McIlhargey top spender in race

In this hotly contested election for Plymouth Township supervisor, township building director Charles McIlhargey has raised the most in campaign contributions. Contributors to his campaign included businessmen and elected officials.

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Charles McIlhargey has so far outpaced the field running for Plymouth Township supervisor in raising campaign contributions.

By the July 24 deadline for filing pre-election reports, McIlhargey had raised $15,775.

Next was Kathleen Keen-McCarthy at $10,285, Stephen Boak at $9,435 and John Stewart at $7,212.

According to McIlhargey's report, he was the biggest single contributor, paying around $700 for some campaign expenses.

Farmington Hills auto dealer Paul Bohlander contributed $500 to McIlhargey's campaign. Contributing $200 each were attorney John Breen, Mayflower Meeting House owner Ralph Lorenz and Karen Tibus, Saturn dealership manager.

Among those contributing $100 to McIlhargey's campaign were developer Robert DeMattia, U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, township clerk Esther Hulsing and trustees Abe Munfakh and Ron Griffith. Several others made contributions ranging from $50 to $150.

McIlhargey's biggest campaign expenditures included $969.04 to cater a June 2 fund-raiser, around $900 for telephone expenses related to the campaign, and $665.66 for lawn signs.

McCarthy contributed $9,000 of her own money to the campaign. Her next biggest contributors were trustee candidate Charles Curmi, $280; former township official Frank Millington, $125.

Abandoned bird thrives as member of adoptive family

By M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

When the Cunninghams were putting a new roof on their house about a month ago, they discovered under the shingles six abandoned baby birds that Erin Cunningham, 15, wanted to rescue. But before she could do that, the birds died.

Cunningham figured she'd lost her chance to become the adoptive mother of Plymouth wildlife.

Wrong.

"About a month later, I was walking home from Dairy King where I work and I saw this baby bird on the grass by the sidewalk on Harvey," she said. "It was smaller than a chicken's egg and its eyes weren't open. He had no feathers, not even pin feathers. Just light, peach skin. It was naked."

Cunningham, who will be a junior at Plymouth Canton High School this fall, heard that sheltering wild birds is illegal and thought twice about taking the bird home.

"I knew it would be a lot of work," she said. "When I got home, my mom said you better go get it, or it will die."

"That night we had a storm. I knew I couldn't wait to see if the mom came back, because it would be dead. There's this little baby bird sitting on the sidewalk. What are you going to do?"

Unsure what kind of bird it was, Cunningham brought the featherless fledgling home and placed it in a cardboard box lined with tissue pa-

Munfakh has edge in money

Longtime Plymouth Township trustee Abe Munfakh and two challengers top the field of trustee candidates in money raised for the Aug. 4 Republican primary election.

Munfakh raised $4,830 to Realtor K.C. Mueller's $4,602 and engineer Charles Curmi's $4,386, according to campaign records filed last week with the Wayne County clerk's office.

Trustee candidate Carol Davis was not required to file a campaign statement with the county, as she raised less than $1,000.

Next in money raised was Colonial Collision business manager Kay Arnold, $3,550; incumbent trustee Ron Griffith, $3,422.02; and businessman Joe Van Esley, $2,080.

Munfakh contributed $2,500 to his own campaign. Among his biggest contributions were $150 from BFI of Michigan, and $100 each from supervisor candidate Charles McIlhargey, state Rep. Georgina Goss, and developers Robert DeMattia and Michael Horowitz.

Munfakh has spent around $2,000 on campaign signs, pens, fliers and brochures.

Mueller is funding her campaign with no outside contributions. The item she's spent the most on so far is yard signs, $379.60.

Curmi contributed $3,011.25 to his campaign from his own money. His biggest contributors include Sam and Cecilia Curmi, $500. Curmi has spent $895 on a campaign mailer, $712 on campaign printing costs and $655.62 on posters and yard signs.

Arnold's contributors include township clerk candidate Denise Radtke, $100; U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, $100; Mayflower Meeting House owner Ralph Lorenz, $70; Mayflower Hotel partner Creon Smith, $50; and state Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, $35. There were no contributions over $100.

She's spent the most so far on printing, $536, and postage, $352.40.

Griffith's contributors include McIlhargey, $150; DeMattia, $100; and $50 each from township supervisor Gerald Law, township fire chief Larry Groth, clerk Esther Hulsing and supervisor candidate Kathleen Keen-McCarthy.

Griffith has spent $551.76 on campaign related bulk mail postage and $440.12 on printed visors.

Van Esley's biggest contributors include city commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury, Canton supervisor Tom Yack, and developer Michael Kojanian all $100 each.

He's spent $462 on campaign literature and $300 on campaign signs, among other expenses.

Canton Township is on the map — really

STAFF WRITER

Canton has been transformed into a little yellow square.

But don't be alarmed. It's not the result of some secret government experiment gone awry.

Canton Township has been granted a spot on the new Michigan Department of Transportation official highway map.

"We deserve it," said Cathy Johnson, a planning commissioner and community booster. "With almost 50,000 people I think we should be on the map. Now if we can get the phone company to cooperate, we might get in the phone book."

State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, is partly responsible for the change. Two years ago he introduced a bill to give the state legislature power to decide what goes on Michigan's maps.

"If I can't get the bureaucracy to move I'll hit them with a two-by-four," he said Monday. "That was the only way I could get (MDOT's) attention."

Kosteva said that just when the bill was ready to be passed, then-MDOT director Jim Pitz "called me up and said, 'Jim, we have to talk.'"

The upshot was that MDOT agreed to put any township with more than 25,000 people on the map and Kosteva forgot about the bill.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack welcomed the map listing, saying "It will make it easier for people to find Canton."

He said businesses that need deliveries have complained that drivers often can't find the community because it hasn't been listed on the map.

Landscaper uses art talents on canvas of green

BY ANNE SULLIVAN
STAFF WRITER

Creating a beautiful, ecological environment that enhances the architecture of a home is the goal of Joe Borg, owner of Borg, Ryan & Erik Landscape Design in Northville.

A former art teacher, now social studies teacher at Central Middle School, Borg ventured into the landscaping business as a high school student working a summer job. He enjoyed the work and after becoming a teacher continued landscaping as a summer job.

In 1975, he formed his own landscaping company and operates it between May and October.

"I try to create an environment that will bring visual pleasure to people from spring to fall, and into the winter," said Borg of landscaping. He feels that it is especially important in Michigan, where because of the weather, people spend a great deal of time indoors.

One of Borg's goals with his landscape design firm is to create landscaping that is not only attractive when viewed from the curb, but also attractive to the residents looking out their windows.

Borg's art background and a honeymoon trip to Japan influence his designs.

What's popular

Japanese gardens with gazebos are popular. Requests for pond and waterfall designs are on the rise.

Borg's work is mostly residential, but he has done some commercial projects. An aspect Borg likes about working in Plymouth is the different sized yards throughout the city and township, and the variety of design options the yards offer.

"I enjoy the work even in small areas, beautifying them," said Borg. "I'm fortunate to be working in Plymouth. I enjoy Plymouth because the whole area has been really maintained and people care about their yards."

Borg especially enjoys landscaping older and centennial homes, creating designs which enhance the architecture of the home. He recently completed a landscaping project at the home of Charles and Mary Adams on Penniman.

The Adams' house is English Tudor design and was built in the early 1900s. The lot is approximately 50 x 120 feet, and Borg redesigned the front, back and side yards.

The three-week project included Borg and the Adams' working together creating the design and installation.

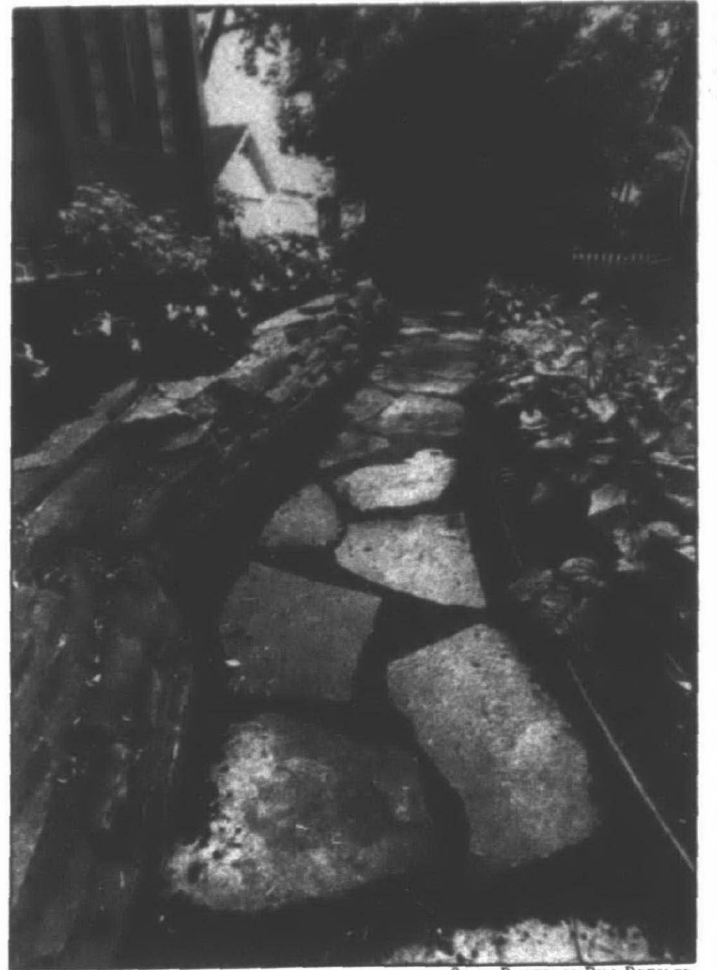

Path of beauty: Charles and Mary Adams had their backyard completely redesigned. It is now a slate path and patio surrounded by flower gardens with an array of pink and purple flowers.

Mary Adams wanted the grass out of her backyard because people frequently cut through. The back lawn was replaced with a slate patio, gardens and a slate pathway from the back yard to the front yard.

Borg said slate is popular in landscaping because of its durability and it is more aesthetically pleasing than concrete.

All his projects are a combination of his ideas and the residents' ideas.

"The people tell us what they have in mind and we discuss it," said Borg. "I usually get a feel right away when looking at a residence for what is there and what can be used or salvaged (from the current landscape). We talk through these ideas, create a design and present a full color drawing (before the work is started)."

Borg tries to create landscapes around existing structures in the yard.

For the Adams' he designed flower beds around existing old trees, including a smoke tree that was part of the original landscape.

Man arrested for driving drunk

A 29-year-old Detroit man was arrested by Plymouth police for disorderly conduct and operating a car while under the influence of liquor early July 23.

The subject was stopped by an officer after making an illegal right turn on red off Penniman onto Sheldon and crossing over the center line.

Police said the man stumbled out of the car, shoeless and unsteady. The driver alerted police that he was carrying a four-inch Smith and Wesson knife in a brown sheath on his belt.

The police officer removed it and put it on his front bumper.

Police also found a four-inch switchblade with a wooden handle between the two front seats, a marijuana pipe, and a small bag of suspected marijuana left on the dashboard and in the back seat, a five-inch trooper knife in a brown sheath.

The motorist, driving a 1989 blue Ford, smelled of intoxicants and had glassy eyes, police said.

When asked to recite the alpha bet, the suspect said he was uneducated and didn't know the alphabet. The man also said he'd played football at Plymouth Salem High School.

Asked to count from 75-93, the man began counting down, then up, losing track at 77. Counting from 93-100, he left out 95 and 96.

Four of the six tries he was given to do the finger-to-nose test, he used the wrong hand.

He blew 18 on the Breathalyzer. A reading of 10 is considered legally drunk in Michigan. Police said the man was difficult to handcuff because of his size, and because he was wearing two coats.

The suspect was transported to the police station, where he complained of pain in his wrists.

When police offered to call in medical personnel to examine him, the man swore at police. He also used profanity when asked to take another breath test.

He was placed in a jail cell without further incident.

Weeder vanishes

A 35-year-old Plymouth woman told police that sometime between July 16-24, someone entered her garage on the 1200 block of William Street and stole her gasoline-powered tan weed cutter.

The tool, purchased at Kmart, is valued at $150.

The victim's garage had been left unlocked, but other lawn tools were not taken, police said.

Phone taken

A car phone was reported missing Saturday from a station wagon parked in a driveway on Lakewood near Crestwood, according to a report filed with Plymouth Township police.

The theft was discovered at 8:45 a.m. The owner told police the car might have been left unlocked. There are no investigative leads, but the case remains open, the report stated.

Board bans smoking at high schools

BY M. B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Until now, high school students of legal age have been permitted to smoke at Centennial Educational Park in designated outside areas. No more. Lighting up will mean dark days beginning Aug. 31, according to a resolution adopted by the school board Monday night.

"There will be no possession and/or use of tobacco or tobacco-like substances in or on any district facility grounds or vehicles for students during the K-12 day from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.," the new policy says.

For now, staff will still be allowed to smoke in designated indoor areas.

Thomas Tattan, executive director of secondary education, said not enforcing a no-smoking policy "appears to be a potential legal nightmare waiting to happen."

He presented to the school board these issues and reasons for recommending the policy:

- "the health issues smoking presents for under-age students,
- "the fact that smoking for students under 18 is illegal and,
- "the double standard created with our drug-free zone signs and the tolerance of smoking on campus.

Tattan said "the cooperation and enforcement assistance from all CEP staff is essential to the success of a no-smoking policy."

"The lack of a no-smoking policy seems to open the potential for legal action against the schools and administration for not enforcing state law and maybe even future health-related problems of students and staff," he added.

"The enforcement sanctions have as their outcome the education of the students concerning the health risks involved."

After the first offense, students violating the policy will meet for an hour before or after school for five days with a health teacher who will instruct students on the hazards of tobacco use. Parents will be notified.

After the second offense, there will be one day of in-school suspension and parents will be notified. The student will be given information on the health hazards of tobacco.

The third offense will be punishable with a one-day out-of-school suspension. A parent conference will be held with the area coordinator, student and parent.

Students caught smoking a fourth time will receive a two-day, out-of-school suspension. A parent conference will be held with school authorities to determine that student's future status as a student at CEP.

A pilot no-smoking policy was launched at the beginning of this year's summer school session. There are 450 students enrolled in the summer semester and 556 students in driver education.

That's half a check mark the board can make on their list of objectives for 1992-93.

In addition to limiting smoking on school property, objectives and topics the board has drafted for itself to address include: district funding and budgeting; restructuring; negotiations; outcome-based education; high technology; the superintendent selection process; opening two new elementary schools; reviewing the developmental program; analyzing the 2010 Committee report; utilizing cable television; five-year plans; citizen feedback; curriculum; mission; policies and procedures; the Americans with Disabilities Act; inclusion for special education students and fund-raising.

But it's also a symbol for the residents, he said, adding: "We're on the map now."

Canton Community Foundation director Bill Joyner was also happy to hear the news. "Fantastic!" he said. "That's not too shabby at all. When you talk about building a community image, one way you do that is to let people know you exist. Jim Kosteva is to be given all the credit in the world for a job well done."

Joyner added that when he was a Wayne County commissioner from 1977 to 1983 the question he heard most was, "When are we going to get on the map?"

The second most popular question was, "When are my roads going to get paved?"

GOP candidates vie for U.S. House

On Tuesday, voters will select a GOP nominee for the 13th Congressional District. Six seek the party's nomination. They are Burl Adkins, R. Robert Geake, Glen Kassel, Herbert Scott, William Steele and Raymond Tanter.

The district includes Garden City, Westland, part of Livonia, city of Plymouth, and the townships of Plymouth and Canton.

Candidates were asked to provide biographical data and answer the following questions.

The winner of Tuesday's primary will face William D. Ford, the Democratic nominee, and Paul Jensen on the Tisch ticket in November.

Professional Affiliations: Associate member, American Society of Body Engineers; member, Legislative Committee, Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce.
Civic Activities: President, Michigan Back to Basics; contributing member Right to Life; member, National Rifle Association; associate member, American Legion.

4. What is your plan to restore the American economy? How will you effectively implement your plan if elected?

Our trade policy should be a "level playing field," a fair market. When countries impose unnecessary barriers on American goods making them uncompetitive we should reciprocate. We must stop tax abatements to companies that transport American jobs overseas. We must stop "dumping" and ban the bribery called lobbying.

Psychological Associations: Civic Activities: Big Brothers/Big Sisters; Boy Scouts; church school teacher; Rouge River Rescue; local Republican Party organizations and committee.

Geake

1. Why are you running?

To apply my knowledge and experience as a state senator and vice-chairman, Senate Appropriations Committee to setting priorities and balancing budgets at the federal level. To preserve and improve our job climate, availability and affordability of health care, provide superior constituent service, and restore public confidence in governments particularly Congress.

2. Are you accepting PAC money? If so, from what groups and why?

I plan to accept all legal contributions. I have signed the Common Cause Anti-Corruption pledge which provides, in part, for campaign spending limits and "New restrictions on PAC contributions: to reduce the influence of special interest PACs over government decisions and reduce the enormous advantage PAC contributions provide incumbents."

3. Do you support term limitation for the U.S. House of Representatives? Why? Why not?

No member should be permitted to serve more than 12 consecutive

Adkins

1. Why are you running?

Because we need to run our government like we do our households. Top priorities include preserving American jobs, cutting government waste, getting tough on crime, providing world class education for our children and enacting term limitation.

2. Are you accepting PAC money? If so, from what groups and why?

I have not accepted PAC contributions during the 1992 primary. I will never accept PAC money for a favor or influencing a vote in Congress.

3. Do you support term limitation for the U.S. House of Representatives? Why? Why not?

Career politicians have institutionalized corruption and made it impossible for representative government. Our Congress voted to raise their pay in the middle of the night and agreed not to use it as a campaign issue. I will vote to enact term limitations and roll back pay raises.

Student art work is on display

The art work of 80 students who participated in the Plymouth-Canton ARTAG program this summer will be on display from noon until 1:30 p.m. Friday at East Middle School in Plymouth.

Two sessions of the program were offered this summer. One ran from June 22 to July 10 and the second session began July 13 and concludes on Friday. The classes are offered to students ranging in age from 9 to 14.

At the show, a wide variety of student artwork will be on display, according to Valerie Dooley, program instructor.

ARTS

The work includes drawings, prints, photography, masks, sculptures, glazed sculptures and paintings.

Students from session one of the program whose art work will be on display are: Danny Andersen, Lisa Borkowski, Jeremy Borsos, Christine Chan, Pamela Chamberlain, Wesley Farrow, Sean Breen, Mike Haddad, Jeff Hoganson, Elizabeth Isakson, Chris Jones, Neal Raisinghani, Nathan Roeser, Nick Yadrick and Stephen Young.

Students whose art work will be on display from session two are: Brandi Bernard, Jennifer Boji, Stephanie Boji, Christine Chan, Marissa Coloma, RoseMarie Coloma, Kristy Dreffs, Sean Genrich, Lisa Hanson, Carla Howe, Amanda Humphrey, Amy Jain, Kris Jones, Jonathan Kalbasa, Cathie Kowalski, David Kowalski, Christopher LaFond, Amanda Linna, Jessica Linna, Greg O'Neill, Joshua Pinion, Stephen Ponte, Colin Salano, Claudia Sell, Anna Sidor, Cynthia Stabnick, Elise Stabnick and Matthew Taylor.

Also displaying their work will be student assistants David Chan, Shannon Green and Betsy George.

years in one house. My opponent, Bill Ford, is in his 28th year. His seniority has not helped Michigan. He is part of the liberal, tax-and-spend "leadership" in Congress which has created the mess we are in.

4. What is your plan to restore the American economy? How will you effectively implement your plan if elected?

Economic recovery requires reduced federal spending and increasing exports rather than enacting laws to reduce imports. We should require a balanced budget and give the president line item veto power. Reduce defense spending and re-examine all foreign aid commitments. Use the savings to promote job growth and reduce the deficit.

1. Why are you running?

Because I am disturbed with what is coming out of Washington. I want to do something about it.

2. Are you accepting PAC money? If so, from what groups and why?

Presently I am not accepting any endorsements, it is my belief that anyone that does is selling his or her soul to the devil. How can you be true to your constituency if you're accepting heavy donations from lobbyist and PAC groups?

3. Do you support term limitation for the U.S. House of Representatives? Why? Why not?

No, because you are sending them direct to the lobbyist and PAC.

4. What is your plan to restore the American economy? How will you effectively implement your plan if elected?

One of the first things that I will do is to advise all Americans to buy American products, then ask the administration to live within a balanced budget and enforce it. I will announce the whole program after the primary election.

1. Why are you running?

I believe we need to change the course of Congress. The confidence of the American people in their representatives has never been lower. A reform movement has begun to take place in Congress, and I feel I can make a contribution toward those changes.

2. Are you accepting PAC money? If so, from what groups and why?

Yes. I do, however, have guidelines that will be followed to control these PAC monies. If after careful consideration of the basic philosophy of the PAC organization and I find that fundamentally we agree I will accept their support.

3. Do you support term limitation for the U.S. House of Representatives? Why? Why not?

Yes. New ideas and enthusiasm very often create changes. Fresh personalities would help to formulate those changes that are needed. Many have been elected with a vision for change in mind only to be disillusioned by the bureaucracy encountered in our government. I believe term limitations would begin to address this problem.

4. What is your plan to restore the American economy? How will you effectively implement your plan if elected?

Number one problem is the federal budget deficit. In the near future this problem will cripple America's economy. I believe we need to adopt a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution. All new programs and legislation in Congress will then need to be evaluated keeping this goal in mind.

Candidates vie for 3 seats on circuit court bench

Twelve candidates are vying for three seats on the Wayne Circuit Court bench. Voters may vote for three in the Aug. 4 primary. The top six vote-getters will compete in the November general election.

Circuit court judges generally decide civil suits in Wayne County. Though they hear some criminal cases, most criminal cases are handled through Detroit Recorder's Court.

What follows is a response to an Observer Newspapers questionnaire from 11 of the 12 candidates. Candidate Robert Costello did not respond.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

I have participated in at least 18 trials since being assigned to the forfeiture section (civil practice) in the prosecutor's office. I am familiar with the rules of evidence and the Michigan Court Rules. I have participated in at least 70 jury trials in Recorder's Court (felony cases) and Wayne County Circuit Court, and probably twice that many as bench trials.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

The case that most sticks out in my mind involved James Waibel as the drunken driver of a car that overtook a vehicle being driven by a 16-year-old girl who had just dropped off her girlfriend and was returning home. Waibel's car smashed into the car being driven by Lisa Lincoln. This case personified the effects of substance abuse on the innocents of society. Lisa's parents were devastated by what happened, but they were patient and understanding enough to watch the justice system take its course, resulting in Waibel's conviction and sentence to a maximum sentence of 10-15 years.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

Neither. I believe that many of our judges lack intellectual maturity and believe that they are entitled to rule by judicial fiat. I would give the constitution and statutes reasonable construction-sometimes it may require a strict construction, other times it may require adding to, or deleting a requirement from a statute. I believe that our appellate courts are far too eager to strike down or engraft new requirements onto many statutes dealing with criminal procedure and criminal law.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

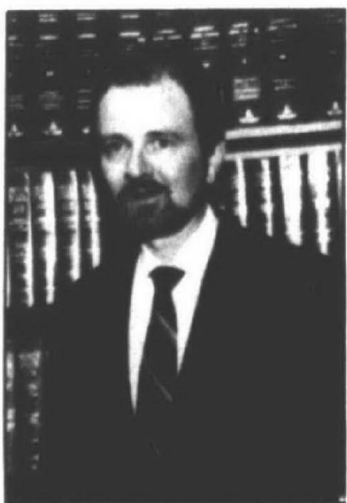

In my 11 years as an attorney, a substantial part of my litigation practice has been in Wayne County Circuit Court. In my first six years of practice, virtually all my cases were pending in Wayne County. More recently, 40 percent to 60 percent of litigated matters have been in Wayne County.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

All litigations involve issues and determinations which are of great urgency and concern to the litigants. If the question was more limited i.e. which case involved the most money, I would attempt an answer, but no one case is more "significant" than any other in my view.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

I dislike labels. I believe that a circuit court judge must apply the law as it is written and as established by precedent. Judicial legislation, especially at the circuit court level, is destabilizing and in my opinion encourages litigation. Certainty in the law and its application is of great importance.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

Litigation of all types of matters, primarily commercial litigation, but also the full gamut of other matters such as divorce, securities violations, auto negligence, breach of contract, medical malpractice and trademark violations.

Eighteen years with a bank legal department, several law firms, as a sole practitioner, and as a section head in one of Michigan's largest firms.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

Edward Spisak vs. City of Westland, Wayne Bank, Charles Forbes, and Joseph Thomas.

Claimed damages were $7.5; one deposition lasted 11 days and involved hiring a retired Wayne County Judge to sit through several days of deposition as moderator.

The amount of diligence and hard work along with cooperation among defense counsel provided the greatest result and job satisfaction for me.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

I consider myself moderate in most respects, but I do not foresee myself becoming a judicial activist. I believe that the parties should have control of their litigation, and the judge should have only limited involvement in dispute resolution from the point of decision making on the questions presented. Judges should limit their role by listening carefully to the parties to determine what the parties are really saying are the issues.

It is inappropriate for the court to usurp the Legislature.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

I have tried both jury and bench matters in the Wayne Circuit Court ranging from paternity resolution cases through major felony criminal cases.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

While I have not been in a position to make money off the trials I have handled, the most significant case was a criminal case that arose out of the killing of a young man in his home in Lincoln Park. It was important because many of his classmates attended the trial along with his family. I hope the classmates of the deceased and the defendant learned from the process that there are other ways in which to settle matters than shooting an unarmed person when an individual feels his reputation or personal "picture" to others has been diminished. People v Jesus Castillo. Additionally, the jury was so varied in age, education and occupation that it made an impression on both the young classmates and the parents of the deceased and the defendant.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

As a judge, it is my job to apply the laws, not to legislate.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

I currently work in circuit court as an assistant prosecuting attorney. I have tried many felony cases as well as civil cases in circuit court. I was chief of the drug forfeiture unit where we took away houses, boats, cars, trailers and things of value from drug dealers and put the proceeds back into drug law enforcement. I worked as both a circuit court law clerk and a recorder's court law clerk. I was also a real estate law instructor.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

One criminal sexual conduct case that I tried approximately three years ago still remains significant to me. After the defendant was convicted for committing a very brutal rape, the jurors wrote a letter to the victim praising her for coming forward to recount the dreadful event to perfect strangers in court. Because of their compassion and interest in the case, they came back a month later for the sentence.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

I believe that I would fall somewhere in the middle. I am, however, least comfortable with being considered a strict constructionist because that term seems to connote a slavish devotion to words without appreciating the spirit of the constitution.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

I served as a visiting judge in the Wayne County Circuit Court for an Accelerated Case Disposition Program in 1986. I practiced in that court as a lawyer from 1977-1982. I heard cases remanded from the Wayne County Circuit Court to the 36th District Court as a 36th District Court Judge. Many of the cases on the civil docket in the district court are similar to those filed in Circuit Court.

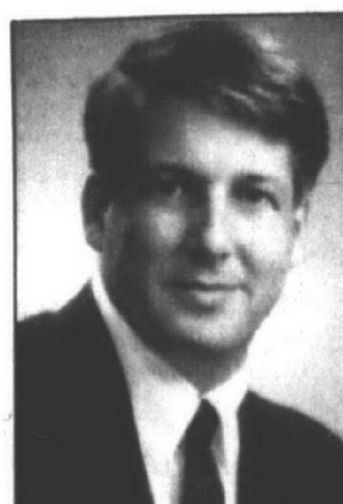

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

In People vs. Mitchell, Martin and Hobson, a criminal case (murder), I learned a great deal about judicial temperament and how to conduct a trial with attorneys whose lawyering styles clashed.

In a civil case in district court (remanded) I learned a lot about libel and slander and assessing case value.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

I believe there is some of the strict constructionist and the judicial activist in me which I hope is what the people are looking for in a judge. That is to say that there are some things about the law which call for broad interpretation and application and other things that for the system to work require strict adherence.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

My practice involves the discovery process and the litigation of cases in a number of jurisdictions. I have been involved in the trial and/or discovery process of hundreds of circuit court cases or cases pending in comparable jurisdictions. As a member of my firm's professional liability section, I have specialized in the trial of complex architect, engineer and construction cases. I have litigated 12 or more plaintiff's cases. I serve as an assistant prosecutor and assistant city attorney for the city of Northville handling civil and criminal matters. I have also represented clients in domestic, corporate, criminal defense and probate matters.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

Detroit Science Center v Schminna, Woodhaven School District v Harley Ellington Pierce Yee, Stribling v Detroit Free Press, Miele v Detroit Free Press. All of these cases involved difficult facts and complex legal issues. In each case I believe that justice was done by the courts.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

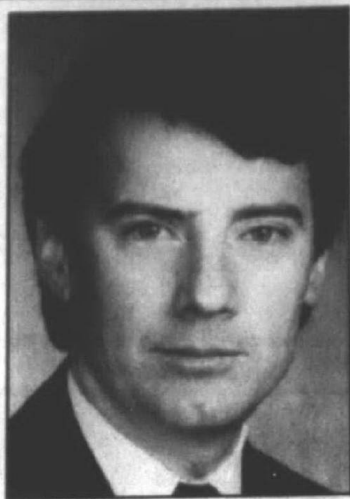

I would consider myself to be a strict constructionist. A judge has the obligation to exercise judgment and may not substitute his or her own personal pleasure in place of what is written in the constitution or in the constitutional intentions of the legislature embodied in statute.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

I have been a trial attorney for 12 years at all levels of Michigan Courts and U.S. District Courts. As Special Assistant Attorney General I have tried countless cases in circuit courts in lower Michigan, Wayne County, Lapeer, Oakland, Ingham, Washtenaw, Lenawee to name a few. My entire career has been as a litigator of cases.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives — use any criteria you wish).

One of the most significant cases I have had was Morrell v. Providence Hospital. The case was tried in District Court, appealed to Circuit Court, Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court. It was a complicated insurance issue which could have cost consumers extremely high increases in premiums as well as increased risks for the insurance industry. The case gathered attention across the nation. Many amicus briefs were filed. The Supreme Court ruled as I had argued and the jurisprudence of the state was significantly developed in insurance law.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

As a member of the circuit bench I would have to be a strict constructionist. The circuit court is the trial level court. Judges of the circuit are obligated to follow the case law and interpretations of the Michigan Court of Appeals and Michigan and U.S. Supreme Courts. If a case comes before me as one of absolute first impression, my obligation is to give a reasonable interpretation of the law and protect the rights and equities of the parties.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

In the Wayne Circuit Court, I served as an assistant prosecuting attorney in the felony trial division prosecuting drug dealers, murderers, and other major felons for several years. I am a trial lawyer performing a general practice including contracts, personal injury, domestic relations and tort law in the Circuit Court.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

While I have prosecuted drug dealers and murderers and put them in prison forever, and received substantial verdicts for clients, the most gratifying case was a public service, wherein an indigent mother and her three children were protected from wrongful eviction from their home into the street through judicial process.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

Realist. The function of the court is to apply, not create, law. Law may be legitimately modified by cases, but no judge has the right to usurp granted constitutional authority and substitute his or her judgment for legal reasoning, thereby demeaning the judicial process and debasing the office of judge.

1. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

I have argued appeals from the district courts, and administrative agencies, divorces, quit of title to real estate, wrongful death suit, felony criminal matters, breach of contract, and other civil law suits. Representation has included preparing brief, presenting oral arguments, and trials.

2. What is the most significant case you ever tried? (Significant in terms of learned the most, made the most money, established case law, changed lives - use any criteria you wish).

I believe the most significant case in my career was the case I decided not to try. As a partner of the law firm of Reid & Thomas, I was a tenant in the now defunct Book Cadillac Hotel Office Complex. After about one year of occupancy the building's owner filed bankruptcy and demanded that all tenants vacate the building with less than 10 days notice.

Representing the law firm, I obtained a temporary injunction against the eviction from the Wayne County Circuit Court. The question of the legality of the eviction addressing the rights of tenants under the state landlord tenant law as related to the rights of the landlord under the bankruptcy law was to be tried in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of Michigan.

In the early 1980's several Michigan cities were experimenting with local rent control laws. The economy in southeastern Michigan was only beginning to make a recovery. Investors were taking a new interest in building condominiums. Concerned that the balance of landlord tenant rights inherent in the Michigan Summary Proceedings Act and local rent increase control ordinances may become null under bankruptcy law I elected not pursue the legal issue.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist? Please explain.

It is the role of the judiciary to interpret, not create the law. Only by strict construction of the codified law does the judiciary remain within the realm of power granted to it by the citizenry. The balance of power created by the trilateral division of governmental functions is only preserved by the recognition and adherence to the principal of separation of powers. It is the duty of the judiciary to interpret and apply the law in a manner which will provide for a fair, reasonable, and legally permissible result.

Reps seek to restore tough drug dealer penalties

Legislators are working to correct what they see as the damage the Michigan Supreme Court did to the "drug lifer" law. They also want stiffer penalties for marijuana usage.

The high court recently declared that sending a person to prison for life for dealing in 650 grams (1.4 pounds) of cocaine or heroin violated Michigan's Constitution's restriction against "cruel or unusual punishment."

The chief problem: Under the court's ruling, a person convicted of dealing 650 grams can ask for parole in 10 years while dealers in 226 to 650 grams must serve at least 20 years.

"The court seemed to be legislating — quite disappointingly," Jackson County Prosecutor Joe Filip told a state Senate subcommittee Tuesday.

Filip endorsed Senate Bill 1042 that would make a dealer in 650 grams eligible for parole only after serving 30 years in prison.

Sponsor is Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, chairman of the Senate Family Law, Criminal Law and Corrections Committee.

To critics who say prisons are too expensive, Filip, a two-term prosecutor, replied, "Sending 'em to prison is a whole lot cheaper than keeping 'em on the streets."

Michigan's drug lifer law, with no hope of parole, is considered to be the toughest in the nation. While it was supported by Oakland's Richard Thompson and other prosecutors, corrections officials consider it too harsh because it gives convicts "no light at the end of the tunnel" — no incentive to straighten out — and fails to catch true drug "kingpins."

The bill is part of a package of nearly 20 bills in several committees of the Michigan Legislature supported by Gov. John Engler and his drug czar.

As of mid-June, Michigan had 30 convicts serving life sentences for possession and 95 for serving life for delivery, manufacture and intent to deliver.

Sen. Nick Smith, R-Addison, asked committee support for his bills to step up penalties for marijuana possession.

"The maximum penalty for having a semi-truckload of marijuana is $2,000 or four years," Smith said.

"It becomes a good risk for criminals transporting large amounts."

His bill would escalate the pot penalty to five years for 4.5 kilograms, 10 years for 4.5 to 45 kilograms and 20 years for 45 kilograms (100 pounds) or more.

Drug czar Robert Peterson endorsed them, saying drivers of heavy trucks involved in accidents are as likely to have pot in their systems as alcohol.

McNamara is named 'MVP'

Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara has been named winner of the coveted "most valuable public official award" (MVPO) for 1992 by City & State, a national business newspaper for state and local officials which is published by Crain Communications.

Each year, City & State selects six public officials, all at different levels of government, for the award. McNamara was chosen out of a list of 127 candidates who were submitted by other government officials and City & State staffers, said Editor Ellen Shubart, who chaired the selection committee.

According to Shubart, McNamara was selected as MVPO among government managers at the county level for his initiatives in economic development and the revitalization of Wayne County. Among his accomplishments:

- Upgrading of Wayne County's bond rating from junk bond to investment grade level.
- Creating a Department of Jobs & Economic Development to help improve the county's business climate.
- Passing five straight balanced budgets (including some modest surpluses) and a steadily increasing bond rating.

1. Why are you running?
Because I believe our nation's economy is in serious trouble and I'm the only candidate with a background in and a knowledge of economics. We must solve the structural problems in our economy and this requires a good understanding of economics.

2. Are you accepting PAC money? If so, from what groups and why?
No. My policy is to accept no PAC contributions. I intend to remain independent of undue influence from special interest groups.

3. Do you support term limitation for the U.S. House of Representatives? Why? Why not?
I believe voters should use the ballot box to get rid of congressmen they believe have been in office too long.

4. What is your plan to restore the American economy? How will you effectively implement your plan if elected?

Increase investments of capital in the private sector by instituting a system of federal consumption taxes (value added tax and a government goods and services tax) and eliminating federal income, capital gains and corporate profits taxes. Also, balance the federal budget to reduce the need for federal borrowing and allow the money it would otherwise have needed to borrow to be available for investment in the private sector.

1. Why are you running?
I run to give growth a chance. We need a Congress that will enact programs which will improve our economy. I run to give choice a chance. Choice in public health would leave painful decisions about abortion in the hands of private citizens rather than with government bureaucrats.

2. Are you accepting PAC money? If so, from what groups and why?

My campaign has received a $6 donation in kind from GOPAC for unsolicited information. Otherwise, I am not actively seeking PAC money.

3. Do you support term limitation for the U.S. House of Representatives? Why? Why not?

In order to keep comfortable, career politicians out of our Congress, I support term limitations. Four terms for members of the House of Representatives and two terms for U.S. Senators would be a good fit with the two term limit for the president.

4. What is your plan to restore the American economy. How will you effectively implement your plan if elected?

Implement these programs: 1) "Car mortgages," i.e. tax deductible consumer loans. 2) Five percent tax credit for first-time home buyers. 3) For Americans over the ages of 55, an increase in the "untaxable" gain from $125,000 to $155,000 from the sale of their houses.

Voters: No ticket-splitting in Tuesday primary

Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on election day, Tuesday, Aug. 4. Voters are reminded that they may vote in only one party primary. Voters may not split tickets in a primary. To do so will spoil the ballot. For example, those who wish to vote in a local Republican or state House race, may not vote in a Democratic primary for county sheriff or county commission.

All voters may cast ballots in non-partisan races for various courts and the Wayne County millage proposal. If you have questions, call your local clerk's office before election day.

Aloha

The Little Professor on the Park book store will host author Mark Brown 8-9 p.m. Friday. He is author of The Puna Kahuna, the latest in his Hawaiian mystery series. The books combine an exotic setting — the big island of Hawaii — and a crafty detective with the customs, folklore and mythology of the Hawaiian people. The Puna Kahuna deals with a controversial drilling project in the rain forest in the Puna district of Hawaii, the last lowland rain forest in the United States.

Blame it on Freon

Joe Russel, the city's solid waste coordinator, announces that appliances containing freon — including refrigerators, freezers, water coolers and air conditioners — can no longer be collected at the curb. Such dumping is prohibited under the 1990 Federal Clean Air Act, which states that as of July 1 the release of freon during servicing, maintenance and disposal of refrigeration and air conditioning equipment is prohibited. An item can only be collected if freon has been removed by a certified technician and the certification is placed on the item. Residents with questions can call Russel at 455-1392.

Crossing renovation

After talking about fixing the bumpy railroad crossing at Main Street for 14 years, work on a rubberized crossing will likely happen this year, said city engineer Ken West. West said sometime this week, the city will contribute $28,600 to the $155,000 project. The federal government is coming through with a grant to cover most of the project cost, with the city to contribute an additional $2,400. Overhead flashing signals will be built over the roadway, as part of the project.

Music festival will encore in Plymouth

The strains of blues, rock, jazz and country and western music will be floating through the air on Aug. 7-9 when the Plymouth Music Celebration returns. Food events are also on tap for the event's return to Kellogg Park.

BY KEVIN BROWN

The Plymouth Music Celebration is back.

Inaugurated last year, the festival returns Aug. 7-9 with blues, kids acts, rock, jazz, and country music.

This year, there will be no tribute to Elvis show, and no elegant picnic, as was last year.

But Friday is "Blues in the Park" night, Saturday is "Family Fun Day" and Sunday features a "W-4-FM Country Music Festival" and barbecue.

These events are scheduled for Kellogg Park, as are rock and jazz bands Saturday evening.

The Plymouth Music Celebration also features food events: "A Taste of Plymouth," from 5-9 p.m. Friday at The Gathering northeast of Kellogg Park; Mama Mucci's Italian buffet dinner from 5-9 p.m. Saturday; and a barbecue on Sunday.

"We've got some of the best restaurants in town participating in the taste festival," said promoter Mike Watts.

Watts said that eventually he hopes to get enough sponsors to draw nationally known entertainment.

But with the festival only in its second year, "It'll take time," said publicity director Kelle Morse.

One top regional blues act, the Legendary Blues Band, performs Friday. The group features Willie Smith, former drummer with blues great Muddy Waters.

The festival also features some top local blues and country bands. On Friday, the Motor City Blues Project plays from 5-6 p.m. The Chiesel Brothers featuring Thornetta Davis play from 6:15-7:15, followed by the James Wailin Blues Band from 7:30-8:30 and the Legendary Blues Band from 8:30-10.

Saturday is Observer and Eccentric newspapers Family Fun Day, in association with CIMX-FM, Repeat The Beat and the University of Michigan Health Centers.

Livonia bars township firm's tax break

The Livonia City Council Wednesday denied a transfer of employment request for Olin Corp., pulling a tax break away from Olin's new landlord in Plymouth Township. The chemical company moved a portion of its operations from Waco Court to the Plymouth Industrial Center on Eckles Road last December. The council voted 4-3 to deny the request from Olin and Premier Realty, owner of the industrial park.

ABATEMENT

Councilman Ron Ochala said the state tax abatement policy, which gives tax breaks of up to 12 years for industrial development or expansion, "is bad law." Sean Kavanagh, who voted with the majority, agreed. "It results in the emptying of older areas in favor of newer ones." Supporters of the request cited Olin's record as "a good corporate citizen" in Livonia and the fact that the vacated space has been released. David Kahan, owner of the industrial park, said he couldn't understand the reasons for the denial. "No harm will come to the city of Livonia by allowing me my tax abatement." Olin officials told council members at a July 13 study session that they moved the Waco Court distribution center when they couldn't find a larger building in Livonia. The center was staffed by four employees. Kahan was criticized earlier by several council members for failing to appear at a the study meeting to discuss the issue.

The chemical company moved a portion of its operations from Waco Court to the Plymouth Industrial Center on Eckles Road last December.

Elections

Vorva best in state House race

Voters in the Plymouth community will select one candidate in the field of four in the Republican primary in the 20th state House district on Tuesday.

We recommend Jerry Vorva in the district, which includes northwest Livonia and the Plymouth and Northville areas.

We supported Vorva in his bid for election to the state House last year and we still believe he is the best candidate. He is a breath of fresh air in the political arena. Goal-oriented and work oriented, residents in the district can be assured Vorva will fight for them.

He will rattle the political establishment. A former city of Plymouth police officer, Vorva is a Madonna College graduate and is in real estate sales. He was elected to the Plymouth City Commission in 1989.

The winner of the Republican primary is virtually assured election in November. There is no Democratic challenger.

Vorva advocates accountable and open government. He is energetic, enthusiastic and hardworking. He is the best choice for Republican voters.

Radtke best for clerk

When Plymouth Township voters head to the polls Tuesday they will select a replacement for longtime Township Clerk Esther Hulsing.

Denise Radtke is the best bet. She is making her first venture into elected politics, but is an old hand when it comes to government. She has served as an administrative assistant to U.S. Rep Carl Pursell since 1977.

That experience has given her a good grasp of how governmental units can work together.

She will be an asset to the township board and a capable administrator at township hall.

Rep. Geake merits nomination

In the race for the Republican nomination in the new 13th Congressional District, state Sen. R. Robert Geake and University of Michigan professor Ray Tanter are the standouts in a field of six.

The district includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township. The Republican primary winner on Tuesday will face incumbent U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, a Democrat, who is unopposed in the primary.

Tanter, a political science professor, is intelligent and his pro-choice stand is an advantage.

Geake, a conservative Republican from Northville, a low-key, solid worker. He's been a good committee chair and has a superb attendance record in the Legislature.

A conscientious and hardworking lawmaker, Geake is interested in solutions, not political grandstanding.

Vote no on county millage

Needy Wayne County residents need help, but the 0.5-mill tax increase proposal on Tuesday's ballot is no solution.

Vague and imprecise, the millage is a throwback to the county's old ways of doing business — raise money now, find a use later.

It's not sure just who would benefit, what standards would be used, which programs would be supported.

While county government has been moving toward greater fiscal responsibility of late, we're not sure we trust it enough to give it this much money for so unfocused a purpose.

That said, we urge county officials to continue lobbying Gov. Engler — or at least other, more sympathetic Lansing Republicans, to restore money for social services in Wayne County.

As for the proposed half-mill, the purpose is noble, the execution questionable.

3 candidates top court ballot

Voters have a solid field of candidates from which to select three judges to the Wayne County Circuit Court (the 3rd judicial circuit).

In this race we recommend Denise Page Hood, Jeanne Stempien and Robert Ziolkowski. Voters should also pay attention to

John W. Callahan.

Page Hood and Ziolkowski are clearly outstanding in this race. Both currently serve in Recorder's Court. Both get high marks for efficiency, judicial temperament and fairness from their peers in the legal community.

ARKIE HUDKINS

HUDKINS

Making his list, checking it twice. Gonna find out who's naughty or nice.

Ficano is best choice for sheriff

The incumbent Wayne County Sheriff has taken a lot of shots during this year's Democratic Party primary, some of them deserved, but we still believe Robert Ficano is the best choice in the hotly contested race.

Never a favorite of the law enforcement community, Ficano nonetheless possesses a philosophy more law enforcement professionals should adopt: That law enforcement is as much about prevention as apprehension.

High-visibility department programs, most aimed at youngsters, have left Ficano open to charges of being a media hound. Certainly he's among the most public relations conscious of all area elected officials. That, in itself, is hardly reason to turn him out of office.

More serious concerns about Ficano's administrative skills were raised during a court hearing that cost him at least partial control over the county jail. But the county executive's office — which shares control under the court order — recently ran into difficulty with jail food services, showing just how tough it is to bring the jail budget into line.

Kevin Kelley, Ficano's main opponent, is a likable, capable county commissioner and remains a young man with a bright future in county politics.

But his background, like Ficano's initial background, is in public administration — not law enforcement.

All issues considered, we're encouraging voters to support Robert Ficano in the Democratic primary.

Suburbs linked to city's decline

I was distracted, so I missed the turn onto I-94 from the Jeffries. We were on the way to dinner in Grosse Pointe, so I said to my wife, "Let's carry on and go out on Jefferson Avenue."

I hadn't driven out Jefferson in a long time. Superficially, the wide avenue was unchanged. ("It's still bumpy; why can't they ever pave it properly?" I thought to myself.)

But the persistent deterioration was obvious. The old Cadillac dealership was vacant, signs flapping in the dirty windows. The graceful brick lines of Little Harry's restaurant had come down, replaced by a barren excuse for a park.

There was the same old sense of squalor and decay in the rundown apartment buildings and shops. Bank buildings had been converted to social service agencies. And the streets were effectively deserted, even at 6 p.m. on a nice Saturday evening.

It wasn't all bad. Chrysler's new Jefferson Avenue plant, what I could see of it, looked new and efficient. And the entry to Belle Isle had been spruced up.

Which is why the new study caught my eye. A survey of 59 center cities (including Detroit) and their suburbs between 1979 and 1987 showed that suburbanites fare better economically where central cities are financially strong. Indeed, some Detroit suburbs have been overtaken by other suburbs around thriving central cities.

"Today, suburbs continue to profit from vibrant cities and are hurt by declining ones," says study director Hank Savitch of the University of Louisville. "The mark of a healthy suburb is not self-sufficiency, but interaction with a prosperous urban core. Hope for the suburbs lies in developing ties with central cities."

The big piece of statistical evidence was that metro areas which had the biggest suburban income gains were those where central city incomes improved or remained solid.

PHILIP POWER

For example, income in the Baltimore suburbs surpassed Detroit's from 1979-87, while the Baltimore urban core moved from sixth worst — behind Detroit — to ahead. The Boston area showed a similar pattern.

The data are interesting, if not entirely compelling.

They may indicate coincidence, for example, rather than direct cause linking suburban prosperity with that of the urban core. During this same period, the auto industry in southeastern Michigan has taken a terrible pounding. Our suburban economic decline may well have come more directly from the troubles of our leading industry than from lack of links with downtown Detroit.

But the connection is undeniable. Just ask, for example, the personnel office of any large corporation trying to recruit people to live in this area. Universally, recruits are repelled at the idea of living in the Detroit area.

Which is why the political situation in Detroit is so tragic. Coleman Young may have been an able and energetic mayor once. But he is not any longer. And the longer the passivity and torpor of the city continues, the deeper the decay cuts into the fabric of the city, and the more irreversible comes the decline.

Phil Power is chairman of the company that owns this newspaper.

Political map

My name is Thaddeus McCotter, candidate for Wayne County Commissioner. I would like to relate to you a recent experience I've had with "politics as usual."

Returning home from a long Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees meeting, I wearily glanced through my mail. In with the pile of bills was a full-color, glossy map of Wayne County's parks.

I scratched my prematurely balding head. I hadn't requested a map.

"Rita," I asked my wife, "Did you order a Wayne County parks map?"

"Why would I?" she replied. "You never take me anywhere."

I knew she was right (though I didn't admit it). But if she hadn't ordered the map, who had?

I strained my aching eyes and studied the map. There was a sticker affixed to it reading, "Compliments of Maurice M. Breen, Wayne County Commissioner."

Was that the answer? Was incumbent Breen boosting his name recognition before the primary election?

I quietly opened a box of cookies so Rita wouldn't catch me snacking and pondered my theory.

Something didn't fit. I took another look at the map.

Nowhere on it were the magic words (to my Republican eyes, anyway) "not paid for at taxpayers' expense."

The mystery was solved. The map wasn't "complimentary," after all. We taxpayers had paid for it.

Quickly losing my appetite, and hearing Rita's footsteps in the hall, I slipped the cookies into the cupboard.

"Did you figure out who ordered the map?" she asked.

"The incumbent. He used our tax dollars for his own benefit."

"Is that illegal?"

"Not yet, but it should be," I said firmly. "With Wayne County government facing a projected deficit of $2 million dollars, it's simply wrong for Breen to spend our tax money on himself. It's just more of the same old . . ."

"Thaddeus, you know I'm supporting you for Wayne County Commissioner. Why don't you save the speech and get some sleep, and go door to door tomorrow?"

"Alright," I said dejectedly, my soliloquy suddenly ended.

"And brush those cookie crumbs off your face before you come to bed."

"Is getting crumbs on the pillow case illegal?" I joked.

"Not yet, but it should be."

That night I tossed and turned. No, nothing was wrong at Schoolcraft College — the budget was balanced, classes were over, and labor relations were better than ever. But "politics as usual" was continuing on the Wayne County Commission. Would it ever end?

Suddenly I remembered the words of Lincoln: "Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people: Is there any better or equal hope in the world?"

No, I smiled, as I drifted off to sleep.

Thaddeus G. McCotter candidate for
Wayne County Commission

Who's kidding who? This is an election year. Let's cut the dirty politics and let the people decide.

"The foxes are guarding the hen-house."

Bob Zaetta, Plymouth Township

Stick to issues

The campaign literature has hit with all of its exaggerations and accusations. I think the voters should demand that the candidates stop the mud-slinging and get to the issues.

It is easy to accuse the last administration for the decisions they made, but the last administration (Breen and Law) are not running for election.

We'd like to know if any of these candidates for township supervisor and township trustee have been involved with the township, volunteering for the Economic Development Commission, the Review Board, or the Planning Commission? Have they ever attended on a regular basis any of the township board or planning commission meetings? It is easy to say they would have done something different, but have they done anything?

Kathleen, it's nice that you are interested in signing people up to volunteer. Your latest piece of literature asks questions about problems in the township. If these problems exist, what are you going to do about it? What is your plan of action? And for the record, as a taxpayer, I would prefer to have the township police patrolling our subdivisions and keeping us safe, rather than running around picking up signs that some candidates' over-zealous workers have carelessly placed.

John Stewart, you coasted into your present position as township trustee as a Breen supporter. If we listen to you now, anything that is right with the township we can singly thank you for and everything that is wrong, you are going to correct. What have you been doing for the last four years? You should have already corrected the ills that your literature attempts to make into issues.

Come on newspapers, lets get some facts into reporting on this campaign. Let's not hear about all the name calling, etc. Let the voters know who has been involved and who has voted. What do these people stand for?

Why did John Stewart refuse to vote (isn't that illegal)? Van Esley reports in his literature that he is a foundation member. What foundation? Which community? Let's keep the "he said, she said" to a minimum and concentrate on the facts, just the facts.

On another note, Dennis Shrewsbury, I happened to be present on a Saturday morning when the farmers market had first opened and heard several people complain because there was so much congestion at the front entrance to the market due to all the candidates. One person was a young mother with a stroller.

Linda J. Williams, Plymouth

Signs explained

I recently received a piece of campaign literature from Kathleen Keen-McCarthy and it asked the question, "Why won't the Township Police Chief enforce township laws regarding the election." If her question is about the election itself, I believe it should be directed to the township clerk's office. But, if it is about the sign ordinance that we have discussed, I believe we have a misunderstanding.

The enforcement of ordinances with relation to the political signs in this township is not just dependent on the ordinances which are in place. Each candidate received from me a highlighted copy of ordinance 83, which talks about the placement of political signs. I sent that out to all candidates in hopes of receiving some compliance to the ordinance which Ms. McCarthy and I also discussed on more than one occasion.

One of our discussions was about the size of signs and I indicated to her I cannot enforce that section because of a legal opinion that indicated political signs are a form of freedom of speech. By removing those signs I would be violating the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which I have sworn to uphold. I have not chosen to ignore the law as she put it, but have chosen to uphold her First Amendment rights to freedom of speech. This legal opinion was handed down the early part of last year at the request of the township supervisor because we needed to know the difference on the issue of signs for advertising and political signs.

On the issue of Aug. 9 or 10 about enforcement. I also stated the issue of political signs would then become a non-issue until there was another election, and then a candidate would make an issue of it again. There has been enforcement of the sign ordinance.

I am sorry she has chosen to use a piece of campaign literature to ask the question when I would have been more than happy to respond to her in person and share the legal opinion with her. I do not have the ability to respond to the same amount of citizens she sent the literature to, but I hope you will correct this problem by relaying my answer to the citizens. Thank you for your help on this matter.

Carl F. Berry, Chief of Police, Plymouth Township

Staying neutral

Recently my picture and a quote commending the qualifications of Dan Calabrese appeared in his brochure as part of his campaign for state representative. While I was happy to provide the quote and appear in the brochure, I would like to emphasize to the voters of the 21st District that I also consider Deborah Whyman to be well-qualified for this office and that I am officially neutral in this race and have made no endorsement of either candidate over the other.

I consider them both to be fine Republican candidates who would represent the 21st District very well.

R. Robert Geake, state senator

Carnes scholarship

Kit Mastroberto, an all-state hockey player from Livonia Stevenson High School, is one of two recipients of the Neil James Carnes Memorial Scholarship Award.

Mastroberto joins Rochester's Matt Fleury (Birmingham Brother Rice High) as a winner of the $1,000 scholarship, given in memory of Neil Carnes, a Plymouth resident and Montreal Canadiens draft pick who was killed three years ago in a motorcycle accident. The scholarship fund was established by Carnes' parents, Neil and Lois, Livonia residents.

The award goes annually to former members of the Michigan National Hockey League. Mastroberto played for the national champion Little Caesars Midget Major squad.

Both Mastroberto and Fleury plan to attend the University of Michigan this fall. Mastroberto carried a 4.26 grade point average (summa cum laude) at Stevenson.

Past winners were Mike Stone (Michigan) and Tim Litchard (Notre Dame), 1990; and Plymouth's Tom Yockey (Central Michigan), 1991.

The White Sox are the World Series champions in the BB League of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball Association.

Hotshot hoop champs

The age-group champions and runners-up in the Canton Parks and Recreation Services Hotshot Basketball Contest:

Boys 15-18: Justin Marcis, 85; Doug Herriman, 81; boys 12-14: Andy Power, 87; Guy Villet, 71; boys 9-11: Aaron Rypkowski, 70; Ryan Nimmerguth, 63.

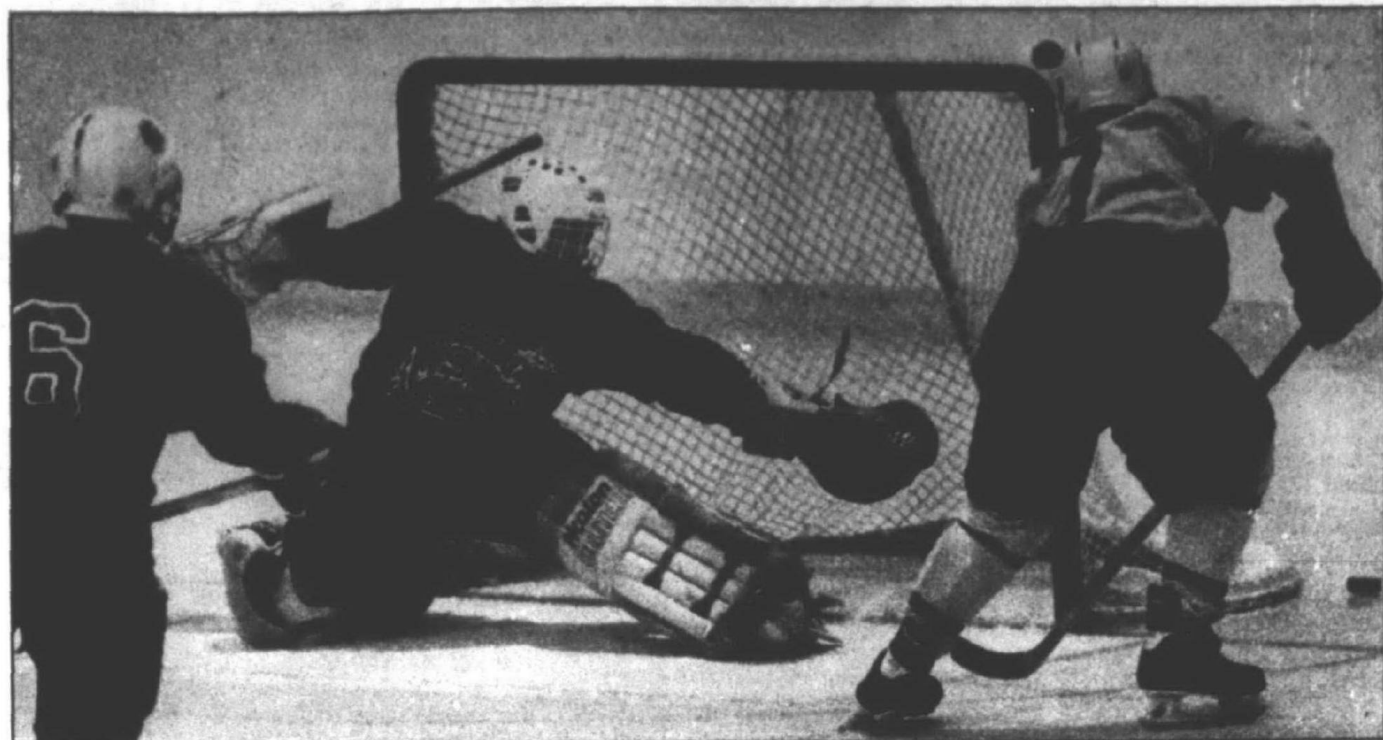

Girls 15-18: Olive Ikeh, 45; girls 12-14: Janelle Sterling, 67; Melissa Marzolf, 55; girls 9-11: Laine Sterling, 65; Jamie Coyle, 16.

The Redford Catholic Central High doubles team of Chris Matson and Dave Gallagher recently earned Michigan Interscholastic Tennis Coaches Association All-State honors in Class A.

Singles player Chris Alonte of CC gained honorable mention honors.

Livonia Stevenson coach George Croll, whose team qualified for the state tourney, was named Region IV Coach of the Year. Farmington's Tim Prince was also saluted as Region VIII Coach of the Year.

Playoff fever: Bulldogs goalie Rich Nagy deflects the puck wide of the net Monday in a MSHL playoff game. Ian Croxford of the Lakers takes the puck while Chris Yockey (6) follows on the play.

Spartans come to life in playoffs

Some of the lesser teams in the Metro Summer Hockey League during the regular season are making a move upward in the early rounds of the playoffs.

The Spartans finished fourth in the Metro Summer Hockey League during the regular season but are doing much better in post-season play.

In the Bakes Division round-robin playoffs, the Spartans were the early leaders with a 2-1 record as of Tuesday.

The regular-season champion Kings, Broncos and Canadiens were 1-1 followed by the Wolves at 1-2.

The Spartans got their second win Tuesday, a 7-5 victory over the Wolves in which Scott Lock scored three goals.

Josh Wiegand added one goal and had three assists for the Spartans, who took a 10-8 win from the Canadiens on Sunday. Joe Burton had a three-goal performance and Tim Osborn three assists for the Wolves.

The Kings suffered their first loss of the season Sunday when Burton scored the game-winning goal with 2:46 remaining to give the Wolves a 6-5 victory.

Burton also had three assists, Osborn one goal and two assists. Chris Smith and Larry Pilut had the same numbers as Osborn on behalf of the Kings.

The Canadiens stayed in the playoff picture, registering their post-season win Tuesday, 5-2 over the Broncos.

Brad Ryznar scored two goals for the Canadiens, and goalkeeper Darren Burton stopped several good scoring opportunities by the Broncos late in the game.

Grant Patterson had a goal and an assist for the Broncos, who topped the runner-up Wolves last week for their playoff win.

In the Windy City Division playoffs for the Nos. 6-10 teams, the Bulldogs and Wildcats are in front with two wins and no losses. They were the bottom teams with a combined record of 1-15-2 in the regular season.

The Bulldogs defeated the Falcons 7-3 Sunday and the Lakers 6-1 Monday.

Brian Lindstrom scored four goals against the Falcons, and teammate Jesse Blevins added three goals and one assist. John Brodhun had three goals and Brian Mulcahy two assists in a losing cause.

Vic Decina (two assists) and Eric Clark paced the win over the Lakers with two goals each, and Rich Nagy played the entire game in goal for the Bulldogs.

The Wildcats edged the Huskies 6-5 Sunday and trounced the Falcons 12-4 Monday to get the playoffs started right.

Rob McDonald had two goals and

All-star game showcases unsung talent, too

One of the finest individual performances at a Michigan High School Football Coaches Association All-Star Game came in 1983 from a guy who looked like he didn't belong.

"I remember (Farmington Hills Harrison quarterback) Ken Kish, whom everyone said wasn't a great ballplayer, didn't look like a quarterback, doesn't run fast," said Don Lessner, executive director of the MHSFCA. "John Herrington (Harrison's coach) said 'Wait until game time.' And here the kid comes out and throws for (about) 275 yards, three touchdowns. You never know what a kid can do until he puts on the pads."

Kish, who went on to star at Albion

College, led the East to a 24-10 win. And that's part of the beauty of the 12th annual MHSFCA All-Star Game, scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Michigan State University's Spartan Stadium. Tickets cost $6 each.

This game never draws as many fans as it should, but for the 88 players selected to play it's a final chance to show what they can do as a high school football player. It will be the only chance for some players who were overlooked by bigger colleges in the recruiting process to prove they belong on the same field with a high school All-American like Sterling Heights Stevenson tight end Pete Chryplewicz, headed to Notre Dame.

Hines Park exits; Caesars falls

The people at Little Caesars can't own everything in town.

Mike Ilitch owns the Red Wings and this week struck a deal to buy the Tigers, but the Livonia Little Caesars baseball team has let Delwal take over the driver's seat in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League playoffs.

Left-hander Derek Wirebaugh pitched a seven-hitter and Tom Kretschmer hit his second home run in as many nights as Delwal blanked Caesars 9-0 in a second-round game Wednesday at Livonia's Ford Field.

The loss dropped defending champ Caesars into the loser's bracket, where it will meet Walter's at 5:30 p.m. tonight at Ford Field. Walter's stayed alive in the double-elimination playoffs with a 10-5 win Wednesday over Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury at Ford Field.

Caesars coach John Moraitis isn't too concerned.

"We've got two starters (Andy Margolick and Brandon Endicott) left," he said. "I've come back and won in the loser's bracket. But these guys (Delwal) have a good team."

Delwal finished the regular season 1/2 point behind champion Caesars. The Farmington-based team will play at 8 p.m. tonight against the winner of the Caesars-Walter's game, and a win would send Delwal to next week's All-American Amateur Baseball Association championship in Johnstown, Pa.

If Delwal loses tonight, the LCBL championship will be decided at 5:30 p.m. Friday at Ford Field.

Pitching has been the key for Delwal, which owns a 2.26 earned run average. Mark Temple (North Farmington) will get the call tonight.

"I remember last year losing games 15-14 and I said, 'We're at least going to be pitching deep,'" Delwal coach Bob Peterson said.

Kretschmer gave Wirebaugh a 3-0 lead in the first with a three-run homer, his eighth of the year. Delwal scored three more runs off losing pitcher Mark VanAmede in the fourth, highlighted by a run-scoring double by Jason Valente and two-run single by Billy Hardy.

Wirebaugh, who lost an earlier decision to Caesars, didn't need anymore help and he twice pitched out of jams this time. Caesars loaded the bases with one out in the third on a single and two walks but Wirebaugh struck Jerry Shippey and got Aaron Mach to ground out to end the threat.

Dave Roman and RJ Taylor had consecutive singles in the fourth, but Wirebaugh retired the next two batters.

"Derek has improved quite a bit, he's added a slider, has great control and mixes his pitches well," Delwal pitching coach Bruce Gerish said. "The key is he's mentally tough and he prevents big innings."

In Wednesday's first game, Walter's ace pitcher Mike Coleman walked nine, hit a batter and allowed seven hits but had enough to eliminate Hines Park 10-5.

Walter's played without No. 2 pitcher and outfielder Dave Wood, who will miss the rest of the playoffs, "unless there's a two-week rain delay," coach Mike Keller said.

Walter's trailed 5-4 after 3 1/2 innings before scoring five runs in the bottom of the fourth off Hines Park starter Chris Newton for a 9-5 lead.

Newton, who pitches for the University of Michigan, walked seven batters in three innings and fell to 2-2. Joe Brusseau (Borgess and Madonna) and Kevin Young (Farmington) each delivered two-run singles in the fourth, with Young's hit being the one that knocked Newton out of the game.

Keith Bozyk (Plymouth and Redford Catholic Central) allowed two hits, one walk and one run the rest of the way and left Hines Park coach Dave Carroll wondering why he left Newton in so long.

"When a kid is struggling and the umpire is not giving the strike zone it's sometimes best to take him out (earlier)," Carroll said.

Ed Gundry (Plymouth Salem) led Hines Park with three hits in four at-bats, including a two-run double in the third that tied the score 2-2.

SPORTS SHORTS

Items for the Sports Roundup should be submitted by 5 p.m. Tuesday (for Thursday edition) and 5 p.m. Friday (for the Monday edition).

TIGER BATBOY

Eddie Markman of Canton won a special sweepstakes entitling him to be the Milk Duds Celebrity Batboys at the Detroit Tigers game on July 8 against the Oakland A's.

The 13-year-old Markman was on the field during batting practice, had his picture taken with Tiger players and received autographs. He was recognized as a VIP on the stadium scoreboard and public address system, and he also received numerous Tiger souvenirs.

Markman will be an eighth grader at Pioneer Middle School. He plays baseball for the Plymouth-Canton Koufax team in the Little Caesars Baseball Federation. Markman also collects baseball cards and plays basketball and golf.

SWIM PRACTICE

Plymouth Canton will begin preseason practice for its girls swimming and diving team Monday, Aug. 10. Practice starts at 9 a.m. and ends at noon. Call coach Hooker Wellman for information.

The Plymouth Salem girls will begin practice Wednesday, Aug. 12, and will have the same hours.

PEE WEE BASEBALL

The Plymouth-Canton Pee Wee travel baseball team in the 11-12 age group accomplished a morale victory, according to coach Frank Hlavin, despite losing four games in a 13-year-old tournament last weekend in Madison Heights.

"There were no mercies; it was much stiffer competition and the kids did a great job," Hlavin said.

Plymouth-Canton highlights included a grand slam by Mike Juarez, a diving catch to prevent two runs from scoring by Joey Cortellini and four hits by Chris Mason.

GRID BROADCAST

The Michigan High School Football Coaches Association All-Star game will be broadcast live by WSDP (88.1 FM) on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. from Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

Plymouth Salem coach Tom Moshimer will coach the East All-Stars, which includes former Salem running back Leon Hister.

GOLF REPORT

Leo Martin of Canton was in third place Monday after the first round of the Michigan Publix Golf Association Match-Play Championship at the Pines Golf Course in Weidman.

Martin shot 73 and trailed co-leaders Al Whited of Taylor and Joe Starck of Lake Orion by one stroke.

Jim Szilaygi of Birmingham, a 1973 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, was one of five players tied for fourth at 74.

Derek Baer of Plymouth and Andrew Uthoff of Canton tied for eighth place in the Pine Valley Junior Open 13-15 age division Friday with 18-hole totals of 79.

Chris Curry of Canton (85) tied for 20th with two others, and Brandon Dipaola of Plymouth (88) was 28th.

Jared Zalewski of Ray Township was first with 72. The tournament was part of the Macomb Junior Golf Classics.

YOUTH FITNESS

The finals of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Youth Fitness Meet took place July 23 at Metro Beach Metropark in Mount Clemens. Boys and girls competed in the following classifications: Class A (ages 13-14); Class B (11-12); Class C (9-10); and Class D (8).

Four Canton youths placed among the top three. In the boys events, Steve Comito was first in A standing long jump (7-7), Shawn Keaney second in B broad jump (11-6). In the girls competition, Harmony Howard was second in the C agility run (25.28), Kendra McKinney third in D chinning (10-8).

LACROSSE STARS

Joe Lopez, Terry Griffin and Tim Knoth of Redford Catholic Central were named to the all-state first team as lacrosse players.

All three were juniors during the last school year. Lopez and Griffin are defensemen, Knoth a midfielder.

Dave McNeil (senior attacker) made the second team, and Brian Ronayne (junior attacker) was an honorable mention.

The Shamrocks were 12-5 and ranked No. 5 in the final statewide poll. CC reach the quarterfinals of the state tournament.

CHARITY GOLF

The Second Annual United Cerebral Palsy of Metropolitan Detroit golf outing will be Thursday, Sept. 17, at Bogie Lake Golf Club in Union Lake. The entry fee is $75 and entitles participants to golf, cart and dinner. The outing begins with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. For information call 557-5070.

SOCCER TRYOUTS

Canton Soccer Club will have open tryouts for its 1978-79 boys Little Caesars team at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 5, at Canton Recreation Center Field No. 4. For information call Rich Crockett at 397-3179.

The under-19 1/4 Canton Juventus state champion soccer team will have open tryouts on Saturday, Aug. 1, at Centennial Educational Park (corner of Joy and Canton Center roads) from 10 a.m. to noon. For information call Wolfgang Henkel (451-0786) or Jerry Parent (455-5139).

Tryouts for the Northville Sting, a 1977 boys Ilitch Division Little Caesars premier soccer team will be at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at Northville Soccer Field, located off Sheldon between Five and Six Mile roads. The tryouts are open to boys 15 1/2 and younger, from all areas.

For further information, call Bob Pizzuti at 476-1883.

The Northville Sting '79 will have tryouts for the '93 spring season on Saturday, Aug. 1, and Sunday, Aug. 2, from 4-6 p.m. at the Training Center on Sheldon Road between Five and Six Mile roads. Boys born between Aug. 1, 1975 and July 31, 1976 are invited to attend. Call Harve Rossing (348-6826) for information.

SOCCER CAMPS

Canton Soccer Club will have a camp for recreational players age 9-14 Aug. 10-14 at Centennial Educational Park. There will be a Pee Wee camp for ages 5-8 Aug. 17-21. For information or to register call Don Koontz (459-2139).

JUNIOR TENNIS

The Junior Open Tennis Tournament will be played Aug. 7-8 at Plymouth Canton High School. The age divisions for boys and girls will be 10-12, 13-15 and 16-18. The tournament will have a single-elimination format.

The fee is $10. The registration deadline is 5 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 5. Register in person or by mail at Canton Parks and Recreation Services, 1150 S. Center Rd. Call 397-5110 for information.

DCB GOLF OUTING

The Detroit College of Business Alumni Association will have its 11th Annual Golf Outing to benefit the Scholarship Fund on Friday, Aug. 7, at Fellows Creek Golf Course.

The $65 price includes 18 holes of golf with a cart, buffet dinner, drinks and prizes. Tee times are between 10:30 a.m. and noon. The event is open to the public and has a flighted, scramble format.

Hole sponsors and prize donors are also being sought. For information call Kevin Brazell at 581-4400, ext. 262.

SOFTBALL TRYOUTS

Tryouts for the Mid-America Mustangs 12-and-under, 14-and-under, and 16-and-under girls softball teams will begin Saturday, Aug. 8. Players interested should call Ray Knickerbocker at 455-5893.

BASKETBALL CAMP

Metro Basketball Association will conduct a summer camp the week of Aug. 3-7 at Garden City High School, 6500 N. Middlebelt.

Players age 8-11 will train in the morning session from 8:30-11:30 a.m. while ages 12-18 will work out from 12:30-3:30 p.m. The cost is $65 per child and $55 for a second child in the same family.

Two well-known area coaches will direct the camp. John Kreger, who has coached for 25 years in Dearborn schools and at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, and Billy Joe Young, a high school coach for 20 years at Garden City, will lead the training sessions.

Any one interested in signing up for the camp should call MBA President Kevin Wilkinson at 271-2720.

Chryplewicz is playing for the East team, which is looking to win for the seventh time against the West in the series.

Moshimer coaching East

One guy who has nothing to prove but has been selected to coach the East All-Stars is Plymouth Salem coach Tom Moshimer. Moshimer has coached football since 1969 when he took over a struggling program at Dundee, and he also is past president of the MHSFCA.

Lessner, who coaches a successful Riverview High School program, knows Moshimer well.

"We started coaching together — when Tom was starting at Dundee, I was starting at Monroe Catholic Central," Lessner recalled. "He took a team at Dundee that won only two or three games in three years and then won 35 straight games. He's very organized, has good rapport with the players and a sound knowledge of the game of football."

As an active member and past president of the MHSFCA, Moshimer has attended each All-Star game and usually spends the week in the dorms at MSU. So lodging at MSU is nothing new to Moshimer, although coaching will be.

The East has a couple of mobile quarterbacks, Northville's Ryan Huzjak (University of Toledo) and Allen Park Cabrini's Brian Nycz (Central Michigan), running Moshimer's I-Bone attack.

"You always go into every contest to win," Moshimer said. "We want the team to have a good time and to win the game."

Because he was the highest vote getter among the coaches selected for the All-Star Game, Moshimer was able to choose one of his assistants at Salem, Jim Jarvey, as an assistant coach with the East.

Moshimer also is renewing ties with East assistant coach Ernie Hoffman, who played for Moshimer at Dundee and now coaches there.

"He played for me in '65 and '66, was a tough little kid," Moshimer said, remembering Hoffman as a player. "He was about a 155-pound running back. He's gained a little weight — like we all did."

Granger playing for cousin

The East Team includes Salem tailback Leon Hister, Redford St. Agatha defensive back Cardell Davis, Redford Bishop Borgess defensive lineman Justin Gugala, Westland John Glenn defensive lineman Jason Hagelthorn, Farmington linebacker Matt Siskosky and Farmington Hills Harrison flanker Roy Granger.

Granger made his uniform number request later than some of his teammates so he'll be wearing No. 22 instead of the familiar No. 2 he wore at Harrison. Granger wanted to wear either No. 2 or No. 1, the latter number in honor of his cousin, Stanford Blue, who was shot to death last year. Blue played high school football at Detroit Henry Ford and taught Granger a lot about the game.

Granger will attend Michigan State this fall, but because of academic reasons won't be eligible to play football until 1993.

"I went to see Stanford's grave this morning (Saturday)," Granger said Saturday. "I dedicated my whole senior year to him and this is my last game as a high school player and that's why I want to score a touchdown real bad. I know a lot of the guys on the West. They're all out to get me."

Hagelthorn, who is headed to Central Michigan, might have an interesting matchup against West lineman Pat Corcoran (Bay City Central) who is Colorado University bound.

"I'm not sure yet, but I'll probably be going against Corcoran," he said. "It'll give me a chance to get used to hitting again and get a head start on things."

PLAYOFF SCHEDULE

Friday, July 31: 5:30 p.m. at Ford Field (if necessary).

Caesars, Delwal win tournament openers

Dave Roman and Aaron Mach led Livonia Little Caesars to a 5-2 win over Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury in Tuesday's Livonia Collegiate Baseball League playoff opener at Ford Field.

Roman (Livonia Franklin) pitched nine innings for the first time ever and earned the win with a seven-hitter, no walks and 11 strikeouts. Mach's three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning broke a 2-2 tie and sent Hines Park reliever Jeff Paluk (Plymouth Salem) home as the losing pitcher.

It was only the second homer of the year for Mach, who ended the regular season as the LCBL's second-best hitter with a .388 average.

"You weren't in a batter's slump, you were in a home run slump," Caesars coach John Moraitis said to Mach afterward.

Paluk relieved starter Scott Rodgers (Salem) with one out in the eighth after Caesars' J.R. Taylor stroked a double off the fence to score Jerry Shippe (Westland Glenn) for a 2-2 tie.

Rodgers, who allowed seven hits, also surrendered an unearned run in the first.

Joe Wiedenbach and Keith Bozyk had RBI singles for Hines Park. T.C. Raptis (Madonna), who doubled in the sixth, and Tom Davey (Plymouth Salem), who tripled off the fence in the seventh, scored the Hines Park runs.

Delwal pastes Walter's

Delwal erased a 3-2 deficit with six runs in the seventh inning to defeat Walter's 8-3 in another LCBL first-round playoff game Tuesday at Ford Field.

Tom Kretschmer had a three-run homer and Noah Bremen stroked a two-run double in the seventh off Walter's losing pitcher Steve Ross, who relieved starter Louie McKaig after five innings.

Kretschmer's homer was his league-leading seventh and he was tied after Tuesday night with Bremen for the team lead with 25 RBI.

Jason Valente was 3-for-4 with two runs scored for Walter's and Mike Schwartzberger added a pair of doubles.

Dave Wood and Jeff Pendell (Livonia Churchill) had RBI singles for Walter's.

The winning pitcher was Todd Boike, who improved to 5-1 with a complete-game effort. McKaig was lifted with the score tied 2-2 after five innings so Ross suffered the loss for Walter's.

LC wins regular-season title

A sweep of its two-game weekend series with the Tecumseh Green Giants, enabled Little Caesars to clinch first place in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

On Friday, Caesars edged Tecumseh 5-4 thanks to a solid pitching performance by Mark VanAmejde, who went the distance and fanned eight.

Caesars (21-9) was paced offensively by Jerry Shippe and Aaron Mach, who collected two hits apiece. On Saturday, Caesars routed Tecumseh 8-0 in a make-up game from earlier in the season.

Brandon Endicott was the winning pitcher, going the first five innings and striking out five. John Spoyler went the final two innings and recorded the save.

Caesars got all it needed offensively in the second inning when Mike Giacomantonio slammed a three-run homer.

two assists, Paul Nieto one goal and two assists, in the Sunday game.

Phil Berger paced the Monday win with three goals and two assists, and Jim Hubenschmidt was close behind in scoring with two goals and a pair of assists.

Jack Abbo had two goals, Scott Wozniak one goal and two assists Sunday for the Huskies, who evened their record at 1-1 with a 7-3 decision over the Falcons Tuesday.

Tony Guzzo had two goals, Ron Storm one goal and two assists and Mark Isel one goal and one assist Tuesday for the Huskies.

The Falcons are 0-3 in the playoffs. Bob Bowen scored three goals and Mike Flatt had three assists against the Wildcats on Monday.

The Lakers are 0-1 in the Windy City playoffs, which continue through Tuesday with the round-robin schedule.

Blazers face top team

A dominating performance enabled the Michigan Blazers to post an easier-than-expected 4-0 victory over the Birmingham Cobras II in the opening round of the Great Lakes Men's Soccer League First Division playoffs, Sunday at Henry Ford Community College.

The Blazers will face the Redford Marauders, the league's No. 1 team during the regular season and a 2-1 victor last Sunday over the Dearborn Internationals. That semifinal will be at 6 p.m. Sunday at Bicentennial Park in Livonia.

The other First Division semifinal matches the Ann Arbor Hatricks, 4-2 overtime winners over Livonia Paragon, against Flint Bud Light, which beat Livonia Venom 4-0. That semifinal will be at 3 p.m. Sunday at Bicentennial. The championship game will be at 4 p.m. Aug. 9 at Bicentennial.

The Blazers got two goals in each half in dispatching Cobras II. Jeff Petosky and Lamar Peters scored in the first half, and Scott Lamphear and Brian Thiel got second-half goals. Brian Sheehy was in the net for the shutout.

The Marauders were pressed in their narrow win over the eighth-place Internationals, who took a 1-0 lead on a goal from Mario Angotti 10 minutes into the game. The Marauders tied it on a Rob Ludwig score 20 minutes later, Lars Richters assisting, and got the game-winner from Jeff Golf just before halftime. Bobby Hayes assisted.

Despite a two-goal performance from Bobby Paul, Paragon couldn't knock off the Hatricks Sunday at Fuller Park in Ann Arbor. Jim Lacey scored twice for the Hatricks and Scott Seabolt netted one. The game's final score was an own-goal.

Roadrunner Classic draws variety of competitors

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

More than 1,100 runners, walkers and wheelers turned out for the ninth annual Roadrunner Classic Saturday in Livonia, sponsored by the Redford Roadrunners.

The evening event, which started and finished at Veterans Park (Livonia Family Y), featured the classic junior; a one-mile race; the main event — a flat, fast, certified 8-kilometer race (just shy of five miles); along with a spirited post-race party, awards and colorful T-shirts.

Kevin Hanson of Shelby Township had no trouble outdistancing the field on a warm, humid night in 24:40. Ann Boyd of Ann Arbor did the same in the women's race (27:49), one minute ahead of runner-up Kim Bruce of Dearborn.

Hanson and the men's field ran with the unsolicited help of a rabbit, which paced them the first three miles.

Hanson knew the un-registered runner planned to drop out, but it probably threw off the other runners.

Hanson was delighted with his time. After he finished, he realized his brother Keith had won the 1984 Classic in a time of 24:42.

"That's a bonus," Hanson said with a laugh. "Otherwise he would have told me I was second."

Mile winners

Winner of the men's mile run was Keith Scalzo, 31, of Allen Park. He ran a personal best in 5:13.

The first female to break the tape was Jennifer Bryl, 14, of Ann Arbor in 7:12.

For Bryl, it was a family affair. Her mom, Jane Ketchin, won the 40-44 age division in 34:41. Her dad, John Bryl, placed ninth in the 45-49 division in 31:51. Her sister Emily, 8, ran the Classic Junior in 10:54.

Top finishers in the junior classic mile turned in some impressive times.

First to finish was Robert Block, 12, of Livonia in 5:46. On his tail were runner-up Harold Clayton, 9, of Monroe in 5:46.5, and third-place Trent Jones of Plymouth, 12, in 6:12.

Jessica Welch, 11, of Monroe defended her classic junior title, leading the females in 5:58. Erin Longhurst, 9, of Livonia took second in 6:41. Julie Zalewski, 12, of Trenton finished third in 7:20.

Behind the speedsters was an entrant who finished the 8K in a little less than two hours, bringing tears to the eyes of spectators who lined the finishing stretch. When wheeler Donna Cruz, 29, of Farmington Hills crossed the finish line, propelling herself backwards, she did so to a thunderous applause.

The tenacious Cruz took a little longer than she'd planned to finish the race — her chair had just been adjusted and the seat kept slipping forward, according to her uncle and coach, John Cruz of Plymouth.

Women's battle

Another exciting finish involved the second- and third-place battle in the women's 8K, as Dearborn residents Bruce and Carol Poenisch.

Bruce and Poenisch ran the first mile with Boyd, the eventual winner.

Boyd, however, pulled away, leaving friends Bruce and Poenisch to battle for second.

Poenisch trailed Bruce, but caught her at the four-mile mark.

"We were shoulder to shoulder," Bruce said. "It was just a matter of who wanted it more."

Poenisch, whose last mile was her fastest (5:33), made a late charge.

"I was gaining on her," she said.

"I was looking at her back thinking, 'This is my best friend in the whole world. I have nothing left and I'm not going to kill myself.'"

Poenisch finished in 28:51, three seconds behind Bruce.

Boyd was coming off a 90-mile week and didn't decide to race until Friday. She said felt sluggish in the humidity, but was surprised to run a personal best, unchallenged, by four seconds.

"I feel like a really backed off," Boyd said. "I want to kick myself for doing it. Maybe I could have taken 10 seconds off."

Masters' winner Nina Bovio won her second race of the day in 33:24. Earlier in the day at Flint, she led the masters field in a 10K in 42:20.

Meanwhile, John Scott of Dearborn out-performed the males over 40 in 28:08.

A trio of wheelers from the Grand Rapids area finished swept the paraplegic division; Chuck Patten (21:45), Thomas Ottenwess (22:13) and Darryl Antcliff (26:42).

Tickets $5 and $6. For information, call 354-9362.

Pops orchestra features local talent

Local high school musicians will perform with youth pops orchestra.

The Twelve Oaks Youth Pops Orchestra will make its debut 11 a.m. Thursday, July 30, kicking off a gala celebration to mark the 15th anniversary of Twelve Oaks Mall. Concerts are also scheduled 2 and 7 p.m. Friday, July 31; 2 and 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 1; and 2 p.m. Sunday, August 2.

The youth orchestra consists of 20 talented metro-area high school students chosen after two days of rigorous auditions held in June. All 20 received $1,000 scholarships from Twelve Oaks Mall. Scholarships will be awarded upon graduation from high school.

Dick Bright, a nationally known band leader, arranger and composer based in San Francisco, conducted the auditions, and will be conducting the orchestra. Bright has worked in film, television and theater, and appeared over the years with Ella Fitzgerald, Mel Torme, Bonnie Raitt and David Byrne.

Bright has been rehearsing the orchestra with help from Paul-Joyner-Clinard, director of choral activities at Novi High School, and Glenn Carlos who taught at Wayne State University and teaches privately.

The ensemble will present a special tribute to the music that has emerged from the Detroit area. The lively program will include Bob Seger's "Rock n' Roll Never Forgets," Bruce Springsteen's "Pink Cadillac," a Stevie Wonder medley, a medley of Motown Hits, plus two Walt Disney classics — "Zip-a-dee-doo-dah," and "When You Wish Upon a Star."

Concerts will be held in the center court of the mall.

Warming up: Twelve Oaks Youth Pops Orchestra violinist Delia Chien of Canton, a sophomore at Plymouth-Canton High School, warms up before rehearsal.

Noteworthy young musicians plan careers

Over half of the Twelve Oaks Youth Pops Orchestra members call the Observer & Eccentric their hometown newspaper.

Some of the students plan to continue their studies in music after graduating from college. Others plan to keep playing their instruments while they pursue other careers.

The three students from Southfield are all seniors at Southfield Lathrup High School. Rick Brookshire, who plays the bass guitar and performs in the high school jazz band, has been playing the guitar for seven years.

"Everybody in the family is a musician," he said adding he plans to study accounting at the University of Michigan and jazz at Wayne State University.

Brian Gira, a drummer, is in the school marching band and jazz band. He's been playing drums for six years, and also plays piano. Maureen Honore, a vocalist, took up singing seriously two years ago when a teacher encouraged her to join a jazz combo at school. A drum major for the marching band, she plans to study journalism at Michigan State University.

The two students from Birmingham are both violinists and juniors at Groves High school. Deborah Edwards, who has been playing violin for 11 years, plays in both the high school's symphony orchestra and chamber orchestra. After graduation, she intends to pursue musical studies in violin or voice.

David Lau has been playing the violin for 12 years. He is the concertmaster in the high school symphony orchestra, performs with the Metropolitan Youth Symphony, plays in quartets and composes music for the violin. After graduation, he plans pre-med studies, but hopes to continue in his violin training.

The three students from West Bloomfield feel a strong kinship with music. Cary Heller, a senior at West Bloomfield High School, has been playing trumpet for 10 years. He studies at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit and takes private lessons from trumpeter Marcus Belgrave.

Russ Mewha, a vocalist, is a junior at Walled Lake High School who has been singing for five years. He took up singing after entering a talent show in the eighth grade and discovered he loved performing. A baritone-tenor, he sings in school groups and sings solo at Covenant Baptist Church services in West Bloomfield. He is considering a career in music.

Joe Sachs, who plays alto sax, is a senior at West Bloomfield High School with firm plans for a career in music.

Enjoy the view, and lunch or dinner at Key Largo in Walled Lake

For a scenic view, relaxing atmosphere, and good food, it's hard to beat lunch on the deck at Key Largo in Walled Lake.

It's summer every day, at this popular eatery with a sunny Florida theme. The three dining rooms are decorated with ceramic tropical birds, plants and flowers to make you feel like you're in Florida. Floral prints top the tables and the waitresses wear floral shirts too.

Key Largo celebrated its fifth anniversary in May. Two years ago they covered the deck so the party could go on even if it rains, which has been often this summer. Last year, they winterized the deck by putting in windows and a furnace.

Lunch is served on the deck seven days a week, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. After four, it's party time on the deck. Sip a specialty drink like a Caribbean Cooler, a non-alcoholic specialty that's tropical and fruity, or Tropical Storm, a tidal wave of island flavors, Key Largo, tropical schnapps, light rum, pineapple and cranberry juice with broken umbrella.

Munch on a deck appetizer while you sip your drink, watch the sunset and enjoy the tropical music. Choices include Cajun beef kabob, Jamaican Jerk Chicken, peel-&-eat shrimp, veggie plate, fruit and cheese, shrimp kabob, rib bones and smoked salmon.

Shawn Riley performs lives and limbo enthusiasts can compete in the limbo contests on the deck, 8 p.m. to midnight, Fridays and Saturdays. A six-piece Dixie Land Jazz Band performs 5-9 p.m. Sundays, and Chef Bob Hoppenrath offers a special Cajun menu. Blues will be featured Wednesday nights starting in September.

Dinner is served 4-11 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 4-9 p.m. Sundays. Craig Cassidy, Key Largo Operating Partner, recommends Conch Chowder. This authentic Bahamian recipe features rich, creamy seafood chowder with conch meat and fresh rosemary.

There's also a Conch Burger made with grilled Conch meat, served on a bun with lettuce, tomato, red onion and tartar sauce. Go ahead, be brave, try the Gator Sandwich, smoked alligator sausage, topped with peppers, onions, and pepperjack cheese. It's served on an onion roll with honey-dijon mustard.

"We introduced the Gator Sandwich about a year and a half ago. It tastes like kielbasa, and has its own following."

Cassidy said the restaurant sells a lot of seafood and ribs. Seafood choices include deep fried shrimp, shrimp and chicken pasta, Nawlins Seafood Gumbo and fish and chips.

Looking for someone special?

A bowling partner, a travel companion or someone to share your life?

Every Monday and Thursday your Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will publish a PERSONAL SCENE directory— listings of people who are looking for people.

PERSONAL SCENE has five classifications—men seeking women, women seeking men, people who want to share sports interests, seniors who need companionship and people who need someone with whom to travel.

PERSONAL SCENE also takes advantage of our electronic age. When you've composed your five-line listing, which will run free for eight issues, call 591-0900 and our ad takers will be happy to help you record your message so that it can be heard by people who are interested in what you've said in your ad. You will never receive unwanted calls at your home; all responses will be recorded and left in your electronic PERSONAL SCENE message center. Note: It will cost $1.49 per minute to check the responses to your listing.

Readers who wish to respond to a listing in our PERSONAL SCENE directory, may use a touch-tone telephone to call 1-900-454-8088 and the special number which will appear in each ad. The cost to do this is also $1.49 per minute.

To place your own PERSONAL SCENE ad, call 591-0900/FAX 953-2232 or Mail us this coupon:

George Burns concert changed to October

Change your calendars, the dates for the George Burns performance at the new George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts have been changed from Sept. 11, 12 and 13 to Oct. 2, 3 and 4.

The former Mai Kai Theatre at the corner of Plymouth and Farmington roads in Livonia, one mile from I-96, is being renamed the George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts.

"We're very honored to have the name George Burns on our marquee," said Stuart Gorelick, president, Center Stage Productions, which owns and operates the theater. "We're also very excited that Mr. Burns will be here to help us raise the curtain on our first show — starring George Burns, himself."

George Burns, who has achieved stardom in every area of show business, will dedicate the theater at a special ceremony Thursday, Oct. 1, followed by performances on Friday, Oct. 2, Saturday, Oct. 3, and Sunday, Oct. 4, with music by the 21-piece Jack Brokensha/Don Palmer Orchestra. Burns will be joined by a special guest artist, who will be announced at a later date.

Tickets will go on sale Tuesday, Sept. 1. You can reserve tickets now, by calling 1-(800)-589-8000. Callers will also be put on a mailing list to receive information about the upcoming, to-be-announced, season.

"The new name for the theater, George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts, exemplifies the type of things we will bring to this theater," Gorelick said. "We look forward to bringing Broadway to the suburbs."

This will mark the one and only theater in the world immortalizing the popular veteran entertainer George Burns.

The former Mai Kai Theatre will be remodeled under the direction of designer Ron Rea of Peterhansrea, one of the most sought after designers in the country.

Veteran entertainer: George Burns will dedicate the George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts, the former Mai Kai Theatre, in Livonia, on Oct. 1. He will perform there Oct. 2, 3, and 4 with a special to-be-announced guest artist and a 21-piece orchestra.

UPCOMING THINGS TO DO

Perot backers battle on, demand accountability

BY LEONARD POGER
STAFF WRITER

Three dozen suburban supporters of Ross Perot want to continue the fight to make elected officials more responsive to the voters, but voted nearly 2-1 not to pressure Perot to resume his presidential campaign.

The supporters, who came from Grosse Pointe and Ypsilanti Township, met at Westland's Central City Park Wednesday night to discuss what they should do following Perot's withdrawal from his undeclared candidacy.

The backers agreed that it's important to carry on the battle to make elected officials more accountable and responsive than to just campaign for Perot.

Leading the meeting was Robert Harrington, 28, of Romulus, who is the coordinator for the seven southeast Michigan counties for the campaign. Perot supporters filed petitions two weeks ago to put his name on the Michigan ballot for the Nov. 3 presidential election.

"The purpose of tonight's meeting is to keep supporters together and make changes" in the political system, Harrington said.

Among those attending was John Lauve, a Grosse Pointe resident who sought the Republican nomination for governor two years ago. Beaten by John Engler, who later edged out Gov. James Blanchard, Lauve reflected the spirit of the Perot supporters' when he pointed to his wrist watch and asked "what time is it?" Before anyone could reply, he responded loudly: "It's time for a change."

But the position isn't shared by all Perot supporters.

Kathleen Bower, a Livonia resident who coordinated the Perot petition campaign in western Wayne County suburbs this spring, said she is "encouraging" her volunteers to consider supporting the Democratic ticket of Bill Clinton and Al Gore.

"I'm going to meet with Judy Werner (who served as Perot's Michigan petition coordinator) and we're going to back Clinton-Gore," Bower said.

She noted that she was considering supporting Clinton earlier in the year before Perot said he would consider running for the White House.

At the Westland Central City Park meeting of Perot workers, Harrington said many backers were upset and are "still disgruntled" about Perot's withdrawal but urged others to "put that behind us and move forward."

The people at the meeting agreed to organize a national party, hold a national convention and to continue Perot's battle to change the political system.

Harrington said the state group is looking into the legal aspects of holding a Michigan convention and whether it should organize as a third political party or a political action committee.

"I am hoping for a permanent organization for years to come," Harrington said.

Some at the session noted that while Perot personally urged his backers to focus on the upcoming U.S. House and Senate races, he has no supporters campaigning for those seats.

Several supporters were upset that Gov. Engler was allowed to attend a Michigan meeting of Perot campaign coordinators held Friday night, July 17, the day after Perot announced he was dropping his campaign. Engler is a leader in President George Bush's Michigan campaign.

It was pointed out that Engler asked and received permission to attend the session. The group was also told that Susan Esser of Traverse City will be Michigan's representative to the upcoming meetings of Perot backers who convene in Dallas, Texas.

The group said its meetings are open to anyone who is interested. They were scheduled to meet again last night in the pavilion in the park, directly behind the civic center on the south side of Ford, between Wayne Road and Newburgh.

Geake's bill fixes business tax goof

A bill that corrects an error in the Single Business Tax Act that extended the tax year, yet failed to account for credits allowed during the extended period, was signed into law July 21 by Governor Engler.

State Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, sponsored the bill.

"This legislation brings the amount of SBT credits allowed into line with the extended transitional tax year," said Geake whose 6th District includes Redford and Livonia. "Unfortunately, changes made to the SBT last year inadvertently miscalculated the credits for the 15-month transitional tax year."

Senate Bill 771 amends the SBT to correct a mistake made when the legislature passed Public Acts 255 and 256 in 1990. Last year's acts correlated the collection and payment of the retail tax and SBT by insurance companies.

STATE

One of the specific provisions was to change the tax year designation for insurers from an Oct. 1-Sept. 30 tax year to a calendar year basis, beginning in 1991. Since 1991 was a transition year, it began Oct. 1, 1990 and ended Dec. 31, 1991.

Current law specifies the maximum amount of disability insurance premiums an insurer can claim as an SBT credit. Unfortunately, the amount of credit allowed for disability insurance premiums was not changed to reflect the longer tax year, making some insurers liable for a greater SBT.

The new legislation increases the amount of credit for which these insurers are eligible for the longer 1991 transitional year from $130 million to $162.5 million.

Budding director finds action shooting movie in Michigan

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

Those who have devoted their lives to months of hard work on a Michigan film project believe Velko Milosevich of Farmington Hills could be the country's next, big film director.

The 26-year-old graduate film student from the University of Southern California has gathered a team of 35 from around the country to develop and film his own script called "The Paraclete."

It's the story of a Detroit cop, an ex-Navy SEAL commando, who is tormented by a ghost in his past:

the memory of killing his brother when they were children. The script has a unique, cultural flavor, with a Serbian influence in traditional dancing, religion and in everyday life.

Milosevich describes the film, which he is also directing, as "a psycho-thriller."

"Some days we wake up and say, 'Why are we doing this?'" he said. "I'm doing it to show people what's inside my head — to blow them away."

From the basement of the Milosevich home on Lyncroft in the Hills, Velko, his sister and associate producer Tanya Milosevich, producer Maureen Stanton-Leveque, and others are working the phones trying to get corporate and private funding for their project, which is set to be filmed this fall in the Detroit area. A number of people from the Michigan film community have also offered their help, including Roger White in special effects, Nancy Clervi in casting and Lon Stratton as director of photography.

The writer-director prides himself on not having a traditional, trendy Hollywood style, but admires some of Hollywood's biggest names including Stanley Kubrick and Francis Ford Coppola.

"It's kind of autobiographical," said the Orchard Lake St. Mary's graduate about his film. "You can't help but put a bit of yourself into this."

The project is Velko's graduate thesis, a 35mm film which will be shot entirely on location in Michigan, with some scenes scheduled for various locations in Dearborn and at Nikola's Restaurant, a family-owned business in Southfield.

The script moves between the past and present, and is described as "hard hitting" by those working on it.

Velko's sister, 21-year-old Tanya, has taken a year off from New York University's School of the Arts film program to participate in producing the film. She is also making a documentary about the making of the film.

"It's a very gifted film-making group," she said. "They're really sick of the same old same old. It's a leap of faith for me to be working for him. When he's successful, he'll pull millions into Michigan theater."

She said the team has gone out of the way to involve Michigan college students to help them get experience and college credit, as well.

Stanton-Leveque, a Chicago native whose husband is living miles away in Washington, D.C., has dedicated herself to staying in Farmington Hills to produce the film.

"I haven't seen that many students who stand apart from others — he did," said Stanton-Leveque, who is also a graduate student at USC's School of Cinema/Television. "Most people are excited to take part in it."

The completed film will be shown at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Science's First Look Festival and at the Director's Guild of America and other major film festivals.

Governor's choice of black woman for circuit court judge is historic

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER

Being a role model is nothing new for Denise Langford-Morris, the West Bloomfield resident who next week will become the first black judge on the Oakland County Circuit Court.

She is expected to assume her duties Aug. 3, after a three-year stint with the U.S. attorney's office in Detroit.

She was appointed to the position by Gov. John Engler, who earlier this year asked Oakland County Republicans to begin searching for more black attorneys — presumably for possible judicial appointments. Langford-Morris is the third black judge appointed by the Republican governor in the last four months.

As the first black circuit judge in Oakland County, Langford-Morris acknowledges that she will likely be seen as a role model — somebody for youngsters, particularly black youngsters, to emulate.

Nothing new

"That's nothing new," she said during an interview at her Detroit office. "Most people — black or white — become role models when they achieve something."

On a smaller scale, she was something of a role model in 1971 when she graduated from Cass Tech in Detroit — despite being the mother of a small child — and enrolled at Highland Park Community College, subsequently transferring to Wayne State.

She was married when she graduated from Cass Tech, Langford-Morris recalled. But the marriage did not last. It ended in divorce, leaving her as a single-parent in quest of an education.

She graduated from Wayne State in 1975 and, after getting a much-needed job with the Michigan Department of Social Services, continued work on a master's degree in guidance and counseling.

Langford-Morris initially wanted to be a physician. But she turned to social work, and possibly education, out of necessity. "I worked because I had to," she said.

Job helped decision

She said her interests turned to law because of her job, a child and adult protective services worker, and the legal situation at the time.

"At that time (the mid 1970s) protective services workers were required to present their cases in Wayne County Juvenile Court," said Langford-Morris. "I would investigate cases of child or adult abuse, and then argue them in court. (The system has since changed.)"

That developed a knowledge of — and liking for — the legal profession, she said. "So I went to law school, the University of Detroit (graduating in 1982)."

Langford-Morris got her first full-time job as a lawyer in 1984, when she interviewed with the Oakland County prosecutor's office. Her first interview was with Richard Thompson, then chief assistant. The second was with L. Brooks Patterson, the prosecutor with an arch conservative reputation.

"I hired her on the spot," Patterson recalled last week. "I knew I couldn't go wrong with someone as bright and dedicated as she was."

Again, Langford-Morris was something of a role model. She was the only black attorney on Patterson's staff — although another person, long departed, had the honor of being the first.

Local help

Patterson, along with Circuit Judge David F. Breck, are among those who encouraged Engler to consider Langford-Morris for judicial appointment.

Thompson, who succeeded Patterson as Oakland's prosecutor, was among the first to laud the appointment of Langford-Morris to the circuit bench.

"She's an outstanding trial lawyer," Thompson said of his former colleague. "The entire law enforcement community will be pleased with her appointment."

As an assistant prosecutor, Langford-Morris handled a wide range of assignments, including stints in every Oakland County district court. Although the work was hard and time-consuming, Langford-Morris considered it a professional blessing.

Comerica lists branch closings

Southfield will be the hardest hit suburban community in terms of bank branches closed after the completion of the Comerica Bank and Manufacturers Bank merger.

Six Southfield branches will be closed; 10 branches will remain open.

A total of 55 Michigan branches will be consolidated over the next 1½ years.

Area closings include:

• Farmington/Farmington Hills: Manufacturers at Grand River-Halsted. Six branches remain.

• Livonia: Manufacturers at Ann Arbor Road-Ann Arbor Trail and Plymouth-Merriman and Comerica at Six Mile-Newburgh. Six branches remain.

• Birmingham: Comerica at Woodward-Oakland. Three branches remain.

• Bloomfield Township/West Bloomfield: Manufacturers at Adams-Square Lake and 14 Mile-Farmington and Comerica at Woodward-Square Lake. There will be 10 branches remaining after consolidation.

Rochester Hills: Manufacturers at Avon-Rochester Five branches remain.

• Canton Township: Manufacturers at Joy Road-Morton Taylor. Two branches remain.

• Southfield: Manufacturers at Evergreen-Jeanette, Northland Point, Southfield-13 Mile, 2000 Town Center; Comerica at 10 Mile-Telegraph, 12 Mile-Evergreen.

• Troy: Comerica, John R-Wattles. Seven branches remain.

• Westland: Manufacturers, Wayne-Warren. Five branches remain.

Customers of one bank may not conduct business at an office of the other until the bank merger is complete, probably Oct. 1.

Comerica said it will spend more than $5 million on renovations to 30 branches. Renovations will include expanding the number of drive-up and teller windows, adding automated teller machines, increasing the amount of parking space available and providing easier access for physically handicapped customers.

Branches will not be consolidated until the renovations are complete and the selected branch can accommodate its new customers. The selected branch will be staffed by employees from each of the combining branches. All branch employees have been assured they have positions, the bank said.

Most of the consolidations will occur in 1993, and customers will receive at least 90 days advance notification.

Tennis, anyone? David Schwartz, owner of the Tennis Co. in Southfield, has parlayed an idea and a love of the game into a multi-million dollar business.

Specialty tennis shop ahead of its time

Service and selection are David Schwartz's aces in luring repeat customers to his tennis store.

BY GERALD FRAWLEY
STAFF WRITER

His was a super specialty store when super specialty stores weren't cool.

Wander through a mall and try to avoid stores that sell umpteen zillion products, all of the same ilk.

They've got stores that sell only socks. Stores that sell videos and movie-related items. They've got computer software stores. Just about anything a consumer would want to buy can be found in the super specialty, which is why the stores are one of the fastest growing retail segments in the 1990s.

When David Schwartz started the Tennis Co. in 1977, that just wasn't the case.

If you wanted tennis equipment 15 years ago, you went to a department store or one of the few general sports stores. An avid player and tennis fan, Schwartz thought there had to be a better way.

Today, after 15 years in business and five incarnations, The Tennis Co. "better way" has become a business success story. In 1991, the Tennis Co. registered $2.5 million in sales. Earlier this month, the store moved to new quarters — with 8,500 square feet of merchandise and demonstration areas — on Southfield Road near 13 Mile.

The super specialty

Rick Valade, retail consulting partner with Arthur Andersen, said the super specialty store is a concept that has evolved from one of the earliest types of retailing — the department store. The concept goes back to the early 1900s, he said. Then, there were general stores in rural areas and department stores in the urban centers.

"Ever since then, people have been picking out departments and making them into whole stores."

For the most part, Valade said, price has the driving force behind super specialty stores.

In recent years, selection has taken on an even greater role. "They have become destination stores." People will travel from great distances to shop at them.

"It (the number of new stores) is clearly a rapidly growing segment of the retail market, although the (percentage of sales) is still relatively small," he said.

Tennis, anyone?

Tennis was in its heyday the year Schwartz decided to start the Tennis Co., but it wasn't the enticement of big money that spurred the idea for the store.

"I was heading home from work and I was going to play tennis — you know, dressed in a business suit and all — and I had brought my stuff, but I forgot the socks."

So he stopped at one of the sports retailers of the day and found his way to the tennis department. All they had were socks for $3.49. "That was a fair amount of money in those days."

While there, he also checked into getting his tennis racket restrung. "They said it would take three or four days."

For an avid player, being without a racket for several days is unacceptable, he said. "I thought it was a service that should be provided."

A year later, he set up shop in a 750-square-foot building in Oak Park that was once a house.

"When we started, we kind of broke price," he said. "If they sold a racket for $29.99, we sold it for $19.99."

Schwartz said it became more and more apparent that service was the critical component.

"Price is still a deciding factor, but someone can always sell it cheaper," he said. "If I can sell a racket at $19.99, someone else can sell it for $19.95."

A service strategy has resulted in many changes, including the addition of demonstration areas where people can

Trade show slated for manufacturers

If it works for service businesses, why not a trade fair for manufacturers?

That's what John H. White, executive director of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, has cooked up for companies as large as auto manufacturers to small job shops in southeastern Michigan.

"In this community, we have an industrial corridor second to none. There's probably some 1,500 businesses there," White said. "We have this great asset. I've been looking at how do we serve that part of our community."

Where previous business expos sponsored by the chamber welcomed walk-in visitors and featured firms providing financial, computer, printing and health-care services, the trade fair would be geared strictly to manufacturers, their staffs and purchasing professionals.

The one-day fair tentatively has been scheduled for October in Livonia. Exhibitors would be charged $500-$750. Many companies, including Ford and GM, have committed, White said.

"If I get 100 booths, I would be very delighted. This whole thing is going to be a huge networking opportunity," he said.

Dennis Dresser, president of Gel Inc. in Livonia, has met with White to set up the exposition.

"The big benefit I see for us is it's really focused around purchasing," he said. "It just opens for us the possibility for more activity. With the way things are in the auto industry, there may be other opportunities we may have never looked at."

Gel, founded in 1976, makes gear assemblies, turn tilts and signals and plastic components.

"If it promotes opportunities for purchasing or on the supply side, we'll be glad to participate," Dresser said.

Manufacturers from throughout southeastern Michigan contacted through chambers of commerce in Observer & Eccentric communities will be invited to take part, White said.

"The overall goal for the whole project is to provide a vehicle for business to buy better, buy more economically, by becoming aware of businesses right here they could be buying from," White said.

"A rep on the road can make at maximum probably four calls a day," he said. "At the expo, we're looking at attendance of 2,000 to 3,000."

Brenda Zimmerman is spokeswoman for the Construction Association of Michigan, which has sponsored an annual trade show.

"Exhibitors can make a lot of money on those trade floors," she said. "A lot of exhibitors offer discounts, specials, to drum up even more business."

"Like any sort of business, it depends on supply and demand," Zimmerman said. "Good attendance is the key. Quality of attendees is critical, too. A show lives and dies by how well it's promoted."

try out equipment and videotape their form, a full-time staff that can restring a tennis racket the same day, instruction videotapes available for loan, and a variety of related merchandise "that is second to no one."

"We were going after the hardcore tennis players," Schwartz said. Just the other day, Schwartz said he arranged for someone to be at the store at 7 a.m. in the morning to receive a racket and restring it in time for the customer's trip.

"Sometimes you have to do things like that." The store's reputation for service has resulted in a strong following.

Destination store

He said his customers travel from all over the metro area — and sometimes from out-state areas — because of the service and selection.

Another device that has proven successful for the Tennis Co. is an innovation borrowed from the membership warehouse clubs called the Tennis Club.

The membership only club entitles participants to discounts on merchandise and service. "For example, for a $170 warm-up, we sell it for $116," he said. The club membership costs $55, but Schwartz knows his clientele.

"My tennis customer goes through three string jobs a year, three pairs of shoes and who knows how many clothes."

While a membership doesn't hinder customers, it does do something for him — it encourages them to return. The return customer is essential to a retail business — especially when that enterprise caters to a shrinking population.

"The specialty store services a very select group," he said. When he started, there were probably 100 stores serving a tennis-playing population of about 100,000.

Now, there are probably 80,000 tennis players in the metro area, but even fewer stores.

The smaller number of players doesn't bother him because each surviving store has done better as competitors have gone out of business.

Even now, with the ever-growing competition as more sports retailers enter the market, Schwartz said he is unconcerned. "When tennis takes off — and it seems to be doing that for past two years — we'll be in a good position because we have a larger percentage to start from."

Answering the query, What's my line?

DAN McCOSH

My father, not prone to introspection, once caught me up short with a question that probed at the secret angst of my generation: "Just exactly what is it that you do?"

We of the service generation are not used to such bluntness coming from a generation that, like my father, dreamed of building factories and making things.

Journalism is, of course, the ultimate in passive participation, and automotive journalism is one of the more esoteric niches of the kind of career that leads at best to Warhol's 15 minutes of fame.

Now, finally, it turns out that coming this fall there is the potential for a good half hour or so, and maybe an answer to my father's question.

Hollywood is working on a TV series about an auto writer.

No kidding. Written by Gary Markowitz, and starring Pierce Brosnan, "Running Wilde" supposedly is a vivid portrayal of a hard-charging guy who races cars, chases women and writes about it all. In the company of television fare where the hottest show is about a Detroit home-improvement show host, this just might sell.

Much as I resemble the suave Mr. Brosnan, I confess that "Running Wilde" is not about me. In fact, most of the writers who illuminate the automotive scene today would best be portrayed by Michael Pollard. In this relatively small and cloistered field, it poses an interesting question whether anyone in real life has the stuff of a series hero.

Frankly, the only auto writer I can think of that might have lived out the role is cousin Denise.

Cousin Denise is Denise McCluggage (OK, we haven't had a genealogist check this out, but her mother is named McCosh.) Today she works out of a combination packing crate and office stuffed into her garage in Santa Fe, N.M., where she churns out artful, carefully crafted pieces that bring the automotive scene to life — as long as you keep her off the subject of antilock brakes.

As far as I can piece her autobiography together, she was covering auto racing for the New York Herald Tribune in the early 1960s when the only logical thing to do seemed to be to buy a Ferrari GTO, ship it to Europe and drive against the likes of Phil Hill and Carroll Shelby. "I'd finish a race, pull out my Underwood and put it on a pile of tires, and yell out 'Who won?'" she recalls.

It was the golden age of sports car racing, with the fastest sports cars in the world, flat-out on open roads, careening across a Europe just pulling itself out of the ravages of war.

As a writer, she managed to bring it all to life, capturing the ambience as well as the machinery, while driving well enough to race at LeMans and in the Mille Miglia before that race was shut down.

Eventually, she sold the Ferrari, then founded a community newspaper in Vermont, and later launched the predecessor to Autoweek magazine.

Today there is, of course, The Book she is working on — but it's only about other people racing, not herself. One is tempted to crib her story and do a TV series, but who in the world could play the part?

world on fire. "Realistically, I'm looking for customers. The type of services we require (suppliers) are extremely specialized.

"My criticism of big expos is they tend to have all bent around retail and service types of things," Smith said. "I can't sell to anybody at Livonia Mall."

Tee Time: Jacobson's stores in Livonia, Rochester, Birmingham, Ann Arbor and Dearborn are selling T-shirts designed by Giorgio Armani, Karl Lagerfeld, Donna Karan, Issac Mizrahi, Calvin Klein and Jean Paul Gaultier for the benefit of the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan.

W's T-shirts benefit work of 7 hospices

When it comes to celebrating a birthday, W magazine is doing it with style and in a unique way. The fashion magazine turned 20 years old this year. Created from its "mother publication," Women's Wear Daily, it has been "taking the fashions from the runways in Paris to people all over the world" for two decades. And that might explain why its birthday celebration has a worldwide bent and its birthday present is going to seven AIDS hospice services.

Six of the top designers — Giorgio Armani, Karl Lagerfeld, Donna Karan Isaac Mizrahi, Calvin Klein and Jean Paul Gaultier — didn't say no when approached by the magazine to design commemorative T-shirts. They are being sold through selective retailers, including Jacobson stores in Livonia, Birmingham, Rochester, Grosse Pointe, Ann Arbor and Dearborn, at $20 each.

"We've lost a lot of very famous designers to AIDS and we decided we wanted to give something back to the community and the people who have supported us with this spectacular T-shirt promotion," said Stephanie George, publisher of W magazine at a kick-off tea at Jacobson's Birmingham store July 21.

Money garnered from the sale of the T-shirts will go to the AIDS program of the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan in Southfield, City of Angels Hospice in Hollywood, Calif., Centro Teresa Gabrieli in Milan, Italy, AIDS Resource Center's Bailey House in New York City, Hospital Necker in Paris, France, and Shanti Project in San Francisco, Calif.

Hospice of Southeastern Michigan is the third largest hospice in the United States. It recently opened a 15-bed AIDS unit in Detroit with the help of a $100,000 grant and furnished with the help of the K mart Corp.

HSEM president and chief executive officer Carolyn Fitzpatrick Cassin hopes the T-shirt sales will provide enough money to open a second unit on Detroit's eastside.

"We found the most pressing need in the last few years was in the care of AIDS patients," she said. "We did it in the home for four years before opening our AIDS unit in Detroit. The 15 beds were filled in the first two months and now we have a waiting list."

Presently, 5 percent of HSEM's patients have AIDS.

Cassin is excited about the T-shirt promotion and agency's "new partnership" with Jacobson's, lauding the retailer for its "commitment to the community and its willingness to take a leadership role" in forwarding the work of hospices.

She also had praise for W magazine.

"I'm very impressed that the publishers of W magazine realize the importance of hospice care for people with AIDS," she said. "The number of people with AIDS is increasing every year, so there will be an even greater need for hospice services."

"We are very grateful to W and to Jacobson's for their help in supporting AIDS hospice care."

George would like to raise $2 million for the hospice programs and, if the enthusiasm at the by invitation only tea is any indication, she will have little trouble selling the necessary 500,000 T-shirts. Cassin estimates that local sales of 50,000 of the shirts will be enough to open a second AIDS hospice unit.

The 100 percent cotton T-shirts come in one size. They will be available only through Aug. 15 at Jacobson stores or by mail by calling 1-800-222-WMAG. There's an additional charge for shipping and handling.

A girl's favorite plaything was, is and always will be a doll. They have names, share secrets and even enjoy impromptu tea parties. And dolls from the mid-1800s to the present are the star attraction in an exhibit at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

If the dolls at the Plymouth Historical Museum could talk, they'd have plenty of stories to tell.

Dolls, from the 1830s and 1840s up through modern times, are the focus of the museum's new exhibit, which will continue through Oct. 5. Doll fashions and accessories are also featured.

"These dolls are wonderful," said Donna Keough, exhibits chairwoman. About 100 dolls from the collection of Alvina Cracknell of Alpena, Mich., are included.

Cracknell does doll repairs and makes doll clothing. A Plymouth Historical Society member who's a friend of Cracknell's sister suggested having such an exhibit.

Hours at the Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main, are 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2-5 p.m. Sunday. For information, call 455-8940.

Many dolls from the museum's collection are in the exhibit. "Ours are the older ones," said Keough, a Canton resident. Cracknell's dolls tend to be newer, although many are dressed in period costumes.

The museum's main lobby area is set up to resemble a playroom from the early 20th century. In a nearby display case, there's a collection of Danbury Mint "Brides of America" dolls. Those modern dolls, popular with collectors, are dressed in bridal gowns representative of styles from 1750 through 1980.

One shop window in the museum's Main Street area features dolls made by Works Progress Administration workers during the 1930s at what is now Michigan State University.

"They're really quite wonderful," she said of those dolls. "They're all individual and different."

Bashful boy: This 1987 doll is featured in the museum's main lobby area, which is set up to resemble a child's playroom.

When Beth Weinman returns to classes this fall at Pioneer Middle School in Plymouth Township, she'll have plenty of stories to tell about camp.

"I like it," said Beth, 14. "The campers and counselors are nice." She enjoys the crafts projects.

"We make stuff, like we're doing now. Today, we painted flowerpots."

Beth is among those at Camp A.B.L.E. (Attaining, Belonging, Learning and Educating), a Canton-Plymouth Therapeutic Recreation day camp offered through Canton Parks and Recreation. The program, based at Gallimore Elementary School in Canton, is Making do

In earlier times, dolls were created from whatever materials were available. "Dolls were made from just about everything, rags, cornhusks." Wooden dolls and rag dolls were often created by parents for their children. Those dolls were played with and became worn out, so few remain available for collectors today.

As time passed, more manufactured dolls were produced and sold. Even at the turn of the century, a doll bought for a child was considered a luxury item. Such dolls were well cared for, Keough said, and many are still around today.

Schoenhut dolls were machine-made, although they look like they're hand-carved. The wooden dolls have flexible spring joints and are quite durable.

"Virtually indestructible. A child could play with them and it wouldn't be a problem." Those dolls were patented in the U.S. in 1911 by a German wood carver.

Dolls weren't really considered playthings for children until the 1800s, Keough said. "They had so many things to do." Those heavy-duty chores limited play time.

Earlier dolls look like adults rather than infants or children, and studying their fashions and hairstyles reveals a great deal about the era in which they were produced.

Many of the dolls in the exhibit were made in the U.S., although European dolls are also featured. Germany produced many beautiful porcelain-type dolls, Keough said, and those are included.

In some cases, a china head for a doll was bought, and a body for it then made at home and dressed accordingly. The museum has a china doll from around 1840 with a red line above the eye to suggest a lid.

Dolls galore: Many dolls, doll accessories and fashions are featured in the exhibit, which will continue through early October at the museum, 155 S. Main in downtown Plymouth.

"And it's in excellent condition, so we're lucky to have that," Keough said of the doll.

Quite a variety

Lifelike papier mache dolls, made by Cracknell from kits, are featured in the exhibit. Laura Ingalls Wilder dolls are included, along with paper dolls, doll banks, pin cushion dolls and many others.

A modern Mr. T doll is found in the museum's Main Street barber shop. He has a rather distinctive hairstyle, so his placement in the barber shop's appropriate.

Other dolls in the exhibit resemble well-known people, ranging from Napoleon to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Virtually all the dolls are in display cases, although there is one downstairs that children can play with. Response to the exhibit, which opened in mid-July, has been positive.

"Very positive, very good," Keough said. "We've had a lot of traffic, a lot of young families."

Play time: Counselor Angell DiPonio and Nicole Krol find the Gallimore playground to their liking.

The camp's designed for kids ages 4-16, although several older teens are also participating this summer. Jennifer Tamas, 19, of Canton enjoys painting and "lots of stuff."

She's made good friends among the campers and counselors, and looks forward to her days at Camp A.B.L.E. "We have fun," the Wayne Memorial High School student said.

Many parents want campers to make new friends and develop socialization skills, said camp director Kendall Foersterling of Plymouth.

"It's mostly just a friendly atmosphere. Everybody gets to be good friends," said Foersterling, a 1988 Plymouth Canton High School graduate who's studying psychology at Eastern Michigan University.

The Canton-Plymouth camp has been offered for a number of years. This summer's sessions began in early July and will continue through mid-August. (For registration information, call 397-5110.)

Sessions are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekdays at Gallimore, which is accessible to those who use walkers and wheelchairs. Each Tuesday is "Beach Day," with campers and counselors traveling to Silver Lake.

Special trips are planned for each Friday, including visits to the Detroit Zoo, Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum, Cranbrook Institute of Science, Domino's Farms and other places.

During the rest of the week, trips for smaller groups are planned. Recently, one-half of the group took the van to Wiard's Orchards to pick cherries and strawberries.

"It went really well," said Foersterling, 21, who's directing the camp for the first time this summer. "We try to make everybody happy. It doesn't always work. They all have different attention spans."

Weekly attendance ranges from 18 on up to 25, varying according to family vacation plans and other commitments. Plymouth-Canton residents pay $45 per week and non-residents $60, with additional fees for the Friday trips and for latchkey care.

Latchkey care is offered 2-5 p.m. weekdays. Several counselors stay in the afternoon to help care for the eight to 10 latchkey students.

Some campers have participated during previous summers, while others are newcomers. Making new friends is rewarding for all, Foersterling said.

"Oh, definitely. It helps them a lot." Most attend regular schools, and benefit from getting to know other people. That way, they become accustomed to meeting people and aren't as likely to be teased in school, she said. Parents also benefit from getting to know each other.

Activities at Camp A.B.L.E. include arts and crafts, sports, cooking and trips. Campers spend some time outdoors each day.

"We try to make sure we keep everybody involved." She and other staffers are impressed with how quickly the campers pick up on things.

One boy, for example, likes to play with the Scrabble board game, and does just fine matching up letters and creating words. Student art work is impressive as well.

"They're beautiful," Foersterling said. "They do just a great job. They're just like everyday kids, they really are."

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Ms. Lorene Green,
I am a 19-year-old shoe salesman working in Westland Mall. I dropped out of high school in 10th grade because I wanted more freedom. But now that freedom doesn't seem so great.

I am a right hander and I am a bit lost right now. I was wondering if your graphology profile of me might put me back in the right direction of what to do, whether or not to get my diploma, or what careers would be possibly suited to my personality.

I really didn't read your column or the Observer, or any paper for that matter until last week. I stumbled upon your article to P.G. and thought that maybe if I wrote a letter, you could possibly help me like you did her. I really hope you choose my letter because I think it would help me out. Thanks.

Z.L.,
No city listed

Z.L., thank you for writing. I sincerely hope my analysis will cause you to take an objective look and also help you understand yourself better. Perhaps it will also assist you to make changes which will enable you to feel better about yourself. Always remember you are a unique young man. There is no one else just like you anywhere.

The desire to make a change is a positive sign and the first step toward improvement. The Chinese have an appropriate saying which seems to fit here: "The journey of a thousand miles starts with a single step."

I would like to suggest that you definitely return to school to earn a diploma. Probably, you have already learned the job market is extremely limited for those who do not possess one. You may want to begin by going back to high school and talking with a counselor. Ask about taking aptitude tests to find the career for which you are most suited.

You are a bright young man and can readily earn a diploma, if you want it badly enough. Also consider talking to a religious adviser. You have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

I so want to encourage you to become interested in reading and studying on your own. A whole new world will be opened to you! Self-help books are an excellent place to begin for someone like yourself who is trying to mature and grow. I highly recommend "The Road Less Traveled" by M. Scott Peck, M.D.

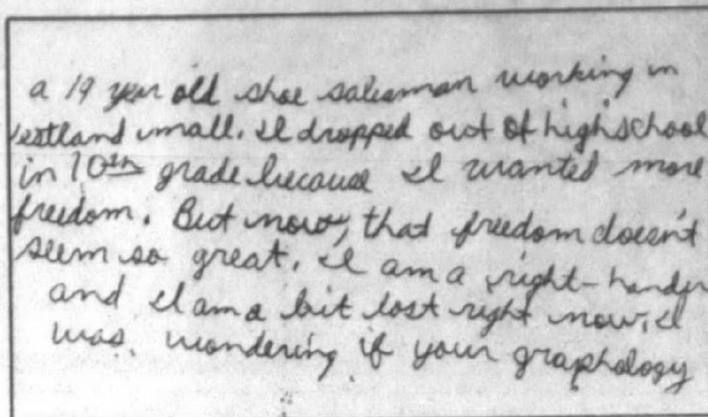

The teen years are often very difficult ones! I can also see that life has not always been a bowl of cherries for you. It may well be that the early home environment was not attuned to your special needs. You perceive some deprivation from this period of life and need love and understanding.

One of the first areas to command my attention in your handwriting is the unusual left margin which continues to increase in size as it travels down the entire page. Although I have never seen one like this and none of my reference books show anything comparable, I offer these thoughts based on the remainder of your handwriting.

At the present time, you are unhappy and discouraged. Black clouds often gather around you. Seemingly, you are hurrying to escape certain past experiences which plague you, but have been unable to successfully do this as yet. It is important to realize that one's past has great influence on the personality. Time and effort are needed to make desired changes.

Although you may be somewhat fearful of self-examination, I feel it is very necessary if you are to mature and reach your potential.

To aid in your quest for self-help I will attempt to point out the areas which are most in need of attention and leave the decisions to you. A noticeable lack of self-discipline can be found throughout this handwriting. Often you are inclined to follow the line of least resistance. You may want to begin by analyzing the reasons for your lack of discipline and search for ways to develop more. Consider that success in almost any field of endeavor depends on self-discipline.

Your handwriting also reveals a lack of consistency in setting and accomplishing goals. You are able to work in a precise manner when you choose to do so, so why not start out working for practical goals which you feel you can reach. Then move on to more challenging ones as your confidence level increases. It is a well known fact that success begets success. And a positive attitude is a great asset.

Patience is not one of your strong points. Much of the annoyance I see here appears to be directed at yourself. Try not to continually blame and condemn yourself for past mistakes. Acknowledge them, but leave them in the past. Try to be more tolerant of yourself as well as others.

You need people, but also need time alone. When dealing with others are you aware of a tendency to be a bit stubborn, often defending your viewpoints strongly. Also a need to dominate others does not add to your popularity. Seemingly as yet, you have not reached a plateau of confidence in relationships with other people.

There is a marked difference between your signature and the text of your writing. This suggests a definite difference between your public and private manner. Seemingly, you are becoming more aware of the impression you make on others and want to put your best foot forward.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist at 38251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are all helpful. And objective feedback is always welcome.

Bidding easier to learn than 'play'

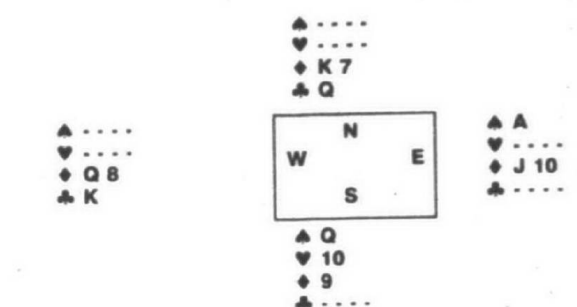

I wrote once before about the great French master Jose Le Dentus' sage reply when asked "Which is more difficult to learn, bidding or play?"

"Unquestionably, the 'play of the cards,'" he answered. "If you really wanted to take the trouble, you could become an above-average bidder in 15 days, but to become a good card player might take 15 years."

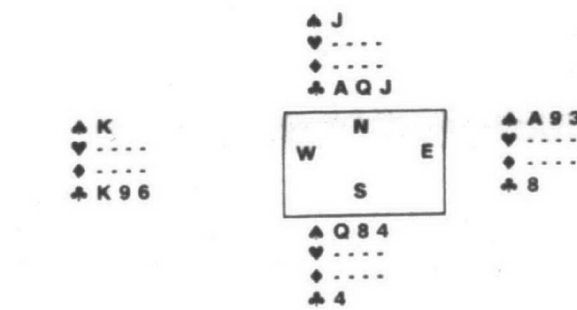

His position is universally subscribed to, yet it is a wonder that among the world's finest, most of the problems become one because of the bidding. In the major tournaments today, where the standard of performance is exceptional, the play is responsible for at best only 25 percent of the swings. This is because the play by the masters is close to perfection but not so in their bidding.

Today's astonishing hand was played nearly a dozen years ago in a famous European tournament. Less than a dozen declarers arrived in the 12-trick heart slam off the ace, king of spades. Each bid the hand as shown, which you can see didn't receive some of the sophisticated gadgets of modern times. Most declarers employed the same lead, but only Karl Schneider of Austria, Jean Besse of Switzerland and Terrence Reese of Britain, three of the world's foremost champions, succeeded. This was especially astonishing for their playing techniques contrasted dramatically.

When he played the heart ten, the defense was finished. West had to keep the club king so pitched a diamond, and dummy's club queen became useless. East had to keep the spade ace and was therefore squeezed in diamonds too, allowing dummy's diamond king, seven to win the last two tricks.

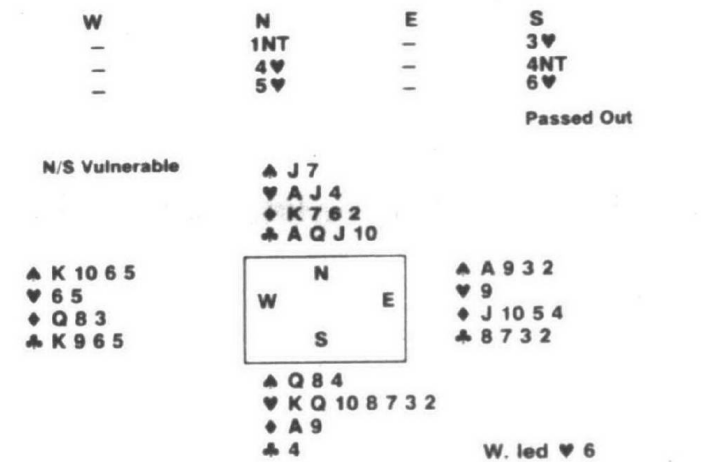

The great Besse relied on no sleight of hand to perform his wizardry. He treated it as a double dummy problem with a hoped-for ending, and this is how he did it. He won the heart ace and played the diamond ace, king. Ruffed a diamond and entered dummy with the heart jack to ruff the last diamond. Then he ran all of his trumps to reach this four-card ending.

Now a club to the queen and the spade jack. The defenders were helpless. If East won, the ace he's end-played in spades. If he ducks and West's king won, he's end-played in clubs.

Any questions? Yes, I truly agree the game is amazing!

Woody Boyd teaches local bridge classes and is working toward becoming a life master. He lives in Bloomfield Township.

Some hands are difficult to play. Today's is a monster that none of our champions foresaw until the dummy came into play. The lead suggested to each that West didn't have the A, K of spades and maybe not even the ace. The heart six therefore lured the A, K and offered a chance.

Here's how Reese handled the hand employing a magnum of deception. He won the heart ace in the dummy and didn't play another as he didn't want either opponent to signal spades if out of trumps. At trick 2, he played the club ace and the queen for a ruffing finesse pitching his diamond nine, which was won by the king. After due consideration, West fell into the trap and returned a diamond and our famous Britisher had seven hearts, three clubs and two diamonds.

Schneider pulled an even bigger bluff. After winning the heart ace, he played dummy's spade jack and let it ride to the king. To perform a squeeze, he had to lose a trick early. This west defender was hoodwinked, too, and continued hearts. Now Karl won in his hand and took the club finesse successfully. Next the club ace, club ten ruff, the diamond ace, and ran his trumps to reach this beautiful three-card ending.

Items for the religion calendar should be submitted no later than noon Friday the week prior to publication.

■ KING'S BRASS

The King's Brass will appear in concert 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 9, at the First Baptist Church of Wayne, 36125 Glenwood, Wayne. The ensemble, in its 16th year, includes three trumpet players, three trombonists and a tuba player. Through their instrumental concerts of worship and praise, the King's Brass blends favorite hymns of old with a love for the classics and the technology of the synthesizer.

■ GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. Lester Sumrall, television host of "World Harvest" and a teacher on the "Lester Sumrall Teaching Series," will speak 7 p.m. Thursday, July 30, at the Garden City Christian Center, 33111 Ford, west of Venoy, Garden City. Sumrall entered into a worldwide ministry of missionary evangelism in 1934.

■ IN CONCERT

Christian recording artist Jeff Hunt will present a concert of original and previously recorded gospel music 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 1, at the Metropolitan Seventh-day Adventist Church, 15585 Haggerty, Plymouth.

Hunt has recorded five albums, including one that received the Religion in Media's International Angel Award for middle-of-the-road album of the year. He also received nominations for country gospel album and male vocalist.

From Rochester, N.Y., he maintains a full-time ministry that isn't limited to any one audience or denomination. For more information, call 420-3131 between 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

■ SERIES ON CULTS

Praise Chapel Church of God, 585 N. Mill in Plymouth's Old Village, will present a four-part series on cults, beginning 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 5. The series will be presented by Keith Edward Tolbert, founder and director of the American Religions Center of Trenton.

Tolbert, who speaks throughout the U.S., has assembled an extensive library of books and research materials on cults, the occult and world religions. He established the center in 1974, and does research on those subjects from a Christian perspective.

The first presentation will be on "Masonry: Is It for Christians?" An additional topic will be presented each Wednesday evening in August. For more information, call 455-1070.

■ MIDWEEK WORSHIP

Village Presbyterian Church of Redford is holding midweek worship services through Aug. 19. The informal services are 8 p.m. Wednesdays in the McCalmont

Church has its own (Rev.) Strength

By JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The circumstances that brought the Rev. Daniel Strength to Canton Calvary Assembly of God weren't the best. Even so, he's glad to be where he is.

Strength became the congregation's new pastor in March. His predecessor, the Rev. Paul Speer, had died of cancer late last year. Speer's wife died just a few months after her husband did, also of cancer.

"So that certainly was not encouraging to this congregation," Strength said. "A very difficult time, the interim."

Before coming to Canton, Strength and his wife were doing supply ministry, in which they were called to fill in at vacant pastorates. He was also teaching at a Bible institute in Detroit.

"We were not really seeking another church." He has experience in "pioneering" churches, going into communities where people want an Assembly of God congregation, starting with Bible studies and prayer meetings, and establishing a church.

Strength, 42, has pioneered churches in Marine City, Algonac and Washington, Mich., and served as a pastor in Rochester Hills and Warren.

Strength, who was raised in Warren and on Detroit's east side, has been commuting from Richmond, Mich., to Canton. He and his family are moving into a home in Westland, and he's looking forward to giving up the long-distance daily drive.

He's been in the ministry for 20 years. Strength studied for several years at the Zion Bible Institute in Barrington, R.I., and then attended Central Bible College in Springfield, Mo., earning a bachelor's degree.

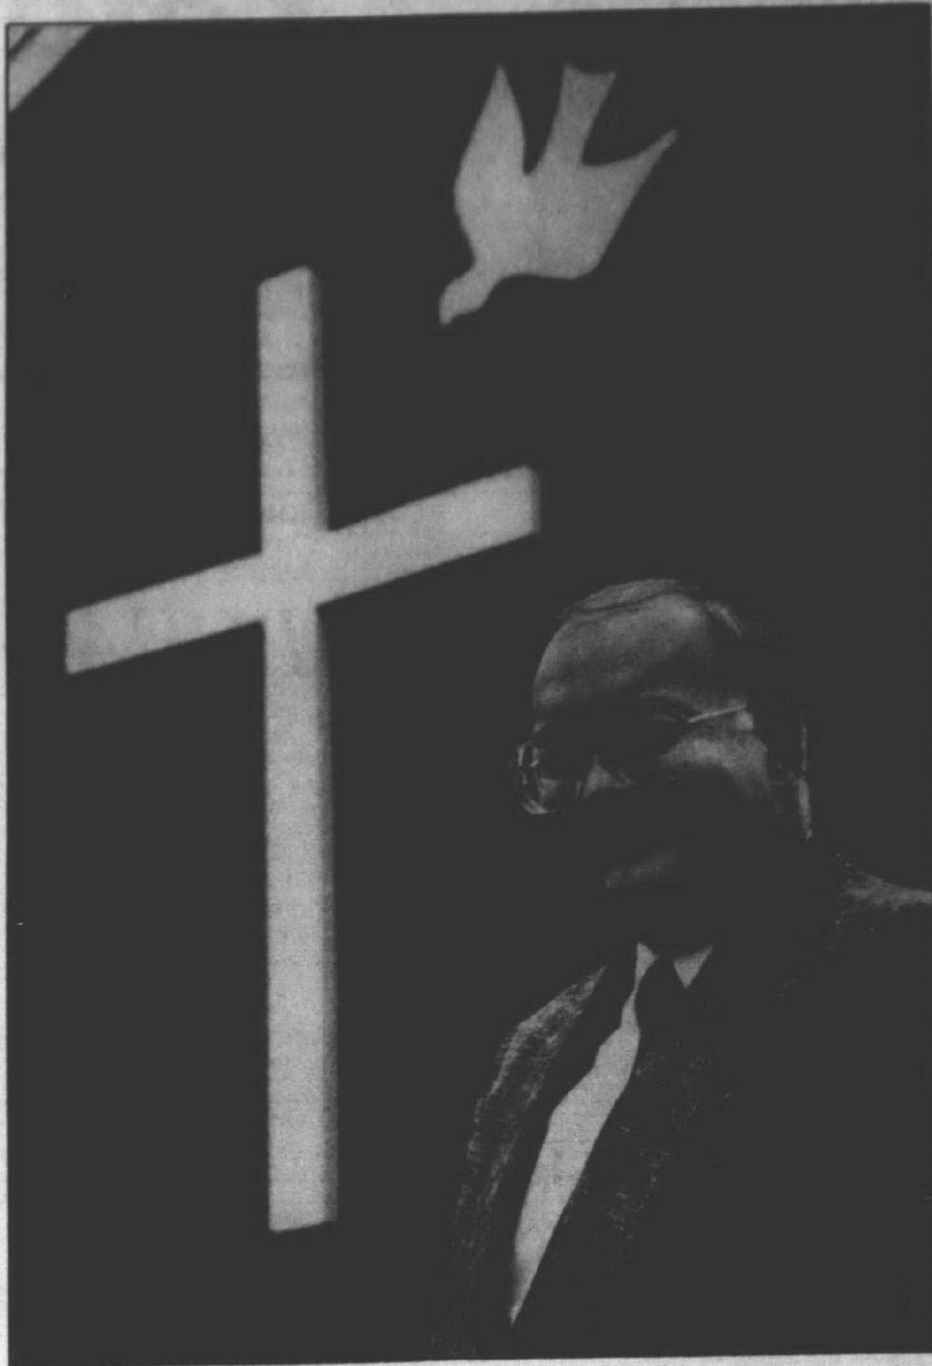

Heeding the call

"I have a call from the Lord to preach the gospel," said Strength, who doesn't consider the ministry just a vocation that he chose. "I enjoy preaching, I enjoy ministry."

He completed a master's degree in biblical literature at Trinity Theological Seminary in Indiana. He'd planned to attend this summer's graduation ceremonies, but the family's move to Westland made that impractical.

Strength is a third-generation Assembly of God pastor. Both of his grandfathers and his father were pastors, and he has many relatives active in the ministry.

His wife, Mariann, is getting involved in whatever areas of ministry need it. The Strengths have two children, Ruth Ann, 17, and Jeremiah, 12, who'll attend Agape Christian Academy in Plymouth Township. The family enjoys camping and spending time together.

Strength's congregation has about 80 families, and he's hoping to attract more members. "It's growing. It's been growing weekly, in fact." A recent tent crusade was held at the church, "which seems to be new for the people here, perhaps for the area."

"Our emphasis is family-oriented. We're wanting to provide ministry for the entire family."

Canton Calvary has a mix of ages, children, senior citizens and everything in between. The area the church draws from has people from many countries, and Strength hopes to reach out to them.

"We have quite a melting pot of nationalities and that thrills me, because I believe that's the way heaven's going to be. Really, our goal is people. Our vision for this church is to be an international church."

The church has been holding Spanish language services on Saturdays, and Strength would like to reach out to other ethnic groups. There are also practical matters to tend to, including remodeling of the church and parking lot.

Warm welcome

"This church is different than any church I have pastored in terms of friendliness. Very relaxed. I'm enjoying this church. It's really been a blessing."

He's found the pace in Canton is faster than what he's accustomed to. "People seem to have more financially, economically."

Strength has noticed west-siders are more likely to run red lights than their east-side counterparts. He hasn't had much trouble finding his way around Canton and the surrounding area.

"People seem to trust in themselves more than they do in God. To me, there is not the God-consciousness there needs to be."

He's busy settling into his duties at Canton Calvary, but finds time to teach one night a week at the Teen Challenge Bible Institute in Detroit. That institute's involved in drug/alcohol rehabilitation, and Strength teaches program graduates who want to become counselors. Most are in their early to mid-20s.

He brings with him to Canton a simple message, revealing where Strength gets his strength: "That Jesus is the answer, that he saves, that he heals, that he baptizes in the holy spirit. And he's coming back."

Writings keep Christian Scientists united

The message was clear for those attending the recent 97th annual meeting of members of The First Church of Christ, Scientist. The writings of church founder Mary Baker Eddy truly unite church members throughout the world.

New President of the Mother Church Nathan Talbot stressed that Eddy is as much a leader of the church today as she was in the early days through her writings, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures."

"There are issues that would try to divide us," he said. "But let's think first for a moment about these things that unite us. Let's keep some perspective. There's no doubt in my heart that those issues which hold us together are far greater — vastly greater — than those issues that would try to tear us apart."

Among the topics at the meeting was the church's expansion into cable television. Al Carnesiali, manager of the Christian Scientist Publishing Society pointed out that when considering the tremendous change experienced in the world, "it's well to ask ourselves if technology has forced us to move ahead of our ability or if Mrs. Eddy's discovery of Christian Science has so opened human consciousness as to reveal the great possibilities that technology presents."

"Efforts at expansion and the opposition they raise are not at all unlike the opposition encountered in Mrs. Eddy's time," he said. "New ideas stir up thought and often result in opposition and resistance. Yet, only with the development of new ideas can mankind forge ahead."

Picking up on that theme was Richard Bergeheim, editor-in-chief of church periodicals, who told members the "key to our spiritual growth is the demonstration of unselfish love."

"I raise this point because the unselfish affections, the yearnings, the deep yearning, to bring forth the evidence of God's eternal goodness and of man as His likeness, lies at the heart of our publishing and broadcasting efforts," he said.

Even though church membership had declined in previous years, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, has seen an increase in the number of applications for new members coming from 56 countries. The largest number come from the United States, followed by Africa, Europe and South America.

The Readers for the church also were announced at the annual meeting. Serving as First Reader is Howard Johnson of La Jolla, Calif., who entered a full-time practice of spiritual healing in 1972 and became a teacher of Christian Science in 1982.

Second Reader is Margaret Rogers of Larkspur, Calif. She trained and served as a Christian Science nurse before entering the full-time healing practice. She became a teacher of Christian Science in 1991.

Bethel's best

Graduates recognized:
Bethel Baptist Church in Garden City recently honored its high school graduates, including (from left) Kathleen Barber, 17, of Garden City; Lisa Hutchinson, 17, of Redford; and Brian Smith, 17, of Garden City. All three will attend Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C.

ANNIVERSARIES

Bud and Pat Gignac

The children of Bud and Pat Gignac are telling all. Their parents are celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary.

The couple met shortly after high school and exchanged wedding vows at St. Rose Church on July 26, 1952. She is the former Patricia Vidosh.

The Redford couple has four married children — Dave and Kathy of White Lake Township, Lynn and Pat of Canton, Ken and Debi of Garden City and Karen and Brian of Charlotte, N.C. Son Scott is still at home. They also have nine grandchildren — Amy, Laura, Kenny, Kevin, Kyle, Nicole, Renee, Donnie and Jackie.

A veteran of the Korean War, he manages Redford Bowling and Trophy Sales in Redford and, when time allows, enjoys bowling, golfing and hockey.

She helps at the store and enjoys working in the yard and bowling and recently took up golf.

They are active in St. Valentine's Church, where she is in the church choir.

Fash Bash: A celebration of fashion

Visualize yourself in a fantasy world, completely absorbed by the dream-like experience around you . . . surrealistic jugglers and fire eaters, magical illusions, aerialists and tumblers, histrionic art in the making, a celebration of fashion.

What is it? Fash Bash '92, a fashion and entertainment extravaganza by Hudson's and the Detroit Institute of Arts' Founders Junior Council.

"Bash" excitement, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 4, at the Fox Theatre in Detroit. Proceeds from Fash Bash will support programs and exhibits of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Internationally known comedian and juggler, Michael Davis, will delight and entertain the audience as he hosts the evening's event.

His special blend of unique juggling feats — orbiting bowling balls, machetes and raw eggs while maintaining a humorous patter — led to his discovery by an HBO producer on a San Francisco street corner.

Davis has gone on to be cast in "Broadway Follies" and featured in Broadway's "Sugar Babies," winning a Theatre World Award for best featured actor in a musical. In November, he will make a special Royal Command Performance for Queen Elizabeth II.

Fall fashion trends will be highlighted throughout the show, ranging from the "Best Western" segment with fringed skirts and boots to "Guys & Dolls" where menswear becomes women's wear with pinstripes, suspenders, fedoras and ties.

Guests will preview faux animal prints in clothing and accessories during "Wild Thing" and brightly colored patched and pieced jackets and sweaters will take them to the city streets in "Folk Art."

Myron Johnson, artistic director of Ballet of the Dolls, a Minneapolis-based professional dance-theater company, will choreograph the presentation. The inspiration for Fash Bash choreography comes from artists Magritte and Dali, along with circus elements that will be incorporated with a variety of actors, dancers, magicians and models.

The best seats in the house for Fash Bash will be VIP patron tickets at $100 per person, which includes valet parking, a pre-Bash cocktail and hors d'oeuvres reception with auction packages and a post-Bash afterglow party at the State Theatre.

Additional seating will be available on the main floor and mezzanine for $35 and balcony for $25.

Tickets are available at the DIA ticket office, Fox Theatre, Hudson's and Ticketmaster outlets. For more information, call the DIA ticket office at 833-2323.

The 13-year partnership between Hudson's and the DIA's Founders Junior Council on the Fash Bash has raised more than $852,000 for the Detroit Institute of Arts.

William and Leona Stewart

William and Leona Stewart of Redford were the guests of honor at a party at the Detroit Athletic Club recently in celebration of their 60th wedding anniversary.

The couple has lived in Redford for 24 years. They have two children, James of Plymouth and Joan of Livonia, four grandchildren, Sheryl, Julie Jeffrey and Matthew, and two great-grandchildren, Jessica and Katie.

A native of Scotland, he founded Stewart & Stewart Cartage, which has been in business for 40 years, and also owned the Chas. Bumham Cartage & Warehouse.

A native of West Virginia, she is former Leona Ellen Shy. The couple is active in the Redford senior citizens program.

Wood carvers to show fruits from their craft

Wood carvings in countless shapes and sizes are coming to Livonia. The Livonia Wood Carvers Club, in cooperation with the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department, will host the 17th annual Livonia Wood Carving Show Aug. 1-2 in Eddie Edgar Sports Arena, Lyndon at Farmington Road.

The free show will feature 137 wood carvers from Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, West Virginia and Ontario.

The fare will include decoys, birds, wildlife, miniatures, bears, horses, carousel animals, human figures, whittled pieces, marquetry and both relief and chip carving. Club members will donate prizes for the hourly drawings.

The club's biggest event of the year, the show offers 46 categories and 184 awards.

"It's judged competition for ribbons but it's also an opportunity for camaraderie and idea sharing," says Livonia resident Ron Morin, a club director and instructor. "It's just a nice bunch of people who enjoy the company of others who do the same thing that they do."

"In addition to all the displays," he said, "we'll have some commercial tables selling wood-carving tools and supplies."

Some carvers also will demonstrate their craft and have pieces for sale.

Carvers encourage visitors to touch and handle carvings. "It's an opportunity to talk one-on-one, at no cost, with us and get answers you can understand. We give advice for nothing," says Redford Township resident Bob Brooks, club president.

Howell Nature Center's informational booth, run by animal lovers Pam and Jim Krausman of Brighton, will include live hawks and owls once injured but now healthy.

An unassuming start

The club got its start 20 years ago when a few carvers attended a weekly meeting of seniors in Livonia. Today, the club boasts 275 carvers from across Observerland and beyond.

Compassionate as well as creative, members each year donate cash to the Livonia Senior Citizens Program and small wood toys to needy inner-city kids.

Morin, now on the club's board of directors, got involved in 1982. "A friend of mine sold me a pocket knife and gave me a little cut-out of a little animal," he said. "It just blossomed from that point."

Now, he's also into sculpting. "I've done two full-sized ducks as well as a portrait bust."

A toolmaker who retired from Ford Motor Co. in 1985, Morin has personally designed and crafted many of his carving tools.

In 1990, Morin took Best of Show in Marysville for an abstract piece he carved from walnut. A robin he carved is on permanent display in the Michigan Room of the Livonia Civic Center Library.

His signature work: the miniature carved shoes he passes out.

Morin's motivation is simple: "the satisfaction of being able to create something that's well received."

"I put a lot of time and effort into my work and share my carvings as family gifts," he said. "I'm not into selling."

A chance beginning

Brooks got hooked on carving 11 years ago when his television broke.

"I started to play around with woodworking — a carved eagle I'd seen in a woodworking magazine. To enhance the eagle and make it more realistic, the writer said to wood-burn it. Which I did, and it came out pretty nice."

"I soon forgot about my TV set and went into carving heavy."

He started out at arts and crafts shows but now exhibits exclusively at carving shows.

Brooks retired two years ago from Kelsey-Hayes, where he worked in printing and office services. "When you sit down and carve or wood-burn, you forget the whole darned world around you. You are your own boss. It's a great way to relax and enjoy life."

Ducks are a standard for wood carvers but Brooks hopes to specialize in songbirds and dogs: "Songbirds are smaller than ducks so are easily displayed anywhere in the house. And people often relate a carving of a dog to their own family pet."

Morin relishes the friendships he has built at Livonia Wood Carvers Club sessions. Evening sessions are at 7 p.m. Tuesdays in the Livonia Senior Citizen Center, Five Mile and Farmington Road. Morning sessions are at 9 a.m. Thursdays.

Says Morin: "All the smiles and camaraderie, it's a real thrill watching so many people making something — doing something they enjoy."

Wood sculpture to grab spotlight

Wood carvings, and a whole lot fun for the family, are on tap for the Livonia Wood Carvers Club show this weekend as more than 130 carvers from across the country converge on Eddie Edgar Arena in Livonia.

If you're looking for a fun time and a learning adventure for the whole family this weekend, consider the Livonia Wood Carvers Club's annual wood carving show.

Carousel horses, ducks, songbirds, grizzly bears, figures, florals and landscapes handcarved from wood will dazzle visitors to the 17th annual Livonia Wood Carving Show, sponsored by the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department, Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 1-2, in Eddie Edgar Sports Arena, 33841 Lyndon at Farmington Road, Livonia.

Wood carvings, whittled artworks, marquetry (decorative inlaid work), reliefs, chip carvings and miniatures by 137 exhibitors from eight states will put a smile on everyone's face.

"It's an opportunity to see friends and neighbors doing something artistic, to see wood sculpture, to see someone taking a dead piece of wood and putting life into it," said Bob Brooks, Livonia Wood Carvers Club president.

"I was asked once what will we see there. You'll see anything from mice to moose."

As an added attraction, chainsaw carver Al Heron of Windsor will carve logs into eagles, other birds and animals, said Ron Morin, Livonia Wood Carvers Club publicist.

Carvers will compete for ribbons in 46 categories, including Best of Show and runner-up Best of Show. The Orson Smith and George Latimer Awards, named after club founders, will honor the best whittled object and best relief carving.

Theme of this year's show is caricature carving. Two Livonia Wood Carvers Club tables, manned by Roy Sipes of Westland, will exhibit clowns, cowboys and cowgirls.

Pam and Jim Krausman of the Howell Nature Center will visit the show again this year, bringing along live birds. "Pam's going to be there with either birds of prey or owls. They're close enough for you to get up close to them," Brooks said.

Fiber artists create quilts as artwork

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Contemporary art quilts, like paintings, express visions and viewpoints. Quite unlike any other media, they exude a warmth while challenging the viewer to think or simply enjoy a landscape.

Livonia Arts Commission presents "New Traditions in Quilt Making," an exhibit of 30 quilts by Paradigm, a group of six contemporary, award-winning quilt artists, through Aug. 15 in the art gallery at the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Nancy Meyer of Plymouth, Karen Kratz-Miller of Cincinnati (formerly of Farmington) and Mary York Gentry of Ypsilanti, together with Sue Holdaway-Heys, Sue Nickels and Isolde SarneckideVries of Ann Arbor, delight gallery visitors with bright colors, bold patterns and statements on quilts ranging in size from 1½-by-2 feet to 11-by-12 feet.

Handpainted wild horses, panthers and animals by the score come alive in cottons of every kind alongside satin versions of Detroit's Renaissance Center.

"The gallery is resounding with color."

There are all different sizes of quilts. We hung a lot of pieces from the ceiling," said Jack Olds, Livonia Arts Commission chairman.

Meyer, a self-taught fiber artist and president of the Needlework and Textile Guild of Michigan, said quilting has hooked her into working an average of 6-18 hours a day, designing and creating quilts.

■ FINE ART

The artwork of Art Block Inc. in Wixom will adorn the Livonia City Hall lobby, Farmington Road and Five Mile, Aug. 3-28.

The 60-piece, multimedia show will feature watercolor, oil, acrylic, pastel, charcoal, colored pencil, pen and ink, clay, paper mache, collage, mixed media and egg tempera.

Art Block is an organization of artist dedicated to promoting realism in the visual arts. It defines realism as "the treatment of subject matter in a manner easily recognizable to the general public without slavish dedication to duplication."

■ PAPER ART

Origami models folded by Ann Arbor Society 4 Origami members, including original designs by Origami instructor Jorge Pezzat of West Bloomfield, will grab the spotlight Aug. 6-27 in the two display cases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road at Five Mile.

Pezzat is a member of Friends of the Origami Center of America in New York City.

Art Beat

Hours for the Livonia Arts Commission event are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday.

Origami is the traditional Japanese art of folding paper to form such things as flowers and animal figures.

■ QUILT WORK

Schoolcraft College in Livonia will offer Amish Quilting beginning Monday, Aug. 3.

Instructor Carol Ann Matthews will teach all steps in quilt making and give a historical review of the Amish culture. Four or more Amish patterns will be taught.

The three-week course will meet 9-11:30 a.m. Mondays and Wednesdays. For fee and sign up information, call Continuing Education Services: 462-4448.

The Karvings for Kids table, popular last year, will again sell to children or pre-teens only.

"There'll be world-class carvers like David Bennett of Pennsylvania who carves seascapes on an easel and Wayne Holsopple from Ohio. He carved a soldier; you'd swear it would move. You want to know how he does it, he'll sit there and tell you how to do it."

Livonia carver Pat Lea has been creating miniatures eight years. A member of the club's board of directors, Lea teaches general carving at club meetings on Tuesdays and Thursdays. "It keeps me busy. I've always worked with my hands. I like to work with wood," Lea said. "I love the people and I love the carvers."

At a recent club meeting, Paul Maceri worked at sculpting a grizzly bear. This is his first wood carver show. He'll exhibit ducks and figures and demonstrate carving as well.

"I'm just a creative person. I'm a painter, a musician, and since 1980, a wood carver," Maceri said. "I had a bypass and carving helps to keep me busy."

Maceri, who worked 30 years as an engineer for Ford Motor Co., plays first clarinet with the Novi Concert Band. Earlier this year, he donated an oil painting of Nankin Mills to Wayne County for display in the historic Westland mill.

"I'm trying to get the grizzly's angry teeth. Then I'll start putting in the fur lines," Maceri said.

One of the founding fathers of the club, Bill Lovell of Southfield has carved ducks from 125 different wood, including Tropical Walnut, Black Limba, Alaska Yellow Cedar, Tulip wood, Ceylon Satinwood, King wood, and cherry from his back yard.

"There are over 100,000 kinds of woods in the world. I enjoy meeting people and talking to people who are interested in the different woods," Lovell said.

Lovell and his wife, Florence, are show regulars, selling wood blanks or starters in a basic duck shape to people who like to carve or simply would like to learn. "Quite a few people are starting collections now in the different woods," he said.

Lovell sat carving ducks during a recent Thursday morning club meeting. He took a chunk out of the tropical walnut with his whittling knife to demonstrate the ease of carving a softer wood. Then he picked up a duck he was carving from Ceylon Satinwood.

"You can see how hard the Ceylon Satin wood is. I really have to hack the wood," Lovell said.

Chrysler retiree Conrad Schwab of Livonia works in marquetry. For 32 years, he has used the ancient art to create landscapes and custom jewelry boxes by laying in wood.

"Marquetry is a very old art form that goes back to the Egyptian tombs. It's over 3,000 years old. It was kept alive in the dark ages in the monasteries," Schwab said.

Show hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free. Door prizes, carved by the Livonia Wood Carvers Club, will be given away hourly.

A drawing at 4:30 p.m. Sunday will be held for five carvings each worth $100. Tickets are $1.

Artists celebrate success of Canton's Liberty Fest

SPECIAL WRITER

Canton Township's first Liberty Fest Fine Arts Fair in late June on the grounds of newly expanded Heritage Park was a rousing success.

Camaraderie thrived among the 43 fine artists exhibiting hundreds of paintings and works on papers including oils, acrylics, watercolors, pastels, graphite drawings, clay beads and marbling during the two-day event.

Crowds flocked through two lighted 60-by-90-foot tents to meet homegrown artists and watch them paint and draw. Members of the art community supported the show with their attendance.

"I'm proud to be part of Liberty Fest 1992, the quality of art we have in the community. We accomplished what we set out to do, give the people fine arts and a down-home quality," said Sharon Dillenbeck, owner of D & M Art Studio and Gallery in Plymouth.

Dillenbeck and Julie Giordano of J. Giordano Studio in Northville juried and produced the show, co-sponsored by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Artists exhibiting from Canton Township included Dillenbeck, Joan Ther, Gwen Dietrich, Sherrrie Moore and painters from the Canton Senior Citizens Center on Michigan Avenue.

"It was a large diversification of artists who supported each other and wanted to support and educate the community in the arts," said Dietrich, a graduate of Parsons School of Design in New York City.

"I think the Liberty Fest, as a whole, will grow, and the artist's market will continue to flourish in Canton Township," Dietrich said. "It really has strong potential."

The gallery is at 163 Townsend, Birmingham. Call 540-9288.

O.K. HARRIS/DAVID KLEIN GALLERIES Saturday, Aug. 1 — Successful fashion photographer Lisa Spindler of Detroit will display 25 black and white photos in her first solo exhibition. To Aug. 22. Opening reception 2-5 p.m. Saturday. Spindler will speak informally on her work, which explores the nude form in surprising and invigorating ways. "The images are simple yet powerful in their content and composition," said Spindler, who attended the Center for Creative Studies. "It is their very simplicity that makes them speak more powerfully." Also, Michigan invitational continues with exhibit to Aug. 8 of paintings and drawings by Gilda Snowden, an assistant professor at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit and gallery director at the Detroit Repertory Theater. Hours: 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and by appointment, 430 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 433-3700.

p.m. Thursday.

THE ARTIST'S COOPERATIVE To Aug. 1 — Two views of the landscape in "Fields of Vision," featuring works of Michele Schuff and Alan Watson, 29 E. Grand River, Detroit. Hours: noon to 5 p.m. Thursdays-Saturdays.

THE LOFTS Artist Diane Mitchell of Canton Township will exhibit 25 of her dynamic oil paintings 3-7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 2, in the community room of The Lofts, 6533 E. Jefferson, Detroit. Her Native American figures and contemporary landscapes deal with traditional subject matter in a palette not characteristic of Southwest art. Using large shapes in flat planes of color to capture the viewer's attention, Mitchell creates mystery in the sensuous forms. Her vibrant colors contrast the serenity of the figures. Currently pursuing a bachelor of fine arts degree at Wayne State University, her studies include several painting courses taken at Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. Earlier this year, she exhibited her work in a two-person show at Nelson's Gallery in Livonia.

CLARE SPITLER WORKS OF ART Sunday, Aug. 2 — "Trompe-l'oeil & Photo Constructions," new objects and sculpture by Rolf Wojciechowski. To Sept. 1. 2007 Pauline Ct., Ann Arbor. Hours: 2-6 p.m. Tuesdays and by appointment.

DETROIT INSTITUTE OF ARTS To Aug. 2 — "Arman 1955-1991: A Retrospective" surveys the extraordinary career of France's most prominent living artist. Entrance to the exhibit is free with museum admission (recommended: $4 adults, $1 children, free for members). Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday-Sunday, closed Mondays, Tuesdays, holidays.

MATRIX GALLERY Wednesday, Aug. 5 — "Reclamation," a showing of works by internationally recognized Illinois artist Michelle Stack. The exhibition includes work dealing with the process of reclaiming and reconstructing materials and ideas. It explores the connection between waste, society and the environment. Opening reception 7-9 p.m. Friday, Aug. 7. To Aug. 23. 212 Miller, Ann Arbor. Call 663-7775. Hours: 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Writers to meet

Forty-four outstanding writers from 15 Michigan colleges and universities will participate in the 27th annual Cranbrook Writers' Guild conference Thursday-Saturday, July 30 to Aug. 1, on Cranbrook's Bloomfield Hills campus. Edward Hirsch, winner of a National Book Critics Circle Award for poetry, and Kelly Cherry, first recipient of the Fellowship of Southern Writers Award, will serve as faculty for the conference.

Each will be featured in readings that the public may attend. Hirsch's presentation will take place on Thursday and Cherry's on Friday. Both will read at 7:30 p.m. at the Cranbrook House Library.

For more information, call 646-0658.

Over the past 26 years, the guild has attracted more than 700 participants to its conferences, with many now being published authors, professors and communicators.

Hirsch returns to the Detroit area from the University of Houston, where he has taught writing since leaving Wayne State University in 1985.

Winner of many honors, Hirsch publishes poetry, reviews and critical essays. His book, "Wild Gratitude," won the National Critics Award in 1986. He was called "one of the more eloquent and thoughtful voices of this generation."

To the top: A three-story atrium with escalators dominates the Neiman Marcus interior.

Neiman Marcus: dressed with finesse

BY DALE NORTUP
SPECIAL WRITER

■ A permanent art collection is just one of the features that will welcome shoppers into an atmosphere of domestic intimacy when Neiman Marcus opens in Troy next week.

The name near the top of the building is written in longhand — Neiman Marcus — a trademark associated with quality merchandising since 1907. Part of the Somerset Collection on Big Beaver Road in Troy, the recently completed Neiman Marcus store is a 150,000-square-foot, three-story volumetric structure that has an identity of its own, yet echoes the lines and the same colored brick of the adjoining retail enclosure.

Designed by Diedrich Associates of Atlanta, Ga., the building, with its architectural detail, is analogous to a gift box that will be presented to and opened by the public on Aug. 7.

The exterior brick walls, on three levels, are an interplay of positive and negative elements with projecting half-round columns and recessed wall planes. Two entrances are defined by porticoes — classical accents of circular, free-standing columns supporting coffer-like ceilings of square sunken panels overhead. The porticoes are capped with skylights of different

Linear horizontal details of glazed tile and precast concrete add visual interest to the expansive wall surface of the building. They are an integral part of the exterior, adding to the character of the building. But it's really the duality of those two classic names in longhand, like Mercedes Benz or Alfa Romeo, that entices any potential consumer to visually savor and then enter.

The reality of retail merchandising is strengthened with sound architectural packaging compounded by a recognizable name that is prominently displayed.

The Troy Neiman Marcus store is the largest built in the past 10 years. Merchandising elements that worked in the Denver, Minneapolis and Scottsdale stores, built in the past two years, were incorporated. The interior designers are Robert Young & Associates of Dallas.

Once inside the store, the appetite of the patron for upscale merchandise is whetted against a backdrop resplendent with fine architectural materials: French limestone floors; walls lined with Italian marble, black granite, iridescent silk; and woods of mahogany and American cherry. And why not? After all, this is Neiman Marcus, the icon of high fashion.

A three-story atrium connects the three levels with escalators that is topped by a clerestory running the full length of the third level and providing natural light for the interior. This clerestory conforms to a similar one defining the axis in the adjoining stores. Recessed lighting is abundant throughout the store that can only serve to enhance your choice of merchandise. When was the last time you weren't sure about color? Not here.

The overall environment of the store, while spacious, also has a warm feeling with the individual departments having a domestic intimacy. This is brought about with the use of decorative artifacts, some of which were bought from boutiques in London and Paris. Adding further to the feeling of domesticity is a permanent art collection.

Housing unit permits

Housing unit permits compared for the first five months of 1991 and 1992. Totals for Oakland and Wayne counties are shown along with selected cities from each county. Housing units include houses, apartments, condos and townhouses.

Residential building prospers

Residential building permits issued through the first five months of this year increased by 35 percent in Oakland County and 34 percent in Wayne County from the comparable January-May period in 1991.

Permits were pulled for 2,122 units — houses, condominiums and apartments — in Oakland County compared to 1,568 last year. Figures for Wayne County were 1,012 and 761 units, respectively.

The numbers were compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, a regional information-gathering, planning agency.

Only Bloomfield Township showed an increase this May compared to last — 26 units from 14.

Bernard Gliberman, president of Crosswinds of West Bloomfield and president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, attributed the sharp five-month increase to favorable mortgage rates.

"I think what's happened is in January and December interest rates came down, a flurry of buyers came in and you had a lot of building activity," he said. "You had a lot of people buy earlier this year than normal."

Gliberman said his company had its best December ever last year which carried over to the start of 1992.

"I think the attitude of the buyer is good," he said. "They probably realize that if they have a job now they will (continue to) have a job. I think the economy has bottomed out."

"The housing economy is strong because there's plenty of people out there still working who can afford to buy a house," Gliberman said.

Fred Capaldi Jr., a Rochester Hills builder and first vice president for BASM, also attributed the increase in residential permits to low interest rates.

"It seems to me we always have a big upsurge in spring," he said. "We have a home show, the weather breaks, people finally make up their minds. Then we go through a lull, then it picks up again in September."

Capaldi also offered an explanation as to why permits slipped a bit in May.

"When I talk to some competitors, they tell me they see some softening. One problem they see is they have presold some houses with the expectation that Mr. and Mrs. Purchaser could sell their homes.

They can't and this is dragging on."

Capaldi said his new housing starts so far this year are on par with last, while his remodeling business has increased.

Weather has little impact on building permits pulled, Capaldi and Gliberman agreed.

Rochester Hills was the only Observer & Eccentric growth community that experienced a decline during the five-month period. At that, it was slight, slipping to 142 units from 152.

Troy exactly matched its five-month 1991 total with 147 units.

Wayne communities showing gains included Canton, 229 units from 118; Livonia, 238 from 220; and Plymouth Township, 48 from 36.

Livonia and Canton placed one-two by a substantial margin in number of units permitted in the county.

Oakland communities showing gains included Farmington Hills, 178 units from 82; West Bloomfield, 120 from 77; and Bloomfield Township, 66 from 38.

Novi, with 344 units permitted, led the way in Oakland.

While the year-to-date figures showed substantial gains, most communities issued permits for fewer residential units this May than last.

Canton, for instance slipped to 30 from 45, Rochester Hills to 37 from 53 and Farmington Hills to 18 from 28.

On the first level, in men's sportswear, antique maps of Michigan provide a historical reference. Work studies and photo sketches of cars from the design staffs at Ford, Chrysler and General Motors are on view in the men's clothing fitting area. On the second level, there is work by local artists such as the Cranbrook 50th Anniversary Portfolio of 12 prints by Cranbrook students that are displayed along with two paintings by Michigan artist Valeria Parks. Black-and-white photography by Michigan photographer Dirk Bakker line the walls of the 60-seat, third-floor restaurant.

Joe Feczko, vice president for visual planning for Neiman Marcus, said, "We want our customers to feel as though they are in a beautiful home filled with fine art. We believe the art collection adds warmth and sophistication to all areas of the store and provides a global view as well as reflecting something of the community."

Neiman Marcus is an all-encompassing environment where the craft of fashion merchandising is enhanced by a rich interior harmonized with fine and decorative arts that are neatly packaged in an identifiable exterior.

Someone once said let the buyer beware." But in the case of Neiman Marcus, it's let the buyer be "aware" of a total shopping experience. Herbert Marcus Sr., his sister Carrie Marcus Neiman and her husband A.L. Neiman sure knew what they were doing back in 1907. The new Neiman Marcus store is one more successful example of their efforts.

Shape up kitchen space

AP — The biggest problem in kitchens often is not a lack of storage space, but the inefficient use of the space. The following tips will help make every inch of space in the kitchen count:

- Convert the area between studs into storage for canned and packaged goods. If left open, the area can provide storage for cookware.

- Set cutting boards and marble pastry slabs on a wooden track inside the top of cutlery drawers. Cut a marble slab to fit a refrigerator shelf so it can be stored, kept cool, and ready for pastry at the same time.

- Build an appliance garage with an electrical outlet in the back into the space between the counter and cabinet.

- Replace fixed shelves with pullout trays to make good use of the hard-to-reach corners of a cabinet. (The hardware needed to make these changes is readily available in hardware and home improvement stores.)

- U-shape shelves that hug the walls in a broom closet need be only 3/4 inches deep to provide storage for cans. The wall surface in a back entry could hold a series of narrow L-shape shelves.

Furniture hides its virtues

(AP) — Reputations of manufacturers and stores go a long way when selecting upholstered furniture because what you can't see makes the difference between what's merely beautiful and what's beautiful and durable.

"There's still no better way to make upholstery than the eight-way hand-tied coil springs," says Bill Martin, advertising manager for Lane Furniture.

Invented in 1830, the coiled spring launched the upholsterer to a prominence previously reserved for cabinetmakers like Chippendale where the frame was everything. But unless you're buying a custom piece, these springs — the interior "bed" — cannot be seen, so consumers must rely on reputations of store and manufacturer.

Even in fabric, there's more than meets the eye. The industry has set up a numerical grading system that should appear on hang tags. Grading is not required by law, but it is provided by most reputable manufacturers who offer fabrics in most gradings. Ask your retailer what the numbers mean if they aren't spelled out.

When comparing fabric gradings, compare with in the same field — a solid to a solid, a print to a print, a stripe to a stripe as well as fiber content to fiber content.

In New York, there's a precious handful of custom upholsterers who work only for museum curators and decorators. Baron Upholsterers, founded by the late Ted Urban who began custom work nearly 50 years ago, counts among its clients The Biltmore Estate in Asheville, N.C., as well as the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the prestigious Cullman & Kravis Inc. decorating firm in New York. Custom sofas can start at $15,000, or about $6,000 if the frame has been drawn up to an existing Baron design.

Paul Urban, one of two sons now operating the business, offers these tips when looking for a quality piece of upholstered furniture. His standards are very high.

- Check the table of contents. The best ingredients for stuffing on backs, arms and seats — are horsehair, or horsehair and polyester blended.
- "Foam is not good except when in combination with down in the cushions," Urban says.
- Squeeze the back and arms. They should feel a little crunchy and spring back easily, not quickly. Foam, for instance, pops right back into shape.
- Lift the skirt. Is it stapled or sewn? Sewn is preferable. Peel back the cambric (the black fabric on the bottom of a piece) to see if staples were used to attach fabric to the frame. Tacks are preferred. Sometimes, manufacturers will hand-tack the cambric to cover the staples, or use gimp, a decorative tape, on decorative frames to cover the staples.
- On a good piece, the front edge underneath the cushion will give a little bit, as opposed to having a hardwood edge. There are different methods for finishing the front edge, but it should have some kind of padding.

- Choose coiled springs, as opposed to zig-zag springs. Coiled springs are eight-way hand-tied, an industry standard. Zig-zag springs are springs attached with a metal strip in a zig-zag fashion. Ask which construction has been used.

- On the bottom of the piece, natural webbing, versus nylon webbing, is preferable.

Buying an antique presents its own set of problems, Urban says.

"There's no real way to tell if it's authentic, because many reproductions are very close to the original pieces," he says.

To check the construction of an antique, like a side chair or open-arm chair, he says, "Take hold of diagonally opposite legs and gently move them to see if the frame is rigid or wobbly. If it's wobbly, the frame has to be rebuilt." On a sofa, "grab the arm and work the movement horizontally to see if it's wobbly."

Finally, remember that upholstered pieces frequently use materials that, if ignited, can burn rapidly and emit toxic gases. The Upholstered Furniture Action Council is a voluntary industry association that conducts research into more fire-resistant upholstered furniture. The address is Upholstered Furniture Action Council, Box 2436, High Point, N.C. 27261.

Quality check: When it comes to furniture, shoppers must concern themselves with more than what meets the eye. A thorough examination of the piece's underside can offer a clue as to whether it is well made.

LEASE A LOT FOR A LITTLE.

If the idea of getting a low lease rate while still getting all the car you want sounds appealing, Volkswagen would like you to meet the Jetta and the Passat.

The Jetta is a European designed touring sedan that comes with impressive options like air conditioning, automatic transmission and AM/FM stereo cassette. And does so at an affordable $179* per month.

If European driving and a roomy interior fit your lifestyle, there's the Passat GL. Its list of equipment includes air conditioning, AM/FM stereo cassette and power sunroof. All this and more for only $249* per month.

Plus both are famous for their distinctive driving pleasure known as Fahrvergnugen™.
