City, union can't reach pact on police savings

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Cost-saving measures, needed to save the township contract for police services, will be implemented by the city without the police union's approval.

Last Wednesday's meeting between city and union officials ended when the two sides couldn't reach an agreement on the officer's work week.

The union wasn't willing to replace its four 10-hour days with the five eight-hour days the city wanted.

"The tone of the meeting was bad right from the beginning, inasmuch as the policemen have never wanted to discuss the eight-hour day as compared to the 10-hour day," City Manager Henry Graper said.

"The city has pushed for the eight-hour day since they felt there would be major savings involved there in the calculation of overtime, fringe benefits, and other scheduling problems," he said.

The city will go ahead and implement the eight-hour day in the near future since the two sides are at impasse on the issue, Graper said.

However the police union doesn't believe there is an impasse and will fight the implementation of the eight-hour day.

"There's no reason to say we're at impasse, we still have a contract that is good for two years," said Gerald Radovic, the union's bargaining agent.

"If they do implement that, we will seek a court injunction against them. We have a contract that guarantees 10-hour days," he said.

THE WHOLE CONCESSION issue has grown out of the city's attempt to save the shared police contract with Plymouth Township.

The township administration said the rising costs of that contract, now $467,000 a year, was forcing the township to look at alternate methods of providing police protection.

Last month Graper and Township Supervisor Maurice Breen reportedly reached an agreement on what amount of cost savings was needed to keep the contract.

Despite the lack of concessions from the union, Graper said the city still can offer the township the needed savings by implementing the eight-hour day.

The other concessions the city sought from the union included:

- A two-year wage freeze.
- Reducing personal days from four per year to two per year.

- Cutting 30 hours of vacation time for each officer (three days per year).

- Unlimited use of auxiliary and part-time officers in the future.

- Reducing the starting pay and fringe benefits for new officers.

Besides a permanent retention of the 10-hour day, the union's offer included:

- Extension of the current contract to June 30, 1986, instead of expiring on June 30, 1985. Along with this the union wanted a guarantee of no layoffs during the life of the contract.

- A one-year wage freeze.

- Implementation of the 5-percent wage increase already scheduled for 1984 with a wage re-opener in 1985.

- Limited use of auxiliary officers to some parades and festival events.

- Shifting of the 10-hour day schedule to allow for cost savings in overtime.

- Reducing starting pay and fringe benefits for new officers.

"WE'RE VERY DISAPPOINTED, to say the least," Graper said. "If we can't offer the township some savings they obviously will reach a point where it is cheaper to start their own department."

The city wants too much, Radovic said.

School drug use target of policy

By M.B. Dillon Ward
staff writer

The drafting of a middle school drug policy at last may be over, but debate on the subject is not.

Before approving the first posting of the policy at last week's meeting, members of the Plymouth-Canton School Board locked horns when discussing police intervention.

According to the middle school drug policy — the first ever in the district — students caught using alcohol and/or drugs will face the following:

- On the first offense, a three-day suspension, parental receipt of a letter outlining the drug policy, mandated involvement of parents and students in an intervention program, and optional police involvement.

- The second offense carries a five-day suspension, participation in an intervention program and mandatory police involvement.

- Upon the third offense, the school board would be petitioned to expel the drug user, and law enforcement will be notified.

The recently adopted high school drug policy is similar but doesn't call for mandatory police involvement with drug users.

In an original draft of the middle school policy, police intervention was mandated by the first offense.

Meetings with the substance abuse committee and local law enforcement officers resulted in delaying police involvement until the second offense.

Both that agreement, and the lack of police intervention at the high school level, both newly-re-elected school board trustee Roland Thomas. They signal "a shirking of responsibility" on the part of law enforcement, he said.

"I have a problem with this. If these kids are breaking a law, and if we don't mandate it (police intervention), this community will not learn the extent of the problem."

"You must confront the problem." Nic Cooper, chairman of the high schools' substance abuse committee, said in defense, "you've got to consider the age of the young people and the viability of what's happening in court with a 16- versus 13-year-old in middle school. (Involving the police) isn't as consequential a move at the high school level as it is for the middle school student."

"At (the high schools), there's a problem with the number of police contacts. (Police intervention) is felt not to be as important as at the middle school level. Individual (high school) administrators still have the flexibility to involve the police at any time."

"It's just a difference of whether it's mandated."

Siding with Cooper, Treasurer Glenn Schroeder said: "When you're traveling I-275, how many people do you see going 55?"

"How are we to deal with the fact that police are to be viewed as friends?"

"When (students who use drugs) go to Ann Arbor (enroll at the University of Michigan) no one will pay any attention to them," he added.

Ann Arbor's drug ordinance mandates a $5 fine for persons found guilty of marijuana possession.

"We have had difficulty with police getting this far," School Board President Thomas Yack said.

"What happens if we make changes?"

The potential exists, answered Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction, of "opening up an issue that's been successfully resolved. I would hesitate to change (the policy) without going back to the committee and the agencies involved."

Outgoing Trustee Sylvia Stetz suggested that the new policies be adopted on an experimental basis.

Hobby pays off in acclaim

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

When William Frazee, now a product designer for Ford Motor Co., was given a 1954 convertible to customize, little did he think he was starting on a hobby that would bring him national acclaim.

Yet, that is exactly what happened and the Plymouth township resident who has been working on a Model A since 1961 is headed for national prestige.

It was with a feeling of pride that he won second place in the recent Plymouth convention of old-time cars and now he is hopeful that he will move up a step by the next convention.

"I DID all of the work myself," he said, "and even did the upholstery. It was quite a job, but the finished product caught the eye of the judges."

And to make me feel all the better and hopeful is the fact that it was my first attempt at national honors.

From the day he was given his assignment to customize a car Frazee has been devoting most of his spare time to old autos.

"I started with that 1954 convertible and in the years that followed I had a 1961 and spent a lot of my time in drag racing. I gave that up to go back to restoring cars."

FOR THE past 11 years he has worked on this machine and finally decided to enter it in competition in the national convention judging. And to his surprise he landed second place.

"Imagine that," he said, "and on my first try."

It wasn't the first time he was a prize winner in competition. Last year the car took top honors in the competition at the Packard Proving Grounds.

Now, the next step is top place and he is looking forward with confidence that the day will come when his efforts will be rewarded with first place.

During his everyday work for the Ford Motor Co. Frazee works on production designs and has two patents to his credit. His first was a design for the manual transmission on the Ford Fiesta in 1976 and the second came in 1980 for the manual transmission in the Escort/Lynx.

Born on Detroit's east side he attended Eastland high school in Roseville and later spent some time at Lawrence Tech before entering the employ of the Ford Company 29½ years ago. All that time he has been in the production design department with restoring old cars as a hobby.

YMCA considers building facility

The Plymouth Community Family YMCA has started an investigation into the feasibility of a full-service Y building to serve the Plymouth, Canton and Northville area.

Since 1961, when the YMCA was established in this area, its administrative staff has been located in downtown Plymouth in rented offices, and its classes and activities have been offered in rented and donated facilities such as school buildings and the Oddfellows Hall.

Because of limited space or the unavailability of certain facilities, said executive director Janet Luce, the Y has been able to provide only some of the services and activities needed by the community.

With the Y's own building this situation will be improved, she added, and the Y will offer a full array of services and activities for the members of its service area.

A demographic report and marketing survey have determined that individuals in the Y service area are interested in and would support a full-service Y building, said Al Callile, YMCA Board vice president.

The Y is seeking suitable property in the Plymouth, Canton, Northville area for a building and for outside recreational features.

More specific details will be announced in the near future, Callile said.

At the time those details are known, a fund-raising drive to obtain the necessary money to finance the proposed building will be undertaken.

Luce said Y officials know the people of the service area will support and provide assistance to the Y in this major project because a full-service Y building will be an asset to the Plymouth, Canton and Northville communities.

Observer & Eccentric sponsors soccer classic

Come and see the stars in action.

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, in cooperation with Livonia Public Schools, will sponsor the Prep Girls' Soccer Classic at 11:30 a.m. Saturday at Livonia Stevenson High School.

The event will pit members of O&E's All-Area team from Wayne County against the stars from Oakland County.

Norren Divens, coach of the state champions from Stevenson, will direct the Wayne team, while Mike Raddy, coach of regional champion Troy High School, will guide the Oakland squad.

Admission is $1. Advanced ticket sales are available at the Observer offices in Livonia (on the corner of Levan and Schoolcraft) and the Eccentric offices in Birmingham (on Bowers, off Adams and south of Maple).

Tickets also will be sold at the gate on game day.

Stevenson High School is at 33500 W. Six Mile, west of Farmington Road, Livonia.

The story of the rock exchange retold

Legends and traditions sometimes have an unusual origin. One of the finest examples was unveiled on Monday noon on the city hall lawn in Plymouth when the "bit of rock" taken from the dock from which the Mayflower sailed in 1820, will be rededicated as a feature of the July Fourth celebration.

It all began on a summer evening back in 1966 when plans were being made to celebrate Plymouth's centennial. The late James Houk, then the mayor, told the members of the city commission that he would like to see some form of lasting importance mark the official day.

At the moment someone in the gathering in the commission chambers took the floor and informed those present that there were 17 cities in America with the name of Plymouth.

"Why not invite all of them to spend the week with us," he suggested.

Just at that moment another person in the audience rose and said, "If you are going to go that far why not invite the Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England? That's where it all started."

THERE WAS a smile around the room. But the invitations were sent. Then a very unusual thing happened. The Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England, was the only one who came. What's more, he brought three members of his cabinet with him. And their visit never will be forgotten.

For a full week, the celebration went on. It reached a peak

the stroller
W.W.
Edgar

on Thursday evening with a state dinner in the Meeting House of the Mayflower Hotel. The late Senator Phil Hart was the speaker and fascinated the visitors with his remarks.

Finally, the Lord Mayor of Plymouth, Frank Chapman, was called upon. He arose with a broad smile, then reached under the table, and brought out the "bit of rock" as he called it, set it on the table and presented it as a gift to the city.

He wanted it to be a lasting memory of the trip and he gave it in the same spirit in which the French government gave the United States the Statue of Liberty many years before.

In return the people of Plymouth, Mich., graciously accepted it and sent four locust trees across the seas to stand as a symbol of friendship on the government lawn.

NO SOONER had the visitors returned home than a move was started to display this original "bit of rock" from the famous English seaport. Finally, all the living mayors banded together and made possible the display and the ceremonies that have been held every Fourth of July morning since.

The rock is encased in glass and is a fitting symbol of what the late Mayor Houk suggested way back in 1966.

Each year since the British Consul or his helpmate has made the trip to our Plymouth and the ceremonies have become one of the strongest in the Sister Cities program.

To complete the gift to the British visitors, a bronze plaque and a bench were sent over to be part of the gift for the Plymouth, England city hall lawn. Since then, during the "rock" ceremonies, we hear from the British, telling us that on that day the Stars and Stripes wave over the government building and that the trees are in great shape.

Meanwhile a message is sent to England, telling of the ceremonies at the rock that are keeping alive the memory of the City of Plymouth centennial.

And it all happens because someone in the audience in city hall back in 1966, in a semi-serious mood, suggested that the Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England be invited to the centennial celebration.

The ceremonies now are a tradition that should live forever.

Middle school policy studied

An unconvinced Thomas countered, "there's an inconsistency of policy. If we're going to crack down, we should do it in one fell swoop."

The issue of police intervention merits reconsideration, said Cooper, who added that substance abuse among employees also ought to be addressed.

"We're no different than anyone else. The problem we'll find (most prevalent among staffers) is alcohol."

"But the impact on students is profound. It's both a health and an employment issue."

Elementary school students shouldn't be ignored either when it comes to substance abuse, an audience member said.

"If anyone thinks there's not the same problem at the elementary school level, they've got their head in the sand."

The board will clarify after the first posting whether the policy will go back to committee, Yack said. The second posting is scheduled for Monday, July 11.

Huron River best bet for canoe enthusiasts

While the Detroit River was ripped apart last weekend by thundering hydroplane racers, most Michigan rivers will be graced this summer by more tranquil forms of watercraft.

Perhaps the most popular is the canoe, the centuries-old mode of water transportation that affords its occupants a special communal experience with Michigan's natural beauty.

With its extensive network of lakes, rivers and streams, Michigan offers a range of canoeing adventures ranging from one or two hours to a week or more.

In southeastern Michigan, the 100-mile long Huron River winding through Wayne, Oakland, Livingston, Washtenaw and Monroe counties provides canoeing opportunities.

Seven of the metroparks operated by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority are located on the Huron River and permit canoeing. These include Kensington, Hudson Mills, Dexter-Huron, Delhi, Lower Huron, Willow and Oakwoods. Canoes are available for rent at most of the parks.

THE CLINTON River that traverses Macomb County also offers about 20 miles of canoeing through several state parks. These include Bloomer State Park No. 2 and the Rochester-Utica State Recreation Area. Canoe rentals are available.

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority publishes canoe maps of the Huron and Clinton rivers and makes them available free of charge. They may be obtained by writing Canoe Map, Dept. 0, c Metroparks, 3950 Penobscot Building, Detroit 48226. Persons who write should specify whether they want a map of the Huron River, the Clinton River or both. They must also enclose 20 cents in coin to cover the return postage.

More than 40 other Michigan rivers are considered well suited for canoeing. Most have campsites for those on overnight trips and many offer picturesque scenery, good fishing and canoe rentals.

In the lower peninsula, four of the most popular rivers are the Au Sable, with more than 200 miles of waterway, the Pere Marquette, the Pine and the Manistee.

In the Upper Peninsula, the Tahquamenon River takes canoeists by the scenic falls.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has a free guide to all the state's canoe liveries that may be obtained by writing Information Service Center, Department of Natural Resources, Box 30028, Lansing 48909.

THE DNR also suggests that interested persons contact the field office nearest the river they desire to canoe for specific information on river conditions.

Novice canoeists, particularly those who plan an overnight trip, are advised to pack light, use waterproof bags and stay with the canoe should it tip over.

Picnics, golf, hiking offered at nearby parks

SUMMER'S HOT WEATHER finally is upon us, but there's a way to battle the heat.

Oakland County's Parks and Recreation Commission offers a variety of activities at nine separate sites. Activities include camping, swimming, fishing, golf, picnicking, nature study and winter sports.

Three of the nine parks are day-use facilities that feature fun for the entire family. The remaining parks specialize with golf, tennis, a nature trail or a wave pool.

The three day-use facilities (Addison Oaks, Groveland Oaks and Independence Oaks) require vehicle entry permits. Price is $2.50 per vehicle per day for Oakland County residents. Non-residents pay $4. Annual permits also are available at $15 per vehicle for residents and $20 for non-residents.

Individual features of the parks are as follows:

ADDISON OAKS COUNTY PARK

Addison Oaks County Park is on W. Romeo Road (nine miles north of Rochester) in northeastern Oakland County. This 750-acre park combines rustic camping with the elegance of a Tudor-style conference center. Forests, lakes, and spring-fed ponds provide numerous recreational choices, including camping, swimming, picnicking, fishing, hiking, and nature study.

The colorful gardens of the conference center are the setting for many outdoor weddings. The Old English mansion provides an unusual location for banquets, dinner dances, receptions, and business meetings.

For winter recreation, Addison Oaks features 13 miles of snowmobile trails, as well as hills for sledding and lakes for ice fishing and ice skating. For more information, call 693-2432.

GLEN OAKS GOLF COURSE

Glen Oaks Golf Course on 13 Mile Road between Orchard Lake and Middlebelt roads, Farmington Hills, features rolling terrain and a stone clubhouse with newly renovated facilities. The 18-hole, par-70 course draws golfers of all abilities.

A stream traversing the entire course comes into play on five holes. Facilities are available for large banquets, wedding receptions, and golf outings. A new pro shop, lockers, and remodeled bar and grill room also are in the building. During the winter months, Glen Oaks Golf Course is utilized for cross country skiing. For more information, call 851-8356.

GROVELAND OAKS COUNTY PARK

Groveland Oaks County Park on Dixie Highway at Grange Hall, Holly, offers 650 campsites, a sandy beach, swimming lake and ponds. Campers can select from primitive and modern sites in the 200-acre park in northwest Oakland County.

Groveland's facilities include restrooms with hot showers and flush toilets, a supervised recreation program, boat and canoe rentals, a convenience store, and sanitary dump station. Picnic facilities for family group parties, and reunions feature tables and grills on the park's three islands surrounding Stewart Lake. The beach features a Rampage Water Coaster giving riders a 63-foot surf-bogging slide into the lake. For more information, call 634-9811.

INDEPENDENCE OAKS COUNTY PARK

Year-round recreational activity and a natural environment are featured at Independence Oaks, an 850-acre site surrounding Crooked Lake. It is on Sashabaw Road in Clarkston, 2 1/4 miles north of the I-75 expressway. The park's forests and meadows serve as a natural habitat for many forms of wildlife including deer, squirrels, and a wide variety of birds. Bass, pike, panfish, and many other species of fish are found in Crooked Lake.

Warm weather activities feature picnicking, fishing, swimming, group camping, and hiking. Docks and a boat ramp provide access to the lake. Boat rentals are available.

The Twin Chimneys Shelter, on the edge of Crooked Lake, may be rented for reunions, parties and weddings. Two additional shelters are available for rental by reservation.

In the winter, the park's nature paths become cross country ski trails. Ice fishing, ice skating, and hockey also are featured. Public-interpretive and outdoor education programs are provided at the park and in the schools by the Oakland County parks naturalist. For more information, call 625-0877.

RED OAKS GOLF COURSE

Red Oaks on John R Road near 12 Mile Road, Madison Heights, is an example of converting unusable land in one of the most densely populated areas of the county.

Government agencies helped transform the site of the Red Run Drain into a complete golfing center, including a nine-hole executive course with a practice putting green. For more information on the course, call 541-5030.

The driving range across John R provides year-round golfing with the recent addition of a heated, air-supported dome during the colder months. The inflatable dome provides a second level of tees in addition to the 25 ground-level stations to allow more golfers to use the range at one time. The golf dome is the first of its type in the country. For more information on the driving range, call 548-1857.

SPRINGFIELD OAKS COUNTY PARK

Springfield Oaks on Andersonville Road near Hall, Davisburg, hosts a variety of activities such as art shows, the annual Oakland County 4-H Fair and golf tournaments.

The Youth Activities Center is the focal point of the 270-acre recreational facility. The Youth Activities Center can accommodate parties, as well as exhibits and dances. It also provides a 25,000-square-foot arena for horse shows and open-air concerts. For more information on the center, call 625-8133.

Across Andersonville Road, the Shiawassee River serves as a backdrop for the 18-hole golf course. Springfield hosts several tournaments and invitations annually. A clubhouse with a panoramic view of the course includes a pro shop, cart rentals, and bar and grill room. For more information on the course, call 625-2540.

Our crazy weather has done crazy things to fishing. We'll find out just how crazy this Fourth of July weekend.

Like the farmer's crops, fishing has been about two or three weeks behind schedule all spring. At a time when the air is hot and you'd expect to find fish heading for the cool depths, many species are still spawning in the shallows.

Take, for example, the popular bluegill, that plentiful, colorful and tough panfish that is so game on light tackle and so tasty in the pan.

Not until mid- or late June did many bluegills head for the spawning beds. This weekend, you may still find them on shallow lake shelves guarding their nests.

Gills are easy to catch under such conditions. The males move first into the shallows and fan out a sandy hole shaped exactly like the saucer for a coffee cup. Later, the larger females move in to lay their eggs.

Bluegills are good parents who guard their nests from silt, big water bugs and larger fish. They are voraciously hungry from their work and will nail a gob of worm almost savagely. If they're not hungry, they may attack a black popper, rubber spider or wet fly just to protect their nests.

A good sportsman will resist the temptation to "clean out" a spawning area. It's not fair to take your limit in a single spot because you want to leave some to protect the nests and provide fun for later in the season.

HOT SPOTS ARE Kent Lake in Kensington Metropark and Graham Lake in the Bald Mountain Recreation Area of Oakland County. Belleville Lake in western Wayne County is a good producer of panfish and a few bass if the water isn't being ripped up by speedboats.

If walleyes are your favorite, Lake St. Clair a quarter-mile off the Selridge Access site is a producing spot. So is Brest Bay in Lake Erie off Sterling State Park.

Our party, however, had a bad experience at Sterling State Park early last Saturday morning. About 40 cars were lined up to launch boats. The DNR people were running the show well, but the progress was so slow that we had to give up and leave.

HURON-CLINTON Metroparks have a full range of nature center programs this weekend. Most are free, all require advance registration at the listed phone number, and all last 1 1/2-2 hours.

• "Nature by Bike," a five-mile tour, at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, July 3, at Kensington, 685-1561. Naturalist Mark Szabo will point out plants and animals. Provide your own bike.

• "Life in a Summer Field," a nature walk covering three fields, at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 3, at Kensington, 685-1561. Mark Szabo will discuss uses of field plants and their relationship to animal life.

• "Historical Kensington," a program and walk, at 10 a.m. Monday, July 4, at Kensington, 685-1561. Naturalist Bob Hotelling will lead the Aspen Trail walk to view former inhabitants.

• "Exploring a Pond," a look at aquatic animals, at 2 p.m. Monday, July 4, at Kensington, 685-1561. Naturalist Andy Retzloff will have nets and hand lenses available for your closer looks. You'll be in the water, so dress appropriately.

• "Voyager Canoe Hour," aboard the 18-passenger Huron Canoe, at 10 a.m., noon and 2 p.m. Sunday and Monday, July 3 and 4, at Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock, 697-9181. For this there is a $1 charge.

Guenther has served in many civic positions

(Part 3)

Harold Guenther's partnership with Sid Schwartz ended amicably in the late 1960s when Guenther decided to take an active interest in civic affairs in the Plymouth community.

One of the operations that came to Guenther was Plymouth Products Co., a maker of electrical insulators used by automotive companies.

Guenther's introduction to public office in Plymouth came in 1954 when Mayor Russell Daane appointed him to the City Commission.

Guenther was chairman of the Municipal Building Authority which had charge of the development and construction of Plymouth City Hall whose cornerstone was laid in 1954.

Harold and Geneva Guenther were married in Detroit in 1937. They have four sons. About a year ago, Harold turned the C.D. Sparling Co. over to the four boys, three of whom now run it.

GUENTHER HAS TAKEN part in several real estate investments in the Plymouth area, notably the remodeling (with other investors) of the old Markham air rifle building which he owned.

past & present

Sam Hudson

A few years ago, after a major overhaul, the old factory building became the home of the Plymouth Landing restaurant and of the local office of Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner and Smith.

Asked what his ambition was when he was a boy, Guenther quickly says, "I never had one." Then, after thinking about it, "But I've always thought I would have been good in church work, or in teaching."

He said he likes to be of service to people. "I have had the most satisfaction in life from that motive, not from the desire to make money."

Guenther always has liked Plymouth and says it will continue to thrive "as long as control is kept." He continues, "It is the strength of our local courts, our police department, our fire department and our department of public works that we are paying for. As long as they retain control, all will be well."

GUENTHER SAID HE and Geneva bought the old Wilcox homestead "because of its beauty and the history attached to it."

According to Gary Sieber, a local student of American architecture, the house is a well-preserved example of Greek Revival "vernacular style."

Sieber, who wrote a paper about the house, notes that the original front third of it rests on a stone foundation. The structure is of Michigan white pine and of mortise and tenon construction typical of the early 19th century.

Greek Revival architecture, sometimes attributed to Sir Christopher Wren, was popular in America from 1820 to 1860. American enthusiasm for the Greeks in their struggle for independence from the Turks is said to have been one influence in its rise.

Benjamin Latrobe, who was born in Yorkshire, England, but practiced architecture in the United States, was the leading exponent of the Greek Revival in this country.

The Guenther's remodeled their Greek Revival house in 1958. "Fortunately they maintained the style to be consistent with the original portion of the building," wrote Sieber.

Other buildings now on the property, but not originally part of the site, include a barn which the Guenther's had moved to the property at the corner of Main and Union streets.

There also is a small A-frame storage shed and a windmill which the Guenther's found in Rapid City, Mich. A smokehouse, which had been part of the original property, was torn down and removed.

The original house, whose exterior has remained basically unchanged, had a "Michigan basement" which allowed access to a coal chute and a small stove. In 1958 a full basement was dug and reinforced with concrete.

Both the house, inspired by the interest in classical Greece which prevailed in America in the early 19th century, and the young miner from Kansas, who came east to find a better job, have worn well in the chancy climate that prevails in the Wolverine State.

oral quarrel

Today's Oral Quarrel question is: Do you believe the $380 million allocated for aid to El Salvador is money well spent? The views of our readers follow:

"I don't think it's a good investment because I don't think they're ever going to be able to pay back nearly as much as $380 million. Maybe being our allies against communism may help, but I think that we should suppress that in other ways besides bribes. Thank you."

"No, I say live and let die."

"Yes I do. El Salvador, Nicaragua, and the other countries are on our back door, and if we don't protect our back door, then who else will? Also, we've got to protect our access to Mexican oil because our Middle East oil supplies may one day be hurt. Yes, the money is well spent, and there should be more money spent in the same area."

"Yes I do. We talk about freedom and liberty, and I say that we put our money where our mouth is. Thank you."

"No I don't. I believe that's a tremendous waste of money being used by the government of that country to kill their own citizens."

"Yes I do think it's well spent. If we don't stop them there how long do we wait until they get to New Mexico or to Texas? Thank you."

"Yes I do believe the money is well spent because the future defense budget of the United States will be higher if El Salvador falls."

"I believe that the El Salvadorian problem is a grave one; however, I don't believe it centralizes around El Salvador. As a veteran of the Vietnam War I believe that the central problem exists in Cuba. As of the U.S. News and World Report article I read recently, 96 percent of your Soviet military aid is going to two nations in this world - Vietnam and Cuba. If there is a military problem in Central America it basically began with the Cuban armed shipment as Mr. Pursell has described. In other words, to combat this problem, you must not start in the middle, you must start at the source and cut off armed shipments from Cuba."

"I think that $380 million is well spent and I think they should spend more in order to avoid spending three times as much in the future."

"No, I believe God helps those who help themselves."

"I believe God will help them out. They don't need our help."

"No I don't believe that (they) should take our money. I think we should spend it on unemployment of the United States instead of supporting other countries."

"No, I believe the U.S. policy in El Salvador is very unjust. I believe that the people of Central America, as well as El Salvador, have been suffering great hardships for many years - long before Cuban or Soviet influence was able to bring this about. The U.S. always chooses to back dictators then in the end regrets it and wonders what went wrong. I resent any of my money going to hurt innocent women, men, or children for the sake of U.S. corporate dollars. However, I am pleased that the newspaper brought up this question because so often Canton can only bury its head in the sand and worry about dust on roads, school lunch programs, or fights at township meetings."

"We certainly do not approve of the $380 million allotted for El Salvador. It is just absolutely insane to mention such a thing when here we are with the federal budget of several billion dollars in debt right as it is and the possibility of having to reduce Social Security. No, it just isn't good at all. We somehow always end up being the goat. Thank you."

SENSATIONAL SUMMER FRUIT SALADS FROM THE CALIFORNIA COUNTRYSIDE

The state of California is a land of contrast and variety... offering sunny beaches, majestic redwood forests and fields, orchards and groves brimming with a bounty of fresh produce.

Agriculture in the Golden State is considered one of the most diversified in the world with no one commodity dominating the state's farm economy. California leads the nation by a wide margin in the production of some 50 commercial crop and livestock commodities.

California-raised fruits and nuts account for more than 40 percent of the nation's cash farm receipts and vegetables account for about one third. Fruit, nut and vegetable crops cover more than 9 million acres of precious California countryside!

Among California's top commercial fruit and vegetable commodities are avocados, Bartlett pears, iceberg lettuce, nectarines, peaches and plums — all in season this summer, making them ideal for refreshing warm-weather meals. Not only do they perk up the simplest of dishes with unique flavor and color combinations, they also supply essential nutrients and fiber. They're all naturally low in sodium and of course, direct from the farm... unprocessed, unmilled and unspoiled.

Whether you have a special love for appetizers, salads, entrees or desserts, let these fresh fruits and vegetables from California take center stage this summer. Begin an elegant sit-down dinner with an equally elegant first course — California Prawn and Fruit Salad. Simply arrange steamed prawns, Bartlett pear and avocado slices on crisp iceberg lettuce wedges and drizzle a tangy mustard dressing over all.

Instead of the usual chef's salad fare for your next luncheon gathering, please your guests with a quick-to-fix Calypso Salad. Fill Bartlett pear and avocado halves with a tuna salad mixture and perch them around a mound of shredded iceberg lettuce. Top with a colorful arrangement of plum and peach slices and serve with a tangy plum dressing... a light and lovely meal!

Crazy about Mexican food, but ready for a new twist? Dazzle your family or friends with a fruity Tostada Salad dinner. Top crispy tortillas with shredded iceberg lettuce and cooked chicken. Arrange juicy peach slices over all and finish with a spoonful of creamy smooth avocado dressing and a dollop of sour cream. Offer some taco sauce for those who'd like to "zip up" their tostada and be sure to have enough of everything on hand for second helpings!

Light and refreshing desserts are a must for hot days and nights and here's one that's sure to bring the temperature down: Decoratively arrange Bartlett pear and plum wedges and avocado chunks over crunchy iceberg lettuce slices and top with scoops of super cold nectarine ice. It's that easy and that delicious!

Take a vacation from the hot stove and reap the flavorful, colorful and nutritional benefits of the California countryside. Summer-time fruit salads never looked or tasted so good!

TOSTADA SALAD

- 4 flour tortillas (8-inch diameter)
- Vegetable oil
- 2 cups shredded cooked chicken
- 1 can (15 ounces) tomato puree
- 2 teaspoons oregano
- 1 head iceberg lettuce, shredded
- 2 fresh peaches, sliced
- AVOCADO DRESSING, recipe follows
- Sour Cream
- Taco sauce, optional
- Diced green chiles, optional

Fry tortillas, one at a time, in hot oil (about 1/4-inch deep) a few seconds on each side, until crisp and golden. Drain on paper towels. Combine shredded chicken, tomato puree and oregano in a saucepan. Simmer 3 minutes to heat chicken through. Place each tortilla on a serving plate. Top with lettuce, chicken mixture, peach slices and Avocado Dressing. Dollop each with sour cream. Drizzle taco sauce and sprinkle diced green chiles over each salad, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

AVOCADO DRESSING

Peel, seed and mash 1 large ripe California avocado. (Should yield 1 cup puree.) Stir in 1/2 cup dairy sour cream, 1/3 cup milk, 1/4 cup diced green chiles, 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1/8 teaspoon cayenne and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Continue to stir until smooth.

ROYAL PEACH SALAD

- 2 cups cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup chopped almonds, divided usage
- 1/4 cup dark seedless raisins
- 4 to 6 cups shredded or torn iceberg lettuce
- 2 or 3 fresh peaches, cut into wedges
- 2 or 3 fresh Bartlett pears, cut into wedges
- 1 cup diagonally sliced celery
- CREAMY DRESSING, recipe follows

Combine cottage cheese, 1/4 cup chopped almonds and raisins. Line four individual salad plates with lettuce. Scoop cottage cheese mixture into the center of each plate. Alternate wedges of peaches and pears around cottage cheese. Sprinkle celery over each. Pour Creamy Dressing over salads and top each with 1 tablespoon of remaining chopped almonds. 4 servings.

CREAMY DRESSING

Combine 1/2 cup plain low-fat yogurt, 1/4 cup half-and-half and 1/3 cup (1/2 of 6-ounce can) thawed orange juice concentrate in blender jar. Whirl until smooth.

CALYPSO SALAD

- 2 cans (7 ounces each) tuna, drained and flaked
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 fresh Bartlett pears, halved and cored
- 2 ripe avocados, halved and seeded
- 1 or 2 heads iceberg lettuce
- 1 fresh plum, cut in wedges
- 1 fresh peach, cut in wedges
- PLUM DRESSING, recipe follows

Combine tuna, sour cream, thyme and lemon juice. Fill pear and avocado halves with tuna salad mixture. Line a platter with outer lettuce leaves. Shred enough lettuce to measure 2 quarts, mound onto lettuce leaves. Perch filled pear and avocado halves in a ring around lettuce, small ends facing center. Arrange plum and peach wedges over the top forming a radiating pattern. Garnish salad with minced parsley and twisted lime slices, if desired. Serve with Plum Dressing. 4 servings.

PLUM DRESSING

Slice 3 fresh California plums or enough to measure 1-1/4 cups. Place slices in blender jar, whirl until smooth. (Should yield 1 cup puree.) Stir in 2 teaspoons sugar and 2 teaspoons red wine vinegar, mix thoroughly.

CALIFORNIA PRAWN AND FRUIT SALAD

- 1/2 to 3/4 pound medium prawns
- 2 fresh Bartlett pears, halved, cored and cut into crosswise slices
- 2 ripe avocados, seeded, peeled and cut into crosswise slices
- 1 head iceberg lettuce, cut into 4 wedges
- MUSTARD GLAZE DRESSING, recipe follows

Steam prawns over small amount of water 3 to 4 minutes or until prawns turn pink. Cool and shell prawns, devein, if necessary. Place lettuce wedges on 4 individual salad plates; arrange prawns, pears and avocados on wedges. Spoon Mustard Glaze Dressing over each salad. 4 servings.

MUSTARD GLAZE DRESSING

Combine 3/4 cup sugar, 1/3 cup white wine vinegar, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 1-1/2 teaspoons dry mustard and 1 teaspoon salt in blender jar; whirl until smooth. Gradually add 1 cup vegetable oil; continue to whirl until thoroughly mixed. Stir in 1 tablespoon minced parsley and chill before serving.

NECTARINE ICE ON FRUIT SALAD

- 1 head iceberg lettuce, cut into rafts (crosswise slices) and halved
- 2 fresh Bartlett pears, cut into wedges
- 2 ripe avocados, seeded, peeled and cut into chunks
- 2 fresh plums, cut into wedges
- NECTARINE ICE, recipe follows

Place lettuce slices in a large shallow bowl, arrange pears, avocados and plums over lettuce. Top with Nectarine Ice and serve. 4 servings.

NECTARINE ICE

- 1 teaspoon plain gelatin
- 2 cups orange juice, divided usage
- 2 cups chopped fresh nectarines (about 4 large nectarines)
- 1 cup sugar

Soften gelatin in 1/4 cup orange juice; set aside. Combine nectarines, sugar and 1/4 cup orange juice in saucepan, bring to boil. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, about 3 minutes or until nectarines are soft. Blend gelatin into nectarine mixture, stirring until dissolved. Pour into blender jar, whirl until smooth. Stir in remaining 1-1/2 cups orange juice. Pour mixture into a shallow pan; freeze until firm. Cut ice into chunks and turn into a mixer bowl; beat until smooth. Return ice to freezer and freeze until firm. 1-1/2 quarts.

Celebrate National Ice Cream Week with a special pie

Sunday marks the beginning of National Ice Cream Week (July 10-16) and in the heat of summer it is a timely opportunity to celebrate one of America's favorite desserts.

Not only does ice cream taste good, it contains nutrients such as Vitamin A, riboflavin and thiamine that are good for you.

You can observe the occasion by going out and buying an ice cream cone (vanilla is still the most popular flavor, followed by chocolate, neapolitan, chocolate chip and strawberry) or you can create your own treats with the help of the chefs at Schuler's Restaurant & Pub in West Bloomfield and Rochester.

They created the following recipes which look as good as they taste.

PEPPERMINT RIBBON

ICE CREAM PIE Crust:
1 1/2 cups chocolate wafers
1/4 cup melted butter

Crush chocolate wafers fine. Combine chocolate wafers and melted butter. Butter a 9-inch pie tin. Place wafer mixture in pie tin and pat bottom and sides with mixture until firm. Yield: one 9-inch pie. The pie crust may be made a day ahead.

Filling:
2 lbs 6 oz peppermint ice cream
1 cup hot fudge

Put 1 lb., 3 oz. layer of peppermint stick ice cream on bottom of pie shell. Spread 1 cup of fudge on top of peppermint ice cream. Place remainder of peppermint ice cream on top of hot fudge. Ice cream should be higher in middle of tin and taper to edge of tin. Put in freezer to harden.

Meringue topping:
2 egg whites
1/4 tsp vanilla extract
1/4 tsp cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar

In a medium bowl, beat egg whites, vanilla and cream of tartar with electric mixer on high speed until soft peaks form. Gradually add sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Spread stiff meringue all over and around peppermint ice cream pie, covering entire surface. With rubber spatula, peak meringue. Pre-heat oven to 350°. Place meringued pie into oven on a 1-inch thick piece of board for browning the meringue — approximately 15-30 seconds. Put in freezer immediately upon taking out of oven.

Pie topping:
1 cup fudge
3 tbsp hot coffee

Heat hot fudge in double boiler. Add 3 tablespoons of hot coffee and mix well. Keep warm. When ready to serve, remove frozen pie from tin; place on cutting board; cut with large knife. Cut in 8 pieces. Ladle hot fudge over each piece of pie.

LEMON ICE CREAM PIE

Crust:
1 1/4 cups chocolate crumbs
1/2 cup melted margarine
Filling:
2 lbs 8 oz lemon ice cream

Combine chocolate crumbs and margarine. Pat into a 9-inch buttered pie tin. Chill. Mound lemon ice cream into crust. Put into freezer to harden.

Meringue topping:
2 egg whites
1/4 tsp vanilla extract
1/4 tsp cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar

In a medium bowl, beat egg whites, vanilla and cream of tartar with electric mixer on high speed until soft peaks form. Gradually add sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Spread stiff meringue all over and around lemon ice cream pie, covering entire surface. With rubber spatula, peak meringue. Pre-heat oven to 350°. Place meringued pie into oven on a 1-inch thick piece of board for browning the meringue — approximately 15-30 seconds. Put in freezer immediately upon taking out of oven. When ready to serve, remove frozen pie from tin; place on cutting board; cut with large knife. Cut in eight pieces.

CARAMEL ICE CREAM PIE

Crust:
1 egg white
1/4 tsp salt
1/4 cup sugar
1 1/4 cups medium chopped walnuts

Beat egg white with salt until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in sugar. Fold in chopped walnuts. Turn into 9-inch buttered pie tin with spoon, spread evenly on bottom and sides, but not rim. Bake at 400° for 10-12 minutes, then chill in freezer. Pie crusts may be made quite a bit ahead and stored in cooler.

Filling:
11 oz. vanilla ice cream
1 lb 13 oz coffee ice cream

First layer in shell is 1 lb 2 oz coffee ice cream. Then layer of 11 oz. vanilla ice cream. Top with final 11 oz of coffee ice cream, covering all the vanilla ice cream. Place in freezer.

Topping:
1 cup caramel sauce
2 tbsp chopped walnuts
2 tbsp coffee cream

Heat 1 cup of sauce and add 2 tablespoons chopped walnuts and 2 tablespoons of cream. Mix well. Keep warm.

When ready to serve, remove frozen pie from tin; place on cutting board; cut with large knife. Cut in 8 pieces. Ladle caramel sauce topping over each piece of pie. Yield: one 9-inch pie.

A perfect way to top off National Ice Cream Week is with a slice of this Caramel Ice Cream Pie featuring a topping made from caramel, chopped walnuts and coffee cream.

Chocolate wafers are the basis for the crust for this Peppermint Ribbon Ice Cream Pie created by the chefs at Schuler's Restaurant and Pub.

MEET THE NEW DOCTOR IN TOWN!

Hi, I'm
Dr. Clifton J. McLellan

Did you know that being certified as a chiropractor requires a minimum of six years of highly specialized college training?

Today's Doctor of Chiropractic must complete 4,428 hours of classroom instruction and a rigid chiropractic board examination. In most states, continuing educational seminars must be completed for annual license renewal.

In addition, I have completed courses in X-ray Diagnosis, and Orthopedic and Neurologic evaluation. I hold degrees in Biology from Humboldt State University and Doctor of Chiropractic from Palmer College of Chiropractic. Post graduate studies include two years as an intern at the famed Five Points Chiropractic Clinic of Davenport, Iowa.

While in college, I was included in "Who's Who, Among American College Students," and most recently was nominated to Outstanding Young Americans. To further my continuing education, I have recently received special training in the Gonstead Technique, and Spinal Thermography from Mt. Horeb, Wisconsin.

This is the kind of training and professionalism I offer you. If you have hesitated visiting a chiropractor, perhaps you didn't know that some chiropractors go to such great lengths to continue their education and provide you with the latest techniques and the most qualified service. So you see, what you don't know, can't help you. Call me today and let me help you.

Did you know that the symptoms most commonly treated by chiropractors are:

Headaches	Neck Pain	Dizziness
Shoulder Pain	Pain lower Back	Numbness
Arm Pain	Lower Neck Pain	Muscle Spasms
Hip Pain	Pain Down Legs	Feet Problems

To introduce you to the healing world of Chiropractic, please accept my special offer:

AMONG THE letters received by the Plymouth High School class of 1933 at their 50-year reunion was one written by Clella Smith, widow of George A. Smith, former superintendent of the Plymouth Schools. Kathleen Ford Micol read the letter at the reunion for Smith.

Somehow, it deserves an even wider readership. She wrote: "First, thank you for inviting me to meet with you for the 50th reunion of this class. It's wonderful for you to get together and reminisce. Someone has spent hours, weeks, years organizing all the material to make this reunion possible. I know you have come from homes near and far — many from other states. Welcome back to Plymouth."

"I want to talk to you for just a few minutes about Mr. Smith and myself. Mr. Smith had a very interesting life. A few of you may have known some of this but forgotten, but most have never known about his life.

"He was born in Morenci, near the Ohio line, but they soon moved to Ecorse. His father was ship-builder at the Wyandotte Ship Yards. He became an orphan when he was only 5 years old. He and his older brother and sister were placed in the Orphans' School at Coldwater. He was so fortunate, for after about two years, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson came to visit the school. They were looking for a little boy to come and live with them and go to the school nearby. Later, he helped on their farm summers, and went to high school only winters. He kept up with his class and graduated with them from Hanover High School.

"FROM THERE HE went to Ypsilanti to prepare for teaching. He played on the football team, and enjoyed his college life. He did have to work his way through to pay his expenses. His first job was in the schools around Jackson, including Albion. Here he taught part time and coached athletics part time. Football was his favorite sport.

"Later, he took his first job as superintendent of schools in Stockbridge, then Manchester, then Plymouth, where he stayed for 25 years.

"During these years many opportunities opened up. The first thing he did was go to night school and summer school at the University of Michigan to get his master's degree, which he did, with honors. Later, two governors appointed him to the board of control for four educational institutions: The School for the Blind, Lansing; the School for the Deaf, Flint; the Blind Employment, Saginaw; and the Orphan School at Coldwater (where he had lived as a child.)

"He was also elected president of the Michigan Education Association. This was a two-day session at Cass Technical High School, Detroit. One of their speakers was Amelia Earhart. It was her last public appearance before she took that fatal journey.

"Mr. Smith was the first president of Plymouth Rotary and the first district governor from Plymouth. Because of this, he was sent to the Rotary International meeting, which was one week in Sun Valley, Idaho, and one week in San Francisco. All nations were represented there except Russia and China. Maybe you are wondering how he could manage so many board meetings. It was the very dependable principals and teachers in the Plymouth Public Schools who made it possible. Mr. Smith always gave Mrs. Thompson (Aunt Josie) the credit for guiding him from a little orphan boy to a superintendent of schools.

"I think Mr. Smith appreciated most the honor of having the first new school built be given his name. This school was dedicated in February 1931. He was not well then, but able to be there and meet his friends, from near and far. He passed away July 1, 1951. He told me many times, 'No large stone for me at Riverside for my school is my monument.'"

SHE WENT ON TO SAY: "As for me, my life has been interesting too. Being a life partner of Mr. Smith, I have met a great many wonderful people and seen many interesting places. For the last 4 1/2 years, I have been living at the Presbyterian Village of Detroit; it is the next thing to a real home. It wasn't easy to pull up stakes in Plymouth, but there comes a time."

Ernie Archer (left) was vice president and Kenneth Greer was president of the PHS Class of '33.

PHS grads of '33 mark 50-year class reunion

Plymouth High School Class of 1933 marked its 50th anniversary with a reunion in the Plymouth Elks Club. The 135 celebrants who attended the party were classmates, spouses, former teachers and special guests.

Blue and white, the old school colors, were used in the decorations, and bud vases of roses added color to the tables. They dined on prime rib, chicken or scrod at the sit-down dinner. But they primarily were interested in conversation — and talk they did.

Eighty-eight students graduated in '33; 18 have died; and four were untraceable. Phila Ferguson Baldwin, Ernie Archer, Doris Cole Avis, Alice Pottiff Lalbrand, Howard Schryer and Vera Woods started planning the reunion more than a year ago.

There were letters of congratulations from President Ronald Reagan and Nancy, former President Gerald R.

Ford, Gov. James Blanchard, and U.S. Congressman Carl Pursell. Good wishes also were read from classmates unable to attend the party.

SPECIAL GUESTS were Mrs. George A. Smith, whose husband was superintendent of schools in the '30s; Norma Cassady, who had been toast-mistress of their alumni banquet when they graduated; and Grace Burley. Burley, whose son, Herb, was a classmate, was referred to as "our den mother."

Former teachers in attendance were: Helen Stevens, English; Luella Kees Miller, physical education; Gertrude Fiegel, history and geography; James Lature, public speaking; Carvel Bentley, home room; Nancy Holliday Tanager, grade school; and Irene Waldorf, who came in the fall after they graduated.

Kenneth Greer was master of ceremonies. The "Academy Awards" winners were announced by Vera Cousino.

Kathleen Grey Ranger, who lives in the mountains of Oregon, came the longest distance for the reunion, 3,411 miles. Classmate Lorraine Bailey Cox-dill had been married for 50 years, longer than anyone else in the class. The Coxdills now live in California and Northville. Margaret Cline Will was tops in the most children category with eight.

She and Margory Hix Monteith tied for most grandchildren honors. Each has 14. And Alice Lalbrand was given a prize for being the only classmate to have twins.

Reminiscing and dancing in the ballroom continued until after 2 a.m.

Renee Williams presented a shiny red apple to Mrs. George A. Smith, widow of the superintendent of schools in 1933. Former teachers and guests were presented as Elma Santa serenaded them on the accordion to old tunes such as "An Apple for the Teacher."

Austrian troupe plans an Angel Tribute Night

Curtain time will be 8 p.m. Friday in Eastern Michigan University's Quirk Theater. It will be Theatre Angel Tribute Night when the Centennial Educational Park drama department thanks those who made possible their trip to the international film festival in Austria.

Residents of the Plymouth-Canton Community are invited to see "Feiffer's People" as it was performed in Villach; see a slide presentation of the troupe's Austrian adventure; witness the presentation of the patron awards; and join the wine and cheese reception after the performance.

Donation for Angel Night is a tax-deductible $10. Group rates are available. For information, call 729-9332.

THE COMMUNICATION and Theatre Arts Department at E.M.U. is arranging the gala event to honor the angels and the work of one of its alumnae, Gloria Logan. Her drama students were the first high school troupe to be invited to the international festival.

Tribute Night is for angels: Plymouth Community Arts Council, Community Federal Credit Union, Dr. Adello Pamatmat, Ed Drangelis, Geneva's of Plymouth, Kal and Julie Jabara, Kalal and Bernadette Eshokl, Esther Hulsing, Magic Lanterns Productions Inc., Northland Container Corp., Charter Township of Plymouth, Joe Williams of Burrough's Corp., Doug Montgomery of Valente's Formal Wear, Observer Newspapers and the Mayflower Hotel.

tional Spectra Drama Festival. Gloria Logan, who sponsored the players along with his wife, Gloria, was the photographer.

NBA surprise: Gonzalez taken

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Tim Andree and Rob Gonzalez have a lot in common. Both are products of the Detroit Catholic League basketball program. Both enjoyed fabulous prep careers that had college scouts drooling and sports writers searching for adjectives. Both wore can't-miss labels to major colleges, where amateur stardom would be but a stepping stone to pro stardom in the National Basketball Association.

There's more in common: While neither exactly flopped, Gonzalez and Andree hardly lived up to their prep billing. Gonzalez barely played in his freshman and sophomore years at Michigan State, where his label changed from "can't-miss" to "too-slow." He finally transferred to Colorado, sat out a year, then played steadily but unspectacularly his last two seasons. Andree moved into Notre Dame's starting lineup as a freshman, but by the time he was a senior he was second string. Critics said he, too, was too slow; he averaged but 2 1/2 points a game as a senior and in 27 games totaled exactly one — count 'em, one — assist.

PRO CAREERS? What once seemed a certainty, at least to them, if not their legions of prep fans, had become a seeming impossibility. Gonzalez averaged 16 points a game at Colorado, but he was just 6-foot-7 with only average jumping ability. As for Andree? Well, if he couldn't start at Notre Dame, if he could average but 2.5 points a game, if he could manage one measly assist in 27 games...

So it should come as no surprise that what happened Tuesday came as very much of a surprise to both Andree and Gonzalez, who got to share yet another thing in common: They both were selected in the NBA draft, Andree early in the fifth round by the Chicago Bulls and Gonzalez early in the seventh round by the Detroit Pistons.

You can call them slow. You can call them bad jumpers. Call them what you will. The only calls Gonzalez and Andree cared about last week were the calls they got from the teams asking them if they'd be interested in a career as professional basketball players.

ANDREE WAS STUNNED at going in round five. (Though round five is considerably better than, say, round 16 and indicates the Bulls think he has potential, it is rare for picks lower than round three to make an NBA team. The draft becomes a lottery, parceling out chances to the participating teams; the player selected just ahead of Andree was one Mamute Bol of The Sudan, who, though not well versed in high-fives, is 7 feet 6 inches tall according to rumor.)

"I thought I'd probably get drafted, just on my size," said Andree, who is 6 feet 10, "but I was surprised I went that high."

Andree, a deft scorer in high school with a wondrous outside touch, defended his lack of scoring stats during his college career and insisted he is a better player than people think. "There were no personal problems between him (Digger Phelps, Notre Dame coach) and me. We just had very different ideas. I'm a team player, and I obey the coach. I accepted a role I didn't appreciate."

"FOR THREE YEARS I was a starter with a non-offensive role. I rebounded, set screens. I wasn't supposed to shoot... The center at Notre Dame generally is not a big scorer just because of the offense we run. Look at Bill Laimbeer (the Pistons' center). When he graduated from Notre Dame, nobody thought he'd make it in the NBA, let alone become an All-Star. That's inspiration for me. I'm not saying that's going to happen to me, but it keeps me working hard."

"Hey, I've been through a lot of frustration. When I came out of Brother Rice, I was the greatest thing since sliced bread. It took me a while to get used to the idea that I (wasn't a star), that I might not go in the first round. But my family, friends and coaches at Notre Dame stayed behind me, and I worked hard, and it's all paying off."

The NBA draft isn't the only good thing happening in basketball for Andree, who returned last week from a tour of Spain, where 12 Americans played five games against local teams: Andree averaged 18 points a game and was offered a contract by the Barcelona team for next season.

"We're negotiating," added Andree. "It's for between $45,000 and $65,000 a year. So if the NBA doesn't work out, I'll still have a very good playing job. It's been a good week."

It's a long shot for Rob Gonzalez, but the ex-Catholic Central star hopes to sneak into the NBA with the Detroit Pistons, who drafted the University of Colorado graduate in the seventh round.

Kroll triple gives MNB bat victory

Kevin Kroll's two-run triple in the fourth inning helped Michigan National Bank score a 7-3 victory last week over Livonia Adray in a Livonia Collegiate baseball game at Ford Field.

Kroll finished with two hits as did teammates Clint Scollard and Ron Peterson.

Jeff Gatt and Greg Kuzis both went 2-for-3 in a losing cause for Adray, which slipped to third place behind Wendy's of Ann Arbor.

Pat Martin, a 6-foot-5 right-hander, pitched the first six innings before getting relief help from Pat Coutway. The two combined on a seven-hitter.

Greg Everson, who went the distance and struck out seven, took the loss.

FIRST-PLACE Redford-Westland Adray flattened Walter's Appliance in the second game Wednesday at Ford Field, 4-1.

Kevin Stanis led the assault with a two-run homer in the third inning followed by an RBI double.

Mike Williamson and John Hekowski added two hits each for Redford-Westland, which got its 12th win.

Charlie Johnson, who worked six innings and scattered five hits, was the winning pitcher. He got relief help from Ken Vermeulen.

The losing pitcher was Curt Boyce.

WENDY'S, meanwhile, used a three-run homer from catcher Mike Barger to beat Garden City in a five-inning, mercy-rule-shortened game, 16-2.

First baseman Nolan Frederick also had a big night, hitting a single, double and triple for two RBIs. Designated hitter Mike Krauss rapped a solo homer for Garden City.

Dan Tores, recently acquired by coach Brian Lang, was the winning pitcher.

Redford wrestler is Midwest champ

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Jason Wiebeck is a skinny, little kid, a 105-pounder who looks like he should be sitting on a beach waiting for buccies to kick sand in his face.

Instead, he travels the country knocking people on their rears, pinning their shoulders to the ground, putting one hold on them after another and generally turning them every which way but loose.

If you doubt that, ask his opponent in the freestyle wrestling finals at last weekend's regional Junior Olympics in Indianapolis. With the title on the line and a gold medal at stake, Jason raced out, swarmed his foe and had him on his back and pinned within 20 seconds.

Jason Wiebeck
gold medalist

That gold went nicely with a silver medal Jason won in the same meet for finishing second in Greco-Roman wrestling. (In Greco-Roman, all the moves and holds are above the waist.)

Golds are nothing new to Jason. He was the Amateur Athletic Union's state champion last year and the AAU Midwest zone titlist in Ohio three weeks ago.

"His goal," said proud pop Jerry, "is to wrestle in the Olympics and pin everyone he faces."

SINCE JASON is just 14, he will have to wait until at least 1988 to wrestle in the Olympics. Closer to home, in time and distance, is his upcoming career at Catholic Central. A Redford Township native, Wiebeck will be a freshman at CC this fall, where he will join a program that won the state Class A wrestling title last year.

Mike Rodriguez, Central's wrestling coach, won't have to worry about Wiebeck's dedication.

"I lift weights an hour every day," said Jason, who has been wrestling competitively for six years. "And I run an hour every day and work out two hours on my wrestling. Oh, yeah, and a half-hour on the body bag."

FOUR and a half hours a day? "A lot of days it's more than that," said his father, who wrestled as a heavyweight for Thurston before graduating in 1963.

All year round? "Yep," said Jason proudly.

Jason wrestles for the Michigan Wrestling Club and for Team Michigan, an AAU team sponsored by Compuware. Though quiet and shy, he admits to being a tiger on the mat. "Most of his wins are by pins or else he points them out," said his dad. When a wrestler goes 15 points up on his opponent, the match is ended; that's how you "point them out."

U-M sports camps lets kids develop skills

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

If the neighborhood seems devoid of youngsters at various times throughout this long, hot summer, don't sweat it. The kids are probably in Ann Arbor becoming champions.

The University of Michigan summer "Camps of Champions" have been stealing youngsters away from neighborhoods across the state and throughout the Midwest with increasing regularity. And you won't hear anybody complaining about it — not the parents, not the university, and certainly not the kids.

From June 12 through Aug. 12, U-M offers 17 separate, one-week sports camps for boys and girls ages 10 through 18. Camps are offered in baseball, men's and women's basketball, cheerleading, field hockey, golf, gymnastics, ice hockey, soccer, softball, athletic trainers (sports medicine), swimming, tennis, track and field, volleyball, wrestling, and football.

THESE CAMPS are run by college coaches, most from the University of Michigan. For example, U-M baseball coach Bud Middaugh runs the baseball camp. U-M assistant football coach Gary Moeller runs the football camp. Head basketball coach Bill Frieder runs the basketball camp for boys and women's head coach Gloria Soluk runs the girls' hoop camp. You get the idea.

It would be difficult to find better instruction.

Nearly 20,000 youngsters have participated in the camps in their three-year history. This year, the camps expect to draw some 6,700 kids.

"You know what makes the Camps of Champions special?" said Don Triveline, U-M's director of marketing and promotions who is the founder and overseer of the camps. "Not only do the campers get outstanding training in their sport, but they get to experience first-hand what it's like to attend a university. They live on campus, eat dorm food... It answers a lot of questions they might have about going to college."

CAMPERS CAN STAY on campus or commute from home. When they stay in Ann Arbor, the campers are housed in the South Quad dormitories and receive three meals a day, one meal on Sunday and Friday.

The average day for a camper is lightly structured. Here's a brief look at a camper's day:

- 7:15 a.m. — Wake up.
- 7:30-8:30 a.m. — Breakfast.
- 9-11 a.m. — First instructional period.
- 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. — Lunch.
- 1-3 p.m. — Second instructional period.
- 3-5 p.m. — Structured free time (swim, sight see, shop, work on sports skills).
- 5-6:15 p.m. — Dinner.
- 7-9 p.m. — Third instructional period.
- 9-11 p.m. — Open recreation, structured free time.
- 11 p.m. — Lights out.

"Mom and dad always worry about supervision," said Triveline. "But, we make sure the kids are taken care of. We make sure that all but eight hours of their time is taken up, and that eight hours is for sleep. We care for their kids. We do our best to give their kids a good athletic, educational and social experience."

A CAMP COUNSELOR, or director, is assigned to each group of campers. They are with them at all times. Triveline said that in the history of the Camps of Champs there has never been a discipline or supervision problem.

"The kids seem to really enjoy the camp. They always tell me it's like going to college for a week. They say they learned a lot and they all say the food is bad. But, they keep coming back," Triveline said.

As beneficial as the Camps of Champs have been for area youngsters, they have been even more so for the University of Michigan. Besides creating numerous summer jobs, promoting the Ann Arbor economy, increasing housing profits, and promoting the university to 20,000 potential students, the Camps of Champs have managed to increase profits by more than 50 percent in each of their three years. This year, Triveline expects the summer camps to bring in about $100,000 profit.

"It's definitely a two-way deal," Triveline said. "The campers get one week of being a college student, one week of top-notch college instruction. They meet new friends, they live, eat, and train with others which is a valuable experience for a kid."

"And we get a chance to promote the university, promote the Ann Arbor community and to create employment," he said.

It has been said that champions are made not born. There are 11 open sports camps at the U-M Camps of Champions (see chart), so mom and dad, there is still time to make a champion out of your kid. Call Triveline at (313) 763-6767 for registration details.

'84 Olympic sport? Brunswick hopes so

A nationwide drive is now underway to make bowling part of the 1984 Olympic Games.

Knowing that bowling is a worldwide sport with major leagues in almost every country, the Brunswick Co., in conjunction with the Bowling Proprietors Association of America, is asking bowlers across the land to sign a petition requesting recognition. At a proprietors convention last week in Miami, Fla., more than 100,000 signatures were filed with the drive expected to go well above that number.

If the Olympic committee fails to place bowling on the regular program, petitions would ask that bowling be put on the program as an invitational display. The exhibition would be a forward to a 1988 bid.

Once before, in 1934, bowling was on the Olympic program as a feature. That year, Joe Norris took the Stroh team to Berlin, Germany, making a great showing. But that is as far as the drive went. With the eruption of World War II, bowling has been an Olympic outcast ever since.

BILL SPRAY, an ardent member of the best-ball doubles circuit at Merri-Bowl Lanes in Livonia, reached the goal for which he has aimed ever since he took up the game. He found the pocket for a perfect game — an actual pin count in the best-ball affair.

In the pocket by W.W. Edgar

COMPETITION was keen, as usual, in the trio league at Bel-Aire Lanes.

When the firing ceased, Tony Banks was top man with a 902 series gained on games of 248, 247, 180 and 230.

Bob Caffese was next in line with an 880. He was followed by Frank Hurtig (849), Tom Highly (839) and Berry Van Dyke (836).

MIKE LEE, a member of the area's top all-star teams, top the list of averages in summer competition at Wonderland Lanes. He posted a 704.

Lee was five pins better than Johnny Kinnick, whose score was posted as the teams awaited the reopening of the lanes after its annual sanding.

Expos increase lead

The front-running Expos got a pair of three-run home runs from Keith Howe Thursday night to outpace the Three Kays Round, 18-10, in a Garden City Class A Invitational League game at Garden City Park.

Bob Fenech added a solo home run and a sacrifice fly, and Dennis Metzner chipped in with a two-run dinger as the Expos scored early and often. Herb McManaway added two hits in two at bats and had a run batted in, and Dave Lutz had two RBIs.

The win boosted the Expos to 3-3 on the season, a game and a half ahead of both A&K Electric and Warrick Clutch. Three Kays fell to 6-4, good for sixth place in the eight-team league.

Joe Drabik came out of the bullpen for the win, pitching 2 1/2 innings and allowing no hits and two walks while striking out four. John Henshaw, the second of four Kays pitchers, took the loss.

Mike Franks led Three Kays with a solo home run and three RBIs, and Jim Remington added a solo homer and two runs batted in.

The Expos had 10 hits in all, while Three Kays managed eight safeties.

In other action Thursday, Beach-Daly Clinic boosted its record to 5-3 with a 7-4 win over the hapless Runners, who fell to 0-13 on the season. The Runners trail the Gangsters by 2 1/2 games in the battle to avoid the cellar.

The game had been slated for Garden City Park but was moved to the high school because of a scheduling conflict involving the American Legion league.

Oasis remains unbeaten

Oasis Golf Center ran its Livonia Women's Fast-pitch softball record to 4-0 last week by defeating Livonia Florist, a team comprised primarily of district champion Stevenson High School, 6-0, at Bi-Centennial Park.

Oasis' Shelley Larned got the best in a pitching duel with Livonia's Lisa Bokovoy.

The two held their respective opponents scoreless until the sixth inning.

That's when Oasis exploded for five runs. Linda Jimenez opened the sixth with a single. That was followed by another single by Julie Stafford. Jan Boyd then reached base safely on an error to load the bases.

Joanne Pachiva broke the scoreless deadlock with an RBI single. Another run came home on an error. Vickie Forest also added a base hit, scoring Boyd, to make it 3-0.

Allison Cole then capped the scoring in the sixth with a single to left-center field, scoring both Sommerville and Forest.

Oasis added its sixth and final run in the seventh when Jimenez singled and later scored on Stafford's second hit of the game.

Soccer classic tickets on sale

Come and see the stars in action. The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, in cooperation with Livonia Public Schools, will sponsor the Prep Girls' Soccer Classic at 11:30 a.m. Saturday at Livonia Stevenson High School. The event will pit members of O&E's All-Area team from Wayne County against the stars from Oakland County. Noreen Divens, coach of the state champions from Stevenson, will direct the Wayne team, while Mike Ruddy, coach of regional champion Troy High School, will guide the Oakland squad.

Admission is $1. Advanced ticket sales are available at the Observer offices in Livonia (on the corner of Levan and Schoolcraft) and the Eccentric offices in Birmingham (on Bowers, off Adams and south of Maple).

Tickets also will be sold at the gate on game day. Stevenson High School is at 33500 W. Six Mile, west of Farmington Road, Livonia.

Gonzalez thrilled at Pistons' call

IT WAS A GOOD week for Gonzalez, too. "It was a surprise to me," beamed Gonzalez, a Catholic Central grad, from his Livonia home. "Very pleasant, very pleasant. It's a great organization, and it's great to be with them." Gonzalez, who graduated with a teaching certificate in physical education, has been playing at Detroit's St. Cecilia, the Mecca of local basketball. "I've been running and jogging and lifting weights," said Gonzalez, who is well aware that the rap against him is that he is slow. "I've been working on my ball handling, going one-on-one full court with guards. And I've been working on my speed. I've lost a lot of weight. I'm down to 200 from 220."

A close-to-maniac Robin Williams gets tied up to keep him out of trouble in "The Survivors."

the movies
Louise Snider

Comic co-stars turn into losers in 'Survivors'

One look at Walter Matthau's jowls, whatever the expression, one listen to Robin Williams' blitzkrieg speech, whatever the words, and you're going to laugh, whatever the situation. These two qualities are the primary assets of "The Survivors" (R). In fact, they are the only assets, and they aren't enough to sustain a movie for one hour and 40 minutes. But that is what they must do because of Michael Ritchie's loose direction and Michael Leeson's woefully weak script.

The movie begins with a brisk sequence of scenes suggesting a biting but comic approach to contemporary social problems. Within the first 15 minutes, Williams, as Donald, a dental supplies salesman, is fired from his job by a parrot (the boss doesn't like the trauma of firing employees), threatened by a gun-wielding secretary, rudely treated at the unemployment center and threatened again, this time by a robber at a lunch counter.

MATTHAU, AS SONNY, a gas-station owner forced out of business, has similar unnerving and frustrating experiences. His interview with a sari-clad social worker as he applies for unemployment benefits is a comic highlight of the film. Afterwards, he and Donald meet at the lunch counter where they are thrown together by their resistance to the attempted robbery.

From this point on, the movie loses much of its pungency and focus as it spins off in several directions, none of which develops the original theme of the two men coping with unemployment. "The Survivors" then digresses into confrontations between the gunman (country singer Jerry Reed) and Sonny, and the gunman in pursuit of Donald, for no reason which makes any sense.

Meanwhile, Donald has become overwhelmingly paranoid. He has armed himself to the teeth and abandoned his urban life for a military-style survival-training program and condo in Vermont.

Occasional flashes of bright dialogue make this unstructured film bearable, as when Donald, trying to convince his fiancée of the need for weapons, asks her, "What are you going to do when they break down the door? Stun 'em with your good taste?"

But more often than not, Ritchie allows the manic to overrun the comic. The result is disastrous because Donald really seems mentally ill, and that's not funny.

IT IS STILL ANOTHER example of how incoherent a film this is. You can't tell the plot from the subplots, the important from the trivial. Nor do the characters mesh. Jerry Reed does a clean-cut, capable job as the gunman, but Matthau and Williams, who should make a wildly comic duo, never click as a team. Each actor seems too engrossed in his own comic devices — be they basset-hound looks or off-the-wall dialogue — to respond to the other.

This lack of responsiveness between characters, added to the general unstructured and rambling nature of "The Survivors," places its survival seriously in doubt.

Williams and Walter Matthau both lose their jobs and band together to survive, but the plot's more furious than funny.

Jerry Reed is an unemployed hitman looking for work who tries armed robbery.

what's at the movies

BREATHLESS (R). Richard Gere and Valerie Kaprisky are passionate lovers running from the police after Gere kills a policeman in this remake of the Jean-Luc Goddard classic 1960 film, "A Bout de Souffle."

FLASHDANCE (R). A determined young woman works as a welder by day and a dancer by night. Movie doesn't make too much sense but the dancing makes a terrific impact.

OCTOPUSSY (PG). Roger Moore is again the dapper Agent 007 as he goes to India to crack an international jewel-smuggling operation in this 13th James Bond adventure. Also with Mand Adams.

PORKY'S — THE NEXT DAY (R). Raunchy gang members from Angel Beach High School tangle with school administrators, corrupt officials and their own active libidos.

PSYCHO II (R). After 22 years in a mental hospital, Norman Bates (Anthony Perkins) returns to reopen the Bates Motel. Vera Miles, of the original cast, also returns in this sequel to Hitchcock's chiller.

RETURN OF THE JEDI (PG). Third chapter in the middle section of George Lucas' "Star Wars" trilogy. With Luke Skywalker, Hans Solo, Princess Leia and other characters from the previous films as the Rebel Alliance battles Darth Vader and the forces of the Empire.

SUPERMAN III (PG). Action, comedy and romance are on tap as Superman (Christopher Reeve) and Lois Lane (Margot Kidder) battle an evil entrepreneur and a computer genius. Cast also includes Richard Pryor, Robert Vaughn and Amette O'Toole.

TRADING PLACES (R). What happens when Dan Aykroyd, a wealthy executive, meets up with Eddie Murphy, a poor kid from the ghetto?

LA TRAVIATA (G). Franco Zeffirelli wrote, designed and directed this sumptuous version of Verdi's opera with opera stars Teresa Stratas, Placido Domingo and Cornell MacNeil.

TWILIGHT ZONE (PG). Four uncanny and bizarre stories inspired by Rod Serling's vintage television series. The episodes are directed by four different directors, one of whom is Steven Spielberg.
