Although the numbers fell far short of what police and church officials had expected, all who came to see and hear John Paul II at Hart Plaza came away smiling and bursting with enthusiasm.

Pope preaches solidarity to crowd at Hart Plaza

Wiersma's wife stayed home with their two young children, Matthew, 3, and Elise, 10 months. Wiersma attends Our Lady of Refuge parish in Orchard Lake.

Helen Copeland, 70, and Delores Thiede, 58, both of Southfield, had planned to watch the entire ceremony on television. But at 10:30 a.m., when they heard roads were clear and the crowd wasn't as large as expected, Thiede Crowd estimates ranged from 35,000 to 75,000 people for the pontiff's Detroit appearance. People came from throughout Michigan as well as Ontario, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Florida, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota and Washington, D.C.

In his 35-minute speech John Paul II called for Americans to live up to the responsibilities that freedom brings and to work toward solidarity with other nations. The pope also spoke about the need for prayer.

"PRAYER IS the deepest inspiration and dynamism of all social consciousness," he said.

Reaction to the pontiff's speech and appearance at Hart Plaza was emotional and enthusiastic - a reflection of the charisma that this pope possesses

"Inspiring, especially the blessing at the end," said Bob Gribb, 42, of Livonia, who was selling papal program books for the Archdiocese of Detroit along with other volunteers from the Daniel Lord Knights of Columbus Council 3959 in Livonia.

"I loved it, I love the pope. It's a great day for all people of peace and love," said a breathless Linda Du-Plantes of Chicago, adding that Detroiters were fine hosts for the papal visit.

Ellen Finn of Franklin said she was glad to hear the pope address the broader social issues.

"It was a little different than what he's been saying in other areas," said Finn, who is adviser of the Ash Gazette, the student newspaper at the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills. Finn had obtained press credentials for herself and Ash editor Carole Roas, 17, of Bloomfield Hills.

"REAL NICE," said a smiling Ric Wiersma, 31, of West Bloomfield.

"It isn't everyday you get to see the pope . . . . I've always liked his message. He's very warm," said Wiersma, who said he planned to see the pope since he moved back to Michigan from Minnesota earlier this year.

convinced her friend that they should drive downtown.

They arrived at 11:15 a.m., about a half-hour before the speech by John Paul II began.

Both are Catholic, although neither said they were 'devoutly religious.'

"His (the pope's) compassion and the way he encourages people to have that same compassion is really something," Copeland said after the speech.

Thiede, who said the last-minute trip was well worth it, called the speech "spiritually enriching.

'He comes across as completely genuine, a religious leader who really practices what he preaches," she said.

PARISHONERS at the family's Beverly Hills church, Our Lady Queen of Martyrs, and Edward's third-grade classmates at the church school were among those who prayed for the boy.

Aided by crutches, Edward /was joined by his parents, his sister, Denise, and 90,000 other worshipers at the Silverdome Mass.

The long media build-up did little to dampen the family's enthusiasm.

Programs, with proceeds going to the archdiocese, were selling for $5. or three for $10. Students hawking the programs reported slow going as they, like all other vendors, were hurt by the relatively small crowds.

Thumbs down on pope button

There were scads of buttons to be sold, including one in which a Detroit Tiger baseball hat was placed on the pope's head. "Bless you boys" was the button's slogan, but the young women from Ladywood High School in Livonia were not amused. It's sacrilegious, they said.

THE POPE'S visit to Detroit was a reunion of sorts for Redford's Tim Harrington and family. Harrington and his wife, Kathleen, saw the pope in 1985 when Mrs. Harrington touched the pontiff's hand in St. Peter's Square on the birthday of her sun.

Then daughter. Mary Patricia. saw the pope in Rome exactly a year before Saturday's visit to Detroit. "He's returning my visit," she quipped.

Harrington, general manager of the Gleaner's Food Bank in Detroit, planned to watch the papal address from the City-County Building. "I think it's comparable to Peter's

The pope's visit was almost too much for words for some at Hart Plaza.

"The feeling's indescribable that's why I'm here," said Marie Harrington of Troy. Harrington was there with her mother, Irene Hilliard of Garden City and a group from St. Raphael's parish in Garden City.

"He's beyond comprehension," said Jackie Choi. a Canton resident who is a senior at Livonia's Ladywood High School.

Michelle Chartree, another Ladywood student, is impressed with the pope as a world leader and she agrees "with most of what he says."

But she disagrees on some major points that are causing serious differences in the American Catholic Church.

"I THINK that women should become priests and that priests should be able to marry," she said, adding that it is doubtful that such changes would occur in her lifetime.

"They can't let up on some issues or nothing would be considered sin." she said.

Several Madonna College students were moved by the pope's remarks.

"The message was so applicable," said Maureen Feely of Birmingham. who said she felt that people of all religions could respond to his remarks. "It's just reaching out and helping out," she continued. "developing more of a social conscious and being more aware of the community.

"I think the pope just added to the vitality of Detroit. You'll always be talking about the day you saw Pope John Paul II."

Leonard Gutmann, another Madonna student, found the address to be "fairly moving, especially the final blessing. It was like he was speaking to each person individual-

Ed Turel, who lives part time in Livonia and Alpena, came with his sister, Lucy Olaf, of Superior, Wis. Olaf said she's "100 percent Polish" and has traveled to see the pope two other times -- in Winnipeg and Chicago

Also among the crowd were 40 students from the Academy of the Scared Heart in Bloomfield Hills.

Avesha Almeida, 16, of Bloomfield Hills said: "I've always wanted to see the pope." A student of politics, Almeida has studied government in Washington, D.C., and said that pope has an impact not only as religious leader but as an international figure. More than Catholics were drawn to see the pope in Hart Plaza.

Papal wait calls for patience

Patience may be a virtue, but it also was a necessity at the Pontiac Silverdome Saturday

Patience for standing in line at concession stands, in even longer lines for up to an hour at the women's restrooms, for waiting in the dark for shuttle buses to the Phoenix Center and for walking along row after row of buses looking for the right one.

Patience ruled the day except at the end of the papal Mass when the worshipers decided it was better to wait for the pope to leave in the concourses rather than staying in their seats.

The archdiocese had asked participants to remain in their seats until the pope left, but faced with a burgeoning crowd at the exits they opened the doors, letting people outside in time to see the pope's and escort helicopters take off for Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Feeding souls at Hart Plaza

A Westland woman, who declined to be identified, was happily munching away on a chili dog and an ice cream bar about four hours before Pope John Paul II took the stage in Hart Plaza Saturday morning.

"Would you want your name in the paper if this was your breakfast." the woman said somewhat defensively.

Before judging anybody's dietary habits, it should be noted that other "breakfast" items available from concessionaires included: kielbasa, beef jerky, pork chop sandwiches, barbecued ribs, pita sandwiches, Italian sausages, loose hamburger, chili fries, popcorn and cotton candy.

Pope John Paul II arrived at Blessed Sacrament Cathedral last Friday accompanied by an ebullient Archbishop Edmund Szoka. The archbishop is the official leader of metropolitan Detroit's Roman Catholic community. While in Detroit, the pope stayed at the archbishop's residence on Boston Boulevard.

Members of St. Richard's Catholic Church, the Rosettos had decided to join the more than 90,000 worshipers because it was, they said, a once in a lifetime opportunity.

"It's history making and I figured we wouldn't be able to get to Rome to see him." Rosetto said. "I was raised as a Catholic and I wanted to see what was going on.'

"Jim says I'm lucky," his wife added. "He's been a Catholic for 30 years and has never seen the pope I've been a Catholic for less than a year.

Pam converted to Catholicism earlier this year Raiseo a Lutheran, she figured she might as well make the switch after helping raise her children Catholic and attending church with them.

THERE WAS no sleeping in Saturday morning for the Rosettos. Eddie was first up, at 7 a.m., to munch on cereal and watch cartoons on television. He was quickly joined by his brother and parents.

By 9:30 a.m. they were at St. Richard's, getting their tickets for the papal Mass and boarding the Wayne-Westland YMCA bus the church had rented for the day

The two boys were excited about then adventure Both were impressed at the transformation of the sports arena into a more religious setting.

'I think the pope will like it," Eddie said as he scanned the main floor with his brother's binoculars. "You know, if I had a chance to talk to the pope, I'd tell him, 'Welcome to the Silverdome, hope you like it." "I'a tell him. 'Welcome to Detroit, Ham-tramck and Pontiac, and guess I'd invite him home for dinner." Alex added.

"But you'd have to be good all the time, his mother added.

Pam didn't leave much to chance. She carried a small duffel bag, packed with peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, containers of juice, coloring books and small snap-together toys to keep her sons entertained during their five-hour wait.

"If you don't come prepared, you don't have fun, she said. "We were worried about the crowds at first, but they're pretty good about staying with us. That's why we decided to come.

'It's history in the making and I figured we wouldn't be able to get to Rome to see him.'

- Jim Rosetto Westland

Seated in the upper level on the southeast side of the arena, the family had a good view of the pope and the altar where he celebrated Mass. While they listened to the pre-event en-tertainment, soft rock -- "Not quite the music I expected," Rosetto said - they scanned the upper level for Jim's family.

They were unsuccessful, but Jim's father, John, out for a walk, found them.

"I'm the restless, nervous type," John said as he led the group to the northwest end of the stadium to see his wife. Beverly, and daughter, Jill.

MEMBERS OF St. Adian's Church, Livonia, John and Beverly Rosetto were as excited as their children and grandchildren.

"Anytime I get in a crowd my adrenalio gets flowing and I get excited," Beverly said. She and her husband had had a chance to see Pope Paul VI when they were in Rome in 1973.

"I'm certainly impressed with the way they've handled it," John said. "I'm proud of it. This shows a lot of forethought.'

When the pope finally arrived at the Silverdome, the family joined in the cheering and waving.

Impressed with the popemobile, Eddie quipped that "they should make toys of those things. I'd bet they'd sell a lot."

Tired after a long day of sitting and walking, the Rosettos were nonetheless moved by the papal Mass. But Jim was disappointed that he had had a hard time hearing the pope's homily because of the sound system.

"I'd have to say it was worth it. How can you say it wasn't?" he said. "But if I had to do it again, I'd get a better pair of shoes."

RETIRING AGAIN: After more than a decade of "semi-retirement," Clarence DuChame is going to retire again. That announcement was made at last week's Kick Off Luncheon of the Plymouth Community Fund/ United Way.

Some 10 years ago DuCharme retired as owner-operator of the American Motors dealership on Ann Arbor Road and sold the business to Tom Bohlander who now runs the Sunshine Honda dealership there. Not ready for Ill-time retirement, though, DuCharme agreed to serve as volunteer executive director of the Community Fund.

Some 10,000 hours later, DuCharme has decided to retire again. DuCharme performed so well, said Fred Hill, president of the fund's board of directors, that two people will replace him. Marie Morrow will be the administrator and Harold Fisher will be community relations director.

Site to be a park or Meijer's?

By Doug Funke staff writer

Even though Meijer's Inc., has an option to purchase a 32-acre parcel at Haggerty and Schoolcraft roads, it appears that voters in Plymouth Township will have first crack at buying the property.

That's good news for some residents of the LakePointe Subdivision. who object to Meijer's plan to build a 207,000-square foot store at the site. Petitions were filed last week at township hall asking that voters decide a property tax increase of 3.5 mills ($3.50 per $1.000 of state equalized valuation) for two years to buy the land and develop a park.

Clerk Esther Hulsing said she believes that the petitions contain enough valid signatures to get the proposal on the Nov 3 ballot. Her staff was examining the petitions late last week

A pyramid scheme hinges on organizers contributing money and convincing others to join, which increases the investment pool. As more people are hooked, initial investors move up the chain until the money pool is large enough to pay out the promised return.

SEVERAL RACE details, including launch and landing sites, remain to be resolved.

'We're thinking about one of the schools," Lorenz said. The race really isn't a race as far as speed goes. The winning crew will be the one that puts down closest to the designated landing area in Plymouth, Mass.

Boring said it would be an accomplishment just to land somewhere in Massachusetts.

The price of helium and its transportation cost are two major reasons why gas balloon flights are so rare in Michigan. It will cost upwards of $15,000 to fill five balloons for the Plymouth to Plymouth race.

With only a handful of balloonists expected to compete, the event won't offer spectators the thrills of the hotair balloon festival.

From June 1982 to May 1985, Snyder was employed by WEMU. Ypsilanti, the National Public Radio affiliate at Eastern Michigan University. His duties included news/ sports reporting, anchoring/beat coverage. feature reporting/production, game coverage/production.

Snyder was recruited to work at WEMU while still a high school senior. He expects to receive a bachelor's degree in political science and history from EMU in December.

AT WSDP, Snyder plans to continue the same format established by Melin, with some changes.

me and my style is all I plan to do at this time.' said Snyder. "I would like to serve the community with as much local programming as possible. The Plymouth-Canton community is not served by any other radio station.

WSDP is a 200-watt, non-commercial station that began broadcasting in 1972. Its radio coverage area is a 15-mile radius that includes: Northville to the north; Van Buren Township, south; Washtenaw County, west; and Westland to the east. "We basically cover Plymouth, Canton and Northville strongly

Airport group joins in Eloise growth effort

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

Development of Eloise, the former county hospital property at Michigan Avenue and Merriman in Westland, will be a joint effort by the Eloise Task Force and the Detroit Metropolitan Airport Task Force.

The expansion of the group is the most recent of several moves aimed at marketing the massive, 200-acre site as prime commercial property, according to an outline presented by Tim Schroeder, the city's economic development director.

Schroeder's update on the property was presented during Thursday's regular meeting of the Westland Advisory Commission on Economic Development.

Representatives from Taylor and Huron Township will be brought into the combined task force, which currently includes representatives from Westland, Wayne, Romulus and Inkster

The four-city Eloise Task Force was initiated in 1986 by members of the economic advisory council.

Schroeder said the advantages of linking the two groups outweigh any negative aspects. He said he didn't think the Eloise development effort would be shortchanged in any way.

"THE AIRPORT could have a major impact on development of the property," Schroeder said.

'Combining the two groups will help keep us updated on what's going on as far as airport expansion and access improvements."

Schroeder said he thinks the property's proximity to the airport - it's about two miles northeast of Metro and the Conrail railroad tracks, which cut through Eloise's northern tip, could be major selling points to help lure industrial clients.

The first meeting of the combined groups is slated for Thursday at the airport. At that meeting, airport consultants will present information on improved noise abatement procedures, Schroeder said.

In a second development, Schroeder said a team of graduate architectural students from Lawrence Institute of Technology in Southfield is looking at the site and offering suggestions for marketing strategy. The student group took on the project at the request of city and Wayne County officials.

Schroeder said using the graduate students will help save money by doing a lot of the ground work, but that a professional marketing study may still be required.

IN ADDITION to attracting potential clients to the property, the task force has been dealing with the remnants of the old county hospital.

Several of the buildings have been razed, but others remain and a few still house tenants.

Hegira Programs Inc., which operates a psychiatric evaluation and substance abuse treatment center. received approval from the Westland City Council last month to move its facility from one building to a second one at the site. County plans to tear down the building where the center is currently located forced the move.

Metro Detroit area jazz fans are being asked to rally around Big Band living-legend Woody Herman, whose long term woes with the Internal Revenue Service have recently been made public.

"If everyone who has ever danced or snapped their fingers to a Woody Herman tune would just give $1, he'd be out of debt," said Midge Ellis, coordinator of special events for Schoolcraft College and a personal friend of the jazz clarinetist.

Herman, 74 and ailing, was recently saved from eviction from his home in Hollywood by a Los Angeles radio station that heard of his plight. At last count, Herman owes the IRS $1.6 million. The government was planning to auction off his house.

ELLIS, WHO organized many Herman performances for Clarenceville High School's big band jazz series during the 1970s, explained Herman's troubles.

"Twenty years ago, Woody Herman's manager withheld taxes from band members. Instead of paying the government, he gambled the money away. This went on for three years until it was discovered and the manager fired. Because there were no financial records, the IRS based its (tax owed) estimate ridiculously high - $850,000."

Compound that figure with mounting interest and penalties and that explains why Herman has had to continue performing 50 weeks a year on the road despite his age and ill health, Ellis said.

The IRS seized all royalties, just allowing the performer to keep enough cash for basic living expenses, she said.

"If he played clarinet for the rest of his life, he would never be able to catch up with his tax debt," she said. Herman spent three months this past spring hospitalized at Detroit's Sinai Hospital with heart and respiratory ailments. While he was here, his daughter, Ingrid Herman Reese, stayed with Ellis.

"WOODY PLAYED at Clarenceville many, many times and at Jamies in Livonia," she said. "Many times he conducted clinics for music students at Clarenceville. He has a lot of fans here."

"Woody traveled by bus across the country 50 weeks a year. Many of the leading jazz musicians in the country got their first break with him."

U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Detroit, has introduced a bill in Congress to extinguish the band leader's debt.

House Bill 3274 asks that Herman's debt to the IRS be voided, calling it "a national disgrace that makes people ashamed." "Woodchopper's Ball" and "Caledonia" are two of the bandleaders biggest hits. Herman cut an album as recently as earlier this year. Like all his previous bodies of work published during the past two decades, all royalties go directly to the IRS.

Fans are asked to write to the Chairman, Administrative Law Subcommittee, House Judiciary Committee, Room 2137, Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515 urging a public hearing be held to extinguish Herman's debt to the IRS.

Cash donations should be sent to the National Academy of Jazz, 4475 Vineland, N. Hollywood, California 91602. 'If everyone who has ever danced or snapped their fingers to a Woody Herman tune would just give $1, he'd be out of debt.' — Midge Ellis

The chamber agreed, and the 1962 Fall Festival was co-chaired by Margaret Wilson and Jim Thornton. Eventually a Fall Festival board that includes representatives of the major participants, including Rotary, was organized.

By 1980, 40 different organizations were participating in the event, ern Wayne County were attending the Festival, held annually in the fall of the year.

On Sundays, the Rotary Club continues to sponsor its chicken barbecue dinners. The number of dinners peaked at 17,000 one year but have diminished considerably in recent years as other food concessions were permitted to open on Sunday, provid-ROTARY SPONSORED the Festi- ing competition for the Rotary effort.

grew A cinema festival never materialized but the Plymouth Symphony League's Antique Mart became an annual success, the Plymouth Community Arts Council's Artist and Craftsman Show began to attract artists and art lovers from near and far, the Three Cities Art Club, part of the Festival from the first year, continues to attract crowds to its display; and music from several sources is still pleasing music lovers. From the beginning, city officials were cooperative - closing streets, rerouting traffic, making the park available and assisting in numerous other ways. This fine municipal cooperation, begun in 1960, has continued to the present day. Deserving of special mention for his fine support since the very beginning is the city's Ken Vogras, head of the DPW.

I bought the right to use the illustration from the firm and began to incorporate it in the Festival literature.

We made a big plywood cut-out of the figure, had it painted in colors, and mounted it in the park to attract attention. The little man caught on immediately. Merchants began to use him in their ads, and the bugler became the symbol of the Festival.

One year I recall that Harold and Emma Pine and I constructed a huge replica of a chicken for promotional purposes. Harold, also a Rotarian, was an architect, and it was he who designed the hen whose basic structure was chicken wire covered the Fall Festival, for a number of with papier-mache. It was used on a

READERS OF a reflective frame of mind might ask what effect the Fall Festival has had on Plymouth. As in most communitywide happenings of this type, there are pros and cons. On the plus side, the Festi-val has brought business to Plymouth by attracting people from neighboring communities who return during other times of the year once they have become aware of the community's resources.

It has provided funds for the treasuries of service clubs, church groups, and other organizations who use the money in the community for charitable purposes. It has provided a week of divertissement for residents and their offspring - an opportunity to meet with friends, to renew acquaintanceships, and to enjoy time off from the routine of daily life.

And it has strengthened the ties that exist between organization members who become better acquainted with each other when engaging in a joint effort in a good cause.

Some might wonder, however, whether the Fall Festival and other events that have sprung up in recent years - the ice festival and the balloon festival - are an unmitigated blessing.

Could they be partly responsible - for example - for attracting to the community the young people from other towns who return on weekend evenings as motorists, cruising our Main Street, causing debris. and noise, and making necessary the hiring of extra policemen?

Grace, pageantry mark papal Mass

TOM ARNETT/staff photographer

Pope John Paul II bowed his head during the prayer of the faithful, general intercessions that were said in the Polish, Vietnamese, English, Spanish, Korean and Lithuanian languages.

By Wayne Peal and Sue Mason staff writers

If any event put the majesty and irony - of the Detroit visit of Pope John Paul II in perspective, it may well have been his celebration of Mass at the Pontiac Silverdome.

There, the pontiff renewed ancient tradition and ritual, which, according to Roman Catholic theology, began with the teachings of a humble carpenter and the church he founded through a fisherman. But he did so inside a modern concrete-and-steel edifice better suited to football games and rock music concerts.

The Archdiocese of Detroit went to great lengths to preserve a sense of reverence inside the domed stadium

Scoreboards and billboard advertisements were covered over, some with a multi-colored checkerboard pattern representing the growth of Catholicism in Michigan. Greeters helped acclimate out-of-town and out-of-state visitors to the glant stadium.

We tried to give them a sense of being in church from the rush they'd been in outside." greeter Dennis Fernandez of Bloomfield Township said.

The crowd was among the most orderly ever at a Silverdome event, according to security personnel.

"Everybody's been really pleasant." Fernandez said.

There were a few anxious moments for some worshipers. A white-suited man shouted a few unintelligible comments at the pope during Archbishop Edmund Szoka's welcoming speech. He was quickly apprehended by Oakland County sheriff's deputies and later charged

Several speakers, including Szoka. reminded the crowd the event was a holy rite, not a mere celebration for a media superstar

As the pontiff spoke, his words were widely televised throughout the Detroit area. Outside, vendors were selling record albums of other papal addresses

There was time to let the crowd show its emotion Earlier, hundreds of flashbulbs burst as the smiling pontiff and a beaming Szoka toured the stadium's perimeter in the popemobile, the pontiff's glass-enclosed automobile

The flashes continued throughout the service, hitting a high point during the Consecration - the blessing of the bread and wine as the body and blood of Christ.

THE SILVERDOME Mass was the next-to-last formal function of the pontiff's 10-day tour of the United States Even before he departed, religious historians regarded the trip as an effort to re-establish Catholic religious tradition among reformminded American Catholics bent on incorporating modern issues and practices into the faith.

But as the Mass and other events The pope celebrated Mass and the , showed this pope is more than willing to meet the modern world head-

Not everyone in metropolitan Detroit was happy to see Pope John Paul II arrive here.

Events held throughout the pontiff's visit attracted spectators and worshipers, but protesters also made their presence known.

"Protest the Pope Rally" was held Saturday in Detroit's Grand Circus Park. The event was coordinated by the Coalition for Papal Reformation, a group made up of a number of women's, gay and lesbian, human and civil rights organizations.

Songs, skits and speeches were the order of the day for the rally, held in conjunction with the pope's appearances at Ford Auditorium and Hart Plaza. The rally was one of several protest activities the coalition held before and during the papal visit.

NOW also objected to the church's position on the Equal Rights Amendment and to the use of church money "and the lavish kinds of things that are going on" during the papal visit. That money could be better spent to keep Catholic schools open and to help the homeless and hungry, McCracken said.

NOW members participated in Saturday's rally to make people aware of the pope's positions, said McCracken, who retired in 1982 from the Farmington Public Schools where she had taught for 24 years.

A Chicago vendor who had been following the pope for the entire length of his American tour said he was a little bit confused about Detroit's various nicknames.

No sale Vendors' business was slow

By Tedd Schneider

It turned out to be a far better day for prophets than for profits.

Most vendors lining Jefferson and Woodward didn't make the financial killing they had hoped for when they learned Pope John Paul II would be making a major speech at Hart Pla-28.

Late arrivals, a much smaller crowd than was expected and predawn rain showers combined to hold down sales before the pope's Saturday morning address.

Those attending Saturday afternoon's papal Mass at the Pontiac Silverdome often had to wade through lines that were five deep at the food concessions. The only souvenirs being sold inside the stadium were the $5 programs sanctioned by the Archdiocese of Detroit.

Hawkers of buttons, pennants and other knickknacks celebrating the papal visit were confined to parking areas outside the dome. Following the Mass, many vendors slashed prices on their wares by 50 percent and some even offered bus drivers freebies in exchange for permission to board homeward bound buses in a last-minute effort to unload merchandise.

FOR MOST though, the effort was worth it despite the small profits. After all, it provided a convenient excuse to see the pope

Many vendors said they were as caught up in papal hysteria as their customers. "Even if we don't do that well, at least we were here for the pope's stop in Detroit," said Janet Woods.

Woods, who along with her husband. Bob, operates D and P Enterpises, a Livonia-based food service company, said she brought a pair of binoculars along to help her see the pontiff from their Danish and coffee booth on Woodward, about two blocks north of the stage.

At 4 a.m., the steady downpour and lack of early arrivals were making business disappointing for the couple. There was plenty of time to talk to a reporter.

"It's our first time working down here for a big event and if sales don't pick up it could be our last," Bob Woods said.

He said it would take sales of 5,000 Danishes and a like number of coffees to break even.

Four hours later, the Woods' mood was a little more upbeat. Business was picking up for one of the few downtown vendors offering traditional breakfast fare.

Most downtown restaurants were hurting for business too.

Security measures and talk of a large crowd apparently scared off regular customers, and the abundance of street vendors were taking care of early arrivals' appetites.

SURVEYING THE sparse breakfast crowd (three people) in her Sandwich Place restaurant at the corner of Woodward and Congress, manager Marlene Terry regretted her decision to open up on a Saturday morning when she would normally be sleeping in at home.

But Farmington's Tom Karadimas, owner of the Plaza Coney Island in Greektown. was busy serving a full house most of the morning. "Of course, we're open 24 hours so I would have been here anyway," said Karadimas.

Karadimas, a former franchisee of the Elias Brothers Big Boy at Telegraph and Five Mile in Redford Township, said he likes the excitement - and the extra business brought in by big downtown events such as the papal visit or the Freedom Festival fireworks display

In addition to the usual menagerie of pennants, buttons and "special, commemorative full-color photographs of His Holiness," there were cardboard "popescopes" for faraway viewers who wanted a better look at the pontiff.

Mike Murphy, 30, of Huntington Woods said he and his brother, Rick, hoped to sell 1,300 of the $5 periscopes, giving them a profit of less than $1.000.

Staff writer Sue Mason contributed to this story.

Most pope-watchers who visited Hamtramck were pleasantly surprised at how easy it was to get into the city.

Although local streets were shut down to traffic, many commuters said they had little trouble on through-streets and freeways leading to Hamtramck

She drove in with next-doorneighbors Bruce and Carol Carr on Eight Mile Road to Conant and had no trouble

One of the more clever read, "I went to Rome to see the pope but he was in Hamtramck." Those were about $4.

ON THE DIGNITY AND IMPOR-TANCE OF WORK:

"The church considers it her task to focus attention on the dignity and rights of workers, to condemn violations of that dignity and those rights, and to provide guidance for authentic human progress . . . . Central to the church's teaching is the conviction that people are more important than things; that work is 'for man' and not man 'for work'; that the person is both the subject and purpose of all work and cannot be reduced to a mere instrument of production; that the person is to be valued for

ON THE WORLD'S INTERDEPEN-DENCE:

"The poorer nations of the world are inclined to view this interdependence as a continuing pattern of economic domination by the more developed countries, while the latter sometimes view interdependence as the opening up of new opportunities for commerce and export. Interdependence clearly demands that relations between nations be seen in this new context and that the social question needs an appropriate ethic. # chef Larry Janes He knows

taste buds

his onions, loves 'em

If there is one good reason to be thankful for the hot humid weather we experienced over the summer it is that this year's onion crop is sure to be the biggest and the best.

I love onions. They even make liver taste good. Versatile and timeless, the onion is by far the most all-season vegetable of all.

I'll bet you didn't know that the onion has adorned the great temples of Egypt. Or that Alexander the Great introduced the onion to Europe and called it a "cure all" and an aphrodisiac. Even during the American Civil War. General Grant, in one of his communiques to the Union War Department, said, "I will not move my army without onions." I tend to agree. I cannot imagine any cuisine without the great onion.

Fortunately, this indispensable vegetable and flavoring agent is plentiful worldwide throughout the year. Generally, the warmer the climate, the milder the onion. In the Mediterranean, onions and garlic are nibbled raw to attest their mildness. I had an uncle once who used to eat raw Vidalia oniona like an apple. He said it helped his circulation. I think a little too much blood was circling in his brain. However, in all honesty, I do go rather heavy with the raw omon on my deli sandwiches.

IN THIS COUNTRY, most onions, such as Bermudas, Valencias and shallots are mareted dry, that is, with their green tops removed. Varieties such as chives, scallions and leeks are seasonal and, marketed fresh, are perishable.

Bermuda onions are just about the mildest of the dry-onion family and are sweet and juicy. Light-yellow skinned, they can measure up to 31/2 inches in diameter. Great eaten raw in salads and sandwiches, they are also superb stuffed and baked. At their best in the spring, they are in regrettably short supply because their season is brief and they do not keep well.

Spanish or Valencia onions are also mild but not as delicate as the Bermuda. Theirs is a long season, from August through April, and they are readily found sacked or stacked in every supermarket. When cooks throw an onion into the pot" for flavor, it's Tailgate picnics can look and taste spectacular when they're put together the way Ann Booth of Birmingham does them. She plans and prepares food ahead of time, then serves it colorfully at University of Michigan home games in Ann Arbor.

a tailgate party? 'You don't have to worry about food poisoning Couple gives great parties with football, food, friends

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

ILL AND ANN BOOTH have been hosting tailgate parties for so long, they have refined the pre-game parking-lot picnic to an art. The Birmingham couple know where to park in the University of Michigan alumnus parking lot so that the U-M marching band will parade by their party on the way to the football field.

"Everyone seems to enjoy that," said Ann Booth, who presides over a half dozen stadium picnics each fall, some with up to 20 guests.

Bill Booth, Class of '59, is an attorney who sees his 10 season tickets as an opportunity to mix a little business with pleasure. The Booths' daughters, Jennifer, Class of '80, and Deborah, Class of '85, are often included in the fun.

While mother Ann is the only non-U-M alumnus in the family, she is the chief cook and organizer, often planning and preparing the picnic a day or two ahead, keeping last-minute preparations to a minimum.

'You get used to all this," she said. She keeps two large plastic baskets filled with products, like rattan holders for the paper plates with U-M insignia, napkins, plastic utensils, cups and a tablecloth for the fold-out metal table. A can opener and corkscrew, powder cream substitute and sugar, salt and pepper shaker, and plastic garbage bags are also essential tote-alongs.

The Booths have been hosting tailgate parties for 25 years. Recipes are culled from a variety of places, and weather dictates whether the fare is hot or cold.

One recent Thursday morning, Ann Booth was preparing a smoked turkey breast on a gas grill for sandwiches to bring along to Saturday's home opener. Six guests from Chica-

Rub turkey breast with herbs and cover with strips of bacon. Cover loosely with aluminum foil and place on gas grill, set to low heat. Cook one and a half to two hours. Slice quickly for sandwiches.

Fresh Italian rye, Scotch or dill bread are good accompaniments. Poupon mustard, mayonnaise, lettuce and tomato slices travel to the stadium separately for last-minute fixing.

SPIEDANA ROMANA SANDWICHES

- 1/2 cup soft butter
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 1/2 cup mustard
- 1 Tbsp. poppyseed
- 6 hamburger buns, split
- 6 slices boiled, canned, or baked ham 6 slices Swiss cheese

Mix butter, onion, mustard and poppyseed together and spread on buns. Place slice of ham and slice of cheese on bottom halves of buns. Cover with tops and wrap sandwiches individually in tinfoil. Place on cookie sheet and bake in a 350degree oven for 15 minutes. Wrap in newspaper as insulation and place in paper bag. Sandwiches also freeze well if made ahead of game day.

most likely to be a Spanish onion.

One of my personal favorites is the red Italian or Creole onion - much stronger than Bermuda or Spanish but still mild enough to be enjoyed. Their pungent flavor invigorates many sandwiches and their lovely purplish color makes them look real pretty, as well as be flavorful, in a salad bowl.

Then there is the small white or pearl onion that is oval with pointed end and a flaky white skin. The smallest are used for pickling and enliven a basic martini while the fresh are used in delicate stews, bouillabaisses and beef Bourgignones.

SHALLOTS ARE a flavor bridge between onion and garlic. The small, brown-skin shallot bulb yields individual cloves that, when peeled, have a purplish tinge and a brisk flavor that is essential to most sauces and mayonnaises. Garlic, needless to say, is the Goliath of the onion family, and its strength can be overcome only by cooking. Raw garlic should be used with restraint. When buying, avoid small, pink heads as they have a tendency to be dried out and bitter.

In addition to the dry onions, the fresh onions are also highly regarded in culinary circles. Chives are the mildest members of the onion family and extensive cooking will destroy their delicate flavor. Great in creamed soups or omelettes, they rival parsley for a distinct flavor.

Scallions are second to chives in delicacy of flavor but second to none in their versatility. These long, slender, bulbless onions with dark green stalks are eaten raw on a vegetable tray and can be chopped into salads and sandwiches. Lightly sauteed, they make a great addition to stir fries and basic sauteed vegetables. Contrary to popular belief, what you and I call green onions are really scallions.

Leeks are often considered interchangeable with scallions but the two are substantially different in texture and flavor. Leeks stems are much thicker and their flavor stronger and more complex. Excellent in cold and hot soups. When cleaning, be aware that they grow in sandy soil and the best way to remove all of the sandy grit that grows in the stalk is to coarsely chop, place in a colander or sieve, then wash under cold running water. So if you like onions as much as I do, try these recipes. Bon Appetit!

For a relaxed, worry-free tailgate picnic early in the season when the weather is still warm, keep your perishable foods in a cooler. Later in the season, when the weather gets cooler, food poisoning is much less a threat, but bacteria can still grow any time the temperature remains between 40 degrees and 140 degrees for two hours.

SO, IF THE MAIN dish of your tailgate supper is hot chili or stew, you must keep it above 140 degrees to be safe. A thermos works well for chili, soups and stews. Serve as soon as you reach your destination.

By Julie Brown staff writer

It's been about a year and a half since the Michigan Chefs Against Hunger group got started.

A group of local chefs was invited to do a dinner at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Jeffrey Gabriel, who was then executive chef at the club, contacted six other area chefs.

"So we did the dinner and they sold tickets to it, and it was very successful," said Keith Famie, president of Michigan Chefs Against Hunger and chef at Chez Raphael in Novi. "We had so much fun doing it we decided we should continue it."

Since that first dinner, the chefs have gathered for a series of dinners at a number of Detroit-area restaurants. Proceeds from the dinners support the soup kitchen at the Capuchin Community Center in Detroit.

The group hasn't yet set its schedule for this year's dinners. One dinner, to be presented by the Sheraton Oaks Hotel in Novi, is scheduled for the evening of Monday, Oct. 5, at the hotel.

THAT BENEFIT event will feature a Bob Hope performance. Proceeds will support the National Institute for Burn Medicine, the University of Michigan Burn Center and Michigan Chefs Against Hunger.

For more information or reservations for the black-tie event, call 348-5000 Ext. 692.

In addition to participating in the early October event, the Michigan Chefs Against Hunger group hopes to schedule one dinner before the holiday sea-SOD.

Setting up each dinner involves a good deal of work, Famie said. The host calls the other chefs to make the necessary arrangements; generally, each chef will work on one course.

The chefs enjoy working together, Famie has

"It's just neat that we could take the talents we've got and use them." Last year's series of dinners raised some $17,500.

The chefs get some price breaks on food and wines for the dinners, Famie said. Printing donations are also helpful. The dinners held last year were in the $75-$125 per-person range. The upcoming Bob Hope event is priced at $500 per person.

Some diners returned to some of the dinners held throughout the year.

"They're getting a collaboration of food at a very creative level of cooking, a very refined level of cooking," the Chez Raphael chef said. The diners enjoy good service and good wines at the dinners. They also know they're helping a worthy cause.

FAMIE AND the other chefs are glad to help the soup kitchen at the Capuchin Community Center.

"It's a very strong foundation," Famie said. "It's been around a long time." Those at the center help the needy.

"That's a pretty substantial job, to do that daily." Although providing financial assistance is important, Famle also hopes the work of the chefs will inspire similar efforts by other people.

Those on the receiving end of the chefs' efforts are grateful for the assistance.

"They are really going out of their way to provide for others," said the Rev. Lloyd Thiel, Capuchin Community Center director. "They are using their skills" and in the process providing food for the hungry. "I think with chefs it's better that they use their talent to the utmost," he said. "They're really a neat bunch of guys." Thiel attended most of the dinners held during the last year.

"And the people that came were really delightful people.'

go were expected for the weekend.

Her picnics usually include a tray featuring havarti, brie and cheddar cheese, grapes and apples, and crackers. A relish tray and potato chips accompany the sandwiches, which are individually wrapped, with condiments offered on the side. "Tomatoes and lettuce can make the bread soggy, so I bring them separately," she said.

Here are a few of Ann Booth's tried and true tailgate recipes.

The Capuchin Community Center provides a variety of services in the areas of emergency food, clothing and furnishings.

"FOR ALL OF this, we depend on the donations of people," Thiel said. Chef Milos Cihelka of the Golden Mushroom in Southfield has been happy to donate his time to the Michigan Chefs Against Hunger cause Cihelka has served as master of ceremonies at the dinners, describing each course as it's served.

'We discuss the menu," Cihelka said. He talks with the other chefs about the dishes and how they're prepared. He takes notes on what's said.

Cihelka has found the diners aren't reluctant to try new dishes.

They are eager to try what we put in front of them."

Cihelka's looking forward to serving as master of ceremonies again this year for the organization.

"If they ask me to, I will, sure." Helping needy people is enjoyable for Cihelka. He also enjoys the camaraderie. "I think it's a very good cause to raise money for the hungry people. It's kind of a fun evening, being together with everybody." Cihelka is among chefs who have visited the soup kitchen in Detroit. He's found it to be a very frugal operation "They just do a tremendous amount of work" with a limited budget, he said.

Chef Jeffrey Gabriel also enjoys his involvement in organizing the Michigan Chefs Against Hunger group and keeping it running. Gabriel is now a chef-instructor at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

"I really felt as a chef that would be the best cause to get into. As chefs, we're around food all the time. I thought that would be a good cause."

AT THE DINNERS, Gabriel likes to prepare the entree, although he enjoys all areas of food. Generally, the host chef will prepare the entree. At the Monday, Oct. 5, dinner, Gabriel plans to serve a wild turkey consomme.

Three area chefs were among the winners at the ninth annual Michigan Chili Cookoff on Sunday. Sept. 13, before a sellout crowd at the Lark restaurant in West Bloomfield

Jim Adamski of Redford placed fourth, and Austin Howard of Birmingham won fifth place, as well as being honored for Best Booth, serving up chili from a chuckwagon.

First-place winner was John Beadle of Ada, Mich., who will represent Michigan at the World Cookoff on Oct. 25 at the abandoned Tropico Gold Mine in California's Mojave Desert.

Second place went to Bob Vargo of Milford, last year's first-place winner, and Sandra Guillermety of Detroit placed third. Tom Greiner of Northville won the Showmanship award, his all-male team dressing up like gals for a "Some Like It Hot" booth.

The judging panel of food writers and other Detroit-area personalities tasted nearly 40 chilis to select the winners. The Observer & Eccentric was represented by Ethel Simmons, entertainment editor, who writes the Table Talk restaurant column, and Mary Lou Callaway, former O&E reporter for AP - Americans are accustomed to cherry red and white icicle radishes, but the vegetables also come in black, yellow, purple and pink. Some varieties weigh up to 100 pounds.

Radishes were among the first vegetables cultivated, according to an article in the current issue of Country Living, and can be eaten raw or cooked.

Radishes apparently were first grown in China many centuries before the birth of Jesus. The Egyptians were munching them even before the building of the pyramids.

The Greeks relished radishes so much they cast replica ornaments of the pungent roots in gold. Beets, in contrast, rated only silver, and turnips - a close cousin of the radish - were made of lead.

depression over being impaired. But there is a third reason for fatigue: poor sleep.

Research into sleep patterns of patients with arthritis reveals that such individuals have marked fragmenation of their rest. For instance, the average number of sleep arousals per night is 10 for people without arthritis; for persons with arthritis the number is 47 per night. Sleep efficiency (the number of hours of sleep/number of hours in bed) is 73% for persons with arthritis, and 85% for other individuals. Rapid eye movement sleep, the deep sleep that helps muscles rest, was reduced to less than 15% of total sleep for persons with arthritis; normally, the percentage is 20-25%.

The severe disruption of sleep in patients with arthritis is the result of being awakened by the pain that occurs when moving the shoulders, hips or knees during sleep. At present, no specific measures exist to prevent this lack of restorative sleep. Only control of the underlying arthritis will help.

Plymouth Canton is bound to play a complete four quarters of girls basketball one of these nights. Coach Rob Neu is sure of that.

And, judging from Thursday's performance against Plymouth Salem, that's likely to happen sooner than later

The Chiefs gave their biggest rival a handful of trouble and controlled their own destiny before succumbing to a fourth-quarter rally by the Rocks.

Dena Head scored 12 of her 14 points in the last period to enable Salem to come from behind in its own gym and defeat Canton for the second time in two weeks, 47-33.

IN THE first meeting, the Chiefs made a second-half run at the Rocks after a poor start before losing 60-50. Canton looked "much better" the second time and caused Salem to worry with its first-half play.

"It's a tougher game to lose, but it's a better game to lose," Neu said, "because we played better, we challenged them and we controlled the tempo for 21/2 quarters.

"We've improved, but we have to continue to improve our concentration and mental focus for four quarters

"When things take hold - and they're starting to - we're going to be okay," he added.

LIKE NEU at Canton, Salem coach Fred Thomann said the earlyseason schedule would provide many tests for the Rocks, and Thursday's game was definitely that.

Salem struggled through a lackluster first half and, though it managed to put some heat on the Chiefs in third quarter, was still not out of the woods entering the finale. At times, it appeared it might be Canton's night to pull off the upset.

"The thought crossed my mind." Thomann said afterward.

But the Rocks finally came alive late in the game, dominated the last 51/2 minutes and won going away. though the 14-point difference was not an indication of how close a game it actually was.

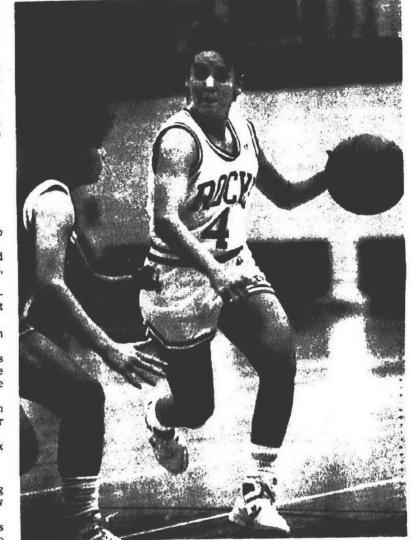

"YOU NEED to have a good, tough team," said Thomann of scheduling tough opponents at the start of the season. "When you're getting into your rhythm early in the year, there are a lot of things you have to make adjustments to.

"And being able to work through this game and get a victory was good. Figuring out a way to win is what it's all about.'

Jill Estey contributed half of her 10 points in the final quarter, and her free throws following a Canton turnover extended a two-point, thirdquarter lead to 31-25.

But Karen Boluch, who paced the Chiefs with a game-high 16 points,

Salem wins thriller from Marlins

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

It was girls basketball at its absolute best. But what else would anyone expect when two powerhouses like Plymouth Salem and Farmington Mercy get together?

Dena Head poured in 34 points as the host Rocks came from behind and survived a last-second attempt by Mercy to take a thrilling, 56-54 victory Saturday night.

The contest proved to be the epitome of exciting basketball as momentum swung from one team to the other and the outcome remained in doubt until the final horn sounded.

'The rivalry has been superb the last 4 to 5 years," said Salem coach Fred Thomann after the teams added another chapter. "We evaluate our program based on how well we play against a few teams, and Mercy is one of those Bohlen scored off a teammate's missed free throw. That put Salem on top to stay, 53-51, but the Rocks were not out of the woods by any means.

She snuck in there and got that offensive rebound bucket, and she filled the lane nicely on the fast break," Thomann said. "Those were big buckets, big buckets.'

Head's free throw and two more from Stacey Sovine gave the Rocks a 56-51 lead with 28 seconds remaining and appeared to have secured the win at that point.

BUT MERCY'S Jan Herberholz, who was outstanding for the Marlins with 22 points, canned a three-pointer to bring Mercy within two.

With :10 on the clock, the Rocks lost the ball out of bounds, and the Marlins were still alive. But Colleen Clinton's three-point attempt from the left side hit the inside of the rim, bounced to the opposite side and came out of the cylinder as time expired.

We made a couple of mistakes early and late, but everybody in this gym we made a couple of as far down as we could," Mercy coach Larry Baker

"IT WAS just an outstanding game. Two fine teams, two fine programs and the players playing hard for 32 minutes."

The Rocks had jumped out to the early lead, but the Marlins battled back to take control of the game in the second half.

With time running down and Mercy holding a 46-43 lead, Salem was fighting to keep it close, and Mercy was being patient, working for the good shot.

But then Head produced the first of four big steals in the closing minutes. She converted two into back-to-back baskets to give Salem its first lead since the start of the third quarter, 47-46.

BUT 6-FOOT-1 Jennifer Slosar, who played well in the clutch for Mercy. made a three-point play before Head tied it again with another steal and layup

Salem's Shelley Bohlen came up with what were arguably the most important baskets for the Rocks. She and Slosar exchanged field goals, and then said

"I hate to lose, but this game has to give us a lot of confidence as we look down the road to the Saginaws, Ladywoods and Marians.

"WE NEEDED to play up to the level of someone like Salem," he added. The Rocks dominated the first quarter, forcing Mercy turnovers and doing a job on the defensive boards. Consequently, the Marlins were hurt by a low shooting percentage and trailed 20-10 after the first eight minutes.

Thomann said a Mercy comeback was sure to follow, and Baker was pleased to see his team persevere. He said a week ago when Mercy lost to Traverse City in the Hoops Classic final the Marlins played a maximum of quality minutes but surpassed that Saturday.

'Just that in itself, the way the kids stayed with the game plan and didn't cave in at that point," Baker said, "was really a commendable aspect of the game for us.

Jill Estey paced Salem's floor game with eight assists, but also had 10 points and a key role in the fourth-quarter comeback.

games, Andy Gee was in the right should be proud." spot defensively for undefeated Plymouth Salem.

As in the season-opening win down a two-point conversion pass snap ruined the extra-point atto preserve a 22-21 lead, he came tempt up with a similar game-saving play at Walled Lake Central Friday night

Gee intercepted a Viking fourthdown pass at the Salem goal line and returned it 45 yards to nail down a 20-13 victory for the Rocks, who raised their record to 3-0.

Last week, he picked off three enemy passes in Salem's 34-19 win over Walled Lake Western.

The Rocks needed a defensive stand and a come-from-behind effort in the last quarter Friday to overcome a 13-12 deficit and a tough WLC ballclub.

AFTER holding the Vikings on fourth-and-1, Salem drove 54 yards to take the lead on quarterback Steve Holt's 5-yard run with 5:34 to play. Holt then passed to Gee for for 129 of Salem's 263 rushing the crucial two points and a 20-13 lead.

"Walled Lake Central will be heard from soon," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "They came after us and dominated the football yards on the ground. Wallace was at times even though we did better 9-of-20 passing.

For the third time in as many stat-wise. They came to play and

Holt put the Rocks on the scoreboard first when he raced 56 yards for a first-quarter touchdown. The over Trenton when Gee knocked score stayed 6-0 when a fumbled > WLC capitalized on another miscue by the Rocks to move in front, 7-6. Salem fumbled a punt at its own 11-yard line, and Derk Wallace made the Rocks pay for it with a 1-yard sneak.

SALEM'S special teams atoned for that mistake by retaking the lead. Gee was the man of the hour once again, returning a punt 40 yards for a TD. But the Rocks had to settle for a 12-7 lead when the defense smothered Holt on the twopoint attempt

By halftime, WLC was back on top, however. The Vikings executed an 85-yard drive, with Wallace passing 9 yards to Matt Smith for the score and a 13-12 edge.

The Rocks amassed 279 yards in total offense, WLC 167. Holt ran yards, Ryan Johnson 79.

The Vikings got most of their yardage (112) through the air as Kurt Urban and Keith Smith led a Salem defense that held WLC to 55

Missed chances cost Chiefs

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

So close and yet so far!

That best sums up the frustration Plymouth Canton experienced on the football field Friday night.

The Chiefs failed to convert on crucial fourthdown plays and, unable to sustain their offense, watched Walled Lake Western grind out a 12-7 victory at Centennial Educational Park.

IT WAS a game in which Canton was unable to produce in short-yardage situations and the Warriors were.

While the Chiefs came up empty-handed on all three final-down attempts, WLW did so midway in the last quarter on what proved to be its gamewinning drive.

The Warriors were nine plays into the possession, but faced fourth-and-9 at Canton's 29 after two illegal procedure penalties put them in a hole. But Greg Hysell, completing only his second pass of the night, hit Shane Scannell for a 13-yard gain to keep the effort alive.

On the next play, Brian Burger raced 16 yards around right end for his second touchdown and a 12-0 lead with 6:22 to play.

AS IT turned out, that sealed Canton's fate, but the Chiefs maintained a faint hope with a late score. Quarterback Neil Hubert came back throwing the bomb again on third down, and Roger Trice won a mid-air tussle for the ball and took it 70 yards for Canton's only TD.

The Chiefs were within five points after Mike Krejcar's extra-point kick, but WLW recovered the ensuing onside kickoff and, aided by a Canton face-mask penalty, proceeded to run out the clock.

"The possibility (of pulling out a win) was still there," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said, "but when you have to rely on a big play to score like that . We had chances to score early and could have changed the game around."

football

WLW turned the ball over on its first two possessions, and the Chiefs moved inside the 10-yard line each time. But Canton was stopped twice on fourth-and-1 plays, and neither the game nor the Chiefs were ever the same after that as the momentum swung to the Warriors for good.

WLW's PAUL Oblak, who finished as the game's leading rusher with 92 yards on 20 carries, fumbled on the opening series and Trice recovered at the Warriors' 46.

Hubert's 14-yard gain on a bootleg was the key play, and Trice, who rushed 19 times for 75 yards to lead the Chiefs, carried to the 4 on third down. However, Scott Browne was stopped shy of the first.

But, on first down, Hysell was intercepted by Trice, and Canton had the ball again at the WLW 18. Trice picked up 8 yards on third down, taking it to the Warrior 9. But Browne was thrown for a loss on the next play, and the Chiefs saw another opportunity fade.

'It was a lack of commitment, a lack of something," Khoenle said of the team's inability to get either first down. "When you can't get less than a yard three times - two within the 10 - there's something wrong.

"I THOUGHT about kicking the field goal, but we figured we could get a yard. We run the fullback right over guard, and somebody is sitting in the hole smacking him to death.'

The Warriors not only held onto the ball the next time, but took advantage of the reprieve to drive for their first TD. A 30-yard pass and an interference penalty helped put the ball on Capton's 22, and Burger eventually capped the 16play drive on a 4-yard run.

The score remained 6-0 until Burger's second TD, but the Chiefs threatened again in the third quarter only to see the effort halted on another fourth-down try.

Helped by a personal foul against the Warriors, the Chiefs used 10 plays to advance the ball to the WLW 33 where they again faced fourth-and-1. Brian Detrich was stopped an inch short of the 32. The referee only added to the frustration when be became confused and initially signaled a first down for Canton and then had to reverse the call,

THE CHIEFS lost their second straight and fell to 1-2, while the winless Warriors notched their first win after an 0-2 start.

"We have to keep working at it," Khoenle said. "We have to make some corrections, we have to execute better and we have to want to do it a little more.

"Now, we're going to see what the kids are made of. We have to regroup and get going again.'

The Chiefs had 194 total yards, 118 rushing. Hubert was 2-of-12 passing for 76 yards. WLW rolled up 263 yards with 220 coming on the ground. Burger added 63 yards on seven carries, and Hysell was 2-of-9 passing for 43 yards.

Bob Beebe is somewhat the unsung hero of Plymouth Canton's undefeated boys cross country team Jay Swiecki and Al Byrnes are consistently the top runners, and the Chiefs wouldn't be the team they are without them, obviously.

But it is Beebe who is having a positive effect on the rest of the team and helping to heighten the competition among other members

Beebe is our No. 3 runner and is setting the pace for the rest of the team." said coach Jim Haves after the Chiefs, 4-0, defeated Walled Lake Central 23-36 Thursday

"BOB IS the guy bringing the rest of the team along. He has excellent pace, he understands pace very well Swiecki was Canton's top runner and second overall at 17:44, and Byrnes was second third at 18:04. WLC's Mike Jensen was the No. 1 runner with a 17 40 time.

WLC slipped a runner into the No 4 spot, but Beebe (18:24), Brian Callon (18:28). Matt Hall (18:37) and Chris Way (18:52) gave the Chiefs the Nos 5-8 places.

Canton falls to Rice after beating WLC

By Tim Smith staff writer

It was a week of extremes for Plymouth Canton's boys soccer team and coach Mike Morgan. After the Chiefs romped to an easy 8-3 win Wednesday over Walled Lake Central, the wheels fell off the wagon against Birmingham Brother Rice

Friday, 7-1. Canton was never in the Brother Rice ballgame. falling behind 4-0 in the first half. The loss dropped the Chiefs' record to 3-5 overall. They are 2-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"That was the most goals ever scored against us in the four years I've been coaching here," lamented Morgan. He blamed the defeat on his team's inability to overcome Brother Rice's quickness and ball control.

"They're a good team; they beat us to the ball the whole game. But the less said about this game, the better," Morgan said.

THE CHIEFS' lone goal was scored by Nick Stankevich in the second half, on a feed from centerhalfback Rick Menary. Morgan praised Menary for his scrappy play. "But you need more than one guy," the coach added sandwiched a pair of buckets around a field goal by Amanda Bell to knot the score at 31

THAT'S WHEN Head took over. hitting a jumper to break the tie and scoring 10 points in the time remaining to help Salem put the game out of reach

'We began to allow Jill and Dena to take the ball pretty much where they wanted," Neu said "If you let two great athletes like them take the ball where they want to, you're going to get hurt.

That was in contrast to the first half when Canton's defense clogged the middle and frustrated Salem's offense

The Rocks also hurt themselves with a low shooting percentage. They shot just 25 percent in the second and third quarters and less than that in the first, missing on a lot of second and third opportunities.

"IN LOOKING at your shot selection," Thomann said, "you have to ask 'Was it the right person shooting at the right time? Was it too early or too late in your offense?

"It was a situation for us that we had to work through some things to find out what shots were there for us

girls basketball

and where on the floor we could get our points

We had to go a different direction to get our points, and the team responded very well to that," he added

Ironically, it was the smaller Chiefs who were able to score inside in the first half. They worked hard at moving the ball and were able to spread Salem's zone defense far enough to enable Boluch to get inside. She scored half of her points in the first half to spark Canton to a 21-16 lead BOLUCH'S layup made it 19-13. and Susan Ferko's free throws gave the Chiefs their biggest lead at 21-14 before an outside shot by Estey cut it to five.

"In the first half, our passing was good, and our cuts were being completed." Neu said. "Everybody worked hard, but Karen came of age. She came out to play tonight."

While Canton had only two field goals in the third quarter. the Rocks began to turn things around, taking a 24-23 lead on Shelley Bohlen's layup Ferko put the Chiefs back on top momentarily before Barb Krug restored the advantage to Salem Stacey Sovine's free throw made it 27-25 at the end

With Head scoring only two points in the first 24 points Krag helped pick up the slack, scoring 12 points to go with 11 rebounds

"SHE WAS the player early in the game, who allowed us to hang with them. Thomann said She got some key baskets for us

All three (Krug, Sovine and Bohleni did a nice job picking us up and helping us get through that game

Head also led the Rocks, 3-1, with 16 rebounds and had five assists Estey was the team's assist leader with eight For the Chiefs. 1-3. Ferko was next in scoring with six points.

Any tune, you hold a player like Dena Head to two points for three quarters and 14 for the game you're playing pretty well. Neu said

But that doesn't mean we're con tent with where we're at We still have to improve if we want to compete with the best teams

Plymouth Christian takes win

IP CISC

Plymouth Christian Academy came out charging Friday with a pesky defensive press The spurt it provided was enough to spark the Eagles to a 39-31 victory over Huron Valley Lutheran

According to Christian coach Mark Brandle. his team opened the game playing a tight press. which forced Huron Valley to turn the ball over The Eagles parlayed that into a 13-8. firstquarter lead and 21-16 advantage at halftime

Huron Valley could get no closer than two points the rest of the way, doing so with a mini-run in the third quarter

A big reason the Eagles prevailed was the excellent play of senior center Elaine Priebe who finished with 15 points. 11 rebounds and three blocks

We had a little trouble in the third We had a bit of a mental letdown Brandle said But we were able to re-establish ourselves

Other Eagles coming up big included junior guard Shelley Oxley, with nine points and forward Trish Tilly with eight rebounds Lisa Hively scored 13 points for Huron Valley

The win lifted the Eagles overall record to 2-2 including a 2-0 conference mark

Drake sets records, but Milan tops Chiefs

Despite record setting performances by Nicole Drake, Plymouth Canton lost its first girls swim meet of the season Thursday to Milan, 102-70. Chiefs coach Hooker Wellman remained optimistic after the defeat and saw some encouraging signs.

"The kids swam real well, but we have a lot of room for improvement," he said. "But Milan is a real good team, though."

Those swimmers Wellman was referring to include Cassie Cummins and Jean McLenaghan, who captured Canton's only first-place finishes of the meet Cummins topped her opponents in the individual medley (2:20.65) while McLenaghan was best in the backstroke with a time of 1:09.0.

BUT THE quick Drake also had an outstanding performance, setting a pair of varsity records Drake's second-place finish of 2:00.6 in the 200 freestyle was the best ever in that event by a Canton swimmer. She also set a new standard in the 500 freestyle. finishing second in 5:13.14. Canton's next meet is Wednesday when the Chiefs are host to Farmington

Records showed similar crimes

Judges' sentencing: Fits the killer did not receive similar punishment. And proved punishment rested more on a judge's philosophy than on the crime committed. Within days after the publication of a story that documented this information, the Michigan Supreme Court made some changes.

Changes that wouldn't have occurred if a few reporters at a Detroit newspaper hadn't been looking for a story.

It's an example of how individual rights can be protected when the public is kept informed.

It's an example of how a free press works in a free society. And what could go on without it.

To get printed information on the role of a free press and how it protects your rights, or to discuss any free press issue, call the First Amendment Center at 1-800-542-1600.

Big fall issue

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers

With autumn beginning Wednesday, we here at Street Scene figured the timing was right for our big fall issue. Along with fall color and fall fashions, we've got a story on a most unusual apple orchard (Page 7D), a roundup of the local coffee house scene (Page 4D) and our very own World Series contest (Page 3D), with some tough questions about local players who participated in the Fall Classic

to enjoy fall's magic

By Richard Lech staff writer

Michigan could be called the Great Leaves State.

No other place in the world offers a wider variety of fall color, according to Al Sandner, senior communications manager with the Michigan Travel Bureau in Lansing.

"One thing about fall color in Michigan is that we've got 65 species of deciduous trees, which gives us a range which exceeds all of Europe," Sandner said. "No other state has that range of tree types.

"We have reds, golds, yellows, browns, even some pinks. It's the subtle shadings that make the difference."

As wide as the range of colors is the variety of ways you can enjoy the autumn hues.

One way, of course, is just to get in your car and drive. But Street Scene has come up with some more unusual methods of sampling the state's spectacular fall show.

BALLOON — Instead of craning your neck to see the leaves, you could be gazing down at them. The Fenton-based Balloon Corp. of America offers fall-color balloon tours seven days a week. The balloons soar over the scenic, lake-dotted area around Fenton. An alternative package takes in the beautiful scenery around the Grand Traverse Resort in Traverse City.

At the basic-package cost of $135 per person, passengers get a champagne celebration, "First Flight" pin and certificate, and a 45to-60-minute balloon ride. The firm also offers bed-and-breakfast, group and sweetheart flights; in the latter, a couple can have the balloon all to themselves. Ride coordinator Craig Elliott recommends making reservations for any flight at least a week in advance during the busy fallcolor season. The firm can be reached at (313) 629-0040 or (616) 938-5416 for the Grand Traverse tours. Other firms offering fall-color balloon tours include: Sky-High Hot-Air Baloons in Caledonia (western Michigan) (616) 891-8520; the Breeze-Seeker in Grand Rapids (616) 245-9810; and the Lansing Balloon Corp. (517) 323-1616.

up at the Black River in Cheboygan. The firm provides a mini-course in houseboat navigation before you set off. The cost includes a $175 refundable deposit and about $25 for gas.

Windjammer can be reached at (616) 347-6103.

Another firm offering houseboat fall-color tours is Houseboat Vacations in Alden, southeast of Torch Lake. Call (616) 947-1946.

RIVERBOAT — Perhaps you're the kind of sailor who would rather leave the piloting to someone else. If so, fall-color tours aboard Kensington Metropark's Island Queen might be just the ticket.

Several naturalists will be on board to discuss the sights as the boat takes an hour-anda-half cruise around Kent Lake. Along with viewing the colors of maple, ash and oak, passengers will get the chance to see plenty of wildlife, including, if they're lucky, some deer.

Cruises are planned for 11 a.m., 1 and 3

HOUSEBOAT — A leisurely way to float through fall-color splendor is to rent a houseboat. Windjammer Marina in Oden, nine miles north of Petoskey, has houseboats available for rent for overnight fall-color tours.

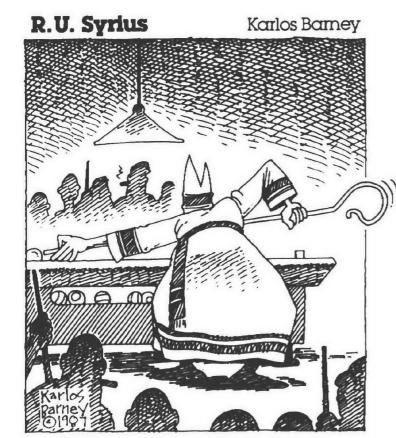

The 8-by-12-foot cabin sleeps four and contains sink, ice refrigerator, small alcohol stove, fresh water and head. At a rental cost of $60 per day you can pilot the boat yourself along Crooked Lake, Crooked River, Burt Lake, Indian River and Mullett Lake, ending p.m. Saturday, Oct. 17, and noon, 2 and 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 18. The cost is $2 per person, and advanced registration is required. The park entrance fee is $2 per car. To register, call 685-1561 and ask for the nature center. The park is located in Milford off I-96.

VOYAGEUR CANOE — Voyageur canoe trips allow you to experience the fall colors the same way the first explorers did centuries ago.

Cranbrook Institute of Science will be offering a trip at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. For the $6 fee, you can paddle along just as the French fur trappers once did in one of the few remaining freshwater marshes in this area, on the Cranbrook grounds in Bloomfield Hills. For more information, call 645-3230.

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority also is offering two-hour voyageur canoe trips at Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock. A naturalist will be on board to point out natural wonders. The trips will begin at 10 and 11 a.m., noon, 2, 3 and 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Fall fashion '87: Jeans fade but not in popularity

By Diane Gale staff writer

You are what you eat — unless you're on a college campus, and you are what you wear.

Acid jeans — jeans that are faded with acid, oversized sweaters and pumps will be this year's staple, according to students at Livonia's Schoolcraft College and Farmington's Oakland Community College Orchard Ridge Campus.

Some said they dress for comfort; others dress for effect. And others have special motives, such as Phil Neumaier, 18, of Livonia, who wears trendy clothes, such as bleached jeans, "because it's in, and it gets the girls."

THE SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE student said there's a certain college look right down to the way students sling their book bags over their shoulders.

Buzz Ascie, 18, of Southfield made a visual statement supporting the popularity of acid jeans with matching jacket.

Bright colors are the key for Colleen Cordes, 22, of Livonia.

"They make me feel better. When you wear dull colors it makes you feel blase," said Cordes, sporting a chartreuse blouse, long blue knit skirt and a wide decorative leather belt.

She likes the new pointy-toed pumps for their comfort, which she said is important since she's on her feet a lot of the day.

Oakland Community College student Kenyatta Wright plans on wearing a lot of casual clothes on campus this fail. Many college students are opting for the casual "acid" look — jeans that are faded with acid to get a bleached-out look.

BUS - One problem with taking a fall-color drive is that the driver doesn't get a chance to fully appreciate the beauty he's driving through. And if he does get lost in the wonder of it all he could end up wrapping the car around one of those trees whose pretty leaves he's admiring.

An alternative is to take the bus. Independence Oaks Nature Center is offering a leisurely bus tour through northern Oakland County from 10 am to 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 11. The trip begins at the nature center and continues to a nearby park, candle factory, cider mill, dairy farm and several scenic villages.

The cost is $5 for adults, $2.50 for children 12 and younger, and includes admission fees and light refreshments. Registration is required by Sunday, Oct. 4. For more information, call the nature center at 625-6473

RUNNING - If you'd like the fall colors to fly by you at a faster clip, you might try several of the many fall runs planned throughout the state

Two particularly colorful runs will be the Sleeping Bear Hibernation Run, a three-mile run, at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 10, in Glen Arbor and the Cider Festival 10K the same day in Crystal Lake

For more information on the Sleeping Bear run. call Pete Edwards at (616) 334-5210 For more information on the Cider Fest run, call Ron Schould at (616) 882-7242.

BICYCLING - Throughout the summer Wayne County has been closing roads in Hines Park to give runners, walkers and cyclists more room to do their thing. Discos, dance bars and nightclubs all have their place, but there is something endearing - and necessary - about coffee houses.

The atmosphere is more relaxed, alcohol isn't necessary for a good time and - surprise of surprises people actually are there to listen to the music.

The various coffee houses are similar, but not identical. Here's a quick look at three different kinds of coffee houses in the metro Detroit area:

College students choose casual look in fall fashions

Her friend Mary Ignagni, 18, of Westland likes to wear browns, grays and clothes with padded shoulders.

The pair work as student assistants for office instruction at Schoolcraft.

Wearing jeans and a long tur-quoise sweater, matching bow and shoes, Kathy Ferguson, 27, of Redford Township said she likes the shorter skirt style for fashion this fall.

THEN THERE are those who really don't concern themselves with the latest fashion trends, such as Sharon Zamarka, 23, of Novi.

"I dress for comfort only," the OCC student said. Zamarka said she plans to wear black as well as bright blues and greens this fall.

Her philosophy is shared by Kenyatta Wright, 18, of Oak Park. She plans on wearing a lot of casual clothes this fall, such as sweatsuits with oversized sweaters and "occasionally slacks."

Wright likes padded shoulders in dresses and suits. And her jewelry is 'always gold."

Jeans and sweaters and "some of the other typical things" are what Don Edwards, 21, of Dearborn wears. But when the colder weather comes, he said he'll be wearing the latest style with a long oversized wool coat.

Christine Alpert, 20, has an edge on most other students. The Wixom resident works at Red Cross shoe store at Twelve Oaks Mall. Pumps are "real popular," she said. "I'll probably be wearing suits and dresses, similar to the one I'm wearing." Alpert had on a blue jean dress. Her accessories included a belt, pin and ankle bracelet.

JOHN LABURN, 20, noticed a subtle change in men's styles. For instance, last year dress shirts were worn outside the pants, he said. "And this year they're starting to tuck them back in." The Livonia resident and Schoolcraft College student was wearing white socks, penny loafers, a dress shirt (tucked in, of course) and a jean jacket.

Sherry Howitt, 14, of Farmington was on the OCC campus recently to buy school supplies for classes at North Farmington High School. She likes wearing mismatched earrings, cropped tops, miniskirts, baggy pants and "a lot of denim."

Saul Lipenholtz, a 19-year-old OCC student, doesn't even consider fall fashions. The Southfield sailboarding enthusiast is drawn to clothes with summery sailboarding scenes on them

Keeping up with fashion is all in a day's work for Karen Banion, 19, of West Bloomfield Township, who works at Alvin's in Twelve Oaks Mall. Banion likes the 23-inch skirts, big sweaters, higher boots and flats.

Then there's the extremely adventurous, such as Brian Hudema, 20, who said he plans to wear shorts through October. On a brisk day earlier this month, Hudema said he conditions himself to cope with skimpy attire in the colder weather by working at the Tam O'Shanter Country Club in West Bloomfield.

PAT'S PEOPLE

FRIDAY & SATURDAY NIGHTS

Stephen Spielberg hits and near misses made the list of videos available to rent during the year.

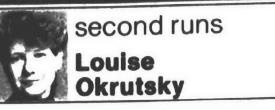

"The Color Purple," the acclaimed Stephen Spielberg film, was released in videocassette earlier this year after making a distinguished appearance in the theaters.

It is an engrossing film, well deserving of its reputation. Veteran actor Adolph Caesar turns in a sharp performance as Old Mr., the tyrannical, callous patriarch who bullies his family.

In one scene, he approaches his son's home with the air of a royalty visiting an underling. When he steps smartly onto the porch, his son (Danny Glover), loses whatever aura of authority he attempts to develop by bullying the woman given to him as a wife and maid, Celie (Whoopie Goldberg). Goldberg's face alternately registers submission and rebellion as her meek character makes the sole, albeit furtive, gesture of defiance toward Old Mr.

IT'S NOT until Shug Avery (Margaret Avery), mistress of the man Celie calls Mr., arrives on the scene that Celie finds an ally. Together they uncover the long-hidden letters of her younger sister from which the beleaguered woman gradually draws the courage to rebuild her life. Avery tends to fade into the backdrop when she shares a scene with Goldberg, but on her own she does a sharp job presenting Shug as a sassy, worldly and strangely sympathetic preacher's daughter turned jukejoint blues siren. Unfortunately, the scene in which Shug leaves the juke joint on a Sunday morning and leads the revelers to her father's church service presents the movie with a false, jarring note. The moment belongs in a big-budget musical, not here.

As an aside, anyone who's acquainted with the gospel music of Andreas Crouch and the Mighty Clouds of Joy will recognize Crouch's influence in the gospel music sung during the scene.

If you somehow have managed to miss the movie during its theater or cable run, rent it. It'll give you a chance to appreciate Goldberg before she got stuck in such mediocre flicks as "Jumping Jack Flash."

ANOTHER SPIELBERG film that was obviously aimed at being a holiday classic but missed the mark is available in videocassette. "An American Tail" certainly had enough hype accompanying it when it debuted last year. Cute-as-a-button Fievel Mousekewitz, the fuzzy little hero, was seen on everything from nightwear to kiddle meals at a fast food chain. Let's not overlook the Fievel stuffed mouse on the market in time for holiday gift giving.

Basically, the story of Fievel searching for his parents is told against a backdrop of downtrodden mice immigrants fighting their persecutors, the mean nasty cats. Dom Deluise is the voice of the good cat who helps our hero.

How nice is this cat? He's a vegetarian. His snacks don't try to scurry past him.

Like other Spielberg movies, this one's derivative. Deluise sounds like Bert Lahr doing the Cowardly Lion. The cartoon cat even fidgets with his tail like Cowardly Lion. Christopher Plummer is the voice of Henri, a carrier pigeon who lives in the base of the Statue of Liberty. Plummer's French accent is such that he sounds as if he's doing a passable Maurice Chevalier imitation.

Yeah, it can be cute to be poor, oppressed and lost in turn-of-thecentury Russia and New York. It's hard to imagine that upon its first release the movie was accused of being a rip-off of a novel in cartoon form, "Maus." The book uses the cartoon panel to forcefully comment on oppression, specifically the treatment of Jews in Eastern Europe during the late 1930s.

kit ty, Two hundred — count 'em — 200 varieties of apples to choose from and all ripe and ready for the picking. Some have names that are familiar — McIntosh, Jonathan, Delicious. But most have names that are not – Jerseymac, Tydeman Red, Earliblaze.

Taste, sample, mix and match.

There are at least 25 varieties of apples that are not available any place else but in Tree-Mendus Apple Orchards, west of Kalamazoo. Apples for apple sauce or apple salad, for apple pie or apple butter, for apple cider or just for eating under an old apple tree. Orchard's selection is 'Tree-Mendus'

"with no monkeyshine added - no preservatives - everything you see in here is pure and natural." he said

The juices, the honey, the syrup, the taily for the apples for sale in the market are the same - "no monkeyshine added" Canned fruit in the market carry the names Wilderness and Comstock - "the best you can get in a can." Teichman said

In the gift store visitors can pick up free recipies, buy a recipe book or one that tells how to carve a pumpkin, buy a postcard of the many scenes in the orchard or a souvenir and see Teichman's collection of antique implements once used by the orchard farmer.

ONCE REGISTERED for picking apples visitors have the entire orchard to roam. Some ask to be led to the trees that are marked Snow Apple or Flemish Beauty Pear or Bell of Georgia Others go off to find a something new Still others go off to the tree that bears their own name. Those trees are deeded for a year The cental is $50 Rent-a-Tree is another method Teichman uses to get people thinking about the land." It's been effective Of his 40,000 trees, about 150 are rented now, a number that is up every year since Renta-Tree's inception.

Accent is on the word old. Herb Teichman has nurtured these old varieties, kept them alive and blooming in his "Antique Museum Orchard," which is divided by a tree-lined path for visitors to stroll through or ride through on a tractor or horsepulled wagon.

"Those old, gnarled, twisted, heavy-trunked trees won't be with us for very long," Teichman predicts. "They've given way to the dwarf, the controlled-size trees of today's orchard

"I planted the museum orchard in 1976, in observance of the country's Bicentennial celebration. It was my contribution to Michigan agriculture."

The museum orchard is part of the tour, part of the attraction to the 600-acre farm in southeast Michigan, part of the invitation to pick your own, part of Teichman's sharing the joys of nature and the abundance of the good earth.

FROM DETROIT take I-94 west to the Watervliet exit, turn south on M-140 about 12 miles and then follow the Tree-Mendous Fruit U-Pick signs.

You will be directed to the market, the gift shop and the desk with the sign that says "Register Here."

"Apples are still 28 cents a pound. They've remained the same for I can't remember how many years. I just want people to sample the sours and the sweets, the many tastes they can get from an apple. We keep the price low and give the best we've got," Teichman said.

Amid the abundance of apples in the market that run from snow white through every shade of green to the deepest magenta, visitors will be introduced to whatever is the best crop for picking for the day - maybe a Pumpkin Sweet or a Winter Banana or a Hoople's Antique Gold.

The coffee is brewing. The cider is homemade, maybe from a combination of varieties Teichman has put together this fall for a new flavor. Leona Teichman, his 84-year-old mother, makes the apple sauce. The apple butter is Teichman's own recipe

For those who wish their apples protected from both insects and insecticides, Tree-Mendus offers apples like this Mutsu, protected in a paper bag. "The families that rent the trees come for the day or maybe the weekend. They can picnic here and there's plenty of meadow for the kids to run." Teichman said

Busloads of tourists also come for the day. Catered junches or dinners can be ordered ahead of time for the tour groups, businesses or family reunions.

And busloads of school children come for the day. They will get a lesson in the market, a lesson in the gift shop which always includes how to read a label for the preservatives the product might contain. And they will get a lesson in the outdoor classroom.

Teichman built the outdoor classroom on a knoll that overlooks the orchards in the valleys. Children sit on hand-picked rocks from the meadows

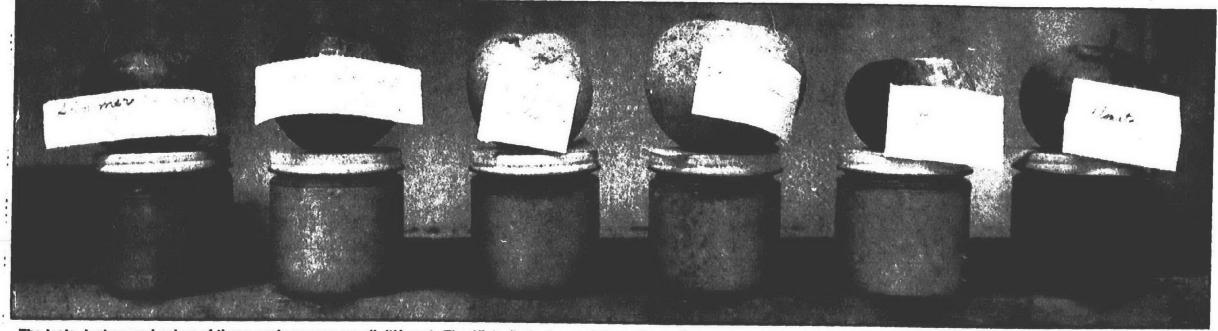

"They learn what goes into producing an apple They learn why the best apples are grown here instead of Illinois or Indiana. They get a chance to pick the apples and taste the best fruit they ever tasted." he said.

"Then they have to identify the  $k{\rm md}$  of rock they're sitting on."

TREE-MENDOUS Orchards are open from the first week in July to the last week in October

One regular feature in the free newsletter that can be picked up in the gift shop is the easy-to-read chart that indicates the harvest season for picking cherries, peaches, nectarines, plums, apricots, apples and pears.

Or call The Ripe-N-Ready Report, 616-782-7101, anytime.

The taste, texture and colors of these apple sauces are all different. The Vista Bella (second from the left) is so sweet it needs no sugar. The Jefferis (fifth from left) is chunky and a pale, creamy color. The Almata (far right) is deep pink.

A vendor sells flowers in the Main Marketplace in Cracow, the Polish city where Karol Wojtyla spent 40 years as priest, bishop, archbishop and cardinal before becoming Pope John Paul II.

By Iris Sanderson Jones special writer

Images from a television screen: Pope John Paul II in his white robe strides across a red-carpeted stage into a huge amphitheater of flashing lights in Los Angeles, where thousands of hands clap to the music.

They would never believe it in Wadowice, Poland, where the pope was born Karol Wojtyla on May 18, 1920.

Images: The pontiff leaping from the stage to kiss the face of an armless musician who had just played the guitar with his toes. They would understand that kind of compassion in Poland, all right, especially in Cracow, where young seminarians like Karol Wojtyla, who didn't want to be shot or sent to concentration camps, were hidden from the Nazis during World War II.

They know Karol Wojtyla pretty well in Cracow. He spent 40 years there as priest, bishop, archbishop and cardinal until the smoke signals of Rome signaled that he had become Pope John Paul II in 1978. If you watched the Popemobile touring through the United States last week, you will recognize those American images. For the half million Polish-Americans in Detroit, and for those who have traveled to Poland, other scenes, Polish scenes, kept surfacing last week. it is true. Most of those images are filled with flowers.

Poland is a gray country in many ways — somber clothes, dull weather, sometimes gray moods and faces — but the people know how to make flowers talk, not as official arrangements but to express feelings.

Whenever I saw the pope in action this week, for example, the scene was always superimposed by a small scene from the Old Town section of Warsaw: hand-picked flowers bending over the edge of a simple bowl on the sidewalk, making a patch of color against a scarred wall beneath a plaque honoring Pope John Paul II. Fresh flowers were added every day.

Warsaw was systematically demolished by the Nazis at the end of World War II, each building in the historic Old Town methodically blown up while the Soviet army waited on the other side of the river. In 40 years, the Poles have totally recreated every windowsill and rooftop as it once was, old brick buildings sagging photos by MICKY JONES als of his sister, brother and mother before he was 13 years old.

Flowers are at Number Seven Church Street, the home where he grew up. He went through that door to play soccer, swim, canoe, climb mountains and ski.

Wadowice is a small town. Twenty-five miles away in Cracow, there are, of course, flowers around the statue of Pope John Paul II, but in Cracow the images are of acres of flowers that daily fill the huge market square in a city that calls the pontiff its own.

Cracowians say that Poland began here, where the Polish kings are buried in Wawel Castle, on the hill above town. Cardinal Wojtyla said Mass in the Wawel Castle cathedral until he became pope, and moved to Rome nine years ago.

The entire center city of Cracow is on the United Nations list of the most important historical sites in the world. Cracow was not badly damaged during World War II so you can still visit the centuries-old castle, the Cloth Hall and the 700-year-old Jagiellonian University where both Karol Wojtyla and astronomer Nicolaus Copernicus were students. More than a million people turned out to see the pope in Cracow during his June visit this year. With his veiled approval, they carried Solidarity signs through the streets and scattered fresh flowers at the grave of a priest killed by the police and buried in the churchyard of St. Stanislaus Church in Warsaw. John Paul may be pope to 870 million Roman Catholics worldwide, but in Poland he is the Polish pope. Fresh flowers are left over the country every day to mark his way.

Pope John Paul II was baptized June 20, 1920, in this parish, the Church of Our Lady in Wadowice. He also attended the church as a youth.

WHEN YOU VISIT Poland it is hard to realize that 95 percent of the people are still Catholic after 40 years of Communist discouragement, but the images you bring back with you don't leave much doubt that

Poles flock to shrine

When you drive into the town of Czestochowa, on your way to the ancient monastery of Jasna Gora, you can still see flowers, religious pictures and other memorabilia in the windows of houses along the way.

Many were placed there to welcome Pope John Paul II on his regular pilgrimages to the Shrine of the Black Madonna; and they stay, flowers freshened daily, until he comes again.

The Shrine of the Black Madonna holds the most treasured religious object in Poland, the painting of Our Lady of Czestochowa. Legend says that the dark face of the Virgin Mary was painted on a table crafted by Joseph, father of Jesus, and carried to Jasna Gora by Hungarian monks when the monastery was founded 700 years ago.

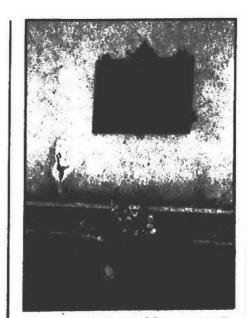

Czestochowa is a modern city supported by steel and textile mills. But to the millions of Poles who have made pilgrimages to the area it is primarily a religious site. More than 50,000 pilgrims have walked 136 miles from Warsaw to Czestochowa on a single journey during the pope's visits to the shrine.

History has been here over the centuries. When you park your car and climb the hill to the ancient walled monastery of Jasna Gora, you pass imposing fortress walls that have defended Poland many times.

The wooden church that stood here when the Hungarian monks arrived in 1342 has been replaced over centuries by huge cathedrais, tiny chapels; today it is a major complex filled with the artistic and historical treasures of Poland. it once was, old brick buildings sagging gently over the streets now as they did for centuries. They never forget the fresh flowers, whether it is at the spot where Polish rebels were executed after the 1944 uprising or the place where their own Polish pope said Mass.

YOU WILL FIND the same scene, plaque-wall-flowers, in Wadowice (pronounced wah-dah-VEE-chee) where Karol Wojtyla was born.

Flowers are in all the nooks and crannies of the Church of Our Lady, where the young Karol Wojtyla had his First Communion, and where he prayed at the funer-

It was an ordinary day, and not a feast day, when we visited Jasna Gora. Women in ancient costumes and striding priests mixed with tourists from many lands. Worshipers knelt in front of the great stone altar in the main sanctuary.

It was only a few steps through a doorway to the Chapel of the Black Madonna but the experience was intensified a hundredfold. There, during Mass, we looked across a sea of heads bent in prayer between the altar and a golden wall — an entire cathedral wall of personal treasures left by individual hands: lockets, rings, gold cups, antique jewelry. Liquid oil lamps hung above the rapt

Liquid oil lamps hung above the rapt heads as the faithful said the rosary.

Many Poles speak English

More than 40,000 Americans tour Poland yearly, either to visit relatives or to take the classic tour from Warsaw south through Szestochowa to Cracow and on to the mountain pleasures of Zakopane.

So many people want to speak English that I had trouble finding a Polish-English dictionary; they were always sold out. A little Polish helps, but all the major hotel personnel and tour guides speak English fluently, and you will find lots of English on the streets as well.

You can convert cash or traveler's checks at the official rate in the bank or sell it safely enough to friends, or restaurant owners, at double that rate.

Western hard currency is scarce and highly valued. Many consumer goods can only be bought with such currency at special stores. Don't mess with black marketeers on the street who will offer you much higher exchange rates, because you may end up cheated or in jail.

Only well-established Poles can afford their own car. Newly married couples usually live with parents until they can get an apartment of their own. That means that individual travelers are better off arranging rental cars before they leave home, and don't expect to find a casual apartment of room for your stay. Hotels are fine.

If you plan to go, contact the Polish National Tourist Office, 333 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, III. 60601 or telephone them at (312) 236-9013.

They will send you lots of good information about how to prepare a trip, what kind of visas you need, where to buy rail passes etc. Also, check your travel agent.

per, the challenge of creating a "look" turns me on. It's fun - it's exciting and you should love every minute you spend on putting your special poject together.

I am frequently asked by a client what is the new "in" color. My reply always is that all colors are "in." It is what you do with color that is important.

New things are constantly coming into the marketplace and that is good. But trends that are "high fashion" today may well be out tomorrow

If you wish to make a statement, let it be one that says elegant rather than $$$ - refinement rather than high fashion.

The easiest look with which to live is an eclectic one. Eclectic is a mix of traditional and contemporary pieces. It gives an element of surprise tive. "We're all guilty of it," Kreuser says. "We are used to living with little things that are wrong with our home or we decorate our home to our unique tastes, but you have to understand that not everyone is as forgiving about your home's faults as you are.

"Do a quick review of your home," says Realtor Phil Mazur. "If you have some holes in the wall, or some grease has accumulated on your kitchen cabinets or you have a rust stain in your sink, take care of it."

"You may be used to it," he says, 'but the buyer will spot it immediately, and it may be a big turnoff."

All real estate agents agree that expensive remodeling projects rarely will recoup the owner's investment. The byword for making your home attractive is to spend less, emphasizing what you have.

THE FIRST STEP is as simple as paint. Many realtors believe nothing makes a home look more like a magazine-cover candidate than a fresh coat of paint.

But color is important as the paint. "Avoid the blues, greens and reds Stick with neutral colors. The whites, beiges and off-whites. Something people can't object to," one realtor noted.

Kreuser says color plays more "Sure, the square footage and the than just a subtle role in swinging exactly the way your rooms look A 12-by-14 bedroom looks bigger with a light color than it does with a dark blue. A dark blue creates the impression of being smaller and colder than the room is.

"Face it, would you like to wake up to a dark blue room every day?' he asks.

The same goes with carpeting. Keep the color neutral and price inexpensive. If you want to put color into a room, do it with drapes or furniture - something you can move with you.

OTHER TIPS TO make your house shine:

• Keep the front of the house neat and trim. Repair gutters, paint where needed, seal an asphalt drive, trim hedges and kill the crabgrass.

"Remember when someone walks up to your home, this really is the first impression. If your gutters are sagging or paint is peeling from your front door, this gives a negative impression." Kreuser says.

"From here on out, people are going to look for things that are wrong with your home. On the other hand, people may have a good impression and will expect more inside."

• Pull the shade and drapes back. Try to make the home as bright and airy as possible.

"This is what people really are looking for. They don't want to walk into some dark, poorly lit place," Kreuser says. "They want their new home to be cheerful and open. You can encourage that feeling.'

• Keep the furniture to a tasteful amount. Don't overload a room with side chairs, coffee tables and magazine racks. "Make it a rule to reduce any crowded room by at least two pieces of furniture. It make the room look bigger," Kreuser says.

· Clean out 25 percent to 50 percent of your closet space. "A closet which is 10-feet deep looks as crowded as a closet which is eight feet deep." Kreuser says. "We tend to collect hings. A crowded closet looks
