Residents give city wish list for downtown

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Downtown Plymouth business owners and interested politicians and residents got a chance Monday to describe what they'd like to see downtown in the year 2000.

In a session at city hall headed by downtown development consultant Doyle Hyett, more than 100 who attended got a chance to list the kinds of shops the city should have and the kinds of customers they'd like to see coming downtown.

They also got a chance to talk about what Plymouth currently lacks downtown.

"THE TEENAGE MARKET is ignored," said Hilda Bokos, owner of Unique Accessories. For males, only little boys' or men's clothes are available, she said. "There's no place to buy records or CDs."

While some said they'd like to sell to "upscale educated" customers, Penniman Deli owner Russ Webster said downtown Plymouth should also serve "people who work in the community who do not make a great deal of money."

A consulting firm was hired by the Downtown Development Authority to gather information on what business people and customers would like to see downtown.

City commissioner Bill McAninch suggested that stores cater to seniors and young married couples, because that's who will make up much of the population in 2000.

The consulting firm Hyett-Palma of Washington D.C. was hired by the Downtown Development Authority to gather information on what business people and customers would like to see downtown, and suggest ways to seek this.

Hiring the consultant is part of a general effort to revitalize downtown. The DDA last year approved a streetscape renovation plan to improve the look of downtown.

"We realize it's going to have to be a real multifaceted approach," said Lee Harrison, DDA chairman.

"We are in a period of time where we're gathering information," he said.

Among suggestions for new businesses downtown were a contemporary women's shoe store, coffee house, full-service drugstore, electronics and appliance store, food specialty store, family eateries, a health food store, sporting goods store, camera store, maternity and lingerie store, dry cleaner, yarn and fabrics store, jewelry store, computer store, gas station, entertainment center like The Ark in Ann Arbor, secretary of state, more varied restaurants, foreign film theater, cigar store.

LISA FLYNN, OWNER of Lady Veronica's, said of Monday's session, "I think it's healthy, it needs to happen more frequently."

Prior to Monday's session, Hyett had conducted a telephone survey of residents and businesses. On Wednesday, he was scheduled to convene a group of downtown shoppers for a discussion, and will review study findings before presenting a report by early March.

Downtown 'in good shape'

It could be that reports of the demise of downtown Plymouth have been greatly exaggerated.

Some business people say the closings of several stores in recent years suggest serious trouble for downtown Plymouth. But a downtown development consultant who has worked with cities around the country disagrees.

"Downtown Plymouth in relative terms is in good shape," said Doyle Hyett, of the Washington D.C. consulting firm Hyett-Palma.

Hyett said the health of downtown Plymouth is evidenced partly in the number of stores here, adding downtown Plymouth is doing well, "compared to the general state of the economy."

Further, Hyett said downtown Plymouth "is in a whole lot better shape" than many downtowns.

Hyett, who said he has performed consultant services for more than 1,000 downtowns, said downtown Plymouth "has got great promise."

"The ambiance is remarkable, it's a very attractive area," he said, adding "People really care about that downtown."

In his work here so far, Hyett said he's been struck by the "range of goods and services some of the people would like to see, more of the depth."

Deadline nears for Cheer Club donations

We sure are getting a nice looking pile of stuff here at the Plymouth and Canton Observer office, thanks to our Christmas Cheer Club donors.

Our deadline for accepting Christmas Cheer Club donations is noon Wednesday, Dec. 18. That will give the Salvation Army plenty of time to get your donations to kids and families that need them by Christmas.

So if you've been thinking about donating a canned good or new, unwrapped toy, now's the time.

Most recent contributors were several anonymous donors from both Plymouth and Canton; Carol Perrault, Dean, Emily and Melanie Maiorana, Derek Lapinski, Norma Engelhardt, Plymouth; the 89ers Babysitting Co-op of Plymouth Canton Northville; Paul Sincock, Plymouth; Michael Firestone, Plymouth; Sandy Mueller, Plymouth Township; Daniel McCulloch, Plymouth; Melissa and Julia Bergenty, Canton; John and Brenda Thomason, Plymouth; Steve and Beth Yuhas, Canton; Sheila Friedrich, Canton; Dawn and Kristen Lillie, Canton; and Adrienne and Katie Talarczyk, Canton.

THE IDEA BEHIND the club is that no child should be without a gift on Christmas, and no family should go hungry.

Joining is easy. Membership is open to anyone who can take the time to stop by our office and drop off a canned good or new, unwrapped toy for a needy child.

Health care firm denies AIDS link to stolen needles

Reward offered for lost box of medical waste

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A spokesman from a Plymouth home health care service denies that used hypodermic needles stolen from a Canton residence were used on patients infected with the AIDS virus.

Caremark is also offering a $500 reward for information leading to the return of the needles that were in a 10-inch, yellow box with a red top labeled "bio-hazardous waste."

THE BOX had a locking mechanism, but could be opened with effort, according to Pat Nemecek, Canton police information officer.

Witnesses are asked to call Greta Robbins at 454-0800, Ext. 221.

The used needles, as well as clean needles and syringes, were reportedly stolen Saturday night from the unlocked car of a Caremark employee.

The car was parked at Crossings of Canton apartment complex at Joy and the I-275 expressway.

Police say there have been conflicting stories from the Caremark employee.

The employee reported that the needles that were stolen may have been used on HIV patients and now we are being told that was a miscommunication and they just don't know for sure, Nemecek said.

It's a health and safety problem and our concern is to find the needles whether they were used on HIV positive patients or not.

They don't know if any of their patients are HIV positive or not, but they can't rule it out.

CAREMARK SPOKESMAN Steve Mazur said the Caremark employee had seen a patient earlier in the day who is being treated with an oral anti-psychotic medication. Blood was drawn from the patient and sent to a laboratory. So, it wasn't in the car during the robbery, Mazur said.

To our knowledge none of these patients have AIDS," Mazur said.

He added, however, that he was unaware of AIDS tests on these patients.

Mazur also denied earlier reports about prescription drugs, identified as clozaril, had also been stolen from the car. Mazur said that according to inventories no drugs were missing.

Police reported that a black tackle box with miscellaneous medical supplies also had been stolen from the car. The box was recovered on the I-275 bikepath.

Canton police with the Michigan State police canine unit searched the area surrounding the apartment complex as well as the bike path, but were unable to find the remaining materials, Nemecek said.

'It's a health and safety problem and our concern is to find the needles whether they were used on HIV positive patients or not. They don't know if any of their patients are HIV positive or not, but they can't rule it out.'

School evacuated; 'bomb' is bottle of water

Michigan State Police have determined that the fluid contained in a pop bottle found at East Middle School after a bomb threat there Dec. 4 was water. The Pepsi bottle, which had a string attached to it, was left in an unassigned locker.

The school was evacuated after a male caller, thought to be in his 20s or 30s, told the school secretary an explosion was set to go off that morning.

The bottle's contents "turned out to be water," said Plymouth Police Chief Robert Scoggins. "So it appears not to have been an actual device that could have exploded. We tested it and made sure it wasn't an explosive device, and it was negative.

'Who left it in that locker we don't know. It could have been a student. Kids are of a nature that I don't think they're going to come forward and say, "It was me."'

Robert Scoggins
Plymouth police chief

"WHAT I THEORIZE IS that it was a device that possibly had been used in a school science project," he said.

Who left it in that locker we don't know. It could have been a student. Kids are of a nature that I don't think they're going to come forward and say, 'It was me.'"

The Plymouth Police Department's investigation is ongoing. This doesn't mean we are not continuing with the investigation. With regard to who made this threat, that investigation is still very much open," said Scoggins.

Police and school officials have ruled out the possibility of the threat being made by a disgruntled school employee or upset parent.

Principal Tom Workman has sought information from the students, but has been unable to uncover anything.

Police have a "few ideas and theories, but we have no substance to back it up at this point," said Scoggins. The state police bomb squad and dog unit assisted in the search at East, but found nothing.

The school district's transportation office next door to East Middle School was not evacuated during the bomb scare.

Robber gets away empty; suspect in 2 heists

By Bill Casper
staff writer

A man fled without any money after an attempted bank robbery in Redford Township but FBI agents believe the same man held up tellers at two other banks in Redford and Livonia collecting about $7,000 within a three-hour period Friday afternoon.

The investigators believe he changed his hat and coat between two robberies at banks in Livonia and Redford, but they think the same person was responsible for all three incidents, FBI special agent Hank Glaspie said.

"Bank robberies seemed to increase during the last two months, but I'm not going to speculate why."

NO ONE was injured in the robberies, Glaspie said, which remain under investigation by the FBI.

The robber is described as a black man with a mustache, about 33 years old, about 6 feet tall and 175 pounds, police and the FBI agents said.

The suspect wore an earth tone jacket and a black and white print straw hat during the robbery in Livonia, but the robber at the Redford bank is described as wearing an Army-style trench coat and a multicolored hat, police and the FBI agents said.

The bandit initially went to a First of America bank branch on Telegraph and Schoolcraft in Redford, where a teller walked away from him after he announced a robbery with a note, Glaspie said.

The man left without getting any money and then went to an NBD branch in Livonia on Plymouth Road, west of Inkster Road, where he got about $4,000 before walking out of a Michigan National Bank branch in Redford with about $3,000, police said.

A First of America teller told Redford police that a man placed a brown paper grocery bag on the counter at her window shortly after 2 p.m. Attached to the bag was a note that demanded money. After reading it, the teller walked away from her window, instructing another teller to set off the holdup alarm.

The robber called to the teller to come back, but when she didn't, he left with the bag and note, she said.

He was last seen walking toward a nearby White Castle restaurant, police said.

THE MAN took the same note to a teller at the NBD on Plymouth, west of Inkster Road in Livonia, where he opened his coat to show her the stock of a long gun, possibly a sawed-off shotgun, under his coat, Glaspie and Livonia police said.

He placed the note on a counter at the window shortly after 2:30 p.m., but the teller hesitated after seeing the gun and the man warned her not to "mess with my mind," before he demanded money from the till, she told Livonia police.

After she handed him an assortment of $5, $10, $20 and $100 bills, he walked out of the bank and fled in a black Ford, witnesses told police.

A teller at the Michigan National Bank on Telegraph and W. Chicago told Redford police that a man approached her window shortly before 5 p.m. and asked her if she could cash an out-of-state check.

The teller told him she could cash the check if he had an account at the bank and the man then put one hand in a coat pocket before he announced a robbery.

He ordered her to give him all the $50 and $100 bills before he fled, the teller told police.

There were about seven employees and customers in the bank at the time of the robbery, including an off-duty Detroit police officer, who was told of the robbery after the bandit had left, police said.

This person was photographed by bank security cameras leaving with money. He is wanted by FBI and local police for questioning about bank robberies in Livonia and Redford.

Cheer Club still taking donations

Yes, the economy is down and many out there may not have a heap of extra money lying around to spend on presents this Christmas.

But if you can afford a simple toy or canned good or two, our friends at the Salvation Army will find a child or family who would appreciate your gift.

So come by our office at 744 Wing, just a few blocks south of Kellogg Park. When you come in, we'd like to take your name and list it in the Observer with others who give to the Christmas Cheer Club.

We're hoping readers will enthusiastically support the Christmas Cheer Club this year. We'd like to make it an annual tradition.

If you have questions, ask for Kevin Brown or Jeff Counts at 459-2700, during business hours.

Kellogg yule display spruced up

For several years, duct tape played a major role in the holiday display in Kellogg Park.

But after several complaints last year about the shabby condition of characters in the city's holiday manger scene, the city has restored the figures in time for this year's holiday display.

"We had several problems," explained Paul Sincock, assistant city manager.

One of the camels was decapitated, he explained. For years, the head was secured with duct tape, then spray painted to hide that tell-tale gray color.

Also: Several of the other figures didn't have fingers. They've been refurbished, Sincock said.

Decorated Christmas trees line Kellogg Park walkways, and the camels have begun their yearly trip from the south end of the park to the manger scene.

New this year are caroler figures, Sincock said.

A nativity scene in Kellogg Park.

Nativity reflects special meanings

By Catherine Rozman Proppe
special writer

The birth of Jesus is at the center of the Christmas holiday. And nativity scenes are one of the more ubiquitous decorations seen.

But while Mary and Joseph are dressed for the chill weather, baby Jesus lays nearly naked in a pile of straw and neither of his parents seem to be doing anything about keeping him warm.

"Popular nativity scenes tend to focus on a moment when the child is being adored by the Madonna, the shepherds, or the three kings," said Ward Bissell, an art history professor at the University of Michigan.

"This is not just an ordinary child. The child is isolated, in the center of a group of figures. This is a more ritualistic portrayal, not an intimate one," he said. "The isolation and centrality of Christ in the scene reflects his role as a savior."

However, there's the subject of the nursing Madonna. Bissell said such scenes emphasize Christ's humanity.

"The nursing Madonna was very common in the 14th century as part of a growing humanization of the image (of Christ)," said Bissell's wife, Tina, curator of the slides and photographs archived at the U of M Fine Arts Museum in Ann Arbor.

Bissell said the nursing Madonna is also a glorification of motherhood. "She depicts the exemplar of motherly affection. In fact, nursing Madonnas were often placed above the heads of mothers giving birth, or immediately after birth, thinking there might be an almost magical power that would rub off from the Madonna and child to the mother and newborn."

The reason nativity displays rarely depict Christ in his mother's arms is that "the Christ child was independent," said Leslie Handyside, president of the Northville Mother's Club. "He could stand alone, right from day one."

> 'This is not just an ordinary child. The child is isolated, in the center of a group of figures. This is a more ritualistic portrayal.'
> — Ward Bissell, U-M professor

The infant Jesus lying alone "seems to be a popular layout for most nativity scenes. I don't know why," said Mark Hammer of the Plymouth Department of Public Works.

Hammer is responsible for setting up Plymouth's nativity scene and seeing to it that the three wise men make their way across Kellogg Park to the stable.

"We purchased our nativity scene from Bronner's. That's how it's depicted, with the child in the cradle. That's the way it was in Bronner's catalog."

"I guess I never thought of it," said Scott Miller, showroom commercial coodinator for Bronner's in Frankenmuth. "Maybe because they want to centralize Christ more and not Mary holding him. Have Christ the central theme and everyone's looking at him. Not to take anything away from Mary, because she gave birth to him."

Trash bag-tag program marks 'smooth' first year

The garbage bag-tag program "has gone smoother than anticipated," said Paul Sincock, assistant city manager, on the program's first birthday.

The program, in which residents pay $1 for each garbage bag or tag, started Dec. 10, 1990, as the city had wrestled with rising costs to dump trash.

Sincock said that in the next year the price per bag or tag could rise beyond $1 — if rates to dump garbage are again raised by the Arbor Hills landfill in Salem, where the city dumps its trash.

THE PROGRAM HAS succeeded for two reasons, Sincock said. "The citizens of the community are extremely dedicated to the reduction of solid waste, and they recycle or pre-cycle (buy in larger quantities to cut down on containers)."

He said the program has also succeeded because Joe Russell, the city's solid waste coordinator, quickly deals with questions residents might have.

> 'The citizens of the community are extremely dedicated to the reduction of solid waste, and they recycle or pre-cycle.'
> — Paul Sincock, assistant city manager

Russell has even toured streets at 6 a.m. where trash is set out, checking for possible violations — but no tickets have been issued or fines levied, Sincock said.

Instead, notices are issued to get violators to call the city to learn how to fix violations.

Violations have ranged from folks sneaking household trash in the middle of compost bags to stuffing an abandoned pickup with garbage, Sincock said.

In most calls to city hall on the bag-tag program, Russell said, "They weren't that crazy about the program, but they understand what it's done."

THE PROGRAM HAS helped the city meet a county-mandated plan to reduce city garbage by recycling. Bag-tag nudges people to recycle more, so they'll save money by needing fewer tags or bags for garbage.

The city's contract with Midwest Sanitation to haul garbage is up in April, and in the next few months city commissioners will review bids from several trash haulers — including those who can provide curbside recyclable pickup.

Because neighboring communities provide this service, many residents have suggested that Plymouth should too. But Sincock said that voluntary compliance is high in Plymouth, adding curbside recyclable pickup would cost residents more money.

The commission is scheduled to discuss trash pickup at the Monday commission meeting.

A thief made off with cash in a late-night armed robbery Sunday at the Total gas station, 1066 N. Mill.

As the thief waited for an assistant manager to open a safe, a customer came in the store, according to a police report. The thief retreated to a bathroom, after telling the manager he would kill everyone if he tried to tell of the robbery.

After the customer left, two more customers entered, and the thief again retreated to a bathroom. According to the police report, the manager tried to signal he was being robbed, but the customers didn't get it and left.

Eventually the thief made off with cash in the robbery, which occurred at 11:56 p.m., according to the report filed with Plymouth police.

The thief was described as a white man in his late 20s or early 30s, 6 feet tall, 200 pounds with reddish brown, greasy collar length hair and a receding hairline, worn jeans and a red and black plaid shirt and thin tan gloves.

CAR WASH CAPER. A Plymouth man, 38, was charged with attempted breaking and entering after a witness spotted him trying to pry open coin boxes at a car wash with a sprayer Sunday.

According to the report, the witness spotted the man trying to get inside three different boxes at 10:30 p.m. at Lakeshore Tire and Auto car wash on Northville Road.

Police were called, and they arrested the man in his car at Haggerty near Plymouth Road, charging him with attempted breaking and entering. Police said there were pry marks on the coin boxes.

WATER CHECK? Two men entered the home of an elderly Plymouth woman Monday, telling her they were there to check the water. But nothing was reported missing from the house after the men indeed turned on the water in both the kitchen and bathroom, before leaving at 11 a.m. Monday, according to a report filed with city police.

The men were described as black, 35-40, and both clean shaven. They left the house in an early 1980s navy blue car, which displayed no business sign.

CHECKS, CASH TAKEN. Checks payable to the city of Plymouth and cash, kept in a safe at the Plymouth Cultural Center, turned up missing Dec. 4, according to a report filed with city police.

There were no witnesses to the theft, and employees have asked people who wrote checks that were stolen to re-issue checks. Police are investigating.

Man rammed, then robbed at gunpoint by 2 masked bandits

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A Livonia man was robbed at gunpoint Sunday in Westland when he got out of his car after it had been hit from behind by another vehicle, according to Westland police reports.

The 83-year-old man told police that he was robbed of $153 on Michigan Avenue, east of Merriman, by two men who wore masks during the holdup.

No shots were fired during the 5:45 p.m. incident, and no injuries were reported.

The man reported he had been driving east on Michigan when he entered a median turnaround to head west. When he stopped his 1986 Plymouth station wagon at the stop sign, he was suddenly struck from behind by a car that he described as possibly a mid-1980s gray Buick, according to police reports.

As the man got out of his car, the driver of the other vehicle suddenly backed up and then pulled alongside his car, in essence pinning him between the two vehicles, he told police.

A masked passenger then got out of the car, pulled what appeared to be a chrome-plated, small-caliber revolver and demanded money, police said. The gunman then threatened the man by pointing the revolver at his stomach, he told police.

As the gunman held the weapon with his right hand, he used his left hand to reach into the man's left rear pocket and remove his wallet, the victim reported.

Police continued to investigate the robbery this week.

House restores county's health care plan for poor

By Tim Richard
staff writer

The state House of Representatives Tuesday found money for Wayne's "CountyCare" health care program and forwarded the bill to the Senate for concurrence.

Senators are scheduled to vote today.

What started out as a capital outlay bill was turned into an emergency aid measure for the homeless and others in need.

The four-year-old CountyCare program provides service to indigent county residents.

It serves nearly 54,000 people who are poor, but do not qualify for Medicaid. Earlier state budget cuts would have cancelled the program if the Legislature hadn't acted this week.

"The money is there," said Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. "We have the money without touching the rainy day fund."

Many Republicans, however, didn't believe Jacobetti. They offered amendments to shift $15 million from the Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit Symphony, Detroit Historical Museum and Grand Rapids Museum into aid to the homeless. All failed.

THE FINAL House vote was 65 to 35.

Voting yes: Democrats Justine Barns of Westland, Maxine Berman of Southfield, William Keith of Garden City and Wilfred Webb of Hazel Park, and Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia, Georgina Goss of Northville, John Jamian of Bloomfield Township.

Voting no: Democrat James Kosteva of Canton, Republicans Barbara Dobb of West Bloomfield, Tom Middleton of Ortonville and Gordon Sparks of Troy.

John Bennett, D-Redford, and Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, had excused absences.

Dobb's nay vote was ironic because she sponsored an amendment to restore $50,000 to the Holocaust Center in her district. Her amendment was adopted without dissent or roll call.

REPUBLICANS came close with an amendment to allow city councils in Grand Rapids and Detroit to spend their state arts and museum grants on emergency aid for the homeless.

One amendment, by Republican Bill Martin of Battle Creek, barely lost, 51 yes to 43 no, with 56 needed for passage.

Supporting it were Republicans Bankes, Dobb, Goss, Jamian, Middleton and Sparks and Democrat Kosteva.

Opposed were Democrats Barns, Berman, Keith and Webb.

"It will create havoc!" said Rep. Morris Hood, D-Detroit, warning of a possible impasse between Mayor Coleman Young and the council. "We'll have to rearrange our budget."

Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, chided the GOP for backing away from legislative responsibility to control state grants. "You can make the identical argument with the entire budget – social services, school aid. Just send it to the cities and say, 'Here, you decide.'"

Rep. Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights, twitted the GOP for wanting to sacrifice arts money for social services. "As soon as there was talk of cutting arts or the DSO, I was swamped with (protest) letters from Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and Grosse Pointe. Most of those people are Republicans. If you cut them, you'll hear from your constituents," said Young, vice chairman of the Appropriations Commitee.

"The arts do need to compete with social services for dollars," replied Rep. William Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe.

New districts due

State sets January deadline

By Tim Richard
staff writer

The Michigan Legislature has a court-imposed deadline of Jan. 15 to reapportion itself.

Otherwise, a special panel of judges will do the job by Feb. 15, the state Supreme Court said.

"There's a low probability the Legislature will agree on a plan by Jan. 15," said state Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Highland, a ranking Republican on the reapportionment issue.

"This year we're done by Thursday. I guess we're going to be in session Jan. 8 for a couple of days.

"You don't have to be in session for the leadership to agree," Bullard said, but he indicated chances of agreement look dim.

"The Democrats haven't even gotten together on their own plan," he added.

State Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, and chair of the elections committee, is somewhat more hopeful.

"I think there's some chance of our doing it. The speaker is willing to sit down and talk with the leadership. It's worth a shot.

"There's maybe a 50%0 chance of agreement, but whether we can do it by Jan. 15th is debatable."

THE STATE Supreme Court Monday also appointed a three-judge panel to reapportion the Legislature if lawmakers themselves reach a stalemate.

The high court gave the judicial panel until Feb. 15 to act.

Members of that panel are Harold Hood, Detroit, a judge of the Court of Appeals; T. John Lesinski, retired Court of Appeals judge and former Democratic lieutenant governor; and William R. Peterson, former circuit judge from Missaukee and Wexford counties in northern lower Michigan.

The high court's action seems to assure Michigan will have new districts in place long before filing deadline for the August primaries. Ten years ago, a primary had to be delayed because of a deadlock on reapportionment.

ABOUT ALL the political parties can agree on, at this point, is that districts may be 8.2 percent larger or smaller than the ideal: 224,613 in each Senate district, 84,503 in each House district.

The ruling doesn't cover congressional districting, which is before a federal court panel. Congressional redistricting is expected to be far tougher because Michigan loses two of its 19 U.S. representatives due to population stagnation.

Bill freezes local phone rates for 2 years

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A year-long battle over deregulating the telecommunications industry in Michigan ended in the state Senate in barely a minute.

"Futuristic services will be brought to the market. Consumer protection will be more than ever. Consumer complaints on rate changes must be heard," said Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, the only member to speak on the House-Senate compromise.

Monopoly profits may not be used by telephone companies to capitalize ventures in other businesses, said Dunaskiss, sponosor of the bill and chair of the conference committee. Nor could telephone companies use confidential information for competitive advantage.

THE MEASURE replaces the state telecommunications law, which sunsets Dec. 31. The new law is effective from Jan. 1, 1992, to the end of 1995.

Senate passage came Thursday on a 27-5 vote, with two outstate Republicans and three Democrats voting no, but not speaking. All area members voted yes except David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who missed the session to attend a funeral.

According to Dunaskiss, the new law will:

- Freeze local rates for two years.
- Allow unlimited local calls for seniors and the handicapped.
- Allow 400 local residential calls per month at a flat rate.
- Regulate cellular service.
- Simplify rate-making.
- Hold rate increases to 1 percent below the rate of consumer price inflation. If inflation were 4 percent, telephone companies could increase rates by 3 percent without state approval.
- Bars regulators, legislators and some legislative staffers from working for a telecommunications company for two years after leaving state service.

It does not, however, set up a separate state commission to regulate telephone companies, leaving that power in the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC).

GARY LYTLE, vice president of government affairs for Michigan Bell, said the state's largest telephone company hasn't raised its basic rate since 1983. The basic rate averages about $11 a month.

Richard Stoddard, executive director of the Michigan Citizens Lobby, said his group opposed the bill.

"I would consider this a fairly significant step back from what the consumers currently have," he said, adding the current regulation has worked well.

THE LAW opens new exemptions to the state Freedom of Information Act.

MPSC has expanded powers to review the books and record of telecommunications companies and their affiliates. But it can exempt "confidential financial information and trade secrets" from disclosure under FOIA, a staff analysis said.

The bill ends unlimited calling for most residential customers. Customers making more than 400 calls per month would be charged extra for each call. Michigan Bell officials estimate that charge at six to eight cents per call.

Long-distance providers had pushed for a change that would have allowed them to provide long-distance service within area codes. Currently, long-distance calls within an area code are reserved for the local service companies, mainly Michigan Bell. But local service companies aren't allowed to handle long-distance calls between area codes.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Josh White Jr. performs children's concert

Folk and blues artist Josh White Jr. will perform a children's concert 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 21, at Schoolcraft College.

White will perform songs from his new children's album, "My Favorite Toy." The songs are upbeat and include several sing-alongs.

White has been performing since childhood and has starred in venues ranging from Broadway productions to coffeehouses.

His appearance at the Schoolcraft College Waterman Campus Center is a fund-raiser for the college athletic department.

Tickets are $6 for children, $10 for adults. They can be obtained by calling 462-4417. Personal checks, Visa, MasterCard and Discover will be accepted.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

House OKs stadium tax bill; Keith only area rep to say no

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A bill to let Wayne County finance a new Detroit Tigers stadium is on its way to Gov. John Engler's desk after easier-than-expected passage in the Michgan Legislature.

The House Tuesday voted 61-40 to concur in Senate amendments, thus avoiding the need to go to a conference committee.

"We'll compromise with anybody," said deputy county executive Michael Duggan, noting 35 amendments were tacked onto the original House bill.

The biggest Senate change allows five other counties — Oakland, Washtenaw, Ingham, Kent and Muskegon — also to use the bill for stadium bonds. Duggan had wanted a Wayne-only bill but had no problems accepting the other counties.

The bill will allow the Wayne County Commission to set an election March 17 for excise taxes on restaurant food and drink, motels, hotels and car rentals to fund stadium bonds.

THE HOUSE voted in little more than a minute, and without debate, to concur in the Senate version.

Area representatives voting yes: Democrats Justine Barns of Westland, Maxine Berman of Southfield, James Kosteva of Canton and Wilfred Webb of Hazel Park; and Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia, Barbara Dobb of West Bloomfield, Georgina Goss of Northville, John Jamian of Bloomfield Township and Tom Middleton of Ortonville.

Voting no: Gordon Sparks, R-Troy, and William Keith, D-Garden City.

Missing the session were John Bennett, D-Redford, and Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills. Dolan had surgery late last week in Providence Hospital, Southfield, and is reportedly recovering well, colleagues said.

'WE HAD great cooperation from (Sen. Dick) Posthumus and (Rep. Paul) Hillegonds," said Duggan, referring to the Republican leaders in both chambers.

Duggan noted that in last week's Senate vote, Posthumus' light was the first to flash on the Senate tote board in favor of the bill and against crippling amendments.

Most vocal opponent of the bill was Sen. John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe. Kelly offered many amendments, but Duggan noted not one of his was approved.

"He drove people away (from preserving the old stadium). He made our job easier," Duggan said.

But he said Kelly could do the project a lot of harm when a $170 million bond issue goes before voters.

March 17 also is the date of the presidential primary. Voters must register by party for the presidential primary but not for the county bond issue.

A lucky day (not)

But Friday the 13th need not be scary

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Do you feel lucky? Well, do you?

Then consider this: Tomorrow is Friday the 13th.

Once upon a time, that would send people scurrying under their beds. But in these less suspicious times, that isn't the case — or is it?

Religious leaders have long warned against the evils of of superstition, but the bad luck day has been around almost as long as Christianity itself.

Friday had been considered a day of misfortune and tragedy at least as far back as Good Friday.

Earlier sources list Friday as the day Eve tempted Adam with the apple and the day the great flood began in Noah's time, according to The People's Almanac.

There were 13 people present at the Last Supper, but unlucky 13 may go back even further. According to Norse mythology, Loki, god of mischief, killed chief god Balder after being the 13th person to arrive at a banquet.

Friday isn't all bad, however. It's the day the weekend begins, not to mention most vacations. T.G.I.F., as they say.

And as for 13 . . .

It's true that Napoleon feared the number, but he was first exiled in 1814 and met his Waterloo in 1815. In contrast, 1813 was a relatively lucky year for the hand-in-his-coat French leader.

While most professional athletes avoid the number 13 like the plague, it was lucky enough for former Detroit Tiger all-star Lance Parrish. Football's record-setting Dan Marino has done pretty well with the number, too.

Thirteen can even be patriotic. Just think of Betsy Ross' flag of 13 stars.

Feel better? No? Well, then consider the words of Gundella, our region's self-proclaimed witch and newspaper columnist.

If you're afraid of Friday the 13th, it's all in your head.

"That's what I tell people," Gundella said. "If you think you're going to have an unlucky day, you're probably going to have an unlucky day."

Likewise, she said, good luck charms are lucky only for those who believe in them.

"That's why good luck charms work," she said. "People believe that they do. But it still must be something personal."

Want a good luck charm, but stuck on what it should be? Gundella suggests using a U.S. dollar bill.

"There's a lot of '13' symbolism on the dollar," she said. "For instance the eagle is carrying 13 arrows and there are 13 leaves on his olive branch." (There are, we checked. By the way, there are also 13 stars over the eagle's head.)

For Gundella, Friday the 13th has proved surprisingly fortunate.

"My brother, my mother and my first grandchild were all born on Friday the 13th," she said. "So, for me, that's been a pretty lucky day."

The best advice for everyone else: Don't sweat it, try not to think about it. Have a nice day — and good luck.

Comedy club show to benefit children

Detroit comedian Karl Anthony, along with Chaplin's Comedy Club, presents the second annual "Comics for Kids," a benefit for Children's Hospital of Michigan on Sunday, Dec. 15.

The 8:30 p.m. show will be held at Chaplin's Comedy Club West, 16890 Telegraph, one block south of Six Mile Road.

Admission is $7.50 per person. Doors open at 7:30 p.m.

The benefit will feature local celebrities and national touring comedians in a high-energy, fast-paced show. The lineup includes from MTV and Arts and Entertainment cable networks Don Reese, Wisonsin's T.C. Hatter, Los Angeles' Van Gunter and Mark Sweetman and Detroit's Karl Anthony and Ray Eifler.

The show will be hosted by Greg St. James from 89X/CIMX-FM.

Music will be provided by The Modern Times.

All door proceeds will go to Children's Hospital.

For reservations, call Chaplin's at 533-8866.

Remember When...

Downtown Hudson's was the place to shop? Remember Christmas time at Hudson's? For all those Detroiters who remember, A&M Publishing has come out with a book to capture the glory years:

HUDSON'S HUB OF AMERICA'S HEARTLAND

Jean Maddern Pitrone, the author of several biographies including Tangled Web: Legacy of Auto Pioneer, John F. Dodge, regales us with the nostalgia and history that was "the Grand Old Lady of Woodward," downtown Hudson's.

MEET THE AUTHOR

Ms. Pitrone will be signing her book Saturday, December 14th, at 1 pm at the B. Daltons store in Westland Mall.

IN BRIEF

Santa arrives

Santa arrives at 9 a.m. Saturday at Fiegel Elementary School, where a bake sale, Santa Secret Shop and cookie decorating will take place until 3 p.m. Pictures with Santa will be available until noon. The school is at 39750 Joy Road in Plymouth. The activities are sponsored by the school's parent-teacher organization.

Volunteer honored

Douglas Vincent of Plymouth, who has been involved in Boy Scouting for more than 33 years, was recently presented the Silver Beaver award for distinguished service to youth, the highest award given to Scouting volunteers. He has served as scoutmaster, unit commissioner and assistant district commissioner, among other positions.

Blanket drive

Real Estate One in Plymouth is holding a blanket drive through Monday.

The blankets will be donated to the Salvation Army in Plymouth and to emergency shelters in Metro Detroit. Kmart of Canton and Plymouth will honor a 20-percent discount on blankets purchased for donation.

The blankets must be new and wrapped in plastic. They can be dropped off at the Real Estate One office, 217 W. Ann Arbor Rd., Plymouth.

For more information, call Janelle Wood at 455-700.

Joins firm

Karen E. Koster of Plymouth has joined the law firm of Lowenstein, Sandler, Kohl, Fisher & Boylan as an associate in the environmental law department.

Koster received her law degree from the University of Notre Dame in 1987. She holds a bachelor of science degree from Northern Michigan University.

She previously worked for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Washington, D.C.

Re-elected

Dorothy J. Smith of Plymouth has been re-elected to a three-year term on the Bethesda Lutheran Home Board of Directors. Smith is a former legal secretary and a social worker and for 20 years has been a supervisor of the Foster Grandparent program in Wayne and Macomb counties.

Bethesda is a residential treatment center providing Christian care and training for more than 700 retarded children and adults in Watertown, Wis.

Freak timing put kids at fire site

By Diane Gale
staff writer

By an awful twist of fate the mother of two Canton children killed in a Livonia house fire broke a routine of biweekly visits when she left them with their father and grandmother on an off weekend.

Every other weekend Christine Mattiello left her children with their father, Anthony and grandmother, Marie, according to the children's grandfather J. Donald Cosenza of Plymouth.

"That weekend was not the normal routine, but my daughter had to do something the next day," he said.

Angela M. Mattiello

Nikolaus A. Mattiello

HE DESCRIBED his only grandchildren, Angela M., 10, and Nikolaus A., 5, as loving, bright and talented.

"They're in heaven and the Lord is giving a great deal of strength to everybody. I can only say that we've had such a great out pouring of love. We've got hundreds of people praying for us.

"If our Lord hadn't given us strength and all this love (Christine) probably would have gone over the deep end. You always think it will happen to someone else and it happened to us."

The children were in a house on Merriman Court near Seven Mile and Merriman when the fire began about 11:30 p.m. Friday.

"By the time the firemen came the kids were in effect gone, by carbon monoxide poisoning," Cosenza said.

Nikolaus died at 1:04 a.m. Saturday at Botsford Hospital and Angela died Saturday evening at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

"They were beautiful, loving kids and well cared for," Cosenza said.

NIKOLAUS AND ANGELA were he and his wife, Theresa's, only grandchildren. They have eight children.

Nikolaus and Angela were members of St. Thomas A'Becket church in Canton and religion was a big part of their lives.

"The little fellow, would very often speak of God and how beautiful the grass was and how beautiful his mom was and how much he loved her," Cosenza said.

Angela had varied talents. On the one hand she was artistic, attended a charm school and modeled. And when she put the glitz aside she was mechanically inclined like her father, a computer repairman.

Angela, a fifth grader, was an A student at Hoben Elementary School, sang in the school choir and competed in the Canton Stars pompon squad at the Masters of Dance, Canton.

Nikolaus also attended Hoben in the kindergarten class.

School counselors and pyschologists rallied Monday morning to help students cope with the deaths only one year after six Dell'Orco children, three of whom attended Hoben, died in a house fire.

The Dec. 22, 1990 fire killed six children and their father who returned to the fire-engulfed Canton house in a futile rescue attempt. The fire was ignited by Christmas tree bulbs on a dry tree.

Faulty fire hydrant replaced after fire

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

City work crews Monday replaced a fire hydrant that Merriman Court residents claim did not work properly Friday as Livonia firefighters fought a house fire that claimed the lives of two Canton Township children.

The hydrant was directly across the street from the burned house on Merriman Court.

In fighting the fire, firefighters tapped into a second hydrant about 1000 feet away on Merriman Court after the first hydrant apparently began leaking.

LIVONIA FIRE CHIEF Barney Knorp disputed residents' claims that the first hydrant firefighters tapped into did not provide enough water to fight the house fire.

"We had plenty of water from the fire hydrant closest to the house and we were getting sufficient pressure," said Knorp, who said he arrived on the scene at 12:25 a.m. five minutes after firefighters removed the body of Nikolaus Mattiello, 5, from the house, and about the same time firefighters were tapping into the second hydrant.

"The hydrant worked, but was not operating at 100 percent. We were getting between 80-90 percent of what we should have had."

Nicholas and his sister, Angela, 10, died from smoke inhalation in the fire.

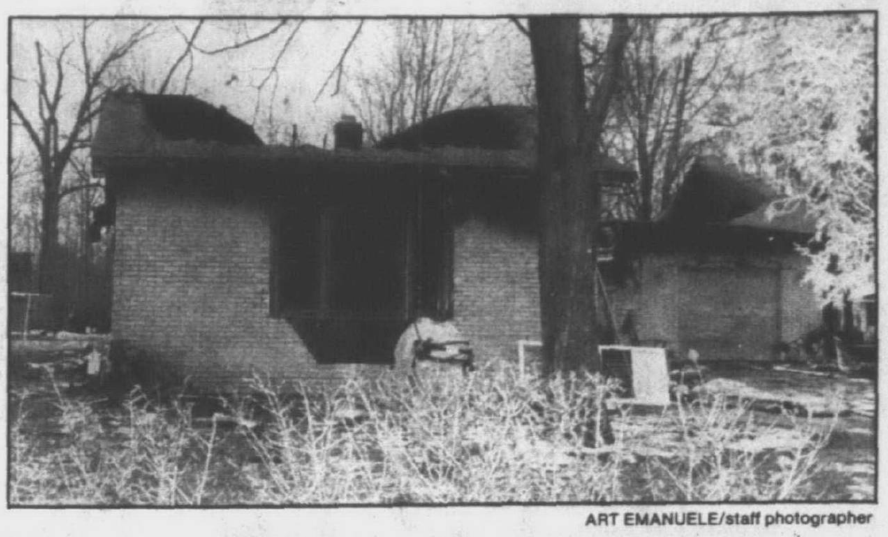
Residents who gathered near both the city work crews and the blackened house Monday said one or more of the children might have been saved if two tragedies had not occurred during Friday's fire.

The first, they said, was the malfunctioning fire hydrant in which minutes were lost as firefighters tried to get it to work properly.

Minutes also were lost because no one immediately told firefighters children were in the house.

Neighbors said they knew Nikolaus and Angela stayed with their grandmother, Marie Mattiello, 72, every other weekend. But they didn't expect the children at the house last weekend, they said.

And, awakened by smoke, Mattiello at first was disoriented and confused. She failed to immediately tell a neighbor that her grandchildren were in the burning house.



ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

A house fire at 19850 Merriman Court Friday claimed the lives of two Canton Township children, Nikolaus and Angela Mattielo. Fire officials say the fire was caused by creosote being ignited by a woodburning stove.

ON MONDAY city work crews removed the fire hydrant and replaced it with another. On Saturday, the hydrant was wearing an "out of order" tag.

Nick Ferri of Livonia's water department said the old fire hydrant's "bolts were bad."

After the new hydrant was installed, water began bubbling up from the ground near it.

"This is a dead-end street," Ferri said. "There's no water pressure. The water main just broke when we were turning it on and off."

Ferri said the workmen took out the old hydrant because "the fire department said the fire hydrant didn't work."

Rotted bolts, Knorp said, did not keep water from coming out of the hydrant Friday.

Firefighters got the 911 call at 11:50 p.m. and arrived at the house within three minutes, Knorp said.

Reading from reports, the fire chief gave the following account:

When firefighters tried to tap into the hydrant, water began leaking through the top. Even though the hydrant was spraying water into the air, firefighters got enough water from it and from an hydraulic pumper to fight the fire.

Five-to-ten minutes later, after being told children were in the house, firefighters began a "search and rescue" mission in the house.

At 12:15 a.m. they found Angela in a bedroom. She later died at Children's Hospital in Detroit.

Firefighters found Nikolaus at 12:20 a.m. He later was pronounced dead at Botsford Hospital.

If firefighters had known children were in the house, Knorp said they might have been saved.

"When life is involved, the firefighters make an extra effort to go in. But because they were told no one was in the house, they treated it as a dwelling fire."

AFTER BEING awakened by smoke in her house, Marie Mattiello knocked on a bedroom window of a neighbor, Eric Mark. (see accompanying story).

Mark's mother, Marie, said she saw water coming out of a hose, but "not at full force."

She said the amount of water increased dramatically when firefighters hooked up to the second hydrant, apparently at about 12:25 a.m., about the time Knorp arrived.

"There was a big difference," she said. "Common sense would tell you that going to the second hydrant helped."

Jerry Gagnier, who lives across the street from the burned house, said he saw no water going onto the house for the first 20 minutes after firefighters arrived.

"Water was gushing out from the hydrant like a fountain," Gagnier said. "If they had had the proper pressure, they could have gotten the flames out quicker."

Another woman, who asked not to be identified, said she walked to the back of the house while it was burning, wondering "what the hell" was going on because "no water was going on the house."

LAST MONDAY, a school letter was sent to parents and staff members explaining that the children had died and were Hoben students, according to counselor Cathy Campbell. Employees talked to classes and met with students individually on a need basis, she said.

Westland resident Lillian Basil, who regularly had her hair done by the children's mother, Christine, a beautician, remembered the children as attractive and involved in many activities.

"Nick was just beginning to come out of the demanding baby type," Basil said. "Now he was beginning to blossom and that was great."

Funeral services were Wednesday, Dec. 11 at St. Thomas A'Becket with burial in Parkview Memorial Cemetery, Livonia. Memorial contributions can be made to St. Thomas A'Becket Church-Mattiello Fund, 555 S. Lilley Road, Canton, 48188.

Fred Hill will be closing his store.

Fred Hill

Stores a symbol of Plymouth

IF PLYMOUTH had a human face it would be that of Fred Hill. And there was a tear in the eye of that face last week when Hill announced the eventual closing of Fred Hill Haberdashers and Me and Mr. Jones.

The stores are victims of the retailing wars and the economic crunch on the middle class. Both offered upscale clothing for men and women.

A walk through the stores was like taking a look into the past. It was the way things were done in the old Hudson's store in downtown Detroit. But that doesn't sell any more. It's too bad.

Hill's stores are special places in Plymouth not only because of the goods they offer, but because of the spirit of the community embodied in them. It was more than personal service. Hill and the staff knew the customers.

That's rare in these days of check out lines where clerks indifferently sell clothing as though it were hardware. The world of retailing has been Meijerized and with the closing of Hill's stores, we've lost some diversity in the Plymouth-Canton community.

But Fred Hill has served up more than upscale, traditional clothing in his nearly 25 years at the haberdashery. He has helped put a friendly face on a friendly town.

Hill's Brief Case Drill Team, featured in the annual Thankgiving Day Parade and at other events, is a waggish look at corporate life that can bring a smile to the face of the most dour CEO.

There is also the Thanksgiving Festival, nearly singlehandedly started by Hill. It has given Plymouth a light in the national sun and has been a way for the business district to compete against the regional shopping malls.

Hill says he's going to stay around Plymouth. We hope he does. The Plymouth area would be grimmer without him.

Mistrust

Enact legislative ethics code

Used car salesmen get a bad rap. Politicians often are compared to those hard working marketeers in the same scurrilous tones. However, the car dealers quite frankly say that used cars are sold "as is."

Politicians come with no written guarantee on performance or dedication, but maybe they should. Questionable behaviors contribute to the public's growing distrust of elected officials. That's something that conflict of interest and code of ethics legislation could resolve.

A legislator can be working in the Michigan House or Senate one day protecting the electorate's best interest and then — voila — finds employment as a lobbyist using those legislative connections to work for the new employer's best interest.

CHANGING allegiance overnight is not novel. It happened once this year when state Sen. Douglas Cruce, who represented Troy and Birmingham, resigned his position — which included chairing the state's insurance committee — to become president of the Michigan Insurance Federation, a lobbying firm in business to find the best legislative deal possible for insurance carriers.

But Cruce's two-step isn't a new legislative dance. It's happened often enough in the past — Sen. Kerry Kammer and Reps. Bobby Crim and Gary Owen. It's the ease of jumping that legislative fence that makes voters wonder whose interest is being served — the public in general or the legislator in specific.

A political reputation can be dashed in just a few seconds when a legislator becomes a lobbyist for groups that may not serve the best interests of those who have voted for and supported the former elected official. And it's time something is done about it.

What needs to be weighed is a person's right to find gainful employment against the ideal of an honest politician. Often, perceptions mean more than reality and that probably is the case in this dilemma. If legislators were to police themselves, that would go a long way to change the minds of those voters who think that all politicians are crooks.

To punish unsavory job changes, legislators need a bill passed that specifically lists length of time before resigning a seat and taking a lobbying job plus setting penalties.

THE MICHIGAN Constitution already has that provision for its judges, which states that judges must stay clear of jobs with potential conflicts of interest for "the period of his service and for one year thereafter." Even if not re-elected, a judge still must wait one year — a cooling off period — before taking a job that could make voters question the integrity of the judiciary. A similar conflict of interest law for legislators could restore some faith in those elected officials.

A lobbying firm may not be as interested in a has-been legislator if the professional relationships have had one year to cool.

Voters should pressure lawmakers into enacting some kind of legislation that would eliminate the conflicts of interest. Legislators, too, should embrace a code of ethics that would enhance the elected position and give greater confidence in those who hold those seats.

Government fulfills promise of rights in old parchments

AMERICA HAS ALWAYS been about rights. We were the first people in history to found a nation on the basis of rights we believed we shared with human beings everywhere.

For more than 200 years, Americans have been constantly learning about individual rights and the challenges of sustaining them. We have learned by living out the promise of the "old parchments."

While many nations are based upon a common religion or ethnic heritage or upon natural geographic frontiers, Americans have made rights the foundation of our national identity.

We provided for a government to secure those rights. Our Declaration of Independence offered the promise of such a government. The Constitution was the fulfillment of that promise in its system of ordered liberty.

Even our failure as a nation has been measured by the rights to which we aspire.

Together with the subsequent amendments and those rights contained in the original Constitution, the Bill of Rights articulates the fundamental ideals of liberty, justice and equality which not only have shaped the American experience but also have made our system a beacon to other nations seeking a better life.

This concludes our series marking the anniversary of the Bill of Rights.

Take heart in the small steps to reunite area

Judith Doner Berne

JUST AS ADDICTION can only be approached one day at a time, racism can only be alleviated one step at a time.

Some people and groups in Detroit and our suburbs are taking some of those steps.

An invitation to attend a city/suburban race relations conference, sponsored by New Detroit Inc. last week was sent to school, police, clergy and elected officials from all our Oakland and western Wayne County suburbs.

From our area, only Birmingham, Farmington Hills, Southfield and Bloomfield Hills (schools) sent representatives.

The thrust of the conference was "Building Bridges." Panel members talked about various projects they were involved in that brought people of different backgrounds together.

The idea: Here's what people are doing, so you can think about what people can do in your community.

- William Nabers, president of the South Oakland NAACP, told of a two-year "Black-Jewish dialogue" with Temple Israel in West Bloomfield, which has included social and educational activities, joint charitable projects and is now branching out "to address issues of economics and politics."
- Edward Hustoles from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments spoke of the regional efforts that will involve many people to revive Eight Mile Road, as well as the efforts his predominantly white Catholic parish is making to keep open its parochial school to serve the primarily black, non-Catholic population living around it.
- Barbara Tally, a native Detroiter and the first African-American ever to be elected in the city of Southfield, is a founder of the Oakland County Open Housing Center which helps pro-integrative housing moves. "I remember living in neighborhoods that were black and white. It's no good to have an Oakland County looking toward integration if we don't have a Detroit doing the same thing."

SOMETIMES SILENCE says more than applause.

The 70 or so people attending had just viewed a WTVS show, shown earlier this year, that portrayed a student partnership between a Birmingham and Detroit elementary school and how it is changing the perceptions of those students.

It is not a thrown-together, let's-go-on-a-bus one-time field trip. It is a more solid program, which is being built up over time, with students talking about it, being paired up with a child at the other school, writing him or her letters, doing a video letter, spending time together and perhaps extending that to family visits.

Before starting the exchange, Bingham Farms Elementary students minced no words as they said they associated crime, drugs and poverty with Detroit. Equally as sad, students at Detroit's Newberry Elementary had almost no idea of what or where Birmingham was — the suburbs being no part of their world.

Many of those who attended the "Building Bridges" conference were impressed that Birmingham is the only suburban school district which is committed to such a program.

NOT EVERYONE. "When you put these kids in a line, who's going to get the job?" voiced Helen Kelly, a board member of New Detroit. "The money (for education) needs to be put in one pot," she insists.

That it still comes down to economics was echoed by Hustoles: "Racism is like a fog that sits all over us," he said. "If racism were alleviated, economic problems would still exist."

Still, the small steps being taken by various groups to reunite Detroit and its suburbs can add up to that bridge. And those who care about the city we all want to share again can be heartened.

Reader differs on clauses

To the editor:

Your Dec. 5 editorial page article on the Bill of Rights omitted a significant right enumerated in the 5th Amendment. That is the so-called "Taking clause" — "nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation."

The "liberals" are so scared that a conservative Supreme Court will resurrect and broaden the taking clause that Sen. Biden's first question to then Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas was not about Ms. Hill, but about the book "Takings, Private Property and the Power of Eminent Domain" by University of Chicago professor Richard Epstein.

A significant case involving a "taking" is before the court this session and a "conservative" decision could have very broad implications, even impacting our local wetland ordinances.

You also omitted mention of the "self-incrimination" clause of the same amendment. I feel that these two clauses are at least as important as those you mentioned.

I also feel your explanation of the 9th and 10th amendments is backwards. "There may be limits on the government's power." I read it that what powers (of government) are not specifically enumerated in the Constitution are reserved to the people. That's more than "there may be limits" as I read it.

Health care reform is important

To the editor:

I write regarding a recent editorial by your newspaper (Nov. 8, 1991) regarding legislation that I introduced. The legislation is part of a larger, 30 bill, Senate Health Care package that reforms our present health care system.

The legislation you discussed in your article is one of eight bills that establishes a new and more aggressive discipline approach to "bad actors" in the health care profession. Undoubtly, there are impaired health professionals who are performing their duties in an unsafe manner. The proposed discipline reform will remove these individuals from the system.

Your editorial analysis of the legislation implied that the bills virtually assured no public output or oversight of the health professional discipline process. The legislation only prohibits Freedom of Information Act requests during the actual complaint investigation by the department and the deliberations of the disciplinary boards.

CONTRARY TO the statements in the editorial, the public would be able to gain access to the nature of the complaint, the investigation and the final licensing sanctions once a formal sanction has been imposed on a health professional.

I believe you will agree with me that not every complaint against a health professional has merit. Some complaints are actually malicious in nature. I don't believe it's in the best interests of the public and health professionals to have these types of non-meritorious complaints be discussed in a public way.

The health profession discipline package has a number of consumer protection elements:

- One bill requires health professionals whose license is revoked for more than 30 days to notify their patients that the license has been revoked.
- Another legislative proposal increases the amount of public participation in the disciplining process by increasing the number of public members on the licensing boards for health professionals.
- Other legislation encourages health professionals to "blow the whistle" on health care providers who continue to perform inadequately because of poor training, substance abuse problems or medical negligence.

I believe the Senate Health Care Reform package is important legislation. Health professional licensure and discipline reform is necessary to ensure the quality of health care delivered to Michigan citizens.

CEP swimmers deal with inexperience

Rocks will work hard to achieve

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem will attempt to overcome inexperience on its boys swim team with enthusiasm and hard work this year.

The Rocks, who were third in the Western Lakes Activities Association, lost a lot of talent through graduation and return only four seniors.

"Seniors have always done well for us at the conference meet," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "With only four, there could be a little problem, but that's just going to give some underclassmen more of an opportunity.

"We have a lot of guys interested in working hard and swimming fast. A lot just don't have the experience, but I think we have the type of kid here at Salem who will do well as the season goes on."

The Rocks, who opened Tuesday with a dual-meet loss to powerful Dearborn, have tri-captains Steve Salhaney, Brett Petroskey and Noel Ranka and Todd Beauchene in their senior class.

SALHANEY WAS 11th in the WLAA in diving. Brett Petroskey swims freestyle and the IM, Ranka freestyle and Beauchene the breaststroke.

"Normally, we have around 12 seniors," Olson said. "We're just a little bit younger. It's a little scary right now, but I'm sure by the end of the season . . . hopefully everything will work out and we'll be ready for the conference meet."

The top juniors are Matt Erickson (fly, IM) Scott Helmstader (back, free), Phil Hoffmeyer (breast, free), Scott Wiklund (fly, free) and Chris Lynn (fly, back).

Erickson and Helmstader should score a lot of points for Salem. Erickson was eighth in the IM and butterfly at the WLAA meet and is the lone returning member of Salem's championship medley relay team. Helmstader was eighth in the backstroke.

Erickson will swim the butterfly in the medley relay, Helmstader is a possibility in the backstroke and either Hoffmeyer or Beauchene could swim the breaststroke.

Matt Erickson competes for Salem in the individual medley Tuesday night. He was eighth in the IM and butterfly at the WLAA meet last year and helped the Rocks win the medley relay championship.

"We've got a lot of freestylers, a lot of competition," Olson said. "We have five or six guys who hopefully will be pushing each other to find out who should be where."

PETROSKEY AND Erickson swam sometimes in the 200 freestyle relay, but nobody returns with experience in the 400.

The sophomore class is led by Aaron Berlin, Brian McMullen, Tim Nixon, Ryan Petroskey, Tom Satwicz and Fred Locke. All swim freestyle events, and all but Nixon and Locke are fliers, too.

"They helped as freshmen," Olson said. "We're looking to find out how much they can really help this year."

The top freshmen are David Bracht, Andy Dettling, Joe Ervin and Eric Seidelman.

"The freshmen will get more of an opportunity than they have in the past, so it should be an interesting year," Olson said.

"We don't really have a strong event. We're not bad in anything but we're not real tough in anything. For us to do well, everybody has to swim well."

Olson hopes the Rocks can qualify three relays and a number of individuals for the state championships.

"If they have any designs on challenging (Livonia) Stevenson for the conference title, we had better have a few," Olson said. "Some definitely ought to have that as part of their agendas this year. I'd like to think our top swimmers in each event are thinking about it."

Salem will be the host school for the WLAA Relays Saturday. The diving preliminaries begin at 10:30 a.m. and the finals at 1 p.m. The Plymouth and Canton Rotary clubs will sponsor the meet.

Dual losses in debuts

The boys swimming teams at Plymouth Canton and Salem opened the season Tuesday with dual-meet losses to a pair of perennial state powers.

Canton won four individual events and one relay but lost to visiting Ann Arbor Huron, 105-81. Dearborn defeated host Salem 126-59.

"Dearborn has one of its typical teams," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "We're going to get a lot better as the season goes along. Hopefully, tonight was a learning experience for us."

Jeff Clark and Craig Steshetz paced the Chiefs by swimming on the winning 200-yard medley relay team and winning one event each.

With Mike Orris leading off, followed by Mark Ealovega, Steshetz and Clark, Canton won the relay in 1:44.83.

Clark won the 50 freestyle (23.12) and Steshetz the breaststroke (1:09.27). Pat Lancaster was Canton's other winner, taking first place in the backstroke (1:03.68).

Salem's only first place came in the 400 freestyle relay in which Brett Petroskey, Aaron Berlin, Tom Satwicz and Scott Helmstader swam 3:46.4.

Salem's Steve Salhaney was second in diving with 231 points, Helmstader third in the backstroke (1:02.2).

Orris has lead role for Chiefs

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Canton will need time to develop depth on its boys swim team, but the Chiefs begin the season with a good nucleus of talent.

"We're good up front but our depth is not real strong," coach Hooker Wellman said. "It's going to take us a full year to come around, but we could be challenging near the end."

Canton has only four seniors, but the ones it does have are quality people, Wellman said.

Mark Ealovega and Nick Atwell will serve as co-captains, and Matt Tertel and Pat Lancaster will help provide senior leadership.

Atwell should be one of the top divers in the Western Lakes Activities Association, finishing sixth in the last league meet.

THE OTHERS will help the Chiefs score in the WLAA meet in which Canton placed fourth last season. Ealovega was sixth in the butterfly and 11th in the 50-yard freestyle, Lancaster eighth in the 100 freestyle and 12th in the backstroke.

"All four are going to be strengths in the program and the lineup," Wellman said.

Canton's top swimmer is sophomore Mike Orris, the team's most valuable performer last season. He placed third in the 200 freestyle and fourth in the 500 freestyle at the WLAA meet.

"He's bigger and stronger," Wellman said. "He went faster in the summer, and I expect he's going to go even faster in high school competition.

"With a lack of depth, we don't have a real strong event. Anywhere we put Mike Orris we can back him up with somebody good but as for an event where we're 3-4 deep — we don't have anything like that."

Orris missed 2½ weeks — the longest period of time he has been out of the pool since he began swimming, according to Wellman — because of illness last summer but has fully recovered.

"HE SEEMS TO be up to par now, and he feels confident with his rac-

Zebras outduel Canton

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Wayne Memorial's best offense Tuesday was its defense.

The Zebras, who picked up their defensive intensity in the second half, overcame a five-point halftime deficit to gain a 71-58 triumph over Plymouth Canton in a season boys basketball opener featuring two of the area's powers.

Wayne, which trailed 35-30 at intermission, proved to be relentless on the boards, despite being outsized. The Zebras also held Canton to a mere 23 second-half points, limiting the Chiefs to 32 percent shooting from the floor (8-of-25).

"I thought we played absolutely horrendous defense in the first half," said Wayne coach Chuck Henry, back on the bench (replacing his brother Dan) after a one-year sabbatical at Walled Lake Western. "We didn't stop dribble penetration, we didn't pick up anyone on the transition, and we did not do a good job of rotating.

"We seemed to do a better job of that in the second half, and it seemed that when our defense picked up, we executed better on offense. It all seemed to come together in the last 12 minutes of the game."

WAYNE TRAILED for nearly three quarters, eventually taking the lead with 1:59 remaining in the period on junior guard Dontez Prewitt's basket, making the count 48-46.

Wayne rally catches Canton

Prewitt also nailed a three-pointer with 20 seconds left in the quarter to give Wayne a four-point advantage, 52-48.

Canton held tough, however, tying the game at 54-all when Mike Stafford tossed in a three-pointer of his own with 4:42 to play.

But that's when the Chiefs fell apart.

The hosts went on to outscore Canton 17-4 down the stretch, aided by a big three-point shot (with 2:59 remaining) by senior forward Rick Barnes, who led all scorers with 18 points.

"We learned that we're capable of being a good basketball team, but you need to play 32 minutes instead of 24," Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner said. "Give Wayne credit. They're a darn good basketball team.

"We got out-rebounded horribly. We didn't block out and go to the offensive glass like we should."

Wayne, which shot 50 percent in the second half (18-of-36), recorded

19 more attempts from the field on the night than their taller counterparts.

BARNES AND HARTMAN, a pair of 6-1 seniors, combined on 18 rebounds.

In the scoring department, Hartman added 16 points, with Romarco Fletcher and Lee Williams contributing 12 and 11, respectively.

Derrick McDonald, the 6-1 senior guard, paced Canton with 14, while Mike Stafford added 13. Hal Heard, a 6-5 senior, chipped in with 10.

"Our shot selection was terrible," Van Wagoner said. "We had too many who wanted to be the star instead of passing it around and get a good shot.

"We need to step in the gym (to define roles). Stafford is our main ball-handler this year and it was his first game at point-guard. I'm sure he'll improve on that."

Canton committed 18 turnovers on the night. Wayne's press was effective at times.

"I think their quickness beat us at every turn," said the Canton coach.

The Chiefs' 6-8 senior center, Tony Coshatt, also got clearance to play after sitting out part of the preseason with a wrist injury. He finished with six points.

"He got the OK from the doctor to play three days ago, and that's when started practicing," Van Wagoner said.

HENRY, meanwhile, was glad to come away with a win considering that another tough opponent looms this Friday. (The Zebras travel to Redford Catholic Central.)

"After what I thought was a disastrous first half for us where we shot terribly from the foul line (4-of-12) and about 30 percent from the field (actually 13 of 37), and still beat a good team, you've got to be happy," Henry said. "Canton has a nice team. They have size and perimeter players to go with them."

Salem starts with road win

Plymouth Salem used a good third quarter Tuesday to turn back host Monroe and win its first boys basketball game 63-53.

Mike Slone and James Head combined for 12 points in the third quarter as the Rocks outscored Monroe 17-9 and increased their 29-27 halftime lead to 46-36.

Senior center Mike Abraham, who scored nine second-quarter points to help put Salem on top at halftime, led the Rocks with 16 points and 14 rebounds.

Head finished with 13 points and 10 rebounds, Slone 12 points. Head scored seven points in the third quarter and Slone five. Each player hit a three-point shot, too.

"It's like the old saying: In the first game, you just like to get a win under your belt," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "It was not a pretty win.

"A lot of young players got to play, and I saw them in game situations. We'll be in our own gym Friday (against Trenton) and will hopefully build on that."

Brian Jensen came off the bench to score nine points and grab six rebounds for Salem. Point guard Todd Forbes also had nine points and four assists.

The Trojans were led by Gothrell Johnson and Jason Butler with 16 and 10 points, respectively.

The Rocks, who led 14-11 after one quarter and were outscored 16-15 in the second, made 12 of 20 free throws, Monroe 21 of 37.

Shamrocks surprise Ypsilanti

Redford Catholic Central missed some critical free throws down the stretch, but a big halftime lead allowed the Shamrocks to win Tuesday's boys basketball season-opener 58-54 over visiting Ypsilanti.

CC enjoyed a 34-23 halftime lead and led 52-37 after three quarters before nearly self destructing in the fourth quarter. The Shamrocks were outscored 17-6 in the final eight minutes and missed five front ends of one-and-one free throws in the final two minutes, coach Bernie Holowicki said.

"We played hard, but wilted a little at the end," Holowicki said. "If we would have lost, after leading by so much, it would have been like having a noose around your neck. But winning is a good feeling because we played a quality club."

Bob Kummer, a 6-foot-6 senior guard, paced the CC attack with 13 points and 15 rebounds. Senior center Chad Varga chipped in 12 points and pulled down 18 rebounds. Junior forward Brian Paluk added 10 points.

Ypsilanti is led by 6-foot-8 Mr. Basketball candidate Shannon Williams but on this night, Braves guard Marlos Long caused the Shamrocks more havoc. Long scored a game-high 25 points, while Williams had the highlight of the night — a dunk off an alley-oop pass.

"They played tough defense all night long," Kummer said. "I think we got a little tired at the end and that's why they came back. We had the same players on the floor for a long time."

Holowicki praised the play of sophomore forward Chris Chichila and reserve forward Will Marcoux, who "gave us 10 to 12 minutes of excellent ball."

● CC ICERS 4-0

Joe Blaznek scored two goals and added two assists Saturday, leading unbeaten Redford Catholic Central to an 8-0 triumph over Windsor Assumption at the Redford Ice Arena.

CC (4-0) scored three times in the first period and added four more in the second to put the game away.

Marc Lorelli, Tom Denton (power-play) and Pat Casey each contributed a goal and an assists. Mike Seiler, Jeff Wollschlager and Steve Sienkiewicz (power-play) also scored for the Shamrocks, who outshot Assumption 50-18.

Netminders Mike Brusseau, who played the opening two periods, and Jamie Ronayne, combined on the team's third shutout of the season.

● UNDER-20 POOL

Three area players were recently named to the U.S. Soccer Federation's under-20 national pool team including Livonia Churchill seniors Mike Gentile and Jeff Cassar, both second-year selections, along with Redford Catholic Central High senior Kerry Zavagnin.

The high school All-State trio are members of the under-16½ and under-17½ regional teams that competed over Thanksgiving weekend in Dallas, Tex.

The three are eligible to compete in a holiday tournament later this month in England and will ultimately vie for positions at the 1993 World Cup to be held in Australia.

● GOALIE TRYOUT

The '82 Plymouth Kicks will hold goalie tryouts at 4 p.m. Monday at the Canton Soccer Dome. For more information, call coach Danny Ray at 451-1032.

● WRESTLING TOURNEY

The Plymouth-Canton Civitan Invitational will take Saturday, Dec. 14, at Canton High School. Holt will attempt to defend its championship in the 16-team high school wrestling tournament.

Among the top area wrestlers will be Canton's George Young, who was the runner-up at 171 pounds last year, and Mike Reeves of Westland John Glenn, who won the 152-pound title.

Competition begins at 11 a.m. Admission is $3 for adults, $1.50 for students and children under 12. The Plymouth-Canton Civitan Club is the event sponsor.

● SPRING SOCCER

Registrations for the Canton Soccer Club spring season are being accepted at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department through Friday, Jan. 31. Girls and boys between the ages of 5 and 18 are eligible. Youths registering for the first time must bring a birth certificate. For information, call Watson Zdrodowski at 459-0927.

● STAR GYMNAST

Rachel Potter of Canton competed in the United States Gymnastic Federation of Michigan Level 6 state meet in Kalamazoo Nov. 24, representing the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics in Westland.

She qualified at the USGF sectional meet at Eastern Michigan University in October. Potter, a sixth grader at Southfield Christian, is the daughter of Jack and Vicki Potter.

Chiefs look to '92 hoops

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Canton began the transition to the 1992 girls basketball season much sooner than anyone had expected.

Actually, it began Sept. 19 when Julie Nicastri broke a bone in her foot playing against Westland John Glenn.

Nicastri was a team leader and the only senior in the starting lineup, and the Chiefs were suddenly forced to adjust to her absence.

"Julie was the type of player every time she stepped in the gym something good was going to happen for your team," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "There was never any down time for her.

"That was a real setback, but she expected the team to continue on and they did."

THE INJURY kept Nicastri on the sideline for the rest of the season, but she remained a part of the team, which overcame her loss and advanced to the Class A semifinals for the second time in three years. The Chiefs finished 21-5 after losing to eventual state champ Detroit Martin Luther King 63-46 Friday.

"It was hard to watch them play without me, but I knew they could do it," Nicastri said. "They did it without me, but that's OK because they're not going to have me next year."

Nicastri, who plans to resume playing in January when the AAU season starts, was present for every game and played an inspirational role for Canton.

"Sitting there on the bench for the whole season was real tough, but I had to be there and give the team that positive image," she said.

"I felt a little left out but I was still there. (Her teammates) told me they needed me there and that helped.

"Even though I didn't get to play, I enjoyed it. I enjoyed watching them play. I learned a lot because I got to see the court from a different perspective, and I can use that in AAU."

AFTER STARTING the season 2-2, Canton won 10 straight games before losing to Plymouth Salem in late October. The Chiefs won their next four until Salem dealt them another loss in the Western Lakes Activities Association final.

But a young Canton seemed to come of age in the post-season tournament, winning the championship of what was called the toughest district in the state and avenging its earlier losses to Salem in the final.

"From Games 15 through 26, we were really consistent," Blohm said. "That was the first Salem game and, even though we lost, there were some things I really liked. We were defending better and not turning the ball over.

"One of the compliments to this team is that every time they came back in the gym they continued to work hard. I rarely had to say 'Hey, let's go to work here.' I didn't have to beg them to play and consequently their hard work began paying off."

The Chiefs defeated Livonia Ladywood and Salem to win the district, which also included Northville and Livonia Stevenson, and that accomplishment is what stands out for Blohm.

"When I looked at our district, I said 'On a given night, any one of these teams could walk away with this championship.' The district championship was a big stepping stone for us. Every game the kids had to come ready to play. We got things rolling in the district and that was a memorable time for me."

THE CHIEFS will undoubtedly be a highly regarded team entering the 1992 season since every starter will be back. Renee Dory was the only other senior on the team.

Juniors Stephanie Gray, the leading scorer and rebounder, and Kelly Holmes, who replaced Nicastri in the lineup, return in the post. Juniors Amy Westerhold and Christie Saffron and sophomores Britta Anderson and Alyson Noune bring back a wealth of experience at the guard positions.

"This is what we started working toward when these kids were sophomores and juniors," Blohm said. "It needs to be understood they're going to have to continue to develop and elevate their game, because the King game proved we still have things we need to deal with — pressure and size. There's still a lot left for these kids to do if they're willing to do it.

"Other teams have players coming back, too. The potential for (Canton) to be good next year is there, but . . . we have to go back to the district and everybody is going to be good again."

PCA has ambitious cage schedule

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

The Plymouth Christian boys basketball team lost six players to graduation last spring, but that might not be the biggest loss the Eagles suffer in 1991.

Plymouth Christian, a small Class D school, will play perennial Class A power Romulus on Dec. 21 during the Romulus Christmas Tournament. While chances of winning or even hanging with Romulus are remote, coach Dan Brandell is hoping the Eagles won't lose by a record margin.

"Potentially we can play, but realistically we have to change a lot by then," Brandell said.

Brandell likes the challenge of playing bigger schools because it shows the Plymouth Christian program has come a ways since he took over prior to the 1986-87 season.

Despite the graduation losses, which included double-figure scorers Manish Nandani, Keith McCants and Rob Askew, Brandell believes the Eagles have a chance to successfully defend their Michigan Independent Athletic Association (American Division) title.

NANDINI, A GUARD, averaged 20 points per game, while McCants, a center, and Askew averaged 15 and 10 points, respectively. Plymouth Christian finished the 1990-91 season at 7-14 overall, 6-2 in the MIAC's American Division.

"There's no question we have our best team we've ever had, because even our bottom man is a contributor," Brandell said. "But the question is, 'How soon can we get it ready?' This is definitely our toughest schedule we've had."

Improvement among his returnees and a strong freshman class motivates Brandell.

The leading returnee is 6-foot-3 senior forward Jeff Hess, who averaged 10 points and nine rebounds a game last year. Hess also excels on the defensive end.

"He's not necessarily our steadiest scorer, but he's the one we go to when we need points," Brandell said. "He fears no one and is the type of player we have guard the opponent's best player. He's proven that over the course of time."

THE STARTING point guard will be 6-1 senior Matt Cronan, who has played every position for Brandell on the varsity. Jason Neil, a 6-4 junior center, was a part-time starter last year, while the best outside shooting threat figures to be 5-10 junior guard Sunil Bhat.

Bhat was one of the first players off the bench last season.

Fueling Brandell's hopes for this season and seasons to come is a strong freshman class. The Eagles field a junior varsity team, but Brandell has promoted freshmen Andy Roose, Art Partain, Nathan Ledbetter and Ryan Thomason to the varsity.

Roose, Partain and Ledbetter are forwards, while Thompson plays point guard.

Brandell likes the intensity of Roose and Ledbetter, the three-point shooting of Partain and Thomason's leadership.

"This is the best freshman crop I've had and I think they'll grow, but I'm not sure of the impact they'll have (this year)," Brandell said.

Drains Run Slow?
You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again! The secret? Clean drains don't run slow.
The "slows", or periodic clogs, are SIGNALS that a thick layer of GOOK is choking your pipes. Grease, hair, and other waste stick to your pipes, with every use. This gook deposits along the entire length of the pipe. It chokes your pipes gradually, as it gets thicker and thicker.
Gook
other products run here →
Conventional drain openers can't fix slow drains. They react chemically on the surface of the gook. To be effective, they must remain in contact with the waste. Even a small tunnel through the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind.
In the past, the only way to remove this build-up was to root-er your pipes. An expensive, temporary measure.
Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean®. It clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. No other product has the Plumb Clean® formula. That is what allows it to liquefy even years of build-up. Plumb Clean® will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, we stand behind Plumb Clean® with a money-back guarantee! Don't be confused. Plumb Clean® is the brand with the money-back guarantee right on the label.
Saves Money. A 1 lb. jar of Plumb Clean® holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, it would take over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments. Plumb Clean® costs about 35¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.
Independent laboratory studies show Plumb Clean® more effectively breaks down organic waste than all other products tested. So, if your drains have the "slows", act now. Get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean® today! Available only at: #2191 es," Wellman said, adding Orris "will swim anything and everything" for Canton.

Canton mission to develop depth

The top juniors include Craig Steshetz, Ryan Henkel and John Mincher. In the league, Steshetz was third in the breaststroke and fourth in the 50 freestyle. He swam 1:01 in the breaststroke at the state meet. Henkel also swims the breaststroke, Mincher the backstroke and freestyle events.

Sophomore Jeff Clark is greatly improved and should help the Chiefs a great deal, according to Wellman. In the 50 freestyle, he swam a sub-23 on a relay split and 23.3 in the open 50. He has a best time of 52.5 in the 100 freestyle.

"He finally figured out his stroke at the end of the year and is starting this year with a much better stroke," Wellman said.

Other sophomores who should contribute are Joe Foster (butterfly, sprints), Paul Montressor (backstroke, IM) and Brian Lang (distance freestyle, IM).

Scott Stevens, Jason Stirling, Todd Gillihan, Jason Nalepa and Eric Langley are the leaders among a group of 12 to 14 freshmen prospects.

"(THE FRESHMEN) are not real tough, but they've got the potential to develop and in future years are going to be good swimmers," Wellman said.

The 200 medley and freestyle relays should qualify earlier this year and not have to wait for the conference meet, Wellman said. The 400 freestyle team shouldn't be bad either with plenty of possible combinations.

In addition to Orris, Ealovega has a good chance to qualify for state in the butterfly, Atwell in diving and Clark in the sprint freestyles, according to Wellman.

The Chiefs began the season Tuesday with a dual-meet loss to Ann Arbor Huron. The WLAA Relays will be Saturday at Plymouth Salem.

CC wrestlers solid

By Ray Setlock
staff writer

Tradition. Look no further than the wrestling room at Redford Catholic Central.

Coach Mike Rodriguez has 24 years of tradition splashed from wall to wall.

Rodriguez has coached seven state championship teams and numerous state champion wrestlers. He's as much a fixture at CC as the building itself.

But the veteran coach isn't one to rest on past achievements and believes this could be another record setting season for the Shamrocks.

"I'm excited about this year," he said. "We are stronger than we've been in awhile."

Despite graduation losses to heavyweight Rob Sylvester and 119-pounder Rusty Fowler, CC returns an experienced team.

First-team All-Area picks Dan Kelly (189), a senior, and Jason Krueger (160), a junior, along with second-teamer Dan Rieple (152), are three reasons why the Shamrocks will be solid.

Kelly was 45-9 last season, while Rieple posted a 32-15 mark. Krueger was 49-10.

"IT'S GREAT TO have the two seniors (Rieple and Kelly) back," Rodriguez said. "It's also great to have Krueger returning. He's still got two years left and I'm real happy about that."

While a lot of coaches aren't willing to talk about how good their team will be, Rodriguez dosen't mind the added hype.

"It doesn't bother me," he said. "I have no problem with other teams shooting for us. I really like this team we have. It's good to be in the wrestling room each day with them. They're really going at each other."

REDFORD CATHOLIC CENTRAL

- Head coach: Mike Rodriguez, 24th season.
- League affiliation: Catholic League.
- Last year's dual meet record: 17-4.
- Titles won: Catholic League and Class A district champs.
- Notable losses: All-Area Rob Sylvester (Heavyweight), 36-8 record last season, fifth in Class A; All-Area Rusty Fowler (119 pounds), 51 wins.
- Leading returnees: Mario Scicluna, senior (119); Dan Kelly, senior (189), 45 wins last year (first-team All-Area); Dan Riepie, senior (152); Jason Krueger, junior (160) posted 50 wins last season and was first team All-Area; Randy Castro, junior (105); Vince Ilagan, junior (130); Ted Lackey, junior (189); Tim MacArthur, junior (105); Steve Borke, junior (127); Phil Bache, junior (127); Mark Bracken, junior (Hwt.); Tom McDonald, junior (145); Eathen Rentz, junior (145).
- Rodriguez's '91-92 outlook: "We've scheduled some teams from Ohio and we have a good travel schedule set up. That should help us. If we can beat those teams from Ohio we can handle anybody. I'm excited about this year."

Presenting: All-Area grid squad

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

THE TWO GREATEST constants in Observerland football are the successful programs at Farmington Hills Harrison and Redford Catholic Central.

The 1991 season was like so many others in recent years for those two. Both reached the state finals again, with Harrison winning the Class BB crown and the Shamrocks taking runner-up honors in AA.

And once more, the All-Area team reflects the perennial strength of those programs. Harrison has six players on the 24-man squad, CC seven with the inclusion of kicking specialist Kerry Zavagnin.

It was a good year for Plymouth Salem, North Farmington and Redford St. Agatha, too. They also made the playoffs and have representation on the All-Area team — Salem with three first-team players, North and St. Agatha two each.

Westland John Glenn, which had another fine season and just missed the playoffs, also put two players on the team, and Redford Bishop Borgess and Farmington round out the elite unit with one selection apiece.

John Herrington of Harrison was named Coach Of The Year after leading the Hawks to their third state championship in four years and fifth overall. Harrison also won the Western Lakes Activities Association title for the fourth consecutive year. Herrington is 188-43-1 in 22 seasons.

"The thing that separates this team (from others at Harrison) is its toughness and its meanness," Herrington said. "This is the most physical team I've coached."

FIRST TEAM OFFENSE

Andy Fitzpatrick (QB), Harrison: Fitzpatrick was one of the most improved players on the Harrison team, stepping into a starting role and leading the Hawks to a state title.

He completed 89 of 173 passes for 1,637 yards and 22 touchdowns. He had 11 passes intercepted. Fitzpatrick also rushed 42 times for 164 yards and three TDs.

"He had an outstanding year passing and running the ball," Herrington said, adding Fitzpatrick is a good college prospect. "He has a lot more potential than he has shown. Somebody is going to get a real good quarterback."

Roy Granger (RB), Harrison: Granger is small but durable. He has great speed and is an elusive runner, rushing for 2,025 yards and 31 touchdowns on 250 carries. Granger set a state-finals record of 295 yards in the Silverdome against Cheboygan in the Class BB championship game.

He also caught 19 passes for 326 yards and six TDs. He scored 38 TDs overall, returning a punt for another score. He returned six kickoffs and 17 punts for a total of 383 yards. Granger had three interceptions on defense where he was a three-year starter.

"He's one of the best tailbacks we've ever had, definitely the best breakaway tailback," Herrington said. "He made it easy to coach offense. The line was so good, we could spring him loose and, once he was in the secondary, he was devastating."

Leon Hister (RB), Salem: Coach Tom Moshimer believes Hister is "the most underrated player in the state of Michigan." Hister had an outstanding career for the Rocks, rushing for 2,494 yards and 37 touchdowns in the last two years.

As a senior, he carried the ball 239 times for 1,507 yards and 19 TDs. He also returned a kickoff for a touchdown against Harrison and led the Rocks with 122 points. He was voted Salem's most valuable player as a junior and senior.

"As far as pure running back ability, he's the best we've ever had," Moshimer said. "We've had power runners before but never a running back like Leon. The kids all looked up to him, and everybody respected his ability. He was a quiet leader, also. (He was never loud, but the other players) listened when he said something."

Todd Anderson (RB), N. Farmington: Anderson was the workhorse in the North offense, rushing for 1,175 yards and 12 touchdowns. He also caught seven passes for 150 yards and one TD, and he returned 15 kickoffs and four punts for a total of 430 yards.

Anderson was a durable runner and never missed a game because of injury despite carrying the ball a school-record 239 times. Scott Selzer had the old record of 235.

"As the game went on, the stronger he got," North coach Jim O'Leary said. "The more he carried the ball the better he was, and he had great games against the great teams. He always makes the cut to the hole, finds the seams and gets into them."

Jeff Tibaldi (RB), Redford CC: Tibaldi was the leading rusher in CC's successful ground-oriented attack, rushing for 1,236 yards on 246 attempts for a 5-yard average. He also scored 10 touchdowns.

"Jeff did everything we could have hoped for," Mach said. "He got us the real tough yards every week, and we played against a tough schedule, defensively. Many of his yards were between the tackles where he had to battle somebody."

Frank Yoakam (WR), Redford CC: Yoakam, possessing great speed and athletic ability, is one of the finest all-purpose players in the state, accumulating 1,110 total yards.

He rushed 42 times for 335 yards and five TDs, and he caught 12 passes for 313 yards and one TD. Yoakam also returned 16 punts for 162 yards and one TD, 12 kickoffs for 300 yards and one TD. A two-way player, Yoakam had 70 tackles and one interception on defense.

"Frank is probably the best offensive player we've ever had at CC," Mach said. "He did a little bit of everything but did everything very well. It seemed he always gave us the big play when we needed it. He still managed to turn heads and make the big play in a conservative offense."

Duante Anderson (WR), Harrison: Anderson, playing only his second year of organized football, used his 4.5 speed in the 40-yard dash to catch 20 passes for 469 yards and five TDs. His 66-yard reception against Allen Park broke a scoreless tie in the regional final.

Anderson had five interceptions, 32 tackles and two fumble recoveries on defense. He also returned kicks and punts. Western Michigan is very interested.

"He always challenged opponents going deep, and he put a lot of fear into the opposing secondary," Herrington said. "He helped make our running game go, and he made some awfully big catches."

Jason Hagelthorne (OL), John Glenn: Hagelthorne started for two years at offensive tackle and this year led the Glenn defense as an inside linebacker.

"Jason got better and better as the year went on," Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said. "He had an excellent year at offensive tackle, and much of our yardage came over him. He is one of the top linemen we've ever had at Glenn. He moves extremely well for a big guy and became a very solid linebacker."

Vern Ratliff (OL), N. Farmington: Ratliff used a low center of gravity to hold his ground and even dominate on the line. He played guard and was an excellent trap blocker. As a defensive tackle, Ratliff had 22 solos, 70 total tackles, nine sacks and nine tackles for losses.

"(Longtime assistant coach) Ralph Temby thought he was the best lineman he has coached," O'Leary said. "I think that says it all. He has tremendous balance and initial movement off the ball. He's so short and strong he's hard to block. He has a great base on him."

Jason Gloetzner (OL), Harrison: A two-way tackle, Gloetzner is one reason the Hawks usually dominated opponents on the line of scrimmage.

Harrison ran behind him most of the time on offense, and opponents tried to avoid him when he was on defense. Gloetzner had 48 tackles and one fumble recovery. He would like to play at Eastern Michigan along with twin brother Mike, an inside linebacker for the Hawks.

"He's the most physically dominating player we've ever had at Harrison," Herrington said. "He's the meanest and most aggressive. He's one of our best offensive linemen ever — probably the best at pancaking the opponent."

Joe Hayes (OL), Salem: Hayes, who moved from tackle to center, was part of a solid line that made the Rocks successful at running their I-bone offense. He never had a mishandled snap and was the most improved lineman.

"Joe became a very consistent blocker, and his blocking proficiency was very high," Moshimer said. "He was particularly effective when a linebacker was playing over him. We try to put one of our best linemen at center, and Joe was most effective at center."

Kerry Zavagnin (SP), Redford CC: Possibly the best kicker in school history, Zavagnin kicked six field goals — his longest being 47 yards — and converted all but two of 36 extra points. He also punted 20 times for a 36.1 average and had 57 kickoffs for a 50.7 average. Ten kicks went in the end zone, and some deliberately squibbed kicks brought his average down.

Zavagnin is an all-state soccer player and might kick in college if he can arrange a situation whereby he can play both sports, according to Mach.

"He does all phases and he's good at all of them," Mach said. "He gave us great consistency in the kicking game, which comes down to winning a lot of games in the long haul."

FIRST TEAM DEFENSE

Justin Gugala (DL), Borgess: Gugala was a two-way lineman for the Spartans, moving from guard to tight end this year and starting for two seasons at defensive tackle. He had 39 first hits, 63 total tackles, two sacks and two fumble recoveries.

"He is a very intense player," Borgess coach Walt Bazylewicz said. "He never missed a practice. Even though he was injured, he was out there. We had to fight to keep him away. He played every down on offense and defense. He is a very aggressive young man who loves the game of football."

Leon Jefferson (DL), Harrison: Jefferson played noseguard and was a big reason the Hawks were so strong against the run. He had 39 solo tackles and 63 total.

Jefferson, who played in certain situations as a junior, became a starter this year and developed as the season progressed. He is just beginning to tap into his potential, according to Herrington, who believes Jefferson is a major college prospect.

"We think he's good enough to play in the Big Ten," Herrington said. "No center could handle him. They had to double team him, and they still couldn't move him off the ball. If the center tried to take him on, (Jefferson) would drive him into the backfield and disrupt their offense."

Dan Gusoff (DL), Redford CC: Gusoff exemplifies the rock 'em-sock 'em style of football the Shamrocks enjoy. He played fullback on offense and doubled as a defensive tackle.

Gusoff made 51 tackles, recorded two sacks and recovered a fumble. He rushed for 630 yards and 13 touchdowns on 163 attempts. He was CC's top scorer with 78 points.

"He's the old-type Bronko Nagurski football player who gets the tough yards inside," Mach said. "He usually ran over the first tackler and moved on to the second. He had the grit you need to be a great fullback and defensive tackle. He was a real iron man out there."

Joe Suhajda (DL), Redford CC: Suhajda (Sha-hay-da) was another key player who helped to continue a CC tradition for good defense. He was one of the team's top tacklers with 88½, a big number for a tackle. Suhajda also had two sacks.

"He was our overall best defensive lineman," Mach said, adding he was a unanimous All-Catholic choice of the league coaches. "Everyone asked who that No. 71 was. He seemed to be everywhere on the field. He's great when the play comes at him, but he does an equally good job of pursuing."

Allen August (DL), Salem: August was a three-year letterman and, playing defensive end, one quarter of what Moshimer considers the best group of four down defensive linemen in the WLAA. He had 44 tackles, five sacks and two fumble recoveries.

"He led the defensive line that was one of the best in recent history at Salem," Moshimer said. "We thought enough of him as a sophomore to bring him up to the varsity, and we had an 8-1 team that year. In fact, he was a captain as a junior."

James Pierce (DL), St. Agatha: Pierce has been a two-way starter for three years and has continued a St. Agatha tradition for outstanding linemen. Pierce rates with former standouts Kevin Rich (CMU), Joe Churches (CMU) and Mike Boyle (EMU), according to coach John Goddard.

"We've been blessed with linemen for a small school, and he's right there with those kids," Goddard said. "He was another one who never said anything. He just gets the job done. When we ran the ball, Cardell (Davis) got it and we ran it over James."

Mike Pesci (LB), Harrison: Pesci was the leader on another outstanding Harrison defense, making 159 total tackles, including 88 first hits. He also intercepted two passes and recovered two fumbles. As the upback on offense, he mostly blocked for Granger, but he did rush for five TDs and catch one TD pass.

Herrington believes Pesci has the frame to carry 230 pounds and play in the Mid-American Conference, but he is an excellent student and might opt to play for an Ivy League school.

"Mike has the most savvy of any player on the team," Herrington said. "He could go from sideline to sideline, and he was seldom out of position. He was a good pass defender, and he took on the block real well."

Gary Stegall (LB), Redford CC: Stegall was to the CC defense what Pesci was to the Harrison team. A two-year starter and the defensive signal caller, he made the most tackles (109) for the Shamrocks and also recovered two fumbles. He was a blocker in the power-I lineup and was hitting somebody on every play, according to Mach.

"Gary was the heart and soul of our defense," Mach said. "The other kids looked to him four toughness and leadership — and he delivered. You could count on him in tough situations, and he was an inspiration to the other players."

Matt Siskosky (LB), Farmington: Siskosky had a lot to do with Farmington being an improved team this year. A four-year varsity player, he doubled as an offensive tackle. Siskosky had 117 tackles, including a season-high 29 against Salem, and more than 200 in the last two years. He also recovered two fumbles.

Siskosky, a straight-A student and tops in his class, has drawn the interest of Ivy League schools as well as a number of Division II schools in Michigan.

"He was there all the time, during the season and the off season," coach Bernie Call said. "He gave us everything he had. He never got down, no matter what the situation was. I never had to worry about Matt getting up for a game. He was always ready."

John Ward (DB), John Glenn: Ward split time with Tad Quattlander at tailback and used his fine athletic skills to excel at free safety on defense. He was a team captain along with Hagelthorne.

"He ran very hard with the ball, and he was a good hitter on defense," Gordon said, citing Ward's unselfishness on offense. "He was one of those guys who always did what was best for the team. He probably would have been an outstanding tailback, but we needed him to do other things (play defense), and he responded very well."

Brett Walter (DB), Redford CC: Walter was another solid CC defender. He made 44 tackles from his secondary position, intercepted three passes and returned a fumble for a TD against Brother Rice. He also played some offense and averaged 10½ yards per carry on seven attempts.

"He did a great job of covering people who were much faster than him," Mach said. "He had great instinct for hitting on the corner and going to the ball when it was thrown.

"Over the last two years, he made key plays that kept us in ballgames. We never worried about Brett (even when playing against speed teams like King, DePorres and Pontiac) because of his savvy and instinct."

Cardell Davis (DB), St. Agatha: Davis was a fine two-way player for the Aggies, rushing for 1,374 yards (8½ average) and 17 touchdowns. His lone pass reception went 42 yards for a TD. He also returned one kickoff and one punt for scores.

On defense, he had seven interceptions and, if St. Agatha had kept track of tackles, probably would have led the team in that, too, according to Goddard.

"He was our best overall football player," Goddard said, "but he was a team kid first. He doesn't get wrapped up in individual stuff. You can't give him any more credit than to say he was a team player. In tough games against Shrine and St. Clement, he brought us from behind to win."

Tea room fund-raiser will benefit clinic

A wassail feast at O'Leary's Tea Room Saturday, Dec. 14, will benefit the St. Francis of Cabrini free medical clinic at Most Holy Trinity Church at Sixth and Porter in Detroit.

The tea room is a block from Holy Trinity at 1411 Brooklyn at Porter in Corktown, Detroit's oldest neighborhood.

Mary Jane McNally and John Custer, the husband-and-wife team who own O'Leary's, have planned an afternoon reception for 1 - 4 p.m. On the menu are hors d'oeuvres, imported cheeses and crackers, smoked salmon, pasties, scones and preserves, hot, spicy wassail, warm mulled cider, wine, coffee and tea.

Live entertainment will be supplied by harpist Kelly Yousoufian of Troy, pianist and soloist Penny Sausouris of Detroit, Jan Mordenski of Dearborn Heights and others.

A $20 per person donation is requested.

For those who prefer dinner, shank of lamb with savory Irish Antrim sauce will be served with julienne vegetables and all the trimmings at seatings at 4:30 p.m., 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. A second entree will be roast spring chicken with Limerick ham with traditional wild rice stuffing. Dishes will be accompanied by culcannon, a tasty blend of whipped potatoes, cabbage, onion and butter, and an apple walnut salad with black currants. Beverages including wassail also will be served.

Requested donation is $35 per person, or $60 per couple. Musicians will entertain.

Reservations are requested. Call 964-0936. Visa, Mastercard and Diners Club cards are accepted.

IN RE:
U.E. SYSTEMS, INC.,	JOINTLY ADMINISTERED UNDER CASE NO. 91-32791
POLYCAST TECHNOLOGY CORPORATION, UNIROYAL ADHESIVES AND SEALANTS COMPANY, INC., UNIROYAL ENGINEERED PRODUCTS, INC., ENSOLITE, INC.,	CHAPTER 11
Debtors.

NOTICE OF ENTRY OF BAR DATE ORDER FIXING LAST DAY TO FILE PROOFS OF CLAIM AGAINST DEBTORS

TO ALL PERSONS AND ENTITIES WITH CLAIMS AGAINST ANY OF THE ABOVE-NAMED DEBTOR ENTITIES:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that each of the above-named debtors (collectively, the "Debtors") commenced a case under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code") in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Indiana, South Bend Division (the "Bankruptcy Court") on November 13, 1991 (the "Petition Date").

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the Bankruptcy Court has entered an order (the "Bar Date Order") requiring all persons and entities, including individuals, partnerships, corporations, estates, trusts and governmental units, EXCEPT THOSE PERSONS AND ENTITIES DESCRIBED IN PARAGRAPHS A THROUGH E BELOW, that assert a claim (as defined below) against any of the Debtors that arose prior to the Petition Date, to file a proof of such claim by delivering the proof of claim to:

Sharon A. James, Clerk
United States Bankruptcy Court
224 United States Courthouse
204 South Main Street
South Bend, Indiana 46601

with a copy to:
Patrick J. Neligan
WEIL, GOTSHAL & MANGES
901 Main Street, Suite 4100
Dallas, Texas 75202

so that it is actually received on or before 5:00 p.m. C.S.T. on Wednesday, January 15, 1992 (the "Bar Date"). Such proofs of claim will be deemed filed only when they are actually received. In accordance with the Bar Date Order, in filing a proof of claim, you must set forth the specific name of the Debtor or Debtors against which you assert a claim or claims. If you have a claim against more than one of the Debtors, you must file a separate claim for each Debtor.

As used herein, the term "claim" means (a) right to payment, whether or not such right is reduced to judgment, liquidated, unliquidated, fixed, contingent, matured, unmatured, disputed, undisputed, legal, equitable, secured or unsecured; or (b) right to an equitable remedy for breach of performance if such breach gives rise to a right to payment, whether or not such right to an equitable remedy is reduced to judgment, fixed, contingent, matured, unmatured, disputed, undisputed, secured or unsecured.

IF YOU ARE REQUIRED TO FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM AND FAIL TO DO SO IN THE MANNER PRESCRIBED, YOU WILL BE FOREVER BARRED FROM VOTING UPON, OR RECEIVING DISTRIBUTIONS UNDER, ANY PLAN OR PLANS OR REORGANIZATION FOR ANY OF THE DEBTORS, AND WILL BE FOREVER BARRED FROM ASSERTING ANY SUCH CLAIM AGAINST ANY OF THE DEBTORS OR THEIR SUCCESSORS OR ASSIGNS.

The following persons or entities are NOT required to file a proof of claim on or before the Bar Date:

A. Any person or entity that has already filed a proof of claim conforming substantially to the claim form of the Official Forms against the Debtors with the Clerk of the Bankruptcy Court.
B. Any person or entity (i) whose claim is not listed as "disputed," "contingent" or "unliquidated" in the Debtors' Schedules of Liabilities (the "Schedules"), to be filed with the Clerk of the Bankruptcy Court on or before December 16, 1991, and (ii) who agrees with the classification and amount set forth therein.
C. Any Debtor, on account and any intercompany claim against another Debtor.
D. Any person or entity having a claim allowable under section 507(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code as an administrative expense of the Debtors' chapter 11 cases.
E. Any person or entity having a claim allowed by order of the Court entered on or prior to the Bar Date.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that acts or omissions of any Debtor that occurred prior to the Petition Date may give rise to claims against such Debtor notwithstanding the fact that such claims (or the injuries on which they are based) may be contingent or may not have occurred, matured or become fixed or liquidated prior to such date. Therefore, any creditor having a claim or potential claim against a Debtor, no matter how remote or contingent, must file a proof of claim on or before the Bar Date.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that any person or entity having a claim arising from the rejection of an unexpired lease or executory contract shall file proof of such claim on or prior to the date fixed in the order authorizing such rejection. If no such date is specified, proof of such claim shall be filed on or before the later of (i) the Bar Date and (ii) thirty (30) days after entry of the order authorizing such rejection.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that copies of the Schedules of Assets and Liabilities, Statements of Financial Affairs, Executory Contracts, and Lists of Equity Security Holders will be made available for inspection during regular business hours no later than December 18, 1991 at (i) the Offices of Weil, Gotshal & Manges, Attorneys for the Debtors, NCNB Plaza, 901 Main Street, Suite 4100, Dallas, Texas 75202, and (ii) the Office of the Clerk, United States Bankruptcy Court, Northern District of Indiana, 224 United States Courthouse, 204 South Main Street, South Bend, Indiana 46601. In the event you have questions concerning the completion, filing, or processing of your proof of claim, you may telephone (813) 366-5282 between the hours of 9:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., Eastern Time for assistance.

Christmas tale

'Remnant' reaches out to its audience

Performances of the Trinity House Theatre production of "Remnant" continue through Dec. 28 at Trinity House Theatre, 38840 W. Six Mile, Livonia. For ticket information call 464-6302.

Victoria Diaz

Livonia's Trinity House Theatre is currently staging the U.S. premiere of Ron Reed's futuristic drama, "Remnant," in which five inhabitants of a world once decimated by plague gather together on a howling winter's night to celebrate "the resurrection of Christ-Mass."

This is not, shall we say, your usual Christmas story. Canadian playwright Reed has put together a play that is often disturbing, dark, confusing, and bizarre.

It's oddly-named characters talk and act and dress in strange ways, and its raggy, junk-heap of a set is dominated by clamorous graffiti and the remnants of an old, wrecked car. But, in all this — though there's very little Christmas-tale sentimentality — hope and promise shine through.

Hampered slightly by a second act that feels overlong, and a conclusion that feels a bit unconvincing, "Remnant," as performed by the group at Trinity, is nevertheless a play that reaches out to its audience in a very real sense.

Much of the credit for this reaching out, of course, belongs with director Sarah Hedeen's disciplined cast. (Undoubtedly, Reed's inverted, "mispronounced" dialogue presented considerable challenge to this group, although they make everything appear close to effortless onstage.)

Dan Zelazny plays the nervously watchful host, Barlow Sho'rth, with an appealing, energetic edge. (As agile as a tree monkey, he seems to spend half his time literally climbing the walls of the set.) Laura Gumina is his intensely clairvoyant sister, Annagail Bookr Th, who arrives for the occasion bearing "giftings" for everybody. A mesmerizing Deborah Garrett plays Kristin Taalr Th, a beaded, baubled teller-of-tales.

Mary L. Pettit turns in one of the most interesting performances of the evening as Barlow's excitable helpmate, Widbee Nuui Th, who often expresses herself (clearly) in a language without words.

Phillip Matora, dressed like an apparition from a "Mad Max" flick, rounds out the cast and ultimately lends a certain touching dignity to his role as a mysterious intruder called Lonr Th.

Set Director Peter Senkbeil, Lighting Director Vikki Johnson, Sound Director Fred Schenk, and Costumer Debbie Korastinsky deserve special applause for the fine job they do with peripherals that are absolutely essential in establishing the proper mood for this challenging play.

"Remnant" is performed at Trinity House as theater-in-the-round. Because seats are assigned on a first-come, first-served basis, you'd do well to arrive early, since some seats offer better sight lines than others.

Victoria Diaz is a Livonia-based freelancer, who specializes in arts and entertainment articles in the metro area.

GARY GRACE

Trinity House Theatre's "Remnant," directed by Sarah Hope Hedeen, features Mary L. Pettit (left), Deborah Garrett and Dan Zelazny as plague survivors who gather to celebrate the Christ-Mass of the Old Ones.

Dancers repeat holiday tradition

One way to get into the holiday spirit is to see the classic ballet, the Nutcracker. It is being presented by four area groups through Dec. 22.

On Friday, Dec. 13 at 8 p.m., Eric Johnston, former principal dancer of the London Ballet Theater, is presenting the Nutcracker at the Clarenceville Auditorium on Middlebelt Road, north of Livonia Mall. Ballet aficionados should appreciate the traditional choreography of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. The music is by Maestro Carmen de Leone who is the principal conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony and Ballet Orchestra.

Youngsters will enjoy seeing a Christmas tree growing to 16 feet before their very eyes. All ages will be mesmerized by Clara and Fritz arriving in the Kingdom of Sweets in a sleigh pushed by angels through a layer of clouds. Many area children are performing in this presentation of the Nutcracker.

Tickets are $10, students and seniors $8. There will also be a performance of selected dances from the Nutcracker at Livonia Mall, 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 12. Tickets available at Hudsons, Harmony House and Sound Warehouse.

The Michigan Ballet Theatre, which is celebrating their 25th anniversary, will perform The Nutcracker, 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14, and 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15 at South Lyon High School, 11 Mile at Pontiac Trail. Tickets are $5 for children under 12, $7 adults. Call 624-5590 for information. The group is based in Farmington Hills and rehearses at Botsford Hospital.

Southfield's Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Douglas Bianchi presents Rose Marie Floyd's Contemporary Civic Ballet Company performing the Nutcracker 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15 at Birmingham's Seaholm High School at Lincoln and Cranbrook Road.

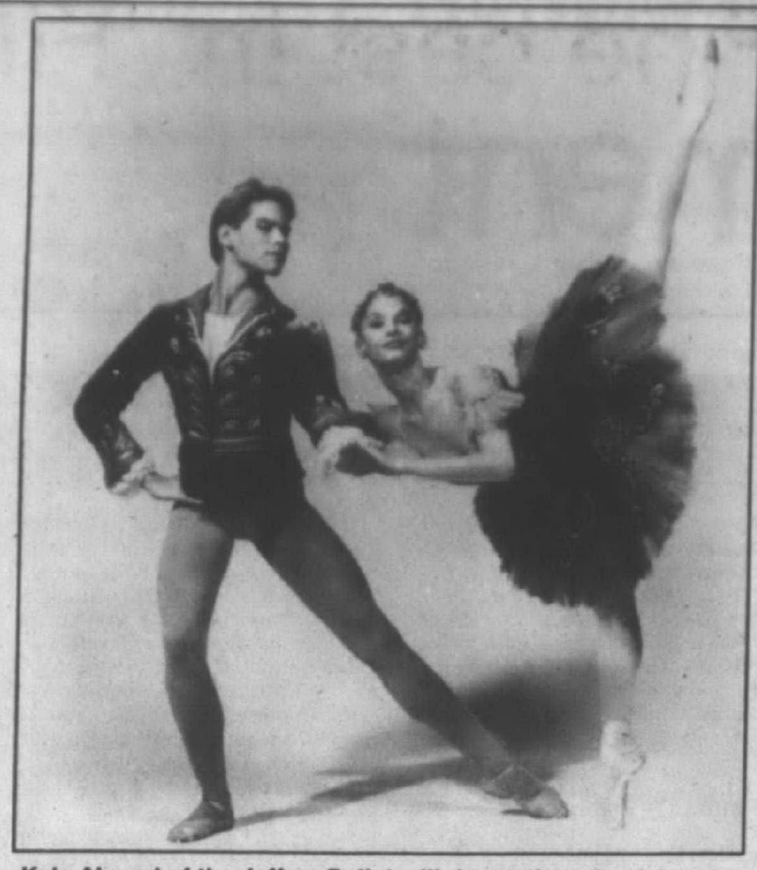
Guest artists from the Joffrey Ballet will appear with the company. Kyle Ahmed, who dances the role of the Cavalier, joined the Joffrey in July 1990 after dancing with the Joffrey II from 1987 to 1989. Ahmed was a member of the Ballet Hispanico and toured Europe with the Dennis Wayne dancers.

Johanna Clair Snyder, dancing the role of the Sugar Plum Fairy, has been with the Joffrey since 1987.

The Southfield Symphony is a community orchestra of 70 musicians from 16 different muncipalities. Tickets are $10, and $8 for students and senior citizens. Call 354-4717 for information and reservations.

The Oakland Festival Ballet will present their 3rd annual production of the Nutcracker at the Birmingham Theatre, Dec. 18 through Dec. 22, featuring soloists from American Ballet Theatre.

The Nutcracker plays at the Birmingham Theatre, 211 South Woodward, 8 p.m. Wed. Dec. 18, Thursday, Dec. 19 and Friday, Dec. 20. Matinee pefromances 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 19 and Sunday, Dec. 22, 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday Dec. 21. Tickets available through all Ticketmaster locations and the Birmingham Theatre box office, 644-3533. For more information, call the Oakland Festival Ballet at 652-3117.



Kyle Ahmed of the Joffrey Ballet will dance the role of Cavalier when the Southfield Symphony Orchestra and Rose Marie Floyd's Contemporary Civic Ballet Company present the Nutcracker Ballet at Birmingham's Seaholm High School on Dec. 15. Johanna Claire Snyder, also of the Joffrey Ballet, will dance the role of the Sugar Plum Fairy.

Area students perform in production at NMU

Darlene Childs of Southfield, a student at Northern Michigan University, recently performed in Forest Robert Theatre's world preimier production of the play "Beast."

Written by Susan Arnout Smith, "Beast" was the winner of the Shiras Institute/Mildred & Albert Panowski Playwriting Award at NMU.

Child's, a senior majoring in speech communications with a minor in theater and broadcasting, played the role of Morden.

"Beast" takes place in a dreamscape "where bad dreams grow into nightmares."

A dazzling blend of realism and fantasy, Smith's unsettling drama takes a surrealistic look into a dysfunctional family with a terrible secret.

Childs is the daughter of Connie and Eddie Bass of Southfield.

Also performing in the play was Jennifer Gosz of Livonia.

A senior majoring in theater with a minor in speech, Gosz was the production stage manager for the production which began Nov. 12.

She is the daughter of John and Karen Gosz of Livonia.

Northern Michigan University is in Marquette.

Celebrate 1940s style

Holiday time is swingtime at Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village with this year's special "Fabulous 40s Holiday Evenings."

Fabulous 40s evenings offered 7-11 p.m. Dec. 15, 19, 27 and 28. Tickets $58 (champagne, hors d'oeuvres, dinner, wine, entertainment, tax and gratuity included). Black tie or 1940s attire is encouraged, but business attire is appropriate. Call 271-1620 for reservations.

Lovett Hall provides an elegant setting. After dessert, soft lights from crystal chandeliers and sweet music by the Skyliners set the mood for dancing.

Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village is at Oakwood Boulevard and Village Road in Dearborn.

Benefit concert

The Galliard Brass Ensemble of Ann Arbor performs a benefit concert for Northwestern Community Services, the original community mental health agency in western Wayne County, 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15, in the O'Leary Performing Arts Center at Garden City High School, 6500 Middlebelt Road, between Ford and Warren. Tickets $10 adults, $7 students and seniors. Call 425-7977 or 425-6110 for information.

Fine cast in 'First Is Supper'

Performances of the Jewish Ensemble Theatre production of "First is Supper" continue through Dec. 29 at the Aaron DeRoy Theatre at the Jewish Community Center, 6600 W. Maple Road, West Bloomfield. For tickets, call JET at 788-2900, visit any Ticketmaster outlet or call 645-6666.

Barbara Michals

Just as laughter and tears often intermingle in real life, "First Is Supper" combines humor and tragedy in a swirl of emotions that cannot fail to touch the heart. Beautifully presented by the Jewish Ensemble Theatre, the play has a very fine cast and direction.

"First Is Supper" is a very impressive play-writing debut for actor/comedian Shelley Berman, who loosely modeled the story on an incident in the lives of his maternal grandparents, and then conjectured what they might have been like when young.

THE BITTERSWEET family drama explores the strengths, foibles, and resilience of an immigrant family in Chicago in 1919 as they face the vicissitudes of life.

Frieda (Kate Willinger) and Getz Marks (Tony Dobrowolski) are the parents of three children, but the father so obsessively loves his 14-year-old retarded daughter Rosie (Jaime Newman) that he barely acknowledges the existence of the others.

When 16-year-old daughter Ida (Kathryn Cherasaro) gets "in trouble," her dilemma forces an angry showdown between her parents. Frieda desperately wants her stubborn husband to accept Rosie's limitations and start paying attention to the needs of his other children, but she has a hard time getting him to even listen.

Willinger is outstanding as Frieda. Though her difficulties with the English language make Frieda sometimes feel inadequate, Willinger clearly shows her as a woman of strength, intelligence and determination as well as great patience and understanding. Her insistence that "first is supper," even at a time of tragedy, seems a timeless, universal affirmation of life.

Dobrowolski is excellent as Getz, on the surface as hard as the shoemaker's nails he pounds all day, but actually capable of gentle patience, tenderness, and even laughter.

Newman is wonderful in the difficult role of Rosie, at times off in her own world but capable of strong emotional outbursts that elicit great pathos in two key scenes.

DANIEL KAHN plays the third child, 12-year-old Solly, whom his father seems to regard mainly as an errand boy. Kahn is delightfully funny as he repeatedly races up and down three imaginary flights of stairs between his apartment and the street and makes outlandish statements to try to get his parents' attention.

Adding to the play's nostalgic humor is Peggy Thorp as Lotte, Frieda's close friend and neighbor. Thorp is engaging as she dishes up advice to Frieda or indulges in her favorite activity, cursing Getz with a colorful stream of invective that sometimes translates awkwardly from the original Yiddish expressions.

TRACY KARBEL is fine as Lotte's daughter Rachel, who keeps altering her name to try to sound more assimilated. Roy Dennison is good as Victor, Getz's gentile friend, though his is the least well-developed character.

Playwright Berman and JET director Evelyn Orbach have done a remarkable job of creating characters that thoroughly capture the audience's emotions; it is easy to really like these people and care about them.

Orbach keeps the pacing smooth throughout. At various times all three of the children are required to cry on stage, and under Orbach's direction this is as convincing as everything else.

Russ Smith's scenic design and Edith Leavis Bookstein's costumes are well-suited to the family's limited means, and Tom Schraeder's lighting works well.

"First Is Supper" debuted in Berman's native Chicago, and following its run with the JET the play is scheduled for an off-Broadway production.

Barbara Michals is a retired Southfield English teacher. A theater critic for the last 17 years, she is an inveterate playgoer who regularly catches up on all the New York productions.

Japanese are finishing what we started

Dan McCosh

Before he went on to write those obnoxious Joe Isuzu ads, adman Jerry Della Femina wrote a book called "From Those Wonderful Folks Who Brought You Pearl Harbor," the title a reference to a slogan he allegedly suggested for the first Sony Corp. account in the United States.

Admen aren't laughing now: Mitsubishi, Honda, American Suzuki, among others, canceled ads in magazines and on TV shows that did specials on the 50th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

SOME OF these guys are understandably a bit touchy. Mitsubishi built nearly everything in the armada that led the assault, both ships and airplanes (photos of which were on display in their corporate headquarters, hastily covered up a few years ago during a visit by American journalists, but I peeked).

Honda didn't even exist then, but its ads talk about the Accord being everybody's "target," and they don't want anybody to take them too literally. But I digress.

It's clear that this whole Pearl Harbor anniversary thing has gotten out of hand. Sen. Donald Riegle figured he could use the occasion to push through a bill aimed at reducing the auto parts deficit — giving him a chance to wave the flag and, hopefully, blot out the memories of his constituents about his role in the savings and loan fiasco.

THERE ALSO have been an unusual number of stories attempting to tie together the infamous sneak attack and the far more recent Japanese domination of world manufacturing. Offsetting this is a lot of U.S. guilt-ridden hand-wringing about either Hiroshima or the internment of Japanese-Americans during World War II.

It's predictable hyperbole, but mainly overblown, overemotional stuff that detracts from today's legitimate debate over current trade issues. Most of it, in fact, reflects a gross ignorance about the onset of World War II, as well as the postwar buildup of Japan's industrial base.

THE JAPANESE military establishment that launched the invasion of Manchuria, the Philippines, and attacked Pearl Harbor, not incidentally, also slaughtered much of the Japanese civilian government in its rise to power.

Defeating them was a bloody, terrible task, which was followed by an American effort to rebuild the Japanese economy as quickly as possible, mainly to act as a bulwark against anticipated further communist intrusions in Asia.

A good deal of today's Japanese economic policy was written by Americans in that postwar reconstruction era — including the resurrection of prewar corporate banking empires, and a monetary and economic policy favoring rapid capital buildup at the expense of Japanese living standards.

IN WHAT became the ultimate of economic ironies, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Detroit banker Joseph Dodge (on loan from the predecessor to Comerica) spelled out most of the essential elements of a trade policy that would seriously threaten the United States a half-century in the future.

But there was much more than naivete at work here. Underlying their actions was the premise that economic "war" is nothing like real war — something excruciatingly fresh in the minds of the men who had just concluded a real one.

Building up businesses was supposed to be the job of peace — a genuine alternative to war, and something difficult to fault the Japanese for today simply for doing too well.

It's something worth keeping in mind whenever we remember Pearl Harbor.

Stock of Reader's Digest is good but too expensive

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

Q. My broker has suggested I buy shares in Reader's Digest Association. I have a prejudice against buying stock in publishing companies. It seems to me they go through a boom and bust cycle. Just when you think you have a good investment, all too many fade out of sight. Do you know anything about Reader's Digest that makes you believe it is a good long-term investment?

A. Reader's Digest Association is an excellent quality growth company. Even though annual revenue is approaching $2.5 billion, the company has been growing revenue at more than 13 percent a year. Earnings have been growing more rapidly because of improving profit margins. Importantly, the company has reported growth of revenue and earnings during the recession of 1990-91.

Yes, some publishing companies do tend to prosper and then fade away. Advertising revenue has shrunk during the recession, cutting into their profits.

Reader's Digest Association is expected to earn $1.97 in fiscal 1992, up from $1.74 for 1991. At the recent price of 43, that makes the price-earnings ratio a rather rich 21.8. Although the stock has been publicly traded only since early 1990, a price-earnings ratio of 21.8 is typical of the maximum of the past. That's a complicated way of saying that while Reader's Digest is a good company, its stock may be overpriced at 43.

An Investment idea

During a weak stock market like the present, it can be profitable to buy good quality growth stocks, which have retreated from their highs. Anheuser-Busch (BUD) was recently at 53, down from the 52-week high of 56¼.

Anheuser-Busch is the nation's largest producer of beer. It increases its market share each year. The company has a competitive advantage in spreading the cost of marketing and advertising over many more barrels of beer than its competitors.

The company is expected to earn $3.26 per share for 1991 and $3.70 for 1992, up from $2.95 per share earned in 1990. Quality is tops, and future growth of earnings is expected to be 12 percent a year.

Look before you leap into Soviet business

country has been hooked on government subsidies for years, meaning workers and management have never learned to conserve resources.

BECAUSE HARDLY anything the Soviet Union currently produces, save perhaps weapons and vodka, can be sold in world markets for more than the value of the embodied raw materials, Gregory noted the opportunities for Western businesses are tremendous, yet suspect.

"Everything in the Soviet Union is determined by five-year plans that don't work," he said. "They have an archaic pricing system and there is no set of incentives for workers to put in extra hours or strive for absolute quality.

"This is like a brand-new country almost, and companies which want to get in on the ground floor are taking a risk, but if they can stay there and learn like everyone else as they go, there could be long-term benefits, but that is somewhere down the road."

Another prospect to consider: Since the republics are so intertwined economically, the Soviet Union may create a trading bloc similar to the European Community. What form or direction a Soviet Community may take is anyone's guess, but for those with established roots, it's not likely they'll ever be kicked out.

Standard Fed receives rave reviews

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Misery and woe: The continuing savings and loan mess. Manufacturing jobs gone from the "rust belt." Housing starts down nationwide. Consumer confidence shaky.

Except at Standard Federal Savings Bank, the Troy-based thrift getting national attention as its earnings and share of the mortgage market climb. Why?

"A lot of good things are coming together," answered Thomas B. Ricketts, 60, completing his 11th year with the triple title of chairman, president and chief administrative officer.

"Sparkles like a diamond in a pile of charcoal," Forbes magazine said of Standard Federal last month.

STANDARD Federal's "good things" include a stable Midwest housing market, lower interest rates for home buyers, a growing gap between mortgage rates and the cost of savings, a successful attempt to bring in low-interest checking accounts, a lucrative mortgage servicing business, computerized efficiency and cost controls.

"We have focused on a few activities," said Ricketts, who has worked at the thrift since he graduated from the University of Michigan Law School in 1956. Sure, there are acquisitions, but they're in neighboring states.

"We're not going to Arkansas," he said, but his bank is deeply involved in Detroit's first new housing subdivision in 30 years.

"Upgrade from Hold to BUY," advised First Boston's analysts last month. It sees Standard Federal's earnings going from last year's $1.30 a share to $2.50 in 1992. Reason: The thrift's gamble that short-term interest rates would stay low "is paying off big."

"Good probability of a dividend increase in the next fiscal year," opined Olde Discount, noting SF's dividend has been 40 cents a year since 1989. "The lower rates have increased home purchases, spurred refinancing."

WESTERN THRIFTS have gone belly-up backing commercial ventures and housing. Ricketts saw two reasons why his thrift avoided that:

"One is that housing prices have never really gone up here (Midwest), so there hasn't been a lot of 'water,' so to speak, in housing prices. You compare a house price in Detroit to Boston or San Francisco or Orange County — those housing prices are double or triple what we have here.

"So when a little bit of hard times comes, it's easy to see why the 'water' comes out of those prices. There's a shrinkage of value, and the declines are pretty catastrophic.

"Second, there's been a historic situation where Michigan, particularly Detroit, has had a lot of ups and downs. So I think we've had less speculation, less overbuilding — an understanding that bad times can follow good.

"Contrast that with Arizona or California — they thought every day would be brighter, there'd be nothing but higher prices, up, up, up. They didn't understand that sometimes we have cycles in this country."

INFLATION will drop to the 3.5 percent range in the next couple of years, according to University of Michigan economists. That works to Ricketts' advantage:

"The lack of runaway inflation is great. It will keep homes affordable. It will mean reasonable expenses to operate a home.

"It'll keep interest rates moderate, too. A big portion of interest rates are usually inflation expectation."

Standard Federal's savings maturities are one year or less, and those rates have dropped farther than mortgage costs. "We're promoting checking accounts," Ricketts said. "You pay less interest on checking than CDs, and it doesn't add to your costs."

A big investment in computers in the two-year-old corporate headquarters on Big Beaver Road, plus its own staff of appraisers, mean the thrift can close a loan in only 18 days — even three or four days in a pinch.

"As long as we have competitive rates, we're the lender of choice," Ricketts said. Result: For the first time in history, SF closed $1 billion in loans. "We are increasing our share of the market. We do more than the next two competitors (Comerica and NBD) combined."

EVEN DETROIT, reeling and stumbling, is a prospect. Little noticed by suburbanites was a late November ceremony in Victoria Park, between E. Jefferson and the river on Detroit's far east side — the first new subdivision in the city in 30 years.

"We've sponsored 10 of 14 Homearamas. We're sponsoring the one that starts Dec. 6 in Novi. We said, wouldn't it be fun to do one in Detroit? Our involvement was leadership in financing 15 builders," said Ricketts, a graduate of Detroit's Cass Tech High and a leader in New Detroit, Inc.

"The city has been very cooperative — a boulevard, underground utilities, nice street lights, double-wide lots (155 of them), cul-de-sacs, not just old Detroit streets. The city long ago bulldozed it and filled in the old basements.

Thomas R. Ricketts good things come together

"The homes will be $65,000 to $135,000, all with two-car garages. We've had 300 serious inquiries.

"Many work in downtown Detroit — a lot of city employees — mostly two-income couples. They're not the poor or homeless. We're not being Boy Scouts. This is a good business proposition."

THE THRIFT is widening its market lead by using its computerized services to acquire mortgages from others and do loan servicing work.

"We're doing it with 4 to 5 percent less staffing," Ricketts added.

Standard Federal also is seeking VISA credit card business — an area under attack by President Bush and Congress for high interests rates.

"That was unfortunate," Ricketts said of the failed attack. "You don't get far trying to regulate interest rates. The market is really in control.

"If people think the interest rate is too high, they have several options. One, there are lenders with credit cards at lower rates. Two, don't use this type of credit — equity home loans and other loans are available. Or, don't make the purchase. You do have a choice.

"It (Bush's remark) was surprising and, I guess, politics."

Smaller banks see opportunity in merger of giant competitors

By R.J. King
special writer

With the recent merger of two of metro Detroit's larger banks — Comerica Inc. and Manufacturers National Corp. — the cost of banking for both individuals and small businesses will likely become more expensive.

"When larger banks merge like Comerica and Manufacturers, they tend to increase their costs through additional fees charged to service checking accounts or lines of credit," said Lou Allen, a private banker with the Bank of Bloomfield Hills and former president of Manufacturers.

"A large bank has thousands of individuals to service and there is a tremendous amount of money needed to run branch offices, monitor accounts and track funds. At smaller banks like ours, there is no need for large back-room staffs, and the cost of banking to the individual is relatively low."

According to a recent article in the Journal of Banking and Financing, borrowers in a market with a highly concentrated banking system pay interest rates that range from a half of a percentage point to 2.2 percentage points higher than borrowers in the least concentrated markets, depending on the type of loan.

In turn, as mergers cause banking power to be concentrated in fewer hands, depositors tend to get lower interest rates, and borrowers, especially small businesses, are charged higher rates.

STILL, ALLEN welcomed the merger between Comerica and Manufacturers, citing the need for larger banks to compete more effectively with both national and international competitors. He added customer service, more so than economies of scale, will drive the industry in the years to come.

"Small institutions which place a premium on individual service have an excellent opportunity to expand their customer base," he said. "No one likes to wait in line or see the money in their checking account subjected to a lot of fees."

Customers of both Comerica and Manufacturers are unlikely to see fees rise in the short run, as the merger, which will operate under the Comerica name, will cut costs by eliminating duplicated operations. By closing 60 of their combined 413 branches and eliminating 1,800 of their 13,500 jobs, mostly through attrition and retirement, the new Comerica expects to save about $145 million annually by 1994.

Still, Robert Heinrich, president of Metrobank, formerly known as The Metropolitan Bank of Farmington, which works mainly with small business owners and has its main office in Farmington and two branch offices in Farmington Hills, said smaller banks are likely to gain immediately from the new Comerica.

"Whenever there is a large merger like this, we receive a significant falloff of customers from the big banks either because A.) A customer does not want to deal with a megabank, or B.) The customer feels he will be lost in the shuffle," he said.

Most recently, Heinrich said Metrobank received 30 to 40 additional small business applications following the announced merger in September of the First of America Corp. of Kalamazoo with Security BankCorp in Detroit.

"Our customers appreciate us because we keep banking simple," he said. "At larger banks, there is a fee for every service, and it's almost akin to Burger King banking, where you have a huge menu and pay for every little thing. At Metrobank, a customer pays one price to do all things. There is a monthly fee, and we don't nickel and dime you to death for using the night deposit box or making a simple withdrawal."

As for the future banking climate in metro Detroit, the most likely scenario is two-sided: A handful of large regional banks, often referred to as megabanks, and small financial institutions that stress personalized service.

"In the next five years, there will be megabanks and small banks, with almost no one in between," said Michael Vallee, president of Fidelity Bank in Birmingham, which has 12 branch offices in Bingham Farms, Bloomfield Township, Livonia, Southfield and Troy.

"As for the new Comerica, I look at it as one less competitor to contend with. When everyone is pitching for the same piece of business, one less player in the equation makes it a little bit easier to compete."

Caution advised for U.S. firms with designs on Soviet market

By R.J. King
special writer

The political unrest in the Soviet Union these days is giving area business people who see the country as a huge untapped market reason to pause.

"For any company wanting to get into the Soviet Union, I would advise them to tread very carefully as the country is still undergoing a major shake-out," said Karl Gregory, a professor of economics and management at Oakland University in Rochester.

"One should also consider the possibility of major instability in the winter because of food shortages and short tempers. To be successful now, a firm would have to be of significant size with significant cash to deal with all the obstacles that are sure to arise."

Gregory said the greatest obstacle to Western businesses trying to drive a stake in an economy of 320 million people is uncertainty about the rules. Exactly who owns property, who enforces contracts and who collects taxes are all questions as yet unanswered.

"I used to know the answer to all those questions, but not anymore," said Andor Weiss, president of All-Rite Tool Engineering in Livonia and a native of Ukraine. "Before I left my country in 1973, I knew who to call for favors or licenses, but now everything is drastically different. I would like to supply stamping dies to Soviet companies, just like I do here with the auto makers, but I don't know where to begin. There's such chaos there now."

WEISS SAID HE would wait to see how Ford and General Motors, both of which have started joint ventures in the Soviet Union within the last five years, fare before trying to tackle the Soviet economy.

"I'll see how they do over the next year, and then make my move."

As it stands, Ford and General Motors are willing to sell finished products to the Soviet Union, but they hesitate to invest in manufacturing there. It would require millions of dollars to open a production plant, by one estimate, an investment Ford and GM are not willing to make at the present.

But while Weiss and others may be prudent, some area businesses have aggressively pursued deals in the Soviet Union since Gorbachev unleashed perestroika in 1985. And for a single reason: The potential long-term rewards far outweigh any short-term risks.

Mikhail Kheynson, a resident of West Bloomfield and a native of Moscow, started selling everything from used cars to turn-key dental offices in the Baltic state of Latvia. By June 1992, Kheynson plans to open a Latvia-based plant that will produce modular housing for 3,000 families a year.

"We've been working with the Soviet Union since 1989 trying to set up these various deals, and only recently have we succeeded," said Kheynson, president of ICT (International Commodities Trading) Inc. in Lapeer.

"It's a long row to hoe, but there's no question food and housing are the number one priority. Companies anxious to send their products over must consider the infrastructure of the Soviet Union. It can be very difficult to move products and people from place to place."

Kheynson, who along with partners Edward Sykes, a resident of Farmington Hills, and Edward May said despite the many problems, the import-export firm was in for the long haul.

"You need a lot of patience, but the rewards are there," he said. Kheynson declined to provide sales figures for ICT. Currently, roughly one-third of the Soviet harvest rots in fields for lack of modern farming equipment, silos, delivery vehicles and highways. At the same time, the Friendship provides reason to celebrate

By Julie Brown
staff writer

SENIORS KNOW that spending time with good friends helps make the holiday season bright.

"Absolutely. It keeps you young," said Warner Rautio of Canton. "Keep active. That's one of the main things for long life."

Rautio was among those at the recent St. Nick Frolic. About 170 people attended the Wednesday get-together at the Fellows Creek clubhouse in Canton.

"That's the biggest crowd we've ever had," said Dianne Neihengen, coordinator of senior activities for Canton Township. "They love a good party."

The celebration for Canton-area seniors has been held for many years. Officials from Fellows Creek and Canton Township helped to keep the cost of this year's event affordable, Neihengen said, and many seniors were able to attend.

RAUTIO HAS attended the Christmas party in the past and looks forward to it. "I always come here to celebrate. It just seems to be the finale of the season, the year," said Rautio, who's been retired for about 12 years and had worked as a graphic arts estimator.

"I have enjoyed retirement," said Rautio, president of the Royal Holiday Club of the Canton Seniors. He's found that volunteering and taking part in different activities help keep seniors going strong.

A variety of activities were included at the afternoon St. Nick Frolic. Seniors listened to music provided by disc jockeys, The Gold Tones. Songs of the season were featured, along with a number of other year-round favorites from different eras. Many partygoers took to the dance floor.

Christmas ornaments were displayed at the party. Each year, some of the seniors make ornaments to donate to the Ronald McDonald House. McDonald's officials award prizes to the creators of the handmade ornaments.

The seniors enjoyed lunch and the pleasure of each other's company. Members of the Canton Seniors clubs — Royal Holiday, Pioneers and Zesters — attended, as did some seniors who take local arts and crafts classes. Some seniors who aren't club members or enrolled in classes also came to the party, as did township officials.

"This really has been a lovely afternoon," Neihengen said. She's nowhere near retirement age just yet, but knows she'll enjoy those golden years.

"I can hardly wait," she said with a smile. "I'm going to go on all the trips and have a good time."

Staying in shape

Holidays present a fitness challenge

By Julie Brown
staff writer

A typical holiday meal isn't known for being low in calories. That doesn't mean the season has to lead to a 10-pound weight gain.

"There's something about the holidays," said Zonya Foco, a clinical nutritionist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital's NutriCare in Ann Arbor. Most of us were brought up to associate the season with special foods.

"So I think it is a problem for a lot of people," said Foco, a registered dietitian who earned a bachelor's degree in dietetics from Eastern Michigan University.

It's important not to have a perfectionist attitude during the holidays, she said. Expecting to refrain from eating all desserts or other goodies isn't realistic.

"The goal is to eat a little bit less than usual." When attending holiday get-togethers, it's important to listen to your stomach and stop eating when full.

PLANNING CAN help prevent holiday weight-gain disasters. Incorporating exercise into daily life is also essential.

The key is creating a conservative workout plan "something they can fit in their life forever," said Kathy Bilicki, Wellness Center coordinator for the Livonia Family YMCA.

Working out three times a week helps to promote good health, said Bilicki, a Livonia resident. That workout can include any number of activities such as walking, swimming, skiing or others.

"We just encourage some kind of movement." Bilicki knows that getting adequate exercise can be a little more of an effort in the winter. Some people prefer using indoor facilities to exercise, including some who do regular walking at area malls.

Foco and her colleagues at NutriCare, an outpatient nutrition counseling clinic, encourage people to stop and consider what they enjoy most about the holidays. Becoming uncomfortably stuffed isn't enjoyable.

"There are people who love us with food," she said. Saying "No, thanks" at a celebration can be difficult.

IT'S BEST to say how much you enjoy the food, but that you're simply too full right now, said Foco, an Ypsilanti resident. She doesn't recommend saying "I'm watching my weight" or "I'm on a diet."

"That's an invitation for attack." Friends and family members may respond that there's no need for you to worry about excess weight.

Holiday food preparation can be modified so that meals and snacks are lower in calories and fat. Weight gain isn't the only health complication associated with a high-fat diet. Such a diet is linked to an increased rate of heart disease and breast, colon and prostate cancers.

Foco recommends that those preparing or enjoying holiday meals:

- Choose white meat from the turkey, and don't eat the skin;
- If possible, substitute low-fat margarine in recipes that call for butter or lard;
- Skim fat from juices before thickening gravy;
- Avoid consuming large quantities of alcohol, which tends to be high in calories;
- Substitute cider mixed with sparkling water for eggnog;
- Serve a fresh fruit salad rather than a creamy one;
- Prepare a green bean casserole with yogurt and fresh onions, rather than using creamy soup and french fried onions;
- Serve steamed vegetables topped with a little low-fat margarine;
- Choose pumpkin pie rather than pecan pie;
- Check the fat content of brown and serve rolls, which can be high in fat even before butter is added.

"TAKE SMALLER portions and really do stop when you're satisfied," Foco said.

She also recommends that exercise be incorporated into holiday celebrations. A walk after Christmas dinner can be a family fitness affair.

The YMCA's Bilicki also encourages people to get out and start moving. "Just because it's snowy out doesn't mean they can't go outdoors." Getting regular exercise promotes a good attitude and relieves stress, she said.

"You'll see some change going on, no doubt."

Bilicki tries to make exercise fun for people at the YMCA in Livonia. She encourages them to try another activity if they don't enjoy what they're doing.

It's important to start slowly to avoid injury and burnout, Bilicki said. Checking with a physician before starting an exercise program is recommended, particularly for those who haven't exercised in some time or who have a family history of heart disease.

Bilicki, her husband and children are all athletic, and keep active this time of year. Bilicki likes to ski, play golf, run, walk and work out.

Foco and her husband have incorporated exercise into their daily lives. She enjoys cross country skiing, works out regularly at the EMU facilities and has some exercise equipment at home.

Foco also practices what she preaches when it comes to choosing food. "It's fun to eat low fat, and you actually feel better," she said.

Skaters put best foot forward

The skaters won't actually board a plane or boat, but will do some "traveling" while staying close to home. The theme of this year's club show is "Christmas Around the World."

"It's for the kids," said Tammy Doroshewitz, show director. "It's a fun show for the kids to do." The students have a great deal of input when it comes to planning the holiday show.

Show time will be 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 13, at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer. Ticket prices are $3 for adults, $2 for children. Tickets will be sold at the door.

THE PLYMOUTH Figure Skating Club presents a Christmas show each year. More than 60 skaters will perform in this weekend's show.

"It's a fun time of year to do it," said Doroshewitz, a Plymouth Township resident. Skaters in the show range in age from early elementary school on up through adulthood.

Skaters won't be the only talented young people making their presence known that evening. Youngsters from Academic Gardens will sing songs of the season as part of the show.

Skaters don't have a great deal of time to practice for the Christmas show, as many of them skate competitively and are busy through the fall with regional competition. They spend about three weeks practicing for the holiday show.

weddings and engagements

Schwab-Vershave

Ron and Denise Schwab of Canton announce the engagement of their daughter, Dawn Marie, to Todd Michael Vershave of Canton.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School. She is attending Schoolcraft College, where she is studying secondary education, and is employed at Kenny's Food & Spirits.

Her fiance is a graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. He is serving as a private first class in the U.S. Army.

A late December wedding is planned at St. Mary's of Wayne.

Frazer-Riemenschneider

Julie Marie Riemenschneider of Plymouth and Christopher James Frazer of Battle Creek, Mich., were married Aug. 17 at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. The Rev. John Grenfell Jr. performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are E. Michael and Nancy Riemenschneider of Plymouth and Michael and Floice Frazer of Battle Creek.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and of Michigan State University, where she earned a bachelor of arts degree. She is a candidate for a master of arts degree at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y.

Her husband is a graduate of Pennfield High School near Battle Creek and of Michigan State University, where he earned a bachelor of science degree. He is employed as an international project engineer with Aeroquip Corp. in Jackson, Mich.

Karen Ream Garland was the matron of honor. The bride's other attendants were sister of the bridegroom Sarah Frazer, sister of the bridegroom Susan Frazer and Holly Gosen. Catherine Little and Patricia Clark were the readers.

Brother of the bridegroom Jonathan Frazer was the best man. The groomsmen were Russell Carley, Michael Schneider and brother of the bride James Riemenschneider. Ushers were Timothy Pietrogallo, John Williston and Carl Scheible.

For her wedding, the bride wore a short-sleeved gown of pure silk shantung. The gown was trimmed with Alencon lace and pearls and had a chapel-length train. Her matching headpiece had a cathedral-length veil. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis, white and pink roses and ivy.

A reception was held at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. Wedding transportation was a fully restored 1959 Ford Edsel.

Following a wedding trip to Prince Edward Island, Canada, the newlyweds are making their home in Jackson.

Couple marks 40th anniversary

Ronald and Audrey Hollandsworth of Livonia recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. The celebration included a surprise party given Oct. 12 at the home of their son, David, and his wife.

Audrey Leirstein and Ronald Hollandsworth were married Oct. 20, 1951, at the Norwegian Lutheran Church in Detroit. They lived in Westland for 30 years and have lived in Livonia for five years.

The couple's children are: Robert (Lorraine) Hollandsworth of Wheaton, Ill., formerly of Farmington Hills; David (Nancy) Hollandsworth of Livonia; Tim (Lori) Hollandsworth of Livonia; and Tom (Penny) Hollandsworth of Canton.

They also have nine grandchildren, five girls and four boys. Hollandsworth is employed with Alron Floors.

The surprise party in October was attended by 35 people, including Ron Hollandsworth's mother, Rose Hollandsworth, 77, of Detroit.

"But they rehearse a lot during those three weeks," said Doroshewitz, who is working with show producer Alice Bohr. Bohr will appear in the Christmas show, but Doroshewitz won't do any skating that evening.

Many younger children who are new club members will be in this year's show, including some who haven't skated in earlier shows.

"So they're really excited about it," Doroshewitz said.

Two precision teams will perform in the "Christmas Around the World" show. The preliminary and intermediate teams are part of the Plymouth Figure Skating Club. A raffle will be held the evening of the show, with proceeds to support precision team competition. Ticket price is $1 or 15 tickets for $10. A variety of prizes have been donated.

THE SHOW will have an international theme, with different numbers reflecting the holiday customs of such countries as Mexico, France, Germany, Greece and England.

"It's given the kids a chance to learn some of the different Christmas songs too." Some of the students were surprised to learn that some holiday songs, such as "Silent Night," are also sung in other countries in a language other than English.

The Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department presents an annual ice skating show in the spring, and many club skaters also participate in that. Doroshewitz has found that students benefit from being involved in such athletic activities.

"It gives the kids something to do." Skating helps to boost their self-esteem, and skaters learn to work together. Preparing for the Christmas show is less competitive than some other club activities.

"They're all working together. It's more of a team spirit." Many of the skaters form lasting friendships.

"That's the kind of thing that makes it really rewarding," Doroshewitz said.

She's impressed with the ability of the skaters, and knows the club could include a future Olympic gold medalist.

"There could be. You never know."

Kelly Brown, Kristin Doroshewitz and Jacqueline Lupinacci are looking forward to the show.

The Big 10

Commandments remain relevant in modern era, pastors say

By Arlene Funke
special writer

According to Scripture, God gave the 10 Commandments to Moses.

The commandments, told in firm language, lay down God's laws for a holy, harmonious life.

But are these edicts relevant in today's society, which worships freedom of expression and behavior? Are they still being taught?

"I feel they are very relevant," said the Rev. Mark Sommers, 34, of Livonia, pastor of the Redford Baptist Church in Redford. "This is the way God created order."

The 10 Commandments are found in chapter 20 of the Old Testament book of Exodus.

In Exodus, God had chosen Moses to lead the Jews out of Egypt, where they had been enslaved. God protected them as they wandered in the desert for 40 years, then set forth a set of rules — commandments — for the life they were to lead.

MANY PEOPLE remember the 10 Commandments as expressed in the old King James version of the Bible, with its archaic "thees, thous and thou shalt nots."

Modern editions of the Bible use less cumbersome language when outlining the 10 Commandments, which are:

1. You may worship no other God than me.
2. You may not make any idols; you must not bow to an image or worship it in any way.
3. Do not take the name of God in vain; don't use God's name irreverently.
4. Keep the Sabbath as a holy day.
5. Honor your father and mother.
6. You must not commit murder.
7. You must not commit adultery.
8. You must not steal.
9. You must not lie.
10. You must not covet your neighbor's wife, house or goods.

According to the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee, pastor of the 1,200-member First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, the heart of God's message is in the first commandment. The emphasis is on love of God, neighbor and self.

"It's absolutely number one," said Magee, 65, of Plymouth. "You have some heavy artillery in that. As far as I am concerned, we have to love ourselves probably before we can do anything in the way of understanding love of neighbor."

THE MESSAGE of the 10 Commandments is just as important today as it was thousands of years ago, in the time of Moses, according to the Rev. William Lindholm, senior pastor of Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Livonia.

"People sin, but they can be forgiven," said Lindholm, 59. "Morality grows out of practicality. You have to have some kind of standard, even if we can't always live up to it."

Teaching of morality begins early, and continues lifelong, Magee said.

"Our parents are the primary teachers," Lindholm said. "They start from day one. Things learned young are learned best."

According to Lindholm, people are daily confronted with complex moral issues dealing with sexuality, poverty, greed and crime.

"They are in the news every day, and they are great moral questions," Lindholm said.

At the 1,200-member Holy Cross, these issues are addressed in Sunday school, vacation Bible study and church-sponsored camp. They are the subject of seminars and weekly sermons.

The message is that, despite shortcomings, people can be forgiven and make a fresh start.

"When we violate the moral values, there are consequences that one pays," Lindholm said. "The Gospel gives you a new start, a new day."

BUT WHAT about all those negative "thou shalt nots"?

"We can avoid the negative connotation by stating those rules in a positive way," Lindholm said. "For example, for 'thou shalt not steal,' I would say that the high road is to be honest."

People don't always want to hear the message, said Magee.

"This isn't a generation that is open to absolutes," he said. "It is harder to remind them there are absolutes.

"The reason God gave (the 10 Commandments) to us is because God loves us and wants us to have a harmonious life with Him and our neighbors," Magee said.

Some people have been caught up in the "Magic Johnson philosophy — it is OK as long as it is safe," said Lindholm. The pastor referred to the basketball star's recent revelation that he had contracted the AIDS virus through unsafe sex.

"Nothing is safe unless it is done properly," Lindholm said.

"I think the church is always the voice in the wilderness," he added. "Without the prophets, where would we be? We are somewhat successful. Otherwise, everyone would be intolerable."

The 10 Commandments provide a backdrop for teaching about Jesus Christ, according to Sommers.

"EVERY SINGLE person has fallen short of the law in one way or another," Sommers said. "People beat up on themselves so much and feel so unworthy. We emphasize grace, forgiveness and hope, rather than condemnation."

At the 700-member Redford Baptist, there are 11 different adult classes, in addition to worship services. These classes use music, books and discussion to heighten awareness of these issues.

Children can be eager pupils as well. For example, youngsters age 5 or 6 can understand that stealing can hurt other people and themselves.

"It's to establish a feeling of fairness," Magee said. "Sometimes they don't get this teaching in the home."

Dotte Atwell, 51, of Canton is the Christian education coordinator at First Presbyterian of Plymouth, where 120 to 150 children attend weekly Sunday school classes.

"The little ones are eager — as much or more so than older ones," Atwell said. "I think we are teaching our children to live in society. If we didn't have rules, we would have chaos."

The curriculum, which is age appropriate, is provided by the denomination's headquarters in Louisville, Ky. It consists of videos, printed materials and hands-on projects. The church is developing a puppet ministry.

THE Observer & Eccentric NEWSPAPERS
HOMELINE 953-2020

Cut your own Christmas tree at farms close to home

According to legend, St. Boniface started it all in 8th-Century Germany when he cut down a tree for use in a holy celebration, a practice that has evolved into the modern-day Christmas tree.

Michiganians can continue that centuries-old tradition this year at tree farms throughout the area, according to AAA Michigan's 1991 guide to cut-your-own sites.

There is no shortage of lush trees this year. Approximately 6.5 million Christmas trees will be harvested in Michigan this season. Of this number, 1.5 million will stay in the state and the remainder shipped across the United States.

The most popular Christmas tree variety is the Scotch pine, followed by blue spruce and fir. This year, Christmas trees will average about $25.

For the fourth year, the Michigan Christmas Tree Association is operating the Michigan Snowfresh program. Trees tagged "Michigan Snowfresh" must be grown, harvested and stored in a manner that will maximize tree freshness and quality.

Christmas tree farms also offer attractions such as horse-drawn wagon rides, craft shops, holiday wreaths, refreshments and even the opportunity to meet Santa Claus.

AAA Michigan suggests that visitors planning to buy a tree at a cut-your-own tree farm:

- Check a tree's freshness by grasping a branch between the thumb and forefinger and pulling it lightly toward you. Few needles should come off if the tree is fresh. Also, an excess number of green needles on the ground around the tree indicate the tree is probably not fresh.
- Bring twine to secure the tree to the car.
- Bring a saw in case the farm doesn't supply one.
- Make a straight cut across the base of the trunk and place the tree in a pail of warm water immediately after getting home.

Tree farms in the area includes:

Counting birds is important, fun too

Timothy Nowicki

The approach of the holiday season not only foretells that Christmas is near, but that the Christmas Bird Count is near. Since 1900 when the first Christmas Bird Count was started in New York, people have been braving the elements to count birds during the holiday season.

Throughout the country, information gathered by volunteers has shown population trends for various species. It is an opportunity for volunteers to put their birding skills to use for a worthwhile cause and to have a good time.

I started participating in the Detroit Audubon Christmas Count when I was a teenager. Sergej Postupalsky was the leader of the section I joined - Section 9.

We met early in the morning at the Cranbrook Nature Nook in those days. Section 9 was at the far western edge of Oakland County and it seemed like it took hours to reach the count area.

Sergej had been assigned to this section for several years and knew several places where certain species of birds were likely to be seen. One location was in a woodlot near a lake where he frequently found red-headed woodpeckers. We found red-headed woodpeckers in this exact area several of the years I was with Sergej.

NOW I am the leader of Section 9 and I still find red-headed woodpeckers in the same woodlot. They are not the same birds seen 25 years ago, but there is something about the area which keeps their progeny there. There are few if any other places in the count area where they are found. What is it that keeps them there?

Red-headed woodpeckers are spectacular birds to see, their red hood contrasts sharply with their white belly and black back. When flushed, large white wing patches flash in flight. But their numbers have never been very great. In the late sixties and seventies their numbers peaked. This was probably due to the abundance of dead elm trees providing suitable nesting and feeding sites.

In the past few years only one or two birds are seen by all the counters in a 15-mile diameter circle. The place where we frequently find them is where they have been for at least the last 30 years. I wish I knew what made them choose that area.

Lend a helping hand.

Livonia photographer Carlos Diaz is looking for help to fund young adult photography workshops beginning next June in southwest Detroit's Mexican Town.

Diaz, an associate professor of photography at Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, hopes to increase their sense of self worth.

"I want them to perceive their living conditions as positive. They're on a dead-end road. Once you make them feel good about themselves, that allows them to see light at the end of the tunnel."

Diaz is working in conjunction with the Hispanic organization, Casa de Unidad. The 20 students will study darkroom techniques but the focus is going to be on taking photographs.

"I want them to be able to take the camera home with them at the end of the day, to be able to take a photograph of their father asleep in front of the TV. I want to get them to talk with the older members of the family: father, mother, grandfather. I want to make them feel more positive about where you live."

Costs for the 14-session workshop are projected at $10,000. Because of the expensive materials involved — camera, film, paper, chemicals — Diaz is applying for a grant from Arts Midwest. He's also contacting Kodak, Fuji and Ilford.

Another call for poets.

Poems may be entered in Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum's new Distinguished Poet Awards contest. Cash prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded, including a $500 grand prize.

The contest is free to enter. Poets may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, in any style, on any subject. The deadline to enter is Jan. 31.

Poems entered will be considered for publication in the fall edition of Treasured Poems of America, a hardcover anthology to be published in August.

New or emerging poets are urged to enter, sponsors say Poem should be sent to Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum, Inc., Dept. N, 203 Diamond St., Sistersville, W. Va. 26175.

Watercolor with theme of peace captures honor

Connie Lucas of Canton is proof positive that even if you've put your dreams on hold for a few decades, it's never too late to pursue them.

When Lucas attended Detroit MacKenzie High School, parents had the final say on what courses students took and didn't take.

"In high school, I liked art but in those days, you had to get permission (to sign up for electives)," Lucas said.

Thinking practically, Lucas' father advised her to learn bookkeeping and secretarial skills.

At age 30, Lucas said she was experiencing "a mid-life crisis, thinking that all these years I'd been doing things for my husband and kids."

Lucas added art to her life of homemaking, sewing, baking and volunteerism. "I started in adult ed, working with oils and progressing to acrylics. I ended up with watercolor and mixed media."

At 40, Lucas began taking night classes at Eastern Michigan University. Eleven years later, in 1985, she earned her bachelor's degree in fine arts. Last year, she received her master's at EMU.

NOW AN accomplished, award-winning artist and teacher, Lucas' watercolor, "Reverse Image," won an honorable mention in the Transforming Visions art show at the Swords Into Plowshares Peace Center & Gallery, one of just two galleries in the United States whose theme is peace.

The international exhibit runs through Dec. 28 at the airy, spacious Gallery to spotlight Southwest art

☐ Native American art expert will visit, 2D

By Linda Ann Chomin

NATIVE WEST hosts its second annual winter art festival featuring an exhibition of 30 acrylic paintings and numerous limited-edition prints by award-winning Cherokee artist William "Bill" Rabbit Friday-Sunday, Dec. 13-15.

The gallery is at 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

Other featured guests will be silversmith Danny Zender and internationally known trader Edmond "Bing" Crosby, an authority in dealing with American Indian art with 35 years' experience.

Zender will demonstrate his skills in Zuni-style inlay work and stone cutting. Crosby and Rabbit welcome visitors and answer questions.

Rabbit is known for his towering figures cloaked in flowing mantles that seem to merge with the earth.

Left: Silversmith Danny Zender will create stone inlay jewelry in 14K gold and sterling silver at Native West's winter art festival.

Against a Southwestern backdrop, lyrical figures mirror mountain-like projections.

Rabbit's work is inspired by his life experiences, from summer visits in Oklahoma with his Cherokee grandparents to fighting in the Army's infantry in Vietnam.

"I THINK our whole life is a learning experience. Everything I've experienced to date, everything makes an impression and you file it away," Rabbit said in an interview from his Northeastern Oklahoma home near the Western band of the Cherokee Nation.

"Once you've experienced unpleasantness, you can find value. My experience has made me a better person. I value things more than someone who never experienced these things."

Artists whose work speaks to the generations are shaped by the human condition, suffering and tragedy. Out of this comes a vision, a way of seeing the world.

"What I want a painting to do is to give pleasure to draw a person in, for that person to be mesmerized," Rabbit said. "I find enjoyment and beauty in everything I see. Without songs and visual things, we'd be in trouble. You have to have beauty."

Symphony judge to watch for intensity

By Linda Ann Chomin

When internationally recognized pianist Flavio Varani judges the Livonia Symphony Orchestra's Young Artist Competition, he'll look for an intense desire in competitors to devote everything to art much like he does.

"It is not so much facility as intensity — an intense desire," the Birmingham resident said. "The music stays. It's always with me. I'm living 100 percent life in my art. Music is the center and everything else relates to it."

Judges for the 1992 Young Artist Competition Jan. 11-12 at Madonna University in Livonia include Varani, LSO concertmaster Victoria Haltom and LSO conductor/music director Francesco DiBlasi.

Varani is artist-in-residence at Oakland University in Rochester Hills. This summer, he'll serve as artistic director of the International Academy for Advanced Chamber Music Studies in Munich, Germany.

Revived fine arts competition shaping up as a winner

Bob Sklar

AFTER A two-year hiatus, it's back, hopefully as an annual event.

Michigan Art '92, an all-media fine arts competition first held in 1988 and 1989, will return to downtown Plymouth Jan. 15-20 to coincide with the Plymouth International Ice Spectacular. A site for the competition hasn't been chosen yet.

Prize money for the juried show totals $2,000.

Plymouth Community Arts Council hopes to enlist event co-sponsorship from neighboring arts groups in Northville, Canton and Livonia. Michigan National Bank returns as a financial sponsor.

"It's a program we always wanted to do. Having a fine arts competition is my favorite project because it encourages young artists in the state," said Doris Chatterley, an arts council board member co-chairing Michigan Art '92 with Janet Campbell.

An opening reception for this Michigan art showcase will be 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 14. Public viewing will be Jan. 15-20, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

"We've been concentrating the last couple years trying to get Wilcox Mill going. With that on its way, we're hoping to now firm up and expand overall programming," said Kathy Savitskie, the arts council's executive director.

THIS WINTER, the arts council plans to kick off its capital drive to raise the $765,000 needed to convert Henry Ford I's water-powered Plymouth Plant into the Wilcox Mill Arts Center.

The council envisions a regional arts center for western Wayne County. It would contain offices, classrooms, an exhibit gallery and a rental/consignment shop. Wayne County parks now uses the 68-year-old building as a garage. The county will continue to own the property and maintain the grounds.

Savitskie calls reviving the Michigan art showcase a natural spinoff from the Wilcox Mill effort:

"A couple years ago, we knew we needed new facilities and we came into an opportunity to move into the mill. Now we've come into an opportunity to not only get ourselves into the mill, but also build something much bigger: to still be the Plymouth Community Arts Council and do programs we love but also work with other groups to do much more."

Michigan Art '89 drew 98 entries. Forty-two pieces representing 32 artists from 24 cities were chosen for display. Entrants ranged in age from 18-year-olds to retirees.

With the ice spectacular drawing hundreds of thousands of visitors, the art show provides unparalleled exposure for aspiring artists.

THIS YEAR'S show, despite a late start, still drew more than 50 entries. Quality of the art chosen for display should be high since the juror is Mary Stevenson, the Detroit Institute of Arts' highly respected assistant curator of 20th century art.

Her background is impressive: the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum, the Archives of American Art, the Smithsonian Institution and the Michigan Commission for Art in Public Places.

She'll spotlight the art of jurying an art show when she addresses a community luncheon Monday, Jan. 13 at Cafe Bon Homme, then lead a walk-through at Michigan Art '92.

In addition to prize money, the competition will offer a $250 purchase award. The award will honor a painting selected for permanent inclusion in the arts council's Art Rental Gallery. Stevenson and gallery chairwoman Therese Gall will select the award recipient.

Time will tell how neighboring arts groups react to Plymouth Community Arts Council's innovative regional pitch. Says Savitskie, "It takes time to coordinate volunteers within one community group, let alone other communities."

But if any community can forge a cultural coalition in western Wayne county, it's Plymouth.

As Penniman Showcase of Arts and Crafts owner Scott Smith, who'll oversee setup of Michigan Art '92, put it:

"Plymouth really does have a wonderful arts community: the arts council, the symphony, the museum, the galleries, the ice spectacular and soon, the Wilcox Mill Arts Center. Art truly is a great influence here."

Bob Sklar is assistant managing editor for special projects.

Rabbit's paintings are created in colors of a Southwest palette: terra cotta, sandstone, clay and earth. He uses symbolism in many of the works, interjecting buffalo heads or the imprint of a human hand from an ancient petroglyph into wispy clouds washed onto the canvas with white acrylic.

ALTHOUGH CREATED in acrylic, Rabbit's paintings use techniques learned from years spent working in different media.

"I use a variety of techniques similar to watercolor," Rabbit said. "Portions of it look like watercolor washes. Acrylic is very versatile."

His original paintings are exhibited in more than 50 galleries across the nation. Some form of image, from limited-edition prints to posters to calendars, are sold at several hundred others.

"I've always enjoyed painting. I devote a lot of time to my painting. I'm pretty disciplined. I do my eight hours and it extends into 12, many days."

Rabbit's artwork has won a long list of awards and honors. In 1983, he won the Jerome Tiger Award and the Best of Category in Trail of Tears Theme for his painting, "When My People Cried."

Trail of Tears refers to the forced removal of the Cherokee from ancestral homelands in the southeastern United States. Jerome Tiger's haunting image of an Indian brave on horseback bowed in defeat upon the Trail of Tears has become universally recognized.

"It's a way of telling a story. I try to feed the mind," Rabbit said. "It's not a canvas. It's a window into a thought process."

'What I want a painting to do is to give pleasure to draw a person in, for that person to be mesmerized.'

— Bill Rabbit

IN 1987, Rabbit was honored with a 30-year retrospective of his work at the Cherokee National Museum in Oklahoma. An Easter egg created in the same year by Rabbit for a White House Invitational is now part of a permanent collection at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington along with eggs created by Andrew Wyeth and Andy Warhol.

"I always try to be open to new things, to be creative," Rabbit said. "From the pastel pieces to the deep vibrant color of the very powerful pieces, there is variety. Not only do I like variety, but I think that the people are accustomed to variety."

In 1989, Rabbit was named Artist of the Year by the Indian Arts and Crafts Association.

"I'm very thankful for the recognition," Rabbit said, "but I've eliminated the competitive in my life. It's the time for younger artists to receive encouragement."

Artists face rejection almost daily. Over the years, Rabbit has come to know his art can't please everyone.

"Once you can accept it. If you have the courage to do whatever it takes," Rabbit said, "just do your best and be true to your feelings. Once I did that, I really started to communicate with people."

Art fest's palette — paintings, jewelry, demonstrations

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

Native West will feature three guests prominent on the Southwest art scene at its second annual winter art festival 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Friday-Sunday, Dec. 13-15 at the gallery, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

Oklahoma artist William "Bill" Rabbit, New Mexico silversmith Danny Zender and international art trader Edmond "Bing" Crosby will be on hand to meet visitors and answer questions.

Zender will demonstrate the fine art of stone cutting and Zuni-style inlay work all three days.

"Bing will be bringing an incredible selection of jewelry and will also take special orders like last year," said Becky Dodson, co-owner with husband Doug, of Native West.

Crosby, an authority on American Indian art with 35 years' experience, will bring several thousand pieces of authentic handcrafted Navajo and Zuni jewelry to the show.

He travels eight months of the year to buy art and jewelry from the American Indians in New Mexico and Arizona, then wholesales it to shops and galleries in England, France, Germany, Spain, The Netherlands, Australia, Japan and Korea, not to mention the United States.

"WE'RE BRINGING a new line of 14K gold and sterling combined. We started making it six months ago," Crosby said in an interview from his Bing Crosby's Indian Jewelry business in Albuquerque.

"So many men and women are mixing their gold and silver these days. So it can be worn comfortably in New York as well as Sante Fe."

When Crosby was growing up in the forties, fifties and early sixties, his parents owned a restaurant in Albuquerque. He watched as they traded meals for the American Indian's handcrafted wares.

"I became fascinated by their handiwork, the pottery, rugs and jewelry," Crosby said. "I always wanted to be in the Indian arts, crafts and jewelry business."

Crosby will bring traditional and contemporary styles of jewelry to the show.

"Your traditional jewelry dates back to the 1920s, '30s, '40s and early '50s. Late '50s and early '60s started getting into the contemporary but the 1970s brought contemporary styles in."

CROSBY MADE a point of saying authentic American Indian jewelry doesn't have to cost an arm and a leg.

"You don't have to spend a couple hundred or a couple thousand dollars to get a piece of handcrafted jewelry. Even in the $10, $20 and $30 price range, there is still very fine quality and craftsmanship," Crosby said.

"We'll have something for everyone in every price range and for every walk of life."

Crosby will bring handcrafted knives by American Indian artisan Ted Miller. Miller carves the handles of knives with images of the past to reflect the great history of the American Indian, his culture, his land, wildlife and his faith.

Zender has produced jewelry since age 11. He opened his first business, specializing in cast silver and stone inlaid jewelry, in 1976.

Register now for art class

Signup starts this week for a new Livonia Adult Education watercolor class that features artist V. Janus Benda of Farmington Hills.

The class will be 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Mondays beginning Jan. 20 for six weeks at Bentley Center, Livonia.

Each session will consist of lecture-demonstration followed by students working at their own pace and receiving individual instruction.

Beginning watercolorists to those who have studied for years will gain from these personalized classes.

Learning the tricks and techniques of watercolor, including handling of the materials of basic painting to the use of collage, will be explored.

Advanced painters will explore their potential and look at the strengths and weaknesses of their work.

Janus has 30 works on display in the Prairie House at Domino's Farms in Ann Arbor and quiet room at Farmington Hills Public Library, 32737 W. 12 Mile, until Dec. 31.

For class registration, call Livonia Public Schools Adult Education at 523-9277.

Artist wins accolades for watercolor gallery overlooking Grand Circus Park at 33 E. Adams in downtown Detroit.

Gilda Snowden was one of two jurors who selected Lucas' work from hundreds of entrants from Canada and southeastern Michigan.

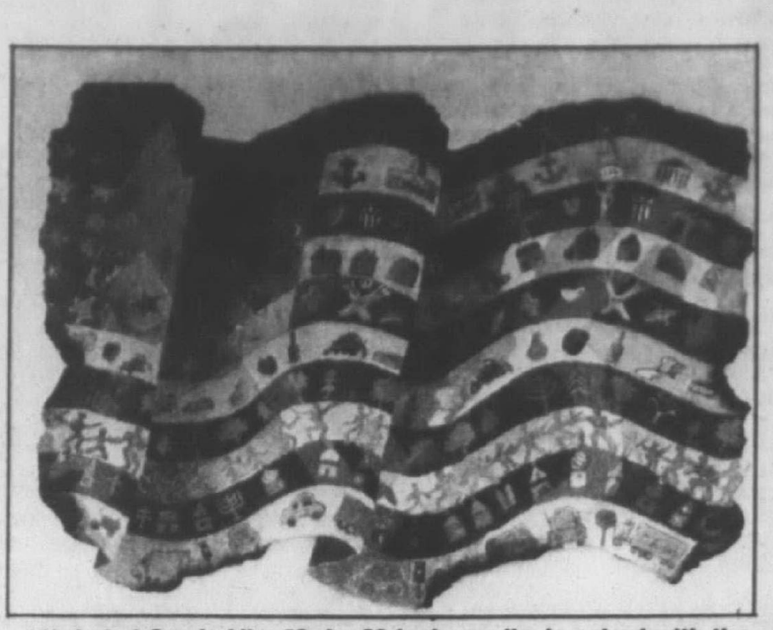
"Reverse Images" is a colorful, masterfully composed representation of the back of an American flag. A skull, clenching its teeth, peers out from among the stars in the top right corner. Side by side along each stripe are the tools of war — soldiers, tanks, bombers, battleships, bullets, cannons.

The acrylic actually is one of a two-painting series. Displayed directly above "Reverse Images" is "Unfurled Symbol."

"Unfurled Symbol" depicts a front view of an American flag. It's decorated with dancers, religious symbols, capitol buildings, corn cobs, grapes, trees, mosques and houses.

"WE CHOSE that particular piece because I felt the artist was taking a recognizable icon or symbol and manipulating it according to the dictates of the show's theme," said Snowden, who also selected sculptures of wood, metal and clay; oils; watercolors; fabric; and video.

"It reads on several different levels and I was drawn to that aspect of it as well as the commentary it made on war. I thought it was very competently crafted and as a two-part piece, they complement each other. The duality of the issue I think was being addressed. The underlying structure being the flag kind of sets the theme."



"Unfurled Symbol," a 28- by 36-inch acrylic, is paired with the award-winning "Reverse Image" at the Swords Into Plowshares Peace Center & Gallery. The reverse of "Unfurled Symbol" is the aggressive side of our country. "The symbols represent the tools of war and the grief that results," said the artist, Connie Lucas.

Lucas says her apocalyptic vision is inspired by her distress over "man's inhumanity to man. It's terrible how people treat each other. We should have more respect for our neighbors and people we live with.

"I wanted to use the flag because it is a very important in our country as a symbol of freedom," said Lucas, who teaches oil, watercolor and mixed media through the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools adult education program and the Visual Arts Association of Livonia.

"The whole idea is to turn weapons into plowshares," she said. "I've done a whole series on violence in society. How can you show peace without showing war? I'm hopeful that people will think about that and prefer peace over war."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Awardwinning artist Connie Lucas just completed the colorful and horrific "Toybox, Make Love not War." Lucas said the symbols of war were inspired by the toy soldiers, tanks and planes her three sons used to play with.

JO BRISTAH is executive secretary of the Swords Into Plowshares Peace Center & Gallery, founded by the Central United Methodist Church.

"This is the third time Connie Lucas has entered and been accepted in one of our shows on the theme 'Transforming Visions,'" Bristah said. "One of the interesting things is that she is using her art to respond intentionally to the challenge to help envision the world moving from war to peace."

Bristah said she's often asked "what art has to do with peace.

"Art is a very powerful communicator. Even if I don't understand it, it elicits a response because it does communicate. It appeals to the emotion and speaks to people," she said.

The peace center, open 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, features traveling exhibits, drama, music, poetry, a "peaceful" gift shop, outreach programs and a library. Call 965-5422.

Intensity a key: symphony judge

"I've won contests, I've lost contests," he said. "I'm difficult with myself. Artists are very honest. I have lived my whole life within the boundaries of art. It takes time to develop."

IN MAY, Varani begins a four-month concert tour with stops in Paris, Munich, Ecuador, Brazil, Venezuela, Israel and Japan.

"Every year I play in festivals," he said. "The audience has a way of sensing truth, the comfortableness of the performance. There are people who fight with it. There are people who do not fight with it, who treat the piano as an extension of themselves."

As a child prodigy at age 10, Varani toured with the Brazilian National Symphony. At 13, he went to Paris to study with the legendary Magda Tagliaferro after winning a scholarship in his native Brazil. While in Europe, he performed in France, Austria, Germany, Italy, Spain, Poland and the USSR.

At 18 in Mallorca, Spain, Varani won first prize in the Chopin International Competition. At 20, he came to the United States to study at The Juilliard School in New York City with Rosina Lhevinne and Manhattan School of Music with Arthur Balsam and Dora Zaslavsky.

Varani has made four recordings, the most recent a compact disc, "Francis Poulenc's Nocturnes," made in France by Dante. He has performed in recitals at Carnegie Hall and Lincoln Center.

PERFORMING AND teaching are his life. Varani has taught at Oakland University for 17 years.

"Teaching is a great part of any musicians life. Today, I was teaching in Portuguese a 17-year-old Brazilian student," Varani said. "I feel that all children should have piano lessons. It teaches concentration, to block out space, a time to concentrate. It teaches coordination, to coordinate body and mind. To play music is to coordinate the mental with the tips of the fingers."

Varani has a philosophy about music as an art and how it relates to history. "The beauty of art is it has two sides at all times. It's ambiguous like in history. Ambiguity is the key to understanding music and history."

For Varani, music is not simply to play the right notes in a prescribed tempo. "It's not played at such and such speed. No matter at any speed. There's no such thing," Varani said.

"The score is a map where you are going to go. It shows you where your goal is. When I sit down with score, I ask who wrote it and where was he (in history) when he wrote it: the political reasons, the religious. Stylistically, what's going to make it sound like it's our time. The difficulties, where are the problems. The most important — how I'm going to achieve it," Varani said.

"Bach is religious," Varani added. "Mozart and Haydn is the music of the people. Beethoven was an individual against the world, that makes him romantic. Performance is teaching. It's educating the audience about who the composer was, what he had in mind, how it applies today. After the composer writes the music, it's the people's music."

The Livonia Symphony Young Artist Competition offers $3,000 in prizes and a chance to perform with the orchestra in May.

Instrumentalists and pianists must be younger than 25 as of Jan. 12, 1992, vocalists younger than 30. Deadline for application is Dec. 31.

For an application or more information, call the LSO hotline: 458-6575.

Noontime music at library

All who enjoy good music are invited to attend the monthly noontime concerts hosted by the Livonia Arts Commission at the Livonia Civic Center Library. Concerts run from 12:15-1 p.m.

Admission is free, coffee is available. Brown bag lunches welcome.

Next up, on Thursday, Dec. 19, contemporary selections will be played by John Hall on guitar and Diane Littlefield on flute. Call 421-7338 for more information.

The library is in the Livonia Civic Center complex at Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Livonia orchestra unveils a magical night

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

review

Livonia Symphony Orchestra's Friday night performance of The Nutcracker was magic, the audience mesmerized by the fantasy as the wind-up dolls of the Contemporary Civic Ballet Company sprang to life in the Churchill High School auditorium.

In the capable hands of conductor Francesco DiBlasi and Royal Oak ballet company artistic director Rose Marie Floyd, the ensemble produced a fantastic version of the Tchaikovsky classic in which a wooden nutcracker becomes a prince.

Featured artists from The Joffrey Ballet, Johanna Claire Snyder as the Sugar Plum Fairy and Kyle Ahmed as the Cavalier added their strength as professional dancers to the production.

Once again this year, Alissa Getz, in the role of Clara, danced with great fluidity of movement. She was always in the part, even when not in the spotlight. That takes a tremendous amount of energy and concentration. This young dancer carries herself well. Getz's career is worth watching as her dancing could take her far.

Graceful ballerinas in brightly colored costumes floated through the Waltz of the Flowers. They were followed by a series of dynamic dances, including Spanish, Arabian, Chinese, Candy Canes, Toy Flutes and Bonbon Clowns that delighted the packed house.

And then — the Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy executed with sheer perfection.

Reflect on capturing unusual images

When light hits smooth, shiny surfaces — glass, metal and water — many light waves bounce off without becoming scattered and diffused. From the proper angle, we see these as reflected images.

Reflections surround us constantly in our everyday lives. Have you ever noticed the reflected images in the exterior glass of a modern office building, that polished oil tanker you passed on the way to work, or even a pair of sunglasses?

How about colorful, abstract reflections in an oil spill, puddles after a rain, or a breathtaking reflection across a still lake in early morning?

Reflections abound. If you tune your photographic vision their way, you'll have many marvelous opportunities to give added dimension to your photographs.

WITH BUILDING glass and metal surfaces, the reflected image will nearly always be distorted into a surreal, dreamlike quality.

Mirrors, on the other hand, provide the truest reflections. Mirror reflections can be so lifelike, it may be hard to distinguish between the actual scene and the reflected one.

Monte Nagler

A photographer can often use this effect to his advantage to produce some surprising results.

When photographing mirror reflections, study your composition carefully and get in the viewfinder only what you desire. You may even want yourself in the picture for an unusual self-portrait.

Use a small aperture to get as much depth-of-field as possible. This is necessary to keep both the reflected image and the scene surrounding the mirror in focus.

Another effect can be obtained by holding a purse-size mirror next to your lens. If the mirror is held at a right angle to the lower half of the lens, it will split the scene and you'll obtain a double image.

WATER, AS artists and photographers have long known, is the greatest source of reflection, offering a great range of photographic possibilities.

On a calm, clear morning, a body of water can become an enormous mirror, reflecting almost perfect images of clouds, mountains, trees and boats. Just after dawn is the best time to find glass-smooth water, before the warm air stirs up breezes.

Water can also fragment reflections. Slight surface undulations can result in an image with soft overtones, while pronounced ripples can produce an abstract scene or even a collage of reflected colors.

DON'T LIMIT yourself to reflections that you happen upon. You can create your own, too.

Mix up a batch of soap bubbles and you'll be surprised at the reflected pictures you'll be able to capture on film.

Or take a piece of crinkled aluminum foil and tape it to a sheet of stiff cardboard. Place brightly colored subjects in front of it and photograph the reflections in the aluminum to obtain dazzling photographic effects.

Monte Nagler is a professional photographer based in Farmington Hills.

Lakes, on a calm day, become an enormous mirror reflecting almost perfect images. Monte Nagler took this dramatic reflection early in the morning on Canada's Baffin Island.

Nagler to speak

The fourth annual Author's Luncheon will present Monte Nagler from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 11, at historic Burgh Church on Civic Center Drive and Berg Road, Southfield.

Nagler will discuss the history of his Ansel Adams and Alfred Steiglitz photograph collection, some of which he will have on display.

Admission is $10 per person for lecture and lunch, and $5 for lecture only. Call 354-4717.

● INDUSTRY

Starts Dec. 12 — The artistic "noise" of the Royal Oak design collective, Der Larm (German for "the noise"), arrives at 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac. Doors open at 7 p.m., wine tasting and hors d'oeuvres 7-9 p.m. Call 334-1999. Inspired by the German expressionists, the trio (Bill Bowen, Thomas Thewes Jr. and David Myatt) strives to apply a fine art attitude to the commercial art field, reminiscent of Neville Brody's achievements. Progressive thought and propaganda are the key terms in describing the unified design of Der Larm, whose collective experience stems from the School of the Arts Institute in Chicago, the Center for Creative Studies and Wayne State University.

● SISSON GALLERY

Through Dec. 13 — "Women Printmakers," a collection of works from the Print Consortium, on exhibit. Gallery hours 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday, until 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, at MacKenzie Fine Arts Center, Henry Ford Community College, 5101 Evergreen, Dearborn, 845-9634.

● XOCHIPILLI GALLERY

Starts Dec. 14 — Michigan artist Doug Warner will open an exhibit of his newest paintings, "Notations." Exhibit will run to Jan. 18. Reception to meet the artist 2-5 p.m. Saturday. During the past decade, Warner has explored rituals and lore expressed through universal symbols, including Navajo planetaria, aerial views of Stonehenge, the Bighorn Medicine Wheel and stellar charts. The works in the show are a series of paintings reflecting Warner's fascination with man's mysterious markings and the archetypes that make up the collective consciousness of man. Each canvas is etched with markings, built up with rope attachments and glazed with rich, vibrant hues. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 568 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 645-1905.

● O.K. HARRIS WORKS OF ART

Starts Dec. 14 — Installation piece by Tetsuji Seta will be on display through Jan. 18. The work combines sculpture of cast iron on limestone surrounded by black and white photography. Opening reception 2-5 p.m. Saturday. Seta will speak informally on his work on display. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, or Mondays by appointment, 430 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 433-3700.

These works are available as gifts of art at the gallery: Captain America portraits by Robert Berry, luminous paintings by Tom Bacher, paint samples by Jef Bourgeau, artist licenses/artist palettes by Greg Constantine, pencil box drawings by John Fawcett, seascapes by Vladimir German, still lifes by Joseph Maresca and electric sculpture by Mark Merline.

● GALLERY IV

Start Dec. 15 — "The Deco Style," which will run until Dec. 30, will feature the full array of the gallery's collections of art from the deco period, including posters, ceramics, silver and watches. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, 6447 Inkster Road, one block north of Maple in Bloomfield Hills, 932-1888.

● SISSON GALLERY

Through Dec. 13 — "Women Printmakers," a collection of works from the Print Consortium, on exhibit. Gallery hours 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday, until 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, at MacKenzie Fine Arts Center, Henry Ford Community College, 5101 Evergreen, Dearborn, 845-9634.

● ATRIUM GALLERY

Through Dec. 13 — Arizona artist Kevin Knittel: three-dimensional work reflecting nature. Also presenting watercolorist Toni Johnstone, whimsical and realistic works. Also glass, jewelry, sterling design, clay and gallery artist works. Plus holiday gifts. 113 N. Center, Northville. Hours: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday and by appointment.

● DETROIT FOCUS

Through Dec. 20 — "No Bigger Than, No More Than," a seasonal show and sale, continues. Works of art are no bigger than 12-by-12-by-12 inches, two- or three-dimensional, and are priced no more than $250. Hours noon to 6 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday, 743 Beaubien, third floor, Detroit, 962-9025. Hours extended to 10 p.m. for gallery crawl Friday, Dec. 6.

● ALICE SIMSAR GALLERY

Through Dec. 21 — "Tandem Press New Editions," featuring prints by nine artists, continues. Included are woodcuts by Gregory Amenoff, Dennis Nechvatal and Rafael Ferrer; large sculpture work and multi-colored serigraphs by Alice Aycock; lithographs by Italo Scanga and Carol Pylant; etchings and woodcuts by William Wegman; lithographs with added relief elements by Louisa Chase; and assemblages by Sam Richardson. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, closed Dec. 23 to Jan. 2, 301 N. Main, Ann Arbor, 665-4883.

● CENTER GALLERIES

Through Dec. 22 — "Focus on Faculty: a Sabbatical Exhibition" by three faculty members of the Center for Creative Studies College of Art and Design is at 15 East Kirby, Suite 107, at Woodward, Detroit. Joseph Bernard and Lester Johnson of the fine arts department and Tom Molyneaux of the industrial arts department are featured. Gallery hours: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Friday; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday-Sunday. Paid parking available inside the Park Shelton and free parking available in Center for Creative Studies parking lots. 874-1955.

● SHERRY WASHINGTON GALLERY

Through Dec. 24 — Oil and watercolor works by Richard Mayhew are on exhibit. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Friday and noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, L.B. King Building, 1274 Library at Grand River, Detroit, 961-4500.

● SWORDS INTO PLOWSHARES PEACE CENTER AND GALLERY

Through Dec. 28 — "Transforming Visions '91," an international peace art exhibit. The juried show of 64 pieces by 43 Michigan and Ontario artists uses a variety of media. At 33 E. Adams, on Grand Circus Park. Hours: 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday.

● DONNA JACOBS GALLERY LTD.

Through Dec. 28 — "Jewelry: Ancient to Modern — Everlasting Beauty: 5,000 Years of Personal Adornments" is on view. The exhibit features custom-designed jewelry of excavated and modern beads and gemstones; archeological, ethnic and neo-classical bronze, silver and gold. A selection of fine ancient objects is also on display. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 574 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 540-1600.

● RUBINER GALLERY

Through Dec. 31 — Holiday Gifts of Art continues, featuring a brightly painted steel and aluminum kinetic tabletop sculpture by California artist Brad Howe, in an edition of 25. Also, new works by Mignonette Cheng, Margarete Baum, Richard Jerzy, Nancy Thayer, Russ Thayer, Jeanne Tennent, Russell Keeter, Vicki Brett, Carol Summers, Marjorie Hecht Simon and Maceo Mitchell. Hours 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 7001 Orchard Lake Road, Suite 430A, West Bloomfield, 626-3111.

● DETROIT GALLERY OF CONTEMPORARY CRAFTS

Through Dec. 31 — Annual holiday show, "Objects of Wonder and Delight," featuring forged metal fire tool sets and accessories by John F. Graney and David Mazzarella, and painted wood furniture by Craig Carey, continues. Hours 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Friday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, 104 Fisher Building, Detroit. For extended holiday hours, call 873-7888.

● URBAN PARK

Through Dec. 31 — Urban Park, a Detroit art center, has opened in Trappers Alley. It is an exhibition space dedicated to showcasing the works of Michigan artists. Comprised of about 3,500 square feet of retail space at the east end on the third floor of the alley, Urban Park has the feel of a Soho/Greenwich Village artists market. Urban Park will participate in the Detroit Council of the Arts 1991 winter gallery crawl Friday, with an exhibit including works by more than 20 artists and craftsmen. The exhibit will remain open through December. Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 10 a.m. to midnight Friday-Saturday, noon to 7 p.m. Sunday, 508 Monroe, Detroit, 963-3357.

● SYBARIS GALLERY

Through Jan. 4 — "BEADazzled: From three-dimensional sculpture to personal adornment" continues. The show focuses attention on the myriad formal and content-related issues that stem from the 12 artists' usage and handling of beads. Hours 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 301 W. Fourth, Royal Oak, 544-3388.

How interested are you in selling your home?

Interested enough to spend a few moments and discover the best place to advertise the fact that your home is for sale?

Good. We knew you were intelligent.

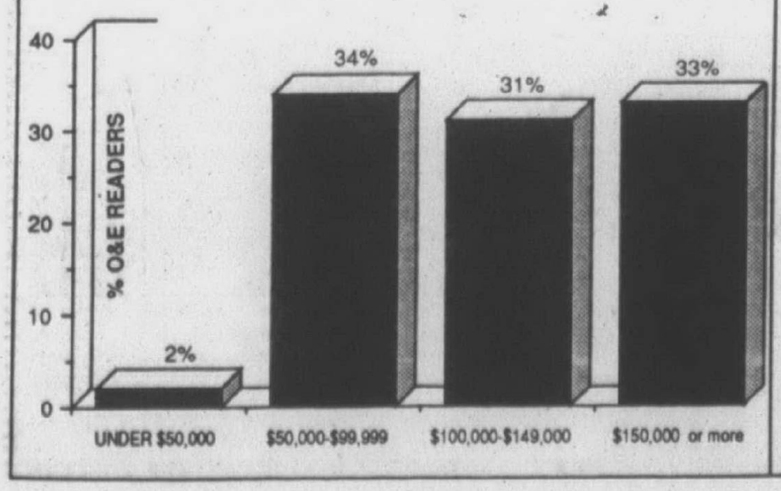
In fact, more than 40% of our readers have college degrees or better.*

And if knowlege is power, let's look at a few powerful facts: this newspaper, the one you're reading right now, reaches some of the most affluent households in Wayne and Oakland counties:

That's a median household income of more than $50,000—$10,000 more than the income of the people who don't read our newspapers.So when you advertise in your Observer & Eccentric newspapers, you not only reach thousands of smart people, you reach people with substantial incomes.

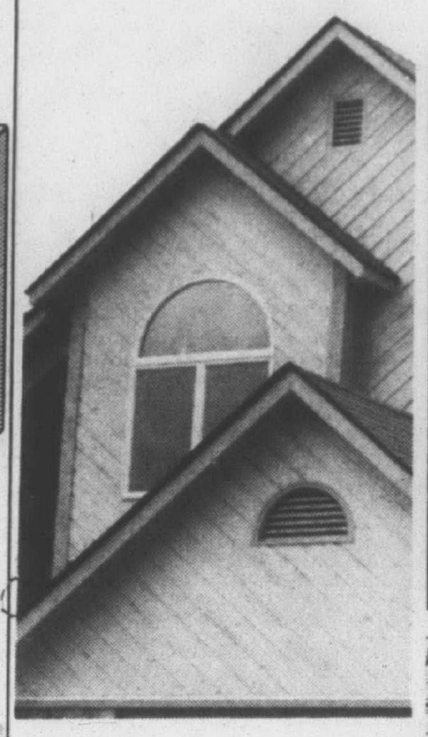
Now, that's something to smile about.

Our circulation area has 90% home ownership and look at the value of our reader's homes:



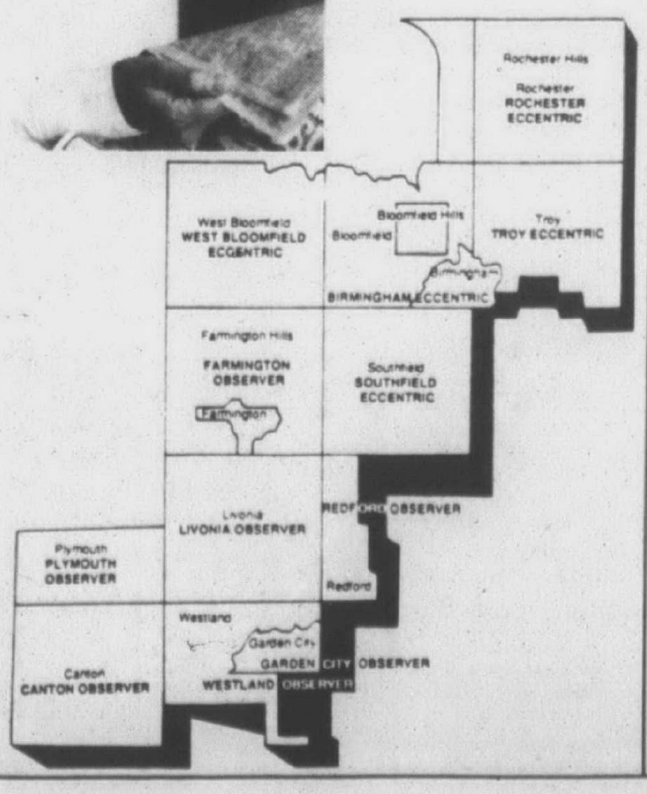
FACT: When you advertise with us you will reach 9 out of 10 adults in the Observer & Eccentric market area who have read weekly classified advertising.*

FACT: 91% of the adults in our market area who had read classified advertising in the past seven days had read it in the Observer & Eccentric*.



So, we can offer you one quarter of a million adult readers and a very rich market, what else do we have for you? How about an award-winning newspaper— a newspaper that people trust and look forward to reading? One that reaches 25 communities with important local news that's not available anywhere else.

That's us.



By the way, did you know that all those little ads in the back of this newspaper—the ones placed by people like you—are published in all 12 newspapers? Therefore, when you advertise anything from a horn to a home, you will automatically reach this huge, interested reading audience.

What else can we say? We've had years of experience in publishing newspapers and are proud of our record for successfully putting home buyers in touch with home sellers.

In fact, we've just introduced HOMELINE,* a great new way to find out about open houses simply by using your touchtone telephone.

Be sure to mention it to your Realtor® so that when it comes time to show your home, it will be described on HOMELINE.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Gulf War military may be eligible for VA loans

By Doug Funke
staff writer

You have the capacity to handle monthly mortgage payments, but don't have the cash for a down payment to buy a house.

A Veterans Administration guaranteed loan may be a way out of your quandary.

A veteran who has served on active duty and has received an honorable discharge can buy for zero money down.

By law, a veteran who finances with a VA mortgage may not pay any points charged by a lending institution for the loan. The seller, typically, or another third-party — a relative or friend of the buyer — usually pays.

Current rate on VA mortgages for up to 30 years is 8½ percent. Financial institutions here charge 1 to 2¾ points on such loans, so it pays to shop around on points and other closing costs.

A veteran can borrow up to $184,000.

"Many people in these days and times can afford homes but can't raise the down payment," said Stan Brown, VA loan guaranty officer for Michigan. "They qualify to make the payments, but not the 10, 15, 20 percent commercial banks want for a down payment. Our VA loan wouldn't run into that."

VA MORTGAGES also are assumable by subsequent buyers whether they're veterans or not.

"On purchases, VA is the greatest thing there is," said Jeffrey Marshall, a mortgage officer in the government loan department at First Federal of Michigan.

The VA closed slightly more than 4,000 mortgages in Michigan from Oct. 1, 1990 through Sept. 30, 1991, Brown said.

Marshall said his savings and loan closed four in a recent week.

Metro MLS, the home listing service of the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors, reports that the number of existing home sales currently financed through VA loans are about two-thirds higher than a year ago.

"VA loans helped fuel much of the housing boom that took place following World War II," said Allen C. King, Metro MLS president. "Many of these homeowners used the loans as a start and have continued to move up the housing ladder as their successive equity has grown.

"THERE'S NO reason more recent veterans can't enjoy the same benefit," King said.

Reservists and National Guard members who served during the Persian Gulf conflict, activated on or after Aug. 2, 1990 and who served at least 90 days, are eligible.

Jay Hughes, co-owner of Mayfair Realty in Livonia, said there is no great push for VA financing now, but he's seeing more inquiries this year than last.

Even though the law has changed to allow third parties instead of sellers to pay discount mortgage points, some sellers are reluctant to accept a purchase offer based on VA financing.

"The seller is probably looking at the bottom line — how much am I going to realize from the sale," Brown said. "Whether VA points are 1½ or 2, they (sellers) don't want to pay the costs."

Some sellers also are concerned about VA appraisals and repairs required at their expense for a deal to close.

Many of those concerns are misplaced, Hughes said.

"It's been our experience the VA has not conditioned property to any great extent. Some minor things or a severe crack in the cement they may make you replace," he said.

While veterans get some breaks in financing with a VA loan, they won't get something for nothing.

They must still pay a 1.25-percent funding fee to the VA and can be required to pay a loan origination fee up to 1 percent to the lender in addition to appraisal fees, credit reports and title insurance.

Applicants must still qualify with a lender. General guidelines — the mortgage not to exceed 28 percent of gross pay and all debt not to exceed 36 percent — apply.

Veterans can also refinance an existing VA mortgage with another VA loan. Since there's no outside seller, vets can pay the points in those cases. However, it may be cheaper to refinance with a conventional mortgage.

A couple of short forms must be completed, but no application fees are required to apply through the VA, Brown said. Realtors in transactions usually help a veteran buyer through the process.

One more thing. VA purchasers must live in the houses and not use them as investment properties.

Counseling for VA mortgage applicants is available in Suite 1100 of the McNamara Federal Building, 477 Michigan Ave., Detroit. Call 226-4277.

Insurance may not protect board members from liability condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

Our managing agent is frustrated with several board members because they fail to recognize their personal liabilily and are not willing to spend sufficient funds to build an adequate reserve and to get the bylaws amended. As a board member, what can I do to prove to them that they are running a substantial risk even though they have directors and officers liability insurance?

Have your insurance agent provide them with statistical surveys of lawsuits brought against directors and officers of condominium associations around the country that resulted in skyrocketing insurance rates. Have your association attorney address the board in regard to the potential liabilities of directors, notwithstanding the fact that they may have insurance coverage.

Also remind them that there are many instances where the insurance companies may deny coverage for various reasons and even if there is coverage, they may still be subjected to the embarrassment of having to be a party to litigation brought against them for their acts or omissions.

Consider enrolling them in a condominium operation class or other seminar that is directed toward the education of directors and officers so that they may be better informed as to their legal responsibilities and liabilities.

I am a former member of the board of directors of our condominium association and am irate at the fact that the board has covered up various deficiencies that we have in some of our buildings including rodent infiltration and termite infestation. The board apparently was concerned that if the homeowners found out about it, they would panic, and the values of the condominiums would go down. What can I do to remedy this situation? I have brought it to the attention of the board. They ignored me, so I resigned.

Presuming that the board has a responsibility to deal with the extermination of pests, it would appear that the board is remiss in discharging its responsibilities. In addition, the board's unwillingness to deal with these problems could have a deleterious effect on the safety and, therefore, the habitability of the condominium residents. I would strongly recommend that you write a letter to the board warning it of the ramifications should it fail to deal with these problems in a forthright manner. Failing same, I would seriously consider writing the members of the association to advise them that you resigned because of the failure on the part of the board to address serious issues. If that does not elicit a response, you should consider commencing legal proceedings against the association with the expectation that the board will be ordered to take whatever measures are necessary to deal with what appears to be a very serious problem.

MAKE THE MOVE NOW!!

THERE'S NO BETTER TIME TO BUY

If you've been thinking about moving from your current residence to the house of your dreams or from an apartment to a starter home, this is the time to do it.

- The selection is excellent.
- Low interest rates are available.
- There are many financing options available.

Go ahead, make the move. Now is the right time to buy a home.

NOW is the right time to Buy a Home!

Purchasing a home has always been a wise decision, but current market conditions are making it even more attractive to buy now.

EXCELLENT FINANCING IS AVAILABLE NOW

Interest rates are lower, and mortgage lenders are offering a wide variety of financing options. Low interest rates mean you can get more for your money.

- 30-year fixed mortgages are still available as well as many other financing alternatives.
- First time buyers are encouraged to purchase now through financing packages offering small down payments.

YOUR HOME IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT

Purchasing a home is the best way to build a solid financial foundation. A home not only provides you with warmth and comfort, it also serves as a secure investment.

- Today, homes in the area continue to be a wise investment.
- Equity in your home can be used as collateral, thus providing you with additional financial security.
- Home ownership provides you with a sizable tax advantage because interest paid on mortgages is fully deductible. Property taxes can also be deducted.

Making a list . . . for a holiday dream home

IF YOU'RE in the market for a new house now — or maybe just a few ideas for a remodeling or a future buy — head over to Homearama, a showcase of demonstration homes sponsored by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan.

Thirteen decorated houses, many in holiday style, will be open for public display through Dec. 22 in the Riverbridge Subdivision of Novi.

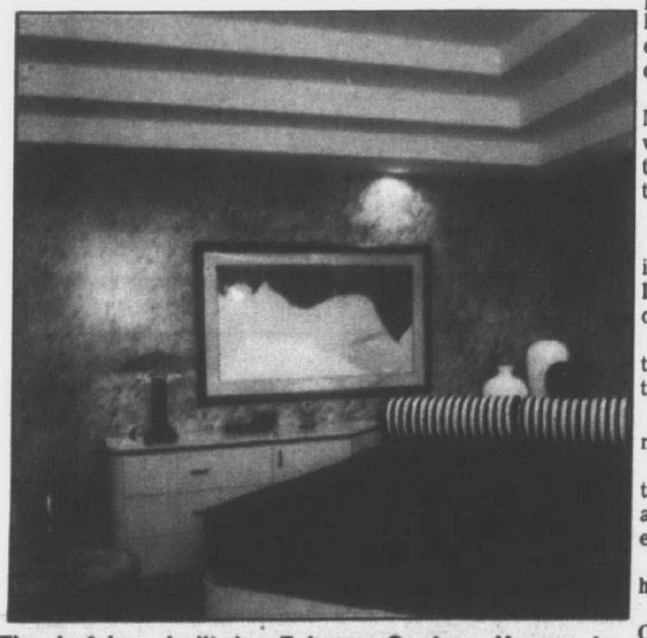
Several new builders, most with ties to Observer & Eccentric communities, have taken the challenge of providing a new house, a lot and landscaping for no more than $250,000.

For that kind of money, builders downsized to 2,560-square-feet or less. Still, there's room for creativity in the use of upstairs bridges, high ceilings, wider doorways, pillars, mirrors, open foyers and dark trim.

Several highlights jump out.

• Three upstairs bedrooms in the Morgan II model, built by Michigan Custom Homebuilders of Livonia, all have a different look. One has a large bay window, another is built in traditional rectangular fashion and the third has an irregular shape. The upstairs bridge is at the end of the hall, away from the bedrooms.

Pillars separate the dining room from the foyer.



The Landon, built by Fairway Custom Homes in Southfield, features a triple-tiered ceiling in the master bedroom.

• The Victorian Rose, a ranch built by D&J Property Development of Canton, has an octoganal shaped parlor and cherrywood custom cabinets with carved trim over the cabinets in the kitchen. Wood as an accent is carried through the house — around the ceramic tile fireplace, in lattice trim around entranceways and in the use of wood windows.

• The Landon, built by Fairway Custom Builders of Southfield, looks like a traditional colonial on the outside, but contemporary on the inside.

Black, white and red are the decor colors throughout the house. Soft lighting and a raised fireplace with black mirrors are especially attractive. The master bedroom features a triple-tiered ceiling.

The Landon has a second-floor laundry; after all, that's where the bedrooms are, as does The Baybrooke model built by Pulte Homes of Michigan.

• A second model built by Fairway for the show, the Bellevista, features a see-through fireplace looking into the great room on one side and a hearth room, a small sitting area off the kitchen, on the other.

• The Aspen II, built by Cohen Associates of West Bloomfield, uses a bold blue for the fireplace mantle and bookshelves and again around the wall near the ceiling of the family room. An open foyer and wide doorways present a more spacious look.

• The Villager built by Leo Soave of Livonia features a compact floor plan that offers a circular traffic pattern through the house from front door to den to master suite to family room to dining room to kitchen to utility room to bath then to the front door.

• The Carrington model built by Cornerstone Building of Novi features a double cathedral ceiling in the master suite with a walkout balcony, an upstairs bridge offering a view to the living area below or to the outdoors, and a stereo system throughout the house.

WHAT SHOULD you look for when you visit Homearama?

"Visitors should pay special attention to molding, some ceiling detail, window treatments, floor detail," said Dennis P. Dickstein, Homearama chairman. "These are the things they can't go somewhere else and see.

"If they're really looking for ideas, take a small spiral secretary's notebook and a couple of pens," Dickstein added. "Enjoy the decorations, enjoy the ideas, enjoy the houses."

Homearama hours are 4-10 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon-10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday through Dec. 22.

Tickets, $5 per person, are available at the site. Discount tickets, $4 and good Monday through Friday only, are available at Standard Federal Bank, Detroit Edison and Consumers Power offices.

Admission includes parking and a plan book featuring each home.

Riverbridge Subdivision can be reached by taking Roethel Court off Nine Mile Road between Meadowbrook and Novi roads.

Allow 2½-3 hours for thorough viewing.

Move to new markets stunted by lack of financing

In today's relatively weak construction environment, contractors who want to expand beyond their home market to increase project activity may find it difficult to obtain the necessary surety credit.

That's the finding of a national survey of surety bond agents conducted by Grant Thornton, a national accounting and management consulting firm with offices in Southfield.

Among the limitations imposed in the last year on both large and small contractors, geographic expansion was most commonly cited by the 337 surety agents polled. More than half of the surety agents surveyed say construction companies are not restricted from performing work beyond their traditional geographic regions.

But in a similar study conducted by Grant Thornton in 1989, this same condition for credit was mentioned by less than 5 percent of the 361 respondents.

"In the fast and furious 1980s, contractors were aggressively searching for new markets in which to do business. But without a thorough knowledge of the marketplace, the projects or the labor force, many contractors underestimated their costs and suffered major losses," said Russel Agosta, chairman of Grant Thornton's national construction group in Southfield.

"With growth in many municipalities stalled due to a saturated real estate market and limited funding for public works projects, the temptation to move into new regions is even greater today. However, the surety industry wants to ensure that the history of the past decade doesn't repeat itself in the 1990s."

ALTHOUGH PERSONAL guarantees will remain a requirement for contractors in need of surety credit, the importance has dropped slightly, the study found. The number of agents giving this response declined from 65 percent in 1989 to 56 percent this year. And nearly half of the agents surveyed say contractors will be forced to manage their debt more effectively, which was similar to the 1989 findings.

Only 12 percent of those polled believe their construction clients received no additional restrictions in the past year.

"A tight market will force more contractors to emphasize and demonstrate their companies' fiscal strength to minimize the presumption that they present a high risk," Agosta said.

As in the past, surety agents continue to recognize that proper presentation of contractors' financial statements can have a significant impact on their credit rating. As many as 93 percent consider this their most important advice to help their clients improve credit standing, a finding that's consistent with Grant Thornton's previous survey.

But the study revealed that many agents are now requiring their clients to improve the quality of their job-status reports. Two-thirds of those surveyed now recommend this to contractors.

"Sureties will continue to demand their clients' accountability throughout the life of a construction project. Even contractors perceived as having high credit capacity will be forced to comply with stiffer rules and guidelines in the next several years," Agosta said. "In leaner times neither the contractor nor the surety can afford to take unnecessary chances."

To gauge the outlook for surety credit for construction contractors, Grant Thonrton mailed questionnaires in July 1991 to 1,925 surety bond producers and received 337 back, a response rate of 18 percent. The prior survey had a 19-percent response rate. The margin of sampling error for both surveys is plus/minus 6 percent.

'With growth in many municipalities stalled due to a saturated real estate market and limited funding for public works projects, the temptation to move into new regions is even greater today.'

HOLIDAY GIFT IDEAS

Say happy holiday with Michigan goodies

By Janice Tigar-Kramer
special writer

WHAT BETTER way to say happy holidays to friends, relatives and employees than with a gift that's Michigan-made. This year, holiday gift-givers won't have to look far for gourmet food, art and novelties, all designed or made by Michiganders.

Don't miss Michigania Inc., 205 Pierce St., Birmingham, for a grand selection of art, food and giftwares representing the best Michigan has to offer. You'll find everything from American Spoon jam and plum and cranberry ketchup from Petoskey to Zender noodles and seasonings from Frankenmuth, said Nancy Tarr, store manager.

For gifts of arts and crafts, there's Detroit's Pewabic Pottery tiles starting at $25 (fairy tale series from $54) or plates and vases from $42.

Always popular at holiday time are ornaments from Hope Glass, Hope, from $6.25-$11. Or choose from a selection of glassware from Boyer Glass, Harbor Springs. Boyer's decorative paperweights are $45-$50, ornaments, $18, vases, $50, and one-of-a-kind suncatchers, $32 and up.

There are also bronze and brass sculptures by Scott Nelles, Rapid City, Don Stiles figures made of Petoskey stone and pottery from Freeland and Vestaburg.

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Michigania Inc. in downtown Birmingham has a wide selection of food, home accessories and gifts all made by Michigan artists and businesses. From top left, one of several Dale Anderson bird feeders, Stephenson; Americana Spoon jelly, Petoskey, packaged with Otis Pottery, East Jordan; "Michigan," a photo essay by Stan Osolinski; a handblown ornament from Hope Glass, Hope. From bottom left, small tile and large fairy tale tile from Pewabic Tile, Detroit; Boyer paperweight, Harbor Springs.

MICHIGANIA ALSO carries a selection of books about Michigan and by many of the state's renowned authors. There are also gift baskets with Michigan products starting at $20. Boxed cards and notes by Gwen Frostic, Benzonia, are $3.50-$5.

"People buy Michigan-made gifts because they love the state and want to promote it with a special gift. A lot of people want their gifts to be made at home," Tarr said.

Try Basket Boutique, 24782 Hathaway, Farmington Hills, for gift baskets heaped with gourmet foods and art products made in Michigan. Baskets start at $22.

"Best of Michigan Baskets" may include Mucky Duck mustard made in Sylvan Lake, al dente pasta from Whitmore Lake, Clancy's hot sauce from Ann Arbor, Monica's Cookies from Kalamazoo and gourmet pretzels from Bay City. There are also preserves, soap, mugs, fudge, peanuts, tea, barbecue sauce, relish, Vernor's and dozens of other products, all Michigan-made.

Besides food, choose a basket with candles shaped like birds, apples, hearts or flowers from Harmony Candle Co., Elsie. There's a copper maple leaf from Calumet, note pads from Dexter, aprons, totes and oven mitt maps of Michigan from Traverse City. Choose from 15 prepared baskets (even one for the health conscious) or visit Basket Boutique to select products for a custom basket.

"So many people are proud of Michigan and want to send an assortment of the state's products to relatives or friends who've moved away," said Judy Thomas, owner. "We have a customer who comes in every year to select the products for her husband's basket. It gets larger every Christmas."

Call Basket Boutique at 474-7788.

YOU WON'T have far to go for placemats, napkins, aprons and tailgate runners appliqued with local college logos.

Ruth Huber of Troy started Coordinated Products 25 years ago when she needed a job but wanted to stay home with the kids. Today, her products are sold nationwide. Besides college logo products, Huber designs Christmas stockings made of pillow ticking, quilted fabric, or white cotton with enough space to paint your own design. Stockings are $3-$10 at Bronners, Frankenmuth.

Kids' bulletin boards in 15 designs (including soccer, baseball and ballet) are $12 and up at local Hallmark stores.

Reversible totes appliqued with geese and hunt scenes are $20 at Gail's Office Supply, Birmingham.

FOR THE cat who has everything, consider UltraMouse, a 4½-inch mouse made of soft Ultrasuede stuffed with catnip and fiberfill. Mice are $7.95 each or two for $14.95.

Alice Ann Kilgore of Birmingham started UltraMouse, Ltd. six years ago after the family cat, Louis le Chat, began playing with scraps of Ultrasuede that were left at the sewing machine.

Kilgore's daughter made the first UltraMouse for Louis, which was the beginning of "a fun business that started as a joke," Kilgore said.

Kilgore's architect-husband designed a clear plastic gift box and the family was in business. Today, Ultramouse is advertised in pet magazines and sold in pet stores throughout the country.

To order Ultrasuede mice, which come in a variety of colors, write UltraMouse, Ltd., 3433 Bennington Court, Birmingham 48010.

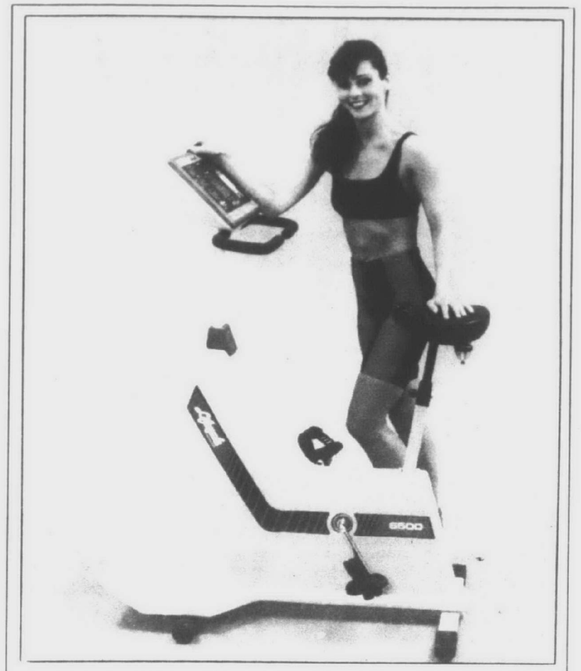
FOR THOSE who love to hate fruitcake, look for The Original Recycled Fruitcake Ornament from Lewis & Lewis, Livonia. For just $5, the recycled holiday cake comes gift boxed with a book offering 25 ways to recycle fruitcake. For example, use leftover fruitcake for pothole filler, for hand weights for ballast in your boat or for attic insulation. Get the idea?

The 3-inch circular slice of cake is pressed in acrylic for a lifetime and designed to hang on the tree or in a window as a suncatcher. And no two are exactly alike, said Diane Lewis, who started the company with her husband, Craig.

Why recycle fruitcake? "Why not?" said the innovative Diane, whose idea for the book and ornament came in the middle of the night about the time her subdivision received recycling bins.

"We're recycling everything today and everybody is conscious about the environment, so we've got to do something with all of this fruitcake," Diane said. Does she actually eat fruitcake? "I hate it!"

The Original Recycled Fruitcake Ornament is available at Silver's, Southfield, and all Jacobson's stores.



Take the health club home! Hop on the new home version of the computerized stationary bikes, preferred by health clubs, at American Exercise & Gym Equipment in Southfield, Rochester and Novi. Today's new generation of exercise bikes offers identical features to larger commercial models at a fraction of the price (from $299). Regardless of the weather outside, you can pedal in safety and comfort on the ultimate fitness convenience.

GIFT IDEAS

With the crush of the day after Thanksgiving, the busiest shopping day of the year, now past, it's time for shoppers to set their sights on the end-of-the-year holidays. This special holiday gift guide, appearing today in all 12 Observer & Eccentric newspapers, is designed to help shoppers survey some of what's on the store shelves during this gift-giving season. It offers an array of gift-giving ideas as the Christmas and New Year holidays rapidly approach. Our package includes a sampling of the latest in seasonal gifts. As with our first gift guide on Thanksgiving Day, I'm sure you'll find this special section informative and interesting, maybe even inspirational if you traditionally don't shop for gifts until late December. Happy holidays!

Assistant managing editor

ABOUT THE COVER:

'Tis the season of wonder and surprise. Lauren Hass (left), 5, of West Bloomfield and Alesha Ockerman, 6, of Garden City can only imagine what's inside their holiday gifts. Lauren's cream colored holiday dress by Sugar and Spice is tulle and satin. The bodice is trimmed with satin rosettes and beads. The dress includes a full longer skirt and pouf sleeves. Available in sizes 4-6X ($60). Alesha wears a tissue taffeta party dress in dove gray with a black velvet ruffled neckline. Taffeta bows accent the waist and velvet trims the pouf sleeves ($175). By Francoise Bouthillier in size 4-14. Matching swing cape available in black velvet with taffeta lining, $234. Both dresses at Loretta Lorton, Bloomfield Plaza, Bloomfield Township. Holiday trees by Chambers' Unicorn's Garden, Southfield.

Bob Sklar coordinated this special section with assistance from special writers Denise Lewis and Janice Tigar-Kramer. Graphics illustrator Gwen Dietrich designed the cover. O&E representatives Gigi Badalamenti and Audrey Roof coordinated advertising. Copley News Service provided copy. Direct queries to Bob Sklar, 953-2113.

Ideas to satisfy finicky kids 11-14

By Cathleen Collins Lee
special writer

THERE IS a simple, wooden African drum — and a do-it-yourself robot with sound and pressure sensors. There are wooden chess sets — and an electronic geography game.

Those are just some of your choices, both new and traditional, when you shop area specialty toy shops for the finicky 11- to 14-year-old on your holiday gift list.

Let's start with the stuff that whirrs and buzzes. One of the big educational toys this year is Geo Safari (about $100), an electronic geography game for one or two players that tests knowledge of major countries and cities. Additional packets cover science, currency and other subjects.

"The kids like playing it," said Shelley Littman, owner of Adventures in Toys in Birmingham. "And they're telling their mothers it's cool. There aren't many educational toys they say that about."

Kids might well say the same thing about MOVIT electronic robot kits. Ranging in price from $36-100, the kits allow kids to actually build a robot that draws straight lines, follows a line drawn on paper or moves around obstacles. The circuit board is already wired; kids put together the rest.

WHEN IT comes to board games, it's hard to beat Ravensburger, a German company that sells some of the most attractive looking games on the market. Their games for older kids include Master Labyrinth ($34), in which kids move through a shifting maze to get the secret ingredients to become a master magician, and Journey Through Europe ($32), which requires strategy and logic.

Aristoplay, based in Ann Arbor, also has innovative and attractive educational games. Made For Trade ($20), ages 7 to adult, brings kids back to colonial America; By Jove ($20) introduces them to Greek mythology.

Sue Kearns, co-owner of The Rainbow Shop in Plymouth, says most kids enjoy a series called I.Q. Games. Costing $9.95 a piece, the games test kids' and adults' knowledge of dinosaurs, wild animals, U.S. history, world geography and famous places.

Wrap up heirloom as a gift

By Janice Tigar-Kramer
special writer

A BRASS or iron bed frame isn't easy to wrap, but it's a gift that lasts for generations, says Rob Kessell, owner of Brass & Iron Bed, a new store in downtown Plymouth specializing in custom bed frames.

"This isn't a typical holiday gift. It's actually like giving an heirloom," Kessell said.

Brass and iron beds (including frame, headboard and footboard) are handmade by Brass Beds of Richmond, Va., and sold in Michigan exclusively at the Plymouth store. Each includes an engraved family nameplate.

Besides hand-polished brass and iron, you'll find about a dozen custom-painted finishes applied over-iron — a black onyx look and marblized finishes in several colors. There are 50 bed styles to choose from.

Kessell describes the one-of-a-kind beds as "the real McCoy — like the ones in Grandma's house."

Each bed, guaranteed to last two generations, is made to order and built with dovetail rail construction holding the head and footboard together like they originally were in the 1800s.

Iron beds start at $495 for twin size and $560 for brass.

Besides beds, Kessell carries wood bed trays, iron night tables, lamps, comforters, quilts and even nightshirts.

Handmade crafts can make nice gifts

By Janice Tigar-Kramer
special writer

LOOKING FOR an out-of-the-ordinary gift for a special someone on your holiday list? Consider a handmade item from one of many local crafters:

● STICK-AROUNDS

It took two Farmington Hills moms with six kids between them to come up with Stick-Arounds, a design-your-own sticker kit for children ages 3 and up.

Susan Dovitz and Randee Bloom developed Stick-Arounds (a great stocking stuffer), which includes two pages of stickers ready to color, cut, peel and stick any which way on two illustrations included in the package. Five versions of Stick-Arounds include basic shapes, animal shapes, beach-scene shapes, Christmas shapes and Jewish shapes.

Dovitz and Bloom designed the craft to encourage creativity, provide safe, quiet play and stimulate imagination. The craft was just given the stamp of approval by the Consumer Products Safety Commission.

Stick-Arounds, with crayons included, is $2 per package or $3 for the kit with crayons and safety scissors.

To order, call 855-7839.

● THE OLD WOODEN HOUSE

A gift from The Old Wooden House could be tomorrow's heirloom.

Woodworker Jean Payton began making country-style wood furniture for dolls, children and adults just three years ago. Using mostly pine (or hardwoods on request), she sells a complete line of furnishings to outfit a playroom or a master bedroom.

The Redford Township woodworker sells a popular child's table with two benches for $100, plus a matching stove, refrigerator, sink and hutch for $100 each. A pine doll cradle with foam bed, sheet and comforter is $45 and a child's rocking chair with cushion sells for $45. Handcrafted doll strollers and doll high chairs are $25 and $30. Complete the room with a child's ironing board and heart-shaped iron. You'll also find a line of dressed bears with furniture for just $15-$25.

Payton, who made the furniture for her grandchild's nursery, takes special orders for six-year cribs (including a canopy and mattress), kid's headboards and dressers with removable changing tables.

The full-time woodworker also sells a handsome six-foot desk in pine or oak with a roomy hutch for $750-$1,000.

After remodeling her family room, Payton, mostly a self-taught woodworker, decided no project was too big to try. "I love woodworking and I like a challenge," she said.

Call The Old Wooden House at 255-0280.

● JARY'S CLOWNS

Jary Shepard started making soft-sculptured clowns for her son, niece and nephews just five years ago.

Today, the Garden City crafter sells a complete line of clowns in three sizes wearing everything from dresses to jumpsuits. The child-proof, washable clowns, with hand-embroidered faces, yarn hair and attached clothing, sell for $13.75-$22.

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

Jary's Clowns are squeezably soft, childproof and washable. Clowns come in three sizes ($13.75-$22), plus a giant 44-inch size. Each is fully dressed and has a hand-embroidered face and yarn hair.

If you think clowns are kid's stuff, you haven't seen Shepard's 44-inch, soft sculptured, fully-dressed clown with a hat and flowers. The colossal clown — a perfect family room accent — sells for $65.

The full-time crafter also sells an ABC game and number game made of fabric and velcro. Games, for kids age 3-7, sell for $32. Call Jary's Clowns at 525-6307.

● HAND SMOCKED ITEMS

A mother-daughter business called Hand Smocked Items combines the creative sewing talents of Irma Guest, of Birmingham, and daughter Maggie Verchon, of Rochester.

Guest taught her daughter to sew as a child. Then 10 years ago, Vachon took a class in English smocking and returned the favor to Mom. Today, the pair sells English smocked clothing and accessories with geometric and picture embroidering for adults and children.

English smocking is done with a pleating machine that forms sharp, crisp folds. The seamstress, or "smocker," then applies a decorative, embroidered-like stitch on top to hold pleating together.

Dresses to child's size 10 sell for $35-$50, musical baby pillows are $35, aprons for toddlers to adults are $34-$45 and smocked Christmas ornaments are $4.50-$12.

Guest and Vachon use many of their own patterns and work with colorful fabrics, giving an age-old craft an

● J&J COUNTRY BUMPKINS

After going to arts and crafts shows for years as spectators, Judy Rizzo and Jeanne Stone said, "We can do this, too." And they did.

Two years ago, the Livonia women began selling handpainted, wood cut-outs of country figures and framed country art under the name J&J Country Bumpkins.

Colorful wood figures, from one- to 14-inches high, include rabbits, cows, pigs, Santas, pilgrims and even kids with yarn hair. Figures are $2-$16.

Framed country art done in ink and acrylic are painted on canvas, watercolor paper, brown wrap and slate. Some include whimsical, hand-written slogans printed beneath the picture, like the one on a painting of two cats: "The only self-cleaning thing in this house is the cat."

Framed art in three sizes sells for $10-$35.

"The best part of our work is that we're doing what we like to do without leaving the house," Rizzo said. Call J&J Country Bumpkins at 525-4581 or 421-1968.

● ANON-A-MOUSE

Paul and Sue Screws of Anon-a-Mouse design holiday ornaments to display year-round.

Sue Screws started making hand-shaped ornaments of low fire clay just four years ago. She shapes, paints and dips while Paul bakes sculptures in a moderate oven.

You'll find four-inch storybook character ornaments finished to a high gloss for $10-$17 and a variety of Christmas ornaments for $12 — Santa, the Chimney Sweep, Christmas Mouse and more. A large Father Christmas in a matte finish is $15. There's no charge for personalization.

Besides colorful ornaments, the Troy couple makes a large advent calendar on an oak board with an applique tree and 25 miniature ornaments. The calendar, measuring 15 by 19 inches, is $143. Call Anon-a-Mouse at 524-1335.

● BITS 'N PIECES

As children, Mary and Cathy Adams decorated Valentines with pieces of jewelry, then displayed them on the bedroom wall. Some of the smaller cards were so attractive, the sisters considered wearing them as jewelry. Today, they do.

Five years ago, Mary, of Birmingham, and Cathy, of Royal Oak, started makin· unique jewelry combining pictures, postcards and business cards with vintage jewelry under the name bits 'n pieces.

A pin made from sections of old postcards or matchbook covers is decorated with beads or charms that relate to the card's theme. The pin is glazed for durability and backs are covered in a clear film to show the card's message or postmark. They sell for $15-$45.

Pins made from business cards are personalized with charms that relate to the occupation — a money bag for a banker or glasses for an optometrist. They sell for $35.

You'll also find pins and earrings designed from antique beads, buttons and other jewels for $25. Call bits 'n pieces at 540-4206.

● FUR EVERYONE INC.

When Suzanne Kurtz and Susan Katz started their novelty fur company, they wanted to make something for everyone. Fur Everyone, Inc., a company that started last year, does just that.

Working mostly from their homes, Kurtz, of Farmington Hills, and Katz, of Cleveland, design and make over three dozen novelty fur items of mink, fox and beaver.

Pins with fox trim circling a Victorian face sell for $14.95, fur trimmed perfume bottles are $19.95 and mink headbands are $79.95.

You'll also find mink earmuffs, mink teddy bears, fur trimmed golf accessories, garters, checkbook covers, pillows and bow ties. Most items are priced $5-$80. Call Fur Everyone, Inc. at (216) 295-2289 or write P.O. Box 168, Franklin, MI 48025.

Sharpen your image when gift giving

By Helen Diane Vincent
special writer

WHEN YOUR gift list looks the same year after year — and even you become bored with it — then it's time to venture into The Somerset Collection (formerly Somerset Mall) or Twelve Oaks Mall, where you'll find a Sharper Image store.

Nowhere else, it seems, will you find such a wide assortment of unusual, yet well-designed items for recreation, travel, relaxation or fitness.

As Pattie Roschek, manager of the Sharper Image at Somerset contends, "Although we keep many items from year to year, we are also changing our line constantly in both our catalogues and retail operations to be on the cutting edge of quality items that are unique."

Thinking of how you might delight and surprise the grandfather in the family who always expects to get a conservative shirt and tie, your eye is drawn to the American Pinball machine with its authentic 1954 colors and graphics. There's never a lack of youngsters around the machine on display in the store, so you figure that not only will grandfather have fun with it when no one's looking, but he'll be amused playing the game with his grandchildren. The miniaturized pinball costs $99.95.

BILL HANSEN

This parrot-like toucan at Sharper Image is sewn of soft, cuddly plush ($99.95).

NEXT ON the list is the mother who may need a reminder that she's as sexy and glamourous as the day she was married. Instead of a sensible and predictable gift, impress her with a black bejewelled sweater, its design based on a collage by Soho artist Winnie Borg. Each limited-edition fine art sweater is priced at $299.95 and bears the artist's signature. If that doesn't fit your budget, then the black lace body stocking from Guy Laroche of Paris certainly will. It's $49.95.

The children on your list who might yawn at the thought of receiving just another toy could be engrossed by the GeoSafari electronic game that makes map lessons easy to understand while being challenged and entertained.

The map lessons ask hundreds of questions of the players about states, countries, capital cities, continents and even the solar system. The built-in computer keeps score, signals correct and incorrect answers, musically, and supplies the answer if you're stumped. GeoSafari costs $99.95. The thought of a child getting smarter while playing a game is very appealing — which might account for the fact GeoSafari is a winner of the 1989 Parents Choice Gold Award.

FOR THAT overly serious older brother or sister who feel so responsible for everyone in the family, the parrot-like toucan sewn of soft, cuddly plush will surely elicit a smile. This exotic species, with the help of four AA batteries, repeats anything you have to say. And as he talks, his wings flap and his beak moves. The talking toucan, perched on a stand, is 18 inches long with a 17-inch wingspan. It's priced at $99.95.

Worriers or stressed-out relatives on your list might also appreciate China's 700-year old antidote to stress. Since the Ming Dynasty, the Chinese have relaxed and meditated by rolling smooth metal balls in their hands. Now, the Sharper Image is packaging a set of two, beautifully ornamented enamel balls in a wooden box covered with red silk brocade for $24.95. These balls ring with a mysterious inner chime when handled and look elegant when left anywhere around the house.

Your list isn't exhausted until the husband — even if it's you — receives the gift that's out of the ordinary. Sharper Image has many choices for men of all ages and interests, but the most unexpected might be the telephone integrated into a scale model of the Kawasaki motorcycle. A flashing headlight and beep-beep horn announce your calls. Only a cord reveals this accurate model is actually a telephone that has tone/pulse dialing and last number redialing, among other features. It's $59.95.

There's a lot more at the Sharper Image for all the others on your list, from the practical Lightmaster that activates lights the moment infrared sensors detect body heat, to the zany version of an alarm clock in the shape of a chicken wearing sunglasses who clucks," "Wow-w-w! Yea-a-h! Hey, baby, wake up Come and dance with me. Wow-w-w! Yea-a-h!" when the alarm is activated. This cool bedside bird is $64.95.

Other interesting games on the market: Song Burst ($28) by Hersch and Company, requires kids to complete lyrics to songs from the '50s and '60s. Hero Quest ($25) from Milton Bradley is a dungeons and dragons type game with a dramatic-looking, three-dimensional board.

MARGIE MELLON, co-owner of Marmel Gifts and Toys in Farmington Hills, says young people of this age still enjoy personalized gifts. For what is usually a small fee, Marmel will personalize kaboodles, bulletin boards, photo albums and even stationary.

Other interesting items at Marmel: plastic or fabric cassette cases and CD holders ($18 to $25); a rainbow stamp pad that gives you your choice of colors ($11.60); and Beam and Read ($10), a light kids can hang around their necks for car travel or reading at night.

Adventures in Toys has a large selection of craft kits introducing young people to everything from beading to batiking to glass engraving. There is a small loom for $56 and a patchwork quilt for $16. The store also carries Doodle Art ($10), a series of intricately designed posters kids can color themselves.

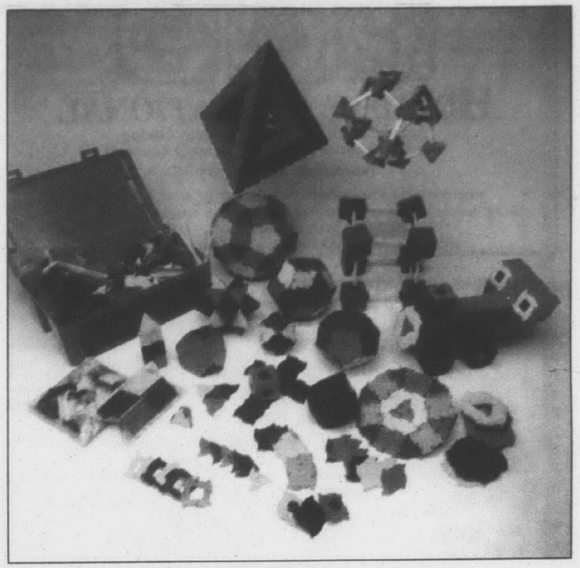
Rubber stamps also offer kids lots of creative possibilities: they can use them to make notecards, stationary and bookmarks. Your Toy Box in Troy has a good selection, along with a kit for making tasselled bookmarks.

For those who are interested in music, Your Toy Box also carries an African tongue drum ($32.95) that could suit any age, from young child to adult. Based on ancient drum styles, it is a wooden box with slits in the top. You strike it with wooden sticks to create interesting and unusual sounds.

ANOTHER TOY that has been around for centuries is the kite, and you'll find a good supply of them at Kites and Things in Plymouth. Marianne Trennepohl, co-owner of the shop, recommends the stunt kites for this age group. They range in price from $18 up to $300.

"They're two-handled, manueverable kites, and they're completely controllable," she said. "You can launch them by yourself and do loops and dives with them. It's really become a sport."

Kites and Things also carries a number of smaller airborne toys and stocking stuffers. The Woosh ($7.50), made by the makers of the Koosh Ball, moves like a Frisbee, but is flexible and bouncy. The Rocketball ($4.99) is a soft ball with an elastic loop attached; it can be launched up to 200 feet in the air. And Whitewings ($2.90 a piece, $15 for a set) is a nifty set of paper airplanes modeled on real planes.



Polydron is a set of brightly colored plastic geometric shapes that kids can use to build many three-dimensional objects. Along the way, they get hands-on experience with some of the principles of geometry and logic.

Victoria Diaz

IN ADDITION to all the wonderful children's classics, and the ever-popular Judy Blume/Beverly Cleary/Waldo/Carl/Dr. Seuss books, there are, of course, bounteous quantities of spanking-new children's books available for holiday giving each year.

Below is a list of just a few of the brand-new titles that can make the season brighter for those special kids on your list this time around:

● "Christmas Always," Peter Catalanotto (Orchard, $14.95). This is a unique Christmas story; not only does Santa Claus play a part, but the Sandman, the Tooth Fairy and old Jack Frost make appearances, too. It all begins when Katie, sent to bed on Christmas Eve, pushes loose a tooth as she tries to fall asleep and loses it in the darkness. When she climbs out of bed to search for it on the bedroom floor, what, to her wondering eyes, should appear but the Sandman, hiding right there beneath her bed! One thing leads to another and Katie experiences a memorable Christmas Eve indeed. Catalanotto's illustrations shimmer and shine like the merriest of Christmases. This is a story to read again and again. Ages 3-6.

● "Ladies and Jellybeans," Candice F. Ransom (Bradbury, $12.95). It's 1959 and timid Wendy is about to begin the third grade, definitely with mixed feelings. Her best friend has moved away, her new teacher doesn't seem to measure up to last year's and her family's financial situation is troubled. Besides that, she hates air raid drills (it's Cold War time) and dreads the polio vaccinations she has to submit to at school. But what's really, really bad is that she'll never, just never, learn cursive writing! Though the times have changed, young readers will still identify readily with Wendy's concerns about having to face unfamiliar difficulties when you're 8 years old. Mostly, though, it's Ransom's well-wrought characters that will make this such a highly appealing novel for youngsters 7-10.

● "Quiver River," David Carkeet (HarperCollins/Geringer, $14.95). For the older child (12 plus), this is a mystery, comic novel and a heartfelt story that deals with the age-old question of what "manhood" really means. Ricky and friend, Nate, spend the summer before they enter 12th grade, working as maintenance "men" around Quiver Lake. As with most 12th graders, sex is a matter of the utmost importance and the conversations that revolve around it here, while sensitively depicted, are also often very funny. This book deals with other matters important to teens, too, always in a warmhearted — but never condescending — fashion. A subplot focusing on a mysterious event within a local Indian tribe adds depth and excitement.

● "Monkey Island," Paula Fox (Orchard, $14.95). No, this is not an exotic tale set in an exotic, faraway place. In general, it's about the homeless in our American cities; in particular, it's about one member of that group, 11-year-old Clay Garrity. Deserted by his jobless father, Clay wakes up one day at the welfare hotel where he and his pregnant mother have been staying to find that she has disappeared, also. He embarks on a desperate search for her, befriending two "street people" at a homeless encampment, falling ill, moving into a foster home, and finally reuniting with his mother. Fox never resorts to sermonizing, and there is not a smidgen of sticky sentimentality or a hint of politics in this entire book. But anyone — no matter their age — who reads this remarkable, moving story will never look at the homeless in quite the same way again. Ages 10 plus.

Victoria Diaz of Livonia tracks the books industry.

Momma's recipe box rich in vintage treats

taste buds

chef Larry Janes

EVERYONE SHOULD have one. It can be wooden or maybe lucite. Mine has "El Producto" emblazoned upon it.

It must be kept in a secure location, preferably in the rear of a china cabinet or hutch, guarded by 50th anniversary plates or ashtrays made by kindergarteners. It comes out only for special occasions.

I'm talking about a recipe box. Not just any old recipe box, but in particular, momma's. The box loaded with yellowing scraps of paper, many with the original food spills from yesteryear.

Momma has two recipe boxes. There's the one she keeps on the kitchen counter with recipes she makes monthly like Aunt Phyllis' barbecued beef and her "always requested at family birthdays" homemade German Chocolate Cake.

But the other box is like a sacred vault. Filled with recipes learned from Grandma Lory and Grandma Janes. This box is filled with recipes dubbed "Sliders," "Pumpkin Praline Pie" and even an ominous one simply entitled "Muskrat."

FROM THE treasured wooden box, secreted away from momma's cabinet while she and dad were in Vegas:

BAKER'S GERMAN CHOCOLATE CAKE

4 oz. Bakers Sweet Chocolate
⅓ cup boiling water
2 cups cake flour
¾ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
3 egg yolks
¾ teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup buttermilk
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten coconut-pecan frosting (recipe follows)

Melt chocolate in boiling water. Cool. Sift flour with baking soda and salt. Cream butter. Gradually beat in sugar and continue beating until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating after each. Blend in vanilla and chocolate; mix until blended. Add flour mixture alternately with buttermilk, beating after each addition until smooth. Gently fold in egg whites.

Pour into two nine-inch pans lined on bottoms with paper. Bake at 350 degrees for about 30 minutes or until cake springs back lightly when pressed in the center. Cool in pans 15 minutes. Remove from pans and finish cooling on cake racks. Spread coconut pecan frosting between layers and over top of cake. Garnish with more pecans, if desired.

COCONUT PECAN FROSTING

1 can (5.33 oz.) evaporated milk
⅔ cup sugar
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
⅓ cup butter or margarine
¾ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup coconut
⅔ cups chopped pecans

Combine evaporated milk with sugar, egg yolks, butter and vanilla in a saucepan. Mix well. Cook and stir constantly over medium heat until mixture thickens, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat; add coconut and pecans. Beat until cool and of spreading consistency. Makes about 2 cups.

MOMMA'S FAMOUS CHOCOLATE STUFFED DATES

⅓ cup whole blanched almonds
1 package (8 oz.) whole pitted dates
sugar

Melt chocolate chips in top of a double boiler over hot, not boiling water. One at a time, drop almonds into chocolate, turning to coat. Remove to waxed paper lined cookie sheet. Allow chocolate to harden (refrigeration speeds process). Stuff dates with coated almonds, roll in sugar and keep in a tightly closed container until ready to serve.

Artist Tom Clark creates collectible gnomes from pecan shell resin. Naismith joins his friends Slam and Dunk in a game of basketball. The artist gives the wood-like characters a mood and a history by including a short story with each figure. Coins often are used in the sculpture as symbols of the character's heritage. Naismith, $40, basket $30, and Slam Dunk, $60. At Copper Cricket, Westland.

HOME ACCESSORIES, collectibles and knicknacks you won't mind dusting make thoughtful holiday gifts the entire family will enjoy year-round.

And this year, in spite of a sluggish economy, there's no end to the crop of handsome accessories, unusual collectibles and novelty gifts for the family room, play room and every place in-between.

The latest giftware — some fun, some sophisticated — was introduced to retail store buyers at the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen (MAGS) in downtown Northville last January, about the time consumers were buying up leftover gift wrap at after-holiday sales.

"By September, store buyers have ordered the last of their holiday inventory," said Jim Mills, president of MAGS, a wholesale buying center that houses 89 gift and accessory showrooms.

Strictly off-limits to the public, MAGS carries the merchandise of close to 3,000 gift-makers worldwide and is Michigan's only permanent gift mart.

Silvestri's Dakota collection, inspired by the Southwest, nature and native American art, includes classic pieces made of copper, bronze, hammered aluminum and clay. The collection of native American aristry sells for $25-$180.

THIS YEAR, buyers may notice that some gift items are hard to find in small specialty stores, which in past years had healthy holiday inventories. That's because many small retailers delayed their holiday buying in the uncertain economy, allowing larger stores to buy up supplies of some gifts and collectibles from manufacturers early on, said Mills.

"If you find what you're looking for, buy early. You may not find it again in another store," he said.

What you'll find in the marketplace this year is classic and sophisticated giftware like Silvestri's over-sized, crackle-glass vases. With or without cut or dried flowers, they reflect and play with natural light, adding sparkle and interest to any room or corner space. Clear vases in classic shapes, 12 to 25 inches high, sell for $125-$300.

"An unusual home accessory makes a great holiday gift because it's something people probably hesitate to buy for themselves," said Leza Gjonaj, owner of Goldsmith Gallery in Northville. "Most accessories are used year-round, too."

When you're shopping, you'll also see Silvestri's Return to the Classics accessories in handsome woods like mahogany and burl veneer. The group includes small wood display cabinets, mirrors, decorative sun dials and accessory book-boxes especially designed for eclectic interiors. The collection sells for $44-$135.

The Classics collection and crackle-glass vases are sold at Jacobsen's Flowers in Birmingham, Goldsmith Gallery in Northville and Aventura in Plymouth.

HARD TO believe, but nothing imitates the look of fine crystal like lucite desk accessories, picture frames, magazine stands and serving pieces by Grainware.

make stunning additions to traditional and contemporary interiors. Grainware lucite is available at Slades in Southfield, The Gift Market in Rochester and all Jacobson's stores. Prices start at $25.

For a more casual look, consider Silvestri's Dakota collection, a group of handsome accessories inspired by the Southwest, nature and native American art. The collection includes Indian-look vases, copper mirrors, Indian trays and hammered aluminum picture frames. Pieces sell for $25-$180 at How Bazaar, Livonia.

To accent a vanity or dresser, Silvestri offers four new cut-crystal and gold-tone perfume bottles with an art deco look. The collectible art glass bottles are hand-blown, original designs. Perfume bottles sell for $35 and up at Aventura in Plymouth and Traditions in Northville.

For kids on the gift list, don't miss Silvestri's fairy tale, musical water globes featuring Humpty Dumpty, Hey Diddle Diddle and Little Miss Muffet. Water globes are $35 and $37.50 At How Bazaar, Livonia.

From John Hine's studio in England comes a new collectible called The Shoemaker's Dream. As the story goes, an old shoemaker called Crispin dreams that ordinary shoes and boots become richly colored homes with elaborate detail and decoration.

Artist Jon Herbert duplicates and paints 14 of the unusual fantasy houses in a soft stone-like material called crystical. The collection sells for $29.50-$65 at Classic Gallery in Redford, Anita's Cards and Gifts in Livonia, Marion's Collections in Livonia, and The Willows in Livonia.

DELIGHT EVEN a non-collector with a finely detailed Lilliput Lane Cottage, voted "Best Figurine of Show" at the International Collectible Expo for the past two years.

Developed by artist David Tate, the miniature cottages (made largely of gypsum) duplicate the popular architectural styles of the United States, France, England, Germany, the Netherlands, Scotland and Ireland.

The group of 170 cottages includes the birthplaces of Beatrix Potter and William Shakespeare. The new American Victorian house is the group's first limited edition. Most of the houses sell for $21.50-$300 at Churchill's Fine Gifts at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, Georgia's Fine Gallery in Plymouth and The Plate Lady in Livonia.

Just when you thought they were gone for good, they're back. The original Lava Lite by Lava-Simplex is back, this time in a range of colors to highlight that unspecified mass of who-knows-what that curiously separates and multiplies at the flick of a switch. Lava Lites are available at Bon Ton Shoppes (Livonia, Farmington) and Beverly's Hallmark, Troy, for $55-$80.
