School beckons students next week

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Could it possibly be? Is summer vacation almost over?

For students, teachers, bus drivers, cafeteria workers, secretaries, principals, counselors, custodians and other employees in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, the answer is yes.

Next week, as a matter of fact, teachers will have their orientation Monday.

Students in first through 12th grade should report for a half-day morning session Tuesday. Full-day sessions and regular kindergarten half-day classes start Wednesday.

Classes here resume prior to Labor Day to allow for a mid-winter break the week of Feb. 23-27 in addition to the traditional Christmas (Dec. 20 to Jan. 4) and Easter (April 17-20) recesses.

Bus service begins Tuesday. Students generally must live 1 1/2 miles from school to be eligible for bus transportation. Parents were to be notified of bus routes and schedules this week.

MORE THAN 12,000 students, better than 80 percent of the enrollment in the district are bused, school officials say. By the way, kids, drivers can assign seats.

(Motorists are reminded that they must stop in either direction when approaching a stopped school bus with its flashers activated, picking up and dropping off children. See editorial today's edition.)

Lunches will be available starting Wednesday.

Cost this year is again $1 for elementary pupils and $1.35 for students in middle school and high school. The daily rate includes milk for all but high school and staff lunches. Milk may be purchased separately for 25 cents.

Students, of course, may bring lunches from home.

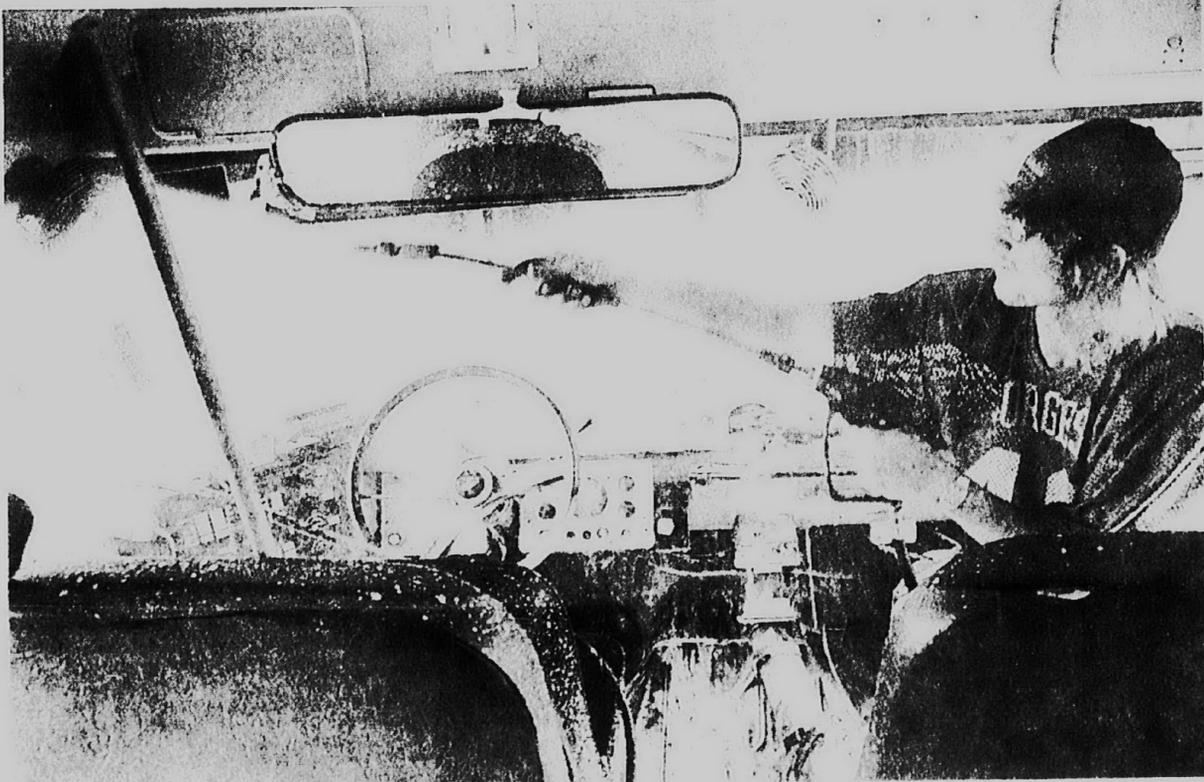

Some children in the district may be eligible for reduced price (40 cents) or free lunches depending on family size and family income. For example, a family of five with a household income of $23,927 would qualify.

Parents are asked to contact their local schools for more information.

ABOUT 50 new teachers will start working in the district next week. More than a dozen administrative changes involving principals, assistant principals and attendance officers also take effect.

She monitors devil worship

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

It began last Halloween. When a neighbor told Diane Daskalakis that a witch had been invited to speak to local school children, "I said that's terrible," she recalls.

Daskalakis, a born-again Christian who is active with TV's 700 Club, continued, "I came home and prayed. And I said, Lord, please let me know what I should do."

While attending church soon after, a local minister also deplored the school-sponsored visit by Gundella the witch. By 1 p.m. the next day, Daskalakis, 39, was moved to leave her jewelry business, Solid Gold in Plymouth, for the afternoon and seek petition signatures to protest the event.

"I went to 150 homes and just four people said no," said the Plymouth Township resident. "I took them to the (school) board meeting that night."

Daskalakis, married, with two grown children, said the Bible prohibits Christians to practice witchcraft or submit themselves (to witches) in any way what soever. She told board members that as Christians, they should vote against the witch's appearance. But the board voted unanimously to allow Gundella's visit.

WHILE DASKALAKIS failed in that forum, she was inspired to continue. She advertised for a Christian candidate to come forward and run in the June school board election. While one candidate did volunteer, Daskalakis decided to run also.

After stuffing mailboxes with fliers stressing her Christian beliefs, Daskalakis came in second out of a field of four candidates vying for one board seat.

Because she supports evangelist

Pat Robertson as a presidential candidate. Daskalakis ran for precinct delegate; she is awaiting the final vote tally.

Her goal, she said, is not to make us all better Christians.

"I'm not worried about society in general at all. They could open up a church of Satan across the street and I wouldn't care. I do not believe in telling adults how to lead their life."

But she says school-age children are impressionable, easily affected by what she calls occult or devil-inspired books or other teaching materials. Daskalakis is for removing books from school library shelves like Herman Hesse's "Siddhartha," which she says gives instruction in how to be a Buddhist monk. Another is activist Saul Alinsky's "Rules for Radicals," which calls Lucifer "the first radical known to man."

She has rented video cassettes of some movies shown to students, studying them for profanity and non-religious content. On a neatly typed sheet of paper, Daskalakis has collected 70 expressions of profanity from "The Breakfast Club." She also is against "Ghostbusters," saying that in one scene, a woman "becomes totally and absolutely demon possessed."

Asked if she would label "The Wizard of Oz" offensive for its inclusion of witches, Daskalakis responds she's not sure, adding she hasn't seen the film since she was a child.

WHILE DASKALAKIS said she has met with school officials sever-

Diane Daskalakis says that because students are impressionable, the witches bible and other materials currently available in the Plymouth-Canton schools should be removed.

Wilcox House site identified

The Wilcox Lake area of Hines Park in Plymouth Township tentatively has been identified as the best site for possible relocation of the historic Wilcox House.

That was the consensus of the group, said Cheryl Szymiszewski, spokeswoman for Friends of the Wilcox House.

The group to which Szymiszewski referred included herself, Jack Wilcox, owner of the house, Eric Roeschel, Wayne County parks administrator, and State Sen. Robert Gearty, R-Northville, whose 6th District includes Plymouth.

They met last week. The house, built in 1901, must be moved when developers begin constructing a 48-unit condominium complex overlooking Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth.

A groundbreaking date for the condominiums has yet to be set.

Now the county is doing more investigating to see the entire feasibility of locating on that spot. Szymiszewski said. "We have to put together a formal proposal now that Mr. Roeschel can present to the county commission."

she said she was working on that proposal earlier this week.

No final decision has been made as to the disposition of the house once work begins on the development. The preservationists — Friends of the Wilcox House — would be responsible for moving costs, renovations and maintenance.

Fundraising efforts — including grant searches — are under way. Time may be of essence with the uncertainty of the developers' timetable.

Friends of the Wilcox House will meet at 7:30 p.m. today to discuss a proposal and fundraising. Szymiszewski said.

It originally was proposed to use the Wilcox House as a center for community arts organizations. That plan may have to be revised to use more compatible with a park setting if the house is to be moved to county land.

"We are concentrating on preserving the house," Szymiszewski said. "We have to study that more — what activity to have in the house to have it self-sustaining."

al times to discuss materials, "They treat me like they can't wait to get rid of me. They're totally non-committal."

Her latest petition drive centers on portions of the R-rated film "The Sword and the Sorcerer,"

"The opening scene shows a witch calling up a devil from the pit of hell while the walls of hell come alive with anguished humans," wrote Daskalakis on a flyer she is distributing to parents. "The witch proceeds to worship the devil by . . . kissing him through-out several scenes, calling him 'my god' and 'my master.'"

"For a Christian," she said, "It's the worst thing our eyes can see; open devil worship."

Asked if the movie could be useful in reinforcing a child's negative feelings toward Satan — who is killed at the end — Daskalakis said no, adding "Human beings can't kill the devil."

Daskalakis said she'll continue her petitioning and other efforts "as long as the Lord asks me to." The Plymouth-Canton schools, she claims, have "thrown Christianity out and now they're teaching the devil."

Break-in on Irvin nets TV, personal computer

A screen was pried from a window, police accounts indicated.

A Curtis Mathis television set was reported stolen as well as a video cassette recorder, a General Electric AM/FM/cassette radio, an IBM personal computer and a wedding band set.

Two windows were reported broken at a house on Fairground 1-8 a.m. Sunday but entry wasn't gained.

A blue Ross 10-speed bicycle left unattended and unlocked outside of Beyer's Drug Store on Main for about 10 minutes Monday night was reported stolen.

A solitaire diamond ring valued at $1,500 and an imitation emerald/diamond ring worth $10 were reported stolen Sunday from a unit at the LakePointe Apartments on Shadywood.

There were no signs of forced entry to the unit. A ring dish in which the rings had been placed was picked up by Plymouth Township Police for processing.

Citizen band radios were reported stolen from two cars parked in the driveway of a house on LeBlanc. The vehicles weren't locked.

Red Cross warns of blood shortage

An extremely critical shortage of blood — the worst summer shortage in years — exists in southeastern Michigan, warns the Michigan Red Cross Blood Services, Southeastern Michigan Region.

Several area hospitals have postponed elective surgery and others are determining whether to proceed with elective surgery based upon the amount of blood the patient will require.

All blood types are needed, especially Type O negative and positive, and donors are urged to give blood this week.

Dr. A. William Shafer, Red Cross executive director, said the status of the blood supply is "frightening and alarming." Projections of blood collections for the next six weeks are bleak, he said.

According to the local Red Cross blood region, which serves hospitals in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties, blood regions across the country are reporting severe shortages. Most report this is the worst summer blood shortage in years.

Contributing to the local shortage are a high rate of "no shows," donors who make appointments at blood drives or donor centers and fail to keep the appointments. Also, several large industrial blood drives have either been cancelled or the number of donations was more than 45 percent under estimate.

In Oakland County, blood can be donated at the Bloomfield Donor Center, 2388 Franklin Road, corner of Square Lake Road, and in Oak Park at 25900 Greenfield in Kristen Tower.

Centers have evening hours for donor convenience and are open on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For an appointment to donate blood at any donor centers in Oakland County, call 494-2800 or toll free, 1-800-552-5466.

Clubs, organizations or businesses that would like to sponsor a blood drive in the next six weeks are asked to call 494-2790.

Blood can be donated by anyone in good general health between the ages of 17 through 70 years old who weighs a minimum of 110 pounds. Donating blood is relatively painless and takes less than an hour from registration to post-donation snack of juice and cookies. The actual procedure takes less than 10 minutes. Donating blood is safe. Needles used to collect blood are new and sterile. They are used once and discarded.

Lucas taps Engler for lieutenant governor

Colleen Engler

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Colleen Engler, who impressed political veterans with her savvy in 12 years as a legislator and with her third-place showing in the recent Republican gubernatorial primary, was selected Wednesday by William Lucas to be his running mate for lieutenant governor.

Engler, as a woman and a white, is expected to balance a ticket headed by a black man. If elected, Lucas will be the first black governor in the nation's history.

Lucas made the announcement in Gaylord, where he had spent the last week interviewing 15 candidates for the No. 2 spot on the ticket. It is believed that the other finalist for the post was Spencer Abraham, 33, the chairman of the state Republican Party.

Lucas' decision must be ratified at the Republican convention this weekend in Detroit, but that is considered a mere formality.

The gubernatorial election is Nov. 4. The two will run against incumbents Gov. James Blanchard and Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths.

"I AM TRULY honored to be given the privilege of running on this historic ticket," said Engler. "Our 1988 team personifies the progressiveness of the Republican Party. I feel confident that we will lead the way to a stunning victory."

"I am not just in this to have a good time this fall. I'm in this race to win . . . Jim Blanchard and Martha Griffiths had better be ready."

Said Lucas: "She fulfills the criteria that I outlined at the outset of the election process . . . I'm confident that this is the right one."

Engler, a political science major at Michigan State University, from which she graduated in 1973, was first elected at the age of 23 to the state House of Representatives in a special election July 1, 1974.

Engler, a native of Mt. Pleasant who represented the 99th District in the counties of Isabella and Mecosta, won praise during her terms of office for her knowledge of the issues and of the political process in Lansing.

ENGLER IS MARRIED to John Engler, the GOP state Sen. Majority Leader.

"I am proud and delighted," he said. "Colleen will be an outstanding candidate and will make all Republicans as proud of her as I am. She will add so much to an already outstanding ticket."

Engler had chosen not to run for re-election. Her term of office ends as possible above the political fray.

In the recent primary, Engler finished third with 64,535 votes, or 11 percent of the total. Lucas had 44 percent; Richard Chrysler, who outspent her dramatically, finished second with 34 percent; and Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy trailed her by several hundred votes, also with about 11 percent of the total.

'Our 1988 team personifies the progressiveness of the Republican Party. I feel confident that we will lead the way to a stunning victory.'

Group eyes '88 wine cooler vote

Now that the Michigan Legislature has rejected citizen requests for a special legislative session to place the wine cooler deposit proposal on the November ballot, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs is stepping up its campaign to gather enough voter signatures to place the question on the ballot in 1988.

The MUCC, which gathered more than 200,000 voter signatures between mid-May and early July, has begun distributing new petitions to supporters in every county in the state. In addition, MUCC-affiliated clubs in the Detroit area will be staffing a booth at the Michigan State Fair, Aug. 22 to Sept. 1, where voters can sign wine cooler deposit petitions.

Under state law, the group has until Nov. 3 of this year to submit 243,201 valid voter signatures to the Elections Division of the Michigan Secretary of State's office in order to place the issue on the 1988 ballot, according to Thomas L. Washington, MUCC executive director.

"It is our opinion that the signatures we have already collected will remain valid for the 1988 election," Washington noted, "and we are confident we will file more than the necessary number of signatures before this year's election."

Supporters of the drive to mandate deposits on containers of wine coolers and pre-mixed spirit beverages are being urged to gather more voter signatures on petitions to ensure that the question will be decided by voters in two years. More than 6,000 individuals who were involved in the initial circulation effort will be receiving new petitions in the next few weeks.

"Our club members and supporters have done a tremendous job keeping this important conservation issue alive in Michigan," Washington added. "We're asking them once again to talk with their family members, friends, neighbors, and co-workers and encourage them to sign to petitions that will give Michigan voters an opportunity to decide the issue."

Members of MUCC-affiliated conservation and outdoor recreation clubs in metro Detroit will be staffing a special MUCC booth at the Michigan State Fair to encourage fair goers to add their names to the growing list of Michigan voters who want to add wine coolers and mixed spirit beverage containers to Michigan's successful "Bottle Bill." The booth will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day of the fair.

"We're very close to a victory on this issue," Washington said. "With just a little more effort we'll give Michigan citizens an opportunity to stop the new trashing of our state."

Hearing is delayed on center lawsuit

The hearing for a court motion to halt construction of the Coventry Commons East shopping center in Canton has been delayed indefinitely.

An Aug. 15 hearing, sought by a Mayfair subdivision resident to head off construction of a 114,000-square-foot plaza at Morton Taylor and Joy roads, was delayed by Wayne Circuit Judge Louis Simmons on Aug. 12. This action followed an emergency motion filed by Craig John, attorney for the project developer, Nelson-Ross.

Carol Levitte, attorney for Mayfair resident Joseph Michelin who is seeking to stop construction of the shopping center, said the delay was granted to give John time to take a deposition from Michelin. The judge denied part of John's emergency motion, which sought to dismiss the motion filed by Michelin.

After Michelin's deposition is taken later this month, a new hearing date will likely be scheduled, Levitte said.

Leveling of ground at the construction site has been under way for several weeks.

County budget draws mixed reviews

By Lynn Waldemith
staff writer

There are a few surprises in the 1987 budget for Wayne County.

That's what western Wayne County commissioners are saying about the $203 million budget proposed by County Executive William Lucas.

But some commissioners are unhappy with the recommended cuts in the board's own expenses. The Lucas budget does not allocate any funding for the auditor general's office, the legislative research bureau, and the public information department, a provision that's "absolutely ludicrous," said Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster.

"The charter mandates an auditor general," said Beard, whose district includes Garden City and Westland. "As a legislative body, we have to have people do the proper research. And the public has a right to know about the the county's activities."

'As a legislative body, we have to have people do the proper research.'

Kay Beard

McNamara finds the proposed cut in the executive's department to be ironic.

Ed McNamara

He's pleased the budget renews funding for park services at current levels.

Milt Mack

He doesn't see any problem getting the budget passed.

Richard Manning

auditor general's formal report of the budget plan, but he doesn't expect a great deal of political squabbling.

"I don't see that it's going to be a problem getting the budget passed," he said. "The executive will obviously be tied up in the campaign, so what happens here is going to be secondary. It's going to be less political-oriented."

Lucas, the Republican candidate for governor, faces a showdown with Gov. James Blanchard in November. The county budget must be approved by the Board of Commissioners by Nov. 30.

Both Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano and Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, who is the Democratic nominee for county executive, said they are studying the proposed budget. But McNamara said he finds the recommended $286,000 cut in the county executive's department to be somewhat ironic.

"If it's a realistic cut, it should have been made earlier," he said. "That's my budget, not his (Lucas)."

Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, also sharply criticized the proposed cuts.

"IT'S ONE of those typical maneuvers to create controversy," he said. "I don't know that it's realistic. Both the auditor general and the legislative research bureau are third parties necessary for the commission to conduct its business."

The proposed budget calls for $3.1 million less in spending in fiscal 1987, despite the first increase in property tax revenue in nearly five years. But the county is expected to lose $10.7 million in federal revenue sharing and still suffers from a $35 million deficit.

The new budget calls for reductions in other departments, including the county executive's office, medical diagnostic service in the sheriff's department, the Wayne County Youth Home, and the Wayne County Clerk's office.

Commissioner Mack, whose district includes Canton, said he's pleased the budget renews funding for park services at current levels.

Park funding has been a bone of contention between Detroit and suburban commissioners in the past.

COMMISSION CHAIRMAN Richard Manning, D-Redford Township, said the Lucas budget is basically the tight spending plan he expected, although he anticipates a lot of "adjustments and fine tuning" will have to be made with it in the weeks ahead.

Manning said he's waiting for the

Klub Mates benefit MD

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

A clear idea and lots of enthusiastic community support helped staff and students at Plymouth's Kinder Care Learning Center raise $138 for muscular dystrophy in a public backyard carnival last week.

The idea was conceived by staff and executed by young students called Klub Mates. Mates were responsible for making and manning carnival games like powder puff scoop, people bingo and ring toss.

Staff solicited donations from community businesses — hotdogs from Hygrade Food Products Corp., pizza from Papa Ramano's and Domino's Pizza, soft drinks from Great Scott Supermarkets Inc., use of an Igloo drink machine from McDonald's of Plymouth, popcorn from Meijer's in Canton, balloons and helium from Elias Brothers Restaurants and United Rent-All of Plymouth.

The favorite event of all, everyone agreed, was the "moon walk," rented especially for the occasion.

Money raised from the carnival will be added to $1,200 already earned at previous fundraising events hosted by the center.

The ultimate goal is to raise $1,500 by this fall, center directors Elizabeth Manz and Anita Salyer said. Then center staff and students will present the money to Jerry Lewis during his annual Labor Day Weekend telethon fundraiser for muscular dystrophy.

The Plymouth center is one of 22 Kinder Care centers in Michigan. There are 1,500 such centers throughout the country. Kinder Care started business in 1968 and muscular dystrophy was adopted at that time as the charity of choice by the company.

Need job skills?

Center offers training, placement

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer

Diane Thornsbury received training at the ETC and now works at Shalmet Michigan Inc. in Canton Township.

By Lynn Waldemith
staff writer

Looking for work isn't an easy job. Especially when you're a single parent who can barely make ends meet. Just ask Diane Thornsbury, 25, of Wayne.

One year ago she was struggling as a part-time seamstress. She knew she wanted to make a dramatic change in her life, and she soon realized she wanted to learn clerical skills. Today she is employed as a clerical receptionist at a steel processing plant in Canton Township.

The Employment and Training Center (ETC) at John Glenn High School in Westland gave Thornsbury the help she needed.

"On a scale of one to 10, I'd give it a 10," she said. "It really did help me. You can't help but change, and it's for the better."

At ETC, Thornsbury and hundreds of other people in Wayne County have built the confidence and developed the essential job skills they need to become competitive members of the ever-changing workforce. What's more, they've received their job training free.

But job training isn't enough, according to Pat Gresock, one of the center's three job training specialists. The philosophy of the federally-

Patterson rips court for ballot decision

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Brooks Patterson, an ardent supporter of the death penalty, blasted the Michigan Court of Appeals for its decision Tuesday upholding a state law that, in effect, bars November ballot referendums on the death penalty and on curbs for utility rate increases.

In the ruling, the court upheld a 1973 law that set a limit of 180 days for collecting signatures for ballot proposals. In the process, it overturned a 1974 opinion by State Attorney General Frank Kelley that invalidated the law and allowed groups four years to collect signatures to place proposals on the ballot.

Signatures to put the issues of capital punishment and utility rate curbs on the Nov. 4 ballot were collected over three years.

"I'VE LOST A lot of confidence in the courts and I've lost respect for the judicial process," said Patterson, Oakland County prosecutor.

"I think it's an incredible decision when the (state) constitution allows for petition drives, the Legislature passes a law in conflict with the constitution and the court upholds the Legislature," he continued.

"Not only do I think that people who support capital punishment have lost, but the public at large has lost its right of petition. The 180-day limit is just too restrictive. And frankly, that's why the Legislature imposed it. They didn't want anyone doing an end run on them."

Patterson said if the Appeals Court decision is upheld in the state Supreme Court, it will mean an end to citizens' petition drives to place measures on the ballot.

"It will be impossible," he said. "I don't know of any organization that could do it in 180 days. You'd have to have an organization of 30-40,000 people. We have 23,000 supporters

'I think it's an incredible decision when the (state) constitution allows for petition drives, the Legislature passes a law in conflict with the constitution and the court upholds the Legislature.'

— Brooks Patterson

NANCY PUTNAM, a spokeswoman for the Michigan Citizens Lobby, which was behind the ballot proposal to limit utility rate increases, said Wednesday: "The Citizens Lobby was surprised by the decision. Our lawyers are drafting an appeal and conferring with the Attorney General's Office about their plans to appeal."

"We're going to ask the Supreme Court to take it up on an emergency basis. We have to move as fast as possible to get it on the ballot Nov. 4."

Consumers Power and Detroit Edison, the state's largest utilities, had sued to block the Citizens Lobby's ballot proposal, which would have banned rate increases to pay for unfinished power plants or those unnecessary to meet energy needs.

Dan Loopp, a spokesman for Kelley, said the attorney general "stands by his opinion that the right of the public to petition should be taken in the light most favorable to the petitioner."

Loopp said the Attorney General's Office would appear before the Supreme Court Wednesday asking the court to hear the appeal on an emergency basis.

The ruling could affect other petition drives under way, including one to establish a part-time Legislature, which is supported by Richard Chrysler, the unsuccessful candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Petition signatures for the ballot must be validated by the Secretary of State's Office by Sept. 5. According to the elections' division, two weeks are needed to process the signatures, which means the office would normally begin checking signatures Friday.

A total of 304,001 validated signatures is required to place a proposal on the ballot; 760,002 are required to recall officials elected statewide.

John Lauve, the chairman of the Recall Blanchard Committee, tried to file a friend of the court brief before the Court of Appeals but was denied.

"It's so outrageous, I don't know what to say, I'm so mad," he said of the ballot decision. "It's stealing elections in America. They've disenfranchised hundreds of thousands of voters."

Confidence-key to job success

funded ETC is to teach students everything they need to know in order to make them marketable, including a strong emphasis on communication skills and how to approach an employer.

"The program is geared for someone who wants a job yesterday," said Gresock. "We do everything at one time. It's very extensive training, and it's for people who say 'I need a job now.'"

ETC students can obtain job training in a variety of different areas, including accounting, word processing, electronics, auto repair, culinary arts, health and others. ETC serves low-income and unemployed people from Wayne County, excluding Detroit and the downriver communities. Classes are held in the William D. Ford Technical Center and John Glenn High School, 36105 Marquette.

Displaced workers and women on ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) are an example of those who have benefited the most from ETC. While some clients have specific skills they want to learn, many people have no idea of what they want to do.

"A lot of our clients have not had role models to help them do long-term goal setting," said Lorraine Brickman, ETC director. "So when they come in and we give them all of these options, they really are just overwhelmed. So we have to start with one piece at a time."

Before classes begin, ETC students are given precounseling, evaluated for job interests and skills, and tested in reading and math. Once classes begin, each student continually works with a counselor on his/her individual "employability development" plan. The plan is updated as a student moves from one goal to the next.

According to Gresock, the average ETC client starts to look for a position after about three months. Yet the majority of students remain in classes for 4-5 months in order to receive additional help and training during the job adjustment period.

"It's the first 30 or 60 days after they get on the job that is so critical to them maintaining the job," said Brickman.

"The support people here are with them all the way through. Usually after that 30 days, they've either made it or they're not going to make it. And if they don't make it, we keep working with them."

The advantages of the ETC placement service to employers are obvious. In addition to being able to contact ETC in the event any problems occur with a new employee, employers also have access to an ETC student's attendance records and teacher evaluations.

The ETC has an impressive success rate. About 75 percent of its clients obtain and maintain jobs. Brickman said the students are highly motivated, but they suffer from a lack of self-esteem. And many employers still stigmatize the long-term unemployed, women re-entering the job market and those on welfare.

"If they stereotype a whole group of people, and say 'No, we won't hire ADC mothers,' they've missed out on a good number of people who are well-qualified and who wound up being on ADC for a variety of uncontrollable circumstances," said Brickman.

Focus:HOPE provides free food to area needy

Focus:HOPE has free, nutritious food available immediately, for eligible senior citizens, children under 6, new mothers and pregnant women who live in the tri-county area.

In July the federal government authorized Focus:HOPE to add 16,000 low-income seniors to the Food for Seniors program and to increase participation in the Food Prescription Program for malnourished mothers and children.

Seniors must be at least 60 years of age, and monthly income cannot be more than $569 for one person, or $764 for two.

Children under 6 years, and mothers while they are pregnant and for one year after giving birth, are eligible if family income meets federal guidelines, based on unemployment, low wage earnings, or eligibility for public assistance programs like AFDC, Medicaid or food stamps.

All services are free and there is no waiting list. Transportation is available if needed. For more information and to see if you qualify, call Focus:HOPE at 863-1140 (Detroit area) or 332-8333 (Pontiac), weekdays 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. or bring proof of age and income to one of the following Focus:HOPE Food Centers:

- 1300 Oakman Blvd. at 14th, Detroit (8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.)
- 9151 Chalmers near Harper, Detroit (11 a.m. to 7 p.m.)
- 6353 W. Vernor at Livernois, Detroit (11 a.m. to 7 p.m.)
- 150 Osmun at S. Paddock, Pontiac (9 a.m. to 5 p.m.)
- 34508 Beverly Road near

Wayne Road, Romulus (8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.)

To reach eligible needy seniors as quickly as possible, Focus:HOPE staff members, cooperating churches and organizations, and numerous volunteers have been working hard. Many more volunteers are urgently needed to:

- Enroll seniors at Focus:HOPE Food Centers or in their homes;
- Deliver food packages to seniors who are homebound or who lack transportation;
- Pack food boxes or evenings and Saturday.

If you can help, please call Pat McMahon at Focus:HOPE, 883-7440, Monday to Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

● VETERANS PROGRAM EXTENDED

Area Vietnam-era and disabled veterans should be aware of recent changes affecting the Veterans Readjustment Appointments program. VRA is a federal hiring program providing special, non-competitive hiring of these veterans. Originally scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1984, the program has been extended through Sept. 30, 1986, through passage of the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act. It is not expected that the VRA program will be extended beyond that date.

In addition to extending the program, the act raised the entry grade level maximum from GS/WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. A Vietnam-era or disabled veteran who has completed no more than 14 years of education may qualify for a VRA. (This restriction may be waived for disabled veterans.) For further information, interested veterans may call the local American Legion hotline at 453-9494 and leave a message regarding information desired.

House seeks testing ban

Here's how area lawmakers were recorded on major roll-call votes before Congress began its current summer recess.

HOUSE

ARMS CONTROL — By a vote of 234 for and 155 against, the House adopted an amendment requiring the Administration to halt underground nuclear weapons testing, providing that the Soviets do the same and permit on-site verification.

Although unlikely to gain Senate approval, this expressed growing Capitol Hill concern that President Reagan is too recalcitrant in negotiating arms control with the Soviet Union.

The moratorium would affect tests of more than one kiloton, the equivalent of 1,000 tons of TNT, thus halting all but the smallest tests. It was attached to the fiscal 1987 military authorization bill (HR 4428).

Supporter Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., said "we need to stop this futile (nuclear arms) treadmill while verification is still impossible."

Opponent Robert Michel, R-Ill., called the amendment "the first step of a radical and unprecedented attack by the president's critics to capture and dominate arms control policy and foreign policy."

Members voting yes wanted to force a mutually verifiable nuclear testing moratorium between the Americans and Soviets.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.
Voting no: William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

AID TO THE PHILIPPINES — The House rejected, 195 for and 203 against, an amendment to prevent the United States from sending an additional $250 million in foreign aid to the Philippines during the current fiscal year.

Added to about $500 million in fis-

Roll Call Report

cal 1986 aid already approved for the Philippines, the extra money is intended to bolster the new, shaky democracy of President Corazon Aquino.

The amendment was offered to HR 5081, which was later sent to the Senate, and also contained $108 million in special aid to Haiti. Longtime dictators were ousted this year in both countries.

Amendment sponsor Gerald Solomon, R-N.Y., said the $250 million was unwarranted because Aquino has refused to commit herself to renewing U.S. leases for Clark Air Force Base and Subic Naval Base in the Philippines.

Opponent Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., said the money is needed to help the Aquino government defeat communist troops seeking to topple it.

Members voting yes were opposed to sending $250 million in special aid to the Philippines.

Voting yes: Pursell.
Voting no: Hertel, William Ford, Levin, Broomfield.

HIGHWAY BILLBOARDS — By a vote of 251 for and 159 against, the House approved what environmentalists said was the weaker of two pending amendments against unsightly billboards alongside federal highways.

The winning amendment was endorsed by the Outdoor Advertising Association of America, but opposed by the Sierra Club, the Audubon Society and the Reagan administration. It was attached to a highway bill (HR 3129) that awaited final House action.

It extends the current requirement that the federal government provide monetary compensation when it orders a billboard taken down. Conservationists say this sounds good but actually paralyzes enforcement because federal beautification money is drying up.

Killed by this vote was a plan to turn the billboard program over to the states, which would have to meet federal beautification standards using their own compensation procedures.

Supporter Andy Bosco, R-Calif., said "The principle we are trying to achieve is that signs will not be required to be taken down unless just compensation is paid for them."

Opponent Clay Shaw, R-Fla., called the amendment "The biggest bunch of protectionism for the outdoor advertising industry that I have ever seen in my life."

A yes vote was for the highway billboard amendment favored by the outdoor advertising lobby and opposed by the environmentalist lobby.

Voting yes: Pursell.
Voting no: Hertel, William Ford, Levin, Broomfield.

SENATE

PAC MONEY — By a vote of 69 for and 30 against, the Senate put a limit on the campaign money congressional candidates can receive from political action committees (PACs).

House incumbents and challengers could take in no more than $125,000 in a two-year election cycle. The Senate limit would range from $175,000 to $750,000 per candidate, depending on state populations.

The limits were added to an unre-tracked bill (S 655) that later was shelved. While campaign finance reformers praised the vote, they said PAC limits have almost no chance of becoming law this year because S 655 is a low-priority bill.

PACs, by which special pleaders legally use money to curry favor with lawmakers, supplied one-fourth of all congressional campaign contributions in 1984.

Supporter Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said PAC money is "destroying the election process. It is breaking down public confidence in free elections and it is ruining the character and quality of campaigns."

Opponent Rudy Boeschwitz, D-Minn., said: "I do not begin to buy the argument that senators and congressmen are for sale."

Senators voting yes wanted to sharply limit PAC contributions to congressional candidates.

Voting yes: Carl Levin, Donald Riegle.

RELIGIOUS GARB — By a vote of 51 for and 49 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment giving military commanders authority to permit troops to wear unobtrusive religious apparel while in uniform.

Offered to the fiscal 1987 defense authorization bill (S 2638), the amendment sought to legalize a religious expression that the U.S. Supreme Court says is unprotected by the First Amendment.

Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who voted to kill the amendment, said, "The Department of Defense should never be put in the position of endorsing or rejecting specific religions..."

Pete Wilson, R-Calif., said the amendment places "a small burden" on the military compared to its value in enhancing religious freedom.

Senators voting no wanted uniformed troops to be able to wear religious garb when their commanders permit it.

Voting no: Levin, Riegle.

Supervised playground is a success

A supervised playground program resurrected by the city of Plymouth this summer after a seven-year absence has been declared a resounding success by Chuck Skene, parks and recreation director.

More than 210 children citywide registered.

"We know from past programs any program will grow as we go along," Skene said. "This was a very good start."

Skene said he'll recommend that the program continue next year.

Swimming, bowling and field trips especially were popular this summer, he said.

Play activities were offered on a daily basis from July 7 through Aug. 15 at Firehouse No. 2, Jaycee Park, Garden Club Park and Colonial Kiwanis Park.

The greatest participation was at Jaycee Park, the lowest at Firehouse No. 2. "We may consider changing sites after evaluation," Skene said.

The city commission allocated $12,000 to reinstitute the program. Local college students worked as play leaders.

Assistant principal named

A 16-year employee of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools has been appointed assistant principal at Stevenson Junior High School.

Wayne Parsons, who has spent his entire career with the district at Adams Junior High School, will replace David Gracey, who recently was named principal at Vandenberg Elementary School.

A Livonia resident, Parsons, 43, joined the district in 1971 and taught English, mathematics and social studies at Adams. He also served as the social science department chairman and coached boys' and girls' track.

Parsons received his bachelor of arts degree from Maryglade College Seminary and his master of arts and education specialist degrees from Eastern Michigan University.

School Superintendent Dennis O'Neill in recommending the appointment told the school board that Parsons "has a sixth sense and positive attitude" that he looks for in administrators and an "excellent rapport with students, parents and his colleagues."

O'Neill, while pleased with Parsons' selection, told the board he was disappointed that no women had applied for the appointment, a position shared by board president Mathew McCusker.

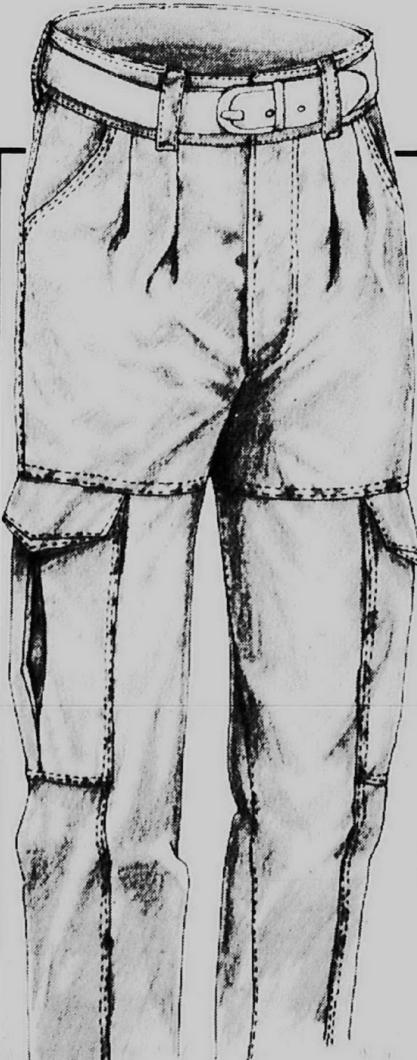

"I HAVE no problem with this appointment, but I'm sensitive to the lack of administrative positions at the secondary level held by women," McCusker said. "I'm concerned, too, that no women applied."

The appointment was approved unanimously by the board and praised by trustees Kathleen Chorbagan and Sylvia Kozorosky.

Chorbagan described Parsons as "energetic and enthusiastic" and told O'Neill she was happy to see the last few administrative appointments coming from the district's younger staffers.

Kozorosky called him an excellent coach and noted that "he will be missed by the Adams students." Parsons assumes his position in time for the Aug. 25 start of school. He will be paid $41,696, just $211 more than he made as a member of the teaching staff.

The slight salary increase drew comment from board secretary Kenneth Barnhill, who quipped, "I hope he realizes what he's getting into for an additional $211 a year."

KENNETH J. Roney Manor

Nursing Care with all the luxuries.

It's sad, but most nursing homes provide only the minimum required care and treatment. But at Kenneth J. Roney Manor, a brand-new nursing care facility serving the metro area, there is a different attitude. So-called "luxuries" like personal comfort, honest care, friendly companionship, and true rehabilitation are considered everyday necessities. Meeting special needs is also standard practice at Roney Manor. Referring physicians are asked to identify specific needs for each patient. Roney Manor is uniquely staffed and equipped to carry out such prescribed programs.

But nursing care patients need more than clinical care. They need a little love and someone to talk with. Activities to keep their minds stimulated. Physical therapy to keep muscles moving. Family visits to warm the heart. And nutritious meals. These are more Roney Manor "luxuries." Roney Manor is affiliated with the internationally respected Detroit Medical Center, so quality is very closely supervised. And specialists are on call 24 hours a day.

The luxury of having someone truly care. It's the Roney Manor difference. Call Janet McEnhill for a personal tour and more information.

Time for drivers to broaden vision

NEXT WEEK there will be a noticeable change in traffic patterns in Canton and Plymouth. Motorists should take note as the change is both significant and important.

Next week marks the opening of school, which means the return to the roadways of school buses and school children crossing (hopefully) at intersections.

During the summer months the defensive driver learned to become more alert while driving in subdivision streets and residential areas, aware that children were out of school and were out in mass on the sidewalks and streets, playing ball, maneuvering skateboards, riding bicycles, etc. These are the scenes of importance to the alert driver.

With school open again, the alert driver only needs to watch out for the above scenes for about three hours each weekday afternoon until the change of seasons and time zone changes cut down even more the volume of children playing on or near the streets.

Instead the eyes of the alert driver now will be watching the flashing lights on school buses, aware that all vehicles in both directions must stop when the school bus flashing lights come on and remain stopped until the flashers are turned off.

The alert driver's mind instinctively knows that when a bus stops, young children may be getting on or off and there may be a little one darting out into traffic.

THE ALERT driver also recognizes the familiar form of crossing guards or safety service patrol members at intersections in the general vicinity of school buildings or at crossings enroute to school.

The alert driver's mind instinctively knows that a crossing guard may step out into the roadway and signal a car to stop. He will be ready to stop. The defensive driver does not speed up to the crossing, causing the guard to wonder if he is seen or not.

That driver also instinctively knows that not all school children will patiently wait for the patrol member or crossing guard to signal it's ok to cross. Some will sneak by and run across the street to a waiting friend or other lure across the street. The alert driver knows that the mere presence of a crossing guard standing on the sidewalk is not a good reason to speed through the intersection.

There is a sixth sense the alert driver possesses that tells him to watch carefully and be especially alert on weekdays between the hours of about 7:30 to 9 a.m. and 2:30 to 4 p.m. He knows to watch out for students of all ages, not just the little ones in kindergarten and lower elementary levels. He knows that often middle school students do dumb things and sometimes high schoolers do also. And so he drives defensively at all times when students could be enroute to or from school.

Most of us are alert, defensive drivers. But sometimes it takes one or two weeks to adjust driving habits to the change in environment. It takes awhile to reprogram our "instincts" to be alert at the right times. That's why we should program our minds now to watch out for all those danger signals we should watch out for and how those signals differ once school opens from during the summer.

And so the Observer urges its readers to remember that school opens next week. That will result in traffic pattern changes, noticeable and important — especially to thousands of youngsters riding buses to or walking to school. Far better for us to watch out for them than to rely on them watching out for us.

Down the drain?

Leadership needed on ballot question

CAMPAIGNING FOR the governor's office will be a full-time task for Wayne County Executive William Lucas in the weeks ahead. But we hope the GOP gubernatorial hopeful will give county business — and more importantly the issue of drain commissioner — more than a passing nod.

A charter ballot proposal to eliminate the office of the drain commission, currently held by Charles Youngblood, may be in jeopardy because of the recent actions by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Lucas, a Republican and a lame-duck executive, won't have any influence with the overwhelmingly Democratic commission. But his interest could help focus attention on the need for voters to approve the charter amendment on the November ballot.

LUCAS' GUBERNATORIAL bid also presents an opportunity for Edward McNamara, who most likely will be the next county executive, to step forward and assume leadership of the proposal. McNamara, the Democratic nominee for executive (which is tantamount to election in this county), has advocated eliminating the office. His leadership could well prevent any commission tampering with the proposal.

And we believe McNamara will have to campaign for the proposal if the charter change is expected to pass in November.

Past attempts to eliminate the drain commissioner as an elective office have been resisted by some Wayne County Democratic Party and labor leaders. More interested in politics than in public service, they argued against eliminating an elective office they can easily win.

Recent actions of the county board also may threaten the charter amendment. In May, the commission voting on the proposal for the second time, narrowly approved (8-7) placing the charter change on the November ballot. In recent weeks that fragile coalition may have been damaged.

Earlier this month the board ousted John Hertel as chairman because commissioners were angered by Hertel's dismissal of Clarence Young from the drain board. (Hertel dismissed Young as chairman of the ways and means committee July 17, after Young approved a lawsuit challenging the charter ballot proposal.) Young, as chairman of ways and means, Hertel and Youngblood had comprised the three-member drain board.

Then Hertel was ousted in a 12-3 vote with area commissioners Richard Manning, D-Redford Township, Kay Beard, D-Inkster and Mary Dumas, R-Livonia joining the effort. Milt Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton voted against the move and was quickly banished by Manning, the new chairman, from the public services committee. Mack, a reform-minded commissioner, had been supportive of eliminating the drain commission post.

NEXT WEEK Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer will hear arguments challenging the legality of the ballot issue.

Youngblood's critics have accused him of over-assessing, giving out contracts without competitive bids, comingling funds and keeping poor records. Youngblood is inaccessible when reporters and commissioners seek out responses.

He faced many of the same charges in his 1982 renomination campaign and voters paid little attention. So it does no good to make Youngblood the issue.

The issue should be the drain commission office and it should be consolidated into general government, not because of Youngblood but because it makes good sense and good government.

But the proposal needs some help if it's to scale the last few hurdles. It will take leadership — in part from Lucas and in a larger part from McNamara — if it's to pass in November.

Marketing a modern community college

WHEN I WANT to get a rise out of someone, I call him/her "good ol' solid reliable" — as in "good ol' solid reliable Steve."

People bristle at being called "good ol' solid reliable," even though the words are positive. The phrase connotes dullness.

People look at community colleges as "good ol' solid reliable" institutions. So the two-year schools are doing something about it.

Schoolcraft last year embarked on a plan to market itself like a business. Oakland is mailing county residents a spiffy four-color brochure this month that's designed to demand attention and lure you into keeping it on the coffee-table.

A GUIDING light in all of this is Catherine B. Ahles, director of college relations for Macomb Community College. Folks in Redford Township may remember her as good ol' Cathy Bonna-deo when she was a blonde kid.

"We had always had the traditional educational approach to advancing the college in that we would get an English teacher who was pretty good with people, or get a newspaper journalist from the local newspaper and let them do it," she says in the current newsletter of the Michigan Community College Association.

Macomb got a lot of attention this month with its bold ballot plan to upgrade its own facilities and build space for four-year colleges to run extension programs. Much sophisticated educational and marketing thinking went into it.

IN MARKETING jargon, Ahles said, her "shop" has four key positions:

- Enrollment enhancement programs.
- Public policy and public opinion management.
- Internal client support.
- Institutional policy and positioning.

Tim Richard

The modern community college must market itself — to voters, to folks who never thought of going there but could benefit, to enrolled students, to its own staff.

It's more than advertising. It's "putting together a program based on market needs that have been identified to us" and then presenting it to the entire marketplace, Ahles tells us.

AN ODD institution, the community college.

It started life as the junior college, where high school graduates with limited means could get the first two years of a four-year degree.

In the 1960s when Michigan embarked on its program of serving every corner of the state with a community college, they became a haven for Vietnam-era draft dodgers.

In the early '70s they became vocational-technical schools, and later they became the "re-entry" vehicle for older women seeking the economic mainstream.

In the last year I've had the great good fun of covering the latest phase — the community college as a vehicle for economic development. Schoolcraft runs a business aid center, training employees for airlines and restaurants. Oakland opened a bunch of Computer Integrated Manufacturing labs.

"Best investment we ever made," said retired OCC president Robert F. Roelofs.

Institutions like OCC, Schoolcraft and Macomb deserve a more elegant appellation than "good ol' solid reliable." They need marketing. Thanks to some good leadership they're getting it.

We can make summer safer

IN JUST A little over a week we all can sit back and relax. The kids have made it through another summer — alive.

Well, most kids have made it — but not all. And that's the tragedy of summer. Those of us who make a paycheck by hanging around newsrooms never get used to the shadow of death that hangs over the summer months.

Sure, it becomes part of the territory, but always an uncomfortable part.

And while death is part of living, when it comes to the slaughter of youth during summer, it never quite fits in to the cycle of nature. And it's always a waste.

The summer death cycle begins around graduation usually with the drunk driving deaths. Celebrations quickly turn into tragedies. Then come the water accidents — broken necks and drownings. These are closely followed by the motorcycle accidents.

This week one of our local editions told of how a young woman about to get married was killed in an auto accident. Earlier this summer I stood on the shore of a local lake and watched scuba divers search for the body of a drowned youth. Just minutes earlier that same regulated and ignored out on the road, they become death machines.

You've seen 'em — teen or pre-teen buzzing down the road at a deceptively unsafe speed, weaving across intersections and cross streets, dodging the traffic.

Many times these youths are without helmets or any other safety gear. For some strange reason, some people think these machines must be safer than, say, a motorcycle, because they're smaller.

But that's dumb. Traveling at 30 miles per hour in an open-air two-wheeled vehicle is dangerous whether that machine be large or small.

Something we tend to forget is that a motorized vehicle at just about any speed, especially in traffic, stops being a toy and becomes a heavy-duty responsibility.

Parents who allow their children to drive these vehicles unsupervised would be smart to think twice. Those in society who make the laws and ordinances of the land really should do more to protect these children.

And the police should enforce the laws and ordinances that already exist. After all, it might be your child who is saved for another summer.

Love of golf, skill lead to Hall of Fame

MELVIN (BUD) STEVENS and I have two things in common. We both developed a love for golf in our boyhood days toting sticks as caddies, and neither of us ever has taken a lesson from a pro.

After more than 50 years of the self-taught approach, I must admit I have flunked.

For Bud it has been quite the opposite, as will be evidenced Sunday night when he will be inducted into the Michigan Golf Hall of Fame in ceremonies at the Indianwood Country Club in Lake Orion.

The Hall's "Class of '86" also will include one of Bud's long-time amateur foes of Michigan links, Pete Green, as well as Tom Draper and the revered pro, the late Tommy Armour.

IF YOU WONDER how elite a company this is, roll these names of former honorees off your tongue: Walter Hagen, Al Watrous, Horton Smith,

Fred DeLano

Chuck Kocsis, Chick Harbert, Glen Johnson, Leo Diegel, Walter Burkemo, Patti Shook Boice, Wilfrid Reid, James D. Standish Jr., John Barnum, Dorothy Higbie and Dave Hill.

The Hall of Fame was Indianwood's own inspirational creation a few years ago. The selection committee consists of men and women who are close to the state's organizational golf core who are in position to judge individual contributions and competitive accomplishments.

The presentation to Stevens will be made at Sunday's banquet by a similarly built, long-hitting 200-pound fireplug, a man with a wonderful way with words, Jack Saylor of the Detroit Free Press.

From then on, Indianwood's 17th will be known as the "Bud Stevens hole," according to the club's general manager, Dick Christe. If you and the missus care to attend at 7:30 Sunday, banquet tickets are $60 each.

FOR YEARS BUD, now 53, has been co-owner of Guardian Manufacturing Corp. with Wes Munshaw, who is about to retire. The firm is on Levan Road in Livonia and makes assembly fixtures for the automotive industry, having moved from Detroit in 1967.

Since he was a boy growing up in Southfield, Stevens has shown a natural aptitude for hitting a golf ball a country mile, straight and true to the hole. We of the Observer & Eccentric take pride in the fact that he has been a two-time winner in our own men's tourney, which will have its 1986 presentation Sept. 13 and 14 at Whispering Willows.

But winning tournaments has been a way of life for him almost since he broke in as a caddie at Plum Hollow at the age of 10. After winning the state caddie crown, Bud tied for the Michigan high school title and went on to take the post championship at Fort Sill, Okla., while serving in the army.

That was only the beginning. After graduation from Michigan State University, where he enrolled on a Chick Evans scholarship, Bud began mopping up in Michigan adult ranks, winning the state amateur title three times, the championship of the Golf Association of Michigan in six different years and the Michigan medal play crown twice.

"I never took a golf lesson and still haven't," he remarked a few days ago.

"I picked it up just by watching other people play, trying to copy their good points."

STEVENS NEVER has succumbed to the lure of the professional golf circuit, but is frank to admit, "Golf has opened up a lot of doors for me in business ways, although it doesn't help unless you have a worthwhile product to sell."

For 17 years he played out of Western Golf Club in Redford and now, as a Plymouth Township resident, has turned to Washtenaw Country Club as his home course.

Bud calls golfers "a great fraternity of people," adding, "you don't have to play well to enjoy the game."

I'd have congratulated him anyway on the prestige that goes with his Hall of Fame induction, but it's all the more meaningful when an authority says something like that to a silver duffer.

Come on, folks, give us self-employed a break

I BELONG TO a despised minority, one constantly persecuted and deprived of its human dignity. We are the lowest of the low, the oppressed of the oppressed. We are "done," they say, "like you shouldn't do a dog."

I work at home.

That's right. Now, it wasn't supposed to be this way. Folks like me were supposed to be the acme of tomorrow. We would be the New Age norm, model citizens of the World of the Future, the Global Village where everyone would work at home in his or her own space-age hut.

I would be a doubleplusgood unit, saving scarce commuter resources and being more productive as well, with my schedule flexed to meet my individual hours. But McLuhan was wrong. Technology will never outmode the workplace because everyone needs somewhere to go in the morning. Otherwise, the world will think you're a bum.

It starts with the neighbors. The lady across the street will call you up to watch the kids "because she KNOWS you're at home!" You're under deep surveillance, and if you knock off to take a five-minute walk, they're all on someone's front porch, gossiping about you and plotting how to snag you for babysitting.

But that's not the worst. As usual, it's your spouse. Groceries, chores, errands . . . and the phone calls. The home phone rings constantly, never gives up and your wife never hears it.

It doesn't stop there, oh, no! The UPS man comes the very instant you're busiest. Your wife arrives with groceries whenever you're calling a client. But this is small spuds compared to the ultimate drawback of working at home: the constant humiliation visited on those without a separate business address.

"Where do you work?" they ask you at parties. Not "what is your occupation," or "how come you look so good?" No, all the sternly attractive lady professionals ask is "Where Do You Work?" If you answer "at home," their eyes glaze, their lips curl and they drawl with the most exquisite of contempt:

"How interesting. A househusband." Even worse is when you need to cash a check. The salesclerk asks your business address, and when you give it, she looks blank for a second.

"That's yer home number." "I'm self-employed," I clarify. "UNEMPLOYED," she writes.

"No. NO. NO. NO." I shout. "That's SELF-employed."

"SELF-EMPLOYED," she corrects, and then she winks. "That's OK, sugar. I was out of work in '81 myself."

Why must it be this way. We work-at-homes are tidy, moral people. We do not clutter the freeways at rush hour, nor do we flood the bistros at noon. Heck, even the President works at home, in a little round room over the garage.

I think we need to organize. All us Self-Unemployed ought to form a chapter of Work-At-Homers Anonymous.

We'll meet on a rotating basis at a fellow-member's house for mutual support. No, it's not a therapy group: just a bunch of self-employed folks who'll dress up in suits and get together several mornings a week. Join us.

Just tell everyone that you're going to the office.

Two-towner is puzzled

To the editor:

(An open letter to James Poole, Canton Township Supervisor).

In the Aug. 14 edition of the Observer, I quizzically read the article entitled, "Balloon festival launching site up in air again."

I live in Canton. My office is in Plymouth. I am a two-towner.

In my opinion, the balloon festival is the most class event now being held on Canton turf. It is somewhat more glamorous than the Cow Chip Fling.

The long-range benefits to Canton being blessed as the locale for the balloon festival are immeasurable. Minus this event, most Michiganders are of the opinion that Canton is either in Ohio or China.

Three grand to help bring Canton out of oblivion is a pittance, regardless of who else might get some lateral benefits.

Plymouth, I'm sure, would not look askance at being selected as the site for the 1988 Olympics out of concern for the lateral benefits to NBC.

Canton . . . do it! You need it!

If you seek nature, look around you

By Timothy Nowicki
special writer

One of the nice things about an interest in nature, is that no matter where you go there is something you can observe and appreciate. Traveling around the state or across the states, naturalists find interest in the similarities and differences found in the natural world.

For instance, I just returned from giving blood at the Livonia Red Cross station, and while lying down looking out the window, I identified a great-crested flycatcher feeding in the cottonwood trees behind the building. Watching the bird hunt for insects made the time fly by.

Flycatchers, as their name implies, feed primarily on insects. Watching their abrupt turns and erratic flight, traces the flight of insects. In order to help them catch insects in flight, flycatchers have wide mouths and long whiskers (rectal bristles) that protrude from the base of their bill. When an insect touches a whisker, the flycatcher is directed to its location and immediately grabs it in its bill.

Shallow, rapid wingbeats aid flycatchers in catching insects, but it also helps to identify them at a distance. Coupled with a partial crest, not as prominent as that of a cardinal, and their habit of returning to the same branch after short feeding flights, helps birders identify flycatchers in general.

Great-crested flycatchers nest in tree cavities. Natural holes or old woodpecker excavations may be used. Birds can also be induced into nature

artificial nest boxes too. No matter where the nest is, great-crested flycatchers have the curious habit of lining their nest with a shed snake skin. Many people have speculated as to why they have such a habit, but on one knows for sure. Some nests have onion skins or cellophane as substitutes for snake skins — maybe shininess is the attraction.

Whether driving down the road, sitting on your front porch, weeding your garden, or giving blood, you can observe the wonders of the natural world.

While lying down looking out the window, I identified a great-crested flycatcher feeding in the cottonwood trees behind the building.

OU closes enrollment

Officials at Oakland University announced Tuesday that for the first time they have closed both graduate and undergraduate enrollment.

The action was taken, they say, to stabilize enrollment near last fall's record level of 12,586.

According to spokesman Jim Llewellyn, application for undergraduate school was closed July 15. Graduate applications were closed effective Aug. 15. Last year undergraduate enrollment was cut off Aug. 1 and graduate enrollment was not limited.

Those students who have applied but not yet been accepted will be allowed to register only on a space-available basis once they are accepted, said Llewellyn.

He said that applications for graduate school are up 62 percent over last fall primarily in the field of education.

He said that late registration, which ended last week, set a record of 10,283, including both graduate and undergraduate schools.

Final registration will be from Aug. 26 through Sept. 8.

Those with questions can call the school at 370-3450, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Seniors run, toss, dive, go for the gold

By Christine Rizk
staff writer

IT WASN'T much different from any other type of competition, save for the participants — there were cheers from family members, sighs of fatigue from competitors and cries of the victors.

Perhaps the only difference during the day of winners and losers was the aged veneer of wrinkles and gray hairs of those who competed during the seventh annual Michigan Senior Olympics at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus Aug. 16.

More than 600 seniors from Farmington, Rochester, Livonia, Westland, Canton and Oak Park turned out for the event, which featured everything from shuffleboard and horseshoes to swimming and track.

Fewer than that, however, left with gold, silver or bronze medals indicating their expertise in their field of competition.

Said one senior, who voiced his complaint about the ability of his nemesis, "Why is he able to keep coming back and competing in this class? Nobody can beat him and I've tried for three years straight."

The answer, according to the volunteers who staffed the event sites, is simple — everyone has the opportunity to practice for the senior olympics well ahead of time (some seniors, in fact, prepared months ahead for competition).

Those who arrive in top form are encouraged to compete and are rewarded, said Marye Miller, in charge of registration for the olympics.

"It's like anything competitive," she said. "If you're the best, you should win."

THE OLYMPICS is designed to encourage better exercising and good health, Miller said. "Seniors have really not been into the sports scene for too long. I guess everyone expected them to sit in rocking chairs at their age."

A glance toward the playing fields for cycling, track and tennis indicated that many seniors were set to defie that image.

As dozens of spectators gathered to cheer on family members, the competitors, 55 and older, looked more like young U.S. olympic hopefuls on their way to fame and fortune than like seasoned grandfathers and grandmothers.

Helen Morcom, 67, from Garden City, won a bronze medal for the mile walk. Her activities outside the campus depict the kind of lifestyle most seniors competing Saturday lead — active and healthy absent wheelchairs or rocking chairs.

Morcom, who participated in her fourth senior olympics this year, plays volleyball, baseball and badminton when she's not preparing for competition.

"I'd much rather be active than sitting at home," she said. "I hate just sitting. Besides, I've always been active, even when I was younger."

Jennie Hughes and her husband, Robert, share a unique tie to the olympics.

Hughes, 66, from Farmington Hills, received a bronze medal in the 100-yard dash.

Her third year in competition, she practices running daily.

"I'm the active one, not him," she said. "He's just my coach."

Robert said he earned his reward vicariously through her.

Active or not, more seniors are entering the competition and more spectators are turning out for the events, Miller said.

It's a sign, she added, that seniors are fast becoming a more important part of a society that traditionally left them sitting in rocking chairs past the age of 60.

"We emphasize an active lifestyle," Miller said. "More importantly, we advocate senior recognition. Back 20 or 30 years ago, when these people were in their 30s and 40s, there was no time for recreation," said Miller. "They were told to work and raise kids so they have not really been in the sports scene for too long."

The idea, she added, is convince seniors first and then others, that they can still remain an active and important part of society.

THE MICHIGAN SENIOR Olympic Committee, while advocating good health and exercise, recognized that the spirit of competition would undoubtedly prevail.

"Age has nothing to do with the fact that these people want to take home medals," Miller said.

In an effort to promote senior activities, the committee will help sponsor participants who take first-place honors and who qualify by time to the U.S. National Senior Olympics in St. Louis next year.

It will be the first time seniors will gather to compete on a national level.

The Michigan Senior Olympic Committee next year will even sponsor a Miss Senior Olympics.

Sylvia Kozorosky, deputy director of Westland's Department of Aging, attributed seniors' abilities during competition to the kinds of activities offered in their communities.

"If a community lets seniors see that they are a useful, vital part of that community, then the chance for ability to flourish is there," said Kozorosky.

One senior's shirt stated it as aptly as comments by the olympic committee — "Life, Be In It."

"This is our third year here," said Albert Dill, 62. "It's like an old song — it's so familiar."

George Grantham took the bronze medal in the 100-yard dash, then headed for more competition on the tennis court. The 65-year-old Farmington resident, when not in competition, coaches a soccer team and is umpire for a baseball team.

This is the third year Phil Ladouceur competed in the horseshoe event and the third year the West Bloomfield resident walked away with a gold medal.

Harry Weaver (at left), a 78-year-old resident from Troy, tugs on Louis Menghin's old English bicyling helmet. Menghin is director of St. Clair County Council for the Aging, based in Marine City. Weaver won the gold in his class.

Iva Folds, 60, of Canton takes to the track for the cycling event.

Participants and spectators kept arriving and leaving all day, but Virgil Pyle of Westland spent the entire day on campus practicing for his event.

Abuse problems hit business hard

By Julie Brown
staff writer

SUBSTANCE ABUSE problems cost U.S. businesses huge sums of money each year.

Those costs include the lost time and reduced productivity of chemically dependent workers, along with wages for temporary personnel and overtime payments to other workers to pick up the slack.

Errors of omission or commission made by employees with substance abuse problems also cost businesses big bucks.

It isn't only the larger corporations that suffer the consequences of substance abuse problems in the workplace, according to Judith Darlington of Plymouth Family Service. Smaller companies have less money to lose than do larger ones, and thus are more likely to feel the pinch sooner.

Expense account padding or embezzlement of company funds by chemically dependent workers can leave a smaller company in dire straits. Smaller companies also have fewer employees to cover for the problem worker.

Employers can, however, take steps to reduce the problems associated with chemical dependency, according to Darlington, who is a substance abuse specialist with Plymouth Family Service.

DARLINGTON, A Plymouth resident, spoke at Monday night's meeting of the Plymouth Business and Professional Women, held at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

An estimated 10 percent of those in the U.S. workforce have problems with chemical dependency or other personal problems that affect job performance significantly, according to Darlington. Of that number, 6 percent have problems with substance abuse.

Alcoholism is the most common form of chemical dependency, she said.

"No one sets out to lose control and thereby become an alcoholic. They drink because they no longer have a choice. They have lost control."

Alcoholism is a chronic disease that gets progressively worse, she said. As with other forms of substance abuse, it cuts across lines of race, class and gender.

Some definitions of alcoholism and other forms of chemical dependency tend to focus on physical affects, she said. It's also important, however, to consider the psychological implications of substance abuse.

Alcoholism is evident when an individual drinks and gets into trouble with the law, the family, the employer or others — and keeps on drinking.

Although alcoholism is the most common form of chemical dependency, other substance abuse problems also occur in the workplace.

CROSS-ADDICTION — both to alcohol and to other drugs — is now more common, she said. Cocaine use, including use of "crack," is also on the rise.

"Coke addicts die young," Darlington told the Plymouth BPW members. "They often end up in the emergency room labeled d.o.a." (dead on arrival).

There are two important aspects of dealing with substance abuse problems in the workplace, Darlington said.

Identifying the problem as early as possible is the first step, followed by motivating the individual to seek help.

The primary indicator of substance abuse problems is frequent absenteeism, Darlington said. Not all employees with poor attendance records have substance abuse problems, but chronic absenteeism merits a closer look.

Other signs of substance abuse problems among workers include:

- An inability to get along with supervisors or co-workers.

- Prolonged lunch hours or frequent disappearance during coffee breaks, followed by obvious impairment of ability;

- A poor attitude, including being uncooperative;

- Regular tardiness and early departure, which may be associated with hangovers or with symptoms of withdrawal;

- An inordinate number of medical problems;

- A change in work habits and noticeable decline in job performance.

"YOU SEE that the job just isn't being done as well," Darlington told the BPW members at the Hillside Inn.

For larger companies, creating employee assistance programs can be a big help in dealing with substance abuse problems among employees.

Such programs are staffed by trained professionals who are able to identify problem employees and then direct them to appropriate sources of help.

"Motivating a person to receive help can sometimes be very difficult," she said.

Employees are more likely to seek help if they have a clear understanding of the consequences of not doing so, according to Darlington. Directives to seek help that accompany verbal or written warnings to employees should spell out those consequences.

Evaluations conducted for employee assistance programs are done by outside agencies because of the trust and confidentiality issues involved, Darlington said. Having assistance available from such an outside source can help in getting reluctant employees into treatment.

Firing employees with substance abuse problems isn't necessarily the answer to the problem, she said.

Helping chemically dependent workers become productive again involves identifying their problems and then directing them to sources of help, according to Judith Darlington of Plymouth Family Service.

Helping the troubled employee

Aside from considerations of the devastation to workers and their families, the costs of training new workers often are too great to make dismissal of problem employees a good solution.

THE SAVINGS associated with employee assistance programs include the jobs saved, along with the costs of hiring and training new employees or hiring temporary personnel, Darlington said. Such programs can also help make the traditionally adversarial relationship between management and unions a more cooperative one.

For smaller companies, setting up a formal employee assistance program may be too expensive. Other ways can be found to help workers with substance abuse problems, she told the Plymouth BPW members.

Contracting with an agency to provide such services for employees is one option, Darlington said. The costs of treatment of substance abuse problems are often covered by employee health insurance plans.

"There are all kinds of ways of getting these services."

The symptoms of burn-out on the job may parallel those of substance abuse problems in the workplace, Darlington said in response to a question. A professional evaluation conducted by an outsider with the necessary training is helpful in making that determination.

If the individual doesn't get such an evaluation and the problems persist, it's more likely that substance abuse is involved, she said.

For additional information, call Darlington at Plymouth Family Service, 453-0890.

Family violence conference set

The Michigan Coalition Against Domestic Violence and the Tri-County Coalition Against Domestic Violence are sponsoring a conference on "Balancing the Scales: Effective Criminal Justice Intervention in Domestic Assault Cases."

The conference on domestic violence will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 24-25, at Mercy College in Detroit.

During the conference, personnel from the Duluth Abuse Intervention Project will present information on the community team approach used in that Minnesota city. The team includes representatives from the prosecuting attorney's office, the police department, the courts and women's rights advocates.

The keynote speaker will be Susan Schechter, author of "Women and Male Violence." She will discuss "A Theoretical Framework for Designing Public Policy in Domestic Assault Cases."

The Michigan Coalition Against Domestic Violence is a non-profit organization made up of domestic violence service providers, related agencies and concerned individuals. The Tri-County Coalition Against Domestic Violence serves as Region 5 for the state organization.

THE COALITION supports the reduction of the incidence of domestic assault and the improvement of services to victims of domestic violence. It also conducts educational programs to inform Michigan residents about the extent and nature of domestic violence.

The registration deadline for the conference is Sept. 15. The registration fee of $50 includes course materials, lunch and refreshments. Law enforcement personnel may use Act 302 funds for the training program.

Additional information on the conference is available from the Michigan Coalition Against Domestic Violence, P.O. Box 7032, Huntington Woods 48070. The telephone number is 961-0290.

Arab Christians

A little-known ancient heritage

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

MEET AN Arab priest," is how the Rev. George Shalhoub likes to introduce himself.

Shalhoub, a Syrian who arrived in the United States in 1972 to minister to members of the orthodox in metropolitan Detroit's west side, is the priest at St. Mary Antiochian Orthodox Christian Church in Livonia.

A warm man abounding with energy, Shalhoub likes to emphasize human commonality with a sort of "once you get to know me, you'll love me," philosophy that has a way of marking every word he utters.

But he laments that so few Americans "know him," meaning how few are fully aware of Arab Christianity.

"The Antiochian Orthodox church is the most ancient of all Christian churches," he said. "We are the earliest recorded church in Christianity." Antiochian is referred to in Acts 11:2.

That Americans are confused about Arab-American heritage is no secret. The average American is unaware that Arabs possess a strong Christian heritage or that they come from a variety of countries, each possessing distinct cultural characteristics.

PERHAPS MOST frustrating to Shalhoub is American confusion with nationality and the Moslem religion. Many Americans mistakenly think Islam is nationality. They are unaware that Christian Arabs live side by side with Moslem Arabs in every country of the Middle East, with the possible exception of Saudi Arabia.

Saudi Arabia is the keeper of the most holy cities of Islam — Mecca and Medina — and Saudi law prohibits the practice of any religion other than Islam. However, foreign workers in the country who are Christian — Palestinians, Lebanese, Egyptians and others — discreetly hold religious services. In Shalhoub's mind, "Ignorance is the source of all evil. I have found out Americans are the most compassionate people in the world — if you can reach them. But getting the story to them can be difficult."

Shalhoub knows world events of recent years have contributed to the problem. Americans are more aware than ever of the Middle East, but too often the image is negative. And this results in prejudice.

In fact, increasing acts of discrimination and violence against Arab Americans resulted in U.S. House subcommittee hearings last month in Washington, D.C., to determine the extent of such incidents. The hearings were chaired by Congressman John Conyers of Michigan.

In his typically positive way, Shalhoub explains the prejudice this way: "Sometimes, because of lack of knowledge, we label people." He said that once labels are applied, preconceived notions persist, and they are harmful to everyone involved.

"I am not asking for a complete hearing (on behalf of the Arab-American community)," Shalhoub said. "Just a fair hearing. An even-handed policy."

FEW KNOW, Shalhoub said, that Philip Saliba, archbishop of the North American Antiochian archdiocese, recently hand-carried a petition signed by a million Arab Americans to officials in Syria and Lebanon asking "in God's name" the release of the American hostages.

Shalhoub refers to his flock at St. Mary as "the drugstore and grocery market owners, the factory workers, the engineers. Zero are on welfare or crime. This is due to a high morality and a faith in this country."

It is difficult to pinpoint the exact number of members, "anywhere from 200 to 2,000, depending on the Sunday," Shalhoub said. Unlike other Christian churches, active membership is based upon baptism rather than pledging.

Nearly all the members are of Arab heritage, from Palestine, Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Egypt and several families from Iraq. Most settled here 20 to 30 years ago, Shalhoub said, but new arrivals keep coming because of what Shalhoub refers to as the "horrendous" situation.

He refers to the bloody civil war in Lebanon and to the homeless Palestinians who, nearly 40 years after their homeland became Israel, still seek refuge in America.

Most of St. Mary members of Palestinian heritage are from Ramallah, a small village 10 miles north of Jerusalem. Today, an estimated 25,000 people originally from Ramallah now live in the United States, five times more than the 5,000 still in Ramallah. Most left in 1948 when Israel came into being.

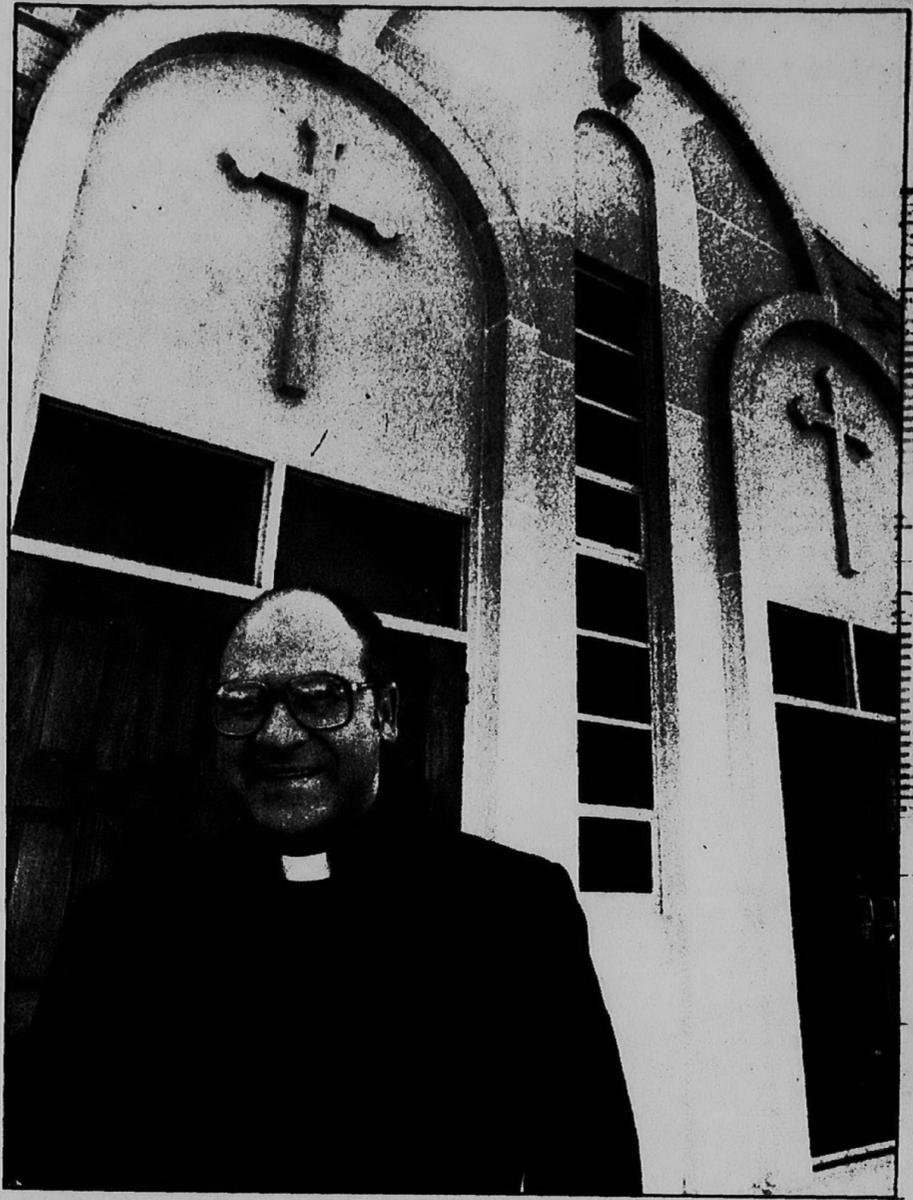

THREE YOUTHS of this heritage who live in Livonia were listed in St. Mary's recent program of service honoring June graduates — Kathy Hanania, who graduated from Eastern Michigan University, Steve Dirbas from the University of Michigan and Bill Askoul from the University of Detroit.

Shalhoub said education is important to those who belong to St. Mary. "You will find everyone has finished high school and college." In 1978 Shalhoub earned a bachelor of science degree in sociology and psychology from Eastern Michigan University.

Many St. Mary parishioners also come from other villages, such as Aithu, located in the war-torn Baka Valley of Lebanon. The majority of these people arrived here after those from Ramallah.

Shalhoub said these new Americans and their offspring maintain touch with their heritage at St. Mary. Scriptures are read in Arabic.

And Shalhoub never fails to deliver his upbeat message to the diverse congregation. "We are one community. We are members of this country. More important, we are all members of the human community."

The Rev. George Shalhoub, who is from Syria, stands in front of St. Mary Antiochian Orthodox Christian Church in Livonia where he ministers.

Career-minded couple looks at overall picture

THE PROMOTIONS came at the same time. She was offered a position requiring relocation to another city. He was offered a position requiring relocation to yet another city. They worked for different companies. Their promotions were part of their careers.

They had anticipated this for some time. It was part of what they had chosen as their careers. They had discussed it before marriage and afterward. Each time they postponed deciding what to do. Now the time had come to decide.

The promotions were promising. The relocations were attractive. Their careers would be well-served. Independent of each other the opportunity was all each could have hoped for. It was their marriage that concerned them. It would probably not survive.

They had been married at an older age. Both had graduate degrees and both had been successful in their chosen fields. Marriage had not been a high priority in their lives. Both had been raised in homes of unending marriages. Their courtship had been long and deliberate. Their marriage was a continuing experience of love and fulfillment. They did not want to break it off.

CHOOSING ONE spouse's career over the other did not offer any solution. Subordinating one spouse's career to the other would make a mockery of the meaning and value they ascribed to each other in their commitment of marriage. Each believed they could live in the suburb with career — neither believed they could live the dominant career. Their respect for each other had gone far beyond definitions of superior and dominance.

They had chosen their respective careers for the usual reasons. It was something they wanted to do, and they were capable of doing it. It provided a more than adequate income, an opportunity of service, self-esteem and a valuable contribution to public good.

Their careers were work-defined. Their careers were specific types of employable skills. One day they would retire and their careers would be over. Whatever they were doing now, there would come a time when they would be an ex-...

They looked beyond their working days and into the life God might grant them in retirement. They shared their dreams and hopes for a life of continued service and purpose. They listed all the values of life they wanted their life together to illustrate. They searched out the ways they could live those values in public.

Their individual careers were blended into one career. Their one career became far more inclusive than their individual professions. Their jobs are only one part of their new career. They remain valued employees of their respective companies. Their life together has taken on an even greater meaning and each day unfolds as one party of their whole existence.

An opportunity offered. Previous commitments examined. Old styles found wanting. A creative resolution. New life. A model for others.

Acting group lists directors

The Plymouth Theatre Guild has announced the selection of three directors for the season opener, "Plaza Suite."

Each of the three — Gerald L'Heureux, Joan Washburn and Patricia Gresock — will stage one of three acts in the Neil Simon comedy. "This will allow PTG to showcase the talents of all three directors," said Alvin LaCroix, show coordinator.

Gerald L'Heureux of Westland will direct "Visitor from Mamaronock."

L'Heureux has appeared in a number of productions with the Plymouth Theatre Guild, Greenfield Village Players, Dearborn Civic Theatre, Michigan Opera Theatre and others. His credits as director include "Alice in Wonderland" and Neil Simon's "God's Favorite."

Joan Washburn of Canton will stage "Visitor from Hollywood" as her directorial debut. She has been involved in PTG productions in a number of backstage roles.

WASHBURN, WHO serves on the PTG board of directors, is a Neil Simon fan.

Patricia Gresock of Canton will direct the third act, "Visitor from Forest Hills." Gresock has been involved with the Toastmasters, including serving as a president of that organization. She has produced and directed children's shows with the Romulus schools.

Gresock's recent roles for the PTG include Janet MacKenzie in "Witness for the Prosecution" and Flo Owens in "Picnic." She also serves on the PTG board of directors.

The directors will hold auditions for "Plaza Suite" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 10-11, at Central Middle School, 650 W. Church St. in Plymouth. Seven men and five women are needed for the cast.

Production dates for "Plaza Suite" are Nov. 7, 8, 14 and 15. For additional information, call Alvin LaCroix, 451-0037.

Bluestone

Fruits of labor reaped in classroom

By Tim Smith
staff writer

Longtime labor leader Irving Bluestone took a winding road back to academia.

He started out with aspirations of becoming a teacher, detoured into a factory and then took the express lane to the vice presidency of the UAW, where he played an integral part for four decades until his 1980 retirement.

Now, nearly 50 years after graduating from City College of New York, where he majored in literature and German language, the Southfield resident is back in school — as director of Wayne State University's Master of Arts program in Industrial Relations (MAIR).

The program explores the relationship between labor and management and feeds on the theory that employees are apt to be more productive if considered as "cogs in the wheel."

A pioneer of the idea that management and labor can work jointly, Bluestone said MAIR graduates have better chances of being promoted in both industry and corporate management.

"When workers know they count and what they do counts, it makes for a more effective organization," said Bluestone, who assumed the MAIR directorship July 1.

"Where there is a full utilization of human resources, the ideas that flow from employees are very, very significant."

"That's only one piece of industrial relations — but a very important one," said Bluestone, the former director of the UAW's General Motors department who, during his tenure, was instrumental in building GM's quality-of-work-life program.

Other aspects of industrial relations he listed include collective bargaining, salary wage-setting, handling of grievances — "anything to do with the employee-employer relationship."

BLUESTONE, WHO considered his old UAW boss Walter P. Reuther "like a brother," joined the WSU faculty in 1980 as a half-time instructor after retiring from the labor union.

But he has never left the labor movement.

Besides his MAIR duties, Bluestone is co-chairman of the Economic Alliance, a statewide business-labor coalition, and is working to create a "high level advisory board" of business, labor and education leaders to further develop the MAIR program.

He also is writing a book "to put down on paper" how to successfully marry labor and management. His new position at WSU is giving him a new perspective on that relationship.

"For all that I've achieved in my years in the union, it has been a tremendously satisfying career."

"But this is kind of a new career at the university — a continuation, only at a different level."

BUT WHILE the classroom perspective differs from the one seen at the bargaining table, Bluestone said the goals of both are essentially the same — to help create a better quality of life.

"Universities are designed to train people, to help improve their welfare and that of the community at large, but the union also strives to do that."

"Advancing the welfare of people, industry and labor is part and parcel of the growth of the community and in creating a better life for people."

But he admitted that the success of industrial relations has been a mixed bag so far.

"I'd say there are two parallel tracks in the United States today. On one track, the union is here to stay, while on the second track, management will use all the tricks in the book to drive the union out."

He says progressive management realizes that companies benefit more from employees when they are treated as assets and not "pieces of machinery."

BLUESTONE WANTS to expand the MAIR program, to get it closer to the business and labor communities for use as a recruiting ground.

"We don't focus and say when you get out (of MAIR) you'll be 'this' kind of person. But you'll have the basic groundwork in whatever field you decide to go into."

Bluestone originally wanted to teach, graduating from CCNY in 1937 and taking post-graduate German language courses at the University of Bern, Switzerland.

But when he returned from Switzerland in the summer of 1938, there were no teaching jobs available.

After taking on odd jobs for a while, he was introduced to labor in 1941 when he was hired as a grinder operator at GM Hyatt Bearing Division in Harrison, N.J.

Gradually, Bluestone became chairman of the shop committee. In 1945, he was asked to join the UAW regional office staff on the east coast and invited to Detroit two years later by Reuther.

HE ROSE to prominence first as the union's GM director — where he negotiated both national and local agreements — and, from 1972 to '80, as UAW vice president.

Reuther is still fondly remembered by Bluestone.

"He never lost touch with the common man," Bluestone said, glancing at the UAW ring on his finger. "Yet he dined with prime ministers and presidents of the United States."

"He was a humble man, with enormous leadership qualities. I once asked him what he thought his greatest achievement was as president of the union and he said,

'I think I'm a good educator.'

"But he was a wonderful educator — one of the finest negotiators in the world."

Either through teaching "Future Trends in Collective Bargaining" or by recalling Reuther to MAIR students, Bluestone wants to paint a realistic portrait of the complex management/labor scene.

He hopes he can convey a lifetime of labor experience into the classroom to perhaps simplify that picture. The 69-year-old Bluestone was interviewed from the Southfield residence he shares with his wife of 46 years, Zelda. The Bluestones have three children, Barry, 41; Maura, 39; and Karen, 35.

"I thought before that professors had cushy jobs, but not anymore," joked Bluestone. "Now I really work my head off."

Health-care extension an employers' headache

By Carolyn Smith
special writer

Some employers must offer 1½ years of continued group health-care coverage to workers who have quit or were fired for reasons other than "gross misconduct."

The same employers — those with 20 or more employees — must extend this coverage for three years to others, including the widows, children and divorced spouses of employees, children who outgrow family plans and employees who become eligible for Medicare.

That's the gist of a new federal law — the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act — that took effect on July 1 as an attachment to a federal budget act. Employers who don't comply may be assessed up to $100 a day for each employee and spouse who has not been notified in writing of the new extended coverage option. Employers who don't cooperate can lose tax deductions for health plan contributions.

But the law says that employers don't have to bear the cost of these extended benefits. They can pass it on to group members with an added 2 percent charge for administration.

Also, employers don't have to begin complying with the law until the beginning of their health plan years, which can vary from July 1 of this year through the conclusion of collective bargaining agreements well into 1988.

THE LAW'S intent is to put less strain on federal Medicare and state Medicaid budgets, mainly designed to help the aged and poor, respectively. It also means considerable savings to former employees, their spouses and dependents.

Robert Miller, senior benefits administrator for Federal Mogul Corp., headquartered in Southfield, said his company covers 12,000 workers nationwide with 75 different health plans. He said an average individual comprehensive plan, including vision and dental care, costs about $300 a month under group coverage. "A personal policy with the same coverage easily could cost $500 to $600 a month," Miller said.

'Take the surviving spouse who remarries. By law, we can cancel the coverage. But suppose we don't know about the remarriage until several months after it took place. We can't always send out detectives in such cases. Ultimately, the feds shift this administrative nightmare to employers who, in turn, pass the added cost on to consumers of their goods and services.'

Still, he added, the law forces employers to keep track of people over long periods of time. And that's not always easy. "Take the surviving spouse who remarries. By law, we can cancel the coverage. But suppose we don't know about the remarriage until several months after it took place. We can't always send out detectives in such cases."

"Ultimately, the feds shift this administrative nightmare to employers who, in turn, pass the added cost on to consumers of their goods and services," Miller said.

DEBORAH W. THOMPSON, a Detroit tax attorney with a sub-specialty in employee benefits, said, "Privately sponsored welfare plans are becoming big issues in Washington."

An associate with the firm of Dykema, Gossett, Spencer, Goodnow and Trigg, she predicted: "We're going to see 100 percent vesting of pension plans after five years (of service), probably connected with (employer-paid) plans like health and life insurance . . . Congress will have to give companies additional tax incentives for putting up with all this."

Under current laws, most employees do not become vested until they have 10 years of service.

Thompson also foresees a big shakeup in public health care programs. "Those with Medicare and Medicaid programs are going to lose coverage around 1990."

She said U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and U.S. Rep. Fortney Starn, D-Calif., are about to introduce legislation that could change the new law extending health group-rate options. "If enacted, their proposals would require that employers foot the (health-care coverage) bill for the first four months (after an employee quits or is dismissed). I don't believe that many employers are aware of this."

MEANWHILE, SOME companies will have to await guidelines from the U.S. Department of Labor and the Internal Revenue Service to help them resolve some sticky problems.

For instance, some companies have chosen to insure themselves against health-care risks. Premium rates, which go into their "self-insured" pool of dollar resources, fluctuate according to the group's use of benefits. How much to charge ex-employees or eligible dependents an equitable monthly premium is unclear, Thompson said.

All area employers with 20 or more workers, when contacted, said they were aware of the new law on continuing group coverage. None said they would pay all or part of the insurance — an option the law offers employers.

Miller of Federal Mogul and Cheryl Paterson, personnel director of Madonna College, Livonia, which has about 400 employees, said workers would be offered existing group rates, but neither thought their employers would tack on the 2-percent administrative fee.

Ann Granz, who works in the payroll department for Advo-System, Livonia, said the company's 200 employees can get a group conversion plan by completing a form sent to all terminated employees.

Spokeswomen from Ameritech Publishing, Troy, and Johnson Stamping and Fine-Banking Co., Plymouth, said nothing had been decided.

"The plan year changes Jan. 1, 1987," said Joan Piatt, supervisor and benefits representative for Ameritech. And Flo Ponke of Johnson Stamping's bookkeeping department reported, "Our union contract expires in December, so a lot depends on how the (next) contract turns out."

Little Caesar's Enterprises, with home offices in Farmington Hills, employs about 3,000 in metropolitan Detroit. "The company hasn't made a decision because the benefit year doesn't begin until September," said Sue Sherbow, corporate communications manager.

But a Plymouth company has decided to charge former employees the allowed administrative fee, according to Emily Cantrell, company personnel manager.

"I believe we will charge 100 percent of the full group rate and the 2 percent administrative fee. I'm sure it will cost us all that and more to keep track of so many people."

Tax breaks will be ended for lump sums

The proposed tax law provides for the repeal of the popular 10-year forward averaging rule. In this column we will discuss this rule and suggest a strategy for taking advantage of it prior to 1987.

How It Works

If you have been a member of a plan for at least five years, you qualify for 10-year averaging. Under this rule, the entire lump-sum payment is taxed as ordinary income separate and apart from your other income.

However, the tax is computed as if the income had been received over 10 years instead of all at once. And if the payout is less than $70,000, part of the payout may be tax-free due to what is known as minimum distribution allowance.

Here is an example. You take the entire lump-sum distribution, minus any minimum distribution allowance, and divide it by 10.

To the result, you add $2,480 and compute tax on the total using the finances and you

tax rates for single individuals even if your tax filing status is different from that of a single individual.

You multiply the result by 10 to arrive at the tax on your lump-sum distribution. This tax is then added to the tax on your income for the year.

If you participated in this plan before 1974, your payout is divided into two portions.

The first portion is composed of profit-sharing accumulations prior to 1974. The other portion is made up of accumulations attributable to your planned years after 1973.

Each portion is taxed differently. The pre-1974 accumulation is taxed as long-term capital gain. The post-1973 portion is taxed under the 10-year averaging rules discussed above.

The 10-year forward averaging rule will always produce a tax liability lower than if this rule was not applied.

Alternative to an IRA rollover

You do not have to receive a lump sum distribution of your profit sharing money. If you do not have the need for a large sum of cash at retirement, you may roll over the lump sum into an IRA.

If you complete this rollover within 60 days of the receipt of the lump sum distribution, you owe no current tax on the payout. The tax is payable only as you withdraw cash from the IRA.

It is important to note that all amounts withdrawn from an IRA are taxed as ordinary income, and they are not eligible for 10-year forward averaging. However, by spreading out the IRA withdrawals over, say, 15 years, you will in effect be averaging out the tax over 15 years.

Since the typical retirees' tax rate is low, you may not only spread out the tax but cut it as well.

Here is an example to demonstrate the difference between lump sum distribution and IRA rollover.

Let's assume that John Client received a lump sum distribution of $200,000 from his profit sharing account. At current tax rates, 10-year averaging results in a tax of $36,922, leaving a balance of $163,307 a year.

If, however, Mr. Client rolls over his account balance into an IRA, the entire $200,000 will be available for investment. If the IRA earns the same 10 percent, John Client's annual income will be $20,000.

It should be noted, however, that while the $20,000 a year could be accumulated within the IRA tax deferred, upon distribution of IRA money, John Client would have to pay ordinary income tax on his entire IRA balance.

10-year forward averaging and the proposed tax law

Here are the arguments for adopting the 10-year forward averaging rule this year:

1. The new tax law proposes to repeal this rule (with certain exceptions or modifications).

2. If you wish to use 10-year forward averaging, you must do so at time of the payout, not later.

3. If you roll over a lump sum into an IRA and have a significant amount of cash withdrawn in a few years, you will end up paying a lot more tax than you would if you used the 10-year forward averaging rule today.

4. Once you roll over your money into an IRA, you lose the 10-year average break permanently.

However, don't take this topic lightly. Consult your financial planner before you decide what's best for you.

Economists see rebound in '87

The U.S. economy should grow faster in 1987 after two years of sluggish performance. University of Michigan economists predict in an update of their annual forecast.

Major contributors to an expected 4-percent growth rate in real gross national product (GNP) next year will be:

- A substantial improvement in real net exports.
- A return to approximate stability in the U.S. oil industry.
- A general strengthening of inventory investment as demand for U.S. production increases.

With these developments, the civilian unemployment rate is forecast to increase in late 1986 and return to the 7-percent level in the second half of 1987. The inflation rate is expected to accelerate modestly during the year.

The update of the forecast presented in November at the University's annual Conference on the Economic Outlook was prepared by Prof. Saul H. Hymans, Joan P. Cray and Janet C. Wolfe.

Expected passage of a revenue-neutral tax-reform bill, which would lower personal taxes and raise business taxes, will "tilt the composition of GNP toward consumption and away from capital formation," the economists said.

"THIS WILL ultimately lead to reduced productivity growth. Such an economic bias does not bode well for our inflation outlook or our international competitiveness over the long run."

Weakness in the economy during the past year and a half is not attributed to private-sector demand, which has grown at an average annual rate of 3.8 percent, compared with a 2.7-percent growth rate in U.S. production.

Much of the gap between the growth of domestic demand and domestic production is accounted for by our worsening trade balance.

Low oil prices make stocks a sound buy

Since oil prices have been down and price of oil stocks are off, do you feel this might be a good time to invest in oil stocks? Sooner or later OPEC will get together on their prices and force prices back up. Which stocks do you think will benefit from increased oil prices? How do you feel about Texaco and Tenneco?

I would agree with you that most stocks are now selling at reasonable prices and that now is a good time to buy.

But I think it is important to keep two things in mind.

- It could be awhile before the turnaround comes;
- Be sure to put your money in companies that are soundly financed and not likely to be bankrupt if the present low prices continue two or three more years.

I WOULD particularly favor the companies that have good reserves and have shown the ability to develop them. If OPEC is able to get its members to again assert control, there is no question that it could force oil prices up substantially.

The most important point favoring higher prices is that present known quantities are getting smaller, and the expense of finding and bringing up new quantities is definitely more costly.

There also is always the danger that some development of a war-like or terrorist action could interrupt the flow of oil from abroad. This would cause a quick change in prices.

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

ON THE other hand, there is the negative that could occur if our government yields to political pressure to try to keep oil prices lower than world market prices.

If the current low prices continue for a period of time, companies like Texaco and Phillips and others that have built up substantial debt might have problems. Yet if they handle their debt well, they could do very well as the industry recovers.

For the conservative, I would prefer Exxon and Mobil in the major oils. On the service side of the industry, I like Schlumberger.

I ALSO like some of the smaller companies that have also diversified. Oneok is a utility that also has liquid gas and transmission interests that could give the business a nice boost when conditions are better.

In the meantime, an attractive dividend makes holding this stock a pleasant experience.

A different kind of company is Diversified Energies Inc. It has a good profitable business distributing gas. It has acquired a producing company, and, in a completely different area, it is marketing an advanced meter that can be read by radio. That adds a speculative interest to the company which is unique. Again, there is a nice dividend.

These companies I've named are only a small number of many good opportunities in oil and gas. But remember to be patient.

What's Unique About Wayne State University's Location?

It's the Heart of the Cultural Center . . .
It's the Hub of the Freeways . . .
It's a Short Drive from Your Home!

Almost all residents of Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties are within 30 minutes of Wayne State University's main and medical campuses . . . and residents of the six-county metropolitan region are within an hour's drive away.

All roads lead to Wayne State University: I-94 (the Ford) from east or west; U.S. 10 (the Lodge) from north and northwest; I-75 (the Fisher) from downriver and I-75 (the Chrysler) from north and northeast; and I-96 (the Jeffries) from west and northwest. Several major surface streets also offer easy access.

Once you arrive, you've really arrived. You are in a major center of vitality and activity around Wayne State University: the Detroit Cultural Center. And a few blocks away is the New Center area; a mile away is the Detroit Medical Center, one of the finest and most comprehensive networks of health care institutions in the nation. And we are three miles from Downtown Detroit, Hart Plaza and the riverfront.

The Cultural Center is one of Detroit's best kept secrets. Discover beauty in the Detroit Institute of Arts. Mysteries of nature in the Detroit Science Center. Nostalgia for bygone days in the Detroit Historical Museum. The cross-cultural experience of the International Institute. And the joys of learning at Wayne State University.

The bustling world headquarters of General Motors and Burroughs are a few blocks north in the New Center. The Fisher Theatre and the Golden Tower of the Fisher Building. Shopping arcades. Fine restaurants. Sidewalk musical performances.

In the Medical Center, physicians and researchers from Wayne State University, Harper, Hutzel and Children's hospitals, the Rehabilitation Institute and Detroit Receiving Hospital work to cure ill and improve health care for all.

WSU is where the action is — the Three-Center area of Detroit, composed of the Cultural Center, the Medical Center and the New Center.

Driving around the coast

Leads to interesting places like old inn, Interlochen

We have just arrived home from a week of driving around Michigan's northwest coast. We have a foam cooler full of salmon, rolls of black-and-white and color film ready to process and notebooks full of good travel information to share with you.

"We" means me and my photographer-husband, Micky Jones, whose pictures have appeared regularly on this page since it began in 1978. Micky retired from Ford Motor Co. April 1 to become a full-time travel photographer, so you will see a lot more of him in pages to come.

Iris Jones

We drove to Manistee, went north to Interlochen Center for the Arts and Traverse City and came full circle via the Leelanau Peninsula to Sleeping Bear National Lakeshore. We will be doing full-length stories on some of the places we visited, but for now come with us on a fast tour of one of Michigan's most popular areas.

The piano in the casino of the old Portage Point Inn attracts many a visitor including this lass from Grosse Pointe Woods.

Our first stop was Portage Point Inn at Onkama, between Manistee and Frankfort. There is good news-bad news from this great sprawl of white clapboard spread across the peninsula of land that separates Portage Lake from Lake Michigan. It was built in the days when lake steamers brought summer travelers to play shuffleboard in their 1920s' skirts and striped jackets.

On a typical summer afternoon you see swimmers and sunbathers around the pool that fronts the white-pillared hotel building that started it all, and families playing shuffleboard between the boat docks and the verandah. The rest of the guests may be in the Casino drinking beer, playing the piano or the pool table.

That's the good news. The bad news is that the Inn will close on Labor Day instead of staying open through October, or even year-round, as hoped. Some of the bedroom units will stay open, along with the snack bar/casino, but the dining room and other inn facilities will be closed until next season.

It takes more than a coat of white paint to create a modern resort out of historic old buildings like this, and the renovations necessary for fall and winter have not been completed.

Our next stop was Interlochen. You may or may not know that you can stay overnight at Interlochen Center for the Arts. The national music camp was still in session when we were there, so we could wander among the teaching studios set in the woods and hear the talented young people in the concerts offered every night on campus.

MICKY JONES

The music camp folded up this week, but you can still visit the campus for a few hours or stay overnight in either the small hotel rooms or one of the larger cabins. We stayed in a pine cabin, which looks very much like the roadside cabins you still sometimes find in the Upper Peninsula, they were once very common nationwide.

The cabin offers you a large room with two double beds and a toilet and shower. It is, of course, not Holiday Inn standard, but it is very clean and comfortable, and fits very well into the treed setting of the camp. Some cabins have up to four bedrooms.

Rates are $38 single, $58 double, $14 for kids over five and $9 for kids under five in the pine cabins, officially known as Scholarship Lodge Rooms, because the profits go toward student scholarships. Those rates include three consecutive meals per person in Stone Student Center cafeteria, a typical campus-style eatery full of noise and low-cost but filling food.

You can stay in the student center rooms or one of the residence units for the same rates, $12 more at the student center if you want a lake view. There are a few lodges with housekeeping facilities.

The summer camp may be over, but the place is still active. The 26th annual Chamber Music Conference is on Aug. 19 through 26, giving you the opportunity to listen-in on string master classes, keyboard workshops, duo-piano sessions and nightly concerts.

The Academy, a regular fall-through-spring high school dedicated to students with artistic leanings, will be in session before Labor Day, so the music goes on. What you miss, of course, are the many opportunities to hear music outdoors, activities that become less prevalent as the days get cooler. For more information, contact Interlochen Center for the Arts, Interlochen, 49643 or telephone (616) 279-9221. There is no charge to enter the grounds or listen to classes and rehearsals; there is a small charge for evening concerts.

Bikers cover scenic trails, stay at B and B's

If you are interested in bicycle tours but your traveling companion is interested in good beds and good food in an attractive setting, you'll be glad to know that both appetites can be served on the same trip.

Spokesongs, the largest bicycling vacation company in north Central Midwest, has planned weekend getaways in cooperation with the Minnesota Bed and Breakfast Association. Bikers combine scenic trails with lodging at various B and Bs.

On Aug. 22-24 from Lake City, Minn., with accommodations at the Bihally House, an 1886 classic Greek Revival house. On Sept. 12-14 from Osceola, Minn., at St. Croix River Inn, a luxury stone home dating from the early 1900s. On Sept. 19-21 from Hastings, Minn., with lodging in the Thornwood Inn, of French Second Empire architecture.

These weekend tours are rated for novice, beginner, intermediate and advanced cyclists. Hosted by two trained tour guides, the trips are planned with alternate routes to accommodate all levels of ability. A support van goes along to give you a lift if you need it.

Costs for tours range from $109 to $269 for weekenders. Package includes lodging, all meals and use of helmets if needed. Spokesongs also has quality 10-speed bikes to rent. Contact Spokesongs Inc., #RG, 130 Fir Street, Mahtomedi, Minn. 55115, or call (612) 429-2877.

FOR FALL bicycling tours, there is a magic sound to the word "Vermont" with its autumn colored forests and its off the through-way secondary roads, its history and small-town life.

To enjoy touring Vermont in August, September and October contact Bike Vermont Inc., P.O. Box 207, Woodstock, Vt. 05091, or call (802) 457-3553. They will give you more information about their midweek (five-day) or weekend (two day) trips with varying mileage throughout the state. Each tour offers views of New England villages, farms, covered bridges, antique and craft shops and simple, breathtaking scenery. And yes, there will be hills, but you are advised that it is all right to walk up and then have the exhilarating ride downhill.

Six country inns have been chosen to house bikers, and sometimes your group will be the only residents of the inn. If you choose the five-day tour, you will visit a different inn every night, from the Middletown Springs Inn near Middlebury College to the Gables Inn at Stowe which features swimming pool and sauna with views of Mt. Mansfield and the Green Mountains at every turn.

Standard rates for August and peak-color weekend tours are $170 for adults and $155 for children over 10. Midweek tours are $455 adult and $415 child. Reduced rates for all tours are available from Sept. 1 to 21 and from Oct. 18 through 26.

Weekend Adult $155, child $140. Midweek adult $405, child, $365. When making plans, it might be worthwhile to note that bikers will travel between 20 and 35 miles per day. This translates into three to five hours of actual biking and is spread out over a whole day. Tour leaders will check novices out on the 10-speed bicycles, which may be rented if you do not have your own.

IF VERMONT seems to close to home, you might like to bicycle in French Polynesia. Off the Deep End Travels has a two-island, eight-day adventure planned to depart once a month until October. You will explore the islands of Moorea and Tahiti in easy day trips, returning to your hotel each night.

There will be plenty of time for swimming and snorkeling and for doing what comes naturally in Polynesia. This tour costs $795 plus airfare of $799 on UTA French Airlines.

YOU GET A NEW BODY EVERY 12 MONTHS

Did you know that every living cell in your body is replaced with a new one in 12 months (excluding bone cells which are replaced in 7 years and the central nervous system which is never replaced). That is, in one year your body is almost totally replaced. Your heart, lungs, kidneys, gall bladder, liver, muscles, eyes, ears, skin, hair, etc., etc., etc., are not the same ones you had last year. Scientific research shows that cells within your body are constantly being replaced with new cells.

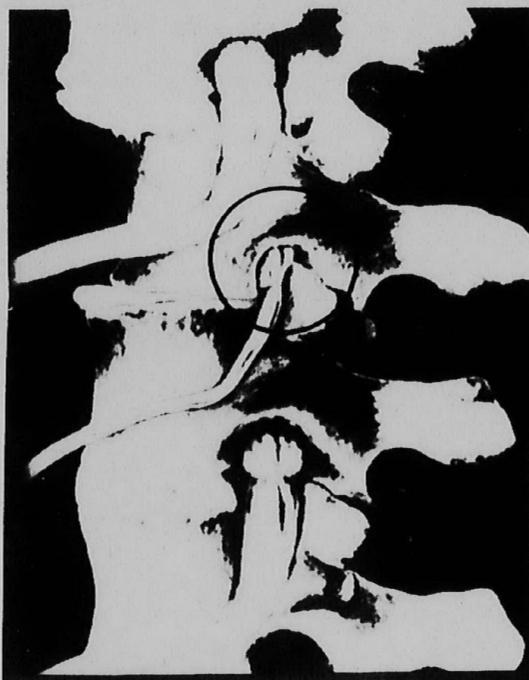

If that is the case, why do people have disease or disfunctioning organs? Why, if cells are totally replaced with new cells, should anything ever disfunction?

Good question, who's answers until recently, haven't even been attempted. However, in the last few years the science of genetics has come of age. The main thrust of many research groups has been on the genetics of life, of aging, and of diseases.

Genetics is a fascinating field of understanding the creation of life from generation to generation. It is the study of why one's eyes are green or blue, why one is short or tall or looks more like mom or dad. It also deals with internal structure and function.

Genetics is filled with amazing facts. One of those facts that has recently surfaced is reported by Dr. Ronald Pero, Director of Cancer Research at the Strang Institute, Manhattan, New York. His research shows that cells in the body disfunction and become abnormal when they lose their nerve supply (impulses) from the brain. Dr. Pero believes vertebral subluxations interfere with normal function of cells, causing them to become weak and susceptible to disease.

Chiropractic has been saying just exactly that for over 90 years. Chiropractors remove subluxations from spines with low force adjustments which move the bone off the nerve allowing the body to return to normal.

If you want to have a healthier body next year, start doing something about it this year, it's up to you. We are here to help, call 459-0200 for your appointment.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

Pick up your free Garage Sale folder in our office when you place your ad! (Contains two signs, two arrows, a handy ledger, 14 tips for a successful sale and nine tips for a successful ad)

Adray Kings sweep districts, advance to AABC state finals

Winning three straight district games over the weekend in Wyandotte, the Adray Kings have moved into the state American Amateur Baseball Congress championships, which begin tonight at Bailey Stadium in Battle Creek.

Coach Larry Haddock's team qualified for the Wyandotte district after going 25-5 and winning both halves of the Adray Class A League.

The Kings face Birmingham Lynch and Sons at 6 tonight. The eight-team field also includes Troy Jet Box and teams from Flint, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Muskegon and host Battle Creek.

In Sunday's district final at Wyandotte Memorial Field, the Kings quickly erased a 3-0 first inning deficit against the Detroit baseball

Bruins, scoring six times in the bottom of the inning.

Kirk White's grand slam sparked the surge and Clint Scollard added a two-run single.

The Kings also got a solo homer from Jim Rousseau in the sixth, but were extended to the top of the seventh.

With two out, Tim Pobuda socked a solo homer to win it for the Kings, who raised their overall record to 35-5.

Hugh Pobur, who relieved starter Scott Combs, picked up the victory.

IN THE FIRST ROUND, Adray tripped the Bruins, 7-2, as Rousseau knocked in a pair of runs with a single.

Scollard, White, Dean Fracassi (of Redford St. Agatha High and Aquinas College) and Dave Slavin (Plymouth Salem High and the University of Missouri) also contributed RBI.

Overcoming a 3-0 deficit, the Kings used Rousseau's three-run homer in the fourth to eliminate Wyandotte Adray Appliance from the double-elimination tourney, 9-6.

Ann Lauer regains title bounced into the hole, instead rolling 35 feet past. She two-putted for a par.

At the par-five 16, Lauer finally caught fire. "I hit my best drive of the day at 16," she said. "I just missed an eagle."

She got her birdie, though. Zonder, meanwhile, left her drive short of the green at 15, chipped out of the rough 10 feet past the hole and two-putted for a bogey.

Zonder got into trouble again at 16. After two weak shots, she lofted her third into the deep rough. She got out with a fine wedge shot and saved bogey with a strong putt.

LAUER PARRED the par-three 17th, while Zonder missed an important opportunity - a six-foot putt for par. "I chipped it right up there, then missed it," she said. "I never gave it a chance."

Lauer followed with another great drive at the par-four 18th. Her approach shot landed just 12 feet short of the hole, and her putt circled the cup before falling for a birdie.

Zonder played 18 like she had her previous three holes. Her second shot landed in the right bunker, and her pitch skipped over the green and into the rough. Her fourth shot traveled just three feet, to the edge of the green, but she hit the eight-foot putt for a bogey.

But it wasn't enough. In first flight, Martha MacIntosh of Farmington Hills fired a 46/44 - 90 to take a three-stroke victory. Jo Anne McVicar of Livonia recorded the best low net score with a 69.

The second flight was captured by another Farmington Hills resident, Sally Hering, who posted a 51/44 - 95. Westland's Susan Lane finished with a best low net of 63.

Donnelly a Ranger

John Vanbiesbrouck, a goaltender; former MSU goalie Ron Scott; and Kelly Miller and brother Kevin Miller, a Ranger property currently playing at MSU.

"I'm looking forward to training camp (Sept. 9)," Donnelly said. "I'm going to go out and work as hard as I can and try to make the team."

Donnelly recently made his first visit to New York City. It was an eye-opener.

"IT WAS VERY exciting, everything is so fast-paced, the traffic and everything," he said. "But most of the players live in Westchester County and we practice in Rye - both are outside the city, so I'm going to get both sides of the life."

MIS misfortune continues for Hull

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

You could say the Michigan International Speedway struck out Canton race driver Jim Hull last Sunday in the nationally televised Champion Spark Plug 400.

MIS fired the third strike on Sunday as Hull crashed with Kyle Petty in lap 159, forcing Petty out of the race and costing Hull several places in the final standings. He finished 23rd.

Two years ago, Hull's car never made it onto the MIS track because of 11th-hour engine trouble. Strike one.

Last year, Hull crashed with Harry Gant. Gant was leading the race at the time and was furious at Hull, whom he called an incompetent rookie at the time. Strike two.

This year, MIS took three two curves at Hull. Hull totalled his Duralliner-sponsored Chevy SS Monte Carlo during Saturday's practice laps. Foul tip.

"SOMEBODY BLEW an engine on the track, and we waited a good 20 minutes for them to clean the track. We wanted to run two hot laps to get into a good position for Sunday. The first lap we ran at 167 (mph), and we wanted to do the second at 168. We hit an oil slick and hit the wall hard. Totally destroyed the car," Hull said.

Benny Parsons suffered a similar fate on Sunday, hitting the wall in lap 185.

"Saturday was my fault," Hull said.

Hull wouldn't take the blame for Sunday's crash with Kyle Petty, although Petty let the media know what he thought of it.

"That idiot was in everybody's way all afternoon," Petty told the Detroit News. "And he finally put me into the wall."

Hull, who was driving his backup Chevy, saw it this way: "I let him go outside of me. He was about three-quarters of the way past me, and he must have misjudged the distance because he came right down on me and hit my rear fender. He spun up into the wall."

Strike three.

HULL REFUSED to get into a name-calling match with Petty or any of the other veteran drivers.

"You always take the heat when you're the rookie," Hull said. "Soon as I get my five races under my belt, and I'm running for the rookie-of-the-year, then I won't have to take the flak."

"Last year, Gant made a big deal about it, and the media blew it way up. A couple months later it came out that I didn't cause the accident. The same thing is going to happen this time. So, it's no problem."

"In my career, in everything I've tried to do, nothing has come easy. But I've proved that when I want something bad enough, nothing is going to stop me from getting it. This isn't going to stop me."

Hull plans on racing in two more races this season and has his sights on next year's Daytona 500.

"We want to get five races under our belts, get orientated and get Duralliner's name shown as a major sponsor," he said.

WHAT ABOUT returning to MIS?
"Well, MIS hasn't been real nice to me. But it's given me an opportunity to everything that goes on. You know, I'm mad about what happened Sunday. Kyle Petty made a terrible mistake, and it cost about five or six notches in the standings. Instead of 23, could have been somewhere in the teens. I'm mad, but I'm not going to worry about it."
Strike three? Yep. But he has at least two more outs to go.

Boyd-Smith pitches Daly to title

It's hard to beat perfection, which is what Livonia's Daly Restaurant team was at the ASA Women's Class A Fast Pitch Great Lakes Regional softball tournament Aug. 9-10 in Green Bay, Wis.

Daly played four games and stacked up four shutout victories. Pitcher Jan Smith, a Plymouth Salem and University of Michigan grad, recorded three of the shutouts, including a 3-0 three-hitter in the championship game against Bay City Weiss Fruit Market.

The wins lifted Daly to 40-8 for the season and put them into the ASA National Finals with 14 other regional champs, seven at-large teams and two host squads, starting Wednesday at Midland's Emerson Park. The final is slated for Saturday.

DALY'S DOMINANCE was reflected in the regional tournament awards. The Livonia squad swept all four, with Smith named best pitcher, Sherry Kiselica of Garden City and University of Detroit earning best hitter, and Linda Webb of Garden City and Central Michigan honored as both the top defensive player and tourney MVP.

In the final, Smith's superb pitching was complemented by first hitting from Webb and Kiselica. Webb followed Bonnie Hudick's game-opening double with a triple to give Daly a 1-0 lead in the first.

The Livonia team added two more in the sixth when Webb tripled again and scored on an error by the Bay City shortstop. Kiselica then doubled in Carol Hall (Westland John Glenn) for the third run.

Daly opened the tournament with a 4-0 win over Galesville (Wis.) Aug. 9. Smith stopped Galesville on two hits and struck out 12, and Ann DeSmet went three-for-three.

IN THEIR second game Aug. 9, Daly beat Winona (Minn.) 6-0 with Smith again hurling a two-hitter. Five Winona errors helped Daly.

DeSmet tripled in two runs in the fourth and Kiselica and Lisa Parsons (Livonia Bentley) had two hits each.

In Sunday's regional semifinal, also against Bay City, Shelley Larned went to the mound and fired a four-hitter in a 1-0 Daly win. The game's only run was scored in the sixth inning. Hudick walked, was sacrificed to second by Parsons, went to third on the shortstop's error and scored when DeSmet's fly ball to right was dropped.

In the semifinals, Bootlegger's rallied from a 4-0 deficit to beat C&C of Port Huron 6-4.

Rick Williamson of Westland led the offense with a .714 average. Other hitting stars included Dan Architowski of Canton (.667), Murphy (.615), Mike Scarpello of Plymouth (.583), Mike Jones of Canton (.529) and Gary Novak of Plymouth (.500).

Music makers

It's an adventure performing on river cruise ship

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

STAR OF DETROIT, in its third season on the Detroit River, provides a pleasurable outing, with cocktails, food and music for listening and dancing adding to the basic fun.

Entertainers who perform aboard the Star all enjoy the extra dimension provided by the ship-shape, floating venue.

Sheila Landis and Top Drawer have played aboard the Star ever since it began operating in August 1984. They do three shows a night for dinner cruises 7-10 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday and 9 p.m. to midnight Friday, and also play on the Saturday moonlight cruise from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m.

"It's different than performing in lounges, mainly because you rock back and forth," Rochester Hills resident Landis said about the Star. "It's a lot nicer than doing a lounge. It's a sense of adventure. There's a small dance floor. People are there mainly to chat. We're providing the ambiance."

SHE SAID the dance floor usually isn't crowded. But one night this season, the group did a party for Buick and people were packed like sardines on the dance floor. "We did our Motown set and they went crazy."

Landis' group plays all types of music and also does requests. "Some want their 'Stardust' and some nothing but Madonna," she said.

Are Saturday moonlight cruises romantic? "It really varies. Sometimes there are kids that want to do nothing but dance, sometimes couples that hold hands and look out the window," she said.

Along with bandleader Landis, who does vocals, the group includes Jon Kaust of Rochester, drums; Phil Kelly of Rochester, piano; former Troy resident Ken Kellett of Detroit, bass; and (on Saturdays) Scott Petersen of Detroit, saxophone.

The Star offers cruises open to the general public and also takes reservations for special parties, which may reserve part or all of the ship. Landis said her group plays some proms early in the season, does corporate charters and special cruises.

LANDIS HASN'T gotten motion sickness from being on board the ship, but she and her band members have noticed something else. "I feel like I'm tipping and lurching even when I'm not on the boat," she said. "We've got our sea legs and we can't get rid of them."

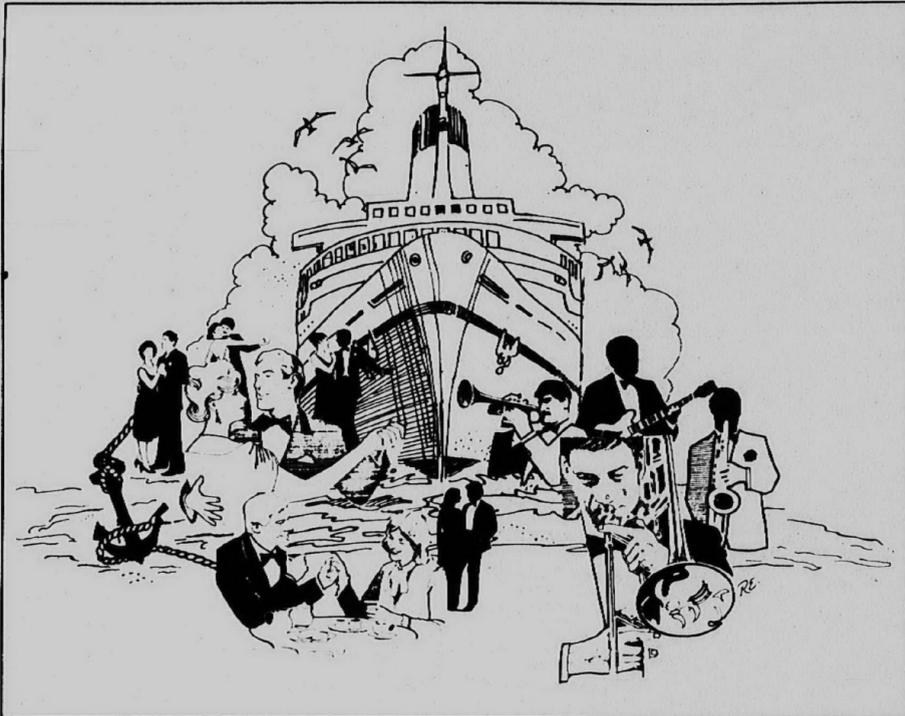

Tom Hewitt and Feelings play 7-10 p.m. for Monday and Tuesday night dinner cruises and 5:30-7:30 p.m. Fridays for the TGIF (if you need a translation — Thank God, it's Friday) cocktail cruises.

Hewitt's group also is playing aboard the Star for the third year in a row.

"I think the reason we've been on it so many years is that we have such a variety we do," said Hewitt, a Rochester Hills resident. Show tunes, Top 40, old rock 'n' roll, big band, funk and Motown are some of the types of music offered. They also play waltzes and fox trots, he said.

The band can't limit itself to playing just one kind of music, when there are people with varying tastes aboard. Passengers may range from a young twosome to a couple celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

HEWITT IS a third-generation musician, following in the footsteps of his father and grandfather. He plays saxophone, clarinet and flute and does vocals. The four lead vocalists include his wife, Elaine; Frank Dunn of Sterling Heights, who also plays piano; Tim Garrick of Royal Oak, guitar; and Ken Murphy of Rochester, drums.

"I think the most fun I derive is when someone asks for a request," said Hewitt, describing what he likes best about playing aboard the Star.

"It's a wonderful cruise," he continued. "I highly recommend it." Cruising on the river, in varying weather conditions, may lead to minor problems. "There have been times you get a little seasick, but nothing very serious," he said.

Another thing he likes about the Star, "It's nice to see from the top of the windows (the two lower decks are enclosed), one side the United States and one Canada."

Hewitt said there's a difference in the crowd at the TGIF cocktail cruises. He described it as "an upbeat crowd, a fun crowd. Without dinner, there's a lot of dancing. At $15 a person, $30 is reasonable for a date. And you get hors d'oeuvres. Two hours goes like two seconds."

DOUG JACOBS and the Red Garter Band play at Saturday brunch from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. aboard the Star of Detroit.

"To me it's like a mini-cruise ship, but you don't have to go away two or three weeks at a time," said the longtime Detroit-area Dixieland bandleader, who lives on Cass Lake.

"We start upstairs and play a set. We go downstairs and entertain people tableside for our second set, and then we take a short break and invite everybody from the downstairs and the second deck to join us for a sing-along on the third deck to end the day," he said.

"As they depart, we play, 'Oh, When the Star Comes Rolling In.'"

The happy, New Orleans Dixieland music draws a lot of attention.

"The people really totally enjoy us," banjo-player Jacobs said.

"They even dance to us on the second deck."

Jacobs finds it smooth sailing aboard the Star. "It's like being on an airplane. It's as smooth as it could possibly be."

"The view of Detroit and the fun and enjoyment people seem to get being on this boat, it's a fabulous situation for downtown Detroit. I think of it like being on the Delta Queen out of New Orleans."

ALL THE entertainment for the Star of Detroit is booked by Nancy Kader-Jacobs, Doug's wife, who is owner-operator of the Entertainment Connection in Southfield.

Other performers who play on the ship include the Claude Lambert Trio, which plays for a Dixieland Sunday brunch from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. ("For brunches, we've decided to stick with the Dixieland," said Kader-Jacobs), and the Marv Williams Trio, which plays jazz for a Sunday cocktail cruise 3-5 p.m. ("Fun jazz," said Kader-Jacobs).

"For dinner cruises seven nights a week, it's important we got groups that could exercise a good versatility," she said. "We want to accommodate everybody's taste."

Musicians at dinner cruises "play jazz and standards, Motown and oldies and current Top 40 music, so anybody can be pleased. Sometimes there's an old crowd, sometimes a young crowd."

At TGIF cruises, the music is strictly Top 40.

The Star of Detroit, docked at Hart Plaza in downtown Detroit, sails through Sunday, Oct. 19. Brunch, lunch and dinner cruises are served buffet-style. The Star will feature jazz during the upcoming Montreux Jazz Festival Weekend (the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival runs Wednesday, Aug. 27, to Monday, Sept. 1). For information information and reservations, call 465-STAR.

Casa Armando's proves to be a cozy hideaway

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100-point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance which includes general atmosphere and service; 55 points for food, and 15 points for price/value rating. A total count of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended; 60-74 points signify from passing to good; 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features; and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits you.

CASA ARMANDO'S, 29200 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills (626-2982), was recommended by Mr. D.W., a reader from Birmingham. The restaurant, which has only been open for a few months, has a Mexican tavern-like appearance. It is comfortable and clean with paper placemats and a lively casual atmosphere. The decor, although typical, is bright and pleasing. Several other restaurants have been located in the building but the interior has been completely renovated and it seems that at last the site has a winner. Reservations are not available and dinner took about an hour and 20 minutes. General Atmosphere — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 12.

Service started out very well. The staff is extremely friendly and gracious. Our waitress appeared as soon as we were seated and took our drink and appetizer orders. In fact, the first half of our meal moved right along. But something happened after our dinners had been served. Water, which had come whenever needed, was not brought. We could not seem to get our table cleared; and, in fact, we finally insisted that the waitress take the remains of our drinks and dinner when she brought the dessert. The last portion of our meal took quite a bit longer than it needed to. Still the waitress was helpful even though the busing was inexperienced and at times inept. Service — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 9.

Margaritas are $2.75 each or $7.95 a half pitcher. They were well prepared, tangy and made with enough liquor. Our waitress (and our reader) recommended the panchitos ($4.95) as an appetizer. These tortilla chips covered with beans, guacamole, sour cream and cheese were delicious. They are well worth trying. The homemade chips were also excellent and the salsa sauce was hot and spicy as it should be. Drinks, Appetizers and Bread — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 14.

The paella dinner ($13.95) was loaded with seafood, but the rice was a bit on the soggy side. While the dish was good, it lacked the clean, sharp taste that makes paella so apa counting for taste

peeling. The flauta ($5.95), a deep fried tortilla stuffed with chicken and covered with guacamole and sour cream, tasted like such Mexican mixtures should. The food was plentiful and the flauta was well seasoned. The house special ($9.95) is a skirt steak covered with Spanish sauce with guacamole on the side. It is served with two delicious cheese enchiladas. The steak itself was a pleasant surprise; its good flavor, especially combined with the guacamole, made it a hit. Entree, Vegetables and Garnishes — 30 points maximum. Points awarded — 25.

If you like sopapillas, you'll enjoy dessert here. These cookie-like chips ($1.75) were generously covered in place of the usual and less expensive tacos, burritos, etc. Portions were generous. The food was good and the value was there. Price/Value — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 13.

A Counting For Taste — 100 points maximum. Total points awarded: 89. Casa Armando is a welcome addition to the northwest scene. It is fine for couples and fam-lies, young and old. Thank you, Birmingham reader, for calling it to our attention.

D. Gustibus welcomes your reactions, comments and suggestions of favorite restaurants in the Observer & Eccentric circulation area. Write to D. Gustibus, in care of Observer & Eccentric, Entertainment Department, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012.

"Benji" (1975), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 9. Originally 86 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Although this film was a "package" aimed at the family trade by an out of Hollywood producer, it is a package that basically works. The secret here is a low-key style that concentrates on telling a mystery story from a dog's eye view. In this case the dog, Benji (Higgins on "Petticoat Junction"), is adorably cute, expressive and agile. The movie doesn't sink into the cutes because director-producer Joe Camp stays on the mystery rather than the kids.

Rating: $2.75.

"Back Privates" (1941), 8:30 a.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 84 minutes. TV time slot: 90 minutes.

This was Abbott and Costello's first starring feature and offers some of their better routines. The team was extremely popular during the war years, though in retrospect they don't have the appeal of the Marx Brothers or Laurel and Hardy. But what a dose of nostalgia this film has — the war fervor, the topical humor and the Andrews Sisters performing "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy."

Rating: $2.80.

"Lawrence of Arabia" (1963), 2 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 222 minutes. TV time slot: 240 minutes.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?
A ratings guide to the movies

Bad	$1
Fair	$2
Good	$3
Excellent	$4

Arguably the finest epic film ever made by the grand master of the genre, David Lean. "Lawrence" was made for a wide screen, stereo sound presentation. Anything less will lessen the effect. But there is still much to admire, especially Peter O'Toole's curious, ambivalent performance as T.H. Lawrence, undoubtedly ranking with Joan of Arc as history's most unusual warrior. The all-star cast includes Alec Guinness, Anthony Quinn and Omar Sharif.

Rating: $3.90 (although you could take off anywhere from a dime to 50 cents depending on the size of your television screen).

Hugh Gallagher, a movie buff, is a copy editor for The Observer & Eccentric.

This was Abbott and Costello's first starring feature and offers some of their better routines.

Ballet's twirling dervish

By Barbara Ziemba
special writer

JURGEN SCHNEIDER WAS hot and tired. Seated on a hard, wooden chair, a towel draped around his neck, the dancer recited the hectic schedule he'd been following.

"I just finished a 10-day course for dance teachers and students in Kalamazoo, and before that I was in Rochester (New York) for a two-week session which started the day after our season finished at the Met."

The trim, athletic Schneider is no stranger to an accelerated lifestyle. As ballet master of the American Ballet Theater and personal coach to the ABT's star and artistic director Mikhail Barishnikov, Schneider's dance career has taken him around the world.

SCHNEIDER WAS AT DETROIT'S Marygrove College recently to conduct a two-day workshop for intermediate and advanced ballet students. The workshop was part of Marygrove's 17th Annual Summer School for the Performing Arts. The program brings acclaimed artists and teachers to the Detroit campus to conduct a six-week long series of workshops. Participants range from beginner to advanced levels of all areas of dance.

Schneider's involvement with Marygrove's dance program began three years ago during the ABT's appearance in Detroit. Penny Godboldo, Marygrove's department head for dance and the co-chairperson of the division of visual and performing arts, and Carol Sharp, owner of the CAS Ballet studios in Ann Arbor, contacted Schneider and asked him to work with some of their students. The affiliation has developed into an arrangement that Godboldo hopes will become permanent.

"He really enjoys the college environment," she said. Schneider was born in Berlin in 1936. He began studying ballet in East Berlin and then traveled to Moscow to learn the Russian style of ballet. He decided to concentrate on teaching, studying in Moscow and Leningrad, and was appointed ballet master at the Theater Institute in Moscow.

Then he returned to East Germany, dancing with the National Theater, the Stuttgart Ballet, and then assumed the duties of co-director of the Munich State Opera Ballet. He began guest-teaching all over the world, traveling to Europe, Japan, Australia, the Caribbean and South America.

IN 1975, HE MADE THE decision to defect to the West. He recalled, "I had become so specialized in the Russian ballet school that it would have been difficult to show what I could do. I worked in this limited situation in East Germany. Also, I was not a member of the (Communist) party and the whole political system and it would have been difficult to gain or create an influential position for myself without playing these games."

As with the intense sports programs the East Germans are so well known for, the East German government paid for Schneider's training and it would have been impossible for him to appear in the West as a guest artist/teacher. This would have been tantamount to turning his back on the party apparatus which had provided his education.

The distrust that Communist party officials harbor toward citizens who wish to travel abroad finally prompted Schneider to leave.

"I WOULDN'T HAVE DONE this (defected) if I could have gotten a passport and accepted the invitations to appear in the West. I would have come back (to East Germany). So I did the only thing I could do — I defected."

Ballet master of the ABT since 1975, Schneider is responsible for training and rehearsing the company as well as assisting choreographers in staging ballets.

As Barishnikov's coach, Schneider provides guidance rather than instruction to the ballet superstar.

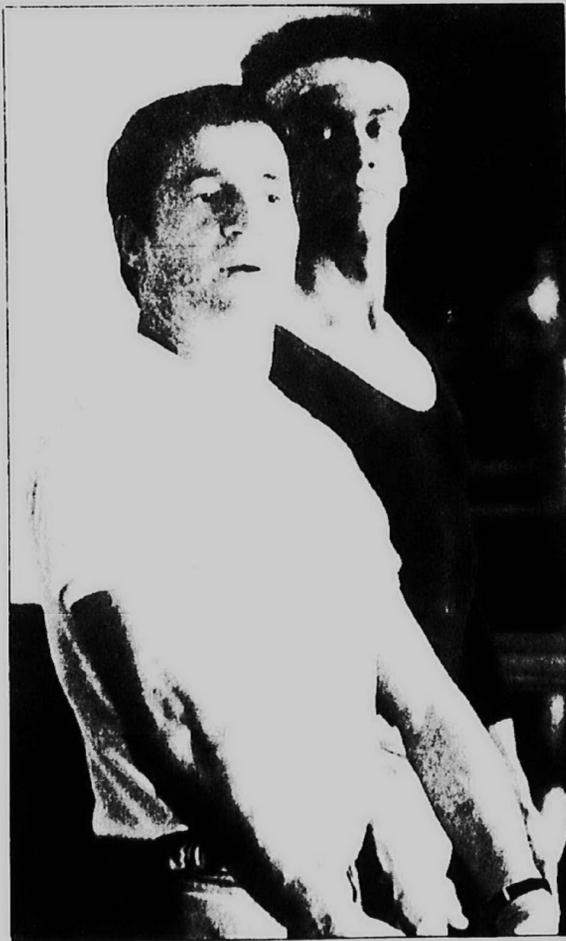

It's a fine line to draw but an important one.

"My function is to remind him of traditional ballet techniques and routines. We had the same teachers and dance background, so it was easy for me."

Then, with a flash of humor, he added, "The only difference is I learned about teaching and he, in accordance with his outstanding talents, became a superstar."

Jurgen Schneider leads through example.

Art flourishes in quiet Northport

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

HEADING NORTH OUT OF Traverse City on M-22 to the Leelanau Peninsula, the scene changes dramatically in a few miles and minutes.

The hubbub of the shoreline strip with its clusters of motels, restaurants, miniature golf courses and shops catering to tourists gives way. It is replaced by long interrupted views of the Grand Traverse Bay dotted with sails and swimmers to the east and cherry orchards, modest house and farms to the west.

The traffic on the two-lane black-top road is light, even at the height of the tourist season. Suttons Bay, 15 miles out, and Northport, another 11, both have a few antique and gift shops and restaurants, but the glitz and neon haven't penetrated so far — there's still an untarnished New England look.

Farmington artist Edee Joppich spends May through October in Northport. She operates Joppich's Bay Street Gallery in partnership with her husband Ed, a Troy-based architect and Herb Joppich, her brother-in-law, an artist living in Royal Oak.

Edee is the anchor person for the gallery. She's there 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week. The brothers and other family members come up on weekends.

BAY STREET, as the name suggests, runs along the shore. Houses are on one side and a grassy park area and sandy beach on the other. The two-room gallery with living quarters in the back is less than a city block from the bay.

The Joppichs bought the lot with a small house on it in 1980 and turned the renovation and enlargement into a two-family project.

"Each of our children did a part of this. This is really a house the Joppich family built," Edee said, standing in front of the gray frame and fieldstone chalet-style house gallery.

Not only does she mind the gallery with its colorful display of all-Michigan art, she's pursuing her own career as an artist with intense dedication.

She's up at 5:30 a.m. and at work in her barn studio, a block away, by 6 a.m.

"Those hours in the early morning

'I'm an ambassador for Michigan art. People come from New York, California — a lot from San Francisco — in fact, all over the world, and they are always surprised at the quality of Michigan art. . .'

are tremendously productive times for me," she said.

She has completed 17 mixed-media collages in preparation for her one-woman show at the Central Michigan University gallery starting Nov. 29. About 10:30 a.m. she walks back to the gallery to change mentally and physically from artist to gallery director. All thoughts of her own art are left behind in the studio.

In heels, stockings and white and mauve outfit, she surveys the gallery just before opening.

"I'm an ambassador for Michigan art. People come from New York, California — a lot from San Francisco — in fact, all over the world. And they are always surprised at the quality of Michigan art."

"Each year I have a different group of artists, consequently people come back year after year."

AFTER SHE CLOSSES for the day, she puts what she calls her "Northport Gothic" life-size, wooden figures which say "Open" on both sides (made by Herb Joppich) away for the night and returns to her studio to spend an hour or two assessing that morning's output.

Joppich has a four-word comment about her demanding schedule. "I love it here."

"I don't need a car. I walk to everything."

But, she adds with a smile, "It took a while to get used to not locking doors."

For her, selecting the art, arranging it attractively and sharing her knowledge with her customers are creative activities.

She comments on how beautiful the hanging stained glass panels by Trish Boyle of Birmingham are when the afternoon sun, filtering through the leaves of the big old wil-

Edee Joppich smiles as she is about to open her Northport gallery on a bright summer morning. The painted, metal figure is by Philip Vander Weg, a native of Niles who is a member of the art faculty of Middle Tennessee State University. He has also taught at Interlochen Center for the Arts. The painting on the easel is Joppich's.

low in the front yard, hits the soft colors. She touches a ceramic piece by Carolyn Dulin displayed near a sculpture by Marilyn Richards of Huntington Woods, noting the compatibility.

Putting it together is exciting — putting something realistic against something non-objective — it's almost like doing a painting."

She is intrigued by how much time visitors spend looking at Ann Arbor-based B.J. Bennett's brilliant red painting construction on the wall in the front gallery and how well it interacts with Herb Babcock's red glass sculpture on the floor nearby. (Babcock heads the glass program at Center for Creative Studies-College of Art and Design.)

Joppich pause at her desk in the gallery. "I can sit here and enjoy all the art I have selected and I can watch the boats coming in."

Joppich's Bay Street Gallery is off the main road in this small community at the tip of the Leelanau Peninsula. People in casual clothes window shop and stop to talk on the street. The beach is uncrowded, cars move slowly through the town. Yet, the minute she hauled the "open" sign out from the side deck, three people brushed by her into the gallery and two more followed quickly. The business day had started. She sold a necklace and was soon answering questions about a painting.

It took six years to establish a reputation and summer clientele, but in spite of the location, the house the Joppichs built is on a much firmer foundation than the sand of Grand Traverse Bay.

Seek out positive criticism

WE HAVE A new addition to our classes at the art store. It's basket weaving.

My wife, her sister, Sue, Sally, our framer, several of my teachers and about six other students stop everything and come to basket-weaving class. By the way, I am the only male in the class (which isn't so bad) but I do not look forward to a class where I am the student instead of the teacher.

Peggy, our teacher, is a wonderfully talented and extremely patient person.

Sandy and I already have woven identical baskets and even stained them with the same stain. Soon after, when I got home, I found her finished basket on the table full of flowers and mine was hanging eight feet in the air on a beam in our kitchen.

When I asked how she knew which was my basket she said, "Yours has a longer handle... umm, the stain didn't take as well and... well, it's a little crooked and... OK, that's enough." I interrupted with a laugh "Even from down here I can see you're right, but are you really sure that one up there isn't yours?"

CRITICS, CRITICS. Everywhere there are critics. Do we need them? Are they helpful or are they a hindrance?

First of all, there are two sides to the word criticize. The positive side is "to make a sound and careful judgment." The negative side is "to find fault with."

We, as artists, need the sound and careful judgment of others in order to determine whether we are rightly expressing our emotion. What we don't need is to have someone constantly finding fault with our every stroke of the pen or brush.

The last few articles I have written were about sensitivity. Now, sensitivity is never to be confused with "touchiness," but because artists are naturally more sensitive, they are likewise more easily bruised emotionally.

OFTEN, AN ARTIST is so moved by an object or emotion that he or she makes a visual expression of it. This act of visual expression or representation, in effect, leaves the artist with some exposed nerve endings.

Healthy criticism from family and friends can guide the artist to a better expression. Art instruction can increase technical ability for even a better expression.

Frustration usually comes from two sources. First is when expression and technical ability do not coincide. This is an inner turmoil that can perhaps be shared with those who have speech difficulty. Their thought and emotion is clear, but artifacts

their delivery is halting and broken. For the artist, the thought and emotion is clear, but the execution is not representative of what he wanted to express.

THE SECOND FORM of frustration is when the artist's emotion and ability do coincide to produce a valid representation of his expression, only to find negative criticism. Negative criticism is usually a result of poor understanding, but it still hurts when it is directed at you. But, usually, friends and family are very supportive and offer positive criticism to their local artist.

Having seen so many art students over the weeks, months and years, I am beginning to see a correlation between positive support and successful art. But there is a likewise depressing correlation between negative criticism and failure.

Because of the parental negative response to one teen's beautiful artwork, I told my helper she won't last six months. Positive support is the encouragement needed to try again after a failure and the "push" to do it again after a successful picture.

Artists should never develop an artistic chip on their shoulders. If my picture doesn't look right, I want to know. I know my wife is supportive of me, and I listen to her criticism faithfully. If I like it, I am pleased. If others like it, I am fulfilled.

If everyone just says "Oh, yes... it's just beautiful," to everything you do, then find someone who can offer a more critical opinion.

When your artwork becomes more public, it will initiate many criticisms, some positive and some negative. So search out those who can offer you some positive and constructive criticism.

David Messing has been an art teacher for 10 years. He is the owner of the Art Store and More in Livonia and welcomes questions and comments from readers. These can be directed to him in care of this newspaper, at 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48150.

Series ends at Greenmead

The Livonia Arts Commission's Music Under the Stars series ends Sunday — with a blast. A lot of it will come from the sweet jazzy sounds of Tom Saunders and the Surfside Six gang. They are part of a special program 1-6 p.m. Sunday at Greenmead, Livonia's historical site, marking the close of the popular series usually held in the Civic Center area. Other bands to be featured are Panchito, 1-2:30 p.m.; Downriver band, 2:45-4:15; followed by Surfside Six. Greenmead is at the corner of Eight Mile and Newburgh roads. Ample parking is available off Newburgh. There is no admission charge.

Historic inn to have sculpture-pottery market

Shirley Denison, who has served as artist-in-residence in Washington, D.C., has opened a pottery-sculpture studio and market in Port Sanilac, an area which is emerging as a seasonal art center.

Denison, whose sculpture includes busts of Washington figures, and whose background includes restoration sculpture in the nation's capital, is the owner of the historic Raymond House Inn in Port Sanilac. The studio-market will adjoin the 115-year-old antique-filled Victorian Inn.

For the past four years, Denison, a Michigan native, has operated the inn as an expression of life as it once was in the Lake Huron town where she spent summers as a youngster. An antique collector and dealer, she has furnished the inn's rooms in keeping with the lifestyle of the original owner, Uri Raymond, a lumber merchant and founder of Michigan's first hardware. The inn is open from May through October and offers private baths and continental breakfast.

Denison's studio-market will feature her unique sculpture and pottery, as well as offerings from pottery kilns elsewhere.

SHE WILL BRING to her venture the skills she has exhibited as artist-in-residence at the George Meany Center in Washington, D.C., where she demonstrated and produced sculpture and traditional pottery. Denison will offer demonstrations of wheel-throwing, slab-building and other techniques. Her creations will be kiln-fired and offered for sale in the studio-market.

The opening of the studio-market will add to Port Sanilac's recent development as an art center. A group of artists opened a gallery in 1985 on a permanent basis and annual art shows are held to display the works of local and regional artists. The town's marina also berths scores of sail and power boats, drawing sailing enthusiasts and salmon fishermen from Detroit and the Thumb area.

Shirley Denison and her husband, Ray, formerly lived in Plymouth. She recently won first prize at the Lexington Art Fair earlier this month.

History in place

ALTHOUGH THE MENLO PARK Laboratory in Greenfield Village is now a hollow shell, stripped down to the bare walls and emptied of all but its history, a single chair remains firmly rooted in the middle of the room.

Henry Ford had the chair nailed down where it stood after Thomas Edison, poised in the seat, re-enacted lighting the first successful incandescent light bulb on Oct. 21, 1929. The event was Light's Golden Jubilee, celebrating the 50th anniversary of the invention of the electric light and dedicating Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village as the Edison Institute.

In the 57 years since the dedication, millions of people have passed through the doors of the entire Menlo Park complex and restoration of the landmark has become necessary. Although repair work, which includes cleaning, painting and installing new heating and electrical systems, will continue into 1987, selected parts of the exhibit will remain open to the public.

Real Estate One.

99 Good Reasons!

1. We are the largest Realtor in the Detroit metro area with 30 offices.
2. We are the only Realtor that covers all of the counties, towns, areas, etc., around Detroit from St. Clair Shores in the east, to Brighton in the west, and Downriver in the south, to Rochester in the north.
3. We have the largest sales force of professionally trained and experienced associates with over 1,000 people.
4. We are the only Realtor with more than 50,000 past clients and customers.
5. We are the only multi-office company with more than 50 years of dedicated service through the 4 original companies which formed Real Estate One in 1970.
6. We have the highest sales of any Realtor in the state. In 1986 our combined sales will reach more than one billion dollars in sales in a single year.
7. According to our last few annual surveys, we have a 96% customer satisfaction rating. The National Association of Realtors same survey is only 74% nationwide.
8. We have the largest market share of listings with a combined total of more than 22%. Almost one in every 4 listings in the 12 Boards of Realtors and 10 multi-list services, is a Real Estate One listing.
9. We have more top associates with more than 5 years of real estate experience than any other Realtor. Our associates can make that proud claim, of not only remaining in the industry, but also continuing to remain top selling associates.
10. We pay top commission splits of up to 91%.
11. We pay more bonus dollars than any other Realtor. The 1985 bonuses will come close to one million dollars.
12. We reward our associates with more plaques, certificates, and jewelry than anyone. Our end of the year awards are being given to 100's of top associates.
13. We sell almost twice as many of our own listings as the National Association of Realtors nationwide statistics. While the 1984 national statistic is 32%, our recent ratios have ranged from 55% to 62%.

Subtle changes emerge for fall

STEVE FECHT

Sophisticated accessories with the romance of the Old West — boots in all heel heights in leather and suedes, faux-gem studded belts and shoes with their own brand of style. From Roz & Sherm, Bloomfield Plaza.

Fall 1986 is a fashion season of variables. Newest on the scene are the clean, pure, spare looks of understatement.

Or, as Hudson's fashion director Gretch Snow so succinctly puts it: "The unimportant look is the important look for fall."

It's a look that depends on quality fabrics in dark or neutral colors that absolutely scream "timeless." They're new as fashion headlines this season but, in one form or another, have been around for years and will always be the choice of the wardrobe investment-minded man and woman.

On the other hand, there are designers who believe as Karl Lagerfeld does: "Fashion is to do the right thing at the right moment. Timing is everything," he says. These are the designers who offer many options for those who believe dressing fashionably is an art form.

In the matter of women's clothes, Saks Fifth Avenue's fashion expert Linda O'Hagen sums up the season when she says "A subtle revolution of style has emerged this fall, resulting in clothing that is more dramatic, luxurious and wearable than it has been in many seasons."

"RATHER THAN focusing on any one style or trend, there are many options, different choices to make. What counts is whatever looks attractive, whatever works and just as important, the way clothes fit and the way they feel," according to O'Hagen.

Or as Hattie's fashion expert Una Vandenburg says, "It's a treat to dress up again. But this time around, it's a self-assured look — not pretentious, just refined, understated and fantastic."

Roz Becker of Roz & Sherm puts it more simply, "The look for fall is elegance."

From Anna Bassett, owner of Claire Pearone, comes this assessment: "The leading silhouette this fall is sleek and chic."

Jean Navin, Lord & Taylor's fashion director, describes the new season's dressing as "spirited in an updated classic mood."

GIORGIO ARMANI says, "It is time for a quietly elegant, powerful consistent look for women." Galanos adds: "It's the shape that's important."

Bonwit Teller's John Barnard maintains, "The look this season is definitely feminine with a softer, more rounded shoulder. And whether it be cinched, tucked or belted, it's time to define the waistline."

From the masculine point of view, who can argue with Ralph Lauren when he observes, "Men buy image. When they wear western clothing, they believe they are gauchos; when they wear weekend denims, they believe they are carpenters, gardeners or auto mechanics; and when they wear a suit, they think they are chairman of the board."

Bob Benkert, owner of the Claymore Shops and Polo Ralph Lauren, believes, "Men's fashions this season are timeless in attitude and highly reminiscent of the '30s and '40s. Pleated trousers, double-breasted suits, suspenders and the English-spread collar are back."

L'UOMO VOGUE owner Bruce Goldman points out, "What's really hot this season is the slightly looser look, especially in business suits. The shoulders are larger and wider, while the body portion of the jacket is slender. I'd say 99 per cent of my new fall pants are pleated and a lot of the heavier fabrics have cuffs."

And hang onto your broad-brimmed hats, guys.

Goldman also describes a new fabric called "twist" that is sure to separate the men from the boys. It's a combination of silk, cashmere and virgin wool.

"The most beautiful garment I've seen made from the twist fabric is the Clark Gable suit. It's an updated version of the zoot suit, with a big inverted tunnel pleat in back."

And speaking of Clark Gable, he's held responsible for ruining the men's undershirt business. But by the same token, men have the rather dashing Edward, Duke of Windsor to thank for the Windsor knot; Dean Martin for putting a red silk pocket square in the tuxedo jacket pocket; and Cary Grant and Fred Astaire for the casual elegance which inspired Ralph Lauren.

CUSTOM CLOTHIER Thom Lefler sums it all when he says, "What really counts in menswear is feeling grand in your own personal style."

Accessories — fashion's punctuation marks — make the difference between night and day; work or play, as well as defining the seasons of the year.

The key to accessorizing '86 fall fashions, says Twigs owner Ellen Firestone is "Not trying too hard."

"Less is better this year," she advises. "Jewelry is finally an accompaniment rather than an encumbrance."

Timing hands you success

STEPHEN CANTRELL

Thierry Mugler's belted green poet dress in a soft wool jersey blend has narrow hips balanced by very full sleeves. Hattie, Birmingham.

TIMING IS everything in fashion.

Being in the right place at the right time in the right clothes is the key to success. Whether you're aiming for a job, a fun-filled or relaxing weekend, an elegant evening or a romantic interlude, it's what you wear, or don't wear, as the case may be, that counts.

Life is, after all, one big costume party that depends on the clock for appropriateness.

Role-playing for the workplace requires a relatively subdued wardrobe that says you mean business. For these hours, flash is best left hanging in the closet. Colorwise, better grey than gay.

Weekend dressing gives stage time to an expression of individuality, permitting the coveted country look to star in a variety of roles.

NEW FALL-TIME colors drift from greys and browns into muted autumn greens, cardinal reds, crunchy marigold and purples. And the timing is just right for basic grey, sparked with nature's leaf-turning true brights.

Beautiful fabrics lend a fresh appeal to timeless silhouettes. Soft wool jerseys and lightweight knits lend a new ease to suits and dresses. Alpaca, vicuna, camel hair and leather create dramatic coats.

The season's coats are mostly serious but they also have their frivolous, colorful side. The ultimate coat for her is the belted, cashmere wrap. For him, it's the raglan shouldered tweed overcoat. Reefer coats — timeless and elegantly practical — are harbingers of the clean, spare look that will dominate this fall/winter.

A new category joins the dinner-at-seven melange.

Called the dinner suit, its lines are simple and clean. Fabrics are luxe and often the suit sparkles with broad trim, signaling less jewelry, at best.

Furs have become less of fantasy and more of a reality as a well-deserved reward for women who work. Homefront engineers included. More and more men, by the way, are enjoying the warmth of fur for other than business situations.

INCIDENTALLY, THE newest furs for women have taken on the roomy cut of a bathrobe.

Accessories are the props of fashion, marking the time of day and the occasion as clearly as a stop watch. And speaking of watches, time pieces are the newest accents. As a leading accessory trend, timepieces are joined by Aztec Indian designs, cats, animal prints and bold, clean pieces of silver or gold. Shawls, stoles and scarves are important for adding a light layer of warmth as autumn leaves begin to fall.

Saks Fifth Avenue's Troy store fashion coordinator Cheryl Hall points out that fashion is a dichotomy because it is both timeless and trendy.

Timeless looks and styles become classics. They reappear again and again in one form or another and they are always well received. The trendy looks mark the passage of time in much the same way that world events, politics and literature reflect the history of the human race. Fashion trends become the symbols of an era — like flappers in the '20s and the poodle-skirted, bobbysoxers of the '50s."
