City, township approve 2-year cop extension

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The police contract issue between Plymouth and Plymouth Township has been settled — at least for two years.

The township will continue to contract services from the city, while both governments consider and implement improvements to the shared department.

In separate actions Tuesday night, the city commission and township board approved an amendment to the contract which will provide shared services for two years at a fixed cost of $467,000 per year.

The agreement provides an annual credit of $30,000 to the township to cover the costs of a township police chief. Currently both municipalities split the police chief's salary.

The new township police chief will function as a liaison to the city, as well as working as an assistant to the township supervisor in coordinating the contract.

"We need a person who is a certified police officer to work with the contract and in the area of police services," Supervisor Maurice Breen said.

"Until now the township did not have in our employ someone in police personnel to follow up on matters which need follow-up," Breen said.

THE TOWNSHIP chief also will work on information-gathering projects to help determine the future of police services in the Plymouth community.

In addition to creating the township chief's position, the two-year agreement calls for a minimum staffing level of 19 certified officers and a three- to seven-minute response time as the standard for judging performance.

"If that's not met, we'll have to talk to the township about what's wrong. You need something to measure your performance by to avoid mediocrity," City Manager Henry Graper said.

Officials from both communities said the two-year agreement was needed for stability in preparing budgets, especially because the township's fiscal year ends in December and the city's fiscal year ends in June.

The agreement brings an end to speculation that the township was going to start its own department by this fall.

However, the new police chief's position enables the township to implement the increased use of auxiliary and volunteer police support groups which were discussed.

"This agreement allows the township to expand the use of the auxiliary force and possibly use some part-time, non-sworn officers for accident and break-in and entering reports," Graper said.

"The township eventually will be able to offer us some services we'll want to contract for. This contract renewal can be a basis for working back and forth on shared services," Graper said.

AT THE SAME time the contract renewal was hammered out, the city administration sought concessions from the police officers union to insure a reduced operating cost for the department.

The union and city haven't reached agreement on the concessions, although those talks are planned to continue.

"If the union is not willing to make any movement within the next two years, then it will be most difficult to negotiate a renewal with Plymouth Township," Graper said.

Despite the lack of agreement with the union, Graper plans to initiate an eight-hour work day for the police officers. They currently work 10-hour days, which the city claims creates more overtime pay.

"I will implement the eight-hour day in two weeks and we'll probably go to court, but I believe the city has a 70-30 chance of winning," he said.

The police officers union has vowed to fight the eight-hour day by seeking a court injunction against the city if it is implemented.

"The newspapers have published a lot of what may be news, but it might cost the taxpayers a lot of money," Graper said.

"We never knew what the newspapers were going to say or when. The union was well advised and knew as much as we did on talks with the township. That hurt us in negotiations," he said.

"In two years the union will be facing a new contract and the situation will be different then. In two years we'll make progress when the contract is up, or we'll go to arbitration," he said.

UNION OFFICIALS said the city wanted the police officers to subsidize the township contract out of their pockets. The union offered a package of concessions which the city didn't accept — due to a 10-hour day clause.

Breen said the township was caught in the middle of the union negotiations and the two-year agreement with the city would end that predicament.

He also said the quality of the service received from the city wasn't the issue which brought the contract into question. "That has never been an issue, and never will be an issue," he said.

The rising costs of the service was the factor which brought the service into question, he said.

A child's favorite

One of a child's favorite entries in any parade is when the fire engines drive by with sirens wailing. Remember? Monday was no different in Plymouth, where youngsters enjoyed the fire engines entered in the Fourth of July parade sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycees. Among those waving to the firefighters are (from left) Jennifer Fisher, Michael Solberg and Kari Brandenburg. For more photos on the parade, race and bicycle-decorating contest sponsored by the Jaycees, see Page 3A of today's edition.

Chief may move to new position

Plymouth may be without a police chief within the next few weeks.

The agreement for police services in Plymouth Township provides for Police Chief Carl Berry to become an assistant to Supervisor Maurice Breen and to coordinate police and fire services between city and township.

The contract does not mention any specific person for the post but the city already is reorganizing its police force in preparation for Berry's departure.

When Berry becomes assistant to Breen the police chief post in the city will become vacant and will not be filled.

City Manager Henry Graper explained Tuesday night that the city will establish a command officer position and the actual vacancy filled will be a patrolman's position.

The command officer will be in charge of the operation of the department, with other responsibilities of the chief's shifted to the city's finance department and to the city manager, said Graper.

The command officer will be someone within the ranks so that the actual job opened up will be a patrolman's spot. The savings realized by the realignment will help offset the credit the city has given to cover Berry's salary.

Instead of paying almost $470,000 to the city in each of the next two years, the township will make payments of about $430,000 so that the township won't have to assume Berry's salary as chief.

Graper said the realignment of the department will be done after the township ratifies the agreement with the city and he has a chance to sit down and talk with Berry about the transition. Breen said Tuesday night no agreement had been reached with Berry on the job.

The city won't be hurt by the shift, added Graper, as Berry still will be involved with police operations in his position with the township.

"Carl Berry is very dedicated to good police service and also is very dedicated to a good working relationship between the city and township," said Graper, "so we'll benefit from his role with the township. Carl will be dealing with our command officer."

The change does relieve the city of what to do this fall about Berry's residence. The city charter provides that a department head must be a resident of the city and Berry — appointed chief to replace Tim Ford — is a township resident.

Runner survives 2-hour kidnapping

By M.B. Dillon Ward
staff writer

Editor's note: A woman who entered Plymouth's Fourth of July run was kidnapped for two hours after dropping out midway through the race Monday. Luckily she escaped unharmed. This account reflects her desire to help others avoid falling prey to a similar life-threatening attack. The names used in the story are not real.

The case is under investigation by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Her energy waning, muscles cramping and damp skin salty with sweat, 32-year-old Kelly Golata was in no mood to finish the Plymouth Jaycees' five-mile race in Monday morning's steamy heat.

At the halfway mark, on Edward Hines Drive between Wilcox and Northville roads, she slowed to a walk, turned around and headed back to the starting line.

All the runners had passed her by the time she noticed a lone, disheveled-looking man walking towards her. No sooner did he pass her than he grabbed her in a headlock and held a blade to her throat.

"Don't scream or I'll cut your throat," he said. "Let me go," Kelly screamed, struggling to free herself.

THE MAN WRESTLED the still-screaming Kelly to the ground, but she succeeded in fighting him off and staggered to her feet.

Not for long. He dragged her into a brown car parked nearby, and threw her through the driver's side door onto the seat.

"I was on my back on the seat kicking him and screaming," Kelly said. "I was so mad I think I just forgot about the knife."

At 4 foot 11 and 98 pounds, Kelly was outdistanced by the assailant she guessed to be 5 foot 11, 145 pounds. When he pushed her farther into the car, hopped in and closed his door, Kelly decided to reach for the passenger door and jump out.

Panic gripped her when she realized the door's handle was missing. She spotted a runner about to bypass the car and screamed as loud as she could.

The runner jogged by. "I just knew then I was trapped — that I wasn't going to fight him any more. I had to stop screaming and talk and plead my way out of it," she said Tuesday morning.

"I pleaded with him so much — I said, 'Please don't hurt me, I'm 32 years old and have two children. If you need money, I'll give you money. Just drive me to my car, and I'll get it,'" added the three-time marathoner, who never before has encountered any trouble while running.

"He told me, 'I'm just lonely. I just want to talk.' He drove past my car and headed west on Ann Arbor Road.

"I think he was going to rape me — he put his hand on my knee and started giggling with his pants. I just kept talking about anything I could think of. I wanted him to think I wanted to talk to him. I thought, 'This is what he wants,'" Kelly said.

AS THE FRIGHTENING two-hour ordeal crept by — the kidnapper driving halfway to Ann Arbor before turning around and circling the Plymouth-Northville area — he told Kelly his wife had moved out with their little girl because he killed his brother-in-law in a scuffle.

He himself had been shot 17 times and was in intensive care in the struggle, he told her. He said he was against women and was bitter about not being able to see his little girl, Kelly said.

"I told him it was a miracle he even came out of it (the gunfight), and told him 'God watches you, and what you do.'"

"I wanted to stay away from subjects that'd irritate and rile him," said the petite blonde, who to no avail tried talking the attacker, who called himself Bob, into stopping the car and taking a walk.

"I think if I would have gone berserk, swore and made him mad that something would have happened," she added. "I tried to look at him in the eyes. If Survivors include: daughter, Madelon Stretton; brother, Sanford of Roscommon; two nephews and two nieces.

ELON C. HUNT

Funeral services for Mr. Hunt, 84, of Newburgh Road, Livonia, were held recently in Schrader Funeral Home with burial at Glen Eden Cemetery. Officiating was Pastor Jerry Yarnell.

Mr. Hunt, who died June 27 in Southfield, had retired from Plymouth Stamping Company in Plymouth in 1965. Survivors include: daughter, Irene Kelley of Livonia; son, Donald of Livonia; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

ANGELA A. WALKER

Funeral services for Mrs. Walker, 77, of Shadywood Drive, Plymouth Township, were held recently in St. Kenneth Catholic Church in Plymouth with burial at Oakley Cemetery. Arrangements were made by Schrader Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made in the form of Mass offerings.

Mrs. Walker, who died June 27 in Livonia, had moved to Plymouth from Detroit in 1972. Survivors include: son, Charles of Muskegon; sister, Mary Dempster of Arcadia, Calif.; brothers, Joseph Goedeke of Pontiac and Norbert Ruppert of Ferndale; a brother-in-law; three grandsons and two great-grandsons.

CHANCEY WAGENSCHULTZ

Funeral services for Mr. Wagenschultz, 75, of Carol Street, Plymouth, were held recently in Schrader Funeral Home with burial at Riverside Cemetery. Officiating was the Rev. Kurt Lueneburg.

Mr. Wagenschultz, who died June 28 in Livonia, was a lifelong resident of Plymouth who had worked for the city of Plymouth from 1945 to 1972. During the last 15 years he was sexton at Riverside Cemetery. He was a member of St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran Church in Plymouth.

Survivors include: wife, Letha; brother, LaVerne of Plymouth; and sisters, Dorothy Huber of Livonia and Irene Huber of Dearborn.

LINCOLN HALE

Private funeral services for Mr. Hale, 68, of Salem, Ore., were held recently in Salem with arrangements made by Schrader Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association.

Mr. Hale, who died June 26 in Plymouth Township, was born in Northville and had lived in Plymouth until 1965. He graduated from Plymouth High School in 1943 and was visiting Plymouth for his 40-year reunion at the time of his death. He graduated from Michigan State University in 1949. Mr. Hale, who had worked for the Wayne County Road Commission park system, also was a display installer for the American Greeting Card Company.

Survivors include: wife, Patricia; daughter, Sarah Herman of Milwaukee, Ore.; sons, Peter of Portland and Bruce of Salem, Ore.; brothers, David of New Mexico and Carl of Montana; and three grandchildren.

Fidge hurdles membership problem in SEMCOG

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Despite Plymouth Township's departure from the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), Trustee Lee Fidge has been elected to two positions in the organization.

Fidge was surprised at SEMCOG's recent "votes of confidence." She was elected to the organization's Regional Clearinghouse Committee (RCC) and voted to the vice chair position on the Area Wide Quality Board.

"To me they were saying, 'Hey, Lee you've done one hell of a job. No matter what your community has done to you, you're doing good work,'" Fidge said.

Earlier this year the township board voted to discontinue its membership in SEMCOG, thus ending Fidge's role as the township representative to that group.

However, even though her township isn't a member, Fidge was almost unanimously re-elected to the RCC one week ago — only one representative voted against her.

"It required a clarification of the bylaws for this to happen," Fidge said.

SEMCOG officials interpreted the bylaws to mean that RCC members only must be an elected official from their community, with no regard to the community's membership in SEMCOG.

"I was hoping the vote would be a judgment of what I have done in past years. Some members felt my township needed their hands slapped for not joining," she said.

The RCC is a 14-member committee that evaluates and makes recommendations on projects submitted to federal agencies for grant monies.

LAST TUESDAY Fidge was elected to the vice chair position in the Area Wide Quality Board.

She already is an appointed member of that board until 1985 representing Wayne County, as well as being a member by virtue of her job as executive director of the Rouge Watershed Council.

"That was just the frosting on the cake," Fidge said.

"They want someone who is knowledgeable on issues and knows the area for that position. I consider it a very high compliment," she said.

The quality board deals with environmental issues such as water, solid waste, facilities planning and ground water contamination. As vice chair Fidge will chair several of the subcommittees she serves on.

"Usually I like the work part of committees, not so much the top chair position.

For some reason I just don't like those chair positions."

Fidge's work with the RCC and Area Wide Quality Board is done on a voluntary basis.

"Our only pay is a sandwich and beverage at the meeting, because we usually meet during lunch."

Her job with the watershed council is a paying position.

"Getting these two positions is quite a vote of confidence, since my township did not rejoin SEMCOG," she said.

Grant denial puts Supersewer project in jeopardy

Suburban officials in western Wayne and Oakland counties were conferring with lawyers this week after the state Department of Natural Resources dealt a body blow to their "super sewer" project.

DNR last week denied $35 million of the $49 million in first-year federal funds to start phase one of the project.

"This was not unanticipated," said a disappointed Duane Egeland, director of the Wayne County Department of Public Works and guiding light of the super sewer project.

Egeland said County Executive William Lucas, corporation counsel John O'Hair and local officials would decide whether to seek an injunction against DNR because of the money they have already pumped into the $298 million total project. Canton and Plymouth townships, in particular, are affected.

Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy was pondering the same question.

SUPER SEWER, officially known as the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System, would wind through 18 Oakland and western Wayne county communities, transporting sewage through 60 miles of interceptors into a massive treatment plant at the mouth of the Huron River in Brownstown Township.

Currently, the city of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth Townships use Detroit's Rouge interceptor sewer.

Two political factors apparently were to blame for the setback, Egeland said:

• Outstate cities saw too much of a short supply of federal funds going into southeastern Michigan, where there are already several treatment plants. DNR's decision to hold back $35 million puts outstate projects on the front burner.

• Wayne County and the city of Detroit have a dispute over whether and how much sewage the western communities must send into the Detroit treatment plant. "Detroit claims all sewage flows must go to Detroit under our contract. Our attorneys interpret it differently. They say we have no obligation to discharge any specific flows to Detroit," Egeland said.

In addition, Samuel Turner, a Wayne County commissioner from Detroit, charged the county commission improperly pledged the county's full faith and credit behind bonds for the project — a decision he said could obligate all county taxpayers if federal funding falls through. Turner is also seeking to halt or scale down super sewer.

communities' sewage will flow through it — and that question is now in the air.

DNR granted only about $5 million in first-year funds, holding up $38 million in first-year funds and $36 million in second-year funds, Egeland said. "Without the '82 federal funds, there will not be enough to finish the project. Phases 2 and 3 are in doubt."

He noted that the city of Wixom in Oakland County is adamant it will not take part in the multi-community project if it must deal with Detroit.

OTHER SUBURBAN officials generally agreed with Egeland's political analysis.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, super sewer's staunchest opponent, appears to be "working hand in hand" with the DNR to nix it, said Canton Finance Director Michael Gorman.

"The pressure Detroit was able to put on the DNR" is largely responsible for its denial of the grant, charge Gorman and Deputy Finance Director John Sobleskie.

"Detroit is saying that when they sold their bonds about 15 years ago, they told their bondholders that Canton and three other communities would be solely in the jurisdiction of the Detroit sewerage system," added Gorman. Many communities had planned to use both the Rouge and the Super Sewer.

At township park

Balloon festival starts tomorrow

The third annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival will get underway at about 6 p.m. tomorrow with a mass ascent from Plymouth Township Park.

More than 40 hot air balloons will participate in the three-day festival in the township park on Ann Arbor Trail just east of Powell Road.

The American Airlines Race will begin at 6 p.m. Friday with the Eastern Airlines Race starting at 6 a.m. Saturday. The U.S. Air Race will be at 6 p.m. Saturday, the New York Air Race at 6 a.m. Sunday, and the British Airways "Pick-em-up Key Contest" at 6 p.m. Sunday.

An Art-in-the-Park show will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in Kellogg Park, Ann Arbor Trail and Main, to entertain visitors between the races.

The Balloon Ball will be Friday and Saturday nights on the deck of Mayflower II, featuring Hank Warren's Dixieland Jazz Band. Tickets are $3 each.

A SUNRISE Inflation Sale will be 5-10 a.m. Saturday.

A Kite Flying Contest will be at 4 p.m. Saturday in Plymouth Township Park. Prizes will be awarded for largest kite, smallest, prettiest, ugliest, highest flown, and for the oldest and the youngest participants. The contest is sponsored by Plymouth Travel.

Also the weekend of the balloon festival, the Retreads will be staging a road rally in the Plymouth area. Some 350 members of the over-40 motorcycle club will be arriving Friday night at the Plymouth Hilton and with campers at the Western Wayne County Conservation Club grounds.

After breakfast Saturday at the VFW Hall in Plymouth, the club will stage a 75-mile poker run and then arrive at Plymouth Township Park for the 6 p.m. launch.

THE PLYMOUTH Community Chamber of Commerce will stage the All American Catfish Dinner 4-7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. The fish will be prepared and served by cooks from Welfed Catfish Inc., the same company which provided fish for the recent Williamsburg Catfish dinner President Reagan gave for the NATO heads of state. Tickets are $4.50 for adults and $2.25 for children 12 and younger.

Catfish tickets may be purchased in advance at $4 each at the Chamber office, Mayflower Hotel, Sunshine Honda, Armbruster's Bootery, Plymouth Community Credit Union, Skatin' Station, Hands on Leather and The Engraving Connection.

Tether rides will be available on the balloons after the launches at $5 each Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Culture changes evident among dispossessed Indians

Among the John Aikin papers at the Burton Library in Detroit is the transcript of a deed dated Feb. 24, 1773. The area involved marked the site of the Potawatomi Fort Detroit Settlement.

It is reasonable to assume that some of the Tonquish group were involved in these negotiations because later the same people appear to be associated with Chief Tonquish.

The deed states that these Potawatomi ceded their lands to one "Robert Navarre, the younger" and provided "forever that he may cultivate the same, light a fire thereon and take care of our dead."

Their faith in Navarre's ability to save this Golgotha from desecration seems, indeed, pathetic as well as naive. But in 1773 what other options did they have? At that date all the Indians in the Detroit area were encircled by the powerful white man. Even Pontiac's people were leaving their sanctuary on Peche Island just north of Belle Isle. All were under pressure to move westward. Concealing their beautiful black altar in their Shaman's ceremonial robe, the chief and his people moved out to a favorite fishing area, the fork of the Rouge near Farmington.

Later the Treaty of 1807 granted Chief Tonquish two sections of one mile square each near this area of the Rouge which the treaty makers designated as "Tonquish Village." The Indians of this clan claimed hunting, fishing and trapping privileges over an even larger area, including Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Farmington and Redford. Their old chief thought he owned Tonquish Plain, regardless of the treaty, and he fought and died there.

WHILE THIS STRUGGLE for survival was going on, Detroit was growing by great leaps and bounds.

In 1817, in an effort to improve the well-traveled Woodbridge Street, local road builders uncovered several dozen Indian graves. They were found on Navarre's old farm near what is today Navarre Place and Woodbridge Street.

It is probable that these Potawatomi were buried according to the usual customs of their tribe. When Tonquish heard of this desecration he must have been outraged.

Professor George Quinby of the University of Chicago, in his estimable little book "Indian Life in the Upper Great Lakes," said that the Potawatomi and the Ottawa as well as other Algonquin had a system of organized rituals and practices which involved a belief in a "Great Spirit." They also believed that the human body had but one soul which, after death, found its way to heaven. To the Potawatomi, heaven was a trail over the rainbow, beyond the Milky Way, to a somewhere in the far, far West.

So it was serious business when the Tonquish Potawatomi extracted a solemn promise from Navarre to keep a fire burning in their graveyard. Fire was an essential part of their ritual. They were known as the "fire people," and the light of the fire was needed so that the Chibiabos (in Potawatomi, this meant the escort to heaven) could find them.

RELIGION AND MEDICINE were closely related in the Indian world. Both religion and medicine were, to the Indian mind, involved with "magic." To them, all things, animate and inanimate, were permeated by a force that had the power to influence or control one's life. If one had good luck one must pay homage to the force. If one fell ill, the misfortune was caused by some "evil spirit." Then the Shaman, or medicine man, must be called in to help ward off the evil. The Woodbridge Street grave site contained several loaded flintlock rifles as well as beaded bullet pouches with extra flints. Many iron axes also were found. Quinby said that a brave's grave might contain "white clay tobacco pipes made in Scotland, silver armbands, gorgets, and ear ornaments made in London or Montreal, a glass bottle of peppermint oil for his stomach, made in France, and a flint and steel 'strike-a-light' made in Boston." There were usually punk for starting fires, powder dishes of food for the long journey over the rainbow, powdered vermilion for face paint, and many other unique items they deemed necessary for a good life in the next world.

An Indian woman's grave often contained her brass kettle, several brooches, necklaces of colored glass beads, bracelets and ear bobs, blue china, white porcelain, Staffordshire teacups, a mirror, a jew's-harp, and other furnishings considered necessary to her happiness.

All of these items are indicative of their changing culture and their growing participation in the white man's trade world. Unfortunately, by 1830 the animal skins which provided the wherewithal for the Indian's trade were vanishing from this area. The product of the hunt, which was the staple of their diet as well as their trade, came to an end about the same time the push for Indian land greatly intensified. This transition clearly is shown in the excavations of mounds and funeral tombs in our area.

ACCORDING TO professor W.B. Hinesdale, University of Michigan, in his excellent booklet "The Indians of Washtenaw County," some of the mounds along Goddes Road in the vicinity of Concordia College contained flint, deer horn ornaments, shell beads and the usual Algonquin-type burial items.

But the Dexter mound, which dates after this period, contained nothing but human bones — evidence of a culture in transition and of a people being pushed out of their familiar habitat. Today's Detroit, built on the fires of the old, covers many a unique Indian treasure.

When Tonquish and the Potawatomi set up their black altar on Plymouth Mound they were bowing not only to a sacred trust, but they were paying homage to an idea that goes back in their culture to the beginning of time. This is the fire theme, and the snake that was carved on the base of the altar is part of that theme.

This theme appears in many other Indian cultures, particularly the Mayan and the Aztec. The Adena-Hopewell people, who built the largest snake mound in the world in Ohio — a serpentine monster that extends over several acres — also made gorgeous textiles and rugs more than 2,000 years ago. Like the Potawatomes, the Hopewell Indians were great corn growers. The feet of green corn was well-established among them. (The Jan. 24 edition of "Tales from the Tonquish" told the story of an early Plymouth "Feast of Green Corn.")

In the Grand River Valley of Michigan there probably are five dozen Hopewell burial mounds, some of them not yet excavated.

LET US RETURN to our main theme — the Potawatomi of Tonquish village and the story of their struggle for survival. There are a number of other significant facts to be considered. No tribe in the Midwest "signed" more treaties than our Potawatomi. The first "signing" with the United States occurred in 1789, and the last in 1878.

The Potawatomes were parties to 47 treaties. After the War of 1812 a series of negotiations nibbled away at their territory, chunk by chunk. When it was over, they had no more land to give away.

(These treaties may be found in Charles J. Kappler's edition of "Indian Laws and Treaties," published by Washington's Indian Affairs Department. I found this book in the Graduate School Library at the University of Michigan, The Clement Library, also on the Michigan campus and the Bentley Library on the North Campus, also are excellent sources of information.)

September 1833 marked a traumatic turning point in the last treaty. Let's look at the signing to general agreement. The village of stretched over a few last high barely wooded.

Washed by the winds of change, it was home to "birds of passage." Law and order represented by the United States and the Potawatomi, then a hundred, white, black, and red, and men of no breed, all some dealt in pigs, poultry and potatoes. Some had when they passed the creditors of the tribe, and some were grog sellers. Others were Indian agents and traders — "sharpers of every grade."

Chicago was a chaos — mixed up, muck, rubbish and crime. What hope there for the survivors among the Tonquish? Will these thieving, lying rascals take all their treaty money and will their downfall (whiskey) take the rest? The story of the Chicago Treaty and how some of the Potawatomes escaped the long walk to Kansas — the so-called "Trail of Tears" — will be told in the next installment.

you do that I don't think they're as likely to think of you as a victim.

"He was so ugly and sick. But for some reason I just felt protected. Something took over. It was like I had a guardian angel. It still hasn't hit me. I keep wondering when I'm going to crack up." Kelly described her kidnapper as similar in features to actor Jack Nicholson, with stubs for teeth, a short beard, dirty ear-length, straight hair, a light complexion, thin, unmuscular build and small blue eyes. He was dressed in a light blue tank top, navy corduroy pants and running shoes.

Bank balloon coming to town

The hot air balloon seen on the television and newspaper campaign of First of America Bank will be seen in Plymouth this weekend.

The hot air balloon will be floating high above Plymouth Township Park and will be tethered at the Main Street office of First of America Bank — Plymouth, for public viewing.

The red and brown-striped balloon dominated by a large white First of America logo was custom-manufactured for First of America Bank

Corp. by Raven Industries, Sioux Falls, S.D. When fully inflated it stands six stories high, holds 77,000 cubic feet of air in its 1,000 square yards of light-weight reinforced nylon.

The hot air balloon was chosen by First of America as its promotional symbol because of the "uplifting atmosphere the balloon creates, an atmosphere we feel growing throughout the state," said Kenneth D. Currie, president of First of America Bank — Plymouth.

Ernie Jones coming to Plymouth July 14

Ernie Jones, widely recognized in music and business, will be guest conductor this month for the Plymouth Community Band.

Jones, chairman of the worldwide executive committee of D'Arcy, MacManus & Mathis, Inc. (the world's 11th largest advertising agency), will be appearing in concert with the Plymouth Community Band on Thursday, July 14.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in Kellogg Park, Ann Arbor Trail at Main. This Thursday the guest conductor will be George Cavander, former director of the University of Michigan Marching Band.

JONES SPENT his entire business career in advertising, joining MacManus, John & Adams after graduating from U-M with a bachelor's degree in economics. From the agency's production department, he rose through the ranks to become president in 1955 at age 28, chief executive officer in 1958, and chairman of the board in 1968.

Jones was the moving force in a merger with the D'Arcy agency of St.

Louis. Upon formation of the international corporation, Jones became chairman of the board in 1971.

His continued interest in music has brought Jones recognition as a conductor. He has conducted the U-M bands in the Michigan Stadium over national networks many times and has conducted at Carnegie Hall and before the Royal College of Music in London.

Jones has appeared in concert with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Oakway Symphony, and with longtime friend Victor Borge. He also has conducted the Miami Beach Symphony, Scandinavian Symphony, and the Midland Symphony. A recording was made of the concert he conducted at Austria's Schwarzenberg Palace with the Vienna Chamber Orchestra.

Jones is chairman of the board of the Cranbrook Academy of Art, board member of Detroit Symphony and Interlochen Center for the Arts, and past president of the Detroit Concert Band. He also headed the successful Michigan delegation to bring the Seper Bowl to the Pontiac Silverdome in 1983.

New ambulance setup saves lives

The lives of two persons may have been saved last month thanks to the advanced life support (ALS) ambulance being used in Plymouth.

Starting earlier this year, the ALS ambulance — owned by Botsford Hospital's Community EMS service — started responding to emergency calls along with the fire department ambulance. In most cases the Community EMS ambulance is used for transporting the patients.

Paramedics operate the ambulance, and can perform more advanced medical procedures on patients than the fire department's emergency medical technicians.

The advanced treatment and equipment used by the paramedics can be credited with saving one life last month, and probably another, according to Fire Chief Roy Hall.

ON JUNE 8, the fire ambulance responded to an emergency call on Coolidge in Plymouth. When the firefighters entered the home, they found that 60-year-old Marie Anderson apparently had suffered a heart attack, and they couldn't find any vital signs, Hall said.

When the Community EMS unit arrived, the paramedics also couldn't find any vital signs and started ALS procedures including starting an IV and using a heart defibrillator, he said.

The paramedics were able to get Anderson's heart to start before transporting her to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, he said.

"Without the ALS, we would have picked up the person and then run to the hospital. With the ALS, we were able to somewhat stabilize the patient before going to the hospital," Hall said.

The paramedics performed the ALS procedures while being in direct communication with a physician at Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills.

On June 23, the fire department and Community EMS responded to another apparent heart attack victim at the Mayflower Hotel in downtown Plymouth.

THE EMERGENCY personnel found Trade Simmons, a Mayflower waitress, on the floor in the kitchen, he said.

"The symptoms indicated she had suffered a heart attack. She was unresponsive to any assistance."

The paramedics stabilized Simmons by starting an IV and inserting an airway before transporting her to St. Mary Hospital, he said.

"She received more assistance than we could have given her," Hall said. "The evidence would indicate ALS is doing what it is designed to do, which is save lives."

Since starting to use the Community EMS system, the paramedics have used ALS procedures on about 10 emergency calls, Hall said.

Meeting today

City moves closer to St. Joe facility

City Manager Henry Graper hopes to learn at a meeting today how good the chances are that Plymouth might get St. Joseph Hospital to build a medical facility in the downtown area.

The city administration has spent the past 2 1/2 weeks gathering information requested by St. Joseph Hospital, and those facts will be presented at a meeting today.

The city already has been contacted by the hospital's architects on the project, Harley, Ellington, Pierce and Smith.

"We'll be one step closer on Thursday," Graper told the City Commission Tuesday night.

The administration will, in the future, have to deal with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) as the facility is near a flood plain and will require DNR approval.

DNR involvement is a concern, Graper said, only because it could cause an up to 90-day time lag. The city manager says the city still will be able to meet St. Joseph's timetable of occupancy in August 1984.

THE CITY has applied for a Public Works grant for $1.2 million for the decking of Central Parking Lot as part of the St. Joe project. If the city obtains the federal funds, the deck could be built for some $1.2 million instead of a possible scaled-down version of some $750,000.

Graper hopes to hear whether the federal funds will be approved by mid-August. If federal dollars aren't available, the administration will return to its original plan of paying for the project through tax increment financing.

Tax increment financing would involve earmarking increased tax property tax revenues from the downtown business district to pay off bonds for construction of the deck and medical facility.

The Downtown Development Authority must request tax increment financing, and the City Commission would hold a public hearing on that request.

Tuesday night the commission appointed the following to the DDA: Fred Hill, Kal Jabara, Sharon Armbruster, Pam Kostreva, Dale Knab, Margaret Slezak, Jim McKeon, and Bill Graham.

Within three to five years, Graper maintained, there will be enough tax improvements within the downtown business district to recover the cost of the deck.

Among the improvements this year which will contribute to downtown projects are the Credit Union expansion, the Pugh-Cannon projects on Forest and on Pennington Avenue, and the Henry Ford medical facility on Main just north of Pennington.

GRAPER ESTIMATES there will be some $3 million in property tax growth in the central business district. The tax-base expansion plus money for parking and payments in lieu of taxes which St. Joe's might make, Graper added, will be more than enough to pay back the investment in the deck.

If a payment in lieu of taxes is arranged with St. Joe's, Graper said, all the payment would come to the city and not to the school district and county. The medical facility will not cause any extra burden to the schools or county, he added, so they won't be hurt by the arrangement.

Old-fashioned circus coming July 15-16

The circus is coming to Northville. Officially known as the "Old-fashioned Circus Under the Big Top," the performances will be Friday and Saturday, July 15 and 16, at the Northville Downs parking lot at Sheldon and Seven Mile.

The 90-minute show features all the attractions associated with the circus — trapeze and acrobatic acts, a lion tamer, horse act, dog show, monkey act, and elephants.

Shows will be at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. each day, with elephant rides offered at intermission.

The circus is being sponsored by the Northville Community Fund, a recently established coalition of Northville civic and community groups.

The promoters' share of the profits will be allocated for community projects, according to organizer Scott Lapham.

Those projects include wooden street signs for the town and generators for city hall and Allen Terrace.

Tickets for the circus can be obtained from the Northville Chamber of Commerce office on S. Main or at Lapham's Men Store downtown.

When public speaks, SEMTA revises plan

THERE'S AN old principle of politics that should give comfort to suburban voters: If you squawk at a public hearing, true, nothing may happen this year — but wait until the next time around.

The principle is proving true as SEMTA (Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority) prepares for a new round of public hearings next week.

After getting squawks in 1979 that too much emphasis was being placed on Woodward corridor light-rail traffic and too little on "crosstown" suburban movements, the SEMTA board revised its 1980 plan.

The version prepared this year will contain something the 1979 version lacked: a designation of a number of suburban locations — traditional downtowns, major shopping malls and employment centers — as "transit centers." They will be not only bus destinations but major transfer points for the different modes of SEMTA service.

It was what the public was saying, and it represents a major change in SEMTA thinking. No longer are the radial patterns emanating from downtown Detroit the only game in town. Outlying communities are important centers in their own right.

And it lends new emphasis to our notion that the term "suburb" may be obsolete.

THE WOODWARD corridor undergoes some major changes in the revised SEMTA plan.

The northern terminus of the light rail has been extended from Royal Oak to Pontiac, and a spur is added to the Pontiac Silverdome. Both changes are realistic and merit applause.

The amount of the Woodward corridor which will go underground has been reduced drastically. Politically, that is a good move because many transit-hating suburbanites had equated "subway" with the name of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young. So be it.

We still believe, however, that the idea of building much of it underground — away from traffic, away from rain and snow, using stations that would have been models for human safety — was the better choice. But we won't whine over the loss of the subway portion if the entire package turns out to be more realistic and more politically acceptable.

AT THE HEARINGS, listed elsewhere in today's edition, you'll have a chance to walk through exhibits that will explain details of how the plan will affect your area.

That will be followed by a brief (underline that word) explanation from SEMTA officials. They learned from earlier hearings that folks don't care for long-winded explanations and slide shows.

Then the public will have its chance to comment. And our experience with SEMTA shows clearly that the public gets heard.

Suburbia is core of effort to recall Blanchard

A GRIZZLED old man stood at the corner of Woodward Avenue and 10 Mile Road on Sunday afternoon and begged motorists to stop and sign a petition for the recall of Gov. James Blanchard.

Nothing unusual about this scene except only a few feet away a sign proclaimed, "Welcome to Pleasant Ridge, the home of Gov. James Blanchard." The recall movement had come to the governor's tiny hometown.

Petitioners were out in force over the long Fourth of July holiday weekend. They could be seen at suburban shopping centers and parks. Many were downtown or at the fireworks display on Friday evening.

"We're going to meet the deadline and force a recall election," Shannon Roesler of Livonia said Tuesday. "I think we had a good chance." Roesler is co-chairman of the state campaign to recall Blanchard.

Her committee needs to obtain 760,000 validated signatures by Thursday, July 28. As of last week, Roesler said, about 400,000 signatures had been obtained, but "the mail has been pouring in the last few days."

ONLY THE MOST optimistic recall organizers believe they have a reasonable chance of making the July 28 deadline. But that doesn't mean the campaign is not having its effect.

The strongest sentiment in the state for Blanchard's recall is in Wayne and Oakland counties, according to a survey released over the weekend by the Institute of Social Research at the University of Michigan.

Many of your suburban friends and neighbors are grousing about the governor. According to the U-M study, only 25 percent of the Oakland and Wayne respondents approve of how Blanchard is handling his job, and 87 percent disapprove. (In contrast, approximately 52 percent outstate and 50 percent in Detroit disapprove of Blanchard.)

Roesler said she recognizes a strong anti-Blanchard feeling when she gets signatures on weekends at places like Livonia Mall.

"I've been working on this campaign since April 30, and I've only met one person who has refused to sign a petition," she said.

Roesler maintains — and the U-M survey agrees — that the major source of dissatisfaction with Blanchard comes from the increase in the state income tax. The state income tax rate was raised from 4.6 to 6.35 percent this year.

"When the man (Blanchard) campaigned, he said jobs first and taxes last," Roesler said. "When you raise taxes in such a depressed area, it makes the people mad."

WHATEVER YOUR personal reaction may be to the recall Blanchard movement, to a certain extent it doesn't matter. I personally think it is dumb and was doomed to failure from the start.

It is having a dramatic effect on state politics. The euphoria the Democrats experienced on Jan. 1 in electing their first governor in 20 years is over.

As Rep. Jack Kirksey, R-Livonia, told the Observer & Eccentric last week, "The threat of recall has had a sobering effect on the Democratic Legislature and the governor. He is no longer bragging about saving the state from financial ruin. He is now on the defensive."

What this means is that Democrats are not going to run roughshod in Lansing merely because we have a Democratic governor and Legislature. That means more compromise and a stronger Republican influence.

The old man getting signatures on a recall petition in Blanchard's hometown will not be successful in removing the governor. But he, and others like him, will be responsible for significant changes in how this state is governed.

Would Abner recognize the ol' ball game?

ON THESE balmy summer evenings while watching the Tigers make a strong bid for leadership in the American League, The Stroller often wonders if Abner Doubleday, the man who invented baseball in the last century, would recognize his game.

Over the years, the game has changed to the extent that only the distances between the bases and from the pitcher's mound to home plate are what Doubleday designed.

Even the ballparks have changed to the point where only a few — among them Tiger Stadium — are what could be called "homey" sites.

They've put a "rabbit" in the ball, introduced Astro (artificial) turf and permitted players to use gloves that resemble baskets.

SO GREAT have been the changes that these new, enclosed stadiums keep moving the playing fields further from the spectators. A spectator at Tiger Stadium still can see the batter's face from the stands, but in more modern stadia the batter seems more like an object out there. And it is a long walk from the dugout to home plate.

One of those who mentioned the great change is Charlie Gehringer, the legendary second baseman of the Tigers. When asked about the ball now being used, he answered, "In the old days, I never saw Lou Gehrig (Yankees left-handed slugger) hit a ball into left field. Now everybody is doing it."

The newest change that has been bothering The Stroller is the size of the gloves. He wonders every time he sees an outfielder race across the field, hold up his arm and let the ball drop into the glove.

In the old days, if a player attempted a one-handed catch, he was warned by the manager to refrain from "show business" stuff. He would be accused of playing up to the fans. Today it's unusual the stroller

to see an outfielder attempt a two-handed catch.

EVEN PITCHERS are wearing gloves with a pocket in them to guard against errors.

Every time he sees this, The Stroller recalls the year Hank Greenberg, in an attempt to shield an injured wrist, tried a larger glove. He was denied its use. He was told that the regular gloves were part of the game, and he would have to obey the rules.

In what we now call the "old days," all games were played in daylight. Not only that, but double-headers were played on holidays, with a game in the morning and another in the afternoon. This meant a fan had to pay two admissions to see both games.

And now night baseball, started by Larry McPhail in Cincinnati in the late '30s, has taken over. There are very few major league playing fields not equipped with modern lighting systems. As a result, many are the times when the game isn't completed until midnight.

It's doubtful old Abner Doubleday would recognize the game and surroundings today.

Justice system must focus on alcohol abuse

The 19-year-old Westland resident who pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in the death of a man killed by a bowling ball thrown out a car window was sentenced last week.

There was some speculation beforehand that the 19-year-old, Charles Borg Jr., a Washtenaw Community College student, would receive a probationary sentence with no provision for jail time.

Wayne Circuit Judge Richard Kaufman, who was warned that such a sentence would likely spark a new controversy about sentencing, was not that lenient.

In ordinary times, a long-term probation might have been ordered. But the times have not been ordinary since Kaufman's father, Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman handed down a probation sentence to two men who admitted killing Chinese American Vincent Chin with a baseball bat in a Highland Park street.

THAT CONTROVERSY still isn't over and Kaufman and every judge in the state is well aware of the extreme public disapproval the sentence inspired.

The younger Kaufman's seven-part sentence calls for Borg to spend six months in jail now and another six months at the end of his four-year probation. It also requires Borg to spend five hours a week for two years working at a Westland-based organization that provides recreation for physically and mentally handicapped and another 100 hours working for another public service organization.

He is forbidden to drink alcohol during the five years of his sentence, must report monthly to a probation counselor and must pay $400 a year court costs.

Although not well-known, it is a frequent practice for judges to order a certain amount of jail time to be served at the end of a probation period. It is generally understood that the person sentenced will not have to serve the jail time if he behaves himself during his probation.

WHAT IS interesting is that Kaufman forbade Borg to drink alcohol at all, indicating that the judge thought drinking played a significant part in Borg's bizarre behavior the night he decided to throw a bowling ball out the window of the car he was riding in.

That provision is in contrast with the sentencing by Charles Kaufman in the Chin case. While probation was ordered, no special mention was directed at the drinking habits of the men involved, even though it was obvious that drinking played an important role. A probation evaluation reportedly said that one of the men responsible for Chin's death was a heavy drinker.

The fact is that alcohol abuse and dependency have not received much consideration from judges in determining sentences, although the evidence is becoming clearer that they play a role in the majority of crimes, homicides and motor vehicle deaths.

THERE ARE some educated opinions to the effect that more than 50 percent of all prisoners in the Michigan penal system committed the crimes they were sent to prison for while they were under the influence of alcohol or while an alcohol abuser.

The fact that Judge Richard Kaufman's decision received widespread publicity is due in some measure to the furor caused by the sentence in the Chin case. But because it is such a good decision and because it takes into account the problems caused by alcohol, it deserves to be an example in other sentencing.

Probationary sentencing which stops law-breakers from relying on behavior-influencing dependency on alcohol could aid significantly in keeping one-time transgressors from becoming repeaters.

Better service, manager says

SEMTA plans crosstown buses

By Tim Richard
staff writer

SEMTA's new public transportation plan, due to be unveiled at local hearings next week, emphasizes the crosstown patterns that riders want.

"Since 1979, we've heard nothing but noise on our plan from the communities," confessed Gary Krause, general manager of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

"We looked at the current service maps and the 1990 plan, we adopted in 1979, and the only difference was that 1990 was more of the same."

"That's bad. What the people were saying was that the region is a bit more complex than that. It's a multitude of centers, like Los Angeles, not like New York."

A suburban Wayne County hearing is scheduled for 1 p.m. Tuesday, July 12, in Dearborn's Henry Ford Centennial Library, 16301 Michigan. Two hearings are scheduled in Detroit — at 1 and 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 14, in the Wayne County Community College downtown campus at 1001 W. Fort.

SOUTHEASTERN Michigan has strong "radial" traffic patterns — the Grafton, Woodward, Grand River and Michigan Avenue corridors and their corresponding freeways, all built over old Indian trails.

"But overlaid on that are the east-west movements," said Krause, citing the I-96 freeway and other developing east-west roads. And the revised SEMTA plan takes them into consideration.

"If I live in Mount Clemons and work in Detroit, I'm OK (as a transit rider). But if I live in Mount Clemons and work in Troy, I can't get there," he said of the 1979 plan.

So SEMTA planners adopted a system of "transit centers" — focal points for bus service, where passengers can transfer between buses or park their cars and board a bus.

Krause identified several kinds of transit centers: historic downtowns, major suburban shopping centers, employment centers. "They are more than casual places to catch a bus. They are focal points for services. You work to tie them together with the rest of the region."

WESTERN WAYNE County will have these "transit centers":

- Livonia Mall, 7 Mile and Middlebelt, Livonia.
- Wonderland Center, Plymouth and Middlebelt, Livonia.
- Westland Center, Warren and Wayne roads.
- Downtown Wayne.
- Dearborn's Amtrak station.
- Metropolitan Airport.

These centers will receive high-speed Park and Ride express buses, conventional bus service, neighborhood circulator service and dial-a-ride service.

KRAUSE DE-EMPHASIZES talk of the light rail rapid transit component of the revised 1990 plan, contending "the big news is the redesign of the bus system." But there are changes in the light rail plan, too.

The Ann Arbor-Detroit commuter line will become a joint SEMTA-Amtrak project, terminating at the Joe Louis Arena garage.

In the controversial Woodward corridor, much of the underground ("subway") plan has been scrapped, as has the commuter train that goes only downtown in the morning and back to Pontiac at night.

Instead, he said, most of the line will run at-grade and some above ground, and will go out to Pontiac.

From downtown Detroit to Royal Oak, it will follow the Woodward corridor, traveling west of the Woodward stores through Highland Park. North of that, it will follow the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks.

THE SEMTA general manager is emphatic that the line makes sense. "Every day we don't make a rail investment in the Woodward corridor is a day we're wasting resources," he said of the heavily travelled route.

The Woodward corridor contains virtually every "one-of-a-kind" service in the seven-county region except Metropolitan Airport, Krause said.

These include the Renaissance Center, Cobo Hall, Joe Louis Arena, the Medical Center, the cultural center (Art Institute, Historical Museum, Main Library, Science Center, Wayne State University), the New Center area, the Michigan State Fairgrounds, the Zoo and Silverdome stadium.

"And there are many churches, a member of delightful communities and the populated 13 south Oakland County communities," he said.

"One of the most accessible points in the region will be I-96 and Woodward. It will be a new focal point for the region," Krause added.

AFTER PUBLIC hearings, the revised 1990 plan will go back to the SEMTA board for approval, then to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments for inspection.

The federal government will put up most of the capital cost — buses, rail lines and cars. "The federal government position is very clear: It will make major, major investments in public transit. Of the new federal five-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax, one cent has been set aside for transit. It will produce $1 billion a year," said Krause.

Gross capital cost of SEMTA's plan is in the $2 billion ballpark, although some capital costs such as buses and terminals are already in place.

"The good news is better service," he said.

THE BAD news is that when you rely on buses, you have a system that is expensive to operate.

Under President Reagan, the federal government has moved out of providing operating money (salaries, fuel) to transportation agencies. SEMTA is asking the Michigan Legislature to place an operating tax question on the ballot.

A one-cent sales tax is most popular with SEMTA officials because it would yield $200 million a year. Less popular are a one-mill property tax ($49 million) and a 1 percent income tax ($163 million).

Combined operating budgets of SEMTA and Detroit's Department of Transportation are about $150 million, Krause said.

Madonna holds the line on tuition

Madonna College in Livonia will keep tuition for most students unchanged in the fall semester, board Chairman Andrew Brodhan announced.

"Madonna has committed itself to being affordable for the vast majority of students," he said.

Undergraduate rate is $55 per semester hour or $1,560 for two semesters of 12 hours each.

Rate in the baccalaureate nursing program will be $90; emergency medical technology, $88; graduate program, $100.

Students who need financial aid for

When they're fresh you can taste it - To keep 'em fresh you've got to handle 'em right.

First I use proper netting - no gill nets on my boats. I bring my fish up live and then I bleed, gut and wash 'em right on board. My fish don't stay out in the air. I pack 'em right away with shaved ice and I make sure each fish is surrounded by ice so it stays between 12° - 15°.

My fish are prime. Few fishermen can say that and few restaurants can boast the best. A restaurant like Joe Muers in Detroit can. Joe insists on the best and is willing to pay for it . . . and I'm proud to give it to him.

"WE'RE MECHANICS, COACH OPERATORS AND UTILITY WORKERS, AND WE'RE DRIVING TO BE THE BEST."

Driving to be the best. At SEMTA's Wayne Terminal, it isn't just a slogan. It's an attitude. And it takes people like this to make it work:

Elzia McClarty, Coach Operator "I try to treat my passengers the way I would like to be treated if I was in their shoes."

Ricardo Seams, Assistant Mechanic "They say the mechanic's best tool is his manual, and mine is always nearby . . . along with what I already know, it helps me make sure I'm doing the job right."

Josie Hardy, Utility Worker "When it's time for the buses to go I like them to be ready . . . I check the tires to make sure they're safe, the windows are clean, even the destination sign is clean."

That's what driving to be the best is all about. And that's why at SEMTA we think the best is just around the corner.

SEMTA DRIVING TO BE THE BEST.

Greetings from the Lord Mayor

Dear Mayor Eldon Martin:

Once again the time has arrived for your city to celebrate the most famous date in your country's calendar and on this very auspicious occasion it gives me the greatest pleasure, on behalf of our citizens, to send you warm and heartfelt greetings.

These sentiments are even more deeply felt at this time because we have so recently had the opportunity of welcoming you Mr. Mayor, together with your party, to our own city and to show you some of the historic links with your country, links which have increased in strength and understanding as the years have passed. This was a great joy to us.

We shall be thinking of you on your

Welcome to the excitement of balloons

The largest ballooning event in Michigan will be held in Plymouth July 8, 9, 10.

On the second weekend in July more than 40 colorful hot air balloons will be launched during the third annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival.

The festival is sponsored by the Mayflower Hotel in conjunction with Gordon Boring of the Wicker Basket Balloon Center and by more than 40 businesses.

The balloons will ascend from Plymouth Township Park, at McClumpha Road and Ann Arbor Trail, about one-and-a-half miles west of the city of Plymouth.

The ascensions will be at 6 p.m. Friday, July 8, and at 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

DURING THE competitive flights, pilots and sponsors will have opportunities to win trips from British Airways, American Airlines, U.S. Air, Eastern Airlines, New York Air, or win automobiles from Dick Scott Buick, Don Massey Cadillac and Red Holman Pontiac.

Admission to the event is free and a $1 fee for parking will be charged.

On Friday and Saturday evenings, after the launchings, a "Balloon Ball" will be held on the deck of the Mayflower II. Cocktails, food and dancing will be featured with tickets sold at $3 each.

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce will host a Catfish Dinner at the launch site on Saturday and Sunday. Some 75 shops will be open as early as 6 a.m. on Saturday.

The double-decker bus will depart from the Plymouth Cultural Center one hour before each launching. Cost for transportation to the site will be 25 cents per person, roundtrip.

Tether rides will be available after the launches at $5 each.

On Saturday, there will be an Art in the Park show from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Kellogg Park to provide entertainment between daylight and dusk launches.

Flying seminar offered

A Hot Air Balloon Seminar will be held in Plymouth at the end of this month.

The seminar will be conducted by Van Stifler, who is associated with Ft. Wayne Ground Schools, at the Mayflower Hotel beginning at 9:15 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 23, 24.

Persons completing the two-day course will be eligible to take a written exam to become a licensed hot air balloon pilot by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

The seminar will cover such topics as federal regulations, density, altitude, lifting force, landing, ballooning weather, equipment, vocabulary, aeronautical charts, weather reports, good operating practice and mountain flying.

THE SEMINAR covers the information required for both private and commercial hot air balloons, and free balloon pilot licenses. The tuition of $90 (additional family members $30 each) includes all classroom presentations, handout materials, and loan of an aeronautical chart, circular protractor, and test guides.

Stifler also is a designated written test examiner appointed by the FAA and will administer the written tests upon course completion. Stifler guarantees persons attending the seminar will pass the FAA written examination or tuition will be refunded.

The classes begin at 9:15 a.m. Saturday and Sunday with a lunch break at 11:45 a.m. and afternoon sessions from 1-4 p.m. On Sunday, July 24, the written exams will be given at 1 p.m. and will last about 90 minutes.

Reservations in advance are necessary and may be made by calling the Wicker Basket Balloon Center at 669-4230 or Stifler at 219-747-5533. Payment is due the morning of July 23.

Stifler presented a similar seminar in Plymouth in 1982.

From the inside looking out, the shadow of a crew member is cast on the side of a balloon in the process of being inflated during a Press and Sponsors Party for the festival. The party was held several weeks before the actual festival.

Ballooning has changed over the years

More than a century before the Wright Brothers first took their air "trip" in North Carolina, man flew thousands of feet in the air.

In the springtime of 1783, two Frenchmen made an observation which would speed the coming of man's first flight. Etienne and Joseph Montgolfier noticed that ashes of burning paper rose quickly in the smoke of a fire. They theorized that if they could contain some of this "magical" smoke in a sphere it too would rise into the air.

By building a paper balloon and filling it with smoke from a fire the pair made the first hot air balloon. In their early experiments, the balloons floated over the French countryside and caused quite a stir.

The Montgolfier brothers made a demonstration of their balloon to King Louis XVI and his court at Versailles on Sept. 19, 1783. The balloon used also was made of paper, and below that balloon suspended in a basket were the first passengers ever to leave the surface of the earth — a duck, a rooster, and a sheep.

These farm animals were put in the basket to determine if the air above was fit to breathe. So the experiment was pronounced a success when, after the balloon landed, the animals were found to be healthy.

It was decided that human passengers would ascend next, but there was some discussion on whom they should be. The king suggested two condemned prisoners should go as their lives were "expendable." But Pilatre deRozier and his friend, the Marquis d'Arlandes, objected with the argument that the honor belonged to noblemen, not to prisoners.

Nobility won the argument and on Nov. 21, 1783, they became the first two men to rise above the earth in a balloon.

SIMULTANEOUSLY others were working on balloon technology.

J.A.C. Charles had made some experiments with "flammable air" (later known as hydrogen) in balloon spheres made of animal skins.

His experiments met with similar success, and it was only 10 days after the DeRozier/Arlandes hot-air flight that Charles and M. Robert rose over the rooftops of Paris in a balloon filled with hydrogen. This flight also was successful, and so was born the era of lighter-than-air flight.

Following these flights was a mania for ballooning which would lead into the 20th century. Balloons and balloonists became the most talked-about subject in the civilized world.

When the Wright Brothers flew their heavier-than-air biplane (Kitty Hawk) at Kill Devil Hills, N.C., in 1903, the attention of the public shifted toward what would prove to be more practical devices for flying.

The art of ballooning, however, survived and paralleled the development of other forms of flight without much technological change since the first flights 200 years ago.

The equipment became more refined, but the balloons themselves looked nearly like their earlier counterparts. Balloons even played a role in the Civil War as the Army used them for long-distance surveillance.

IT WASN'T until the early 1960s, though, that hot-air ballooning came back into popular use.

With the introduction of nylon and rayon, and development of propane, a modern hot-air balloon could be which was both safe and practical.

Unlike its hydrogen and helium counterparts, the hot-air balloon of today is a compact unit which can be set up in minutes and be flown for an hour or more at a cost of less than $100 per hour to operate.

Today there are close to 2,000 hot-air balloons in the United States and a few hundred more in other countries. It is one of the fastest-growing air sports in existence, and each year attracts many new pilots and balloon owners.

Observer sponsors photography contest

The Plymouth and Canton Observer newspapers is sponsoring its third annual Air Balloon Festival Photo Contest this summer. The Observer invites its readers to submit color slides taken of activities during the three-day Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival July 8-10.

Winners will be selected by the Observer staff and announced in August when the first-place winner will be printed in full on Page 1A of the Plymouth and Canton Observers.

Slides only will be accepted (no prints). Slides must be mounted with the name and phone number of the photographer printed legibly on the slide frame.

BESIDES HAVING his/her entry published in the Observer, the first-place winner also will receive a weekend for two Mayflower II, and a $50 cash prize.

The second-place winner will receive a $25 cash prize plus free passes for four persons to attend the Sunday Brunch at the Mayflower Meeting House.

The third-place winner will receive Sunday dinner for four at the Mayflower Hotel. Honorable mentions will be given out according to the quality of the entries.

To be considered for judging, slides must be submitted no later than 5 p.m. Friday, Aug. 12. The entries may be mailed or brought in to the Observer news office at 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170.

All entries become the property of the Observer Newspapers and will not be returned. Anyone wanting a personal copy should arrange to have an extra copy made before submitting an entry.

THE CONTEST is open only to amateur photographers. Anyone working for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Suburban Communications Corporation or any of its divisions is ineligible.

Anyone with questions may contact Emory Daniels or Marybeth Dillon Ward at 459-2700.

There is no theme for the contest, so photographers have the flexibility to shoot whatever pictures they believe capture the spirit of the Hot Air Balloon Festival.

Judges will give priority to the content of the slide but also will take into consideration the degree of difficulty in taking the picture, technical qualities, and the ability to reproduce for publication.

A HUTTON AMA

A securities account, no matter how you slice it, is no better than the broker who's behind it. E.F. Hutton's Asset Management Account may be the most well thoughtout product of its kind. It is an investment vehicle providing a combination of features no one else is offering. But without the E.F. Hutton Account Executive it is just another nice concept.

Our AMA provides convenient access to your assets through a check-writing privilege at a major bank and worldwide access through the prestigious American Express Gold Card*. (If you prefer, Hutton also offers a similar account without the Gold Card-Asset Reserve Account.)

And, of course, our AMA is a securities margin account, providing flexibility and full service unlike programs offered by insurance companies and banks. Your marginable securities provide additional purchasing power. Enabling you to borrow when needed at competitive brokerage house rates. It also gives you a cogent monthly statement.

Interest, dividends and idle cash are automatically invested at least monthly and possibly more frequently in your choice of three money market funds, so your monetary assets are always working for you.

With an AMA you can put your assets into everything from equities to puts and calls. But a range of opportunities is not enough. A well-structured account is not enough. Many financial institutions give you choices. At E.F. Hutton, we believe you also need ideas. And that's where your E.F. Hutton Account Executive can play a crucial role.

At E.F. Hutton, we are ultimately known for our knowledge. And that's the reason people listen.

For a Prospectus and complete information regarding charges and expenses, mail the coupon or call E.F. Hutton.

Read the Prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

NCPD66158RN44

Now that I know your secret ingredient...

I'd be interested in learning more about an AMA and getting a Hutton Account Executive of my own.

I'd like to read about the details of an AMA. Please send me your brochure and a Prospectus.

I want to talk to a Hutton Account Executive about an AMA. Please have one get in touch with me.

I need action right away, so I'm calling 313-369-3300.

Heirloom gown

Kaitlin Cristina Anderson, daughter of Arthur Jon and Donna Miller Anderson of Canton, will be baptized Sunday in St. Theodore's Catholic Church, Westland. Held by her mother, Kaitlin models the family christening gown made in 1903 by her great-great-grandmother, Margaret Miller, wife of Jacob Miller. The gown was made for Leve Albert Miller, Kaitlin's great-grandfather (right). She is the fourth generation to wear the gown, which is made of cotton batiste and French val lace. Leve Albert Miller's two sons, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren have been baptized in the gown.

MADDness grows out of anger, frustration

By Sherry Kahan
staff writer

'One of the big problems in the court system is that when a person is tried, the original charge is reduced. He gets off with a lesser sentence than the law calls for. It's a plea bargaining process to speed cases through the system. In many cases, justice is not done.'

— Ralph Shufeldt

HERE IS A crisis sweeping across our land, a storm of tragedy, and it is rocking the boat of this community and thousands of other communities like it. I want to wake someone up, anyone who will help stem the winds and calm the tides, and put an end to this dreadful storm of drinking and driving.

When the Rev. Kenneth F. Gruebel spoke these words to members of his congregation at Geneva United Presbyterian Church in Canton, he was hoping to move them to action.

Certainly he was moved himself as he reminded his listeners of the death of Madonna Tharpe, a Canton resident. She "was killed on Dec. 18 (or murdered would be a better term) by a drunk driver on the corner of Sheldon and Cherry Hill."

Gruebel described Tharpe as a bright attractive, 34-year-old woman, who worked as a licensed practical nurse at Oakwood Hospital.

"She was a happily married mother of two children," he said. "Madonna Tharpe's death will indeed be a senseless, meaningless death, another statistic on a growing list of those killed on our highways by drunk drivers unless something is done."

At the end of his sermon he said, "I beg you to get involved with the MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Drivers).

SOMETHING WAS done. A chapter of MADD was started, open not only to members of the congregation, but to men and women in the community as well. The group meets monthly in Geneva United Church.

Not willing to sit still despite sterner MADD-backed laws on the books in Michigan, members of the new branch within a short time were talking about monitoring the courts to check on the kinds of sentences handed out to drunk drivers.

A seminar on court monitoring, taught by attorney Michael Ritenous, soon will be announced. This course is expected to be popular as a result of the sentencing of William Matney for the death of Madonna Tharpe.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman recently sentenced Matney to 117 days in the Detroit House of Correction, days that he had already served while awaiting trial. He went free on five years probation.

After the accident, he fled the scene, later to be arrested. He also failed to appear for his preliminary examination. He was then arrested a second time.

"A tragedy like this is an example of why there is a group like MADD," said Gruebel. "That young man was released on probation. It hardly seems fitting justice considering he caused the death of a woman. The courts are not sensitive to the plight of the victim or the victim's family."

HELPING THE FLEDGLING organization get off the ground were Lee and Sue Landis of Livonia. Their son was killed by a drunk driver in 1981. Lee Landis is president of the Wayne County Chapter of MADD.

One of those in the audience was Pat Shinske, a Livonian, who was driving with her daughter when they were hit by a drunk driver running a red light. As she presented it, her case was an example of the many frustrations experienced by parents looking for justice in drunk driving cases.

"It was his second drunk driving offense in 10 months," said Shinske, who thinks the only reason she and her daughter were not killed was that they were wearing safety belts.

"He was tried by Judge James McCann and got a fine of $550, court fees, a two-year probation and a restricting driving license, which doesn't mean a thing. My daughter had a bruised spine and water on the spine. She had never thought of death. She cried at night and lost sleep. She couldn't leave home.

"The 42-year-old man who hit us said in court to think of his family. What about mine? What makes him so special because he has two kids. I do too. He had no remorse. He looked as though I was a gnat really bothering him.

"I don't want people to go to jail. I think the man's family has been punished enough. But I don't want him to drive. I want him to walk. Or take a bus or taxi."

Canton resident Ralph Shufeldt became hostile to drinking and driving when he was in the service. Driving across the country frequently he came upon many accidents. "Often you could smell the alcohol," he said.

He is now vice president of the western region of the Wayne County MADD.

"Hopefully we will make judges and prosecuting attorneys aware we are in the audience watching and monitoring their final decisions," he said. "One of the big problems in the court system is that when a person is tried, the original charge is reduced. He gets off with a lesser sentence than the law calls for. It's a plea bargaining process to speed cases through the system. In many cases justice is not done."

Prior to having heard about the result in the Tharpe case he was optimistic that things were beginning to change for the better in regard to sentencing.

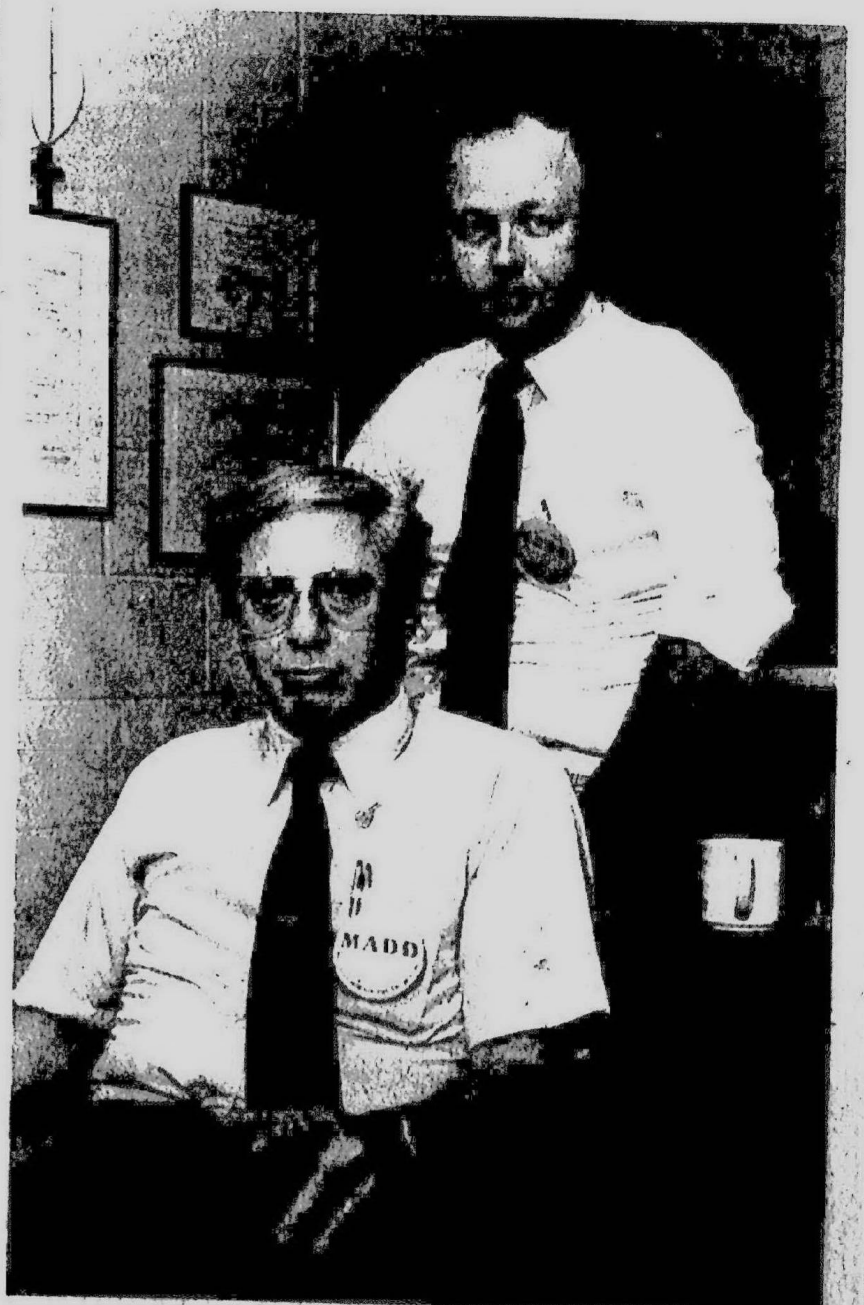

OLGA WELCH believes there should be more publicity about the consequences of killings by drunk drivers.

Carol Paik of Canton, who had come to the meeting because her father-in-law had been killed last December by a drunk driver, hopes "to get some justice for the victims." She added that "a slap on the wrist" given to a drunk driver is no deterrent.

"There must be strict laws so judges don't have much leeway to let them off easily," she said. She also advocates strengthening parental attitudes about enforcing laws already on the books.

"Don't supply them with alcohol until they are of age," she said.

One of Gruebel's roles in the organization will be in relation to the issue raised by Paik. He plans to take the role of a teacher. He hopes to speak to both young people and parents on the sometimes tragic mixture of drinking and driving.

Canton resident Ralph Shufeldt (left) and Rev. Kenneth Gruebel of the Geneva United Presbyterian Church in Canton are behind the local efforts to get more people involved in MADD. Shufeldt, vice president of the western region of Wayne County MADD, wants to monitor judges and prosecuting attorneys to ensure that justice is served on drunk drivers. Gruebel has taken his plea for more support to the pulpit in an effort to stem the "crisis sweeping across our land."

Greenmead hosts antique auto show

Antique cars, ice cream sundaes and lemonade will provide an old-fashioned Sunday at Greenmead on Sunday, July 10.

Approximately 80 antique cars dating from a 1921 Packard to late 1950s cars will be exhibited.

Ice cream sundaes and lemonade will be available noon to 3 p.m. For a donation, visitors can tour the Hill House Museum located in the stately 1841 farm house. Flower gardens and three buildings in Livonia's Historical Village will be open free of charge.

Sponsored by the Livonia Historical Commission and the Motor City Packards, the Greenmead Antique Auto Show will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults; children under 12 will be admitted free.

Greenmead is at Eight Mile and Newburgh roads. Parking will be available off Newburgh, south of Eight Mile.

For more information, call the historical commission at 477-7376.

Good old summertime means parties, camp, track stars

The music was loud, the dancing was fun, and the party was a surprise, at least to the guest of honor, Jack Lashbrook!

For his big "Four-O," his wife Karen, and his children, Lisa and Jack, invited some friends over. Friends like Jerri and Rich De Tata, Dave and Nancy LaRue, Mary and Jerry Lonergan, Dale and Happi Merritt, Jenny and Bob Najmowitz were there, to mention a few. And let me not forget the lady who made it all possible, Jack's mother, Mrs. Lashbrook.

This was, however, no run-of-the-mill birthday party. One of the cutest gifts was a shirt honoring the well-known generous spirit of the Lashbrooks, especially when it comes to the use of their pool. Joan and Jerry Brown presented Jack with a shirt identical to the one they gave Karen for her last birthday, with the words "Jack and Karen Swim Club" printed on it.

But alas folks, when Cantonites party, they party. So what can top an already sparkling swimming birthday party with lots of friends? Well, how about your basic Onion delivery of a birthday greeting. Yes sir, that's what Karen ordered for Jack and out came the singing birthday-o-gram and they quickly dispatched Jack into the pool. After singing his birthday greeting, of course. Happy Birthday, Jack!

I RECEIVED a phone call from a Mrs. Getyina, who wanted to make sure that a certain group from this area be thanked publicly for their generous gift to her son.

It seems she has just recently found out that her young son, only 7 years old to be exact, has diabetes, and the Plymouth Elks Lodge 1780 arranged for Braden to attend a very special summer camp.

At this camp, Braden did all the wonderful things kids always do at camp from yelling and screaming to swimming and trouble making — with one wonderful addition — the children learn how to cope with diabetes.

They learn how to give self injections and to be responsible for their own care in general, because there will be times in their lives when parents won't be around to keep after them. They learned that they are still wonderful little people who have a great deal to give to, and take from, our world.

But first, they must take care of themselves.

The camp is "Camp Midicha," run by the American Diabetes Association and the Plymouth Elks Lodge 1780 sent our own Braden Getyina of Canton to the camp. We all say thank you!

SOME CANTON children were involved in a track and field day sponsored by the Polish Falcons of America. This group does not have a chapter in Canton but you're welcome to join a chapter in another area.

The group is dedicated to physical fitness, especially when directed toward children. The Karpinski family have been members since Mr. Karpinski was young, so his children also joined.

A recent track and field day was held at Orchard Lake St. Marys and I'd like to report the Karpinski gang did Canton proud. The oldest girl, Lori, came in first in shot-put, high-jump and broad-jump! Now how's that for a sweep?

Her younger brother and sister came through for Canton too! Rick at only 13 years of age took on the high school seniors in shot-put and came in third, and he zoomed in the 440 relay race to take first place.

And last but not least, the youngest Karpinski, Kristen, won first in the 50-yard dash and again in the long jump!

So let's hear it for the Karpinski family bringing all those wins home to Canton! With all the Polish people in Canton I'm surprised we don't have a chapter of this fine family-oriented group here in Canton!

Congratulations, Falcons!

I WANT TO take a moment to mention Jeff Talbott and his "Short Stop" nose.

Jeff and nose are doing fine and the doctors don't think he'll need surgery. This was one of those times that has happened before and will happen again when someone catches a ball with something other than his mitt! It seems a hard hit took a bad bounce direct into Jeff's nose and knocked Jeff and his nose flat!

This brought to mind the torment a mother is put through by society when something like this happens to a child. Many people insist the mother sit quietly in the stands and await information on the child's well-being. Well, perhaps a rule of thumb.

If a child still needs his mother's permission to join, and her transportation to get there, then he is not too old for his mother to run onto the field. For when they are too old for this, they will no longer need us to sign for them to enter, or drive them. So we probably won't be there to run onto the field, anyway!

Too many people are trying too hard to make our children grow up too fast, so mothers take heart! Do what comes naturally. Maybe that's why the job of mothering was given to us in the first place!

NOW FOR A non-energetic activity but a great American pastime — The Garage Sale!

Now I know I can't list everybodys garage sales, but this is one of those gigantic subdivision garage sales. That is to say, everyone can have the sale at their own home, it is just suggested that if you want to have a garage sale do it on this day.

And so I bring to you these dates of July 7, 8, and 9 in the Sheldon-Hanford area between Ford and Warren for the Carriage Hills garage sale. Now that's fun, and you don't need a lot of energy, just cash.

I EVEN FOUND a non-active activity for young adults. A continuing series encouraging youth participation at St. John Neumann Church on Warren Rd. will have as guest speaker at 12:30 p.m. July 17 the Rev. Alex Steinmiller. He will encourage the young adults to help each other, and offer some suggestions as to how they may achieve this.

Previous speakers in this series of youth interest have been Pastor Jerry Yarnell from St. Michael Lutheran Church, Canton, and from Sacred Heart Seminary, Fr. Patrick Halfpenny. This entire series of special services is an effort to make the church more relative to the lives of young people today. See you next week — keep calling!

Lions Clubs' project

Scandinavian summer sojourn

Twelve local students are spending six weeks with Scandinavian families as part of Lions Clubs International Youth Exchange program. They are among the 99 Michigan youths who are visiting 14 countries this summer. As part of the exchange arranged by the Lions clubs, 149 Michigan families are hosting students from abroad.

The group sponsored by the Canton and Plymouth Lions clubs left June 29 for Scandinavia. They flew to Boston and from there to London and Hamburg. They were entertained by the Hamburg Lions Club and taken on a tour of the city. From there, they traveled by train and ferry to their destinations.

Plymouth-Canton students headed for Sweden were Alice Shobe, Eric Shobe, Karen Miller, Carl Heiney and Ishin Weng.

KIM SMITH, Kathleen Benson, Kiyoko Edick, Gail Brandt, Michele Harrison and Steven Harrison went to Finland. Ruthann Trout went to Denmark.

Other Michigan exchange students will spend the summer in France, Italy, Germany, England, Austria, Australia, Switzerland, Belgium, Norway, and South Africa.

Larry Wegrzyn of London Court, Canton Township, is state chairman for the Lions Youth Exchange program. The cultural exchange program is limited to youths 16-21 years of age. Students are selected on the basis of scholarship, citizenship and behavior for they will act as good-will ambassadors of the United States and the Lions clubs.

THE STUDENTS were provided with packets of data on their home state and their hometowns. They took slides of activities and landmarks in their area. These will be shown when they attend Lions Club meetings in their hosts' community.

They were told that language will be no problem in the Scandinavian countries, where children begin English language lessons at the age of 7. It was suggested they take along a week's supply of clothing so they would have room in their luggage for things they want to bring home.

They took along special gifts for the members of their host families. They also took along cameras and some even tucked in tennis racquets. When they return, they will speak to their local Lions Clubs and show slides of their summer activities.

They'll be home Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Malek-Ross

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Malek of Canton announce the engagement of their daughter, Dawn Marie, to James C. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ross of Plymouth. High school juniors turn politicians at Girls' State

Three juniors from the Centennial Educational Park participated in the 43rd American Legion Auxiliary Girls' State. They were among the more than 500 students at Central Michigan University who gained practical experience in the political and governmental process.

Plymouth Canton High School students were Kandra Dilts, sponsored by the Woman's Club of Plymouth, and Krista Kirchoff, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Pam Pavliscaak of Plymouth Salem High School was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Girls' State participants must be high school juniors recommended by their schools and sponsored by a civic organization.

Selection is based on interest, achievement in school and all-round school activities. Participants must be recommended by teachers and counselors.

UPON ARRIVAL, the girls are assigned to a city and to one of the two designated political parties — Federalist or Nationalist. The parties do not correspond in any way to current political groups in Michigan.

The mythical "51st State" of Girls' State has the same laws and constitution as Michigan. The convention system is used throughout the eight-day program to nominate candidates to city, county and state positions.

Kandra Dilts was a member of the Federalist party and served as a member of the State Central Committee and the Convention Subcommittee. She was Finkbeiner City Party Chairwoman and was appointed press secretary to the governor of Girls' State. She was one of 75 Girls Staters who passed the bar examination and became a member of the State Bar Association.

KRISTA KIRCHOFF was a member of the Federalist party and served as a county commissioner. She worked on the city commission and was an assistant secretary during the Federalist party convention.

Pam Pavliscaak, a member of the Nationalist Party, served on the State Central Committee and as chairman of the campaign committee. As a member of the Senate, she was chairman of the Judiciary Committee. She was given a special honor when she was chosen Rhubarb Queen.

Girls' State was established in 1941. Sponsored and directed by the American Legion Auxiliary, it is designed as a practical experience in the problems of self-government.

How to submit news items

News of clubs, service organizations, engagements, weddings and wedding anniversaries are printed without cost in the Suburban Life Section of the Plymouth Observer and Canton Observer newspapers.

News items may be dropped off or mailed to the office at 461 S. Main St., Plymouth 48170. Special forms are available for club news, engagements, weddings and 50th wedding anniversary announcements.

Black and white pictures are preferred as they reproduce more clearly than color photos. A self-addressed, stamped envelope assures return of the pictures, or, they can be picked up at the office a week after they have been published. Mail should be addressed to the attention of Elinor Graham, Suburban Life editor.

Activities of more major scope than regular club meetings may warrant more extensive coverage and a photograph. Call the newspaper, 459-2700, well in advance of the event to permit scheduling a photograph.

Breaking news stories (and we appreciate telephone calls on these) like fires, accidents, etc., receive on-the-spot coverage.

Other events, planned for in advance, should be announced a week or so before the actual date.

Students can brush up on study skills

Preschoolers through eighth graders can enhance their basic learning skills in classes offered at New Morning School in Plymouth Township.

Elaine Yagiela, director of the school, announced openings in basic skills classes beginning July 11 and Aug. 1. Three-week sessions in reading, writing, math and study skills will last two hours each morning for grades one to five and six to eight. Special emphasis will be placed on the child's weaker skills and programming will be individualized for each student.

These classes will be taught by Kathleen Kerekes, Canton resident. She is an experienced teacher with a master's degree in elementary education and learning disabilities. She previously directed a summer school program in Toledo.

CLASS FEES for these classes are $90 for the three-week session or $150 for the six-week session.

For pre-schoolers, a mid-summer class will be offered emphasizing arts and crafts. Classes will be from 9-11 a.m. Monday and Wednesday July 11-20.

Marilyn Romack, a Canton Township resident and preschool program director at New Morning, will teach the classes. The children will have an opportunity to experiment with various art media. Class fee is $36.

For telephone registration call 348-9294 for grades one to eight, or 981-3474 for preschool arts and crafts. For information about fall preschool and K-8 classes at the private school, call the school, 420-3331.

The school is at 14501 Haggerty, just north of Schoolcraft.

Ann Arbor's marketplace has an Old World flair

Colorful bazaar brightens city's north side

A shopper examines some of the pottery for sale at the Ann Arbor farmers' market.

You don't have to go to Morocco to photograph an interesting market scene. You can find everything except the camels and the souks on Saturday and Wednesday in Ann Arbor.

The market makes colorful patches around the Kerrytown shops, which inhabit the 400 block of north Fourth and Fifth streets in the older, northern section of town.

You'll find school administrator Coleman Jewett selling handcrafted wooden "rocking chairs for plants." He makes them as "weekend therapy."

You may find musicians like Eileen and David Murphy, or David Orlin, playing their guitars and flutes between the balloon table and the pottery stand.

You'll certainly see a crowd of tiny children lifting baby kittens out of their boxes, to the consternation of their parents. The market is a great place to get rid of kittens. Once the kids see them, their parents don't have a chance.

At this time of year, the people moving between the stalls and the parking lots usually are carrying plants. As the summer wears on, they will be carrying ing fruits and vegetables in season.

LIKE ANY farmers' market, the growers sell what they harvest.

Inside the Kerrytown building, you walk amid the cool smell of fresh meat, baked bread, sausage and ripening fruit. Balloons are tied to the strollers and shoulder bags that go by. You'll find kids kneeling on high stools under Coca-Cola signs and heads making a crowd of silhouettes against the racked fruit.

Whatever you want, plus a lot of things you haven't heard of, are for sale here: falafel, croissants, tempura, soft-shell clams. People buy food to take home and food to eat outside on the benches, or while walking among the tomato plants.

The T-shirts bear every kind of advertisement: Chamber's Nursery and Garden Center; Toronto; Coca-Cola (in Hebrew); Chuck E. Cheese.

When we had sampled the market, we explored the rest of the area and then shopped for a picnic lunch. A second-hand xylophone from a garage sale; every student in town has a garage sale. A handful of expensive but delicious coffee beans. An old chair from the antique-and-junk splendor of the Treasure Mart.

For lunch, we stood in line at Zingerman's Deli (across the street from Kerrytown) and then drove to Island Park to eat pate, fresh bread, Black Forest ham, Havarti cheese and fresh apple juice. We shared our lunch with two families of local ducks while we watched the canoes go by.

THE SUMMER EXPERIENCE at Ann Arbor is quite different than you will find in the wintertime. The students have all gone home. Local people find the lines shorter and the crowds smaller in every restaurant and shop.

Photos by Iris and Micky Jones

With most of the college students away for the summer, Ann Arbor's restaurants and shops are much less crowded than usual. The farmers' market is a leisurely place to shop, this woman finds.

If you are more energetic than we were, you can join the Ann Arbor bicycle club any Saturday morning at 8 a.m. when they meet at the Old Amtrak Station next door to the Gandy Dancer for their weekly Breakfast Ride. They roll 15 miles down the Huron Parkway to Dexter and back, with a stop at Delhi Metropark.

Those who are even more energetic can park at Delhi, take the bus to Hudson's Mill, and rent a canoe for a float downriver. It costs $14 per canoe, and you needn't deliver it back to Delhi until 6 p.m. Eager beavers paddle down in an hour and a half.

There are lots of other summer things to do in Ann Arbor. Contact the Visitors' Bureau at 207 E. Washington Street or pick up a copy of the calendar published by the Ann Arbor Observer.

Whatever you want, plus a lot of things you haven't heard of, are for sale here: falafel, croissants, tempura, soft-shell clams. People buy food to take home and food to eat outside on the benches, or while walking among the plants.

Amtrak offers advance-purchase discount

Amtrak has announced a regional travel fare which, for the first time, ties savings to advanced purchase of tickets and makes available a summer-long bargain fare.

Offering special maximum coach fares for trips taken until Friday, Sept. 30, the new plan is a variation with some restrictions of the regional All Aboard America fares offered through the spring and discontinued for sale on May 1.

Under the new plan, all reservations must be made and tickets purchased for the entire journey five days before departure. No open tickets will be issued, and all changes to reservations or ticketing must be made five days before beginning a trip. Tickets will be on sale through Wednesday, Aug. 31.

As with the predecessor plan, Amtrak passengers may make a round trip in one or more of three regions in the United States (and Montreal and Toronto are included in the Eastern region) for a set maximum. You may take 30 days for the trip and are allowed a stopover in each direction in addition to the destination. Return may be over an alternate routing.

FARE FOR travel within one region will be $175, up $50 from the former single-region fare. But fares will remain the same, $225, for travel within two adjoining regions and $299 within the three regions of the United States.

The geographic regions are:

- Eastern — the Atlantic Coast west to and including the City of New Orleans route between Chicago and New Orleans;
- Central — from and including the Chicago-New Orleans route west to El Paso, Albuquerque, Denver and Wolf Point, Mont.;
- Western — from El Paso, Albuquerque, Denver and Wolf Point west to the Pacific Coast.

Fares for children 2-11, accompanied by an adult, are $87.50 for one region, $112.50 for two adjoining regions and $149.50 for all three regions.

Because of heavy travel on many Amtrak trains through the summer, reserved seats for those traveling on the Advance Purchase All Aboard American Fares will be limited, and these special fares will not be valid for purchase of sleeping accommodations during the very peak period, lasting until Sunday, Aug. 31.

Fares will not be good in Club Car or Metroliner services and may not be used as credit toward Week of Wheels programs. Tickets using this fare will not be sold aboard trains.

Culture caravan

Madonna group spend month in Europe

By Catherine Bliak
staff writer

A Madonna College staff member, recent graduates and suburban residents are touring Europe's cultural highlights for a month.

The travelers are led by Sister Martin Ann Stamm, head of Madonna College's religious studies department. They will return to Detroit from Amsterdam on July 24.

Students can get up to four college credit hours by arrangement with Madonna College.

This cultural tour includes Frankfurt and Heidelberg, Germany; Tyro, Austria; Venice, Florence and Rome, Italy; and Nice, Avignon and Paris, France. Other stops will include London, England; Amsterdam, The Netherlands; Monaco and Vatican City for a tour of the artistic treasures of the Vatican museums.

The group is comprised of persons from 13-73.

Tyrosse Sally, a May 1943 Madonna graduate with an art major, looks forward to getting a taste of the great art museums and sketching his way through Europe.

"I'll get a chance to see the things I've been reading about," said Sally. The Rev. Wolfgang Streichardt is also on the trip. Streichardt was born in Erfurt, East Germany, and ordained into the priesthood last year.

THERE WILL be a tear-filled reunion in West Germany, as he plans to surprise his mother with a visit while on the tour. She has not seen him in several years.

Frances Kudla and Roberta Schrack received an associate of science degree from Madonna College in May as gerontology majors. They will tour English hospices, where dying people are cared for in a home-like setting.

Kudla is the director of Willis House in Willis, Mich., a nursing facility for people over 18.

Roberta Schrack is executive director of Roberta's Adult Foster Care Inc., which has 11 homes in Michigan and Florida.

Geri Ganik of Canton was given a trip as a 46th birthday present. She works for Siga Food Services.

Victoria Bleggi of Northville is going first to go on the trip. They visited her mother and father in the Netherlands and Beverly Bleggi wanted to join their daughter on the European tour.

Cathy and Maggie Brunson of Plymouth, sisters, will visit an in London, England.

Sister Bernadine Fabian and her sister, Esther Giffels of Sanford, Mich., are on the trip, as are Emma Williams from Florida and her sister, Helen Ryjac from Dearborn Heights.

There will be three sets of mothers and daughters touring Europe.

Karen Miotowski, a nurse from Warren, signed up to go on her own, then decided to take her 71-year-old mother, Henrietta, along.

Helen and Mary Jo Senoveck of Canton Township and Olivia and Camille La France are the other mothers and daughters on the trip.

LED BY RITA Mathers, 10 Windsor residents are on the Madonna tour.

Laura Lastimer, a West Bloomfield sign language studies major, wants to see if her knowledge of International Sign Language will facilitate her travels.

Mary Zeppa of Dearborn Heights plans to become reacquainted with her relatives in Rome.

After the European trip this summer, Sister Martin Ann has other ambitious plans.

"Three of us, Sister Cecilia Eagen, Dr. Olivian Desauza and myself will go to Ireland for a week after the regular tour," she said.

"I hope to visit County Galway from where my maternal relatives, the Croughans and O'Connors, came over here 100 years ago."

Next year's trip will have staff members and students travel to Israel, Egypt, Greece and Rome.

Enjoying a laugh before jetting to Europe are recent Madonna College graduates Roberta Schrack (left) and Frances Kudla, and Sr. Martin Ann Stamm. The three are members of the Madonna contingent that is spending a month in Europe. Stamm is heading the group, while Schrack and Kudla are touring English hospices.

10 Commandments — then, now and forever

(Editor's note: Due to a production error, this column was inadvertently cut when it appeared last week. It appears in its entirety here.)

The greatest statement of moral conduct in the Western World is the Ten Commandments. These fundamental privileges have been accepted, taught and transmitted by Judaism, Christianity and Islam. Indeed, they embody the shared moral idealism of Western religions.

Up until modern times, there was little controversy about the validity of the divine commands. True, there were those who rejected God's dictates, but they were prepared to accept the consequences.

Because the Almighty was regarded as the absolute authority, he had the right to command that we abide by his moral code. Did we not accept his sovereignty at Sinai?

THEN THE mood of modern man changed this traditional conception. Sophisticated and educated people questioned whether God, or anyone, for that matter, could issue commands without our veto.

They preferred to replace the Ten Commandments with 10 suggestions. Let the individual decide for himself if he wants to follow the Biblical code, or say code, for that matter.

moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner

These modernists brought up their children in the same atmosphere of relativism. They would not command them to do anything. They would only suggest and employ gentle persuasion at best.

These elders remembered only too well that when they were told that God commanded, or when their parents imposed prescribed behavior, they resented the restrictions and promised themselves they would do nothing more than suggest without being authoritative.

They would want their children to enjoy freedom and latitude in making up their own minds on moral issues. This, they believe, is how true respect is gained.

UNFORTUNATELY, the results have not been altogether encouraging. Those who grow up without clearly defined rules and respect for authority encounter great difficulty.

Some become delinquent, others do not internalize standards of right and wrong. Many are confused, lacking clearly defined goals and a sense of discipline.

Meanwhile, the statistics on crime and violence continue to mount in all the countries of the free world.

The streets of our major cities are no longer considered safe at night falls. Fear has become a way of life for those who live in the deteriorating sections of America's urban centers.

To live in constant dread of authority and its demands can cripple the mind and stunt the spirit. By the same token, to live without the fear of external authority, to ignore the consequences of disobedience and nonobedience, to establish oneself and one's desires as the sole arbiter for right and wrong can be equally destructive.

It seems that in the year 2000, the world was still in a state of war, violence in the streets, increased crime, and widespread social upheaval.

The greatest scientists of the world met at the United Nations. They were enthralled with a new computer recently created that could answer any questions submitted to it, even questions relating to complex human problems.

These scientists were summoned to request an answer from this giant computer on how to find a solution for peace, for a decrease of violence, for the elimination of corruption, stealing, and murder.

After days of assembling the proper material to feed the computer, the moment had come to receive an answer that would bring stability to the world. Scientists carefully programmed the information into the computer and waited for the answer.

The vast machine began to hum and emit the tape grinding sound. All the scientists gathered around and began to read the message to the assembled world leaders:

"I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt. I am the Lord your God. You shall not have other gods before me. You shall not worship idols. You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain. You shall keep the Sabbath day holy. You shall honor your father and mother. You shall not murder. You shall not commit adultery. You shall not steal. You shall not give false witness against your neighbor. You shall not covet. These are the commandments which the Lord your God has commanded you, that you may prosper and multiply, and that you may continue in the land which you are about to enter and possess."

Letter Writer helps get license restored

Dear Observer Readers:

Dear Letter Writer is a new column that will assist you with life's everyday frustrations and hardships as well as help you solve your problems with the proper letter.

This column will appear in the Canton and Plymouth Observers twice a month on Thursdays. The next column will appear on July 21, 1983. Write to The Letter Writer at 41714 Joy Road, Canton 48187 and avail yourself of this dynamic tool to put yourself in the "Write" Light.

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN FRUSTRATED BY ANOTHER PERSON'S OR A COMPUTER'S CONTROL OVER YOUR LIFE?

Dear Letter Writer:

On Dec. 15, 1981, I lost my driver's license privileges for one year because of a bad driving record. It is now Jan. 5, 1983 and I still do not have my license back. Can you help me write a letter to the Secretary of State?

Thank you, S.J.

Dear Director, Driver Improvement Records, Secretary of State:

On Dec. 15, 1981, I lost my driver's license privileges for one year.

One year expired on Dec. 15, 1982. I have attempted, on several occasions, to expedite the reinstatement of my license to no avail.

Today, Jan. 5, 1983, I again phoned Lansing and was told that you are "running behind" and that you would send me a letter by the end of January.

My revoked license should have been reinstated on Dec. 15, 1982 and asking me to wait for paperwork to be completed that will extend the reinstatement to the end of February penalizes me in an unfair and unjust manner. It causes me unnecessary and unreasonable harassment.

I have been punished and my sentence has been served. Please respond, by return mail, with information regarding the immediate reinstatement of my driving privileges.

Sincerely, S.J.

RESOLUTION: On Jan. 10, S.J. received a letter from the Secretary of State and on Jan. 15, 1983, her license was reinstated and her driving record was cleared.

DO YOU NEED RESEARCH INFORMATION ABOUT SOMETHING THAT YOU WOULD LIKE TO DO?

Dear Letter Writer:

I would like to walk from Los Angeles, Calif., to Halifax, Nova Scotia. Would you please help me write a letter to National Geographic asking for their assistance.

Sincerely, M.M.

Dear National Geographic Society:

My name is M.M. and in the Fall of 1983 I am going to WALK from Halifax, Nova Scotia to Los Angeles, Calif.

I am writing this letter in an attempt to avail myself of any resources that you might make available to me, i.e., suggestions for obtaining financial assistance, financial contributions, etc.; information that will help me select the best walking route for my trip; and any comments, reading materials or experiences of other long distance walkers that I might take advantage of and benefit from.

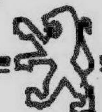

To make this kind of WALK has been a lifelong dream of mine. I would appreciate anything that you can do to help me.

Sincerely, M.M.

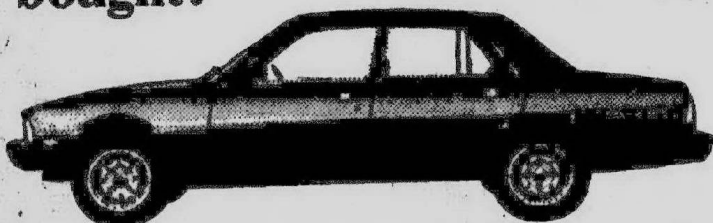

RESOLUTION: Actual letter written by the National Geographic Society:

Dear M.M.:

Thank you for writing to the National Geographic Society. The enclosed list of articles on the U.S. contains many which you might enjoy reading in

Is this the car you should have bought?

From the second-largest car-maker in Europe comes a special edition of the Peugeot 505: the model 505STI, powered by a fuel-injected gasoline engine. The seats are upholstered in soft, supple leather. The low-profile wheels are made of alloy, fitted with high-performance Michelin TRX radial tires. Even the colors are special: a metallic claret and a classic black.

The $14,990 price of the Peugeot 505STI also includes factory-installed air conditioning; electric windows and sunroof; cruise control; digital AM/FM 40-watt stereo radio with cassette player, scan tuning, and four speakers; central door locking; power-assisted steering and brakes; multi-adjustable driver's seat.

The Peugeot 505STI is so fully equipped that there is only one option, a 3-speed automatic transmission ($370) in place of the 5-speed over-drive manual gearbox.

Also available are Peugeot 505 models with diesel, turbo-diesel, and fuel-injected gasoline engines, priced from $16,175 to $10,990.

ARE YOU HAVING DIFFICULTY GETTING YOUR SUPERVISOR TO PAY ATTENTION TO THE CONCERNS OF YOU AND YOUR FELLOW EMPLOYEES?

Dear Letter Writer:

The conditions in the plant that I work in are very poor and very dangerous. My fellow employees and I have been trying to get management to listen to us and we are getting nowhere. Please help us write a letter.

Sincerely, C.C.

Dear Mr. Supervisor:

It is with regret that we find ourselves in a position sufficiently serious that we must write this letter. As you know, there are management people, employed by our company, who are paid to assist us in the solution of problems. We have, many times, in the past attempted to voice our concerns regarding safety and have, at this point, been unable to effectuate action. We respectfully request that you convene a meeting between yourself and the employees of Department 10, at your earliest convenience.

Our concerns with regard to safety are serious and imminent and require your immediate attention!

Sincerely, C.C. and Employees of Department 10

Stars invade city of champs

Just killing time...

What do Chicago's Comiskey Park and Livonia Stevenson High School's soccer field have in common? Both are sites of the biggest stars in the sport battle in a fun, yet still competitive contest.

Like the Major League Baseball All-Star game scheduled last night in the Windy City, the Observer & Eccentric's Prep Girls' Soccer Classic will feature outstanding talent Saturday morning in the Winning City — Livonia, which houses the reigning boys and girls state champions from Stevenson.

GIRLS REPRESENTING the All-Area teams from Oakland County and Wayne County will meet 11:30 a.m. Saturday at Stevenson (see related story).

This event is a first of its kind by this newspaper — pitting honor squads from the two counties in the O&E coverage area. It promises to be an exciting game, especially when you consider the brand of soccer played in such cities as Livonia and Troy, just to name two of the perennial powers.

Even if you're only slightly interested in soccer, this is the game you want to see. Every girl who will step on the field is a top-notch player. It should be entertaining, and a good instructional tool for the youngsters.

See you there.

• Is it my turn to jump on the Michigan Panthers' bandwagon?

Isn't it nice to have a sports team in this town that nobody boos. Even the Tigers — who have played as well as any team in the league the past month — give reason to stir up the boo-birds occasionally.

Sure, the Panthers are on a roll and winners of the Central Division of the United States Football League. But that's not what has me turned on and tuned in. Win or lose, this new club is simply exciting. They do things offensively their NFL counterparts only think about.

The prime example took place at Chicago in the second-to-last regular season game with the Blitz. After the Panthers built a seemingly insurmountable lead, the Blitz stormed back and pulled to within eight, 27-19, midway through the fourth quarter. In lieu of running the ball in an attempt to eat time off the clock, the Panthers — with quarterback Bobby Hebert firing passes like drills in practice — went back to work. The long drive was culminated on a 32-yard TD pass to Anthony Carter.

That's exciting football.

In addition to having a team that's fun to watch, we have a winning team that is fun to watch. And the team is run by management which cares for its players and fans. When the team was floundering in the early going, the Panther brass went after players who could turn it around.

So the team turns it around and qualifies for the playoffs by winning the division, and what does team owner Alfred Taubman do? He lowers ticket prices for the playoff game. A nice touch to a nice season.

But the Panthers' season is far from over, so says my top sports source. My private source — "Mike the Spike" — figures the Panthers are 21-point favorites at home against the Oakland Invaders Sunday. Then, assuming Philadelphia takes care of Chicago as "The Spike" predicts, Michigan will beat Philly on a neutral site — Denver's Mile High Stadium.

Now "The Spike" has been wrong before, but he also predicted Leonard over Hearn, the American League over the National League in 1971, Curren over Connors, and Mexico over Lebanon in straight sets in volleyball preliminary action at the World University Games.

Spike, who sat on the 50-yard line in the sweltering Silverdome Sunday, told me beforehand that the Panthers would outdraw the Tigers, which they did, 31,905 to 26,703.

Surely the Panthers will outdraw the Tigers Sunday, even though the football game will be televised. Wouldn't it have been something if the Tiger game was televised, though? Then you'd have the Panthers on Channel 7, the Tigers on Channel 4, and Thomas Hearn's fight with Murray Sutherland later on Channel 4.

• Speaking of Hearn, the former KO king, has been the subject of criticism due to events since his canceled bout with the destructive Marvelous Marvin Hagler last summer.

Although Hearn had just one fight since then, it was for the WBC Super Welterweight Championship, which he won in a 15-round decision from Wilfred Benitez. The Motor City Cobra had two other fights — both with puncher James "Hard Rock" Green — canceled.

WHAT'S HAPPENING is that Hearn is losing his credibility. And remaining inactive is doing nothing to change that. Assuming his right wrist and hand are 100 percent, Hearn should be fighting as often as possible. He should sacrifice big paydays for steady workouts so he can stay sharp enough to take on Hagler — if that day ever comes.

Then, he won't need to work another day in his life. If he starts knocking out all the challengers he faces, interest will be stirring for the Hearn-Hagler bout, just as it was for Hearn-Leonard. And that's just what boxing needs around now — a championship fight between two champion fighters.

If I see Roberto Duran fight one more time, I'll be crying "No mas."

All-Stars match skills

By Jim Hughes
staff writer

Talk about a dream matchup — Oakland County vs. Wayne County in a girls' high school soccer game.

Both counties are rich in soccer tradition, and when the conglomeration of all-stars representing the two Observer & Eccentric All-Area teams take the field 11:30 a.m. Saturday at Livonia Stevenson, some of the best talent in the state will be showcased. Of the girls on the two teams, five earned first-team All-State honors while seven others were selected to the second team.

The O&E Prep Girls Soccer Classic, the first of its kind, also will feature two of the best coaches in the state. Norene Divens, who guided Stevenson to the state championship this spring, will lead the Wayne County team while Mike Ruddy, who took Troy to the state semifinals, will direct the Oakland County squad.

"This is a good idea, and I think it will be a good game," Divens said. "It doesn't matter who you put out there (from the All-Area first and second teams and honorable mention), they are all very good players. We have some very strong players on every line."

"WE SHOULD have a very competitive team," Ruddy said. "I think one of the things that will be different is the style of play between the two teams. We'll try to control the ball, and I think Wayne County will use more strength and power. I have a pretty good idea of what Wayne County has, and if they have an idea of what we have, fine. If not, that's fine, too."

The Wayne County roster is made up of seven first-team players, six second-teamers and a pair of girls who made honorable mention. The players are Lisa Brocardo, Andrea Bokos, Mary Kay Hussey and Leasa Kliz of Stevenson, Dorene Dudek and Jennifer Huegill from Churchill, Kathy Greig and Lisa Rigstad from Bentley, Colleen O'Connor and Shelly Stassel from Plymouth Salem, Margie Wangbichler from Plymouth Canton, Karen Felts and Dawn Sullivan from Garden City, Heather Brda from Franklin, and Shannon Bowler from Ladywood.

Oakland County has seven first-team All-Area players, six second-teamers and one honorable mention. The players are Renee Eickholt, Trish Lally, Lori Nicley and Cheryl Kusza from Athens, Liz Suttie and Ericka Johnson from Troy, Karen Bednark from West Bloomfield, Debbie Wojtaszek and Chris Nagy from Marian, Lisa Leonard from Lahar, Beth Porterfield from Groves, Sue Ferguson from Farmington Harrison, Stephanie Scott from Seaholm, and Ilika Warshawsky from Southfield.

"I'M LOOKING for a very well-played game," Divens said. "I know the girls are looking at it from the aspect of playing and having a good time, but when they go out there, they're going out to win it."

"It may be more competitive than fun," Ruddy said, "but it should be both. It's an exhibition game, and that's the way it should be. I just want to keep it in the right perspective."

The following is a brief rundown on the first-team All-Area representatives from Wayne County:

• Brocardo, a sophomore, won all-conference honors and Stevenson's MVP award for her defensive play. She scored six goals and added five assists.

• O'Connor, a junior defender, was all-division and all-league for the second year in a row. A captain for Salem, O'Connor was noted for her tackling skill.

Pitching parade combines for a 3-hitter

By Brad Emmons
staff writer

It certainly wasn't nervousness so Judge for yourself.

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) standouts ignored the jitters Tuesday of playing at Tiger Stadium, defeating the Lansing All-Stars, 2-0, in the annual Adray baseball game.

Catchers John Judge of Livonia Adray and Mike Barger of Ann Arbor Wendy's stood out offensively, combining for four of their team's seven hits as the LCBL won for the first time in seven years.

"When they got on the field they were a little awestruck," said Roger George, manager of the Redford-Westland Adray, currently first in the LCBL. But for Judge, the Catholic Central graduate who spent this spring at Miami-Dade (Fla.) JC, it was old hat.

"I wasn't nervous because I played here in high school (in the Catholic League championships) and have been a bullpen catcher here for a month now," he said. "I've been going out here every day when they (the Tigers) are in town at 3 p.m. with Roger Craig and the pitchers."

"But it's always a thrill to play here."

JUDGE, used as a designated hitter in the All-Star game, got a much deserved rest from behind the plate. He catches in two leagues in addition to his Tiger duties.

Livonia scored twice and collected four hits in the first inning off Lansing starter John Smoltz, threatening to blow the game wide open.

Livonia Adray's John DePillo led off with a walk and went to third on Tony DeMare's (RWA) single. RWA's Jim Zentgraf then followed with another single, scoring DePillo to make it 1-0. DeMare eventually scored on a wild pitch.

But that was the extent of the scoring. The LCBL, meanwhile, used six pitchers to blank Lansing on three hits.

Moore shocks foe to win Festival gold

By Scott Soucy
special writer

The fifth-running of the National Sports Festival was as good for Roderick Moore last week as it was bad for Craig Payne.

Moore, a recent graduate of Bishop Borgess High School, boxed his way to a gold medal in the 139-pound class, while Payne, Livonia's super-heavyweight, was upset in a first-round bout against 28-year-old Al Evans of Chicago.

A decided underdog, Moore surprised Cleveland's Henry Hughes, rated No. 1 nationally, in his semifinal bout with a 5-0 decision.

Moore knocked down Hughes briefly in the second round and showed no fear against the favorite.

Fighting out of the Kronk Gym, Moore went on to win the Gold by decisioning Vincent Webb of St. Louis, Mo., raising his amateur record to 119-15. (Webb reached the final by earning a hard-fought decision over Jerry Page of Columbus, Ohio).

"I didn't like being just an opponent in this tournament," said Moore, the 1983 Golden Gloves champion. "I was rated fourth going into the competition, but now I should be No. 1."

IN THE FINAL, round one was uneventful, Moore using good boxing skills and movement to gain a slight edge.

The pace picked up somewhat in the second round with Moore becoming the aggressor as both boxers scored well with left jabs.

Moore then scored a standing eight-count over the tiring Webb in the final round, almost stopping his opponent.

Payne, the defending Sports Festival and Golden Gloves champ, was hoping for a rematch with Philadelphia's Tyrell Biggs, who won a controversial decision over him in the 1982 U.S. Championships.

But 223-pound Payne, who had beaten Evans in three previous encounters, never got there.

Thirty-seconds into the first round, Evans connected with a long right lead to the head of Payne, knocking the Livonia boxer to the canvas for a quick two-count.

PAYNE was up quickly as action resumed, but Evans kept up his charge. He backed Payne into the ropes, unleashing a straight right hand. Payne, however, appeared to avoid the punch, but slipped while throwing his own combinations.

Referee John Holaus of St. Louis, Mo., however, judged that Payne had suffered a severe blow and rushed in, stopping the bout after just 44 seconds of action.

The crowd disagreed with the decision, but there was nothing the 22-year-old Payne or his corner could reverse.

Both Payne and Moore will compete Aug. 8 in St. Louis in the Pan-Am Game Trials.

Payne, who boxes out of the Livonia Boxing Club, will have a chance to redeem himself, while Moore, the eight-year veteran, must now defend his No. 1 spot.

Pitchers trade off gems in twin-bill

Do unto others . . . Which is what the Plymouth Canton Elks did to the Plymouth Salem Elks Tuesday in their Connie Mack baseball double-header at Canton.

In the opener, Salem's Rick Berberet handcuffed Canton on just three hits as Salem swept to a 2-0 victory.

But the tables were turned in the nightcap. Canton's Bucky Blake returned the favor, stopping Salem on two hits in an 8-2 triumph.

The split left both teams with two defeats. Canton remains atop the league standings with a 9-2 mark, while Salem is 6-2.

IN THE OPENER, Berberet allowed just one walk while striking out three to collect the victory. Mike Battaglia's mound performance for Canton — one earned run, seven hits, no walks and five strikeouts — went for naught.

Salem scored a run in the fourth on singles by Mike Cindrich and Dan Carlson and a wild pitch attempt at first, which sent Cindrich home. Salem added another in the sixth on a single by Mick Madsen, a steal of second and a single by Carlson. Cindrich and Carlson each had two hits.

Blake fanned six and walked six in the second contest. Barry McNamara was tagged with the defeat for Salem, allowing six hits and eight walks, striking out seven.

Key hits for Canton were provided by Jim Dillon, who doubled in three runs in the third, and by Tim Michalak, who blasted a three-run homer in the fourth. Canton's John Longridge was the only player with two hits in the contest. Longridge also scored two runs.

Too good a show? Iafrate must decide on Olympics

By Brad Emmons staff writer

people in sports

Decisions, decisions. That's what 17-year-old hockey whiz Al Iafrate must face after making the big cut for the U.S. Olympic hockey team at last week's National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Livonia defenseman was among 27 players selected to practice with the U.S. squad. He can either take part in the 65-game whirlwind schedule prior to the 1984 Winter Olympics in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, and risk being one of seven players still to be cut, or play next year with the Belleville Bulls of the Ontario Hockey Association, one of Canada's highly rated Major A leagues.

"Finishing high school and getting a diploma — that will be a factor," said the 6-foot-3, 190-pound Iafrate. "It's going to be a lot tougher decision. I'll have to talk with the people at Belleville."

Considered a top major league prospect,

Iafrate most recently decided to forego his senior year at Bentley High School and finish his schooling while playing in Belleville, a small town north of Toronto.

BECAUSE HE was drafted by the Bulls and would receive money for his play, Iafrate would forfeit his NCAA eligibility.

"We sat down with Dr. (Ken) Watson (Bentley's principal) and he was very open with us," said Iafrate's mother, Alice. "He said that you should pursue your dream."

But a potential Olympic berth has thrown a wrench into his plans.

"I'm surprised he was even asked to play (at the Sports Festival) and I thought he'd just have the experience to skate with older players," admitted Mrs. Iafrate. "I didn't think he'd make it. It makes me nervous for him."

"But it's a thrill of a lifetime and I'm very happy for him."

Eighty of America's top amateur players converged last week on Colorado Springs to make an impression on coach Lou Vairo.

Iafrate played on the East squad (one of four teams) and steadily improved during his week of play. Considered an offensive defenseman, Iafrate tallied two goals and added two assists.

"I just came here hoping to make a good showing," said the young Livonian. "At first I was really nervous. The game was more fast-paced, but everybody, even the older players, were nice to me and treated me well."

"I got more comfortable as I played and I found out I could skate with them."

Iafrate remained in Colorado Springs last week for testing.

"I thought the Sports Festival was really exciting," he said. "Especially

Al Iafrate faces tough decision the opening day ceremonies and meeting all the different people."

ON TUESDAY, Waterford's Pat LaFontaine, drafted third overall in the recent NHL draft by Stanley Cup champion New York Islanders, joined his ex-teammate at the Olympic Training Center.

"We're good friends," said Iafrate. "We played two years ago together on Compuware."

Iafrate said that even if LaFontaine decided to play for the U.S., it wouldn't have a bearing on his decision.

MD softball upcoming

If you've got a Class B or C softball team with a .500 record or worse, there's a place for you: the sixth annual Canton Muscular Dystrophy Softball Tournament Aug. 5-7 at Griffin Park.

The entry fee is $95, all of which will be donated to fighting muscular dystrophy. In the past five years, the tournament has resulted in more than $20,000 collected to find a cure for MD.

Teams must also pay a $5 umpire fee for each game of the double-elimination tournament and supply one ball. Last year, 48 teams competed in both men's and women's play. This year's tournament is for men's teams only.

For further information, call Jean at 981-5456, Monday-Friday during normal business hours.

Robinson's bat sparks DiPonio

Tim Robinson blasted a two-run double to support the stingy pitching of Brian Tiller and Dan Knapp as Plymouth Salem DiPonio stopped Southfield, 5-1, Saturday.

DiPonio suffered a 6-5 setback June 30 at the hands of North Farmington I, despite another superlative effort by Robinson.

Robinson's long double to left center was all DiPonio needed in its win over Southfield. Rob Adams and Dom DeBello contributed two hits apiece in the victory.

Tiller started and got the victory for DiPonio, pitching the first five innings. Knapp relieved in the sixth and hurled the final two frames to pick up the save.

Against North Farmington I, Robinson banged out three hits in four trips and knocked in all five Salem runs, but it wasn't enough to derail North. Mike McKinney went the full seven innings and was saddled with the defeat. McKinney also had two hits at the plate.

YOUTH SUPERSTARS

Wanted: the top young athletes in Canton Township.

Reason: to compete in the fourth annual Youth Superstars Contest this Saturday at Griffin Park.

Reward: advancement to the Metro Detroit Superstars Contest later this month.

If you're under 15 years old, show up Saturday at Griffin and you'll get the chance to prove your skills in basketball, baseball, golf, soccer, running and more.

The contest is divided into three age groups for both boys and girls: nine and under, 10-12 and 13-15. The games start at 10 a.m., with pre-registration at 9:30 a.m. There is no charge to compete. For further information, call the Parks and Recreation department at 397-1000.

SALEM SOCCER

All Plymouth Salem male students wishing to play varsity soccer in the fall should phone coach Ken Johnson between 4 and 7 p.m. at 397-0668.

NBA HOTSHOTS

The annual Pepsi Cola/NBA Hotshot program is here again, bringing with it the chance for three age groups of boys and girls to shoot for glory.

The local competition starts July at Eriksson Elementary school. On July 13, the program shifts to Field Elementary, with the last chance scheduled for July 20 at Central Middle School. Competition is at 3:45 p.m. each day.

Age groups for both boys and girls are 9-12, 13-15 and 16-18. Each player gets one minute to make as many baskets as possible from pre-determined "hotspots" around the basket. Points are awarded for all converted shots. Winners move into regional and national competition.

There is no entry fee. Players can enter at one or all three locations. For more information, call the Canton Parks and Recreation department at 397-1000.

SUMMER ICE

The Plymouth Cultural Center has open ice skating during the summer on 8-10 p.m., Mondays; 6-7 p.m., Tuesdays; 5-6:10 p.m., Thursdays; 8-10 p.m., Fridays; and 1-3 p.m., Saturdays.

All skating sessions cost a $1, while skate rental is 50 cents.

NEW GREENS

The Fox Hills Country Club in Plymouth will celebrate July 1 the opening of nine new holes on the public golf course.

The holes were added in the low lying areas south of the current 18-holes and adjacent to the M-14 Freeway. The work on the holes began in the spring of 1981 and now it makes Fox Hills one of the area's few 27-hole gold courses.

BAT TOURNEYS

The E.J. Steve Summer Gold Softball Classic will be held July 29-31 at Dearborn Ford Rotunda Fields.

Class B men's and women's teams are invited for an entry fee of $85. Trophies will be awarded.

For more information, call E.J. Steve at 563-5765 or 562-0338.

The Riverview Baseball Association will hold a single elimination baseball tournament Aug. 5-7 for the following age divisions: 9-10 years, 11-12, 13-14, 16 and under, and 18 and under.

The entry fee is $50 per team. The deadline is July 15. For more information, call 281-0574 or 283-5107.

SHARPE GOLFER

Adam Sharpe, 11, a student at Taylor Elementary School in Livonia, is a fast learner.

After recently completing his initial golf clinic, sponsored by the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department, Sharpe aced the 80-yard, 16th hole at Oasis Golf Center on his first try on the links.

Going against his father's advice, young Adams reached in his new junior set of clubs and pulled out a three-wood to card the ace.

Sharpe's score for the day was a 80-54 — 114 (par-3 course).

COACHES WANTED

Redford Union is seeking a girls' cross country coach for the fall season.

Those interested should contact RU athletic director Bob Atkins at 535-2000.

Redford Thurston is accepting applications for head football coach. Those interested should contact principal Jack Harms at 535-4000.

FOOTBALL CAMPS

The Westland John Glenn football staff will run a clinic for little league and junior high players, July 18-22.

The clinic will run 6-8 p.m. Monday-Friday.

The cost is $10 per person. You can register opening day (July 18) or send a check to: Chuck Gordon, c/o John Glenn High School, 36105 Marquette, Westland, MI 48185.

For more information, call 326-3203. The annual Westside Instructional Football Camp will be 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. starting Monday (through Friday) at Catholic Central High School.

The camp will stress basic football techniques and fundamentals. The cost is $65 per person.

For more information, call Tom Mach at 531-7252.

YOUTH FITNESS MEET

Livonia's annual Youth Fitness Meet will be Sunday at Bentley High School.

The event is open to boys and girls ages 9-14. Registration begins at 11:30 a.m. followed by competition at noon.

Rolling to gold

Skater to shoot for world title

By Brad Emone
staff writer

Chuck Jackson, the 22-year-old roller skater from Westland, appreciates the fact that he can hang a gold medal around his neck.

The 1979 Franklin High School graduate returned last week from the National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs, Colo. a winner in the 1,000-meter race and runner-up in a pair of relays.

In the 1981 Sports Festival in Syracuse, N.Y., Jackson's best individual finish was fourth.

"It was an accomplishment that I had set high for myself," said Jackson. "I wanted to win one (a gold medal). It means a lot to me."

"I wasn't sure if I could win because the conditions were not ideal. I trained hard, but the floor was different. It was slippery and a slower surface."

Jackson, no stranger to the sport, has competed in the World Championships three consecutive years — 1980, New Zealand; 1981, Belgium, and 1982, Italy — his best finish being fourth place.

"WORLD PLACEMENT is not as easy," he said, "but I'd like to win at the worlds."

Jackson appears ready to make his move to earn a spot in the World Championships, the first most perform well enough to qualify in the U.S. Nationals Aug. 9-15 in Fort Worth, Tex.

After that, Jackson could become part of a U.S. contingent going to the Pan-American Games Aug.

14-28 in Caracas, Venezuela. The world championships are this fall in Argentina.

Jackson has made rapid progress in only his sixth year of skating.

He credits his improvement to a strict training regimen.

Three times a week, Jackson travels to Fenton, Mich. to skate with teammates from Rollerama, eight of which competed at the Sports Festival.

He spends additional training time biking — 20 to 75 miles per day. And if that's not enough, he carries a 40-hour-a-week job as a supervisor at the Statin Station in Canton.

"I THINK I'm faster because I'm more experienced," he said. "I've learned different training techniques at the Olympic Training Center (in Colorado Springs). I've been there twice."

A recently built 200-meter banked track, located inside the Velodrome (for cycling) in Colorado Springs, gives U.S. skaters a viable practice facility for international competition.

"In the world championships the tracks are banked and are a lot faster," said Jackson, who is ranked third nationally indoors. "Drafting is a big advantage. This should really help."

Jackson was somewhat disheartened when roller speed skating was not accepted as a demonstration sport for the 1984 Summer Olympics.

"It's something that's been talked about the last three or four years," he said. "It was a real disappointment to all the skaters."

By JADGFELD/staff photographer

Chuck Jackson of Westland came home with a gold medal after winning the 1,000 roller speed skating race at the National Sports Festival.

But Jackson is not deterred because of the Olympic setback.

"Roller skating is fast moving," he said. "And it's enjoyable."

The gold even looks more valuable.

Dean remembers as bowling savior

In the pocket
by W.W. Edgar

Bowling lost one of its greatest friends last week.

George W. Dean, the former labor commissioner who saved the game back in 1948 with a ruling that permitted the use of 18-year-old boys as pinsetters, died at the age of 94 in Venice, Fla. He was buried last Saturday at Charlevoix, Mich., in the family plot.

Bowling was experiencing difficult times in the early 40s, with the war on, and young men being inducted into the service. With each passing day the lack of pin boys caused havoc in many of the establishments.

Conditions became so bad several of the major establishments were about to close their doors.

This was before the coming of the automatic pinsetters. Finally, the proprietors took their case to the labor commissioner and asked the age limit be reduced to age 15.

The commissioner finally worked out a program combining school and work and the game was saved. Thus, Michigan became the first state in the union to have a work program that was copied across the land.

With the program the labor commissioner always was looked upon as the savior of the game.

ANOTHER HONOR has come to Mary Mohacs recently crowned Detroit's bowling queen for the seventh time. She has been chosen to take part in the qualifying round in Milwaukee later this month to select the team for the world tournament later in the summer.

WHILE THE FINAL tally has not been reached for the final in the champion of champions tournament that are to be held at Cherry Hill Lanes on July 23-24. If an extra week is needed the days of July 30-31 have been kept open.

Last year the total entry reached 5,480 teams and the prize list surpassed $94,000. It is expected that these figures will be exceeded this time around.

WHILE THIS is a busy time for proprietors trying to plan a fall schedule for the fall and winter season, most of the top leagues will keep the lanes held last year. The lone exception will be the Bonanza Thursday Classic that is moving from Orchard Lanes in Pontiac.

Wonderland Lanes and Westland each will have their classic that are rated right behind the all stars and the ladies all star league at Garden Lanes is rated right behind the Bowlerettes and the Ladies Major.

So, it looks like another good season in the offing.

Roy Hill proudly shows off his Mercury Capri pro stock dragster in front of Jack Roush Engineering in Livonia. Hill, a native of North Carolina, will gun for a title this weekend at the Northern Nationals at Milan Dragway.

Hill climbs to dragster summit

By Brad Emons
staff writer

With the help of a Livonia Engineering firm, Roy Hill hopes to drive his Mercury Capri pro stock into the winners circle this weekend at Milan Dragway for the Northern Nationals, one of eight major races on the International Hot Rod Association (IHRA) circuit.

Hill, a furniture dealer from Sophia, N.C., and Livonia's Jack Roush entered a partnership last September with hopes of winning an IHRA title.

Currently in fifth place in the overall point standings, Hill is optimistic about a win at Milan despite the stiff competition which has been lined up.

"We're going all out," said Hill, a veteran of the sport since 1962. "We're not holding back."

Roush, a Livonia resident with 80 employees working under him, specializes in the engine development and testing. He started as a drag racer in 1964 and later formed six different world championship combinations, the latest coming in 1981 with driver Ronnie Sox driving a pro stock.

"ROY IS the crew chief and engineer," said Roush, via telephone from Colorado Springs where he is overseeing a road race. "I've known Roy since 1970, and we've respected each other when he raced Chrysler cars.

"I think there's a lot of potential, and we expect to win at Milan. Roy is as good as any (driver) we've seen."

people in sports

Hill is even more optimistic about his chances after setting a track record at Thompson, Ohio last week with a speed of 180 mph.

That optimism comes despite a crash last month in Greensboro, N.C. where Hill demolished his new test car when he hit a guard rail.

"It bothered me for awhile, but I got rid of the problems and got it off my mind last weekend," said Hill. "I settled down after we tested at Milan."

Roush added: "He was fortunate he wasn't hurt." Hill will take three motors to Milan this weekend. The engines are needed because of the amount of racing. He could step up the line as many as 10 times.

"WE HAVE a new aluminum style motor," explained Hill. "The facilities here are super. They have everything you want to work with. I've already spent four or five weeks here and I'm thinking about moving."

While Roush takes care of the engine, Hill buys the chassis. Taking into account all of his expenses, Hill says he spends $250,000 per year to race on the pro circuit.

Other Hill sponsors include Motorcraft, Lincoln-Mercury, Firestone, Moroso and Rio Airways of Texas.

"Winning is self satisfaction," said Hill. "The more I win, the more endorsements I win. The prize money doesn't pay my expenses, but you've got to have money to survive."

Ford, which dropped out of racing for a time, recently moved back onto the scene, according to Hill.

"Racing sells cars," he said. "It's something you can relate to. Fords get better gas mileage because they're better aerodynamically today and go faster with less drag. They're related to us. We're constantly changing and developing in this business."

HILL'S CLIMB is not easy. He must try to overtake points leader Ricky Smith in his Ford Thunderbird along with veteran circuit dragsters Bob Glidden, Lee Shepherd and Warren Jackson.

"Everybody is going to go all out," Hill added. "The race here in Detroit is big. Everybody wants to do well."

"Glidden is one of the top engine builders in the world."

But Hill also has a sound race background.

"I grew up around the Petty brothers," he said. "What I learned from them money can't buy." The green light, please.

Champs crowned

Adrienne Whitico won the first half of the Canton Recreation Women's Golf League with a total of 30 points over seven weeks of play at Fellows Creek.

Barb Zantop, Madelyn Doodler, Denise Chapman and Galina Burgh all tied for second with 27 points. Burgh had the best round as she carded a 48.

Other low-round performances were turned in by Margaret McGee, 49; Chapman, 51; Betty Lowing, 52.

Stan Socha and Walter Scott, meanwhile, finished the first half of the Canton Men's Golf League as the leaders with 29 points.

The team of Rick Thorne and Al Marin finished second with 24½, followed by Pat Hayden and Dan Winninger in third with 24.

golf

Scott posted the best round in seven weeks of play at Fellows Creek with a one-under-par 35. Thorne and Brian Hayes were next best at 38 each.

Activities featuring 'Ethnic Fun'

Fun and games, folk tales, crafts and folk dances are all part of Summer Ethnic Fun Days at the International Institute. Continuing through Thursday, Aug. 23, the program introduces children to the countries of Denmark, France, Ghana, Japan, Germany, Italy, Poland and Mexico through activities that originated in those lands.

The program is in the Hall of Nations at the Institute in the heart of Detroit's Cultural Center, 111 E. Kirby at John R.

The program is available by reservation only to organized groups of children with adults, or individual children with adults. Designed for children ages 6-11, the program costs 75 cents per child. There is no charge for adults.

Children will learn a Polish paper-cutting craft called Wycinanki; make an Italian mosaic; or create origami boxes, paper-folding craft from Japan.

THEY CAN take their ethnic craft home, along with a folk tale from Ghana, Japan or Germany, and stories about ethnic games they played at their Summer Ethnic Fun Day.

"Children learn about other cultures by doing fun things the children in those lands would," said Mary Ball, executive director at the institute. "We offer children exposure to other cultures in a non-academic atmosphere."

To reserve a Summer Ethnic Fun Day for a group, call Pamela Stots at the International Institute, 871-8606, during business hours Tuesdays-Thursdays.

Budding playwrights get their first break

By Carol Azislen
staff writer

The young playwright sits in rapt attention as four actors breathe life into the words she has carefully crafted on paper.

As the handful of avid theater-goers alternately laugh, remain silent and applaud, the playwright gets her first insight into how effectively the dialogue works to make her characters believable.

One actress dramatically acts out her lines without the use of props: "Give me a coat hanger. I want a coat hanger. I'm going to rip this baby out of my body and probably kill myself. But as long as you (her husband) don't have to put up with another child, I'm sure it won't matter."

SEE TURNS TO the actors playing the roles of her husband and father-in-law. "Todd, you hold one leg and Norman, you hold the other. Well come on, I don't have all night."

All the performers agree — the lines are convincing.

The character, Cindy, reacts desperately and frantically after her husband refuses to accept the news that she's pregnant. "I can't believe it. I really can't," says the husband. "Oh, Cindy, how could you do this to me?"

"Cindy's frantic search for a coat hanger and her decision to tell Todd and Norman to grab her legs are visual images," said Rosaria Cardella, co-founder of the Fourth Street Playhouse in Royal Oak.

"The images (evoked) what women actually go through when they go to a gynecologist."

THAT'S A KEY to successful playwrighting, said Cardella. She was one of the performers who staged a "reading" of former Southfield resident Ian Drife's first two plays — "The No Win Game" and "A Fond Farewell."

The Fourth Street's new "Reader's Theatre" provides a forum for budding playwrights to see their works performed on stage for the first time.

The actors simply read through the scripts with minimal props. Both the actors and the audience are encouraged to tell the playwright what they think.

"Staged readings have been around for as long as there have been plays," said Darrell Zink, artistic director. He has staged a mixed bag of contemporary plays since opening the Royal Oak theater three years ago.

"IT'S A STARTING point — a way to provide objective feedback to the playwright," he said. "If you want to have top-quality plays produced, you have to go through these intervening steps."

Zink and Cardella launched the monthly "Reader's Theatre" performances in May with hopes of soliciting scripts from Michigan playwrights.

"Part of our long-term artistic objective is to produce new plays by playwrights from Michigan and other Great Lakes states."

"We haven't performed a lot of plays by Michigan playwrights because we don't know many of them."

ZINK ALSO intends to focus on plays "by, for and about women, partly because there's a lot of fresh material by women that hasn't been available in the past." And there are more actresses than actors in the Detroit area.

He agreed to give Drife's plays a first reading because he found them both intriguing and well-written.

"The No Win Game" has the germ of a strong play. It shows how values can transcend generations.

"It's tightly written and ungodly direct. The people in her plays are real life."

That's central to playwrighting because "plays are real life condensed."

"The No Win Game" revolves around interaction between four characters — Cindy and Todd, a young middle-class couple, and Todd's parents, Norman and Lorraine. As the four characters play a word game similar to Yahtzee, they reveal their frustrations and feelings about one another.

THE PLOT HAS a few twists. Cindy tells Todd the baby may not be his. Lorraine glibly announces that Norman must be the baby's "real father." Norman admits that he's been having an affair with Cindy, but refuses to take responsibility for the child. Cindy is appalled and devastated. Lorraine runs off to New York with Cindy's father. And, everyone else remains in the house, thoroughly confused and uncertain about their future.

Although he gave Drife's plays fairly good reviews, Zink said they must be "fleshed out" and rewritten.

"Usually, we see a full-length play built on a 30-minute idea. The No Win Game" is a 30-minute play based on a full-length idea. It has the potential for being a full-blown, multi-dimensional play, but it needs to be fleshed out."

DRIFE, WHO IS taking her first big plunge into playwrighting, agreed. "When they read my plays, I saw the weak points. Some things may work on paper, but not on stage."

The 23-year-old former Southfield resident who recently moved to Berkeley said she wrote her first plays when she was a child.

"When I was growing up in Allen Park, I wrote plays and performed them with the neighborhood kids in my garage," Drife said.

Her family later moved to Midland. She abandoned her writing career until her senior year in high school.

"After graduation, I went to New York with my mom and some friends. We saw a few Broadway plays, and that renewed my interest and (inspired) me to write again."

DRAWING HER characters from "people I see and families I know," Drife wrote a two-act play, "Face to Face," a few years ago. While holding down two part-time jobs — one busking tables at the Steak and Ale restaurant in Southfield and the other working in the radio programming department at WJLJ — she drafted the two one-act plays performed at the Fourth Street.

"I need to take time out and reflect for a while. Then I'll rewrite both of them and hope they're produced somewhere."

Ian Drife hopes to have her plays produced.

Reader's Theatre offers 'Separate Ceremonies'

The Fourth Street Playhouse will present "Separate Ceremonies" by Phyllis Purcell at 8 p.m. Wednesday as part of its ongoing Reader's Theatre program.

The playhouse is at 301 W. Fourth in downtown Royal Oak. Tickets for Reader's Theatre are $3, with a $1 discount for students and senior citizens. For ticket reservations or further information, call the playhouse at 542-3666.

"Separate Ceremonies" is a study of grown-up children trying to face the death of their father and to overcome the distance that has developed among them over the years. The play has not been produced, but it received two staged readings as part of the Women's Project at the American Place Theatre in New York. Phyllis Purcell lives in New Jersey and has not as yet had a play produced.

The Fourth Street Playhouse Reader's Theatre program presents previously unproduced plays. Each script receives minimal rehearsal, and the reading is designed to assist playwrights in the further development of their plays and to assist the theater in evaluating new scripts for possible future production.

Keith Hindmarsh is both amused and taken aback by Rosaria Cardella's advances. The pair is acting out a scene from Ian Drife's comedy "A Fond Farewell."

Roy Clark's music delights audience

By Robin Gaines
special writer

review

After 35 years as an entertainer, Roy Clark can still dazzle an audience with his unmatched guitar pickin' and his down-home sense of humor.

Clark, who is better known as the co-host of "Hee Haw" and as a frequent guest on "The Tonight Show," gave a two-hour show Friday night at Meadow Brook Music Festival that was unadulterated fun. The concert was held in Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus near Rochester.

Even with the threat of thunderstorms and the annual Freedom Festival Fireworks in downtown Detroit (although Meadow Brook had its own fireworks after the show), the mostly older crowd packed Meadow Brook anticipating a light evening of Clark's pleasant country style. And Clark, in his good 'ol boy routine, responded to his loyal fans with an eagerness to please.

For those lucky ones in attendance, Clark's appearance at Meadow Brook will be a nice highlight to their summer.

A NATIVE OF Meberrin, Va., now residing in Tulsa, Okla., Clark first played music on a cigar box attached to a ukelele neck with four strings rigged to it. Now he is a proficient musician on the electric and acoustic guitar, banjo and fiddle.

Between innocent jokes and cheerful quips with his band and the Meadow Brook audience, Clark confirmed the talent which has made him a legendary country star.

Clark and a talented 19-year-old musician named Jimmy Healy traded banjo leads in a couple of feisty country instrumentals. But Clark, the four-year recipient of Guitar Player Magazine's Best Country Guitarist Award, displayed his paramount talent when he exchanged his banjo for a guitar.

With an appealing, yet at times somewhat sluggish band (Rodney Lay and the Wild West Band) behind him, Clark picked and strummed his way through such country classics as "I'm Thinking Tonight of My Blue Eyes" and "Love Takes Two."

Backdropped by a stage illuminated in blue, Clark showcased his sincere and smooth voice on the tender ballad "Yesterday When I Was Young."

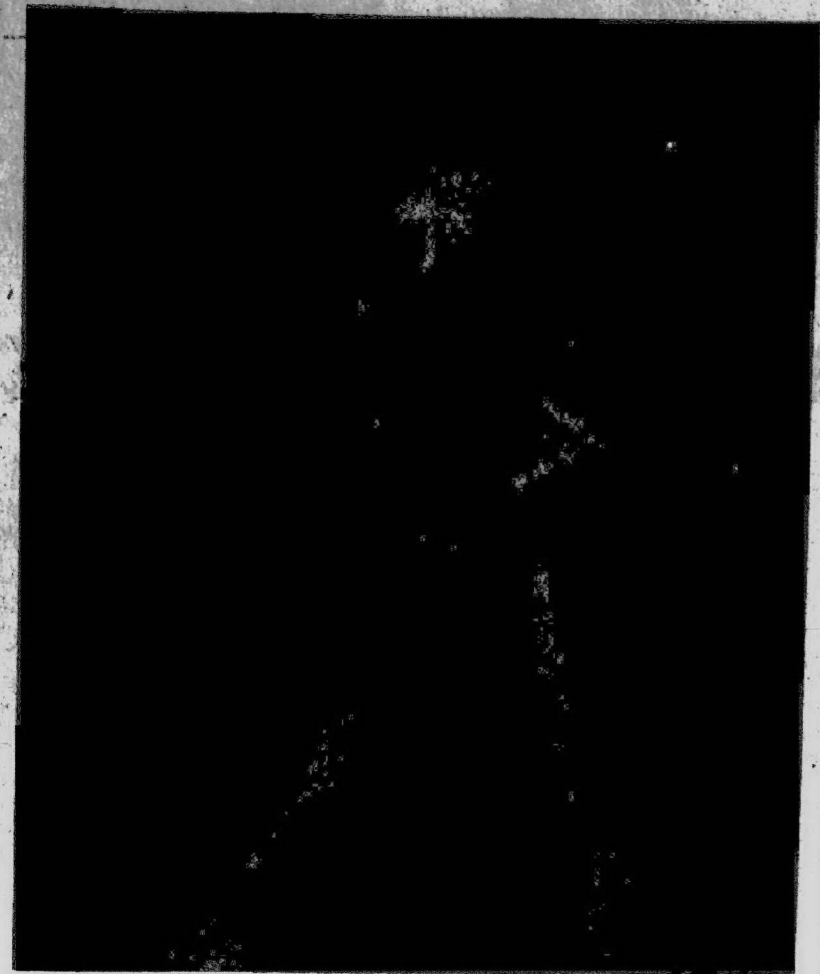

ON THE OLD chestnut "Sleepy Time Gal" which featured nice background vocals by the three-women group Fanci, Clark's breezy guitar work had the laid-back serenity of a cool summer evening.

With a 12-string guitar resting high on his eminent paunch, Clark aroused the capacity crowd with his skillful guitar-playing on "Malaguena." During the final song of the evening, "Orange Blossom Special," Clark and entourage stood stage-front-center with Clark blazing on the fiddle and the whole band supporting him in a traditional country jam. There wasn't a disappointed fan in the house.

Clark is one of the few country music artists to headline and sell out Carnegie Hall, as well as the first country music performer ever to play to a standing-room-only house at Madison Square Garden. For many years Clark has definitely been a pioneer in country music, headlining in major cities all over the country.

His grueling eight-month tour this year is made somewhat easier because he pilots a nine-seater Mitsubishi prop jet to all his personal appearances.

For a man who doesn't seem to have much free time on his hands, Clark still finds the time to work with charities. The annual Roy Clark Celebrity Golf Classic donates thousands of dollars to the Children's Medical Center in Tulsa. Clark's annual benefit concerts for the Los Angeles Police Department have raised monies to build and staff a youth center there.

Cranbrook shows laser/light concerts

Laser/light concerts featuring rock, classic, country and western and other varieties of popular music will add sparkle to summer programs through July and August at the Cranbrook Institute of Science, 500 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills.

The season's highlights will be a WRIF-FM-radio-sponsored rock concert and a musical variety show presented by the institute in cooperation with WJR-AM radio.

"Dark Side of the Moon," a new show beginning Friday, comprises the complete rock music album by the same name written by Pink Floyd.

Hours for the 45-minute program will be at 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. Fridays, 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. Saturdays and 3:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

IN ADDITION, educational commentary about the laser system's technology will be included. Hours will be 3:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays and 4:30 p.m. Saturdays-Sundays.

Laser fee is $1.25 in addition to regular museum admission of $2.75 for adults, $1.75 for students and senior citizens. Children under 5 are not admitted.

Herbig passes music's acid test

By Avigdor Zaremp
special writer

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra recently presented a special concert that wasn't part of the regular Meadow Brook Festival.

It was a tribute to subscribers and supporters of the orchestra. It was free to those who attended, yet it could be said that it was "sold out."

There was no charge for tickets, but only qualified individuals received an order form, and many of the respondents got negative replies, since all tickets, including lawn tickets, had been allocated.

Guest conductor was the German-born Gunther Herbig. His wife, Jutta Czapski, was the soloist in Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 23 in A Major, K. 488. Other works on the program were Beethoven's "Egmont" Overture and the Symphony No. 1 by Brahms.

For Maestro Herbig, this was his debut with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Yet, as contradictions abound, this wasn't his first scheduled appearance with the orchestra.

review

His first visit was last December, during the orchestra's regular season. However, as some might still remember, it was also the time when the orchestra went on strike. The concert was cancelled even though rehearsals did take place.

THIS performance made one realize the extent of the loss in the past. Herbig, who had among his teachers such noted figures as Herbert von Karajan and Hermann Scherchen, showed himself to be a top-rate conductor.

The opening "Egmont" Overture, with its vibrant crescendos, sounded moving and inspiring. Its impact was refreshing in spite of its popularity.

The Mozart concerto turned out to be the weak link in the program. While Czapski certainly doesn't lack artistic talent, her rendition of the Mozart concerto didn't match the high level of the other parts of the program.

Although she avoided the temptation of making the arpeggios in the first and third movements inappropriately thundering, she went overboard in the other directions.

Consequently, several passages in the first movements sounded anemic, bordering on erratic.

The phrasing was frequently fuzzy. One redeeming feature was the colorful, magic touch in the second movement.

The Brahms symphony is the acid test of any seasoned conductor — a test which Herbig passed with flying colors. An outstanding performance of this composition was given by Bertini during the 1961-62 season, and that performance is still fresh in my mind.

IT WOULD take an unusual feat to surpass it. As it has turned out, the present performance was at least of the same high caliber.

From the opening, colorful tempo beat, the magnificent work gradually evolved with all its grace and glory. The introduction to the final movement, with the unconventional piano, had an aura of mystery to it, from which the main theme emerged gradually.

It is an extreme challenge to perform that symphony in a way that integrates it smoothly with the rest of the movement. In too many performances this passage sounds very awkward.

The main theme of the final movement was somewhat slower than usual, but the building intensity was accompanied by an acceleration of the tempo, which made the peaks even more spectacular. Maestro Herbig maintained full balance and control up to the tumultuous ending.

As it is known, Brahms approached his symphonies with utmost caution and anxiety, unlike Mozart and Haydn. His first symphony was written when he was in his 40s. Had Brahms been alive and listening to this performance, undoubtedly, he would have been very proud.

Bertini conducting, and the difference was quite remarkable.

In the present performance, the richness of orchestral color wasn't quite there, and the tempo at the end was exaggerated. Some more inspiration was definitely called for.

The program ended with Ravel's "Bolero." The performance of this piece, which is the longest crescendo in the world, was as good as one can expect. The work, which even Ravel himself later denounced, is overly repetitious, with the only variety provided by different shades of orchestration.

These shades were aptly presented by the capable players, and the gradual crescendo was well paced and measured. Percussionist Robert Faingborn, a couple of days later, remarked that his arm muscles must have been strengthened by the monotonous, intensifying beat. The work has some merits and a popular appeal, but it can't be termed a masterpiece.

Concert lacked that extra spice

By Avigdor Zaremp
special writer

The guest conductor at the Meadow Brook Festival last week was Italian-born maestro Gaetano Delogu.

Currently music director of the Denver Symphony Orchestra, Delogu has appeared with many major orchestras in this country and abroad. It is reported that his 1978 New Zealand tour left critics there "gasping for superlatives."

Not being the gassing type, I am contemplating the undertaking of a massive shipment of superlatives to my gasping colleagues in New Zealand.

This isn't to diminish the talent and potential of Delogu. His program, which consisted mostly of works by Ravel, demonstrated a level of competence that was pleasing in some respects. But it didn't have those extra ingredients that are necessary to make outstanding.

The Ravel works on the program consisted of "Alborada del Gracioso," the Daphnis and Chloe Suite No. 2 and the popular "Bolero." The only non-Ravel work on the program was the Piano Concerto No. 2 in A Major by Liszt, with guest pianist Russell Sherman. Why not a piano concerto by Ravel as well? That's because his G Major Piano Concerto is scheduled to be performed this week.

THE RAVEL compositions were enhanced by the abilities of the various soloists, who proved to be very capable. But the brightness and color were somewhat inhibited by the rigid, and occasionally hurried, tempo, especially in the "Alborada" and the suite.

In the first of these, credit should be given to principal bassoonist Robert Williams for his impressive solo. He is known to local audiences also as a member of the Bassoon Quartet, exhibiting a mixture of music and humor. This occasion portrayed his more serious aspect.

Pianist Sherman, who was born in New York and has appeared and recorded with major orchestras, proved to be an extremely talented pianist. His rendition of the Liszt concerto, which is regarded by many as a showpiece, showed artistic insight and delicacy.

Even the most technically demanding segments were presented with grace and apparent ease. There was none of the tossing of hands into the air or leaping off the bench.

His refined playing occasionally was overshadowed by the orchestra. But the major drawback was the composition itself, which, with its fragmented themes, isn't one of my favorites. The first concerto, in E flat major, is much more rich in musical content.

THE DAPHNIS and Chloe Suite had some good solo parts, especially a segment with principal cellist Italo Bahini, but its overall impact was diminished. This ballet was performed in its entirety last summer with Maestro Gary

Second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"Frankenstein: The True Story" (1973), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 4. Originally 90 minutes.

Count Scary presents a made-for-TV remake of Mary Shelley's novel, starring Michael Ferraro as the monster, with James Mason, David McCallum, Jane Seymour, Ralph Richardson, John Gielgud and Agnes Moorehead. This version is closer to the novel than previous adaptations were (hence the subtitle), the key difference being that the monster here is less monstrous, more civilized. Thus, the film is interesting but far too long for its own good. Rating: $2.70.

"When Worlds Collide" (1951), 12:30 Saturday night on Ch. 50. Originally 81 minutes.

Barbara Rush and Richard Derr manage to fall in love during the earth's last days. Can they survive the holocaust and start a brave, new world? The execution of that theme isn't nearly so cliched as the theme itself in this George Pal production. And don't judge the award-winning special effects by today's standards. Rating: $2.95.

"National Velvet" (1945), 1 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 125 minutes.

Fresh-faced, firm-thighed, 12-year-old Elizabeth Taylor stars as a budding equestrian in this enjoyable family film. Mickey Rooney overacts as a fear-struck jockey, but Donald Crisp, Anne Revere and Angela Lansbury provide ample support, especially Revere as Taylor's stern-faced, war-battered man. Rating: $2.90.

"Summer of '42" (1971), 1 Monday night on Ch. 7. Originally 183 minutes.

Moviegoers were gripped by a nostalgic crane in the early '70s, and "Summer of '42," along with such films as "The Way We Were" and "American Graffiti," transported us back in time. Jennifer O'Neill stars as a war widow who provides an idle youth with memories he'll never forget. O'Neill can't act but she's icy hot as the object of Gary Grimes' affection. Rating: $2.80.

"Deadline USA" (1952), 2 Monday night on Ch. 4. Originally 87 minutes.

Humphrey Bogart stars as a crusading newspaperman in a warmed-over story that's checkbook with great one-liners like "Journalism isn't the oldest profession but it's the best," and "The difference between a reporter and a journalist is that a reporter is a witness to a story while a journalist is the hero of it." Kim Hunter, Eitel Barmore, Ed Begley and Jim Backus co-star. Rating: $2.90.

Dorothy Ashby to give concert

Jazz harpist Dorothy Ashby will make a rare Detroit appearance at the Jazz at the Institute series at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday at the Krege Court at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Tickets at $6 may be purchased through the museum ticket office and, on an availability basis, at the door. For information and reservations, call 832-2730.

Ashby was a mainstay of Detroit's music in the 1960s. During that time, she recorded albums for Savoy, Prea-tige and Atlantic records. Since 1976, she has lived in Los Angeles, where she works as a studio musician.

Wine, beer, soft drinks and snacks will be available at additional cost during the concert.

At 16, he's already a pro

Has pen, will design anything

By Mary Kiernic
staff writer

When Chris Franchi was in the first grade, he liked to draw superheroes. "There was always something to do," he said. "I would make Batman and Robin paper dolls and my friends would ask for some. I kept trying to draw. I would learn something here and something there."

Franchi is still drawing, and he is well on his way to becoming famous himself. What is almost as remarkable as his artwork is that he is only 16 years old.

Working from a desk in his Livonia home, the young artist has created designs and drawings for items ranging from local school publications to business cards.

IN HIS first full-time job — a position with G.A. Design at Six Mile and Middlebelt that he started one month ago — Franchi prepares drawings for restaurant menus. He has designed, or is in the process of designing, sketches for the El Matador in Toledo, Anton's in Bloomfield and Tequila Willie's, a chain of 10 restaurants around the country.

"It's a job that I like," Franchi said. "I get to draw and I get paid for doing something that I like. And it helps people at the same time. They need to have the picture for their businesses, and I'm helping them."

Franchi prepares menu sketches after he is told about the particular restaurant. He might draw scenes of a bullfight and a man with a donkey for a Mexican restaurant's menu, for example, while he wouldn't prepare futuristic sketches for a menu at a restaurant with traditional decor.

"They give me the background of the restaurant, and I go from there," Franchi said.

FRANCHI got the job through his art teacher at Churchill High School. Also through the school, Franchi has gotten involved in drawing a mural for a wall in a children's hospital, as well as designing covers for school publications and T-shirts for school plays in the area.

His mother, Fran, encouraged Franchi's interest in art by giving him new art materials and pushing him to draw, Franchi said.

"He was already an artist, we just kept at him," Fran Franchi said. "We knew someday he'd be good and famous, we just didn't know when it would be."

Franchi's future plans include attending the Center for Creative Studies and working in commercial art.

"I always wanted to become an artist," he said. "Whether I could draw good or not, I didn't know."

THE TALENTED young artist has established his credentials. One restaurant was so pleased with his work that it made an exception and credited him, on the back of its menus, for the menu drawings. He won first place in this year's Scholastic Art Awards, and is now preparing drawings for next year's contest.

In addition, Franchi has drawn newspaper ads for the Michigan National

His artwork has appeared in print, on menus and in friends' homes.

Working from his office at home, Chris Franchi prepares artwork for business and pleasure.

Bank, a catalog for Action Sportswear and a cartoon for Cartoons Magazine. He designed a T-shirt for a visiting Irish soccer team, the 2,500-shirt supply of which sold out, and painted a bulldog on a garage door for a friend's mother. He has given his paintings as presents.

"I've never advertised," Franchi said. "People know me through somebody else."

As busy as Franchi is, he still finds time to draw for himself.

"I can complete a final drawing in three days," he said. "I really get into it and I just keep drawing and drawing until it's done."

THE HIGH school student would like to have an exhibition someday, he said. "I would like to have someone walk into a gallery and hear them say about my paintings, 'Oh, that's nice,'" Franchi said.

Franchi is the only full-time artist in his immediate family. His father, Jerry, and older brother, Dean, work in his father's construction company, while his mother works at Michigan National Bank. Younger sister Gina is in school.

"My husband is very good at drawing, and my father was excellent," Fran said.

Paintings and box assemblages by Lyn Parker, local artist, are at the library through July 23. Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday, Friday and Saturday until 5:30 p.m., 14200 Oak Park Blvd., Oak Park.

● JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER

Sculpture in stone and bronze and paintings by Leonard Schwartz will be on display in the main building, 6600 West Maple, West Bloomfield, through July. This 25-year retrospective is open to the public during regular business hours.

● MULLALLY MATISSE GALLERIES

New paintings by Shirley Clement of Florida and new sculpture by Bettina Tykild and Margaret Valpey plus a changing exhibit of gallery artists and American crafts. July hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 1025 Haynes, Birmingham.

● CANTOR/LEMBERG GALLERY

Prints by Frank Stella, includes works from 1974 culminating with a series, "Shards," done last year. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 833 N. Woodward, Birmingham.

● GALERIE DE BOICOURT

Textiles from Ghana and Nigeria will be on display through Thursday, July 28. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, and Thursday evenings during Concerts in the Park, 235 Martin, Birmingham.

Backs symphony orchestra, arts

When Merrill Lynch gives, people listen

By Corinne Abett
staff writer

Among the things which Merrill Lynch is bullish about is the arts.

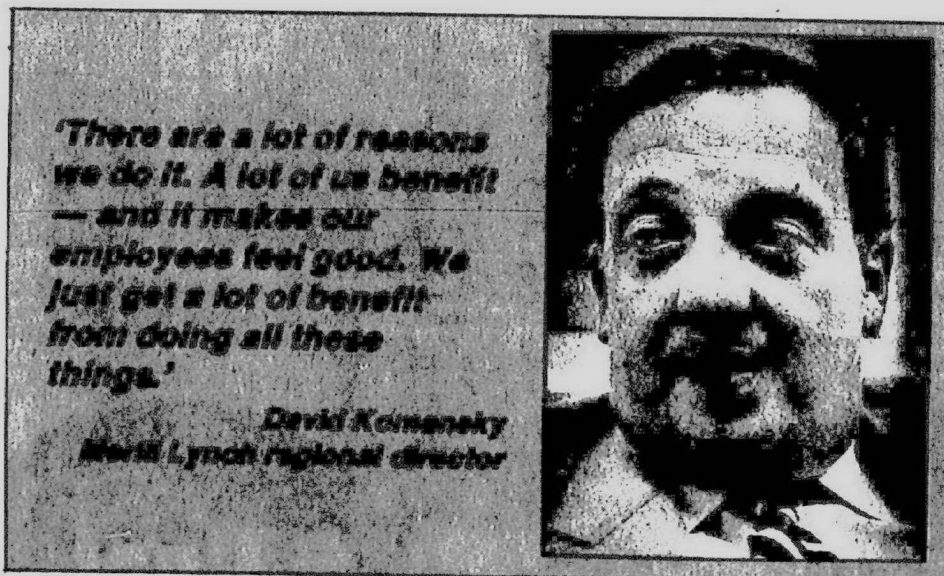

David Komansky, regional director for the widely diversified firm that is best known as a brokerage house, said the company's heavy investment in the arts, in terms of both people and dollars, is good business.

But, it's more than that as he quickly explained, "I feel very strongly that we have to put things back in the community in which we live."

The recent announcement that Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith will sponsor the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's "Weekender Pops" for the 1983-84 season is one in a long list of community projects which they have subsidized.

IN HIS second floor Southfield office, Komansky relaxed in an easy chair and talked readily and enthusiastically about his firm's involvement in everything from Detroit Metropolitan Opera Week, Channel 56, to the mayor's relief fund, multiple sclerosis and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

As he described various projects as examples, it was obvious there are more than pure arts which he and other regional directors deem worthy of support.

Komansky aims for more than pure dollar involvement.

"What we're trying to do is get our people involved along with money. It's not enough to throw money. We prefer to perform rather than talk."

He paused and then said positively, "One thing I won't do, I won't say to somebody, 'I'll give you X number of dollars.'"

HE USED the phrase "quid pro quo" as he spoke of the benefits the firm derives from its community participation and questioned why some fund raisers still shy away from working with corporate donors on that kind of a basis — seeing that the corporation gets something in return for its donation.

"Not a bull charging across the stage . . . but, we're in a business. We have to impact a sector of the market."

In the case of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Weekender Pops is now called the Merrill Lynch Weekender Pops — and that means higher visibility.

When Merrill Lynch staffers take leadership roles in local activities, they become a part of community life. They know the people.

They have a stronger identity. And while all that may help business, it also benefits the individual. Those in the company working together on projects develop a common-gate camaraderie among themselves and with the community at large.

"I DON'T want to be the front man for all these things," said Komansky. "My job is to involve the firm, and we try to assign all these different functions to our different managers and they become involved."

Art lesson No. 5

Pen and ink drawing needs right detail

By David Messing
special writer

Decisions . . . decisions. All artists must make decisions when drawing. What do you draw and what do you leave out? If you are drawing in the right progression, that is, main shapes first and details last, you usually find yourself ending with a good balance of structure and detail.

It is never advisable to overdraw just a part of a drawing when you have yet to block in the main shapes of the rest of your picture. When you add details to small sections at a time, your total drawing doesn't grow together. Often certain features which are completed at one time are out of proportion to parts of the drawing which have details completed at another time.

Finishing a section also puts pressure on the artist. You end up thinking, "I hope I don't blow this after a great start."

Those who are able to see, or have been taught to see, details have a problem of deciding what to draw and what to leave out. Those who haven't the ability, or haven't

This is the fifth in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. This column deals with pen and ink drawings.

Messing has taught art for eight years and operates an art and art supply store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt in Livonia. Messing encourages questions from readers. You may write him at his store, or at Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington, MI 48024.

learned to see details, are bothered by their inability to render their way to realism.

BOTH KINDS of artists are in trouble. ALthough those who are able to see details are better suited, their drawings are most often rendered to death and they look like they should be titled "studies in patience."

Now those who cannot see details usually don't spend the time needed to draw a good picture because they simply do not "see" the need. Their drawings float somewhere between gesture drawings and cartoons.

The reason for this lengthy introduction is because I would like to take two articles to cover pen and ink. Pen and ink will quickly and graphically show you if you are an "overlooker" or an "underlooker."

Overlookers sit and watch as their hand systematically adds more and more ink and their drawing slowly approaches a black blob on the paper. While underlookers sit and stare at their almost blank sheet of paper wondering what they left out.

In some media you blend with your fingers or brushes but in pen and ink you have a pen tip that makes a clean black line. So how do you get shades of gray?

CROSSHATCHING is the most common

way of shading. This is merely a drawing lot of lines in one direction which appears to form a gray area. If you need this area darker turn the paper slightly and cross over the same lines. This will shade the area twice as much.

You can repeat this over and over until this area appears to be black with little white dots.

When drawing animals it is important to watch the direction of the hair and feathers and to make sure you follow close to your model or photos. When drawing buildings, bars and shacks, draw in the main shapes then begin shading in the direction of whatever wood grain there may be.

Pen and ink drawing

Crosshatching can become a little disturbing when it is obviously seen as lines running across the grain of wood. So simply add more lines in the direction of the wood grain.

Crosshatching is a shading technique and should not be distracting from the main shape and impact of your drawing. So keep your lines, crisp and clean. You also can vary the line width for a clearer looking drawing, heavier lines defining the main shapes and many fine lines for the shading.

CONSIDER short, fine and thin strokes for an area like the fine hairs on the nose of a cat. Often there are times that a line, no matter how fine, seems too bold. Here stipple or pointalism is extremely useful. This is merely lots and lots of dots. The lighter areas need just a few dots. The darker areas need hundreds of dots.

One of my best tips in pointalism is that the light areas should be white with black dots and the black areas should be black with white dots. Stay away from solid black areas they pull the eye away from all the subtle shading in the light areas.

Before next week try a pen and ink. The best way to start is to do a light pencil sketch on white smooth paper. If the paper becomes too messy, transfer your finished drawing to a clean white piece of paper.

Remember you transfer a drawing by rubbing the back of your original drawing with a graphite stick, then centering it on the new paper. Tape both sides then trace over your lines in a ball point pen. This will produce a beautiful pencil drawing on clean white paper.

The best pen that I have found for beginning pen and ink is a pilot razor pen. It only cost 98 cents and the fine nylon tip holds a point forever. This is a water base ink so let it dry at least an hour before you erase your pencil lines.

Q. Pen and ink is my favorite media but I have some difficulty in shading. Can you show a drawing with a variety of shading techniques?

A. This ostrich offers a nice variety of lines, shades and shapes by using different shading techniques (explained in accompanying article). The head and neck have line shading and lots of pointalism. The feathers have a loose and free outline with very close line shading. The thighs and feet have a variety of crosshatching range from very dark to very light.

The flowering of lilies

The 36th annual International Lily Show will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Southfield Sheraton Hotel, Nine Mile at I-96, Southfield. Admission is free for the show which attracts entrants from far and near. They are shipped in by air in large boxes with holes that look more like those used to ship animals than flowers. Literally thousands of lilies of all varieties, colors, shapes and blooming periods will be on display. Both amateur and professional growers will be on hand to answer questions. Many extra activities, slide shows, garden tours and tissue culture sessions are planned. For information about these, call 474-4608. Show hours are 2-9 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Merrill Lynch supports arts

But, many more than managers participate. A large group took over the bank of phones during the recent Channel 58 auction. Others worked in other capacities during the PBS station's benefit.

Komansky said Merrill Lynch employees raised $15,000 for the mayor's relief fund. "We said whatever they raised, we would match."

"There are a lot of reasons we do it. A lot of us benefit — and it makes our employees feel good. We just get a lot of benefit from doing all these things."

IT MAKES Komansky feel good when he remembers that Merrill Lynch was responsible for many senior citizens being able to attend the Metropolitan Opera on its recent visit here, a lot for the first time in their lives.

He hopes also to provide tickets for inner-city school children to attend symphony orchestra concerts. And it is this kind of "putting back into the community" that he particularly enjoys.

Merrill Lynch's participation in the arts and community projects stretches to many of its regional offices. Among them are Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, San Francisco and Chicago.

Komansky said the idea to do this began three or four years ago with Herb Rubin, national sales director, north, Merrill Lynch.
