House approves WTUA grant

The U.S. House has approved a $20 million federal grant for WTUA, a joint Plymouth-Canton sewer project that survived charges of cronyism and mismanagement. The grant still needs Senate approval.

By BARBARA WILSON
STAFF WRITER

Officials with the Western Townships Utilities Authority are crossing their fingers and toes hoping that a $20 million grant from the federal government will be in their hands sometime in 1993.

The grant package for WTUA was part of the Water Resources Development Act that was approved by the U.S. House of Representatives Thursday and goes to the U.S. Senate this week.

The WTUA project grant was supported by U.S. Reps. William D. Ford, D-Taylor, and Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

"We feel elated that we cleared this first hurdle," said Canton Township Supervisor and WTUA board representative Tom Yack. "This is just the first step."

With approval from the full Congress, the package will move on to the president for his signature and will await a final decision from the appropriations committee.

"We feel comfortable that we will get something, but we are unsure if we will get the full amount," said David Geiss, administrative assistant to Ford. "It might be a matter of getting a certain amount over a period of years."

The WTUA clean water/sewage treatment project will discharge 58 million gallons of highly treated water into the lower Rouge River as part of an effort to clean the Rouge of contaminants. The government grant money would be used to pay for construction of a pipeline and other facilities necessary to transfer treated clean water from the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority to the Rouge system.

"It (the grant) is testimony to the project," Yack said. "It is an environmentally sound project that will clean up two river systems. It was also very important that the project received the support of Congressmen Ford and Pursell."

WTUA faced difficult times earlier this year with claims of cronyism and mismanagement. An independent investigation of WTUA cleared them of all allegations of wrongdoing.

Yack said the grant and the vote of confidence from Ford and Pursell may enlighten some misinformed individuals about the importance of the WTUA project.

"When we're together," Ford said, "good things can happen. In this case, we're going to help pay for this project, we're going to create jobs when we really need them, and we're going to work to help restore the Rouge River as a resource for the people of southeastern Michigan."

Bush arrives: George and Barbara Bush wave to the crowd of nearly 12,000 that gathered in the rain on Saturday for the president's speech in Plymouth during a whistle-stop tour.

Bush's whistle-stop tour draws cheers in Plymouth

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

It was the first time in recent memory folks in Plymouth cheered the coming of a train.

Red signal lights flashed, crossing bells clanked, torches blazed and spotlights swept the night sky as thousands of area residents filled the streets of Old Village.

The train dubbed "The Spirit of America" had rolled into Plymouth, carrying the president of the United States, who is campaigning for a second term.

"The real strength of America is right here in places like Plymouth," George Bush said to cheers.

It was 8:30 p.m. Saturday when Bush and his wife, Barbara, departed the rear blue and silver car of the train carrying them on a whistle-stop tour of Ohio and Michigan.

Waiting on the podium were Plymouth Mayor Robert Jones — who was slapped on the shoulder by the president in a friendly greeting — and Gov. John Engler and his wife, Michelle, who led the Republican party faithful in the chant, "Four more years."

"Barbara and I think it is fantastic to be in Plymouth," Bush said in opening his 15-minute address.

From a blue-topped podium displaying the presidential seal, Bush attacked Democratic opponent Bill Clinton as a tax-and-spend liberal, derided Congress for not passing his agenda for the country, and touted his role in the end of the Cold War and as commander of Operation Desert Storm.

"Do not put this Arkansas taxer in there," he said in reference to Clinton. Bush said that while Clinton says he wants to tax the rich, he would raise taxes on everyone making more than $36,600.

"We can't let him do that," Bush said. "The middle class will get the shaft, and we will not let that happen."

Bush chided "the codgy old subcommittee chairmen back in Washington," adding, "Let's give the power back to the people here."

Of Congress, he added, "For 38 years it's been controlled by those same liberal Democrats."

"If they had been doing what I've been saying about creating incentives, we would do it. The American worker never retreats, we always compete and we always win."

"I believe you ought to have more power and keep your own hard-earned tax dollars," Bush said.

About 100 yards from the president, about 40 Democratic party activists made themselves heard on occasion, holding aloft red, white and blue signs plugging Clinton and running mate Al Gore.

Bush called on reforming a legal system that makes it so people "can't coach Little League" for fear of lawsuits. He also called for schools of choice, an idea that Plymouth and Canton voters defeated in the spring, and for term limitation.

"Thank you so very much for this fantastic rally. Thank you very much," he said in closing.

Bush then waved from the stage erected just south of the railroad tracks at Starkweather, then descended and passed by the stage front, shaking hands as fireworks exploded over Wilcox Lake.

Beat poet

Beat poet Ed Sanders is scheduled to read poetry at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Canton Little Theater at Plymouth Canton High School. Admission is $3. His appearance coincides with the teaching of modern poetry in the school's Approaching the Arts class.

Native art

Navajo sand painting artists Chester Begay and Alberta Tsosie and native American art trader Vince Ferrari are featured at the Native American Sand Painting and Basketry Show from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday at Native West, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

PLYMOUTH PIPELINE

Also featured is a basket exhibition featuring Navajo, Papago, horse hair and Paiute baskets and sand painting demonstrations.

Helping hands

With the cool weather coming on, Esther Isbister and Dot Rosa and some other residents of the Tonquish Manor are getting ready again to make lap robes and other garments for residents of a Plymouth nursing home.

They started the effort last year, said Isbister, 71. Tonquish Manor tenants have also donated money and other clothing to aid the effort.

"We were happy to do it. Plymouth has been very good to us and Tonquish," Isbister said.

Kettle time

The Salvation Army needs bell ringers to man their kettles for the Christmas season. At 7 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 15, the army will hold a campaign breakfast to sign up bell ringers for the season.

The kettles are manned from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m., with most volunteers working in two hour shifts.

For more information on the breakfast and the bell ringing, contact Lt. Jeffrey Beachum at 453-5464.

Lansing-bound Vorva resigns

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Former cop Jerry Vorva who is running unopposed for the state House in November is bidding farewell to the Plymouth City Commission.

Vorva read a two-page letter addressed to Mayor Robert Jones, fellow commissioners and residents, at the Sept. 21 commission meeting.

"You have overwhelmingly supported me. For this I remain eternally indebted and grateful," Vorva said, his voice catching with emotion. His resignation is effective Sept. 30.

But later that evening, commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury was expressing a different emotion — frustration.

Shrewsbury said he "wanted to have an open forum" on choosing a commissioner to fill the 13 months left in Vorva's term.

He told commissioners he favored scheduling public interviews of applicants for the post and seeking applicants through newspaper ads.

But fellow commissioners rejected his resolution. "What they really want to do is, quote, come to a consensus before the meeting," Shrewsbury said.

While commissioner Bill McAninch said he agreed with the intent of Shrewsbury's resolution, he said public interviews of candidates aren't necessary.

Jones said, "The charter says the mayor brings a recommendation to the commission and they vote." He's asked for suggestions on candidates. So far, "I've gotten suggestions from some of them," he said, on six candidates.

The city has also advertised in the Plymouth Observer for interested candidates to send resumes to Jones in care of Plymouth city hall.

Jones said he expects to recommend one candidate at the second commission meeting of October, on Monday the 19th.

Should commissioners reject his recommendation, Jones would have to return to commissioners with another candidate.

To fill commission vacancies in past years, the commission has opted for the highest vote getter in the last commission election failing to win election.

In the last commission election, in November 1991, that was former commissioner Ron Loiselle.

After Loiselle, the next highest vote getter was Rosita Smith, now a planning commissioner. Observers say she could also be a viable candidate because there are no women currently on the commission.

In the two-page letter Vorva read to commissioners, he said that to resign Sept. 30 "will better facilitate the new commissioner's speedy indoctrination. I wish that person good luck in the coming year."

Vorva was the winner in the Aug. 4 Republican primary for the 20th state House District, defeating incumbent Georgina Goss.

Senior softball draws thousands

By DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

The Senior Softball World Series at the Canton Softball Center on Michigan Avenue drew thousands to the community. The event began Wednesday and ran through the weekend.

The softball event, considered an economic shot in the arm for Wayne County, was expected to register between $4.5 million to area businesses.

Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara has been credited with convincing tournament board of directors that the Softball Center would be an ideal setting.

"Wayne County had the most attractive bid this year," according to Mike May, Senior Softball World Series spokesman.

"They also showed a great deal of enthusiasm and most of it came from Ed McNamara."

Bernie Goldstein, Softball Center general manager, said the Softball Center baseball fields were made available to the tournament at a nominal fee. Any money generated at the complex was at the adjoining restaurant, Cleats, Goldstein said.

"It's good publicity and a lot of good will," he added.

■ 'These guys really play ball.'

Mike May

This was the first time Canton Township played host to the event that began in 1989 with 69 teams. This year, the tournament featured more than 103 teams playing at the center Sept. 23-27.

Twelve of the teams in the competition, including the Canton Trailblazers, came from Michigan. Other teams were from 24 states and three Canadian provinces.

Players competed in various age brackets, 50 and older, 55 and older, 60 and older, 65 and older, 70 and older and 75 and older.

"To someone who has never witnessed the event, you have to see it to believe it," May said. "These guys really play ball. They're having the time of their lives and they're good players."

McNamara and Mike Illitch, owner of Little Caesars and the Detroit Tigers, were expected to attend.

1991 Pontiac damaged by vandal

A Plymouth Township man reported $600 in damage Tuesday to his 1991 Pontiac, which was parked on Washington Drive at the Plymouth Hills trailer park.

The man told police his trunk and quarter panel were scratched, another quarter panel was dented and a tire punctured.

The damage likely occurred overnight, and was discovered at 7 a.m., according to the report filed with police.

Trees taken

Two potted trees, valued by their owner at $400, were reported stolen Tuesday from a Plymouth Township condominium.

The theft was discovered at 5:15 p.m. from a deck at the Sycamore

Valley Condos, according to the report filed with police by a Plymouth Township woman.

Illegal dumping

After his trash bin was emptied at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday, the owner of the A&W restaurant on Ann Arbor Road said he noticed at 10:10 a.m. that two bags of trash had been put in the bin.

The owner opened a bag and took out envelopes revealing the identity of the dumper, and reported the incident to police, who are investigating.

Purse stolen

A purse and its contents, valued by its owner at $400, were reported stolen Wednesday from an office at the West Trail Nursing Home, 395 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

Bush's whistle-stop tour a real crowd-pleaser

BY JEFF COUNTS
STAFF WRITER

President George Bush came to the right town on his whistle-stop tour Saturday.

When the Union Pacific passenger cars pulled to a stop in Plymouth's Old Village, the crowd started chanting: "Four more years," and "We want Bush."

The crowd of more than 12,000, many of whom waited up to three hours in the rain, had been warmed up by the Plymouth Community Chorus and the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps.

Also on hand were Gov. John Engler and State Rep. Robert Geake, both of whom took swipes at U.S. Rep. Bill Ford, D-Taylor, for his spending on first-class airline tickets for trips between his district and Washington.

Geake is running against Ford in the 15th Congressional District, which includes Plymouth. He took a shot at Ford, saying, "After 28 years it's time to clean house."

But while local politicians got in their pitches, the event was all Bush and the people who came to see him.

Whistle stop: In a campaign stop more like the 1940s than the '90s, George and Barbara Bush arrived on a restored passenger train.

STAFF PHOTOS BY BILL BRESLER

Bill and Kathy Cox of Plymouth were the last people in line at 6 p.m. — others came later — to see Bush. The couple braved the rain because they wanted to hear Bush talk about family values.

"The Democrats are for the homosexuals and when they take over, a country starts to decline," Cox said.

For Mike Gottschalk of Plymouth, the three-hour wait in the rain was worth it. "We had the opportunity to see the president."

But while most of the crowd chanted, "We want Bush," when the train arrived shortly after 8 p.m. four tired, wet children were chanting, "We want to go home."

"It's been a long night for them," said Debbie Hisson of Canton, mother of Chad, 9, and Kurt, 7, who along with Melissa Speights, 9, and sister, Jessica, 7, were chanting.

There were other dissidents with more of a political agenda.

"Bush hasn't done anything for us," said Mark Campbell, a laid-off Willow Run worker from Carleton who carried a Bill Clinton sign.

Loren Gross and Jennifer Gawlik, both of Canton, held up T-shirts that said: "Abort the court."

"If Bush gets re-elected he'll appoint another conservative to the Supreme Court and they'll ban abortion," said Gawlik.

However, the crowd was overwhelmingly sign-waving for Bush, and booed when an announcer said the national media was being let off of the train before Bush.

In his 15-minute speech, Bush hit the draft evasion issue, talked about schools of choice, charged that Clinton will raise taxes and pass new regulations that will hinder small businesses, and attacked Clinton's record as governor of Arkansas.

The cheers came when Bush said:

"Clinton is tearing down America to convince you that we're in decline."

"We're not. We're the most respected nation in the world."

"We're on a train tour to blow the whistle on Clinton."

And he struck a chord with the crowd.

"Clinton tried to be on both sides of the issue. I liked it when Bush said that," said Marriana Witt of Plymouth.

For Mary Nagy of Livonia, "Family values are the issue."

Shana Vinegar of Huntington Woods didn't like the speech. "People are being duped. He didn't talk about unemployed people or people who have lost their homes."

Schools of choice was the issue for Lynn Najduk of Livonia. "I went to Livonia Churchill and that's why I'm sending my kids to a private school. I want them to learn about God and not about sex education. I liked what he had to say."

Bush farwell: George Bush heard chants of "Four more years" when he finished his speech.

Kids send care to Florida

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Like others across the United States, students from Canton's Isbister Elementary School are lending a hand in the wake of the costliest disaster in U.S. history. But there's something special about the items Isbister students are collecting for young victims of Hurricane Andrew.

In a hallway at Isbister are two decorated boxes large enough to hold refrigerators. They're nearly full of donated toys and school supplies that in a few days will be shipped to south Florida. Taped to just about every doll, game and calculator set is a letter from an Isbister student to a Florida child, complete with a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The project was the idea of Debra Drinkhahn, mother of Isbister fifth-grader Kelli Drinkhahn. Debra Drinkhahn has a brother-in-law who teaches at South Dade High School and has agreed to distribute the items.

Isbister first-grader Scott Varty of Canton donated a calculator, pencil case, colored pencils "your parents won't steal" and eraser. With help from his mom, he wrote a letter to a Florida child that says, "We heard about the hurricane you had. We are sorry you had it. We hope you like the gift. Scott Varty."

Christopher Drabicki, a Canton first grader, gave a troll and comb set and wrote, "Dear Friend, I hope you like this troll. I thought it might cheer you up. Your friend, Chris."

Fourth-grader Christy Neu of Plymouth donated a Yahtzee dice game. She wrote, "Dear Friend, How are you? I am fine. I hope you like this toy. If you want, please write me. Love, Christy."

Fourth-grader Lauren Augustyn of Plymouth sent quite a package. It included a Barbie doll, a photograph of herself, a newsy note and an 8-by-10 drawing entitled, "The Weather Here." With orange, pink, yellow, green and blue markers, Lauren drew a Michigan twister.

Her letter read, "Dear Friend in Florida, I live in Plymouth, Michigan. My name is Lauren Augustyn. We would love the sunny weather down there. We have rain, rain, rain."

"We have twisters that ripple across the state. I have brown hair and brown eyes. I am 9 and in fourth grade."

BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

"I am sorry about Hurricane Andrew. I would like to see a huge wave, as I heard, about 30 feet. Did you hear about Hurricane Iniki in Hawaii? Wow. It was the worst hurricane there. It happened right after your hurricane. I was in a hurricane warning in South Carolina. It was scary. I saw the stuff from Hurricane Hugo. I made you a picture. Signed, Lauren."

Isbister principal George Belvitch liked the Drinkhahns' idea and sent a letter home to parents outlining the project. "The effort goes along nicely with our school improvement effort of cooperative learning and peacemaking skills," Belvitch told parents.

Belvitch, who every few days reminds students to bring in items, hopes students will hear back from Florida students. Their responses may be added to a colorful wall display that adorns Isbister's main hallway.

Entitled "Isbister cares; extend your helping hand," the mural, made with cut-out colored paper, shows Isbister linked to a school in South Dade by a line of children holding hands.

Under the display are the boxes, brimming with toys and supplies. Most have letters taped to them.

"Kids like doing things like this. And the letters are a nice touch. I think. They make this more personal," said Belvitch. "Hopefully, this will be a way for students to establish pen pals."

Hurricane Andrew killed 53 people, left 300,000 homeless, destroyed 63,000 homes and caused $20 billion in damage.

The Drinkhahns have volunteered to ship the items once the collection is over.

Proposed road called hazard

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

More than 100 parents, students, school administrators and board members gathered in the rain and mud Monday to tour the site of a controversial proposed road that would service an elementary school being built on Warren Road in Canton.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools officials plan to build a road that would connect a subdivision street, Buckley, to Warren.

Buckley, an east-west road, dead ends into the school property, located halfway between Canton Center and Beck on the south side of Warren.

Sunflower residents oppose the road, saying it will create a safety and security hazard. As a compromise, they're suggesting that a cul de sac be constructed at the foot of Buckley.

The cul de sac would enable parents to drop their children off without causing a safety hazard.

Traffic jams

At odds are conflicting goals. Increasingly, parents concerned about their children's safety are driving their kids to school. They're encountering traffic jams in front of schools that were designed to handle mostly pedestrian traffic. A road could ease traffic snarls at the school.

The trend in other communities, said Sunflower resident Jim Shepperd, is to enhance security at school buildings by closing and limiting entrances.

Shepperd says a connecting road at the school would create a security monster. "The trend in every community but ours is to limit access. Everyone is closing streets, closing driveways and boarding things up. Under their current plan, you could use the extension, and people would use the road to come in off Warren. It would almost become a public road."

Stakes marking the proposed road are already in place.

"We are community members concerned about everyone's welfare," said John DeCotis of the Sunflower Homeowners Association School Committee. "Our theme is 'Don't mix kids and cars.'"

The school committee, said DeCotis, collected 225 petition signatures from residents opposed to opening Buckley. "One hundred percent of the people we were able to contact are for keeping the road closed.

"If this is open, it will be another way for people to cut through from Warren in to a subdivision where we have children playing and riding their bikes and people walking. We want to keep the quality of life, and we want to keep it safe."

DeCotis, an engineer, says he's confident a Buckley cul de sac, coupled with the entry to the school off Warren, could adequately handle school traffic.

Pressing issue

This is an issue that isn't going to go away, DeCotis added. "This is a very active group of people very concerned about a beautiful area. We want to keep it that way."

Connecting Warren to the subdivision raises liability issues that would be a concern not only during school hours, but all the time, residents say.

The connecting road isn't intended to be a road for parents to use to drop off their kids, "but how do you protect it from being that?" asked DeCotis.

"A cul de sac brings order to it. Cars can pull in, and everyone is dropped off on the right," said Shepperd, a sales executive with a trucking firm.

Barton Malow, the schools' construction manager, says a cul de sac is workable, and could be built for about the same cost as the road.

School board president Roland Thomas said the board will decide the issue Monday night. Lots will hinge on whether no parking signs can be put up along Buckley.

"Our primary concern is with the safety of kids. That's the major and paramount issue, particularly with the traffic flow created with a drive through or a cul de sac," Thomas said.

"The whole thing revolves around where parents will drop kids off and how traffic will flow." Thomas said he'll make up his mind once he finds out from the schools' attorneys what the district's liability will be if an un-gated cul de sac is built. He also wants to find out whether parking can be prohibited on Buckley.

"Both the cul de sac and drive-through have advantages and disadvantages. We will have to make an ultimate judgment as to which is safest. We can't eliminate all the issues, and we can't be out there directing traffic. We just don't have the resources to do those kinds of things."

The new school, as yet unnamed, is expected to house up to 600 students when it opens next fall.

Woman takes to air waves for son

BY DIANE GALE

Linda Fannon, the Westland mother fighting to free her son from the clutches of Michigan's lifer law, continues to take her case to the airwaves.

Fannon planned to leave last week for a taping of the "Maurie Povich" show, which will add to a number of television appearances she's made on behalf of her son.

Her goal is to rally support against the Michigan law — supported by law enforcers as a get-tough approach to drug dealers — that mandates life in prison without parole for certain drug convictions.

In 1978 the Michigan law — known as the 650 law — mandates that anyone who manufactures, delivers or possesses or possesses with intent to deliver greater than 650 grams of a controlled substance will be sentenced to mandatory life in prison without parole.

Fannon's son, a 1986 Plymouth-Salem High School graduate, is serving a life sentence for delivery of more than 650 grams of cocaine.

Fannon lived off and on in Canton and Westland while he as growing up. He was a first-time offender when at age 18 he was charged, his mother said.

He recently turned 24 and remains in jail.

"I've been working on getting him out since it happened — for six years," Fannon said. "We've had a lot of media attention, on Faith Daniels', 'A Closer Look,' 'CNBC Real Story,' and 'Ed Bradley's Street Stories.'"

Fannon said she was confident about getting the law reversed.

"I think it's a very unjust thing to throw a kid in prison and tell him he's going to die in there, especially when the undercover cop got fired a couple of years later for allegedly stealing from the drug room and never even got prosecuted.

"I will win, there's no doubt about it. He's got to come home."

A group of people are lobbying the state legislature to overturn the "650 law." If the group succeeds, the mandatory life sentences, like the one Fannon is serving, will be changed across the board.

Meanwhile, Fannon's attorney, Patrick McQueeney, expects to file a claim in the Wayne County Court of Appeals this month alleging that errors were made in Fannon's case.

Area apprentices to showcase skills at free Cobo exhibition

Apprentices from Livonia, Westland, Plymouth and Southfield are among the construction apprentices who will participate in the International Carpentry Apprenticeship Contest and Exhibition Oct. 4-5 in the Cobo Conference/Exhibition Center.

Admission is free and open to the public.

Local apprentices include Jeffrey Lockard, a graduate of Garden City High School who now lives in Livonia, Richard Unverzagg of Plymouth, Dave Neighbor of Westland and Michael D'Agostino of Southfield.

The program is sponsored by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (UBCJA) which trains men and women for careers in the building trades and allows them to earn while they learn.

The program requires apprentices to successfully completed 576 hours of vocational instruction and between 5,200 and 8,000 hours of paid, on-the-job training.

"Apprentices in our program learn how to read blueprints, handle tools and maintain a safe work area," said Dennis M. Scott, chairman of the International Carpentry

Apprenticeship Contest Committee.

The best apprentices in the United States and Canada will compete for top honors in the Best Apprentice of 1992 contest.

Neighbor, of Westland, will represent Michigan in the competition.

During the competition, which last from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. both days, apprentices will turn a stack of material into a finished project. Apprentices compete in one of four categories - carpentry, millwrighting, floorcovering and cabinetmaking. The competition also includes a three-hour written test.

All of the apprentices qualified for the international competition by winning state or provincial competitions.

Each apprentice is given power tools to use in the competition and just enough materials to complete the project. Judging is based on how much of the project is completed, how well it is done and how tools are used.

A $1,500 prize accompanies the award.

At the same time the apprentices will be competing, journeymen and women, along with other apprentices, will staff 25 working exhibits and demonstrate how to build stairs, hang doors, frame a house, erect scaffolding, construct cabinets, install carpet, linoleum and tile, use laser and optical instruments, concrete form work, dock building and safety exhibits. Presentations will be conducted at various times throughout both days.

"The contest and exhibition is an exciting event for anyone interested in the building trades. Our best apprentices showcase the talents and skills they have acquired during their four years in the apprenticeship training program," said Ron Conrad, director/coordinator, Detroit Carpentry Joint Apprenticeship Committee.

In addition, a career booth will be available for students interested in apprenticeship training information.

Proceeds from the sale of exhibit items will benefit Dollars Against Diabetes.

Other cosponsoring organizations include the Associated General Contractors of America, National Association of Home Builders of the United States, Specialized Carriers and Rigging Association and Association of the Wall and Ceiling Industries - International.

Schoolcraft to host college night

Schoolcraft College will stage a college night program Tuesday, Oct. 6 with representatives from more than 50 colleges, universities and academies in attendance.

The program is designed for all area high school students and their parents.

Potential college students may find out what sort of programs are offered by various schools, as well as admission requirements and tuition costs.

Representatives from each college, university or academy will present three identical sessions at 6:45, 7:30 and 8:15 p.m.

The schools that will have representatives in the physical education building include: Adrian College, Boston College, Central Michigan University, Detroit College of Business, Eastern Michigan University, GMI Engineering and Management Institute, Hillsdale College, Kalamazoo College, Lake Superior State University, Lawrence Technological University, Madonna University, Northern Michigan University, Oakland University, Saginaw Valley State University, the University of Iowa and West Point Military Academy.

Michigan State University reps will occupy the Waterman Center. The University of Michigan-Dearborn will be in the Forum Building.

The Liberal Arts Building will house (among others) Amherst College, Ferris State University, Grand Valley State University, Harvard University, Ohio State University, Wayne State University and Western Michigan University.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads.

Teacher takes part in banned book event

By M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools took center stage when Borders Book Shop of Novi kicked off Banned Book Week last night. The featured speaker was Barbara Masters, who until her recent retirement taught English at Plymouth-Canton High School. Borders invited Masters to headline its "Sunday Salon: An Evening of Conversation and Ideas" because "few people can appreciate the freedom to read in as direct a way as she can." Masters was the center of controversy in 1989 when members of Citizens for Better Education, a local conservative Christian group, objected to her including the weekly newspaper "The Metro Times" as part of the curriculum. CBE contended that while the paper published articles of instructional value, it also published objectionable items such as ads for illicit sex and sexually explicit articles on events such as Society for the Scientific Study of Sex seminars. The issue became even more heated after school board member Barbara Graham visited Masters' classroom when Masters was out of the room.

Masters called the episode "absurd and pointless. We had a system already in place for reviewing classroom materials and filing complaints," she said. "I had the support of the school system." Masters added that 14 ministers, not affiliated with CBE, also supported her. Diane Daskalakis, who established CBE, took issue with several of Masters' statements. She said CBE had no objection to Masters using photocopied articles from "The Metro Times," but thought it was inappropriate for students to be reading the paper's personal ads and articles dealing with sex. "I don't think she can prove her claim, because we never filed a complaint in that capacity," Daskalakis said. CBE gets the credit for the process now in place to review R-rated films and controversial materials, she added. "Masters made it sound like the policies were always in place. Those policies were never there. Our organization was the one who brought this up. Before that, scores of R-rated movies were shown at will. They weren't being registered any place. The principal's office had no clue as to how many were being shown and by whom. That's all been changed."

Hazlett-Graves

Mr. and Mrs. Philip K. Hazlett of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Shawn Marie, to James Robert Graves of Livonia, son of John C. Graves of Plymouth and Sharon Graves of Atlanta, Ga. The bride-elect graduated from Schoolcraft College as a registered nurse. She is employed at Providence Hospital in Southfield. Her fiance graduated from Spartan School of Aeronautics as a commercial pilot. He is the owner of Metro Ground School in Romulus. An October wedding is planned in the United Methodist Church.

Tax imposed on flying from Metro

BY RALPH E. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The tax on flying just went up, but Wayne County officials say it's for a good cause — to pay for improvements at Metro Airport.

The Federal Aviation Administration gave Wayne County permission last week to force airlines to pay $3 per passenger on flights leaving Metro Airport beginning Dec. 1 and ending in the year 2008.

Northwest Airlines plans to pass that surcharge on to its passengers whose flights originate from Metro.

Wayne County officials estimate the tax will generate $640 million that will be used to help pay for improvements to Metro (including a new midfield terminal) and Willow Run.

The federal government's Passenger Facility Charges program that made this new tax possible was enacted two years ago. It specifies that money raised must be used to preserve or enhance an airport's ca-capacity and safety, or to promote competition, reduce noise and expand passenger facilities. (There is also a 10 percent federal tax on all airline tickets that's supposed to pay for those same things throughout the country.)

Metro is the 43rd U.S. airport to get permission to add the $3 tax on tickets, but Northwest Airlines, which accounts for three of every four planes leaving Metro, is ticked off.

Northwest spokesman Doug Miller said the airline has no choice but to eat the tax (a $12 million expense) in order to stay competitive, except in the case of passengers originating from the Detroit area, who will pay the tax.

It's like this: If Northwest sells a round-trip ticket from Pittsburgh to Seattle and back, the plane routinely stops in Detroit on the way there and on the way back. Because the plane takes off from Detroit twice, there are two $3 surcharges on each ticket.

But the same flight on several competing airlines doesn't pass through a hub airport with a surcharge. So Northwest either absorbs the surcharge itself or tries to pass it on to passengers, who would likely just find cheaper tickets, Miller said.

"This is competitively damaging to airlines like Northwest," he said. "It causes some pretty severe difficulties. It's really the last thing we need. (But) we've got to swallow it. That's our only option."

Northwest will pass the surcharge on to passengers originating from the Detroit area, though, because flights from Metro are usually non-stop and therefore already cost more than the competition charges, Miller said.

Wayne County deputy executive Mike Duggan said the county is "very pleased" with the surcharge. "We go get money wherever we can find it."

Some of the improvements are already under way. A $128 million access road for the south side of the airport is under construction, but won't be finished until 1996 at least, said Metro spokesman Mike Conway. The road costs so much, he said, because it has to tunnel under two runways.

An anti-noise program designed to "reduce the impact of noise" has also begun, but is not yet approved by the FAA, Conway said. Eventually, officials hope to buy more property, rezone other property to get houses away from the airport, and change the flight patterns of airliners to pacify those who are annoyed by current noise levels.

A $662-million midfield terminal that Northwest has consistently opposed is also supposed to be built, but the FAA hasn't authorized the county to spend the surcharge tax money on that yet.

POINTS OF VIEW

There is a way to change education environment

Some things never seem to change. Thirty years ago teachers in Detroit and environs were picketing for decent wages and working conditions.

As track coach at Southeastern High during that era, I walked inner-city neighborhoods after school with colleagues and some of my team to turn out a supportive millage vote.

Twenty years ago, after I led a campaign which upgraded Berkley's abysmal athletic programs to exemplary status, my programs and my job as district athletic director were placed on the chopping block, dependent on whether a millage might pass.

Ten years ago, teachers in Plymouth Canton were stopping cars of administrators who tried to pass a picket line, and they also petitioned to keep me in my secondary executive director job endangered by budget cuts.

Two years ago, as assistant superintendent in Rochester, I initiated pay-for-play sports, curtailed other programs, raised class sizes and retired early to save the threatened job of my less senior staff.

This year, local school districts struck again, and the president of the Detroit teachers' union exchanged bitter barbs with the superintendent.

Teachers and administrators must unite to stop this madness, and taxpayers and legislators who care about children must help. Insufficient and inequitable school funding throughout the state is pitting good people against each other to fight over the scraps — suburb versus city versus rural area, teacher versus administrator versus taxpayer — when instead we all should be allies in the common cause of refurbishing Michigan's future for all children.

Getting our society out of its present

mess is going to require the fully tapped potential of them all. Of course, this will cost money. Financially strapped administrations cite research which they say substantiates the truism that class sizes don't affect the quality of instruction, but common sense tells us that teachers can individualize instruction much more easily with smaller classes. The class size problem in Michigan's largest district is particularly monstrous due to the dire social conditions there.

It's hard to blame Detroit for singling out a few schools for empowerment and choice — euphemisms for a concept which can be more frankly expressed like this: "We don't have anywhere near enough money to upgrade every school, so we're going to try to improve just a few of them and let the rest drift down the drain." Schools of choice aren't the answer. Making all schools into choice schools is the only answer.

A Detroit union coalition advocates leaving schools open for longer hours and remodeling them into centers which would house some health, recreation and other community services. It recommends instituting volunteer tutorial programs, adapting adult education curricula to industrial needs and providing on-site care for children of adult students and school employees.

If Detroit could pull this rabbit out of a hat for all of its schools, they'd be truly empowered.

For years, I've been propounding that plan, and it's applicable to other districts, too. But again, all of us will need to roll up our sleeves and support it. Meanwhile, we need to find a fuller and more equitable way to finance public education than the property tax gimmick. Then good people won't always have to picket and strike and strive to pass paltry millages in desperate efforts to refurbish Michigan's — and America's — tarnished and cloudy future. We will already have ensured that it will shine.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, most recently was assistant superintendent in the Rochester School District. He previously was executive director for secondary education in the Plymouth Canton district.

Empowerment concept carries some limitations

QUESTION: A major issue in the Detroit teachers' strike seems to be the empowerment issue, a concept in which teachers and parents make building level decisions. What's the problem with the concept?

ANSWER: As a former assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction for years, I believe that empowering teachers, parents and building administrators in the decision making process is the way to go. It worked for me.

However, this is not a perfect world and there exist limitations which all parties need to clearly understand or the concept will fade away. Issues such as:

- In Detroit, a computerized school supply system appears to require teachers to commit considerably more

"clerical time" than their contract calls for.

- Experienced teachers and administrators know that empowerment is not new. Many "ancestors" have preceded the "new" empowerment concept. Zero Based budgeting in the '60(s) gave X dollars to school building for principal and staff to decide its use. We had Site Based Management in the '70(s), Participatory Management (somewhere along the way). For the 'ole timers, we had the Mager's Behavioral Objective system that involved all parties with stated outcomes for all school issues. Don't forget Dr. Glasser who gave us the Quality Circle which some administrations adopted to school management. And Dr. Wendell Hough of Wayne State University has been implementing CIPS, the Collaborative School Improvement Process for 20 years, with positive feedback.

DOC DOYLE

Limitations

Why empowerment management plans come and go is often because teachers, administrators and parents are not clearly sensitized to the limitations. For instance:

- If parents and teachers are made to believe they will be making decisions outside of the realm of their responsibility, they are being deceived. The building principal is the one who will be called on the carpet if an empowerment committee in his/her building is dominated by some off-the-wall parent group. And teachers will go back to their room and tend to their first priority — the children.

- A teacher/school building empowerment committee will always prioritize its basic needs first. This will precede esoteric ventures into curriculum gura(s).

- Dictatorial principals will smile and go along with an empowerment plan (at central office meetings) while still managing the building in the same, single-minded mode that has been successful for them. And, frankly, some teachers prefer this management style.

- When empowerment hits a building, the 20 percent risk-taking type teachers in the building will eagerly jump in with both feet ready to go. The "I'll-watch-and-see-if-it-fails" teachers (about 70 percent) will join in if the plan becomes successful. That leaves those 10 percent of teachers who hate administrators and know anything from the central office is a communist plot.

- The democratic, child and teacher-oriented principal won't even know something new is going on because it is the way he/she has always operated.

Therefore, empowerment plans can delegate some authority in the decision-making process but cannot delegate away the responsibility.

I believe in participatory management. Call it empowerment or whatever.

You see, the more teachers are involved in curriculum decision-making the more they have at stake to make the curriculum successful. The less involved, the less interest in the outcome. But beyond curriculum empowerment, there is a fine line.

Hungary to change

Communist era falls away in Budapest

By JUDITH INGRAM
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

Budapest, Hungary, is at its best in the autumn when the end-to-end tourist buses go into hibernation and local residents reclaim their city.

The capital wakes up in a blue mist and basks in the golden light of fall afternoons; sunshine sparkles off the tiles of turn-of-the-century mosaics, and soft shadows hide the cracks and wrinkles of this aging but ever vain capital.

The city is peppered with lookout points. Good spots include the Erzsébet Lookout Tower atop Janos Hill in Buda, which can be reached by the chairlift — about 50 cents — that starts at Zugligeti Road.

Lower in the Buda Hills is the Szechenyi Lookout on Evetke Street near the Szabadsag Hegy stop of the cogwheel railway, which runs up into the hills from Szilagy Erzsébet Parkway across from the Hotel Budapest.

Bus and cogwheel railway tickets cost about 20 cents. The closest lookout to the center of town is on Gellert Hill at the Liberation Statue.

This fall visitors can glimpse the last of the ideological communist-era statues, which are being removed from the sites they have dominated for up to four decades. Pre-World War II statues are being put back in their places of honor, emphasizing Budapest's nostalgia for the precommunist past.

Many streets now carry two names: the prewar one and the communist-era name, crossed out with a thick red line. Communist crests on the Chain Bridge are draped with gray cloth.

For a short time the two contradictory faces of the city will be on display simultaneously.

Events

The Festival Orchestra has existed since 1963 as a "dissident" ensemble that did not bend to the will of the communist-era arts management. Now the city, dominated by former dissidents, has adopted it as Budapest's official orchestra.

The orchestra, conducted by Ivan Fischer, opened its season Sept. 24 with a free concert featuring Mozart, Glinka, Britten and Brahms in the Great Hall of the Art Nouveau Academy of Music. The season runs through May; tickets cost $2 to $10.

The two-week Budapest Fall Festival, packed with concerts, dance and theater performances, literary readings and art exhibits, opened Sept. 25 in Vorosmarty Square with a free rock concert by a popular group called Sziam.

The festival's emphasis on alternative culture is reflected in the venues, including the Merlin Jazz Club, the grimy Black Hole hard-rock club and the intimate Art Deco Arany Janos Theater.

The festival also includes the Budapest Chamber Opera production of Strauss' "Ariadne auf Naxos," percussion concerts by the Amadinda ensemble, and performances by the Flemish Rosas and Leporello dance companies and the Blindman Brass Quartet.

Event tickets cost $1.30 to $8. Information and tickets for the festival as well as other concerts can be obtained at the Central Ticket Office, 1 Vorosmarty Square; telephone 117-6222.

The opera and ballet season is now open at the ornate Hungarian State opera House, 22 Andrássy Ave., 153-0170, and started Sept. 26 at the modern Erkel Theater, 30 Koztarsasag Square, 133-0540, where opera is performed in Hungarian.

Aside from Hungarian opera classics, the fall repertory includes "La Boheme," "Manon," "I Lombardi," "Tannhauser" and "Albert Herrling," as well as the ballets "Anna Karenina" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The Hungarian National Museum, 14-16 Muzeum Boulevard, 138-2122 — open 10 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. daily except Monday — features an exhibit on Elizabeth, wife of the Hapsburg Emperor Franz Joseph and Hungary's best-loved queen. Her clothing, china, furniture, letters and even her horse's shoes are on display through January. Tickets: 80 cents.

A small but lovingly assembled exhibit on Raoul Wallenberg, the Swedish diplomat who saved the lives of thousands of Budapest Jews in 1944-45, is open to Oct. 31 at the Contemporary History Museum in the Buda Castle Palace, 17 Disz Square, 175-7533.

Crossing the bridge: The Buda side of the Elizabeth Bridge is a great point to view the ancient architecture and park-edged modern highways.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. until Nov. 1, then closes at 4 p.m. until March 14; closed Monday. Admission is 40 cents. Through February the museum is also presenting an exhibit of photos and documents on Hungarians in the New World.

Sights

At Aquincum visitors can explore the remains of a second- and third-century Roman garrison town. The ruins and museum are open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. until Oct. 31; closed Monday. Admission is about 40 cents. Aquincum can be reached via the H.E.V. train from Batthyany Square.

The Tomb of Gul Baba on Mecset Street on Rose Hill, a remnant of the 160-year occupation by the Turks in the 16th and 17th centuries, remains a place of pilgrimage for Muslims. It is the burial place of a devout dervish who died in 1541 during a thanksgiving service at the Matyas Church — which had been whitewashed and transformed into a mosque in just three days to celebrate the Turkish victory in the battle for Buda.

The tomb is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through October, then closes at 4 p.m. until May; closed Monday.

The Castle District, the area most visited by tourists, carries the most visible marks of Austria's 400-year dominion over the city. Note the Gothic arches in inner courtyards, and the outside walls topped with Baroque details.

To get a sense of Budapest's imperial grandeur at the turn of the century visitors should take a tour of the ornate, neo-Gothic Parliament building, all red-velvet upholstery, gold gilding and intricate carvings.

Tours, $6, organized by Budapest Tourist, 5 Roosevelt Square, 117-3555, take place Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., but call to be sure.

On Margaret Island is a 200-acre park where the ruins of a 13th-century cloister can be seen amid tall old trees and flowerbeds. In the northeastern part of the city the City Park (Városliget) is the site of the fanciful Vajdahunyad Castle, displaying a composite of architectural styles. The castle, along with nearby Heroes Square, was built to celebrate Hungary's millennium in 1896.

Perhaps Budapest's best-kept secret is the Kiscelli Museum, 109 Kiscelli St., Obuda, 188-8560, which offers an eclectic collection in an 18th-century monastery and church.

The collection includes furniture, printing presses and 20th-century paintings and sculpture. There is also a 19th-century pharmacy with interesting-smelling concoctions in their original bottles.

Ships ahoy: Cruise around for discounts

By EVERETT POTTER
SPECIAL WRITER

All hands on deck! Once again, the cruise industry has gone overboard with discounts.

A savvy travel agent or a cruise-only agent will take one look at a cruise price and immediately slice off another 15 percent to 20 percent.

And last year's hefty discounts of 25 percent to 35 percent are back with a vengeance.

"We've seen a 35 percent drop in the cost of the average ticket in the last five years," says Mike Gross-man, president of Cruises of Distinction, a New Jersey-based cruise-only travel agency.

"That's staggering. They can't go much lower because it's cheaper to lay up the ship."

In past years only consumers who booked very early or waited until the last minute could get a major bargain. Now it seems everyone has a chance.

With the economy in recession, the cruise industry has more than 100,000 berths that can only be filled by vigorous year-round discounting.

"Instead of waiting until the last minute, we now see some cruise lines selling their whole year at discount," says Larry Fishkin, president of The Cruise Line, a Miami-based cruise-only travel agency.

Clients are now lured with various options. It could be a second week at sea for a rock-bottom price or a special two-passengers-for-the-price-of-one rate.

It could be a low standby fare offered three weeks before sailing.

These options come and go. But a knowledgeable travel agent should be aware of them.

To attract more clients, some cruise-only agencies will consume part of their own profits by offering rebates — for example, slicing an additional 5 percent off their already-discounted price.

"The cruise lines may say that rebating doesn't occur, but it happens a lot," says Grossman of Cruises of Distinction.

"We sometimes rebate, but the cruise lines won't let us publish our lowest price. So we simply tell our customers to call us because our rates are often lower than our printed ones. It's a silly game and it obscures the real price from the consumer."

Many agencies routinely review all bookings, notifying customers about upgrades or fare drops and, when appropriate, even refunding money.

Because of a lack of manpower, some agencies can't do that. So it's up to the consumer to ask an agent if there are any additional deals.

The agencies are usually happy to oblige because it's in their interest to keep their customers happy.

But, aside from offering discounts, how do the cruise companies compete?

"Novelty is a marketing factor in this business," says Fishkin of The Cruise Line. "Newness counts. A 4-year-old ship is considered old. People want to be on the latest vessel. Theme cruises are also popular marketing tools."

"People are looking for extra value," says Jo Kling of Landry & Kling, a cruise-only agency in Coral Gables, Fla.

So the company offers theme cruises for non-smokers, chocolate lovers, devotees of Scottish dancing and other special-interest travelers.

Industry sources say approximately 2 million people, or about half of all Americans who took a cruise last year, will take another one this year.

Some 56 percent of Americans opt to sail in the Caribbean.

But a new hot trend is travel to Alaska for those who want to see the wilderness up close. Next season the companies will offer more than 300 cruises in Alaskan waters.

For further information contact Cruises of Distinction, 460 Bloomfield Ave., Montclair, N.J. 07042; telephone (800) 634-3445.

Or contact The Cruise Line, 4770 Biscayne Blvd., Miami, Fla. 33137; telephone (800) 777-0707.

Or contact Landry & Kling, 1390 S. Dixie Hwy., Suite 1207, Coral Gables, Fla. 33146; telephone (800) 223-2026.

Customers unhappy that judge failed to close bridal shops

BY GREG KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

"I'm not at all satisfied. I thought they would put him out of business."

So said a disgruntled Dennis Pater, one of the many customers who ordered, but never received, wedding gowns from the Boulevard Group, which has three bridal salons in Birmingham and others in Troy and Dearborn.

Company representatives were in Oakland County Circuit Court at a show-cause hearing Wednesday to consider extending a temporary restraining order preventing the stores from taking new orders unless the stores have the dresses in stock.

Judge Richard Kuhn decided to continue the restraining order and said he would appoint an independent person to monitor transactions at the stores.

Boulevard Group attorney Arnold Schaffer told the court the company had filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection the previous day, to protect it from creditors.

That news and the judge's action didn't please Pater.

"Not at all. Chapter 11 allows him to open up somewhere else under a new name," he said. "The system moves too slowly."

For Pater it's now a matter of principle. His son's wedding was Saturday and as of Wednesday the dresses still hadn't arrived. In desperation, the family ordered gowns from a J.C. Penney catalog and got them in time for the wedding.

Pater expressed the anger of numerous other jilted customers.

"If I had to make a thousand appearances to get him (Boulevard Bridal owner Gary Gottschling) in court, I would come down a thousand times."

Pater lost a $500 deposit on the dresses for his daughter-in-law and six bridesmaids. Some other customers lost thousands of dollars.

Deana Murley of Berkley lost a $260 down payment at the Boulevard Bridal Salon on Hunter. And she was just as angry.

"I hope he gets prosecuted. I hope he goes to jail," she said.

So far the case against Gary and Donna Gottschling is a civil matter. But the prosecutor's office said criminal charges could be filed for the 5,000 orders which weren't filled.

Judge Kuhn called the incident a "tragedy." He cited one instance of a bride who called the court saying she had paid for a dress but could not get into the store.

"We can't have that happen again," said Kuhn.

Kuhn allowed the restraining order to stand. He set a second hearing for 2:30 p.m. Oct. 14.

In the interim, he said the company is restrained from selling any display dresses as new. Further, the company was ordered to turn over financial records to the court and is forbidden from altering or destroying any financial records.

Kuhn said he plans to appoint an independent person to monitor transactions. However, he said before that can be done it will have to be determined who will pay for the person's services.

He suggested the recently created

Michigan Bridal Association might be interested in covering the cost.

That organization of 10 bridal salons was formed about four months ago when complaints against The Boulevard Group first arose.

Ed Grace, owner of Ge-Ge's Bridal and Boutique in Farmington Hills, said, "I don't know what's going to happen. Nobody knows."

He said the incident has thrown a shadow over the local bridal shop industry, but his store has been working to help brides get their dresses on time.

"I've had three instant brides. We've gotten dresses overnight," Grace said.

Regardless of the outcome of the case against The Boulevard Group, Grace said the new organization will continue.

"There is some good coming out of this," he said.

Gottschling could not be reached for comment.

TWO PHRASES TO AVOID

The first: "Take your time."
If you assist individuals with arthritis from a car or to and from an appointment do not say: "Take your time."
Usually the arthritic person is moving as fast as he or she is able. If that person could stride with more grace and take a quicker step walking would be done that way. People with arthritis who must walk in a slow and awkward way are embarrassed by their impairment. They are already trying as best they can.
Under the circumstances, you help the most by holding doors open, minimizing barriers in the way, and talking about anything except what calls attention to the person's painful gait.
The second: "You should get out and walk."
Likely the reason people with arthritis remain in their chair is not depression, indifference, or ignorance of the benefits of exercise. Usually, what keeps them down is pain. If the individual could get up and walk then he or she would. Urging exercise only emphasizes the gulf between you and that person, and adds another source of pain.
Instead, offer to assist if at any time that individual wants to attempt to walk. Or, you can help to make the sedentary state as tolerable as possible.
Be careful what you say. Nowadays, loose words may not sink ships but they sap spirit and rekindle rancor.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Szechwan food sizzles with red chili peppers

Forget the chop suey. We're talking potency here. Anyone who has ventured into realm of the food characteristics from the culinary regions of China knows that Szechwan cooking is not for the faint of tongue.

Chinese restaurants are a dime a dozen and can be head on just about every block in most major cities. Szechwan cooking, on the other hand, is a regional specialty that demands its participants to sit up and take notice.

Prepared in local restaurants that can be counted on one hand, the hot, spicy recipes have a tendency to throw the tasteless, bland basic stir-frys that are so much staple of "Westernized" palates out with last night's rice.

After a visit to one of my favorite Szechwan eateries, I decided to do a little research and find out just what it is that makes these unique additions to Chinese cuisine sizzle. And I do mean sizzle.

Szechwan history

Szechwan cuisine comes from a region in China, the name meaning "four streams" and "high on the mountain."

Because of the abundance of water and the area being classified as "wet," the local folks began intensifying their basic Chinese foods with hot and spicy dishes to rid the "wet" from their bodies. And rid you of sweat it does.

Of course, that's not to say that all Szechwan foods are hot and spicy. If you choose to dine at any local Szechwan restaurants, you will notice that the menu includes foods from just about every province of China, with the hot and spicy dishes noticeably marked with an asterisk to denote their spiciness.

In addition, you can order any spicy dish four different ways, from the basic but tasty "spicy but not hot" all the way to the incendiary "full strength" that in my opinion, should be served with a side of bicarb.

Cooking principals

Most specialty restaurants utilize two main cooking principals when preparing their cuisine, the ever-present wok and the steamer.

Next time you're in and the place isn't packed, ask to see the state-of-the-art Chinese kitchen, which incorporates the use of six woks and various steamers.

Don't be surprised to see the chef chopping up what seems to be a hundred pounds of green onions, or if your timing is perfect, you might be able to observe the traditional "blowing up" of the Peking Duck.

This dish, a culinary feast to enjoy as well as behold, is a house specialty and incorporates the blowing up a balloon inside the duck's cavity to "press out" as much of the duck fat as possible, making for a crispier and less fatty product. Yes, the balloon is removed before cooking and serving.

All the sauces used to garnish and flavor the spicy dishes are prepared by Oriental chefs trained mainly in China.

Favorite dishes

One of my favorites is the dramatic spiciness of the Champagne sauce used to flavor crispy shrimps.

Another personal favorite is the General's Chicken with chunks of incendiary hot red peppers floating amid a sea of spicy sauce and chunks of chicken bits.

Looking for something a little out of the ordinary? Most kitchen crews are very adaptable to preparing specialty dishes not normally seen on the menu, but requested by patrons who frequent the establishments.

Vegetarian choices

Vegetarians can easily choose from a wide assortment of flavorful dishes and luscious soups. With MSG still being widely used, many restaurants will cater to a requesting customer by offering a "no MSG" entree.

For the home cook interested in preparing great spicy dishes, many supermarkets are expanding their selections of Oriental foods while competing with Oriental grocery stores that stock flaming hot pepper oils, heated-beyond-belief hot garlic chili sauces by the jar and low-sodium and mushroom-flavored soy sauce.

Many area grocers are stocking a great assortment of fresh and canned exotic vegetables like ginger-root, bok choy, (a Chinese cabbage) egg roll wrappers, and daikon, (a Chinese radish.)

A favorite accompaniment frequently enjoyed by the Janes Gang is simply stir-fried broccoli tossed with a tablespoon of hot garlic chili sauce.

You can toss in a few shrimps and serve with rice for a made to order dish that can be made in minutes, using anything from a non-stick skillet to a wok.

See Janes Gang tested-recipes for mushrooms with oyster sauce and Kung Pao Chicken inside.

Healthy kickoff: Matt Warnick and Mark Bouchard enjoy a healthy pre-game lunch at Birmingham Seaholm High School. Both are on the football team.

Don't fumble student athlete diet

BY GERI RINSCHLER
SPECIAL WRITER

Marc Bouchard and Matt Warnick are varsity football players who train intensely year round. Their training includes not just the physical and motivational aspects of football, but also the nutritional aspects according to coach Doug Fraser at Birmingham's Seaholm High School.

During the off season, Fraser spends lots of time talking to his team about eating right, every day.

"Athletes have gotten a lot of confusing advice in the past, and some still do. The steak and eggs, high protein menus for pre-games have been replaced with complex carbohydrate foods such as pasta, vegetables, beans and bagels," he said.

"Many students think that muscles are made of protein, and think they need to eat lots of protein. The body can only use so much protein, the rest is converted to fat."

Student athletes are fed a lot of confusing information about nutrition, but Birmingham Seaholm High School coach Doug Fraser and Sally Van Cise, a registered dietitian and exercise physiologist, help set the record straight.

Foods high in carbohydrates and low in fat are ideal for pre-game meals. Fraser also recommends eating foods that are easily digestible and contain enough calories to prevent hunger during the game. He also suggests that the meal be accompanied by two to three glasses of liquid to provide hydration.

Sally Van Cise, a registered dietitian and exercise physiologist at Beaumont Hospital's Nutritional Medicine Clinic in Birmingham agrees that athletes need to eat well daily — three meals a day, and three healthy snacks.

"Athletes need more calories than non-athletes," she said. The average number of calories a teen-age athlete needs will vary from 2,000 to 4,000 depending on the sport they play, the number of hours they practice, and their personal growth and development.

Van Cise recommends including fresh vegetables, fruits, breads and grains with most meals.

"They should be low in fat and low in added sugar as added sugars can cause fatigue."

She also said drinking eight glasses of water a day is essential for the athlete. Van Cise advises them to not wait until they're feeling thirsty. Water is the best choice when you're thirsty, but if the student prefers something sweet, Van Cise recommends diluting fruit juice or sport drinks with water especially for pre-game practices.

Mix one cup of Kool-Aid or Gatorade with three cups of water, or one cup of fruit juice with six cups of water to avoid stomach cramps.

Nancy Mc Clenaghan of Healthways, a health food shop in Plymouth, said sports drinks such as Recharge, Ultra Fuel and Hydrofuel are very popular.

"Mostly I sell them to body builders as opposed to marathon runners or team athletes," she said.

Mc Clenaghan recommends reading the labels before buying these sport drinks because the ingredients can vary. Some contain natural fruit juices and some have natural flavoring, some contain sea salt and others may have no salt or sodium.

As a dietitian, Van Cise is very aware that teens skip breakfast. When they're on the go or just can't eat in the morning, she suggests packing a bagel or dry cereal in a sealable bag to eat while

School nurse practices good nutrition at home

BETSY BRETHEN

Despite all the evidence that continues to be accumulated about the connection between good nutrition and behavior, mothers today are facing stiff competition from the junk food and fast food industries. However, a recently published book, "Eating for A's" by Alexander Schauss, Barbara and

Arnold Meyer, offers a helpful plan for mothers who want to get their children off to a good start as this school year gets under way.

Featuring recipes and a 12 week nutrition plan, the program specifically aims at improving a child's academic and athletic performance.

This week's Winner Dinner Winner, Cindy Mecsey of Bloomfield Hills, practices what she preaches about good nutrition to the many students she encounters in her role as the Kingswood campus nurse at Cranbrook Schools.

She said she loves having the opportunity to interact in and out of the classroom with students from all over the world. As their "mom away from home," Mecsey is there to comfort them when they are sick and counsel them on a one-to-one or group basis whenever they have medical or diet-related concerns.

A firm believer in the importance of eating a well-balanced meal, Mecsey submitted a menu that is low in fat, high in fiber and easy to make. Featuring recipes for lemon chicken, brown rice royale and zucchini bread, Mecsey accompanies this meal with steamed broccoli and carrots and a salad of cut-up seasonal fruits.

Mecsey and her husband Tom, who teaches sixth grade science at Cranbrook Middle School, and the 1990 recipient of the Metro Detroit Outstanding Science Teacher of the Year award, are the parents of three children. A close family, they love to go camping and involve their children in all aspects of their lives.

Winner Dinner Recipes

LEMON CHICKEN

- 6 chicken breasts, boneless and skinless
- 1-2 lemons (or 3-5 Tablespoons lemon concentrate)
- 1 garlic clove, finely chopped
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten
- 1-2 tablespoons vegetable or olive oil
- 3-4 heaping tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped
- 2 ounces sliced almonds
- Lemon peels or paper-thin lemon slices
- Salt and pepper to taste

Place eggs and bread crumbs in separate bowls. Dip chicken breasts in egg and then roll in bread crumbs. In a large skillet, add chopped garlic to oil and cook on medium heat, being careful not to burn the garlic. Lightly brown both sides of breaded chicken in skillet. Remove meat to paper towels to drain. Place chicken in a casserole dish or shallow baking pan. Pour lemon juice or lemon concentrate over the chicken. Add ¼ cup of water to cover the bottom of the dish. Cover with lid or foil and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to 1 hour.

BROWN RICE ROYALE

- 1 ½ cups fresh mushrooms, sliced
- ½ cup finely chopped green onions, including tops
- ¼ cup finely chopped celery, including leaves
- 1-2 tablespoons butter or margarine

- 1 can chicken broth, 14 ½ ounces
- 1 cup brown rice

In a 2 or 3 quart saucepan, saute vegetables in butter or margarine until tender. Add rice and chicken broth and bring to a boil. Cover with a tight-fitting lid and lower heat to simmer. Cook 1 hour or until rice is tender, adding additional broth or water to prevent rice from burning, if necessary. Serves 4 to 6.

ZUCCHINI BREAD

- 3 eggs
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup vegetable oil
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup shelled walnuts or pecans (optional) coarsely chopped
- 3 cups flour, unsifted
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 cups zucchini peeled, grated and drained to remove excess moisture

Beat eggs until foamy and gradually add sugar and oil. Combine and sift dry ingredients and add to egg mixture. Add zucchini, vanilla, raisins and nuts. Pour batter into two buttered and floured loaf pans.

Bake at 350 degrees for 55 to 65 minutes, or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean. Let stand 10 minutes, remove from pans and cool completely on a rack. Makes two large loaves or six mini loaves.

MUSHROOMS WITH OYSTER SAUCE

- 1 pound fresh mushrooms
- 3 Tablespoons oil
- 2 green onions, minced
- 1 teaspoon minced ginger root

- 1 teaspoon cornstarch, blended with 2 Tablespoons water
 - 2 Tablespoons oyster sauce
 - salt and pepper to taste
 - 1 teaspoon sherry
 - ½ teaspoon sugar
 - 2 teaspoons sesame seed oil
- Slice mushrooms, set aside. Heat oil in wok or skillet and add onions and ginger root. Add mushrooms and stir-fry one minute. Set cornstarch blend aside. Add remaining ingredients except cornstarch and toss for one minute.

Stir in cornstarch. Cook for two minutes, stirring until thickened.

KUNG PAO CHICKEN

- 2 whole chicken breasts, skinned and boned
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg white
- 1 Tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 cups oil for frying
- ½ cup skinless roasted peanuts

- 10 whole dried red chili peppers
 - 2 green onions, chopped
 - 2 cloves garlic, minced
- Sauce:
- 1 teaspoon chili paste with garlic
 - 2 Tablespoons soy sauce
 - 1 teaspoon wine vinegar
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
 - ¼ cup chicken stock
 - 1 teaspoon cornstarch
 - 1 teaspoon sesame seed oil

In a small bowl, blend the sauce ingredients. Heat oil in wok to 400 degrees. Deep-fry chicken until cooked throughout. Remove and drain.

Lower heat in wok to 350 degrees. Deep-fry peanuts in a strainer until golden brown, drain.

Remove all but two tablespoons of oil in the wok. Heat to 400 degrees and stir-fry red chili peppers until they are dark red. Lower the heat to 275 degrees, add green onions and garlic. Stir-fry one minute.

Four in chicken, stir-fry one minute. Add the sauce, stir-fry until heated and glazed. Add peanuts. Toss and serve with rice or noodles.

WHOLESAOME APPLE BARS

- ½ cup sugar
- ¾ cup brown sugar
- ¾ cup soft margarine
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs or 4 egg whites
- 1 cup whole wheat flour
- ¾ cup flour
- 1 cup Wheaties cereal, slightly crushed
- ¾ cup old-fashioned rolled oats
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt

- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- 2 large baking apples, peeled, cored and diced

Cream the margarine with the sugars. Beat in vanilla and eggs. In a large bowl, combine dry ingredients and set aside. Add creamed margarine and blend until smooth. Fold in diced apples.

Lightly grease a 9 by 13-inch baking dish with a non-stick cooking oil spray.

Spoon batter into pan and bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 30 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean. When cool, cut into bars. Makes 24 bars (141 calories each).

SOFT PRETZELS

- 1½ teaspoons yeast
- ¾ cup warm water
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons sugar
- 2 cups flour
- 1 egg white, beaten

Dissolve yeast, salt and sugar in warm water. Blend in flour and knead until smooth. Divide dough into eight pieces. Roll each piece on a lightly floured board to form an eight-inch long rope. Twist rope into a pretzel shape or letter of the alphabet. Spray a cookie sheet lightly with a non-stick cooking oil spray.

Set pretzels on cookie sheet and brush each with the beaten egg white. Bake in a preheated 425 degree oven for 12-15 minutes. Serve warm with mustard. Makes 8 servings (116 calories each).

Both recipes provided by the Beaumont Nutritional Medicine Clinic in Birmingham.

walking to the bus or later in the morning.

An alternative for those who don't like breakfast foods is to try a healthy fruit and oatmeal bar, homemade egg muffin sandwich made with low fat sliced cheese, a scrambled egg or two cooked egg whites and a homemade muffin or biscuit made with low fat margarine.

For those dinner times when there is no time to eat, a pita sandwich stuffed with cooked chicken or turkey and vegetables or pizza bagels made with tomato sauce, low fat mozzarella cheese, sliced vegetables or cooked ground turkey sausage will suffice.

Avoid trying new foods or recipes the night of the game, said Fraser. It's best to work out a routine meal plan early in the season.

Chicken dish hot stuff

San Antonio Chicken with Picante Black Bean Sauce, a fuss-free main dish with spicy Tex-Mex flavors, has taken top honors — and the $3,000 Grand Prize — in the 1992 Pace Picante Sauce "Pick Up The Pace" Recipe Contest. The contest, an annual round-up of original recipes prepared with Pace Picante Sauce, inspired a wealth of creative entries from spicy food fans nationwide.

Crowd pleasing and quick to fix, the prize-winning main dish simmers boneless, skinless chicken breasts in a boldly seasoned mix of black beans, bell peppers and corn, and takes its garden-fresh flavor and spicy jalapeno heat from mild, medium or hot picante sauce.

A last-minute sprinkling of cilantro completes the recipe, and a simple salad and corn bread or tortillas turns it into a fast fiesta. Charlene Margesson, a computer aide from Brentwood, Calif., is the proud creator of best-of-contest recipe.

Entries in this year's recipe contest revealed that creative cooks are really using the old bean. Canned beans and dried beans, often in combinations of two, three or more, were some of the most frequently incorporated ingredients across all recipe contest categories.

Mexican, Tex-Mex and Italian flavors predominated, especially in pizzas, pasta dishes and chili. In fact, so many creative chili recipes were entered that plans for next year's contest include a separate category just for chili lovers.

SAN ANTONIO CHICKEN WITH PICANTE BLACK BEAN SAUCE

- 6 chicken breast halves, boned and skinned
- 2 teaspoons ground cumin
- 1 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 Tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 cup rinsed and drained

Tex-Mex chicken: San Antonio Chicken with Picante Black Bean Sauce simmers boneless, skinless chicken breasts in a mix of black beans, corn, bright bell peppers and picante sauce.

- canned black beans
 - 1 can (8 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
 - 2/3 cup Pace Picante Sauce
 - 1/2 cup diced red bell pepper
 - 2 Tablespoons chopped cilantro
- Sprinkle both sides of chicken with 1 teaspoon of the cumin and the garlic salt. Heat oil in 12-inch skillet over medium-high heat. Add chicken; cook 3 minutes. In medium bowl, combine beans, corn, Pace Picante Sauce, red pepper and remaining 1 teaspoon cumin. Turn chicken; spoon bean mixture evenly over chicken. Reduce heat to medium; cook uncovered 6-7 minutes or until chicken is cooked through. Push bean mixture off chicken into skillet. Transfer chicken to serving platter, using a slotted spoon; keep warm. Cook bean mixture over high heat 2-3 minutes or until thickened, stirring frequently; spoon over chicken. Sprinkle with cilantro and serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Italian restaurants share recipes

The recipes for "A Taste of Italy," on September 21, were accidentally omitted from the paper. Here are recipes from Fonte D'Amore in Livonia and Cafe Cortina in Farmington Hills.

CHICKEN FRADIAVLO

- 4 eight-ounce boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 teaspoon chopped garlic
- 1 teaspoon crushed red chili pepper
- 1 cup chopped tomatoes
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup white wine
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1 teaspoon dried or fresh basil
- salt and pepper to taste

Saute chicken breast in 1/4 cup of olive oil. Brown both sides, remove from pan. Add remaining olive oil, garlic, pepper, tomatoes, onion, green pepper, wine and seasonings. Sautee over medium heat for five minutes. Add chicken, sautee for five more minutes. Pour sauce over chicken. Serves 4.

Translated, this dish means Chicken of the Devil because of the chili pepper, it's hot! Recipe from Luciano Del Signore of Fonte D'Amore in Livonia.

RISOTTO WITH ZUCCHINI

- About 2 Tablespoons olive oil for sauteeing
- 1 clove garlic chopped
- 1 teaspoon butter
- 1/4 cup fresh basil

1 medium zucchini, finely chopped about two cups

- 1 cup Arborio rice
- 5 cups chicken soup stock
- salt and pepper to taste

Sautee garlic in olive oil, add 1/4 cup fresh basil, butter and zucchini. Sautee 2 minutes. Add Arborio rice and chicken soup stock. Simmer, keep stirring, add salt to taste. Add water if necessary, cook and stir until it thickens.

Rina Tonon of Cafe Cortina in Farmington Hills suggests serving the risotto with breast of chicken grilled with rosemary and sage. She seasons the chicken breast with olive oil, fresh rosemary, sage, salt and pepper and rubs the seasonings into the meat. She suggests marinating the meat in the refrigerator for about an hour prior to grilling.

KEELY WYGONIK

Silvana Caparuscio, manager of Pure'n Simple Vegetarian Restaurant in Troy proved once again, that healthy food doesn't have to taste bland at the Hudson's Fall Marketplace Fair held at Oakland and Twelve Oaks Mall Sept. 14-17. At the last fair, Caparuscio won a prize for her banana cream pie.

"I try to make food pure and simple the way nature created it," she said. "That's my life, to show people there's a better way to eat."

Another winning apple recipe, Hudson Valley Grilled Chicken with Macintosh Relish was prepared by Chef William Collins of the Sheraton Oaks Hotel in Novi. This colorful, festive dish is perfect for Sunday dinners.

Where's your favorite pumpkin patch or cider mill? Call me at 953-2105. I'm working on a story for October 12, and I need your help. Next week I'll have some recipes from area cooks who won ribbons at the Michigan State Fair.

Happy New Year to all of our Jewish readers who will be celebrating Rosh Hashanah this week.

During the celebration, Jews reflect on the past year, making amends for past wrongs, and look forward to the new year. It's a solemn occasion marked by self-appraisal.

It is customary to have something sweet and avoid anything sour at the Rosh Hashanah meal because of the ancient belief that what one ate determined what the year ahead would hold.

If you're not Jewish, join the spirit of the holiday. Don't wait until Jan. 1 to say you're sorry to someone, or to change your life for the better.

Back to food, here are some delicious prize-winning apple recipes.

APPLE-APRICOT FINESSE

- Pie filling
 6 cups apples, peeled & chopped
 ¾ cups dried apricots, thinly sliced or snipped
 2 Tablespoons raisins
 1 teaspoon almond extract
 1 cup rice syrup
 ¼ cup freshly-squeezed orange juice
 1 Tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon corn starch
 ¼ teaspoon ground cardamom
 ¼ teaspoon ground coriander
- Topping
 ½ cup almonds
 ½ cup walnuts (chopped)
 ¼ cup cashew pieces
 ¼ cup sunflower seeds

- 2 Tablespoons sesame seeds
 ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
 1 Tablespoon corn oil
 2 Tablespoon maple syrup
 2 Tablespoon barley malt

Combine the apricots, orange juice and almond extract. Let stand for 30 minutes. Stirring occasionally, add the apples, raisins, rice syrup and spices. Spoon mixture into an unbaked, whole wheat pie crust (bottom only).

To prepare topping, combine nuts, seeds and cinnamon. Add corn oil, syrup, and malt. Mix all together and place on top of the pie. Cover with foil to avoid burning.

Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Next, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for 30 minutes more. Finally, remove the foil and bake 15 minutes longer. Let cool on a rack. Submitted by Silvana Caparuscio, manager Pure'n Simple

 2 cups soy sauce
 ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 2 cups brown sugar
 2 bay leaves
 3 Macintosh apples, coarsely chopped
 10 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
 2 Tablespoons salt
 1 Tablespoon black pepper

Marinate chicken for 24 hours in juice and seasonings. Grill chicken on barbecue or in oven.

- MACINTOSH RELISH
 1 Macintosh apple, diced small
 1 Golden apple, diced small
 1 Granny Smith apple, diced small
 1 green pepper, diced small
 1 oz. shallots, diced small
 1 teaspoon ginger, diced fine
 1 teaspoon garlic, diced fine
 2 ounce apple cider
 2.5 ounce apple juice
 2.5 ounce mango chutney
 1 Tablespoon brown sugar
 2 Tablespoons parsley, chopped fine
 1 Tablespoon lemon juice
- Saute apples, pepper, shallots, ginger and garlic in 1 tablespoon butter. deglaze with lemon, cider, apple juice, let reduce for 10 minutes, add brown sugar and chutney.
- Cool. Add parsley. Serve with chicken. Submitted by Chef William Collins, Sheraton Oaks Hotel, Novi.

Mystery maker: Comedian Eddie Jaye has taken his laughs to new heights by engineering murder mystery weekends at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

He gets his laughs in-mysterious way

By Patrick Keating
Special Writer

It could be that one of America's funniest entertainers lives here in Michigan. His name is Eddie Jaye, and since 1976, he has made people laugh with a mixture of comedy and ventriloquism that never resorts to off color humor.

For two years, he toured with country songsters Alabama as their opening act. He has also opened for David Copperfield, Gladys Knight and the Pips, Lee Greenwood and Randy Travis.

More recently, Jaye put together a show called "The New Vaudeville Revue," a three-man show, featuring himself, comedy juggler Jim Oakley and the comedy magic of Steve Ryder.

Comedy remains his main source of income, but Eddie Jaye is a modern day renaissance man, and comedy alone is not enough to satisfy him. He's been a television director for ad agencies, a freelance reporter and an award winning amateur chef.

"I've never been content just to do one thing," Jaye said. "I have a lot of interests."

Since 1985, the Royal Oak resident has been writing and producing murder mysteries at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island. The mystery is set in some other era, and for four days, guests live in that era.

"Every one is based on historical fact," Jaye said. "All our guests come dressed in that era. If the scene of our murder mystery is 1939, the clothes everyone wears comes from 1939."

Previous "Murder at the Grand" events have been set during the Civil War, the 1880s and the 1920s. The most recent was set in Las Vegas in 1948.

According to Jaye, every aspect of the event, including the entertainment is appropriate to the time period in which the mystery is set. In fact, during a recent Murder Mystery set in 1944, Jaye arranged to fit the wedding of two of the guests into the plot. Since the setting was World War II, and the groom portrayed a colonel in the OSS, Jaye went so far as to get a real Army chaplain to perform the ceremony.

A new twist
Jaye tries to use the Grand Hotel as the Grand Hotel whenever possible. The next Murder Mystery, the "Time Machine Murders," will be held Oct. 15-18. According to Jaye, it is a departure from the usual format.

"This one is different," he said. "We always go back in time, but in this one, the time frame is 1992 and all the other time eras are coming to us."

The premise is that in 1892, Sherlock Holmes is visited by an inventor friend named Professor Edmond Monteith, who has invented the Inter-Dimensional Time Machine. Holmes sets out to prove to all eras, past and future, that he is the world's greatest detective.

Holmes and the professor end up at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island in 1992, "closely followed by an awesome array of criminals all out to get the men who disturbed their lives."

During the weekend, actors portray the suspects, while guests are part of a detective team of 16-20 people. They examine the scene of the crime, gather clues and question suspects in an attempt to ascertain the guilty parties.

And adds Jaye, with some pride, the late Stephen Birnbaum, travel editor for CBS News, once referred to the Murder at the Grand as "the Cadillac of all mystery vacations."

New venture

Not one to rest on his laurels, Jaye has developed a new business venture, which he calls "Artographs." For the past 20 years, he's been acquiring, as gifts for friends, autographs of famous personalities, and framing them along with other related items.

"I'd been collecting autographs and memorabilia for years; it's just something I'm interested in," he said. "I love history . . . and I've discovered over the years, that people have icons, people have . . . heroes."

Obviously, they're pricey — the least expensive one would probably be around $250 — however, he authenticates all autographs before framing them. He uses several sources to verify the legitimacy of the autographs he purchases.

"If you sell a bum autograph, your business is shot; you've lost credibility."

Eddie Jaye's upcoming Murder at the Grand is sponsored by A.T.S. Travel and costs $529 per person (double occupancy) or $799 single. Reservations can be made by calling A.T.S. Travel at 543-7954.

Kitchens cooks — musically

■ It bothers Julian Swales that some critics have labeled his band's latest effort as being too much of the same old thing. But Swales says they need to give "The Death of Cool" a better listen and they'll see that the Kitchens of Distinction have progressed.

By Larry O'Connor
Staff Writer

In an interview, Julian Swales is quite like the radiant and vibratory guitar soundscapes he creates for Kitchens of Distinction: petulant and gushing.

The native of south Wales raves on in a trans-Atlantic phone call about how the band's next album is going to mark a radical departure. The discourse includes how he plans to shun the space-age effects, his hopes to incorporate samples and other mixed bits into the stew and even how the stark, penetrating guitar style on Neil Young's "Cortez the Killer" off of "Weld" has had a profound effect on him.

Only Swales stops himself, seemingly to obey an imaginary yellow light of caution that has appeared before him.

"I suppose I should be talking about this album," says Swales.

"The Death of Cool," (A&M) the threesome's highly anticipated follow-up to the 1991 college/alternative radio darling "Strange New World," is not something to be overlooked.

The release maintains all the Kitchens of Distinction hallmarks: Emotionally-drenched lyrics sung by singer/songwriter Patrick Fitzgerald buoyed by Swales boundless bevy of shattering atmospheric guitar forays.

Critics have had their way with "The Death of Cool" though. Some have dismissed it for being too much of the same old thing.

"There's been a progression," says Swales, discussing the subject without prompting. "Some say there hasn't been. Some say there has."

"Those people (who say there hasn't been) haven't listened to it properly. They've only listened to it once or twice and judge it on the weight of that."

Sounding a bit wounded, Swales goes on to point out some of the groundbreaking aspects of "The Death of Cool." For one, he contends there were less guitar effects used on the whole.

Swales also cites the seven-minute plus tracks such as "Mad as Snow," which is largely melancholic but tendered spritely with deliberate acoustic strumming before exploding into a fireball of guitar pyrotechnics.

Sonic wake: "The Death of Cool," the latest from the British band Kitchens of Distinction, has members Dan Goodwin (left), Patrick Fitzgerald and Julian Swales exploring new territory through introspective lyrics.

What many have latched onto are songwriter Patrick Fitzgerald's more introspective lyrics this time out.

Songs such as "On Tooting Broadway Station" and "What Happens Now?" has the singer bitterly wading through an emotional Tiber while "4 Men" is rather implicit in its, er, unsatiated sexual yearnings.

"It's just that Patrick had been going through a lot . . . before the last album came out," Swales says. "There was much less turmoil when we did ("Strange New World") when we all were really enjoying playing and we were performing songs about the ocean and as such."

Has the fact Patrick has dealt openly — such as in "4 Men" — with his homosexuality changed how the band is perceived?

"My experience is all relationships are the same," Swales says. "I know the song is about a man and I sing along with it on stage, but it could easily be a woman he's singing about. It could all be the same thing."

Swales is more engrossed in how the Kitchens of Distinction's approach will change in the future.

Underneath the "Strange Free World's" veneer of plush guitar orchestrations were textures of free jazz. Swales, who's been listening religiously to Miles Davis recently, would like to include more of those elements into the Kitchens' fray.

Also, the band has asked rappers Kross to perform on their next single. If anything, Swales just sees the need for change.

"You reach a point. On the last few albums, we've following something and you eventually get bored with it," he says. "This is the sort of album where we've nailed it down . . . so it's time to move onto something else."

Kitchens of Distinction will perform with guests, Kingsmaker and Bleach, Friday, Oct. 2, at Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac. For information, call 334-1988.

'Mohicans' skips action, realism for overblown romance

JOHN MONAGHAN

Forget James Fenimore Cooper. The new version of his "The Last of the Mohicans" is strictly for fans of mushy historical romance. You know the kind I mean — thick paperbacks where lusty men and women grapple on the covers, their long hair blowing in the wind, as epic battles rage behind them.

This time the English and French duke it out for American land a decade or two before the American Revolution. The hair belongs to Daniel Day-Lewis. He plays Hawkeye, the white man raised partially by Indians who pledges no allegiance to either crown.

During regular treks through upstate New York, he and a pair of naive American companions rescue a pair of damsels in distress. An evil Indian named Magua wants to kill the sisters, daughters of a Scottish general, in order to "wipe out the seed" of his family.

Day-Lewis, the English actor so brilliant in "My Left Foot" and "My Beautiful Laundrette," brings to the screen a Hawkeye from the 1990s — the frontiersman as supermodel. He's noble for the right cause (love), resourceful in the face of danger, a crack shot with a primitive musket, and of course, ultra-sensitive.

Most of all he's handsome, very handsome, with his chest exposed through his loose, open shirt and all that yummy hair spilling onto his shoulders. He'd look just as much at home with Matt Dillon in the Seattle-based "Singles" as he does slogging through the primeval forests of our ancestors.

Not that I expected anything faintly realistic from this new "Last of the Mohicans," but I thought it would be a bit grittier and less Harlequinized than what flashed across the wide screen.

Only the colorful scenery, with massive waterfalls, steep cliff-side paths and thick virgin forests, looks naturally impressive.

Everything here is overblown, from the romance between Hawkeye and the Scottish noblewoman (played by Madeleine Stowe) to the music which swells at the drop of a hat — or in this case a swish of the hero's lengthy locks.

Only the colorful scenery, with massive waterfalls, steep cliffside paths and thick virgin forests, looks naturally impressive. The rest, including the choreographed Indian attacks and battle sequences, comes off Hollywood phony.

I suppose we can blame the whole mess on "Dances with Wolves," Kevin Costner's overrated ego trip of a western. You can just see director Michael Mann, best known as the creator of TV's "Miami Vice," selling "Mohicans" to Twentieth Century Fox as a film that combines the same elements of frontier loner with vanishing Indian breeds.

And the film will have its fans. Respected critics have called it "exhilarating and powerful." American literature scholars, meanwhile, will be gratified that Cooper's archaic prose and overall stuffiness has reached the masses.

I'll take archaic and stuffy any day to the kind of shameless posing that permeates "The Last of the Mohicans." Director Mann turns this well-known novel into the film equivalent of "Miami Vice," with pretty characters, a slick style and only the illusion of substance.

"Mohicans": Daniel Day-Lewis is Hawkeye, frontiersman star of Michael Mann's "The Last of the Mohicans."

Murray makes 'Bob' funny

PASS THE POPCORN
LaANNE ROGERS

We've all had the experience of being trapped by someone, who on the shortest acquaintance, will bend your ear with the unending story of their life. You can get trapped on a plane, in a corner at a party or in a restaurant.

In the comedy "What About Bob?" Bill Murray plays the title character, the neediest, most neurotic guy imaginable — the ultimate guest who wouldn't leave. The man who came to dinner but wasn't even invited in the first place.

This funny 1991 comedy, directed by Frank Oz, first introduces Bob Wiley as he struggles to get going at his apartment in the morning. "I feel good. I feel great. I feel wonderful," is the manic mantra he chants as he rubs his temple.

Getting out of the apartment building is another challenge since he's naturally afraid to get into the elevator and uses a cloth to touch anything.

Bob is on his way to his first appointment with his latest psychiatrist, tensely played by Richard Dreyfuss. You know what kind of a guy the shrink is very quickly as he gloats over his new book and an upcoming "Good Morning, America" television interview, at his vacation home no less. The only other person who had been interviewed on vacation was Dr. Ruth. You just know the doc's 15 minutes of fame aren't going to be happy ones. It's the doctor's ego and smugness that lead him into his problems with Bob, who he agrees to see after being stroked by a colleague. Dreyfuss is too self-absorbed to question why the other psychiatrist has been driven to give up his practice.

There's a very funny scene when Dreyfuss puts on his game face for the first meeting with Murray who spews forth with his fears about germs, elevators, noise and going outside. When Dreyfuss questions whether the failure of Bob's marriage was probably related more to his phobias than a difference of opinions about Neil Diamond, Bob feels a connection and latches on to the doctor like a lamprey eel, trying to suck the life out of him. Much to Bob's chagrin, his newfound doctor who has given him hope is going on vacation for a month.

The rest of the film is a funny account of Bob's eventually successful efforts to track down his absent psychiatrist and the doctor's increasingly impatient attempts to rid himself of the guy who has invaded his life.

Despite his problems, Bob is very likeable and very much wanting to be liked. Dreyfuss' family, especially his young son well played by Charlie Korsmo, take to Bob which really infuriates the doctor. His orderly universe in which he is the center of attention is shifting.

Toward the end, the doctor's omnipotent calm veneer starts crumbling under the disruptions in his world. There's one scene that reminded me of an old "Honeymooners" episode as Dreyfuss explodes in a nearly wordless tirade as Murray placidly waits for calm to return.

Both Murray and Dreyfuss are very funny, with Murray offering an especially physical performance.

Oz keeps the film moving at a quick pace and keeps a light touch when dealing with some family issues that could have turned maudlin.

"What About Bob?" is available on cassette at area video stores.

SCREEN SCENE

DETROIT FILM THEATRE
Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call 832-2730 for information. ($5)
"One False Move" (USA — 1992), 7 and 9:30 p.m. Oct. 2-3, 4 and 7 p.m. Oct. 4. This bold blend of "film noir" and western influences finds a trio of cold-blooded killers forced to hit the road after slaughtering a whole family of witnesses in L.A. A pair of case-hardened police detectives track them to Arkansas, where the local sheriff has his own ideas of justice.

HENRY FORD CENTENNIAL LIBRARY
13650 Michigan Ave., Dearborn. Call 943-2330 for information. (Free)
"Hand in Hand" (Britain — 1961), 7 p.m. Sept. 28. Two children of different faiths, a Catholic boy and a Jewish girl, become friends and learn about each other.

MAPLE THEATRE
4135 W. Maple Road, Bloomfield Hills. Call 855-9090 for show times. ($5.75 evening; $2.95 twilight)
"Blade Runner" (USA — 1982). The re-released director's cut of Ridley Scott's influential sci-fi film stars Harrison Ford as a futuristic policeman on the trail of runaway robots. The irritating voice-over narration is gone and the ending has been changed to the bleaker one that Scott intended.

"Bob Roberts" (USA — 1992). Tim Robbins wrote and directed this stinging mock-documentary look at a folk singer vying for a seat in the Senate. The outlandish study of a "rebel conservative" targets political campaigns as insincere and money grubbing.

MICHIGAN THEATRE
603 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 668-8397 for information. ($5; $4 students)
"Manhattan" (USA — 1980). Stunning black-and-white cinematography and music by George Gershwin add to Woody Allen's most romantic look at life and love in New York City. Mariel Hemingway and Diane Keaton play the women in his life, one a high school student, the other a neurotic writer. Always a treat in wide screen.

"Monster in a Box" (USA — 1992), through Sept. 30 (call for show times). In this film version of one of his stage monologues, Spalding Gray relates the laborious process of creating his autobiographical novel, the "monster" of the title. In the same vein as his earlier "Swimming to Cambodia," this time directed by Nick Broomfield.

STATE WAYNE THEATRE
35310 Michigan Ave., Wayne. All films play nightly from Wednesday through Sunday. Call 326-4600 for show times. ($2; $1 students and senior citizens)

"Local Hero" (Britain — 1983). In this subtle comedy from Scottish director Bill Forsyth, an oil company executive (Peter Riegert) travels to a tiny Scottish town to buy up seaside property for a new oil refinery. His plans are foiled when an old hermit won't sell at any price. Burt Lancaster co-stars.

"The African Queen" (USA — 1951). Humphrey Bogart and Katharine Hepburn team in this classic adventure about a spinster and an earthy boat captain traveling through Africa during World War I. After weathering their own conflicts, they decide to set off after a German freighter. John Huston directed.

RIBEYE STEAK
with Tossed Green Salad & Beverage
$7.99
Our tender, 8 oz. ribeye could easily stand alone - but, luckily it doesn't have to! Because we are tossing in a fresh green salad and beverage. All entrees also include Sizzler's cheese toast and baked potato, French fries or rice pilaf.
Dine in only. Not valid with any other discounts. Offer expires October 25, 1992.

Salem girls win dual

Plymouth Salem is 2-0 in girls cross country following a 20-43 rout of Walled Lake Central at Cass Benton Park Thursday.

The Vikings had the top runner in Tabitha Belcher, who finished first with a 20:59 time, but Salem captured the next seven places.

Freshman Leah Rethford led the Rocks with a second-place effort of 21:04. Just 30 seconds separated Salem's top seven runners as Stacy Witthoff ran 21:05, Emily Farrell 21:17, Corey Gulkewicz 21:20, Stacy Moore 21:25, Sarah Hamilton 21:30 and Courtney Sheldon 21:34.

"We ran a very good race," Salem coach Mike Krafchak said, adding the Rocks used a different tactic than their first meet against Plymouth Canton.

"We ran a very tough first mile and coasted home from there. It's a great pack team."

Chiefs are short by point

Plymouth Canton made a strong bid to upset one of the state's top teams in boys cross country Thursday but fell a point shy against Walled Lake Western, 27-28.

Casey Moothart led the Chiefs with a second-place time of 17:24. Todd Smith was fifth (17:40), David Yack sixth (17:52), Shawn McNamara seventh (17:58) and Jeff Keith eighth (18:06).

Art Schuetzler of Western, the defending Western Lakes Activities Association champion, had the winning time of 16:57 at Willis Park.

"I hate losing like that, but the kids have reason to be happy," Canton coach Mike Spitz said. "We had a lot of personal records, a lot of good signs."

The Chiefs are 0-1 in the Western Division of the WLAA and 1-1 overall.

Western girls top Canton

Plymouth Canton, facing two of the Western Lakes Activities Association's top girls cross country teams early in the season, fell to 0-2 Thursday after a 20-37 loss to Walled Lake Western.

Laura McWilliams led the Chiefs with a third-place finish (21:20) at Willis Park. Teammates Lara Antczak was sixth (22:57), Karina Kilpelainen seventh (23:07), Michelle Magers 10th (24:29) and Janie DeCourcy 11th (24:29).

Western's Jennifer Ray was the individual winner, running 19:45.

Primo's tourney champ

Primo's Pizza, a member of the Livonia and Plymouth modified softball leagues, won an open tournament Sept. 19-20 in Mason, defeating Lansing Snafu in the final, 9-5.

Pitcher Brian Murphy (Plymouth) posted a record of 4-1 for Primo's, which also scored victories over Bedson Electric of Livonia, 9-2; Delton McCormick, 9-8; and Plymouth Trading Post, 6-4. (Snafu handed Primo's a 9-4 opening game loss.)

Manager Rick Williamson (Garden City), an outfielder/designated hitter, led Primo's in hitting with a .555 average. Third baseman Dave Feeny and second baseman Kevin Liedel, both of Livonia, batted .500 and .475, respectively. Liedel also had three triples and a double.

Other members of Primo's include shortstop Tony Richardson of Farmington, who hit .667 during the final two games; Doug Fulton, Kevin Collins and Rob Sudz, all of Livonia; Bob Borth, Westland; Mike Rice, Garden City; Bob Debenedet, Plymouth; and Dave Wolfe, Milford.

Salem unbeaten in WLAA

One thing remains certain about the state of Plymouth Salem girls basketball despite five non-league losses.

The Rocks are still contenders in the Western Lakes Activities Association after trouncing Livonia Franklin 58-31 Thursday at Salem.

Salem, the defending WLAA champion, is 2-0 in the league and 2-5 overall. The Patriots are 0-2 and 2-4.

"We'll take the win; we're real pleased with that," Salem coach Fred Thomann said.

The Rocks led 25-16 at halftime but outscored Franklin 34-15 in the second half.

Senior Cyndi Platter had 16 points to lead Salem, Andrea Ramsey and Tonya Wheeler six each. Eleven players scored for the Rocks.

Mary Bogazinski and Lisa Craven had nine points apiece for Franklin.

Chiefs whip Glenn cagers

Plymouth Canton required some time to get going again Thursday following its overtime victory over top-ranked Harper Woods Regina.

But the Chiefs were in top-notch form by the second half and rolled over visiting Westland John Glenn 63-21 in girls basketball.

The score was tied 2-2 midway in the first quarter. The Chiefs led 10-4 at the end and 22-6 at halftime. Canton outscored the Rockets 41-15 in the second half.

Stephanie Gray scored 14 points, Kelly Holmes 10, Amy Westerhold and Lisa Nicastri eight apiece for the Chiefs. Gray also had nine rebounds. Jennifer Gorecki had seven points to lead Glenn.

Canton is 2-0 in the WLAA and 8-0 overall, the Rockets 0-1 and 1-6.

Salem-Canton clash ends in draw

Controversy marked the last minute of play Thursday night as Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem settled for a tie in boys soccer. The Rocks suffered another costly injury in the process. It's best player, Tom Baker, was the casualty this time.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Coaches and players left the soccer field wondering what might have been Thursday night after Salem and Canton tied 1-1 at Centennial Educational Park.

There was controversy in the last minute as each team had a scoring situation affected by the officials.

In the Canton case, it was a no-call; for Salem, it was a linesman's ruling that disallowed the winning goal.

Canton's Jeff Fliiss was about to go one-on-one with Salem keeper Paul Dood but was tackled from behind on the left wing. The Chiefs thought Fliiss had been illegally chopped, and a foul should have been called.

"(The official) said he didn't think the kid knew where the ball was," Canton coach Don Smith said. "What difference does that make after the foul?"

"How could he see? His face was right down in the mud. In other words, he should have been able to get up and play the ball."

The Rocks quickly advanced the ball upfield, and Joe Perron popped it into the Canton net during a scramble in front with 30 seconds to play. The linesman on the east sideline called Perron for a handball violation, which nullified the goal.

Salem coach Ken Johnson said he was told by others who saw the play a Canton defender drove the ball into the ground with his fist, and it bounced up and hit Perron.

Both teams were glad they didn't take a loss, especially the Rocks, who held off Canton while playing the last 27 minutes without all-state halfback Tom Baker.

Baker twisted his right ankle when taken down with a slide tackle and might be unavailable for the next two weeks, according to Johnson. Ryan Phipps also was hurt after being hit in the thigh with a knee.

The No. 2-ranked Rocks have been beset with injuries but have done well despite the setbacks and remain undefeated (10-0-2). Phil Shipley came back Thursday, but Jeff Kley, Brian Spuck and Trevor Pruett remain out.

"You can't say we're going to go down the tubes because Baker is gone," Johnson said. "We have a team out there. These guys have guts. They'll pull together until he gets back."

"They might try harder now. They've got heart. That's all you can ask — for them to keep fighting."

Smith thought the Chiefs (6-2-3) let an opportunity go by, failing to score with Baker on the bench. The Chiefs did have more chances than the first half when Baker was playing defense.

"(Baker) controls the game a lot, although we were playing well while he was in there," Smith said. "We were sending the ball up the middle and letting him get to it too often instead of playing it up the sides."

The Chiefs scored early in the second

Rocks fall to Raiders in football

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Throughout the first three games of the football season, North Farmington used Todd Anderson's running as a crutch.

But on Saturday, despite having leading pass receiver Scott Lord on the sidelines on crutches, the Raiders went to the pass. Senior tight end Adam Kammer, who had only one previous catch, caught six for 89 yards and one touchdown as North pounded visiting Plymouth Salem, 21-0.

Senior quarterback Jason Danielewicz had his best game, completing seven of 15 passes for 100 yards. The Raiders also had 152 yards rushing, with Anderson gaining 103 yards on 26 carries and scoring twice.

North is 3-1 overall, 2-0 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Danielewicz bruised his left shoulder late in the game but said he'll be back for Saturday's homecoming game against Walled Lake Central.

"We know everyone is going to key on Todd and if you can't use other people you're in trouble," North coach Jim O'Leary said. "Lord is our pass catcher but he's on crutches (with a hyperextended leg). Kammer did a great job. He's the steamer was somewhat surprised to be the Raiders' primary receiver, because 'I didn't know if we were going to have a primary receiver,' he said."

Combined with a suffocating defense that allowed only three Salem first downs and 48 total yards, the Raiders were almost unstoppable.

The Raiders scored twice after recovering Salem fumbles and another score came after a blocked punt. The Raiders' Dan Greenhalgh also intercepted a pass in the second half.

"We've been a little suspect and people have moved the ball on us, so we really worked hard and put more work this week into defense," O'Leary said. "Our defensive coaches (Ralph Temby and Irv Horwitz) put a great scheme together and the kids executed well."

Salem is 2-2 overall, 1-1 in the Lakes.

Spartans repeat; Chiefs 2nd

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

So what's a coach matter, anyway?

Livonia Stevenson didn't miss Greg Phill much at Thursday's Western Lakes Activities Association Swimming and Diving Relays, held at Plymouth Salem and co-sponsored by the Plymouth and Canton Rotary Clubs. True, it's nice to have someone to toss into the water after a victory, someone to collect the trophy, someone to say nice things about the swimmers to the media.

It would have been nice for the Spartans to have Phill around for that kind of stuff. But for race strategy?

Forget it.

Phill missed the meet due to a coaches' meeting he had to attend in Minneapolis. Stevenson managed pretty well without him, though, powering to a first-place finish thanks to five wins in 10 events.

The Spartans scored 268 points to 250 for runner-up Plymouth Canton. North Farmington placed third (192), followed by Northville (181), Salem (163), Livonia Churchill (139), Farmington Harrison (133), Walled Lake (118), Farmington (106), Westland John Glenn (93) and Livonia Franklin (71).

OK — a coach in any sport does more than show up the day of the game or meet and tell people what to do. His job is preparing his team — particularly in swimming. Which means Phill has done quite a job with the Spartans.

Stevenson finished no lower than fourth in any event. Two seconds, a third and a pair of fourths rounded out the Spartan performance.

Canton coach Hooker Wellman, whose team provided the biggest challenge, figured the meet went about as he figured. "I wasn't sure what Northville would do," said Wellman. "(Northville coach Bill Dicks) held back some of his bigger swimmers for later."

Stevenson won the 400-yard medley relay in 4:18.05 (Jamie Hilliard, Jill Knapp, Mandi Falk, Lisa Morrison);

the 200 breaststroke relay in 2:16.39 (Knapp, Beth DeWolf, Michele Kolodziejczak, Falk); the 200 butterfly relay in 1:58.94 (Holly Palmeri, Karin Carlisle, Lynn Knapp, Kelly Carlisle); the 500 crescendo relay in 5:00.22 (Amy Balog, Morrison, Jenny Nemer, Tina Caranicolas); and the 200 medley relay in 2:03.06 (Shelly Palmeri, DeWolf, Kelly Carlisle, Karin Carlisle).

One meet record was set: Canton's Jill Barnes, Sonya McWhirter, Sara Larson and Jill Mellis captured first in the 400 individual medley relay in 4:24.29, bettering North's record of 4:26.88, set last year.

The Chiefs also won the 400 freestyle relay in 3:54.65 (Sue Pritchard, Danielle Yockey, Kelly Larsen, Katie McWhirter). North's diving team of Elyse Turner and Mandy Terrell was a winner (419.95 points combined) and Churchill took top honors in the 200 freestyle relay in 1:46.14 (Liz Sorokac, Mary Corazza, Kim Gruska, Jamie Strauch).

Blazers blitz Marlins in division opener

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Coach Ed Kavanaugh was worried that his 7-0 girls basketball team might be a bit rusty after a nine-day layoff.

But Livonia Ladywood looked more like a well-oiled machine, crushing rival Farmington Hills Mercy, 65-34, before nearly 1,100 fans Thursday night in Redford Catholic Central High's gym.

"I was very concerned about it," Kavanaugh said. "But one thing I found out about this team is that they'll rise to the occasion."

"If anything, I think we put on a defensive clinic tonight. It was just good team man-to-man defense. If somebody gets beat off the dribble or pass, there's always someone there to help out."

The Blazers put on an offensive clinic as well. They hit six of their first eight shots from the floor en route to an 18-4 first quarter advantage.

Ladywood followed that up by making its first eight shots of the second period, posting an eye-opening 43-

15 halftime bulge.

"They came after us, they were very aggressive," said Mercy coach Larry Baker, whose team slipped to 4-4 overall. "And they played with terrific confidence."

Senior Mary Jo Kelly paced Ladywood and all scorers with a game-high 18 points, including four shots that dropped from three-point range.

"She's played AAU ball in the off-season and has worked on her game," said Kavanaugh of the 5-foot-8 senior. "She plays three sports, but it's year-round and she excels at all three. Mary Jo is also an excellent student."

"And if there's such a thing as a quiet leader, she's it. She just leads by example."

Sophomores Melissa Campeau and Tara Overaitis chipped in with 16 and 14 points, respectively. Senior point-guard Tracy Prybylski contributed nine.

Mercy did not have anybody score in double figures, but that was understandable. The Marlins shot only 22.2 percent from the field (11 for 45). They also turned the ball over 24 times.

"I'd like to characterize it as a bad night," Baker said. "But I was not pleased how we read their defense, and we ended up paying for it."

"I expected us to compete and we didn't tonight. It was not even a battle."

So how good is Ladywood?

It's only one Catholic League Central Division game, but the Blazers may have vaulted to the favorite's role, despite the fact that Harper Woods Regina and Birmingham Marian are highly touted. The Blazers have already beaten preseason No. 1-ranked Saginaw, and have scored impressive road wins at Alpena and Flint Northwestern.

Plymouth Canton, which will probably be ranked No. 1 in Class A this week after beating Regina by one, toppled Mercy by 17 points two weeks ago.

And with 31-point margin of victory Thursday, Ladywood certainly picked up a few votes.

CEP squads prevail

In a pair of division soccer games Wednesday, Plymouth Canton edged visiting Walled Lake Western 1-0, and Plymouth Salem defeated host Walled Lake Central 3-0.

Eric Stoecklein scored for the Chiefs, who are 3-1 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association with one game remaining next Monday at Northville. Mike Wdowiak assisted on the goal.

Jeff Baker, Ryan Smith and Mike Kley scored the Salem goals. Ryan Phipps had two assists and Joe Ferron one.

Perron leads the team with 10 goals and seven assists. Baker has nine and six, Mark MacInnis seven and four.

The Rocks are 3-0 in the Lakes Division of the WLAA and have to play Farmington next Monday at Centennial Educational Park.

Ocelots dominate foe

Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team was without standout forward Matt Lividini when it traveled to Delta CC for a Region 12 match. No matter; the Ocelots depth was more than a match for their outmanned foe as they rolled to a 10-0 triumph.

The win makes SC 6-0 overall, 5-0 in the region. The only goal the Ocelots have allowed came in the first match of the season, against Calvin College. A region foe has yet to score against them; the shutout was their fifth straight.

The goal-scoring was spread around, too. Andy Cosenza scored twice in the first half, and Wayne Worosz, Adam Carriere, Nate Stovall and Dominic Vella — who also had three assists — got one goal each to make it 6-0 at halftime.

Plymouth Christian Christian cagers win

Lyndae Horton made four three-point field goals and scored a game-high 20 points Friday to lead host Plymouth Christian Academy past Dearborn Fairlane Christian in girls basketball, 52-18.

The win improved the Eagles to 4-3 overall, 1-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

PCA led 8-3 after one quarter and outscored Fairlane 23-2 in the second for a 31-5 halftime lead. Horton triggered the second-quarter run with 11 points.

For the game, Horton was 4-of-9 from three-point range and 4-of-5 from inside the arc. She has made 19 three-pointers for the year and is shooting 42 percent from that distance.

Sophomore guard Karin Reed contributed 12 points for PCA, and sophomore center Lauren Horton added 10 points and 10 rebounds (seven offensive).

"We played a tough schedule to start the season and I think it's starting to show up in our league season and the kids overall play," PCA coach Dennis Horton said.

AGAPE 70, WWH 32: Plymouth Agape Christian walloped host Warren West Highlands in a non-league girls basketball game Friday.

Tanya Gowen led Agape (4-0) with 14 points and teammate K.C. Younkun contributed 13 points.

Sanura Jackson led all rebounders with 15.

half to lead 1-0. Mike Hayes took a pass from Alan Samouelian and sent it to Jeff Cohen, who slid the ball past Dood at 38:32.

"That was a big lift for us," Smith said. "Unfortunately, we let them score right away."

Just over three minutes later, Salem got the tying goal from Mark MacInnis. Canton keeper Ryan Hrenkel stopped Baker's free kick, but MacInnis punched the rebound into the opposite corner at 35:28.

"If we could have held them off for six or seven minutes until they got a little tired, it might have defused their surge," Smith said. "They're good at coming back right away. They seem to get fired up when they get scored on right away."

Later in the second half, Phipps had two free kicks stopped by Henkel. Hayes was wide on one shot and was stoned by Dood on another attempt. With 1 1/4 minutes left, MacInnis took a cross from Mike Kley and ran the ball at Henkel, who promptly scooped it.

"They played real well the first time and we didn't," said Smith, referring to a 2-1 loss to Salem in the Plymouth Invitational in early September. "I think we were a little more evenly matched this time."

S'craft posts volleyball victory

It was expected to be a challenge, and it was. Henry Ford CC battled back from a two-game deficit to take SC to the limit before bowing Thursday at Henry Ford.

The 16-14, 15-4, 10-15, 13-15, 15-3 Ocelot victory improved their record to 6-1 overall, 2-0 in the Eastern Conference. The Hawks are 0-2 in the conference.

"I found Henry Ford to be a really strong, athletic team," said SC coach Tom Teeters. "We're still working on our defenses and I don't think we're at our best yet. We've got a ways to go."

The offense looked good, though. Nancy Ehler sparked the Ocelots, collecting 18 kills (a .326 kill average), 30 assists-to-kills, three serving aces and 11 digs. Julie Ward's 21 kills (.326) led the attackers; Dani Sheehy had 17 (.297), to go with seven solo blocks and four block assists.

Erica Edwards added eight solos and one block assist, Janine Sproul had three service aces and nine digs, and Tracia Clendenen finished with three aces and 18 assists-to-kills.

MADONNA VOLLEYBALL
Strong all-around matches from Elena Oparka, Tonia Smith and Dana Finley propelled Madonna University's volleyball team to a 15-13, 10-15, 15-10, 15-10 victory over non-district foe Hillsdale College Thursday in Hillsdale.

Oparka, a senior outside hitter, had 16 kills (a .315 kill average), four service aces and eight digs. Smith, also a senior outside hitter, contributed 13 kills (.303) and 13 digs, and Finley, a junior middle hitter, totaled 10 kills (.310), six service aces, five solo blocks and five block assists.

Julie Adams finished with three solo blocks and two block assists, and setter Mazie Pilut contributed 37 assists-to-kills and four block assists.

The win lifted the Lady Crusaders' record to 13-3 overall.

Near sighted? Are you constantly taking off your glasses to see up close? Visions of Canada can help you with our educated staff headed by our President, Paul Boyko Jr., Mr. Boyko graduated from Ryerson College in 1978 (Toronto), with his optician's license.

Over the past 8 years, Mr. Boyko has perfected manufacturing the thinnest, clearest invisible bifocal in North America. These lenses have a better than 95% acceptance rate that includes people who have failed with other bifocals. The Rodenstock Progressive R lenses which are 45% thinner than conventional plastic lenses go from distance to reading vision in five power stages. These progressive lenses give a continuous, clear vision without interruption or lines. Other benefits include better night vision due to the anti-glare coating. Also, the swimming and distorted movements experienced by plastic lens wearers are dramatically reduced with the higher quality glass material.

These lenses are so easily adaptable that our customers walk out the door wearing their new glasses.

N'ville prevents Canton victory

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Northville offered a possible break in a tough football schedule for Plymouth Canton, but the Chiefs met with disappointment again Friday night.

Canton gave up two second-half touchdowns and dropped to 0-4 following a 20-13 loss to visiting Northville (3-1).

The Chiefs, who lost their first three games to teams with a combined record of 8-1 entering the weekend, must play perennial power Farmington Hills Harrison and undefeated Livonia Franklin in their next two.

"They're down after losing four games," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle of his players, "but we've played four pretty good teams. It's bound to get to them, but we still believe in them. Tomorrow still comes, and we'll be here practicing."

"Our kids are trying. They're doing the best they can. We just have to toughen up a little bit and get going again. We have to keep plugging away."

The Chiefs bounced back from early adversity after Northville turned an interception into a touchdown on its first possession.

Kevin Shaw raced 41 yards to give the Mustangs a 7-0 lead; however, Canton responded with a scoring drive and added a late TD for a halftime advantage of 13-7.

The Chiefs drove 70 yards in 14 plays to tie with Kevin Shankie's 3-yard pass to Eric Arnold and Bill Talbot's extra-point kick.

Canton stopped the next two Northville possessions with Rich LaBret's interception and Arnold's fumble recovery, scoring the go-ahead TD after the second turnover.

After going 72 yards in 11 plays, the Chiefs scored with 21 seconds left in the half on Shankie's 16-yard pass to Ryan Ostach. The kick was blocked.

"We hung in there and moved the ball, but we came out in the second half, let them go down the field and score," Khoenle said. "Every little thing (penalties) helped them along."

"In the second half, we didn't have the ball much at all. But I thought our kids gave a good effort."

Northville scored on its first two possessions of the second half. Quarterback Danny Walsh sprinted 10 yards from pass formation for the first TD, and Mike Hirvela's kick gave the Mustangs a 14-13 lead. Walsh's 45-yard pass to Eric Shaw led to Walsh's 4-yard scoring run.

The Chiefs made an effort to win the final quarter.

Canton drove to the opposing 5-yard line. Shankie picked up his own fumble on third down but, in the confusion, threw a pass to tackle Sam Stafford. The penalty for an illegal receiver pushed the Chiefs back to the 22, and a fourth-down pass went off the fingertips of Tim Moritz.

The Chiefs forced a punt, and Moritz returned it 37 yards to the Northville 38 with under four minutes to play. Four plays netted negative yardage and effectively ended Canton's hopes.

Canton's Lenny Gardner rushed 18 times for 72 yards, Neil Haremski 11 for 70 and Arnold eight for 57. Shankie was 5-of-15 passing for 45 yards.

Kevin Shaw led the Mustangs with 91 yards on 16 carries, and Walsh had 66 on eight attempts and was 3-of-7 passing for 80 yards. Northville had a 207-197 rushing edge and 287-242 margin in total offense.

in untouched from 11 yards for a 6-0 lead with 2:43 left in the first quarter. Ryan Meredith's first of three extra point kicks made the score 7-0.

Salem quarterback Rob Kenney fumbled in the second quarter and Moore recovered the ball at the Rocks' 13. Anderson scored again from the two to give the Raiders a 14-0 lead.

North took advantage of another fumble in the fourth quarter to score its final TD. The Rocks fumbled a North punt, and Dana Darnell fell on the ball at the Salem 24.

On third down at the 23, Danielewicz faked a reverse to Mike Corridore and found Kammer on a post pattern in the end zone for a 21-0 lead.

The Rocks crossed midfield only once after halftime when Rob Shepley caught a 7-yard pass and got to North's 49.

But, on the next play, North's Jim Oussar and Mike Poissant sacked backup quarterback Andy Coburn for a 5-yard loss.

Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "We had a couple down weeks and we're still getting in shape."

"It was a good way to start the division duals. Times are coming down and we're moving in the right direction."

Salem took six of the top seven places.

Derek Cudini crossed the tape first in 16:49. Justin Richardson was second (17:51), Jamie Miller third (18:23), Andy McDonald fourth (18:36) and Jared Biniecki fifth (18:57).

Russ Polcyn finished seventh (19:21) while Ian Packer was 10th (19:49) and Dan Hodge 11th (19:57).

SWIMMING

Plymouth Canton coach Heather Wellman will compile a weekly list of Observerland best swim times and diving scores. Coaches are asked to call Wellman between 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at 481-6600, Ext. 213.

"That was the best defensive team we've played," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "Of course, we didn't help ourselves. We're a triple-option team and we didn't read it 20 percent."

Kammer also contributed on special teams. Ryan Moore, who hurt his knee late in the game, blocked a Salem punt and Kammer picked up the loose ball and returned it to the Rocks' 28.

Three plays later, Anderson reversed his field on a pitch and went

Salem boys trounce WLC in dual meet

The Plymouth Salem boys cross country team opened its Western Lakes Activities Association-Lakes Division schedule Thursday with a 15-46 win over Walled Lake Central at Cass Benton.

The Rocks are 1-1 overall in dual meets.

"It was a good confidence boost,"

Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "We had a couple down weeks and we're still getting in shape."

"It was a good way to start the division duals. Times are coming down and we're moving in the right direction."

Salem took six of the top seven places.

Derek Cudini crossed the tape first in 16:49. Justin Richardson was second (17:51), Jamie Miller third (18:23), Andy McDonald fourth (18:36) and Jared Biniecki fifth (18:57).

Russ Polcyn finished seventh (19:21) while Ian Packer was 10th (19:49) and Dan Hodge 11th (19:57).

This is a tough problem even for bright kids.

It's not math or science that's keeping bright kids out of college. It's home economics. That's why giving to the United Negro College Fund is so important.

As the most experienced source in providing general operating support for historically black colleges, we've enabled thousands of deserving students to get a quality education.

But your help is still urgently needed. Without you this problem has no solution. Send your donation to: UNCF, 500 E. 62nd Street, New York, NY 10021.

OMARI BARKSDALE STAYED OUT OF JAIL BY JOINING A GANG.

Crime was all around him. His friends were involved. And he knew where he would end up. Luckily Omari Barksdale had a better idea. He joined a gang, the Twelve Together Program.

Programs like the Metropolitan Detroit Youth Foundation's Twelve Together have helped Omari and 324,000 other teens in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Through peer counseling and regular meetings, Twelve Together teaches teens to overcome the pressures on the streets. And hopefully end up like Omari, in a university.

The United Way supports 145 agencies. Nearly 90 cents of every dollar you contribute goes directly to work, since only 10.4 cents goes toward campaign and administrative costs. Your contributions help the elderly, the illiterate and the victims of crime, right here. For Omari and others like him, please give to the United Way. And support our gang.

STILL THE BEST WAY TO SHOW YOU CARE.
United Way, 1212 Griswold, Detroit, MI 48226 313-226-9200

Upscale, progressive and growing even faster than we anticipated. That's Oakbrook Common, a continuing care retirement community with a sophisticated style in a new state of the art facility. Our nursing staff provides a variety of services in an advanced health care environment. We focus on quality care and teamwork and our nurses enjoy shared decision making and professional growth. Due to the success of our facility, we are expanding services, creating a need for additions to our nursing staff. We feature quality nursing, a licensed Geriatrician as Medical Director and on site rehabilitation and physician services. Currently full and part time opportunities are available for RNs and LPNs in our 200-bed skilled health center. As a member of our staff, you will enjoy competitive compensation and an excellent benefits package that includes dental coverage, tuition reimbursement and more. To apply send your resume, or call our nursing department directly at 441-0708

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

It sometimes seems like things will never go your way, but don't worry — it's all going to get better soon. Be sure you're on the right path.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

You may need a great deal of strength to get through a difficult time. Use good judgment and don't be persuaded to do things against your will.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

There are some big changes in store for you. You may feel insecure about them but don't fret, things will turn out great.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)

You may receive some news concerning a young person or a new business or partnership. Don't let obstinate people get in the way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

You are going to have a difficult time sorting out your life over the next few weeks. Look inward and let go of the need to be so materialistic.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)

Love relationships could get a little trying and there is a need for a great deal of patience on your part. Money problems could cause stress.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

A wise woman could help you understand what is most important in life. Problems at work and home can be solved easily if you take the lead.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

This is a period of new beginnings, some of which could change the course of your life. To succeed you will need to buckle down and get after it.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Travel plans could be in the offing. Head down the straight and narrow path. You must begin weighing things carefully or risk losing all.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

The time to rest is over and now you need to get going after the things you want in life. You will be rewarded soon for your efforts.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)

Good news is around the corner, and you can probably use a little about now. Your day in the sun is coming and you deserve every minute.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

You may begin to feel as though the many burdens you have carried lately are beginning to lift. Work-related activities need your attention.

STAR NOTICES

Flanery enjoys playing globe-trotting hero

By Suzanne Gill

When it comes to heartthrobs, fans want to know important things like, "What does he eat for breakfast?" In the case of Sean Patrick Flanery, the answer is Cream of Wheat — a good, stick-to-the-ribs choice for a globe-trotting adventurer.

Flanery is the principal lead in The Young Indiana Jones Chronicles, airing Monday nights on ABC, playing the teenage Indy in George Lucas' history-action series.

Flanery is some years older than the character he plays, but just as wide-eyed, enjoying on-location shoots from North Carolina to Prague, his favorite European city. Despite the travel, he's still in touch with old friends at home in Houston, where he gets around town in a "20-year-old (BMW) 2002."

Though he was recently named to a "50 most beautiful people" list, Flanery frankly says he isn't popular enough to be mobbed on the streets, and he still answers his fan mail — from parents, kids and college students — himself.

As for his own idols, Flanery says he has added several, including Albert Schweitzer, to the list since the series began. Asked which historical character he would most like to encounter in an upcoming episode, Flanery knows instantly: "I'd like to meet Baron Manfred von Richthofen — the Red Baron. You know, that'd be kind of a cool story — World War I, flying aces and stuff like that." — TV Money

Kerns, Davison face 'Desperate Choices'

Witherspoon excels in pivotal role

By Steven Alan McGaw

This is a very "small" movie in a way," says Joanna Kerns of her latest telefilm—about an issue that isn't hitting the big headlines, but about the way the illness of a child hits a family, the various ways I think it's a very well-rounded piece.

Kerns joins Bruce Davison (Longtime Companion) and Reese Witherspoon (Man in the Moon) in Desperate Choices: To Save My Child, airing Monday, Oct. 5, on NBC.

Davison and Kerns star as Richard and Mary Ellen "Mel" Robbins, a successful couple with two children: 7-year-old Willy (Joseph Mazzello) and 15-year-old Cassie (Witherspoon). Richard's daughter from his first marriage, Life, seems to be going well for the Robbins. Mel is a popular local TV personality, while Richard has a solid career as a contractor. Shy Willy is adjusting to the rigors of first grade, and outgoing, attractive Cassie is a good student and a determined player on her school's coed football team.

A puzzling fainting spell alarms Cassie's coach, and her parents take her in for an examination. The diagnosis is devastating: Cassie has leukemia, and her only chance for long-term survival is a bone-marrow transplant. Richard and Mel learn that marrow is difficult to match and only Willy is indicated by test to be an acceptable donor.

Despite her love for Cassie, Mel refuses to sign the necessary papers okaying Willy as donor. She has reason to believe the boy is allergic to anesthetic. "What if we lose both of them?" Mel asks Richard, and their disagreement threatens to tear their marriage apart.

In a way, they're both right," Kerns says. "And both wrong. Life is that way—messy. Things aren't black and white."

The movie skillfully examines the complex questions raised in the story, including Richard's fear that Mel cares less for Cassie because she is a step-child, and the not-insignificant point that Willy's fate is debated by everyone but Willy himself.

Kerns is warm and engaging in a role many viewers may find unsympathetic. "I took the part because of that," she says, stressing the distance between this character and Maggie Seaver, the smiling, can-do mom of ABC's long-running Growing Pains. "I don't want to sanitize myself," Kerns explains, "always playing good guys."

Thanks to his sensitive, layered portrayal, audiences will relate to Davison as the emotionally torn father, and Witherspoon delivers a powerful performance as the stricken teen. Mazzello is okay, if a little too cute, as Willy. Bruce McGill and Jeremy Sisto lend fine support, respectively, as Richard's sympathetic attorney and Cassie's would-be boyfriend.

Desperate Choices is a laudable effort, mostly for its performances and the complexity of the story. One wishes, however, for a little less hokum in the dialogue. A story as powerful as this needs no excess of sentimentality.

Leave a clean trail.

The dramatic story of Charles Lindbergh's historic solo flight across the Atlantic is one of many aviation milestones featured in Frontiers of Flight, a 13-part series premiering Saturday on The Discovery Channel.

'Frontiers of Flight' focuses on aviators' lives

Series draws on Smithsonian exhibits

By Suzanne Gill

Over 60 years have passed since brothers Wilbur and Orville Wright began making annual treks from their Dayton, Ohio, home to the sand dunes at Kitty Hawk, N.C., to test their experimental gliders. In the decade just past, brothers Bart and Dick Rutan, respectively, engineered and flew their Voyager in the 1981 round the world flight without refueling.

Frontiers of Flight, debuting Saturday (Oct. 3) on The Discovery Channel, looks at the pioneers of aviation from Wright to Rutan, including Charles Lindbergh, Jimmy Doolittle, Amelia Earhart and Chuck Yeager. Produced in cooperation with the Smithsonian's Air and Space Museum, the 13-part series takes viewers to the aircraft and the scenes of flight, but at the lives of the aviators as well.

The premiere episode pulls together such widely separated Wright monuments and memorabilia as the family home, which now rests in Dearborn, Mich.; the Wright Bicycle Co. in Dayton; an original aircraft at the Air and Space Museum in Washington, D.C.; and several stone markers in Kitty Hawk. Along with a tour of the bachelors' home as a description of family life which they shared with their father, a widowed bishop, and their sister, who did not marry until after their father's death.

A serious oversight in the press copy of the episode is the omission of any introduction or credit for the brothers' grand nephew Wilkinson Wright, who helps explain their work habits and demonstrates the workings of the aircraft.

Future episodes feature Donald Lopez, the Air and Space Museum's own World War II ace, and portraits of aviators whose names are not household words like Wright or Lindbergh: Lt. Kelly and Macready, who flew non-stop from coast to coast in 1923; air-race hero Wiley Post; and Col. Pete Knight, an X-15 test pilot who has flown faster than anyone else in the world. Up in the sky, these are truly super men and women.

What Happened? (NBC) - NR

There's nothing like unwinding after a tough week with a special feature on a catastrophe as the "What Happened?" series returns. This week, How and presents the problem: Why did the plane crash, the bridge collapse, the ship sink? Then, with the aid of computer animation, reconstructions and actual footage, viewers can experience the drama and the tragedy.

What Happened?

Being there. Those who survive, as host experts explain, how the tragedies can be avoided and how to

The Round Table (NBC) - **

According to producer Aaron Spelling, The Round Table plans to do its work with 1990s audiences. But The Round Table is about as "80s" as pets.

A group of late twenty-somethings is climbing the professional ladder in an ever trendy Georgetown section of Washington, D.C. One's a federal prosecutor, Roxann Byppe, and her roommate Stacy Haduku is a reporter who's trying to break ties with her publisher mom, Jessica. Another is becoming an FBI agent, Dan, who's a rookie cop, Wade. Captain of the Department of Justice, M. J. Kelly, Sr., is a former FBI agent who's now in the private sector.

As the series unfolds, the characters find themselves caught in a web of intrigue and scandal.

The Round Table is a comedy-drama that's got a lot of potential, but it's not as exciting as it could be.

Thursday

Delta (ABC) - ★★★

Two seasons ago, Delta Burke decided she wanted to star in a Devilish Women spin off with co-star Michael Taylor. That desire led to strife, and Burke soon found herself only wanting. Now, ABC is paying her to star in the new series.

Burke plays Delta Bishop, a young, energetic housewife who leaves her no-nonsense husband in pursuit of freedom. She moves to Nashville and gets a job serving drinks at a bar, waiting for an elusive night to get her big break.

As anchor of the network's Thursday night lineup, Delta is apt to draw curious viewers in the season's first weeks, but it's a long shot to last.

Rhythm & Blues (NBC) - ★★★

Not only have both NBC and Fox come up with comedies set at Detroit radio stations, but they've managed to schedule them to air at the same time.

Rhythm & Blues features America's Anna Maria Horford as a widow who inherits her husband's black-owned and operated Detroit station, which is inexplicably suffering a drop in listenership to its proprietary soul format. Sight unseen, she hires kind-hearted Bobby Soul to pump up sipping tidbits. When Bobby (Robert Katt) turns out to be a white child of the Motown era, Horford wants him out. To Bobby, rescue come the station's sales manager (Barnes & Noble's Ron

Friday

The Golden Palace (CBS) - NR
Reworking a hit like The Golden Girls is either a fool's errand or a stroke of genius. So far, it looks like a lot of work.

When The Golden Girls left NBC at the end of last season, Dorothy (Bea Arthur) got married and left her mother in the hands of their two best friends. When the story picks up again in September on CBS, the remaining two will buy a Florida hotel and somehow find the stamina to run it themselves. (Betty White's Rose Nyland will singlehandedly supervise the housekeeping department, run the dining room and smile cheerfully at the front desk.)

The Golden Palace

In addition to the guest stars who will make a constant parade through the hotel's front doors, two new characters were added to the regular cast. Each of these has been reworked or recast over the summer, causing production of the first episode to be delayed. In the present palace, Billy I. Sullivan plays a little boy who was abandoned at the hotel before the ladies bought it. Don Cheadle is a college student who helps run the place, and Cheech Marin is the chef. (Thanks, but we were thinking of coming out anyway.)

Final Appeal (NBC) - NR

After announcing last May that a pair of comedies would lead out its Friday night lineup, NBC decided to leave the laughs to ABC and CBS, pushing two reality shows into a time break.

Final Appeal is more than a re-creation of Murder, She Wrote, it's a look at the legal system as well. Robert Stack leads these investigations of cases in which a criminal conviction may be subject to appeal. Final Appeal attempts to solve nothing, only to present each case from the point of view of both the prosecution and the defense, and perhaps, to reopen old wounds.

BRITISH AND PIONEERS

PBS offers 'Higher Goals' for student athletes

For young athletes who would rather be told to hit the showers than hit the books, there's PBS' upcoming special Higher Goals, which attempts to put a new spin on that attitude. The program, airing Sunday, Oct. 31, follows high school athletes as they dream of playing pro basketball and struggle to graduate and get into college. By showing kids the value of an education, it encourages them to apply the principles of practice and self-discipline to academics as well as sports.

Featured guest Isiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons offers a reality check to the school boys on their career prospects. The chance of you making it to the pros is like walking in the jungle and not being bitten by a mosquito.

British actress Helena Bonham Carter, who will turn stars in costume dramas including Lady Jane: A Woman With a View and Howard's End, will make her American television debut this season as Marina Oswald, widow of a alleged presidential assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald. The NBC-TV movie, dubbed Marina's Story, is being filmed in locations in Texas and Russia. Asked to compare her latest role to the drama Barbie quipped, "It's good to be near a case of murder."

"The Vietnam of my career." That's how producer Danny Jacobson (M. Sister Sam, Davis Rules, Mad About You) describes his years as writer-producer on Roseanne. It was all new to Roseanne Arnold. She didn't have other shows to compare it to. "I think that a lot of the stuff that I all write about and heard came at fear. She didn't know what she was getting into. But I lived."

Jacobson's next project is Good Advice, a midseason comedy for CBS starring Shelley Long and Treat Williams.

Fridays on NBC, Robert Stack examines possible wrongful convictions in Final Appeal.

Mercedes Ruehl won an Oscar for work in The Fisher King, debuting Saturday on Showtime.

Robin Givens (left) and Pamela Gidley star as mismatched partners in the Chicago homicide division in Angel Street, a drama series airing Saturdays on CBS.
