Inmate's death sparks concern

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

State and local emergency personnel are upset about procedures for answering emergency runs to the Detroit House of Corrections (DeHoCo). They say they want a police escort and they want quicker access to emergency cases.

The Feb. 2 death of a DeHoCo inmate recently brought these issues to a head.

DeHoCo Director Emmett Baylor will meet Wednesday to discuss the problems with officials from the Michigan State Police, Plymouth Police, and the Plymouth Township Fire Department.

"Going in that prison is a bad situation for our emergency personnel," said Township Fire Chief Larry Groth.

Baylor said he wasn't aware of the problems until recently.

"I understand the apprehension, but it's just a communication problem and we are going to meet to discuss it," Baylor said Friday.

"Once that's completed, I'm sure it will be a different situation," he said.

ON THE Feb. 2 emergency call, 23-year-old inmate died by the time firefighters arrived at his cell. Plymouth emergency personnel had trouble getting a police escort and said that when they arrived at the jail it took too long to reach the cell.

Manuel Thomas of Detroit was pronounced dead-on-arrival at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. The Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office still is investigating the cause of death. The investigation will take several weeks.

A DeHoCo official said the prison nurse was called when Thomas started having convulsions. The nurse requested an ambulance because Thomas was "having trouble getting air."

DeHoCo personnel contacted the fire department at 10:25 p.m.

"They said they needed the EMS unit out there on the double," said Sgt. Fred Honke, one of two ambulance attendants. Firefighter Lawrence Mass accompanied Honke on the run.

"They don't let us know what they have. Most time we get calls and they only say they need the EMS unit out there on the double," Honke said.

Plymouth police were called by the township fire department at 10:25 that night, right after the DeHoCo call. The firefighters requested a back up for the ambulance but the police refused. Police Chief Carl Berry said that DeHoCo is the city of Detroit's responsibility.

Then the Michigan State Police were called.

State troopers Richard Percy and Greg Bristol were sent to the prison.

Bristol said he arrived at DeHoCo before the ambulance, which arrived at 10:33 p.m. — eight minutes after the call.

"That was a normal response time from station two (on Wilcox Road near M-14) out to the prison," Groth said.

The troopers and firefighters were greeted at the door by a correctional officer.

"We asked the guard out front what had happened and he said he didn't know, just that we were needed upstairs," Bristol said.

"THE FIREFIGHTERS really didn't know what they had either. My understanding was that they didn't know they were responding to a life and death situation," Bristol said.

Once inside, Honke said the prison nurse informed him she had an inmate "without vital signs."

Bristol and Honke disagree on the amount of time it took from the front

Search ends for man sought in traffic death

After almost two months at large, William Matney of Westland is in jail, awaiting charges in the December traffic death of a Canton woman.

Canton police arrested Matney of Alamo Court in the Greyhound bus station in Ann Arbor at about 7:45 a.m. Friday. Acting on a tip, officers picked up Matney as he got off a bus from Washington state, said Cpl. Rob Cripe.

Matney, 25, is in Wayne County Jail, awaiting a Feb. 21 preliminary examination on a charge of manslaughter with a motor vehicle. The charge is in connection with the Dec. 17 death of Madonna C. Tharp, 34, of Canton.

MRS. THARP, a nurse at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, was riding with her son Eric, 16. Police said the Tharp vehicle was struck by Matney's car at Sheldon and Cherry Hill.

Matney allegedly fled the state while free on bond. Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court issued a bench warrant for Matney's arrest when he failed to appear for his preliminary examination Dec. 27.

Police tried to locate Matney in Tennessee and California.

"He was a little bit surprised (to be arrested)," Cripe said. "He didn't resist."

Matney was arraigned Friday at the outcounty branch of the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office. Judge Donald Neitzel of the 28th District Court entered a not-guilty plea in Matney's behalf.

Matney was sent to Wayne County Jail in lieu of $5,000 cash bond.

POLICE REPORTS show the traffic mishap occurred shortly after 5:30 p.m. Dec. 17. The following is what happened, according to police:

The Tharp car was traveling southbound on Sheldon. After checking for clear traffic, Eric Tharp turned eastbound onto Cherry Hill, and was struck on the passenger side by Matney's car.

The impact of the collision spun Tharp's vehicle into the path of a westbound car, resulting in another crash on the passenger side.

Mrs. Tharp was pronounced dead at Oakwood Hospital Canton Center immediately after the accident. No one else was seriously injured.

Matney fled the scene, police said. He was arrested at Queens Way and Cherry Hill by a Westland officer. Investigation showed that Matney was driving with his car headlights off, police said.

A Brealyzer examination showed Matney had a blood-alcohol level of 0.28, police said. Under state law, a reading of 0.10 is considered legally drunk.

Manslaughter with a motor vehicle is a felony which carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison upon conviction.

High federal road taxes could run truckers down

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The cost of keeping the rubber on the road may drive one Plymouth Township couple out of their independent trucking business.

Debi and Tim Hults honored the recent nationwide independent truckers strike for two reasons.

"Number one, I believed in what the strike was trying to accomplish — and I'm sorry it didn't get better participation," said Tim.

"Number two, there's no freight worth risking damage or harm to my wife or truck," he said last week.

Debi grew up in the Plymouth area. She married Tim 4½ years ago and started driving with him two years ago.

Although the Hultses spend most of their time on the road, they live with Debi's parents. Occasionally their big brown, orange-striped semi-truck tractor is parked outside Debi's parents home at 11021 Haggerty.

Two weeks ago, the Hultses parked their rig to protest increased taxes for truckers. For them, the increased federal highway use and fuel taxes mean one of two things — raise their rates or go out of business.

"If the rates do not go up, I can't do business," Tim said. "If nothing is changed and I run mile for mile, I cannot make my truck payments, pay my bills and eat."

The trucking legislation, passed last December, raises fuel taxes by 5 cents per gallon and raises highway-user taxes for trucks from $240 to $1,900 a year over the next five years.

However, there are other increases included in the legislation. The federal sales tax on new trucks is jumping from 10 to 12 percent. The tax on truck tires also was raised.

Tim, a trucker for 10 years, was hurting even before the tax increases.

"Rates have come down 20 percent because of competition and the trucking deregulation," he said.

Last year, Tim and Debi drove some 117,000 miles during 270 working days. They grossed $82,000 and brought home only 6 percent of that, or $4,577.

Of the $82,000 the Hultses grossed, one-third or $27,333 went to fuel and expenses. Another $38,850 went for truck payments and $7,300 went for trailer payments.

Some $3,940 went for personal and truck insurance.

"It didn't use to be this way. It use to be you could make a decent wage," Hults said.

Hults estimates it costs him 63 to 66 cents for each mile he operates his truck. He isn't certain how much it will cost him when the new taxes take effect.

According to one trucking publication, the increased fuel and highway use taxes will cost truckers an additional $7,201 through 1986.

"I haven't heard a driver yet talk against the five cents a gallon increase. We need to repair our roads," Hults said.

"Our equipment lasts longer on good roads."

"Essentially the public is going to pick up the cost on this," he said. "If not when it goes into effect, then when there's only a few of us left — and then you're going to have to pay for it."

"It affects everybody, not just independents. You can not sit down in any room at any time and point out one thing that wasn't on a truck at some point in time," he said.

The new taxes are hard to swallow for the Hultses.

"Do you really think if they built the highways the way they should have, would they be out repairing them 18 months later?" he said.

"There's a lot of things on the bill which aren't being brought out. Part of the revenues are going for mass transit."

"The railroads don't pay any of these taxes. The rails aren't paying anything toward their future, but we are," Hults said.

"They talk about all the jobs this is going to create by repairing the roads, but on the other side they're putting truck drivers out of work," he said.

All-year schools dying out

The era of year-round school is about to end.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is expected tonight to pass a resolution taking Eriksson and Field elementary schools off the Extended School Year (ESY) schedule for the coming year.

The board meeting will begin at 7:30 tonight on the second floor of administrative offices at 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

THE ACTION marks an end in Plymouth-Canton to an era of growth and signals continued declining enrollment as a way of life for the near future.

Originally ESY was tried on a pilot basis at Miller Elementary in Canton, primarily for educational reasons. The schedule then was known popularly as "45-15" as pupils attended school for 45 days and then had 15 days vacation.

As enrollment grew, though, year-round school was expanded to other elementaries and to one middle school as a means of absorbing student growth without constructing school buildings or buying large numbers of portable buildings.

By placing a building on a year-round schedule, the district was able to increase that building's enrollment capacity by one-third.

Although less expensive to put a building on ESY than to build schools, the year-round schedule did require more staffing, greater utility consumption, and other increased operational costs from a traditional nine-month schedule.

With declining enrollment already in place in Plymouth-Canton the administration has been gradually taking schools off the ESY schedule to cut operating expenses.

Field and Eriksson, both in Canton Township, are the last two buildings on ESY. Last year the school board took four elementaries (Hulsing, Miller, Isbister and Gallimore) off ESY in a cost-cutting move.

Pioneer Middle School also was on ESY at one time and was shifted to a nine-month schedule with grade realignment when ninth graders were shifted to middle school and sixth graders placed at the elementary level.

The administration estimates the district will save about $250,000 in the next fiscal year by taking Eriksson and Field off ESY.

THE BOARD earlier studied the proposed schedule changes at workshop sessions so tonight's action, if taken, would be a formal adoption of a resolution to set the process in motion. (Earlier the school board held public hearings on eliminating ESY at Eriksson and Field.)

Based on earlier studies, Field's attendance area is expected to remain the same after it goes off ESY except for about 45 kindergarten pupils who would have gone to Eriksson for one year only. They will attend Field this coming school year. Field's Talented and Gifted (TAG) program has been proposed to be moved to Miller.

Some students from the Cherry Hill-Sheldon area of Canton may be moved from Eriksson to Isbister Elementary.

The schedule changes, and any related moves, will be effective in late August after the last group of students finishes the 1982-83 school year.

Another reaction to declining enrollment besides eliminating ESY has been proposals to close Starkweather and Tanger schools. These ideas and other housing proposals will be discussed by the board at its next workshop meeting on Monday, Feb. 21, at the board offices.

Tim and Debi Hults hope the increased federal highway use and fuel taxes don't make them park their truck for good.

Hospital closing protested

By Maurie Walker
staff writer

Closing Wayne County General Hospital may not be much of a savings for the county, according to some county officials.

In charts assembled by Commissioner Kay Beard, whose districts include Westland where the hospital is located, the county still would face a total cost in the first year of the closing of nearly $23 million.

At an open meeting held last week in Inkster Recreation Center, at which more than 250 persons attended, Beard said this figure would include such on-going expenses as utilities, insurance, depreciation, supplies and repairs as well as retirement funding, unemployment compensation and retiree's hospitalization insurance.

The county would spend $4.2 million for employees' accrued vacation and sick time, $9.2 million in unemployment compensation in which the county is liable for all 52 weeks, and $800,000 in worker's compensation. There would also be fringes on earnings totaling $1.6 million, Beard said.

million, Beard said.

"Contrary to popular belief, patients don't just come from the western Wayne County suburbs. All of Wayne County uses the hospital," she said.

THE HOSPITAL, in the year ending Nov. 30, handled 15,526 out-patients who came from all areas of the county including Detroit, Hamtramck, Highland Park and the Grosse Pointes. Emergency patients from these areas handled by the hospital totaled 4,222.

Added to these figures, the hospital handled 87,809 out patients from surrounding cities, including Westland, Allen Park, Ecorse, Belleville and Livonia.

Emergency patients from all of Wayne County totaled 31,303.

"Where would all those patients be cared for if the hospital is closed?" Beard asked.

Beard told the gathering that the board of commissioners "does not recommend the closing of the hospital."

"No proposals have come to the commission from Wayne County Executive William Lucas," she added.

FORDELL said he was in attendance to support the maintenance of the hospital.

Bard Young, UAW representative, speaking as a resident, said "the biggest violator of the Wayne County budget has been Lucas."

"We need equality of sacrifice, not just the employees," he said. "What we need is a 14 percent wage cut at the executive level. Sacrifice begins at home," he added.

Young said the hospital has always lost money but has been maintained. "It's one place where poor people can go and be served and not need an insurance card."

RAYMOND JOSEPH, director of the hospital's department of medicine, said that if Lucas wants the employees to give, "you have to give."

"When a ship is sinking, you don't sink the life boats," he added.

Dr. Gerald L. Cox of Garden City, a former Schoolcraft College trustee, said Lucas should re-examine his budget.

"It cost $34 million for a new jail, $4 million for the hospital. Where's the priorities?"

Laureate winners announced

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will honor seven students tonight for their outstanding achievements in expressive writing.

During the past summer, members of the District Laureate Board read more than 60 books written by students in grades 1-6.

The Laureate Board selected seven of these works to receive Laureate Prizes for Literature. Those seven will be honored by the school board at its meeting tonight at 7:30.

The authors and their works are: Jeremy Woods, a sixth-grader at Hulsing, author of "Mantiba"; Joshua Worth, a fifth-grader at Farrand, "Search for the Laser Stone"; Wade Garard, a fifth-grader at Smith, "The Red Line"; Melissa Ballios, a third-grader at Field, "The Tale of Henry Fieldmouse"; Aaron Karvako, a first-grader at Fiegel, "A Haunted House"; Gary Minneman, a third-grader at Smith, "A Young Astronaut"; and Lesley Carmichael, a sixth-grader at Farrand, "From Sheep to Rainbows."

These students will receive Laureate medals inscribed with their initials during tonight's ceremony. School board members also will interview the authors about their books and future writing plans.

The award-winning books have been published in anthology form. Copies of this anthology will be placed in all elementary and middle school libraries in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to serve as models of excellent writing.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON'S Junior Basketball Association (PCJBA) celebrates 19 years of competition and service to boys and girls in the community.

The organization provides practice and game action for hundreds of children, grades 3-12. It also serves as an important "feeder program" for future stars on junior varsity and varsity cage squads at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

Many prep coaches credit their successful programs to Plymouth-Canton little league groups.

School gymnasiums remain crowded on weeknights for practices and on Saturdays for game competition. Eight leagues in various age divisions highlight PCJBA activities.

All players must compete at least one-quarter of each game, according to league rules. The youngest players compete in an instructional league. Each child must play at least one-half of the game in this age division and no standings are tabulated.

Countless coaches, league directors and executive board members aid PCJBA's continued success in the community. More than 300 adult volunteers donate their time and effort to help the program run smoothly.

The organization also offers experience and income to high school students who work as referees each week. In fact, these teen-age officials are the only paid personnel in the association.

Playoff action begins on Feb. 26 at various gymnasiums. Admission is free.

Both the tall and the short compete in Plymouth-Canton's Junior Basketball Association. Teammates Missy Smith (2) and Karen Boluch of the Wings practice a defensive drill before their game with the Apolos.

Plymouth DPW workers were busy last week setting up pedestals and hauling in blocks of ice for the community's first ice carving winter spectacular, sponsored by the city of Plymouth and the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, Mayflower Hotel and individual merchants. Kellogg Park was busy Saturday with crowds who came to watch professional and student chefs carve more than 60 individual ice carvings plus three major pieces. For a pictorial report, see Thursday's Plymouth Observer.

Inmate death at DeHoCo sparks concern on method

 door to the second floor cell where Thomas was.

"It took us two to three minutes," Bristol said.

Honke said 14 minutes elapsed from DeHoCo's phone call until they reached Thomas, meaning the trip inside DeHoCo took six minutes.

However, both men said the trip inside DeHoCo could have been quicker. "We had quite a few locked doors to go through," said Bristol. "At no time were we told to wait, it's just a slow pace there."

"Personally, I think it could have been done a little bit quicker," he said. "It would have speeded up things if they had the doors open and been prepared for us — but I'm not saying that would have saved the patient," Honke said.

BY THE time troopers and firefighters arrived at the cell, Thomas had stopped breathing.

"The patient had no vital signs. He was taken to St. Mary Hospital and pronounced dead," Groth said.

Standard procedure for going into DeHoCo requires a call for police backup. The township responds to DeHoCo about 12 times a year, he said.

"I want the police to go in there with us and come out of there with us," Groth said.

"It's just harassment and you never know what's going to happen. My men are there to do a job and it's usually life and death," he said.

Honke wants the emergency medical personnel protected when they enter DeHoCo.

"I don't think there's that many guards around. Having a police backup gives us a little more confidence," Honke said.

"Some of the equipment we take in there can be used as a weapon," he said.

Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry said his department doesn't make a practice of going into DeHoCo.

"My understanding is that there is suppose to be a sufficient number of guards out there," he said.

THERE IS one guard assigned to each floor, according to Baylor.

"My opinion is that DeHoCo is owned and operated by the city of Detroit and they should have their own police and investigators out there," Berry said.

"What value is it sending an armed police officer in if he has to turn in his gun?"

"My officer's aren't familiar with their procedures and their presence might cause a provocation," Berry said.

"If you're going in to offer assistance, you want to help the situation — not provoke the incident," he said.

The State Police agree.

"I don't think the fire department should call just to go into DeHoCo," said Lt. Robert Pearson, of the Northville Post.

"Our reason for being there (Feb. 2), as always, was to investigate — not to back-up an ambulance," Pearson said.

The Feb. 2 response to DeHoCo was Bristol's second trip into the prison.

"I don't think there's any need for us, but who are we to tell the firefighters no?" Bristol said.

"I think they're just a little bit nervous, but so am I when I go in there. I don't know what I can do that the DeHoCo guards can't do — my gun has to be checked at the front."

"Plymouth could just as easily go in there with them, but it's not worth arguing about," Bristol said.

BAYLOR SAID the fears of the emergency workers were unfounded.

"The guys here, even though they are tough, are not crazy and would not do something to get themselves more time. They're more prone to stand and watch," he said.

SPACE MAINTAINERS

If a child's front tooth is knocked out by accident, under the right circumstances and time-frame, it might be able to be replanted successfully. However, if the knocked-out tooth is a baby tooth, due to fall out soon, the dentist may do nothing. A missing back tooth, however, whether lost by accident or extraction, needs a space maintainer to prevent other teeth from drifting into the space. An overcrowded space would prevent the permanent tooth from coming in properly.

There are a number of devices available depending on the situation. The most common types involve putting a metal band over the tooth on either side of the space, taking an impression, and then joining the bands by attaching a metal bar to each. The bands are cemented to the teeth, and the bar prevents the teeth from drifting toward each other.

It is just as important that the space maintainer be removed at the proper time (when the permanent tooth comes in) or there will be new problems. Therefore, it is important to have your child see the dentist regularly, especially if he or she has a space maintainer.

Tumbling classes open this week

A floor gymnastics program offered by the Plymouth Community Family YMCA opens this week with registration being held open until Monday, Feb. 21.

Randy Lamb of Plymouth is instructor for the class, which is being held at the gym at Starkweather Elementary School in Old Village.

The class will meet 4-5 p.m. for youngsters ages 4-6 and 5-6 p.m. for those age 6½-11. Persons may register for two to five days a week, Monday through Friday.

Basic tumbling techniques will be taught during the six-week program, said Lamb, with emphasis on developing agility and advancing fitness.

Lamb, who is a 1981 graduate of Plymouth Salem High, has 14 years of gymnastics experience. He is a member of the Fairlane Ballet Company, is currently studying for a career in theater, and is now doing choreography for the musical "Annie Get Your Gun!" being produced by the drama department at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

College lost friend when Kehrl died in 1975

(Part XL)

In June 1975 Gene Hirs of Birmingham donated 4,000 shares of Hydramation Filter Company common stock worth $20,000 to Schoolcraft College. Hirs was president of the company, located in Livonia, which had just been sold to Amsted Industries of Chicago.

The gift to Schoolcraft was part of a $750,000 educational donation Hirs made at the time to 32 recipients throughout the state. He stipulated that the money was to be used for educational, not construction, purposes.

During the same month, Schoolcraft's board of trustees approved a five-year lease with the Garden City School District for use of its Harrison Elementary School. It was to open the following July. The Florence School location was used for the 1975-76 year after which college classes were moved to the new location.

At the same meeting, the board accepted a $109,400 grant from the National Science Foundation for development of a two-year petroleum technology program with John Bedford, Schoolcraft geology instructor, as project director.

It also named Ronald L. Griffith to the position of dean of continuing education and community services. Griffith, who joined the college in 1971, earned his bachelor of science and master's of education degrees from Moorhead State University.

past and present

Sam Hudson

In November 1975, the college lost one of its former trustees and good friends, Floyd A. Kehrl, Plymouth banker and Northville resident. Kehrl, age 72, died of heart failure during surgery at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Kehrl had contributed the carillon tower bells to the college, and had served a six-month's appointed term on the college board. In 1972, Schoolcraft awarded him an honorary associate of applied science degree.

Kehrl, who was born on a turkey farm in Livonia on April 28, 1903, graduated from Plymouth High School. He attended the University of Michigan for a short time before beginning a banking career in Plymouth that lasted 47 years. In addition to the college, his philanthropies benefited many other educational, religious and civic organizations. He is buried in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

AT THE MARCH 24, 1976, meeting of the board, Jeff Stabenau, president of the Schoolcraft Student Senate, asked the trustees to permit students to have a non-voting advisory seat on the college board and to recognize the students as a third party to collective bargaining at the college.

He declared that students, as the largest group on the campus, should have a committee of three to meet with the college bargaining unit and representatives of the Faculty Forum during wage negotiations.

Board president Paul Kadish said the trustees preferred to listen and respond to students' recommendations through a board-appointed ad hoc committee. Trustee Leroy Bennett of Plymouth questioned the legality of granting a third party a voice in contract negotiations. He suggested that Stabenau run for the board if he wanted a say in its actions.

It was announced that Kehrl had left $100,000 in his will to Schoolcraft college and, in May, the trustees said the sum would be invested in long-term bank certificates. The estimated $7,500 annual income would be used, in part, for a student aid fund to be known as the "Floyd A. Kehrl Memorial Award Fund." It provides grants to worthy students in need of financial assistance. The other part established the "Shirley Kehrl Memorial Loan Fund," in honor of Kehrl's first wife. It provides short-term loans.

The board also announced that the $25,000 Louise Thayer Bryan bequest had been invested and the $1,875 annual income would be used to promote various art forms by attracting to the campus recognized, artists, artisans, craftsmen and musicians for lectures, seminars, demonstrations and exhibits.

The gift of $20,000 in stock made by Gene Hirs had been liquidated. Its $1,500 annual income was to be spent to promote research and development in the technologies by providing funds for materials, equipment and supplies to support innovative projects conducted by the faculty in programs related to their area of teaching responsibility.

ON JUNE 14, 1976, the millage election campaign brought an odd twist.

Among those who supported the college's request for a five-year 0.53 mill increase were State Sen. Carl Pursell, and State Rep. Robert Geake and John Markes. But the increase was vigorously opposed by Plymouth trustee Archie Vallier, always a man with a mind of his own.

The only one of the college's eight trustees to speak out against the millage proposal, Vallier said he objected to a practice that had evolved of assessing debt retirement millage above the 1.77 mills approved by voters in 1966.

At the time, voters had been told that the 1.77 mills was to cover operations plus debt retirement. But in subsequent years, to avoid drastic budget cuts, the board had been levying debt retirement millage above that figure.

A legal interpretation had said that debt retirement millages didn't have to be approved by the voters. Vallier admitted that the practice was not illegal, and that the college needed the money, but he said "it's unethical."

On June 14, 1976, the millage proposal went down to defeat.

Courting and working in the 'good old days'

What was it like in your young days when you were finished high school and began courting and entering the work world?

This question is often asked of The Stroller by the young fellows of the modern generation, especially after they have taken their "best" girl to dinner and complained about the high cost of the senior prom when they finished their high school days.

When it is asked, The Stroller is forced to smile for what we now call "the good old days" were far different from what we now experience, especially in terms of money.

For instance when The Stroller was forced to leave school following the death of his father, mother urged him to learn a trade. She advised him that what he had in his head no one could steal from him.

So he entered the employ of the Atlas Portland Cement Co., then the largest in the world — as an apprentice in the machine shop at the going rate of five and one half cents an hour for the first year and an advance of 10 cents an hour in each of the next three.

He has to smile now when he recalls that when he stepped to the pay window every two weeks, he was given an envelope with $7.60 enclosed. Imagine that — and he had to pay 10 cents a day carfare and carry his own lunch.

Then came the end of his apprenticeship and he hired out as a full-fledged machinist at the going rate of 25 cents an hour, provided he worked the night shift of 13 hours a night for five nights each week. That meant he was paid little more than $16 a week. And that was tops.

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

When war broke out in the late 'teens, he went to work in the Bethlehem Steel Company for what was then an unbelievable sum of 48 cents an hour on the night shift.

With the end of the war, Dame Fortune guided him to a newspaper office where he was paid $20 a week. That was the going rate.

He has to smile now as he looks back and recalls that he was lured to Detroit for $40 a week. Imagine that, leaving home and coming to a strange environment for $45 a week.

But that was "good" money in those days following the war.

Street car fares were only a nickel. The movies were a quarter and the best meal in the favorite restaurants was less than $1.50. Just imagine, that was less than you sometimes leave as a tip when dining out these days.

House rents in Detroit, when The Stroller married and started a home, were only $60 a month. And when the depression came in 1929 the landlord accepted any sum he could afford to pay.

The young folks look with amazement when The Stroller recalls that there were no such things as junior and senior proms in his day. Instead, after commencement exercises in the high school, the class broke up in small groups and staged an ice cream party in one of the student's homes.

Yes, things are different now. Workers in the steel mill at Ford are paid $26 an hour. Clerks in the super markets are paid $16 an hour and young fellows are paid at the rate of $3 an hour for cutting grass in the summer-time at the golf course.

Things are a lot different than they were in what we older folks refer to as "the good old days."

IT'S TEATIME!

Yes, indeed! All over the country, in the finest hotels and restaurants, the hours between three and five are being devoted to serving that most gracious and relaxed of meals — afternoon tea.

In the elegant, flower-filled lounge of the Mayfair Regent Hotel on New York City's Park Avenue, for instance, it's the time to relax with friends and enjoy quiet conversation "over the teacups." Guests are offered a choice of teas, brewed in individual white teapots, carefully kept warm under pretty tea cozies. Sandwiches are made with the thinnest of breads, scones are accompanied by an individual jar of strawberry jam and a little crock of "hard" whipped cream. A selection of luscious cakes is also available, including a delectable pear tart.

Afternoon tea is a delightful way to entertain in your own home. Do it on a weekend or holiday after the workaday week is over. Get out your Sunday-best china and linens; splurge on some pretty flowers. Refreshments can be as simple or as elaborate as you wish. Serve traditionally paper-thin sandwiches filled with cucumber slices and watercress sprigs or spread with anchovy paste. Or break with tradition and serve an array of open-faced canapé-style sandwiches. Either kind should start out with the perfect slice for tea sandwiches — very thin bread — white and whole wheat — and just right for tea sandwiches. Directions for these eye-catching, palate-pleasing tidbits follow.

For the pièce de resistance you couldn't do better than to reproduce the Mayfair's pear tart. Start with a sheet of frozen puff pastry to make a flaky tart shell. This is then filled with a creamy custard, topped with fresh pear slices and glazed with apricot preserves.

Make sure that the tea you serve is freshly made, hot and fragrant. Start with a good quality tea to insure that you'll have a brew that relaxes and revives at the same time. Just follow the simple rules below to bring out the fine qualities and full flavor of the particular tea you choose.

THE PERFECT POT OF TEA

- Use a teapot, preheating it by rinsing it out with hot water.
- Bring freshly drawn cold tap water to a full rolling boil.
- Put the tea (one teabag or one teaspoon of loose tea per serving) into warmed teapot.
- Pour the bubbling water (about 5-1/2 ounces per serving) over the tea.
- Cover and let stand 3 to 5 minutes.
- Remove teabags and stir before pouring.
- If you like tea less strong, add a little hot water after the brewing period.
- Serve with milk (not cream) or with lemon slices, and sugar to taste.

FRENCH FRESH PEAR TART

1 Frozen Puff Pastry Sheet
Yolks of three large eggs

- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 ripe pear, peeled, cored, halved and thinly sliced crosswise
- 1/3 cup apricot preserves, strained and heated

Thaw puff pastry for 20 minutes, then unfold. On a lightly floured surface, roll one sheet to a 10-1/2 x 17-1/2 inch rectangle. Trim edges so rectangle measures an even 10 x 17 inches. From one short end cut two 1-1/4 inch wide strips. From a long side, cut four 1-1/4 inch wide strips. Moisten the top of all the pastry strips and a 1-1/4 inch wide border around the outside of the pastry rectangle with water. Arrange pastry strips in two layers around edges of rectangle, moist strips down, cutting when necessary, to fit. Press firmly with fingers; then press edges with tines of a fork to seal. Using a sharp knife, make shallow diagonal slashes 1/2 inch apart around pastry border. Transfer tart shell to baking sheet and prick the inside very well with the tines of a fork. Line with wax paper and fill with rice or dried beans. Freeze 30 minutes. Bake in a preheated 425° oven for 10 to 12 minutes or until puffed and golden. Remove, discard wax paper and rice and cool shell completely.

In a bowl, beat egg yolks, sugar and flour together until smooth. In a medium sized saucepan, over moderately high heat, bring milk to a boil. Stirring constantly with a wire whisk, gradually add milk to egg mixture. Return egg-milk mixture to pan, add vanilla and heat over moderately low heat for 5 to 7 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and is the consistency of a thick pudding. Pour immediately into a bowl and put a sheet of plastic wrap directly on the surface of the cream. Chill at least 1 hour or until very cold.

Spread cream filling evenly over the inside of the baked tart shell. Top with pear slices and brush with apricot preserves to glaze. Refrigerate for 2 to 3 hours and serve. Makes 1 tart, 8 servings.

TEA SANDWICHES

Using a sharp knife, cut crusts off very thin white and whole wheat bread. Cut bread slices into ovals, diamonds, triangles, squares and other fancy shapes. Top with any of the following:

- Spread with cream cheese and top with red salmon caviar.
- Spread with cream cheese and top with a thin slice of smoked salmon and a sprig of dill.
- Spread with cream cheese or butter and top with sieved egg yolk, black lumpfish caviar and sieved egg white arranged in a stripe pattern.
- Spread with butter and top with thin-slices of cucumber and/or tomato; sprinkle with salt and pepper.
- Spread with Blue Cheese Butter* and top with thin-sliced red radishes and capers.
- *BLUE CHEESE BUTTER: Mix 1/2 cup softened butter with 4 ounces crumbled blue cheese. Mix until smooth.
- Spread with Herbed Watercress Butter* and top with sliced cherry tomatoes and a sprig of watercress or thin pieces of smoked salmon.
- *HERBED WATERCRESS BUTTER: In a food processor, put 1/2 cup softened butter, 1 cup packed watercress leaves and 3, 3 inch long pieces of scallion or green onion. Cover and process until smooth. Add salt and pepper to taste.
- Spread with Strawberry Cream Cheese* and fresh strawberries.
- *STRAWBERRY CREAM CHEESE: Beat 1/4 cup strawberry preserves with 6 ounces softened cream cheese.
- Spread with Ham and Almond Paté* and top with sliced black olives and a sprig of dill.
- *HAM AND ALMOND PATÉ: Put 1/4 cup chopped almonds, 1/4 pound boiled ham, 3 ounces softened cream cheese, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/8 teaspoon paprika, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 drops Tabasco sauce and 2 to 3 tablespoons sour cream into food processor. Cover and process until smooth.
- Spread with Gingered Cream Cheese* and top with kiwi-fruit slices.
- *GINGERED CREAM CHEESE: Mix 3 ounces softened cheese with 1-1/2 tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger and 1 tablespoon ginger syrup.
- Spread with Curry-Chutney Butter* and top with a piece of thin-sliced boiled ham.
- *CURRY-CHUTNEY BUTTER: Mix 1/2 cup softened butter with 3/4 teaspoon curry powder and 1-1/2 tablespoons chopped chutney.

Here's a Waldorf for your salad file

Each time my wife asks me for the recipe for Waldorf salad, I go bananas. "Didn't you save it?" I recently asked, recalling that the last time I helped make the salad I wrote it down.

"You must have it somewhere," Anita insisted.

I did — in my head. Since quite often when we have company she likes to serve the colorful salad, I decided it was time the recipe went into a column so I can fish it out of my files when needed.

However, I did a little research and learned: Various recipes call for differing proportions of celery and nuts to apples.

You can pare the apples or serve them with their skins. Apples can be cut in slender strips or diced.

Celery can be coarsely chopped or shaved.

You can use walnuts, toasted almonds or pecans.

You can coat the salad with mayonnaise, simple dressing or something special.

Anita dictated most of the directions, but I got in two licks:

Apples dipped in lemon water to prevent discoloration while refrigerating and whipped cream dressing instead of plain mayonnaise.

Next time, I won't have any trouble finding the recipe.

WALDORF SALAD

6 tart red apples, unpared and cut up
Juice of 1/2 lemon
1 cup water
1 cup chopped celery hearts
1 cup broken walnuts
Whipped cream dressing
Lettuce leaves

Dip apples in mixture of lemon juice and water, place in container and refrigerate separately with celery while preparing dressing. Combine apples, celery and nuts with enough dressing to moisten. Serve on lettuce leaves. Pass remainder of dressing at table. Serves 6-9.

Controlled storage for apples brings autumn taste to winter

The pick of the 1982 bumper crop of Michigan apples is coming to market now. The reason being that controlled atmosphere storages are now being opened.

Prime quality controlled atmosphere (CA) apples are so crunchy you'd almost think it's autumn all over again. Shoppers will know they are getting CA apples by the CA label on the bag or container.

CA apples contain more than just good fall-fresh flavor and crunch. The mere 87 calories of a medium apple deliver fiber, pectin and potassium but hardly a hint of sodium.

Controlled atmosphere storages literally put just-picked apples on hold, explains Donald Dewey, horticulture professor and apple expert at MSU. CA storages accomplish this by combining low temperatures with an atmosphere in which levels of the carbon dioxide and oxygen are closely controlled.

The optimum temperature and storage conditions differ with each variety, so different varieties require separate rooms. The CA storage rooms are filled in the fall, sealed and carefully monitored daily.

As a result, a wide variety of Michigan apples is available throughout the year. The Michigan storage report shows holdings of eight varieties including the old favorites, Northern Spy, Rome and Winesap.

CA storage is one of the greatest breakthroughs in fresh apple storage ever developed. It has been tried for other fresh fruits and vegetables but is not nearly as effective as with apples. Apples from CA storages do cost more, but their autumn-fresh crispness and flavor are worth it.

To maintain moisture and other quality characteristics in fresh CA apples, store them in a plastic bag in the refrigerator. They break down in just hours at room temperature, undoing all the growers', packers' and retailers' efforts to get a good product to you. Buy no more than a 10-day supply at a time — a home refrigerator does not duplicate the specialized conditions found in CA storages.

Apples are truly the anytime, anywhere fruit. With an edible peeling and no seeds or crumbs to contend with, fresh apples make an ideal snack at home or in the car.

Ethel Moody gave more than 6,000 free blood pressure tests last year. Has yours been checked recently?

Lots of folks call Ethel, Miss Blood Pressure, because she's one of the Red Cross volunteers who gives free blood pressure tests.

"High blood pressure is a silent disease," warns Ethel. "Generally, there are no symptoms. The only way to tell if you've got it is to have your blood pressure taken."

About 35 million Americans have high blood pressure. It's a leading cause of stroke, heart disease and kidney problems.

Prompt treatment reduces that danger. In most people, high blood pressure can be lowered and kept under control.

When was the last time you had your blood pressure checked? If you can't remember, it's been too long. Call your doctor. Or call us.

EI smooths over problems while seeking 'better ideas'

By Sherry Kahan
staff writer

When Cathy Evans talked, the Ford Motor Co. listened.

The Westland resident presented an idea to her boss in the Engine and Electrical Engineering (Triple E) office in Dearborn.

"Why not introduce an employee-involvement program?" she suggested. It's a new concept which allows employees a greater say in work-related situations.

Dave Hagen, chief engineer at Triple E, passed the idea on to his boss and up it went to higher echelons. Each time Evans, at that time a software computer technician, made the presentation.

The answer came down: Go ahead.

A pilot program was started in May 1981 in the Advanced Engine Engineering office, which has about 200 employees. Evans was assigned to implement the program. When it proved successful she was given the job of broadening it a year later to the 1,500 employees in the Triple E department.

This move would probably have astonished the founding father of the Ford Motor Co., the first Henry, who once had his office in the Triple E building.

"My role is a true example of employee involvement," said Evans, who started at Ford 10 years ago as a secretary. "They listened to the little guy who had an idea and let that person implement it. They gave me authority and accountability."

A single parent of two children, Tracey, 14, and Jason, 12, Evans learned about employee involvement in a class at Madonna College, where she recently earned a bachelor's degree in business administration.

"I had a really good instructor, Leon Pratkanicki," she said. "He helped me realize it was possible, with hard work and sound business plans, to succeed at implementing employee involvement. I followed his advice in thoroughly studying the topic before proposing the idea to management."

EMPLOYEE INVOLVEMENT or EI, as its come to be known at Ford, had been introduced successfully in a number of Ford factories around the country.

Endorsed by the United Auto Workers, it also has been brought into Chrysler plants and under the name, Quality of Work Life, into General Motors factories.

Through her own research Evans learned it is also being tried by such corporations as Honeywell, Hewlett-Packard and Texas Instruments.

After Evans made her suggestion, EI began to move through office doors into white collar areas in Dearborn. Today all the engineering offices in the Dearborn complex have implemented EI.

The focal point of this implementation is 16 EI teams. That's where problems are raised and solutions sought by secretaries, clerks, draftsmen and engineers.

One of the engineering teams meets each Tuesday for about an hour at a rectangular table in the Triple E building. These are the men who have a big role in designing the Ford engine. The 10 volunteers sit on either side of the table. No one sits at the head.

"Everyone in the group is equal," said Joe Scott of Livonia, senior supervising engineer. "No one dominates more than the other. If it happens, we stop it."

SCOTT SAID that team members received orientation at first on such topics as team building and communication.

"At the end of it we made a commitment to each other to work as a unit," he said. "Before involving ourselves in problem solving, we surveyed problems relative to our group and made a list. By consensus we selected the one we wanted to pursue."

Another Livonian Lee Widmann, principal design engineer, outlined the problem selected.

"We do test work," he said. "Part of the test work is being able to review parts after they complete a test, a hands-on review. The attempt here is to improve efficiency so that design engineers are notified of the availability of these test components. We want to have four or five days to make a review instead of only two or three."

Bill Patterson, product design engineer who lives in Canton, said the team is still fact-finding.

"When we feel we have a solution we will present it to our manager," he said. "He's said he will go to bat for us and try to implement it. We'd be grateful if we accomplished something."

FLOYD COMER, a product engineer who also lives in Canton, agreed. "This seems to be a real forum to straighten out inefficiencies in the system," he said.

Widmann added: "The idea of EI is to alleviate frustration. Our goal is to improve the employee's ability to do his job."

Frank Crocco, design product engineer of Utica, observed: "Anytime you can improve the working environment, individuals will be happier and do a better job."

Scott introduced an interesting side effect about the training team members receive.

"Not only do we benefit Ford," he said, "but EI also has an effect on people outside the company and in our own families. One of my problems was not being a good listener. Now I'm a better listener."

'They listened to the little guy who had an idea and let that person implement it. They gave me authority and accountability.'

— Cathy Evans
EI founder

Cathy Evans then stressed that EI is not just a problem-solving program. "It is participatory management," she noted. "It's a case of trying to give employees an opportunity to contribute to the decisions that affect them."

DIANA ANDERSON of Plymouth is the leader of the eight-member secretarial EI group in the building where the pilot program began.

"When we first started we had the problem of building trust among the group," she said. "Before EI, all the secretaries sat at their own desk, doing their job, suffering the problems that came along, not communicating. So when we started we had a lot of training to do on communication, problem solving, listening skills and team building."

"The team brought us closer as a group," commented Livonia Kelly Beitzel. "We didn't even know the other girls. We were anxious to get involved. When Cathy (Evans) started training a group of engineers, we asked for it for secretaries."

"It gave us the opportunity to do more things. We are more valued now, more recognized as a group. We're happier."

Two problems attacked by EI team were interoffice mail delivery and manning the phones during lunch. They solved both to their satisfaction. The difficulty with the mail was that each secretary had to appoint someone to deliver it around the Dearborn complex, rather than have a permanent courier, Anderson said.

The solution that management agreed to was to arrange for each supervisor to be responsible for the mail 10 weeks at a time, Tania Parry of West Bloomfield said.

NO TIME WAS lost on a victory party. The women moved on to find a better method to cover the phones at noon. Today one person covers one day a week in rotation.

Like the engineers, the secretaries found that EI had a ripple effect.

"It has benefited the company because it gets more production from us," said Anderson. "The company understands us better. We're solving problems at our own level. It eliminates that burden from management. We're learning to conduct better meetings. We feel better about ourselves."

"I carry the concept into home management," Parry said.

"I'm not a crab when I go home," Beitzel said. She added that a request for cookies this year for the building Christmas party found all groups contributing.

"Gradually people are getting more involved with what goes on in the building. A newsletter was started with the quiet ones who are never involved submitting things to the paper."

WHILE EMPLOYMENT involvement changed the feelings of many about their work, for Cathy Evans at 35, it meant a big job change and a step up the corporate ladder. After the pilot program "took off," she became coordinator of EI for 1,700 employees. It's a job that is so new there is no formal Ford job classification for it.

A person who prefers to deal with people rather than machines, Evans doesn't mind shouting from the rooftops about her fondness for her new position.

"I love my job," she said. "It's fantastic. My learning curve has been tremendous. It's exciting. It's challenging. I can't imagine doing anything else."

Four facilitators work with her, Hilma Whipple of Plymouth, John Wyrwas of Southfield, Steve Wilson of Northville and Al Lecz of Allen Park.

She believes strongly in the program, but wants its extent clearly understood.

"We suggest that employees stay away from corporate policy such as reviewing Ford's stock program, and personal problems such as not getting a raise in three years," she said.

She drew attention to the fact that teams make recommendations, but only management has the authority to implement them.

"Some managers consider EI a threat," she said. "There are some skeptics in the organization. Some think we don't have time for EI. My response is we can't afford not to do it."

A survey proved to be reassuring. Members of two departments were surveyed.

One had EI, the other didn't. The people with EI felt better about their jobs than the other group.

"They felt management was listening," Evans said.

Simon comedy plays Homer's True Grist

"Barefoot in the Park," the Neil Simon favorite, is playing through March 27 at the True Grist Ltd. restaurant and dinner theater in Homer.

Performances are Thursday-Sunday evenings, with matinees Wednesdays and Sundays. Student rates are accepted every night but Saturdays. For reservations call 517-548-4151.

The comedy is the story of newlyweds Corie and Paul and their first home — an outrageously expensive, six-floor-walk-up with leaking skylight, lukewarm radiator and looney neighbor. "Barefoot in the Park" has been playing to theater audiences for nearly 20 years.

True Grist's production stars Rockland Mers, who made his debut at the mill theater as Sgt. Trotter in "The Mousetrap," and Mary Lynn Strand, who has appeared at the mill in "The Learned Ladies" and "Something's Afoot."

FEATURED AS the neighbor is Bobb James, who starred in True Grist's last production, "I Do I Do." Opposite him as Corie's slightly daffy mother is Lansing actress Leonor Reizen.

Completing the cast are resident company regulars Tim McKanlic and Charles Burr.

"Barefoot" is directed by Richard Strand, whose set designs were seen on the True Grist stage last season. Strand also has appeared onstage at the mill in "The Learned Ladies" and "Something's Afoot."

Now based in Chicago, he has directed for a number of theaters there. Last summer he was director for Alpena's Thunder Bay Theatre.

Greg Bryant, new technical director at True Grist, is handling sets and the movies

Louise Snider

Mother's search for missing son intrigues audience

Taut and suspenseful, "Without a Trace" captures the audience at the beginning and holds it to the end. The film never deviates from its central theme, the efforts of a mother to find her missing son.

There is an intensity and single-mindedness about the effort that is totally engrossing. Other issues arise regarding personal relationships, police procedures and the role of the media, but these aren't allowed to distract us or dilute the impact of the film.

It was directed by Stanley R. Jaffe from a script by Beth Gutcheon, who has done an exceptional job. The strength of the film lies in its strong script with believable dialogue delivered by fine actors.

Kate Nelligan (who also was excellent in the spy thriller "The Eye of the Needle") plays Susan Selky, the mother of 6-year-old Alex (Daniel Bryan Corkill). One morning he sets off on his usual two-block walk to school and disappears.

NELLIGAN HAS the difficult task, which she handles with great sensitivity, of portraying a woman struggling to control her emotions and act rationally under circumstances that defy normal behavior.

She is an educated woman on the English faculty of Columbia University. By her upbringing and training, she is disposed to present an appearance that suggests she is calm and collected. She is not the sort of person to externalize her inner feelings. Yet now she is in a situation where she is filled with anguish, anger and fear.

Nelligan, with just the right quiver in her voice, tightness in her smile and edginess in her movements projects all this and more. In public, there are the infrequent outbursts of temper. Alone in her room, we see her give in to her grief.

Her husband (David Duke — Slot in "The Winds of War"), from whom she is separated, is there initially to share the trauma, and her friends and neighbors are there for moral support, especially her divorced friend Margaret (Stockard Channing).

However, as months pass, a distance and uneasiness grow between Susan and the others. They expect her to "face reality" and accept her loss. For Susan, reality means continuing to look and hope.

The person closest to her during this ordeal is Lt. Menetti (Judd Hirsch), the police officer in charge of the case. He directs the search with energetic determination and dedication. As time elapses and the boy is not found, he begins to question his judgment and actions. Eventually, he also begins to feel that reality is resignation.

CRISP EDITING and directing keep us involved with the characters and the action as we ride the same roller coaster of emotions. Bouts of hope and despair alternate as the police check out one lead and suspect after another.

It would be criminal of any reviewer to reveal the ending of this film, but I would like to add a warning which I hope will add to the confusion. To those who have read Gutcheon's novel on which this movie is based, remember that movies take artistic liberties with novels and may or may not lead to the same conclusion.

Nelligan is the mother of a 6-year-old, played by Danny Corkill, who disappears after he sets off for school one morning.

Charbono offers red wine alternate

The wine drinker who is seeking an attractive red alternative to cabernet sauvignon, zinfandel, pinot noir, petite sirah and others has that choice. Consider charbono, a muscular, beefy, usually tannic wine of pleasant dimension.

In spite of the spelling, the origins of the grape appear to be almost certainly French, although it is not produced there as a varietal today. It has been known there under the name charbonneau, but is now a modest success in California under its more Italianate name.

It goes back to well into the last century when it was a sometimes success in California in pre-phloxyra days. There is evidence of an 1882 issue from Inglenook, making it the ancestor of those now being offered. Because of its characteristics, it is often confused with barbera (this even happened at Inglenook for a time, according to old California wine lore), both wines being very earthy and long-lived when vinified for the long life they deserve.

However, only charbono boasts its own society that on occasion gathers in California to taste the comparative efforts of the six winemakers who presently bottle the wine. (The Wine Spectator occasionally reports the results of these unusual evenings.)

FOR A VARIETY of reasons Inglenook is the most noteworthy of the present six producers. The 1977 vintage has just been issued and earned honors in several judgments, a most esteemed issue. Still available on wine store shelves will be earlier vintages, which should be at affordable prices.

Inglenook has missed a few vintages in the last decade. I have drunk all the vintages I could and find them all full, pleasant and carrying the potential for long bottle life.

Perhaps more than any other winemaker, Inglenook has done yeoman service to keep this grape alive to our attention. (There is a 1978 vintage in the wings.)

But there now are others. Parducci Winery in Mendocino has a decade or more experience behind it issuing this wine. Most of the bottles tasted suggest that, with age, Parducci's charbonos tend to be the softest and gentlest around. Try the 1975 vintage currently available.

Franciscan's new release, a 1978, is its first available to us in Michigan. Made from 100 percent charbono grapes (it is not known as a good blender), it is a big and chewy issue. Very nice.

NOT AVAILABLE in Michigan is Ernie Fortino's charbono from the Hecker Pass area of Santa Clara County. He tends to vinify the wine to be more in line with his Italian background than any other. And it is a grape that will take that kind of treatment.

Papagni also makes the wine but I have not been able to find any.

Finally, and most important, and the reason behind this article, is the release of Souverin Cellars. This 1978 issue is currently available locally and, at a very fair price (about $5.50), is the wine

best charbono of the grape by far. It is not hindered by being the unidimensional beast that it can be at its worst. Rather, the sovereign is complex, spicy and rich with lovely aromas. This is a real sleeper of a wine. Try a blind tasting of this with some of your friends when you really want to amaze them.

Charbono is great as an accompaniment to sharp cheeses, spicy beef dishes and, of course, pastas. It would also stand up well to a hamburger loaded with onions and bleu cheese.

Ernest Jones will lead WSU Symphonic Band

Ernest A. Jones of Bloomfield Hills will be guest conductor with the WSU Symphonic Band, in concert Wednesday at Orchestra Hall in Detroit.

Jones, a retired advertising executive, will lead the band for "Victory at Sea." He was invited to conduct the band because of his interest in, and support of, the arts, especially Detroit-area orchestras and bands.

Conducting the 80-member band for this special concert will be Harold Arnold of Harper Woods. The concert program will include "The Navy Hymn," "Solo de Concours" with Robert Maniscalco soloist, and "Flourishes."

The Wayne State University Alumni Association will salute band members with an afterglow following the band's concert.

The salute to the band is in recognition of the band's two-week concert tour in China last summer at the invitation of the All-China Youth Federation. The reception will have a Chinese theme. In addition, there will be an exhibit of paintings and photographs of the trip done by Joseph Maniscalco of Detroit, one of the band members.

Tickets for loge seating and the afterglow are $7.50. General seating tickets are $4. For further information phone 577-2161.

Glenn Medalle (right) illustrates the swarming defense Salem employed Friday as he moves in on Churchill's Craig Hunter. The Rock defense — and Medalle's 16 points — were key factors in the win.

Nothing fancy

Poised Rocks romp over Churchill

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

With the steadiness of an acrobat on a high wire, Plymouth Salem's basketball team methodically disposed of Livonia Churchill Friday night, 48-36, at Churchill.

There was no high drama, no spectacular one-man show, no critical play that turned the tide. Salem just took command early, withstood Churchill's single short rally and won handily.

While not a spectacular spectator's game, it did have significance in the standings. The victory kept Salem even with Livonia Stevenson for the No. 1 berth in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) playoffs. Churchill has clinched the top position in the WLAA's Western Division with a 9-3 mark. Salem is 10-1 in the Lakes Division.

SALEM SCORED the game's first six points and led by eight, 16-8, midway through the second period. Churchill cut the margin to four at the intermission (22-18) and tied it early in the second half on consecutive baskets by John Merner.

Glenn Medalle, who turned in another fine offensive performance for Salem by notching 16 points, and Merner traded baskets to leave the score tied at 24-all before the Rocks assumed control. Combining an on-and-off pressure man-to-man defense with a deadeye outside shooting offense, the Rocks ran off 12 straight points to put the game away.

"You have to credit the Salem defense," said Churchill coach Don Albertson. "When it was 22-22, we took three-to-five bad shots.

"They pushed our guys a step too far, just outside their range, and we were missing."

SALEM COACH Fred Thomann agreed with Albertson's analysis. "We wanted to take Merner away inside and No. 22 (Craig Hunter) away outside," Thomann said. "We didn't want to give (Hunter) any set-up shots.

"Sometimes we were playing them harder and forcing them out further, then sometimes, when we had a bigger cushion, we played off. But then, those outside shots had to be game-winners."

Which meant that the Chargers were faced with making those outside bombs if they were to overtake Salem. That proved to be too great a task.

The 12-point Rock rally, which included the final 10 points of the third quarter (giving Salem a 34-24 edge) and the first bucket of the fourth, was sparked by Matt Broderick's six points and five Churchill turnovers. Broderick finished with 10 points in the game.

John Cohen, who came off the bench to score six second-quarter points, netted 11 for the game.

Merner had 17 for the contest, including seven from the free throw line in the final quarter, to pace Churchill. Dave Riley and Hunter were next with six apiece.

all in the second half. Phil Graczyk contributed nine.

Canton's overall record is 7-8. Bentley is 4-7 in the WLAA's Lakes Division and 6-9 overall.

all season," said Van Wagoner. "It's a boost for the whole team, because Bentley is a real good team. When it's winning time, our kids really believe in themselves."

THE VICTORY also kept Canton in the chase for second place in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) Western Division. The Chiefs are 5-6, a game behind Northville (6-5) with two to play. Canton hosts 3-8 Farmington Harrison Tuesday and travels to winless Walled Lake Western Friday.

Northville, meanwhile, must host Western Division leader Livonia Churchill Tuesday and visit Harrison Friday.

Thomas was not alone in the spotlight for Canton Friday. Sophomore forward Jim Schlicker, who stands 6-foot, limited 6-5 Bentley forward Jim Thorderson to eight points. Schlicker also netted eight points, nabbed 15 rebounds and dished out three assists.

Ron Rienas added 11 points for Canton and Mike Scarpello pumped in 10. Dan Rayes topped Bentley with 21 points, Inkster Huron Valley Lutheran got the lead early and clung to it the rest of the way to spoil Plymouth Christian's homecoming Friday.

The win dropped the Eagles to 3-8 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference (MIAC) and 3-12 overall. Huron Valley is 2-9 in the MIAC and 3-12 overall.

The game was close most of the way, with Plymouth Christian still within six with 1:50 to go. But the Eagles ran out of steam and could never catch Huron Valley.

Brian Spicer, a senior, was Christian's offense, bagging 29 of the team's 37 points. John Briggs totalled 17 for Huron Valley with brother Rich adding 15.

Last Tuesday, Plymouth Christian fell to Warren Baptist Academy, 75-41. Warren Baptist was up by 13 at the half and kept pulling away.

Spicer netted 18 for Christian. Jim Stephens added seven. Jason White, a 6-1 forward, poured in 42 points for Warren Baptist.

Plymouth Christian hosts Clawson Zion Christian in its final home game Tuesday.

Salem grad helps push Chippewas to the top

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

IT DIDN'T SEEM to be the best time to talk to Patty Weidman about basketball.

The former Plymouth Salem star had missed three Central Michigan University games with a sprained ankle. She returned two weeks ago, but then things went sour for the Chippewas — after winning 10 straight and leading the Mid-American Conference (MAC), they lost three straight.

CMU's third consecutive setback was at home last Wednesday to Northern Illinois, by a 59-54 margin. The loss dropped the Chips into a second-place tie with Toledo in the MAC after eight conference wins in a row. Miami of Ohio remained atop the MAC.

Against Northern, Weidman had her poorest performance: zero-for-four from the field, no free throws, no points. She did nab six rebounds.

"NO, IT WASN'T too good," said Weidman of her performance. But the CMU junior wasn't unhappy, she wasn't distressed. If anything, she was confident, both in her team and herself.

"We're by no means out of it," she said. "We believed we'd be here. It took us a while, but we knew the talent was here all along."

CMU coach Laura Golden may not have been so certain. "I think they've gone beyond what they even anticipated," Golden said. "They've proved a lot since the beginning of the season."

"One of our goals was to go over .500. We've done that. Next, we wanted to make the MAC playoffs (the top four teams qualify). I think we should be able to do that, too."

Part of the reason for the resurgence, from a team that was 11-18 a year ago to MAC frontrunners this season, is Weidman. Golden, in her second season as the Chips' head coach, decided that Weidman was going to make a contribution this year before the season began.

"THE FIRST TWO years Patty was here, she had no pressure to play better," Golden explained. "There wasn't any pressure on her to break into a starting role. If she played well, fine. If she didn't, it didn't matter."

"Now, she's been told that she has all the tools and if she proves herself, she'll play. This has by far been her best season."

If Golden sounds critical of Weidman's play in her first two years, it's not nearly as bad as Weidman herself makes it sound. "Last year I wasn't aggressive at all," Weidman confessed.

"In practice, they said I was like a little puppy in there. I was afraid to go inside, to drive to the hoop. Once in awhile I'd have a good game, but I wasn't consistent."

Being afraid to go inside is bad for any player, but for a 6-foot center it's ruinous. So Golden decided to change all that.

"COACH GAVE ME an ultimatum," recalled Weidman of a conversation the two had before the season began. "My role on the team was to be a scorer. Coach said, 'If you don't do it, we'll find someone else.'"

Patty Weidman
coming on strong

"She told me, 'You've got to score.' That was the first time anyone ever said that to me."

With her role defined, Weidman went into this season with a different attitude. "I'm a lot more aggressive," she said, even though she isn't a starter.

Weidman has started for CMU, but Golden found that the junior center responded better coming off the bench.

"We've tried it, and she doesn't play as well starting as she does coming off the bench," Golden said. Indeed, Weidman, who is averaging 8.5 points and 5.8 rebounds per game, has turned in her best performances as a substitute.

At Kent State earlier this year, she pumped in 17 points and hauled down 11 rebounds in a 72-53 CMU victory.

WEIDMAN DOESN'T mind filling the sixth man role at all. "I almost like coming off the bench better, because I can see what the other team is doing and adjust to it. I get as many minutes as I would if I started, anyway."

Latanga Cox, a freshman, starts at center for CMU. Next year, Weidman thinks she may get a shot at forward. But that's next year. For now,

Thomas ignites Canton

Plymouth Canton discovered a new way to win Friday night.

Making free throws.

In the past, Canton treated the free throw line like an unwanted task instead of a helpful aid. In more than one game, the Chiefs let their poor foul shooting dig their graves, handing the opposing team the shovel to bury them with.

But at home against Livonia Bentley Friday, Canton canned 13 straight from the charity stripe and bounced the Bulldogs, 61-56.

While free throw shooting proved instrumental in the Canton win (the Chiefs made 17 of 21 for the game), what made it possible was the explosive offensive performance by junior guard Gary Thomas.

"HE WAS ON FIRE the whole game," said Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner. Statistics bear that out, as Thomas connected on 10 of 12 floor shots and five straight free throws to lead all scorers with 25 points.

Canton took the lead in the first quarter and never relinquished it. The Chiefs were up, 12-6, going into the second period and still had that six-point cushion at the half.

Bentley got to within five after three quarters and closed to within a pair, 52-50, late in the fourth. But the Bulldogs never overtook Canton, losing to the Chiefs for the second time this season.

"This is probably the best we've played

From the editor...

The stories in this year's Observer & Eccentric bridal section share a common theme. The topic is decisions.

Our main story (Page 3) focuses on the decision to marry, one of the most important an individual makes in his life and yet one which seems to be revoked quite readily today.

In interviews with two psychologists and a minister, we look at what should be considered in selecting a mate for a good, lasting marriage.

Our main feature (Page 3) addresses the decisions that come with a wedding and offers tips on what to consider in choosing rings, a florist, a photographer, the hall.

On pages 5-7, two happily-married couples talk about what contributed to their success, including the decision to commit themselves to marriage.

Gerry Maynard of Family and Children Services, in an interview on Page 8, touches on the considerations that should be contemplated before deciding to remarry.

Readers may turn to Page 10 for a list of questions to ask before marrying and to Page 23 for a list of books for further reading on the issues which arise with marriage.

A light story (Page 12) with an accompanying chart (Pages 16-17) looks at the role astrology plays in compatibility, and another light story (on Page 21) peaks at the impact computers may have on meeting Mr./Ms. Right.

In marriage, love isn't enough

'A true friend isn't going to abandon you when times get difficult or when they're put off by your behavior.'

— The Rev. William McIvor

The decision to marry is one of the most important an individual makes in his life.

Yet, with the national divorce rate so high, it appears couples head for the altar without giving the decision much thought.

Today, marriage counselors and ministers are encouraging the betrothed to examine their compatibility and resolve their differences before they say, "I do."

The notion is similar to preventative medicine.

Premarital counseling, seminars and books on marriage are among the resources available to couples who want to know whether they're suitable for each other and ready for marriage. They may also consult trusted adults who have been or are married.

Two suburban marriage counselors and a clergyman, in interviews with the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, shared some of the special considerations that should be given before entering into marriage.

LOVE, they said, is important to a relationship, but it's not enough. Friendship and respect are the crucial necessities.

"I always try to find out if they're friends," the Rev. William McIvor said of the couples who come to him for marriage at First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham.

Friends stick together and accept each other the way they are, he said. Lovers may not.

"A true friend isn't going to abandon you when times get difficult or when they're put off by your behavior," said McIvor who estimates he's performed 150 weddings in his 10-year career. That devotion, he said, is needed in confronting the day-to-day problems in a marriage.

Both partners need to be secure in who they are so they don't depend on the other for their happiness and esteem, noted Bernadette Hughes of Troy's Marriage Growth Center.

Otherwise, the relationship is immature with one person taking care of the other as a parent cares for a child, said Hughes who recently conducted a marriage preparation seminar for St. John Fisher Chapel at Oakland University, Rochester.

THAT CAN be burdensome for the one who is doing the caring and cause the one who is being cared for to feel resentful and angry, she said.

"If you're looking to go into mar-

Planning a wedding takes research

Once a couple decides to wed, there are a lot of decisions left to make.

The couple must select the engagement and wedding rings, the wedding gown and tuxedo, the photographer and florist, all the way down to the reception hall and musicians.

They also have to set a date, decide where the wedding will be, agree on its type and size, choose attendants, pick out a wedding cake and arrange the honeymoon.

So what should be considered in making all these decisions? Suburban merchants, interviewed by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, offered these suggestions:

THE RINGS

Purchase a loose diamond, then select a setting, said Andrew Rismann of Diamonds & Fine Jewelry, Birmingham.

"Eighty to 90 percent of the value of an engagement ring is in the center stone," Rismann said.

Unless the stone is loose, couples can't examine it for color, clarity or tell if they're getting their "80 percent worth."

Risman advises couples to view the diamond lying on its side on a white sheet of paper in order to see its color.

"If you look at the top, you only see its brilliance, which will oftentimes mask its color," he said, adding that the whiter a stone is, the better its quality.

Ask the jeweler for a 10-power magnifier to view the stone's clarity. A reputable jeweler, Rismann said, will tell you what to look for, including black carbon spots, fractures and grain lines.

Also, examine the stone's proportions in terms of width to length. "If it's flat, it's going to be dead. It's not going to sparkle," Rismann said.

Finally, couples should determine what they want for the price they can afford. Buying a larger stone with a flaw that's barely detectable under magnification is sometimes better than buying a smaller, perfect one, he said.

In selecting wedding rings, consider quality as well as price and style, Rismann said. Generally, the heavier the ring, the better the quality.

THE GOWN

A wedding gown should fit more than the bride's figure. It should also fit her personality.

"A bride should look to her personality, her look (in selecting a gown)," said Madge Pollak of Creations by Pollak's, Farmington Hills, who will lead a seminar Feb. 25-27 on wedding dress selection at Detroit's Cobo Hall.

"It should fit her image of herself."

Honesty's behind their happiness

When David Cameron of Livonia calls the Dairy Council of Michigan and asks to talk to the prettiest girl there, the receptionists know he is talking about his wife, Irene, the council's director of communications.

Still lovebirds after nearly 35 years, the Camerons say their marriage is successful because of their honesty with each other.

Neither one holds in feelings, they said, so there's no chance for anger to grow and fester.

"When we fight, it happens right then," said Cameron, a sales representative for Korest-Peterson Co. in Detroit and a Livonia school board trustee. "We get it done and over with."

The couple met as freshmen in the Slippery Rock State College dining room in Slippery Rock, Pa. Each was 19. They found during a two-year courtship that they shared many of the same philosophies and goals, which they discussed in depth.

The both believed in commitment in marriage. "I think you should stay in there and fight and dig," Mrs. Cameron said.

The Camerons also share an important ingredient in a successful marriage — friendship. "He always has said I'm his best friend," Mrs. Cameron said. And, now that their children — David, 28, and Wendy, 23 — are adults, the couple are enjoying what they call their second honeymoon.

Remarriage

It's a lot more complicated than the first time

By Karen Hermes Smith
Staff writer

In contemplating remarriage, special consideration should be given to the problems that come with it.

"It's a lot more complicated than the first time around," especially if children are involved, said Gerry Maynard of Family and Children Services of Oakland who has conducted several workshops on remarriage.

National statistics analyzed in 1976 indicate that 44 percent of remarriages wind up in divorce court, compared to 38 percent of first-time marriages, Maynard said. And most of the remarriages that falter are those with children from a prior union, he said.

Part of the problem is that the responsibility for children is split among five sources when a marriage breaks up and both partners remarry — the natural parents, two new spouses and the court.

The parent who is not granted custody of the children frequently feels deprived, which complicates his relationship with his own children as well as those in his new marriage.

THERE'S NO traditional way to handle the problems that arise, since divorce and remarriage are only a generation or two old, Maynard said.

The non-profit Family and Children Services has offices in Berkley, Clarkston, Ferndale, Pontiac, Southfield and Walled Lake. Maynard is director of family and individual counseling.

Remarried himself, he has conducted workshops for the Detroit area chapter of Family Service Association of America, Detroit School District's adult education program and Channel 62.

Before remarriage, divorced persons should give themselves a couple years to objectively look at what they contributed to the breakup (with or without a professional's help) and deal with the loneliness, anger and financial aspects that follow divorce, Maynard said.

"When you've done that, you have a pretty good shot at making it the second time around," he said.

Of the two individuals involved in a divorce, the "dumpee" generally takes a harder look at himself and his contribution to the marriage's failure than the "dumper," Maynard noted, since the dumper believes his actions were justified.

IF MARRYING a divorced person, Maynard suggests waiting until he or she has gone through the same process of analyzing what he or she contributed to the first marriage's breakup.

"I'd look for somebody who had resolved their first marriage," Maynard said. "I wouldn't want a person who had regrets or was trying to prove something."

After remarriage, Maynard warns, once-divorced persons shouldn't expect their children to replace their absent natural parent with a step-parent.

Before marriage

Questions to ask

Many questions can be asked by persons planning to marry. Some may be relevant for one couple, but not for another. The questions listed below form only a partial list. They are intended to provide some guidance to common areas of trouble.

The questions, when answered, can give clues that problems may develop down the line.

They are meant to serve as a discussion guide, as a basis for reflection and, if serious concern arises in trying to answer them, as an indication that professional help might be needed.

The questions:

COMMUNICATION — How open and clear is your communication? Can each of you express love, agreement, disagreement, anger, wishes, fantasies, anxiety and a wide range of feelings and be understood by the other?

DIFFERENCES — What are the major differences between you and how effectively can you deal with them? Do you have ways of resolving differences which leave each of you feeling comfortable?

FAMILIES — What kind of relationship do each of you have with the other's family? Are you overattached to your parents? Estranged? Do either of you resent members of the other's family? How effectively can the two of you deal with both families?

MARRIAGE — Do you hope for and expect the same kind of marriage? The same kind of relationship? Have you talked about the kind of marriages your parents had? Who will be responsible for the home, finances, shopping and children, if you plan to have them? Are roles determined by sex? Or are they determined by individual interests, abilities and available time?

SEX — How similar or different are your attitudes on the frequency of sexual relations, sexual fidelity, who initiates sex, and the means of achieving sexual gratification and compatibility? How does love, caring and consideration relate to sexual expression and gratification?

MONEY — How do each of you feel money should be gained, used and controlled?

FRIENDS — What do you think of the friends of your partner? What do Psychic astrologer Jacquie Kendall of Birmingham encourages couples to review the traits associated with their astrological signs. It's a good way to open communication about each other's personalities, she said, because no one (except the astrological charts) can be blamed for pointing out the bad traits.

Astrology

Are marriages made in heaven?

People shouldn't let astrology dictate who and when they should marry, but they can use it to help them understand their partners and their relationships with them, according to psychic astrologer Jacquie Kendall of Birmingham.

"I do not believe certain signs should not go with another," said Kendall, who does radio and television shows for Southfield's WXYZ and teaches parapsychology at the community houses in Birmingham and Rochester.

"All matches are OK," she said. Some are just more compatible than others.

The most tumultuous match is between a fire (Aries, Sagittarius, Leo) and water sign (Cancer, Pisces, Scorpio), said Kendall, who wrote a pamphlet titled "Couplings" on the relationships between signs.

If the person with the fire sign is strong, and his partner with the water sign is shallow, the fire sign can "dry up" the water sign, she said.

HOWEVER, if the water sign is overly strong, it can "put out" the fire sign.

The perfect match, Kendall said, is two air signs (Gemini, Libra and Aquarius) with the same goals and desires. However, if a Libra and Aquarius, for example, are moving in opposite directions, the result can be a tornado.

A match between a water and earth sign (Taurus, Virgo and Capricorn) can result in a lot of mudslinging, Kendall said. And two fire signs will have a highly intense relationship while two earth signs will make mountains out of molehills.

Prince Charles and Princess Diana of Wales are both water signs (he's a Scorpio; she's a Cancer) with a lot of depth, Kendall said. "Each one wants to seek his own level" and have his or her own way.

John F. Kennedy, a Gemini, was an air sign; Jacqueline, a Leo, is a fire sign. "We know there was some fanning of the flames in that relationship," Kendall said.

Women who are looking for lovers will find them in men with Scorpio and Libra signs. Those who want supporters should look for men with earth signs, Kendall said. And those who want their husbands also to be their best friend should seek out an Aquarius.

LEO MEN make good husbands, as long as their wives play to their egos.

Pisces women make sensitive wives, those with earth signs make good

Reaffirming commitment

riage to be saved, be taken care of, it doesn't happen," agreed Bob Tolles of Plymouth's Associated Counseling Services.

When both partners are self-secure, they can enrich each other's lives, Hughes said.

Communication is a must, the authorities agreed.

"Relationships can endure almost anything except bad communication," McIvor said.

In a relationship where a couple isn't conversing, one partner may always win arguments and get his way while the other covers up his feelings.

That doesn't necessarily mean the relationship isn't workable, Hughes warns. It does mean the couple's communication skills need honing.

Compatibility is another important factor. One way to tell whether you're a good match, said Hughes, is to ask these questions: "Can I be myself when I'm with him or her?" and "Do I feel happy when I introduce this person to someone else?"

Warnings that the relationship may not work include repetitive arguments about the same problems which have no solutions, hot and cold emotions, impatience with the other person's qualities and excessive desire to change the other person, Tolles said.

PRACTICAL issues couples should discuss before marrying include how they'll handle money, resolve conflict, whether they'll have a family and how they'll rear children, and how they'll express affection and spirituality, Hughes said.

Once couples decide to marry, they have to reaffirm their decision to be married every day to keep the relationship strong, the experts said.

"You have to keep working at the process of building and growing together," Tolles said.

"It's an ongoing process," Hughes agreed. "The decision has to be made each day to commit yourself to marriage and keep working on it. And it doesn't come naturally — it just isn't so. But that (working on it) is where the satisfaction comes in."

Computer matches The future wave?

Will there come a day when dating — that time-consuming process of picking a mate — is passe? Will men and women be able to plug a card into a computer, get the name of a perfect mate, meet at the church that afternoon and live happily ever after?

The answers to those questions depend on who you ask in the computer business.

"I think that's already happening," said Greg Knoff, assistant to the engineering dean at Oakland University, Rochester.

"When people apply to computer dating services, they give their age and interests. That (information) is fed into a computer, which supposedly matches them up with someone with similar interests."

"The computer can do anything you want it to," said Dave Vineland, systems analyst for Online Design Inc., a Birmingham-based computer consulting and designing firm.

"If you put in vital attributes, something that correlates to a successful marriage, you can match those to people."

'The problem with computers is they're purely logical. When getting into marriage, that's emotions.'

— Larry Reinhart
programmer analyst

Men who value friendship and honesty as most important in a marriage, for example, could be matched with women who feel the same way, he said.

However, Larry Reinhart, programmer analyst at Southfield's Lawrence Institute of Technology, believes that, while computers may match people for dates, they're too limited to match people for marriage.

"The problem with computers is they're purely logical," Reinhart said. "When getting into marriage, that's emotions. Computers can't handle emotions."

Review their work before hiring wedding contractors

agreed Ruth Seligson of Today's Bride, Birmingham.

In choosing a gown, Seligson suggested brides ask the opinion of either their mother or a friend.

The season and the nature of the wedding are other considerations in choosing a gown, the two women said. A winter wedding generally requires a closed neck and long sleeves. A formal wedding requires a formal dress.

THE PHOTOGRAPHER

Before signing a studio contract, couples should look at the work of the photographer who will do the actual shooting, advised Eileen Holzman who, with her husband, Buz, owns Birmingham Photographers in Birmingham and Buz Holzman Photography in Southfield.

Frequently, studios will show samples of work done by some of their photographers. "But when they send someone out to shoot your wedding, it (can be) another person whose work you haven't seen," Holzman said.

Couples should think twice about hiring a studio or photographer who seems hurried or insensitive, Holzman said. They may wind up being pushy during the wedding and hurry the couple along at the reception, rushing them to cut the cake and throw the bouquet.

Also, Holzman advised, look for hidden costs. Some photographers charge for extra mileage or limit the hours they will spend on a job.

Select a photographer affiliated with the Detroit Professional Photographers Association, Holzman said. "That way you know you're dealing with someone committed to a certain level of quality and ethics."

THE HALL

Couples should sample the food a hall serves before renting one.

"What it boils down to is, the bride and groom are feeding a vast number of friends and relatives," said Chuck DeSantis, food and beverage director for Troy's Hilton Inn. "If the food is of good quality, if the guests get a good meal, it's not hard after that to get people to rave about the wedding."

If the hall has a dining room, DeSantis suggested a couple eat there first to sample the food and critique the service.

Other considerations include whether the hall can comfortably seat the number of guests planned, whether parking is adequate and whether the tables are round or rectangular.

In addition, he said, couples should check whether the hall uses linen or paper tablecloths, china or Corningware, glass or plastic glasses and silver or stainless steel flatware.

They should also find out what brands of liquor are served, how much is charged per glass (not bottle), and whether bartenders are provided, he said.

Then, DeSantis suggested, find out what extras are available. Sometimes, he said, hotels give the bride and groom a free night on the house.

The object, DeSantis concluded, is for couples to find the highest quality hall for their money.

THE BAND

"Price is always a question with bands," said Dan Yessian of Dan Yessian Associates Inc., a Farmington Hills talent agency. "Unfortunately, it always seems to take precedence over quality."

Many couples are willing to spend $10-$15 per plate for 200 guests at the reception, but won't shell out $500-$800 for a good band, Yessian said.

Yet, he said, the guests spend three to four hours dancing, compared to only an hour eating. Yessian said that the quality of the music often determines the quality of the evening.

Frequently, studios will show samples of work done by some of their photographers. 'But when they send someone out to shoot your wedding, it's a person whose work you haven't seen.'

— Eileen Holzman
studio owner

THE FLORIST

In picking a florist, couples should make sure the business has the capacity to do the job the couple wants done, advised Larry Turowski, manager of Fairlane Florist in Dearborn. Fairlane also has a store in West Bloomfield.

Some florists may not have the necessary equipment, he added.

It also helps to select a florist who is nearby.

"It makes it simpler if they're in the vicinity," said Howard Stein Jr., owner of Stein's Flower Shop and Greenhouses, Inc., Wayne.

For reference Here's a book list to consult before marrying

Those who want to further explore the issues surrounding marriage may consult the following books:

"Mirages of Marriage" written by William J. Lederer and Don Jackson; published in 1968 by Norton in New York, N.Y. Addresses the false assumptions of marriage, types of marriage, the major elements of a satisfactory marriage, the destructive elements in marriage and how to get help from a professional. Also includes a comparison test for compatibility of values.

"A Couple's Guide to Communication" written by J. Gottman, C. Notarius, J. Gofiso, H. Markham; published in 1976 by Research Press Co. in Champaign, Ill.

"Making It Together as a Two Career Couple" by Marjorie and Morton Shaevitz; 1979, Houghton Mifflin in Boston, Mass.

"Unconditional Love" by John Powell; 1978, Argus Communications, Allen, Texas.

"Pairing" by George Bach and Ronald Deutsch; 1971, Avon, New York, N.Y.

"Why Marriage: A Reality Therapist Looks at Married Life" by Edward Ford; 1974, Argus Communications, Allen, Texas.

This list was compiled by marriage counselor Bob Tolles of Associated Counseling Services, Plymouth.

Today, marriage counselors and ministers are encouraging the betrothed to examine their compatibility and resolve their differences before they say 'I do.' These books are available to aid couples in that endeavor.

Checking the stars Questions to ask

mothers, and Scorpio women have a passion for life. "If her (a Scorpio woman's) husband happens to be that passion, he's got it made for life," Kendall said.

Gemini, Libra and Aquarius men make better second than first husbands, Kendall said, because they require a lot of attention, something they probably can't get when young children are in the house.

In choosing a wedding date, couples may look to the meaning behind the number, Kendall said.

The first, 10th, 19th and 28th day of the month signal a new beginning; the second, 11th, 20th and 29th are couple days, perfect for getting married on, she said.

The third, 12th, 21st and 30th are family days, good for couples who want to have children. The fourth, 13th, 22 and 31st are strong days; the fifth, 14th and 23rd are adventurous and independent days, good for marriages between two.

The sixth, 15th and 24th days are affectionate, fun days. The seventh, 16th and 25th, quiet and spiritual. The eighth, 17th and 26th are business-oriented, better for starting up a business than marrying and the ninth, 18th and 27th are humanistic, romantic days.

your friends mean to you? What understanding do you have about friendships with the opposite sex or at work? Can you have shared friends and your own individual friends as well?

INTERESTS — Are different interests permitted or resented? Are different interests divisive? Can you balance your needs, for shared time, parallel time (time spent close to one another, but doing something different) and private time?

VALUES — Do you have general agreement on morality, religion, education, social and political matters and the place each one belongs in your relationship and marriage?

One last question: Do you view a relationship and particularly a marriage as something that "comes naturally" or as something that is difficult to maintain and that requires hard work?

All of the research done on marriage over the past half century can be summed up in six words. "Select well and work like hell."

The preceding questions were put together by Dr. William Nichols of Beverly Hills. Dr. Nichols is a past president of both the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy and the National Council on Family Relations.

A clinical psychologist and family therapist with offices in Bingham Farms, Southfield and Grosse Pointe, Dr. Nichols has written articles for Parents' magazine and The Eccentric.
