City Commissioner Mary Childs wants to dump the computerized "voice mail" system used to answer calls coming in to city hall. Before fellow commissioners on Monday, she read an item in the July 1 Observer which told of Plymouth Township trustees voting last month to dump their computerized phone-answering system.

"When I read that, I wanted to stand up and cheer," she said. "I wish our commissioners would take that under advisement... It makes a big difference." Commissioner John Vos said, "If you draft a resolution, I'll support it." Childs said she would, in time for the July 15 meeting.

Opposed

State representative candidate Deborah Whyman has announced her opposition to a bill proposed in the state House. House Bill 4267 would take growth in business property taxes from selected areas, and spread it to all school districts.

"It is an unfair seizure of future growth," said Whyman. "Eventually, it will end up costing the taxpayers in Northville, Plymouth and Canton." Whyman is opposed in the Aug. 6 Republican primary by Georgina Goss and Jerry Vorva.

Vacancies

When the Canton Board of Trustees appointed John Burdziak to the Canton Board of Trustees finishing ex-trustee John Prenczyk's term. However, Burdziak is required to resign from the Canton Planning Commission and Downtown Development Authority.

He served as chairman of the planning commission and was a member of the DDA since its inception in 1984. Appointments to the planning commission are made by the supervisor with the approval of the township board. Appointments to the DDA are made by the township board.

Schools put 3 land parcels on the market

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

Three small parcels of land owned by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are for sale. At the same time, school officials are keeping their eyes open for future school sites in the western part of the district in anticipation of residential development and increased enrollment.

THE DISTRICT is seeking bids for three acres in the southwest corner of Centennial Educational Park, north of the Sunflower subdivision. Also for sale is a 3.5-acre parcel south of Hanford Road and east of Canton Center. Both could be used as residential sites.

The third parcel is .16 acre on the southwest corner of the East Middle School property on Mill Street. Interested in buying the land is Colony Car Wash on Ann Arbor Road.

"The owner is interested in expanding and remodeling if he can get a little land to meet the city's parking requirements," said real estate agent Harold Fischer, who's handling the transactions for the district.

The CEP site "is in the corner of the park separated by a high water table and either a small stream or creek. It has no utility value to the district, which is why we're willing to part with it, if someone wants to speculate in terms of adding to their subdivision," said school Superintendent John Hoben.

Because all the parcels are landlocked, their value is less than it would be if the property abutted roads.

— Harold Fischer

Because all the parcels are landlocked, their value is less than it would be if the property abutted roads, said Fischer, who estimates their worth at close to three times what they were purchased for in the 1950s and mid-1960s.

THE DISTRICT'S future school sites have dwindled from 15-20 to five. Four are suitable for middle schools and one for an elementary, said Hoben, who describes the district as "land poor."

"The problem with the sites (four of which are in Canton with the fifth in Plymouth Township), is where they are," he said. "We certainly aren't going to build schools away from the population. It appears the growing section is west of Field school. We're busying some of those kids to Field, Hoben and Eriksson, so it's a problem."

Predicting where growth will be and the numbers of students likely to be entering the district is difficult.

Resident, 95, shares secret: 'I never give up'

Bill Buswinka holds the key to the city of Worcester, Mass. He was invited to speak at the 100th anniversary of Worcester's Downing Street School, which he attended in 1901.

When 95-year-old Bill Buswinka was 7, he helped his dad put up a picket fence alongside the family's residence on Providence Street next to the fire house in Worcester, Mass.

On a recent visit back East, Buswinka — now living in Plymouth with his son Jim and his family — drove by the house at the top of the hill and saw that the fence is still standing. Buswinka also stopped by Downing Street School, where he enrolled in September 1901.

PRINCIPAL BENJAMIN Kinney informed him that the school's 100th anniversary was coming, and invited

Buswinka to be the honored guest speaker at the May 23 centennial celebration.

Buswinka couldn't attend, but he taped a speech, intending to send it to be played at the festivities. "It got too late to send it, so what I've written is the "Speech that Never Was," said Buswinka, who received in the mail a key to the city from Worcester Mayor Jordan Levy, and mementos from the school.

Buswinka remembers being in a classroom one day "when it was empty. It was recess or after school. I was sitting in my seat, and the teacher and my sister were up front. The complaint was that I was 'too active.' The teacher said, 'Look what he's doing now.' I had turned up the folding seat and was sitting on the top edge. Well, we got straightened out on that, but I did tell the teacher that the little girl sitting in back of me kept pulling my hair and I didn't like that."

"A short time later, in the middle of the week, my folks said, 'No school today. We were going downtown. It's President McKinley's funeral.'"

In 1903, the family moved to Braceville, Ill. where Buswinka's father worked in a coal mine. "I saw my very first automobile in Braceville. It sure caused a lot of runarounds," Buswinka said.

After a mining accident in which Lawrence Buswinka was nearly killed, the family moved back to Worcester. The young Buswinka hawked papers "at Main and Front. I'd holler, 'Gazette, American or Post.' They were one cent each. The Morning Telegram was the paper of the rich — two cents a copy."

City wants OK to quit airport JOA if vote fails

By Kevin Brown staff writer

If city residents vote in November to get out of running Mettetal Airport, officials want a written guarantee from Plymouth Township that they'll be allowed to get out of joint airport operation.

City Manager Steve Walters outlined city commissioners' reasons for seeking such a guarantee in a letter to Township Supervisor Gerald Law. "The city commission feels that as the representatives of the city voters, they must implement whatever decision the voters make," Walters wrote.

"WE DON'T HAVE any problem with probably putting something in writing," Law said.

Law said he'd confer with the township attorney, adding, "I'll try to get something out to them in the next week."

What city commissioners are asking for is a written amendment to the joint operating agreement between the city and township. The amendment states that should the city commission choose to terminate the airport contract with Plymouth Township, "the township may elect to proceed on its own."

Plymouth Concerned Citizens, which opposes the city's involvement in running the airport, collected enough petition signatures this spring to put a ballot issue regarding the airport before voters.

If passed, the ballot issue would amend the city charter, to prohibit city ownership of an airport unless voters approve doing so.

Should the charter amendment be approved in November, opponents and supporters of city involvement in the Canton airport differ on whether the vote would require the commission to get out of the airport operation effort.

Regardless, a majority of commissioners has agreed to get out of the airport agreement, if voters show that's what they want.

Walters notes in his letter to Law that former mayor Dennis Bila and former township supervisor Maurice Breen "had a verbal understanding

House fire

A fire on Sunday destroyed a Plymouth Township home while the owners were on vacation in northern Michigan. There were no injuries. The house is on Sheldon Road north of Judson. The blaze was caused by power lines downed by the storm. The lines hit a metal fence, which touches the garage. The house was engulfed in flames when Plymouth Township firefighters arrived.

leather belts at the Hudson Belting Co. "I worked a 56-hour work week and I got $2.60 for the week," he said. "In those days we had no income tax and people hitched because they had to pay a $2 poll tax to vote."

"Our first $1 billion total federal budget came in 1915 or 16. Now it's a thousand times that. Wages are up 92 times. Who is getting ahead?"

Buswinka says he's "more than just read history; I have lived it and it's not quite the same. In these times when we periodically have hostages taken, I like to remember Teddy Roosevelt's reactions."

"A bandit who lived about where Khadafy now lives, named Raisuli, kidnapped an American of Greek descent named Perdicaris. He wanted us to pay a ransom. Teddy sent him a telegram. 'Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead.' We got Perdicaris alive in a very few days."

After World War I, Buswinka was making 50 cents an hour as a draftsman when "I said, 'I'm going out West. There are a lot of jobs in Detroit and all over.'"

"I went by train to Buffalo. When I got off, I thought right away, 'I'm not going to like Buffalo. I took a boat ride to Detroit. I thought if I can't get a job, I'll go to Cleveland, because I had some distant relatives there.'"

Buswinka needs't have worried. "Detroit was a boom town in October 1919. You could get seven jobs in one morning."

IN 1925, A 52-YEAR romance caught fire at the Pier dance hall off Jefferson Avenue near Belle Isle.

"They used to have these dance halls around Detroit. You could go with friends, or by yourself. I was always so darn scared of people and girls, but in the dance halls I was never afraid for a minute. I'd just go."

"One Saturday, I went up there and picked out this girl. She was a Polish Catholic girl from Bay City named Evangeline. After that we started going together, and six months later, I got engaged."

"I found out later that the friend my wife was with that night, Mrs. Chidester, predicted I was the guy she was going to marry."

Wedding bells chimed in 1926, the same year Buswinka's brother Peter died at sea in the Bermuda Triangle enroute from New York to Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Buswinka, whose wife died in 1978, said one of the secrets to keeping a marriage together is empathy.

"I've always looked to see the other person's point of view. That's the secret. I try to see why they act like that, even though it seems crazy. They have a reason for thinking the way they do," said Buswinka, who has two sons, a daughter and seven grandchildren.

BUSWINKA SAYS THE "high point of my life was my first retreat of several days to the Trappist monastery at Gethsemani, Kan. It does an awful lot for a person. I call that heaven on earth," said Buswinka, who authored a book called "Three Months that Were Different." The book recounts a cross-country trip, hopping freight trains with a couple of friends in 1919.

Buswinka says the Ten Commandments "have done more to keep the world civilized than all the laws ever passed. If we had love and honesty on this earth, we wouldn't need laws. But I don't think that will ever happen."

It bothers Buswinka that "it takes

$4 million to elect a congressman. That's out of this world. Before the next election, I'm going to do my best to get rid of the incumbents. We need some new people. I want to appeal to people who never vote and tell them they're giving away something worth a hell of a lot. If they'd vote, we'd make a terrific upset."

Buswinka has a few theories on good health and longevity.

"Years ago, I heard a fellow who was 114 being interviewed on TV. He said, 'I never give up. I just keep on going. A lot of people grow up, get sick and discouraged and die, and they're only 90 or 95 years old.' That stuck in my mind."

"I have a heart that skips a beat here and there. But it's been that way for 50 or 60 years," said Buswinka. "My son Jim who's a doctor has me take two pills a day, but I only take one."

"Lithuanians are long lived," added Buswinka, whose parents emigrated from the old country. "They have one of the best records in Europe of people living to be 100 and older. Only the Belgians live longer, and they live on yogurt. I'm eating a lot of yogurt, so maybe I'll live a lot longer."

A dislodged, broken wheel trim ring testifies to the poor condition of Plymouth Road in east Plymouth. City commissioners want county help to fix the road.

Solution sought for bumpy road

Bumpy Main Street in west Plymouth isn't getting any better, and that's drawing anger from some city commissioners.

Commissioner John Vos said he'd talked to county commissioner Maurice Breen about what the city could do to get the section of road fixed.

"He said that if we write letters explaining the problem, he can take them to the county road commission," Vos said.

"Then perhaps they can take it farther and find the money as they seem to do with other projects," Vos said.

This spring, the county said it didn't have enough money to fix the portion of Main Street, saying other projects had precedence. Some city commissioners have likened the section of the road, near Ernesto's, to a test track. A sizeable portion of the road is nearly covered in potholes.

Breen said that to help impress on county officials the seriousness of the problem, the city commission "ought to pass some sort of resolution, so the county doesn't think I was just dreaming it up on my own."

Once the city passes such a resolution, "I'll be taking it to the county roads division as soon as possible," Breen said.

Schools want to sell 3 land parcels given the area's changing demographics, said Hoben.

In the 1950s, households averaged 2.54 children. The number has dropped to less than one, he said. Homes being built west of Beck are on lots half an acre and larger. "There are a lot of things that can influence enrollment. It's a chess game, really," the superintendent said.

Plymouth-Canton has the equivalent of two elementary schools housed in portables throughout the district. A major expansion of the exceptional child, or special ed, program represents the equivalent of a middle school spread throughout the district, added Hoben. "It keeps growing, and that takes classrooms away from those normally used for general ed," he said.

The district is proposing a $60 million bond issue for a September election, with part of the funding to be designated for site acquisition.

"We're not in the real estate business, and we don't anticipate selling or buying in the next year," said Hoben. It depends on when things come up and our ability to take advantage of those times.

"Trying to locate and purchase land and sitting on it until such a time as it's needed has pretty much been our history of land acquisition," said Hoben. "Right now, I'd say there is no move afoot to sell any of our property or to purchase. We'll always take a look if something comes along."

OVERCROWDING NOW plaguing the elementary schools will be the high schools' dilemma five or six years from now.

"When this year's third graders get into high school, we'll start to see swelling in the high school ranks. That gives us a period of almost six years before that's going to happen, but it will happen," said Hoben.

Let's he influence the board of education, Hoben won't say — for the time being — whether he favors the building of a third high school or a fourth building at Centennial Educational Park.

"We have some time; we don't need to decide anything at this point. But the question is going to have to be solved."

Plymouth Canton and Salem high schools, designed for a maximum 4,200 students, housed about 4,400 this past school year. Enrollment has been as high as 4,700.

Hoben said he doesn't anticipate that a schools of choice policy — should one be enacted by the state Legislature — will greatly affect enrollment, based on the experience of states where it's been tried.

City seeks JOA amendment

that if the city voters directed the city to withdraw from the airport agreement, then the township would agree to allow the city to do so.

"With both officials now having left office, this does not give much assurance to the city's voters as we head toward the charter election," Walters wrote.

"We have no problem with that," Law said.

A glorious Fourth

Weather, pride shine in local parade

By Julie Brown
staff writer

THE FOURTH of July was a perfect day for a parade in Plymouth.

Even the weather cooperated. The day's rain stopped in time for the early afternoon parade through the streets of downtown Plymouth.

Veterans, including those from Operation Desert Storm and other wars, were honored during the annual event, sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Jaycees, Representatives of the Mayflower-Lt. Gamble Post No. 6695, Veterans of Foreign Wars, participated, as did members of Plymouth/Canton Chapter 528 of Vietnam Veterans of America.

"We had the honor again this year of being the color guard. It was a tremendous feeling," said Mike Schlott of Plymouth, president of the local Vietnam Veterans chapter. "It really made you feel good. It was like a big welcome home ceremony."

MANY PARADE floats helped to carry out the patriotic theme on the nation's 215th birthday. The Plymouth Elks float honored those who served in Operation Desert Storm. The Plymouth Business and Professional Women's float honored servicemen and women.

"Oh, it was exciting," said Liz Johnson of Plymouth, second vice president of the Plymouth BPW. "It was a fun parade. We all enjoyed participating. It was a beautiful day."

Johnson, a local attorney, carried the banner for the Plymouth BPW during the Fourth of July parade. The group's float included a number of different flags, including a POW/MIA flag.

"We were honoring all our soldiers. We had some servicepeople who had served," Johnson said. "It's always good to see the community involvement, with so many people participating."

"It was a wonderful way for the community to come together and honor all the men and women who have served." Honoring the nation's independence and freedom is also important, Johnson said.

Members of the Plymouth/Canton Vietnam Veterans chapter had a busy day Thursday. They also marched in Northville's Fourth of July parade before coming to Plymouth.

THE VETERANS marched in this year's Memorial Day parade in Plymouth, and marched in last year's Plymouth Fourth of July and Memorial Day parades. The local veterans who served in Vietnam appreciated the applause they received at each parade. Many parade-goers stood at attention as the veterans went by.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

The local Vietnam Veterans of America chapter was well-represented at the parade in Plymouth. Members also marched in Northville's Fourth of July parade.

Matthew Adsit, 5½, watches as the parade goes by.

"It made us all feel real good," said Schlott, who served with the U.S. Navy in Vietnam during the mid-1960s. "It's a good feeling, being welcomed home. I think it's a good thing. Maybe the country is healing from Vietnam."

Schlott, a Ford Motor Co. employee, was pleased to see younger veterans honored for their contributions.

"I am glad to see Desert Storm servicepeople being welcomed home, men and women," he said.

The patriotic theme was carried out by many other parade participants, with Americans flags and red, white and blue attire in abundant supply. Festive floats weren't the only things featured in the parade.

Band members, clowns, bicyclists and others made their presence known. Historic and classic cars were featured, along with emergency vehicles from Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton and military vehicles. Members of the Wayne County Sheriff's Mounted Patrol participated.

Politicians and public officials were well-represented. This year's grand marshal for the parade was Michigan Gov. John Engler. Later that day, Engler headed to Grand Rapids, where President George Bush made a Fourth of July appearance and speech.

Other participants in Plymouth's parade included the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps, the Polish Centennial Dancers, Boy Scouts and Plymouth YMCA representatives. The Plymouth Concerned Citizens and representatives of local businesses also participated.

Police ticket garbage crew

A garbage crew was combining recyclables, compostable material and garbage in one load while making the rounds Tuesday in one Plymouth Township subdivision, residents told township police.

Police issued a ticket to the Waste Management of Michigan crew, according to the police report on the incident.

BB SHOTS: Seven Plymouth Township car owners called police on the morning of July 1 to report one or more of their car windows had been shot out, apparently by BB shots.

The vandalism occurred in south-central Plymouth Township, on Trallwood, Brookside, Partridge, Mayflower and Baywood, according to reports filed with township police. Damage in each incident ranged between $150 and $250.

BREAK-IN: Two color television sets, three watches and a silver jewelry box were among the items reported missing after a Plymouth Township woman discovered her house on Schoolcraft had been burglarized July 1.

According to the report filed with township police, the items were worth nearly $1,700. A thief or thieves apparently pried open two doors to get inside the house, as police saw damage to two door casings. Police are investigating.

crime watch

COUNTRY CONNIPTION: A 31-year-old Ann Arbor man was ticketed by police after he reportedly assaulted a Plymouth man at his Ann Arbor Trail home because he was playing country music shortly before 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said the suspect met the man on his porch "to complain about the country music, not the volume." The suspect called him fat, pushed him, and threatened physical violence while pointing a finger at him. Repeated attempts by officers to resolve the matter failed. The suspect, who was intoxicated and argumentative, was issued an appearance ticket and advised to stop the hostilities.

DANNY'S STIFFED: An assistant manager at Danny's Foods on Main Street cashed a $235 check for a Roe Street resident at 7:27 a.m. March 16 that bounced.

The suspect, who no longer lives on Roe Street, has not responded to certified mail notifying him about the bad check. The manager says the suspect has curly hair with a bald spot on top of his head, stands about 6 feet tall, weighs 250 pounds and has "Love" tattooed on his left hand.

Danny's will supply police with the man's driver's license number and date of birth.

FIREWORKS FUN FIZZLES: Two Plymouth police officers were on patrol shortly after 11 p.m. Tuesday when they heard fireworks exploding in Kellogg Park. Police were told by a group of youths that the people responsible took off running toward the east central parking lot.

Officers followed a car that was leaving the area and made a traffic stop. Walking up to the passenger's side, officers immediately noticed the passenger was breathing hard and sweating. Protruding from underneath the seat were super-charged M-80 firecrackers. The suspect, 18-year-old Cantos youth, was cited for illegal possession of fireworks and given an appearance ticket.

Artley named school board president

Lansing it isn't, but Dave Artley holds a new governmental position — president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Artley considered running for the state representative's seat that became available when Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, stepped down to take the Plymouth Township supervisor's job.

Artley's appointment became effective Monday. He served as president in 1987-88, and as board vice president in 1990, 1986 and 1984. He also has served as secretary and treasurer.

Trustee Roland Thomas, re-elected to a four-year term last month, was chosen vice president. Trustee Les Walker was elected secretary. Outgoing president Dean Swartzweiler is treasurer.

According to by-laws adopted Monday night, the board will hold its regular meetings the second and fourth Mondays of the month at the board of education offices, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth. Workshops will be held on the first and third Mondays.

Holders of the district's general operating fund for the 1991-92 fiscal year will be the National Bank of Detroit, First of America Bank and the Community Federal Credit Union.

The law firm of Draugelis, Ashton, Scully, Haynes, MacLean and Pollard will be general counsel and handle land matters for the schools.

The Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg law firm will take care of financial and election matters, while Hardy, Lewis, Pollard and Page will handle labor relations.

Auditors for the district will be Plante & Maran, Certified Public Accountants. Stauder, Barch & Associates will be the district's financial consultants.

Prices differ in state's varying regions

IN ALL THE jabbering about school funding "equity," you'll read repeatedly about $2,500 and $8,000. They represent what the poorest Michigan public school district spends per child annually versus the richest.

I, too, have been guilty of reporting those bald numbers without explanation, as if they weren't apples and oranges.

The truth is that Michigan isn't one economy but two or three. You need to have different price indexes for different parts of the state.

PRICES IN metropolitan Detroit are about 22 percent higher than in the major outstate cities.

The evidence comes from elaborate indexes constructed by economists in the hospital industry and my own experiences across the state.

Housing prices in these suburbs run about 25 percent higher than in Kalamazoo, Saginaw and the major outstate cities between 40,000 and 200,000 population.

The hospital industry chart shows we pay 22 percent more for house construction and, as you'd expect, 22 percent more for public education.

In smaller towns and the North Woods boonies, the differential is even greater. But the comparison isn't apt because there are so few managerial, white collar, pink collar and skilled trades jobs in the third economy.

WE PAY 34 percent more for auto repairs, 44 percent more for trash collection and 55 percent more for house insurance in southeastern Michigan.

Hospital and dental prices run 18-19 percent higher. Those numbers are particularly noteworthy because they are big ticket benefits in contracts penned by teachers' unions and school boards.

We do get a few things cheaper. Store-bought groceries are 1 percent lower here. (But vegetables and fruit from a farmer's stand are cheaper outstate, and there are more stands.)

Gasoline is 6 percent cheaper here, according to the index, and you have more places to shop.

There's no data I've seen, but my hunch is that a suburbanite here has a longer drive to work than someone in Battle Creek, Midland or Port Huron. So outstaters probably consume less fuel commuting, and they certainly waste less fuel at red lights than suburbanites.

LET'S TURN back to that $2,500 versus $8,000 comparison of school spending.

Many legislators say our first goal should be to lift that lower number to $3,000. Well, multiply the $2,500 figure by the 22 percent differential, and you inflate the poor outstate district's budget to $3,050 per pupil — by metro Detroit standards.

Possibly you've been following the education news statewide. Detroit is paying its newly hired superintendent $125,000 even before she has reduced the dropout rate 1 percent. The State Board of Education is bidding $83,000 for a new superintendent of public instruction.

And as for lawsuits, anyone outside a cocoon knows Wayne County juries' reputations for generosity to plaintiffs, and Oakland's are trying to catch up.

NO LAWMAKER or lobbyist during the tax-stealing debate ever pointed out that it simply costs more to run schools in southeastern Michigan.

Meanwhile, the sponsor of the House tax-base-stealing bill, Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, is seriously contemplating more mischief. Later this year he plans to hold hearings in the House Education Committee on a proposed constitutional amendment by Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti, to write "educational equity" into the Michigan Constitution. That would enable so-called poor districts to sue the state for more money.

Talk about economic illiteracy!

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional events.

Blackout brightens neighborhood's lifestyles

Storms are wonderful things. They disrupt our normal routine and make us do something different.

And the power outages that often accompany them provide more challenges than inconvenience for me.

Recently our newspapers called in an editorial for the power companies to put their lines underground. The call for progress cited safety as one reason, and fewer power outages as another.

While I can agree with not getting zapped by a 440 line, I'd miss the times without power like we had on a recent Saturday evening.

It was Father's Day weekend and I had spent part of the day at my father's house listening to stories about the old days in Arkansas when they didn't have electricity and kept their meat by curing it in a smoke house.

"And at night, we just sat on the front porch, talked and then went to bed when it got dark," he said.

THAT'S NOT exactly my idea of a hot night, and it wasn't what I had planned for that Saturday night. But that's what we had, and I enjoyed it.

The storm came moving through at about 6 p.m., knocking down a large tree in a neighbor's yard and putting out the power for about 24 hours.

What ensued was reminiscent of what life must have been like in the old days.

First of all, I met many of my neighbors who came out of their houses when their television sets and radios went dead. We stood there looking at the downed tree and speculating about when the power would go back on.

Inside my house my son and his girlfriend lighted candles and my youngest son actually read a book by candle light. I actually talked to my wife.

But during it all, I was thinking about my father and the life he lived in the 1920s and 1930s. It was pretty much like living in the 19th century. Mules were used for plowing, cotton was picked by hand and there was no indoor plumbing.

GROWING UP in such a way has given him a different perspective from which to view the world. It interests me. It's also made me realize that our spending binge since World War II has been the biggest cause of pollution.

Sure, we like to blame the big corporate giants like General Motors, Ford or Dow Chemical Co.

But really it's us. We demand too much from our environment. We trash the world with too much garbage because we buy too much stuff.

And our obsession with being clean has been a big contributor to water pollution. We dump tons of soap and cleaners with god knows what in them needlessly into the sewer system.

And flush toilets. Chances are that in 1940 most people in rural areas still used outhouses. Now they're hooked up to expensive sewer systems that still put human waste in our lakes and rivers.

The outhouse may have been chilly on a January night, but our lakes were a lot cleaner when we used them.

THERE'S ALSO the land ethic. That's the idea that good agricultural land should be used to help feed the world instead of being turned into another strip mall. We're really losing that ideal in the Detroit area.

There was also the idea that animals were animals. If you had dogs or cats, they lived outside with the other animals. Houses were for people. And when it came hog killing time, you did it quickly and efficiently. You weren't there to torture the animal, and you weren't there to wonder about its feelings. You were there to feed your family.

The concern for the environment was pretty practical then because people lived in their environments. They didn't put their environment into tree museums like we've done with state and national parks.

It's time we flip off the power for a while and read a few books by candle light. It would be good for our brains and our environment.

Jeff Counts is editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer & Eccentric newspapers.

Abortion kills, exploits women

To the editor:

I am sorely tempted to begin this letter by calling Jack Gladden a lot of crude names, but I do not have to stoop to his level to answer his vulgar column.

First of all, since I was at the Livonia abortion mill on Saturday, June 8, I am fairly certain that Jack Gladden was not there. Reading his column, I know he wasn't. Makes me wonder where he got his information. From the very dark resources of his mind, maybe.

If he had been there, he would have seen and actually experienced what the abortion issue is all about. He would have noticed that one group of people, the "fetus worshipers," were walking around the clinic, singing and praying, while another group which he failed to mention carried banners advocating gay rights, chanting obscene slogans and calling us all kinds of vulgar names. He would have seen both sides of the abortion issue in real live color, if he had only been there.

FROM MY point of view, it was wrong that a couple of our members put the names of women about to have an abortion on their signs. But I also know that their intention was to deter the women from killing their babies, so I fault their judgment, not their intention.

The real tragedy here, however, is not this lack of judgment, but how this isolated incident has been exploited by the media. Here we have this tremendous media outcry against a couple's action outside an abortion mill, yet no outrage against the deliberate killing that goes on inside the abortion mill.

They seized on this isolated incident and resort to name calling because they hide from the real issue . . . a reality they cannot face or argue: that abortion not only deliberately kills innocent human life, but exploits women as well.

Let me conclude by inviting Jack Gladden and all who read this letter to observe how we picket in front of clinics. If the other side is there, you will have no trouble telling who the hatemongers are.

SC offers management programs

Communications Skills for Managers and How Successful Women Manage, a pair of American Management Association classes, are being offered this month at Schoolcraft College.

Communication Skills for Managers, examines written, spoken and non-verbal communication. The five-week class meets 7-10 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning July 23. Fee is $105.

How Successful Women Manage examines societal stereotypes, personal values and beliefs and workplace norms. The five-week class meets 7-10 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning July 24. Fee is $120.

To register, or for additional information, call the college continuing education services office, 462-4448. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

Class targets cycle safety

Motorcycle safety is the focus of a three-day class being offered at Schoolcraft College-Radcliff.

The 20-hour Motorcycle Safety Foundation course is designed for riders 15 and older.

Motorcycles will be provided, though riders are required to bring their own protective equipment and gear.

The class meets July 19-21. Fee is $20.

Additional information is available by calling the college continuing education services division, 462-4448. Schoolcraft College-Radcliff is at 1751 Radcliff, south of Ford Road, between Wayne and Venoy roads, Garden City.

Alzheimer's group seeks volunteers

Volunteers are sought for the in-home respite care program provided by the Alzheimer's Association, Detroit Area Chapter.

The program is used by families in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. It provides relief for family members who care for persons with Alzheimer's disease or related memory impairments.

Training sessions will be held in July.

Volunteers donate four to 16 hours per month. They are trained by skilled professionals prior to placement and receive travel mileage to and from training as well as placement sites. Day and evening hours are available.

Those interested in attending a July training session are asked to call 557-8277 for additional information.

Geake loses battle to end welfare 'vending'

Despite urging from Sen. Robert Geake, Gov. John Engler's administration has reversed itself and will continue welfare "vending" — mailing rent checks to landlords of welfare clients.

Gerald Miller, director of the state Department of Social Services, changed his mind after many landlords threatened to evict welfare tenants.

"Let the free market work," said Geake, R-Northville. Although he is the owner of five rental properties, Geake had encouraged DSS to halt the program July 1 as planned.

GEAKE SAID welfare recipients would learn responsibility — a view shared by a welfare rights organization.

Two weeks ago, Geake released a survey showing only 11 of the 48 contiguous states mailed rent checks to landlords. Virtually all were in New England, the northern Midwest and along the Canadian border.

In social services budget hearings, Geake heard landlords plead for continued vending.

A Battle Creek landlord leader, Iris Hendershott, summed up her group's case for continued vending.

"When the vendor payments are cut, you have to be there the day the (welfare) check arrives because the minute the check is cashed, the money will be gone, and rent is the last thing that gets paid."

A lobbyist for the Michigan Rental Housing Association said its members would have evicted residents of 20,000 housing units if DSS had stopped the program.

ABOUT 48 percent of the state's 350,000 recipients of AFDC and general assistance allow the state to "vendor." Many landlords require it before they will rent to welfare recipients.

Some 55,000 landlords are paid by the state, costing the state $4 million a month in clerical services and postage.

DSS chief Miller said the state would consider alternatives to ending vending. To be eligible, landlords may have to:

- Pay the state a check processing fee.

- Furnish proof of property tax payments.

- Have their housing inspected.

A bipartisan group of state representatives passed a resolution urging Engler to continue vending. The Senate buried it in committee.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Lobster not now for poor

One thing about Michigan summers, the time is always right for enjoying lobster.

Lobster used to be a scourge to be abhorred, a pollutant on North American beaches. At best it was a passable fertilizer for farmers' fields or a suitable bait for fishing the highly esteemed codfish. Any child forced to take lobster in his or her lunch can be publicly stating, "My family is poor."

My, how times have changed. Lobster is revered by culinarians and cooks around the world. Most major supermarkets and fish stores have lobster tanks on the premises, allowing the everyday shopper to take home some floundering crustacean just waiting to be boiled, steamed or grilled.

Lobster are usually trapped between 10 to 200 feet of water although there are some areas, such as off the coast of New Jersey, where they are trapped as deep as 600 feet. When caught, lobsters are generally a greenish blue to a reddish brown in color, but like rules there are always exceptions with rumors of white lobsters and black lobster; all the same, they turn an indescribable gorgeous red when cooked to perfection.

THERE ARE hundreds of ways lobster can be prepared for the table. Some methods, like Lobster Newburgh, are best left to capable cooks. There are, however, ways for the everyday cook to enjoy fresh lobster while being intimidated only by the price and not by the cooking procedures.

The basic and most widely acclaimed cooking procedure calls for boiling the lobster in salted, boiling water. While arguably not the best cooking method, it is the most familiar and humane. Serving the lobster piping hot or chilled, with a little melted butter, a nutcracker and small forks is all that is needed for culinary nirvana.

Steaming lobsters is another alternative. Professional cooks swear a "pinky-finger length" measure of water, coupled with plenty of seaweed and about 20 minutes of a good rolling steam, is all that is necessary. Aficionados claim steamed lobsters are more tasty, saying only steam cooks the lobster and that boiling them toughens and boils away the flavor.

But when personal whims are exposed, yours truly can't beat the taste of grilled lobster constantly being brushed with some butter during grilling. This technique is especially easy when preparing just lobster tails but also can be used with a whole lobster that has been split. Cooking times will vary depending on the size of the lobster. For the most part, glowing red coils (with no flame) will cook a whole lobster, that has been split, in 20-30 minutes with frequent turning and brushing with butter.

Occasionally, I like to take some fresh snipped herbs from the garden (maybe a little dill or cilantro) and mix them into the butter. Just a tiny bit because you still want the sweetness of the lobster to come shining through.

MY PHILOSOPHY is that if I have enough money to purchase lobster, I might as well go a little deeper in the hole and get one or two extra. I cook these right along with the dinner and then keep them chilled for the next few days entry into a chilled vegetable salad or simply tossed on a bed of greens with a little sliced avocado. A dollop of mayonnaise flavored with a little lemon or lime works miracles.

Don't wait for an anniversary or special occasion to enjoy lobster. Have it year round, especially in these recipes:

RASPBERRIES

Gathering the season's harvest yourself

By Phyllis Kreger Stillman special writer

RASPBERRIES COULD be considered the aristocracy of summer fruit. They are delicate and fragile, with a burst of sweet-sour flavor in every berry that many feel is the best taste of the summer. Unfortunately, like the aristocracy, raspberries don't come cheap. It isn't unusual to pay as much as $3 a pint.

One way to beat the high cost of raspberries, as well as many other fruits and vegetables, is to pick your own. As a bonus, of course, you get to hand choose every berry so that each one is a fresh, high-quality gem.

To help locate places to buy and pick homegrown produce, the Michigan Department of Agriculture publishes a Farm Market and U-Pick Directory called "In Michigan, Nothing's As Good As Homegrown." Using the directory, which lists farms by county, we found several U-Pick farms that offer raspberries.

Raspberries have two growing seasons — one in early summer and another in the fall. Although different varieties mature at different times, most of the summer berries are ripe right now. But there's not much time. The summer season only lasts about three weeks.

BARBARA MIDDLETON of Middleton Berry Farm near Lake Orion says that the weather is a big factor, but that their berries are ripe now and should be available until about the middle of July. Berries seem to be plentiful. "It looks like a really good year. The bushes are just loaded right now."

Middleton says you should look for berries with fully developed color that almost fall off the vine. "If you have to tug on them to get them off the stem, they're not ripe."

It helps, if you want to pick raspberries, to be a morning person. "We start at 6:30 in the morning, and we are picked out very fast," says Middleton. Believe it or not, she says there's usually a line when the farm opens.

You don't have to be quite as early a riser to pick at Whale-Inn Farms near Milford — it opens at 7:30 a.m. — but you do have to be persistent. "I tell people that the best fruit will often hide under the leaves," says Sandy Whalen.

Whale-Inn Farms has the usual red and black raspberries, plus something different. "We also have royalty raspberries. They are a cross between red and black that are called purple and are an excellent variety." Whale-Inn expects to have berries through around the third week in July.

Middleton and Whalen offer some tips on taking care of your raspberries:

• Store raspberries in the refrigerator for only a few days. The berries are so fragile that the weight of the berries on top will crush those underneath.

• Don't wash the berries until you're ready to use them, because water slightly damages the berries and causes them to spoil more quickly.

• When you do wash them, rinse or spray very gently. Don't allow them to soak — they will absorb water.

• To freeze individually: spread out on cookie sheet until frozen, then put in plastic bags or boxes.

• Another freezing technique is to mix berries with sugar to taste, let set for about 20 minutes until a syrup forms, then pack in containers and freeze. These berries can be used in recipes which call for raspberries frozen in syrup.

Both Middleton Farms and Whale-Inn Farms stress the importance of calling before you go out to pick, because picking schedules vary and berries often aren't available every day. "Sometimes we have to close a day or two to allow for ripening in between," explains Whalen. Both farms furnish containers for picking, but Whalen worries about our throwaway society. "Just for recycling purposes, if people have their own containers, they can bring them."

Thematic dinners are quite a lark

DISHING IT OUT

It's Monday night. Just one day into the work week. But you think you are on holiday once you enter the Lark restaurant — particularly on an evening on which it has scheduled one of its monthly theme dinners.

Colorful triangular flags adorn the walls of the intimate, elegant West Bloomfield restaurant, the pride and joy of Jim and Mary Lark and, indeed, of metropolitan Detroit. Despite a window seat overlooking Mary's glorious walled garden, you are transported into the atmosphere of a cruise ship, with recipes direct from the Cunard line via Malaga, Barcelona and Puerto Banus, and accompanied by strolling musicians.

Cut crystal, English silver and colorful French china are set precisely on white damask as a tuxedoed Jim Lark announces the ingredients of the first of the six — no seven — courses. (They added soft-shell crabs with sundried tomatoes, capers and Parisienne vegetables over (not under because it would get mushy) a light curry sauce.

The crabs are tucked in after the Russian Malossol caviar served on almond potato pancake and the cream of spring onion soup which features the tiniest stack of hand-sliced, french fried onion sticks, so delicate they all but melt in your mouth.

THEN, TO CLEANSE your palate before the entree, a pineapple-Kirsch granite instead of the more traditional sorbet. A granite, Jim Lark later explained, is grainier than a sorbet and made with water instead of milk. And, this night, it is sipped from a tulip champagne glass.

Speaking of sipping, you can order a wine bouquet, with a selection for each course priced at $20 or have wine by the bottle or glass from the Lark's extensive cellar.

The entree, a thick, grilled veal chop with Sicilian pecorino cheese on mustard sauce, is done to perfection, with just a hint of pink to the meat as you cut into it. It is served over spinach fettuccini, accompanied by miniature string beans and a dollop of the best candied carrots you've ever tasted.

If there is any course to criticize, and this is stretching it, it would be the salad of arugula, radicchio, mache and oak leaf lettuce in an Italian herb vinaigrette dressing. Salad served after the entree may be very continental, but it seems misplaced. In this case, the olive oil in the Italian herb vinaigrette dressing was a little too predominant.

Jim and Mary Lark, with Chef de Cuisine Marcus Haight, in garden of the Lark in West Bloomfield.

Cut crystal, English silver and colorful French china are set precisely on white damask.

BUT PERHAPS we were just looking ahead to the two desserts! An absolutely mouth-watering rhubarb tart on chocolate sabayon had as its crowning touch a delicate chocolate bow. And the petits fours — tiny eclairs and lemon tarts topped with a raspberry — were only left on the platter because so much had gone before.

Chef de cuisine Marcus Haight, who will celebrate five years at the Lark in August, obviously has the ability to both inspire and train his staff to prepare nearly any cuisine. The Lark beckoned him here from Le Bec Fin in Philadelphia.

The next theme dinner, Monday-Tuesday, July 29-30, features the cuisine of New Orleans. Next to the Lark's special Christmas dinner, Jim Lark says, the Russian dinner — at Eastertime — is the most popular as well as the most expensive, all that caviar you know.

FALL RASPBERRIES

Erwin Orchards U-Pick and Country Store, 61019 Silver Lake Road, between New Hudson and South

You can do lots of tasty things with raspberries

Most people think that cheesecake is difficult to make. This recipe, which uses fresh raspberries to make a very special dessert, disproves that myth.

RASPBERRY CHEESECAKE

2 1/4 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup sugar, optional

Melt butter in medium saucepan; stir in crumbs and sugar, if used. Pat onto bottom and up sides of a 9-inch springform pan.

Three 8-ounce packages cream cheese
1 1/4 cup sugar
4 eggs
1 pint raspberries
3 tablespoons grated lemon peel
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup lemon juice

In medium mixer bowl, combine all ingredients except raspberries; beat until smooth. Fold in raspberries gently, by hand. Pour onto crust. Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes, or until a knife inserted into the middle of cheesecake comes out clean. Remove from oven and let cool.

1/4 cup raspberry jelly, melted
1 pint raspberries

Arrange fresh raspberries on top of cheesecake; brush melted jelly over top. Chill.

I used to make this pie for my father's birthday in July. Unlike strawberries, raspberries make a very good, traditional two-crust pie all by themselves, although you can use half raspberries and half sliced, tart apples if you like.

RASPBERRY PIE

2 cups flour
1/2 cups shortening
1/4 teaspoon salt
About 6 tablespoons cold water

Mix flour, salt and shortening until crumbly. Stir in enough water to moisten (mixture should form into a ball). Divide in half and roll out on floured board to fit a 9-inch deep-dish pie pan. Roll out remaining dough for top crust.

6 cups raspberries
6 tablespoons flour
1 1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter

Combine raspberries, flour and sugar in same bowl used for crust. Pour filling into crust; dot with butter. Arrange top crust on filling and seal edges using your fingers or a fork. Cut vent holes into top crust and sprinkle with sugar, if desired. Bake at 400 degrees for about 50 minutes or until filling is bubbly and crust is brown.

Jams made with uncooked fruit and stored in the freezer retain the fresh flavor of the fruit. Every time you use freezer jam, it's like summer harvest time all over again.

RASPBERRY FREEZER JAM

2 cups crushed fresh raspberries (about 1 quart)
4 cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 pouch liquid pectin

Stir sugar into raspberries in a large bowl. Set aside for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add lemon juice and pectin and stir constantly for 3 minutes. Fill jelly jars to within 1/2-inch of top. Wipe off edges of jars and cover with lids. Let stand at room temperature for 24 hours, then place in freezer.

A combination of two heavenly and addictive delights — chocolate and raspberries.

RASPBERRY MOUSSE BROWNIE

Two 1-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar

CANNING WORKSHOP

A Mini-Canning Food-Preservation Workshop is offered by the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service from 9 a.m. to noon Tuesday-Thursday, July 16-18, in the Kitchen Classroom on the first floor in the North Office Building in Pontiac.

Students should bring an apron. The class includes food safety, canning low-acid and high-acid foods, pickling, jams and jellies, and freezing and drying foods. Cost is $15 for both sessions or $7.50 for one. Samples and handouts are included.

A home study course also is available, for $15 to cover postage and handling. Enrollment information for both classes may be obtained by calling the Food and Nutrition Hotline at 858-0904 or mailing a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Cooperative Extension Service, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac 48341. Specify the class you are interested in.

Serve lobster as dip or salad

See Larry Janes' column Taste Buds, Page 1B.

LOBSTER DIP

Sinfully extravagant — but worth it!
4 ounces cream cheese
1/4 cup sour cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
Pinch cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup finely chopped cooked lobster meat

Combine all ingredients in a bowl and mix well. Can be placed in a mold and chilled until set, then unmolded. Serve with toast points or water crackers.

TARRAGON LOBSTER SALAD

A friend sent me this recipe from New York. She said this salad sells for $60 per pound in the Big Apple.

2 pounds cooked lobster meat
2 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard
3 tablespoons sherry or wine vinegar
1/2 cup light vegetable oil (not olive)
2 tablespoons fresh tarragon, minced or 1 tablespoon dried Pinch cayenne or red pepper
2 bunches mache or butter lettuce

Chop lobster meat into chunks. Blend mustard and sherry vinegar in a processor and with motor running, drizzle in oil until thickened and well blended. This also can be done in a small bowl using a wire whisk. Fold dressing and lobster together and add tarragon. Season with pepper. Refrigerate at least 1 hour. Serve on a bed of lettuce. Serves 6.

Stuff an eggplant

AP — Speedy Swiss-Styled Eggplant is a quick side dish that takes about 15 minutes to cook in your microwave oven.

SPEEDY SWISS-STUFFED EGGPLANT

Two 1-pound eggplants
1/2 cup sliced green onions, including green tops
1 large clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup tomato juice or water
2 tablespoons olive oil or vegetable oil
2 cups seasoned croutons
2 1/2 cups shredded Swiss cheese (10 ounces)
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon pepper
Paprika

Halve eggplants lengthwise. Loosen and scoop out pulp, leaving shells about 1/2-inch thick; reserve shells. Coarsely chop pulp; combine in a 2-quart microwave-safe dish with onions, garlic, tomato juice and oil. Cook, covered with plastic wrap, on high (100 percent power) for 2 minutes. Uncover, stir; cover again; cook on high for 2 minutes. Add croutons, 2 cups of the cheese, thyme and pepper. Toss to mix. Spoon into eggplant shells, dividing equally. Sprinkle tops with remaining 1/2 cup cheese. Dust with paprika. Place on a microwave-safe plate, spoke fashion. Cook on high for 8 minutes, turning a quarter turn every 2 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Falling in love with miniatures

"Before you eat a miniature, you fall in love with it. After all," says Flo Braker, "it's all yours. You don't have to share it with anyone." Braker believes in the proverb, "Good things come in small packages."

These words represent the philosophy of Braker, master baker of perfect, bite-size desserts. Her techniques and recipes for creating miniatures are showcased in her latest book, "Sweet Miniatures: The Art of Making Bite-Size Desserts" (William Morrow & Co., June 20, 1991; $25, hardcover).

This comprehensive volume contains her recipes for Sweet Cheese Puffs, Drei Augen and Dutch Mini-cakes as well as new recipes for Creamy Ginger Squares, Chocolate Shadows, Scheherazade Tartlets and 110 other tempting recipes.

During Braker's career as a baking teacher, caterer, food columnist and cookbook author, miniatures have become her trademark. Her passion is creating these scaled-down desserts, such as Harlequin Stars, Maple Japonais, Chocolate Tulips and Romeo Tartlets, to deliver intense tastes of apricot, maple, chocolate or even amaretto.

She has perfected other gems, such as Apricot Medals, Pecan Diamonds, Tiffany Rings and Jewel Fruit Prisms, though miniature in size, to satisfy the palate just as a large slice of dessert would.

BRAKER DIVIDES her miniatures into three categories: Miniature Cookies, Miniature Pastries and Miniature Cakes. For each of these three types of recipes, she discusses the most crucial techniques needed to create them successfully. She analyzes the various methods for mixing cookie doughs, their uses and comparative advantages. She sheds light on the secrets of rolling pastry doughs and of cutting full-sized cakes into miniature shapes.

"Sweet Miniatures" contains an entire chapter on preparing the tiny desserts ahead, with helpful advice on storing, freezing and serving. Braker's step-by-step directions are for both the beginning baker and seasoned professional. She includes a section on Making Miniatures Ahead, 1 to 100 Dozen, and there is a miniature planning chart, cross-referencing her recipes by category, size and texture.

The cookbook also offers countless ideas for variations on the basic themes. For example, the recipe for Lemon Macaroon Triangles, which yields a tender cookie with an almond-flavored topping and tangy lemon filling, can be followed exactly, or the baker can add a mixture of mascarpone and cream cheese, the result resembling the popular Italian dessert, Tiramisu.

BRAKER NEVER runs out of innovative suggestions for baking the best possible miniatures, but in "Sweet Miniatures," her ultimate advice is to experiment: "The best reward for me would be if this book inspired you to invent your own memorable miniatures."

Braker, once a professional caterer, lives in Palo Alto, Calif. Along with years of trial and error baking in her kitchen, she attended the Ecole LeNotre in France and the Richemont Professional School in Switzerland. She has been teaching baking techniques across the country for 15 years. The baker columnist for the San Francisco Chronicle, Braker also has authored the cookbook "The Simple Art of Perfect Baking."

Flo Braker is the author of "Sweet Miniatures."

Recipes designed for baseball fans

AP — For the baseball players — and fans — in your family: "Out of the Park" Popcorn, a combination of peanuts and popcorn, and Pitcher's Mounds, made with pudding and crushed cookies.

Other kid-pleasing recipes: Magic Potion, made with pudding and crushed cookies, and Magic Pie, made with ice cream and topped with chocolate fudge sauce.

"OUT OF THE PARK" POPCORN
8 cups popped popcorn
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
One 4-serving size package gelatin, strawberry, cherry or raspberry flavor
1 cup peanuts

Place popcorn in a large bowl. Add melted butter and toss to coat. Sprinkle with gelatin and toss again until evenly coated. Mix in peanuts. Makes 9 cups.

PITCHER'S MOUNDS
2 cups milk
One 4-serving size package chocolate-flavor instant pudding and pie filling 3½ cups (6 ounces) frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
One 16-ounce package chocolate sandwich cookies, crushed

Pour milk into a medium bowl. Add pudding mix. Beat with wire whisk until well blended, 1 to 2 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Stir in whipped topping and half of the crushed cookies.

To assemble, place about 1 tablespoon of the crushed cookies into the bottoms of eight to ten 8-ounce paper or plastic cups. Fill cups about ¾ full with pudding mixture. Top with remaining crushed cookies. Chill. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

MAGIC POTION
3 cups milk
One 4½-ounce package instant vanilla pudding and pie filling 8 chocolate sandwich cookies

In a blender container, combine milk, pudding mix and cookies. Blend on high for 2 minutes. Pour into glasses. Serve immediately. Makes 5 servings.

MAGIC PIE
42 chocolate sandwich cookies
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
1 quart chocolate ice cream
1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened
½ cup prepared whipped topping
Chocolate fudge sauce

Finely roll 22 cookies. Mix 1¼ cups cookie crumbs and margarine; press onto the bottom of a 9-inch pie plate. Stand 14 cookies around the edge of the plate, pressing lightly into the crust.

Scoop chocolate ice cream into balls; arrange in a prepared crust. Coarsely chop remaining six cookies; sprinkle over ice cream scoops. Spread softened vanilla ice cream evenly over cookie layer; freeze 15 minutes. Top with a layer of remaining cookie crumbs, pressing gently into the ice cream. Freeze several hours or overnight. To serve, garnish with whipped topping and fudge sauce. Makes 8 servings.

He's well brought up in Burgundy region

In 1856, the Burgundian Symphonien Moillard, a Nuits-Saint-Georges vineyard owner, became a negotiant as a result of his customers' requests. They wanted him to obtain more wines from Burgundy and other regions for them.

Selecting, as well as cellaring wines, became Moillard's main concern. Today, his descendants are the owners of Burgundy estates which have been enlarged by each generation.

Domaine Moillard sources or owns parcels in several important grands crus and premier crus locations. At Vosne-Romanee, as an example, the company is distinguished at Les Beaux Monts and Les Malconsorts, a site contiguous with the renowned La Tache.

Wine production from Moillard's grape sources in the Hautes-Cotes de Nuits offers consumers more reasonably priced Burgundy wines. Moillard planted chardonnay in this region about seven years ago.

"In Burgundy it is not sufficient to be 'well born.' It is also important to be 'well brought up,' maintains Henri Thomas, a Moillard descendant and the firm's general manager.

"The Moillard policy stresses quality. In order to source and produce quality wines, it is necessary to make thoughtful selections. We do this from three avenues of supply: the family vineyard holdings; grapes purchased by Moillard and fermented in its winery, and the wines purchased either by contract or from various, carefully selected growers."

THESE GRAPE supply resources qualify Moillard to be termed a negociant-eleveur. The negotiant capacity extends to wines from the Maconnais, Beaujolais and the Rhone. The latter makes up about 22 percent of production.

The key advantage of Moillard may be a 140-year experience in the Burgundy wine trade, constituting about 50 percent of wines produced.

"In general, the 1988 vintage is

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

Moillard is no exception when it comes to Burgundy producers with high-priced bottlings from premier and grand cru vineyards. We found the following lesser appellation wines representative of the Burgundy region and very good values.

1988 Moillard Bourgogne, Hautes Cotes de Nuits "Les Vignes Hautes" ($14.75) is generously fruity with ripe cherry aromas and flavors. It is stylish, user-friendly and approachable in its youth.

1988 Moillard Givry, Clos de Vauvry ($15.50) has expressive black cherry aromas with a gentle oak and fruit palate impression. The lengthy finish is quite elegant.

still tight and not showing that well," Thomas states. "The acid is still too obvious. The 1985 reds are more mature, but the whites need another six to eight months' bottle aging."

In a three-year projection, Thomas believes that the 1988 white burgundies will show better than the '85s. "The reds from 1985 will remain ahead of the '88s," he affirms.

"I believe that it's a mistake for importers and wholesalers not to stock back vintages. Too often consumers are deceived by the hype given to certain vintages. Currently, Moillard still has some 1983s available. They are drinking well and they cost less than either the 1985s or the 1988s.

"Consumers tend to read the wine press, and the 1988s and 1989s are being discussed now. They've forgotten about a drinkable vintage like 1983."

Looking to the future, Thomas believes that eventually the 1990 vintage wines will be much better than 1989s. "Perhaps the 1990 wines will be as good as 1988," he says.

ARTHRITIS MEDICATIONS AND OTHER DRUGS

Arthritis medications can change the effect of other drugs; the best known example is the interplay of aspirin with "blood thinners." Blood thinners are medications that deliberately impair the coagulation of blood cells; aspirin renders blood platelets less sticky to blood vessel walls and other platelets. If both your platelets and red blood cells have lost the ability to clump, then you are at risk that a small cut will turn into a large bleed. Other arthritis drugs share aspirin's ability to impair platelet function, but usually are not as great or prolonged in that effect.

The relation between blood thinners and arthritis medications becomes more complex if you have rheumatoid arthritis and are taking additional medicines such as gold or methotrexate. These medications impede the ability of bone marrow to make new platelets when bleeding occurs.

Inform any doctor providing you care that you are taking arthritis medication. If you should have a stroke, heart attack or blood clot in your leg, the use of "blood thinners" will arise. From discussions with you, doctors must decide if you can tolerate stopping your arthritis medicine so they may start anticoagulation therapy as treatment for these other conditions.

THOMAS CLAIMS the 1990 red burgundies (pinot noir) have deep color, rich fruit with balanced acid and tannins. "The 1990 whites (chardonnay) are balanced with generous fruit," he reports. "Chablis wines from 1990 should prove very good. In general, all the 1990 white wines are better than whites from 1989."

Thomas is not shy to say that a string of good Burgundy vintages is not without problems. In particular, he points to the growers asking higher prices year after year. "I try to point out to them that the market will not bear increases currently," he contends.

Food in Mexico — it's not necessarily hot

Mexican food is very popular in the United States today. However, there are still many people who think all Mexican food is hot and spicy.

I once thought the same thing and was totally unacquainted with anything but tacos, burritos and other Tex-Mex favorites until I visited Mexico a few years ago.

Then I learned that I had a lot of false beliefs about Mexico and the Mexican people, as well as the food they eat.

Until only a few days before we left home, we were planning a trip to the Bahamas. Mexico was the furthest thing from our minds. It was a place I didn't think I would like, and had no desire to visit.

BUT THERE WAS a last minute mix-up at the travel agency, and we ended up in Quintano Roo, on the Yucatan peninsula.

I have always believed that all things happen for a reason. Why fate chose to send me to Mexico, I don't know. But I do know that I shall be eternally grateful.

We were enchanted by crystal-clear waters, coral reefs, giant turtles and tropical fish that will eat from your hand as you swim among them.

We were warmed by 80-degree temperatures that were never uncomfortable because of the constant breezes scented by the perfumes of tropical flowers.

WE WERE HAUNTED by the ghosts of 10,000 Mayans that hovered about us as we explored the ruins of their homes and temples and gazed into their sacred cenote (waterhole).

And we fell in love with the Mexican people who took the time to listen and try to understand our poor attempts to speak their beautiful language.

There was a blond, blue-eyed man who told me he knew all about snow because he had seen it once on a mountain top in Chihuahua; and the middle-aged couple who lived in a jungle hut with a dirt floor near Xcaret, who gave me the uncured skin of a seven-foot boa they had killed in the garden that morning (they kept the meat to eat).

There are mariachis in big sombreros, who serenade you wherever you go.

And, believe it or not, there was all the fantastic food, some of it mild enough to please an Englishman with an ulcer.

THE BREAKFAST menu at the restaurant, where we ate every morning offered eggs with seafood sauce. These proved to be poached eggs on top of tortillas, smothered with creamed shrimp, lobster, crab and scallops.

Another item featured there was "bananas tabasco." It sounded horrible, but later we learned that it had nothing to do with the hot sauce.

Tabasco is a county in Mexico, just as is Quintano Roo. Tabasco sauce and bananas tabasco are both named for that county where they originated. They have nothing else in common.

On the little island of Isla Mujeres (Island of the Women), we were served a turtle soup that was so good I embarrassed my family by refusing to leave without seeking out the cook and begging for the recipe.

He was gracious enough to give it to me, through an interpreter, and even told me how to make it without turtle, if need be.

We found we liked cactus, cooked with any kind of meat at all. And there wasn't a tomato or hot pepper in it.

We ate many dishes that featured goat's meat, and proved to be very delicious.

But our favorite food of all was the quesadilla, which in no way resembles those you get here at Taco Bell or Chi-Chi's. They are simple to make and are really nothing more than a Mexican version of a grilled cheese sandwich.

Here are a few of my favorite Mexican recipes. Please feel free to call me at 427-1072 if you need help with any of them.

QUESADILLAS

(Pronounced Kay-sa-dee-a)

Place a slice of mild, meltable cheese on a flour tortilla. (Provolone, Monterey Jack or Muenster are all very good.) Fold the tortilla once (as you would an omelet). Fry in a small amount of hot shortening or oil in a heavy skillet. Turn over once to brown both sides until the outside is crispy and golden brown and the cheese inside is melted.

These are delicious eaten plain, but they may be served with a salsa, mild or spicy hot, as your own tastes dictates. Here is the recipe I use:

kitchen witch
Gundella

SALSA RAPIDA (Quick Sauce)
2 tomatoes peeled and chopped
1 onion peeled and chopped
1 clove of garlic, crushed
3 sprigs of fresh parsley, finely chopped
1/2 teaspoon ground coriander
1 teaspoon salt
a pinch of marjoram
a pinch of ground cloves

Sift together the dry ingredients. Blend together the milk and egg, slowly adding the dry ingredients, mixing well. Stir in the shrimp. Drop mixture from a tablespoon into deep hot fat (365-375 degrees) and fry 2-5 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on paper towel and serve hot.

BANANAS TABASCO

These make a delightful dessert or company treat and are really just crepes filled with fried bananas and flamed with rum.

CREPES

Makes about 16 pancakes
4 eggs
1 1/4 cups milk
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 teaspoons melted butter

Beat eggs and add milk, flour, salt and butter and mix well (I use my blender), using a crepe pan or a small cast-iron frying pan (6-7 inches) which has been well buttered and heated. Add just enough batter to thinly coat the bottom of the pan (tip the pan to spread it evenly). When lightly brown on one side, turn and brown on the other. Repeat until all the batter is used.

Filling
6 bananas, peeled and sliced
1/4 pound butter
10 tablespoons brown sugar

Melt butter in a skillet. Add sliced bananas and cook for 1 minute, stirring carefully so as not to break the bananas, while sprinkling with the brown sugar.

Cook until butter and brown sugar make a syrup that coats the bananas well. Fill the crepes with the banana mixture and flame with rum. (Tip: Heat the rum to just warm before igniting it. If you have never flamed a dessert before, call me for more explicit directions.)

Garnish with whipped cream and chopped nutsmeats if desired.

TURTLE SOUP

3 pounds turtle meat (you can substitute lean beef)
1 1/2 quarts of water
2 cups milk
1/4 pound butter
1 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon mace
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
Salt and pepper to taste

Boil meat in water until 1/2 of the liquid is gone. Add milk and butter. Remove the meat and allow it to cool. Grind it and return it to the stock. Let it cook down a little more and stir in the flour dissolved in the heavy cream. Add mace, mustard, salt and pepper. Mix well, simmer a few more minutes and serve hot. If you like, you may garnish with parsley, chopped chives and/or croutons.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

How to enjoy vegetables the Italian way

An appetite for the robust flavors of Italian cuisine led Viana La Place away from her first love of art and into the kitchens of Los Angeles' trend-setting restaurants, where she received high acclaim as a chef.

Now she continues her success in translating her culinary talent onto the printed page, this time exploring her personal passion for vegetable cooking in "Verdura: Vegetables Italian Style" (William Morrow & Co. Inc.; $22.95, hardcover; May 22, 1991).

"Verdura" awakens the senses with 250 recipes for salads, soups, bruschetta, fritters, risotto, tarts and pasta. The cream of the crop includes Broccoli and Tomato Salad; Fresh Pasta with Tomato, Eggplant, Ricotta and Walnuts; Baked Red Pepper Frittata; Gratin of Artichokes and Potatoes; and Radicchio with Cream and Parmesan.

The recipes in "Verdura" require minimal preparation time. For example, raw sauces for Spaghettini with Italian Parsley and Mozzarella or Tubetti with Diced Tomato and Avocado Sauce can be prepared while the pasta cooks.

NATURAL INGREDIENTS and simple presentations are the basis of "Verdura" cooking, totally keeping it in sync with the changing eating habits of Americans. Most of the savory dishes are either sauteed, roasted, grilled or steamed.

The author writes, "As we turn our focus away from meats and heavy meals and toward the fresh flavors and beauty of vegetables, we can learn from the Italian style of eating."

La Place provides menus for all occasions from Lunch in the Country to Sicilian Summer Dinner. To round out the vegetarian menu, fresh fruit and cheese, dessert recipes such as Marinated Watermelon with Bittersweet Chocolate Shavings, and Coffee-Flavored Ricotta are included. A chapter on Pantry Recipes contains basics to have on hand, including Black Olive Pesto and Olive Oil from Hell.

"Verdura" also contains an in-depth guide to selecting and preparing vegetables and herbs and a glossary of ingredients.

La Place is co-author of "Cucina Rustica, Pasta Fresca and Cucina Fresca." She earned her experience as a great chef at such Los Angeles restaurants as Verdi and Mangia. She is a restaurant consultant and cooking teacher.

POTATO-TOMATO SOUP WITH ROSEMARY

A simple amalgam of potatoes and tomatoes, perfumed with rosemary, cooked until the potatoes break down to a coarse yet creamy puree. The tomatoes provide bright color and tart-sweet flavor. For a smoother texture, put the soup through a food mill. It is quite refreshing served at room temperature with a drizzle of fine olive oil over the top and a few grindings of coarse black pepper.

4 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil

- 1 small onion, finely diced
- 6 Roma tomatoes, peeled, seeded, and puréed not too fine
- 2 teaspoons finely chopped fresh rosemary leaves
- Salt to taste
- 3 medium russet potatoes, peeled and cut into dice
- Water
- Freshly grated imported Parmesan cheese, optional

Place the olive oil and onion in a soup pot. Cook over low heat until the onion is tender and golden. Add the tomatoes, rosemary, and salt to taste, and cook at a gentle simmer for 5 minutes.

Add the potatoes and stir. Cook for 5 minutes. Add 3 cups of water. Bring to a boil and adjust to a simmer. As the potatoes become tender, break them up with the back of a wooden spoon until a coarse puree forms.

Cook the soup for about 45 minutes, or until it is thick and the flavor deepens. Ladle into soup bowls. If desired, sprinkle each serving with a little grated Parmesan cheese.

Myrna Partrich

A personal trainer should be sensitive

Dear Myrna: I read your column on personal training. I compliment you on your answer in your column. I am that client who gets personally trained. I am requesting you to write a little on personality. You need to enjoy working with people and to be comfortable with some degree of intimacy.

Susan B.

OK, personal trainers, here we go again.

Susan, you certainly are correct in your comments about personality. Being a personal trainer requires a certain personality type. You need to enjoy working with people and to be comfortable with some degree of intimacy.

A client is in a vulnerable position when they face a trainer for the first time.

A trainer must nurture and encourage clients and not let them be intimidated by the trainer's being in shape. The trainer should try to be the client's friend with some authority. They must be sensitive and demanding at the same time.

When a client offers thanks for making them look and feel great, trainers should remind them that they did it themselves. Clients must be allowed to feel proud of themselves.

I agree with Susan's feelings of a trainer's personality.

A client is letting the trainer into their home and sharing a personal activity with you. If the trainer can't enjoy what he/she is doing and be very pleasant, caring, thoughtful and sensitive, don't even think about personal training.

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company, Inc. of Bloomfield Township and a member of the President's Council of Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send those questions to: Sports department, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, 48009.)

Insurance Exchange sweeps

Insurance Exchange won a double-header in the Plymouth Modified Fast-Pitch Softball League June 26, defeating Cinnacraz 12-1 and AJ's Lounge 10-9.

Pete Lind hurled a two-hitter in the first game. Tom Willette led the offense with three hits, including a home run and a triple. Larry Casey added two hits while Steve Robb and Dale Robinson tripled. Jim Dillon collected both hits for Cinnacraz, including a home run.

In the nightcap, Insurance Exchange pulled out the win in the bottom of the seventh after AJ's took a 9-8 lead in the top half of the inning.

Insurance Exchange jumped in front 7-0, but AJ's fought back with two runs in the fourth and sixth in the fifth to tie the score at eight.

AJ's scored once in the seventh to take a one-run lead. In the bottom half, Robb and Willette singled and were advanced by Joe Walacavage's sacrifice bunt. Mark Crawford ripped a single past third base to score both runners.

Crawford led the attack with four hits and five RBI, and Willette and Robb had three hits apiece. Keith McManaway homered for AJ's.

Lind relieved Brian Murphy in the fifth inning to claim his second pitching victory of the night.

All-American settles for 3rd

Brubaker was the leading hitter in the third game. He was 3-for-4, scored three runs and had one RBI.

All-American had 17 hits with Dillon, Longridge, Tiller, Dan Pierce, Kirkpatrick and White contributing two each. Pierce hit a home run and a triple. Longridge also had four RBIs. Pierce three, Tiller and Kirkpatrick two apiece.

All-American lost two games Sunday — 16-6 to Ryan Industries and 6 to Bill's Boys of Port Huron — and was eliminated. White was the losing pitcher in both games.

Ryan outhit All-American 20-6 and scored eight runs in one inning. Longridge had two hits and one RBI, and Pierce and White knocked in two runs each.

All-American outhit Bill's Boys 11-6 despite losing the game. Tiller was 2-for-5, Longridge 2-for-3, Dave Fenney 2-for-2, Dillon and Rodney Shellenberger 2-for-4.

Craiger pursues Ruth leader

Craiger pulled to within half a game of first-place Dry Clean Company with a 5-4 win over the Plymouth Rocks in the Babe Ruth Baseball League last week.

Dave Kapla pitched a complete game, allowing only five hits (just two through six innings) while striking out three.

Kapla also led the Craiger offense, going 3-for-3 with help from Joe Niemenski, who had two hits.

In other games, Twist 'N' Shake broke a prolonged losing streak by pounding 14 hits and beating Dry Clean 12-7.

Steve Mondry was 3-for-4, and Mark Szymanski, Tony Randazzo and Tom Mondry had two hits apiece. Bill Proctor pitched a complete game, striking out seven.

The Plymouth-Canton league will suspend play for 10 days to participate in the National Babe Ruth Tournament.

Is soccer on right track with kids?

ARE YOUNG SOCCER players getting too much too soon?

The issue is raised nearly every day, as soccer information streams across my desk daily.

The stack of papers on my desk ranges anywhere from the dreaded soccer tryout announcements (in which clubs engage in fierce competition), to the under-10 teams who have recently returned from a three-day tourney in Kentucky, to the under-14ers who have just spent two weeks touring Scotland, to the Olympic development players who can brag to their friends about their trips to Dallas and Toronto.

These, of course, are fictitious stories, but not far from the truth. The more you win, the more places you go, the more recognition you get.

And with the recently completed Wolverine 12 Tournament, one of the largest age-group soccer tournaments in the Midwest, I wonder if it's time to take a deep breath, pause and discuss where the sport is headed (in preparation for our hosting the 1994 World Cup).

Recently appointed U.S. National Coach Bora Milutinovic made an interesting comment to Clive Gammon of Sports Illustrated (in the July 1 issue) that hit home.

"There's a huge difference between real learning — loving and becoming part of the game — and formal team training," said the 46-year old coach. "My boys have missed out on that learning and love, too. Everywhere else in the world, until maybe you are 10, you play only for enjoyment with other kids. Even right up to 15 you polish individual skills on your own. Only then does team coaching come into it..."

WHEN WAS THE last time you saw a group of kids go down to the neighborhood schoolyard and play a pickup game?

Brad Emons

If anybody knows, let me know so I can cover it.

A kid can't make it in today's competitive age-group soccer world without sparkling new uniforms and fancy bags. You're not a soccer player unless you travel to out-of-town tourneys and stay at the Hilton. And a young, aspiring soccer player cannot exist without being enrolled in a summer camp or going indoors in the winter.

But the biggest prerequisite to becoming a good player is having a parent willing to either coach, drive you around or chaperone you.

Former U.S. National Team captain Rick Davis, in town recently to conduct the Chiquita Challenge, soccer's version of Punt, Pass & Kick, sat down with me for nearly 1 1/2 hours to discuss this subject (ironically, at the Novi Hilton).

Consider the 32-year-old Davis an authority on the sport.

He played alongside Pele and Franz Beckenbauer when he was with the New York Cosmos. He's played professionally indoors and is a member of the U.S. Soccer Federation's Board of Directors.

DAVIS resides in Federal Way, Wash., with his wife, Kelly, and their four children (two boys and two girls).

My question was simply: Are you on the right track?

"What Bora said is very true," Davis said. "My upbringing was different than most. In 1966 people looked at me as a freak because I played soccer, but I was really an active kid. I did everything in sports that was outdoors. Soccer was just another sport. The only thing we had to contend with in southern California was the rain."

Davis grew up in Claremont, Calif., a suburb of Los Angeles, where he lettered in seven sports in high school. He was voted All-State in football and soccer, as well as excelling in baseball, track and tennis.

"Unfortunately today, a kid's first exposure to soccer is their father, their mother or their father's friend," Davis said. "The single most significant area that we are lacking in this country is coaching, number one. The second thing is officiating, which I don't think is really as important as far as coaching in terms of growth. But it's still important."

Davis' first three coaches as a youth were foreigners.

"I was exposed to knowledgeable coaching and I was lucky in the respect," Davis said. "My first coach was a gentleman from England, and he had the game in his blood. My second coach was from Germany, and he was familiar with it, and understood it. My third coach was from Italy. I was able to take things from all three."

"MY FIRST REAL American (born) coach, and I don't mean that in a derogatory sense, came in college (Santa Clara University)."

Davis said the key to good coaching is "knowledge and understanding."

"It obviously helps if you've played," he said. "But just because you don't play doesn't mean you can't coach."

Davis spends time at home coaching his 7-year-old son Ryan Christopher.

"It's a very relaxed atmosphere. I'd be a different kind of coach if I was coaching a national team or a college," he said. "I might be a Bobby Knight-type, I don't know. I virtually have no coaching experience."

"But what I see right now is that we don't teach fundamentals. The bottom line is that the basics are forgotten. That's why I got involved with the Chiquita Challenge. It teaches basic skills and it forces kids to learn. Soccer has never had things like that. It's also creating awareness for the sport."

Davis said there has to be a "happy ground" in terms of being devoted to the game.

"I don't profess that a kid has to be playing soccer year-round," he said. "Seven to nine months a year is plenty, but that's only if you're getting good, quality instruction. Maybe practice twice a week, but on my own with my friends five or six times per week."

"SOMETIMES IT requires travel, but the main thing is to play more regularly. Right now the high school season is not enough. Only 3 1/2 months is too short a season, and colleges have the same problem."

Can proficient players, considered for national teams, stay sharp in their own environments?

"I often see that problems exist when players go away to the National Team and then come back," Davis said. "The level is not good enough, but they still have to be challenged and pushed. They need some kind of stimulation, not on all-star teams, but on teams of equal challenge."

Patience is the biggest key, according to Davis.

"We want everything right now, and it's not going to happen," he said. "It takes time for individual development."

He also said that FIFA, the world governing body for soccer, must make some subtle changes in the rules "or the game will die."

"The game is crying for change," he said. "There haven't been any changes for 150 years. It's become stagnant, too. The American point of view, of course, is more drastic."

Obviously, Davis would like to see subtle changes in our youth soccer system.

My views are more drastic. I want it to happen right now.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDINANCE No. 91-8 AN ORDINANCE TO ESTABLISH A BUDGET STABILIZATION FUND

A new ordinance titled Title 1 - Administration, Chapter 9 (Budget Stabilization Fund) of the Code of the City of Plymouth.

The City of Plymouth ordains:

Section 1. FUND CREATED - Pursuant to Public Act 30 of 1978, as amended, the City of Plymouth Budget Stabilization Fund is hereby created and hereinafter is referred to as "the Fund."

Section 2. APPROPRIATIONS TO FUND - Each fiscal year, beginning with the 1992-93 fiscal year, the City Manager shall submit to the City Commission a Budget Stabilization Fund Report showing the present balance of the Fund, the maximum amount of money which may legally be in the Fund, the previous fiscal year's General Fund Balance, and a recommendation as to the amount of surplus, if any, which should be appropriated to the Fund. The City Commission may appropriate all or part of the General Fund surplus to the Fund by resolution, adopted by a two-thirds (2/3) vote, subject to the limitations provided herein.

Section 3. LIMITATIONS - The Fund shall be subject to the following limitations:

- a) Additional taxes shall not be imposed for the purpose of creating a surplus for appropriation to the Fund.
- b) The money in the Fund shall not exceed fifteen percent (15%) of the most recent General Fund Budget, as originally adopted, or fifteen percent (15%) of the average of the last five (5) most recent General Fund Budgets, as amended, whichever is less.
- c) If the money in the Fund exceeds the maximum amount permitted, the excess money shall be appropriated in the next General Fund Budget, but shall not be appropriated back to the Fund.
- d) The money in the Fund shall not be appropriated for the acquisition, construction, or alteration of a facility as part of a general capital improvements program.

SECTION 4. INVESTMENT OF FUND - The money in the Fund may be invested as provided by law, with the earnings of the Fund to be returned to the General Fund.

Section 5. APPROPRIATIONS FROM FUND - Money in the Fund may be appropriated, by resolution, adopted by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the City Commission for the following purposes:

- a) To cover a General Fund deficit revealed by the annual audit.
- b) To prevent a reduction in service levels at any time during a fiscal year, when budgeted revenues are not being collected in an amount sufficient to cover budgeted expenditures.
- c) To prevent a reduction in service levels, when preparing the budget for the next fiscal year it appears that estimated revenues will not be sufficient to cover estimated expenditures.
- d) To cover expenses arising because of a natural disaster, provided that any federal or state funds which are received to offset appropriations from the Fund shall be returned to the Fund.

In determining whether revenues are not sufficient to cover expenses, a reduction in the amount of money received from any source, in comparison to the amount received in the previous fiscal year, shall be considered.

This Ordinance shall become operative and effective on the 7th day of July, 1991.

Made, passed and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, this 1st day of July, 1991.

Help us make steps in the fight against SIDS

If you knew a healthy, happy baby had died suddenly without reason, you'd want to help. There are over 7,000 babies who die from a cruel, mysterious killer. It's called SIDS: Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Perhaps you've heard SIDS referred to as "Crib Death." But maybe you didn't hear that SIDS is the number one cause of death in infants from one week to one year.

babies of all races and religions. And it's not hereditary.

Donations of your time and dollars will make a difference. And we can make bigger steps to fighting SIDS.

Here's how to safely observe July 11 eclipse

On July 11, 1991, Skywatchers will have the opportunity to see a very rare event. There will be an eclipse of the sun and, depending on your location, you may see a total eclipse, a partial eclipse, or no eclipse at all.

An eclipse occurs when the moon passes between the earth and the sun, and blocks the sun.

Every month, at the time of the New Moon, the moon is located between the earth and the sun, so you might wonder why eclipses don't occur monthly.

It's because the moon's orbit around the earth is tilted by five degrees. The moon usually passes above or below the sun, not directly across its face.

There are at least two solar eclipses every year, but visibility is extremely limited. If the eclipse occurs after sunset, or before sunrise, it obviously won't be visible.

The last solar eclipse visible to a large portion of the United States was on March 7, 1989. The next total eclipse that touches the United States will be on Aug. 21, 2017, but totality will last only 2½ minutes. The next total eclipse anywhere in the world is June 30, 1992. It touches land only near Montevideo, Uruguay. The rest of the eclipse is visible from the South Atlantic Ocean.

Raymond E. Bullock

IN METRO DETROIT the eclipse will begin at 2:42 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, when the leading edge of the moon begins to cover the sun. Maximum eclipse occurs at 3:22 p.m., when only 7 percent of the sun will be covered. The eclipse ends at 3:59 p.m. when the trailing edge of the moon leaves the sun.

What is it about an eclipse that makes it dangerous to observe? Nothing. The eclipse will not blind you, but looking directly at the sun will cause permanent blindness. Unfortunately, you can't look at one without seeing the other. Never look directly at the sun.

What about using special filters or goggles? Sun glasses are not safe. Solar filters that screw onto the eyepiece of some telescopes are not safe. (In fact they are dangerous and should be thrown away.) Exposed and developed black-and-white film, smoked glass, X-ray film, black plastic garbage bags, and crossed polarizing filters are not safe. Some welder's goggles are not safe, light colors, such as No. 12 goggles, are definitely not safe.

THERE IS A dark green, No. 14 glass, welder's goggle that filters out all ultraviolet and infrared radiation and reduces the amount of visible light by a factor of 370,000 that is safe, but if you use that be sure to cover both of your eyes.

There are two ways you can safely use a telescope to view the eclipse. Use a low power eyepiece and make a mask to reduce the size of the front aperture of the telescope to one or two inches. (Do not attempt this with a Schmidt-Cassegrain or Maksutov-type telescope; the heat build up inside the tube could damage the secondary mirror.) Be sure to cover over the front of the finderscope. Do not look through the telescope to aim it.

Instead, aim the telescope at the sun by adjusting the tube until it makes the smallest possible shadow on the ground. The image of the sun will be projected through the eyepiece and can be focused on a piece of cardboard. Caution: the eyepiece could become very warm. If the aperture is not stopped down, enough heat could be generated to cause the eyepiece to shatter.

Another way to observe the sun with a telescope is by using a Mylar solar filter. Aluminized Mylar filters come in different sizes and are designed to fit over the front of most telescopes. Care should be taken to examine these filters for scratches and small holes. If there is any doubt, don't use it.

THE SAFEST way to observe the eclipse is with "pinhole projection." Get a box that you can put over your head. Cut a hole an inch across in one end, tape a piece of aluminum foil over it and punch a pinhole through the foil. On the opposite end, inside the box, tape a piece of white paper. During the eclipse, stand with your back to the sun and put the box over your head. The sun will enter the pinhole and form an image on the piece of white paper, provided your head isn't blocking the path.

Do not look directly at the sun through the pinhole. At 3:22 p.m. you will see a 7 percent "bite" missing from the projected image. (Pinhole projection can also be accomplished with two pieces of cardboard, the one with the hole held in front of the other, but the box method blocks all ambient sunlight and gives better results.)

Little Luxembourg has its own special style

A LITTLE homework on my part was necessary. I challenged myself to become more than just a temporary expatriate from the States. I vowed to act, speak, and live like the locals. This, of course, was easier said than done and involved putting myself in uneasy situations... all of which I laugh at now.

To start, I began taking language lessons. Breaking down the communication barrier seemed to be the most logical step forward in my integration plan. Before long, my confidence level rose and I was conversing in French with the vendors and locals in town.

There was a real change in people's attitudes toward me. I believe they appreciated the fact that I was making the effort to communicate on their terms.

Despite the stumbling blocks of mispronunciations and wrong verb tenses, I was pleased with my progress. At one point, however, I got ahead of myself. I misinterpreted a postal notice which read "fill out the leaflet, place it near your mailbox and it will be picked up Saturday by a census bureau employee."

reader's report

My hasty interpretation: Gather your leaves, leave them near the mailbox and a city worker will pick them up Saturday.

Needless to say, I was a bit embarrassed to learn of the mistranslation from the census taker, who was laughing hysterically on my doorstep... a story to be remembered by friends and neighbors for years to come.

My original impressions are now fading. The simple errands that seemed so time-consuming and complicated at first are simple again. I am familiar with store floorplans and product labels, banking procedures and city codes. Ridiculous as it may seem, I now know the one place across the border where I can buy "rushed pineapple in the can.

The bottom line to living in Luxembourg seems to be a matter of "not assuming anything." Don't assume your garbage men will be dressed in grubs — because they're sometimes seen in sport coat and tie. Don't assume a village road is reserved for only vehicles — because you may be surprised to find a cow licking your window at a stop sign. It's these kind of experiences that definitely make you smile and realize that the world can be opened up to all who are open to exploring it.

Getting to Aussie at half price

If you plan to take advantage of the great half-price sale of airline seats to Australia, $750 or less round-trip, you must buy your tickets from Northwest or Continental airlines before July 15 for use between now and Sept. 30. Seats are very hard to get. I note that Brighton Travel Service is offering air fare at $690 per person.

GAYLORD'S 27th annual Alpenfest will be July 16 and 17, starting with the traditional burning of the Boog; put your worries in the Boog and they'll torch them for you.

The Alpenfest Grand Parade will be led by a Swiss Cow and events will include the world's largest coffee break. Just what we'll all need by then. Call the Gaylord Area Convention and Visitors Bureau toll-free (800) 345-8621.

OTHER MICHIGAN fun and games include: the rest of the Traverse City Cherry Festival, through July 13; the Floral City Festival in Monroe and the Founders Festival in Farmington this weekend of July 11-13; the Brown Trout Festival in Alpena July 13-21.

Wyandotte has its Street Art Fair July 17-20, South Haven its Blueberry Festival July 17-21, Houghton Lake a Polkafest July 18-21, Benton Harbor. Joseph a Venetian Festival July 19-20. The Muskegon Art Fair is July 20-21, Ann Arbor Street Art Fair July 24-27, Novi's Michigan 50s Festival and Pigeon's Farmers Festival July 24-24.

Festivals, festivals! Bronson's Polish Festival July 25-27, Jackson's Hot Air Jubilee July 26-28, the Grand Haven Coast Guard Festival July 26-Aug. 3, the Ionia Free Fair July 26 to Aug. 4. And the Port Huron to Mackinac Island Yacht Race July 27.

Too bad there's nothing to do in Michigan in July.

GRAND TRAVERSE resort will offer the Colgate Offshore Sailing School "learn to sail" vacations the weeks of July 17 and 24 as part of the schools learn to sail tour of 30 sites nationwide.

The class, which is open to beginning through intermediate sailors, features classroom instruction followed by actual sailing on a 27-foot Olympic Class Soling. Limit of four students per boat. Call toll-free (800) 748-0303 for information.

HAWAII. West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation will preview their winter Hawaii trip 7:30 p.m. July 11 at parks headquarters, 3325 Middlebelt Road. In December, as the winter winds blow and the snow falls, you may be ready for some of the heat you're complaining about now.

They are sponsoring a 4-island, 13-day tour from December 9-21. Cost of the tour is $2,099 per person, which includes air fare, deluxe rooms, all tours, and 14 meals. Call Patty at 334-5660 for more information.

JAMAICA. The 14th Annual Reggae Sunsplash Festival will take place July 15-20 in Jamaica, featuring top international reggae stars and lots more. It's only one of the many Jamaican events you can plan a trip around.

August 6th is Jamaica Independence Day, with a variety of events scheduled around that date. The First Annual Portland Jamboree will be held August 9-18 in Port Antonio, featuring parades, beach parties and dancing.

There's also plenty for sports lovers, including the International Marlin Tournament Oct. 7-11 and the Johnnie Walker World Championship Golf Tournament Dec. 19-22.

The Ann Arbor Art Street Fair always attracts big crowds. Taking the shuttle is a way to avoid at least one problem during fair week.

Shuttle in, leave parking hassles behind at art fair

The alternative is to head for Liberty Plaza, a small park on Liberty Street. Buy homemade soup, a special milkshake or a hot dog from a gourmet hot dog place called Le Dog and eat in the park.

Keep going west on Liberty and you'll find yourself in the non-profit area, where several dozen organizations sell their T-shirts and hand out leaflets. Continue west and you're in the second part of the Michigan Guild fair in the Main Street area.

Children can do supervised art projects here or at a booth on Church Street near South University Avenue.

WHEN YOU are ready for an afternoon break, try the frozen yogurt or a lemonade at Afternoon Delight, corner of Liberty and Fifth, or go another block to Hertler Brothers; you'll find all the gardeners and do-it-yourselfers there on Ashley Street, the first street west and parallel to Main.

Note the Bird of Paradise across the street from Hertler's, in case you want to come back for drinks and jazz later at night.

For late afternoon, you'll find a hundred different beers at the sidewalk cafe or inside bar at The Full Moon Cafe on Main Street. Or a dark cool hole-in-the-wall welcome at Del Rio on Washington Street.

Across the street from Del Rio is the famous Earle, with its elegant wine list. Even if you don't want a special occasion dinner, you can go into the separate bar for a drink within the coolness of the brick and fieldstone walls.

THE ANN ARBOR Art Fair, which is really three concurrent fairs, is on 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday-Friday, July 24-26, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 27.

You'll find 200 artists, 65 of them new this year, at the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, and 1,000 artists represented in the three fairs.

Call the Washtenaw Council for the Arts at (313) 966-2777 for information on the performances planned for the Graceful Arch Stage, northwest corner of South University and East University avenues.

The stage is sponsored by MCI Telecommunications Corp., which will also allow you to make free long-distance telephone calls of up to three minutes from their calling center on Church and South University.

Cumberland Plateau: 'Island in mainstream'

They stock everything from razor strops to copper bathtubs; great gifts and old-time candies.

Across the road is a massive octagonal 80-foot sandstone tower, a monumental museum to one of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "New Deal" experiments of the early 1930s.

Eleanor Roosevelt twice visited this 10,000-acre "Cumberland Homesteads" project that provided each of 250 poor families with about 20 acres of cleared land and the means to build their own home. It was a successful attempt at cooperative living that faded with the end of the great depression of the 1930s.

The 250 original stone cottages still line most of the roads within two or three miles of the tower which now houses a free museum on the ground floor. For fifty cents you can climb the 97-step circular stairway to the top for a view of the area.

RUGBY

The northern part of this plateau, some 40 miles north of Crossville, has another group of unique tourist attractions and small towns. Most unusual and picturesque is the "English Colony" town of Rugby. Founded in 1880 by famed English author Thomas Hughes, who wrote "Tom Brown's Schooldays", it was his intention to establish a "New Jerusalem" in the land of opportunity.

The settlement of English immigrants thrived for about ten years and the population peaked at about 400 in 1884 but sickness, financial problems and cold winters almost wiped out the village. Today, seventeen of the original seventy buildings remain and the population is stable at about seventy-five.

English home cooking is available at the Harrow Road Cafe and overnight lodging, in Victorian bedrooms, is available at the Newbury House Inn and the Pioneer Cottage. Sunday services are still held in beautiful little 1887 Christ Episcopal with its 1849 rosewood organ.

About 35 miles northwest of Rugby, on highway 127 north of Jamestown, is the Alvin C. York grist mill. Now a state park and museum, the mill is a memorial to America's greatest World War One hero. The park ranger is his son Andrew Jackson York. Known here as Andy, his father Sgt. York died in 1964 and is buried nearby.

You can travel a little farther west to Byrdstown and visit the log cabin birthplace of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, known as the father of the United Nations and winner of the Nobel Peace Prize.

RAFTING

On Sunday morning we drove north on highway 27 to Oneida and then west into Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area. This 100,000-acre wilderness park, which extends into southern Kentucky, was established in 1974 and is aimed primarily at campers, backpackers and whitewater enthusiasts.

Bandy Creek Recreation Area in the southern part of the park has horse stables and a visitor center. No accommodation other than campgrounds.

As pre-arranged, a whitewater outfitter met us beside the river at noon and about two dozen of us boarded his ancient bus, that was pulling a trailer stacked high with 14-foot rubber rafts.

Several miles up-river we were unloaded and fitted with helmets, life jackets and paddles. We soon needed all of them as we bounced and splashed our way down five miles of class three and four rapids, six persons per raft including one skilled boatman who directed the operation.

Two of our people fell into the water and were retrieved—they were in no real danger. Three canoes traversing the same rapids were not so lucky; they all capsized but the nine passengers soon recovered their canoes and their composure and were on their way again.

Even if you manage to stay within the raft, there is no way to keep dry on this trip. The waves sometimes splash right over your head so your feet are in a foot of water for most of the run, which takes about half an hour for five miles, an hour for ten miles.

This kind of whitewater rafting is a thrill ride that can be enjoyed by any physically-fit person over 12 years of age — even a couch potato like me.

IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Take a friend to the art fair

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

The trouble with art fairs is that there is too much art in one place. I love the Ann Arbor Art Fair, July 24-27 this year, but I lose my oomph after I have walked through the first mile of booths.

My Ann Arbor friends don't have this problem, because they know where to take those refreshing breaks that make a day at the fair survivable. If you have Ann Arbor friends, let them take you to the fair. If you don't, plan a day with lots of breaks in it.

Don't drive into that midtown madhouse. Park your car free and take the shuttle ($1 each way) from the southeast side of Briarwood Mall, off I-94 on State Street near Sears, or from the Pioneer High School on the corner of Main and Stadium.

The shuttle circles all day, and stops at a number of places, so you can always get back to your car. Shuttle riders also ride free on the trolley that runs between the three fairs; others pay 50 cents for the trolley.

START AT the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, the original juried fair on South University.

You will find Pat Dunn Bremner of Birmingham doing mixed media on paper in one of the booths. You'll find Linda Rizza of Troy creating a pen-and-ink still life at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., part of the artist demonstrations that take place morning, afternoon and evening during the fair.

All the stores in town have sidewalk sales, so you can always duck into Middle Earth for an unusual gift or go to the Bagel Factory for breakfast.

AS YOU continue down South University you will pass the President's House, home of the University of Michigan president.

Walk into the courtyard of the Cook Law Quadrangle across the street, patterned after old English university quads. Go to the original law library and then underground to the spectacular addition with its skylight.

A diversion like that makes the fair more fun. You'll find another diversion at the U of M Art Museum, at the corner of South University and State.

IF YOU walk north on State Street from there, you will be in one of two parts of the Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans Summer Art Fair. Members sell from a gold mine of hand crafts, jewelry and paintings; entertainment includes music, demonstrations and children's programs.

Keep going and you will be in the State Street Art Fair; the artists are on Thompson, Maynard, North University and Liberty streets — only the merchants are on State Street. This fair is similar to the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair; artists apply for one or the other.

Ready for another break? Duck into Nickel's Arcade, built in 1917. It was patterned after European arcades: two stories, glass ceilings. You will find one of the largest collections of antique jewelry you have ever seen in a shop called The Arcadian. Book lovers know that the original Borders Book Store is also in this area.

WHEN IT'S time for lunch, get away from the street hubbub. Go two blocks east to the Michigan League, a beautiful old 1920s building with cool marble floors and a nice relaxing cafeteria. Or go two blocks north to the Campus Inn, where the restaurant is run by the Macchus restaurant people.

Tennessee has an 'island' treasure

By Micky Jones
special writer

"Welcome to the Cumberland Plateau," said the Park Ranger. "I like to refer to it as 'An Island in the Mainstream of America.' We were in the nature center of Fall Creek Falls State Park near Pikeville, on the Cumberland Plateau, an elevated region that cuts a swath 50 miles wide through Tennessee, about 50 miles west of Interstate-75.

Outdoor activities and attractions make this a great place for a laid-back, non-city vacation. There's plenty to see and do or you can relax and do nothing.

I picked up a bike at the modern 72-room Fall Creek Lodge and pedaled along the shore of Fall Creek Lake, past fishermen bait-casting from flat-bottomed boats, until I reached an unusual row of modern "fisherman" cabins. Guests fish from private porches that hang over the lake.

I rode past the golf course, tennis courts, two camping areas and a swimming pool before reaching spectacular Fall Creek Falls. At 256 feet, it is the highest waterfall east of the Rocky Mountains.

The Cumberland Plateau drops 1000 feet to the Tennessee River Valley on the east and tapers to the Cumberland River, and several large TVA lakes, on the west. There are no cities on the plateau, just friendly villages and small towns such as McMinnville and its nearby Cumberland Caverns, second in size only to Kentucky's Mammoth Cave.

The Cavern has a one-ton crystal chandelier in the first of several large caves, including one called "the 10-acre room". Saltpeter, used in gunpowder, was mined in these caves during the war of 1812 and during the Civil War.

CROSSVILLE AREA

About 30 miles north of Fall Creek, near Crossville, is a smaller State Park called Cumberland Mountain. It has modern cottages, a lake, campground and restaurant but no lodge. A nearby alternative is Thunder Hollow, a time-share resort that offers motel-like rooms by the day or week, plus recreation facilities and golf course.

Four miles south of Crossville, at the junction of highways 68 and 127, is the wonderful Cumberland General Store "with goods in endless variety for man and beast."

Please turn to Page 5

The Fall Creek Falls at 256 feet high are the highest in the United States east of the Rockies.

Outdoor activities and attractions make this a great place for a laid-back, non-city vacation.

This log cabin near Byrdstown, Tenn. is the birthplace of former Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Luxembourg: Small with a nice difference

By Dawne Fitzgerald
special writer

It was late September 1989 when we first learned of my husband's three-year job assignment in Luxembourg. I remember my first thought: "where exactly is this little European country?" A bit frustrated by my rusty elementary geography, I pulled out an old history book.

It all started coming back to me... World War Two, Battle of the Bulge, General Patton and the American liberation. Now, a resident of one and a half year, I can't imagine never knowing this charming international place and its fascinating history.

Luxembourg is the fifth smallest country in Europe close to the size of Long Island with a population of nearly 370,000. Its people and culture are unique in that it has maintained its identity apart from its neighbors: Germany, France and Belgium.

The principal spoken language is Luxembourgish; however, French and German are more commonly used in the business sector.

The capital and our home, Luxembourg City, offer an international setting for business and pleasure alike. Surprisingly, in close proximity, one can see modern architecture at its finest, as well as castles and ruins of centuries past. Scattered traces of medieval times titillate the tourist with thoughts of fortresses, dungeons and messengers to the king.

FROM A tourist's viewpoint, the place is enchanting. But I remember questioning what it would be like to live here without the daily comforts and conveniences of home. I soon found out that living abroad, exciting as it was, involved a slow process of learning to fit in.

We arrived in Luxembourg on New

The Place Guillaume in Luxembourg City

Year's Eve with only a few suitcases to tide us over until our boat shipment arrived six weeks later. I was seven months pregnant with no doctor and no idea of where to begin what.

I was so busy dealing with culture shock that I had no time or energy to address the fears of giving birth in a foreign country. There were other more pressing matters to be concerned about such as the location of our new bank, post office and pharmacy. Thinking back now, I believe it was pure optimism, although somewhat naive, that brought about our smooth assimilation.

My first impressions of the surroundings were definitely misleading. In the beginning, simple tasks like grocery shopping and making phone calls were difficult and often took double the time to complete. Even driving was a chore.

The road signs were confusing — yellow diamonds and red divided circles. My philosophy was do-first learn-later. It wasn't until I had my first confrontation with the gendarmie (local police), a minor fender-bender, that I realized this was more than a three-year vacation.

MOVING PICTURES

Arnold makes good

By John Monaghan
special writer

Director James Cameron was the first to recognize that Arnold Schwarzenegger is best seen and not heard. Let others explain the intricacies of the plot, he seemed to say in 1984's "The Terminator," while the big guy blows away everything in sight.

In Cameron's much-anticipated sequel, "Terminator 2: Judgement Day," Arnold chats a bit more (perhaps too much), but the film makes good on his promise of "I'll be back" with the best arsenal of special effects and pyrotechnics that $100 million can buy.

"I need your clothes, your boots, and your bike," announces a buck-naked Arnold, fresh from the future, to an especially sleazy denizen of a biker bar. After taking a few bullets and tearing up the place, Arnold roars off on a Harley Davidson sporting black leather and dark sunglasses.

In the original "Terminator," which opened with a similar scene, Arnold was a killing machine sent from the future to destroy Sarah Connor before she could give birth to a son. Following nuclear holocaust, John Connor would grow up to lead resistance forces against robots who control the planet.

Here, 10 years after the first Terminator battle, Arnold plays a reprogrammed version of that same cyborg, sent by the future's freedom fighters to protect John from another assassination attempt.

A NEW villain, T-1000 (Robert Patrick), is made of a shiny silver alloy which can get literally split in two, then meld back together good as new. Bullets pump into him like pebbles in still water, with regenerative metal sinking back into the wound. T-1000 has the power to take the appearance of anything it comes in contact with, from a checkered floor to your best friend.

To set up this mother of all robot battles, "Terminator 2" goes all out with special effects, using computer animation to create images until now found only in comic books. In one of the countless innovative action scenes, T-1000 is thrown face-first into a wall, but then transforms in a split second front-to-back and charges again.

Schwarzenegger keeps his promise of 'I'll be back' with the best arsenal of special effects and pyrotechnics that $100 million can buy.

Linda Hamilton returns as Sarah Connor, who has spent the last six months in a mental institution for using violence to get her message across to a world she knows will be obliterated in 1997. Pumped up to solid muscle and bone from exercising in her cell, Hamilton's Sarah comes as close as it gets to a female Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Son John, played by Edward Furlong, grows pretty irritating after while, though you get brief glimpses of the leader he will later become. Mostly, he's here for laughs, teaching his cyborg buddy a new vocabulary including "asta la vista, baby" and assorted profanities.

"Terminator 2" stays light on time travel plot twists, but weaves in a message about changing the future of the planet. Sarah is plagued by vivid dreams of nuclear holocaust, with children on swing sets bursting into flames. Her conclusion that the good robot is the only man suitable for raising her son is pretty wild stuff.

'Brilliant Career' remains a delight

By LeAnne Rogers
staff writer

By way of a disclaimer, I probably should say up front that "My Brilliant Career" has been one of my favorite films. Since I first saw this charming 1979 Australian film years ago, I've regularly revisited the tale of teenager Sybylla Melvyn and her journey to have a brilliant career.

Living with her large poor farming family in the Australian outback during the last years of the 19th century, Sybylla wants a career in the arts, opera, literature or as a concert pianist, something other than farming. Since Sybylla has no training or apparent skills, her exasperated mother, worn and prematurely aged, has a more practical solution — placing Sybylla to work as a servant.

Instead, Sybylla is sent to live with her wealthy grandmother, an proper Victorian woman who is confounded by her granddaughter's high spirits and plans for a career instead of marriage.

Judy Davis is wonderful as Sybylla, starting as a gangly adolescent with that sullenness parents of teenagers will immediately recognize. Her early comments about wanting an artistic career seem like so much unfocused youthful pretension. She is insecure about her appearance, awkward in the fine surroundings she had for which she had been longing. Through the ministrations of her grandmother and genteel aunt, Davis slowly loses the rough farm edges without losing her spirit, sense of humor and commitment to discovering her own potential. Davis shows Sybylla's transformation from a prickly youngster to a confident woman. She eventually realizes her goals but not perhaps in the way she first had anticipated.

ONE OF the nice things about this film is that when Sybylla is faced with a suitor, it's really a struggle. Too often the choice is easy for the woman because the men are presented as boors or cretins. She doesn't take seriously a proposal from a greenhorn Englishman, who condescendingly urges her to marry him since she couldn't possibly expect a better offer. Things are a bit stickier with the handsome landowner, played by Sam Neill, who falls in love with Sybylla. He's rich, he's charming, he's a fun guy and he's crazy about her. A very tough decision.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Michael On Fire, formerly Michael Colone of Livonia, is drawing raves with his live performances and his latest release "Comanche Moon."

Michael blazes new trail

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Though based in Southern California, Michael On Fire's musical wick was lit in his native Detroit.

The 1968 graduate of Livonia Stevenson mentions names from his playing days here, people like jazz master Lyman Woodward and political activist John Sinclair, as sources of inspiration.

"They brought the music to the people from the street," said Michael On Fire, formerly known as Michael Colone. "They didn't care about things like fame and fortune. They were playing because they had to play. I took that with me."

This Wednesday, Michael On Fire will bring that passion and immediacy back with him as returns to this area for a show at Alvin's. Terry Farmer, another Livonian transplanted in Southern California, and his Bead Band will open. The gig will mark Michael On Fire's first show in the Motor City since leaving for California in 1980.

NO DOUBT, things have been refined since those days when Michael On Fire played with a jazz fusion outfit, Prismatic, in the 1970s at such clubs as Cobb's Corner on Cass Avenue.

Today, Michael On Fire plays a grueling schedule of 360 shows a year and continually embarks on cross-country tours. He likens himself to a "local band performing all over the country," meaning he has no major label support.

His latest release on the independent label M.C.R. Music, "Comanche Moon," features a stirring blend of folk, blues and rock'n'roll ushered home with Michael On Fire's commanding vocals and simmering musicianship. The LP is boundless in musical scope, refraining from the standard radio ready pop fare.

Crenshaw back to old self with new LP

By Steve O'Leary
special writer

Singer/songwriter Marshall Crenshaw has come a long way since he played in a variety of high school and oldies bar bands. A graduate of Berkeley High School, he says he'd just as soon forget those days.

"Let's just say the names of those bands are best left obscure," Crenshaw said from his Los Angeles hotel room where he's doing publicity in preparation for his latest tour, which will promote his sixth and latest album, "Life's Too Short."

Crenshaw left the Detroit area in 1976 to join a friend's band in Alaska, of all places. "But the band leader and I didn't hit it off good at all, so I split. I was working in some small bar bands out west when I decided to screw it, I've had enough of playing second fiddle in second-rate bands. I decided to come back to Detroit and marry my girlfriend, Ione (he won't disclose her last name but says they're still happily married)."

Along the way, he answered an ad for "Beatlemania."

"They called me in Detroit, I auditioned and got the part. After nearly two years, I quit to spend more time with my family."

It was then that a 12-inch version of "Someday, Someway" was recorded and he was offered a record contract with Warner Brothers, a relationship which finally soured in 1989. He was wooed — and won — by MCA, who released "Life's Too Short."

"LIFE'S TOO Short" delivers what we've come to expect from Crenshaw: short, snappy power pop filled with enough hooks to get a toe-tapping response from even the most jaded rock fans. While cronies like Nick Lowe and Elvis Costello fell off along the wayside, Crenshaw has maintained his pop sensibility, as evidenced in tunes like "Everything's the Truth" and "Walkin' Around."

His tour, which will hit Saint Andrew's Hall on Thursday, July 11, will feature an all-new band for Crenshaw, including Mitch Easter, perhaps best known as a producer of bands such as the much lamented dB's and Chris Stills.

"I'm as excited about this tour as

REVIEWS

WARM YOUR HEART

— Aaron Neville

Most folks know Aaron Neville from his work with his sibling group, the Neville Brothers, or from his MTV balladeering on "Don't Know Much" with Linda Ronstadt. (In the video, Neville's the one in the dangerous looking cut-off jeans jacket that gives him that surly "least likely to be a singing ballad" look.

But Neville's been around since the late 1960's when he hit it big with the classic "Tell It Like It Is." That song was given new life when it was included on the soundtrack to the movie "The Big Easy" — an excellent sampler of New Orleans sounds, by the way.

Surprisingly, "Warm Your Heart" is Neville's first solo offering in more than 20 years and, for an occasion as big as this, Neville brought out some big-gun collaborators.

For one, strangely enough, Linda Ronstadt is a co-producer on the album. She also sings a duet with Neville on the doo-wop Five Keys song "Close Your Eyes," sings back-up on a few songs and is even credited with whistling on "Everybody plays The Fool." Apparently Ronstadt is very, very grateful to Neville for revitalizing her previously sluggish career.

Neville was careful to pick tunes for "Warm Your Heart" that compliment his soaring, clear voice. His roster of songwriters is impressive. The CD kicks off with Randy Newman's lovely "Louisiana 1927." A John Hiatt tune, "Feels Like Rain," features the great Ry Cooder on slide guitar.

If an artist is going to wait 20 years between albums, the final product better be pretty darn good. In the case of "Warm Your Heart," happily, the result was worth waiting for. The record is able to address subjects like faith and healing without being sappy — quite an accomplishment.

SLINKY — Milltown Brothers

"Slinky" is a hard record to get a handle on — it's difficult to say whether it's very enjoyable or not. It's certainly not offensive. But then, I don't think I'd pay money for it.

It's sort of what would happen if a Hollywood producer who knew nothing about music was making a teen flick and needed an alternative-sounding band to play at the big dance scene at the end of the movie. Milltown Brothers would be that band. Their music is a kind of generic alternative music.

Their lyrics are more like sound bites than any attempt at communication. The song "Which Way Should I Jump?", for example, the lyrics pretty much are "Which way should I jump?" repeated at least 13 times. Sure there are other lyrics, but they seem to be there only so that the entire song isn't comprised of the words "Which Way Should I Jump?"

Speaking of "Which Way Should I Jump?," it's one of the many songs on "Slinky" that is more that a bit influenced by the Byrds. Unfortunately for the Milltown Brothers, the Byrds-esque soaring harmonies, guitar sounds and sound structures were done a lot better by the Byrds themselves. Anyway, if you're going to copy someone, you may as well be original in your selection. Everyone does the Byrds, it'd be nice to here a rising young band imitate someone different for a change like Donovan or the Village People or something.

The vocals are nothing to sing about either. I'm sure no vocal training was involved here. The guy sounds a bit like Mike Patton of Faith No More, but sounds infinitely more annoying. My friend said the lead singer sounds like a cartoon character. Good enough.

The main reason these guys probably got signed to a record label is that they are cute.

And, in the music business, unfortunately, that often counts for a lot.

Should cousins go beyond kissing?

Dear Barbara:
I have fallen in love with my first cousin. He is my father's sister's son. We have not told our family. We know they will be very angry and against this union. We are determined to get married. Are there laws against first cousins marrying?

Jean

then come back to Michigan, your marriage is recognized and thus the children are legitimate.

Your parents' anger is something that you and your spouse will have to tolerate. Many people have a strong emotional response to first cousins marrying because of fears of breaking incest taboos. Of course, marriage between first cousins is not incest.

Many also have fears of birth defects, but this is also unfounded. In a marriage between two genetic strangers, the chance for a birth defect is 1 to 2 percent. In a marriage between first cousins, the chance of a birth defect is 3 percent. The differences in these statistics is lower than most would expect. Good luck and congratulations to you and your fiancé.

BUT PHILOSOPHY is only secondary and Cameron's contention that this is "a violent movie about peace" seems pretty naive. "Terminator 2" is an action picture and in this department, Cameron remains the best in the business. He knows the power of a black-clad Arnold on a Harley, cocking a sawed-off shotgun with one hand while riding at top speed, blowing a padlock away before crashing through a gate.

One of the unique things about "Terminator 2" (and I could be wrong about this after just one viewing) is that Arnold's robot doesn't exactly kill any humans. He is responsible for his share of broken bones, but spends most of his artillery destroying police vehicles and trying to make a dent in T-1000.

Two lingering questions keep popping up. "Is 'Terminator 2' worth its almost nine-figure price tag?" With the play money they use in Hollywood, who cares.

And will there be a "Terminator 3"? If it's as good as this, and with Cameron and Schwarzenegger at the helm, I'll follow the story in any direction they want to take.

FOR A FEW weeks there, Matty Rich almost became a household name. The Cinderella story of a 19-year-old black man who, against almost impossible odds, made a film about hard times in the Brooklyn projects kept imaginations flowing.

Matty's story is the best thing about "Straight out of Brooklyn," a heartfelt attempt that lacks style, believable performances, or plausible plotting.

Some of the scenes almost work. In one, the father (George T. Odum) has a Tired of shuffling for 'the white man,' the father simply refuses to pump the gas.

The few 'real' moments are quickly overshadowed by the naivete of the main character Dennis (Lawrence Gilliard Jr.), who wants to make fast money by swiping a briefcase full of drug money. The idiotic way this supposedly intelligent teenager goes about the heist leaves the audience both guessing and irritated.

It's difficult to dislike a movie like "Straight out of Brooklyn" without seeming insensitive and racist. It simply boils down to this: "Straight out of Brooklyn" proves that it takes more than heart and hype to produce a compelling movie.

Rousing direction by Michael Curtiz, with a score to match by Erich Wolfgang Korngold.

Rocker finds warrior within

Some numbers on Michael On Fire's latest effort — a follow-up to the Stephen Stills-produced "Pre-Dawn Chronicles" in 1989 — range from exploratory to searing. Some songs are long, like the protracted acoustic blues scorcher "Be My Baby Tonight" (9:16) to lean folk musings of "Kiss My A—" (1:56).

"I do that as an artistic statement," said Michael On Fire, which is a legal name. "To write three minute pop songs is an art form in itself. Which is something I haven't been too interested in only because I've found the reality of that has nothing to do with longevity or respect of the peers."

NOT THAT he didn't try, though. Michael On Fire said he attempted to work within those confines on his first LP "Pre-Dawn Chronicles." At the time, Stills had been trying to get Michael On Fire signed to Atlantic. Things fell through, so the release went out on M.C.R. "Pre-Dawn Chronicles" was still a relative success, selling out of all 25,000 copies.

If anything, the sale of the LP is a telling gauge of Michael On Fire's surging popularity. So, too, are the constant critical raves. "Comanche Moon" landed in several critic's Top-25 lists after its release last year.

Despite the zeal, Michael On Fire doesn't have a record deal. After 20 years of performing, he knows the score.

"If all of a sudden, say the head of Sony Records comes along and says, 'We want to sign you up but, you know, judging by your record you write nine-minute songs.' You have to realize the people in power are all marketing men. They have business degrees. They don't have music degrees."

Music has always been first and foremost for Michael On Fire. The crippling recession in 1980 dried up a good deal of the musical jobs in the area. Michael On Fire didn't want to work a day job, figuring it would cut into his time making music. He went to Los Angeles instead.

EVENTUALLY, HE opened for the likes of Jimmy Cliff, Spyro Gyro, Bob Seger and Jean Luc Ponty. Stephen Stills took a particular interest in his career, producing some cuts on "Pre-Dawn Chronicles."

Along the way, Michael Colone picked up the name Michael On Fire from a Souix Indian while playing at a New Age Festival.

"He felt the drive and what he called fire I have inside of me. He told me I should probably not be afraid to live up to the warrior in me, which is Michael On Fire. It's a pretty pretentious name. People probably say, 'What does he think he is a disco guy?' or 'What, does he think he's hot or something?' That's what he (the Indian) meant by not being afraid of the name."

Uncle Sams

Patriotism is in, especially around the Fourth of July, and the Apple Wreath has just what you need to show your pride of the red, white and blue — a collection of Uncle Sams. Take your pick. There's a snoozin' Uncle Sam on a handmade wreath ($78), a wooden roly poly Uncle Sam ($25), a carved wood Uncle Sam ($18), a joint-and-dowel Uncle Sam ($23) and an Uncle Sam doorstop ($25). The Apple Wreath is at 32626 W. Seven Mile, Livonia.

Crenshaw returns to his roots

"I've ever been, man," he said. "I feel like I could just flip out — I'm that high on the record and the tour. I'm really rarin' to get out on the road."

The tour will start out with six or seven rockers — a mixture of old and new — and then will segue into an acoustic set, which will feature covers such as the Ramones' "The KKK Took My Baby Away," "Flirting With Disaster" by Molly Hatchet and some different versions of his own tunes. "We're learning more covers too," he says. "I'd love to do 'You Can't Put Your Arm Around a Memory' by (the late-great) Johnny Thunders. I have to pull out the record and see if my voice is right for it. It's a great song!"

THE FULL band will return for another set of hard rockers, no doubt dominated by the "jangly" guitar style that marks most Crenshaw recordings.

"It's always nice to come back to the area where I grew up (he even lived in Livonia for four years when he was an infant)," the 37-year-old rocker said.

"I may live in upstate New York now, but the Detroit area will always be special to me. I hope a lot of my old friends come to the show," he said. "Hell, I hope everyone comes to the show! And buys the record. I'm my own worst critic and I think the album's my best, and I know the show will be a lot of fun. One thing, no two Marshall Crenshaw shows will ever be the same. It's an evolving thing. It keeps my interest up, and that keeps it exciting for the audience. I don't even ever play the same guitar solo the same way twice."

The current tour will keep Crenshaw out on the road until approximately February — with a month

"Hopefully, when we come off of the road, we'll go back in the studio. I don't know what I like to do better — record or do live shows," he said.

As someone once sang — more or less — it's all rock 'n' roll to him.

Rickles: Beyond the barbs

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Don Rickles. The name conjures up all kinds of images. The master of the insult. The man with the barbed tongue. Mr. Sensitivity.

Rickles, 65, lives in Los Angeles. He performs several months a year, mainly in Las Vegas and Atlantic City. He's due to appear Tuesday at The New Pine Knob Music Theatre with singer Toni Tennille.

Younger fans of comedy may not know it, but Rickles is more than a comedian. He graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York and has played serious roles in the movies and on television.

Street Scene caught up with Rickles by telephone for a brief interview prior to his visit.

What kind of act would you do in Detroit compared to Vegas?

People are people. It doesn't change that much, although there might be an inside joke about Detroit. On the whole, people are pretty much the same. You just do what you do there, what you're best at, and that's what I continue to do.

What do you think draws people to you?

I think that being different in the sense that I am different and I think that ribbing people I don't bat a thousand. The whole world doesn't love Don Rickles, I know that, but what person does everybody love?

I think it's the attraction of being different and doing things that the average guy doesn't do. I always said even when I was a very young man starting out in this business, if you're different than the next guy, you have a chance.

The proof of it is if you sustain. If they last as I have 30 years or more hey, they're doing something right.

'The whole world doesn't love Don Rickles, I know that, but . . . what person does everybody love?'

— Don Rickles

To what do you attribute your appeal over time?

I've been very fortunate because my humor, as you know, is based on people. And people don't change.

By ribbing and talking about different peoples' background, it always stays fresh in the sense that, sure I have a beginning, middle and ending, but in between, things happen that always make it look different.

I think I have the upper hand on a fellow that comes out and does say a joke because the jokes get tiring after a while. You hear the same jokes.

But I perform in a sense where I act out all these things about different people and what's in the audience and that always makes it look different.

Why keep at it after so many years?

First of all, it's still fun. And second of all, people still come to see me. And, why not? It's better than if I had to, you know, maybe go out and put tar on a highway.

So I figure as long as I still enjoy it and I still have my health and am in good shape and have response of an audience, I will continue.

Is there a serious side to Don Rickles?

Well, as you see, I'm talking to you now and not calling you a dummy. I live a pretty much the average kind of life like anybody else. When I'm with my friends, sure, I kid around if we have a party or something. But you know, you go about your business.

I play golf like a lot of other guys — badly, by the way. And I go to ball games and I watch television and I lay around a lot. And I go traveling with my wife around the world quite a bit. So I do things pretty much like the average guy.

Are there any topics that you don't like to joke about?

The only thing I can think of is somebody that's handicapped or mentally has a problem, naturally. I won't go after that. But I think pretty much compared to what's being said today, I'm a monk.

What's the hardest part about being funny?

It's not really hard. If you're funny, you're funny. You don't think about it.

It's like when you write a column, I don't think you find it hard. I think you find the subjects hard. To write isn't hard because that's what you studied, that's what you know. The same thing with comedy.

You get out there and you know, hey, what I've said, is proven, that people laugh at and it's funny. So I don't find it hard.

The difficult part is traveling. Once you're on stage, it's fun. It's the traveling and going to the hotels and being away from you family and getting on planes, trains and automobiles and that's the toughest part.

How much do you travel now?

Not as much as years ago. I would say it takes up my time between eight weeks in Las Vegas, and five or six weeks in Atlantic City, theaters such as Detroit and around the country. It winds up 18, 19 weeks a year, maybe 20.

Don Rickles will appear with special guest, Toni Tennille, on Tuesday, July 9, at The New Pine Knob in Clarkston. Tickets are $24.50 pavilion and $7 for lawn. For information, call 377-8200.

Don Rickles might be the master of insult, but he has a serious, humble side to him.

Sean Franke, 20, of Redford is right at home in the cockpit of his fiberglass sailplane, often competing against people twice his age in the sport of soaring.

Follower of the fast wind

High in the summer skies, this sailplane pilot goes for the big soar

By LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

AT 3,000 FEET IN THE AIR, a loud snap should elicit dire panic and a few prayers. The content look on pilot Sean Franke's face, though, reveals he's already in heaven.

The loud noise is the disconnection of the tow line from Franke's 600-pound fiberglass sailplane to an engine-driven aircraft, which serves as an umbilical cord of sorts as both climb into a vast blue sky.

Almost begrudgingly, the line exists. The rope symbolizes the contrast of an individual conquering the environment with the engine plane while the sailplane allows a person to be one with nature.

For once severed, the Redford resident will navigate his craft without the mechanical means of a propeller or fuel.

Franke's flight is a rendezvous with the atmosphere where rising heat from the ground, known as thermals, provide a spiral staircase of elevation. Some have soared as high as 47,000 feet using the earth's solar lifts.

"You know," says Franke, 20, preparing for another one of his more than 350 flights, "it still amazes me what you can do in a sail plane."

Franke's statement seems like a contradiction when compared to the business-as-usual way he goes about the sport.

He's a National Junior Champion in soaring circles and has already won four contests and holds three state records. Often, Franke finds himself competing against people twice his age.

THE BLOND-HAIRED Michigan State University junior smiling behind the aviator sunglasses looks like he should be masterminding some fraternity prank, not navigating an engine-less craft across the horizon.

Sometimes, it takes convincing. Last year, Franke traveled 240 miles while reaching heights of 13,500 feet at the Sports Club Nationals in Texas.

"When I came in, they said 'You decided to quit and come back to the airport, huh?'" Franke recalls. "I said, 'No, I finished the course.' They all stopped talking."

Talk recently has centered on the Junior European Soaring Championships June 22, in Sweden. Franke was one of two Americans to compete in the event, which is for people 25 years and younger.

This would serve as a mighty dose of ego for any 20-year-old. Franke rattles off his accomplishments as matter-of-factly as a librarian checking in books.

Part of the reason is Franke comes from a line of soaring competitors. His father, Manfred, is an avid participant in the sport as well as his grandfather, Herbert.

HIS WHITE SAILPLANE with a 15-meter wing span has been in the family for 12 years. Soaring is in his blood.

After World War II, the use of engine-powered aircraft was restricted in Germany. People like Franke's grandfather, Herbert, yearned for flight and turned to gliding instead.

After emigrating with his son, Manfred, to the United States in the late 1950s the tradition continued. Sean Franke received his first sail-plane ride when he was a year old; took his first flying lesson at 13 and soloed on his 14th birthday.

"In a way, it was kind of expected with grandfather and my dad both being pilots," Franke said. "Eventually I fell in love with the sport."

In one sense, it's an unrequited love. Soaring receives very little media coverage and few people are aware of the sport.

According to Mark Kennedy, editor of Soaring magazine, there are 24,000 soaring enthusiasts in the country. Sailplanes can run anywhere from $4,500 for ones designed for hobbyists to $75,000 for high performance ones engineered for competitions.

The sport is safe. In 1990, there were only four deaths resulting from soaring.

THE NUMBER of fatalities is relatively small, considering it's a sport that involves flying engine-less craft at high altitudes. Most pilots wear parachutes as a precaution.

Soaring can be very intense. The game doesn't pit pilot versus pilot as much as pilot against the elements. Split-second decisions can mean the difference between winning or losing.

Pilots compete on a course, sometimes stretched out over hundreds of miles. They must photograph certain points along the course to verify completing it.

Once airborne, the frustrating part can be finding the thermal. Hard terrain in searing temperatures provide ideal conditions for rising air. In mountainous regions, wind deflecting off the side of the hill also provides an uplift of air.

In Michigan, finding either is like looking for quarters on Skid Row. Farm land and lakes can absorb the sun's heat instead of deflecting the air upward. As a result, heights of 5,000 feet in the state are considered a good day, although the drought in the summer of 1988 increased altitudes.

Another key figure in soaring is the lift-over-drag ratio of the plane. For example, a plane that is 1,000 feet in the air has 40,000 feet before it has to land.

A SAILPLANE with a 40-to-1 ratio is considered a high-performance craft. Most planes range between 28-to-1 and 35-to-1.

Then there are days when the only hot air around is the pilot's exasperated breath.

"One time I couldn't find a lift," said Franke, recalling one flight to the Thumb area. "Thirty-five miles later I landed in a farmer's field. It just so happened his daughter was having a graduation party, so they invited me in for some food."

When a sailplane pilot finds a thermal, he's in his element. Rising air can lift a plane 1,300 to 1,500 feet per minute in hot climates such as Texas. An engine plane averages 500 feet a minute.

Also, there's the sense of accomplishment. Once airborne, a sailplane pilot doesn't depend on mechanical means. His flight is his own. Inside the glass bubble of the cockpit are a few gauges to measure altitude and rate of descent. A home gel cell battery powers both the radio and the instruments.

Hand operated controls operate wing and tail flaps. Franke examines everything before taking a visitor up for a ride.

IN THE SKIES over Ionia, the serenity of the moment is interrupted by the whirl of the engine plane that tows the two-seater craft. Once reaching heights of 3,000 feet, Franke disconnects the line.

As if an act of defiance, the sailplane turns away from the power plane and cuts its own yet-to-be determined course.

Except for a few sudden dips, the ride is smooth. A whistle of wind against the Plexiglas bubble offers the only sound.

Franke remains quiet, focusing instead on finding the ever-elusive thermal. A clear blue sky offers no red carpet to the stairwell on this day.

Slowly, Franke maneuvers the craft, closer to the ground. The plane lands smoothly, almost effortlessly on the grass.

"There are a considerable amount of engine pilots who, if their engine fails, they wouldn't be ready to handle it," said Franke, who is also a licensed engine pilot. "You always have to consider the possibility of landing off field in a sailplane."

In soaring, though, you learn to wing it.

Sean Franke (above) adjusts his parachute in preparation for a flight in his sailplane. The Franke plane (right) hovers 3,000 feet over Ionia as the pilot searches for the ever elusive thermal that will send his craft soaring into the blue skies.

Always curious and helpful, Franke tows another sailplane back after landing at Ionia Airport.

Franke's flight is a rendezvous with the atmosphere where rising heat from the ground, known as thermals, provide a spiral staircase of elevation.

Exhibit showcases works of paper art

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

"The Art of Paper Making," an exhibition featuring two- and three-dimensional wallhanging pieces, nonfunctional teapots and baskets of handmade paper by six Michigan artists, continues through July 21 at Route 10 Gallery in Farmington Hills.

Doree Schwartz of Farmington Hills, Cindy L. Fields of West Bloomfield, Michelle Kalt, formerly of West Bloomfield, Ande Roeser of Ada, Marsha Makowski of Dearborn and Pat Jakunas of Ann Arbor comprise the group showing a variety of works, built from handmade paper.

"The show has a real good mix because our styles are different," said Doree Schwartz, gallery co-owner.

The handmade paper exhibition consists of 35 wallhanging pieces and 20 nonfunctional teapots and baskets, as well as an assortment of lapel pins, some of them displaying cats. A majority of mixed media works in the exhibit incorporate beads, wire, plastic people and moose.

Before design or construction of a piece begins, the paper is crafted by the individual artist from 100-percent cotton rag, then either air or sun dried. Permanent pigments are used to color the handmade paper while wet and of pulp consistency.

"I start out by making paper, choosing the colors. I want to work with," Schwartz said.

Schwartz has worked in handmade paper since 1984.

"Making paper is physically difficult," Schwartz said, "because of the large amounts of water that are used."

Schwartz begins with large vats of water and pulp, which she colors with permanent pigments. Dipping a screen into the fluid pulp, she lifts it from the vats and turns it onto an old sheet, quilt or blanket, then leaves it to dry.

"The Japanese Fan" by Schwartz is a three-dimensional work encased in a deep lucite box. Yellow, mauve, deep violet and green pieces of ragged edge paper jut from a purple background. The wallhanging piece is priced at $500.

Fields has been making paper for four years. A full-time artist and business woman, she does 15 art fairs a year.

"I work very dimensional. All of my pieces have to be in these wide lucite boxes," Fields said in an interview at the gallery.

"Wild Thing" by Fields is Ande Roeser of Ada creates nonfunctional teapots and baskets from handmade paper. One of the whimsical works features moose parading on the teapot's handle.

'The show has a real good mix because our styles are different,' said Doree Schwartz, gallery co-owner.

framed and matted in black. A strip of white runs vertically through the work. Throughout the white grid pattern strip, Fields integrates strings, arrows and curls of diagonally positioned torn paper. The work is priced at $380.

Fields starts out with a concept for a piece then hopes she gets the color right the first time as the color lightens when dry.

"I do tons of commissions,"

Fields said. "Trying to get the color right, it's a different story."

TEXTURES PLAY an important part in many of the paper works, currently on exhibit. Forming the cotton pulp over corrugated cardboard, bubble wrap and grid imprints the dried paper with eye-catching design and texture.

Kalt integrates her textured paper pieces with dowels, embroidery thread and plastic dolls. She is now designing and selling textiles in New York City after earning a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of Michigan.

In 1987, after taking classes taught at Rhode Island School of Design, Kalt began to hand-make the paper with which she builds two- and three-dimensional wallhanging pieces.

"I like to get different textures. I use spray paint to give it a burnt edge look," Kalt said.

To create a sense of flow in an untitled piece, Kalt formed the pulp over a piece of corrugated cardboard while wet. Over a charcoal-colored background, she has positioned abstract shapes of mauve paper in different shades.

Makowski crafts her matted and framed, handmade paper work to look as if it is made of felt. Using flashy colors such as hot pink, she intersperses her collage with various materials and cast paper human images.

JAKUNAS WEAVES the majority of her baskets with handmade paper. A few of the rustic baskets in the show are dipped in paper pulp after she weaves a base from twigs.

Roeser creates whimsical paper teapots in violet, black and mauve, decorating some with sprinkles of glitter. Moose parade nonchalantly along the top of one of the teapot's handles.

Prices for the works in "The Art of Papermaking," range from $80

Doree Schwartz designed this untitled work of crumpled paper, using red, yellow, green, violet and shades of blue. The three-dimensional piece, encased in a deep lucite box, is priced at $900.

to $900. Pins are $20.

An opening reception with the artists is scheduled for 2-5 p.m. Saturday, July 13. A papermaking demonstration will give visitors to the reception an idea of the process involved in handmade paper.

HOROSCOPES

July 7 through July 13

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Romance is in the air for you. You may find an old relationship comes alive, or find yourself with someone new.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
Friends and family are eager to help with whatever might need to be done. Let them. Take some time to find out what is most important. Your priorities might just change.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
You may find yourself in the middle of something that makes you feel very uncomfortable. Just bide your time; things will work out for the best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
It seems your life is at a breakneck pace, and it is not going to slow down anytime soon. Don't forget your family in the process.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)
You feel as though you are being backed into a corner. Don't let others put you where you don't want to be. Take control of your life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
You've done what you're supposed to do, now wait and see what happens. There are many surprises just around the corner for you.

By C.C. Clark

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Someone close to you will verbally attack for seemingly no reason. Look beyond the words and you will find the real source of trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
Sometimes a person needs to call on their friends, and this week Aquarians need to do just that. Don't try to handle everything on your own.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)
Health matters should take top priority this week. Preventive measures can save your life later on. A change in diet may be in the works.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Money matters will be on your mind this week, and rightly so. Be sure to ask questions when making any financial transactions.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Make your voice heard this week. It is time to let those around you know exactly how you feel. Remember, being tactful helps.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Creative ideas abound for you this week. Don't let others inhibit or affect your thinking. You really do know best; trust your judgement. © TV Listing Inc.

TV's past meets the present in 'Hi, Honey, I'm Home'

Comedy draws upon series of decades past

By Suzanne Gill

Author and essayist Penny Stallings is straddling a generation-and-a-half of popular culture in the making of "Hi, Honey, I'm Home," a new half-hour comedy she is writing and producing with partner Rick Mitz. The series, which debuts Friday, July 19, on ABC, is meant to be an enjoyable comment on the gap between the TV reality of the 1950s and the facts of life in the 1990s.

In "Hi, Honey, I'm Home," a newly divorced mother of two is struggling to make ends meet and keep her wits about her when into her life step the Nielsens, a picture-perfect family of four that's been cancelled from a TV neighborhood that presumably included Donna Reed, the Beaver and a father who always knew best. Now they're living in the '90s, where they must learn the realities of safe sex, animal rights, gun control, homelessness and family troubles that can't be solved in half an hour.

Stallings, who is the author of several books on popular culture and a regular contributor to "The MacNeil/Lehrer Hour," confesses a deep sympathy with both the '50s sitcom mom, Honey Nielsen (played by Charlotte Booker), and the '90s mom-with-a-job (Susan Cella). "They're both me," she says, adding that "Rick and I actually believe those people (the Nielsens) are real people" living today.

Mitz is a veteran of seven years' work with producer Norman Lear and the author of The Great TV Sitcom Book. Together, the partners have forged a production deal that may pave the way for the future. "Hi, Honey" is being financed by both ABC and cable's Nick at Nite, which will re-air each episode on the Sunday following its ABC debut. Initially, the deal allows them to make a full 13 episodes—an increasingly rare commitment for any single network.

Stallings and Mitz not only draw upon their body of knowledge, but they have incorporated vintage sitcom actors as guest stars in each episode. To date, Gale Gordon ("The Lucy Show"), Barbara Billingsley ("Leave It to Beaver") and Jim Nabors ("Gomer Pyle") have paid visits to their old friends the Nielsens.

In one episode, Honey calls Lucy Ricardo for advice, which inevitably backfires when put into practice. In another episode, Grandpa Munster (Al Lewis) explains depression to stalwart Lloyd Nielsen (Stephen Barbury), the men-don't-cry sitcom dad.

This lighthearted approach helps make the shows appropriate for both kids and adults. "The idea," says Stallings, "is that both parts of the audience should be able to watch it, no matter what the issue. This is rather a sweet show. It's not 'Married...With Children.' It's not black humor, or anything that's meant to offend."

The cast of "Hi, Honey, I'm Home" is largely unknown to TV audiences because its members were recruited from the New York stage. The show is in production at the new Universal Studios lot in Orlando, Fla., and has the feel, says Stallings, of summer stock. The players give three performances a week in front of a live audience. In addition, the set has become a point of interest on the studio tour.

"We are a ride here at Universal," she says. "The crowds pass over us, watching from a sky window." It's a vacation idea worthy of "The Jetsons."

"It's an awful lot of fun, this TV business," Stallings says. "It's much more pleasant than sitting in your room trying to think up cute things to put on the page by yourself. That's a lonely thing to do, and this is all collaboration, and so far it is really fun."

"In many ways this show is a comment on pop culture and television in particular. Also, what you find out is there's not necessarily any right or wrong (between the two differing points of view). We don't resolve (every story line), and that's sort of a sly comment on the '50s sitcom, too, where there was always an answer to every problem.

"Every week, ideally, (the Nielsens) learn a little something about the way things are, and that's incorporated by the end of the first 13 episodes."

Volcanic action erupts on A&E

By Dan Rice

If you think your neighborhood is rough, try homesteading next-door to a volcano. On Wednesday, July 10, A&E's Living Dangerously completes its series of "Volcanoscapes" with "Living on the Edge!," a breathtaking look at the devastation wrought by Hawaii's Kilauea Volcano and the philosophical attitude of the local people.

For a room with no view, revisit Bangkok Hilton as it returns to TBS on Monday, July 8. Nicole Kidman stars with Denholm Elliott in the acclaimed Australian film about a woman's ordeal when she is unjustly charged with drug smuggling in Thailand.

Another rags-to-riches tale will be presented by The Disney Channel, this one the true story of a destitute child who went on to find huge success as "The Little Tramp." Debuting Saturday, July 13, the miniseries Young Charlie Chaplin traces the comedian's humble beginnings in London and his fateful journey to America.

If subtlety has no place in your brand of humor, you may be brave enough to watch HBO Comedy Hour: Sam Kinison in Concert. The roaring comic lets loose his demons with a late-night, adults-only show premiering Saturday, July 13.

Forget baseball, try underwater hockey or bungee jumping for a summer's sport. On Tuesday, July 9, ESPN's Amazing Games spotlights these and other unusual diversions. © TV Listing Inc.

Letterman makes late-night TV varsity

By Lisa Otupal

As "the world's most dangerous band" plays, David Letterman appears on stage. He mugs for the camera, adjusts his tie and checks his hair in the monitor. They laugh and moan and sympathize and so begins another Late Night With David Letterman.

Letterman was born in Indianapolis on April 12, 1947. Even as a child he wanted to be on either radio or television. While a student at Ball State University, he got a summer job as a replacement announcer at an Indianapolis television station. Following graduation, he worked at WLWI-TV as host of a Saturday morning children's show and late-night movie, weatherman and news anchor. After a year as a radio talk-show host, he moved to Los Angeles in 1975. While there, he made his stand-up comedy debut at the famous Comedy Store nightclub.

He made his network debut as a member of the cast of Mary, a comedy-variety show featuring Mary Tyler Moore. Although Mary left the air after only three episodes, Letterman made a strong impression and was invited to be a guest on The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson. Eventually, Letterman became one of the show's guest hosts and Carson's heir apparent.

In 1980, NBC made Letterman the host of a short-lived morning program, The David Letterman Show, which earned Letterman his first two Emmy Awards. © TV Listing Inc.

Conductor John Williams leads the Boston Pops Orchestra in another Evening at Pops, Sunday on PBS.

TUESDAY

Tom Cruise stars as an ambitious race car driver in Days of Thunder, directed by Tony Scott from a screenplay by Robert Towne. The movie premieres Tuesday on Cinemax.

Dear Candace: No wonder Santa Barbara has lost its ratings. About a year-and-a-half ago, SB was on top because of the Marcy Walker and Roscoe Born relationship. Born was wonderful and romantic as Robert Barr, but only when he was with Eden, not Kelly!

That is when the ratings hit rock bottom. The Kelly/Quinn relationship makes Born look like a wimp, and he is definitely not a wimp. He is the sexiest guy on the soaps.

As for the other actors, I wish they would give Mason fewer lines and some time off; Julia needs some makeup; Cassandra's story line is stupid and boring; Craig is wonderful and needs Kelly.

I want them to bring back the character of Robert Barr and put him with someone like Eden, or someone who looks like her. I might consider watching it again, but right now I'm taping it and fast forwarding through the hour. —C.S., Morristown, Tenn.

Dear Reader: SB is going to take some interesting twists this summer, and the producers are bringing in some new characters that could really spark your interest.

If you've been wanting to check out the action on some of the other soaps, this is the time to do it.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, TX 76161-1009.

SOAP TALK

Blue skies ahead for Bo and Carly

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I'm really upset by the Victor/Carly situation on Days of Our Lives. I was hoping Bo and Carly would get together. I thought they were the best couple. Do you know if they'll ever get back together? I'm also really glad to see Roman and Isabella back together. Is this for good or will they break apart again? —Thanks, Wendy S., Washingtonville, Ohio.

Dear Wendy: I think you are going to be very happy with the way the Bo/Carly relationship changes over the next few weeks. It looks like true love may win after all — at least for a while. As for Isabella and Roman, only time

BITS AND PIECES

Ted Turner: Hitler couldn't have stopped WWII coverage by CNN

CNN and Ted Turner are still headlining the news as critics continue to blast the entrepreneur and the cable network for its media coverage of the Persian Gulf war. Turner's not taking any flack, though. He told his company's shareholders he would have kept a reporter in Berlin if the network had existed during World War II.

NBC read off the top ten replacements for Johnny Carson, and David Letterman came in second. Letterman reportedly is miffed by the network's decision to crown Jay Leno king of The Tonight Show. Rumor also has it ABC has approached Letterman.

First there was UB40, then there was UB43. Well, not quite. Three men claiming to be members of the British pop band have committed a rash of crimes in the Deep South. The real band, currently recording in England, has issued a statement asking those with information about their impersonators to contact police.

Oscar-nominee Rodney Grant is back on the range. Grant, Kevin Costner's Dances With Wolves co-star, is currently in Jackson Hole, Wyo., filming Lakota Moon, a new pilot for TV. The film dramatizes the Lakota Sioux's Rocky Mountain adventures.

A $10 million-dollar lawsuit has been filed against the Walt Disney Co. by a screenwriter claiming the company based the movie Honey, I Shrank the Kids on his material. Jeffrey Kouf of Saugus, Calif., claims his screenplay "The Formula" was rejected by Disney in 1986.

Forest Whitaker (A Rage in Harlem, Bird) will play slugger Joe Louis in The Brown Bomber, set to begin filming early next year. Whitaker, a Golden Gloves fighter in his teenage years, must not only drop a few punches for the role, but 85 of his 285 lbs.

Former Joffrey Ballet dancer Steven Bradley tells what it's like to be Living With AIDS, Friday on PBS.

Country-stars Vince Gill and Patty Loveless perform on American Music Shop, Saturday on TNN.

TRIVIA, ETC.

Two acceptance speeches? Sort of ...

By Steven Alan McGaw

Questions:

1. Identify the actress who accepted her Oscar both orally and in sign language.
2. In the movie Shall We Dance?, Fred Astaire sang the delightful "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off." Here's the question: While he was singing, what did Astaire wear on his feet?
3. This actor has written several books, including The Michelangelo Bible and A Treasury of Great Recipes. On-screen, he's cut people's heads off, encased folks alive in hot wax and created a lonely boy with scissor blades for fingers. Name him.
4. The King and I was the musical version of what successful Broadway play?
5. Everyone remembers Faye Dunaway's scenery-chewing performance in the camp classic Mommie Dearest. Who was originally slated to play Joan Crawford?

Answers:

1. Louise Fletcher
2. Roller skates
3. Vincent Price
4. Anna and the King of Siam
5. Anne Bancroft
