Well-a-bless-a-my soul - they're linin' up for Elvis.

Awww, pass that fried 'nana sandwich, Priscilla.

True, the real Elvis Presley has passed on. But his stamp - the first issued by the U.S. Postal Service bearing Elvis' likeness - made its appearance at noon Friday at the Penniman post office and at post offices around the country.

About 25 people waited in line as clerks began issuing the stamp.

Among them were Chris Galli of Plymouth and daughter Sarah, 4. "I'm buying them for her," Galli explained.

'What's that song? 'Wise men say. . .' When the record would stop she'd cry and you'd have to put it back on," Galli explained, adding he planned to buy four sheets of the

Helen Street, who has knitted an Elvis quilt for her son Bill Gerth, also waited in line. "Oh, I'll get a block of stamps," Street said, adding she was picking them up for her son, who was at work.

Postmaster John Mulligan said about 50,000 Elvis stamps were available for sale at both Plymouth post Mulligan said the postal service had scheduled Elvis impersonators to appear at some post offices, including Redford and Westland.

Plymouth didn't get such a visit. "I wish I could have done more with it," Mulligan said.

Several black and white shots of Presley were displayed around the Penniman post office, brought in by one of the postal clerks. Customers were allowed to buy as many Elvis stamps as they wanted.

Mulligan said the postal service expected to sell "a couple million" Elvis stamps in the next few days.

Gym not moving into former store site

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

Hold on. If you've heard the rumors, they're not true. World Gym isn't moving from Canton Township to the vacant Farmer Jack store on Main Street in Plymouth.

"I can assure you if, and when, we move it won't be that building," said owner Todd Renzi. "We looked at it.

The whole extent of it was we drove by it."

When the Observer pumped Renzi for information Friday, he admitted that indeed World Gym needs room to expand. And it's unlikely that will happen in their current building on Lilley Road.

The World Gym's current 10,500 square feet needs doubling to accommodate the growing number of clients. But there doesn't appear to be a rush to move. "A lot will depend on where we look into a place," Renzi

Apparently rumors also flourished about the fitness center moving to the old Stroh warehouse next to the Plymouth Township municipal building on Ann Arbor Road.

Where do these rumors come from?" asked Renzi, who said he wants to keep World Gym in the Plymouth-Canton area.

The Farmer Jack building has been vacant since the store closed Dec. 3, 1988. It is leased to Borman Inc.. owners of the former Farmer Jack grocery chain, now owned by A&P Co.

Farmer Jack leases the 16,855square-foot building from owners Stanley Dickson Jr. and Thomas Po-

Second attack?: Police say it's possible that the man who tried to assault a Plymouth Township woman Dec. 30 in the area of Schoolcraft and Haggerty roads could be the same man responsible for the abduction and rape of a 16-year-old girl Dec. 9 along Ann Arbor Trail just west of I-275. This composite drawing depicts the man sought in the second incident. Plymouth Township police say composites of both attackers show a possible resemblance. In the second incident, a man knocked at a woman's apartment door and asked if she had jumper cables. After she opened the door, the knife-holding suspect tried to get inside, but was scared away by the woman's boyfriend. Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry urges women to be vigilant when answering their doors.

and November, and would continue reviewing the charges this month.

The charges have followed the switch-over of the prison, at Five Mile and Beck roads, from an allmale to all-female prison. The pročess begun nearly two years ago was completed in May.

State Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, serves on the Senate committee that reviews charges made by prisoners.

"What we've been doing is requesting information," said Geake, a member of the Family Law, Criminal Law and Corrections Committee.

At both the Scott Correctional Facility and the Florence Crane women's prison in Coldwater. "For some time there have been allegations by women prisoners that they've been allegedly harassed or raped by male guards,"

While some tend to question the credibility of allegations made by prison inmates, Geake said, "Every time that kind of allegation is made it is investigated.' The investigations can result in criminal charges. But often, a guard will be transferred. "One issue for our committee is whether it's appropriate for male guards to supervise women," Geake said, as the women use the toilet or take showers.

'The problem from a civil rights standpoint is that women guards are to have full access to male facilities," he said, so male and female guards can have equal employment opportunity in the prison system.

'There's no doubt in my mind we'll continue to proceed to investigate this," Geake said.

It was during a checkup at the doctor a couple of days before New Year's Day, when the doctor said, "It was ready to go at any time," Hurley recalled.

For Christmas, relatives had already given the new baby presents including the over-sized book "Peter Rabbit Tales" and a stuffed bunny, which helped keep Ally company in her crib on Thursday afternoon.

Give me five Students eat healthy

Word has reached Bird Elementary that the "Give Me Five" program is coming soon to their cafeteria.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are among 57 school districts chosen from Michigan's 565 districts to be awarded with a Nutrition Education and Training grant by the State Board of Education.

"Give Me Five" is a slogan conceived by a district committee that will launch a program aimed at Plymouth-Canton first-graders. The idea is to encourage students to eat five servings each day of fruits and vegetables, said Verna Lee Hill, food service director for Plymouth-Canton schools.

The "Give Me Five" or "Five a Day the Healthy Way" goal fits in with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's new Food Guide Pyramid. The pyramid is a guide to daily food choices that recommends Americans eat a minimum of two fruits and three vegetables per day.

"I think it's a good idea, 'cause they're (fruits and vegetables) good to eat. I like 'em a lot," said Bird first-grader Michael Gurny, 7.

The program will be kicked off in March, national nutrition month. There'll be a special week for first-graders, commemorated with posters and stickers, and more fruit and vegetable choices in school cafeterias, Hill said.

"I always have fruit every time in my lunch box," said Katie Anthony, 6, eating a banana in the Bird cafeteria. "I really like fruit more than junk food."

Sharon Vinson, 6, was munching on carrot sticks, and "kind of happy" her mom packed them instead of peaches. "Last time, the peaches spilled all over my lunch box," she said.

Hill will kick off the program with the help of first-grade teachers and food service staff who will augment Hill's work with classroom instruction on the virtues of a healthy diet.

"The goal is to have students receive 30 percent or less calories from fat in their diet," said Hill, who is employed by the Marriott Corporation and whose salary is reimbursed by the school district.

"The number-one concern is fat, because it causes heart disease and hardening of the arteries. People are dying from eating too much fat.

Cutting down on sodium and on sugar because it causes tooth decay are additional goals, as is stressing exercise, Hill said.

Carol Breed and Aileen Wise are teachers who've volunteered to help implement the courage them to make wise menu choices. "Cafeteria managers really can become good pals with students, and they can have a lasting influence as they go through the grades," said Breed.

"I'm optimistic it will go over well. I think we'll have a. lot of fun with it.'

Said Wise: "Our goal is to get the attention of younger children and help them form better eating habits." Students' shouldn't be surprised if they see cooks wearing fruit-laden-Carmen Miranda hats and hear their teachers singing "Our Body Needs Good Food" to the tune of "The Farmer in the Dell," added Wise.

"We're hoping this will filter up to the older kids, and I think it will happen. We've managed to ban cigarette advertising, why not ban junk food too?" she asked.

Six-year-old Rachel Craven probably wouldn't mind. "I Breed said food service worklike fruits, because they taste real juicy," she said. ers will be making an effort to get to know students and en-

Said mother Terry Plawecki: "From the time (Michelle) was little she watched 'The Wizard of Oz.' She kind of associates that with being with the family."

A member of the International Wizard of Oz Fan Club, Plawecki collects Wizard memorabilia. She even has an old copy of the sheet music for "Over the Rainbow."

"We're going to have to build a room on the house here for all of this Oz stuff," her mother said.

This month Plawecki travels to another sort of Land of Oz as she takes over for Kevin Kelley on the county board.

Unlike Kelley, however, who was one of Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara's allies n the commission, Plawecki promises to be her own woman. My independence is very important to me," she said. "I'm going to take my independence down'My independence is very important to me. I'm going to take my independence downtown.'

Michelle Plawecki new commissioner

Mother disagrees

Although some might consider the 25-year-old Plawecki a soft touch based on her youth, mother Terry disagrees. "She's not as naive as perhaps her years would indicate," she said. "Anyone who takes her lightly is making a mis-

Born Michelle Vejcik in Abeline, Texas on Jan. 14, 1967, Plawecki moved to Paw Paw, Mich., with her mother in 1971. An only child, Plawecki later lived in Mattawan, Mich., and moved to Dearborn Heights in

In 1983 Terry married former four-term Wayne County commissioner Edward Plawecki (now a district court judge), who unofficially adopted Michelle. She officially changed her surname to Plawecki shortly after turning 18 in 1985. "She did it out of love for her stepfather," her mother said.

Even though she turns 26 this month, Plawecki is the youngest of 15 county commissioners. The $41,000-a-year job, complete with insurance and $65,000 minimum annual office budget, pays far more than Plawecki has ever earned before.

Where's the bathroom?

Her first job was behind the counter in the Greenfield Village bakery, selling rolls and whatnot to customers. "It was a fun job," she said. "We worked hard (but) we didn't get paid very well."

The job was not without its lessons, however. "I learned very young how to be patient,' Plawecki said. "You have 56 people standing in line asking, Where's the bathroom?'

Plawecki graduated from Mercy High School in 1984 and went on to the University of Michigan-Dearborn, where she earned a bachelor's degree in political science and psychology. Earlier this year she finished her master's degree in public administration.

Helen Graves was one of Plawecki's favorite teachers at U-M. Graves attributed her former student's election victory to the resurgent women's movement and the power of the Plawecki name, well known in Dearborn Heights.

"(Michelle) was certainly one of my favorite students," Graves said. "She was really ready for some of the things I do (in class)."

Until last month Plawecki was a court screener with Southwest Detroit Community Mental Health, a job that paid just

Animal lover

Yet despite the starvation wages, the unabashed animal lover still found it in her heart to take pity on stray dogs and cats whenever they happened to cross her path.

Plawecki has stopped her car several times to aid strays, checking out the animal's tag, calling the pound, getting the owner's address and returning the pet. "Lost animals have a way of finding me," she said. "They even come to my house.'

Indeed, for the last three years a squadron of ducks have annually come to roost in the Plawecki swimming pool. "That's how we know it's spring," Terry said.
"They figure it's a free meal for sure.

Among Plawecki's other interests are wind-surfing, golf, softball and horses.

She owns a former race horse called Pee Wee who is kept out in -11 little girls I grew up loving horses," she said. 'It's enjoyable to be around horses. They kind of take all your attention. It's a nice break.

Although she's still living with her parents, Plawecki hopes to save enough money to buy a house, which shouldn't be too difficult, because mother Terry is a Realtor.

But her first priority, once those paychecks start coming, is more immediate. "(I'll) probably try to pay off my Christmas bills,"

These instructions avoid a possible effect of aspirin: interference with the blood's ability to clot. If you

ASA on a regular basis, you run the risk of bleeding at the time of surgery. You know this feature as aspirin's ability to: "thin the blood."

This effect is well appreciated by individuals who have hemophilia; these people cannot use any aspirin. ASA is precluded if you take medicine to stop blood clots to the lung or because you have an artificial heart valve and must prevent clots from forming on the replacement.

Other arthritis medications act like aspirin. Even though they usually do not decrease blood clotting to the extent that aspirin can, you may be advised to stop any such drug before surgery.

Going that far may not be necessary today. The pharmaceutical industry has compounded arthritis drugs containing salicylate, the most active constituent of aspirin; these alternatives do not interfere with blood

Seles reversals? New Program Gets 87% Success

LIVONIA-In a recent clinical study, Dr. Jacobi, optometrist, (teachers and psychologists) have shown that over 87 percent of children with significant reversals can be "cured" within 10 weeks. Confusing "b" and "d" or "was" and "saw" are often symptoms associated with reading difficulties of dyslexia. Most children quickly learn how to differentiate a "b" from a "d", but some don't. This is due to more basic underlying disorders and factors.

For years there has been disagreement as to the cause, and many theories have developed, including: the child sees backwards, the brain's dominant side is overpowering, the child relates to the hand he or she writes with, the child is hyperactive, or the child has discrimination problems. However, studies have shown that none of these are adequate explanations.

Current research indicates the major causes are: poor visual memory (the ability to recall a visual image), visualization (the ability to create a mental image), and visual association (the ability to link what you see with something you saw, heard, felt, in the

For example, if you're asked to look up, you look up. But if asked to look to the right, you're likely to first think about the hand you use for writing.

"Up" can be linked with the head or the sky and "down" with a foot or gravity. But because both sides of our body are so identical, the links aren't as strong. Therefore, there is a confusion about right and left.

Improve the association, visualization, and recall skills and you'll eliminate the reversals.

"Parents are often told that the child will outgrow the problem. And this is true..but misleading," says Dr. Jacobi. "Continued exposure to letters and numbers will reduce reversals, but if the underlying causes are left untreated, learning will still be retarded and school performance will suffer."

The treatment program is available in over 100 locations across the country, and it is very intense.

The aim is to identify and correct the core disorder, because much of what we learn depends upon a well-functioning visual

Dr. Jacobi indicates that a problem with reversals is only one of a number of symptoms of poor visual processing skills that severely affect learning. Others include:

> Working slow Poor comprehension Skipping lines Poor memory Poor attention span Sloppy writing Careless errors Using excessive energy

Suburban Optometrics provides a free screening and consultation to determine if any of these behaviors are due to visual processing disorder. Therapy, if required, is covered by most major medical policies. To schedule your child (ages six to 16) for the free screening call 525-8170.

Local woman battles against women in combat

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

A deeply divided federal commission favors some use of women in combat.

Dissenting on the 10-5 vote was Elaine Donnelly, Livonia writer and conservative Republican ac-

"President Bush said nothing. I hoped he would say 'women have been historically exempt (from combat), and I wish to leave it that way.' He didn't say any-thing," Donnelly said in an inter-

"(President-elect) Clinton is for ERA (equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution). Women in combat is part of that. He has telegraphed his intentions on the homosexual issue; he has embraced equal opportunity as a primary value.

As conservatives see it, the majority ignored a basic military consideration - "what is best for the unit and the military as a whole" - in advocating equal opportunity for some individual women in combat.

"The proponents of assigning women to combat have not made their case," Donnelly's group said. "The commission heard no compelling evidence that the military needs women to fight its wars. Demographically, the military does not face a manpower shortage that would demand a radical change in settled American law, policy and custom.'

Gulf War product

The Persian Gulf war of 1990-1 gave birth to the Presidential Commission on the Assignment of Women in the Armed Forces.

Of 500,00 military personnel sent to Arabia and Iraq, 40,000 were women, of whom 13 were killed and two taken captive. (Donnelly said she received mail berating her for asking witnesses about sexual abuse of female pris-- as if it were a taboo sub-

The commission was a byproduct of Congress' 1991 Defense Authorization Act. That act repealed prohibitions on female Naval aviation and Air Force officers in combat.

U.S. law still prohibits (1) use of women in ground combat and (2) Naval and Marine Corps use of women on combat vessels (except hospital ships).

Although the topic was hotly debated in 1991, media interest waned. By the time the final report was released last Nov. 15, newsmagazines and national newspapers virtually ignored it.

Donnelly, 46, campaigned for the commission and a place on it. Her interest goes back to the pre-1980 days when she fought ERA. "At first I thought it meant equal pay for equal work. Then I talked to (then U.S. Rep.) Martha Griffiths, who said it meant the draft. I had young daughters," she recalled.

"It's consistent with the feminist philosophy," Donnelly said of the people wanting women in combat. "They say there is no difference between women and men. You can't prove that except in

"I'm supportive of women in the military. Their performances have been outstanding." But not in combat.

Neither Elaine nor husband Terry Donnelly has been in the military, but Elaine made herself a recognized expert. She testified in congressional hearings against women in combat and served in 1984-6 on the Pentagon's Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services.

Her articles have appeared in such conservative magazines as National Review and Human Events as well as metropolitan daily papers. Her candidacy was endorsed by Gov. John Engler, then-U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, and the National Federation of Republican Women.

Three-way split
Donnelly said she attended every meeting, read all the tons of material, undergoing a flight in a combat jet, and even taking a dose of prisoner-of-war training.

The commission was chaired retired Air Force Gen. Robert T. Herres and included nine military and six civilian persons. Best known personality was Newton Minow, the Federal Communications Commission chair in the 1960s famed for calling television "a vast wasteland."

There were 10 men and five women. Three of the five women were among the dissenters.

There were clear battle lines. Two of the pro-combat members accused the dissenters of having "a pre-determined agenda" and a conservative bias.

Donnelly's rebuttal: The chair wouldn't even allow a discussion of a clear statement on women in combat; another member had a daughter who wanted to advance her career; others wouldn't listen to arguments about women's physical limitations.

way split. One group wanted women in combat. Donnelly's dissenters didn't. A swing group bounced back and forth, depending on the the specific issue.

Others' views

A seven-member minority bashed the recommendation that women not serve in air combat as patornizing and antiquated . . We found no evidence . . . that these physical differences affect performance in the cockpits of combat aircraft, just as they now do not affect performance in support aircraft.

Donnelly cited testimony, however, that flying combat aircraft and flying them in combat were two different things. On tour of Nellis Air Force Base, she snapped up a general's invitation to ride in an F-15 Eagle. "The pilot took me through loops, rolls and other acrobatics, and it was easy for me to understand why combat aviation has such a strong appeal for many men and some

"The first hard turn - registering 7.8 Gz (forces of gravity) pinned me to the canopy without the strength to move," she wrote.

The pro-combat members devoted little space to the rigors of prisoner of war status.

Death of men's movement kills money scheme recent magazine story has announced that the men's movement is dead. Funny, there was no obituary notice. But then again, journalists are always declaring that some movement was just born or has

When you're a man of the '90s -1890s - like me, such births and deaths are of little interest.

But the death of the men's movement was another matter. No, I had no desire to run around half naked in the woods trying to get in touch with my male anchestors. Being a seventh generation red neck, I know what these guys would have had to say, if I had made psychic contact.

"Boy, y'all is about the sorriest mess I've ever did see. Why don't you put your clothes back on and head to the nearest road house and order yourself a couple of bourbons. And after that, if self and howl at the moon, or go coon hunting.'

It's pretty sage advice and it sounds like other guys heard the same voices. Drinking and killing something have been around a lot longer than Freud.

It's too bad my fellow males got traditional on me just when I came up with the best money making scheme of my life. Newspaper people rarely have ideas on how to make money.

But two co-workers and I hatched an idea based on the trend to go into the woods and beat on drums.

Our idea was to charge $500 for a Hemingway weekend in the Upper Peninsula. For that price, we'd even allow guys to leave their clothes on.

Most of us have read "The Big Two Hearted River." In it, Nick Adams takes a train to Seney, walks for a cou-

Our plan was to charge guys to fish the river Hemingway really fished, the Fox. I was to serve as fishing guide and bartender. If the money was good enough, I'd even beat on a drum. And if the money was really good, I could probably even muster up a tear or two.

One co-worker, a musician, was going to come up with some sort of blues tune, something like, 'Hellhound Feminists on my Trail."

The other co-worker, with connections to the counseling world, was

The plan fell apart when we couldn't come up with the half-baked shrink. It stunned me. I always thought there were plenty of those kind of guys around. They're always on TV. Maybe they've sold their souls to Phil Donahue.

The trouble is I'm stuck with support Clarence Thomas T-shirts and Hillary Clinton dart boards.

Oh well, maybe if I save them long

This won't be easy because a lot of the jobs have already been shipped to Mexico, Brazil, Taiwan, Singapore, Korea and Hong Kong. And many of the corrent "American" employers are really Japanese, and they won't hire George Bush because they fear he'll vemit all over his work after the obligatory lunch of sushi and blowfish.

First of all, it's already been discussed (seriously, folks) that Bush should be the next commissioner of baseball. That might sound like a nice job for him, but after dealing with 435 bandits and thieves for the last four years, I doubt that Bush wants to take

But Bush likes baseball, so maybe Tigers owner Mike Illich would hire him to replace Sparky Anderson as manager.

Here he is talking to the press: 'Shouldn't a played the outfield in. Knew it. My fault. Ball hit hard. Way back. Tram backin' up. Too slow. Couldn't get it. Off wall. Triple. Three runs in. Bad. BAD."

Or maybe Bush could turn to acting. I hear they're making another sequel to Psycho, and since Anthony Perkins has died, Bush would be perfect as Norman Bates.

relentless special prosecutor obsessed with his capture. But wait a minute. That's a true story.

Perhaps Bush could play the title role in The Herbert Hoover Story. I know he'd portray Hoover with a great deal of sympathy, considering how their experiences have been so similar. Hoover's presidency led to the Great Depression. Bush's presidency left us with Bill Clinton.

However, that might be starting too big. Perhaps Bush should settle for something a little easier to get.

How about used-car salesman? We already know he can sell a bill of goods. sell out and sell down the river as well as anyone. And he could put his foot down when a buyer starts making demands. "Read my lips," he'd snarl. "No new tires."

Failing that career, Bush might try the profession of product spokesman. When a mere athlete like Michael Jordan can "earn" millions shilling for shoes, Bush can certainly make a buck selling a product like, say, tax shelters. "No new taxes," he'd say. "Really."

But my favorite job for Bush would send him back to the Navy. They could get his old World War II Grumman Avenger torpedo bomber out of a museum somewhere and send Bush on a mission to Iraq.

Then he could finish the job he started in the Gulf War. "I know yer down there, Saddam. Gotta come out sometime. Gonna keep circlin' and circlin'. Gotta package for ya in the back here. Big black round thing. Special delivery. Thrill ya to pieces.

SHOULD GAYS BE ALLOWED TO SERVE IN THE MILITARY?

HELP US TO INFORM PRESIDENT ELECT CLINTON OF WHAT, "WE THE PEOPLE"

THINK THE ANSWER SHOULD BE.

Many questions have been raised on the issue of whether or not gays should be allowed into our military. Questions we the people have asked, and questions we the people deserve answers to!

Is there a credible basis for continuing the ban on homosexuals in the military? President Elect Clinton wants to drop the ban.

If the ban is dropped, should gays then be allowed to serve in combat? Can it then be proven that homosexuality would have a detrimental effect on the cohesion and or the morale of a combat

No matter what a persons sexual preference may be, should all loyal patriotic American citizens who are physically and mentally able, be allowed to serve in the military?

These are just a few questions that have been raised. In order to send our answers to President Elect Clinton, before the decision is made for us, we need your help to let the President Elect know what WE THE PEOPLE are thinking.

By calling the YES or NO line your voice will be heard. The results of our independent poles will be forwarded to the committee in charge of this issue and the White House.

SC interviews stress college funding

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College trustees quizing the applicants for two va-cant board seats last Wednesday seemed mainly concerned with the job seekers' views on college funding.

Trustee Patricia Watson asked all five applicants where they would get additional money for the college. Trustee Steve Ragan wanted to know how familiar the applicants were with the college's funding sources.

The applicants were Carole Goodfellow of Livonia, Elizabeth Johnson of Plymouth, Bruce Patterson of Canton, Donald Smith of Plymouth and Arthur Rockall of Northville. There are 11 other applicants left to be interviewed. Those interviews are set for Wednesdays, Jan. 13 and

The vacancies occurred when former trustee Thaddeus McCotter was elected to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and Jeanne Stempien was elected to the Wayne County Circuit Court. The board hopes to name the two lucky winners on Jan. 20. Then the appointees, plus Watson (who was appointed in 1991) will run in a special election next June. Patterson, 45, had a smile and handshake for everyone at the board table.

Don't raise tuition

Patterson is the director of planned giving at Eastern Michigan University and past president of McCabe, Middleton & Patterson, a Southfield law firm. He ran for election to the Schoolcraft board in 1991 and lost, then applied for the appointment that Watson got.

On raising money, Patterson told the trustees that tuition is probably as high as it should go right now. The best way for the college to get more money now, he said, is to solicit it.

"When it gets down and dirty we're going to have to look at pub-lic fund-raising," he said, adding that he has "a good solid back-ground in professional fund-raising."

Conversely, Smith, 49, told the trustees that they could raise money for Schoolcraft by making deals with private companies to train employees. A Ford executive and retired Navy Reserve captain, Smith is working on a doctorate in education at Wayne State Uni-

In his application letter, Smith said that "there is a strong need for people from business and industry to become more involved with American education . . . and I feel that my knowledge and experience can be of most use at the community college level."

Regarding fund-raising, Smith told trustees Wednesday that "if necessary, tuition can be raised

Smith was also asked how he might publicize Schoolcraft. Referring to the college's derisive nickname of "Haggerty High," Smith said that he used to think of Schoolcraft as "a glorified high school" but has changed his mind

Bumper stickers

"The image of the community college is something that needs to be worked on," he said, suggesting that Schoolcraft might produce bumper stickers for students that brag on how much money they're saving by not attending a fouryear school for the first two years of college. "There's a sales point there that's not being emphasized," he said.

Goodfellow, a court reporter and single parent, said she has been attending Schoolcraft since 1987 and thinks the college should make things easier for adult students.

'We need to give a little more attention to adults coming back," she said. "I don't think I was given the reinforcement I could have been given."

On funding, Goodfellow said that "tuition increases should be the first step," but the board should also make sure the college isn't wasting money.

Rockall, 63, a retired Ford car designer, also applied for the last Schoolcraft board opening in 1991. As a Schoolcraft graduate, Rockall said he feels "obligated to repay this institution with my time and energy, to further enhance the great programs that are currently in place.

Asked how Schoolcraft's operation could be improved, Rockall said college officials should "keep in touch with the people you have coming to school here. After all, they are the clients."

Rockall also said that college officials should make it easier to transfer Schoolcraft credits to other schools. He had to stand up and argue, he said, to get some of his Schoolcraft credits transfered to Wayne State.

Johnson, a lawyer, has already been involved with Schoolcraft through the Women's Resource Center and the scholarship foundation. She currently serves on the executive board of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council and is the president of the Suburban Bar Association of Western Wayne County.

Asked about funding, Johnson said Schoolcraft will have to try to raise more money in every way it

A businessperson from the west side of the state - rather than Harry Greenleaf of Livonia - is likely to be Gov. John Engler's appointee to the State Board of Education.

Greenleaf, a Schoolcraft College trustee and Ford Motor Co. engineering personnel manager, was the 1990 GOP nominee to succeed Jacobus. But in the 1992 Democratic near-sweep, Greenleaf and six other Republican education nominees lost.

American introduction

But as far as Americans are concerned, peanut butter came into existence in 1890. An anonymous physician in St. Louis Mo., persuaded the owner of a food products company to process and package ground peanut paste as a nutritious substitute

At about the same time, Dr. John Kellogg of Battle Creek began experimenting with peanuts as a vegetarian source of protein for his patients. Soon, his brother, W.K. Kellogg, established a company that supplied the new food to grocery

Their concoction never took hold, probably because they steamed the peanuts, and the resulting mixture was pasty rather than creamy.

The first spin on peanut butter was a creamier version created by Joseph Rosenfield of Alameda, Calif. in 1922. Rosenfield churned peanuts to make peanut butter. One of the first big business es to adopt this process was Swift & Co., a meat packing company in Chicago. It was marketed as E.K. Pond peanut butter until 1928 when the name was changed to Peter Pan.

A few years later, Rosenfield began producing chunky peanut butter under the Skippy label simply by adding chopped peanuts at the end of the

It takes about 548 in-shell peanuts to make a 12 ounce jar of peanut butter. Not bad when you consider that an acre of peanuts can make 30,000 peanut butter sandwiches, and half the peanuts harvested in the United States will cover the bottom of the Grand Canyon.

Food bargain

For the money, peanut butter has always been a great food bargain at about 7.5 cents a tablespoon. Rich in protein, to serve as an adequate meat substitute, peanut butter should be paired with grains and/or legumes.

The good news is that peanut butter is cholesterol-free because of its vegetable origin, but the bad news is that only two tablespoons of the smooth stuff packs a walloping 16.4 grams of fat which means it gets almost 75 percent of its calories from fat.

Two tablespoons of creamy peanut butter add up to 190 calories, 9.2 grams of protein, 4 grams of carbohydrates, 220 milligrams of potassium, 100 milligrams of sodium (salted varieties), or 5 milligrams sodium (unsalted varieties).

Convenience does have its benefits. Virtually every grocery and convenience store in town stocks an amazing array of peanut butters from creamy to super chunky to natural.

Natural varieties

The "natural" varieties do not contain the stabilizer (hydrogenated vegetable oil) that keeps the butter from separating. Users have to stir in the oil slick that naturally forms on the top. Yours truly tried to forgo this step recently and found that the resulting mass was gritty. For spreadability, you're better off to stir.

Peanut butter cookbook

Peanut butter lovers can get 143 ways to celebrate their favorite food by sending for "The Official Peanut Butter Lovers' Centennial Cookbook." Recipes in 12 categories are presented in the 100page book, available by sending $8 to the Peanut Advisory Board, Centennial Cookbook, P.O. Box 7528, Tifton, Ga. 31793.

The spiral-bound, softcover book was issued in 1990, the 100th birthday of the historical food. It also contains information, color photographs and serving suggestions. If your tastes go a bit beyond Elvis' old favorite of peanut butter and banana sandwiches, just about any cookbook will feature scores of recipes that use this tasty protein substitute.

·FOODS·THAT·CURE·WHAT·AILS·YOU·

■ Here's a prescription for good health. Eat more fresh. fruits, vegetables, and grains. You'll feel better, and have more energy.

Once upon a time, there was a woman who went on a diet. Many were the tales of her noble sacrifices and heroic consumption of carrot sticks. But, like other heroines in other legends, the lady had a secret, darker, side.

Taped to the under-side of the toilet tank was a plastic bag of Oreos (with extra frosting). By the light of the moon she would creep out of bed, lock the bathroom door, and stuff herself. Then, since she was already guilt-ridden, she went back to bed without flossing. One January, they say, she threw away her roll of tape and vowed to eat feel-good foods that are good, and live happily ever after. And so do we all. Listen to the experts:

"Oriental vegetables for stir-frying, such as napa cabbage and bok choy, are much in demand in January," said Joe Miorana, Jr., co-owner of Joe's Produce, in Livonia. "People push toward a healthier diet after the holidays. They tell us they've made resolutions to lose weight, or just to eat more fresh fruits and vegetables, because they know they'll feel better if they do.

"Citrus fruit is at its best in the winter months, and sells briskly because it's fresh and juicy, because the price is right, and because our customers are aware that grapefruit and oranges provide vitamin C and fiber.'

Not only are people interested in buying healthier foods, they want to learn more about cooking it too. "Even if a class isn't specifically focused on nutrition, we try to include hints on how to eat well and cut down on fats," said Kitchen Glamor owner, Toula Patsalis.

Nutrionist Kay Huberty is teaching a class, "Recipes for Health,' at each of the four Kitchen Glamor stores. Classes are scheduled: 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 26, Novi store; 1 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 27, Redford store; 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 28, West Bloomfield store; and 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 29, Rochester store. There is a $3 fee, for more information, call 537-1300.

What, you're wondering, is a nutritionist? "A nutritionist structures a program to fit a life. After all, if I'm working on a stomach or a colon, the organs doesn't arrive by UPS - the whole person is involved. The goals established for an individual are impossible to reach without exercise and a positive mental attitude. Diet is vitally important, but it's a part of the whole program," said Huberty.

REMEDIES TO NURSE YOUR COLD

"How come they can put a man on the moon but they can't find a cure for the common cold?" The answer is - Because there's only one moon and over 200 viruses that can cause colds.

In her new book, "Cold Spaghetti at Midnight: Feel-good foods to nurse your cold, soothe your aches, ward off disease and even ease the pain of a broken heart," (William Morrow & Co., $19) author Maggie Waldron lists some of the folk remedies that mankind has devised over the years to cure a cold. Here are a few: It was de rigueur in 14th century France to dangle a pouch of garlic from a string around the neck. The garlic pendant repelled vampires and protected the wearer from colds, flu and the plague.

Perhaps the reason birds neither sneeze nor cough is that they always sleep with their heads tucked under their aerated wings. Therefore, wear a muffler.

To clear the sinuses, cut an onion in half and set on either side of your pillow so you can inhale the fumes. For congestion, place a poultice of fried onions on your chest.

Cayenne pepper tea and foods spiced with pepper cause your mucous membranes to weep, thereby making it easier to blow your nose.

The legendary English physician Sir William Osler once declared, "There is just one way to treat a cold and that is with contempt." He followed his advice with a simple and effective prescription bed rest, no food and a good book to read.

FEEL GOOD FOODS

Sandra Johns, manager of The Good Food Company, West, a natural foods supermarket in Livonia, knows exactly what feel-good foods are. "Good-foryou foods are feel-good foods, because if you eat them regularly, you feel good," she said. "Many people want to return to a healthier life style, in January and in other months as well, but some people think the process is complex and don't know how to start. "If you just can't give up those nocturnal forays to the toilet tank for cookies, don't dispair. Johns has three simple suggestions to help you make some healthy changes.

Increase the amount of grains and legumes in your diet. Brown rice, barley, and dried beans are rich in fiber and nutrients and will make it easy to reduce your meat intake.

Increase the amount of fiberrich vegetables, such as cabbage, broccoli, and Brussels sprouts. In salads, use darker greens, such as leaf lettuce or romaine, rather than iceberg, which is mostly water and lower in nutrients and in fiber.

Exercise, think good thoughts and help the less fortunate. In practically no time, you'll be a healthier, happier, person.

are thinking along slimmer lines, this week's Winner Dinner, submitted by Kathy Saatio of Garden City, is low in fat and calories, and high in taste and nutrition.

"We grab snacks because our energy is low, but we get just a momentary rush of energy from sugar snacks. Simple sugars explode when they're eaten. The mouth says 'yummy,' but the stomach says, 'What's going on up there?' The best source of energy is exercise. Go for a walk. Otherwise, eat complex carbohydrates - fresh fruits, vegetables, grains, starches - for a longerlasting effect."

Huberty said any time is a good time to begin a new lifestyle. People who successfully change their life do it one step at a time, over a period of years. She encourages people to not think of goals in terms of weddings or vacations. Make them a lifetime project.

'Men and women want to enjoy life more but they're tired all the time," she said. "Energy depends on health. Health is the ability to do what you want to do.' "Get away from heavy and rich and get into hearty and healthy. Sugar feeds cravings, but nothing else," said KaRene Lehman, a dietician at Beaumont Hospital's Clinic for Preventive and Nutritional Medicine, in Birmingham. 'We need to cut out empty calories like fat and sugar, and eat more dried beans, whole grains, fruits, and vegetables. Take advantage of the good Michigan produce that's available. It's good for health, and chewing satisfies the urge to eat something."

Hearty foods like bean soup or chile made with lean turkey feel warm and comforting in cold weather. Put vegetables in everything you cook, said Lehman. If you make chicken soup, throw in a few carrots. When you make mashed potatoes, put a few slices of rutabaga in the pot, and mash them along with the potatoes. The final dish will be more flavorful. and you'll have added some valuable beta-carotene to the pota-

"Make things that taste good," said Lehman. "You need personal satisfaction as well as nourishment. If you crave rich foods, find a way to modify the food. Make creamed potato-leek-broccoli soup with skim milk. Make your own corn chips from taco shells. If you don't enjoy food, you're not going to stay with your new diet."

She has gravitated naturally and easily to healthier foods and balances her diet with thriceweekly workouts and lots of walking. Her efforts have paid off she has been able to maintain her current weight for many years.

Despite the demands of two jobs, Saatio said she is happiest when she is with her husband, Arthur, her family, and three young grandchildren. They are the real joys of her life and justify the improved and healthier quality of life that she is now experiencing.

When in doubt over leftovers, throw them out

"That lonely leftover lurking in back of the refrigerator may give you more than you bargained for," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, Food and Nutrition Hotline.

Food poisoning is often the result of eating food thought to be OK but that was improperly handled. "Most leftovers are good for only 3-4 days in the refrigerator. Some items are even more perishable such as custards or quiches, and should only be kept 1 to 2 days," she said.

Food doesn't have to look or smell bad to make you ill. Sometimes appearance is not the best indicator of food poisoning. So, if you don't know, or don't remember how long something has been in your refrigerator, it's probably been there too long. Remember, if in doubt, throw it out!

The Food and Nutrition Hotline is prepared to help you with your food questions or concerns. If you are in need of help in knowing what's safe to eat or how to store food properly, call the hotline, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday at 858-0904. Here are a few tips to help.

Perishable foods should not be kept out of the refrigerator for more than two hours.

Divide small amounts of leftovers into small shallow containers for quick cooling.

Freeze leftovers you cannot use in 3 to 4 days.

It's snuggle weather, get some warm cozies

A chill is in the air — the time of year when we often wake up to darkness, anticipate a cold, dreary day and yearn for the luxury of a few more hours of uninterrupted, dreamless sleep.

The urge to snuggle, deeper under a quilt or down comforter and sink into the coolness of soft pillows, is one that we should occasionally indulge. Give in to your body's plea for rest and relaxation. Take a day to unwind, renew and gain a better appreciation of yourself and your life. Now that you have an excuse to call in sick tomorrow, I have some ideas to help you create the proper atmosphere for R & R. This is, after all, January - traditional White Sale month. If you spend a whole day in bed, your personal nest should be swathed in linens that are cozy and irre-

Why not wrap yourself in warmth with soft flannel sheets and pillowcases from the Eddie Bauer Home Collection in Twelve Oaks mall? Blue Garden is an exclusive floral design that will brighten the coldest winter day, and this is flannel with a noticeable difference in quality and a softness that gets more inviting with each washing.

Flannel in patterns

Amazingly, this bedding is on sale now for half off the original price (standard case, $6.99). Flannels in an array of solid colors are also offered at reduced prices, as are a traditional navy and green plaid and the Native American-inspired Montana motif. If your taste runs toward rustic cabin-chic, check out the Kodiak pattern, It's strewn with moose, fish and snow-covered trees, and is reminiscent of the sleeping bag you camped out in as a child. (Kodiak is not on sale.)

Nothing is more inviting in a bedroom than a hand-stitched comfy cotton quilt. The appliqued crib quilt we picture ($295) is a Judi Boisson design from A Touch of Lace Ltd., 555 S. Woodward in Birmingham. This alphabet quilt, a future heirloom, is crib size but is also available for twin beds. The matching pillow is $52. A Touch of Lace carries an entire line of Boisson quilts in playful patterns for kids and more traditional designs for adults. Not to miss - the western-theme quilt that hangs in the window. Those cowpokes are really Mickey and Minnie!

There seems to be a renewed passion for quilts, those uniquely American textiles that are an everlasting part of our heritage and that evoke memories of a simpler time. A well-worn vintage quilt is a comforting fixture at the foot of my bed - I miss it when I'm away from home.

Cocooning anyone?

From the simple to the sublime — for a truly elegant indulgence, A Touch of Lace offers this silken Cocoon. The lap blanket ($1,615) is fashioned of spun silk floss enveloped in luxurious silk charmeuse. Available in tailored and fancy designs, the one we picture is pale rose with delicate blue smocking. The Cocoon is sure to be a cherished possession and provides the ultimate sensual pleasure. It can be special ordered in all bed sizes. "Expensive but worth it," says store owner Linda Weissman.

The sheer beauty of this exquisite linen shop invites you to linger and savor the pleasures within. These include fine bed and bath linens, extraordinary tablecloths, custom baby linens and an exclusive iron crib, vintage pillows and probably the best selection of handkerchiefs in the state ($7-$200).

If you do opt to remain in bed, a hand-painted breakfast tray might be on your list of special needs. My favorite at A Touch of Lace is the one decorated with a blue china tea service and a three-dimensional Wall Street Journal ($50).

What could be more pleasant on a winter's morning than time alone, abed in a tousle of soft, cozy linens? Relax and enjoy.

Next week I'll bring the outside in with some ideas that will turn your thoughts to spring.

Relief for shin pain: Sara Struve (right) of WalkSport America shows members of the Northland Pacers Club how to draw the alphabet with their toes to condition shin muscles before walking.

GET A LEG UP ON FITNESS

Take a hike through malls, mainstreets

If barking dogs, dangerous ice patches and crooked sidewalks keep you from a morning stroll, the malls offer a solution. The larger malls and mainstreets host walking clubs — complete with refreshments, guest speakers and group warm-ups.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO

"It's all about burning fat and strengthening your heart," nurse and fitness walker Sara Struve of St. Paul, Minn., told the Northland Pacers Club. "In order to start working your heart and losing weight, you must walk briskly, aerobically.

Struve, founder of WalkSport America, discussed different kinds of walking before an audience of 1,400 walkers who regularly stroll the Northland Center before the mall opens. Struve said she's been touring the country "on a mission to get America walking."

"Maybe the streets will become safe again if kids, parents, whole neighborhoods are out walking," she said to a burst of applause.

Struve founded WalkSport in 1989 when she discovered that running and aerobics were hurting her back and knees, she said.

"I met a 78-year-old man, former mayor of St. Paul, who taught me how to race walk, " she said. "He had hip replacement surgery and found race walking beneficial. It works for me, too. And it's fun.'

She described race walking, as walking as if on a straight line. The hips swing slightly. Elbows are bent at a 90-degree angle, arms never below the waist.

When walking, the crooked arms move back and forth along the sides, but not across the body. Since the speed of the walk is based on each individual's target heart rate, Struve passed out a small card chart which every walker used to determine his ideal walking pace.

"Walking with your arms bent instead of down at your side eliminates puffy hands, lower back stress, and exercises the upper arms and abdominal muscles," she said. "Ankle and wrist weights are totally unneces-

Other malls with active walking groups include Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights, 247-1744; Somerset Collection in Troy, 643-6360; Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, 348-9438; the Livonia Mall, 476-1166; Westland Center, 425-5001; Summit Place Mall in Waterford, 682-0238; Oakland Mall in Troy, 585-6000; Wonderland Mall in Livonia, 522-4100; Laurel Park Place in Livonia, 462-1100; Southland Mall in Taylor, 374-2800; Meadowbrook Village Mall in Ro-chester 375-9451; Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield, 353-4111; and the Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn, 593-

Walk downtowns, too

Some downtown shopping districts have walking groups too.

'Some people prefer to walk outdoors, thinking indoors is boring," said Jeanne Rosinski of the Urban Walker store on Maple between Pierce and Southfield in Birmingham. She leads walkers from the store each morning at 8:30 a.m.

In downtown Rochester, local historian Merritt Romaine periodically hosts walking tours around the city. In the summer, the Older Persons Commission organizes a downtown walking group.

RULES ARE MADE FOR WALKING

Exercise walking can condition the heart and lungs if performed at the proper intensity for 20-30 minutes at a time at least three times a week

To condition the heart and lungs by walking, the heart rate must be brought to a certain point called the target rate. You find your heart rate by taking your pulse.

To determine your personal target heart rate, subtract your age from 220. This is your maximum heart rate. Multiply this number by 60 to 75 percent to find your target heart-rate zone.

To measure your pulse, place the tips of two fingers on your neck (carotid arteries) located left and right of your Adam's Apple. Count your pulse for 10 seconds and multiply by six.

 Use walking shoes with thick, flexible soles that cushion and absorb shock.

Always warm up before a walking session and cool down afterward by walking slowly and stretching for five minutes. As your cardiopulmonary system improves, you may be able to walk faster and still maintain your target heart rate. Physicians from Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills, who helped Laurel Park Place establish its walking club, say if you're thinking about a walking program, consult your doctor

Taking a Walk through alternative

■ Rehearsing in places heavy with death metal bands could influence more naive bands, but for Walk on Water, the experience has made the group stick to its hard alternative rock.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Watching the alternative rock band Walk on Water on stage, the intensity of the band, the heat, and the audience feed off each other. The result is a polished sound and image that garners Walk on Water its posi-

But the audience would never know that the group was almost washed up, so to speak, before it played live. Sharing practice space with death metal bands, Walk on Water watched many notalent bands fall into that trap.

"We were the only alternativetype band (practicing there),"said a jovial Jimmy Anders, who plays bass. "It's like it's always 10-1 everywhere we practice - 10 metal bands to us. It seems like the easiest kind of band to get into. "We're the only survivors."

Lead singer Mark Kahaian of Royal Oak joked that sometimes the metal bands' aura could have influenced naive musicians.

"If we came in with violins to become a classical band practicing there we'd end up like a death metal violin band because you're surrounded by all death metal,' he explained.

Luckily, they didn't succumb and instead they gave in to their natural instincts and stuck with hard alternative rock.

'We entered this thing with no preconceived notions," said guitarist Billy Reedy of Detroit. "We didn't want to be Alice in Chains. We wanted to be whatever came Hard sound: Creating Walk on Water's hard alternative rock sound are Mark Kahaian (from left), Billy Reedy, Jimmy Anders and Eric Miller. The group will celebrate its record release at Paycheck's Lounge Saturday, Jan. 16.

Drummer Eric Miller said Walk on Water keeps that philosophy when writing its songs.

'We're smart enough to say, 'That's not us; it's not working,' he said. "We've experimented with a ton of stuff already. There's a great comfort zone of being able to do whatever we want to do. That's very important to all of us.

The public can hear the results Saturday, Jan. 16, when the group celebrates the release of its first effort "Pupil" with a performance at Paycheck's Lounge in Hamtramck. The tape showcases the group's incomparable sound which blends a grunge base with funky, slow grooves. Singer Kahaian says the title describes what he sees in the band.

"(We wanted) something signifiying vision," he said. "Also a pupil is a student and this is our first album.'

Each individual, however, has recorded before. Kahaian and Reedy are former members of the Happy Deathmen. Anders and Miller performed with Tangent "It was cool because, they're a total unit and we're a total unit. It (only) took two months to get comfortable," said Reedy.

That comfortable feeling shows in concert. Miller said playing the drums behind the band allows him to witness that.

"It's kind of great to watch the energy and attitude; it's (the feeling) coming from inside," said the Grosse Pointe resident. "It sounds really corny, but it's amazing to watch. Each one of us feeds off the other three."

Dada blends life in L.A. into its lyrical offerings

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Phil Leavitt admittedly doesn't put much thought into his band Dada. Perhaps that's why his rock'n'roll bands didn't work and his current one does.

"Rock'n'roll bands are really hard to be in," he said. "They're more trouble than it's worth. We were always worrying about what we were going to wear.

"If you have to research for these things, you're really going about it in the wrong way.

Even in writing lyrics for their new album, "Puzzle," the Dadaists just wrote about common sights in their L.A. surroundings movie stars, crashing cars and "There are certain things that are a part of life you can't escape," explained Leavitt, the group's drummer. "You walk out your front door and you see things. There are freaks about. They find their way into songs.

Bank robbers and people who crash their cars. It's what real life

Dada's sound is built around the two-part harmonies of Michael Gurley (guitars) and Joie Calio (bass). Leavitt's solid backbeat frames the trio. Two pieces of Dada's "Puzzle" — 'Dizz Knee Land" and "Here Today, Gone Tomorrow" - showcase this sound which has been compared to early works by The Police and Simon and Garfunkel. Writing the music even came easy

"That ('Here Today, Gone Tomorrow') was just a spontaneous jam in a rehearsal studio. I just started playing that groove and (then came) the stream of consciousness lyrics.'

"Dizz Knee Land" is Dada's first single. Leavitt was sorry to say that the name change wasn't forced upon them by the California themepark.

"The spelling really came about during the recording of the record" he said. "We had this chalkboard where we kept track of the progress of the songs. We started to get a bit of studio fever. All the spellings on all the songs changed.'

Leavitt said the song is harmless to Disneyland.

"It's not a derogatory slam on Disneyland; it's more of a state of mind than an actual commentary on the merits of Disneyland," he said.

Those two songs, as well as the others on Dada's set list, come across differently live.

"They can expect a sort of more aggressive version of the record. We don't try to re-create what we recorded. The studio is one thing; the stage is another."

Dada opens for Material Issue on Monday, Jan. 18, at the Blind Pig. 208 S. First St., Ann Arbor. Call 996-8555 for more informa-

It is true that your thoughts and feelings do not go together. You say you understand that there are disappointments that we must all endure, but then you cannot endure yours gracefully.

Although I haven't known someone with your exact problem, knowing how you should feel but not being able to feel that way is a common complaint.

An old joke popular in thera-peutic circles illustrates this problem. The patient says to the analyst that if he finally has insight and understands his problems, why does he still feel so lousy. When this happens, as ithas with you, the person is merely voicing words without believing them with depth. They are cliches that are adopted to protect the person from searching deeper within himself or herself for true understanding.

Without knowing you, I am not able to understand what the fear of looking deeper means to you. Is it possible that your anger toward your ex-husband remains great and you fear opening it up and working it through? Is it possible that you have never grieved sufficiently for your parents and that brings on the sadness at Christmas?

These are just two of the many possible areas of pain that could be motivating your self-pity. It would be best for you to get some counseling in order to examine further these feelings and their meaning. If you are active in your church and there is someone whom you trust there then he or she could provide the help you need.

Although your situation might seem impossible, it is not if you are willing to end the superficiality of how you should feel for a deeper, even if more painful, awareness.

'Chaplin' sticks close to the myth

TICKETS PLEASE

"If you want to know me, watch my movies.

This telling line, spoken by Robert Downey Jr. as Charlie Chaplin, sums up the new movie biography of the comic legend. If there really was truth in advertising, this would be featured on the posters. Richard Attenborough's "Chaplin" nobly tries to depict its subject's life and work but rarely scrapes beneath the gloss of Chaplin's self-imposed myth. It boasts a surprisingly strong lead performance, but ultimately gets crushed beneath the director's heavy hand.

It introduces us to Chaplin the artist, but only amid the sappiest of Hollywood-style hokum. At age five, young Charlie walks onto a London stage and wows the audience with his singing and dancing. The unruly denizens of the peanut gallery, who threw debris at his mother just minutes ago, now toss coins.

Charlie moves from vaudeville to the "flickers," hired by Keystone Kops creator Mack Sennett (Dan Aykroyd), and soon gathers a following. He begins to direct and becomes a perfectionist, shooting the simplest scenes countless times and working round-the-clock in the editing His workaholic tendencies sab-otage his private life. He marries a half dozen women during his stay in Hollywood, many of them half his age. The parade of women in and out of his life, among them the radiant Paulette Goddard, grows tiresome while important parts of his career, like the formation of United Artists, are only referred to in passing.

Meanwhile, the movie insists on having bad guys, so it trots out Nazis and McCarthy-era communist witch hunters for Charlie to spar with.

J. Edgar Hoover is depicted, probably rightly so, as a chubbycheeked demagogue who takes glee in getting dirt on Chaplin in the hope of deporting him back to England. Another scene finds a German director spouting anti-Semitic rhetoric at a Hollywood party, quite unlikely at a gathering teeming with Jewish moguls.

Director Attenborough ("Gandhi" and "Cry Freedom") and his trio of scriptwriters falter by sticking so close to their primary source: Chaplin's 1964 autobiography, written during his exile in Switzerland, which even in the movie is referred to as "vague." The film creates a fictional ghostwriter (Anthony Hopkins) who attempts to fill in the gaps in Charlie's selective memory.

One amusing scene plays myth against reality by showing the book version of the creation of The Tramp screen character, where glowing pieces of the now-famous costume magically leap into his hand. The reality is depicted as a last-minute scramble to find something to wear for a

Otherwise, the filmmakers rely completely on the myth, usually backed by John Barry's overwrought musical score.

Robert Downey, Jr., who has done little to distinguish himself in previous pictures, fills The Tramp's oversized shoes quite admirably. He really does look the part, even if he plays it so stonefaced that we might think we're watching the Buster Keaton story. And didn't anyone else notice the incredible amount of lipsynching used here?

The film places famous faces among the supporting cast. Geraldine Chaplin, the subject's reallife daughter, is appropriately cast as Chaplin's mother, who spent years in a mental institution before moving to California to live with her son.

Kevin Kline, among my least favorite actors in movies today, has a great time portraying dashing Douglas Fairbanks and comes off rather charmingly. However, James Woods (as a prosecuting attorney), Hopkins and especially Akroyd (who looks and acts more like John Candy with each new film) are only remotely convinc-

"Chaplin" is only truly entertaining at the end, when Charlie accepts a lifetime achievement award at the 1972 Academy Awards ceremony. Clips from "The Immigrant," "The Gold Rush," "The Kid" and "The Great Dictator" flash again across the screen and we remember why the comedian's name shines on.

If you really want to know Chaplin, watch these classics. Stay away from this overblown and stiffly directed biography.

Look-allkes: Robert Downey Jr. is as close as he can get to looking the famous comedian in "Chaplin."

The week in films briefly noted: "Bram Stoker's Dracula" — Francis Ford Coppola has gotten a bad rap. Not since 1963 and "Dementia 13" has the director ventured into true horror. And for what it's worth, he does try to stay somewhat faithful to Stoker, using references to the book's diary entries, telegrams, and newspaper accounts whenever possible. Winona Ryder holds onto her English accent, Keanu Reeves doesn't, while Gary Oldman cleverly transforms from the ratfaced older Dracula to a sleek young European dandy in stovepipe hat and sunglasses. A must-see. (At area theaters)

"The Crying Game" - Irish writer/director Neil Jordan's stylish new thriller opens at a carniappropriate since it has more twists and turns than a rollercoaster. It begins with an IRA kidnapping of an English soldier (Forest Whitaker) and then careens off into intrigue and dark comedy. Miranda Richardson ("Enchanted April") creates a memorably sleazy femme fatale while its protagonist learns the existential facts of life and love.

Asking for more details will only spoil this highly original movie, the most accomplished work yet from the creator of "Mona Lisa" and "The Miracle." (Fridays through Sundays, Jan. 15-17 and 22-24 at the Detroit Film Theatre, 5200 Woodward Ave. Call 833-2323 for information. Admission

"A Few Good Men" - When murder takes place on a Cuban military base, young gun lawyer Tom Cruise goes up against colonel Jack Nicholson to get at the truth. Director Rob Reiner has an amazing eye for entertainment, but he can't elevate the movie, which also features Demi Moore, Kevin Bacon and Kiefer Sutherland beyond a "twentysomething" version of much better courtro dramas. (At area theaters)

"Toys" - Robin Williams plays the Peter Pan-ish son of a toy manufacturer in Barry Levinson's ("Rain Man") misfired attempt at whimsy. When dad dies, he leaves the company to his brother, a general who wants to launch a new breed of war toys.

Bonnett wins award

enior right wing and assistant captain Joe Bonnett of Canton was named player of the week on the Western Michigan University hockey team for his play Jan. 2-3.

The Broncos split a weekend series against the Alaska-Fairbanks Nanooks, winning 4-3 in the opener and losing 5-2.

Bonnett set up sophomore Mike Whitton on WMU's second goal of the first game to start a winning, three-goal rally for the Broncos. He scored WMU's second goal the next night to put the score at 3-2 late in the second period.

"Joe gave a great effort all weekend," WMU coach Bill Wilkinson said. "His job is not so much to score goals but to use his speed to make things happen - forecheck, backcheck, get into the cor-

"When he scores a goal or sets up a goal, it's a bonus for everyone. Throughout his career, more than anything else, Joe has earned respect for his work ethic on and off the ice."

Bonnett, a former member of the Kalamazoo Junior Wings, has played in all but one of WMU's 19 games, has eight (3/5) points and has a positive-3 plus-minus rating.

Bonnett also posted the team's highest gradepoint average for the fall semester with a 3.50 mark, his third consecutive 3.50 semester. He is an education major with an emphasis on geology.

Salem wrestlers romp lymouth Salem began its Lakes Division wrestling schedule Thursday with a 61-12 rout of host and defending Western Lakes Activities Association champion Farmington.

The Rocks won three bouts by pin, two by decision, four by forfeit and one by default. Scott Hughes (103) pinned Chris Neville in 0:38, Paul Mitchell (130) pinned Mike Herrmann in 0:51 and Phil Haynes (189) pinned Scott Holliday in 1:25.

Romeo Cairo (112), David Craig (135), Wade Langdon (160) and John Rakovy (171) were not challenged. John Svec (152) was awarded a victory when his opponent defaulted because of injury.

■ Plymouth Canton won four consecutive matches from 135 to 152, but those were the only wins for the Chiefs, who lost 45-17 to Northville.

Nick Spano (135) remained undefeated (11-0) with a technical fall (16-1) over Carl Tuhe in 4:02. Dave Smith (140) pinned Joe Scappatticci in 4:57, Ryan Conner (145) outscored Ryan Baber 13-

The Chiefs received a solid all-around performance from Kim Lewke, who was first on vault (8.8), third on floor (8.4), fifth on bars (7.15) and sixth on beam (7.8). She was third in all-around scoring behind Walled Lake's Stacey Mackowiak. Canton's Jenny Tedesco won the bars (8.65) competition and was fourth on vault (8.45). Three others were among the top six in two events each: Kim Nowak second on floor (8.95) and fifth on beam (7.85); Adrienne Brenner fifth on floor (8.3) and sixth on bars (7.1); Michelle Cimeot second on beam (8.5) and sixth on floor (7.7). Kari Jackson was sixth on vault (7.6).

'I was fairly pleased with the 131.5, considering we fell off the beam about 2,000 times," Canton coach John Cunningham said. "It's an event we should have a lot of nines and not sevens.

Beam was the only downer of the night. Otherwise, I was pleased for the first meet. If I could just erase beam from my memory, I'll be all set."

Miller paces Rocks

im Miller's first high school gymnastics meet in nearly two years was a success Wednesday as she won the all-around title in Plymouth Salem's victory over visiting Farmington, 139.45 to 103.40.

Miller was first on vault (8.65), bars (9.1) and beam (9.4). She was third on floor exercise (8.9) and compiled a 36.05 total.

Alysia Sofios, who was first on floor (9.15), had the second-best overall score at 34.55. She was second on vault (8.35) and bars (8.8), and she placed fourth on beam (8.25).

Salem's Melissa Hopson (34.35), Courtney Gonyea (34) and Sarah Makins (32.85) had the next three places in all-around scoring.

Gonyea was third on vault (8.2) while Hopson and Makins tied for fourth (8.15). Makins was third (8.35), Hopson fourth (8.3) and Gonyea fifth (8.15) on bars.

Gonyea finished second on beam (8.85), Hopson third (8.8) and Makins fifth (8.0). Hopson took second (9.1) and Gonyea fourth (8.8) on floor.

Makins tied for fifth (8.35) on floor with Stefanie Angiulo, who also was sixth on beam (7.3). Salem's Dana Driscoll was sixth on vault (7.9).

"We did as well as I expected," coach Johanna Anderson said, adding the Rocks do need to improve on vault. "But we did great on floor and beam, and we looked very strong on bars."

Rocks regroup, avert hoop upset

Better late than never.

Unbeaten Plymouth Salem trailed 28-27 after three quarters before outscoring stubborn Livonia Churchill 21-10 in the fourth quarter Friday to escape with a 48-38 Western Lakes Activities Association victory.

Salem, which made 13-of-14 free throws in the fourth quarter, is 6-0 overall and 1-0 in the WLAA. Salem forward James Head scored 11 of his game-high 17 points in the fourth quarter, including 7-8 free throws.

Prior to the fourth quarter, Salem went to the line only six times and made three. Salem overcame 16-of-58 shooting from the field. The Rocks missed all six of their three-point attempts.

"Our players played with a lot of guts and really gave them a scare," Churchill coach Tom Lang said. "Probably our fouls which got them on the line were fair calls but we didn't get too many calls our way (in the fourth quarter). They pressed and got away with a lot of contact."

Churchill made 11 of 16 free throws for the game. Darrell Wiacek led Churchill with U-D-Jesuit had four players in double figures led by 6-7 senior forward Daemon Love, who scored 25 points, including 11 in the second quarter. Sophomore guard Julian Bonner scored 16 points and senior guard Darnell Kaigler and senior center Chuck Taylor contributed 10 each.

LUTH. WSLD. 52, PCA 44: Senior forward Pat Schaefer scored 15 points with 11 rebounds Friday night as Lutheran Westland rallied for a nonleague win over visiting Plymouth Christian.

The Warriors are 2-3 overall. Plymouth Christian fell to 1-6 overall.

Senior center Jason Neil was unstoppable in the first quarter, scoring all of Plymouth Christian's 17 points as the Eagles took a 17-10 lead into the second quarter. But Lutheran Westland found a way to stop Neil and outscored Plymouth Christian 19-10 in the second. quarter for a 29-27 halftime lead. Neil finished with a game-high 25 points.

The Warriors put the game away in the fourth quarter with an 18-11 outburst. Senior center Kevin Nelson scored 10 points for Lutheran Westland and sophomore guard Chris Tiernan added 10 points with seven rebounds.

LIVINGSTON 59, AGAPE 40: Peter Muench scored 19 points and Rey Dixon 17, but it was not enough for Plymouth Agape Christian Acadamy, which falls to 3-4 on the season.

Anthony Snyder and Eric Reid led Livingston with 14 points each.

North overcomes Canton in WLAA

Matt Paupore scored a game-high 23 points in a losing cause Friday night as Plymouth Canton dropped its Western Lakes Activities Association boys basketball opener Friday at North Farmington, 59-54.

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

As teams often do when they lose a key player, North Farmington has pulled together to overcome a seasonending knee injury to Scot Lord.

The Raiders used a greater, allround team effort Friday night to defeat visiting Plymouth Canton 59-54 in the first Western Lakes Activities Association basketball game.

North (3-2) has won its last two games since losing Lord, the leading rebounder and main inside scoring threat, in late December.

A host of players picked up the slack on the boards Friday, especially the defensive glass, and the Raiders tient on offense.

Guards Doug Dolak and John Pennala carried the scoring load with 19 and 17 points, respectively. Evan Ellis added eight and Todd Anderson seven.

"I thought we played as well as we've played this year as far as executing the offense," North coach Tom Negoshian said. "I couldn't ask for any more. Dolak made some unbelievable decisions down the stretch.

"It's a big win for us with everything that's happened. But it's just the start of the season; we can't be too

Canton led 30-28 at halftime following a late first-half surge, and the Chiefs made another run in the second half before falling out of contention in the last two minutes.

The loss dropped Canton to 1-5. Matt Paupore, who made all 12 free throws, scored 23 points, and Bryan Whittle got nine of his 15 in the fourth quarter.

"We just have to get a win and that will help us," said Canton assistant coach Charlie Paye, who replaced ailing head coach Dave Van Wagoner.

The kids need to get some confidence. If we can get one win, we'll be on our way because I think we have too much ability on this team to stay down too long.' Dolak, who matched his career high with his 19 points, made nine of 14 free throws to lead North at the line, where the Raiders sank 22 of 33 shots.

Pennala nailed three triples in the third quarter when North made its move and got control of the lead.

"With Scot Lord injured, we had to have someone step up," Dolak said. 'Quiz (Matt Quisling) did a good job inside, and Chris Ward had about seven rebounds in the last quarter.

"John had a slow start, but he had a real strong second half. He's probably the best three-point shooter in the

Madonna topples district champ Aquinas

They did. But they left the Saints a lot of openings.

'We had so many opportunities,' said Madonna coach Bill Potter. But once we got into overtime, I thought we had a good shot. It's just a feeling. This team is real confident going into overtime.'

Neither team was ever in command. The biggest lead of the game was six points, and that came with 13:40 left in the first half when Aquinas' Kim Schneider and Kris Sneider drilled three-pointers, making it 14-8. It was fitting the game was finally decided at the free throw line. Indeed, that's what won it for the Crusaders: They were 29-of-34 from the stripe to 10-of-13 for Aquinas. By game's end, the Saints had lost three starters to fouls, including their All-American center, Symantha Reenders.

The pivotal point - or at least the first one - came with 51/2 minutes left in regulation. The situation was not good for Madonna; Sue Robak had nailed a triple (Aquinas was 11of-20 from three-point range to Madonna's 4-of-10) to give the Saints a 60-55 lead. That's when the Crusader defense took over, holding Aquinas scoreless for more than five minutes. Five different players scored for Madonna during that stretch to complete the reversal, giving the Crusaders a 65-60 lead with just 33 seconds left.

But it wasn't over yet. Sneider, who took control when Reenders drew her fourth foul with 10:26 left in regulation, came up with a pair of big plays to keep Aquinas' hopes alive.

First she scored easily on a layup with 19 seconds to play to trim the deficit to three, then - after Madonna's Stephanie Niebauer missed the front end of a one-and-one - Sneider rebounded teammate Kelly McEnhill's errant three-pointer, scored and was fouled by Kim Kibbey with six

SC basketball bench gets a little weaker

Well, it might have been worse.

Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team, short on numbers (only seven players left) and victories (none since November), lost at least one player to academic woes at the January semester

Bryant Markowicz, a 6-7 freshman from Dearborn Crestwood, did not make the necessary grades to remain eligible.

Also, freshman Courtney Williamsonbey, the Ocelots' 6-5 starting power forward, was coach Dave Bogataj described it - "on the bubble." Williamsonbey has a grade pending that, if it goes through as it is, will sideline him for the rest of the season, too. Injuries and defections have already cost SC six players, putting a severe strain on the Ocelot

Going into last Saturday's game against Alpena CC, SC had lost seven consecutive games and was 0-4 in Eastern Conference play.

S'CRAFT WOMEN

The Schoolcraft women's team hasn't done much better on the floor than the men's team - the Lady Ocelots are also 0-4 in the conference after having lost three players to knee injuries — but they fared better in the classroom. Everyone on the team made grades. Not that it helped them when they returned from the holiday break. SC traveled to Toledo to battle Owens Tech Jan. 3, and the outcome wasn't good: a

The Lady Ocelots had their chances. They played what coach Jack Grenan called their best half of the season in the first half and led 47-40 at the break. But their shooters' touch abandoned them after that.

Still, SC was within 71-69 with 1:15 left and Dana Hudson was at the line, shooting a one-andone. She missed. After that, a three-pointer by Hudson was disallowed when officials ruled it came after the shot clock expired.

Hudson finished with 27 points (20 in the first half) and 15 rebounds. Alyssa Wechter scored 14 points and grabbed eight boards, and Becky Piotruckowski had 12 points (all in the first half).

The loss left SC at 6-8 for the season.

Elk hunter hits jackpot

Michigan's elk herd was in trou-There ble. few sightings by the public and even the most optimistic hunters had doubts about future elk hunts

Michigan. Development and exploration of oil and gas deposits in the northern Lower Peninsula had 'decimated much of the elk's natural habitat and poachers were hitting the herd very hard. Following a high of nearly 1,500 elk in the early 60's the herd had been diminished to about 200 animals by 1975.

Through public pressure, legislative involvement and corporate compromise a development plan was implemented to allow for removal of the oil and gas deposits while maintaining favorable range and habitat conditions. The DNR stepped up its law enforcement effort and threw stiffer penalties at poachers.

The results were favorable. The herd had grown to 700 animals by 1983 and reached 1,100 by 1985.

Today, Michigan's elk are flourishing with a pre-hunt estimate of 1,400 animals. The DNR held three hunts this fall with a total of 270 hunters participating. Birmingham's Greg Smith was one of the lucky hunters to participate.

Smith hit the jackpot in November when informed he had received one of just 63 hunter's choice elk permits for the December hunt. There were also 107 cow-only permits issued for the December hunt. Considering there were upwards of 50,000 applications submitted for the December hunt alone, and another 37,000 permits carried over from unsuccessful applicants from a pair of September hunts, Smith's success was like hitting the lottery. Unfamiliar with the area of the Pigeon River State Forest near Atlanta where the hunt was held, Smith hired local guide Richard Huff for the hunt

"We saw about 25 elk the first day and passed up a few bulls," Smith said. "But Richard said he thought we could do better and he was right. We did real well.'

Later that night, Smith and a couple friends went out with a spot light in hopes of locating a big bull and that's exactly what they did. "We saw a few here and there, then we came upon a huge bull.

Smith and Co. were back in the area the next morning and located the bull just before 8

"We saw him on a powerline before shooting hours and had to wait 10 minutes before I could shoot," Smith explained. "By then he had moved up to a wooded ridge. Smith was still able to get off an 80-yard shot and killed the bull with one shot from his

The bull dressed out at 588 pounds. The 6x6 rack had a 44inch spread.

"It was a great hunt," said Smith. "The guide was very helpful. The hunt was in his backyard and he knew where they were. He knew the roads and trails and how to get around so we were able to spend more time in the woods instead of looking at a map."

Deer hunter success

It's not often a hunter gets a second chance, but that's exactly what Kirk Cooke got during the muzzleloading deer season and the West Bloomfield hunter made the best of the situation.

Late in the afternoon of Dec. 19, Cooke was nestled along the edge of a corn field in Livingston County braving some ratn showers when a doe stepped out into an opening on the edge of the field. Cooke raised his Prairie River Arms 54 caliber, took steady aim and squeezed off shot. . . CLICK. . . His percussion cap didn't fire.

But the doe didn't move either, so Cooke cocked the hammer and squeezed off another shot. This time the cap and the gun fired, dropping the deer in its tracks.

"The thing that really got me was that after the loud click, the deer didn't even move, said Cooke. "She stayed right there. The only thing I can figure is that the cap wasn't all the way down on the first shot. When the hammer hit it I think it set (the cap) so everything worked on the second shot.

Speaking of second chances, Jim Jelley of Rochester Hills had two opportunities to take the same deer during the bow season and he too capitalized on his second chance.

Hunting from a cluster of beech trees on the Roseville Nester Hunt Club in Roscommon County on Oct. 17 a doe wandered into Jelley's bait

"It wasn't a real big deer," said Jelley, who admitted he hadn't taken a deer in over 20 years of hunting. "I was going to pass on it, but since my grandson was there I thought it would be neat to get one for him so I decided to take her."

But his shot was low and the doe bounded off. One week later Jelley was back in his blind and the same doe came through again. This time Jelley made a clean shot and killed

Dennis Jelley, Jim's son, took a spike horn on opening day of the firearms season. Jelley was hunting on the side of a hill in open hardwoods in Roscommon County when the young buck came through about 9 a.m.

Brad Paskievitch triple and made eight straight free throws - Paupore was 8-of-8 in the quarter to end the half and take a 30-28

Pennala's second triple put the Raiders ahead 38-35, and North scored the last nine points of the third quarter to build a 47-37 advantage. North was 7-of-11 from the floor in that period.

Whittle's dunk and three-point play to start the fourth started the Canton rally. Whittle and Paupore converted consecutive North turnovers to get the Chiefs within 54-52, but Canton failed to get the tying basket with a third straight turnover.

Dolak and Pennala answered with two free throws each to give North a four-point cushion with -11/2 minutes left. "I thought the kids did a great job," Negoshian said. "It was a gutty performance down the stretch. The kids played hard and we got a few breaks. "In the first half rebounding hurt us, and we did miss a lot of open shots, which we normally don't do," Paye said. "A positive thing was we didn't give up at the end. We were down 10 and made a run at them."

seconds left. Sneider converted the free throw, forcing OT.

Madonna still had plenty of chances to put the Saints away, but couldn't do it. A minute into overtime Reenders was whistled for a charge, her fifth foul. She played just 29 of 45 minutes, totaling 12 points and 12 rebounds.

"It's unfortunate the officials decided the game," said Aquinas coach Patti Ribaldi. "We didn't play well enough to win, but we played without three starters for most of the game.

Without Reenders - and, as Ribaldi explained, "We're an interior team; we really don't shoot threes that much" - the Saints were forced to rely on Sneider. She responded, scoring six of her team's 10 overtime points and 11 of its last 15. Sneider finished with 36, making 7-of-13 threepointers.

But there was no denying Madonna. After missing from the Chichilla sparks Spartans to hoop victory

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Chris Chichilla prefers assists over points, but host Livonia Stevenson needed his scoring Friday in a 69-60 boys basketball win over city rival Franklin.

Chichilla, a burly 6-foot-3 transfer forward from Redford Catholic Central, scored a gamehigh 28 points to lead the Spartans to victory in the Western Lakes Activities Association opener for both schools.

"He's doing a nice job at the spot he's at because he handles the ball at the high post," Stevenson coach Jim McIntyre said. "And he's also a good passer, which is becoming a lost art. He's excellent when he creates with the pass. He thinks pass more than

Chichilla was the difference in a game which was tightly contested from nearly start to finish.

He scored 11 of his 28 in the final five minutes, coupled with a key steal with 1:51 to go, sealing the victory for the Spartans, now 3-2 overall.

"He (Chichilla) kept breaking into the lane and someone was supposed to pick him up," Franklin coach Dan Kennedy said. "In our 2-3 zone, the opposite guard is supposed to deny that pass, but he wasn't doing it.

"Chichilla just kept getting those five- to 10-footers, and kept knocking them down.

CC standouts Bobby Kummer (UNC-Charlotte) and Chad Varga (Richmond) for helping develop his game, hit nine of 14 shots from the floor, including one three-pointer. He added nine of 11 free throws.

Adam Roy, a 6-3 senior center, added 15 points, while Brad Morgan and Steve Harrison contributed 10 and nine, respectively.

"It's really team concept," Chi-chilla said. "We move the ball around and get it to whoever is hot. When the person is hot, we get the ball to him. The last time it was Harrison. And Adam is nice to have because I can pass to him and dish off.

Chichilla, who credits former guys on the team score because next one goes in."

everybody wins."

Stevenson's zone defense also had the Patriots misfiring from every angle.

The Patriots shot a dismal 26 percent from the floor (20 of 75) compared to Stevenson's 44 percent accuracy (22 of 50).

"We've been inconsistent so far," said Franklin first-year coach Dan Kennedy, whose team is 2-3 overall. "If the jumper is falling, we're loving life. If not, then it's clearly evident by the outcome tonight. We wanted to penetrate their zone, but when you're wide open, the temptation is too great to pass up the shot. "It's fun for me to see other You just keep firing and hope the tion's strongest ladies league. The All-Star

Bowlerettes, now making their home at Cloverlanes in Livonia on Mondays at 8:30 p.m., have distinguished themselves both locally and nationwide. Back in the '40s and '50s they featured such all-time greats as Agnes Eckstrom, Helen Shablis, Connie Powers, Ethel Hanna, Dorothy Aldred, Helen Baker, Maxine Cruchon, Anita Cantaline and Elvira Toepfer, most of whom are in the WIBC or local hall of fame.

HARRISON

Among the present standouts are Aleta Sill and Cheryl Daniels, both of whom have been standout performers on the ladies pro bowlers tour. Some of the lesser known bowlers have also competed on the pro tour and among these are Lorene Raveane, Dina Manni-Jones, Tina Barber of Westland, Petesey Wray, Sam Greaves, Lauria Soto and Tracie Harook.

Among their all-time records: high team average, season, shared by Bonanza Restaurants (80-81) and Goebel Beer (88-89) with 993; High individual average, season, was Aleta Sill (87-88) with

The new high team game and series standards were broken this season as the Pro-Am Bowling & Trophy Sales team totaled 3,393 pins for a three-game series and team score for one game at 1,221 pins. Both are the highest in the nation so far this season.

They have 18 teams with a 5-bowler lineup, so any bowling fans and aficionados who would like to watch a lot of great bowling action every week are welcome to come out to Cloverlanes on Schoolcraft across from the Detroit Race Course. Admission is free.

Speaking of Cloverlanes, they are running a "Learn to Bowl" program for youth under the direction of Marilyn Luck and Darlene Marrow. Program No. 1 is for beginners and Program No. 2 for intermediates. Both programs will be offered on Wednesdays and Fridays starting the week of Jan. 18. Bumper bowling will also be available. For details, call 427-6410.

Churchill wins 3-on-3 contest

BY STEVE KOWALSKI

The hockey teams from Redford Catholic Central and Livonia Churchill might have invented a new game Wednesday night.

Gus Macker Hockey. Like the popular 3-on-3 Gus Macker Basketball Tournament, both teams skated three a side instead of five for the last five minutes of the second period.

CC outscored Churchill 2-1 during the penalty-filled sequence and went on to win the non-league game 3-2 before an enthusiastic crowd at Eddie Edgar

Defenseman Mike Kasper and center Frank Novock scored about two minutes apart during the 3on-3 play to break a 1-1 tie and give CC a 3-1 lead after two peri-

CC coach Jack Gumbleton, who picked up career win No. 399, felt comfortable most of the time playing 3-on-3 with speedsters Novock, Kasper and Jon Heady on the ice in front of goalie Jamie Ronavne

"We played it one up, two back and waited for the breaks," Gumbleton said. "With Heady back there we expect to get a break with him being a forward by nature."

Of course, with seven players occupying the penalty box, the players on both sides had to be less aggressive.

"There was no more room in the penalty box," CC assistant coach Jim McBroom said. CC is 6-0-2 overall and Churchill is 6-4. After a scoreless first period, Novock gave the Shamrocks a 1-0 lead, finally beating Churchill's goalie Dave Watson on an unassisted goal at 9:22 of the second period. With the penalty box filling up faster than the players could skate, Churchill's Todd Siedlaczek tied the score 1-1 at 12:01 when both teams skated

But Kasper broke the tie with his goal 45 seconds later, assisted by Brian Ronayne and Mike Giordano, and Novock notched his second at 14:30 with an assist going to Heady.

"We scored, got caught up in the emotions, got too offensiveminded and forgot about our de-fensive responsibilities," Churchill coach Jeff Hatley said.

Siedlaczek scored perhaps the prettiest goal of the night at 4:45 of the third period to pull the Chargers to within 3-2. Shawn Thomas and Corey Swider picked up assists but Siedlaczek deserved the credit after faking out Ronayne right in front of the crease and lifting the puck high into the net.

Churchill couldn't capitalize on a man advantage midway through the third period and was unable to score late in the game after pulling goalie Dave Watson. Hatley said the Chargers gained confidence after being outshot 12-4 in the first period.

"We kind of came out waiting for them to dictate play, and once we found out we can play with them we got things going," Hatley said. "We're two evenly matched teams."

Churchill has a rematch next Saturday with CC at Redford Are-

"It's good for the game and communities to have home and home games with Livonia schools," Gumbleton said. "This can grow."

Facione headed to CMU

All-Observer linebacker Jason Facione of Livonia Franklin has made a verbal commitment to play football at Central Michigan University.

Facione, a 6-foot-3, 220-pound senior, helped lead the Patriots to a 7-2 overall record. He is Franklin's all-time leading career tackler with over 300 stops. He also set a single season mark this year with 123, including 23 solos and two sacks. Facione also made three interceptions and played tight end on offense. The three-year Patriot letterwinner spent the past two summers attending CMU's football camp.

"I talked to their defensive coordinator, coach (Dick) Flynn, quite a bit at the camps," Facione said. "He got to know me as a person and that helped a lot in making my decision.

The Detroit Free Press Class A All-Stater and Detroit News All-Metro pick was also recruited by Toledo, Western Michigan and Hillsdale, but will make only one official visit - this weekend to Mount Pleasant.

'I've been leaning toward there all along," Facione said. "I know the campus and they have what I want academically. I plan to go into secondary education.'
