Fate of 2 Plymouth landmarks uncerta

downtown One venerable landmark, the Grange, may be sold and the site incorporated in a condominium project, and another, Cloverdale Farms Dairy on Forest, is up for sale

The dairy, which has been dishing out ice cream in Plymouth for more than 40 years, is going for $800,000 and is listed with the Patrician Group, Inc., Plymouth.

Owner Joyce Kallos plans to retire, and is looking for someone who will preserve the history and integrity of the name.

"It requires somebody that will take an active interest and presence in the store," said Kallos.

Keeping the store's 30 employees in their present positions is also a plus, she said.

The Plymouth store is one of two traditional Cloverdale dairy stores, although the ice cream is sold at various markets.

"The response has been tremendous," said Pat Pulkownik, a broker. 'We share Joyce's interest in maintaining the Cloverdale presence in Plymouth."

The store in Northville is the only other Cloverdale Farms store that still exists. It is not for sale.

Kallos' first husband, Jim Tomlin-son, a plant manager, became coowner with co-worker Tony Gonzalez in 1974 when owner Herman Bakhaus retired. Tomlinson in turn bought out Gonzalez. The business then passed to Joyce and sons Jim Jr. and Bob.

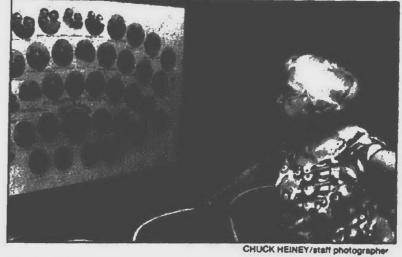

Nearby, Jack Wilcox, owner of a historic house overlooking Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth, is developing the condominium project with the Marcello and Silvio Building Company.

When that occurs, the Plymouth Grange may sell its building, Grange officials said. "It won't fit in," said Wilcox of the Grange structure in relation to the proposed development, Site plans have not yet been submitted.

"The Grange will definitely continue," said Louise Tritten, the outgoing master of the Grange. "The

A drug bust in which undercover officers nabbed three men trying to sell five ounces heroin at Westland Center is more proof to police that the drug is making a comeback.

"Five ounces is not a street dealer," said Detective Lt. Jack Gruska of the Western Wayne Drug Enforcement undercover team based in Can-

"It would be considered a supplier," Gruska said. "This is one of our biggest heroin busts."

THE THREE men arrested, a 22year-old Livonia man, a 22-year-old Dearborn man and a 19-year-old Dearborn Heights man, were charged with possession with intent to deliver more than 50 grams of heroin, which carries a term of 5-20 years in prison.

Police believed it was going to be a very cheap buy considering heroin normally sells for $700 a gram and $10,000-$12,000 an ounce.

However, the purity of the heroin bought in Westland was unknown late last week, Gruska said. After the arrests, police seized Gruska said he has never seen local undercover drug officers buy that much heroin during one bust. A search was conducted at a Dearborn home. However, no drugs were found.

The arrests were made by the enforcement team and the men were taken to the Westland Police. Arraignment was planned for noon Saturday.

The investigation began in a Can-made involving four ounces of cocaine valued at $3,000. Through that arrest introductions were made to the men dealing heroin, Gruska said. UNDERCOVER OFFICERS ini-

Kids can't get enough Nintendo

By Susan Buck staff writer

Whether it's Bayou Billy, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles or Hoops, young video game enthusiasts in Canton and Plymouth are spending more and more time with Nintendo on their minds.

If you're a kid, you're out of it in some circles if you don't own a Nintendo Entertainment System.

But it doesn't just stop at that. Accompanying gadgets are necessary, as well as subscriptions to various Nintendo strategy magazines, which, in turn, tell Nintendo buffs months ahead of time which cartridges and products will be on the market.

Toys R Us lists 210 cartridges; one-third or more still aren't available in the store.

State to finance fence at hospital

staff writer

Michigan's now mental health budget will pay for a fence around the state hospital at Northville, more services for suburban Chaldeans and Arabs, and research on treating crack cocaine users.

"It continues the trend to putting more money into community ser-vices and less into institutions," said Thomas D. Watkins Jr., Department of Mental Health director since 1987.

The budget is due for passage by the state Legislature this week after a six-member joint conference committee spent a full day ironing out differences between House and Senate versions.

THE FENCE around the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital was a victory for Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, a member of the conference committee. Geake had the $50,000 item inserted during the middle of the session.

"The purpose is so that patients don't walk away. About two a day, or Charter Commission in 1980-81.

600 a year, walk away," said Geake, noting the hospital grounds are fenced on three sides but not on Seven Mile.

"It's less than that," Watkins said, "but it's an ongoing concern. We don't want it to look like a minimum security prison. But it (the fence) should not be obtrusive."

"I don't have any problem with it," said Rep. Joe Young Sr., D-Detroit, chair of the conference committee

While legislative passage is al-most assured, Gov. James Blanchard could use his line-item veto on the fence. Watkins wasn't enthused about the fence but made it clear he respects the political problem of Geake, who chairs the mental health appropriations subcommittee in the Senate. Once a Detroit city official, Watkins now lives in Northville Township. He served on the Wayne County

THE NEW budget will take $878 million from the general fund which, with federal grants, will put $1.2 bil-lion into state hospitals and community care programs in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

New budget sets $50,000 for cost

State employment will drop by 148 through attrition, with many coming from the Northville facility. "When I came in '83," Watkins said, "Northville had 1,200 patients.

Now it's down to 700 patients. 'At the same time, we have more staff - psychiatrists and social workers - and got the hospital reaccredited."

Outstate, two facilities will be closed down entirely.

CONFEREES AGREED with a Senate amendment to add $250,000 to the Chaldean-Arab program, which Blanchard and the House had financed at $500,000.

Watkins said the $750,000 has two parts - one for Chaldeans in the

Southfield-Farmington area, the other for Arabs in the Dearborn area

"It's counseling and outpatient services, and it overcomes language and cultural barriers," he said. "We already have programs for Hispanics and Native Americans, who otherwise would tend not to come into our system."

WAYNE STATE University will get $100,000 for research on treatment of crack cocaine users.

"Many patients come in dually diagnosed - mental illness and substance abuse," Watkins said. "It's a very serious problem. People don't come to us in neat packages. "Wayne State will identify and develop programs and services."

"I'd rather see 'em treated," said Sen. Joe Conroy, D-Flint.

"They don't know how to treat 'em," chairman Young replied.

IN A MAJOR compromise, the conference agreed on $12 million to treat some mentally ill patients who had been given minimal care in nursing homes. With federal money, the total program will be $25 million, Watkins said.

The controversial change is re-quired under the federal Omnibus adget Reconciliation Act, which Watkins described as "good public policy."

The Blanchard administration's plans to close two hospitals caused political controversies outstate, where they are major employers in small towns. But the trend will con-

Blanchard estimates the cost of a state hospital at an average of $88,000 per bed - even more for mentally ill children. The new budget will aid parents who care for mentally retarded and developmentally disabled children at home.

In 1960, state institutions housed nearly 20,000 patients. In the current year, the number is expected to drop below the 5,000 mark.

Canton Township will unveil its new model this fall. The look will be upscale, rural, but with fewer farms.

That's what Canton officials envision for the undeveloped western portion of the township. They will be unveiling that vision at a public hearing on the township's master zoning plan at hearings set for this fall.

The public will be able to comment on the plan at those hearings. A date hasn't been scheduled.

Also, Canton will review its ordinances that put the enforcement teeth in the master plan. A hearing on those ordinances will be held at 7 p.m. Aug. 21 at Canton Township Hall.

THE MASTER plan calls for massive changes in agricultural zoning, said Tom Yack, Canton township supervisor.

"We needed to go through and change all the agricultural zoning to a zoning that made more sense for the community," he said.

endangered species in Canton, buyers of upscale houses may be migrating west to take their place.

Most farmers are west of the Ford

Road-Canton Center intersection, which divides developed eastern Canton from the pretty much undeveloped western portion.

Landowners have been fighting western Canton from being developed, and they may have won a partial victory.

FOR NOW the new master plan calls for limited development, said Dave Nicholson, community and economic development director.

The intent is there will be no commercial (development) west of Canton Center Road," Yack said. -'Keep it residential, larger lots, more country atmosphere, more upscale housing, hopefully." The Canton board of trustees and the planning commission "have taken a realistic perspective and decided to take a reasonable plan of development," Nicholson said.

THE PROPOSED plan calls for one or two houses per acre to attract upscale housing. The goal is to satisfy residents who live in $150,000 houses and want something bigger, Yack said.

"Those are the kind of people we'd But while farmers may become an like to keep," Yack said.

Farming is a "vanishing way of life in this community," Nicholson said.

And it will keep fading, Nicholson said, but township officials want to preserve a rural flavor in the area by keeping the two Ford roads separate in character.

LAND BEHIND development lin-ing Canton Center between Ford and Warren roads abutting the Carriage Hills subdivision is another major concern of Canton trustees and planning commissioners.

In fact, deciding what to do with that land has been a road block in writing the new master plan.

"They (planning commissioners) would like to find a use homeowners would like," Nicholson said.

Office buildings were sought. However, developers say the area isn't suited for that use.

ONE CONSIDERATION is that Wayne County has plans to widen Canton Center to five lanes between Ford and Warren roads.

Zoning prime land along I-275 is an area township officials said they want to take special care in develop-

Likely it will be used for offices, restaurants, hotels and motels. Ideally it would include a regional shopping mall like Fairlane and Westland, Nicholson said.

"I think there's a lot of interest in that being a reality in the community," he said.

New consortium director is off to enthusiastic start

By Janice Brunson di writer

Twenty-three-year-old Daniel P. Gilmartin, the new executive director of the Conference of Western Wayne, said he may be "short" in years and experience for the new job, but not in commitment.

"I am very committed to the public sector and government work," he said during a recent interview in spartan offices decorated with a pair of plants and a solitary map of projected county road improvements.

The CWW, a consortium of 17 communities in western Wayne County that tackles municipal issues and assists in seeking common solutions, has maintained offices since its founding in 1980.

And now Gilmartin, in his first professional job since graduating from college last May, is responsible for "setting the tone" for conference members. Gilmartin replaced Anne Bollin, who resigned after the birth of her child

Gilmartin said his feet are already wet In mid; July, the Livonia resident, attended his first monthly conference meeting of representatives from each of the 17 member communities. Action included an ambitious resolution calling for a 50 percent reduction in the county's waste stream within the next five years.

SOLID WASTE management is the issue of the moment for the conference, according to Gilmartin, who said a standing committee of community experts and concerned citi-zens has been formed and a new coordinator, Sanford Altschul, has been hired.

"We have been in the researchand information-gathering stage. Now we're moving into the doing stage," including designing new re-cycling and composting programs and expanding public education.

"There's an answer out there (for disposal). We don't have it yet, but 'I'm asked daily, "What direction am I headed? When am I going to run for something?" |

new CWW director

we're working on it," Gilmartin said, adding, "with 17 communities, you get 17 ideas."

Conference members have also responded to the county's proposed five-year solid waste plan, attending a regular meeting of the county-appointed Solid Waste Implementation

Committee. Before recommendations can be implemented, the plan must first be approved by two-thirds of the 43 municipalities in Wayne County. The conference, with 17 members, carries significant weight in the approval process. "Committee members showed signs of coming around to our point of view," Gilmartin said of conference input to members on the implementation committee.

Other issues of concern include emergency medical telephone ser-vice, accurate community counts during the 1990 census, personnel issues and economic develo oment.

"The thing we do best is provide intra-local resources. We do the leg work. Then it's up to the commu ty," he said.

"I'M ASKED daily, 'What direc-tion am I headed? When am I going to run for something?' I chuckle and tell them what I want to do now is this job to the best of my ability."

The questions are reasonable. Susan Heintz once directed the conference. She is now a Wayne County commissioner, representing the cities of Plymouth, Livonia and Northville and the townships of Plymouth and Northville.

A college student less than two months ago, Gilmartin graduated from the University of Michigan-Dearborn with a degree in econom-Gilmartin also has been involved in nonpartisan politics, volunteering for Robert Bennett and Joan McCotter in successful bids for the Livonia City Council.

The youngest of three children and an only son, Gilmartin said he was raised in a community-minded family. Father Dan, now retired, once served as the state's racing commissioner, is a former editor of the Livonia Observer newspaper and for 14 years was the community's industrial coordinator.

Young Gilmartin said, "I really wanted this job and I let them know it. I think I came across as very sincere."

Gilmartin is paid $12 per hour. His salary is paid by member communities that are assessed dues based on population. The conference also receives funds from public and private grants.

ARTHRITIS & WHEELCHAIRS

In previous columns, I have discussed the use of crutches, canes and walkers, but not wheelchairs. The reason is that for persons with arthritis, there is little place for wheelchairs.

A wheelchair is acceptable for someone with arthritis, if the chair is stored in the trunk of a car between uses. The point is that the person can use a wheelchair if doing so will allow movement into the wider world of shops, stadiums, and theatres.

But once that activity is done, and the person returns to the home and daily recreations, then use of a wheelchair must be avoided to the point of being prohibited. Keep the wheelchair locked up! If a person depends on a wheelchair daily, then the joints will not ache.

However, such use inevitably results in frozen hips and knees, so that the convenient wheelchair becomes a necessity and limbs are frozen in a flexed position. Manuevering into a car or a bed becomes impossible. The impaired individual becomes a cripple.

The worse the arthritis the greater the need to keep walking. Only walking will keep the lungs, heart, muscles, and state of mind fit for active living

Mortgage on Your Terms

The Lifetime Convertible ARM with a Flexible Loan Term.

At Standard Federal, we know that it's important for you to find a mortgage you can live with. That's why we offer a flexible loan term on our Lifetime Convertible Adjustable-Rate Mortgages.

We make your dream of owning a home easier to accomplish because you choose the exact mortgage loan term that best suits your needs - from five to 30 years. And, you'll be able to start out at a lower initial interest rate and a lower initial monthly payment when compared to a fixed-rate loan of a similar term.

With a Standard Federal ARM, you can convert your adjustable-rate loan to a fixed-rate loan. Unlike many other lenders, we allow you to convert anytime during the term of your loan.

What's more, all of our mortgage loan programs feature our exclusive ExpressLoan service which allows you to process and close your loan in as little as 15 days.

The Lifetime Convertible Adjustable-Rate Mortgage. Get it at Standard Federal.... your home loan expert.

*This annual percentage rate is calculated based on a 2% loan discount lee a loan amount of $50,000 a 20% down payment and initial monthly principal and interest payments of $485.07 for a 15 year loan. The estimated Annual Percentage Rate is subject to increase or decrease on an annual basis after the loan is closed based on the formula set forth in the loan contract. The initial interest rate will be in effect for the linit year of the loan and is not calculated based on the formula. There is a 2% annual and the lifetime interest rate cap. Salt seeps into diet many ways

ON'T procrastinate when the doctor gives the ultimatum "Cut out the salt." Just stop using it. Sounds easier said than done, eh?

Reducing or even eliminating salt from our daily routine can be as traumatic for some as quitting smoking is for others. We've all heard many times that the desire for sait is a learned one and luckily, can be unlearned, but not without a major change in culinary habits.

While flying to Chicago last month to visit the National Restaurant Show, I sat next to a nutritionist who was commenting on the three-packets of salt she received with her luncheon tray consisting of a miniscule sandwich and about two tablespoons of potato salad. She commented on the three packets, served in addition to the salted peanuts and the high sodium tomato juice that accompanied her Bloody Mary.

I commented that she was beginning to sound like Euell Gibbons' daughter when she asked "How much salt do you use in one day?" I slid under the seat, somewhere between my briefcase and duffle bag, trying to pretend that I didn't hear the question. She repeated it. I sank a little further.

While the trays were being collected and I felt the landing gear being lowered, she suggested that the next time I spend a day in the kitchen, I cover everything first with a small sheet of waxed paper, then salt the dish as I would if it contained food. OK, we shook on it, I forgot about it (as usual) and went on with my life.

Until yesterday.

Now you have to understand that I seldom indulge in a big breakfast, mainly because in the past I have indulged too much on other things. It was a cool morning and I decided to make a small omelette. As I added the butter (salted) to the frypan and beat the eggs, my conscience resurfaced with the remembrance of that promise. It just so happened that I would be spending a great part of the day in the kitchen so, "let's experiment" was my response to my conscience.

Out came the waxed paper and an empty small yogurt container to hold the forbidden substance.

By the time breakfast was over, I tallied not only the table salt that was shook on but decided to go one step further and include the individual serving amounts from the food I ate during the course of the day.

Add another 45 milligrams of sodium from the butter.

After doing the breakfast dishes, I made a batch of muffins from the blueberries that were beginning to soften in the fridge. And while the muffins were baking, I started a batch of tabouli. Oh, oh, better get out the old calculator. Heck, it wasn't even lunch yet and I had accumulated 1/4 leaspoon, not to mention the additional 125 milligrams in the processed food I use, already totalling more than 250 milligrams, more than what the USDA recommends that most adults need in ONE DAY!

What really surprised this writer was the amount of salt that I used to use while cooking pasta, (for my tuna noodle lunch salad) and the salt contained in the tortilla chips, cheese, salsa and condiments used for my dinner "Grande Nachos." Then I made some homemade noodles and sauce for this weekend's lasagne and by the time I had my usual bowl of unsweetened cereal before bed, tallied a whopping 4,300 milligrams of salt that I alone had consumed in just ONE DAY!

This total is from someone who also uses fresh (and dried) herbs and spices and thought he used less salt, including the salt-free substitutes available on the market. By the way, the Janes Gang does not have a salt shaker on the table.

So what can the average foodle do to help decrease salt consumption at home?

You won't find Mary Ann's Kitchen in Troy by the sign out front. There isn't one.

But if you're partial to fresh and "different" salads, homemade soups, and baked-from-scratch desserts, you'll find it. Especially if you're tired of the same old sandwiches for lunch.

The Troy breakfast-and-lunch restaurant is tucked quietly into the imposing Liberty Center ("glass wall of Troy") building at Big Beaver and Livernois. A nice little cafeteriastyle restaurant reminiscent of the little cafes once familiar in downtown Detroit office buildings.

It's actually the second of Mary Ann Pereny's ventures. Her first Kitchen is two years old on Woodward south of Square Lake Road in Bloomfield Hills. The Bloomfield menu extends through dinnertime with a limited but innovative selection of meals. Both sites offer carryout and catering.

And both offer a sparkling clean, airy environment with an art-decoish black, grey and pink interiors designed by Pereny herself. Great spots for quick, refreshingly good meals.

The lunch menu is diverse enough to keep you coming back - which is probably why Mary Ann Pereny doesn't need a sign out front to keep her Troy operation bustling.

The chicken tarragon salad is our favorite. It's not your average bland mayo-and-chicken dish. This one has grapes for sweetness, celery and walnuts for crunch and tarragon for flavor. You can choose the salad ($3.25), a whole ($3.96) or half ($2.75)

sandwich - or buy it by the pound

Other refreshingly different salads include the potato salad nicoise, made with marinaded redskins, tuna, tornatoes, green beans, olives and eggs; the shrimp seashell salad, with artichoke hearts and a wonderful dill dressing; and the pasta pri-mavera, with fresh vegies and an herb vinaigrette.

If you tire of salads, there's always a selection of specials, including a quiche. A recent special of shrimp fettucine was a bargain at $4.25, lots of little shrimp, fresh noodles and a nice white sauce.

For those who prefer sandwiches, there is the popular "citrus honey-marinated" grilled chicken breast ($4.50) which is served on a toasted sesame bun and is accompanied by a deliciously - tangy dijon mustard sauce. This sandwich is terrific, and we found the chicken to be fresh tender and minus any umple boney surprises, if you know what we mean.

Mary Ann's homemade mulfins cookies, and carrot cake are reason enough to stop in. The carrot cake is wonderfully moist and topped with a creamier-than-thou cream cheese icing, and can be purchased by the slice ($2) or the cake ($22.50). As with everything else, the desserts are free of preservatives - though not of calories.

The breakfast menu is spare, but has basic egg dishes, including "big bad wolf" omelettes in which you can choose to have egg whites only. The real breakfast treats are the baked goods, like the sinfully delicious caramel pecan rolls or the fruit muffins.

The Bloomfield restaurant switches from cafeteria to a service format at 5 p.m. The evening menu has seven entres, including a fresh fish or seafood of the day. A popular item is Mary Ann's fried chicken ($5.95), served with macaroni and chees and braised cabbage.

Whatever you do, don't miss out. This is one place you can return to time and again for a good, inexpensive meal - complete with friendly service and light, cheery atmosphere

「ないなななななないとうないとうないのでもななななななる

Mary Jane Bostick, a retired professor of food service at Wayne State University, has a lifelong interest in good cooking.

Separate facts from fiction in dietary habits

Since the ancient days, people have wanted to believe that certain foods hold special curative properties and powers. At one time, it was believed that garlic would give you added strength and that eating chocolate would prolong life. Wouldn't it be great if that were the truth? No more steroids for athletes, and we'd all live forever!

More and more scientific studies show there is a relationship between the diet people consume and the incidence of the leading diseases. Take care about products with health claims when choosing a particular breakfast cereal to avoid cancer: or eating a certain oat bran to lower cholesterol; or fish-oil capsules to protect you against heart disease and on and on. Be wise enough to distinguish between popular, current hype and reality.

Oat bran therapy just may be a low cost way of lowering cholesterol levels. If you add oats to your daily diet but continue to follow a high fat, high cholesterol diet your cholesterol level will probably increase. To the degree that low fat oat products re-place fatty items in a healthy diet the value increases. Oat bran is only as good as your entire dietary pattern. Eating quantities of oat muffins will add to the fiber in your diet, however it also will add lots of unwanted calories.

Having a "fiber fest" everyday by eating a high fiber breakfast cereal will prevent cancer. If it were only that simple! Increase consumption of breads, cereals, fruits, vegetables and legumes, these complex carbohydrates tend to decrease consumption of foods that contain lots of fat. Also eating complex carbohydrates automatically increases your intake of fiber. Look for the words, whole wheat or whole grain on ingredient lists for breads, and cereals.

Fiber is beneficial for diabetics. The maintenance of normal blood glucose levels is of primary concern to diabetics. Recent research attention has been placed on the role of fiber in this process. Soluble fiber absorbs water and forms gels in the stomach. This gel formation slows the rate at which food is emptied from the stomach. In the small intestine, gel formation leads to slower digestion and absorption rate.

Preliminary research has shown that eating two carrots a day will also lower cholesterol levels significantly. Just as with the oat products, it's the soluble fiber in carrots that is believed to be responsible for the benefits. Here again, two carrots a day is not helpful if you have eggs and croissants for breakfast, a fatty and fried chicken for dinner.

Chances are that by increasing fiber you'll also increase consumption of beta-carotene. Broccoli, carrots, apricots, cantaloupe, pumpkin, squash (butternut especially), sweet potatoes and spinach are all excellent sources of beta-carotene. The best way to ensure you're getting beta-carotene daily is to eat an orange or yellow colored fruit or vegetable or a dark green vegetable.

Adding fish to the diet can also be beneficial to one's health. Fish are lower in fat than foods that come from animals and they contain a wide variety of nutrients. Inexpensive fish that contain the now famous Omega-3 fatty acids include ing. Canned salmon and white meat albacore tuna are also good sources. Some studies have suggested that two fish meals a week may decrease the risk of developing heart disease. However don't binge on fish to the exclusion of other healthful foods.

While not all the answers are available of which foods may truly protect us against or contribute to the development of various kinds of diseases, there is sufficient evidence to make some personal food habit changes. Make sure you "glean" fact from fiction in balancing nutrients to maintain good health. We keep our cars in good running order but sometimes neglect the preventive maintenance that can keep our bodies run-

Shake the salt

Start the "cut out the salt" regime by removing the salt shaker from the table.

Do not put salt in the water in which vegetables, cereals, pastas and rices are cooked.

Read labels and be aware of sodium amounts in foods. Buy no-salt or sodium-reduced foods whenever possible.

Build up a supply of herbs, spices and no-sodium flavor substitutes. Use onion and garlic powders (not salts) Lawrey's No-salt 17 is a great flavor enhancer.

Make your own salad dressings and use unsalted butter and margarine when cooking.

If you are big soft drink consumer, taste the sodium-free equivalents. Give the salt shaker (and box) to a friend for a week.

Fruit, vodka blend for summer drinks

AP - From the Baja Bullet to ability control, summer delute to d colors, shapes and

"Propie are always looking for new, tready details, especially in the summer," said Stephen Boyd, bar-tender at Bay Street in the Bamp-ton, a minimum hat spot for New Vorture. "There's a constant de-mand for baytender creativity."

This summer, bartenders are mixing fruit juices, liqueurs and liquors — with winning results. The Baja Beach Club in Chicago is doing a booming business with the finity Baja Bullet. In Coconut Grove, Fia., the Who's Special? is flavored

"Volka is the fastest-growing pirit in the industry," said Edward Enning, president of Monsieur Hen-Wines, importer of Stolichnays. Since volka has no taste, bartenders can mix it with almost anything - even fruit-flavored gelatins. The Blue Star in New York City serves Jello Shots, made with strawberry-,

Of course, it's not all fruit and swizzle sticks out there. Some prefer more traditional drinks.

Said Johnny Burke, bartender at Fulton Street Cafe at New York City's South Street Seaport, "Mar-tinis are making a big comeback this summer."

Mike McSweeney of Fynn's in Boston agrees. "The trend in drinking this summer is toward the more traditional drinks. The way to go is the dry Stoli Martini. We like to call it the Sahara."

He adds, "When we're making the Stoli martini, about the closest we let the vermouth get to our Stoli is 10 feet away — on the bar shelf. This is a martini for the purist."

Make grill cleanup faster

AP - Better Homes and Gardens Magazine offers these plan ahead and grill clean-up tips to make the job faster, less messy.

BEFORE GRILLING

• Line the inside of the firebox with heavy foil. After the ashes have cooled, just pick up the foil - ashes and all - and throw away.

• Spray the cold grill rack with non-stick spray coating before grill-ing. Never spray coating on a hot surface.

• Use a grill basket for fish and hamburgers. That way they won't stick to the rack, making both turning and clean-up easier.

AFTER COOKING • Cover both sides of the grill rack with wet paper towels or newspapers; let rack cool while you eat. The steam created loosens cooked-on food so it will wash right off later.

• For stubborn spots, sprinkle a damp sponge with dry baking soda and scour the grill lightly. Or scrub the grill with a scouring or abrasive-type pad, crumbled foil or a stiff grill brush.

GAS GRILLS

• After each use, turn the gas and let burn about 15 minutes. After cooling, simply brush charred particles from the grill rack. • Once a year, gas grills need more thorough cleaning. To do this, burners to HIGH. Lower the hood remove the grill rack, briquettes and briquette rack. Then brush out the bottom of the grill.

• Read the cleaning and care directions that accompany your grill equipment before using any cleaning products or abrasives.

TRIAL AND error has taught many good outdoor cooks how many briquettes are needed for grilling. Here are some guidelines from our Test Kitchen home economists, who test recipes outdoors year round.

• As a rule of thumb, plan on 30 briquettes to grill 1 pound of meat. For instance, to grill six 4-ounce hamburgers (11/2 pounds of meat), you'll need 45 briquettes. For best results, never use fewer than 30 briquettes.

• Strong winds, very cold temperatures or moist air increase the number of briquettes needed.

• If your recipe calls for more than 45 minutes cooking time, you'll need to add more briquettes. After 30 minutes, place 10-12 briquettes around the edge of the fire. When they're coated with gray ash, move to the center, using long-handled tongs.

Spartans caught napping during late Falcons rally

The Spartans could boast the Metro Summer Hockey League's best record entering Tuesday's game with the Falcons at the Plymouth Ice Arena. And after two periods of play, it looked as if their lead would be extended.

But things got tough for the Spartans from that point on. First, the Falcons - who entered the game with a 3-2 mark - rallied to score five third-period goals and nip the Spartans 8-7.

Then in Thursday's game at the Wayne Ice Arena with the Bulldogs, it was the Spartans who were forced to rally in the third period to escape with an 8-7 win.

The Spartans had entered the week with a 5-1 mark. The split still left them comfortably atop the Bakes Conference with a 6-2 mark; the Lakers are second at 3-2-2, while the Bulldogs lost twice. The Wildcats occupy the basement.

IN THE EAGLE Conference, the Falcons surged into first place by following Tuesday's comeback win over the Spartans with a 12-5 thumping of the Wildcats

Wednesday in Plymouth. The victories improved the Falcons' record to 5-2 and pushed them past the idle Broncos (4-2).

The Huskies blasted the Bulldogs 14-5 Wednesday in Plymouth to tie the Broncos at 4-2. And the Wolverines got their second win of the season, knocking off the winless Wildcats 9-7 Thursday in Wayne.

In the Falcons' win over the Spartans Tuesday, Vic Decina helped spark the third-period rally with two goals. Aaron Pietila, who had two goals and two assists in the game, got the game-winning score with just 38 seconds left. Ron Storm and Ron Pietila also netted goals for the Falcons in the third period.

The Spartans, who led 5-3 entering the final period, got two goals and an assist from Darin Young and a goal and two assists from Ed Shepler.

Hines Park earns regular-season title

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Every time Hines Park Lincoln Mercury met Walter's Appliance this summer on the baseball diamond, the coaches placed a gentlemen's bet on the outcome.

"(Walter's coach) Mike Keller and I play for beers," said Hines Park coach Dave Racer. "We beat him four or five times during the season, so he bought most of the time. But I told Mike tonight 'If you beat (Livonia Little) Caesars, start the tab, I'm buying.'

David Houghtby (Livonia Stevenson) responded by pitching a threehitter, leading Walter's to a 1-0 win over Caesars at Livonia's Ford Field.

Less than three hours later, the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League title belonged to Hines Park (22-5-1) after it edged a pesky Duffy's Plumbing team, 3-2.

Racer might have gone home broke Friday, but he didn't mind.

The win, combined with the Caesars loss gave Hines Park the first seed in the four-team LCBL playoffs that began Sunday. Hines Park met Duffy's, the fourth-place team in the first round, and defending champion Caesars, the second-place team with a 20-6-1 record, played third-place Walter's.

"WALTER'S HELPED our confidence," said pitcher Brett Loomis, who earned the save in Hines Park's title-clinching game. "We were real psyched to prove we're the best in the league, because Caesars was the reigning champion the last couple years."

The double-header action was highlighted by superb pitching, so maybe it was fitting that Loomis ended the long evening with a clutch performance on the mound.

Leading 3-2 in the top of the seventh, Racer called on Loomis after starter Bob Files walked Duffy's first two batters, Chris Mussat and Mike Kaczmarek.

Steve Michelz, the first batter to face Loomis, attempted to sacrifice bunt the runners up a base, but Loomis raced off the mound and threw out Mussat, the lead runner, leaving men on first and second with one out.

With two outs, Loomis walked cleanup hitter Mike Siwajek to load the bases, but he got Lee Tappy to end the threat, bouncing a slow grounder to shortstop on a 3-and-1 pitch.

Hines Park only picked up four hits off Duffy's starter Jason Hicks and reliever Joe Jentzer, but Hicks was his own enemy in the third when lead-off man Joel Riggs scored the go-ahead run.

"He said 'Race, I can do it because he's going from the windup." Racer said. "So I said 'Pick your pitch.' (The only thing) is we had the lefthanded stick (Sisler) up, leaving the third-base line open."

DUFFY'S TOOK the game's first lead, scoring on an RBI single by Siwajek in the first. Sisler's one-out double drove in Riggs to tie the score at 1-1 in the first, and Sisler later scored in the inning on a passed ball to give Hines Park a 2-1 lead.

Four of Duffy's first five batters in the third reached base, but an RBI single by Siwajek produced the in-ning's only run to the the score at 2-2. Mussat led off the inning with a single and Files walked Kaczmarek to put runners on first and second with no outs.

H, SUMMERTIME. Hot and lazy and relaxed. No worries, no cares, no problems. Just fun in the sun.

That's how I remember summer. The rest of the year was always work, work, work. But summer . . . that was vacation.

Who planted those thoughts in my mind? Summer's half gone and I'm working just like I do the rest of the year. (Really. I am.)

What makes us think of summer as described above is our youth, of course. In fall, winter and spring, we were forced to labor over books and learn such important things as the square root of 64 (I still know the answer to that one, ma).

But in summer we didn't have to learn anything, except how to absorb as much sun as possible, play as much baseball as possible, swim as much as possible, party as much as possible — and all on the same day. Every day.

When senior year in high school ended, it marked the end of such trouble-free times. Decisions had to be made, and none of the alternatives - go to college, go to work, or go to the army - were attractive. But in that final summer after high school, before being forced-fed adulthood, there was still time to enjoy. One last time.

ENJOYMENT COMES in many forms, of course. Movies, malls, mayhem . . . I can accept those as enjoyable pursuits. Sweating, straining, socking . . . those I have trouble with.

And yet, 80 just-graduated athletes plan on spending 10 days of their precious last summer of total freedom in just such a manner. They are not doing it for money; they are not doing it for fame and recogni-tion; they are not doing it because they were threate

They are doing it by choice. For fu

Injured running addict needs other activites

Dear Myrna: I've been a dedicated runner for around three years. I ost every day. I'm also on a serious soccer team that plays three times per week. Two weeks ago, I injured my ankle and was forced to stop running and playing soccer for at least a month. I've been having a terrible time mentally. It's almost like I'm addicted to running. I am irritable with my wife and children and am altogether a mess. Help.

As an aerobic nut myslef, I can well understand what you are going through. Athletes, as a group, are a lot more confident, stable, and selfsured than the average person on the street. They are generally less hostile, tense and anxious

When an athlete gets injured, he/she goes through depression and anxiety - the degree seems to depend on how balanced a life the athlete lived prior to the injury.

Too many athletes, place all their energy into one basket. Sometimes we overemphasize our physical side. I'm sure you always have received recognition for your physical prowess and the taking away of this physical dimension is bothersome to you. Take away an athlete's daily dose of exercise and you get an irritable, anxious and depressed person.

Here are some methods to combat your stress:

· Gain a sense of self-control over the injury. Know as much as possible about the injury and the rehabilitation process.

• Develop an interest or hobby (even if it's temporary) to help channel your energy.

• Why not cross train? This is an excellent time to train in another activity. As a runner, this may be a time to either swim or row. This not only allows the continuance of cardio fitness, but also allows variety to your workout and develops endurance in other important muscle groups.

The other important possibility is to work on other fitness components like strength and flexibility. We always keep putting off that strength training we need to correct those muscle imbalances which inevitably occur when running. You could also spend time maintaining flexibility in those overused joints.

Now, have I given you enough to do?

Almost every compulsive runner who has been slowed by injury feels the forced layoff is a blessing in disguise. The layoff brought a new freshness and hunger for the sport. As far as your addiction to activity - yes, you are addicted. These pain killing 'happy hormones' are as powerfully addictive as morphine.

You must realize that you are vulnerable to self-doubt and irrational thinking during this period. There will be questions raised as to whether you'll be able to ever run again.

Don't worry.

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company, Inc. of Bloomfield Township, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send your letters to: Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, Mi. 48012).

Bowling lanes get facelift wood surfaces of bowling lanes. Every ball rolled causes a little more wear and tear, which adds up to either a total resurfacing job every two or three years, or a "Screen-ing and re-coating" in the years be-tween refinishing jobs. All this, of course, takes place during the summer when there is much less bowling going on and the establishment can close for a few days if necessary. There are specialists who send their crews out to perform this critical task, as the lane conditions we love to bowl on depend heavily upon the skills of the refinishing companies.

The summertime, almost without exception, means fix-up, paint-up and reconditioning of the lane sur-faces at the local bowling center. Some houses add new equipment and replace worn-out or out-dated items, while some, like Country Lanes in Farmington Hills have added new ceiling smoke eliminators to filter out cigarette smoke and its odor.

The importance of proper lane conditioning cannot be over-emphasized at any of the centers, and they go to considerable expense to see the job is done right. Total resurfacing is a complex process, usually done every two or three years. The first step is to remove all the old oil and residue with a strong detergent. This is followed by the first sanding steps, which involve using a "Drum" with coarse sanding to take the maple surfaces at the "heads" or first 15 feet or so down to a smooth surface.

The approaches, the first boards, the heads and the pin deck are con-structed of Rock Maple and the rest of the lane is made of pine. At this point, the lanes are inspected for loose boards or fibre inserts at the dots and arrows and replacements are made as necessary. If the lanes are in bad shape, it is necessary to drill holes and inject epoxy under high pressure in order to re-seal and firm up the foundation of the wood itself. The entire lane surface is sanded with a special screen with a' fine grit which smooths out the wood. This operation is done by a special machine which is driven down the lanes by an expert who is constantly monitoring the process assuring a precisely level job. After the sanding is complete, the lanes are ready for the new finish. The most popular finish in use today is a two-coat system in which an inflammable water-based solution used to seal the base. This stays pliable so it can compensate for the changes in temperature and humidity. The second coat is applied after the first coat has again been screened. The topcoat is usually urethane, very heavy-duty stuff. It sets to an extremely hard finish and this is the critical application for your shot, as how the topcoat is applied can affect the hooking characteristics of your ball.

A second coat assures the durability to last through the season. The approaches are surfaced with a water based coating which set up hard to give you the proper slide and avoid 'sticky" approaches.

All this work is performed by a three or four man crew who can do the resurfacing job in three or four days or the screen and coating in just a few hours. Bowlers might take the lanes for granted, but there is a lot of work and expense involved in getting the bowling conditions just right, and the pay-off is those nice big scores we see throughout the sea-

• The Ladies Professional Bowlers Tour will be coming to this area in August with competition taking place at Satellite Bowl in Dearborn. I will have more information in this column regarding the ladies Pro Tour next week.

• Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills is the scene of the Wednesday Classic Trio League which boasts some of the highest scoring bowlers among the 40 teams. Last Wednesday, Ed Grace, Sr., rolled his first 300 game in his long and illustrious career. In this instance, Ed out-bowled his son Eddie Grace Jr., which is quite a feat itself. Also going strong at Drakeshire is the Monday Youth Classic League in which Jason Tillman shot a 255 last week, along with Dave Girolamo at 254 and Ryan Lovelace, who rolled a 246. A week earlier, the same league had Eleanor Korzec with a 696 block on games of 213-224-259, John Chouinard, a 708 on 254-259-195, while southpaw Tamika Glenn scored a 268 game in a 624 series.

Drakeshire bowlers Eric Tulley of Livonia and Eleanor Korzec of Hamtramck were selected to the firstteam all-state YABA which was in the major seniors division. Drakeshire's Youth Leage ties in with their student athletic scholarship fund in which awards are given out based on points won in league com-perition, may and rune tournaments, classroom clandings, merit awards, and for youth osaching of other youth bowlers. There are also points awarded for essays pertaining to the sport of bowling. Scholarship winners from recent action included Novella White of Detroit in Division 2, $400; Rich Lowhorn of Belleville in Division 2; Robbie McDonald of Farmington Hills for Division 2; and 14-year-old Jeff Mendoza of Livonia with a $250 award in Division 1. Overall, the scholarship fund has given out $7,500 the first year.

On Monday, Aug. 6, there will be a state certification for youth instructors taking place at Drakeshire. This is for any bowlers who wish to teach the youngsters ages 3 and up. For further information, call Drakeshire Lanes at 478-2230.

• At Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington, the Tuesday Nite Trio League was led by Ross Frasure with a 244 game and 637 series. Following the league, King of the Hill Eliminations saw Jim McPhail, Jr., beat out Bob Parker for the prize money of $105.

• The Friday Retirees League had a new high series for the ladies as Grace Diamos scored a 514 set. In the Family Twosome League, Jason Brown set a new high for the kids with a 171 game, which was 82 pins over average. In the Wednesday Unmixed Mixed League, Alvin Leff scored a 606 series and 222 game. The Maccabees League saw Ira Smith hit a 615 total with games of 214 and 206.

Woodland Lanes in Livonia saw Ron Spicer score a 268 game in the Family Foursome League. In the Men's Doubles competition, Gordy DeMeh had a 718 series on a scoring block of 267-247-204, while in the Men's Trio League, bowling a fourgame block, Chuck Dobrick had an 889, Pat Burger, 876, and Ken Kubit, 874

Preps relish all-star roles

"I'm really looking forward to it," said Eric Ruth, a 6-foot-2, 223-pounder from Livonia Stevenson who will line up with 79 others at 1:20 p.m. Saturday at Michigan State's Spartan Stadium for the ninth annual Michigan High School East-West All-Star Football Game. "This is the biggest thing in my life so far."

I know what you're thinking: This kid must not have had much of a life so far, if working his tail off for 10 days to play a meaningless football game is the highlight.

THINK AGAIN. And listen to what a few of his teammates have to say:

Eric Beatty, linebacker, Detroit Country Day "I wouldn't miss this for anything."

Mike Ostrander, guard, Troy: "It's a chance to be one of 80 players from all over the state to be playing in this game."

Mike Boyle, guard, Redford St. Agatha: "This is something to be proud of. It's something I'll remember all my life."

Marc Milia, offensive tackle, Birmingham Brother Rice: "I'm excited to see the competition. I'm glad I'm doing this. It should get me ready for double-sessions at (University of) Michigan."

And last but certainly not least, Lee Krueger, defensive lineman, Redford Catholic Central: "I an an interest football

just wanted to come here and hit." Uh, thanks Lee.

ACTUALLY, THERE were some good reasons given when the players were asked why give up your summer for this.

Beatty, a top prospect headed for Purdue, had visions of grandeur. "You get to see the crowd yelling and stuff, and then walking down that tunnel (to the locker rooms) . .

"It'll get me in better shape for Eastern (Michigan), it'll get me started for college," was Ostran-der's reasoning, while Milia said, "You hear and read in the paper about these guys all during the season. Now I get a chance to see the paper on the field."

Boyle (also headed to EMU) was looking forward to the week of hard training - which includes a few days of double-sessions, in pads because, finally, he'd "get to hit against guys my own size."

Ruth's reasons were more personally focused because he's headed to Wayne State and Division II football. "This is the only chance I'll get to play against guys who will be playing at Michigan State and Michigan." And the Wisconsin-bound Krueger? "I love football. And I just wanted to come here and hit."

JUST KIDDING. Krueger only mentioned hitting once. Maybe twice.

Meeting, and getting the opportunity to play with and against the other top-rated players in the state, were high on all five players' lists. For many, it may be their last chance in the spotlight. Big-time college football has a way of humbling the best high school player.

But the umbilical cord that connects player with his prep days must be severed. It's time to move ahead, to discover where you fit in and what the world has to offer. The steps can be difficult and painful, but they must be taken. Not right now, though. 'There's still time for summer fun — if wearing 30 pounds of equipment in 90-degree heat and attacking a bunch of other guys dressed the same way can be called fun.

Joining the six players mentioned above from the Observer & Eccentric-coverage area are defensive back Dennis Edwards, from Rochester Adams; tailback Robert Johnson. from Southfield; split end Ulric King, from Southfield-Lathrup; fullback Bryant Satter-lee, from Westland John Glenn; and split end Bryan Wauldron, from Farmington Harrison. All 11 will play for the East team.

short fly ball fell in for a hit to right field. Siwajek followed with his RBI single, but Files got Tappy to fan to end the inning. "I think we got enough pitching to do the job," Duffy's coach Ray Fracassi said. "We're just a very young team. We'll be all right. We have a lot of 18-year-olds, and they have a lot to learn."

IN THE day's first game, Houghtby baffled Caesars' hitters, who couldn't remember the last time they had such a rough time of it at the plate.

An RBI single by Randy Buchler which scored Joe Sturtz from second base in the second is all Houghtby needed to win his first game of the year against four losses.

'Finally," said a relieved Houghtby, when

Westland repeat champ

The Westland Federation Sandy Koufax baseball team won its second consecutive league title, winning all 20 games it played in the 18-team circuit.

The title means Westland will host the North Central Region, a qualifying tournament for the World Series. NFWB also earned a direct seed to the tourney Highland and Dearborn Crestwood will compete in the NABF Regional held on Belle Isle, while Dearborn and Plymouth are headed to district tournaments in Northville and Sterling Heights.

Garden City, Southgate and Redford attend Pony tournaments.

Westland assured its standing in the Little Caesars Amateur Baseball Federation League in the season's final week, sweeping games from its closest competition, Highland, Garden City and North Farmington/West Bloomfield.

Westland beat Highland, 5-4, and overwhelmed NFWB, 9-3. Highland and NFWB finished in a tie for second-place at 17-3. Garden City came in sixth place, ending with a 9-4 record.

Members of the championship team include: Bobby Hayes, Jason Holton, Ryan Miller, Chris Moore, Gerard Romej, Mark Rutherford, Greg Tamas, Jeff Tapp, J.R. Taylor, Brett Walter, Jason Wetmore and Josh Wiegand. Joe Vondracek was the team manager and Gary Pierce and David Zajac were coaches.

Elite tourney winner asked about the win. "I wasn't nervous until the middle of the sixth. I wanted to keep them under two runs, because whenever I pitch we don't score runs. I threw a lot of junk to their first four or five hitters. They're good fastball hitters, but they were getting in front of it and hitting it on the ground.'

Keller wasn't counting on a shutout until "after the seventh inning was complete. I just told David to throw every pitch like it's your last. 'Don't think about seven innings, think about each CAESARS HAD a player reach third base in the fifth inning and again in the seventh, but both times Houghtby settled down and retired the next batter to end the rallies.

Caesars right-hander Jim Miller suffered the loss, although he allowed only four hits and fanned three. On most nights, Miller would have gone home victorious.

"We beat them up all year, and we lose at the most opportune time," Caesars coach John Mora-itis said. "We've had two or three games this year where we didn't hit, but I didn't think this kid (Houghtby) would shut us down. Houghtby pitched good today.

"He got his curve over, that's why we hit groun-ders. I can't believe we didn't get one by third base. Their third basemen (John Gotts and Eric Opalach) were playing in the whole game."

Wolverines notch 2nd win at Wildcat expense

In Thursday's Bulldogs-Spartans game, the Bulldogs led 5-4 after two periods, but four Spartan scores got them the win. Young, who had a hat trick in the game, scored twice in the third period, including the gamewinner with three minutes left that broke a 7-7 tie.

GARY SCOTT had two goals for the Spartans, one coming in the third. Mike Raymond also had a third-period goal. Shepler contributed three assists. Mark Beaufait's two goals and two assists paced the Bulldogs; Chris Slocum pitched in with two goals and an assist.

Aaron Pietila's three goals and an assist led the Falcons' 12-5 rout of the Wildcats. Dennis Ryan added two goals and an assist. Bryan Krygier topped the Wildcat effort with a goal and two assists.

The Wolverines' second victory of the season Thursday came courtesy of three players: Matt Wiljanen punched in three goals, and Chris Nickerson and Matt Peal got two goals apiece. Joe Ahmet recorded a hat trick for the Wildcats, while Mike Krygier collected a goal and three assists. On Wednesday, the Huskies improved their record by blasting the Bull-dogs 14-5, thanks to five goals and two assists from Rob McDonald. Bill Baffy added two goals and Matt Joelson had a goal and five assists. Scott

DRUMMOND SLAND

Nature's northwoods gem

Close to Domino's Lodge, visitors can now watch the antics of Chip, Champ and Crusty, the three wild black bear cubs Tom Monaghan adopted after a poacher killed their mother near Grayling.

By Marie Chestney staff writer

D RUMMOND ISLANDERS are smack in the middle of an identity crisis, a crisis that began in 1985 when megamillionaire Tom Monaghan bought a rundown estate on Potagannissing Bay and began rebuilding it into a 1,800acre corporate retreat.

The retreat occupies only a tiny part of the 72,000acre island in Lake Huron; it sits well beyond the string of resorts lining Tourist Road and the bay.

But in the notoriety that followed Monaghan's island extravaganzas — from a lavish weekend party for the well-heeled to a controversial 168-schooner called the Domino Effect to the building of special cabins for dredge 40,000 cubic yards from a bay popular for its perch fishing and spawning doesn't help the islanders' cause at all.

The Drummond Island Chamber of Commerce now works overtime to soft pedal the Monaghan hype.

"The notoriety that the island has suddenly gained because of Monaghan's influence should not be misinterpreted," said chamber president Charles Krahank. "Mr. Monaghan has no great desire to change the atmosphere, nor could he undo what nature has done."

Most islanders agree that what nature has done on Drummond Island is not for everyone.

"People either hate it or love it," said Steve Gilbert, who runs Four Seasons Resort and also works as director of wildlife, land management and operations for Domino's Lodge, Monaghan's retreat. "You can walk 50 yards into the woods and get lost."

Visitors who expect the manicured stylishness of Mackinaw Island won't like it. With its abundance of road signs (4 miles to Josie's place) and it's rustic, rural setting, the view does get tacky at times from the car window.

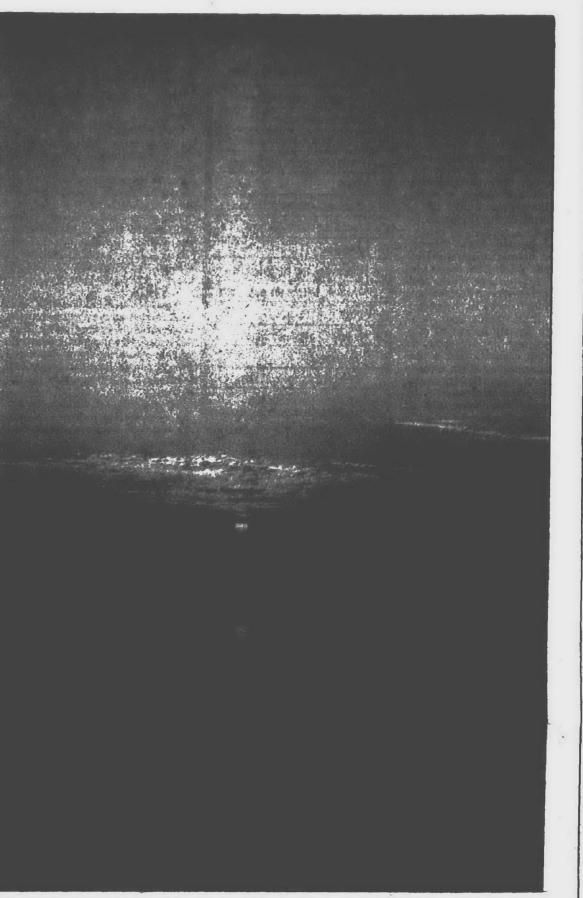

Those who like their Saturday nights wild won't like it. Bill Burton, owner of Streamline Sporting Goods, said that "bear watching at the dump at dusk" is popular any night of the week, including Saturday.

Folks who like to bounce from one tourist attraction to another won't like it. In fact, with the coming of Monaghan, the island now has its first bona fide, Irish Hills-type tourist attraction — a small zoo where Monaghan keeps the three wild black bear cubs he adopted after a poacher killed their mother near Grayling.

CLOSE TO DOMINO'S Lodge, visitors can now watch the antics of no-longer-cub-size Chip, Champ and Crusty from behind the safety of a high chain link fence.

Folks who like their activities planned and programmed won't like Drummond Island.

"This is a great place to come if you're into something quiet," Burton said. "People who want constant excitement would get bored here. But there's always something to do, if you like to do the things they do some of Michigan's top sports figures — it began to sound like the owner of the Detroit Tigers had taken over the whole island as well.

"We're Drummond Island, not Domino Island," is the new cry of beleagured islanders who fear they are losing their 175-year-old identity to a pizza king.

Yet how do the islanders, who depend on the dollars tourists bring, fight the misinformation and misconceptions that flow in Monaghan's wake?

For example, how can they correct a story printed in June in a national publication that said Monaghan's holdings include Drummond Island, a 72,000-acre private island off Michigan's Upper Peninsula?

Monaghan neither owns the island, nor is it private. In fact, more than half of Drummond Island is spruce and cedar forest owned by the state.

And what can they say to those sportsmen who think Monaghan has changed the face of the island so much he has ruined it for hunting and fishing?

THE CURRENT flap about Monaghan's plan to le here."

What nature did on Drummond Island was create a northwoods and water paradise for hunting, fishing, boating, sailing, rockhounding, birdwatching, hiking, canoeing and water skiing, as well as cross-country skiing and snowmobiling in the wintertime.

The islanders have added the extras — tennis courts, bike rentals, golf, historical museum, airport, marinas, churches, medical facilities, restaurants, stores and a library.

Visitors generally rent a cabin at any one of the 20 or so small resorts that line Tourist Road and overlook Potagannissing or Sturgeon bays. A typical rate for a two-bedroom cabin or cottage for four is $230 a week. Fishing boats can be rented for an extra $50 a week. There also are campgrounds for campers.

Visitors can spend their time exploring the land and waters of an island once called "Potagannipy" by the Indians, "High Island" by the British and now called "Gem of the Huron" by those who love its forests, inlets, lakes and island-studded bays. Visitors who generally rent cabins at any of the small resorts that line Tourist Road and overlook Potagannissing or Sturgeon bays are treated to spectacular summer sunsets.

TUCKED BETWEEN Canada's North Channel, the mouth of the St. Mary's River and the waters of Lake Huron, Drummond Island also sits in the middle of one of the busiest waterways in the world, with ships coming to and from Lake Superior.

Its high limestone cliffs, its sky blue bays, its primeval forests and the bounty of its woods and waters are so stunning that some who visit America's largest freshwater island on vacation come back to stay.

Twenty years ago, that's what happened to Tom and Ellen Mossing, who then lived in Livonia.

"Tom was exhausted, working overtime as a commercial artist," Mossing said. "We came here on vacations and loved the area: Finally, we had our fill of the TUCKED BETWEEN Canada's North Channel, the outh of the St. Mary's River and the waters of Lake 2 and 3."

The Mossings run a nine-cottage resort on Tourist Road.

"The scenery is beautiful. We have some of the most gorgeous sunsets in the world," Mossing said.

Karen Kemppainen returned to her family's roots when she moved from Southfield to Drummond Island in 1969. Both sets of her grandparents had once lived on the island.

"My mother hated it and left," she said. "But those were hard times, when this was not a resort area, but

O&E Monday, July 24, 1989 DVING PICTURES Reiner, Crystal, Ryan make 'Harry' a winner

When he's good, he's very, very good and at his best Rob Reiner is L His latest, "When Harry Met Sally . . " (A+, R, 90 mis-stee), is without doubt his best, an excellent comic look at marriage and urban singles life in the '80s. After college graduation, the open, out-spoken, earthy but pessimistic Harry (Billy Crystal) shares a Chicago-New York ride with conservative, over-organized, rigid Sally (Meg Ryan). He's so relaxed, if he didn't have style and intelligence, he'd be a slob while she clearly is the queen of fussbudgetry with a surface coating of false optimism.

An unlikely couple, true, but this aga of their lengthy courtship carefully develops those two personalities, for all their foibles, as warm, loving folks troubled by life and by the pressures of the contemporary urban scene.

Reiner directed Nora Ephron's witty and literate script with fine touch, while keeping the entire production firmly in hand. Taken with superb performances by Crystal and Ryan — plus Carrie Fisher and Bruno Kirby as their best friends - the result is a densely packed 90 minutes. There are no dull spots, no slow-moving moments, just a constantly engaging play of wit, comedy and romance, images flowing swiftly so that the film's experience is intense. There's a lot more than 90 minutes in this 90 minutes.

Reiner's episodic structure - bits character while doing his familiar and well-regarded routines.

Meg Ryan is in control of Sally's character all the way. It's the kind of role that could easily get out of hand and turn into a burlesqued sham. Ryan avoids that trap and underplays Sally just right. Despite her quirks, Sally is appealing, humorous and lovable. More important, Ryan overwhelmed by the strength of Crystal's performance.

You guessed it, a great movie. Which is not the case with "Shag"

(F. PG. 98 minutes), an infantile, poorly-paced, boring exercise in dis-tilling the worst of "Beach Party" and "Spring Break" movies.

Scenarists Robin Swicord, Lanier Laney and Terry Sweeney, with the connivance of Director Zelda Barron, would have us believe that there were, even among the most conserv-ative elements of the South in 1963, four such silly, naive and cliched characters as the girls who star in "Shag." Maybe there were, but they sure aren't entertaining. Neither is this film.

Carson (Phoebe Cates), Melaina (Bridget Fonda), Pudge (Annabeth Gish) and Luanne (Page Hannah) lie to their parents about a trip to Fort Sumpter in order to sneak off to the Myrtle Beach Sun Festival for their last high school fling.

This alleged satire of social mores and talent contests is heavy-handed and totally unfunny, while the "Shag" dance contest sequences supposedly the spark to excite audiences - are pretty lame, too.

WEAK CHOREOGRAPHY and weaker still camera work detracts by constantly cutting away from full-shots of the dancers to relatively meaningless close-ups of faces and feet. Of course, their dancing isn't all that terrific either so maybe it's just as well.

The dancing, the writing, the acting - everything in fact - is lacking vivacity, humor and entertainment

"Scenes from the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills" (F, R, 100 minutes) is in the same class. It's also pretentious.

Paul Bartel and Mary Woronov have such a heavy-hand with satire that they are able to take clever ideas - remember "Eating Raoul" and turn them into dull and embarrassing productions that start well and meander to tiresome conclusions

This time they didn't start with a

A simple equation in the music business: Simple lyrics plus idealism equals snickers from critics.

Show of Hands, a California based three-person acoustical outfit, is no exception. Their self-titled debut alburn on I.R.S. Records has been on the receiving end of both positive and negative reviews.

The reasons for liking the LP are many, including nice harmonies and skillful musicianship. On the other side, the rose-colored views presented on the album might be considered somewhat naive

"I think one of the reasons it sparks cynicism is that some of the lyrics are so direct," said Randell Kirsch, whose group will perform Tuesday at The Ark in Ann Arbor. "They're easy to make fun of because they are so idealistic. Some of the reviewers said it sounded like we are trying to save the world.

"We're a band that believes anything you do changes the world."

"I think cynicism is part of the problem," added band member Lu-Ann Olson. "It's something to hide behind. I know because I was cynical at one time.'

Oh really? There isn't a cynical syllable uttered on the Show of Hands LP. Songs directly address things like love ("Real Love"), war ("Another War") and God ("God Made the World").

Like the song titles suggest, there is no underlying message or surreal imagery. What we have here, folks, is a band that tells like it really is.

AND THAT has its pluses and minuses. Some people already know war is bad, love is good. People usually don't a need a musical group to tell them as such.

Also, there is always the drawas a political band, which Show of songwriter. With three people with said. "When we were there, they tion, call 99-MUSIC.

Members found they do have similar world views that puts everything into focus.

And every member of the group was upset to see the footage of the recent crackdown in China. Show of Hands spent three weeks there, even performing as street musicians in Tiananman Square.

Show of Hands went as part of a cultural exchange program, performing before crowds of 13,000 each night.

THE IBON MAN - Pete Townshend

One of the best things to come out ter, "Hogarth," who is a 10-year-old of the demise of The Who has been Pete Townshend's solo career.

Other members of the band have not exactly set the recording world on fire with their own work. Yet we've seen Mr. Townshend evolve from a guitar smashing hero of mods to one of the most thoughtful and accomplished artists of our time.

Even from the self-destructive nature presented on his second solo LP, 'Empty Glass" (ATCO), Townshend has grown as he's come to grips with himself as an artist, and as a person. Pete Townshend doesn't need music (despite this out-for-the-money tour), music needs Pete Townshend.

This latest LP, "The Iron Man," (Atlantic) is certainly his most ambitious to date along the lines of "Tom-my" and "Quadraphenia."

"The Iron Man" is the musical adaptation of a children's book by Poet Laureate Ted Hughes. Townshend takes on the role of the main charac-

Since then, I have found work but still consider my main job to be rais-ing my children. As the cost of living es up, I will need to work more.

The problem is that I feel envious of my husband and his new wife's ability to apparently raise their stan-dard of living while I struggle to make ends meet.

They have recently bought a new larger house that my kids are excited about and I feel terrible about. I can't seem to find a way to work through these feelings.

The adult in me says "grow up, worry about your own life." Nevertheless, I feel left behind. That was supposed to be me in that new house. Can you offer any suggestions on how I might stop feeling such anguish?

Dear Barbara, I'm writing after reading your column for the first time. I was very impressed. It seems you are providing a very much needed forum for you readers.

Burton of Stream Line Sports. "Twenty-three bears were killed."

The most hectic time on Drummond Island is "when the ice goes out" in the spring. That's when the ice melts and perch, walleye and smelt all begin their annual runs. Resort owners scurry to get their cottages ready for the hordes of fishermen who descend on Potagannissing Bay. Most of the resorts offer places to clean and freeze the fish.

Summer is taken over by sailors, boaters and tourists seeking the island's sheltered coves and quiet solitude.

In the fall, fishermen return once again for the fish runs. And hunting for deer, ruffed grouse, woodcock, rabbits, fox, coyote, bobcat, bear, geese and ducks also begins.

Most of the resorts now keep one or two cabins heated in the winter for visitors who come to cross-country ski or snowmobile. The 10-minute ferry from De Tour Village runs all winter.

GETTING OFF the ferry, visitors are reminded by the replica of a fort that Drummond Island back in the early 1800s was a British fort, the last outpost of the British Empire on U.S. soil. The island is named after Sir Gordon Drummond, a British

Mature Beyond

Dear M.B.M.Y., Thank you for your kind words and interesting letter. You very clearly present the problem of your age group, even if they don't have children.

In our current culture, women of your age group are at a disadvan-tage. There are not enough men to go around for female "baby boomers." Many older men are dating and marrying younger women in their early 20s.

It would seem clear that maturity is not what they are looking for. In a letter that I recently received, one of the women in your age group dea European production with portions of the sound track dubbed. There is a certain distance and awkwardness in such productions.

The main problem, however, is the script which is so badly structured that Weller and Seymour stare at one another for long periods with nothing to say. This is love? Obses-sion? How about bad filming?

Then, after these dull moments, with apparent embarrassment, they recite surrealistic, disconnected lines that presumably have philosophical meaning. Most of Weller and Seymour's delivery has the impact of a first reading. Rey has personality and character although he's on screen for a very short time.

VISUALLY, the film has some attractive moments but, for the most part, it is a sophomoric exercise, "Symbolism 101." However he did it, Ernesto Sabato managed to adapt what is billed as his "best-selling novel" into one of the most leaden, unentertaining films available in a long time.

Another part of the problem is the gigantic VCR market. There is so much money to be made selling and renting videotapes for home use that none of the players in the video business need to worry about market ac-ceptance. Apparently, anything and everything breaks even or makes money so anything and everything is acquired, packaged and distributed. If you're just whistling in the dark, then "The Tunnel" may be all right. If you want some dramatic excitement and entertainment, move quickly along the shelves of your favorite video store.

"Dead Aim" is another Vestron offering this month, although I didn't have time to screen it. It's billed as an exciting detective thriller with exotic dancers, drugs, the FBI and the KGB.

It also got a name cast - Ed Marinaro, Corbin Bernsen, William Sanderson, Darrell Larson, Isaac Hayes and William Windom — but dramatic quality is not the question press agents deal with.

Gilbert Gottfried is more at home on stage than he is staying in the countless hotel rooms on the road. And he certainly doesn't seem very comfortable talking to reporters.

"I give terrible interviews," he said, when reached at still another hotel before a show - this one in Tucson, Ariz. "A lot of times I'll be in a city and not see anything but the hotel and the club."

you haven't seen anyone quite like Gilbert Gottfried.

Touted in some circles as the most inventive comic since Robin Williams," Gottfried constantly comes at you from off-the-wall angles, with a variety of characters

But if you ask him to describe his act, you'll find him at a loss for words.

"That's a tough question," Gottfried said. "I have no idea. I try not to listen to my act. It's some where between Pat Boone and the Hillside Strangler.

"All the bits that I do every night are things that I actually started on stage.'

GOTTFRIED grew up in Brooklyn Once he hits the stage, however, and admits that his childhood was somewhat of a blur. But basically, he was inconspicuous in life and in school

"I always thought that the class clowns ended up as shipping clerks," he said.

While still in his teens, he started playing in the various clubs around Greenwhich Village.

"It didn't pay anything," Gottfried said. "I was there with 500 people with guitars trying to sing like Bob Dylan.

Eventually, Gottfried moved on to comedy gigs that paid, and things started to happen. His zaniness was spotted by MTV, which hired him to do a series of commercials. Most notable of these was a spot on how he helped The Who get its name.

The MTV commercials were the first real national opportunity for Gottfried, and through his success there, he landed more jobs, pitching items like O Henry! candy bars and Banquet chicken. You may have also noticed him during a very brief appearance in a VISA commercial filmed at The Improv in Los Angeles

STEAK

- where they don't take American

Recently, he has done work with comedy's latest bad boy Brooklyn's Andrew "Dice" Clay, in the yet-to-be-re-leased film "Ford Fairlane." He has also made frequent appearances on "Late Night with David Letterman."

Gottfried responds to the fame and accolades he has earned by not taking himself very seriously.

'IF I WAS doing comedy for myself, I'd probably walk out and ask the manager for my money back."

Gottfried became philosophical when discussing the state of comedy in 1989, however. With the phenomenal growth of the comedy club circuit and the number of comics fighting for breaks in the '$0s, he wonders what the next decade will bring.

Feelings aren't unusual

I have been divorced for three years. My husband wanted a divorce ause he had found another woman, whom he has since married. I was replaced by someone younger who is more successful in the busiwas replaced by some ness world. I was a homemaker before my divorce.

Since then, I have found work but still consider my main job to be rais-ing my children. As the cost of living es up, I will need to work more.

The problem is that I feel envious of my husband and his new wife's ability to apparently raise their stan-dard of living while I struggle to make ends meet.

They have recently bought a new larger house that my kids are excited about and I feel terrible about. I can't seem to find a way to work through these feelings.

The adult in me says "grow up, worry about your own life." Nevertheless, I feel left behind. That was supposed to be me in that new house. Can you offer any suggestions on how I might stop feeling such anguish?

discuss how divorce feels to those who have been "left behind."

You ask for suggestions on how you might stop feeling "such an-guish." Research shows that women, after divorce, go through a period of bereavement typical to all serious losses. So how you feel can be expected and is normal. The problem is the length of time it takes to complete the mourning process. If ex-tended for too long, it then becomes abnormal.

From the reading I have done, I would place two years as the upper limit of normal. Do you have family and/or friends who could serve as support systems during this painful period? Change happens to everyone and we are responsible to adapt.

Dear M.B.M.Y. Thank you for your kind words and interesting letter. You very clearly present the problem of your age group, even if they don't have children.

My Years

In our current culture, women of your age group are at a disadvan-tage. There are not enough men to go around for female "baby boomers." Many older men are dating and marrying younger women in their early 20s.

It would seem clear that maturity is not what they are looking for. In a letter that I recently received, one of the women in your age group dea European production with portions of the sound track dubbed. There is a certain distance and awkwardness in such productions.

The main problem, however, is the script which is so badly structured that Weller and Seymour stare at one another for long periods with nothing to say. This is love? Obsession? How about bad filming?

Then, after these dull moments, with apparent embarrassment, they recite surrealistic, disconnected lines that presumably have philosophical meaning. Most of Weller and Seymour's delivery has the impact of a first reading. Rey has personality and character although he's on screen for a very short time.

VISUALLY, the film has some attractive moments but, for the most part, it is a sophomoric exercise, "Symbolism 101." However he did it, Ernesto Sabato managed to adapt what is billed as his "best-selling novel" into one of the most leaden, unentertaining films available in a long time.

Another part of the problem is the gigantic VCR market. There is so much money to be made selling and renting videotapes for home use that none of the players in the video business need to worry about market acceptance. Apparently, anything and everything breaks even or makes money so anything and everything is acquired, packaged and distributed. If you're just whistling in the dark, then "The Tunnel" may be all right. If you want some dramatic excitement and entertainment, move quickly along the shelves of your favorite video store.

"Dead Aim" is another Vestron offering this month, although I didn't have time to screen it. It's billed as an exciting detective thriller with exotic dancers, drugs, the FBI and the KGB.

It also got a name cast - Ed Marinaro, Corbin Bernsen, William Sanderson, Darreil Larson, Isaac Hayes and William Windom — but dramatic quality is not the question press agents deal with.

Gottfried gives new meaning to zaniness

Gilbert Gottfried is more at home on stage than he is staying in the countless hotel rooms on the road. And he certainly doesn't seem very comfortable talking to reporters.

"It didn't pay anything," Gottfried said. "I was there with 500 people with guitars trying to sing like Bob Dylan.

Eventually, Gottfried moved on to comedy gigs that paid, and things started to happen. His zaniness was spotted by MTV, which hired him to do a series of commercials. Most notable of these was a spot on how he helped The Who get its name.

The MTV commercials were the first real national opportunity for Gottfried, and through his success there, he landed more jobs, pitching items like O Henry! candy bars and Banquet chicken. Michael Webster got hooked on triathalons when he and his college roommate decided to train for a local triathlon in Kankakee, III.

What makes Mike run?

By Bred Emone staff writer

It started innocently and gradually be-came a passion for triathlete Michael Webster

"I was into a variety of sports," recalls the 29-year-old product design engineer from Plymouth. "I was a bike racer, mediocre at best, but I tried hard. I had done some running and I knew how to swim when I was in grade school and high school. I played basketball, tennis, and was a golfer, too."

While attending the University of Illi-nois, Webster and his roommate decided to train for a local triathlon - a half-mile swim at an outdoor community pool, followed by a 20-mile bike ride and 10-kilometer run.

"It was in Kankakee, Illinois - the two of us trained the whole summer and had one heck of a time," he said.

Webster was hooked.

By 1987 he was in triathlon heaven. With over 4,000 applicants, Webster's name was one of 1,200 drawn to compete in the Ironman Triathlon World Championship in Kona, an island in Hawaii.

THE TASK was an arduous one. Within 17 hourse he would be required to complete a grueling 2.4-mile open-ocean swim, a 112-mile bike race, and a 26.2mile marathon through the vast lava fields and sun-drenched coastline of the largest of the Hawaiian Islands.

A well-prepared Webster was up to the challenge, finishing the event in 10 hours and 24 minutes.

"He participated in a master's swim program in Ann Arbor and it really helped," said Webster's wife, Vickie, an avid runner who competed in this year's Boston Marathon. "Michael took a month off (from his job) before the race. We were dating at the time and he didn't see me much, but I was happy for him because he said the experience was fantastic. He said he enjoyed it. It never bothered him one hit."

Some may view his Ironman endeavor as masochistic, but for Webster it was like a walk in the park.

"I always dreamed of the Ironman. It was always one of my goals," he said. "I was able to get in good shape and when I got done, I felt good.

On your mark

"But before that I had visions of stumbling around. There were horrible visions . I was real tired as I crossed the finish line and I was beat up."

BUT WITH THE beautiful surroundings and proper training, Webster was able to come away with an even greater yearning to compete another Ironman someday. (His name has been passed over in the lottery now for two straight years.)

'You train in relative isolation, but once you get over there (Kona), the environment is so great because there are so many people just like you. You talk to each other about training techniques and it's exciting. It's real upbeat atmosphere." Webster's advice to any first-time triathlete is simple.

"Try not to get caught up in the compe-tition right away," he said. "Enjoy your first triathion. Don't try to squeeze out every last second.

"One of my goals at the Ironman was just to finish. I didn't push myself to the edge. I wasn't racing. I held back a little and stayed within my abilities." Naturally, Webster idolizes the king of triathletes, Dave Scott of Davis, California, who completed the 1986 Ironman course in a record eight hours, 28 minutes and 37 seconds.

"HE'S THE GUY I look up to, he's truly remarkable," Webster said. "He's not only gifted and talented, but he's often an underdog who always comes from behind. And he's humble, something I think we should all strive to be.

While Webster awaits another chance to compete in Hawaii, he spends his leisure hours running with the Redford Roadrunners Club or competing in local triathlons. In April he ran his third Boston Marathon, finishing in an impressive two hours and 49 minutes

"When I was single, I could get away with staying out until 10 p.m. training, but now it's more difficult," he said. "I have added demands to my wife and it takes away from training, but my wife is very encouraging and supportive.

Vickie Webster said she wouldn't mind another trip to Hawaii.

"He's dying to do it again, I'd be glad to go," she laughed. "It wouldn't take much to get him motivated. All he needs more time to train.

But even with the demands of his marriage, a full-time job with Ford Motor Co. and night school (Wayne State's master's program), Webster is itching for another opportunity at the Ironman.

"I FOUND MYSELF often dreaming about it," he said. "After a challenge like that, you feel you've reached the ultimate. But there's also guite a letdown. That's why my ambition is to go back and maybe go a little faster.

"The people who work the Ironman take every precaution and they make it enjoyable and safe. You come away feeling good."

DO THE 11 p.m. instead of the 9 p.m. Electrical Parade at the Kingdom. Watch daytime parades from the back of the Kingdom (for example, Frontierland or Liberty Square). Get to the Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park early and go straight to the Backstage Tour while others are finding their way down Hollywood Boulevard. You won't beat the crowds but it helps.

You will probably want to spend some of your night time doing the fireworks and electrical parade at the Kingdom and the new Laserphonic Fantasy show at EPCOT.

and light. Crowds are dancing on the street. The building is an atrium, a vessel of light. The live band is in a futuristic vehicle above the dance floor. Roller skaters circle on a mezzanine above it.

Mannequins is more like a live dance theater. You listen to intercom conversations between show technicians as you ride the elevator to the third floor. From a catwalk you look down on a revolving dance floor and a crowd of real and live mannequins dancing in a world that never stands still. Sets move. Lights change; the floor turns.

If you prefer country and western, you find it across the plaza at the Neon Armadillo. Disney wouldn't be Disney, if it didn't have a little cornball, so there is an elaborate fiction to explain the island.

So you want to be Naval jet pilot. eh?

Well, like in the films "An Officer and a Gentlemen" and "Top Gun," first you have to go to flight school. Nothing strenuous, mind you.

First, let's take a dip. You have to swim a mile - in 25 pounds full flight gear. But before you dry off, you have to dive off a platform and swim another 25 yards underwater wearing the same outfit.

We aren't even talking about the obstacle course or the loads of work in the classroom or trying to land a jet at night on an aircraft carrier in the middle of the ocean. Indeed, to be jet fighter pilot, a person has to want it.

Lt. Cmdr. Doug McClain did. As a result, he flies as No. 3 pilot, left wing for the U.S. Navy's prestigious Blue Angels flight team.

"It's pretty similar (to the movies)," said McClain, 32, whose Blue Angels will fly this weekend at the Wayne County Air Show. "It's Hollywood, so they dramatize things a bit. But as a far as the physical demands and the flight footage, It's very realistic."

Except in the movies, the ride is only two hours long. In the Blue Angels, there's some 80 shows a year with 300 days on the road. For an hour of performing in an air show, there is at least four hours of practice.

FOR THAT reason, Blue Angel pilots usually only serve two or three years on the team. This is McClain's second year, performing as a narrator last season.

As the No. 3 pilot, McClain's job is to balance the flight formation. The No. 2 pilot on the right wing sets the formation, McClain follows it.

That takes practice. McClain has had plenty.

His debut in the Blue Angels has been preceded by an honored career in the U.S. Navy. He served aboard the aircraft carrier USS Midway as a member of the VA-115 Eagles. As a member of the Eagles, he was awarded "Top Tail-hooker" and "Pilot of the Year" in 1984. He was also honored with the Navy Achievement Medal for overall performance. McClain has accumulated more

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Doug McClain said Hollywood isn't offbase when it comes to being a top-notch pilot. He flies as No. 3 pilot, left wing for the prestigious Blue Angels Naval flight team.

'Each show is different. The accomplishment you feel by performing a safe and enjoyable show makes it worthwhile . . . The only thing is you can't get too excited. It's a lot like a football player playing 60 minutes of football. Both are physically and mentally demanding.'

- Lt. Cmdr. Doug McClain

than 2,650 flight hours and 379 carrier landings. He earned the Norden Pickle Barrell Award for bombing accuracy and is a threetime nominee for the Commander, Naval Air Pacific's Landing Signal Officer of the Year.

All of which culminates a personal dream of McClain's since he was 14. His dad was a fighter pilot in the Air Force. Like father, son wanted to follow.

McClain attended the University of Colorado for two years, playing on the Buffalo's 1977 Big Eight Championship team that went to the Orange Bowl, He transferred to the University of Oklahoma, where he graduated with a bachelor's degree in business administration

All of which helped prepare him for the rigors of basic and advanced jet training in Ringsville, Texas. He received his gold wings in 1981.

"EACH SHOW is different," McClain said. "The accomplishment you feel by performing a safe and enjoyable show makes it worthwhile. Obviously, we don't hear the fans clapping on the ground.

"The only thing is you can't get too excited. It's a lot like a football player playing 60 minutes of foot-ball. Both are physically and mentally demanding."

Before a show, members of the Blue Angels sit down to map out each detail. They can spend up to two hours debriefing after a performance.

"Each time we go out - we call it a show - but it's really a practice," he said.

The winter months are spent preparing for the upcoming air show season. The Blue Angels spend January through March, flying twice a day six times a week.

Each maneuver is carefully gauged and practiced. For that reason, the Blue Angels have performed for 43 years before more than 2 million spectators without incident. The air show disaster in West Germany last summer has brought closer scrutiny to such exhibitions.

But as McClain added, "We've never so much as harmed a hair on their head.'

Usually, the heads the Blue Angels turn at air shows look upon the pilot's life as a glamorous one. But it can be grueling.

The amount of time spent away from home is difficult, especially for a guy like McClain who has a wife and three children. McClain said he lifts weights and exercises during down time.

"We're depicted as being glamo-rous and stuff," he said. "What "What people don't understand is the work that goes into each show."

The Blue Angels will perform on Saturday and Sunday, July 29-30, at the Wayne County Air Show at Willow Run Airport. Advance tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for children. A portion of the proceeds benefit the Easter Seal Society of Wayne County. For informa-tion, call 482-8888.

end a night in Orlando a clubs and cafes of Church St. Station.

And definitely plan a night or two at Pleasure Island, which connects by three footbridges to the WDW Village Marketplace on the opposite side of the property from the theme parks. If you remember the Empress Lilly, a riverboat-cum-restaurant, it anchors one end of the island.

This entertainment complex is quite different from other Disney attractions. It's designed for adults and older teens. You can eat, shop, enjoy the ongoing street parties and wandering musicians free, but a $14.95 flat fee gives you admission to any and all of the seven themed nightclubs.

You must be 21 to go to Mannequins Dance Palace. You should probably have a teen-aged escort, if you're over 21 at Videopolis venturers Club, Neon Armadillo, Comedy Warehouse, and the more traditional Empress Lilly.

"It's like one big night club with seven different rooms," Carradine said. "Pleasure Island is a new form of entertainment with its roots going back before the days of sound films.

"DISNEYLAND and the Magic Kingdom were based on the movies, but Pleasure Island is based on the ideas that led to Disneyland in the first place. The whole island has the texture of a night-time arená. It's not like a cinema, its more like a theater, only the visitors are the actors and the script changes every night." Carradine gets really excited when he talks about designing XZFR or Mannequins, both of which are entered from the top floor.

"XZFR, pronounced zephyr, is an atrium and you follow a path, from the bar on the top, to the roller skating on the second floor to the dance floor at the bottom. The rooms get bigger as you go down, so you feel safe and in the company of friends when you get there."

In real life, the whole of the outide and the inside of the Rockin' Rollerdrome is pulsating action

A FABLED sailmaking magnate, Merriweather Adam Pleasure, disappeared at sea and left all these abandoned lofts. warehouses and factories for rehabilitation by the Imagineering group a century later.

The Neon Armadillo is in 'Adam Pleasure's quirky greenhouse," but you can ignore all that. Focus on the featured country bands - The Vigilantes July 30 and Aug. 6 and Southern Rail July 24-29 and July 31- Aug.5.

The Adventurers Club, "once a retreat for Pleasure's yachting clientele," is where you join live performers on a mystery tour, following the great explorers into the unknown, or breaking off at the bar, as you wish.

Videopolis East was designed for your brother, but you will love it if you can stand 125 decibels. You walk into a huge video arcade, which is illuminated by 169 video monitors. It looks like the inside of a spacecraft, with the latest music videos and two cameras shooting images of the dancers onto some of the screens. You even dance on video monitors. 4

"Each of the clubs express their entertainment form by conventional means, but Videopollis East is quite different from the others," Carradine said. "Its all light. Imagine 169 30-inch monitors controlled by a computer system. Six locations have monitors that ask you to play games, difficult games, but if you win you can take over the whole club temporarily."

UNLIKE THE other clubs, Videopolis East doesn't serve alcohol. Like most of the clubs, they serve food. Other restaurants and bars are scattered around the island.

You may want to spend the next day stretched out at Typhoon La-goon, but stay the day because its $17.50 plus tax and is not covered in your three- or four-day pass. (That covers the Magic Ringdom, EPCOT and the Disney-MGM Studios.) \

Q. I work for a software company, doing direct marketing as well as many sales seminars. I enjoy my work but get frustrated when I see companies looking at specific needs, such as one new program, rather than seeing their bigger picture. They often need to learn how their departments can work together better, etc. but I'm not paid to help them in that way. What can I do?

A. In our phone conversation, we agreed that you could begin teaching team-building seminars on your own, and that joining the National Speakers Association would be an excellent way to network and learn to market yourself.

Like you, all too many people have burning messages in them, but don't know how to go about spreading their word. Others have had different goals in the backs of their heads for years, but haven't acted upon them because they don't know how to go about implementing their ideas. Perhaps they want to hire a bookkeeper, be more fashionable, make friends easier, be a better decision maker, write a book or overcome shyness. Still others suffer miserable relationships because of poor communications skills but don't know where to turn for help

Lack of information and support is their greatest problem. People often procrastinate because locating exactly the right re-source is extremely difficult. Finding the precise support needed could change your life, so don't be afraid to ask for information. People are usually wonderful about helping.

The key is to get started looking. Ask friends, relatives, business associates, consultants or college counselors. Check out associations in the reference section of the library. Look in the pho ne book and start calling anyone even vaguely related to what you want. If you face a blind alley, just back out and start in another direction. Don't get discouraged.

Outlays of money can also impede pet projects. It may seem that $500 or $1,000 is too much to spend for help. As you point out, look at the bigger picture. If your plan won't reimburse you either financially or emotionally, or if it will continue to bleed you, then it is too much to spend. If you are convinced your project will repay you many times over financially, change your life dramatically or give you great personal satis-faction, then it could be the best investment of your life.

You obviously have what it takes to do what you want, you just have to do what it takes to get what you want.

LD newspapers create a problem when they fill up landfills and clutter basements and garages. But there is a good use for old newspapers that helps bring about a more productive, weed-free garden.

A mulch of shredded newspapers conserves moisture, moderates temperatures and discourages weed growth. It can also shelter seedlings on exposed soil from sun, wind and rain. The paper generally decom-poses gradually into soil-enriching humus by the end of the season.

Newspaper strips mixed with grass clippings soak up excess moisture to encourage an airy, open texture in compost piles. The high-carbon newsprint rots readily in combination with the high-nitrogen clippings, and household wastes such as fruit and vegetable peelings, egg shells, coffee grounds and tea leaves.

Newspapers generally contain 75 percent ground wood pulp and 25 percent purified fiber or cellulose. Wood pulp contains the nutrients and trace elements that were in the trees originally. Newsprint ink is made from carbon black and mineral oil and is not harmful to plants or microbial soil life. Newspapers are said to be rich in carbohydrate energy and have been successfully fed to cattle by agricultural researchers at several university experiment stations

But researchers advise against using color newspaper inserts and magazines in gardens.

NEW EMPRESS APPLE: A new apple, dsscribed as "semi-firm and snappy, with good color, texture and size," has been named Empress by Cornell University's New York Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

The apple, with a pedigree dating back two and a half centuries, is reported similar in appearance and some characteristics to Empire, named in 1966. However, Empress ripens a month earlier, which is "a real plus," says Dr. Roger D. Way, professor emeritus. "It means that quality New York State apples will be available to consumers well before many other varieties.'

The parents of Empress are Jonamac and the New Jersey-bred Vista Bella. Jonamac is a cross of McIntosh and Jonathan.

Way said: "Unlike many varieties that produce well every other year, Empress is an annual cropper with consistently good yield. And the apple is the product of a relatively small tree, enabling growers to plant more trees per acre, thus increasing profits.

NO-TILL EVALUATION: Because of the severe 1988 drought, No-Till, a popular conservation method in which a new crop is planted in the residue of the previous crop, is facing increased evaluation.

"Farmers should not be in a hurry to abandon No-Till on its showing during the serious 1988 drought." said Wilson Scaling, chief of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.

"In average and limited drought Shredded paper good garden mulch years," he said, "No-Till generally results in better yields than conventional tillage, and we have those conditions more often than we have ex-tended drought conditions." He said it was too early to tell about 1989, but field reports indicate conditions "seem to vary, depending on soils, cropping patterns, time of spring planting and spotty rainfall."

Illinois reported that fields No-Tilled for several years looked better this season than did those in their first or second year of No-Till.

condo queries Robert M. Melsner

Q. Our management company has recently gotten involved in our condo project and suggested that we terminate the contract with our landscaping contractor. The management company has suggested that we come up with someone else because he doesn't like our landscaping contractor. There are some on the board that are concerned because we are in the middle of a two or three year contract with the landscaping contractor. We just hired the management company over the last year or so and are wondering what to do. There is a difference of opinion on the board as to whether or not we can terminate the landscaping contractor. What do we do?

A. You are best advised to check out why the management company wants to terminate the landscaping contractor, particularly if you are satisfied with his work. Find out who the management company has in mind to replace it and find out whether that replacement is an affiliated company of the management company. If so, you may be getting an indication of how your management company is. Find out from your lawyer, in writing, whether or not you can even terminate your landscaping contractor before you go any further. If you are satisfied with your landscaping contractor presumably even if you're paying a little more, you are well advised to stay with him.

The management company, if it is not acting properly, may be subjecting itself to a suit by the landscaping contractor for wrongful interference with the contractual relations between the association and the landscaping contractor. In short, a personality dispute or self-aggrandizement by the management company may be leading the association into hot water. Check your legal rights.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. what would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more Interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

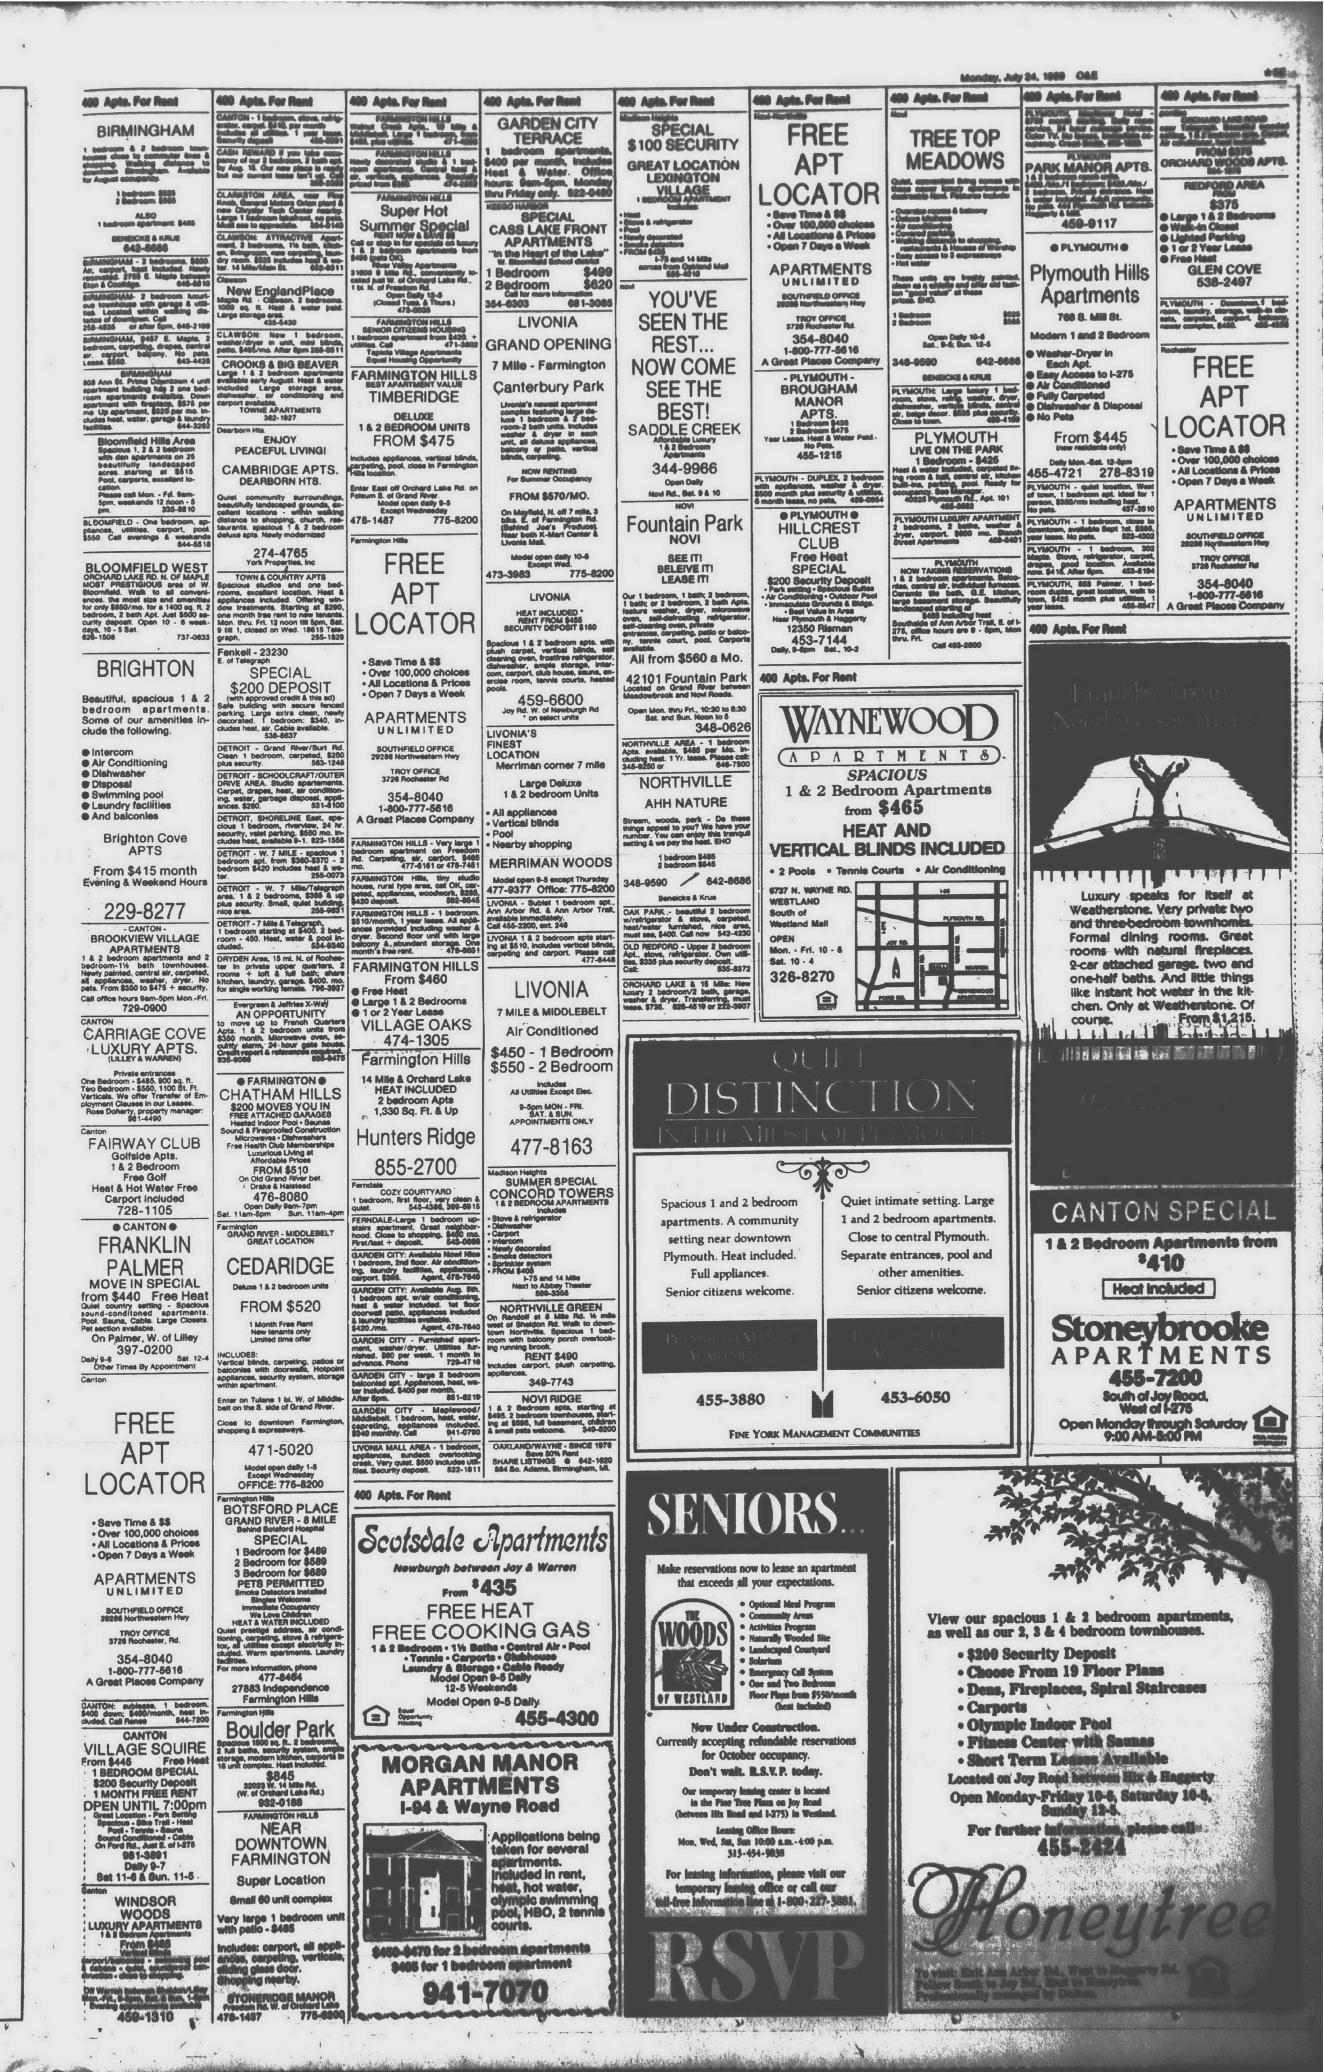

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
