Officials project what's in store for 1984

City will attempt to 'hold the line'

staff writer

A "leveling off" of taxes and $6 million worth of construction - about double that of last year - makes predictions for the city of Plymouth seem promising in 1984.

Taxes should remain fairly stable, with a possible slight increase if property values increase and if the cost of rubbish pickup increases, said City Manager Henry Graper.

"If we can hold the line and not increase taxes, we're not going to. That's what the city commission has asked us," Graper said. "I don't think we'll see an increase. We're not projecting it but we can't tell until April.'

A St. Joseph medical facility, a Ford Hospital medical clinic, a shopping center on Main Street and condominiums on Ann Arbor Trail are some of the new construction projects slated in 1984, he said.

This year, permits for construction projects valued at $3.5 million were requested while the number in 1984 should be $5 or $6 million, Graper said, attributing the increase to the upswing

Officials from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools make their predictions for 1984 on page 4A of today's Observer.

Some of the major construction projects are expected to create between 75 and 100 new jobs in the city, Graper said, with possibility of as many 150

Though Graper said 1984 will be the "year of big projects," he added that changes for the next few years may more likely be minor.

"We're not going to see as many major changes as in the past three or four years," he said. "We've seen a lot of buildings remodeled but there is not that much more that needs to be done."

CITY MERCHANTS also should see more prosperous times in the coming

"Merchants will see a better year than last year. It may take another year before they see what they want, though," Graper said.

And even though the economy is looking better, the city manager said, most of the merchants probably have learned to work with fewer employed

"People may not hire back just be-cause things are better." The proposal to combine the police and fire department into one public safety department still is being studied, Graper said, and city difficials must have further talks with the labor unions, having met with them only for interesting the state of the same state.

'preliminary discussions" so far. By June we will have it to the point where the city commission will be discussing it," Graper said.

Holiday drinkers avoid roads staff writer

Wide publication, sobering penalities and intensified campaigns to keep drinkers out of the driver's seat have had a strong effect on drunk drivers during the holiday weekends.

Even though area statistics haven't plummeted, drivers are thinking twice before having one for the road, according to local police officers.

"There's been a lot of publicity when people are watchng TV and reading the newspapers so that when they're drinking at a bar at 2 a.m. they're slowing down and eating more," according to Plymouth police officer Bob Henry, who coordinates the drunk driving task force for Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Northville and Northville Township.

During the Christmas and New Year weekends in 1983 there was only one alcohol-related property damage accident and one personal injury accident in Plymouth and Plymouth Township compared to two in each category in paign, and I think it's having an effect," people drinking the same amount, but I Henry said. "People are becoming think they're cutting themselves off more aware that there is a problem, and that's because of the publicity."

PART OF the decline is due to a recent surge in drunk driving arrests, Henry said.

Since the Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township drunk driving task force began in October 1983 there have been 47 drunk driving arrests. This shows an increase of between 20-25 percent during the same time period in 1982.

Department officers, who are paid overtime from a federally funded grant specifically to weed out drunk drivers from the road, have been effective in curbing the problem, Henry

"This made people watch what they were doing, and the ones that have the problem to stay at home," Henry said. think they're cutting themselves off when they're thinking about driving

"Once the push is gone people may go back to start drinking and driving, but maybe it will continue like this." he

Canton Township police officers wrote one ticket to a drunk driver during the Christmas and New Year weekends, while Plymouth and Plymouth Township officers arrested three during the same time period.

The drunk driving arrest rate around the holidays is usually lower than other times of the year, according to Canton Township Sgt. Alex Wilson.

"Some police departments have a 'take them home policy,'" he said.
"This year Canton officers tried to give them a ride, time permitting."

A PACKAGE of stricter drunk driving laws that went into effect in April

Henry agreed that officers don't ar-

"A lot of times officers stop drivers and call a cab or friend," he said. "They don't make the arrest in every case during the holiday weekends."

There were 99 traffic accidents during December 1983 compared to 72 accidents in December 1982. Snow and icy roads in 1983 created more hazardous driving conditions than the relatively mild weather conditions the previous year. Even though there were more accidents in Plymouth and Plymouth Township during December 1983 than for the same time the previous year, the drunk driver portion was down, Henry said.

"Since I have to go to the families and say, 'Your wife or son was killed in an accident by a drunk driver,' from my point of view the (changes) are long in coming," Henry said.

The LCC (Liquor Control Commission) 1983 has been effective in deterring the says there are the same numbers of drinker from driving, Wilson said. "There has been a nationwide camegislature extends tax relief act We'd go in and ask: 'Has it created new jobs; have we actually retained jobs that would have left the state and how much is it costing?' They couldn't answer that," he said. "How do we measure what we've been doing if it's been effective?"

More development in township's future

staff writer

A stable but substantial amount of economic development appears to be lying ahead for Plymouth Township in the coming year.

"I expect 1984 to be as good or better then 1983," said township Supervisor Maurice Breen.

Breen said commercial development for the township was worth about $7.5 for business," he said. "But we haven't went out and sought businesses." has "plans on the books for about the same for 1984.

Just when consumers thought they had figured out all the changes in phone service, the Plymouth City Commission made a change of its own - however this change won't affect rates or service.

The commission approved an amendment to the city code Tuesday night which addresses harassing phone calls. The change was sought by the police department to aid in the prosecution of prank or threatening callers.

Although the changes in the code's wording were minor, Police Chief Ralph White said the admendment has been needed for some time.

The admendment, effective Jan. 25, will allow police to prosecute a harassing caller after the first call - rather than waiting until the second call.

"There have been a lot of cases where there has been only one call. Even though the caller could be identified, we couldn't do anything because there was only one call," White said. The admendment also broadens the scope of threats which are illegal to include calls made "for the purpose of harassing or molesting or family, or their property." Threats to personal property weren't included in the original wording.

Violation of the ordinance calls for a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine.

IN ADDITION TO THE phone admendment, the commission has been asked to consider three more code changes to aid the police department. The commission is expected to act in the near future on requests to prohibit vendors from using parks and public grounds for setting up displays, prohibit groups from demonstrating or parading in the city without authorization from the commission or city manager, and to prohibit street vendors from using vacant property for selling goods.

Those admendments have been requested because of past problems with vendors, and problems with groups using public areas for dem-onstrations. The proposed changes would give police a freer hand in dealing with the problems if they arise in the future, City Manager Henry Graper said.

A mission dealing with life's downtrodden

By Carol Azizian staff writer

RESSED IN his Sunday best, a worn-out brown polyester suit and flowered shirt, Don Williams quietly enters the

As the paster evangelizes in a Jamaican accent, Williams and his skid-row buddles shout, "Jesus is the best friend I have. Amen." They greet each other smiling and break out in a rousing chorus of "Silent Night."

Every morning, the 70 ex-convicts, former drug addicts, dope pushers and reformed alcoholics who live in the Detroit Rescue Mission shower and shave, eat breakfast and attend church services together.

Then they go to work, as janitors, cooks, carpenters, security guards, dishwashers, handymen.

Some believe divine guidance led them to the mission and consider themselves disciples. They preach the gospel on street corners and in "bread lines." Others aren't quite sure how they ended up there. They just know it's a place to get a blanket, a hot meal and a warm bed.

FOUNDED 75 years ago by the Rev. D.C. Stucky, the mission is located in a modest old building in the heart of Detroit's-Cass Corridor. A neon sign with the message, "Christ died for our sins," blinks brightly in the entrance.

Displays of confiscated weapons — sickles, baseball bats, broken wine bottles. — and drugs and alcohol substitutes such as Sterno, Aqua Velva and denatured alcohol serve as haunting reminders to residents who have made a decision to lead a new life.

A painting of a bread line with Christ in the middle with vagrants on both sides is an inspiration to many who walk in for the first time. "Christ died for the ungodly" is the message displayed across the top of the picture.

This mission is an oasis in the middle of a vast spiritual desert for many who come there seeking a way out.

"I was sent here through the spirit of God," said an exuberant Williams. "I was high, intoxicated. Something told me: Don, come here."

The 29-year-old former drug addict took his first step toward rehabilitation five months ago. It's been a dramatic change from his previous lifestyle.

"My life in the streets was doing everything — drugs, alcohol. I hurt people and myself. I didn't care about nothin' or nobody.

"I was tired of being that way. But it wasn't really me. It was the drugs and alcohol makin' me that way."

After sending his wife and son back to her hometown in Toledo, Williams felt lonely. Not knowing where to turn, he began to pray.

he began to pray.

"I used to read the Bible a lot and get a good feeling from it. But I wasn't happy. There was somethin' missin'. It was gettin' to know Jesus Christ as my sayior.

"Then, one day as the preacher was preachin', I started thinkin' about it. I was waitin' on this beautiful feelin' to come. I went up to the altar and the reverend prayed with me. This light showed up — not where you could see it, but it was like in a dream.:::

"I was out there gettin high just for that feelin'. But this was a natural high.

SINCE THAT experience, Williams has spent every day reading the Bible and preaching the gospel to neighborhood junkees, friends and vagrants who walk into the mission. Not everyone receives the message as gladly as he did. God's gifts is free," he proclaims. "You don't have to spend a dime for them. You can be rich and have all the things in the world, but you need the love that Jesus gave us.

"I go out in the streets and witness to my so-called friends. They still gettin' high. I tell them I'm saved. My high is Jesus. Their mind be blown. I ask them, 'How do you feel about your life? Do you see any future financially in this? Then I go to preachin'."

Then I go to preachin! When he's not preaching, Williams cooks and cleans in the mission kitchen.

'My life in the streets was doing everything — drugs, alcohol. I hurt people and myself, I didn't care about nothin' or nobody. I was tired of being that way. But it wasn't really me. It was the drugs and the alcohol makin' me that way.'

— Don Williams

He says he'll stay there as long as "God wants me to."

Unlike Williams, Steve Blair wasn't down and out when he entered the mission.

A Vietnam veteran, the 29-year-old Florida resident had kicked a $250 a day cocaine habit three years ago through an army rehabilitation program.

Last year, after being discharged from the army, he got a job driving a semi-truck. While visiting his fiance in Imlay City a couple of months ago, Blair broke off the engagement.

"I decided to hitchhike back to Flori-

"I decided to hitchfike back to Florida, and the state police found me half-frozen on the road," Blair recalled. "They took me to Detroit Receiving and the social worker sent me here (to the mission).

"When I got here, I listened to one of the ministers and rededicated my life to the Lord. I feel He has me here for a purpose."

Although he grew up in a Christian home (his stepfather was a minister), Blair turned away from religion when he was drafted into the army.

"People don't really understand what we went through," he said. "I tell them how they (the North Vietnamese) tried to beat and starve us. I still have scars on my back and chest. To survive, you had to eat seaweed soup, rice and water. I was 240 pounds when I went in and 145 when I got out.

"Once, they put me in the heat box (a 6-foot by 6-foot steel box that gets as hot as 130 degrees) for two days straight because I refused to give them any information.

"Through it all, I never knew the Lord. I regret now that I never listened to my stepfather."

By praying daily and working out his problems with friends and ministers at the mission, Blair remains optimistic about his future.

He draws his inspiration from David Wilkerson, an evangelist who ministered to street gangs in New York during the late 1960s. Tremember a story about Nicki summer camp Cruz (leader of a New York gang) telling David, Wilkerson he was going to cut him into a thousand little pieces. formed drug a Wilkerson said 'Go ahead, every piece former convic

WILLIAMS AND Blair are among the numerous residents and transients who have received help over the years from devoted staff members.

But staffers such as Bill Chapel of Birmingham, who give many hours of their time, also receive tremendous rewards.

Chapel discovered the mission two years ago after making a decision to practice what he preached.

A member of the Grace Evangelical Free Church which meets at The Community House in Birmingham, Chapel had studied Bible teachings with his pastor for years.

pastor for years.
"I thought it was time for something more than just reading the word," said the Birmingham resident. "I wanted to be a doer of the word."

So he volunteered at the Detroit Rescue Mission in the heart of the Cass Corridor.

Chapel got hooked on the place. Last February, he sold his business interests and went to work full time at the Rescue Mission.

Formerly a salesman for a Mount Clemens company (he was vice president of Jansply, which distributes cleaning supplies to hospitals), he now solicits donations from corporations for the mission.

TRAVELING with a slide projector in hand, Chapel takes his message on the road. He tells Detroit-area executives about the mission's three ministries: a residential substance and alcohol abuse center in Cass Corridor, a halfway house for prisoners in the old Scripps mansion on Trumbull and a summer camp for inner city children in

During the slide presentation, reformed drug addicts and alcoholics and former convicts give their testimonies on tape. A touching song, "Shelter of Love," written by Chapel's wife, who is a former country music singer and consurates plays in the bear second

It's all designed to show the mission's good work and graphically illustrate the need for continued financial support support, "We get support from foundations and churches throughout the area to help meet our $1.2 million annual budget," Chapel explained. "The U.S. Department of Agriculture and large corporations send us food.

"But we have a lot of expenses. We pay $140 a day just to heat the (Cass Corridor) mission. And, we serve 9,000 meals a month."

The mission also provides permanent shelter for nearly 70 vagrants and distributes clothes to needy people in the Detroit area.

Although raising money for the mission is Chapel's chief responsibility, his biggest reward comes from counseling residents of the facility.

"THERE WAS a man who had been in Jackson prison for seven years on armed robbery and drug dealing charges," Chapel recalled. "When he first came to the mission,

"When he first came to the mission, he lay down in the back of the chapel for three weeks. He was (suffering from) withdrawals and said to me, 'I'll either live or die here.'

"He heard chapel services every day and accepted Jesus as his savior. Once a week, I would counsel him.

a week, I would counsel him.

"Now, he's an evangelist. He talks to kids in the projects and takes them to basketball games. He's even witnessed to some leaders of Young Boys Inc."

Planning for the mission's future is another project Chapel has undertaken.

Every week, hundreds of people who live in the Cass Corridor seek refuge and enjoy a free lunch at the Detroit Rescue Mission. A painting of Christ in a bread line serves as a reminder to vagrants that they, too, are worthy of being helped.

-Schools see good year

Extension and maintenance of current programs, rather than changes, are what officials of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools plan for 1994.

"It may not be a matter of things that are brand-spanking new, but a continuation of those things that have been successful and have had an effect on the school district, and Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

The curriculum constantly is being updated, Homes said, and the questions, Is it as relevant as it can be? and is it providing the necessary skills? are being asked.

Standards and requirements for high school grad-uation also are being looked at for possible revi-

"We haven't found the answers yet, but I think it's significant we're looking at the questions," he

Computer education is another area that needs to be expanded, he said, adding that student training is "nominal."

"We have to find a way to get kids more into computer education. We need to increase the time kids can interact with computers as a learning

PROVIDING THIS additional education may be a difficult task for the school district however, for, as Homes said, some of the most overcrowded classes are in the high school computer labs.

"The overcrowding is going to have an effect on the nature of the education kids get. It does make a difference." he said.

Although recommendations from recent national reports on education are being looked at, Homes said the district is using a "close, analytical approach" when changes are considered.

"We feel we compare fairly well with other school districts in the state and with the recommendations in the reports," he said.

Plymouth-Canton students compare "very favorably" in reading, generally scoring in the mid to upper 80th percentile in statewide tests of fourth, seventh and 10th graders, he said.

However, Trustee Tom Yack said there will be a greater emphasis on writing skills in the classroom, the possibility of receiving a tax abatement as reasons for them locating in the area.

"For some businesses that applied for it, tax abatement was 15th on their list," he said, "and they got it."

Aware of the study to be made, Plymouth City Commissioners and administrators hope to meet with state lawmakers soon to tell them about the advantages Act 255 has had on the city.

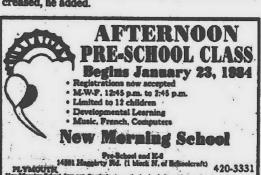

Law said the abatements now are costing the state about $150 million through the school aid for-mula. Money for the school districts now is being partially supplied by the state's general fund be-cause the abatements eliminate some of the money usually collected through property taxes.

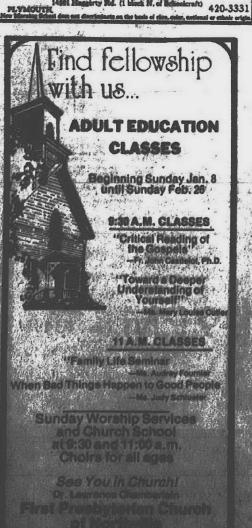

ANOTHER QUESTION with the effectiveness of the abatements is whether they actually are creating more jobs in Michigan.

The question being asked is, 'are we, in fact, just shifting jobs from one area to another?'," he said. Law said the committee will be working for the next year, studying various abatement programs and deciding if they should be kept intact, combined with another act or eliminated.

"If the conclusion is it's not successful for the money it is costing . . . maybe tax abatements as we know them won't exist," he said.

"My gut feeling is that I don't think they're going drop the whole abatement program," he said. However, restrictions on recipients could be increased, he added.

It is the faculty, Yack added, that needs to become move involved in the objectives and "goalsetting" of his school district.

The shalf knows better than anybody the areas of the curriculum that need to be evaluated and maybe even revised," he said.

It is not only curriculum improvement, though, that is being sought. Teacher training programs to improve classroom management and increase communication between teachers, parents, administrators and students are in their third year and will continue to be important, Homes said.

"Demands on teachers aren't going to decrease; they're going to increase and we've got to be ready for that," he said.

TO HEIGHTEN what may be low morale among teachers because of the recent strike, Yack said a staff morale subcommittee has been "trying to identify what creates job satisfaction and change the areas we have control over."

His biggest goal, he said, is to get a general agreement between all elements of the district to make a "renewed effort for excellence in educa-

And Yack is optimistic about the situation. "We've got a good school district, we've got a good staff, and we've got a good idea of where we're going," Yack said.

And while optimism about programming and staffing may be running high in the district, funding for the schools is still uncertain, although that also, seems positive.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent of business, said the district will be "maintaining close to a $1.4-million balance which will be good going into the 84-85 school year budget."

For the following year, however, "uncertainties

District officials still are waiting to see what Gov. Blanchard has to say in his January State of the State address.

How they beat 'math anxiety'

The signs are familiar to many students: The heart starts beating faster, perspiration increases, there is a feeling of being flushed, hands start shaking, muscles become tense, lightheadas and stomach cramps - and even blurred vision — occur.

These are the classic signs of mathematics anxiety — signs that faculty and staff at the University of Michigan-Dearborn are helping students over-

A recent joint effort by the departments of mathematics and human services resulted in a month-long work-shop for 20 students in mathematics.

Helen Santiz, lecturer in mathematics, and Robert Funaro, staff counselor, conducted the group-oriented workshop twice a week to help students develop PARTICIPANTS — 70 percent women — learned to evaluate physical and psychological reactions and also learned total relaxation techniques.

According to Funaro, "Fears of advancement in mathematics ceased, and they were able to move on." In addition, "everyone has sought some level of continued help," the counselor said.

Many factors contributed to the anxiety that these students experience when they face mathematical tasks, he said. For many, this problem developed as early as the first or second grade. because the student had to solve a problem in front of the class. Feeling procedures for recognizing and over-coming math anxiety. front of peers or was disciplined by a teacher for not answering correctly.

Other factors Funaro mentions as affecting one's approach to this kind of stress are early math teaching techniques and stereotypes — the idea that math is for boys, that men are logical and have mathematical minds.

Asks Funaro: "Is it any wonder that so many math anxiety sufferers are re-turning women students or returning men students who never quite met the stereotypical expectations?

WHAT SHOULD students do when they are faced with this problem? Funaro advises:

· Admit there really is a problem. • Learn self-management skills in order to act as calmly as possible under the stress.

· Learn how to strengthen one's belief in oneself and how to develop mathematical skills.

To overcome any form of destructive anxiety, Funaro suggests, "Alter your equipment" — that is, eat right and exequipment" — that is, eat right and exercise regularly. Alter your response to stress by seeking professional counseling. Accept responsibility for managing your own life. Learn to plan and set goals, schedule study time regularly, learn to stop prograstinating and build in time to play.

More math anxiety workshops are planned but in the meantime, students are advised to be "actively patient"

Grants offered

Time still remains to apply for scholarships being offered by the Rotary Club of Plymouth.

Candidates for the Rotary Foundation scholarships will be interviewed this month by the local club's International Scholarship Committee, according to chairman William R. Robinson.

The five types of grants available are graduate scholarships, undergraduate scholarships, vocational scholarships, teacher of the handicapped scholarships, journalism scholarships.

The grants allow the recipients to study aboard for one academic year, usually nine months.

A scholarship may be used for almost any field of study but it cannot be used by a person intending to do unsupervised research, or by a medical intern or resident.

Vocational scholars are not permitted to use the scholarship for apprenticeship programs in the host country, and a teacher of the handicapped will not be permitted to teach on a full-time basis in the host country.

The graduate scholarship is for those who will have earned a bachelor's degree or its equivalent before the commencement of scholarship.

Undergraduate at those who are stad those who are studying at the university level but who will not have carned their degree before commencement of the scholarship studies. Recipients may be between ages 18-24 as of March 1. Vocational scholarships are for those who have been employed or engaged full time in a vocation for at least two years as of the applica-tion deadline. Recipients may be ages 21-50.

Teacher of the handicapped scholarships are for those who have been employed as a full-time teacher of physically, mentally or emotionally handicapped persons for at least two years and between the ages of Journalism grants are for those who have been employed full time in print or broadcast journalism for at least two years and who intend to pursue the profession of journalism after comleting the study year. Ap-plicants must be between the ages of 21-36 as of March 1, 1984.

'Auto Lemon' bill passes House.

The work took months, but passage of the Auto Lemon Bill in the state House of Representatives came easily

"It was a compromise," said Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, who with Rep. Justine Barns of Westlandwas one of the 14 Democratic co-spon-

We worked with the auto companies and hammered it out so everyone could come out relatively well," said Berman, a vice chairwoman of the House consumers committee

THE IDEA had been pushed by ALO - Ald to Lemon Owners - a Southfield-based group of people unhappy with repair jobs to their new and used

"ALO did testify one afternoon. There were some parts they didn't like," said Berman. There were some parts I didn't like. And there were some parts the auto companies didn't like. "Chrysler endorsed it," she said, "and the auto companies did not lobby against it."

The bill was sent to the state Senate.

HOUSE BILL 4888 would require the manufacturer to "repair any defect or condition which impairs the use or value of the new motor vehicle" if the buyer has reported it in time.

The time period is 1) within the war-whichever comes first. ranty period, 2) within two years or 3) during the first 18,000 miles of operation, whichever comes first.

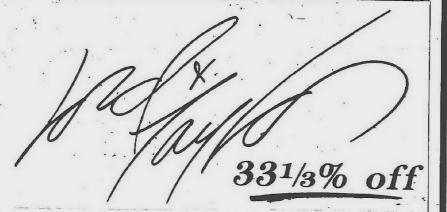

A key provision says the manufacturer must make the repairs even if the warranty has expired provided the buyer reported the defect promptly. And if the defect can't be repaired in four tries over two years, the manufacturer must provide the buyer either a new or comparable vehicle, or else refund the full purchase price - at the buyer's option. .

The terms also apply if the vehicle is out of service for repairs a total of 30 or more days during the term of the warranty, two years or 18,000 miles,

THE MANUFACTURER must provide the buyer a written statement in 10-point boldface type (slightly larger than this newspaper's type) at the time of purchase. The statement begins:

Important: If this vehicle is defective you may be entitled under state law to replacement of it or a refund of its purchase price.

Secrets!

Officials scheme to shut out public

HERE'S LITTLE chance the Michigan Legislature will pass either of the two amendments proposed by Rep. Willis Bullard to weaken the state's Open Meetings Act. Why then even write about them?

Because in order to live with the Open Meetings Act, local government officials must consciously decide they want to live with them. If our local officials on school boards, college boards, county boards, city councils, township boards and village councils make the conscious decision to operate in the sunshine, it is easy. But if they entertain the anti-social notion of operating in secrecy, then they will continually be unhappy and constantly will plot ways of holding secret meetings.

THE WEAKENING amendments by Bullard, R-Milford Township, have some support from the State Bar Association and the Michigan Townships Association, we are told. More's the pity.

House Bill 4849 would blow a giant hole into the brief list of purposes for which local governments may hold closed meet-

The existing OMA allows boards to meet in closed session with an attorney regarding strategy in connection with a specific, pending lawsuit. Bullard's amendment would allow a secret meeting if there were "threatened" litigation.

Those who have attended local government meetings know well that when there is a hot issue, someone is always threatening to file suit. Whether the issue be a school closing, a zoning change, liquor licenses or even a video games ordinance, some hothead will threaten to go to court. That is just what the backers of HB 4849 are relying on. The moment anyone breathes the word "sue," however empty the threat, they want to close the governmental board meeting and discuss every-

That's dead wrong. The existing law provides plenty of chance for a strategy session when there is an actual lawsuit. Indeed, we should point out that the existing law permits a closed meeting but doesn't require closing it. Governing boards are supposed to think first before closing a meeting, not bang the doors shut at the first hint of a lawsuit.

HOUSE BILL 4850 would set up conditions under which a government board could meet in a private residence. It provides for published notice of such a meeting. On paper, it looks almost good.

But then we examine the existing law and find that governmental meetings are to be held "in a place available to the general public." What this crippling amendment would do is allow meetings in someone's house. That's not the place for a governmental body to meet.

Virtually every governing board in Michigan has some kind of public place to meet in - an office, a school, the volunteer fire department hall. They have space for at least small crowds.

They are on main roads. They have parking space outside, often lighted. They are places generally known to the public. The doors are open and a citizen can simply walk in. Inside, there is sufficient seating. If the meeting room is of recent vintage, there are ramps for wheelchairs.

None of those factors is necessarily present when a meeting is held in a private residence. Indeed, it seems fair to suggest that the reason politicians would want to hold a meeting in a private residence is to discourage public attendance.

Shame on the supporters of HB 4849 and 4950 for even thinking about more governmental secrecy. Rather than plotting ways to shut the public out of public business, they need to make a New Year's resolution to accept emotionally, as wellas to obey, the existing Open Meetings

The public's business ought to be done in

Year of big changes ahead

A NEW YEAR is always a time for beginnings and endings. Changes are even more striking this year.

The end of the football season last reekend was especially disappointing with both the Detroit Lions and Michigan Wolverines losing close games. But there are more important transitions with the coming of the new year. Consider:

 The most important is the breakup of the Bell system, effective Sunday. American Telephone & Telegraph is the largest company ever to be divested.

Immediately, it appears that local rates will increase while long distance rates will go down. Phones now can be purchased instead of leased.

In the years ahead, we may look back at the divestiture and recognize that it ushered in a near era of communications.

 On Sunday, Gov. James Blanchard completed his first year in office. It was a tumultuous year, marked by economic recovery and unrest among voters.

A temporary increase in the state income tax rate from 4.6 percent to 6.35 percent was partly responsible for both. An unsuccessful recall campaign of Blanchard was led by people residing in Oakland and Wayne counties. Sens. Philip Mastin, representing Rochester and Avon Township, and David Serotkin of Macomb County were recalled.

On Monday, Coleman Young completed his 10th year as mayor of Detroit.

At his inaugural Young did not win any suburban friends when he said, "I issue an open warning now to all dope pushers, to all rip-off artists, to all muggers: It's time to leave Detroit. Hit Eight Mile Road. Hit

For those residing north of Eight Mile and west of Telegraph, it sounded like an ominous warning. And in his first few years as mayor, Young did little to soften what many considered to be an anti-suburb bias on the water system, public transit and state aid to the city.

But in the past year, Young's stance has softened. In 1983 he appeared before a group of Oakland County business leaders in Troy and said. "I have come across Eight Mile bearing an olive branch."

What's good for the city of Detroit is good for its suburbs," he continued. "And what's good for the suburbs is good for Detroit. I suggest that we must exist to-

Will this spirit of cooperation continue?

 For the second time in two elections. voters in 1984 will face new legislative district lines. A new reapportionment plan recently approved by the legislature goes into effect April 1.

The biggest change affects the state Senate districts of Robert Geake, R-Northville, and McCollough, D-Dearborn. Eleven square miles of strongly Republican Livonia will be put into McCollough's

MEA's loud pupils flunked their civics

BIG LOSERS in the November recall campaigns of two state senators were the leaders and members of the Michigan Education Association.

MEA was one of the biggest backers of Philip O. Mastin of Pontiac and David Serotkin of Mt. Clemens as they spent $5 or $10 to save their necks for every $1 spent by the recall advocates.

My purpose in bringing up this economic fact of politics is the recollection that public education is deteriorating. The esidential commission report entitled "A Nation at Risk" said the current generation is the first in history which can be id to be less well educated than its par-

Newspaper readers know differently and know better. Blanchard was forthright that it would take new revenue to solve the state's fiscal problems. The only persons who can say Blanchard misled them are non-readers.

Usually, social studies and English teachers advise students to read periodicals to keep up on current events. Some teachers even list top-notch publications. I've never known, however, a teacher to advise students to watch TV commercials to learn about candidates.

So the current generation of MEA member teachers must be falling down on the job. If they had been doing a good job of teaching, the recall elections might never have taken place.

"I had a place up on Northville Road some years ago and one afternoon I was repairing a radiator. A passer-by saw me and asked if I could repair one of his radiators. I told him I would. And is began the business that I have "In the old days the owners used to stuff their radiators with all sorts of

Asked how many radiators he has repaired, he just shrugged his shoulders and answered, "quite a few. After all I did work for the Ford Motor Co. and that was a hig satisfament."

He then handed out a paper claiming that he had repaired more than 17,000 radiators in his time.

Unlike most young people who go to college to shape a career or go to a shop to learn a trade, Bill Lemerand, owner of the Williams Engine Service at Mill Street and the railroad in Plymouth, took an unusual route. He just watched his father who was a landscape architect at a chemical firm in Rocwood, and his grandfather who spent his time working on all sorts of engines, especially those connected with groundskeeping and Model T Fords.

He was only 16 years old when he began to work on his own.

"It was an old Sears lawnmower and Along with the six favorite books it needed work badly. But I worked at mentioned above, she said that there it and finally got it back into condition.

And I was proud that I was able to do such a job so early in my career."

You will find all sorts of engines in the shop he has renovated in the past few months. They range from the ordinary mower to the large riding mowers used on golf courses. And when there are no lawnmowers to work on, Lemerand finds time to work on what he calls a racing machine.

WHILE MOST of his life - he is now 41 years old - has been wrapped up in motors, he still has time for a hobby as a drag racer.

"Tais is a great sport," he said, "and it is fun going around the state and even into Canada to compete in the big

As he talked, Lemerand pointed to a large shelf filled with trophies of all shapes and sizes. "I didn't do badly. I won my share of trophies."

He belongs to a drag racing associa-tion and has raced in the major events in Grand Rapids. He especially likes the races in Canada where most of the competition is held on weekends at a track near Rondeau Park. He competes in what is called the 250 open class with a machine powered by a Kohler engine capable of going 72 miles per hour.

When the drum heater shop at Mill and the railroad closed several months ago, Lemerand quickly seized the opportunity to come to Plymouth.

Dr. Simon CHIROPRACTIC COVERAGE IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT INSURANCE Almost every American family has automobile accident insurance coverage (in some states called nofault auto insurance). This type of insurance includes a section called medical expense benefits under which chiropractic services are covered. In no-fault states, this is sometimes called PiP benefits (personal injury protection). The medical expense or personal injury benefits are formulated to help the injured parties receive immediate and necessary medical or chiropractic care and not have to worry about the expenses involved.

Chiropractic care for those involved in accidents is common and there are several good reasons why. First of all, most auto accidents involve trauma to the body, usually the musculo-skeletal system. The head, neck, shoulders, back, etc. are often involved. These are physically the areas which dectors of chiropractic werk with every day. Therefore, it is not surprising the chiropractor is often called upon soon.

BRAD DEPLANCHE was home from California for Christmas with his parents, Jan and Bud DePlanche of Plymouth. Before he left, Brad called to share some exciting news. He starts rehearsing in mid-January for his first made-for-cable-television movie.

Harvey Korman will star in "Operation Thanksgiving" and Brad plays one of his sons. Brad said it probably will be released next November.

The story is about a man whose three sons, busy with their own lives and living far from home, rarely see their father. So, Harvey Korman decides to get them home for Thanksgiving by telling them he is dying of cancer.

FRED THOMANN won the seventh Big 50/50 cash prize given by the Plymouth Salem High School Athletic Boosters Club. Fred coaches basketball for the Rocks. Eighth 50/50 winner was Joyce Kirk.

The fundraiser has two more drawings to go.

A PHOTOGRAPH of the mitten tree in the Detroit Edison office on Main Street focused on a pair of handknit mittens contributed by Geraldine Walch. The Woman's Club of Plymouth puts up the Christmas tree each December as a collection point for mittens and scarves for needy folks in the community.

Gerry Walch knit 22 pairs of mittens this year. It is by no means her record. She has made 29 pairs plus four pairs of booties and a scarf. Her production reached its peak when her husband, the late Rev. Henry J. Walch, was watching football games. She said she did a lot of knitting during the football season. They watched the games together, but she knit as she watched. During the years he was sick, she didn't have time to knit. But now she's back in full swing.

Yarn is now on sale, a good time to stock up for next year's mitten tree.

GERRY'S knitting is inspiring. I get all steamed up, buy the yarn, then never follow through. My Aunt Freda's quilt-making has the same effect. When I saw her New Year's Day, she said she had three quilt tops ready for quilting.

"Some people enjoy crocheting or embroidery, but I enjoy making quilts," she said. And they are beautiful. She said she figured there was three week's work on each quilt, which would take her into spring. She always has these flower gardens of quilts to show for her winter's endeavors. At 80, her quilting stitches are fine and neat.

The last time I got carried away by Aunt Freda's quilts was in 1975. I would make a red, white and blue bicentennial quilt for a wedding present for my son and his bride. Their oldest daughter now is in first grade and I haven't finished the quilt. Just a little quilting remains to be done, but I can't figure out how to put on the binding — around the edges. The top and the bottom are in a straight line, but the sides are not. I'd ask Aunt Freda for help, but I don't want her to see my quilting.

HAVE YOU HEARD about the new Tiger Cubs program in Boy Scouting?

Tiger Cubs is for boys in second grade and is described as a boy/aduly sharing and learning experience. Each boy/adult team joins with other teams to function as a group. These groups meet once a month to take part in activities and to share what they have learned as part of their team projects during the month.

The adult can be a parent, grandparent, friend, neighbor or older sibling. The boys go on to Cub Scouts and often the older member of the team moves on too, as a leader. More than 100 Tiger Cubs are part of the Gemini-District of the Detroit Area Council, Boy. Scouts of America. The Gemini District serves Plymouth, Northville, Livonia, and Redford Township.

New 1984 arrival

Dirk Nelson of Priscilla Lane, Plymouth Township, ties a blue bow on the tree in front of his home. The bow announces the birth of son Stephen Dirk Nelson. Stephen was born at 12:46 a.m. Jan. 1 in the birthing center at Southfield's Providence Hospital. Just 24 hours later, Dirk, his wife Janice and Stephen were home. The father had been on hand for the birth and spent the night at the center in a queen-size bed with his wife, as son Stephen slept in a cradle at the foot of the bed. They posed for a family portrait Tuesday afternoon, with son Aaron, 6, seated beside Mom and Stephen, and daughter Andrea, 3½, beside Dad. Stephen is (unofficially) the first Plymouth baby born in 1984.

Little fish learn to love the water

By Sherry Kahan staff writer

HE WATER babies arrive at the pool with their moms for their swimming lesson.

These tadpoles have been in the water before so none of them show fear of sinking. Some wear a Styrofoam square strapped to their backs, so they have a chance to get used to the water before they have to strike out without flotation aids. They take off with few qualms. In

They take off with few qualms. In fact, before long, happy squeals mix with splashing sounds as they play water games with their parent.

Parent and Tot swim is the name the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA gives this aquatic activity. Directing the program is Cathy Messerly of Canton. New sessions are scheduled to start the week of Jan. 9.

She doesn't teach the kids how to slap and kick their way over the waves. She teaches their mothers how to do it.

"The first problem is to get the parents to relax, and get used to the water," she said. "A lot of them are non-swimmers. They are hesitant about what we ask the baby to do. This is the time when babies trust their mothers, so we teach the mothers to teach the babies

"They will be learning water safety skills, and how to let the baby get used to the water and find out it is fun."

SHE POINTED OUT that one of the main points of the class is to prepare the baby to do the right thing in case it falls into the water.

"They learn to turn and grab the pool where they fell in, and then climb out," she explained.

She added a personal note: "I took my daughter to a class when she was six months old, and I wouldn't trade it for anything. Now we can enjoy the water together."

enjoy the water together."

The tads ease into their watery playground gradually, sticking with their parent like porpoises around a ship. Mom tosses a water toy ahead of them and they pursue it together. Those legs and arms get a good workout. Then they put their mouths under the water and blow bubbles together.

Mary Gregory of Garden City stands in the water holding her arms out to her son Brian, 2½, standing on the edge of the pool. She wants him to jump in the water.

Brian knows what is expected of him. He gives nice practice jumps, and it looks like this is going to be an awesome leap. Yet when he jumps he manages to sit down at poolside rather than in the water.

"It took a while, but now he takes to the water," noted Gregory. "It is nice to see him enjoy it and not be afraid of it."

Michael Long, 2½, has been a water baby since he was 10 months old. His mother Phyllida Long of Canton has found she has to keep him at it or he forgets what he has learned and has to pick up confidence all over again.

THE PEAK EXPERIENCE in the life of these tadpoles comes when they have to go off the diving board into the drink. The protecting arms of their parent or the swimming instructor await them. Nonetheless it is a little nervous making

Many of the parents are a little worried too the first time their kids go off the board. Some of the children are also a bit reluctant. Mary Gregory is a lot less nervous than she used to be. That's because Brian is an experienced immediate by is an experienced jumper by now.

"I know the instructor is there to grab him," she said. "He was scared the first time, but after that he got used to it."

The idea is less upsetting when parents consider the purpose.

"I think that if he ever fell into water, he would not panic," said Gregory. "He would make it to the side. Because he can do this I'd feel safer if he was out with someone and fell in. He'd be more likely not to panic and to survive."

ALYSSA BURNISKY, 22 months old, has loved the pool since the first splash. Her mother, Cheryl Burnisky of Garden City, said that she got her feet wet first in the 18-inch public pool for children in Garden City. "I can barely swim," she said.

"That's why I wanted her to learn."

She approved of the Styrofoam "bubble" Alyssa wears on her back because "it helps her get strong enough so she can hold herself up. Children this age tire real easily. The bubble gives them confidence."

Burnisky never worries about

Alyssa going off the board.
"She knows now when to hold her breath." she reported. She added that Alyssa revels in the shower she takes after the swim. Her mother

"The swimming is great because when she comes home she goes to sleep," she reported with a grin. "I'm guaranteed a nap that day."

New sessions for parents and tots starting Jan. 9 will feature three sections. One is for those six months of age to 1½. It meets from 6:30-7 p.m. Mondays and on Tuesdays from 10:30-11 a.m. and from 2-2:30 p.m. Saturday hours are from 11-11:30

Parent-Tot swim II is for children from 1¼ to 3 years of age. It meets from 6:30-7 p.m. Mondays and from 11-11:30 a.m. and 2-2:30 p.m. Tuesdays. Wednesday hours are from 6:30-7 p.m., and Saturday hours are from 11-11:30 a.m.

Parent-Tot III is for children who have completed Parent-Tot I or II. It meets from 10-10:30 a.m. Tuesdays, from 6:30-7 p.m. Wednesdays and from 11-11:30 a.m. Sundays.

Township's celebs could write their own diet book

This year we celebrate not only the beginning of our township, but according to the New Year resolutions of many of our citizens, Canton is going to begin again.

I called around and although I didn't reach half the people I wanted, I did manage to get a sample of the personal plans of many Cantonites who share the public eye as the movers and shakers in our Totally Terrific Town-

Each and every contact spoke of plans to shape up. Some were referring strictly to personal form, but others and this was encouraging - are planning to try a little harder, work a little more, give a little more, forgive and move forward to shape up township government.

School board member and longtime child advocate, Flossie Tonda, says this is probably, definitely, the year she is going to lose weight. I discovered a very elite group of weight-conscious Cantonites. They probably could start a whole new group, "Celebrity Dieting." They could write a diet book. Write two in fact, one with successful diets and exercises and another with the usual diets and recipes. How about a video tape, "The Complete Book of 3 Days of Exercise with Canton Celebs?"

ART WINKEL of the Canton Fire Department and Canton Lions Club, John FLodin, Canton clerk and Mike and Pat Gresock of the Oral Majority Toastmasters Club all share Flossie's goal. They could collaborate with her and share the royalties, naturally.

DOUG RITTER, president of the Canton Jaycees, plans to exercise every other day. Now that's being realistic. He even has a great motivating factor. He is planning either a job or residential change. (Let's hope, for our community's sake, that he makes the job rather than residential change).

Actually, Mike and Pat Gresock have great motivation, too. They are planning on starting a new business. Their idea, in brief, is to teach people how to reach some degree of comfort when saying what they have to say in public, whether at a business or PTO meeting. Interesting idea and I'm sure many of us would like to be able to say what we want, when we want and believe our face remains the same color through-

Good luck to you all in your adventures in the new year.

MARIA STERLINI, township treasurer, has a simple and spirited resolve. It comes in the form of a hope, a wish or a prayer, if you will. She wants the spirit of Christmas to be with everyone all year through. As many of you may have noticed, Maria celebrates Christmas long before and long after the traditional dates, with the decorations staying up as late as March. This is her way of keeping the peace and joy of the season alive as long as possible.

Maria says that through her job as treasurer she meets many Cantonites who are having tougher than tough times in today's economy. She hopes this year Canton can stablize itself so that the energies and many fine efforts of all Canton employees can go more directly toward the people that so badly need our help. And that all of Canton can direct its efforts to spread the spirit of Christmas and bring this community together in a cooperative spirit.

HEADED down the same street, bringing the old with the new, is the ever cooperative spirit of Bart Berg, president of the Canton Historical Society. Bart, too, hopes that Canton will resolve this year to overlook the personality differences that sometimes crop up in our leadership; pull this community together in accordance with their leadership roles; celebrate à terrific birthday year, and head us back into the progressive community that we know we have the strength and character to be.

FINALLY our supervisor, Jim Poole, also has renewed hope, spirit and prayer for our community.

Poole says this will be the year of the road decision. One way or another he will get us help for the many troubled roads. (I could do a whole page on this

With the mark of a leader, his hopes for the new year don't stop there, but go on to include good news for the senlor citizens of his community. This is one group we should all be doing our best for, if for no other reason than that if we are real lucky, we all will join this group someday.

His hope is to see that, at long last, this community will get some form of subsidized housing for seniors. To ease your minds, he also plans to maintain efforts to lower, or at least hold steady, the tax rate, and to continue to cut government costs where we can.

I THINK WE all can feel hopeful knowing that all our leaders want the same things for us.

Without charging us more than we can afford, and seeing that other forms of government aren't cheating us, they want us to get our fair share of aid while not putting undue costs or pressure on others.

I guess it is rather complicated, and I think they all have the same goals. We have a great opportunity here to blend heart and soul and come out with a "Community."

It was explained to me, as quoted from a church bulletin: "To hope and pray that we can be delivered from an attitude which makes dissatisfaction a way of life for some people, to deliver us from the negativism which paralyzes us at times.

Another quote, this one from "Footprints in the Sand," is "The Lord replies, 'My precious, precious child, I love you and I would never leave you. During your times of trial and suffering, when you see only one set of footprints, it was then that I carried you." These two quotes were personal mes-sages from Jim Poole and Maria Sterlini respectively.

My hopes and prayers for peace are with all the leaders of this township, state, nation, and world.

NOW, HOW ABOUT a skating exhibition at the Plymouth Cultural Cen-

Batson-Clement

Teri Lyn Clement and Malcom Le-Grande Batson Jr. flew home from Japan for their Nov. 25 marriage in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Fred and Judy Clement of Plymouth. The bridegroom's father, Malcolm Batson Sr., came from New York to be best man for his son.

Julie Webb, a high school friend of the bride, was matron of honor. Dave Clement, the bride's brother, was usher. She wore a taffeta gown with and off-the-shoulder bodice of sheer English net with a high neckline and leg-of-mutton sleeves. The shirt had rows of val lace trimmed with silk roses. The gown was sprinkled with crystals and seed pearls from her mother's wedding gown, and the handmade shoulder-length veil was held in place by her aunt's antique seed pearl

The couple honeymooned in Traverse City before returning to Japan, where both are stationed in the U.S. Navy.

Historical Sundays Newburg begins a year of celebration

Newburg United Methodist Church, Livonia's oldest congregation of Christians, will celebrate its sesquicentennial during 1984 with a special observance each month designated as "His-

There'll be other reminders as well. Plywood letters, two feet high, have been erected in front of the church on Ann Arbor Trail to read "1834-1984 -150 years." They will be illuminated each night and remain in place all year to advertise the celebration.

A 51-page history of the church also has been compiled by longtime church member Ed Reid, augmented with a complete list of all members of the

THE SECOND SUNDAY of each month has been set aside as "Historical Sunday." Kicking off the schedule will be Dr. Anthony Shipley, the church's district superintendent, who will be

Tribute will also be paid to pioneer resident Gladys Ryder, who holds the record of being a member of the church for the longest time. She joined in 1909, was chairman of the Lydia Circle for four years and is still a member, was president of the Ladies Aid Soclety in 1915, president of Fidelia Class for five years and church school teacher and superintendent.

It will also be the congregation's way.
of saying goodbye to Mrs. Ryder, 86, who, is moving from the area. Mrs.
Ryder also holds the distinction of being the church's historian until Reid eded her. Her mother, Iva Smith, was historian before that.

In addition, she is a life member of the Livonia Historical Commission, Livonia Business and Professional Women's Club and Eastern Star. A teacher for 25 years, she taught at Cady, Cleveland, Patchen, Stark and Newburg schools. She is also credited with organizing the Livonia Historical Society.

In February, a pageant will trace
150 years of church progress that began in 1826 when it was part of a circuit rider's swing through the area.

March will feature the Newburg choir in the presentation of "The Messiah," under the direction of music director David Gladstone.

April will see retiring Bishop Edsel Amons as guest speaker.

MAY WILL BE ONE of the highlights of the yearlong observance with two special events planned. One, on May 13, will honor members of the oldest Sunday School class. The other will be on May 20 and will coincide with the opening of the historical vil-lage at Greenmead, where the original Newburg church is now located.

Tentative plans call for church services to be conducted that evening in the restored church with the Rev. Roger Merrill as guest preacher. The sig-nificance of his appearance is that he preached the last sermon in the historic building before the congregation moved into its present building.

Other events during the year include an old-time revival service - tent and all - on the church grounds, "rally day" program by the church school, and a homecoming services for all for-mer members of the church.

"Heritage Sunday" in August will mark the occasion of the first Circuit Rider, the Rev. Marcus Swift, who arrived in the Newburg area to establish a "Methodist Society."

IRONICALLY, REID'S historical accounts show that the church was first a Congregational church. It became a Methodist church On Jan. 13, 1888, when the two congregations merged.

The original church, along with the parsonage and several neighboring buildings, make up the historical village at Greenmead, Livonia's historical site at Eight Mile and Newburgh roads.

Restoration of the historic church has been under way for several year by means of funding from the Friends of Greenmead and the Livonia Historical

Chairman of Newburg's 150th anniversary celebration is Ed Reid, shown here with one of six scrapbooks on the church's history. For the observance, he has edited a special booklet highlighting the history of the church and arranged for the Historical Sunday events. Several of those will link the church to Greenmead, Livonia's historical site, where the original church is now located. Reid is a 17-year member of the Livonia Historical Commission and was recently elected vice president.

Computers doing a number on us

As we enter 1984, a year made infamous by novelist and social critic George Orwell, we recognize that his nightmare, at least with regard to the invasion of privacy, is beginning to emerge. Anyone who has attended school, applied for a job, sent in an income tax form, or used a credit card is the object of an information file, or dossier. In fact, most adult Americans are the subject of not one, but as many as 20 dos-

Without information about its citizens, American society would be incapable of carrying out some important functions. For example, reservoirs of data allow law-enforcement officials to apprehend dangerous criminals, or restaurant and stores to allow credit to strangers. But computer banks do pose a threat to human society and moral store will extend him credit, no matter where he goes in the country.

CREDIT BUREAUS presently cause the most problems for the private citizen. They compile all types of data — drinking habits, medical histories, driving records - anything that might reveal what kind of credit risk the applicant is. Once labeled a "dead-beat," the consumer must go through considerable effort and red-tape to get his status changed or have his name removed.

A potentially far more serious threat to personal well-being is posed by governmental information gathering. If need be, we can live wihtout credit, but we can't live wihtout government.

The executive branch of the federal government alone uses 10,000 computers. Included in these data banks are 86 million individuals on file in the Justice Department's Fingerprint and Criminal Identification Division, as well as 7 million Army investigative files.

Two years ago, the Office of Management and Budget proposed a national data hand agement and Budget proposed a national data bank. Everyone would be assigned a number, which would serve for every identification purpose imaginable. Existing information from various agencies could be linked by the new communications technology. Many asserts of our lives including religion ocpects of our lives including religion, occupation, education, marital status, income, preference in restaurants and stores, leisure-time pursuits and even love affairs would be available for retrieval by government officials.

Such a serious invasion of privacy was met by vigorous opposition which forced the abandonment of this proposal. But the danger remains, for every federal agency considers itself a data center, and we have not yet developed policies and regulations to control and restrain the impact of computer technology on the legitimate right of individual privacy.

Vance Packard has warned of an "Electronic Frankenstein's monster in the making." He states: "My hunch is that Big Brother, if he ever comes to the United States, may turn out to be not a greedy power seeker, but rather a relentless bureaucrat obsessed with ef-

The computer is not an enemy. It can make no moral judgments - only the people who program it can do that. In the computer age, eternal vigilance continues to be the price of liberty. New challenges to freedom require greater social awareness and an informed and responsible public policy.

Hockey fights fighting image

NDERSTAND, HOCKEY is a mean sport. It's meant to be played by rough people who enjoy mixing it up.

That's what people believe, anyway. But there's always the question where to draw the line, what's acceptable and unacceptable violence - particularly at the high school level.

"Obviously, in our league the good, clean, hard check is still part of the game, and it always will be," said Livonia Stevenson athletic director Roge Frayer still remembers that prior to the 1979 season, several schools considered dropping hockey because of unacceptable behavior.

FIGHTS - ON AND OFF the ice - and lambasting of the officials — by both players and fans — threatened hockey's state sanctioning. Frayer and his fellow athletic directors decided something had to be done if the sport were to Tough, new guidelines were adopted regarding fighting. First offenders get an automatic onegame suspension. The second offense earns a three game suspension. Third fight and the player is gone. No more hockey that year.

"It's a problem in hockey because it's the only sport that, when you do get into a fight, you're not necessarily out of the game," Frayer said. "The official might call a minor penalty for roughing.

"We've tried to take that a bit farther. If the player drops his gloves, it should be considered a fight and the player should be out of the game."

SEEMS TOUGH but reasonable. And yet it still hasn't been enough. Because, as firm as the rules may seem, the image remains:

If hockey doesn't promote fighting and violence on the ice, it at least condones it. "It's part of the game," said Fred Goldberg. Southfield High School athletic director. "That's what everybody told me."

At Southfield last season, hockey violence reached new extremes. And the on-ice problems spilled over into the crowds.

"It was bad," Goldberg admitted. "Our players were really chippy. They were penalized twice as much as any other team. The fans were really loud and vulgar, too."

A COUPLE OF INCIDENTS were particularly ugly. The first occurred near the end of the Southfield/Southfield-Lathrup game. Southfield was ahead 8-0 late in the final period when Lathrup scored. The Southfield fans responded by taunting the Lathrup players, throwing tennis balls onto the layers whacked the balls back into the stands. Then a live chicken was set loose on the ice, causing more delays and crowd-control problems. Darryl Harper, the Southfield-Lathrup High Scouthfield athletic director, called the game with two minutes to go and the situation worsening Later that season, Bloomfield Hills Lahser had just whipped Southfield. When the players headed for their locker rooms and the fans filed out the exit (all at the same end of the arena), taunts were exchanged between sides.

"It was an all-out war," Goldberg said. "An all-

Four Southfield players were suspended: one for one game, two for three games and one for four games. A Lahser player also was suspended for

THAT WAS ENOUGH for both Southfield high school's principals and a lot of other people.

"I have to tell you, at one point it was gone," Goldberg said. "They felt that hockey's philosophy was different than any other high school-level sport. In any of our other sports, if you fight you're out. Hockey wasn't like that."

Goldberg admitted he was "sitting on the fence" regarding whether to keep hockey. But coaches and players asked him to intervene, so Goldberg went to bat to try to save the programs.

He spoke with players, coaches and players' parents about necessary changes. He met with officials and referees and told them to get tough, not to tolerate any guff from the players. And he told the players to sell the "best behavior" idea to

That doesn't surprise Stevenson's Frayer, who remarked that the league leader is almost always "the least penalized team."

Considering that the standards for Southfield's hockey programs are even tougher than the SPHL's, and the players are able to perform within those standards, it seems possible that the SPHL could adopt them — and make them work.

Tree-like Temple team too much for tiny Eagles

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Before the game Tuesday night, Plymouth Christian basketball coach Butch DeRenzo joked about David slaying Goliath.

His Eagles (2-3) were playing the much taller and more talented Redford Temple Christian Patroits in Redford. The Patriots, 10-2 going into the game, sport a forward line that goes 6-foot-3, 6-foot-3, and 6-foot-8. The Eagles' tallest man is barely 6-foot-2. DeRenzo was not exaggerating when he talked of Unfotunately for him and his team, this David and Goliath contest went to Goliath, 75-31.

"I THINK David forgot his slingshot this time," DeRenzo said after the game. One has to question whether the slingshot would have made any differ-

Temple placed five scorers in double figures. Leading the pack was junior forward John Greenwood with 15 points. Don Simerly, the 6-8 center, tossed in 14 points, grabbed, 11 rebounds and blocked four shots. Dave Jakeway (12), Eric Campbell (12) and Gary Aldrich (10) rounded out the Patriots' scoring leaders.

"We don't really like to play in these types of games," said Temple coach Dave Gilliam, whose minutes left in the first half, and Temple leading team is a major force in the Great Lakes Christian Conference. "We just try to play up to our potential. We didn't want to let the game turn into a soccer match.

DeRenzo wasn't thrilled about the game either, but hoped his team would use it as a stepping stone.
"We were just out-manned and out-talented. We knew that going in. What we wanted to do was to work on things. We wanted to work our delay to try and shorten the length of the game. We are so young, if they would have scored 115 points or so, we would have been devastated.

"The good part of playing a game like this is that the kids learn just where they are. They know now how far they have to go," said DeRenzo.

28-4 (Plymouth had failed to score in 11 straight possessions), Gilliam sat down his starters.

Plymouth, led by small-but-speedy sophomore Rod Windle, made a brief seven-point run to make it 32-13 at the end of the half.

Windle led Plymouth with 15 points, most on driving layups against Temple's tree-like defenders. McCarthy added seven points for the Eagles. Seven straight turnovers at the beginning of the third quarter erased any hopes Plymouth may have been entertaining about an upset. By the time Windle broke the drought with a layup at the 4:15 mark,

Temple had built up a 41-15 lead The fourth quarter belonged to Temple's Camp-bell. A starter for much of the season, the wiry point-guard found himself on the bench the past few ballgames. He came off that bench Tuesday night to score 12 points, 10 in the final quarter.

Canton, 4-1 overall, was led by Gary Thomas' 28 points, including seven of eight free throws down the stretch. Teammate Mark Bennett was even more impressive, scoring 27 to go along with 10 rebounds and 10 assists. Mike Jennings contributed nine points, including seven of eight from the line in the final period.

We shot as well as we're ever going to shoot," said RU coach Lee Bjerke.
"We fell behind and had to foul to get back into the game. They were spectacular from the free throw line."

RU, winless all of last year and so far this season, got gallant efforts from John Copley, 22 points and 13 rebounds; Dennis Bushart, 21 points; Keith Ruloff and Richard Williams, 12 each.

Four RU starters fouled out. "It was as a run-and-gun game all the way," said Canton coach Dave Van

But it was Doyle's two free throws with 43 seconds remaining which set-tled things, giving the Spartans a 58-54 lead and the win.

CC's John McIntyre, the game's top scorer with 26 points, then made it a final difference of two with a basket at the 24-second mark. Teammate Ron Wandzel added 13 points in defeat.

New dome provides year-round sports fun

By Rich Swenson staff writer

For those summer sports enthusiasts suffering from the doldrums of winter, the Casis Golf Center in Plymouth Township has come up with an idea that may just ease some of the pain.

A huge indoor golf and softball dome will soon be erected at the golf center, located at Five Mile Road (just east of Haggerty). It will service avid golfers and die-hard softballers itching for the greener pastures of spring.

The dome, scheduled to open the end of this month, is a free-floating vinyl structure measuring 70 feet in height. It will house an indoor driving range complete with 38 tees as well as a regulation softball diamond.

"We can hardly wait," Dome manager Dorothy Johnson said. "We are very near near to having it up and going. There has been tremendous interest. I think it will be highly successful."

THE PROJECT is the brainchild of Detroiter Michael A. Thompson, an English engineer who has operated similar ventures in England and Sweden. The Casis dome will be only the fourth of its kind in the United States. The first was developed in Madison Heights followed by projects in Minnesota and New York.

Golfers will be able to drive the ball 80 yards before it is gobbled up by an inside net, placed to protect the dome. They will aim at a target placed at the middle of the semi-circular peak designed structure.

"It's for golfers who are not concerned with distance but with the purity of their swing." Johnson said. "It will permit golfing to be continuous for the entire season — to develop and improve a player's stroke."

"It's great for golfers who want to sharpen up their game before going on vacation," she added. "We thought it would be nice to accommodate golfers in the winter as well as the other sea-

The dome is an air-supported structure made of a specially designed lightweight material developed by Environmental Structures Inc., a Clevelandbased company. DEVELOPED AT A cost of more than $500,000, the dome allows for the maintenance of grass indoors so that golf and softball activities are enhanced by the natural turf.

"The golf dome has become popular for golfers as a hedge against inclement weather," Johnson said. "Golfers are quite comfortable in normal golfing attire even in the foulest of weath-

Golfers will be able to take advantage of the dome from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., seven days a week, from November until the end of April. Golfers will pay a fee on a time basis and will be able to hit an unlimited number of balls during that period.

A professional staff will also offer a complete range of services, including lessons and clinics.

After 8 p.m., the golf dome will become a softball dome.

come a softball dome.

More than 50 teams are expected to participate in leagues set up by softball director Joe Paglino, a former player in the Chicago White Sox system.

"THESE ARE AVID softball players," Johnson said. "There is no way they can play during the winter months. The dome affords them that opportunity."

The diamond will be set up so that the players get the same action they would on an outdoor diamond. The only differences are that play is indoors andhome runs will not be automatic, because of the net.

Each team will play once a week including playoffs at season's end.

The Ohio company is scheduled to put the dome in place in a matter of days, which, ironically, depends on the weather. Because the dome has to be blown up, ideal conditions must exist.

"The main concern is heavy wind," Johnson said.

The domed area will be adjacent to the Oasis Golf Center Clubhouse and will enclose a part of the existing outdoor driving range.

11-year-old is world champ

Carrie Cunningham is quite an 11-year-old.

The sixth grader at Cass Elementary School

The sixth grader at Cass Elementary School in Livonia is in a program called Alternative Classrooms for the Academically Talented and she plays the flute.

She also wins international tennis tournaments. The 4-foot-7, 62-pound Carrie, daughter of John and Carol Tenerowicz, just returned from Port Washington, N.Y. where she captured the Girls 12 title in the Rolex Junior Championships.

She defeated Luanne Spadea of Boca Raton, Fla. in finals, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2, after ousting Deborah Moringielle of New Brunswick, N.J. in the semifinals, 6-2, 3-6, 6-0.

Spadea is the No. 2 ranked Girls 12 player in the U.S., while Moringielle is No. 3.

CARRIE LOST to both players while finishing fourth at the Girls 12 National Indoors just over a month ago in Memphis, Tenn.

"It was my first time in the semis of a major tournament," she said, recalling the November event. "I got nervous and choked.

"I was more confident (at the Rolex), but I wasn't sure I could beat her (Spadea). I played more aggressively in this tournament."

Carrie severely sprained her ankle while playing in the U.S. Girls 12 Clay Courts this summer, ironically playing against Donna Faber, whom she beat in the quarterfinals at the Rolex (6-2, 6-4).

"She lost some confidence when she sprained her ankle," said Tenerowicz, Carrie's stepfather.

"IT WAS more mental," chimed Carrie, who speaks with the poise of a well-schooled adult. "I started favoring the other ankle and then I taped it for awhile."

Once she got over being "scared," Carrrie's coaches, Joe Fodell of Wimbledon Racquet Club and John Trump of Franklin, altered her style of play.

"She changed her game to become more aggres-

Winning the Rolex tournament required a pair of tough, three-set matches.

"I got up 5-0 in the third set (against Spadea) and I really got excited," she said. "I thought the match was over, then I started losing a couple of games."

BUT THE young southpaw closed out the match by winning the eighth game of the final set.

"I was a little sore but I'm fine now," she said.
"When you win it feels great. I won a green crystal glow and a sterling silver Rolex watch."

Carrie is not the only talented Cunningham. Her brother Matt also plays tennis and is a sophomore at Phillips Exeter Academy (N.H.), a high school with high academic standards in New Hampshire.

"We're proud of him, too," said Tenerowicz.
Carrie, who trains one hour a day, six days a Bowl tournament this spring in Tucson, Ariz. But on Tuesday, she skipped her workout.

"When you win, you get a day off," her dad explained with a smile.

Briggs heroic in cage loss

The ingredients are there. Now it's just a matter of finding the right combinations.

Or so says Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach Rocky Watkins after his Ocelots lost to High-land Park, 92-85, Friday in the finals of the Ray Stites Invitational Tournament at Highland Park.

Schoolcraft, which trailed by two at the half (34-32), had a four-point lead with 3:57 to go but poor shot selection down the stretch proved costly.
"It was the same old thing," Watkins said. "We were in the driver's seat and coughed it up." SCHOOLCRAFT HAD A different starting lineup, with transfers James Orr and Eric Stokes becoming elgible Dec. 19. Neither, however, were able to fit in comfortably, according to Watkins.

Orr hit just one of 10 floor shots and Stokes was 2-for-7 and committed five turnovers in the first half to offset a superb Schoolcraft defensive effort that forced Highland Park into loads of turnovers.

Carlos Briggs kept Schoolcraft in the ballgame. Watkins moved the high-scoring Briggs from swingman to point guard, partially because of the new additions and also because "Carlos said he could do it.'

BRIGGS RESPONDED with what Watkins called "his best game ever at Schoolcraft" — 32 points (12 of 18 field goal attempts, eight of nine free throws), 11 assists, two steals and just one turnover.

"He was very selective (in shooting)," Watkins said. "He thought pass first."

State's best meet in Rock tourney

In many respects, the 10th annual Plymouth Salem Invitational wrestling tournament, which takes place Saturday at the Salem gym, will be a scaleddown version of the state meet.

In last year's tourney, four eventual state champion wrestlers were defeated. Some 19 wrestlers that competed in last year's tourney placed at the state meet, six were state champs and four were runners-up.

This year, among the field of competitors are Class C defending state champs Montrose, Class A runner-up Mount Clemens, and just as many state-class grapplers as there were last has invited 16 teams. As of Tuesday, only 14 have responded.

THE TEAMS that will be there for sure are: Plymouth Canton, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Fenton, Westland John Glenn (last year's winner), Belleville, Clarks-ton, Portage Northern (winners of the Canton Civitan Tournament last week), North Farmington, Ypsilanti, Roches-ter Adams, Garden City, and the afore-mentioned Montrose, Mount Clemens, Annapolis and Flushing have been invited but haven't responded.

Wrestling will begin at 11 a.m. Krueger said the consolation and championship rounds will begin at 6

George Van Wagoner, Stevenson's veteran coach, agreed that the season had too far to go to zero in on one game. The Spartan mentor divided the campaign into four sections: the December "pre-season", January-to-March regular season, the WLAA tournament and the state tournament.

And yet, as Van Wagoner said: "It's always a priviledge to play (Salem). You like to beat everybody, but you got to beat the teams in the confer-

And Salem is certainly on top of Stevenson's hit list. Van Wagoner figures the Rocks will "try and clamp down on our offense. They play a very strong man-to-man defense.

"The winner will be the team that gets the loose ball, that goes to the boards well and hustles better."

THOSE ARE THINGS Salem did better in two of the three meetings last season. Yet Stevenson presents big problems for the Rocks: 6-foot-7 forward Tom Domako and 6-6 center Bob Sluka. Thomann plans on putting 6-6 Rick Berberet on Sluka and either Erich Hartnett (6-3) or Scott Jurek (6-2)

"Domako doesn't usually do as well with a quick, small player on him," Thomann said. "We know Domako and Sluka are the key players and that's who we're going to key on." If Stevenson has a weakness, Thomann said, it might be in the backcourt where last year's starters Gary Mexicotte and Pete Rose have graduated.

"They're having a bit of a problem meshing those new kids in there," Thomann remarked.

THOMANN ADDED that his team is "a new team, too. We lost four players from last year. We're really not a tested team yet."

Salem "surprised" Southfield in its season opener, Thomann said. The Rocks then beat Walled Lake Western, Farmington Harrison and Brighton. Not exactly powerhouses.

Stevenson is unbeaten in six games. Tuesday the Spartans topped Livonia Franklin, 58-45.

The winner Friday - game time is 7:30 p.m. — is far from assured of a WLAA title (Stevenson drew first blood last year). But the game will neverthe less offer an intriguing matchup pairing the two top teams in the area.

Where to find investment advice

Most of us need investment advice because we don't have either the expertise or the inclination to do the work necessary to be effective advisers. However, it is not easy to find the right advice for the right price. For one thing, various considerations affect the choice. For another, different people seek different levels of advice. Here is a brief description of several choices

Financial planners. They offer discretionary advice on investments, insurance and estate planning for hourly fees. Some also give advice as to how to structure a portfolio and manage portfolios for their clients.

Investment counselors. Some are affiliated with brokerage firms or with finances and you Sid publishers of investment advisory services. The trend is toward discretionary accounts which are managed for a fee. The minimum fee is $2,000, and service is primarily non-discretionary. Most unaffiliated counselors cater to pension plans, but a few take relatively small individual accounts. Names of investment counselors are available from the Investment Council Association, 50 Broad Street, New York, N.Y.

Advisory services. These offer periodic reports on all facets of investing with programs or lists designed for maximum income, growth of principal and so on. These advisory services provide advice to the investor. The investor decides whether to buy or sell.

Mutual funds. There are hundreds of mutual funds and publicly traded investment companies with varied goals. Publicly traded investment shares are sold through brokers for the regular commission. These funds cater to the needs of investors who would like their portfolios to be managd by a competent portfolio manager for a reason-

movies

8-10PM NBC (7 Central/Mountain) THE JERK, TOO. Mark Blankfield, Ray Walston, Robert Sampson, Patricia Barry and Barry Ingham in a comedy based on Steve Martin's popular theatrical release The Jerk, about a naive young white raised by a dirt-poor black Southern family, who goes to the big city of Los Angeles for the wedding of his heiress pen pai, Marie Van Buren (Stacy Nelkin), to a scheming European, and in his innocent way helps true love to run smoothly.

SAT., JAN. 7 9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

CHARLES BRONSON LEE MARVIN ANGIE DICKINSON ANDREW STEVENS

DEATH HUNT. Bronson is a reclusive furtrapper suspected of murder and Marvin is the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sergeant who trails him across the miles of sub zero near-Arctic wilderness. An action-packed, based-on-fact manhunt spanning more than 150 miles of frozen territory. A nifty adventure tale.

SUN., JAN. 8 9-11:30PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)

PAUL NEWMAN JENNIFER WARREN MICHAEL ONTKEAN STROTHER MARTIN LINDSAY CROUSE

S. NEIL FUJITA DESIGN

MELINDA DILLON JERRY HAUSER SWOOSIE KURTZ

SLAP SHOT. Newman is the playercoach of a minor league ice hockey team, and he's not getting any younger... or any more successful. His team is falling down around him, his wife has walked out, and his job is caving in. Tired of being the more-orless "nice guy" who finishes more last than first, second or third, he discovers a new and effective playing style that not only has the team performing above its heads, but is also packing fans into arenas around the league. It's called "rough and dirty", and the film is a fast-paced and fun-filled winner with something to say. Directed by George Roy (The Sting) Hill.

9-11:30PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

EASTWOOD

BRONCO BILLY Clint Eastwood and Sondra Locke reteam for an intelligent and off-beat contemporary western that fans of Eastwood's legendary machismo won't particularly like, but a lot of other viewers will.

MON., JAN. 9

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain) SOMETHING ABOUT AMELIA. The powerful dramatization of how the fabric of one middle-class family is torn apart when the father is discovered to have had sexual relations with his 13-year old daughter. The first network film to focus on the sensitive subject, with Ted (Cheers) Danson, Glenn (The Big Chill) Close and Rox ana Zal. Emotional turmoil and havoc. (Parental discretion advised.)

TUES., JAN. 10 9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

JAMES FARENTINO PENNY FULLER DON MURRAY MILLIE PERKINS

LICENSE TO KILL. John and Judith Peterson, suburban marrieds, find life shattered when their oldest daughter is killed in a collision with a drunk driver. Tom and Mary Fiske, are another couple whose marriage and personal lives threaten to collapse because of the same accident, in which Tom, a respected and successful businessman, was the drunk be-hind the wheel. The devastating consequences of those "few drinks."

WED., JAN. 11 9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

MODERN PROBLEMS. Chevy Chase is a frazzled air traffic controller whose telekinetic powers drive everyone wild... his girl friend (Patti D'Arbanville) and his co-workers (Sandy Helberg, Buzzy Linhart and Ron House). With Mary Kay Place, Nell Carter and Dabney Coleman.

FRI., JAN. 13 8-10PM NBC (7 Central/Mountain) HARD KNOX. Robert Conrad. Right!. SAT. JAN. 14

BODY HEAT. William Hurt is a sleezy lawyer in a sleepy and steamy Florida hamlet, Kathleen Turner the beautiful young woman for whom he has an overpowering passion, Richard Crenna is the chillingly dangerous and cuck-olded husband, and Mickey (Diner) Rourke is an oddly moral arsonist. Ted Danson is featured. Lawrence (The Big Chill) Kasdan's homage to the 1940's films noir of James M. Cain and Raymond Chandler, and suitably simmering with lust, greed and treachery. A terrific movie!

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

A MATTER OF SEX. Jean Stapleton and Dinah Manoff in the true life tale of eight valiant women waging a bitter battle with extreme personal sacrifice and strike against their employer... a small bank in Willmar, Minne-sota. Lee Grant directed entirely on location around Toronto.

Movies

At bargain prices

By Tom Panzenhagen

HEY DON'T MAKE 'EM like they used to," you say? Well, perhaps they don't make movies like they used to.
But in libraries and old theaters, in church basements and on college campuses across the metro area, old movies - from classic silents to recent releases — are being shown and, in most cases, at old movie prices — $1 to $2.

At the Washington Theatre in Berk-ley, in fact, senior citizens are admitted for 50 cents Sundays through Thursdays.

Other theaters offer bargains on top of bargains. At the Detroit Film Theatre in the Detroit Institute of Arts, for instance, tickets normally are $2.25 or $17.50 for 10 tickets.

At the Southfield Public Library, a $5 film society membership ($2.50 for senior citizens and students) entitles the holder to a season's worth of fine

And other groups, such as the public libraries in Dearborn and Royal Oak, show films for free.

SO BARGAIN MOVIES - and classics, at that - are alive and well. But with so many to choose from, where's the best place to see a favorite film?

A personal preference is the theaters. There's nothing like the big screen and old theater aura to enhance the feeling of seeing an old film the way it was meant to be seen. The seats may be worn but they're still comfortable, and the aroma of popcorn permeates the air.

There's always ample seating at the old theaters, too.

The campus movie groups may inhabit large auditoriums, but you can expect large crowds and cramped quarters for most showings. The young crowds can be invigorating, too, since

There's nothing like an old theater aura to enhance the feeling of seeing an old film the way it was meant to be seen.

they usually become more involved in a film than do dispassioned, older

However, that often translates into rowdiness, complete with empty beer bottles clanking down aisleways and the accompanying odor of burning

Libraries can be hit or miss. The Detroit Public Library screens films in its Friends' Auditorium, and that's just Others may roll a projector into a backroom and show the picture on a portable screen. Stop by your local li-brary and check out the facilities before getting your hopes up.

And then there's the Redford Theatre. It's not listed with "The Theaters" in our summary of bargain movie haunts because, unlike those listed un-der that heading, the Redford shows genuine classics in an old theater set-

The Penn in Plymouth, the Farming-ton Civic and others specialize in recent films that are making their second or third runs through town, thus providing moviegoers who didn't want to plop down $4 or $5 for "Return of the Jedi" a chance to see the George Lucas film for $1.50 or less.

But the Redford, with its vintage pipe organ and classic movie selection, is in a class all its own. When going, be sure to arrive early for the organ recitals, which begin about one-half hour before showtime.

Now let's go to the movies

'Nutcracker' ballet contains lessons for living gracefulness per se. The dance of the Mirlitons showcased the keen abilities of little children to portray excellent techniques and amazing feats with accuracy and precise timing. One was simply caught up in the spirit - as indicated by the audience's applause.

THE GRAND pas de deux was beautiful. If we could all just learn something from the story, the dancing, the timing - the all together beautiful performance - when both the Sugar Plum Fairy and the Prince show off the other's advantages rather than trying to compete - perhaps we would all be doing well.

Yet, these beautiful performances of the specific dances contrasted sharply with the more amateurish performance in the first part.

It would be nice if this difference might be diminished in the future, at least by a more professional portrayal of the main characters in the ballet.

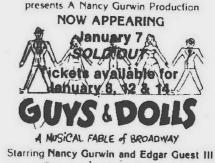

Throughout the evening, the orchestra sounded well. Kenneth Jean accepted deserved applause at the end of the performance.

Such a performance provides ample opportunity for each of us to look at ourselves at the end of the year, to see our own imperfections and hope for significant improvements in the new

May we all perform on a better scale and in a humanitarian manner in this coming year to the benefit of everyone.

By Cathle Breidenbach special writer

Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Jour-ney into Night" runs nearly three hours even when cut, and the excellent production barely survives the eloquent gloom of the play.

The acting is fine and in spots superb. The set of the O'Neill summer home in 1912 by Peter W. Hicks is wonderful as are the costumes by Mary Lynn Crum and directing by Charles Noite.

With due respect to O'Neill as one of this country's most innovative, serious playwrights, the problem is the play. It hovers on the edge of disaster for three hours with little relief. The audience was so desperate for release, it laughed at the nasty drunkeness of Jamie, the debauched older brother. In any other play, the scene would have been amusingly pathetic but hardly funny.

Watching three hours of family fighting, drunkeness, drug addiction and dashed hopes asks too much of an audience unless the gloom is tempered with moments of ligitness or hints of hope. Only when Edmund describes sitting on the bowsprit of a boat at sea did the play soar with sheer glorious language. The audience could hear the poet in Edmond and look forward with promise to his eventual career as a dramatist.

Greg Almquist turns in an outstanding performance as the wastrel brother, Jamie. Despite his shiftless ways, his energy and intelligent honesty make him likeable, an intriguing balance that probably parallels O'Neill's own feelings about his brother.

"Long Day's Journey into Night" is a mature play that sees the characters with uncompromising clarity balanced by compassion.

Mary Tyrone, James' wife and O'Neill's mother, needs illusion more desperately than the others. She uses morphine to cushion reality and retreats into romanticized memories of

I got off the plane at 6 a.m., waited an hour at JFK for my bags, braved the morning rush hour into the city (cab fare $24-plus-tip one way) so I was a tired and grubby traveler when I arrived at the glass-walled grandeur of the Grand Hyatt.

A huge atrium lobby had replaced the faded grandeur of the Commodore, with business men and women perched on casual chairs and around flowered fountains, drinking their morning coffee and reading the New York newspacalled Trumpets, one of those elegant New York hotel restaurants where attentive but unobtrusive black-tie waiters bring you goodies like duck en croute and Grand Marnier Souffle. George Orwell 'total failure as a forecaster'

George Orwell's famous novel "1984" has turned out to be almost totally wrong as a forecast, scholars report in a special issue of The Futurist maga-

Orwell's works had harmful influence on young poeple, the scholars add, because of its unrelieved pessimism about the future.

The Futurist is published by the World Future Society, an international association of future-oriented scientists, educators, government officals and others. Based in Bethesda, Md., the society has 30,000 members and sub"A FUNNY thing happened to '1984' on its way to the future," says Edward Cornish, editor of The Futurist.

If "1984" is viewed as a prediction, says Cornish, "Orwell is so wrong as to be drummed out of the company of forecasters." There were no atomic wars in the 1950s, no Big Brother rules London, and telescreens do not spy on people in their homes.

Orwell was "nearly a complete fail-ure" as a scientific forecaster of things to come, agrees economist Burnham P. Beckwith. Some admirers praise Orwell as a perceptive futurist whose purpose was to warn his country cial policies.

But Beckwith notes that not even these claims are justified, since Orwell was warning against the adoption of so-cial policies akin to Stalinist communism that were never seriously considered in Great Britain.

ANOTHER ANALYST, historian W. Warren Wagar, concurs. "The real world of 1984 bears little resemblance to Orwell's '1984," he says. "The crude Stalinism of the real 1940s and of Orwell's novel has not spread west-ward, nor has it survived in the Soviet Orwell's Inner Party, consisting of managers and technicians, could be his one harbinger of things to come, ac-cording to Wagar. "If his Big Brother is only a bogeyman from the 1940s, the myriad little brothers in their gray flannel suits are real, and they're coming our way," he says.

Despite Orwell's failure to predict the real world of 1984, there is a popular myth that he accurately forecast modern events, the scholars admit.

We are constantly exposed to people claiming that current conditions are 'just like 1984,'" says Cornish.

Chinese, U.S. plants confront same problems

Chinese and U.S. industries share many common concerns. They range from worker health and safety to competing with largely outdated equipment against modern Asian and European countries, an Oakland University industrial health and safety ex-

Uwe Reischl has returned after a 19-day tour with an American delegation of the heavily industrialized north and eastern seacoasts of China.

"The Chinese industrial managers kept asking how their facilities compared with the U.S.," Reischl said, "and we responded by saying they were about the same." This means the use of outdated equipment in many factories.

The 14 specialists were invited by the Chinese Association for Science and Technology. They were chosen by the American Industrial Hygiene Association. Reischl was one of only two academicians

A SPECIALIST in occupatonal heat stress, Reischl is associate professor and director of the Oakland University program in industrial health and

He and other members of the U.S. delegation vis-

Their observations were based on visits to ship-building facilities, electronics manufacturing plants, textile mills, oil refineries, a steel mill, printing and publishing operations, a pharmaceuti-cal factory, and two schools of public health.

"In some instances, China is actually far ahead of the U.S. In other areas, China is today where the U.S. was 40 years ago," Reischl said.

In a large industrial setting, one generally will find an industrial hygienist, a safety engineer, a nurse, and an industrial physician. In China, only the physician and engineer will be involved, he

Often the two do not understand one another's problems or areas of concern. They are missing the industrial hygienist, the link between them. In this, the Chinese are where U.S. industries were 40 years

But in organizational framework to promote quality of work life, the Chinese are far ahead. Re-

Because Chinese employers know they should take care of a worker for life, the Chinese try to improve the total quality of work life.

They show interest in what happens outside the plant during leisure time, and in family life. Many industries have their own hospitals or clinics. Many have day care centers for the workers' families.

Just after a heavy snowfall, Monte Nagler found magic and beauty in this winter scene at the corner of Novi Road

Winter offers a new dimension

Don't let the cold weather keep you indoors this winter. Winter scenes are different, beautiful and have a mood all their own. Quite often, ordinary scenes in the summer take on a totally new dimension in winter

The minor discomfort you might encounter in the cold air is more than worth the picture possibilities that await you. Bundle up both you and your camera gear and head outside for some exciting shots.

In preparing for cold weather shooting, there are some things to consider. First is your film which, without precautions, may become brittle and break in your camera. Minimize the danger by keeping your camera and film as warm as possible by storing them under your jacket. Never leave them in your car for prolonged periods.

Monte Nagler

Remember that on cold days the camera's meter can become sluggish due to a weak battery. Always make sure your camera batteries are fresh, and it's a good idea to get into the habit of carrying an extra one with

Use a slow, steady movement when advancing the film from one exposure to the next. Slow cranking will reduce the strain on the film and cut down on the possibility of static electricity marks.

Wear thin wool or cotton gloves under your regular gloves. When you're about to take a shot, remove the outer pair.

The inner gloves will give adequate protection from the cold and allow flexibility to handle the camera controls.

If you plan to do a lot of winter photography, it would be wise to purchase a special photography vest. These have many pockets for carrying film, lenses, a spare battery and more. Because the vest is worn next to the body, all items are kept warm by body heat.

Here are some pointers to add impact to your winter photographs.

·Back lighting or side lighting give dramatic effects. Your pictures will capture the sparkle of sunlight on the snow and reveal textures and patterns not obtainable from direct, overhead light. Sun or bright snow can cause flare in your shot. Always use a lens hood.

"The abundance of white areas in winter scenes can fool your meter which is calibrated to read normal proportions of lightness

There are many means of expression

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing ecourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road,

I am extremely flattered by the many people who read the Artifacts column who are not artists. Almost daily someone will say, "I can't draw stick figures, but I read your column every week.'

Well, this one's for you non-artists who may feel left out. If you couldn't tell the difference between a kneaded eraser and silly putty then you may find this installation in-

My wife and I have been blessed to have three sons. How thrilled we were as each at their own time, for whatever reasons, made a sound other than crying. Somehow, something caught their attention and stirred their little brains into such a frenzy that it forced them to make a response.

In that emotional high, each in his own way, with arms and legs wiggling, let out an "ungoo," "baadoo" or "unndee." Those were their first expressions and the beginnings to life or communication.

MY OLDEST son is now at the stature so that I can borrow his underwear and socks. My middle son is still at the "neat toy stage" and my youngest can talk any of us into any-

How important to us all is the need to express ourselves. Expression is in the basic fiber of man and, indeed, separates us from all other creatures. Many of you found daily interest in learning new words during your formative years. New words meant better expression, which led to fulfillment.

But why, after relative mastery of the language, should one feel content to not investigate new forms of expression? Of course, my favorite form of expression is in artwork. But there are other forms of expression, just as worthy and just as fulfilling. It doesn't matter whether you are an accountant punching a calculator or a boxer punching a bag, your need to express yourself is basically the EXPRESSION IS a combination of that part of us which is mental and spiritual to produce something to communicate. To objectify or make visual a feeling is called art. To do this the artist manipulates color form and line to express himself. To arrange sounds or make audible groups of sounds is to produce music. This art form has as many variations as the artist has color.

Both the artist and the musician have an infinite amount of material to better use in their constant need to express. To arrange words in verse or literature is yet another expression. Anyone can express themselves in this imaginary playground.

Poetry, for example, requires no space for hanging, no musical accompaniment and no theatrical lighting. Poetry paints pictures on the canvas of your imagination and implants musical notes inside your mind. Poetry provides a stage for actors and actresses benefited or restricted only by the reader's own imagination.

FOR YEARS I suffered with severe back pain. So much so that I couldn't even turn over in bed. You talk about a lack of communication. One thing in particular that bothered me was being immobile for perhaps two weeks and having someone see me folded like a broken manikin. Their response would be: "Hey, I know exactly what you mean. My back is so sore I could hardly bowl today."

I thought to myself, they will never know After a couple weeks my back pain would ease up enough so that I could move around

But to sit at my art table required so many pain pills that when I sat down to draw I couldn't figure out which end of the pencil to use. I tried telling myself "pointy end down and pink end up." But, of course, this was

ONE TIME in particular I just couldn't move off the floor or bed for weeks. After staring at the ceiling and watching "Huckleberry Hound" reruns I was desperate to find some way to express myself. So I thought I might try writing a poem.

My first thought was not to show anyone unless I liked the way it sounded. I assure you I know nothing about poetry, but at the time my need to express was greater than my fear of failure. There is nothing dearer to me than my family and no amount of success could remedy my error if I ever failed at being a husband or a father

Here is one of my first poems:

In life's treasured moments is there anything dearer Than the moment I help my son in his

I kneel there beside him, his small needs to share And try as I might I can't help but

His long sandy hair is over his ears Oh, Lord, my eyes are filled with tears! Dear Lord, protect him from harm and from danger

May he grow in your will and sin be a stranger; To desire to walk in the pathways you

So someday we'll all be together with

His blue eyes look at me with surprise Why are there tears in my Daddy's

Perhaps this feeling will never be Till he takes him a wife and builds him

And has him a son, a son of his own

Flesh of his flesh and bone of his bone.

Now if anyone out there knows anything about poetry please go easy on me. You see I wouldn't know an iambic if it slapped me in the face. And when it comes to writing the first time I ever saw the expression "eeyuck" was when Mr. Erwin (my English teacher) scribbled it across the only story I ever wrote prior to this article. I shudder to think that my friend Rosemarie, who knows everything there is to know about writing, reads my article every week. Maybe, when my confidence builds I will send Mr. Erwin a letter and say, 'Hey, Mr. Erwin, I are now a writer!"

Dancer studies Mme Cadillac

staff writer

For a couple of hundred years, Madame Antoine De La Mothe Cadillac has been one of those shadowy figures of history — the quiet little wife of Detroit's founding father - a name without a face, a woman without her own identity.

But, no longer. Harriet Berg, Detroit's grand dame of dance and something of a feminist herself, is not only putting flesh on Madame Cadillac's bones, she's putting more than a little brain in her head and courage in her heart.

Berg's research of Madame Cadillac and early dance quickly ballooned far beyond the original project, funded by a Michigan Council for the Arts grant.

Who was this nicely dressed lady shown in a painting at the Detroit Public Li-

"She didn't come by boat, she came by canoe," said Berg. "She arrived in May of 1702. He came in July of 1701. I say she brought French culture here because she made her home here."

Cadillac brought their eldest son, who was 12 at the time, with him. Madame Cadillac brought two younger sons, 3, and 7, with her.

"She came from Montreal to Detroit by canoe, the whole way," said Berg. "The canoes were six feet wide and 35 feet long, big enough to carry up to two tons of merchandise. They were birchbark with cedar.

"She left in September and thought she could make it in three months. But, they ran into bad weather, spent the winter at Fort Frontenac (near Kingston, Ont.) and didn't arrive until May 1702.

"They had three canoes with Indians, soldiers and Madame Cadillac's best friend, Anne Picote Belestre Tonti. Her husband, Alphonse Tonti, was Cadillac's second in command."

ASK YOUR REALTOR

Q. My wife and I have considered buying a home, is it a good time to buy a home? M/M R., Canton, MI

A. Yes, it is a great time to buy a home. Interest rates are reasonable and more importantly home prices are realistic and quite attractive. Smart buyers will not wait. They will buy now. The inventory of properties at this time is also a determining factor, it is still a buyers martime is also a determining tactor, it is still a buyers mar-ket and you would have many homes from which to make your selection. line Convent in Montreal together, Berg said. In fact, the convent, complete with records that go back to its founding, was helpful in establishing the whereabouts of the Cadillac daughters while parents and sons were at Fort Ponchatrain du Detroit.

Guyon, second generation French Canadian, daughter of a well-to-do merchant of Quebec. She was named for Louis XIV'S wife, Marie Therese of Austria.

Berg said that when Cadillac arrived in Montreal about the mid 1670s, it was like any provincial French town.

They had brought everything over here to reproduce France — and the French had already been here a 100 years or Cadillac was born in St. Nicholas de la Grave in the southern part of France, near the Spanish border, in 1658, but there is some question about his age.

In 1974, his birthplace was purchased by the Detroit Historical Society and it is now a museum which Berg and her husband visited this past summer.

Berg has been invited to take her Madame Cadillac Dancers and musicians to St. Nicholas de la Grave for a residency

Berg said if they accept, they will be "teaching and performing modern dance, ballet, jazz and historical dances for a month, if possible."

Berg's beginning research took her from Detroit and the Burton Collection to

WHEN YOU are speaking to someone you only feel like you have commu-nicated with them when you believe they understand what you have said. This understanding on their part helps you feel as if you have expressed your-self. I feel this understanding, though not a requirement, is helpful for those seeking to express themselves in forms of art.

How ventilated is the artist whose feelings of mind and spirit are made physical and understood by those he wishes to communicate with. If, for example, you emotionally grouped a bunch of nonsensical words in a verse, it may make you feel as though you expressed something. But what a onesided love affair it is when the only one basically selfish.

who can appreciate or even understand the verse is the one who wrote it. I guess expression is a lot like love.

REMEMBER WHEN you first felt the feelings of love? For some reason this person was different than all the rest. With much expression and hesitation you sputtered out the words, "I love you.'

This for me was a great feeling to have love and express love. But how fulfilled was my expression when it was understood and returned.

So learn to express yourself. It doesn't matter if you talk like Rocky Balboa or if your voice is like a scratching record. Whoever you are, seek to express yourself. Those who do not express themselves need to fill their time with entertainment which is
