Cop contract costs OK'd; options still pursued

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The Plymouth Township board agreed Tuesday to a requested price increase for the shared police service contract with Plymouth.

It will now cost the township $467,000 yearly for police protection. Last year, the same service cost the township $413,000. The board did not agree to continue the service for another full year.

Accompanying the board's approval were instructions to township supervisor Maurice Breen to continue investigating alternate forms of providing police protection, including the setting up of the township's own department.

Breen estimated the township could start its own department for $500,000 a year.

An informal deadline of Oct. 1 has been set for the board to make a final decision on which direction police service will go.

In addition to continuing the contract with Plymouth and starting its own department, another option is to contract for service with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Breen said he had been contacted by the country to open negotiations on a contract for service.

The board is waiting for a Michigan State University criminal justice professor to complete a feasibility study on setting up a department.

Until the study is completed, the township will continue receiving services from the city, at the new rate approved Tuesday night. The contract provides for a 90-day notice before cancellation.

The township board approved the city's request for $467,000 for services from Feb. 1, 1983 to Feb. 1, 1984. The township will continue paying the contract costs in monthly installments.

The increase is retroactive to Feb. 1 because payments after Feb. 1 continued to be made based on last year's rate of $413,000.

"The $467,000 figure represents a percentage of the police department's budget, ranging between 42 percent and 50 percent — depending on whose figures you're using," Breen said.

"According to our way of thinking, it is 50 percent of the cost of operating the department," he said.

From a check of departmental records, city manager Henry Graper said it was evident "more than 50 percent of the time is being spent in the township."

"The price we are asking for — $467,000 — is what we need. I still think it's a fair request. I'm not asking for too much money. If I didn't need it I wouldn't be asking for it," Graper said.

The township is satisfied with the level and quality of service which has been received, Breen said.

"The question really is, are we satisfied with all aspects of the cost?" he asked.

"There's no increase in the level of service with the numbers we're seeing. It's not a secret that when you get into the $460,000 range, there are a number of alternatives that open up," said Breen.

Because of those alternatives, Breen asked the board for some direction.

3 will be inducted into Plymouth Hall of Fame

Selections have been made of the three past and present residents who will be installed in June into the Plymouth Hall of Fame.

They are: Mary B. Childs, Harold E. Fischer and the late Russell L. Isbister.

Plaques bearing likenesses of all three will become part of the permanent collection at the hall of fame in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

A dinner honoring those selected will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 21, in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Tickets at $12.50 each may be obtained from Ken Way at 453-1234, or Joe West at 453-8830. Tickets also are on sale at the Cultural Center, Farmer at Theodore, at the A & W Drive-in at 208 Ann Arbor Road, or at Box 594, Plymouth Post Office.

CHILD'S HAS been prominent in civic affairs since she and husband Eric moved to Plymouth 21 years ago.

She was mayor of Plymouth in 1979-81, served on the City Commission from 1975-81, and was a member and former chairman of the Plymouth Planning Commission from 1969-75.

She has been chairman of Plymouth Family Service, of the Plymouth Beautification Committee, and of the selection committee for Plymouth Opportunity House.

Childs also has been a board member of several organizations, including the Plymouth Community Fund, Plymouth Board of Appeals, transportation and public works committee of the Michigan Municipal League, Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, and the selection board for Tonquish Creek Manor. She currently is president of the Friends of the Dunning-Hough Library.

FISCHER WAS chairman of the executive committee which helped establish Schoolcraft College.

He was chairman of the college board of trustees from 1961-69 and was a member of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education from 1955-61.

He was the first director of the Industrial Development Corporation which was formed to expand the tax base for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

He was a member of the Canton Board of Review in 1970-73, is currently a board member of the Salvation Army in Plymouth and of the Garden City Osteopathic Hospital board. Fischer has been in business in Plymouth since 1944.

THE LATE Russell Isbister was superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools from 1951-67.

He was one of the school superintendents who helped to establish Schoolcraft College.

A member of the Plymouth Community Fund board of directors, he was chairman of the 1960 fund drive.

Isbister was a consultant to several universities in Michigan and an active member of several of the state's education committees. Isbister Elementary School was dedicated in his honor in 1969.

The Plymouth Hall of Fame is a joint community project of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

Members of the Kiwanis Hall of Fame committee which made the selections are: Charles Moore, chairman; William Leonard; William Miller; Clarence Moore; Kenneth Way; Joe West; and local historian Sam Hudson.

oral quarrel

Taxpayers often are credited with complaining less about funding police, fire and emergency services than about paying for other services.

Officials in Plymouth Township, which now contracts police services from the City of Plymouth, currently are investigating the possibility of establishing a township police department.

Residents of Canton Township, formerly served by the Michigan State Police and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, have had their own department for about five years.

THIS WEEK'S ORAL QUARREL QUESTION IS, HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT THE QUALITY OF POLICE, FIRE AND AMBULANCE SERVICES IN YOUR COMMUNITY? PLEASE SPECIFY WHICH MUNICIPALITY YOU LIVE IN.

Think it over, and phone in your response to Oral Quarrel at 459-2704. Calls will be taken Thursday through 9 a.m. Friday. You'll have 30 seconds to respond. Look for your answers and those of your neighbors in our next edition.

Township pushes toward cable consortium concept

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

A cable television consortium in the Omnicon Cablevision area could become a reality in the near future as Plymouth Township asks communities to join the group.

The township decided in April to pursue a cable consortium, as well as hire an independent cable consultant.

That action followed reports on Omnicon's service from a cable task force and township attorney. Both reports suggested the cable company's performance could be improved.

Tuesday night the township board approved a proposed job description for a consultant and asked Township Supervisor Maurice Breen to contact other Omnicon communities to join the consortium.

The decision was based on the recommendation of a two-member committee — trustees Lee Fidge and Smith Horton — established to investigate the hiring of a cable consultant.

Fidge and Horton recommended the consortium be established and a job description approved before a consultant is hired.

In their report to the board, the two trustees listed a proposed job description and suggested it be passed onto the consortium for final approval.

Included in the proposed job outline were the following tasks:

• Prepare a comparative study of cable television services and prices in six to 10 southeastern Michigan communities.

• Prepare conclusions on whether Omnicon is providing subscribers with a reasonable service for a reasonable price.

• Advise officials of precisely which aspects of cable service or pricing the community has regulatory authority over.

• Recommend to the officials revisions to the cable ordinances in accordance with the conclusions.

Fidge and Horton didn't recommend a consultant for employment, however, Horton said he did have a list of consultants who are available.

The two trustees recommended a consultant be selected after the consortium finalizes the job description.

"This is just the start," Fidge said.

The other Omnicon communities which will be asked to join the consortium will be Plymouth, Northville, and the townships of Canton and Northville.

The consortium idea has been discussed by other communities in the past, however, action was never taken.

Omnicon officials said they would work with a consortium, yet warned the township that the company was responsible for overseeing the cable operation. The company views the role of a consortium as advisory, rather than regulatory.

In discussing the consortium concept in April, Plymouth Township officials said the group's work would be to "oversee" the cable operations and public access programming.

There was some concern expressed about a consortium in the past because each of the communities has a different cable ordinance which outlines the responsibilities of the cable company.

The Walled Lake area operates with a cable consortium and has a consultant working with the group.

City officials show Plymouth's best to St. Joseph

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The spotlight was on Plymouth last night as city officials wined and dined a group from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The evening was part of the city's effort to sell a proposed $2.5-million parking deck/clinic concept to the hospital. The idea calls for a joint construction venture in Central Parking Lot between the city and hospital.

"This should be the last meeting that they will hold with the city," said City Manager Henry Graper.

The hospital should make its final decision about the facility within a "couple of weeks," Graper said.

The 50-member visiting group included the hospital's board of directors, building committee and staff doctors. They visited Central Parking Lot and took a complete tour of Plymouth.

Other activities included dinner at the Mayflower Meeting House, presentations about Plymouth, and questions and answers about the proposed facility.

St. Joseph currently is considering expanding its operations into the Plymouth area and reportedly is looking at several locations, according to a hospital spokesman.

Hospital developers were concerned about the Central Lot site because it is downtown. The concerns centered on traffic and accessibility problems, Graper said, but he said the location wouldn't cause such problems.

"I think we can overcome anything," he said.

The plan the city proposed calls for a $1.5-million clinic/doctor's office complex built on the first level of a $1-million parking deck.

The medical portion of the complex would be at the west end of Central Lot — facing Harvey Street. The total structure would be 25,000 square feet, Graper said.

The parking deck portion would be built over three-fourths of the present parking lot and increase parking spaces from 232 to 300.

While the top deck initially would be used for parking, St. Joseph would have the option of adding additional floors to its clinic, he said.

The clinic could attract up to 600 visitors a day, Graper said.

If the hospital decides to build at the Central Lot location, the next step is to decide on a timetable for construction, Graper said.

The actual construction could take place as soon as 30 days after a decision to build, with the clinic ready to occupy in six months.

The city already has some engineering work completed and has firm bids on the construction, Graper said earlier.

The project financing could be completed one of three ways, Graper said.

Up-front money could come from an Economic Development Corporation bond issue, the building authority, or the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) currently being discussed, he said.

Debt payments could be financed by tax increments, if the DDA is approved.

Legion honors '83 municipal standouts

A number of residents and municipal employees were honored recently at the annual Recognition Night held at the Hillside restaurant in Plymouth.

The Recognition Night is sponsored each year by the Plymouth American Legion Postage-Gayde Post 391 and by its Auxiliary.

Among those honored were Wayne Carroll as policeman of the year from the city of Plymouth, the entire staff of volunteer firefighters from Plymouth Township, Alan Matthews, firefighter of the year from the city of Plymouth, Kal Jabara as businessperson of the year, and Donald Skinner as industrialist of the year.

Receiving the American Legion Citizen Award for 1983 was Capt. William Harfoot, co-commander of the Salvation Army corps in Plymouth.

SPECIAL GUESTS included: Linda Anderson, executive director, Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce; Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township supervisor; Henry Graper, city manager, Plymouth; Jim Poole, Canton supervisor; David Pugh, mayor pro-tem, city of Plymouth; and Joseph Andrews, American Legion 17th District committeeman.

cation and benediction while Roger Cloutier served as master of ceremonies. Guest speaker was state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. Ernest Rumsby, Legion Commander, presented the awards on behalf of the post.

Recognized in memoriam were: Arnold Johansen, 1967 industrialist of the year; R.T. Thompson, 1975 citizen of the year; and Frank Henderson, 1973 industrialist of the year.

LWV schedules candidates forum

A candidates forum to familiarize residents with candidates for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The forum will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 2, in the Learning Resource Center at Plymouth Salem High School on Joy Road just west of Canton Center Road.

The candidates night is being sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.

Each candidate will be given a chance to speak for three minutes on a topic related to his/her candidacy in the election. Following the opening statements, written questions will be accepted from the audience.

The annual school election will be held on Monday, June 13, to fill three seats on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

CANDIDATES FOR two four-year terms are: Roberta S. Wollard of 42169

Gloria, Canton; Thomas J. Yack, board president, of 43850 Brandywyne, Canton; Harry J. Stearnes of 44549 Clare Blvd., Plymouth; trustee Roland J. Thomas, Jr. of 11985 Leighwood, Plymouth.

Candidates for one two-year term are: Karen L. Murphy of 14776 Robinwood, Plymouth; Nancy A. Quinn of 9259 Oakcliffe, Plymouth; and David P. Artley of 8350 Honeytree Blvd., Canton.

The league is a national, non-partisan organization. The league does not support or oppose any political party or candidate, but it will work to obtain and distribute information to the public on candidates and their views.

Linda K. Jones is voter service chairwoman for the league. As such she is planning the candidates forum plus handling the assembling of biographical information and views on issues from the candidates.

Grimm earns Merit grant

Pamela L. Grimm of Colony Farm Drive, Plymouth, has been named a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Program for 1982-83.

She is among some 2,000 recipients of college-sponsored, four-year Merit scholarships.

A senior at Plymouth Salem High School, she won a Merit scholarship to attend Michigan State University, where she plans to study computer science.

At Salem she was a member of the National Honor Society for two years, belonged to the International Dramatic Thespian Society for four years and served that group as activities director. She was a member of the Detroit Free Press Michigan All State Academic Team, has won honors at piano recitals, is piano accompanist for choir camp and church choirs, and is vice president of a church youth group.

Child abuse trust fund gets off to slow start

Rep. Stabenow "a rising tide"

It's off to a slow start — but it's law.

To prevent child abuse, the Michigan Legislature last year created a state Child Abuse Prevention Board and established a trust fund with a goal of $20 million.

In Michigan, over $250 million is spent every year on treatment services," said state Rep. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing. Stabenow was chief sponsor of the package of laws that created the board and the trust fund.

"Yet because treatment is often too little, too late, it does not stem the rising tide of cases."

Meeting resistance in an economic recession to a new program, Stabenow and co-sponsors such as then-Rep. Sylvia Skrel, R-Livonia, sold their colleagues on an income tax check-off system.

"Michigan's trust fund would be started with voluntary contributions through a check-off on tax returns, allowing taxpayers to contribute $2 of their refund to child abuse prevention. Other contributions would be accepted from foundations, bequests, donations and general funds," she said.

AS OF mid-April, Michigan taxpayers donated a bit more than $350,000 of their refunds to the child abuse trust fund — a bare 1/60th of the fund's goal.

Until the $20-million goal is reached, half the contributions will be banked to earn interest, and the other half will be spent on grants to local abuse-prevention programs, according to terms of the act. A 15-member state panel administering the fund may distribute grants to:

- Local child abuse prevention councils.
- Schools, churches, hospitals, and other local public or private non-profit agencies.

The local agency must provide a 50-percent match. Half of the match may be such "in-kind" services as staff salaries and overhead.

How safe is the money? That will be up to the Legislature. In times of financial crisis, Michigan state government has been known to borrow from the veterans' trust fund and the Kammer land trust fund to pay current bills.

THE IDEA of preventing child abuse came from Dr. Ray Helfer, professor in Michigan State University's department of pediatrics and human development.

Michigan is the third state — after Kansas and Washington — to set aside money in a trust fund solely for preventing child abuse.

Child abuse is virtually epidemic — or at least on the increase, Stabenow argues.

focus on families

In 1981, "Over 35,000 cases of suspected child abuse/neglect were reported to Children's Protective Services (an office of the state Department of Social Services). That's about 1 percent of the child population," Stabenow said.

"And because the problem is still 'in the closet,' experts say only about one-third are likely to be reported."

"Child abuse" is defined as "harm or threatened harm to a child's health or welfare by a person responsible for the child's health or welfare." The harm may be either "non-accidental physical or mental injury" or sexual abuse.

"Neglect" is "harm to a child's health or welfare by a person responsible for the child's health or welfare which occurs through negligent treatment, including the failure to provide adequate food, clothing, shelter or medical care."

The state can expect to see more child abuse and neglect in an economic recession — a time of stress, she said. In the majority of cases, two factors are present: 1) poverty and unemployment and 2) isolation and lack of social support.

Historically, child abuse is an old, old story. Ancient Greeks and Romans considered their children property, destroying weak and deformed infants. Illegitimate children often were killed to avoid shame, according to the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse.

Children were treated harshly in the New World. The Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1646 adopted a "Stubborn Child Law," invoking the death penalty for misbehaving children. Full punishment, however, rarely was invoked. Whipping was substituted.

Mistreatment harder to spot

Suburbs reticent to report abuse

By Tim Richard staff writer

Mistreatment of children is different in the northwest suburbs. It's harder to spot. But it does occur.

"In the suburbs, private clinics may not report child abuse cases well," said Jim Benson, one of two intake workers for Wayne County Juvenile Court. "They're more involved with the families. It causes a distortion in a picture of the clientele."

"The suburban cases we get are reported by schools, police and neighbors. Private hospitals rarely report them."

HIS COLLEAGUE, Judy Velleman, agreed. "Most of our referrals are from Children's, Sinai, Mt. Carmel, Hutzel — not a lot from Wayne County General," she said.

Their picture of suburban reticence at reporting child abuse and sexual abuse cases is confirmed by their supervisor, Eleanor Austin.

"I went to a high school in Livonia a couple of years ago and was really impressed with their reluctance to get involved. The teachers were not secure that their anonymity would be protected," she said.

In upper-middle-class suburbs, Austin said, the predominant kind of abuse is sexual.

JUVENILE COURT employees distinguish these kinds of cases: neglect, physical abuse, "sick-o" sexual abuse (with children as young as one year) and incest-type sexual abuse (where a stepfather, boyfriend or husband of the mother has relations with a pubescent girl, not necessarily violently).

Despite conventional wisdom that child abuse increases during a recession, Wayne County's intake of abuse petitions reached its peak of 382 in 1979. By 1980, there were half as many, 190; in 1981, they had dropped to 162; last year, 131.

In the first four months of this year, there were 55 abuse petitions versus 63 in the same period of 1982, by Austin's calculations.

(At a legislative hearing this week on the state social services budgets, several witnesses professed to see an explosion of child abuse with the current recession. They were, however, counting lack of pre-natal care as child abuse.)

"Most suburban cases of physical abuse occur in places like River Rouge, Melvindale, Lincoln Park, Inkster — lower-middle-class industrial suburbs," she said. "In upper-middle-class suburbs, the predominant abuse is sexual."

Abusive parents are likely to be poorly educated, the intake workers said. The parents may see nothing wrong in "disciplining" kids with a belt or an electrical extension cord (an inner city favorite).

And Velleman notes the number of savage beatings seems to be up, even if the total number of abuse cases is down.

BUT IF ABUSE cases are down, neglect cases are rising.

There were 833 in 1979, followed by 1,048 in 1980, then 1,143 in 1981, and 1,151 last year, Austin said.

"These are just new cases," she said, "not old cases that may have been reopened."

The number of new cases in a month may range from a low of 40 to a high of 128. There is no pattern, except that the last four Augusts have been big months, producing 109 or more cases each, Austin added.

"We're seeing more neglect — parents giving up their kids," agreed Benson.

"A lot are single-parent families," added Velleman. "The mother gets behind in the rent, the home's a mess, the kids go to school dirty and hungry."

HERE'S HOW a case gets into the mill.

A doctor, teacher or counselor — all required by law to do so — reports abuse or neglect to the protective services office of the Department of Social Services (DSS) in the county. But any person may report such a case — and, indeed, many are reported by grandparents.

"The identity of a person who makes a complaint of suspected child abuse is confidential," Attorney General Frank

J. Kelley said. "Also, that person, by statute, cannot be held liable for damages as long as the complaint was made in good faith."

A social worker investigates, determining if the case is one of neglect or abuse. If it is, DSS asks the Juvenile Court (a division of Probate Court) for a petition.

At Juvenile Court, Jim Benson and Judy Velleman decide whether the child is "at risk" (90 percent of referrals are, Austin said). They take the case to a court referee, who hears witnesses and counsel for parents and child. The child may be placed in a foster care or emergency shelter in the interim.

THE MOST successful cases, Benson and Velleman said, are where the parents admit the abuse.

In a neglect case, the court then may offer homemaker services, housing assistance, financial aid and a program called PACT (Parents and Children Together) at Wayne State University where parents learn to become better parents.

In abuses or sexual abuse, the program may be clinical counseling, alcohol or drug counseling, counseling of the child and — the ultimate step — placement of the child in a foster home.

"Unless the court authorizes it, a child cannot be placed," Austin said. "The goal is to return the child to the home."

Parent tells of breaking cycle of child violence

Editor's note: The writer is a staff member of Observer & Eccentric Newspapers who wishes to remain anonymous.

My own horror story started when I was 4. The juvenile system in my home state took me away from my parents because they had neglected me. For the next 10 years, I was shuttled back and forth from foster home to foster home.

Each foster family was different. Some lived 'way out in the country. Some had kids of their own. Some eked out a modest living boarding homeless children.

But one similarity binds all the foster families together in my memory. No one — neither the foster parents nor their own children — liked me.

IN EACH family I was odd child out, an orphaned Martian who didn't really belong. The fact that I was "different" from everyone else was demonstrated over and over to me in a lot of little ways and big ways.

The foster family ate dinner in the dining room. Many times, I ate bread and butter on the basement stairs.

The family watched TV. I cleaned the bathroom. The foster parents' kids got away with murder. I was punished for every misstep.

In one family, my punishment was to sit for hours in a dark, cobweb-filled basement wall hole. In another, I got a hickory switch snapped across my legs.

In still another, a foster father once used a blowtorch on the ends of my fingers because I had stolen 10 cents. My fingers still bear the scars.

THEIR ABUSE inflicted pain as much on my mind as it did on my legs and fingers. And it is that psychological pain which can create another generation of child abusers.

I worried: Would I, too, become a child abuser? Newspaper stories allow some parents an easy "out" for what they do. The excuse is that abusive parents are merely repeating the sins of their own parents, that they are lashing out at their own children the way their own parents struck out at them.

The explanation is that they have not learned how to control their own anger or rage because they don't have a good self-image or because they don't know how to deal with a crisis.

Tragically, for some these excuses are true.

NOT EVERYONE who has been beaten or abused as a child grows up to see that violence is not the way to cope with a crisis. Not every abused child grows up to like himself or learns how to let off steam.

But for every once-abused parent who drags the cycle of violence into another generation, many others break out of it. They learn not to use their childhood as a convenient excuse for inflicting the same on their children.

'In each family I was odd child out, an orphaned Martian who didn't really belong. The fact that I was "different" from everyone else was demonstrated over and over to me in a lot of little ways and big ways.'

These parents learn somehow that they alone — not some forefather — are responsible if welts, burns and broken bones are inflicted on a son or daughter.

I know these parents exist because I am one of them.

A once-abused child who is thrust into parenthood doesn't know how to give love. He or she never learned by example how to cope when things go wrong. Once-abused children often fear parenthood, for a crying child might unleash the beast buried in their minds.

So it was with me.

I MARRIED not knowing how to give love. I had children when I didn't have the faintest idea how to be a parent. And I lived in dread that the angry beast inside me would one day terrorize my children.

I wish I could say that in one sudden burst of wisdom I learned the secrets of loving, coping and parenting and that I never abused my children.

The sting of the hickory stick against my flesh taught me what love and parenting are not. But it took many years of searching to find what both of them were.

During my search, my children were my own personal guinea pigs. If I made a mistake, they paid the penalty.

There is a big gap between keeping your cool and slapping a child around a room. Sometimes I was closer to keeping my cool. Other times I was closer to slapping out. A few times, I did lash out.

VERY EARLY on, the sheer self-disgust I felt after hitting my children made me switch to other punishments.

Over the years, that feeling of self-disgust, plus the memory of being beaten myself, kept me from hitting my children as I unraveled the secrets of loving and parenting.

If I did hit my children, I can't blame the bad lessons of childhood. I am responsible for what I do. Only nature — through such perversities as epilepsy, hysteria, heart disease — has freedom to inflict pain on children.

No matter how good the excuse, I have no such freedom.

Schools eye non-teacher reductions for '83 budget

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is considering reductions in non-teaching personnel and trims in high school athletics for the 1983-84 school year, according to a proposed budget plan.

School officials recently held a workshop to discuss the proposed $41.7-million budget. At the board's Monday, June 27, meeting, public comments on the budget will be welcomed prior to its scheduled adoption later that night.

Budget revision is set for midyear (January or February), when information concerning student enrollment, state aid and utility costs is available. Officials point out, however, that the budget is "a working document" constantly undergoing changes.

Highlights of the proposed budget include:

- A projected districtwide enrollment of 15,800, a decline of 499 students.

- Local tax revenues based on a operating levy of 35.26 mills, the same as last year ($35.26 for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation).

- The proposed state aid revenue is budgeted at $233.61 per pupil, based on Gov. James Blanchard's proposal. The proposed budget does not take into consideration potential or future executive order cutbacks which would reduce revenues.

- Possible cutbacks, to be phased in over several months, are projected at a maximum of $783,700. Among the categories suggested for reduction are clerical and custodial staff, high school athletics, special education and alternative education.

- Proposed expenditures do not include provisions for salary increases.

While preparing for the final budget presentation and public hearing June 27, $655,700 was reduced from the 1983-84 county allocation budget, according to Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business.

The county allocation budget is submitted annually to the Wayne County tax allocation board outlining the need for 8.9 mills in county aid given to the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools each year.

C-C to hold garage sale

What has been promoted as the "World's Greatest Garage Sale" is being planned by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce on Saturday, June 18.

The event will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in downtown Plymouth and in the Old Village area.

The chamber is now renting space of 10 feet by 20 feet in downtown Plymouth on Penniman from Main to Union or in Old Village on Farmer between Starkweather and Mill. Space rental is $20 per space plus a $5 security deposit which is refundable.

United Rent All at 510 W. Ann Arbor Road is offering a 20 percent discount on any table rentals for use at the sale. Persons need to show their chamber reservation receipt to receive the discount.

Churches can use the garage sale as an opportunity for a fund-raiser, says co-chairman Cale Schneider of Big Red Q Quick Print. Schools can pay for a class project, or individuals can make money to pay some bills.

"You can bring all your basement and garage treasures and sell them," adds the other co-chairman, Pam Kosteva of the Cheese & Wine Barn. "Imagine spring cleaning creating a profit for you."

Persons or groups can reserve space at the garage sale by calling the chamber at 453-1540. In case of bad weather, sale will be rescheduled to Saturday, June 25.

Library watch

Among new books recently placed in circulation by Plymouth's Dunning-Hough Library are the following:

- "Keeping Faith — Memoirs of a President," by Jimmy Carter. In his own words, Carter evaluates his accomplishments and disappointments during his four years as president. He draws directly on the 5,000-page diary, which included unedited notes dictated after each important meeting nearly every day of his term. "Keeping Faith" goes beyond telling of the drama of the Oval Office and the crises that were faced, for it also is a private story of the Carter clan and how the pressure of constant scrutiny affected those closest to the president.

- "Ear on Washington," by Diana McLellan. English-born McLellan writes her column, "The Ear," four days a week for the Washington Post and the same stylish wit is employed in her book-length revelations of Washington scandals, rumors and gossip. She thrives on inside information from a special world that has national and international influence, conceding that "the Washington gossip columnist sees every day is not the one you read about in civics class."

- "Hen's Teeth and Horse's Toes," by Stephen Jay Gould. For 15 years the author has taught geology, biology, and the history of science at Harvard University, while outside the classroom he has won many literary awards as a widely acclaimed science writer. Here are 30 of his essays about evolution, answering such questions as, "What color is a zebra?" "Why do animals walk, fly, swim and slither but never roll?" and "What are we to make, if anything, of 'adultery' in bluebirds?"

- "The Woman's Guide to the Stock Market," by Barbara Lee, with Gretchen Morgenson. Lee is a vice president of investments at Shearson/American Express, Inc., while Morgenson is an account executive at Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. Their book takes the mystique out of the stock market. It asserts that finding bargains in stocks "is akin to comparison shopping for groceries."

- "The Weather Book," by Ralph Hardy, Peter Wright, John Kington, and John Gribbin. All four of these men are scientists and weather research experts. Their book is a completely illustrated guide to common and uncommon weather events around the globe. Ancient weather folklore, freak weather conditions, and methods used by modern weather forecasters are discussed in a language everyone can understand.

- "Fuchsias for House and Garden," by Sidney Clapham. This is a practical guide to growing fuchsias. The author, for whom fuchsias have been a specialty as a practicing nurseryman, explains how to plant and care for them, and suggests good varieties to choose for particular sites and purposes.

- "The Englishman's Daughter," by Peter Evans, is a thriller of international intrigue that moves between Moscow, London, Venice and Leningrad. At the core is the fact that Lord Henry Child, England's foremost monetary authority, turns traitor and betrays country, family and friends when he flees to Moscow. Inevitably, the cast includes satanic KGB agents as well as one of the world's most beautiful and sensuous film stars who just happens to be Lord Child's daughter.

- "Night Rituals," by Michael Jahn. Ex-newspaperman Jahn again demonstrates his talent for suspense in this thriller. The streetwise Jahn focuses upon the successive murders of three young women and the manner in which the killing spree is directed at the NYPD's Bill Donovan, commander of the West Side Major Crimes Unit. Donovan enlists the aid of a glamorous black undercover officer, but the trap they set nearly kills them both.

- "Salads for All Seasons," by Barbara Gibbons. Her column, Slim Gourmet, is carried in many newspapers and appears bimonthly in Family Circle. The author of eight cookbooks, Gibbons now serves up more than 250 salad recipes that are in step with current interest in fresh, natural, high-fiber food. Each recipe has a complete calorie count with a choice of low-calorie substitutes and higher-calorie treats.

- "A Conspiracy So Immense," by David M. Oshinsky. After nearly a decade of research and documentation, historian Oshinsky reveals the internal and external forces that launched U.S. Sen. Joseph McCarthy on his political career, carried him to national prominence and, finally, triggered his decline and fall. In doing so, he provides a fascinating portrait of America in the grip of Cold War fear, anger, and suspicion.

Love for flowers still blooms at 79

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

From the time she was a little girl in Ypsilanti, Avis Wahldecker developed a love for flowers.

Now a widow nearing her 80th birthday, she still retains that love and more.

She not only has developed a lovely outdoor garden at the corner of Joy and Coolidge in Plymouth, but she spends her many hours indoors working on pressed flowers and a series greeting cards.

"I learned a lot about flowers from my mother, and the interest has never left me. Even when we moved to a farm on Warren Road, the devotion to flowers continued. And now, here I am working with flowers almost every waking minute," she said while displaying her art in her cozy home.

A retired school teacher who taught for years at Allen School, she likes to tell the story of her strawberry patch.

"One year Mrs. McCumpha, who resided near the school, gave me a few strawberry plants that now have grown into a fine strawberry patch — and is still growing."

In 1926 she was married while living on the farm on Warren. She lost her husband when he died after a long illness in 1942. She was left with three daughters.

"I remained on the farm until 1944 when I bought this property on Joy Street."

As she looked out of the window at the broad beds that serve as a border along the sidewalk, she smiled and said, "You know this is part of the old fairgrounds, and this house rests on what used to be the racetrack."

After confiding that most of the flowers are wildflowers, she said, "I am responsible for all of it — even the grass. I worked hard with the grass, and the flowers just came in their many bright colors."

How many varies are in the gardens that front her home and along the side?

"I really don't know," she answered. "Some just grew, others were given to me and others came as gifts from friends. And I love every one of them."

Even when she travels to visit her children, one in near Boston and another in Brooklyn, she manages to get to the flower gardens in the area.

During the war years she served as a teacher at the Allen School on Haggerty Road.

She smiles now when she recalls her teaching helped her to get a degree from Eastern Michigan University when she was 50 years old and she likes to tell that her education spanned 50 years.

She continued teaching until 1969 when she retired from the staff at South Redford High School to spend the rest of her life with her flowers — both indoors and out.

Deputy race commissioner

Horses are her life, job

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

Since her childhood in Lapeer, Sharon Whitesell has been around horses and enjoyed talking with horse people.

Living across the road from Metamora Hunt Club, she enjoyed going cross country riding and taking the country jumps.

She has been a horse owner and even a breeder of show horses.

But she now admits that she is enjoying the greatest thrill of her life as deputy race commissioner for the state of Michigan.

"As a youth I never dreamed that some day I would be a deputy race commissioner and help to supervise the racing program for the entire state. But it is the finest moment of my time around horses," said Whitesell, whose office is on Main Street in downtown Plymouth.

"SURE, IT was a thrill riding the jumping horses and taking all the jumps in the horse shows. I had none of the fear energy in me that comes later in life. So it was great fun.

"But there is a different kind of enjoyment in being the first woman ever selected for a top state regulatory post in the 50-year history of Michigan's parimutuel horse racing industry."

The mother of a daughter, Wendy, who still lives at home, she manages to keep up her home in Lansing while tending to her job.

Because of that urge to be near horses, she spends little time in her office in Plymouth. She much prefers to be around the tracks and the barns talking to horse people.

She said she has always been an animal lover at heart. Her love of horses was heightened when she and her husband set up a horse-breeding farm.

"My husband and I set up the breeding farm in Ingham County, and I learned a great deal more about horses," she said. "Most of our stallions were former runners at the tracks in the area, and I became more familiar with the type of animals we find our race tracks today."

WITH THIS wide experience State Racing Commissioner Bill Ballen had no qualms about appointing her his deputy.

The desire for competition developed in her youth never quite left her. After spending three years at Michigan State studying marketing and several more in real estate at the University of Michigan, she left because it lacked the competitive urge.

For a time she found what she wanted in the state legislature, where she served as an aid to state Sen. Donald Bishop and state Sen. Richard Fessler. But much as she liked that role she missed the horses.

So when Ballenger appointed her as his deputy it was one of the biggest moments of her life.

Sin Jin Kwon wins spelling bee

Soo Jin Kwon, a ninth grader at West Middle School, has placed first in the districtwide spelling bee — for the second consecutive year.

Soo had just survived words such as infanticide, alligator, ultraviolet, blatherer and petard to emerge as the best of several thousand sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth graders in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

She also had taken top honors at last year's spelling bee.

Running a close second was Jennifer Croll, eighth grader at Central Middle School, who missed the word "petard" to lose what had been a tense final six minutes of mental jousting under the warm television studio lights.

THE LIGHTS were part of the Omnicon cable studios where the finals took place. The finals were cablecast live on Channel 11 and video-taped for replay at a later time.

Pronouncer Bill Bartlett, English teacher at East Middle School, gave the words and, when asked, gave the meaning of the word or used the word in a sentence.

As words were spelled incorrectly, the 11 finalists were narrowed to two. The final two had the option to spell a word correctly if the word was missed.

After correctly spelling petard, Soo Jin had to spell one additional word to win the contest.

After declaring Soo Jin the champion, Board of Education Secretary Florence Tonda presented her with a hard-bound copy of "Bartlett's Familiar Quotations."

Jennifer Croll received a copy of "Roget's Thesaurus."

MAUREEN MURPHY, assistant principal at Lowell Middle School, who coordinated the event, said: "We are proud of each of the students who participated, whether or not they were the final winners."

"The purpose of the districtwide spelling bee is to make students more aware of correct spelling. Regardless of who wins the final prizes, or even prizes at their local building, all of the students who participated are winners."

Memorial Day weekend marks park season opening

The Memorial Day weekend marks the beginning of summer for the 12 Metroparks of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. Most facilities will be ready by then, including lake and pool swimming, which opens Saturday.

Vehicle entry permits are required and are $7 for an annual pass, $2 for senior citizens. Daily passes are $2. Metro Beach, Stony Creek and Kensington Metroparks also have boat launching facilities which require boat launching permits. Fees are the same as for vehicle entry permits.

Here's a rundown of HCMA parks and the facilities they offer.

KENSINGTON METROPARK

Kensington, 4,340 acres, located near Milford, includes the 1,200-acre Kent Lake. Boat rentals, fishing, two beaches with bathhouses, heated showers and food service. Park facilities include 14 picnic areas, most with playfields, shelters and sanitary facilities; 18-hole golf course, five miles of bike-hike trails, nature center and trails. The Island Queen, an 80-passenger sternwheeler, makes 45 minute-trips around Kent Lake. Boat trips are noon to 6 p.m. weekends and holidays through Sunday, June 5, and daily, Saturday, June 11, to Labor Day. Weekend schedule from Saturday, Sept. 10, to Sunday, Oct. 30.

food service, swimming, fishing and boating on Stony Creek Lake, playfields, nature trails, nature center, boat launching site, 18-hole golf course, picnic areas. Sailboat, rowboat, canoe rentals. $500,000 needed

County searches for park money

By Suzie Rollins Singer
staff writer

Wayne County commissioners today are expected to discuss where they will find $500,000 to fund the county parks for the summer.

Without the money, the recreation areas will be forced to close Monday, July 4, said Irma Clark, the Wayne County Road Commission's assistant public information director.

The road commission has jurisdiction over the county's nine parks. During the first five months of 1982, it has spent most of the $950,000 parks budget maintaining the parks.

"We used to have a line item budget, but not anymore," said Clark, noting that the funding has been cut from $3 million in 1979 to $1.2 million in 1981 and $950,000 for '82-83.

"We need the money just to maintain what we have. We have already spent $45,000 removing dangerous trees in the parks and more money cutting grass and opening 17 of the 56 comfort stations," she added.

The road commission appealed to County Executive William Lucas for the money, but he refused. He said the request was premature, and the commission should seek federal or state grants for help.

"Grants will only provide us with money for new projects, not operating money, and we don't need any new projects, because we have no means of keeping up the ones we have," Clark said.

"We built a $750,000 nature center in Elizabeth Park a few years ago, and because it hasn't been staffed (due to budget cuts) it's been vandalized and is a burned out shell that needs $300,000 worth of work," she said.

IF COUNTY commissioners fail to approve the additional $500,000 request, the recreational facilities will be without staff July 4, Clark said.

"We can't close the parks, we can't block off the roads, when we run out of money we'll have to pull the employees out of the parks," she said.

"We presented our appeal to the commissioners and are just waiting for them to give us an answer," Clark added.

Commissioners Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, and Richard Manning, D-Redford, both said they would support the road commission's request for more funds. However, Dumas said she couldn't understand why the road commission spent all of its allocation this year.

"I recognize that there has to be cutbacks, but they've been managing with this kind of budget for a few years, how come they can't make a go of it now?" Dumas asked.

Dumas also added that part of the operation could be funded with money from the road commission's general fund.

"I also think interest from investments could be used as part of the budget," she said.

Manning said he is looking to Gov. James Blanchard for help.

"If the governor's program on youth employment gets off the ground I'd like to have some people hired for park maintenance. It's one area that the county executive could speak to," Manning said.

CHARITY COOKIE DRIVE
The Western Wayne County Chapter of Michigan Leukemia Foundation is sponsoring a cookie drive to cover the cost of research and patient financing in the cure and treatment of allied blood diseases. The cookies, in a Currier and Ives container, are $6 per tin. For information, call Jean Chakrabarty at 455-1077 or Mary Dingeldey at 459-0509. The Western Wayne County Chapter is at 51140 Geddes, Canton Township.

ZESTERS
The Zester senior citizens club, Canton, has openings for members. Eligible are Canton residents 55 and older. The club meets at 1 p.m. Thursdays at Canton Recreation Department. Take a bag lunch.

HAPPY HOUR
The Senior Group meets noon to 4 p.m. Wednesdays in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer, for card playing. For information, contact Plymouth Recreation Department at 455-6620.

FENCING CLUB
A free fencing club meets Thursdays at Field Elementary School, 1000 Haggerty, Canton Township. People with prior fencing experience desired. Contact Bruce Davis at 455-6418.

SELF-HELP GROUP
Recovery Inc., a group that teaches self-help techniques for nervous and depressed persons, meets 7:30-9:30 p.m. Mondays in Room B-10 of Pioneer Middle School, Ann Arbor Road west of Sheldon. Everyone is welcome.

SPECIAL EDUCATION SERVICES

Preprimary special education services for children 6 and younger are available through Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. If you have a child who may be mentally or emotionally impaired, have a physical or visual disability, a hearing or speech impairment or learning disability, call the Infant and Preschool Special Education Program (IPSEP) at Farrand Elementary School, 420-0363, for information.

PARTY BRIDGE
A party bridge group meets at 1 p.m. Thursdays in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer. Play usually is completed by 4 p.m.

Jaycees have 'M' Night

The Plymouth Jaycees are having an "M" Night for potential new members.

The membership recruitment meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Mill between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

The Jaycees are looking for men between the ages of 18 and 36 who care about the future of their community and who have the desire and determination to make Plymouth a better place in which to live and grow.

The Plymouth Jaycees each year sponsor civic events such as the Fourth of July festivities, Walk for Mankind, Easter Egg Hunt, Haunted House, Calling Santa, the Sand Box Fill and others.

Members will be discussing the Jaycees and its role in the community. Refreshments will be served and prizes given away. For more information or for reservations call Pat Sullivan, chairman, at 455-1635.

110 jobs available

Aimed at putting a dent in youth unemployment, the Plymouth-Canton co-op program, housed at Plymouth Salem High, is instituting a summer work employment program for residents between the ages of 16 and 21.

A total of 110 positions will be available for Plymouth, Canton and Northville youth who meet economic guidelines.

To qualify, each applicant must have an income of less than $4,680 and be totally self-supported (applicants may live at home but cannot be claimed by parents for income tax purposes.) If not self-supported, parents must be unemployed, on ADC, or fall below income restrictions based on size of family to qualify.

Joanne Hart, program coordinator, says college students who are working their way through college by summer employment would qualify if their parents do not claim them as an exemption on federal income tax forms.

The program pays $3.35 an hour. All employees work seven hours a day, Monday through Friday. The program begins Monday, June 20, and lasts six weeks through Aug. 5.

Persons may apply by contacting Hart or Bryan Richardson at 453-3100, Ext. 299, or by stopping by the Salem High Rock Shop between the hours of 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Teacher chairs authors group

Judy Stone, an English teacher at Pioneer Middle School, recently chaired a session of the young authors' conference for junior high students at University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Student writing portfolios, which had been submitted earlier, were critiqued and shared at the session.

Students also engaged in an introductory writing activity, explored movement from conventional to imaginative thinking, and created poems from their own extended metaphors.

Michigan poet Cynthia H. Cummings, main speaker, shared with the students her poems and experiences in getting her books published.

The conference for young authors is sponsored annually at the Dearborn campus of U-M and is coordinated by Dr. Grace Kachaturoff.

Appreciate Stage Band

To the editor:

I would like to take a moment to publicly thank a group of talented, dedicated and very giving young musicians: the West Middle School Stage Band.

On May 3 they took time from their evening schedules to entertain at the Volunteer Recognition Night sponsored by the school district. This past Saturday, May 21, they were on the scene at 8 a.m. for the dedication of the new pavilion ("The Gathering") which will be used for the Farmer's Market. Once again they provided enjoyable listening for the ceremony.

Their dedication and commitment to musical performance is both noteworthy and praiseworthy. As their director, I would like to thank them for volunteering their time and let them all know how very proud of them I am.

Michigan's revival isn't in high tech

(The author, Jack Bologna of Plymouth, is president of Computer Protection Systems, Inc. in Plymouth.)

The economic growth of Michigan is said to be tied to high technology ventures.

Economic development authorities here all seem to claim that unless we can attract such firms to this area, our economic future is bleak.

The auto industry won't be creating new jobs and, in fact, the industry will be permanently displacing several hundred thousand workers even if car sales go up substantially.

SO GOVERNMENT authorities are madly searching for high-tech manufacturers who might relocate here and are preparing to offer tax concessions and other inducements to attract them.

But high tech firms are attracted to areas with low tax rates, cheap labor, few regulatory constraints and free and abundant access to institutions of higher learning with research capabilities in the "hard" sciences: i.e., physics, chemistry, math, engineering, genetics.

Assuming high tech firms could be attracted, the jobs they are most likely to create will, in the main, consist of clerical and assembly functions and a few more technicians such as machinery maintenance and repairmen.

This certainly will be no boon to the disposable income of Michigan's workers because the pay rates for these jobs won't be anywhere close to the auto factory jobs permanently lost.

Furthermore, we may not have the type of academic support these high tech firms will most desire. Not that our colleges are slouches or devoid of talent in these fields but other states are years ahead of us in this regard. The cost of gearing up and tooling up would be considerable.

One thing we do have in Michigan, however, is the opposite side of the high tech coin — High Touch, as John Naisbitt calls it in "Megatrends." According to Naisbitt, high tech must be coupled with "high touch" to be effective. High touch is defined by Naisbitt as "the human side of technology," called Ergonomics by some authorities, or "human factors engineering."

NO STATE IN the union has more going for it in the realm of high touch than does Michigan.

We lead the nation in applications of concepts such as Quality of Work Life (QWL), Quality Circles, worker participation, industrial democracy, etc.

The UAW, particularly through the efforts of Irving Bluestone and Douglas Fraser, have been supportive — indeed, in Bluestone's case, spearheaded such advances in labor-management relations.

General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler are committed to such programs and early successes indicate these programs will accomplish a number of worthwhile objectives such as:

- Quality of products will be enhanced.
- Relationships between workers and management will be enhanced.
- Defects and costs will be reduced.
- Human dignity will be restored to workers.
- Job satisfaction will improve.

Michigan can take the lead in such applications. In fact, it already may be in the lead.

And when it comes to academic support for better movements, the main theoretical support for better management of human resources has come largely from the University of Michigan and from Michigan State University.

The Institute for Social Research (ISR) in Ann Arbor has been in the forefront of such developments for more than 30 years. The research done in worker attitudes and motivations, in labor management conflict resolution and organization development, in statistical quality control and ergonomics, in strategic planning, and in management by objective (MBO), had their genesis at the University of Michigan's schools of engineering, business administration and sociology.

The university produced such giants in these fields as Kurt Levin, Rensis Likkert, Demming, Odiorne and many, many others.

Michigan State gave us Professor Eugene Jennings and many others of his stature in business, economics, engineering and the behavioral sciences. Wayne State and Western Michigan universities also can lay claim to substantial contributions in these fields.

So we aren't exactly slouches when it comes to "behavioral technologies."

MY SUGGESTION is that we stop making apologies for our shortcomings in Michigan and focus on our strengths.

We may not attract high tech firms, but we can attract "high touch" firms.

High touch really is the wave of the future. If people can't be managed effectively, all the machines in the world won't help much.

And when it comes to managing people, we have a lot going for us.

— Jack Bologna

Dutch protect home, barn

YOU WON'T find it listed on the maps, but if you are driving east when you come to the land between the Susquehanna and Delaware rivers, you are in the Pennsylvania Dutch Country — one of the most colorful regions in the land.

It is there you will be fed scrapple for breakfast and shoo-fly pie for dinner. You will meet the offspring of the people who fled the banks of the Rhine River in Germany generations ago in search of religious freedom.

In the group will be all segments of religion — the Reformed, Lutherans, Mennonites, Amish, Quakers and the like. And many use "hex" signs on their homes and barns.

THEY ARE deeply superstitious people and believe that the witches would get them if they didn't watch out. The signs, commonly known as family etchings, were believed to let the witches know they were a religious sect of God-fearing people, and so witches had better beware.

The hex signs you see in many antiques and souvenir shops here in Michigan have their origins among the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Most Pennsylvania hex signs were home made, and you will find them in various parts of the home and barns. In some cases, they are found at the door. In other cases, especially at barns, they are at all the windows.

The Amish and Mennonites shunned the hex sign, going their own ways. The Amish stuck as a closely-knit family, seldom leaving the section they settled. Mennonites had their own way of showing their belief in God, but the Pennsylvania Dutch proudly portrayed their hex signs.

The signs, aside from showing they were religious, were set up as signs that friendly people lived inside. A place with no hex sign was a good place to shy away from.

Public says no new taxes

FIREFIGHTERS IN Birmingham are trying to drum up support for a three-fourths-mill property tax increase to save fire department jobs. A knowledgeable observer, however, says, "I don't think there's a chance that it would pass. I think voters would say, find another way to keep the fire department intact."

In Westland, Mayor Charles Pickering proposed a 10 percent increase in the property tax rate, partially because of a 5.6 percent decrease in valuations. Homeowners would pay an average of $10-$15 more a year in property taxes.

The announcement of his intentions touched off protests and demonstrations.

THESE ARE only two examples of relations between local governments and the public — at best, an uneasy alliance; in some places, simmering hostility. People generally are mistrustful of politicians' ability to manage public money for the greatest public good.

We have been treated for years to investigations of how Washington overspent. Ronald Reagan became president while creating an image of a man who wants to get government off our backs. Voters who liked it interpreted it to mean getting government out of our wallets.

We also have been served stories of local govern-

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

HEX SIGNS were only part of the beliefs of these folks who sought religious freedom. They were superstitious to the last corpseful of their blood.

It was the Pennsylvania Dutch who put the curse on the 13th day of the month and carried good luck charms with them at all times.

They ignored the 13th of each month, even in business. If they had occasion to write, they would date letters or checks the 12th. And when the 13th fell on a Friday, business places might as well shut down. These Dutch, of whom The Stroller is an offshoot, believed that the witches were out in full force on this day, and they never ventured far from home. Hence, there was little business.

There was another side to the hex belief. If people were taken sick, it was believed they were "hexed." Even in cases where the unfortunate were suffering mental ailments, it was the belief that they were "hexed" and the witches had gotten to them.

THE THOUGHT that a hex sign was protective even carried over into sports.

Well the Stroller remembers in his early days of sports writing in the Dutch country when "Punch" Christman, manager of the Macungie team, put up a hex sign at his team's dugout. When he reported the victory to the newspapers, he announced, "We hexed them."

So if you are traveling east, it is a trip worth while to switch off the Pennsylvania turnpike at Harrisburg and take old Route 22 for places like Shartlesville, Allentown, Reading, Bethlehem, Bath and Nazareth. You will not only enjoy the hex signs everywhere, but the speech of the older people will be fascinating, too.

These Pennsylvania Dutch sure can butcher the King's English such as telling a worker to take a curved rod and "bend it straight."

ment waste and questionable activity. Wayne County's government has provided a surfeit of examples.

PERHAPS THE biggest contributions to mistrust of government, deserved or not, were the income tax increases passed last year under then Gov. William Milliken and this year under Gov. James Blanchard.

Neither governor thought there was any other choice. A majority of legislators agreed. From the noise which ensued from the citizenry, it became apparent that many people thought the state government should have found another way.

Blanchard, now the target of a recall campaign, is a good example of a man caught in shifting tides of expectations and public opinions.

Campaigning, he emphasized he would do all that he could to create "jobs, jobs, jobs" in order to deal with Michigan's serious problems of unemployment and a declining economy, although he cautioned he could not work magic.

In fact, state government can do little to ease the problems of unemployment. Blanchard's almost desperate attempt to fulfill his campaign promise is focused on 20,000 summer jobs for youth, hardly an answer to the state's long-term unemployment.

CANDIDATES DEVELOP campaign platforms to

No time to celebrate — or to forget

A SHORT DECADE after an American war ended, we stand on the verge of yet another. We don't know where, for sure, or exactly when. But we know another conflict lurks in the shadows, eager to snatch away another generation of youth.

Perhaps the stench of a future war lingers so heavily on this Memorial Day because so many forget so easily. While wars rage around the globe, Americans once again have withdrawn into their shell of denial and isolationism.

Increasingly, we hear the naive refrains of the Neville Chamberlains and Charles Lindberghs. Yet, today, many who mouth those words know Lindbergh only as the man who flew the Atlantic, and they have never heard of acquiescent Chamberlain and "peace in our time." The consequences of their fatal political legacies of isolationism and appeasement have been all but forgotten.

Sometime in the very near future it will be the young who will inherit "the tribulation, the sorrow and the triumphs that are the aftermath of war," as Herbert Hoover so aptly put it.

OF COURSE, triumph is illusory when it comes to those who actually fight the wars. No one really gains anything in war, even the notorious monied interests who so often are cited.

But America forgets these lessons. In previous decades, many would lament the patriotic celebration surrounding the Memorial Day. They would recoil at the glorification of tanks and artillery paraded down our streets. And they were right. There really is nothing to celebrate.

But today we choose to forget, altogether. Memorial Day is just another day away from work — one of those many three-day weekends to which we have grown accustomed and have come to cherish.

We picnic, play softball, go to the cottage, watch the Indianapolis 500, wax the car, plant the garden, and lie in the sun. We do all the things we would do on any other day when we didn't have to go to work.

For many Americans, Memorial Day is the kickoff to summer — although it officially begins later in the month.

WHILE WE'VE finally grown away from celebrating war on Memorial Day, it is a mistake to forget. We should remember for the sake of the generations to come.

We should remember the perverse acts of all wars. We should remember the cowardice and bungling of political leaders who lead us to war. We should remember greedy industrialists who thought another war would make them rich. We should remember the fanaticism of the ideologues who were overcome by their own power.

And we should remember the masses of people who let these leaders get away with what they did because they closed their minds' eye in hopes that war would go away.

And, yes, we should remember the soldiers — all the soldiers in every war who left home and were separated from their families for a time or forever.

If you have a tough time remembering, think of the words of World War II cartoonist Bill Mauldin: "Look at the infantryman's eyes, and you can tell how much war he has seen."

Remember the eyes of the infantryman you know or knew. Then maybe for a time we will stop killing our youths — until that next war which lurks in the shadows.

Bob Wisler

address what they perceive are the people's problems. Once elected, they are trapped into trying to deliver while dealing with dwindling resources.

The fact is that most people feel we have reached the limit with government spending, and no need for extra tax funds can be justified. Their message: Whatever the money is needed for, take it out of present revenues by cutting out something else.

Since most governments are working with less and less money, it is becoming apparent that some services which the public has been used to will have to go, even if it means firefighters in Birmingham or parks department employees in Westland.

Government leaders realize this and, in most instances, are taking steps to cut back. The Blanchard recall campaign probably won't succeed in ordering a recall election, but the organizers have already sent government officials a message which certainly will loom in the background of every local and state government spending decision.

'2nd largest industry'

Tourism called state's growth industry

Michigan's travel industry is a "low-technology growth industry" which with increased promotion could provide 240,000 new jobs and generate $450 million more state tax dollars, according to Len Barnes, editor of AAA Michigan Living magazine.

Barnes touted the travel industry as the state's and the nation's only current growth industry. "Even in recession, tourism is growing," Barnes said.

"In Michigan, the direct and indirect dollars generated have doubled since 1975, topping $10 billion last year," said Barnes in a speech to the Adcraft Club of Detroit in the Sheraton Southfield.

BARNES GAVE the tourism industry the "low-tech growth" tag because Tourism employs 240,000 people, compared with the 211,000 employed in Michigan by General Motors and Chrysler Corp. combined.

— Len Barnes
AAA magazine editor

it offers entry-level jobs to those who have no skills, the unemployed who need no retraining and employees who can learn and become upwardly mobile. Hopes that new, high-technology jobs will cure the nation's economic ills are overly optimistic, he argued.

"Tourism is the state's second-largest industry, a close competitor to the auto business," he said. In direct and indirect jobs, it employs 240,000 people, compared with the 211,000 employed in Michigan by General Motors and Chrysler Corp. combined.

Because the 240,000 travel industry employees "are not concentrated at one place, like an auto assembly line, we do not think of travel as big business," he said.

IN 1982, tourism contributed $451 million to Michigan's tax revenue and the contribution could double, Barnes said.

Market research shows the potential for twice as many Michigan vacationers as there are now, he said.

"If only half of those indicating strong interest decided to come to Michigan, the direct and indirect dollars travel brings would be boosted to $20 billion yearly," Barnes said.

"Persons employed in tourism would increase to one-half million and tax dollars contributed to the state treasury would grow to more than $900 million each year."

Michigan's current annual expenditure on travel promotion is $2.9 million, only two-thirds as much as last year, Barnes noted. The Michigan Travel Bureau has proposed that $12 million a year be spent on state tourism promotion for at least five consecutive years.

State auto club predicts more summer travel in Michigan

Memorial Day weekend should help propel Michigan to a $1.5-billion summer tourism season and give the state's economy a 3-percent boost over last summer, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Such tourism barometers as expected increased holiday travel, a bigger demand for AAA routings, greater interest in camping and fishing and stable travel costs indicate we should have a very good summer season," said James Drury, Auto Club's Travel Operations manager.

"Requests from Auto Club members for routings to Michigan destinations and the volume of out-of-state AAA members served at our 56 offices statewide are both up about 9 percent so far this year over 1982," Drury said.

The Michigan Department of Highways estimates motorists on state roads will log 700 million miles, up 3 percent over the 1982 Memorial Day weekend. The 78-hour holiday officially begins at 6 p.m. Friday, May 27, and runs through midnight Monday, May 30.

ALL FOUR Michigan regional tourist bureaus report an upsurge in travel inquiries this year. The Upper Peninsula Travel and Recreational Association has received double its usual amount of summer tourism inquiries. Some 400,000 additional pieces of literature, one-third above last year's level, have been distributed by the Southeast Travel and Tourist Association.

A 10-percent rise in summer tourism activity is expected by the West Michigan Tourist Association. The East Michigan Travel Association expects plentiful gamefish in Lake Huron and inland waters to lure increased visitors to northeast lower Michigan this summer.

The Michigan Travel Bureau received a 20-percent increase in tourism inquiries during the first quarter of this year compared to 1982. Early requests for summer tourism information, which began in April, are equal to last year.

"Requests for AAA's Michigan campground guide are up nearly 20 percent over last year at this time," Drury said. The Department of Natural Resources expects state park campground reservations to rise about 5 percent over last summer.

Private campground reservations for the Memorial Day holiday are at least equal to last year, with southern Lower Michigan areas expected to fill first.

The Auto Club's "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" Holiday News Service will begin its 19th straight year of reporting on traffic and tourism via a network of 170 Michigan radio stations. It will operate with a 25-member staff 3-11 p.m. Friday, May 27, from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and Monday, and from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday.

Hammell Music opens new store in Plymouth

Hammell Music has opened a new store at 331 N. Main in the city of Plymouth.

The music store is in the building formerly occupied by Granata Furniture.

Members of the staff include: Diane Puckett, piano department; Dale Caplin, organ department; Lennie Richman, Steinway technician and rebuilding/refinishing department.

The new location offers nearly the same services as the original Hammell store and main store on Middlebelt Road in Livonia.

Hammell's piano product lines include Steinway and Sons console and grand pianos, Sohmer and Co. console and grand pianos, Krakauer consoles, Everett consoles, and Conn consoles and grand pianos.

The store handles Conn organs for the home, classical-church, or theatrical models. The store also has used pianos and organs.

The staff does all rebuilding, reconditioning and refinishing required on its used merchandise and will offer quotations on work requested. Hammell also will do in-home tunings, regulations and repairs.

The store also has a boutique shop with a line of gifts for musicians, including pins, cups, scarfs, napkins and candleholders.

Hammell's also claims to have one of Michigan's largest selections of sheet music including instrumental books, method books, teaching pieces, solo and ensemble music, concert, marching and stage band music, cantatas, popular and classical piano and organ, sacred choral anthem and secular choral music.

Kenneth Windsor
Hilton manager

The store is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday, and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday and Friday.

DIGEST LAUNCHED

A monthly newsletter on computer

security has been launched by Computer Protection Systems, 711 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

The newsletter will feature incidents involving computer-related crimes and security breaches, abstracts of pertinent trade and professional magazine articles on those subjects, and tools, tips and techniques for preventing, auditing and investigating such events, says Jack Bologna, president of Computer Protection Systems.

Called "Computer Security Digest," the publication will be edited by Timothy Schaback, a veteran in the data processing field and author of numerous articles and several books for data center/disaster/recovery planning.

The current issue features an article on micro-computer security, a matter of concern among data processing professionals and top managers, says Schaback.

Subscriptions may be ordered by phone (458-8787) or by writing the firm at Suite 4, 711 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth 49170. Subscription price is $75 per year.

DOCTOR HONORED

Dr. Charles J. Westover, M.D., of Plymouth is among 77 Michigan doctors receiving 50-year pins from the Michigan State Medical Society in recognition of a half century of medical service since graduation from medical school.

This year's recipients graduated from medical school in 1933 in the midst of the Great Depression and in an era of limited medical/surgical treatments. Sulfa drugs and a few others were the only medicines available. Pneumonia was a common killer, and smallpox, measles and polio were feared by millions.

Westover and others who entered practice in 1933 have seen medicine evolve into space-age technology with computerized diagnostic tools, countless new antibiotic and antiviral drugs, and new surgical techniques. Smallpox has been eradicated and many of the other common diseases can be prevented through immunizations.

Collectively, the 77 physicians have accumulated 3,850 years of medical experience while serving more than a million Michigan residents.

HILTON CITED

The Plymouth Hilton Inn has been cited by the American Automobile Association for ranking among North America's best accommodations.

In recognition of that citation, Kenneth E. Windsor, Hilton manager, recently was presented with AAA's 1983 four-diamond plaque by John Plants, Automobile Club of Michigan vice president of corporate services.

Eight Detroit-area hotels are among the 25 in Michigan which earned four diamonds for significantly exceeding physical and operational standards. No properties in Michigan earned five diamonds, AAA's highest award.

LEARNING CENTER

Utech Computer Learning Center has opened for business in the Joy-Hix Shopping Plaza.

The center offers a variety of short courses and workshops designed to relieve confusion about personal computers. Students of all ages can receive instruction using Commodore computer systems. Jim Selleck is owner of the new shop.

CHAMBER EXPANDS

Beverly Hoisington, president, AKVA America, 614 S. Evergreen, Plymouth, automated systems and robots; Mary Jane Dillon, Simply Oxygen, 44567 Pinetree Dr., Plymouth, home oxygen service; Bob Gembarick, Classic Container Corp., 350 S. Mill, Plymouth; David Willit, Community Vision Cable, city of Wayne, cable communications; Mission Hills Golf Club, 14830 Sheldon Road, Plymouth; and Dennis Willey, Lindsay & Pavelich Manufacturing Company, 300 Dunn, Plymouth.

Applications being taken

Asthma camp means fun despite allergy

Applications are being taken from area asthmatic children wanting to attend an unusual YMCA summer camp for youngsters suffering from asthma.

Camp Michi-Mac, sponsored by Detroit YMCA, the Michigan Allergy Society, American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Lung Association allows youth to participate in a full summer camp despite their physical handicap.

Among the physicians who volunteer to work at the camp is Dr. David Seaman, a Canton allergist.

The camp also has been supported in recent years by contributions from the Plymouth Rotary Foundation.

"Asthma is an obstruction of the air passages which causes wheezing and difficulty in breathing," said Dr.

Allan Sosin, medical director of the program.

ASTHMA IS characterized by irritability of the air passage, spasms in muscles around the bronchial tubes, excessive mucous, and swelling of the lining of the bronchial tubes. Sosin said that more than nine million Americans have asthma.

Because most asthma patients develop the disease before age 17, explains Seaman, the Michi-Mac program was developed in 1979 so asthmatic children could enjoy a normal camping environment.

The campers, who range in age from 7 to 14, have the opportunity to participate in swimming, hiking and playing games without fear of consequences because there is professional help available if they run into difficulties.

Supervision is provided for the camp by pediatricians, nurses and pharmacists on a volunteer basis.

The YMCA camp also has a full complement of personnel who are professionals in running camps.

BESIDES THE usual camp activities, the asthmatic children have educational sessions in which they learn the relationships between the activity, medication and their asthma.

This summer the sponsoring agencies again will be sponsoring Camp Michi-Mac at two locations. From July 31 to Aug. 6, and Aug. 7-13, Camp Ohyesa will be the location. Near Milford, the program is designed for 7-10-year-olds. Oscoda, Mich., will be the site for a 14-day camp for boys and girls ages 10-14.

Anyone interested in obtaining further information about Camp Michi-Mac, can call 962-1590.

A GOOD MANY Canadians from Ontario came to Plymouth for their long Victoria Day weekend. The Mayflower Hotel was filled and many stayed over Monday to shop and explore. The shoppers were taking advantage of the city's no-discount-on-Canadian-currency offer.

The visitors were not tour groups who arrived by bus. They were individual families, traveling by private automobiles, who had heard on radio or television about the equal exchange on Canadian money. The majority of them were from the Windsor and London areas with some from Toronto, Dorchester and St. Mary's.

The merchants with red maple leaf stickers on their shops said the visitors were buying, which is what the party deal is all about.

THE END OF THE school year brings announcements of teachers who are retiring. Among them is Jim Brown, assistant principal at West Middle School. Jim has been with the school system 28 years.

James Gallimore was president of the school board when he was first hired. His probationary contract carried an unusual clause — if the millage passed, he would receive a $100-a-year raise.

His first teaching job for the Plymouth Schools began in September 1955. He taught English and social studies at the junior high school which was then in the old high school, now Central Middle School. In 1962, he moved to Junior High East, as it was called, and then in 1970 to West Middle School as assistant principal.

Jim was a graduate of the Normal School in Ypsilanti. He earned bachelor and master of arts degrees from Eastern Michigan University and special education from the University of Michigan.

Eleanor Burton, music teacher, is retiring after 20 years in the school system. Louise Kohut, librarian at Allen Elementary is retiring after 18 years in the local schools.

THE FARMERS market opened Saturday in The Gathering, on Penniman Avenue across the street from Kellogg Park. It was Flower Day with flats and flats of bedding plants and colorful hanging baskets. The Gathering accommodates 28 undercover booths. These were occupied with more outside.

There was a dedication ceremony with the West Middle School Band, directed by Mike Chiumento, providing music for the occasion. Dave Sibbold, chairman of the Farmers Market, presented a check to City Manager Hank Draper and Mayor Pro Tem Dave Pugh. The check represented half the net profits of last year's markets (more than $1,000).

Marykay and Marty Puckett are market masters this year. Lafrinda Fitzgerald is in charge of rounding up animals for the petting corral. Celia Stuart had her goats with their newborn kids in the corral Saturday.

Although the flowers were stars of the opening day, shoppers discovered home grown spinach and radishes, farm fresh eggs, other produce and baked goods. New this year is a family baked goods stall offering all kinds of homebaked breads, cakes and other specialties.

WINNERS OF the Park Players cash drawing were picked at the Farmers Market. Margaret Wilson and Earl Reuter each won $1,000. Vicki Zydeck of the Salt Box won the grand prize of $2,000. Vicki had reinvested her winnings from the drama group's 50-50 draw to buy a $20 ticket.

Earl Reuter lives in Massachusetts. Heidi Wordhouse, a member of the Austria-bound troupe, said he is her Uncle Earl. Her mother had written to him about the high school group's invitation to perform in the international drama festival in Villach, Austria. He sent along his $20 to help the cause. The drama students will be at the Canton Historical Society flower sale and the Canton Rotary Club rummage sale this weekend at the Canton Historical Museum Proctor and Canton Center roads. They'll have their tickets for the lawn swing draw.

Madonna graduates urged to love, care

By Kathy Torick
special writer

BY CARING AND loving and by reconciling old values with new ideas and needs, they'll be able to brighten their corner of the world.

That was the message commencement speaker Dr. Russell G. Mawby gave Madonna College graduates at commencement exercises May 14.

Diplomas were presented to 552 graduates at ceremonies held in St. Genevieve Catholic Church in Livonia.

The graduates are "fortunate to be part of Christian, independent liberal arts institution," said Mawby, chairman of the board of trustees and chief executive officer of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

To a capacity audience, Mawby said, "My entire message can be summarized in two four-letter words — care and love." He stressed that the graduates will be confronted with value-laden problems and tough choices when they move on in the world.

"Today's graduates face a different world . . . but I find the challenge and potential of tomorrow as demanding and exhilarating as they have ever been," he said, "but you must maintain a proper perspective." By caring and loving and by reconciling old values with new ideas and needs, Mawby suggested that everyone can and should brighten the corner where he or she is.

AMONG THE 552 graduates were approximately 90 who graduated with honors.

At age 62, Stella V. Nastas of Livonia was one of the oldest graduates who completed requirements for a bachelor of science degree.

In addition to the students who received degrees, Mawby and Thomas S. Monaghan, founder, president, and chairman of the board of Domino's Pizza, were presented with honorary doctor of humanities degrees for their significant contribution for the betterment of society.

Madonna President Sr. Mary Francilene said, "The board chose to honor Mawby and Monaghan for their commitment to Christian humanitarian principles that have given great impetus and inspiration to the cause of youth, older adults, underprivileged and the needy, and for their benefactions of concern, wisdom and moral influence."

Mawby was noted by Francilene for "sharing his professional expertise to increase the food resources of the world and for his significant personal efforts to develop a partnership in Michigan among colleges, government and business to initiate and apply new technologies for economic rebirth."

MADONNA IS ONE of 16 Michigan colleges affiliated with the Kellogg Foundation, one of the largest philanthropic organizations in the United States, with endowments totaling more than $57 million annually.

Monaghan, founder of the 900-store

Domino's Pizza chain, was recognized by Francilene for his "successful application of human resourcefulness, energetic creativity, and single-minded perseverance in establishing his own business and sharing his success with others."

His faithful interpretation of the "golden rule" learned as a youth from the Felician order of nuns and applied to his personal and professional life, and his encouragement of it in others also were noted.

Several administrators and officers of Madonna also participated in the commencement ceremonies. They included Norene Daly, chairwoman, education/psychology department, who gave the invocation; Andrew Brodhun, chairman of the board of trustees; and Sr. Mary Lauriana, vice president for development, who presented the two candidates for honorary degrees; Sr. Rose Marie, academic dean, who presented the candidates for degrees and honors; and Louis Brohl III, director of admissions, who presided over the ceremonies.

Time for a celebration

The merchants in Forest Place Mall are planning a 10th anniversary celebration, and the grocery store turned mini-mall already sports a festive atmosphere. The main hallway is festooned with balloons, streamers and colorful parasols.

The two-day party will be Friday and Saturday, June 3 and 4. Bargain items will be featured in the retail shops; prizes will be given; and there will be free entertainment. Plymouth Book World will have story hours for the small fry. There will be music and magic acts. The parking lot north of the building will be closed and a stage erected with activities throughout the day.

Jim Jabara, John Thomas and Tex Thoman created the mall. More than 10 years ago, they bought the grocery store, Stop and Shop, from the Rucker brothers. Jabara and Thomas later became sole owners of the mall by trading a building they owned on Penniman Avenue to Thoman in exchange for his interest in the mall.

FIVE OF THE original 12 tenants, still are in the mall. They are the Mayflower Beauty Salon, Nawrot Pendleton Shop, Plymouth Book World, Christian Science Reading Room and the Westfield Co. Baskets and Bows and Bed n' Stead were among the originals but now have new owners.

The Silent Man, Little Angels Shoppe, Muriel's Doll House, The Panhandler, and the Green Thumb were there in the spring of 1973. Little Angels, the Doll House and Green Thumb moved to larger quarters as did Frame Works, a later tenant of the mall. The Collectors Shop, Enchante and the Put Upon Shop complete the present roster of tenants.

Plans for the 10th anniversary party bring back memories of another party more than 35 years ago to Earl West. The West Brothers built the first business on the west side of Forest Avenue.

"WE STARTED construction right after World War II. Materials were scarce, and we couldn't get steel or cement," West recalls.

He and his brothers started building their International Harvester agency in 1946. It was to be one of four implement dealerships in town.

"John Deere was out on Ann Arbor Road, where the Honda dealership is now; Allis Chalmers was where Midas Muffler is now; and there was another small one on Harvey Street," West said.

Forest Avenue was a dirt street. "The only other business was Herm Bakhaus' Cloverdale across the street. He used to sell ice cream cones, five dips for a nickel, it was called the rainbow special."

When their building was complete and ready for business, the West Brothers had a three-day grand opening. "Jack Taylor, the mayor was there, and we had a dance and a show."

WEST SAID Forest Place Mall originally was Kimborough Appliance. "It was built later as were Beyer's Drug Store, the hardware store, Margaret Dunning's and the other stores."

Over the years, the street was paved, the West Brothers building was converted and extended to become Westchester Mall, and most recently, Forest became a one-way street. Jabara and Thomas added to the mall complex with new shops extending to Ann Arbor Trail.

The Forest Place Shops are marking another milestone with their birthday celebration.

Karen Olson of Bed n' Stead spoke for all the merchants in the original mall when she issued an invitation to the community to "come to our party." They promise prizes and surprises, free refreshments and free entertainment.

Busy weekend with festival, dedication, soccer

Some of you may have missed some of the big second annual festival at St. Thomas A Becket Church on Cherry Hill and Lilley. The fun started with a garage sale in a tent on Wednesday and Thursday. Three days of fun followed with Vegas nights, Bingo, a craft tent, games, rides, food and even different bands.

The Nu-Fonics, an ethnic band, the Red Garter Band, for total fun, and the Avalons will present all-round music enjoyment. For your entertainment there will be Plymouth Centennial Dancers, and Odyssey in Illusion. Oh yes, and don't forget the pancake breakfast 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday. ($2.50 for adults, $1.50 12 and under)

I understand they have all sorts of things to raffle off and the biggie is a mere $5,000 — count 'em — five thousand dollars. For more information, call John Dale 981-0197.

NOW IF THAT doesn't keep you busy, try the dedication ceremony for the soccer field — make that the Phil Dingledey Soccer Field — and also the Louis Stein Softball Field. Both will be dedicated to our fine former supervisors of Canton, May 27 beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the softball field. Ceremony will include a balloon release, presentation of plaques honoring the two men, and a personal appearance by Phil Dingledey himself who is flying in from Florida just for this honor.

ALL THE SOCCER you could want to see will be played at Canton's own soccer field this weekend.

Teams from Canada, Ohio, Northern Michigan — 98 in all — are coming here for a real live soccer tournament. The teams were invited by Phil La Joy, president of the Canton Soccer Club for three days of soccer.

There will be bleacher seats but you're welcome to bring your own chairs. There will be a "pay as you go" or maybe I should say a "pay as you eat" concession stand with hot dogs, chips, and so on at 6 p.m. Friday, and 8 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Remember folks, it's in Canton's brand new Phil Dingledey Soccer Field, behind township hall off Proctor Road, and it's free.

HAVE YOU EVER been in a road rally? Well I have and I love 'em, and I have one to tell you about. If you have never been on one let me try to give you a quickie "What the heck is a road rally anyway?" course. This may turn out to be shorter than the name of the course.

A road rally is done in some sort of motor vehicle and run like a confusing, highly sophisticated scavenger hunt!

Canton chatter Sandy Preblich

Only there are check points, clues, puzzle solving and sometimes little things you have to pick up or do, on the way. It's lots of fun! You'll love it! Only you missed this one.

Mike and Kathy Gorzen won. (If I hear of any more before they happen I'll let you know.)

Let me tell you about this one, just to tempt you. It was arranged by the Cherry Hill Oaks Subdivision, their fourth to be exact. How's this for strange, "take a Polaroid picture of the driver of the vehicle with his hand in a register." Or how about one "With everyone in your car with a person in uniform?"

Oh yes, a lesson learned by some, "Don't be a litter bug" You know who you are, you balloon droppers! Even a child knows never loose your balloon! (It could be a clue) with love when their four children put together a beautiful anniversary party to celebrate and thank them for 25 years of marriage.

The party was planned and executed beautifully by their offspring, some of whom came from out of town. Andy, now in the Navy, and his wife, Cathy, came in from Chicago. Marita, while awaiting the birth of the Ryans' grandchild, and her husband, Vito Petrera, came from New York, while here on the home front were Bridgett and Lorraine.

Literally, from top to bottom, the whole house was decorated with bouquets of flowers. Multi-colored carnations and a beautiful punch fountain highlighted the catered buffet prepared by Pearl Mahl. There was everything to please the fussiest palate, from chicken and ham through sweet potatoes, all the way to the relish tray.

They'll never forget the friends that came to share the joy: Steve and Kay Barrick, Sally Belding, Don Rigo, Darrell and Jan Braun, Jim and Shannon Monro, Sherman and Mary Moore, Hank and Sandy Naasko, Ben and Ray Shibley, Cece and Tom Sovine, Bill Soules, Bob and Kathy Spencer, Carol and Bob Shaw, Helen and Mike Wiesner, Bob and Dolly White, Chuck Wolford, Carol Koessel, Gene and Leo Flanigan, Earl and Pat Merriman, Pam and Zig Pride, Marge and Jim Chmielewski, Rus and Mary Ellen Roth, and a close personal friend of Lorraine's, Ken Victor. And another wonderful surprise was Bobbie's mother, Kay Rupprecht, who joined the fun from Pennsylvania.

The Ryans requested no gifts but a special touch was added when, Art Lawrence made a memory box, filled with special little "things from the past." This was put together by his wife Sue. The romance continued when Hank and Sandy Naasko, both music teachers, brought in sheet music and everyone joined in singing the "Anniversary Song" as the Ryans danced. Well the singing continued, as did the good times, as will the Ryans' marriage.

I asked Bobbie for a few words of wisdom from one who knows and she passes this on to us: "Just keep trying, it's worth all the effort; it keeps getting better." You know I think she's got something there. Good luck and love to everyone.

I'M OUT OF space again. If your story didn't get in this week I am sorry, and I will try very hard to get it in next week. I'll even give my phone number this week and I apologize for the omission last week. Thank you to those of you who found me anyway, you might do well on a road rally!

A quick note for my brother-in-law who always wanted to see his name in print — Richard Preblich.

Brownies invest in beautification

It was a big year for Brownies. For the first time, they were permitted to take orders for Girl Scout cookies. Troop 693 in the Eriksson cluster, Canton Township, sold 600 boxes. Their sales brought a net profit of $150 to the troop budget. Co-leaders Cheryl Creighton and Martha Boyd decided a conference was in order. The troop of nine first through third graders meets regularly at Boyd's house. They put their heads together and decided it would be nice to do something for their community. After setting aside a portion of their cookie money for camping and running expenses, they purchased several flowering crab trees, two ash trees and an oak.

Planting day was Monday at John W. Flodin Park on Saltz Road. Those who attend the dedication ceremony Friday will see the results of Troop 693's first Girl Scout cookie sales.

When you plant a tree, you have to tamp down the soil to make sure the tree doesn't blow over in the first big wind.

Sweet Adelines entertain

The We-Way-Co chapter of Sweet Adelines recently entertained the residents of the Hendry Convalescent Center in Plymouth Township. The group of 25 singers harmonized barbershop-style on old favorites like "The Start of Something Big," "Welcome in Dixieland," "Lost in my Own Hometown," and "Sentimental Journey."

Is your pet distinguished?

If you have a pet that looks well in a top hat and white tie, dress him up, take his picture and send it to the Livonia Jaycees' pet contest.

Or maybe the resident beast or bird is cute as a button or as unusual as an aardvark. Snap his picture too. The Jaycees will give first-, second- and third-place prizes to the cutest, most unusual and most distinguished pets in the area.

With each pet send a $2 entry fee. The Jaycees are aiming to raise $2,000 to help area retarded persons attend International Olympics in Louisiana July 11-18.

The job of a loyal pet owner will by no means be over when he dispatches in the mail the picture of the pet of his choice. The pictures of all pets entered in the contest will be displayed June 11 and 12 in the Livonia Mall. Beneath each photograph will be a jar. A penny dropped in the jar means a vote for that pet. Stock up on pennies early. The one with the most pennies will win.

A pet can be entered in more than one contest. But send a picture for each entry and an extra $2. With the entry include the name, address and phone number of the pet owner. Include also the category in which your pet is entered.

Entries must be in by Wednesday, June 8. Send them to Dawn Gresock, 44035 Westminster, Canton 48187.

Burnside honored for TAG programs

Robert Burnside of Schoolcraft College received the first award presented by the Plymouth-Canton Association for the Academically Talented. The award was in recognition of Burnside's outstanding support for education of the talented and gifted (TAG).

He established, maintained and expanded class offerings for TAG students at Schoolcraft College. He has supported a broad range of enrichment activities to fulfill the special needs of the TAG students.

"Through careful planning and staffing, Schoolcraft's TAG program has grown from four classes in 1979 to its present schedule of 18 classes. These classes provide enrichment for the gifted child who is 7 through 14 years of age, with two classes geared for the gifted preschool child," Burnside said.

"ALL STUDENTS should be provided with learning experiences that challenge them, make them more aware and concerned about the world around them. Most elementary school programs have identified and concerned themselves with the learning disabled child, but not so much with the gifted and talented child.

"Consequently, the TAG program offers gifted children the additional educational experiences so necessary to their development."

Burnside received his bachelor of science degree in education from Eastern Michigan University and his master of arts degree in guidance and counseling from Colorado State University.

He taught for 21 years and has been at Schoolcraft College since 1967. Before joining the Schoolcraft faculty, he taught in Colorado, Flint, and at Groves High School in Birmingham.

Surprise!

The fifth and sixth graders at Bird Elementary School can keep a secret. During the hours of rehearsal for their performance of "P.T. Barnum," they did not let on to their music teacher, Eleanor Burton (above), that they had a surprise in store for her. After the Monday night show at the school, the students and the staff presented her with flowers. The Bird PTO gave her a music box in the form of a piano. It was their way of saying thank you. Burton is retiring in June after teaching music in the Plymouth-Canton schools for 20 years. John Chapman (right) was P.T. Barnum in the musical.

Bridge- ing the gap

Bridge, a popular gospel group, will be in concert at the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene, 41550 E. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 29. The six musicians who make up Bridge come from many different states across the United States. Their schedule carries them to over 350 concerts and 100,000 miles per year in the United States and Canada. The concert, which is open to the public, will feature some of today's significant gospel numbers as well as re-arranged standards of the church.

—still the symbol of help

FISH volunteer Sophie Wicker helps Vera Hamilton into the car to go the doctor's office.

FISH coordinator Marie Kopka mans the helpline hotline around the clock.

IT'S A COINCIDENCE but the FISH hotline calls come through on a red phone — day or night — in the living room of head FISH Marie Kopka.

But it's no coincidence that the hotline doubles as a heartline.

FISH is the volunteer organization that comes to the aid of those needing emergency help. The name and symbol are almost as old as Christianity and signify help and friendship.

That help can be food, clothing or shelter or just a ride to the doctor's office. Lately, it's been helping get food to a lot of hungry people.

Volunteers take turns being the Fish of the Day for an eight-hour period. It means checking the FISH answering service (427-4040) two or three times a day for distress calls and then answering them. At the end of their shift, they make a verbal report to Kopka.

Calls for food go directly to Kopka who screens the request and then arranges for a food pickup at one of two FISH food distribution points in Livonia.

LIKE OTHER organizations depending on volunteers, FISH, too, has fallen on hard times. Where once the volunteer roster stood around the 30 mark, it now has dropped to about eight.

Normally, a volunteer is Fish of the Day about once a month. Lately, the small corps of helpers has had to double or triple up.

"We could use a lot more people," said Kopka, who is probably the best example of a FISH volunteer. A victim of polio for the past 15 years, she gets around with the help of crutches and has suffered from time to time with health problems. But it's never stopped her from helping others.

Often, when there's no other FISH volunteer to do the driving or it's impossible for a family to get to the food center, she'll deliver the food to a family herself.

"Usually," she notes, "it'll be a young family with children. Often a baby's involved. That's when you feel good — knowing you've helped someone like that."

Many times members of Kopka's family are pressed into action.

"They don't mind," said Kopka with a smile. "They believe in it just as much as I do." Her husband, she said, has been especially supportive.

Most of the FISH distress calls are referrals from Livonia's LOVE office, Kopka said.

TWO LOCAL churches act as food distribution centers for FISH. Food donations come from various sources. For instance, a 150 cases came this week from the Livonia Educational Association. Recently the two church centers' larders were restocked through the efforts of the General Motors employees' "care and share" program.

Any over abundance of food is shared with other groups who can use it. One of those is the food center operated in the Bethel Missionary Church on Middlebelt in Livonia.

The area where FISH is the weakest right now, Kopka said, is finding drivers to transport the elderly to various locations. Sometimes it's to the doctors. Sometimes it's to the store or to a friend or relative's house for a visit.

As an added incentive to volunteers, Kopka added, "We pay mileage now, too."

Anyone wishing to be a FISH volunteer can do so by leaving a message with the answering service: 427-4040.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Volunteers at one of two FISH food distribution centers get an order ready for a needy Livonia family. Calls for food were up the early part of the year but have dropped recently. Any surplus FISH food is shared with other food distribution centers like the one operating in the basement of Bethel Missionary Church on Middlebelt in Livonia.

● LIVONIA WESLEYAN

The Rev. and Mrs. Jim Sheets, evangelists and singers from Port Huron, will attend special services May 28-29 at Livonia Wesleyan Church, 14560 Merriman.

The evangelistic ministry of the Sheets and their daughter, Judith Ann, has taken them to revivals and crusades throughout the United States.

Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. On Sunday, they will be conducted at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

● PLYMOUTH SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST

Ron and Pat Hoffecker, missionaries in Korea, will be guests at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Saturday, May 28, in Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist Church, 4292 Napier. A slide presentation on mission work in Korea will be presented by the couple at 9:30 a.m. Ron Hoffecker will present a sermon at 11 a.m.

The Hoffeckers served for more than 12 months in Seoul before returning to the United States to attend school at Andrew University in Berrien Springs, Mich. Ron Hoffecker is studying to be a minister. At the end of his studies, he and his family will return to Korea where he has been offered permanent employment as a pastor near Seoul.

He and his wife Pat both taught at the English Language School in Seoul, a popular school for many Koreans.

● LIVONIA ASSEMBLY OF GOD

An evening Singspiration will be presented at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 29, in Livonia Assembly of God, 33015 Seven Mile. Performers Bill and Jane will perform contemporary Christian music.

● GOOD SHEPHERD

Master Potter Ministries of Huntington Beach, Calif. will present the play, "The Master Potter," at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 28, in Good Shepherd Church, 6500 Wayne Road at Hunter, Westland. A $3 donation will be asked.

Fun 'n games are for real at festival

"Fun and games" is more than a time-worn expression this weekend in Canton when St. Thomas A' Becket Catholic Church parishioners hold a fund-raiser for the church grounds this weekend.

Live entertainment will be featured all three days of the festival which will be held Friday-Saturday at 6-11 p.m. and 2-7 p.m. Sunday. Included will be the Nu-Fonics Polish American band, the Red Garter Band, the Avalons, Centennial Dancers of Plymouth and Fran Harary and "Odyssey in Illusion."

rides, food, bingo Vegas, video games and dancing will also be part of the roster of fun. Exhibits by hand-crafters also will be part of the weekend lineup.

Sunday will have the special feature of an all-you-can-eat pancake breakfast. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The church is located on Lilly Road, one mile south of Ford Road in Canton Township. For more information, call 981-1333.

Moral immaturity plagues our society

At the recently held Livonia Prayer Breakfast the Honorable Paul Hellyer, former vice prime minister of Canada, suggests that as we become technological giants we can remain moral adolescents.

Considering the motivation of much adolescent behavior, the man from across the border was right on target. While the adolescent population is not totally devoid of responsible persons, there are certain commonalities in their behavior motivation that leaves something to be desired.

For one thing, they are often short-sighted. They tend to look for quick solutions to immediate difficulties often ignoring long-term effects.

They are also prone to be self-centered to the exclusion of considering the effects of their behavior on others.

THIS IS why their stereotypes can be heard above most tornadoes. Gut reaction rather than rational analysis is often a motivating factor in the decisions they make. Finally, those who have not yet reached moral adulthood have a way of justifying practically anything they might do.

To suggest, however, that such behavior is limited to those in their teen years is unfair to many in this age moral perspectives

Rev. Robert

group. At the same time, it becomes an unwarranted acquittal of those, who despite their years, prefer an existence of ethical acme.

Short-sightedness in problem solving is not limited to those on the bottom side of drinking age. Our technological decisions are ample indication. Pesticides, for example, are too often considered effective because they can kill bugs. But in too many cases the long-range effects have been left to someone else to deal with.

Nuclear reactors are accepted as an answer to energy problems. No matter that we have not yet found a safe way to dispose of the lethal waste. Someone can deal with that later.

ONE CONSTANT in our easy of living seems to be the amount of resources that go into picking up the pieces left from the solutions to yesterday's problems. Are we really that stupid or is Hellyer right. Are we simply too selfishly adolescent to care about the problems we create for those who come after us?

Self-centeredness is another trait which seems to survive adolescence. The "me first" philosophy is alive and well across the widest generation gaps. Looking out for number one is taught by the advertisers and lived religiously by consumers. Such a mentality allows us to ignore the plight of the underpaid vegetable picker on the grounds that our salad is more important.

Me-ism also gives us permission to look at today's cost effectiveness for us as the bottom line of many of our decisions that affect others.

IT BECOMES the central consideration in the abortion of a life that threatens our convenience. When a "me-first" mentality is the driving force in the lives of individuals we can hardly expect it to fade into the background when such individuals come together to make the decisions of business, education, government or the military.

Gut reaction also stands high on the list of motivators for much of society, regardless of age. For example, we do not choose to be distracted with the fact that capital punishment has little or no effect on serious crime.

Rather, we operate from a gut reaction for fear and revenge in order to fry the S.O.B. No matter that the system may have failed and given up the wrong man (Most executed people are male and lower class). At least we feel better and that makes it all right.

Yes, we do have a tendency to justify practically anything we want to do. We conduct wars in the name of good. We increase arms in the name of defense. We abort in the name of individual rights. We allow hunger and the systems which perpetuate it to continue in the name of letting others pull themselves up by their own boot straps.

Moral adolescence is alive and dealing in an age which prides itself on the ability to transplant the hearts of some while stopping the hearts of many and breaking the hearts of others. We all know when adolescence begins but apparently there is no age at which it automatically comes to an end.

Some of the attractions that have made Michigan tourism a $10-billion-a-year industry (clockwise from above): the Michigan Space Center in Jackson; outdoor beauty, such as this swan gliding on the lake at Kensington Park; a lucky fisherman adding up his catch; the beach along Lake Michigan — at Grand Haven, in this case.

Tourists say a big 'yes' to Michigan's charms

WHAT IS THE second-largest industry in Michigan, generating $10 billion and employing a quarter of a million people statewide? The answer is tourism, second only to the auto industry in economic importance to Michigan.

You have heard about the recession in the auto industry, but have you heard what the travel industry has done for our otherwise sagging economy? It contributed $451 million to state tax revenues in 1982. With a little help from the State Travel Commission and the State Travel Bureau, it will be an even bigger moneymaker in 1983.

The state celebrated Michigan Week last week, with celebrations and promotions in and out of the Detroit metropolitan area. The figures quoted above came from Len Barnes, editor of AAA Michigan Living Magazine and a member of the Michigan Travel Commission. The commission is a 13-member body appointed by the governor.

Barnes told the Adcraft Club of Detroit, at a meeting in the Southfield Sheraton Hotel Friday, May 20, that "because the 240,000 travel industry employees are not concentrated at one place, like an auto assembly line, we do not think of travel as big business."

He described tourism as a "low-technology growth industry." "Even in recession, tourism is growing. In Michigan, the direct and indirect dollars generated have doubled since 1975, topping $10 billion last year."

TOURISM AWARDS were given during Michigan Week to 10 individuals and five organizations for outstanding contributions to travel in Michigan. Bloomfield Hills restaurateur Harris O. Machus received a Ambassador of Tourism Award for his civic contributions in southeast Michigan.

Other Ambassador of Tourism Awards were presented by Gov. James Blanchard to Nina O. Buell of Lewiston; Richard P. Kughn, chairman of the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau; teacher Harold Bernhardt of Iron River; Margaret LaMothe of Munising; and radio personality Bruce Grant of Grand Rapids.

The five Embassy of Tourism Awards, given for contributions by travel-related organizations, were given to honor the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, the International Freedom Festival of Detroit and Windsor, the Gerald R. Ford Presidential Museum of Grand Rapids; a non-profit tour group called Circle Michigan; and the Michigan Space Center of Jackson.

Congress votes to raise debt ceiling to pay bills

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 12-18.

HOUSE

roll call report

DEBT: By a vote of 263-156, the House cleared the way for a final vote on a bill enabling the government to borrow to pay its bills when the current debt limit is reached within a few weeks.

The bill raises the debt ceiling by $98.8 billion to a $139-trillion limit that is expected to suffice until Sept. 30. On a later voice vote, the bill was passed and sent to the Senate.

Both Democrats and Republicans averted a yea and nay vote on a final passage of the bill.

The low-profile strategy left this vote as the most direct expression of sentiment on expanding the government's borrowing authority to pay for the programs Congress has put into effect.

However, most of the 156 lawmakers voting in the negative later muted their opposition when the non-record final vote was taken.

Supporter Barber Conable, R-N.Y., said "failure to pass this before the end of the month can be a serious embarrassment to a President who is the leader of the free economic world" and soon will host an economic summit meeting at Williamsburg, Va.

Opponent Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, said "these debt ceiling increases ought to be passed by the individuals who put us behind the eight ball in the first place... the big spenders in this Congress."

Members voting yes supported the debt ceiling increase.

Voting yes: Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, William Ford, D-Taylor, and Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

REPEAL: The house passed 382-41 and sent to the Senate a bill to repeal the law requiring banks and other financial institutions to withhold for Uncle Sam 10 percent of interest and dividend payments.

Slated to take effect July 1, withholding is the largest revenue item in the major tax law enacted last year, collecting some $13.4 billion through 1988 from tax cheaters.

However, the House vote and a previous Senate vote for postponement make it clear withholding will be shelved — a major victory for bankers and millions of complaining constituents.

Supporter Norman D'Amours, D-N.H., said "since the Merchant of Venice, people have not been in love with bankers. And it is easy to make them the fall guy. But grassroots America understands this issue."

Opponent Robert Matsui, D-Calif., called the bankers' lobbying campaign "one of the most deceptive and outrageous... I have seen in my five years in this Congress."

Members voting yes wanted to repeal the withholding law.

Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Ford and Broomfield.

Voting no: Levin.

SENATE

NOMINEE: The Senate confirmed, 69-28, the nomination of Alfred S. Regnery to head the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

The Justice Department office awards grants and sets federal policies aimed at curbing juvenile crime.

Critics pointed to Regnery's own admission of inexperience in this area, and they said his public statements and background of conservative activism show he leans too strongly toward punishment rather than prevention.

Supporter Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., said "we are overloaded with experts" in Washington and that Regnery's strong professional record as a private lawyer and government official "more than compensates for whatever technical deficiencies might arise."

Opponent William Proxmire, D-Wisc., said "nothing in his background qualifies him for the post to which he has been nominated."

Senators voting yes favored Regnery's nomination.

Carl Levin and Donald Riegle, both Democrats, voted no.

REFORM: By a vote of 76-18, the Senate passed an immigration reform bill to enable the U.S. to better control its borders.

The bill, which was sent to the House, clamps down on illegal immigration primarily by penalizing western growers and others who knowingly give jobs to undocumented workers.

At the same time, it makes concessions to civil libertarians and to economic interests that depend on the illegal labor pool.

It grants varying degrees of amnesty to millions of illegals who entered the U.S. before Jan. 1, 1980. Those arriving since then could be deported, although the bill defines circumstances under which a large percentage could remain in the U.S.

Supporter Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., said the presence of at least 10-million illegal aliens shows "there is, for all practical purposes, no border between Mexico and the U.S.," and that Congress must act to protect American

For parents and school Fiegel students present 'Peter Pan'

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Peter Pan describes Never Neverland to Wendy. Peter is played by Tara Griffith, Wendy by Terese Rosinski.

Some 30 pupils of Fiegel Elementary School performed in the cast and more than 150 in the chorus this week as they presented the musical "Peter Pan" to other students and parents.

The play was performed during the day Tuesday for the students and Tuesday night for parents.

Peter Pan was played by Tara Griffith who pranced and danced upon the stage teaching the Darling children how to fly. The Darling children were played by Terese Rosinski as Wendy, John McDougal as John, and Sean Hunt as Michael.

When the children reached Never Neverland, they were greeted by the lost boys and Indians. The Indian princess, Tiger Lily, was played by Shelly Murray who led the Indians in a dance.

Suddenly the swiftest, swiftest in the world (Captain Hook played by Dennis McGill) and his band of outlaw pirates appeared on stage.

The pirates captured Tiger Lily and almost succeeded in killing Peter Pan. But Peter Pan rescues Tiger Lily, aided by the Lost Boys and a ticking crocodile, played by Danny Martin.

Verdict is still out on USFL spring football

It started at the Northfield Hilton in Troy way back in November.

While the Detroit Lions and their National Football League cohorts were negotiating to end a mid-season strike, the Michigan Panthers of the maverick United States Football League conducted their first press conference.

The Panthers announced themselves as the "new cat in town." It was decided they'd play at the Silverdome and be fashioned in Champagne Silver and Royal Plum. And, in renegade style, club officials intoned they'd conquer all of America by playing football during the spring. "We're not competing with the NFL," said one team spokesman. "Our season will run from March to July because fans would like to continue watching football during the spring."

Nonsense, I thought. This will never work. Spring is for planting flowers and sprucing up the house. It's time to bring out the softball gear and rearrange the work schedule to attend the annual opening-day baseball game at Tiger Stadium.

SPRING MAY be "Miller Time," but it's not football time.

Now, two-thirds through the USFL's inaugural season, I still believe it will take more than the lure of spring for the league to establish itself successfully in America's free-market enterprise system.

You see, the Panthers are an attractive curiosity now — just like the Hope Diamond, the Budweiser Clydesdales and moon rocks from the lunar-landing missions.

The Panthers' loyalists are the football fanatics. Those purists can tolerate pignons and post patterns whether they live in Alaska or Puerto Rico.

Panther officials and the USFL's 11 other franchise heads aren't after the loyalists. They want the normal fan — the guys and gals who enjoy sports and the winning atmosphere it conveys.

I'm not so sure it will work. Statistics clearly demonstrate that attendance and television ratings — which the league sorely needs — are down from the season's first games in early March. (I still can't believe some of the Panthers' home games are televised locally.) Take the Panthers' last two home games, for instance.

EXACTLY 32,682 fans watched the Panthers defeat New Jersey and the league's flagship general — Herschel Walker — two weeks ago in an exciting game. It was the Panthers' sixth straight victory.

So, what happened Monday at the Silverdome in Michigan's overtime loss to the Birmingham Stallions? Only 20,042 fans showed up despite a formidable winning streak and the fact Michigan is fighting for a playoff berth in possibly the league's best division.

That couldn't have been a pleasant sight for Panther investors A. Alfred Taubman, Max M. Fisher and Peter B. Spivak.

But, forget about my humble opinion that football and spring are worse mates than bears during hibernation. Let's hear what some of those fans in attendance at Monday's nationally televised game (ESPN cable) at the Silverdome had to say.

I asked three basic questions: What brought you out to watch the Panthers? Will you continue to support the team in the spring? and, Do you believe the USFL has a legitimate shot of making it in the American market?

Here are some responses:
 • JOEL SHANE (Lathrup Village): "I think football is here to stay during the spring. Football is replacing baseball as America's game and I think (the USFL) has a good chance to survive. The quality is better than I expected and I think people can't get enough of it."

• DARYL WARD (Livonia): "Spring football is a bit of a shock, but I'm getting used to it. I think the quality is almost as good as the NFL. I'd say give (the USFL) three years and it will be as good as the NFL. (The USFL) is playing with mostly rookies and has-beens now. I'm a big football fan and I think spring football will give more fans a chance to see the game."

• FRANK COLEMAN (Troy): "I'm just here out of curiosity. I wouldn't continue to support it... it's just not exciting enough right now. You have to have some names and they don't have them right now. But, I think the league can stay alive because of all the TV rights it has."

• JAY DOYLE (Livonia): "I'm here because of the cheap prices — we (his friend William Sullivan) had a coupon for $10 off. I came just out of curiosity, plus they're on a winning streak. I'd like to come back because I like the game. I think the league can survive because it has a lot of money and it looks pretty solid."

• JOE ACTON (Massena, N.Y.): "I'm here because a couple friends and myself were on our way to the airport from Flint and we decided to stop in. This league has a long way to go before it reaches the NFL. I think there's too much football. Once the baseball season starts, I'm a baseball fan. If the Tigers were in town I'd be watching them tonight."

Antoine Joubert can't find a shot over the Soviets' leaping Aleksandr Volkov during Sunday's cage confrontation.

Russian power stops All-Stars

By Ed Peper, Jr. special writer

A packed house at Schoolcraft College waited for the "The Judge" to render a favorable verdict, but in the end, the Soviets ruled the court.

Antoine "The Judge" Joubert, a 6-foot-5 high school All-American from Detroit Southwestern, scored 30 points but it was not enough as the Russian Junior National team triumphed 91-84 over the Michigan AAU squad in the sixth International Basketball Classic. The game marked the first time the Russian and Michigan teams have played since 1980.

"I feel bad," said Joubert. "We played hard but they were just too big and physical. Our team was hurt because we had to play people who will be guards in college at the forward and center slots."

Taking advantage of the international rule which allows a team to throw the ball into play immediately after a violation (the referee does not have to touch the ball), the Soviets pulled away from a two-point halftime lead by reeling off eight straight points at the outset of the second half.

The Soviets increased their lead to 58-46, before Joubert and future U-M teammate Quincy Turner brought the Michigan team back.

MICHIGAN closed within three, 83-80, on a twisting jumper by Joubert with 2:40 to go, but couldn't score the equalizer. Two rebound baskets by Michigan's Steve Beck finished the scoring for Michigan team, which was forced to intentionally foul in the waning moments.

Michigan coach Quinton "Rocky" Watkins cited two reasons for his club's failure to win.

"We shot extremely poor from the field (37 of 100) and we had no other rebounding from anyone other than Beck," he said.

Beck, a muscular 6-3 forward from Detroit Southeastern who is headed for Arizona State, grabbed Michigan team MVP honors with 16 points and 15 rebounds. Joubert's 30 points came on 14 of 34 shooting from the floor. Flint Central's Darryl Johnson added 15 points.

Valery Tikhonenko, a 6-9 power forward, gained MVP honors for the Soviets with 24 points. Victor Zharkov added 20.

Through an interpreter, Soviet coach Vladimir Obukhov explained why his team got off to such a slow start.

"This is not the first time we've toured here," he said. "We spend our holidays resting in planes. The team is tired, but they want to show excellent basketball. We simply began to play our game in the second half."

"YOU HAVE to take into account that they are supported by their spectators and it's difficult to play against them. There is no place like home."

The Russians are 6-3 on their U.S. tour with two games remaining.

Meanwhile, Watkins' game plan was to fast-break the Soviets to compensate for their tremendous size advantage.

"You have to defensive rebound to do that, and that was something we just weren't able to do," Watkins said. "They've been competitive at every stop on their American tour and are very sound fundamentally."

"Their fast-break only hurt us when we gambled."

Watkins also felt the absence of Redford Catholic Central's 6-7 Mike Maleke, who missed the game because of commencement exercises.

"Maleke would have really helped us on the boards because he is our only legitimate post-up player," said the Michigan and Schoolcraft College coach.

MICHIGAN CONTROLLED the early stages of the game, jumping out to a 17-10 lead behind the hustling play of Beck, point-guard Garde Thompson and 6-8 Mark German of Bronson.

But on several occasions, Michigan players attempted a series of spectacu-

Salem clinches tie for softball crown

Plymouth Salem clinched at least a share of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) softball title with a 15-run fourth inning that ignited a 20-2 pasting of Walled Lake Central Monday at Central.

The victory gave Salem an 11-2 WLAA record and an 18-3 mark overall. The Rocks gained at least a share of the WLAA title, depending on how Plymouth Canton fared with Central yesterday. A Canton victory would mean the two schools would share the league championship.

Eight of nine Salem starters finished Monday's game with at least one run batted in.

"I'M GLAD WE scored some runs," Rock coach Rob Willette said. "I was afraid we'd go over there too cocky."

Instead, the Salem bats did all the bragging. Pam McBride and Leslie Culver each had two hits and three RBI in the contest, which was stopped by the mercy rule after five innings. Terri Lesniak contributed two hits and drove in one run.

Diane Murphy earned the victory with what Willette termed "her best pitching performance since coming back" from a mid-season injury to her pitching hand. The senior hurler surrendered just three hits, striking out seven and walking one in her five-inning stint.

Johnson tops Rock regional showing

By C.J. Risk staff writer

Fred Thomann knew the competition would be formidable at Saturday's Class A girls' track regional at Brighton.

It did, indeed, live up to his expectations.

Thomann's Plymouth Salem team got a great performance from Dawn Johnson and a bunch of personal bests, but the Rocks could manage no better than a sixth in the team standings.

Ypsilanti was first in the fierce competition with 65 points. Ann Arbor Pioneer was a single point behind with 64, followed by Ann Arbor Huron (58), Brighton (47), Schwartz Creek (44½) and Salem (35). Plymouth Canton failed to score in the 18-team meet.

Team finishes at regionals do not matter at the state meet. The top three placers in each event qualify for the state finals Saturday, June 4, at Jackson.

"IT WAS TOUGH," Thomann said. "I was looking at some of the times here and we just weren't capable of beating those."

"I knew Brighton, Huron, Pioneer and Ypsilanti were very good. I didn't know how good Schwartz Creek was, and they sneaked in there for fifth."

"But we PBed (personal bests) in a lot of different places on the track. It was a good meet for us."

Johnson, a junior, highlighted the meet for the Rocks. As a sophomore, Johnson won the regional title in the 230-yard dash and just missed qualifying for state in the long jump by placing fourth.

girls track

* This time Johnson qualified for state in both. She couldn't defend her 220 title, placing second in 26.3 (she went 25.9 in the regionals last year). But Johnson won the long jump with a leap of 17-4½, a personal best.

"Those are her events, and she had a great day," Thomann said.

ALSO QUALIFYING for state were Cheri Munelo, who placed third in the discus with a toss of 108-0, and Cindy McSurely, who tied for third in the high jump at 5-1. McSurely also took fifth in the 110 hurdles (15.6).

Scoring Salem's remaining points was Kelly Berniss in the long jump, who placed fourth with a 14-6½ effort, just off the third-place jump of 16-7.

Among Salem's other personal bests were Shelly Simons in the 880 (3:21.3), Erica Bashor in the mile (5:35.1), Carol Lindsay in the 330 hurdles (48.3) and Janine Gray in the high jump (4-10).

CANTON'S GIRLS shattered three school records and had eight other personal bests at the Brighton regionals, but none showed in the scoring column. Carolyn Nagy busted Ruthann Trout's 440 mark, set last year, with a clocking of 1:02.0.

Michele Adams again lowered her own record in the 330 hurdles, dropping it to 52.1. Adams has reset the record five times this season.

Canton, Salem get best outings at regional

The term is nearing completion, with grades from one of the major tests already issued.

For Plymouth Canton's and Plymouth Salem's boys' track teams, the results from that important exam — Saturday's Class A state regional meet at Brighton — are a mixture of good and bad.

The Rocks did better on the track than they might have anticipated. The hurdle events, a team strongpoint all season, again provided Salem with some solid scoring.

And both Salem and Canton got a handful of personal best performances during the competition.

That's the good news. The bad news for Salem was a worse than expected showing in the field events that cost the Rocks in the final team standings. For Canton, the bad news was that, despite the number of personal bests, the Chiefs scored in only two events and finished with three team points.

YPSILANTI FINISHED first in the team standings with 76 points, a single tally ahead of Ann Arbor Huron (75). Flint Southwestern was third (66), followed by Holly (63), Milford Lakeland (46) and Salem (33). Canton tied with Milford for 16th.

Team standings at regionals have no bearing at the state finals, slated for June 4 in Jackson. The top three finishers in each event at the regionals qualified for the state meet.

The Rocks' Dan Lingg will compete in two individual events and a relay at boys track

the state finals. Lingg's leap of 21-1 earned him a second in the long jump, and he cleared 13-3 in the pole vault to place third.

Salem earned spots at state in two other events. Glenn Medalle's 15.0 clocking in the 120-yard high hurdles was good for third. And the 440 relay team of Lingg, Marc Tindall, Jeff Arnold and Medalle sprinted to a 44.3 and a third-place finish.

OTHER POINT-SCORERS for Salem were sophomore Mike Harwood, a fourth in the pole vault (12-7), Doug Spencer, a fifth in the discus (129-8), and Arvinder Sooch, a sixth in the 330 low hurdles (40.7) and a seventh in the 120 high hurdles (15.4).

Canton's scoring came from Elijah Rogers, who placed fifth in the 100 dash with a 10.3, and Tom Bowie, who reached 18-10 1/2 in the long jump to finish sixth.

There were lots of personal bests for both teams. Canton's mile-relay team of Tom Wygonik, Bob Billings, Steve Grady and Rogers was timed in 3:34.2, Rogers went 52.0 in the 440, Mike Thompson had a 10:39.2 in the two-mile run, and Matt Santilli, Steve Light, Matt Flower and Bowie raced to a 46.2 in the 440 relay.

Tindall's 10.5 in the 100 was his best this season for Salem. Skip Whittaker finished the mile in 4:43.0, Frank Bronnan had a 9:59.0 and John Keros had a 10:18.0 in the two mile, and Mike White and Erich Hartnett both cleared 6-0 in the high jump.

The Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) championship meet Wednesday at Livonia Stevenson is next for both teams.

W.L. WESTERN 66
The Chiefs won two of three relays, finishing on top in both the 880 and 440, but the last event of the meet, the mile relay, went to Walled Lake Western and that forced a tie at Canton Wednesday, May 18.

Canton collected six individual firsts in the meet. In the field events, Anton Iverzaj won the shot put (44-5), Don Page was first in the discus (133-10) and Rich Tarr took the pole vault (11-0).

On the track, Elijah Rogers captured the 100-yard dash (10.4), Ralph Dicosy was first in the mile (4:46.2) and Matt Santilli won the 220 (24.5).

The Chiefs are now 2-2-1 overall and 2-1-1 in the WLAA.

● JR. FOOTBALL SIGN-UP

The last registration date for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Football Association is from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday, June 11 in Plymouth Canton High School's Phase III lobby.

The football and cheerleading programs are open to all Plymouth and Canton boys and girls 9-13 years old. Price is $40 per player and $25 per cheerleader.

Birth certificates are required at registration. For more information, contact Karen Welling (981-3842) or Vic Gustafson (455-4189).

● DYNAMIC AEROBICS

The popular six-week summer sessions of dynamic aerobics have returned. The fun and vigorous program of choreographed exercises set to music is designed to improve cardiorespiratory fitness.

The program, co-sponsored by Canton Parks and Recreation and the Wayne-Westland YMCA, costs $24 per person for a six-week session that meets every Tuesday (9:30-10:30 a.m.) and Thursday (10:30-11:30 a.m.) on the lower level of the Canton Township Building, 1150 S. Canton Center.

Classes are already underway, so call 397-1000 between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. for further details.

● PARK DEDICATIONS

The long-anticipated dedications of Flodin Park and the Canton Recreation Complex will be Friday, May 27. Ceremonies for Flodin will be at 5 p.m., with the Canton complex, which features softball and soccer fields, dedicated at 5:30 p.m.

The public is invited to both events. For more information, call 397-1000.

● WATERFORD RACES

Sports car road racers will be on hand Saturday and Sunday for the special Memorial Day weekend races at Waterford Hills. Chicago-area drivers will challenge the local drivers in a series of races both days (seven races scheduled for Saturday, 10 on Sunday). Admission is $3 for Saturday, $5 for Sunday or $6 for both days. Children under 12 accompanied by an adult are admitted free.

Waterford Hills is located a quarter-mile east of Dixie Highway on Waterford Road.

● S'CRAFT TENNIS

The ninth annual Schoolcraft College Men's Open Tennis Tournament is fast approaching.

The tourney, sponsored by the office of Community Services in an effort to increase community use of the college's 12 tennis courts, is slated for Thursday through Sunday, June 9-12.

Entry fee is $5 for singles and $8 for doubles. Deadline for registration is at 10 p.m. Tuesday, June 7. To obtain a registration form and/or more information, call pro Chuck Volland at the Tennis House, 591-6392, after 4 p.m. weekdays and after 9 a.m. weekends.

● COUNTRY RUN

Canton Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring its fifth annual Canton Country Festival five-mile run, starting at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 18.

The run starts near the Township Administration Building (1150 S. Canton Center). Check-in and late registration is at 8 a.m.

The first 400 participants will receive their choice of a Canton Country Festival hat or visor. Awards will be presented to the top three finishers in each of six age groups in both men's and women's divisions.

Advance registration fee is $5 (before Thursday, June 16). Late registration is $6. For more information, call the Canton Parks and Recreation department between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 397-1000.

● EMILY-MIDAS RUN

It's that time of year again. Emily's and Midas Mufflers are the top sponsors of a 10-kilometer (6.2-mile) run Saturday, June 11, which finishes at a party, complete with dancing, food and beer right at the finish line (Washington and Congress in downtown Detroit).

The run starts and ends at the same spot as the party, which begins when the run ends. Got that? Anyway, cost is $8, which includes a T-shirt, beer, parking and a race number — whether you run or not.

Entries are available at: Emily's, 171 W. Congress in Detroit; Midas dealers; any of the 10 Health Alliance Plan Centers; Ford Dealerships; Vic Tanny's; or most sporting goods shops.

There's a definite goal for this year's event: to make it the biggest in the country. Last year's ranked fifth. Will this year's be first? Pay the eight bucks and find out.

● SPORTS SHOW

The inaugural Western Wayne County Home, Builders and Sports Show will be Friday through Sunday, June 10-12, at the Inkster Civic Center Arena.

Merchants and tradesmen from the area will have items and services for the home on display. Admission to the show is free.

The arena is one block north of Michigan Avenue and one block east of Inkster Road. Booth rental information is available by calling the arena at 562-0130.

● HYDROPLANE RACES

The Ypsilanti Jaycees and Marine Prop Riders Association are co-sponsoring Championship Hydroplane races Saturday and Sunday, June 4-5, at Ford Lake in Ypsilanti. Six classes of limited inboard hydroplanes will battle in head-to-head competition.

Advance tickets are $4 per car. Admission on the day of the races is $5 per car. Refreshments are available. Ford Lake is located near I-94 and Whittaker Road. For more information, call 482-4920.

Chiefs suffer loss

Livonia Stevenson proved dominant in a Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) dual meet with Plymouth Canton Tuesday, capturing 11 of 15 firsts and 10 of 12 seconds in romping to a 90-33 victory at Canton.

The Chiefs, 1-6 overall and 0-4 in the WLAA, earned victories in two of three relays. Cheri Remer, Kim Bennett, Lori Schauder and Kim Brown combined to win the 440-yard event (53.95).

Carolyn Nagy, Bennett, Hollie Ivey and Ruthann Trout teamed to take the mile relay (4:26.47).

girls track

Bennett got her third first in the 220 (28.42). Brown accounted for the Chiefs' only other win, capturing the 100 dash (12.25).

Seconds went to Nagy in the 440 (1:03.19) and Michele Adams in the long jump (15-1/4). Adams' long jump effort was a personal best.

lar plays that failed to result in baskets.

The Soviets eventually gained the lead 26-25 at the 3:35 mark on a vicious dunk by Tikhonenko and Michigan never led again.

Prior to the game, a lengthy introductory ceremony was held. It included a presentation of flags, parade of athletes, and proclamations by Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, Schoolcraft College and former Piston great Dave Bing.

In the preliminary game, the Detroit MVP Tony Goldson of Southgate Aquinas scored 29 points to lift his squad to a 131-115 victory over the Suburban AAU squad, paced by Redford Bishop Borgess' Lewis Scott.

THE 6-5 SCOTT, bound for Eastern Michigan, scored 30 points in a valiant effort. Livonia Franklin's burly Bob Stebbins, headed for Central Michigan on a football scholarship, added 13 points while Redford Thurston's Jim Weiss played a strong second half and finished with 11.

The Suburban team trailed by as many as 23 points before pulling within five points with just under five minutes to go. Detroit, however, withstood the threat and won going away.

Stevenson sews up titles; Canton's Minton triumphs

Redford Catholic Central and Livonia Stevenson will be making a trip to the Class A boys' tennis tournament June 3-4 in Midland after a one-two finish in last weekend's regional at Schoolcraft College.

CC, which scored 24 points, is making its sixth straight appearance in the state meet. CC has won four regional titles since Frank Garlicki began coaching in 1970. Stevenson and Southfield-Lathrup, meanwhile, tied for second place with 17 points, earning a berth in the coveted event.

"I believe this was the second toughest regional in the state — Class A," Garlicki said. "We won five of seven positions and went beyond my expectations. I thought we'd win three, but we played extremely well."

CC's Tom Spade avenged an earlier loss to beat Stevenson's Scott Burrell for the No. 2 singles title, 7-5, 6-2. CC also won at No. 3 singles (Mark Egnatios), No. 4 singles (Bob Heimbuch), No. 1 doubles (Jeff Nelson-Bob Martin) and No. 2 doubles (Frank Firek-Tom O'Connor).

tennis

Stevenson, meanwhile, reached the finals at No. 1 doubles (Scott Brown-Brant Lyall) and No. 3 doubles (Ken Burt-Chris Tancill).

"We're really excited about going to the state meet," said Stevenson coach George Croll. "Stevenson hasn't been there in a long time."

STEVENSON RULED the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) meet at Tuesday at Plymouth Canton's home court. The Spartans also won the Lakes Division after winning all nine previous league dual encounters.

Based on the league meet points and dual records, Harrison, Plymouth Canton and Northville tied for first in the Western Division.

The Spartans captured all three doubles flights and No. 2 singles. Tim Ninomiya (No. 1), Jack Tatigian

(No. 3) and Bryan Bates (No. 4) were other Stevenson finalists. Canton sophomore Mike Minton avenged a loss in the regional with a 1-6, 7-6, 6-0 triumph over Bates in the No. 4 WLAA flight.

REDFORD THURSTON wrapped up its most successful boys' tennis season in 10 years last week with a 4-3 non-league victory over Oak Park.

Thurston finished the regular season with an 8-6 dual record.

Gaining victories for Thurston in singles against the Redskins were Chuck Goodis (No. 1) and Mike Braasch (No. 4). The Eagles also prevailed at No. 2 doubles (Dave McCabe and Henry Popow) and No. 3 doubles (Jim Betts and Kirk Radford).

Thurston wrapped up its Northwest Suburban League (NSL) season earlier with a 5-2 triumph over Livonia Franklin.

Singles winners for Thurston included Goodis, No. 1; Bill Saint, No. 2, and John Kanitra, No. 3.

The teams of McCabe-Popow and Betts-Radford also prevailed.

Erhard rolls to 2 wins

Erhard Motors won its third game in the Garden City Invitational Baseball League with a 6-5 triumph over the Gangsters. The game was played Monday at Garden City Junior High School.

John Eller's two run-single in the top of the seventh inning won it for Erhard, now 3-1 in league play. He finished with two hits and three RBI on the day.

Scott Taylor added a two-run single and Todd Curvin also had two hits for the winners.

Steve Matthews drove in two runs for the Gangsters with a single in the fourth inning.

Rob Bennett was the winning pitching in relief. He held the Gangsters scoreless over the final 1 1/2 innings.

Rick Schmidt, who went all the way for the Gangsters, took the loss.

On Friday at Garden City Park, Erhard edged the Runners, 5-4, as Bennett drove in the tying and game-winning runs with a single in the fifth inning.

Pat Golich and Mark Stonier combined for four of Erhard's eight hits.

Gary Baumgardner led the Runners with two hits.

Todd Faulkner, who pitched five scoreless innings, was the winning pitcher. Taylor earned a save.

John Wise, the starter for the Runners, took the loss.

WARRICK CLUTCH earned his first win of the year while handing Three Kegs Round its first loss, 7-5, Friday at Garden City Park.

Three Kegs (2-1) made five errors, but led 5-4 until the seventh when Warrick's Matt Creutz delivered a Clutch three-run homer.

Creutz also added a single and double as Warrick collected 10 hits. Scott Hill, the winning pitcher in relief, matched Creutz's offensive output by going three-for-four.

Doug Boston, the losing pitcher, and Rich Jaskolski, each drove in two runs for the losers.

Beech Daly Clinic (2-0) and A&K Electric (1-0) remain the only undefeated teams in league play.

Hot start enough in Canton tourney

Joe Connolly of Dearborn fired a one-under par 35 on the front nine and held off all challengers the rest of the way to successfully defend the title he captured a year ago in Saturday's Thank Goodness It's Spring Golf Tournament at Canton's Fellows Creek Golf Course.

Connolly finished with a four-over par 76 and a three-shot victory over Paul Duedler of Canton. Ron Stanafer of Belleville was third with an 80, while Butch Recto of Plymouth captured low net honors with a 70.

Fifty golfers competed in the second annual event, battling rain and wind during much of the day. Recto also won the long drive contest on the sixth hole.

The tournament was sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation department.

Salem tumbles in tourney

By Paul King special writer

Livonia Churchill, sparked by the goaltending of junior Amy Brow, advanced to Saturday's Class A regional girls' soccer final with a 2-0 victory Tuesday night over Plymouth Salem (11-6-1).

The Chargers (15-4-1) will play tonight's Livonia Ladywood-Livonia Franklin winner at 2 p.m. Saturday at Livonia Bentley.

ON MONDAY, Northville wrestled away the Western Division title of the WLAA with a 2-1 victory over the Chargers.

Trish Johnson and Lisa Cahill scored for the winners. Dorothy Brown had the Churchill goal.

On Friday, host Churchill advanced in the Class A tourney with an 8-0 victory over Detroit Northern, the No. 10 ranked team in Michigan.

Jennifer Hueggl paced the win with four goals and two assists. Terry Groat added two goals and one assist. Brow and Jenny Sawicky rounded out the scoring.

Salem earned the right to play Churchill with a 10-2 win Friday at Garden City. Shelly Stazel had four goals to raise her season total to 22.

LIVONIA STEVENSON 6 BIRMINGHAM SEAHOLM 0

Stevenson will face Bloomfield Hills Lahser at 2 p.m.

On Friday, Stevenson demolished West Bloomfield in state action, 9-0, as Mary Kay Hussey scored twice and Stephanie Riddle added two goals.

Rzepecki earns spot among bowling's elite

In her meteoric rise to stardom in the ladies all-star leagues in the Detroit area, Aleta Rzepecki now has earned a place among the nation's top women bowlers.

During the past two weeks she showed the way in the Queens Tournament which is a featured part of the Women's International Bowling Congress in Las Vegas, and then came within a single pin of retaining the national all-events title.

No one has scored a double in these events for several years, but Rzepecki took command from the start and now has taken her place as the top women bowler in Detroit if not in the state.

For several years Rzepecki bowled with Marge Kropack's Calvin Camera team in the Bowlerettes and the Ladies Major. Two years she changed teams and, along with Cheryl Daniels, joined the ladies pro tour.

From the start, she was a success and last year topped the all-time money winners in the Detroit area.

Her single pin defeat in the all-events was administered by Kathy Norton of the Pacific Coast.

Rzepecki will be featured at the annual awards dinner of both the men's and women's association at the Polish Century Club in June.

THE TODDLERS league at Merri-bowling Lanes, now has been tagged as the most unusual league in the country.

In the pocket by W.W. Edgar

This league is the league where entry is limited to children between the ages of three and six years — and where the main goal is to teach them to keep the ball on the lanes.

Twenty-two of these toddlers were on hand with their mothers last Thursday when the league got started for the summer. And, surprisingly, many of them were knocking over the pins.

ACCORDING TO figures for the first week of the summer schedule, the most popular competitions among the adult league bowlers, are the men's scratch trio and the battle of the Sexes.

In the latter competition, the men bowl against the women one week and they against themselves in the second week, with the high scorers for both nights meeting on the third week.

Westland bowl, Super Bowl and several other large houses are featuring the latest competition.

IN AN UNOFFICIAL survey, summer bowling will be slightly below that of a year ago. But, according to the proprietors, it promises to be a good summer with charity events finals playing a large part in the success.

Graham overcomes troubles to win title

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

Heading off to college for that freshman year can be an adventure for anyone.

It was certainly more than Kelly Graham bargained for.

Graham graduated from Westland John Glenn a year ago as the best female hurdler in the state. She won both the 100-meter and 200-meter hurdles at the state meet as a senior and was first in the 100 as a junior.

Her talent earned her a scholarship to Indiana University. On the road to fame and fortune, right?

Not exactly. Graham's trail took a bit of a detour her freshman year, but she got back on track Sunday with a superb performance at the Big Ten outdoor championships at Purdue University, placing first in the 100-meter hurdles in 14.33.

THE VICTORY was certainly the highlight of an otherwise trying season for the Glenn grad. Her win was not unexpected — she was seeded second going into the championships. But the way her season had been going, anything might have happened.

"It's really been a hard year," Graham said from her Westland home. "Injuries really hurt me. This was the first time I've ever been injured."

Graham suffered a succession of physical problems during the indoor track season. A stress fracture of her shinbone, combined with tendonitis of her ankle, sidelined her for 10 weeks.

"Everything went downhill after that," she said. Still, at the Big Ten indoor championships in January at the University of Wisconsin, she placed second in the 60-meter hurdles.

ADJUSTMENT FROM high school to college hasn't been easy for Graham. "It's the big time," she said. "I wanted to race against the big ones and I have."

"I've done my share of losing." The "big ones" are those who Graham considers the nation's best hurdlers: Stephanie Hightower, Benita Fitzgerald and Karen Cannon.

Getting mentally ready for those races is easy. What Graham discovered was that the level of competition on the Big Ten circuit is so intense that she had to be mentally ready for every race.

"I had to concentrate on every race more than I ever had to in high school," she said.

Graham also found the going tougher in the classroom. Track practice began in September on her first day of school and, combined with the abundant traveling, it hurt her studies during the first semester. She did much better in the winter, posting a 3.3 grade point and finishing with a 2.5 overall.

HER VICTORY Sunday came when it was most needed for Graham. Her time was far off her season best of 14.14, but she was running into a brisk wind which cost her.

"It was bigger than the state titles because it is college and the competition is better," she said. "This was probably the first race I felt OK. I wasn't real nervous like I was at the indoor meet."

Graham will continue to work out at home during the summer. On June 17, she'll be in Indianapolis for the Senior National Track and Field championships. The top two finishers in each event will earn a berth on a U.S. team that will tour Europe.

SHE MAY ALSO compete next month in the National Sports Festival at Colorado Springs.

Graham could be racing in a different event in the next couple of years, as well — the 400-meter hurdles.

"I ran the 400 a few times this year, but I'd never run that before and when I got hurt they took me out," she said. "The coaches plan on working with me in that event more next year. They think I can be competitive by my junior year."

Catholic Central takes 3d at regional Redford Catholic Central took advantage of some superb individual performances to grab third-place honors in the Class A boys' track regional at Highland Park Saturday.

Six Shamrocks qualified for state meet, which is June 4 at Jackson, three advancing on the strength of their best times of the season. The top three finishers in each event qualify for state.

Still, it was a difficult regional to excel in. Detroit Cooley took team honors with 118 points. Detroit Central was second (66), with CC third (53) and Detroit Henry Ford fourth (43).

"I WAS PLEASED," said CC coach Kevin Kavanaugh. "To finish third in that region is very good. There's an awful lot of talent there."

CC trackmen grabbed four seconds and two thirds in the meet. Paul Buchanan ran his best 1,600-meter time of the season in taking a second (4:18.3).

Rick Paler also contributed a personal best of 14.8 in the 110-meter high hurdles to place second. Marty Hegar-ty's 9:46.0 was good enough for a second in the 3,200 run.

John Rakoczy cleared 6-3, his best this year, to place third in the high jump.

CC also placed second and third in the pole vault, although the competition was anything but difficult. Only four vaulters competed, three from CC. The Detroit schools, according to Kavanaugh, "just don't have any vaulters. I don't know why. The PSL just doesn't vault."

REDFORD UNION'S Bob Johnson cleared 13-3 to win the event. Chris Kindred was second for CC at 12-7, followed by Steve McCormick at 12-1.

Other point scorers for the Shamrocks were Matt Wilczewski, a fourth in the 110 hurdles (15.2), Greg Page, a fourth in the 300 hurdles (38.8), and Buchanan, a sixth in the 3,200 (10:07.0).

"We did well in the hurdles and the distance events," Kavanaugh said, adding, "And in the pole vault."

Salem ties up WLAA

Friday, Salem hosts Ann Arbor Pioneer in a state pre-district contest at 4 p.m.

LAST FRIDAY, the Rocks kept themselves in the WLAA title chase and knocked Livonia Bentley out of it with a 15-5 shellacking at Salem.

The game was a seesaw battle, with Bentley leading until the Salem fourth. That inning proved to be the Rocks salvation and Bentley's doom.

Seven runs crossed the plate for Salem during its fourth-inning uprising. Lesniak provided the key blow with a two-run single. She finished the game with three RBI.

Mary Pryslak had three hits in three trips, driving in one run, while Cheryl Viele had two hits and three RBI and McBride contributed two hits, knocking in two runs.

Murphy got the win, allowing seven hits and eight walks. Mary Ellen Mauder was tagged with the loss, lasting only three innings.

Canton girls tumble

And the mile relay team of Lisa Wood, Kim Bennett, Trout and Nagy smashed the previous Canton best of 4:17.7, established in 1976, with an effort of 4:14.7.

On Wednesday, both Salem and Canton will compete in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) championships at Livonia Churchill. Salem is one of the favorites to win the WLAA title. Field events start at 4 p.m. Track preliminaries are at 5:30 p.m. with finals at 7 p.m.

Wendt transfers to U-D

Former Redford Catholic Central scoring ace Greg Wendt has decided to attend college closer to home.

The 6-foot-6, 205-pound 1981 consensus basketball All-Stater is transferring to the University of Detroit from Duke.

He will sit out next season under

NCAA rules and have two years of eligibility left.

After two years and 44 game appearances, Wendt scored 106 points for the Blue Devils.

As a senior at CC, Wendt averaged 32 points and 14 rebounds per game en route to all-Observer and second team Detroit Free Press All-State honors.

How good are you at maintaining good health?

All of us want good health. But many of us forget that everyone is responsible for maintaining his or her good health. It's not a matter of luck. You've got to work at it. Test yourself. Find out how much you know about first aid, accident prevention, reducing your risk of heart disease and home nursing skills. This is not a pass or fail test. Its purpose is to tell you how well you're doing in maintaining good health.

- What should you do to control bleeding from a wound?
 - Apply pressure directly over the wound.
 - Run cold water over the wound.
 - Apply a tourniquet.
- What is the most effective way to begin changing a personal risk factor for heart disease?
 - Don't worry about it.
 - Set a deadline date for change.
 - Identify the situations and conditions which influence the behavior(s) you wish to change.
 - Work harder at developing willpower.
- The best place to check the pulse in an emergency is at the:
 - Upper arm.
 - Neck.
 - Wrist.
 - Thigh.
- Which heat burns may be cooled in water?
 - Thin burns that are not open.
 - Deep burns that are open.
 - All heat burns.
 - No heat burns.
- You should wait at least 10 minutes before taking the temperature if the person has been:
 - Running.
 - Smoking.
 - Drinking coffee.
 - Eating ice cream.
 - All of the above.
- Overweight individuals are at greater risk for:
 - Diabetes.
 - Gall bladder disease.
 - High blood pressure.
 - All of the above.
- What are the most common symptoms of high blood pressure?
 - Dizziness.
 - Headaches.
 - Heart palpitations.
 - No symptoms, usually.
- How can you tell if your blood pressure is up or down?
 - By how you feel, physically.
 - By your emotions.
 - By your pulse rate.
 - By having it checked regularly.
- After an accident, there is no sign of blood. The victim has cold, moist skin and feels pain and tenderness in the abdomen. The victim probably has:
 - Pulmonary arrest.
 - An infection.
 - An internal injury.
 - Cardiac arrest.
- Which of the following nutritional statements is not correct?
 - Eggs are a good source of protein.
 - Vitamin D helps build strong bones and teeth.
 - Vitamin C maintains muscle tone.
 - Good sources of vitamin A are green and yellow vegetables.

Universal life: good tax shelter

If lately you have been shopping around for life insurance, you already have heard of Universal Life (UL). UL combines term insurance with a tax-deferred savings account that earns interest at bond-market rates, lately as high as 12 percent.

UL is one of the best tax shelters available today. If you need a lot of life insurance but also wish to set aside money for children's education, a business venture, or a trip around the world, the UL might be for you. But caveat emptor or let the buyer beware applies here. Many UL policies are loaded with fees and hidden costs.

Here is an approximate comparison of a UL policy with a term plus annuity policy and a whole life policy. This illustration makes the following assumptions: Age, 35. Sex, male. Term, 20 years; Face value, $100,000; Annual outlay, $1,100. It also makes certain other assumptions regarding the growth of funds left with insurance companies.

after-tax cash value	$33,000	$38,000	$36,000
total cash value	$55,000	$60,000	$50,000
after-tax death benefit	$135,000	$138,000	$133,000

finances and you

Sid Mittra

Clearly, in this illustration the UL policy is superior to both term plus annuity and whole life. However, two observations are apropos here.

First, the outcomes may be different if different assumptions were made. For example, a person buying term and successfully investing the difference could come out ahead of the UL policy.

Second, many UL policies are loaded with fees and hidden costs. You should therefore consult your financial planner or insurance adviser before buying a UL policy.

Pianist Votapek plays vibrantly

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

The rhythmic and overwhelmingly energetic Second Piano Concerto of Prokofiev was given a vibrant interpretation Sunday afternoon at Orchestra Hall by Ralph Votapek, first Gold Medalist of the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition (1962).

The occasion marked the close of the 1983 season of the Oakway Symphony under the baton of Francesco Di Blasi.

Prokofiev himself was a pianist of tremendous power and versatility, and it is apparent in every note, chord, cadenza-like passage and run that skips and jumps its way through this concerto. Though we only know the concerto in its reconstructed form, the work retains a romantic element in its erratic quality that brings satisfaction to the listener.

Votapek is a pianist of great speed, coupled with an amazing accuracy, without which it would be impossible to perform such a concerto. His dexterity and strength seemed to outmatch the inexhaustible scales and mechanical figuration of the music. And he skillfully wove all the notes into almost a foot-tapping rhythm that gave impressions more of a jazz concert than a classical musical concert.

VOTAPEK'S CLEAN, precise style opened the first movement, andantino, with a grace that was shaded into a buildup of intensity through his long solo until the orchestra joined him with an excitement that mellowed into silence.

Votapek's second movement challenged the style of his first movement with its abrupt swiftness. The hand crossing of the third movement, allegro moderato, was another example of Votapek's adeptness in dealing with the technical ostinato musical passage. It was fascinating for those who could see the keyboard.

The climax was reached in the fourth movement, allegro tempestoso, with another solo and a stunning ending, which brought a surprisingly small audience to its feet. (Oakway Symphony has enjoyed a very successful season with many capacity crowds.)

Though the crowd was small and not typical of the Oakway Symphony, there were notable people such as Mischa Kottler there to hear the Michigan State artist-in-residence.

Conductor Di Blasi and the symphony opened the concert with what is always fitting if not traditional, an overture, "Overture to Norma" by Bellini. Immediately, the freshness of the acoustical surroundings of the hall gave the orchestra a crispness not enjoyed elsewhere.

THE ROMANTIC work was followed by a pleasing rendition of Mozart's Symphony No. 38 (Prague). Di Blasi conducted both of these two numbers without music, a custom which always makes a performance more interesting.

It is the year of Brahms' 150th anniversary, and it may as well be Wagner's. The third selection of the first half was his "Elsa's Procession from Lohengrin," with Ernest Jones conducting. The sustained melody of the strings matched the penetrating brass and woodwind sections, giving the performance a good blend.

Leslie Bassett, University of Michigan composer and professor of music, was in the audience to hear 10 members of the Oakway Symphony perform his "Nonet." Principals Pamela Hill, flute; Emily Fromme, oboe; Luran Mitchell, clarinet; Jonathon Boyd, bassoon; Ralph McIntyre, French horn; Paul Miller and Stan Bawol, trumpets; Howard Mitchell, trombone, and Cathy Stav, piano, formed the ensemble. The work was scored for only one trumpet, but the part was performed by both Paul Miller and Stan Bawol.

The contemporary piece was enhanced by its placement on this program with the Prokofiev work, and after the romantic and classical first half. It is a challenging number with dissonance that comes short of offensiveness. Hearing the principals in solo parts apart from the orchestra made the work particularly interesting.

As is Di Blasi's custom, to bring new works to the audience at each concert, the Oakway conductor draws on his experience and musical acquaintances to find such pieces. In this case, Bassett is a Michigan composer who won the 1966 Pulitzer Prize for his music.

International theater

The internationally acclaimed drama "The Wall" will be presented by members of the University Theatre Center Kalamur from Wroclaw, Poland, during the International Theatre Olympiad '83. The group will appear Monday, June 27, at the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild in Redford. Thirty groups will perform during the Olympiad, Friday, June 24, to Monday, July 4, in Metro Detroit and Windsor.

Mozart vs. Salieri — simply no contest

By Avigdor Zarnop
special writer

The rivalry between Mozart and Salieri is now two centuries old. Much has been said about it. A recent interest in that feud has been rekindled by the celebrated stage play on the subject, "Amadeus."

Last Friday a special program of works by Mozart and Salieri was presented by Renaissance Concerts at Orchestra Hall.

Did Salieri truly poison Mozart? Most musicologists doubt it. But the subject proves to be fascinating. Compositions by Salieri haven't been regularly performed since his death.

review

his being a prime, post-mortem suspect in Mozart's murder, a more plausible explanation is that he was a mediocre composer.

There are, of course, some lesser composers who are being played, but then, there are some better ones who aren't either. Who said that history is completely fair?

In the current "duel," few had any doubt about the outcome. The only question was by how much Mozart would end up ahead. As it turned out, there was really no contest.

THE ORCHESTRA Hall program opened with Mozart's serenade "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik." For Mozart, this was one of his less serious works.

But Salieri's two works, a contradance and Concertino da Camera for Oboe and Strings, didn't even come close.

The contradance has a very pompous ending, almost like Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, but with little content to show for it.

The concertino demonstrated stylistic skill and aptitude, but very little imaginative inspiration on the part of the composer. This, however, doesn't diminish the magnificent performance of principal Detroit Symphony Orchestra oboe player Donald Baker, who made the work sound more profound than it really is.

He also performed Mozart's Oboe Concerto in the second part of the program. As fate would have it, Baker's instrument was temporarily out of commission due to a cleaning accident in which a cloth was lodged inside and couldn't be retrieved.

Consequently, he had to borrow one from John Snow, who in turn had to borrow yet another instrument. All this, however, didn't put a dent in his skill, except for a brief stumbling on one occasion in the third movement of Mozart's concerto.

Theatrefest '83 offers 3 plays

The U Players Theatrefest '83 kicks off its campaign by announcing three shows at the Power Center for the Performing Arts at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

The bill includes "Scapin," Moliere's rollicking farce, Wednesday, June 29, to Saturday, July 2; "Fifth of July," Lanford Wilson's mosaic of past and present dreams, Wednesday through Saturday, July 6-9, and "Company," the Stephen Sondheim musical, Wednesday through Saturday, July 13-16.

Picnics on the green and strolling musicians precede the play at Theatrefest '83. For subscription information and a 10-percent discount on early subscriptions, call 763-5213.

"It's a Wonderful Life" (1946), 7:15 and 9:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Punch & Judy, 21 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, phone 882-7363, free. Running time 129 minutes.

Frank Capra films are easy to place: The screwball comedies — "It Happened One Night," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" and "You Can't Take it with You" — are byproducts of the melancholy mid-'30s; the bittersweet "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" and "Meet John Doe" mirror the pensive mood of the prewar years; the documentaries "Prelude to War" and "Know Your Enemy: Japan" belong to the war years, and "It's a Wonderful Life" and "State of the Union" reflect growing pains brought on by the war but ultimately express a postwar optimism.

Capra was a master of capturing the spirit of the nation and of giving filmgoing audiences exactly what they wanted — whether the audiences knew it or not. "It's a Wonderful Life" celebrates the simple joys of life. James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Thomas Mitchell, Henry Travers and a young and very beautiful Donna Reed star.

The film is another in a series of free, Tuesday screenings at the Punch & Judy. Future offerings include "The Wild One" (June 7) and "Invasion of the Body Snatchers" (June 21).

Rating: $3.50.
"The Sound of Music" (1965), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 4. Originally 174 minutes.

Julie Andrews isn't everyone's cup of sugar but she does excel in this Rodgers and Hammerstein, Oscar-winning musical of the Von Trapp family. Christopher Plummer and Eleanor Parker co-star.
Rating: $3.

"A Man for All Seasons" (1966), 1 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 120 minutes.

Straight and to the point: "A Man for All Seasons" is one of the best films ever made. Fred Zinnemann ("From Here to Eternity," "Julia") directs, screenplay by Robert Bolt ("Lawrence of Arabia," "Dr. Zhivago"), starring Paul Scofield, Robert Shaw, Orson Welles, Susannah York, Vanessa Redgrave and Wendy Hiller. Oscars for Zinnemann, Scofield and the film.

Bolt's script magnificently brings to life the debate that surrounded the formation of the Church of England by Henry VIII and stimulates lively thought in the process. It galvanizes one with its vivid recreations of 16th century life and speech, and provides all the aspects of a good thriller — danger, tension, intrigue and surprise.
Rating: $3.95.

Riverboat race to benefit PAL

The venerable Bob Lo boats will show off at 6 p.m. Friday, with radio personality J.P. McCarthy and TV newscaster Bill Bonds at the helms, in the annual Great Detroit Riverboat Race.

Tickets are $5 and all proceeds will be donated to the Detroit Police Athletic League, for Detroit-area youth participating in programs sponsored by PAL.

Tickets are available at Galligan's,

Lindell A.C., McCarthy's Party, Nemo's, New Hellas and Woodbridge Tavern, or by calling the Police Athletic League at 935-3312.

"Last year's race produced almost $35,000 for PAL," said Dick "Night Train" Lane, PAL executive director.

Last year's Great Detroit Riverboat Race ended in a tie, according to the judges. As in last year's race, a coin flip will determine which of the boats (the Columbia or the St. Clair) McCarthy and Bonds will captain.

Gerry the Fool presents show

The Gerry the Fool Group will present "We're Only Fooling" in benefit for the Michigan Avenue Arts Group at 7:30 and 9 p.m. Friday-Saturday, June 3-4, at the Michigan Gallery, 2661 Michigan, at 20th Street, Detroit.
Admission is $6 for adults, $3 for children. The adult ticket includes three drinks.

The original 60-minute show is a series of vignettes told through the arts of mime, puppetry and slapstick, together with live musical accompaniment.

Oratorio portrays human drama

By Avigdor Zoromp
special writer

Some say that the best things in life are free.

That might be an oversimplification, but sometimes some good rewards are available that are free, at least to the public.

One such event was the recent performance of Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" at Temple Beth El. The impressive structure, located at 14 Mile and Telegraph in Bloomfield Township was indeed a suitable choice.

Designed by architect Minoru Yamasaki in the shape of an elongated pyramid, it has some interesting acoustical features, as well as enough room to accommodate a sizeable congregation.

The large seating capacity, as well as the ample parking space, however, didn't turn out to be sufficient for the occasion. Even with double-parking, a lot of visitors were hard pressed and had to look for parking elsewhere and seating overflowed into the outside corridor.

review

While the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO) season ended a few weeks ago, the orchestra members aren't about to call it quits and take it easy. This was one of several events enhanced by the outstanding talents of members of the DSO.

IN ADDITION, there were the Kenneth Jewell Chorale and the Chancel Choir of the Bushnell Congregational Church.

The role of Elijah was sung by bass-baritone William Warfield. Other solo singers included soprano, Faye Washington, mezzo soprano, Rosemarie Murch, and tenor, Christopher Broderson. The conductor was Ray Ferguson.

This event, a joint venture of Temple Beth El and Bushnell Congregational Church, was an impressive example of interdenominational cooperation. It would be tempting to say that the character of Elijah could serve as a symbol of such cooperation and tolerance, except that it could be argued that Elijah himself had his own share of intolerance when he ordered the prophets of Baal to be destroyed.

But nobody can deny the profound nature of Mendelssohn's oratorio. While being bound by the biblical text, it does magnificently portray an intense human drama. The emotions were very aptly presented in this performance.

There were some drawbacks in the voice of William Warfield (Elijah), which was occasionally wobbly and had too much vibrato which tended to obscure the melody. But it was beaming with strength on other occasions.

THE CHORUSES were impressive with their unified impact and the other solo singers were also equal to the task. Due to the length of the composition, some cuts were inevitable. But most regrettable was the omission of the ascent of Elijah in the fiery chariot, which contains one of the most powerful musical descriptions of such an outlandish event.

It is remarkable how a musical setting can transform and transcend the meaning and significance of a biblical story. One might doubt whether the events, as depicted, are historically accurate.

But in the musical context this is irrelevant. Mendelssohn's oratorio is real. Through it, the character of Elijah becomes as real as any current event that affects our lives. Perhaps even more so.

Hopefully, the Bushnell Performing Arts Series will provide us with many more rewarding events for years to come.

Talent appears at 'Night of Stars'

"A Night of Stars," showcasing new Detroit talent, will be presented in two shows, at 9 p.m. and midnight, Saturday in the Promenade Room of the Fill Building, 2310 Cass, one block south of the Fisher Freeway in Detroit.

Headlining the entertainment will be W.T. Williams, drummer, producer and writer. He has played with such performers as TFO, Detroit Emeralds, Sea Wind, Ray Pocket Jr., the Dynamic Superiors and Carolyn Franklin. His style is a collage of contemporary funk, jazz, fusion, gospel and blues. Williams has a new release on the Queen label titled "How You Going to Play Me."

Also featured will be Jasmin, a contemporary rock group, which has a soon-to-be-released single on the Queen label, "Do You Love Me" and "Could It Be Love."

Rounding out the list of new talent are LDOE (Last Days on Earth), a Top 40s rhythm and blues group, Jodi McFarland, a pop and jazz vocalist, and Roy Lee, vocalist and master of ceremonies.

FREE, LIGHTED parking is provided. There will be a cash bar. Tickets are $5 in advance, $6 at the door.

For more information, call James Brown at 962-3400. The event is presented by Thrust Production Company Inc.

Donna and Tom Elwart show how it's done. First they deal with live honeybees, then they display some of their few jars of honey remaining from last season. The Westland couple makes and sells one ton of honey a year.

Bzzzzzzzz

Couple thinks bees make a honey of a sound

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

TO MOST PEOPLE, the sight of a swarm of buzzing bees is one that inspires a shudder and a fast scamper away from the trouble spot.

But Tom and Donna Elwart of Westland like nothing better than a few thousand bees nearby and, in fact, welcome all the honeybees that they can to their home.

The Elwarts are beekeepers in Elwart's Apiary, a bee removal and honey-making business at their home on John Hix Road, south of Palmer Road.

"It's interesting," said Tom Elwart, of his pleasant and profitable sideline. Elwart, who is employed by the Ford Motor Co., said, "There's something different all the time. I always liked bees. My dad had bees when I was young."

Elwart got started in the beekeeping business "by accident" seven years ago, when a swarm, or cluster of bees was drawn to the house by his sons playing loud music on the radio.

THE BEES were attracted, Elwart said, because loud noise interferes with the insects' "radar" and causes them to follow that sound. Those bees were deposited in one hive.

There are now 33 hives in the Elwart apiary, which produces one ton of honey a year. The honey is sold at prices ranging from $1.25 for a 12-ounce jar, to $5.50 for a five-pound jar, to $40 for a 60-pound can.

Police departments have contacted the Elwarts to remove bee swarms in Westland, Canton Township and Wayne. The couple dresses in coveralls and veils for the bee removing procedure, which they estimate to take an average of 30 minutes.

Swarming is the honeybee's natural method of reproducing the colony, or bee family in a hive. When bees swarm, the bee colony splits into two parts, one of which leaves the hive and establishes a new colony elsewhere.

If the swarm is located in a tree, the limb on which the bees are swarming is cut and carried over to a hive. The swarm resembles a teeming bunch of grapes. The limb is shaken over the hive, causing the bees to enter it.

HANDLING THE bees can be a sticky business, since there can be from 6,000 to 10,000 bees in a swarm, according to Tom.

"I get stung between 60 and 70 times a year," he said. "You're not a good beekeeper if you're not stung."

Bees may not be welcome in many yards, but they play an important part in the production of food, the Elwarts said. Some 90 commercial crops are pollinated by bees in the United States, including fruit trees, strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, cucumbers, muskmelon, clovers and other Michigan crops.

And bee stings are thought to be an aid or cure for arthritis in Europe.

"Honeybees are essential to mankind, to pollinate flowers and fruit," Donna Elwart said. "If there are bees on the property, the yield will be a lot better."

THE BEE HIVES used by the Elwarts consist of several parts, including an upper chamber called a "super." The super contains frames, supports for honeycombs that are arranged side by side.

Honey is made by the bees on the honeycombs on the frames. To remove the honey, the Elwarts put the frames in an extractor, a large stainless steel machine that spins the frames around and draws out the honey by centrifugal force. The honey then flows out of the extractor. Eighty pounds of honey has been found from 12 frames, the Elwarts said.

"Honey is the purest thing you can eat," Tom

Tom Elwart picks up a box gingerly. Despite his protective gloves, suit and headgear, he is stung 60 to 70 times a year. It's part of the business, he says.

Elwart said. "It doesn't spoil as long as it's treated right."

"There was honey found in King Tut's tomb that was still good," Donna Elwart added.

HONEY CAN be stored at room temperature. The Elwarts advise that if honey crystallizes, the container should be put in very hot (not boiling) water until the honey is completely liquefied.

The Elwarts are gearing up for another busy season. June, July and August are the peak months for the bee business, they said.

"We had a ton of honey in August, and now there's just a few jars left," Tom Elwart said.

Donna Elwart said her husband may get into the business more after he retires.

Indications are that Elwart always keeps busy. The Elwart's Apiary honey jars feature a windmill on the label, the model of which stands in the Elwarts' backyard. The 45-foot tall windmill was built by Elwart from a kit. It actually pumps water from a 17-foot deep well, depositing it in a pond on his property.

Detroit Symphony music adviser

Maestro Bertini winds up 2 years

By Avigdor Zaromp
special writer

Detroit Symphony Orchestra Maestro Gary Bertini relaxed in the Ford Auditorium office and reflected on his two years as music adviser for the symphony.

On the desk was a brand new score of Brahms' German Requiem.

"I have conducted this work more times than I can remember. The old score got worn out with my numerous notations, so I decided it was time to get a new one."

He spoke of Mahler, whose four gigantic symphonies were performed during his two-year tenure. Bertini, who will become chief conductor of the Radio Symphony of Cologne next fall, believes the choice of Mahler was right.

"Maturity is a necessity for understanding Mahler. When I started out at the age of 25, I played a lot of Bach and his contemporaries. Subsequently, I went through the works of other traditional classical composers like Mozart, Schumann and Schubert.

"Only after getting involved with

'I don't feel comfortable with the Wagnerian religion or cult. But, I have nothing against his music, which is great music.'

— Gary Bertini

Stravinsky, Debussy and contemporary music did I finally revert to Mahler. It can be said that I arrived at Mahler in a rather roundabout way ... about seven years ago I began to realize the true Mahler.

"His music can be characterized as a human universe that shatters the boundaries of Romantic music. It is based on profound knowledge — it utilizes the orchestral capabilities and polyphonic structure to the very limit.

"HE evokes a great response in me. One may detect in his symphonies a hint of things to come — the two World Wars, the Holocaust, even World War III, if you wish. If you are familiar with his sixth and seventh symphonies, you'll see what I mean. I find a lot of personal significance in his music."

Mahler died in 1911, three years before World War I. Although he was of Jewish descent, he drew apart from his Jewish background.

Bertini has conducted virtually all of Mahler's works, including his symphonies, except for No. 8. But, as he indicated, his repertoire is much wider.

"I have covered just about every major area in music," he said. "No area has been left untouched."

This includes not only most major classical and modern composers, but avant garde music as well.

"Yes, I have played Stockhausen, Pierre Boulez and others ... Not everybody likes them — and that's alright. It might turn out to be a passing fad and an inconsequential one at that. But, it was absolutely necessary to go through that phase. One who goes through it does not emerge quite the same."

What do human tanks inside a "Titan Ship" look like?

Well, the entrance to the human tank chamber is like a "red, glowing tube. The walls of the tube, the ceiling and the floor of the chamber glow a deep red from the cutout sections. Behind the rippling membrane front of each tank, adults and children float, gently rocking in the fluids of the tanks."

That's the written account — described by science fiction author Robert Heinlein in his book "The Puppet Masters."

But if you want to see what the chamber — complete with floating adults and children — looks like, you'll have to go to the Auburn Hills campus of Oakland Community College.

That's where drawings of the space ship are housed.

THEY'RE NOT drawings of an actual space ship, of course — just imaginative renditions of the "Titan Ship" created by students in the advanced industrial product drawing classes.

The exhibit also includes pictures of laser guns, futuristic communications devices and space-age cityscapes.

Industrial design instructor Norman Kleiner assigned the project to encourage students to use their imaginations. The task was intended to prepare them for the future job market, he said.

"I told them to design the spaceship as if they were going to design props for a movie," Kleiner said.

"Industrial designers are sometimes asked to make props for films like "Blade Runner" and "Star Wars."

"And many large firms — including Burroughs, General Motors and Ford — have design studios for future products. They hire designers to work on long-range ideas."

THE CREATIVE side of industrial design is combined with the technical side. The result is what educators call a comprehensive community college program in the field.

"We emphasize both the technical and aesthetic aspects," said Ray Katz, who heads the industrial design department.

Skywatch

Summer solstice will bring a partial eclipse of the moon

By Raymond E. Bullock
special writer

The author is coordinator of the planetarium and observatory at Cranbrook Institute of Science.

The month of June brings us the summer solstice, the official start of summer. In addition, we will be able to see a partial eclipse of the moon — weather permitting.

The first event of the month isn't visible. On Friday, June 3, Mars is in conjunction with the sun. A conjunction is a close grouping between two objects. In this case, Mars is on the far side of the sun as seen from earth so Mars will not be visible. Fortunately, the orbits of the planets are very well understood, so astronomers don't have to see the planets to know exactly where they are.

The moon is at last quarter phase on June 3, rising at 2:17 a.m.

Mercury is at maximum western elongation on the morning of Wednesday, June 8. This means that Mercury appears at its greatest angular separation from the sun, 24 degrees west (right), rising in the east-northeast. Mercury is always a difficult object to spot, and this elongation is not a very favorable one.

THE WANING crescent moon will be to the upper right of Mercury on the morning of June 8 and will actually occult (cover) Mercury on the morning of the 9th. This rare event will be difficult to see from our area. Mercury will already be hidden by the moon at moonrise (4:52 a.m.) and will reappear from behind the unlighted side of the moon. Sunrise is at 5:55 a.m.

New moon is on the night of Friday, June 10. The moon is located between the earth and sun and is not visible. In fact, the earth-moon-sun alignment is in a straight line, causing a total eclipse of the sun. Unfortunately, this eclipse occurs well after sunset so it is not visible from our area. It is an eastern hemisphere event.

Venus is south of (below) the moon on the evening of Tuesday, June 14. On the 15th, the star Regulus, in Leo, is below the moon. Watch as Venus draws closer to Regulus during the month.

ON THURSDAY, June 16, Venus is at its greatest eastern elongation, 45 degrees from the sun. The brilliant planet dominates the western sky this month, setting around midnight.

The moon is at first quarter on the evening of Friday, June 17.

Two nights later, Saturn is two degrees south of (below) the moon. To the right of Saturn is the bright blue-white star Spica, in Virgo.

Summer officially begins for the northern hemisphere Tuesday, June 21, at 7:09 p.m. At this time the sun is at its farthest point north of the celestial equator, an imaginary line which cuts the sky into a northern and southern hemisphere, corresponding to earth's equator.

Jupiter is the bright "star" to the upper right of the moon on the evening of June 22. Below the moon is Antares, the orange-red heart of Scorpius.

Full moon is on the morning of Saturday, June 25. The full moon always appears in the opposite part of the sky as the sun. Since the sun is at its highest point of the year during June, this full moon is at its lowest point in the sky and is located near where the sun will be found in six months — low in the sky in December.

A partial eclipse of the moon occurs on the morning of June 25. The eclipse begins at 3:14 a.m. when the moon enters the shadow of the earth. The middle of the eclipse occurs at 4:22 a.m., when one-third of the moon is covered. At 5:30 a.m., the moon leaves earth's shadow and the eclipse is over. Sunrise is at 5:56 and moon set is four minutes later. Binoculars will provide ample magnification to observe the eclipse.

While the observatory at Cranbrook Institute of Science will not be open during the eclipse, visitors can look through the telescope every Saturday night from 8:30-10 p.m. For more information, call 645-3200.

Gardening

Advice from a pro — procrastinate

Here is an idea for your gardening which has been used through the ages with success. When you wish to plant some seeds, make a shallow trench, pour some water in it, and allow it to soak in.

Scatter sand or vermiculite down the middle of the furrow. Plant your seeds, cover the project with an old board. Peek under the board frequently, and when you see sprouts, prop up the board to allow air to enter.

After a few days, you will know when the sprouts have grown enough that you can remove the board. That is a trick all rural farmers know.

HERE COMES a word of warning. Many of the plants we buy have been grown under perfect conditions in a greenhouse. You would be wise to procrastinate a couple of days after purchasing them. Place them in a location where they will have some shade and gradually get full sun exposure.

I have talked to local merchants down to earth

Alice Burlingame

about flats, and learned that the flats have been bought from large greenhouses where the plants have been grown from seed under glass. Isn't it fun to be advised to be a procrastinator gardener?

"Everybody" seems to be planting tomatoes these days. Before inserting the plant in the ground wrap paper around the stem, not too tightly; it will discourage cutworms. As side shoots, soft by nature, sprout out of the stem, be sure and pinch them off.

Tomato plants make a good cover on a fence. Begin to secure the stems when the plants reach 2 feet in height.

The old-fashioned way of using a strip of cotton fabric seems to be the best kind of tie material.

EVERY TIME I pass a seed stand I always seem to gravitate toward morning glories. They really don't seem to "shine" until along in July, but what an accent they can give.

If you have a split-rail fence, consider placing about eight seeds together at the base of an upright post. As seeds have a tough coating it is advisable to soak the seeds in water a couple of days, then plant.

If you only water them when the soil is really dry, then thoroughly, they will not "go to" lots of leaves, and you'll have more flowers.

The following plants are subject to the same diseases, so you can be a winner if you don't plant them too close together — squash, melons, tomatoes and potatoes.

There are viruses in tobacco, so the gardener who smokes should wash his hands before gardening. I sound like the Women's Christian Temperance Union, but you have to face facts.

Research has been done in Kentucky and Indiana, and the researchers claim if you place a plastic bag over young tomato plants in the spring they will produce a crop earlier. Experimenting with those kinds of gardening ideas is what makes the hobby so much fun.

Many of you have your house sitting in an orchard. How you sigh when the fruit ripens, and you are deluged with apples. You can prevent fruit set when the trees are in flower by spraying with Amathin-M. Good luck.

Wagner. Due to his outspoken anti-Semitism, his music is banned in Israel to this day.

Bertini, born in Russia in 1927, has close ties with Israel. He has been professor at the University of Tel Aviv since 1975, is artistic adviser of the Israel Chamber Orchestra, and the Rinat Chamber Choir and appears regularly with the Israel Philharmonic and Jerusalem Symphony orchestras. He has been principal conductor of the latter since 1978.

"I don't feel comfortable with the Wagnerian religion or cult. But, I have nothing against his music, which is great music. Not all of his operas have equal appeal for me, but I like doing some of his works like 'The Ring,' 'Die Meistersinger' and more," Bertini said. "I am not the right person for 'Lohengrin' or 'Tannhauser.' Understandably, some people are sensitive about the issue (Wagner's music) and we have to respect their feelings."

The conversation turned to American audiences and their response, why attendance is low and concerts aren't sold out.

"Some of it has to do with sociological structure and geographical location," Bertini said. "Many music lovers here live in the suburbs and a significant number don't feel up to traveling close to an hour each way to reach downtown after a hard day's work."

"ALSO, IN order to change the situation, school systems and educational institutions should be more actively involved to attract potential talent. Not everybody can become a classical music fan, of course, but if we aim at the 3 to 5 percent potential talent that is definitely there, it would be well worth it. In Europe, whenever there is a Mahler concert, it is always sold out."

About the future of classical music, in general, and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, in particular, Bertini said, "I don't envision any danger to the future of classical music. There were several crises in the past that seemed threatening, like recordings and television."

"While there might have been an initial impact, concert performances have survived and bounced up again."

"What this orchestra (the Detroit Symphony) needs is a sense of permanence, which means appointing a music director. . . . The ideal music director should be involved and respected by the community as well as by the orchestra.

"I feel a lot of satisfaction, pride — and I have a clear conscience. I have fulfilled my obligation in the best possible manner, not only in terms of fulfilling the contract, but my heart was truly in it."

"My concerts were received well and enthusiastically by the audience and a lot of musicians appreciated my efforts. . . . If some of the musicians do not like me, it is their problem, not mine. I am leaving this orchestra in excellent shape, as least as good as the shape I found it. I feel that I have also enhanced the support of civic organizations."

Industrial design students

Modelers make three-dimensional prototypes from designer's drawings, Katz explained.

"Women will have better opportunities for finding employment in the field because it has generally been saturated by men."

The community college's program has 17 classes, including product modeling and design, drawing, industrial sculpture, technical communications, design graphics and manufacturing.

In addition, the college is installing a computer system which will be used in designing, detailing, manufacturing and assembling products, Katz said.

Currently, 60 students, ranging in age from 18 to 35, are enrolled in the program, but it can accommodate up to 200.

Dearborn Garden Club restores Ford Fairlane estate gardens

Peonies will be blooming once again in peony garden of the former Henry and Clara Ford estate, thanks to the Dearborn Garden Club.

The peony garden is now one of three gardens being restored. In its original state, the peony garden was 300-400 feet, while the replica will be approximately one-tenth of that size. The restored garden replaces a former public parking lot.

Funding for the restoration and maintenance of the garden will come from a benefit tea given by the Dearborn Garden Club 1-3 p.m., Friday, June 10, at the Henry Ford Estate-Fair Lane.

It is open to the public for a $3 admission fee. There will be door prizes and music. Tickets are available through Garden Club members, or by contacting Fair Lane, 593-5590.
