Business soars by degrees

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

The National Weather Service says May 1991 was the hottest ever on record.

And the hotter-than-normal weather had its effect on area businesses.

"We sold more air conditioners this May than we did in July," said Gene Mondry, chairman of Highland Appliance, headquartered in Plymouth.

"Our sales were probably four or five times higher than last May," Mondry said, adding dehumidifier and fan sales were also up significantly. He declined to release actual sales figures.

"Actually our sales are down because of the heat," said Val Saxton of Saxton Garden Center in Plymouth. "If it's cold and rainy we have less sales, and if it's hot we have less sales," she said.

"Yea, we've sold more, our sales are the same as June and July normally are," said Holly Bahrow, owner of Dairy-Go-Round on Main Street in Plymouth.

DOWNTOWN CLOTHIER Fred Hill said May sales stayed about the same, with summer-related items selling faster and spring items selling slower.

"Spring jackets are still here," Hill said. "It seems there was this sudden jump from 50 (degrees) to 90."

"I think basically people were running around naked, that was the only way to be," he added, laughing.

"Really about the only thing that's been affected is watering the flowers in the downtown area," said Paul Sincoc, assistant city manager and DPW director. Flowers that typically need watering occasionally were watered three or four times per week, due to the heat, he said.

Phyllis Kownacki, owner of Cloverdale Ice Cream Parlours & Restaurants in Plymouth, said, "It seems like we're busier, more so toward the evening when the sun goes down because it's so hot during the day."

ON FRIDAY, Dairy King owner Carol Laing was swamped with orders. "Let me tell you, we're having a rough time today," she said. At the Main Street shop, "We're up maybe

HORSES ARE special, says Nancy Lampton. "I just love 'em to death, they're just really neat animals," she explains.

For example, some horses coming in from her fenced pasture to one of two pole barns "run into another one's stall, grab a bite of food, and go back in their own stall," she said.

In 1985, Lampton, who grew up in Garden City, moved with her dad to her 45 acres in Salem Township owned by her grandfather. Back then, she got her first horse, Blonday, and took riding lessons.

Not long after, she decided, "We bought a horse, might as well put up a barn."

NOW, LAMPTON offers riding lessons at her ENL Stables business and boards more than 40 horses. She also offers carriage rides along 6 miles of country roads to the Lord Fox restaurant in Dixboro, and will soon offer carriage rides in downtown Plymouth.

On a recent weekday, one of Lampton's three part-time employees was scrubbing stall doors, as barn sparrows chirped and darted in and out of the barn.

IRS visits car dealer Massey under investigation

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

It will take nearly six months for the Internal Revenue Service to complete an investigation of a Don Massey Cadillac records-filing practice, an IRS spokeswoman said last week.

The local landmark Cadillac dealer, one of the nation's largest, remained open for business Friday after 20-25 IRS agents descended upon the business at 9 a.m.

The agents spent roughly six hours at the dealership, just southwest of I-275 and Ann Arbor Road.

Sarah Wreford, IRS public affairs officer, said, "basically we were executing a search warrant for records."

Wreford said the IRS — which has filed no charges against the auto dealership — had probable cause to suspect the dealership of failing to file paperwork on cash transactions over $10,000, as required by federal law.

Massey's secretary, Melissa Henaughen, said: "We really don't have any comment," on the IRS visit to the dealership.

"This is the first time we have executed a search warrant for this reason in the state of Michigan," Wreford said.

SHE SAID THE law requiring the filing of form 8300 seeks to keep drug dealers and others engaging in illegal activity from converting cash into cars. The form shows the cash transaction took place and includes the buyer's name, and driver's license and Social Security numbers.

Does the IRS investigation of the auto dealership send a message? "That wasn't the purpose, but we certainly hope that will be an offshoot of it," Wreford said.

Saying that only 882 of the forms were filed with the IRS last year, Wreford said, "That's not enough. There's a great deal of non-compliance out there."

"That's what we're here for, we're trying to fix that problem."

Don Massey told the Observer in 1989 that he didn't think much of car dealers acting as pseudo-police officers.

"If this happened, we'd sell the car," he said, given the scenario of a man trying to buy a car with cash.

Board candidates give views on education issues

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Plymouth-Canton voters had a chance to grill board of education candidates at a League of Women Voters forum at West Middle School Wednesday evening.

Two four-year seats on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will be filled in the June 10 election. Running are incumbents Dean Swartzwelder and Roland Thomas of Plymouth Township and Canton residents Deborah Lynch and Bobbie Cleary.

LYNCH IS A FINANCIAL planner with a degree in business administration and work experience in commercial real estate development.

Lynch said she decided to run because of her concerns regarding government-mandated changes in education, her experiences as a parent and business professional. She's concerned about the implementation of the Michigan Model core curriculum, replacement of Superintendent John Hoben upon his retirement and communication within the school district.

Swartzwelder, a financial manager for Ford Motor Co., said he'd like to continue working on funding and curriculum issues, be instrumental in naming Hoben's replacement, and to follow the work of the blue ribbon committee studying the district's needs.

He said he believes the district has a social responsibility to provide students with the support they need, especially those who don't receive adequate parental support.

Cleary, a chemical engineer, has work experience with Kerr/McGee Corp. in Oklahoma researching coal liquefaction for the U.S. Department of Energy. For three years, she's volunteered as a Sunday school teacher.

Cleary said she wants to work on improving the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools so that she can be confident her children will receive a good education.

THE DISTRICT'S emphasis on students' self esteem has led to a situation in which teachers report that second graders are reading at lower levels than second graders of previous years, yet grading themselves very high. Making sure students receive a sound education should be the district's first priority, Cleary said.

Roland Thomas, planning and analysis manager for Ford Motor's Pre-delivery Service Corporation, said this election is about improving the learning environment in a rapidly changing society.

Before this year's first graders graduate, the volume of available information will have more than quadrupled. While students need to learn the basics, change is necessary if our children are to compete in a global community, he said.

In response to a question on elementary counselors, Cleary said that while students need to have healthy self esteem — an issue addressed by counselors — "less than 30 percent of the school day is spent on actual academics. That's my concern," Cleary said.

Lynch

tional state control, paperwork and bureaucracy it creates. The objective is good."

Lynch said part of Public Act 25 involves "implementing the Michigan model curriculum goals so that children will leave schools with a lifelong desire to learn. We need to increase communication and help our parents and residents in the district understand the core curriculum and help support its implementation."

Said Thomas: "Of the five quality issues the Legislature passed, I think

Board candidates discuss issues

the school improvement program will have the most impact on staff and students. It will force us to work together as a team, and there's nothing more rewarding than working as a team to improve education."

Clearly said that while Public Act 25 is very important to this district, it's necessary to look at more than exit outcomes. "I think it's also important to emphasize content," she said.

Swartzwelter was asked why audience members at board meetings are prohibited from speaking unless they've filled out a card before the meeting begins.

The policy, put into place five or six years ago, allows residents to address the board before votes are taken on specific agenda items. "The board has been very generous with many people, allowing them to speak spontaneously," said Swartzwelter, "but one cannot allow meetings to get out of control. There are business items that have to be taken care of."

Lynch was asked what alternative sources of funding she'd seek for the district. "Businesses could be considered," she said. "What it takes is an active process of marketing and soliciting responsibility from businesses in the community."

Developmental education

Asked about developmental education, Cleary said students not yet ready for formal education can benefit by the learn-at-your-own-pace educational program. "As a mother of three children, I can see that one of the minuses is that the system doesn't offer the direction and guidance children need. They need to be told at certain times to do certain things, even though they may not feel like doing it. Otherwise, they're not going to do them."

Thomas said that with developmental education, "teachers teach to the child's level of development," alleviating one of the chief reasons children fail.

Lynch said that while developmental education boosts self-esteem and students' desire to learn, "it places a tremendous workload on teachers. We need constant monitoring of the system so we can evaluate how the program is working. It's up to our local school board to come up with an evaluation system."

Swartzwelter said, "We believe all students can learn and achieve personal success. Developmental education recognizes that all students coming in aren't the same age or at the same maturation level. Recognizing that allows students to proceed without being compared to everyone else. It does take more teacher time."

Job skills

WHETHER PLYMOUTH-CANTON graduates have skills required by business and industry also was addressed by candidates.

"Our SAT scores are 100 points above the national average, however with our restructuring, I don't know what the future will hold," said Cleary. "I'm very concerned about changes we are undergoing. I'm also concerned about our policy that says that if we graduate students who can't read and write, we'll let them go back to school again."

Thomas said, "We are working very hard so we meet the needs of business. Eighty-three percent of our graduates went on last year to two-or four-year colleges and universities. Those who go on to work right after high school have the broadest vocational education. Because we have two high schools on one site, we have a huge advantage."

Lynch said "Being involved with executive management, I've had the opportunity to look at business criteria. Plymouth-Canton students are looked at a little more seriously than others."

Swartzwelter said he's "very happy with the education" his three children received in the district. "Things are changing so fast in not only the business world, but in the whole country that it behooves us as a board of education, administration and a community to come up with a plan to cope with this change."

The top three issues facing education were identified by Thomas as: changing the learning process and learning environment; school financing; and incorporating technology into the classroom.

Lynch ranked the issues as: how we react to governmental influence on education; the district's ability to develop alternative funding sources; and the ability to act versus react to the schools of choice issue.

Swartzwelter listed school financing; exploring high technology in the classroom; and getting parents involved to improve education.

Cleary listed academic achievement; school financing; and the need for the board to listen to all voices in the community.

Horse sense guides area businesswoman

Another employee conducted a riding lesson in the indoor arena built off of one barn.

About eight feet above the sand-covered arena floor are windows set into a wooden wall. A look through the glass reveals a viewing room complete with TV, VCR, stereo and fold-out bed, for the horses' owners.

"If the horses get sick, they can stay here all night," Lampton explained.

She takes a visitor on a tour of a barn, and gestures toward the inside of a stall. "We bed them down with sawdust and feed with oats and corn," Lampton said.

She learned the business from talking to farmers, vets and other boarders, and from publications. She advertised in the phone book to get customers.

OF HORSES, she said, "Each one has their own personality, they really do." They prefer the company of certain other horses, while shunning others.

And when it's time to feed, "The ones that come in first are the kings of the pasture," Lampton explained.

'Because they're an animal and because they think, there isn't one moment you should let your guard down.'

— Nancy Lampton

Yet, "Because they're an animal and because they think, there isn't one moment you should let your guard down," she said. Horses can kick from the front or the rear.

"You have to discipline them as fast as they strike," she said — by pulling on a chain over the nose, "or give them a little crop."

To reward them, "They love to have their noses or foreheads rubbed, or their ears rubbed, and apples and carrots. The quickest way to a horse's heart is treats," Lampton said.

When it comes to treats, one particular horse at the stables goes for Craklin' Oat Bran cereal and Wheat Thins crackers.

People who board horses with Lampton include residents of Salem Township, Plymouth, Canton, Livonia and Farmington.

Voters to decide tax renewal, pick 3 S'craft College trustees

In addition to electing two school board members, Plymouth-Canton voters will decide June 10 on a tax renewal.

The 17.74-mill renewal represents about $35 million in revenue, or half the district's operating budget.

All four Plymouth-Canton candidates support the renewal.

Said candidate Deborah Lynch of Canton: "I think the renewal is necessary. It represents half our current operating budget. We are the 12th lowest in per student expense in Wayne County now, so we are keeping it at a reasonable cost. A renewal is just that; it's not an increase in taxes."

Incumbent Dean Swartzwelter said that while 21.74 mills are expiring, "we are only requesting the renewal of 17.74 mills."

"We're not asking for a renewal of the two-year, four-mill levy. If someone came along and said we are going to take half your family income away, would you find it difficult to keep the household going? The renewal is extremely critical. I'd encourage everyone to get out and talk to people" and urge support.

Candidate Bobbie Cleary of Canton also favors the renewal. "Since it represents half the operating budget, it's essential to the success of our schools."

Incumbent Roland Thomas said, "I feel so strongly about the renewal that I put it on my campaign literature, urging people to vote yes. The board did say the four mills was a two-year commitment. I support the renewal, and that will be distributed in the community."

Voters also will elect Schoolcraft College trustees, one to a four-year term and two to six-year terms.

Voting will take place 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, June 10, at the regular school election polling places. For information on precincts and absentee voting, call 451-3135.

Plymouth-Canton school officials probably will ask voters to approve a $59.9 million bond issue Sept. 24. The bond issue would pay for school construction and capital improvements including buying electronics for classrooms.

Rouge turnout falls short, but worker spirits stay high

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

There were sunny skies, but heavy rain the night before swelled the Rouge River and may have kept turnout below expected levels for Saturday's sixth annual Rouge Rescue.

Volunteers worked all morning at sites throughout western Wayne and Oakland counties. But while some sites saw fairly heavy turnout, it was slow going at others.

"We do this every year and I'd have to say turnout was lower this year," said Rita Spence of Farmington, a member of Bell Telephone Pioneers which helped sign up about 40 workers at the Nankin Mills cleanup site in Westland.

"There was so much on the news earlier about the river being high, I'll bet that had something to do with it," Spence said.

Though final figures hadn't been tallied, event organizers said overall turnout fell below the projected 3,000 level.

"WE'RE LOOKING at something fairly close to last year (when about 2,700 people participated)," Friends of the Rouge executive director Carol Weihe said. "But it may be just a little below that." Livonia-based Friends of the Rouge has coordinated the volunteer cleanups since 1986.

Heavier than normal spring rainfall turned the Rouge into a thick, chocolate brown mess at many area sites.

Flooding canceled two Detroit work sites along the Middle Rouge, Weihe said. Elsewhere, volunteers did the best they could.

Some three dozen teenage workers gamely scrambled down a steep river bank to help clear logjams at the Canton/Wayne site along the lower Rouge.

"We'd really targeted another area, but we just couldn't get to it," site coordinator Kim Scherschligt of Canton said.

Area volunteers participated at sites in northeastern Livonia, Holiday Nature Preserve, Westland and at the Western Wayne Conservation Association, near Plymouth Township.

Carol Merritt helped gather debris at the city of Plymouth site behind the Tonquish Manor Senior Citizens Residence. Merritt is a Tonquish Manor employee.

"This is a pretty good way to do something for the community and to meet other people who are interested in the environment," said Don Hartford, an early volunteer at the city of Westland site in Dorsey Park.

A potentially serious accident was apparently avoided later at the Holiday Park site, also in Westland, where two men were briefly pinned under water when a log they were cutting rolled back onto them.

Setbacks, however, did little to dampen enthusiasm.

"IT'S NOT too bad here," said Shelia Majeswski of Westland, who helped out at Nankin Mills site. "We didn't find anything too exciting, like couches or automobiles, but we did clear lots and lots of logjams."

Unlike previous years, many workers steered clear of the river.

"Mostly, we stayed up on the banks," said Craig Schmatz of Plymouth Township, a Ford Motor Co. volunteer who also worked the Nankin Mills site.

Even though turnout was lower, observers from Take Pride in America were still suitably impressed.

"We were very inspired not only by the number of people who showed up, but by the variety, especially with all the children we saw" said Trudy Harlow, information director for the Washington, D.C. group that has five times honored the Rouge Rescue for its volunteer spirit.

Take Pride representatives roamed from site to site, observing cleanup efforts. The group, a promotional effort of 13 federal agencies, is designed to spur volunteerism. It was the first time group representatives visited the cleanup.

Youngsters appeared to outnumber adults at several sites, including the Canton/Wayne site behind UAW 900 Hall on Michigan Avenue. Students from Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem government classes muddied themselves hauling fallen trees and other debris from the river.

Many of the same students would be scrubbed and fresh a few hours later, said Jenny Masters of Canton. "Our prom is tonight."

Ron Plaskov didn't want to miss out on the Rouge Rescue, so the Tonquish Manor resident used his motorized wheelchair to cart debris to Dumpsters at the Plymouth cleanup site.

Learning program an issue

To the editor:
I attended the League of Women Voters candidate night Wednesday, May 29. I was particularly interested in asking Bobbie Cleary about her stand on the developmental learning program.

I read her letter to the editor and was quite perplexed about some of the "facts" she used in developing her stance on whole language learning.

Immediately after the formal questions were over, I approached Ms. Cleary and asked her if she had sought out any parents who were pleased with the developmental program. I told her that I was extremely pleased with my daughter's education at Field Elementary and that she was an excellent reader and her math skills are exceptional.

Ms. Cleary said that she was glad that I was pleased with her education and that my daughter must have been lucky to have teachers that really understood the program and used an integrated approach.

I told her that it sounded like she was agreeing with the concept of multiple approaches to learning (which whole language is), but the problem is with the implementation, not the approach itself. That calls for more and better teacher training, which I support fully.

Ms. Cleary's willingness to scrap a viable learning approach for implementation problems gives me great doubt to her grasp and understanding of how children learn.

As a parent who has volunteered in several classrooms at Field Elementary and has been active in parent groups and sports teams at East Middle School, I can testify firsthand that there's a lot of good people teaching our children. There are certainly problems and areas for improvement, but I believe that we need board members who can look fully into an issue and make a decision.

Therefore, I cannot vote for Bobbie Cleary because she doesn't have the background or the experience to make these decisions for other people's children.

I'm voting for Roland Thomas and Dean Swartzweiler because their choices have positively affected my children's education.

Brenda E. Anderson, Canton

Encounter of the best kind

To the editor:

I'm writing to tell you about an encounter I had with the Canton Fire Department. On Monday, May 13, I had experienced severe abdominal pain for several hours, and decided that I needed to go to the emergency room at Oakwood Center for help and pain relief.

Being a single mom, I took my 7-year-old daughter with me for the ride to Oakwood, about three miles away. Before I had gone one mile, I felt myself blacking out, and pulled over at the corner of Sheldon and Cherry Hill to collect myself. After some time, I proceeded (with my emergency flashers on) down Cherry Hill, encouraged by my very frightened daughter. Seeing the fire department on the corner, I pulled in, collected myself again, and went in to ask for help.

I can hardly express the relief and subsequent admiration I felt for the extremely solicitous and professional treatment I received from them, not to mention how well they handled my daughter's fright and concern. I was particularly taken to Oakwood, where I received the tests and relief required.

I regret that I don't recall the names of the men on duty that night that helped us so much, but I would publicly like to thank them and the entire department for their kindness and thoroughly professional service to a citizen like myself.

The best part: Yesterday I received a get well card from the men at that station which said they were glad to be of service when I needed them. Can you beat that? The whole department, and particularly the firefighters (paramedics?) who helped me that evening are to be highly commended.

Jan Koski, Canton

An ode to morning

To the editor:
The Loving Hands

It was a beautiful morning
I started to cross the street
The same as I do everyday
When the mean thing hit me
I fell back into the ditch
When I awoke, I headed for the street again
But my back leg wouldn't work
And my nose was wet
I laid back down and closed my eyes
It was then I felt the loving hands smooth my fur
I didn't try to get up
But listened to the soft voice
Soon the loving hands lifted me into a box
And then I was put into a different mean thing
I tried to climb out
Because I thought the pain must be coming from the box
The loving hands pushed hard to keep me down
And then began to stroke my back
Inside the building
I thought I could smell dogs
I waited in the box on the counter
With the loving hands massaging my neck
Now I could hear two soft voices
I felt the loving hands let go
And I closed my eyes
Until the pain was gone.

Senior urges yes vote on millage

To the editor:

As a senior citizen, I urge the voters of the Plymouth-Canton Community School District to please vote "Yes" on the 1.74 millage renewal. Since this represents approximately 50 percent of the district's annual budget, it is important that this millage renewal is passed.

We should be proud that our school district spends less per student — $4,075 — than the following 10 surrounding school districts: Ann Arbor, $6,375; Bloomfield Hills, $6,737; Detroit, $4,311; Farmington, $6,105; Inkster, $4,221; Livonia, $5,148; Northville, $4,679; Rochester, $4,893; Wayne-Westland, $4,794; West Bloomfield, $6,065.

In Wayne County, Plymouth-Canton is 25th out of 34 local districts in per-pupil spending. The average per-pupil spending is $4,455 in Wayne County and $4,988 in Oakland County.

Also, there will be two four-year board of education seats to be filled in this election. Vote for Dean Swartzweiler and Roland Thomas.

Ray R. Beckman, Plymouth

Candidate is off base on program

To the editor:

As a teacher and resident of Canton, I feel it necessary to respond to Ms. Cleary's remarks to the Canton Observer on May 20, 1991.

Ms. Cleary obviously lacks knowledge and understanding regarding developmentally based programs and the whole language approach to reading.

In a developmentally based classroom, the structure is much more sophisticated than in a traditionally based program. The developmentally based program meets the children's individual needs. Research has shown that children develop socially, emotionally, and physically at varying rates, which we as teachers know, value, and accept. Research has also shown that children learn best when given opportunity to explore and investigate on their own, depending on what their stage of development and thinking.

In my developmentally based kindergarten program, I have gifted children who are reading, as well as those who are just beginning to identify letters of the alphabet. They are all experiencing success.

My second concern deals with Ms. Cleary's comments regarding whole language. "The whole language approach is based on memorizing words and sounding them out." That is totally false. In whole language, we look at a whole story, poem, etc. and through that begin looking at parts, including phonics. We use a variety of literature including poetry, nursery rhymes, fingerplays, and even the children's own written stories.

I suggest Ms. Cleary do more research on developmentally based programs and whole language before she again makes blanket statements which are incorrect and misleading.

Engler sees Detroit area as a cesspool

Suburban Detroiters seem perplexed about our new governor. They thought he was another good, white Republican, one of them.

They voted for him, but then he turned on them. And it hasn't been a pretty sight. He wants to cut welfare benefits and trash funding for the arts. Bill Milliken was another out-state Republican, and he didn't do all that.

The thing is that Engler just isn't one of them. Part of it is geography. Milliken is from Traverse City, which really is part of Oakland County. It has nothing to do with the rest of the state, just like southeastern Michigan may as well be in Ohio as far as out-state residents are concerned.

Engler is from central Michigan, where people don't even notice the recessions because they're in a near depression.

And their view of southeastern Michigan, regardless of political party, is that it's a cesspool. The folks there just see Engler as the clean up man.

I SHARE SOME of Engler's sensibilities. I spent 15 years working at a newspaper in central Michigan. The story there was the decline of farming and the auto industry.

And when you spend that much time writing about the plight of people caught up in a changing economy, you just tend to see Detroit and the suburbs as a cesspool of excesses. Grinding poverty co-exists with obscene displays of wealth.

Even the lawns in suburban Detroit look different. They're too green. They're the result of too much money spent on too many chemicals. There's too much gold trim on cars and men and women dress too well.

Those are things you just don't see very often out-state. They just aren't the right things to do in towns like Bay City, Muskegon or Marquette. Even if you're a successful professional person, you don't buy a car with gold trim on it. Chances are your neighbor is just making it or is laid off.

Jeff Counts

And chances are that if you're unemployed or laid off, the last thing you do is go to the social service office for a handout.

THE REFUSAL TO accept welfare or to display how much money you have are old-fashioned, but those ideas still exist in small towns. And they are ones that Engler is trying to bring back.

I hope Engler has some success. It would be nice to bring some out-state Michigan to suburban Detroit.

Engler has his list, but here are my favorite out-state characteristics that could be imported:

- Pool tables in bars.
- The out-state definition of safe sex. It's not getting caught by the woman's husband.
- Rusty pickup trucks.
- Pork rinds.
- Smoked fish.
- Cigars.
- Domestic beer.
- Front yard tire swings.
- Shotguns instead of uzis.
- Jackets with the names of bars on them.
- Country and western bands.
- Tight jeans.
- Garrison Keillor.
- Deer heads on walls.
- Jim Harrison.
- Visiting people instead of networking.

Those are just some of the things that make the fabric of life different out-state. There are others.

It's time for suburban Detroit residents to wake up and smell the smoked fish. We've got Engler for three more years.

Neighbors oppose new group home

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Neighbors of Plymouth Township's fourth and newest group home flocked to the Plymouth Township trustees meeting Tuesday.

Saying they were concerned about danger to their children from emotionally impaired adults, several neighbors demanded action from trustees.

But township trustees stressed that they've also sought to block such homes in residential areas, and lost.

While the residents directed their anger at the township board, the trustees responded that township officials have also sought information on group home residents moving into the township — and have brought court action against the state in an effort to get that information.

"Legally, we have spent a lot of money and we have lost," said Supervisor Gerald Law. He said the state Supreme Court has twice upheld the right of state officials to set up group homes virtually anywhere they choose.

"The only way the township can challenge is if there is another (group) home within 1,500 feet, or an excessive concentration of group homes," said township Attorney Judd Hemming.

"WHO'S MOVING into this house next to our children?" asked Janice Bellis of Ann Arbor Trail. "I've heard horror stories" concerning another township subdivision," she added. "There's screaming and yelling all night long."

"My reaction is the same as you," said Esther Hulsing, township clerk.

Continuing to vent anger at trustees, some neighborhood residents laughed derisively at Hulsing's remark. Some continued to challenge trustees who tried to explain that state law comes before township law pertaining to group homes.

"I don't think there's any reason the towel should be thrown in on this," said Chuck Davis, of Gold Arbor.

"They (the state) took away all the rights we have as a charter township," said Trustee Abe Munfakh.

Law detailed court cases in which the state upheld the rights of group homes to locate virtually anywhere without notifying neighbors, telling the residents, "We don't want to mislead you."

"What do I as an individual do? I have a 3-year-old. What happens if an adult takes some action on this child?" Bellis asked.

POLICE CHIEF Carl Berry said, in response to another question, that there had not been any dangerous situations involving kids and group home residents at the township's other three group homes.

Kathy Kleppack of Plymouth Township, who said she has worked with emotionally impaired kids, urged the residents to "welcome them as neighbors. They're in the community, get to know them. Be their friends because they're going to be here to stay."

"You can't throw it away. Make it the best group home," she continued.

Car stereo equipment stolen overnight

Car stereo equipment valued at $1,200 was discovered stolen Wednesday from a car parked at a Plymouth Township apartment complex.

The owner told police his 1991 Acura was locked overnight, adding he discovered the theft at 9 a.m. at the Plymouth Manor Apartments. The floor console sustained $100 in damage in the theft, according to the report filed with police.

The case was closed for lack of suspects.

TIRES SLASHED: Two tires on the driver's side of a 1986 Thunderbird parked on Fogg Street in Plymouth Township were discovered slashed at 6 a.m. Tuesday, according to a report filed with township police by a Warren man.

The damage was estimated at $300.

RACCOON RUCKUS: Plymouth police responding to a report of a suspicious circumstance on Fairground discovered a dog and racoon fighting in a homeowner's backyard about 1 a.m. May 31.

Police said the dog finally pulled away from the racoon, which was badly injured.

The racoon was destroyed with the department's .22-caliber rifle. The homeowner removed the carcass.

ASSAULT: A Plymouth man says he has no idea why a man in a Chevy Cavalier stopped and assaulted him while he was standing on his lawn with some friends about 10:30 p.m. May 30.

The resident said the suspect was driving southbound past his house on Holbrook when he stopped, backed up and exited his car. The suspect took an aluminum baseball bat from his back seat and approached the complainant and his friends.

The suspect said, "You're the one," and pointed at the complainant, according to police. The suspect was with a female about his age who kept pleading with him to leave and apologizing to everyone present, officers said.

But before he left, the suspect swung the bat, striking the complainant in the head.

When police arrived, the complainant's right temple was red and swollen. He told police he wanted to sign a complaint.

Witnesses said they don't know the suspect, but feel confident they could identify him. They said he drove a 1982-84 tan or grey Chevy Cavalier. None of witnesses had any idea who the man was or why he was angry.

IRS visits Massey

"If he brought the cash we'd take it in a room and count it with him and deliver the car. If he's of legal age and has a driver's license, I guess we can't police where the money came from, and we could be very wrong, being inexperienced (in police work).

"We could make an accusation about a person that could be totally incorrect and wind up being litigated," Massey said, adding cash transactions make up less than 2 percent of the auto dealership's revenue.

WREFOED SAID the maximum fine for not filing a form ranges from $50 to $100,000 and five years in jail. The law requiring filing of the form was enacted in 1985.

The IRS agents visit to Massey Cadillac drew the interest of area newspaper and TV news people. One, Channel 2 photographer Mark McVittie, filed assault charges against an unidentified Massey employee who he accused of trying to take a video camera he was holding and grabbing his wrist.

In his complaint filed with township police, McVittie, 39, of Southfield, said he pushed the man away from the open van he was sitting in with his foot.

Athletes go for gold at state games

Clint Miller of Livonia is greeted by JoAnn Kogut (with video camera) of Livonia and Coach

Loel Rigsby of White Lake after the wheelchair slalom on Friday afternoon.

Local residents joined the more than 3,400 athletes with mental retardation from across the state over the weekend to compete in the Michigan Special Olympics summer games at Central Michigan University.

Competition was held in swimming and diving, track and field events, bowling, gymnastics, weightlifting, team handball, tennis, volleyball and the Motor Activities Training Program.

Prior to the state summer games, local athletes ages 8 and older trained and competed in local programs.

The summer games are part of Michigan Special Olympics' year-round program, according to Lois Arnold, MSO state director.

In Michigan, more than 20,000 athletes participate throughout the year.

"Special Olympics gives people with mental retardation the chance to discover how much they can do and to experience the pride and self-confidence that go along with that," said Arnold.

Special Olympics competition places athletes in divisions based on age and ability. Regardless of skill level, special olympians compete against others of the same, sex, age and similar ability making the competition "fair and fun." The emphasis is on effort, enthusiasm and sportsmanship.

Athletes, volunteers and spectators gathered Friday for opening ceremonies at CMU's Kelly/Shorts Stadium.

First- through fourth-place ribbons are awarded.

Opening ceremonies featured a torch-lighting ceremony, parade of athletes and free concert by the Oak Ridge Boys in CMU's Kelly/Shorts Stadium in Mount Pleasant.

Michigan Special Olympics is a non-profit organization and receives no state or federal funds.

Arnold points out that volunteers — some 12,000 of them — are the backbone of the organization.

Volunteers coach athletes, raise funds and coordinate local programs.

The 1991 games marked the seventh consecutive year of exclusive sponsorship by Spartan Stores Inc. The company has donated more than $1.5 million to the program. It also provides nearly 800 volunteers during the three-day event.

Some stores, including L&L Food Center in Rochester Hills, raised money to send athletes from their area to the summer games.

County banner during opening ceremonies Friday at CMU's Kelly/Shorts Stadium.

Richard Raymond of Plymouth is congratulated after getting a second place medal in the 50-meter dash. The track and field events were Friday at Bennett Field at CMU.

Your party deserves a change

Here it is early June, a time when flowers bloom, strawberries ripen and graduation-party hosts and hostesses scour major food magazines for new ideas. Everyone wants his or her party to be special and that's kind of difficult when you serve cocktail weenies along with corn chips and ranch dip.

There's little disputing the fact that a great party begins with planning. If you plan a graduation party, you can count on the weather being either in the 90s with ditto humidity or ushering in a thunderstorm that undoubtedly will blow all the tents and umbrellas you borrowed or rented into the neighbor's yard, forcing all the guests to huddle in a steamy basement full of dirty laundry and boxes of Christmas ornaments you still haven't put away.

If you plan a graduation party, don't forget you may need an oven larger than the State of Rhode Island to handle the meat, potatoes, beans, vegetables, bread, rolls and hot appetizers. Empty the oven if it has been filled with crud-encrusted pots and pans you temporarily stored there to keep from your guests' eyes.

All kidding aside, a little planning can take those unexpected challenges and turn them into conquered feats.

A GOOD PLANNER will always take the weather into account. Alternate plans, seating arrangements and adequate space should always be available. The difference between a food schlepper and a caterer is that a caterer should always make a pre-site inspection or, at least, give you a list of needed equipment the caterer will/will not supply.

Although food magazines can be a great source for creative ideas, a good planner will have selected and tested all recipes so as not to be surprised when the meatball recipe turns into taco filling. This doesn't happen as much with the big food magazines because their recipes are tested numerous times before publication but, rest assured, get a recipe from a relative or friend and it's bound to happen.

Some of the more trendy foods on the party circuit this year are:

- Salsas: What used to be ordinary salsa in a jar and yellow corn chips has turned into black bean salsa with blue corn tortilla chips. Homemade salsas using fresh ingredients and the discovery of the imported food store make this a sure bet.

- Stuffed Veggies: Everything from stuffed grape leaves to stuffed hearts of palm to mini-stuffed cherry tomatoes, stuffing vegetables is the heart-healthy alternative to wing dings and grape-jelly-coated meatballs. Better yet, you can do this all days in advance.

- Grilling parties: If your yard can handle it, beg, borrow or steal three more barbecue grills and have iced buckets of shrimps, scallops and chunked monkfish at one; brats, Italian sausages and kielbasa at another, and grilled veggies like green onions, eggplant slices, red and green peppers and Vidalia onions, all brushed with bottled Italian dressing, at the other grills. Invite your guests or, better yet, flamboyant relatives and friends to get the grilling going.

Last, but not least, the best planners always remember that, yes, this is a party and all the guests are hoping they will enjoy it. Good party planners will be well prepared, thus allowing the host and/or hostess also to have fun and enjoy the guests.

Peter Winitzky and Risa Tiedale, both West Bloomfield High School students, stop in together every day for a Slimmery soft-serve frozen dessert at the American Bulk Food Store in the West Bloomfield Plaza. (Below) Phyllis Applebaum of West Bloomfield shops while having Slimmery in a chocolate/vanilla twist.

DAN DEAN staff photographer

By Anne R. Lehmann special writer

OPEN THE DOOR to one of the five area American Bulk Food Stores and you are treated to what one might call a sensory carnival.

Surrounding you are the smell of spices, the visual display of colorful candies in lucite bins and the sound of coffee being freshly ground.

With a fast-growing clientele, American Bulk Food is establishing a reputation as a testing ground for new products including a wide variety of hard-to-find low-calorie and kosher products.

The stores are owned and operated by Marty Benson, a former pharmacist who listened when his wife suggested he open bulk candy sections in his two Wyandotte pharmacies 11 years ago.

Without intending to, they were test marketing a concept that was so successful he sold his pharmacies and started a chain of bulk-food-concept stores.

BESIDES MARKETING unusual products, Benson, the son of a former ice cream manufacturer, enjoyed innovating his own food creations. Consequently, Slimmery, a patented soft-serve frozen dessert, was born.

Available in such flavors as double dutch fudge, peanut butter cup and raspberry royale, this swirled confection adds up to nine calories per ounce and conforms to many diet plans.

ALTHOUGH SLIMMERY is now fat and sugar free, it wasn't always that way.

"When we started out, we were sugar free. When everyone started asking for fat-free ice cream, we changed the recipe. The point is we always try to accommodate the tastes and demands of our customers," Benson said.

Besides cups of Slimmery, there are variations on the theme including Slimmery pies, mousse, apple strudel and chocolate cake brownies — none of them weighing in for more than 179 calories.

Four ounces of Slimmery, which Benson admits is made up mostly of air, costs $1.29.

Custom-designed ice cream machines and pure Nutrasweet make the item expensive to produce.

Slimmery is the word for dessert

"The pure form of Nutrasweet costs $200 a pound."

ALTHOUGH THE soft-serve frozen dessert makes up a good part of the business, Benson is always branching out.

In recent years he has added a line of 150-calorie muffins and baked goods including 40-calorie fruit bars. Benson developed these recipes and sells the muffin mix in bulk form for $1.99 a pound.

"People can buy the mix and make the muffins at home for so much less money, yet they prefer to buy them from our bakery case."

Benson also collaborates with candy manufacturing companies to develop improved varieties of old favorites, including double dipped chocolate raisins and peanuts.

STILL, THE mainstay of Benson's business comes from the items that fill the bins throughout the store.

"Buying bulk makes sense for so many reasons. We eliminate obvious costs for packaging, distribution and advertising and the savings are passed on to the consumer."

Freshness is another factor that makes buying in bulk sensible. Prepackaged items often wait in warehouses to be shipped. When purchasing in bulk, one buys products in their freshest form, Benson said.

This is especially true of spices, which are more robust when they are fresher. Additionally, spices, a very important ingredient for some recipes, are costly.

Instead of having to commit to a container of a condiment for something that might be used once or twice, buying bulk allows a person to buy quantities by the ounce.

WITH THE beginning of warmer weather, patrons stopping in for bulk items are walking away with a Slimmery frozen dessert.

Though it may look dangerously fattening, the calorie content makes it an indulgence most dieters can afford.

"My wife," Benson said, laughing, "calls it a grand illusion."

American Bulk Food Stores owned and operated by Marty Benson are in West Bloomfield, Rochester, Dearborn, Ann Arbor and Southgate.

Fitness buffs keep in best of shape enjoying meals at World Gym Cafe

Pasta salad and fruit salad are two of the dishes chef Tom Alonzo offers at the cafe in Canton.

BILL BRESLER staff photographer

By Arlene Funke special writer

Eating healthy doesn't have to mean a steady diet of carrot sticks and mung sprouts.

Tom Alonzo, chef of the new World Gym Cafe in Canton, is determined to cut fat and eliminate high sodium without sacrificing taste. "Our theme is food for fitness," said Alonzo, 24, of Westland. "I try to get many different spices, to take the place of salt."

The restaurant, which opened last month, sells sandwiches, salads and hot dishes packed in carry-out containers. Packages are labeled with information about sodium, fat, cholesterol and calories.

For example, Alonzo tops a large baked potato with a medley of chopped, cooked tomatoes, zucchini, onions and mushrooms seasoned with basil and thyme. The vegetables are crowned with melted, part-skim mozzarella cheese.

HE BOILS chicken pieces to obtain stock for black bean soup, avoiding salty commercial base.

Alonzo's smoked turkey pita sandwich is garnished with a dollop of spicy mustard and cholesterol-free mayonnaise.

The restaurant is nestled in a storefront which is part of the World Gym aerobics and fitness center at Warren and Lilley roads. The gym and restaurant are owned by Tom Kosh, 41, of Farmington Hills.

Alonzo's stated goal is to provide a healthy alternative to the burger-and-fries meal. "Once people try this food, I think they are going to take a complete look," said Alonzo, a 1985 graduate of Plymouth-Canton High School.

For example, the veggie baked potato contains 20 grams of protein, 12 grams of fat, 74 grams of carbohydrate and 571 milligrams of sodium. It has 461 calories. The vegetable pita, at 237 calories, has 9 grams of protein, 42 grams of carbohydrate, 4 grams of fat and 126 milligrams of sodium.

Alonzo became interested in cooking during high school. He studied culinary arts at Johnson and Wales University in Providence, R.I., and hotel and restaurant management at Eastern Michigan University.

THE CHEF, who has worked at several local restaurants, is fulfilling requirements toward becoming certified as an executive chef. He also teaches culinary arts at the William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland.

Substituting spices for salt and creating low-fat sauces is second nature to Alonzo, a fitness buff. "I have been doing it at home for myself for a number of years," he said.

The World Gym Cafe, geared to carry-out trade, has only a few tables. Previously, lowfat frozen yogurt was sold there. Yogurt still is on the menu. But the repertoire now includes interesting salads, sandwiches and dishes such as vegetable lasagna and pasta with broccoli and mushrooms.

Prices are reasonable. The veggie baked potato costs $1.85. Sandwiches are in the $3 range. Salads range from around $1.50 to $3.50 for a pasta-and-chicken blend. Hot entrees cost around $4.

Owner Kosh intends to concentrate on establishing his customer base during the next two years, then moving his entire operation to a larger site within a mile or two.

World Gym Cafe is in the World Gym complex at Lilley and Warren roads, Canton, phone 455-7860. Hours are 5 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Monday-Friday; 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

SPICY APPLE CINNAMON MUFFINS

- 1 1/4 cups stone-ground whole wheat flour
- 1/2 cup bran flakes
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- 1/2 cup peeled, chopped apple
- 1/4 cup raisins
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts
- Juice of 1/2 orange
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1/4 cup blackstrap molasses
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly butter muffin pan, dust with whole wheat flour, and shake off excess.

In mixing bowl combine flour, bran, baking soda, nutmeg and cinnamon. Stir in the orange rind, apples, raisins and walnuts. Combine remaining ingredients then add to dry mixture. Do not overblend. Fill the muffin tins 3/4 full and bake 25 minutes. 125 calories per muffin.

- 4 carrots, sliced
- 2 celery stalks, sliced
- 1/4 cup long-grain rice
- 1/4 cup elbow macaroni
- 1 teaspoon basil
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1/2-1 teaspoon salt
- 1 can kidney beans

In a soup pot or large casserole, saute onion in olive oil until tender. Mix in potatoes, carrots and celery. Add water to cover. Add rice, basil, oregano, salt and kidney beans. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer until rice is cooked and vegetables are tender.

NEOPOLITAN PIZZA

- 1 cup warm water
- 1 package dry active yeast
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1/2 cup whole wheat flour
- 1 1/4 cups unbleached white flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cornmeal
- 1 1/4 cups Marinara Sauce
- 1 1/4 cups (6 ounces) grated mozzarella cheese
- 1 1/4 cups (6 ounces) grated Muenster cheese
- 4 cups (12 ounces) sliced mushrooms, sauteed (optional)

Pour the warm water into a large bowl and sprinkle in the yeast. Stir to mix and let sit for 5 minutes. Stir in the oil, then add the flours and salt. Beat with a wooden spoon until well mixed. Turn the dough onto a lightly floured board or work surface and knead for 10 minutes (no less). You will have to keep lightly flouring the work surface to prevent the dough from sticking.

Put the dough in a lightly oiled bowl, then invert the dough so the oiled surface is on top. Cover the bowl with a newspaper and let rise in a warm place (no hotter than 85 degrees) for 1 1/2 hours, or until double in bulk. (You can place the bowl in the oven if there is a pilot light, or lightly heat the oven for a few seconds, turn off the heat, then let it sit in the barely warm oven.)

Punch down the dough and knead a few times. Lightly flour your work surface, and with a rolling pin roll the dough into a rectangle large enough to fit your jelly roll pan. Sprinkle the cornmeal on the pan and line with the dough. It is not necessary to form an edge.

Preheat the oven to 500 degrees. Spread a layer of Marinara Sauce over the dough. Cover the pizza with a mixture of the two 1/4. Top with the sliced mushrooms, if you wish.

Bake for 15-17 minutes, or until the crust is golden underneath and the cheese lightly browned. (To test the crust insert a knife or spatula under the crust and lift carefully to peek.) Cut into squares and serve immediately. Makes one 17-inch rectangular pizza (serves 4).

BLACK BEAN SALSA

- 1 pound black turtle beans
- 1/2 medium white onion, sliced
- 1/4 small head garlic
- 10 cups hot water
- 1/2 cup chopped cilantro (fresh)

Rinse beans in cold water and place in a slow cooker. Add onions and garlic and cover with hot water. Cover the pot and cook at the highest temperature until the skins are soft — from 4-12 hours depending on the beans. Mash and season to taste with a little salt and fresh cilantro. Serve warm or cold with corn tortillas or nacho chips.

Chef's suggestion: Stir in some chopped tomato or chopped jalapeno peppers for added taste.

STUFFED GRAPE LEAVES

- 30 canned grape leaves
- 2 cups finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup uncooked rice
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Mash and season to taste with a little salt and fresh cilantro. Serve warm or cold with corn tortillas or nacho chips.

- 1/4 cup pine nuts (optional)
- 1 cup finely minced lamb (optional)
- 1 cup water or chicken broth
- 1/2 cup lemon juice

Rinse grape leaves and separate. In a large bowl, combine onion with rice, oil, parsley, nuts and minced lamb. Mix well. Place a generous tablespoon of mixture into center of each grape leaf and roll, not too tightly, securing ends. Place in a heavy pot. When finished rolling, combine water/stock with lemon juice. Mix and pour over grape leaves. Place a heavy plate on top, then cover and cook over low heat, about 1 1/2 hours. Serve warm or chilled.

VEGETABLE PITA

- 4 pita bread
- 1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon safflower mayonnaise (Kraft cholesterol-free, fat-free mayo)
- 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
- 16 slices fresh tomato

- 4 thinly sliced zucchini
- 8 lettuce leaves
- Pinch alfalfa sprouts

Slice each pita in half. Spread each pita pocket with mayo and mustard. Layer with tomatoes, zucchini, lettuce and sprouts. Yield: 8 half-pita sandwiches.

GRILLED LEMON CHICKEN

- 1 boneless, skinless chicken breast, grilled until done
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
- 1/4 cup chicken stock
- 1/2 teaspoon arrowroot
- 1 teaspoon chopped parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon fresh chopped basil
- 1/2 teaspoon fresh thyme

Dash of pepper

Bring stock to boil. Dissolve arrowroot in small amount of cold water and add to stock. Add remaining herbs and spices. Simmer a few minutes. Serve with chicken.

Aromatic rices gain popularity

AP — Buying rice once meant choosing between white rice and brown. But no more. Aromatic rices such as basmati, texmati, wild pecan and popcorn rice are growing in popularity right alongside their traditional cousins. Available in fancy food shops and from mail-order houses, these flavorful alternatives can change an ordinary stir-fry into an extraordinary entree, or a simple seafood sauce into a fancy gourmet meal.

To me, one of the pluses of cooking with aromatic rices is the tantalizing aroma. While simmering, each smells like toasting nuts or popping corn. And, believe me, their rich, nutty flavor lives up to their delicious fragrances.

TYPES OF AROMATIC RICES
 ● Basmati: If rice were judged for beauty, this would be one of the winners for its slender pearl-white grains. A staple in Indian cooking, basmati cooks up light and fluffy. Serve it with curries, Oriental dishes and kebabs.
 ● Texmati: This rice is the Texas-grown version of basmati, similar in looks, taste and fluffiness. Serve it with the same foods you'd serve with basmati rice, or try it with gumbo, spicy red sauces, and roasted or grilled poultry.

● Wild pecan: No nuts here! The pecan-like aroma and flavor give this delicious rice its name. The grains look like brown rice. For nutty-flavored wild rice, add some pecan rice when the wild rice is half-done. Try it in pilafs or stuffings to serve with grilled poultry, pork or fish.

● Popcorn: You'll think of popcorn when you smell the rice cooking. Its fluffiness makes it ideal for pilafs or rice salads.

COOKING AROMATIC RICES

Follow these basic cooking directions when you plan to serve aromatic rice as a simple side dish. For each cup of rice, bring 2 cups broth or water to boiling. Add rice, then reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 20 to 25 minutes or until the rice is tender and all of the liquid is absorbed.

Meal ends with Chocolate-Dipped Treats

AP - These minty chocolate desserts are great to end a meal.

CHOCOLATE-DIPPED TREATS

- One 10- to 12-ounce package chocolate morsels, any flavor
- 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening (not butter or margarine)
- Fresh strawberries or other seasonal fruit, rinsed and patted dry
- Pretzels

Combine morsels and vegetable shortening over hot (not boiling) water. Stir until melted and smooth. Remove from heat. (If chocolate begins to set, place over hot water; stir until smooth.)

Dip fruit and pretzels into chocolate mixture, shaking off excess.

Place on foil-lined cookie sheets. Chill until set, about 10 to 15 minutes. Gently loosen from foil with a metal spatula. Serve immediately. Makes 1 cup melted chocolate.

Note: Chocolate-Dipped Treats can be kept at room temperature for up to 1 hour. If chocolate becomes sticky, return to refrigerator.

(Recipe from: The Nestle Toll House Kitchens)

CHOCOLATE CUPS

- One 11 1/2-ounce package milk chocolate morsels
- 2 teaspoons vegetable shortening
- Twelve 2-inch foil (not paper) baking cups
- Minty Mousse (recipe follows)

Combine milk chocolate morsels and vegetable shortening over hot (not boiling) water. Stir until chocolate is melted and mixture is smooth. Remove from heat and let stand until mixture is slightly cooled and thickened.

Spoon about 4 teaspoons of the chocolate mixture into each foil baking cup. Using a small pastry brush, coat inside of cups generously with the chocolate mixture. Refrigerate until firm, about 30 minutes. Refrigerate cups until ready to use. Fill with Minty Mousse. Makes 12 servings.

- Minty Mousse
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs
- One 10-ounce package mint-flavored semisweet chocolate morsels

ARTHRITIS & AUDITORIUMS

Do not let arthritis keep you from summer festivals and the entertainment offered at the Fox, Pine Knob, Meadowbrook, or the Palaca.

Call the theatre or arena box office. Inform the management that you have arthritis and explain your needs such as accommodation for a walker or wheelchair, or to stand frequently to prevent profound stiffness. Ask to have your seat near the washroom, or on the aisle. Inquire if a special entrance is available. Request a map that shows the elevators and the location of handicapped parking.

The law and good business relations encourage management to provide a barrier free access; your questions should receive a satisfactory reply and a prompt mailing of the information you request.

Arrive to the show early. Accept that some employees may not know the handicap provisions of the theatre, and may be more of an obstacle to your seating than a help. Come to the performance with a good attitude. Be proud that you venture into the world, rather than apologetic that you need an assist from others. The greatest difficulty to enjoyment may not be the stairs in front of you, or the crowd rushing about you. Too often the most difficult problem to overcome is your reluctance to set aside the fears within you.

Walnuts make a good addition to salads

AP — For a salad that is low in calories, cholesterol and saturated fats — but high in appetite appeal — combine seasonal vegetables and crunchy walnuts.

Walnuts contain fat that is 70 percent polyunsaturated. They are low in sodium, contain no cholesterol, and are a source of protein and fiber, according to the Walnut Marketing Board.

Aside from their nutritional composition, walnuts are an excellent addition to salads, the board says, because their strong flavor has a chameleonlike quality, tasting sweet when paired with fresh vegetables and cheese, or sharp when paired with savory ingredients such as onions and grilled meats.

Basic ingredient substitutions, such as non-stick vegetable cooking spray instead of oil, and creative cooking methods, such as grilling, broiling and steaming, make it possible to add "indulgent" ingredients such as walnuts, low-fat cheese and meats to salads, according to the board.

The Walnut Board asked Harris Golden of Arizona's Maine Chance resort to create a spa salad recipe for at-home cooks. The result: a Sunburst Salad made with slices of summer squash, zucchini, carrot and red bell pepper, topped with walnuts and a sherry ginger dressing.

MAINE CHANCE
SUNBURST SALAD
WITH SHERRY-GINGER
DRESSING

¾ cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
2 teaspoons honey
1 large zucchini, cut into slices 2½ inches in length
1 yellow summer squash, cut into slices 2½ inches in length
1 carrot, cut into slices 2½ inches in length
1½ pound Chinese snow peas

1 red bell pepper, cut into slices 2½ inches in length
¾ cup (3 ounces) Jarsberg "lite" cheese, shredded
Sherry Ginger Dressing (recipe follows)

Combine walnuts with honey in a small bowl; stir to coat. Place walnuts on a greased baking sheet. Roast in a 350-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Set aside.

Bring large pot of water to a boil over medium heat. Prepare a large bowl of ice water. Plunge zucchini into the boiling water for 30 seconds. Using tongs or a slotted spoon, transfer the zucchini into the bowl of ice water. Drain on paper towels. Repeat with the summer squash, carrot and snow peas. (Do not blanch the red pepper.)

Place 2 tablespoons of the shredded cheese in a mound on each of 6 serving plates. Arrange zucchini, summer squash, carrot, snow peas and red bell pepper in a sunburst pattern around the cheese. Top with the roasted walnuts. Serve with Sherry Ginger Dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Sherry Ginger Dressing
2 tablespoons peanut oil
¾ cup rice vinegar
1 tablespoon dry sherry
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
2 teaspoons minced ginger
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper

'Arctic Arc' marks ancient migration

By Corinne Abett
staff writer

THE TENUOUS bond of understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union will soon be strengthened through the vision and effort of sculptor David Barr of Novi.

Barr and his wife, Elizabeth, Jim Pallas, Michigan sculptor, Paul Gray, Chicago art dealer and Dan Kruzyniec of Hamtramck, a video cameraman, will leave for Uelen in the Soviet Union on the Bering Strait early in July. With them will be the second part of Barr's Arctic Arc sculpture project to be installed on a promontory facing the American coastline, some 50 miles across the icy waters.

Barr, who has been working on global projects since 1980, installed the American half of his Arctic Arc in Wales, Alaska, on the westernmost tip of the Seward Peninsula, in 1988. That one is a wood sculpture suggesting a sled with an extended hand. The main wooden beam of the sled is a 30-foot timber weighing about 500 pounds.

The work to be installed next month is a 30-foot-long stainless steel structure, reminiscent of the hull of a umiak, a traditional walrus skin boat, minus the skin. The sculpture, with a hand motif in the ribs of the hull, will be aligned with the equinoxes and summer solstice.

BARR SAID, "The Arctic Arc is drawing attention to geographical history — the land bridge that's always been there. I'm responding to invisible history. There's nothing there to tell you that the first migration took place there."

His wish to memorialize that momentous ancient migration from Asia to North America, is readily accepted by the Eskimos in the remote coastal villages. "I never had any problem getting the most humble of the villagers to understand."

The villagers are aware of the link across the narrow waters. Many on one side have close relatives on the other and until the last few years, when tensions between the super powers eased, they couldn't see each other.

"On the Soviet side, we are going to be assisted by the Elgar Native Corporation in housing and moving around. Here is the Soviet Union in the depths of depression and art is still a priority, cultural exchange is still a priority — and in my own backyard is the most resistance to these ideas . . . the Arctic is the hardest place in the world to live — the temperature is 50 degrees below zero, the wind blows at 50 miles an hour and 12 people live in an area the size of my living room."

Barr acknowledged the valuable assistance he's had in cutting through bureaucratic red tape, getting visas and making things happen. "Sen. Carl Levin has helped me in all these efforts."

Help in the cutting and machining of the sculpture came from Capital Welding of Southfield. The art work was designed to be assembled like a kit, because the final leg of the journey will be by bush plane from Provideniya to Uelen and space will be tight. Northwest Airlines, he said, has been very helpful in scheduling.

ALL OF these projects are strictly out-of-pocket for Barr, no grants, no stipends, "I couldn't do them without a credit card," he said.

David Barr keeps a model of the wood sculpture placed near the coastal village of Wales, Alaska in 1988. It faces the coast of the Soviet Union. He uses an extended hand motif in all of his global works as a symbol of friendship.

David Barr holds 1/2-scale model of the sculpture he will install in the Soviet Far East coast early next month to complete his "Arctic Arc." Barr called it "a gift from Middle America," adding, "It will be there for 100 years unless somebody decides to use it for plumbing."

'The Arctic Arc is drawing attention to geographical history — the land bridge that's always been there. I'm responding to invisible history. There's nothing there to tell you that the first migration took place there.'

— David Barr, sculptor

Then why does he do it when as he says they are "financially and physically draining." Why leave the beautiful, contemporary home (which he built himself) and the broad lawn and pond, which he has turned into a magnificent sculpture park for his own work?

One of the early projects was to mark the four corners of the globe. Another was "Sun Sweep," a series of sculptures along the U.S./Canadian border. He is already working on "Sun Weep," marking the U.S./Mexican border. In all instances, the response, the connections made with other artists and individuals who have social concerns reward him for his efforts. It is about creating a broader understanding in the world.

"On an intimate level, it helps my own understanding and deepens my experience of things . . . doing them knocks rigidity, arrogance and certainty out of you — you don't do any of it alone.

"I know that when we get there there will be a number of human stories and a number of human beings that will be with me the rest of my life. Jim Pallas went with me to New Guinea and he's still corresponding with some missionaries we met there."

PALLAS MAY make an accessory piece for Arctic Arc. Four Soviet villagers from around Uelen, two of them artists, are on their way here to meet Barr. He wants them to do some accessory pieces to Arctic Arc — maybe a ring of harpoons.

Well-known native artist, Joe Senungetuk, did a bird for the one in Alaska.

As a studio sculptor, Barr likes to portray the invisible — the subject of some of his newer works is atomic cloud chambers and atomic particles and their pathways.

Staff photos by Bryan Mitchell

There are references to math and astronomy in many of his large pieces. In his global projects, he adds a spirit of human history, a touch of humanity — and sometimes those are as invisible as atomic particles.

Concert, garden party to aid Arctic project

Two upcoming events will benefit sculptor David Barr's Arctic Arc project. The first benefit will be a piano concert by Vladislav Kovalsky at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 5 at the Southfield Civic Center Pavilion. The program will include a video presentation about the Arctic Arc project. A reception with Kovalsky and Barr will follow the program.

Kovalsky emigrated to the United States in 1980. He has taught at Wisconsin Conservatory of Music, University of Michigan and Wayne State. In 1990 he was appointed artistic director of D'Etre University Conservatory of Music in Southfield. He will perform on the Steinway concert grand that once belonged to Vladimir Horowitz.

There will be a benefit exhibition of the Arctic Arc sculpture 2-5 p.m.

Sunday, June 9, at Barr's Novi Sculpture Garden. This Sculpture Garden has been shown in local and national media. Maps will be available at the concert on June 5 and at The Great Frame Up, 215 Peabody, Birmingham.

General admission tickets for each event are $15, students and seniors $7. Concert tickets will be available at the door or from the Great Frame Up.

These events are sponsored by Art Exchange International, a non-profit organization dedicated to advancing international understanding and cooperation through the exchange of art and culture. Barr said this is the first time a group such as Art Exchange International has come forward to help with his global projects.

 Canton, Mich. 48188

In consideration of your accepting this entry form, I hereby for myself, my heirs and my administrators waive and release all rights and claims for damages I may have against the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department, the sponsors of this event, its agents, representatives, successors and assigns for any and all injuries suffered by me at said run, or which may arise out of my traveling to, participating in and returning from said event.

SOCCER CHAMPS

The Canton Bullets won the 1982 boys recreation division championship in the Ninth Annual Canton Challenge Festival Soccer Invitational May 26 at Canton Recreation Center.

The Bullets were inadvertently omitted from the list of tournament winners in the last issue of the Observer. The Bullets had a 3-0 record in the division and clinched the title with a 3-0 victory over Garden City.

The Spirit of '77 had a successful trip to the Amherst Invitational in Amherst, N.Y., winning the championship in five games.

The Spirit was uncured upon as goalkeeper Ben Lawton gave an outstanding performance. The team defeated the Chili (N.Y.) Lancers 1-0, Unionville (Ontario) 1-0, the Warren (Mich.) Carpathia Kickers 1-0, the Hamburg (N.Y.) Redhawks 6-0 and, in the final, the Brighton (N.Y.) Hot Shots 1-0. The Spirit needed a shootout to defeat the Kickers.

SOFTBALL QUALIFIER

A junior world qualifying softball tournament for girls teams will be played Saturday and Sunday, June 8-9, at Canton Recreation Center. The age groups are 10-under, 12-under, 15-under and 18-under. The fee is $145.

For information call Bill Martin at 347-2056 during daytime hours or 722-4999 in the evening. The world tournament will be played Aug. 2-5 in Cocoa, Fla.

SOCCER TRYOUT

The Plymouth Kicks '78 premier soccer team will have tryouts on Sunday, June 23, and Wednesday, June 26, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Pioneer Middle School. Tryouts are open to boys born between Aug. 1, 1977 and Dec. 31, 1978. Players should bring a light and dark shirt for scrimmaging. For information call Armando Santos at 453-5929.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

The West Oakland Chargers, a team of 13-year-old girls from western Wayne and Oakland counties, will compete in the Junior Olympic National Championships in Cincinnati this summer.

Plymouth's Julie Angell is one of the Chargers, who won the state tournament in April. Other players are from Novi, Livonia, West Bloomfield, Farmington Hills, Waterford, Bay City and Detroit. The roster includes Becky Bilicki, Melissa Campeau, Chris Edwards, Julianne Grant, Karen Hanley, Ann Marie Lemire, Holly Myszenski, Tara Overaitis, Ann Poglits, Andrea Salyer and Laura Snider.

The Chargers are trying to raise $9,000 for their trip to the nationals. Tax-deductible donations can be sent to the West Oakland Chargers at 42566 Knollwood Ct., Northville, 48167.

BASEBALL REUNION

All former and present Plymouth Canton baseball players, families and fans are invited to attend a reunion dinner/dance on Saturday, June 29. For information call 453-4538 or 455-3564 by Saturday, June 15.

TENNIS LESSONS

Tennis lessons are being offered by Canton Parks and Recreation Services from Monday, June 17, to Friday, July 5, at Griffin Community Park.

The fee is $25 for Canton residents, $30 for non-residents. Six lessons will be given during the three-week period. Age groups are youth (ages 8-12), juniors (13-17) and adults (18-up). Lessons are for players of all ability levels.

Call the Parks and Recreation Office at 397-5110 for details.

FOOTBALL CAMP

A non-contact, instructional football camp sponsored by the Canton

Lions will take place Friday and Saturday, June 21-22, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The fee is $15, and children age 7-14 are eligible.

Lunch will be provided, and all participants will receive a T-shirt. For information call Debby at 397-1720 or Cindy at 981-4856.

FATHER'S DAY GOLF

The 11th Annual Father's Day Scrambles Golf Tournament will be played Sunday, June 16, at Fellows Creek Golf Course. Tee times begin at 11 a.m.

The fee is $69 per three-person team, which includes greens fees and awards. Advance registration is required. Call 397-5110 for information.

PISTONS AT CAMP

Detroit Pistons Joe Dumars and Isiah Thomas will be instructors for a three-day basketball camp Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 25-27, at the Plymouth Salem and Canton high schools. The cost is $125.

Boys and girls ages 7-17 are eligible to participate. Session I is for ages 7-10 and goes from 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. each day; Session II ages 11-12 from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; Session III ages 13-17 from 3-5:30 p.m. Campers should come dressed to play.

Thomas will attend one day, Dumars another. Another NBA player or Pistons coach will instruct the third day.

For information call Camp Coordinator Fred Thomann at 451-6600, ext. 247, or Bob Blohm at 451-6600, ext. 302; or send a self-addressed envelope to Thomann at Salem High School, 46181 Joy Road, Canton, 48187.

SOCCER NEWS

Susan O'Neill of Canton has been chosen as a member of the Sport For Understanding soccer team which will travel to Germany this summer. She is a student at Plymouth Christian Academy.

SFU is a non-profit exchange program for teen athletes. Players must be between the ages of 14 and 19, be active in their chosen sport and have a grade-point average of at least 2.0.

Area bowlers in PBA event

THE PINS WERE really flying last weekend at Drake'shire Lanes in Farmington Hills as the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) held its regional tournament.

The PBA stages 28 of these events annually. The region includes Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Regional competition is usually a stepping stone for the national PBA tour, and it affords a chance for the younger bowlers to try their skills against the toughest possible competition. This is also a great opportunity for the local classic bowlers to bowl with the PBA without the heavy travel expenses incurred when competing away from home.

In order to bowl in the PBA, it is necessary to meet the standards of the PBA bowlers, pay the entry fees and meet the dress and conduct codes of the PBA.

Among the top bowlers from the Observerland area entered were: Mike Samardzija, John Bryngelson, D.J. Hochstein and Lee Snow, all of Farmington Hills; Mark Stawski and Mark Abelle, both of Garden City; Doug Spicer and Bob Raf of West Bloomfield; Ken Kubit, Dave Myers, David Mahaz and Tim Detherage, all of Livonia.

FRIDAY WAS the first day of competition for the Pro-Am event, in which amateurs can team up with a professional for a special prize fund. There were 73 amateurs competing in four divisions: men, women, seniors and youth.

The Pro-Am winners included: Lewis Rowe, 1,564, men's; Barbara Scribner, 1,559, women's; John Crissman, 1,507, seniors; Shannon Rowe, 1,395, junior girls; Lisa Bishop, 1,455, major girls; Jason Swartz, 1,452, junior boys; and Jim O'Doherty, 1,419, major boys.

The field for qualifying was cut to 24 Saturday. The bowlers had 10 games in which to qualify for the head-to-head finals on Sunday. The surviving competitors included Samardzija, Snow, Stawski, and Tom Shively of Northville.

The head-to-head competition weeded the field down to the final five for the stepladder finals (television format). Samardzija held the fifth and final spot.

10-pin alley

Al Harrison

Snow just missed the cut and took home the sixth place money.

THE MATCH play finals had Mark Asettine of Flint eliminating Samardzija in a close contest, 218-214. Jeff DeKubber of Grand Rapids then beat Asettine by a wide margin, 258-206. The third match featured a lot of strikes as DeKubber wiped out Shively, 279-243.

The championship match pitted DeKubber against Kevin Taber of Toledo for the $3,900 first prize. It was DeKubber in the lead all the way until an unfortunate 4-6-7-10 split (double pinocc) occurred in the ninth frame, opening the door for Taber, who took home the championship trophy.

The next regional tournament takes place June 6-8 in Indianapolis. Drake'shire will be the host site again for a future PBA regional. I will keep you posted.

All told, our local bowlers performed very well in this elite level of competition. With a few more lucky breaks, anyone could have won.

TEAM USA STATE rollofs are currently underway at Allen Park's Thunderbowl Lanes. There are 23 women and 29 men attempting to advance all the way to the nationals.

Among the contestants are: Kathy Haislip of West Bloomfield, David Myers of Livonia, Judy Grewick, Marilyn Lueck and Ken Kossick of Canton Township, Sally Harris of Westland, and Garden City's Tom Johnston, Garrett Nagle, Larry Walker, Steve Pencola and Paul Hutchinson.

Five women and four men will then advance to the regionals based on actual pinfall. The ultimate goal is to make "Team USA" and represent the country in international competition. The regionals will be held in late June and the national finals in late July in Atlanta.

BRUNSWICK Corp. and Kmart have entered into a long-term nationwide vendor partnership for a variety of bowling products.

Beginning Aug. 1, Brunswick will supply Kmart with bowling balls, bags and shoes. Kmart, based in Troy, is the world's largest retailer of bowling products with approximately 2,100 stores throughout the country.

FARMINGTON'S Bel Aire Lanes has openings in the youth leagues which start up June 4 and run at 4 p.m. each Tuesday for both regular youth and bumper bowlers. Bel Aire is located on Orchard Lake Road, just south of Greenes Road.

MERRI BOWL Lanes in Livonia announced its summer open bowling schedule. Monday through Thursday will be "all you can bowl" for $4.95 and will take place between 1 and 5 p.m.

Monday evenings will feature summer singles no-tap. The $11 entry fee includes a mystery game, prize money and the bowling cost.

Rock-n-Bowl for kids only will take place every Friday. Ages 10-15 will bowl 7-10 p.m. The night features prizes, fun and dancing. For more information, call 427-2900.

ANGLER ALERT

Anglers fishing Michigan's Great Lakes and connecting waters are being asked to be on the lookout for adipose fin-clipped trout and salmon by the Fisheries Division of the Department of Natural Resources.

The adipose fin on trout and salmon is the small fleshy dorsal fin just ahead of the tail.

Fisheries researchers have several studies under way to get information on movement, growth, survival and the contribution of natural reproduction to sport fishery in the Great Lakes.

Species with clipped fins include chinook salmon, rainbow trout and lake trout. The clipped adipose fin indicates that a microscopic wire tag may have been implanted in the snout of hatchery-raised fish.

Anglers who catch one of these fish are asked to send the head (keep it cold or frozen) along with the length, weight, location and date of the catch to the DNR.

SILVER STREAK STRIKE

For the second year in a row, Silver Streak trolling spoons, manufactured by Wolverine Tackle

outdoors

Company in Orchard Lake, caught more Michigan DNR Master Angler Award trout and salmon than any other spoon, plug or type of live bait.

Included in the survey were Atlantic, chinook, coho and pink salmon along with brown, lake and rainbow/steelhead trout.

Silver Streaks accounted for 18 awards compared to 12 for J-Plugs, 11 for Northport Nailers and 10 for Northern King Spoons. For the third year in a row, Silver Streaks caught more king (chinook) salmon than any other lure.

ELK HUNT SCHEDULED

A total of 155 licenses will be issued for the winter elk hunt, held Dec. 10-17 in Michigan's northern Lower Peninsula. There will be 57 hunter's choice permits and 98 antlerless-only permits available.

BEAR LICENSES AVAILABLE

The 1991 bear hunting license applications are now available at license dealers and selected Department of Natural Resources offices.

A total of 5,519 harvest licenses, an increase of 32-percent over 1990, will be distributed among the state's eight bear hunting management units (seven in the Upper Peninsula and one in the Lower Peninsula).

Season dates, which vary according to hunt periods within the management unit, are Sept. 10-Oct. 24.

Applications must be post-marked no later than June 15 and successful applicants will be notified in early July.

NEW STATE RECORD

An 11.5-inch, 5.8-ounce smelt, taken from Big Bay de Noc in Delta County, has set a new state record, Department of Natural Resources fisheries biologists announced.

Maynard B. Salisbury of Grand Rapids caught the fish while still-fishing with a minnow on April 27.

It beats the old record of an 11.3-inch, 4-ounce smelt caught in Houghton County's Cowles Creek.

Fierce Grummans fly at Kalamazoo air zoo

"You'll notice that the Warhawk pictured on the museum's brochure has a female pilot, Sue Parish, a grandmother and one of the museum's co-founders. Parish, a World War II pilot, flew military planes from factory to bases.

"NOT ALL the planes in the collection are on view. In the museum's restoration center, "new" old planes are disassembled, meticulously researched and restored with new skins, wiring, etc.

Their future includes flight. At 2:00 p.m. daily during the summer (weather permitting) one of these veterans rolls onto the runway and roars into the air. If you want to see a particular plane in its natural element, try calling ahead to see when it's scheduled to fly.

The museum has engines, uniforms, model planes, vintage photos and memorabilia from both sides of the battle. Dioramas depict air, ground and sea forces in action together. The Veterans of Guadalcanal organization has an exhibit displaying a collection of maps, clippings, photographs and personal diaries.

Visitors can sit in a Link Trainer, see aviation films in a small theater and purchase books, models and T-shirts in the gift shop.

AIR SHOW
The museum's imminent air show has long been one of the most popular air events in the nation. Aging warbirds fly, modern jets soar in precision aerobatics and daredevils walk on wings.

The show commemorates the 50th anniversary of the United States entry into World War II with a mock air battle between U.S. fighters and a Mitsubishi Zero replica.

A flying salute to World War II veterans, the show will also pay tribute to the men and women of operation Desert Storm. Proceeds will go to programs for military families and the Kalamazoo High on Heroes Fund.

ON TAP for the event is the U.S. Army Golden Knights skydiving team, set to perform a Saturday twilight show amid fireworks and flares. Also scheduled are the Coors Light Silver Bullet Jet Team, Showcat wingwalking, aerobatics and "Fireflight," the Pepsi Skydance and Skywriter and more.

A special feature of the air show is the "Flight of the Grumman Cats" whereby the museum's Wildcat, Hellcat, Bearcat and Tigercat whiz over the field in formation.

The museum is on the south side of the Kalamazoo Airport and open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The museum is closed June 8-9 when the planes are flying in the air show.

For more information, contact the Kalamazoo Aviation Museum, 3101 East Milham Road, Kalamazoo, 49002, or telephone (616) 382-6555.

Da balloons boss, da balloons!

The Battle Creek International Balloon Championship and Air Show will fly high June 29 through July 6 at W.K. Kellogg Regional Airport. Comedian Pat Paulsen will be there, once again announcing whether he will run for president. The show will include the U.S. Army Golden Knights parachute team, the Air Force Thunderbirds flying F-16 Electric Jets, the Canadian Forces Parachute Team, a hot air balloon competition, the Chicago Fire Stunt Kite Team, an amusement park and live entertainment. The Battle Creek Hot-Air Balloon Championship is a non-profit organization supported in part by parking and gate fees. Parking is $4 a day; admission is $2 per person per day. Contact the organization at 237 North Heimer Road, PO Box 2019, Battle Creek, 49015-2019, or telephone (616) 962-0592.

Poet was wrong about K'zoo

By Doris Scharfenberg

Glen Miller once had the country stompin' to "I've Got A Gal-In Kalamazoo-zoo-zoo-zoo..." H.L. Mencken said the name added "barbaric brilliancy to the American map." Carl Sandburg must have reckoned such a moniker had wicked connotations. Although he wrote a poem called the "Sins of Kalamazoo," it is suspected that Sandburg never came to town, let alone sample the local sins.

Residents of today's Kalamazoo proudly pop it all in their tin whistles (kazoes) and blow a tune called "There Really Is A Kalamazoo," debunking the myths and laughing at the bad jokes. The name, they will tell you, comes from an Indian word meaning "mirage of reflecting river."

K'zoo is a walker's place. It's easy to stroll from mid-town shops and parks to heritage streets with Italianate, Queen Anne or Sears-catalogue houses. Including Western Michigan University, there are five colleges, dozens of churches, excellent shopping, art theaters, a superb music hall (the late Thomas Schippers, who conducted the Metropolitan Opera, grew up here).

Willow Run air show sports Patriot missile, Blue Angels

Perhaps the most dramatic demonstration of American technology in the Gulf War was the Patriot air defense missile system.

The Patriot guarded both Israel and Saudi Arabia from attack by providing a shield against Iraqi Scud missiles.

And now you can see one! A Patriot from Redstone Arsenal, Ala. will be visible at Air Michigan '91 June 8-9 at Willow Run Airport near Ypsilanti. This will be among the first public displays of the Patriot system.

Manufactured by Raytheon in Andover, Mass., the Patriot was designed to shoot down aircraft but modified to intercept missiles.

The Patriot system includes several components, all of which are truck or trailer mounted. The whole package can be air-lifted by the C-5 Galaxy or C-141 Starlifter.

The missiles can be off-loaded, road-marched and set up in a relatively short time. The system incorporates self-check and fault diagnostic software, providing rapid location of failed components and a check for proper operations after repair.

The status monitoring function automatically checks system performance every 15 seconds, assesses detected faults for severity of impact on mission capability and measures them against specific "fight or fix" criteria. It takes a crew of three to operate each Patriot unit.

The Patriot's combat success had a significant impact on the politics of the Gulf War. By providing a shield against Scuds launched at Israel, the United States was able to keep Israel out of the war.

The air show will also feature the U.S. Navy Blue Angels in their F/A-18 Hornets, an F-16 Electric Jet, numerous civilian performers and aircraft on static display.

Advance tickets are available from TicketMaster, Kroger stores and the air show office. Advanced tickets are $8 adult, $5 children (age 6-11). Children 5 and under are free.

Adult tickets at the gate are $11 and children's tickets are $8. For more information, call 482-8888.

Summer events lure boats to state harbors

Boaters won't have to cruise far to find tempting summertime festivals at Michigan's state-sponsored facilities, generally no more than 15 shoreline miles from a Great Lakes harbor. Boaters can kick back in front-row seats for a fireworks display in downtown Detroit or view a passing parade of lighted vessels in Charlevoix. They can stretch their sea legs during bridge walks in Mackinaw City and Sault Ste. Marie or stroll among Michigan-made arts and crafts in St. Clair.

Most activities, listed on the AAA Michigan 1991 Harbor Guide, are within walking distance of the harbor, a few require land transportation. In addition to the events, restaurants, grocery stores, beaches and picnic areas are a short walk from most harbors.

Boaters will be able to dock at two new state-sponsored facilities this summer in Bay City and Barga.

But it will cost more to tie up for the evening at all state docks. The Michigan State Waterways Commission's new fee schedule ranges from a flat rate of $15 for boats less than 24 feet long to $1.09 per foot for boats 60 feet and longer. Last year, rates were $14.50 and $1.04, respectively.

Also new in 1991 is a $5 charge for temporary daytime moorage. Pumpout charges remain $4 per connection.

Dock space is rented on a first-come, first-serve basis. However, Detroit's St. Aubin Park will accept reservations on a trial basis this year. If successful, the reservation system could be expanded to other sites in 1992.

The majority of harbors maintain pumpout facilities, restrooms, showers and fuel docks. Other services can be obtained at commercial marinas.

For a copy of the festivals near state harbors, write to AAA Michigan, Public Relations Dept., One Auto Club Drive, Dearborn, MI 48126.

One-horse towns offer more than you know

Compared to Augusta, Marietta is a metropolis with a population of nearly 17,000. It's Ohio's oldest town, home of Marietta College, founded in 1835, and Rossi Pasta.

Rossi Pasta? This is one of Marietta's surprises: a factory producing handmade, all-natural pasta for Nieman-Marcus, Williams-Sonoma, gourmet cooks and, of course, the rest of the world. (Visitors can check out the pastas in the wonderful-smelling retail shop. Others can order by mail.)

Spinach-basil, saffron, black olive, jalapeno and garlic are a few of the selections, and the company is generous with recipes and cooking tips written in a light-hearted style. (Ask for the Rossi Pasta Prima; "A (Simple) Guide for the Kitchen Frail.")

MARIETTA, NAMED for Queen Marie Antoinette of France, was founded in 1788 by veterans of the Revolutionary War and became the gateway to the Northwest Territory (land which later became Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan; Wisconsin and part of Minnesota) and its first permanent settlement.

The town survived the bloody battles of the last Indian wars (1790 to 1794) and became a busy and prosperous ship-building center and steamboat port.

This part of Marietta's heritage is reflected in the popularity of the Valley Gem, a sternwheeler providing hourly trips on the Muskingum and Ohio rivers, and melodramas presented during the summer on the show-boat Becky Thatcher.

Sternwheelers from around the country will race on the river during the Ohio River Sternwheel Festival the first weekend after Labor Day. The festival features live entertainment, fireworks and craft booths along the riverbank.

Marietta is an appealing tree-shaded town in a pleasant countryside of hills, valleys and river views. There are two museums, the Ohio River Museum and the Campus Martius, fine old Victorian houses and some remaining brick streets and alleys.

TROLLEY TOURS of Marietta are conducted regularly, beginning on Green Street near the historic Lafayette Hotel.

Tours are also offered free at the Fenton Art Glass Company, in nearby Williamstown, W.V., where glass is blown and hand-shaped by craftsmen.

The Middleton Doll Factory is another popular place. The dolls, created by Ohio artist Lee Middleton, have faces sculpted from images of real children and are prized by collectors. (An outlet with near-perfect dolls is at 268 Front St. in Marietta.)

For more information, contact the Marietta Tourist and Convention Bureau, 316 Third St., Marietta, OH 45750 or telephone toll-free (800) 288-2577. The Rossi Pasta Factory is at 114 Greene St., Marietta, OH 45750 or call toll-free (800) 227-6774.

Blasting through the white water

The most important thing is teamwork. Keep paddling at all times, even if someone falls out. Getting the person back in the raft is priority number one, but you can't do it until you're past the wild waters.

Don't wear jeans, even if it's cold. You get drenched when you walk into the water to reach the raft, and you haven't even started yet. Soaked jeans are impossible to get off! Most companies will rent wetsuits, but you won't need one unless it's really cold.

I had canoed before, but rafting is very different. The raft moves, bends and rolls with the waves. You can feel the rocks scraping under you.

After we conquered several rapids without a scratch, we lost one of our crew, Don VanSickle of Canton, a close friend. Before I knew what happened, he was gone, nowhere in sight.

ALL I could see was white froth with an occasional rock jutting out of the violent water. No sign of Don.

Having heard rumors of someone dying on that very river years ago made us forget paddling to find Don. The guide plunged his paddle into the water to see if Don would grab it. No luck.

After what seemed a lifetime, Don's head poked up through the water. All of our safety instruction came in handy as we tried to rescue him. The sound of the water was so loud he couldn't hear us screaming to keep his feet in front of him, although he knew to do it anyway.

Don came out unscathed. When we hauled him into the raft, we sighed with relief and headed for the next set of rapids.

Even though white-water rafting can be dangerous, it's great fun. There's always the anticipation of what lies ahead, like on the uphill trek of a roller coaster. You feel a sense of vulnerability and power at having conquered the waters. I went rafting again this year on a tougher river, the Cheat in West Virginia, and it was more exhilarating. Who knows what lies ahead for next year!

The cost of white-water rafting varies from $50 to $150 depending on the river, the day of the week and time of year. Mountain Streams offer a group discount. If 19 people pay, one goes free.

THERE ARE some minimum age requirements. On the Lower Youghiogheny River, it's 12; on the Cheat, Gauley, Upper Yough, and Tygart's Valley River and the Big Sandy Creek you must be 16 years old. The Middle Youghiogheny is the easiest run, open to anyone 6 or older.

The difficulty level of each river is indicated by "class." Class I for youngsters and families and Class VI for experienced rafters.

The river rides run during certain times of the year. For example, Cheat River trips are in the spring while Youghiogheny trips are May through September.

Four-man rafts are common, but 10-man rafts are used if the water is high. Lunch is served halfway through the trip.

For more information, contact Mountain Streams and Trails: PO Box 106, Ohiopyle, PA 15470 or call toll-free (800) 245-0990.

The play's the thing at Stratford Festival

The Stratford Festival opened officially last week in a flurry of black-tie events and premiere showings. I say "officially" because the plays have been performed daily since the season opened April 29.

That's when the swans were released from their winter quarters behind the arena, the ducks started dropping in on picnic dinners and the water birds began their daily parades across the roads.

By mid May the pedal boats were busy on the Avon River, spring flowers were blooming in the Shakespearean Gardens and the bed-and-breakfast places had their signs out for the summer.

I saw three of this summer's plays during the unofficial preview season: "Much Ado About Nothing" at the Festival Theater, "Our Town" and "Les Belles Soeurs" at the Avon Theater. I didn't get into the Tom Patterson Theater, named after the Stratford journalist largely responsible for launching this festival; the theater was formerly called Third Stage.

I PREDICT that "Les Belles Soeurs," written by Canadian playwright Michel Tremblay and performed for the first time in English, will be the main topic of conversation this summer. It is a funny, angry, loud, unusual play about a group of French-Canadian women who gathered to help paste into booklets the one million gold stamps won by a housewife.

People either love it or hate it, think it has too much swearing or is realistic, etc. Whether you like it or not, you should see it and join the conversation at the Festival this year.

That kind of information is available when you buy a theater ticket, but if you want other important Stratford information you must ask somebody who has been there and knows the bed and breakfasts, the restaurants, the best bookstore, etc.

I pick the brains of all my friends who travel and I would like to pick yours. If you have been to Stratford, Ontario and have a small tip for our readers, read on.

K'zoo air zoo plans air show

By Doris Scharfenberg

Wildcat, Hellcat, Tigercat, Bearcat, Grasshopper, Warhawk, Aircobra . . .

The "K'zoo air zoo" hunkers down in a gleaming hanger of its own; a fighting menagerie with engines that purr and hearts ready to take off.

These fierce sky creatures of World War II, gathered at the Kalamazoo Aviation History Museum, take to the sky June 8-9 in the High on Kalamazoo Air Show, but the museum is open year round.

In skins of yellow, green, blue and even pink, the trim fuselages and taut struts evoke admiring stares as their individual exploits are recounted by the guide.

BENEATH BRIGHT banners and flags, you meet such veterans as the Grumman F4F Wildcat, a plane with a victory-to-loss ratio of 6 to 1. The F6F-5 Hellcat (victory-to-loss ratio 19 to 1) turned the tide in the air war over the Pacific. Designed to intercept Japan's kamikazes, the F8F-1 Bearcat never saw service in the war, but served admirably into the '60s.

Also on display is "The Sweetheart of Okinawa" (F4U Corsair), the P-39 Aircobra with an Oldsmobile cannon in its nose, the Douglas A1E Skyraider used in Korea and Vietnam, a Douglas Skytrooper transport, etc. The display even includes a German-built aircraft, the HA 1112 M1L Hispano Buchon.

One of the most stared-at planes on the museum floor has a light pink body, fierce mouth painted with teeth ready to rip into its prey and stenciled eyes (with eyelashes).

The Curtiss P-40N Warhawk, the only U.S. plane to engage Japanese aircraft at Pearl Harbor, turned into a Flying Tiger against the Japanese in China. It is credited with shooting down 297 enemy aircraft, with a loss of 12 planes in combat.

Think small One-horse towns offer more than you know

Mary Augusta Rodgers is a freelance writer who lives in Birmingham.

By Mary Augusta Rodgers
special writer

Travelers driving south on interstate highways often don't know — or forget — what they're missing as the miles go by and the countryside becomes a blur. Small towns, for instance, can be a refreshing change. Many are interesting, easy to deal with and fun to explore. They're pleasant places for a walk, a little sightseeing and shopping, lunch or dinner or an overnight stay.

Here are two to consider: Augusta, Ky., and Marietta, Ohio, riverboat towns on either side of the Ohio River.

AUGUSTA

Just 35 miles from Cincinnati and I-75, Augusta is a little (population 1,400) world of its own, nestled on the banks of the Ohio River.

The last time we were there, the sky was blue, the river shone in the sunlight, fishermen waited patiently on a shady bank with their lines out, and the ferry from Boudes Landing, Ohio came in to dock with its flag flying in the breeze.

It was such a happy scene that a man strolling down Riverside Drive suddenly stopped and serenaded a woman he didn't know. "Come on-a my house!" he sang. "My house a-come on!"

The woman, sitting on the stoop of her house, enjoying the sun, smiled and waved. "You're off key, but I love it," said singer Rosemary Clooney. ("Come on-a My House" was one of her biggest hits.)

This is Rosemary Clooney country. There's a Rosemary Clooney Street in Maysville, not far away, where she was born. A show of watercolor and oil paintings by Gabriel Ferrer, her son, is on display at Augusta's small but prestigious Piedmont Gallery.

Augusta is also-pioneer country, founded in 1797 and built on the site of an ancient Indian burial ground. It's survived wars, cholera epidemics, floods, fires and a blight that finished off the promising vineyards planted by German settlers. (The winery, a massive limestone structure, remains; it's just off Route 8 on the way to Maysville.)

PARTS OF the TV mini-series "Centennial" were filmed in Augusta, as well as "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," made for public television. "Augusta has one of the very few open 19th-century waterfronts left in the country," said Bill Grooms, the producer. "It's a real treasure."

Augusta's oldest remaining house, on the corner of Ferry and Riverside, was built in 1800 by General John Payne, a cavalry officer in the War of 1812. Houses from the pioneer, federal and Victorian periods, graced with flowers, boxwood and brick walks, overlook the river. A 1795 log cabin, known as Broshears Tavern, was frequented by Daniel Boone and Simon Kenton.

The Piedmont Gallery has a fine collection of crafts, folk art and paintings of late 19th century artists from Northern Kentucky. Within a few blocks, visitors will find the Lamplighter Inn and several bed and breakfasts; the Beehive Tavern, which offers regional dishes, like transparent pie and blackberry jam cake; two antique shops; and The Monday Morning Workshop, which sells handmade leather goods and handwoven rugs.

An arts and crafts festival and a sternwheeler regatta occur in Augusta June 28-30, and an event called Heritage Days (historic house tours, a flea market and street fair) is held Labor Day weekend.

The Piedmont Gallery: 115 West Riverside, Augusta, Ky. 41002; (606) 756-2216. Walking-tour maps of Augusta are available at the gallery, the drugstore, the bank and city hall. Augusta is too small to have a tourist bureau, but you can call the city clerk at (606) 756-2183 for information.

MARIETTA, OHIO

Another historic river town, Marietta is situated where the Muskingum River flows into the Ohio; just off I-77, with Parkersburg, W.V. across the river.

Blasting down the river

By Denise Baha

I could hear the crashing sound of the approaching rapids as I sat on a swiftly-moving raft on the Youghiogheny River in Pennsylvania. I held my breath in anticipation of plunging into the fierce waters for the first time.

We were paddling like crazy and before I knew it I was staring into the plunging water and the raft was at the mercy of hydraulic forces. We surged downward, crashing through the white water, paddling and praying for our lives.

When the water calmed we looked at each other with exhilaration — we conquered the wild waters! The first set anyway. Between each set of rapids was calm water, allowing us to catch our breath and revel in the victory.

As a rookie rafter, there were a few things I didn't know: how to dress, what white-water rafting feels like and safety precautions to name a few. I quickly learned.

I went with the Mountain Streams and Trails Outfitters rafting company that runs rafting trips in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland. The difficulty of the rafting depends on the water level, the river, and the time of year.

WHEN WATER levels are high, or when running a difficult river, a professional guide attends each raft. The guide explains paddling procedures and how to handle different rapids. You need to know how to paddle when going backwards downstream, what to do if the raft capsizes, and how to avoid smashing into rocks face first if you fall out.

MOVING PICTURES

Celeste Talbert (Sally Field) gets carried away by Montanna Moorehead (Cathy Moriarty) and

Rose Schwartz (Whoopi Goldberg) in "Soapdish."

Too many stars spoil the plot of 'Soapdish'

The rush to premiere films for Memorial Day weekend has passed and only one new film is on this week's docket, "Soapdish" (B-, PG-13, 95 minutes).

As all sorts of "real life" intrigue unfolds during filming of "The Sun Also Sets," the film's fictitious soap opera, the program's scriptwriter, Rose Schwartz (Whoopi Goldberg), wonders aloud, "Why can't I write stuff like this?"

The answer, of course, as the movie proves, is that the offstage lives of actors are much more interesting than the unbelievable storylines of their show.

Multiple plots revolve around the set of the daytime drama whose ratings are falling. Driven by pressure from network execs and lust for supporting actress Montanna Moorehead (Cathy Moriarty), producer David Barnes (Robert Downey Jr.) takes drastic action.

Moorehead wants him to axe the reigning "queen of misery," the show's star, Celeste Talbert (Sally Field), in order to further her own career. Barnes sees this as a way to boost ratings, but every time he plots to write Celeste out of the show, something foils his plans, whether it is the effects of returning her ex-lover, Jeffrey Anderson (Kevin Kline), to the show or the rise to fame of her niece, Lori Craven (Elisabeth Shue), an extra on the set.

SOUND CONFUSING? That's only the beginning — proving that the phony "real life" of these actors can be more surprising than television soaps ever imagined, and twice as contrived.

There are other sub-plots in both the movie and the soap, and some even manage to surprise the audience. The climactic scene is a live broadcast of the soap opera, which disintegrates into an ad-libre conciliation of both the characters and the actors.

This, and other scenes, leave the audience wondering where the acting ends and the real life drama begins. Some scenes also demonstrate that actors can give more convincing performances off-camera than on, given the proper motivations.

Unfortunately, just as in the daytime soaps, "Soapdish" sports far too many stars for one movie. Potentially excellent performances from Whoopi Goldberg and Carrie Fisher are buried in the proliferation of stars and plots.

The movie begins in the middle and, while this creates the feeling that we are actually watching a soap opera that began long before we tuned in, it also makes it difficult to sort out who's who for the first 20 minutes.

Add an abrupt and sappy ending, and you have either a confusing mess of a movie, or an interesting statement about TV and how it figures into the daily lives of both the viewers and the actors. Sadly, the film's full potential is lost amid the hubbub of the happy Hollywood ending.

STILL PLAYING:

"Backdraft" (C-, R, 130 minutes). Disappointing, cornball, cliched story of two brothers, both Chicago firefighters.

"Class Action" (C+, R, 100 minutes).

Father-daughter attorneys, Gene Hackman and Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio, are not a team.

"Dances With Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes).

Kevin Costner's magnificent ode to brotherhood and brutality on America's western frontier during and after the Civil War.

"Drop Dead Fred" (B+, PG-13, 100 minutes).

Even if you didn't have an imaginary childhood friend, you'll enjoy Rik Mayall in the title role.

"The Five Heartbeats" (A-, R).

Good entertainment and excellent music in story of fictitious black singing group.

"FX2: The Deadly Art of Illusion" (C+, PG-13, 105 minutes).

Largely sterile exercise in special effects teams two Brians — Denzney and Brown — one more time.

"GoodFellas" (B+, R, 145 minutes).

Martin Scorsese's intense, compelling saga of three mobsters returns after receiving half-dozen Oscar nominations. Despite good acting and fine technical values, the film is to be condemned for glorifying vicious and violent gangsters.

"Hudson Hawk" (A, PG-13, 97 minutes).

Bruce Willis is paroled thief who wants to go straight but events conspire.

"A Kiss Before Dying" (B+, R, 90 minutes).

Nerve-wracking, tense entertainment with Matt Dillon as psychopathic killer preying on wealthy family.

"Love Your Momma" (D, PG-13, 97 minutes).

Interesting independent film event falls flat in writing, directing and

'Vanishing:' Thrills, chills

By John Monaghan
special writer

Submitted for your approval: A young couple on the road to France stops at a gas station off the highway. She goes in for cold drinks and never returns. Was she abducted? Or has she just entered...

It's difficult not to think of Rod Serling when recounting the plot for "The Vanishing." A Dutch import, playing this weekend at the Music Hall Center, puts in feature form the brand of chills and twists that shows like "The Twilight Zone" and "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" once delivered weekly.

The abandoned husband, Rex (Gene Bervoets), doesn't give up on his search. Three years later, he has borrowed money to amount a major media campaign including street corner posters and TV news interviews.

A new relationship with a patient, attractive photographer falls apart because of his obsession. After awhile, it's not so much being reunited with his wife as it is finding out exactly what happened to her.

WRITER/producer/director George Sluzler has a low-key style that savors the unusual plot twists. There is a knockout aerial shot, however, when half-crazed Rex takes to the street and screams for the murderer to show himself.

The villain, by the way, is not your average drooling psychotic. Played by Bernard-Pierre Donnadieu, he's a milquetoast schoolteacher who leads a normal, if unemotional, life with his loving wife and two daughters.

Knowing who aided in the woman's disappearance is not what "The Vanishing" is all about. The question here is: Why did he do it and what

As our culture continues to shift from print to video, more and more summer vacationers are stopping at video stores instead of at libraries to find something to do during summer's idle hours.

Paramount Pictures is playing right into that trend with its "Great American Writers' Series," released Thursday. The package contains five re-packaged films from their catalog and six new releases, all priced at $19.95.

These major motion pictures were based on work by some of the country's best-known writers. The six new-to-video titles include "Carrie" (1952, no rating, black and white, 118 minutes) which was taken from Theodore Dreiser's "Sister Carrie" and stars Laurence Olivier and Jennifer Jones.

Two Tennessee Williams' works were the basis for "Summer and Smoke" (1962, no rating, color, 118 minutes) and "The Rose Tattoo" (1955, no rating, black and white, 116 minutes).

The former stars Laurence Harvey as well as Geraldine Page while the latter features Burt Lancaster and noted Italian film star Anna Magnani who won a best actress Oscar for this role.

Singing blues for love, not money

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

In the course of a performance, Big Dave and the Ultrasonics can throw a lot at you.

There's a saxophonist, a harmonica player, two guitarists, a bassist and a drummer. The band can play soulful houserockin' blues, uptown boogie and gutbucket blues when called upon.

But calling out for Dave can present a problem. The group only has four of them by the same first name.

"When I first started working with these guys, it was kind of confusing at first," said bass player Todd Perkins, one of two Todds in the band. "We pretty much refer to each other on a last name basis."

"In the beginning, when I didn't know everybody, I would say 'harp-playing Dave,' 'sax-playing Dave' and 'guitar-playing Dave.' But there's two guitar-playing Daves."

Sorting out guitarist Dave Farzalo, sax and keyboard man Dave Salvator and harpist Dave Morris may be difficult at first.

AMONG THE Daves, though, there's only one Big Dave. He's Dave Steele, whose throaty growl and stinging guitar licks reveal the heart of a bluesman. Better yet, he even talks like one.

"You have to love it (the blues)," Steele said. "That's all. There's no money in it."

What inspires the blues in him? "Like everyone, it's women and money," he answers.

THIS IS a passion shared by other band members, who formed Big Dave and the Ultrasonics after three Daves (Steele, Farzalo and Salvator) and one Todd (Nero) moved from Erie, Pa., to Ann Arbor.

Those guys played in The Zip City Blues Band, which performed regularly in Erie's only blues club, the Dockside. Band members possess a wide knowledge of different blues styles — Delta, Texas and New Orleans — and incorporate it into the final stew.

In a short time, Big Dave and the Ultrasonics have made an immediate impact on the Ann Arbor and Detroit club scene. Onstage, the band serves up a searing brand of urban blues.

There's plenty of Daves and Todds in Big Dave and the Ultrasonics, but there's only one person whose throaty growl and stinging guitar licks reveal the heart of a bluesman. That's Big Dave himself, Dave Steele.

REVIEWS

AGGRAVATION — Treponem Pal

Treponem Pal might seem like a mystical name for a mysterious heavy metal band, and in reality it is. But it is also the French word for the virus that causes syphilis.

Treponem Pal is a perverse, industrial thrash band. The group's latest release is "Aggravation." I think that says it all.

Their style of music lies somewhere between the likes of bands like Slayer and Judas Priest.

The opening track, called "Rest is War," is a grating, energy pack song that is guaranteed to rock any head-banger's socks off.

This is a band that comes from France, but you might likely guess it came out of the New York City metal circuit by the sound of it.

Vocalist Marco Neves can hit some notes like nails on a chalk board.

Some truly salvageable songs are in this nine-song package. "Out With No Flag" and "Sweet Corn" are pretty decent metallic pieces.

One song in the package was not written by Treponem Pal. It is called "Radioactivity." It is a noxious, stentorian mix written and arranged for TP by the band known as Kraftwerk.

AWA YIO — Ivan Lins

You're on a tropical beach in Brazil. You have your toes in the sand, a drink in your hand, and you feel grand. In your head you can hear the sounds of a samba/calypso band.

The music on Ivan Lins' latest album called "Awa Yio" will send such images running through your mind.

This is a true South American-style delight, after a while you won't even care that he doesn't sing a single lyric in English. If you want to sing along its possible, just fake your way through.

But you'll probably be interested in knowing that the lyrics are included in both English and Spanish.

Ivan (pronounced E-von) Lins' mission on this album was to expose more people to the native music and culture of Brazil. After some of the lyrics, he provides a brief explanation of some of the myths, expressions and cultural beliefs of his native country.

Sure, the music has been commercialized just a tad, but you'll get the basic idea.

The song "Meu Pais" ("My Country") is a pleasurable ballad about the tropical paradise where he grew up. Throughout the song, he sings about some of the popular characters of Brazilian folklore.

Lins was born in Rio de Janeiro, the son of a Naval engineer. Via his father's military career, he ended up spending some formative years in Cambridge, Mass., where his musical aspirations took shape.

He speaks of this combination of cultural experiences in his song "America, Brazil — America, Brazil." This is a very upbeat samba.

All together you will find 11 multicultural songs in this package. This one is a must for someone with a hankering for something nuevo y diferente (that's Spanish for new and different).

Dear Barbara,
When I was a teenager, I had fantasies of kissing my sister who is two years older than I am. These fantasies always embarrassed me greatly. I thought they were sick and yet I couldn't change them.

I have a son and a daughter who are becoming teenagers. I want to say something to my son to tell him I would understand if he had such fantasies, but I don't know if I should. Maybe he doesn't and will think I am perverted.

What do you think?

Jerry

Dear Jerry,

Your fantasies are normal. They are not sick and you need not be embarrassed. The jokes that are made about teenagers' sexuality are true. They are generally pretty ratty and for them, even minimal stimuli can lead to sexual fantasies.

Brothers and sisters are strong stimuli. They are intimate with each other by the sheer fact that they live together.

On the other hand, you are quite right not to say anything to your son. Why place the burden of these problems on someone who might not have them? If you keep a spirit of openness in your home, a spirit that is non-judgmental, then there is a better chance that your son will reveal himself to you if he needs advice.

It seems that you did not find your parents approachable on sexual matters. Is there something they could have done to make you feel less afraid? Think about it. Maybe you will be able to do it for your son.

exactly did he do? A number of possibilities arise.

At the beginning of the film, during their car trip, Rex and Saskia run out of gas in a long mountain tunnel. While she fumbles for a flashlight, Rex rudely starts off for the mouth of the tunnel without her.

From then on, we are left on the edge with the possibility that maybe, just maybe, Saskia left him on her own accord.

WHILE THE question ultimately gets answered, others remain wonderfully ambiguous. "The Vanishing" becomes the kind of challenging film that will prompt long discussions afterward over a cup of coffee. Make it two cups.

"The Vanishing" is also the first film to screen at Music Hall Center as part of City Wide Cinema. The non-profit film group recently left its space at the Tele-Arts Theatre and will now screen films here and at Wayne State University.

This weekend offers an excellent opportunity to see what they're up to, with a Friday night reception and regular performances Saturday and Sunday. "The Vanishing" is the best film City Wide Cinema has gotten its hands on in a long time.

In "The Vanishing," an abandoned husband resorts to borrowed money to mount a major media campaign including street corner posters, to find his missing wife.

An All-American

The Longaberger Company is at it again. Now through July 15, the Dresden, Ohio, company will offer its Crisco American Pie Celebration basket only through in-home shows and outside orders.

The basket was created specifically for the fourth annual Crisco American Pie Celebration.

Measuring 11 1/4 inches long, 11 1/4 inches wide and 5 1/2 inches deep, the commemorative basket features a red and blue accent weave and trim strip, a two-pie storage divider, swinging handles, a leather and oak closure and attached woven lid displaying the burned-in Crisco American Pie Celebration logo.

Locally, the Longaberger Company is represented by Victoria Heinecke, 46376 Westbriar Ct., Plymouth; Laurie Maltby, 42489 Saltz Road, Canton; Deborah Grant-Kelterborn, 10329 Dobbin Lane, Plymouth; Sandra Bailey, 1520 Granada, Ann Arbor; Ohly Tierney, 1702 Henbert Road, West Bloomfield; and Denise Hauser, 5785 Springbrook, Troy.

Hair flair

Hairdressers from Mario Max Salon in Farmington Hills have discovered a new tool to achieve new soft and manageable headlines for spring and summer. The razor cuts of the '50s and '60s are back in '90s style.

"The razor is an incredible tool," said Mario Bitonti of Mario Max. "It puts movement into hair that scissors can't. Also razor cuts allow the hair to blend better, producing softer lines."

Mario Max Salon is in Loehmann's Square, Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills.

Big Dave can sing the blues

A recent show at Rick's Cafe had the normally placid collegiate crowd dancing feverishly to the uptown swing of Big Dave and the Ultrasonics. Instead of relying on one tempo, there's a series of musical instrument interplay within the context of one song and to the band's diverse sound.

SOMEHOW IN the litany of name similarities and multitude of players, Big Dave and the Ultrasonics cut through the confusion.

"Every additional player you have, it makes it more difficult because you play less," Steele said. "In a four-piece, your role is pretty much defined. We have four soloists. When one is playing, the others have to step back."

Big Dave directs the traffic. "He's a subtle leader," Perkins said. "Instead of telling you he doesn't like something, he tells you why he doesn't like something. Usually, it's a pretty good reason."

A LIFELONG blues aficionado, Steele started listening to records when he was young. His favorites are the Kings — B.B., Albert and Freddie. Also, he enjoys the guitar works of Albert Collins and the vocal stylings of Howlin' Wolf and Muddy Waters.

Several covers in the Big Dave set reveal several other influences, including Willie Dixon's "Built for Comfort" and Jimmy Reed's "Bright Lights, Big City."

Uptempo dance blues is the preference in the band's original music featured on a four-song demo. The group plans to record a full-length cassette to release sometime in the fall.

In the meantime, members of the band are busy further establishing its reputation in the blues-rich area of Detroit.

Big Dave is a regular at the Blind Pig and Rick's, where college students congregate. The band has also performed at the Soup Kitchen, where blues purists pull up a stool.

Either way, the music is the same and so are the names.

Big Dave and the Ultrasonics perform Thursday, June 6, at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor. For information, call 996-8555.

"Mannequin Two — On the Move" (*, PG).

Department store mannequin returns to life.

"Mortal Thoughts" (B, R, 104 minutes).

Poorly structured plot detracts from excellent performances by Demi Moore and Glenn Headly as New Jersey beauticians.

"New Jack City" (B-, R).

Fairly well done, inner-city drug gang/undercover cops story.

"One Good Cop" (A-, R, 100 minutes).

Something different in cop-buddy films with Michael Keaton out to avenge partner's death.

"Only the Lonely" (B, PG-13, 105 minutes).

John Candy is a nice-guy Chicago cop who lives with his mother (Maureen O'Hara) and falls in love with Ally Sheedy.

"Oscar" (D-, PG, 105 minutes).

Stallone's performance ruins a terrible script.

"Out for Justice" (*, R).

Macho-man Steven Seagal is a tough cop.

"A Rage in Harlem" (C+, R, 110 minutes).

Just too much packed into this star-studded romantic, comic, adventure of southern gold in Harlem with all the greedy folks out in force.

"The Silence of the Lambs" (C-, R, 115 minutes).

Disgusting film about FBI Cadet (Jodi Foster) confronting cannibalistic psychiatrist and serial killer. Despite technical accomplishment, this film is only for those who take ghoulish delight in the suffering of others.

"Sleeping With the Enemy" (C+, R, 95 minutes).

Julia Roberts' excellent performance as battered wife who takes matters into her own hands can't overcome weak scenario about psychotic hubby.

"Stone Cold" (R, 90 minutes).

Brian Bosworth is an undercover cop working to bring outlaw biker-gang to justice.

"Switch" (A-, R, 90 minutes).

Murdered chauvinist-womanizer returns to earth looking for a woman who will speak on his behalf. But there's a catch.

"Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles II: The Secret of the Ooze" (PG, 88 minutes).

Lots of action, but little violence as everybody's favorite turtles do it again.

"Thelma and Louise" (A, R, 130 minutes).

Sensational and unique buddies-on-the-road film starring Susan Sarandon and Geena Davis.

"Truth or Dare" (F, R, 118 minutes).

Obscene and pretentious display of Madonna's egomania.

"What About Bob?" (B, PG, 97 minutes).

Cute but lightweight story with Bill Murray as patient and Richard Dreyfuss as therapist.

"Wild Hearts Can't Be Broken" (A-, G, 85 minutes).

Enjoyable Disney story as young lady strives hard to become driving horse-girl in traveling stunt show.

rating, black and white, 111 minutes).

Lancaster also has the lead in yet another of these films derived from great American writers. He appears in William Inge's "Come Back, Little Sheba" (1952, no rating, black and white, 99 minutes) with Shirley Booth who won an Oscar for this role.

Booth also stars in the last of these new releases, Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker" (1958, no rating, black and white, 110 minutes), the play on which "Hello Dolly" was based.

The five re-packaged titles are

"The Great Gatsby" (1974, PG, color, 146 minutes) and "The Last Tycoon" (1977, PG, color, 123 minutes) both by F. Scott Fitzgerald, "A Place in the Sun" (1951, no rating, black and white, 120 minutes), based on Theodore Dreiser's "American Tragedy," Ernest Hemingway's "Islands in the Stream" (1979, PG, color, 110 minutes) and one more from Tennessee Williams, "This Property Is Condemned" (1966, no rating, color, 109 minutes).

A terrific film that didn't get as much play as it deserved, "The Grifters" (1990, R, color, 114 minutes), stars Anjelica Huston, John Cusack and Annette Bening as three con-artists out to grift a buck any way they can. The film was nominated for four Oscars and will be released on video cassette this coming Wednesday.

MAJOR NAMES such as Anjelica Huston usually signal excellent films — but not always. Huston has a good bit of screen time but no dialogue in "Swashbuckler" (1976, PG, color, 101 minutes). The film also features Robert Shaw, James Earl Jones, Genevieve Bujold, Beau Bridges and comedian Avery Schreiber.

Casting a stand-up comic as an 18th century pirate may be a clue to the faults in this dippy pirate movie. It has all the cliches of the genre but none of the excitement.

Lori Lynn Ross has to be careful doing her routine like hanging upside down during a roll. One wrong step and she could break through the fabric covering the wing of Walt Pierce's biplane.

Walking the wings of Ol' Smokey

Stuntwoman has firm grip on aerial life

By Sue Mason
staff writer

You could say Lori Lynn Ross is a drag, not a big drag, but a drag nonetheless. Just ask Walt Pierce. He drags her around on and off.

It's not that she doesn't like fun. Hey, this woman has done fire dives. We're not talking going through a fiery hoop, but rather setting herself on fire and diving into a pool 30 feet below.

At 4 feet 11 1/2 inches tall and 98 pounds — "I'm little but I'm strong." — she's a bit of a drag on the wing of Pierce's 1940 Stearman biplane, "Ol' Smokey." Ross, when not working as a stuntwoman in Hollywood, occasionally does the air show circuit with Pierce as his wingwalker.

"I really have a fun time because I enjoy performing," said Ross, a former Southfield resident. "I really have good time out there and when I get off and see that the people have had a good time, it makes it all the better."

Not quite what you'd expect from a woman who at one time studied to be an elementary school teacher and was a high school cheerleader and member of the girls' softball and basketball teams at Southfield High School.

But she admits she's always been adventurous. She began skiing and riding motorcycles at the age of five and on her way to a career in Hollywood picked up rock-climbing, SCUBA diving and high diving.

The 29-year-old Ross was working at a store, selling climbing equipment, when a stuntman mentioned that with her experiences she should consider stunt work. About two months later, while studying for final exams at the beach, she met another stuntman who said the same thing.

SHE DECIDED to heed their advice and, after graduating from California State University at Northridge, she signed on with the U.S. Professional High Diving Team and marketed herself as a stuntwoman by doing the fire dives, not to mention clown dives, ladder diving and, shades of Acapulco, cliff diving.

Ross, who will team up with Pierce for AirMichigan '91 at Willow Run Airport in Ypsilanti this weekend, has been a stuntwoman for about nine years.

A member of the United Stuntwomen's Association, her stunt work has included such feature films as "Terminator II," "Karate Kid II," "Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure" and "Edward Scissorhands" to name a few. She also has done stunts for such TV shows as "Rescue 911," "Falcon Crest," "Life Goes On" and "The Outsiders."

"I love my work," said Ross. "I started out doing dance and sports as a kid and never thought of being a stuntwoman or dreamed of being a wingwalker."

ROSS HAS been wingwalking for about six years, having learned the art from legendary wing walker

Stuntwoman Lori Lynn Ross does a one-legged stand on the wing of Ol' Smokey as part of her wingwalking performance.

Johnny Kazian. She was originally recruited Jim Franklin who wanted a female wingwalker.

"He figured with my diving experience, I could handle the acrobatics and with my rock-climbing experience, I could climb around the plane," she said.

Wingwalking is no easy task. The plane travels at between 80 and 180 miles per hour, so Ross has to be careful how and when she moves around the plane, especially since she wears a safety strap for only about 20 percent of her 20-minute routine. She wears no such strap when walking around on the wing of the plane, but does it for acrobatic fly-bys.

"It takes a lot of strength to hang on," Ross said. "What people don't realize is that when I move from the upper to the lower wing behind the propeller, I'm in the most vulnerable position. Walt has to power back the plane so he doesn't blow me off the wing."

Ross' routine is very choreographed, very precise. It is learned on the ground before it's done in the air. There are no verbal commands between Pierce and Ross. Communication is by hand signals and eye contact.

Her hardest routine is doing a headstand on the upper wing. She has to flip her body upside down and hang on to a post. With the speed of the plane, she is "literally plastered to the post to where I can't move."

OTHER ROUTINES include hanging on to the plane and shaking hands with the pilot, doing backspins and hanging off the back part of a post on the upper wing.

Her favorite maneuver is doing a cartwheel in the air.

"I walk out to the end of the struts and get to see the crowd as we fly by," she said.

And when it comes to the acrobatics, she is in for a "wild ride."

"My body is used to spinning and twisting in the air," she said. "With the loops and rolls, I get to see the earth and the crowd waving at me. It's a wild and exciting time."

But the hardest part is the five-minute or so wait on the ground before the plane takes to the air. She has a one-inch bar that she stands on on the balls of her toes. One step the wrong way and she could end up putting a foot through the wing's fabric skin.

Because of her stunt work, Ross has limited her wingwalking to just three air shows this year. She picked AirMichigan '91 because "Detroit is special for me."

"I HAD SO many wonderful experiences growing up in Michigan," she said. "It's a good time to get back and reminisce, a really fun time."

Married, Ross describes her husband Dan, who builds custom homes in mainly Beverly Hills and Malibu, as "pretty adventurous." He shares her interest in rock- and ice-climbing, windsurfing and skiing.

But as exciting as her life is, safety is foremost in Ross' mind. She is as picky about who she performs with as she is about what stunts she will do. She doesn't take jobs she doesn't think she can do. As a result her worst injuries have been a few cuts and bruises.

She likes flying with Pierce. He is "a great guy . . . he's at the top of the list," she said.

"Safety is very important to me," she added. "I try to keep my safety record at 100 percent. So far my training has paid off . . . and I've been a bit lucky, too."

Ross' career continues to expand — she plays the part of the mermaid in the soon-to-be-released film "Rocketeer" — and she jokingly blames her parents for it. It's their fault for letting her water ski and ride a motorcycle at the age of five, she said.

But she adds: "I'm glad I had the opportunity to try out different sports. I think it makes me a better stuntwoman."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Take some time off and rest. If you don't slow down the pace, there could be big problems later. Don't let others try to tell you otherwise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Stop being such a perfectionist, especially on the domestic front. You are driving your loved ones crazy. They want you to accept them as they are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
A new locale for business and pleasure is on the horizon. Don't take shortcuts with financial matters, it could cause problems.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
A friend or relative needs your loving support this week. Any time you can spend with them will be appreciated. Avoid being condescending.

By C.C. Clark

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
New clothes or a stylish new haircut can do wonders for your attitude. You needn't go on a major shopping spree. Just add a few refined touches.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Don't let finances cause you distress. Some compromises with a loved one will make your life easier. Concentrate on needs rather than wants.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Sit back and relax with a good book. You will be amazed how a little time off can benefit your sense of well-being. Put mundane tasks on hold.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Your career may need to take a back seat to your love life. In other words, don't let work interfere with your enjoyment of loved ones.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
A change in the workplace could be just what you need. Take advantage of your free time and do something special for a close friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Laughing at your mistakes will help you through some tough times. Your jovial manner will also help ease the tension with others.

'C. Everett Koop, M.D.' specials search for medical prescription

Will medicine leave you in a lurch?

By Amy Schmidt

You're in good shape. You're covered by medical insurance. You figure you have nothing to worry about, health-wise. Think again. Rising medical costs, deficient patient care and inadequate insurance coverage are problems plaguing more and more Americans yearly — many of whom never dreamed it could happen to them.

Sunday, June 9, on NBC, former Surgeon General C. Everett Koop hosts the second of five Sunday specials about our national medical crisis. "We in this country scramble for health care, and I think that is the No. 1 health problem we face," said Koop in a recent interview. "I don't know anybody who is really satisfied with health-care delivery in this country, and it gets worse day by day."

Installment one of the specials concerned itself with children. Installments two and three deal with teenagers and the elderly, respectively. Together the three episodes expose problems faced by Americans across and through the generations: from premature, drug-dependent and low birth-weight babies; to anorexia nervosa, depression and pregnancy problems among today's adolescents; and finally to the elderly and the health concerns they face, from broken hips and incontinence to sexual needs and the loss of loved ones.

Slow at times, these episodes neglect to answer the nagging question: "What can we do about it?" But don't feel let down, because the final two shows, "Hard Choices" and "A Time for Change," pack a wallop.

They deal with such things as rationing. People who can no longer afford health insurance will soon find more costly services out of reach. Oregon has already passed the first rationing law providing limited patient care, no matter if lack of treatment results in death. Indeed, in 10 years, open-heart surgery may be unaffordable for the average person. Already emergency services are being rationed. Koop traveled to different emergency rooms around the country where patients can wait as long as 48 hours before being seen by a doctor.

"My anger is evident in the last two shows," said Koop, "and I hope that anger is contagious, because I think it's time for Americans to say enough is enough."

Truly a man of vision, Koop puts forth many ideas, some already in practice in other countries. Hospitals and doctors must become competitive in order to keep prices down. Consumers must learn to shop around for medical care. He envisions a day when patients will be able to examine the "batting averages" of doctors from whom they seek treatment. He also

TRIVIA, ETC.

Once again, stage, film intertwine

By Steven Alan McGaw

Questions:

1. Author Peter Shaffer had a big hit in the '80s with a play that starred Ian McKellan and Tim Curry. Name the show and the actors who took those respective roles in the film version.
2. As a Broadway play it won the Pulitzer Prize. As a movie it won an Oscar for Jack Albertson's terrific performance. It also helped launch a then-young actor's career. The title, please, and the actor.
3. A few years back, recent Oscar-winner Jeremy Irons won a Tony for his performance in The Real Thing. His co-star was...
4. When Frank Langella was being fitted for his costume for a certain Broadway hit in the late '70s, a well-known French actor was in the same shop being fitted for a TV version of the same story. Name the play and the actor in question.

Answers:

1. Shogun (1980). Irons' co-star was Glenn Close.
2. The play was The Subject Was Roses; the actor was Martin Sheen.
3. The play was The Subject Was Rose; Tom Hulce was terrific as the petulant genius Mozart.
4. Langella, of course, was about to debut on stage in Dracula. Louis Jordan starred later that same year in a rather surreal telling of Bram Stoker's tale for Public Television.

believes a full one-third of medical costs constitute administrative fat ripe for the trimming.

What can the average individual do right now to change the face of medicine? "Let his Congressman know he's fed up. Writing and voting at the ballot box are the only ways you can change the situation," said Koop. He doubts the Republicans will make an issue of health care in 1992, but Democrats may.

What can the average individual do in terms of their own health/medical situation? Follow Koop's prescription: "Don't smoke. If you drink, do so in moderation, and exercise regularly — so you don't ever have to use the system."

1. In Shaffer's Amadeus, F. Murray Abraham won an Oscar for his portrayal of Salieri (the McKellan role on film). Tom Hulce was terrific as the petulant genius Mozart.

2. The play was The Subject Was Roses; the actor was Martin Sheen.

3. Irons' co-star was Glenn Close.
