Township updates recreation

An updated master recreation and ship identifies 27 short-term goals ranging from acquiring more park land to making improvements at existing facilities.

Attaining all of the objectives over the next six years could result in outof-pocket costs to the township of more than $600,000, estimated Planning Director James Anulewicz.

The plan, drafted by Anulewicz and approved by the township board, also eyes state funding up to $135,000 and private donations of $70,000.

"An open space and recreation plan should be looked upon as a living open space plan for Plymouth Town- document and a working tool giving direction to the community," the report states. "It should not be a static document which gathers dust on the bookshelf and which is referred to only when some crisis develops.

"A recreation and open space plan will assist in establishing some measurement for determining open space needs for the future, to insure that sufficient lands are provided and located in relationship to the populations intended to serve.

THE TOP three objectives of the plan advocate:

ton Community Schools just north of township park at McClumpha and Ann Arbor Trail.

Cost is estimated at $59,500 to $170,000, with funding projected to come half from local funds and half from a state grant.

 Immediate construction of a children's creative play area and play equipment at township park. The $55,000 cost is expected to be met with private donations.

· Construction of at least four tennis courts at township park within the • Immediate acquisition of a 17-next four years. Again, the hope is that acre parcel owned by Plymouth-Can-the $100,000 project would be funded equally with state and local money.

> "Anything that has to do with planning - recreation or land use - has to have some flexibility built in," Anulewicz said. "Without this kind of document, this community goes nowhere. That's what book learning tells you and my experience tells me that's correct."

THE FIRST step in the process involves identifying a wish list, Anulewicz said. Step two involves finding money to turn plans into realities.

"We may find revenues are such we may accomplish each and every goal. Again, we may accomplish only one or Anulewicz said he encourages public comment on the plan.

"Please put them down on paper and get them to us," he said. "We're going to be looking at this over the next eight months. If revisions are needed, they will be put into place."

Following is a brief description of each of the 27 short-term goals identified in the master recreation and open space plan:

False alarms alarming

Enough is enough, says city of Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers.

Myers, citing the large number of false burglar alarms his officers responded to last month, vows to begin ticketing repeat offenders.

"What we're doing is after the second false alarm (in a calendar year), we're sending out warning letters,' Myers said. "We sent about a dozen for January. After the third false alarm, we're going to start issuing appearance

A fine of $50 can be levied for the local ordinance violation, Myers said. Police responded to 72 false alarms last month, the chief said. "That's not 72 places. One place had four, one had six," he said, declining to be more specific. Several factors led to the crackdown

'Officers are putting themselves and the public at a certain amount of risk, particularly on alarm runs," he said. 'We don't use our sirens and at times when we get close to buildings, we don't use flashers. The surprise element is essential to doing alarm work.

"ANOTHER REASON is lack of trust alarm companies and police put in signals after many false alarms," Myers said. "No matter how much training they get, after they go to the same building the fifth time in a month, they'll be more casual."

A cost factor also comes into play. "By the time the dispatcher puts a call in the log and the computer, the officer arrives and enters in his log, you're looking at 10 to 15 minutes,' Myers said. "Police officers' time doesn't come cheap anymore." Weather-related malfunctions are excused, Myers said. Explanations of extenuating circumstances can also be directed his way, the chief added. The city commission decided to opt out of the direct monitoring of burglar alarms from the police station as of the first of the year due to liability con-

"I think false alarms should be down," Myers said. "Alarm companies have equipment and knowledge to screen out these false alarms."

MYERS ATTRIBUTED the false alarms to unfamiliarity, carelessness and improperly adjusted systems.

Some vociferous complaints have been received since warning letters were issued, Myers said, especially from parties guilty of several viola-

All registrations will be handled on a first-come basis with registration beginning at 5 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 25, in the cafeteria of Plymouth Canton High on Canton Center Road south of Teachers Sue Visser, Bonnie Pederson, Betty DuBois, Nancy McDowell, and Carolyn Wieneke will be available beginning at 4:30 p.m. to answer questions. After registration is completed, the child care facilities will be open for visitation.

A parent may register only for their child. A provision has been established to allow someone else to register for a person unable to attend. This person, however, may not register any other child.

Parents arriving early, to assure themselves a slot, must remain at the Classes, two days a week at Canton High, meet 8:30-10:30 a.m. and 12:15-2:15 p.m. Mondays and Tuesdays and Tuesdays/Thursdays. At Salem High a three-day program is followed from 9-11 a.m. Mondays. Wednesdays, and Fridays and a twoday program from 9-11 a.m. Tuesdays/Thursdays or 12:30-2:30 p.m. Mondays/Wednesdays and Tuesdays/ Thursdays.

The charge is $150 per semester for a two-day program and $215 for three days. The fee is payable at registration.

Kiddie Kampus registration is open to all 4-year-olds (must be 4 by Dec 1) and 24 31/2-year-olds (must be 3 by April 1).

the sandwich generation. You always look up to parents as this strong rock, and all of a sudden that's not there anymore," explained Janet Zielasko, health promotion coordinator at Catherine McAuley Health Center based in the Arbor Health Building in Plymouth. "That's scary."

ONE AID to coping is learning to understand some of the physical changes linked to age and emotional turmoil resulting from deaths of family and friends. Knowing about free social services available to senior citizens can also lighten the load adult children car-

Foresight and planning are paramount to avoiding a crisis situation, Zielasko said.

"People look at the relationships as a role reversal," said Zielasko, who will speak at "The Other Generation Gap: You and Your Aging Relatives." The program will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Feb. 26 at the Canton Township administration building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, and is designed to help adult children deal with their parents' special needs.

"It's not that parents become de-pendent, but that the children become more dependable," Zielasko said. "It's not a situation where parents become children and children become parents. The parent doesn't want to give up that role and shouldn't have to."

ZIELASKO PLANS to address myths often associated with age by passing out forms at the seminar with true and false questions like, "Older people aren't interested in sex after 60. True or false?" The correct answer is "True," Zielasko said.

"Maybe the workshop will plant a seed that will be there when they need

The free seminar, co-sponsored by Catherine McAuley Health Center, Canton Senior Citizens Office and Northville Community Education, will include tips from Cindy Beel-Bates, Catherine McAuley clinical nurse specialist and Dianne Neihengen, Canton senior citizens coordinator.

"The focus is not on the older person but the adult child," Neihengen said.

aging, their own aging and their children growing up." She will distribute local and national telephone numbers of federally funded services for elderly people - like daily delivered meals and regular upbeat phone calls - to help children meet their parents' needs.

"I get calls from people who live in Canton and their parents live else-where or even out of state," Neihengen said. "They're just frantic. I'm delighted to help and put people in touch with services. We won't always have the perfect solution, but at least they won't be alone anymore in doing it. I don't know why but we're getting more and more and more calls."

NEIHENGEN STRESSES the need to have empathy and patience when interacting with elderly people.

"Stop and think what the person is going through. They've lost sisters, brothers, cousins and friends. No one can solve their problems, but it's worse when people don't have empathy.'

Learning to become sensitive to what the elderly parent is experiencing is one workshop goal.

"Knowing what the problems are makes it easier to deal with them," Zielasko said. "They'll know these issues they face are real and that they're not only for themselves but for other people.'

The seminar is a preview to a sixweek $15 per person and $25 per couple program addressing awareness of relationships with aging parents, understanding the aging process, effective coping mechanisms in dealing with emotional and physical needs of aging relatives, and learning to tap on community resources.

"The Other Generation Gap: You and Your Aging Relatives" will be held each Wednesday from 7-9 p.m., March 19-April 23 at the Arbor Health Building Community Room, 990 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

"The followup is for those who really need more information or more support," Zielasko said. "Potentially we could have an ongoing program."

SHARING PERSONAL experiences will be stressed at the initial seminar to show those who attend that they're not alone with their feelings. "People don't always have a chance to do that without feeling guilty about talking about concerns they have with parents," Zielasko said. "Maybe someone who's gone through similar experiences will have an answer."

For registration information on the initial seminar call 397-1000, Ext. 278, for the six-week program call 455-and Plymouth townships.

"It's going on east of I-275 west along Eckles Road between Hines Drive and Joy Road," said Carl Berry, Plymouth Township police chief.

The vast majority have occurred during daylight and early evening Thirteen burglaries have been confirmed between Jan. 1 and last Friday morning, Berry said. Garages were targeted in eight instances, houses in five.

At least 13 breaking and entering reports - mostly or residences - were filed throughout Canton between Feb. 5 and 9. Two groups of suspects — youngsters and young adults — are being sought by police, according to Canton Police Lt. Alex Wilson.

Brookside Village subdivision south of Cherry Hill and east of Lotz was hit last week. Youngsters — be-tween 13 and 16 years old — are being sought in these cases.

"The kids' technique is to go door-todoor and if no one answers they break through a window," Wilson said. "If

The Brookside burglaries generally occurred after dark before midnight. Police urge residents, especially in Brookside subdivision, to take note of children asking for someone who doesn't live at the home. Try to remember how they were dressed, what they looked like and call the police department, Wilson said.

For now, Canton Police aren't linking the Plymouth and Canton township burglaries, Wilson said.

"They're after whatever they can get and get out in a hurry," Berry said of the Plymouth capers. Snowblowers, stereos and video cassette recorders are especially coveted.

We believe the problem is localized, being committed by a person or persons who could live in the area," he said. Clues have been left at some of the burglary scenes, Berry said, but he declined to elaborate.

"People need to be cognizant of the fact that they have to secure their homes better," Wilson said. In Plymouth, the intruder(s) generally force a side or rear walk-in garage door. Bars placed across the door and deadbolt locks might prove to be effec-tive crime prevention tools.

"The key to preventing this is someone seeing people around homes," Berry said. "They have to start calling us about suspicious persons or suspicious activity. Neighbors should become more aware, realize what could be happening and call us."

He'd never make a Rocky

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

Most old-time prize fighters are recognized by cauliflower ears, a flat nose, stiff arms or by poor legs, which cause trouble walking.

But Al Meyers, a resident of Tonquish Creek Manor in Plymouth, is not among them.

He spends his spare time enjoying the recreation program with the Plymouth Senior Citizens Club or talking of his fights — especially the one he lost by a wide margin.

Meyers likes to talk of the day in the 1920s when as a lightweight he fought most of his fights in the old Fairview Club on the east side or the Moose Temple in downtown Detroit.

But, invariably, when he starts to go over his record Meyer tells of a fight he lost and how it was treated by sports writers in the city.

The fight was a 10-rounder against Bobby Booth of Toronto in the Moose Temple.

"HE WAS a good boxer," Meyers said. "He gave me a good going over and when the referee raised his hand, the fans started to cheer for me. You see, I had a good fight and the fans thought I deserved more than that. The booing kept going. I didn't know what to do.

"Then something unusual happened. The state boxing commissioner climbed into the ring and asked for quietness. The commissioner then pointed out that the referee lhad made a decision and that it would stand."

After recalling the big moment Meyers started to laugh and said, "I got a better beating in the papers the next day.

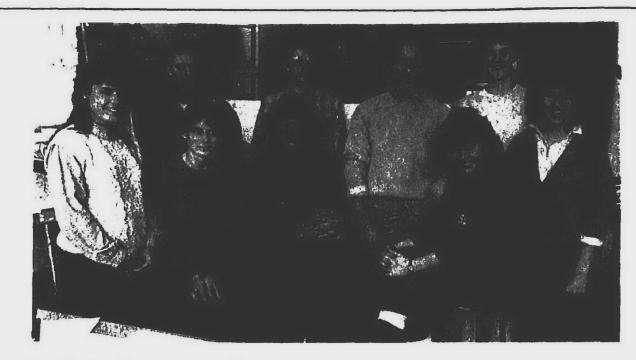

"One of the major papers in Detroit pointed out that if the fight had been a six-day bicycle race, I would have been five days behind. That was enough for me. That was one of my big moments of my career."

Later he went to Chicago and found that things were different over there.

"Our contract called for $200 but the matchmaker and the big managers wanted a kickback. So it wasn't worthwhile. But my career was a lot of fun."

In the '20s, when the Okumpia was a bring built.

In the '20s, when the Olympia was being built, Meyers was a close follower of the fights and knew Jimmy McLarnin when he came to Detroit for some of his major fights.

Artists honored

Twelve students from the art departments of Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools recently were honored at the Southeastern Michigan Scholastic Art Awards competition. Carol Jasmer, Greg Hinzmann and Topher Crowder were named Blue Ribbon finalists and their was work sent to New York for national competition. Winning the top award for Michigan (the Gold Key) were Tim Price, Topher Crowder, Dave Norgrove and Brian Whiteley. The competition, held for grades 7-9 and 10-12 each year in January, has 14 categories of competition. More than 7,000 pieces of art work were originally entered of which 1,200 were submitted for the show. "Seeing work done by students their own age creates an inspiration no teacher can give — peer appreciation for these students is very important to them," said Kris Darby, art instructor at Salem High. Carol Jasmer, senior at Canton High, received a special award for outstanding acrylic painting from DMI Institute, in addition to her blue ribbon, and Crowder also won a blue ribbon in photography. Those honored shown above are: Lisa Madis, Topher Crowder, Dave Norgrove, Kris O'Connor, Bryan Whiteley, Greg Hinzmann, Angela Cipolletti, Penny Piggott and Carol Jasmer.

Charging that Wayne County Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood mishandled funds and overasses property owners, County Commission Chairman John Hertel and Commissioner Milton Mack of Wayne have called for aboliton of Youngblood's off-

The commissioners, both Democrats, say they will ask their colleagues this week to take steps to place a charter amendment on the Aug. 5 primary ballot to abolish the office.

On Friday, Hertel and Mack, whose district include Canton, continued to level charges against Youngblood, sub-ject of an internal commission probe since last fall and a recent audit attempt by the national accounting firm, Ernst & Whinney.

Youngblood could not be reached for comment Friday.

IN A PRELIMINARY report issued last week, commissioners charged that:

• Youngblood failed to kept financial records on 120 drainage districts in the county for more than six years.

• had co-mingled $36 million to $39 million in funds from three separate drainage accounts making it impossi-vested or spent.

• violated state statutes that deal with bidding contracts on those drains.

• Youngblood refused to cooperate in the audit probe by turning over re-

The resolution proposed by Hertel and Mack, along with Commissioner Mary Dumas of Livonia, calls for abolishing the drain commissioner's office.

Control of the department would be shared by the 15-member County Commission and the county executive, Employees assigned to the drain commissioner would be farmed out to other various departments within the county.

ALTHOUGH the office has been the subject of other attempts in the past toward consolidation, including an unsuccessful one by Dumas several year ago, renewed efforts were sparked late test year with the disclosure of unusually high assessments billed to residents of Sumpter and Huron townships

Mack learned of those assessments through citizen complaints. He said the charges ranged four to five times higher than comparative projects in areas

MACK BLAMED a lack of "checks and balances" on the office for leading to the high assessments. Some residents, he said, have been billed up to $13,000 for small sections of maintenance. Because of the suspect charges, the County Commission has put off assessing those residents.

fficials back McNamara for exec

Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara has lined up support for his Wayne County executive bid from three prominent Democratic officeholders.

State senators William Faust of Westland and James DeSana of Wyandotte and Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair all said they would take an active role in his campaign.

Each at one time or another had been considered a possible county executive candidate.

They made their joint announcement in the Presidential Inn in the downriver city of Southgate.

DeSANA SAID his own political plans have been put to rest. He will leave the Senate to enter private business with his son.

DeSana had considered making the race for county executive himself. There was also some political speculation that county executive William Lucas was considering appointing DeSana as his deputy.

Faust, a 19-year Senate veteran, was non-commit-tal about his re-election plans. He said he only wanted to talk about supporting McNamara. Faust had been mentioned as a possible county executive candidate but said, "I've known Ed for more than 20 years and frankly I've liked what I've seen. He knows what it's like to walk a muddy street, build a plant and catch hell from a neighborhood group."

DeSana said it was "high time" a local elected leader assume the county executive job.

'Gift' to WSU buys equipment

The Wayne State University administration said it made good use of the "gift" it recently received from the Michigan Legislature, by passing almost half of it - $1,135 million - along to students in the form of learning equipment.

The college of liberal arts which delivers about 45 percent of the university's total credit hours, will receive $367,000, the largest award. The college is contributing another $68,000, bringing the equipment purchase total ot $435,000.

ASKED IF he expects to court support from Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, McNamara said he has not discussed the idea with Young.

He said, however, he is planning to have dinner with Young soon to talk about regional concerns. The invitation was initiated by Young, who asked McNamara to put together a gathering of western Wayne County leaders for a private dinner.

Sens. William and DeSana and county prosecutor O'Hair said they would take an active role in McNamara's campaign.

O'Hair, a Wayne County Circuit judge before being appointed corporation counsel and then prosecutor during the last three years, was also con ered a potential executive candidate. But he said he had decided to give McNamara full support.

CHIROPRACTIC SPELLS RELIEF!

Headaches Gone, Eyesight Improved

I gradually developed some weakness in my eyes and many bad headaches over a three year period. I fatigued more than normal and seemed to lack energy. After receiving negative results from an opthamologist, a neurologist, and several hospital tests, I asked my doctor about Chiropractic care. He said it couldn't hurt.

After a Chase Chiropractic examination and x-rays were taken, a plan was developed for treatment. Some minor back aches developed from the regular adjustments. However, the change and improvement was very noticeable.

My headaches are now very few and far between. I very seldom feel fatigued. My energy is back to its normal level, and my eyes are much better. Overall I feel a considerable improvement, and recommend chiropractic care to all my

RELIEF IN A SHORT TIME

I injured my back in early January. I was rushed to emergency, given a pain killer, told to stay off my feet and that I should see an orthopedic surgeon. I guess you could say that the possibilty of surgery scared me.

A dear friend of mine made an appointment and brought me to the Chase Chiropractic Office. I was x-rayed. I saw my x-rays and everything was thoroughly explained to me. I had my first adjustment and when I left Dr. Chase's office much of the pain was gone. I felt much

Pinched nerves caused the numnbess in my hands and to my surprise, I was three quarters of an inch shorter on my right side. That was causing most of my lower back

Now I'm in my seventh week of adjustments and I feel like a new person. My imbalance is almost corrected and it was done without surgery.

I am most grateful and appreciative to Dr. Chase and his staff for the kindness and understanding they have shown me, and especially for alleviating my pain.

Sincerely,

Chiropractic Care, Don't Ever Underestimate It!

I had taken Darvon and Percadon for 2 months and was completely laid up prior to coming into the Chase Chiropractic Office.

I started at the Chase Chiropractic Office in Nov. of 1984. I had pain in my lower back and arthritis in both knees. After only two months, the pain in both of my knees had almost completely disappeared. I can do things I could not do for several years. All back pain had disappeared.

My medical doctor was surprised when I went back to him after my Chiropractic Adjustments, to see how healthy I was compared to previous visits.

I came in to a Chiropractor because I had friends and relatives that had been helped and they all recommended not only Chiropractic care, but Dr. Richard Chase. I'm so glad I listened to them.

Asthma Relief After 40 Years of Suffering

In August, I took the flu. I went to our family doctor, he gave me a prescription for pills and liquid medicine. I took them and felt some better,

I worked all that winter and just got worse. On the 18th of March I went home and called our doctor for an appointment. He said I had pneumonia. I was shocked. I was told to stay home and rest. I did, but felt I had to get back to work. The doctor said if I felt like it, I could go back the 5th of April.

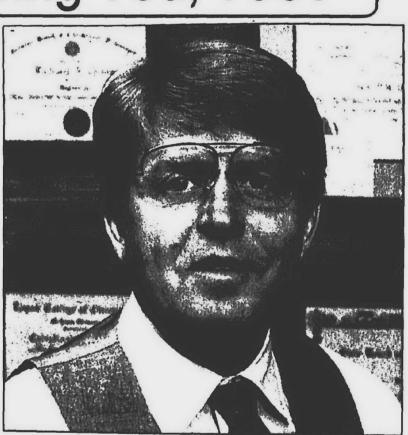

I went back but could not work, so back to the doctors again and more medicine. I felt some better so, April the 12th I went back to work and worked to April 16th.

Each day my boss said, "You don't look so well, why don't you go home." I told him I was trying to stay the week out, but If I was not better I would not be back Monday. In the meantime I received an advertisement letter in the mail from Dr. Richard Chase.

I had taken so much medicine my stomach hurt if I ate or if I didn't eat and every pill I took make it worse. I wish I didn't have to take any more pills, so I said to my husband I am going to Dr. Chase the Chiropractor. I couldn't lose and at least I wouldn't have to take any more pills.

After three weeks, I was sorry I did not know about Dr. Chase a long time ago. I have all kinds of allergies, hayfever, sinus trouble and asthma. I can breathe better now than in years. I am sure if I keep up my Chiropractic adjustments I will be well. If I had known years ago, I would have saved myself a lot of suffering.

SOB story from sunny Florida

In this terrible winter weather when he sees folks line up at the travel bureaus seeking reservations for a place in the Sun Belt, The Stroller wonders if they are due for a shock down there to equal one handed him several years ago. It caused him to ban Florida as a suitable place for a vacation.

He had been in Florida for the better part of a week and decided to visit the former state labor commissioner who lived in a nice community called Ven-

He paid the visit and had a wonderful time. As he was about to leave, he asked where the closest Rotary Club met as he would like to obtain a makeup card to keep his attendance record

"Up the highway a few miles," they told him, "you will find a big brick building. That is a hotel and that is where the Rotary club meets.

So off the Stroller went. In due time, he came to the big brick building. Sure enough it was where the Rotary club

ONCE INSIDE, he stopped at a window and asked, "Where does the Rotary Club meet?" "Down in the corner with these S.O.B.'s" she said.

What a shock that was. Never before had The Stroller encountered something like that.

So he walked down the long hall.

CALL:

Sure enough there was a group of men, waited for admission. And each of them was wearing a white badge with the big red letters, "S.O.B." This seemed strange until one of the group approached The Stroller and asked, "Are you planning to live down here, one of those Northerners who finds a place, builds a home and uses up another part of our beachfront when we want to save it?

WHEN TOLD that this was just a make-up visit, he shook hands, told me he was the president of the club and I was welcome to remain for the meeting.

The invitation was accepted. And the entire meeting was devoted to saving the beach, so the badges stood for "Save Our Beaches (S.O.B.)

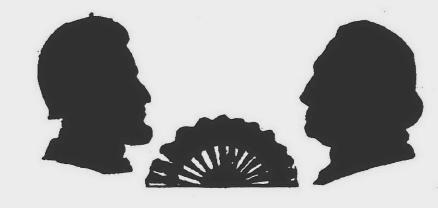

But all the while The Stroller felt shocked when he recalled the answer to his question, "Where does the Rotary club meet?'

And the answer always will remain in the memory "Down the hall with the S.O.B.'s.

He'll never forget it and he made up his mind never to visit Florida again. He had been to the Tigers' training camp and had seen a lot of Florida. But it was the state in which he was told he could make up a Rotary meeting by joining the S.O.B.'s down in the corner.

It was an unforgettable make-up.

HAWAIIAN FISH STICKS

The crossroads of the Pacific, Honolulu, boasts a cuisine which is legend, reflecting tastes of the Orient and the influences of early British scafarers. Go Hawaiian at home with this easy recipe featuring fish plus traditional island ingredients.

- I package (12 ounces) fish sticks
- Sauce (below) 2 tablespoons regetable oil
- 2 medium carrots, cut diagonally into 1/4 inch slices
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 2 medium onions, cut into eighths
- 1 medium green pepper, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 can (8.1/4 ounces) pineapple chunks in syrup, drained (reserve syrup) Flaked coconut, if desired

Heat oven to 400°. Bake fish sticks as directed on package. Prepare Sauce; reserve. Heat oil in 10-inch skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Add carrots and garlic; cook and stir 3 minutes. Stir in onions, green pepper and pineapple; cook and stir 3 minutes longer. Stir in Sauce. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir until thickened, about 2 minutes. Arrange fish sticks on serving plate. Immediately pour pineapple mixture over top; sprinkle with coconut. 6 servings.

Sauce: Add enough water to reserved pineapple syrup to measure 1/2 cup. Mix in 1/4 cup packed brown sugar, 1/4 cup cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons catsup and 1 tablespoon soy sauce.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Thinly slice carrots. Increase second cook time to 8 minutes.

SEAPORT FISH SANDWICHES

Each year, millions of tourists are lured to the port cities in California and Texas to enjoy the historic sights, the ocean and local dishes. From four of these great seaports come these tasty sandwiches. Enjoy all four distinctively different tastes of American cooking.

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Bake 1 package (12 oz.) fish fillets as directed. Assemble fish sandwiches, using the rolls and toppings specified below from your favorite seaport.

San Diego Topping: 7 hard rolls, split, 1 carton (6 ounces) frozen guacamole, thawed, 2 medium tomatoes, sliced, 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese (4 ounces), 1/2 cup dairy sour cream, sliced ripe olives if desired.

San Francisco Topping: 7 sourdough rolls, split, lettuce leaves, 2 medium tomatoes, sliced, 1 small onion, sliced, 1/2 cup tartar

Key to success: homemade pasta

How do you make a good pasta dish ly crumbled great? Use fresh, homemade pasta.

Combine the pasta with essences of the Greek Islands - tangy feta cheese, succulent shrimp and fresh herbs — in a light tomato sauce to create Shrimp and Feta Alla Grecque. This great make-ahead dish can be served hot or cold as a light and elegant lunch, or for dinner with a salad tossed with lemon vinaigrette dressing.

The homemade pasta can be served immediately, dried completely, or wrapped and placed in the freezer.

Fish needn't be double-edged sword

The family knows fish is good for you. The family also frowns on the overly fishy taste. It's a doublededged sword.

Swordfish helped me avert cutting bait. Sure, there were the usual comments.

"I'm not going to like it," my godson said. "I'd rather have shellfish," my stepson said.

"I'd rather eat fish out," my wife said. "You're going to like swordfish," I said. "It has the texture of steak and tastes a bit like chicken." One of the supermarkets I patronize just opened a seafood section and had a real special on swordfish steaks, $4.99 a pound, so I knew the time was

I felt, however, I had to sweeten the pot so I announced the side dish would be fettuccine the way Alfredo makes it. The family was hooked.

For insurance, I prepared a simple fish sauce that would ensure nibbles at the least. Of the four others at the dinner table, three enjoyed the swordfish, including my godson. My stepson drowned his fish in the Lemony Sour Cream Sauce, which he liked better than the sword-

Ethiopian heeds countrymen's cry for help

staff writer

ARTA GABRE-TSADICK and her family were in a race for their lives across southern Ethiopia.

Behind them was the heart of the country they loved, Ethiopia, torn by the chaos of a Marxist takeover.

As a former member of the old government of Emperor Haile Selassie, Gabre-Tsadick faced imprisonment or worse if pursuing troops should catch up with her. Sixty-three of the people she had known and worked with had been executed.

Ahead was a grueling trip across boiling hot, isolated terrain to the safety of Kenya. She, her husband, Demeke Tekle-Wold, their three sons and several other companions had no food and little hope. Their only water was the liquid they siphoned out of their Land Rover's radiator.

GABRE-TSADICK recalled her 1975 flight — and how it inspired a major Ethiopian relief effort - last week in Livonia. She was one of the speakers at the World Missions Conference at Ward Presbyterian Church.

Ethiopia's first woman senator, Gabre-Tsadick later founded, with her husband, Project Mercy, which is helping to send food and clothing to Ethiopian famine victims.

She said it was a "miracle of God" that she and her family survived the journey out of Ethiopia.

"My one son was so weak, he finally got out of the Land Rover as his father was fixing a tire," Gabre-Tsadick re-

"Our son said, 'Dad, don't worry about me. You go on ahead and get to safety.' Which meant that our son had completely given up on life."

Although she had always been a religious person, Gabre-Tsadick said it was difficult for her to see any indication of a plan of God in what was hap-

"Your own son is dying, how can you see a plan in that and say you're going to obey His word and say, 'Thank you anyway.' It was hard."

SHE COULD only pray that some-how her son would get the strength to get back into the vehicle. Eventually he

After eight days of driving mostly by night and hiding during the day, the litcrew, which meant safety at last.

Yet the road workers almost killed her three sons with kindness. The boys drank the sour milk and charcoal-fried meat the workmen offered them - and ended up being sicker than they had been before.

Eventually, she and her family made it to the United States, where she had gone to school in the 1950s. In the fall of 1984, as she watched television reports of the Ethiopian famine victims, she recalled her sons' brush with death - and saw what she calls "God's purpose" in what had happened to her

Her sons had become violently ill when they had eaten strange foods on hunger-stricken stomachs. In the same way, she realized, the starving Ethiopians would not be able to eat just any food given them. The very sick and malnourished people would only become sicker by eating foods that were alien to their systems.

"These people needed something that was very easy to digest, something that would give them quick energy, and build bulk on their body."

HER HUSBAND suggested that she come up with a variation of Atmit, an tionally used to nurse the sick back to health. Her version was made of rolled oats, sugar instead of honey, and powdered milk and was fortified with 17 vitamins and minerals. The new Atmit would be familiar to the Ethiopians, yet nutritious and inexpensive to pro-

"The next question was, 'How are we going to be able to get it to our people?" Gabre-Tsadick recalled.

She and her husband already had set up Project Mercy in Fort Wayne, Ind., as a relief organization for Ethiopian refugees. They had been working on the project on the side as they operated their small manufacturing business. After the famine began in Ethiopia, Project Mercy became a natural vehicle for the Atmit project.

Starting with a modest goal of raising $10,000 for the project, Gabre-Tsadick soon upped the goal to $100,000. By Feb. 12, 1985, she had already gotten more than $50,000 in

The World Vision Relief Organization agreed to distribute Atmit in Ethiopia. World Vision would give the food directly to its health-nutrition programs, not individual homes, so the people who were sickest and needed the food the most would get it. Yet they still needed a way of transporting the food to Africa.

"Then someone we had never heard" of before called one day from Melbourne, Fla. It was Grace Nelson, Con-gressman Bill Nelson's wife. She said, We've heard about you, and we have a plane leaving in less than a week, and we'd be happy to take the food for

THE FIRST shipment of Atmit left Chicago's O'Hare Airport on a Sunday and was feeding people in Ethiopia by the following Wednesday. In the last 12 months, 1 Project Mercy has been able to provide one million meals a month, Gabre-Tsadick said. The cost, half of it taken up by the U.S. government, has been about 4 cents per meal.

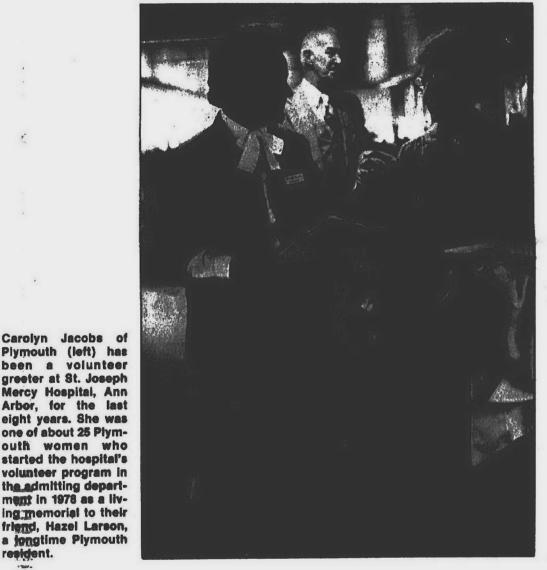

"Can anybody in this room doubt that the God that cut and sliced the Red Sea is still in the business of miracles?" Gabre-Tsadick said.

Project Mercy's latest goal is to ship 65,000 items of clothing to Ethiopia by the end of April. The flannel clothing will be used to protect famine victims from nighttime cold, which has claimed as many as 65 victims per

She's a stick-to-it kind of hospital volunteer

AROLYN JACOBS of Plymouth has been adding her personal touch to the admitting procedure at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor for the last eight

Jacobs was one of about 25 Plymouth women who started the hospital's volunteer program in the admitting department in 1978, as a living memorial to their friend Hazel Larson, a longtime Plymouth resident.

Since then, many of the original 25 have moved away and others have taken their place. Jacobs is one of the few original members who is still a regular, rarely missing a Wednesday afternoon.

"We're the ones who take the patients up to their rooms and get them settled," said Jacobs. "We show them how the equipment works, order lunch if they need it and answer any questions the patient or family might have about the hospital in

FOR JACOBS, the favorite part of the assignment is talking to the patients, explaining what will happen next and reassuring them with her calm manner and helpful information.

The information she shares runs the gamut from telling family members where they can park and where the cafeteria is, to explaining to the patient what the next test will be or ordering

"I think I get more than I give from the people I bring in," she said. "They are so appreciative of someone who takes the time to sit down and answer their questions."

The special hand the volunteers provide helps speed up the

"It's fun," said Jacobs. "I really enjoy meeting the people who are being admitted, the people who work here and the

IN ADDITION to her once-a-week stint in admitting, Jacobs has also helped as a substitute in the Arbor Health Building in Plymouth, another Catherine McAuley Health Center facility, where she gave tours at the opening last year and for its first St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is just one of the Catherine McAuley Center facilities where volunteers work. They can also work pital and Reichert Health Building, and Arbor Health Building in Plymouth.

Volunteers can work directly with patients or in non-patient contact positions. Complete orientation and training are provided for all volunteer programs.

Anyone interested in learning more about volunteer opportunities at any of the Catherine McAuley Health Center facilities may attend an information meeting in March.

Classes promote independence for disabled resident.

"Kim completed two years of study in one semester," brags Sandy Marroquin about one of her students.

This remarkable achievement is, indeed, something to brag about. Kim is one of the about 100 students attending classes for developmentally disabled adults at Livonia's Jefferson Center. Marroquin is supervisor of the pro-

The classes, which are sponsored by the Livonia Public Schools adult education program in consortium with Redford Union Schools, cover reading, writing and arithmetic — and much

Students, for example, may read newspapers out loud and learn how President Reagan addressed Moscow on New Year's Day. They may sharpen their writing skills and realize how much fun it is to do a crossword puzzle at the same time. And, if it's math they're working with, counting money is a sure way to master the subject.

By learning the "three R's" students also learn skills that help them achieve levels of independence that they've never had before.

AMAJOR GOAL of many taking the classes is to be able to live on their learning to cope with change. Because all of the students in the program are 26 or older, many have to deal with the death of parents who have taken care of them their whole lives. This task includes mastering skills such as handling emergencies, communicating and dealing with the pressures of a job. Safety, legal rights and transportation are also among the many subjects covered in the classes. Most are able to achieve their goals.

In three years the program has come a long way. When it started, there were only a handful of students and very few supplies. Now, after much hard work, persistence and patience, the number of students has grown and the shelves are stocked. There are books covering everything from basic math to compar-ison shopping, worksheets that help im-prove writing skills and audio tapes that sharpen the memory. But most im-portantly, there is a dedicated staff of

"WE'VE REALLY GOT some great people working with us," says Marre-quin. "Most have bachelor's degrees.

But extra help is always welcome, and volunteers don't need any experience."

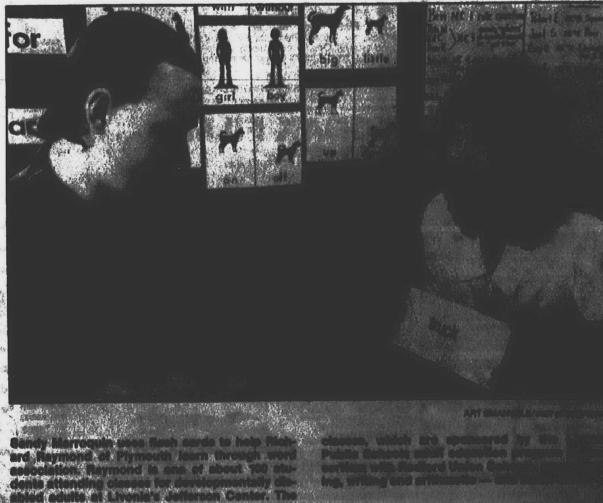

When looking at the remarkable program the strategy see that the classes are well worthwhile. Because they've studied things like handling money and nutri-tion, many students are able to participate in While Life - a program that allows them to live in apartments with roommates and make crucial decisions about budgeting and health on their own. They have rent to pay and must decide which foods give them the most nutrition for their money.

Many students, too, are able to get driver licenses. As long as they know what road signs and symbols mean, they can pass the state test without knowing how to read well. Someone else can read the test for them.

The program encourages students to get their GED or high school degrees, but the final step in becoming independent is getting a job. Once students have advanced in the program, they receive free job placement and child care services through Whitman Center, Livonia's major facility for adult education.

"I had some students in very advanced programs," says Marroquin. They could drive, and they had their own apartments. But they're not here anymore. They've graduated," she says with a touch of pride, great happiness and the sadness of a mother whose children have grown up in her voice.

WHAT CAN I DO?

"What can I do?" Often this question is asked me by a husband whose wife has active rheumatold arthritis, or from a daughter whose father has crippling osteoarthritis. The family member of friend sees the patient in great distress and wants to do something important and immediate to stop that distress.

I cannot give an answer such as: "give your sympathy and support," for the questioner wants instruction for a more specific response. Nor can I advise a technique that will soothe the patient's pain. No such technique exists.

what i do suggest generally is met with disappointment, but having no better alternative, I will continue to offer that answer. It is: "educate yourself." Swimmers tip North, Harrison

Nothing like stepping off a cold bus, jumping into a swimming pool and getting slapped with a 10point deficit right off the bat.

That's what happened to the North Farmington swim team Thursday at Plymouth Salem, and it never recovered.

Salem went 1-2 in the 200-yard medley relay, taking a 12-2 lead en route to a 96-76 Western Lakes swim victory. The win serves Salem two ways: It gives it second place behind Livonia Stevenson in the Lakes Division, and it verifies its No. 3 rank in Observerland — North is No. 4.

"I really felt good after the first event," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "When you get behind by 10 like that it's really tough. But North made a meet out of it, they kept getting those firsts."

North won seven of the 11 events, but Salem scratched out enough seconds, thirds and fourths to

DAVID MILLER, Rick Cummings, Tony Atwell and Kevin Zarow got things rolling for the Rocks with a first-place 1:45.3 in the medley relay. Brian Barbee, Eric Gackenbach, Doug Soho and John Kim followed that team in with a 1:50.6.

The highlight of the meet was the 50 freestyle. Zarow and Cummings surprised North's Mike Buatti and Dan Mannisto by placing 1-2. Zarow swam a 22.8, Cummings a 22.9. Buatti touched at 22.95 and Mannisto 23.0. Thank goodness for electronic tim-

Mike Tumey and Craig Burland each won a pair of events for North. Tumey won the 200 individual medley (2:06.7) and the 100 butterfly (56.2). Burland won the 200 freestyle (1:52.4) and the 500 free

The win leaves Salem with an 8-3 dual meet mark. North falls to 9-2.

PLYMOUTH CANTON defeated Farmington Harrison Thursday, 98-74, in a Western Lakes Western Division meet. The Chiefs used much the same formula as Salem did - surrender some firsts but make up the points with seconds, thirds and fourths.

Canton. It was the second straight meet in which the Rocks earned the highest score in Observerland. Details of the meet are on Page 2C.

Canton's 'D' stalls Hawks

Plymouth Canton was ready for its homecourt basketball clash with Observerland's No. 2-ranked team Farmington Harrison Friday. Very ready.

The Chiefs attacked from the opening tip, constructing a 10-point lead after three quarters. They ended up needing all of it, but Harrison's fourth-quarter rally fell short in a 49-47 Canton

The loss was the Hawks' secondstraight after posting 14 consecutive wins. They are still the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division champions at 12-2. Canton improved to 10-7 overall and 9-5 in the Western Division.

"We played tremendous defense," said Canton coach Tom Niemi. "We pulled them out of their zone (defense) and made them play man-to-man.

"Beating Salem was nice, considering the the crosstown rivalry and all. But this has to be my biggest win at Canton because Harrison was stateranked (in Class B). I'm real proud of Rick is hitting all net," Negoshian said. our effort."

THE CHIEFS' man-to-man pressure defense surrendered just eight firstquarter points and 17 in the half. With Jeff Lyle and Joel Mies scoring six points apiece, Canton led 16-8 after one

The Chiefs expanded their advantage by a point in each of the next two quarters, leading 26-17 at the half and 38-28 after three quarters. But foul trouble forced Niemi to switch to a triangleand-two defense in the last quarter and Harrison came to life.

Or at least Ken George did. George, the sharp-shooting senior guard, was limited to six points over the first three quarters by Canton's Tyrone Reeves and Dan Young. But he found the range in the fourth, pouring in 12 points in the period.

A George basket pulled Harrison to within 46-45 in the final minute. Young canned two free throws to put the Chiefs up by three with 22 seconds left. but Will Lund scored to again draw the Hawks to within a point (48-47) in the closing moments.

With six seconds left and North trailing 54-53, Salem's Paul Makara missed the front end of a one-and-one free throw opportunity. As North's Jim Ragland was racing the ball upcourt to teammate Rick Anderson, Negoshian was screaming for timeout.

Anderson, not hearing Negoshian over the loud North crowd, pulled up and from the left of the free throw line buried a 16-footer to give North the

staff writer

The disabled list is of more interest to Terry Heaton than a scorecard.

It's not the players in the starting lineup who concern the registered physical therapist. He's concerned with the missing players.

Heaton, whose office is in Plymouth, has made a career helping players make it off the DL back to the starting lineup.

In his 20 years as a physical therapist, Heaton has seen a fair share of athletes trying to mend twisted ankles. wrecked knees and separated shoul-

AN ATHLETE with "two bad knees," an assistant football coach at the University of Detroit High School, and a parent of two soccer players, Heaton has a three-way perception of what an injured athlete goes through. The hardest part is not working with athletes, said Heaton, who's worked with the Detroit Lions. Athletes tend to be a highly motivated bunch willing to do any amount of work to get back playing.

No, the ones who make it tough are the players who no longer will be able to make that cut up field or throw the high, hard one by hitters. A serious injury has taken many talents away from athletes.

"Sometimes even Humpty Dumpty can't have the pleces put back together again like the good Lord intended them," said Heaton.

But for the most part, an athlete can be brought back to 100 percent. The key, Heaton is quick to point out, is not returning to action too soon.

An injury can be more painful the second time around.

for naught. Doctors or trainers, based nursing homes. on empirical judgments, might give an athlete the OK to play before the person was fully healed.

New awareness and technology in the field of sports medicine has reduced reoccuring injuries.

"When a person is injured, their muscles are losing strength," said Heaton, 1965 who played football at Marietta College in Ohio. "Our biggest role is to teach the patient to do excercises to regain strength and flexibility, and not re-injure themselves."

Machines, like the Cybex in Heaton's office, can give accurate information on whether an athlete is at full strength. The Cybex measures maximum dynamic strength of muscles in percentages.

Injured limbs or joints can be tested against the strength of the healthy one. When both are equal, the athlete is fit

STILL, IT'S a far cry from 20 years ago when Heaton started out as a physical therapist. Then, a recovering player might be asked to lift free weights with an injured limb.

If the person even came close to showing previous form, he was deemed ready to play.

Also, a good portion of athletic trainers were not certified like they are today. On-the-job training was the norm

"A lot of the trainers were a combination of on-the-job trained equipment managers along with being treaters of disabilities," noted Heaton.

But Heaton didn't learn the trade that way. He has a bachelor's degree from Marietta in biology and a certificate in physical therapy from the University of Pittsburgh. Also, he's worked BEFORE, ALL the hard work and with multiply handicapped children, in-pain it took to get healthy again went dustrial injuries, and geriatrics in area

A GOOD PORTION of his work, 70 percent, is dealing with non-athletes.

His interests in sports, though, still has Heaton busy with athletes. In fact, it was a job offer to work with the Lions which brought him to Detroit in Part time, Heaton worked for the Lions and for Physical & Athletic Rehabilitation Clinic in Highland Park with Dr. Richard Thompson and Millard Kelley, a registered physical ther-

"We were practicing sports medicine long before it became in vogue," said Heaton. "Dr. Thompson, before he gained a reputation with the Lions, treated high school and college ath-

But as sports medicine has come into light, athletes are more aware of taking care of themselves. Weight training has also made them bigger and stronger then before.

PREVENTIVE MEASURES, such as knee and ankle braces, are now used by many. Injuries, though, still happen.

"We see more knees and shoulder injuries than anything else," said Heaton, who takes patients only after they've been referred by a physician. "The knee has proven to be very vulnerable, even with braces, because of the rotation component of the knee."

Heaton also noted that the same type of leg injuries which occur in football and basketball also happen in soccer, considered a safer sport than most

But a torn knee ligament or dislocated shoulder is the same, no matter what sport. Heaton's clinic uses an "open curtain" atmosphere to get results in rehabilitation.

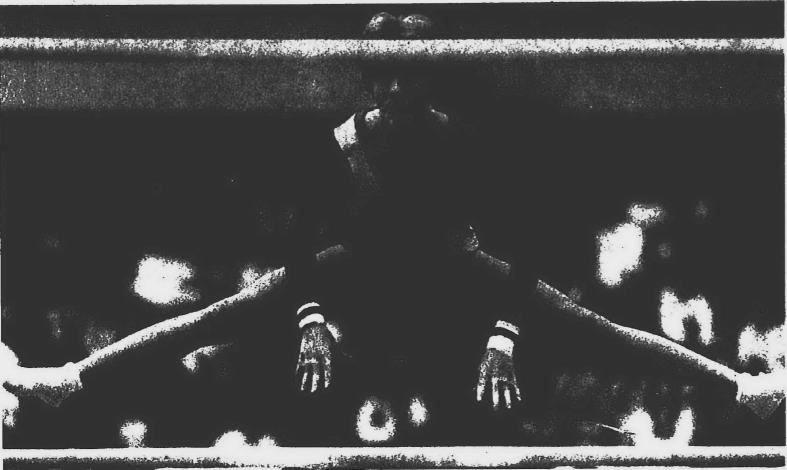

After an athlete sees another going through a painful exercise, the willingness to do the same increases. Competitiveness and camaraderie, despite the injury, sets in.

The patient also finds out they're

Rocks soar past Canton in Plymouth Canton gymnastics coach John Cunningham had two things to say to Kathi Kinsella after her Salem team beat Canton 133.85-121.55 Wednesday night.

"He came up to me after and said that No. 1, my team is very good and that I had done a good job getting them ready," Kinsella said. "Then he said he was never going to speak to me again. I told him it was his own fault because he taught my gymnasts too well in the summer."

Such is the spirit of comradery between the two Centennial Educational Park schools. Of course, each team scored season highs - that always encourages good moods, win or lose

For Salem, it was the second straight outing in which it established a new Observerland team score high. Last week, the team notched 131.15 against Ypsilanti.

"I ALWAYS knew that my team was capable of hitting 130 once or twice," Kinsella said. "What was happening was, I needed a spark, something to get them excited and into it. I had spent so much time working on routines and technique, I didn't spend a lot of time on attitude. The spark was the 131 against Ypsi. After that they said, 'Oh my god!"

The team has also gotten a charge of out the growing number of fans and media recognition that has come with the high scores and winning seven of its nine dual meets.

"There were six photographers at the meet Wednesday," Kinsella said. "The girls see that and they get excited."

Leading the way for Salem was the trio of Beth Rafail, Jackie Huff (a healthy Jackie Huff) and Becky Talbot. Rafail, a senior, amassed a 34.85 allaround score. Huff scored 34.10 and Talbot 33.25.

Each scored 9.0 or better on floor exercise, helping Salem to a 35.25 on the event.

THE TOP scorer for Canton, which had its strong meet dwarfed by the Rocks' monsterous effort, was sophomore Darcy Gignac. She totalled a 30.55 allaround score. She placed fourth on vault (8.15), fourth on uneven parallel bars (7.65) and fifth on balance beam (7.5).

Salem placed 1-2-3 in each event and Rafail won three of the four. She scored 8.9 on vault, 8.7 on beam and an impressive 9.25 on floor. Her 8.0 placed second on bars.

Huff placed second on vault (8.5 out of a possible 9.2), second on beam (8.6) and second on floor (9.2). She took a third on bars with a 7.8.

Talbot won bars with an 8.35. She placed third on vault (8.25), fourth on beam (7.6) and third on floor

"We are on a roll now," said Kinsella. "Only thing we can do now is get better."

Freshman Jennie Syria came through with a third place 7.75 on beam to help fuel Salem's 133.85 outcome. Dana Holda added a fifth on bars (7.55).

MARY JO Charron and Maureen McLean had good meets for the Chiefs. McLean placed fifth on vault (8.1) and sixth on floor (7.9), while Charron earned a sixth on vault (7.9) and a fourth on floor Also for the Chiefs, Sharon Moran placed fifth on floor with an 8.2, Megan McGow scored a sixth on bars (7.35) and Carol Horvath a sixth on beam (7.3). The Chiefs, 2-7 on the season, have qualified as a team for regionals.

America's chestnut trees may spread once again

By Mercer Cross
National Geographic Society

Spindly and forlorn stand the young chestnut trees, their brown, ragged-edged leaves rattling in the bitter winter wind, their scarred trunks marking them for inevitable death.

These are special trees. They are American chestnuts that have sprouted from irradiated seeds placed in the ground by Stronghold Inc., a nonprofit corporation that administers the 3,000-acre park on Sugarloaf Mountain, a historic bump in Maryland's Frederick Valley 30 miles northwest of Washington D.C.

The irradiation experiment, an effort to develop a blight-resistant tree, has been going on since the mid-1960s under the guidance of Dr. Albert Dietz, a retired research chemist who lives in Troutsville, Va. He has devoted much of his life to trying to restore American chestnuts to the landscape of the eastern United States.

He and a number of other scientists who are working toward the same goal, using different methods, admit that it's difficult. But they all profess optimism. Some say it will take five or 10 years to get results; others say 50 or 60.

And some people outside their group say it will never happen.

American chestnuts used to be the grandest trees in the East, dominating forests from Maine to Alabama, their broad boughs inspiring poets and paint-

leaves, and big spiny burrs.

Chestnut wood was light, workable, and rotresistant, used for everything from houses to furniture, power poles and railway ties. The bark was used to tan hides. The savory nuts were food for wildlife, livestock and people.

THEN CAME THE BLIGHT that gradually mowed them down, starting at New York's Bronx Zoo in 1904 as a result of an imported Asian fungus and spreading north, south and west. By the 1950s, the once-dominant giants were all but extinct.

An estimated 3.5 billion chestnut trees, covering some 9 million acres, perished in what Dietz calls "the worst natural disaster ever experienced by our nation."

If all those trees were alive today, he says, the market value of their timber would be $44 trillion.

Fortuitously for Dietz and Stronghold, the town of Dickerson, Md., near Sugarloaf Mountain, is the home of the company that irradiates their seeds. For a small fee, Stronghold Inc. mails thousands of chestnut seeds and seedlings each year to members of its American Chestnut Program in the eastern United States. They plant them and report annually on each tree's growth.

While a few other scientists are experimenting with irradiated seeds, others are relying on genet-

Experiments with this hypovirulence in the United States are going "very well," says Dr. Sandra Anagnostakis of the Connecticut Agricultural Station, a longtime leader in chestnut research.

"I would hope that in 10 years we would have some idea if this biological control will spread in the woods. I think we're really on the right track."

Usually the fungus girdles maturing trees with a canker around the trunk, in effect choking them to death. The roots aren't affected, however, and they send up new shoots that succumb to the disease in a few years.

Scattered around the eastern forests are a few hundred healthy, mature trees that inexplicably have escaped the blight.

MANY SCIENTISTS agree that the best hope for the American chestnut might lie in a domestic strain of hypovirulence discovered by a cross country skier and naturalist in western Michigan in 1976.

The skier noticed a grove of trees, cankerscarred and unshapely, that had warded off the disease through natural hypovirulence and continued to grow

"So far we haven't found the answer to spreading the proper fungus," says Dr. Dennis W. Fulbright, a plant pathologist at Michigan State University. "What we have here in Michigan is a treatment, not a cure. We're making a lot of headway. Most of the headway is in the high-technology area."

High-tech or low, the headway is probably destined for failure, in the opinion of Dr. Stanley L. Krugman, director of timber management research of the U.S. Forest Service.

"We are not too optimistic," he says. "Without natural resistance, we do not feel this is a high priority for us to work on. I know that sounds harsh, but it's a fact of life. We don't take this position lightly."

Krugman says the reported success of European hypovirulence "has been grossly exaggerated here," dismisses irradiation of seeds as "nonsense—it's like looking for a needle in a haystack," and says much of the chestnut research is "a waste of a lot of people's time and money."

But Fulbright and others remain fascinated by the biological challenge of discovering how the mysterious fungus functions and seeking a way to fight it.

"If we take the attitude that nothing can be done about it," Albert Dietz says, "all we'll have left is scrubby brush forests."

Sally Field stars as Emma Moriarty, a divorced mother who moves to a small Arizona town, where she runs a horse ranch and falls in love with the local pharmicist, in "Murphy's Romance."

the movies Greenberg

What's so special about this tiresome romantic comedy?

Everybody seems to be going gaga over "Murphy's Romance" (PG-13), but I thought it was a rather dopey romantic comedy that was short on comedy and so obvious in its romance that it got Emma Moriarty (Sally Field) shows up in Eunice, Ariz., with 12year-old son Jake (Corey Haim) and the idea that she's going to support the two of them by boarding and training horses.

Naturally the bank won't lend money to an unattached woman. Eunice was a town that Gloria Steinheim and Bella Abzug missed on their last ERA tour.

Meanwhile, in town, away from Emma's floundering ranch, Murphy Jones (James Garner) is an offbeat, iconoclastic pharmacist who is recovering from the great trauma of his wife's death.

THE THING IS that what passes for radical behavior in Eunice (and in "Murphy's Romance") is pretty sappy in this day and age. In short, Garner is saddled with an actionless role. Confined behind a soda fountain dispensing chocolate phosphates and avoiding wry aphorisms just isn't Garner's metier. In "Murphy's Romance," Garner has neither the script nor the talent to overcome the "Rockford" stereotype as a pleasant cynic who has seen it all and deals with life's foolishness by action and acerbic comment. In case you didn't guess, the Widow Moriarty intrigues him and he climbs out of the despair of his widowerhood to begin courting her and winning over her son. Naturally, her no-good ex-husband Bobby Jack (Brian Kerwin) shows up to cadge a few meals and regain her love and affection. The limited conflict and energy that arises out of this situation is a slight stress on the boy. Jake is taken by Murphy's overtures for, as every widower knows, the way to a woman's heart is through her kid's affections. But the problem is, Jake likes his dad, too.

The major climax between Murphy and Bobby Jack comes at a party Bobby Jack threw in spite of his ex-wife's reluctance. It really is a non-party, with Bobby Jack continually taking booze from the kitchen cupboard to a crowd sitting around in a terminal stupor. Their loss of sensibility is from boredom not booze. The audience probably gets the same feeling.

DURING THIS exciting party, Murphy and Bobby Jack have words. James Garner wins the rhetorical battle, barely, but Bobby Jack gets to sing a folk song. On the whole, it is a party wellmissed. Bobby Jack is clearly the villain, however, because he sings to some cute young blonde.

Well, it is so simple-mindedly obvious that Emma prefers Murphy and wishes her ex-husband would leave. But the plot structure is so limited that Emma is constrained from kicking Bobby Jack out because the boy likes him.

Where was he all those years she was bringing up baby? Riding his motorcycle and dealing blondes. It's difficult to believe she let him stay the first night, let alone weeks and weeks.

Her tactic, then, is to entice Pharmacist Jones with her cooking. Conveniently, he is boarding his horse at her ranch and has convinced the townsfolks to board theirs.

Every evening after he stables his horse, she invites him to dinner so he can make her ex-husband jealous. Of course, in the best tradition of modern feminism, the Widow Moriarty is proving her independence and modernity in the kitchen.

Enough said. This is a dippy, boring and overly obvious film, which won't challenge your mind or your sensibilities. Don't bother, for even the most devoted Garner fans will wish he was

Performances of the Will-O-Way Repertory Theatre Company pro-duction of "The Gingerbread Lady" by Neil Simon continue through Saturday, March 8, at Will-O-Way Apprentice Theatre in Birmingham. For ticket information call 644-4418.

By Bill Bowles special writer

Balancing a story of lost hopes and wasted lives with quick-witted repartee is no easy task, but in the Will-O-Way production of Neil Simon's "The Gingerbread Lady," the job is performed eloquently

Starring in the title role is Francine J. Hachem as Eva Mera, an aging second-rate nightclub singer whose failing battle with alcoholism forms the play's central action. Hachem's dynamic performance carries us with her on a series of pixilated highs and hung-over

Returning home to her Manhattan apartment after a 10-week hiatus at an alcoholic rehabilitation home, she is left to the job of piecing together the fragments of her shattered life. She is welcomed home by two dear friends, Jimmy and Toby, whose own deep-seated neuroses shed an ominous dark cloud over the delicate prospects of Eva's battle with the bottle Jimmy (Dennis LaLone) is an aging homosexual queen, who is an actor still waiting for his big break. Toby (Eileen T. Weiss) is a Grand-Rapids-bred pseudo-socialite whose obsession with her negligible beauty is matched only by her childlike helplessness.

LA LONE IS superb. His effeminate mannerisms create pockets of unex-pected humor and his quirky self-styled brand of neurosis add credibility to his unintentional dependency on the feeble

Weiss is competent as Toby. She thickens the gloomy atmosphere with a curious persona of self-absorption which is simultaneously funny and frightening. Weiss' languid movements and monotonic voice effectively convey a woman hopelessly lost in the loneliant on the psyche of the characters to pull its weight.

At times it seems as if Simon is trying to bring a touch of Tennessee Williams to his work. Like when Eva pairs herself with a mooching rootless boyfriend who takes the first convenient opportunity to blacken her eye. Her boyfriend, Lou Tanner (John Freeman), is only a more gruff example of the type of friends Eva chooses.

Jimmy and Toby unconsciously overburden Eva with their own problems and it doesn't take long before Eva is drinking again. Freeman is adequate as Eva's boyfriend, an attractive toughtalking "musician" whose voice is of such a strong nasal quality, that he sounds like he is talking through a sweat sock.

THE LONE "healthy" character in "The Gingerbread Lady" is Eva's daughter Polly (Catharine Miranda), whose bright-faced innocence and supportive presence has little effect on Eva's gravitation toward sef-destruction. Miranda is passable as Polly but she wears a constant smile, which is hardly believable in the strained presence of these haywire characters.

Ultimately Simon fails in his attempt to bring out the darker sides of human nature and combine them with his catty, often superficial humor. The strong points of "The Gingerbread Lady" however, are reason enough to see the play.

Director Celia Merrill Turner manages to emphasize the sensitive helplessness of lost souls in an indifferent and often savage world. She blends the often awkward humor as effectively as Turner's set is fine and so is Bill Anagnos as Manuel, the delivery boy. In the few second Anagnos was on stage he exuded a hot Latin machismo - a welcome breath of spunk, an element which would have been welcome in Simon's often pale dialogue.

Denny LaLone (left), Francine Hachem and Eileen Weiss appear in the Will-O-Way production of Neil Simon's "The Gingerbread
