Doctor faces more charges

■ Charles Fisher strolled into court on Friday thinking he was going to a hearing on his retrial in the killing of his wife. But he was arrested on two felony charges. A Jackson Prison inmate has accused Fisher of paying him to say he and another inmate killed Fisher's wife.

By Joanne Maliszewski Staff Writer

Charles Fisher, twice convicted of his wife's 1984 duct tape murder and now awaiting a retrial, reportedly told a fellow prison inmate he indeed suffocated his wife in their Canton home.

That's according to a new complaint charging Fisher with two felonies. He is accused of paying an inmate to say he and another inmate broke into the Fishers' Thornwood home and killed Ella Maria Mercado Fisher, 30, on July 15, 1984.

An unsuspecting Fisher was arrested in Detroit Recorder's Court Friday morning, where he and his attorney Ken Mogill appeared for a pretrial exam for the yet-unscheduled retrial granted Fisher, 52, by the Michigan Supreme Court. Friday's hearing before retired Wayne County Circuit Judge Thomas Roumell was postponed, pending the outcome of additional felony charges.

On his way: Dr. Charles Fisher is escorted to 36th District Court, Detroit, after Wayne County Sheriff's Department deputies arrested him Friday on two felony charges. He is accused of trying to get fellow inmates to take the rap for the 1984 duct-tape murder of Ella Maria Mercado Fisher. Fisher is awaiting a retrial in his wife's killing.

Additional charges

Fisher stood mute to one count of inciting perjury, a five-year felony, and one count of attempted obstruction of justice, a 21/2-year felony, at his arraignment before 36th District Court Judge Izetta Bright Friday afternoon. Fisher is free on $10,000 personal bond. A preliminary exam on the charges is scheduled for Feb. 1 in 36th District Court.

Fence will enclose Miller Woods

BY M.B. DILLON

A three-year-old battle over how to protect the 200-year-old climax forest known as Miller Woods in Plymouth Township has ended with a decision Plymouth-Canton Schools to build a fence.

A four-foot chain-link fence will surround the woods off Powell Road east of Beck. It will be installed and paid for by Plymouth's two Kiwanis Clubs and Friends of the Miller Woods.

The decision landed in the lap of the district - owner of the property after an offer from the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth to build the fence proved controversial.

Emily Kemnitz, Friends of Miller Woods president, said, "I'm not sure a chain-link fence is all that ugly. I think we all agree some kind of protection is needed.

"We were quite relieved," added Kemnitz. "It's been a three-year process in trying to give the woods this kind of protection from dogs and bikes; we've waited a long time."

So many dogs have urinated and defecated along paths in Miller Woods that wildflowers have died off and wildlife has been scared away, she said. "It's been a chemical problem. Many of these flowers are quite sensitive to acidity, and urine and feces change the acidity.

Lynn Partin once learned about presidential inaugurations by reading the newspaper she used to deliver on horseback in Canton Township.

Last week, the 1976 Plymouth Salem High School graduate attended the swearing-in, the inaugural parade and the ball hosted by the Inaugural Commission in the Kennedy Center as a guest of President Bill and Hillary Clinton.

The Michigan State University and University of Michigan Law School graduate was rewarded for two years of hard work on the Clinton campaign in her role as chair of the Multnomah County Democratic Party in Portland, Oregon, where she lives with husband Bill Holmes.

Holmes, a Texan who also graduated from U-M Law School; mother, Evelyn Mason of Westland, who teaches at Gallimore Elementary; and dad, Clarence Partin, who lives in Canton, couldn't be prouder.

Clinton backer: Lynn Partin once delivered newspapers on horseback, but now she's riding the Democratic donkey.

'The fates were really smiling on Bill Clinton," Partin said in a phone interview from Washington, D.C.

"It's been beautiful weather. I went to the swearing-in ceremony, and the weather was chilly, but just glorious. The sun was out all day, and the sky was really blue."

Partin said she arrived in the capital too late to join the 500,000 people gathered in the mall to see the fireworks Sunday, Jan. 17.

She was, however, among the 250,000 people who received tickets for the swearing-in on Inaugural Day.

"There's no shortage of people anywhere; people are jammed together, but everyone's excited. It's not so bad," said Partin, who heads up six housing programs for the State of Or-

Watching the inaugural parade took stamina, she said.

"It lasted a long time, and it wasn't very well-placed. It seemed like for some reason, things were clumped up. You'd see a band and a float, and then for a while there wouldn't be anything. It was totally packed at the parade. The Clintons were walking along the route, smiling and waving. Al and Tipper Gore were doing the

"The security was amazing. There was very careful security on the rooftops with big guns and binoculars. But it really was unmarred by anything I know about.'

Accompanied by her 16-year-old cousin and her cousin's friend, Partin left the parade early. "We were walking to a friend's house when this little boy ran out into the middle of the street, dodging traffic. He ran up to this car. The car window rolled down and he shoved a piece of paper and pen inside. It was former MSU basketball star and Los Angeles Laker) Magic Johnson. He signed an autograph for the boy in the middle of the street."

Partin saved a flag she was carrying and yelled, "Go green."

"We received numerous calls in the neighborhoods and as soon as we shut the streets down the number of calls went to nothing,' Scoggins said, adding that minors in possession of alcohol and disorderly conduct were some of the many problems linked to cruising.

"The intent of trying to change the philosophy from reactive to a preventive approach paid off in a reduction in the cruising problem," Scoggins said.

He predicted that a number of arrests last year, like closing a "health spa" that was linked to prostitution, burglary arrests on Sheldon Road houses, and juvenile arrests in downtown Plymouth will lower crime this year.

Senior citizens have a way to get around

Senior citizens in Plymouth and Plymouth Township could virtually do without a car and use subsidized transportation if they choose. And if they want a meal five days a week that's available,

"A lot of people in the area do not know about these services," according to Sharon Thomas. Plymouth Housing Commission executive director.

All of the services are funded by state and federal grants.

For instance, seniors living in Plymouth or Plymouth Township can go anyplace within the two communities from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

First preference is given to anyone who wants to take advantage of the Meals on Wheels program at Tonquish Creek Manor in

The Michigan Inaugural Committee hosted 2,500 state residents Wednesday night at a buffet dinner-dance at the National Museum of American History. On each of three floors ball-goers were treated to buffets and to the music of four different bands and combos.

Guests dined on foods ranging from gourmet vegetable chips to chicken and wild rice. You had to make it to the third floor to partake of the Sanders hot fudge sundaes.

To record the evening's activities, guests were given single-use cameras, compliments of Perry Drug Stores. Snapshots were popping all evening as many guests used the opportunity to have their photo taken with former Governor James Blanchard and his wife, Janet, Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara and his wife, Lucille, and U.S. Rep. John Dingell and his wife, Debbie, as well as other well-known politicos.

As guests departed they were given a golden bag of goodies that included a white chocolate White House, gift certificates to Mira Linder Spa in the City and the Radisson Plaza Hotel in Southfield, American Spoon dried cherries and coffee from Hudson's.

Perhaps the most remarkable aspect of President Bill Clinton's inauguration last week, jammed as it was with more than 300,000 spectators, was that Washington police arrested no one connected with the festivities.

Wayne County assistant executive Dale Jurcisin noted the crowd's unusual camaraderie in a note to the Observer.

"The mood of everyone is contagious," he wrote. "It's a mix of revelry, hope and enthusiastic determination to be more positively involved in government. Even the people who came to see the show, with little intention of being caught up in the political mood, couldn't help but get involved with the constant political talk of change and the new beginning

"Even without a political background, anyone who sees an inaugural knows it's something historic that they've witnessed. It's very impressive," wrote Jurcisin.

Wayne County Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, also attended the inauguration. "The whole town was exuberant," she said. "People were full of hope. It was an amazing thing to be part of."

County commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton, took his wife Mary and two daughters (Lindsay, 7, and Lauren, 4) to the inauguration festivities.

Between carting Lauren around on his shoulders and finding Lindsay's first lost tooth on the Mall, Amann had a boffo time, he said.

"Every time I heard Clinton speak I felt more like an American," he said. "But because of the crowd I felt more like cattle.'

Two local teachers earn honor

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

Mike McCauley of Plymouth Canton High School and Bill Gretzinger of Plymouth Salem High School are two of five teachers nationwide to receive the Close Up Foundation-Linda Myers Chozen Award for Teaching Excellence in Civic Education.

McCauley and Gretzinger head up the country's largest Close Up program, taking hundreds of students on a week-long trip to the nation's capital every year.

Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors, Close Up stresses hands-on learning about govern-

The award recognizes extraordinary teachers in recognition of their efforts and accomplishments in helping young people develop a better understanding and appreciation of their roles as citizens, said Stephen Janger, national president of the Close Up Foundation.

"Mike and Bill, working as a most effective educational team. have created unparalleled enthusiasm in civic education on the part of their students," he said.

Janger credited McCauley with creating "a model for educators nationwide. He demonstrates his special commitment to students every year, and his dedication to providing innovative learning opportunities has made a real difference during a time in which we are increasingly seeing young people feeling powerless and alienated from our political process."

Several of McCauley's and Gretzinger's students have become congressional pages, among them Shelley Rodgers, Tara Hechlik, Kerry Davis and Cara Still-

"The most important thing about it is the questions and the issues students learn to raise when dealing with people. Mike and Bill truly have an action-oriented class. They teach their students how to think and then allow them to do that. That doesn't always happen in schools. It's a wonderful learning environment for kids

Gretzinger said the key is a love young people. "If you love working with students, you won't be overwhelmed. That's what keeps you young, and the thrill of them becoming politically active is the reward."

Three groups of Plymouth-Canton students will travel to Washington this winter in February and March.

One of Close Up's most recent activities was a survey of former students, said McCauley. A whopping 88 percent responded that they plan to vote, or are voting. Eighty-seven percent indicated Close Up helped them mature. Forty-seven percent - more than average number among the general population - say they are politically active.

On the whole, former Close Up students enjoyed the class and described the Washington trip as a highlight of their high school education, he said.

McCauley and Gretzinger were commended by Superintendent John Hoben and Sherry Frazier, media specialist at the high schools.

"Mr. Gretzinger and Mr. McCauley have played, and continue to play, a vital role in making this program the unique learning experience it is," said Hoben. "We're pleased and proud of both of them for achieving this singular honor."

Said Frazier, "People tend to think it's easy and a lot of fun to take that many students that long a distance on a trip. It's very difficult. But Mike and Bill are wellorganized and focused on fundraising and on how to get parents

SC board taps Fraser, Walsh

BY SUSAN ROSIEK

Winifred Fraser of Northville Township and John Walsh of Livonia have been named to the Schoolcraft College Board.

The pair were selected last Wednesday at a special meeting of the board. They were among 16 applicants who applied for two vacant seats on the board. Trustees Mary Breen, Steve Ragan, Michael Burley, Harry Greenleaf and Patricia Watson voted on the appointments.

The new board members, along with Watson (who was appointed in 1991), must run for election in June. The appointments are to fill the vacancies of former trustees Jeanne Stempien of Northville Township, who was elected to the Wayne County Circuit Court, and Thaddeus McCotter of Livonia, elected to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Fraser, a peer counselor at the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft, holds a doctorate from Wayne State University. Walsh, an attorney, is a member of the Schoolcraft College Foundation board which involves fund-raising, investing and distributing trust funds.

Enjoys education

Fraser served on the Western Michigan University Board of Trustees from 1985 to 1992. She began her education career at WSU as a student. She worked there as a research associate, faculty member and left the university while associate dean of the graduate school in 1984 to take a consulting position with Lutz Associates Inc.

"I enjoyed being associated with education and now I have none of those. I want to continue to be part of education," Fraser told trustees when asked about her motivation to apply for the board. "During my time in education

I have been exposed to many of the problems that face governing boards today. College budgets and fundings, the need for diversity in the faculty and students, educational program development, the extent of student services, as well as relations and partnership with the broad community have had to be addressed in each of the several roles I played," wrote Fraser in her application.

She sits on the boards of the Visiting Nurse Association of Southeastern Michigan and Mental Health Association in Michigan. She is a member of the American Association of University Women Northville-Novi branch and a former memof the Livonia Family YMCA Board of Directors.

She received the necessary four votes for nomination on the fifth ballot. SC an asset It's called damage control.

Following three failed tax-re-duction ballot proposals last November and the end of Gov. John Engler's one-year assessment freeze, local government folks are bracing for protests as residents are notified of assessment in-

At the request of Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, two county officials representing the county's bureau of taxation are touring the county to teach local officials about how the property tax assessment system works.

Last week Jim DeSana and George McEachran were in Westland, speaking to officials from that city, plus Livonia and Wayne. Redford Township and Inkster officials were invited, but none showed up.

DeSana, who is also the mayor of Wyandotte, said that "a lot of elected officials don't understand this whole issue. What we're trying to get out is that the county isn't the (entity) the people should blame (for rising assess-

The system for figuring assessment increases, DeSana said, is put out by the state government. Property owners who get mad about it, he added, ought to direct their anger at the state, not local only ones who can fix it." However, said Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett, "The people in Lansing do not understand the property tax system. Everything they've done in the last two years has been to put more (upward) pressure on property taxes." Because of the assessment freeze last year, state residents will now get two years worth of assessment variation in one dose.

The average assessment increase in Westland this year is 13 percent. In Redford Township and Livonia it's about 12 percent.

But because of the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution, which limits the amount of additional money a city or township can collect when assessments rise, the actual tax increases will be less than the assessment increases. The average property tax increase for Westland is 4.7 percent, for Redford Township 5.4 percent and for Livonia 7.5 percent.

Still, the 13 officials who attended last Wednesday's meeting in Westland continue to fret about growing property taxes and the burden they put on property

"We're being taxed to death," said Karen Hardin, Westland's assessor. "We really are."

Specifying that he was speaking as a mayor and not as a county official, DeSana said he's "afraid that if something isn't done (toreduce property taxes) we're going to force the public into an extreme position and they're going to say, 'The hell with you.'

Westland City Council Presi dent Charles Pickering said that his council expects so many additional property-tax protests this March that it plans to add an extra board of review to hear the complaints.

"We might as well be prepared for our council meetings to be full of people too," he said.

Hardin said that residents planning to appeal an assessment hike to the board of review should come prepared with proof that houses similar to theirs in the same area have lower assess-

Past boards of review in Westland, Hardin said, have granted about 25 percent of the requested assessment adjustments and 60-75 percent of the requests for assessment reduction due to an inability to pay.

Boards of review, however, are empowered to grant tax relief for one year only.

Flowerhead smells scent of success

Don't let the name fool you. They call themselves Flowerhead, but this band isn't into petal power. It's up and coming with a sound that has a solid connection with drummer Pete Levine's experiences in Europe.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Flowerhead drummer and vocalist Pete Levine and his family have this knack for picking "hot spots" to live in.

"(We) just (unintentionally) sort of head toward the spots that are about to blow," Levine said.

His father, a computer specialist, moved his family to Tehran, Iran, - where war is rampant during his son's high school years. Years later, Levine moved to the United States while his family changed residence to Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, where they lived during the Gulf War. "It was like hell," said Levine, now 32. "I was watching CNN, calling my parents telling them, 'Put on your gas mask. They're comin', dad.''

Recently, the Levines decided to play it safe and move to the United States escaping the potential addendum to the Gulf War.

Meanwhile at home, Levine was living in Washington, D.C., battling a drug problem. Divine intervention suggested he move to Austin, Texas, a potential hotbed of new musical acts. "God looked down on me and said, 'Go to Austin' . . . I kind of had a drug problem at the time. The best thing to do was get the hell out of D.C. and the problems that came with it."

It was there he founded Flowerhead with bassist and vocalist Eric Faust, guitarist and vocalist Eric Schmitz and guitarist Buz Zoller.

"It was a great thing that hap-

Since being signed by Zoo

Records, Levine has had it much easier. The budding band released its first album, "...ka-BLOOM" in October. The swirlyguitar British sound is one not often produced by Americans, let alone "four boys who are ostensibly from Texas," Levine said jok-ingly. Instead the sound was influenced by Levine's time he spent in Europe, but not similarsounding rock bands like Ride or

"We love Led Zeppelin, the Stones and the Who; I guess that must be it," he said.

The group is touring with Ned's Atomic Dustbin and the Supreme Love Gods. The tour comes to St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit on Tuesday, Jan. 26.

Levine is grateful Flowerhead got the tour.

"We've been really lucky in terms of everything that we've done," he said. "There were a lot of bands that wanted to get on this tour. Every place we've played has been packed."

This will be the "baby band's" first visit to the northern section of the Midwest. Playing in a handful of cities that may have never heard of Flowerhead is educational for the group.

"It keeps us on our toes a little bit more," Levine said.

Flowerhead opens for Ned's Atomic Dustbin and Supreme Love Gods on Tuesday, Jan. 26, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Doors open at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $13.50 in advance. Call 961-MELT for more information.

Red C has country twist for its roots rock sound

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

In creating its roots-rock sound, Red C has invented a new genre of

"We're leftist country," said lead singer Susan Calloway with a laugh.

Although not necessarily country, her band was recently named "Best Country Band" and "Country Talent Deserving Wider Recognition" at the Detroit Monthly/ Metro Times Music Awards in Detroit.

As Calloway explained, all these awards don't necessarily make Red C a country band. "We kind of . . . dabble in country," said Calloway who was awarded the "Best Country Vocalist" prize. Guitarist Tim Diaz agreed.

"The award is only as good as the people who are giving the award," said the Royal Oak resident. "There are probably really good country bands out there doing originals, but I don't know because Detroit isn't really known for its country scene."

Calloway of Ferndale explained that country does influence Red C's work. "Country is a definite influence." she said. "As far as bands that do original music in Detroit we're probably more country than any of them. At the same time, on the larger scale of country music, we'd be still way on the other

Although "roots rock," which includes The Jayhawks, Asexuals, and Gin Blossoms in its genre is more suited to Red C's style, Diaz said he doesn't mind being labeled country.

"I'm a real admirer of country music, more of the Western, Texas bop,"Diaz said. "I'm proud to be considered country . . . I'm proud that some of the people are fooled into thinking we're coun-

Nevertheless, their award-winning sound garnered them slots opening for bands like the Gin Blossoms, Swervedriver, Missionary Stew and Goober & The Peas.

So far, seeing Red C in concert. is the only way to hear their music. The group has chosen not to release any of their demo tapes for the public because of the constant growth of the band, their manager Billy Brant explained. Plans are in the works, however, for a local and perhaps national release.

"It's not smart to waste good plastic; it's gotta be the right time, you know," Diaz said.

The constant growth includes recent lineup changes. Drummer Stephen Wood jumped to rhythm guitar. Brian Ferriby of Royal Oak was hired as drummer and Joe Lambert of Howell rounds out Red C as the newly added bassist.

Wood, Calloway and Diaz founded the band five years ago after a brief separation.

"Our musical paths all went in different directions. Tim went to California and Austin, Texas. At the same time, Sue and I kinda got goin' on some projects in New York," Wood explained.

Wood and Calloway returned to Michigan and soon after, Diaz phoned the duo from California to where they wanted to start their catch up on their musical careers. The conversation made him rethink his career choices.

Dear Jilted.

All of us are responsible for graceful handling of the many disappointments and insults, real or imagined, that life inflicts on us. Your friend is making an appropriate developmental step toward maturity by falling in love and is a good role model for you to do the same.

Our culture is designed for us to pair off heterosexually, not to remain in the intense same sex relationships of our early teen years. You do not state your age so I don't know if you are just in your teens, the only time your distress is suitable.

In your mind you know what you want to get from your friend, but not the kind of person you aspire to be. Your focus is on what you can get not on what you can be. Long term this is the important issue, if you can be an adequate person.

Being a friend and having friends is not the problem; the problem is whether you can be an independent self-sufficient person who can accept disappointments, losses and separation gracefully. Can you go your own way and do your own thing enthusiastically and without com-

"Used People" has qualities that rarely come together so effectively in the movies - it's at once moving, funny, insightful and thoroughly entertaining. In the year's first pleasant surprise, director

Beeban Kidron charts four generations of a family in the summer of 1969 whose lives are changed by a mysterious Italian stranger. Shirley MacLaine has her best role in years as Pearl, a "fiftysomething" Jewish widow. At her husband's funeral, an aged Italian (Marcello Mastroianni) from her Queens neighborhood asks her out for dinner. A widower himself, he claims in no uncertain terms to have loved Pearl from afar for the past 23 years.

At first, Pearl is put off by all the attention - she's in mourning after all and he's not even Jewish. Soon his old world charm begins to wear on her. With each act of kindness, from an elaborate Italian dinner to the gift of an air conditioner, he breaks through the years of kitchen duty, guilt trips and sacrifice that have defined her role as both daughter

Kathy Bates and Marcia Gay Harden play the daughters, both divorced and both with their own unique quirks. Barbara has an eating disorder while Norma, driven crazy by the loss of both a husband and a child, has lost touch with reality. She takes on the personas of movie actresses, dressed at one point like Marilyn Monroe. Behind the bars of a teller's window, her shoulderlength blonde wig and beret come straight from Faye Dunaway in 'Bonnie and Clyde.

We share in Norma's ecstasy while watching Anne Bancroft in "The Graduate." The next day, she lures the Italian's son-in-law to a hotel and strips down to her leopard-skin underwear, backed, of course, by Simon and Garfunkel's "Mrs. Robinson." It's an incredibly funny scene.

There are plenty of tear-jerking moments, too. Family members say such routinely bitter things to one another that Barbara decides she must get away. "I love you, Ma," she says before embarking on a new life in California, "but I need to love you from a distance.

It's a treat to see movies about three-dimensional women, especially when played by powerful actresses such as these. The bits between Jessica Tandy and Sylvia Sydney (it's amazing to think she was in some of Hitchcock's and Lang's early work) are both funny and poignant, especially when they check out the facilities at a nursing home.

Here wheelchair-bound seniors learn French while others receive treatment in a modern hydrotherapy wing. But there's trouble in this seeming paradise. The toi-lets don't flush without jiggling the handles and escalators give the distinct impression that inhabitants are gliding straight up to heaven.

I didn't see director Kidron's "Antonia and Jane," a low-budget British comedy about mismatched best friends, but can now understand why it had such a healthy run at the Maple last year. Kidron has a charming and unaffected way of cluing into the often bizarre nuances that define family relationships, especially between women.

You can see what fun veteran actor Marcello Mastrojanni has depicting an aging Italian Romeo. As a former merchant seaman who has traveled literally around the world, he strings together for Pearl a litany of romantic dialogue (in at least three languages) that could easily suit a girl in eve-

"Used People" is unabashedly sentimental, but it has the right touch in almost every scene. It recalls "Crossing Delancey" or "Moonstruck," movies about people from different sides of town who come together beneath the glow of impossibly huge harvest

Here, the moon is also shown during this eventful late '60s summer when the first lunar landing takes place. A man on his rooftop looks up from his telescope and says he can see those first historic steps on the moon. The idea is ridiculous, yet the impossible often happens in this richly entertaining slice of life.

If you have a comment, question or suggestion, write to John Monaghan, Street Scene, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, or call him at 953-2047, mailbox number 1866, on a touch-tone phone.

"The Seventh Seal" (Sweden 1957), 4:15 p.m. Jan. 25. Max Von Sydow plays a knight who returns from the Crusades and now must play chess with a black-cloaked death. Ingmar Bergman's most famous film is also his most parodied, yet it still packs an emotional punch.

'Swoon" (USA - 1992), through Jan. 27 (call for show times.) Tom Kalin's highly stylized take on the Leopold-Loeb murder case, in which a pair of 18-year-old male lovers kidnapped and murdered a 13-yearold boy in 1920s Chicago. Shot in black-and-white, it focuses on beautifully shot vignettes that paint a loose but riveting picture

"Reservoir Dogs" (USA -1992), through Jan. 28 (call for show times). First-time director Quentin Tarantino's highpowered crime film, about a group of tough guys whose heist goes haywire. was produced in two countries and is cast with actors from a third.

Sometimes in the face of these bad omens, you just plow ahead anyway. That is exactly how I ended up watching a rather dreadful 1989 film called Eversmile New Jersey." The British-Argentinian production fellows the supposedly "wacky" journeys of an Irish dentist who travels the Patagonia spreading the doctrine of good dental hygiene with a fanatic religious fer-

Daniel Day-Lewis plays the dentist, who has been sent to South America via New Jersey through a dental awareness foundation. Riding a motorcycle, he stops at schools and villages to films that didn't teach rural youngsters proper brushing techniques. His motorcycle sidecar doubles as a dental chair but never gets much use since he inadvertently scares off most of his patients.

> The dentist spends most of his time haranguing anyone within earshot about the demon bacteria that causes tooth decay. He targets sweets in particular, and later expands his fury to include all food. Not eating sort of makes having healthy teeth irrelevant,

Obviously, something is eating at this guy, who has been on this trip for a long period and is shocked when a stranger answers when he calls his wife back home after no contact at all for months. Unfortunately, you never get an idea about what really is motivating this guy. As weak as this script is, I'd have to credit Day-Lewis' immense abilities for any

That other clue about a less than first-rate production comes in the form of a young girl who ends up joining the dentist on his journey. By her name, Mirjana Jokovic, I'd guess the actress is Yugoslavian. She is playing an Argentine but like most of the characters speaks in the accented English that you would hear in a badly dubbed foreign film.

There was really only one scene that amused me, and it was early on. The dentist has crashed his motorcycle and is picked up by a passing tow truck in the middle of nowhere. I know, what a coincidence. The two men are chatting as they drive down the highway but the dentist can't keep his eyes off the stogie in the corner of the other guy's mouth. Day-Lewis does a very funny build until he can't stand anymore and grabs the startled guy's cigar.

This a very flat and lifeless movie. There is very little humor for what is described as a comedy. It certainly lacks the depth and tension a successful dramatic film needs.

The ritual of tea is steeped in ceremony

A steaming cup of tea, sweetened with a spoonful of honey and served in the prettiest of china teacups - a ritual that requires serenity and re-

"My sister Ann has a passion for tea," says Peggy Donovan of Royal Oak. "She lives for her tea. It's her tranquilizer.'

My mother-in-law is the same way. She puts the kettle on even before she takes off her coat and says hello. And I believe her devotion to the spontaneous ceremony of tea is her way of taking time to pause and enjoy a moment of solitude or, more often, to share the ritual with family and friends. Conversation over a cup of tea is always thoughtful and unhurried.

Tea ranks as the most popular beverage in the world. According to ancient Chinese legend, the first tea leaves were brewed in 2737 B.C. The plant originated in a region encompassing Tibet, western China and northern India, and was introduced to Japan by Chinese Buddhist monks.

The Japanese cultivated the art of the formal tea ceremony in the 16th century, and it is still practiced today. The ceremony represents the Zen principles of harmony, respect, purity and tranquility. No wonder the western world has embraced this rite and has enhanced it with the addition of food and flowers and elegant utensils.

Use has changed

Though originally used as a mild stimulant, today we savor a cup of tea for its calming effect, as described by Donovan, co-owner of Donovan's Irish Country Store, 33317 Grand River Ave., Farmington. The Irish people greet you with a cup of tea and a plate of biscuits, much like the montage we picture, Peggy said. Bewley's Irish Breakfast tea ($28.95), actually grown in Ceylon, has been served in Bewley's famous cafes in Dublin since 1840. "People call from all over for Bewley's tea," says Donovan. Once a luxury, tea is now a staple of Irish breakfasts.

The traditional Irish butter shortbread is another Bewley's exclusive and is so rich, a couple of bites will suffice ($4.50). We also show a Royal Tara demitasse cup and saucer, handpainted with clovers ($25.95), sitting atop an Irish rose-patterned crocheted doily. The Irish brought crochet to the United States, according to Donovan. While browsing through this charming Irish emporium, I met Rita (O'Haida in Irish) Hughes from Redford Township. "We're long on the tea bit," she said as she regaled me with memories of her recent family tea held in Lansing. It was a catered Irish tea, complete with "the most delicious scones."

If you long for a tea ceremony that is steeped in tradition, indulge in an exclusive Tiffany & Co.-designed tea service. The venerable Tiffany's, in the Somerset Collection, presents its newest Limoges china pattern, American Garden. A celebration of plants and flowers of America, this red, white and blue design was three years in production, and is sure to become a future heirloom (Teapot, $290, creamer, $110, sugar bowl, $155).

Ceramic pieces

If you favor contemporary hand-crafted ceramics for your teatime table, visit the Carol Hooberman Gallery, 124 S. Woodward, Birmingham. The teapots of Mary Rose Young, a London ceramic artist, are hot collectibles.

If you're in the mood for a bit of pampering, treat a friend to tea at The NM Cafe at Neiman Marcus in the Somerset Collection. I stopped in at 4 p.m. on a Monday afternoon and enjoyed a peaceful interlude in a quiet, attractive setting. The Darjeeling tea was served in a pristine white teacup and presented on a linen-clothed table, complete with flowers.

The traditional tea included a selection of tea sandwiches, a raisin scone with strawberry jam and creme fraiche, a dark bittersweet chocolatecovered strawberry, and a wonderfully dense and not-too-sweet lemon bar. Afternoon tea is $6.95 and is served from 2:30 to 4:30 every day. Ah! The soothing ritual of tea.

Janice Hayes of Jacobson's says the Grunge Look traces its roots to her hometown of Seattle where grunge band musicians play gigs in oversized flannel shirts and big jeans with hooded sweatshirts sticking out from beneath.

Frank Caruso of It's The Ritz in downtown Birmingham says the Grunge Look is simply an outgrowth of the skateboard-surf style, pieces of big, oversized sloppy clothing thrown on and worn out the door.

M.J. Burns, Hudson's fashion director, paraphrases a People magazine article that says grunge dressing is a product of the new generation, kids in their 20s who are angry with how the baby boomers have left the world.

"They are graduating with no job prospects," she said. "They are mad at the huge budget deficit

Bargain hunters find mall

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

These days it's hard to believe shoppers could be excited about another retail center expansion, but customers of the now-joined Orchard Place Mall and Hunter's Square are.

Four months ago Bed, Bath and Beyond, Amazing Savings, Marshalls and the ½ Off Card Shop filled up display cases and plugged in their scanning machines, and their sales managers couldn't be more pleased by the results.

'Sales have been great, steadily great," said Fran Garrity of Bed, Bath and Beyond. "Our customers are local. We're drawing from Southfield, Livonia, West Bloomfield, Novi.

'We are discounters, but with a difference. Upscale merchandise. We're clean. Our store is neat, easy to shop.

June Clark, a relocation specialist with Century 21 in West Bloomfield, shopped Bed, Bath and Beyond for the first time on her lunch hour last

"I have been wanting to stop in since Christmas," she said as she walked to her car. "It's huge. They have a tremendous selection of name brands. They stock lots of merchandise. But it's not cheap. I mean, some of their cooking utensil prices are higher than I found in my favorite cooking catalogs. Yet other items are

"I just love browsing at Amazing Savings because you never know what you're going to find. They bring in new stuff everyday," said Teresa Jasper of Livonia. "I'm buying three packages of foil tinsel for 39 cents each. The tinsel is about $3 a package at card shops. I'm also buying a set of four, crystal champagne glasses by Mikasa for $13.99."

The cash or check only store offers deep savings on a hodge-podge of close-out (discontinued) merchandise purchased directly from the manufacturer, according to manager Kim Stewart.

Centers join to form shopping district

Recent renovations eliminated the parking lot barriers between Hunter's Square and Orchard Place Mall, creating a huge discount shopping district at the southwest corner of 14 Mile and Orchard Lake roads in Farmington Hills. Celebration: About 100 local Democrats who couldn't make it to Washington for the big parties celebrated on their own Wednesday. The Democrats from Plymouth and Canton gathered at a local restaurant at the invitation of Dennis Shrewsbury, a City of Plymouth commissioner, and Billy Joyner, a local Demo-

Student radio station to air staff-student Quiz Bowl game .

WSDP, 88.1 FM, will broadcast a Faculty-Student Quiz Bowl Competition at 3 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 28.

Quiz Bowl is a team competition, often compared to the TV show "Jeopardy." The competition is divided into four rounds. Teams from Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton High School face off against teachers from each school.

Quiz Bowl has seen incredible growth over the past 10 years, according to Scott Beaman, Plymouth Salem history teacher and Quiz Bowl coach. "Academic Quiz Bowl is the fastest growing inter-scholastic activity at the high school level.'

Students compete against the faculty monthly. WSDP is considering airing the competitions each month. The next Student Faculty competition will be taped at 2:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 8, in the Plymouth Salem Library. Schedules of inter-scholastic competitions can be obtained by calling Scott Beaman at 451-6600.

WSDP is owned and operated by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The radio station has been serving the community

"Community colleges in general have become and will continue to be a reasonable alternative for many students," wrote Walsh in his application to the board.

Walsh told trustees that his experience in municipal finance, fund-raising and the government-al process, his internships during college at the executive and legislative levels along with his knowledge of the political environment at the local, state and federal level, will help him make decisions as a board member.

Skills match needs

"There's a strong match between my skills and what the board needs," said Walsh, who received his law degree from Wayne State University. Walsh said he plans to seek election to the board in June.

Hospice seeks volunteers

The Hospice of Southeastern Michigan is looking for volun-teers interested in helping terminally ill patients and their families.

Volunteers perform a lot of different jobs as needed.

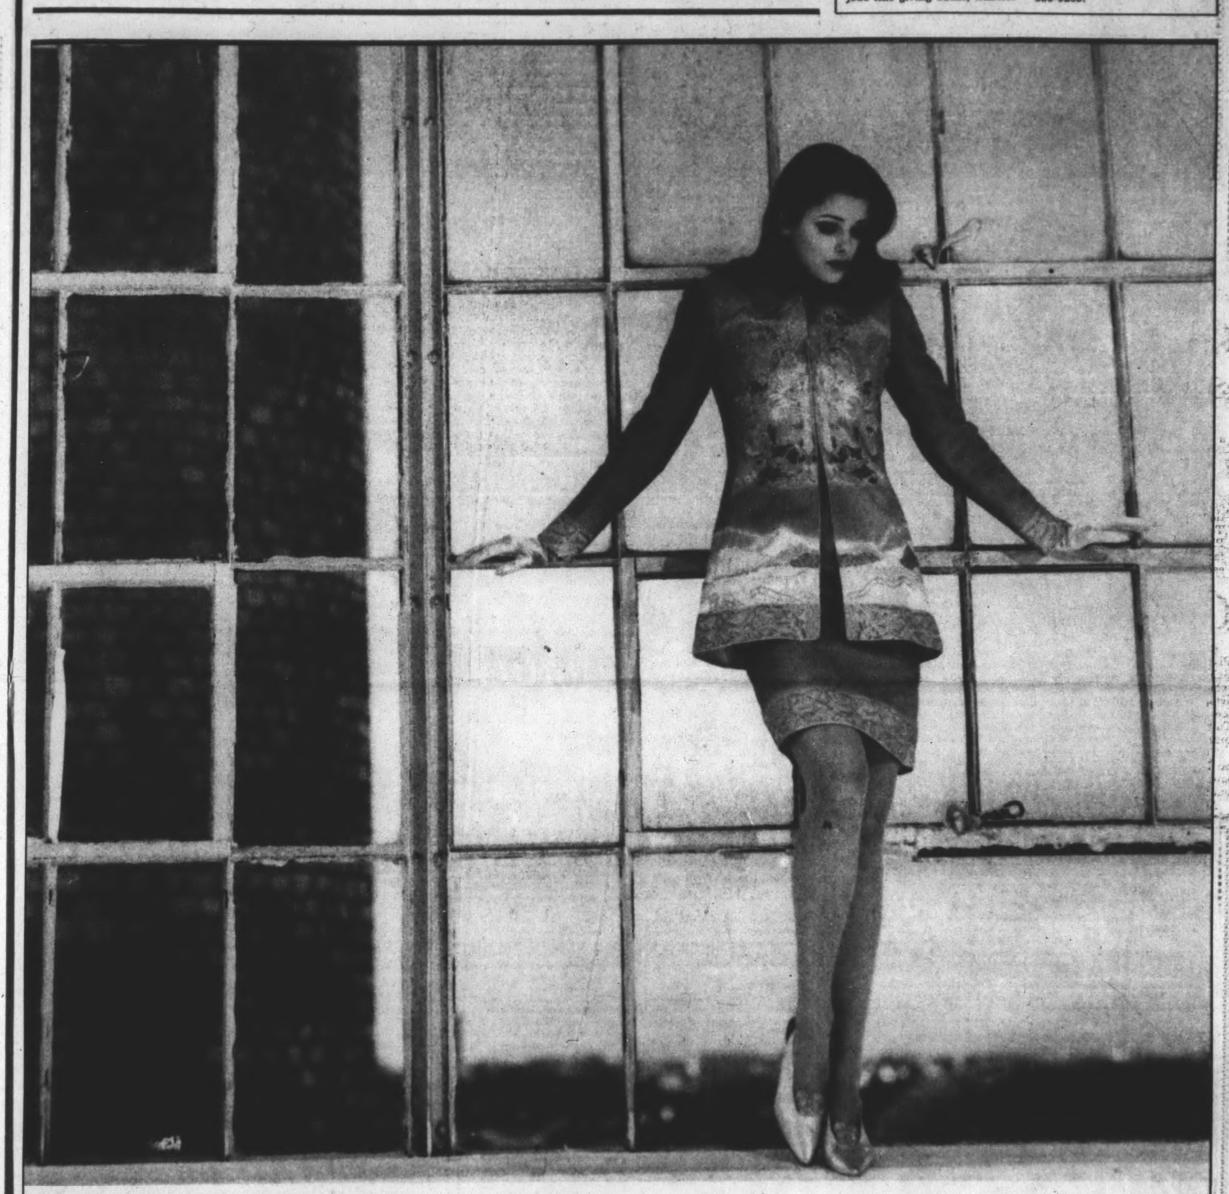

Sometimes they help patients and their families by running errands and lending support. With additional training, volunteers can do simple health care jobs like giving baths, transferring patients and changing linen.

Volunteers may also train to participate in the Hospice's bereavement program, making calls and visiting families after a patient's death.

On-call volunteers offer to be called whenever a patient needs services like driving, barbering, lawn mowing, snow removal and home maintenance.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Scour pantry to make soup full of warmth

As I look outside my window, the thermometer is just touching 20 degrees. There's a slight wind blowing, making for what I estimate to be about an 8 degree wind chill.

There's an icicle hanging from the garage that could double for a weapon in a Terminator movie.

Pantry soup

My deck could easily accommodate a hockey team, and I'm holed up in the house because our street is nothing but a sheet of ice. I can't think of a better time than now to make a pot of soup.

You don't have to be a professional chef to be able to make a pot of good soup. No doubt some soup bones and heavy cream, necessitating a trip to the grocer's, would prove amiable, but it's far too cold and slippery to even venture outdoors.

Getting started

This will be a soup full of warmth, redolent of every last scrap of meat and vegetables long forgotten in the bowels of the refrigerator.

Fortunately, the pantry is pretty well stocked and I can start with the two large cans of chicken broth. In the event they weren't there, I would have sufficed by using some granulated bouillon.

I check the base cupboards and find the threequart heavy saucepan with little effort. While down on my knees, I crawl to the refrigerator and way in the back, find half a stick of butter left over from the holidays complete with brown toast crust crumbs imbedded within.

Leftover veggies

Luckily, I also find a half head of garlic, just beginning to take root. What more could I ask for? I crawl back on all fours to find what's left of a bag of potatoes under the kitchen sink. They too have also begun to sprout.

I am tempted, while down on my knees, to wet a dishtowel in the kitty's water and wash away the crud build-up under the fridge, but relegate myself to the task at hand. I will rejuvenate myself with a warm potage and will consider cleaning after I cre-

Time to cook

With a flick of the right front burner knob to "high." I position the pot and begin unwrapping the cloves of garlic from the skin-like shells. I simply "whomp" with the French knife, which blasts them into tiny bits as the butter sizzles.

I reduce the temperature to what my stove calls "5" and notice the remnants of a forgotten thyme plant, dried to preservation state because of lack of water.

I rub a seam with my thumb and forefinger and get just about a quarter teaspoon to add to the sizzling butter and garlic. Just enough to fill the kitchen with one of those "ahhhh" smells.

The potatoes are peeled with rusty spots carefully removed and then cut into a dice that resembles the unfinished Lego car pieces sitting haphazardly next to the coffee pot. The potatoes splatter slightly as they too are thrown into the sizzling pot.

A wooden spoon plucked clean from the dishwasher offers its services, just enough to coat and stir and again, fill the air with the smell of

The electric can opener makes the sound of a car repair garage as it forces open the lid of the chicken broth cans. Had I thought to chill the broth first, I could abide by one of my New Year's resolutions - to cut down on the fat - but instead they fill the pot to within an inch of the rim.

I'm lucky enough to find two pitiful carrots lingering in the vegetable keeper of the fridge, and I toss them into the Cuisinart for a 15-second trip into chopped oblivion. They too make their way into the pot for added goodness.

Finishing touches

While the pot simmers with barely a break in the top waters, I Imperialize four slices of whole wheat bread, sprinkle them with a blend of Kraft Parmesan and jarred garlic powder, wrap tightly in foil and toss them into an oven an SOS pad would

This gives me just enough time to dissolve a half a cup of flour into a cup of half percent milk with the battery powered whisk I received for Christmas. I whisk the milk mix into the soup with a smile, knowing that in four minutes, I will be warmed again and ready to conquer the day.

Soup warms. Soup nurtures. Soup inspires. Bon Appetit!

■ Natalie Weaver raised six children on a meatless diet. She and other vegetarians are helping people discover a meal without meat can be delicious.

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

Being a vegetari-an never hurt any-Natalie Weaver is proof of that. She and her husband Dr. Arthur Weaver, have six grown children, and 17 grandchildren - all vegetarians. Her mother is 101, living alone, and independent.

Dr. Weaver is head professor of surgery in the head and neck department at Wayne State University in Detroit; son, Donald is chief of surgery at Harper Hospital in Detroit, and also teaches at Wayne State University. Another son, Robert, is an oral surgeon at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia.

Her daughters also work in the medical field. Karen McFadden is a nurse, Sharon Pittman has a doctorate in social work, Ellen Higgins is a registered dietitian, and Susan Hurt is a dental hygienist.

'A lot of mothers get excited when their kids say they want to be vegetarians. There's nothing to worry about," said Weaver who with her husband operate the "Better Living Seminars," a non-profit organization. They are Seventh-day Adventists, and their religion promotes vegetarianism.

In "Creative Cooking Without Meat," which she teaches with her daughter, Ellen Higgins, participants learn how to lower cholesterol by reducing or eliminating meat in their diets.

Don't get stirred up over dinner, stir-fry crazy, go stir-frying! This week's Winner Dinner Winner, Wendy Kuhn of Livonia, submitted a delicious recipe for stirfried lemon chicken with peppers that can be prepared, cooked and ready to eat in 30 minutes.

BETSY BRETHEN

Kuhn, originally from Virginia, learned how to cook from her mother, Elinor Kuhn, at an early age. Her mother, who was a home economist, runs a catering business in Richmond, Va.

Wendy Kuhn's interest in cooking led to a not altogether surprising segue from the kitchen to the science lab. She received her bachelor of science degree from Virgina Polytechnic Institute and State University, and her Ph.D. from the Medical College of Virginia. She is now a toxicologist for the Dragun Corporation in Farmington Hills, and does lab work, testing and risk assessments at contamination sites.

She and her husband, Larry, enjoy gardening - she tends the flowers, and he takes care of the vegetables. Together they share an interest in the performing arts and often go to plays

LEMON CHICKEN WITH PEPPERS

- 2 tablespoons cooking oil 11/2 tablespoons sesame seed
- 1 large clove garlic, minced 1 pound boneless, skinless chicken breast, cut into bite-sized pieces 1 large green pepper, cut into
- bite-sized half-inch strips 1 large red pepper, cut into bite-sized half-inch strips 1 small chili pepper, minced
- 1 cup onion, coarsely chopped 4 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced

(optional)

- 3 tablespoons lemon juice 14 cup dry white wine
- 3-4 tablespoons soy sauce 1 tablespoon water
- 1 teaspoon comstarch 1 ¼ cup white rice, cooked

Using a wok or large skillet, heat cooking oil with sesame seed oil so that a drop of water spatters when added. Carefully add minced garlic and cook for 1 minute. Add the chicken pieces, stirring the meat so that all surfaces are coated with oil. Reduce heat to medium and continue stirring chicken until all surfaces have been cooked and have turned white. Add the peppers, onions and mushrooms to the chicken and mix. Pour the lemon juice, wine and soy sauce over the meat and vegetables and stir. Cover the wok and simmer until the vegetables are softened. stirring occasionally.

Mix the cornstarch and water. Add to the wok slowly, stirring the mixture to get even thickening. Bring the mixture to a simmer. Serve over rice. Serves four people. Try one of these fruit dishes.

BAKED APPLES

4 medium-sized Empire apples 1/2 cup raisins 4 tablespoons honey

Core apples and place them in a microwave safe casserole dish. Stuff apples with raisins. Spoon 1 tablespoon of honey over each apple, making sure the raisins are coated. Add 1/2 cup of water to the bottom of the baking dish, cover and microwave on high for 8 to 10 minutes, or until the apples are tender, but not mushy. When serving, spoon the liquid over the apples. If using a conventional oven, bake apples at 375 degrees for 40 to 60 minutes, or until they are tender but not mushy.

MARINATED STRAWBERRIES

I pint fresh strawberries, sliced

¼ cup orange juice

Pour orange juice over the strawberries and stir to mix well. Allow the strawberries to come to room temperature before serving.

Light makes potatoes turn green

"My potatoes seem green around the skin - is it safe to eat them?" This is a very commonly asked question on the Food and Nutrition Hotline, said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland Cooperative Extension Service.

When potatoes are exposed to light, either while still in the garden or after harvest, the surface may turn green as a result of chlorophyll production. This greening is accompanied by the formation of a bitter substance called sola-

"Solanine if consumed in large quantities can be toxic," said Treitman. "It's best not to eat the green surface of the potatoes. It's safe to merely cut away the affected parts."

Here are some tips to keep the potatoes you eat safe: Do not consume potatoes that have sprouted. Trim and discard all green areas of potatoes.

Store potatoes in the dark. Limit the amount of potato skins you consume. Do not use wrinkled spongy potatoes - the concentration of solanine is usually high in these also.

If you want to benefit from the fiber naturally present in potato skins, we suggest using newly harvested or properly stored potatoes or potatoes without sprouts or greenish skins.

If you have other safety concerns or questions about foods, call 858-0904 the Food and Nutrition Hotline, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays for help.

Vegetable manicotti perfect for potluck suppers

Potluck suppers combine the best of two worlds. They're easy because the work is shared. They're fun since you never know for sure what will walk through the door. If you've never experienced a potluck, or just need some fresh ideas, these tips will come in handy the next time you're asked to "bring a dish."

Economy counts when you're feeding a crowd. Main dishes made with pasta or grains such as barley and rice, canned beans, lean ground beef, chicken and seasonal produce will be kind to the budget. And recipes for onedish meals like lasagna, chili and stew typically serve eight or more. These dishes also travel well and can withstand reheating.

Rely on tried-and-true recipes or flavors you know people like. Potluck supper veterans always rely on recipes they've made before or new recipes with familiar

Think about logistics. How far will you be traveling? If you don't have some way to keep what you're bringing hot or adequately chilled until you reach your destination, select something else, bread or rolls for example. Will the host have oven/stove space for reheating? Refrigerator space to keep a chilled dish cold? If you're not sure, ask.

Play it safe when transporting food to a potluck. Transfer cold foods directly from the refrigerator into an insulated cooler packed with ice or cold packs. Heat soups and stews until almost boiling, then pack in vacuum bottles. If you plan to reheat a casserole or other dish at the event, make it the day ahead so it will be well chilled.

Keep in mind that many people are trying to eat more healthfully these days. If an ingredient has a lower fat substitute, fat-free mayonnaise instead of regular mayonnaise for example, try to use it. A colorful assortment of fresh fruits and a vanilla yogurt dip swirled with honey crunch wheat germ take little time to prepare and offer an alternative to higher calorie desserts. And don't forget fiber. One of the easiest wasy to get more fiber is to eat more fruits, vegetables and grains.

Quick Vegetable Manicotti incorporates both grains and fresh vegetables and has the familiar flavors important for a potluck dish. It's extra-convenient, too, because you don't need to precooke the pasta. Just stuff the uncooked manicotti, top with the sliced vegetables and prepared spaghetti sauce and bake. Nutty, crunchy wheat germ adds fiber, protein, vitamins and minerals to the low-fat cheese filling.

For dessert, try Apple Cake With Cream Cheese Drizzle. Full of fruit and glazed rather than frosted, this cake travels well and serves a crowd.

QUICK VEGETABLE MANICOTTI

One 15-ounce container nonfat ricotta cheese

1/2 cup Kretschmer original wheat germ

2 egg whites, slightly beaten 1/3 cup chopped fresh parsley 2 tablespoons parmesan

3/4 teaspoon Italian seasoning ½ teaspoon salt (optional) One 5-ounce package manicotti (about 12 manicotti) 3/3 cup sliced zucchini

3/3 cup sliced yellow squash 3/3 cup sliced mushrooms

One 28-ounce jar reduced sodium spaghetti sauce 1/2 cup water

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Lightly spray 13 by 9-inch glass baking dish with no-stick cooking spray. Combine ricotta cheese, wheat germ, egg whites, parmesan cheese, Italian seasoning and salt; mix well. Fill individual manicotti with cheese mixture using a teaspoon, small rounded knife or cake decorating bag. Top with vegetables. Cover completely with combined sauce and water. Cover dish with foil. Bake 40 to 45 minutes or until pasta is tender and sauce is heated through. If desired sprinkle with additional parmesan cheese and wheat germ. Serves 6.

APPLE CAKE WITH CREAM CHEESE DRIZZLE

1¾ cups all-purpose flour 1/2 cup Kretschmer wheat germ, any flavor 34 cup sugar

4 teaspoons baking powder 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon

1 cup skim milk

3 egg whites, slightly beaten 2 tablespoons vegetable oil

3/3 cup apple, coarsely chopped

KRETSCHMER WHEAT GERM

Potluck supper: The next time you're asked to "bring a dish," offer to make Quick Vegetable Manicotti. Store-bought spaghetti sauce and a streamlined method make this meatless main dish extra easy.

1/2 cup nonfat cream cheese 1/4 cup powdered sugar

1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Lightly spray 13 by 9-inch pan with no-stick cooking spray. Combine flour, wheat germ, sugar, baking powder and cinnamon. Add combined milk, egg whites and oil; mix just until moistened. Stir in apple and raisins. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until wooden pick inserted into center comes out clean and cake pulls away from sides of pan. Cool completely. Combine remaining ingredients; mix until smooth. Drizzle evenly over cooled cake.

Pork chop skillet dinner cooks while you rest

AP - This skillet dinner is made for lazy, wintery afternoons. After browning the chops and adding the vegetables, set your kitchen timer and let it all simmer unattended. When the timer rings, finish your hearty dinner with a flavorful nutmegaccented gravy.

CIDER PORK CHOPS WITH VEGETABLES

1/2 teaspoon salt ½ teaspoon dried thyme, crushed

½ teaspoon pepper 4 pork chops (about 8 ounces each), cut 1-inch thick and trimmed of excess fat

1 tablespoon olive oil or cook-

2 cups apple cider or juice 1/4 cup dry sherry

2 medium onions, quartered 8 new potatoes, quartered, or 2 medium potatoes, cut into 34-inch cubes

2 large carrots, cut into 1-inch

1 turnip or rutabaga, peeled and cut into 34-inch cubes 34 cup half-and-half or light

2 tablespoons all-purpose flour 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg

In a small bowl combine salt, thyme and pepper. Rub thyme mixture onto both sides of chops. In a 12-inch skillet brown chops in hot oil over medium heat for 4 to 5 minutes on each side. Remove chops from skillet.

Add cider and sherry to skillet, scraping up any browned bits. Return chops to skillet; add onions, potatoes, carrots and turnip or rutabaga. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until tender, stirring occasionally. With a slotted spoon, transfer chops and vegetables to a serving platter, reserving the liquid in the skillet. Cover and keep warm.

For gravy, boil remaining liquid, uncovered, over medium-high heat until reduced to 34 cup (about 8 minutes). In a small bowl slowly stir cream into flour and nutmeg; add to reduced liquid, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir for 1 minute more. Pass gravy with chops and vegetables. Makes 4 serv-

Spinach does wonders for meatloaf

AP - Popeye knew what he was doing — spinach can do wonders. Here it turns plain meatloaf into a super low-fat loaf, with the help of lean ground tur-

To be sure you use the lowest fat form of turkey, purchase a turkey breast and ask your butcher to skin and grind it. Other low-fat switches in this lean loaf are egg whites substituting for whole eggs, skim milk for whole milk and yogurt for sour cream. This meatloaf ends up containing a mere 2 grams of fat per serving, quite a savings from the 15 grams in the traditional version.

SPINACH-TURKEY MEATLOAF

11/2 pounds ground raw turkey 1/2 cup sliced green onions

1/2 cup shredded carrot

1/3 cup plain low-fat yogurt 1/4 cup instant mashed potato flakes

34 to 1 teaspoon garlic salt

¼ teaspoon pepper 2 slightly beaten egg whites

1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning

about half of the turkey mixture

1/2 of a 10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach, thawed and well drained 2 tablespoons lower-calorie mayonnaise or salad dressing 2 tablespoons skim milk ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg

¼ teaspoon pepper Nonstick spray coating

¼ cup shredded carrot 2 tablespoons sliced green

onion 2 tablespoons plain low-fat yogurt

In a large mixing bowl combine ground turkey, the 1/2 cup green onions, the 1/2 cup shredded carrot, the 1/3 cup yogurt, potato flakes, garlic salt, poultry seasoning and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Stir in egg whites.

For spinach filling, in a small mixing bowl combine spinach, mayonnaise or salad dressing, milk, nutmeg and 11/2 teaspoon pepper.

Set aside. Spray a 9- by 5- by 3-inch loaf dish with nonstick coating. Spoon into prepared dish; use the back of a spoon to smooth the top of the mixture. Spoon spinach filling in a 2-inch-wide strip down the center of the turkey layer in the dish, leaving 1/2-inch space at ends of pan. Spoon remaining turkey mixture over spinach layer.

Bake, uncovered, in a 350-degree F oven for 1 to 11/4 hours or until turkey is no longer pink. In a small saucepan cook remaining 1/4 cup shredded carrot and 2 tablespoons green onion in a small amount of water, covered, for 11/2 minutes or until vegetables are crisp-tender. Drain, if necessary.

To serve, using two spatulas, carefully transfer meatloaf to a warm platter. Spread remaining 2 tablespoons yogurt over top of meatloaf; top with carrot-onion mixture. Slice to serve. Makes 8 servings.

registration continues

It's not too late to register for classes through the Plymouth-Canton Community School District's Community Education

The winter/spring Community Education brochure containing a complete list of course offerings has been sent to every residence in the district. Most classes begin on Monday, Feb. 1, and students may register at Canton High School through the first week of classes. Registration for leisure classes will be taken until classes

Community Education offers a variety of classes and programs for people of all ages. The adult leisure-time programs include classes in art, automotive technology, cooking, dance, exercise, and sports, as well as mini-classes ranging from financial planning to leisure activities.

Children may select from courses in test preparation, baby-sitting and physical activities. In addition, educational day camps are offered during the midwinter and spring breaks for children ages 5 to 11.

The adult high school completion program is available at no charge for people who do not have a high school diploma. Course offerings include English, math, science, social studies, business, computer instruction, health occupations and GED preparation.

Community Education also provides a reading program which helps adults improve their reading skills. Adults from other countries can learn to understand, speak, read and write English in the English as a Second Language (ESL) program.

Community ed Teens see Civil War come alive

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

The Civil War came alive for more than 250 eighth-graders at Pioneer Middle School who were visited Friday by members of the 4th Michigan/12th South Carolina Reigment.

Union infantry private Daniel Eleson — dressed in a wool and leather forage hat, union sack coat, sky blue wool trousers and brogan shoes — showed stu-dents how soldiers, many of whom were poor shots due to lack of training, loaded their weapons with ram rods.

"A lot of trees in the Civil War took a hell of a beating. There are all sorts of tree branches with bullets in them," Eleson told his audience. From his belt, Eleson carried a bayonet, haversack full of eating supplies, and a cartridge box.

Some of the regiment's members appeared as extras in battle scenes in the movie "Glory." Others; will be in the Ted Turner film "Killer Angels" about the Battle of Gettysburg to be released this summer.

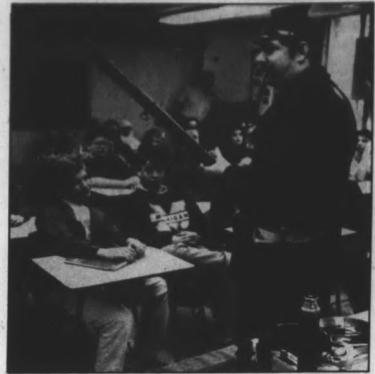

Kym Johnson, wearing dangling cameo earrings, a floor-length dress and bustle, and he long hair in a snood, spoke to students about the women who disguised themselves as men and fought battles in the Civil War. She also told students about women who plowed fields, labored in factories and worked as nurses following Sherman's and Grant's armies.

Until a woman formed the Army Nursing Corps, doctors worked "ankle-deep in blood and knee-deep in body parts," Johnson said. "The nursing corps insisted on cleaning things up. That slowed the rate of disease."

"Everyone talks about men dying in the Civil War, but women would actually cut their hair and disguise themselves and go to battle," said teacher Dick Gray. "I think it's very in-teresting. This gives kids a different perspective."

In a third classroom, Len Podlewski, posing as soldier James Edwards Jiggs Kennedy, talked to students about hardtack and other food supplies that "arrived after a couple of months in transit."

Rifle loading: Infantry private Dan Eleson shows students how Union soldiers used a ram rod to load their weapons.

Local teens win music honors

Plymouth Canton high school senior Susan Bozell won the Plymouth Symphony Society's

Youth Artist Competition. Bozell, a flutist, collected $200 and will perform at 8 p.m. Jan. 29 at the society's chamber concert at the Canton Little Theatre. Bozell also plays piano and has a slew of music-related activities to her credit. She plans to pursue dual degrees in music and an academic subject at the University of Michigan.

Salem spikes North

here was no need to worry about a Plymouth Salem letdown Wednesday after its big volleyball victory over Livonia Stevenson earlier last week

The Rocks crushed visiting North Farmington in three games (15-1, 15-7, 15-3) for their second Western Lakes Activities Association victory without a loss. Salem is 12-8-3 overall.

"We were worried after the big win Monday about laying an egg, but our kids played well, Salem co-coach Allie Suffety said.

Cyndi Platter had eight kills and two blocks for Salem. Caryn Tatterton served eight aces, spiked four kills and had 20 assists out of 49 sets.

Jenny Garvey led the defense with nine digs and 12-of-13 serve reception, and she was second on the team with six kills. Jenna Stanton added four kills, Paula Dombrowski and Jamie Viau two apiece.

"Our kids are playing well; they seem dedicated to getting better," Suffety said. "Other years we peaked early and struggled at the end. They're working to be a successful volleyball team.

■ Plymouth Canton evened its WLAA record at 1-1 Wednesday with a victory over Farmington (15-9, 5-15, 17-15, 15-4).

Chiefs topple Raiders

lymouth Canton dealt visiting North Farmington its first dual-meet defeat in girls gymnastics Wednesday.

The No. 5-ranked Chiefs (5-1) scored 132.75 and the Raiders (6-1) finished with a 119.5 total. "One thing I'm seeing is a lot more consistency," Canton coach John Cunningham said. "The scores are starting to move up like they're sup-

"A lot of kids are sharing in the team effort and performing up to regional level. To me that's success when you have a lot of kids who are able to qualify for the regional."

Canton senior Kim Rennolds had the top score on vault (8.9), beam (8.35) and floor exercise (9.35). She was third on bars (7.75) and finished with the best all-around score at 34.85.

Canton's Jenny Tedesco (34.1), North's Michelle Tsai (32.3) and Adrienne Brenner (31.25) were the next best in all-around competition.

Tedesco was first on bars (8.75), second on beam (8.3) and floor (8.7) and fifth on vault (8.35). Tsai was among the top six on vault, third (8.6); bars, second (8.55); and floor, fourth (8.15) Brenner's best finish was on beam where she was third (8.15). She tied for fifth on floor (7.8) with teammate Mindy Sofen and North's Hillary Lum, and she was sixth on vault (8.15) and bars

North's Elyse Turner tied for fourth on bars (7.3) with Canton's Kim Lewke and Canton's Kim Nowak on beam (7.9). Lewke also was second on vault (8.8) and Nowak third on floor (8.6).

North's Jenny Japenga placed fourth on vault (8.45) and Canton's Michelle Cimeot fifth on op-ranked Plymouth Salem backed up its No. 1 rating in gymnastics by winning the Midland Invitational and finishing ahead of defending state champ Muskegon Mona Shores on Jan. 16. The Rocks had a 144.4 team score in the 13school meet, Mona Shores 141.6, Freeland 136.1, Rochester 134.7 and Traverse City 130.3.

'We're still not up to full strength, because we're still working on new, more-difficult tricks to show at the end of the year," Salem coach Johanna Anderson said. "That means our score will con-

Sofios seventh (35.55). Sarah Makins scored 34.35

Salem scores and places on vault were: Gonyea, first (9.15); Hopson, second (9.05); Miller, fourth (8.95); Sofios, sixth (8.8) and Makins, ninth (8.65). Miller was first on bars (9.45), Sofios third (9.2), Gonyea ninth (8.85) and Makins 10th (8.8). Hopson scored 8.4.

The beam results were: Gonyea, second (9.2); Hopson, third (9.1); Miller, fifth (8.7); and Sofios, sixth (8.65). Makins scored 8.2.

Miller placed fourth on floor (9.25), Gonyea fifth (9.2), Hopson sixth (9.15) and Sofios ninth (8.9). Makins posted an 8.7.

■ Salem (3-0) also won a Western Lakes Activities Association dual meet at Westland John Glenn last Monday, 143.8 to 130.1. Miller (36.4), Hopson (35.85), Sofios (35.65) and Gonyea (35.45) were the top four all-arounders.

The top scores by event were, vault: Gonyea and Miller 9.0, Hopson 8.89, Glenn's Marissa Maybouer 8.5, Sofios 8.45; bars: Sofios 9.05, Miller 8.95, Hopson 8.85, Makins 8.8, Maybouer 8.4; beam: Miller 9.35, Sofios, Gonyea and Hopson 9.05, Salem's Stefanie Angiulo 8.85; floor: Miller 9.1, Gonyea and Hopson 9.05, Sofios 8.9, Angiulo 8.75 and Salem's Zoe Yockey 8.35.

Salem victory: Plymouth Salem averaged last year's loss to rival Plymouth Canton in a swimming dual meet Thursday with a 110-76 win. Salem's Aaron Berlin was second in the 500-yard freestyle (above) and the 200, and he was on the winning 400 freestyle relay team.

Salem swimmers reach deep for win

Plymouth Canton won more events but Plymouth Salem's depth was the deciding factor Thursday when the Rocks defeated the Chiefs in a swimming dual meet, 110-76. Salem dominated the last four events after Canton had fired many of its best shots.

uck Olson should take his luck to Las Vegas or use it to play the Lotto.

Actually, it was far from just luck that enabled the No. 8-ranked Rocks to defeat host Plymouth Canton 110-76 Thursday. Salem is 3-1 in dual meets, the Chiefs 2-2.

Olson knew what he was doing when he made out his lineup, but he had to gamble a little bit and take calculated risks in a number of

Canton won eight events, but Salem still outscored the Chiefs in five events by taking second, third and Plymouth Salem boys swim coach fourth places. The top five places points using a 6-4-3-2-1 system

"If you keep rolling the dice enough," Olson said, you're pushing your luck. "If you have one dice or three, it's hard (to do). We were very fortunate that all our guys did what they had to do.

"If they won an event, we had to go 2-3-4. All they needed was a fourth and they got a push. They got a lot of sevens (for first and fifth places) and we got a lot of nines.

Canton's Mike Orris and Jeff Clark were double individual winners in freestyle races and also helped the Chiefs win two relays.

Orris was first in the 200-yard freestyle (1:53.84) and 500 (5:01.86), and Clark won the 50 (22.91) with a pool record and 100 (50.47).

Orris, Joe Foster, Craig Steshetz and Clark combined for first place in the medley relay (1:43.53). Clark, Steshetz, Todd Gillihan and Orris comprised the winning 400 freestyle relay team (3:28.31).

Other Canton winners were Jason Fowler in diving with 238.5 points, and Foster swam a "great race" to win the butterfly (58.62), Canton coach Hooker Wellman said.

"They depthed us tremendously, but it doesn't hurt quite as bad when you win a majority of the events," he said. "We knew going in we didn't have a chance to win the thing, but we wanted to come out of it with some respectability and faster times.' Salem had a strong finish and, leading 72-68 after eight events, outscored the Chiefs 38-8 in the last four. The Rocks went one-two in the 200 freestyle relay. David Bracht, Matt Erickson, Joe Ervin and Fred Locke were first (1:33.98) and Alex Beard, Mark Levitt, Drake Shackelford and Aaron Berlin second (1:38.09).

Salem finished 1-2-3 in the back stroke and breaststroke, outscoring Canton 26-6 in those two events.

It was Scott Helmstadter (59.38), Chris Lynn (1:01.6) and Eric Seidelman (1:02.42) in the backstroke. Beard (1:08.11), Phil Hoffmeyer (1:08.12) and Andy Dettling (1:08.76) swept the top three places in the breaststroke.

Salem fends off Farmington upset bid

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

Farmington envisioned an upset Friday night, but unbeaten Plymouth Salem refused to go down in a Western Lakes Activities Association basketball game

The No. 6-ranked Rocks overcame a fast start by the Falcons and weathered a second-half rally to defeat visiting Farmington 71-57.

Salem improved to 3-0 in the WLAA and 9-0 overall. The Falcons are 2-1 and 5-4.

"Every game is a battle because we're up there in the rankings and undefeated," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "People are going to come after us hard."

Farmington jumped in front 11-4, but the Rocks scored the next 10 points to take the lead. Salem led 16-13 after one quarter and 37-25 at half-

The Rocks expanded their lead to 49-25 in the third quarter, but Farmington narrowed the gap to seven points (54-47) before Salem regained control in the last three minutes.

"We felt good about the fact we hung in there," Farmington coach Denny Mikel said. "Early in the third quarter, we could have folded up and got blown out real bad.

"We felt we were going to be able to come in here, surprise them and win this one. It's been awhile since Farmington basketball felt positive about their chances going into certain games. That's a tribute to the play-

Salem had too much height and inside strength for the Falcons, who were badly outrebounded.

James Head, who scored 20 points as did teammate Mike Slone, combined with Brian Jensen, Brandon Slone and Harold Shanks to control the boards. Jensen added 10 points and Brandon Slone six.

The big factor was size," Mikel said. "There's no way we could rebound with them. "We had four offensive rebounds and they had 17, according to our stats. That kinda sums up the dominance they had on the boards against Farmington's Scott Menser scored game-high 21 points, which included three three-point field goals. Stanley Lewis finished with 17 and Brian Salem led 22-20 in the second quarter when the Rocks kicked their transition game into high gear and scored 11 unanswered points. Head punctuated the surge with back-toback dunks, one a monster, twohanded slam.

"Farmington came at us with such pressure we said 'We're going to take off on you' and were successful. They backed off and it was a little easier, but then we weren't scoring as much.'

Salem appeared to have turned the game into a rout, scoring the first 12 points of the third quarter as its lead bulged to 24. The Falcons missed their first six shots of the third quarter and didn't have a field goal until 3:04 was left. But Farmington made six of its last seven shots and cut Salem's lead to 53-38 entering the finale.

Brodie had begun to substitute near the end of the third quarter, and the starters were still out when the fourth period started. However, they were back when Farmington trimmed the lead to 54-47 with five minutes

Rocks repel Rockets in wrestling dual

Great loss. A contradiction in terms, right?

Not always

Because of Wade Langdon's 7-0 loss to Westland John Glenn's Mike Reeves in the 171-pound weight class, the Plymouth Salem wrestling team was able to pull out a 36-33 win Thursday in a Western Lakes Activities Association dual meet.

"If Reeves pins our guy, the best we could've done was tie," Salem coach Ron Krueger said. "But Wade did a real nice job."

Reeves, unbeaten and a defending state champion, didn't score a point on Langdon in the third

After Glenn's Jim Lock pinned John Rakozy in 4:07 at 189, the Rockets took a 33-30 into the final match. Heavyweight Ryan Giuliani pulled it out for Salem by sticking Shawn Arbagast in 3:30.

"This was a real nice meet," Krueger said. "Especially considering that all of our points were scored by underclassmen.'

The Rocks won six of the first eight matches. Scott Hughes (103), Mark Burley (125), Phil Mitchell (130) and Steve Hughes (140) scored pins. At 119, Salem's Brian Harreld won a 5-1 decision over Aaron Teague. At 145, Aaron Lapinski won a wild 17-15 decision over Glenn's Jason Carpenter.

Glenn got pins from Anthony Underwood (112), Matt Graca (135), Gerry Simoneau (152) and Brian Kolb (160).

Salem, 2-1 in the conference and 3-3 overall, will be host to Walled Lake Central on Thursday. Glenn (2-1, 4-1) next wrestles Thursday at un-

CANTON WRESTLING Farmington Harrison had a strong finish Thursday and managed to defeat visiting Plymouth Canton

The Hawks jumped in front 23-0 after the first five bouts and, after Canton closed to within 23-21, claimed victory in three of the remaining four weight classes.

Harrison's Brian Atkinson (103) won by decision, 5-2; Matt Whitten (112) decision, 11-7; Brad Birkett (119) pin, 2:40; Derek Jaeger (125) technical fall, 19-3; and Andrew Dzyngel (130) pin, 3:15. The Chiefs rebounded by winning the next four bouts. Nick Spano (135), Ryan Conner (145) and Bill Buslepp (152) recorded pins, and Dave Smith (140) won a 4-3 decision over Mark Lesperance in one of the best bouts. Spano pinned his opponent in 1:54 while Conner and Buslepp took less than a minute at 54 and 41 seconds, respectively. Harrison pulled away with wins (two pins and one decision) in the 160, 171 and 189 bouts. Canton heavyweight Matt Remmy won with a pin (1:27).

Swimming

Salem capped the meet with a victory in the 400 freestyle relay by Ervin, Berlin, Bracht and Helmstadter (3:33.43).

Olson figured the Rocks would finish in that manner, just as he anticipated Orris and Clark having the kind of success they did for Canton.

'We knew they could only swim Orris, Foster and Steshetz so many times and wherever they didn't swim them we had to go hard at them," Olson said. "Depth, like all teams like to have, came through for us.'

Salem also had the winning time in the individual medley from Ervin (2:11.83).

The Rocks finished second and third in the 200 freestyle: Berlin (1:56.71) and Seidelman (1:57.51), 50 freestyle: Locke (23.40) and Erickson (23.93), butterfly: Erickson (59.21) and Wiklund (1:00.03); and diving: Woody Thomas (231.9) and Justin Richardson (212.8).

Canton swim: Craig Steshetz finished second in the individual medley and the 100 freestyle for the Chiefs. He also was on two winning relays.

CC skiers finish among top 3

After having three ski meets postponed due to lack of snow, Redford Catholic Central has made it out to the slopes.

The Shamrocks have placed second and third, respectively, in their first two giant slalom meets at Mount Brighton.

CC placed third on Tuesday with 471/2 points. Okemos took first place with 42 and Brighton was second at 44. Tim Williams was CC's top skier, placing second individually with a combined time of 32.23 seconds.

No. 3 Shamrocks beat No. 2 South

BY STEVE KOWALSKI STAFF WRITER

It looks like Redford Catholic Central will get to trade places with Grosse Pointe South in this week's Class A state boys hockey rankings

CC, No. 3 last week, defeated No. 2 South, 5-3, in a Michigan Metro Hockey League game played Saturday at Redford Ice Arena.

Trenton, another Metro League member, will likely remain atop the Class A rankings, with CC moving up to No. 2 and South dropping to No. 3. The Shamrocks, who led 3-0 before the game was four minutes old, improved to 3-1-1 in the Metro and 9-1-2 over-

South falls to 10-1 overall, 4-1 in the Metro.

"This means to us that we know where we fit in, that we have a chance," CC coach Jack Gumbleton said. "We were fired up, moving very quickly and were ready for this game. The team put on a marquee performance."

Frank Novock, Jeff Helner, Ken Lauer, Brian Ronayne and Jon Heady scored goals for the Sham-rocks and defenseman Mike Kasper had three assists. Novock gave the Shamrocks a 1-0 lead with a power-play goal at the 2:00 mark of the first period, assisted by Kasper and Brian Ronayne.

CC made it 2-0 after Helner scored a goal at 3:03, assisted by Kasper, and the Shamrocks went ahead 3-0 when Lauer scored 22 seconds later, with assists going to Heady and Jason Bellinger.

"We played a good team, a fast team - they came out flying," South coach Bob Bopp said. "This is no excuse but we've only played once a week for the last two weeks (because of a postponement against Ann Arbor Huron) and we couldn't slow them down. This is the first game we've lost, so maybe we'll learn from it."

But CC's Brian Ronayne increased the lead back to three, 4-1, scoring on a power play at 11:42 after a scramble in front of the South net. The period ended with CC ahead 4-2 after South's David Tucker scored a power-play goal at 14:27 of the first period.

CC outshot South 44-40. Gumbleton wanted to give praise to defensemen Kasper and Brian Ronayne, who played most of the first period because another top defenseman, Mark Holdridge, was benched for missing a practice. Heady, Novock and Hilner also Canton led 44-42 with 4:30 left in the fourth quarter before scoring seven of the last nine points in the game. Juniors Al Hollingsworth and Matt Paupore led Canton with 13 points each.

Sophomore point guard Ted Docks, who was projected as a starter, played a couple minutes after missing the first eight games with a broken toe. Docks failed to score but his presence was encouraging, according to Paye.

"It's going to take a couple weeks to get back into it, but he's a real smart-player and will give us good floor leadership," Paye said.

Canton led 13-9 after one quarter and 30-22 at halftime. Franklin outscored Canton 9-6 in the third quarter to pull within 36-31.

RCC 72, NOTRE DAME 57: Senior forward Brian Paluk scored 14 of his game-high 23 points in the second half Friday to break a 27-27 halftime tie and give visiting Redford Catholic Central its second straight win in the Catholic League Central Division.

The two teams were tied 46-46 after three quarters before the Shamrocks outscored ND 26-11 in the fourth quarter. The win leaves CC at 4-5 overall, 2-2 in the Central Di-

ND is 5-4 overall and winless in four Central Division games.

Paluk, Jeff Gutt and Andy Slankster combined for 36 of CC's 45 points in the second half. Gutt finished with 14 points, 12 in the second half, and Slankster had 10 of his 12 points in the second half.

Notre Dame's senior guard Terrance Porter had 18 points, but none in the fourth quarter. CC's man-to-man defense held Notre Dame to 30 second-half points.

MAGAPE 57, LIVINGSTON 43: Junior forward Brandon McKelvey scored 24 points and grabbed 17 rebounds Friday to lead host Plymouth Agape Christian past Livings-ton Christian.

Agape is 4-5 overall and Livingston fell to 5-4. Agape led 15-6 after one quarter and 29-16 at halftime. The lead ballooned to 45-25 after Agape out-scored Livingston 16-9 in the third Junior guard Peter Muench added 20 points for Agape. Eric Reed led Livingston with 19 points.

Agape beat Livingston Christian in a girls volleyball match, also Friday at home, 15-8, 15-7.

PCA 57, S'FIELD CHRISTIAN 54: Plymouth Christian overcame an 18-8 deficit after one quarter Friday and beat Southfield Christian at Lowell Middle School.

The comeback win gave Plymouth Christian a 3-7 record overall and 2-3 mark in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

The Eagles outscored Southfield Christian 17-8 in the second quarter to pull within 26-25 at halftime. Plymouth Christian trailed 39-37 after three quarters but outscored Southfield Christian 20-15 in the fourth quarter to go home victori-

Senior forward Jason Neil triggered the rally with a game-high 24 points and five rebounds. Junior Ryan Bigelow added nine points and sophomore Dan House scored eight. Sophomore Ryan Thomason contributed 11 assists.

Wechter), and we drop down to 5-When Dana Hudson doesn't score in double figures for Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team, trouble looms.

Hudson, a sophomore from Bir-mingham Marian, was held to a season-low six points Wednesday as visiting Schoolcraft suffered an 80-57 loss to upstart St. Clair Community College.

Schoolcraft, which uses only seven players because of injuries to key personnel, fell to 8-9 overall and 1-6 in the Eastern Conference. St. Clair, not long ago the laugh of the Eastern Conference, improved to 14-3 overall and 7-1 in the Eastern Conference. St. Clair's fortunes in men's and women's basketball turned around after a full-time athletic director was hired and more money was pumped into the athletic department a few years ago, according to Schoolcraft women's coach Jack Grenan.

"It gives you some idea what a full-time staff and extra money can do," said Grenan, a part-time coach. "It's a matter of economics (at SC), and we understand that."

Despite Hudson's off-night, SC trailed only 37-32 at halftime. Grenan said the Ocelots could have been in even better shape at halftime but seven of their firsthalf turnovers resulted in five St. Clair layups.

St. Clair's Angie Cerne scored 14 of her game-high 16 points in the first half.

"It was just a matter of us getting mentally and physically tired," Grenan said. "St. Clair had three players over 6 feet and our tailest is 5-11 (Alisa

the Eastern Conference.
St. Clair, which enjoyed a 58-37 halftime lead, had six players in double figures, led by Kig Jones with 32 points.

SC, again playing without leading scorer Jarvis Murray (out because of academic problems), was led by Mo Abdrabboh's 33 points. LaMonte Fondren scored 17 points despite making only five of 11 free throws, Steve Whitlow had 14 and Shawn Branum added 12.

Madonna women suffer district defeat

By C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

Consider Thursday's lesson just part of climbing the ladder.

The ladder in question is being scaled by Madonna University's women's basketball team, guided by second-year coach Bill Potter, as it attempts to reach the pinnacle of the NAIA's District 23.

The journey, as the Lady Crusaders are learning, can be an arduous one, filled with pitfalls - like Thursday's against University of Michigan-Dearborn. UM-D can hardly be considered one of the district's elite, but, then again, neither is Madonna. That was evident in its 79-70 home-court defeat. "We just fell asleep," said a disappointed Potter, whose team has followed a 2-0 start with three-straight district losses. "They executed (down the stretch) and we didn't. We started coming back, then . . . I don't know. We lose our intensity. It's something we're going to have to work on. If the Crusaders plan on making the four-team district playoffs this year - one of the rungs on the aforementioned ladder they'll have to learn how to finish off an opponent, especially when they're down.

Which is the position Madonna had the Lady Wolves in - twice, if you're keeping count. Throughout the middle portion of the first half, the Crusaders were close to pulling away. An 11-4 run that started with a Jill Burt basket with 10:40 left and ended with a Cheri Sangregorio bucket at 6:21 gave them a 28-22 lead.

But that's when the drowsiness started. Madonna managed just one basket and two free throws the rest of the half, and in the final 3:15 got nothing at all - except four turnovers, two misses on front ends of one-and-one free throws, and two clunkers from the field, including a blown layup.

That left the door ajar for UM-D, and the Wolves took advantage, outscoring the Crusaders 15-4 in the last 6:05 of the half to take a 37-32 lead into halftime.

Not much changed in the first 41/2 minutes of the second half; were it not for five UM-D turnovers in that span (the Wolves had eight in the entire first half), the deficit facing Madonna would have been more than it was: 44-

Again, the Crusaders showed they did have the weapons. They scored the next eight points, five coming from Stephanie Niebauer. It took them another six minutes to finally catch, and pass, UM-D, but they did, on two free throws by Kathy Wagner with 7:39 left that made it 55-54.

So they were in that position again, the opportunity to safely tuck this one into the win column. Both teams had entered the game with 2-2 district records; UM-D had superior size, with sixfooters Tricia Lukas and Heather Towery, but Madonna had done a fair job defensively neutralizing

Until the last five minutes. Four-straight free throws by April Blanton had given the Crusaders a 64-62 lead. Then Lukas, a former volleyball player at Schoolcraft College, took command.

The senior forward came out to the high post and twice nailed short jumpers, allowing the Wolves to recapture the lead. Madonna never regained it.

"It wasn't so much we had substituted," Brodie said. "We didn't make very good decisions. Our passing and shot selection was not very good, and Farmington was on a roll.

"The bonus was we had our starters sitting and resting, and they were ready to come back for the push in the fourth quarter. Any time you have your starters rested and theirs have been playing all the time you have an advantage."

Brandon Slone's three-point play with 31/2 minutes to play put Salem up 60-48. Head sank six free throws and Mike Slone three baskets in the last half of the fourth quarter as Salem settled

"We were off tonight from the perimeter," Brodie said. "We had no outside game to speak of. We did take advantage of our height. At times you're going to have to win with your defense and hard work inside."
