McNamara takes top votes for county exec

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Edward McNamara's agenda for Wednesday included the routine Livonia City Hall matters, taking care of some desk work, and later on a meeting over garbage haulers.

But Wednesday McNamara, Livonia's 16-year mayor, started his work day as the heir apparent to the job of Wayne County executive, a job he wanted badly four years ago when it was newly created and almost certainly has locked up now.

McNamara still faces Republican opposition in the November election but Democrats traditionally win elections for Wayne County office and McNamara's GOP opponent, Robert Murphy, has no political record.

In assuming the helm of the nation's fourth-largest county, McNamara will become one of the three most influential administrators in Michigan, next to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and Gov. James J. Blanchard.

"Four years ago was a bummer," said a McNamara volunteer at his victory party in Livonia's Roma Hall Tuesday night. "But this is great."

MCNAMARA'S SUCCESS at winning the Democratic nomination at the polls Tuesday was decisive.

In a nine-man field, McNamara received 49,954 votes to second-place finisher Sam Turner's 37,328, according to the complete returns tallied by the Wayne County Elections Bureau. Turner is a county commissioner from Detroit.

The turnout was low with 22.42 percent of registered voters casting ballots. A total of 294,985 out of 1.3 million registered voters cast ballots.

If elected in November as expected, McNamara will succeed William Lucas, Tuesday's GOP nominee for Michigan governor.

Finishing third and fourth in the county executive Democratic primary were Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, also of Livonia, with 33,735 votes; and Wayne County Commission chairman John Hertel of Harper Woods with 32,412 votes.

Other totals: Frank Wilkerson, 7,570; Thomas Gondek, 2,165; Charles Nemeth, 1,795; Gerald Berg, 1,420; and Michael Tifrea, 872. Murphy, the sole Republican candidate, received 60,185 votes.

In Livonia, McNamara took 4,858 votes, a more than 4-1 lead over Fi-cano, who had 1,192. Hertel placed third with 309 votes. The others all received fewer than 25 votes each.

MCNAMARA DECLARED himself the winner about 1 a.m. Wednesday after climbing four steps up to a campaign platform at his victory headquarters in Livonia's Roma Hall and addressed what by then was a thinning crowd.

Although exit polls conducted by Detroit's largest media indicated as early as 7 p.m. that McNamara would lead the field, campaigners waited until at least 60 percent of the critical Detroit city returns arrived before making a declaration.

They then broke out the pink champagne.

Appearing tired but jubilant, McNamara said in the early morning hours Wednesday:

"I thought it would be much more conclusive. But it's sufficiently conclusive to say I'm the victor, and I'm prepared to move forward."

Describing the differences between his candidacy and the other Democratic contenders, McNamara said, "We had no real special interest groups, other than the city of Liv-

Healy will face Geake for state senate seat

Thomas Healy, special assistant to Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley, has resoundingly won the Democratic nomination to the 6th state Senate District seat.

Healy, Plymouth city attorney in 1966-1967, will challenge incumbent state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, in November. The district encompasses the city and township of Plymouth, Canton, the city and township of Northville, Livonia, and Redford Township.

In other races of local interest, Dean Baker upset Donald Grimes for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 2nd District (see Page 3A), Northville Supervisor Susan Heintz defeated Livonia Clerk Elaine Tuttle for Wayne County Commission (see story this page), and Milt Mack, D-Wayne, defeated his Democratic challenger for county commissioner.

For governor, city of Plymouth Republican voters favored William Lucas (509 votes) with Dick Chrysler getting 254 votes. Democrat James Blanchard collected 487 votes.

In balloting for county executive in the city, Ed McNamara led with 300 followed by Robert Ficano with 114.

In Plymouth Township, McNamara received 518 votes, Ficano 207, and John Hertel 111 votes. In the governors race in Plymouth Township Lucas gathered 1,270 votes to 621 for Chrysler and 269 for Dan Murphy.

UNOFFICIAL RETURNS in Tuesday's primary from the seven communities of the 6th Senate District showed that Healy gathered 8,415 votes, twice as many as the only other Democratic candidate, Scott Bassett of Livonia, who received 3,746 votes.

"I was very pleased with the results and thankful to the people who supported me and voted for me," Healy said.

"I'm glad to have this opportunity to oppose Sen. Geake. I don't think he's adequately representing the district."

Healy won in all of the above communities.

Results were: 2,571 for Healy to 1,624 for Bassett in Livonia; 3,025 to 1,239 in Redford; 306 to 104 in the city of Plymouth; 739 to 407 in Canton; 480 to 207 in Plymouth Township; 237 to 136 in Northville Township; and 57 to 29 in the city of Northville.

Healy is a resident of Blunk Street in Plymouth.

Bassett, a clinical assistant professor of law at the University of Michigan, lives on Sunnydale Street in Livonia.

GEAKE, 49, elected to the state senate in 1977, was unopposed in the primary.

Sen. Geake received a total 14,699 votes from these five communities: 6,381 in Livonia, 3,526 in Redford, 776 in Plymouth, 1,975 in Canton and 2,041 in Plymouth Township.

Geake was elected to three consecutive terms in the state House of Representatives beginning in 1972. A resident of 8 Mile in Northville, he earned degrees in special education, guidance and counseling and educa-

Some teens are talking with city

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Plymouth city officials, police and the teenagers who flock downtown on summer evenings have their disagreements but they do agree on one thing.

No one can realistically be identified as a spokesman for the teens — they're a varied group. But some young people who gather downtown have taken the time to meet with city officials and the communication has eased some problems.

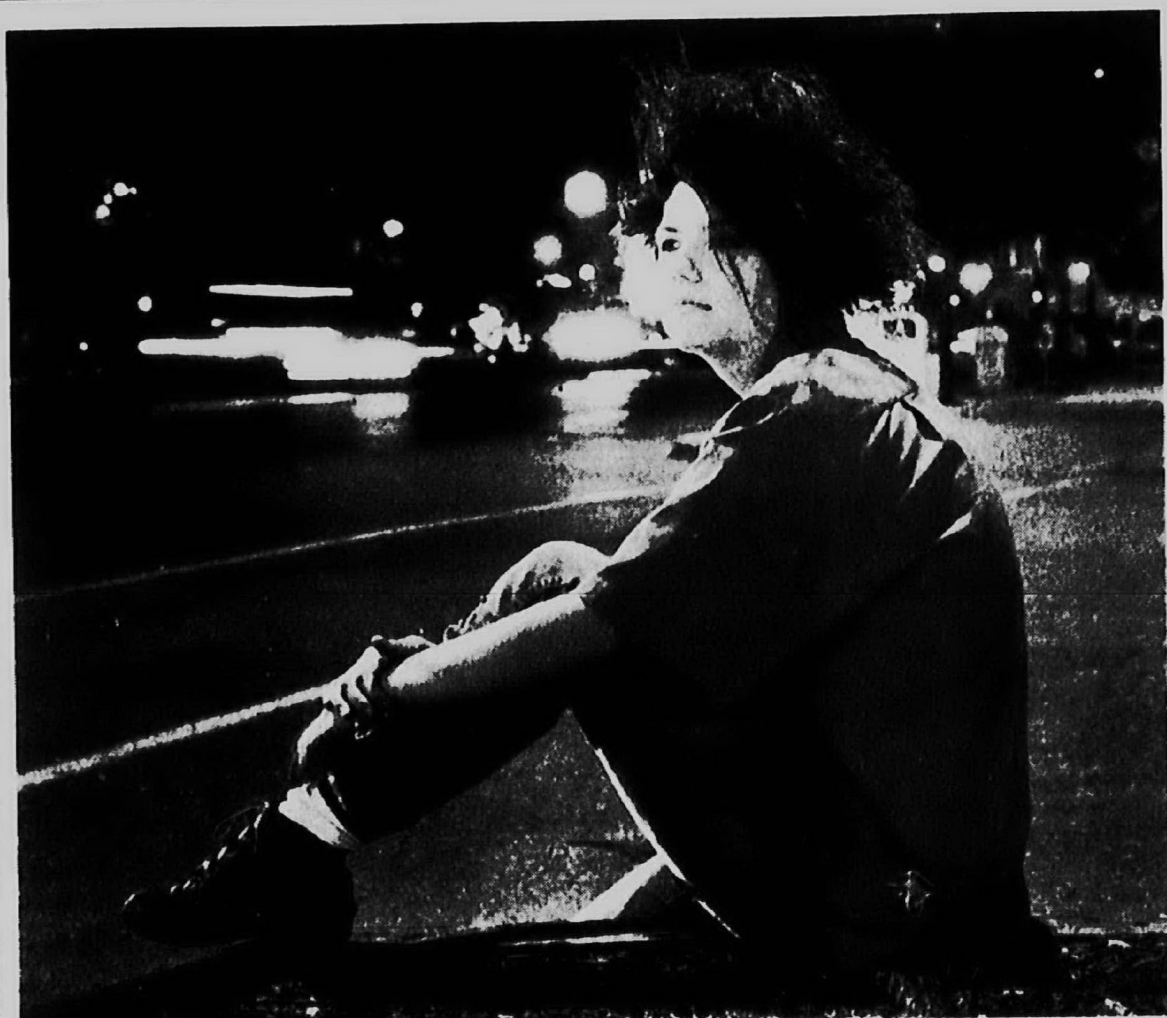

Val Johnson, 17, a Plymouth native, is one of those. She's attended city commission meetings where the summer downtown gatherings have been addressed and has met with police and city officials to discuss problems.

It was another issue, the pigeon-poisoning controversy, that first moved her to attend a commission meeting last spring.

"I read about it in the paper. It made me really mad," she recalls, adding she loves animals.

VAL AND HER friends, who'd never been to a commission meeting before, sat in the front row right before the commissioners.

"Everybody was looking at us, it made us really nervous," she remembers. Val and her friends can draw attention, in their second-hand clothes and wild hair styles. "My mom calls me her wild child; her kid who rats her hair and dresses tacky," she says, laughing.

Johnson and more than a dozen other youths attended a city commission meeting last month, to hear discussion of the Main Street Program and give their side of the downtown controversy. Some complained about a police officer who hassles them where they hang out on Penniman Avenue, Johnson said, adding that officer hasn't been back.

Of city officials she met with in July, Johnson said some were more interested than others in listening to the kid's side.

"We wanted to know what the rules were; what stores are in the Main Street Program. All I found out is I could get a warning, and get a ticket. They're supposed to have signs (no trespassing-loitering) where you can see them but everyone's been stealing them — that's what they told us."

Johnson said it's her impression that business owners are pressuring the city to do something about the downtown gatherings.

"Business owners complain that we're taking away all this business but only 5 percent of these places are open. I just don't know who wants to window shop for wooden baskets at 8 o'clock at night."

TO THOSE who complain that young people should have something better to do than hang out downtown, Johnson says it's a good place to meet friends.

"You can't go out and spend $5 a night to do something," she said, adding she and her friends aren't old enough to go to dance clubs.

Heintz squeaks by in county fight

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Northville Township supervisor Susan Heintz rode the strong support of her hometown communities Tuesday to win the Republican nomination for the Wayne County Board of Commissioners in the 10th District.

Finishing 500 votes behind was Livonia city treasurer Elaine Tuttle whose strong showing in Livonia was not enough to overcome a Heintz landslide in Northville and Plymouth.

The unofficial districtwide tally was Heintz (5,031), Tuttle (4,528), Larry Schweiger (1,930), according to the Wayne County Elections Bureau.

Heintz will now face Democrat John Kopka of Livonia in the November general election to fill the seat being vacated by the retiring Mary Dumas, R-Livonia. Kopka, running unopposed in the Democratic primary, took 3,664 votes districtwide.

TUESDAY'S results clearly showed Heintz as the favorite of the Plymouth and Northville communities, which carried her to victory after a 2-1 loss to Tuttle in Livonia, which makes up 70 percent of the district.

"It's been a long night, but it's been worth it," said a tired Heintz at 2:50 a.m. Wednesday, minutes after receiving news of the Plymouth Township returns, the last to be filled.

Up to that point, when a holdup in the Plymouth Township offices left hanging the outcome of 800 absentee votes, Heintz was leading Tuttle by 331 votes and was too cautious to claim victory.

"Finally, what a time," she sighed when learning of the final returns.

A safe Republican seat for at least the past 10 years — and the only GOP one on the 15-member county board so far — Heintz is expected

Festival board joins city; questions raised

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

City officials say the Plymouth Community Fall Festival Board's new status as a city board will change board functions.

But a Plymouth attorney, who has worked with some of the non-profit groups participating in the festival, told commissioners their action Monday may have been premature.

"I don't say anything's wrong or anything's bad," said Carol Levitte, addressing commissioners prior to their approval of the measure. "But why do they act when the questions haven't been answered?"

LEVITTE SAID non-profit organizations that traditionally participate in the festival turn over 25 percent of profits to the board.

She said because money will now be turned over to the city it may violate group non-profit bylaws prohibiting contributions to a municipality. "I don't think it was considered; nobody could answer that," she said following the meeting.

City Manager Henry Graper said because money contributed to the festival board would be strictly earmarked for the festival, non-profit groups should have no problems contributing.

City Attorney Ron Lowe said this was a gray area. Lowe said he would study the question if the city directs him to do so.

Mayor William Robinson said it was the Fall Festival Board that wanted status as a city board, so rising insurance costs could be headed off by protection under the city's insurance umbrella.

Levitte said some groups that organize annual city celebrations have worked out agreements with the city allowing for city insurance protection without becoming city boards. "Did the festival board know the options?" she asked.

Paul Sincok, assistant to the city manager, said "no options were acceptable to the board. The Fall Festival will be run the same way it always has."

The Fall Festival Board voted to become a city board last week.

Robinson said the city "has no intention to control" the festival, and challenged the notion the festival would lose its special character as one organized by non-profit groups. "If you think the Fall Festival is going down the drain because we're assuming the liability, you're dead wrong," he said.

Festival board bylaws will be reviewed by the city attorney for adherence to city guidelines. Future appointments to the 16-member board will be made by the mayor, based on festival participant recommendations, Sincok said.

IN OTHER action, the city commission approved Monday the Highland Superstores request for $10 million in Plymouth Economic Development Corporation bonds to finance a headquarters-warehousing project at 909 N. Sheldon.

Construction is should begin in October, with completion in February, 1987, in the former Western Electric plant.

The commission also voted to adopt an ordinance prohibiting dogs from defecating on or defacing public or private grounds.

Also Monday, the commission approved the 1986 Sidewalk Program. Homeowners needing to repair sidewalks can have the city repair them at $2.50 per square foot, or can arrange for repairs through a contractor.

Baker pulls apparent upset for Congress

In the 2nd Congressional District newcomer Dean Baker pulled an apparent upset in the Democratic primary by defeating Don Grimes who had run against incumbent Carl Pursell two years ago.

At press time, the race was very close but victory seemed to be safely in Baker's camp who was commanding an unofficial lead of some 400 votes.

In the early morning hours, Baker was leading Grimes by some 200 votes with the Plymouth Township and Northville results still unknown. Grimes had been counting on running strong in Plymouth-Northville but in the Plymouth area Grimes and Baker ran almost 50-50.

BAKER RAN strong in the city of Ann Arbor and in Jackson and Lenawee counties.

With the Ann Arbor, Jackson and Lenawee votes Baker garnered a 2,500 to 1,700 lead over Grimes. Grimes is an economic instructor at University of Michigan and Baker, a doctoral candidate in economics, also teaches at U-M.

In the city of Plymouth, Grimes received 216 votes to 192 for Baker. Republicans gave Pursell 635 votes. In Livonia Grimes easily outdid Baker by 1,252 votes to 813 while the unopposed Pursell received 3,140 votes. At midnight news of the Livonia vote provided some cause for optimism at the Grimes headquarters.

When the candidates went to bed early Wednesday morning the Plymouth Township totals still were unknown. When finally tallied, the results were 291 for Baker and 265 for Grimes. Pursell collected 1,788 votes. This edge was believed sufficient to put the win in Baker's column.

Grimes carried Northville Township by one vote, 169 to 168 and won in the city of Northville, 45 to 40.

This election was the first time Plymouth Township voted punchcard and results were held up by the absentee ballot counting board and delays in counting county convention delegate votes.

Baker, when he announced last May, said he decided to run because of Pursell's votes in favor of aid to the contras in Nicaragua and in favor of funding for the MX missile.

Much of his Ann Arbor support came from volunteers who worked in April for passage of Proposal A which declared that city's opposition to military intervention in Central America.

have an easy time in November. In community break-downs, here's how residents voted:

- Livonia: Tuttle (3,674); Heintz (1,954); Schweiger (1,279)
- Northville Township: Heintz (1,310); Tuttle (179); Schweiger (128)
- Plymouth Township: Heintz (1,060); Tuttle (471); Schweiger (357)
- City of Plymouth: Heintz (509); Tuttle (163); Schweiger (135)
- City of Northville: Heintz (98); Tuttle (41); Schweiger (31).

FOURTEEN-YEAR incumbent Dumas, who drove to Heintz's campaign headquarters in Livonia to congratulate her Tuesday night, said she was pleased with the outcome and would support Heintz's effort into November. "I don't think she's going to have any problem in the general," Dumas said.

But the race had been close for the GOP nomination. Heintz's biggest job had been to develop enough name recognition in Livonia, where the largest single block of votes stood.

Well-known in the Plymouth-Northville communities where she has served as supervisor of Northville Township and clerk in past years, Heintz reportedly needed to target Livonia. Consequently, she campaign heavily there. In addition, her campaign was the best funded, raising over $15,600. In contrast, Tuttle self-financed her campaign to the tune of about $1,500, according to finance reports. Heintz also had collected the endorsement of the Republican party leadership.

Unlike Tuttle, Heintz said she would step down from her elective supervisor's office in Northville Township upon election in November. Tuttle had maintained up to the last minute that there was "no conflict" to holding two elective offices, one on the county board and the other in Livonia.

tion and psychology. Geake was a trustee at large at Schoolcraft College in 1969 and subsequently was elected chairman.

Healy graduated from Drexel University in Philadelphia and U-M Law School. He spent eight years on the attorney general's staff in service to the Highway Department, Liquor Control Commission, Public Service Commission and Consumer Protection Division. Healy was chief legal adviser to the Liquor Control Commission.

Bassett graduated from the University of Michigan Law School, Wayne State University and Stevenson High School. He was employed with the Southfield law firm of Hyman, Gurwin, Nachman, Friedman and Winkelman 1981-84, and was a clinical instructor of law at the U-M Law School 1984-85.

IN THE 10TH Wayne County Commission District, incumbent Milton Mack, D-Wayne, won nomination fairly easily over Wayne County Sheriff Deputy Robert Smith of Belleville.

Mack won by a margin of almost 3 to 1 districtwide where he had 3,593 votes to 1,376 for Smith. In Canton, Mack had 733 votes to 446 for Smith.

After expressing disappointment in the turnout, Mack commented: "I am very grateful to be elected by a margin like that. To some extent it represents that people are satisfied with the positions I've taken in county government. It would appear I am in touch with what voters want and react to them."

Mack said his campaign strategy was to key in on people who were likely to vote, and to rely on signs and billboards for name exposure. "We'll run a more aggressive campaign for the November election."

Smith, who financed his own campaign and said he spent about $100, commented: "We let everyone know everyone wasn't happy with business as usual. It was fun. I enjoyed it and met a lot of nice people."

Smith, who ran against Mack four years ago, said he was unsure he would run again.

nia, and that usually is Republican. We relied on (the endorsements and support) of mayors and supervisors, but the Democratic District parties went to Ficano, Hertel and Turner.

"I REALLY had no traditional, Democratic labor support, so in light of that and the low turnout, it's almost remarkable (the win).

"We were very fortunate."

Meanwhile, Livonia's Ficano held his campaign night party in Allen Park's Red Fawn Hall in downriver, the stronghold of the traditional, labor-backed Democrats he targeted.

Speaking late Tuesday before the completed returns were tabulated, Ficano predicted "a very, long night" and pinned hopes on Detroit's late-arriving returns to make a break in his favor. "That didn't happen, though."

Ron Hesse is ready to depart with a load of oats for Andersonville, S.C.

Farmer hopes drought in south will draw more attention to other plights

By Diane Gale
staff writer

While Ron Hesse, a fourth generation farmer in Plymouth, loaded his truck with oats for farmers in the south he talked about treating people fairly and expecting the same.

He packed his semi Sunday with 1,000 bushels of oats and hoped to be in drought-stricken Anderson, S.C., by Tuesday.

"We don't very often get a chance in life to do things that really matter," Hesse said. "One hand will eventually always wash the other. Someday we may need help."

Lifting an arm colored green with tattoos, he pushed his cap up, revealing a receding hairline and added, "Hopefully, that won't happen."

"I hope that out of this I will obtain a friend in the south. And the material isn't worth that much on the open market."

"If it was I'd probably send about half as much," said Hesse, positioning a cigarette under his thick brown mustache.

HESSE, 43, knows the shipment is small in comparison to other loads sent south.

"It's not like I can reach in my back pocket and snatch out a lot of money because it's not there."

Hesse hopes media attention on southern farmers will draw interest to a bigger issue.

"City folks should be aware of the problems facing farmers," Hesse said.

Oats are selling at about 79 cents for 32 pounds, said Hesse, adding that he'd probably get about $750 if he sold the load he's taking south.

He shook his head and said it's ironic that thistle, a weed used for bird seed, sells for about $1.50 a pound.

"It don't take a lot of figuring to know that something's wrong with the system when people are paying a hundred times more for a weed used for bird seed than I can get for top quality grain."

Farmers "overproduce themselves," driving the prices down, Hesse said, "and I'm as guilty as the next guy." Another problem, he said, is too many middle men cutting into

Three sites named for Wilcox House

The county parks department have identified three sites which it believes are suitable for the Wilcox House if it's relocated.

The Wayne County Department of Parks and Recreation looked at about six sites, and narrowed the field to three possible locations.

In a written report, the county parks department noted it was asked for assistance by Friends of the Wilcox House to find a site for the structure which is scheduled for demolition to be replaced by a condominium project.

Friends of the Wilcox House will meet at 7:30 tonight in the community room of Arbor Health Building, Ann Arbor Trail at Harvey.

"The major intention of relocating the house," the county's report stated, "is to preserve this historic link to the local past of the Plymouth area and to use the structure as a possible conference center or revenue-producing facility, such as a restaurant."

THE COUNTY parks department noted that the Wilcox House is historically significant as an example of Victorian architecture and because of its age and noted that the original owner of the house also is historically significant as the entrepreneur of the air rifle industry in the nation.

The county believes the building cannot be used as a meeting center or restaurant without additions or renovations.

Criteria used by the county for site selection included: site proximity to Plymouth; site environmental suitability; available area for support services; multiple use of the site; security of site; and access from major roadways.

The three sites which emerged as finalists were Haggerty and Hines Dr., Ann Arbor Trail and Ann Arbor Road in the area of Newburgh Lake, and at Wilcox Pond.

Friends of the Wilcox originally hoped the house could be used as a headquarters for various cultural and artistic groups in the Plymouth community.

In its analysis of the Wilcox House, the county noted that it should be supported by operating revenue, that the ground floor has to be enlarged to provide public restrooms, and that the building provide some kind of service to the parks system to warrant its location within county park property.

Possible uses for the Wilcox House envisioned by county parks includes: community center/meeting hall; concession stand, restrooms; restaurant; archives/historical library; park foundation offices.

The advantages the county sees in putting the Wilcox House at Wilcox Pond includes that it could serve as a boat rental concessions stand. Disadvantages include limited space for parking, and the area drains poorly as it once was a swamp.

The county recommends the Wilcox Lake area with some reservations and highly recommends the Newburgh Lake site and the Haggerty, Edward Hines Dr. site.

The Friends of the Wilcox House still must raise the funds to move the Wilcox House and renovate it for its new use.

Helping those in need

"How much of what I send out ends up in the third world country? Nothing makes me sicker than to see people starving to death when I have all this for them to eat. But nothing makes me sicker than someone who skins me."

HESE SAID farmers are alone in the way they sell their goods. He compares farming to the auto industry and said you don't find General Motors taking cars to a lot and asking people what they will pay.

With an easy rhythm in his voice, Hesse is comfortable talking about the national and international issues that affect low grain prices.

"When the government says we're going to put sanctions against a country, the first thing that's done is they cut off the food supply and they slap the farmer right in the face."

He furrowed his forehead, smiled wide, and added, "But this is probably the best country in the world."

Hesse's great-grandfather farmed in Germany before coming to America and every generation since has tilled the land. But Hesse worries that the cycle will end.

"Four generations of farmers and I'm monkeying around and can lose the whole ball of wax. I'm seriously thinking of giving it all up. If I get out, I want to make sure I cover my tail. The debt load isn't coming down as fast as the equipment depreciation. We're losing ground on that."

Contrasts between his farm life and the surrounding city are stark. A rooster crows in the field while traffic whizzes by a couple of miles away on M-14.

Hesse drives a red Pontiac Fiero to a log home, which he built in 1977. He lives there with wife, Mary, and daughters, Kallin, 9, Meghan, 7 and Brienne, 7. Hesse also has a 20-year-old son and an 18-year-old daughter by another marriage.

The home is tucked away among the trees, a stone's throw from new houses that line the fields and have eaten away the perimeter of the 70-acre farm, which was once 97 acres.

"I'm fighting traffic constantly. There are definitely places that I'd rather be. We're just not in an agricultural area anymore. I can't do business with banks because agriculture is such a high-risk business."

"I love to farm. It's the best way in the world to make a living... if you can make a living. All I want to do is grow what I grow, sell it and make a profit."

complained of the trash or broken bottles some kids leave, Johnson suggests that the city put more garbage cans around. On evenings when their group meets on Peniman, Johnson leads a hike down the street to throw trash in the only nearby garbage can, she said.

After police cleared teens from the Main Street area following the Saturday cruise-in, "we went through and picked up 150 bottles," she said.

Johnson said she supported the cruise-in because it showed that kids have a right to cruise downtown. Police have said the massive traffic tie-up near Kellogg Park could have kept emergency vehicles from getting through, and Johnson agrees that police have a point.

"It just seemed it's no different from the Fall Festival. They don't seem to have a problem with that."

Some have suggested that the city work with nearby townships to find a park area where teens can go.

"I don't think that would be so bad," Johnson offers, claiming some problems could be solved if Kellogg Park is allowed to remain open past 10 p.m. For example, she said some out-of-town kids got rowdy during the cruise-in when police made them leave the park at that curfew.

Asked if there's a solution to the downtown problem, she said, "I don't know. It's getting late in the summer — there's not going to be many people."

Since trying to talk with the city on the downtown issue, Johnson said she gets defensive when some friends leave trash around or do things police look down on. "I don't want to make a fool of myself."

GOP chooses Lucas

Chrysler's spending falls short

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A good organization can beat a TV blitz. Ask Mari Egbert Patterson.

As campaign manager of two Republican gubernatorial primaries, the former Northville resident is 2-0 — Dick Headlee in '82 and now Bill Lucas.

"It was organization work — very quiet," Patterson said as the polls showed Lucas taking 44 percent of the vote in Tuesday's Michigan primary. "We identified people who voted Republican in 1984. We called them and mailed them material."

"We had all volunteers — several thousand. We worked hard. A lot of man-hours went into it," said Patterson, 32.

A political professional who travels the country running GOP campaigns, she is married to Atlanta attorney Jim Patterson. In 1972, as a Michigan State University student, she won the youth vice chairmanship of the state Republican Party as a protégé of a freshman state senator (now U.S. representative) named Carl Pursell of Plymouth.

LUCAS BEAT Brighton industrialist Richard Chrysler in Chrysler's own Livingston County and Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy on his home turf.

Lucas' $1.5 million campaign overcame the $3 million, largely self-financed broadcast advertising campaign of Chrysler, who has never held an elected public or party office.

Lucas led the four-candidate ticket on the western side of the state, in such Dutch-American areas as Ottawa County (60 percent), Kent County (2-1) and Grand Traverse County. Lucas' win disproved folk wisdom that says a black from Detroit can't appeal to the conservative western Michiganders.

And it fueled strong speculation at Wednesday morning's GOP "unity breakfast" in the Novi Hilton that Lucas would pick a Dutch running mate, either:

- State Sen. Dick Posthumus, 36, a political professional from Lowell and chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

- State Rep. Paul Hillemonds, 37, of Holland, a fourth-term lawmaker and assistant minority leader.

"POSTHUMUS," said Michael Legg, 2nd Congressional District GOP chairman. "Colleen Engler just told me she doesn't want to be considered."

"Dick Posthumus," answered Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville. "He's from the right part of the state; he has a Dutch constituency, and he's a strong campaigner. Hillemonds is possible."

"Someone from the west part of the state, to balance the ticket," said Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson. Noting that Engler, who ran third in the gubernatorial race, had experience on the House Elections Committee, he said she would make "a helluva candidate" against Secretary of State Richard Austin, a Democrat, and would "make Blanchard sweat." "Hillemonds . . . Posthumus . . . Engler," replied state Sen. Richard Fessler of West Bloomfield, who won a 2-1 primary victory Tuesday. He talked most about Engler, a woman who has represented both Bay City and the Mount Pleasant area in the House, has name recognition and a knowledge of state issues.

If religion is a factor, several said, bet on Protestants Posthumus and Hillemonds because Lucas and Engler are Catholic.

AS OF MID-WEDNESDAY, the Secretary of State's office reported that Gov. James J. Blanchard carried 94 percent of the vote in the Democratic primary against disabled auto worker Henry Hank Wilson of Detroit.

Republican order of finish was:
1. Lucas, 258,455 or 44 percent.
The Wayne County executive is making his first bid for office since becoming a Republican last year.

2. Chrysler, 198,067 or 34 percent.
3. Engler, 64,535 or 11 percent.
4. Murphy, 64,120 or 11 percent.

The rest of the ticket will be worked out at state party conventions the weekend of Aug. 21-23, Republicans meeting in Detroit, Democrats in Flint.

THERE WERE two speculations on how unfavorable news stories affected support of Chrysler, who on July 31 was reported to have asked some of his Cars & Concepts employees to work without pay while collecting unemployment benefits in 1978.

Winner William Lucas must now take on incumbent Gov. James Blanchard.

CAMILLE MCCOY

An expensive defeat for Dick Chrysler

One was that Lucas won almost all the "undecideds." The other was that many Murphy voters switched to Lucas in the GOP Establishment's A-B-C strategy: "Anybody But Chrysler."

Chrysler's polls showed him with 36 percent of the vote before the Detroit News unleashed its story, and voters gave him 34 percent. "We recovered damn near everything we lost," said former newsman Tom Greene, his campaign consultant. Murphy supporters switched to Lucas, "definitely," said Greene.

"It definitely came from the undecided," Patterson said. "A week ago (before the story broke), our poll showed us ahead 41-37. Even before Chrysler's problems, it showed we had the lead."

YET A THIRD explanation was offered by Suzan Singer, Murphy's press secretary. "Some of the Chrysler supporters went to Colleen Engler. According to the polls I've seen, he (Chrysler) lost a lot of support from women in the last few days," she said.

Kavanagh joins judicial finalists

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Sean Kavanagh of Livonia will be the youngest of six candidates that will appear on the November ballot for Wayne County Circuit court judge.

Kavanagh, 28, a magistrate in the 16th District Court who graduated from the Detroit College of Law in 1983, finished sixth out of 17 candidates with 32,894 votes Tuesday in a non-partisan primary election for circuit court judge.

Finishing in seventh place and out of the list of November contenders was Paul Bricker, 46, of Grosse Pointe, a former assistant attorney general, who had 25,673 votes.

John Murphy, 37, a district court judge in Detroit for the last seven years, was the top vote getter of the six making the ballot with 50,556 votes.

OTHERS who made the November ballot are: David Szymanski, 32, of Harper Woods (48,072), James Rashid, 32, of Dearborn (39,983), Kathleen Macdonald, 39, of Grosse Pointe Park (36,379) and Gregory Stempien, 45, of Northville (33,970).

Livonia city attorney Harry Tattigan, who said a candidate with a non-Irish, non-popular judicial name has a difficult time in a judicial election, finished 11th in the pack with 22,279 votes.

James Ryan of Canton was eighth with 25,276 and Patrick McDonald of Livonia was 10th with 23,544.

a lot of help from family and friends.

"It was a lot of grass root support," said Kavanagh, who claimed the last spot for the November ballot. "We didn't have any money. We're going to have to raise some money and get an organization to finish in the top three on the November ballot."

Election experts said Kavanagh also benefitted from having a "judicial name." There is presently a state Supreme Court justice named Kavanagh and two other judges named Kavanagh in recent years have served as justices of the state supreme Court.

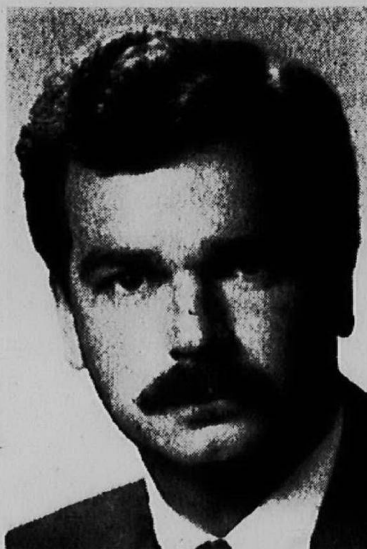

KAVANAGH has also worked as a tax consultant, a law clerk and a construction worker.

Szymanski, who graduated from Wayne State University law school in 1982, has been in private practice 3½ years and has represented the Detroit Police Officer's Association. He is the son of Wayne County Probate Judge Frank Szymanski.

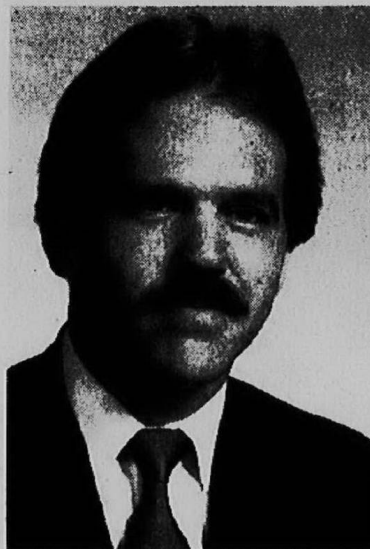

James Rashid, 32, the third-highest vote getter, is a former Wayne County commissioner and son of the late Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph Rashid. He graduated from Detroit College of Law in 1980.

Kathleen Macdonald, 39, who graduated from University of Detroit law school last year, is a Wayne County Circuit Court judicial assistant.

Stempien, 45, an attorney since graduating from Detroit College of Law in 1971, is the brother of Wayne County Circuit Judge Marvin Stempien.

Firefighters vote on new contract

A tentative three-year contract agreement was reached Monday by negotiators representing the city of Plymouth and city firefighters and approved by the city commission.

According to the tentative pact, firefighters would receive pay raises ranging from 3 to 4 percent in each year of the contract. The city also would take over payment of contributions to the workers' retirement program. Currently, firefighters are the only city employees paying a portion of their retirement contributions.

"We felt it would be fair to pay this portion of the retirement program," said City Manager Henry Grafer who helped negotiate the contract. "We are very happy with the wages that were negotiated."

Covered under the agreement are the city's four firefighters, who earn a base salary of $27,661 annually, and three captains earning $30,552 annually. The pact calls for a 3.5 percent pay increase in 1986-87, with a 4 percent increase the following year and a 3 percent raise in the third year of the contract.

Jim Valensky, secretary-treasurer of Local 1811 representing the firefighters, said he expected the local would ratify the agreement soon. The contract would be retroactive to July 1.

Center turning a critical corner

By Teri Banas
staff writer

The troubled Westland Medical Center is turning a critical corner this week toward expanding services and boosting its occupancy rate.

Operators of the former county-owned hospital have announced a new, joint agreement to provide in-house medical care for mental health patients. The agreement reached with Hegira Programs, Inc. ultimately will make available a 96-bed unit now under construction on the center's fifth floor.

Construction on the first phase of the new unit began last spring and should be completed by the end of August, said Christopher Palazzolo, vice president of finance for Westland Medical Center.

The first phase, a 48-bed unit, will be occupied sometime in October, he said.

CONSTRUCTION on the second half of the unit will begin when the first phase is occupied, and could be completed and occupied by June 1987.

According to the agreement, Westland Medical will provide the facilities and support staff for the program while Hegira Programs is devising the treatment program, and providing its physician-medical staff and program director.

Officials of both organizations praised the agreement and so-called "closed loop program" as an "innovative" response to mental health treatment.

The construction was earlier approved by the Michigan Department of Public Health. Through the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeast Michigan, a "certificate of need" was granted to Westland Medical for the psychiatric unit primarily because of overcrowding at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, officials said.

For Westland Medical, the agreement is expected to help a lagging occupancy rate that has fluctuated around 30 percent since the medical center was taken over by Southwest Hospital Inc. two years ago. In 1984, Wayne County agreed to lease the center and turn over operations to that hospital outfit. Hospital occupancy rates statewide average 60-65 percent usually, said Palazzolo.

HE SAID the agreement will do more than boost Westland's lagging occupancy rate. It will fill an important void in this area's need for treating psychiatric patients.

In this area, Canton Township's Oakwood Hospital, Livonia's St. Mary's and Heritage Hospital all treat psychiatric patients but not in the scope as what's proposed for Westland Medical, he said.

But while there is an identifiable need for psychiatric beds in general, Palazzolo said the need for psychiatric treatment for the indigent is particularly troublesome.

As a result, their "certificate of need" mandates that at least 54 percent of their patients are among the indigent.

"Where the most acute need is (for psychiatric medical care) is among the state-supported (indigent) patients," he said. "Patients who have no private insurance or Medicaid have a tough time getting anywhere."

Consequently, many are referred to the state-run Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, where overcrowding is severe, he said.

Hegira Inc. officials were at a conference this week and unavailable for comment.

But in a news release, Hegira's chief executive officer, Edward Forry, said the new hospital wing will be a "model for enlightened treatment" offering special provisions for helping patients' families, as well.

He also described as "innovative" the agreement between the two private, institutions. According to Palazzolo, Hegira has exclusively screened 3,000 mental health patients and referred them to other institutions for care.

Said Westland's chief executive officer, David C. Kregar: "The mental health unit at Westland Medical Center offers us the opportunity to provide a desperately needed service to the community."

He added the venture combines "the best of contemporary treatment programs with the best hospital facility design."

The Westland Medical Center hopes in-house care for mental health patients will prove to be a tonic for lagging occupancy rates.

In another matter, Palazzolo said Westland Medical is planning soon to reopen its Neo-natal Intensive Care Unit. That unit, along with a 27-bed obstetric and gynecology ward and nursery, was closed last December when physicians from the University of Michigan withdrew from the center. Since June 21 however, Westland Medical has reopened the unit and nursery with private physicians.

Palazzolo said it has been difficult to find specialists trained for treating infants who require intensive care. Since the U-M doctors left, high-risk mothers have been referred to Hutzel and Oakwood Hospitals in this case, he said.

He said this service will be restored soon, when recruitment is completed.

"We're really on the verge of making an upswing," he said.

Gas heating cost to drop in area

Consumers Power Co. said its natural gas customers will pay about 5 percent less for natural gas this winter.

Reason: The utility's two major suppliers of natural gas have filed, decreases for projected rates with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, said William T. McCormick, chairman for Consumers.

Trunkline Gas Co., which currently provides Consumers with 65 percent of its natural gas, announced a 21 cent rate decrease per thousand cubic feet. Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co., providing 15 percent of the company's natural gas, announced a 54 cent decrease per thousand cubic feet.

COMBINED WITH a settlement filing made this week by Consumers Power with the Michigan Public Service Commission, these decreases mean an estimated savings of $76 million per year for Consumers 1.2 million natural gas customers.

Consumers is Michigan's largest utility, serving nearly 6 million of the state's 9 million residents in 67 of the 68 counties in the Lower Peninsula. Most Wayne and Oakland County suburbs get gas from Consumers. A typical residential gas space-heating customer will save approximately $36 for the year beginning Sept. 1.

Consumers Power has been working hard to enhance competition in gas supplies and to lower the cost of purchased gas to our customers," McCormick said.

The gas rate settlement filed with the staff of the service commission will lower the company's natural gas rates by $16 million over 12 months beginning Sept. 1, reflecting other savings by the utility.

The agreement is the result of discussions held after the service commission said the company's natural gas distribution earnings were above the level authorized August, 1984 in the company's last rate proceeding.

IF APPROVED by the service commission, the rate reduction would cut the annual gas bill for the average resident by about $8 by means of a temporary charge reduction.

This reduction would be applied to the monthly bill for each unit of gas used by a customer during each of the months from September 1986 through August 1987. In September 1987, Consumers Power's gas rates will revert to the levels approved by the service commission in the last rate case.

Joseph F. Paquette Jr., executive vice-president and chief financial officer for Consumers, said the agreement with the staff avoids possible lengthy and costly legal proceedings.

Paquette estimated that the rate reduction will impact Consumers Power's earnings by 3 cents per share in 1986 and by 6 cents per share in 1987.

Small business praises state loan plan

By Tim Richard
staff writer

One Oakland County investor is cheering Gov. James Blanchard's program to make capital more accessible to small businesses.

But the chief economist for a non-participating bank says state government has better uses of taxpayer dollars than underwriting risky business loans.

"This has never been tried before in America," Blanchard said as he unveiled his "capital access program" Monday morning in a Detroit Press Club news conference.

Jobless rate below 9 percent

The July unemployment rate of 8.9 percent was the lowest for the month since the pre-recession year 1979 when the rate was 7.2 percent.

Richard Simmons Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, credits strong seasonal hiring combined with modest labor force growth for the 0.5 percent drop from the June level of 9.4 percent.

In July, the number of unemployed Michigan workers declined by 21,000 to 385,000.

IN JUNE, the jobless total had been 406,000 or 9.4 percent of the state's labor force. A year ago, in July 1985, Michigan's jobless rate was 10.5 percent with 448,000 out of work.

Simmons said seasonal employment grew in the state's service, retail trade and construction industries. This growth more than offset scattered model changeover layoffs in the auto industry and seasonal Strategic Fund (MSF) would contribute $5 million to a kind of "insurance fund" encouraging banks to make riskier loans to small firms which might otherwise be denied.

PAUL ZLOTOFF, president of a Birmingham-based real estate firm, joined Blanchard's news conference to praise the program.

"It's encouraging to find government responding to the needs of small business," said Zlotoff, on behalf of the Independent Business Research Office, a joint university-business project he chairs.

"We studied capital availability," Zlotoff said. "Yes, there is a capital gap. Many small firms are new businesses and therefore undercapitalized. But they don't have track records" to justify bank loans.

Moreover, many small business loans are small loans and therefore more expensive, administratively, for a bank, he said.

DAVID LITTMAN, vice president and senior economist for Manufacturers National Bank, said, "The state shouldn't be putting any taxpayer money into this. It's not the proper role of government."

"There are enough roads to fix. There's enough crime to attend to," said Littman, a Bloomfield Hills resident and widely published economic commentator.

"The state could do more to improve the business climate by lowering the property tax, reducing workers' compensation costs and generally doing something about the bad economic climate. This is just aimed at putting a pretty face on Lansing."

Twenty banks in Michigan signed 10-page capital access plan contracts with the state, according to MSF President Peter Plastrik.

Manufacturers wasn't among them, Littman said state officials had approached Manufacturers, "but there was no follow-up."

Area banks on the list were five First of America banks (including Detroit and Wayne Oakland), National Bank of Detroit, Security Bank and Trust of Southgate and Wyandotte Savings Bank.

BLANCHARD SAID he drew on his congressional experience (1975-82) in concluding that new and small businesses had a tough time getting capital.

'The state shouldn't be putting any taxpayer money into this. It's not the proper role of government. There are enough roads to fix. There's enough crime to attend to.'

amount and the state matches both their contributions with MSF money. The reserve fund can be equal to 10 percent of the total risky-business portfolio.

The bank can dip into it only to recover a loan which goes sour. If the loss exceeds the bank's reserve, the bank alone is at risk.

THE FIRST loan under the program was made by East Lansing State Bank to Pacorp Inc., a Lansing firm that provides technology services in real estate appraisal and property tax assessment.

The $300,000 loan required a total contribution of $18,000 to the MSF, Plastrik said.

Pacorp president John Ebert said the firm will move several hundred jobs from Texas to Michigan.

This program will help the most effective job creators, and it helps Michigan banks get more aggressive about loans to small business," the Democratic governor said.

Asked to reply to Republican gubernatorial candidate Richard Chryslers' charge that "state government shouldn't be picking economic winners and losers," Blanchard said:

"The private sector makes the loans. In no case does a government bureaucrat or a Michigan Strategic Fund employee decide who gets loans. That extra risk banks can take will create a lot of jobs."

THE PROGRAM works like this, according to Plastrik:

Banks are heavily regulated and limit the riskiness of business loans. "Typically, loss rates on a bank's business loans are less than 1 percent," which cuts out companies with good prospects but a lack of collateral or an insufficient "track record."

"If a bank participates in the Capital Access Program, a special reserve is established to cover future losses from a portfolio of loans that the bank makes under the program. The special reserve is owned and controlled by the MSF but is earmarked in that bank's name."

The Western Wayne County Literacy Council will host a seminar next month to train tutors for the program.

The four-year-old volunteer organization, which is affiliated with a national movement called Laubach Literacy Action, based in Syracuse, N.Y., will host a two-day workshop in September to teach the Laubach teaching method.

The method, named for an American missionary, Dr. Frank Laubach, who worked in the Philippines, espouses the motto, "each one, teach one."

Organizer Dolores Plichta said there are some 75 perspective students and that the need for tutors is "great."

In all, the organization covers 32 communities in western Wayne County.

Election 'low point' was a false alarm

By Teri Banas
staff writer

It was 2:15 a.m. Wednesday and all but the stalwarts had gone home. With his core campaign staff still picking up the late-arriving telephoned city-by-city returns, Ed McNamara, who had discarded his suit coat hours ago but still kept his tie in place — was waiting out the final vote counts in his second — and this time successful — bid for Wayne County executive.

By this time, it was well-known that McNamara had pulled it off toward winning the Democratic nomination — tantamount to success in November. A few minutes later, a pleased Michael Duggan, campaign manager, turned over a copy of the morning newspaper that gave McNamara the lead.

Livonia's mayor for the past 16 years, McNamara had started the day in his Livonia City Hall office, but then moved on for the final-leg of what had been an eight-month-long campaign trail.

AFTER DOING some desk work there, he drove out to polling places in Detroit and Downriver, shook some hands, thanked campaign workers, and returned home at 11 a.m. to cast his own ballot.

He visited a few more polling places to thank supporters and then returned to his office for a quick nap.

By 9:15 p.m. surrounded by an entourage of close campaign associates, he and his wife, Lucille, entered Livonia's Roma Hall to face some 500 supporters, who amidst blaring television camera lights, were there to wait out the election results while watching the counting boards add up. Occasionally, city assessor Ron Mardiros' voice would boom out, "Thank you Dearborn," or whatever city was pulling in McNamara's favor at the time.

BUT THE night was not always in the campaign's favor.

The end result was significantly closer than McNamara pollsters had predicted; they counted on capturing 30 percent of the vote. Several times during the evening radio reports from the other major candidate's camps broadcasted optimism from those spots. At one point, Wayne County sheriff and fellow contender Robert Ficano was within 600 votes of the lead and projected a hopefulness to his own supporters at Allen Park's Red Fawn Hall.

All eyes were turned to the Detroit returns, though, which historically are late in arriving.

Reflecting at the end of the night, McNamara said the best moment in the day came around 7 p.m. — an hour before the polls closed — when he received a call from a reporter from a daily media company announcing their exit polls had given him a nine-point spread over contender Samuel Turner, veteran Detroit commissioner and the favorite candidate of Detroit's Coleman Young.

"The low point in the night came when I had only a four-point spread and I knew the error factor could be as much as 5 percent," he said.

Facing only token GOP opposition in November, McNamara said he plans in the upcoming months to put his efforts toward "electing and re-electing" other Democratic candidates, including helping Gov. James Blanchard's gubernatorial campaign and "any county commissioner that needs help."

He also will be taking a close look at Wayne County's departmental structure, assessing job performances, in drafting his own management plan for the county.

That and family matters will keep him close to home, he said. The 60-year-old mayor is awaiting the arrival of his first grandchild this September and the marriage of his second son in October.

Dr. Roger Ajiuni, McNamara's personal physician for the last 15 years, said the mayor is more than up to the task of his new job.

"Ed McNamara needs to lose some weight, but don't we all?" he said. "Otherwise he's in the pink for a man of his age. He's not disposed to any high-risk factors."

"He's emotionally stable and physiologically fit. Now, if only Wayne County could be in a state of good health like Ed."

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer
Lisa Goode of Plymouth Township gives a victory gift to Edward McNamara shortly after his victory announcement at 1:10 a.m.

Rustic camping is easy and cheap

HERE are some ideas for vacations you might want to look into in Michigan for this summer or plan for next year's vacation.

The State Park Family Rent-A-Tent Program. This program is offered in 14 state parks throughout Michigan from May 15 to Sept. 15. The program is designed for families or couples that want to try camping before they invest in a lot of expensive equipment.

Tents are lodge-type, on wooden platforms and come with two folding cots and two foam pads. Each site also has a picnic table and fire circle. Rental fee is $12 per night.

Campers will need to provide sleeping bags or blankets, lamp or lantern, ice chest, water jug, cook-stove, cooking utensils and other personal items.

For further details and reservation information, contact the DNR Parks Division at 1-517-373-1270

FOR THE LESS rustic minded: In 14 different park and recreation areas around Michigan, there are rustic cabins available for rental to Michigan residents. These cabins can serve as a functional base for hunting, fishing or camping vacations.

Some are as close as Brighton or Ortonville. Many of these cabins overlook water and are on quiet, wooded sites. Smaller cabins will accommodate a family. At some sites, adjacent cabins can be rented by groups.

All the cabins have single beds or bunks with mattresses, a table, chair, broom and wood stove for heat. There are outside hand pumps for water and vault toilets. Campers will need to bring bedding, cookware and tableware, axe and handsaw, first aid kit, lanterns, flashlights, bugdope, and a portable stove for cooking.

camping

The cabins are $20 per night. For further information and reservations, call the DNR number listed above.

FINALLY, THE Michigan Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan has a new brochure out "On the Road in Southeast Michigan." It has 11 tours to different locations in our area. Each tour outlines where you'll go and what there is to see. There is also a map for each tour with clearly marked routes.

These 11 tours are all two-three days in length, can be extended if you choose and are designed for every season here in Michigan. So they can be used for winter weekend get-aways as well.

To get a copy of this hand-tour guide, write to: Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan, P.O. Box 1590, Troy, MI 48099, or call 585-8220.

Gadgets, trinkets don't earn votes

I WAS sitting at a picnic, minding my own business, which at the moment happened to be consuming a sloppy joe and an ear of corn. Suddenly someone passing by shoved something into my hand and said, "Here, take one of these."

It turned out to be a cheap emery board with the words "Gaylord Farquhar, County Commissioner" on it.

I thought sarcastically, "Migosh, what a nice touch! That's something everybody needs and that never goes out of style. How thoughtful and considerate. This fellow has my vote, or at least, would have my vote if I happened to live in this county."

I'VE ALWAYS wondered about the efficacy of that type of political paraphernalia. It does get the candidate's name before the voters. But it's going to take more than "Remember, Milton Milksoop Is Running" printed on a little plastic bottlecap to move me to press the lever.

It's not that all the little doodads and gadgets don't come in handy. A "Vote for Basic Competency, Vote for Relative Honesty, Vote for Winslow Ward Heeler" pen will give seconds, sometimes minutes of writing pleasure before running dry. Plastic coasters saying "Elect Pardee Hack — He'll Stay Out of Trouble" can be brought out with the Bugs Bunny glasses when you have out-of-town visitors.

And, of course, kids still love to get those authentic Native American paper war bonnets with "Vote for Delbert Dubious" on them. If the kids are like I was, however, they probably think, "Yes, this is a swell Indian hat but it would be a heck of a lot better if it didn't have that clown's name written all over it."

The trinkets can backfire on a candidate, too. A voter is likely to have negative thoughts about candidate Clarence Crony if a "Crony-ism's Contagious — Catch It!" pen leaks all over his dress shirt pocket. The same holds true if the voter sprains his hand trying to open a jar of gherkins with a plastic jar opener that says "Try a New Twist at City Hall, Vote for Chubby Czecher; He Doesn't Owe Anybody Any Favors, He's Out for Himself." Who knows how many close campaigns have been decided on votes lost that way.

WE CAN only hope that in the future technology will improve political handouts. Some of the baubles already utilize complex technology. One item, for instance, makes use of the earth's magnetic field, the composite of all the lines of force surrounding the dipole magnet that is the earth, to clip recipes to refrigerators.

But greater things may lie ahead. Someday even the lowliest city council candidate may be able to pass out hologram badges that show the candidate sitting with his family and then, when you tilt the badge, with his loyal secretary "going over paperwork" late at night.

Whatever the future may bring, we should continue to encourage politicians to distribute these little treats. It may turn out to be the only time they ever do anything for us.

Richard Lech is a Suburban Life editor for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Ad bucks also ran in race to the wire

Big suprise. Bill Lucas beats Dick Chrysler to become the GOP nominee for governor.

The two giants battling it out in the end weren't Chrysler and Lucas but advertising bucks vs. newspaper stories. Newspaper stories won.

Newspaper stories usually do.

It explains why there is an army of public relations people who actually make a living trying to get favorable stories about people, places and things into newspapers. There may be more of these kind of people than advertising people who buy space to try to impart favorable messages.

OF COURSE, newspaper stories had the advantage of containing all kinds of facts that advertising never bothers with.

Like, Dick Chrysler's rags-to-riches, self-made-man image being more than slightly flawed by his apparent sanction of a scheme to use the Michigan unemployment compensation system to bail out his Cars and Concept Co. Like his refusal for a long time to have his company pay a certain amount of state taxes.

The thing that people who like Dick Chrysler wonder is, what did the newspapers know and when did they know it?

Was there a blatant attempt to influence the election by unloading an expose during the last days of the campaign? The thing that makes people wonder is that it's happened before.

U.S. Sen. Don Riegle was running for Senate in 1976 when one of the downtown papers published several stories about Riegle's apparent affair with an office worker. The paper, or at least one of its reporters, had gotten hold of revealing tape recordings, portions of which were published a few days before the election.

THE VOTERS must have ignored the sensational expose, or perhaps were appalled by the nature of the expose, because they elected Riegle to office and put longtime Republican standard-bearer Marv Esh into private life with only his officeholder's slush fund to keep him company.

Apparently no backlash this time. What could be the moral? A politician's private life should remain private, but a businessman's business life has a bearing on whether you will vote for him to lead the government?

Who knows? One GOP sage noted succinctly in the midst of the turmoil, "The voters are very selective about the issues over which they will punish politicians."

But I've read the accounts of how the Chrysler scoop was uncovered and am inclined to believe those who say the timing just worked out that way. The story was printed only after it was nailed down. As was only fair, the man was given the opportunity to reply many days prior to the election.

THE FACT that Chrysler replied in mumbo-jumbo is his fault and helped cost him the election.

Now that Chrysler is an ex-candidate, perhaps Gov. Blanchard can offer him a package — $300 a week in unemployment compensation plus a full-time paid job to help carry the state through a crisis. Just kidding folks, don't write letters.

Well, the contest is over and we won't have Dick Chrysler to kick around any more. A politician who has lost an election fades faster than cheap upholstery left in the sun too long. Except for Richard Nixon who has more political lives than a cat, that is.

It may make for a duller election campaign. Lucas vs. Blanchard. Doesn't seem quite as lively as Chrysler vs. Blanchard. But it really doesn't matter much. Blanchard is riding a wave of popularity which has been cresting for a couple of years now.

In November, Lucas can start looking over the list of federal appointments to see which one suits his tastes. The GOP will owe him that much and he still is a heck of a talker who will be able to do the Reagan administration proud over the next couple of years.

Plugged into the future

Tim Richard

AS 1984 dawned, they brought author Alvin ("Future Shock") Toffler to Schoolcraft College to talk about the future, which is where most of us will spend the remainder of our lives.

Toffler said the world of 1984 didn't turn out the way George Orwell had predicted in 1948, with massive cities, three supercountries and ant-like people scurrying to monumental work places.

He said many of us would work flexible shifts, work at home and transmit our work to an office by telephone.

Sure, Al, sure, I snickered to myself. Heh, heh, heh.

TWO YEARS LATER I'm doing it.

The electronic umbilical cord linking me to the mother office is a Tandy 200 portable computer.

The sports guys began using them first. They could go to a tournament game on a Saturday night, write some of the action stuff while the game was in progress, interview the coach for a reaction and transmit it in minutes.

I take one to the State Capitol when I cover our local heroes in the Legislature. This writing machine is 12 inches long, nine wide and two inches deep, plus two cups which slip over a standard telephone mouthpiece and earpiece.

With those measurements, you can see, it fits into a briefcase with room left over for my social services file, a lunch and a notepad. Talk about mobility.

And as Alvin Toffler predicted, I also can write at home from the comfort of my maple desk, my early American chair and my underwear. No dress code here in the den.

I LEARNED this business on daily papers, where I covered more than one industrial strike by phoning in a story to the city desk.

That system requires 1) a reporter who can mentally see a paragraph and dictate it, 2) a rewrite person who is compatible and can slip in necessary background without asking a lot of fool delaying questions and 3) a fast Linotype operator to get the story into type.

I covered the 1968 Republican convention from Miami Beach and the '80 Democratic convention from New York that way. It can be done.

The new system is better. The writing machine is portable. I see exactly what I'm doing. The telephone call is briefer because it takes only five minutes to transmit 12 column inches. The copy desk concentrates on reading the story without having to retype it. The shop pastes it on a page, again without having to retype.

ONE WEDNESDAY about 1 p.m., I was in the Capitol press room finishing a story on the morning Senate session when press room manager Wes Thorp brought through a touring group of junior high kids.

"Where you from?" I asked, finishing my salami sandwich and dialing a call to the computer in the central office.

"West Bloomfield," one kid answered. "Great. Look," I said, pointing to the 4-by-7-inch computer screen with a story about their local lawmaker.

I don't know whether the kids were awed into silence by the sight of someone dialing 18 inches of deathless prose about their hometown senator into a newspaper computer, or whether they were so used to electronics that they're blasé.

I'm still awed by this machine. The future is in front of me, and it weighs about three pounds.

We need to tell our story

YOU KNOW, I gotta tell you folks, we're selling ourselves short — or maybe it's telling ourselves short. Honest, we are.

Take all this talk about how to attract business to Michigan, for instance. You hear a lot of that talk just about any place you go these days.

Naturally, you hear all the excuses — workmen's comp, high taxes, high wages. Good excuses, for sure. But excuses nevertheless.

But when talking about other states, people never seem to mention tax rates or wages. They mention location. The other day during a luncheon the talk turned to a query on why charge card companies always have their offices in some exotic location — Colorado, North Dakota or some place in the sunbelt.

You see, places gain reputations — many times undeserved. Some gain a reputation for being an exotic locale or fun or beautiful. You name the adjective and you'll find some other place than Michigan with it.

And in large part, that's why businesses move where they do. Sure, sure, wages and taxes play their part. But you'd have a pretty tough time convincing me that people would stop moving to the fastest growing and sunniest state, Florida, because wages increased. DON'T BET on it.

Now, if somehow the world twisted on its axis and Florida lost its sunshine,

that would be a reason for people and business to leave. But never wages or taxes.

People love to live in what they consider beautiful locations. And business executives who make the decisions where a corporation is going to move are no different than you or I. Hence — the sunbelt and Colorado and Seattle grew and prospered.

Of course, many of those places are beginning to lose their luster. The grass really does get a little brown on the other side of the fence — after you hop the fence, that is.

But some states have done a great job at marketing their assets. We haven't.

It's that short and simple — we have done a bad job at letting people know just how beautiful it is to live in this state.

Time and again I hear someone who was transferred to Michigan say how they dreaded it. And every time I hear those same folks express pleasure at what they found when they got here. Frankly, Michigan is a very beautiful and diverse state. But hardly anyone outside of Michigan knows about it. They are unaware of the thousands of beautiful lakes, the availability of fine housing, the challenging golf courses, the wonderful ski slopes, the mountains in northern Michigan.

WAIT, WHAT'S that you say — mountains? That's right, mountains. But you've got to pack through them to believe it. I have and their splend.

The list of amenities is endless — sailing, fishing, hunting, resorts, restaurants. You name it and Michigan has it to equal any state.

We just need to do a better job of telling our story. Let's vow to bug the heck out of the next guy elected governor to better promote the amenities of this state.

It only makes sense — economic sense.

Ole landlubber ponders the lure of sailing

THE ALLEGED romance of the sea never has sucked me into its grasp, and a sailor I'm not.

To me, the definition of a sailor per se goes beyond having paddled a canoe down the Au Sable, hitched a ride on some friend's cruiser at Algonac, rowed on an inland Michigan lake, fished from a charter boat on the Pacific or even ridden as an overnight passenger on one of the old D&C ships from Detroit to Buffalo.

It dawned on me not long ago, when the annual hysteria over the Port Huron to Mackinac race was at its peak, that to the best of my memory I've never even set foot on a sailboat. What's the lure? Besides partying, that is.

FROM BIRMINGHAM'S Hugh Ross, head of the Ross/Michigan Mortgage Co., and his son, Tim, I got some answers born of six tries in the Mackinac race and three decades of more casual sailing both here and in Florida. I can through bifocals

only conclude that when the bug bites, it doesn't let go.

The elder Ross replaced earlier pleasure craft seven years ago by buying a brand new California-made, white 35-foot sloop which he named the Odyssey and made the first run for Mackinac in '81.

A third place finish in its class - 17th overall - was duplicated in 1985 and again last month, leading to a laughing comment, "We're in a terrible rut."

The crew of eight this year include Hugh as skipper plus Tim, Jared Finney, John Christman, Tracy Wagerson, Kevin Wagerson, Eric Plumhoff and Greg Leach.

"THE COMPETITIVENESS of the whole thing, the Challenge it presents, is the lure of this race," commented Hugh. "It's in the ability to take your boat and your crew and handle all that may arise, whether it be storms or calms.

"In this particular race we had only one storm. We didn't have a problem with that. Last year we were falling off of eight-foot seas. This was easy compared to '85.

"We lost no time in the squall, but we also picked up a lot of time in a calm. There's a challenge there, too.

"We weren't scared last year, even though it was so rough, because we knew what the boat would take. But the second year we raced the conditions were just terrible. There were high winds and I was scared to death. I never had been out in weather like that.

"After you've done it a few years and have been through lightning storms and winds up to 40 or 50 and know you can do it, know the boat can take it and that your crew all know what they're doing, then you're still concerned but you're not scared."

Tim reminded his dad that on the second night out from Port Huron, after rounding Cove Island at the northeast corner of Lake Huron, the Odyssey's electronic system malfunctioned.

The Ross crew sailed through the night trusting a flashlight for compass readings and not sure of position relative to other boats until dawn.

But even this they took in stride. After all, they did get where they wanted to go. That's more than I can say for some friends who once lost their bearings and instead of docking at their Mackinac Island target wound up in Saginaw Bay.

THE ROSS family belongs to the Grosse Pointe Sail Club and throughout the warm weather regatta season are on the water weekends. Tim, who is in his early 30s, says of this competition, "The real sailors are the ones that win on a consistent basis in around-the-bouy racing on Saturdays, sponsored by the different clubs.

"Last year we won the spring and summer and for the season over-all in our class. That was particularly satisfying. That kind of consistent performance over a whole season means more than Mackinac, even though it doesn't to the general public. Around-the-bouy racing is more representative of the kind of sailors they are."

Gentlemen, literally and figuratively, "Fair weather to your heels. . . may the wind be ever at your back."

● HOST FAMILIES WANTED

Host families are desperately needed for several European exchange students who will arrive here in late August. These 16-18-year-old Dutch, Spanish and German young men speak English, have spending money and are covered by medical insurance. They are sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation, a tax-exempt educational association that is certified to place exchange students at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park. For more information, contact the local coordinator, Kennon Griffing, at 459-8049.

● SUMMER FUN

"Summer Fun" is the theme for the special exhibits in the Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main, now through Sept. 7. The exhibit includes a sea shell collection from around the world, fishing equipment from the 1920s, Coca-Cola items, such as an 1895 urn used for Coke syrup, trays used during the 1920s and 1930s depicting clothes and important events of those years, Santa memorabilia and other items. Plymouth Historical Museum is open to the public 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Admission charged.

● HELPING ADULTS READ

Plymouth-Canton Community Education can help adults read. For more information about Adult Basic Education, call 451-6555 or 451-6660. Open enrollment. Students can begin classes at any time.

● SPECIAL EDUCATION SERVICES

Preprimary special education services for children 6 and younger are available through Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. If you have a child who may be mentally or emotionally impaired, has a physical or visual disability, a hearing or speech impairment or learning disability, call the Infant and Preschool Special Education Program at Farrand Elementary School, 451-6610, for information.

● HEAD START RECRUITING

Plymouth-Canton Head Start is recruiting children for the 1986-87 school year. The program is sponsored by the school district and the federal government at no charge. Children must be 3 or 4 years old on or before Dec. 1, 1986, and income eligible. The program is at Central Middle School.

Four-year-olds attend morning classes four days a week and a limited number will be served in a Home Visit program. Breakfast and lunch are served each day and bus transportation is provided on an established route.

Three-year-olds can qualify in a special-need category to be part of a Home Visit program in which visits are made to the home one day a week.

Income status involves receiving public assistance or having an annual income of no more than $11,000 for a family of four. Students also may be eligible if they are a foster child or can qualify in a handicapped category. Those interested may call 451-6656.

● PLUS PRESCHOOL REGISTRATION

Pre-registrations are being accepted for enrollment of 4-year-olds in the free PLUS preschool program offered by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Children must be 4 on or before Dec. 1, 1986, to attend classes in the fall of 1986.

Two half-day sessions are offered - one with a parent attending a concurrent parent education class. Many joint parent/child activities are planned. Children's activities are planned as readiness for their school's kindergarten program.

PLUS is sponsored by the school district and is financed by a federal grant. Children must live in the attendance areas of Gallimore, Field, Farrand, Eriksson and Tanger elementary schools. Classes are held at Central Middle School. Registration may be made at local elementary schools.

More information and phone registration may be made by calling PLUS at 451-6656.

● PRESCHOOL KREATIVES

The Plymouth Community Family YMCA is offering its preschool Kreatives program for ages 3-5 from 10 a.m. to noon weekdays in six sessions through the week of Aug. 19 at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. Kreatives is a preschool class to foster creativity through art, crafts, music, and games. Children are to wear play clothes. For information or reservations, call 453-2904.

● CANTON CRICKETS

Canton Crickets, a Canton preschool for 3- and 4-year-olds, will run July 8 through Aug. 11 at the Canton Township Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. Sessions will be 9:30-11:30 a.m. or 1-3 p.m. Tuesdays or 9:30-11:30 and 1-3 Thursdays. Activities include crafts, low-organized games, story time, special events and snack time. For information, call Canton Recreation at 397-1000.

● NEW MORNING OPENINGS

New Morning Schol, 14501 Haggerty, Plymouth Township, has a few openings left for the fall of 1986 in the Monday-Wednesday Preschool, early primary, elementary, and middle school. For information call 420-3331 between 9 a.m. and noon.

● NEW HORIZONS DAY CARE

A day-care center, New Horizons for Children, is being operated in Plymouth by the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene. The day care center, for children age 18 months to 4 years old, is on Ann Arbor Road west of Sheldon Road and east of Pioneer Middle School. For information, call Debbie Brown, director, at 455-3196.

● RAINBOW CHILD CARE

The Friendly Rainbow Child Care & Learning Center is accepting registration for fall sessions. Classes are available for children ages 2 1/2 to 12. The center, 42290 Five Mile at Bradner in Plymouth, provides child care, preschool experiences, drop-in and after-school programs. Experiences are varied according to age and ability. For information, call Markita Gottschalk or Janet Mason at 420-0495 and 420-0489.

● EMERGENCY VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

The Plymouth Township Office of Emergency Preparedness needs volunteers to be trained in skills that will be used during an emergency or disaster. Training includes damage assessment, shelter management, first aid, emergency operating center support, and service weather spotting.

Training meetings are held from 9 a.m. to noon on the fourth Saturday of each month in Plymouth Township Hall at Ann Arbor Road and Mill. Township residency is not required. All training is free.

Waxwings feast on cherries

By Timothy Nowicki
special writer

GENERALLY during August and September, I keep an eye on our black cherry tree in the backyard, awaiting the arrival of invading cedar waxwings. The juicy cherries become ripe, providing a feast for the waxwings.

This year, however, there are no fruits for them to feed on. Earlier this spring, we had severe frosts that struck at the time our black cherry was flowering.

Within a couple of days, the ground beneath the tree was white with the petals and flower parts that had succumbed to the cold.

NORMALLY, CEDAR waxwings, which usually travel in flocks, descend on our tree, devour the berries within a couple of days and then depart for another tree.

As the seeds pass through their digestive system, we see purple stains on the cement marking their travels. It's not a very good time to leave your car exposed to their bombardment.

Black cherry trees are easy to identify in the woods. They have very black bark which resembles burnt potato chips glued to the trunk.

If you scrape some bark from a small twig, you will be able to smell the bitter odor of hydrocyanic acid.

nature

Though the leaves and twigs are poisonous to browsing cattle, in the 1950s and '60s extracts from the bark were used in cough medicines, expectorants and for sore throats. In the old days, mountaineers were known to add juice from the berries to their rum or brandy to create a drink known as a cherry bounce.

BLACK CHERRY trees are best known for their fine wood.

In colonial days, fine furniture was created with this smooth grained wood. When finished, it has a rich brown color that rivals black walnut. It does not shrink much when curing and does not warp after it has cured.

Woodland trees, competing for the sunlight high above, grow tall and straight without any branches to form knots in the wood.

Increased demand for furniture wood through the years drastically reduced the number of trees and thus its economic importance. Today, black cherry trees can be seen growing in woodlands at our Huron-Clinton metroparks and at Maybury State Park in Northville Township.

Black cherries make fine dining for cedar waxwings

Pets of the Week

Snowy, a 1-year-old male poodle, and Mr. Spock, a 9-week-old male kitten, are available for adoption at the Westland Kindness Center. The white-colored poodle has short, curly fur and has received his shots. Mr. Spock is housebroken, and is good with children and other animals. Located at 37255 Marquette, the Westland center can be reached by calling 721-7300.

1,500 dogs are gathering for show

Some 1,500 dogs, representing 121 breeds and varieties recognized by the American Kennel Club, will be put through their competitive paces Sunday, Aug. 17, at the Highland Lakes Campus of Oakland Community College, 7350 Cooley Lake Road, Union Lake.

The occasion is the annual summer dog show and obedience trial of the Pontiac Kennel Club.

"We have an outstanding entry of dogs in this show," said Saul Waldman, chairman. "Nearly one of every five of the dogs has earned its championship or obedience title according to AKC standards, which should give us some excellent competition."

ADMISSION is free to the all-day event. There is plenty of parking space available on the site at $2 per car. Food and pet subevidence classes begins at 9 a.m. Judging will run continuously in 13 rings until the best in show dog is finally selected shortly before 6 p.m. by John H. Cook of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

During the intervening nine hours, an international panel of 12 AKC-licensed breed judges, three sweepstakes judges and three licensed obedience judges will gradually narrow the field.

In the semi-finals will be winners of the 121 breeds and varieties competing in seven different variety groups. The seven group winners then compete for the grand prize — best of show.

HEADING THE parade of dogs are Gordon setters with 98, plus 40 in sweepstakes, an informal event in which young dogs compete for cash prizes for their owners.

Next most numerous are the Alaskan malamutes, with 53 plus 13 in sweepstakes; followed by Dachshunds, 45; Doberman pinschers, 43; Basset hounds, 39 plus 15 in sweepstakes; and German shepherds, and cocker spaniels, 34 each.

The 18 judges will come to the area from as far away as New Jersey, Massachusetts, Nevada and Florida. One judge, John Bower, who will judge Skye terriers, lives in Cheshire, England.

Information on the judging time of each breed can be obtained by calling Pontiac Kennel Club at 682-4179.

Officer Bob Scoggins of the Plymouth Police Department talks to the preschoolers about riding a bike safely and crossing streets with

offered locally by Plymouth-Canton Community Education at Central Middle School.

Safety

Program makes learning fun

By Julie Brown
staff writer

LEARNING ABOUT safety doesn't have to be all work and no play.

The Safety Town program, offered locally by Plymouth-Canton Community Education, teaches the basics of safety to preschoolers. The youngsters have fun with games, songs, stories and filmstrips while they learn.

"It's quite a comprehensive program in terms of safety in general," said Larry Masteller, director of Plymouth-Canton Community Education, a service of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The preschoolers meet at Central Middle School in Plymouth, where part of their time is spent riding Big Wheels through the miniature town. The town includes pavement markings, traffic signs, a traffic light and buildings — all designed to help Plymouth-Canton youngsters learn the rules of the road.

The program is for preschoolers, generally 4 or 5 years old, who will be starting school in the fall. The Plymouth-Canton program can accommodate approximately 320 youngsters throughout the summer, with four consecutive sessions held.

Each session lasts for nine days of two hours per day. Separate sessions are held during the morning and afternoon hours, making it possible to include more youngsters.

Nancy Thierbach, a first grade teacher at Fiegel Elementary School in Plymouth Township, is Safety Town's lead teacher this summer. She has a staff of nine aides to help out. The student aides are assigned to a small group of preschoolers and work with the youngsters.

A NUMBER of different safety areas are covered during the program, Thierbach said.

The traffic safety instruction outdoors in the miniature town includes skills needed as a pedestrian and as a rider of a bicycle or tricycle. Youngsters also learn how to be safe as passengers in vehicles — including remembering to buckle their seat belts.

Safety concerns involving water, poisons, electricity, the playground and other areas are also covered in the Safety Town program.

"We spend about a day and a half on fire safety because we feel it's quite important," Thierbach said.

That instruction includes learning how to prevent fires and what to do if a fire does break out.

The youngsters also take home a safety report, designed to help them look for potential "hot spots" where a fire could occur.

The Safety Town program is aided by the efforts of local police officers and firefighters, who share their expertise in a variety of areas with the preschoolers.

"We have a police officer come and talk to the children about strangers," she said.

The youngsters also learn their addresses and telephone numbers, in case they have to report a fire or other emergency.

THE LOCAL program has been popular with Plymouth-Canton families, Masteller and Thierbach agree.

"It's a well-known and well-received program," Masteller said. A special registration night is held for the Safety Town program.

"There are a lot of children who cannot come because we just don't have the room for it," Thierbach said.

This year's program at Central Middle School began June 16 and will end this week. The Safety Town program has been offered locally since the summer of 1977.

The program's beginnings in Plymouth-Canton were the outcome of months of planning by a committee that included Masteller, Bob DeCorte and Mary Papay.

"This all began in the early part of

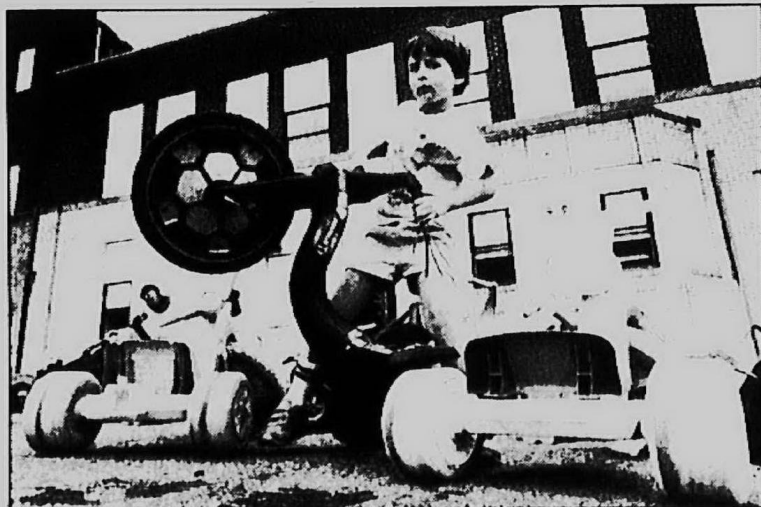

'77, during the winter," Masteller said. "It really became a community effort at that time."

The local organizers worked with a national Safety Town center in Cleveland, Ohio, in setting up the Plymouth-Canton program.

"Safety Town is not exclusively Community Education," Masteller said. The program is offered in other communities through the efforts of service organizations, parks and recreation departments or others.

Patrick Holland is ready to roll.

Patrick Sanders hauls his Big Wheel out of the parking area and hits the road.

The Safety Town youngsters learn how to cross safely at the crosswalks. The local program began June 16 this year and will end this week.

The course for Safety Town includes traffic signs and signals designed to help preschoolers learn the rules of the road.

Student pilots take to skies

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

"Flying's great" is a sentiment repeatedly echoed by student pilots of Jet Services Flight Training Center at Mettetal Airport in Canton.

The comment is usually stated with emotion, perhaps signaling it is just a matter of time before these flying enthusiasts pass from amateur status and earn pilot licenses.

Dave Nowak, 26, of Livonia is typical. He started flying lessons eight months ago, in the dead of winter. He expects to have his private license within the month.

Then he will be able to fly most anywhere he chooses in light aircraft for which he is qualified. He can take friends with him to help share in the cost of renting an airplane.

The only thing Nowak cannot do is fly for hire, according to Tom Klochko, one of five flight instructors at Jet-Services. A commercial license is required before pilots can sell their services.

But, according to Klochko, most of his students are flying for the love of it — an expensive hobby that many of those who are pursuing it have wanted to do for years.

It takes a minimum of 40 hours in the air to earn a private license but Federal Aviation Administration figures show the average student spends 71.4 hours in the air before taking the qualifying flight with an FAA inspector.

Jet-Services instructors figure on 64 hours. At their prices, $57 an hour with an instructor and $38 an hour without, it costs slightly more than $3,000 to obtain a private license. An instructor is required in the cockpit until a student completes a solo flight. This normally occurs some-

weddings and engagements

Albert-Tuggle

Roseann Tuggle of Northville and Capt. Reid Hays Albert of Fayetteville, N.C., were married July 5 at St. Paul Monastery Chapel. Deacon Dennis Scanland performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Jerry and Dolores Tuggle of Northville, and Henry and Nancy Albert of Plymouth.

The bride is a graduate of Ladywood High School, Livonia, and attended Oakland Community College. She was employed by General Motors and plans to return to school.

Her husband is a graduate of Plymouth High School and Central Michigan University. He is a captain in the U.S. Army Special Forces.

Lori Ann Nidzgorsk, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Katy Gladd, Eileen Kolido and Linda Roland.

Capt. Paul H. Albert, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The bridegroom's other attendants were Kirk Albert, Dan O'Neil and Rob Stevens.

For her wedding, the bride wore a Victorian-style gown. The gown and her headpiece were ornately decorated with pearls. The bride carried a dozen white roses.

A reception was held at Bonnie Brook Golf Club. The bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Zaino of Farmington Hills, celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary during the reception by renewing their wedding vows. The newlyweds served as attendants to the senior couple.

The wedding trip was to Bermuda. The couple will live in Fayetteville, N.C.

Meador-Longpre

Theresa J. Longpre of Ann Arbor and David L. Meador of Canton were married May 31 at St. Joseph Catholic Church in St. Joseph. The Rev. Eugene Sears performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are T. Gregory Longpre of Stevensville, Mich., and the late Carol Longpre and Paul and Dolores Meador of Canton.

The bride is a graduate of Coloma High School and Central Michigan University. She is employed as a psychiatric technician at W.A. Foote Memorial Hospital in Jackson.

Her husband graduated from Plymouth Canton High School and attended Central Michigan University. He is employed by Embest Inc. in Livonia.

Sheila Miller was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Sandi Bittner, Lynn Rudell and Mary Anne Kittridge.

Michael Misteravich was the best man. The ushers were Greg Longpre, Troy Longpre and Daniel Meador.

A reception was held at the Captains Table Restaurant in Benton Harbor. The wedding trip was to the Pocono Mountains and Niagara Falls.

The couple will live in Ann Arbor.

Hunt-Stein

Kathleen Frances Stein and William Alfred Hunt Jr. were married June 7 at St. James Episcopal Church in Dexter. The Rev. Harry Shaefer performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Harold and Dorothy Stein of Plymouth and William and Mary Hunt of Simsbury, Conn.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth Salem High School and the University of Michigan. She earned a master's degree and candidacy for a doctorate in art history at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Western Reserve Academy, Wesleyan University in Connecticut and received his doctorate from Harvard University. He is a history professor at St. Lawrence University in New York.

Sherri Hatfield, the bride's cousin, was the matron of honor. William Blakemore of New York City was the best man.

Crowder-Strauss

Jacqueline Kay Strauss of Canton and Timothy Stewart Crowder of Plymouth were married June 14 at the First Baptist Church of Wayne. The Rev. Jeff Bemserderfer performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. David Strauss of Canton and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crowder of Plymouth.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School. She also attended Central Michigan University and Schoolcraft College. She is employed as a medical receptionist in a doctor's office in Wayne.

Her husband is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School. He is attending the University of Michigan-Dearborn and is employed by Foodland Warehouse in Livonia.

Debbie Tidwell, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Lisa Lyons, Sandy Connert, Kristen Fisher and Jodi Lepi.

Tom Crowder, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The groomsmen were Toph Crowder, brother of the bridegroom, Tim Strauss, brother of the bride, Mike Lepi and Stan Grieb.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of white organza with a beaded yoke and collar. The gown featured a silk bodice with basque waist, Victorian sleeves, and a circular flounced semi-cathedral train. She carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses and miniature carnations with baby's breath and lace ribbon streamers.

A reception was held at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. The wedding trip was to Virginia Beach.

The couple will live in Westland.

Hoedel-Wojtas

Raymond and Beverly Hoedel of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah K. Hoedel of East Lansing, to Jon C. Wojtas, son of John and Mary Wojtas of Dearborn Heights.

The bride-elect is studying merchandising management at Michigan State University and will graduate next June. She is employed by the university in data entry at the Administration Building.

Her fiancé is a student at Michigan State University, where he is studying horticulture, nursery and landscape management. He will graduate in March of 1987. He is serving an internship at the Plymouth Nursery as a landscape foreman.

A late June 1987 wedding is

Gibson-Heedum

time after 12 to 18 hours of flying experience.

COST IS ONE reason why Nowak waited until now to start his lessons.

"I'm finally earning enough money to afford it," he said, citing an oft-told joke in flying circles. "You know what makes an aircraft fly? Money!"

It also is the reason Carol Osterman, 31, of Canton waited until last year to begin lessons she had yearned to take for 15 years since "a friend took me flying when I was a teenager."

"I always wanted to fly but there were babies and no cash. Last year the kids were old enough and the cash was there so I'm doing it."

Osterman said she also is "pushing" both her sons to be future pilots.

After earning a private license, and with 125 hours of logged flying time, a pilot can earn an instrument rating that permits flying in bad weather.

Mary Ann Monosky, 28, of Northville, who has been "flying all my life as a passenger with my father," is now working on her instrument rating. She is learning to fly the aircraft using no visual references other than the craft's instruments.

On clear days she wears a hood that restricts vision to these instruments.

AN INSTRUMENT rating is mandatory for flying on cloudy winter days but, contrary to popular notion, Klochko said winter flying is as safe, if not safer, than at other times of the year.

"Cool, dense air is conducive to flying."

Klochko also said new students frequently express fear about flying. "Once they understand what keeps an aircraft up, once they understand the principles of flight, they're OK."

It takes 250 hours of logged flight time to earn a commercial license and the next step is earning instructor ratings. Klochko said students seeking employment in the aviation industry frequently earn instructor ratings because "it's the only way you can afford to log lots of flying hours."

According to statistics maintained by the Future Airline Pilots of America, new pilots have a minimum of 2,800 flying hours at the time of hire by commercial airlines.

Those same statistics indicate 85 percent of new hires have private flying experience only. The remainder are military pilots. The average age at the time of hire is 27.

This is good news for Rick Harmon, 25, of Canton. Harmon is a station agent for Republic Airlines and is after a flying job with a commercial airline. He started flying a mere two months ago and expects to complete his private license this month.

"I'm flying every day," and whether he ultimately lands a commercial airline job depends, Harmon said, upon whether he can afford the advanced training.

But the majority of students at Jet Services are like Monosky, taking lessons for the "sheer enjoyment and pleasure of it." They are earning one license at a time and then "taking it from there."

weddings and engagements

Hargrove-Box

Ronald and Patricia Hargrove of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Angela Marie Hargrove, to Tracy Bryan Box of Westland, son of Billy and Peggy Sue Box of Cleburne, Texas.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, Berean Bible College and Plymouth-Canton School of Hair Design Inc.

Her fiancé attends Berean Bible College and is employed at Automotive Appliance Co.

A September wedding is planned at Westland Full Gospel Church.

Burke-Pascoe

Donald E. and Gail F. Burke of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Sheryl Lea Burke, to Richard William Pascoe of Westland.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Central Lake High School in Central Lake, Mich. She is employed at Eskay Business Systems Inc. in Plymouth.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Pershing High School in Detroit and is employed at General Motors Corp. in Westland.

A late September wedding is planned at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

How to submit news items to newspaper

News of clubs, service organizations, engagements, weddings and wedding anniversaries are printed free in the Suburban Life section of the Plymouth Observer and Canton Observer newspapers.

News items may be dropped off or mailed to the office at 489 S. Main St., Plymouth 48170. Special forms are available for club news, engagements, weddings and 50th wedding anniversary announcements.

Black and white pictures are preferred as they reproduce more clearly than color photographs. A self-addressed, stamped envelope assures return of the pictures, or, they can be picked up at the office a week after they have been published. Mail should be addressed to the attention of Julie Brown, Suburban Life editor.

Activities of more major scope than regular club meetings may warrant more extensive coverage and a photograph. Call the newspaper, 459-2700, at least a week in advance of the event to permit scheduling a photograph.

Other events, planned in advance, should be announced a week or so before the actual date.

ORDINANCE NO. 86-5

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHAPTER 110-ANIMALS, SECTION PERTAINING TO DOGS, OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN.

Section 1. Section 9.116 and 9.117 of Chapter 110 of the Plymouth City Code is hereby added to read as follows:

Section 9.116. YARD CLEANLINESS. Yards and exercise dog runs shall be kept free of dog droppings, uneaten food, and maintained in a sanitary manner so as not to be a nuisance because of odor or attraction for flies and vermin.

Section 9.117. INJURY TO PROPERTY: WASTE PRODUCTS.

A. No person owning or possessing a dog shall permit the dog to break, tear up, crush or injure any lawn, flower bed, plant, shrub, tree, garden, or any other property, public or private, not owned or possessed by such person, in any manner whatsoever, without the permission of the owner of said property.

B. No person owning or possessing a dog shall cause or permit the dog to soil or defecate on property, public or private, not owned or possessed by such person unless such person shall immediately remove all droppings deposited by the dog by any sanitary method of his choice and transport those droppings within an appropriate container to a receptacle located on property owned or possessed by such person. The person shall possess the proper equipment to perform the required removal and shall display the equipment if requested by any official empowered to enforce this ordinance. This subsection shall not apply to a person who is visually or physically handicapped.

Section 2. This ordinance shall become operative and effective on the 8th day of August, 1986.

Made, passed, and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, this 4th day of August, 1986.

New church goes its own way

The Rev. Ray Babula, his wife, Gail, and daughter Leanne, 4, pose before Babula's new church.

THE REV. Ray Babula expects people to get 100 percent return from his new church in Redford.

And the Garden City minister isn't talking in terms of financial gain either. Babula, a recent graduate of Word of Faith Bible Institute in Dallas, wants people to get 100 percent of the Bible and its teachings when they come to the Redford Christian Full Gospel Church.

Babula believes wholeheartedly in strictly adhering to the Bible, which would seem obvious to most. Babula, though, doesn't think that's the case at every church.

This is the primary reason, Babula said, his fledgling church is non-denominational.

"INSTEAD OF following the Bible, they make their own rules," Babula said of some churches. "A lot of people are turned off by that. They want a personal relationship with God."

"I believe in these times, God doesn't want division between the denominations."

Babula is quick to point out that he's not against denominations but the walls they erect. He believes they've become distorted as man has added his theology to them, instead of God's.

Babula, with the full gospel approach to teaching the Bible, hopes to win people over to Jesus. He said the Bible allows for repentance in all matters, and people shouldn't be excluded because of past wrongs.

There's no deviation from the full gospel teaching, according to Babula. It's that type of commitment which Babula believes will ultimately help the church establish itself.

The Redford location, Plymouth and Six Mile roads four blocks east of Inkster Road, should help also.

"I had a strong calling for Redford," Babula said. "I've went door-to-door in some of the neighborhoods. I see a lot of people hurting spiritually in Redford."

Babula plans to have different ministries within the church. One objective would be to help feed and clothe the poor, along with working with prisoners.

OTHER MATTERS of importance include building or finding a permanent site in Redford where the church could expand. Babula, with the hope that the church grows quickly, thinks that could be accomplished in eight months to a year.

Currently, the church is renting Redford Metro Hall for its Sunday services.

Before that, though, there's the matter of getting the word out about the new church. Babula, with the help of friends, has flyers going out. There's also the possibility of using a cable television access channel.

"I can't say we've had any major problems," Babula said. "It's establishing it. It takes time to get rolling."

It hasn't taken much time for Babula to get involved with the ministry. He started five years ago and worked in various churches and at the Huron Valley Correctional Facility, working with prisoners.

Adults' inconsistency confuses youth

TEACHING MORAL values to children has its difficulties on more than one front. For one thing little ones are naturally guided by an, "If it feels good do it; and if it's convenient go for it," kind of thinking. Such a mode of behavior coupled with their basic "me first" approach to life is, however, only one of the difficulties facing those who would attempt to impart values to the young.

The other difficulty stems from our own making. It has to do with the myth that effective teaching can be done from a "Don't do what I do; do what I say," stance. Children of whatever age have far too much exposure to information today to be untouched by a lack of consistency in the collective or individual actions of their adult teachers.

On a national level we are once more in the process of confusing the minds we wish to influence. That in itself would be bad enough but the sad fact is we give even more ammunition to a generation which laughs at the hypocrisy of those who preach to them.

Even the many blacks whose blood has not yet been spilled are dying other kinds of death every day. They watch their own children systematically and institutionally denied the dignity which they know in their hearts belongs to humankind. These same victims hear tell of an America which stands for such dignity, a nation which will not stand for its denial.

And yet this same great nation is content to substitute rhetoric for action when it is invited to respond. This would in itself be tragic enough, but this same nation is not only willing to impose economic sanctions on the government of Nicaragua it is willing to buy weapons and fuel the situation. This is all done in the name of freedom. We must defend freedom in Central America. But we are willing to settle for empty speeches on behalf of the blacks in South Africa.

How does one explain to a 12-year old that human dignity has a different price tag in South Africa than in Nicaragua? How does one convince a child who watches television news

moral perspectives

that we the people of right believe an ounce of what we say is so important? How does one explain to any age that although it is wrong to kill and torture human beings anywhere it is more wrong in some places than in others? If Communists are the guilty party then we go get them. If, on the other hand, it serves our economic interests to settle for a speech then let's give a speech.

Perhaps there was a day when children were sheltered enough that adults could act in such inconsistent and ridiculous ways without losing their credibility. But even if that day ever did exist it has long since passed into the pages of history.

Today's child is light years ahead of where we were then in terms of exposure. They do hear and they see. They judge and they file. When they hear us speak today they replay what they heard us say yesterday. When they hear us pronounce policies, private or public, they match our consistency of action with our dogmatic decrees. And, right or wrong, they draw their own conclusions.

And even if they do as we say it maybe for no other reason than that they have learned the real message of our lesson — that is to say that one should say the right things and then act in a way that gets them what they want. And if that is the case then who will tomorrow's victims be.

Jewish day of mourning recalls 1950s tragedy

The Jewish day of mourning, Tisha B'Av, will begin at sundown Wednesday, Aug. 13, and last through Thursday, Aug. 14.

The mourning period is to commemorate the "Night of the Murdered Poets," which occurred Aug. 12, 1953, when 24 leading Yiddish writers, poets and actors were executed by Soviet authorities.

Mourning rites are similar to those observed in case of a death of a Jew. In fact, they are carried out by traditional Jews. Beginning with the first day of the month of Av, nine days of intense identification with the tragedy are observed by traditional Jews.

Meat is not eaten for the nine days in memory of the extreme sufferings. There's a complete abstinence from food or drink. Bathing is strictly forbidden.

Shoes made of leather are not to be worn and perfume or oil is not to be used. Among traditional Jews, it is customary to abstain from work.

Collegians favor GOP over porn

America's future leaders and consumers are more conservative in their attitudes about a wide range of subjects than the preceding generation.

Results of the most penetrating survey of college student attitudes ever undertaken were released by Simmons Market Research Bureau for the College Stores Research & Educational Foundation.

It is an in-depth look at an important force in American society — 12.5 million students with $20 billion in annual discretionary spending.

GARIS F. DISTELHORST, executive director of the National Association of College Stores (NACS), said NACS commissioned the study. NACS is a trade association with more than 2,700 college store members in the U.S. and abroad.

Based on responses from 4,349 randomly selected students who answered a 29-page questionnaire, this picture of general attitudes emerged from America's college and university campuses.

- Sex — 56 percent think sex before marriage is always or sometimes wrong, while 95 percent believe sex outside marriage is always or sometimes wrong.

- Smoking — 79 percent agree completely or somewhat that people in public places should only be allowed to smoke in designated areas, while 49 percent indicated they would not date someone who smokes.

- Drugs — 84 percent think cocaine and 62 percent believe marijuana are unwise or harmful. Only 10 percent say the same about alcohol.

- Death penalty — 73 percent favor it.

- Abortion — 70 percent agreed it should be legal, 28 percent illegal, and 2 percent had no opinion.

- Politics — 37 percent were Republicans, compared with 31 percent independents and only 28 percent Democrats. Half described themselves as "moderate" and 24 percent "conservatives."

- Voting — 69 percent said they were registered to vote, but only 49 percent said they voted in the last election.

- Women — 35 percent said the U.S. was ready for a female president, 32 percent disagreed and 30 percent had no opinion.

- Trust — 70 percent said they had little or no trust in politicians, 60 percent said they felt the same way about reporters, and 47 indicated they had little or no trust in government workers. Most trusted were doctors, scientists and professors.

- Pornography — 50 percent favored tougher laws to deal with pornography.

- Censorship — 44 percent agreed that in some situations, news should be censored.

- Worship — 26 percent said they attend religious services at least once a week and 51 percent at least once a month.

- Good jobs — 70 percent agreed somewhat that personality and appearance are at least as important as knowledge, 59 percent are completely or somewhat in accord with the statement that "it's not what you know, it's whom you know that helps you get ahead."

- Enterprise — 48 percent would rather work for themselves than for a large corporation, but only 15 percent agreed that the only way to make a lot of money is to start your own business.

- Credit cards — 56 percent of college students have and use bank credit cards.

- Possessions include — TV set, 78 percent, stereo system, 66 percent, computer, 17 percent.

Distelhorst said this college consumer survey, called Student Watch '86, will be an invaluable marketing tool for any company offering a product or service to the college market because it offers a better understanding of why students purchase various products and services.

Marygrove signing up

Fall term applications, both for admission and financial aid, are being accepted by Marygrove College, 8425 W. McNichols, northwest Detroit.

Hospital regulations: affecting patient care?

By Carolyn Smith
special writer

Hospital regulations are costly, time-consuming, archaic and inhibit institutions from providing modern health-care technology and other needed services.

That's one conclusion drawn by Donald Potter, president of the Southeast Michigan Hospital Council, a private, non-profit association in Southfield and an arm of the Michigan Hospital Association.

The 38-year-old Plymouth Township resident is especially critical of the state's certificate of need (CON) approval process. The 1978 state Public Health Code requires that any hospital's capital expense exceeding $150,000 be approved by the state Department of Public Health.

"It doesn't matter whether it's a new piece of equipment or windows to conserve energy. We're in a regulatory climate that has gotten worse because it's more bureaucratic and therefore more difficult to get things done," Potter said.

Council records show it took an average of 238 days to get through the CON approval process in 1983. But last year, the average jumped to more than a year.

This is how it works. The region's 70 hospitals first present a capital expense proposal to the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan. After review, that agency makes recommendations to the state health department, which, in turn, passes along its decision to the Governor's Statewide Health Coordinating Council for final approval. Local planning agencies and other hospitals not given certificate-of-need approvals may appeal state decisions.

POTTER CITES the case of the lithotripter, a machine capable of removing kidney stones without surgery. Approved by the Food and Drug Administration in 1983, local health planners later deemed the machine clinically safe.

The state health department and the coordinating council have said only three facilities may use the $1.8 million machine for patient care. Those receiving approval include William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids and a group composed of Hutzel, Harper and Grace hospitals in Detroit. But they won't be certified to use the machines until all appeals are completed.

"Because of that, nobody in Michigan is using the machine. So if you live here and want the (lithotomy) procedure done, you have to go to Toledo or Indianapolis," Potter said.

He added there were 10 applicants. Five of those rejected appealed to the state's Certificate of Need Board, which upheld the state's decision on July 29. Court appeals will be heard in Lansing by Circuit Judge James Kallman.

The University of Michigan Hospitals, Ann Arbor, and Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, originally purchased the machines for research and later had applied to use them for patient care.

"The state denied them both certificates of need," Potter said. "So there they sit."

POTTER STRESSED that he fails to see how the state approval process saves money.

"The health department spends 85 percent of its time reviewing 15 percent of the dollars — expenses under $700,000. We're looking at a $3.5 billion industry with 90,000 employees. And though 55 percent of the operating revenues come from the federal government, Michigan ranks 49 or 50 in getting dollars from Washington."

Especially troublesome, Potter said, is the state's inpatient care rate — now 67 percent of available beds, down from 80 percent five years ago. Some of that decrease, he acknowledges, is a result of the state's crack-down on hospitals with too many beds since the revised 1978 health code.

Issuance of certificates of need, he said, has depended on hospital compliance with bed reductions ordered by the state.

"It created a horse-trading scenario. Hospitals built fat into a CON application. The idea was to give up a few beds to get a new service," Potter said of some activities between 1979 and 1984.

THEN IN 1984, along came diagnostic related groups (DRGs) from the federal government, matching medical diagnoses with standard lengths of hospital stays. More beds remained empty, while the push for outpatient and other, less costly delivery systems gained ground.

Potter thinks hospitals should be able to "retool" like auto assembly plants.

"The auto industry has looked at future demands and made adjustments. Why can't hospitals? Many of them are in deep financial trouble."

He sees several alternative uses for extra hospital space. "Why not a hotel for families and friends of patients. A hospice for the terminally ill? A food service? A sub-acute care area for the elderly or the retarded? I see lots of uses for that space."

Hospitals, he added, should be able to compete for consumers like any other industry. He applauds the PPO (preferred provider organization) as a good example of how the health-care system can make itself both consumer-conscious and competitive.

The state's largest PPO, offered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, has some 6,700 physicians and more than 100 hospitals participating. These providers have agreed to accept less reimbursement than what's offered their colleagues in the traditional delivery system, saving about 15 percent on balance.

Meanwhile, health maintenance organizations offer a more limited number of hospitals and physicians, driving consumers in southeast Michigan to a broader list of providers, in tune with what they have become accustomed to getting.

"People in southeast Michigan have had a Cadillac ride," Potter said. "We have some of the best benefits in the country. But people have used hospitals way in excess of the national average, which is an annual 600 days per 1,000 population. In this region, we're using 1,000 to 1,100 days per 1,000 population, but HMOs are using only 400 days."

But last year, the average jumped to more than a year.

Another look at red tape

Raj Wiener, director of the bureau of health facilities for the state Department of Public Health, agrees with Donald Potter on some issues and disagrees with him on others. Her comments:

• "I'm in total agreement that the 1978 Public Health Code should be updated to increase the $150,000 (capital expense) threshold, at least to keep up with inflation. We're looking at national averages, and discussions are under way. Legislation should be introduced this fall."

• The CON process is too long, especially regarding the lithotripter technology. At the same time, we have to know how many (new-technology machines) there should be, where, and who should get them. We need that kind of control. Otherwise medical costs would soar.

• On Potter's ideas on new uses for excess hospital space, including hotel and food services, hospice and sub-acute care. "Those are not bad ideas at all, and I support their need. But hospitals have been told to reduce beds, and, instead of doing that, they keep coming up with ideas on how to use them for other services already provided in their (geographic) areas. Reimbursement from third-party payers (such as Blue Cross-Blue Shield, an HMO or a PPO, Medicare or Medicaid) depends on the number of beds. They (hospitals) really want to fill them."

• On the notion of free competition among hospitals. "PPOs (preferred provider organizations) are good, but they're fairly new, and the hospital system isn't mature enough to include competitive reimbursement. The system simply isn't ready for truly pure competition."

Some tax-reform year tax tips

An earlier "Practically Speaking" column item on taxes on the sale of homes did not include a tax break for homeowners over age 55 which allows a $125,000 tax-free profit. To qualify, you must have used the home as your principal residence three of the last five years before the sale. If the home is jointly owned by two spouses, only one need be 55 or over to receive the one-time exclusion.

But there are circumstances when the exclusion should not be used if it could be far more favorable when used on a subsequent sale. If you qualify and are about to be married and you and your intended spouse don't plan to live in either home, consider selling both homes before you marry. Each of you will be entitled to a full exclusion. Once you are married, you will jointly qualify for only one exclusion.

SPEAKING OF taxes, the CPA firm of Grey & Trepeck of Birmingham pass along these tax-reform year tax tips:

• If you're doing home improvements, pay for the materials yourself to get the itemized deduction for the sales tax on your materials expenditure. If you pay a carpenter or a contractor a fixed price that includes the materials, you lose your deduction. Proposed Senate legislation would end sales tax deductibility but probably not until 1987.

practically speaking

• Do a midyear cleanup around your home and donate those unwanted and outgrown items to some charitable organization. Get a receipt for your contributions.

• If you are owed money and it's beginning to look as though the obligation is worthless, take steps to formally collect the obligation. Your written evidence of attempts to collect will substantiate your bad debt deduction.

• Avoid paying tax penalties by making estimated tax payments. Those with income not subject to withholding are required to pay quarterly income taxes. Be sure you pay in the minimum required, usually 100 percent of last year's liability.

• With the likelihood of lower tax rates in 1987 and following years, deferring income is generally sound strategy. Try to get year-end bonuses delayed until January and delay receipt of interest, dividend and other income.

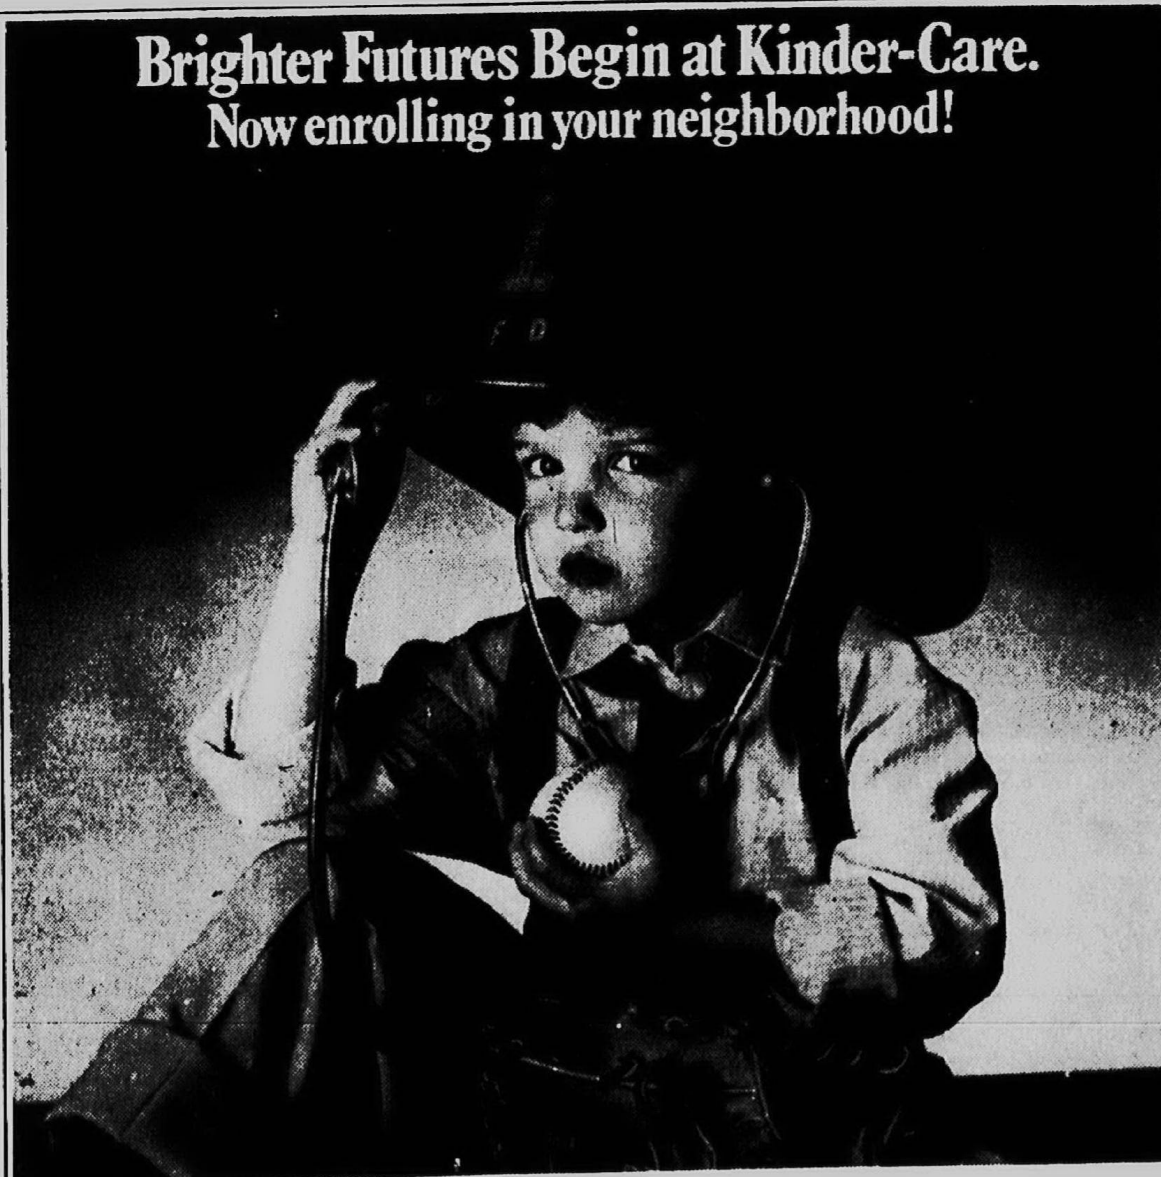

• Certain expenses are in danger of losing their tax-deductible status. But since anything can happen until the tax reform bill is signed into law, keep accurate records on all potential deductions — medical expenses, charitable contributions, employee business expenses, sales tax paid on large purchases, interest and taxes paid and miscellaneous deductions such as safe deposit box fee, tax advisor fees.

• If you receive a lump sum distribution from a qualified retirement plan in 1986, consider deferring taxation on the distribution by rolling some or all of it into an IRA or other qualified plan within 60 days. If you decided to keep the money and pay taxes on it, check to see if you qualify for 10-year averaging.

• If you are hoping to cut your 1986 income taxes by investing in tax shelters such as real estate, oil and gas, or other limited partnerships, hold off until tax reform legislation is passed. Most of the tax benefits from such arrangements are scheduled to be eliminated in proposals under consideration.

• If you're planning to do some charitable giving, give appreciated stock rather than cash. You'll get a charitable deduction for the market value of the stock without having to pay the tax on the appreciation that would be required if you sold the stock first and then gave the cash away.

When should you refinance your house?

In recent months, refinancing has accounted for a third of all mortgages. It's little wonder I'm constantly asked by my clients if they should refinance their mortgage now.

What's the attraction?

Say you financed your $60,000 mortgage when the rates were 12 percent. By refinancing it for $70,000 at 10 percent, you will have $10,000 in your pocket, and your monthly payments will remain the same.

If you are paying a mortgage rate of, say, 16 percent, by refinancing at, say, 9 percent, you can slash your monthly payments, put extra cash in your pocket, or build up equity at a faster rate.

Is it that good?

Not quite. For any refinancing to be attractive, it must meet the Two-Two test. Simply stated, refinancing will probably work if you have been in your house for at least two years, if your interest is at least two points over the current rate, and if you are considering living in your house for at least two more years.

Of course, meeting this test is a necessary but not a sufficient condition for total success in your refinancing effort.

Will the real cost stand up?

The mortgage rate quoted by a financial institution is, of course, very confusing. The accompanying chart shows that the total initial cost of re-

finances and you

financing can run into thousands of dollars, thereby wiping out part of the gain associated with refinancing.

Another way of looking at the real financing cost is to remember that a 10.875-percent mortgage rate may be equivalent to an annual percentage rate of 11.309 percent.

Pointers about points

The points tacked on to your initial cost (called loan discount) cannot be fully taken as an itemized deduction in the year they are paid. Instead, they must be amortized over the life of the mortgage.

This rule should be remembered in deciding if it is better to add points merely to reduce the fixed mortgage. An interesting way of looking at points is to think of them as an investment, not cost. That way, refinancing can be one of the best investments around. Here is why.

Say you pay three points, $3,000, to change your 30-year, 12 1/2-percent mortgage for a new one at 10 percent, lowering your monthly payment by $189, or $2,268 a year.

View the sum as a return on your investment. The rate of return will vary with your tax bracket and the length of time you hold the new mortgage, but it can be impressive.

If you are in the 50-percent bracket and hold the mortgage for three years (deducting the unamortized balance when you sell the house), your annual after-tax rate of return is 34 percent.

Under the proposed tax bill, where your bracket might be 27 percent, your rate of return will be 55 percent after three years, 64 percent after five years, and 66 percent after 10-30 years.

Educational Seminar: Main Topic "Impact of proposed legislation on your 1986 investment, tax and retirement planning." The seminar, sponsored by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning Inc. will be 7-9:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 11, at the Bloomfield Township Library, 1099 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

Sid Mittra is director of certificate program in personal finance at Oakland University and president of Coordinated Financial Planning Inc.

East all-stars prevail in spite of injuries

By Brad Emons
staff writer

There were a few anxious moments, but just about everybody left with a good feeling Saturday as the East seniors toppled the West, 24-17, in the sixth Michigan High School Coaches Association All-Star football game.

Members of the winning East team, made up of several area players, were embraced by family and friends shortly after the final gun had sounded at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

"Everybody was pretty much a team player," said Brian Smolinski of Farmington Harrison. "There were no individuals on this (East) team and everybody was nice."

The speedy 5-foot-10 receiver, who will play many more games on the Michigan State carpet, figured prominently in the victory.

He recovered a fumbled punt in the second quarter, setting up at 45-yard field goal by Utica Eisenhower's Kevin Nicholl, who set an All-Star Game record.

Smolinski also made two catches for 22 yards.

FOR CATHOLIC CENTRAL'S Dan Nash, a tackle headed for Stanford, it was an abbreviated afternoon of football.

Flying down the field on an unquarter kickoff, Nash took an unintentional forearm shiver from teammate Mike Bass of Lake Orion.

Nash slumped off the field holding his shoulder. X-rays later showed that a nerve in the big tackle's upper left arm had been slightly damaged, but the injury was not considered serious, said Dr. Warren Schildberg of Garden City. He's East's physician.

"It hurts when I lift my arm," said the 6-foot-4, 235-pound Nash. "My whole left side just went numb, but that first series we played was awesome. To score like that was just great."

Anchoring one side of the line, Nash and his East teammates took the opening kickoff and marched 82 yards in 15 plays, capped by fullback Dave Iafolla's (South Lyon) 5-yard run touchdown run.

TONY BOLES, the dashing Westland John Glenn running back headed for Michigan, was another victim to injury.

Boles, who helped the East score their second touchdown, gained 45 yards in nine carries, but ironically watched the second half in street clothes after suffering an achilles heel injury near the end of the first half.

"My father didn't want me to play because he was afraid I was going to get hurt, but I wanted to play as soon as I was selected," said the soft-spoken tailback. "I could have played (the second half). It's a little sore, but they decided it wasn't worth it."

According to Schildberg, both Nash and Boles' injuries will heal in time before they report to their respective training camps.

With Nash on the sidelines for three quarters, Farmington offensive tackle Craig Petersmark picked up the slack. He loved every minute playing time in the trenches.

"I made a few bad plays, but it's hard to bring in a whole new offense in just 10 days," said the 6-2, 220-pounder, headed for Eastern Michigan. "You really had to think out there, but I thought I held my own. I knocked a few people on their butts."

FOR PAUL MAKARA, the experience of playing in this All-Star game took on special meaning.

The 5-foot-10, 175-pound defensive back from Plymouth Salem is going to Michigan State, but he'll be a spectator most Saturdays at Spartan Stadium.

Makara played his last football game.

"I had shoulder and elbow surgery before my senior year and it bothered me some last year when I played," said Makara. "It wasn't right and I just wouldn't want to risk permanent injury."

"But I played as hard I could out here today and it felt great."

The mention of a recovering a fumble also brought a wide smile to Makara's face.

"I have no regrets," he said. "It's my last game and it's sad, but everybody has to go through it sometime. Mine just came a little earlier."

Paul Makara from Plymouth Salem made his last football game a memorable one, recovering a fumble for the East stars.

Johnstown-type rain delays Regional

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The Johnstown floods came a week early as rain washed out the second game of a scheduled double-header Wednesday night in the All-American Amateur Baseball Association Regional at Ford Field.

The first game, however, escaped the downpour as Philadelphia (Pa.) Arzee topped the Zanesville (Ohio) Junior Pioneers, 5-2.

Only one scoreless inning was completed in the second game between host Livonia and Cleveland Mill-Rose. The double-elimination tournament picks up again at 2 today with Livonia batting in the top of the second inning. The loser's bracket game follows at 5 with the winners meeting at 8. Friday's games are set for 2 and 5 p.m. (if necessary).

Four teams are vying for the two spots in the AAABA Nationals, which begin Monday in Johnstown.

Adray starting pitcher Don Vesling, a lefty, picked up where he left off in the Livonia Collegiate League playoffs. The Grafton, Ohio native retired the side in the first, all on strikeouts.

"DON SAYS he's ready to pitch again today, but if he had gone three (innings), there's no way he could come back the next day," said Livonia Adray manager Stu Rose.

Cleveland starter Bill Wertz, a 6-foot-4 right-hander from Ohio State, gave up a first inning double to Vesling. Wertz then uncorked a wild pitch, moving Vesling to third, but he got out of the inning when Bill Ulle popped out to right field.

"We needed a big hit in that inning, but we couldn't get it," said Rose. "We wanted to put a nail in there right away."

Allowed to add four players for the playoffs from the remaining Livonia Collegiate League teams, HELLIER and ROSE, however, were somewhat miffed that pitcher Tom Liss and outfielder Paul Oster of Redford Little Caesars, did not respond to their invitations.

The two have elected to play with their own team in the National Amateur Baseball Federation (College Division) tournament this week in Pontiac. Caesars qualified by winning the Livonia Collegiate League's regular season crown.

"This is the first time we've had a conflict with the NABF, but the purpose of our league is to send the best team we can to Johnstown," HELLIER said. "It's an agreement our league makes even before the season starts, but you can't make a kid play if he doesn't want to."

Rose, however, said the four roster additions are "good picks."

"These guys will help us," he said. "Foust played shorstop, but we think he's a better third baseman, and Doyle had a sore arm during the season, but now he's healthy. He went with us last year (to Johnstown) and he fits in well with our club."

"Zwolinski pitched well all year and Eddy is a good hitter."

THE ADRAY COACHES suffered another setback when they learned that one of their original roster players, pitcher Mike Wilkins of Lamar (Tex.) University, would not be available for the regional.

Wilkins, a hard-throwing right-hander, was on the Livonia bench Wednesday night after returning from a summer of play in an Alaska college circuit.

But he'll be flying today to Wichita, Kan. for the National Baseball Congress Tournament. On Monday night, Wilkins pitched a three-hitter and struck out six in leading the Fairbanks Goldpanners to the league championship in a 3-1 victory over North Pole. The victory qualified the Goldpanners for the NBC tournament in Wichita.

In Wednesday's regional opener, left-hander Andy Meltzer went the distance for Philadelphia, scattering eight hits.

Center fielder Steve Pelowitz, who led Arzee with three hits, broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh with a two-run single off reliever Andy Reichly, the second of four Zanesville pitchers.

Canton hosts national tourney

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

The Canton Softball Center has moved into the ranks of the national elite. And after this weekend, those running the center hope to remain there.

That's because CSC will host the Girls Senior Youth World Tournament, starting Thursday and concluding Sunday. Sanctioned by the U.S. Slow-pitch Softball Association (USSSA), the tournament is "THE biggest of the year," according to Bob Hope, CSC's manager of field operations. "All 50 states are involved," Hope continued. "Teams will be here from California, Washington — any state that participates in the USSSA. This is as far as they go."

Among the teams competing for the national title will be the defending national champions, the Melbourne, Fla., Sharks. The Sharks are currently ranked fourth in the nation by the USSSA.

THE NO. 1-RANKED Virginia Beach, Va., Sun Devils will be present. So will second-rated Sweeney Chevrolet of Cincinnati, Ohio, and the third-ranked Washington Coasters. In fact, Hope said 18 of the nation's top 20 senior youth (women 18 and under) teams will compete for the title.

The top Michigan hope is Westland John Glenn Spearhead, which won the state championship.

CSC earned the right to host the tournament by bidding for it at the USSSA directors meetings in Boston last November. Highest bidders don't always land a tournament, location, facilities and past performance are all considered.

"Once we got the bid in November, we went to work on it," said Hope.

Such advance preparation is necessary when 84 to 90 teams are competing for honors. CSC officials realize that should the tournament run smoothly, the chances for landing another prestigious USSSA event are greatly enhanced.

McSween goal sparks Festival win

By Raymond Rolak
special writer

Don McSween pilfered an errant clearing pass with 2:27 left to play and rifled a shot under the West goalie's pads to trigger the North to its second consecutive gold medal and a 5-4 victory in the U.S. Olympic Festival final in Houston.

The game-winning goal was another bright spot in a year of highlights for McSween, a Redford Catholic Central grad and Plymouth native. He captained the NCAA-champion Michigan State University squad last season, and already he's looking ahead to his senior year as a Spartan.

"We'll be favored again to win the Central Collegiate Hockey Association and that will make it tough as everyone will be gunning for us," said McSween. "Bowling Green will be returning a veteran club, and as always, they'll be tough."

McSWEEN SCORED the clinching goal on University of Denver goalie Chris Olson. The North squad had a 4-1 lead, but the West battled back to tie it at 6:43 of the final period on a goal by Everitt Sanipass. Scoring goals for the champion North team were George Pelawa, Jeff Nelson, Brian Johnson and Sean Toomey.

The Olympic Festival was started in 1978; its aim is to develop athletes for Olympic competition. There are 36 others sports besides hockey conducted during the festival, providing experience for the nation's top young athletes.

Participants like McSween and Jerry Pawloski, a defenseman from Farmington Hills who played for NCAA finalist Harvard, have a chance to make the 1988 U.S. Olympic team, which will compete in Calgary, Canada.

THE TWO defensemen, competitors in last year's NCAA finals, have a chance to earn a spot on the U.S. team in tryouts scheduled for next year's Olympic Festival in North Carolina. Dave Peterson will serve as team coach.

Pawloski injured his right knee at the festival and will undergo arthroscopic surgery. The junior-to-be said that Harvard lost several seniors from last spring's NCAA finalist, but the team is aiming for the final four again. Next year's NCAA championship is scheduled for Detroit's Joe Louis Arena.

● 'A' CHAMPIONS

The American League champion Angels proved their 13-2-1 regular-season record was no fluke by edging the Padres, the National League winners, 9-8 in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League (PCJBL) "A" League World Series final July 30 at Plymouth Township Park.

The Angels, winners of the American League's West Division, advanced to the Series by beating the East Division-winning Orioles, 12-10, in the playoffs.

Playing for the champion Angels were David DeJager, Justin Buchhop, Jerry Stewart, Ryan Milligan, Billy Gildhaus, Ryan Niemiec, Scott Babut, Josh Adams, Nick Bristow, Justin Williams, Kyle Buchhop, Scott Bailey, Andy Morelli and Scott Lesz.

● CANTON SWIM

To those interested in competing this fall on the Canton girls swimming team, practice begins Wednesday, Aug. 13, at the Canton pool. The opening session lasts 8-11 a.m.

Anyone wishing further information should contact Canton swim coach Hooker Wellman at either 453-2036 (home) or 451-6313 (pool).

● SALEM GIRLS TENNIS

Any Plymouth Salem girl (grades

9-12) interested in competing on the varsity tennis team should attend the team's first practice 9-11 a.m. Monday, Aug. 18, at Central Middle School.

Call 453-8745 or 981-3497 for more information.

● HORSESHOE TOSS

If horseshoe tossing's your game, pay attention. The Wolverine State Horseshoe Pitching Tournament is slated for Saturday and Sunday at Elmer Johnson Park in Romulus.

The tournament is open to the public. Competitors must register by 10 a.m. each day. Cost is $5 for Wolverine Club members and $7 for non-members. For more information, call Bill LaJoy at 422-2078.

Wolves to battle Marauders for Great Lakes circuit title

What every sportsman likes to see is a championship game featuring the two best teams in the league.

That's just what the Great Lakes Men's Soccer League has on tap Sunday at Whitman Junior High School, West Chicago west of Merimian in Livonia. The once-beaten Livonia Wolves, with a regular season record of 8-1-2 record, meet the Redford Marauders, regular-season champs at 8-0-3.

The game is slated for 5 p.m., following the 3 p.m. consolation final that pits the Dearborn Kickers against the Flint Arrows. Admission is $1, with all proceeds going to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

THE WOLVES and the Marauders advanced to the finals with strong performances last weekend in the quarter- and semi-finals. In the quarters, the Wolves topped the Ann Arbor Americans 4-3, and the Marauders blasted the Birmingham Cobras 5-0.

In other quarterfinal action, the Kickers beat the Dearborn Heights Stars 2-0 and the Arrows edged Detroit Caribbean 2-1.

The Marauders made it to the finals by nipping the Arrows 2-1, behind goals by Matt Pace, Schoolcraft College, and Steve Zink. The Wolves got three goals from Gary Mexicotte, a Livonia Stevenson grad now at Bowling Green State, and single scores from Dave Kusza, also from Stevenson, and Pete Camilleri in beating the Kickers 5-2.

The Marauders and the Wolves, who finished 1-2 in the leagues' first division with 19 and 18 points respectively, met once during the regular campaign. They tied 2-2.

The league was formed seven years ago for men 19 and over, and has grown from five teams in its inaugural season to 17 this year. Twelve of those make up its first division, with the remaining four in the second division.

The Plymouth Eagles were the second division champions, but the Eagles were bested by the North Oakland Blizzard 2-1 in their divisional playoff final.

DiPonio aims for Series

Take a look at the Salem DiPonio Mickey Mantle baseball team and one question immediately arises: Who the heck did they lose five games to?

That's how it seemed after last weekend, anyway. DiPonio traveled to the American Amateur Baseball Congress (AABC) regional in Coldwater, seeking a berth in the AABC Mickey Mantle (15-16-year-olds) World Series, which runs Friday through Monday in Waterbury, Conn.

They came away with just that, romping through the eight-team, double-elimination tournament unbeaten in five games, including a 12-2 romp over Jansen Refrigerator of Macomb in the championship contest.

DiPonio entered the tourney with a 20-5 record. Other entries were the Cardinals and Jansen Refrigerator from Macomb, Taylor, Sturgis, Battle Creek, Coldwater and Riverview.

baseball

THE SALEM team seemingly had few problems, winning by an average margin of seven runs. The first game ended with DiPonio on top 4-1 over Taylor. A 2-0 victory over the Cardinals followed, then a 16-4 lambasting of Jansen Refrigerator. A 15-7 shelling of Taylor set up the final against Jansen.

Not surprisingly, DiPonio dominated the all-tournament team with seven selections. Leading the way was tourney MVP Todd Marion, who earned two pitching victories and slammed four homers, including a grand slam.

Joining Marion as all-tournament selections were pitcher Fidell Cashero, catcher Jeff Irish, third baseman Bob Files, and outfielders Tim Dowd, Andy Gee and Mike Howard.

The rest of the DiPonio contributors were Pete Bidolli, Dan Boyle, Dave Colasinski, Mike Dorocak, Dennis Hanson, Jerry Heath, Jerry McCarron, Chris Michalek, Mike Stout, Matt Sitko, Steve Woodard and Brad Wright.

DiPonio, coached by Lou Bidolli, Neil Boyle, Jim Gee and Mike Michalek, will head to the AABC World Series with a 25-5 overall record.

CRAIGER IS BEST AT RIVERVIEW

Behind the brilliant pitching of Chris Tomas, Frank Learned and Brian Marion, the Craiger Pee Wee Reese (11-12-year-olds) baseball team swept to the Riverview Invitational Tournament title with four straight wins last weekend.

Tomas, Learned and Marion limited their four opponents to eight earned runs and 16 hits. Craiger's offense had no such scoring problem. The team collected 45 runs and 45 hits with a team batting average of .357.

Leading the hitting parade were Jeff Belisle (.563), Josh Wiegand (.438), Learned (.400) and Kevin Goff (.385). Other Craiger team members were Pat Adams, Bryan Kittleson, Ryan Long, Mitch MacDonald, Chris Moore, Mike Setlock and Chip Wadowski.

Bob Ruete, with the assistance of Tom Tomas, Mike Long, Barry Marion and Dennis Kennedy, managed Craiger to a 26-3 season.

Legion season ends in tournament final

Farmington's American Legion entry in the state regional tournament made a strong run at the title last weekend in Saginaw, but in the end the same obstacle that prevented the team from winning the league sidelined it from the tournament.

Farmington rallied after dropping its opening game of the tourney to win three straight. That put Farmington into Sunday's championship of the double-elimination tournament.

Its opponent, Ferndale, the league champion. Farmington was faced with having to beat Ferndale twice to claim the regional crown and a berth in this weekend's state tournament in Wyandotte.

As it turned out, Farmington couldn't beat Ferndale even once. With most of his pitchers spent, coach Randy Meier was forced to use outfielder Tom Giroux on the mound in the final.

GIROUX HADN'T pitched all season, but he performed admirably against Ferndale, allowing just two earned runs in six innings. Still, it wasn't enough — Ferndale won 6-3 to eliminate Farmington.

Farmington didn't go down without a battle. Trailing 2-0, it scored three times in the top of the sixth inning, one run the result of Dave Mote's single. But its 3-2 lead was short-lived; Ferndale pushed across four runs in the bottom half of the sixth to regain the lead, and Farmington never scored again.

Steve Cody collected two of Farmington's five hits. Mike Gabriele relieved Giroux and gave up two more unearned runs — four of Ferndale's runs were unearned.

The final proved to be the poorest offensive effort of the tournament for Farmington. On Saturday, the team won twice, ousting Saginaw 11-4 and Redford 9-7.

In the Saginaw game, Brent Daniels was spotted an 11-0 lead and pitched superbly. He surrendered just one unearned run, two hits and a walk over seven innings. Keith Motyka relieved and allowed three more runs, all unearned. Gabriele and Paul Newitt had three hits each, Gabriele driving in two runs and Newitt one. Paul Sprainitis had a hit and two RBI.

AGAINST REDFORD, five runs in the final two innings kept Farmington in front. Chris Alexander was the winning pitcher, but the hitters starred in this game. Newitt had four hits and Dave Bartone three, including a solo homer in the ninth. Bartone finished with two RBI. Alexander, Giroux and Mote each had two hits and an RBI, while Gabriele had one hit and two RBI.

two RBI, including a solo homer, and Bartone had two hits and an RBI. Daniels got the win, in relief of Ray Samolin.

Farmington lost its tourney opener 7-5 to Saginaw Thursday. Gabriele, who slammed three doubles, was the losing pitcher, allowing three earned runs. Newitt had two hits and two RBI and Denny Atwell contributed two hits.

Softball tournament

THE SENIOR youth division tournament is for the top teams in each state, but states can send more than one representative. Michigan, for example, will have "11 or 12 teams." Hope estimated, including squads from Livonia, Farmington, Westland and Plymouth-Canton.

The number of teams each team can send to the tournament is based on the number of USSSA-registered squads it has. Michigan has the second largest USSSA enrollment in the country.

What Hope and his CSC cohorts are trying to avoid is a tournament like last year's in Louisville, Ky., where nothing was provided for the visitors. CSC's approach will be drastically different.

Opening ceremonies are slated for 2 p.m. Thursday, followed by first-round games at 4 p.m. Hope figured a total of 175 games would be played in the double-elimination tourney through the weekend, utilizing eight of CSC's 12 diamonds. "We'll keep four (diamonds) in reserve," Hope said.

Play on Friday and Saturday will begin at 9 a.m. The finals are scheduled for 9 a.m. Sunday.

BUT THERE will be more than softball to keep the girls attention. A party, labeled the Champions Celebration, is slated for 7 p.m. Friday evening. Three bands will perform, there'll be a Dunk-an-Ump tank, a raffle and a complimentary mug for all players. All proceeds go to benefit the Children's Burn Center.

The public is invited to attend the party. Cost is $5 per ticket.

Softball will assume center stage by Saturday, and Hope expects it to be a spectacular display of skills. "The size of these girls — they're all 18 and under — is amazing," he said. "They're big, and they're slow."

"The fence will be 250 feet away, and they'll be able to reach it."

Admission charge for each day is $2.50, or $8 for the four-day tournament. For further information, call CSC at 483-5600.

Exercise hater seeks instant help

Dear Myrna: I hate to exercise! Absolutely hate it! I am 42½ years old, male, 150-pounds with a type A personality. I have a total aversion to exercise. How do I get started? Should I buy a treadmill?

— T.S.E.
Birmingham

exercising options

Myrna Partrich

By reading your letter, it seems that you have developed a mental aversion to exercise.

You are also suffering from guilt. Being in the business, I am more aware of the party talk that seems geared towards health and fitness. It seems to be one of the most favorite subjects casually discussed.

Our doctors are recommending it highly to aid physical and mental health. There are 18 health and fitness type magazines now. There were less than eight one year ago.

I can understand your problem. The world is pushing exercise and you hate it. You are not alone.

There is a book written by Susan Dunham, "The I Hate to Exercise" exercise book. It's a small book you might find at the candy counter of your local supermarket. It has been in print for two years and doing well. That ought to tell you something.

The first thing you must do is psyche up for exercise. Here are a few tips:

- Start with a complete physical. Ask your doctor to test your fitness level. Take an EKG if he recommends so. Know your fitness capacity and discuss it with your doctor. A sports medical doctor might be a good way to go to give you a program.
- Buy yourself clothing for your activity. If it's walking, think about comfort and chic. Clothes that are appealing and good looking to your body shape will help you get in the mood. Spend the time on clothes. It will add to the interest.

• Set small exercise goals at first. You don't want to be overwhelmed. I usually recommend walking at first. Generally because it is a familiar activity and needs no extra coordination. I see walking as the non-antagonistic exercise. Start walking one mile and build up length of time spent walking, gradually increasing your speed. If you start outside this summer, you might want to buy a treadmill or bike for your home in wintertime. Try placing a TV near your treadmill or bike.

• Transform negatives into positives. When your body is tired, think of the positive effects of exertion. Focus on the lasting end results — your new skill or improved stamina.

• When you are upset, don't excuse yourself from being active. Push yourself into your activity to escape your worries and relieve your stress.

• After exercising a while, set long-term goals. Read Bailey's book, "Fit or Fat," to give you the basics.

Dear Myrna: Please explain about orthotics. I have had foot problems since I started exercising. Do orthotics really help?

— Sandy Driskin
Birmingham

If you have foot discomfort go directly to an orthopedic surgeon to determine just exactly what your problem might be. If you continue to exercise, you may injure other areas of your skeletal system: ankles, knees, hips, etc.

If you are fortunate enough not to have any injuries yet, the doctor might analyze your situation and prescribe orthotic — a device (or pad) especially designed to place inside your shoes.

Orthotics are an effective way of controlling abnormal foot motion. Depending on your activity, orthotics can be made flexible or inflexible.

For example, a basketball player who uses primarily the ball of his foot will require a different type of foot control than a long distance runner who has heel mid-foot strike. A flexible orthotic that absorbs shock would be suited for jumping sports, while a less-flexible, more controlling orthotic is better for runners.

Make sure you explain to your doctor what your activity is. Once your problem is diagnosed and foot orthotics are prescribed, the doctor will explain the procedure involved.

He might send you to a specialist for constructing the orthotic. You may be best off to go to a specialist. I would. Measurements will be taken of various tilts in your legs and feet. In some cases, X-rays are needed to help evaluation.

Orthotics really do help, but don't consider them magical. Think of them as part of your exercise paraphernalia.

You may also want to re-evaluate your shoes and the surface you are exercising on.

Are you wearing a well-known brand of shoes and purchasing new ones every three months? If you are taking exercise classes, ask the club owner about the construction of the floor. If the floor is carpeted, consider what is underneath. If the floor is wood, consider how it is built.

Here's a good hint when looking at a wood exercise floor: Determine the difference in height between outside the workout room and the room itself. There should be a three-inch difference between rooms. A proper floating wood floor should be three inches higher.

Consider yourself fortunate if orthotics will be the answer to your problems.

Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company Inc. of Bloomfield Township, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send your signed letter to: Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham, MI 48012.

Farmington cage coach resigns

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

The revolving door at Farmington High School has spit out another veteran varsity coach.

Richard Roy, who has coached basketball, football, baseball and softball at the school for nearly 18 years, is the latest in a series of Falcons coaches to call it quits.

Long-time wrestling coach Barry Walsh was the first to step down. Then football coach Don Kuick left. Roy, most recently the head boys basketball coach, officially resigned at the close of the 1985-86 school year. He postponed any public announcement until after his summer basketball camp.

All three coaches cited a lack of cooperation from the school administration among the reasons for exiting.

"I had some problems with the administration," Roy said. "We've had our differences of opinion. That's not so uncommon."

ROY, LIKE both Walsh and Kuick, preferred not to be specific about the problems with the administration. Farmington's building athletic director Jerry Allison, however, offered this theory:

"The problem is we feel we have to put academics, the classroom, first and athletics second. The coaches would like to see sports first," Allison said. "Barry Walsh wanted to be a teacher in the Farmington building and with all the contract problems and things we just can't move teachers. Rich Roy just felt he wasn't getting the support he needed. And with Don (Kuick) age was a factor. Plus, he wanted us to take him out of his English class so he could just work football and we couldn't do that."

Thus far, only Kuick has been replaced. Dave Catherman, successful track coach at Farmington, will take charge of the football program next fall. The wrestling and basketball positions have not been filled.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL Jerry Potter said he was unaware of any discontentment among the coaches.

"I haven't heard anything about that," he said. "All I got was the letters of resignation which indicated personal reasons and family reasons and that they just had other things they wanted to do."

"Barry wanted to spend time with his kids. Rich, I think, had just had it with the basketball job. I didn't know if he was bitter or angry or anything,

I think it was just a case where all three had put in their time."

Both Potter and Allison said that there was no tension between the athletic program and administration, despite the rash of resignations.

"No tension at all," Potter said. "Things are on the up and up. We're cooperating with them. We have to keep them."

Said Allison: "Things are better than they have ever been."

RICH ROY would dispute that claim. But, like Walsh and Kuick, he would prefer to quietly step down. Why mar a successful 18-year career with a sour ending?

Besides, there were other factors leading to Roy's resignation. For example, a lack of interest on the part of the players.

Roy postponed his resignation announcement until the conclusion of his summer basketball camp. He figured that if the players knew he wasn't coming back, they wouldn't bother attending the camp. As it turned out, the players didn't come out anyway.

"We only had between six and eight kids show up for camp. One time we had 10," Roy said. "You want to try and be as positive as possible, but it's a little tough when you show up with six kids to play a team with 12 and 15 kids. If it happened only once in a while you can shrug it off, but when it happens constantly..."

The Farmington junior varsity program has won eight games in two years. The freshman team has won twice in two years. The future for the Farmington basketball program, obviously, is less than bright.

BUT THEN Farmington's teams have never been blessed with overwhelming talent. In the last 10 years, only one player has been recruited for college ball: Tony Racka, by Highland Park Community College. There have been no Division I players come out of Farmington.

Hugh Gallagher

"The Roaring Twenties" (1939), 1 Friday night on Ch. 50. Originally 104 minutes. TV time slot: 124 minutes.

A tough gangster movie of the old school. This is the best kind of late night movie with the star power of James Cagney and Humphrey Bogart and the quality direction of Raoul Walsh. This one doesn't have the resonance or social concern of "Little Caesar" or "Public Enemy" but is still entertaining. Tough guy Cagney is always worth catching. Rating: $3.

"The Great Santini" (1979), 3 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 116 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Robert Duvall gives an outstanding performance as a career Marine in conflict with his family. This film is notable for its restrained, balanced view of family life. Duvall's character is neither hero nor villain but a man capable of being either. The basketball game between Duvall and the son played by Michael O'Keefe is a brilliant piece of work. Rating: $3.40.

"The Wind and the Lion" (1974), 12:35 Monday night on Ch. 7. Originally 119 minutes. TV time slot: 150 minutes.

This is old-fashioned adventure that plays best on a big screen. Director John Milius is the last of the breast-thumping he-man type directors but his taste for mayhem is less pronounced in this often entertaining movie. Sean Connery makes a dashing sheik and Brian Keith does a good-humored turn as Teddy Roosevelt. Rating: $2.80.

Mary Beth Stusek, 16, of Birmingham does a beam exercise at Steve Whitlock's School of Gymnastics in Bloomfield Township.

Movie scene Gymnasts appear in feature film

By Robin Gaines
special writer

LIHTS! CAMERA! ACTION! Those words were familiar ones to Birmingham's Mary Beth Stusek and four of her teammates from Steve Whitlock's School of Gymnastics when they took part in Lorimar Pictures' "American Anthem," which recently played Detroit-area movie houses.

Stusek and her teammates, along with their coach Steve Whitlock, were among representatives from 19 gymnastics clubs in the country chosen to appear in one scene in the movie featuring a gymnastics competition.

Starring Olympic gold medalist Mitch Gaylord and actress Janet Jones ("Flamingo Kid" and "A Chorus Line"), "American Anthem" centers around Gaylord's character as a talented gymnast coping with personal problems at home while competing for the national gymnastics championships.

Last November, after touring gymnastics schools and competitions, a casting director from the movie asked Whitlock to bring five of his best gymnasts to Phoenix for two weeks of filming. The clincher was they had to be there in two days.

"I TOOK THE girls who were good students" and "who were well enough along in their pre-season development to do part routines without a spot (assistance), because they had to look as if they were performing at a national championship," said Whitlock.

'The director said, "Get rid of her. We want someone who can make it." So Mary Beth was the next person to try.'

— Steve Whitlock
gymnastics coach

Along with Stusek, the other four gymnasts chosen were Ruth Aguayo, 15, of Pontiac; Dana Dobransky, 14, of Sterling Heights; Laura Makowski, 15, of Drayton Plains; and Kimberly Marshall, 14, of Oxford.

Stusek, 16, who maintains a 3.5 grade point average at Marian High School and has been in gymnastics for 11 years, said the days were long on the set.

"We had to wake up at 6:30 in the morning and be at the gym at 7:30. We were there until 5:30, and then we'd stay after to work out," she said. "The only part I didn't like was cut after cut after cut, over and over again." In fact, Stusek's big scene was left on the cutting room floor.

Whitlock said the gymnastic scenes were shot from four different camera angles. Once during filming when the star was doing a mount on the bars, a gymnast in the background doing floor exercises fell during a doubleback somersault.

"THE DIRECTOR said, 'Get rid of her. We want someone who can make it.' So, Mary Beth was the next person to try," Whitlock said. "They did the shot again and Mary Beth made her doubleback, but the star missed her mount. They had to re-take the scene eight times before the director was satisfied with the shot."

It ended up that the mount the star performed on screen was shot from a different camera angle anyway, so Stusek's floor exercises weren't visible, Whitlock said.

However, the experience was well worth it for Stusek, who had the chance to work with some of the nation's top gymnasts and to observe her competition.

"It was so inspiring to be there because all I thought was, 'Oh, I want to be that good,'" Stusek said.

A powerful vaulter, according to her coach, Stusek has Olympic dreams like any serious gymnast but doesn't exclude her other goals, one of which is to attend college on a gymnastics scholarship.

THE PRESSURE of gymnastic competition is depicted well in the movie, according to Stusek. They might have overdone it a little bit, she said, but for the most part, "American Anthem" is pretty true to life in representing what a gymnast goes through.

During the school year, Stusek works out four hours a day, six days a week. In the summer, four and a half hours a day, five days a week.

It's a hard schedule, she said. "When I come home from a workout at night, I'm so tired I don't want to do my homework. But my mom's always there saying, 'You can do it.' You always have to force yourself to be better, and that goes for school work too."

Alaska's primitive wonders Cruise is full of glaciers, wilderness, creatures

By William Schemmel
special writer

ACCORDING to Alaskan lore, the first tourist to behold the glories of Glacier Bay was Eliza Skidmore, a reporter for the San Francisco Chronicle. Inspired by naturalist John Muir's accounts of his explorations five years earlier, the intrepid Miss Skidmore made her own perilous journey in the summer of 1884. Surrounded by the monumental glaciers, mesmerized by the boom of falling ice, the siren song of the winds, the cries of sea birds and seals, she wrote: "The nearer we approached, the higher the ice walls seemed. All around the face were pinnacles and spires weighing several tons that seemed on the point of toppling at any moment. The great buttresses of ice rising from the water were as white as marble, but farther on, as pressure was greater, deepened to turquoise and sapphire blues. The crashes of falling ice were magnificent, and in the face of a keen wind blowing over the ice fields, we sat on the rocks in silence, beholding the wondrous scene."

A century later, voyagers into this remote and pristine 4,500-square-mile sanctuary try in vain to match their own words to a place that is beyond words. Like the passengers on The Great Rivers Explorer, most are content to feel the sublime rush of it through their souls, and leave the lofty phrases to poets and the native Indians, who revere it as "The place where the gods dwell."

GLACIER BAY National Park is the pinnacle of The Great Rivers Explorer's seven-day odyssey among the fjords and granite mountains, fishing ports and gold rush towns, the larger-than-life creatures of land and sea in southeast Alaska's Inside Passage. Operated from May to September by Seattle-based Exploration Cruise Lines, the 92-passenger, 152-foot, shallow-draft vessel may venture in where large cruise ships dare not tread.

Very early one brisk and cloudless June morning, the Explorer pauses long enough at Bartlett Cove to take aboard Ken Russell, a National Park Service naturalist. For the next 12 hours, Russell will be our guide and interpreter to the mysteries of Glacier Bay. He'll relate the ancient birth and ongoing advances and retreats of the Bay's more than 200 glaciers.

He'll ferret out brown and black bears, moose and nimble-footed mountain goats peering back at us from sheer rocky cliffsides. All the while, bald eagles soar overhead, with supporting casts of tufted puffins, gull-like kittiwakes, cormorants and oystercatchers. Harbor seals with newborn pups float by on icebergs, diving into the frigid seas when we approach too close.

Even the largest ships sail into Glacier Bay, but none has closer audience with imperial Margerie and Grand Pacific glaciers. From our vantage a quarter-mile from Margerie's milelong face, we can gaze far into blue and white recesses, and with unbinocular eyes see walls of ice "calve" away and crash into the sea, forming the icebergs that bob all around us.

Pristine beauty

ONLY A ship with the Explorer's dexterity could execute a bow-landing. Butting against a glacial shelf, a gangway is let down, and passengers have the rare adventure of scrambling onto the ice itself. The ship's bag of tricks has other surprises. Out of Ketchikan, it plunges into the narrow rain forest canyons of Misty Fjords National Monument, pulling our bow so close to a waterfall that a crew member can retrieve a pitcher of pure melted snow.

In the Peril Straits, the northbound ship comes face to face with a southbound pod, or school, of more than 20 killer whales. Swiftly the captain reverses course, and we go with the flow of the black-and-white armada that surrounds us on all sides, trying to capture them on film, and in our imaginations, as they break dramatically from the water, then disappear just as suddenly, like submarines beneath their own waves.

These areas are followed on stage by a school of white-striped Dall porpoises. They race playfully alongside us, cavort beneath the bow, and feast on shrimp and fish we've stirred up in our wake.

Late one evening, we weave into Tracy Arm fjord. Balmly sunshine of previous days has yielded to overcast skies and bursts of rain. But the gloom is really a boon, since it seems to turn on electric blue lights inside the field of icebergs through which we're passing. From miles away, they glow like aquamarine coals.

SOME ARE small — called "growlers" and "bergie bits" — others are as large as houses, cars and buses. They might be ice sculptures left from a titan's banquet: here's a dragon's head, over there an eagle, off port bow a Viking in horned helmet, his sandaled foot, an otter, a crouching bear. They are entree to Sawyer and South Sawyer glaciers, twin leviathans that dwarf even the kings of Glacier Bay.

The Explorer's ports of call reflect the rich and colorful heritage of southeast Alaska, from Tlingit, Haida and Hoonah Indians, to 19th-century Russian traders and fur trappers, and the audacious dramatic personae of the Klondike

Gold Rush of 1897-1900.

Sitka was capital of Russian Alaska when a check for $7.2 million, or two cents an acre, made it "Seward's Folly," "America's Icebox," and American territory in 1867. The onion-domed and icon-rich Russian Orthodox cathedral, and a high-kicking troupe of New Archangel Dancers are lasting souvenirs of those czarist times, while the intricately carved totems in Sitka National Historic Park are landmarks of an ancient Indian culture.

Once the jumping-off place for the Klondike gold fields, bawdy old Skagway preserves its glory days with wooden sidewalks and false-fronted stores and saloons and a brothel museum, all done with a saucy air of fun and nostalgia. Along Broadway, you'll find everything from sealskin moccasins and Indian headdresses, to finely crafted jewelry and designer fashions. The Frontier Saloon makes a bloody mary to match the mountains.

KETCHIKAN, FIRST and last Explorer call, has preserved its once infamous red light district along Ketchikan Creek. Except for Dolly's, a sporting house museum, the rest of these picturesque still houses are innocent art galleries and craft shops.

Pionered between mountains and sea, Alaska's capital city of Juneau, population 27,000, seems like Paris compared with sister small towns and villages. Don't miss the honky-tonk piano at the Red Dog Saloon, the historic and nature displays at the Alaska State Museum, or a walk on Mendenhall Glacier, just outside of town.

For information, contact: Exploration Cruise Lines, 1500 Metropolitan Park Building, Seattle WA 981-1, 206-624-8551.

One of the things to do in Alaska's amazing wilderness is creating petroglyph rubbings. Cruise passengers cover petroglyphs (ancient carvings) and rub the surface with nearby ferns to produce an unusual and artistic souvenir.

B&B adventure Bearing down on entrepreneurship

By Helen Furcean
special writer

ONCE UPON a time, a winsome twosome from Birmingham decided to go forth into the world, conquer the dragons of commerce and build their very own magic kingdom (or queendom).

So they packed up all the knick-knacks, antiques, arty pieces and collectables that they had accumulated over the years and began to search for the Perfect Place.

And so it happened that they followed the North Star all the way to Petoskey and discovered just what they were looking for: a turn-of-the-century, two-story Victorian manor, built by a lumber baron, that had been restored to all of its former glory.

(Actually, only one of them discovered the Perfect Place. The other was off backpacking through the bush country of New Zealand when the transatlantic call came with news of the great discovery.)

A pretty basket holds guest soaps for the trip. Each guest room has terry cloth robes available — just in case you forget to bring one.

THE STATELY HOME is situated on a bluff overlooking the Bear River, just a stone's throw from Little Traverse Bay. From this came the name the Bear and the Bay and the opening last December by Joan Robinson and daughter, Karyn, of one of the north country's charming bed and breakfast facilities.

The unique style of the two women is reflected throughout the house. The furnishings are eclectic, cozy, whimsical and bizarre all rolled into one.

From the wooden "silent butler" in the foyer greeting guests with business cards and sweets (like Petoskey-made dried tart cherries) to the giant, satin multicolored bird that drapes the baby grand piano in the living room, the Robinson touch is everywhere. You never seem to run out of things to marvel over.

The downstairs rooms consist of a living room, a perfect place for that cozy chat, the day room where you can lounge and watch TV from an antique brass daybed covered with soft pillows; the billiard room where you can challenge someone to a game on the vintage pool table, and the dining room, charmingly decorated with Joan's collection of rabbit porcelains and prints. Focal point is a Spanish-style chandelier.

THE ONLY DOWNSTAIRS room off-limits to guests is the kitchen where Joan and Karyn — in their own words — "choreograph the breakfast dance" each morning. They work together, deftly keeping out of each other's way as their own special blend of coffee is brewed, the shirred eggs are readied for the oven, and/or the waffle mix is poured into the Belgian waffle iron, and the fresh, fresh compote is prepared.

The Robinsons are always looking for new delightful breakfast dishes with which to surprise their guests.

There are four guest rooms beyond the burled-maple bannistered staircase. The "Bower Room" features a king-sized bed draped in romantic peach netting. Karyn refers to it as the "dream catcher."

Friend's urging lead to directory

By Marie McGee
staff writer

IT WAS A chance conversation with a friend while at a convention in San Francisco in 1981 that prompted Norma Buzan to author "Bed and Breakfast North America."

It's turned out to be the answer to a traveler's prayer — including the friend who gave her the idea for the directory in the first place.

With the fourth printing due in the fall, the updated directory will have over 600 pages and give details on 700 inns and guest houses that offer overnight accommodations "where the traveler is treated more like a guest than a source of income."

BUZAN, WHO LIVES in Bloomfield Township, was attending a convention of the American Library Trustees Association (ALTA) in San Francisco and called on friends who had just signed up to be a bed and breakfast agency outside of San Francisco. Buzan dropped in to visit and was delighted with the idea.

"But how will people in the east find out about us?" she recalls the husband of her friend asking.

With all the confidence that comes from many years as a librarian, Buzan advised, "Go to the library. I'm sure you'll find a book about it."

She continued visiting with her friend. Several hours later, the husband returned to report, "Norma, there is no such thing — no book that lists bed and breakfasts in other parts of the country."

He suggested that Buzan compile just such a directory.

"WE SPENT THE next 1 1/2 days talking about it," she recalled.

Upon returning home, she began earnestly to gather the material. By January 1982 she had enough information to publish the first "Bed and Breakfast North America." It was 69 pages.

Buzan said she began by contacting travel writers and researching old articles in newspapers, mainly written by them.

"It was sort of like being a detective," she said.

But it was a network of library friends across the country that really helped her, Buzan feels.

A former librarian in Farmington and Troy, Buzan has been extremely active in library affairs and particularly in AFTA, giving her contacts all over the country.

"Friends all over the country gave me input and still do," she said. But after the directory made its debut, Buzan began to hear from innkeepers all over the country.

Her newest directory will also include B&Bs in Hawaii for the first time.

BUZAN SAID SHE has either corresponded with or talked to all the agency directors and all the inn and guesthouse owners listed in the directory.

Ironically, she was among the first to edit a nationwide B&B directory. Recently, a nationally recognized travel writer published a similar directory with a title very similar to hers.

It's caused some confusion, Buzan notes. "Several of my readers called to say that they bought the wrong book," she said.

The cover of her version is simply "Bed and Breakfast North America." The other book has the author's name as part of the title.

Buzan's book is available in book stores, but Buzan said she does a big direct-mail business.

In addition to the North America directory, Buzan also authored "Bed and Breakfast in Michigan and Surrounding Areas." It came out last year.

In it, she used sketches of historical homes by former Livonia artist Janet Anderson noted for her pen-and-ink sketches of the Detroit riverfront. The cover is that of the former Buzzard house, a restored beauty on Main Street in Plymouth.

PUBLISHING A directory isn't Buzan's only contact with the world of bed and breakfast accommodations. With a neighbor, Bert Howell, she also established a B&B reservation service called Betsy Ross Bed and Breakfast.

Buzan said she "lucked out" with the Betsy Ross angle in that it actually is the name of street she lives on.

But it would have been an excellent choice anyway, Buzan said, because of the feelings of old-fashioned friendliness and warm welcome associated with the colonial time when Betsy Ross lived.

After four years of operating from the Buzan's second floor, the two partners sold the business in June to June Shields of Dearborn, owner of one of the guest homes listed in the directory. The name went with the business.

IN THE five years she has been active with B&Bs, Buzan has seen the interest grow by leaps and bounds.

Not only that. She has watched Michigan gain on frontrunner California in number and elegance of the accommodations being offered by "newcomer" states in offering the homestay accommodations. The New England states, of course, still hold an edge, she said.

Bed and breakfast also is liberating the woman traveler, Buzan said. Private homestays provide women with benefits that were never before available to them, whether they traveled for business

'Precious moments' add depth

I CLEARLY remember one particular day several years ago. It was a busy day, a business day and I was well within it. The store was jumpin' and I had just received a commission from a large company to design a wall graphic for their lobby.

With all the store business and trying to divide my time for my own art commissions, my mind was racing. There was so much to do, but I had to stop everything and start coaxing Adam to go to kindergarten. So I bribed him with a chicken sandwich at McDonald's. On the way I listened and talked with Adam but in the back of my mind I was all wrapped up in business.

When we finally sat down, Adam was running off at the mouth in nervous kindergarten chatter. As many dads do, I was a million miles away, granting Adam only an occasional, "Oh, really, that's nice" and "good for you, honey."

Then I happened to notice his little fingers pinching this long french fry. Wondering why, I asked him, "Umm, Adam, what are you doing with your french fry?" He said, "Oh, didn't you ever notice Dad, if you pinch a french fry real hard, there, see how clean it makes your fingers."

INSTANTLY THE PRESS of business was left behind as I laughed and entered his little world. Free of all cares, I sat and listened with great interest and amusement as Adam told me all about kindergarten.

"Dad, Tony always gets off his letter and guess what, Dad? I can reach the handle of the faucet and there's a real fast slide on the playground" and so it went. My hamburger and fries grew cold as I listened to this little 5-year-old's viewpoints of kindergarten.

Of course, we were late for school but I could hardly stop Adam from talking or myself from the enjoyment of listening to this little guy. I finally dropped him off and thought to myself, "What a precious moment." And recalled the words to a song I once heard, that went something like this: "We have these moments to hold in our hand and touch as they slip through our fingers like sand. Yesterday's gone and tomorrow may never be, but we have these moments today."

REFRESHED BY IT, all, I returned to my artwork and appointments with new vigor. I wonder how many similar moments we encounter day by day that go completely unnoticed. For most people to miss "the moments" is only sad, but artifacts

for an artist to miss them is tragic. It is those moments that add depth to an artist's work.

There are many types of moments that an artist can notice, experience and then incorporate in his or her artwork. There are precious moments, funny moments, touching, or sad moments, learning or teaching moments and the list goes on and on. The responsibility for an artist is to remove himself from himself enough to spot the moments when and where they occur.

It is the moments that make us laugh, cry, share, learn and experience the feelings that make us human beings. An artist, if aware of these special times, is doubly blessed. First, in that the moments were noticed and second that they can be expressed through his or her art.

PERHAPS A SAD moment could be ventilated with pastels in blues and grays. A precious moment might even require oils or acrylic. Maybe a funny moment could only best become visual in the cartoon style of pen and ink. Along with the responsibility of an artist to notice the moments is the versatility to handle the medium that best lends itself to the feeling.

The greatest thing for an artist is to be able to handle whatever medium is required to best suit the subject and/or feeling. What goes on around you is exciting, touching and often humorous. So train yourself to better see and more clearly hear. The moments that I am talking about never tap you on the shoulder. They are usually fleeting and are rarely remembered. So make them obvious and freeze them in time within an inspired piece of artwork.

Nureyev to dance here

Rudolf Nureyev, one of the world's most renowned ballet dancers, will make his first appearance with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at a Great Performers Series concert in Ford Auditorium at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 22.

The orchestra will be conducted by Stephen Stein, Exxon Arts Endowment Conductor for the Detroit Symphony.

Stravinsky's "Apollo," with choreography by George Balanchine, and Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer," choreographed by Maurice Bejart, are scheduled to be danced by Nureyev. He will be joined by other dancers and by a baritone, to be selected at a later date.

Since leaving the Kirov Ballet and the Soviet Union in 1961, Nureyev has been a major figure in the ballet world. His association with the Royal Ballet in London and appearances as a partner to Margo Fonteyn formed a major part of his career. He also has danced with more than 30 dance companies in leading roles in the classics and standard works of the modern repertoire.

Nureyev has mounted and choreographed more than 25 productions for various companies, including the Royal Ballet, the Australian Ballet, the Vienna Opera Ballet and the National Ballet of Canada.

In September 1983 he assumed a new post as artistic director of the Paris Opera Ballet, with whom he recently staged and danced in several of his own productions, including "Swan Lake," "The Nutcracker" and "Washington Square."

Tickets for this Great Performers Series concert are available on a priority basis to Detroit Symphony subscribers until Sept. 12, telephone or mail order. Remaining tickets will be sold to the public. Prices are $50 patron, which includes a concert afterglow at the Renaissance Club, $35, $25, $20 and $12.

DSO closes its summer series

Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture with live cannons will be on the program as the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO) closes its 1986 Chrysler Concert Series at Meadow Brook at 8 p.m. Thursday and Sunday.

Each concert will feature a soloist playing a favorite Tchaikovsky concerto: on Thursday the Violin Concerto and on Sunday the Piano Concerto No. 1. Also included on the program is the "Firebird" Suite by Stravinsky. Both concerts will be led by guest conductor Daniel Nazareth.

Nazareth, music director of the West Berlin Symphony Orchestra since 1982, is originally from India and has won such top honors as the Leonard Bernstein Conducting Fellowship, the Koussevitzky Music Foundation Conductors Award and the International Ernest Ansermet Conducting Competition.

The Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto will be played on Thursday by DSO concertmaster Gordon Staples.

Pianist Jose Feghali will be featured on Sunday, playing Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto No. 1. Feghali, 25, is the winner of the Seventh Van Cliburn International Piano Competition and numerous other awards.

As part of the Festival of Nations, Russian pirog, kasha and borsch will be on sale at Trumbull Terrace before the concert.

Summer means more fishing, sailing charters, swimming and golfing. Boyne Country Golf offers four 18 hole championship courses designed by renowned architects Robert Trent Jones and William Newcomb.

Winter, of course, brings the skiers as there are three major ski resorts within 20 minutes drive of the inn.

Like most enterprising B & B innkeepers, the Robinsons keep abreast of what is going on in the area and provide brochures and menus from local restaurants for their guests.

One of the extra things they do is to sponsor special days or weekends. Last May, for instance, they sponsored a "Shed Your Winter Skins" weekend spa. A package deal provided a massage therapist, a facialist, manicurist, pedicurist and makeup artist.

Guests arrived Friday night and were greeted with champagne and a massage. They spent Saturday in a beauty clinic with the professionals. A repeat of that event is being planned.

The Robinsons are busy setting up other special weekends including one for fly fishermen that will feature talks by area experts. A painting weekend is also being considered.

Did we mention that guests are invited to the "cordial hour." That happens about 4 p.m. in the parlor. Compliments of the house. It's a chance to unwind and meet your fellow B & B's.

If you get the idea that the Bear and the Bay is not your ordinary bed and breakfast, you're probably right. It's hospitality warm and friendly if not a bit on the zany side.

For more information on either special weekends or the inn's regular rates and reservations, call the Bear and the Bay at (616) 347-6077 or write them at 421 Charlevoix Ave., Petoskey 49770.

or pleasure, she said.

One of the things the Bed and Breakfast national network likes to point out is that businesswomen can meet a client in the living room and avoid the awkwardness of holding meetings in their hotel room. This has become a problem since women are traveling more frequently on business."

Buzan has made another interesting observation on changing American habits.

"Americans are getting less and less hung up over bathrooms" and the sharing thereof — which, when you think about it, is probably the only downside of a bed-and-breakfast adventure.

Bed and Breakfast, The National Network is an association of reservation services for bed-and-breakfast home-stays and inns from Maine to California. The members represent more than 2,000 homes that can be booked through these various agencies. A free list of these reservation services can be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Bed and Breakfast/the National Network, P.O. Box 4616, Springfield, MA 01101.

• AUDITIONS

Auditions for openings in all three Livonia Youth Symphony orchestras will be held Saturdays Aug. 23 and Sept. 6. For more information, call Kay Rowe, 455-1487 or Susan Gardner, 349-1894.

• BASKET EXHIBITOR

Kathleen Crombie of Garden City was among the 72 artists in Basketweave, a national contemporary and traditional exhibition of more than 250 baskets, held recently in Athens, Ohio, and sponsored by the Dairy Barn Southeastern Ohio Cultural Arts Center. Her entry was entitled "Cubby Hole" and was fashioned from wild grapevine bark, willow, jute, round reed and philodendron sheaths. Also in the exhibition was a basket called "Positive Reaction," of wild grapevine bark, locust bark, fern ash bark and kooboo rattan.

• TERRACOTTA DISPLAY

Ancient Terracottas: Lasting Impressions of the Distant Past will be on display until Sept. 28 in the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology at the University of Michigan. The special exhibition features approximately 160 moldmade terracottas (basket clay objects formed from molds) from various parts of the Classical world and the ancient Near East dating from the 5th century B.C. to the 4th century A.D. Museum hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, 1-4 p.m. Saturday-Sunday. There is no admission fee.

• FESTIVAL EXHIBITOR

Livonia artist Barbara Gibson is among 93 crafters from 17 states accepted by the Indian Summer Arts and Crafts Festival scheduled for Sept. 12-14 in Marietta, Ohio. She will exhibit ceramics.

• FURNITURE:WHAT'S NEW

Material Evidence: New Color Techniques in Handmade Furniture, a unique furniture exhibition, has opened at the Midland Art Council Galleries in Midland Center for the Arts. The exhibition is traveling under the auspices of Smithsonian Institute Traveling Exhibition Service. "Material Evidence" is the product of an ambitious undertaking by the Gallery at Workbench, a retail furniture chain, with the collaboration and support of Formica Corp. For this exhibition, the gallery invited 19 of the country's top woodworkers to create major new works utilizing Colorcore, Formica's laminating material. The Midland Center for the Arts is located at 1891 W. St. Andrews. Admission and parking are free and the gallery hours are 1-5 p.m. Monday through Sunday and 5-9 p.m. on Thursdays.

• MEADOW BROOK ART

The 10th annual art exhibit and sale will be held on the grounds of Meadow Brook Hall on the campus of Oakland University from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 16-17. There is no admission charge.
