New principal

It's official. Thomas MacKenzie who most recently served as principal of Rocky Mountain High School in Fort Collins, Colo., starts today as principal of Plymouth-Canton High School. MacKenzie replaces Tom Tattan, who recently was named executive director of secondary education. The school board formally approved MacKenzie's appointment Monday, Sept. 24.

One of the reasons MacKenzie took the job is that "your school organization is one of the most unique in the country," he said.

Extra Miler

Field Elementary School principal Larry Miller, who joined the district in 1973, has been honored by the school board with the "Extra Miler" award.

One nominator described Miller as "one of the most positive, upbeat and sensitive people know."

DDA unveils downtown streetscape plan

By Kevin Brown staff writer

The plan to improve the look of Plymouth's downtown is done, and officials want to show it to business owners and residents.

The streetscape master plan, put together by Schervsh Vogel Merz of Detroit with suggestions from Downtown Development Authority members, was presented in final form to the DDA on Thursday.

What this plan shows is a balanced approach to public space and the need for parking," said archi-

Thanksgiving celebration on the burner

By Kevin Brown staff writer

They want to "postpone" Christmas in Plymouth.

"Let's put it off until the first weekend in December," suggested downtown businessman Fred Hill.

At a Downtown Development Authority meeting Thursday, Hill unveiled his "Thanksgiving Mall-ternative, or whatever," he said.

Emphasis on a Thanksgiving celebration in Plymouth would be a reaction to the modern over-celebration of Christmas, he said.

"It's too early to celebrate Christ-mas (in October)," Hill said.

By mid-October, the malls that compete with downtown Plymouth for business have already erected Christmas displays.

"Let's just slow down, and celebrate a great American holiday, Thanksgiving.'

The event would be a good way to promote downtown businesses, by contrasting Plymouth's style with that of the malls, he said.

Kirksey quits S'craft board

Details on campaign contributions to Schoolcraft trustees, 2A

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Jack Kirksey had threatened to resign from the Schoolcraft College board: Wednesday, he made good on his threat.

But the Livonia resident added a twist.

Kirksey, disgruntled over the college's attorney selection process, didn't issue a resignation date. That means he will be free to vote on the new college attorney, as well as next year's college budget and other important issues.

Kirksey, a former state representative, said he wanted to leave "as small a window as possible" between his resignation and next year's trustee election. He added he's looking at leaving the board in early 1991.

KIRKSEY GAVE no reason for his resignation, either in a letter submitted to the board, or in statements at Wednesday's meeting.

"I'll give my reasons at my last meeting, whenever it is," Kirksey said afterward.

Though not a surprise, Kirksey's resignation adds a new controversy to the already controversial situation surrounding selection of a legal representative for the Livonia-based community college.

Initially, Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk had been recommended for the job, but Kirksey charged law firm partner Robert Law and his friend, Schoolcraft board president Mary Breen used undue influence in attempting to secure college legal work for the Plymouth firm. Both the firm and Breen called Kirksey's charges untrue

A second controversy erupted a few weeks later, when fellow trustee Wendell Smith charged Kirksey was being unduly influenced by Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone - the college's current legal representausing contribution records

Campaign funding sheds light on feud

Campaign contributions to Schoolcraft College candidates have rarely, if ever, been an issue. That is because community college campaigns have traditionally been run on shoe string budgets. Campaign financing, however has become a side controversy in the larger controversy surrounding selection of the college's legal . Trustee Jack Kirksey charged board president Mary Breen was unduly influenced by Robert Law, a partner in a firm under consideration for the job, initially alleging Law was her former campaign In response, fellow trustee Wendell Smith alleged Kirskey was unduly influenced by the college's current firm Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone - whose members contributed to Kirksey's 1987 Livonia mayoral campaign. The campaign contributions under question, in themselves, represent no impropriety on anyone's part, nor any violation of state campaign law. But an examination of each board member's financial records sheds light on the allegations, if not answering them entirely.

• Kirksey raised $47,493 during. his unsuccessful mayoral campaign, with $550 clearly identified as coming from Miller, Canfield attorneys. "Attorneys, like other pro fessional groups, are big campaign contributors," Kirksey said. Campaign records show $3,930 in contributions from contributors clearly identified as lawyers - with $450 coming from Charles Tangora, a partner in another firm under consideration for the legal representative's job.

Ironically, the Miller, Canfield contributors apparently need only have been identified by name, not profession, under state election law because they each contributed less than $200 each to the Kirksey cam-

Records for Kirksey's 1989 Schoolcraft campaign show no contributions, either from lawyers or any other group.

· Breen's records show Law was not her campaign director, as Kirksey once alleged. Breen's filings list her own name as campaign director. Records from May 1983 to July 1989 show Breen has raised $3,321 during her two Schoolcraft campaigns. The largest single contributor, giving $100 last year, was Weintstein & Weinstein, a Southfield law firm that isn't under consideration for the Schoolcraft job.

Breen's fund shows a $78.65 bal-

· Smith's campaign contributions, $1,813, all came in increments too small for identification beyond the contributor's name. His campaign fund is now empty.

Among other trustees:

paign waiver for his 1985 campaign, indicating he intended to raise and spend less than $500.

· Harry Greenleaf, raised $2,670 between 1985-89. The largest contribution, $200 came from the Wayne County 2nd Congressional district GOP Committee. His campaign fund, too, is empty.

• Thaddeus McCotter, elected in 1989, raised $3,070 in his campaign. The biggest contribution:

$450 from himself. McCotter's fund retained a $432 balance after the campaign.

e Jeanne Stempien, like Burley, filed a waiver for her 1987 Schoolcraft campaign. Records show Stempien raised $9,859 one year later in her unsuccessful 36th District state House campaign. The biggest contribution: $1,800 from the Wayne County UAW political action committee.

from Kirksey's 1987 Livonia mayoral campaign.

ATTEMPTING TO resolve the first controversy, trustees invited law firms to submit bids.

Eight responded and, on Wednesday, they trimmed the field to four: Law, Memming, Miller, Canfield; Brashear, Tangora & Spence of Livonia and Plunkett, Cooney of Southfield.

But it was the second controversy that may have prompted Wednesday's resignation.

"In spite of what you might think of me, I still love this college," Kirksey said to his fellow board members.

Kirksey issued his resignation at the start of Wednesday's meeting. Afterward, relations between the second-year board member and his fellow trustees appeared cordial.

Breen thanked Kirksey for his service to date. Kirksey promised Breen he wouldn't be a "lame duck" and would continue to attend meetings.

Kirksey was appointed to the board in 1988 to fill the unexpired term of Laura Toy. He was elected to a six-year term of his own in Kirksey is director of community education for Livonia Public Schools. He represented the Livonia area in the state House from 1977-84.

The six-year term runs through 1995, its unexpired four years would be up for election next year.

"(In Kellogg Park) there might be a teepee and stockade-type fencing and pumpkins and gourds.

An area farmer is donating four acres of corn, Hill said. Organizers plan to tie the ears on signs and parking meters as the celebration approaches.

AN UNUSUAL FEVER CAUSED BY RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS

If you have rheumatoid arthritis, you have more than enough woes. The condition, besides causing your joints to ache, can be the source of pneumonia-like chest pain, and is associated with numbness of the hands and feet. There is another little known complication that you should be aware of the sudden onset of high fever and an encompassing stiffness of your joints that can render you nearly helpless.

The fever may be as high as 104 degrees; the stiffness may be so profound that you can hardly walk from your kitchen to your bed between the onset of the attack and its

A physician unaccustomed to treating rheumatoid arthritis usually believes you have a joint infection. The doctor will order you into the hospital and immediately begin

Medical experience indicates that no infection is responsible for this attack; hence antibiotics are of little help. The treatment of choice is cortisone injection into the joints that hurt the most, followed by oral cortisone for 5 days to 2 weeks. Some individuals need to be on low doses of cortistone thereafter to fend off a repeat episode.

OU dorm stays substance free MSU also adding alcohol free living

By Put Murphy

About 800 students at Michigan State University have signed up for alcohol-free living quarters this fall, the first time such an option became available

By making the option available, MSU became the last of the state's 14 public colleges and universities with dormitories to give students some choice about the lifestyle of the people with whom they live.

The idea of offering substance free residence halls came about several years ago, according to one of its advocates

"We wanted to giving students a choice," said state Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield who saw the option as a means of aiding students who don't drink.

He, U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman and others insisted such living arrangements would reduce peer pressure to smoke, drink or do

The response was gratifying, Honigman said, with most state schools responding. Oakland University, the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University led the way.

MSU, THE STATE'S largest university with more than 42,000, was the notable exception. The university always demanded students abide by state drinking laws and always emphasized edu-cation about alcohol and drug abuse, said Mary N. Hass, MSU director of university housing projects. "And we've had no-smoking residence halls for years."

Part of the reason was opposition from students themselves, according to James D. Studer, assistant vice president for student affairs and services.

Students were concerned parents would insist on a controlled living environment for their youngsters, rather than letting them decide for themselves, Studer said in March.

However, when MSU found that students wanted an alcohol-free op-

Angered by editorial

To the editor:

In response to your opinion about the veal protest:

The animal rights activists, from what I understand, were more accurately handing out leaflets to inform ale of the manner in which some veal calves are raised. Educating people about a particular inhumane ess is hardly "trivializing the ise." Also, only one veal crate was displayed.

Animal rights philosophy does not contend that animals should "live a life similar to humans." Instead, animal rights advocates generally speak of animals being able to live their lives without exploitation by humans. Veal crates deny a calf a natural mother/offspring rearing.

Your conclusion that animal rights activists worry more about animal suffering than a starving third world is incorrect. Most activists I know are active in several issues. Animal rights is just one of them. Also, animal rights activists are usually vegetarians which is a powerful statement that addresses world hunger. It takes sixteen pounds of grain and soybeans to produce one pound of feedlot beef.

You state your concern is human health. If so, again, the diet espoused by animal rights activists should be focused on. Vegetarian diets have been praised for their health benefits in countless studies. The book "Diet for a New America" can provide ref-

Your commentary suggests that extending more rights to animals implies a lesser value is placed on human life. My view is that there is not a fixed quantity of rights in the universe, that is, if one party gains some rights then another party must lose some rights. Instead, the rights of all sentient creatures are an expanding sphere where everyone benefits from an expanded social con-

I do not believe that animal rights activists give animals human qualities or view them as cartoon characters. Instead, again, they believe that animals should be able to live their lives without human exploitation.

You missed the whole point of what some of our ancestors struggled for in a farming existence. Animals were an asset consumed only sparingly, and, further, were raised in much more humane way, as opposed to the modern factory farms methods such as the veal crate.

I also question who is sane in regard to what is considered food. To consume the rotting flesh of a dead animal does seem especially sane to me. Consumption of grains, legumes, vegetables and fruits does seem sane, though. A dead deer on the side of the road fails to make my mouth

With our modern society's loss of our agricultural roots the act of slaughtering, bleeding and butchering your own animal for dinner would indeed be a shock. I think that the vegetarian alternative would have more adherents if these tasks were an individual's responsibility.

I think the sanity of a half million people sitting in the woods with rifles raised ready to kill during the opening days of hunting season is questionable. The sane people are those questioning such a practice given the number of fatalities and environmental (mis)management associated with hunting.

Regarding your allegation that all animal rights activists are insane or lunatics, Doris Day, Paul McCartney, Issac B. Singer, Casey Kasem and Christopher Reeve, to name a few, would beg to differ. Jeff, I think that your ill-informed and poorly researched conclusion on animal issues and stereotyped view of activists is foolish. For someone in your position in the media, this is

Parental consent a good law

I am very concerned about The Observer's editorial on Thursday, Sept. 20, regarding your disappointment in the passage of the parental consent for abortion law.

Seventy percent of people surveyed were in favor of this law because they have a responsibility: the health and well-being of their children. Whether we as parents claim to be pro-life or pro-choice, the real issue involved here is responsibility. Let's not forget that abortion is surgery. Whether we believe it is the death of an unborn child or not, our young daughters are undergoing this surgery every day without our knowledge or permission. Many times abortion involves the administering of prescription drugs, it also involves the dilation of their cervixes. Then a suction tube is inserted into the uterus and the "contents" are removed.

In a later pregnancy there are much more involved and complicated methods of terminating the preg nancy. There are complications the every parent should know about. Come on, parents, let's show our kids we love them!

Animal rights fanatics want to turn the world on its ear

mal rights activists come on as warm, fuzzy types who just want to see animals treated nicely. They want cows to be allowed to frolic in a field living some sort of life out of a Walt Disney movie.

Their message sounds nice on the surface, but let's face it, they're trying to change the way we live. They aren't out protesting at events in Plymouth and Canton just to try convincing us that veal could be raised more humanely; they're out to change laws.

THEY WON'T BE content until they have banned hunting and fishing and turned us into vegetarians. They're a mutant strain of puritans who want to ban meat eating simply because they don't like it. It makes me wonder where it would stop. Will there eventually be vegetable rights?

I don't even like to call them animals rights activists, but we in the media are forced by convention to use such terms. To me they're just They're naive do-gooders with the analytical skills of a chicken and couldn't think their way out of a paper bag. They feel sorry for animals, but have no idea what would happen to our society if their ideas were to he adopted.

If we were to adopt those ideas, there would be no animals used for medical research. What they do to animals in a lab isn't pretty. But if it helps to find a cure for AIDS or some other disease that afflicts humans, then it's worth it.

In third world countries where animals are used for farm work, folks would probably have to stop because that would be a violation of an oxen's rights. Then the people in the country wouldn't be able to raise

They also claim we should all be vegetarians because it's a so-called powerful statement about world

THEIR SO-CALLED stance on world hunger is so naive that it's funny. The problems of world hunger are human ones, not a problem with resources. Corrupt governments in third world countries use food as a club to keep people in line, and all this happens while farmers in American stockpile tons upon tons of grain in elevators. In Russia crops of potatoes rot in fields because the government can't figure out how to get them to market.

We aren't starving anyone by feeding grain to animals as the animal nuts would have us believe.

I first noticed this version of insanity several years ago when working at a newspaper in central Michigan. A group of local doctors asked the county to borrow cats from the county animal shelter.

The doctors' wanted to use them to practice a medical technique used to save newborn children from choking. The doctors' plan was to sedate the cats, practice the techniques and return the cats to the shelter unharmed.

It sounded fine. I believe that the lives of all the cats in the world aren't worth the life of one baby. I figured that if a few cats didn't make it, there wouldn't be much But the local cat nuts showed up at the county commission meeting and convinced the commission to reject the plan. It was insane, especially when the county animal shelter was known to gas stray cats. I've often wondered if any babies died in that community as a result of that incident.

IT WORRIES ME THAT these animal nuts are gaining credibility. In California there's talk of banning hunting and fishing. And the animal nuts are also trying to push a bill of rights for animals. That one makes me shudder.

Could you imagine an argument before the Supreme Court about the rights of a chicken? And taking into consideration what the courts have done to disrupt human affairs, I hate to think of them messing with our food supply. I'm certain that if anybody could turn a chicken into a turkey, a court could.

The animal nuts don't acknowledge there are laws protecting animals: Species are protected from hunting, people can be charged with

So, why is a bill of rights for animals needed where there's legislation on that can either be strengthened or added to? My conclusion is that the animal folks want fish and animals treated as humans under the legal system.

The animal nuts claim there is no fixed quantity of rights that are doled out on a portion basis. That's very poetic. But it's naive. The legal system is designed to deal with humans and is supported by taxpayers. To add animal rights to that stew would either clog the courts with even more cases or force governments to spend more money for judges and lawyer fees. Either way, there would be an effect on humans.

BUT ADVOCATING SUCH outrageous changes the animal nuts do a disservice to their own cause. There are real animal rights issues. Whales shouldn't be slaughtered into extinction and baby seals shouldn't be beaten to death. Also, we should protect our environment so that all species of animals can live. It's part of our heritage.

We should use our financial resources to further their protection and not waste our time, money or breath on worrying about the rights of a chicken or cow to live a psychologically fulfilling life.

People who do that are confusing humans with animals. That makes them crazy.

Why does the cookie crumble?

With the onslaught of school comes school lunches, and especially at the beginning of the school year, moms (and some dads) get roped into joining the great cookie brigade. You might get asked to make cookies for the school open house, Brownies or Boy Scouts, Indian Guides or field

Unfortunately, most folks don't have a clue as to what makes a cookie crumble. Americans love to eat cookies and most love to make them, but all too often their ideas about why one cookie is crisp and another dry are pretty half baked. It's because of the

Basically, cookie dough is a combination of fat, sugar, flour, leavening and moisture, such as egg. Changing the proportion of any basic ingredient also changes the cookie's character. Little variations make the difference between a great chocolate chip and a mediocre one.

All doughs begin with the addition of a fat. This might be butter, margarine, solid shortening or lard. Butter creates the finest flavor but it also has a tendency to make the cookies bleed and spread out. Margarine helps hold the cookie's shape. Therefore, the best combination is half butter, half margarine. Avoid using whipped butter or diet fats because they contain too high a concentration of water.

SUGAR NOT ONLY sweetens the dough but it also makes the cookies tender. Most cookies call for granulated sugar, but light or dark brown sugar can be substituted in most cases. Brown sugars give the cookies a richer flavor and a more moist texture. Honey and molasses can be substituted for a chewier cookie but remember to lower the dry ingredients to substitute for the added moisture. Again, the best cookies use combinations of half granulated sugar and half brown

When it comes to using eggs. the protein in eggs is what binds the dough together while the moisture in the eggs adds liquid. There are no ifs, ands or buts about this one - use only the freshest, Grade A Large eggs for the best results. Room temperature eggs are best because they blend in easier

In most cookie recipes, baking powder or baking soda will provide fluffiness. Without this leavening, the cookies would be dry and hard instead of light and flaky. Adding leavening is another way of incorporating air into the dough. Baking powder and soda contain an alkaline and an acid that react when wet. This reaction forms carbon dioxide, a gas which will expand in a hot oven and fills the cookie with tiny air pockets. The pocket remains after the cookie is baked, creating light, tender cookies. Double-acting baking powder is the most common leavening and will give the best results.

Flour is the foundation of the cookie, but the flavor of flour should never be apparent when tasting the finished product. Cookies with too much flour are pasty and tough. Most recipes call for using an all-purpose flour, which is a mixture of hard and soft flour. Some recipes calling for whole wheat or other grain flours offer a more nutritious cookie with a nuttier taste. Even cookies calling for all-whole-wheat flour should contain some amount of all-purpose flour for best results.

Cake flour is best when cookies call for lots of handling, such as those formed by pressing or rolling the dough. Regardless of the type used, flour should be added at the last minute and mixed as little as possible for optimum re-

THE USE OF flavorings can make or break a cookie. For best results, use extracts instead of flavors which leave a more intense flavor. How much is a matter of preference.

Fig tree gets new lease on life

By Janice Brunson staff writer

OME LATE OCTOBER, Mike Soranno, 72, will participate in a ritual he has practiced annually for half a century.

Assisted by a son, a son-in-law or possibly a brother-in-law, he will loosen earth around the roots of 10 sturdy fig trees growing in the small backyard of his Dearborn Heights home, bend the trunks and bury the trees, protecting them from Michigan's harsh winter and ensuring healthly growth again next spring.

And for the first time next spring, Soranno's son Michael intends to take a cutting from one of his father's trees and plant it in the neat yard of his Livonia home, ensuring a continuation of the elder Soranno's unique method of fig harvesting in a climate totally unsuited to the fragile trees.

By his own admittance, the younger Soranno is no gardener. "I don't have the love for it. My father has." But, "He's getting up in years. It's his legacy and I want to make sure at least one of his trees survives," Michael said, explaining why he intends to nurture a second-generation orchard in his own yard.

THE ELDER SORANNO'S love affair with figs succulent, sweet fruit fit for the gods - has its origins in Bari, Italy, a southern region, noted for lush growth and juicy produce, where he was born.

As a child, Mike partook of figs fresh from the tree and warmed by the sun, turned sugary from long storage in large crocks or roasted and delicately stuffed with crunchy almonds.

"My mother wrapped figs in a napkin. I carried them to school in my pocket for lunch," he said in re-calling a simple childhood long past.

Such memories abruptly ended when, as a lad of 12 years, Mike joined his father and an older brother in the United States. It would be eight long years before he saw his mother again.

It was on a visit with his brother to the home of a sweetheart in Detroit that Mike first saw someone bury a fig tree. "Her father needed to bury his trees. I told him I'd help. It was my first experience.

In the more than 50 years since, Mike has tailored his own method through trial and error. "I know what works best."

leaves drop in the fall and before the first hard freeze of winter, a wide, deep trench is dug and partially filled with dried leaves covered with cardboard.

Earth is dug from around the root base; the small, outer roots loosened and cut, and the tap root left intact. The tree is then bent earthward and covered with cardboard, a generous heaping of leaves and earth, forming a mound reflective of a new grave.

The tree is buried until spring, when the fear of frost

"IT REQUIRES A LOT of patience. You have to love it," said Carmela, Mike's wife of 49 years. She and daughter Jean, the couple's eldest child, adore figs. Michael and his two brothers are indifferent to them, but Michael's daughter Leslie, 13, loves them.

Special figs are set aside for her. This summer, Mike had a basket of prized fruit delivered to the girl in Traverse City. They had ripened while she was attending a camp for music and the arts.

The fig is very sustaining. Very nourishing. It was the first fruit given to Adam and Eve, according to the Bible," Mike mused. "I thought it was the apple," Mi-

Mike's small orchard reflects his history.

An Eggplant Fig, fica melenzana in Italian, was started from a cutting carried here by Mike years before, from Gizzeria in Italy, his wife's hometown. The tree bears an elongated, deep purple fruit and is the first to ripen each spring.

The Bride Fig, fica sponsina, also represents the old country. Shortly after his marriage, Mike planted a cutting culled from a tree in Dearborn that had been started years ago by an old Italian woman who used to sell her fruit from the roadside.

Sky Blue and Brown Turkey varieties, each bearing brown-hued fruit, and the Magnolia Fig that bears a light purple fruit are American varities, purchased by Mike in Florida where fig trees flourish in warm, humid temperatures.

Flavor of Japan

It's in evidence at Akasaka restaurant

thought of sushi leaves you cold, that's no reason to ignore Japanese food. It doesn't take a connoisseur to appreciate the extraordinary flavor in Japanese dishes. Japanese cooking seems to seal in the flavors of meat, chicken and seafood as they are cooked quickly over high temperatures. Consequently, a simple chicken dish becomes extraordinary as the meat itself retains its moisture and can be dipped in various sauces, from a sweet teriyaki to a spicy sauce. So we found it at Akasaka restaurant in Livonia. This small restaurant in Laurel Commons, a strip center that also includes a Japanese grocery and a Japanese bookstore, is a delight. Just two years old, it is simply decorated with beautiful blond wood throughout, comfortable and quiet. And it must be genuine because we found ourselves among the few non-Japanese diners in a nearly

The restaurant has a few tatami, rooms where guests shed their shoes and sit at benches surrounding low tables. Two other small, spare rooms provide seating at tables. Women wearing traditional Japanese garb wait on tables, and they appear adept at communicating in both Japanese and English.

THE RESTAURANT'S tempura dishes are excellent, particularly the shrimp tempura in which the breading was almost spider-web fine and the shrimp were large and succulent. The tempura vegetables are equally tasty, particularly the carrots and eggplant. Both were accompanied by a sauce with a mild soy and ginger taste, and daikon, thinly sliced white radishes that added to the sauce for more flavor.

Also superb was the broiled salmon, a thick cut of fish that was cooked through but not overdone. We also were pleased with the beef teri-

Novices can get a good introduction to Japanese dining through Akasaka's combination dinners ($16.95). Guests may choose two entrees from shrimp tempura, salmon, chicken teriyaki or beef teriyaki. The dinner comes with miso soup, a flavorful soybean paste soup, and a fresh garden salad, featuring romaine lettuce, cucumber and tomato.

For those more familiar with Japanese dining, there are a few more adventuresome dishes, such as unaju (broiled eel) - as well as an assortment of sushi (seasoned rice with

California vintage marks 50th year

Today is a historic day in the California wine industry. Oct. 1, 1990 marks official release of the 1980 ase of the 1986 Beaulieu Vineyards Georges de La-tour Private Reserve Cabernet Sau-vignon — the 50th vintage of a wine first produced in 1936. It is the original California "private reserve."

"The Georges de Latour Private Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon is a blend of selected cabernet lots from Beaulieu Vineyards No. 1 and 2, contends Beaulieu Vineyard's president Anthony Bell. "Each tank of fermenting, free-run cabernet (no press wine is ever used) is evaluated daily. The selected lots then go to daily. The selection to complete large redwood tanks to complete malolactic fermentation. The tannins are softened with a light egg white fining and the wine received one full year bottle age prior to re-

We laughed together when she related to me that just the other day she actually felt bored. "Bored!" I cried out. "Yes, bored," she replied, as she was all caught up on her housework and couldn't quite decide what she wanted to do next. She seemed to be delighted to experience this new sensation. She had certainly logged her time in raising her own

At this point, having everything done, and, furthermore, having it stay that way, still seems very far off, to me. But perhaps that is one of the "sweet" parts of the bittersweet reality of raising children, then having them leave and go off on their own path of life.

For now, this week's Winner Dinner Winner, Carol Witte of Rochester Hills, has no room in her vocabulary for the word "bored." With two young children to care for, her life is a busy one. She volunteers her time at her church as well as for the Crisis Pregnancy Center of Rochester, a Pro-Life organization that provides help and support to single moms and WITTE AND HER husband opened their home and housed two different young women throughout their pregnancies, and found each experience to be very rewarding. Because her children are still young, Witte works for the Crisis Pregnanacy Center at home, washing and storing the baby clothes which are donated to the Center and then given to mothers who need them.

Originally from Pennsylvania, Witte met her husband at the General Motors Institute in Flint, where she earned a degree in industrial engineering. Before her children were born, she worked as a computer simulation engineer but now is enjoying being a full-time homemaker. Her recipe for Upside-Down Pizza is a tasty variation of almost every child's favorite meal but is much lower in fat and calories than the Carol Beatty Witte is a full-time homemaker who never has time to be bored. Upside-Down Pizza (foreground) is served with 6-Cup Ambrosia and Oatmeal Brownies.

Served with Six-Cup Ambrosia Salad, carrots and celery sticks and delicious oatmeal brownies, this is one dinner that will satisfy your family's hungry appetites.

Thank you, Carol Witte, for sharing your recipes with us and congratulations on being this week's Winner Dinner Winner. As a last note, please keep those recipes coming in. I'm especially looking for hearty stew recipes made with either chicken, veal or seafood.

UPSIDE-DOWN PIZZA

This recipe offers a low-fat version of pizza that is quick and easy to make. It can be prepared in advance up to the point where it has to be baked, which should be done just prior to serving.

2 teaspoons vegetable oil, divided

10 ounces ground turkey 1/2 cup chopped onion

1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon flour, divided

1 cup tomato sauce ¼ teaspoon basil leaves

¼ teaspoon fennel seed 1/2 teaspoon oregano

1 egg 3 ounces mozzarella cheese. shredded

1/2 cup skim milk

1/2 teaspoon salt 1 tablespoon Parmesan cheese

Heat 1/2 teaspoon oil in skillet; add turkey and onion. Using back of wooden spoon, crumble meat and cook, stirring occasionally, until onion is tender and turkey is no longer pink. Sprinkle mixture with 1 tablespoon flour and stir quickly to combine. Cook, stirring constantly, for 1 minute. Gradually stir in tomato sauce. Add basil, fennel and oregano and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and cook, stirring frequently, for 1 minute Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Spray a 3-quart casserole pan with non-stick cooking spray and put the turkey mixture in the pan. Sprinkle with the mozzarella

In a small mixing bowl, using an electric mixer, beat the egg. Add 1/2 cup flour and 11/2 teaspoon oil along with milk and salt. Continue beating until mixture is smooth. Pour the batter into the casserole pan, over the turkey mixture and cheese. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese Bake until it is puffed and golden. 25-30 minutes.

SIX-CUP AMBROSIA

Although this salad is best when it has had a few hours to absorb the flavors, it can be assembled and served right away.

Using "no-sugar added" cans of fruit, combine all ingredients and refrigerate until serving.

Homegrown veggies are special

Here is a menu for a September meal that will be remembered all winter long.

This year the combination of sun and rain seems to have been just right to produce the best home-grown vegetables in years. Here is opportunity to use several kinds these vegetables in one delectable meal that is fit for entertaining the most important of guests and simple enough to prepare for an informal supper on the deck for just you and the family.

It is also economical since most of the ingredients can be found in your garden or purchased reasonably this time of the year from roadside stands or in the produce department of your favorite supermarket. So you can even afford to splurge on a small steak if you like. However, if you add sausage to the pasta sauce (see recipe below) you really don't need to.

I need not mention the nutritional value of these vegetables, nor the aphrodisiac qualities attributed to them, since, if you are a regular reader of this column, I'm sure you will already know that this meal will help to make those who eat it healthy, happy and romantic as well.

Properly prepared and served, each dish is a work of art, pleasing to all the senses. The colorful combination of vegetables looks terrific and smells divine. Tearing the fresh bread apart with your fingers and dipping it in the oil is a sensuous experience to the touch. The taste is a heavenly delight and the compliments you receive from those who eat it will fall sweetly on your ears.

I suggest you serve this meal on stoneware set on a bright cloth table cover, with real cloth napkins. Stick a candle in a wine bottle and adorn the table with flowers you picked yourself from the backyard or wild ones from some vacant lot.

Relax and enjoy your dinner. I

Wayne County MADD celebrates 10th birthday

MADD, the organization that helped turn drunk driving from a minor concern into a major national is-sue, is celebrating its 10th birthday, and a party for the Wayne County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving is scheduled Thursday in

Lee and Sue Landes, founders of both the Wayne County and Michigan State chapters, will be recognized for tireless efforts in promoting MADD objectives.

The couple's son, Stephen, will attend the event. Another son, George, will not. He was killed nine years ago by a drunk driver, a tragedy that propelled the Landes into action.

Their efforts, combined with an estimated 2.8 million MADD supporters now working nationally (in-cluding 25,000 in Wayne County), equate a significant increase in public awareness about drinking and driving, preventative education and legislation aimed at regulating behavior and punishing offenders.

We are not a prohabitionist organization, but we believe there must be consequences for drinking and driving," said Sandi Wolf, a Birmingham resident trained in substance abuse who directs activities for the Wayne County chapter from small offices in Livonia.

The bill is now before the state Senate Judiciary Committee.

The measure also provides for 'administrative" revocation of a driver's license at the time of arrest, empowering police to seize the license of any driver who refuses or fails a breath alcohol content or

Roadside stands are still filled with harvest

This time of year isn't the end of delicious fresh-from-the-garden pro-duce. Many summer vegetables con-tinue to grow throughout September and into October.

Roadside stands, produce departments and gardens overflow with late summer harvest. Juicy tomatoes, fresh potatoes and ears of just-picked corn are bound to inspire your cooking. Butternut and acorn squash, Michigan carrots and celery and glossy applicates are also at and glossy eggplants are also at their peak. These vegetables easily find their way into salads and soups to highlight your menu.

Vegetables are excellent sources of fiber, high in vitamins and contain almost no fat or sodium. Learn to love these nutrient-rich foods. Vege-tables high in Vitamin A include carrots, greens and squash. Those high in Vitamin C include broccoli, potatoes, green peppers and tomatoes. To add a touch of zest to cooked vegetables, sprinkle with lemon juice or your favorite herbs instead of adding

Vegetables are also terrific as a snack food. In fact, I often carry sliced, raw carrots in a Ziplock bag inside my purse for something healthy to crunch on - great for curbing your appetite, too.

If you're looking for an alternative to basic vegetable soup, try a creamy blend of autumn vegetables with Golden Soup.

Going "vegetarian" one night a week wouldn't hurt, either. Vegetables that combine with pasta or Garden Variety Pizza make for hearty, healthy entrees.

Fresh vegetables are vital to healthy eating. Don't miss out on the earthy essence of Michigan's end-of-

Strong finish sparks Salem

By C.J. Riesk staff writer

Here's one way to rate a swim coach: Ask him (or her) to handicap a meet. A good, experienced coach will not only give you the winning team nine out of 10 times, but can come within a point or two of the

An example - the Plymouth Salem-Plymouth Canton girls' meet Tuesday at Salem. Here's what the two respective coaches thought would happen.

Hooker Wellman, Canton: "I thought it would be about eight points."

Chuck Olson, Salem: "Before the meet, I figured we would win by 10." Final score: Salem 98, Canton 88.

These guys are more than just accurate prognosticators, though. As emotional a meet as this one is, both know it doesn't really matter how well a team does in September. It's what they're doing in November that Still, swimming is more an exercise in conquering mental barriers than physical ones. So using the emotions released in a meet between cross-court (which is all that separates the two schools) rivals positively is of utmost importance.

"WE SWAM well," said Wellman after his team's loss. "We bettered most of our times. This meet brings out the best of both teams."

Then he added: "I think at the (Western Lakes Activities Association) meet we'll be much closer to Olson wouldn't disagree with Wellman's league-meet prediction. He also wouldn't let the mental lift provided by the victory over Canton, Salem's first in four years, escape.

"We swam better than I thought we would," said Olson. "I don't want to go back through all the records, but I know our seniors have never won a dual meet against Canton.

"It's a big step for us. It's good for our confidence.

What was also uplifting for the Rocks was the lineup Olson used. "That," said Wellman, "was the most bizarre lineup I've ever seen Chuck use. It was great."

The biggest gamble was Candi Bosse. Olson had her swimming 100yard butterfly and the 500 freestyle, with just one event - the 100 free in between. Not much recovery time.

BUT BOSSE came through, winning the fly in 1:04.00 and finishing second to Canton's Pam Pritchard (winning time: 5:48.52) in the 500.

Bosse was also part of Salem's 200 medley relay team, with Kristin Stackpoole, Amy Austin and Mandi Ras, which finished first in 1:58.89 and made the state-meet qualifying

The turning point in the meet was the 200 free relay. Entering the event, the score was knotted at 63-

Canton's Chris Lang churned to a second-place finish in the 200-yard individual medley, but it was Salem that won the meet.

all through eight events. The race was close all the way and wasn't decided until the final five yards, when Salem's Nicole Bosse touched out Canton's Tami Santomauro.

The Rocks' quartet of Julie Hickey, Ras, Stephanie Long and Nicole Bosse won in 1:46.99; Canton's Jeni Cooper, Leslie Moore, Chris Lang and Santomauro were second in

WHEN ASKED if that kind of finish had been part of his vision on the meet's outcome, Olson replied, "Well, I was very pleased with it, but, no, I hadn't planned it. Let's just say I was feeling a lot better after the 200 free relay.

No doubt. The Rocks never again trailed, taking firsts in the next two events (the 100 backstroke and 100 breaststroke). The 100 breast 100 (58.03) free. Stackpoole got victories in the 200 individual medley clinched the dual-meet victory -Amy Austin took first (1:14.24) and Amy Homan was second (1:17.04) for (1:05.80).Salem.

Canton's Pritchard and Cooper and Salem's Stackpoole were top finishers, each collecting two individual wins. Pritchard added a first in the 200 free (2:07.12) to her 500 triumph; Cooper was best in the 50 (25.74) and

(2:28.13) and 100 backstroke In diving, Canton's Becky Hoisington captured top honors (212.95 The victory improved Salem's dual-meet mark to 4-1; Canton slipped to 1-2. Salem hosts Farmington while Canton travels to Livonia Franklin for 7 p.m. meets Thursday.

Wukie lifts Chiefs to win

Plymouth Canton senior quarterback Karl Wukie ran for two touchdowns and passed for another Friday as the Chiefs rolled to a 29-6 victory over host Livonia Churchill in a Western Lakes Activities Association football encounter.

Wukie rushed for 99 yards on six carries and also completed three-of-four passes for 85 yards and a touchdown.

Wukie connected with Brett Howell for a 35yard touchdown in the first quarter. Running back Chris James capped the Chiefs' scoring with a touchdown run in the second quarter.

Churchill was held off the board until the fourth quarter when Mike Brooks scored on a 6-yard run. He finished the game with 46 yards rushing on 13 carries

The Chiefs are 4-1 overall and 2-1 in the WLAA Western Division. Churchill is 0-5 overall and 0-3 in the division.

SALEM 35, STEVENSON 0: Plymouth Salem had little trouble beating visiting Livonia Stevenson Friday, thanks in large part to Leon

The Rocks improve to 4-2 overall and 2-1 in the WLAA Lakes Division. Stevenson falls to 3-2 overall and 1-2 in the division.

Hister, a senior tailback, scored four touchdowns on runs of 1, 2, 5 and 14 yards. He finished the game with 104 yards rushing on 21 carries.

Salem quarterback Chris Tebbin rushed for 107 yards on six carries. He also completed one-oftwo passes for 11 yards and a touchdown. Tebbins hit Kevin Craggs with an 11-yard touchdown strike in the first quarter.

Stevenson quarterback Randy Micallef made good on seven-of-18 passes for 72 yards. He threw

North can't keep Salem from recording 6th win

According to Plymouth Salem golf coach Rick Wilson, the home course advantage means everything in golf. That's why Friday's 212-219 victory over host North Farmington was so satisfying for Wilson. Salem hit the links at North's home course, Glenn Oaks Golf Club, and walked away with its sixth win of the season.

"This is a big win for us," Wilson said. "Its always hard to go and a lot of people understand how hard that is.'

Brian Botwinski led the Salem attack with a 40. Jason Behnke and Chad Edgar chipped in with 42, while Dave Weaver and Ray Alvarado scored 43 and 45 respectively.

"Hopefully we are getting the ball rolling," Wilson said. "I knew we wouldn't have spectacular scores, but we are consistent and hopefully that will be in our favor when the conference tournament rolls

Close shave

Late scores lift Harrison

By C.J. Risak staff writer

30 p.m.

For three quarters of Friday's game against Northville, it seemed all Farmington Harrison's football team had going for it was tradition.

Maybe that was enough. Trailing 7-0, the Hawks mounted two long scoring drives in the final period to subdue the stubborn Mustangs 14-7 at Harrison.

The victory in this Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division showdown gave the Hawks' a 3-0 division record. They are 4-1 overall. Northville lost for the first time this season, but the 4-1 Mustangs are 2-1 in the division.

Nothing's come easily for Harrison this season. "You better believe it," agreed Hawks' coach John Herrington. Indeed, Northville showed little respect for tradition in the first

The Mustangs surrendered just 96 first-half yards. Quarterback Ryan Huziak and receiver-defensive back Mark Hilfinger were Harrison's biggest nemeses. Huziak completed seven-of-nine passes for 107 yards in the first half. Hilfinger caught four passes, two from each team.

HIS BIGGEST catch came on a first-down play from the Northville 42. A play-action fake froze Hawk cornerback Greg Piscopink and Hilfinger streaked down the sideline uncovered. Huzjak hit him at about the Harrison 20 and he went in untouched for the game's first score. Todd Pieti's placement made it 7-0.

The Hawks never got untracked offensively in the first half. Quarterback Plamen Magdevski completed just four-of-15 passes for 50 yards, and was picked off twice by Hilfinger. Running back Gary Devine was limited to 24 rushing yards. It was apparent Northville was trying to take away Devine's running. The strategy worked - at least for a while. "All until we needed it," said Mustang coach Daryl

A few offensive adjustments for the second half paid off nicely for both Harrison and Devine. The Hawks started attacking the middle of the Northville defensive line, with fullback Mike Pesci banging up the middle. He found some daylight, gaining 56 yards on eight second-half

"That's about the only thing we did (differently in the second half), go with the fullback more," said Herrington. "We had a tighter formation, and went outside more."

PESCI'S GAINS set up Harrison's first real scoring opportunity. The Hawks drove from their own 43 to the Northville 8-yard line, where they had a first-down-and-goal. But the drive fell apart there, with an illegal block by Pesci, a short completion and two incomplete passes.

The Hawks couldn't even get off a 32-yard field goal try. Magdevski failed to handle the snap, allowing Northville to take over on downs at Huzjak had been successful throwing to a variety of receivers running mostly short pass routes in the first half; in the second half, nothing worked. Huzjak's first two passes were intercepted, by Roy Granger and Pesci.

It was an omen of what was to come. Huzjak hit just one-of-five second-half passes, and that lost two yards. Northville's ground game was hardly better, grinding out only two first downs in the final two quarters and managing a mere 24 yards on 34 attempts in the game.

Harrison finally got going offen-sively with 11:10 left in the game, driving 63 yards in 10 plays - eight of them runs by Devine. The diminutive (5-foot-6, 155 pounds) senior accounted for 53 of the yards, including the final three that, with Mark Lebovitz's placement, tied the score at 7-all with 7:04 left.

NORTHVILLE'S ENSUING P session was familiar: two runs that gained five yards, a pass completion that lost two and a punt. Harrison took over at its 28 with 4:28 remain-

Three Devine runs (for 12, 5 and 8 yards) mixed with two Pesci slams (for 6 and 2) gave Harrison a first down at the Northville 39. Devine took the next handoff and raced around left end, broke a couple of tackles and scampered into the end zone for the go-ahead TD with 3:11

"They started running at us and we couldn't handle it," said Schumacher. "But I've got to hand it to 42 (Devine), he was running hard." Added Herrington: "It wasn't pretty, but it got the job done.' Devine finished with 156 yards rushing on 24 attempts. Magdevski's passing, though, was off-target. He hit only five-of-17 for 54 yards. "We just haven't been throwing the ball well lately," said Herrington. Still, the Hawks keep winning, thanks in great part to a strong defense, led by Blazo Sarcevich (13 tackles against Northville) and Tony Schaieb (nine tackles). And as Herrington concluded: "I'd rather look (lousy) and win than look good and

Numbers game

It all adds up to good old time

BOWLING IS A GAME of numbers and sometimes those numbers can do strange

There are even awards based on numbers, such as the "triplicate" award for three consecutive games of the same score.

Some people also like to play the lot-tery, another game of numbers. I have also heard instances where someone would play their bowling score in the lottery and actually win.

I am not saying that this is an instant way to get rich, but that is what happened to a bowler last weekend.

While competing in his Friday league, he rolled two consecutive 222 games. Oddly enough, the check he used to pay his bowling happened to be check No. 222. To keep the ball rolling, he went to fill up his gas tank and the pump stopped at $22.22.

In the lottery last weekend, deuces were wild. The Michigan State Lottery appears are to the control of the state of the stat numbers were 5-2-2-2. I didn't play these numbers, but now I'm a believer

News.

Bad news.

The good news? More and more people, businesses and industries are finding ways to recycle.

It takes more than 6,000 tons of newsprint each year to print The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers plus a number of other publications, so we're doing a number of things to help the solid waste situation:

1. For years we've sold our waste newsprint to a recycling firm.

2.25% of the newsprint we print on is recycled and we're increasing this amount by another 25% this year.

3. Our employees have begun to routinely put officer paper (memos, computer paper, waste copy paper) in recycle bins instead of waste baskets.

Of course, we still deliver thousands of newspapers twice each week. It's our business to bring you news of your local government, schools, sports scene and community events; the news you need to know.

And when you're finished reading your hometown newspaper there are places that will recycle them.

We've listed a few for you on this page because we think recycling is Good News.

Observer & Eccentric

Here is a list of recycling centers in or near The Observer & Eccentric circulation area. Please call the center nearest you for guidance in preparing your recyclables

What do an apple, a cow, and a car door have in common?

Recycled newspapers play a role in all three. Apple growers in the northwest use recycled newsprint for packing, farmers use it for bedding instead of straw and auto manufacturers use it in car doors.

There are many uses for your used newspapers. why not start saving them today?

It's picture perfect pets

By Joanne T. Sobczak special writer

There she was. The bright lights reflecting against her beautiful hair made it glisten. Those big brown eyes were staring right into mine. What voluptuousness at 108 pounds.

Bernadette is a dog — and a spayed one at that. Even male dogs like Ambersand (the Gambler) can fantasize. They certainly do dream.

Berandette is a mostly brown and white St. Bernard that belongs to Mary Shelly of Bloomfield Hills. She's also a model . . . dog to Shelly and a fashion show piece to Barbara Bocci, who owns Pets in Pictures, an agency in Madison Heights, that supplies dogs (and sometimes cats) for commercials and photo shoots.

Bernadette and Ambersand, another St. Bernard owned by Judi Sage of Pontiac, were both in last No-vember's ski fashion show hosted by the Don Thomas Sporthaus in Birmingham.

Bocci wouldn't use a dog she couldn't trust in a crowd of people. She chose the 4-year-old St. Bernard because the canine beauty was friendly and two St. Bernards were requested for the runway affair held in the parking area of Bloomfield Plaza

Bocci made sure the dogs met each other beforehand as well as were introduced to - or one should say, pet and cuddled by - the other human fashion models in

"WE HAD TO report an hour earlier and in the parking lot, Barb taught Bernadette some commands," Shelly said of the dog's debut. "She loves Barb and wanted to please her.

"We were initially very nervous about our dog being in a strange situation. But she was in seventh heaven. So may people gave her a pat on the head. And she didn't need any special training.

Bocci, a former model herself with a career in television and radio, began taking her pets on the runway as companions and interesting accessories. She was such a big hit, and the idea so successful, that her fashion experience combined with avid participation in dog training lead to her creation of the agency as an offshoot of her already established Trainers Academy for Obedience and Behavioral Sciences.

Although Bocci prefers that mom or dad stay home because the dog is less distracted, she will take the owners along, if they insist, but reminds them that the situation calls for extreme professionalism.

"The owner doesn't have to do much at all," Bocci said. "If it takes additional training to use the animal (for a specific show or shoot) then the person would have to train the pet or have one of our trainers teach the dog for that event."

SHE DOES expect some level of obedience training (not necessarily at her school) before registering with the agency. Shelly's dog has fulfilled beginner's level, but has not yet participated in advance instructions which Bocci adamantly requires for commercial film-

"We don't always select animals that are our graduates," she said. "Anyone can sign up with the agency, although a lot of people in our agency are our students. We don't screen; that's up to the client. Certainly, we don't take aggressive dogs."

So if you have a dog that you believe is the canine equivalent to Marilyn Monroe, Shirley Temple, Fred Astaire or Bozo the Clown, what is your first step?

Rebecca Chamberlin, director of the Training Obedience Center classes and coordinator of Pets in Pictures, suggests you register with the agency. The fee is

And don't forget to bring impressive photos of your pooch. The more the pictures reflect the dog's abilities, the better the chance it has of being selected. Clients may request a certain breed but the performance of a particular task usually determines who is the "lucky dog." So make sure they're action shots.

THE AGENCY lists some 50 to 75 dogs and, in the past year, has accumulated a couple dozen customers including Jacobson's, AT&T, Somerset Mall, Kelly &

Company and Dayton-Hudson. Cats are not registered with the agency because they are not considered trainable. But if there is a need for one, the agency has connections. Pooch better love its job because megabucks star income is not around the corner. The talent (canine) and master receive $100 per assignment. The TOC trainer, who is always present and instructing the dog, gets $50 an hour.

Bocci herself recently assisted as trainer at the production of a Michigan Lottery commercial filmed in

They told us they wanted a dog that would just jump up and have a good time with a child and maybe retrieve a stick out of the water," said Bocci, an obedience instructor for more than a decade. "So, we basically had to provide advance dogs; you can't use an animal that's not trained and hope it will inadvertently go and fetch a stick.

When you are working on a commercial, the dog has to do the trick over and over again. If that dog isn't trained, after three times the average dog doesn't feel like playing anymore. Then what do you do? The answer is nothing

THE MICHIGAN Lottery shoot involved 20 takes, so the dog retrieved 20 times. So that's why when there is a 25-30 person crew, cameras and technical equipment, it's Bocci and Chamberlin's job to provide a dog that will perform accordingly.

According to Bocci, making commercials is the most lengthy, pressuresome activity for a dog. Unlike print or runway work, the dog is constantly moving and is expected to come in on cue. There is stress on the animal although Bocci does make it fun - of course, with "An animal is right now; you can't explain to it that lunch break is in a half hour," she said. "The time frame is the present. You have to think, 'Get going now while the animal is fresh."

Print work generally requires the dog to sit of so a pet with just a beginner's background can be used even though the hours are long - and any fashion model can testify to that.

Runway is another challenge.

"You just can't take a dog on a runway that has never seen height, people or lights," said Bocci.

MICHELE PARTON'S 9-year-old German Shepherd, Tara, has been enjoying stardom for about a year. Her interest in putting her pets in pictures (she also owns a Shetland sheep dog named Chevy) is for fun and to earn

"I thought it would be nice to make a little money to pay for their show entries,"said the Oak Park resident. "I like doing as much as I can with my dogs - they're my buddies.

At age 11, Rebecca Chaberlain's golden retriever Muffie is literally "digging" its career as a model.

Cybil Shepherd and Jeff Bridges play Jacy Farrow and Duane Jackson in "Texasville," a dramatic comdey based on Larry McMurty's bestselling novel of the same name.

Give Bogdanovich a 'D' for very dull 'Texasville'

It's difficult to imagine what Peter Bogdanovich had in mind when he wrote, co-produced and directed Texasville" (D, R, 123 minutes).

Certainly, keeping the audience awake wasn't one of his top priorities. Billed as the "long-awaited sequel" to Bogdanovich's 1971 "The Last Picture Show," screening "Texasville" raises several questions. Why? By whom? Couldn't they have waited until it was an attractive, en-

Many of the same actors/charac ters who peopled the original star in "Texasville" — Jeff Bridges, Timothy Bottoms, Cloris Leachman, Cybill Shepherd and Randy Quaid. Unlike the original, however, it's not an interesting character study about the small North Texas town of the

Rather, it's about a lot of dull, uninteresting and generally unpleasant folks whose problems don't stimulate viewers' interest or empathy. There's nothing much to redeem these folks as they lack force, wit, intelligence, romance, love or any-thing else to attract sympathy and

Duane Jackson (Bridges), wealthy oilman, is having a mid-life crisis which apparently is unrelated to the depressed oil business in 1984. How wealthy is he? He can afford to be $12 million in debt. One of the problems with the film is that it's never really clear why he's moping around and what's wrong with everybody else.

COULD IT be that his wife of 20 years, Karla (Annie Potts), still loves him? Or maybe it's because she drinks too much? Or is it because they and their kids are strange. The keeper, Minirva (Pearl Jones), tells Duane, "You've got a wired family, but unstable."

The family includes super-stud son Dickie (William McNamara), divorced daughter Nellie (Katherine Bonfeldt) and her child plus hellion twins, Julie and Jack (Romy Snyder and Jimmy Howell) and a rather young boy whose name escaped me. Quite a crowd.

Names of the numerous other characters in town were also difficult to keep track of, particularly since so many of them lack the star or celebrity recognition factor. Quick cuts and references to who they were divorcing and/or sleeping with might normally keep an audience actively involved. Except there's so little reason to care about

One would assume that a filmmaker of Bogdanovich's stature

"I Came in Peace" (R) is a slightly different twist on the current spate of gangster/drug dealer films. That's a new twist.

ERNATIVE VIEWING

premieres cool 'Thief

In his native Italy, Maurizio Nichetti is a star, a household name. Only now with the overseas release of his fourth film, "The Icicle Thief," can American audiences see why the writer/director/actor has been called "the Italian Woody Allen."

Like other great comic directors Nichetti cut his teeth in animated films. He collaborated with Brun

Bezsette on "Allegro Non Troppe" in 1876 and even played an artist in a live-action sequence.

The fast-paced tone of cartoons translates well to "The Icicle Thief," an amazingly well-thought out bit of mayhem that pays tribute to a clas-sic Italian film while lampooning the television age. It plays this weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre.

Nichetti plays a famous film director who has agreed to introduce his classic film, "The Icicle Thief," during its first national TV broad-cast. More than a little reminiscent of Vittorio de Sica's "The Bicycle Thief" (1947), the movie is about a poor man (also played by Nichetti) in post-war Italy desperately trying to care for his family.

THE STARK black-and-white film contrasts badly with the glitzy commercials that randomly interrupt it.

It was sort of like the old proverb "too many cooks spoil the broth."
But in the case of the Bluefields, it was more like "too many songwriters spoil the band."

And that's how the Wishing Field

You see, the Bluefields as a band were doing just fine. They played a fair amount of gigs and were recent-ly named finalists in Musician magazine's "Best Unsigned Band in America" contest. But there was one problem - they had too many songs.

So, the Bluefields decided to split up. Mike Campbell continued with his material as the Bluefields and Richards and Dave Stanton formed the Wishing Field. Got it? Well, it doesn't matter whether you do or not because today we're only concerned with the Wishing Field.

After the two aforementioned Daves (Richards and Stanton) formed the Wishing Field, they decided they needed a bassist and a

Although the Wishing Field has only played one gig so far, they're already showing promise of being one of the year's best local bands. How can this be?

Well, they've all been around awhile and have learned the ropes of

Apparently, all of this experience has given each of the band members time to figure out exactly what they want to sound like.

So what do they sound like? Well, here's a written montage to give you an idea: Vocal harmonies a la Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young in the old days. Melodic, catchy tunes. Pink Floyd-ish aural overlays of "found sounds" like an old Timothy Leary speech. Tight, hook-laden songs reminiscent of everything from the British Invasion to REM.

Beyond that, you'll just have to see them for yourself.

Although the band has by now learned how to write songs, they still could use a little work on learning to sell themselves. They seem to be under the mistaken (and innocent) impression that if a band is good they will automatically rise to the top.

"OUR APPROACH to the business is that we try to write really good songs, something out of the ordinary," Richards said. "Our songs are sincere."

Richards takes his songwriting chores seriously and it shows. A Wishing Field song is a well-constructed gem about a particular mood or event. It is sincere music.

Senegelese singer Youssou N'Dour is hoping for success with the release of his first album in the United States.

He lets music do the talking

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Youssou N'Dour needs an interpreter for interviews. But his music transcends any language barriers.

Though the Senegelese singer has recently released his first album in the United States, chances are you've heard or even seen N'Dour before.

His distinctive, haunting backround vocals were one of the nighlights of Peter Gabriel's megahit album, "So,"

N'Dour was also the one on stage with Tracy Chapman, Sting and Bruce Springsteen during the Amnesty International Tour in 1988. Yet N'Dour is virtually starting from scratch in the United States, despite having three albums to his credit and being something of a pop star in his native country of Senegal.

"There's no pressure on me to do that (conform to American commercial standards)," said N'Dour, speaking French through an interpreter. "It's something I want to have happen. I wanted my music to be played on the radio."

The world music he plays is called mbalax, which is described as bluesy polyrhythmic.

N'Dour's album, "Set," encompasses both a soaring spirit and gentleness. There's a passion to his singing that transcends the boundaries of an LP format. FOR N'DOUR, he's only doing something that is natural. He's been performing since the age of 12. He was known as "Dakar's Little Prince," referring to the capital of Senegal where he grew up. The country of Senegal is in West Africa and is approximately the size of South Dakota. French culture in Senegal is still predominate, including the language. Yet, the majority of people living there are Muslim.

Traditional music of Senegal had the biggest impact of N'Dour, that, and perhaps, Cuban music he heard

From his debut at 12, N'Dour went on to sing in his mid-teens with Senegal's biggest group at the time - the Star Band. He formed Etoile de Dakar in 1979, which later became Super Etoile de Dakar - his band

An entirely new musical horizon opened up for N'Dour in the 1980s. He visited Europe, listening to Western pop for the first time. N'Dour has been trying to find the middle between traditional and contemporary styles ever since.

"In terms of harmony, I see some linkages between traditional African music and Western pop," he said. "Rhythmically, I don't feel there is (any comparison)."

While N'Dour was discovering new sounds in Europe, others had discovered him. Peter Gabriel happened to see N'Dour performing in Afterward, Gabriel rushed backstage to pass along his admiration of N'Dour's work. Gabriel then showed up at one his shows in Dakar a few months later, asking N'Dour to sing background vocals on "So."

N'DOUR'S GUEST vocals became the trademark on the LP's hit number "In Your Eves."

Around the same time, N'Dour also performed on Paul Simon's

REVIEWS

BONA FIDE — Maxi Priest

"Bona Fide" by Maxi Priest has the quintessential sound of pop music in the 1990s. What do we mean by this? Well, the boundaries between different forms of music are breaking down. Like rock was a distillation and interpretation of traditional blues, modern pop music is a combination of world music, rap, blues and everything else.

With "Bona Fide," Maxi Priest combines reggae, pop and soul and comes up with some top-40, radioready stuff. The album was produced by a Jamaican producer named Geoffrey Chung and Jazzie B and Nellee Hooper, the creative forces behind Soul II Soul. Presumably, Priest is trying to hit upon the same magic formula as Soul II Soul, but, frankly, Soul II Soul does a better job of merging divergent styles to come up with a unique sound.

Priest didn't write any of the songs on the album - he doesn't even share any song writing credits so the songs run toward the generic. Most of the songs are about that crazy little thing called love except for two, "Prayer for the World" and 'Peace Throughout the World."

Two of the songs "Close to You" and "You" are written by someone named G. Benson. These sound like they could have been penned by George Benson, but for all we know. G. could just as easily stand for Geronimo or Geraldine.

The songs are mild and goodtempered, with a touch of gospel thrown in here, a bit of dance music thrown in there. Although the songs are supposed to range from ballads to dance music, they all tend to sound the same. In other words the ballads have a danceable drum track and the dance tunes have tender, ballad-like lyrics.

The result of all this is an album that is certainly serviceable midtempo pop music, but nothing particularly special. Priest's voice sounds fine, but seems to lack passion. The playing is competent, but not inspired. This adds up to an album that is OK. Not groundbreaking, not really offensive, just OK.

VEGETARIANS OF LOVE

— Bob Geldof

He's back. He of the many titles: Saint, Sir. Peace Ambassador, Pop Diplomat, Loud Mouth, Meat Head.

Take your pick. All of them have applied at one time or another. One of the original pop/punks, leader of Ireland's Boomtown Rats, whose only American hit was the controversial "I Don't Like Mondays," he shot to worldwide prominence when he organized the Live Aid concert/ record/charity/multi-media event after being seriously disturbed by a BBC-TV documentary on Africa's Having spawned the multitude of "Aid"- type concerts, he has tried to remove himself from this responsibility over the past few years.

"The Vegetarians of Love" is his first since the bleak solo album "Deep in the Heart of Nowhere" of three years ago. And what a change.

It is an eclectic mixture of R'n'B and Cajun influences with the odd bit of Irish diddley-eye thrown in for good measure. As such, it fits neatly into the "New Roots" movement of the moment, which shows the overriding influences of those who have adapted roots music into a contemporary style, most notably Geldof's personal musical idols, Dylan and Van Morrison.

The album has a spontaneity and an immediacy with most of the tracks chosen from 25 songs that were recorded in just five days. Geldof can even be heard calling out chord changes, and laughing between tracks. His backing band is probably crucial to the success of this LP. If anyone is familiar with a band called The Penguin Cafe Orchestra, they will find most of the members here along with old Boomtown Rat friend and bassist Pete Briquette.

Their wonderful musicianship and Geldof's lust for life and apocalyptic lyrical ideas fuse to make this album a marvelous listening experience. From the single "The Great Song of Indifference," Geldof uses the opportunity to exorcise the demons which have plagued him.

your heart out for breakfast. - Cormac Wright

Anyone who had written Sir Bob off must give him some serious consideration once again. "The Vegetarians of Love" can eat

SONGS FROM ANOTHER SEASON

— David J

From the opening track, the single, "I'll Be Your Chauffeur," be ready to disregard any preconceptions that may be generated by David J's previous associations, i.e. Love and Rockets and Bauhaus.

With a jaunty acoustic twist on the Beatles' "Drive My Car," David J reveals a completely different personality to that which we're accustomed. While lyrically it is a blatant, and vulnerable, declaration of his dedication to the song's recipient, musically it is subtle and dare I say it, even laid back. With an acoustic guitar leading the way, as it does on the entire album, backed up by some beautiful lead guitar and — don't be wary — an accordion! Mr. J throws himself at somebody's mercy: "I'll be your chauffeur, the go-fer who will fetch and carry you home so curl up on this mobile sofa/I'll turn the key and let these four Maybe the reasons for this solo album is revealed on the song "Sad Side to the Sandboy" when he sings "He's the lonely circus clown/with wheels roam.

the booze in the trailer for when he's down/ruined and blue./No one knows there's a side to the sandboy.'

This song has some particularly plaintiff steel guitar in the best country boy tradition.

His songs range from the self-pity-ing "Sad Side" to the how to improve himself on "A Long Look." On the way, he addresses topics such as the throwaway "New Woman Is an Attitude" dealing with the power of fash-ion advertising and the perennial dif-ficulty of dealing with fame on "Stranded Trans-Atlantic Hotel

Nearly Famous Blues."
All songs are based arous tle acoustic guitar and David J's qui-et, almost whispered, vocals. There are a variety of other instruments thrown in for flavoring with the aforementioned accordion on "Chauffeur," a kasoo solo "Fingers in the Grease."

A pleasing overall sound, some slightly pretentious lyrics, but good songs nonetheless.

Two things have changed about Garry Shandling since he was last in Number one, he's not just dating any more - he has a steady "chick." Number two, his hair is shorter.

If you don't believe it, stop by Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle in Royal Oak this week and see for yourself. Shandling, who's been away from the Motor City for just a couple of years, will give three 90minute shows this Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 2-4.

Back to those startling revelations, the most significant of which is, of course, his hair.

"I got it cut about two weeks ago, and it's really short," said Shandling last week, sounding somewhat de-spondent over the phone. "My friend Jeff Goldblum talked me into going to get my hair cut by a girl who does his. And the first thing she said was that it looked 'feminine.'"

So, his masculinity at stake, the locks were cut. "It is growing out," he added. Was it a mistake? Tune in

Now, for the second revelation.

AND IF HE thought dating was tough in the '80s, making a relationship work in the '90s is even tougher, claimed the 40-year-old.

"I now talk about my current relations about dating tionship, rather than about dating, like in my old act," he said. "I solicit advice from the audience."

He also solicits advice from re-

"You sound happy, what's your se-cret?" Shandling interrupted. Back to the interview. Exactly how serious is this relationship of his anyway? Is he engaged? Shacking up? Does he call her his significant other? What's the poop? 'What is this?" he answered.

"Women, I'm not even involved with want to define my relationships. That's the worst thing you can do. That's like going up to your boss and asking him what your job is today.

"I don't think people should be forced to define relationships." Really. He's just a private guy -

It's not that Shandling is sensitive. even though he doesn't come off that way to his audiences. His routines which include intimate details of his that they really know him, that he's

Shandling attributes this to the fact that he writes all his own mate-

SHANDLING, who's been doing standup comedy for 15 years, said Mark Ridley's was one of the first

"Mark and I go back a long way,"

Reflecting on his very first appearance, Shandling admitted he was "good." And then laughed, "but I was bad the next 20 times.

"I had no spontaneity," he said. "I had to learn to develop that. It's not as easy at it looks."

How to win at the numbers game.

The game is newspaper advertising — and the rules are changing. Rates are up in the Detroit News and Free Press. Suburban circulation is down. And all around town, advertisers are wondering what numbers to trust - other hand. SPRING's network of 39 Detroit suburban newspapers delivers to more than 500,000 households and that's a real number.

How do we know? All SPRING newspapers are audited. Every year, the circulation figures for each SPRING newspaper are verified by either CAC or ABC-two of the industry's most highly-respected independent auditors.

No slippery stuff here. SPRING's numbers are tested, tried, and true.

Place your bet on SPRING.

Once you've studied the numbers, we're sure you'll agree: SPRING is a sure winner.

SPRING's circulation is solid and stable. It's audited. And it represents more than one million readers who have the means to buy what you sell.

No matter how you figure it - those are very good odds, indeed.

See what's behind the numbers.

OK - so dazzling numbers can be misleading. And, when it comes to newspaper circulation figures, you want more than quantity. You want quality.

We've got it. SPRING's one million readers are some of the most affluent consumers around. SPRING newspapers go to suburbs with the spending power to buy more cars, condos, boats, bikes, appliances, apparel, gizmos, and gadgets than most other Michigan communities combined.

Best of all, SPRING delivers this upscale suburban market at a lowercost per thousand than either the News or the Free Press.

ONDAY, 8:30 A.M. Armed with a reporter's note-book and mini tape recorder, WJBK-TV business editor Murray Feldman makes a mad dash to cover a breaking news story in the heart of Detroit hoping to beat out the competition

Monday, 9 a.m. WKBD-TV's energetic host of "NEWSline," Cynthia Canty, is frantically banging away at the typewriter keys, hoping to get her morning scripts completed in time for her show which airs shortly.

Monday, 10 a.m. It may be midmorning for most people, but WXYZ-TV star street reporter Cheryl Chodin has been awake for several hours, continuing her hot pursuit of the Detroit Police Department scandal.

Welcome to the glamorous world of television news . . . glitz and glamour, glamour and glitz.

That's how most people see television news. In actuality (at least according to the celebs), it's anyting but glitzy and glamorous.

Sure, the salaries are high (the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists won't release such figures and the celebs don't want to talk about them), but the work is tedious, the hours long and the day-to-day grind grueling.

Take Feldman for example. He's been with WJBK for 14 years and despite those last minute breaking news stories and in-house emergencies, he said he "couldn't be happier."

"IT'S FUNNY because people have a strong misconception about working for a television station," ine clients.

GLITZ, GLAMOUR AND TV

It's not all it's cracked up to be said Feldman, 38. "Not only is it hard work, it's the only job you can be fired from because of the way you look."

Feldman came to WJBK from WPRI-TV in Providence, R.I., where he worked as a news anchor/reporter for nearly three years. He also was a weekend anchor/reporter at WNYS-TV in Syracuse, N.Y., newscaster and music announcer at WWBZ-AM in Vineland, N.J., and part-time witer at WKYW-AM in Philadelphia, Pa.

Feldman's broadcasting career began in 1964 at WCAM-AM in Camden, N.J., where he worked as a production assistant part time. But he knew as early as age 13 that he wanted to be a disc jockey.

"I always knew that I was going to be in the communications field," he said. "If I remember correctly, I had my first article published when I was seven or eight years old. I was a member of the Junior Reporter's Club in grade school."

Although Feldman loves his career, the business has changed tremendously since his days as a reporter for that small Rhode Island news station. The market is "tighter," he said.

"It's definitely a field that's difficult to break into, but once you're there, it's incredibly rewarding," he said. "But again, people don't realize that it's a business where you're constantly on call. It's a job that finds you in situations that you would never expect."

t's funny because people have a strong misconception about working for a television station. Not only is it hard work, it's the only job you can be fired from because of the way you look.'

- Murray Feldman

FELDMAN DOES business reports for the 6 p.m. news show five days a week, for the 4:30 p.m. news three days a week and sometimes special reports for the 11 p.m. news. On the average, he works 60 hours a

"My advice to anyone starting out in this business is to be ready to pay your dues and just hang in there," Feldman said. "If you're good, you'll make it. If you've got it, you'll be swept up, but if you're not, you'll be lost in the shuffle."

Canty would be an example of that. She has been with WKBD since 1987, doing "Morning Break," renamed "NEWSline" last September. It airs at 11:30 a.m. Monday through

"It must be the most controversial, interactive news program in the city," she said. "It's a great show because we take live calls. I believe it's the only talk show in the city that does that."

Canty didn't always grace the television screen. At one time she was a health educator for the American Cancer Society, but it wasn't until 1977, when her boss asked her to

wjbk-TV business editor fill in for him on a former public affairs TV show, "Soundings." that she knew she was destined for stardom.

"I FILLED IN for him and absolutely loved it," she said. "I guess there's a little bit of the ham in all of us."

Canty started speaking about ACS on such shows as "Good Morning Detroit" and "Kelly & Company." The more she did, the more she liked it. She is probably best known for her work on WNIC's "St. James & Harper," Harper & Gannon" and "Harper & Company" morning shows.

Canty always knew she wanted to be in the communications field. She started out as a pre-med student in college but switched to history in her junior year when she spent a year in Ireland.

But when she returned, Canty decided to follow up on a suggestion from a friend about a job opening for a news and public affairs director at WMUZ radio. She talked to the program director one day and ended up reading copy off the PR newswire the next.

After stints at several radio stations, she ended up at WKBD.

Canty's goal is to have an hourlong talk show in which viewers could call in and voice their opinions.

"I'd like to stay in television even though I miss radio at times," she said. "Being on radio is much more laid-back then being on television. On TV, you have to make sure you're sitting up straight, your clothing is intact and that your war paint is on correctly.

"THERE'S A LOT more to worry about than if you're on the radio. Television isn't a rags-to-riches story. People think newscasters just waltz into the station looking beautiful and wearing pretty clothes."

And how does it feel being at the top?

"I'm .eally very flattered when someone recognizes me when I'm out in public," Canty said. "I think because I'm not so glamorous and gorgeous, I appeal to a wider spectrum of people. Knowing that makes, me feel good."

Sure, it may be nice when a viewer recognizes you while you're grocery shopping, but what happens when you're trying to have a quiet dinner out with your husband.

According to Chodin, it's nice "when someone recognizes me and I always feel it's important to acknowledge a viewer, but there are times when I just want to have a quiet, relaxed dinner without someone walking up to me."

Chodin started out as a free-lance reporter, first with the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and then the Detroit News Sunday Magazine.

"I loved seeing my name in print," she said. "I used to cover the city of Lathrup Village for the Eccentric. It was great."

AFTER DABBLING in newspaper writing for a few years, she was hired as a writer for Channel 7 where she stayed for seven years before a one-year stint with WCXI, a country music radio station.

She then switched to WJR-AM as a crime reporter until she was called back to Channel 7 more than a year ago to be a street reporter.

"Tve always loved working the streets and being called back to Channel 7 was like being called home again," she said. "But let me tell you, this is a tough business. People don't realize how much work goes into a story. Viewers only see the reporter on television, but in reality a lot of other people have worked on the piece in order for it to go on the air."

Chodin works long hours and can be called out at all hours of the day and night. She wears a beeper so the station can get in touch with her at any time of the day.

'It's a job that definitely isn't all glitz and glamour," she said. "One morning you could be interviewing the governor and that same afternoon you could be covering a triple homicide."

An Emmy Award-winning reporter, the only qualm Chodin has about her job is when people put down the media.

"Where would we be without newspapers and television?" she queeried. "People think news people are insensitive individuals, but we're probably the most sensitive people you'll ever find."

Chevy was originally assigned to do the Michigan Lottery commercial but because he didn't work out, the agency still paid Parton her $100.

Parton's dog Tara participated in a photo session for Bocci's book "A Diamond in Ruff — Creating a Canine Gem." The book is a pictorial display of different breeds used in various photo sessions, an account of Bocci's life and experience with her dogs, instructors and students (human and pet) and a "how to" section on training a dog and dealing with behavioral

There is a good deal to say about gaining experience even for canines. "THE MORE you take dogs out and they are used, the more you can use them," said Bocci, a firm believer in the employed dog. She has dedicated one chapter in her book to the subject, encouraging owners to put their dogs back to.

"Shepherds were bred to herd; springers were bred to flush," Bocci said "Dogs were bred forpurposes and our dogs don't do anything but sit around at home.

"People think they have a life of leisure. The reality of the situation is that we see the consequences of the life of leisure. Separation anxiety, inappropriate chewing, howling, crying all day result because dogs, which are generally social animals, aren't put to task anymore."

Wood, glass exhibit showcases 'turns in nature'

■ HE WOOD lathe is a mere conduit to the artist's final vision, but whether it be a bowl made of Norfolk pine carved to a striking one-tenth of an inch thick, or solid sculptural pieces made of pink ivory, it's a sophisticated tool that turns wood to art.

'Turns of Nature," an exclusive exhibit of wood vessels of all sizes and 59 pieces of Powell glass, will bring to life the sophisticated turns of the lathe and glass works. The exhibit will premiere on Thursday in Farmington. It's sponsored by the Janis Wetsman 20th Century Decorative Art Collection, Birmingham.

Exhibit-goers will be treated to the dreamy, wave-patterned vessels in the Powell glass collection, as well as more functional pieces with just a hint of color.

Artists from California, Hawaii, Vermont and Georgia will display wood-turned pieces in the exhibit. An opening night reception will be from 5-8 p.m. on Thursday at Artpack Services Inc., in Farmington, 31505 Grand River, Door No. 10.

People are buying wood-turned pieces as part of the new art of accessorization," said Janis Wetsman, owner of the Janis Wetsman 20th Century Decorative Art Collection. "The pieces bring instant character when they're placed in the home

"TURNS OF Nature," Wetsman's sixth exhibit, will feature works by William Hunter, Ronald Kent, Bruce Mitchell, Michael Mode, Philip C. Moulthrop and Mike Shuler. Among the pieces are:

• The razor-thin, translucent bowls of Ron Kent, represented in the permanent collections of The Louvre and the Detroit Institute of Arts. The vessels of native-Californian wood sculptor William Hunter. • The different colorations of Powell glass, all functional, made in the 1920s and 1930s.

DATING BACK to 1600 B.C., "the wood-turning craft is making a comeback among artists," Wetsman added, noting artists today are concerned more with form than function. Early archaeological findings have indicated wood turning started nearly 3,000 years ago by Etruscans, Celts and people living in the area now known as Crimea. The first wood turners would mount blocks of wood into poles, great wheels or

The greatest advancement in early wood turning was the lathe, which reduced the to complete a wood-turned piece. It also introduced a level of sophisticated visual essence.

Modern-day wood turners use the lathe to concentrate on the form of the object rather than the grain of the wood. Most wood turners use special gauge tools that help configurate the wood into functional bowls or larger vessels and sculptures.

As in ancient times, drying techniques create the final image. Distorting, crackling and natural element deposits in the wood give character and unusual quality to the finished works.

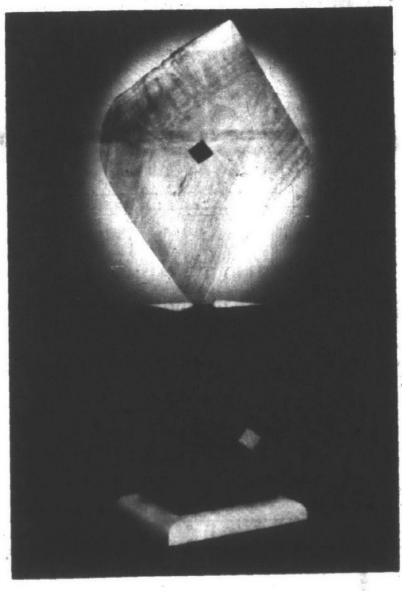

THE COLLECTION of Powell glass, meanwhile, includes many examples of the Whitefriars glassworks designs and colors that changed during various periods of the two-century-old compa-

The collection is represented by both "cloudy" and "streaky" colors such as amber, amethyst, pale blue, sea green and ruby.

The company's involvement in World War I glass production kept the Powell's sculptural forms on the backburner. That is why the more creative designs are sometimes referred to as 'glass between the wars."

The glass pieces presented by Janis Westman range in price from $400 to $1,200. The woodturned objects are priced from $400 to $4,000.

Gallery hours for the Farmington exhibit are 1-5 p.m. Oct. 5-7 and 11-13, and by appointment Oct. 8-10. For more information, call 645-6212 or 478-8946.

"Red Square" is a transmuting vessel by native Californian woodturner William Hunter, a founding director of the American Association of Woodturners. The wood sculptor runs a small production shop that imports exotic wood.

Rodin sculpture inspired her

While on vacation in 1960, Janis Wetsman was captivated by an original Rodin sculpture.

Unaccustomed to art collecting, her impulsive purchase of the sculpture inspired her to become one of metro Detroit's most experienced collectors of 20th century decorative art. As an avid traveler. Wetsman honed her newfound interest by seeking out fine art and sculpture throughout the United States, Europe and parts of Africa.

Although her selections were based on personal appeal, the mounting collection profiled the important decorative art styles from various periods of the 20th century, from the late 1920s to the

Initially, her artistic forays were relegated to summer and holiday periods while earning a bachelor's and master's degree in special education from Wayne State University.

BY 1968, Wetsman was actively buying and seiling art to upgrade her personal collection.

She became particularly enamored with American Indian art from the southwest region of the United States. Soon, she was researching rugs, pottery and other decorative objects indigenous to the area to showcase in a second home in Arizona and her permanent residence in Birmingham.

Through the 1970s and '80s, Wetsman traveled and studies art history of decorative furniture and accent pieces, and the names which inspired classic designs during the century.

She began buying rare works of Charles Eames, Gilbert Rohde, Donald Knorr, George Nakashima, Ettorre Sottsass and others who became her inspi-

SHE ALSO was inspired by the ancient art of wood turning, which, according to Wetsman, is just beginning to resurface among artisan and

In 1988, Wetsman decided to offer private tours of her Birmingham gallery, Janis Wetsman 20th Century Decorative Art, to interior design professionals and independent collectors. The gallery is accented by handcrafted, wood-turned vessels and custom-designed furniture that are for sale.

Start a business with great care

Q: I have an idea for a new busisess that I'm sure would be successful. I've done all the research and am convinced it would be a good thing to do, yet I can't seem to get started. Why would a person delay such a good thing?

A: Any of a host of reasons may be holding you back. I can only guess at yours. Fear of failure or success are two of the most common reasons for avoiding risk.

Although you seem sure the business would be financially profitable, you may not be convinced of your personal ability to handle it. Don't, therefore, discount fear of failure as a factor. Taking a merchandising or other appropriate class might ove-come a lack of knowledge.

Fear of success can be more difficult to understand. Perhaps you can imagine yourself rising to only a certain level in life.

If your business venture became wildly successful, would that place you above, and, therefore, out of your comfort zone? Mike Todd once said, "If you make a million dollars and lose it, you can do it again." Changing your perception of your status in life may be helpful.

Talking with others who have started businesses can also soothe your fears. Two people currently taking risk are Gayle Gardner and Paula Rand of Ann Arbor. They tuned into two factors: 1) People spend prolonged periods recuperating in hospitals with nothing to do. 2) Thousands of audiotapes are purchased, played once and then stored

They have, therefore, founded Companion Cassettes Inc., an audiotape rental and sales business run through hospital gift shops to help patients pass long idle days and weeks. Every type of cassette is available - books on tape, motivational, educational, etc. Tape players can also be rented.

Gardner, a registered nurse, and Rand, a corporate librarian, were both scared and excited about their new venture when I met them last week at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

"We're taking a real risk," they said as they laughed heartily but nervously. "Some of our friends think we are crazy. But we're convinced there's a real need for this." They hope to expand into the corporate world next, so that traveling business people can rent their tapes and return them in mailers. Companion Cassettes can be reached at 683-6919 or 994-1511.

Slowdown? Builders don't see it

Residential construction continues on a fairly steady pace here, builders say, despite talk about Michigan being near or in economic recession and the military build-up in the Middle East.

Many builders contacted reported that building activity is as good or better than they had projected at the beginning of the year.

Declines were described as slight.

'It is a little moderate, but it's always moderate at this time of year," said James S. Bonadeo, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and president of a Plymouth building company.

"We (Bonadeo Builders) are way ahead of last year, about 20 percent," he said. "I expect we'll do $10-11 million in business."

Byrne Benson, president of a Waterford building company, spoke of similar success.

Our business is up 25-30 percent from last year and last year was a good year for us," Benson said. "This year we project out to 125-130 houses.

"WE DON'T build much over $100,000," he said. "We have financing tools available, FHA and VA. If people are credit worthy, we can usually get them in a house.

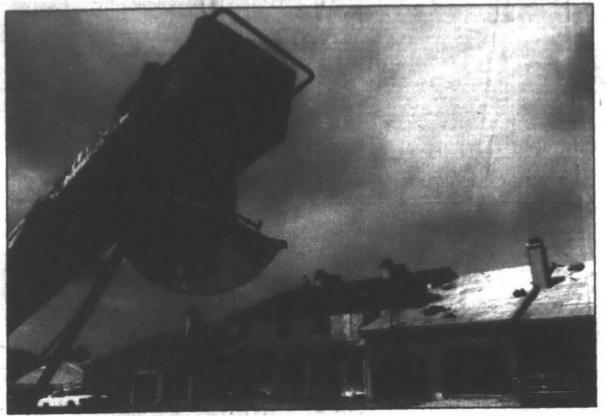

"We got worried six weeks ago when things cropped up in the Middle East," he added. "We're building up in North Oakland, Ortonville, That's a big drive but people are coming out every weekend."

Builders expressed few concerns about interest rates, which they say have been steady this year.

Bernard Glieberman, president of Crosswinds Communities of West Bloomfield, said his sales have been better than expected this year.

"The affordable market is alive and well," he said. "We haven't really been affected much by the econo-

No dramatic downturn in residential housing starts has occurred in metro Detroit this year. While builders reported varying degrees of starts, preliminary figures compiled through June by the Southeast Michigan Council of dominium sites in Farmington Hills, priced $114,990-$126,990, by next spring. He's sold 50 condos in Westland priced $75,000-$100,000 before even opening a model.

Donald Pratt, president of Wake-Pratt of Troy, also reported a solid 1990.

"WE'RE HAVING a good year even though the market is a little soft now," he said. "I'm projecting a good year next year, too."

Pratt builds custom designed houses priced at $350,000 and up, plus starter condominiums in Pontiac for $50,000-$60,000.

Governments indicated almost as many starts this year as last in Oakland and Wayne counties. Here, work crews labor at the Copper Creek condominium community in Farmington

"The higher end stuff is usually not quite as dependent on the ups and downs of the economy," he said.

Young couples and singles are keeping traffic brisk at the condominiums. This year, Pratt expects to build 50-60 condos as he annually does and seven to eight custom homes when he normally does 10-15.

A downturn in the auto industry will have some affect, but not nearly as much as in previous years, Pratt speculated.

We're dependent on it, but not as dependent as we used to be.'

Joseph Slavik, an owner of the Slavik Cos. of Farmington Hills, wasn't as upbeat as his counterparts.

"UP UNTIL a month ago, it was about what we had projected," he said. "We knew there was going to be a slowdown, but didn't know when it was going to happen. "In the lower end ($80,000-$150,000), 30-80 days ago, things slowed up considerably. I think I'm going to build a few less than I had anticipated."

Buying cools for a variety of reasons, Slavik said. Why they don't buy? There's a million reasons. When consumers decide things don't look too good either nationally or locally, a couple meets at breakfast and says,

'Let's wait. 'If they feel real estate values will fall, they won't buy. If interest rates are falling, they won't buy.

The higher end is a different animal," Slavik added. "Normally you have people with a lot of money in the bank and security. This (housing) is a luxury."

Scott Jacobson, president of a Birmingham building company, attributes a 5 percent decline in his housing starts this year to consumer uncertainty about the direction of the economy and a slowdown in the resale market.

UNCERTAINTY causes people to sit on the fence, delay decisions, even though they may not be directly affected by unfolding events, he said.

Jacobson prices in the middle range, $180,000-$350,000, especially attractive for second-time buyers who upgrade.

"There's some difficulty in the sale of used houses. They're just not moving as quickly as in years past," he said

Mark Guidobono, president of Cambridge Homes of Northville, said he believes the cyclical real estate market probably is due for a downward swing.

Anybody could have made money in the building business the last five years," he said. "Guys who know what they're doing and have a professional way of doing business will survive. Those who don't, will be weeded out in the next recession, which could be starting now." The Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan projected last January that housing starts could increase by some 5 percent this year .

Prelimary statistics compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments indicate that permits were issued for 3,644 housing units in Oakland County through June of this year compared to 3,696 for the first six months of 1989.

Corresponding figures for Wayne County are 1,518 for the first half of 1990, 1,569 for 1989.

The best month for the builder is January in terms of sales," Bonadeo said. "Second is February and March is third. The holidays are over, people don't have much to do. The weather is not great. So they look at model homes and end up buying."

law on their side in design squabble Architects say

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Residential, commercial, office and industrial buildings are being designed illegally because state law is either misunderstood or ignored.

Architects say the law is the law and is should be followed; builders say the law is antiquated and should be changed. "This is not just a Homearama issue," said Ben Tiseo, the chairman of the Detroit chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) professional practices committee.

"This has to do with the profession and practice of architecture.

THE RECENT flap in local newspapers regarding the use of designers providing architectural services at the upcoming show of homes in Genoa Township is just an example of a larger problem, Tiseo said.

"It's bad press in a way because it sounds like a turf war. People may not agree with the law, but that's not the problem — if you don't like the law, change it, but don't ignore it."

The problem is simply stated people unlicensed to offer architectural services are offering them, and in some cases, licensed architects, careless building officials and builders are helping them.

"If the architects are policing themselves, the problem will go away," Tiseo said. "That's one area we've really been negligent in - getting the message out."

BY REFUSING to review projects at the end of a design - in a practice known as "selling the seal" architects could eliminate most of the problems.

If building officials refuse to issue a permit for plans without a licensed architect's signature, the problem would also be resolved.

In all the hoopla raised over the architects' interpretation of the law, no has focused on the need for the law, said Irvin Yackness, executive director of the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan.

"I haven't heard of any houses with structural problems," he said. Whenever complaints are lodged by homeowners, he said, they are about aesthetic concerns.

YACKNESS STRESSED the law requiring architect supervision was passed in the 1930s and does not reflect the present-day building environment

"Maybe it's time we look at it

Building codes and individual building departments are more sophisticated than when the law was

"The public doesn't have to be apprehensive that they are moving into unsafe houses.

A home has to pass through 18 to 20 inspections by building departments and other experts before an occupancy permit is granted.

"Every stage of construction is "The best proof of what I'm saying that we haven't had any problems."

TISEO DISAGREED.

"If there is a (design) problem, or an injury, or a death - everyone will point to the architect because he is the professional."

BUILDING OFFICIALS shouldn't issue building permits unless an architect has supervised or done the design; architects should not review designs they didn't do or supervise; designers shouldn't design buildings larger than 3,500 square feet; engineers shouldn't act in the place of architects by approving designs; and builders should be aware of the law and follow it, Tiseo said.

Tiseo said he and other architects decided last November that the problem had gone on long enough, and they formed the professional practices committee to monitor and evaluate the situation

What they found was widespread abuses of the law, Tiseo said.

"Most people are aware of the licensing act but they don't abide by it."

IN THE PAST year, the AIA has made 58 complaints - 30 of which were levied last week and only three were levied at Homearama homes - of improper practices by architects, engineers, builders and designers for violations of state law.

THE LAW requiring that architects design or supervise the design of a project was written for the express reason of protecting the public health, safety and welfare

To get a license, architects must take five years of schooling, three years of apprenticeship and a standardized national test.

A designer, on the other hand, may not have studied architecture at all, Dumke said.

JACK SHARPE, the licensing administrator with the state board of architects, said there are probably many abuses of the state law, but it's almost impossible to figure out to what degree.

Most violations are reported by building officials, disgruntled clients or other architects, he said.

IT'S DIFFICULT to gauge how often these violations occur, said William Wagner, the supervisor of the state licensing and regulation enforcement division.

"The state traditionally doesn't investigate cases on its own - we're a consumer protection agency that responds to complaints," he said.

Wagner supervises 23 investiga-cess of 100 cases.

Wagner doesn't know how many are architecture-related complaints because his department is also responsible for 28 other occupations and professions, he said.

BUILDERS USE designers instead of architects for two reasons - cost and control, Tiseo said.

"Designers are less expensive than architects," he said. "(Also) if an architect is doing his job, (the builder) has less control.

Builders use staff designers for two reasons, Yackness said:

One, the builder can establish a relationship with a staff designer better than he can with an independent architect, and two, builders often work in specific customer niches, and an in-house designer who is familiar with that niche can better serve the builder.

FEW household tools and a half hour of spare time could save motorists from inconvenient breakdowns and costly auto repair bills this winter, AAA Michigan reports.

"By performing a simple 12-point car care checkup, motorists can avoid many of the problems a typical Michigan car owner experiences in winter," said Paul Gliesman, AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service manager.

"For example, last year our Emergency Road Service crew assisted 884.870 motorists, with nearly half involving jump starts.'

For those car owners doing the 12 point check at home, the only items required are the owner's manual, a wire brush, a tire pressure gauge, a screwdriver, an antifreeze hydrometer and baking soda.

THE FOLLOWING items should be checked:

• Battery - Dip a wire brush in a baking soda and water solution and scrub the battery terminals and cable ends. Do not splash the solution on painted surfaces. If the battery is not maintenance-free, make sure water is at the correct level.

• Antifreeze - Check the radiator's antifreeze strength with a hydrometer to make sure it's about 36 degrees below zero. The level of antifreeze in the overflow tank should also be checked.

• Brake fluid - Pry off the chamber's cover clips with a screwdriver if necessary, or just screw off the cap on some of the newer models. Keep the fluid level within one-quarter inch from the top of the reservoir. New models have translucent reservoirs and can be checked visually

• Oil - Check level with dipstick. Add oil as needed. Check owner's manual for exact intervals between changes and for SAE viscosity grade.

• Power steering fluid - Follow directions in owner's manual when checking the indicator stick. Add fluid slowly to avoid overfilling.

• Automatic transmission fluid -Check the indicator stick, usually located behind the engine on the passenger side. Make sure the car is on level ground and placed in "park" with the engine running when doing the

• Tires - Check tire pressure with a gauge for correct inflation and inspect fread wear. For accuracy. check inflation pressures when the tires are cold. after a car has been sitting for three hours or more.

• Belts and hoses - Press on the middle of each belt to test tension. Tighten or replace belts that give more than 1 to 11/2 inches. Check for cracks and fraying and be sure hoses are firmly in place. Replace as needed.

• Lights, signals - Activate them to make sure they work.

• Air filter - Hold the filter up to a light. Replace it if you can't see the light through it.

Car security — alarms, locks and more

By Monica Perez special writer

77HOA - THERE went one! Depending on which statistics you read, in the United States a car is stolen approximately every 22 seconds.

By the time you finish this article. another five or six of the 1.43 million cars that get snatched this year will be heading for the border or a "chop shop" to be stripped and sold in parts.

Four out of five stolen cars don't have locked doors when they're taken. according to the Insurance Information Institute, and one in five are recovered with the owner's keys still in them!

THE INSTITUTE suggests the following ways to reduce the chance of your car being ripped off:

· Always roll up windows, lock the doors and pocket the key.

 Have your vehicle identification number etched onto the windshield. flip top and sunroof.

• Sharply turn the front wheels of the car to make it difficult to tow backward. On front-wheel-drive vehicles, engage the emergency brake and set the gear in park to lock all four

• Put packages and valuables out of sight.

• Keep the license and registration in your wallet or purse.

visible areas.

· Park in well-lighted, highly

THE INSTITUTE offers free consumer information about car. home and business insurance; write to it at 110 William St., New York 10038.

Most stolen cars

Live in an area with a high rate of auto theft and break-ins? You might not want to purchase the following, which, for the years of 1987-89, had the highest insurance claim frequencies (breakins and car theft), according to the Highway Loss Data Institute

Volkswagen GTI Volkswagen Scirocco Volkswagen Jetta - 2 door Volkswagen Golf - 2 door Volkswagen Golf - 4 door Volkswagen Cabriolet Hyundai Excel - 4 door Cadillac DeVille - 2 door Volkswagen Fox - 4 door Porsche 924

The technology available in car security these days is phenomenal.

The simplest is a locking device on the steering wheel, such as the muchpublicized The Club. This locks on the steering wheel, rendering it undriveable; it's endorsed by police departments in a number of U.S. cities. It doesn't however, prevent your stereo from being ripped off. The cost is around $50 to $60; and it's sold at auto supply stores and major department stores.

If an alarm system is more what you had in mind, for an affordable $100 you can install the Fox Guard I, a black box with a cord you plug into the car lighter. A red light alerts thieves of its presence; when triggered through a current sensor, a motion sensor and/or a glass-break detector, it blasts two

Protecting your vehicle can be as simple as using a steering wheel lock or as elaborate as a laser alarm system.

PASSIVE SECURITY systems are those that automatically switch themselves on a few moments after you leave your car; some even lock the doors for you. These are the systems favored by insurance companies, many of which will reduce your premiums by as much as 10 percent (in some states. they're required by law to do so).

The range of options in this category is staggering, the least expensive of which start at around $250. Some can tell the difference between a nudge from another car and an actual break-in.

Systems that must be armed manually can sometimes get you a 5percent rate break from your insurance company; before you go shopping, call your agent and see if there are particular brands they discount for

Perhaps the most high-tech systems to date are the ones that track your car via transmitter. In California, the Mobile Electronic Tracking System has a central station hookup; when the alarm is alerted, the station calls the owner to verify it has been taken. If so, the police are alerted. Cost is around $600 installed with a $10 to $15 monthly service charge.

Finding a tuned-in mechanic no easy task

By Sharon Achatz special writer

F YOU put the pedal to the metal and your Cougar pussyfoots around rather than clawing into action, you will be on your way to find a mechanic - pronto.

No matter what your make of car, today's high-tech automotive wonders demand more from a mechanic than the grease-monkey image of TV's Goober of Mayberry.

Today's mechanics often are called technicians and have highly specialized training. According to Home Mechanix magazine, one person simply can't keep up with the complexity of all technological advances, so one technician will specialize on steering and suspension, for example, another on heating and air-conditioning systems.

This is good news if you know your problem is a muffler, transmission or brakes since you can then go to one of the nationwide chains that specializes in these repairs and, for a reasonable price, know you are getting a technician who knows his stuff.

The same strategy applies if your vehicle needs a paint job or body work - if the business has a good reputation, a specialty shop is probably your best bet.

BUT IF you are uncertain of the cause of your automotive nightmare. do not waste time and money spinning the auto repair wheel of fortune in a hit-and-miss attempt to find a qualified technician.

Instead, find a shop that employs competent mechanics in a variety of areas. The following American Automobile Association tips can keep you from being taken for a ride:

• Get recommendations. Ask friends and co-workers, especially if they own a car like yours, where they get their cars serviced. • Call the local Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce to check the business's reputation. • Check for certification.

Auto repair businesses that are members of AAA's Approved Auto Repair Program have passed inspections for cleanliness, training. quality of work, efficiency and courtesy.

Mechanics with ASE credentials are called certified master technicians, which means they have taken and passed written examinations sponsored by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence. The tests cover topics such as engine repair, transmissions, brakes, electrical systems and engine performance.

H, ALL gasoline is the same," you probably think as your needle moves to empty and you seek out a service station Think twice.

The truth, now more than ever, is that the quality of gasoline you put in your car can make a big difference in such areas as power, exhaust emissions and overall car performance

"The best place to take control of your car is at the gasoline pump," said Lewis Gibbs, senior engineering associate with Chevron.

Why do we need higher-quality gasoline? Just what sort of damage can a bad gasoline do? How can you fix the

The problem actually results from improvements in car technology. While newer fuel-injected engines found in most cars produced after 1985 deliver big gains in overall performance, their refined design demands more precision and care from the gas tank.

Without proper care and attention at the gas pump, the result can be a clogged fuel injector and excessive intake valve deposits.

The symptoms of this malaise soon emerge. Sputtering, loss of acceleration and even stalling can leave many a car owner angry and confused.

Fortunately, the damage caused by low-quality gasolines can easily be remedied in many cases.

"IT'S IMPORTANT to look for a gasoline with high-quality additives," said Chevron Research Co. research manager Ron Kiskis. "Many oil companies incorporate these additives directly into the products they sell at

"Pumping a quality gasoline into your car can often fix its problems in as little as a thousand miles and not only remove deposits in the fuel injector, but also help clean the entire intake system.

"Another solution," Kiskis added, "is to pour a bottle of a proven concentrated additive directly into your gas tank. Concentrated additives can clear up deposits and make a difference in a couple of tankfuls of · Keep your tire inflated at the proper pressure. Underinflated tires not only cause wear and waste fuel, but can also be unsafe.

"Before attempting to jump-start a battery, car owners should consult their owner's manual for specific instructions," said Paul Gliesman, AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service manager.

"Improper procedures can lead to explosions, serious damage to the automobile's electrical system and personal injury."

Gliesman advises motorists to wear safety glasses and remove all jewelry to avoid the possibility of unwanted sparks when working near the battery. No smoking or open flames should be allowed near the automobile when trying to jump-start; clothing and hands should be kept away from moving parts under the car's hood.

Before hooking up the cables, the motorist should inspect the battery for cracks or bulges. The battery posts should be cleared of acid build-up with a pasty solution of baking soda and

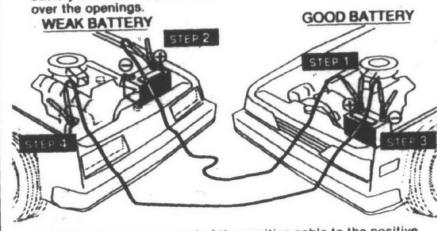

TO JUMP-START the car, AAA Michigan advises motorists to follow these procedures:

· Position the cars so they are close enough for jumper cables to be connected but not touching. Automatic-transmission cars should be in park. Manual-transmission cars should be in neutral. Be sure the parking brake is set and the ignition and accessories are off.

- Connect one end of the positive cable to the positive terminal of the good battery.
- Attach the other end of the positive cable to the positive terminal of the disabled battery.
- Connect one end of the negative cable to the negative terminal of the good battery.
- Attach the other end of the negative to a good ground such as a bolt on the engine or other unpainted, metallic surface on the car with the dead battery. Do not connect the negative cable to the negative terminal of the dead battery.

problem, get a written estimate. Make sure the estimate includes costs for parts and labor and a projected completion time/date for repairs.

For major repairs, you may want to get several estimates, or at least have your mechanic outline various courses of action. According to Home Mechanix, major repairs often can be solved in a variety of ways.

Get a description of all options along with costs and risks. For example, the mechanic should advise you about the possibility of using rebuilt parts. He also should outline the pros and cons of making partial repairs, replacing one defective front shock absorber on a new car instead of both, for instance.

In most cases, auto repair work is done properly the first time. There are times, however, particularly with today's electronic diagnostic systems, when a difficult-to-isolate problem may not be fixed on the first attempt. If this happens, the shop should take back your car and fix it immediately, putting aside new work to accommodate you.

WHEN YOU pick up your car after repairs have been made, ask the technician to show you the parts replaced. If you want new parts, ask for equipment made by the original parts manufacturer, such as Volkswagen or Chrysler. If you want a price break, ask the facility to use rebuilt parts to repair your vehicle.

Before you leave, examine the bill Make sure all costs are itemized and that the addition is correct, and that you are not charged for repairs covered by your car's warranty. If you are charged more than the estimate, ask for an explanation.

Finally, in developing a relationship of trust with a technician, consumers must realize that their car is ultimately their responsibility

Most car owners live by the adage, "If it isn't broken, don't fix it," and then complain about big-bucks repair bills. But expecting minimal repair bills for a neglected car is about as realistic as expecting to win the Indy 500 in an economy car.

Keep your repair bills low by following the maintenance schedule in your owner's manual. Checking and changing oil, keeping coolant fresh and at the correct level, inflating tires properly and inspecting brake and transmission fluid levels will help keep your car ready for the road and probably extend its life.

In a recent survey conducted by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence, 98 percent of technicians said auto owners could increase the life of their car by maintaining it according to the manufacturer's specifications. Copley News Service provided this

Strive to maintain tires, brakes, finish

By Steven Parker special writer

HERE WAS a time when turning the hose on the trusty family buggy was all it took to get your car ready for a night on the town.

But paint and tire care for cars has gone high-tech. And today's braking systems, using new materials and computer-controlled electronics, are so sophisticated, most of us can barely comprehend how they operate, much less how to maintain them correctly.

So the three basic systems that keep your car or truck in tiptop shape — paint, tires and brakes — deserve a bit more of your attention than you may have paid them in the past.

• FINISH FIRST

You might be surprised to learn that car and truck paints have been completely reformulated over the last decade. These new chemical processes have made paint care something that might be more suited for a chemical engineer than a typical car owner. But lacking your own personal chemist, here is a look at how and why paints have changed — and how to care for

The enamel paints that widely in the auto industry until the start of the 1980s had a lot going for them.

Mostly, they had a lot of paint going for them. Cars and trucks were painted by being sprayed with layer after layer of colored paint. This made for a great finish on the car if cared for properly, but it also created lots of problems.

The process added considerably to air pollution problems, and automakers spent time and money developing a new method for painting cars that would cut down on pollution.

That method is called clear-coating. Instead of painting with many layers of colored paint, only a few layers of color are sprayed on. Then they are covered with several layers of clear-coat paint, which serves to seal the paint and protect the surface.

Clear-coating's main problem is that if scratched or damaged in any way, the clear coat tends to show off that damage much more vividly than the old enamel paints. This is because the clear coat, when scraped or scratched, reflects that surface problem in a much more pronounced way than the old-and-polluting enamel paint methods. Clear coat, simply put, is delicate.

How to care for clear-coat paints?
First, determine the condition of the paint. Has your car been waxed in the past year? Do you live in a bad environment for the clear coat (heavy pollution, high heat, salt from snow-covered roads, acid rain and factories

If the paint is generally in bad condition, it is probably best to start the cleaning process with a moderately abrasive cleanser. Don't rush to the kitchen and get out the scouring powder. You need to use products specifically formulated for cleaning the clear coat without scratching the delicate finish.

Harry Robinson, a consumer relations representative for Armor All Products Corp. of Aliso Viego, Calif., said his company and others like it offer several different kinds of waxes and cleansers formulated for the new clear-coat finishes.

"Armor All has three waxes available. Armor All wax is formulated for clear-coat paint. Raindance is a bit more abrasive and longer lasting, and Rally is best for older vehicles or those needing the most intensive cleansing," Robinson said.

"For instance, the cleanser in our top-line wax is the same product jewelers use to clean gemstones and rings. It's non-abrasive, but it would not be appropriate for an enamel paint car, only for clear coat. Be sure to check the labels."

Robinson said waxing a car once a year is a good rule of thumb, but if conditions dictate, you may want to do it more often. Just check the label first so you do not ruin your paint job.

How best to apply the wax?

"We supply applicators with our wax and so do some other manufacturers," Robinson said. "It's safe to use either a sponge or terry-cloth applicator, whichever you prefer."

• TIRE TIME

When it comes to tire care, basic rules apply. Tire rotation is still a good idea, especially if it is recommended in your owner's handbook.

Proper balancing of your tires is essential, of course. Have this work done at the appropriate shop or at the dealer if still under warranty.

Most new cars come with a manual from the tire manufacturer (which also contains your new car tire warranty). Following the instructions there should give your tires a nice, long life.

Remember, the sportier a tire is, the less comfortable a ride it will give, and it will probably have a shorter life than you might expect. Luxury car tires last a long time and give a smooth ride, but they do not provide the same handling that a sport tire

Using too much antifreeze can raise the freezing point and diminish its effectiveness.

Antifreeze: a vital protective

DO MUCH of a good thing can be bad when it comes to filling your car's radiator with antifreeze, AAA Michigan reports,

"If too much antifreeze is put into the cooling system, it will raise the freezing point and diminish its effectiveness," said Paul Gliesman. AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service manager.

"Antifreeze must be diluted with water before it can be used effectively." Gliesman said. "A mixture of 50 percent antifreeze and 50 percent water is recommended to ensure protection to 36 degrees below zero."

For protection beyond 36 degrees below zero, motorists can use a mixture of two-thirds antifreeze to one third water, Gliesman said.

AAA MICHIGAN offers winter drivers these tips on antifreeze used to keep a car's cooling system from freezing, boiling and corroding:

• Check the level of radiator fluid in the cooling system every time the gas tank is filled. Marks on the radiator overflow tank indicate the proper level. If it's low, a mixture of antifreeze and water should be poured into the overflow tank.

 During winter, use an antifreeze hydrometer monthly to test the fluid's freezing point.

Change the radiator fluid and flush the cooling system every two years.
 Read the automobile owner's manual thoroughly to see if a specia manual thoroughly to see if a special type of antifreeze is needed for your vehicle. Some cars require a special type of antifreeze compatible with aluminum engine parts.

Do it yourself, but also practice 3 E's

By Norm Hudecki special writer

irth THE average price of a new car at more than $15,000, many car owners are taking more of a hands-on approach to protecting their investment.

While the convenience of quick lubes and specialty service centers is becoming increasingly attractive, most folks still perform at least some maintenance or repairs on their vehicles. Research by Valvoline Inc. shows that two-thirds of the motor oil sold in the United States was bought by do-it-yourselfers.

To be successful as a do-ityourselfer, follow the three E's: educate, equip and execute.

• Educate: Before you pop the hood and start poking around, learn about the procedures you want to perform. Your best instructional tool is probably right in the glove compartment: your owner's manual. This widely published, seldom-read book contains a wealth of information on troubleshooting, basic maintenance and recommended parts and supplies.

You might also look for seminars or classes on car care in your area. Many American Automobile Association chapters across the country sponsor car care clinics, taught by the organization's trained auto service technicians. Check the telephone book under AAA for the office nearest you.

Community colleges, vocational schools and some car dealerships also offer classes for the public.

There are a number of books and guides for specific models available at bookstores. No matter how you educate yourself, make sure you know what the job entails before you start in.

Know where the parts involved are and how to reach them. Know when the engine should be running and when it should be shut off. And have an idea of how long the job should take so you can allow enough time and avoid hasty mistakes.

Equip: Good auto service

SURE

requires the proper tools and supplies.

After you educate yourself on what items you need for your project, set about getting the equipment you need.

An oil change is a good example. You would need a drain pan for the used oil, a wrench for the oil pan plug, a filter wrench, a funnel for putting in the new oil and a container for transporting the used oil to a collection site.

As for supplies, you would need the proper amount of new motor oil (usually 3-4 quarts) and a new oil filter.

Another consideration: Find out if your vehicle requires wrenches or sockets in metric or U.S. standard measurements.

• Execute: Now that you've educated and equipped yourself, it's time to execute the work. First, find a good work area. Your vehicle should be parked on level, firm ground or pavement. Try to find an area protected from the weather but well-ventilated so you avoid being overcome by fumes or engine exhaust.

Take precautions for safety while you work. If you are under the car, make sure the jack or ramp is sturdy enough and in the proper position and that your car is in "park" with the emergency brake on.

A KEY part of car maintenance and repair is practicing environmental responsibility. Learn where to dispose of old fluids, batteries, tires and other items.

And it's generally best to have a professional technician with recycling equipment handle air-conditioner recharging; refrigerants contain harmful CFCs that can be leaked into the atmosphere when the procedure is done improperly.

The final step in the execution phase is to record what you have serviced and when the next check is due. Most owner's manuals have a section for this. Such records can often be helpful if you choose to sell the vehicle as evidence of its good care and performance.

In addition to these three E's, there are a couple more to keep in mind. One is experience: The first time you try a particular job, it may take you a little longer; with experience, you will become more adept at the task.

And expertise: Don't let your ego get in the way of asking for help when you need it. If you get in a bind, seek someone with the expertise to help you finish the job.

Do-it-yourself car service can be easy, enlightening, economical and enjoyable.

UMMER IS history. Now we're looking forward, more or less, to the cold winter ahead. In the spirit of the season, here's a true/false quiz to test your auto awareness:

Questions

- 1. For better traction on ice or snow, "bleed" air from your tires. (T) or (F)
- 2. Headlight aiming is unnecessary with the new halogen lights. (T) or
- 3. When the alternator warning light goes on, it could indicate your car needs a new drive belt. (T) or (F)
- 4. The average-size automobile engine develops enough heat to keep a five-room house comfortably warm during zero degree weather. (T) or
- 5. When windshield wipers smear the glass, they should be cleaned off and coated with mineral oil. (T) or
- 6. A squealing noise when you apply the brakes is not necessarily a sign that they need to be relined. (T) or (F)
  - 7. One misfiring spark plug can affect gas mileage by as much as 25 percent. (T) or (F)

- 8. A thumping sound from the front of the car usually comes from a bad tire. (T) or (F)
- 9. When filling the gasoline tank in cold weather, it's best to fill the tank to the top of the filler neck, just short of overflowing. (T) or (F)
- 10. The CV joints on a front-wheeldrive car should not wear out under normal driving conditions. (T) or (F)

- 1. False. Maximum tread contact and, therefore, best traction is achieved with properly inflated tires.
- 2. False. Any type of headlight can go out of adjustment due to vibration or body damage.
- 3. True. A worn or improperly adjusted drive belt can slip its pulley, causing low output from the alternator.
- 4. True. Metal temperatures inside the engine can reach 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Excess heat is dissipated by the cooling system.
  - 5. False. Keeping windshield wiper blades clean will improve their wiping ability, but stop right there. A film of wax or oil on the windshield or windshield wiper blades will cause smearing. Clean the edge of the blade and the glass with windshield washer solvent or a mild detergent. If the wiper still smears, replace the blade.

- 6. True. New semi-metallic brake linings tend to be noisy. However, if you're uncertain about the condition of your brake lining and pads, have them checked. The noise could be a signal that you're due for a brake job.
- 7. True. On a four-cylinder engine, when one spark plug isn't firing, the fuel in that cylinder is wasted.
- 8. True. The thump can come from a flat spot or from a lump on the tire. Flat spots usually are caused by improper wheel balance or alignment. A blister or bulge may be due to tread separation, a potentially dangerous condition.

- 9. False. Overfilling the gasoline tank can cause raw fuel to enter the vapor recovery line that leads to the engine. This can result in hard starting and erratic operation until that fuel is burned off.
- 10. False. Although they can last much longer, constant velocity joints normally need replacement between 75,000 and 100,000 miles.

Scoring 9-10 right is excellent. 7-9 is passing. Below that, brush-up on car care.

will. Some new high-performance tires are unidirectional (made to roll in one direction), so make sure these tires are installed properly for the best performance.

Tire life can also be extended by applying protectant to the tire, usually in the form of a water-based silicone spray.

"Ozone, oxidation and ultraviolet radiation are your tire's worst enemies," Robinson said. "If you are going to use a protectant, make sure it is water-based and has no petroleum products in it. If the protectant has any fragrance, it probably has alcohol in it, and that is as bad for your tires as driving nails through them. Again, read the labels first.'

Actor treasures move from film to television

By Mary Ann Townsend

October 1-October 7

Joe Pantoliano doesn't worry about getting bogged down with his work on the new NBC series The Fanelli Boys.

The actor, who has been seen in big-grossing feature films for the past 10 years, is actually looking forward to what others may consider the grind of weekly television.

"The medium is completely different from the mediums I've practiced in-theater and film and televisionthis is a combination. You're filming the show in front of a live audience, so you're getting the immediate response, but the cameras are covering you like you're on film, so you can't really play the audience because then you'd be too large for the people that are going to watch you on television. It's a medium that intrigues me in terms of conquer- other roles. ing it," he said.

Pantoliano has always loved the challenge of conquering new things. Having "slipped through" grade school in Hoboken, N.J., the actor was need about 22 to 25 shows just to get evaluated with having a third grade reading equivalency when he was in high school. With the help of a concerned history teacher and a tutor. Pantoliano soon set a goal for himself. "It was just practice, I just needed to read and learn, my comprehension was good. So I started reading a book a week for like the next 10 years, and it got better."

Whether it was the ability to read or talent or both. Pantoliano has done well with acting.

Throughout the course of his 18-year professional acting career, Pantoliano has played Maggio in the miniseries From Here To Eternity, Gino in The Idolmaker, Guido the killer pimp in Risky Business, a photojournalist in The Mean Season, a punk rocker in Running Scared, Ritchie Valens' manager in La Bamba, and a retarded brother in Orphans, as well as many

Even with that diversity, the actor said he doesn't think he'll look at The Fanelli Boys as a weekly rut. "With any luck, if the show is successful, I would into the swing of things."

Cable Commer

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN Executive Director, SW Oakland Cable Comm.

"Quite a surprise!" said Kay Briggs. Elinor Holland of Novi and I walked into the book store at Northwood Institute in Midland last Friday. Two of the clerks recognized us from being on Channel 12! They talked about my travel program and said they heard Elinor talk about the new Novi Garden Club!" How thrilled both women were to learn of their program being seen elsewhere as well as being recognized! Viewership on all television stations is increasing and changing as never before. This phenomena is to the benefit of Community Television Channels. People are changing. More and more are developing a thirst for knowledge.

People are beginning to take stock of all the opportunities available to them on community television. I want them to experience the richness Community Television brings to those who participate and watch. Kay Briggs is the perfect example of such positive energy. She is making every moment count in

Not only does Kay have a lifetime of honored recognition, but she bounds out of bed every day energizing everything she touches.

Kay was one of the first people to have faith in the concept of Community Televison. She was the first to take the Garden Clubs and to share their colorful splendor. I will never forget what a wonderful time two of my staff people, Todd Whitman and Intern Julie Smith, had with Kay as she drove them all over the area introducing them to lovely gardens. They could hardly keep up with her.

Kay has traveled throughout the world as well as the United States. She used to take pictures with film.

Now she has a 8mm camcorder Among the areas Kay has shared with us are: Iceland, New Zealand. Vienna, Austria, Rome, Italy, Africa, Israel, Japan, Venezuela, Ireland, Scotland, China, Tibet, Spain, Peru, the South Pacific, Switzerland, Iraq, the Phillippines, the Baltic States, the Orient, Alaska, the Galopogus Islands, the Colorado River, England, Yugoslavia, Sri Lanka and the lower Mississippi.

The emphasis of the program has been to show the people and well known sites of the visited area. Her advise to fellow travelers with a video camera is, "Think a smile!" Approach people in a pleasant way and everyone, everywhere, returns it. She always asks the people permission to tape them, especially parents. They have always been pleased.

When I asked Kay what could she share with us as result of traveling throughout the world she replied, "Except the Netherlands and Belgium the standard of living is much lower than ours. Yet people are happy and proud of what they have. They like to share what they have, too." Her favorite country is New Zealand as "the scenery is a microcosm of the world." There are mountains, hot springs, rain forests and large cities. "Christ Church. New Zealand, is a very British City, says Kay, "it looks more like the English than England.'

For Kay the most work of the entire project is to edit all the footage afterwards. The decision making necessary to create a program that flows well is a lot of work. Editing doubles the television production time for her. MetroVision's staff works closely with her

I asked Kay to give us a piece of advice. Her voice was full of warmth and enthusiasm as she chirped, "Do it now when you can!"

Look into your life. What do you already do? Who do you already know? Through Community Access Television you may have the knowhow to make a difference in someone else's life Through Community Access Television you can add challenge and purpose to your life. All you have to do is share. This concept is what makes advertisers flock to be placed within network talk shows. If you have something to say, someone will be in the viewing audience to listen

You may have the good fortune to travel throughout the world as Kay Briggs does or you may just be able to travel across the room to your televison dial. Either way, you have something treasured in your life just waiting to be shared

Randy Travis, Reba McEntire co-host CMA Awards show

Ceremonies mark another first for country's Randy Travis

By MARY ANN TOWNSEND

Country star Randy Travis knows all about firsts. His first album, "Storms of Life" in 1986 became the first debut LP by a solo country performer to achieve platinum status in less than one year. He was also the youngest male singer ever to be inducted into the Grand Ole Opry.

His career undergoes another first on Monday. Oct. 8, when he takes the stage for the first time as host of an awards program. With Reba McEntire. Travis co-hosts "The 24th Annual Country Music Association Awards," to air live from Nashville's Grand Ole Opry House

Travis, undoubtedly has won a good portion of awards, but this marks the first time he will officiate any of the ceremonies.

"I would imagine I'll feel a little nervous about it, especially being the first time. Working with Reba though, she's done it a couple of times before and she'll probably be fairly comfortable with it, so maybe speculated.

she'll help me a little bit," Travis In addition to serving as host,

Travis is also up for two awards this year. Entertainer of the Year and Music Video of the Year for "He Walked On Water." Likewise his cohost McEntire is up for two awards, Vocal Event of the Year, for her performance with Vince Gill, and Female Vocalist of the Year.

The singer/songwriter remains low-key, yet fully appreciative about the multitude of awards he has won from The Country Music Association, The Academy of Country Music, Music City News and others. Now a multiple Grammy Award-winner, too, Travis received the CMA's Horizon Award, an award given to newcomers, as recently as "It seems like only last year It literally seems like last year that I won the Horizon Award," Travis said. "We're working on the fifth year of traveling on the road. The years have gone by so quick it just seems amazing to me. It's just hard to imagine. It's hard to imagine the awards that I've won, and the record sales. All that was such a surprise anyway. I never expected that at all

O: Could you send me the mailing address for Mr. Johnny Cash? I have a photo that I would like to send him. I'm sure that he will enjoy seeing it. Appreciate your help. - Don Huber, Rapid City, S.D.

A: Send your photo to Mr Johnny Cash c/o House of Cash, 711 Summerfield Dr. Hendersonville, TN 37075

O: I know that Lorne Greene, who played Ben Cartwright on Bonanza passed away. What I want to know is the year that he died. - Yolanda Hubinek, Navarre, Fla.

A: Lorne Greene died in St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica, Calif of cancer on Sept. 11, 1987. He was 72

It would have been impossible, however, to have bottled up all of his successes in just one year. Since the 1986 release of "Storms of Life," Travis has carefully cranked out three other platinum albums, including "Always & Forever." "Old 8x10," and "No Holdin' Back." Last month Travis released another alburn, a montage of 14 duets with the likes of George Jones, Tammy Wynette, Loretta Lynn, Dolly Parton, Chet Atkins, Clint Eastwood, Roy Rogers, Merle Haggard, Verne Gosdon, Conway Twitty, Kris Kristofferson and B.B. King.

Travis said he displays the awards, photographs and plaques around the walls of his office, where they can be shared with everyone who is involved with his success.

Everybody can see everything as they go through the office. And a lot of pictures, too, of people that I've worked with It's nice The chart of the first No. 1 record, the first time that "1982" was the No. 1 song, and then "On the Other Hand," just good stuff to remember." the singer/ songwriter said, chuckling over his choice of words. "That's a good way to put it, the good stuff."

Billy Warlock returns to 'Days'

By Candace Havens OK! Hold on to your hat! You'll never guess who's coming back to the popular daytime soap Days Of Our Lives

October 1-October 7

Billy Warlock (Frankie Brady) will return to the show in early November. to the delight of millions of fans. Warlock left the show in October of 1988 when his character headed out to Columbia University in New York.

After leaving the show, Warlock landed a starring role in NBC's prime-time series, Baywatch. He also took the time to do a few television movies including, Swimsuit, Class Cruise and an after school special, But It Wasn't My Fault.

Will he return to rekindle the fires with Jennifer? Al Rabin, supervising executive producer for the show, says "We welcome him back with a storyline which I'm certain will intrigue. surprise and delight his many fans."

We'll see, Al, we'll see.

Dear Candace: I agree with P.L. in Wisconsin, there is "too much" Cricket on The Young And The Restless. But what really is unreal is-there are no! new! men! on the show for Ashley. She needs someone besides Victor and Brad. She needs a new love interest. They need some new blood on the show instead of recycling Brad, Victor and Jack. - B.S., California

Dear Candace: I am a big fan of Cricket on Y&R and I really enjoy watching her on the show. She is both pretty and talented. I think the people who criticize her are out of their minds. -Thanks for listening, Tiffany, Eagar,

Dear Candace: I agree with Hattie Rand who wrote to your column about Susan Lucci (Erica, All My Children). I, too, believe that Lucci is a super actress and she most certainly deserves an Emmy for her work. I'm convinced that the people who choose the winners are very unfair. She is far superior to anyone chosen in the past 10 years. She should have won this prestigious award years ago. I am sure that someone is cheating her out of this award -Thanks, Raymonce D. Baca, Las Vegas, N.M.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748
