Vows, balloons mark this day

By Diane Gale staff writer

A Valentine message from a Plymouth-Canton High School student reached lofty expectations.

Lou Manolias, 15, of Canton, thought he'd have a little fun while cleaning up Saturday after a St. Valentine's Day dance.

So he tied together 15 red and white helium balloons left behind, wrote his name and telephone number on a piece of paper and attached a note saying: "Happy Valentine's Day to whoever gets this."

It was about 11 p.m. when he launched the balloons at the high schools on Canton Center and Joy in Canton.

ABOUT 12 hours later they landed about 1,500 miles away and were retrieved by Don Belliveau, a fisherman in Nova Scotia, Canada. It was about noon Nova Scotia time and 11 a.m. Eastern Standard Time when Belliveau spotted the bal-

He called Manolias at 7 p.m. Sunday night.

Belliveau, 57, said he found the balloons, three deflated and 12 inflated, on a highway about four miles from Joggins on the northwest border of the province.

Gag order may hamper trial reports

By Diane Gale staff writer

The media covering the hearings of a Canton man charged with beating his wife to death and putting her in a freezer for three years will be hampered by a court ruling preventing attorneys and police from talk-ing to reporters, according to Detroit area news executives.

District Judge James Garber last week banned media interviews with police and attorneys involved in the case when he ruled on a motion by Leonard Tyburski's defense attorney, Carole M. Stanyer.

The competency hearing was scheduled to start today before Garber in 35th District Court in Plymouth.

The murder of Dorothy Tyburski, 37, has been covered locally, nationally and internationally since her body was found by her daughter early last month in the family freezer.

Stanyer said Tyburksi, 45, has been misrepresented by the police and

Millage vote OK'd by board

staff writer

Plymouth-Canton school district voters will be asked to approve an 8 mill tax renewal and a 4 mill increase for two years at the June 12 election.

The revenue from the two tax increases would offset an anticipated deficit of more than $10 million in 1989-90, school officials say.

The district expects to lose $3.3 million in state aid next year, and an additional $7.6 million due to a Headlee rollback. The Headlee Amendment requires a rollback in the tax rate to offset large increases in property values over the rate of inflation.

For the owner of a $100,000 home, the 4-mill levy would mean a tax increase of $200 for each of the two years. The renewal and new millage would reap $18 million in revenue, and permit the restoration of some cuts made after the last millage request failed.

THE PLYMOUTH-SALEM School senior was admitted May 13, 1987 to St. Lukes, Cleveland, Ohio. The hospital is rated as one of the top 100 treatment centers in the United States, according to Dale Yagiela, executive director of Growth Works, a Plymouth service offering fulltime treatment of adolescent substance abuse. St. Lukes is well respected for dealing with adolescents, Yagiela said.

He went to a daily school support group and joined Growth Works. Troy said he was afraid he would fall into the old bad habits if "I didn't occupy my time."

Sitting in a second floor office recently at Growth Works, waiting for a group meeting to start, Troy explained he's been involved in the local program for 14 months - two months more than suggested.

"Pretty much I can leave when I want," Troy said smiling and stretching his 6-foot frame back in his chair.

"I feel real comfortable in group," Troy said. "It's a real protective and safe environment here.

Tainted pond to be closed

A Plymouth Township company, Wyckoff Steel Inc., has submitted plans to close an impoundment pond on its property which the state De-partment of Natural Resources has classified as a hazardous waste facil-

An anonymous tip brought the dis-charge to the attention of authorities in September, said AuBuchon.

WYCKOFF STEEL, which is lo-cated on General Drive south of Ann Arbor Trail, proposes to analyze wa-ter and soil in the pond, remove con-taminated soil at whatever depth necessary, then treat or replace the soil, AuBuchon said.

The biggest dangers posed by wa-

Skin irritability can arise on contact, AuBuchon said, adding that the pond is fenced.

"The public and the press have full access to public trials," Giles said. "Full access means interviewing individuals as part of the process of the trial."

Often times, Giles continued, reporters need clarification of a point made by witnesses or attorneys while in the courtroom. "If the judge is going to put restric-tions on this, the judge is restricting our ability to report fully and accurately. And that's regrettable."

After his arrest, Tyburski told police he repeatedly struck his wife's head against a beam in the basement of their home during an argument in the fall of 1985.

He told police they were fighting about her claims of an affair with their daughter's boyfriend, West-land resident Craig Albright, now

Reactions to sign proposal mixed

By Doug Funke staff writer

Owners and managers in Plymouth aren't exactly turning cartwheels over proposals to reduce the size of business signs in the city.

Reactions to a spot-check this week ranged from ignorance to defi-ance with some grudging acceptance in the middle.

Some local managers of corporate stores like Taco Bell and McDonald's said they weren't aware of proposals to limit signs.

At least two business owners threatened non-compliance.

Some took issue with Mayor Karl Gansler II's view that the city now has a cluttered appearance.

"It's going to cost a lot of people a lot of money," said Robert Kwasny, owner of the A&W on Ann Arbor

Home may be seized in drug crackdown

By Rich Periberg and Diane Gale taff writers

Federal authorities will attempt to use drug forfeiture laws to seize a $70,000 home previously owned by a Canton man.

The announcement was made Tuesday as federal, state and local aw enforcement officials released tails on the indictment of 21 people charged with running a suburban drug operation that authorities say distributed at least $16 million worth of cocaine in the Detroit area. Robert Szymanski, who was not among the 21 people charged Tues-day, owned 42080 Edenbrooke in Canton until June 1988. The home is sed by Canton at $33,800, which means its market value is estimated at twice that, or $67,600.

Szymanski had the property listed for sale and ended up transferring to the broker who listed the home, said Ross MacKenzie, assistant U.S.

Police searched the home in June 1988 and 360 grams of cocaine were onfiscated. Szymanski was charged with possession with intent to deliver more than 225 grams but less than 50 grams of cocaine, a felony that carries not less than 10 years and no more than 30 years in prison, MacK-enzie said.

A Southfield attorney, Edward Wishnow, who had represented Szymanski, could not be reached for comment.

The U.S. Attorney's office is also trying to seize a home owned by Dr. Mark Weiner, a podiatrist who lives with his wife, Harriet, at 125 Hickory Grove in Bloomfield Hills. He was not among those indicted. However, officials of the drug unit overseeing the investigation said theirs was among at least two suburban homes that authorities would try to seize using laws that target property gained through the use and sale of illicit drugs.

The Weiners have hired an attorney to answer the complaint, the spokesman said. The Weiner home has been assessed by the City of Bloomfield Hills at $177,500 which means its market value is estimated

The U.S. Attorneys office would not comment on what if any connection there is between Szymanski and the Weiners and the 21 indictments announced Tuesday.

The indictments Tuesday included two Southfield men. They are George Katsakis, 48, the owner of the Grand Coney Island restaurant on Telegraph in Redford Township, and John Thomas Adamian, a Corvette restorer. They and others in the indictment face what could amount to sentences of life in prison if they are convicted of the conspira-

KATSAKIS WAS arrested Saturday as drug enforcement officers executed four search warrants in the Detroit area, culminating a 14month investigation. Adamian was among 11 who surrended or who were arrested Tuesday prior to the arraignment of 17 of the 21 charged. Four were still at large Wednesday.

The indictment details a distribution network in which cocaine was brought to suburban Detroit from Miami during early 1984 through Much of the activity centered in the then-Farmington Hills home of Art Abrams, an unindicted co-conspirator who was arrested on drug charges in December of 1987.

Abrams was running a "multi-million dollar drug organization," ac-cording to John Hedrick, a Farmington Hills police sergeant who has been assigned to a cooperative regional drug investigation network called SEMCO, the Southeast Michigan Conspiracy Organization. SEMCO worked closely with simi-

"We hit every level of the organization, from the financier to the person who was driving it around," said Michigan State Police Lt. Lawrence R. Rodriguez, who was in charge of the SEMCO operation.

Board cancels student transfer

Residents of the Brookside Village subdivision who were upset about the possible transfer of their chilleft Monday night's school board meeting happy.

School board members turned down a housing committee recommendation to transfer Fiegel Elementary students to Tanger Elementary. Fiegel is near Joy and Haggerty. Tanger is about five miles away, on Five Mile near Haggerty.

The proposed transfer was intended to help relieve overcrowding, balance enrollment and establish attendance continuity into the 1990s.

More than 200 children could have been affected. Concerned parents have attended the last two school board meetings en masse.

SCHOOL BOARD members agreed unanimously to provide two classrooms needed to accommodate expected growth at Fiegel by: • using students' home classrooms for art and music instruction;

- using an open gathering area for classroom instruction;
- transferring kindergartners to the school with space nearest Fiegel.
 The board also decided to:

 beginning Feb. 20, assign all new middle school students from Sunflower Six to Central Middle School. Projected 1989-90 enrollment for Pioneer Middle School is
- · Effective immediately, assign all middle school students in Sunflower Seven, quail Run, Ridgewood West, Deer Creek and Hunter's Creek to Central Middle School.

"Some of the subdivisions aren't expected to be completed until 1990 or 1991. So this gives us some breathing room," said Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

"We're looking at major redis-tricting in 1990."

The board recommended that given the financial position of the district and changing data and projec-tions regarding student housing and enrollment, the district housing com-mittee should be kept intact and continue to study boundary alignments with an eye toward changing them in the 1990-91 school year.

Money sought for area landmark

By Wayne Peal staff writer

State and county aid is expected to restore a landmark that served western Wayne's earliest settlers.

A $75,000 Michigan Equity grant and $12,000 grant from Wayne County are sought to restore Nankin Mills. County commissioners are expected to approve the county grant today.

The Civil War-era grist mill is in Hines Park, near the Ann Arbor Trail/Farmington Road intersection. It currently houses Wayne County Parks offices, Long range plans call for the tall white building to be converted to a natural science museum.

"It's the plan for us to eventually get out of here and for this place to be used to educate school children," county parks director R. Eric Reickel said. "And we support that. This could be a real asset."

AT ONE point, auto magnate Henry Ford owned the building.

"There was a tool and die shop here," Reickel said. "This was one of Ford's so-called 'cottage plants'."

Under the "village industry" plan, the auto magnate sought to establish factories in rural settings, seeking harmony between the area's development and heritage.

Nankin Mills was one of four Rouge River mills donated by Ford to the county in the late 1940s. A registered state landmark since 1977, it is considered the most his-

FORMER WESTLAND Mayor Thomas Brown has helped found "Friends of Nankin Mills," the group seeking the grants. The city of Westland also is expected to contribute to the estimated $135,200 restoration project.

Despite its historic status, paint has been peeling off the building for years.

Plans call for the building to be painted, its roof re-patched and windows repaired. Handicap ramps and new lighting and signs are also expected to be added.

The restoration project is a joint venture between Friends of Nankin Mills and the Westland Economic Development Advisory Commission

State aid share 'pleases' S'craft

By Wayne Pea

Schoolcraft College officials were "surprised and pleased" with their share of 1989-90 state aid, even though the increase in government financing might fall below the rate of inflation.

Schoolcraft and the state's other community colleges will receive a 2.9 percent increase in state aid for the coming school year.

Schoolcraft's individual share is slightly more than $7.4 million. The state will spend more than $207.4 million on its 29 community colleges.

"At first, the increase might not seem like too much, but it's a substantial improvement over what was originally proposed," Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell said.

McDowell and state budget director Shelby Solomon served as cochairmen of a community college appropriations hearing in December. At that time, McDowell said, the state proposed increases of 1 percent or less.

"WE WERE told crime and prisons are the state's No. 1 priority," McDowell said. "Education, including community colleges, is No. 2. So, we were surprised and pleased when the final figures came out."

The figures are contained in the 1989-90 state budget proposed last week by Gov. James Blanchard.

'It's a substantial improvement over what was originally proposed.'

> — Richard McDowell, Schoolcraft president

Despite the increase, community colleges continue to look for alternative financing sources. Economists have predicted inflation could exceed 4 percent in the coming year. Community colleges received a 2.5 percent increase last year.

Schoolcraft also receives a share of property taxes collected in the Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton school districts, as well as in a small portion of the Novi Schools.

WITH A combined 12,780 degree and adult education students, Schoolcraft is Michigan's ninth largest community college. It is 10th in terms of state aid.

Macomb Community College receives the most direct state aid, with more than $21.3 million. Wayne County Community College, serving Westland and Redford Township, receives $12.1 million in aid and more than $10 million in state tax credits. Lansing Community College, with more than $18.7 million, ranks third.

Commissioners seek to heal rift

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Suburban Wayne County Commissioners say it is unlikely they will walk out of today's commission meeting, as they threatened two weeks ago. Meanwhile, suburban and urban commissioners continued a series of private meetings this week to restore harmony to the county governing board.

Upset over committee assignments and rumored decreases in their office budgets, six suburban commissioners threatened to walk out of the commission's Feb. 2 meeting as tempers boiled.

Since then, commissioners Richard Manning, D-Redford Township and Milton Mack, D-Wayne have met with commission chairman Arthur Carter, D-Detroit, and leaders of the commission's metropolitan caucus to discuss their concerns.

"I WOULD say tempers have simmered down," said Mack, whose district includes Canton Township.

Manning, a former commission chairman, said the talks were, "going very well." "I think the issues have been fully sounded," he said.

The commission was scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. today. As of Tuesday afternoon, however, it wasn't certain whether there would be a public statement on the outcome of the talks, or whether there would be any changes in committee assignments or budget allocations.

What suburbanites want, Manning and Mack said, is a voice for their newly formed suburban caucus in selecting committee members and leaders. The suburban caucus, including commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster, was formed in the wake of this year's committee assignments and rumors about office budget cuts.

Suburbanites believed their office budgets would be cut from $69,000 to $44,000, while committee leaders, each a metro caucus member, would see their budgets rise to above $80,000.

"IT LIMITS your ability to do your job," Mack said. "If staff members are laid off, it would hurt our ability to respond to constituents concerns."

While Carter said committee leaders would receive more, he added commissioner's individual budgets were still being decided.

Commission matters are debated — and generally settled — in committee meetings before reaching the full board. Individual committees debate matters pertaining to Metro Airport, county roads, drains and county spending, among other items.

"There has to be a system of proportional representation on committees, a sharing of authority" Mack said. "Most county drains are in the suburbs, most county roads are in the suburbs, the airport is in the suburbs. We want to have a say on them." The six-member caucus, he said, represents nearly 1 million county residents, Heading into Thursday's commission meeting, Manning and Mack said it was unlikely committee leaders or membership would be dramatically altered. Mack, however, said he hoped there could be some agreement involving future committee assignments.

"We looking for some assurances for the future," he said.

The dispute also brought the commission's caucus system into sharp focus. Less formal than committees, caucuses are voting blocks that can control whether issues even make it as far as the committee level.

Though allegiances shift, the metropolitan caucus currently includes a near majority of commission members. It becomes a majority block when the votes of Carter and commission vice chairwoman Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, are added. Each is a former metro caucus member.

Heintz' appointment as vice chair was opposed by most other suburban commissioners.

"The appointment of the vice chairman was an issue for some commissioners," said Manning, who voted in favor of Heintz's appointment.

Mack and Beard, who opposed the nomination, said they voted against Heintz because she is a Republican.

"There's been a lot of talk, but I think that's what it boils down to, that I'm a Republican," said Heintz, whose district includes Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township. "But whatever influence I've been able to bring to bear has come from the fact I'm a Republican. I think my being appointed vice chairwoman was a result of my helping out (in lobbying Republican legislators) when we went to Lansing two years ago for financial help."

Heintz said she joined the metro-

Heintz said she joined the metropolitan caucus shortly after joining the commission in 1987 because there wasn't a suburban caucus at the time and because the group also included two other suburban commissioners.

Two men are being sought in the incident by police, who this week reosite drawings of the suspects. The drawings are based on the woman's description.

The assault was not related to two rapes that occurred in a Canton cemetery, one in late January and one last August, police said..

Police said the victim of the assault in Westland, a 23-year-old Westland woman, was driving northbound on Hix about 5 p.m. Her 2year-old son was in the back seat. Her black, mid-sized Mercury was forced off the road by a cream-colored, 1977 Ford LTD, police said.

"The collision was a definite, premeditated attempt on the part of the suspects to accomplish what they set out to do," Moore said.

Moore said the victim, who had been on her way to a local bank to deposit her husband's check, was

"The fact that her child was in the car at the time is very upsetting," Moore said.

Moore said she hopes possible witnesses to the attack will come forward. "I have to believe that several people may have driven by the scene because of the day (Saturday) and time it happened," she said.

The attack occurred in day light, on a clear to partly cloudy afternoon and should have been easily visible to passersby on the three-lane road.

THE DRIVER of the LTD was described by the victim as a white man, 25-30 years old, tall and thin with dark brown or black hair, long in back and shaved on the sides. He had a long mustache, small goatee with a bald spot on one cheek and his teeth were in poor condition. He was wearing a cream-colored cotton shirt and green Army-style pants.

His accomplice was described as a white man, 30 years old, 5-feet-10, with a thin to medium build, blondish-brown hair, long in back and spiked on top, blue eyes, a pockmarked face and a raspy voice. He was wearing a black T-shirt and

Senate signs

Anyone with an inclination to run for the U.S. Senate nomination next year got a chance to address the state convention.

Who's going over well? Suzanne Miller was wearing a sticker for Bill Schuette (pronounced "shoot-ee"), a second-term congress-man from Midland County.

Andy Anuzis was openly plunking for Clark Durant, former chair of the U.S. Legal Services Corp. whose bow tie and suspenders have become a trademark for the Kemp conserva-

Jack Lousma, the former astronaut who was the 1984 nominee against Sen. Carl Levin, surprised many by making his own pitch near the tail end of the convention. Lousma has settled in Ann Arbor and has a defense-related business.

U.S. REP. Paul Henry of Grand Rapids said he had "encouraged De-Vos," although Henry himself is a Senate possibility against two-term Democrat Carl Levin next year. "It's do-able. That's the reason so many are looking at it," Henry said.

In an interview, Henry predicted party people would coalesce around one candidate by this fall. "It would be disastrous if the party tries to handpick a candidate," he said.

He circulated a letter seeking members for a group called United Republicans of Michigan, protesting that "certain elements within the Republican Party found it easier to purge newly active conservatives than to unite with them."

ALSO TAKING a defeat was Elaine Donnelly, a Livonia conservative, who lost a bid for re-election to the issues (platform) committee from the 2nd District.

The vote was 59 for Gary Wolfram, a Hillsdale College economics professor, to 58 for Donnelly.

Remodelers group sees room for industry growth

Growth opportunities in the com-etitive remodeling industry stirred nsiderable interest and optimism iong professionals who recently ended the kick-off meeting of the w Professional Builder Remod-

The remodelers council was formed by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) to educate professionals about business and consumer trends in the industry and exchange information about evolving remodeling opportunities

The council also plans to help those in residential remodeling work together toward productive industry goals, formulate standards of quality in workmanship, and educate the public about the value of home remodeling by qualified construction professionals,

"The Builders Association wel-comes this professional council to our organization," said James Bonadeo, BASM president. "The increase in home remodeling has been accommore professional work and for more sophisticated projects. Twenty years later, families are investing upwards of 44 percent of their incomes into their homes, according to analysts. Because of the rapid value appreciation in most houses, owners now consider their homes as a major part of their fu-

The kinds of remodeling projects done today are much more sophisticated than they were several years ago when families usually just expanded basic living space. Says Bonadeo, "The enhancements homeowners want for their comfort and increasing opportunity."

Satanism

Schools bedeviled by non-issue

IXING SCHOOL millage with witchcraft could produce a strange brew when the June 12 school election rolls around.

And we're suggesting that the two not be mixed when it comes time for voters to decide on the financial fate of the Plymouth-Canton School District.

The school district will ask voters to approve a 4-mill tax increase and an 8-mill renewal for two years. Approval would produce $18 million in revenue, and keep the district from making more cuts in its educational programs.

Without new revenues, the district expects to lose more than $10 million in 1989-90 due to decreasing state aid and a tax rollback mandated by the Headlee Amendment. Plymouth-Canton voters have defeated four millage requests in the last two years.

One of the prime opponents of the millage requests has been a group called Citizens for Better Education.

It's a group that claims to have about 2,500 members, many of them Christian conservatives.

One of the group's concerns is the teaching of Satanism in the school system. The group is also concerned about the showing of R-rated films in classrooms, and the use of certain films and books dealing with sex education and divorce.

APART FROM the group's concern about satanism, we can understand why parents are concerned about the films and books to which their children are exposed.

The subjects of sex and personal relationships are ones which parents should have some say about when they are presented in schools.

With a millage election coming up, the citizens' group shouldn't be conjuring up images of teachers forcing devil worship on children.

Diane Daskalakis, chairwoman of the group, said the group will vote in the next two weeks on whether to support the millage or not.

SHE SAID group members are against a millage increase because they think they are paying too much for the schools and that budget cuts didn't affect the programs to which the group is opposed.

It sounds as though the group is trying to drive Satan from the schools by opposing millage hikes.

It's a bizarre idea that Satanism is being taught in the schools and it's even more bizarre that the group is trying to drive Satanism out of the schools by opposing a millage request.

The millage election isn't a witch hunt and shouldn't be turned into one by the citizens' group.

The real issue is education, not voodoo. Voters should be looking at whether or not the school district is doing the best possible job of educating students with the money it has in its budget. They shouldn't be distracted by the Satan issue. It's not real.

Sports violence hurts mission of education

USING KIDS to satisfy our sports fantasies should bother us all. It particularly should bother us when we witness or read about incidents which demonstrate that exploitation is having a harmful impact.

A recent basketball game between West Bloomfield and Southfield Lathrup high schools is a case in point.

During the third period of a hotly contested game on Feb. 3, several players decided that playing basketball wasn't good enough. A fight ensued. Players were ejected and the game continued.

You might have seen the action on your local television broadcast. It was sports violence to which we all have become far too accustomed.

It's tough to blame the kids, although they should be held accountable. After all, they see this kind of stuff among the pros all the time. Hockey has condoned violence for far too many years. Even the tamest of America's pastimes, baseball, has seen an increase in the number of fights.

In recent years the giants of professional basketball have started slugging it out.

So, the kids follow suit.

WE HAVE become a society which has far too easily come to accept violence as part of life. Perhaps we are becoming numb.

Lathrup coach Bob Herm seemed more concerned with the impact the game. Violence is overlooked all in the name of victory.

"When you lose your leading scorer, things happen," he said, referring to the ejection of Lathrup player Jamail Ellis. "He makes things happen, and that really hurts."

Well, coach, what hurts is when violence is accepted as part of a game which supposedly builds character. We all must assume that since high school basketball is part of the educational curriculum that it is supposed to teach our children values.

And coaches, probably more than most other teachers, have a huge impact on students' attitudes.

Students who fight should be disciplined and thrown off teams, not Steroids already have permeated the college locker room and are rapidly ereeping into our high school gyms.

Now we see high school students rather consistently bashing each other around the playing surface.

If that's the kind of character that sports builds, we certainly don't need it in our educational system. To preserve the best of sports, coaches and educators need to take a good hard look at what is happening.

Home day care

Bill sets necessary standards

ODAY WORKING parents in need of good, safe day care for their children are the rule, not the exception.

But in many communities, parents' search for day care facilities close to home is thwarted by community zoning ordinances and attempts to curb, if not prohibit, home day care in residential areas.

"That's why we urge passage of a bill to be reintroduced by state Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, which would ensure that all home child care operators:

are licensed,

are required to follow a set of appropriate standards,

¶ are allowed to operate in residential areas.

THE BILL would give parents the security of knowing their children can be cared for in a residential setting without local officials using zoning ordinances to close the home. Senate Bill 687, as it was known in the last legislative session before its death by one vote, would apply to cities and villages.

The state Legislature has already given its blessings to accompanying bills covering townships and counties.

Legislators should complete the three-bill package of day care bills enabling cities and villages to provide for in-home day care.

In far too many cases, local zoning ordinances have succeeded in driving home child day care underground. The ordinances have forced operators to avoid licensure and ordinance penalties.

Consequently, today's in-home child care providers receive minimum control and monitoring.

An overburdened state Department of Social

Legislators should complete the three-bill package of day care bills enabling cities and villages to provide for in-home day care.

Services must wrestle with complaints about a home or its operator.

FAXON'S BILL will allow complaints to be handled by local authorities, who can respond more rapidly and are closer to the problem.

The bill ensures adequate control at the state and local levels.

Without a special, locally issued permit, the larger group day care homes (maximum 12 children) may not locate within 1,500 feet of each other or other types of licensed care facilities.

Density would be controlled.

The group day care homes would have to meet standards to receive a locally issued permit. Operators would be required to meet standards for sign regulations, fencing, property maintenance and off-street parking for employees. Local officials would be allowed to inspect both family and group day care homes.

In-home child day care is not a business in the traditional sense. Day care provides a needed service, one that has been provided by neighbors and friends for decades.

Caring for children in a residential area is what a neighborhood is all about. Whether or not regulations exist, parents will continue to seek child care in their neighborhoods. And whether or not regulations exist, neighbors will continue to provide the service.

But with Faxon's bill, standards would be set and enforced. A much-needed and time-honored service could come out in the open, free of harassment and fear.

The increasing demand for in-home child care proves that parents continue to want their children cared for by neighbors and friends in a setting familiar to children.

WORKING MOTHERS won't go away. And the needs of their children won't go away. The best way to face the issue is to acknowledge it and set guidelines that ensure the continuance of such services and the protection of children.

Faxon's bill is a step in the right direction if we are to meet the needs of today's working parents and the needs of a future generation.

As Faxon so aptly put it: "The quality of life in any community can be measured by how we care for our children and our seniors. We're talking about something that's good for children."

Time to rally for schools

To the editor:

In the grip of winter cold, it is heartening to feel the first warm breaths of what is shaping up to be a red hot school board election in June. After the disappointing election last June, with its crowded field of mostly unknown candidates and a tentatively promoted funding request, it appears we are in for a different ball game.

The incumbent board president, Dave Artley, has announced early that he is a candidate for re-election. This is an important development. It is desirable that the school board race be a contest between a relatively few, well-qualified candidates, each with clearly stated and very different positions. The concerned voters of the district need an opportunity to express their real values regarding the quality of education in the Plymouth-Canton schools.

Equally important, the school board and the school administration seem ready to embark on a serious campaign to educate the public to the real threats posed by the fact that our district is facing a dramatic loss in per pupil state aid — reductions in the millions of dollars.

At least one speaker at the school board workshop on Monday, Feb. 6, made very clear to the board that there are groups in the community ready to support a well thought out program to keep the district in the forefront of providing a high-quality education at a reasonable cost. The Committee for Academic Freedom and Excellence (CAFE) is one such

Our public schools are a critically important part of the community. They have a tradition of academic excellence that has long made this district a desirable place to live and work. If ever there was a time for citizens who believe in quality education to rally in support of the schools, it is now.

Don't let state become site of waste dump

To the editor:

Remember Love Canal? Toxic; pollution so widespread it endangered the lives of an entire community and forced families to abandon; forever their homes and property?

It's scheduled to happen right here in Michigan unless we do something right now to stop it. Without immediate steps, not only is our Water, Wonderland doomed to become a toxic Wasteland, but we and our children could become an endangered species.

State officials without the knowless

State officials, without the knowledge and approval of most of us, have agreed to let Michigan become a toxic dump for the poisonous and radioactive wastes of seven states.

They are putting at risk the safety of 27 million people by threatening the contamination of 95 percent of our nation's fresh water — the Great Lakes and all the rivers and water basins of the region, including even the underground water tables. All against the advice of national science groups and health authorities, who warn that the waste dump will leak.

We need your help to stop this madness which could risk all that we love and live here for. Please join us in letting Governor Blanchard and our legislators know how we feel.

Pretty good reporting for an 'unwanted' guy

SOMETIMES I GET the impression that we suburban newspeople aren't wanted around Lansing

You already know I didn't come up with any scoops on Gov. James J. Blanchard's State of the State address. For a week before the Feb. 7 address, Blanchard's people leaked major proposals to favored papers — the Detroit Free Press and the New York Times.

The Detroit News, as columnist George Weeks tells it, got left out except for one particular reporter who was offered a tip. On another assignment, she was unable to handle it and suggested it be given to two other News folks, "but the gover-nor's office told her they would not be called," Weeks wrote.

A LOCAL STATE senator told how the Republican caucus reacted to the day-after-day news leaks:

'It was reported (in caucus) that a Detroit News reporter was told by a spokesman for the governor's office that it was punishing the News for a story it did on Janet Fox." She, in case you've been in a coccoon, is the governor's lady friend.

Blanchard cut his speech to 25 minutes this year, and he didn't display Rose Bowl football players from Michigan as he did with the

Michigan State squad in 1988. Probable reason: He was being covered by C-SPAN, the public affairs cable TV channel. That and the New York Times leak tell us Blanchard is playing to a national audi-

I haven't expected any favors from the governor since last July's "left wing baloney" story out of the Democratic National Convention, although he has been polite and even wished me "Happy New Year."

It didn't bother me. My first job on a daily paper was in a small county with many little villages. News sources continually played favorites between us, the country weeklies and the South Bend paper. I got used to petty, small-town politics.

AFTER A TUBFUL of leaks to favored papers, you may wonder what there was to cover the night of the

• By the time the briefing wound down, many Democratic lawmakers had disappeared into their own briefings and were scarce in Capitol corridors and offices.

• The full 84-page booklet wasn't available until after the speech, at 8 p.m. When a brother reporter protested, news secretary Tom Scott explained: "We don't want them available before the speech." In other words, it would be difficult to show specific proposals to lawmakers for their reactions.

IN SUM, Blanchard wanted the spotlight on himself for a full week before the speech, the entire day and evening of the speech. Our chances to contact legislators were minimal.

Nevertheless, I managed to track down two Republican senators, a Democratic senator, three Republican representatives and three Democratic representatives for nine more or less articulate comments.

So he died. A single gunshot wound to his chest. From reports out of Farmington Hills last weekend, there was little choice. The officer, standing beside his patrol car, had ordered the man to surrender.

He didn't. He kept driving toward the officer who had cornered him on a dead-end street. The man reached for something on his passenger seat. The officer, knowing he was pursuing a suspected armed robber, feared the man might be reaching for a weapon. Indeed, there was a gun on the seat.

The policeman again ordered him to stop. But the car kept coming to the point where the police officer feared the car was going to hit him or pin him between the two vehicles. And the man was shouting, "Kill should a man be robbing gas stations and pizza shops? Why should he be begging to die?

The two were maybe five feet apart when the officer fired. Killed was a 34-year-old Missouri man, a giant of a man standing 6 feet, 5 inches tall and weighing 450 pounds.

Farmington police Chief William Dwyer thinks the answer is simple. It's crack cocaine. "I can't stress enough that a person addicted to crack - and we've

But crack has had such a sudden devastating effect on our lives. Children are killing children in Detroit because of crack. Metro area youths wear beepers to at least give the impression that they are within an elec-tronic impulse from a big drug deal. Young men are recruited from the Deep South to mine the lucrative Detroit crack field.

And, as Dwyer says, no one is immune - not doctors, not lawyers, not war veterans from Missouri.

Accidental Discovery May End Obesity

SWEDEN-Medical researchers at the University of Kuopio, in Finland, have discovered (accidentally) a new weight-loss formula. The new discovery enables an overweight individual to lose pounds and fatty tissue without dieting or exercise.

Scientists made the discovery while searching for a formula to lower cholesterol. In a controlled study of a test group of people, cholesterol levels remained unchanged but the doctors were astounded to find that every patient who used the formula lost weight. The published report of this study stated, "A highly significant decrease in body weight was seen" in patients who received the formula.

The formula was then tested in Sweden at Sahlgren Hospital, University of Goteborg. Again, all patients lost a substantial amount of weight even though they did not change their eating habits. The report detailing this study, published in the British Journal of Nutrition, stated: "Body weight was significantly reduced even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits." One patient in this study lost more than 30 pounds.

According to one informed source, the active ingredient comes from a 100% natural botanical source and contains no drugs or stimulants. When taken before mealtime it bonds with the food you eat and "ties up" calories, preventing their absorption.

A substantial portion of the calories ingested therefore pass through the digestive system unabsorbed. The body has to get energy to replace the lost calories, so it starts to burn stored fat. The clinical tests have verified the safety of this formula for long-term use

The formula is marketed in tablet form in the United States under the trade name Cal-Ban 3000. A firm located in Tampa, Florida, has exclusive North American distribution rights. A review of the customer files of this company revealed the names of hundreds of people who have lost up to 10 pounds the first week and as much as 20, 40 or 60 or more pounds overall with Cal-Ban 3000. More colleges offer alcohol-free rooms

By Janice Brunson staff writer

Efforts begun in Oakland County to provide college students with an alcohol-free living environment are gaining momentum. Some of the state's 15 public institutions now say they will provide that option.

Beginning next school year, Northern Michigan and Grand Valley State universities will for the first time offer all students an opportunity to select roommates who do not use alcohol by checking off that option on the housing application. Eastern Michigan University officials say they are in the process of complying.

Michigan Technological University and Lake Superior State will extend the option only to those students who are 21 or over.

"Although I am glad to see some progress being made, it appears that it is minimal," said U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman. The West Bloomfield resident was a driving force in the movement as a 48th District Court judge.

EFFORTS ARE aimed at compliance by all 15 public universities and the 40 or so private colleges and uni-versities in Michigan, according to Rep. David Honigman, R-West

Last year Honigman introduced a bill that would have required colleges to offer students the option of a non-drinking roommate the way they now offer the option of a nonsmoking roommate.

The bill, which drew support but died in committee, was prompted by a group from Oakland County, led by Judge Friedman.

Following a hearing before the House Colleges and Universities Committee, the schools were given time to comply before the legislation was taken further.

When Honigman first introduced the bill, he said school response was like "a dinosaur." The majority of administrators were not responsive.

"We basically got nowhere at first without enormous pressure, which is remarkable when you consider all that has to be done (to comply) is provide a box to check off on the preference form," Honigman said.

THE ISSUE is more complex than that, according to Dr. Glenn Stevens of the Council of College Presidents, which represents the state's 15 publie schools.

"It's a complicated issue. The university is entering into a contractual agreement with students. What controls can the university reasonably implement to enforce such a contract?" Stevens said.

He and members of the council prefer the issue not be legislated because, he said, compliance is best left up to individual school adminis-

STILL, HONIGMAN'S proposed bill "helped us focus on the issue. It is an extremely serious issue, and the university community is hardly indifferent to it," Stevens said.

Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti is in the process of compliance, according to officials there.

"The university fully supports the alcohol-free room concept and currently is taking steps to place a ques-tion assessing a student's alcohol us-age preference on the questionnaire sent to students who apply for hous-ing placement," said Deborah McNish, associate director of hous-

"Part of the problem is enforce-ment — the fact that college students continue to test their own values," McNish said.

Also, parents often complete preference forms for students and unwittingly state their offspring neither smokes nor drinks when, in fact, the students do both, according to McNish.

HOUSING OFFICIALS at Oakland University are familiar with the problem, according to Suzanne Bante, assistance director of the school's on-campus housing.

OU students fill out a personal profile that includes check-offs for non-drinkers and non-smokers. Of the two issues, however, smoking poses the most trouble.

Where people lie the most (on preference forms) is about smoking." Bante said.

OU has provided "non-drinker". options in roommates for two years."

A group of dedicated bowlers combined some fun with support for a worthy cause Saturday afternoon.

The Mayflower-Lt. Gamble Post No. 6695 and Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsored a "Bowlathon" at Plaza Lanes in Plymouth Township.

Job's given her chances to learn and grow

Mary Mauro enjoys spending her work days in the presence of a generation that "knows a lot more about life than I do." She's not interested in having a desk job.
"I like working with people," said Mauro, site director for the

Plymouth Adult Day Care Center. The center provides assistance to approximately 23 clients and is housed at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth Township. It operates 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Families drop off loved ones dur-

"I feel at home."

Mauro, 33, is a 1973 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. She earned a bachelor's degree in social work and sociology from Hillsdale College in 1976 and has done graduate work in gerontology at Western Michigan University.

MAURO'S FAMILY has lived in Plymouth for a number of years and has been active in local government. Her maternal grandfather, the late William Hartmann, was a former mayor and city commissioner Much of Mauro's interest in working with older people results from her close relationship with her four grandparents.

"I think that's probably where it

She's also close to her parents, M. Graham and Beatrice Laible. Mauro's mother is the teacher of homebound/hospitalized students in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Her father, now retired, taught at Plymouth Canton High School and at Pioneer Middle operated a deli in Saugatuck. They then moved to Kalamazoo, where Mauro attended WMU. While in Kalamazoo, she worked as a program planner for a community services organization.

Mauro works with an activities director, an activities assistant, a part-time registered nurse and a senior aide. Approximately a dozen dedicated volunteers contribute their time and talents.

Mary Mauro has been on the job as site director for the Plymouth Adult Day Care Center for about 15 months.

A MOVE BACK to Plymouth then followed. Mauro spent some time as a full-time mother with

Work doesn't take all of Mauro's time. She and her husband, a mortgage banker with The Money Store

They bought the home on Ann Arbor Trail owned by longtime Plymouth resident Dora Wood. Wood, nearly 102, now lives at Plymouth Court.

Play brings out meaning of Mass

By Julie Brown staff writer

The Munich Mystery Players traveled a distance to get to Plymouth. The message they brought with them is one that has stood the test of time and distance.

"It brings people closer to the meaning of the Mass," said Ernst Jurina, founder and director of the Munich Mystery Plays.

His group was in Plymouth Friday, Feb. 10, for an evening per-formance of "The Mystery of the Holy Mass" at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

The drama was written by Calderon de la Barca, who lived in Madrid from 1600 to 1681. In "The Mystery of the Holy Mass," Calderon showed the Mass from the viewpoint of the Bible and of history. His play demonstrates that the essentials of the Mass have stayed the same throughout time.

the Munich Theatre and founded the Munich Mystery Plays. Their first performance was on Feb. 1, 1949. "It's exactly 40 years now," Juri-

THE GROUP from Munich, West Germany, has performed in Europe and in the United States. In Europe, they've performed primarily in Germany, Austria and Switzerland. "From time to time, we come to the States since 1971," Jurina said. "It has to be in English, of course."

The group needs more rehearsal time for their English performances. The group performs other plays by Calderon, who became a priest at the age of 52. They perform some 15

The principle behind the play is Christ's command "Do this in re-membrance of me." The play has been adapted in keeping with more recent liturgical changes. The cast of characters includes: Christ, Adam, Moses, Saul-Paul, John the Evangelist, Disbelief, Igno-

THEIR FRIDAY, Feb. 10, per-formance attracted visitors of all ages to Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth.

"They came through in November, calling on different Catholic church-es in the Detroit area," said Michele Johns, director of music ministries at Our Lady of Good Counsel.

Johns and the Rev. Richard Perfetto, pastor at the Plymouth church, thought that inviting the group to perform would be a good idea. They read letters about the Munich Mys-tery Plays from other Catholic churches in the U.S.

"The testimony letters were very strong from churches around the country," Johns said. nia and St. Theodore in Westland.

Our actions were no better than Bundy's

When Ted Bundy died in the Florida electric chair one thing became absolutely clear: he would never again kill anyone. Whatever other conclusions people might draw are all up for grabs. None of them is for Some would say that the Bundy execution, like others before it, provides a deterrent to further heinous crimes. That, however, is not something we can know for sure.

Bundy knew of the death penalty. Not only did that knowledge fail to stop his horrendous path of violence, but, in fact, he murdered in the states that kill their convicted murderers rather than in any of so many others where the death penalty is not

We may be able to say that we want the death penalty to deter would-be murderers. But the hard facts are that more often than not their crimes are not out of fear of an electric chair, a lethal injection or anything of that sort.

Hardened criminals for the most part do not believe that they will be caught. And those who kill in an impassioned state seldom stop to assess

So, while we know what the death penalty does to the executed person, we can only guess or perhaps wish what it might do to would-be killers.

PERSONALLY, I do not feel any more immune to violence on the streets of Miami than I do on the streets of Detroit. It would seem that the electric chair in Stark Prison provides no more protection for the average person than the cell blocks at Jackson or Marquette.

Beyond Bundy's death, two things surfaced in his execution that we do know for sure. We know that underneath our concern for deterring violent crime is a penchant for vio-

Approximately 300 people found a need to line up as if at a Thanksgiv-ing parade. T-shirts and banners were even included as they shouted, "Burn, Bundy, Burn!" A radio talk show host suggested that his listeners turn off their appliances so that Bundy might get every bit of juice possible in his last writhing. One town even had a Bundy-cue.

Frankly, this kind of sickness is as appalling as the terrible devastation that Theodore Bundy wreaked on so many families. While we no longer have anything to fear from Bundy, we do have some reflecting to do about this other kind of sickness that goes on with public approval. What are we doing to breed the kind of thinking that this behavior betrays?

WE ALSO know something else for sure. We know that we no longer have access to the brains of Bundy or any of the other executed murderers from whom we might have learning something of how to prevent others from taking their places Perhaps a life sentence to ongoin psychological testing would teach us something more about protecting ourselves. It might even help us to diminish the chances of launching more Bundy types for future vic-tims. As it is, that chance was lost when the hearse left Stark Prison amid applause from people who vote and who raise children.

Build-up missing in murder drama

Performances of the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford pro-duction of "My Sister in This House" by Wendy Kesselman continue through Saturday, Feb. 25, at the playhouse in Redford. For ticket information, call 427-

There is, some say, a beast in each of us. Our human value system usually keeps the monster in check. Provocation and repressive circumstances can sometimes, however, bring out the worst in people — including brutal and incomprehensible murder.

That's the subject of Wendy Kesselman's award-winning play "My Sister in This House," which is about a celebrated 1930's French murder in which two maids were convicted of killing their employer and daughter.

TGLR's opening night produc-tion, while excellent in many respects (set, costumes, lights, sound and illuminating characters), seemed to be missing a key ingredient — a satisfactory buildup of tension between the maids and their oppressive employer. The play needs that expectation one feels when blowing up a balloon and as it expands you just know that at any moment it's about to explode. Unfortunately, when the murders occur, the balloon isn't large enough.

Part of the problem may be the play's style. It consists of 15 scenes with no intermission and a running time of about 85 minutes. The many blackouts (especially those that are longish) tend to break the tension and give a disconnected effect. In lieu of shorter costume changes, perhaps Director David Kelly might add music or another device to help tie the show togeth- no stopping the chilling outcome.

IT WOULD ALSO help if earlier maids. Sabourin looks marvelous signer and performer.

as an upper-middle-class French woman, who wastes her life in trival pursuits of meal planning, choosing hats and playing double solitare (one of the show's better scenes) with her silly-headed daughter, Isabelle.

Abby Rutheiser is excellent as Isabelle, a dominated daughter who doesn't quite know how to get on with her life.

Throughout the play, in sort of a two-part harmony, we also see the stronger, older maid, Christine, dominating her younger, fragile sister, Lea. The two convent-raised sisters respect authority, work hard and keep their mouths shut as they put up with ever-increasing oppressiveness from Madame Danzard. Their only comfort is their love for each other in a cold, unheated attic. And their love seems to be more than just sisterly.

Mary Rychlewski (Christine) and Elaine Kaiser (Lea) are both very good, but they could add to the tension with more frustration near the end. Particularly from the time Madame finds fault with a gown Christine is sewing (her reputation is that of a superb seamstress) and threatens to separate the maids forever. Destroying their security of togetherness is more than the girls can take. From this point on, the situation should begin to unravel with such ferocity that there is

Writer goes on film with 'Roger and Me'

By Dan Greenberg special writer

MICHAEL TRITER Moore, who turned filmmaker with the documentary "Roger and Me," told his audience at "Update '89" about the struggles of putting a story on the screen.

Moore was featured speaker at the annual seminar, attended by several hundred film and video enthusiasts Saturday at the William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland. The event is sponsored by Detroit Area Film and Television and the Detroit Producer's Association.

The DAFT acronym is better known as Detroit Area Film Teachers, but last year "television" was substituted for "teachers" to reflect changing technology in the media.

Moore's documentary "Roger and Me" recounts his sometimes humorous, often sad, always frustrating (and frustrated) attempts to meet General Motors Chairman Roger Smith and explain the cost in human suffering when GM closed plants in Moore began filming his featurelength documentary, "Roger and Me" on Feb. 11, 1986, the 50th anniversary of the UAW's birth. Update '89's screening of the rough cut marked the production's second anniversary in progress.

"ALL THE WRONG things happen" Moore told the audience, describing how difficult it can be, when queried why a writer turned to filmmaking. "We shouldn't be doing this. If you stop to think about filmmaking, it's an art form for people with money. But it seemed the best medium to inform.

"And it's enough to inform, that's the important first step. I'm hoping that there's still some time for people to fight back."

But Moore's optimism is tempered by what he sees as the gravity of the situation in Flint:

"I don't want to contribute to the despair. It's enough that I'm the doctor telling you you've got cancer but there's still time to operate."

Among the depressing information Moore's film and speech conveyed: "One of every two people living in the City of Flint are on some kind of government aid - Social Security, Workmen's Comp, unemployment, free cheese and so on."

Despite the expense of filming, Moore and his associates exposed more than 70,000 feet of 16mm footage attempting to meet Roger Smith. Moore sold his home and had two yard sales. He received numerous small contributions in Flint a grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts, help from Ralph Nader, and in-kind contributions. Cash expenditures so far have totaled $130,000.

A FLINT NATIVE, Moore is former editor of Michigan Voice and Mother Jones Magazine. He has been a commentator for National Public Radio's "All Things Considered" and recently wrote a feature story, "The Man Who Killed Vincent Chin," for the Detroit Free Press Sunday Mag-

While Moore is a writer, he had help from accomplished filmmakers, among them noted local cinematographer John Prusak, the Ford Vocational School's film teacher, and Bruce Schermer of North Wind

"Roger and Me" is a black-comedy, social-action-documentary film which exhibits a fine sense of the absurd contrasts between rich and poor in this country. Its production has been a saga in and of itself. Under these circumstances, production of the film has been slow, but Moore expects a finished print ready for distribution by July 1

Moore's sense of humor was evident throughout the question and answer session following Saturday's screening at Update '89. "My only hope is that Smith doesn't retire or get fired before I finish this film." he said.

In an unusual turn of events, Moore asked assembled DAFT and DPA members for their advice on structuring the film's final cut. An DAFT is a non-profit organization founded in 1969, with membership ranging from students and teachers of film and video to enthusiasts and professionals working in the area's many media activities. Co-sponsor-ship of its annual Update festivities with the DPA is a natural blending of interests. John Prusak of both DAFT and the DPA co-chaired this year's Update.

DAFT IS DEDICATED to creating a more visually literate membership and general public by sponsoring in-dependent filmmakers, videogra-phers, workshops, monthly screen-

Seminars on low-budget produc-tion were another feature of "Update '89." Mike Jarema, associate producer of "The Carrier;" Mark Yasenchak and Susan Jollife of "Mail Order Murder," and Jim Piechocki of "Making Minotaur" highlighted seminars on tightly con-troled production and post-production costs in filmmaking.

Show could use more Motown

Performances of the dinner theater production of "Motown Memories and More," presented by TAP Ltd., continue Wednes-day, Feb. 18; Tuesday, Feb. 24, and Saturday, March 4, at the Southfield Hilton. Cocktail/show tickets also are available. For ticket information call 557-4800.

By Bob Weibel special writer

When the weekend rolls around and businessmen leave town, the Southfield Hilton has decided, rather than run at half speed waiting for Monday, let's fill an unused ballroom with dinner theater and the sound of Motown. Or, to be more specific, a musical revue "Motown, Memories and More," performed by Theatre Arts Productions (and produced by Michael J. Klier).

Everyone seemed to enjoy their dinner (baked chicken with lemon sauce, Delmonico steak or orange roughy) served by friendly waitresses. I suspect the show would bring a smile to the face of Berry Gordy Jr., but like this reviewer, he would want more hardcore Motown numbers - and less Memories and More, which in the early going seemed to involve a lot of mike adjusting and unfocused patter.

Bob Welbel

TAP has been touring the show around Michigan for some time, and the performers (Jay and Larry Johnson, Earle Vinton and Rick Ingram) have got the Motown moves and songs perfected. Jay Johnson also does the choreography, which on the whole is quite good. The music is all prerecorded.

Kirk Noland serves as master of ceremonies. He has an eager, smiling, gregarious personality that keep the show rolling regardless of the jokes. His act would benefit from a nice pin spot to focus attention on him instead of the whole stage. It would also be nice if his pants and coat were the same shade of black. or was it blue?

THE SHOW ITSELF opens with a hot, Las-Vegas-style "Dancing in the Streets" number, then moves on to a medley of Smokey Robinson tunes like "Shop Around." Next, there is a bit about the Pips (without Gladys) which really doesn't work too well. That is followed by a series of cool dance numbers, the most notable being a hilarious squawking from "The Bird."

About midway is a relaxing change of pace, distinguished by good quartet singing of "Dixie" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Then, we meet the Jackson Five (featuring Myron Tate as Michael), easily the best act of the show. That is followed by a tribute to the Temp-tations and the Four Tops featuring their big sellers like "My Girl" and "Baby, I Need Your Love." The show closes with a reprise "Dancing in the Streets."

They left me wanting more Motown. Which they say is the idea. But it would be nice if they added a couple of curtain call numbers.

Boost 401(k) to cut taxes and Dan Boyce special writers

Local financial planning experts reviewed the data of the family profiled here and made general recommendations based on the participant's resources and goals. The information is for educational purposes only; references are not intended as discrimination or endorsements by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers or the advisers interviewed.

To receive a free financial planning brochure or to obtain a questionnaire to have your finances reviewed in this column, contact the Center for Financial Planning, Dept. 100, 877 S. Adams, Suite 202, Birmingham 48009, or call 642-4000.

"Old age may seem a long way off. But on a day it doesn't, it will be too late to do anything about it." Our financial profile this month centers on the situation of Tom Porter, who is concerned about his retirement

Porter is a quality control supervisor at a small manufacturing company. He makes $45,000 per year and is 46 years old. Divorced four years ago, he lives in Livonia with his two teenage sons.

"I'm just beginning to recover from my divorce financially," Porter said. "I'm really beginning to worry about my long-term financial security. My company's pension plan is very modest, so I know I will be responsible for the majority of my future needs.'

HIS INVESTMENTS include three utility stocks and a 401(k) plan offered by his employer. He is currently adding 2 percent of his income into the 401(k) plan. His employer matches 25 cents for each dollar that he puts into this plan.

His cash reserves total $4,000. We would like to see this increased to the $5,000 to $10,000 range. Generally, it is desirable to have two months of income in cash reserves, as well as having other liquid assets upon which to draw in case of an emergency.

He has $45,000 of life insurance at work and $100,000 of personally held term insurance. He plans to terminate the term insurance after his children are through college. We believe that his coverage is adequate in his current situation.

His auto insurance and his homeowners insurance each require one small, but important, adjustment. The auto insurance includes only $50,000 of liability coverage, which covers him in the event of a lawsuit. Porter should raise this amount to at least $200,000. The additional cost is

A SERIOUS hobby for Tom and one of his sons is stamp collecting. A recent appraisal put the value of his collection at $3,500. Most homeowners policies will cover such collections only for $500 to $1,000 unless a special rider is attached. This "personal property floater" should be added to his policy as soon as possi-

The most important gap in his insurance program is the lack of a long-term disability policy. His em-ployer sick pay plan would carry him financially for six months, but subsequently he has no coverage. This is not unusual for employees of small companies. Statistically, only 25 percent of small businesses carry long-term disability insurance - the percentage is far higher at larger companies.

Because his income would cease after six months if he became ill or if he had a serious accident, he could be placed in an extremely difficult financial situation.

He should buy a personal policy that would dovetail with his sick pay at work. The coverage should begin after six months and last until he is 65 years old. It should cover him if he is unable to perform the duties of his "own occupation" and it should have cost-of-living adjustments built into the policy. Any benefits would be received tax-free because he pays the premiums himself.

WHEN HE was divorced, Porter and his ex-wife agreed to set aside adequate funds for the children's educations. This amount, which is not included in his personal balance sheet, was invested in growth mutual funds that have performed very well during the last four years. This aspect of his financial planning is in

Porter had a will drawn up 10 years ago that he has not updated despite his change in his circumstances. He realizes that he should see an attorney to bring this up to

We would suggest that he consider incorporating a testamentary trust into his will. He wants his assets to go to the children at his death. This testamentary trust would provide that the money would be managed for the benefit of his children until he deems it appropriate to have it distributed to them outright.

Without such a provision, the sets in his estate would normally be distributed when the children reached the age of majority, which is 18 in Michigan. This may not be the ideal or desired time for them to have full access to any inheritance.

PORTER IS interested in reducing his income tax bill. This is one of the reasons he likes real estate investment - it provides him with tax deductions. He asks for other suggestions we might have.

Our first suggestion for reducing taxes it to increase his 401(k) contribution. We suggest 10 percent of his income be allocated to the plan. This is the quickest and easiest method of reducing taxes because anything contributed is not reported as income on his tax return.

An extra bonus is the 25 percent added to his contributions by his employer. Where else can he get an immediate 25-percent no-risk return on his investment? Also, if he decides to make additional real estate investments, this will help balance his total portfolio.

He is considering taking a home equity loan and paying off his car loan. Even though he has dealer-financing at 6.9 percent, he wonders whether the full deductibility of the home equity loan interest would be more advantageous.

We might agree with this if he were paying 12 percent or 14 percent on his car loan. But with such a low finance rate, it is definitely to his advantage to keep his current fi-nancing in place despite the lower tax benefit.

PORTER IS interested in real estate as a mean of accumulating assets. Just over two years ago, he bought a rental house for $40,000 by borrowing the $20,000 down payment from his parents and assuming a land contract of $20,000 from the

The property is beginning to provide good cash flow after all expenses, and it has already grown invalue to $55,000. His appetite thus whetted, he wonders whether he should begin buying other properties.

Our assessment is that his plan might very well provide a good method of building his assets and net

Would-be entrepreneurs savor experts' pointers

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Florine Mark made it sound so easy.

Recalling her transformation from an overweight housewife afraid to leave home to a svelte and savvy businesswoman steering a $30 million empire, her story of courage and spunk was just the right medicine for this audience.

One hundred twenty mostly fledgling business people heard Mark's address on day two of En-trepreneurship Forum '89, sponsored by the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and the state Department of Commerce.

From the makers of Mexican food to a mortician interested in expanding other business interests, they came from all walks of life to the Mercy College conference center in Detroit last weekend. While most participants were from the metro area, some came from as far north as Alpena and Saginaw.

FOR JOAN Sharp of Troy, a former banker currently working in financial services, it was an opportunity to seek advice from the assembled pros - accountants, attorneys, insurance representatives and to soak up motivational success stories from people like Mark, the biggest single owner of Weight Watchers franchises in the world.

"I'm looking for my niche, and this is helping me discover how the real world works," said Sharp, who has an MBA degree with a major in finance.

That is precisely the intent of the forum, according to Dennis Koons, vice president of economic develop-ment for the Greater Detroit chamber and an organizer of the eight-year-old event.

'We're providing motivation, inspiration and education," Koons said.

Participants broke into small workshops and were given the opportunity for one-on-one counseling.

SPEAKERS INCLUDED Don Barden, president of Barden Cablevision, holder of the Detroit cable television contract; John Psarouthakis, founder of J.P. Industries, manufacturer of durable goods with annual sales of more than $500 million; and keynote speaker Scott McNealy, a Detroit native who is chief executive officer of Sun Microsystems of California, which is expected to gross nearly $2 billion in sales this

"There are two great aspects to this forum," said Ian Pesses, a Southfield attorney who made a presentation on legal matters.

"It's really nice to crank people up, to motivate them. It also assembles some of the finest experts in the state to talk one-on-one, free of charge. They'll answer the same questions over and over again."

Florine Mark: "If you're not having some fun, then it's not worth doing."

Pesses was one of 35 presenters from the fields of law, insurance, marketing and public relations lending time and advice to the forum.

His talk was laced with self-depreciating humor, potshots at the legal profession, and tips on how to get around expensive legal fees.

HE SUGGESTED business people ask their insurance agent for the latest ruling on the cumbersome and confusing IRS Section 89 dealing with discriminatory employment tests.

"Call the Department of Naturalization regarding hiring legal and illegal aliens," he said. "They're a wonderful source of free information."

Regarding employee benefit packages, "Every bank and insurance company has standard plans they're willing to share at a modest price."

Pesses stressed the importance of environmental issues in business.

"They're growing by leaps and bounds with new local, state and federal laws. Call the EPA and the DNR for free advice. They can sure save you a lot of

Chevy has high hopes for ZR-I Corvette

There's a used 1989 ZR-I Corvette Road and Track, an aid that wouldn't stand out much from the "runs good" MG's and BMWs except for one thing. Chevrolet hasn't yet sold any ZR-I Corvettes, and may not until

The ZR-I is a 390 horsepower version of the stock Corvette, which Chevy hopes will be the fastest fully certified production car on sale in the United States. Chevrolet hired Lotus engineering to develop a 390 horsepower engine for the ZR-l, and advanced publicity has made it fa-mous before its time. With the ZR-l program running a bit late, there are a lot of disappointed Corvette afi-cionados who need it to get from Bir-mingham to the foot of Woodward in six minutes. Even more disappointed in this sort of situation are the enthusiasts who gave non-refundable deposits to dealers who then put them on a list to be first to be able to pay $50,000 or so when the ZR-l fi-nally arrives.

Dan McCosh

Like Harold McMillan, who placed the ad in Road and Track.

AS IT turns out, McMillan, who lives in Phoenix, liked what he had heard about the ZR-l so much that late last fall he plunked down his deposit for the car he hoped would be available in the spring.

It was then he began a fast review of his budget and got cold feet. "I thought I might have some trouble paying for it, so I decided to sell the car. But I knew it takes about 90 days for one of the car magazines to be printed, so I took out the ad, figuring it would come out about the same time as the car," he told me.

Since selling a car that you don't have makes about as much sense as paying for it in advance, it only seemed right that the car in the ad, a 1989 model, might end up never existing at all. Production has been slow getting started, and now it looks like Chevrolet may wait until the 1990 Corvettes are introduced before it sells any ZR-ls.

WHILE I marvelled at Mr. McMil-

lan's phantom Corvette, it turns out that this kind of thing goes on all the time when a particularly hot car is

"Some people put down their de-posits, then they sell their place in line," Leon Mandel, publisher of Au-toweek magazine, which runs a lot of performance car classifieds, told me. The game is played something like stock options and is followed by a short speculative market after the car actually shows up, when it frequently goes up in price, unlike eve-

It's not a game without risk, how-ever. The last Eldorado convertibles shot up, then down again. When the Fiero ended production, a few potential collectors tried hoarding them but ended up worse off than the Hunt tive market in hot cars, it's best to remember that not every rare car is a potential GTO Ferrari. Sometimes igs change, as Chevrolet announcing the end of the Corvette convertible a couple of years ago, then reviving the marque. At least one collector sued to stop production of the new softops.

Even genuine scarcity is no guarantee. My father, for instance, never did any great shakes with collectibles. Despite once having owned one of the few targa top Hilman Minxes ever seen north of Toledo.

On the other hand, I've been noticing a significant rise in the price of '47 Willys pickups lately in the classifieds. I figure it's a market just waiting to be cornered.

Gaining access to competitive data can help you make better business decisions. Facts and figures that relate to marketing or sales strategies, financial performance and projected growth are just a few of the many information needs that may be satisfied through this type of search. For business owners who recognize the usefulness of competitive data, the most commonly asked question is: "How do I get it?" For those who have tried, many say that competitors are not so willing to oblige. As one new business owner recently put it, "She told me how she had to find out everything on her own and how I should too."

THE PROCESS of contacting local competitors to obtain information about their business is an acquired skill and should not be pursued as a "first step" competitive search strategy.

When competitors have been caught off guard, know little or nothing about the person requesting information and are asked to provide answers to many more than just a few specific questions, chances are they won't cooperate.

But there are those who are willing to provide assistance under the right circumstances.

"If I'm approached at a conference or some other business event by a person who has obviously done his homework about our industry, I'm happy to answer a few questions. I might learn something from him too," one Detroit gift products distributor said. "It's the people who call out of nowhere that turn me right off."

DEPENDING ON the nature and size of the industry, obtaining competitive data may begin with a secondary data search. Secondary data would include all published and publicly available information provided through industry surveys and reports, trade journals, conference papers, competitors' annual reports, SEC filings, etc.

For example, industry associations often conduct annual member surveys presenting valuable marketing, sales and financial data. The results are often available in report format to non-members at a nominal

Associations may also sponsor conferences where the featured guest speakers or panelists include key competitors. In this situation, obtaining copies of the audience handouts from the association or competitors involved may be all that is required. A good place to start a secondary search is a major public or university library.

When the competition includes a majority of privately held firms, or when the industry as a whole is quite small, a secondary data search may not offer much in the way of useful information. Next week, we will discuss alternatives in the competitive data search process.

If he were an aggressive investor, this might be appropriate strategy especially if he finds the right property. Using a modest home equity loan of $5,000 to $10,000 would allow him to buy a second property.

Boost 401(k) Allocating assets: 7 steps

In recent months, it has become fashionable among investment advisers to use the technique of asset allocation to redistributing clients'

Although the technique is compli-cated and should be applied to your situation only by a professional, you will have a better feel for the process if you have at least a basic grasp of it.

Here is a seven-step process, developed by Harold Gorgues, which is generally followed by financial planners when designing asset allocation

STEP ONE: Define the long-term direction of inflation.

There are two broad categories of investment — direct and indirect. Each category behaves differently in inflationary vs. deflationary periods. Direct investments perform best during inflationary times, while indirect investments shine during periods of disinflation.

STEP TWO: Divide assets among the two broad categories.

Given the decision as to inflationary vs. deflationary environment in Step One, the split is somewhat subjective, based upon the planner's degree of confidence in the inflation

finances and you Sid Mittra

A strong confirmed inflationary period might indicate a 90/10-percent split, direct vs. indirect; where no clear path is evident, a 50/50-percent split might be appropriate. If disinflation is indicated, the 75/25percent indirect vs. direct investments will prevail. The long-term trend should be of primary import rather than the timing of a reversal.

STEP THREE: Select favored investment areas.

Favored investments arise from three scenarios:

1. Those that are opposite to the risk side of an economic crisis. 2. Those that have not been completely exploited by the marketplace (don't follow the herd). 3. Those that can be diversified ex-

STEP FOUR: Assign percentages to favored investments.

Again, a somewhat'subjective pro-cess, but one that accounts for client tolerance to risk and concerns for liquidity, taxes and overall temperament, as well as time horizon for in-

STEP FIVE: Make suballocations into specific investments.

Here is where the asset manager's expertise is tested. Selection of spe-cific investments based upon relative value (or undervaluation) is the objective.

STEP SIX: Calculate risk level.

By segmenting client assets into categories of working capital and assigning an estimated total return to each category, one can calculate a weighted average total return. This helps approximate the client's risk level. Asset allocation addresses the process whereby assets are realized in terms of amount, type and risk level to suit the client's objectives.

STEP SEVEN: Match needs with investment choices.

All ages can enjoy environmental books

As a result of reports that reading by school children is at an all-time low, Consumer Mailbag asked Bar-bara Crandell, a Concern board member, to update her original book suggestion list for you:

Because so many good books on the environment are available, making it difficult to select a few, I queried friends who are naturalists, librarians, specialists in children's books, and young people willing to share their list of favorites.

When making selections, keep in mind the joys of reading aloud. Even the youngest member can gain pleasure from the sense of participation with other family members — as well as the ritual, enthusiasm and drama that can be created by the reader. Also, a child reluctant about going to bed can be tempted with the promise of a bedtime story.

IN THE classroom as well as in the home, a time set aside for everyone to read his or her own selection can be a time of pleasure and a painless way to introduce the habit of regular reading.

Good literature can be read by a variety of age levels. Don't ignore or be embarrassed to select books from other than your age group.

As you read about our environment, observe it and gain new insight, and you will see the interconnections between the natural world and human existence.

As you know, Congress is steadily phasing out loans that are no longer fully tax deductible.

You can also access your credit line simply by writing a check. And the payment schedule is flexible, too.

However, using the equity in your home is not something you should do without careful consideration. Furthermore, there are some items-like normal living expenses, for example—for which a home equity line of credit is definitely not appropriate. So stop by your nearest First of America office, or call 1-800-544-6155 for more information. We'll provide you with a free information brochure and an application. We'll also help you determine if a home equity line of credit is right for you.

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stav near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

Cedar sculptures leave impression of beauty, protection and foreboding

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Thursday, February 16, 1989 O&E

If you told Ursula Von Rydingsvard that you felt secure and protected in the shadow of her large cedar sculptures, she'd bepleased. They're part of "Sculptur-al Contrasts," an exhibition at Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum through April 8.

There's something comforting about some of these large works of wood with the pale interior flesh exposed and the exterior lightly toned with graphite or washed with

One exception is the three large cedar boxes with narrow openings in the top. They are intimidating in their suggestion of container-like holding places with barely room to move and no way out. Rydingsvard came from her home in New York City to supervise the installation of her four works in one of the largest galleries in the Museum.

It looked like enough lumber to build a log house except that each piece of wood is carefully numbered, shaped, marked with cuts from her circular saw, toned or painted.

She said she likes to work with 2 by 4s which she glues together and then cuts, chisels and coaxes into becoming part of a large rugged sculpture that is, reminiscent of some form or structure from the past, but not readily identifiable.

SHE WAS BORN in 1942 to a Polish farm family who were quickly swept up and forced to live in forced-labor and refugee camps in Germany. They managed to come to the United States when she vas 10 and settled in Plainville, Conn., a name she said aptly de-scribed the community as she knew

"I come from Slavic peasant farmers for many generations," she said with an air of pride.

It's possible to draw parallels beween her background and her art the purposeful rough edges, the constant suggestions of strength and durability, the organic material, the respect for the medium, the rth colors and the sheltering protective attitudes which some of her works have. Yet, there are those boxes - those strange, unsettling boxes.

While she comes out af a minimalist art background, her works have human relationships, they are part of a world occupied by people and this occupation is suggested in many ways.

She stood beside a long triangular, floor piece that was about to have large semisculpted and painted pieces laid on one side and some different pieces placed in corresponding positions along the other side. Each viewer brings a different point of view to this sculptural Rorschach - fortress, stockade, sod shanty or ominous line of prisoners before a firing squad.

"I have a tremendous liking for vernacular architecture - what these people needed and felt about the earth," she said.

She quickly passes through the years she studied painting at University of Miami (Coral Gables) and University of California and her first marriage to make her strongest statement, "My life began in 1973 in New York City."

THAT WAS when she went to Columbia to get her MFA and began to work as a sculptor. At first she worked with steel, but wasn't at the university found some cedar on sale and brought it to her.

The attachment was immediate. "Cedar keeps still, " she said a hand resting on a piece of it. "The dark on the outside contrasts with the inside almost like an open wound or an open mouth. It's easy to cut. It doesn't resist. There's no grain to detract."

But why does a person so inher-ently linked to the land by her ancestors and so conscious of that link in her art live in New York City and have a studio in Brooklyn?

"It is extremely important that I live in the city," she said with startling intensity. I keep reacting to it—it's tough, relentless. . . ."
It is those strident, jarring city forces which move her to build the softer, wood forms. She questioned whether she would continue to work in the same way if she moved out of the city, "I need it so much."

HER LARGEST work in the exhibition, which occupies a sizeable part of one very long wall, has a long line of tall cedar stanchions against the wall which support arcs made of blocks from 2 by 4s that bow out into the room. It is massive, unrefined, captivating and strangely, almost irresistibly

She is adamant when explaining why she glues the 2 by 4s together. often into log size pieces rather than simply starting with a log in the first place.

London, Paris audiences love our orchestra

This is the last of three articles on the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's European tour by Ervin-Monroe, principal flutist with the orchestra. He is consulting editor for The Flute Quarterly, president of Little Piper and is affiliated with Wayne State and Oakfund universities. The Orchestra feturned home Sunday and will be performing at 8 p.m. Friday at Orchestra Hall with Emanuelle Boirvert, concertmaster, making her DSO solo debut.

Day 13, Thursday, Feb, 2 -Baggage has to be out in the halls at 9 a.m. We are flying from Munich to Hannover following a much needed day off. Our buses to the airport don't leave until 11 a.m., so many of the orchestra are gathered in the lobby chatting.

Emanuelle Boisvert of Detroit, our new concertmaster, stops by to tell of her skiing trip on our previous day off. "It was great fun," she said, "but I do admit that some skiing was on grass and rocks because of this year's lack of snow." The Maestro had expressed some concern over the dangers with this jaunt back to the Alps, but eight members had gone anyway.

At this point I begin teasing Emanuelle about the crowd reaction when she appears on stage at the be-ginning of each concert. "The Swiss audience was a little surprised, but the Austrian and German audiences are really stunned," she admits.

I relate a conversation I had in German with three ushers during the intermission of the Munich concert. The ladies wanted to know more about Emanuelle and were very im-pressed when they learned she was ust 25 years of age. "This can never happen in Germa-Monroe ny," one of the excited young ladies told me. I explained our behind-thescreen audition policy and pointed out that everyone has a chance for the job. "Grossartig" they all said, which means splendid, wonderful. At the end of my story I chided Emanuelle for possibly starting a militant womens' movement in Bavaria. She laughed and departed with a rather proud, smug grin. I am still waiting to be joined for breakfast by a Hungarian flutist and longtime friend who lives in Munich. John Thurmond, cellist, of Ferndale, stops by to inform me that he spent most of his day-off recovering from the mysterious clear liquid (in the unmarked bottle) that was being passed around by our German musician's friends at the reception following the previous concert.

"I've got a name for that stuff," he growls, "Liquid German Shepherd. If we ever see that schnapps at another reception, let's call in a stunt man to do our drinking."

My flute-playing friend arrives and informs me he has just read a rave review of our concert in the largest paper in southern German, The Suddentchihe Zeitune. "It is unusually fine," he says. Our flight to Hannover is uneventuful and the concert is similar. The hall here is unchanged from it's ap-pearance in 1979. It is circular and is decorated in dark blue with big marble columns rising from the second level. It appears like an elegant but very small hockey rink and we are the skaters. Even the applause doesn't carry in this hall, but the audience reponds enthusiastically to our playing, perhaps a bit more than they did to our performance here 10 years ago.

Important concert ahead

Day 14, Friday, Feb. 3, 8:39 a.m. luggage call, 10:10 a.m. buses to the train station. The routine is awful. Some musicians can be heard mooing and bleating every time we form a line now. Nevertheless, our schedules go like clockwork, very smooth-

This is an exciting day and a very important concert. We are going to Hamburg, the key industrial city in Germany. Not only is this city the home of many of Germany's most distinguished citizens, it is reputed to have an excellent concert hall.

Our arrival is on time and our dreams of having good weather quickly vanish. We've hardly seen the sun on the entire trip, except when flying. The city is pretty though, built around a large and small lake separated by several bridges. Susan and I take a nice stroll along the water. There are many parks here.

The concert hall is simply called Tonhalle, like the one where we played in Zurich. (That now seems like ages ago). It is all that it is re-ported to be and perhaps more, not overly ornate, but quite attractive. It is built on the most classic of lines, twice as long as it is wide, stage as part of the rectangular and composition of wood and plaster. It sounds great and so does the orchestra.

Our concert here is one of the best I can recall in my 21 years with the symphony. It is a great feeling and one senses that the orchestra has really become a cohesive unit as we approach the truly big concerts of

The audience response is overwhelming and one young man in the right balcony waited until the applause was over to stand up and yell, "Go Tigers!" Those of us still on stage gestured "yeah" and the description of the state of the parting audience started clapping

That night we went to eat and drink at a little pub near the hotel. The owner had agreed to hold the kitchen open for us following the concert and a large group of musicians stopped by.

As the evening progressed, a gen-tleman who was setting with a lady near our table called me over. He had heard me speaking German with the owner and inquired who we were. Upon learning we were with the Detroit Symphony he became most excited.

Even on a grueling tour there was time to relax. Pictured at a party in Austria are, from left, Gunther Herbig, music director; Tom Gulick, the Orchestra's vice president of marketing; and Deborah Borda, executive director. With their backs to the camera are Edwin S. Klefer, managing director, GM Austria, and Mrs. Herbig.

"I have several of your records" he explained, "and they are wonder-ful." He insisted on buying me a drink and I joined him and his lady friend at their table. He apparently was Czechoslovakian and was returning home from a business trip.

"Do you live nearby," I asked and a round of confusing explanations was forthcoming. I skirted the issue and complimented the lady on the beautiful because of Beauty at the lady on the lady of the lady on the lady of the l beautiful bouquet of flowers sitting on the seat next to her. "They're for his wife," sighed the lady, "you obviously have figured out we're not married."

"So I have," I replied. At this point Hart Holmann, violist, of Birmingham was preparing to take a photo of our group seated behind us. When the flash went off, the Czechoslovakian Casanova leaped several feet off his chair. "It's okay" I explained, but he quickly ran over to pay his bill while his lady friend chuckled.

Day 15, Saturday, Feb. 4, - Hamburg, a free day.

The concert management has arranged the tour nicely. As the final week approaches we have more free days to rest and it is needed. There are more flying days now and these travel days are more strenuous and demanding than the short train trips.

Orchestra hits its stride

Maestro throws a party

Maestro Herbig is graciously throwing a party this evening on a rebuilt schooner in the city's harbor. It is now used as a restaurant during the day and reserved for private parties in the evening. The orchestra members all plan to attend though I do bump into Bob Pangborn, principal pal percussionist of Bloomfield Hills and his wife Brenda who are going ahead to our next stop, Dusseldorf. "We've been invited by a friend to a fasching ball" she said (these are seasonal costume balls held this time of year). "I'm going as Steve Yzerman and Bob's going as a Tiger. Everyone spends the day shopping in anticipation of the evening's festivi-

The dinner aboard ship is delightful. The harbor is immense, huge ocean going ships are everywhere and our cozy little schooner is neat and cheerful. Some speeches are made and members of our travel committee, Max Janowsky, bassist of Huntington Woods, and Sal Rabbio, tympanist of Farmington, have arranged to present gift purchased by the orchestra to tour managers.

Day 16, Feb. 5, — 8 a.m. luggage collection, 9:10 a.m. departure for the train station. Destination Dussel-wearing two hats and two coats. "Two bought so much on this trip Fve run out of room in my luggage," she explains. "Don't you think you'll be overdressed in Madrid?" I ask.

The hotel in Dusseldorf is a fine one, but out in the middle of nowhere. Susan and I take a long walk and finally find a little pub on the other side of the express ay behind our hotel people are celebrating fasching and invite us. "No thanks," we reply, " but will you be open late tonight?" When they ask how many there will be, I promise at least 12.

"Reseviert" comes the answer. The hall in Dusseldorf is a remodeled planetarium. It is quite modern in appearance with suspended walk-ways and glass walls. Sitting on stage is a little like being suspended inside a football. I point this fact out to Doug Cornelsen, clarinetist of Livonia

We have already been joking all day about the excessive amount of pork the Germans consume and how we are ready for a change of menu. Doug says to me, "No Ervin, if this were the inside of a football it would be pigskin and would already have been eaten. That's why they only play soccer in this country, they've eaten all the footballs." The concert is good but Hamburg is going to be hard to match. The level is now consistently high.

Susan and I walk to the pub after the concert and it is further away than I recall. I find myself hoping other orchestra members show up, but my worries are unfounded. We

The locals are all in costume and dancing non-stop. Jim Waring, vio-linist of Huntington Woods, his wife Kathy, Stephen Molina, bassist and assistant personel manager of De-troit are already seated at a long table reserved for the Detroit Sym-phony Orchestra. Tom Gulick, a new member of our management team and numerous other members of the orchestra soon arrive.

Walzes, polkas, and even a dance strangely resembling the bunny hop shortly ensue. The local Germans won't let us sit for any length of time and shyness isn't tolerated. Even Tom, our management representative on this special occasion, led a long line of enthusiastic dancers through a maize of tables around the entire dining room in a burst of wild dances. "I never danced the polka before," confessed Tom. "Neither did I" I replied "but we both did

Day 17, Monday, Feb. 6-9 a.m. luggage collection, 11 a.m. depart to the airport. We are going to Berlin. Tonight is an important concert indeed. Berlin is the home of one of the truly great orchestras and one of the finest modern-designed halls.

The travel isn't easy. When we arrive at 1 p.m. there are three buses to take us to the hotel. We chose the third, the one that won't start. After calling individual cabs we finally are on our way. After a brief nap we are on our way to the hall for a short

Fergus is now a hornist with the Berlin Philharmonic and invites everyone over for a most pleasur-

Upon return to the hotel I am greatly tempted by the minibar. These are little refrigerators in each room stocked with beer, liquor, pop, juice and nuts. On the '79 tour some musicians mistakenly thought these items were complimentary and paid dearly for their misconception. The "old-timers" had already warned "newcomers" on the flight over, so no disasters (such as the $340 tab run up by one musician in Paris on the last tour) have occurred.

Nevertheless these little tempters get you sooner or later. I broke down late at night in Vienna and raided my minibar for the smallest Pepsi Cola I have ever seen in my life. It cost me $4.50. Ray Turner, trombonist, and John Thurmond also dropped a hundred dollars for a small hotel 'get-together" after the concert in

Color works in mysterious ways

ILM IS a photographic "miracle" we take for granted. Most of us who have been using color film for years probably haven't given much hought as to how it really works.

Color film contains three separate layers of light-sensitive emulsion that create an image according to the intensity of light falling on them during the brief instant of exposure.

One layer is sensitive only to red light, one to green and the other to blue. At a particular stage in the development of the film, the image is dyed to the appropriate shade in each layer to reproduce the full range of colors in the original sub-

THERE ARE two basic types of color film — transparency (slides) and negative (prints).

A negative film records light areas in the original scene as dark tones and dark areas as light tones. Colors are shown in reverse so that anything blue will appear as a mixture of red and green, which is yellow. Anything green will record as a mixture of red and blue called magenta and anything red as a combination of green and blue, which is cyan.

These are the complementary colors. To make a print, the negative must then be exposed again to similar emulsion on a paper base to convert the colors and tones back to those of the original subject.

With a color transparency, all of this process takes place when the film is developed.

MODERN TECHNOLOGY has made color films sensitive to even the slightest changes in the color quality of light. But we tend to notice only the drastic changes in light quality because the brain makes adjustments for what we see.

For example, grass will almost always appear to be green regardless of the color of light used to illumi-

We are rarely aware of color changes in daylight, yet it varies as surely as the sun rises and sets and these variations are faithfully recorded on film. This accounts for the many surprises, and sometimes disappointments, when you see your processed prints for the first time.

The color quality of light is measured on what is called the Kelvin scale and is recorded as a color "temperature." Most daylight-balanced films are designed to give a correct color balance when the light source is about 6,000 degrees Kelvin or approximately a noon sun.

However, light from a rising sun

Day 18, Tuesday, Feb. 7 — Berlin to Madrid. 8 a.m. luggage, 10 a.m. depart for the hotel. It's a travel day and everyone is cheerful after last night's successful concert. Deborah Borda, our executive director, has catered a big party at the hotel and the sangria and food are delightful. The party continues later at the

The party continues later at the hotel lounge where Phillip Kennedy, one of our stage hands, and I join the local Spanish planist in a heavy blues number playing harmonica and flute respectively. The next day is a pleasant one and the old town is charming. We have been warned by our travel guides to watch for thieves and pickpockets, but several people are victimized anyway.

Faye Ann Reznick, wife of Felix

Faye Ann Reznick, wife of Felix Reznick, violinist from Huntington Woods, complains to me that the European men are all chauvinistic. She and Felix had both cashed travelers checks of identical amounts simultaneously. The banker gave all the money to Felix. When she glared at him, he smiled and slid half of the amount of her check out of Felix's pile in her direction.

The hall here is new and slightly resembles the hall in Berlin with floating balconies at numerous angles. The orchestra is on a terror now and nothing seems to stop fine concerts from happening. The Spanish crowd is very demonstrative and gets lots of encores, something which has become standard fo us now, we give it no thought.

Tour winds down

Day 20, Thursday, Feb. 9 — We are up at the usual early hour as we are winding our Eurotour to a close. Today our destination is Paris.

There are only two concerts to go.

Susan and I decide to eat out of the hotel and encounter our librarian, Honon Yoffe, of Birmingham, who is also in search of breakfast. 'Do you speak Spanish Ervin," he asks me in his charming Estonian accent. "No" I reply, we'll just do the best we can."

We select a small restaurant and are preparing to order when Tanny

Gurin, trombonist of Huntington Woods, and Joe Goldman, violinist of Berkley, arrive. Not one of us can read a word on the menu other than coffee. "T've got to have eggs for breakfast" says Honon rolling his R's as usual. "Act like a chicken" suggests Tanny, "the waiter will get it." Our librarian did just that, cluck-

Our librarian did just that, clucking away and waving his elbows at the waiter. The Spaniard spews out a few words of agreement and smiles. When the waiter gets to me I just point at the hen. "You should wait and see what I get first" jokes Hanon. We each get two fried eggs.

Hanon. We each get two fried eggs.

Later Tanny remarked that he was publishing an unabridged dictionary of food gestures, but when we arrive in Paris, Hanon informs me he can now act out an entire

Paris is always impressive. Our arrival is really special. The sun is shining brightly for the first time on our trip. Orchestra members joke while we wait for customs to clear our buses and one conversation drifts toward the subject of food.

The concert went very well although we had to start the second half twice. The performance was being broadcast live, and a loudspeaker accidentally blared out after we started the Brahms Second Symphony. Maestro Herbig left the stage and came back shortly to start again. The crowd loved it and once again we played three encores. It was a wonderful feeling to be closing out the tour in such style.

The tour will end with one more concert in London and we will finally be going home. We are all feeling very proud of our orchestra, proud of our city and state and just plain happy to be going back to the good old U.S. of A.

A READER WRITES: How can I update my kitchen without going into considerable expense?

Try changing the counter and back splash in your kitchen. There are a number of interesting micas you might like to consider. Use the brushed stainless or chrome finish on both counter and back splash. Always remember to carry the mica all the way up to meet the bottom of

A bone or almond counter top will work well with the mica in antique copper or pewter. The back splash in tiles of fruits and vegetables is a charming look to consider.

"I looked long and hard to find a 2000 sq. ft., cathedral ceiling elegant three-bedroom townhome. (Of course, I could have chosen a two-bedroom ranch). With my own two-car attached garage, my own private basement and patio. And luxury touches like deluxe kitchens and whirlpool tubs plus landscaping that I love. Churchill spikes Salem

Is there another Western Lakes Activities Association volleyball championship in Livonia Churchill's future?

That won't be answered until the league meet on Saturday, Feb. 25, but the Chargers looked ready to defend their title Monday night as they whipped host Plymouth Salem in two games, 15-1 and 15-8.

Churchill improved to 10-0 in the WLAA and 21-3 overall with the crossover victory. The Rocks dropped to 5-5 and 15-10.

'It's a crap shoot when you go to the conference meet," Churchill coach Mike Hughes said. "Salem will play much better. I know they're better than those scores.'

The Chargers could do no wrong Monday in the one-sided contest. Churchill displayed a varied attack that included contributions from spikers Jenny Sproul, Julie Rieder, Carrie Blanchard, Christina Garry and Alyssa Belaire.

CHURCHILL WAS ahead 10-0 in both games before the Rocks could get on the scoreboard. With the exception of a brief period when Salem rallied in the middle of the second game, the Chargers dominated at the

"We blocked as well as we have all year," Hughes said. "We made things difficult for Salem. We haven't had as good a game against anybody else.

It was apparent the Rocks were not on their game from the start when they had trouble receiving Churchill's serves. Belaire served two aces, and Rieder led the hitting attack as the Chargers streaked to an early lead in the opener.

Maria Wordhouse was the only Salem player who was effective in that game. She had several kills and dinks for sideout, but the Rocks couldn't do anything when they served.

"Mike expected us to play tonight, not for us to sit back and let them hit the ball at us," Salem coach Betty

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Maria Wordhouse finds a weakness in the Churchill defense as she lifts the ball over the opposing blockers for one of her successful tips.

Smith said. "We've been doing well, 'Sorry, we didn't show up.'" and I'm sure he didn't expect to come in here and have the first

"Instead of saying 'Nice game,

nice match' afterward, I just said

THE SECOND GAME started out to be a repeat of the first as Churchill scored 10 points on its first six serving rotations. Sproul provided volleyball

much of the offense with her hard spikes and successful blocks.

In addition to Sproul and the other hitters, Hughes wanted to be sure Christy Clark didn't get overlooked as the setter often does

"Everybody sees Sproul because she goes 'boom' at the net, and Rieder blocks well for us," he said. "But you don't hit the ball unless the setter puts the ball where it should

"I tell the kids 'Be nice to the setter, because if you aren't, you might not see the ball until next

After bolting to another big lead, the Chargers hit a snag and scored only one point on their next nine serving rotations.

In the meantime, Salem was making a comeback, cutting Churchill's lead to 12-8. Wordhouse was the catalyst, scoring points or forcing sideouts with more well-placed dinks over the Churchill blockers. Teammates Aimee Rutan and Kolleen Lawrence offered their support at the net in that game, too.

"IN THE FIRST game, Maria showed up. In the second, the others decided to join her," Smith said. "We salvaged a little respect. Maybe we made them sweat a little."

"There's two sides to it - what Salem did right and we did wrong,' Hughes said. "We couldn't cover the tip on the corners. We knew what we should be doing and still couldn't get to the ball.

"But it's easy to say when you're sitting in the chair. It's hard when you're out on the wood.'

The state championships of high school wrestling are familiar territory for Lee Krueger. For Jason Kopcak, it will be a new experience.

Redford Catholic Central's Krueger and Wayne Memorial's Kopcak are two of the 16 wrestlers who will represent Observerland in the Class A finals this weekend at the Kellogg Center in Battle Creek.

The two-day tournament begins with the preliminaries Friday and continues on Saturday when the winners in 13 weight classes will be

Krueger, who won at 198 pounds last year, hopes to make it two straight, but his mission is to win the heavyweight championship in 1989. The 145-pound Kopcak will be making his first trip to state, but he and Krueger share one thing in common.

THEY, AS WELL as the other four Observerland wrestlers who captured regional honors Saturday at Plymouth Canton, will be among the top-seeded wrestlers in their divisions at state. "I expect to do well," Kopcak said. "It depends. If I have a good day, I could go to the top. If I hit my peak at state, I could do real well Krueger was one of four regional winners from CC and one of five headed for state. Matt Helm (130), Jay Helm (140) and Chris Rodriguez (152) prevailed at their weights, too, and teammate Brian Tulley (145) also qualified.

Westland John Glenn's Rob Matigian, who improved his record to 42-0 when he defeated Dean Lanzini of Gibraltar Carlson in the 135-pound title bout, was Observerland's other champion.

Matigian, who has the most victories (123) in school history and owns just about every career record, is in the finals for a third time. Two-time champion Chris Henderson of Lansing Sexton, whom Matigian has never wrestled, looms as his chief competition.

'At the beginning of the season, I wanted to wrestle him," Matigian said. "If I wrestle him, it will be in the finals.

"NOW THAT IT'S so close and I've seen so many upsets, I know it can happen to me, too, and I don't want to look past anybody."

Glenn teammate Dereck Tharp (189), Redford Union's Chris Woodbeck (140) and Plymouth Salem's Steve Burlison (160) were regional runners-

North Farmington heavyweight Zaim Cunmulaj, Livonia Churchill's Darin Dudek (119) and Casey Krause (125), Salem's Ed Barlage (140) and Brian Burlison (171) and Livonia Stevenson's Kurt Will (152) also qualified for state.

"Any of the five could win it," said CC coach Mike Rodriguez of his state qualifiers. "We're down to the core of our team now.

HEY STILL stand out in a crowd. Hard not to. While all three are down from their football playing weight, they are still plenty big. They share other similarities.

During their playing days, they were intimidating in appearance - particularly Dave Houle, a massive 6-foot-4, 285-pound offensive tackle at Michigan State, a man with biceps bigger than almost anyone else's thighs, sporting a Fu-Manchu mustache and crewcut. That's intimidation defined.

Now, Houle and two other former Spartans, Mark Nichols and Jeff Wiska, look like most other young businessmen in their sport coats and ties and neat and trim hairstyles. The only clues to their previous vocations are their stillimposing frames and the rings they HOULE AND Nichols flash huge Rose Bowl rings, from MSU's 1988 championship team. Wiska sports a pair of enormous rings, one advertizing a Big Ten championship, the other commemorating last year's Arena Football title with the Detroit Drive.

But all that's just surface stuff. These are three guys who went to MSU to play football, then get a degree. In that order, Once accom-plished, their first thoughts regarding a career were of pro football, not anything utilizing their classroom education.

All three are trying to readjust to life without football. For different reasons, chances are slim that any of them will ever play again.

It is not an easy transition. "I can't watch it," Nichols said of the game he loves. "I just can't. I keep thinking I should be out there."

HOULE, A GRADUATE of Plymouth Salem, was a project when he arrived at MSU in 1983. According to Nichols, his roommate for two years, Houle didn't weigh 200 pounds as an incoming

Five years later he was a monster on a championship team, with enough potential to be drafted by the New York Giants in the sixth round. But he paid a price for his impressive development. 'I can't do anything," said Houle.

"I can't even run. The motion of my arms hurts my shoulders." Houle then told an amusing deer-hunting story — but not your typical one-that-got-away tale. Seems Houle was trudging through the woods armed with a bow and, sure enough, there was a prime target only a few yards away. He readied his bow, realizing his aching shoulders might prevent him from even drawing the bowstring.

So what happens? "My shoulder popped," Houle said, laughing, "and it was so loud the deer heard it and ran away."

Funny, huh? But when the chuckling subsides and reality sinks in, the humor seems hollow. Injuries have made it almost impossible for this giant of a man to do anything

HIS WEIGHT is down to 255, and would be less if he could exercise. Houle had three shoulder opera-tions (two on the right) while at MSU and, after training camp with the Giants, faces two more (one on

Houle hurt one shoulder, then the other, doing double-duty at center for the Giants after starter Bart Oates was hurt early in camp last summer. When Houle told his coaches he couldn't continue ("I couldn't lift my arms over my head"), they didn't believe him. So

Houle left camp and went to see Dr. Herb Ross, the MSU team doc-

"(Ross) said I couldn't play anymore," said Houle. The Giants still refused to believe him - until three weeks ago, when team scout Tom Boisture called. Boisture said the Giants agreed to pay for any surgery whether Houle returned or not, but if he could, they wanted

Houle paid another visit to Ross, who again recommended retire-ment. When the Giants heard Ross' recommendation, they did an about-face and withdrew their offer to pay for surgery. The matter is destined for litigation.

"It's just amazing the kind of people I'm dealing with," he said. "People just don't believe teams will treat you that way."

AFTER HOULE left the Giants' camp, he said, "It was terrible. The first couple of days I went up to East Lansing and saw my girl friend. But I couldn't just sit there. I had to find something to do. I had been working 14 hours a day, then nothing."

Although he said college coaches 'are trying to reverse it, I think it's still in the players' minds that they're majoring in football." Houle, who got a degree in communications, thought that way. "Football was number one, school number two," he admitted.

Example: The highlight for most college students is graduation day. Not for Houle.

What was important was pro football camp. Houle said that if he had to decide between school and football, he "would have gone to New York and blown off the last two weeks of school" — even if it meant not getting a degree.

Times change. Houle is now in Area teams acquitted themselves quite well Sunday, as Redford Bishop Borgess and Redford Catholic Central each advanced in the Catholic League A-B Division basketball playoffs at the University of Detroit's Caliban Hall.

Borgess pulled off a mild upset against the University of Detroit-Jesuit 55-51, while CC best Central Division rival Harper Woods Notre Dame for the third time this

Both teams will take 10-7 overall records into tonight's semifinals at Calihan. The first game pits CC against Orchard Lake St. Mary's (15-1) at 6:30 p.m., while Borgess meets Detroit Benedictine (14-3) in the nightcap. The final will be at 4 p.m. Sunday

BORGESS PUT ON a defensive clinic and rode a career-high 26-point performance of junior guard Shawn Respert to beat the Cubs, the AA Bracket champions.

Borgess, using a four-corner delay offense to throw U-D off stride, led by as many as 22 points in the first half.

And the Spartans' hawking man-to-man defense limited the Cubs to just 16 first-half pictured ourselves as Villanova against Georgetown (1985 NCAA finals). Our game plan was to slow it down and value every possession," said senior guard Charles North, who chipped in with 14 points.

The patient Borgess offense was complemented by a swarming defense, spearheaded by senior forward Randy White, who always seemed to get in the way.

"WE THOUGHT spreading out our offense was the best way to start," said Borgess coach Mike Fusco. "We also wanted to emphasize playing good defense and make them take shots they're not used to taking.

"We had a good first half, but we got a little tentative against their press at the end of the second quarter and that gave them momentum going into the second half." Borgess led 34-16 at intermission and 42-30 after three quarters.

The Cubs then made a late spurt when guard Walt Winston (15 points) hit a pair of 3-pointers in the final minute to close the gap to 53-50, but Respert, the trigger man for the Borgess offense, sank two key free throws with 24 seconds left to ice the win.

"Shawn had a good offensive game and had a good first step to the basket," said He was able to hide the ball on his hip, and also had a good hesitation fake to get by their defense.

IN THE FINAL game of the all-day extravaganza, CC, the Central Division champ, started slowly but picked up steam to beat the Irish going away.

Senior point guard Terry Boykin spear-headed the win with a game-high 27 points. Three other Shamrocks scored in double figures, including 6-5 senior center Ray Richards, who scored 45. Sophomore forward Steve Whitlow and senior guard Jeff Schaner each contributed 11.

But it was Boykin's play which shook the cobwebs loose from the Shamrocks, who started lethargically.

"Terry took over a little today," said CC coach Bernie Holowicki. "He wanted the ball more. He's taking charge more and more. He really handled it (the ball) and shot

Not long after Redford St. Agatha bounced Flint Holy Rosary, 56-45, in a Catholic League C-D Division semifinal game, the teams nearly exchanged punches instead of the traditional handshake at half-court.

Monday's game at the University of Detroit's Calihan Hall was the last for Rosary in the Catholic League, and it's safe to say neither team will miss the other's company. Rosary is dropping out of the Catholic League to play an independent schedule beginning next year.

"We just don't like them," Agatha guard Matt Haran said. "We didn't want to see them leave (the league) with a football and basketball title. and I'm glad it was us who stopped

"This is their last game in the Catholic League, and as far as I'm concerned, it's the greatest thing that could have happened," Agatha coach Jim Murphy said. "After the game, he (Rosary coach John Maciak) didn't want to shake my hand. I thought all coaches were supposed to be comrades, not bitter enemies."

Agatha outscored Rosary 8-0 at the start of the second half. Six they increased the lead to nine, 41-

Spartans edge crosstown foe in non-league cage encounter

Scott Kosikowski scored only seven points, but it was his threepointer with only 34 seconds left which proved to be the difference Tuesday as Livonia Stevenson downed city rival Franklin in a non-league boys basketball encounter, 59-58.

The two teams will meet again tonight at Stevenson in the first round of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoff. Game time is 7:30.

Kosikowski, whose three-pointer in the final seconds last week helped Stevenson upset WLAA-Lakes Division champion Plymouth Salem, gave the Spartans a 59-56 lead with the shot.

But Franklin's Roy Hall answered with a basket off the fast-break.

The Patriots then had a chance to win it after forcing a Stevenson turnover, but failed to convert a desperation attempt in the final

Junior guard Ron Baran paced a balanced Stevenson attack with 13 points. Senior forward Chris Nazelli and senior guard Eric Schwedt added 11 and 10, respectively. Glenn Szeman, a 6-foot-8 junior center, contributed nine.

Both teams are 13-4 on the season. Robbie Rahbarri and Dave Best led the Roughriders with 17 and 15 points,

A high school volleyball match made in heaven?

Well, not quite, but the finals of Saturday's the Schoolcraft College pitted the state's top two ranked teams in Class A.

And the No. 1 spot this week be-longs to East Kentwood, which rallied to beat the previous top dog, Temperance-Bedford, in three games, 12-15, 16-14, 15-8. (See statistical summary.)

Thirty schools, including 12 from Observerland, started pool play action at 9 a.m. The extravaganza did not finish until nearly 13½ hours lat-

"You never mind going home late because that means you're in it," said East Kentwood coach Bud Cole. "Either team could have won this match. It just depends which side the ball falls on that particular day. The kids came back well. When they were behind they showed a lot of courage.

Bedford (44-4) had beaten East Kentwood (51-4) earlier in the season at the Portage Invitational. The two teams had also split.

STARTING ONLY one senior, it appears that East Kentwood can only get better.

The Falcons eliminated Livonia Stevenson (15-2, 15-1) in the quarterfinals and Detroit Henry Ford in the semifinals (15-8, 15-6).

Leading the way for East Kentwood were juniors Amy Westhouses side hitter Peggy Knittel, who sat and Kerri Kuiper, along with Jane out the tourney with a knee injury. the state.

"We did some things better this time against Bedford," said Cole, whose team finished second in the state tourney in 1983. "We blocked and passed well, because if you don't, you'll be out of it real early. "We needed this. The kids are really fired up."

The tournament's most surprising team was Wayne Memorial, which reached the semifinals before losing to Bedford, 15-8, 15-13.

Wayne qualified for the semifinals by defeating Livonia Churchill for the second time this season, 15-13, 8-

"I'm very pleased. This was fan-tastic," said Wayne coach Ann Kolnitys. "We had just hoped to get out of our pool and make a good showing against a big team. We did everything I hoped for . . . and more for a team not ranked."

WAYNE, currently unbeaten in the Wolverine A League and 26-6 overall, was sparked by junior Tiffany Goodlow, who made several key blocks against Churchill; and senior setter Nicole Fisher, who was a standout against Bedford.

"We blocked well and served well. That was the key," Kolnitys said. "Tiffany is starting to slam the ball home and Fisher was very good to-

Defending state Class A and Schoolcraft champion Livonia Ladywood lost a tough three-game match to Bedford in the quarterfinals, 14-16, 15-11, 15-13.

"She (Knittel) gives us a varied attack and gives us the consistency," said Ladywood coach Tom Teeters, whose team is 31-4 overall. "We missed her passing, but we did all right considering she was out.

But the Blazers' Stacey Girard was a model of consistency, especially with her passing and defensive play. Teammate Stacey Girard, who recently committed to Western Michigan University, was the Blazers' top hitter.

CHURCHILL may have run out of gas against Wayne after surviving a tough pool, which included the likes of Madison Height Bishop Foley, Farmington Hills Mercy, North Farmington and Dearborn Edsel Ford.

The Chargers, led by the allaround play of Jenny Sproul and Christy Clark, finished 7-1 in pool

"It was by far the most difficult pool," said Churchill coach Mike Hughes. "We got pooped out the last game against Wayne and couldn't pass the ball, but the kids played very well all day and I was pleased.

Stevenson tied Henry Ford for the best record on Court No. 2, while Bedford and Harper Woods Regina tied on Court V - all sporting 7-1 records.

Amy Sallow contributed a spike kill for sideout during Salem's rally midway in the second game Monday.

Rocks just miss tourney playoffs

Close wasn't good enough for the Plymouth Salem volleyball team Saturday.

The Rocks missed the playoffs of Trenton's tournament by one point and took an early exit. In its final pool-play match, Salem had a 14-7 lead over Saline in the first game but ended up losing 14-16. "The bottom fell out," Salem coach Betty Smith said. "One point cost us first place in the pool. One point and we couldn't get it."

The Rocks won the second game 15-7 and finished 5-3 in pool play. Had they won the first game, too, the Rocks would have tied Birmingham Seaholm with 6-2 records and been the top seed since they had defeated the Maples. Instead, Seaholm and Clawson moved on to the playoffs.

Salem beat Dearborn (15-2, 16-14) in its first match, lost to Clawson (6-15, 2-15) and edged Seaholm (16-14,

The Rocks were minus their top two setters, and Aimee Rutan filled the void. Candy Woitas was ill, and backup Jo Wiklund was taking a college entrance exam.

She took on a real heavy burden and made the most of it," Smith said. Kaori Saga was 26-of-26 serving with four aces. Wordhouse and Motoyama led the defense with 24 and North Farmington might not have been at its volleyball best Monday night, but the Raiders were good enough to take a three-game victory from Northville.

Catholic League final puts rivals on opposite sides

Farmington Hills Mercy and Livonia Ladywood advanced to the finals of the Catholic League volleyball playoffs. (Results will appear in Monday's Ladywood (33-4 overall), the regular-season Central-Division champions, beat Allen Park Cabrini 15-4, 15-3, in the quarterfinals and surprised Redford Bishop Borgess, 15-4, 15-5, in the semifinals Monday to advance. The matches were played at Dearborn Divine Child.

Playing at Madison Heights Bishop Foley Monday, Mercy (25-9) defeated

Southgate Aquinas 15-6, 15-11 in the quarterfinals and Harper Woods Regina, 16-14, 5-15 and 15-8 in the semifinals.

LADYWOOD, the defending Class A champions, will be favored tonight, but Mercy coach Tim DeBeliso is looking forward to the challenge. The Marlins have lost the previous two meetings against the Blazers. "We're going to have to play our best, they're a fine team and peaking," DeBeliso said. "It looks like they're at the top of their game and we haven't beaten them — not too many teams have. "If we can challenge them defensively we've got a chance. If we hit free balls or have trouble passing it could be a long night for us."

As Monday's scores indicated, Ladywood wasn't tested much during the quarterfinals or semifinals.

Dana Domanski led the Blazers with eight digs, and Katie Farkas had nine straight serves against Borgess. Kari Domanski led Ladywood with four solo blocks. Kari Domanski had 20 assists for kills in the two matches The Blazers are starting to improve in serve reception, coach Tom Teeters said, as Janice Konczal had no errors in six attempts.

"LADYWOOD PLAYED an outstanding match," Borgess coach Jerry Abraham said. "They did things against us to take us out of our game. They had a better team yesterday.'

Mercy had a tougher time of it, though the Marlins breezed through the quarterfinals over Cabrini. Jennifer Goff and Becky Leddy had five kills: each in the win over Cabrini, but the Marlins were pressed to the limit in the

Mercy trailed 14-10 in Game No. 1, but Maureen Paulin served the last six points for the win. Goff again sparkled, getting 12 attacks in 37 attempts for a .324 percentage. Nikki Burns had 25 assists in the match for an 8.3 average, and DeBeliso praised the play of middle hitters Lee Albrecht and Pam

"Both did an excellent job in terms of blocking and running the middle attack effectively when we needed it," DeBeliso said. "Most of our scoring came from the outside, but Lee and Pam blocked well enough to keep their big hitters off our outside attackers."

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN blasted Plymouth Canton 15-11, 15-7 Monday in a Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division matchup. The Rockets improved to 4-3 in the Lakes, 6-5 overall.

The Chiefs recorded only 11 kills in the match, and had 14 service errors. Coach Allie Suffety can't remember any performances as poor as that.

"We really played very poorly," he said. "It was a terrible performance — that's the best way to explain it. We didn't have a good attitude. The kids figured John Glenn would be real tough and we weren't going to win no. matter what we did."

Shannon Meath led Canton with four kills and Alyssa Huth had nine assists. The Chiefs collected only two service aces, with one going to Susan Ferko. and the other going to Karen Keenan.

and at this stage of the game they have it pretty well together.

Matt Helm was second at 126 last year, Rodriguez fourth at 145 and Cunmulaj fifth at 198. Jay Helm, Woodbeck, Matigian, Will and Steve Burlison also are veterans of state competition, though they didn't place

"I'M HOPING ALL three are going with the idea of doing something because they're capable," said Salem coach Ron Krueger, who also will have his son, Lee, to cheer on. "Steve was there as a sophomore, and this year he wants to get some hardware.

"Having been there helps. That's why my son has so much success. When he was a little kid, he went every year with us and sat on the first-aid box. When he got there himself, it was no big deal; he'd been there."

Lee Krueger defied the critics a second straight Saturday when he won the regional title, defeating a much bigger opponent, Paul Nowicki of Romulus, 8-1.

Krueger literally had to wrestle and thus prove his skill to win the heavyweight division. He won both of his earlier matches in overtime, beating Carlson's Mike Mayville 7-4 and Lincoln Park's Tony Ruehle with a 2-2, "I stayed inside of (Nowicki) and didn't let him lock up to throw me," said Krueger of his strategy in negating his opponent's size ad-

Krueger rates as one of the favorites along with Scott Brotherton of Clio, who was runner-up to Krueger's former teammate, Toby Heaton, at heavyweight last year.

"T'VE WRESTLED all the best," said Krueger, who is 42-2-1 and has tied Brother-'I'm confident but I know I'll have to wrestle. I think beating the Romulus kid gave me a lot of confidence.

"He hasn't received the due credit he deserves," Rodriguez said. "I guess, when it comes down to it, his talents will come out.

"People thought because of his size and moving up he couldn't handle it, but he's been doing well all year."

Matt Helm, who eked out a 3-2 decision over Temperance Bedford's Drew Wing, and No. 1-ranked Brad Smith of Davison are the 130-pound favorites. Helm hopes to avenge the memory of last year's emotional loss to Royal Oak Kimball's Jeff Bedard.

In the only regional final pitting two Ob-serverland wrestlers, Jay Helm won an 11-4 decision over Woodbeck in a match that included some controversy.

Helm lifted Woodbeck and took him to the mat for a legal takedown, but the official called the RU wrestler for an illegal slam when he did the same later. The call brought an negative response from the crowd. Instead of a possible five points that would have nar-rowed the score, Woodbeck got nothing. "IT WAS KINDA close when Jay took him down," Rodriguez said. "If I'd been the offi-cial, I might have called a slam.

"The reason he didn't call it (against Helm) was because (Woodbeck) went instantly to his back. In Woodbeck's case, it looks more like a slam when you don't take him right to his

RU coach Jeff Fagan said the officiating was inconsistent on that point, and there was no intent on the part of Woodbeck to hurt his opponent. He added the call didn't directly affect the outcome, and he was pleased to see Woodbeck improve upon the technicall fall (18-2) his CC rival scored in the district final.

"He came back and wrestled tougher against Helm and that's good," Fagan said.
"He gets another shot at him, and that's all I'm concerned about.

"Chris has a lot less match experience, and he was just going to go for takedowns. Helm is a tough kid, and I don't know if (Woodbeck) could have held him on his back. (Helm) de-

Rodriguez, who also won a one-point decision in the final, hopes to follow in the footsteps of older brothers Steve and Dave, who won state championships in 1971 and 1974, respectively.

"Having to live with the pressure of being the younger brother and son of the coach, he's handled it all pretty well," the elder Rodriguez said. "Ever since he was little, I told him Don't expect any favors or anybody to love you because of your brothers."

Will, who needs one victory at state to become the first Stevenson wrestler to reach 100 during a career, made a comeback after finishing fourth in the district.

He lost a 7-6 decision to Romulus' Ricky Champagne to start the day but won three straight in the consolation round and finished

With two seconds left in the first match, Will scored a two-point reversal that would have won it, but the official claimed he made a bad decision, according to Stevenson coach Don Berg, and took away the points.

Will also overcame a blow to the nose in the consolation semis to win that bout and the ensuing clash for third place with a pair of deciwrestling

Cunmulaj gets OK to compete at state

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Zaim Cunmulaj got some good news this week when he was given the OK to compete in the state wrestling championships Friday and Sat-

North Farmington's heavyweight had to withdraw from the consolation final in the regional tournament when he stretched the ligaments in his left knee.

Cunmulaj was ahead on points 2-1 in his match with Roman Rimmer of Temperance Bedford when he suffered the injury.

He had to settle for fourth place but still qualified for the Class A finals in Battle Creek. The only question was whether or not he'd be able to wrestle.

"I didn't want to ruin him," said North coach Dick Cook, who had to convince a determined Cunmulaj it was in his best interest to consider the upcoming finals and pull out.

"IT ISN'T WORTH the kid's knee. He's got college coaches who want him. Even if he doesn't place in the state, he's going to go somewhere."

Cunmulaj, 33-4, was fifth among 198-pounders last year. As a heavy-weight, he's in one of the most competitive divisions.

The field includes Redford Catholic Central's Lee Krueger, the district and regional champ who won the 198 title a year ago; Clio's Scott Brotherton and Romulus' Paul Nowicki, who were second and fourth among heavyweights in 1988; and Traverse City's Mike Nadlicki, who was sixth at 198.

Plymouth Canton scored 128.85 points Friday, winning a three-team gymistics meet hosted by Freeland.

Freeland placed second at 126.45 and Vassar was third with 125.05 points.

Freeland's Kristie Kelly won the all-around with 35.95 points and Vassar's Jo Hall was second, but Canton's depth was the deciding factor.

Canton's Johanna Anderson, who tied for third in the vault (8.3) and was second on the beam (8.35), was third in the all-around with 32.85 points.

Dawn Clifford (32.35) and Heather Murphy (32.20) were fourth and fifth, respectively, for the Chiefs.

"Jo Hall and Kristie Kelly were very superior, but (the other teams) didn't have enough depth," Canton coach John Cunningham said.

Canton's Anais Yoon didn't finish among the top all-around performers, but she recorded a fine 8.15 on the beam, earning third place in that event.

Canton's strongest event might have been floor exercise, where Murphy (8.4), Anderson (8.35) and Clifford (8.3) finished third, fourth and fifth, respectively.

On the bars, Clifford (8.25), Murphy (8.15) and Anderson (7.85) were fourth, fifth, and sixth, respectively.

Here's correct way to check heart rate

Dear Myrna: I am a new exerciser. I use the treadmill, and sametimes I attend aerobics class. I know about checking your heart rate, the formula and all that. I'm not quite sure about the procedure to do it properly. Where exactly do you put your fingertips? Can you tell

There is a right way and a wrong way of taking your pulse. So many exercisers have problems with it. It is difficult to take your own pulse and be accurate, especially in an exercise class.

Let's start with the correct procedure:

• Locate your pulse just under the corner of your jawbone with your middle three fingers. This is called the carotid artery. Do this while you are still exercising. When you stop you will be ready to get a more accurate count.

· Watch the clock so that you can stop exercising at a time that allows you to start counting immediately.

• Count your pulse for six seconds (some experts say 10 seconds and multiply by six) and multiply by 10 for your heart rate in beats per minute. I recommend a six-second count because your heart rate does not have a chance to decrease; therefore it stays at a more

 If you get distracted, start exercising again for three to four minutes to bring your heart rate back up to your high intensity. Don't worry, this will not hurt you.

Here are some things not to do when taking heart rates: Don't press down too hard on your carotid artery. This artery contains pressure sensitive baroreceptors. When the artery is pressed by the pressure of fingers, these receptors send a signal to your brain to slow the heart rate. You will not get an accurate reading.

. Don't delay taking your heart rate. Remember to begin to count as you take your last aerobic step. The heart rate drops rapidly after

If you find it frustrating sometimes, don't worry. As you exercise more, you will learn more about your body and how it feels during exercise. You will have a mental gauge that will tell you when you're expecting too much or not enough.

Incidentally, check your treadmill. It might have a device to monitor your heart rate as you exercise. If you are really concerned about your heart rate for medical reasons, you can purchase an electronic pulse monitor in your local sporting goods store.

It's good to know you are anxious to be in touch with your health.

NICHOLS' EXPERIENCES are strikingly similar to Houle's. A Bloomfield Hills native who graduated from Birmingham Brother Rice in 1983, the defensive tackle came to MSU weighing 208 pounds. He bulked up to 265 as a senior and was drafted in the eighth round by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

But injuries ruined Nichols' chances, too. "I was in real good shape when I went to camp," he said. "But then we started running and my shins started bothering me. And then u getting burners every hit I

Both were a reccurence of previous ailments. The burners - pinched nerves in his neck - were more serious. Nichols has been plagued by a cervical disc problem since he start-ed playing at MSU. The more severe attacks would burn, then numb one side of his body. "Tve had my body put back to-gether more than once," he said (he has also had two shoulder operations). "But when you start having neck problems, that's scary. There comes a point when you say, 'Hey, am: I doing the most intelligent

NICHOLS DECIDED continuing to ay wasn't too smart. He left Pittsburgh's training camp after just two days. "It was a bummer," he said. "I went through quite a dry spell. I went out and looked for a job."

What was he trained for? His degree" was in communications, but when I went to State, I was on a mission to play pro football."

The difficulty adjusting to civilian life was about what you'd expect for a guy like Nichols, who relied on emotional intensity to succeed. He currently sells mortgages for First Security Savings.

'I don't get to hit anybody here," he said. "You can laugh, but in football you get to take out your aggressions. Suddenly, you can't do that anymore."

WISKA'S STORY is different. In-deed, as he described it, "My story's written. I've got nothing left to

A Farmington Hills native, he came out of Detroit Catholic Central in 1978. By 1982, he had played on a Big Ten championship team (MSU was on probation and did not go to the Rose Bowl) and in a couple of college all-star games. He was drafted by the Giants, but injuries sidelin-

Wiska resurfaced with the Michigan Panthers in the USFL. He stuck with them when they moved to Oakland. After the team folded, he played with the Cleveland Browns and, during the NFL strike, with the Miami Dolphins. His final profeswas last year with the Drive, a decision that earned him a championship ring.

"It's a dream," Wiska said of playing pro ball. "But after a year or so, your perspective changes. In the business world, you're building toward a future. In athletics, it's almost the opposite." In business, as a worker ages his value increases with experience; in sports, as an athlete ages his skills diminish and, ultimately, so does his

"NO MATTER how great an athlete you are, there comes a day when you've got to go out in the real world," said Wiska. "It's time to use Wiska's time has come. He is now ed as a sales representative for Ez-Lift Doors, and he likes it. "I was ultra-motivated to play foot-hall," he said. "I never was for any-thing else, until this job."

All three former Spartans share the belief that football served as a great teacher. "Nothing I ever did in school academically prepared me as well (for the working world)," claimed Nichols. "I wouldn't trade it for anything. People don't realize the preparation, the discipline that goes into football. I think the working world is a lot easier."

Houle: "If it wasn't for sports, I don't know if I would have gone to Wiska: "Football is like getting a doctorate in success. The lessons, the discipline you learn are ingrained in your mind for the rest of your life. That's your edge right there."

Camp includes area cyclist

Mike Ventola of Plymouth was among a select group of cyclists from across the country who participated in an elite cycling camp at the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs.

Ventola, 22, has been competing for three years and is a member of the Wolverine Sports Club.

Competing for Michigan State University, where he is president of the campus cycling club, Ventola placed first at the National Collegiate Track Championships in the team pursuit race and fourth in the points race this

The camp Ventola attended from Jan. 16 through Feb. 3, was fitness oriented with 40 to 45 hours of aerobic training per week. The cyclists participated in turbo training, road racing, soccer, weight training, frisbee, football

The camp also served as a selection process for the Tour of Morocco, an upcoming, 15-day stage race. Six riders were to be chosen,
