Salvation Army rings out for help

The Salvation Army has sounded the alarm for more help from the public to serve needy families on Christmas. The reason is that more people are asking for help.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Because more families than ever are showing need this holiday season, the Salvation Army is making an emergency call for help.

"There's an urgent need for businesses, churches, civic groups or families to become sponsors or adopters for our Adopt-A-family program," said Howard Matthews, program director.

The emergency is sparked by a record number of families seeking help this holiday season.

"We already have about 250 (families) that have been screened and we are trying to match up," Matthews said.

That number, reached before Thanksgiving, already surpasses the 240 families helped through the program last year.

"We feel there's going to be a lot more, maybe 300 families or more than that," before Christmas, Matthews said. "We need as many adopters as possible."

Matthews stressed that interested families should not ask about the program when calling the Plymouth Salvation Army.

"If they're interested, call 453-5487 and request an information packet," he said, adding workers don't have the time to explain the problem to everyone who calls.

Why so many? "I think the economy, one, and aggressive work on our part getting the word out to the families," he said.

"We can keep their names confidential if they request it — In this area there's a lot of people that don't want it known if they need help."

Families seeking help through the program are screened to determine if their need is real. The Salvation Army follows government guidelines on what constitutes poverty level, but Matthews said these aren't strictly followed.

Those seeking to adopt a family are told clothing sizes, gender and ages of family members.

"We treat people with respect and dignity and as much as possible guard their privacy," he said.

While the Salvation Army is a Christian organization, Matthews stresses that people of all beliefs get help if they meet financial guidelines.

Thanksgiving fest drums up fun

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The "Plymouth Thanksgiving" celebration in Kellogg Park was surely fun for lots of folks who attended on Friday and Saturday.

But it's hard to imagine that someone could have enjoyed the event more than one guy hanging out in the park Friday.

This fellow — named Tom and distinguished by a well-formed plume, pointy beak, three-toed feet and roundish body — was surely happy to have survived the cutting block on Thursday.

Tom the turkey was so happy to still be around that he calmly endured the petting of all kids who approached him.

But owner Jay Richards of Plymouth Township offered another reason. "I raised him from little ones," Richards said, adding Tom was seven months old.

Just beyond the pen kept by Richards, with ducks and another turkey on display, the centerpiece of "A Plymouth Thanksgiving" was taking place.

That of course is the first Thanksgiving dinner re-enactment, complete with folks dressed as pilgrims and native Americans and a table laden with the reputed first Thanksgiving fare — wild game, corn, squash, bread and more.

About 200 onlookers watched as the third annual event unfolded in Kellogg Park.

School bands

The East Middle School bands, directed by Paul Reeves, present their Winter Holiday Concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the school gym in Plymouth.

The concert features presentations by the Eighth Grade Symphonic Band, Seventh Grade Concert Band and Sixth Grade Beginner Band.

The school is on Mill Street between Ann Arbor Trail and Ann Arbor Road.

Coats for kids

On Sunday, 110 kids in Wayne and Washtenaw counties shopped for coats at Kmart on Ann Arbor Road, thanks to a program sponsored by the UAW and the Ford Motor Co. Sheldon Road plant.

PLYMOUTH PIPELINE

Don Jividen, union local president, said a labor relations committee contacted authorities in both counties, who bused needy kids to Kmart.

The kids were escorted around the store by plant workers, some of whom contributed as much as $40 to the effort, Jividen said.

Luminary days

Luminaria kits are on sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 5, 12 and 19 at Westchester Mall, Kroger at Sheldon and Ann Arbor Road and Danny's on Main Street.

Cost is $350 per set of 10 candles with white bags. The kit sales are a joint fund raising project of the Trailwood Garden Club and the Plymouth Symphony League.

Kids show

Gemini, Ann Arbor-based twins Sandor and Laszlo Slomovitz, bring their unique music to the Plymouth Cultural Center on Tuesday, Dec. 15.

The family oriented show begins at 7:30 p.m. Get ready to join in on Gemini classics including the "Loose Tooth Blues," and the 50's style rock tune "Puppy Love."

Register by telephone for the show beginning Tuesday, Dec. 8. All five Gemini audio cassettes and their live concert video are available in the library youth department.

Area club cheers up the needy

The Plymouth and Canton Observer Christmas Cheer Club is back.

Last year marked the first ever food and toy drive we'd done at our office on Wing Street.

And our readers made it a whopping success. That's because by the time some Salvation Army folks came by to pick up donations, our office was nearly filled with toys and canned goods.

The idea behind the club is that no child should be without a gift on Christmas, and no family should go hungry.

Joining is easy. Membership is open to anyone who can take the time to stop by our office and drop off a canned good or new, unwrapped toy for a needy child.

Then, we'll continue to collect them through mid-December. That's when we'll turn them over to the Salvation Army for distribution to needy kids and families in our area.

So grab a canned good or gift and come on by our office at 744 Wing. Bring the kids.

And we'd like to take your name and list it in The Observer with others who give to the Christmas Cheer Club.

Last year, we counted just over 200 donors coming into our office.

And by 4 p.m. Friday, three families had donated items. They are the Tom Tucker family of Plymouth Township, Mary and Phillip Shelton and their family, of Canton, and John and Fran Murawa of Plymouth.

Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays.

Bear scare spurs search

While a bear-sighting was reported in Salem Township Nov. 23, Michigan State Police have reported no further sightings.

State police, the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and Department of Natural Resources investigators have all checked out the sighting, reported in the 5900 block of Weed Road, the state police said.

"A search of the area proved to be nil, however responding officers did confirm the existence of a large footprint in the driveway belonging to the complainant," the state police reported.

"Residents are advised not to confront this animal but contact 911 as soon as possible," the state police said.

Public input welcomed at meeting

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The first meeting of the new Plymouth Township board of trustees was marked by new emphasis from supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy on public participation.

And among those members of the public anxious to participate was Jim Haar, head of the union representing township firefighters.

Haar urged trustees to hire three new firefighters, to adequately protect residents.

"I realize the new board has only been in office a few days," he said.

But Haar stressed that the new $1.5 million fire station at Beck Road and a new fire truck and ambulance at the site "are all sitting idle due to a lack of staffing."

"This is not a dollars and sense issue, this is a life safety issue," he told trustees.

TOWNSHIP BOARD

The board didn't respond to Harr's comment during the meeting, but Keen-McCarthy said this issue was a top priority item to be addressed by the board.

Other new board members are trustees Kay Arnold, Charles Curmi and Kay Mueller and clerk Marilyn Massengill. The only remaining members from the previous board are trustee Ron Griffith and treasurer Mary Brooks.

"We want to encourage greater citizen participation," Keen-McCarthy said in opening the meeting.

She's moved up the portion of the meeting devoted to citizen comments from later in the meeting to right near the beginning. And on each agenda item the board takes up during a meeting — they're usually scheduled for the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month — citizens comments will be sought.

"We hope that these changes will encourage people to be involved," Keen-McCarthy said.

The new supervisor has planned a "team building session" to include township board members and administrative staff Dec. 4 and 5 at Schoolcraft College.

The time and exact location for the sessions have not been set, but will be open to the public, Keen-McCarthy said.

She also plans to schedule study sessions on issues before the township board in public study sessions to be held from 7:30-9 p.m. the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

Keen-McCarthy said one would be scheduled for Dec. 8, at the township board room.

Woman stopped driving rental car

Plymouth police impounded a 1991 white Nissan shortly after midnight Nov. 25. The car was being driven by a woman "in a slow, erratic manner," leading police to believe she may be lost.

Officers checked the license plate and learned the car was rented from Agency Rent-a-Car, Inc. in Solon, Ohio by someone who failed to return it at the agreed-upon time.

The car was towed. The driver, a 45-year-old Wixom woman, and her dog were transported to the police station.

The woman's brother was contacted and agreed to pick her up.

Fight complaint

Plymouth police were called to Mr. B's restaurant on Ann Arbor Road shortly after midnight Nov. 24 to break up a fight. The complainant was a 22-year-old Plymouth man. The second man, who was bleeding from the back of the head, was a 21-year-old from Dearborn man. The two said they'd exchanged hostile words all evening and then things exploded. The Dearborn man couldn't remember who started the fight or how he sustained a head injury.

The complainant and his brother also had trouble remembering how the melee began. According to police, the complainant and witnesses said the Dearborn man made a loud statement confessing he was crazy. He then spiked a cue ball into the pool table. The cue ball bounced by the complainant, distracting him. The Dearborn man then punched the complainant in the mouth, cutting the inside of his lower lip, police said.

A witness made an effort to separate the two, but the Dearborn man punched him in the right eye. The cut to his cheek required stitches.

Onlookers eventually broke up the fight. The Dearborn man was issued a ticket for assault and battery.

Cable has a science fiction offering

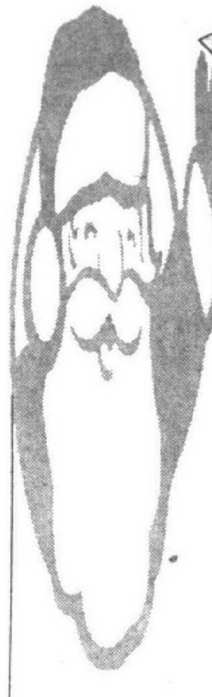

Omnicom Cablevision has launched the SCI-Fi Channel, a cable network featuring science fiction, fantasy, classic horror, and science fact programing, 24 hours a day.

The SCI-Fi Channel is a part of the package provided to Omnicom subscribers. It can be viewed on Channel 32.

The SCI-Fi Channel will offer a diverse mix of programming. The network will include newly developed movies, popular feature length motion pictures such as "Alien," "Star Trek: The Motion Picture," animated programs, documentaries and specials; and a myriad of classic and current popular series including "Alien Nation."

"We are excited to be bringing a wide variety of science fiction programming to Omnicom and to include it as part of our basic Cable Delux package," said Lisa Boland, Omnicom General Manager. "With its unique entertainment offerings for viewers of all ages, the service will make an outstanding addition to our cable line up."

Letters to Santa

Attention girls and boys! Christmas is almost here and you know what that means. Santa Claus is up at the North Pole waiting for letters and double checking his list to find who has been naughty or nice.

Once again this year, The Observer is asking children to send us their letters to Santa Claus, along with their school picture. The deadline is Dec. 7. We'll print those letters and photographs in our Dec. 17 issue, having forwarded the letters to Santa Claus in plenty of time to be ready for Christmas morning.

Children of all ages are encouraged to send their letters to:

Organizers touted the event as a reaction to the over-commercialization of Christmas, and as an opportunity to celebrate a great American holiday.

While the crowd Friday may have been down just slightly from last year, event founder Fred Hill said, "We have more people in costume this year."

The event opened Friday with an all-denominational service headed by Salvation Army Lt. Jeffrey Beechum.

"Thanksgiving is not just a holiday. Thanksgiving is an attitude of gratitude," he told onlookers, from the covered park fountain.

The park was decorated with hay bales, Indian corn and corn stalks.

"Wouldn't it be sad if Thanksgiving were simply a day off work?" Beechum asked, adding the holiday provides "the opportunity of saying 'thank you God.'"

Looking on were Helen Kwiatkowski and husband Walter, both of Plymouth. "I think it's absolutely beautiful," she said of the event.

Betty Grabowski of Livonia was getting ready to snap a photo of granddaughter Samantha, with her head in the stocks set up in the park.

"Look like you're in pain, quit laughing," Grabowski told her grandchild.

Of the event, she said, "I like it, it's different."

Plymouth man snags buck

From all indications, the deer season hasn't been the best on record. But that didn't deter two local hunters from reporting success.

Jerry Putin of Canton shot a spike-horn buck Nov. 15 on his land in Delta County. Putin said he'd been hunting since 7:30 a.m., and at about 2:30 p.m. "the deer just walked in."

It's Putin's 11th buck since he started hunting in 1966.

John McNamara, 28, of Plymouth got a spike-horn buck Nov. 22 in Charlevoix County.

The Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers feature the names of successful hunters in the Community Buck Pole.

The buck pole is based on a tradition in northern Michigan. Each year during deer season, successful hunters bring their buck to town and hang them on a pole for all to see.

To report a kill, call Jeff Counts, the editor, or Kevin Brown, a staff writer, at 459-2700 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The feature will continue through the archery and muzzle-loader seasons.

We also take pictures of successful hunters with their kill.

Stop by our offices at 744 Wing St. in Plymouth during business hours and we'll take your picture with buck or doe.

Charges expected in fatal crash

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

Canton police are waiting to serve a warrant against a 21-year-old Plymouth man who has been charged with causing his brother's death in a car accident last month.

"Our department does not intend to serve the warrant while he's hospitalized," Canton police information officer Tammie Colling said last week.

The prosecutor's office issued a one count felony warrant against the Plymouth man for operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol and causing a death.

The suspect is recovering from injuries sustained in the Oct. 23 one-car accident. He was listed in good condition last week at the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor.

His brother, William Tustian, 26, was killed after the 1985 Dodge convertible the suspect was driving left the roadway and rolled over on Warren Road just east of Lilley where the road curves. It was approximately 3:50 a.m.

Police believe the convertible top was closed at the time of the accident. The brothers, however, were not wearing seatbelts.

The accident occurred, apparently after the brothers were at a bachelor party in honor of William Tustian who was to be married the day after the accident. Initial studies indicated the car was traveling an estimated 64 mph.

As in all accidents where a death is involved, Canton police conducted a thorough investigation and gave results to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office. Canton police declined discussing details of the investigation until the warrant is issued.

"I don't feel comfortable with releasing information about the blood alcohol level and the speed until after he's been arraigned," according to Canton police Detective William Keppen, who is in charge of Canton's accident investigation team.

The charge, operating a vehicle while under the influence and causing a death, is a new statute adopted earlier this year. It carries up to 15 years in prison. The new law in many cases, replaces manslaughter charges, which carries the same prison time.

Utley inspires those who are physically challenged

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Bob Moore, 19, paralyzed in a car accident two years ago, convinced his dad to drive him to Plymouth from Hillsdale Friday afternoon. Michael Hudy, 12, of Redford also got here thanks to his dad, Mike Hudy. Michael has spina bifida and is in a wheelchair.

Sophie Ethans drove from Benton Harbor, picking up her dad, Gus Ethans, in Livonia on the way.

Beth Stephens, 11, has dwarfism and came with her father, Leland Stephens, from Dearborn.

What inspired them, and hundreds of other folks, to come to Plymouth's Blackwell Ford Inc. was Mike Utley.

Utley, formerly a right guard for the Detroit Lions, was in town for the Oilers-Lions Thanksgiving Day game at the Silverdome. Paralyzed in a freakish accident in the Nov. 17, 1991, game against the Los Angeles Rams a year ago, Utley was honorary captain in Thursday's game.

As a thank you to Blackwell, which gave Utley and his girlfriend, Debbie Riddle of Rochester, use of a 1993 Thunderbird for 10 days, Utley offered to sign autographs for a few hours in the dealership showroom.

The affable Utley smiled, joked, visited and posed for photos with fans who arrived in such a steady stream he really didn't get a

Utley autographed 8 x 10 action photos of himself and sold "thumbs up" T-shirts with the help of Jim Wauldron and Tony McDonnell of the Livonia-based Wauldron Corp., who set up the session.

The T-shirts are Wauldron's brainchild. When the Plymouth resident saw Utley give the thumbs up sign as he was carried from the field on a stretcher after his injury, it gave him an idea. Wauldron designed thumbs-up T-shirts, sweatshirts and caps and secured an NFL license to sell the merchandise for all 28 NFL teams.

Of the $300,000 raised by the Mike Utley Foundation for Spinal Cord Injury Research Foundation thus far, more than $150,000 has come from the sales of thumbs-up merchandise. The NFL is donating royalties to the foundation.

Utley's goal

Determined to defy doctors and walk again, Utley is turning over the foundation's proceeds to research in hopes of finding a cure for paralysis.

For No. 60, some might think it's fourth and long. But not Utley — who has regained movement in many of his muscles — and not those who came to see him.

Jason Carruthers, Tom Hoffman and Jeff Mielke, buddies from Field Elementary School, waited in line to meet Utley.

Jason and Tom wore their Honolulu blue-and-silver Canton Lions jackets.

"When they first came out with the shirts, I ran out and bought one," said Jason, who plays tackle for the Lions. "I want to see how Mike is doing and ask him if he thinks he'll ever walk again."

"I was at the game where he got paralyzed," said Tom, a running back with the Lions. "I saw him give the thumbs up sign."

Bob Moore broke his neck when the car he was riding in flipped on the way to a local bar. Moore and his buddy were going to meet friends after a high school basketball game.

"I've read articles about Mike Utley, and he says a lot of the same things I say. So I decided to come see how he's doing," said Moore.

A quadriplegic, Moore says his philosophy is, "Day by day, life's OK. Inch by inch, life's a cinch."

Len Gossman is Blackwell's general sales manager. "Mike Utley is an excellent role model, not just for kids, but for life in general," he said. "He's a very strong-willed, determined person."

A lesson

"We could all learn a lesson from Mike, and that's commitment to yourself. Give yourself 110 percent. Decide what you want out of life and what you want to do, and you can overcome just about any obstacle."

Utley helps: Former Detroit Lion Mike Utley, who is raising funds for spinal cord injury research, visits with fans at Blackwell Ford in Plymouth Friday. Above, Utley signs an autograph for Joey Eraul.

Canton's Barb Kilgore brought her three children, Mike, 11, Sherrill, 9, and Kevin, 7, to meet Utley "I guess to show what you can accomplish if you're down and out, and really work at something. Look at what he's done," Kilgore said.

Utley took a short time out to say he hopes people remember "the Thumbs Up Program is No. 1. We need the money for research, so purchase the shirts."

"The second thing is, just to be aware what's going on. If you see restaurants and buildings that aren't wheelchair accessible, mention it to the person in charge. Make people aware.

"And support every kid out there, regardless of whether they're in a chair or not. Make sure they stay straight. It's half their job to follow their parents, or a role model. But it's 50-50. Kids have to do their part. Kids and parents have to make time for each other."

Thumbs up merchandise is for sale at the Silverdome, Kmart, Crowley's, Foot Locker and Dunham stores.

Gus Ethans is among those who plan to support Utley's efforts.

"He's a wonderful football player and I love his appeal," said the Livonia resident. "It's too bad he got injured, but I believe he will be back within two to three years. He'll get himself well. I respect that man."

Schools honor parents' volunteer efforts

Farrand Elementary School parent Kathy Rucinski was recognized as an outstanding volunteer at the Board of Education meeting held on Monday, Nov. 23.

Rucinski was honored with the "Extra Miler Volunteers in Public Schools (VIPS)" award. The award was established by the "I Care" Committee and the Board of Education in 1991 to recognize outstanding volunteers in the District.

"Kathy has given tirelessly to Farrand School over the years," said Ann Kuhn, Farrand Elementary School principal. "She has been instrumental in acquiring overhead projectors, VCRs computers, computer programs and gym equipment through her efforts with the Campbell Soup Bonus Committee and other school incentive programs."

A volunteer at Farrand for the past six years, Rucinski gives her time and full support to the school. She serves as chair of Farrand's Phone Fan-Out Committee and Business-Education Partnership Committee. In addition, she serves on the District's Sex Education/Reproductive Health Committee and other district committees.

"Kathy gives her time to teachers as a classroom volunteer, as well as organizing special events and assisting with paper work," Kuhn said. "In short, Kathy never turns down an opportunity to help our students and staff. She believes that with enough persistence, anything can be accomplished."

Rucinski was nominated for the award by parents and staff at Farrand. She is known as a hard worker and an outstanding role model for parents.

"When Kathy's name is on the committee, I need no further follow up," said Farrand's Parent-Teacher Organization president Peggy Kalis. "I know I can count on her and trust her to include others. She conducts herself in a manner that says 'let me hear your ideas and we will work together.'"

Board president Roland Thomas presented the award to Rucinski and thanked her for her dedicated service to the students and staff of Farrand Elementary School and to the District. He presented her with a framed resolution passed by the Board of Education, a volunteer pin and dinner gift certificates donated by the Plymouth Landing on behalf of the "I Care" Committee.

Drunken-driver victims' testimony stirs crowd

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The Wayne County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving eased into its holiday campaign last week with a press conference that began with boilerplate speeches by various officials and finished with two poignant stories by victims of drunken drivers.

The contrast was startling. After digesting the routine talks of Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, Wayne County chief assistant prosecutor George Ward, state police Capt. Anthony Phillips and Dearborn Mayor Michael Guido, spectators felt their guts tighten as Speed and Joyce Gant poured out their story in a restrained emotional manner that would have filled a collection plate with 10s and 20s if one had been passed.

The Gants were driving 25 miles per hour in Detroit in March 1990 when a drunken driver doing 70 mph without the benefit of license, insurance or headlights hit them head on.

"Neither one of us saw him coming," Speed said. "I thought (Joyce) was dead and I'd just breathed my last breath."

As the two of them lay there — half in and half out of the car,

'The worst part of the whole thing was I didn't have any control over this. As long as there are drunken drivers on the road you don't have control over your own life. The next time you take a drink I want you to remember this thing (the brace) and I want you to remember me.'

Joyce Gant

Speed with seven cracked ribs and a crushed hand, Joyce with a broken neck, fractured wrist and severe bruising — two men attempted to rob them. Luckily, the police arrived in time to prevent that final indignity.

"To tell you that I'm lucky is a major understatement," Joyce said. She wore a halo traction brace for three months thereafter, a device that "works on the principal of a vice. The pins were bolted to my skull. For three months I was unable to take a shower or a bath.

"The worst part of the whole thing was I didn't have any control over this. As long as there are drunken drivers on the road you don't have control over your own life. The next time you take a drink I want you to remember this thing (the brace) and I want you to remember me."

Livonia resident Darlene Hodges had a similar story to tell about her son Craig.

Newly graduated from Franklin High School in 1989, Craig was on spring break in Florida with friends. Craig and one of his buddies were struck and killed by a drunken driver blowing a red light at 70 miles per hour.

"The man who killed my son was found four hours later, and at the time was found to have a blood alcohol level of .21," Hodges said. As it turned out, the drunken driver was on parole from a sentence served for killing two people in a previous accident.

"That pain will continue with me for the rest of my life," Hodges said. "My son's life is gone now forever, but hopefully not in vain."

The purpose behind all this testimony is to heighten popular sensitivity to how tragic a drunk-driving accident can be, particularly around the Christmas and New Year's holidays when folks tend to imbibe to excess and then some.

The severity of the punishment for drunken driving in Michigan has increased over the years, in part due to MADD's efforts.

A first offender can get up to 90 days in jail and a two-year suspended license.

Second offense: Up to one year in jail and revocation of license.

Third offense: Up to five years in jail and revocation of license.

In a drunken-driving accident causing death, one can be jailed up to 15 years and have his or her license revoked.

Of the 1,425 traffic fatalities in Michigan in 1991, 44.6 percent occurred in accidents where alcohol played a part.

On the national level in 1990, there were 44,529 traffic accident deaths. It's estimated that 22,083 of them (49.6 percent) occurred in alcohol-related crashes.

MADD encourages Michigan residents to put red ribbons on their cars to show that they're opposed to drunken driving. Businesses all over town are distributing the ribbons. For more information, call MADD at 422-6233.

Probate judge hangs up her robe

The first woman elected to the Wayne County Probate Court, Judge Gladys Barsamian, will retire next month after 18 years in the court's juvenile division.

During her three terms, she served six years as presiding judge and two years as chief judge pro tempore.

Since her first term, Barsamian has been credited with championing innovations in one of the country's largest and busiest juvenile courts. She developed new programs dealing with serious and violent juvenile offenders, intensive probation and docket management and reform.

She also instituted the court's Neighborhood Youth Assistance Program. During her time on the bench, Barsamian also served as president of the Michigan Probate Judges Association, Women Lawyers Association of Michigan and the Women's Economic Club.

In recognition of her service, friends and colleagues have announced a dinner in Barsamian's honor to be held Tuesday at the Savoyard Club in Detroit. To make reservations, call 348-7794.

Committee on airport noise to meet

The Wayne County committee on airport noise is scheduled to meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday and 1 p.m. Friday on the fourth floor of the Wayne County Building in Detroit.

The committee is expected to conclude its review of 34 suggested noise-abatement procedures. The committee is also supposed to make noise-abatement recommendations to the county commission soon.

Observer-area commissioners on the committee are Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, Bryan Amann, D-Canton, and Kevin Kelley, D-Redford, who also represents the portion of Livonia east of Middlebelt Road.

Parents question policy on films shown in class

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

As a negligence lawsuit involving the death of Plymouth-Canton student wends its way through court, some parents are questioning whether films their children are shown in class are potentially harmful.

Stephen Nalepa, 8, of Canton Township hung himself March 24, 1990, the day after viewing "Nobody's Useless" at Gallimore Elementary School.

Attorneys for his parents, Larry and Debbie Nalepa, allege the schools were negligent in showing the movie about a handicapped boy who decides life is worth living after trying to take his own life. The main character first attempts to kill himself by jumping off a bridge, then by hanging himself with a belt.

A Plymouth mother of boys ages 9, 7 and 3, Debbie Madonna says she is troubled by Stephen's death and is afraid other children could be harmed.

"I'd like to know how films are chosen, and what the guidelines are," said the parent, one of several who've expressed concerns in the aftermath of the death.

"I don't burn books, and I don't want to come off as a troublemaker. I like the teachers my kids have had."

"But I'd be real upset if my kids saw that movie. Kids don't think. I could see my 9-year-old doing something goofball and not asking me first."

"It's tough enough raising kids without something like this being done in school," said Madonna.

"From what I know about the movie, I don't see any merit in it. If they think kids are going to get the whole point, that's making an awfully big judgment."

Teachers work hard, but "sometimes we don't always use a lot of common sense, and kids get lost in the shuffle," she added.

"At times, decisions are made that aren't in the kids' best interest. It's not the teachers' fault; it's 'trickle-down' education. From a clinical standpoint, yes, they're right; the schools didn't do anything. But my kids have 30 students in their class. How is the teacher to know if something is having a negative effect?"

- Wayne Circuit Judge Samuel Turner ruled recently that school officials were not negligent in Stephen's death. The decision is being appealed. "Nobody's Useless" hasn't been shown in the district since Stephen's death.

Policy not followed

The Nalepas' attorneys say that contrary to school district policy, parents were not informed of their right to challenge the use of the film.

"I heard about the movie on the 12 o'clock news the Monday after Stephen died," said Debbie Nalepa. "They were interviewing kids at the bus stop, and they said they knew the reason Steven died; they said he was just doing what he saw in the movie Friday. I thought, 'What movie?' I'd talked with the principal (Joyce Reefer Deren) twice on Sunday and didn't hear a word about it." Nalepa said Deren later told her she hadn't seen the movie herself, but that it had redeeming qualities and wouldn't be banned.

Dr. Michael Homes, Plymouth-Canton assistant superintendent for instruction, declined comment because of the lawsuit.

The district's community relations director, Richard Egli, said teachers are "well-advised, certainly," to preview films; "it's just good basic teaching."

While parents do have recourse, "letters don't go home in advance of every movie being shown," said Egli. "If you did it for every resource, book or slide, it would be a difficult task."

Policy defined

School policy says: "In recognition that at various times there may be areas considered as controversial, the selection policy shall ensure that resources shall be . . . suitable to the age and intellectual capacity of the potential users, and avoiding sensationalism for its own sake. Standard review sources will be used as selection guides, beyond those evaluations made through actual examination or preview."

Egli said any film can be reviewed or challenged "by anyone who has concerns. Parents are certainly encouraged to work with teachers. We recognize the value of the teacher and the parent collaborating on a child's education."

"If parents have any questions about the kinds of resources in any class or grade level, they're welcome to ask teachers, and teachers will let them know what is being used." That's one of the reasons for parent-teacher conferences, he added. "It's not as though there is an inability to ask what is happening."

Judge Turner earlier held that the district's administrators and school board members are not entitled to governmental immunity in the suit. School district attorneys have appealed.

Quilt heightens AIDS awareness

Monuments usually take years to plan, involve large committees, and cost lots of money. One monument however, is spontaneous, personal, and measured in human cost rather than cash.

Panels of the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt will be displayed at Washtenaw Community College 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Dec. 7-8 in the Jobs Skills and Campus Events Building. The display will include information regarding the Quilt, AIDS awareness, and how to create a panel. There will also be a WCC signature square for visitors to sign and leave messages of support, and new panels will be accepted 9-11 a.m. on Dec. 7.

The Quilt began in the spring of 1987 when Cleave Jones suffered the loss of a close friend to AIDS. He met with six other people, strangers, who had each lost a loved one to AIDS. Together, they created what they hoped would be a symbol of love and remembrance. That single panel was the cornerstone of a growing monument that today has over 21,000 panels.

The Names Project AIDS Memorial Quilt display is sponsored on campus by ADAPT, a campus project focusing on drug and alcohol prevention through peer education, and the Gay, Lesbian, and Bi-Sexual Student Association.

In a further effort to educate the community in AIDS prevention, WCC will sponsor a performance of "The Wizard of AIDS" by the Health Works Theatre at 3 p.m. Dec. 8 in the Towsley Auditorium. This event is free. The show uses parody and campy humor to convey the serious message of AIDS awareness and prevention. The Health Works Theatre is a non-profit touring theatre company that performs throughout the Midwest. The performance of "The Wizard of AIDS" is sponsored by the Office of Student Activities.

For more information regarding the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt Contact the Office of Student Activities at (313) 973-3528. For more information regarding "The Wizard of AIDS," contact the Office of Conference Services at (313) 973-5033.

TAKE A FEW MINUTES TO GO THROUGH YOUR GARBAGE.

Every week more than 500,000 trees are used to produce the two-thirds of newspapers that are never recycled.

American consumers and industry throw away enough aluminum to rebuild our entire commercial airliner every three months.

We throw away enough glass bottles and jars to fill the 1,550-foot twin towers of New York's World Trade Center every two weeks.

We throw away enough iron and steel to continuously supply all the nation's automakers.

The ordinary bag of trash you throw away is slowly becoming a serious problem for everybody. Not only are we running out of resources to make the products we need, we're running out of places to put what's left over. Write the Environmental Defense Fund at: 257 Park Avenue South, New York, NY 10010, for a free brochure that will tell you virtually everything you need to know about recycling. The few minutes you take to learn how to recycle will spare us all a lot of garbage later.

IF YOU'RE NOT RECYCLING YOU'RE THROWING IT ALL AWAY.

The best birthing center for lots of big reasons—and one tiny one.

In two recent polls, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital (SJM) was voted as having the best birthing center by readers of both Metro Times and Metro PARENT. In fact, the McAuley Family Birth Place at St. Joe's in Ann Arbor is fast becoming the name for up-to-date, family-focused maternity care, for lots of big reasons:

- One of the few birthing centers around to offer both LDR and LDRP suites
- Lots of options for pain relief, including labor epidurals and Jacuzzi bath tubs

- Tours, classes and other education to help you feel like an expert (even if it's your first baby)
- The excellent reputation of SJM obstetricians

McAuley Family Birth Place's caring staff also strive for the best for the tiniest reason of all—your baby.

If you're pregnant and looking for an SJM obstetrician near you, contact one listed here, or call ASK-A-NURSE anytime at 1-800-472-9696.

Families strive to survive in homeless shelter

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

If it weren't for the Wayne County homeless shelter in Westland, Gail Zander and her family would be living in a car.

"This was our last resort, according to Zander's husband, Perry Looper.

"It's a great place for people to try to get their lives back together. It gives people a second chance."

Everything started to unravel for Zander, Looper and their three children, Natasha, 5, Bradley, 4, and Leonard (Fuzzy), 3, last December when a pipe-bomb went through a window in the Inkster home they were renting.

Tough times

Fragments of the bomb shattered Zander's jaw and penetrated her cheek. Almost a year later, her face is scarred and she continues to undergo surgery.

"I've been going downhill ever since that happened," Zander said.

She lost her job as a waitress. The family moved out of that house and into a Michigan Avenue motel where Looper had a job as maintenance manager.

It wasn't the best place to live, according to the couple, but at least it was somewhere to sleep. Even that fell through when Looper was fired.

Evicted from the hotel, the family went to live with a friend until the house became too crowded. They had no money, and nowhere to turn. Zander said that the thought of living in a shelter made them nervous.

"We heard a lot of bad things about shelters," Looper said. "It's really much better than we imagined. I can't say enough good things about it."

Zander and Looper talked about their misfortunes inside a spacious shelter room with a large bed and three smaller cots for the children.

Looking ahead

They have 60 days - the maximum stay allowed in the shelter - to turn their lives around. It might be just enough time. Looper, who has experience as a jeweler, recently went on a second interview at a jewelry shop in Southfield.

"Basically, right now, we're taking it day-to-day trying to find a house we can afford to rent," Looper said.

They came to the shelter during the height of a dispute between Wayne County and the agency hired to run the shelter - Wayne Metropolitan Community Services Inc.

Judge Gail McKnight of Westland's 18th District Court recently signed an order to evict the agency from offices on Henry Ruff and Michigan Avenue. Wayne-Metropolitan is charged with mismanagement and misappropriation of funds.

Luther Flanagan, Wayne-Metropolitan executive director, denies the charges.

Safe haven

Meanwhile, the shelter has been a haven for Michelle Hayden and her daughter, Crystal, 3. They sat in a television room down the hall from Looper and Zander.

"It's a lot nicer than I imagined," Hayden said. "I imagined a room with all these beds in it. I almost freaked out when I heard that you get your own room."

Ten days earlier, Hayden traveled from California to Michigan to live with a friend who paid for the bus ticket.

"He was supposed to put us up and he decided not to," Hayden said. "He dropped us off at the Social Security office and they said to come here. I didn't even have phone money."

Joann Hamlein and her two-year-old daughter sat on a sofa across the room.

Hamlein, who said she was one-month pregnant, chewed on some ice as she explained that her mother dropped her off at the shelter five days earlier. Hamlein said she came to the shelter because she had gotten "into a really bad fight" with her boyfriend and he threw her out of the house.

Like all families at the shelter, Hamlein receives a room, food, clothing and counseling.

Inside the television room, her daughter played with Hayden's daughter at a plastic school desk.

Hamlein and Hayden were among 14 families, including 46 people, registered at the facility one day last week. The shelter is equipped to house 26 families.

"The county expects us to have 100 percent occupancy," Flanagan said. "The Waldorf Astoria doesn't have 100 percent occupancy."

When the shelter opened in 1991 it was touted as the first and only suburban shelter in the nation designed for families. More than 800 people have passed through the shelter.

Shelter dispute

"That's more than double what HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) had expected" when they awarded Wayne-Metropolitan a grant for $162,000, which is administered by Wayne County. The agency also receives funding from other entities.

The facility was renovated in part with block grant money from 10 western Wayne County communities.

BLOATING AND DISTENTION:
A Distressful Abdominal Complaint

Many people attribute bloating and distention to excessive bowel gas which is not necessarily the case. These individuals are suffering from a variation of the Irritable Bowel Syndrome that affects primarily the small bowel which gives them the sense of overdistention.

The evaluation required for the patient with bloating and distention is dependent on a number of factors including age and duration of the problem. Organic disease of the gut - particularly carcinoma of the colon and Crohn's disease - can be present with bloating and distention and these conditions should be ruled out.

Treatment of the bloating patient usually is not curative and the most important component of therapy is psychological rather than physical. Simple assurance and explanation lead to dramatic improvement in most cases.

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS CAN BE A PAIN IN THE NECK.

You may know that rheumatoid arthritis inflames the joints of the hands, wrists, shoulders, knees, and feet.

In addition, the condition can cause neck pain. A joint that connects the first two cervical or neck vertebrae together is a synovial joint. It has the same features of the joints of the hand and feet that are the sites of rheumatoid arthritis.

This site can become inflamed and be a source of pain. In rare instances the neck arthritis weakens a ligament that keeps the cervical vertebrae in place. When this ligament weakens, it is possible for the vertebrae to press against the spinal cord. The result is a weakness in the hands or legs in a pattern that doctors recognize as coming from compression of the spinal cord and not from your rheumatoid condition.

If you have rheumatoid arthritis, and need surgery with a general anesthetic, it is likely that the anesthesiologist will request you have a neck x-ray before surgery. If it shows that your arthritis includes the neck area, he will prepare you for surgery in a manner that takes that involvement into consideration.

If you have rheumatoid arthritis and develop neck pain, bring the matter to your doctor's attention. He can check its relation, if any, to the inflammation in your other joints, and counsel you on the importance of this occurrence in your case.

POINTS OF VIEW

Protest against war toys is a little bit off-target

It's not often I disagree with WAND.

You know, they are the newly named Women's Action for New Directions group, formerly Women's Action for Nuclear Disarmament.

And they are usually right on target — or they change their name so they will be.

But I'm wondering about their annual war toys protest, held last Friday at the Southfield Toys "R" Us store. There, 50-100 protesters peacefully demonstrated against war toys, to increase awareness of parents and grandparents.

Their protest is against such items as G.I. Joe, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, Transformers and Nintendo video games.

And of course, any toy gun, whether it be a plastic water pistol or a gun-like toy which is designed to teach colors, would make their don't buy list.

On the surface, they are well-intentioned.

But then I think back to my brother-in-law, Phil. When I first met him, he was 8 and had the largest stock of toy guns I ever saw. He kept them in a toy chest at the foot of his bunk beds and they were his most precious possessions and he took them everywhere he went.

Bam, pow, rat-a-tat-tat were heard emanating from his room for years until the sounds of rock and roll took over.

His parents, my in-laws, were very much pacifists — and my mother-in-law was a social worker. They would never have considered having a real gun in their home. They were even against hunting. And they certainly made their views known to their children.

JUDITH DONER BERNE

■ The bottom line is if they have good parenting, from a parent or other adult whom they respect, it probably doesn't much matter whether children play with guns or dolls.

And lo and behold, despite his childhood ways, Phil also turned out to be very much a pacifist — and a social worker. Now, his own son, Ben, is also into a "gun period." And, although Phil doesn't encourage it, he does not forbid him from having or playing with toy guns.

Meanwhile, this women's group is mostly aiming at toys which are the province of boys. If they're so dead set against giving them a playful way to act out aggression, then shouldn't they also be worried about prompting the kinds of feelings which result from giving dolls to young girls?

We emphasize that dolls are children's "babies." We allow and even prompt them to cuddle and dress them. Do we consider if that kind of "play" might eventually translate into wanting a real baby at too young an age — or, even at an appropriate age, without a defined father?

The bottom line is if they have good parenting, from a parent or other adult whom they respect, it probably doesn't much matter whether children play with guns or dolls.

And, if they have poor parenting, it doesn't much matter if a child never has had a so-called "war toy." They will probably act on their feelings in a negative way.

WAND and other well-meaning peace groups certainly aren't doing damage. But their efforts are aimed at the symptoms and not the malaise.

Language and its implementation: key to it all

Recently on this page, I prayed for a Bill Clinton presidency. Now that this will be, I'd like to pose a related riddle that I recently asked an Oakland University class I'm teaching: What is our greatest invention? The wheel? Nintendo? Political action committees?

My class of talented educators offered many thought-provoking answers, such as "man's landing on the moon" and Ferndale Schools' Donna Bialach's response — language.

Bialach is right. When our ancestors adapted their organs of breathing and eating to the purpose of speaking and began making symbolic sounds at each other, they separated us from all other forms of earthly life and paved a prehistoric path toward the future.

While other primates have been taught to communicate with us via computerized picture-symbols, we are this planet's only creators of symbols — the factor that produces our perceptions, knowledge and institutions. Since the human mind cannot think or act without words, the limits of our language are the limits of our world.

The mission of American education is to render our children fit to function cooperatively by persuading them to learn, accept and apply democratic codes — the conventions of communication whereby our republic holds itself together.

Often, unfortunately, American children also are taught not only what words are to symbolize what things, but the way in which society separates things from each other. Anthropological convention undemocratically divides people racially; political convention prejudicially differentiates Democrat from Republican, and grammatical convention imperially decides which experiences shall be called objects and which shall be called events or actions.

How arbitrary such conventions are

JOHN TELFORD

■ . . . is to render our children fit to function cooperatively by persuading them to learn, accept and apply democratic codes — the conventions of communication whereby our republic holds itself together.

is demonstrated by the question, "What happens to your fist (noun-object) when you open your hand?" The object miraculously vanishes because an action was posing as a part of speech usually assigned to a thing. Thus objects are also events, so our world really is made up of subjective processes that can set the course of all objective entities, for good or evil.

As Weingartner and Postman said in their landmark 1969 book "Teaching as a Subversive Activity," "Since all knowledge is learned via language, the meaning we ascribe language gives knowledge both its weight and ambiguity."

Demagogues exploit that ambiguity in order to fake having said something when they avoided saying anything; e.g. Pat Buchanan's platitudinous pronouncement last February on CNN: "We shall keep going forward; we shall never take a single step backward."

Talleyrand cynically said that language was given to conceal thought. Buchanan uses it to conceal absence of thought.

Despite this potential for fakery, language and the technology to amplify it remain our most evolutionary — and revolutionary — invention.

Our articulate new president's interactive use of that invention can reunite and re-revolutionize America. Bill, as you lead we'll be listening, because we know that we won't have to read your lips. Also we know that you'll listen to us as well.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, most recently was assistant superintendent in the Rochester School District. He previously was executive director for secondary education in the Plymouth Canton district. To leave a voice mail message for John Telford from a Touchtone phone, dial 953-2047 mailbox 1879.

Assisted suicide temporarily outlawed in state

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Assisted suicide won't be banned in Michigan. There's only a moratorium of 18-21 months, says a Senate proponent of the ban.

"It's much better than not having anything at all," said Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville. "I expect to see action (in 1993) to remove the sunset (expiration date on the ban)."

"I would prefer not to have the sunset in there. But we have to work with what we have."

In a rebuke to House Judiciary leaders Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, and Lyn Jondahl, the Michigan House of Representatives last week passed a bill to:

■ Make assisted suicide a felony punishable by four years in prison and a $2,000 fine from about April 1 (effective date of the law) until the end of 1994. With Dillingham working behind the scenes, this amendment was added on the House floor by Reps. Ken Sikkema, R Grandville, and Joseph Palamara, D-Wyandotte.

■ Set up a study commission for 15 months to study such complex questions as the difference between assistance and inaction, "non-causal facilitation," encouragement of suicide and active participation, as well as suicide pacts.

The penalties sought by Dillingham, Sikkema and Palamara would expire three months after the commission reports but no later than Jan. 1, 1995.

The Senate is scheduled to vote on it Thursday. Dillingham said it would be taken straight to the floor without going through a committee. The Senate passed Dillingham's bill to criminalize assisted suicide months ago.

House chiefs lose

Bullard, as chair of the House Judiciary Committee, sat on identical bills by Dillingham and Rep. Nick Ciaramitaro, D-Roseville, to criminalize assisted suicide.

Instead his panel reported out House Bill 5401, the study commission bill of Rep. Tom Power, R-Traverse City. That bill had been recommended by a special subcommittee headed by Jondahl.

"We spent the last two weeks putting it (the amendment) together," said Dillingham, who prides himself on his ability to work with House members and Democrats. "Yesterday I spent all day making sure we had 72 votes."

House passage came on a vote of 72 to 29 with nine absent.

Area members voting yes were: Democrats John Bennett of Redford, William Keith of Garden City, James Kosteva of Canton, and Wilfred Webb of Hazel Park; and Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia, Barbara Dobb of Union Lake, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Georgina Goss of Northville, John Jamian of Bloomfield Township, and Gordon Sparks of Troy.

Voting no were Democrats Justine Barns of Westland and Maxine Berman of Southfield and Republican Shirley Johnson of Royal Oak.

The vote came one day after "Dr. Death" — retired pathologist Jack Kevorkian of Royal Oak — assisted a sixth woman to commit suicide in Michigan.

Dillingham said that was a coincidence because the votes were in place to pass the bill well in advance. "The birthday cake and candles were in place. All he (Kevorkian) did was light the candles."

Essentially, the House took the text of Dillingham's bill, added the sunset and tacked it onto Power's bill.

"Some of you accuse Dr. Kevorkian of playing God," said Berman of Southfield. "Attempting to ban assisted suicide is playing God, too."

Power voted against the bill he sponsored and asked that his name be removed from it. A conservative Republican, Power splits with most of his party on abortion and assisted suicide questions. He is leaving the Legislature to become a circuit judge.

The House debated the bill more than four hours. It added an amendment from Jamian of Bloomfield Township to place a coroner to the study panel.

'Yes — reluctantly'

The bill was short of the two-thirds needed to give it immediate effect. Instead it will become law 90 days after the Legislature adjourns, or about the first of April 1993. Gov. John Engler said he will sign it.

"It doesn't make me happy we did it," said Bankes of Livonia. "I voted yes — very reluctantly."

Most people saw the bill as banning suicide, but Bankes underscored that "it's temporary. We've put a moratorium on it until we get guidelines."

There's much public support for regulating suicide, she said. "Almost 100 percent of my mail is supportive of leaving that option open to people, Bankes said.

"Everybody's centered on Kevorkian. Kevorkian is drawing attention to it. He has gone from lethal injection (in his earlier assisted suicides) to carbon monoxide (in the Nov. 24 death of Catherine Andreyev). But other doctors are doing this quietly with no one knowing about it — that's where we're doing the damage," Bankes said.

Kevorkian's attorney, Michael Schwartz, said he may challenge the act's constitutionality.

Madonna offers DOS workshops

The continuing education department at Madonna University will offer two advanced DOS computer workshops from 6-9 p.m. Mondays, Dec. 7 and 9.

Advanced DOS I meets Dec. 7 and will take an advanced look at the MS-DOS operating systems. Topics include memory management using DOS 5.0 and hard disk partitioning as well as modifying the DOS environment, setting up a virtual drive, using SMARTDRIVE and customizing systems.

Advanced DOS II is an extensive session covering DOS batch files. Topics will include getting started with batch files, documenting batch files using IF, ER, RORLEVEL, passing parameters to batch files, testing parameters for specific values, branching in a batch file, summoning one batch file from within another and customizing systems with batch files. The workshop meets Dec. 14.

Cost per workshop is $95 for 0.3 continuing education units and includes required text and material which students may retain. — For more information, call 591-5188.

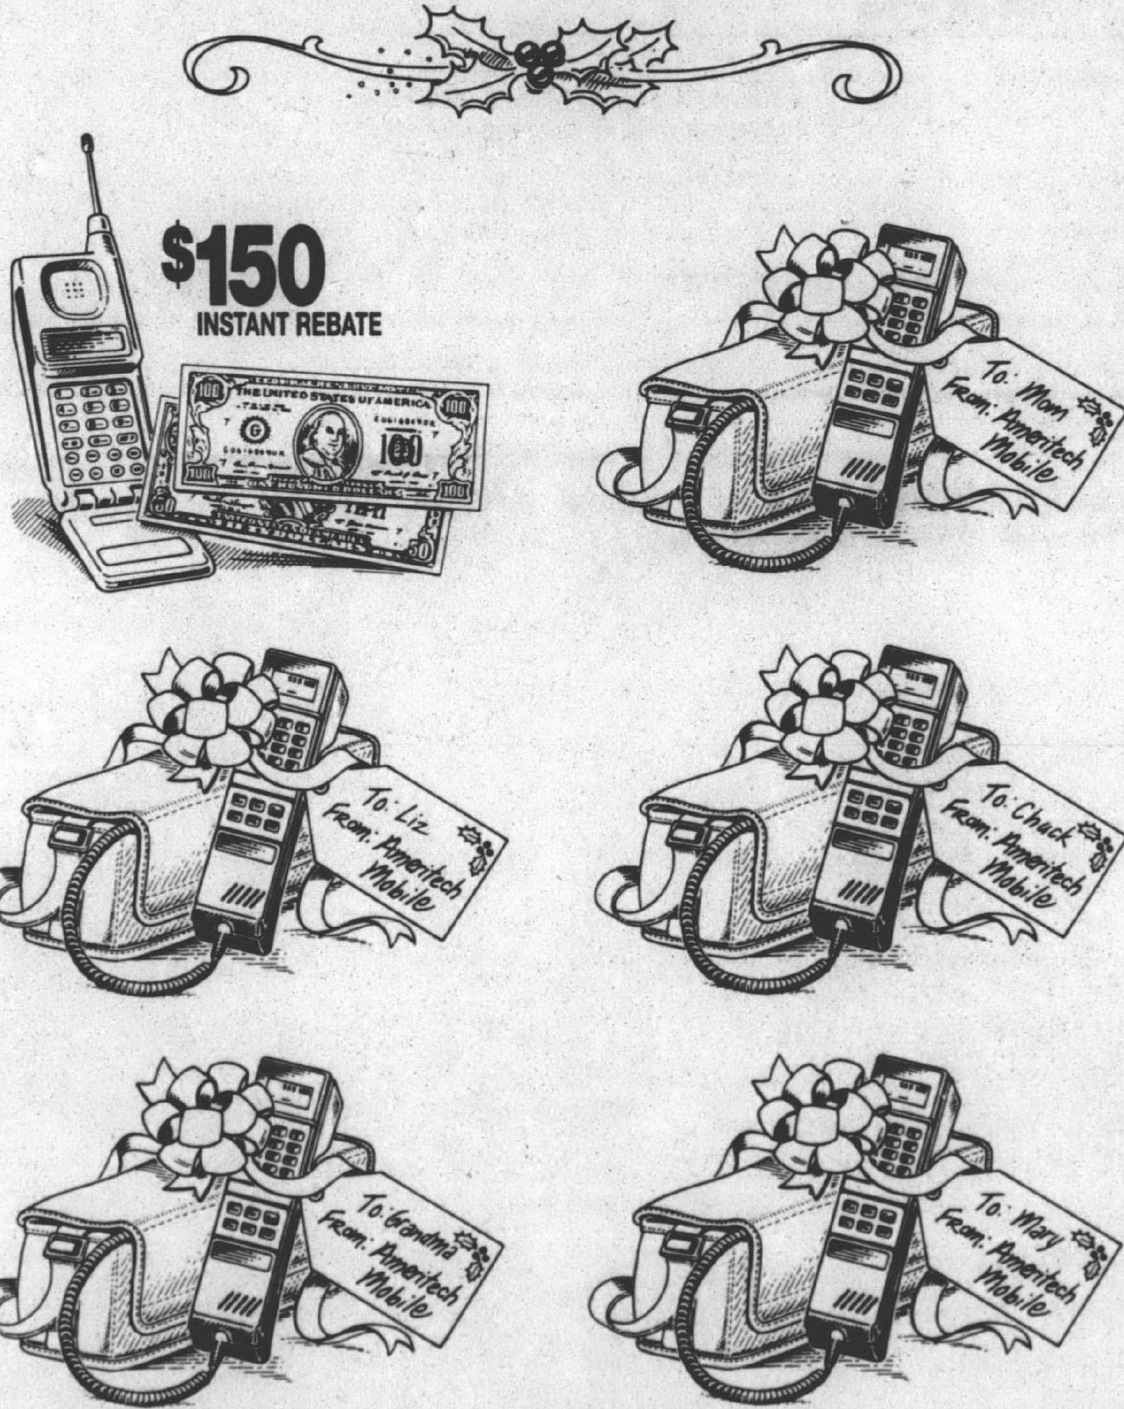

Families needed for students

Host families are needed for high school students from South America, Europe and Asia who are set to arrive in January.

The teens, ages 15-18, will spend five months studying in suburban high schools. All of the students have studied English for at least four years and have enough money to cover their personal expenses. They are participants in an exchange visitor program of the American Institute for Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation. Host families will receive a tax deduction and a scholarship for foreign study or travel.

Families with or without children of their own can become host families. If you have room in your home and heart for a foreign exchange student, call Lynn or Gideon Levenbach at 453-8562 or 453-6851 or Amber Crowell at 1-800-322-4678.

New condominium to be raffled off

BY TIM SMITH
STAFF WRITER

Lot 93 in the Lagoons of West Bloomfield subdivision now sits empty, nothing more than an empty parcel of land covered with construction debris.

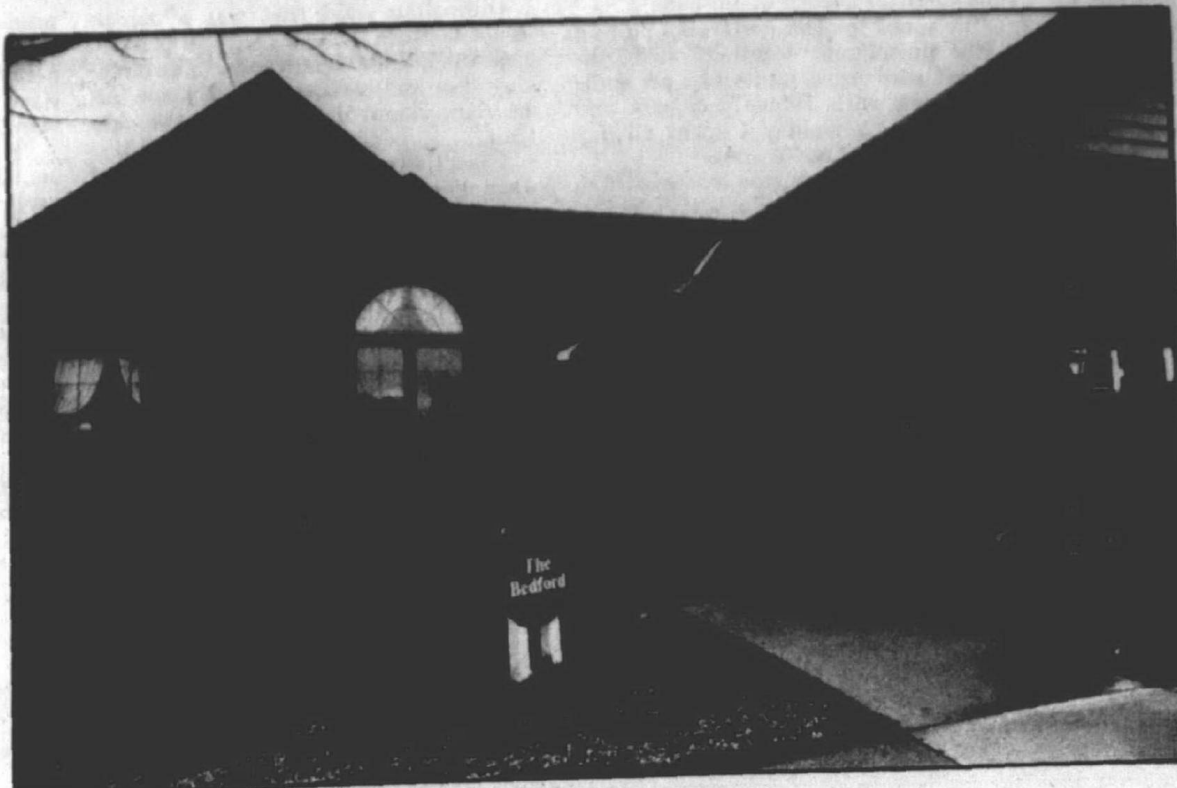

Highlights of the lot along Sandpiper Lane now include two mounds of frozen dirt, wood scraps and miniature red and orange flags placed to signify where electric and telephone cable wires are buried. Laying flat on the hard ground is a blue-and-white lot marker, with the number 93 painted on it.

But by this time in 1993, the debris probably will have been replaced by a sparkling new 1,570-square-foot condominium — compliments of the "Michigan Dream Sweepstakes House Raffle" fund-raiser.

Through the effort, sponsored by nonprofit Concerned Citizens for West Bloomfield, 5,000 raffle tickets priced at $150 will be available beginning early in December. The goal is to sell at least half of them and raise $500,000 for the proposed recreation activities center.

"If they don't sell 2,500 of the 5,000 tickets then there won't be a home made available, then it (fund-raiser) would revert to a 50-50 raffle," said Norm Finkelstein of Irvine-Jacobson Development, the company which is building the Lagoons subdivision near Pontiac Trail and Halstead.

But Finkelstein, a member of the activities center organizing committee, said he and others are optimistic the "Dream" raffle — slated for 3 p.m. Feb. 21 at Pals restaurant, on Maple east of Orchard Lake Road — will succeed.

Just the ticket: The price of a $150 raffle ticket comes with the chance to have this 1,570-square-foot Bedford ranch model built on a now-empty lot in the Lagoons of West Bloomfield subdivision.

"Everybody seems to be very confident (about it)," Finkelstein said. "So much interest has been expressed already."

A barometer of that interest will be held 7-9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 3, when an advance ticket sale kickoff party will take place at the Lagoons model home. Tickets subsequently (on Dec. 7) will be made available to the public.

After the raffle, if it brings in the necessary amount of money, the home would be completed in about five to six months, Finkelstein said.

Meanwhile, people wanting to know what they might get for their money can stop by the Lagoons to view the Bedford, an attractive brick-and-wood home featuring vaulted ceilings, walk-in closets and wide-open spaces.

"We're happy to show the home to anyone who is interested in buying a ticket," Finkelstein said.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Bring out the flavor of pasta with cheese

When Italian food is mentioned, the first to come to mind is pasta. The second? Cheese. Not just any old cheese or heaven forbid, something out of a shaker can. Something nutty, something sharp. Something to bring out the flavor of the pasta.

Ah, but what is good pasta without the customary grating of a fresh block of Parmesan, Asiago or Pecorino Romano cheese. A simple dusting. A complex outburst of taste.

Of course, too much of the so called "simple dusting" of cheese and you can undo all the good. No sense dwelling on the salt content, cholesterol and fat contents of these cheeses. Why spoil such a delectable experience? Let's face it, you don't want to mask the flavor of the pasta, but simply improve upon it.

If you haven't already guessed, good, aged cheese is as important as a fine grade of pasta. You wouldn't make a cake from scratch and top it off with canned icing? Why even consider doing the same with shaker-can Parmesan cheese and a plate of steaming pasta?

Imported cheese

Unfortunately, imported grating cheese like Asiago, Parmesan and Romano aren't readily available in most markets and must be searched-out, usually in small local Italian groceries or gourmet-type food shops.

Every now and then, I stumble on one of those super "supermarkets" that have a deli with imported cheeses, but true Italian cooks look for the seals present on all imported cheese indicating its type and origin. Ask to see labels and rinds of the block. There are many varieties of grating cheese, both imported and domestic. The flavor difference always stands out.

Take Asiago, for instance. Asiago cheese is golden, nutty, and in my opinion, has more flavor than Parmesan and Romano. When I want to toss a simple pasta not covered with a flavorful sauce, I choose Asiago because it complements the pasta rather than covers it. Asiago can be purchased two ways, Stravecchio (very old) and Vecchio (old).

Of course, the best is the very old variety but in some markets, I've seen this priced as high as $9.00 per pound. Look around and you should be able to find it in the $6 per pound price range.

Don't think you have to purchase a pound. Four ounces will grate one cup of cheese. Be careful, once you try this flavorful and nutty variety, you'll be hooked.

Perfect Parmesan

When it comes to Parmesan, the best variety available is called Parmigiano Reggiano, made the same way as it was in the 10th century. This is a finely textured, golden cheese and is very hard and aged to perfection. If you want the best, this is it. There is no other in comparison. Other dependable brands include Polenghi, Salbani and Locatelli but purists seek out the Parmigiano Reggiano.

Contrary to popular belief, imported Parmesan should have a light sweet flavor and be slightly nutty, and have almost no trace of saltiness. You'll pay even more for imported Parmesan than you will Asiago so shop around and check out the market deli areas for the best prices and trendy little Italian markets like Alcamo's in Dearborn for availabilities.

Romano is a hard white cheese that is somewhat salty in flavor, and has a tendency to be very sharp. Pecorino Romano is the best Romano available and when you see it called for in a recipe, I suggest using half Romano and half Parmesan or Asiago for an improved, less sharp flavor. Remember, you want to compliment, not overpower simple pasta.

Great graters

Enough said about cheese, now a simple word on cheese graters. Every kitchen has (or should have) the standard hand grater with four sides and available at local houseware stores for about $4. However, if you really want to get the best, search out the Mouli hand grater.

Now you're cooking Italian. Food processors such as the Cuisinart and mini-grinders can handle small chunks of cheese but because these grating varieties are best aged more than three years (and some for up to 10 years) they are extremely hard. Trying to cut them up into small chunks for grinding in a food processor is senseless. (I think this is the first bad word I've ever said about my Cuisinart).

When it comes to storing grating cheese, keep them tightly wrapped as they can impart flavors to other foods and vice versa. I've found that the freezer works best for long storage. (Just allow the cheese to come to room temperature after grating and before serving).

Splendid table: Lynne Rossetto Kasper presents a dish from her newly published cookbook "The Splendid Table," which explores northern Italian cuisine.

BY LARRY JANES
SPECIAL WRITER

You have probably heard the old adage "they broke the mold when you were born." This doesn't hold true after spending a few hours with Lynne Rossetto Kasper, author of "The Splendid Table." (Copyright 1992, William Morrow Publishers, $30, hard-cover).

Kasper recently visited Kitchen Glamour in West Bloomfield, and prepared several recipes from her book.

Undoubtedly, you have heard me speak many a time of my Wyandotte upbringing and Kasper bears a very close resemblance to Mrs. Kopernick, a neighbor on Sycamore Street who shares Kasper's joy of cooking.

Mrs. Kopernick's claim to fame didn't come from writing the definitive cookbook of recipes from the Emilia-Romagna region of northern Italy like Kasper's, but her baked goods were the first to be snapped up at St. Joe's bake sales. Her zest of food, and it's many offerings were evident when, at Halloween, neighborhood goblins and pirates were treated to homemade popcorn balls. As her old Detroit Times carrier, I was treated to homemade fudge and cookies all tucked neatly among shards of tin foil in an Armstrong's shirt box.

Mrs. Kopernick was undoubtedly Kasper's precursor. An ardent traveler to Alcamo's Italian grocery in Dearborn, the Oaza Bakery and Ko-

Author dishes up SPLENDID CUISINE

Lynne Rossetto Kasper, author of the newly published cookbook, "The Splendid Table," explores the rich culinary heritage of northern Italy. Discover this region which is the home of real Parmesan-Reggiano cheese and Balsamic vinegar.

walski's, she would arrive home carrying two of those French expanding string bags filled to the gills with ethnic goodies after the 30 minute bus ride on the Schafer express.

Mrs. Kopernick passed away about 10 years ago but there's little doubt her spirit lives on in the likes of Lynne Rossetto Kasper.

A Brooklyn native with roots in the Emilia-Romagna area of Northern Italy, (before arriving in New York) Kasper's culinary tome of recipes from the region explore the rich heritage from one of the best known food areas in the world.

Dubbed "The heartland of Northern Italian Food," this region is the home of real Parmesan-Reggiano cheese, Balsamic vinegar and the famed Prosciutto de Parma ham.

Kasper's roots are from the region, and after spending five years there researching and learning from the locals, she compiled her book of recipes and basic information.

The book, and I hasten not to call it a cookbook because of the pages of stories about the region, is a compendium of recipes and cooking tips featuring the best of what any Italian would require to enjoy his or her last meal.

"Ask any Italian where to take only one meal in Italy, and, after recommending his mother's house, he will more than likely send you to Emilia-Romagna," writes Kasper.

Unlike most cookbooks, in addition to sharing the recipes of her homeland, Kasper incorporates stories from the region. For example, a short three paragraph story on the history of pasta claims that "it (the pasta) may have been born of crusts of bread discarded after Medieval banquets... Once the bread was soaked with meat juices, they were thrown away to be gathered by peasants who waited eagerly for leftovers."

The book dissects nearly all forms of Italian pasta including colorful stories of Strozzapreti or "priest stranglers" thickly cut and hand twisted pasta and Sarganelli which are cut, placed on combs and rolled around quilled pens, the theory being that pasta not rolled smooth and instead is 'rough' holds the sauce better.

The recipes also include tips on "working ahead," wine and menu suggestions and the seldom seen "cook's notes" that end the recipe with those secret little tricks of the trade that separate a cook from a food preparer.

If learning more about the regional cooking of northern Italy intrigues you then Kasper's book should be a de rigueur addition to your kitchen library. Even if you don't choose to spend the time cooking, the short stories about the birth of prosciutto, balsamic vinegar et al are worth the price alone.

Mrs. Kopernick would have loved living next door to Lynne Rossetto Kasper and you will love Kasper's book.

QUAKER OATS COMPANY

Christmas cookies: Make Oatmeal Gingerbread Cookies to hang on the tree. Children love to decorate these holiday treats.

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Dust off the rolling pin, grease the cookie sheets, and find the cookie cutters — the holiday baking season has begun.

Seasons greetings — "Bah humbug" some people say, but if you like to cook, this is one of the best times of the year. If you're searching for ideas, one place to look is the newly published "An Edible Christmas: A Treasury of Recipes for the Holiday Season" by Irena Chalmers, (William Morrow & Co., $23 hard-cover).

Beautifully illustrated with color photos, and easy-to-read type, this is a book any cook on holiday shopping list would treasure. It's also a good gift to buy yourself.

There are recipes for "Gifts in Jars" including Five-Alarm Salsa, jams and chutneys, crock of simmering potpourri spices, flavored vinegars, oils and vodkas.

Of course, there are cookie recipes — Apple and Nut Pockets, Cranberry-Orange Crunchies, Cinnamon Crisps, and Puff Angels to name a few. There are candy recipes, fun kitchen projects for the whole family like salt-dough Christmas ornaments, and party menus.

From the "Little Kitchen Collection," are two new cookbooks that make perfect stocking stuffers or holiday hostess gifts — "The Chocolate Cookbook" by Patricia Lousadsa and "The Christmas Cookbook" by Marilyn Bright. (HarperCollins Publishers, hard-cover, $7). These little books, 3 1/2 inches by 5 1/2 inches, are filled with delicious ideas. Illustrated throughout with four-color pictures,

"The Christmas Cookbook" includes 20 recipes to help celebrate the holidays in style with old-world tradition.

There are recipes from all over the world including Roast Goose with Apple Stuffing, Plum Pudding and Oyster Stew, and some lesser-known treats like Caramel Potatoes, Cranberry Chutney, and Homemade Marzipan.

Chocolate lovers are sure to enjoy "The Chocolate Cookbook." Surprise chocaholics in your family with one of the 20 wonderful treats including Black and White Terrine, Chocolate Cookies, Chocolate Fudge Pie, and White Chocolate Ice Cream.

The Quaker Oats Company offers these pointers for making cookies with children.

When selecting a recipe, take into consideration your child's age and skill level. A preschooler will have a short attention span, but can enjoy simple "hands on" tasks such as breaking eggs into a bowl, mixing the dough with a spoon and decorating.

A school-age children, on the other hand, will be able to assist with measuring, rolling and cutting, and more elaborate decorating.

Let your kids take part in the planning. Ask your child to help choose the cookies you will bake. If there are too many for a single baking session, put it to a vote.

Let kids help package cookies for gifts. Use crayons, felt tip pens, stickers or stars to decorate plain white paper plates. Arrange cookies on plate; wrap with clear plastic wrap or colored cellophane.

OATMEAL GINGERBREAD COOKIES

Cookies
 1 cup (2 sticks) margarine or butter, softened
 ¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
 ½ cup molasses
 1 egg
 3½ cups all-purpose flour
 1½ cups Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 1 teaspoon ground ginger

½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
 ½ teaspoon baking soda
 ¼ teaspoon salt (optional)
 Decorations
 Prepared frosting
 Assorted candies

For cookies, beat margarine and sugar until creamy. Add molasses and egg; beat well. Add combined flour, oats, spices, baking soda and salt; mix well. Chill 2 hours.

Heat oven to 350 F. On floured surface, roll dough out to ¼-inch thickness for a chewy cookie or ⅛-inch thickness for a crisp cookie. Cut with 5-inch gingerbread man or woman cookie cutter. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet 8 to 10 minutes. Cool 1 minute on cookie sheet; remove to wire rack. Cool completely. For decorations, frost and decorate with candies as desired. Store loosely covered at room temperature. Yield about 20 five-inch cookies.

To make cookies into hanging ornaments, cut hole near top of cookie with drinking straw before baking. Repeat immediately after baking if hole closes.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES

4 egg whites

2½ cups confectioner's sugar
 ½ cup cocoa powder
 2 tablespoons flour
 1 teaspoon powdered instant coffee
 1 tablespoon water
 Scant cup of whole walnuts, very finely chopped

Preheat the oven to 350 F. Line a baking sheet with baking parchment. Using an electric beater, whisk the egg whites until frothy. Add the sugar, cocoa, flour, coffee, and water to the bowl and beat first at a slow speed and then at a higher speed for a few minutes until the mixture thickens.

Fold in the walnuts. Place tablespoons of the mixture on the prepared baking sheet leaving a 1 inch space between each spoonful. Bake for 15 minutes. The top will be firm and cracked, but the inside still soft. Lift off the cookies and place them on a rack to cool. Yield: 18 cookies.

From: "The Chocolate Cookbook," by Patricia Lousadsa. (HarperCollins Publishers, hard-cover, $7).

CINNAMON CRISPS

8 tablespoons (1 stick) unsalted butter, softened
 ½ cup plus 1 tablespoon sugar
 1 large egg yolk
 ½ teaspoon vanilla
 1¼ cups all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 ½ teaspoon salt
 24 walnut halves

Preheat the oven to 375 F. Butter 2 baking sheets.

In a medium bowl, using a hand-held electric mixer set at high speed, beat the butter until creamy, about 1 minute. Add the sugar and continue beating until the mixture is light in color and texture, about 2 additional minutes. Beat in the yolk and vanilla.

Sift the flour, baking powder, cinnamon, and salt onto a sheet of waxed paper. Using a wooden spoon, work the dry ingredients into the creamed mixture to form a stiff dough. Scrape the dough onto another sheet of waxed paper and form into a thick log about 8 inches long. Wrap the log in waxed paper and refrigerate until chilled and firm, about 1 hour.

Using a sharp knife, cut the chilled dough into 24 slices, each 5/16 inch thick. Arrange the slices about 2 inches apart on the prepared baking sheets. Flatten the slices slightly with a fork, and top each with a walnut half.

Bake until golden brown, 10 to 12 minutes. Let cool on the baking sheets for 2 minutes, then transfer to wire racks to cool completely. The cookies will keep, stored in an airtight container, at room temperature, for 3 days. Makes 24 cookies.

Grated cheese enhances flavor

See Larry Janes' column on Taste front.

HOT ARTICHOKE SPREAD

1 cup fresh grated Parmesan or Asiago cheese
 1 cup mayonnaise (not salad dressing)
 1 can artichoke hearts (not the marinated variety)

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Place in a small ovenproof casserole and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Pop under broiler till golden. Serve with crackers, bread-cubes, cornchips or fresh vegetables. (Grate in a small onion for different flavor)

PARMESAN BAKED CHICKEN

3 lbs. chicken thighs and drumsticks
 2 cups milk
 ½ cup plain breadcrumbs
 ½ cup fresh grated Parmesan or Asiago cheese
 1 egg, beaten
 3 tablespoons olive oil

Place chicken in a bowl with milk and refrigerate at least one hour. Combine breadcrumbs with parmesan cheese. Pat chicken dry, then dip in beaten egg and coat well in breadcrumb and Parmesan cheese mixture. Place skin side up on a lightly oiled pan and drizzle with olive oil. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes. Serves 4-6.

Chef's note: you want to taste the cheese here, so don't try to mask the flavor with tons of herbs, salt and pepper.

BAKED TOMATOES FLORENTINE

4 strips cooked bacon, diced
 4 medium tomatoes
 1 package (10 oz.) frozen spinach, thawed
 ¾ cup fresh grated Parmesan or Asiago cheese
 ½ cup breadcrumbs

Chop bacon, set aside. Slice tops off tomatoes and scoop out centers. Squeeze as much of the water out of spinach as possible. Place spinach in a bowl. Scoop out center of tomatoes and place in bowl with spinach and remaining ingredients. Mix well.

Stuff tomato shells with mixture and bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Serves 4.

 Chef's suggestion: Try this with some finely chopped seafood instead of the bacon or with simple steamed and chopped vegetables for a vegetarian treat!

CAESAR SALAD DRESSING

1 clove garlic, finely diced
 2 anchovies (optional)
 1 coddled egg the juice of ½ lemon dash tobasco
 dash Worcestershire
 ¼ cup wine vinegar
 ½ cup imported Italian olive oil
 ½ cup fresh grated Parmesan or Asiago cheese

Mash garlic with anchovies. Add the egg and beat. Add the juice of the lemon and beat until well mixed. Stir in tobasco, Worcestershire and vinegar. Mix well. While beating, slowly add the olive oil in a slow, steady stream. Just before serving, add grated cheese. Mix well and toss with fresh greens and homemade croutons, if desired.

This dressing is great with all greens.

Tea room celebrates anniversary

The award-winning Sweet Afton Tea Room, 985 N. Mill in Plymouth's historic Old Village, is celebrating its fifth year in business by offering a special "anniversary gift" to customers old and new.

All customers during the week of Dec. 2-5 will enjoy a complimentary beverage with the purchase of any entree — and at Sweet Afton, that's a royal gift.

Proprietress Sylvia Thacker imports Fortnum & Mason teas, the brand blended especially for Queen Elizabeth, directly from England. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. For reservations, call 454-0777.

Customers can also choose from a variety of gourmet hot chocolates, sparkling non-alcoholic juices, and premium coffees ground fresh on the premises.

Seated at one of the tea room's eight tables, customers can enjoy authentic British fare made fresh from family recipes, served by costumed waitresses.

Steaming soups, hearty sandwiches and seasoned meat pies are sure to chase away the winter chill for holiday shoppers. Feather-light scones with Devon cream, dainty finger sandwiches, pastries, and daily specials round out the menu.

Discover two 'splendid' dishes from northern Italy

See related story about "The Splendid Table," on Taste front. During the interview, Lynne Rossetto Kasper said these were her favorite recipes from the book. Bon Appetit!

INSALATA DI PROSCIUTTO E ACETO BALSAMICO

- Salad of Tart Greens with prosciutto and Balsamic Vinegar
- 1 medium red onion, sliced into rings
 - ½ cup red wine vinegar
 - 1 small head each of romaine, radicchio, red leaf lettuce and curly endive
 - ½ cup (2 oz) toasted pine nuts
 - 3-4 whole scallions, thin sliced on the diagonal
 - 3 ounces Italian Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese shaved with a vegetable peeler into thick curls
 - 3 ounces thinly sliced Prosciutto di Parma, cut into bite-sized squares
 - 1 cup lightly packed fresh basil leaves
 - 1 cup parsley leaves
 - 8 large cloves garlic, diced about ¾ cup extra virgin olive oil
 - 3-6 tablespoons Balsamic vinegar
 - 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
 - about 1 tablespoon dark brown sugar
 - salt and fresh ground pepper to taste

Rid the onions of their sharpness by soaking them in ½ cup red wine vinegar for 30 minutes. Meanwhile wash and dry the lettuce, throwing away any coarse or bruised leaves. Tear leaves into bite-sized pieces. In a large bowl, toss the leaves with the pine nuts, most of the scallions, half of the cheese, half the prosciutto, all of the basil and parsley. Arrange on a large platter. To make the dressing: In a medium skillet, slowly cook the garlic in the olive oil over very low heat for 8 minutes or until barely colored. Remove with a slotted spoon and reserve. Turn the heat to medium high and add the vinegars to the oil. Cook a few moments or until the acid has diffused slightly. Add brown sugar to taste and allow the mixture to bubble slowly 1 minute. Taste for sweetness and allow to cool slightly. Stir in extra brown sugar or Balsamic vinegar if needed.

If the dressing is too sharp simmer briefly to boil off the vinegar's acid. Set aside till ready to serve.

To serve: Top with drained red onions and scatter the rest of the scallions pine nuts, cheese and prosciutto over the salad. Reheat the dressing, stir vigorously to blend and pour over salad. Serve immediately.

PATATE MESCÉ

- Basil and onion mashed potatoes
- 5 pounds small red skin potatoes
 - 1 to 1½ cups milk
 - 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
 - 4 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
 - 2 large onions, minced
 - ½ cup minced Italian parsley
 - 2 large cloves garlic, minced
 - ½ cup fresh minced basil leaves
 - ½ cup water
 - salt and fresh ground black pepper to taste

olive oil
1 cup (4 ounces) fresh grated Parmesan-Reggiano cheese

Scrub the potatoes and place them in a 6-quart pot with enough cold water to cover. Put the lid in place and set the pot over high heat. Bring the water to a lively bubble. Adjust the heat so that the potatoes do not boil over and keep the pot partially covered.

Cook potatoes 15-20 minutes or until easily pierced with a fork. Meanwhile, pour 1 cup of the milk, the butter and 1 tablespoon of olive oil into a bowl. While the potatoes are cooking, heat the remaining three tablespoons of oil into a 12-inch skillet over high heat. Add the onions and all but 2 tablespoons of the parsley. Turn the heat to medium low and cover. Cook 15 minutes or until the onions are soft and clear. Stir occasionally. Uncover and cook over medium high heat, stirring frequently for 8 minutes or until the onions are golden brown. Then stir in the garlic and basil and cook another minute. Add the water and scrape up any bits left in the skillet. Season with salt and pepper. Turn into a large bowl. When the potatoes are tender, drain and peel them. Pass the hot potatoes through a coarse blade of a food mill set over a large bowl or mash them with a potato masher. Blend the potatoes with the ingredients in the bottom of the bowl. Season to taste. If the potatoes seem dry, add more milk. The mixture should be like very thick whipped cream, but not so loose that it will not hold a high mound on a spoon.

Lightly oil a shallow 2½ quart baking dish. Spread half the potato mixture over the bottom of the dish. Top with half the cheese and then spread the remaining potatoes over this. Sprinkle with the rest of the cheese.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly cover the potatoes with aluminum foil and bake 30 minutes or until hot in the center. Just before serving, sprinkle with remaining parsley. Serve hot.

One pot dinner festive

Cooks: Make a break the traditional holiday menu! With good food as the entertaining heart of the season, flaunt some culinary creativity.

"New menus or dishes are welcome during the holidays, if they combine familiar ingredients in new ways," said Robin Kline, registered dietician and National Pork Producers Council director of consumer affairs.

"One way to make your meals special is to take familiar dishes or traditional holiday ingredients and give them a special twist: Give that traditional pork roast a unique stuffing, for instance, or try mixing the expected cranberries with jalapeno peppers for a surprising relish.

"Another way to make holiday entertaining special is to feature a traditional holiday dish from another land. In many countries, fresh pork is the 'star' for holiday meals," said Kline.

For example, Feijoada (pronounced fay-oh-ah-da), a Brazilian festival dish, is a festive one-pot meal with something for everyone. Black beans are the heart of this dish, with ham, pork loin, sausage, tomatoes and seasonings adding the "soul."

Accompany Feijoada with a simple appetizer of ham-wrapped pineapple spears, add fresh hot bread and a fruit tray for dessert and you have all the makings for a crowd-pleasing, easy-on-the-cook, festive party.

1 pound dried black beans
6 cups water

Festive meal: This holiday season please the crowd with Feijoada, the Brazilian one-pot meal for festive occasions. Seemingly exotic, it's amazingly simple to make.

1 pound boneless ham, cut into ¾-inch cubes
1 pound boneless pork loin, cut into ¾-inch cubes
¾ pound hot Italian sausage, sliced into 1-inch pieces
¾ pound smoked sausage, sliced into 1-inch pieces
1 pint cherry tomatoes
1 onion, chopped
1 teaspoon red pepper flakes
6 cloves garlic, peeled and minced
½ teaspoon orange zest

Cover the beans with cold water and soak overnight; or cover them with boiling water and let stand two hours. Drain. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In a large Dutch oven, combine all ingredients. Bring to a boil, skimming if necessary. Cover and transfer to oven. Bake 1½ hours; remove cover and bake another 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Allow to cool slightly, then cover and refrigerate overnight. Remove any fat from surface. Reheat Feijoada slowly.

Use leftover pie pumpkin to make gingerbread loaves

AP — No holiday baking spree would be complete without the aroma of spicy gingerbread wafting through your kitchen. These perfect-for-gift-giving size loaves use up the leftover pumpkin from your holiday pie.

PUMPKIN GINGERBREAD LOAVES

2 cups all-purpose flour
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup canned pumpkin
½ cup molasses
2 eggs
½ cup margarine or butter
¼ cup milk
1 tablespoon grated gingerroot or 1 teaspoon ground ginger

½ cup finely chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons sugar
Grease the bottoms and halfway up the sides of four 4½- by 2½-inch loaf pans. Set aside.

In a large mixing bowl stir together 1 cup of the flour, the brown sugar, baking powder, cinnamon and baking soda. Add pumpkin, molasses, eggs, margarine or butter, milk and gingerroot or ginger. Beat with an electric mixer on low to medium speed for 30 seconds or until combined. Beat on medium to high speed for 2 minutes, scraping the sides of the bowl occasionally. Add remaining flour; beat for 2 minutes or until mixed. Divide the batter evenly among the prepared pans. For topping, stir together walnuts and sugar; sprinkle evenly over batter. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 40 to 50 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the center of each loaf comes out clean. Cool loaves in pans on wire racks for 10 minutes. Remove from pans. Cool thoroughly on wire racks. Makes 4 loaves, 8 servings each.

To freeze: Wrap each loaf tightly in freezer wrap. Seal, label and freeze for up to 6 months. To thaw, let stand, loosely covered, at room temperature for 1 hour. Or, to thaw in the microwave oven, place one unwrapped loaf on a microwave-safe paper towel. Cook, uncovered, on 30 percent power 1 to 1½ minutes.

Handy tip keeps rolls hotter, longer

Here are some handy tips to use or share.

To keep rolls hotter longer, put a piece of aluminum foil in the basket under the napkin.

Adding water, rather than milk, to beaten eggs, will make for a more tender omelet.

The American Dairy Association offers these holiday entertaining tips.

Keep your refrigerator stocked with favorite cheeses. Two or more varieties served with fruit and crackers make an easy and sophisticated offering for unexpected guests.

For a quick and easy holiday breakfast for house guests, set up a yogurt buffet. Offer a selection of yogurt flavors and let guests help themselves to stir-ins like fresh fruit, raisins, wheat germ, cereals and/or coconut.

SHOPPING CENTERED

LINDA BACHRACK

Artful objects, aromas create warm welcome

Garlands of evergreens, nosegays of dried roses and clusters of fruit and holly berries were artfully arranged by the women of colonial Williamsburg to create swags and topiary that fragrantly decorated their holiday entryways.

The custom of gathering leaves and flowers from the garden and embellishing them with pine cones, cinnamon sticks and yards of shiny ribbon is one that is enjoyed today. And what could be more welcoming to your guests than the fresh scent of greenery and a hallway decked in traditional red and green?

With the addition of candlelight and the sparkle of brass and glass, you can create a warm, yet dramatic welcome. The gilt-edged potpourri bowl ($22.95) from Crate & Barrel in the Somerset Collection, lends just the right touch to your foyer. Crafted of handblown glass, this Crate & Barrel exclusive features a brass tealight candle holder. The warmth from the flame releases the fragrance of the potpourri.

"I really love this bowl," said Donna Menton of Northville as she pulled me aside to explain the reasons behind her purchase. "I can use it year-round, just by changing the potpourri. It has such a nice contemporary look, and is different from anything I've seen." In fact, the item was so popular that none were left when we went back for a photograph, but they promised a new shipment was on its way. It is also pictured in Crate & Barrel's catalogue. Menton chose Crate & Barrel's evergreen potpourri ($7.95) for its all natural forest fragrance.

Another way to permeate the air with enticing smells is to bake a batch of holiday cookies. If your sugarplum fantasies include gingerbread men and snickerdoodles, spend a day in the kitchen mixing up your favorite confections while enjoying the soothing melodies of The Nutcracker.

Be sure to make an extra dozen to share with drop-in visitors. Nothing says welcome quite like a fresh-baked cookie and the lingering aromas of vanilla and nutmeg. And to elicit smiles from children of all ages, encourage your guests to help themselves to the contents of the delightful cookie jar pictured. The jolly snowman ($34) is a cheerful holiday accent that should occupy a prominent place in your kitchen or just inside the front door. Keep him handy for a treat for neighborhood carolers. He is just one of the gift items available at the Eddie Bauer Home Collection store in Twelve Oaks mall.

If your home reflects the popular new "cabin chic" decorating trend, a rustic hunting lodge look, then you must have a moose, the hottest collectible to capture the essence of Adirondack charm.

Eddie Bauer's Home Collection is crawling with charming moose ($20). They lounge on flannel-covered beds, peek through the slats of rocking chairs and ride in green pine sleigh baskets ($39) like the one we picture. Generally, they replace the teddy bear as the fuzzy, furry critter of the season.

Everyone seems intrigued with the lovable moose. "Bullwinkle in a sweater," exclaimed Jackie Verlinden of Birmingham. Her sister, Linda Forrester, described the moose as "warm and outdoorsy, better than a bear." Both agreed that a moose was capable of welcoming friends in a special way. You just can't look at his curious countenance without grinning — a novel addition to your twig table or wicker chair in the entryway.

Crate & Barrel and the Home Collection also offer golden luminaria to light the way to your front door. Choose twinkling cut-out stars from Crate & Barrel ($14.95/set of 12) or a scenic Northwest tree and snow design from the Home Collection ($8/set of 6).

So, the halls are decked with holly and mistletoe. A cozy fire crackles in the hearth and the spicy-sweet smell of potpourri perfumes the air. Home-baked goodies cool in the cookie jar. The soft glow of candlelight, inside and out, conveys hospitality.

Your home says welcome and the memory of a warm welcome lasts forever.

Next week, a look at the nostalgic return to classic toys. If you've overdosed on GI Joe and Nintendo, don't despair. Favorite toys of yesteryear are enticing kids this holiday season.

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. If you have column ideas to share, she can be reached from your touch-tone phone at 953-2047, Ext. 1889.

Who's shopping?: Laura (seated) and Marcy Zatz of Bingham Farms browse through the books at Tel-Twelve Mall. Their grandmother Olga Yaremchuk re-shelves one they've rejected.

■ Holiday shopping trips are the ideal time to start teaching youngsters how to manage their money. The experts suggest parents match what kids save to help their holiday dollars go further. Homemade gifts are budget stretchers, too.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Even though she's only 5 years old, Laura Zatz of Bingham Farms wants to buy presents for the ones she loves.

"I want to get my little sister a doll and my-grandma some books," she said on a recent shopping trip to Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield.

She explained that she had $3.95 in her piggy bank with which to purchase these and other gifts for her family.

Linda McIntosh, marketing director of Fairlane Mall in Dearborn said Laura's dilemma is not unique. "As the holidays near, we see many young shoppers trying to find something special for families and friends," she said. "But often they're overwhelmed because they lack the sophisticated shopping skills of their parents. But with a little help from the experts parents can help children develop those skills."

McIntosh quoted Grace Weinstein, author of "Children and Money," who insists that "money is a learning tool."

"Part of that learning is spending, so whether they're buying for themselves or someone else, they have to learn by doing," Weinstein points out.

"If a child has absolutely no money, parents might provide a set amount to cover all gift shopping. But how to allocate the money should be the child's decision."

BIG DREAMS

SMALL PIGGY BANKS
Kids develop shopping skills during holiday season

Janis Segal, a Southfield mother of three, agreed.

"My kids are 3, 6, and 17-years-old," she explained. "We celebrate Hanukkah. When they buy gifts we let them select the presents. Sometimes we pitch in to help cover the cost."

Match kids' savings

Weinstein also suggested parents, if they are able, match the funds children save themselves for presents, or supplement their allowances before the holidays with the understanding that the extra money is for gifts.

Mall managers urged parents shopping with youngsters to set a date early in the shopping season, before the stores get too busy, preferably when the stores first open and everyone is fresh.

"Children should shop with a list of people and amounts, not with specific gift ideas in mind," said Elaine Kah, marketing director at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi. "For kids, too specific a list can be limiting and frustrating. It's better to wander through a store with inexpensive items and let their imaginations go."

She said she sees many kids just buying wrapping paper or candy for homemade gifts that stretch their gift dollars.

Jim Reichel of Novi said his children buy presents at the Santa Shoppe sponsored by the PTA group at school. Many schools provide this service so kids can have fun and surprise their parents with gifts they bought themselves.

For kids' only

The Community House in Birmingham and Jacobson's are co-sponsoring a Children's Only Shop on the second floor of the Community House through Saturday, Dec. 12. Kids can shop from 3-6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. Gifts are priced from $50 to $5. The Community House is located on Bates Street between Merriell and Townsend.

The mall stores no longer set up special shops for children, however, at the Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit, children's shopping is a weekend feature until Dec. 24 between Towers 200 and 300 in the Fashion Plaza.

Lakeside Mall merchants have compiled a list of gifts under $5 for youthful shoppers. The list includes scented soaps, travel mugs, cassette singles, flavored coffee samplers, mints wrapped to resemble tree ornaments, socks, and musical toothbrushes.

Dennis Jaboro, 15, of West Bloomfield said he expects to spend $500 to $600 for family gifts this year.

"I've been buying presents with my own money for the past two years," he said. "I earn the money by working in my dad's store. I spend the money on my friends and family. It's just something I like to do."

Jaboro's budget may not be the typical teen's, but a 1991 Roper Youth Report found that American children, ages 8 to 17, spend between $22-$26 billion per year.

The holiday shopping season may be short, but smart shopping habits born this December will last a lifetime.

Stay on your toes say security pros

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

'Tis the season to go shopping. 'Tis also the season to be wary while shopping.

Many malls and mainstreets report adding security personnel for the holidays because the mere sight of uniformed officers deters wrongdoing.

Thieves look for unlocked cars to gain easy access to packages left in the backseat, according to Capt. Scott Jackson, whose security firm contracts with several area malls. They watch for wallets left on counters during transactions. They notice purses left unattended in public restrooms.

"Before a family or couple enters the mall they should agree on a meeting place in case they become lost or separated. Parents should make sure their little ones know their name and phone number."

"Don't shop with large amounts of cash," advises Sgt. Christopher Carr of Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield. "We don't have many purse snatchings or pick pockets here, but shoppers should always be alert."

Don't become overloaded with packages, said Lt. William Tullock of the Troy police, who reviews crime reports from the Somerset Collection and Oakland Mall.

"If your hands are filled with Nintendo games, Barbie dolls and other gifts, you have identified yourself as a defenseless target."

Birmingham police Cmdr. Richard Dimock said the police department is in the middle of downtown and a police officer patrols the district on horseback.

Some suggestions: "Women carrying packages should wear a shoulder strap purse inside their coat. Females should shop in pairs and avoid parking in dark, unlit areas."

Cmdr. Michael Gardner of the Plymouth Police Department said street crime during the holidays in downtown Plymouth is almost non-existent. "I just tell people to use common sense and be alert."

Shopping alert: Security officers warn shoppers to fight crime with common sense.

Some women's mags are thick as a brick

JILL HAMILTON

A while back I was sitting at a dentist's office waiting to get a tooth pulled. As usual in the world of medical professionals, it was going to be a little wait.

The dentist motioned to a small rack with three magazines in it — "Money," "Time" and "U.S. News and World Reports."

"Oh," he said. "I'll go get you a women's magazine."

A women's magazine? In a blinding flash of bad judgment, since this man was about to be yanking a tooth out of my mouth, I said in what I hoped was a withering manner, "These look like women's magazines to me."

The dentist sort of laughed nervously, probably mostly concerned with getting away from this evil feminist woman.

It's not that I haven't read a few women's magazines in my time, it's just that the dentist seemed to think I couldn't trouble my little self with such weighty matters as world affairs and money management. Hey, maybe I would sometimes rather read "10 Ways to Make Your Man Your Love Slave" than "10 Promising Money Market Funds," but I don't want anyone assuming anything.

My main problem with women's magazines is that they assume that women are seriously dense, weight-obsessed and desperate for a man. OK, I admit it, at some point during my life, weight-obsessed and/or desperate for a man have been my main personality traits, but it was a passing thing.

Women's magazines assume this is a constant state. This might be because most women's mags are controlled by men. ("Sassy" is an exception). Knowing this, it becomes less surprising that women's mags were the first to trumpet the supposed man shortage and the last to give up the idea that women should pretty much do anything to get a dude.

I know this sounds really paranoid like Oliver Stone or something, but it seems like women's magazines are designed to make women think about stupid things. It all starts with "Seventeen" and "YM" (Young Miss). You are supposed to start with those, move on to "Glamour" and "Mademoiselle," graduate to "Redbook" and "Women's Day," then finally progress to "Lear's."

So far no one has yet to hit upon the idea of marketing to boy-crazy 80-year-olds. Feature: "He Offers to Share His Creamed Peas With You . . . Is It LOVE?"

I picked up a copy of "YM" at the library. In one of the many quizzes about boys scattered throughout the magazine, there was one called "Are You Girlfriend Material or Always a Pal?" Question two says, "You're meeting your best friend's boyfriend for the first time. You: A. grin and slap him on the back; B. smile and shake his hand; C. purr hello and drape yourself over him like a new suit."

Now, about this answer C, one of the two "correct" answers. Just how is it that you drape yourself over someone "like a new suit" anyway? I should be trying things like this? On my friend's boyfriend?

Then there's this weight-obsessed thing. Take a look at "Better Homes and Gardens," "Women's Day" or any of the other mags for the 25-44-year-old — I guarantee than every single one of them will have something about losing weight on the cover and something about a fattening chocolate dessert.

Here's what the cover of "Good Housekeeping" says: "Exclusive Diana's Exercises" and "Sweets, Savories and the World's Best Brownies." Don't these stories cancel each other out?

Finally, there's the women-are-dense problem. In a household tips column, the writer said we should be solving the problem of chipped dishes by wrapping each and every dish in a towel. Isn't this sort of expensive, not to mention a waste of time? In a "Most Admired Women" poll, "Good Housekeeping" gives us the choices. In most of the magazines, the articles are short; the words small; and the subject matter limited.

This would be OK except no men's magazines are this insane. Compare "Esquire" to "Redbook" or "Details" to "Glamour." The men's magazines talk about the world, entertainment and living a life. The women's talk about tips to keep a man interested and how to make the perfect pot holders.

And somehow, that doesn't seem fair.

An angry soul expresses frustration

Warrior Soul singer and Livonia native Kory Clarke checks in with his third release, "Salutations from the Ghetto Nation." The pulsating hard rock tone of the album covers a spectrum of emotions, from volatile social commentaries to incisive personal politics.

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

The ability to express himself in vitriolic purges of frustration has never been a problem for Warrior Soul's Kory Clarke.

Not at all. Grows the Livonia native on his latest release on David Geffen Records: "We stack the courts and we tax the poor/Got Johnny Lunchbox to fight our wars/ . . . Tax him to his knees and make him love the flag/We got corporate freedom. He gets a body bag."

At times, the onslaught of apocalyptic visions of disintegration, hopelessness and despair on "Salutations from the Ghetto Nation" become overbearing especially when weighted down by pounding metal guitars. There's no rainbows here.

"There's some definite throwing up your arms in the air on this album," said Clarke, whose band performs Friday, Dec. 4, at the Ritz in Roseville. "Sometimes that's just the way you feel."

"Other parts of the album I'm 18 and I don't know what I want . . . It goes through all the emotions."

Clarke's musical career has spanned more than 10 years and includes everything from slashing punk to blistering hard rock. He performed in local outfits such as L7 (not the California all-female outfit) and Trial before venturing to New York to form Warrior Soul.

His musical journey has been marked by candor. He speaks his mind, spilling bile indiscriminately and never apologizing for its messiness.

Social commentaries about himself can be equally oblique. He carves up bitter introspection in songs such as "Punk and Belligerent," which was written in anger after a brief separation from his wife.

Declares Clarke on the power chord proclamation: "I'm going out tonight/And I'm going out drinking/Don't bother waiting up/Cause I'm coming home stinking"

Yet for all this Miller Lite inspired bravado, Clarke keeps one guessing as he evokes a sense of tenderness in the arena rock pop of "The Golden Shore," which covers the tried but true theme of going on the road and being separated from a loved one.

Soul expression: John Ricco (left), Kory Clarke, Pete McClanahan and Mark Evans have their third release, "Salutations from a Ghetto Nation," out on David Geffen Records.

"There's me yelling at my wife on this record ("Punk and Belligerent"). There's me making up with my wife on this record," said Clarke, who graduated from Livonia Bentley High School. "There's me getting drunk and yelling on this album. There's me making fun of the Republican party on this album."

The latter, "The Party," displays the pitfalls of political commentary in the rock medium. Clarke tries to kick the GOP in the teeth with the searing number.

But the song now sounds dated with Clinton cleaning their clock in November's election.

"I predicted they would lose 15 months ago," Clarke said, "but no one listened to me."

Few have bothered to listen or acknowledge Clarke's success here despite Warrior Soul being number one on many metal charts with its 1991 album, "Drugs, God and the New Republic." At the time, Clarke was irate at what he perceived as an oversight by the print media and radio.

He's obviously mellowed since then. Warrior Soul is in the midst of its first headline tour after successful opening slots for Metallica, Soundgarden and Queensryche.

"Once the ball is rolling, Detroit will jump on it," Clarke said.

Warrior Soul will perform Friday, Dec. 4, at The Ritz, 17580 Frazho, Roseville. For information, call 778-6404.

"Of Human Bondage" (USA - 1946). 7 p.m. Nov. 30. This rare version of the Somerset Maugham story stars Paul Henreid and Eleanor Parker as the intelligent crippled man who falls in love with the wrong woman, a vulgar waitress who degrades and torments him. It can't hold a candle to the earlier Bette Davis-Leslie Howard version, but it's still worth a look.

MAPLE THEATRE, 4135 Maple Road, Bloomfield Hills. Call 855-9090 for show times. ($5.75 evenings; $2.95 twilight)

"Flirting" (Australia - 1991). A coming-of-age film in which an outsider at a boarding school in the '60s falls for a fellow outcast at a nearby girl's school. An award-winning Australian film from the makers of "The Year My Voice Broke."

REDFORD THEATRE, 17360 Lahser, Detroit. Call 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"The Bells of St. Mary's" (USA - 1945). 8 p.m. Dec. 4 - 5 (organ overture begins at 7:30 p.m.). Bing Crosby returns as good Father O'Malley in this sequel to "Going My Way." He gets sent to a rundown parish where Ingrid Bergman is the Mother Superior.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN - DEARBORN, Evergreen between Ford Road and Michigan Avenue, Dearborn. Call 593-5433 for information. (Free)

"Unforgiven" (USA - 1992). 7:30 p.m. Dec. 2 - 3. Clint Eastwood's superb new western finds old squinty-eyes in the role of a gunslinger who comes out of retirement for one last job. Gene Hackman plays the local sheriff who will do anything to keep order in his town. - John Monaghan

"Unforgiven": Clint Eastwood stars with Morgan Freeman in "Unforgiven," which is playing at the University of Michigan-Dearborn Dec. 2-3.

Aladdin's Coup: Disney made one of its best moves ever when recruiting Howard Ashman and Harold Menken to score these pictures.

Aladdin' rekindles Disney's classic spell

JOHN MONAGHAN

A new golden age for Disney animation? The artistic and popular success of "Beauty and the Beast" and "The Little Mermaid" certainly hints at it. Though not of the same caliber, "Aladdin" provides a good-natured blend of rollercoaster adventure and non-stop gags.

Aladdin, a handsome young thief, lives off his wits on the mean streets of Agrabah. When he saves the life of a young maiden in the marketplace, he realizes only later that she is the Sultan's daughter Jasmine.

The Sultan's advisor Jafar — tall, black-robed, and bearing more than a passing resemblance to an older Joan Crawford — uses Aladdin to acquire a magical lamp that will grant three wishes. The sand-monster who possesses it insists that only this noble boy can enter his gaping mouth to retrieve it.

There's plenty of adventure along the way, especially involving a flying carpet brought alive through the magic of computer animation. You can count on it to wobble beneath Aladdin when he's falling deep into a chasm or playfully toppling off Jasmine's veranda.

Disney made one of its best moves ever when recruiting Howard Ashman and Harold Menken to score these pictures. Lyricist Ashman contributed three clever songs to the project before his death last year. Tim Rice, collaborator with Andrew Lloyd Webber on "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Evita," added another two.

The tunes range from thoughtful to raucous, from jivey Broadway tributes to modern Whitney Houston-style ballads. Best are the spirited ones, including "One Jump Ahead," as Aladdin outwits palace guards, and "Friend Like Me," where the Genie from the lamp unleashes a garish display of his powers.

Robin Williams, who provides the Genie's voice, dominates "Aladdin's" second half. You'd almost think he directed the animation, since the nonstop barrage of rapid fire gags completely plays into his over-the-edge comic style.

He appears as a game show host telling Aladdin what he can and can't order from the lamp. In the flash of a second, he transforms his gassy physique into caricatures of Groucho Marx, Jack Nicholson, commentators at Macy's parade, and even Disney's Pinocchio.

And while he is truly outrageous, the craziness make it hard to focus on the movie's underlying message. Be yourself, "Aladdin" says, and keep your word, including Aladdin's broken promise to the Genie that one of his wishes will be used to release the spirit from slavery.

Disney cartoons thrive on their timelessness. "Pinocchio" and "Snow White," from Disney's original Golden Age in the 1930s and '40s, can be reissued from here to eternity because they exist in their own unique world.

How will future generations view "Aladdin's" topical gags during the film's 2012 re-release? Probably the same way we look today at the vintage Warner Brothers cartoons, where animators tried to outdo each other with the most gags per minute.

"Aladdin" doesn't possess the emotional clarity and meticulous eye for atmosphere that distinguish the best Disney features. But don't let that stop you from having a great time on this well-crafted magic carpet ride.

Film offers an insightful look at lives of 2 brothers

PASS THE POPCORN

LeANNE ROGERS

Garbage man Dominick Luciano goes through life with a smile on his face, eagerly planning a birthday outing to Wrestlemania and dreaming of the day his brother Eugene becomes a successful doctor and they move to a nice house on a lake. The brothers are fraternal twins, older by 12 minutes Dominick has been "slow" since he was injured in a childhood fall.

The fine 1988 film "Dominick and Eugene" looks at the lives of the brothers, very well played by Tom Hulse and Ray Liotta, at a time when some changes are likely. Dominick holds his job and is pretty independent, if gullible. He tends to believe the outrageous stories spouted as gospel by a co-worker.

Dominick supports his brother, who is finishing his internship and wants to do his residency at Stanford, far from their home in Pittsburgh.

The brothers, whose parents are both dead, have been inseparable for years but their relationship isn't ideal. Strained by the demands of medical school, Eugene can blow up at his brother when he forgets to walk his dog or won't stop talking in the middle of the night. Eugene is quick-tempered but saves his real fury for a guy who takes advantage of Dominick.

Hulse is very good as Dominick, who is concerned that maybe he is stupid, not just slow. Without being maudlin or overwrought, he makes Eugene a real person who is dealing with some extra challenges and basically doing pretty well.

Dominick has befriended a boy who lives along his trash collection route and shares his love of comic books. For his trouble, Dominick is berated by the boy's abusive father.

When Dominick witnesses his young friend being abused by his father, the shock and terror on his face reaches far beyond what he has just seen. It's a heartbreaking scene, as the painful memories flood over Dominick who is too distraught to speak. Hulse plays the scene very well, making Dominick's subsequent action noble and completely well intentioned.

Director Robert M. Young keeps the film on a steady course that avoids the pitfalls of melodrama. These are people who care deeply for each other but sometimes inflict the most damage on those they love most.

Kickers caused game to change

Walt Bazylewicz, a long-time football coach in the Detroit Catholic League, has never been too fond of placekickers. He didn't even need one when his coaching career began about 40 years ago at Detroit St. Thomas High School.

"When I first started coaching at Lodge Park on the east side, we didn't even have goal posts," he said.

To hear 'Bazy' tell it, he could still do without goal posts.

As football modernized, Bazylewicz hesitated to accept field goals — especially from a converted soccer player who didn't play offense or defense.

Bazylewicz had no problem with a 200-pound lineman trying a point-after-touchdown kick but watching a guy half the size of his teammates come in on fourth down to attempt a long field goal wasn't his idea of football.

"It's a foreign part of the game," said Bazylewicz, currently an assistant at the University of Detroit-Jesuit High School after spending the previous three seasons as Redford Bishop Borgess coach.

Now, you must understand 'Bazy' is a great guy — as friendly as they come — he just comes from the old school and thinks it's a crime to see a defensive team do a good job, stop the offense on the 40, then have "some guy who is not even an athlete kick a 50-yard field goal."

(Bazy probably doesn't watch too many soccer games because those guys are pretty good athletes.)

Bazylewicz began really turning on placekickers after hearing former Miami Dolphins kicker Garo Yepremian describe a winning kick on television.

"He said, 'I kick a de touchdown,'" Bazylewicz recalled. "He didn't even know it was called a field goal."

Redford Catholic Central's Adam Borchert speaks fluent English and is a good athlete, but like Yepremian, only handles the placekicking and kickoffs. His other after-school duty includes playing soccer for CC coach Phil LaJoy.

CC coach Tom Mach used to be against the idea of having a placekicker on loan from the school's soccer team.

But after watching Borchert make field goals to beat Troy and Utica Eisenhower in the playoffs, he's glad he changed his mind.

"I always felt if you weren't on the team, doing things you're supposed to every day, it would be hard to step in and kick it," Mach said. "But with time and age, you get a little smarter in some ways."

Kerry Zavagnin was the first soccer/football player Mach used, beginning in 1990. Mach was leery at first about having a part-time kicker.

"Not after I saw him kick," said Mach.

Scouting Report update

Bill Lelich, who owns a franchise for Scouting Report, a recruiting service that markets high school athletes to colleges, is trying to make up for the mess a colleague made.

Two months ago, I wrote a story about how Scouting Report's Jeff Silverman allegedly left Michigan after taking $650 from several families in the area. Silverman, who according to sources is working for a weight-loss company in San Diego, Calif., left without coming close to fulfilling any of his obligations to clients.

"Every industry is going to have a 'bad apple,'" said Lelich, a 1974 Birmingham Brother Rice graduate who makes his home in Birmingham. "My objective and our industry's objective is to weed out these people. We don't need any unscrupulous, unethical operators."

Lelich bought a Scouting Report franchise in April, 1992. He has spent the last couple months trying to make up for Silverman's unannounced departure last spring by contacting some of Silverman's clients and following through with the original promises.

"I feel it's my responsibility to come to their rescue," Lelich said. "We're dealing with athletes who have devoted their lives to academics and athletics. Silverman has destroyed dreams and it's very disheartening to them. I felt it was terribly unethical and promptly contacted the media and all the families."

Lelich played on Rice's '74 Class A basketball championship team and he was a letterwinner for the University of Michigan in 1977 with Rickey Green and Phil Hubbard. He earned business and speech degrees at U-M and a master's degree in business administration at the University of Detroit.

"I can empathize with the thousands of non-blue chip athletes who are interested in playing college sports," Lelich said.

If interested in Scouting Report's service, call Lelich at 643-7466.

Shamrocks regain state crown

Redford Catholic Central captured its third state football championship under coach Tom Mach with a thrilling 21-20 victory over Saginaw Arthur Hill in a rematch of last year's final.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central's football team carried out its season-long credo that "the magic is in the believing."

The Shamrocks willed their way to the school's third state championship, capping a 13-0 season Saturday with a spellbinding 21-20 victory over Saginaw Arthur Hill before 15,404 at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The game pitted two unbeaten teams that were ranked No. 1 and 2 all season long.

It was a virtual replay of last year's Class AA final, with a slightly different twist. It was only a year ago that Arthur Hill upset the Shamrocks, 13-12, but this time it was CC's turn for redemption.

"I've been in a lot of big games, but this is one of the greatest because it went back and forth," Catholic Central coach Tom Mach said. "We didn't want to go through the whole season like we did last year and not win the 13th game."

"Our team showed tremendous determination. They were down three times and wouldn't be beat."

Mach, noted over the years for his smash-mouth, ball-control style offense, orchestrated a game plan that kept Arthur Hill's defense off balance.

The eventual game-winning touchdown came with 1:09 left in the third quarter and the Shamrocks staring at 20-14 deficit.

Junior Freddie Taylor, who had 90 yards in 19 carries on the day, surprised Arthur Hill when he completed a 37-yard halfback pass to Brady Pankow for a touchdown.

Adam Borchert drilled through the extra point, his third of the day, to give CC a one-point lead.

CC then dug in defensively, stopping the Lumberjacks' last-ditch drive in the final quarter.

With only five seconds remaining and Arthur Hill on the CC 47-yard line, senior quarterback Marvin Wright, who was brilliant in defeat with 286 yards total offense, zipped a pass over the middle to a wide-open Kedrick Redeemer just inside the 20.

The ball, partially deflected by CC's Ken Rys, bounced into the hands of Redeemer, who could not hang on for the grab despite a clear path to the end zone.

"I'm sure this is as difficult for me to be in this position as it was for Catholic Central last year," Arthur Hill coach Jim Eurick told the press gathering afterward. "We played it hard and we played it fair, but we got beat by one point and we have to accept it."

"They (CC) just hit the heck out of you. I was impressed with their offensive line. They left tread marks on our backs and at the end of the game our kids were dog-tired."

It would seem, however, that the Lumberjacks would never get tired running or throwing out of their option attack.

They racked up 393 total net yards to CC's 286.

Speedy tailback Howard Foster, who led all rushers with 108 yards in 12 carries, scored on a perfect pitch from Wright from 5 yards out with 4:03 left in the opening quarter, capping an 80-yard, 11-play drive.

But Wright, a 6-foot-2, 197-pound senior, missed the extra point, a play that would loom large the rest of the way.

CC took a 7-6 lead early in the second quarter when Taylor broke the plane of the goal line from 2 yards out. The drive covered 72 yards in 10 plays.

Forward pass key to CC victory

Brady Pankow contributes in many ways to the Redford Catholic Central football team, but rarely on offense.

His forte is defense, where he plays in the secondary, and he also returns punts and kickoffs.

Pankow added another role Saturday when he became a star wide receiver in the Class AA championship game at the Silverdome.

The Livonia senior caught three passes for 99 yards, including the game-tying touchdown, as the Shamrocks opened their offense and defeated Saginaw Arthur Hill 21-20.

"If you follow us, you know we don't throw too many passes," said Pankow, who understated the usually conservative CC offense.

"We were working on the pass all week and it hit me: Oh, my gosh, I have to be a receiver, too. I have to make something happen on offense."

CC coach Tom Mach told Pankow on Friday that he would catch two passes, but Pankow didn't anticipate the big plays that kept CC in contention with the explosive Lumberjacks and eventually propelled it to victory.

Fred Taylor threw a 37-yard, halfback-option pass to Pankow, who got behind the defense and ran the final 15 yards to the end zone. The TD tied the score at 20 late in the third quarter, and Adam Borchert kicked the decisive extra point.

"It was mostly adrenaline that helped me put in there," Pankow said. "I was so tired because I usually don't play offense so much."

The play was all the more amazing since Taylor threw the ball with a sore right shoulder, which he hurt when he landed on it diving for a pass in the Catholic League title game.

"(Mach) said he was going to try it," Taylor said, adding the Shamrocks had only practiced the play but never completed it. "I was concerned because of my shoulder. (Mach) said 'Don't worry about it. You won't feel any pain in the game.'"

Taylor had trouble getting the ball ready to launch at first, which might have helped cause the deep defender to take the run fake.

"There was a rush and I thought someone was going to get me," he said. "Brady was supposed to hesitate, and I didn't know if he was going to get open. I was kinda scared, but he got open."

Pankow, who had three receptions for 18 yards in the first 12 games, also caught a 60-yard pass from quarterback Chris Barbara, putting CC on the Arthur Hill 4 in the second quarter. That helped the Shamrocks take a 14-12 lead.

"I knew Chris could get it out to me; he has the arm to get it there," Pankow said. "I told Chris to 'do something with it. If you get it to me, I want the big play.' I was thinking touchdown all the way."

That pass made possible what might be one of the fastest scoring drives in CC history. How often do the Shamrocks go 80 yards in five plays? The last TD also was a relative quick strike for CC — eight plays and 91 yards.

Barbara completed three of six passes for 75 yards. The Shamrocks rushed for 182 — swingback John Raasch was an effective runner with 75 yards on nine carries — but complemented that with 112 passing yards.

Blazers coast into 'A' hoop quarterfinal

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Life is good these days for the Livonia Ladywood girls basketball team, especially when they're away from the Catholic League's tough Central Division.

Following Wednesday's 87-37 waxing of Wyandotte Roosevelt in the Class A regional final at Ypsilanti, the Blazers now sport an 18-0 record minus their divisional rivals, Birmingham Marian and Harper Woods Regina.

The 50-point regional win puts the Blazers (18-5 overall) into the state quarterfinals, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday (Dec. 2) at Lansing Eastern against Charlotte (24-1).

"When we're playing a rival team it's usually a lower scoring game where it seems every possession is important," Ladywood coach Ed Kavanaugh said. "Because of the competitiveness, you can't relax for one game in our league."

The Blazers were loose as a goose against Wyandotte, fast-breaking and pressing their way to a 16-0 advantage to start the game.

Wyandotte (20-5) had trouble getting the ball past mid-court, let alone getting a shot off in the opening quarter as Ladywood jumped out to a commanding 23-5 lead.

The Blazers also did a number on the Bailey sisters, 6-foot-3 senior Kim, a recent signee with Oakland University, and 5-11 junior Sara.

Kim, despite a team-high 16 points, got into early foul trouble and found herself in a standoff against Ladywood's two centers, 6-2 senior Katie Wright (eight points) and 6-3 sophomore Anne Poglits (six).

"We said we wanted to keep her (Kim Bailey) outside," Kavanaugh said. "We'll let a 6-3 kid shoot from outside."

"We also wanted to go at them quickly. Katie made a nice hook shot early and we were able to pick up a couple of quick fouls."

Wyandotte, which committed 21 first-half turnovers, could not match up either in the backcourt.

"The key was to take their guards out of the game," Kavanaugh said. "We wanted to double-team and trap them into the sidelines. We knew the Baileys would get there points, but if you can't get the ball to them, they can't score."

Ladywood, which led 43-23 at intermission, outscored the Bears 20-7 in the third quarter before going on a 24-7 run in the final period.

It turned out to be a night of fun and frivolity night as 12 of Ladywood's 14 players who saw action scored, led by sophomore forward Tara Overitis, who pumped in a game-high 17 points.

Tracey Mcoon, a 5-11 senior, came off the bench to score 12, while 5-6 junior guard Sara Cavanaugh contributed nine, including a pair of three-pointers in the final period.

"There are a lot of personalities on this team," Kavanaugh said. "It's a fun group. It's a big part of playing in this program. If they're not having a good time, then something is wrong."

Chances are the good times will continue into Wednesday's quarterfinal matchup. But guess who's just around the corner lurking in a potential semifinal matchup?

Bowlers rolling more 300 games

AL HARRISON

The dream of every bowler is to roll a 300 game. It takes 12 strikes in a row, the ultimate achievement in bowling. Now that the season is well under way, there are more 300s being reported.

It takes a little while for some of the bowlers to get lined up with the new lane conditions. For others, perhaps getting used to a new ball.

In the past week, several local houses have had excellent scores, even some 800 series, which many consider to be more difficult than a 300 game.

Wonderland Lanes in Livonia features the Wonderland Classic every Tuesday night and this past week Tom Reno had a 300 game and 847 series. His perfect score came a night after he rolled a 299 in the Ansara's Classic League at Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills.

Bryan Gogolin also rolled a perfect game in a 701 series, while Dave Kaliszewski fired 297 with an 821 set. Bud LeBlanc was up there with an 803 series, including a 278 game.

In the Senior House League at Woodland Lanes, also in Livonia, Tim Grates and Scott Linsner both rolled 300 games during the past week. At Super Bowl Lanes in Canton Township, Steve Klein and Bill Moeller each fired 300s in the Thanksgiving Turkey Shoot Tournament to join recent perfect games by Larry Pratt, Jason Adamowicz, Tim Magyar and Todd Kurowski, each of whom earned their 300 ring in league competition.

Walter Dietz came close with a 299 in the Super Tuesday League.

Aleda Sill and Beve Schiff each had perfect games in the All-Star Bowlerettes League in Livonia. Nunzio Marino shot 300 in the Thursday Scratch Trio at Cloverlanes. Sid Moorin rolled a 300 at Classic Lanes in Rochester during the Oakland Invitational.

While many bowlers come close to perfection, getting the first 11 strikes, the 12th can be quite difficult.

Lally pops Trice, gets WBC victory

By NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

Durable is defined as "lasting in spite of hard wear or frequent use."

That's what middleweight champion contender Tyrone Trice called Westland John Glenn graduate Brett Lally on a radio talk show before Tuesday's Fight Night at The Palace of Auburn Hills.

Lally gave new meaning to the word durable as he won a controversial 10-round decision from Trice in front of 9,743 in Auburn Hills.

Despite having a bloody and swollen left eye, Lally pulled off the upset. The crowd didn't necessarily agree with the decision.

Judges Chip Acey and James Smith scored the bout 96-94 for Lally, while Rosemary Grable saw it a 95-95 draw.

"I'm very happy," Lally said. "I won and that's all that matters. I'm not looking at a rematch. I'm looking at a middleweight championship fight now."

Lally, who improved to 31-7, was battered most of the night but was found to be the aggressor, especially in the later rounds.

Lally successfully passed examinations from the ringside doctor in the sixth and seventh rounds. Referee Tom Paskevitch thought Lally's wound to his eye might have been bad enough to stop the fight, but the doctor saw the injury as superficial.

Trice, who survived the fight looking unblemished physically, sat in disbelief in his locker-room chair following the decision.

"I thought I won the fight," said Trice, who fell to 41-6. "I outpunched him. When he wanted to wrestle with me — I let him. I thought they would take a point away from him in the last round."

"I asked the judge what he changed. I saw him change something (on the scorecard) before he turned it in."

Lally, who resides in Canton, came out strong in the first round with several good combinations. The first five rounds were even.

But it was Lally who started showing the signs of punishment first. His left eye swelled.

Trice took control of the middle rounds with good blows to Lally's face. Lally, looking worse as each round passed, connected on several counter punches and often returned blows on off-balanced lunged towards Trice.

The fight seemed to belong to Trice entering the final round. Lally increased his intensity and, with 30 seconds remaining, took Trice with both hands and threw him to the mat. After Lally was given a warning, he controlled the rest of the fight.

"I started putting it together in the later rounds," Lally said. "He hit me with a couple good rights, but it didn't hurt me. I knew if I tried boxing Tyrone Trice, I couldn't beat him."

Each boxer's careers may go in separate directions now. Lally was making a comeback after being knocked out last year by Terry Norris. Lally was ranked 13th by the World Boxing Council, while Trice was ranked ninth.

Trice, who started a near riot at the previous Fight Night by challenging International Boxing Federation champion James Toney, all but lost his shot at a title bout.

"It was a lackluster performance on my part," Trice said.

CC posts hockey win over Stevenson

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

The "new" Redford Catholic Central hockey team may have gained a little revenge for its predecessors Wednesday as the Shamrocks beat Livonia Stevenson, 6-4, at Eddie Edgar Arena.

The Spartans ousted CC from the Class A regional playoffs last March with a 4-2 victory. This time, a barely recognizable CC squad held off a furious comeback by Stevenson (0-2) to secure its first win.

Only six Shamrocks return from last year's team — one being senior forward Mike Giordano, who scored twice and added an assist.

"I'm doing my best along with the other (four) seniors to keep the team together," he said. "All I've seen during our practices is hard work and I believe we will have a good season."

It was Giordano's second goal, a slap shot from about 25 feet away, which was the eventual game winner.

After CC carried a 4-1 lead into the third period, Stevenson struck quickly to get back into the game.

The Spartans' Scott Johnson ripped a shot from the blue line which traveled and deflected off several players and through CC goalie Jamie Ronayne. Mark Peterson recorded an assist.

One minute later, senior Doug Gulau fed junior Dino Gauci, who faked out Ronayne and scored on a backhand.

The Spartans tied the game at 4-4 with 4:50 remaining when senior Ryan Schmidt tipped in the puck off a scramble in front of the CC net.

"It was a great comeback and I couldn't ask for more," Stevenson coach Matt Mulcahy said. "We played two good periods of hockey. I was pleased with the way we played in the first and third periods."

Stevenson looked to take the lead on a rush down ice 30 seconds later, but after Frank Novock knocked the puck away from a Stevenson forward, junior Jon Heady fed Giordano, who wound up for the go-ahead goal.

Stevenson goalie Daryl Chamberlain stopped the puck with his glove, but the puck trickled behind him and into the net.

Novock added an empty-netter for the final score. Brian Ronayne drew the assist.

"It shocked me that they were able to come back, but I think we came back just as well," Giordano said.

The Spartans jumped out to a quick 1-0 lead when Schmidt one-timed it past Jamie Ronayne. Scott Worthen and Ryan Gusick drew assists.

The Shamrocks tied it up with the first of their two shorthanded goals. Novock stole the puck at the CC blue line and skated in on goal. Chamberlain made the first save but Novock scored on the rebound.

CC dominated the second period. Brian Ronayne stole a Stevenson pass at center ice and passed to Giordano. Chamberlain made an outstanding save on Giordano's first shot, but Giordano tipped in the rebound.

"I would've heard it (from the team) if I didn't score — thank God for the rebound," Giordano said.

Giordano's shot was wide, but Novock fed Craig Wasen from behind the goal. Wasen then scored into the wide open net to give CC a 3-1 lead.

Off the ensuing face-off, Justin Ronayne buried a 15-foot shot into the upper right corner of the Stevenson net. Assists went to Chris Gonzalez and Jason Bellinger.

"It looked like to me that we didn't know the second period was on," Mulcahy said. "We have a lot of new players and we will have to learn how to put three good periods of hockey together."

Gumbleton was happy with the way his team played, but of course, there is room for improvement.

"For our first game, we showed we had the ability to move the puck around," Gumbleton said. "But we have to learn to back down some. It's possible you can overhit. You have to hit at the right time."

"It's basically a brand new team. We're a young team, but we're well balanced." CC outshot the Spartans 37-29.

Crusaders fail to get volleyball invitation

As it turned out, Madonna University volleyball coach Jerry Abraham was right: The only sure way to make the NAIA National Tournament was to win your district tournament and not rely on at-large berths.

The Lady Crusaders lost in the NAIA District 23 Tournament final to Northwood University, leaving them hoping to land one of four at-large spots. Considering they were ranked 10th in the final NAIA poll, and that last year the team ranked 14th in the NAIA made it, they might have felt confident.

As it turned out, Madonna didn't really come close. Upsets reigned in the district and bi-district tournaments, which left Madonna and two teams ranked ahead of it out of the tournament.

One of the at-large berths went to Point Loma Nazarene, which will host the NAIA tournament in San Diego. Hawaii-Hilo, ranked sixth and a loser in the district tournament to top-ranked Brigham Young-Hawaii, landed another.

Two more went to teams upset in the bi-district round: Northwestern Iowa, ranked fourth, lost to unranked St. Francis College (Ill.), and Western Oregon, ranked second, fell to No. 14 Puget Sound (Wash.).

Top-10 teams left out, other than Madonna, were No. 5 Westmont (Calif.), which lost in the districts to No. 13 California Baptist, and No. 3 Indiana University-Purdue University-Indianapolis, which was beaten by No. 9 Georgetown (Ky.) University in the districts.

Northwood, which successfully completed its final season in the NAIA (the school is switching back to the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and the NCAA II next year), will be ranked third in the tournament, which starts Wednesday. The Northwomen finished third last year.

The Crusaders, meanwhile, will have to be satisfied with their 43-10 final record and post-season honors doled out to six players. Dana Finley earned district co-player of the year honors for the second-straight season; she was joined by Elena Oparka, Tonia Smith and Mazie Pilut on the district's first team.

Oparka, who played for two years at Schoolcraft College before joining Madonna, and Finley were also named to the 12-member all-region team, which consists of players from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky. Maureen Paulin and Melissa Mars were all-district second team selections.

fense for a 55-yard TD run with 5:36 left in the first half. (The Lumberjacks were stopped on the two-point try, but led 12-7).

The Shamrocks answered, however, going up 14-12 on a Jason Krueger 2-yard TD plunge, set up by Chris Barbara's 60-yard pass to Pankow.

Arthur Hill, however, was not done scoring in the first half, as Wright found Redeemer all alone over the middle for a 77-yard scoring toss with only 1:35 remaining. Wright then connected with tight end Sam Sword on the two-pointer to give the Lumberjacks a 20-14 advantage.

Arthur Hill picked up where it had left off in the first half, taking the second-half kickoff and marching 64 yards to the CC 10, only to turn it over on a fumble.

Wright, trying to turn upfield on a keeper, had the ball stripped out of his hands by CC nose guard Paul Nemzek.

The fumble recovery proved pivotal.

"I was plugging the gap and initially I didn't go for the ball," said Nemzek, a 6-foot, 235-pound senior lineman. "But it surprised me when he (Wright) was holding the ball in front of him. I just grabbed the ball and fell backwards with it. I think it gave a lift to everybody when we needed it."

The Shamrocks also gave themselves a boost when they stopped Arthur Hill inside their own 40 midway through the final period, as linebackers Joe Herman, Krueger and Tate Dobbs (nine tackles) came up with key plays.

"Our defense got better as we adjusted in the second half," Mach said. "Last week we faced the best passing quarterback (Tim Youngblood of Utica Eisenhower) and this week we ran into the best option quarterback (Wright).

"We really had to extend ourselves as much as possible."

"I was afraid we couldn't stop (the Lumberjacks), because they're such an explosive team," Mach said. "We were not going to sit back. I opened it up as much as I could. Fortunately, we hit on a couple plays and they went big for us. "On our cross-back plays, we ran our third-down plays on first and second down and that helped a lot. We went against some of our own tendencies. We had to go outside and do other things to put points on the board."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
Opposing energies are causing havoc in your life and it is time to take back control. There is an indication of illness that should be attended to quickly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Some financial burdens may be lightened, and you will have a feeling of freedom. A petty quarrel may lead to a serious disagreement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
It is time to leave the past behind and get on with life. There is a great deal of upheaval in your world and you must go with the flow.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)
There is great joy and happiness indicated in your very near future. You are on the path to having it all spiritually and materially.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Put your emotions aside when making important decisions. Don't let tension and pressure build between you and someone close.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
You may be embroiled in conflict without really knowing how it happened. This is not a good time to take risks.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
You are a worthy person with much to offer, and you should help those less fortunate than yourself. Trust your feelings and intuition.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
You may be directing your energies the wrong way. It is possible someone close to you is afraid to ask for help concerning a specific situation.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
This is a great time to learn a new skill or profession. You are on the right track. Take the first step toward clearing up misconceptions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
There is a happy conclusion to a situation that has caused you stress. A close friend or family member needs some encouragement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
Don't be afraid to venture beyond your accustomed limits, but don't use bad judgment when doing so. Learn from the past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)
A woman you trust may offer advice you should heed. Your stubborn attitude regarding a certain situation could cause problems later on.

STAR NOTES

Liza Minnelli: She'd make it anywhere

By Steven Alan McGaw

Liza Minnelli says she inherited her drive from her mother, Judy Garland, and her dreams from her father, Oscar-winning director Vincente Minnelli.

Both legacies have served the talented star well. After leaving home at age 16, Minnelli soon had a role in an off-Broadway show and won a Tony a year later for starring in Flora, The Red Menace. She broke house records in her nightclub debut at Washington, D.C.'s Shoreham Hotel and quickly found herself performing on television and in concert and nightclub bookings around the world.

Minnelli made her film debut in 1968's Charlie Bubbles and drew praise for her sensitive portrayals in The Sterile Cuckoo and Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon. In 1972, she won the Best Actress Oscar for her work in Cabaret and picked up an Emmy for Liza With a Z.

'Dead Ahead' a powerful indictment

HBO chronicles Exxon Valdez oil spill

By Steven Alan McGaw
Moments after midnight on Friday, March 24, 1989, Exxon's oil tanker, The Valdez, ran aground on a reef in Alaska's Prince William Sound. The accident ruptured several of the ship's storage tanks and eventually spilled 11 million gallons of oil into the sea. Over 1,000 miles of previously pristine shoreline were affected and the impact on the area's wildlife was colossal, killing nearly 400,000 birds and thousands of fish and land animals. The most conservative scientific estimates say the true toll of the event will not be sufficiently appreciated until well into the next century.

On Saturday, Dec. 12, HBO unveils Dead Ahead: The Exxon Valdez Disaster, a dramatic chronicle of the event and its aftermath.

Christopher Lloyd stars as Frank Iarossi, an Exxon executive in charge of shipping. Within hours after the Valdez accident, Iarossi is awakened in his Houston home and dispatched to Alaska to ensure the safe containment of the tanker's remaining oil and oversee Exxon's role in the massive cleanup. What follows, however, is day after day of finger-pointing, name-calling and argument, as Exxon, the Alyeska pipeline consortium, various environmentalist groups and even the Coast Guard squabble over who's to blame, who should do what and whose head(s) should roll.

Dead Ahead producer Leslie Woodhead says the real problem became shockingly clear as he and his staff did their 18 months of research. "What was going on," he says, "was an attempt on all parts to clean up their own image, rather than clean up the oil spill." The result, he charges, was a "devastating inertia" in mobilizing cleanup efforts, making the disaster far worse than it had to be.

John Heard co-stars as environmentalist Dan Lawn and David Morse plays outraged fisherman Rick Steiner. Rip Torn appears briefly as Adm. Paul Yost.

Each of the film's principals, as well as the supporting players and many extras, contributes to the film's urgency. Director Paul Seed keeps the story moving swiftly and makes effective use of archival footage of the actual event.

TIME OUT

CBS warms to winter sports

By Michael Scogin

Even though it seems the Winter Olympics ended just a few months ago, the 1994 Olympic Winter Games from Lillehammer, Norway, are fast approaching. To maintain the excitement of winter sports in this off year, CBS presents its Olympic Winterfest: Countdown to Lillehammer, a five-month series continuing Saturday, Nov. 28, with the third of eight programs showcasing the top winter athletes in the key competitions leading up to the 1994 Games.

This week's installment features coverage of the Chrysler Concorde Pro-Am Figure Skating Challenge from Hershey Park, Pa., and will include many of the sport's top athletes. Verne Lundquist, Scott Hamilton, Tracy Wilson and Andrea Joyce will be on hand for analysis and commentary.

Also this week, Tim Ryan provides highlights and analysis of the men's World Cup slalom from Sestriere, Italy.

Olympic Winterfest continues on Saturday, Jan. 23, with a report from the World Cup freestyle skiing event at Lake Placid, N.Y., and ladies World Cup speed skating from Davos, Switzerland.

The Saturday, Feb. 13, program takes a look back at the athletes of the 1992 Olympic Winter Games and a look ahead to where they might be in '94.

The final installment, on Sunday, March 21, originates from Lillehammer and will feature skiing and ski jumping from the 1994 Olympic venues.

SOAP TALK

Chappell works hard, plays hard

By Candace Havens

Few people know that Crystal Chappell began her career in daytime television as a dayplayer on All My Children. She then had a short stint — one week — on Santa Barbara, where the pace and the heavy dialogue she had to learn left her exhausted, and she decided she would "never do a soap again." Little did she know that a month later she would be offered the role of Dr. Carly Manning on NBC's Days of Our Lives and the opportunity of a lifetime.

Sixty-hour weeks are uncommon in daytime television, but not for Chappell, who originated the role of Dr. Carly Manning two years ago and quickly became one of the most popular characters in daytime.

"Days works me a lot, and I am grateful on the one hand, but on the other I worry," says Chappell. "I used to be a soap watcher and I don't like seeing the same character all the time. People on the set of Days sometimes joked that it was 'The Carly Manning Show' and I have to agree with them, but I don't approve of it. Fortunately Days is balancing the stories a little more so that I'm not always on the air."

With her slightly lightened workload, Chappell has time to pursue other interests and talks cheerfully about her plans to learn to cook and play the piano. "I love to travel and have a real itch for big adventures and trying new things. I want to go white-water rafting and skydiving. I'll be doing a lot of crazy things in the future."

Chappell shares her adventures with the popular actor Michael Sabatino, who plays Lawrence Alamain on Days. The couple's on-screen counterparts recently discovered they share a son, which means they will be working together more.

Chappell doesn't think that all the togetherness is a problem. "We have a wonderful relationship and it is great to have the opportunity to work together," she says. "Chances are in this business we are not going to have this opportunity again, so we are making the most of it now."

LET'S TALK

Woody a Texas export;
'Li'l' bit different

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I'm very interested in knowing a little about Woody Harrelson from Cheers and White Men Can't Jump. Is he really from Indiana? If so, is he from Hanover, like in Cheers? What are my chances of meeting him here in Indiana? Is there an address where I can write him? —Stacey Feazel, Peru, Ind.

A: Harrelson was born in Midland, Texas, but he was raised in Ohio, where he got his first taste of acting in a Lebanon High School drama class.

He then attended Hanover College in Indiana, where he appeared in more than two dozen stage productions before receiving a bachelor of arts degree and moving to New York. (It's surely no coincidence that his character hails from Hanover.)

The actor frequently tours with his band, Manly Moondog and the Three Kool Kats (they appeared on the ABC's In Concert: Halloween Jam at Universal Studios special), and other than in a surprise speaking engagement at his alma mater, this is probably the best way to catch him in person. You may write Harrelson in care of Creative Artists Agency, 9830 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212. Perhaps an inquiry as to his band's future play dates will reveal a location near you.

Q: I am a big fan of Shirley MacLaine. She is such a fine and diversified actress. I had a great time with my mother at her recent performance with Frank Sinatra at Radio City Music Hall. Could you please tell me where I can write to her? —Jessica Rith, Queens, New York.

A: It's true, the Metaphysical One (born Shirley MacLean Beatty — Warren's sis) is 58 and still shaking a leg with the best of them. You may write her in care of ICM, 8899 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif., 90048.

Q: There used to be a show on television called Hardball. The characters' names were Charlie Battles and "Kaz." Can you please tell me what Kaz's full character name was? —Dana L. Gelfo, Mokena, Ill.

A: Richard Tyson played young, motorcycle-straddling cop Joe "Kaz" Kaczierowski to John Ashton's older Battles. The show first ran in the fall of 1989 and was "retooled" for another run in the summer of 1990, but it was canceled immediately afterward.

Woody Harrelson

Q: I've been a fan of actor Powers Boothe for years. Would you be so kind as to tell me a little more about him and if CBS is going to show his movie Family of Spies again? —Richard Candler, High Point, N.C.

A: Boothe was born in 1949 in Snyder, Texas, and won a 1980 Emmy Award for his performance in Guyana Tragedy: The Story of Jim Jones. Boothe's other films include Emerald Forest, By Dawn's Early Light, A Breed Apart, A Cry for Love, The Plutonium Incident, Southern Comfort, Into the Homeland, Southern Double Cross and Extreme Prejudice. The two-part miniseries Family of Spies, The Walker Spy Ring, co-starring Lesley Ann Warren, could reappear on an independent TV station or perhaps on a network like USA. CBS has not announced any plans to rebroadcast it at this date. Keep an eye on your local listings.

Q: When I was younger I saw a movie called Little Abner. It was full of life, fun and music. I have been looking for it since that time and would now love for my kids to see it. Is it on video? —Diane Welty, Ingram, Texas.

A: Both the 1940 dramatic comedy and the 1959 musical comedy based on Al Capp's Dogpatch comic-strip characters are available on videotape, but only under the vernacular spelling of Li'l Abner. The slight difference in spelling may have thrown you off the trail at your video store.

Mouseketeers discuss racism in Dec. 3 special

By Suzanne Gill

In its first four seasons, The Disney Channel's new Mickey Mouse Club has generated more than a quarter million fan letters from its 5 million subscribing households.

This season's shows feature 19 hip and well-scrubbed Mouseketeers between the ages of 13 and 17, plus hosts Fred Newman and Terri Misner. The series' most popular entertainment features are Guest Day and Music Day, but kids also appreciate the What I Want to Be and Hall of Fame Day segments, which focus on career goals and recognition for outstanding achievements by kids and teens, respectively.

The series' 200th episode, debuting Thursday, Dec. 3, in prime time, combines several of those audience favorites for a program on racism featuring the Rev. Jesse Jackson as special guest. During the show, kids who have been involved in improving relations between the races are honored with induction to the Mickey Mouse Club Hall of Fame, musical guests Tracey Spencer and Tevin Campbell perform and the Mouseketeers sing Michael Jackson's "Black and White." There's also time to talk about the integrated cast's personal experiences with racism and evaluate the options available to this generation for changing the world in which they live.

Eight days of Bond, Beatles this week

By Dan Rice

Meet the forgotten Bond on Sunday, Nov. 29, when TBS airs the kinescope of the 1954 live TV production of Ian Fleming's Casino Royale, starring Barry Nelson as the American Jimmy Bond. The rarity leads into TBS' 30 Years of James Bond festival, an airing of the first 13 Bond films, beginning with 1962's Dr. No on Monday, Nov. 30, and ending with Octopussy on Sunday, Dec. 6.

All you need is love, but a free week of The Disney Channel couldn't hurt. The highlight of Disney's holiday preview from Sunday, Nov. 29, to Sunday, Dec. 6, is their "Eight Days a Week" Beatles Festival, offering nightly Beatles' movies and specials including Magical Mystery Tour on Wednesday, Dec. 2.

Comedy, comedy, comedy Tuesday, Dec. 1, is a night for laughs on Lifetime with Girls Night Out, Cathy Ladman and Jeff Casario, followed by Six Comics in Search of a Generation, featuring Ellen DeGeneres. Saturday, Dec. 5, on Showtime, Carol Letter Gaudy, Bawdy & Blue has the comedian performing as "Rusty Bertram," a 1950s burlesque queen.

Hoofers extraordinaire Harold and Fayard Nicholas began as child stars at Harlem's Cotton Club and danced their way to a Lifetime Achievement Award in the Kennedy Center Honors. On Sunday, A&E's Rave celebrates their 60-year career with The Nicholas Brothers: We Sing & We Dance.

Patty Duke plays the mother of a murdered teenager in Friends to the End, Tuesday on CBS.

BITS AND PIECES

Roger Moore becomes TV's 'Man Who Wouldn't Die'

Former 007 Roger Moore stars in the upcoming ABC telefilm The Man Who Wouldn't Die, now in production. Moore plays Thomas Grace, a crime novelist-turned-hack reporter whose last book makes headlines when the real-life criminal (Malcolm McDowell) on whom it was based begins to copy its plot. Nancy Allen co-stars as a psychic who predicts the killer's murders.

The movie marks the first TV project in 16 years for Moore.

Brandon Tartikoff recently announced that he would probably return to his "first love, first language" — television, following the New Orleans sabbatical he will take. As reported in Daily Variety, Tartikoff, the former president of entertainment for NBC, says he resigned from Paramount Pictures Oct. 29 to spend more time with his daughter, who was injured two years ago in an automobile accident.

Another reunion? You bet your sweet bippy. Laugh-In's 25th Anniversary Special is set to air on NBC in February. George Schlatter, creator of Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In, will produce, write and direct the special, which features vintage clips and appearances by original cast members.

Where's Ross? Firing Line host William F. Buckley is sponsoring another of his prime-time debates, this one on Monday, Dec. 14, to discuss the $4 trillion question of the national debt. Buckley will head up a team arguing for making deficit-reduction a top priority in the next four years, while best-selling author/economist Lester Thurow and three panelists will play devil's advocate. Buckley has picked two of his three team members, but needs to make one more choice. Perhaps he'd consider naming H. Ross Perot — the man who made the national debt an election-year issue — to the remaining seat.

Weeknights on NBC, Branford Marsalis and host Jay Leno welcome guests to The Tonight Show.

On Saturday, Bravo offers a profile of the controversial conductor in Toscanini: The Maestro.
