Parents attempt recall of school board

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

An initial step has been taken which might lead to a recall campaign against the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

A group of parents from the school district have submitted to the Wayne County Clerk's office a recall petition form for approval.

The petition lists specific reasons why the school board should be recalled. The clerk will now provide each trustee a chance to refute the wording in the petition before approving the printing of the petitions.

The petitions were filed Thursday, Nov. 10, and the school board has up to 20 days from that date to refute the charges.

Recall planners expect they are about a month away from circulating petitions.

Plans for the recall were revealed Tuesday by Elizabeth (Donnelly) Barker of Canton who said the steering committee consists of a group of parents in the Hulsing attendance area. Steve Boak, attorney with offices in Plymouth, is serving as legal adviser for the group.

BARKER STRESSED that the recall effort "is not a witch hunt or a vendetta."

"I hope it will be a positive experience. A recall will allow the public to have a voice in either recalling the school board or in re-affirming the board. A recall would provide for a special election for residents to vote on all seven members of the board at one time," added Barker.

Barker, who has one child in elementary school and another in middle school, was a senior in Plymouth-Canton Schools during the 1969 strike and grew up in Plymouth.

Once the wording of the petition is approved, she explained, the petitions will be printed. From the time the first signature is obtained, she added, the group will have 90 days to finish circulating the petitions.

To obtain a special election to vote on recall, the group must obtain a number of signatures equal to 25 percent of the vote cast in the Wayne County portion of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for the last gubernatorial election. The clerk will be notifying Barker what that number is.

Residents must be registered voters to sign the recall petition, she stressed.

THE CHARGES in the proposed recall petition filed last Thursday state each trustee should be recalled because of he or she's:

- Action or inaction which was the cause of employees of the school district withholding their services to the detriment of the students.

- Repeated failure and/or refusal to respond to inquiries from the public regarding school board actions and policies.

- Failure to allow public discussion on matters at school board meetings.

- Complicity in using legal processes to thwart negotiations thereby lengthening the time students were unable to attend classes.

- Lack of consideration for the welfare of students.

- Failure to provide positive leadership in the school district.

- Failure to exercise fiscal responsibility.

The group of parents involved in planning the recall also was involved in the group of concerned parents who collected 1,900 signatures on a petition to present to the board the day the strike was settled. Those petitions were negotiated in about a day and a half over the weekend preceding the settlement.

If a recall election is held, and a majority of voters approve the recall of four or more trustees, the governor would appoint an interim board to serve from that point until the June regular school elections when a permanent board would be elected.

"We have had a number of people volunteer to circulate the petitions," said Barker. "But right now we are just holding fast until we hear from the clerk's office. We do hope residents who are not registered to vote will do so in the meantime."

Middle school shift approved

By Diane Gale
staff writer

After a full-house crowd aired complaints against a plan to shorten the middle school instructional day to six periods, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education approved the proposal Monday.

The board promised to hold additional meetings before deciding how the six period day will be spent after parents, teachers and students requested more elective courses.

"We've already contractually committed ourselves to a six period day, but how it will be utilized is yet to be concluded," said trustee Dr. E.J. McClendon.

"My concern is that there were a lot of suggestions made tonight, and it seems precipitous to adopt without further discussion," he said.

The board's proposal is to change the present seven period day to six periods of 55 minutes each. The switch will become effective in 1984, and will result in the school day being about 20 minutes shorter.

"We need to give the students a wide range of choices," said West Middle School teacher Ruth Burr. "They don't have an attention span of even 20 minutes, yet we're making the classes 55 minutes."

School administrators said the shift is intended to stress academic core subjects of English, mathematics, science and social studies. The increase in time for the core subjects will chisel away at elective courses. This issue brought about the loudest outcry.

The co-chairmen of Artfest '84," an annual student display of fine arts, resigned during the meeting.

A survey of high school and middle school practical arts teachers showed that out of 26 who responded, 23 said they would not take part in the event, according to Michael Chiumento, Lynne Lonigro and Karen Janer-Hanson, Student Artfest '84" co-chairmen.

"This is a direct result of the Board of Education showing a lack of support for the arts by diluting our programs," Chiumento said. "We hereby resign as co-chairpersons of Artfest '84."

SCHOOL BOARD members were compelled to pass the proposal, because the recently settled teacher's union contract has a clause about the six-period day.

The school day change will require an estimated nine to 11 additional teachers, according to Superintendent Dr. John Hoben.

The original proposal called for 40 weeks each in English, social studies, science and math for seventh and eighth graders; and 40 weeks each in English, social studies or science and math, and 20 weeks in health for ninth graders.

Also, 20 weeks each would be spent on physical education, computer education and academic skills, skills for living and general music in the seventh grade.

'My concern is that there were a lot of suggestions made tonight, and it seems precipitous to adopt without further discussion.'

— Dr. E.J. McClendon board member

Twenty weeks each would be spent in physical education, computer education and academic skills, industrial arts and art for eighth graders.

In the ninth grade, 20 weeks would be spent in courses selected from foreign language, wood technology, general business, science, social studies, band, orchestra, vocal music, drafting, remedial reading, physical education, art, skills for living and study hall.

The area the board said they would discuss and possibly alter involves requirements for the 20 week courses.

"The board's act keeps a door open in looking at the fine arts, and to offer the most possible," said Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

Relocating prison site will hurt taxes, township says

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The proposed change of a Northville Township prison site will have negative economic effects on Plymouth Township, according to a report being sent to state officials.

The report was written by the Plymouth Township supervisor's office in response to the proposed change, which is being fought by local homeowner's groups and surrounding governmental bodies.

State legislators ultimately will decide whether to change the prison site from Five Mile and Beck to Five Mile and Sheldon.

The site change, according to the Department of Management and Budget and Department of Corrections, will save the state some $20 million in construction costs.

Original plans called for constructing a $35.8 million regional prison at the Five Mile and Beck site. That facility was supposed to be the first prison built in the correction department's regional system.

Reportedly, utility work at that site has been completed. But further construction is being put on hold pending action on the proposed plan.

Dental advances

Dr. Henry Pinckney, with help of Mary McCall, grinds a new tooth to its proper shape. Pinckney is featured on advances in dentistry on 3A of today's edition.

The proposed plan calls for scraping that project in exchange for a $12 million renovation of the Plymouth Center for Human Development into a prison.

Initial hearings on the proposed plan were conducted in September and it now faces a joint capital outlay committee hearing early next year.

OPONENTS TO the proposed plan hope to kill it at the committee level, according to state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth Township.

The proposed plan doesn't conform with the correction department's desire to construct a regional prison system, Law said.

That system was outlined in a corrections department report written last year. The report lists the original Northville Township project as a prototype for that system.

Besides deviating from that concept, Law said the proposed plan really wouldn't save the state money.

The initial construction savings will be offset by the long-term operating costs of a "less efficient" converted prison, he said.

In addition to the argument of staying in line with the regional concept, Law also will be armed with Plymouth Township's recent analysis of changing sites.

The decision to relocate the prison, "while perceived as representing a short-range savings for the state, will have long-range impacts on federal, state and local governments," the township's report states.

"The heaviest burden of all, in terms of potential lost revenue due to a cessation of development, will be borne by the Charter Township of Plymouth," the report states.

The township projects a loss of some $2.9 million in tax revenues, should the prison be relocated.

Immediately south of the new site is land which the township has zoned for industrial use. That area, the Metro West Industrial Park, has experienced a good deal of development. However, the township claims progress in the park has slowed.

"PLANS FOR future site investment have been stalled. The only explanation for this interruption which can be concluded is that present land owners are awaiting the resolution of the question as to the location of a regional prison facility by the state.

"Furthermore, it would be safe to assume that should the prison facility be located there (at Five Mile and Sheldon), potential development would cease," the report states.

Pugh mayor Commission selects Robinson as pro tem

David Pugh was selected mayor of the city of Plymouth at Monday night's organizational meeting of the Plymouth City Commission.

Pugh was the first choice of his fellow commissioners for mayor as he was named to the job on the first ballot.

Commissioner William Robinson was selected mayor pro-tem. After the two selections, former Mayor Eldon "Bud" Martin made a short address and presented a special gift to the city.

Pugh, who has served on the city commission for six years, said he was proud to be selected mayor after being a resident of the city for only 10 years.

Pugh noted that the new commission has a total of 28 years experience as commissioners, not counting time many have served on the planning commission.

For one of the first times in recent history, Pugh added, the commission has two members on it who are immediate past mayors (Martin and Mary Childs).

He said he would continue the course chartered by Childs and Martin when they were mayor.

Pugh, who works in purchasing for Ford Motor Company, first ran for the commission in 1973 and was first elected in 1977. He was re-elected in 1981 to a four-year term. Pugh is a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, and once served on the Plymouth Planning Commission.

Pugh, who has a bachelor's degree in business administration from Indiana University and a master of business administration degree in finance from University of Detroit, owns retail shops on Forest Avenue next to Four Seasons and on Penniman Avenue.

Robinson, also a former member of the planning commission, is a member of the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth. He also has served as treasurer of the Plymouth Community Fund.

Robinson, who earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from Detroit Institute of Technology, is a financial consultant with the accounting firm of Morrison, Stanwood & Polak in Plymouth whose downtown offices are adjacent to Pugh's retail shops on Penniman.

NEW COMMISSIONERS sworn in Monday were Mary Ellen McKircher and Childs.

They replace Mark Wehmeyer, prevented by city charter provision from seeking re-election as he has served two successive terms, and Karl Gansler who decided not to see re-election.

Pugh announced at the special meeting Monday that this coming Monday at 5:30 p.m. a tree would be planted in Martin's honor on the city hall lawn.

Martin presented to the city a large, framed painting of a ship which symbolizes the Mayflower. Martin said the painting was in his family for 50 years and he wanted to present it to the city in appreciation of the honor given him to serve as mayor.

In his speech, Martin noted accomplishments achieved during his two years as mayor, including: a city lapel pin containing the city seal; a color theme for the city (blue and white); forming a beautification committee and a tree committee; the public safety study committee; establishing the Downtown Development Authority; $2 million in new construction in each of the two years; completion of Mayflower II and new retail shops; the Old Village master plan; major street resurfacing; widening of problem intersections; a two-year police contract with Plymouth Township; the ice carving and spring art festivals; construction of The Gathering (named by Martin's wife, Dee); opening of Four Seasons; renaming of Fleet Street; the last liquor license being granted to Emma's restaurant; the visit to Plymouth, England; and an increase of only eight-tenths of a mill over three years.

Suburbs seek control of Detroit water board

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Republicans in the Michigan Legislature are pushing two different reform bills to give suburbs their own representation on the Detroit Water Board.

Their complaint is the same. In the words of Sen. Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield, sponsor of the Senate bill: "Currently, there are more than 100 communities in southeast Michigan who purchase their water and/or sewer service, and more than half the users reside outside Detroit."

"Yet the suburban users have virtually no input into the operation of the system or the rates charged for usage," Fessler said in a news conference last week.

Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth Township, says suburban customers of Detroit have "no confidence" in Detroit's rate setting procedure. "I won't say suburban representatives on the water board could lower rates, but at least suburbanites could have more confidence in them."

AT PRESENT, the Detroit Water Board has seven members — four from Detroit and three from suburban customer communities — all appointed by the mayor of Detroit, and all removable by the mayor at will.

The suburban representatives are there as a matter of Detroit policy. Neither state law nor the Detroit city charter requires suburban representation.

Fessler's Senate bill is a plan long pushed by Oakland County Drain Commissioner George Kuhn of West Bloomfield. It would set up a nine-member board — three from Detroit and six from the customer communities. This board would set water and sewerage rates.

Rep. Gerald Law
"couple years battle"

The water board members would be elected from a new body called the "Metropolitan Water and Sewer Assembly." This single-purpose body would include a representative from each customer community. Each would have one vote per 10,000 population.

Detroit could nominate six persons, and the assembly would pick three of them.

Fessler's bill, co-sponsored by Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, is similar to plans advocated during the '70s by Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford.

An aide to Cruce said the bill has been referred to the Senate Finance and Municipalities, chaired by Gary Corbin, D-Clio. "At the very least, we should get a hearing. It may be reported out," the aide said.

LAW'S BILL is patterned after the act creating the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority. It would create a Southeastern Michigan Water Authority (SEMWA) to replace the Detroit Water Board.

It calls for a 15-member SEMWA board, one representative for every 300,000 population. In any city with 300,000 population, the mayor, with council consent, could select its own board members. In practice, only Detroit would have four members.

Wayne County suburbs probably would have four seats, Oakland three, Macomb two, and Lapeer and Genesee would share two, under Law's formula.

Law's bill would assign no role in the selection process to either Wayne County Executive William Lucas or Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy.

IN OAKLAND County, the first water board member would be picked by the County Board of Commissioners. The others would be picked by the SEMCOG General Assembly from Oakland County residents — the same method by which SEMTA board members are picked.

The method is unpopular with Oakland commissioners, who would like to be able to appoint all three SEMTA board members.

It is also disliked by Murphy, who wants county executives to have appointing powers similar to those of the mayor of Detroit.

Suburban Wayne and Macomb members would be picked by their respective county boards. The two members representing Lapeer and Genesee would be picked by SEMCOG and Gov. James J. Blanchard.

Canton's Dr. Henry Pinkney adds another layer of creamy white bonding material to the patient's tooth.

Cosmetic bonding working miracles

By M.B. Dillon Ward
staff writer

Youngsters who accidentally chip a tooth are no longer out of luck, forced to wait till they're grown to have it crowned.

Folks with unattractive gaps between teeth who've shied away from orthodontics now may have another option. Same goes for those with permanently stained teeth.

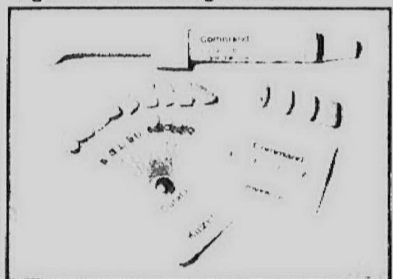

An ever-improving dental technique called cosmetic bonding is responsible.

By layering upon teeth a whitish creamy substance and hardening it with blasts of fiber optic light, dentists can enlarge and reshape teeth. While some touching up and restoration work may be necessary every couple of years, bonding is considered permanent.

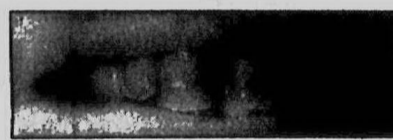

Invented about 20 years ago, the process has evolved into a relatively affordable, quick and painless procedure. Canton's Dr. Henry Pinkney is among the many metro-Detroit-area dentists who do cosmetic bonding and counts himself as one of its strongest advocates.

While the practice is becoming more common — Plymouth dentist Thomas Morse and Livonia doctors G. Stanley Weber and Mark Burye routinely perform cosmetic bonding — there are patients and dentists who remain skeptical or unfamiliar with the procedure.

Pinkney, a 1977 University of Michigan Dental School graduate, shoots "before and after" photographs of his cosmetic bonding patients, continually updating a photo album he is marketing to dentists throughout the U.S.

Manufacturers supply dentists with their own "crayons." Inside are varying shades of creamy composite resin, or cosmetic bonding material.

A prime candidate for cosmetic bonding, this patient had a space between his front teeth.

Adding layers of bonding material to each tooth enabled Pinkney to fill the gap. These before and after pictures were taken by him and appear in a commercially available photo album.

THE OBSERVER recently was invited to Pinkney's office to view the procedure. The dentist appeared to have quite a challenge in his patient, a Detroit policeman. Wide spaces separated his badly stained, poorly formed teeth.

While anesthesia isn't required to prepare patients for cosmetic bonding — "we do this on 5-year-old kids" — the officer was given a shot to prevent discomfort while a cavity was filled. Pinkney and dental assistant Mary McCall then cleaned and dried his teeth and were ready to transform his smile.

In step one, called etching, phosphoric acid was dabbed onto the teeth. A rough surface remained, enabling the bonding material to adhere.

Next, to widen a tooth, a layer of composite resin, or bonding material was applied. Creamy in texture, the material is a special polymer and acrylic resin made with particles of sand or glass. Pinkney had selected a shade of bonding material from among many samples. What reminded one of crayons and a multi-colored fan of artificial fingernails was the dentist's supply of bonding material tubes and artificial teeth in colors ranging from dark yellow to ultra white.

"It takes a while to know what color is best and how to match teeth so that they blend in," said Dr. Pinkney. "What's nice is that unlike two-and-a-half, three years ago, it's now possible to wipe off (bonding material) if it's the wrong color."

THE ROOM lit up with the next step. For several seconds, a pencil-like beam of fiber optic light was shone over the tooth, bonding the material to the surface.

All steps were repeated until eight layers had been applied.

Finishing with artistic flair, Pinkney trimmed the teeth to the desired shape using a metal instrument.

At last able to talk, the patient viewed his remodeled grin in the mirror and had one word to say — "great."

Because he was having several teeth bonded, the policeman had made about three trips to the dentist's office — each lasting around an hour.

FOR MANY PATIENTS, the cost of cosmetic bonding when measured against the costly alternative of a crown — or capped tooth — is reason to smile.

"On the average, you can have four or five teeth bonded for the cost of one crown. We charge between $65 and $75 per tooth for bonding, and close to $300 for a crown," Pinkney said. Unless the bonding is being done solely for cosmetic purposes, insurance usually will cover all or part of that cost.

Morse says prices in metro-Detroit "run anywhere from a third, half, fourth, even a 10th the price of a crown."

According to Burye, who recently attended a cosmetic bonding seminar, fees for bonding across the country range between $100 and $500 per tooth. Burye, also a U-M grad, emphasizes that cosmetic bonding isn't a universal panacea.

"Cosmetic bonding is the answer when the job to be done is within the limits of the material. If a person comes in saying, 'I don't like the appearance of my front teeth — they're crowded, malformed and out of alignment,' you can in some instances through cosmetic bonding give the appearance of straight, front teeth without orthodontics," Burye said.

"If they're too far out of alignment and not within the realm of the technique, you're trying to do too much." Some teeth are too badly chipped for cosmetic bonding to work, he added.

Morse, who for eight years has done cosmetic bonding out of the Main Street office he opened in 1968, says competition has grown fierce among bonding material manufacturers.

"Materials have gotten better, and there are more companies. Consequently, there's more competition and the material is dramatically better than it once was."

Morse said he sees pluses and minuses to cosmetic bonding.

"The technique itself has minimum discomfort, and it can be a tremendous advantage for patients who can't afford crowns. But it may not be a long-lasting restoration. It may have to be repeated — you can't say how long things will last. Some people have had it on for seven or eight years, and some have it on for a year."

"Teeth may have to be resealed and polished," said Morse. "Also, like natural enamel, the bonded tooth will stain. Durability depends on your bite, and the dentist's technique."

PINKNEY, 30, FINDS the practice of cosmetic bonding most satisfying. In his albums are the reasons why.

Pictured are a patient who'd lived with a chipped tooth for 15 years prior to having it bonded; another with an unsightly cavity in a front tooth, disguised by bonding; and a person with white calcification spots on her teeth — also cosmetically bonded.

All Pinkney's patients can freely bite into apples and corn on the cob.

"All we ask is that patients not do things they normally wouldn't, like chewing ice or biting string," he said.

The bonded tooth is strong. "In fact, studies show that bonded teeth don't break where they're bonded. Neither will they decay underneath the bonding."

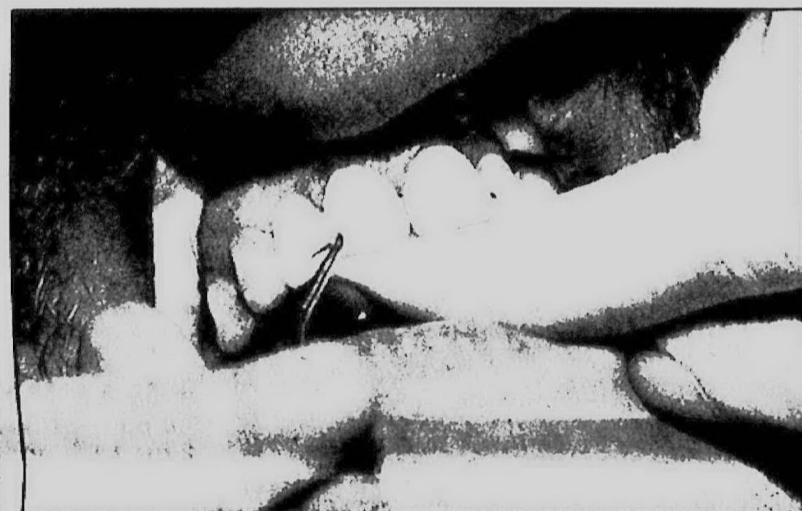

It also delights dentists to see how far bonding has progressed.

'Etching' the tooth with acid roughens the tooth surface — making it easier for the bonding material to adhere to the tooth.

Within a minute, the fiber optics light probe hardens the new tooth.

The dentist applies the finishing touches by the tooth where needed.

Rembrandt

Brighter smiles possible with 'painting' technique

If there was a way to let him know about it, Rembrandt van Rijn probably would do flips in his coffin. Dentists are "painting teeth," and they call it "Rembrandting."

A variant of cosmetic bonding (see related article) Rembrandting is the long-awaited, high-tech panacea for people with permanently stained or yellowed teeth.

While cosmetic bonding fills out chipped or deformed teeth using a tooth-colored composite resin, Rembrandting coats properly formed teeth with a similar honey-like substance called, naturally, Rembrandt.

Rembrandting and Livonia dentist Mark Burye, who practices with Dr. Stanley Weber at Five Mile and Levan roads, are old friends.

"This was developed within the last five years and a fair number of dentists are doing it," Burye said. "It enables us to cover stains and lighten teeth by painting Rembrandt over the tooth."

LIKE cosmetic bonding, Rembrandting involves several steps. First, teeth are cleaned. Next, acid is applied to the tooth, creating a rough surface to which Rembrandt can readily adhere. Lastly, the substance is painted on.

Rembrandting and bonding materials have the same ingredients but in different quantities, Burye said.

"We use different proportions of composite filler material (quartz or sand particles and acrylic resin)." Made by the Denmat Corp., Rembrandt is thinner than bonding material, he added.

Burye declined to say what Rembrandting costs, saying it varies among patients. He did say that if done purely to improve one's looks, insurance won't pick up the tab. Wonder how this would sit with Rembrandt?

Tonquish face bayonets on 'Trail of Tears'

After Black Hawk's final defeat Aug. 27, 1832, tremendous winds of change nearly blew the country apart. From Texas to Missouri, from the Everglades of Florida to the hills of Tennessee, from Kentucky's ridges to the lakes of Michigan, the Indian was being pushed toward the West. The white settler — the "Long Knives" or "chemokomen" as the Indians called them — had taken over after the Chicago Treaty of 1833 (Tonquish Tales in Observer Sept. 22, 1983). A few remnants of the Pokagons and the Tonquish clung to their homes in the St.

Joseph Valley, but even these poor hovels were being invaded by the settlers. Meanwhile, in the South, vast armies of Indians were being forcibly removed. Most of the Cherokees, the Creeks, the Chickasaws, the Shawnees, the Seminoles, the Choctaws, the Senecas, the Delawares, and thousands more were learning about broken promises and meaningless treaties as they were marched into alien lands. There many would perish from cold, hunger, white man's liquor, and diseases. These removals were the first step in the deliberate destruction of a whole mass of people.

(I am grateful that space limitations do not permit me to dwell on this ghastly story in gory detail. Many volumes have been written about the pitiful plight of the Indian. My particular interest has been that group of Plymouth Tonquish who left this area about 1827, eight years after Chief Tonquish was killed. Some of them went north to the Cross Village where they tried to establish themselves among the Ottowas. They did not receive a very warm reception. Others went to Grayling and to Alpena. Some retreated to Walpole Island and tried to live among the Chippewas. Others just hid out in the forests. They formed independent enclaves within the white boundaries, and a few live in this manner today. A few intermarried with blacks to create another breed of people, while others married white citizens. Many people of Indian descent live as white people today. While they feel they have gained security, they have lost a marvelous, mystical heritage.)

THE INDIANS OF our story went to Notoawa Sipe south of Mendon in St.

Helen Gilbert

Joseph County. Their leaders were in touch with Chief Leopold Pokagon who lived in adjacent Cass County. Our Tonquish were not far from their cousins, the Topash clan who lived near Buchanan. So we prescribe limits to our story for the reasons stated.

Going back in time we set up an imaginary interview.

We return to our walk with Acuarie and Little Toga, Mrs. Tongah and young Elizabeth. We are headed for a special meeting that the authorities have forced Father Pettit to call at his church at Chichipe Outipe. What a beautiful morning, but I fear for my friends and for what this day may bring forth.

My questioning has been persistent and we have walked for miles so we are tired. Suddenly Acuarie broke her silence to reveal to me some of her private thoughts.

"Helena, I will try once more to answer your questions. You keep beating the drum. Why? Are you writing a book? What do you really want to know?"

Overjoyed at this response after a long silence, I said, "Tell me about your genealogy. Who was Tonquish?"

"That's a difficult question," she replied, "but I'll try to tell you. We do not count people the way you probably do. Among our people a chief may have several wives. But in our family the record is clear, I think.

"I don't know everything but I'll tell you what I do know. It is not in print but is handed down from generation to generation, like your Bible, maybe. My mother, Tongah's wife, was a daughter of your Plymouth Tonquish, and she is a sister of Elizabeth Pokagon who is Chief Pokagon's second wife.

"I was named for her, Acuarie, an old Indian name. She was my grandmother's cousin. That Acuarie was the daughter of Chief Sawak who was a brother of Topenebee, the supreme chief of all the Potawatomi for nearly 40 years. Topenebee had a sister who was very beautiful. She was called Princess Kaukema, and he had another brother, Chief Chebass. They were all children of the great chief of Indiana and Illinois. His headquarters were at Niles.

"Tonquish was a very minor chief — not a big shot like Menominee or Pokagon. The truth is we do not know where he came from. Some said he was a Chippewa. He was an old man when he married my grandmother. She was a Chippewa, but he could speak Potawatomi fluently. It's a different dialect but has the same roots.

"We are all Ojibwa from the Algonquin stock. Tonquish drank too much sometimes. But he was smart and brave. Everybody like him so they made him chief. It was sad how he lost his son, young Toga. They shot him, you know. My son is Toga, grandson of your Tonquish. I will never take my son to Kansas. Never!" And those deep brown eyes became twin pools of determination and tears as she vowed to protect her family and her home in Michigan.

We must hurry. The Pokagons are waiting for us at the church. Did you know that Leopold owns that land in Silver Creek? He bought it with the Chicago Treaty money. They can't take it from him. It's registered in your court. We may go there."

"We are hungry. There is not enough game left. Nothing left here. They have taken our hunting grounds, and our men spend their treaty money for liquor. Only Pokagon stays sober. He is smart. We starve. I do not have enough money for food and I have no milk for my baby.

"Father Pettit tries, poor man. Our old gods must have died. They have deserted us. Now we must listen to a white priest, speaking Latin in old-fashioned Potawatomi with a French accent. It's pathetic, really.

BY NOW WE HAD reached the Pokagons at the church door.

Affectionate greetings were exchanged and we proceeded to seats which had been reserved for us up in the front. The church was packed with about 300 and a few white traders and government officials.

As the bell tolled old Chief Menominee stepped forward to try to comfort them. He spoke in the compassionate tones of a father speaking to his children. Father Pettit is ill, he said, and regretted that he could not be with them today. Menominee said that his trip to Washington has been successful and that they were assured of the best land in Kansas.

The truth was somewhat different as Menominee well knew. As a matter of fact the old records show that when Menominee personally protested the removal to Kansas President Martin VanBuren, old Kinderhook, in his aloof and haughty way, stated: "I do not wish to speak of it," and walked away. Then the old chief visited the war office where he spoke with the secretary and was bluntly told, "Menominee, your lands are lost!"

Firefighters' pinch hitter

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

How does it feel to be a pinch-hitter? This question was asked of Al Matthews, captain of the Plymouth Fire Department, who was sitting at the chief's desk while the chief is on a vacation.

"It is something I dreamed of all my life," the captain answered and now that I am in the seat it is a grand feeling. I just like it a great deal."

Matthews was called upon as a pinch-hitter when Chief Roy Hall left for Texas to spend a vacation before retiring within the next few months.

"It is almost like being sent up to the plate in a major league baseball game to pinch hit for one of the top stars."

As Capt. Matthews pointed out, Chief Hall is rated highly in the state of Michigan and to sit at his desk and carry on the chief's duties is quite a responsibility, but a thrill too.

Born in Detroit 40 years ago, Matthews graduated from Redford High School in 1960. Immediately upon receiving his diploma he entered the military service and served at the Air Force Base in Homestead, Fla., for four years.

"That's where I got the real desire to become a firefighter," the captain smiled, "and I never thought I would get the chance when I entered the Air Force. But the lessons were fine."

WHEN HE left military service in 1964 Matthews started work at the Ford Motor Company in the quality control division. He served there for two years. During that time he made application to serve as a volunteer in the Plymouth Fire Department.

He was accepted in 1967 and began a career that has been filled with outstanding experiences. It was at the time that Paul Sanders, another firefighter was injured, and Capt. Matthews was left to run the inspection department by himself.

"I was on the job only about six months," he recalled, "when the P & A Theater on Penniman Avenue burned to the ground. It was quite a thrill to experience a day like that. It was a Sunday and a cold day at that. But it sure was an experience I never will forget."

He had another one he won't forget, although he would like to. Like firefighters in all suburban areas he was called to Detroit during the riot of 1967.

"What a time that was," he recalled. "We'd drive down to the city in the morning, serve all day and then drive home again after looking at fires and wreckages of buildings and human lives all day. But it was an experience for a newcomer."

Tales of the Tonquish nears 'Trail of Tears'

Determined to make the way easier for his Potawatomi if he could, Menominee pledged to them that he would go with them to Kansas. Then, in a somewhat faltering voice, the old chief said, "That time we have not sought has finally come." Everyone knew what he meant.

FEARING THAT Menominee would not be effective, one Lewis Sands, an egotistical, pipsqueak of a man and the government's choice for Indian Commissioner, pushed forward and usurped Menominee's place downstage center.

In brutally forthright terms the angry Sands said, "That time is now and you must move at once." He added that he had hired ten people to assist them and many large wagons and drivers. The militia would accompany them part of the way, he added. "There is no alternative. You must go now. Today!"

Something in the man's tone stirred the infant, Toga, to a wild and stormy protest. His lusty howls shook the firmament and Acuarie could not comfort him. Chief Pokagon seized upon the racket as a pretext for a hurried departure. Gathering Toga in his arms Pokagon led Acuarie, Elizabeth, and Mrs. Pokagon toward the door. About a dozen faithful friends joined their exodus which was accompanied the whole time by Toga's unrelenting howls. It was as though the old Toga (grandfather Tonquish) once again had drive his knife into the good earth, protesting "No, No, No!"

The little group was suprised at the outer door by several armed, bayoneted militiamen who barred their way. Through the window Pokagon caught his first glimpse of an army of militia which had completely surrounded the church while Menominee had spoken. In the distance he saw the flames of his village going up in smoke.

How the Pokagons and the Tonquish escaped the militia is the theme of the next Tonquish Tales.

Bank elects 3 directors

First of America Bank - Plymouth has selected three new directors at a recent shareholders meeting.

Kenneth D. Currie, president, announced that the three board members are John E. Thomas, Donald Gargara, and Samuel M. Panzica.

Thomas, managing partner of Sempliner, Thomas, Tiplady & Book, lives in Plymouth Township and was elected to the Michigan Bar Association in 1968.

Before practicing law, Thomas was a full-time high school teacher in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. He is in general law practice, with emphasis on real estate, corporations, and estate planning. He has been involved in the community as a real estate developer and by serving on many civic boards.

GARGARA is the owner of an underground contracting company.

He is active in various real estate investments in and around the Plymouth and Ann Arbor markets. He was appointed to the Small Business Advisory Council of the state of Michigan in 1980 by Gov. Milliken.

Gargara also is a trustee of Green Hills School and is a member of the Board of Appeals in Salem Township in Washtenaw County.

Panzica is a restaurateur with many years experience who currently owns and operates Plymouth Landing in Plymouth.

He also owns and operates the Baker's Rack in the Westchester Mall in downtown Plymouth and is involved in many community activities.

State invests in 3 firms

Three area firms are among 13 in Michigan which have received venture capital from state pension funds, according to state Treasurer Robert Bowman.

The state plunked $23 million into high technology, rapid growth firms, Bowman said, adding:

"These investments not only produce a very high return on our capital, but also assist in retaining jobs and create a more diversified business climate in Michigan."

THE FIRMS, their products and the state investments are:

• Photon Sources, Livonia, laser welders - $3.3 million in January 1983. This was the second largest of the 13 investments.

• Perceptron, Farmington Hills, machine vision systems - $2 million in December of 1982 and $1 million in October 1983. Gov. James J. Blanchard used a dedication ceremony at Perceptron last week to announce plans to reduce state red tape for business. Bowman said that at Perceptron "we expect to earn five times our initial investment in under five years."

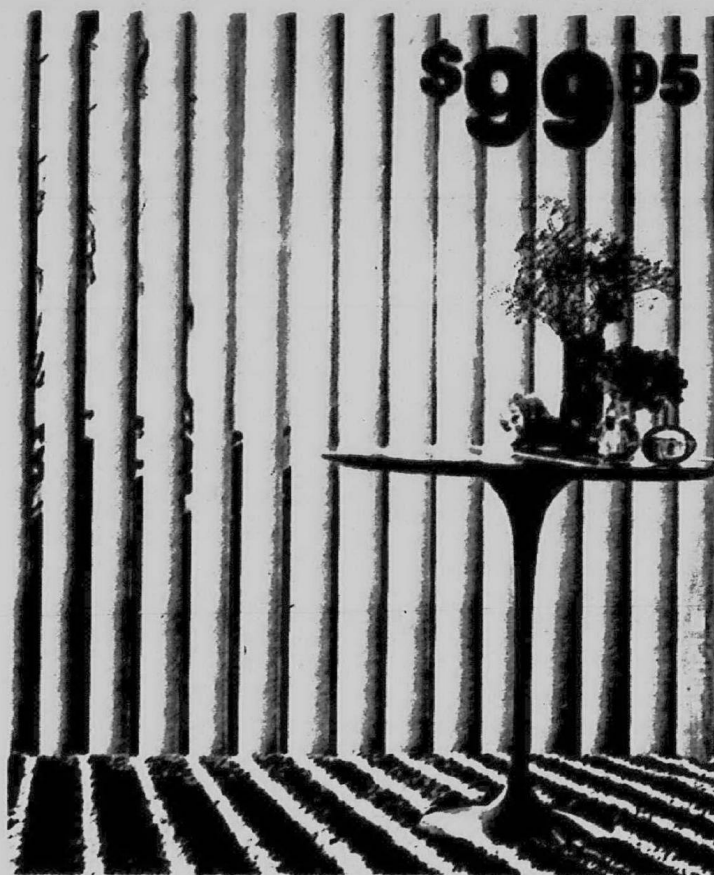

• Lexitel Corp., Birmingham, telecommunications, $2 million in July.

OTHER FIRMS in which the state invested are:

Printer Inc., Benton Harbor; Neogen Corp., East Lansing; Synthetic Vision Systems, Concor Computer Corp. and Irwin Magnetics, all of Ann Arbor; Meridian Instruments; SMC Technology Corp.; Quantum Composites, Midland; and Prab Robotics, Kalamazoo.

One chunk of money went to Michigan Investment Fund of Midland, which invested in three computers firms.

Disruption: Methods used in normal strikes to disturb course

AN INTERESTING article has been circulating among school administrators in western Wayne County.

The article, "Coping with Alinsky Methods," appeared in the March 1983 edition of The School Administrator. It has generated renewed interest since school's opening because of disruptive strikes in Plymouth-Canton and Walled Lake.

The Alinsky model is a plan of "direct confrontation" named after social activist Saul Alinsky, who developed the method in the early 1930s. Of more recent interest is that the affiliates of the National Education Association (NEA) have sent members to the Alinsky Training Institute in Chicago. The NEA stresses that there never has been any concerted effort on its part to have members adopt the Alinsky model, but school administrators aren't particularly overwhelmed by the denial.

The reasons for the suspicions of some administrators and board members can readily be seen by those who have lived through an emotional school strike. Maybe some of the following tactics suggested by Alinsky may seem familiar:

- Packing meetings with members of the employee group, disrupting the normal business of the governing body.

- Forcibly and publicly demanding individual commitments from board members to support the union's demands.

- Developing confusing patterns of organization and leadership, making it difficult for those outside the group to know who's really in control.

- Publishing misleading or erroneous information about the governing body's members, often using out-of-context quotes to point up how uncaring, paternalistic and oppressive the establishment is towards its employees or its constituents.

- Launching telephone campaigns which feature numerous calls to each board member, indicating he or she is the "only one who understands" the situation and that they must be a mediator to change the other members' direction.

- Making insulting statements to administrators, particularly the superintendent, deliberately intended to make the official angry and hoping the administrator will, in an emotional state, use improper judgment or make mistakes.

- Requesting marathon, round-the-clock sessions to resolve issues presented by the oppressed group (i.e., union).

- Picketing administrative or school board buildings, or the specific sites where services are delivered.

- Using advertising campaigns which state the employee group's grievances in the most dramatic way, pointing out the administration's paternalistic, ineffective handling of those grievances.

THE AUTHOR (Joseph Rowson of Lincoln Public Schools, Nebraska) argues the Alinsky tactics are designed for maximum confrontation and are intended to shock the system to its senses, call vivid attention to issues, and force action by elected or appointed officials.

Rowson adds that employees who use the Alinsky method see it as a last resort to overcome an "establishment" which has become insular, paternalistic, narrow-minded or oppressive.

The words "insular" and "paternalistic" are descriptions administrators and board members should give special consideration when conducting self-evaluations.

Whether Alinsky tactics are actually employed or not, one thing is sure — public employee strikes are disruptive to the community at large, so much so that both sides need to make every effort to wrestle with issues at the bargaining table. Not on the streets and in board rooms.

Bronze turkey lost in the meat market

EVERY YEAR about this time, The Stroller is besieged with the question: Whatever became of the black turkey?

Well, as a matter of fact, there never was a black turkey. It was what the experts called a bronze turkey. It was dark, and the feathers were sprinkled with a few light feathers.

The most picturesque sight came when the bird raised its tail and spread it a few feet — much like a peacock. The tail was multi-colored, and it always presented a pleasing sight. But this is seen no more.

Folks driving past farms these days see nothing but white turkeys. Once in a while, they may spot a bronze bird, but it is seldom.

For instance, you can drive along Five Mile Road in Livonia, and at the Roberti farm you'll see a yard filled with white birds. But nary a bronze one.

It is the same if you drive outside the city of Plymouth to what used to be the Gottschalk Turkey Farm. The owners have now retired, but there always are a few birds browsing around the old farm.

"WHATEVER HAPPENED to the bronze bird?" Lloyd Sharland was asked.

He just smiled and then answered, "You folks forced it out of style — all because you liked white meat."

That was a strange answer. But he quickly explained:

"Folks always asked for the birds with the biggest breasts because they had more white meat than the others. Then the breeders discovered that there was a great difference in the size of the breast bones of the two varieties.

"The bronze bird had a sort of pointed breast bone, while the white bird was rounded. As a result, there was more white meat on the white bird."

With this knowledge, the breeders devoted a lot of time to developing the white bird. More and more white meat was produced, and farmers no longer asked for the bronze turkey. It has virtually passed from the scene.

THIS SUCCESS of the breeders has brought about a great change in the turkey industry. It even has changed the life

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

and loves of the white birds.

"How could any change be made?" Sharland was asked.

Here he smiled and added, "It virtually ruined their love life. You see, the white meat became so profuse that the hen no longer can sit on the nest for mating purposes. Sounds funny, but it's true.

"So all she does is sit and becomes a sort of lazy bird. Sure, she lays the eggs, as of yore, but the mating is done by artificial insemination.

"Sure, the male birds try, but we have to keep chasing them away because we don't want any claying that would damage the meat. So the hen's life has been changed.

"And if folks want white meat — and they always do — they turn to the white turkey, and the bronze has become almost a thing of the past."

So if you wonder whatever happened to the "black" turkey with the beautiful tail feathers, your desire for white meat has driven the old-time bird almost to extinction.

DID YOU know that in the early days of Michigan dentistry, a dentist-in-training would study with a practicing dentist for a period of one to three weeks, after which he would start calling himself a dentist and begin to pull teeth? One such dentist announced his arrival in town with a handbill which stated that he "will set artificial teeth, cure all cases of scurvy of the teeth... will visit ladies at their residences if required."

Lakes states planning needed 6 states are paying more but getting less

YOUR FIRST reaction to this story will be, "What does it mean to me?" Be patient. Its impact on you will become clear. Near Pittsburgh there is a state bridge that has been declared unsafe for trucks. U.S. Steel must detour its trucks 18 miles around it. Cost: $1 million a year.

There are lots of stories like that in the Great Lakes states region. All the Great Lakes states are in much the same boat. Our heavy industry has been ravaged by three recessions in a decade. Our federal taxes are being drained and sent to other states.

The Great Lakes states have 20 percent of the nation's population but 24 percent of the unemployment. And they have 34 percent of the nation's long-term (more than 27 weeks) unemployment.

HOW MICHIGAN has been drained of tax dollars is well known by now. Our state gets back 68 cents in federal spending for every $1 it sends to Washington in taxes.

What may be less well known is that our neighbor Great Lakes states are having the same bad experience. Illinois receives 74 cents, Indiana 73 cents, Minnesota 86 cents, Ohio 77 cents and Wisconsin 71 cents.

The six-state average is 74 cents per $1 of taxes.

In contrast the South receives $1.10 and the West $1.06.

In 1982 the Defense Department spent $692 for procurement per person in the western states. It spent only $224 — less than one-third as much — in the Great Lakes states.

Clearly, when we are suffering far worse from the recession than the West and South, the last thing the Great Lakes region needs is to be bled of its tax money.

IN RECENT years, we have been learning the lesson that we can't think of Michigan alone or Ohio alone or Illinois alone.

Michigan has only 4 percent of the congressional delegation. We need allies.

We may meet some of those allies next week. The Congress on the Economic Future of the Great Lakes States is coming to town.

It's not going to be a new organization. "The last thing we want to come out of this meeting is a new organization," said Walter J. McCarthy Jr., the father of this gathering.

McCarthy of Birmingham is chairman of the board of Detroit Edison Co., a firm which prospers or suffers with this region because it can't pick up its power lines and move southwest.

McCarthy is an abstract thinker who deals in long-range strategic planning. "It isn't as mysterious as it sounds," he told me last week. "It is the reasoned selection of what you want to do and then an analysis of the forces that could push you off or get you on the course. It works pretty well."

GATHERING FOR two days next Monday and Tuesday at the Renaissance Center will be 160 state officials, labor leaders, manufacturers and chamber of commerce types from the six states.

They will take part in workshops on stimulating new investment, winning more federal allocations, energy resources, natural resources, interstate teamwork, human resources, the infrastructure (e.g., that useless bridge in Pittsburgh) and agriculture.

McCarthy hopes the workshops will produce an agenda of actions which can be taken by the Great Lakes Economic Policies Council, the congressional delegation, the states and the private economic institutions. This gathering, as the man said, is a one-shot proposition.

A disciplined, large company is able to plan several years or a decade ahead. McCarthy contended. But an agency like the federal government tends to do little planning.

And if you doubt that the Great Lakes region could benefit from some long-range planning, consider the new federal gasoline tax of five cents which went into effect last year. The allocation formula devised by Congress gives Michigan 96 cents per $1 of taxes, Wisconsin 89, Illinois 85, Indiana and Ohio 74.

We're in the same boat.

Polls have limits, Gallup finds

POLLS. THEY have become a way of life. Polls are conducted about attitudes toward UFOs, sex habits, drug abuse and death.

Last week public opinion surveys were in the news. On Tuesday a week ago, a Gallup survey was released indicating that 51 percent of Michigan voters disapproved of the way Gov. James J. Blanchard was doing his job. Only 35 percent gave him a favorable rating.

By coincidence, George Gallup Jr. talked about polling at the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner in Plymouth on Friday evening.

ON THE EVENING of the release of the Gallup poll, Blanchard met with journalists at the Detroit Press Club.

Naturally, he tried to put the unfavorable results in the best possible light. Blanchard said the poor rating was expected. He said most politicians who take strong action in early days in office are not popular in the beginning.

"Look at where Ronald Reagan was in the polls 10 months after taking office," Blanchard said.

He said his unpopularity stems from the passing of a temporary increase in the state income tax.

Nick Sharkey

This was bitter but necessary medicine, according to Blanchard. "Less than 90 days after taking office, my administration set a plan to stave off bankruptcy and turn the state around," he said.

Blanchard predicts his job rating will improve in the months ahead. He seems intent on doing something about that.

AFTER RECITING an impressive list of accomplishments in his 10 months, Blanchard admitted, "If we've had a shortcoming, it is in not telling people what we have done."

Last week Blanchard began what appeared to be a campaign to turn around public opinion. He held several meetings and press conferences on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in Detroit and the suburbs. This was the most visibility that Blanchard has had in this area since his election last fall.

Probably related, the Democratic party announced it was immediately starting a three-week advertising campaign in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

POLLSTER GEORGE Gallup Jr. agreed with Blanchard's assessment of public opinion surveys. He told Plymouth business leaders that surveys reflect only opinions at the time of the polling. Those views can change quickly.

Gallup said that the biggest mistake his organization had made was predicting in 1948 that Tom Dewey would defeat President Harry Truman.

"We stopped polling a few days before the election," he said. "Opinions switched just before the voting. We learned our lesson."

Many difficulties result from the design of the question, Gallup told the Plymouth audience.

Consider the question that used to be asked, "Are you a housewife or do you work?"

Then there was the survey of businessmen who were asked, "Please indicate the number of employees broken down by sex." One smart aleck answered, "None, but some have been broken down by alcohol."

Try high-tech items for Christmas presents

Remember the neckties you got last Christmas, or the perfume that made your eyes water? You may still get these presents again this year, but you do not have to give them. Instead, give a "high tech" gift.

Common this time of year is the mail order catalog. I recently came across one of particular interest. It is called "The Sharper Image" out of San Francisco and offers several unique gifts which are high tech oriented.

THIS FIRST gift may get a lot of use during the coming holiday season. AlcoCheck ($78) is a compact breathalyzer that can be used by private citizens. Simply blow into the mouthpiece to check your alcohol intake. A red light indicates legal drunkenness, yellow light indicates caution, and green, safety. A model small enough to fit in your pocket or purse is also available for $54.

The next item may get considerable use after the holiday. Compucal ($130), is a useful gadget for telling the exact caloric intake of any portion of food. Place any portion of food on the compucal scale, enter its code from an index, and press the Caloric button. Instantly the exact number of calories in that portion appears on a large LED. Push other buttons to display sodium, carbohydrate, fat, protein and cholesterol, or the precise weight.

high tech
Ronald R. Watcke

Another timely and useful gift for a person who is health conscious is the Digitronic IV ($79). At a cost equal to two visits to the doctor's office, the Digitronic IV keeps tabs on blood pressure and pulse and displays the date in large LED digits.

IF YOU HAVE a friend who drives a lot, there is the Sleeper Beeper ($19). This device, a life saver for dozing drivers, fits comfortably behind the ear. Similar to a hearing aid, the unit sounds an alarm when your head nods past a given point.

A gift for just about anyone is the hospital accurate Digital Thermometer ($18). The thermometer reads out in just 60 seconds with large LCD display. Less accurate glass thermometers take three to four minutes.

Students and attorneys can type reports in the library with the silent full-function correcting electronic typewriter by Brother ($179). Advertised as the world's smallest (9 1/2 by 12 1/2 inches), and weighing only five pounds — the dot matrix system (like a computer) prints with a 16-space delay. The 16 characters appear on the large LCD display before they are printed, so you read and correct as you go along. There is a "second shift" key which lets you access 44 international language and arithmetic symbols, including yen and pounds.

Speaking of small, there is the Compact World Wide Radio ($99) from Panasonic. The radio, 5 1/4 by 3 by 1 inches and weighing seven ounces, has nine bands including FM and AM and more than 100 worldwide stations. Excellent reception with a built-in antenna and signals from halfway across the globe can be pulled in with remarkable clarity.

Everyone has heard of the dash board-mounted Fuzzbuster, a device for detecting police radar. Now there is a radar detector so small (4 1/4 by 2 1/4 by 3/4 inches) it can easily fit in your shirt pocket. The microeye stays with you, not in your car. The Bel Radar Detector ($89), operates on one nine-volt battery, or plug it into the cigarette lighter.

THOUGH A SOMEWHAT more expensive gift, the Sensaphone ($249), is truly a marvel. This ingenious monitoring system attaches to your telephone and checks continuously for unusual noises, extremes of temperature, and power failures. If an emergency develops, Sensaphone calls for pre-selected numbers. When someone answers, Sensaphone reports the problem in computer-synthesized English, then switches on its built-in microphone so you can hear exactly what's happening. You also have the option of calling Sensaphone directly anytime for a complete report on monitored functions.

To order these gifts, or receive a catalog call toll free 800-344-4444, 24 hours a day seven days a week.

"Tools for Living" is another first class mail order company which sells gifts that take advantage of new technology. The Ultra-humidifier ($149), uses extremely high frequency sound waves to break up water into a fine mist. It is also safe since the vapor stream is cold so it is impossible to get a burn. This humidifier, by Bionaire, has a humidistat control and shuts off automatically when it reaches the desired level of humidity.

The thinking man's or woman's thermostat ($79) has a built-in microprocessor and lets you program the temperature you want. The unit senses the rate of heat loss for the house, so it turns on the furnace earlier on very cold mornings, later on warmer mornings. The program can accommodate six different temperature settings each day through a seven-day cycle.

Tools for Living also has a convenient 24-hour toll-free number, 800-228-5505.

SINCE THERE are only 45 shopping days until Christmas, you may not want to order your gifts. If that is the case, you can always stop by the local Radio Shack in your neighborhood, buy a Microwave Leakage Detector ($11.88) for that worried cook on your gift list, or a home security system that detects motion and body heat of an intruder ($149.95).

For your friend that jogs, get a precision stop watch, quartz accurate to 1/100 second with LCD display ($24.95).

If you still can't find the right gift then you might want to contact Computer FX in Okemos. It has introduced a line of computer-styled baubles with designs based on intricate electronic circuitry. The designs are cast in metallic nickel or copper against high-gloss colored circuit boards composed of the same materials used in the manufacture of computers. "We used standard industry symbols in all the designs," said Larry Meyers, the firm's owner.

The jewelry includes brooches, key rings, belt buckles, necklaces, money clips, pillboxes and barrettes, all priced under $5. Write P.O. Box 487, Okemos, MI. 48864 for a free illustrated catalog or call 517-337-0400 weekdays 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

EIGHTEEN members of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra have been in the symphony for a total of 484 years. These musicians have been the backbone of the orchestra, driving thousands of miles through all kinds of weather to rehearsals and concerts.

The 18 musicians were honored during the intermission at Sunday's concert. Symphony society president Sanford Burr, and past presidents Fran Lang and Wilma Wagner, presented special pins, patterned after the symphony logo, to the following: Daisy Barnes, viola, 37 years; Edith Schutze, cello, 37 years; William Beitner, trumpet, 36; Max Stroup, clarinet, 36; Villa Ranstadler, violin, 35; Paul Miller, timpani, 32; Charlene Wilson, trombone, 26; Peggy Bunge, violin, 25; Marion Gross, 25, violin; Jean Braun, viola, 23; Marybeth Derderian, viola, 23; John Mohler, clarinet, 23; Louis Stout, horn, 22; Merrill Wilson, horn, 22; Janet Holt, cello, 21; William Hulsker, bassoon, 21; Louise Bradley, cello, 20; and James Weidner, bass, 20.

Each deserves a special salute. And for those who do not live in the community, honorary citizen of Plymouth certificates should be presented. They have earned it.

MIKE GRESOCK brought home the district humorous speech championship from Monroe. They liked his "De-motivation" speech.

Mike thought he was being very calm about the whole thing, until his son suggested they test their blood pressures in one of those machines where you put your money in the slot, then stick your finger in another slot. His son went first and got a reading of 73. Mike went next, and got 115.

Pat Gresock won the same contest last year. Both are members of the Oral Majority Toastmasters in Plymouth. So the club has two championships in the two years it has been in existence.

THE 200 who attended the arts council's unusual auction Saturday had a wonderful night on the town. The affair was an unqualified success.

The bartenders from the Detroit Athletic Club mixed a marvelous martini and Manhattan. The buffet supper was spectacular — lobster puffs, chickens, fruits, Swedish meat balls, cheese legs, tempura vegetables, deviled eggs, roast beef and so on and so on.

Everything was sold and everyone had a good time. The auctioneers, Betty Stremich and L. John Miller, were entertaining and forceful, urging the bidders to "quit sitting on their hands."

Wilma and Dick Newton bought the tickets for next year's Michigan State-Notre Dame football game, which they will view from the president's box. It came with the promise of all the ingredients for a tailgate party.

The MSU tickets and the condominium in Colorado brought the highest bids at the auction.

Win Crawford outbid everyone for Bo Schembechler's hat. Johnny Crosby's painting aroused some spirited bidding. Johnny had painted the picture on the arts council-sponsored Italian trip. Everyone who had been on the tourman.

Catered dinners and brunches were hot items, with bidders going over $200 for home-cooked meals.

Guests said they could hardly wait until next year's auction. And the Plymouth Community Arts Council already has the first item for Auction '84. Burt Reynolds' contribution arrived this week, so they're saving it for next year.

THE OAKWAY Symphony Society has hired a general manager. She is Cheryl Synziszewski of Plymouth. Cheryl is a graduate of Madonna College, where she earned a degree in orchestra management. She has two children and is a graduate student at Eastern Michigan University pursuing studies in business and music history.

WORD FROM Bev Hoisington from the State of Washington. She has been doing a lot of traveling for her new company, which manufactures automated fish feeding systems.

Bev had been the guest of Jon Lindbergh and his new bride, Karen Wylie Pryor, whose father is Philip Wylie, one of my favorite authors. Karen has written a new book, "Oon't Shoot the Dog," and Bev has invited her to come to Plymouth when she is in the Detroit area with her book.

Violin virtuoso in Sunday concert

Conductor Johan van der Merwe has programmed a well-known overture, music from a ballet and a popular violin concerto for the Plymouth Symphony concert at 4 p.m. Sunday. The Brahms Violin Concerto in D will be the featured work.

Violin virtuoso, George Marsh, will be soloist in Brahms only violin concerto.

The purely virtuoso concerto, fostered by such violinists as Paganini, Vieuxtemps and Wieniawski, receded into the background with the disappearance of the composer-violinists. Brahms violin concerto belongs to the new category of "symphonic" violin concertos, characterized by greater competition between violin and orchestra. Despite this competition, the virtuosic demands which this concerto makes on the violinist are extraordinary.

Brahms requires precise bow control, finger dexterity and power certainty of intonation.

MARSH is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the winner of numerous awards.

He is a recipient of the Menuhin-Sandor Scholarship and the Betty Brewster Scholarship, Cranbrook. His musical background includes studies with the Guarneri String Quartet and the American String Quartet.

Marsh has performed in master classes before Henryk Szeryng. He has appeared in solo performances with the University of Michigan Symphony, the Ann Arbor Symphony and the Plymouth Symphony orchestras.

THE CONCERT will open with the breathtaking overture to Mozart's opera, "The Marriage of Figaro." The overture will be followed by Prokofiev's Orchestral Suite No. 2 from the ballet, "Romeo and Juliet." The Brahms violin concerto will be after intermission.

Prokofiev produced nine ballets and shares with Stravinsky the distinction of being the most important composer of ballet music in the 20th century.

After lengthy stays in the United States and Paris, Prokofiev settled permanently in his native Russia where he composed the music for Shakespeare's tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," his seventh ballet, and perhaps his masterpiece, was completed in 1935.

During the next two years, Prokofiev produced from the score two orchestral suites. It is the second suite, in seven movements, that will be performed at the concert.

TICKETS FOR the concert will be available at box office in the lobby of Plymouth Salem High School, Joy Road west of Canton Center Road. Single concert tickets are $6 for adults and $3.50 for senior citizens and full-time college students. Student 12th grade and under are admitted free.

Single and season advance sale ticket sales will be in Plymouth at Beitner Jewelry on Ann Arbor Trail; in Canton at Arnold Williams Music on Canton Center just north of Ford Road; in Northville at Four Seasons Flowers on East main Street; and in Ann Arbor at Liberty Music on Liberty Street.

Free transportation for senior citizens is provided from Tonquish Creek Manor on Sheridan, the afternoon of each concert. Free baby-sitting for preschoolers is available during each concert, provided by a Girl Scout troop.

The concert is made possible by a grant from the State of Michigan through the Michigan Council for the Arts, First of America of Plymouth, and the Plymouth Symphony League.

Sonnega play has impact

By Elinor Graham
staff writer

William Sonnega's "Whitetail" had its world premiere performance Friday night at the Fourth Street Playhouse in Royal Oak. "Whitetail" played to a full house and comments at the afterglow were threaded with "emotional impact," "beautifully done," "subtle," "highly charged" and "amazing for a 25-year-old."

Bill Sonnega came home to Plymouth for the opening of his play. He came from New York to spend the weekend with his parents James and Betty Sonnega on Palmer Street. He was born in Ann Arbor and raised in Plymouth. He attended the University of Michigan and became involved in theater at the University of Colorado. Sonnega received his master of fine arts degree in dramatic writing in June from New York University.

Opening night trauma was not in evidence Friday afternoon as he talked about the play, theater and how his writing evolves.

SONNEGA had been writing prose and poetry since his high school days — and he had done some acting.

But it was a theater workshop at the University of Colorado and a professional writer who made a major influence on Sonnega.

"Waldo Salt, who wrote 'Midnight Cowboy' was there and we worked together. We produced a series of three one-acts. At a new playwrights forum,

I had full charge of a one-act — directed, was involved in set and light design, publicity. Was involved from page to stage. I came off all charged up," he said.

He said "Whitetail" was three years in the works. It had stage readings at New York University, "But tonight is the world premiere."

He said, "Theater is a complex medium. In the simplest terms, screen writing is images, stage writing is words and I believe it has more potential for powerful experiences."

"WHITETAIL" tells the story of gathering relief between a mother and her son after her husband has been killed in a hunting accident. She is trying to go on with her life, and the son is trying to break away.

"I go with what I know," said the young playwright. "The locale is Elk Rapids, south of Charlevoix, Manelona — that area." It is a part of Michigan familiar to Sonnega because of family vacations spent in that part of the state.

"You choose to write about things about which you had one-time powerful feelings. Edward Albee said, 'Write about that which makes you cry.' I write about the things, not necessarily tear-provoking, moving that make you laugh. Shakespeare's tragedies are full of humor."

Sonnega said he does sometimes use a character he has known as a model. "In the beginning, then they become their own people. You make unconscious choices. It's never clear where they came from. I say what I want to say and am interested in hearing other people's interpretations."

Bill Sonnega was in town for the world premiere of his play, "Whitetail."

ALTHOUGH his plays deal with the less attractive aspects of people, he hopes to project the joy of being human.

"Realistic theater is a pursuit for truth, however elusive. It's trying to find out what's truth, in a way everyone can connect with," Sonnega explained.

He picked cherry this summer in the Traverse City area. He enjoyed the country and the people. "There were all kinds picking cherries — high school dropouts who were solid and honest. It was a break from New York where egos knock against egos."

Now he is back in New York. "I've got to make a living."

He is working on a new play, "Farming." The locale for this one? "The locale is Canton Township — you can quote me on that — and Trailwood, I'm using Trailwood, too. It has to do with the death of a dream."

"WHITETAIL" WILL play through Dec. 31 at the Fourth Street Playhouse, 301 W. Fourth Street, Royal Oak. Performances are slated for Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Curtain time and admission are: Thursday, 8:30 p.m., $7; Friday, 8:30 p.m., $9; Saturday (two performances) 6 p.m., $7, and 9 p.m. $9; and Sunday, 7:30 p.m., $7.

Senior citizens and students will be admitted for $5 to the Thursday and 6 p.m. Saturday performances. Groups of 10 or more will be admitted for $4 per person to those performances. For information, call Rose Cardella, 543-3666, 1-10 p.m.

The playhouse has been refurbished with comfortable new seats. It is an intimate theater-in-the-round seating approximately 75 people.

His big chance Refugee is back in the salon

By Sherry Kahan
staff writer

It's a long way from Vietnam to B.J. Corey's hair styling shop in Plymouth. But Nam Quach is glad he made the trip. On the way Quach had more than his share of struggles.

Once the owner of his own hairdressing shop near Saigon in Vietnam, Quach fled that country in 1980 with his wife and three children. They spent five harrowing days with 500 other Chinese and Vietnamese on an old 75-foot boat, before reaching safety in Indonesia.

A Chinese, Quach felt that the Vietnamese government was too repressive, "no free," he says. Eventually they came to this country under the sponsorship of the Refugee Committee of the Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church of Livonia.

"Nam had had years of experience in hair styling," said Millie Driesbach, head of the sponsorship committee. "He owned his own shop. His wife was his manicurist, and he had several employees. His work has been praised by members of our church whose hair he worked on."

"THE REAL REASON I took him on is that he is an excellent hairdresser," said Jack Corey, who with his wife Elizabeth owns the B.J. Corey, which does styling for men and women. "The quality of his work is fantastic. The whole staff knows how good this guy is."

"He's new in this country. When I hired him, I knew he needed a break. I think we have a prestige salon, and we hire on the basis of the quality of work. We're trying to give him an opportunity."

The Quach family has lived in Canton Township since their successful flight from Vietnam after an earlier unsuccessful attempt, which resulted in Quach's imprisonment for six months. One month was spent in a small darkened room.

Their apartment is partially furnished by furniture provided by members of the Rosedale Gardens church.

His family consists of his wife, Phuoc Lam, two sons, Minh who is 13 and Quang who is 9, both avid soccer players. Their 7-year-old daughter is called Ly-Lan. Minh attends West Middle School, and Quang and Ly-Lan go to Gallimore School.

Minh plays in the Rosedale Church Bell Choir, and sings in the Youth Choir, according to Driesbach. Quang is "an excellent artist," she added, and Ly-Lan is "an all round sweet kid."

WHILE SUPPORTED at first by the church, the Quachs became self-supporting after the first two years. They have already begun to pay off the loan for their airfare given them by Lutheran International Relief Service, which will use the money to help other refugees.

Mrs. Quach works in a plastics factory. Quach was laid off from his factory job. But he always wanted the opportunity to return to his chosen profession. Ready with comb and scissors, he hopes this is his big chance.

Corey pointed out that Quach has been trained in braiding, which few hairdressers can do today. Behind his chair at Corey's is a framed certificate of merit "for outstanding artistry in competition" presented to him by the Michigan Cosmetologist Association.

He also has a third-place award from the Sally Esser Beauty Schools, where he studied.

"EACH MILESTONE for them was a milestone for those of us on the committee," said Driesbach. "They got their driver's license. They learned about Halloween and other holidays. The whole family took a lot of first steps. It was a pleasure watching them learn about our culture."

"And they've had their nose to the grindstone."

Here is Nam Quach, one of the boat people from Vietnam. You'll find him with tools of his trade to make his way in the world. You'll find him at B.J. Corey's Stylesetters, 1205 S. Main, Plymouth.

Young musicians show what practice can do

Congratulations are in order this week so I'll start with all the parents and participants in the recent piano recital at Plymouth-Salem High School. Performing were the students of Eleonore Gronow, and oh how they played!

The students ranged from beginners to what seemed to many as seasoned professionals. I became interested in this recital as a very close friend of my daughters, Li-Chun Huo, was to play in the recital. However, Li-chun is very shy and didn't tell us until after the Thursday paper was out or I would have passed on the information to you.

"So for those of you who may have missed it, it was beautiful. We were, of course, enthralled with Li-Chun, but there was enough talent there to keep anyone enchanted. Four of Li-chun's close friends were able to attend. Think of it! How often do you get four 12-year-olds together on a Sunday afternoon and see them sit still through a recital of 36 pianists of progressing talent?"

Remember, not one of these artists can be found on the "Top 20" list. But there they sat and enjoyed it all the same. No flashing lights, no simmering smoke, not even a loud singer to capture their hearts. Just kids like themselves, showing they had accomplished what perhaps you and I only dream we could have done. And proud! You would think they had studied every day with Li-chun as they tell of how "She never made even one mistake." What a fan club, all this and no road manager! Li-chun played "Für Elise" by L. Van Beethoven and her friends talk of it as though they have known it all their lives.

FOR THE RECORD Li-chun has been playing for four years. But there was a break in her training after she arrived from Taiwan. She couldn't speak any English. Soon Li-chun was able to speak English very well and returned to the piano about two years ago. With her charming personality and natural likeability, I think Li-chun will take the world by storm.

As with all the children in the recital, this does not come without plenty of hard work and good old "practice, practice, practice."

This is what we must all remember. Just as with a beautiful ballerina, you can't just walk on stage and dance. You don't just walk up to a piano and play Beethoven. The parents and children must struggle and devote time and talent. It is not easy when all your friends just walk up to a stereo put on a record by Phil Collins and get instant musical enjoyment, while you sit at your instrument and play, play, play. But if I can offer my words of encouragement — so did Phil Collins.

For those who may not know him, he is just one of the many talented entertainers of our children's time. What many of us may overlook is Phil not only sings solo, plays and sings with Genesis, plays several different instruments, he also writes. I have a great deal of respect for this man's talent.

For you who are pounding away practicing every day, this is exactly how this multi-talented superstar got started — the first performance in a small recital. It grows he says, everyday, not just your talent, but your interest. Pretty soon you'll enjoy playing as much as it seems you hate practicing today. So here's to the parents, the families, and the friends that wait outside without saying "gee, you have to practice again?"

TO THE MANY area children who took part this past Sunday, congratulations. Although I didn't think it fair to single out anyone other than the girl we went to see, my kids want to pay special tribute to one boy. Benny Brownlee played a very familiar tune so smoothly that it stayed with them all evening — "Chariots of Fire."

Congratulations to all of you: Ann Marie Wilson, Elizabeth Rogers, Reshma Shah, Jennifer Kennedy, Suzy Campagna, Varsha Lala, Saleena Goel, Jill Costello, Kapil Longani, Karl Unarco, Andrea Womack, Katherine Chabala, Kim Czapliski, Reena Shah, Sandy Goel, Leslie Santos, Kristi Stasevich, Jessica Kennedy, Michelle Stuber, Tripti Kataria, Jettie Sweeny, Meera Kataria, Erica Jones, George Hyde, Benny Brownlee, Lisa Campagna, Jill Czapliski, Craig Miller, Kelly Chabala, Karen Schettler, Amy Hobgood, Eric Rogers, Melissa Edmonds, Michelle Campagna, Li-Chun Huo, and Eddie Hyde (in order of their appearance).

I know how hard you worked. I tried to play piano when I was 12. I played six weeks. My hat is off to all of you and I envy you. If you only knew how much I wish today I had taken the time then to do it.

P.S. Your friends will still be there when you're done practicing, most of the time. Unless their parents get them in the house for chores. So what the heck. Practice, then you can play and they, well, they can wait or do chores.

WE HAVE A COUPLE of real proud grandparents in Canton. And on a personal note, I'd like to add very patient grandparents, because they have been super patient with me.

They have been waiting to see the news of their grandchild, Andrew David Poole, printed in this column. Well, Paul and Connie Browning of Northwind in Canton, here it is — a little late maybe, but here.

Andrew David Poole, born Sept. 7, 1983, was baptized recently at St. Raphael's in Garden City. His parents, Mary and Thomas Poole of Milan came down here to join Andrew's grandparents, the Brownings and Mary Poole of Garden City, his grandmother on his father's side.

I can't speak for anyone else, but I can tell you that young Andrew wore a beautiful baptismal dress which has been in his mother's family for more than 95 years. After the ceremony in Garden City, the dinner in Andrew's honor was here in Canton at the home of his mother's parents.

May I offer a personal congratulations and thank you to the entire family of the brand new Andrew David Poole.

DON'T FORGET the co-op craft show at 44287 Harsdale in Canton Nov. 18, 19, 20. I like the idea and I'm interested in seeing how it works.

Keep an eye on the many craft shows listed in this paper, it's lots of fun.

Next week I'll give you an update, on the Single Touch party. It was some party.

American Legion salutes youth

"Passage-Gayde Post of the American Legion chose Nov. 11, Veteran's Day, for its annual Youth Night. Outstanding young people from the Plymouth-Canton area were honored guests at dinner in the Miles Standish Room of the Mayflower Hotel. The Legion honored nine students. They were: citizens of the year, Matthew Broderick and Susan Gerke; Girls Stater, Krista Kirchoff; Boys Staters, Tim Mckercher, Eric Kleinsmith, Dave Brown and Jim Collins; Legion oratorical winner, Steve Reagan; and Student Trooper, James Bennethum.

Bill Cousins, who planned the event, introduced the youths, assisted by Ernie Kol and Bill Nicholas. In turn, each of the honored guests thanked the Legion members and those who attended Boys State and Girls State described their experiences in Lansing. Dave Brown of Canton Township said he had run for governor, been defeated, and ended up a city commissioner.

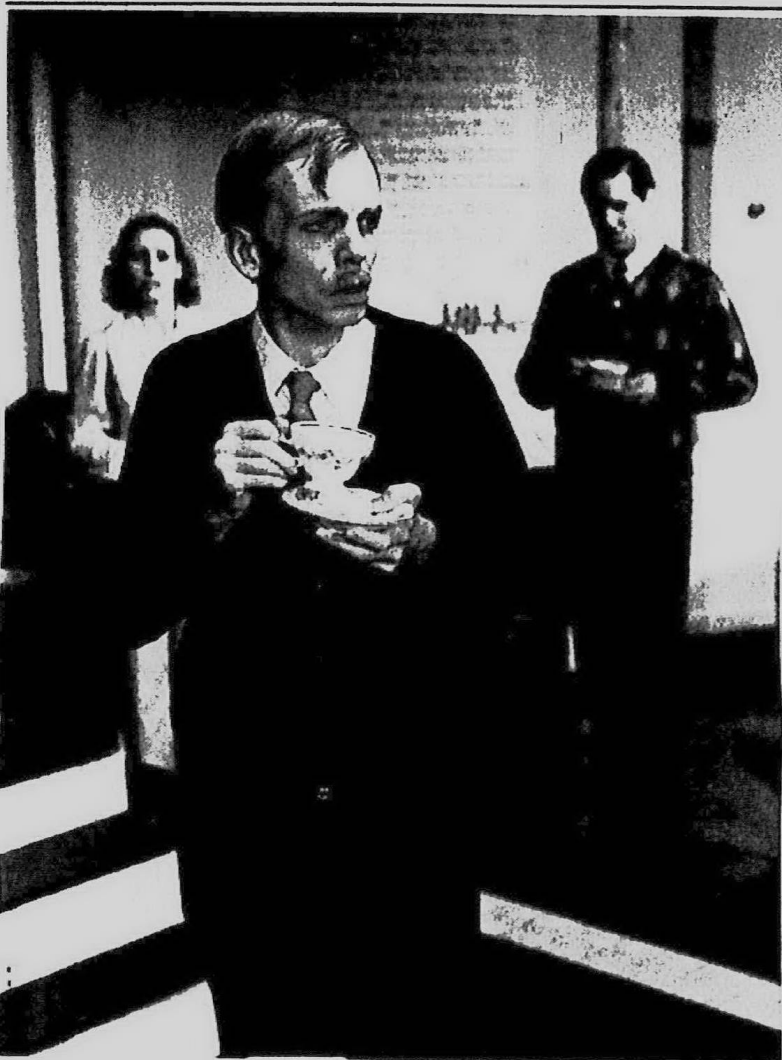

State Sen. Robert Geake, a special guest at the dinner, enjoyed the banter that followed the students' descriptions of their political experiences. He saw stiff competition from the up-and-coming politicians.

SGT. ROBERT Garcia of the Michigan State Police Northville Post was guest speaker. His talk dealt with young adults and problems in the schools. He said some young people get into trouble but the majority do not.

State Commander Milton Lobstein described the Legion's student trooper and Boys and Girls State programs.

Several students were unable to attend the dinner planned in their honor. Jill Wheaton, Jacqueline Merrifield, Robert Ernst, Kandra Dilts, Pam Pavlisak and Phillip Broom could not be there.

Kennedy era was one of hope, historian Schlesinger recalls

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

It has been only two decades. But to Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., who recalls it as the most exhilarating part of his life, the Kennedy era seems ages ago. "We're in another time now," said Schlesinger, who was President John F. Kennedy's special assistant in 1961-63. He spoke last week at Oakland University during a special Kennedy Retropect. "It requires a leap of the historical imagination to put ourselves back in that time."

THE HISTORIAN, now 66, who won a Pulitzer Prize for his account of the Kennedy Administration, describes the "New Frontier" as a time of activism which "took a sour turn because of Dallas (the Kennedy assassination) and Vietnam."

"It was a message of change that brought hope to those excluded from the great cornucopia," Schlesinger told his 300-member audience, about three-fourths of whom weren't born when Kennedy died in 1963. "But it was frightening to others."

Winding up a nine-day OU program debating the pros and cons of the Kennedy legend, Schlesinger still totally supports his former employer. A partisan who intends to vote for "any Democrat" in 1984, he acknowledges a "myth" has grown up around the martyred president.

Kennedy was 46 when he was assassinated Nov. 22, 1963.

HE CONTENTS Kennedy would have been re-elected by a large margin in 1964, would have made domestic reforms, and would have withdrawn American troops from Vietnam in 1965.

He also thinks Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev might have kept power longer and the Russian leader and Kennedy "might have carried the world considerably farther down the road to what we call detente."

"We would have eventually entered a conservative period, but the '60s and '70s would have been more tranquil and the world safer today."

LOOKING BACK, Schlesinger does admit to one wrong judgment call in Cuba. He blames that error not on Kennedy but on the Central Intelligence Agency, which he contends misled the president and underestimated Cuban leader Fidel Castro's army.

"The Bay of Pigs was, and deserved to be, one of the things in history — a perfect failure," explained the former special assistant, who calls the CIA a "runaway agency, a rogue elephant."

To Schlesinger, that mistake should have prevented the recent invasion of Grenada which he considers "one of the most shameful days in the history of the Republic."

"It's even more shocking that the U.S. should rejoice in such a sneak attack, as if it will make the Soviet Union quake in its boots."

NOW PROFESSOR of American history at City College of New York, the Harvard-trained historian compared JFK to presidents Teddy Roosevelt and Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

"The New Frontier theme along with the president's youth and purpose caught the imagination of the voters. At the same time, it frightened some," said Schlesinger.

But the bow-tied educator believes there is a cyclical pattern which will bring a new period of activism in 1988 or 1992. He explained:

"When we ignore social responsibilities and turn to selfishness, two things happen. Our batteries recharge, and our problems grow worse. In the 1980s, the dam will break again like it did at the turn of the century, the 1930s and the 1960s."

SCHLESINGER said he never took the possibility of a nuclear holocaust seriously. "But now I think the most important issue today is nuclear war," he said.

When that time comes, Schlesinger told his rapt student audience, the Kennedy years will "no longer seem remote, exotic, out of fashion."

"No one wants to hear about the poor, powerless. No one wants to be nagged. No one wants to hear 'Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country,'" added Schlesinger, who still carries Kennedy quotes in his wallet.

"But that will change."

The new Emerson School building in Washtenaw County now houses 150 academically talented students.

Emerson School moves to its permanent home

Emerson School, founded 10 years ago in Plymouth, recently moved into its new home in Washtenaw County. For Jean Navarre, founder and director of the school for the academically talented, it is a long way from a church classroom with two teachers and 10 students.

A year later, she moved her school to the West Side United Methodist Church building in Ann Arbor. They have been in the Sunday school rooms on S. Seventh Street ever since.

The new school house is on 10 acres of land on the corner of Scio Church and Zeeb roads. The 12,000-square-foot building accommodates a kindergarten room, six elementary classrooms, a middle-school room, a science and fine arts room, temporary library and office space and a large commons area as well as mandatory bathroom facilities.

ARCHITECT Henry S. Kowalewski of Ann Arbor designed the $750,000 brick and cinderblock building. It has an innovative corridor design which fills the dual role of solving the problem of building on the side of a hill and incorporating passive solar energy concepts.

The hall unifies the commons area with the classrooms and at the same time slowly snakes its way up the hill. The corridor is a gentle ramp that starts out at the lower ground level and climbs along the classrooms around to a higher level, achieving a four-foot elevation. The low-angled winter sun comes in through the third-story windows and warms and brightens the central space.

Parents have contributed time, money and talent to make the building a reality. Last spring at their first County Fair, they sold everything from baton twirling lessons to homemade egg-rolls. Their one-day effort raised $2,000 to buy new student chairs.

Their next big project was painting the classrooms' cinder block walls.

Emerson now has 150 students from the Ann Arbor-Plymouth area. Students from the Plymouth area are transported to the school by bus each school day.

Madonna offers hospice training

Hospice care is a special nurturing, according to Sister Mary Giovanni.

Giovanni, who is both a nurse and a gerontologist, will share her experiences in providing such care to terminally ill patients and their families in a new academic program in Hospice Care developed at Madonna College, Livonia.

The new program, for both professional and volunteer care-givers, will address the emotional, physical and spiritual needs of the terminally ill. The sequence of seven courses begins in January.

The first course, "Fundamentals of Hospice Care," will meet Mondays, beginning Jan. 9, 4-7 p.m. It will be taught by Sister Cecilia Eagen, director of the Hospice Care program.

Any single course may be taken by those interested in hospice care or a sequence of 30 semester hours may be completed to earn a certificate of achievement. They may be people with no previous college experience or professionals desiring an extra credential.

STUDENTS AT Madonna who are majoring in human service areas such as gerontology, social work or sociology may select hospice care as an academic minor and complete 20 semester hours of courses.

Hospice is an alternative to hospitalization relatively new in the United States. It utilizes family and volunteers as well as medical personnel to ease the patient and the patient's family into comfortable acceptance of a terminal illness. The care can be provided in a hospice facility or in a home. Payments for hospice care have recently been approved under Medicare.

The Madonna College Hospice Care curriculum was developed by Sister Rose Marie Kujawa, academic dean, and Dr. Noreen C. O'Neill, head of the nursing division, with the assistance of an advisory committee representing the Hospice of Washtenaw Inc., Hospice of Southeastern Michigan, Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, St. Mary Hospital, the Michigan Cancer Foundation, Hospice Support Services Inc., and the Visiting Nurse Association. It is believed to be the first curriculum in higher education directed solely at hospice care.

DR. EAGEN has had a professional interest in hospices over eight years and completed her doctoral dissertation at the University of Michigan on the subjects. She has visited hospices in England where the hospice concept began and studied nurses in free-standing hospices in the United States.

Other courses in the program are: "Psychosocial Components in Hospice Care," "Spiritual and Ethical Consideration in Hospice Care," "Comfort and Physical Care for the Client," "Managing Hospice Service," "Emerging Issues in Hospice Care," and "Hospice Field Experience." Giovanni, who has been a hospice volunteer for three years, will supervise field experiences of students.

Churches plan Thanksgiving programs

Cherub choir

The 11-member children's choir of the First Baptist Church of Livonia, 17725 Inkster, will be in the spotlight at the 11 a.m. service Sunday, Nov. 20. Featured will be Tia and Tiffany Kollar, Tabitha and Josie Livermore, Tennille and Tony LoVasco, Chad and Chet Rieker, Daniel Grater, Jennifer Worbol and Barbara Miller. They'll be singing such songs as "We've Got Work to Do," and "I Know that God is Great." Donna Kelly directs the choir and Melissa Kelly is the accompanist.

Area churches have chosen a variety of ways to give thanks this Thanksgiving. Some services will be ecumenical, others will be family oriented. There will be readings, slide presentations and singing.

Thanksgiving Eve events have been scheduled. The Eucharist will be celebrated, songs of praise and prayer will be offered, and some service will be in candlelight.

Five Plymouth religious groups will be joining together 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Our Lady of Good Counsel Church. Clergy from First Presbyterian, First United Methodist, Our Lady of Good Counsel, St. John Episcopal and the Salvation Army will share parts of the leadership to commemorate Thanksgiving in a community-wide worship service.

The First Baptist Handbell Choir will begin the service with a prelude, and a joint choir representing all participants will sing the anthem "We Gather Together."

A common offering will be made to benefit Plymouth FISH, a community organization that provides such community service as transportation to hospitals for those without automobiles.

A THANKSGIVING service open to the community will be 10:30 a.m. Thanksgiving Day in First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1100 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. Hymns, readings and prayers will be included in the service. Child care will be provided.

A family Thanksgiving dinner with turkey and all the trimmings will be offered today 6:30 p.m. in Memorial Church of Christ, 35475 Five Mile, Livonia. It will be prepared by the deaconesses with Jane Smith as head cook. Following the meal there will be a presentation of a slide show by Gordon Draper, music by the women's quartet and a time of praise and thanksgiving. Reservations will be taken on a first-come basis. Volunteers are needed to help clean up.

A multi-media presentation titled "Love Is Where It Starts" will be offered 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 37775 Palmer, Westland. The theme centers on hunger and injustice and the responsibility of Christians to address these problems.

A FAMILY THANKSGIVING service at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday is planned by Unity of Livonia Church, 28660 Five Mile. The traditional candlelight Thanksgiving Eve service will be 8 p.m. Wednesday at Nativity Church, 9435 Henry Ruff, Livonia. The Chancel Choir will provide music.

Members of Faith Lutheran Church, 30000 Five Mile, Livonia, will gather for Thanksgiving Eve Eucharist at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Kenwood Church of Christ, 20200 Merriman, Livonia, will have an evening of praise, song and prayer at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

CONGREGATIONAL

TIRED OF PRYING?
The strain of attempting to get reality in touch with the things we wish for can be like trying to connect two tracks that refuse to meet. After a while, we may feel like it's not worth the effort.
We make a lot of wishes and fantasize about that better position, that right person, that changing situation. But these seldom link with reality. You see, optimism is based on right circumstances. If everything is going well - if by chance things work out right - we can be optimistic. When life falls apart - what then?
Hope is different. It's deep and unassailable. Jesus was a hopeful person. Even in the midst of pain, distress, unease, and the stresses of life, He gave and gives hope. Connect your reality to a living hope.

Hoot mon — St. Andrew's is coming

A St. Andrew's Day service, observed for the first time last year, was so successful that it will be repeated this year at Rosedale Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Nov. 27. In addition to the church service that celebrates the Scottish heritage of the Presbyterian church, a "thrifty lunch" will be offered, featuring Scottish foods and desserts. In keeping with Scottish tradition, a piper will lead the way for church service participants. She is June Robertson, sister of church organist Martha Robertson, and one of the few women pipers in the metropolitan Detroit area. Reservations for the luncheon may be made by calling the church office at 422-0494. # Uncivil people will avoid the truth

She was rude. She was loud. She was acrimonious. She was offensive. And she did not hear one word the speaker said.

My state Senator is facing a recall election on Nov. 22 and he came to address a group in my community. Following a brief presentation, he invited questions. What he got was a long harangue from one woman about the amount of money he was spending to present his story in the recall election and his vote in support of a temporary income tax increase. It would have been despicable except it was so pitiful. She had not come to listen and learn, she had come to attack and destroy.

Every person working with a public responsibility is subject to review and critique. No public official in our democracy would want it any other way. That is why we limit terms to reasonable lengths allowing programs time to develop and mature. But the increasing incivility expressed in public order raises an important question of community character. Can an uncivil community recognize truth and the course of reasoned response? Will an uncivil community respond to truth and the course of reasoned response? Or is an uncivil community doomed to live within the consequences of its own venom?

TO BE sure, one person does not make an uncivil community. But the suggestion of an area newspaper editorial that people not vote on Nov. 22 and the nature of letters to editors printed in area newspapers raises the question of civility to a higher and more urgent level.

Incivility is not a new phenomenon. It has been with us from the very beginning where one person wanted what another possessed, but civilization requires that incivility be rigorously restrained and checked. It builds on self-interests and self-wants. It excludes the rights and needs of others. It destroys community and creates a collection of self-seeking and self-serving individuals that ultimately self-destruct.

moral perspectives

Fundamental to public life and community is the care and attention we give to the well-being of others. The Judeo-Christian heritage has been very clear about the responsibility that we have for one another. From the prophets who denounced self-serving interests to the New Testament advocacy of goods held in a common trust, the one you are to serve the help is the one in need. That is the cornerstone of revealed and prophetic witness to God and the world.

THE NEEDS of our society continue unmet. More people are below the poverty level than several years ago. Countless individuals and families have been uprooted and left to fend for themselves without support or hope. College education has become increasingly elitist, and mental health care has turned into a partisan debate. Meanwhile, our expenditures for armaments continue unchecked. The money saved by not building 10 MX missiles would end poverty in the United States, but we still build the 10 MX missiles.

Ironically, the woman who spoke so malignantly of our state government's attempt to meet the needs of all in justice and compassion lives in a facility that could not have been erected without the care and financial support (taxes) of her fellow citizens. She enjoys what her course of action would ultimately destroy.

The real danger in the course of recent events is that we shall become so preoccupied and concerned with our own selves that we shall lose the community where we find our heritage, live our present and build our future. Benjamin Franklin's observation at the time of the signing of the Declaration of Independence serves us well again: "We must hang together or most assuredly we shall hang separately."

Taking the ferry

Trip across Lake Michigan saves many miles

By Doris Scharfenberg
special writer

That endangered transit species, the passenger car ferry across Lake Michigan, is not yet ready to become an item for history books.

Even the ice floes of January will not stop the "City of Midland" from its year-round service between Ludington and Kewaunee, Wisc., while Ludington-to-Milwaukee crossings on the "Badger" are scheduled to resume in mid-May, continuing until Sept. 15.

It's 240 miles from Detroit to Ludington. For motorists traveling to Green Bay, the ferry saves 230 miles of driving, 195 miles for those going to Minneapolis. This can spell relief in icy weather and eliminates coping with Chigago-area traffic.

For generations of midwestern Americans the Great Lakes ferries have been as close to a cruise at sea as they will ever know. Passengers line the rails waving good-byes, watch the cars and freight come aboard and stake claims for the best lounge chairs. When the whistle blows, the dock and town fade away; nothing is visible but blue-gray water for the next four hours.

The size and power of these gigantic lakes takes on a new reality.

ONCE THE LAKE was criss-crossed with ferries from Muskegon, Ludington and Frankfort to several Wisconsin cities and Chigago. In spite of a long and bitter struggle, the next-to-last surviving line operating between Frankfort and Manitowoc was suspended by its Ann Arbor Railroad owners, leaving an employment crisis on both sides of the water.

The Lugington operation has shifted from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad to a newly-organized local firm, the Michigan-Wisconsin Transportation Co. While the C&O still owns the equipment, the new managers have taken on the challenge of maintaining the vessels and schedules. Area residents, actively boosting and promoting, are praying for a miracle of public support and governmental assistance for the Ludington enterprise.

Both the "City of Midland" and the "Badger" are a little longer than 400 feet, steam propelled, carry boxcars and semi-trucks, passengers and private cars. Travelers can rent staterooms with upper and lower bunks or "parlors" with bunks plus showers for the four-hour trip to Kewaunee, six hours to Milwaukee.

"Spartan," the name of a third C&O ship, is as good a word as any to describe the on-board decor. Both vessels have a large public lounge with vinyl furniture bolted to the uncarpeted floor to keep it from sliding around in rough seas.

A snack bar, television set and arcade game or two constitute inside entertainment; deck chairs are available for those who want to sun in warm weather or bundle up and breathe winter winds.

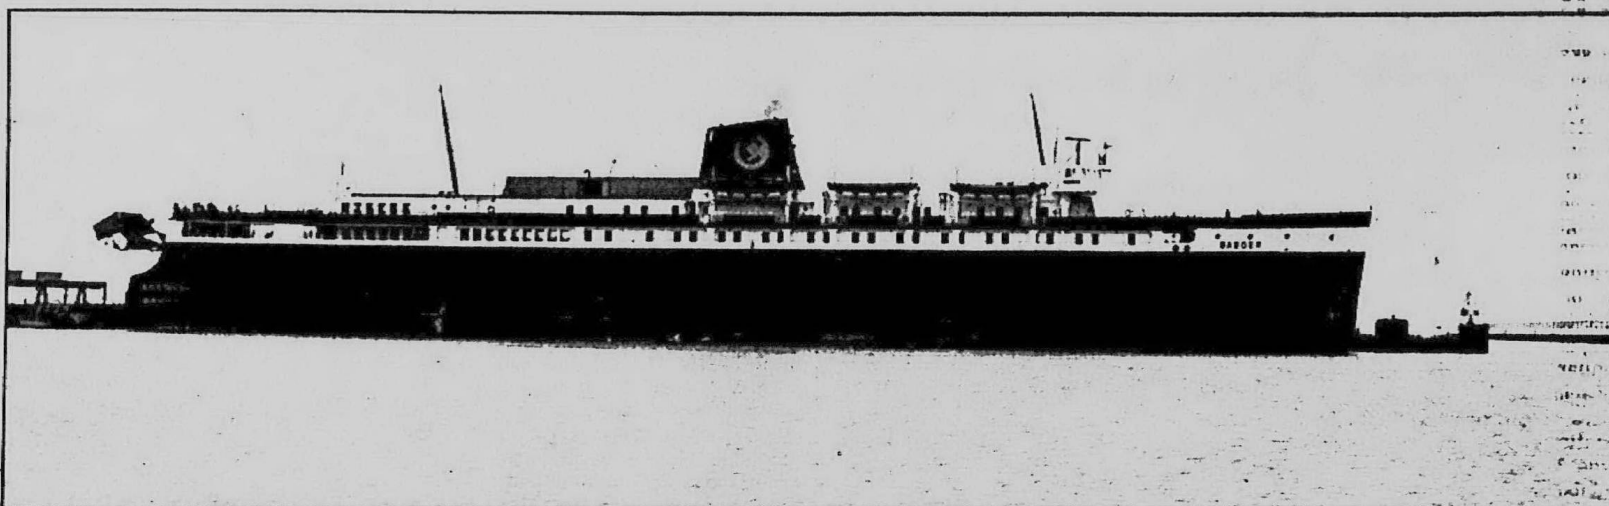

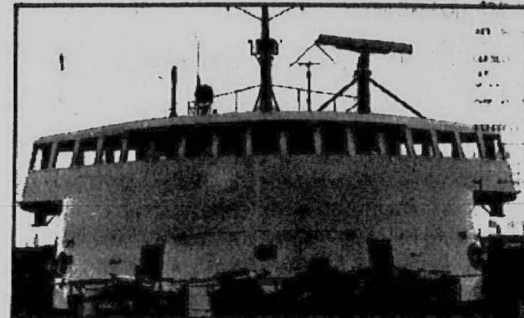

IN MID-WINTER only the hardest souls go out on deck to watch the ship handling the ice. Their hulls are able to ride over and push aside floes that would trap long freighters with a deeper draft, and ferry service is rarely stopped by bad weather or lake conditions.

On these working-world love boats there is time to get acquainted with a random encounter group or maybe someone special, but don't dream about cruise ship cuisine. At this point the dining room runs more on hope than groceries, and guests order basic tide-you-over fare from a short menu. Expect paper plates.

When a shoestring operation has to bite the shoe, you understand.

Although the trip makes a great change of pace any time of year, the avoidance of hazardous winter driving is a big winter bonus. Its also a big bargain for truckers who pay the truck fee and nothing additional for the driver.

For generations of Midwestern Americans, the Great Lakes ferries have been as close to a cruise at sea as they will every know.

A 400-foot-long ship propelled by steam, the "Badger" is one of two ships that ferry cars across Lake Michigan.

Photos by DORIS SHARFENBURG

Passengers taking the ferry across Lake Michigan can enjoy sunshine and sea breezes, weather permitting, during the four-hour trip. During the colder months, staying inside in the public lounge is almost a necessity. Passengers can enjoy the view, play games, watch television and eat food. It isn't cuisine, but tide-you-over fare. Staterooms and "parlors" are also available.

Phone changes present problems to schools

"There were times when we should have gone back to two tin cans and a string," said Tom Rose, purchasing agent for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, as he reflected on the district's phone system changeover.

"We expected some minor inconvenience, but you never realize how much you depend on the phone until you're without it. We had people calling the district and instead of a recording giving a new number, they either got just a regular ring so they thought we weren't answering the phone, or they got a recording saying the number was no longer in service.

"Things especially were frustrating when parents called to let us know their child was to be excused because of illness," added Rose.

"Can you imagine the frustration of trying to reach your school and thinking nobody is answering? I don't blame people for getting upset but we do think things are about straightened out now.

"New phone instruments are being installed in some buildings through this coming month, but that shouldn't affect phone service like the changeover did.

"The talented and gifted program was one area hit hard," said Rose, "They are moving to Starkweather, so the phone company disconnected their phones at Central Middle School but they didn't connect them at Starkweather for two and a half weeks.

Cheryl Johnson, the program director, was particularly frustrated because parents were unable to reach her by phone those two and a half weeks.

"But there are some good things to say about the new system. The Centrix III system will provide a savings to the district estimated to be nearly $50,000 a year for the next three years.

THE NEW SYSTEM, which has been designed by Bell Telephone Company engineers, will be relatively simple to use.

The first four digits of every phone number in the district (except those at Field Elementary School) will be 451-6. The last three digits will be the same as the current extension number. Each telephone will have a unique number which can be reached without requiring a switchboard operator.

Centrix III also provides for no increase in rates for the next three years, said Rose.

With the new system, elementary buildings will have touch-tone phones to replace their present dial units.

The changeover originally was scheduled to take place prior to the opening of school. However, the telephone workers strike and the school employees strike temporarily put a halt to the changeover.

Expect more scientists in space

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Look for more scientists in the U.S. space program, but don't fall down and worship math and science.

Those twin messages came from astronaut Robert L. Springer and social scientist Alvin Toffler in recent interviews at Schoolcraft College, where they appeared at a "Say Yes to the Future" exposition.

"THE FIRST astronauts were test pilots," said Lt. Col. Springer, a Naval Academy graduate who hopes to go aloft on one of the space shuttles in the near future.

"Now only 50 percent are military people. The other 50 percent are civilians with hard scientific backgrounds — astronomy, physics, aeronautical engineering, medical.

"The change was due to the increase in technology," said Springer. He cited scientific tests, such as solar energy, and aeronautical research that has been done by space missions since the early John Glenn orbital flights of the late 1950s.

A native of St. Louis, Springer flew 300 combat missions in Vietnam during the war and later flew 75 helicopter missions as a military advisor to the Republic of Korea. He also has a master's degree in science in operations research and systems from the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School.

TOFFLER, AUTHOR of "Future Shock" and "The Third Wave," was asked his reaction to widespread alarm that the nation may be educating a generation of mathematical and scientific illiterates.

For example, "A Nation at Risk," the April report of the National Commission on Excellence in Education, found a severe shortage of high school math and science teachers. It noted, "In many schools, the time spent learning how to cook and drive counts as much toward a high school diploma as the time spent studying mathematics, English, chemistry, U.S. history or biology."

Toffler answered, "I don't believe math and science and engineering are the educational pathways to the rainbow."

"I'm sympathetic to the space program. But you can't run a society on math and science alone.

"Our (the nation's) problem is that we can organize research and development, but we're not very good at organizing social programs.

"We need people who can think — who can formulate problems and analyze alternatives. Everyone needs to know the scientific method. But you don't have to be a numbers-cruncher."

TOFFLER SAID he would argue for introducing computers to the classroom, "but don't take a narrow view of education. Scientists and engineers won't be hurt by a knowledge of history."

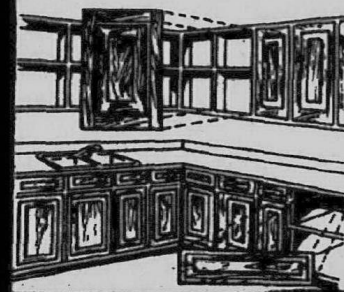

He called "training and education a basic industry," though much of it occurs outside institutional classrooms and campuses.

"We have Hilton University and Hyatt University," he said, referring to the hotel chains where business meetings occur.

Going beyond the normal sibling rivalry

By Rich Swenson
staff writer

WHAT HAPPENS when two sisters, who live in the same home and share a love for the same sport, are forced to attend different high schools and the schools just happen to be fierce rivals in the same league?

That's exactly what's happening in Plymouth these days. Take the cases of the Elliott sisters, Kim and Cindy, and the Murphy sisters, Noelle and Shannon, all members of high school swimming teams at the Centennial Education Park complex.

Kim and Noelle are seniors at Canton, where they have been swimming for the past four years under the tutelage of coach Hooker Wellman. Cindy and Shannon, both freshmen, swim for coach Chuck Olson at Salem.

The problem came about two years ago when the Plymouth Board of Education, faced with overcrowding in the high schools, decided to keep ninth graders in middle school for another year. Parents convinced board members to allow ninth grade students to participate in varsity sports, even though they were still in middle school.

STUDENTS were randomly placed (by computer) in either Canton or Salem, but they were not given the choice to join their older brothers or sisters unless they were to attend high school at the same time. Because Cindy and Shannon are still enrolled in middle school and their sisters are seniors, they did not qualify.

Though the ruling has caused some problems for the two families, the girls have adjusted quite well. In fact, they like it.

"I always expected to go to Canton, and I always rooted for Canton," Cindy said. "But when I found out I was going to Salem, I was happy because my best friend's father is the coach."

Shannon expressed similar sentiments. "At the time, I wanted to go to Canton, but now I'm happy," she said. "I've met a lot of new friends here."

You have all heard of sibling rivalry in sports, but this is a case of sibling team rivalry, as evidenced by the support each gave its team in a recent matchup between the two schools.

THE NIGHT before the big meet, the girls' mocked one another, all claiming to be a member of the better team.

"We teased each other," Noelle said, "but underneath, it was good, natural fun. There will always be a rivalry — the team comes first. I cheered for my team members, but I also wanted Shannon to do well."

The Elliott sister rivalry goes beyond the team, because they just happen to swim the same strokes. As the two entered the pool, readying themselves for the 100-yard breaststroke, they found that they were right next to each other, in lanes three and four. Kim, Canton's team captain, responded by shattering a pool record with a time of 1:13.67.

"It was a big meet — we were all hyped up, and the adrenaline was flowing," Kim explained. "The competition between the two teams brought out the best in me."

Cindy, who finished third, agreed: "I knew she would win, but I thought I could push myself more to keep up."

It was the first time the sisters' had met in head-to-head competition, but both feel that the personal rivalry would be even more fierce if they were swimming on the same team.

"This gives us both more of a chance," Kim said. "If we were swimming on the same team, we would be competing against each other for the same spots."

Cindy's personal goals are to break some of Salem's pool records as Kim has done at Canton, but the difference in schools won't stop her from pursuing Kim's achievements. "I set goals for myself and then go out and try to accomplish those goals," she said. "If my times are better than Kim's, I would feel that I achieved even more."

THOUGH all the girls feel a sense of rivalry, swimming on different teams has somehow improved their personal relationships.

"It's brought us closer together," Noelle said. "Now, we can talk about our events and the other teams we face."

"With the schools so close together, we're able to get inside information on our common opponents," Kim added.

While the sisters have adjusted to the situation quite well, it has not been as easy on their parents.

"It's been very difficult," Linda Murphy said. "We can't go to the meets together because they are on the same night."

The Murphy's originally appealed the school board's decision, hoping they could get Shannon on her sister's team, but the board voted 7-0 against them.

"It would have been something to bring the family together," she added.

"It seems logical that sisters should swim on the same team. There have been a few disquieting moments, but the girls have shown good sportsmanship."

The Elliott sisters' parents concede that it has worked out better than they had expected, but they would still like to see them given the opportunity to make their own choice.

"FOR OUR part, it has not worked out too bad," Jim Elliott said. "The girls have handled it well, probably better than we have. But we believe there ought to be a change where the kids have the choice."

The Murphy and Elliott sisters face each other again in the Western Lakes Activities Association league meet, which concludes Friday night at Salem.

The girls' assessed their respective teams' chances.

Kim and Noelle believe Canton, which finished with a 9-2 dual meet record, has better individual talent that will lead them to success in the meet. Salem, which enters the league meet with an 8-5 dual meet record, has more depth, according to Shannon and Cindy, which will enable them to rack up more points.

Cindy expressed the competitive spirit that exists between the teams' best when she said: "Canton better watch out in the league meet."

Chiefs get long-awaited upset

Plymouth Canton's strong second-half effort Tuesday gave the Chiefs the upset they've been looking for all season, a convincing 46-33 victory over Westland John Glenn.

Trailing 20-18 at the half, Canton stormed out of the locker room with six quick buckets to take a nine-point advantage that gave them control of the game.

"It was a big one. It came at the appropriate time," Canton coach Phyllis Cunningham Mulroy said. "We were aggressive. We went after the ball in the second half."

After their third-quarter flurry, the Chiefs were able to control the tempo of the game in the final quarter.

"We stressed ball control in the last six minutes," Mulroy said. "They either fouled us or gave us easy layups. We did a nice job of recognizing their defense, and we didn't force any shots."

Canton got a strong game from Lou Ann Hamblin, who scored 13 of her 14 points in the second half. Laura Darby also scored in double figures for the Chiefs, netting 12.

The win against the formidable Rockets was exactly what Canton needed to ready itself for tonight's district opener against Livonia Franklin.

The Chiefs finished the regular season with a 9-11 mark, while Glenn is 13-7.

SALEM 46, BRIGHTON 29: The Rocks ended a successful regular season Tuesday, recording its 16th victory despite losing top scorer Pam McBride to an injury.

McBride, who scored eight points before twisting her ankle in the second quarter, had to leave the game, but the team played well in her absence. Her status for the playoffs is unknown.

"Our bench came in and contributed when Pam went out," Rocks coach Fred Thomann said. "They did a good job."

Dawn Johnson led the Rocks attack with 11

Local icers hot

Westland's Bantam A hockey team is on a roll.

The club, behind goalie Scott Koscho's seventh shutout of the season, whipped another league foe last week for its 13th consecutive win.

The Westland skaters are now 17-2-0 for the season.

Stephen Wallack and Chad Mena lead the team in scoring with 43 points each. The two each have tallied 19 goals. Mike Macaulay is right behind with 42 points.

Other members of the team include Jimmy Jones, Timmy Brown, Pat Mowinski, Pat Kelm, Mark McCormick, Richard Kendall, Nicky Renzi, David Hendrikson, Kevin Nowak and Mickey Miller.

Miller sat out the first part of the season with a broken wrist, while Kendall has been nursing a broken collarbone. Both are expected to return to the lineup by the end of the month.

points and 12 rebounds. Michelle Dawson and Mary Beth Weast chipped in eight apiece and Fran Whittaker added six.

The win was a good tuneup for the playoffs for the 16-4 Rocks.

"We had a nice season," Thomann said, "and we're ready to go. We'll just go out and play as hard as we can."

Unique, talented-this team won't be beat

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

THIS SEASON USHERS in a new era of All-Area teams in Wayne County. For the first time, thanks to the new Observer sports department structure, the Farmington School District is included in Observerland's All-Area teams.

And area football coaches have welcomed the Farmington schools by selecting eight players, five from Farmington Harrison and three from North Farmington, to the first team.

The coaches also honored Redford Bishop Borgess for its outstanding 7-2 season by naming five Spartans to the first team.

This year's team is different in another way. Harrison wide receiver Bob Wasczenski is the first player ever to be named to the All-Area team from two different teams in successive years. Last year as a junior, Wasczenski was chosen first team from Plymouth Canton.

Suffice to say, the 1983 All-Area grid team is deep in talent. With an offensive line that averages 6-1, 227 pounds per man, lightning fast wide receivers who combined for 69 catches, 1,320 yards and 14 touchdowns, running backs that gained 3,496 yards and scored 51 touchdowns, and a quarterback that ran for 551 yards, threw for 558 yards and was in on 14 touchdowns — not to mention a strong and fast bunch of defenders — this team would win a few ballgames.

OFFENSE

Dave Mize, Livonia Churchill, lineman: Retiring Charger coach Ken Kaestner has nothing but praise for this 6-0, 246 pound junior.

"He plays both ways, is strong and exceptionally quick," Kaestner said.

A two-way player, Mize is destined to be Churchill's first four-year starter in football. He was also the top vote-getter among offensive linemen.

Jay Politi, Redford Union, lineman: The Panthers' best blocker, the 6-3, 221 pound senior has been a three-year starter for coach Harvey Heitman.

"He is the hardest working player we have ever had," Heitman said.

Politi also works hard in the classroom, as his 3.6 grade point average will attest.

Jerry Eisen, Farmington Harrison, lineman: If you watched any number of Harrison games this season you will have noticed No. 75. The 5-11, 200-pound senior was all over the field both offensively and defensively.

Extremely strong and quick, Eisen was often pitted against the opponents' best lineman. On defense he was in on 53 tackles and recovered two fumbles.

Mike Miller, Westland John Glenn, lineman: "Mike is as good a lineman as we've had at John Glenn," said Rocket head coach Chuck Gordon. "He's a tremendous blocker and was a key to our ground game."

The 6-3, 235 pound senior was a two-way starter and the team captain.

Dan Bailey, Catholic Central, lineman: A 6-3, 235 pound giant, the senior was a key in CC's potent ground attack this season.

"Dan was consistently good both on offense and defense," said CC coach Tom Mach. "He has good size and movement and should be a good college prospect."

John Ward, Bishop Borgess, tight end: Ward came to fall camp this season and discovered he'd been assigned two new positions — tight end and outside linebacker. He started at both.

"As a tight end, he was an excellent blocker who made up for lack of size with fine footwork. He also has very good hands and runs disciplined pass routes," Spartan coach Gary Cook said of his 6-1, 180 pound senior.

Bob Wasczenski, Farmington Harrison, split end: Wasczenski was one of the most exciting players in the area this season. His speed (4.5 seconds in the 40 yd. dash) gave defenders fits on nearly every play, both offensively and defensively.

The senior caught 25 passes for 523 yards this season and scored seven TDs and two two-point conversions. He also picked off eight passes. Wasczenski, like many players on this squad, is a bonafide blue-chip college prospect.

Rick Rozman, Livonia Stevenson, split end: This speedster has rewritten the record books at Stevenson. He caught 44 passes for 797 yards and seven TDs. He and quarterback Dan Gilmartin comprised the most dangerous passing tandem in the area.

The senior also excels in the classroom with a 3.8 grade point average.

John Miller, Farmington Harrison, back: This 6-2, 190-pound junior may be the best football player in the state. That's quite a statement, but check out his accomplishments this season: 1,204 yards rushing in 175 carries (which gives him 2,973 yards in his career), 26 touchdowns, two extra point kicks, one two-point conversion, 159 points, five interceptions, 29 solo tackles and 39 assists on defense, and a 40.7-yard punting average.

Case closed.

Fred Owens, Bishop Borgess, back: Another outstanding junior. In 14 starts as a running back (since the middle of his sophomore year), Owens has gained 1,471 yards in 200 carries, and scored 16 TDs. In 1983 he gained 944 yards.

"Fred Owens is a great running back," said coach Gary Cook. "He has a 4.6 speed, has excellent open-field moves and runs with great authority."

Scott Jurek, Plymouth Salem, back: This 6-2, 205 pound senior is a bruising, punishing runner. Not one to dodge tacklers, he prefers running over them. He gained 821 yards in 150 tries this year and scored nine TDs.

Jurek is also an outstanding linebacker. He is being heavily recruited by several major colleges including Michigan and Michigan State.

Mark Tindall, Plymouth Salem, quarterback: Salem coach Tom Moshimer ranks this senior second only to Rich Hewlett in running the Rock's wishbone offense.

Tindall gained 1,202 yards total this year as a runner, thrower, pass receiver and kick returner. He ran for 551 yards and completed 27 passes for 558 yards. He was in on 14 TDs.

DEFENSE

Charlie Wasczenski, Garden City, end: A cousin of Harrison's Bob Wasczenski, this 6-1, 190 pound senior was a terror on the Cougar's defensive line.

He made 56 tackles, four quarterback sacks, recovered two fumbles and blocked a field goal and returned it 71 yards for a TD.

"He will be very hard to replace," said GC coach Dean Shipman.

Steve Orsini, Farmington Harrison, end: A 6-1, 185 pound senior, Orsini was in on 55 tackles for the Hawks. He also blocked a punt.

He was very active along the line, with the ability to contain the run and to get to the passer.

Mark Messner, Catholic Central, lineman: This 6-4, 230 pound senior may be the most heavily recruited player in the area. His size and quickness, plus his 82 tackles have college scouts drooling.

"Mark is the best defensive lineman to go through CC in the last eight years," said coach Mach.

Scott Novis, Farmington Harrison, lineman: Harrison's defense gave up just 26 points all season. This aggressive 6-0, 180 pound lineman was one of the reasons for that.

Novis made 44 solo tackles, 35 assists and recovered two fumbles. He was the Hawks leading tackler.

Tom Forchione, Westland John Glenn, lineman: At 5-8, 164 pounds, this senior is the smallest All-Area lineman. But that didn't stop him from leading his team in tackles.

"A great competitor and a very hard worker," coach Gordon said of Forchione. "Tom played all over the field and was a real leader for us."

Rich Olson, North Farmington, lineman: At 6-2, 230, this senior's presence is easily detected on the field. He is an intimidating, physical player.

After not playing at all last year, Olson was in on 59 tackles this year. He had nine quarterback sacks and 12 tackles for losses.

Matt Burns, Catholic Central, linebacker: This senior is probably the most talented player in the most talent-laden position on the All-Area squad.

Burns was in on 138 tackles for CC this season. Not much more needs to be said after that stat.

Tim Walton, Bishop Borgess, linebacker: Coach Cook considers this 6-1, 200-pound senior to be his team's most valuable defensive player. Walton was in on 127 tackles and picked off two passes, returning one for 68-yards and a TD.

Walton also has the ability to rise to the front in big games, as evidenced by his 21-tackle performance against CC.

Tom Spahn, North Farmington, linebacker: A transfer from Cincinnati Moeller High School, Spahn has been a starter and All-League performer the last two seasons. This year he was in on 115 tackles, four fumble recoveries, three quarterback sacks and four tackles for losses.

"Tom is the hardest hitter I've seen," said coach Jim O'Leary. "He plays with tremendous intensity."

Chuck Gregory, Bishop Borgess, back: "Chuck Gregory is the finest athlete I have coached," said Cook. That tells you a lot about this senior right there.

He was switched from halfback to quarterback as a sophomore. He has also played wide receiver as well as defensive back. He has excelled everywhere he has played. He intercepted six passes for the Spartans and his 4.8 speed affords him tremendous range.

Bob Macek, Redford Union, back: This senior is the first four-year letter winner in the RU program. He picked off seven passes and was the team's second leading tackler. He also was an effective back offensively.

"He is just an outstanding competitor," said coach Heitman.

Jeff Arnold, Plymouth Salem, back: This senior led the Rocks with six interceptions and was named defensive back of the week five times by the coaches. He was in on 27 tackles.

"He is a good athlete participating in three sports and is extremely quick, coachable and football-wise," said coach Moshimer.

Victor Shaw, North Farmington, back: There are players who seem to always make the big hit or create the big turnover. This senior was that kind of player for the Raiders.

He was in on 50 tackles, had two interceptions, two fumble recoveries, four sacks and 24 tackles for losses.

"He is a great young man," coach O'Leary said.

Joe Burns, Bishop Borgess, kicker: This senior is the most productive placekicker in the Spartans' history, surpassing the efforts of Tom Birney, of Michigan State and Green Bay fame.

He has kicked 12 career field goals for Borgess, including a 48-yarder this year against DeLaSalle to set a school record. He also hit on 17 of 19 extra point tries this season.

Salem's Moshimer is coach of the year

After 25 years, Plymouth Salem football coach Tom Moshimer is still having fun.

And he's still winning. Moshimer celebrated his silver coaching anniversary by making an assemblage of small, inexperienced, and determined football players into an 8-1 championship-contending team.

"It's been a special year," Moshimer said. "One of the accomplishments I had set for myself was to coach 25 years. Now I've done it. From now on, it's going to be one year at a time."

IT WAS ALSO special for another, perhaps more gratifying, reason.

"As it turned out, this was a very satisfying season. The effort and the dedication in the players we had was just tremendous. It was very special because these kids were not supposed to be that good. But, they were. They kept getting better, and I felt you, by the end of the year, I felt we could play with anybody."

Until 1972, Moshimer's teams generally hovered around the 5-6 mark. His pre-72 coaching record was 66-42-6. Many coaches would be content with that percentage. Not Moshimer.

"For four straight seasons, 1968, '69, '70 and '71, were right around 5-6. I just felt we had to do something different," he said. Canton softball coach Max Somerville was a friend of Chuck Fairbanks, the ex-New England Patriots head coach who was then the coach at the University of Oklahoma. Somerville, in the spring of 1972, arranged a meeting between Moshimer and Fairbanks.

The meeting changed the course of Plymouth Salem football and the career of Tom Moshimer.

FOR WHAT MOSHIMER took away from that meeting was the wishbone offense. Since incorporating the wishbone, Salem has gone 90-25. Moshimer's career record is 146-71-6.

For the past 10 summers, Moshimer has spent Easter weekend with the University of Alabama, learning more facets of the "bone." He may have the system perfected, at least. Redford Union head coach Harvey Heitman thinks so.

"They have the best offensive system in the state," Heitman said after Salem crunched RU 32-0 in the final game of the 1983 season. "I don't care what anybody says about Farmington Harrison or anybody, Tom Moshimer coaches the best offense in the state."

So what's left for Moshimer? How about 260 career victories.

Fast lane:

Wife, mother, student still can run with best

WHAT'S IT LIKE, anyway, a life on the run? Go to an authority, I always say. And there may not be a much better authority than Sue Hanus.

Wife and mother of two is enough to keep the average woman busy. But Hanus is also a student at Schoolcraft College.

And she also runs. I know — she'd have to just to keep up with that kind of schedule, right?

But running from home to nursery to school to nursery and back home again is not the running referred to. And Hanus isn't a jog-around-the-block person, either.

When Hanus runs, she runs to win.

AND SHE DOES. After a 5½ year layoff, during which time she married John Hanus, bore sons Andrew, now 2½, and Mark, 12 months, and really did nothing more athletic than play softball, the 23-year-old has re-entered the field of competitive distance running with a flourish.

And she did it all within four months.

"John (Dunn) called me and said he had scholarship money available if I came to school and ran," Hanus recalled. "I was always planning on going back to school anyway, to go into EMT (Emergency Medical Training). But I was going to wait until the kids were in school."

The opportunity, however, was too good to pass up. So she enrolled at Schoolcraft, joined the girls' cross country team, which Dunn was coaching, and began training in earnest for the first time since her senior year at Livonia Ladywood in 1978.

All this, by the way, was decided after Aug. 29. Hanus, a Westland resident, was a state mile champion as a Ladywood sophomore and All-State in cross country as a senior. A car accident kept her from competing at full strength her junior year.

SHE WAS ENGAGED two months after graduating, married a year later and had her first child two years after that. She didn't run again until Dunn contacted her last spring to serve as his track assistant at Ladywood. She started running with the Ladywood girls and ran some summer road races.

That, eventually, led to Schoolcraft and real competition.

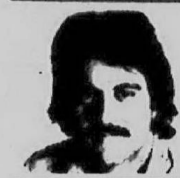

"I always loved running," Hanus said. "And I always loved the chance to compete. Schoolcraft was a local school with the program I wanted."

So off she trudged to college, not just back to the classroom, which after 5½ years had become a foreign arena. But back to competing against younger athletes, in far better shape.

"Most of them," she discovered, "are high school athletes who have been training uninterrupted for four years. I was only training four months."

"I had the hardest time mentally, being able to make your body do something it hasn't been doing, to withstand the pain."

If there was a turning point, something that enabled Hanus to break down the final mental barriers standing between her and a comeback, it came in midseason.

C.J. Risak

"I was training with Kathy Curtiss (of Livonia Churchill) at Schoolcraft," Hanus said. "When I started to beat her in our meets, I knew. I gained a lot of confidence in my ability."

SCHOOLCRAFT NEVER had enough women to field a team. However, Hanus ran well enough to qualify for the NJCAA nationals last Saturday in Hutchinson, Kan.

After such a strong and swift comeback to competitive running, the nationals were a disaster for her. She finished 47th out of 150, passed by 18 girls in the final half-mile as she struggled to breathe through lungs clogged by a bout with the flu two days earlier.

Her best time during the season over three miles was 17:40. Over the five kilometer course in Hutchinson, Hanus struggled in at 20:30.

Frustrating her further was the finish of Angie Mogielski, a Redford Union grad running for Macomb CC. Mogielski placed 11th and earned All-America honors.

And Hanus had beaten her during the season. "I'm disappointed," Hanus said, "but not too much because I ran the best I could."

THAT LEADS BACK to her other running — from house to school to track. Her priorities are secure: family first, school second, running third. Yet, Hanus manages to find time for everything. All her classes are on Tuesdays and Thursdays, which helps.

Her goals are the same as many women, only reversed.

"A lot of women want to have a career first," Hanus said. "I wanted a family now. By the time I'm 25 I can pursue a career."

It's not easy, mind you. She sometimes finds herself making the next day's dinner at midnight. Training sessions are often runs through the neighborhood with her 90-pound German shepherd at 11 p.m. And sacrifice might mean just five hours of sleep a night.

But, as this new-style young mother says: "People think you can't be as good an athlete after you've had a family. I think that's nonsense. I feel just as strong as when I was a sophomore at Ladywood."

"My theory is, where there's a will, there's a way."

And with Sue Hanus, there's a lot of will.

Adrian's playoff dreams fulfilled

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Bet you're kind of busy, huh coach? "You are so right!" Adrian College football coach Ron Labadie said emphatically.

That's always the case when a football team reaches that post-season tournament, as Adrian has done this year for the first time ever. And Labadie was busy because his team's first opponent was Augustana (Ill.), top-ranked in the NCAA's Division III.

Adrian won the Michigan Independent Athletic Association (MIAA) championship and compiled an 8-1 overall record, its only loss coming to Division II power Westminster (Pa.) in September.

The Bulldogs won it with an offense that averaged nearly 340 yards a game. And they won it with 11 players listed on the varsity roster from the Observer & Eccentric coverage area.

INCLUDED ON that list are three who recently were named to the All-MIAA squad: junior offensive tackle Bob Fallon, a Southfield native and Birmingham Brother Rice grad; senior center Paul Mooney from Plymouth Canton; and senior split end Mark Leidholdt from Livonia Churchill.

Others are junior defensive back Alex Karras, Jr., from Bloomfield Hills Andover; sophomore defensive back Dave Dixon from West Bloomfield; senior wingback Scott Thornton from Westland; senior linebacker Dave Rettig from Westland; junior guard Eugene Caldwell from Southfield; sophomore guard Joe Gucwa from Southfield; junior tight end Bob Smedley from Redford Bishop Borgess; and freshman tight end Tim Luch from Livonia Churchill.

Fallon, Mooney and Leidholdt were key components in Adrian's offense, according to Labadie.

"They are three great players for us," the Bulldog coach said. "Mooney is very intelligent. He called all the offensive line changes for us. Our offensive line made great improvement this year, and he's a big reason for our success."

Another "big" reason is Fallon, the biggest Bulldog at 6-foot-4, 265-pounds. Fallon plays tackle on the wide side of the field and, according to Labadie, "showed tremendous improvement from the beginning of the year."

LEIDHOLDT SUPPLIED Adrian with an outside threat that opened things up in the middle. The pint-sized receiver (5-10, 165) slipped defensive coverages to haul in 35 catches for 575 yards and four touchdowns. He was the MIAA's leading receiver.

"He had a super year," Labadie said of Leidholdt. "He caught 13 passes in the last two games."

"Mark's a real threat at split end. He's got great hands, better than average speed and great concentration."

Smedley was the only other local player to start for Adrian. The tight end latched onto 16 passes for 149 yards.

Against Augustana, Adrian will be facing its greatest test. Augustana is a running team that averaged 345.7 yards per game rushing. Adrian, however, allowed just 89.1 yards on the ground per contest.

"We've got to start right off with the best," said Labadie. "But we're one of eight teams in the country going for the championship, and I don't think there's much difference in those eight."

The game will be played at Augustana, in Rock Island, Ill., at 1:30 p.m. EST. The winner plays the Wisconsin/Lacrosse-Occidental (Cal.) winner the following week.

S'craft quest for title ends

By C.J. Risak staff writer

The vision was clear to Larry Christoff: He was staring at the Triton College soccer field but he was seeing a trip to the national tournament next weekend in Trenton, N.J.

That was in the first half, before the roof caved in on Christoff's Schoolcraft College soccer team, before Lewis and Clark (Ill.) College shattered all the Ocelot dreams of a trip to the nationals with a 4-1 win in the opening round of the Inter-Regional tournament Saturday in River Grove, Ill.

"They were an excellent team," Christoff said of his opponents. "We played well enough in the first half to beat them."

"Unfortunately, the game is played in two halves."

Schoolcraft scored first as Manny Murua, a freshman alumnus of Redford Temple Christian, buried a direct kick into the Lewis and Clark net from 20 yards out.

THE OCELOTS controlled play throughout the opening half, allowing just two shots on goal while clinging to their 1-0 advantage.

But then the game turned around.

Schoolcraft failed to convert on a pair of breakaways and missed an open head shot. The slippery field conditions contributed to the miscues, and they cost the Ocelots dearly.

In the final minutes of the half, Schoolcraft fullbacks Jim King and Wes Karczynski got crossed up on a ball driven between them. Neither picked it up and a Lewis and Clark player pounced on it, scoring the tying goal.

"If we had gone in ahead at the half, we could have adjusted and played more defensively," Christoff said. "That goal psychologically had a big effect on us."

Forced to stay on the attack, Schoolcraft was victimized by Lewis and Clark again 15 minutes into the second half. Down a goal, the Ocelots started pressing and that gave their opponents a pair of easy scores.

Schoolcraft finished the season with an 11-3-1 overall record and Region 12 and state championships. Christoff is already looking toward next year — only four Ocelots are lost to graduation.

Inconsistent Ocelots end season

By C.J. Risak staff writer

From the beginning, it wasn't going to be easy for Schoolcraft College's volleyball team.

But nothing this season has been for the Ocelots. Plagued by inconsistency, Schoolcraft finished in a tie for fifth place in the 13-team NJCAA regional tournament it hosted Friday and Saturday.

Lake Michigan emerged with the regional crown. Southwestern Community College was second, with Grand Rapids CC third and Kalamazoo Valley CC fourth. Henry Ford CC and Schoolcraft tied for fifth.

The Ocelots got off to a poor start, losing their opener to Grand Rapids, 15-12, 15-6.

"It would have helped mentally for us to win that match," said Schoolcraft coach Joe Jandasek. "Based on our typical performance, that was what I would have expected."

"If we had played our best consistently, we could have done much better. But we haven't done that all year."

THE OCELOTS did bounce back to win their next two matches, beating Lansing CC, 15-9, 16-14, and Mott, 15-11, 15-11. But Kalamazoo Valley and season with a 15-12, 15-7 win.

"Kalamazoo Valley took away what we wanted to do," Jandasek said. "They had a good center blocker and she dominated inside. They just plain stopped us."

Schoolcraft's inconsistency showed in its overall all-won-lost record in games played this season — 49-52.

Briggs awesome in tourney

Was this a revelation of what lies ahead for Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team?

A total of 190 points scored in two games, with Carlos Briggs netting 85 of them, and the Ocelots still splitting.

That's what happened last weekend as Schoolcraft kicked off its season at the Macomb Tip-Off.

The Ocelots opened Friday by losing to Orchard Lake St. Mary, 103-87. Briggs, one of the top scorers in the nation last season, pumped in 48 points in a losing effort. Darryl Funchess added 15, Eric Sink, a Livonia Bentley grad, had 11 and Vince Merriweather finished with 10.

On Saturday, Schoolcraft reversed things and won by a 103-87 margin over Kellogg Community College. Briggs sparked again, notching 38 points and dishing out 18 assists. Pat Martin, from Livonia Stevenson, contributed 21 points and 18 rebounds, with Merriweather (15), Funchess (14) and Sink (12) all reaching double figures in the scoring column.

Deduction increases for two-income families

WORKING COUPLES. Husbands and wives who work get greater relief from the marriage penalty starting this year. In general, 10 percent of the earnings of the lower-paid spouse can be excluded from taxation, to a top exclusion of $3,000. That can make it more worthwhile for a spouse to seek a job. If you run a business, it may pay to hire your spouse so that the family gets a tax break.

parents who, in order to work, must pay someone to watch a child under age 15 can get a tax credit for part of the cost — even if a relative is hired for the care. The credit offsets tax dollar for dollar, and, depending on your income, ranges from 20 to 30 percent of the cost — limited to your expenses of $2,400 for one child, $4,800 for two or more.

Another bonus from hiring your spouse: Long-term savings can be sheltered from tax through Individual Retirement Accounts and company-sponsored pension and profit-sharing plans.

GIFTS. A popular technique by which families save on taxes is for parents to shift cash for other income-producing assets to children in lower tax brackets. Earnings will then be lightly taxed, if at all. You avoid a gift tax by giving no more than $20,000 if you and finances and you

your spouse make the gift.

TRUSTS. Clifford Trusts shift assets to another family member for at least 10 years and a day, during which time the earnings go to the beneficiary. When the trust expires you get the assets back. Despite IRS objections, some doctors and others use trusts to shift property and equipment to children and then lease the items back.

LOANS. These are increasingly used in the place of outright gifts to shift income on interest-free loans among family members. The borrower gets free use of the money for investment, with the return taxed at his or her low tax rate. Many people use this tactic to build a nest egg for college tuition.

EXEMPTIONS. Keep an eye on earnings of dependents so that you don't inadvertently lose the $1,000 personal exemption you get for each of them. An exemption generally is lost if a dependent has gross income of $1,000 or more. But tax-exempt income from such things as municipal bonds or Social Security, is not counted. There is no cap on what your child can earn if he or she is under age 19 or is a full-time student.

SEMINAR: The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and I will conduct our next financial planning seminar Wednesday, Dec. 7, 1983, from 8-9:30 p.m. at the Michigan State University Management Education Center, Troy. Topics will include year-end tax planning, tax shelters, retirement and comprehensive planning. The seminar is free, but registration is required. For more details, call 643-8888.

Sid Mittra is president of Coordinated Financial Planning, Inc. in Troy and a professor of management at Oakland University in Rochester.

All airlines aren't equal — smaller may be stronger

I bought TWA stock a while back, and it has done nothing but go down since I bought it. I have read about a number of the airlines, and it seems like the bigger they are, the more trouble they are in and the less money they are making.

While my airline seems to be going to pot, I have a friend who bought stock in Comair, a small regional airline. It is reporting higher earnings every quarter. It seems to me that the bigger airlines should have some substantial advantages and should out-perform the smaller regional lines but that isn't happening.

Could you explain why so many of the small lines are doing so well while the big ones are going bankrupt?

There are several reasons why a number of the smaller airlines are doing better than a number of the giants. A lot of the trouble can be traced to the government.

We have always had people who feel that the laws of economics can be changed by government edict. This hit the airlines in the form of government regulation.

For a long period of time, the operation of the airlines was government regulated. The government told airlines

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investment Clubs where they could fly and how much they could charge.

THIS COMFORTABLE SYSTEM in effect gave airlines a lot of nice little monopolies. Without much competition, a lot of airlines didn't pay too much attention to their costs and they got out of line.

Various unions took advantage of this situation and ran the wages of many airline employees pretty high. In their comfortable position, most airlines didn't fight excessive union demands.

Like in the auto industry, they just raised the charge to the customer.

BUT UNDER THE leadership of President Carter, the government role in airline regulation was greatly reduced. In effect, any airline can now fly anywhere it wants and charge any price it wants.

Some of the old airlines are more efficient than others, and some new ones with special advantages have come into existence. A classic battle of the lean and efficient driving the fat and inefficient out of the market has been taking place.

Some of the older airlines are going out of business. Others are trying to cut costs and services enough so they can continue in business. Yours is one that is doing a lot of cutting.

In many cases, the older airlines have dropped service between cities where there is not a lot of volume. This has left that field open for some of the new lines.

THESE NEW LINES have several advantages. Often they wind up providing the only service to the cities they fly to. This means they have little competition and can set a good price for their service.

Look of the table accents dining out

Ethel Simmons
Staff writer

ENJOYING A GOOD meal in a restaurant is one of life's little — or sometimes big — pleasures. Much of the enjoyment, however, is subtly related to the surroundings, especially the look of the table.

Among metropolitan Detroit's most distinctive places to dine is the Restaurant Duglass, an expensive, lavishly decorated spot in an unassuming, small shopping center, behind Farrell's in Southfield.

Restaurateur Duglass Duglass (Douglas Gretch) spares no effort to make the table as enticing as the dishes he lovingly prepares.

The outspoken owner-chef said, "When I walk into a restaurant, the first thing I see are the table appointments. I will judge the restaurateur. I love the look of things, but if the food doesn't taste good, I'd be disappointed."

THE LITTLE touches aren't everything "added." Sometimes what's missing is just as important, for an uncluttered look. "Five years ago, when we opened, we were the only restaurant that had the audacity to bring salt and peppers," Duglass said. Today, salt and pepper shakers still do not start out on the table.

Duglass usually does keep the bread basket within arm's reach. "In Michigan, people want their bread immediately," he said.

Fresh flowers are one of the usual table appointments, both at lunch and dinner. Duglass likes to have them in colors of apricot and cream, displayed in a stemmed glass vase or cut low in a bowl, to be somewhat inconspicuous.

Glasses are very important with Duglass. The kinds of glasses on the table depends "on what kind of a deal I can make with the wholesale people," he said. He also likes to shop at places like Wells Fargo for good-quality glassware at bargain prices.

"I'm a glass freak. If I had my own way we would have a different glass for each drink," he said. According to Duglass, glasses should always be clear and usually simple. "I like stemware on the table," he said.

FOR SERVING cocktails, he prefers heavy-bottomed ones for rock-style glasses. "I like the sound of rocks when they tinkle." For beer glasses, he uses ones with a pattern called "La Femme." These are for men only to drink out of, however.

"Men like holding nude women," Duglass explained. Women, given the glasses, are offended, so they are served beer in a pilsner glass.

Customers who want to keep "La Femme" glasses have bought them from Duglass for $8 each.

Martinis are served "the way they are in the movies," Duglass said. "They're mixed in a glass decanter and poured in front of you. They're served in a traditional art-deco martini or on-the-rocks glass."

When Duglass first opened his restaurant, a block of marble was used on top of the table over the linen tablecloth. But the restaurateur found that people didn't like dining on marble, so he switched to all damask, at lunch and dinner.

AT RESTAURANT Duglass, napkins are a hefty handful. They are hand-pressed and steamed. "I can't stand a limp napkin," he said.

Duglass would like to set his tables with sterling silver but has made a concession to stainless steel. "When I first opened, I went through 240 services of silver the first year," he said. "They were all stolen. I guess everyone wanted a souvenir."

"I've gone to stainless steel and nobody notices anymore," he said matter-of-factly.

Grape arbor is recreated in this warm, romantic Fonte d'Amore Restaurant in Livonia. DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Most of the plates on the table are patterns designed by Villeroy & Boch. "I think they make the best. I like to use the colored plates with baskets and garnishes."

The liner, or service plate, is a basket-weave pattern appropriately called "Baskets." Every course is served on a dish of a different pattern. Soup arrives in a copper pot on the service table, and the waiter pours it into a Ming Rose bowl.

Appetizers and entrees may be served on a dish with an apricot band or blue-and-apricot flower design.

SAID DUGLASS, "One thing I don't believe in doing is matching — the same platter for all courses of the dinner. It's so boring."

The restaurant's all-silver coffee service was bought by Duglass two years ago "for a deal." Coffee cups are "demi-tasse and regular tasse," he said.

The entree plates, in the pattern Amapola, retail for $30 apiece, and Duglass buys them for about half that price. "You have to make a lot of money to pay for one of these," he said.

"In my personal opinion, I don't think the diner cares," he said, indicating that all this attention to detail may be more for his own standards than his customer's.

Duglass said there's a tremendous breakage of glassware. It's difficult to have fine-edged glass in the restaurant, although he shops around for it. He spoke of seeking a happy medium. "Libby isn't always the answer but it seems to be the most practical."

A DELICATE, small-stemmed glass he has been using to serve wine is unpopular with many customers. "People demand that it be removed. I bought a Libby white glass to put in its stead.

Attractive tables make a difference

That's the name of the game." Duglass is all for keeping the customers happy. "I'm not trying to impose my values on them," he insists.

In his cluttered office next to the kitchen, Duglass rummaged through his papers to come up with the startling figure on breakages: "Last year I allotted $15,000 in throwaway chic items like glasses, dishes and silver," he said.

IN ANOTHER part of metro Detroit, John Del Signore, who owns the Fonte d'Amore Restaurant in Livonia, talked about the many things he does to bring warmth to his customers' surroundings.

This Italian restaurant is in a setting that recreates some of the fond memories he has of his home in Italy, a town called Fonte d'Amore (Fountain of Love).

The food he serves — 30-40 percent of his customers order specialty items, rather than ordering off the menu — is presented in a hospitable though not elaborate setting.

Tables are topped with small blue-and-white checked tablecloths during the day, and white linen cloths are angled over the checked cloths at night. Candles in amber globes sit on brass bases on the tables. Paper napkins are replaced by linen ones for dinner.

An informal circular room resembles a grape arbor and reminds Del Signore of when he lived in Italy. "We had a grape arbor in our backyard. In the summer we picnicked there and played bocci ball."

HE SAID, "When I came to this country, my dream was to open a fine Italian restaurant. I wanted to put a little of my heart into it."

In the arbor room, the ceiling is hung with little lanterns, intertwined with grape vines. One wall is decorated with a mural of the mountains surrounding the town, and another wall shows a winemaker with wine barrels.

A fireplace wall separates the arbor from the main dining room, which is more formal and has a mural showing downtown Fonte d'Amore.

Diners can read on their placemat about the origin of the town's name. The ancient poet Ovid met a beautiful girl, whom he loved, at one of the springs in the village. Later, this spring became known as the Fountain of Love.

At the Fonte d'Amore Restaurant, many "gourmet dinners" are served, and this is when all stops are pulled out. "For a fancy party, we use silver, fine china and Waterford crystal," Del Signore said.

The expensive crystal sometimes gets broken by the customers, but Del Signore has a solution to this problem. "We tell the customer ahead, any crystal they break, be prepared to replace."

When the Fonte d'Amore opened 10 years ago, Del Signore's wife Lina designed the waitress' dress, copying the costume of the region from Italy. But the waitresses found this peasant costume, with its many parts, difficult to put on, so today they wear less complicated outfits.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?
A ratings guide to the movies

Bad . . . . .	$1
Fair . . . . .	$2
Good . . . . .	$3
Excellent . . . . .	$4

"My Fair Lady" (1964), 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday at the Redford Theatre, 17360 Lahser at Grand River, phone 537-2560, $2. Running time 170 minutes. Organ overture at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Little need be said about George Cukor's "My Fair Lady" other than to state the time and place of its latest screening, and to implore any moviegoer who hasn't seen the Lerner and Loewe musical to — by all means — see it. It's the best, and nearly the last, of the great American movie musicals of the post-war era. Rex Harrison, Audrey Hepburn, Wilfrid Hyde-White and Stanley Holloway star. Rating: $3.70.

"One, Two, Three" (1961), 2:15 Saturday night on Ch. 7. Originally 108 minutes. TV time slot: 130 minutes.

Billy Wilder, born in Austria, seems to be fighting the war all over again with this broadside against Germany and Europeans in general. James Cagney, in his last film for 20 years, stars as a Coca-Cola executive who runs his business with all the sensitivity of a Nazi commandant in charge of a prisoner of war camp. Arlene Francis, Horst Buchholz, Red Buttons and Pamela Tiffin take part in the humiliation. Rating: 98 cents.

"Rebel Without a Cause" (1955), 9 a.m. Sunday on Ch. 4. Originally 111 minutes. TV time slot: 150 minutes.

James Dean made three films for which he will be remembered: "East of Eden" (1955), "Rebel" and "Giant" (1956), in that order. Three films in two years, and moviegoers have been searching for "the next James Dean" ever since. They won't find him, though, because Dean belongs to the 1950s as surely as the Beatles belong to the '60s and "Annie Hall" to the '70s. It's just too bad Dean didn't make better movies, although "Rebel" is the best of the lot. Natalie Wood, Sal Mineo, Dennis Hopper, Nick Adams and Jim Backus co-star. Be sure to put the film in perspective or you'll find it unintentionally funny, and James Dean deserves better than that. Rating: $2.95.

"Tarzan the Ape Man" (1981), 9 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 2. Originally 112 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

To be blunt, this film has one thing to recommend it: No, not Bo Derek — Richard Harris, who turns in a bravura performance as Jane (Bo) Parker's demigod/wild-man father. Bo, of course, is awful, and her best parts are sure to be cut for TV. John Phillip Law and Miles O'Keefe (as Tarzan) co-star.

Rating: $1.85. To the reader: Most TV stations place a greater priority on selling ads than on showing films uncut. Starting today, this column will list the time slot in which movies on TV are to be shown. This will give viewers an indication of whether films will be cut to fit a restricted time frame or, conversely, whether viewers may expect a plethora of commercials to pad an overly long time slot. Please let us know if there are any other changes or additions you'd like to see in this column by writing Tom Panzenhagen, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Village hosts Victorian Santa

A Victorian Santa Claus will lead a cast of characters in traditional celebrations that capture the color of Christmas past Dec. 3-31 at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

In the 12-acre Henry Ford Museum, holiday visitors may meet character portrayals of St. Nick of the Victorian era, joined by his famous illustrator, cartoonist Thomas Nast. Clement Moore, author of "The Night Before Christmas," will be there too, as will Sarah Rorer, food editor of the Ladies Home Journal during the 1890s, to offer insight on the proper Christmas feast.

Special Yuletide foods, singers and performances on antique musical instruments will provide a festival atmosphere throughout the museum's great hall.

Musical pair covers Gay '90s, Roaring '20s

The team of Bolcom and Morris, specialists in Gay '90s and Roaring '20s songs, will perform a benefit concert for the Schoolcraft College music department at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20, in the Marquis Theater in downtown Northville.

The husband-wife team consists of mezzo-soprano Joan Morris and pianist-arranger William Bolcom. He is on the music faculty of the University of Michigan. They have toured the continent and made nine records for RCA, Philips and Nonesuch.

Tickets are tax deductible, and proceeds will be used for student scholarships and faculty improvement, according to Bradley Bloom, assistant dean for fine arts.

General admission is $10. Students and senior citizens tickets are $5. Checks should be made payable to Schoolcraft College. Tickets may be purchased at the campus bookstore or at the door.

THE DUO is known for the elegance and style they bring to songs which have been rescued from potboiler status.

One of their best selling records is "After the Ball: A Treasury of Turn-of-the-Century Popular Songs." It includes "A Bird in a Gilded Cage," "Banks of the Wabash," "Rings on My Fingers," "Meet Me in St. Louis, Louis" and the tear-jerking "Those Wedding Bells Shall Not Ring Out."

Other albums feature songs of the Civil War era, vaudeville and the music of Eubie Blake.

More recent releases are songs of George Gershwin, Jerome Kern, Rogers and Hart, and Irving Berlin.

BOLCOM, A native of Seattle, has a doctorate from Stanford, studied composition with Darius Milhaud and has had commissions to compose for the New York Philharmonic.

Since 1973 he has been on the U-M faculty, recently winning the prestigious Henry Russel award.

Morris, a native of Portland, Ore., has appeared off-Broadway in "The Drunkard and won many prizes.

Together Bolcom and Morris have taught amateur classes in American popular song history and literature at colleges and music festivals throughout the U.S. They have appeared on the Dick Cavett show and packed New York's Carnegie Hall.

BLOOM SAID their appearance is the first of nine programs Schoolcraft will offer in the Marquis Theater.

The next will be Dec. 4, when Bloom conducts the Schoolcraft College Choirs. The Dec. 11 program will be SCool Jazz, the vocal jazz ensemble.

The event is made possible through the support of the Louise Thayer Bryan Endowment Fund

Mezzo-soprano Joan Morris and pianist William Bolcom will star in a benefit concert for Schoolcraft College's Music Department.

City orchestra receives much-deserved praise

By Avigdor Zoromp
Special writer

With the latest program of Renaissance Concerts at Orchestra Hall last week, the audience was treated to some rare acoustical sounds which this unique place is capable of producing. This was the fourth concert in the 16-concert series.

The Renaissance Chamber Orchestra has come a long way since its inception some three years ago. Its members are top rate musicians from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. But it took some time to develop the well-integrated, coordinated, intimate sound that is so apparent this season.

On this occasion, this group was joined by organist David Heinzman for the first half of the program. Heinzman, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the music director of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, performed on a Rodgers Pipe-augmented Electronic Organ.

The sound of this instrument, in the capable hands of Heinzman, had a rare quality of resounding authenticity.

The first work on the program, the Adagio for Organ and Strings by Albini, is a familiar piece. But in this performance it had new dimensions unparalleled in most of its numerous recordings. Beyond the customary pleasant harmony it reverberated with greatness.

THIS WAS followed by "Passacaglia" by Oskar Merikanto, a Finnish composer (1868-1924). While this composer is rather obscure outside his native country, this work projected some rare, profound writing for the instrument by a mortal. (In this context, Bach is understood to be immortal.)

The saturated organ sounds filled the hall, causing physical vibrations that could be felt by all parts of the body.

The next selection consisted of four short organ sonatas by Mozart. If one tends to take Mozart's style for granted, these pieces sounded different from any of his better-known works.

It seems that no matter how long one is exposed to Mozart's music, there are always new dimensions and nuances to be discovered.

The second part of the program consisted of the Rondo In A Major for Violin and Strings by Schubert and the "Holberg Suite" by Grieg.

The soloist in the Schubert piece was Ronald Fischer, also a member of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. While Schubert never wrote a concerto for a solo instrument, this composition comes closest to that form. This performance underscored the depth and beauty of this neglected piece.

THE HOLBERG Suite provided the opportunity to focus on the Renaissance City Chamber Orchestra without other distractions. This turned out to be a most rewarding listening.

Grieg isn't regarded as a major composer (his only major composition is in A minor), but this composition sounded

review

eventful and impressive.

This work, a tribute to the Norwegian dramatist Ludvig Holberg, born in 1684, features Grieg's best-known attempt at Baroque style. The ancient dance forms were authentically presented, concluding with the lively, stimulating Rigaudon.

The string orchestra deserves high praise and acclaim for this performance. This is not due to some duty to support local musicians. Inferior performers deserve nothing, local or otherwise. But this group is truly good.

Try getting lost in your art work

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

In most people there is a built-in gyro or sense of direction — in most people.

Remember when you were a kid? There was a toy gyro on which you pulled a string and it would spin so fast that it would balance on anything? Well, I have a problem getting lost when driving. So I either do not have a built in gyro or someone forgot to pull the string.

If we go to visit someone in a subdivision, by the end of the visit I couldn't guess the way out to the nearest main street. When my wife and I get into the car to leave, there is an awesome silence as she waits for me to swallow my pride and ask for directions.

If, however, she offers the information immediately, I say, "Oh, yeah, I know... isn't it that way?"

Getting lost has its advantages. Sometimes I will come home and say "Honey, I saw the prettiest street today." So if only for seeing new sights, the long way home is worthwhile.

IN THE COURSE of a work of art it is very common to get lost. A simple break in concentration or the slightest interruption can cause you to make a wrong turn.

Upon their first awareness, most people just do a little more shading, add a few more lines or blend in a little more color, and then they are totally lost. In my analogy of driving in a suburb, I do better to stop and think when I feel I am getting lost. Sometimes I have to go back where I started, but most of the time I just alter my course.

So it is in art work: Some times when getting lost you have to start over, but most of the time you need only alter your course.

A mistake is not the end of the road, just a bend in the road. My hope is that my students learn that most pieces of art have within them some mistakes. Mistakes are opportunities to change or learn.

I remember once I was showing a student how to use felt tip pens. I grabbed a piece of tracing paper and did a quick pencil sketch of an osprey. I was kind of impressed myself with the way it was turning out. Then I said (with a hint of pride), "Now I am going to add in some black."

Well, "some" black became "much" black, because when I pulled the cap off, the whole inside of the pen came out and a four-inch piece of black felt rolled over the entire drawing. My throbbing red face betrayed my calm voice as I said, "Well, now we have to fix that."

I was surprised and the students even stopped giggling when I discovered that a light "blue O" felt tip completely erased the black from the tracing paper. That technique and that particular picture won me the favor of Pantone, Letraset and Bainbridge, who sponsored me that year, as they used my felt tip drawings on tracing paper to promote their products across the United States.

That "bend in the road" led me to a very exciting time in my life.

WITH ABOUT 200 students weekly I have the opportunity to view about 100 mistakes weekly. Many side trips from the courses I had intended. But most are successful regardless of whether they fit the lesson plan.

There is never a reason to have a temper fit and throw away a piece of work.

Let's say you are trying to paint a horse and you can't even seem to get it drawn right. If the body of the horse is OK but the head looks like a moose, you must correct it before you throw it away or go any further.

Simply lay a fresh piece of tracing paper over your drawing and trace all the good parts of your sketch. Now remove your original and work only on the tracing paper. The many ghost images and eraser marks on the original have a negative psychological effect on you, so it is good to transfer the best of your drawing and work again on those parts that are giving you a hard time.

But that didn't work. So I told him to paint the area with gouache. When the gouache dried it seemed irregular, so I said, "Here, just streak a little charcoal across the area and rub it in."

When he did that it looked worse, so I erased the charcoal and when I did, the gouache popped off, revealing four other attempts. Finally, Dave and I added pastel over the problem area and worked pastel into other areas to carry it through the picture.

When I came back to see the results, I said, "that's beautiful, Dave."

THE WORST TIME to fix a mistake is when it happens. Usually you are too upset and failure rises like a consuming fire. (I think that is why we break out in a sweat.)

Some students think that professionals don't make mistakes. Of course they do. But what makes them a pro is that they know how to capitalize and use the mistake to actually make the rendering better.

I am always appreciative of a good sign painter. Jim is the sign painter for our store. Once a drip of paint shot off his brush and onto the almost-completed sign. I broke out in a sweat for Jim, who remained mysteriously cool.

He finished lettering the whole sign, then painted a star or sparkle over the drip. He carefully placed a few more sparkles here and there to tie in to the rest of the sign. Jim is a pro and I am his student in sign painting.

That drip would have been the end of my trip and I would have thrown away the whole sign. But to Jim it was merely a bend in the road. As a matter of fact the customer, when picking up the sign, said, "hey, I love the sparkles."

The pieces fall together for puzzle-making sisters

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

Operating their own business is child's play for Pat Smith and Emmy Caverly.

As the founders and only employees of their venture, Cellar Workshops, the two sisters happily — and successfully — have been making original wooden puzzles for youngsters for 1½ years.

The puzzles are designed to challenge as well as entertain pre-school children, said Smith and Caverly, who have 10 grandchildren between them.

"Our idea is play time," said Caverly, a Southfield resident. "The puzzles will give lots and lots of play time to the kids."

BOTH SMITH and Caverly design and manufacture the puzzles in the basements of their homes, which led them to name their business "Cellar Workshops." Smith warns a visitor that she doesn't always hear the phone because "band saws and sanders make a lot of noise."

A managerie of puzzle pieces covered a table in Smith's Livonia home recently as Smith and Caverly described their unusual works to a visitor. The scene reminded one of Santa's workshop.

The sisters' puzzles come in all shapes and sizes. Each lightweight piece, carved from smooth, hard basswood and colored brightly with non-toxic paints, stands up on its own and could be a toy in itself.

"The child can use his own imagination," Caverly said. "They're for imaginative play. A lot of children will take the shapes and line them up and push them along like a train. Whatever strikes their fancy."

SEVERAL OF the puzzles fit into a round frame and can be hung on the wall in a child's room. Others are made up of blocks that can be formed into several different pictures.

One puzzle, called "The Balancing Clowns," fits into a round frame, but the clown pieces out of the frame can be balanced on each other in unlimited arrangements. The shapes of another puzzle-in-the-round create a little Nativity scene. Still another puzzle, "Christmas Tree Surprise," is painted on two sides: one forming a decorated tree, the other a pile of toys.

The "Table for Two" design forms a puzzle measuring six inches square, or its figures can "sit up" at the table. The fish shapes in another puzzle can be "hooked" on a string. Pieces in the "Littletown, U.S.A." puzzle resemble town buildings.

Each puzzle starts from an original, copyrighted design by Smith, who majored in art at the University of Michigan, or Caverly, who is a beginning art student.

Smith and Caverly do all the work, from cutting, planing and sanding the wood to making the boxes for the puzzles that aren't framed. The puzzles contain between five and nine pieces, depicting almost everything from animals to prehistoric creatures.

"The design is just hours of drawing," Smith said. "For the 'From the Zoo' puzzle, I bet I drew 100 animals before I got enough to work together properly."

SMITH AND Caverly make the puzzles for children between the ages of 2 and 7. They often try the works out on their own grandchildren.

"They're geared to the preschool child," Smith said. "They'll all enjoy any one of these puzzles."

"You get from five to eight or nine pieces in each puzzle that you get," Caverly said. "And they're not difficult, so the little ones don't get frustrated."

"When children see our puzzles at fairs, their mothers say, 'Don't touch,'" she continued. "But we say, 'No, they can't hurt them.'"

THE SISTERS are proud of the fact that their puzzles are handmade.

"The idea is that they're brightly colored," Smith said. "Very few people paint their puzzles."

Costs for most of the puzzles range from $12 to $20, with two designs priced at $30 and $50. They are sold at fairs and at area stores, including Country Peddler at Livonia Mall and Handcrafters Unlimited in Northville.

In addition, Smith and Caverly have some puzzles in stock and fill orders. For information call Smith at 425-1291, or write Cellar Workshops, 28256 Elmira, Livonia 48150.

"There has been a great response," Caverly said. "We've heard people say, 'Oh, here's the puzzles we saw at the fair.' We've heard real good comments from school teachers."

"They just think they're wonderful," Smith added. "And the child doesn't know they're learning while they play."

The sisters started the business as something to do after their children were grown. The two always looked for toys that would stimulate their youngsters' imagination, they said.

"We find ourselves looking for the same things for our grandchildren," Smith said.

"I still have all the puzzles we ever had," Caverly said.

Getting lost in your work

Mistakes in pen and ink usually can be hidden with cross hatching. If you are using a technical pen or a quill pen, the ink can be picked off with a razor knife. A mistake in colored pencil is easy to erase and the erasing actually increases tooth in the area to receive more colored pencil.

In stipple with black ink you can effectively hide a mistake by stippling with white ink. A problem area with oil pastels is easily removed by scraping the area with a flat razor blade, then reworking the area.

In scratch board there are two common mistakes. The first is too much scratching, so much so that the area becomes too white or too light. Simply repair this by using a technical pen and adding in black fine lines to match the stroke of your scratch point.

The second common mistake is scratching too deep. When this happens your point goes through the ink coating and also through the white clay layer and ruffs up the paper underneath. This is unnoticed at the time, but as you scratch ink off other areas the ink dust gets lodged into these ruff areas and makes the art work look dirty.

Wait until you are finished with the drawing, then erase these "dirty" areas with a kneaded eraser. Now spray it with a fixatif and you will see the whites stay white and the blacks turn shiny black.

Since there are so many possible mistakes and so many possible corrections, let's add a new section to Artifacts. We'll call it "The Circular File."

So before you put your picture into the circular file, write to "The Circular File" and I will print the answer or correction and I promise I won't say who mailed in the question.

Please don't throw away your picture. I am sure I can help.

ASK

Q. I'm thinking of selling my home, how will I know how much it's worth? Mr. Z., Plymouth, MI

A. The true measure of value is what a knowledgeable buyer will pay for your home. Buyers react to location, style, condition, price and terms. They select by comparison shopping. Style and location are predetermined factors and we cannot change them. However we are able to make properties more attractive to buyers by improving the condition of them and pricing them competitively with the best terms possible. It is extremely important to price your home competitively and this can be accomplished by an experienced Realtor who will show you what values are being asked on other homes in the area. This will enable you to know your competition. The sold properties are even more important because they indicate what a ready, willing, and able buyer will pay for your home, in your area at this time.

This evaluation is called a "Competitive Market Analysis" or simply an appraisal.

When we market a home, we must sell it TWICE, first we sell it to the salespeople who are not misled by inflated prices. Secondly we sell it to the buyer who is a comparison shopper and has a number of homes from which to select.

Thinking of selling your home? Market yours with Gail Hodge & Tony Garrisi by and deal with "Michigan's Largest Real Estate Company." We offer Equity Advances, Trades, and Nationwide Relocation as just a few of our many services.

Readers may address their Real Estate questions to Gail or Tony by writing c/o Real Estate One, 35015 Ford Road, Westland, MI 48185. All questions will be answered. (Need an immediate reply? - Then call 326-2000).
