

Many buyers; no sellers

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

Bake admits that the present conditions are the most puzzling since he set up his business years ago.

What makes the Plymouth area, especially the city, so attractive?

McKeon answers that "our closely knitted business district and other attractions have a strong effect on the people hoping to live here."

"When you take a look at it, there is all sorts of business downtown. A person or family can buy almost anything they want without going more than a few blocks. Aside from that we have a park that is a friendly section right in the business district. There you can go shopping, have a meal within a few blocks, and then in the summer enjoy an evening of concerts in the park."

"All those things make it attractive. You won't find them in any other area. So, naturally, they'd like to make Plymouth their home."

Aside from business and entertainment, the City of Plymouth has two hospital clinics in the heart of the downtown section. So, a person is never far from help when when any sort of accident or health failure comes along.

In the meantime the real estate agents and brokers are puzzled. They have reason to be. They have buyers, no end of them, but no sellers.

The real estate brokers and salesman are now experiencing one of the strangest periods in the history of the Plymouth area. They have all sorts and numbers of buyers but no sellers.

There are very few places for sale and very few residential lots on which to build. As the sellers point out, there may be about a half dozen lots, but you have to search long and hard to find them.

The big change that has come about is being brought on by the major industries in this section of the state, who are now switching many of their officers and employees.

"They come to Plymouth," says James McKeon, former mayor of Plymouth and Realtor with Schwitzer Better Homes & Gardens, "thinking that there are plenty of homes available because of the transfer. Instead they are disappointed and have to go elsewhere to find a home."

As a result many of them are taking up residence in Northville and Canton Township. And many are heading toward Livonia. They are finding places to live but not in Plymouth.

BOB BAKE, always up among the leaders in the real estate group, just shakes his shoulders and points out, "We have plenty of potential customers but not much to sell them."

Bus capacity under review

Legislation is being considered in Lansing to legalize overcrowded school buses.

Previous state law provided school bus drivers could not permit capacity to exceed 100 percent, or 66 passengers in a full-size bus.

The proposal to allow buses to transport above capacity is being opposed by the Plymouth-Canton Education Transportation Association (PCETA) Legislative Committee.

A bill (SB 361) was introduced by state Sen. Patrick H. McCullough to permit to "prohibit a school bus driver from transporting more than 125 percent of the number of persons for whom there was seating capacity on the bus." That bill was co-sponsored by Sen. William Faust, D-Westland.

The effect of the original McCullough measure would have been to allow one-fourth more students on a bus than current law allows.

That proposal was amended, though, to permit student ridership to exceed capacity by 10 percent.

The amendment to change 125 percent to 110 percent has passed the Senate and now is in the education committee of the House. The exact language now proposed is that "A driver of a school bus shall not transport more than 110 percent of the number of persons for which there is seating capacity."

DEBBIE CUDNEY and Joanne Rajewski are Plymouth-Canton bus drivers who serve on the PCETA legislative committee along with Judy Clement. Cudney points out that the 110 percent limit would allow 72 students to ride on a 66-passenger bus.

"Our concern is that this bill will be defeated so that capacity will not exceed 100 percent," said Rajewski. "Our intention also is to remove the responsibility from the school bus driver and place it on the individual school district."

Cudney and Rajewski said the committee favors having the bill amended to read, "A school district shall not schedule more than 100 percent of the number of persons for which there is seating capacity."

The average bus seat is 37 inches wide, said Cudney, and federal specifications for is a 13-inch seat area per student.

Those specifications, she added, result in three students per seat. For middle school and senior high routes, the student on the outside part of the seat ends up partly in the aisle clogging the aisle.

The drivers explain that anytime 100 percent of capacity is exceeded that students will end up standing up.

"We hope that concerned residents would call or write their state representatives and ask that transporting limits be kept to 100 percent of capacity," added Rajewski.

Autumn ritual

Family comes together to make own cider

By Alvia Lewis
staff writer

When Evelyn and Joseph Freiman purchased their house on Haggerty in Plymouth Township in 1971, they had no idea how to work an apple press. With the house came the press, cheap at $50, so they taught themselves how.

Now, 14 years later, they are experts at pressing apples, as the 50 or so family members and close friends who gather every year to help them will attest.

"It's become a tradition," said Evelyn, who admits they read a few books to get some helpful hints. "We bring out the press in September and leave it out to the end of the season — around Halloween."

The Freimans have nine children. They all come back for apple press time, except for the ones who live out of state.

"We have them coming from all over," said daughter Mary Lou. "from Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids and Pickney."

DAUGHTER TRISHA, who lives at home, said that mixing "Jonathan, McIntosh and Delicious apples together makes the best cider."

The gathering of apple presses is an all-day affair. And just how does one press apples?

Simple, according to Trisha.

1.) Collect and wash a bushel of apples. 2.) Once in mill begin cranking away. 3.) After pulp falls into a burlap-lined barrel, move barrel to presser. 4.) Once apple juice is pressed and collected in a wooden tray located beneath the press, pull cork and cider is strained through cheesecloth and drained into a spaghetti pot. 5.) Pour cider into jugs and enjoy.

"In five or six hours you can have about 25 gallons of cider," Trisha said. "Each batch takes about 15 minutes or less to make, and one bushel equals about two gallons or less."

In between making cider and making cider, the Freimans give hay rides to the children on their five acres of land.

Their first apple press of the year was on Oct. 20, and it may be their last.

"Four and a half acres are being sold to developers who plan to build offices," Evelyn said. "And when the land goes the farmlike atmosphere will go with it."

Cars damaged at apartments

Windows were smashed on three cars parked at the Hillcrest Apartments last weekend in Plymouth Township. The vandalism occurred between 7 p.m. Saturday and noon Sunday.

Taken from one vehicle, police reports indicated, were a Fuzzbuster radar detector valued at $300, a box of cosmetics worth $300, a blood pressure cup valued at $100, a foot massage machine worth $80 and a cassette radio and 24 cassette tapes, no stated value.

Nothing apparently was taken from the other two cars.

Windows also were reported broken on one car on Wildwing and on Bellwood. Again, nothing was reported stolen.

A purse containing $73 cash, a checkbook and several credit cards was reported stolen from the bowling area of Plymouth Bowl on Plymouth Road. The theft occurred between 6 and 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Representatives of Bob Jeannotte Pontiac on Sheldon reported that nearly $890 cash was stolen from a vault on the premises between 8 p.m. last Thursday and 6:30 a.m. Friday.

Grecian fur proprietor finds home in Plymouth

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

Few persons have traveled a more surprising route to reach their goal in life than Larry L. Christoff, proprietor of the Onyx Furs on Forest Place in downtown Plymouth.

Born in Greece, he was with a group captured by the Communists. For six years he served in the Communist camps. When he finally was released he was adopted by his uncle and brought to America. It was the sort of voyage he had dreamed about while in camp.

After landing in the states and looking for a place to spend his life and establish a business, he eventually landed in Northville. Here he opened a store and spent a year building up a trade in furs.

Fortunately, many of his relatives operated a fur factory in Greece and he learned as much of the business as possible.

"We did fine but even though the people were nice I would have much preferred a ground level business place. We kept looking and when a place opened in downtown Plymouth, it was just what we wanted.

"We have been here since June and everything is working out fine. This business section is the kind of a location we wanted and it seems to get better every day."

CHRISTOFF LEARNED the business from his relatives in Greece, acquiring knowledge in all aspects of the business from the time the animals were slain until their hides were brought to the factory. Aside from learning the business he also was given a close up education on the various types of furs and the animals from which they came.

In his present store Christoff has a wide variety of furs on display. Among them are Mongolian sheep, beavers, racoons, a wide variety of fox hides. Among them are the favored Blue Fox and Persian lambs.

"I found Plymouth an ideal place. The people are so nice and friendly and the business section is something you don't find in other cities. There seems to be foot traffic all day. So, I am real happy with a headquarters like this and I hope I can remain here for quite a while.

"On top of these fine things, the organizations in Plymouth — especially the Chamber of Commerce — have been most helpful."
One of the points he likes to tell is that he does business directly with the factory in Canada and still has his ties with those in the fur trading business in Greece.

He doesn't talk about his stay in the Communist camps. The fact that he is out of them is pleasant enough, especially now that he found a ground level store.

Dunning-Hough Library gets $10,000 grant

A state grant of $10,000 will help fund an estimated $24,500 worth of office improvements to Plymouth's Dunning-Hough Library.

"The back room where we get books ready for shelves . . . is not really suited for modern technology at all," said Pat Thomas, library director.

Planned improvements include new countertops, storage shelving, electrical lines, phone lines, heating ducts, a suspended ceiling and modernized lighting, Thomas said.

Library patrons will indirectly benefit from improvements.

"It will make our backroom operation much more efficient," she said.

"Now, incoming books are stacked pretty much wherever there's space. We've had additional staff in recent years and not enough seats.

"It's just been very awkward and hard to keep books moving and out on the shelves for people to use," Thomas continued. "The phone lines are inadequate."

Work probably won't begin until after the first of the year. A contractor must be selected by Jan. 22, according to terms of the grant.

LIBRARY USERS may be somewhat inconvenienced during the renovations.

"Our workroom is off to a corner by the children's room," Thomas said. "I think what the public will notice is we'll have to move our operations out of there and it might be a little messy."

The Dunning-Hough Library will circulate about 180,000 volumes this year, Thomas projected, up slightly from previous years.

"Part of it certainly is the new building," she said. "Books are more accessible and more easily displayed. There's been more publicity. The library district was established and people see the library moving ahead."

The library, at 201 S. Main, is open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. Eighteen employees, all but two part-time, staff the facility.

Even with the $10,000 grant, city monies (an estimated $14,500) will fund the bulk of the office renovations.

Commission approves multipurpose ambulance

By Alvia Lewis
staff writer

The Plymouth City Commission Monday night unanimously accepted a bid from Michigan First Response to buy a multipurpose emergency response vehicle for its fire department.

The ambulance unit will be purchased at a cost of $54,445, and is designed to handle emergency responses to fires, hazardous materials accidents and the extrication of victims.

The city initially will cover the entire purchase price for the unit but will be reimbursed through a federal Community Development Block Grant at a rate of $25,000 per year over a three-year period.

The unit replaces the existing city ambulance, which is scheduled for replacement. The city will keep the existing unit and probably use it as an equipment truck.

Assistant city manager Paul Sincok said that the unit, when fully equipped, will contain rubber hazardous material suits, sand bags, air bags, an emergency response command center and the "Jaws of Life."

The unit is scheduled for delivery by April.

Also at last night's meeting, the board voted to repair the old front-end loader at a cost of $4,500 instead of purchasing a new one, which would cost between $70,000 and $100,000.

"It is worth our while to rebuild the present engine and get two more years use," said City Manager Henry E. Graper. "In the meantime we can concentrate on a method by which the purchase could be financed."

In other business, the board:

- Presented two proclamations, one to Minerva Chaiken for her presence as a merchant in Plymouth for 35 years in the Minerva's Dunning's apparel store, and one to the Plymouth CEP Marching Band for winning the state championship.

- Held four public hearings, all involving the Economic Development Commission (EDC) Project Plan, with no comments from the public.

- Accepted the '84-85 fiscal year audit as prepared by Post, Smythe, Lutz & Ziel, Certified Public Accountants.
- Passed a resolution waiving the prohibition of selling alcoholic beverages on Election Day.

The next special meeting of the board will be Tuesday, Nov. 12, to swear-in the commissioners elected this week.

The Observer, in two articles in its last two editions, incorrectly referred to Plymouth City Commission candidate William L. Bingley as Robert Bingley. Robert Bingley, a former longtime, well-known Plymouth resident, died in the mid-1960s at age 39. The substitution of the name Robert for candidate William Bingley was inadvertent and a cause for embarrassment. Any inconvenience caused the candidate or discomfort felt by the family is sincerely regretted — editor.

DOWNTOWN streets and city parking areas are kept bare, Vogras said.

Work crews won't head into subdivisions unless more than four inches of snow has fallen.

"We can plow all residential streets in town in four hours," he added.

Vogras said he has 15 employees and eight pieces of equipment at his disposal to tend to snow emergencies. Subcontractors are hired to assist in the event of large snowfalls.

While the city doesn't have a snow emergency ordinance banning on-street parking, Vogras said he would hope residents would have their cars if they anticipate plows may be coming through.

"Some of our equipment drops some pretty good winnows around cars," he said.

(Plymouth has a general 3-6 a.m. on-street parking ban in effect throughout the year.)

Vogras said he uses 1,200 tons of road salt during a typical winter. An average-sized dump truck holds about five tons.

Plymouth Township residents must depend on the Wayne County Department of Roads to plow major roads and their own resources for streets within subdivisions.

"ANY ROAD in the township is either state or county-owned," said James Anulewicz, township planning director. "The township has no responsibility or authority in those right-of-ways."

All groups need support

To the editor:
Regarding the "Band lacks spirit" letter from Evelyn Olszewski:

Why do some people find it hard to support all activities with spirit and encouragement for our youth? Why can't football players be football players, cheerleaders be cheerleaders, drama students act, etc. etc. Therefore musicians choose band, orchestra, jazz, all the wonderful, exciting challenges offered at the Park without being criticized or harassed for their choice?

All programs are separate units, each working for their own goals and pleasure. Not one group belongs to another — they are as individual as our children. Most groups and members do support each other. Sometimes the kids have more class than we adults. No group or club is at the mercy of another. Please take time to understand their programs and be supportive and enjoy what they accomplish.

We are a family involved in the music program, yet we enjoy watching the games, the cheerleaders, pom pom squad, the excellent plays of the drama department — all the accomplishments of these fine students working and enjoying their talents and crafts.

Olszewski has knocked the CEP State Championship Marching Band. They don't deserve criticism, being a champion. They deserve and need praise and respect from the community. They do support our community and school. They take with them the pride of Plymouth-Canton to the Grand National Championship in the Hoosier Dome of Indianapolis on Nov. 15, 16. I'd like to believe they take with them the support of their friends and community.

If you want a variety of music, please attend a symphony band concert. See and hear most of these same young people performing. They have spirit, it's a winning spirit, and we congratulate them. They have made us proud, and represent their community and school with spirit and pride.

Also, we thank Jim Griffith for his ability to teach and work a program that is exciting to its students and gives them challenges to meet.

Lois A. Hotchkin
Plymouth

Success comes from practice

To the editor:

In a letter printed recently in your paper, Evelyn Olszewski directed some rather serious criticism at the CEP Marching Band and its director, James Griffith.

As three-year members of the Plymouth-Canton Music boosters we wanted to address some of these criticisms because they seem to come from a lack of understanding of the band and its activities.

If school spirit is measured in attendance at athletic contests, then there is indeed a problem with spirit at the park. It is unfair, however, to blame it on the band. The band does, in fact, perform at the halftime every week during football season (because one of the teams is always at home) and the music boosters make up a large portion of the spectators (oddly enough, I have never seen the football team at a band competition).

I'm sure it appears to many that the band does exactly the same thing week after week, but the same could be said of the sports teams. The football team doesn't learn new plays every week. It is the nature of competing bands that they learn one show every season and try hour upon hour to perfect it. The trained eye can see how the show grows and changes and improves as the season goes on.

Yet, they play the same songs every week because in marching band, as in football and in baseball and in life, success comes from hard work and seemingly endless practice.

We invite Olszewski to come to one of our symphony concerts to hear the many other musical selections that our children know. The band has been quite successful in recent years and is beginning to get recognition around the state and even in other states — recognition for itself and for the schools.

It involves the efforts of 175 student musicians and their parents in wholesome, entertaining, educational activities. The students learn about discipline and dedication as well as learning musical skills which they can enjoy the rest of their lives.

Griffith has been a respected music educator for many years and the performances of his bands marching, symphony and concert are testimony to his dedication and ability. Through our involvement, with the music boosters, we have come to know him quite well and have the utmost respect for him, personally and professionally.

As for the band being bored, it may be of interest that when asked their preference of a trip to the Orange Bowl or a trip to the Marching Bands American Finals in Indianapolis to do the "same old show" one more time, the students not only opted for Indianapolis but voted to take extra practice to prepare for it.

Finally, we chose yellow and black for our competition uniforms for the high visibility during both day and evening performances. But they are getting old and frayed, and any contributions toward new ones would be greatly appreciated.

New mystery unfolds at Indian bones site

"I don't expect this! Its incredible!" I exclaimed to Doug Cash as we once again explored the site of the ancient Indian burials in Plymouth township. "Look at this charcoal," Cash remarked. "Tons of it. All through the sand here."

"And look at this," Cash added, as he turned over another spadeful of old bones. He had reached the bottom of the pit and everything in there seemed to be in a very advanced state of decomposition.

"What do you think of this, Helen," Cash queried.

"It reminds me of a verse in the Bible — 'Dust thou art and unto dust thou shalt return.' This is heavy dust and probably from a ritual of early Hurons or Hopewells. The funeral ritual was a part of their religion."

"Ann Arbor thought this was pre-Columbian — that would be about the same time as the early Huron. I think you have uncovered what the anthropologists call a 'mortuary hut,' and the charcoal may be the result of the collapse of the wooden roof in a fire. Does the University of Michigan know about this?"

"Yes," Cash stated, "they were here again this morning and took two pails of the bones and some of the charcoal."

"Good! They're responsible for the identification. Everything depends upon those Carbon-14 tests."

"Will they be ready soon?" Cash asked.

"Not soon. Not nearly as soon as I had originally estimated. I have learned something about Carbon-14 lately. It takes several weeks to prepare the bones in the lab. Then it is flown to New Mexico where it will await its turn in the special testing lab there.

"There are other people on the program — perhaps a half dozen ahead of us. When they finish at Los Alamos there are five more evaluations. It is a very complicated, intricate process. And you can't hurry it. We'll be lucky if we hear by Christmas. My guess is maybe March or April. Just maybe."

"Is it a costly process?"

"Yes. Perhaps as much as $200 for a spoonful."

"Is it accurate?"

"Usually, but not always."

THE WORD CARBON is derived from the Latin carbo meaning "coal," "charcoal," "embers."

Diamond is a corruption of the Greek word Adamas which means "invincible." A diamond is a form of carbon as is graphite which comes from the Green verb graphein meaning "to write." As you know, many writing instruments including pencils have a graphite base.

Carbon is a natural element in the universe, widely distributed; it occurs in an almost pure state in the diamond and in an impure state in charcoal.

Carbon-14, or radiocarbon, is a radioactive isotope with an atomic weight of 14 while ordinary carbon weighs 12.011. The prefix "iso" means equal and indicates two or more forms of a chemical element having the same number of protons in its nucleus. An isotope may have a different number of neutrons; therefore, it has a different atomic weight.

Carbon-14 is formed when high energy atomic particles (called cosmic waves or rays) smash into the earth's atmosphere. At Los Alamos these rays can be artificially generated for various purposes including the dating of ancient artifacts.

All living things, including people and plants, cats and dogs, everything and everybody, contain radiocarbons — Carbon-14. In the atmosphere there is one atom of radiocarbon for every trillion molecules of carbon dioxide gas. Human beings and other animals take in Carbon-14 from the food chain.

THE AGE of the old bones on Ann Arbor Trail will be determined by measuring their radiocarbon content.

This determination is based upon the known rate of decay of all radioactive substances. The process is built upon a technique developed by a noted American scientist, Professor Willard F. Libby.

The hypothesis assumes that half the radiocarbon in any given object disappears in about 5,700 years; therefore, radiocarbon has a half-life for that period of time. For twice that time, 11,400 years, a fourth of the original amount remains, and so on. This steady decay is a measurable rate, and the age of the object being examined may be determined by this formula.

Two methods of radiocarbon dating are widely used today. One method involves burning a piece of the object which converts it to carbon dioxide gas. Radiation counters are used to measure the amount of radiocarbon in the purified gas. These are detected as the gas changes in the process back to Nitrogen 14. The radiation counters detect the exact number of electrons given off in the burning, and in this way the age of the object may be closely approximated — not always exactly but very closely.

A newer method of carbon dating is widely used today. This uses a "particle accelerator" which fires charged atoms from the object into a magnetic field. The field deflects and separates the various carbon elements and then the detector counts the individual atoms. A simple math formula based upon their known rate of decay will determine their age.

FRANKLY I AM much more interested in where those old Ann Arbor Trail bones came from, how those Indians lived, their lifestyle, their history, than I am in their atomic weight.

I am willing to leave carbon dating to the scientists and proceed to some reasonable assumptions based upon historical facts. In fact, I am reasonably certain of some things even without carbon dating.

One of our clues is in the National Geographic's excellent book, "The World of the American Indian." This is used as a text in the American Indian Heritage classes in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. On page 64 you will find a map which shows the location of Indian mounds in the Middle West. I have seen a more detailed map in the Lansing offices of Michigan's anthropology department. The frequency of the red dots showed a large number of mounds in Michigan — not as many as in Ohio but almost.

Another informative source book available to all is Rand McNally's wonderful guide to archeological sites and museums. The book, by Franklin Folsom, is titled "America's Ancient Treasures."

Both of these books were guidebooks for us this summer when a friend and I explored the mounds of Ohio. We visited the Serpentine mound near Peebles, the Mound City Group near Chillicothe, and the Fort Ancient Memorial at Lebanon. One of the highlights of our visit was to the outstanding Ohio Historical Museum at Columbus. Don't miss it if you have an interest in this subject.

Read "Ann Arbor Trail Indians part of prehistoric past" in the Observer on Oct. 24 for some of the facts gleaned from these trips.

ANOTHER MEMORABLE discovery on our trip was the Colonel Johnson Farm at Piqua, Ohio. It was near here that the chief of the Miami, "Old Britain," made his last stand.

We enjoyed a canal boat ride along the same river where Celeron and his French soldiers from d'Etroit paddled their canoes in 1749. The boat was authentic and so was the river, but there was no signs of any Indians except in the marvelous little museum that is on the grounds. The boat ride and the museum are open to the public at nominal cost and are well worth a trip.

The next edition of Tonquish Tales will take you for one more time back to the forest on Ann Arbor Trail near the artesian spring where you will witness the ceremony which preceded the burials of these ancient Indians.

House approves $1.6-billion 1986 budget

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes during the week ending Nov. 1.

HOUSE

MX MISSILE — By a vote of 210 for and 214 against, the House rejected an amendment to delete money for 12 new MX missiles — $1.7 billion — from the fiscal 1986 military appropriations bill. This reversed a roll-call vote the same day to remove the $1.7 billion from the $296.2 billion Pentagon spending bill, which later was sent to the Senate.

The turnout came after several members, in the face of lobbying by the Reagan Administration, dropped their initial opposition to funding 12 more MX missiles in 1986.

Members who voted against the MX earlier in the day, then changed to support the weapon by voting no on this amendment, were Arlan Stangeland, R-Minn., Rod Chandler, R-Wash., and Claude Pepper, D-Fla.

Members who voted against the MX on the first roll-call, then helped the Administration secure victory by failing to vote hours later on this amendment, were Silvio Conte, R-Mass., Don Bonker, D-Wash., and Kenneth Gray, D-Ill.

Amendment sponsor Barney Frank, D-Mass., said members could cast "a free Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction scorecard vote, because you can kill the $1.7 billion, and no one is going to tell you that you have damaged our national security."

Opponent Bill Chappell, D-Fla., said the amendment "would halt deployment of (some 40) MX missiles already funded and . . . would be a serious, serious mistake."

Members voting yes wanted to block production of 12 more MX missiles. Voting yes were Democrats Dennis Hertel of Harper Woods, William Ford of Taylor and Sander Levin of Southfield.

Voting no were Republicans Carl Pursell and William Broomfield of Birmingham.

BALANCED BUDGET — By a vote of 249 for and 180 against, the House voted along party lines to adopt and send to the Senate a Democratic revision of the Senate's Gramm-Rudman-Hollings amendment requiring a balanced federal budget. The amendment was offered to legislation (H J Res 372) increasing the federal debt limit and allowing the government to borrow more money.

The House action continued a dispute with the Senate and the Reagan Administration that threatened to force the government to redeem Social Security trust fund securities in order to borrow more operating funds. Attempting to avoid such a step, the House later passed and sent to the Senate a short-term debt limit increase.

rollcall report

The Democrats' budget-balancing amendment would:

- Mandate a smaller current-year deficit ($161 billion) than called for by the Senate amendment or by the congressional budget resolution approved earlier.
- End deficit spending a year earlier, in 1989.
- Tie the amount of each year's deficit reduction to the health of the national economy.
- Give the president less leeway in imposing spending cuts. Programs aiding the poor would be exempted from automatic cuts triggered by excessive deficits.

Opponents said the Democratic plan was an attempt to undermine the balanced budget effort through unreachable deficit reduction goals and a mechanism likely to be thrown out by the courts. Democrats Hertel, Ford and Levin supported the measure. Republicans Pursell and Broomfield opposed it.

BUDGET RECONCILIATION — By a vote of 245 for and 174 against, the House approved and sent to the Senate the final $19 billion portion (HR 3128) of its three-year "budget reconciliation" package, implementing deficit reductions endorsed earlier in Congress' 1986 budget resolution.

About $10 billion in savings would be made in the Medicare program for the elderly, while $7.6 billion would be raised by increasing revenues.

The measure, opposed primarily by those favoring more cuts or opposing areas of increased spending in the deficit-reduction bill, would:

- Continue restrictions on Medicare payments to doctors and hospitals.
- Retain the 16-cent tax on a pack of cigarettes, now scheduled to drop to eight cents.
- Impose new customs fees on travelers arriving in the U.S.
- Quality two-parent families for welfare where both are unemployed.
- Extend for four years a compensation program for workers laid off as a result of imports.
- Increase the tax on coal to fund miners' disability benefits.

Supporter Harold Ford, D-Tenn., said the bill satisfied commitments to "reduce the deficit and to provide a safety net."

Opponent Willis Gradison, R-Ohio, said "what we have before us is a deficit reduction fig leaf being used to cover up new spending."

Members voting yes supported the bill. Voting yes: Ford, D-Taylor, Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Pursell, R-Plymouth, Hertel, D-Harper Woods, Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

The bill (HR 2942) received Senate approval on a non-record vote and became law.

Members voting yes supported the legislative branch appropriations bill. Voting yes: Ford, D-Taylor, Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Pursell, R-Plymouth, Hertel, D-Harper Woods, Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Musicians don't feel deprived

To the editor:

As a CEP Marching Band member I wish to explain why, indeed, the CEP band deserves the communities' support.

Each member of the band spends 10 weeks practicing and working very hard to perfect their performance. We travel each week to various competitions across Michigan and out-of-state representing the community.

We have been very successful this year, winning the Grand Champion Trophy at the Tropicana Music Bowl in Cincinnati, the Grand Champion Trophy at the Durand Invitational, and the Grand Champion at the M.C.B.D.A. championship state show.

Playing only three selections is anything but an insult to our abilities. There are many talented musicians at CEP and they express this not only in the marching band but also in the three CEP school bands — varsity, concert, and symphony.

The marching band is strictly an extracurricular activity. All practices are held after school. About one-fourth of the marching band consists of freshmen from the middle schools of the Plymouth-Canton community. Also the marching band not only plays musical selections but performs intricate marching maneuvers with the music.

Yes we play only three songs all season in our show, but we spend the entire season perfecting the performance of these three songs and putting together the best show we can do.

The young musicians of Plymouth-Canton are anything but deprived. We are provided with an excellent staff to work with us and are given many opportunities that most band members of other communities are not.

The CEP Marching Band does nothing to destroy school spirit. We do the best we can to maintain school spirit, playing at pep assemblies and football games. It is impossible for us to form a pep band because there is a home football game every week that we perform at. How could we possibly travel to an away game when there is a home game that we are to perform at?

The uniforms we wear at football games are blue and white, not because we favor Salem over Canton, but because they are the uniforms used since Salem was the only high school. Yes, our competition uniforms are black and yellow but those are our own colors which enhance our visual effect in competition.

With all the work we do, we do not deserve to be ridiculed for the fact that we play only three songs or wear the wrong colors. We work hard trying to be successful in representing the community and would really welcome its support.

Lisa Kisabeth
CEP Marching Band member

Who can speak for the band?

To the editor:

This letter is in response to Evelyn Olszewski's open letter to James Griffith.

Every year these issues come up. Why is there only one marching band playing for only one school football team each week, playing the same half-time show each week.

Perhaps Olszewski would be less bitter had her son played on a winning football team. It is definitely more fun to be associated with a winner, such as the CEP Marching Band, than with a loser as is the Plymouth Canton football team.

I won't go into the old argument of why there are many more yellow jackets at the football game. I also won't go into the old argument of perhaps it's a good idea to combine the athletic program at the Park (although it did work wonders for the music program). And, as far as these kids only learning four musical numbers (actually it's six — they also learn both fight songs!), I am curious as to how many playbooks each football team is required to memorize per season.

In addition to learning the music, Mrs. Olszewski, our kids learn a drill which is 30 pages long. How does this compare with the number of plays your son had to learn for the season?

It's a shame you didn't accompany your husband to the music boosters committee meeting he attended last year. Perhaps you could have asked these questions in person. I'm sure you would have found many more capable people than myself ready and willing to give you the answers you are looking for.

By the way, on Nov. 15, 16 the CEP Marching Band will represent the CEP and the State of Michigan at the Marching Bands of American National Finals in Indianapolis. We will send our band of more than 170 members, along with at least as many boosters. Will you wish us luck? If your coach fielded a winner for the Park, we would be behind you 100 percent.

Some state leaders balk at tourism department

Thursday, November 7, 1985 O&E

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A fuming state Sen. Harry DeMaso is gunning for an open showdown with state administrators who are quietly resisting his bill to create a Department of Recreation, Tourism and Culture.

"Next meeting I'm gonna have every one of the departments in here and ask them what they're doing. Let's lay it on the table. They're saying, 'I hear privately it's going no place,'" said DeMaso, R-Battle Creek.

Chairman of the Senate committee on economic development and tourism, he is author of a package of bills to create the 20th department of state government. DeMaso interrupted speakers frequently during a two-hour hearing in Lansing Tuesday to vent his frustration at the quiet opposition of state administrators.

His bills, subject of recent public hearings in Detroit and outstate cities, would strip powers from the Commerce, Natural Resources, State and Public Health departments.

"I HEARD nothing but favorable comments (from non-state sources) in those hearings," DeMaso said. "But from state government itself, there's opposition to anything called change."

His tentative date for the showdown is the afternoon of Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Supporting the package were spokesmen for county and local governments in Wayne and Oakland counties. Among them was R. Eric Reickel, current Wayne County parks chief who held the same job previously in Oakland County.

"I'm going to pursue the 20th department, by hook or by crook," vowed the 29-year veteran of the Legislature.

MICHIGAN'S 1984 Constitution required that 130-some state agencies, bureaus, commissions and departments be reorganized under no more than 20 department headings. The Legislature promptly created 19, leaving one in reserve.

Many proposals to create the 20th department have been voiced in the state capital, but DeMaso insists the honor belongs to the state's third largest industry — one which grew in a recession as thousands of manufacturing jobs were lost.

He argues the state's efforts to promote tourism are strewn across several existing departments and therefore ineffective.

While Sen. Jack Weiborn, R-Kalamazoo, a doctrinaire foe of state spending, continually asked what a department of tourism would cost, DeMaso insisted, "It's not a matter of more dollars."

"Kathy's family needed hope."

A young mother with a serious illness. Her family in crisis. They came to Harper Hospital and found new hope. They learned that Harper is a university-based research and teaching hospital. A place where scientists work alongside physicians, transforming discovery into treatment. They found that Harper concentrates on the tough adult cases in cancer, heart disease and serious vision disorders.

Patients like Kathy come to Harper Hospital at the Medical Center with confidence. They come because Harper is a major participant, together with the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York and the M.D. Anderson Tumor Institute in Houston, in America's network of only twenty Comprehensive Cancer Centers. Patients know that if the diagnosis is cancer, there is no better place to be than Harper Hospital. And they come with confidence because the Kresge Eye Institute is at Harper Hospital. This important Medical Center resource is devoted exclusively to the problems of vision. And through its research and clinical work, the Kresge Eye Institute gives new hope to millions with impaired vision throughout the world.

Harper is hope for heart patients, too. Its large scale, nationally recognized program brings together research, teaching, surgery and medicine. More open heart surgeries are performed each year at Harper than are performed at any other hospital in Michigan. But of more significance is the growing number of heart patients Harper is able to treat successfully each year without surgery. For Kathy and her family. For you and your family. Harper Hospital is Science. Research. Hope and Healing.

Helping Hands plan needs help

A FEW years ago the PTO Council of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools coordinated an excellent program known as the "Helping Hands."

Purpose was to have a corps of neighborhood volunteers in Plymouth-Canton who were willing to help young children in trouble.

The idea was simple. Any adults willing to provide a helping hand to a youngster would locate in their front window a decal of a large, red Helping Hand. The symbol would say that inside the house was a caring, responsible adult willing to help a troubled child.

The trouble might be as simple as a kindergartner or first grader who gets lost on the way home from school. The child was told to look for a Helping Hand in a window, go up to that house, knock on the door and ask for assistance. The child would be invited in and a phone call made to the parent, school or police for assistance. Until help arrives, the child has a safe haven inside the home of a Good Samaritan.

The program was effective. But unfortunately it ran into problems because of potential liability. Issues arose in other communities about the liability of adults who volunteer to be Helping Hands.

A further problem arose concerning the school district's liability in case of a problem. With fears of malpractice by a Good Samaritan, the school district sought a legal opinion.

THE ATTORNEYS advised that the participating adult, the PTO Council, and the school district faced liability from a lawsuit if the child were harmed. Plymouth-Canton, and school districts throughout Michigan, withdrew from direct involvement in the program, and Helping Hands disappeared from windows.

At that time, the Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers expressed our regret that an excellent program such as the Helping Hands had to be abandoned because of a fear of liability. Others shared that concern.

Finally a bill was introduced in the Michigan Legislature to remove the problem of liability and allow the program to be reintroduced.

That bill passed the Michigan House and Senate and went to the governor's office for signature. Reports from Lansing are that Gov. Blanchard, for some reason, is delaying signing the bill and may veto it. Maybe it's because he's uninformed about the merits of the program or because he is being influenced by a lobbyist.

THOSE DOUBTS and influences can be countered with letters from residents who believe in the Helping Hand. A few years ago, there were many Helping Hand decals in windows throughout Canton and Plymouth. Adults who participated then, and who still believe in the merits of that effort, would do well to write the governor and urge him to sign HB 4080.

All you have to do is write a short message on a postcard or letter. Simply say you believe in the Helping Hands program and urge the governor to sign House Bill 4080. Mail that note to: The Hon. James Blanchard, Office of the Governor, Box 30013, Lansing MI 48909.

If you are willing to put a Helping Hand in your window later, lend a helping hand now. Help convince our governor that we believe the program is worthwhile.

To power brokers, it's all 'Detroit'

OUR NATIONAL embarrassment began again last Wednesday in the parking lot of a shiny new suburban hotel. A visitor's car had been vandalized, the radio and tape deck stolen. Like a neon sign, the expressions on his face flickered between dismay and rage.

I felt like walking over and apologizing but knew better. He would drive home to Ohio that night with only a tale of rage to tell his friends. He wouldn't be interested in hearing all the good things about suburban Detroit. After all, he knew the facts first hand.

He had been robbed and cheated. Nothing else mattered.

METROPOLITAN Detroit's reputation is tough to live down. We lacked a World Series this year so we turned to Devil's Night.

We really must fight back. All of us are in this embarrassing situation together. We must work together to defeat it. Otherwise we will be consumed by our reputation.

Unfortunately, too many are willing only to play Pontius Pilate, washing their hands and blaming someone else.

But the decision makers in New York, Boston and Chicago don't care. They don't know the difference between Detroit, West Bloomfield, Rochester, Redford Township or any other number of suburban communities.

It's all "Detroit" to them when it comes to making a decision on whether to move their business here.

They only know that in one suburban city on that Wednesday evening vandals put the torch to a barn, a shed and several dumpsters.

THE SHAME is that every one of these fires is costly to the community. Maybe it's time people became aware of the damage the local fire chief has to fight. We must start listening.

crackerbarrel debate

Steve Barnaby

Another man in that same community was arrested and charged with possession of a Molotov cocktail on Devil's Night. Two homes were fire-bombed that night.

Those far-away corporate executives also know that while this community fought arson, a family in another Oakland County community was robbed in its home, tied up by the intruders and locked in the bathroom.

They also know that in a Wayne County suburb a Molotov cocktail was used to ignite a blaze in a school building.

TO POWER brokers who forge the economic decisions of a nation, the fine housing stock, the beautiful lakes and the great restaurants mean nothing when compared to the reputation of their corporate concerns.

They don't want their corporate name associated with an area that appears to be out of control.

Sure, the film on national television showed all the dramatic fires happening in a ravaged, impoverished and struggling central city.

But to the man from Ohio and the suburban residents who were victimized that evening, the newscasts meant nothing. They had their own stories to tell.

And their stories are our stories. They are stories of a national embarrassment. We must fight together to overcome it.

Lucas rules from Midland

WILLIAM LUCAS, Wayne County's traveling executive, was back from touring the state briefly Tuesday. He acknowledged to a reporter that he was close to winding up a yearlong tour of the state, acting — as he and his aides have often explained — as Wayne County's "good will ambassador."

Wednesday he was scheduled to visit Midland and Isabella Counties, dispensing more good will.

It is only incidental, he explains, that the fact that his visits to almost every county, every major city and many hamlets have also served to make him better known in a state which he intends to govern starting January 1987.

Lucas, as we all now, is an all but announced candidate to become the Republican Party's gubernatorial nominee.

WAYNE COUNTY commissioners have been howling about Lucas' travels for a long time, but of late the baying has become deafening.

The commissioners have also yelped about the cost Lucas' public relations staff — eight persons — and protectionary staff — five Wayne County sheriff's deputies. The commission's ways and means committee recently voted to slash the p.r. staff by four and the bodyguard contingent by three.

Commissioner Kay Beard, a Democrat who represents Garden City, Wayne, Westland and Inkster, scoffs at the idea that Lucas is the county's good will ambassador. "He's a good will ambassador for Bill Lucas, and that's it," she says.

The question really becomes: Is it proper for Wayne County's chief executive officer to be traveling all over the state on speaking engagements?

Does it really matter to the efficiency of Wayne County government that Lucas is frequently missing from the executive's office? Lucas seemingly contends that he can run the county government by telephone from the Upper Peninsula just as well as he can from his 7th floor office in the City-County Building.

THIS MAY be an important question, since next November we may well be deciding whether Lucas should be governor.

Would he be able to run the state as well from the state capital as he would from some telephone booth in Topeka, Kans.?

I believe that as far as the actual executive duties are concerned, the county executive, on most days, can do as well as from a Holiday Inn as he can from the City-County building.

In a well-organized administration, most duties are delegated, and the executive's key staff people have as much to do with running an administration as the executive. It really doesn't matter if the executive does more than give broad policy directions. He's there to make the top decisions.

AFTER ALL, the U.S.A. has had as its top executive officer a guy who falls asleep at cabinet meetings and much of the time runs the country from a California ranch or a helicopter somewhere in time.

And it's not unusual for a person in government to hold one job while campaigning for another. Lucas, in fact, was Wayne County sheriff while he was running for county executive. Gov. Blanchard was a U.S. representative while he was campaigning for governor. Dan Murphy is Oakland County executive while campaigning for governor. The list could go on ad nauseum.

But, in fact, there is no doubt that the focus of a person engaged in pursuit of a higher office tends more and more to be on the campaign rather than the existing job. The only people who can campaign without decreasing time on the job are Wayne County commissioners, whose time requirements total a few hours a week — for $30,000 per year.

So, yes, Bill Lucas has not been the same county executive this year as he was his first two and he will be less an executive next year than he was this year. Whether this will make him a bad choice for governor is up to the populace.

Witches, Baptists and Scouts

Tim Richard

SOME 501 years later, the influence of Heinrich Kraemer and Johann Sprenger is still felt in Plymouth.

Dominican friars, they were the authors of Malleus maleficarum, "The Witches' Hammer." For several embarrassing centuries, it was the Christian handbook for exterminating witches.

"All witchcraft comes from carnal lust, which is in women insatiable. . . . Wherefore for the sake of fulfilling their lusts, they consort with the devil" — so said Kraemer and Sprenger in 1484.

"The definition of a witch is one who practices sorcery and has dealings with the devil" — so said the Rev. Thomas Pals, pastor of First Baptist Church of Plymouth, as he inveighed against a high school speech last week by Gundella the Witch.

WHAT? GUNDELLA, that kewpie doll of a woman — a bad influence on high school students?

She has raised four wonderful children, none of whom even faintly resembles a Caliban, as far as I can tell. She earned two college degrees, taught school 22 years, tells stories charmingly, collects old tales, and for decades has studied the supernatural.

In Gundella's common-sense definition, the supernatural is what can't be explained by science — yet. "The power is in you," she says, "insisting that all of us have a rented lodge hall.

It concluded with a witch ritual, which we were free to join or not. Having absorbed a mainstream Christian faith, I am not supposed to take part in others' rituals. But my faith is strong enough so that I figured I couldn't be hurt by watching.

WELL, THERE was something very, very familiar about the witch ritual. I had seen it before — and not in an earlier life. As a youth, I was involved in a fairly respectable outfit called the Boy Scouts of America and was nominated for an honor group called the Order of the Arrow. We went through an "ordeal" weekend which involved cleaning the grounds of a group camp.

That Saturday night we were initiated. The Order of the Arrow's induction ceremony was word for word, gesture for gesture, identical to Gundella's witch ceremony.

Did witches steal their ceremony from the Scouts? Or did the Scouts borrow it from the witches? The latter, probably, since scouting is a 20th century movement and Gundella's religion has been around a while.

The point is that Gundella is no more dangerous to students than scouting. You can invite her to lecture to your group, calling her at 437-1072.

And tell her I said "Blessed be."

power to comprehend by methods other than spoken words.

What about this "witch" title? Her Scottish ancestors practiced a simple religion that involved being in tune with nature. Marion Kuclo's witch name of Gundella is the equivalent of a Catholic's confirmation name.

WHERE THE Plymouth Baptists went haywire was in assuming all witches consort with Satan. Not so.

Yes, there are satanic cults — a half-dozen in secluded houses in Bloomfield Hills, I hear. Gundella's brick house in Garden City is indistinguishable, indoors and out, from any other suburban home. Satanism isn't her thing.

Indeed, to say all witches practice satanism is like saying all priests cut open the chests of victims and take bites from the palpitating hearts. Astece priests did, but I don't think Episcopalian and Catholic priests indulge.

As Gundella's editor a few years ago, I was invited to her Halloween gathering in

Malpractice rates soaring, but no one sure why

Robben W. Fleming, law professor and former president of the University of Michigan, was appointed Sept. 25 by Gov. Blanchard as a special fact-finder and analyst in the controversy over medical malpractice. Here is a condensed version of his first set of "preliminary observations."

By Robben W. Fleming
special writer

THERE IS no dissent from the proposition that genuine malpractice cases do occur, and that when they do the victim ought to be compensated.

There is agreement that the number of malpractice claims, the insurance premiums for health care personnel, and the claims for damages have escalated rapidly in recent years.

But there is widespread disagreement and much finger-pointing as to why. There is a great deal of evidence that in fact none of us knows for sure the answer to that question and that we will not know until much more information is available and analyzed.

There is a very great deal of disagreement among the parties concerning the performance of the malpractice insurers.

In particular, it has been suggested that the abrupt premium increases over the last year could have been avoided by more realistic pricing in the past, that the financial condition of the insurers is sound, and that the insurers do not make the appropriate effort to help providers avoid and manage risks. These matters require further examination.

Regardless of why, the rapid escalation in claims, premiums, and damages has taken place, there is agreement that it is important to stabilize insurance premiums.

There is agreement that insofar as the present system of licensing and monitoring health care personnel may be contributing to incidents of malpractice, it is essential to improve that system.

It is commonly acknowledged that there is more malpractice in our health care system than is represented by the number of malpractice claims which are filed. Discussion of how to provide access for those claims is inhibited by a feeling that the costs of any system which would accommodate all such claims would be enormous.

MALPRACTICE CLAIMS, malpractice insurance premiums, damages paid out in awards, and other costs have all escalated very substantially in recent years.

These developments are reminiscent of the mid-70s, when the state of Michigan was first obliged to address this problem. At that time, the state's actions stabilized the situation for a relatively short period. After that, the escalation of claims, premiums and costs began again.

Here is a sampling of the issues which warrant further investigation:

- Between 1975 and 1985, the number of doctors practicing in the state of Michigan has increased from 14,750 to 19,850. There are now 216 doctors per 100,000 population whereas in 1975 there were only 162 doctors per 100,000, an increase of about a third. Is the fact that there are now more malpractice claims a function of the fact that there are more doctors?

- As the number of doctors increases and utilization of hospitals declines, are doctors and hospitals now handling more specialized cases (which) they might earlier have referred to a more specialized practitioner or more sophisticated hospital? Does this have effects relevant to malpractice?

- Is it possible that the reason there are now more malpractice claims is because patients have become more aware that some recovery may be in order? Or is it possible, as some scholars have argued, that we are becoming a far more "litigious society"?

WE MUST address certain more fundamental issues:

- There is a widespread feeling that the present system for certifying the competency of health-care professionals in Michigan is inadequate.

- Our present system of processing claims is not serving many who might have legitimate malpractice claims.

- The average length of time which elapses between the filing of a malpractice claim and the ultimate payment of an award is approximately four years. Should a victim of malpractice have to wait that long for damages?

- It has been asserted that legal costs incurred in connection with the presentation of malpractice claims amount to a very substantial fraction of the ultimate awards. Since such costs are normally paid out of the award, the amount available to the victim is significantly reduced.

- Various studies indicate that jury awards are greater where the defendant is thought to be a member of an affluent class. Is this equal justice under the law?

The average time between filing a claim and the payment of an award is four years.

Donations boost park play sculpture fund

Robert A. DeMattia's pledge of a $10,000 donation to the Play Sculpture Foundation took the edge off the cold November winds in Plymouth Township Park.

Jo Hulce, chair; Janet Campbell, co-chair; township Supervisor Maurice M. Breen, steering committee member of the foundation; and sculptor Peter Rockwell met DeMattia in the park.

They showed their first patron the site of the proposed play sculpture and Rockwell described the placement of the grouping.

DeMattia is president of the R.A. DeMattia Co., a local design, building and engineering firm responsible for the development of the Metro West Industrial Park at Sheldon and Five Mile roads.

He said the "donation is a way I can express my commitment to the continuing excellence of Plymouth Township through the arts."

In addition, the Play Sculpture Foundation received a matching $10,000 grant from the Plymouth Community Arts Council toward its goal of $50,000.

SCULPTOR PETER Rockwell left for his home in Rome, Italy, with the assurance that he would return in March to begin work on the one-of-its-kind sculpture in Plymouth Township Park.

Rockwell's first introduction to the Plymouth community was early in May of this year. He brought examples of his work for a one-man show arranged by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. The show in the Frank Lloyd Wright Snowflake house in Plymouth Township was an outstanding success.

Rockwell charmed the whole community — visitors to the show, students in the schools, the volunteer workers at the show. The idea of a permanent Rockwell sculpture in the community germinated at that time. After several visits to the township park, the sculptor envisioned a grouping of three compositions.

A committee of township residents — Hulce, Janet and Malcolm Campbell and Breen — saw Rockwell's models, did some computing and decided the project was possible.

THEY PRESENTED the idea to the Plymouth Township trustees, noting the entire work could be done without a single tax dollar. The committee would raise the funds through donations.

The sculptured group in travertine, a stone most resistant to pollution and weather damage, would be made up of three or more pieces. A 15-foot piece would be the focal point with carved heads, a fountain and pools.

The project would be a model of community participation with students and adults learning to use the tools of the sculptor as they do some on-site sculpting. The whole community could watch it progress and grow.

Rockwell will be artist-in-residence for three months, spending a half day each week in classrooms. An adult education course also is being planned.

The trustees approved the project. The committee was incorporated under the name, "Play Sculpture Foundation," and fulfilled the requirements to receive tax deductible status under federal and state laws.

RESIDENTS of all ages will have an opportunity to work with and watch an internationally famous artist at work. Generations of children will play in and around the fantasy figures carved from travertine.

Rockwell has selected three shades of rock from an Italian quarry. He said that the Italian travertine is fresh-water limestone, longer lasting and much better to work with than the salt-water limestone found in America. The travertine will be shipped by boat and rail, then trucked to the site.

Toastmasters: the group that speaks for itself

By Richard Lech
staff writer

WHO'S THE after-dinner speaker at the next Toastmasters Club meeting? Why, everybody, of course.

All the members come prepared to speak their minds — even if it means talking off the top of their heads or telling a tall tale.

The point of the club is to give members a friendly forum for polishing their public-speaking skills, said Phyllis K. Sullivan of Plymouth. She is a member of the Wind Baggers Toastmasters Club, a Farmington Hills-based club that has members from Livonia, Redford and Westland as well.

"You gain your self-confidence," Sullivan said. "You learn how to give seminars. You learn how to speak to large groups of people without shaky knees.

"Your listening skills become much keener. You know, listening is one thing they never teach you in school."

AND WHEN opportunity knocks, Toastmasters are ready to speak up.

"We've had Toastmasters promoted solely because of their Toastmaster ability," Sullivan said.

"We've had a person get a job because the right person was in the audience at the time of the speech."

That lucky Wind Bagger was Brenda Casteel of Westland. Casteel spoke one night recently on what it's like to be a member of "the 7 percent club" — the percentage of the population that's unemployed.

After the meeting, two guests in the audience offered her a job. She accepted one of the offers, to become an account executive with the Group W cable-TV company.

WIND BAGGER Nancy Falcon of Livonia also described how her Toastmaster ability landed her a job — although her new position wasn't all it seemed.

In a speech before the club, she said she had auditioned at Channel 7 and was hired to do a five-minute weekly spot on "Good Afternoon, Detroit." She gave the Wind Baggers a sample of what her segment would consist of — tales of her wild experiences on the Detroit freeway system.

Falcon's enthusiastic but polished delivery was very convincing. But at the end of the meeting she "fessed up."

"It all was a tall tale," she said. "When I gave the speech before I had people call up and say, 'I watched 'Good Afternoon, Detroit,' and I didn't see you.' But I just made it up."

As Falcon demonstrated, Toastmasters also shows members that public speaking can be fun.

ALTHOUGH the Wind Baggers club was formed just last year, it was named the No. 1 club for 1984 in Toastmasters District 28, which takes in 66 chapters in southeastern Michigan, northern Ohio and parts of Ontario. The club was selected for the honor because of the members' organizational and speaking abilities, Sullivan said.

Sullivan and her husband, Marc, are both Wind Baggers members and long-time Toastmasters. She is the lieutenant governor for District 28's Division B, and he is the district secretary.

The club's membership consists of a wide range of professionals, including a publishing official, legal administrator, real estate agent, insurance company manager, salesman, office manager and a township clerk. They all share one thing — a desire to improve their public speaking skills.

Redford resident Lee Westwood, a research chemist with the Ford Motor Co., joined the Wind Baggers earlier this year. He said he has become a better public speaker by having his speeches evaluated by others — and by evaluating others' speeches.

"I do have to give a technical talk now and then, and I've wondered about how I come across," Westwood said.

"Even in those first few months I picked up a tremendous amount of pointers on how to get ideas across. I've gained a lot of confidence in public speaking. People will tell you I've improved tremendously since I gave my first talk, the icebreaker."

Carol Burr of Livonia, a secretary, joined last year at the suggestion of her husband, Paul, a project engineer at General Motors who's been a Toastmaster member for three years.

"It's fun," Carol Burr said. "It's a real learning experience. I had never stood up before a crowd and delivered a prepared speech before I joined this. I meet with a lot of outside clients, and it helps a lot."

THE SULLIVANS have been active in the Oral Majority Toastmasters Club in Plymouth.

Oral Majority marked Toastmasters' 61st anniversary month with special programs. A Speechcraft Program for local adult residents was completed. Participants were Kathy Best, Peter Jener and John Whelan of Plymouth and Jack Brisbin, Leo Koziol and Barbara Power of Canton. Jenner, Koziol and Power joined the Oral Majority to continue to develop their skills in communication and leadership.

Phyllis Sullivan, past president of the club, conducted the Toastmasters International's Youth Leadership Program for 20 teen-agers at the Fr. Victor J. Renaud Knights of Columbus Council Building on Fair Street, Plymouth.

Among other community services, the club continues to provide speakers and contest judges for other local organizations, according to Art Bender, club president. For information about these services, call Sullivan, 455-1835.

Toastmasters: standing oration

Oral Majority was chartered in 1981. The Plymouth Club meets at 5:45 p.m. each Tuesday at Deny's Restaurant, 39550 Ann Arbor Road at I-275.

A TYPICAL Toastmasters meeting will feature several prepared speeches by members, as well as an impromptu speech session called Table Topics. "Impromptu speaking is what most people encounter all the time, with their business, neighbors and acquaintances," Phyllis Sullivan said.

All the speakers, even those speaking off the cuff, are evaluated at the meeting's end. One member evaluates the speech orally, and the other members give written evaluations of the speech.

The evaluators will point out the things the speakers are doing right — such as having an interesting, smooth opening or maintaining good eye contact — as well the things they are doing wrong — such as using too many "OKs" or not using enough emphasis.

Even the evaluators are evaluated. And everybody is timed to determine whether they've stayed within the limits required of the type of speech they've given.

One member is appointed to count the speakers' "ahs," "umms" and other exasperating pauses.

MANY OF the prepared speeches are given by members hoping to move up the Toastmasters ladder. New members shoot to become Competent Toastmasters (CTMs) by giving the 10 different types of speeches required in the basic Toastmaster manual, "The Communication and Leadership Manual." The manual includes the icebreaker speech and speeches stressing organization, vocal variety and the use of audio-visuals.

The CTMs then tackle more advanced manuals such as "The Entertaining Speaker," "Public Relations," "Technical Presentations" and "Professional Salespersons." They then can talk their way into becoming Able, Bronze Able and Silver Able Toastmasters. The top honor for a Toastmaster is Distinguished Toastmaster (DTM).

"This is self-improvement, and you move at your own pace," said Phyllis Sullivan, who hopes to become a DTM later this year.

The Toastmasters also compete against each other in a war of words. Toastmasters can go as far as the district level in humorous and impromptu speech competition, while the international speech contest will feature members from the 50 countries that have Toastmaster chapters.

But while the Toastmasters enjoy the competition, they figure that the bottom line is helping each other along the rocky road to becoming a good public speaker.

"Sure, we're here to improve," Wind Bagger Mac McLeod of Livonia said. "But more than that we want to share with somebody else something that will help them improve."

Teen-age death

Film reaches out to those in need

NORMAN AND Helen Vernon have lived with the heartache of losing a son for 20 years. Today they are trying to help others handle the anguish that follows a child's death.

Sunday, at 6 p.m., a film called "Sudden Death," depicting the life and death of 18-year-old Bruce Vernon, will be shown at First Baptist Church of Wayne, 36125 Glenwood.

Present at the showing will be Pastor and Mrs. Norman H. Vernon and their two daughters, Kathy Barr of Rochester and Janice Gribble of Lansing.

Now pastor of Bloomfield Hills Baptist Church, Vernon was pastor of the Wayne church from 1947 to 1963. This assignment was followed by a pastorate in Benton Harbor during which time his son died unexpectedly. A two-hour autopsy could show no cause. Bruce Vernon was in the pink of health at the time of his death, his father said.

AT THE TIME also, Bruce Vernon was considered one of the state's finest high school athletes. He excelled in many sports but especially baseball. Invited to Detroit Tiger tryouts, he was rated one of the best first-base prospects scouts had ever seen, according to his father.

Early recognition of his athletic abilities began while Bruce Vernon was a student at Plymouth High School, his father recalled.

Pastor Vernon originally wrote the story of his son's death. He titled it "Tragedy at Half Time." It was picked up by Ken Anderson Films, a non-profit Indiana-based film company and is being distributed to other English-speaking countries around the world.

The film made its premiere showing at Bloomfield Hills Baptist Church in June. It will be available for rental by churches and other Christian organizations.

"THE FILM IS not a sob story and it does not have an evangelical thrust," said Vernon. "It's for people in need. It breaks down every religious barrier."

"The film is going to reach young people first of all because many young people know people involved in an accident. And it will reach parents who have lost children."

"People don't know how to cope with things like this. Parents blame each other. People are hurting," Vernon said.

"It's not a denominational question. They need help, and they're looking for it."

It was Jan. 4, 1965 when Vernon's son dropped dead while playing basketball.

"It's been 20 years, and we still grieve," said Vernon in an interview in June with the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers. "We still miss him. We were very close as a family."

"ON THE NIGHT he died, he was bouncing a basketball in the kitchen. My wife had an aluminum pan on the counter filled with carrot sticks and celery. He knocked it over with the ball and immediately went to pick it up. She went to help him. He said, 'It was my stupid mistake,' and reached over and said, 'I love you. You're the greatest mother in the world.' Those were the last words he spoke to his mother. An hour later he was dead."

Sunday night at 6 p.m. at Wayne Baptist Church, Pastor Norman Vernon will introduce the film "Sudden Death," the story of the unexpected death at age 18 of Vernon's son, Bruce, an outstanding athlete. The public is invited. Vernon was pastor of the Wayne church from 1947 to 1963.

After seeing his son in the hospital emergency room "with the word death written all over him, my life caved in," Vernon said.

The Vernons' daughter Kathy, then age 8, was "devastated. She would not talk about it for a year," he said.

As a minister, Vernon said he drew on his faith during the crisis. "We don't understand it, but we accept it by faith," he said.

In the days that followed his son's death, Vernon published a tribute, "Tragedy at Halftime," to his son stressing the youth's Christian commitment. Subsequently published in 1965 and again in 1977 by a Christian publishing house, the story sparked the interest of the film company.

VERNON SAID he has also received calls and letters from people around the world grieving over the loss of a child.

"Some parents who have lost a son or daughter have been coping for five or 10 years and never found answers."

"Young people die on football fields and in traffic accidents. The young people ask 'Why? Why does this happen to good people?'"

The film, he said, while non-denominational, carries a Christian message.

Norman Vernon, pastor of Bloomfield Hills Baptist Church, said he still grieves over the death of son 20 years ago. The film, "Sudden Death" is based on the life and death of 18-year-old Bruce Vernon.

Vernon will introduce the film Sunday night and his daughter Kathy will sing a solo at the service.

Excellence derives from spiritual roots

ONE OF THE most popular books recently has been Thomas Peters and Robert Waterman's "In Search of Excellence." It spotlights the best run American companies and searches out the principles of their success.

The authors quote a psychologist, Ernest Becker, who says, "It is the burning desire for the creature to count. . . . What man really fears is not so much extinction, but extinction with insignificance." People seek to be heroic either individually or by being a part of a winning team. Deep down there is a built in desire in human beings for excellence.

The motivations for excellence may be many. I fear there are too few influences in our present society which call for excellence in people. This is particularly crucial in our schools.

SCHOOLS, CHURCHES and synagogues have a special calling to encourage excellence in people. The Biblical story of the talents, of a landowner who gave each of his servants some of money to invest while he was gone and then came back to call them to account, illustrates a religious basis for excellence.

Life calls forth our talents and our willingness to risk investing and multi-moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

plying these talents. The motivations may be to glorify God, to help others or to fulfill my own ability. The motivations for excellence will always be mixed, as are all human motivations. Yet the desire for excellence must be rooted in moral and religious principles.

"Do your best" must still be the word of encouragement and challenge. The school should be a place where the best things you can do for your child is to help him discover his talent and learn how to experience the rewards of investing it fully.

Movements over the recent years have worked against excellence. The 60's was a time of rebellion against many of the standard values, including the unfortunate values that led us to Vietnam. In the '70's many adults reacted to the children of the '60's by withdrawing from involvement with young people. The drug culture complicated the problem. Church youth programs suffered. The schools generally worried more about behavior than about excellence. Teachers who sought excellence felt that they were in a minority without support from administration or parents. It was also a time when quality and confidence in American products fell. The worst automobiles we had ever known were produced in the late '70's.

FOR MANY, EXCELLENCE is still a dirty word. They believe it to be an elite thing. They are loathe to experience the quality of Japanese products, cars and electronics. We had to clean up our act or give in to better products from overseas. There was a concern for quality rather than the most produced at the least cost and the most profit.

Our educational system is a key to restoring and seeking after excellence. We suffer with many teachers who either despair of demanding and inspiring excellence or simply do not care.

The true source of excellence, however, needs to come from our spiritual roots. Religion teaches us that each of us is unique. Life is short. God gives us our unique gifts and calls us forth to discover them and invest them. That's what it's all about. God calls us to excel and giving the best that you can.

A friend of mine told me his life story. He was born in a slum in East Harlem. There were two key persons who helped him achieve his present professional status in life. One was a woman who in over 25 years in that community encouraged and inspired others. The other person was a young black young person to go to school. The woman helped him to go to school and the young person helped him to go to school.

For many, excellence is still a dirty word. They believe it to be an elite thing. They are loathe to experience the quality of Japanese products, cars and electronics. We had to clean up our act or give in to better products from overseas. There was a concern for quality rather than the most produced at the least cost and the most profit.

Leaders balk at tourism department

It's a matter of their being under one roof."

LOUIS F. TWARDZIK, Michigan State University professor of recreation and resources, gave DeMaso some ammunition. Items:

- The state's 253 roadside parks serve 40 million visitors a year but aren't promoted by the Michigan Department of Transportation.
- State highways along the free sand beaches of Lakes Superior and Michigan are unadvertised.

Underwater state parks, at which scuba divers can visit sunken ships, in Lakes Huron and Michigan are un-promoted except by local groups. "Creation of underwater parks is one of the greatest movements in the United States. Japan has 33 underwater parks," said Twardzik. Responded DeMaso: "I worked on one (underwater park proposal) at Alpena, and I don't get a single vote out of Alpena, and it sits in limbo. I can't get any help out of the state departments."

BESIDES CREATING the tourism department, his bills would place under it:

- The State Council for the Arts, now under the Office of Management and Budget.
- The Mackinac Island State Park Commission, now under DNR.
- The Michigan State Waterways Commission, now under DNR.
- The Michigan Travel Commission, now under Commerce.
- Administration of the Natural Rivers Act, now under DNR.
- The State Historical Commission, now under State.
- Inspection of swimming pools,

now under Public Health and local officials.

Ann Arbor travel agent Tom Conlin said Michigan should lure business travelers from France, Italy and Japan to "mix pleasure with business" by touring Michigan. He said Finland actively promotes its lakes.

Chris Dancisak, of the Upper Peninsula Tourism and Recreation Association in Iron Mountain, said, "Tourism has a great potential for becoming the largest industry in this state by the year 2000. Will they get the same kind of support that manufacturing gets? (Currently) the answer is no."

For nearly a hundred years, the Statue of Liberty has stood on the edge of the New World, America's most powerful symbol of freedom and hope. Today the ravages of almost a century of weather and pollution have left their marks. Corrosion has eaten away at the iron framework. New holes continue to appear in the copper sheets that form the exterior.

Less than a mile away, on Ellis Island where the ancestors of nearly half of all Americans first stepped onto American soil, the Great Hall of the Immigration Center is a hollow ruin. Rooms are vandalized, passageways overgrown with vegetation, walls crumbling in decay.

Inspiring plans have been developed to restore the Statue and to create at Ellis Island a living monument to the ethnic diversity of this country of immigrants. But unless restoration is begun now, ceremonies marking the hundredth anniversaries of these two landmarks in America's heritage could be held in commemoration of national treasures that no longer exist. Sections of the statue have already been declared unsafe and closed to visitors. The 230 million dollars needed to carry out the work is needed now.

All of the money must come from private donations; the federal government is not raising the funds. This is consistent with the origins of the Statue. The French people themselves paid for its creation. And thousands of American school children contributed to its construction and to the pedestal.

The Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Centennial Commission appointed by President Reagan is asking every American business, every American citizen to join in raising these funds. The torch of liberty is everyone's to cherish. Could we hold up our heads as Americans if we allowed the time to come when she can no longer hold up hers?

One hundred years ago school children gave their pennies to put her up. Your dollars can keep her from falling down.

Check mutual funds for these hidden charges

Today the selection of mutual funds is complicated by a number of hidden charges that both load and no-load funds can make.

Here are some factors to be aware of in both the traditional and the newer charges:

LOADS — The typical 8 1/2-percent fee on each new investment in a fund usually drops by a few percentage points as investments go about $10,000 or $25,000.

Some loads are only 4 to 7 percent. "Low load" funds charge 1 to 3 percent. If you pay an 8 1/2-percent load on, say, a $1,000 purchase, $85 is subtracted and $915 invested.

Thus the real commission is 9.3 percent ($85 divided by $915).

Load funds do not charge a commission on reinvested capital gains, but some do on reinstated dividends.

12 B (1) PLANS — In the late '70s, a few no-load funds persuaded the SEC to allow them to levy an annual percentage charge, up to as much as 1.25 percent of the funds' net assets. That is a drain out of the invested capital of all the funds' members.

Initially, the charge was only 1/10 percent and was used for advertising. But now some funds charge 1 percent or more and use part to pay sales commissions of up to 4 percent to brokers.

Some funds do this and still describe themselves as "no load" funds. Load finances and you

funds also are beginning to make these charges.

BACK-END LOADS — These are redemption fees. Some funds charge 1 percent whenever you cash in your shares. Others make a so-called contingent deferred sales load (CDSL) of 4 or 5 percent if you redeem the first year you are in a fund and one percentage point less in each subsequent year until the fee reaches zero. The SEC's position is that funds with CDSLs are not no-load funds. Many management firms have kept away from such charges.

EXPENSE RATIO — This is the cost of operating the fund expressed as a percentage of the net-asset value.

Most of the fee goes to pay the investment advisers. The balance is for preparing and distributing prospectuses, financial reports and proxy statements and for directors' fees. It may or may not include a 12 b (1) charge.

Many funds charge expense ratios as low as 0.5 to 0.7 percent, but one mutual-fund manual found that the average ratio for the stock funds it listed was 1.12 percent and 1.02 percent for bond funds. Some ratios range up to 4 percent or more.

If you are interested in investing in mutual funds, investigate before you sign on the dotted line. Better still, consult your financial planner who is knowledgeable about such funds.

Unit trust is one way to get tax-free income

My income isn't really big, but it looks like it will grow some more, and I'm beginning to get conscious of how high my tax rate is getting.

Could you tell me some ways I could invest that would be pretty safe and give me some tax-free income?

Along with your question in the mail came a copy of the new Market Letter distributed by the Chicago-based brokerage firm, Wayne Hummer & Co. They have a section on unit investment trusts, and these could be one answer to your question.

A unit trust is an investment company that builds a diversified portfolio of tax-exempt bonds and then offers units of these portfolios to investors.

The unit trust is a way for an individual to spread a small investment over a number of different issues, without becoming involved in the selection of individual bonds, in the collection of interest, in the cashing in of bonds at maturity and the reinvestment of money.

THERE IS a minimum investment of $5,000 required in unit trusts, but there are many features of interest to the investor. You can choose from those that pay interest monthly, quarterly or semi-annually.

You can also choose from units that mature in the short, medium, or long term. Short-term maturities average six years, medium 10 years and long-term average 30 years.

The interest rates are in the 8-percent range for short term and 9½ percent for long term.

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

SOME TRUSTS are insured by private insurers. When the tax-exempt status of this income is considered, it is quite good.

Your broker should be able to give you a list of unit trusts that are available and a description of the features of each.

Hummer's letter also contains a model portfolio for the investment of $10,000. Although the portfolio deals with taxable investments, it appears to have two appeals to the conservative investor.

The quality of the companies is excellent, suggesting that the risk is not great. And the possibility of growth or slowly increasing value in the years ahead appears good.

THE MODEL calls for buying 60 American Hospital Supply at $34, 30 General Electric at $63, 60 Hewlett Packard at $35, 40 PepsiCo at $49 and 50 Schlumberger Ltd. at $39. As I write this, each of those stocks are slightly below the prices stated.

The portfolio's annual dividend income is $273, and the companies have dividend reinvestment plans where dividends can be reinvested without cost.

The recent growth rates of those companies suggest there could be enough appreciation which, along with reinvested dividends, could result in the portfolio's value doubling in a seven- to eight-year period.

Keep in mind that tax-free investing is fine, so long as it reduces your tax liability and not your after-tax income.

You could be better off, over the long run, with a taxable investment. You might pay more taxes, but you might also have more left.

Thomas E. O'Hara is chairman of the board of trustees of the National Association of Investors Corp. and editor of Better Investing magazine. O'Hara welcomes questions and comments but will answer them only through this column. Readers who send in questions on a general investment subject or on a corporation with broad investor interest and whose questions are used will receive a free, one-year subscription to Better Investing. O'Hara will send a free copy of Better Investing magazine or information about investment clubs to any reader requesting it. Send 50 cents for postage and write Today's Investor, P.O. VETERANS PROGRAM EXTENDED Area Vietnam era and disabled veterans should be aware of recent changes affecting the Veterans Readjustment Appointments (VRA) program. VRA is a federal hiring program providing special, non-competitive hiring of these veterans. Originally scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1984, the program has been extended through Sept. 30, 1986, through passage of the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act (PL 98-543). It is not expected that the VRA program will be extended beyond that date.

In addition to extending the program, PL 98-543 raised the entry grade level maximum from GS/WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. A Vietnam era or disabled veteran who has completed no more than 14 years of education may qualify for a VRA. (This restriction may be waived for disabled veterans). For further information, interested veterans may call the local American Legion hotline at 453-9494 and leave a message regarding information desired.

Triptych with Two Birds, acrylic on canvas, 54 by 24 inches, is a form Maggie Citrin feels comfortable using.

"Three Geese," acrylic on canvas, illustrates the uncluttered look, which Maggie Citrin achieves with seemingly little effort.

Nature

Artist offers bold, uncluttered look

By Manon Meilgaard
special writer

With much of today's art splintered into a multiplicity of trends which often eloquently express some of the more grotesque elements and turmoil of our times, it is refreshing to view a collection of modern nature paintings that are as reposeful as they are beautiful.

Not that the 20 works by Maggie Citrin at the Kochipilli Gallery in Birmingham are wishy-washy — far from it. Harmonious and yet striking, the serious attention paid to grouping and composition, both in line and purity of color, suggests the bold, uncluttered influences of neo-impressionism.

An example is "Autumn Leaves," an acrylic on canvas of bare, truncated tree trunks placed on an undefined edge of forest which merges into a cobalt blue sky, while underfoot, the fallen leaves create a dense carpet of glowing orange tones.

ANOTHER STUNNING acrylic on canvas is "Three Geese," in which these patrician birds with their long, elegant necks, are grouped in varying attitudes against, again, a medley of tree trunks.

This graceful ensemble brings to mind the motifs used for decorating

Chinese and Japanese screens, as does the composition of a triptych entitled "Amaryllis," where the strong purples, pinks and greens of the flower are set on a brilliant, chrome-yellow background.

The human form is absent in Citrin's present exhibition, which in addition to trees, flowers and birds, includes studies of seascapes, deer and fishes.

In "Three Boats," a pastel on paper, she depicts amber-colored barks idly floating on placid waters, while in "Martinville Beach No. 2," another acrylic on canvas, a bright red "Trouville umbrella" in the foreground dominates a stormier sea of blues and greens.

Other works (which often appear in diptych or triptych form) feature fantasy goldfish, which swim in cerulean waters or congregate in murkier depths; brightly hued, predatory birds that perch on bare or near-bare branches; and fleeting and stationary deer in four exceptionally fine studies.

VIVACIOUS, 38-YEAR old Maggie Citrin (who looks 24 at most) earned her bachelor's and master's degrees at Wayne State University. As can be evinced from her work, she likes "to study nature quietly, hike and climb mountains."

She, her husband (and even her 5-year-old daughter) are inveterate world travelers. In 1968, Citrin took a year off from college to study painting independently, teach English and learn flamenco dancing in Barcelona, Spain. She still takes dancing lessons, and modestly admits that she sometimes dances in public.

"It's just not possible to like flamenco," she said, "you have to feel for it passionately."

Asked how she discovered a penchant for diptychs, triptychs and even five-part drawings and paintings, she replied, "I like the way things join together in separate images. I think this can be effective." Judging by the response, a large number of people find Citrin's work effective. Many of the pictures have already been sold. This is a delightful exhibition.

"New Work by Maggie Citrin" continues at Kochipilli Gallery, 578 N. Woodward, Birmingham through Nov. 16. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday-Saturday.

Abstracts carry links to history, mythology

Modern they may be, but Harold Linton's paintings at I Irving Feldman Galleries of West Bloomfield have tradition behind them in subject matter and titles.

In fact, it becomes exciting as Linton, assistant professor of architecture at Lawrence Institute of Technology, speaks of the rich heritage of color abstraction, the American and European wings, dating from the turn of the century.

He is standing near one of his large paintings, which, like all of the works in the show, is made up of tiny squares of colors which set up spatial relationships with each other, projecting and receding as if they were lit from the back by a moving light.

"The light source of my painting has evolved," he said. "It is brighter now in terms of chroma and intensity. There is a shimmer across the surface, brights chasing dulls. The pattern has light and dull pockets."

The whole development began with Cezanne. "This is more in the tradition of Robert and Sonia Delaunay."

He recalled sitting for hours in front of Robert Delaunay's painting, "Windows in the City No. 4" adding, "I have good feeling for the works of Bonnard and Villard."

YET, LINTON is his own person with an impressive background in color theory and design. His book, "Color Model Environments," which he uses for his classes and wrote for "all people who design in dimensions" is a scholarly but intensely interesting book with many black and white and color illustrations. It contains projects for professionals as well as students.

And even though his background is heavy with academic achievements, a bachelor of fine arts from Syracuse University and a master of fine arts from Yale, among others, the spirit of innovation and excitement of discovery are very much a part of his painting.

The impressions of columns or blocks of colors move, stop, shift, pick up, disassemble and reassemble. The changes are subtle and provocative. While all the works, although different in size and shape, are done in the same brush stroke and design style, gradually each takes on a particular identity and aura — becoming more landscapes of mood — dominant, happy, gentle and compliant.

Linton calls this group the Numina Series and each of the 16 works is named after one of the spirits of ancient Roman life which cared for the household and farm. These never had a definite shape, but rather presided, in a nebulous form, over the important aspects of everyday life. Among the names Linton chose for his paintings are Terminus, guardian of boundaries; Penates, guardians of the hearth and storehouse; Ops, the harvest helper; and Priapus, cause of fertility.

Linton works in acrylic on canvas with many layers of build up. He uses tape in a warp and weft pattern and continues with the build-up and the application of color "until I'm satisfied."

HE CREATES the intricate color, rhythmic and spacial relationships purely through his own reaction to the work as he does it. "I have to work from the point of putting color down and responding to it," he said.

This and the "controlled bleed" are in large measure responsible for the excitement and freedom in the work, even though it is one within a certain framework. It is Linton's ability to maintain a looseness in a highly technical area, his wonderful control that never interferes with the fine art process that is remarkable.

These paintings change as quickly as early morning light, constantly offering another pattern, play of color and rhythm to be enjoyed.

This is Linton's first one-person show in his area. It continues through November. Gallery hours are Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday until 8 p.m. The gallery is at 6917 Orchard Lake, West Bloomfield.

An autograph reception for Linton and illustrator, Richard Rochon, sponsored by the Michigan Society of Architects, will be held 5-7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, at Beau-bien House, 553 E. Jefferson, Detroit. Their book, "Color Model Environments — Color and Light in Three-Dimensional Design," will be available.

Harold Linton, pictured in his studio, has an extensive background in and understanding of color and color theory.

One of the large paintings by Nancy Thayer, in her current show at Rubiner Gallery, is a combination of stretched canvas and board, in a warm sun-filled palette

Impressive show of strength

By Corinne Abett
staff writer

In her new show at Rubiner Gallery of West-Bloomfield, Nancy Thayer has found what she was looking for.

Thayer, painter by definition and intent, said, "I was looking for a stronger sense of structure and order, and I still wanted to maintain a sense of spontaneity, as if they had just happened."

The stronger sense of structure and order is definitely there in this group of paintings, some on cast paper and others on constructed canvas. And while there are interesting sculptural and dimensional qualities to both, the painting is dominant as the artist intended. However, the construction part can't, and shouldn't, be ignored, for it is an integral part of each work.

Thayer makes her papers by pouring the pulp over armatures, which she leaves intact in order to support the application of the paint, as opposed to sculpted handmade paper that is colored or dyed in process. The constructions are combinations of shaped stretched canvases and wood, shaped and combined to become elements of a total painting.

"I longed to go back to a heavy impasto painting experience, painting on paper rather than staining. Paper has a life of its own as canvas has a life of its own," Thayer said, noting that there are little paintings within the larger paintings.

While her approach is abstract, she is pleased with the many Impressionist touches that she detects in her work, sometimes as if she was seeing them for the first time.

Visits to museums in France and Italy and a trip to Cezanne's home in southern France deepened her appreciation and understanding of the Impressionists. She speaks with equal reverence of works of more modern painters such as Helen Frankenthaler.

At least half the works in the show are larger than 4 by 6 feet. That is also something new for Thayer. She found how comfortable she was when a Chicago gallery commissioned her to do four major pieces about 4 by 6 feet. "That led to this show," she said.

Thayer, never afraid of experimentation or change, appears to have both expanded her horizons and refined her focus in these larger works. There are more breathing spaces interspersed with brilliant pockets of color, like the wonderful skies of southern France. There is no overt attempt to be clever, rather a natural flow of energy from one area to another.

These are works by a mature artist who has developed her skills with great energy and dedication, never losing the exhilaration that comes from loving beauty.

Thayer has bachelor's and master's degrees from Michigan State and a master's in fine arts from Instituto Allende, Mexico. She is on the Center for Creative Studies faculty and the board of directors of the Detroit Artists Market.

Her show at Rubiner Gallery, 7061 Orchard Lake, West Bloomfield, continues through November. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday-Friday, and until 8 p.m. Saturday.

Entries sought for Christmas card contest

By David Messing
special writer

Last year the Artifacts column, the Art Store and many suppliers sponsored a "Christmas Card Contest." The response was overwhelming and exciting. Several school districts entered as an art class project for credit or extra credit. Many art teachers in middle and high schools even posted the contest in their classrooms. The value of the prizes won last year totaled over $1,100.

Well, there is even more this year. I'm very excited to tell you about them. Were it not for the Observer newspaper and our many sponsors this contest would certainly be impossible. So our greatest appreciation is extended to all. Dan at Q.P.S. Printing, Claudia at Silver Lead Co., Joe at Alvin, Herb at Rosco Association, Lou at Grumbacher, Gordon at Westing, Bob at Eberhard-Faber, Greg at Grand Art, Dan at United Art, and Dave at Morrillia.

THIS YEARS prizes are divided into first, second and third with two honorable mentions in each category. The categories are divided according to ages. That makes it fair for everyone.

The first category is 6-9-year-olds. The second is 10-13-year-olds. The third is 14-year-olds to adult. Also this year we have included a "Best Entry" award.

Before the rules or prizes offered, I would like to first say a word about originality. Usually the word "originality" scares the ink right out of some people's pens. It need not be a problem. Last year, the judges and I had 25 drawings laid out on a table, because of the ability they represented, anyone of them could have been first place. Then one judge said, "I think this one is a

'Holly Hobbie' card," and another said, "Oh, I saw this card design at a card shop" and so on and so on.

Originality can be simple. A drawing of a cardinal, for example, can be drawn from a photo and by rendering in pen and ink become, somewhat original. Let's say you put the cardinal on a snow covered pine bow or mailbox. So even though you used several photos you have, in effect, created an original Christmas card. I guess what I'm trying to say is that a well drawn Ziggy or Garfield just isn't going to win. So feel free to use photos and references for accuracy but do not copy a design or simply redraw a Christmas card you found at a card shop.

SO here's the nitty gritty: all artwork must be (or proportionate to) 4 1/4 by 5 1/2; no artwork should exceed 8 1/2 by 11; all art must be rendered with black ink on white paper or board; all shading must be done in stipple or crosshatching; no grays or washes will be accepted; the artwork will be judged on the basis of technical skill, creativity and originality. All art work must be received by 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 28. A name, address and phone number must be included with each entry.

Prizes:

- 14 year-adult — first prize, Alvin folding space-saver drafting table and lamp, also free printing of your Christmas cards; second prize, Grumbacher's Stano C.S. Technical pen set and a portfolio; third prize, a 36 Prismacolor pencil set and a Strathmore drawing pad.
- 10-13-year-olds — first prize, "Pioneer" wood drafting table and lamp with free printing of cards; second prize, an art bin, 24 Prismacolor set and one Strathmore drawing pad; third prize, a $15 gift certificate from the Art Store and More in Livonia.

- 6-9-year-olds — first prize, Wallace drafting table and lamp with free printing Christmas cards, second prize, art bin, 24 Prismacolor pencil set and one Strathmore drawing pad; third prize, a $15 gift certificate from the Art Store and More in Livonia.
- The "Best Entry Award" is a 72 Design Marker set.

- The six "Honorable Mentions" will receive a watercolor palette, pencil and an eraser. So everyone get busy and good luck. If you have any questions call the Art Store at 522-6311 in Livonia.

This is another lesson on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for ten years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 16338 Middlebelt, Livonia, 48152-8211, 265 N. Main Street, Plymouth, 48172. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington, MI 48024.

Dutch import is an Ocelot gem

THERE'S PROBABLY a lot of head scratching going on in the Region XII soccer coaches' ranks. Rightly so. After all, each and every one of them got their tails whipped by a powerful Schoolcraft College team. Not just once, either — twice each. The closest any of them came was a two-goal loss. The Ocelots were that dominating in a region that rarely allows its champion to escape unscathed. Normally Macomb Community College or Schoolcraft rule the region, but it's a rare occurrence when either goes unbeaten. Schoolcraft not only went undefeated, it outscored its opponents 40-6 in eight games. That's domination.

WHAT MUST really puzzle those coaches is the sudden influx of talent the Ocelots possess. Every top-level high school soccer player from the area — and there's an abundance, with Livonia Stevenson leading the pack after five straight appearances in the state finals — this year opted to play at Schoolcraft. But was that enough? No, the opposing coaches concluded, swallowing hard as their teams were dismantled by wave after wave of talented Ocelots. The school's athletic budget must have quadrupled. How else could they attract such prizes from places like Kent County, England, and Leek, Netherlands? "We didn't recruit them," smiling Schoolcraft assistant coach John Gelmisi said as the Ocelots went through their final practice Tuesday before embarking to Chicago and the NJCAA Inter-regional tournament at DuPage College. No, they didn't. Englishman Matt Pace moved to Redford with his parents and is the team's second-leading scorer with nine goals and five assists.

BUT RICK HAMERS, the Dutchman, may be Schoolcraft's most valuable player. "He's like a thoroughbred," Schoolcraft coach Van Dimitriou said. "He doesn't have to think about what he wants to do, he just does it. And he's one of the hardest working players in practice I've ever seen." "He never says much, but when he steps onto the field he doesn't have to." Hamers is one of those unique sports stories, a guy who walked into the Schoolcraft athletic offices one day and said he'd like to play soccer. What brought Hamers to Livonia was his fiancée, whom he met when she was visiting relatives in Leek in the summer of 1984. The pair planned on marrying and living in the Netherlands, but the language barrier was more than she could handle. "So I decided to come here," Hamers said in near-perfect English. "So far, so good."

LIKE MANY of his countrymen, Hamers grew up on a soccer field. In a population of 13 million, one million still play the sport. "I wanted to find a soccer team because I had played all my life," said Hamers. "It was a hobby I didn't want to give up." "She had been a student (at Schoolcraft), and she knew they had a soccer team. At the same time I was thinking I would need college to make a future here." At first Hamers planned on just practicing with Schoolcraft's team. But once Dimitriou witnessed the talent the European transplant possessed, he wanted him as something more than just a practice player. There were problems, notably with U.S. Immigration. Mary Gans, Schoolcraft's athletic director, intervened, pushing officials to process his papers quickly so Hamers could enroll in school. Gans' work has paid dividends. Hamers described himself as one of the youngest (24) members of his amateur club team in Holland, possessing the least talent. At Schoolcraft, Hamers is the oldest team member — and probably the best.

HE PATROLS the midfield for the Ocelots, a position requiring both offensive and defensive skills — and a lot of leg. Hamers is swift enough to handle it. He scored nine goals and had four assists, the third-highest totals for the Ocelots. "I played an offensive position in Holland," he said. "I do like the midfield better. I'm more involved in the game." Which is the way Dimitriou likes it. "He freelines more than most of our players," the coach said. "But he's equally good offensively and defensively. Most players can't do the job he does switching from one to the other. He can be marking a man, then when we get the ball take off." So are there any problems for Hamers? Perhaps just one. Despite his wealth of experience, he doesn't offer much on-field advice with his teammates. "I try to talk to them when something's happening on the field," he said, "but because I think in Dutch, it's hard for me to communicate quickly." At least that gives the opposition a fighting chance, right? Maybe yes and maybe no. If Hamers can't get his message across to his teammates, he often takes matters into his own hands. And that can be equally devastating to an opponent.

Canton's Beth Frigge (dark jersey) chases Stevenson's Molly Snow down court Tuesday night in the Chiefs' 37-20 victory.

Chiefs romp, ice Kowalski

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

For a 12-minute span, the only noise from Livonia Stevenson Tuesday was Kelly Kowalski chewing her gum in frustration.

Otherwise little was heard from the Spartans as visiting Plymouth Canton kept the clamps on during the Chiefs' 37-20 rout in Western Lakes action.

Canton (17-1), which posted its seventh straight win, didn't put on a spectacular offensive display but managed to take advantage of Stevenson's drought in the middle quarters.

Kowalski, who is the Observerland's leading scorer, was held to only eight points as she found the Chiefs' backcourt as penetrable as the Berlin Wall.

"WE JUST WANTED to play behind her," Canton coach Rob Neu said. "We were going to let her have the 15- to 17-foot jump shot, but we weren't going to let her near the glass."

The Chiefs didn't even let her near the ball as Karen Boluch and Diane Knickerbocker kept Kowalski under wraps most of the game.

Kowalski, who was 2-of-15 from the floor, didn't score her first basket until the first minute of the second quarter. The two points were the only ones Stevenson had until the third quarter with 1:23 left.

Stevenson (5-13) had only two points in the first eight minutes.

"Canton played good, solid man-to-man defense," Stevenson coach Wayne Henry said. "It was just that we weren't able to stay in our offensive pattern after two or three passes. When the pattern broke down, the girls tried to go one-on-one." "We've played against tough man-to-man defenses before," Henry added. "We just didn't handle it quite well tonight."

When the Spartans went dry, the Chiefs replied with 20-unanswered points to build up a substantial lead in the third quarter. Denise Vince's jump shot late in the quarter brought new life to Stevenson, which whittled the deficit to nine points./L

VINCE'S TWO consecutive three-point plays and Kowalski's four-of-four free throw shooting perked up the Spartans' offense.

Canton, which ran off four-consecutive baskets in the third quarter, went cold at the start of the fourth. The Chiefs didn't score until with 4:30 left when Laura Darby scored on a layup.

Henry credited his backcourt's aggressive play with the turnaround.

"The problem was we didn't play that way the whole game," Henry said.

In the first half, the Chiefs looked sluggish offensively. Canton went into the bonus with 3:00 left in the first quarter but connected on only 3-of-9 attempts from the line.

Beth Frigge, with 12 points, was Canton's leading scorer. Frigge had six in the first half as the Chiefs led 15-4 at halftime.

"We played solid in the first half," said Neu, "but we weren't sharp mentally. I was pleased with the way we regrouped after they made a run at us."

Vince scored a team-high nine points for Stevenson, which was 6-of-35 from the floor. Canton was 17-of-54.

Lady Ocelots in NJCAA's

It was a good news, bad news kind of week for Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team. But the good news far outweighed the bad.

The best was that the Lady Ocelots received a berth in the eight-team NJCAA tournament Nov. 27-30 at Mercer Community College in Trenton, N.J.

"I was happy to hear we got in," said Schoolcraft coach Ed Dudek.

Then came the bad news. The Lady Ocelots meet Herkimer (N.Y.) CC in the first round, the No. 1-rated team in the country. Herkimer earned that ranking by beating Monroe CC 4-1 in overtime. Monroe earlier defeated Schoolcraft.

"We don't have the easiest draw," said Dudek, "but we're in. (Herkimer) isn't a team I feel is going to blow us out. We've played a tough schedule, and I don't think Herkimer has played as tough a schedule."

"Right now, I'm just looking forward to playing them."

THE WINNER of the Herkimer-Schoolcraft game will meet the Nassau (N.Y.) CC-Maryland regional victor. Other NJCAA pairings include Monroe (N.Y.) CC vs. Mercer and Meramec (from St. Louis) CC vs. Mitchell (Conn.) CC.

Schoolcraft ran its win streak to 10 straight with a win at Central Michigan University Saturday. That was the good news for the Lady Ocelots. The bad news was that the game wasn't nearly as easy as Dudek had thought it would be, with Schoolcraft managing a hard-fought 1-0 triumph.

"It was a combination of my not getting the team up for the game and Central being better than I expected," said Dudek, whose team is now 12-3-4. "I was happy to get away with a 1-0 victory."

Schoolcraft's goal came early in the game as Lori Nicley (from Troy Athens) punched in a rebound of a shot by Wendy Propp.

The Lady Ocelots had other chances but failed to cash in, including a miss on a penalty kick. "It was wet, slippery and cold," said Dudek, "and they just weren't up for the game."

Schoolcraft, ranked fourth nationally in the NJCAA, is idle until the NJCAA tournament.

"We don't have the easiest draw, but we're in. . . . Right now, I'm just looking forward to playing them."

— Schoolcraft coach Ed Dudek

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

In September of 1970, Plymouth Salem football coach Tom Moshimer moved Journeyman tailback Greg LaMirand, a 6'1" senior into starting quarterback position. Against rival Northville High in the opening game of the 1970 season, LaMirand, making his first start at Varsity QB threw 3 TD passes to glue-fingered 6'4" senior Charley Wolfe. That performance plus the durable running of Capt. Ed. Scott, Don Chopp and Huter enabled Plymouth to blitz Northville 36-8 and capture the Silver Bell emblematic of football supremacy in rivalry between the two teams. It also marked the last time ever the Silver Bell was up for grabs.

Farmington grabs 10th at state meet

By Chris McCoaky
staff writer

Jerry Young couldn't help wincing when he said it.

"The boys took 10th at the state meet."

It's not real exciting news," Young said. "I would have liked it to be a lot better. Bryan Lawton, our No. 3 runner, ran with the flu. Had he been well he would have finished in the 50s. That would have put us at fifth or sixth place."

Lawton finished the Flint IMA Brookwood Golf Course course in 156th place (18:05).

Chris Inch, the Falcon's No. 1 runner all season, turned in an all-state performance. The junior placed third in the team race with a 15:50. That time was the fourth fastest time turned in all day.

AL STEBBINS, another junior, placed eighth in the team race with a 16:10. His was the 10th fastest time of the day.

Ron Smedley, a sophomore, picked up some of the slack for Lawton. He turned in a 17:11 which placed him 78th. Ken Dunneback, another sophomore, placed 99th with a 17:20. Matt Walter was the Falcons' fifth runner placing 117th (17:29).

Utica Eisenhower won the boys meet with 173 points. Monroe was second (180). Redford Catholic Central, last year's Class A champions, placed a distant 23rd in the team race.

See statistical summary for complete team and individual results.

In the individual race, North Farmington senior Kirk Armstrong posted an impressive fifth place finish with a 16:17. Wayne Memorial's Ron Tolson placed seventh (16:20).

IN THE girls' race, won by Sterling Heights Stevenson, Farmington placed 19th (43:6) and Livonia Stevenson, 23rd (49:0).

In the girls individual race, Westland John Glenn's Karen Opp placed 13th with a 19:39. Hers was the best time turned in by an Observerland girl at the state meet. Farmington's Nicole Jelley ran a 19:54 in the team race.

STEELERS WIN 2 FROM LIONS

The two Plymouth-Canton area junior league football units locked horns at Central Middle School Sunday, and the Steelers took two of three games from the Lions.

The Steeler freshman team (7-0-1) knocked off the Lions 15-0. Jason Krueger and Doug Huntington earned a two-point safety for the Steelers, tackling the Lion punter in the end zone. Patrick Vesnaugh then returned the following kickoff 43 yards for a TD.

Jason Duerr added the point-after. Ray Alvarado capped the scoring with a 1-yard plunge. The 7-0-1 record is the best in Steeler frosh history.

The junior varsity Steelers wrapped their season with a 33-0 pasting of the Lions. Rudy Cervantes (2-yard run), Liam Rentz (runs of 15 and 35 yards), Jason Griffith (60-yard run) and Sean McMullen (8-yard run) scored for the Steelers. Jonathon Brand added one extra point and Mark Meszaros added two extra points. The JV finish with a 7-1 record.

The Lions salvaged the varsity game as Keith Corley and Brian Riggs scored two TDs each in a 28-18 win. Rob Kowalski (12-yard run) and Scott Swartzwelder (12-yard run) scored the Steeler TDs. Joe Nora added a two-point kick. The varsity Steelers finished at 5-2.

Overall, the Steeler unit won the Western Suburban League with a 20-3-1 record.

Curtain closes on '85 gridiron

HERE wasn't much celebrating going on this season on the Centennial Educational Park gridiron. What celebration there was provided by Plymouth Salem (below right). There were three football victories scored in the park this season — all three by the Rocks.

Canton lost all nine of its games. And, in the process, lost head coach Richard Barr who decided to resign after six seasons on the job. His successor will be named later this school year.

The highlight of the season for both teams was the annual Canton-Salem clash in week No. 9. The photo at right tells the tale as Canton's Joel Goebel (No. 30) is swarmed by a quartet of Rocks led by No. 6 Paul Makara. The Rocks won the game 33-0.

Salem also posted victories against Livonia Stevenson and North Farmington — two strong Western Lakes teams.

Park football has been on the decline the past two seasons. But with the promising showings of underclassmen Joe Jouppe, Jerry Sumner, Brian Storm and Chris Hill from Salem and Todd Wood, Tony Boucher, Goebel, Brian Gothard and Jeff Krollicki from Canton, perhaps the gridiron picture will brighten at the park next season.

'84 Olympics was smashing

Thirty new Olympic and 10 world records were smashed at the 1984 Summer Games in Los Angeles. The U.S. men's 400-meter relay ran 37.83 seconds to eclipse the 1980 world mark. Swimming also set the pace with a dozen new Olympic records. American athletes topped the medal list with 174, and the largest Olympic crowd ever — more than 5.5 million — attended the 16-day festival of amateur sports.

To develop a mobile security force, Olympic officials enlisted the aid of more than 400 motorcycles and all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) for Olympic sites and villages. ATVs allowed the security force to maneuver in heavy foot traffic and use fewer people to patrol large stadiums such as the Rose Bowl or Coliseum.

Tartars burden: being preseason favorite

By C.J. Riack
staff writer

Basketball coaches in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) enter the 1985-86 season in agreement on one thing, at least. The team to beat is Wayne State University.

The Tartars' men's and women's teams both were picked to win league championships at Monday's media meeting in Lansing. Neither won titles last season, but both provided surprises of a different sort a year ago.

The WSU women were expected to lack depth and height and, with Gary Bryce in his first year of coaching, they were picked to finish near the bottom of the GLIAC standings. Instead, they went 12-4 in the conference to finish second.

The Tartar men had an opposite type of season. After winning the GLIAC in 1983-84, they were chosen to repeat last year. But injuries cost them early and, although they won six of their last seven GLIAC games, the damage had been done. They finished 7-9 and in a fifth-place tie.

BOTH WSU TEAMS feature a strong returning nucleus. The women's team revolves around all-conference forward-guard Pearly Cunningham, a 5-foot-8 senior from Plymouth Canton. Cunningham averaged 13.4 points, 6.7 rebounds, 3.5 assists and 3.4 steals per game.

Another player Bryce will be depending on is Ann Roy, a 5-8 senior small forward from Livonia Bentley who scored 11.0 points per game last season. "Ann has a tremendous ability to shoot the ball," the Tartar coach said of Roy, an honorable mention All-GLIAC choice. "When she's hot, she's capable of scoring 25 points against anybody. But when she's not, she could end up with nothing."

Bryce will be looking for more consistency from Roy and major contributions from five transfer students, including a pair of 6-footers.

CHARLIE PARKER, the WSU men's coach, has the GLIAC's best rebounder for the past two years, Raheem Muhammed, and the league's top scorer last season, Grady Lowry, back. That's enough to give the Tartars an edge.

One player Parker is giving a good look is sophomore Hank Woodmore, an Auburn Heights Avondale grad who transferred a year ago from Michigan Christian Community College but had to sit out due to lack of transferrable credits.

Woodmore, a 5-11 point guard, led Michigan Christian to the National Little College Athletic Association (NLCAA) finals in 1984 and was an NLCAA All-American.

"He's very quick," said Parker. "He'll make an impact on the league."

IN THE WOMEN'S POLL, Oakland University was picked to finish fifth but received two first-place votes. Two-time defending champion Saginaw Valley State was chosen second despite a new coach and having lost all five starters.

Following the Cardinals were, tied for third, Grand Valley State and Northwood Institute; OU; Lake Superior State; Ferris State; Michigan Tech; and Hillsdale.

OU coach Sue Kruszewski likes her team's chances in the GLIAC, even if her opposing coaches don't. "I think we'll be pretty good," said a confident Kruszewski, whose 1984-85 squad finished 9-7 in the league. "Two years ago our team graduated. Now our freshmen are sophomores."

KRUSZEWSKI ENVISIONS major contributions from senior co-captain Julie Wilga, a 5-8 shooting guard from Westland and Livonia Franklin. Wilga transferred to OU last year after two seasons at Henry Ford CC and averaged 7.5 points per game for the Pioneers.

Others Kruszewski is counting on are forwards Sarah Knuth, honorable mention all-league a year ago, and Pam Hawkins, sophomore point guard Margaret Boyle; and 6-4 sophomore center Kim McDowell, who Kruszewski figures can develop into a first-rate pivot player.

Laina Krampert, a 6-3 freshman from Troy, will get playing time at both forward and center.

"They're going to play my style of basketball," said Kruszewski. "run, press and some defense."

AT NORTHWOOD, coach Lori Hyman, who graduated from Livonia Stevenson, has four starters back including all-league forward Tammy Bumpus. Dawn Johnson, a 5-8 sophomore from Plymouth Salem, is battling for playing time at small forward. Her shooting ability could earn her a starting role against zone defense teams.

Joan Frysinger, a 6-0 freshman from Stevenson, could get considerable playing time once she finishes playing for NI's volleyball team.

Lake Superior coach Bob Taylor started four and sometimes five freshmen last year. That year of experience should help. Laurie Day, a 5-7 guard from Livonia Bentley, "never got into it as a freshman after getting mononucleosis," Taylor said. Skill, Day won team honors for top defensive player and averaged 5.9 points.

At Ferris, Carol Ross, from Plymouth Salem, is penciled in as the starting point guard but, according to coach Pat Dolan, "she must be more positive running the show."

IN THE MEN'S POLL, Grand Valley, which finished second in the GLIAC last year, was picked to finish there again. Ferris was next, followed by Saginaw Valley, OU, Lake Superior, Northwood and Hillsdale, and Michigan Tech.

Much of OU's hopes rest with All-GLIAC forward Chris Howze. Howze, a senior and an Orchard Lake St. Mary's grad, didn't do any one thing particularly well last season. He did everything well. The 6-3 Howze was in the top 10 in the conference in every statistic and in the top five in scoring, rebounding and assists.

Howze averaged 18.3 points, 6.6 rebounds and three assists for the Pioneers, who went 13-15 overall but only 5-11 in the GLIAC. He is being touted as a Division II All-America candidate.

OU COACH GREG KAMPE recruited Johnny Johnson, a 5-9 guard from Detroit Southwestern, to help in the backcourt, and Dave Hintz, 6-6 from Fenton, and John Henderson, 6-5½ from Warren, to provide muscle on the boards.

Sophomores Pete Schihl and Scott Bittinger both excelled last season and could start this year. Senior center Walt Dixon (6-6) returns after a promising 1984-85 campaign was soured by injury. Senior guard Craig Tonti missed half of last season with a knee injury and his outside shooting was sorely missed.

Sophomore forward-guard Rob Alvin, from Birmingham Groves, backs up Howze. Alvin is a strong offensive player (4.1 points in limited action) but needs to develop defensively.

Elsewhere in the GLIAC, Grand Valley coach Tom Villemure, who coached at Birmingham Seaholm a decade ago, has Andy Kolp slotted as a potential starter. The sophomore from Birmingham Brother Rice and Mike Davis, a sophomore from Bloomfield Hills Lahser, will rotate in with All-GLIAC guard Randy Parlor.

Ocelot men bid for respectability

By C.J. Riack
staff writer

As Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team closed out its regular season slate at Delta Community College Saturday with a 5-0 win, one question lingered:

How good are these guys?
"We're playing excellently right now," Ocelot coach Van Dimitriou said. And yet, even he could shed little light on how his team compares to other national community college powerhouses.

Many questions should be answered this weekend as the Ocelots head to the NJCAA Inter-regional at DuPage College in Chicago, Ill. For Schoolcraft to advance beyond this round, it likely will have to face — and defeat — Lewis and Clark CC, the No. 1-ranked team in the country.

Schoolcraft opens Thursday against Hinds County (Miss.) Community College. A victory earns the Ocelots a rest until Saturday's semifinals, with the Inter-regional finals slated for Sunday. The winner advances to the NJCAA nationals at Mercer CC Nov. 27-30 in Trenton, N.J.

DIMITRIOU BELIEVES this squad is as good as any he's coached in his 10 years as assistant and head man for the Ocelots.

The Ocelots are 10-1-1, including an 8-0 record in Region XII competition. Their only loss came against University of Michigan, when Dimitriou chose to use the game as a scrimmage and substitute freely. They tied highly regarded Michigan State 1-1.

Schoolcraft outscored its opponents 48-14. In Region XII play, the Ocelots had a 40-6 goal advantage.

At the beginning of the season, two things surprised Dimitriou: the number of players who came out for the team (25) and the overall talent.

Twenty-one of those are still on the squad, giving Dimitriou more depth than he's ever had to work with.

MAKE THAT quality depth. The Ocelots have a nucleus of talent, with John Gelmisi (13 goals, eight assists), from Livonia Stevenson, and Matt Pace (nine goals, five assists) the top scorers, Rick Hamers and Abe Yaffai (Livonia Bentley) solidifying the midfield, Scott Steiner (Plymouth Salem) anchoring the defense and Jeff Vakratsis (Livonia Clarenceville) and Sam Matovski (Livonia Church-ill) sharing the goalkeeper duties.

But others, like forwards Randy Johnson (Salem), Joe Mase (Stevenson), Joe Novak (Stevenson), Kevin Sultana (Salem), Gene Pulice (Livonia Bentley) and Steve Nitchov (Stevenson); halfbacks Rob Costanza (Stevenson), Jeff Neschich (Salem), Dan Ortiz, and Jim Moreau (Redford Catholic Central); and fullbacks Todd Ericson (Stevenson), Brian Deal (Garden City), Mark Konopatki (Garden City) and Anwar Yaffai (Bentley), provide invaluable assistance.

DIMITRIOU MAY need all the depth he can get. Gelmisi and Matt Pace are battling the flu, and Johnson has been hampered by a pulled hip muscle. "When it comes right down to it, I know they'll play," said Dimitriou. "It's just a matter of how effective they'll be."

OU 4th at Can-Am tourney

Oakland University's volleyball team warmed up for this weekend's Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) tournament by finishing fourth in the 20-team Can-Am Tournament last weekend, hosted by the University of Windsor.

OU won its pool with four straight wins over Ontario-based schools Friday. The Pioneers defeated University of Waterloo 15-4, 15-4; University of Windsor 15-11, 15-4; Lakehead College 15-11, 15-10; and Brock University 15-11, 15-6.

On Saturday, the Pioneers upended Michigan Tech 15-13, 15-13 in the quarterfinals before losing a tight semifinal match to GLIAC rival Grand Valley State 15-17, 15-17.

BECCA WYATT had 57 kills with a .345 attack percentage, 21 service aces, 27 solo blocks and 12 block assists for the tourney. Wyatt finished the season atop the GLIAC statistics in blocks (1.78 per game) and serving aces (0.97 per game). She was also seventh in attack percentage (.315).

He's recognizable Star of movie comedies has face people remember

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

WHEN ACTOR CURTIS ARMSTRONG and his actress-wife, Cynthia Carle, are out in public, almost no one recognizes her but, she said,

"He's recognized all the time. A mechanic said, 'You were on every cable station I tried to watch last night.'"

The couple is appearing in the Meadow Brook Theatre production of the Noel Coward comedy "Present Laughter," which begins a four-week run tonight at the Oakland University campus near Rochester.

Armstrong has an unruly crop of reddish-brown curly hair. Carle has long, blonde permed hair. She's a petite 5-foot-4, and he's a couple of inches taller. Asked how tall he is, Armstrong said, "Five feet five, or six." Asked,

"Does your height bother you?" he said, "No. Does it bother you?"

Not all of Hollywood's leading men are tall, he noted, and besides, "If anything, it's helped (being short). There're all sorts of weird, short character parts."

BOTH ARMSTRONG and his wife declined to give their ages, but the rough-baby-faced actor "still gets carded (asked for ID)," his wife said.

Moviegoers and television viewers instantly recognize Armstrong, who has played such off-the-wall characters as the slightly scruffy high school buddy of the innocent young hero in "Risky Business," and Booger, one of the inept college freshmen rejected by all the campus fraternities in "Revenge of the Nerds."

Armstrong's third movie, "Better Off Dead," is currently playing. It's also a comedy, in which he plays a wild character, who wears a top hat and snorts Jello and real, winter snow. A fourth film, "Bad Medicine," about students at a cut-rate medical college in Central America, is scheduled to be released Friday.

"So far, the films I've done, I've enjoyed doing all of them," Armstrong said.

The actor recently completed his fifth film role in "Clan of the Cave Bear," set in the Mediterranean but shot on location in Canada.

"It's about a group of Neanderthal people in search of a new cave, who come across a baby Cro-Magnon. They bring her up within their clan. She (Daryl Hannah of "Splash") grows up in a clan of little, short, hairy dark people. She grows up bigger and taller," Armstrong said.

"WE WORKED on it six months, mainly in Vancouver and British Columbia, and the Yukon where we lived in tents. It was quite an experience.

"It's the only film I've made that is not a comedy."

Armstrong said a bond was created among the 20 actors who appeared in the film. Of big, blonde, beautiful Daryl Hannah, he said, "She's great." He praised her comedic talents and her range of performing skills.

"Cynthia took a comedy class with Daryl in Los Angeles," he said. Carle described Hannah, "She's hysterically funny."

Talking about his movie-comedy roles, Armstrong said, "None of them are any parent's dream date. They're not identical either. They're all a little odd."

He continued, "If you think they're off the wall, the character I play in this ('Present Laughter') is even weirder."

Carl Schurr plays the leading role of the self-centered hero, a famous actor.

"We're sort of playing bookend characters in this," Armstrong said. "We're sort of the main thorns in his (Schurr's) side," Carle said. Armstrong added, "Cynthia's character loves him and so does mine." Armstrong plays an aspiring playwright, and Carle is a hero-worshipping actress.

APPEARING IN the play together is a real treat for Armstrong and Carle. "It's very nice," she said, "We haven't done anything in five years." The couple has been married five years and met during a bus-and-truck tour of the play "Da."

Armstrong had the role of the Charlie, the lead character as a young boy, and she was Mary Tate, the Young Peril. The show toured for three months in 1979 and three months during 1980. The couple knew they were seriously interested in each other after a couple of months, she said. "It's funny, you're thrown together in the bus. It's inescapable. Back in New York we knew it wasn't just the tour, trapped on the bus."

They were married in 1980, between the two tours of the show. Said Armstrong, "The second one was by way of being a working honeymoon. In between, we went out on regional tours. She did one in Milwaukee and I did one in New York."

Armstrong began his movie career in 1982 with "Risky Business." Carle's movies have included Louis Malle's "Alamo Bay" with Ed Harris, in which she played Harris' wife, "a sort of red-neck Texas trailer-park" type, she said. In "Warning Sign," with Sam Waterston and Kathleen Quinlan, "I played a girl in a baggie. The film is about germ warfare and I spent the whole movie in a decontamination bubble."

BECAUSE OF their acting careers, Carle and Armstrong don't get to spend very much time together. "We're separated mostly," she said. "In five years, we've been together about two and a half," he said. "It's trying," she responded.

Armstrong was raised in metropolitan Detroit, where he attended Berkley High School and then went on to study at the Academy of Dramatic Art at Oakland University.

He was a student at Will-O-Way Apprentice Theatre in the late 1960s. "I did several plays there and did some summer stock in South Bend, Ind.," he said.

After graduating from the Academy of Dramatic Art in the spring of 1974, Armstrong went to Ann Arbor where Curtis Armstrong and Cynthia Carle, husband and wife, who are both cast in "Present Laughter," take a break during rehearsals for the Noel Coward comedy at Meadow Brook Theatre. This is just their second appearance on stage together since they met during a tour of the play "Da" in 1979.

second runs for Nov. 7

Marilyn Monroe is in the news again. Our fascination with this icon of the 1950s seems insatiable. Channel 4 is doing its part by running a week's worth of Monroe movies at 2 a.m. — "River of No Return," "Niagara," "How to Marry a Millionaire" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Marilyn was an enigma. She was the brash, flashy blonde and temptress who was also an innocent, vulnerable little girl. Real life and screen life became confused as Marilyn went from one celebrity husband or lover to another, and, according to some accounts, died for love. Her sad quest for happiness became a real life "moral example" for us all. Marilyn, like that other icon of the age Elvis Presley, was yanked from life to be a symbol.

Fair $2
Good $3
Excellent $4

It's easy to see her appeal. In some views and moods, she is stunningly beautiful. But she never seems distant. She is one of us and she isn't. As an actress, she was adequate in dramatic roles and appealing in comedy. The better directors, especially Billy Wilder, made good use of Monroe's physical and emotional qualities. There was too much integrity, too much person in Marilyn Monroe (or in Jean Baker) to ever become the self-parody that Jayne Mansfield and Diana Dors became. She was not that kind of blonde bombshell, and we were never quite sure what kind she was.

"Casablanca" (1943), 8 p.m. Monday on Ch. 50. Originally 102 minutes.

Here's another chance to see the ultimate movie-movie. Quibble as you might about plot holes or sentimentality, this is the essential 1940s American movie. Tough, cynical Humphrey Bogart, beautiful Ingrid Bergman and disarming Claude Rains top a cast that is perfect down to the last bit player. Michael Curtiz made many fine films but was never considered more than a journeyman director. Here he shows just how effective a journeyman director can be when all the elements come together. This is a film that always stirs the blood and will not be forgotten "As Time Goes By."

Rating: $4.
"Conrack" (1974), 1:30 Monday night on Ch. 50. Originally 107 minutes. TV time slot: 124 minutes.

An earnest and intelligent Martin Ritt film starring Jon Voight as a teacher in the South Carolina off islands. The movie combines humor with a serious look at a strange corner of American life. The racial tensions and misunderstandings are treated with more realism and balance than usual. Good performance by Voight and fine support from Madge Sinclair and Hume Cronyn.

Rating: $3.

wine Richard Watson

He developed vinefera grape

Another of those good news-sad news columns. The latter first.

It is with regret that I report the early September death of Dr. Konstantin Frank of Vinifera Wine Cellars in Hammondsport, N.Y. The subject of a recent column here, he was truly the father of the vinifera wine grape in the eastern United States.

All evidence and history proved that it was impossible to grow chardonnay and riesling grapes in the face of the bitter winters of upstate New York until Frank, a refugee from Russia in the early 1950s, showed it could be done.

The American wine industry is the richer today because he ignored the obvious, went on his way with Charles Fournier and showed that it could be done.

His reputation: difficult and irascible. My experience: warmth and charm when I visited him as a friend and admirer some years ago. He was 86 when a stroke took him. History will not forget this man.

THE GOOD news is that in recent weeks several new and inexpensive chardonnays have arrived on local wine shelves. All are priced under $10, most less, and all are very decent. They are of recent vintage and lack the complexity that comes with extended wood aging.

What they gain by this is a fresh fruitiness that demonstrates what a delightful grape this can be when it is treated thus. These wines lack the acidic crispness of chablis and the buttery richness of white burgundy. They boast charm rather than depth.

My personal favorite and, alas, the most expensive is John Shafer's 1984 under his second label, Chase Creek. This one comes close to being a profound wine. It has complexity without being intimidating. I can be found for about $9 a bottle and is worth much more. Most memorable.

Another fine release, also on a second label, is the 1983 Felta Springs. Made by the Mill Creek Winery in Sonoma, this is a fine value at $5.99. It is very clean, well made and has a hint of citrus. It shows chardonnay off to its best effect. Its quality and price more than offset its especially ugly label, a traditional Mill Creek problem.

Stratford produced an astounding 1982 chardonnay a year ago. Now the 1983 is available locally and, while less successful, it is still a sound wine. There are hints of oak balanced with good fruit. More complex than the Chase Creek, it is one that some people will prefer. At $8.99, this is a fine value for a special occasion.

FINALLY among the new arrivals is one on the Jonathan label. Its 1983, available in 1.5-liter bottles at about $8, is direct and pleasant. The wine is from the same group that owns Domaine Alexander.

Mention must also be made of a 1983 chardonnay that has been around for many months but not noted in this column. That is from Chalk Hill (again a second label, this time from the Donna Maria Vineyards of Sonoma, an instance where the alternate label has been more successful than its parent). Hints of wood and good acidity complement the essential grape flavors here. Well done at $5.50 a bottle.

And there are two new cabernets that warrant mention. There is a 1982 from Felta Springs, full of mint and ripe olive flavors, also at $5.99. And the 1983 from J. Lohr (Santa Clara) is perhaps the steal of the month. At $3.99 it is a great buy.

There has been a non-vintaged Lohr Cabernet around for some time at the same price, a bit vegetal but most acceptable. This new one is more typically Californian and should not be missed. The label is stunning and memorable. I don't like it but it will not be easily overlooked on wine shelves.

The best new sparkling wine, a hands-down choice, is the 1982 Lembey Brut from Pedro Domecq. This is one more in the long line of affordable, attractive Spanish sparklers we now have available to us, but this one is, for me, a bit better. A suggestion of grapefruit, yet very crisp and vital. And, for a while, there is a $3 rebate on each available. Placed on a $5.99 price tag, that is quite an introductory deal.

Finally, a piece of another kind of news. The fine Joseph Phelps Winery of Napa has just released its second label under the name of Innisfree. A 1984 chardonnay and a 1982 cabernet are the first out. Both should sell locally for under $10. I have not had a chance to try them yet but with Phelps' winemaking skills at work these should both be worth exploring.

This 'Our Town' is ordinary

Performances of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," presented by the Schoolcraft College's Theater Department, continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at the Liberal Arts Theater on the main campus in Livonia. For tickets, call 591-8400, Ext. 265.

By Victoria Diaz
special writer

The Schoolcraft College Theatre Department has begun its new season with a hit-and-miss version of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town." If you're a fan of this popular play about small-town life in early-20th-century Grover's Corners, N.H., you may enjoy this rendition of it. On the other hand, if it's not one of your favorite plays, there's nothing remarkable enough about this production to change your mind.

Grover's Corners is a town of 2,642 people, where most of the lights are out at 9:30, where a boy proposes to a girl over a soda at the soda shop and where most of the people believe "the diligent and sensible rise to the top." Wilder's characters are simple, human, warm and natural.

In this respect, the large cast, under the direction of James R. Hartman — who is director of theater at Schoolcraft — has its problems.

Throughout the evening, many appear to have a distracting tendency toward overacting. This seems especially true of Barbara Buttery in the role of the newspaper editor's wife, Mrs. Webb; Robert Myers who portrays the young, lovestruck George Gibbs; and Laura Nettle as his wide-eyed sweetheart, Emily Webb.

IT'S NOT THAT any of them seems under-rehearsed or unfamiliar with the lines. They appear simply to be lacking naturalness, for which the particular roles they play cry out.

Other principal cast members, including Daniel K. Webb as Dr. Gibbs and Robert Warren Hamblin in a double role as the tragic Simon Stimson and the loquacious Professor Willard, fare somewhat better, although they both seem plagued with an inordinate amount of self-consciousness now and then.

The cast, made up entirely of Schoolcraft College students, appears also, in several cases, simply too young for their roles. This is especially a problem with Buttery, and also with Kevin M. Moran, who plays her husband, the editor of the Grover's Corners Sentinel, and Cynthia McEvoy, in the role of the town doctor's wife, Mrs. Gibbs. All are very attractive performers, but unfortunately, they look to be about the same age as some of their onstage children.

Lesser problems have to do with the handling of the New England accents onstage. Most cast members don't get it right, other just don't bother with it at all.

On the plus side, there's Daniel Jaroslaw as the Stage Manager. With his engaging, avuncular manner and a New England accent that sounds as if he were brought up in New Hampshire, the perfectly cast Jaroslaw lends an effectiveness to the show that is sorely needed. When he appears, the whole production seems to take on new life, and his strong, sustained performance is a treat to watch and listen to throughout the evening.

ALSO ON THE plus side — in a minor role, Angella M. Kobane has a delightful moment as a tearful, elderly woman having a thoroughly enjoyable time at the wedding of the young lovers, Emily and George.

Finally, backstage crews do a commendable job, although some sound effects seem too obviously canned. But the soft lighting by lighting director Dan Dreisbach and suitable, subtly colored costumes by costumer Lisa Smith go far in evoking the dreamlike image and feel of a much simpler time, fondly remembered.

Theater guild has fun with double bill

Performances of the First Theatre Guild production of "He Done Her Wrong, or Wedded But No Wife" by Anita Bell and "Laugh Man" by Sue Ann Gillespie Martin continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham. For ticket information, call 543-4918.

By Helen Zucker
special writer

Penny Dreadfuls, popular melodramas of the 19th century, have come round again — with good reason. They're funny. The First Theatre Guild's production of Anita Bell's "He Done Her Wrong" manages to milk a predictable yet hilarious script for all it's worth.

Debra Ann Ball as Octavia Moneycracker, wealthy widow and restless mother, renders her lines with more panache than the rest of the cast. Richard Magaldi as Fleetwood Dashaway who "wants to live off the fat of the land" (many wives), rushes about in a Dracula cape, twirling his mustache fiercely. Glancing wildly at the audience, Magaldi with his lifted brows seems to be saying, "I'm made for this role."

Cheri Lee as Hyacinth Haven, the new maid, faints and screams, "O, woe is me," a lot, and David Martin as the haysed gardener, Fitzjohn Oliphant, rushes to save his distressed maiden. Kim Dresbach-Walters is a nasty Linette Darwood (these names should tell you what this is all about), and Beth Palmer is simple indeed as Alvina Moneycracker.

Jeff Despard's set deserves special mention. John F. Spears' direction needs speed and Jack Zurawka's piano is terrific.

Suffice it to say the bigamist does not get his way.

THIS CREW takes its desire to make us laugh into a second production. "Laugh Man," by Sue Ann Gillespie Martin, is a collection of choice bits of humor taken from the greats of past and present. John Feld is very good as Woody Allen, David Martin is funny as Rocky reciting Wordsworth's "Daffodils," Debra Ann Ball is a neat Lady Bracknell and Richard Magaldi is very funny in an amusing bit about an artist who wants to be a shoe salesman.

The cast loosens up in "Laugh Man." Its pleasure in playing Abbott and Costello, Charlie Chaplin, Punch and Judy, and feisty Kate and Petruchio from "Taming of the Shrew" comes across.

Adventure travel: much more than a vacation

ADVENTURE travel isn't just for English earls any more. You don't have to be either rich or royal to go off on a big game safari in Kenya with a personal guide.

Whether your adventure spirit roars like a week with a gorilla family in Rwanda or whispers like a cruise on your boat in the Virgin Islands, there is an adventure trip out there for you.

Even though the dictionary's definition of adventure is "encountering of risks, a hazardous enterprise, a daring feat" — adventure travel can be as safe or dangerous, as luxurious or "rough," as you like.

One new meaning of adventure travel seems to be merely a get-away-from-it-all vacation, and the biggest risk is in making the decision to go.

If you are interested in adventure travel, you will want to check out the degree of stamina and expertise you'll need to participate fully. How far can you walk? Can you paddle your own canoe? Can you swim? Are you really interested in ancient rock art?

ADVENTURE TOUR directors say that people of all ages sign up for their tours, expeditions, journeys. One white-water rafting group says that the youngest rafter they had on one of their trips was 5, the oldest 81 years old.

Below is a compendium of ideas to help you find the adventure trip that fits you:

- The Ritz/Madrid Partridge Shoot may be as close as you'll get to those shooting parties thrown by royalty. Available Nov. 15 through February 1986, this seven-day adventure in Spain offers sportsmen and women three days of partridge shooting on the hereditary estate of the Duke of Fernan Nunez, a member of one of Spain's noble families.

Before each afternoon shoot, luncheon will be served at the Duke's Manor House amid 17th-, 18th- and 19th-century paintings of the Duke's ancestors.

On the remaining four days, the small group of sportsmen and their friends will tour the Prado, visit Toledo and Segovia and dine at the Ritz after sightseeing in Madrid. On the final evening, there will be partridge feast prepared by the chef of the Ritz Hotel. Contact: Leading Hotels of the World at 800-223-6800.

- Most travelers will agree that high on anyone's scale of adventure tours would be a visit to two mountain gorilla families in Rwanda.

Gorilla tracking can be very taxing, so this trip into heavily forested mountains at a height of more than 9,000 feet is for the hardy only. Groups of only 12 tourists at a time are taken to the Parc National des Volcans, where the gorillas live. This is to protect the fragile habitat of the gorillas.

A KLR safari combines gorilla tracking in Rwanda with tracking Halley's Comet and game viewing in reserves in Rwanda and Botswana.

Adventure vacations run the gamut from peaceful sailing to camel-back riding to visiting out of the way countries. The 61-foot charter yacht (above) leaves from Nassau, Bahamas, to visit any number of island stop-overs.

KLR International's 16-day "Kenya and Rwanda: Big Game and Mountain Gorillas" safari begins on Jan. 17, leaving monthly except April, May and November. The gorilla trek is combined with three days in Kenya's Masai region and four days at Rwanda's lovely Akagera National Park.

ANOTHER KLR safari combines gorilla tracking in Rwanda with Halley's Comet tracking and game viewing in reserves in Rwanda and Botswana. Your guide for this journey of 17 days is Lynne Leakey, Kenya-based naturalist. The safari, one of a kind, leaves New York on April 3, 1986.

For more information: KLR International, 1560 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10036. Call 800-221-4876.

- Volunteer members of Earth Watch, a non-profit organization dedicated to preservation of the world's endangered habitats and species, are encouraged to choose from more than 90 projects in 36 countries. More than 16,000 people of all ages choose to study a graveyard of mammoths in South Dakota, research monkeys in Kowloon, Hong Kong, or count fish in the Florida Everglades.

College credits can be earned in some programs. Space is still available on projects in ecology (Panama), archeology (St. Catherine's Island, Ga.), anthropology (Japan) and ornithology (Penobscot Bay, Maine).

Call Earthwatch at (617)489-3030 for details. Volunteers pay a share of the cost of these adventure trips. In Michigan, field representatives Millie and Jim Haggart can be reached at (517) 546-8524. Or write: Earth Watch, 10 Juniper Road, Box 127, Belmont, Mass. 02178.

- Have Mule Will Travel is another non-profit group, which recruits volunteers to aid field scientists in their research. You don't have to be a scientist to participate, just willing and interested.

Adventures include: wildlife study on an island off Baja California leaving Dec. 28 and Jan. 4; mapping West Caicos, a haunted island — leaving Dec. 21 and Jan. 4, 1986; rock art investigation, Southern California, mid-1986; wildlife study on the Yucatan Peninsula, late 1986.

The IRS has ruled that reasonable travel and living expenses for these expeditions are tax-deductible.

Contact: New Adventure Charters, 13915 Plumbrook, Sterling Heights, Mich. 48077. Call 313-978-8994.

- If you'd rather be on your own, have hand-on-tiller sailing experience and privacy, flotilla sailing may be your choice. Long popular in the Greek Islands, flotilla sailing means you'll sail your own boat but you will have a leader and sail with a group from port to port.

Florida Adventure Sailing out of Fort Meyers has just such a plan. If you are a greenhorn, you can attend an optional pre-trip skipper's school where you'll learn to tell the main sheet from an anchor rode and what you're supposed to do with each one. If you are already used to rail down sailing you can take off on your own.

Led by fleetmaster, Jacques Rollis, you'll sail around the lee Islands beginning in Captive Island. You'll sail from one barrier island to the other: Cayo Costa, Chino, Gasparilla and Cabbage Key, each with its own individual personality.

At night you'll dock at some of Florida's finest resorts where hot showers and fine food are available. Contact: Lee County Tourist Development Council, 2126 First St., P.O. Box 2445, Fort Meyers, 33902-2445. Call 800-237-6444.

travel alone, Rainbow Adventures package tours for women over 30 may give you the chance to be adventurous in a planned setting.

Women can have a week of sailing the high seas on an 80-foot Windjammer cruise in the British Virgin Islands or a snorkeling getaway on St. John's Island in the U.S. Virgin Islands. Snorkeling gear and instruction are included.

In February a trip to the Galapagos Islands and South America is featured. Travelers will visit Quito, Ecuador's capitol city and then cruise to Darwin's famous islands. An optional week to visit Peru and the Amazon River is also offered.

For a brochure listing these and other journeys for women only, write: Rainbow Adventures Inc., 1308 Sherman Ave., Evanston, Ill. 60201. Call 312-864-4570.

- If you want to trek to the Galapagos Islands and other South American destinations with a man, perhaps you'll contact Sobek Expeditions, founded in 1973 to explore the great rivers of the world and considered the leader in foreign river trips.

Sobek tours feature bilingual naturalists, deep-forest hiking, classic train travel, country inns, small groups and new, pioneering routes. Package tours include: Andean Odyssey, Amazon River Adventure, Costa Rican Parks, Patagonian Express. Write: Sobek Expeditions Inc., Angels Camp, Calif. 95222. Phone 209-736-4524.

- Right here in Michigan, Duane and Loretta Brown of Sterling Heights have embarked on an adventure of their own. Trading on their 28 years of Great Lakes cruising experience, the Browns have made their yacht Serenity available for chartering. The 61-foot motorized yacht with four staterooms leaves from Nassau, Bahamas, to visit any number of island stop-overs.

The "penthouse on the water," with its large galley, offers you a place in the main salon to watch T.V. or VCR movies, though I can't imagine why you'd want to with sunshine and snorkeling, windsurfing and sailing just a

Carriers of the Year

Pardon us, while we indulge in our annual display of public affection.

We do it every year. These 12 Observer & Eccentric carriers deliver your hometown news twice each week, rain, snow, or shine. They also deliver some good, hard work behind the scenes.

Carriers of the Year win their laurels by settling their accounts promptly, organizing their route books neatly and keeping them up to date. When considering candidates for Carrier of the Year, we check their length of service and the amount of their collections. We make sure they've been a "Carrier of the Month."

These young people represent diligence, character and the kind of commitment in work that will make the difference in whatever they choose to do with their lives.

To say "Thanks" we've given each of them an engraved trophy, congratulated them with a dinner and printed their pictures in the newspaper they deliver so well.

And we've enjoyed every minute of it.
