also use an oil-burning furnace which has an energy-conserving thermostat with a timer on it. The timer automatically adjusts the house to 65 degrees when the family is away and no one is available to tend the stoves.

Before the LaBeaus installed the wood-burners, their oil heating bills totaled $1,800 a year. Now they average $500 a year with the price of wood in-

Last year the LaBeaus bought a semiload (20 face cords) of wood from up north with 18 other families as part of a fund-raiser by the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Band Boosters group. The wood and rentals fees for the tool needed to split it brought the price to $25 per face cord And they still had enough wood left over to carry them well into this heat-

Dry heat generated by wood-burning stoves creates a problem of humidity At the LaBeaus, the family keeps steamers and tea kettles simmering constantly to humidify the air They also buy pellets of fragrances available at most wood stove specialty stores to add to the water. The fragrances come in honyesuckle, pine and spice A homemade brew comes from combining cinnamon sticks and cloves for a special tangy scent

Mike LaBeau, 17, loads wood into a Vigilant model.

Sue LaBeau, 14, and cat "Sassy" keep warm by this wood burner.

With weekly meetings

Senior groups keep busy

in Canton; Royal Seniors, Zester

eniors and Pioneer Seniors. The Royal Holiday Mobile Home Park clubhouse is buzzing every Tuesday afternoon with a large group of residents coordinating weekly activi-ties. In the middle of Canton, the Zesters congregate at St. Michael Church on Sheldon to share a special time Thursday afternoon every week. Once a week on Friday afternoon the Pioneer bunch sets up its upcoming schedule by taking over the Canton Recreation Center. If you are a senior looking for new friends and lots of fun, stop in sometime and see what our seniors are up to these days.

Dianne Neihenger and Louise Spigarelli work closely together to see to it all of our seniors are well taken care of. Dianne comes with a background of a degree in the social work field gearing her qualifications to the senior generation. Louise is a physical education major implementing her training to encourage extracircular activities to become an important part in the daily schedule. These ladies complement each other to form the staff coordinating the various activities for all of our voice over the phone once a day or maybe just once a week. Every morning you will find Irene in her own little corner of the recreation building touching many lives with her warm personality and charming, gentle voice.

ALEX MICHALAK opens the doors to the rec hall every morning, does some busy work around the center and proceeds to deliver a nutritional meal to many homebound citizens of Canton.

The daily lunch program is for everyone of the seniors serving Monday-Friday free of charge with small donations accepted.

The Nankin Transit service works for all of Canton including the seniors by transporting two for the price of one you are attending the daily lunch program. Many folks do not care to drive on cold and icy days and now have an inexpensive and convenient way to travel.

Carol Donnelly of the Plymouth Recreation Department is in charge of the In-Home Services for the Canton homeowners. There is a grant from the government to enable many seniors to stay in their homes as long as they are physically able to do so. This service provides snow removal, lawn mowing and light housekeeping for just the asking for yourself or a friend. This is a special service the seniors take advantage of and we are all pleased grants such as this exist to benefit an important part of our society.

The ever-popular Kitchen Band is going strong again this year. They are requested for civic organizations around the metropolitan area as well as nursing and convalescent homes. There is no charge, and when traveling any distance, they use personal funds

EDUCATION is important to everyone so the teachers from the Wayne-Westland School District arrive daily for classes offered to our seniors. The library consisting of large print books now located in the rec center, will soon be transferred to the main library for a better chance of circulation in the township. Books by mail and home delivery service are provided by the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation.

Local nursing homes are visited by the Royal Womens Club, keeping a close watch on their friends and providing services and gifts to all of the residents who need a special touch.

The senior trips are cut back due to economic conditions but the daily trips are much easier now with the bus donation from the Canton Rotary Club.

Plans for another senior float for the June Country Festival already have been contrived and work has begun on the Sesquicentennial affair coming this way very soon.

The Silver Threads is the monthly newsletter distributed to 425 seniors. It is full of birthdays, poems, menus, bowling scores, coupons, little facts and features for everyone.

Many men and women are not club oriented, as far as attending meetings and weekly functions, but you can find out many special things available to you by calling the recreation department. It is fun for all and everyone is just there for the fun of sharing a little part of their lives.

Come on down or just call 397-1000, Ext. 278, for further information.

Schools officials married after classroom romance:

By JEAN DAY

Northville Assistant Superintendent of Schools Nancy Soper met Dr. John Michael Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth schools, who became her husband two years ago, when both were working on their doctorates in a program at Wayne State University.

But don't assume their common professional background was the reason they began dating.

"So many people thought our profes-sions brought us together, but it was just the opposite — we found we enjoyed the theater, symphony and dining out. We actually talk very little about our professions for our concerns are so similar that we want to get away from them," she explains.

Nancy Soper also recalls that, while they participated in the special program to encourage school administrators to get their doctorates for e year-and-a-half, he didn't ask her for a date until the end of the program even though they were two of only three single persons in the class of three women and 25 men.

Both had been widowed - she for eight years and he for 10 when they began dating.

Their dating, she also recalls, did not lead immediately to wedding plans.

"It will be five years on the seventh day of March," Nancy Soper remembers exactly, "that a routine check-up disclosed I was very ill although I felt fine. I was to be told that I had a possible malignancy and was diagnosed as having cancer.

'My main concern was 'what are my choices?' - I made the decision to have a modified mastectomy, and my main concern was 'what's the prognosis, what choices do I have?"

Adding that she was off five or six weeks, Nancy Soper says she then went on about my life.

"Mike and I were not dating each pther seriously then, but he saw me as no different. There never was any sympathy - I just wouldn't allow it," she says firmly.

"We continued to date off and on for three years, seeing other people also. Being diagnosed (as having cancer) and having major surgery has odds like Russian Roulette. I decided that should not interfere, however, with why I would want to spend my life with someone, nor should ethnic heritage. It's the person, not background, heritage, er any reason like cancer or vision, that should count.

"I'd rather have what I did than lose my eyesight," says the educator positively.

"Every experience I've had has strengthened me, she adds, explaining she feels her ordeal has made her more understanding of various kinds of student deficiencies as well as with great

"People can make a difference in their lives if they really want to - a tremendous amount can be learned from experiences

"My goal is not to live to be 100 - I don't have a choice. I don't put anything off; so I decided if I found someone I wanted to spend my life with and who wanted me I would marry.

Of their marriage she says, "I have even a stronger one than the first - and

Her first husband, an attorney, died of cancer at 38 years of age. He discovered it suddenly, during a routine check, and was told it was so widespread there was absolutely no treatment. He died four months later, Mrs. Soper (who keeps her name proicssicnally) remembers.

Dr. Hoben's first wife died after having been ill for 12 years. She had no children, but he has a daughter Michelle, an architect and graduate of the University of Michigan, now working in Washington, D.C., and a son John, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, now working in the computer field in Houston, Texas.

Nancy Soper observes candidly that when they were married at Christmastime two years ago in a December 19 ceremony at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in Plymouth, both she and Mike Hoben were "very independent - and still are."

She adds that both have had to "accept dependence and monitor the independence."

She leaves no doubt that the effort has resulted in a successful alliance, noting that she feels it helps the second time around that "you don't have to prove anything. I think you can have a better marriage. The first time I was so naive.

Her new marriage, she explains, has been a real sharing of interests. He's really interested in what I do - that's something that attracted me and Mike to each other.

'I enjoy cooking, and he took an interest and now loves to cook. We're looking at going for a week to a cooking school at Greenbriar.'

She collects clocks and likes antiques he's interested in both now, she says. She adds that, as a result, they "built a very traditional house from scratch." designed for them by an architect and built by Frank Bauss, a local builder.

She had learned to sail with her first husband and interested Mike enough so that they bought a boat, but sold it after finding they only used it five times durng a busy summer.

She taught Mike to ski cross country, weekends. As a result of this activity, he took up photography.

She learned to play golf in return for his learning to ski.

She's also become a sports fan. "Mike was a professional athlete, playing basketball with the Boston Celtics. He started as an engineering student at University of Michigan and, when about to be drafted, enlisted in the Marines. He served in World War II in China and became a captain. He was called back in the Korean conflict.

"He coached football and basketball in Cheboygan and in Plymouth." After receiving her first degree from Moorhead State College in Kentucky, Mrs. Soper received her master's ty, but confesses that she has become a -M fan with Mike. He played for U-M.

His wife admits that, while she has come to appreciate athletics, she is "not quite sure" how she feels about

"I always like to think I have a sense of humor, and, therefore, Mike has had and they now look for get-away inns on to develop one. I think both of us are stronger people for this sharing."

They also have shared a second illness as Nancy Soper had a partial hysterectomy last year. She indicates that this is another reason for "not putting anything off."

They're now thinking they would like to spend a summer in Europe, seeking out old inns as they have in Ohio and Canada

"We had not married really young the first time," Nancy Soper recalls, noting she was 23 and he was 28, and feels both had what were considered good relationships."

"But in this marriage we have helped each other grow. It's not 50-50. We each give the other 100 percent."

Guild cancels play

The Plymouth Theatre Guild has cancelled its production of "Roar of the Greasepaint, Smell of the Crowd" scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, and for Feb. 19, 20.

The board of directors of Plymouth Theatre Guild (PTG) reported that the decision to cancel was difficult but determined rehearsals should not continue because of circumstances beyond its control.

In a statement released last week, the PTG board noted: The board feels that quality theater is its most important goal, and that under the existing conditions at the time of cancellation that quality could not be assured. While neither option was good, it was decided that the cancellation was the preferable choice. We feel as disappointed at this cancellation as many of you feel, but we hope our decision and the reason for it is understood. We will continue to strive to bring you the best theater we can and hope that you continue to support our efforts." The PTG will exchange any tickets purchased for its final production in May, "Same Time, Next Year." Persons wishing a refund instead can arrange it by calling Ann Schaffer at 453-7505.

Businessmen put the sun to work for you

By Sherry Kahan staff writer

Out from a night that was cold, dark and filled with falling snow came more than 160 person to Schoolcraft College to learn practical ways of bringing heat and light from the sun into their

At Waterman Center they listened to those who someday may be regarded as pioneer businessmen because they own or work for solar-oriented companies in Livonia, Novi and Drayton

What these individuals were suggesting was that homeowners build their own solar utility company.

They were offering their audience a piece of the sun through such equipment as solar collectors and panels, a fuel-saving furnace flue, insulating window shades, passive solar architecture and the newest wrinkle in home use of the sun, photovoltaic (PV) cells. The cells manufacture electricity from the sun.

Several speakers pointed out that with both state and federal tax credits, the cost of solar items is cut in half. In 1983 the state will grant a 10-percent credit on the first $2,000 on solar purchases and 5 percent on the next $8,000. But the credit will die at the end of this year.

Federal solar tax credits of 40 percent on the first $10,000 will expire at the end of 1986.

THE EVENT WAS sponsored by the community services department of Schoolcraft College, which distributed a survey to see if participants were in-terested in further seminars on solar

The department already has scheduled a workshop on preventing heat loss through windows, from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday in Room B450 of the liberal arts building. Teaching the workshop will be Penny Wright of Plymouth, former president of the Michigan Solar Energy Association. The cost is $15. Register by calling the college at 591-6400, Ext. 409.

The members of the solar panel of speakers were Roger Locke, president of Encon Corp. of Livonia, distributors of PV products; and Reynold Hendrickson, president of Star Pak Solar Systems of Novi. Other lecturers were Tom McMurtrie, president of Energy Research, Inc., Novi; and solar home builder Joseph Duran, head of Energy Craft Homes of Drayton Plains.

Hendrickson said he pays no utility fuel bills for his solar home (with the help of a wood-burning stove) on Pontiac Trail at N. Territorial in Northfield Township. He compared owning solar equipment to owing a home.

"It is far better to own one's own energy," he said, than pay money to what he called "the futility company." He spoke also of "a growing sense of outrage" about renting energy, especially when costs continue to escalate. Solar equipment can give the homeowner a greater feeling of control over his energy requirements, in his opinion.

Hendrickson also made the point that while Michigan may not have the sun of the southern states, it has higher heating bills.

"ALTHOUGH WE have less sunlight we have more demand for heat, so we can use every scrap of sun we can get," he said. "In Michigan, if the sun does half the job, it will save $450 of a $900 bill. In the South they could save 100 percent of a $200 heating bill.

"So it's more cost effective in Michigan than in the South."

Star Pak, the firm he heads, sells solar collectors that can make a big dent in the cost of heating hot water, which Henrickson said is one-third of the total gas bill. The firm also has on sale space heaters heating collectors.

But solar salesmen are expanding their scope, he said, to include equipment that can save as well as collect energy. These include a furnace flue which reclaims energy that would otherwise be lost and therma shades, which the company claims reduce window heat loss by 79 percent. Photovoltaic cells, made of processed silicon, produce energy from sunlight. The Encon Corp., founded by Roger Locke and Pete DeNapoli, both graduates of Franklin High School in Livonia, receives these cells in panels from the Solarex Corp, and distributes

Locke reminded his audience that use of PVs turns the sun into electricity with "no noise, pollution or mess."

Solar energy is also free. In his contacts with people Locke stresses again and again the importance of having a decentralized energy system with homeowners drawing free energy from the sun through their own home equip-

There has been little indication from the utility companies that they will charge less for solar or wind energy, which costs them nothing, than for coal or oil which they have to buy.

PV SHOWED ITS value originally by powering solar satellites. Then PVs were placed on buildings or radio towers in remote areas that were not reached by wires or fuel trucks. These kinds of installations are still the major portion of Encon's business. As further use made them more competitive in price they became available for homes.

"A single panel costs $774, before tax credits, and produces 35 watts of energy per hour to run several lights, a small TV or radio and a pump for a solar water system," Locke said. "With PVs you can start with one or two panels and add to them each year to build your own utility company.

The additional panels cost less, and with the others are expected to last "in excess of 20 years."

As explained in an interview by De-Napoli, Encon vice president, PV panels can be erected on a house or the ground. A cable will lead from the panels to batteries in the basement, where a 10-day supply of energy can be stored. An inverter can change the electricity from DC to AC.

"This is the system of the future." Locke said, "but it's happening today."

JOE DURAN, the builder of Hendrickson's solar home, wants newly built homes to keep their sunnyside south. Or as he put it "orientation of the home is most important."

Passive design is the term used to describe the buildings he erects with the sun in mind. This includes windows facing south, heat-holding building materials such as brick, berms of earth against the north side and heavy insula-

Landscaping with deciduous trees—can keep the sun away from the house in the summer. Landscaping also can be managed so that snow can reflect 100 sunlight into the house in winter, Duran q said. In an interview, he said building solar homes "is an exciting field. It is not interesting to see how consumers are bile becoming more technically minde d. "The sun produces a greenhouse effect in the chamber in between," he told an onlooker at the Energy Research Inc. exhibit at the conference. The heat is then vented into the house.

He also favored using an insulated quilt window shade, made by his company. "They button up the house at night and make the heat last," he said.

ARC's Johnson honored

They made it official Tuesday night, but members of the Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) Northwest Communities have known all along that their vice president Mel Johnson has a heart of gold.

The new recognition Johnson received,

Walk in their shoes, then judge to judge another until we have walked a mile in his moccasins. This same advice has been reitereated in a variety of phrases, but its worth remains in-

Dustin Hoffman discovered something of its truth in his role as Tootsie. For those who have not seen the movie. "Tootsie" is the story of what happens to an out-of-work actor who masquerades as a woman in order to get a job. The sham succeeds, and he/she lands a female role in a television show. Having walked in a woman's shoes for a time he come to a new sense of who he is as a man and comes to a different view of woman.

The story is as challenging as it is entertaining. What would happen if each of us were to walk in the moccasins of any number of people for a time. For those who can see the experience may provide a new vision of ourselves as well as a greater appreciation of those in whose shoes we have tra-where once having been there we can no longer view life in the same way, and the shoes of another are one of these places.

How might we come to look upon the ADC recipient if we had to buy our food with a handout? And how might we come to see ourselves through the eyes of such people. Yes, there are welfare cheats, but that does not lessen the pain or the humiliation of those who are truly in need. If we don't know that, we might dare to walk in their shoes.

And how about the out-of-work black, or white, or brown or yellow, red or whatever? They look so lazy standing around street corners. But how might they look to one who knows from experience what it it to be without work when one wants it? How might they appear to one who has stood on that street corner hoping against hope that someone will hire him.

And how different their plight might appear to one who has been turned down due to lack of qualifications when the education for such qualifications has not been available because they lived in the wrong neighborhood - the only one available to them? And how might we come to view ourselves through any one pair of those desperate

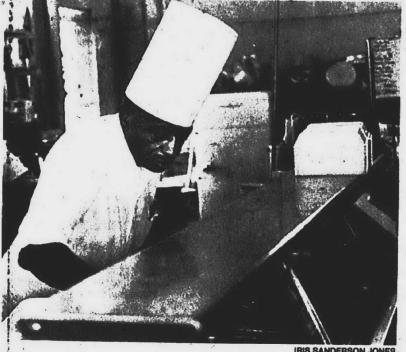

AND THEN THERE is the gay population - those who are "sick" or 'weird" or whatever other tag has been attached to them. How do such people look when seen from the only line of vision open to those who live in that lonely world on the other side of the family in which they grew up?

How might we come to see such people if we lived in their world even for a short time? And how might we see ourselves when viewed from the perspective of one who hides in fear because exposure to something set in them before the age of 4 would mean the loss of their job and rejection by those they love, let alone the rest of their society? No wonder they form their ghettos. We are afraid to have them or our side of the street, and they know it.

There are many other roles we might try out, lots of moccasins to step into. For those who teach, there are students. For students, there are instructors. For management, there is labor and for labor the shoes of a boss. For the young, there are the shoes of the old, and even for the old, there are the shoes of the young of today's world.

It might pinch our feet to walk in the shoes of another, but to fail to do so at least in our imagination - leaves an awful lot of people condemned to our very wrong judgments just as surely as it leaves us condemned to our own nar-

This corner cafe looks like it belongs in an old area. You've seen a hundred doorways like it in Detroit, but this is a strictly Atlanta experience.

THE PEOPLE who crowd the counter and the tiny tables are young and old, black and white, a few in suits, most in workingmen's caps. You can eat it here or take it out, but either way you get in line and the line moves fast.

Deacon Burton is the black man in the tall white hat; he calls all the women who work for him "mama." He serves fried chicken every day, but there are always other meats on the menu. Today it's meat loaf and chicken stew, but it sometimes gets as excitic as pigs' ears, chitlins or neck bones.

You get one meat and two choices from the vegetable list for $1.75, 25 cents extra for coffee, another 40 cents for the fruit cobbler that always seems to sweeten the end of the hot line. The vegetable list includes black-eyed peas, macaroni and cheese, turnip greens, rice.

At Hilton Head Plantation, we steadfastly believe that a retirement community should belong to the people who live there.

So, we've created a community on Hilton Head Island that's as uncrowded as it is strikingly beautiful.

Hilton Head Plantation is a 4,000 acre private, residential community where every effort has been made to preserve the natural beauty of the environment. A community protected from vacation renting, time sharing and random commercial development.

As a result, we have some of the finest facilities anywhere in the world. Three championship golf courses. Eight Har-Tru tennis courts. Riding stables. A deep water marina. Plus fishing spots boasting everything from speckled trout to blue marlin. And miles of some of the most scenic stretches of beach anywhere.

Yet, for all that we have to retire to, retiring here is surprisingly affordable. Lots start as low as $30,000. We can also help you custom design a home for just $105,000. including land. And waterfront condominiums are available from $175,000.

Equally important, all our properties feature extremely favorable financing to qualified buyers.

Injuries piling up on Chiefs

Injuries can be troublesome. Injuries to a pair of key players can be devastating.

That's what Plymouth Canton's basketball team faced Tuesday night. Starting guard Mark Bennett was already on the sidelines with a foot stress fracture when Ron Rienas, the team's top scorer over the past two weeks, sprained an ankle during the pre-game warm-up at Livonia Churchill.

With their top two scorers missing, the Chiefs were no match for Churchill, losing by a 54-39 margin.

The defeat was costly, because it allowed the Chargers to clinch the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) Western Division title. Churchill is now 10-4 overall and 9-2 in the WLAA. Canton fell to 6-8 overall and 4-6 in the WLAA.

"TAKE 28 POINTS out of your lineup and it has to hurt," said Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner. "We came out flat and didn't play real well. And when you have your two best offensive players out, it tends to hurt, too."

Canton had a chance to fold up early but didn't. Churchill sped to a 14-2 lead after one quarter and lengthened it to 18-2 before the Chiefs came back. The Chiefs narrowed the gap to six before going into the intermission down by nine (28-19).

The Chargers took command in the third quarter with a 15-6 scoring burst that ended Canton's hopes

"I have to compliment (Canton) on their press," said Churchill's Don Albertson. "They forced some turnovers and took them right in for baskets."

Mike Jennings topped the Chiefs with 14 points. Gary Thomas and Mike Scarpello had seven apiece. John Merner poured in 17 points to lead Churchill, with Craig Hunter adding 10. Tim Luch netted all six of his points in the Chargers' third-quarter rally.

SALEM 65 FARMINGTON 43

It wasn't quite the same game Plymouth Salem has been playing lately.

But it was a win, nonetheless. The Rocks buried Farmington early and methodically, rolling to leads of 15-7 after one quarter and 32-15 at the half. After that, only the final margin of victory was in question.

Mike Jennings (right) searches for a Canton teammate to pass to. Jennings popped in 14 points to lead the Chiefs' offense.

"After our games against Canton, Livonia Franklin and Livonia Stevenson, we had a hard time getting emotionally ready for this game," said Salem coach Fred Thomann.

So, while the Rocks didn't play as well against Farmington as they did in their three previous contests, they played well enough to win. Handily, at

Glenn Medalle, whose has had the hot-shooting hand lately, led a list of 10 Salem scorers with 15 points. Dave Houle bagged 10, with Jeff Arnold contributing nine and John Cohen eight.

Volleyball

Growing and seeking fans

A couple years back, I was asked to play in a recreation coed volleyball league. It sounded like a good time, so I went to the first game only to find spiking was not allowed I questioned why, and a representative from the recreation department replied, "They don't want the girls to get

I started to walk away when I realized how absurd the reply was. "They don't want the girls to get hurt?" I asked myself. "What about us

In the four years I've watched girls' high school volleyball, I've been in awe of their skill level. The sport itself is one I've always enjoyed, but the one I've played - on beaches and in backyards during the summer is a different game altogether. Volleyball on the high school level, in my estimation, is the most exciting sport offered to the girls. Some would argue basketball rates as the No. 1 sport, and I'm sure I'll hear some pitches from the soccer players. But for constant excitement and fast-paced action, volleyball is tops in my book. It's fun to watch because it's a team sport, with players working harmoniously to set up the kill. And it's fun to watch in anticipation of the spike. The spike - that no-no in the recreation league - is the big play in volleyball. It's the slam dunk of basketball, the long bomb of football and the grand slam of baseball.

SATURDAY, I just happened to be in the neighborhood, so I dropped in at Dearborn High to watch its 16-team volleyball invitational. The Dearborn tourney is prestigious each year, but even more so this year since half of the teams were state-ranked.

At this point, the results of the tournament are academic. What was important was the level of play. With teams like Wayne Memorial, Warren Cousino, Battle Creek Lakeview, Portage Northern and Dearborn on hand, fans were treated to some of the best volleyball you could see at

The tournament brought out interested spectators and college recruiters. To look around and read the writing on the jackets, it also looked like a who's who of high school coaches. You need not have a team there to be present, just an interest in volleyball.

That's where I come in. Although fans do come out in respectable numbers, they're not pounding on the doors to get in. I'm just wondering if volleyball isn't one of the best kept secrets around.

Seconds prove costly for Rock swimmers

Seconds can mean everything in swimming

Plymouth Salem's swimmers were less than a second slower than Brighton's in several events Tuesday. Those fractions of seconds meant secondplace finishes instead of firsts.

And when a team has eight seconds but only two firsts, it means it is second best. That's what happened to Salem against Brighton, as the Rocks fell at Todd Riedel had one of Salem's firsts in diving (191.25 points) and Tim Harwood had the other in the 100-yard backstroke (59.5).

But the script for this meet was written in three early events. The Rocks were a half-second slower than Brighton in the 200 medley relay and the 200 freestyle and finished less than a half-second behind in the 50 free. Seconds in the relays went to Mike Harwood, Ashley Long, Mark Roehrig and Bob Bowling in the 200 medley (1:47.6) and Scott Anderson, Erik Kleinsmith, Tom Shaw and Tim Harwood in the 400 freestyle (3:34.4).

Kleinsmith had a pair of individual seconds, in the 200 (1:52.5) and 500 (5:07.4) freestyles. Other seconds went to Bowling in the 50 free (23.4), Tim Harwood in the 100 butterfly (57.9), Anderson in the 100 free (52.4) and Long in the 100 breaststroke (106.7).

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

On October 4, 1963, with 3 conference games left to go. the Plymouth football team defeated Redford Union 26-7 to maintain 1st place in the Suburban Six League. Coach Mike Hoben's team was out in front early in the game due to the superb offensive playing of fullback Dave Agnew. He crushed his way for almost 100 yards as the Rocks piled up 143 yards. 4 interceptions by Plymouth hurt Redford Union. RU's only points flashed on the scoreboard when they capitalized on a poor Rocks' pass from center. The closing touchdown came on a seven yard dash by the Rocks' left halfback, Roger Toby.

First place finishes in each of the last four events helped propel Plymouth Canton's swim team to a Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) dual meet victory over Farmington Harrison Thursday.

John Simone got the late Chief rally going with a win in the 100-yard freestyle (50.9). Bob Lewelling followed with a first in the 100 backstroke (1:05.39) and Joe McBratnie was tops in the 100 breaststroke (1:06.12). Jim Luce placed second in the breast (1:10.59) to give Canton a 1-2 sweep.

Jim Casler, Matt Krowzak, Simone and John Ahrens combined to win the 400 free relay (3:41.37) for the Chiefs.

Canton had only two firsts in the first seven events before the late rally. In diving, the Chiefs swept the top two spots with Craig Vanderburg taking first (181.9 points) and Andy Flower second (179.6). The team of Lewelling, McBratnie, Glenn Plagens and Krowzak won the 200 medley relay

Second places for the Chiefs went to Simone in the 200 free (1:51.93): McBratnie in the 200 individual medley (2:18.26); Lewelling in the 50 free (26.35); Krowzak in the 100 butterfly (1:02.5); and Plagens in the 500 free (5:25.74).

The win lifted Canton's record to 3-5 overall. The Chiefs host Farmington at 7 p.m. today.

Commission drops Canton past Hawks Adray from league will have to get used to a new name. The Livonia Parks and Recreation Commission and superintendent Ron Reinke have decided to rename a well-known league for boys 19-and-under to Livonia Collegiate Baseball League. The league was formerly called the Livonia Adray Baseball League.

The name Adray is associated with Dearborn appliance and photo dealer Mike Adray, who took over sponsorship of the league 13 years ago from the Detroit Free Press Invitational Baseball League.

"Our major concern was the dollar situation with the budgef cuts," said Reinke. "We wanted higher visibility.

"The rules won't change."

Last season, Livonia league had six teams - three based in Livonia. one from Redford-Westland, one from Ann Arbor and one from Dearborn. The league is affiliated with the All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AAABA) in which Adray is president (his term expires in March). The AAABA holds its national tournament annually in Johnstown, Pa., and is one of the premier amateur baseball events in the country.

"Nothing has been changed," said commission member Beverly Griffin. "We wanted it in our name. It shouldn't be under a commercial name. It's not really sponsored by Mike Adray. It's a Parks and Recreation league."

In a letter to the commission dated Oct. 28, 1982, Reinke offered the following recommendations for the program: "1. Change the name of the league, 2. Secure an AAABA franchise if possible and pay all en-

Not just a beach sport

Saturday, I cornered some coaches to gather their thoughts on the sport and its growth, and each was tremendously pleased with its progress and more than optimistic about the future.

DEARBORN COACH Lou Stehlik, who ran Dearborn's volleyball team when it was a club sport in the early '70s, has seen a rapid growth since her AAU team was fourth in the nation in 1972.

"There's a big difference in the quality of play and the talent the girls have exhibited," Stehlik said. "The team I had that finished fourth in the nation probably would finish 16th in this competition (Dearborn tourney). The skill level has exploded so much.

"I see it getting better and better and better. There are college recruiters all over the place. We haven't had a dual meet where a recruiter hasn't been there," she added.

Although scouts are interested in Annette Ewasek, Dearborn's talented hitter, Stehlik believes the attraction is due to the success of the schools' volleyball program.

Another school with a strong volleyball program is Bishop Borgess. Jerry Abraham, coach of defending the Catholic League champion Spartans, is a volleyball enthusiast, to say the least. His eyes open wide when he talks about the game.

"VOLLEYBALL IS supposed to be closing in on basketball, but I think it's time to surpass it. It's great. I love it. The kids are enthusiastic about it and it's created a new enthusiasm in the school."

Another reason the sport is growing is because the players themselves are improving. According to Southfield-Lathrup coach Lionel Blogg and Livonia Stevenson coach Lee Cagle, some of the school's best athletes now are playing volleyball.

"Instead of just basketball getting the top players, you're seeing big girls playing volleyball, too," Cagle commented. "I can't say I have more girls participating than in the past, but I do have better girls because the best continue on in the sport. It's probably THE top girls' sport in this area, after basketball."

"I think you're getting better and better players every year, because more of the better athletes are playing volleyball," Blogg said. "They see it as an exciting sport, and I see it as a challenging game. Five or six years ago, you had a few individual players who were good because they were natural athletes. Now you can train an athlete to be a good volleyball player.'

Bob Hurdle, who coaches at Bloomfield Hills Andover and recently finished his first season at Oakland University, said the growth at the high school level has made his job easier at OU. Instead of teaching some of the fundamentals and techniques at the collegiate level the players are already sound in those areas.

"It's hard to even imagine how the sport has grown," Hurdle said. "My first team at Andover went 17-4, and they might not be able to beat some of the fair teams today. It's grown by leaps and bounds.

"THE SPORT itself is a sport that has a lot of appeal. The girls can retain their femininity, it's exciting, it's not specialized - a 5-foot-3 girl can play as important a role as a 6-footer.

"I think what should be noted is that the girls have to put in hour and hours of preparation in each area of skill - passing, setting, serving, spiking and diving. You can't have a player who's just a hitter," Hurdle added. "If you do, she's going to hurt you."

Although all coaches are pleased with the growth of the sport, it still isn't recognized as much as they would like. However, with the Olympic Games just around the corner, Hurdle sees the proverbial light at the end of the tunnel.

"I think what you're going to see happen after the Olympics is a growth in popularity in the sport and a lot more (media) coverage. We (the United States) had a good shot at the gold medal three years ago, but that was taken away from them (as a result of the Olympic boycott by the United States)," Hurdle said.

IN A NOVEMBER meeting, all five commissioners unanimously accepted Reinke's proposal with a res-

In January, Adray and Livonia

league director Perry Deakin met in an informal meeting with commissioner Roger Walklin and Reinke to define the resolution.

"They thought I was getting too much publicity," said Adray, "but anywhere you look, it's the Livonia League. That's what it's known as in Johnstown. I told them, 'You do what you want to do.'

"I've never told Livonia how to run its program. I've always abided by national interest."

Mike Adray sponsors five teams between the Detroit and Livonia leagues. He also pays to rent Tiger Stadium for an annual All-Star game between the Lansing, Livonia and Detroit leagues.

ALTHOUGH NO LIVONIA team was involved, Adray spent almost $8,000 to host a 10-team AAABA regional last August at rotu rates, ab-paid for replacement of lights, ab-sorbed umpire fees distingrovided gional last August at Ford Field. He vans as transportation for visiting out-of-state teams. (Livonia will host a regional again this season)

Meanwhile, Deakin, a retired Detroit school administrator, bought playoff trophies and player-of-week awards at his own expense.

And for the 1983 season, Adray-has already taken care of the $200 AAABA franchise fee.

'We'd like to pay that back," said Reinke.

Last March, the commission voted to rescind a September, 1981 resolution which limited team rosters to four non-residents.

THE SEPTEMBER RESOLU-TION was passed because the commission was concerned about lack of participation in the league by Livonia residents. League managers and officials, however, argued in a Feb. 1, 1982 meeting that in order to be competitive on a national level, they would need seven non-residents per team — the standard today.

"We were concerned that not enough Livonia kids were playing at Ford Field," said commission member John McDonald. "But I was also concerned about everybody hollering about cuts and we were taking on more work.

We felt Livonia would get better publicity (by changing the name). Personally, I feel the commission has no animosity towards him (Adray)."

Despite budget crisis, Adray sponsorship severed

AS MIKE ADRAY been dealt a joker by the five-member Livonia Parks and Recreation Commission?

It seems the cards have been stacked against the area appliance king for quite some time.

Adray and the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department have co-sponsored a competitive baseball league affiliated with the prestigious All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AAABA) for the past decade.

There seems to be no hearts in this deck. Commissioners decided recently to change the name of the league from Livonia Adray Baseball League to Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

Why now? "One of the reasons is that we didn't feel we were getting enough out of it," said chairman Chuck Bien, who has missed five of the past 13 monthly meetings. "The feeling was that he was getting tremendous publicity at the city's expense."

What came out was that he was getting a heck of good deal of what he was spending (back)," said John McDonald, a commissioner for 12 years.

Ron Reinke, department superintendent, said the city wants to run its own program.

"Our major concern was the dollar situation with the budget cuts," said Reinke. "We wanted higher visibility. Our main concern was to serve the community."

COMMISSIONER BEV GRIFFIN said the league, which also includes Westland-Redford, Ann Arbor and Dearborn, shouldn't be under a com-

The five commission members receive a stipend of $600 each per year (gas mileage included) for attending 12 monthly meetings. Of course, there's homework involved.

This group, however, has really failed to thoroughly study the Adray situation. Some haven't even been attending class.

It seems by involving Adray less, the financially-strapped rec department is going to spend a little more.

Adray has already paid the $200 AAABA franchise fee for the six-team league in 1983. But Reinke insists the department will reimburse him.

That's a measley amount of money," said Griffin.

ADRAY PAYS to rent Tiger Stadium so the Livonia All-Stars can get a taste of the big leagues. He helps defray expenses for out-of-state teams competing in the AAABA regional at Livonia's Ford Field. He even replaced burned out lights last summer for the AAABA regional.

When the league has called, Adray offers to help. But he lets the Livonia people make their own rules and regulations.

For his efforts, Adray gets to advertise his name and write it off as a tax break. But the man genuinely supports amateur sports.

He sends teams to the AAABA tournament in Johnstown, Pa. at his own expense. He spent $50,000 for AAABA baseball in this state last year.

You have to believe Adray was hurt by this move. He has helped Livonia

The Livonia 5 claim they have no grudge. But I perceive that they think Adray is in it for himself.

THE OBSERVER has been critical in the past of Adray and the way things have been done.

His Detroit League has one set of rules of unlimited boundaries in which to recruit while the Livonia league operates under a different set of rules. They allow seven non-residents per team.

But because of the hard work of everybody involved in Livonia, the two leagues have reached parity.

The Observer also criticized the handling of an Adray All-Star game two years ago by the Detroit Tigers. Adray wrote a letter to Jim Campbell stating the this newspaper did not express his views regarding the Tigers' decision on the condition of the playing field. (The game was cancelled because of wet grounds). On short notice the same day, the game was moved to Ford Field. The Observer praised the city's efforts.

BUT THE final hand belongs to the commissioners. Who are they and what are their interests?

"Each of us has special areas," said McDonald. "Roger Walkin is closer to baseball than I am. Mine is golf." Reinke said the commissioners are broken down into certain areas: "They each have an area to cultivate. This has worked advantageously for the community and us. Everybody is interested in the community."

Schoolcraft cagers win

Schoolcraft College notched its 20th basketball victory of the season Saturday, rallying for a 70-69 win over visiting Macomb CC

It's only the second time in Schoolcraft history that a men's team has reached the 20-victory mark. The first occurred in 1978-79.

The Ocelots, who trailed Macomb by nine points with three minutes to go, put on a late surge capped by Carlos Briggs' go-ahead basket with nine seconds to go.

Macomb had two tries at the winning shot in the final nine seconds, but Schoolcraft's Bill Keyes grabbed a rebound and Mike Cavicchio batted a long pass away at the buzzer to secure the triumph.

Keyes led Schoolcraft with 17 points and eight rebounds. Briggs added 15, but hit only six of 18 shots. George Merriweather chipped in with 13, while 6-foot-4 reserve forward Ricky Johnson contributed 11 points and nine rebounds.

Schoolcraft is now in second place in the Eastern Conference with a 7-3 record, two games behind leader Flint Mott. The Ocelots are 20-5 overall.

"It's important for us to finish second because we'll get a seeding in the state tournament," said Schoolcraft coach Rocky Watkins.

On Saturday, Schoolcraft travels to meet Delta

LADY OCELOTS 82 MACOMB CC 64

The Schoolcraft women's team seems to be peaking at the right time as Macomb was riddled Saturday by Cathi Hengy's 33 points.

The Lady Ocelots, who upset first-place Henry Ford last week, raised their overall record to 12-5 and 7-3 in league play.

Hengy, a Redford Union graduate, was instrumental in Schoolcraft's 43-24 halftime advantage. She leads the team in scoring with a 19-point aver-

Center Cheryl Sobkow added 20 points and 14 rebounds while forward Deborah Johnson chipped in with 10 points for the winners.

Frequently you can judge a nation's outlook and self-image by its films, and that's certainly the case with these two Australian imports. "Breaker Morant" and "Gallipoli" are marvelous absurdities-of-war films, but both evince a strong, thematic undercurrent of national pride and unity, and an equally strong distaste for the ruling British. See these pictures and you come away with a feeling not only of turn-of-the-century Australia but of contemporary Australia, as well. Rating: $3.50

Dustin Hoffman, Meryl Streep and Paul Newman are among the stars most likely to be nominated for Academy Awards. Hoffman starred in "Tootsie," Streep in "Sophie's Choice" and Newman in "The Verdict."

Who will be Oscar nominees?

By Tom Panzenhagen special writer

OON EVERY FILMGOER worth the salt on his popcorn will have an opinion on the Oscars.

And entertainment writers, feature writers, columnists, political pundits - even sports reporters - will tell you who's going to win the annual awards. But these scribes and would-be critics all will have one advantage: When they predict their winners, the nominees will have been announced.

It's not hard to assess the five nominees in the four major categories best film, director, actor and actress and then pick the favorite, or perhaps give the nod to the "favored" darkhorse nominee, and ther claim great insight into the motion picture business when three picks out of four prove providen-

What is difficul, however, is picking the nominees. Now that demands both insight and a genuine passion for public. ridicule. So without further ado and for the first time anywhere, here's a list of the nominees for this year's Academy

FOR BEST FILM the nominees are:

- "E.T." • "Gandhi"
- · "Sophie's Choice" · "Tootsie"
- "The Verdict"

One factor permeites the three general types of films represented by these nominations: publicity. Every picture on this best-film list has garnered so much press that filmgoers really didn't have to see the pictures to know what they're about or how good they are. Media hype made the films Oscar contenders, even though ally two or three

Regarding the film types: "Sophie's Choice," "Tootsie" and "The Verdict" are Oscar contenders because they are star vehicles. Each features a major star in "an Academy Award performance," so it follows - unnaturally that the films themselves are "Academy Award films."

"Gandhi" qualifies as an epic work "20 years in the making," as the ads proclaim - and also because of its epic, larger-than-life qualities. And "E.T.," of course, makes the list because it's the most popular film of all time, and the Academy is not about to tell millions of filmgoers that they've been paying $4 to see a second-rate

If there's a darkhorse bet it's "Missing," the little-publicized film by director Costa-Gavras. Unfortunately, "Missing" premiered a full year ago, and it's unlikely that Oscar voters can remember that far back.

FOR BEST DIRECTOR the nomi-

- Richard Attenborough, "Gandhi"
 Sidney Lumet, "The Verdict"
 Alan Pakula, "Sophie's Choice"
- Sidney Pollack, "Tootsie" • Steven Spielberg, "E.T."

No surprises here; all the directors come from the best-film nominees. Richard Attenborough's 20 years of work will not go unrewarded. Sidney Lumet and Sidney Pollack have paid their dues with strings of successful and critically acclaimed films, and Steven Spielberg can't be denied - not "E.T." nearing the $200 million mark. That leaves as the final choice Alan Pakula, who's handicapped by too few past hits and mixed reviews for 'Sophie's Choice." Still he figures to beat out Costa-Gavras, who's been

'missing" from Hollywood circles for

FOR BEST ACTOR the nominees

- Dustin Hoffman, "Tootsie"
- Ben Kingsley, "Gandhi"Jeremy Irons, "Moonlighting"
- Paul Newman, "The Verdict" • Peter O'Toole, "My Favorite

Year" "Moonlighting" is an English film that's prospered from wonderful word-of-mouth. It hasn't played in many markets but already is being touted as a best foreign-film nominee and possible best-film contender. The former is likely, the latter unlikely; and Jeremy Irons, who starred in last year's "The French Lieutenant's Woman," at least should garner a best-actor bid. Dustin Hoffman, Ben Kingsley and

Paul Newman are can't-miss nominees for their "star-vehicle" performances. Kingsley's newcomer status will work against him in the best-actor voting but won't prevent him from winning a nomination. Newman certainly will get a bid - not ony because he did an adequate job in "The Verdict" but because he's been denied an Oscar so many times before. It is, after all, a Hollywood tradition to reward longevity.

Hoffman is the most-certain shoo-in and Peter O'Toole the greatest longshot for nominations, but Tinsel Town loves an actor who plays a drunk (witness Dudley Moore's acclaim for 'Arthur''), so O'Toole seems the likely fifth choice.

FOR BEST ACTRESS the nominees

- Jessica Lange, "Tootsie"*
- Susan Sarandon, "Tempest"
- Sissy Spacek, "Missing"

• Debra Winger, "An Officer and a Gentleman"

It's the safest bet since Henry Fonda for "On Golden Pond" that Meryl Streep will win for "Sophie's Choice," although that really doesn't concern us here. Jessica Lange, who won notoriety for "Tootsie" and praise for her portrayal of actress Frances Farmer (in a film released in select markets in order to qualify for the Oscars), could win an Oscar bid for either film, hence the asterisk next to her name. Debra Winger deserves, and will get, a nomination for her fine performance in the best-liked sentimental film of the year, "An Officer and a Gentleman."

Because it was a lean year for actresses - and because no foreign actress distinguished herself, as is so frequently the case - the Academy likely will compensate Susan Sarandon for her loss last year, when she should have won best actress for "Atlantic City," with a nomination even though her work in "Tempest" wasn't exactly ster-

The final spot boils down to Sissy Spacek ("Missing") and Julie Andrews ("Victor, Victoria"). Spacek is the probable fifth nominee - once again her selection would be a surer bet had not "Missing" been released so long ago. Andrews turned heads with her portrayal of a woman disguised as a man disguised as a woman, but "Victor, Victoria" is nearly as old as "Missing," and Andrews' performance in it not quite so distinguished as Spacek's.

The actual nominations are due out Feb. 17. After that the Oscars are anybody's guess.

Young artists head program

"Artists of Tomorrow," featuring winners of the largest such competition in Michigan, will be the fourth concert of the 1983 season for Oakway Symphony Orchestra at 3 p.m. Feb. 20 at Harrison High School, 12 Mile west of Middlebelt, Farmington Hills.

From a field of 42 contestants, five musicians filled out the topprize positions. Mark Aghababian of Livonia, pianist, received first prize of $1,000. He played the Third Movement of the Khachaturian Piano Concerto.

A University of Michigan student, Aghababian has won numerous awards and recently won a fouryear scholarship at the School of Music, studying under Dr. Fisher at the university.

Aghababian attended Interlochen for four years and has participated in many master classes. A finalist in the Piano Technicians Concerto Competition, he also has won in a competition sponsored by the Detroit Musicians League.

BIRMINGHAM RESIDENT Carol Sahokian began her singing career at age 13 in the character of Chavalah in "Fiddler on the Roof." A U-M graduate, she has pursued her studies in voice performance with Katherine Hilgenberg A member of Pi Kappa Lambda,

Sahokian placed second in the advanced division of the 1982 Regional National Association of Teachers of Singing competition. Tied for third place are Maria

Fattore, lyric soprano, and flutist

Jeffery Zook. Fattore, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, has performed in France and Germany as well as in America. She is a member of the American Musical Cabaret Vocal Trio, the Michigan Lyric Opera and the Comic Opera Guild of Ann Arbor. Her teachers are Prof. Ena Thiessen of Hanover, West Germany, and Prof. Glenda Kirkland of Detroit.

U-M freshman Jeffery Zook began the study of the flute at age 10. A graduate of Interlochen summer programs, he has studied with

Jacqueline Hafto. Selected as soloist at the Michigan Youth Arts Festival for three years, he also has performed with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

He is winner of the Flute Division in Seventeen Magazine and General Motors National Concerto Competition at the Eastman School of Music. He studies with Judith Bentley.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD violinist Tony Cross won the fourth-place prize in the competition. Among his credits are a performance with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at a Young People's Concert and a stint at the Aspen Music Festival and the Oberlin Conservatory of Music. He studies with Stephen Clapp at the conservatory.

The program for the concert includes Weber's Ov. der Freischutz, Mozart's Concerto No. 2 in D Major, a selection from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" and J. Strauss's "Laughing Song" from "Der Fleidermaus.

Tickets at $6, $3 for senior citizens and students, are available at Madonna College, Hammel Music, Botsford Inn and Southfield Cultural Arts Division, or can be obtained by calling Oakway Symphony's office at 476-6544 or 522-7846.
