Here comes the judge

Suburban Bar Association President Dennis Schrewsbury encourages folks interested in attending state Supreme Court Justice Conrad Mallet's appearance Wednesday in Plymouth to call him at 451-0475. A dinner is scheduled at Ernesto's on Plymouth Road, prior to the justice's address, at about 8 p.m.

Golf outing

To raise money for the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program, a golf outing has been scheduled for July 12.

Cost of the outing, at Hilltop Golf Course, is $150 per person; dinner only cost is $50. The contributions are tax deductible. Registration for the five-person scramble event is 7:30 a.m., followed by a shot-gun start at 9 a.m.

The DARE program seeks to head off drug and alcohol abuse by young people by promoting self esteem and empathy for police at an early age. For more information, write Project DARE at 42350 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, 48170.

Pet walk

For several years, Kathy Mount's toy poodle Brandy entertained by performing tricks and cheering the sick at Mott Children's Hospital.

Brandy, the subject of stories in the Observer and other local and national publications, even got fan letters.

Mount reports that Brandy, who in recent years used a hearing aid, died May 14. Mount is organizing a Brandy Memorial Pet Walk for September, in which she hopes to involve Plymouth kids and their pets.

For more information, call Kathy Mount at 459-9780.

Library award

The Plymouth District Library recently won approval for federal grants to complete files of the Plymouth Mail & Observer on microfilm and to buy books on tape for literacy students. The grants total nearly $43,000.

Formula for success

Professor helps teachers teach science

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Now more than ever, knowledge of science can help a person thrive in a world where technology is taking over.

But educators lament the lack of science education kids are getting. Part of the problem, they say, is that students studying to be teachers go more for other disciplines. Comparatively few teachers are qualified to teach science in kindergarten through the 12th grade.

Plymouth's Richard Moyer, a University of Michigan-Dearborn professor of education, has noted the trend and is doing his part to change it.

Moyer, a former city planning commissioner, teaches teachers how to teach science. And based on his classroom performance, innovative instructional practices and more, Moyer was recently named by his peers to receive the university's 1991 Distinguished Teaching Award.

While early elementary students naturally go for science, "there's been research done on how they lose interest in science at 10 years old," Moyer said.

"I think we're turning them off," he said. The way science tends to be taught, "it's not very interesting and it's sort of esoteric and hard."

Add to that the caricature of the scientist — a middle-aged, balding man in a lab coat, holding a test tube, "a little goofy, and a little evil," Moyer said.

Richard Moyer

STUDENTS, he said, "see science as removed from them and their lives. It's something weirdos do in laboratories."

Yet, "you can relate science to the real lives of real people. It's a fun and fascinating subject when you do that," he said.

Moyer described how he teaches education students majoring in science how to approach one scientific law:

"For example, Newton's law of motion. I say, 'Let's talk about Newton's second law,' you can see their eyes glaze over."

"But you can't think abstractly to start. I point out to them, 'You already know Newton's second law

'There's been research done on how they lose interest in science at 10 years old. I think we're turning them off.'

— Richard Moyer

(force equals mass times acceleration)."

He creates this scene: You're driving in a car and you're in a hurry. You come to a stop light where in front of you, a garbage truck waits in one lane and a Corvette in another.

"The garbage truck isn't going to accelerate," Moyer said — you'd choose to wait behind the Corvette.

"We don't teach them science that way, we teach them formulas," Moyer said.

ALONG WITH Moyer, others in science education are seeing a need to change the way science is taught. The science teaching profession is touting Project 2061, Science For All Americans, to address this, he added.

Besides better preparing students who choose to work in technological fields, better science education makes better citizens, Moyer explains. He recalls a recent referendum in New England on the survival of nuclear power plants. "It seems to

Weighty difference

Commissioner likes the sum of his losses

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

People hardly recognize Plymouth city commissioner Ron Loiselle these days.

Loiselle, who makes his living as an accountant, deducted 100 pounds from his weight between August and March, thanks to a doctor-supervised diet.

"I've been at goal, I weigh 170 pounds, for 2½ months," he said.

"A lot of people don't recognize me, if they haven't seen me for a while," said Loiselle, 47. "They recognize my voice, then they finally put the body and voice together."

But even the voice wasn't enough for one of Loiselle's elderly tax clients, who, like others, sees him once a year, at tax time.

"She came in and shook my hand, and said, 'I think there's been some mistake, I had an appointment with Mr. Loiselle,'" he said, laughing.

PREVIOUSLY, LOISELLE had never weighed less than 200 pounds, he said.

6 arrested for public sex acts

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Six men, including a 62-year-old Livonia man who told police he was a Livonia school teacher, were arrested at the Canton I-275 rest stop for homosexual activity in public.

"We went down there one night, because we had a lot of complaints about sexual activity in public outside stalls or on picnic tables," said Michigan State Police Sgt. Dean Sanderson.

THE CHARGES included disorderly person or "obscene conduct for soliciting undercover officers for homosexual liaisons," Sanderson said.

The names of the men arrested May 23 are being withheld until after their arraignments scheduled June 20 in 35th District Court, Plymouth.

Along with the Livonia man, the other men charged were a 30-year-old Detroit truck driver; a 37-year-old Belleville Northwest Airlines flight attendant; a 35-year-old Ann Arbor student; a 30-year-old Wixom social worker; and an 18-year-old Southgate student.

Each man was charged with disorderly person by obscene conduct. The misdemeanor charge carries a maximum 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine.

Jim Toy, University of Michigan co-coordinator of Lesbian-Gay Male programs office, said he had mixed feelings about the arrests.

"Any public rest room is a public facility and that is the law," Toy said. "People are complaining about the alleged activity occurring then it's understandable that intervention needs to be taken.

"I'm not sure that arrests and prosecutions are the most helpful way to intervene," he added.

MEANWHILE, THE Michigan Supreme Court recently gave police the go-ahead to resume running video cameras in highway rest stops to detect homosexual activities.

The Supreme Court recently refused to consider an application by 20 men who had been arrested in March 1986 on U.S. 127 in Holt.

The men were charged with gross indecency between men and they asked the high court to dismiss the charges on grounds that their privacy rights had been violated.

Videos were not used in the May 23 arrest in Canton, according to state police Lt. Jack Moulik. In fact cameras have never been used during surveillance at the Canton rest stop.

"What we're doing doesn't require video cameras," he said. "What we're doing is putting someone out there and letting the people solicit them. Basically we're operating like the vice squad working hookers on Michigan Avenue."

Moulik said there isn't a scheduled time when police set up decoy operations at the rest stop. They're usually launched after complaints from motorists. State troopers patrol the Canton and Novi rest stops regularly, sometimes many times a day, Moulik said.

He added that homosexual activity is among other illegal activities, including prostitution and drugs, at the rest stop.

School election today

Polls in the Plymouth-Canton school district will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, June 10. Voters will fill two four-year seats on the Board of Education.

Candidates include incumbents Dean Swartzwelder and Roland Thomas, Bobbie Cleary and Deborah Lynch.

Voters also will be asked to renew 17.74 operating mills. Also on the ballot will be trustee candidates for Schoolcraft College.

For information on polling places, call the school district administration office at 451-3135.

Voters interested in election results may call the Observer hot line 8-11 p.m. tonight. The number is 459-2700.

Loiselle began the Health Management Resources diet Aug. 1, after seeing what it did for a brother. "My brother Dan lost 80 pounds (on the diet)."

OVER THE next four months, "I didn't have any food at all," just five 100-calorie shakes made with powder and water per day.

Was it hard to abstain from eating?

"Initially. But after the first few days it goes away. After you get on the program it's not too bad."

me that you won't be influenced by propaganda on either side," he said, if you know science and can think and ask questions.

Are the number of education students majoring in science education growing? "I hate to say I'm not sure," Moyer said. Currently, just 15 of the U-M-Dearborn's 400 elementary education students are majoring in science education, he said.

Moyer speculated that many students who major in science "don't think about becoming a teacher, or they don't think of that first."

Private industry jobs are more lucrative, he said, adding a that science teacher must be motivated by idealism.

In addition to performing consulting work on science education, Moyer has written or co-written about 100 science textbooks, most for elementary students.

Car taken outside Methodist church

A Plymouth women told police she parked her 1984 silver Ford Thunderbird at 6:05 a.m. Wednesday outside First United Methodist Church on North Territorial in Plymouth Township, only to discover it stolen when she returned at 7:10 a.m.

Plymouth Township police say there were no witnesses to the theft; they have no suspects.

CAMERA STOLEN: A Nikon camera and lens valued by its owner at $700 was discovered missing Wednesday from a car parked in a Plymouth Township garage, according to a report filed with township police.

The theft was discovered at 9 a.m. Also stolen was the car's ignition key, left in the ignition, the report continued.

The garage and car were both left open, according to the report. Police have no suspects.

Reward offered

A $200 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest of robbers and the retrieval of nine guns stolen from a Canton house.

The robbery was during the Labor Day weekend on Joy Road west of Ridge Road.

A 35-Remington rifle, 16-gauge shot gun, 22-magnum rifle, 12-gauge shot gun, 30-30 rifle, 22-caliber pistol, 357-magnum pistol, 44-magnum pistol with a scope, a 32 caliber pistol and a BB gun were reported stolen.

"The problem is that two of the guns could blow up in their hands if they're fired," said the homeowner explaining that the calibrations are off.

He said his house had been robbed three times in six years. Anyone with information should call 453-8700 or 453-2711.

Whyman enters House race

Deborah Whyman means business in announcing her candidacy for the 36th state House seat recently vacated by Gerald Law.

"I am running for state representative because our state government needs more professionalism and common business sense. I am a professional from the business world," Whyman said.

Whyman, a six-year Canton resident and Ford Motor Co. data processing consultant, joins two other Republican candidates seeking the seat. They are Jerry Vorva, a Plymouth city commissioner, and Georgina Goss, Northville Township supervisor. No Democrats are running.

The district includes east Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township.

The three Republicans face an Aug. 6 primary and Aug. 27 general election.

Whyman said she's trying to get her message to voters by going door to door. "We're going to cover as much as we can," she said.

She supports Gov. Engler's 20 percent property tax cut, keeping resident's taxes in their own school district, limited terms for state legislators and welfare reform.

"The people of this district deserve a candidate who supports our new governor," she said. "He must have support to implement his plans."

"I will fight for lower taxes, quality education for our children and policies that make it easier to raise a family," Whyman continued.

She holds a bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University and holds a master's degree in administration.

Deborah Whyman

Whyman has been active in other political campaigns and is a Canton precinct delegate.

Miss Michigan search on

The pageant selection committee for the 1992 Miss Michigan USA pageant announced today that the search is on to find Michigan's most beautiful and intelligent young women to vie for the title of Miss Michigan USA 1992, the official preliminary to the Miss USA Pageant.

Open auditions will be held through June 17 at Pageant Headquarters in Livonia. Auditions are open to women who are at least 18 years old but not yet 27 years old as of Feb. 1, 1992.

Contestants must be single, never been married and never given birth to a child, residents of Michigan for at least six months before the pageant, citizens of the United States and of good moral character.

Audition times are limited. For more information, contact Rhonda Erwin, marketing director, at pageant headquarters (313) 591-4073.

New Morning School plans parent program

New Morning School is hosting two discussion nights to inform parents about the middle school program at the Plymouth Township school.

The sessions will be 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. June 18-19. The June 18 meeting will be in Redford Township at the Wolvin residence.

The June 19 meeting will be at New Morning School, 14501 Haggerty Road.

"We feel we have a real gem here that too few people know about," said New Morning School director Elaine Yagiela. "Our school is small and personalized. We find the program we have works well for kids here."

New Morning School's students, who range from pre-schoolers to eighth-graders, reside in Plymouth, Northville, Novi, Livonia, Farmington, Redford and Canton.

New Morning's middle school features a teacher-student ratio of 1-to-12; an individualized education program; goal setting and problem solving.

To register for the meeting, call 420-3331.

Paraprofessionals reach pact

After working without a contract for more than a year, paraprofessionals in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have reached a settlement with the district.

A tentative agreement was reached June 4 at the Michigan Employment Relations Commission where bargainers for both sides met with a state mediator for six hours.

"We're pleased to have a contract to take to our members," said Marjann Ligato-Freydl, executive director of the Michigan Education Association and the paraprofessionals' chief negotiator.

While Ligato-Freydl is recommending approval, "our members will decide whether it's a contract.

It's not over 'til it's over," she said.

Ligato-Freydl declined to disclose details on the settlement because the 135 paraprofessionals have not yet taken a ratification vote. They were scheduled to do so today.

The Board of Education is expected to ratify the contract at its meeting Tuesday night.

Laughing, crying and lots of reminiscing marked ceremonies for graduates of Centennial Educational Park at Hill Auditorium Sunday in Ann Arbor.

Ceremonies were at 1:30 p.m. for Plymouth Salem High School and 5 p.m. for Plymouth Canton High School. Holding graduation at Hill enables the schools to accommodate graduates as well as seven guests per student.

Plymouth Canton High School graduates numbered 504, while 536 seniors graduated from Plymouth Salem High School.

CEP grad Dana Garr was among the students given special honors. Garr, a waitress, earned a congressional medal of merit for saving the life of a restaurant patron who was choking.

One of 80-percent of the district's college-bound seniors, Garr is entering the nursing program at Schoolcraft College.

Computer champs program for victory

In the world of high school computer competition, members of the Plymouth Salem High School team are the newly crowned champs.

Seniors Prakash Chinnaiyan and Jeff Rearick and Juniors Wilson Lee and Leon Hong outshone competitors from more than 40 public and private schools in southeastern Michigan and Ontario in the Metro Computer League Computer Contest.

"It really is a nice deal; it's really the biggest computer competition in the area," said Tom Cotner, the Salem squad's teacher and coach.

Runner-up in league competition, Salem was invited to the finals along with eight other top schools.

Students were given three hours to write programs to solve four complex puzzles, business application and science problems, Cotner said. Salem accumulated 430 points to Rochester High School's 348, Windsor Brennen High School's 344 and Livonia Churchill's 309.

For their victory, students received a trophy and "a little glory," Cotner said.

Complete circuit Area family is wired to engineering

An unusual family gathered June 2 when Lisa Wunderlich of Canton and brother Chris Wunderlich of Westland, received their bachelor of science degrees in electrical engineering at Lawrence Technological University's annual commencement exercises.

There to give them a round of applause was their father, Charles Wunderlich of Novi, and their brother Rick Wunderlich of Canton, who are also studying electrical engineering at Lawrence Tech and expect to complete the degree requirements sometime within a year.

"We're kind of the 'Brady Bunch' of electrical engineering," said Rick. "Studying electrical engineering is just something that we all really wanted to do because our Dad, who has been a master electrician for the last 25 years, really encouraged our interest and inspired all of us to get a college education."

"When we were young," he said, "Dad would let us go out on the job with him to wire houses because he thought we needed to see how hard it can be to earn a living. He instilled in us the idea that we should get an education so we wouldn't have to struggle like he had."

"Dad really set an example when he enrolled in Lawrence Tech to study electrical engineering," Rick added. "He said he thought it was a good school with small classes and a lot of interaction between teachers and students — so Lisa, Chris and I all signed up too."

"THERE WERE times that I thought I wasn't going to make it," he said, "but I stuck with it. Our parents always taught us to believe that we could do anything we wanted to do if we applied ourselves. Now I find it rewarding to go through mathematical proofs and see what is going to happen, and I've switched my major to electrical engineering. I really like it because I can sit down and create something and then test it out on a computer to see if it works."

"It's been hard sometimes, because there are six kids in our family so we've all had to work our way through," Rick added. "I had to take a few terms off to save up enough money to continue in school."

"Lisa is the youngest member of our family, he said, "but she has managed to go straight through. Chris is the second oldest, but since they both became seniors at the same time, they were able to team up to work together on a senior project, a testing device for a salt water aquarium that makes it easier to maintain."

"Tropical fish are expensive," said Rick Wunderlich of Westland. "Some of them can cost more than $500, and you can lose them all very quickly if the salt water tank is not maintained at the correct levels. But this testing device which we call 'Neptune Five' monitors the temperature, the acidity, and the pH level and sends out a signal when any of these factors exceed or fall below the optimum level."

BUT ACCORDING to Chris, their degrees in electrical engineering are just the beginning. After graduation Lisa plans to obtain a law degree and pursue a career in patent law. Chris, who is an electrical maintenance supervisor at Detroit Diesel, intends to pursue a master's degree in electrical engineering controls.

For the moment however, the two look forward to observing an old tradition: throwing their graduation caps in the air as their father, Charles, and their brother, Rick, wait for their own turn to mount the stage next year to accept their own degrees in electrical engineering.

Super heroes to visit mall Saturday

CITY OF PLYMOUTH
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING TAXES

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Plymouth City Commission on Monday, June 17, 1991 at 7:30 p.m. in the Commission Chambers of City Hall, 201 S. Main Street, Plymouth, Michigan for the purpose of hearing testimony on the following:

Proposal to levy eighty-five hundredths of one mill (0.85 mill) in additional millage for 1991 to fund General City Operations.
Proposal to levy one tenth of one mill (0.10 mill) in additional millage for 1991 to fund Solid Waste removal and disposal.

A City operating millage rate of eleven and eleven hundredths mills (11.11 mills) would result in no additional taxes being raised in 1991 from property which existed in 1990. The proposed additional 0.85 mill, the rate permitted under Public Act 5, 1982 Section 211.34d, would result in an increase of seven and sixty five hundredths percent (7.65%) in 1991 property taxes for the average property which existed in 1990.

A City Solid Waste operating millage rate of one and forty hundredths mills (1.40 mills) would result in no additional taxes being raised in 1991 from property which existed in 1990. The proposed additional 0.10 mill, the rate permitted under Public Act 5, 1982 Section 211.34d, would result in an increase of seven and fourteen hundredths percent (7.14%) in 1991 property taxes for the average property which existed in 1990.

The taxing unit publishing this notice and identified below has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

REDUCE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING HEART DISEASE, KIDNEY DISEASE OR GOING BLIND.

Obesity can start a chain reaction to poor health that can be devastating. To begin with, most physicians and researchers consider obesity to be the major cause of diabetes in adults. Up to 90% of adults diagnosed as having diabetes, in fact, are overweight. Of course, once you have diabetes your chances of developing heart disease, kidney disease, or going blind increase dramatically. As a person with diabetes you'll be twice as prone to heart disease. 17 times as prone to kidney disease. And 25 times as prone to blindness, if you are insulin-dependent. Diabetes, in fact, can shorten your life expectancy by one-third. Fortunately, diabetes in adults, in most cases, can be prevented with careful weight control, healthy eating habits, and regular exercise. So if you're overweight, doesn't it make sense to take off the extra weight? Instead of years off your life?

Students win award

Students from the Plymouth-Canton and Wayne-Westland schools were among those honored by U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, during the Congressman's recent Medal of Merit awards ceremony.

The medal, awarded each year, honors area young people for their community involvement.

Area honorees included Valerie Devore of Wayne, Dana Garr of Canton and Kenneth Kalousek of Westland.

Devore, 15, is an A student at Wayne Memorial High School. She recently assisted in a blood drive at her school and also assists with the city recycling center. In addition, she distributed campaign literature and made telephone calls to prospective voters during the recent Wayne-Westland district millage election. Devore is also involved in a number of school activities, including yearbook and sophomore class fund-raisers.

Garr, 18, a waitress at a local restaurant, is credited with saving the life of a woman diner who suffered an apparent heart attack. Garr is credited with keeping the woman alive via mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and CPR. A Plymouth-Canton High School student, Garr is also credited with starting the school Students Against Driving Drunk chapter. She is also a tutor at a district elementary school.

Kalousek, 18, was honored for his participation in the Livonia Police drug awareness program. He is also a co-chairman for the "Just Say No" drug awareness program sponsored by GMC Trucks and the Michigan PTA. He is also the lead student representative on the Michigan PTA Executive Board and serves on the state PTA convention and nominating committees and is a nominee for the national PTA board. Kalousek also delivers Goodfellow holiday baskets within his community.

County golf course fees increase

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

It costs more to play at county-owned Warren Valley Golf Course.

But while county parks officials say new greens fees will provide a better, more attractive course, at least one county official said they could force many county golfers to play elsewhere.

Warren Valley, in Dearborn Heights, is heavily used by golfers from Livonia, Westland, Plymouth and other western Wayne County communities.

Weekday rates are now $9.50 for nine holes and $14.50 for 18 holes, increases of 50 cents per nine holes over last year. The weekend fee for nine holes was raised to $10.50. The weekend fee for 18 holes is now $17, also a 50 cents per nine hole increase.

The 36-hole course is expected to raise nearly $1.5 million this year, an increase of $200,000 from 1990.

The problem, county parks director Hurley Coleman said, was that past greens fees were too low.

"We found we weren't charging enough to cover our expenses," Coleman said.

The course is also in the midst of massive renovation. Money from the increased fees will be used to help pay for new motorized golf carts as well as to restore cart paths. A request proposal is also expected to be issued soon for a new clubhouse. The goal is to return the course to the days when it was considered among the finest public facilities in the United States.

The new fees caused a concern for county Commissioner William O'Neil, D-Allen Park.

"Why are we in the golf course business if county residents don't get a benefit?" said O'Neil, comparing Warren Valley fees with those of other public courses in the area.

A survey of 10 western Wayne courses showed nine hole rates varying from $6.50 to $10.50 on weekdays and $8 to $13.50 on weekends. Fees for 18 holes ranged from $11 to $16 on weekdays and $12.50 to $19 on weekends. In some cases, supplemental fees may also apply. Municipal courses in Livonia provide a discount for city residents. Some courses also provide seniors and juniors discounts.

For a comparison of western Wayne courses, see related story.

While O'Neil suggested the county should consider selling the course, he received little support from other commissioners.

"If it went private it would cost (county residents) more," Kay Beard, D-Inkster, said. Beard's district includes Westland and Garden City.

The number of golfers using Warren Valley reached a peak in 1988 and has dropped ever since, Coleman said. That trend could be reversed this year he added. Early projections show the total number of rounds played this year should easily top the 89,000 played in 1990.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

FEET ONLY GET BIGGER
As you age, your feet get bigger. Blood coming from your feet to your heart must overcome gravity; with the passing years your veins lose their elasticity and dilate. Consequently the tissues in the lower limbs expand.

Support hose help, but only incompletely, "water pills" are of no use as the problem is not excess fluid, but aging blood vessels. If you bring your concern of "swollen feet" to your doctor, he can respond in a limited way as no medicine retards aging.

The same limitation on physicians holds for your distress over undue stiffness on arising in the morning or after seating for a prolonged period at a movie, with friends, or upon dining out.

The stiffness likely is not an indication you are developing arthritis. The problem resides in ligaments that bind joints and tendons that act as pulleys for muscles anchoring nearby joints. With age, these sinews, like blood vessels, lose elasticity and the ability to contract quickly. You feel the change as a resistance to initiating movement; medicine cannot overcome this age related change. Only stretching and moving while seated will counter the stiffness.

Your doctor's training and experience allow him to determine when foot swelling or joint stiffness go beyond aging and indicate a need for further investigation.

Barbecue misused word in the suburbs

IF I'M INVITED to one more backyard suburban barbecue this summer, I think I'll call my lawyer to sue the perpetrator for false advertising.

The word barbecue is misused by everyone in Michigan. It means either burned or under-cooked hamburgers and hot dogs.

The reason for that is WASPs have intruded on the preserve of Southern whites and blacks, stealing the word barbecue and displaying it in their back yards just like they would a wooden wheel or other piece of charming country junk.

In the South, barbecue takes on the characteristics of religion, and it even has its own holy smoke, hickory.

But it can't be plain old hickory, it has to be green and gathered at midnight under a full moon in early spring, just as things have greened up. Just finding the right green hickory can take a week and at least two bottles of bourbon.

TALES OF cutting hickory sound like Bible stories when some character went out into the wilderness to find God, but instead found a burning bush. He was hungry, so he then killed a goat and put it on the bush, thus discovering barbecue.

Jeff Counts

In a sense, Northern white people are like one of the lost tribes in the Bible when it comes to barbecue.

They went out to the wilderness looking for hickory, got lost and ended up in New England where they became Puritans.

They then wrote the history of America, which didn't include hickory, probably because it tasted too good. And as we all know, WASPs and others of their ilk saw anything that was good as the work of the devil.

BECAUSE THE Puritans wrote the history books, they made a big deal out of Thanksgiving and Plymouth Rock.

Chances are that while the Puritans were starving and begging food from the Indians, Southern whites were living high off the hog in Virginia and the Carolinas eating barbecue.

And that cultural heritage of blandness comes down to us today in suburban Detroit. Even our own cooking writer neglected to mention hickory in a recent story about barbecuing.

PART OF the reason for all this is the racism of WASPs and other folks who picked up their habits.

They're reformers, the descendants of Methodists and the Woman's Christian Temperance League.

They found out that God doesn't scare anybody anymore, so they switched over to health. It's no good to eat smoked ribs, barbecued beef or pork . . . there's too much cholesterol. It's the new religion. A new brand of reformer.

And the brunt of this perverse brand of racism is felt by blacks and Southern whites who have a taste for hickory-smoked meat and grits.

THE IRONY of this is that it comes from health reformers who don't even know a good vegetable. In Michigan, boiled green beans are the only things that pass for vegetables.

Okra, greens, black-eyed peas, turnips and eggplant are, well, you can read folks' minds. They're for black people. Us WASPs prefer our green beans, and skip the bacon in them. It's too sinful . . . somebody might enjoy them. And watermelon. It's only OK to eat if it's in little balls in a fruit salad. Eating it any other way, is, well, the way those people eat it.

(Columnist's note: There's only one real way to eat watermelon. Take a whole melon, cut it in four pieces, lengthwise, add a front or back porch, from which you can spit the seeds, and then put your mouth to the melon and start eating.)

I KNOW this conjures up what some perceive as racial stereotypes about African-Americans, but I can assure you that white people in the South learned to eat watermelon the same way.

On a recent trip to the South, my son became acquainted with a local fellow.

My son lamented that he had gained weight during his stay because of all the barbecue he had eaten. His newfound acquaintance expressed surprise that there was no good barbecue in Michigan, and said: "What do y'all eat?"

The answer was obvious: underdone or overdone hamburgers and hot dogs and boiled green beans.

Now punks have no real reprieve

AS BOY and man, Ricky Smith has been a bad apple. He is spending six to 30 years in prison, courtesy of Oakland Circuit Judge Richard Kuhn and the Michigan Supreme Court.

Underline the word "boy." Smith is now past 40, but his youthful peccadillos came back to haunt him.

The lawless under 17 are handled in juvenile division of probate court. For legal reasons, newspapers don't print the results of probate court proceedings involving juveniles. And for years, the rule in Michigan was that one's juvenile record was "expunged" (erased or torn up) 10 years later, at age 27.

THAT'S NO longer true, as the Supreme Court decided last week. A kid's juvenile record can haunt him many, many years — the moral of this story.

In 1987 Smith was nailed in Pontiac for burglarizing a warehouse. Accepting his guilty plea, Judge Kuhn gave him 3½ to 10 years.

Smith also pleaded guilty to being an habitual offender, fourth offense, and Kuhn gave him six to 10, using Smith's juvenile record to justify the stronger sentence.

Smith's record included: school truancy, driving a stolen vehicle while on probation, riding a bicycle under the influence of alcohol, stealing candy bars, larceny from a building, carrying a knife, violating a curfew, threatening a police officer with a knife, knocking down a woman to steal her purse and running away from reform school.

No action was taken when he was picked up for assault and battery, throwing a pop bottle at a police officer, or breaking into a house.

As an adult he was convicted in 1972 of attempted possession of heroin and placed on two years probation.

When the 1987 conviction occurred, Smith was serving still another sentence.

Smith appealed the six-10 Kuhn allotted him, saying the judge shouldn't have consulted his expunged juvenile record.

Tim Richard

CHARLES LEVIN, reputedly the most liberal justice, wrote the opinion.

The court rule's purpose, said Levin, "is to prevent a juvenile record from becoming an obstacle to educational, social, or employment opportunities."

"When, however, a juvenile offender appears in court again as an adult, his juvenile offense record may be considered in imposing sentence. The law contemplates a differentiation in sentencing between first-time offenders and recidivists, juvenile or adult."

The caste system bothers me. A potential employer, college or father-in-law can't check up on a guy's juvenile record, but a court can.

Levin's opinion was joined by Chief Justice Michael Cavanagh and Justice James Brickley.

THE COURT'S three toughest-on-crime justices — Patricia Boyle, Dorothy Riley and Robert Griffin — concurred but advocated a stiffer attitude toward keeping juvenile records.

They wanted the high court to "create a distinction that allows the probate court to expunge its 'files' and requires it to retain some 'record' of juvenile entries such as it would typically have for case control purposes." In other words, the bulky stuff may be dumped, but an outline record should be maintained.

Michigan law, conservative justices and the liberals all say we should save and use juvenile records to sentence adults. There will be no "kinder, gentler nation" for punks.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional events.

O&E hostile to citizen initiative

To the editor:

Your editorial of May 30 ("Headlee plan lacking support") reveals an ongoing hostility toward citizen participation in Michigan politics. We, the people, through our Michigan constitution, reserve to ourselves the right to initiate laws, call referendums on laws, amend the constitutions, and recall officials. While this editorial page has properly celebrated the best-known first amendment protections in the U.S. Constitution, it has consistently criticized those individuals who exercise an equally legitimate first amendment right: the right to petition their government for redress of grievance.

On May 30 alone, you managed to criticize four different citizen initiatives from four different years: the 1990 Headlee initiative, the 1991 Engler recall, the 1983 Blanchard recall and even the 1978 Headlee constitutional amendment. Last year you twice criticized the "Patterson-Anderson" constitutional amendments and its sponsors. Whatever your views on the merits of these various issues, you should recognize that all these efforts were legitimate, constitutionally sanctioned efforts at citizen involvement. The Headlee amendment has been a particular benefit to Oakland County, which has courageously fought the state government for its fair share of mental health dollars, as guaranteed by the constitutional amendment you term "horrendously complicated."

Oakland County has been the home of many statewide initiatives, including those sponsored by Richard Headlee, Brooks Patterson and myself. Last year alone, over 400,000 signatures were gathered for two tax-cut proposals started in Oakland County, 100,000 which came from our fellow county citizens. Why should our hometown newspapers be so hostile to these efforts?

Finally, your May 30 editorial again misses the point when it states we "should have smelled trouble" when various Lansing officials failed to support our tax cut proposal. Folks, we smelled trouble in Lansing a long time ago. That's why we signed petitions!

Sometimes the worst thing about having a disability is that people meet it before they meet you.

Remember, a person with a disability is a person first. Awareness is the first step towards change.

Everything you need to close down a crackhouse.

The case of The Stanton Park Stand-off.

When crack moved into a row house on a quiet block of Stanton Park in Washington, D.C., folks decided to serve an eviction notice.

They met with police to find out what they could do to keep drugs out of their neighborhood. The cops told them to keep an eye out—to let police know whenever something suspicious happened. They began to notice faces. They wrote down license numbers of strange cars. They noted the times of odd behavior.

They worked with each other. They worked with the police. Armed with field glasses, note pads and telephones, folks kept track of the neighborhood.

Within one month, enough evidence had been gathered. Police moved in. Crack moved out.

Citizen participation beat crime in D.C. It can do the same for you. For more success stories, write The McGruff Files, 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20539-0001.

Faxon leads failed fight against shared school taxes

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Growing suburbs would share their business property tax bases with the rest of the state under a 1992 school aid bill passed by the state Senate but which still must go to the House.

"For years people (outstate) have said we want what you've got," protested Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills. "Now the three big counties will share with the rest of the state because they (outstate) want."

"The cost of living and cost of property are different in the Upper Peninsula. Oakland County housing costs are different from Antrim or Newaygo," Faxon said in a series of protests.

The bill Tuesday was returned to the House, which hadn't included tax base sharing in its version.

THE SENATE Tuesday passed the $3 billion public school aid bill 24-9 with most of the nay votes coming from the tri-county suburbs with out-of-formula school districts.

Voting no were Faxon, Robert Geake, R-Northville, and David Honigsmann, R-West Bloomfield.

Voting yes were Mat Dunaskias, R-Lake Orion, and William Faust, D-Westland. Missing the vote was George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn. On earlier amendments, Hart had voted with Faxon.

Dunaskias switched, supporting Faxon's amendments on non-record roll calls and with the majority later in the day.

Faxon also failed with two other amendments: to strip the bill of provisions requiring busing money for in-district schools of choice, and to restore $50 million in categorical aid for special and bilingual education. His amendments never got more than five to eight votes in the 37-member chamber.

THE BILL was a major victory for Faxon's debating foe, Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, chair of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on K-12 aid.

"This will shift $400 million from the wealthy to the poorer districts over 10 years," said DeGrow, who said he has given up on asking voters for more taxes for equity between rich and poor districts.

The shift would occur in increments of $35 to $40 million a year, he said.

DeGrow said differences between the Senate and House versions likely will be settled in a conference committee — three senators and three representatives. That improves the plan's chance of passage because DeGrow's House counterpart, Rep. James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, also supports tax base sharing.

DeGrow said Gov. John Engler is likely to sign a tax base sharing plan.

Engler was to deliver a special school reform message this spring but deferred it until fall. In an interview with this newspaper, Engler strongly hinted he would support tax base sharing.

IF THE PLAN ever becomes law, all districts would share half the future growth in commercial and industrial property on a regional basis, with the funds being returned to districts on a per-pupil basis.

Residential and farm property would be unaffected. Faxon said it would cost little in built-up districts like Southfield but would hit newer areas like Novi.

"If you happen to be in a growing area, your new growth is not going to you but your neighbors," said Faxon. "Those who have it are gonna keep it, and those who are going to make it in the future will share."

DeGrow admitted that was true but added, "We can't go on the way we are. (Faxon) would have you believe he's the champion of equity. He's the center of the status quo."

FAXON ALSO assailed the way DeGrow's three regions were set up to divide metropolitan business growth:

• Wayne County would be in a district covering the lower two tiers westward to Berrien County in the Lake Michigan fruit belt.

• Oakland would be lumped with Livingston and counties to the northwest, as far north as Gladwin and Clare.

• Macomb's district would include the cornfields of the Thumb, then swing north around Saginaw Bay and take in northern lower Michigan and the UP.

For the current year, DeGrow said, the sharing would amount to about $30 a pupil in all three regions.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the Senate's K-12 aid bill:
• It's a two-year bill. The Legislature has voted to freeze property assessments in 1992, and DeGrow wanted to show districts what the aid picture will look like.

• Overall, there is 5 percent more money in '92 and 4.5 percent more in '93.

• The categorical "recapture" (takeaway) continues at $72 million this year but is eliminated thereafter, to soften the blow for out-of-formula districts.

• Every district would be required to adopt a "schools of choice" plan for parents to select their youngster's schools. It wouldn't be necessary in districts with a single high school. Their busing costs would be covered by the state. DeGrow estimates only 1 percent of parents would exercise choice.

• Six intermediate (county) school districts could volunteer for countywide "choice" plans. DeGrow said small, rural, homogeneous counties like Sanilac are most likely to apply for grants.

Madonna students to take to trails

Madonna University students will be building trails in the Upper Peninsula this summer, after receiving a Youth Environmental Service grant.

Madonna student activity director Kim Gyuran and 17 students will build and maintain trails in the Hiawatha National Forest, Aug. 9-16.

"I wanted to do something to help all of us become more aware of the environment and the little things we can do to preserve it," Gyuran said. "And I wanted to go someplace far enough away that we could focus on our task and not be bogged down with the problems of our city life."

Some of the students are experienced campers, others are not. The site has no public facilities, no showers and is a two-mile hike from the worksite.

Retirement planning class offered

Pre-retirement planning, a seminar for new to longtime workers, is being offered at Schoolcraft College, 6-10 p.m. Monday, June 17.

Starter cookbook great gift

For some odd reason, the Janes Gang is experiencing a bumper crop of graduation, wedding and shower invitations this summer.

To date, the tally is at 12. Knowing the strain this puts on the old checkbook, not to mention the sleepless nights wondering if that check ever cleared, has prompted us to exercise other options for gift giving.

One of those options has given rise to new and innovative gift ideas — and helps us save money in return. Any graduate getting ready to leave the nest, or young couple embarking on a new life together will undoubtedly someday benefit from using a cookbook. Whether it be wondering how long to roast a 12-pound turkey or learning to make a basic white sauce for scalloped potatoes, a good basic starter cookbook has been referenced many a day at our house.

When mentioning starter cookbooks, I'm not speaking of the Wilton Cake Decorating series nor, for that matter, Diana Kennedy's "Art of Mexican Cooking." All kitchens should have at least one copy of either "Joy of Cooking," "The New York Times Cook Book" or "Betty Crocker's Cookbook." There are a few others like "The Fanny Farmer Cookbook" and the epic "Gastronomie," but by far, "Joy," the "Times" and "Betty" have the basics market all sewn up.

IF THERE was one book that by far exceeds its price in sheer use, it would have to be "Joy of Cooking." Billed as "The American household classic all-purpose cookbook," this $15-page collection of recipes, illustrations and cooking tips started out in 1931, is in its 14th printing and is considered "the Bible" among many culinary wizards. This book is, by far, my most referenced cookbook. Everything you ever wanted to cook, from avocados to zucchini, is in this tome, most with very simple directions and easy-to-understand lingo.

"The New York Times Cook Book" by Craig Claiborne is a classic gourmet cookbook that goes one step beyond "Joy of Cooking." It lists more than 1,500 recipes, mostly based on basic gourmet cooking principles. No classy pictures or illustrations, just great gourmet recipes like couscous, seafood gumbo, and a personal favorite gleaned from a local Szechuan restaurant, kung pao chicken.

Claiborne covers every angle from aspic to classic zabaglione. Anyone who learned the basics from Momma will appreciate this revised classic.

Last but certainly not least is "Betty Crocker's Cookbook." First printed in 1969, this loose-leaf, hard-bound book is chock-full of all the basic recipes anyone could ever want. You want a great meatloaf recipe? This book gives you that and five more variations. The how-tos on vegetable soup? It's in here, in addition to tons of nutritional information and simple, easy-to-follow directions. Don't let the basics fool you, though. Just last week I culled the recipe for fried chicken right from page 242 and garnered raves from the Janes Gang.

All these books are available from local booksellers and cost between $20-$30 each. But smart, pennywise shoppers know the books also are available from mail-order book clubs. That's how I got mine, and they didn't cost me a cent.

MANY BOOK clubs are offering freebies with minimal purchase requirements. Interested in joining a book club? Pick up any food magazine and the advertisements almost jump out at you. Sure, you're inundated with requests to buy more books throughout the year but anyone who is a foodie can appreciate saving 20-30 percent on basic cookbooks.

If you are interested in classic gifts that never go out of style, as much as you are interested in saving money, then book clubs may be just what you need.

A Father's Day

CLAM BAKE

By Jennifer L. Hill
special writer

WHEN YOU think of Father's Day dinner, the first thing that comes to mind is a nice thick, juicy steak cooking on the grill accompanied by a piping hot baked potato filled with sour cream and chives.

Why not surprise Dad with a non-traditional Father's Day meal — a clam bake — and still keep most of the cooking outdoors?

This New England tradition of steaming fresh seafood in seaweed is usually done over hot rocks in a pit dug in the sand at the seashore.

However, many of us in Michigan do not have access to sandy beaches, ocean beaches for that matter, and local park authorities may not allow for open fires on the beach to prepare this seaside supper.

Here is a clam bake that can be done in most coal-burning grills.

This method of cooking is so informal that everyone can take part in the preparation.

THERE IS a lot to do, ranging from the most tedious chore to the simplest of tasks. Everything from shopping to prep work and the actual cooking can be divided among all members of the family.

Those tasks that require little or no supervision can be done by the youngest members of the family, ages 2-6. Small hands are perfect for:

- Scrubbing clams and potatoes, removing the silk from the corn, leaving the husk, and peeling the onions.
- Assembling the cheesecloth bundles with vegetables and shellfish.
- Watching the lobsters. What child is not fascinated by a live lobster?

Mid-size helpers, ages 7-10, can perform tasks with minimal supervision. These tasks include:

- Cutting cheesecloth squares to make bundles.
- Helping to assemble the bundles.
- Lining the bottom of the grill rack with aluminum foil, assisted by little hands.
- Lining the rack with the seaweed or well-soaked corn husks to lay the foundation of the clam bake.
- Arranging the cheesecloth bundles and corn atop the seaweed or well-soaked corn husks to lay the foundation of the clam bake.

- Arranging the cheesecloth bundles and corn atop the seaweed, leaving enough room in the center of the grill to place the lobster. The remaining seaweed can then be spread over top.
- Setting the table with newspaper and plenty of paper towels.

Teens and adults should provide supervision of younger children and handle all of the actual grilling such as:

- Building and lighting the coals for the bake.
- Placing the foil-lined rack into the grill over hot coals.
- Opening the vents halfway.
- Removing the finished product.

ONCE THE lid is closed, the bake begins, leaving plenty of time to prepare the remainder of the meal.

Little ones can make sun tea in a large covered pitcher once their tasks are completed and while the main course cooks. Coleslaw is a great accompaniment for a clam bake. Younger ones can help to prepare this.

A CLAMBAKE traditionally is made up of an assortment of shellfish, but for those who are not fond of shellfish include some alternatives such as chicken or smoked sausage. Just make a cheesecloth bundle for these alternatives and place it on the bed of seaweed.

To complete your clam bake, be sure to serve plenty of melted butter for dipping your lobster, clams, corn and potatoes. Lemon and hot pepper sauces also add flavor to the seafood.

Provide nutcrackers for your diners to get into the lobster shells, and have bowls for discarded shells.

Cap off the meal with a fruit pizza, made with fresh seasonal fruit — a dessert I'm sure Dad will love.

With organization and preparation, this Father's Day will be remembered for a long time to come, and isn't Dad worth it!

Note: Ask your local fishmonger, such as Superior Fish Market in Royal Oak, to supply seaweed for clam bakes. If the market doesn't have seaweed, corn husks may be used as an alternative.

Elegance and fun: enjoying American cuisine

JIM RIDER
staff photographer

that leans more toward the fun than the stuffy.

Where else can you go to get spring-fresh morel mushrooms in abundance on appetizers and entrees, while sharing dessert and a decidedly off-key rendition of happy birthday with the chef and his family? Pike Street.

The open, airy dining room is the perfect backdrop for Chef Brian Polcyn's American cuisine. A quiet charm underscores the restaurant setting, but the feeling is one of a well-run establishment that doesn't need showiness to present excellent food in a thoroughly enjoyable setting.

Polcyn said his aim is to provide the customer with high-quality service and food and let the dining experience take care of itself. He meets his goal superbly.

THE WELL-SPACED tables allow diners the privacy that so many restaurants lack. The starched-shirted tuxedo-clad waiters are knowledgeable, attentive and agreeable, with no sense of rushing diners. They also lack the condescending manner so in vogue in many expensive restaurants today.

Polcyn said 40-50 percent of his wait staff is career employees.

But it is the food that truly carries the day at this restaurant. Polcyn has been at Pike Street for four years after cooking at the Lark and the Golden Mushroom. His menu is filled with foods of the season. On a recent dinner trip that meant the special Michigan morel mushroom, and Vidalia onions. Later in the season, as tomatoes and corn begin to sprout, diners will find them readily apparent in specials.

"I use as many products as possible that are indigenous to the area. We also try to use other regional seasonal specialties," Polcyn said. The chef makes the menu up daily and plans to use the freshest seasonings and produce available that day.

Pike Street has a base menu that includes a fresh water fish, ocean fish, shell fish, duck dish, capon, veal, game special and beef dish. While the grilled yellowfin tuna on braised fennel with tomato and artichoke heart ragout and the roast rack of lamb in herb crust with a cabernet sauvignon sauce are very good, the specials of the day should not be ignored.

Appetizers offer the diner a range of possibilities, including a hot homemade pasta, morel mushrooms with shallots, sherry and cream and a wonderfully tart and fresh marinated gulf shrimp with cracked wheat salad and saffron gaufrette potatoes.

SALADS ARE crisp and appropriately sized to complement, not overwhelm the dinner.

A recent visit found a char-broiled halibut with red pepper broth and broiled saffron rice to be one of freshest fish dishes tasted in a long time. The piquant quality of the sauce and the tender, flaky white fish was a creative change.

According to Polcyn, this special was one of the restaurant's "Cuisine Naturales." Each day at lunch and dinner, the chef prepares a special dish that uses no salt, butter, cream and a limited wine reduction method.

"This is a great challenge for a chef," Polcyn said. "To create something that really sparkles using none of these items is a challenge."

For those willing to let a little beef cross the palate, a special of beef tournedos with a morel mushroom sauce melted in the mouth. This was served with a fettuccine side dish featuring a fresh summer truffles sauce.

Special note must be paid to the superb wine list offered at Pike Street. Wines range in price from around $25 on up and offer some of the best and least pedestrian selections in the area.

CREAMY CUCUMBER SALAD
 1/2 cup plain yogurt or mayonnaise or salad dressing
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon dried dill weed
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 2 medium cucumbers, sliced thin
 1 small onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings

Mix all ingredients. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours. Serves 7.
 From: "Betty Crocker's Cookbook," Golden Press, 1986

GRILLED TUNA WITH HERBS
 Four 1-inch-thick tuna steaks
 Salt and fresh ground pepper to taste
 1/4 cup olive oil
 1 tablespoon minced garlic
 1 teaspoon chopped thyme or 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
 1 teaspoon fresh grated lemon rind
 1/4 teaspoon hot red pepper flakes
 2 tablespoons butter
 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Preheat an outdoor grill or preheat the oven broiler to high. Sprinkle the tuna with salt and pepper. Combine the oil, garlic, thyme, lemon rind and red pepper flakes. Mix well and brush the mixture all over the fish. Scrape the remaining mixture into a saucepan and add butter and lemon juice. If the fish is to be cooked on an outdoor grill, place the pieces directly on the grill. Cook, turning often, 5-6 minutes. If it is to be cooked under a broiler, place the fish in a dish about 2 inches from the broiler. Leave the broiler door partly open. Let cook 3 minutes and turn. Cook the other side 2-3 minutes. Place the tuna steaks on individual plates or on a platter. Heat the oil and butter mixture and pour it over the fish.

BEEF GREENS
 Beet greens may be prepared like spinach. If you are serving the greens with the beets, put the beets in a ring and serve the greens in the center, dressed with melted butter and garnished with horseradish sauce.
 Heat in a frying pan: 2 tablespoons butter or cooking oil
 Add and simmer until tender: 2 cups cooked, chopped beet greens
 1 teaspoon grated onion
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 tablespoon prepared mustard
 1 tablespoon grated horseradish
 Remove from the heat and add: 1/2 cup cultured sour cream

You can pressure cook beet greens 3 minutes at 15 pounds.

A Father's Day Clambake

See related story, Page 1B.

BACKYARD CLAMBAKE
 Plenty of damp seaweed (corn husks soaked in water may be used instead.)
 Cheesecloth cut into 12 large squares
 String
 Charcoal
 6 new potatoes, scrubbed
 6 small onions, peeled
 6 ears of corn, husks
 Six 1 1/4-pound lobsters
 3 dozen soft clams, scrubbed

Place the potatoes in a medium-size saucepan and add enough water to cover. Bring to a boil. Add onions and cook for 10 to 12 minutes more and remove from water. Meanwhile, prepare the grill by covering bottom rack with foil. Add enough charcoal to the bottom of the grill to sustain a long-burning fire. Once coals are fiery red spread them to get an even heating base. Place foil rack on top. Place 12 clams in the center of a cheesecloth square and bring opposite sides of the square together and tie cheesecloth with string forming a bundle. Repeat with remainder of clams and vegetables.

Place 3 to 4 inches of seaweed or corn husks on foil-covered rack. Lay cheesecloth bundles and corn on bed of seaweed, leaving enough room in the center of the bed for the lobster.

Cover seafood and vegetables with remainder of seaweed. Open vents on the grill halfway. Close lid of grill. Check clams after 15 minutes. If shells have popped open, serve and leave remainder of food on grill, covered with seaweed. Cook until lobster turns bright red and corn is tender, about 2 hours.

Remove food from grill using tongs or heatproof mitts and arrange on platter to serve. Serves 6.

COLESLAW
 1/4 cup white wine vinegar
 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
 1 teaspoon sugar
 1/2 cup oil
 Salt to taste
 1 small head of green cabbage, cleaned and shredded
 2 carrots, grated
 1/4 small red onion, minced
 1/2 cup water chestnuts, julienneed

Whisk together vinegar, Dijon mustard and seasonings in a small bowl. Whisk in oil. Add salt to taste. Mix together vegetables in serving bowl and toss with vinaigrette. Chill, tightly covered, until ready to serve. Serves 6.

FRUIT PIZZA
 1 package ready-made refrigerator

Sugar Cookie dough
 8 ounces cream cheese, softened
 5 tablespoons confectioner's sugar
 4 teaspoons lemon juice
 Assortment of seasonal fruits
 1 cup apple jelly

Into a pizza pan press cookie dough, forming one large cookie. Bake according to direction. Cool completely.

In a medium mixing bowl, cream together cream cheese, confectioner's sugar and lemon juice. Spread cream cheese mixture over cooled cookie. Cut and arrange desired amount of fruit on top of cream cheese.

In a small saucepan melt apple jelly. Brush melted jelly over fruit covering entire pizza.

Refrigerate pizza until ready to serve. Serves 12.

ANTIPASTO CORNBREAD
 created by Joyce Ferguson of Rochester Hills, has been named first-prize winner in the Breads and Coffee Cakes category of Quaker Cornmeal's recent "Contemporary Classics" Recipe Contest.

Four easy-to-prepare recipes each were selected for $1,000 first prizes. The annual search for recipes prepared with Quaker corn meal drew nearly 30 percent more entries than in previous years.

Ferguson's recipe combines traditional corn bread flavor with the Italian-style additions of pepperoni, olives, cheese, bell peppers, basil and oregano. The versatile bread may be baked in a baking pan, a cast iron skillet or in muffin pans.

ANTIPASTO CORNBREAD
 1 cup Quaker Corn Meal
 1 cup all-purpose flour
 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup plain low-fat yogurt
 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine, melted
 2 eggs, slightly beaten
 1/2 cup chopped pepperoni
 One 2 1/4 ounce can (1/2 cup) diced ripe olives, drained
 1/2 cup shredded provolone or mozzarella cheese
 1/2 cup seeded, chopped tomato
 1 tablespoon fresh chopped basil or 1 teaspoon dried basil
 1/4 teaspoon dried oregano leaves.

Ferguson's recipe combines traditional corn bread flavor with the Italian-style additions of pepperoni, olives, cheese, bell peppers, basil and oregano.

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Grease nine-by-nine-inch baking pan or 10-inch cast iron skillet. Combine corn meal, flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; mix well. Combine milk, yogurt, margarine and eggs;

stir until smooth. Add combined pepperoni, olives, cheese, tomato and herbs; mix well. Blend into dry ingredients, mixing just until moistened. Spread into prepared pan. Bake 22 to 25 minutes or until deep golden brown. Cool 10 minutes in pan on wire rack. Nine servings.

Variation: For muffins, grease 12 3-inch muffin cups or line with paper baking cups. Prepare batter as recipe directs; fill prepared muffin cups 3/4 full. Bake 16 to 18 minutes or until deep golden brown.

Indonesian Chicken can surprise 'old Dad'

With Father's Day coming up Sunday, this week's Winner Dinner offers a menu that is sure to be a hit with "old Dad" and the rest of the family as well.

In addition to being a confirmed family favorite, it is a perfect summertime meal and a change of pace from the ubiquitous summer stand-by, grilled steak and baked potato.

So be adventurous, take your taste buds on a trip and try something different.

Beth Sheehan of Birmingham submitted a menu that includes a recipe for Indonesian Chicken Kebabs.

What sets this chicken dish apart from others is the scrumptious marinade that has peanut butter and chili sauce in its list of ingredients.

Served with a cold rice salad and finished off with an ice cream pie topped with your choice of favorite candy bars, it promises to be a meal that will truly make Dad's day.

THIS HAPPENS to be a banner week for Sheehan, who not only is this week's Winner Dinner Winner but tomorrow celebrates her 14th wedding anniversary.

The busy mother of three young children, Sheehan is a woman of many talents.

An avid sailor and tennis player, she is owner of Estates, Etc., a business that conducts household and estate liquidations as well as appraisals.

Originally started by her mother, the business was taken over by Sheehan two years ago upon her mother's retirement.

SHEEHAN'S LIFE, like that of many mothers, revolves around her children, shuttling them back and forth from their activities and lessons.

She will have help this summer, though. An English girl is coming over to work as a mother's helper for two months.

Sheehan's 10-year-old daughter is especially looking forward to the helper's arrival and is fascinated by the prospect of getting to know someone from another country.

Thank you, Beth Sheehan, for sharing your delicious recipes with us, and congratulations on being selected this week's Winner Dinner Winner. Happy anniversary to you and your husband, Tim, and best

INDONESIAN CHICKEN KEBABS
SPINACH AND RICE SALAD
CANDY BAR PIE

INDONESIAN CHICKEN KEBABS

You will love the flavor of the marinade that makes these chicken kebabs so tasty. Easy to make up in advance, it is a terrific summer dinner. This recipe serves 6.

- 6 boneless chicken breasts, cut into chunks
- 1 red pepper, cut into chunks
- 1 green pepper, cut into chunks
- 6 metal or bamboo shish kebabs

MARINADE

- 1 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 cup chili sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon cayenne
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup soy sauce
- 3 tablespoons garlic, minced
- 8 green onions, finely chopped

Marinate the chicken chunks in the sauce for 12 to 24 hours. Skewer them on a shish kebabs, alternating the meat and the peppers. Broil or grill them slowly over a low fire, turning them frequently and basting with extra sauce as needed. A word of caution: be careful to not let the kebabs catch on fire as they will get charred rather than be cooked through.

SPINACH AND RICE SALAD

A delicious accompaniment to the Indonesian Chicken, this salad is easy to make and a refreshing change of taste. This recipe serves 6 to 8.

- 1 cup rice, uncooked
- 1/2 cup Italian dressing
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 2 cups fresh spinach, torn into bite-sized pieces
- 1/2 cup celery, chopped
- 1/2 cup green onions, chopped
- 1/2 cup bacon, cooked and crumbled

Cook the rice according to package directions. Cool slightly. In a separate bowl, combine the dressing, soy sauce and the sugar. Stir into the warm rice. Cover and chill. Add the remaining ingredients before serving.

CANDY BAR PIE

- 1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened
- 5 assorted favorite candy bars
- Chocolate sauce
- Whipped topping
- 1 ready-made chocolate pie crust

Soften the ice cream. Crumble the candy bars, reserving some of each

FRUGAL GOURMET

Jeff Smith of the PBS-TV series "The Frugal Gourmet" will sign copies of his five cookbooks from 3:30-5:30 p.m. Friday at the Cargo Express Store in downtown Farmington.

Smith's appearance will include discussions about cooking, as well as book signing.

"It really is a coup for us and for Farmington," said Tim Hopkins, president of Cargo Express. "He doesn't make many appearances. He's only making three appearances this year."

"The Frugal Gourmet" is the highest-rated cooking show ever, viewed by some 15 million people each week. The show has been on television since the 1970s and is now carried on 225 stations.

Before becoming a celebrity, Smith was a chaplain at his alma mater, the University of Puget Sound at Tacoma, Wash.

How to pick out nutritious cereal

A stroll down the supermarket breakfast cereal aisle can be a challenge to the most informed shopper. Health pledges, great taste, cereal fun, toys and promises of athletic prowess stated on the boxes add to the confusion of seeking a nutritious breakfast for children and adults.

Cereal provides several nutritional benefits. It is a good source of carbohydrates, which gives us energy (calories) to start the day. Getting energy from a carbohydrate source low in fat, such as cereal, is one way to lower fat in the diet. If you're concerned about blood cholesterol levels, focus on the fat in the milk. For anyone over the age of 2, use skim or 1 percent milk rather than whole milk. When a cereal is fortified, that provides an excellent source of iron, and many women frequently have diets low in iron.

Advertisements have done a good job confusing the fiber issue in cold cereals. There are two types of fiber, soluble and insoluble. Oat bran is a source of soluble fiber. Wheat bran is a source of insoluble fiber. We need both soluble and insoluble fiber in our diets. Information is available about the insoluble fiber content of foods. Unfortunately, scientists have not developed tables that tell us the amount of soluble fiber in foods. However, we do know generally, oat bran, rice bran, dried beans and peas, and some fruits and vegetables are good sources of soluble fiber.

Many cereal companies would have us believe that their cereal products are the key to lowering cholesterol. Though there is truth to the claim that cereals may help lower cholesterol, the amount we would need to eat to achieve this is incredible. If oat bran were your only source of soluble fiber, you would have to have 100 grams of it each day to lower your cholesterol by 15 percent.

ONE SERVING of a popular cereal that advertises it contains oat bran has only 8 grams of oat bran per serving. This means you would have to eat about 15 cups of that cereal to get 100 grams of oat bran. If you are serious about lowering cholesterol, it would be better to add oat bran to various foods that you cook, besides a cooked cereal made from oats, rather than to rely on a cold cereal.

Insoluble fiber in whole grain cereals is important to help prevent constipation. Some nutrition scientist believe that insoluble fiber may have a role in helping to decrease risk of colon cancer. The National Research Council, the American Cancer Society and the National Institute for Cancer Research recommends that we obtain between 20 and 30 grams of fiber a day. Children's cold cereals are generally not a good source of fiber, despite what the box claims. Rather than rely on cold cereal for fiber, give them high fiber foods such as beans, fresh fruits and vegetables and whole grain breads throughout the day to ensure adequate fiber intake.

Another cereal-related issue is the amount of sugar that cold cereals contain. This may be especially important when children are eating several bowls of cereal each day. Try to choose a cereal that has no more than one to two teaspoons of sugar (4 to 8 grams sucrose indicated on the label per serving).

If your child likes to add sugar to cereal, then the lower the sugar in the cereal to begin with, the better. There is nothing wrong with a cereal containing some sugar, but whether and how much additional sugar you add is important.

To figure out the amount of sugar in the product, divide grams of sugar by four to determine the number of teaspoons per serving. For example, if one serving provides two grams that equal one-half teaspoon sugar, or if one serving contains 11 grams, that is two and three-fourths teaspoons of sugar.

READ THE LABEL on the box carefully if you are interested in assessing nutrition value. Look at the actual volume measure in cups that correspond to the one-ounce serving size.

Try Grilled Pepper Steaks for Supper

This recipe is from an article "A Delicious Weekend" in the June issue of Bon Appetit magazine.

GRILLED PEPPERED STEAKS

Offer with steamed green beans as part of supper Friday night. A rich Cabernet Sauvignon is a perfect accompaniment.

8 servings
 ¼ cup olive oil
 ¼ cup red wine vinegar
 4 ½ tablespoons Dijon mustard
 4 large garlic cloves, minced
 2 large shallots or green onions, chopped

1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon coarse-grained black pepper
 1 tablespoon minced fresh thyme or 1 teaspoon dried, crumbled
 1 tablespoon minced fresh rosemary or 1 teaspoon dried, crumbled
 1 teaspoon salt
 3 flank steaks (about 1 ¼ pounds each)
 Fresh thyme sprigs
 Fresh rosemary sprigs

Whisk first 9 ingredients in medium bowl to blend. Place steaks in single layer in large baking dish. Pour marinade over and turn steaks to coat. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Prepare barbecue (medium-high heat). Remove steaks from marinade and season all sides generously with pepper. Grill steaks to desired doneness, about 4 minutes per side for medium-rare. Thinly slice steaks diagonally across grain. Arrange slices on platter. Garnish platter with thyme and rosemary sprigs and serve.

Pike Street and Chimayo give recipes

Here are two recipes from chef Brian Polcyn of the Pike Street Restaurant and of Chimayo, both Pontiac restaurants under the same ownership.

The two restaurants participated in the recent La Fete au Jardin at the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center in Farmington Hills.

SAUTE PICKEREL WITH HAZELNUT CRUST (Recipe from Pike Street)

Yields 6 servings
 6-8 ounces fillets of pickerel
 ½ cup hazelnuts
 ¼ cup breadcrumbs
 2 eggs
 ¼ cup milk
 Salt
 Pepper

Skin and bone fillets. Roast hazelnuts, grind in Cuisinart, add to bread crumbs. Make egg wash. Dip fish in egg wash, pack on crust. Saute over medium heat. Do not blacken. Finish in oven.

CHEVRE AND CHIMAYO CHILE CHEESECAKE

1 pound chevre
 ¼ cup Chimayo chile paste
 2 eggs
 2 teaspoons shallots
 ¼ cup cream
 Salt
 Pepper
 1 tablespoon cornstarch

Whip chevre and chile paste together in mixer fitted with a paddle. Add all other ingredients. Mix until smooth. Pour into greased sheet pan. Bake at 325 degrees about 25 minutes or until set. Allow to cool. Cut into squares. Serve warm.

Mumm's the word in Napa Valley

Around the country, Mumm Napa Valley wines are making more than mere splashes in champagne glasses. In 1986, Mumm Napa Valley made a modest debut with 10,000 cases of its non-vintage Mumm Cuvee Napa. Today, it is still considered among California's newest methode champenoise sparkling wine producers but one of the top sellers, producing slightly more than 100,000 cases after only five years.

Mumm Napa Valley is a joint venture between the Champagne house of G.H. Mumm & Cie. of Reims, France and the Seagram Classics Wine Co. Classics, a premier producer and marketer of fine wines, also owns and manages Sterling Vineyards and the Monterey Vineyard. It also imports and markets Champagne Mumm.

"While it carries the name of its prestigious parent company, at Mumm Valley we're not trying to make an expression of a French product," said winemaker Greg Fowler. "Mumm Napa Valley is a fruit-oriented style of sparkling wine."

"In any non-vintage sparkling wine, such as our Brut Prestige, the house style must dominate. Ours is an artistic expression of California fruit. We source from 56 vineyards and contract with 34 growers to produce the Mumm-Napa Valley style. For other wines in the product line, the vineyard or the vintage can be staged."

THIS WAS DONE exceptionally well in 1989 when Mumm Napa Valley introduced the country's first vineyard-designated sparkling wine, Winery Lake sparkling wine," said Fowler. "In this wine, the plurality of pinot noir (60 percent) offers the backbone. The chardonnay (40 percent) adds zest and livens the overall presentation."

"Each year, this vineyard-designated release represents both the character of the vintage and the expression of the vineyard."

The proof of Fowler's statement is immediately perceived when the

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

Mumm Napa Valley Brut Prestige ($17) showcases ripe, fragrant fruit aromas over gentle toastiness. It offers a full palate impression of flavorful fruit with a lengthy finish. It is a blend of 60 percent pinot noir, 33 percent chardonnay, 5 percent pinot meunier with pinot gris as the balance. The latter, albeit small percentage, adds a spice element to the nose and sets the house style apart. This sparkler will please those toasting the bride, celebrating a June anniversary, or simply enjoying the gift of friendship.

1987 Winery Lake sparkling wine ($24) is assessed. It was a relatively cool vintage in 1987 — just what grapes destined for sparkling wine need. They maintain their vibrant acidity while developing full aromas and flavors.

The top of the line packaging from Mumm Napa Valley is the Vintage Reserve, made only in years exhibiting special qualities. Current release is the 1987 Vintage Reserve ($24). It is lean, streamlined, elegant and finesseful. "I'm extremely pleased with this wine," said Fowler. "I think we got it just right."

What's next? "We made a 1989 cuvee," Fowler said. "But I'm not sure yet, if it will be released as a Vintage Reserve or not."

While Fowler said that his product is not an imitation of a French champagne, it must be noted that the company's president and chef de caves Guy Devaux was born in Epernay, in the heart of France's Champagne district. Devaux has devoted more than 40 years to creating fine still and sparkling wines in France and the United States.

In 1960, Devaux came to the United States to work at Gold Seal Winery in Hammondsport, in New York

Finger Lakes. Gold Seal was a pioneer in the production of sparkling wines. In 1979, Devaux drew on his sparkling wine knowledge and became involved in the development of Mumm Napa Valley.

Rocks' reward Salem wins regional baseball title

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

With a possible regional championship just three outs away, the Plymouth Salem baseball team gathered in front of its dugout midway in the seventh inning Saturday.

The Rocks wanted to make sure they shut the door on Redford Catholic Central, especially in light of CC's come-from-behind win over No. 1-ranked Dearborn earlier in the day.

Salem succeeded in the smaller mission to achieve the greater goal of winning its first regional title since 1983 with a 5-3 victory over the Shamrocks in the final of the Class A tournament at Wyandotte.

While the Rocks eliminated the host Bears 4-0 behind another one-hitter by Scott Rodgers in their first game, CC rallied in the bottom of the seventh inning to upset Dearborn 6-4 on Bob Kummer's three-run homer.

"We had our little team meeting before the inning started and that's exactly what I said," Salem coach John Gravin said. "CC has lived with its last at-bat the entire state tournament. But not today — and Eric Nielson saw to that."

AFTER ISSUING his only walk in 2½ innings of solid relief, Nielson, a relief specialist who earned his first victory, got clean-up hitter Dan Gusoff to pop out to first baseman Tom Davey for the final out.

"We had the right guy up there, too," CC coach John Salter said. "If anybody is strong enough to hit a home run, Gusoff is the one."

"We were still hopeful (in the seventh). Baseball is a funny game. In the state tournament, it's pretty hard to get that last out."

The No. 6-rated Rocks (25-6) advance to the state semifinals for the first time in Gravin's eight-year tenure and will play Grosse Pointe North at 1 p.m. Friday in Battle Creek. The Shamrocks finish with a Tom Davey was safe in the sixth inning Saturday, sliding under CC catcher Jason Mahoney to score the go-ahead run in Salem's 5-3 victory.

21-14 record, Dearborn 25-3 and Wyandotte 15-10.

"This is the greatest day in my coaching career," Gravin said. "You know your team is good when you turn the game over to them and they respond."

Nielson did that when he replaced starter Scott Belisle after CC tied the score (3-3) in the fifth. He retired the next two batters to end the inning, and he allowed only one hit while striking out four in his relief appearance.

"IF WE COULD get to the fifth with Jeff, we were going to come with Eric because he's a good 3-4 inning kind of guy," Gravin said. "He has a breaking ball we call The Beast, and he has five pitches — the only guy on our staff who does."

"He had gotten knocked around by CC (when Salem lost to the Shamrocks early in the season), but it wasn't his fault. We booted the ball and Gusoff hit one out."

Salter was a frequent visitor to the mound as he made five pitching changes, using Scott Kapla, the winner in the first game, three different times. Steve Ross, the starter and loser, made two appearances and Kummer one.

Ross began the fourth, but Salem took a 3-1 lead with nobody out. Kapla shut down the Rocks for two innings and was replaced by Ross in the sixth, at which time Salem scored the winning run.

Kevin Craggs hit a fly ball to center field, and Tom Davey scored from second with the help of an error at the plate. The Rocks added an insurance run in the seventh on Rodgers' RBI single.

"With the 30-out or 10-inning rule, (Kapla) only had one inning left when we tied it," Salter said. "So we were hoping to get through the sixth with Ross, get a run and bring back Kapla."

Scott Kennedy was drafted by the Detroit Tigers but was expected to pass on playing professional baseball at this time.

Kennedy leans toward college instead of pros

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Scott Kennedy achieved the goal of every baseball player when he was selected in the Major League draft last week.

But the Plymouth Canton pitcher, who was taken by the Detroit Tigers in the 35th round, more than likely will pass up the chance to play professionally at the present time.

Kennedy was leaning at the end of last week toward playing college baseball and the chance to improve his situation in future drafts.

With that in mind, his likely choice was Henry Ford Community College, because junior college players can be drafted again the next year. The Tigers will retain the rights to Kennedy until the 1992 draft.

A player who attends a four-year school can't be selected again until his junior year. The 6-foot-4, 205-pound senior said he has been offered scholarships from Bowling Green State University and the University of Michigan.

THE RIGHT-handed Kennedy, who was 10-4 with nearly 150 strikeouts in 84 innings for the Chiefs, spent Thursday evening hearing advice from Brian Stemberger, a former Canton and Eastern Michigan University standout who was drafted by the Toronto Blue Jays in 1979.

"He said 'If you think you have the shot, go for it; but if you want an education and want to wait a year and try to move up, go to school,'" Kennedy said. "He told me I could only go up in the draft. The only way I could go down is if I hurt my arm or drop out of school."

Stemberger used former EMU pitcher Bob Welch, who has enjoyed a lengthy Major League career with the Los Angeles Dodgers and Oakland Athletics as an example of someone who waited and benefitted. Welch was drafted in the 28th round as a college junior but waited and went in the second round the next year.

"The only thing wrong with going to a junior college is what if I get drafted next year in the 25th round?" Kennedy said. "Do I wait another year and try to improve myself or do I sign? Brian said 'If that's too much pressure, maybe you should go to a four-year school.'"

Kennedy was expected to be drafted in one of the first 15 rounds, according to some accounts, so there was some surprise when he didn't go until later.

There was supposedly a rumor circulating among the pro scouts that Kennedy wouldn't sign unless he received a six-figure offer. Speculation was the pro backed off on Kennedy as an early-round selection because of it. Dennis Kennedy, Scott's father, said the rumor was untrue.

DENNIS KENNEDY said he asked Tigers scout Clyde Weir about the rumor but said he was "very evasive." Kennedy, however, doubted the pros were influenced by that, because another highly-touted high school pitcher, Ray Ricken of Harper Woods Notre Dame, wasn't drafted until the 34th round, also by the Tigers.

Lally comes home to fight after 8 years

By Brad Emons
staff writer

If there's such a thing as a home field or home court advantage, then Brett Lally certainly is banking on something called the "home ring" when he takes on Anthony "Hard Puncher" Ivory of Chicago in a scheduled 10-rounder Tuesday at Laurel Manor Conference Center in Livonia.

Lally, the Westland John Glenn High product, is the reigning North American Boxing Federation's junior middleweight champ fighting before the home crowd for the first time in eight years.

"Brett's basically been training hard and he's hyped up," said brother Bradd, his manager and trainer. "We're both excited. It's the first time he's been here since 1983 (Nov. 30)."

Lally, 28-5 with 18 knockouts, is 11-1 as a junior middleweight (154 pounds) since his two-year layoff in 1985-86.

The bout against Ivory (9-2), headlines a six-bout professional card, which gets under way at 8 p.m.

LALLY, of course, is the feature attraction in the non-title bout along with Michigan junior lightweight champ Erskine Wade (18-6-1), who will face Carl Griffiths (15-2-1) of Lorain, Ohio in another feature bout (eight rounds).

Also on the card is undefeated welterweight Jeff Styers (9-0), the Wayne Memorial High product who will take on Donald Tucker (1-4) of Milwaukee, Wis. in a four-rounder.

Heavyweight Kermit Fitzpatrick, the Michigan State trooper who made his mark as an amateur with the Livonia Boxing Club, will face Chicagoan Robert Smith in another four-rounder.

Smith is making his pro debut along with Waterford's Tom Lamphere, a light heavyweight who will face Keith Williams (1-1) of Chicago.

Sparring two weeks ago with Livonia Franklin High product Vince Hopper (14-4), Lamphere caught the heavyweight with a surprise shot to the nose.

Hopper, who was scheduled to take on Scott Pliner of Milwaukee in a six-rounder, was forced out due to surgery (deviated septum).

Junior middleweight Kevin Whally-El, meanwhile, is also scheduled to appear against an opponent yet to be named.

"WE'VE SOLD a lot of tickets," Bradd Lally said. "I can't really say, but I expect anywhere from 1,100 to 1,500 (fans)."

The Laurel Manor, located at 39000 Schoolcraft, can accommodate upwards of 1,900. Tickets are $25 ringside and $15 general admission (available at Ticketmaster outlets by calling 645-6666).

Lally, ranked No. 3 by the World Boxing Council, No. 7 by the International Boxing Federation and No. 10 in the WBA, will defend his NABF title Aug. 6 in San Francisco against hometown Pat Lawlor (scheduled to be telecast on the USA Cable Network).

"If we get by Lawlor and Tuesday (against Ivory), then I think Brett deserves a world title shot," said Bradd. "Both fights are going to be tough fights, but Brett is ready."

The Lally's ultimate goal is to face Terry Norris, recent conqueror of Sugar Ray Leonard and Donald Curry (the only man to defeat Lally since 1984); IBF champ Gianfranco Rossi of Italy or WBA champ Gilbert DeLe of France.

Norris recently defeated Curry.

"That's good from our standpoint," Bradd said. "Brett wanted another crack at Curry for personal reasons, but with Norris winning, it moves us closer to our ultimate goal."

The doors open at 6 p.m. Tuesday. Call 348-6491 for more information.

Rocks solid under coach Balconi

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

GARY BALCONI, who led Plymouth Salem to three invitational titles and the Western Lakes Activities Association championship, is the Observerland Coach of the Year.

Balconi also doubles as the school's athletic director.

The Rocks were the top team in the area during a year not highlighted by many stars at any state meets. Salem won the Observerland, Elks and Tiger relays, and also took the WLAAs Lakes Division crown.

Only three performers from Observerland placed in the state meet, but the all-area team is still well represented. Following are profiles on each member of the first team.

FIELD EVENTS

Tony Shaieb, shot put, Farmington Harrison: Shaieb leaves Harrison with a school-record shot put of 52-feet, 10 1/2 inches. A WLAAs champ this spring, Shaieb also had the best throw in three years at the Observerland Relays. Shaieb qualified the last two years for the Class B state meet and this spring took third at regional.

"Tony was an extremely coachable young man," coach John Schumacher said. "He showed great dedication and had an outstanding work ethic."

Dean Benedict, discus, Plymouth Canton: Benedict made enormous strides his senior year, setting a school record at the Class A meet with a toss of 165-7 for third place. His best toss in 1990 was 148-3. Benedict won the WLAAs crown last year, and took second this spring with a toss of 150-0. He was first at the Class A regional at 154-0. Benedict scored 181 points for the Chiefs.

He is headed for Eastern Michigan University.

"Dean is an excellent example of how hard work and dedication helps you reach your goals in life," coach Bob Richardson said. "For only throwing as a junior and senior Dean made fabulous progress."

Randy Calcaterra, high jump, Churchill: Calcaterra's springs have helped him in two sports. A first-team member of the All-Observer basketball team, Calcaterra also is the area's best high jumper. He won the WLAAs meet, clearing 6-6, four inches higher than any other competitor. He was second in the Class A regional at 6-1. He cleared 6-3 at the state meet.

His best jump this spring was four inches better than his best from last year. Calcaterra has signed a letter of intent to play basketball at Wayne State University.

"He is very coachable and a great student-athlete to work with," coach Fred Price said. "I don't think you can find a nicer young man in sports today."

Leon Hister, long jump, Plymouth Salem: Hister leaped at least 20 feet 10 times this season, including a 21-3/4 effort which won the WLAAs meet. A two-time WLAAs champion, Hister finished second in the event as a freshman. Hister also is the lead-off man on the Chiefs' 400-meter relay team.

"Leon is a great all-around athlete who is very coachable," Balconi said.

Al Barbarich, pole vault, Catholic Central: Barbarich, a senior, won the Class A regional with a clearance of 13-5. He placed third at the Oxford Invitational (12-6) and fifth at the Jackson Invitational (12-6). Barbarich also was one of the area's top discus throwers, recording a personal best of 146-10.

"Pole vault is not an event in the Catholic League, but with Father McKernan's individual coaching, Al Barbarich improved each week," coach Tony Magni said.

RUNNING EVENTS

James Grady, 110-meter hurdles, Wayne: A versatile runner, Grady won the 110 and 300-meter hurdle championships at both the Wolverine A meet and Class A regional. Grady also was a member of the winning 800 and 1,600 relay teams at the Observerland Relays.

He also competed in the long jump and high jump events.

"James is a very hard-working, unselfish athlete," coach Floyd Carter said. "He has an excellent work ethic and I feel he will be very successful in college. I'm sure he will do well wherever he goes."

Jeff Robertson, 300 hurdles, St. Agatha: A senior, Robertson set a school record with a 38.8 finish at the Operation Friendship meet. Robertson was a Catholic League and regional champion, and was third in the Class C state meet.

"Jeff was the heart and soul of our team and I am very happy that his hard work has paid off," coach Mike McCollum said. "I know the whole school is proud of his accomplishments in track."

Randy Seach, 100 meter dash, John Glenn: Seach, Westland John Glenn's Most Valuable Runner, won his second-straight WLAAs title this spring. He recorded his personal best time of 11.0 last year, and had an 11.2 this year. The senior was a runner-up at the Observerland Relays.

"Randy is one of the most determined, confident runners I have ever coached," coach Jess Shough said. "He is a very deserving champion."

Alen Buford, 200-meter dash, Wayne: Buford had the area's best times in both the 100 and 200-meter dashes, and also led in the long jump. Buford is undecided on what college to attend.

"Alen is a very strong and fast athlete," Carter said. "Alen was willing to run just about anything I asked him to, and did not complain. He has the ability to be a fine quarter- or half-mile runner at the college level."

Eric McKeon, 400-meter dash, Catholic Central: McKeon was runner-up at the Catholic League meet and the Jackson Invitational with identical times of 50.7. He took third in both the Class A regional (50.7) and the Operation Friendship (49.9), and fifth at the Oxford Invitational (51.1).

"Eric is a very aggressive runner, and is at his best when coming from behind," Magni said. "Although only a sophomore, he was our top point scorer and was voted the team's Most Valuable Runner."

Rodney Westlake, 800 meters, Stevenson: The Spartan senior placed second in both the WLAAs and Class A regional meets, and was undefeated in the 200, 400 and 800 meter races in dual meets. He took fifth place in the 800 race at the Class A meet. A member of the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 relay races, Westlake also participated in the winning 1,600 relay team at the Observerland Relays.

Bound for the University of Michigan, Westlake also is a member of Stevenson's student senate.

"Rodney is extremely versatile," coach John Gores said. "He could win in four different ways."

LOCAL DEALER GETS "JUMP" ON COMPETITION

"That's right," says auto dealer Lou LaRiche. "These are the Big Frogs of California. They have six-inch bodies and their legs are 18 inches long."

What's an auto dealer doing with frogs, you say? They will be one of the main events at Lou LaRiche's largest ever AUTO TENT SALE. The SALE scheduled for June 17th thru June 22nd will feature the best deals of the year on all our CHEVY CARS - CHEVY TRUCKS - GEOS AND SUBARUS. LaRiche exclaimed. Starting on Friday, June 21st (at 7:30 p.m.), and Saturday, June 22nd (at 11:00 a.m.), will be the "Croakmaster" and his jumpy friends, the frogs.

The "Croakmaster," John Close, his wife, "Lily Pad," and a few "Froggies" who measure the jumps and keep the frogs from jumping too far away have "hopped" all over the country with his slippery show. "You gotta like frogs," the Croakmaster says. "They make you happy. Kids and adults, every-one from age 8 to 80 will enjoy this earth-filled event."

"You must first catch the frog to enter the jumping contest," explains the Croakmaster. "That can be difficult. These frogs can jump over 6 feet."

"Once you have your frog, get to know it," says Lily Pad. Then it's off to the starting line. Each entrant is allowed three leaps. Winners of the jumping event win a frog T-shirt. There will also be human croaking competition, frog stories, frog jokes and lots of fun.

LaRiche will have hot dogs, pop and chips, all priced at 25 cents each. You will also be able to enter drawings each day for service specials.

Do not forget the TENT EVENT June 17th thru June 22nd. Hop on over for an un-frog-gettable FUN AND DEALS THAT WILL MAKE YOUR FRIENDS AND RELATIVES "GREEN WITH ENVY."

THE TENT EVENT located at Lou LaRiche Chevrolet, 40875 Plymouth Road, Plymouth, Michigan.

"YOU TAKE A chance either way. If we keep Kapla in, then we have to take him out in the seventh. They got another run, so it didn't make a difference really."

Salem led 2-0 on Nielson's RBI single and Scott Niemiec's RBI double in the third. Dan Hutchinson doubled and scored on Davey's fourth-inning single.

CC had seven hits and scored its runs on two errors and a wild pitch. The Rocks had 10 hits with Niemiec, Davey and Craggs getting two apiece.

"I think we proved today what a great hitting team we can be," Gravin said. "Any one of our guys can step up there and get a hit."

The talk of the tournament was the clutch homer in the first game by Kummer, who had two of CC's four hits and five RBI.

With two outs and his team down 4-3 in the bottom of the seventh, Kummer hit a two-strike pitch 340 feet over the fence in left-center. Joe Vondracek (hit by pitch) and Pat Casey, who was pinch running for George Charnley (walk), were at the corners.

"I WANTED TO hit because it's part of the game," Kummer said. "If you don't want to be in that situation, you shouldn't be up there. That's what you dream about."

"In the district, we got by some close ones, but this was the topper. It must be our style or something."

"I was just going up there to make contact. I was surprised it went out. I just wanted to get over his head so we could get the run in (and tie)."

The homer made a winner of Kapla, who scattered six hits, struck out four and walked one in seven innings.

CC chased Dearborn starter Jeff Moulton during a three-run fifth. He left after issuing a bases-loaded walk to Charnley, and Kummer hit a two-run single before reliever and loser Derek Zion could end the inning.

The Pioneers, who had beaten CC during the regular season, were in control early, using aggressive base running to take a 4-0 lead after three innings. They scored on two errors, a strikeout-wild pitch and Sean Bak's single.

"Scott Kapla pitched a great game," Kummer said. "He didn't lose his cool, and that's hard to do when you're down 4-0 going into the fifth inning."

"WE'VE BEEN the underdogs before. The football team wasn't supposed to beat Martin Luther King, the basketball team wasn't supposed to beat Henry Ford and we weren't supposed to win here today."

For the second straight Saturday, Rodgers won a tournament game while throwing a one-hitter and coming close to a no-hitter. Wyandotte was hitless until Wally Johnson doubled in the sixth.

"When I went up to bat the last time, their catcher asked me if I knew I had a no-hitter," Rodgers said. "I said I didn't — even though I did — 'but thanks for jinxing me.' He said 'Well, I had to do it.' It was the next inning they came out and got a hit."

Rodgers, who struck out 10 and walked five, allowed three base runners through five innings but survived scoring threats in the last two.

The Bears had first-and-second situations both times, but Rodgers struck out clean-up hitter Scott Brewer swinging in the sixth and the Nos. 8 and 9 hitters in the seventh.

"Scotty (Niemiec) always gives me a sign where he touches his heart — (as if to say) bear down and pitch with more heart," Rodgers said.

"Scotty was just exhausted," Gravin said. "He had to reach down and finish the first one. He was under control most of the game, and they didn't come close to hitting. They were so happy to see an off-speed pitch they went after it and hit them into the ground."

Rodgers helped his own cause, driving in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a double. Scott Bright had an RBI single, and pinch-runner Brett Nicholson scored the last run on an infield error. Davey scored two runs.

Former CC pitcher signs pro contract

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Doug Martin is going to Niagara Falls, but it won't be for a sightseeing trip.

The 6-foot-3, 200-pound right-handed pitcher, who played his high school baseball at Redford Catholic Central, is headed for assignment at one of the Detroit Tigers' minor league affiliates after being selected in the 44th round of the Major League's Amateur Draft.

"I talked to Greg Haeger (former CC teammate now in the Tiger chain) and he said it's a pretty nice place to play," Martin said. "I hear they get pretty good crowds."

Martin, who enjoyed an outstanding senior season at Eastern Michigan University where he was voted the Mid-American Conference's Pitcher of the Year, is just happy to get the opportunity.

"There's really not much to contemplate," said

Martin, who was expected to sign Friday night with Tiger scout Mark Monaghan. "He (Monaghan) said he would try to get me a little bit of money, but all I can expect to get is what's fair for the round."

MARTIN, who lives in Northville, got off to a slow start with the ex-Hurons in 1991.

"I was 0-4, but I really had only one bad game," he said. "I didn't really change anything. Basically I stayed being a control pitcher, throwing strikes and getting them to hit the ball."

Martin finished the season with a flurry, going 10-5 with a 2.99 earned run average (including 10 complete games) in 96 1/3 innings.

It's been three weeks since Martin's college career has ended. During the interim, he's been doing the customary running, biking and throwing every other day.

"I hear they (the Tigers) are interested in me both as a starter and reliever," Martin said. "It really doesn't matter, although I'm spoiled because I prefer to start."

Martin said he is pretty much the same pitcher who came out of CC when the Shamrocks captured the state Class A championship in 1987.

"I have a little more velocity, a couple of miles per hour," he said. "I still have problems with the breaking ball, but I have a pretty consistent slider. I'm a little bigger and stronger and my endurance has been a plus."

THE RIGHT-HANDER plans to continue work toward his degree in business management during the fall at EMU.

"Some day I'd like to own my own business," Martin said. "But right now I'm not thinking about that. I'm going to put all my energies into baseball."

Martin, however, will get plenty of opportunities to catch a glimpse of the famed Falls.

Off-season conditioning important

THE BEST THING any bowler can do during the off-season is try to keep in the best physical shape possible.

For some, a little moderate exercise is all it takes.

For those that are more serious, there are many ways to get the maximum out of a training program. The idea is to keep the entire body in shape, not just the arm.

A good workout covers the shoulders, legs and back.

Walking, of course, is one way to keep in good shape, while swimming is also considered a good all-around method for full-body conditioning.

There are a lot of bowlers who are fortunate to have membership in a local health club/spa such as Vic Tanny's. For those, the availability of exercise machines is a big plus. Bowlers with health spa memberships or availability can use the off-season to greater advantage.

To find the best regimen, I consulted with the instructors at Vic Tanny's on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth.

Ken Stopa and Tim Cook of Canton, along with Libby Neis and Renee Heite of Plymouth, were most helpful in determining what a bowler could do to benefit from the spa.

The circuit-training program is recommended to build up muscle strength for endurance and flexibility, rather than bulking up, which is not necessarily beneficial.

To maximize your bowling ball control, it is best to condition all your muscles.

JUST BECAUSE you are right-handed does not mean you should neglect your left side. Balance is the key.

Before a workout, it's recommended to warm up with some stretching exercises.

The circuit-training machine will enable you to concentrate on a particular muscle group. The Stairmaster (simulates climbing stairs) is ideal for building up strength in the upper legs.

A rowing machine is excellent for the shoulders, as well as the entire body, while a few laps in the swimming pool afterwards could top off the workout. (That may be followed by a relaxation session in the hot sauna or whirlpool tub. The whirlpool is also good for easing the muscles that have been getting the benefit from all this exercise.)

Vic Tanny's also has similar facilities in Redford, Troy and Southfield. Anyone can come in and ask for a one-day guest pass. This will enable you to see for yourself if a health spa can be the answer to your needs as a bowler.

Just remember, bring a gym bag (with towel), workout clothes, sneakers, swim suit and padlock.

In addition to Vic Tanny's, there are many other excellent health clubs in the area. For those bowlers who have memberships, use it to get the most benefit for your body to improve your game.

If some bowling enthusiasts would like to take a ride out to the Flint area for the PBA Senior Open, it takes place Sunday, June 16, at Richland Bowl.

The Pro-Am event is also on June 16, and participants can bowl with a "legend." Many of the greats from years past will be present for competition and autograph sessions. Expected to be on hand are former champions Earl Anthony, Dave Soutar and Don McCune.

Those interested in bowling in the Pro-Am should take note of the following divisions: 1 p.m. (youth), 3 p.m. (seniors), 5 p.m. (women), 7 p.m. (men) and 9 p.m. (optional squad). Tickets are also available for spectators by calling Richland Bowl at 736-4880.

For those bowlers contemplating buying a new ball for the fall season, here is a practical suggestion: Shop now.

This is the best time of the year to get a better deal at a local pro shop. You also have the rest of the summer to practice with it and get used to the difference a new ball will make.

It's also much cheaper to practice in the summer, as open bowling rates are generally lower. You can also benefit from an air-conditioned environment on some of these hot days and evenings.

The pro shop operator is not quite as busy these days, so he can spend more time with you to help obtain the right equipment to suit your particular needs.

Among the pro shops in the Observer & Eccentric coverage area:

Livonia: The Right Approach, located in Merri Bowl on Five Mile; Pro-Am Bowling and Trophies, Six Mile and Farmington roads; Mike Samardzija's K&S Bowling and Trophies of Eight Mile (near Farmington Road); David's Right Line Pro Shop, inside Cloverlanes on Schoolcraft, between Middlebelt and Inster roads.

Westland: Ray's Bowling Pro Shop on Wayne Road near Cherry Hill; Strike Force Pro Shop on Middlebelt; Westland Bowling & Trophies on Wayne Road.

lin: A senior, Currow was a WAAA champion in 4:22.2, and he took third at Observerland and fourth at the Class A regional. Currow prepared himself for the track season by being an All-Observer first-team cross country choice.

Ben Goba, 3,200 meters, Farmington: An appendicitis injury sidelined Goba the last half of the track season, but he made his mark early with a second place finish in the West Bloomfield Invitational (9:39.6). He also placed 11th in the Mansfield Invitational. Goba, one of the most highly-regarded senior cross country runners last fall, is headed to the University of Tennessee on a track and cross country scholarship.

400-meter relay (Leon Hister, Todd Forbes, Jim Ramsay and Matt Perron), Plymouth Salem: The foursome had the area's best 400 relay time, 45.6, and won the WAAA meet. The group will have to be broken up next year, considering both Ramsay and Perron are graduating seniors.

"They're a group of athletes who have teamed up all year for the conference championship," Balconi said. "All were competitors and fine young men."

800-meter relay (Alan Buford, Joe Dumost, Ken Craig and Shawn Ma'azza), Wayne: A pulled hamstring suffered by Ma'azza limited the team's potential to do very well at the regional

How are All-Area teams selected?

For boys and girls track, every coach from the Observerland coverage area — Livonia, Westland, Redford, Garden City, Farmington and Plymouth-Canton — is invited to a meeting to update their final times and select the top individuals and relay teams for each event.

The meeting is moderated by the Observer sports staff, but the teams are voted and selected upon by the coaches in attendance.

The same holds true in spring sports for girls soccer and girls golf.

The Observer sports staff, with input from nearly every coach in the coverage area, makes the final decisions on All-Area baseball and softball.

1,600 meter relay (Alan Buford, James Grady, Joe Dumost and Michael Hooks), Wayne: The Zebras' foursome recorded identical 3:28.1 times in winning both the Observerland and Wolverine A League 1,600 relay championships.

"All four did a tremendous job," Carter said. "We're down in numbers because of 'pay to play' and all of them ran in four events."

3,200 meter relay (Aaron Sheposh, Rob Valentine, Scott Balwinski and Steve Witek), Catholic Central: The foursome's most impressive finish came at the Catholic League championship where they took second place in 8:11.4. They were third at the Class A regional (8:19.3) and fourth in the Operation Friendship (8:13.7).

"Aaron did a great job getting us into position for a competitive race and Rob Valentine keeps us in the race by concentrating on the team's position so as not to lose contact with the leaders," Magni said. "The relay team started to come together when Balwinski was added. Witek is an intelligent runner and holds off the opponents or goes after the leaders in a conservative, but aggressive manner."

or state, but the foursome was sound when healthy. They won the Observerland 800 relay race in 1:31.2.

"The 800 team, I thought we could have qualified for the state meet, but because of injuries..." coach Floyd Carter said. "One of the keys to the 800 team was they worked real hard on the exchanges."

Kennedy likely to pass on pros

"I'm not sure it played that big a role," Dennis Kennedy said. "It may have turned away a few other clubs, but the Tigers seemed very pleased to have them. The thing that made me feel better was the other boy being drafted in the 34th round."

"They tend to go for the college kids (because of their added playing experience and maturity). I was just ecstatic Scotty got drafted at all. What an honor."

Citing the Welch example, Dennis Kennedy said "It's not embarrassing to be drafted in the 35th round," adding the Tigers "are going for homespun people. That seems to be the direction they're taking under (club president) Bo (Schembechler). He said they would like to own Michigan."

Besides a signing bonus, Scott Kennedy was offered a contract that was "not for a lot" of money, according to his father, who said Weir told them he would see about including money for college if that issue was preventing Scott from signing.

If Kennedy was to sign now with the Tigers, he had to report today to the club's rookie league team in Bristol, W.Va. He would go to spring training in Lakeland, Fla., next year and then be assigned to either the Lakeland or Fayetteville, N.C., farm teams.

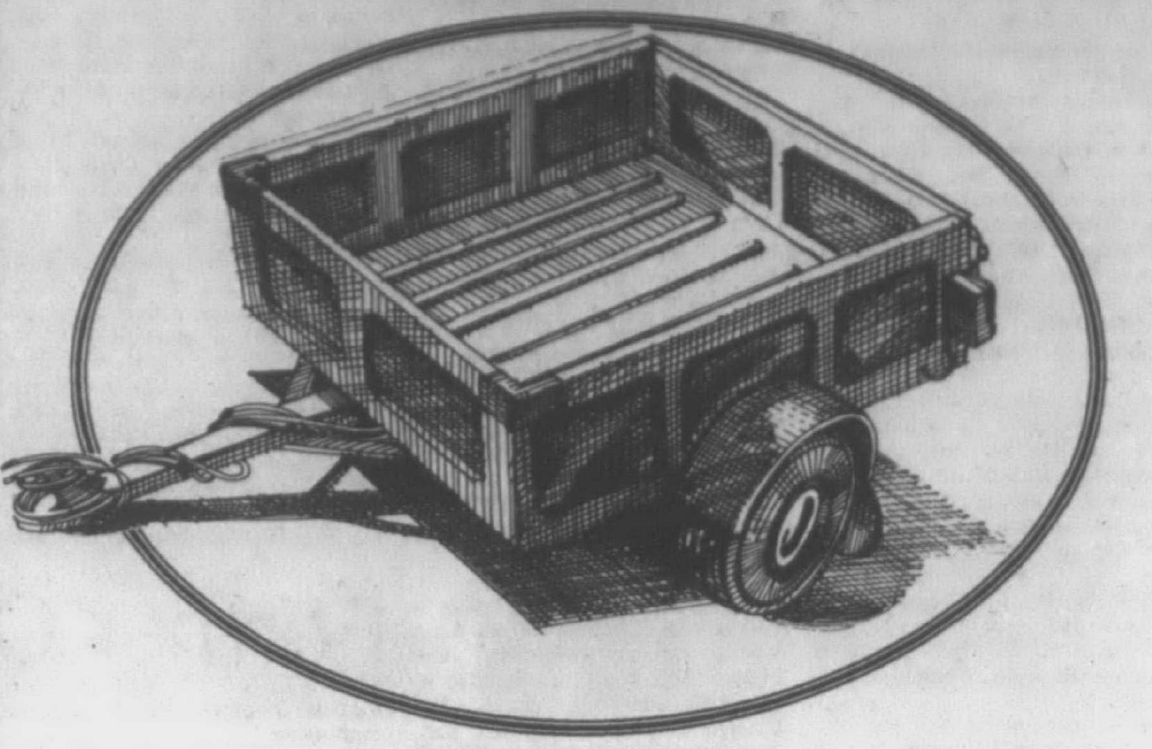

"THEY SAID it's a four- or five-year program," Dennis Kennedy said. "That's how long it would take to make it to the pros."

Scott Kennedy said he was glad he waited a few days to sort things out and consider his future.

"If they had asked me on the spot what I wanted to do, I would've signed," he said. "When I heard I was in the draft, that was something, but it didn't hit me until they called me. It's a thrill just to be drafted. I never thought I would be until this year."

Skipping, spitting highlight state fun

Here, chronologically, are 11 offbeat events to add zest to vacation enjoyment for participants and spectators, suggests AAA Michigan.

Judges will seek the funniest, speediest, smallest, longest and most unique rafts during Saginaw's 19th annual Saginaw River Raft Race June 15. Viewers and entrants are welcome. Raft judging begins 8:30 a.m. The race starts two hours later.

The Kentucky Derby it's not, but the June 23 Fastest Mule in Michigan Races at Crossroads Village in Flint lets participants saddle up. No one can predict whether the rider/mule teams will trot, reverse course or stand still.

If hiking is your thing, the 2½-mile International Bridge Walk in Sault Ste. Marie may be just the ticket. So what if it's not the Mackinac Bridge Walk, this event lets walkers stroll across an international border into Canada June 29.

Spectators might expect some necks when they crane to see 200 hot air balloons over Battle Creek June 29-July 6, that's when the Battle Creek International Championship and Air Show takes to the skies.

Don't bring pancakes to the fifth annual Log Cabin Day June 30. This has nothing to do with maple syrup. But 40 different log cabins will be open for viewing from Berrien Springs near the Indiana border to Baraga in the Upper Peninsula. Contact the Log Cabin Society of Michigan in Sodus for information.

Brush up on sand castle architecture and visit Alpena July 4. All public beaches in the city will be turned into construction sites 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the sand Castle Contests. Sign up in individual, family or group categories.

Plunk. Pitty pat. Plunk. Those are the sounds of the Mackinac Island Stone Skipping Tournaments scheduled 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., July 4. Visitors can compete in the open division by bringing six flat or round stones and paying the $1 entry fee. Winners take home, what else, fudge. The pro tournament starts at noon.

Pucker up for the International Cherry Pit-Spitting Championship July 6 at the Tree-Mendus Fruit Farm in Eau Claire. But don't expect to walk away with a prize unless your pit travels around 20 yards.

Remember being scared as a kid when someone told horrifying tales around the campfire? Recreate that fear during the Michigan Story-Tellers Festival July 12-13 at Crossroads Village in Flint. While professional tale tellers will spin yarns about ghosts, this year's festival emphasizes cultural diversity.

The World's Largest Coffee Break in Gaylord at 9:30 a.m., July 17, involves about 50 gallons of coffee and 300 dozen donuts. It's part of the city's Alpenfest and follows a 9 a.m. parade.

If your joy comes under the water, strap on a snorkel or woggle into a wetsuit for the Straits Underwater Preserve Treasure Hunt near St. Ignace. Participants matching numbered underwater booty claim prizes on land Aug. 25.

DIVE CLUB MED

READ ALL ABOUT IT

Let the kids help you plan the trip and they will be less likely to complain during your vacation.

Send $1 for postage and handling to get Family Travel Guides catalog from Carousal Press, P.O. Box 6061, Albany, CA 94706. They specialize in family travel and their small catalog lists a lot of reading material you can buy to enrich family travel.

collection in South Bend, Ind. The Studebaker Larkette Regal Deluxe donated by Sam Schpok of Niles, Mich. is a child's version of the Lark convertible.

• AAA has a travel activity book to help ward off the plaintive cry, "Are we there yet?" It has 144 pages of puzzles and games for kids age 4-12, with a little touch of geography, history and nature for each state. It costs $4.95, $3.45 for AAA members, at any AAA office.

• The Curiosity Place: An Exhibit for Young Children is a highlight of the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry. Or you can take the kids overnight to the Field Museum.

HOTELS

services or rates to attract families. Guest Quarters Suite Hotels has summer rates that start at $59 a room per night in Detroit (take the kids and don't bother driving?) to $129 at Walt Disney World in Florida, with lots of variations in between.

A suite hotel typically gives you a bedroom with two double beds and a sitting room with a pull-out bed, light kitchen facilities and lounge area, a good idea for kids. You also get a full breakfast free and can enjoy free cocktail hour when the kids are in the pool.

CRUISES

If you still think Caribbean cruises are for winter-bound adults, follow the families sailing three- and four-day cruises out of Florida, or combine a Disney visit with a short cruise. Several cruise lines do this

We were fortunate to have four days of 80-degree weather and sunshine. Just being lazy by the pool was great.

Off the ship we also found much to do. In Freeport we went snorkeling in the afternoon and saw beautiful fish, a first-time experience for all.

In Nassau we went to Coral World where we fed the sting ray, saw sharks and beautiful coral. There was a petting pond where the kids were able to hold the fish. They were fascinated. Back to the ship for lunch.

In the afternoon we went parasailing. We had time for my grandson to fly his kite while the others swam in the ocean, another first. This left little time for shopping, but everyone found a T-shirt and a few other things.

Evenings were relaxed. There was time for a show, casino and a late night Mexican party by the pool. Weather was perfect. We celebrated our anniversary and my husband's birthday with cake and song.

Our souvenir for the family was a bright yellow T-shirt with a family tree on it and each one's name below.

The cruise was fantastic. Something we will always remember. I truly hope one day we can do it again.

A May 20 story about Maumee Bay State Park Lodge, the newest of Ohio's 10 park lodges, should have said the park would begin taking cottage reservations for June 1992 on June 1 this year. On July 1 and Aug. 1 they will take cottage reservations for July and August 1992, respectively. For information, call toll-free (800) AT-A-PARK.

Flight attendant offers tips on family travel

Are nearby restaurants "children friendly?" Will you need passports? Will you travel with an infant? (If so, you should tell the airline reservation agent). After you assess anticipated vacation needs, you are ready for stage two:

PREPARATION

WRITE IT DOWN! Make a checklist and cross off each item when it is packed (I live by this rule). Essential items, excluding clothing, include the following:

• Items for infant: Baby food/juice/formula, bottles, cereal, diapers, disposable travel pads to put baby on when changing diapers and Handiwipes.

• Items for children: Snacks (not all flights serve a meal), gum and/or candy (for ear problems), straws. Consider games, cards, books or maps. The list should also include motion-sickness pills (recommended by your physician) and/or prescription medicines a family member may need, plus aspirin, antacid tablets, sunburn ointment, etc.

Many of these items may seem obvious to you, but as a flight attendant I've found that's not always true. I've been asked — more than a few times — "Don't you have anything for my child to eat, (play with, etc.)?"

All of this sounds like a lot to remember, but it will save unnecessary expense and headaches if you take a few minutes to prepare. Now you're ready to go!

TRAVELING

Families with small children are offered the option of boarding the aircraft before others. En route to your seats, you'll usually pass the cockpit. If the children want to say "hi" to the pilots, by all means let them — just ask the flight attendant's permission.

The lights and gadgets can be intimidating, so don't encourage your children if they seem apprehensive. If the pilots have time they will spend a couple minutes answering a child's (or your) questions. . . . Don't forget, most of them are parents, too.

Flying is a wonderful, uninterrupted opportunity to learn. You can't go anywhere during the flight, so what better time to get to know more about your children?

Read to them, play question-and-answer games, review geography with them by looking at maps.

Talk to your children. Let the clouds stimulate their imagination. You will be surprised at some of the creative thoughts they get. You might want to do this exercise yourself. Looking at the world from a different perspective gives you insight into a problem. You'll be looking down at Earth instead of up at the sky.

I mentioned that you should bring along snacks for the flight. I can't stress this enough. Because of the unpredictable nature of air travel (weather or mechanical delays), food may not be available when your kids are hungry.

In fact, several flights serve nothing more than the peanuts regardless of the time. ("We've been traveling since breakfast and your airline hasn't fed us yet . . . it's 2 o'clock!") Savvy travelers with or without children know this and pack accordingly: Fruit, peanut-butter crackers, popcorn, yogurt and granola bars are just a small sampling of easily-packed food you can bring.

Airliner quarters are very cramped. Young children can get cranky. They want and need to move around, and because parents are also cramped, they're usually only too happy to allow the kids their freedom. But if the seat belt sign is on, it's on for a reason (the captain anticipates or has reports of turbulence). Children should be held or seated when the seat belt sign is on.

If the plane encounters severe turbulence unexpectedly and your child is standing on the seat or playing/sleeping on the floor, he may wind up out of your protective grasp before you can do anything about it. I've seen it happen.

COMING HOME

We all suffer from an occasional case of post-vacation blues. Children may not recognize their symptoms as such. The "ho-humness" that can settle in when you pull into your driveway can be alleviated by getting back on a routine schedule quickly.

Have the children unpack bags and help wash vacation laundry. Ease the transition back into their everyday lives by reviewing the vacation. Discuss highlights, laugh about the low points and start planning your next trip!

ees bike around the park, handing out tickets.

Tickets are free but the first people who ask for them get them, so come early. If you get tickets to be in the audience at Game Lab, held every half hour after July 1, you have a good chance to be slimed. If chosen, you are taken to a dressing room with your name on the door, where they give you a pair of baggy pants and an orange Nickelodeon shirt to wear.

Even if you aren't picked, you can see the Gak Kitchen and taste a little slime and Gak on a throwaway stick.

If one of you adults is still reading and doesn't know what Gak and slime are, ask your kids. Slime looks like liquid green Jello and tastes OK, but not terrific. Gak looks like orange pudding and tastes great. They use so much of this stuff that they have a Gak drainage system.

Game Lab is a fun half-hour for people touring the studio; it is not taped for television. There are four tiers of wooden bleachers on four sides of a square. The kids sit on two of the tiers and adults occupy the other two. It's a standoff and the kids always win.

A 12-year-old from New York was the slime victim when I watched Game Lab. She sat in a small plastic swimming pool awaiting the inevitable. The first time the professor brought the slime out it was jelled too hard and wouldn't leave the bucket. Boo. Hiss.

The second time the professor brought the slime it was too dry and came out like torn paper. Boo. Hiss. He finally got it right and down it came, gooey, pouring across the child's head, down her long dark hair, over the orange Nickelodeon T-shirt and onto the baggy pants.

That's more like it! The kids screamed and clapped and stomped their feet.

Warning: Your parents will probably think this is really gross, and it is. But you get to wash the slime out of your hair and put your own clean clothes back on, so what do they know?

If you want to visit Nickelodeon Studios and get slimed, you'd better have the facts, and here they are: You pay regular admission to Universal Studios: $30.74 a day for 12 and older, $24.38 for kids 3-11.

Once you are on the grounds, all attractions are free, including the Nickelodeon tour. Call ahead if you want to know what is being filmed the day of your visit. For more information, call Universal Studios at (407) 363-8000. Ask to hear the Nickelodeon recording of the day's events.

Travel for tykes is company's mission

Rascals in Paradise. I love that name. I have occasionally threatened to send my kids to paradise during a summer vacation, sometimes to a hotter destination.

I called the toll-free number that goes with that great name and got one of the founders, Deborah Baratta, in San Francisco. Debbie and Theresa Detchemendy both worked in the tour wholesale business for a dozen years before they started traveling with kids of their own and learned the terrible truth.

Traveling with kids requires a little expertise. They combined their travel and parental experience when they decided that parents "need somebody to sort out the vast array of options available for families."

They produce guides, set up special weeks at certain resorts for families and organize exotic family tours. A safari in Kenya, for example.

"FAMILIES DON'T need us to plan a trip to Disney World or Club Med, because they can get that information at any travel agency. But if they want something different, we have it."

Who pays? Debbie and Theresa are regular travel agents earning commissions from resorts and hotels, so their services are free. However, they charge a consulting fee if you want them to research a house in France for a month or something else that is not commissionable.

They'll recommend a resort for families any time, but also arrange specific weeks at specific resorts as family weeks and send an escort along to organize children's activities. If it's in Mexico, for example, the kids can visit a tortilla factory or Mayan ruins.

Rascals in Paradise also produces free guides. Call for their free catalog or a guide on a specific destination or tour. They organize family reunions, grandparent trips, everything to do with families.

This is definitely not economy travel, but if you want to explore a 15-night African safari ($2,495 per adult, $1,725 per child 5-16 years old), or a cottage in the Abacos for $500 and up, call (800) U-RASCALS and see what you get.

FAMILY FAIRE

Another tour group claiming family travel expertise opened last year in North Hollywood, Calif. Family Faire offers hotels and condominiums in California, Nevada and Hawaii, each selected on the basis of family needs. Get your Family Faire fun guide by calling toll-free (800) 677-4FUN.

GRANDTRAVEL

Grandparents love to spoil the kids and then send them home. If you'd rather spend some travel time with your grandchildren, explore a tour group called Grandtravel that offers trips ranging from a 15-day Alaska wilderness adventure ($5,000 each) to a 10-day tour of California for half that price.

Grandtravel and Hilton Hotels also offer week-long trips to Manhattan for $2,275 per person, double occupancy: July 7-14 for grandchildren 12-17; July 21-28 for kids 7-11.

Flight attendant offers tips on family travel

Joyce Baker of Farmington Hills is a Northwest Airlines flight attendant who occasionally shares her travel expertise with us.

The popular movie "Home Alone" features a young boy whose parents accidentally left him at home when they went on vacation. That may be a parent's nightmare and a child's fantasy (or is it vice versa?), but it requires a stretch of the imagination to be believable. It was, however, an amusing concept.

You may never go that far, but there are some things many parents leave behind, things that could help make the traveling part of your trip easier for you and more fun for the children.

Whether you are visiting grandma or Mickey Mouse, traveling with children requires more than packing bags and leaving. There are four stages to any trip: Planning, preparation, traveling and coming home.

PLANNING

What are the specifics of the trip? Weather, location (beach, mountains, etc.), length of stay, accommodation needs (hotel, cabin, time-share apartment) are a few examples. Consider possible activities for the children.

Kids get 'slimed' at Florida park

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

Can you eat the Gak on Double Dare? Can you name the dragon on Eureka's Castle? Have you ever been slimed? If you can't answer these questions, you are more than 15 years old, have no children at home and don't watch the Nickelodeon cable network.

You can still tour the Nickelodeon Studios in Orlando, Fla., but only if you are accompanied by a child age 2-15. Adults can watch the shows being filmed and participate in the insanity of Game Lab, but only the kids can get slimed.

Nickelodeon celebrated its 12th birthday as a children's television network this year, which makes it about the same age as most of its viewers. The cable company's brief early attempt to uplift and educate children met with the scorn of kids nationwide, so now the program schedule is divided into three parts.

There is gentle fun for little kids; '80s sitcoms for kids to watch with their parents during "Nick at Nite" time; and berserk gross-out humor for the after-school crowd, kids who know all about Gak and love to be slimed.

If dad wants to know whose fault this is, tell him that Nickelodeon president Geraldine Laybourne, a former school teacher, has a round desk and lots of slime in her New York City office.

She taught at poor schools and rich schools before taking time off to raise her own two sons and found just how bad daytime television was. That's when she started developing original programs under state arts council grants.

When she joined Nickelodeon 11 years ago, nobody told her what to do so she tried everything, including "Things - You Can't Do On Television," the name of one of Nick's favorite programs.

Gerry celebrated Nickelodeon's 10th birthday by opening a working studio on Universal Studios' grounds in Orlando, where they tape TV shows and issue daily television reports from the blue-and-orange studio building. The studio is easy to find, because of the giant Green Slime Geyser that sends "the planet's only known source of slime" up in a fountain 17 feet high and 25 feet wide.

You might have to stand in line an hour for the tour, or any other popular attraction at Universal Studios on a busy day in high season, but at least you line up in the shade. It's hot in Florida in the summer, so wear your coolest clothes and prepare to walk a lot.

A Nickelodeon guide takes you up the stairs and along corridors called "tubes," where you can look down through glass to the sets of your favorite shows. They tape shows like "Eureka's Castle, Welcome Freshman, Make the Grade, Family Double Dare" and "Think Fast."

If you want to participate in Game Labs, or be in the studio audience for any of the shows, ask about Nickelodeon tickets at the theme park entrance; sometimes Nick employ-

Reunion, 40th anniversary combined on cruise ship

Luba and Allan Grundy of West Bloomfield were looking for a way to celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary, as well as Allan's 60th birthday, with their children. They have four sons, two of them married, and five grandchildren. They chose a short cruise aboard the Fantasy. Here is their story.

We needed accommodations for 13 people, with something for everyone to enjoy and a restaurant where 13 people could sit together and find food to each one's liking. Our oldest son, wife and two children are strict vegetarians. We decidated the best for us was a cruise. After much research we decided on the Carnival Lines-Fantasy for a four-day trip.

We made invitations and mailed them to our sons and families. When we all met on board, seeing each other, we knew we had made the right decision. We had four cabins close to one another.

Allan and I made bags of goodies for each cabin and topped them off with bags of confetti. As we sailed out of port we all threw confetti overboard and at each other. The good times began.

On the ship there was plenty to do. The younger ones, age 5, 7, 9, 9 and 11, loved the big pool and slide, the whirlpool, ping pong, sauna, shuffleboard and video games.

MOVING PICTURES

'City Slickers' has cure for turning 40 — laughs

Mitch Robbins (Billy Crystal), Phil Berquist (Daniel Stern) and Ed Furlong (Bruno Kirby) are the buddies in this case — three friends facing middle age with less than proverbial grace. Each has his own hangup.

Phil's wife, Arlene (Karia Tamburrelli) is one tough cookie who makes his life miserable while he manages her father's supermarket. Ed is obsessed with sexuality. Mitch's fine, supportive, albeit somewhat stereotypical family members are nicely played by Patricia Wettig as his wife, Barbara, Linda Crystal is teen daughter Holly and Jake Gyllenhaal, son, Daniel.

Mitch (Billy Crystal), the broadcasting account executive who begins questioning the meaning of life as he approaches his 40th birthday, is the character that makes this movie work so well.

Mitch sums up much of the anxiety that aging stimulates in everyone and Crystal is the top performer. He could probably make you laugh reading the obits. In particular, his delivery of biting, satiric lines in a pleasant, unoffensive and very comic manner will appeal to everyone.

Phil, Ed and Mitch have a tradition of unique vacations and for his 40th birthday, the three join a cattle drive. No, this is not a dude ranch, this is a real cattle drive.

The happy, tongue-in-cheek approach to this unlikely scenario, along with excellent performances by all concerned, works very well. The ultimate touch, however, is Jack Palance playing Jack Palance as only he can. He's Curly, boss of the cattle drive, the roughest, toughest, quietest hombre the west has ever seen.

there's the usual onslaught of mindless movie entertainment to satisfy restless teens freed from the bondage of homework. The first such movie of the summer this year is "Don't Tell Mom the Babysitter's Dead" (C, PG-13, 95 minutes), starring Christina Applegate of "Married... With Children" fame.

She's Sue Ellen "Swell" Crandall, whose summer begins with every teenage girl's dream — her divorced mother is leaving the country for two months. Unfortunately, her visions of 60 days of true freedom are shattered by the babysitter's arrival.

Mrs. Sturak (Eda Reiss Merin) has been hired to watch Swell and her motley crew of siblings. She's a tyrannical, drill master stereotype and not at all well-received. Her death (by natural causes) is not mourned either and, as soon as they discretely rid themselves of their lifeless babysitter, the kids are ready for a terrific summer.

Much to their chagrin, however, they soon discover that the money for summer living expenses was disposed of with Mrs. Sturak's body, so they're thrust into the "real" world and forced to fend for themselves.

"Don't Tell Mom the Babysitter's Dead" doesn't have dreams of grandeur, nor does it achieve distinction. The plot is predictable, the characters often stereotypical and the acting mediocre. It's a mildly entertaining film with a few laughs but staying home and watching a video may not be a terrible alternative. (Reviewed by Brian Dunn)

"Kickboxer 2" (R) is more of the same as only the number has been changed to protect innocent martial artists.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

Alternative films flourish during long, hot summer

By John Monaghan
special writer

Alternative film fans usually greet the summer months with dread. When the Detroit Film Theatre takes its customary warm weather hiatus from May through August, we are usually at the mercy of Hollywood blockbusters like "Hudson Hawk" and "Rocketeer."

Not so this summer.

The Fox Theatre recently unveiled its summer lineup, again making presentation of vintage films into a major event. For starters, the movie palace, along with the DFT and Detroit Symphony Orchestra, will present the silent classic "Robin Hood" (1922) on Aug. 1-4.

The Fox also will present the 50th anniversary restoration of "Citizen Kane" (1941) on June 20-30 and newly restored 70mm print of Stanley Kubrick's "Spartacus" (1960) in July 3-14. Opening night for "Spartacus" will benefit the DFT with tickets for all Fox films priced at $10.

The Maple Theatre continues to juggle art films on its three screens, with "Daddy Nostalgia" as the latest addition. There has been talk, however, that the theater will book more mainstream films this summer.

Heights is ready to pick up any slack. In recent weeks, the theater has devoted one of its screens to alternative film fare, though the film choices have been weak and audiences haven't been showing.

Krys Byland, advertising manager for the Grand Rapids-based Star Theatre chain, admits that the films need better promotion.

"Still, I feel confident that there are enough people to support another screen showing art films," she said.

HENRY FORD CENTENNIAL LIBRARY, 13671 Michigan Ave., Dearborn. Call 943-2330 for information (free)

"No, My Darling Daughter" (Britain — 1961), 7 p.m. June 10. A rich teenage tomboy rebels against the social graces until she finds herself tamed by love. Starring Juliet Mills and Michael Redgrave.

LIVONIA MALL, Seven Mile and Middlebelt roads, Livonia. Call 476-1166 for information. (free)

"Lust for Life" (USA — 1956), 10 a.m. June 11. Kirk Douglas plays Vincent Van Gogh with amazing depth and power in this wide screen masterpiece. Vincente Minnelli directed the film that traces the troubled artist from his early days preaching in a coal mining community to madness as an artist. With Anthony Quinn as Gauguin. Shown in CinemaScope and luscious '50s color.

MAPLE THEATRE, 4135 W. Maple, Birmingham. Call 855-9090 for information. ($6, $3.50 twilight; call for show times)

"Impromptu" (Britain — 1990). The relationship between female French novelist George Sand and composer Frederic Chopin is recounted in this witty, slightly irreverent romantic comedy. The most fascinating twist is how the very masculine Sand (wonderfully played by Judy Davis) relentlessly pursues frail Chopin.

"Truly, Madly, Deeply" (Britain — 1991). Compared favorably to "Ghost," this British fantasy finds a widow still mourning her dead husband, surprised when he returns as an apparition.

"Daddy Nostalgia" (USA — 1991). Director Bertrand Tavernier ("Sunday in the Country") plots this story of a screenwriter who becomes reacquainted with her ailing father (Dirk Bogarde) after a long rift between them.

MICHIGAN THEATRE, 16301 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 669-8397 for information. ($5, $4 students and senior citizens)

"Taxi Blues" (USSR/France — 1990), through June 12 (call for show times). The relationship between a Moscow taxi driver and an alcoholic Jewish musician is recounted in this controversial Soviet film.

"Raging Bull" (USA — 1980), 7:15 p.m. June 12. Robert DeNiro plays boxer Jake LaMotta who grows from a lean young fighting machine into an overweight nightclub entertainer. This is the legendary picture where DeNiro (in an Academy Award-winning performance) gained 40 pounds in order to portray the role more effectively. A treat in wide screen and black and white. Directed by Martin Scorsese. Continuing a monthlong tribute to the heralded actor.

"The Sheltering Sky" (USA — 1990), through June 20 (call for show times). Bernardo Bertolucci directed this impossible adaptation of Paul Bowles' novel about an American composer (John Malkovich) and his wife (Deborah Winger) who set off for remote parts of the globe in the 1920s.

"Reversal of Fortune" (USA — 1990), 9:35 p.m. June 14 and 7 p.m. June 15. The sensationalized von Bulow case, in which an aristocrat (Jeremy Irons) was accused of murdering his wife (Glenn Close) through fatal injections of insulin, comes to the screen through the lens of talented director Barbet Schroeder. Surrounded by such amazing performances, Ron Silver pales in comparison as the defending lawyer.

REDFORD THEATRE, 17360 Lahser, Detroit. Call 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"Take Me Out to the Ball Game." (USA — 1949), 8 p.m. June 14-15. A turn-of-the-century musical about a baseball team taken over by a beautiful woman (Esther Williams). Sparks fly with some of the players, especially Gene Kelly and Frank Sinatra, who sing and dance through lively musical numbers penned by Adolph Green and directed by Busby Berkeley.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

A number of recent, major motion pictures highlight videocassette releases for the first part of June. Leading the list is "Mr. and Mrs. Bridge" (1990, PG-13, color, 127 minutes) with Joanne Woodward and Paul Newman in the title roles. She received a best actress nomination from the Academy for her role in one of 1990's better films.

Another film with Oscar-winning ladies was less successful and not nearly as good but it's always fun to watch Shirley McLaine and Meryl Streep work. "Postcards From the Edge" (1990, R, color, 101 minutes), the Debbie Reynolds-Carrie Fisher story, is somewhat scattered and overly melodramatic.

Another film with Oscar nominations, "Green Card" (1990, PG-13, color, 107 minutes) stars Gerard Depardieu. From one big guy to another, Schwarzenegger's "Kindergarten Cop" (1990, PG-13, color, 111 minutes) heads MCA/Universal's list of June laser disc releases.

Other laser discs available June 13 include an interesting thriller about an innocent man facing execution for a murder he didn't commit, "Somebody Has to Shoot the Picture" (1990, R, color, 104 minutes).

"DESTROY RIDES AGAIN" (1939, NR, black and white, 94 minutes) is of particular interest among the laser releases this week. One of the top westerns from Hollywood's Golden Age, "Destry Rides Again" stars Marlene Dietrich, Jimmy Stewart and a host of other stars.

But the largest group of home video releases this week are pointed at the youth market with distributors cranking up to entertain the kids as they stream out of school for the summer.

don, a great way to spend the summer.

Disney also has a major promotion with a Pluto hand-puppet and six new releases to add to its 65 animated titles in six different programming categories. That ought to keep the kids off the streets and out of trouble.

Those six categories are mini classics, "The New Adventures of Winnie the Pooh," cartoon classics, "Duck-Tales," sing-along songs and "Chip 'n Dale Rescue Rangers."

Leading the list of six new releases is the "Prince and the Pauper" (1990, G, color, 24 minutes) which was recently playing theaters along with "The Rescuers Down Under." This is the first Disney animated film to be released directly to video from theaters.

Gangsters: They want to have fun

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The fun is still in Gangster Fun.

Singer John Bunkley was reminded of a burning ska show in the band's infancy four years ago at the Hamtramck Pub, which included an encore and the audience singing "Happy Birthday" to drummer Brian Bowie.

"It's funny, you would think because we are older things would have calmed down by now," said Bunkley, whose band performs Sunday at the Majestic Theatre. "Actually, things have become wilder."

Gangster Fun, with their ska-inspired zaniness, have always brought a certain electricity to live performances. In the beginning, that could easily be attributed to the enthusiasm of neophytes.

But after four years of gigs, a cross-country tour and an album, one would expect the cynical side of Gangster Fun to emerge. Or at least a little burnout. Not so on both counts.

The band has grown in size to nine players. Current members include guitarist Dave Minnick of Centerline, trombonist Peter Zura, percussionist Josh Silverstein of Southfield, bassist Ron Hill of Detroit, trombonist Robert Cogswell of Ann Arbor, saxophonist Chris Minnick of Centerline and keyboard player Andy Birko of Livonia. They join chief songwriters Bunkley and Bowie.

"Is that nine?" asked Bunkley after listing his bandmates.

ALSO, GANGSTER FUN will release their second LP, "Time Flies When You're Gangster Fun," on Moon Records in New York. Tentative release is scheduled at the end of the summer.

The effort is the long-awaited follow-up to "Come See, Come Ska," the band's debut LP released two years ago. All 4,000 copies of that release sold out.

Band members have received letters from as far away as England, Germany and even the Philippines from those who have listened to the group's first record.

The new 11-song effort was recorded at the Disc with Mike E. Clark as producer. The band is counting on even better distribution from Moon Records, a ska label started by Toasters member Bucket Hineley in the mid-1980s.

And like "Come See, Come Ska," the new release will feature the usual somewhat obscure, somewhat skewed life-as-seen-through-John-Bunkley's-eyes lyrics.

One number, "Bank of Love," is a tale about a guy who breaks into a sperm bank and mixes up all the deposits in order to create one "gray" race. The song makes a statement about racial unity.

"I'm a sociology major, I have to read this stuff," said Bunkley laughing.

Also, if anything, the song reveals the bubbling cauldron of creativity that sets Gangster Fun apart from other purveyors of the blue beat sound. Bunkley wrote all the lyrics for the songs while David Minnick and Bowie collaborate on the the skittering dance music.

GANGSTER FUN has never been about fashion. Whereas other ska bands adhere to the rude boy uniform of black suits, white socks or Doc Marten shoes, the group instead has chosen to rely on individuality and talent.

MIGHTY LIKE A ROSE — Elvis Costello

It's hard to believe this guy once made an album called "Get Happy!" "Mighty Like a Rose" is about as far from happy as it gets. The happiest lyrics contained within are "You're still so young/You haven't earned the weariness/That sounds so jaded on your tongue."

But Elvis Costello, rock's reigning lyrical genius, knows that pain is the writer's greatest weapon. As usual, the complex imagery and various verbal concoctions on his latest release are unparalleled.

The record begins with the single, "The Other Side of Summer," an infectious, summery pop song replete with Beach Boyish falsetto harmonies. But the lyrics are a menagerie of disturbing images, right from the opening, "The sun struggles up another beautiful day/And I feel glad in my own suspicious way." No tales of little old ladies or California girls in this tune.

Other songs smack of bitterness and frustration, and biting sarcasm, a Costello trademark. His sights are trained on his world of nine-to-five in "How to be Dumb." The dramatic chorus with its majestic keyboards harkens back to "Like a Rolling Stone," only the crucial question has changed from "How does it feel to be on your own" to "Don't you know how to be dumb?"

Especially emotional is the brilliant "So Like Candy," co-written with Paul McCartney and stamped with that same "For NoOne" brand of helplessness. The stark arrangement of this song, as well as the Spanish-influenced "After the Fall" and the haunting "Broken," emphasizes the bleak themes presented.

The album has its up moments musically. "Playboy to a Man," another McCartney collaboration, is a rocker in true Attractions tradition.

The closing song, "Couldn't Call It Unexpected No. 4," plods along with a semi-polka beat that belies the terrifying images portrayed. It acts as a lyrical apocalypse in the context of the album, ending with the chilling couplet, "Please don't let me fear anything I cannot explain/I can't believe I'll never believe in anything again."

CEREAL KILLERS — Too Much Joy

No sophomore jinx here. "Cereal Killers," the newest album from those irascible lads from Scarsdale, N.Y., is every bit as sarcastic, intelligent, and fresh as their debut from last year, "Son of Sam I Am."

If anything, Cereal Killers is more balanced than the group's last effort, building on all the groups strengths — catchy lyrics and music, wit and a cavalier approach to life — while retaining the trademark wry insight.

"King of Beers" about being young, getting drunk and hoping tomorrow morning and its accompanying hangover doesn't come is a good example of Too Much Joy's bold mix of wry humor and social observation.

At one point, the group reminds us what being 18 (21 in Michigan), hanging out in bars and living for the moment is all about: "Gonna feel like hell tomorrow/so I won't go to sleep tonight/Na nana na na sorrow/everything's gonna be alright/I am invincible/I have no fear/I am benevolent/I am the king of beers."

But then, with the insight that comes with experience, Too Much Joy relates: "I love all my friends/I wish they would go away/I say stupid things/Forgotten them all by Monday/Please don't remind me/A man's bar is his castle/And this stool is my throne/Why am I such an a—e/why am I here alone?" There's obviously more to all this than getting drunk and falling down. "Good Kill," "Pirates," "Gramatam" and "Thanksgiving in Reno," which present ideas ranging from being bored with everyday existence to the screwing over of Native Americans, are just some noteworthy cuts.

It would be a critique faux pas to not mention "Long Haired Guys From England," about guys who can't get girls cuz they aren't all in foreign rock bands so let's go over there and get some English babes, and the simply titled "Theme Song," perhaps the best theme song since "The Monkees Theme" (this reviewer is probably risking life and limb for mentioning the Monkees and Too Much Joy in the same sentence and hopes this never gets back to the band).

Run, don't walk, to your nearest record store.

Test your compatibility

Dear Readers:

I was a guest on a recent Dayna Eubanks Show. The topic for the week was brides, and during the segment on which I appeared, we discussed sexual compatibility.

Today, I'm publishing the sexual compatibility quiz that we used on the show. It is a bit facetious, but not entirely. It is meant to be a stimulus for discussion for you and your significant.

As I stated, it was designed for engaged couples, but even those who are already married might profit from talking about these topics.

Let me know if you find something out that you hadn't known before.

to live music performances, but will soon screen films at least once a week. A full schedule should soon be announced for the cozy 300-seat venue.

The downtown Tele-Arts Theatre recently closed, but Carl Allison has taken his shows on the road under the auspices of the non-profit City Wide Cinema. He's off to a bad start, however, as last weekend's scheduled screenings of Dutch thriller "The Vanishing at the Music Hall" were hastily rescheduled for sometime next month.

The Redford and Michigan theaters continue to attract specialized audiences. Seniors will flock to the bi-weekly screenings of classic musicals with live organ recitals at the Redford while students experience old and new classics for the first time at the downtown Ann Arbor theater.

MEANWHILE, FREE series continue to pack them in. The Livonia Mall's Tuesday morning program of ten sells out, so to speak, with a month-long series of screen biographies (highlighted by "Lust for Life" this week), followed by tributes to science fiction and westerns later this summer.

The Blockbuster series at Henry Ford Centennial Library in Dearborn can still count between 60-75 heads at their Monday evening screenings.

According to Howard Brooks, who introduces the films each week, the audience traditionally grows larger as the nights get hotter.

"Besides," he said, "I'm convinced that people like to get out and mix with an audience. It's not the same sitting home and watching video."

Race teams aims for a grand win

By Pat Schutte
special writer

Success is projected in different ways and perceived in many more.

For instance, it could be seen as the success of the great football running back making the headlines and drawing the incredible salary. Or it could be the Best Picture Oscar for the director that launches his career skyward.

To make individual success work, one needs to back oneself with a team of professionals willing to go the distance to achieve greatness.

For a crew of local guys, it's no different. They're the ones who set the table for driver Jim Robinson to feast on. They're the Robinson Racing Team, the behind-the-scenes guys on a successful Sports Car Club of America racer.

BASED IN Livonia, Robinson Racing is in its second year of competition on the SCCA Trans-Am circuit.

The team owner and driver, George Robinson (who lives in Texas and owns and operates the 74-ranch, a game hunting ranch), is the first to admit the importance of the team that he and team president Robert Nowakowski put together.

"This really is a team sport, but unfortunately, the driver gets more of the glory when in reality he is only one component in the racing machine," said Robinson, a former ski racer who claims that getting behind wheel of a race car has taken the thrill out of all the other exciting things he does.

Robinson met Nowakowski through race driver Wally Dallenbach Jr.

"HE (ROBINSON) was cruising around the race courses and asking team owners how much it would cost for him to drive their cars," Nowakowski said.

So Robinson and his checkbook and Nowakowski and his performance automotive company — Technosports — formed a partnership and put together a racing team in the heart of automotive country, a prime location for a team like theirs.

"Detroit is an idea place," he said. "It has all of the materials it takes to run a race car . . . And the access to the highways here makes it very easy for us to travel."

Many of today's race drivers, Nowakowski said, come from "well-to-do families." And Robinson is no exception. Yet, at 31, Robinson understands that it just doesn't take a wad of money to win at this game.

"Everybody on our team is treated with equal respect," Robinson said. "They have all worked together for several years now and when we show up at a race, the competition knows we're ready to go."

CASE IN point . . . Sears Point, Calif., in the opening race of the 1991 SCCA Trans-Am season.

"In the opening race, we out-crewed everyone," Robinson said on their fourth place finish against other teams sporting several cars and up to a dozen crew members. Robinson Racing has one car and four crew members.

"Without this crew behind me we'd just be spinning our wheels."

Team manager Jim Fraser of Novi, who has worked for Indy champions Rick Mears and Bobby Rahal, said he and his friends who make up the Robinson Racing have finally come full circle.

"We've all worked together at various places and for various teams over the years and this is a culmination of talent with a new racing team," he said.

THIS YEAR Robinson Racing (which in its first year was called Comp Kart) bought the framework of a car — a rolling chassis without a motor or transmission — from SCCA racing and design guru Bob Riley of Indianapolis.

With a steady hand, mechanic Dave Warfel makes modifications to the hood of the Robinson Team car.

From there, the team built what amounts to a seriously customized 1991 Camaro, complete with a 4.5-liter, 310-horsepower, V-6 engine and a host of other cool things that make it illegal to drive on the street.

Built to SCCA Trans-Am specifications, the blue, white and hunter's orange car weighs in at 2,400 pounds. The only two original parts it wears from the Camaro they started with is the windshield and roof angle, making the car identifiable to fans.

And it has a somewhat less than scary top speed of 190 mph, which, Fraser said, is fast enough for the kind of racing done here in Detroit and at other SCCA Trans-Am circuit courses across the country.

"This car doesn't have neck-snapping acceleration," Fraser said. "The handling characteristics of this type of car makes it what it is. It will corner about as fast as it goes straight."

THE SCCA Trans-Am class evolved from racing the muscle cars of the 1960s and early '70s — the Ford Boss Mustang, Camaro Z-28 and Ford Cobra.

"It was a playground for the factories," Fraser said. "That's where this series came from."

A car that's more than a car

By Pat Schutte
special writer

Here's a look at the basic hard goods (for example, the car, its parts and the equipment involved in transporting and maintaining the car) that are associated with operating a SCCA Trans-Am racing team.

THE RACE CAR:

- The frame and suspension, $95,000.
- The engine (you'll need four), $25,000 each.
- The transmission (you'll need two), $8,000 each.
- The rear end (you'll need two), $10,000 each.
- The tires (110-mile average per set, three or four sets per weekend), $1,000 per set.
- The wheels (you'll need five sets), $2,400 per set.
- The brake pads (they would last five years on a family car, spent on a weekend in a race car), $520 for four.
- The fuel (90 gallons on a weekend), $4 per gallon.

THE TRANSPORTATION VEHICLE:

- The tractor (custom with a sleep cab), $95,000.

Trans-Am is the most competitive of the different race series like the International Motor Sports Association, GTO, GTP and Camel Light, because car modifications are strictly governed and costs are kept down to make it a true classic American car race, he said.

"The less money you can spend, the greater the competition you have," Fraser said.

THIS WEEKEND will likely be the most importance race of the season for Robinson Racing. Not only is it a chance for Fraser, Nowakowski and the rest of the crew to pull off a victory in their hometown, but it also puts Robinson and his performance car in full view of the Big Three automakers, especially Chevrolet.

"To win here, with all of the guys being from the Detroit area, would be the greatest thing that could happen," Fraser said. "We all want this one . . . bad."

"We've produced a good product and now we're getting ready to market it," Robinson said. "The elements are here. All the big guns are out in Detroit."

As if the hometown pressure wasn't enough, Detroit is one of the more challenging courses for driver and crew alike on the SCCA Trans-Am circuit. There is no room for error.

"The track is completely challenging and required an immense amount of driver concentration," Fraser said. "If you screw up on the street circuit (as opposed to the open road circuit) you hit a cement wall."

AUTO RACING. Amateur I-696 racers think they could easily handle the fast life. Not so, Nowakowski said.

"We spend all night working on last minute engine changes, living out of hotels and airports," he said. "This is definitely not the life of champagne and cheese. It takes a lot of time away from our families."

So Robinson will have one advantage over much of the field. He knows that when he gets behind the wheel and is called to the start, his crew has had the advantage of spending the night before the race with their support crew . . . the wives, children and families backing those behind the scenes in the work of auto racing.

- The trailer (complete with generator, welder, air compressor, storage for race fuel tank and all the tools), $100,000.
- The tools (enough to fix anything with a motor), $90,000 plus.

NOT INCLUDED:

- The salary of the team members (including a cook), the motor home that follows the team, transportation (permits and fuel) costs and a lot more.

And consider this: There is an $11,000 purse at each of the 16 series races. If Robinson Racing won every one of them (which is highly unlikely for any SCCA Trans-Am team) they would be able to pay for their tires and their engines.

"They say that horse racing is the sport of kings," said team manager Jim Fraser on the great deal of money associated with horse racing. "For what it costs to board a race horse for a year (roughly $15,000). We spend that alone on traveling permits for our truck."

"We'll spend close to $1 million this year doing something that we all like very much. This (auto racing) is the real sport of kings."

Behind a great race is a great poster . . .

By Ralph R. Echtenaw
staff writer

Maybe Kathy Nagler should grumble about her job assignments more often.

Nagler designed the 1991 Detroit Grand Prix poster for Simons, Michelson, Zieve Inc., a Troy-based advertising agency. But she wasn't enthusiastic about the assignment, having just come off a hectic week finishing the Michigan Opera Theatre program book.

"At first, to be honest, I wasn't real enthused about doing it. I was just sort of beat and kind of grumbled about being forced," she said. "But it worked out pretty good. I'm glad in retrospect."

SMZ was one of five advertising agencies contacted last year by Detroit Renaissance Grand Prix to submit designs for the new poster.

"You're working like 20 hours a day to get this book out and the last day, after five days of doing that, I'd just got home and crashed when we found out we had the Grand Prix project," Nagler said. "We basically had the weekend to come up with some ideas. We had less than a week to do it, which is just a real short amount of time to do something like that."

So it's no wonder SMZ personnel were happy when two of their eight designs were selected to be among the four finalists.

The designs were printed in the Detroit Free Press Magazine and posted at the North American International Auto Show in January. A popular vote was taken through the magazine and at the auto show to determine the winner, and wouldn't you know it, the grumbler's design was chosen.

"I WENT down to the auto show just so I could see what was going on," Nagler said. "I couldn't help when I walked past the counter (where the designs were) to just look a little bit to see if I could see who people were voting for."

Although Nagler, a Troy resident, can take much of the credit for the poster, the signature on it is that of Ken Taylor, the artist who turned Nagler's concept into reality. Coincidentally, Troy resident Taylor also drew the Grand Prix III poster seven years ago.

The new posters are now on sale for $15 at shops all over the Metro Detroit area. The race will be run June 16.

JIM RIDER/staff photographer

Kathy Nagler may have thought a week wasn't enough to come up with an idea for this Detroit Grand Prix, but it was, since her DaVinci-style artwork graces this year's poster.

Nagler's idea was to capture a theoretical Indy car designer's pen-to-performance vision of the 200 mph-plus racers. Specifically, the poster incorporates a "Da Vinci-style" look, showing an Indy car challenging the streets of Detroit gradually changing into a blueprint-like drawing with a symbolic 10 in the background to represent the race's 10th anniversary.

"You're kind of peeking over the shoulder of the guy designing the car," Nagler said.

BORN IN Ann Arbor, Nagler and her family moved to Oak Park when she was 1. When she was in the seventh grade, the family moved to West Bloomfield.

Asked what she considers her hometown, Nagler said "Metro Detroit."

A longtime hands-on art aficionado ("I took all the art classes in school"), Nagler never aimed at a career in that field, thinking of it in terms of struggling painters trying to sell watercolors in shopping malls for $10 each.

"I never thought you could make a living at it, so I figured it would always be a hobby for me," she said. But while attending the University of Michigan, she got a summer job at SMZ as a delivery driver.

"It really opened my eyes to all the different ways you could make a living in the arts field," she said. "I just had no idea."

Nine years later she's on the brink of her 10th high school reunion, newly married, and still working for SMZ. Funny thing though, Nagler never got a college degree.

"A degree is nice, and sometimes I wish I had one, but to have gotten a degree, I would have needed to take classes that eventually I could have taught because I was also working at the same time. I think when you're in art, a degree just gets your foot in the door. The only thing that's going to get you a job is your portfolio."

NAGLER CERTAINLY has more than her foot in the door at this point, but the job doesn't get any easier.

"Advertising is a high-pressure, fast-paced, deadline-oriented job," she said. "Sometimes you have to be creative on demand and it's kind of stressful. You can't please everybody all the time when you're doing something subjective. I like red. I like blue. Shut up. I don't care. Do this. Do that." But I thrive under pressure.

"If I have a week to do it, I'm not going to have the idea on the first day. I have to wait until it's much more of a panic. And you get the ideas at the weirdest times."

Indeed, the Grand Prix poster vision came to Nagler while she was undergoing physical therapy for a soccer injury.

Speaking of soccer, Nagler is an athlete from way back. She appeared on West Bloomfield High School's inaugural soccer team when she was a junior.

"I made the team because I bled a lot," she said, "showed effort."

For three years she was part of Oakland University's women's soccer club, where she received one of the greatest thrills of her 17-year existence in the form of a headline in OU's student newspaper, The Oakland Post, and displayed her acumen for thriving under pressure.

"I was in a big scoring slump and the coach had threatened to throw me off the team if I didn't score a goal in this game, and I scored four of them. The headline was, 'Nagler explodes on Western,' like parts of my body were lying all over campus."

Her suggested headline for this story was, "Nagler explodes on the Grand Prix." Let's hope not.

Larados to return

The popular singing group, the Larados, will return to the Garden City Community Festival with a free performance 6-10 p.m. Saturday at the City Park pavilion, Cherry Hill and Merriman. The performance will be sponsored by Crestwood Dodge.

Driver training?

These youngsters and adults are enjoying the controlled "antique auto" drive, to be part of the annual Community Festival in the Park Thursday through Sunday. It will be held in City Park, Cherry Hill east of Merriman.

FILE PHOTO

There will be carnival rides, pony rides, food booths, flea market and free entertainment during the four days.

HOROSCOPE

June 9 through June 15

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Write down the things you need to remember this week. You are so busy and rushed that some minor details could fall through the cracks.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

It will be hard, but try to take the backseat regarding work. Let others take the fame. You'll only look better for your selfishness.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

A hot summer romance could be in the works for the lucky Leo. Be careful how you deal with co-workers, especially in financial matters.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Don't let a loved one manipulate your emotions to suit their own needs. Your well-being and mental health should be most important to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Pay close attention to money matters. Don't let work interfere with domestic affairs. On the other hand, don't take problems at home to work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Your love life could use a little sprucing up. A close friend may have just the recipe. Listen to your instincts and just go with the flow.

By C.C. Clark

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

A friend may share a secret with you this week, and it is imperative you keep it under your hat. Take some time off to travel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Sharing yourself with a loved one isn't always easy, but you are learning. Be generous with your love — the results will surprise you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

There will be times this week when you think you have lost all control. Don't worry, you've got a lot more going for you than you think.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

A heavy dose of physical activity will help you mentally this week. All that extra oxygen will give you some much-needed energy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Some people just won't give up until they bring you down. Don't let them do it to you. You are stronger than ever now and can face down anyone.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Tone down your overpowering tendencies. Let others share in the limelight. You reach a decision you have been contemplating a long time. TV Listing Inc.

From card shark to 'The Man in the Family'

Ray Sharkey gets domestic role

By Steven Alan McGaw

Family tensions, family tumult and family ties (with apologies to the Keaton clan) are time-honored fodder for TV. Running the gamut from zany misadventures with sitcom tribes like the Cleavers to heart-tugging drama in series like the cleverly titled "Family Ties" and the late, lamented "A Year in the Life," familial ups and downs have been the stuff of television since it started. And TV, in its way, has mirrored the changing makeup, dynamics and responsibilities of American family units, as well as reflected the more serious sides of the ties that bind.

Such is the case with ABC's new "The Man in the Family," premiering Wednesday, June 19. Ray Sharkey stars as cocky Sal Bovasso, a charming ne'er-do-well called back to his Brooklyn home from a life of luck and leisure in Las Vegas. The reason? Sal's dad is dying and has one request: that his son take charge of their small, family-operated grocery store.

The young man promises to honor his pop's request, maybe realizing what a change it will make in his life. To be in charge of the Bovasso family business, Sal soon learns, is to be in charge of the Bovassos. Veteran character actress (and appropriately named) Julie Bovasso plays Sal's fiery mother, Angie. Leah Remini and Anne De Salvo are featured, respectively, as Sal's sisters Tina and Annie, with Billy L. Sullivan as Robby, Annie's rebellious sons and reliable Louis Guss as irascible Uncle Bennie. Don Stark rounds out a list of series regulars as Cha Cha, a boyhood chum all too eager to welcome Sal back to the old neighborhood, but heedless of his pal's new responsibilities and resolve.

In Wednesday's premiere episode, aptly titled "Honor Bound," Sal makes his commitment and begins to figure out how to live with it. He must also assert himself in the unlikely role as head of the tempestuous Bovasso household. Sal's agenda is further complicated when Cha Cha and another chum, Vinnie, arrive proposing a wild get-rich-quick scheme. Guest stars in "Honor Bound" include Joe Cortese as Vinnie, veteran Sylvia Sidney as Mrs. Panetta and Al Ruscio as the fading patriarch, Carmine Bovasso. The premiere installment was written by Ed Weinberger, from a story by Weinberger and Gina Wendkos, and directed by John Rich.

Ray Sharkey brings a wealth of experience to his portrayal of Sal Bovasso, both personally and professionally. Like his character in "The Man in the Family," Sharkey is an Italian-American from Brooklyn, N.Y. Seeing acting as a means to better himself and leave his tough adolescence behind, Sharkey studied for several years and then took off for Los Angeles. Since then, he's had roles in "Who'll Stop the Rain," "The Idolmaker" (winning a Golden Globe Award), "The Lords of Flatbush" and last year's critically acclaimed "Class Struggles in Beverly Hills."

Sharkey is perhaps even more familiar to television audiences after well-received work in "Wiseguy," "The Neon Empire" and "Behind Enemy Lines." He's played the title role in "The Revenge of Al Capone," appeared in Tennessee Williams' "27 Wagons Full of Cotton" for cable's Arts & Entertainment network and played a recurring character in "Crime Story," NBC's intelligent critical fave of a few seasons back.

Carol Burnett tells tale of 'Peter Rabbit'

By Dan Rice

America's reigning queen of comedy Carol Burnett narrates The Tale of Peter Rabbit, an HBO Storybook musical premiering Tuesday, June 11. The animated account of the daring bunny features songs by Stephen Lawrence and Sheldon Harnick.

For creepier tastes, HBO begins its third installment of Tales From the Crypt on Saturday, June 15. Look for guest appearances by Mariel Hemingway and Beau Bridges, and be forewarned that Michael J. Fox takes a stab at directing an episode.

The First Lady who became a fashion icon and the prize target of the paparazzi is profiled in Arts & Entertainment's Biography: Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis on Tuesday, June 11. The elusive double widow is revealed through home movies and interviews.

The brightest stars in country music will come out the night The Nashville Network brings you the TNN Music City News Country Awards live from the Grand Ole Opry, Monday, June 10. Hosted by Tanya Tucker and Roy Clark, the nominees for the fan-voted honors include Garth Brooks, George Strait, Randy Travis, and the Statler Brothers, with a special Living Legend award going to Minnie Pearl.

ESPN Auto Racing: The NASCAR Winston Cup races continue with the Banquet Frozen Foods 300 live from Sonoma, Calif., on Saturday, June 9.

Spike Lee fans filmmaking flames

By Lisa Otoupal

Just as the commotion from one of his film begins to die down, Spike Lee builds it up again with yet another movie presenting a portrait of America from his view.

The controversial director was born in Atlanta as Shelton Jackson Lee and was later nicknamed Spike by his mother. His family moved to Brooklyn, N.Y., in the early 1960s. Lee's interest in films developed during his years at Atlanta's Morehouse College. One of his early films was The Answer, about a black filmmaker hired to remake Birth of a Nation. His senior thesis, a film called Joe's Bed-Stuy Barber Shop: We Cut Heads, won him a Student Academy Award.

Lee's first feature film She's Gotta Have It, about an independent woman pursued by three men, was shot in 12 days on a budget of about $175,000. It won critical praise, turned a nice profit and established Lee as an important filmmaker. His next film, School Daze didn't do well at the box office but received good reviews and is available on video.

Undaunted by the public's lukewarm response to School Daze, Lee went on to make Do the Right Thing. While critics liked the film, opposition and concern for its message was vocal.

One team may emerge as NBA team of decade

By Steve Paschal

Every year it seems like there's some team that sports media-types try to anoint as the next great pro dynasty, a bunch of guys who dominate their profession with the same methodical coolness that characterized the un-touchable New York Yankee baseball teams through four decades.

But not since the Boston Celtics defined the game in the 1960s has a team come along that could truly claim to be a National Basketball League dynasty. However, when the last two teams left standing after three grueling playoff series collide for the NBA Championship on NBC this week, one will undoubtedly inherit the burden of being compared to the great teams of the past.

The Detroit Pistons know what it's like to stand at the pinnacle for two straight seasons, but the chances of Isaiah Thomas and company holding off the likes of the Portland Trail Blazers and Chicago Bulls for an entire decade seem remote at best. The Los Angeles Lakers, a team that habitually makes it to the Western Conference finals, are in the midst of transition. And even with players like Magic Johnson and Kareem Abdul Jabbar, the Lakers managed to win just five titles in the 1980s. That's an impressive feat, but it is still a far cry from the 10 championship banners that Red Auerbach and company brought home to the Boston Gardens between 1959 and 1969.

BITS AND PIECES

'Back to the Future's' Michael J. Fox transmuted to present animated tale

An animated Back to the Future with the voices and likenesses of Michael J. Fox, Christopher Lloyd and Tom Wilson will premiere next fall on the CBS Saturday morning lineup. The series will expand on all three Back to the Future films with new characters and wacky new inventions.

HBO did so well with its romance trilogy Women & Men: Stories of Seduction, debuting last August, the cable station decided to try it again. Ray Liotta (Goodfellas) and Andie MacDowell (Green Card) will star in the first vignette titled "A Domestic Dilemma."

"Frugal Gourmet" Jeff Smith is moving the production of his PBS cooking show from Chicago to his home city of Seattle. The reason: "I just cannot stand one more United Airlines morning omelet," said Smith.

The rap group Byches With Problems won't be allowed to use the videotape of Rodney King being beaten by Los Angeles police. The group had offered amateur cameraman George Holliday $1,000 for the rights to use the footage as a backdrop for its new music video "Wanted." Holliday says the video's storyboards and lyrics struck him as too anti-police.

The U.S. Supreme Court has thrown out a $16 million libel case against 60 Minutes commentator Andy Rooney. Rooney was being sued by an Arizona manufacturer for saying that Rain-X, a wipe-on windshield product designed to repel rain, sleet and snow, "didn't work." The court has ruled such comments are protected by the First Amendment.
