Police set targets for drinking drivers

By Tim Richard and Gary Gates staff writers

Teams of suburban police officers and sheriff's deputies will be targeting the roads favored by drinking drivers in an effort to boost the arrest rate 25 percent

"It's the first time I can recall all of the police agencies have gathered in a common cause," said Charles Wilmoth, Garden City Police Chief and director of the 43-department project. Beginning Friday, the teams in marked cars, armed with PBT portable breathalyzers, will patrol targeted roads under terms of a $400,000 federal grart.

Altogether, 25 such teams will be on Wayne County roads from 6 p.m. to 3 a.m. Friday and Saturday and the "happy hours" of 3-6 p.m. on weekdays.

ENFORCEMENT will be strict, Wilmoth promised, even if bar owners complain, as they did when business fell off along Dixie Highway in a similar Oakland County project.

"I'm not in the bar business. I intend to enforce the law," he said.

The project was launched at a news conference last week with representatives of district, circuit and recorders courts present.

their support," explained Michael Manoog, Redford Township police chief and president of the Wayne County Police Chiefs Association. "It's not going to do us a damn bit of good to arrest someone and have a judge give 'em a light fine."

WAYNE COUNTY Sheriff Robert A. Ficano will distribute the money to four districts - one of which includes the Plymouth, Canton and Northville communities.

"We'll have a dual role," said the sheriff.

"We will participate in the western district. And I will deputize officers in the law enforcement teams so they can cross boundaries to make arrests."

The swearing-in ceremony is tentatively planned for a Nov. 2 meeting of the Downriver and Western Wayne County Traffic Officers Association in Plymouth, said Robert Henry, Plymouth Traffic Officer.

City attorneys from participating communities have been invited to attend the session so that their jurisdictional and procedural questions can be fielded by the Wayne County Prosecu-

In Plymouth, at least four officers have volunteered to take part in the program. The Canton department plans devote six officers to the alcohol

Unlike the other districts in the project, the Plymouth-Canton-Northville group plans to use one-man cars. Thus, four one-man units will form the western Wayne County team, which will rotate communities each weekend starting with Canton.

Not using the two-man cars will allow the local group to extend the pro-gram for a full year — since overtime won't be eaten up as fast, Henry said.

THE FEDERAL GRANT, made to the chiefs by the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning, will provide $17,544 worth of portable breathalyzers, $708 worth of magnetic signs for patrol cars and $381,676 to pay officers. "None of it will be used for overhead." said Wilmoth. Besides increasing arrests, the program's goals are to: · Reduce alcohol related crashes by 25 percent. • Increase drunk driving enforcement by 200 hours a month.

· Establish a public awareness program.

· Enforce the law not only against the "flagrantly drunk driver" but the "even more dangerous driver with blood alcohol content from 0.10 to 0.15

Kenovation, expansion planned for township hall

Plymouth Township Hall, at Ann Arbor Road and Mill Street, will be taking on a new look over the next few months as renovations and additions are completed.

The township board last week approved a $375,250 expenditure for the work, scheduled to start sometime next week.

The targeted construction includes a renovation and addition to the fire station end of the building, remodeling of the entire front exposure and entrance way, and a 14,240-square-foot addition to the east wing.

The project also calls for reroofing the entire complex to solve leak problems.

THE ADDITION will provide better office space for the administration which has been needed for some time, according to Supervisor Maurice Breen

During the past year signs of tight quarters have been evidenced as the police chief works out of a conference room, and the tax assessor's work generates from a desk and counter in a reception area

Tha addition, to be built in part of the east parking lot, also will provide office space for those working on shortterm township projects.

The board earlier sought federal grant funds for the work, but it now plans to tap the township budget so the work can be done.

The construction won't affect normal business at the building, Breen said.

What's that?

Ghostly encounters unfold

By Karen Hermes Smith staff writer

Ghosts have long been associated with Halloween, but do they really exist?

They do, according to three suburbanites - Richard Brooks, a philosophy professor at Oakland University in Rochester, Marion Kuclo of Garden City, a 22-year teacher who practices witchcraft using the name of Gundella; and Sol Lewis, director of the Michigan Metaphysical Society which meets in Southfield

All three said they have seen, heard or felt ghosts or have investigated and believed other peoples' ghost stories

"I'm not willing to accept that something can't be until I'm shown that it can't be," said Brooks, an associate member of the Parapsychology Association who's taught parapsychology classes at Oakland.

BROOKS SAID he has experienced two paranormal hap penings

While sitting in church about a year after his father died, he said he saw a "fleeting glimpse" of his father's face and shoulders. The image, he said, surfaced about six feet in the air. "I figured he was kind of looking in on me," Brooks said.

In the second incident, Brooks said, some palm branches tucked behind a picture suddenly fell down two feet to one side within an hour after his first wife died.

"The furnace was off and the windows weren't open," Brooks said, adding that, after uprighting the palms, he tried jiggling the picture and blowing on them to make them move. The only thing that moved them was his touch, he said.

A common experience, he said, is for people to "pick up something" in the corner of their eye, then as quickly as they turn to look at it, it disappears.

LEWIS, WHO'S taught parapsychology at Wayne County Community College and lectures throughout the country, said many people feel or smell ghosts, which are more common occurrences than seeing one. A family friend, he said, frequently caught whiffs of her husband's cigar smoke years after he was dead.

Most ghosts appear because they have hopeful messages for the living, according to Gundella. Frequently, the disembodied spirit of a dead person will appear to his loved ones and assure them that he's alive on another plane, in another existance.

Officer drops from city race

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Plymouth Police Officer Jerry Vorva has dropped from the city commis-sion race, leaving a field of six candi-dates for four seats.

"In light of the situation of the commission not making a decision whether I can serve on the commission as well as the police department, I had to make a decision," Vorva said last

Vorva feared being elected and then being forced to resign from his police duties or commission seat. "I think if anyone is sitting on the city commission they should be elected by the voters," Vorva said. "I am afriad that if I bump somebody they wanted to sit on the commission they would tell me, 'Vorva you have to quit' and then appoint someone.

"I just wish the commission could have been as fair to me as I've been to everyone else. City Manager Henry Graper said I would have to resign. The attorney said I would have to resign. The commission should have taken it up immediately.

"THERE'S NO doubt in my mind that I would have been elected. My campaign was going very good, a lot of business people mere average to a set of s people were supporting me," he said.

Vorva firmly believes he could have been an effective commissioner, even though he wouldn't be able to vote on issues which directly affected him through employment with the police department.

"The thought that I wouldn't be able to vote on a lot of things is not true, that's just Henry Graper's interpretation," he said.

Vorva points to other commissioners who have had to abstain from voting on certain things — such as David Pugh, who abstained from voting on tax abatement for properties which he partly owns.

Although Vorva's candidacy came at a time when the city's relations with the police department were strained, the police officer said he got into the race for other reasons.

"I have a real feeling for the community. I work with the community every day. I could offer a different approach - the injection of ideas from my perspective was a very needed aspect," he

Fully aware that he can still have input to the corgission through public comment, Vorva said "as a commissioner elected by the people, I would have carried much more clout."

Vorva has been a Plymouth resident for five years, and worked in the com-munity for nine years — the last five as a police officer.

Offices under construction

Plymouth Township will be the location of a 34,000-square-foot office-industrial-research complex now under construction at Northville Road and Edward Hines Drive on a wooded site overlooking Phoenix Lake. The project, named Provinctown Centre, is the type of environment often sought by high technology companies who place a premium on quality of life surroundings when selecting work locations, says Duane Thomas of Doyle & Moran Inc. of Madison Heights, brokers for the project. Don Gargaro, developer, surveyed research and technological service firms in Ann Arbor and the western Detroit suburbs before finalizing construction plans. The goal was to design facilities which would appeal to research and development type companies and businesses whose needs are office-service oriented. Front elevations of the multi-tenant units will be New England in character. Depending on the tenant mix, tenants will have common access to a computer and copying center, answering, secretarial and other office services. The property is located between research facilities at the University of Michigan and major corporate headquarters in the north Detroit suburban area. Occupancy is scheduled for late fall of 1983 with leasing being handled by Doyle & Moran.

scheduled for November 28. NASA officials are trying to correct a problem that was discovered in the carbon insulation of the exhaust farrings of the solid rocket boosters.

It will be the first time amateurs on earth will be able to talk to an orbiting astronaut. Earth-bound listeners don't need an amateur radio license to eavesdrop though.

"It's not just for amateurs," said Bernie Glassmeyer, amateur satellite program director for the American Radio Relay League (ARRL).

Anyone with the proper receiving equipment will be able to listen in. 'We encourage that," he said.

All you need to listen in will be a police-scanner-type radio that is capable of receiving the two-meter amateur radio band (144.00 mhz-148.00 mhz). The main frequencies that will be used to transmit to Earth are 145.510 mhz-145.770 mhz with the back-up frequencies being 145.53 mhz and 145.57 mhz.

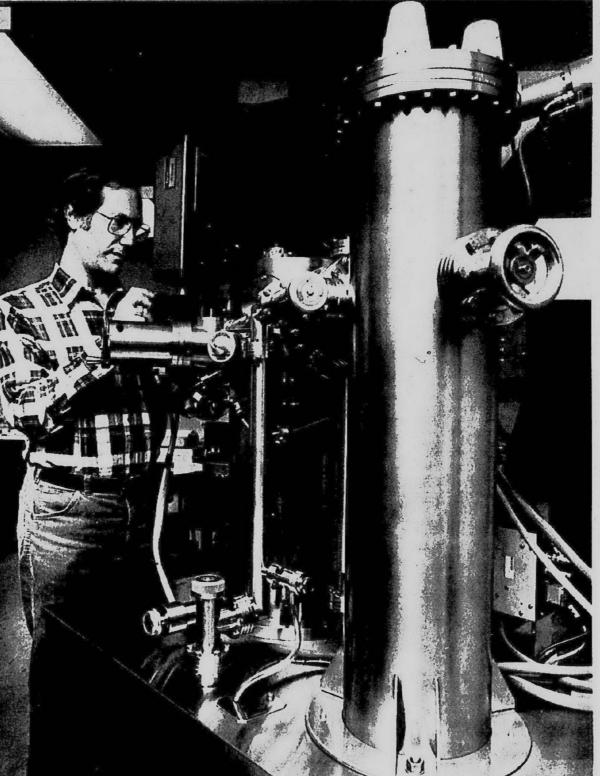

The ARRL has established a special telephone line (1-203-666-0688) you can call to obtain up-to-the-minute information on launch dates and frequency changes

The main purpose of this shuttle mission is to take the European Space Agency's Spacelab into orbit.

A REPEAT OF last winter's warm temperatures may be in the works. The warm body of water (the El Nino) located off the Pacific coast of South America that many meteorologists attribute the mild winter weather to is still there. El Nino has cooled off by several degrees but is still two to five degrees above the temperature of the surrounding ocean. This difference has caused heavy rain storms in South America and tropical storms throughout the Pacific ocean. Scientists believe that El Nino is caused by wind shifts lasting only a few weeks that can cause a slight warming of the ocean.

THE NEXT TIME the engines quit on the airliner you're aboard think of this: a large aircraft such as a 747 or 767 is capable of gliding up to 60 miles providing it is flying at cruising altitude (around 30,000 feet) and a speed of 500-600 miles per hour.

A modern aircraft such as the 767 has a glide ratio of 20:1. That means that the craft is capable of gliding 20

Small becomes even smaller with new scope

By Steve Barnaby editor

Thinking big in Stuart Solin's world is a small matter - real small, like in angstrom-size measurements.

The Michigan State University physics professor is the proud father of the newest scientific baby on campus - a $500,000 electron microscope which is safely cradled away in the basement of the university's physic's building.

Acquisition of the microscope has put MSU in league with only five other universities around the nation. And with Solin's innovations, the MSU model has been transformed into a one-ofa-kind instrument for the time being.

"I don't know if this is the most important thing that has happened to me, but it certainly has the potential of being one of the more important things," said the 41-year-old director of the MSU Analytical Electron Microscopy Laboratory.

Obtaining the precision microscope was Solin's objective since the first day he stepped on the East Lansing campus back in 1979.

And since its installation earlier this year, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology graduate has found himself the center of media interviews and a flow of business inquiries.

SINCE THE electron scope was installed, the university has found itself aiding such companies as Ford Motor Company, General Motors, Dow Chemical and Monsanto in their research efforts

Bedecked in moccasins and a plaid flannel shirt, Solin's casual attire belies his physical and mental intensity, accentuated by a machine-gun style dialogue

"Most microscopes don't take advantage of the capability to analyze," he

And that is just where the MSU microscope is a big step ahead of previous models

Electron microscopes have been around for approximately 30 years. Unlike the much older and more familiar optical microscope, which magni-fies objects by the use of glass lenses and light, an electron model replaces light by shooting electrons at the specimen being examined. While some of the electrons are stopped, others pass through the object and create a picture of the objects relative density.

The MSU scope goes a step further and actually analyzes the kinds of elements and how the atoms of that element fit together. Also unlike other electron scopes, the MSU one records diffracted electron beams which, in turn, allows scientists to calculate the atoms' structural arrangements.

THE ELECTRON microscope is capable of examining an object a thousand times smaller than a hair which, when translated means measuring angstroms - one-hundred millionth of a centimeter.

The MSU scope also has scanning transmission capability. Electrons are focused into a narrow beam that moves rapidly back and forth over the object being examined. The image is then viewed on a television screen over which a person can view atoms just a few angstroms across.

Solin, a person who admits to always looking for "new intellectual," rewards went to work and built in two new features to the instrument which the manufacturer will add to future models.

One adaptation will allow crystal structures to be examined. The second will compensate for a slight movement of the specimen which previously hindered an observer from distinguishing one spot of the element from the next. - feet forward for every foot of altitude it loses. Contrary to what most people think, it's the wing that produces lift not the engine.

That's not much consolation if a problem develops during take off or landing - the two most critical phases of flight. During that time the airplane has little altitude and the pilot doesn't have much time to compensate for a malfunction.

IF SOMEONE were to ask you what the highest mountain was you would probably say Mount Everest. Well, that's not quite right. As measured from the ocean floor Hawaii's Mauna Kea volcano towers 33,476 feet above the sea bed. The total height of Mount Everest is 29,028 feet. Mauna Kea was formed millions of years ago when a rift opened in the floor of the Pacific spewing millions of yards of lava into the ocean. The mound continued to build in size until it finally broke the surface of the water. Today, the volcano stands 13,796 feet above sea level and forms most of the land mass of the big island of Hawaii.

MINODIXIDIL . . . If your bald or losing your hair that word might have a special meaning to you. It is the name of a drug that researchers at the Upjohn Pharmaceutical Co. think may be capable of growing hair on bald heads. Actually, Minoxidil is being used to treat people who suffer from high blood pressure. One of the side effects patients who are using the drug have noticed is they began to sprout hair where there was none before and the growth of existing hair was accelerated

But, there's a catch.

When taken internally Minoxidil can cause dangerous side effects in the cardiovascular system. To get around this difficulty Upjohn is using a cream con-taining the drug that is used externally. Tests are now under way in dermatology labs at hospitals across the country. The drug is expensive and must be used continuosly to stimulate the growth of hair.

Several people died and dozens were injured some years back when a section of a bridge carrying auto traffic over a river collapsed, plunging passing cars into the stream.

By Tom Baer

staff writer

Suffering the ravages of age, weather and constant traffic, the bridge had become structurally unsafe - but not to the point where its flaws could be detected by the human eye.

How can such flaws be spotted in time to avert such accidents?

Two Oakland University engineering professors, using more than $100,000 in federal grants, are testing what they stressed areas

Joseph Der Hovanesian, a longtime Farmington Hills resident and the chairman of OU's Mechanical Engineering Department, and colleague Mike Hung of Rochester are doing research on a process called optical shearography.

Combining the use of a laser beam and a special shear camera developed at OU, their device might be used to determine defects in critical stress areas before they pose a danger.

In lay terms, the professors use the laser - which produces intense, narto take a double-exposure photograph.

RANDY BORST/staff photographer

Stripes, something like those seen in the rainbow effect on an oil slick, are superimposed on the photograph.

SAID HOVANESIAN, "The camera produces a photo of the object with lines or fringes on it. If there are a lot. of stripes, I call them interference fringes, that indicates the structure is weak or flawed.

"If there are very few fringes, or none at all, that means the structure is safe.'

The professors' device will help in the study of underwater structures Hovanesian said.

"The water pressure can be quite significant because some of the rigs go down quite deep - more than a mile under water," Hovanesian said. "But what is worse is the motion of the water

"The surface waves are strong and the underwater currents going in different directions at the same time can be disastrous."

Often tubular with welded sections. the underwater structures could be endangered by flaws in the welded spots. The OU device will spot the weak spots, subjected to a vacuum. Photos are taken with a special camera.

"If there is a ply separation or an internal void in the tire," Hovanesian said, "you would notice because of the large numbers of interference fringes on the photo."

HOVANESIAN STRESSED that their work in optical shearography is still in the laboratory stage.

'We're not studying the actual bridges or underwater structures yet," he said. "This is still the background work which would prepare for that. Field testing may be a couple of years down the road, and it's not part of our (federal) grant."

The concept of optical shearography "is not an idea you think of overnight," according to Hovanesian, a professor at OU since 1970.

"It evolves over the years," he said. "We've been involved with lots of work utilizing lasers. I've been doing work in stress analysis with lasers practically since lasers were invented. I owned one of the first commercially available lasers way back in 1962."

Funding for the project comes from National Science Foundation, which has provided money for another year's work.

"What we're doing with this new work for the National Science Foundation is to adapt this shearographic camera so it can be used underwater," Hovanesian said.

'We've done some experiments already. We've used real sea water. You can buy sea water. People use it for certain kinds of tropical fish."

Reaearch on the project was slowed somewhat last summer when the 53year-old Hovanesian suffered a heart attack. "Fortunately, we were just at the beginning of it," said Hovanesian, who is recovered and back at work in his OU laboratory now

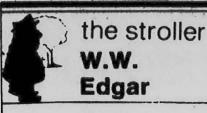

Hovanesian, a member of the Farmington Hills Planning Commission and the city's Historical Commission, attended Morningside College in Iowa before earning undergraduate and advanced degrees from Michigan State University.

Hung, a student of Hovanesian's during his undergraduate days at OU, returned to the Rochester school after earning a doctorate from the University of Illinois.

It was a night when we set about to scare people, young and old by doing such things as rolling a jagged-edged spool up and down the windows to make a scaring noise. It was a trick to take one of the family windows as a midnight when the false faces were retarget, then roll the spool up and down and then run.

Along with that we'd soap the windowns, howl and then run.

But the worst of all the tricks came in those areas where indoor plumbing was only a wish. These families had outhouses, and they were not built on firm foundation.

So, as the night of trickery wore on, some of the groups would line up on it used to be.

Health classes starting Monday

A variety of health enhancement classes being offered by the Plymouth Community Family YMCA will begin the week of Oct. 31.

A few of these are Dynamic Aerobics, aerobics, karate, swimming, floor gymnastics and ballroom dancing.

In a Dynamic Aerobics class, the one-hour session consists of dance and dance-type movements done to music. The program is scientifically choreographed to properly warm up, exercise and cool down with the minimum of risk. The dance routines are choreographed to promote symmetrical muscle development

In aerobics fitness classes there also is a warm up, exercise and cool down format used with spot reducing exercises which focus on reducing the various parts of the body. The exercise portion of aerobic fitness varies and uses running, movement exercise or dancing to work the lungs and heart.

work toward health enhancement as becoming fit does not happen overnight or in one six-week session but must become a habit which is part of an ongoing lifestyle.

'One of the Y's national goals," explains Janet Luce, executive director, "is to help develop the understanding that physical and mental well-being are conditions to be achieved and maintained.

The first night fitness class is free to all members and to those who become members.

Classes are open to all men and women. A YMCA membership entitles you to reduced rates on most all other classes. Those interested may call the Y at 453-2904 to enroll or for more information.

Private buses, van pools help ease SEMTA pinch

By Kathy Parrish staff writer

It's standing room only on some buses for commuters displaced by public transit cutbacks.

But Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) hopes to reduce crowding soon through private buses and van pools.

"It's something we're very pleased with - a cooperative venture between the private and public transit to benefit the riders," said Lori Lysett, SEMTA's manager of schedules.

IN COOPERATION with Michigan Trailways and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) Ride Share Program, SEMTA is work-ing out private bus and van transportation for some riders it no longer serves. To offset a $16 million deficit, SEMTA Oct. 17 eliminated its commuter rail and reduced buses and routes.

Former rail commuters will be offered luxury coach service from the train stations by Michigan Trailways, which will run two buses each way from Pontiac to Detroit.

SEMCOG has added six or seven MichiVans to its former 65 and expects to form another 10 to 15 in the next month. Most of the new riders rode Park and Ride buses from parking lots in the suburbs.

SEMTA plans schedule "refinements" Nov. 14 to ease the crunch, which resulted in usually full buses carrying 15-20 standees. In rare cases buses have 30 more people. SEMTA buses average 44 passengers, but they can legally carry 70.

"We expect to make another schedule adjustment to even out the loads," Lysett said.

"We can't change routes or add buses, but we can make some adjustments

AFFECTED MOST by the extensive cutbacks are buses carrying passengers to and from work at peak hours - 7:30-8:30 a.m. and 4-6 p.m. Almost all commuter runs have been affected, but the most crowded are main routes like Ford in western Wayne, Van Dyke and Woodward, which is commuters' alternative to the train. Also packed are reduced-run Park and Rides 810 (Plymouth) and 820 (Farmington), which picked up passen-gers stranded by the eliminated 815 Park and Ride.

Shortway Lines is exploring offering service in the communities of Farmington and Plymouth.

PEOPLE WHO depend on small bus service are now finding that they have to call farther ahead for reservations. If they wait until the day before - as they used to - the vehicle may already be full.

While legally buses can carry many more passengers than did before, Lysett admitted some rides are now 'very cozy."

"There are a lot of people standing. We know that," explained the manager of schedules for SEMTA, which now gets 1,600 phone calls a day instead of its previous 1,200.

"But people have been extremely co-operative. They realize, with our monetary restraints, we just didn't have much choice."

Drivers, though, now have the unfamiliar task of getting passengers to stand behind the white line near the front door.

"Passengers like to hover near the front. So we need their cooperation," Lysett said.

TRAIN RIDERS who have switched to Woodward buses or private transportation will be offered private bus transportation Nov. 7.

Michigan Trailways, a Clio-based company offering two Pontiac-Detroit trips daily, will expand to offer a "premium" service from the train sta-tions in Pontiac, Bloomfield, Charing Cross and Birmingham. The big red buses with the motto "Go Big Red" will stop at the New Center, three times in the downtown central business district and Renaissance Center.

Cost of the service will be $3 each way from Pontiac and Bloomfield and $2.50 from Charing Cross and Birmingham. There are 10-trip and monthly rates.

Riders are asked to call in reservations (755-0360 in Detroit or 858-8822 in Pontiac) the first couple of weeks. "We're excited about it," said Dan Fischer, assistant to the president of Michigan Trailways.

"We think it will be a premium service for commuters."

COMMUTERS ALSO are being helped to form van pools, which carry 15 riders and usually offer door-to-door service.

The driver gets use of a new vehicle and rides free while passengers pay about $40 monthly to travel 40 miles round trip a day.

Sandra Wigent, SEMCOG'S Ride Share Program manager, has been deluged with inquiries in the past two weeks. About 50 percent of the hotline (963-RIDE) calls - up to 100 a day are from former Park and Ride commuters.

"We're delighted. We're willing to help whatever way we can," said Wigent, who encourages SEMTA use where it's available because of the greater flexibility of public transportation.

Flagpole suit filed by bike shop owner

Patriotism undoubtedly will be the reoccurring theme in a lawsuit filed last week against Plymouth Township.

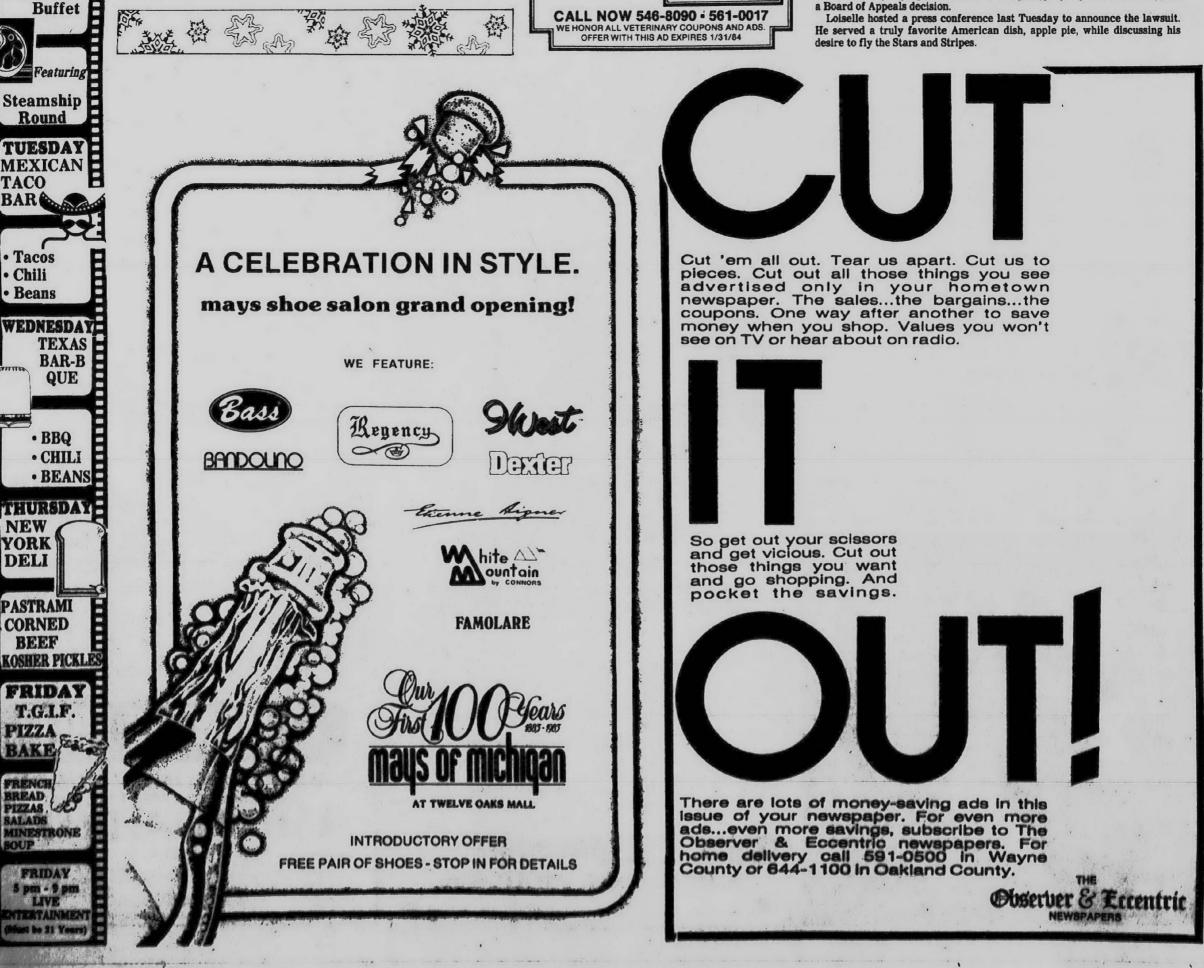

The suit is part of Jerry Loiselle's battle to install a 70-foot flagpole in front of his bicycle shop at 1449 W. Ann Arbor Road.

Loiselle filed for an injunction, which would permit him to erect the pole, in Wayne County Circuit Court last Tuesday. Judge James Mies is expected to hear arguments supporting Loiselle's request for an accelerated decision this Friday.

The township's Board of Appeals earlier denied Loiselle permission to install the pole, claiming it would be a "permanent structure" not complying with local zoning regulations.

Attorney John Voss III said he will argue flagpoles are not structures, as outlined in the state construction code. He has advised Loiselle to go ahead and install the pole before a court ruling.

Township Supervisor Maurice Breen declined comment on the lawsuit last week, only saying Loiselle is following the proper procedures to appeal

Wayne had a problem when Plymouth went dry

The front page of the Plymouth Mail on May 21, 1915, reported business was booming at the Alter Motor Car Company on Farmer Street.

The company, which opened in Plymouth in 1914, was more than 600 cars behind in its orders. The plant produced 33 cars the previous week, and an output of 44 was hoped for in the following week. The Mail said the Alter had been a success in every way. What the editor couldn't have known was that the car company would go out of business early in 1917.

Pages two and three of the paper contained national advertisements for a variety of nostrums. Included were Beecham's Pills, Sphn's cure of pink eye, Lydia E. Pinkham's vegetable compound for women, Cuticura soap and ointment, and Parker's Hair Balsam for eradicating dandruff. It also restored color and beauty to gray or faded hair.

Other ads promoted Dr. J.D. Kellogg's remedy for asthma and hay fe-ver, Carter's Little Liver Pills, Doan's Kidney Pills to cure rheumatism, Fletcher's Castoria ("Children Cry for Fletcher's"), and Dr. William's place in Minneapolis "where cancer is cured without knife or pain.'

Local ads on pages four and five fea-tured Frank Rambo's Central Meat Market; Gayde Brothers canned goods; and the horseshoeing and general blacksmithing business of J.S. Lorenz whose place was on East Ann Arbor Street. Lorenz was a relative of Ralph Lorenz's father.

Murray's Ice Cream Store on Penniman Avenue featured their Sunday special: custard ice cream. Charles Mather advertised his lumber; R.R. Parrott his insurance; and R.W. Shingleton his tailor shop.

C.G. Draper (grandfather of Dr. James Carney) whose jewelry and op-tometry store was at 140 Main, announced graduation, birthday, anniversary and wedding gifts. Brown and Pettingill, "the white front grocery," stocked imported sardines at five to 35 cents a tim, salmon at ten to 35 cents a tin, and coffee at 30 cents a pound.

John L. Gale, the grocer, also stocked a variety of chemicals useful on the farm. They included Blue Vitriol, Paris Green, Formaldehyde Candles, Fleck's Lice Killer, and Newton's Heave Remedy. Gale's special for the day was a 25 cent can of harness oil for 15 cents.

IN THE NEWS columns, Village President Louis Hillmer made it known that he had several thousand gladiolus bulbs, and a quantity of tulip bulbs, daffodils, Spanish iris, and rose bushes to give free to any person who would plant them in places to help beautify Plymouth.

A meeting of the junior class of the high school, together with mothers and members of the faculty, petitioned the school board to help cut the expense of commencement exercises. The group recommended that the senior banquet not exceed the sum of 35 cents per plate and that senior class girls be asked to have only one dress of their own choosing for all commencement functions

The Mail quoted the Detroit Free Press in reporting that Cass Benton, county commissioner, former legislator and well-known politician, was retiring from public life to his farm in Northville. As county road commissioner, Benton had served on the same board with Henry Ford and Edward Hines

The Detroit United Lines announced trolley times eastbound from Plymouth to Detroit, via Wayne, and northbound for Northville. Cars connected at Wayne for Ypsilanti and points west for Jackson.

Among the for-sale items in the issue was a house with a large lot on Starkweather for $2,500; one on Main Street for $4,500; and one on Penniman Avenue for $8,000. An eight-room house on South Main was offered for $1,000.

An item in the social news said that Harry Robinson, the local livery stable owner and auctioneer, and W.T. Conner, owner of the hardware store, were having new cement walks laid in front of their residences on Penniman Avenue.

Pages six and seven had state and national news. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Keeler, discussing commencement exercises, said the dress of male and female graduates should be as modest as possible. Keeler declared: "The time has been reached in Michigan when the rich should condescend to allow their children graduates to dress more in keeping with those who are not rich in this world's goods." With all the domestic teaching being done in schools, he thought it not a bad idea for the girls to make their own dresses this year.

On the last page, Grinnell Brothers advertised Stroud "Pianola" player-pianos for $550. Bertha Beals, on Mill Street, and Mrs. John Patterson, on Penniman Avenue, offered music lessons.

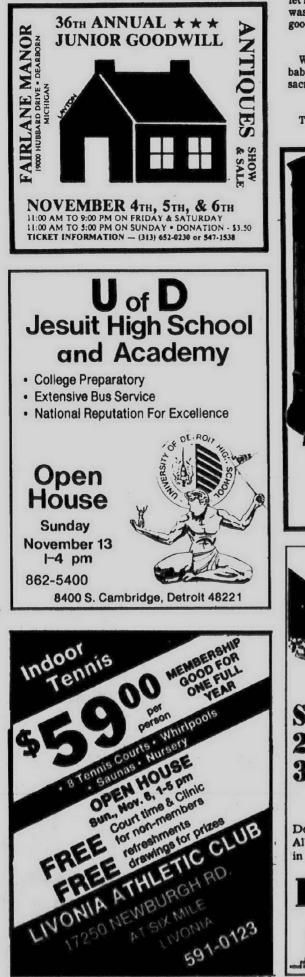

Finally, the Mail quoted the Wayne Weekly which complained that Wayne was beginning to feel the effects of the decision of Plymouth and Northville to vote themselves dry. It said a number of "the more undesirable class" from those towns descended on Wayne on Saturday to "tank up." The writer went on to say that "a few trips to the cooler for some would probably convince them that falling from the water wagon is rather a hazardous and expensive luxury."

oral quarrel

This week's Oral Quarrel asked readers what they think the U.S. should do in the wake of the terrorist attack on U.S. Marines in Lebanon.

I think the Marines should pull out of Lebanon. The guys over there that were in charge blew it in the first place by clustering their men and not having a perimeter set up right.

As far as Grenada, I don't think they really went in to Grenada to protect the students. I think they went in to grab that airstrip and I think they saved a lot of lives by grabbing that airstrip.

I believe the United States should expand its peacekeeping operation and furthermore to take further action in the area. The area is a vital interest area to the United States, particularly in that Israel is a lone island there and we should defend and support Israel.

Expand.

I think the United States should do what's neces sary. If it comes to war, then let's go to war but let's stop letting all these Americans get killed wastefully. Let's get the world cleaned up and do a good job. Thank you.

We should get out of Beirut. We have no business baby-sitting the world. We should be unwilling to sacrifice any of our men for this cause.

This family believes that everything the President has done is correct. We believe in staving there with the peacekeeping operation. I think you should have set that as one of your options rather than just pull out and take other action. You left that part out about stay where you are. Thank you.

I think they ought to take other action, like taking revenge probably. Thank you.

The United States should expands its action. Send more Marines. Take control of the situation, establish democracy and keep it going in the Middle East.

I think the U.S. should continue on in Lebanon and other spots in the world and reverse its 10-year trend and become a protector and preserver of freedom in this world. If they wait until the world is two-thirds Communist and Socialist we're in a lot of trouble and we'll never be able to stop it.

in poor taste

To the editor:

Regarding the "chainsaw massacre" character on the front page of Monday's, Oct. 24, edition: I have some questions and personal views for parents to consider.

Is this spooky or sick? How far do we "rational adults" go? Is this entertainment for children or simply a grotesque display? In this violent society we must guide our future generation to a more humane and civilized way of life. To symbolize or "re-enact" the "Texas Chainsaw Massacre" is not an action conducive to the good mental health of our youth and may have damaging effects.

The young impressionable mind will not benefit from this display or from the newspaper's poor judgment to print such a tasteless photograph. I urge the Jaycees to stop, step back, and take a long sober look at their "attractions." Are they clever, entertaining, scary, or just gruesome, ugly, and a symbol of the inhumanity of the human race?

To the editor:

With a great deal of pride and appreciation, I take this means to thank the members of the Secretaries Negotiating Team: Rita Ringer, Barbara King, Corliss Mueller, Marie Lienhard and Sally (Belding) Rigo for the long arduous thankless hours they spent on the recent contract negotiations.

They constantly displayed fortitude and good judgment in addition to keeping up a flow of information.

I sincerely thank each one of you. Dorothy J. Koi, Clerk-Secretary, Plymouth-Canton, Community Schools

FASHIONABLE DINING THE

With the sophisticated palates of today's consumer and a rising interest in nutrition, healthful eating and lighter foods, it's little wonder that both pasta and seafood are in the spotlight these days.

Featured here are several delicious entrées from which to choose-all combining versatile Alaska seafood and assorted pastas. Each dish has a distinctive flavor and each has been calorie-trimmed as well. All tally about 400 calories or less per serving.

Protein-rich Alaska canned salmon can be combined with nourishing pasta in an endless number of wonderful combos. Presented here are several suggestions which will supply excellent eating in a minimum of time.

Lasagne-Salmon Pinwheels make great company fare. To prepare, lasagne is cooked just until tender, spread with a colorful blend of canned salmon, spinach and ricotta cheese, then rolled up and baked with stewed tomatoes.

In a main-dish salad, marinated pasta shells combine with convenient canned salmon, cucumber, celery, hardcooked egg, green onion and grated Parmesan cheese.

Spaghetti and Crab Primavera is sensational for a special occasion. Quick to prepare, this outstanding pasta dish brings together succulent Alaska Snow crab with colorful vegetables.

On another occasion, fill jumbo macaroni shells with nourishing canned salmon, cottage cheese and broccoli and bake with a fresh mushroom sauce. Or prepare a salmon version of the ever popular macaroni and cheese casserole for compliments galore.

Another culinary delight combines sautéed Alaska halibut and assorted vegetables with egg noodles.

LASAGNE-SALMON PINWHEELS (Makes 8 servings)

SPAGHETTI AND CRAB PRIMAVERA (Makes 4 servings)

SALMON-MACARONI CASSEROLE

- 8 lasagne
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 1 can (15-1/2 ounces) salmon
- 1 container (15 ounces) part skim milk ricotta cheese
- 3 cups chopped fresh spinach (stems removed)
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1-1/2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (14-1/2 ounces) stewed tomatoes

Gradually add lasagne and salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

While lasagne is cooking, drain salmon and reserve liquid. Break salmon into small chunks in small bowl; set aside. In another bowl, stir together ricotta cheese, spinach, onion, Parmesan cheese, lemon peel and pepper until blended. Add salmon chunks and toss gently.

Spread salmon mixture evenly over each lasagne leaving a 1/2 inch border at each end. Roll up and place open-side up in greased 2 1/2 or 3-quart casserole. Stir salmon liquid into tomatoes. Spoon tomatoes around lasagne pinwheels. Cover and bake at 375°F about 30 minutes or until bubbly. Calories per serving: 274

Be careful: Don't pay for wrapping

Two supermarket chains in my neck of the woods have admitted to misleading advertising and mislabeling or shortweighting meat.

While I rarely shop at their stores, for other reasons, I believe it's important for you to be aware that the same violations may be occurring at other supermarkets

I occasionally weigh packaged pro-duce at the two chains I patronize; so far, I haven't been cheated. I plan to drop some meat on produce scales for the heck of it since I learned that supermarkets aren't above making less than honest mistakes.

One chain really got nailed by the consumer protection agency. It had been weighing and pricing meat after ' packaging so shoppers in 34 stores paid beef prices for 11/2 oounces of cellophane and cardboard.

It sold ground beef that contained soybean and other fillers as "great ground beef." It now sells "great ground.'

The least serious violations: labeling beef chuck shoulder steak "London broil" and rump roast "California roast."

The most serious violations: marking rib steak "rib-eye" and rib-eye "beef loin strip," with accompanying higher prices

The most foolish violation: tagging lamb chops from New Zealand "USDA choice."

BEEF A LA MODE

2 tsp. salt 1/2 tsp. black pepper 1 garlic clove, minced Pinch of cayenne pepper ¹/₄ cup all-purpose flour 4-lb. beef rump roast 2 onions, sliced 4 cup bacon drippings 1 bay leaf 1 parsley sprig 3 carrots, sliced 1 turnip, sliced and cut up

On dinner plate, combine salt, pep-per, garlic, cayenne and flour. Dredge beef in seasoned flour. In large pot, cook onions in heated bacon drippings until limp and remove. Slowly brown meat all over, return onions, add bay leaf and parsley, place carrots and turnip around meat, add water, cover and cook on a notch above low 31/2 to 4 hours. Remove meat to heated platter. Strain cooking liquid, add enough water to make 2 cups, return to pot and thicken with flour for gravy. Serve with mashed potatoes, buttered noodles or fluffy rice. Serves 8.

Before you purchase a countertop forced air convection oven, look into the pros and cons of making such a purchase.

Forced air convection ovens cook faster than conventional ovens, says Elaine Glasser, Oakland County Extension Home Economist, because a fan moves heated air around the food. As moisture evaporation is speeded up, food surfaces brown so foods look as if they were baked or roasted in a conventional oven.

Although cooking time is usually shorter and the convection oven uses less energy than a range oven, you may not actually save energy, Glasser says. It depends on your total cooking load. Cooking a full load in a range oven would probably be more economical at a time in a small countertop oven.

top convection oven, be sure that you have enough counter space for it, allowing a 6-inch clearance at the back, both sides and top to dispel the heat. If the oven isn't well insulated or doesn't have an air space between its walls to cook the outer surface, you will have to allow even more clearance, Glasser

CONGRATULATIONS to Thelma and Maitland Lattimer who celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary Saturday. They were married in Detroit Oct. 29, 1921. The Lattimers have been residents of Tonquish Creek Manor for three years, and they love it. They are active in Colony Bible Fellowship Church where Mrs. Lattimer sings in the choir.

They have three children, Rachel Hardy, Leslie Lattimer and Leona McKinnon; nine grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. Mr. Lattimer was a master mechanic.

He retired 15 years ago. They enjoy watching television in their spare time but, according to Mrs. Lattimer, "We pick the good things."

MIKE GRESOCK will represent this area Nov. 12 in the District 28 Toastmasters humorous speech contest. Mike, a member of the Oral Majority group in Plymouth, won the area title in the competition in Hillside Inn.

The district contest will be in Monroe with local winners from Ohio, Southeastern Michigan and Ontario competing.

Mike's topic was "Demotivation" a spoof on the current motivation fad

Rocks rebound, blank N'ville

Plymouth Salem rebounded from last weeks's tough loss to Walled Lake Central, shutting out Northville 24-0, in a battle of runner-ups Friday night in the Western Lakes Athletic Association

The Rocks racked up 358 yards in total offense, scoring once in each quarter, while holding the Mustangs to 138 yards in posting their first shutout of the year.

"We swarmed them pretty good and we were able to move the ball on the ground," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "After a disappointing loss last week, which we should have won - we came out in the first half sluggish. But we were much better in the second half."

football

HALFBACK JEFF Arnold scored the Rocks' first touchdown on a 7-yard burst in the first quarter, capping a 61yard drive in nine plays. Fullback Scott Jurek, who carried the ball 23 times for 120 yards in the game, scored the second touchdown on a 3-yard run that gave Salem a 12-0 halftime lead (the Rocks missed all four extra points).

Quarterback Mark Tindall's 1-yard sneak in the third period culminated a 52-yard drive in 10 plays.

Salem's last touchdown came on Arnold's second touchdown, an 11-yard dash in the final quarter.

Salem's powerful rushing attack netted 234 yards.

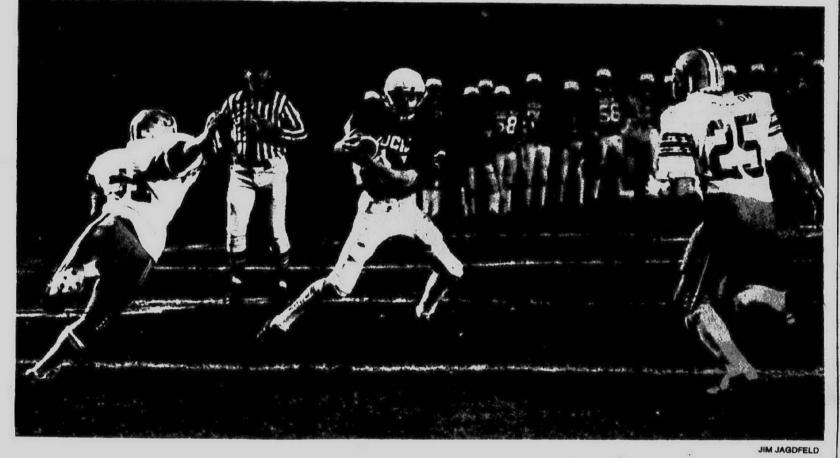

COMPLEMENTING Jurek's outstanding game were Tindall, who had nine carries for 55 yards, and Arnold, who added 42 yards on six carries.

Tindall and second-string quarterback Steve Sobditch combined to complete six of seven passes for 124 yards, all to end Craig Morton. Linebacker David Bunch was the Rocks' defensive star, recording 16 tackles

Salem raised it overall record to 7-1 with the victory. Northville's record dropped to 4-3.

The Rock's will meet Redford Union Friday at home in their final regular season game.

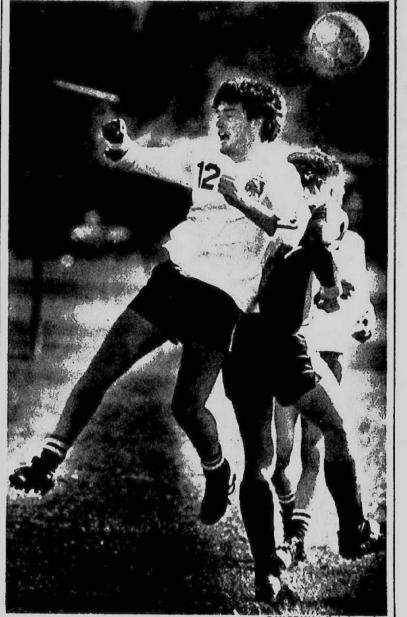

Craig Morton caught six passes for 124 yards for the Rocks Friday night in their 24-0 win over Northville. Morton, above, took this pass from quarterback Mark Tindall all the way down to the 1-yard line.

Chiefs finally get 1st win kick title

Rodney Williams, Canton's big fullback pictured above in a game earlier this year, scored a big touchdown Friday in the Chiefs' first victory of the season. They blanked Farmington, 14-0.

Plymouth Canton finally won its first game of the season Friday, defeating Farmington 14-0 in a battle to stay out of the cellar in the Western Lakes Athletic Association.

Windy conditions forced both teams to stay with their ground games, but neither team was able to move the ball in the first half and they went into the lockerroom scoreless.

It wasn't until the middle of the third quarter that the Chiefs finally got on the scoreboard on quarterback Tony Aiken's 1-yard sneak. Jim Kaske made the extra point, and Canton led 7-0.

Canton's final score was set up by a 25-yard fumble recovery by Dave Knapp. Knapp picked up the loose ball at the Falcon's 45 and raced to the Chiefs' 20-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, tailback Rod Williams dashed 20 yards to ice the victory.

"IT FELT good," Canton coach Rich Barr said. "It's been a long time coming. We kept them off the board and scored a couple ourselves. I'm happy."

There wasn't much offense in the game. Canton gained only 117 yards in total offense, all on the ground. The Chiefs were led by Williams, who rushed for 50 yards. Rod Boyd added 40. Aiken attempted only three passes and wasn't able to connect.

Canton held Farmington held to 73 vards in total offense, including 23 on the ground and 50 in the air.

Canton's win gives them a 1-7 overall record this season. Farmington dropped to 2-5. Canton will play its final game Friday at Belleville.

As it turns out, last Saturday's game at Cuyahoga (Ohio) Metro Community College meant nothing more than to serve as a tune-up for Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team.

That's because the Ocelots won the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) 12th region title "without playing", according to coach Larry Christoff.

Schoolcraft captured the championship when Macomb Community College whipped Lakeland (Ohio) Community College, 4-1, last week.

"In essence, that clinches it for us," Christoff said. Schoolcraft boasted a 6-1 regional record going into Saturday's Cuyahoga game. Macomb was next (4-2-1), followed by Lakeland (4-3), Cu-yahoga (2-4-1) and Delta College (1-6). The regional title - the 12th region includes junior colleges from Michigan's lower peninsula, Indiana and Ohio – qualifies the Ocelots for the NJCAA Inter-Regional Tournament at Triton College in Chicago.

SCHOOLCRAFT WILL battle winners of the fourth (upper Illinois), 13th (Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and upper Michigan) and 24th (lower Illinois) regionals.

That four-team competition is slated for Nov. 13-14. The Inter-Regional winner advances to the NJCAA quarterfinals. The eight-team NJCAA tournament will be Thanksgiving weekend in Trenton, NJ.

"I'm optimistic," Christoff said. "I think we can do well. If we can get out of (the Inter-Regionals) we should do well in the nationals.

"But it all has to do with luck, without question. Sometimes the ball will take an extra bounce or hit the crossbar, and you can end up on the short end."

At Triton the ball may take faster bounces than the Ocelots are used to. The Triton field is Astroturf, a surface Schoolcraft is inexperienced in playing 00.

"This means a lot to hold this in my hand," said Bentley first-year coach Tom Caranicolas, clutching the regional trophy. "I'm very excited and proud.

"When we started the season we had three goals - to win this game, to get to the next game (the semifinals) and to win the state playoff.

"We've achieved one goal now."

Bentley tallied the game's lone goal midway through the second half when Jim Radeback punched through a loose ball on a sideline throw-in from teammate Eric Scicluna

"CANTON was very tough in the midfield during the first half," said Caranicolas. "In the second half we made some adjustments and wanted to get the ball to the wings. We put Jim (Radeback) there and switched Dennis Patchett to center-forward.

"We took their midfield apart and sneaked a goal in."

John Gelmisi's goal with 30 seconds remaining capped a dramatic comeback Saturday as Livonia Stevenson won its own Class A regional boys' soccer title with a 3-2 victory over Northville.

The Spartans (18-2-1), defending state champs, advance to Wednesday's semifinal match against the Portage Central-Traverse City winner. Game time is 7 p.m. at Stevenson Northville (15-4-2), which handed Stevenson one of its two losses earlier in the season, led 2-0 at halftime on goals by Steve Starcevich and Joe Mackle.

But Gelmisi caught fire in the second half, scoring the first of his three goals at 53 seconds, followed by the tying score just seven minutes later. Midfielder Eric Pence set up both goals go to the ball. That's the name of game."

Canton missed two golden scoring opportunities late in the game. Tom Wright drilled a wicked shot near the crossbar and Steve Montell shot wide on an empty net.

"I FELT we could have made it here all along," said Canton coach Tony Lonigro. "I thought we were strong from the beginning of the year. It's that we just lost some tight games, except when we got beat 5-2 by Stevenson.

"I know deep down inside we could have beaten Bentley."

The Chiefs upset Notre Dame 3-0 on Wednesday as goalie Dave Hawkins was superb in the nets, making 16 saves for his first shutout of the year

Morell scored the first goal on a header from Wright, while Brad Neville followed shortly after with another first half score from Scott Swisher. Wright then put the game out of reach with his 21st goal of the season from Brian Whiteley.

It was Canton's biggest soccer win

Then with less than a minute to play, Stevenson's Dan Divens dribbled down the side, taking two defenders with him. He tipped a pass to Gelmisi. who pumped home the winning shot past Northville goalie Jeff Metz.

GELMISI, a junior striker, now has 31 goals on the season.

"At the half we were down two and we had to gamble," said Stevenson coach Pete Scerri. "I moved (Chris) Banyai in place of Divens, and put Divens on the right wing. We wanted to get the ball to the wings.

Northville coach Marv Gans said. "We let the lead slip away. Two goals weren't enough to beat Stevenson."

The Spartans may have to play Wednesday without Banyai, one of the team's top defenders. He injured his right ankle late in the game and had to be removed.

"It looks like he's out," Scerri said "If he can play, he will, because there's no tomorrow."

"It takes a little getting used to," Christoff said. "It's a different type of ball control. We'll probably have to change our tatics somewhat. "But the faster ball should favor us." THAT'S BECAUSE Schoolcraft plays a pressure, fast-break type offense. The Ocelots don't emphasize passing as much as shooting, and with the ball taking fast skips off the slick surface, scoring should be high.

The team has been working out at a Farmington indoor arena equipped with Astroturf to get familiarized with it.

Schoolcraft will be depending on its two top scorers during the season, Northville graduate Doug Marshall (13 goals) and Redford Temple Christian alumnus Manny Murua (nine goals), to keep up the pace.

Whittaker's free throw gives Rocks big win

By Chris McCosky staff writer

A couple of months ago, Plymouth Salem girls basketball coach Fred Thomann joked about someone having the opportunity to win a big game in the waning seconds with a free throw.

He asked his girls if they would like to be in that situation. The answer was a unanimous "No way!"

But Thursday night in a dank, dun-geon-like Walled Lake Central auxiliary gym, in front of a rowdy junior varsity team and a handful of Moms and Dads, Fran Whittaker accepted that challenge.

With the score tied at 43, five seconds left in the game, Whittaker swished the front end of a one-and-one to give the Rocks a gut-wrenching, 44-43 victory.

"THE MARK of a true champion is to be able to go on the road, overcome adversity, and do what you did tonight," Thomann told his team afterwards. "You beat a very good team tonight. Walled Lake Central is a darn good basketball team."

Both Salem and Central came into the game tied for second place in the Western Lakes Athletic Association Lakes Division with identical 9-3 conference records. The win means Salem will draw Livonia Churchill in the first round of the league playoffs, and Central gets Plymouth Canton.

"We gave up 43 points tonight," Thomann said, "but we played a tremendous game defensively. Central usually scores more than 50."

Salem gave up three inches per player at the forward and center positions. The Rocks' Dawn Johnson and Pam McBride had the dubious honor of covering Central's sibling towers, Pam and Patti Fitzgerald.

Johnson held Pam to 12 points, most of those on offensive rebounds underneath the hoop. Pam didn't get off a shot in the second quarter. McBride held senior Patti to just 11 points, eight of those in the second half.

ON THE OTHER end of the court, Johnson scored 18 points to lead the Rocks, and McBride tallied 15, 10 in the first half.

The Rocks came out red hot in the first quarter. They sank their first four shots of the game, seven of the their first 13, to jump ahead 14-9. McBride had eight first-quarter points. The Rocks extended their lead to eight points, 20-12, midway through the second quarter before Central came charging back with eight unanswered points. The Rocks led 22-20 at halftime. Johnson began to take charge in the third quarter. Her eight points enabled the Rocks to maintain a 35-31 lead going into the final quarter.

Central scored five of its 11 thirdquarter points on free throws. On the night, Central went to the line 19 times and hit on 14, while the Rocks went to the line nine times and hit four.

McBride and Kelly Bemiss each picked up their fourth fouls in that third quarter, and Johnson was playing with three.

TWO ROCK TURNOVERS beginning the final quarter led to two longrange jumpers by Central. With the quarter just 37 seconds old, Central had tied the game at 35.

With 4:53 left in the game, Central led 39-35. They outscored Salem 12-2 in the first five minutes of the fourth quarter.

With Central ahead 43-37, the Rocks made their run. It began with a pair of clutch free throws by Bemiss that broke a long Rock scoring drought.

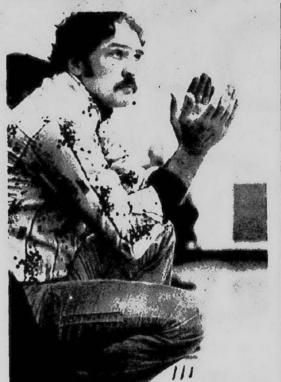

McBride stole the ball at mid-court and hit a jumper from the free-throw line to cut the margin to two, 43-41, with 2:01 left.

After several Central misses, Johnson pulled up on a fast break and calmly swished a 20-footer to tie the game.

girls basketball

"I thought it was short," said an ex-uberant Johnson after the game. "I swear, I thought it was short."

THE ROCK DEFENSE forced another Viking turnover with 1:09 left and Thomann called timeout.

Fred Thomann was pleased with his team's performance Thursday night against Walled Lake Central.

Whittaker. Whittaker, who possesses one of the quickest first steps in the area, beat Central's Shauna Anderson to the baseline and was fouled.

"She got the ball and she knew what to do with it. She knew she was going to win the game," Thomann said. "And the best thing she could have done was miss that second shot because they didn't get a chance to set up."

Central didn't score a point in the fi-nal 2½ half minutes of the game. That, above all else, was the key to the Rocks' comeback.

"It was fun," Thomann said, summ ing it all up. But Salem's road to the WLAA championship won't be any picnic. They play at Churchill Thursday. If they win, they will play the winner of the Stevenson-Walled Lake Western game. In the other bracket, Bentley plays at Northville and Central plays

First half surge destroys Chiefs

The Plymouth Canton girls basketball team learned Thursday that you can't win games by playing just one half of basketball.

Walled Lake Western outscored the Chiefs 27-9 in the first half. The Chiefs outpointed Western 30-23 in the second half Western won, 50-39.

"We played very, very poor basket-ball in the first half," said Chief coach Phyllis Cunningham Mulroy. "We didn't pay defense, we didn't stop Val Hall like we had worked on, and we let Carol Kroll score nine points in the first quarter."

We didn't get any boards at all. Fundamentally, we didn't do the things we have to do to be successful," she said.

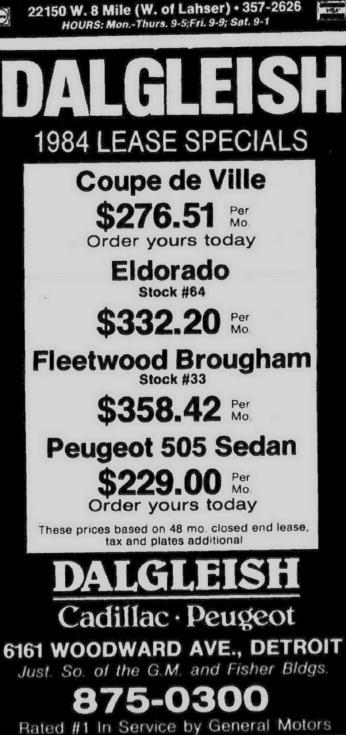

The result of the Chiefs' poor firsthalf performance, other than a 19-point deficit, was a severe halftime tonguelashing from Mulroy.

"They got talked to real good. It was the angriest I've been all season. I told them the key to this game was defense. We gave up way too many points; 27 points in a half is just ridiculous," Mulroy said.

Mulroy switched to a man-to-man defense in the second half. That, plus some spirited play by sophomore Launice to know that the sophomores and juniors are picking up. They are our bread and butter for next year. I'd still like to make something happen this year. But the girls have to believe they can do it. I think they believe they can come close, but I don't think they believe they can make the big shot.

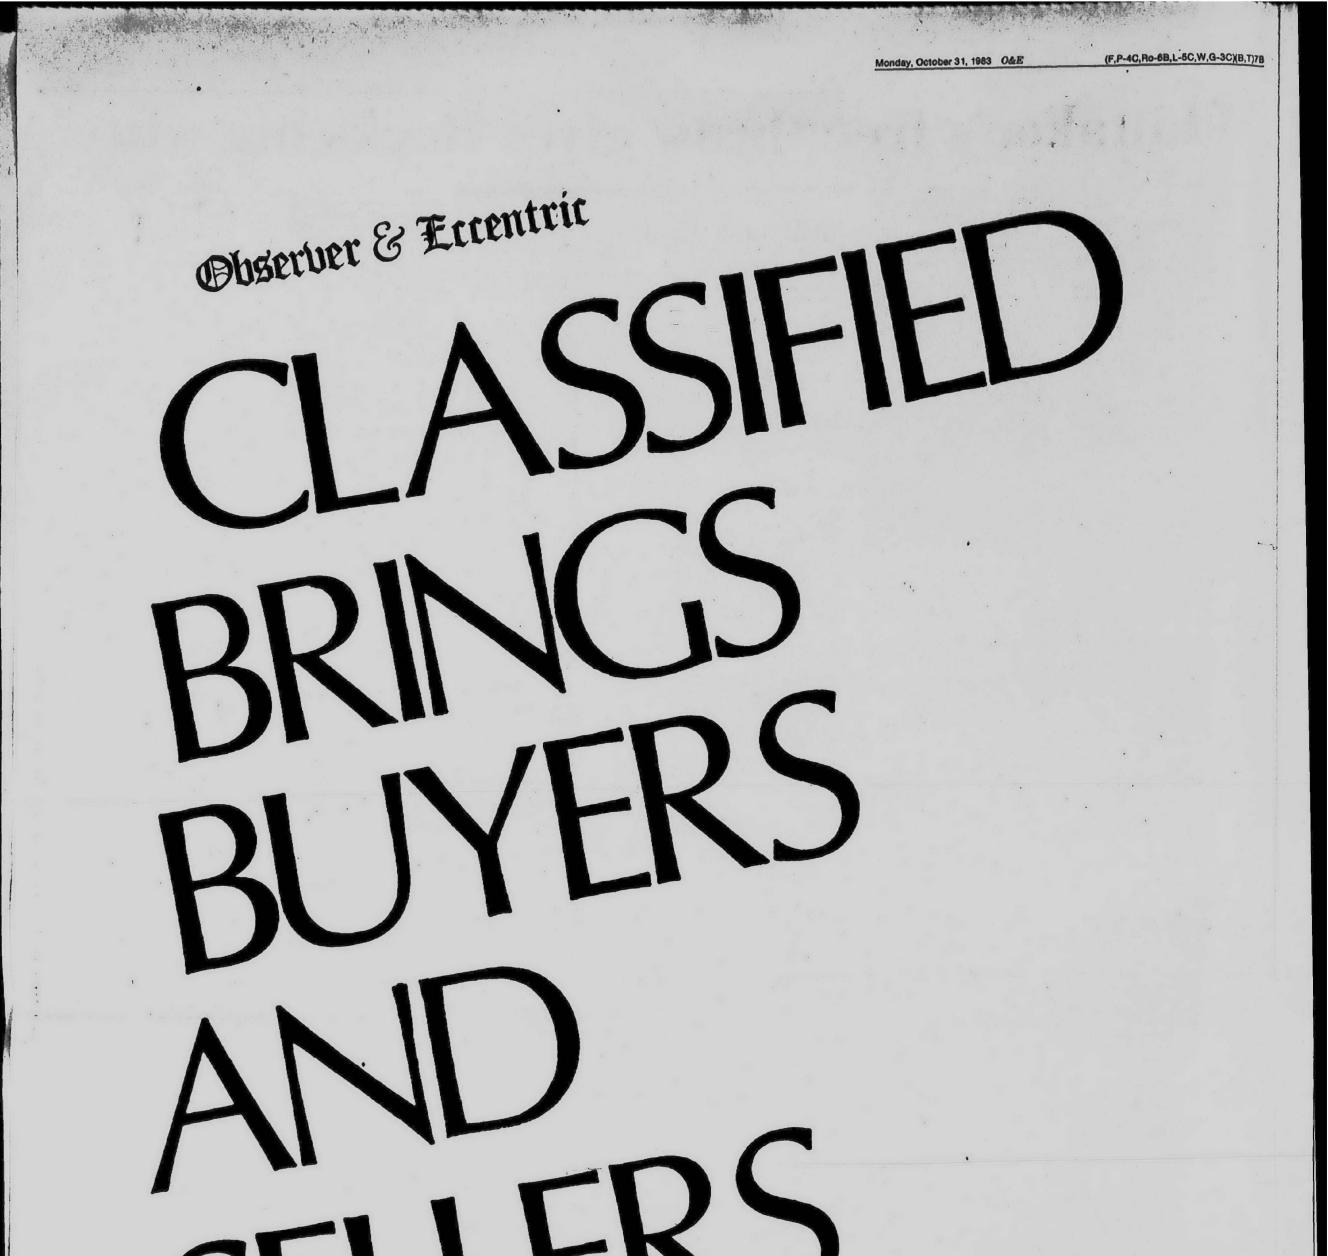

"One upset win could change everything," she said.

They will get that opportunity next Thursday night as they host Walled Lake Central in the first round of the Western Lakes Athletic Association playoffs. Tomorrow, Canton will host non-league rival Dearborn.

'The Right Stuff' packs too much into 3 hours

Dan Greenberg, guest critic for this week's movie review, is a film instructor at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills.

Although many are raving about "The Right Stuff," it is difficult to understand why. The film does have a lot of stuff, good, bad and mediocre. But too much stuff is crammed into this three-hour saga of the Mercury astronauts.

Their trials and tribulations, at home and in the air, are intermixed with national and international politics and the business of space flight. The super heroics of test pilot Chuck Yeager (Sam Shepard) frost the cake.

Although not qualified as an astronaut, near the film's end he mystically gains great moral stature, surviving a jet crash while the seven Mercury astronauts receive world-class acclamation in Houston under Lyndon Johnson's political patronage and Sally Rand's feathered fan dance.

If that all sounds a bit much, it is, even for a three-hour epic.

"THE RIGHT STUFF" opens with a 40-minute, softly photo-graphed, nicely nostalgic sequence of jet test-piloting in the late '40s. Air Force Test Pilot Yeager rides the X-1 through the sound barrier (Mach 1) with broken ribs.

In case you wonder how he broke his ribs, there's a nifty sequence as he picks up his wife Glennis (Barbara Hershey) in Pancho's Happy Bottom Riding Club (the local flyboy's bar) and crashes through the desert underbrush on horseback.

Of course, his sexual expectations are thwarted in a riding accident. But the great, gum-chewing hero flies Mach 1, broken ribs and all. It may be historical, but on a wide screen it is pure hokum.

The soft, muted reds and yellow of the opening segment beautifully convey reverence for Yeager and other pioneers. Silhouetted mourners at graveside services for test pilots and a lovely shot of Mrs. Scott Carpenter (Susan Kase), despondently clutching a pillow as she sinks to a desolate bed, sum up the loneliness and fear of women whose men fly.

es, write nrector Phill Kaur man fails to restrain his extensive material. Selecting and training astronauts was a long process. Ultimately, Shepherd, Grissom and Glenn rocket to glory. Theirs was a long journey. Director Kaufman makes ours too long - three hours and counting.

ONE CAN ONLY watch so many faces in space helmets filling the screen at acute angles, so many rockets exploding, so many jet fighters and rockets whizzing by — and clouds, lots of clouds. A good jet whoosh is fine once in a while, but this was just plain tiresome

The overly broad satire, particularly of Lyndon Johnson and the press also evidences immature direction. Johnson's portrait as the godfather of the Houston space industry is plain silly. President Johnson may have been a politician in the worst sense of the word, but he was neither a fool nor a childish buffoon.

Nor can one believe that all reporters are howling jackals ready to kill for a story. The exception, of course, being Eric Sevareid, sitting woodenly at an outdoor table commenting with total disinterest as rockets are launched.

The film's historical figures include Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy, the former portrayed by an actor, the latter in newsreel footage. John Glenn (Ed Harris) is a truly heroic figure. It will be interesting to see if this film provides the right stuff for Senator Glenn's presidential campaign.

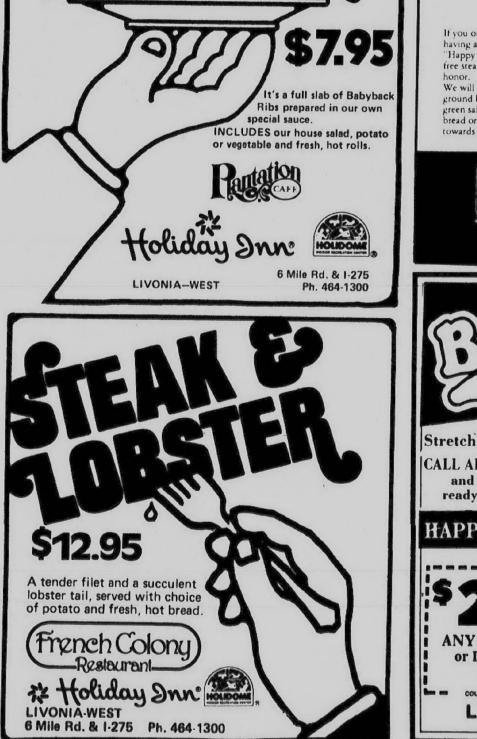

The musical score is excellent, whether in booming emphasis of astronautical triumph or in setting the historical scene with hit tunes of yesteryear. The "Hallelujah Chorus," however, is the wrong note for the astronauts' introductory press conference.

DIRECTOR KAUFMAN believes, "Ultimately, the film is a paean to American heroism, but it pokes fun at American institutions." Those objectives are difficult to achieve. Trying to adore heroes is neat. Poking fun, however, should be funny, not silly.

"The Right Stuff" is adolescent satire, leavened only by the exuberance JFK's Camelot brought to America. The film's beautiful photographic sequences and the Mercury astronauts' tremendous accomplishments are poorly served.

Sam Shepard is Chuck Yeager and Barbara Hershey is his wife Glennis, who celebrate his achievement as first man to break the space barrier.
