City vote filing deadline nears

Although the city commission election won't arrive until November, with a possible primary in August, the deadline to file as a candidate is just over a month away. While some incumbents weigh their options, potential challengers have begun lining up.

For potential Plymouth city commission candidates, it's not too early to think about a possible commission primary in August.

That's because the filing deadline for nominating petitions is 4 p.m. May 18.

Still, some incumbents and rumored candidates-to-be say they haven't decided yet on running.

Should eight or more candidates file petitions to run, a primary election would be held in August to narrow the field.

If fewer than eight file, there would be no primary. Regardless, voters will elect four city commissioners in November.

The spots open are three four-year terms and one two-year term, which goes to the fourth-highest vote getter.

Mayor pro-tem Doug Miller, who is serving that two-year commission term, said he's undecided about running this year.

"I haven't really thought about it a lot; I haven't really had enough time to give it a lot of thought," he said.

Other commission seats up for grabs in November are held by commissioners John Vos III, Stella Greene and James Jabara.

Jabara, by the city charter, is ineligible to run, having served nearly two consecutive terms.

Vos, who finishes his first four-year term on the commission in November, said he's considering running for re-election.

"I'm talking to the people who supported me in the last election," he said. "I'll probably end up doing it; there is a lot of work."

Greene is serving the term vacated by Jerry Vorva last fall, as he won election to the state House. Will she

To some, animal-rights activists are an emotional sort. After all, they throw blood at folks wearing fur coats, right?

But Mike Chiado of Plymouth Township said he was moved to become an animal-rights activist because the intellectual arguments were compelling.

Chiado, 37, faced trial last week in Chelsea district court on a charge of violating the state hunter harassment law in October on state land near Hell, Mich. The charges were dismissed on a technicality, as it was determined that the hunters approached by the activists weren't hunting legally.

On his beliefs, Chiado said, "It's having a respect for life. I can't give back a life, so I shouldn't take it," he said.

Before he got into the animal-rights movement, Chiado said he was moved to become a vegetarian in the late '70s, after an all-night debate with a hunter.

"I decided I just wasn't going to eat meat anymore. I was an ethical vegetarian. The next day at breakfast I had eggs and I didn't order sausage.

"I thought we didn't have a right to eat them (animals); we could eat other foods. It seems like an obvious way to create more compassion in the world."

When one takes animal rights seriously, there are positive ramifications, Chiado said.

Wolverine state gets visit from real thing

Two possibly soon-to-be-famous wolverines—the furry, four-legged variety—visited Plymouth last week.

Nature film maker Steve Kroschel and his two pet wolverines One Paw and Bear stayed Tuesday night at Helen Hopkins' home on Ross Street.

Kroschel and the animals are featured in the March issue of Smithsonian magazine. He's making a movie featuring One Paw as a central character in the story of a young boy and his journalist mom who go to Alaska.

Hopkins met Kroschel and the wolverines at the Wolverine Outdoor Education Camp in Wolverine, Mich. Her son Don Pecklington works there. "I was up there in February," she explained.

The camp routinely attracts school groups, including kids from Our Lady of Good Counsel School in Plymouth. "Steve Kroschel was driving north on I-75 when he saw the town of Wolverine," Hopkins said, adding the film maker soon turned up at the camp.

There, the camp owner asked if he'd do a program showing off the wolverines, and eventually booked Kroschel for school presentations—including some visits at metro Detroit schools, hence the stopover at Hopkins' Plymouth home.

The wolverines, Hopkins said, are tame. "He's reared them since they

Housing commission scores

Plymouth's Housing Commission was recently evaluated along with other Detroit area housing commissions and was the only one to receive a score of 100 percent.

Safety week

Plymouth Township joins governments around the country in observing National Building Safety Week today through Saturday.

"The importance of construction codes and their enforcement is often overlooked until some great fire or other construction-related tragedy occurs and shocks peoples' consciousness," said

Charles McIlhargey, chief township building official.

McIlhargey said his staff is available to help township residents regarding codes and building-related matters.

Former Michigan first lady Paula Blanchard speaks on "Making Choices and Managing Risks: Women Meet the Challenge" at 6 p.m. April 19 at the Mayflower Meeting House.

Man suspects roommate of tape-deck theft

A 30-year-old Plymouth man told police that sometime on April 7 or 8 someone removed a $350 AM-FM cassette stereo from his 1992 Geo which was parked on Sheldon Road.

The passenger-door window was broken, and the thief or thieves removed the cardboard replacing it to enter the car.

The complainant suspects his former roommate. The 22-year-old suspect, an Ypsilanti resident, and the complainant fought over rent money. The complainant said he has been harassed by the suspect since he moved out.

Breaking and entering

A 60-year-old man from Livonia told police that his business on Hamilton Street was broken into sometime April 6 or 7. Taken was $20 in cash and coins from the owner's desk. Damaged were two leather briefcases and a metal file cabinet. Entry apparently was made through a window, officers said. Glass was removed with a screwdriver found in the office. Police also found footprints at the scene. There were no known suspects at press time.

School district sets town meeting on restructuring

Teachers, administrators, parents and students studying ways to restructure high school education in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have scheduled their next "town meeting" for 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 28, at the Canton Little Theater.

Participants will offer their ideas on how the curriculum, rules, norms and policies should be changed.

"Our past has been characterized by restructuring initiatives that have not been sustained, in part, because we have not presented the faculty with a unified plan and commitment for change," the restructuring committee said.

The intent of the town meetings is to talk about the reasons for restructuring and decide on a restructuring model to pilot in the fall of 1994. Schoolwide implementation is slated for the fall of 1997.

Among the questions being addressed are:

- How will technology play a part in the classrooms of the 21st Century?
- Why do we need to change the master schedule?
- How can we create a more humane environment for students and teachers?
- How do we create a desire to learn in students who do not come with a desire to learn?
- What is our responsibility in regard to creating this desire to learn? Is this more the responsibility of the home or others?
- What are the work and technical skills needed, and how do we know if students have achieved them?

Heading up the restructuring effort are faculty members including Canton High School Principal Tom MacKenzie and Jerry Morris and Peggy Bozyk.

THE IMPORTANCE OF TIME IN ARTHRITIS

When you see your doctor because of arthritis, one of the first questions he may ask is: "How long have you hurt?"

Make your answer as precise as possible; what you relate is important. For example, you may be able to tell him you've had pain on and off for years. As distressing as the disturbance is for you, the doctor can give you assurance. Arthritis present for months to years, waning and waxing, is unlikely to result in impairment.

Joint pain that comes on overnight and is accompanied by marked distress and swelling, may seem threatening to you. However, this presentation is the feature of gout, a condition readily resolved. A similar situation occurs in polymyalgia rheumatica. Pain comes on over days and is incapacitating. This pattern is characteristic of polymyalgia, a condition that medicine can treat.

In contrast, arthritis that develops over weeks to months, in a fashion known as "insidious onset," is evidence for a long term problem. This relation between time and pain is associated with rheumatoid arthritis, a condition that can be treated but rarely ended.

Thus, knowing when your arthritis began, often provides your doctor the best indication of how and where your arthritis will end.

EMU to study Willow Run's impact in area

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Small businesses in Canton will be surveyed randomly to determine how the closing of the General Motors Willow Run plant affects them.

"We want to see what effects are out there," said Charles Monsma, director of the Institute for Community and Regional Development at Eastern Michigan University.

Monsma's organization will poll businesses in areas surrounding the Willow Run plant in Washtenaw County, as well as in western Wayne County, through local chambers of commerce.

"Canton, of course, is still growing and booming," Monsma told Canton Chamber of Commerce members Wednesday. "Although this is a little blip, the community is moving in a positive direction."

ICARD has been studying the effects of GM's decision to close the Willow Run plant. The organization conducted a study before the decision to close as well.

"The biggest impact in Detroit will be around here," Monsma said, referring to GM's latest round of closings, including Willow Run.

Approximately 131 Willow Run employees live in Canton.

Monsma's results are skewed somewhat because his studies do not include the announced closing ing this year of the Livonia Delco Chassis plant, which will put 2,000 out of work.

Altogether, Monsma said approximately 35,000-36,000 GM employees will lose jobs because of plant closings.

"It's a lot, but less than we lost in the 1980s. It adds to the cumulative effect of the downsizing of the economy," he said.

Monsma's planned study will also take a look at how people are dealing with the closings. "Part of that is probing what people think."

Monsma said he also wants to find out what skills those who lose their jobs have, as well as what skills potential employers need from employees.

"We will see what skills they have, what they think they have, and what they need," Monsma said.

The ICARD director told chamber members of Ypsilanti Township's reaction to GM's closing. "The township people were angry, no doubt about it. They felt double-crossed."

Though Washtenaw Circuit Court ruled in favor of the township — which argued that GM must keep the plant open because it was given tax abatements — GM is appealing. An injunction, meanwhile, is keeping the plant open.

"Both sides have an interest in getting this resolved," Monsma said.

The beginning: Simpson Granite of Detroit begins construction on the Canton Veterans Memorial in Heritage Park.

Construction on Canton memorial gets under way

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Construction of the Canton Veterans Memorial in Heritage Park has begun.

"They have started the foundation," said Tim LaGrow, vice president of the Canton Veterans Memorial Committee.

The memorial is expected to be completed in time for the Canton Liberty Fest. In fact, the committee will kick off this year's fest with the dedication of the memorial on Friday, June 25.

Simpson Granite of Detroit began work on the foundation Wednesday morning. The company is working with the granite components of the memorial. The granite was quarried in Wisconsin and sent to granite craftsmen in Vermont.

The memorial will be constructed of five panels of granite. The center panel will be 4 feet wide, 8 feet high, and 1 foot thick. The side panels will be 3 feet wide and taper to 5 feet high at the ends.

The memorial was designed by Plymouth-Canton High School student John Sheehy and incorporates the emblems of the five branches of the service: Air Force, Army, Coast Guard, Marines and Navy.

While the committee is still seeking donations, the township has absorbed the project into the Liberty Fest, including financing. "We were just struggling," LaGrow said.

The committee has raised more than $20,000 and expects to continue raising money through the sale of brick pavers on the walkway leading to the memorial. But the township will take care of site work, including landscaping, lighting, a sprinkler system and walk areas.

"We still want to raise money to offset the costs. We would like this memorial to be from the citizens of the Plymouth-Canton area," LaGrow said.

Brick paver orders are moving along well, but committee members want to sell even more. Though there was an April 1 deadline for pavers to be engraved and in place in time for the dedication, sales will continue, including during the Liberty Fest weekend.

Blank bricks will be placed in the memorial walkway to allow them to be removed when someone buys one.

Bricks are available for donations of $100 or more or $250 or more. The $250 brick is larger and allows four lines of 10 characters each for engraving. The $100 brick allows two lines of 10 characters each. A star will be added to the top of the bricks of service veterans.

"We can't guarantee they will be back in time for the dedication," LaGrow said.

Committee members also would like to know of service men or women who were either killed in action, missing in action, or prisoners of war. The veterans memorial committee will buy a brick for each of these service people and have their names engraved.

If you would like to buy a brick or can provide the committee with names of service people, call 397-8975, 397-5421, or 981-2848.

Five generations

Lineage goes back to Bradford

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Gov. William Bradford would be proud of Mary Lou Hentges — especially if he found out that she's made her way to Plymouth.

"When we were asked to write a report in school on someone who might be famous in our family, we all did it on him (Bradford)," said Heather, Hentges' 22-year-old daughter.

Bradford, who came to America on the Mayflower, happened to have been the founder of Plymouth — not this one, but the one in Massachusetts. Bradford is important to the Hentgeses because he is one of their ancestors — a direct one, to be exact. Hentges is one of five generations of women who are descended from the former governor, who died in 1657.

The birth of Savannah, Heather's daughter, in December 1992 was not only significant because she is Mary Lou's first grandchild, but she is the fifth generation of first-born women in her family.

"We started working on this on an Easter Sunday to see if we could trace all this back," Hentges said. "I think it's neat there's five generations."

Better yet, all five generations of those first-born women are still alive. Hentges' grandmother, Dorothy, 93, lives in Ohio, as does Mary Lou's mother, Betty.

"I picked up on the first-born of the first-born over five generations," Hentges said.

Gov. Bradford isn't one of those forgotten ancestors. Mary Lou's grandmother — the first of the first-born women — was given Bradford as her middle name. "Her mother must have been a history buff," Hentges said.

To find their roots, Hentges and one of her sisters, Barbara, used their mother's copy of William Bradford's journal.

"It's a little difficult to read," Hentges said of the journal, which is written in 17th-century English. "But researching our genealogy was really pretty simple."

Hentges found that she and her ancestors are descended from Bradford and his second wife, Alice. Bradford's first wife and son died in their first year in America. It's believed that Dorothy, Hentges' grandmother, is at least the ninth or 10th generation descended from the Plymouth founder. No doubt Hentges is fascinated with Bradford. But she's just as fascinated with the history her female ancestors have created. Dorothy, her grandmother, worked for the railroad in Ohio, keeping track of where each car was headed. "She also owned and drove a Model T. She was a little ahead of her time."

Mary Lou's mother, Betty, Dorothy's first-born, worked for American Steel & Wire and went to college for a semester.

Dorothy, who has 12 great-grandchildren with another on the way, returned to work when her son decided he wanted to go to school.

"She went to work at a dime store. I think she may have liked the status of working," Hentges said of Dorothy.

It was sort of a fluke that Hentges found her way to Plymouth. She and her ancestors are really Ohio natives. But work brought Hentges and her husband, William, to Michigan.

seek election to the commission? "I haven't made a firm decision yet," she said, adding she'll decide after the commission wrestles with parking, streetscape plans, and the budget in the next few weeks.

Former commissioner Ron Loiselle said he plans to run. "I thought in the past I was able to do things to make Plymouth a better place to live, and I enjoy it," he said.

Planning commissioner Rosita Smith ran unsuccessfully for the commission in 1991. On running this time, "I'll have to wait and see; it's a serious decision," she said.

"There's a lot of personal considerations; it takes money to run," she said.

City clerk Linda Langmesser reports that so far, two people have asked for petition forms at city hall — the first step in becoming a certified candidate.

One is Army Col. David McDonald of Penniman Avenue. "As an individual I'm not too satisfied with where Plymouth's going," McDonald said.

"I'm not overly confident about the downtown development; I'm concerned about a lot of stores closing and the Mayflower Hotel being in receivership," he said.

"Since 1988 my taxes have gone up over $1,000 and the services are going down," said McDonald, who plans to retire from the Army within a month.

The name of the second person taking out petitions was unavailable Friday.

A candidate must collect the signatures of 25 city residents who are registered voters, file those signatures with the clerk by the deadline and have them certified in order to become a bona-fide candidate.

Talks on police merger take one step forward

Talks on merging fire, police and other services in the Plymouth-Canton-Northville area are gearing up again.

The five elected leaders of greater Canton, Plymouth and Northville agreed April 1 to study the idea of a joint fire-police dispatch and records operation in greater detail.

They've also agreed to seek proposals from several universities and consulting firms to review options.

Administrators from all five communities have prepared information on potential cost savings for some sort of police departments consolidation. "But it was felt by the elected leaders that a consultant with experience in such studies could help investigate the options," according to a statement from the five elected government leaders.

The five are scheduled to meet May 3 to review study proposals they receive.

"If it is decided to bring in a consultant, each of the boards and commissions of the five communities will be asked to approve the plan and possible expenditure," according to the joint statement.

In the late '70s, the animal-rights movement tended to focus more on abuses of lab animals. Among the most horrific examples, Chiado said, were head-injury experiments on baboons.

Videotapes showed metal devices slamming into live baboons' skulls — and technicians would sometimes hammer on the live animals.

"They would be laughing about it, holding up their limp bodies — these are live, sentient creatures," Chiado said.

To oppose lab testing of animals, Chiado said, "does not mean compromising human health."

Animal-rights advocates have a range of beliefs, from those who break into labs to free animals to those "that say cages are OK as long as you make them comfortable," Chiado said.

He attended his first protest, of a veal restaurant in Chicago, in the early '80s. Now, Chiado is on the board of directors of two area animal rights groups, Humanitarians for Animal Rights Education in Royal Oak, and Washtenaw Citizens for Animal Rights based in Ann Arbor.

In recent years, protests on behalf of animal rights have focused more on hunting. The Fund For Animals — which organized the Hell, Mich. bow-hunting protests which Chiado joined — maintains that this form of hunting is especially cruel, as it can result in the maiming of animals.

"Animal-rights people seem to be misunderstood," he said. "They seem to think that means less people rights — That's quite the contrary. Nowhere does it say there's a finite number of rights."

"We want to expand the moral sphere of consciousness," he said.

Unemployment rates drop in Plymouths and Canton

Unemployment rates fell in Canton, Plymouth Township and Plymouth in February, the Michigan Employment Security Commission reports.

The unemployment rate in Canton fell to 3 percent in February compared to 3.5 percent in January and 4 percent in February 1992.

In Plymouth, the unemployment rate was 2 percent in February compared to 2.3 percent in January and 2.7 percent in February 1992.

In Plymouth Township, the rate was 2.5 percent in February, compared to 2.8 percent in January and 3.3 percent in February 1992.

The fall in unemployment rates coincided with the falling of those rates in all but one of Michigan's 12 major labor market areas, according to seasonally unadjusted estimates compiled by the MESC.

"There was a general pattern across the labor markets of employment gains in the personnel services sector as temporary help agencies increased hiring and, among private, state and local schools as employees returned to their jobs after the holiday break," said F. Robert Edwards, MESC director.

Seasonal employment declines occurred in the construction and retail trade sectors, the MESC reported.

were four weeks old," she said.

Kids at the camp "were excited about it — there were a few girls that weren't," Hopkins said.

"To me, they look like a bear, with a smaller head and coarse dark-brown fur," she said, adding that the animals are members of the weasel family.

"He (Kroschel) does a trick where he has a garbage pail filled with snow taped shut; they get down there and dig all the snow out," Hopkins said.

Through his film work, Kroschel, of Duluth, Minn., became acquainted with the owner of a Saskatchewan zoo who had some wild-caught wolverines. Raised on a mink farm, the film maker has long been fascinated with wolverines.

It was in 1991 when the zoo owner called to say one of the female wolverines was pregnant. When the animal littered, Kroschel got permission from Canadian and U.S. wildlife authorities to bring the two young wolverines back to Minnesota.

Kroschel and his wife, Cyndi, also a nature film maker, live on a farm where the tame wolverines interact with their family and with their pet dog.

While Michigan is known as the Wolverine state, experts tend to believe they were never native to this state, instead originating to the northwest.

These are my dogs please take care of them for me. I'm living on the streets and can not feed them any more. There 19 months old the female is magic & the brown one is two face. There very good dogs they dont bite and they love kids. Please find someone to love them for me please. Sorry I couldn't make it in person but it is hard for me right now. Thank you very much for your time.

Last year one person gave us everything she owned. Without your donation we couldn't have accepted.

Please read the handwritten note on this page. It's from a homeless woman. It was left at our door in the middle of the night along with two dogs, Two Face and Magic, pets this woman loved but could not care for. And could not keep.

Fortunately, we could care for Two Face and Magic. We took them in, gave them food and a warm place to sleep, and found them homes with the two families you see pictured above. This story had a happy ending.

But we get more and more cases like this each year. It's sad. And it gets worse. Some people don't care about animals as much as the woman who left this note.

Some people don't feed their pets. Some maliciously abuse animals in other ways. Which is why we need your help. Happy endings for animals like Two Face and Magic only begin with your donation. Please send us your check today. All we can ask is what a homeless person asked of us: help.

Yes, I would like to help.

Community college presidents cite dangers of ebbing state aid

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan's 440,000 community college students will pay higher tuition — perhaps for reduced programs — if state budget trends continue.

"We're talking about a three-year freeze on programs," Schoolcraft College president Richard McDowell warned legislators studying Gov. John Engler's proposed two-year budget.

"There's an issue of access," McDowell said. The educator term "access" means some middle class students may be unable to afford even two-year colleges that pride themselves on being inexpensive and close to home.

Oakland Community College chancellor Patsy Fulton said her board is considering increasing tuition as much as 10 percent — $4 a credit hour on the current base of $41.

McDowell's Schoolcraft, in northwestern Wayne County, is studying a $3 increase to $43.

Fulton said OCC gets only 24 percent of its operating funds from state aid, 37 percent from property taxes and a hefty 39 percent from tuition.

The state's funding formula visualizes the 29 community colleges getting 50 percent from state aid, 25 percent from property taxes and 25 percent from tuition.

Why? What's going awry in Lansing? The presidents blamed: ■ Flat state aid. The colleges got $233 million (adjusted) this year. Engler's two-year budget proposes $233 million for fiscal 1993-94 and $233 million for 1994-95.

■ Property tax caps. Last year the Legislature froze assessments. The new school reform proposal on the June 2 ballot would cap assessment growth but not college costs. It promises a 3 percent boost to kindergarten through 12th grade schools but nothing more to community colleges.

■ Retirement costs. State budgets have shifted more of these costs to the colleges without providing matching dollars.

Fulton said OCC's costs rose by $4.5 million from $12.7 million in 1991 to $17.1 million.

As employees leave, she said, at least half aren't being replaced.

Statewide, said Tom Bernthal of the Michigan Community Colleges Association, health care and retirement costs are rising $10.4 million this year.

For nearly two decades, the state gave Wayne County Community College a subsidy on top of state aid because voters steadfastly refused to levy a local property tax.

Only after the Legislature voted to cut the $7.3 million subsidy did WCCC voters approve a millage. WCCC includes Detroit, the two Redford school districts, Wayne-Westland, the east side and downriver suburbs.

Engler wants to use the recovered $7.3 million elsewhere in the state's $8 billion budget. Community college leaders, however, say it should be spread around the two-year colleges.

But Ken LaSalle, WCCC's vice president for administration, asked that his college be given $2.3 million for one year only to cover "transition" costs. "There may be a cash flow problem," he said.

LaSalle said WCCC had cleaned house by reducing the full-time workforce by 100, turning over six officials for prosecution, closing the western campus near I-275, replacing all top administrators, meeting 143 of 144 audit recommendations and freezing salaries for three years.

But LaSalle was criticized by another president, Gerald Welch of Monroe, for claiming all of Wayne County as WCCC's service area.

Airport police in 'custody battle'

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano will ask the county commission Tuesday to intervene in what he believes is an attack on his authority by county Executive Edward McNamara.

Ficano's chief of staff, Nancy Mouradian, said the sheriff will request "emergency consideration" of methods the commission might use to block the establishment of a Metro Airport police department by McNamara.

Mouradian and two others — Deputy Sheriff Anthony Shannon and Deputy Don Cox, president of Local 502 — said they heard that McNamara has ordered an April 19 creation of an airport police force using officers already in the sheriff's department. Currently the airport is policed by 95 sheriff's department officers.

Neither McNamara nor his chief deputy, Michael Duggan, returned the Observer's phone calls last week to comment on the alleged April 19 start-up date.

Airport director Robert Braun has studied the value of having a separate airport police force and recommended creation to McNamara, but Executive Department spokeswoman Irma Clark said Friday that McNamara is "not involved" with the issue.

Mouradian believes McNamara is very involved because he wants revenge on Ficano for beating Redford resident Kevin Kelley (whom McNamara heavily supported) in the Democratic primary for sheriff last year.

By wresting the airport officers from Ficano's control, McNamara would ostensibly weaken Ficano's power base.

"I can't help it if Mr. McNamara is a sore loser," Mouradian said. "I'd just like him to find another object of scorn and leave (Ficano) alone."

To date, the airport director and the sheriff have stressed that the safety of the public is their highest priority. Ficano says that McNamara is the one trying to score political points. Braun says Ficano is swinging his political ax. McNamara isn't saying anything.

Braun says the reason he wants an airport police department is because Ficano has been interfering with the airport director's lawful authority over the airport deputies.

The deputies themselves are just trying to stay out of the way as Ficano and McNamara slug it out.

"We don't care who we work for as long as we have our jobs. We don't want to be in the middle," said Bob Sheldon, president of Local 3317, representing the department's sergeants and lieutenants.

Don Cox, president of Local 502, representing the deputies, said Ficano has verbally threatened to bar the return to the sheriff's department of any officer who joins the airport police force. "I just can't understand why Mr. Ficano is saying, 'I won't permit you to move in and out of this department,'" Cox said.

Cox and Sheldon say the deputies are mainly interested in protecting their jobs and staying out of the ring with McNamara and Ficano.

"They're highly suspicious of all political people," Cox said.

Strong stripes on spring ties

Accessorize. It's a word most women take for granted. We are taught from an early age to coordinate an outfit with scarves, shoes, jewelry and hats. The options are limitless, and we often shop for clothes with a keen awareness of accessories that will complement.

Men, however, are virtually dependent on one accessory — their tie. And how many men buy a suit with a tie in mind? The tie is always the last wardrobe purchase, although it can become the style signature of the man.

For this reason, the sales associates at Barneys New York in the Somerset Collection dedicate a considerable amount of time to their customers' neckwear choices. Since the tie is a form of expression, Barneys trains its associates to get to know the customer as a person, to analyze his lifestyle.

There's more to choosing a tie than color coordination. Experts in men's couture are adept at mixing patterns and textures to achieve just the perfect look.

Ties talk

"A tie is a man's signature," Bryan Gutierrez of Barneys said. "It reflects his taste, his mood." This spring, those discriminating and diverse male shoppers have myriad neckwear options from which to choose.

The exclusive Calvin Klein Collection features two-toned horizontal stripe silk knit ties in muted earthy colors ($75). We show this tie in two shades of brown, worn with a flaxen-hued linen shirt ($155). Pair these with natural linen pants and suede bucks ($145) and you have a classic, yet elegant, weekend ensemble. The mixing of shades from the same color family is a style-making trend this season.

For a cutting-edge corporate look, we show a Joseph Abboud woven silk tie in spring's new shades of moss green and wine with a touch of gold and a hint of blue ($72). The Calvin Klein Collection cotton shirt is pinstriped in the same colors and features a soft pointed collar ($170).

But an entire room is filled with neckties at Barneys. For high color and contemporary styling, choose a Hugo Boss or Versace. Fornasetti designs bright, bold graphic ties. For a twist on the classic rep stripe, check out Garrick Anderson's vertical stripes in unusual colors.

If you like tiny knots, opt for ties sewn of ancient silk madder, a soft, supple fabric, like washed silk. Zegna offers exquisite detailing and handwork in unusual fabrics ($98.50).

Not too wide

In case you're wondering if last year's tie is out-of-date, the standard width this season is 3 3/4 inches. And flowers are passe, except for the occasional sunflower. Stripes are stronger than ever, as are small geometrics, stylized paisleys and fine art-inspired graphics.

If you only associate J. Crew with sweaters and khakis and cotton tees, you're missing a huge menswear department that includes dress shirts, gabardine jackets, linen jackets and trousers, and, of course, great-looking ties.

The Somerset Collection store showcases a wide selection of silk and cotton ties for the young and youthful. We show the weekend staple, a blue chambray button-down collar shirt ($34), with the new bandana paisley tie in sunny yellow ($40). Also shown, a soft-color silk stripe in muted blue and red, great with seersucker ($38).

The college set is into patchwork cotton madras ties ($16) and everyone loves the Newport look in cool vibrant colors like pool blue, aloe and cherry. Other hot sellers are the "squiggle" tie and the bright two-way rep stripes with reverse tails. Imagine a green-and-white-stripe tie with a yellow-and-white-stripe tail — fun and attention-grabbing.

Of course, if you're a Michigan sportsman and a Ralph Lauren devotee, you'll want to see the new Polo kayak and fly fisherman ties at the Polo Ralph Lauren Shop, 201 S. Woodward in Birmingham ($67.50). Happy hunting for the tie that fits your lifestyle.

Seniors catch dance fever

It may not be the Graystone Ballroom, but senior citizens still flock to Westland Mall's Community Room Dances each month. The draw? Fun, friends and exercise for all who attend.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

While the walkers walked, the shoppers shopped, and the lunch bunch lunched, the seniors danced at Westland Mall.

Oblivious to all the retail activity above them, area senior citizens two-stepped, waltzed and dipped to the Standards Live! Band renditions of "Blue Skies," "My Blue Heaven" and "Paper Roses."

Once each month, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Westland merchants throw a dance for senior citizens in the lower level community room, complete with band, refreshments and decorations.

Most of the hundred or so seniors who attend are dancers. They are people in their 70s and 80s who could literally dance all night.

"And I do," said Marion Hadley of Detroit with a laugh. "I got a new knee a year ago, and it's working out great. I can dance all night."

Hadley explained that she and many other seniors who love to dance, go dancing four or five nights a week. They travel to community centers, lounges and senior apartment complexes where square dances and ballroom dances are held.

Kathie Gornick of Plymouth and her partner Frank Nagy of Farmington Hills, are a regular Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers.

"We love Latin numbers," said Gornick, a former dance instructor. "But aside from all the fun and friends, it's basically about exercise. Dancing is good for you. Keeps you young."

Jane Aikins of Redford acts as self-appointed hostess at the dances, urging shy newcomers who watch from the door to come in and sit at a table.

"I love to dance," she said, after a deep breath and an intricate polka. "My husband, George, and I met while dancing at the Graystone Ballroom in Detroit 56 years ago," she said. "He can't dance with me anymore because he's got crippling arthritis, but see him over there in the corner? He brings me to dance with whoever else needs a partner. Now that's real love."

Aikins demonstrated her fancy footwork with Jack O'Callaghan, 85, of Garden City.

"I never drank, never smoked," he boasted. "I'm 85, and I still pitch baseball, play soccer, and dance five nights a week. I recently won 17 gold medals in the Senior Olympics. Not bad for an Irishman raised in Cork County, eh?"

Two-stepping it: Marion Hadley of Detroit tucked her stuffed bunny into the belt of her dress. She dances with John Tribolo of Westland.

Malls invite shoppers to special events

A mall's a great, big, public place and you can stop in anytime to purchase what you need. Right?

Wrong!

Well, sort of wrong. . . . Hoping to attract shoppers to their stores at slow times of the day, malls are hosting designated shopping times for special groups of people.

This week, Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights, will debut their "Family Night."

"This series will take place the first Wednesday of every month from 4-9 p.m.," said Karen MacDonald, mall marketing director. "The evenings will include notable family entertainment, 99-cent food specials for children under 12, merchandise discounts, food samplings, drawings and mini-seminars."

Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, is also offering a family entertainment series to bring shoppers into the mall on Saturday afternoons.

"We've scheduled events as a follow-up to our Toontown attraction which will be on display through mid-May," said Elaine Kah, marketing director. "Entertainers, special children's exhibits, and sing-alongs will be held to interest families."

At the Somerset Collection in Troy, "Office Parties" are provided for select groups of professionals after work, combining fashion seminars with wine and hors d'oeuvres, beginning at 4:30 or 5:30 p.m.

"We've held these parties for attorneys, advertising account executives,

Adoption protest set for May 1

Members of the Adoption Identity Movement of Michigan are having a rally at the Wayne County Probate Court building in Detroit Saturday, May 1, to protest the state's policy of not releasing adoption information to those involved. The idea is to encourage the state government to make adoption records available to adoptees, their adopted parents and birth parents.

"Adoptive parents should have the right to know the background of the child that they adopted," said Pam Zimmer, a birth parent who gave away her daughter 22 years ago.

Area malls offer rooms for rent

Some area malls have community rooms available for rent, and at prices much lower than commercial halls or banquet rooms in the area.

For years, weight-loss groups, nonprofit agencies, brides and moms-to-be have rented the local mall's community room for meetings, receptions and showers.

Food can be catered and there's always plenty of free parking. The drawback — in most cases the event must correspond to mall hours.

Here's the rundown:
 ■ Fairlane Town Center: No community rooms for rent.
 ■ Westland Center: Three rooms available. $35 to $65 per event.

■ Northland Center: Three rooms available. $55 to $120 per event.

■ Summit Place Mall: Rooms available for nonprofit groups, $25. Cost is higher for private groups and clubs.

■ Oakland Mall: One room. $100. For business uses only.

■ Laurel Park Place: No community rooms for rent.

■ Twelve Oaks Mall: No community rooms for rent.

■ Lakeside Mall: No community rooms for rent.

■ Livonia Mall: Available at no charge to civic and nonprofit groups. Private use rental considered on individual basis.

■ Somerset Collection: One room. Capacity 50 people. $50.

■ Southland Mall: No community rooms for rent.

■ Winchester Mall: One room available. $15 per hour.

■ Wonderland Mall: One room. Certificate of insurance required. $50 a day.

Area businesses join etching campaign to deter auto theft

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Now they're fighting car theft by the numbers, literally.

Aided by the Michigan State Police, the Michigan Auto Theft Prevention Authority and the Alliance for a Safer Greater Detroit, 12 area car dealerships and a glass dealer are offering free VIN etching.

But what's a VIN? It's the Vehicle Identification Number unique to each motorized transportation device sold in the United States.

Using acid and equipment supplied by state police, the etchers will put the VIN on every window of your car. (It takes about five minutes).

That might sound like sacrificing aesthetics for a dubious deterrent, but Det. Sgt. Ted Monsette of the state police said that having your windows numbered makes them and the doors virtually useless to thieves.

The VIN-etched glass is traceable, Monsette said, and therefore the people who thieves sell parts to won't buy them. That's not to say some lunatic won't swipe your car for the fancy radio, seats, wheels and tires, but it's a start.

"Our eventual goal is to have every dealer in the Detroit metro area a part of this program," Monsette said.

The dozen dealers on board now include Dick Scott Buick of Plymouth, Lou Lariche Chevrolet of Southfield and Bill Fox Chevrolet of Rochester Hills. And all outlets of Henderson Glass are in the program, too.

George Glassman said he's been with the program four months and etched about 50 vehicles. "It serves a worthy purpose," he said. "There's no downside to it. People get happy."

But some car dealers are less zealous regarding VIN etching than others.

"I don't know that we offer it to anyone," said Ron Chaudoin, general manager of Lariche Chevrolet. "There's been no requests for it." Like all the dealers in the program, however, Lariche will etch your glass for free if you buy a new car or have work done to your old car. Henderson Glass will do the etching free as well, but doesn't require a qualifying purchase.

Others, like Bill Fox Chevrolet, aren't quite ready to etch yet. Fox general manager Ken Garlow said he's still waiting for some necessary computer software, but will offer etching free to purchasers of new and used cars when the equipment arrives. "That will be a service to show our gratitude," he said.

Other dealers, like Jim Muir Olds of Sterling Heights and Al Long Ford of Warren, are going "full hog" on the program, Monsette said, with Long Ford even etching wheels.

Gary Marr, the sales manager of Long Ford, said he offers free VIN etching to everyone who buys a car, has work done or just pulls in for that specific purpose. They've done 60 cars in the two months they've been part of the program. "It's a great idea," Marr said.

Insurance companies agree, with most of them offering discounts on comprehensive coverage for VIN-etched cars. AAA Michigan offers a 5-percent discount. Other companies go as high as 15 percent.

Thelma Castillo, a spokeswoman for the Alliance for a Safer Greater Detroit, said Michigan is the only state in the country where auto theft is becoming less frequent.

school administrators, teachers and the staff of a radio station," said Debbie Mazer, fashion director at the collection. "It's our way of reaching out to different groups in the community to let them know what wonderful clothes the Somerset Collection has available for the working man and woman."

After an hour-long "party" guests are invited to shop Somerset.

Friday morning at Jacobson's, the Birmingham-Bloomfield Women's Council of Realtors will be guests at a breakfast fashion show featuring the Ellen Tracy spring/summer collection. Hopefully, the Realtors will buy a suit, hat, or some shoes, afterward.

Individual stores like Jacobson's, Hudson's, The Liz Claiborne Store, Saks Fifth Avenue and Winkleman's, bring private fashion shows to clubs and nonprofit organizations regularly. It's a perfect marriage of clothes and the women who wear them.

Conference to focus on outcome-based education

More than 150 educational experts from across the country will convene at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park this week for the first conference of the Network for Outcome-Based Schools.

The keynote speakers will include well-known presenters Dr. James Block from the University of Southern California; Dr. Albert Mamary from Johnson City, NY; Dr. Alan Cohen, director of the Center for Outcome-Based Education at San Francisco University; and Dr. Kathleen Fitzpatrick from Arlington Heights, Ill. The conference, set for April 14-16, will be at Plymouth Salem High School during Easter vacation.

Topics will include a review of the evolving research on outcome-based education; classroom practices that raise achievement levels; integrating technology with outcome-based education; current brain research; strategies for developing an outcome-based curriculum; and accreditation.

Outcome-based education seeks to assure that students reach minimum achievement levels. Students who fail an outcome-based class are re-taught until they achieve a passing grade. They're not allowed to go on to the next grade or to graduate until they do.

On display and being demonstrated during the conference will be the recently installed high technology at Hoben Elementary School.

The conference will open for registration Wednesday morning. Plymouth-Canton Superintendent John Hoben will welcome participants in the Salem Library at 1 p.m. Wednesday. Opening remarks will be offered by William Smith, executive director of the Network for Outcome-Based Schools.

Dr. S. Alan Cohen will offer a keynote address from 1:15-2:45 p.m. Break-out sessions will be held from 3:10 p.m. to 4:15 p.m.

From 4:30-5:45 p.m., a keynote address will be given by Larry Rowe.

Thursday, April 15, will begin with a 7 a.m. continental breakfast, followed by a keynote address by James Block at 8:30 a.m.

Break-out sessions will follow from 10:30 to 11:45 a.m.

At 1:15 p.m., keynote John Champlin will speak. In the break-out sessions, topics such as OBE accreditation, brain research and technology will be discussed. From 4:30-5:30 p.m. Kathleen Fitzpatrick will address the conference.

Friday, April 16 will kick off with a 7 a.m. continental breakfast followed by a talk by Albert Mamary at 8:30 a.m. in the Salem Library.

REDFORD THURSTON

POINTS OF VIEW

Lem Barney deserves support, second chance

While I'm not well-acquainted with former Detroit Lion Lem Barney, he and I have many mutual acquaintances. My name and his have appeared together on the stationery of various egalitarian boards and I feel a personal affinity for his athletic background, his support of liberal humanitarian causes and his graceful bearing in the unflinching floodlights of media attention and crowd pressure.

I was an NCAA All-American sprinter who outran Olympic champions in faster time than they won Olympic gold, went undefeated representing the United States in Europe on the national team and ultimately was relegated to various athletic halls of fame.

Thus I speak as a man who has been tested in brutally competitive crucibles wherein many others have melted away. I also speak as a former coach of high school athletes who later gained collegiate All-America status while sometime ignoring training rules regarding the use of intoxicatives — both legal and illegal.

During my days as an executive educator, I was denounced as a troublemaker by some community groups and officials — and by many in the media — not only for espousing multiculturalism but also for advocating the decriminalization of drug use.

I come from a prodigiously substance-abusing Celtic family, prominently featuring my alcoholic ex-fighter father (a legendary liberal humanitarian in his time). I also confess that during my more boisterous days I didn't decline a few straight-up hits of Jack Daniels and roach clip now and then — even when I was an international athlete. And, yes I did inhale.

So it is with multiple sorrows that I note Lem Barney's recent arrest for allegedly using illegal substances and his subsequent hospitalization for depression. He was one of the National Football League's greatest cornerbacks and countless people idolize and emulate him.

If he's guilty, I can't excuse him. What I can do is empathize — particularly since the pontificating media and the pious general public judge their "fallen heroes" by a far tougher yardstick than they reserve for themselves and their own various vices.

How many of us have never yielded to the blandishments of nicotine or marijuana use, or to overindulgence in alcohol, or to philandering, or to gluttony or to any other form of fleshly weakness? Our behaving in these ways doesn't make them right, but it makes us human.

As a humanly flawed being like the rest of us, Lem Barney deserves the same second chance that we all do. Bear in mind that he isn't accused of selling drugs, as did — for example — his old antagonist Bob Hayes, the peerless sprinter who became the Dallas Cowboys' premier wide receiver.

This distinction between being accused of using rather than of selling is a significant one. Recognizing that the role models of our younger years are prey to the same addictive predilections as you or I is a big step toward maturity.

It's time to grow up and stop blindly ascribing superhuman characteristics to people just because they've done superhuman deeds on an athletic field.

To expect Lem Barney to behave superhumanly off the gridiron is perhaps doubly unfair to him, if only because often he has actually met such expectations.

This affable ex-superstar has contributed much to our community in the past. What he needs most from us now is sympathetic support in his very un-super-but very human-struggle.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, most recently was assistant superintendent in the Rochester district. He previously was executive director for secondary education in the Plymouth-Canton Schools. To leave a message for Telford from a Touch-Tone phone, dial 953-2047, mailbox 1879.

Dirt farmers become victims of cultural diversity

Pity the poor redneck in these days of cultural diversity. In Birmingham the schools are spending as much time teaching kids about homosexuality as they are making sure the kids learn math. But of course it certainly changes the equation of things.

And while we're making sure our kids are taught not to slight anyone, the country folk in Canton Township are being insulted by public officials and the public in general.

The reason is that wannabe upper middle class people talk a good game about respecting the rural way of life, but when it comes to smelling the pig excrement, it's a different matter. Country ducks are more to their taste.

Farms are real places, not historical re-creations like the Firestone Farm at Greenfield Village. In other words, old junk sitting around farms is quaint, while new junk is an eyesore. The question is at what point does junk turn into an antique?

Chances are those old hayrakes and broken plows had about as much quaintness about them in the 19th century as a 1973 Chevy sitting up on cider blocks has now.

The clash between the subdivision people and the rural folks came to a head recently in Canton Township when tax assessments went up on farms as much as 300 percent.

Granted, these folks haven't had a tax increase in 12 years, but it certainly was a shock for the farm people.

And while Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack, and others, treated their concerns seriously, privately others in the township have groused that many of these folks really aren't farmers and they've got too much junk in their back yards.

Pardon the sociologist in me breaking out, but the problem is that city folks have this stereotype of farmers

JEFF COUNTS

■ Chances are those old hayrakes and broken plows had about as much quaintness about them in the 19th century as a 1973 Chevy sitting up on cider blocks has now.

based on watching too many episodes of the Waltons or seeing that painting, "American Gothic."

Farming is math. You can't raise corn for $2.50 a bushel that costs $3 to grow.

But farming is more than just making money; it's usually a family tradition. And that's where the junk comes in.

My own family's farm in Arkansas is of that variety. No, there isn't a car seat in the front yard; they're upscale rednecks. But there is the foundation of the house my great grandfather built, and behind it a falling down barn that my grandfather worked on as a kid. It's top blew down in a storm and nobody has had the heart to demolish it.

Nearby these's the rusting hulk of a 1963 Dodge still painted with victory slogans from a long forgotten football game.

A six-foot-long rusty tool box once used in Little Rock's railroad yards now serves as a barbecue and the tumbled down corral is a reminder of past hog killings.

This collection from the past sits next to a modern ranch home. The place is nothing special, but it's special to me. And it makes me appreciate the farm homes in western Canton.

All people have their sense of aesthetics usually based on their education and background. If we are to take cultural diversity seriously, schools should be teaching students about respecting the cultural backgrounds of Michigan's rednecks, the dirt farmer, as he is called here.

But instead our children learn about daddy's special roommate. No wonder folks feel free to tax farmers off their land and insult them on top of it.

A FEW TAX TIPS THAT COULD AFFECT YOUR BOTTOM LINE.

Here, courtesy of the IRS, are some ways to increase your tax refund, or decrease your tax bill, on your 1992 return:

- Earned Income Credit. You may be entitled to a credit of up to $2,211 if your adjusted gross income is less than $22,370 and you have a qualifying child.
- Selling Your Home. You may be able to postpone the tax on part or all of your gain, or maybe even get greater breaks if you're 55 or older.
- Casualty Losses. Losses suffered from events such as fires, tornadoes, hurricanes, floods and car accidents may be deductible.
- Elderly or Disabled. You may be able to claim this credit if you're 65 or older, or if you are retired on disability and were permanently and totally disabled when you retired.
- Electronic Filing. This won't save you money, but will get you a refund faster, usually about three weeks after we receive the return.

There are many more credits and deductions you should know about. Call us toll-free at 1-800-TAX-1040 for answers to any tax question. See your tax package for details on any of the money-saving tips above.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Be creative; use up those leftover eggs

Isn't it enough that egg prices mysteriously rise 15 to 20 percent this time of year? Add to that the cost of Peter Rabbit's trendy Easter egg dye and coloring kit.

Then consider the grocery store bagger wearing headphones and a "Party Naked" sweatshirt who "inadvertently" placed the four dozen delicate ovals underneath the 6-pound pork roast.

Now you're faced with the monumental task of having to incorporate 40 or so of the hard-cooked eggs into the next three days worth of family menus.

You could start by making enough egg salad to serve the 5th Battalion of the National Guard.

You could make a surprise meat loaf and insert the hard-cooked devils in the center, then call it a pate and invite all the hoity-toity folks you know for "hors d'oeuvres."

If worst comes to worst, toss them all in the food processor, shells and all, and make a $6-per-pound garden fertilizer!

Creative leftovers

Or, you can read on. First off, rest assured there are many recipes that can be made with leftover hard-cooked Easter eggs.

The secret is creativity. They can be mashed and stirred into cream sauces. Give Swedish meatballs and stroganoff a subtle richness by stirring in 1/4 cup of mashed hard-cooked egg just before serving.

Hard-cooked eggs can easily be adapted into salads and salad dressings. The classic Cobb salad is a perfect example. Wake up the flavor of a basic "ranch" style dressing with 1/4 cup of mashed hard-cookers.

Even those folks concerned about cholesterol can utilize just the whites in these recipes, placing the hard-cooked yolks outside for the birds and squirrels to enjoy.

Now, for a little disheartening news. To be on the safe side, I called Lois Thielke, extension home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, and a frequent writer for the Observer & Eccentric.

I needed some info on just how long you and I can safely tolerate the colorful creations before turning them into garden fodder or risk food poisoning.

Safety concerns

Lois quoted the most recent press release from the food service folks at Michigan State University — "Decorated hard-cooked eggs should be consumed within two to three days after cooking, when refrigerated.

"When used for coloring, decorating, hunting and displaying, total time out of refrigeration should not exceed two hours."

When I think of all those years the eggs sat in the baskets, grabbing an occasional bite, doused with an ample supply of high-blood-pressurized salt, according to Michigan State University, it's a wonder I'm still sitting here writing this! (By the way, if you have questions regarding food safety, you can call Oakland County's Cooperative Extension Food Hotline at 858-0904).

Momma's methods

Momma would always prepare more eggs than necessary for the family Easter baskets. Good Friday was always noted as "egg salad day," when we would chow down on sandwiches made with the eggs that cracked during boiling.

Leftover hard-cooked eggs would be braided into sweetened bread or finely mashed and mixed with bread crumbs to make a tasty coating for salmon cakes.

I remember one year Momma mixed some mashed hard-cooked eggs with a little Miracle Whip and grated cheese and placed it between egg-dipped French toast slices for a hearty, appetizing lunch.

One year, when Dad was temporarily laid-off and money was scarce, mashed hard-cooked eggs were stirred into a chicken broth and rice soup for added protein.

Health conscious consumers can even buy "smart eggs" that are supposedly lower in cholesterol than their regular counterparts, and can be used the same way as regular eggs.

As mentioned earlier, anyone with a garden can benefit from the egg shells being tossed into the soil or compost heap.

If you're looking for tasty ways to use those leftover eggs, try some of the great Janes family-tested recipes inside. Bon Appetit.

WINNER DINNER

BETSY BRETHEN

As we emerge from our winter hibernation and leave the gray days of March behind for another year, we welcome the month of April — showers and all. It means that we are just that much closer to summer.

Whether or not the weather heats up remains to be seen, but this week's Winner Dinner, submitted by Alice Witt of Troy, will warm and transport your taste buds south of the border, where the sun always shines.

Many chicken recipes have crossed my desk since I began writing this column, but every now and then I receive one that really catches my eye. That was the case with Chicken Mexicana, a one-dish dinner that is covered with a layer of cornbread and bursting with flavor. It is a make-ahead meal that is always a boon, as it seems so often that the pace of life increases in direct proportion to the rising of the outside temperature.

Witt is married to Jim and the mother of three children, two of whom are off at college. She loves to cook and finds great satisfaction in being a homemaker. An active member of Troy Baptist Church, Witt previously served on the church's Mission Board for six years. She is in the third year of a five-year international Bible study program that meets once a week and requires at least 1 1/4 hours of intense Bible study every day. As is the nature with recipes, Chicken Mexicana was given to her by a friend who served it at a Christmas party Witt attended. Everyone loved it, and I think your family will as well.

Thank you, Alice Witt, for sharing your recipes with us, and congratulations on being selected this week's Winner Dinner Winner.

Submit recipes to be considered for publication in this column, or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner Winner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. All winners receive an apron with the words "Winner Dinner Winner" printed on it. To leave a message, dial 953-2047 on a Touch-Tone phone, mailbox number 1881.

Winner Dinner Recipes

CHICKEN MEXICANA

- 2 to 2 1/2 pounds boneless, skinless chicken cut into 1-inch cubes
- 2 (1.25-ounce) packets taco seasoning
- 2 (14 1/2-ounce) cans whole tomatoes, diced and drained
- 3 cups (12-ounces) grated sharp cheddar cheese
- 1 (7-ounce) can diced green chilies
- 1 (12-ounce) can whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 (8 1/2-ounce) package corn muffin mix

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In medium-size bowl, combine chicken and taco seasoning. Add tomatoes, cheese, chilies and corn and mix well. Place chicken mixture in a 9 by 13 by 2-inch baking dish. The recipe can be made ahead up to this point, covered and refrigerated.

In a small bowl, prepare corn muffin mix according to package directions and spread evenly on top of chicken mixture. Bake for 50 to 60 minutes. Remove casserole from oven and let it rest for 20 minutes before serving. Serves 8 to 10.

AMBROSIA

- 1 (15-ounce) can mandarin oranges, drained
- 1 (20-ounce) can pineapple tidbits, drained
- 2 cups miniature marshmallows
- 1 (7-ounce) bag flaked coconut
- 1/2 pint sour cream

In a medium-size bowl, combine the ingredients, and for best results, refrigerate for 12 hours before serving.

FROSTY STRAWBERRY SQUARES

- Crust:
- 1 cup flour
 - 1/4 cup brown sugar
 - 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
 - 1/2 cup melted margarine
- Filling:
- 2 egg whites
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 2 cups sliced strawberries
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1 cup whipping cream

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In a medium size bowl, combine flour, brown sugar, nuts and margarine. Bake in a 9 by 13 by 2-inch pan for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

In large mixing bowl, combine egg whites, sugar, berries and lemon juice. Beat on high speed for 10 minutes.

In small bowl, whip 1 cup of whipping cream and fold it into the strawberry mixture. Remove one-third of the crumb mixture and set it aside for garnish. Shake the remaining crumbs so that they are evenly distributed in the pan. Spoon the strawberry mixture over the crumbs. Top with the remaining crumbs. Freeze for six hours before serving.

One of Hamilton's secrets is a pantry stocked with "convenient" basic ingredients. (See story inside).

The right equipment is important too. Sharpen your knives — a dull one will slow you down — and use the right one for the job. As an example, Hamilton says it's much faster to chop or slice an onion with a large, sharp chef's knife than with a tiny paring knife.

She uses her microwave as a tool — to heat vegetables, melt butter and chocolate — and finishes the job with other appliances. "I like the smell of cooking. It's very nurturing for the family," she said.

Putting her kids to work also saves time. "I was shocked to learn that many kids aren't allowed in the kitchen," she said. "If you don't let them help they will want your attention. Kids are interested in food. They can mix salad dressings. My son, Jeff, who is 9, peels and deveins shrimp."

What good is your food processor if it's hidden away in a kitchen cupboard or the basement? Put it where you can use it, recommends Gassenheimer, author of "Dinner in Minutes" (Chapters Publishing, $29.95 hardcover, $19.95 paperback).

"Clear the kitchen so you can kind of hit it running when you come home from work," she said during a telephone interview. "Starting with a clean sink can shave as much as 10 to 15 minutes from preparations."

Gassenheimer is executive director of Gardner's Markets, a chain of supermarkets in Miami. "Dinner in Minutes" recipes originated in Gassenheimer's nationally syndicated Miami Herald column, also called "Dinner in Minutes."

She's also the mother of three grown boys, who developed her style of cooking after 25 years of juggling work and family schedules.

Leave it to Betty Crocker to write a can't fail guide to "Quick Dinners," (Prentice Hall, $8). The book is one of a series of new cookbooks. The other titles are "Betty Crocker's Low-Calorie Cooking," "Betty Crocker's Mexican Made Easy," and "Betty Crocker's Great Chicken Recipes."

At $8 each, they're bargain-priced, and available at book stores, supermarkets and department stores. Each book contains more than 100 recipes.

Bartz, who manages the Betty Crocker Kitchens at General Mills, Inc. in Minneapolis, Minn., stopped by the Observer & Eccentric Livonia office during a media tour to promote the cookbooks.

"The recipes are easy. They use ingredients you have on hand, or that are easy to buy, with equipment you have on hand," said Bartz. "These are practical, service-oriented recipes. They're affordable, fresh, fast, flavorful and nutritious."

Plan to save time

Here are some tips for planning meals, shopping and dinner preparation from Linda Gassenheimer, author of "Dinner in Minutes: Memorable Meals for Busy Cooks," (Chapters Publishing).

■ Make a list of about four meals in advance. Buy fresh ingredients that will keep at least four days in the refrigerator to go along with the staples you already have on hand.

■ Shopping at the end of the day when stores are crowded is tiring, especially if you have to go home and cook too. Keep a cooler in the trunk of your car so that you can shop before work or at lunch.

■ Let your supermarket help you. Supermarket services available can include pre-cut vegetables, and fruit, prewashed salads and meats and poultry cut for stir-frying. Some markets will shell shrimp for you.

■ Keep pasta, pizza shells and bottled or frozen sauces on hand for emergency dinners.

■ Freeze good-quality, freshly grated Parmesan cheese. It can be measured without defrosting and will quickly reach room temperature.

■ The quickest way to cook rice is to prepare it like pasta in a lot of boiling water. It turns out perfect and fluffy and takes only 10 minutes, or half the normal time.

■ Replace vegetable peelers often. Like knives, they need to be sharp to work efficiently. If you still have one from five years ago, invest in a new one.

■ If you keep two or three chopping boards available, you won't have to stop and wash a board while cooking. I prefer those that are dish-water safe. I also like a medium-size one that can easily be moved around so I can chop all my vegetables on it and carry it to the stove.

■ You really only need three sharp knives on hand. For most cutting tasks, a 13-inch and an 8-inch are sufficient. Additionally, a stainless-steel serrated knife is perfect for cutting fruit or tomatoes.

HOMEMADE EGGY THOUSAND ISLAND SALAD DRESSING

- 1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
 - 1 tablespoon parsley
 - 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
 - 2 tablespoons chili sauce or catsup
 - 1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
 - dash paprika
 - 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped fine
- Combine all ingredients and mix well. Cover and refrigerate. Makes almost 1 1/2 cups.

EGGSACTLY SEAFOOD STROGANOFF

- 3 tablespoons margarine or butter

- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- dash salt and pepper
- 2 1/4 cups milk
- 1 cup flaked crabmeat, shrimp or lobster
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, cut into fourths

Heat margarine or butter in a 2-quart saucepan over low heat until melted. Stir in flour, mustard, salt and pepper. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until smooth and bubbly. (Congratulations, you just made a "roux") Slowly stir in milk, whisking constantly to avoid lumps. Heat to almost a boil and cook for 1 minute.

Gently stir in seafood and eggs. Can be spooned over English muffins for a great "brunchable" or dinner!

BAKEY-EGGY

- 1/2 cup seasoned bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- 4 slices bacon, chopped
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1/2 small onion, chopped fine
- 1 tablespoon milk
- dash salt and pepper
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Toss breadcrumbs with margarine; sprinkle onto the bottom of an 8 by 8 or similar square or round baking dish. Layer egg slices over bread crumb mixture. Cook bacon until crisp; drain. Mix bacon with sour cream, onion, milk, salt and pepper. Pour over hard-cooked eggs, top with shredded cheese. Bake at 350 degrees F., uncovered for 15 minutes. Great with biscuits!

Easy after work dinner entrees ready in minutes

See related story on Taste front.

CREAM OF BROCCOLI SOUP

- 1 package (1 pound) frozen broccoli
- 2 cans (14½ ounces each) chicken broth
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon lemon zest (grated outer rind of lemon)
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese (about 4 ounces)

Place the broccoli and chicken broth in a nonreactive, medium saucepan. Bring to boil over high heat. Reduce the heat to medium and simmer, partially covered, until the broccoli is tender, about 5 minutes. Puree the mixture in a blender or food processor until smooth. Return the broccoli mixture to the saucepan. Stir in the milk and lemon zest and heat through. Ladle the hot soup into serving bowls and garnish with a generous sprinkling of cheese. Pass the remaining cheese on the side. Serves 4 to 6.

PORK MEDALLIONS WITH APRICOT GLAZE

- 1½ pork tenderloins (about 1 pound)
- Salt and freshly ground pepper
- 1 small garlic clove
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- ¼ cup port
- 2 tablespoons apricot jam

Cut the pork tenderloins into 8 medallions about ¾-inch thick. Season with salt and pepper. Mince the garlic. Heat the oil in a large frying pan over high heat. When the oil is hot, add the pork medallions and cook, turning once, until the pork is nicely browned outside with no trace of pink in the center, about 6 minutes total cooking time. Remove the pork to a platter.

Add the garlic to the pan and cook, stirring, for 30 seconds. Whisk in the port and apricot jam and boil over high heat, stirring, another minute or so. Return the pork and any accumulated juices to the pan and heat through. Serve immediately. Serves 3 to 4.

- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

Remove fat from meat. Place in a bowl or plastic bag with vinegar and onion. Let marinate 20 minutes. Drain and place on a hot grill or under a preheated broiler. For rare, cook 5 minutes if steak is thin or 8 minutes if thicker. Cook longer if you like it medium or well done. Remove to cutting board, cover with foil and let rest 5 minutes. Slice on a diagonal against the grain. Serves 4.

ROSEMARY ROASTED POTATOES

- 4 russet or Idaho potatoes (about 2 pounds)
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 6 shallots, chopped or ½ small onion, chopped
- 2 sprigs fresh rosemary or 1 teaspoon dried

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Wash potatoes and cut into strips about ¼ inch thick and 2 inches long. Heat butter in nonstick oven-proof skillet large enough to hold potatoes in one layer. Add potatoes and shallots and saute over medium heat for 15 minutes, shaking the pan or tossing potatoes every few minutes. Add rosemary and toss with potatoes. Bake in oven 10 minutes longer. Serves 4.

FRESH GREEN SALAD

Select lettuce that looks freshest in market, choosing two or three different types for variety. Several leaves from 3 small heads lettuce, about ½ head each.

- Dressing
- ½ cup nonfat plain yogurt
- 2 teaspoons honey mustard
- 2 teaspoons sherry-wine vinegar
- ½ cup fresh chives or scallions, chopped

Cut lettuce heads in half and remove several inner and outer leaves from each. Wash and drain well. Toss together with fresh chives. For dressing: Whisk together yogurt, mustard and vinegar. Stir in chives. Toss with salad or serve on the side. Serves 4.

Recipes from "Dinner in Minutes," Linda Gassenheimer, (Chapters Publishing $19.95)

HAM AND ZUCCHINI WITH POPPY SEEDS

- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 3 cups cut-up fully cooked smoked ham
- 4 small zucchini (about 1 pound), cut into ¼-inch strips
- 1 green bell pepper, cut into ¼-inch slices
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup sour cream
- 1 teaspoon poppy seeds

Cook and stir onion in margarine in 10-inch skillet until tender. Stir in ham, zucchini, bell pepper and pepper. Cover and cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are crisp-tender, about 8 minutes.

Stir in sour cream and poppy seeds; heat just until hot. Serve with hot cooked rice or noodles if desired. Serves 6.

THREE-CHEESE TORTELLINI

- 1 package (7 ounces) dried cheese-filled tortellini
- ¼ cup margarine or butter (½ stick)
- ½ cup chopped green bell pepper
- 2 shallots, finely chopped
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1¼ cups milk
- ½ cup shredded mozzarella cheese (2 ounces)
- ½ cup shredded Swiss cheese (2 ounces)
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

Cook tortellini as directed on package; drain. Heat margarine in 3-quart saucepan over medium heat. Cook bell pepper, shallots and garlic in margarine about 3 minutes. Stir in flour and pepper. Cook stirring constantly, until mixture is bubbly; remove from heat. Stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute; remove from heat. Stir in mozzarella and Swiss cheeses until melted. Add tortellini and stir until coated. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Serves 5.

Stock up on essential groceries

Stock up on staples and you won't have to worry about what to cook for dinner after a rough day.

Paula Hamilton, author of "The 5 in 10 Cookbook," stocks her cupboard with dried pastas, quick-cooking rice, canned broths, a variety of tomatoes, beans, and vegetables like creamed-style corn, pitted olives, salmon, sardines and herb blends.

In the freezer she keeps a variety of frozen vegetables and fresh pasta. "It allows you to come home and be spontaneous," she said.

Hamilton shops for meat on the day she plans to cook it. "Defrosting takes time," she said.

For more specific ideas, Linda Gassenheimer, author of "Dinner in Minutes," suggests the following.

Basics — All purpose unbleached flour, cornstarch, brown sugar, sugar, confectioners' sugar, baking powder, unsweetened cocoa powder, raisins, tea, coffee, cornmeal, salt, black peppercorns.

Frequently used spices — bay leaf, thyme, ground cumin, ground cinnamon, rosemary, oregano, whole or ground nutmeg.

Dry goods — Long-grain white rice, white basmati rice, Arborio rice, Valencia-style rice, dried linguine or fettuccini, orzo, penne.

Canned or bottled goods — Whole tomatoes, crushed tomatoes, tomato sauce, tomato paste or puree, canned chicken stock, cannellini beans, red kidney beans, white navy beans, black beans, tuna packed in water, nonfat mayonnaise, honey, Dijon mustard, honey mustard, crunchy peanut butter.

Oils — Canola oil, olive oil, peanut oil, sesame oil, vegetable-oil cooking spray.

Vinegars — cider vinegar, balsamic vinegar, sherry-wine vinegar, Oriental rice vinegar, white vinegar, white-wine vinegar, red-wine vinegar.

Condiments — Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco or other hot pepper sauce, low-sodium soy sauce, low-sodium Tamari sauce. Seldom used condiments include ketchup, oyster sauce, capers, maple syrup and horseradish.

Dairy — Butter or margarine, skim milk, nonfat plain yogurt, eggs, grated Parmesan cheese.

Produce — Lemons, limes, onions, garlic, carrots, fresh orange juice.

Two other good sources for after work cooking and how to stock a pantry are "What To Cook: When You Think There's Nothing in the House to Eat," by Arthur Schwartz (HarperPerennial, $15) and "Monday to Friday Cookbook," by Michele Urvater, (Workman Publishing, $14.95)

Tips for planning dinners

Here are some meal-planning pointers and serving ideas from "Betty Crocker's Quick Dinners: In 30 Minutes or Less," (Prentice Hall, $8).

■ Plan for leftovers to make a second meal quick and easy.

■ When possible, make double portions of favorite dishes and freeze or refrigerate half for later.

■ Try roasting two types of meat at the same time, for example chicken and beef. Serve one hot that night and save the other to serve hot or cold the next day.

■ Keep store-bought frozen chopped onion on hand, or make your own. Place peeled, chopped onion in boiling water about 1½ minutes. Chill immediately in ice water. Drain, package and freeze.

■ If you forget to chill canned fruits or vegetables, give them a quick chill in the freezer for 20 minutes.

■ When you cook pasta, double the amount. Toss half with olive oil, cover and refrigerate. You'll have the beginnings of a pasta salad the next night.

Perk up salads with unusual greens

AP — Out-of-the-ordinary greens transform a ho-hum salad into a menu star. You may find some of the following greens sold individually, but you're also likely to find them pre-mixed and packaged, so you don't have to stock up on several kinds. Just open the package, toss with a little dressing, and serve.

■ Arugula (ah-ROO-guh-lah): If you like horseradish, you'll like arugula. A member of the mustard family, arugula tastes spicy and peppery. Toss the smooth, small, dark-green leaves with tomatoes, olives, peppers and olive oil for a Mediterranean salad.

■ Broccoli Rapini (rah-PEE-nee): Broccoli rapini may look like regular broccoli, but the flavor is not the same. It's slightly bitter. The plant also has longer, slimmer stalks with fewer florets. As with regular broccoli, the florets may be tossed in salads or cooked, which mellows the flavor. You may find rapini also labeled as broccoli raab, rabe, or rape.

■ Frisee (FREE-say): As its delicate French name suggests, frisee has fine feathery leaves and a light color that give airiness to salads. It has a slightly bitter flavor.

■ Mache (MAHSH): Found growing in the wild, mache (also called "lambs lettuce") was given its name by European shepherds. The small, round, deep-green leaves were favored by their grazing lambs. The mildly bitter, slightly nutty flavor complements a mellow green (such as spinach or lettuce) when tossed in a salad.

■ Mesclun: Rather than referring to a particular green, mesclun actually means a mixture of greens, often several of those listed here.

■ Mizuna: The long, slender leaves of this Japanese mustard green are so notched that they give a feathery look to salads. They have a mild flavor.

■ Mustard Greens: Use this spicy mustard-flavored green in small amounts for a peppery bite. It will dress up your salad with its pretty, frilly-edged leaves.

■ Radicchio (rah-DEE-kee-oh):

What a show this "green" puts on in a salad, with its beautiful red-white variegated leaves! Similar in appearance to a small red cabbage, radicchio is tangy and slightly bitter. It costs a little more, but just a small amount in any salad is splashy.

■ Sorrel (SOR-uhl): The large, smooth and pale leaves of sorrel have a pleasantly sharp, lemony bite. Sorrel is delicious fresh in a salad. You can also cook it or stir it into cream soups or sauces just before serving.

■ Tatsoi: These thick, dark-green, spoon-shaped leaves have white midribs, similar to bok choy. They have a spicy cabbage-like flavor.

'Beat the dinner bell' game

Linda Hamilton offers these tips to "beat the dinner bell" game in "The 5 in 10 Cookbook: 5 Ingredients in 10 Minutes or Less," (Hearst Books, $15).

■ Read the recipe completely before you start.

■ Get out all of the ingredients and equipment before you begin cooking. The professionals call it preparing the mise en place, or getting everything together.

■ Don't set the 10-minute timer before you know exactly what you are doing.

■ Be single-minded and keep a watchful eye on what you're cooking.

■ Put a pot of water on the stove to cook pasta in as soon as you come in the door, before you take off your coat. Before you drain the water from the pasta, toss in some vegetables to cook too.

For the birds

Skating season's over, but recycling isn't. What looks like a lone ice skate to us is spring digs to nesting birds. This hostel, fashioned from an outgrown skate and recycled material, has an entry suitable for bluebirds, house finches and sparrows. It's adorned with a tin roof, a wire hanger, and, for looks, an old skating muffler.

"Responsibility comes with putting up birdhouses," says Marj Ferguson, co-owner of Wild Birds Unlimited in Farmington Hills. "When it's empty, the house has to be cleaned out for the next inhabitant."

This model opens when unlaced and has a removable roof ($70). Available at Wild Birds Unlimited, Farmington Hills, Royal Oak and Rochester Hills.

Your generation

You don't have to show an ID to get into My Generation Jewelry, but the store's set up for folks under 35, thank you. Owners Joe Domenick and Bruce Guastella came up with the novel concept after doing a market survey at a previous store. Last fall, the two opened My Generation Jewelry for the 20- to 30-something crowd.

Besides carrying modest-priced fine jewelry, the proprietors tune in rock music and decorate with poster art, all with a young clientele in mind. So much for marketing. Joe Domenick says the parents of many young customers come in for their own jewelry and for repairs.

Hot items include 10-karat motion rings, 14-karat Tasmanian Devil charms, and Mickey Mouse rings. My Generation Jewelry is in Coventry Commons Shopping Center, Canton.

STREET SOUNDS

Duran Duran — Duran Duran

"Destroyed by MTV, I hate to bite the hand that feeds me so much information" — so starts Duran Duran's ninth album, "Duran Duran."

With burning lyrics like that, you can't help but be drawn into the album. There are three problems, however. After the first three tracks, the above-mentioned "Too Much Information," along with the romantic "Ordinary World" and the danceable "Love Voodoo," the former teen heartthrobs turn house with hip-hop and techno beats.

Not that that's all bad, but it gets a little tiresome. The group tries to rescue the album with "Breath After Breath," performed with Brazilian composer Milton Nascimento and Vinnie Colaiuta to no avail. (Steve Ferrone, a drummer in Eric Clapton's band, also appears on the album.)

The second problem is many of the "Duranie" generation remember the group's debut album, "Duran Duran," released in 1981. To ease the confusion, Capitol Records has nicknamed the album "The Wedding Album" because of the wedding pictures on the cover.

The third problem occurs while watching the video of the first single, "Ordinary World," overlaid on MTV. It makes me wonder if Simon LeBon, Nick Rhodes, John Taylor and Warren Cupcurullo are masochists or how seriously "destroyed" the quartet was by the music channel.

Discipline pushes for 'Profit'

They know there's interest in their music in Norway, but for Discipline the goal at present is to fan the flames of support in the metro Detroit area. One way, the group hopes, is with the release of "Push & Profit."

By KYLE GREEN
SPECIAL WRITER

The Royal Oak-based Discipline has no intention of dwelling on the past, and the five-piece band hopes with its debut release, "Push & Profit," things will accelerate in the future.

"One of the problems we are having and we feel we might run into is because the music is so long, (the songs) are not standard pop form and not standard post-punk form, and it doesn't really fit in anywhere, and we are just trying to find an audience that crosses boundaries," said front man Matthew Parmenter. "It's our alternative to alternative," added bassist Mathew Kennedy.

The eight-track release is a flowing array of mature, electric, orchestrated sound. With the average song length at seven minutes, the band knows its material may be difficult to plug in this era of simplicity.

"It will take a while to convince radio stations that's it's OK to play a seven-minute song. . . It will take someone to break that," said keyboardist David Krofchok. "I think we raise enough eyebrows that if the right people hear it . . . I think we have a shot."

Regardless if Discipline has "a shot" in the Detroit area or not, the band recently returned from performing in Norway, where the members were surprised by the crowd's reactions to their material.

"One gig that we played was a club called Alaska. It wasn't very well attended, but the audience was very, very loud, and they had us come out and sing again, and I eventually said I couldn't do it because I lost my voice," Parmenter said.

"They were loving the music," Krofchok said. "We had people up on the stage talking afterwards for what seemed to be a good hour, talking about how much they liked this and that."

The band landed the opportunity to play when a Norwegian college student, Pal Bevrjord, approached the band after a local show. Bevrjord was impressed with the band's unique live performance style and was interested in having them play in his home country.

After returning to Norway with a cassette of Discipline's music, he persuaded members of his school's concert committee to sponsor a brief tour. The college, which is located outside of Oslo, picked up the band's airfare and room and board. Bevrjord was able to schedule three shows spread out over a two-week period in March.

Besides the Alaska club show, Discipline played an acoustic set in a campus tavern and days later played in a campus amphitheater.

"There were a lot of students there, and we actually had students stage diving, and if you heard our music, it's kind of weird," Parmenter said.

"We had one drunk that no one would catch," said Jon Preston Bouda with a laugh.

Before they returned home, Bevrjord expressed interest in bringing the band back next year, but for now Discipline is pooling its energies to raise awareness about the band at home.

"Push & Profit" should accomplish just that. The release was recorded at Tempermill studios in Ferndale during January. It provided the band the ability to polish its sound.

"I think most of it comes from playing live, because you really learn to work together as a unit," Parmenter said. "If something goes wrong, it's kind of interesting how you will get out of it, and when we had the opportunity to record in the studio, it just came off as part of our unity."

"We've done plenty of recordings in the one-take-live feel, but one of the things is we wanted to go back into the studio and get a more polished sound. But when we are live I think we do have a polished sound, but it's different."

"It's a different energy," said drummer Paul Dzendzel. "You are in front of people playing instead of each other in a studio."

The band members are realistic about their future, while concentrating on their current efforts.

"The trip was a good thing, but it was fairly one-dimensional. It doesn't get to the root of the reason why we went (to Norway), because it has to do with the music," Parmenter said. "The trip was great and it said a lot about us, but it's time to move on."

Discipline will perform at The Ritz, 17580 Frazho, Roseville, Wednesday, April 14. Call 778-8150 for more information. The band also will play Friday, April 30, at Lili's, 2930 Jacob, Hamtramck; Wednesday, May 5, at The Ritz in Roseville; and Friday, May 14, at I-Rock nightclub, 16350 Harper (881-ROCK).

Green Jello finds success is a fairy tale

Green Jello:

Most bands dream about being signed to a record label. During Green Jello's fledgling years, however, it had more, shall we say, elementary ideas at heart.

"Our dream was to learn to play our instruments; I still don't know how to sing," Green Jello leader Bill Manspeaker with a laugh. "Every once in awhile the band gets mad at me."

Green Jello is the loosely termed hard rock "band" behind the genius video "Three Little Pigs." A twist on the original tale, the video, made of Claymation and animation, features one pig who's a musician wannabe, a second pig who spends his time lounging on a beach, and the third who is the brainy child of musician "Pig Nugent." The wolf wears shades and a black leather coat and threatens the pigs while using hip-hop mannerisms.

The story is one of 11 on its videotape and accompanying album, both entitled "Cereal Killer." Aside from nursery rhymes, Green Jello also slimes teenage ravers in, appropriately, "House of Teenage Rave" and the Red Hot Chili Peppers in "Seattle Guys." In the cover of the Sex Pistols' "Anarchy in the U.K.," Fred Flintstone cries, "I wanna destroy Mr. Slate" in the chorus.

"Cereal Killer" is the group's first foray into videos. Green Jello never meant to do any videos — even after they promised their label, Zoo Entertainment, that they would.

"We didn't know how to make any videos whatsoever. We lied to the Behavior shows granddaughter needs therapy

BARBARA SCHIFF

STREET SENSE
Voice Mail Message: Barbara, My granddaughter is 21. I am very concerned about her. She cannot seem to manage without a boyfriend and has had a series of them, mostly losers and sometimes even abusive. My granddaughter is attractive and intelligent; why does she settle for men who are so beneath her?

Thoughts on that. You've obviously done some reading about the foundations of this country. My thoughts are that people won't take responsibility for their actions if they don't recognize that there are absolute rights and wrongs. Everyone will do what is right in their own eyes and rationalize their behavior. Also, I believe that we can't teach right from wrong to people without acknowledging that there is a God to base the right and wrong upon. We have effectively taken God out of our educational system and also out of our society as a whole. There are some excellent, documented studies on this subject and maybe you are familiar with the material. Wal-builder Press is the publisher of "The Myth of Separation" by David Barton. It explains that in the early times of this country many of our states required that an office holder acknowledge God and Jesus Christ as a prerequisite to elective office. It is very interesting that we think we can be successful as a country even while so departing from our roots. Thank you for listening.

Dear Debby, I am printing your message to offer the readers of this column the opportunity to know more of the history of early America and to read your feelings about the necessity for religion to be a part of our government. Thank you for your comments. Barbara

Dear Grandma, Your concern for your granddaughter is understandable. As you describe her, she is in trouble and in need of counseling. However, you are jumping to conclusions by thinking that she must have been abused for her to behave in this way. There are many different environmental and genetic circumstances that could lead to this. One of them is abuse and there are many others. I do not know the extent of your influence on your granddaughter or what the relationship is between you, she and her parents. If you are in a position to recommend counseling, that is what your granddaughter needs. Barbara

Voice mail message: Barbara, Concerning your article on growth hormone. I want to recommend that the father who is concerned about his short son check with his doctor concerning his thyroid. My son was short and we found it was his thyroid. This situation sounds similar. Dear Caller, Thank you for your advice. It is being published for the possible help it could give this family. Barbara

'Keeper' examines bizarre trial

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

Known collectively as the "Ward boys," the four elderly bachelor brothers milk the cows, feed the turkeys and live in a squalor not unlike their livestock. On cold nights, they sleep in the same room and often in the same beds.

The townspeople don't get too close: "You leave them alone, they leave you alone," says one of the Wards' neighbors in rural New York. "If you're in a restaurant, you don't just plop your ass down next to 'em; you might even move down a seat or two."

But when one of the brothers ends up dead one morning and the police say they have Delbert Ward's signed confession of murder, the neighbors are up in arms. They raise bail money and find a lawyer who can prove that Delbert, nearly illiterate, didn't know what he was putting his name to.

It's the district attorney's job to prove that Delbert, tired of hearing the cries of the terminally sick brother, put his hand over William's mouth and suffocated him.

The documentary account of the trial and the men who went from outcast farmers to full-blown media figures make up "Brother's Keeper." The amazing new film, playing this weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre, is the most exciting documentary to hit area screens since "Roger and Me."

Not that the two have all that much in common. Michael Moore's personalized account of GM's pulling out of Flint was as much about himself as it was about Roger Smith. Here, filmmakers Joe Berlinger and Bruce Sinofsky try to stay out of the camera range, though they can be heard asking usually intelligent questions.

Oh, occasionally they'll stumble into a "how did it feel when you knew your brother was dead?" but many of their questions are sincere and compelling. And though they've been criticized for further corrupting the rusticity of their simple subjects by filming, they try to remain objective and, by all accounts, accurate.

The brothers, Lyman, Delbert and Roscoe, live on the family farm left to them by their mother, who died some 30 years ago. It hasn't been cleaned since. Cats roam the place and dirty clothes lie in piles. A new television set, their main link with the outside world, is simply stacked atop the one that broke.

By following Delbert over the span of a year in preparation for the trial, we see a man changing. Local ladies put on a fund-raising dinner for him, dance with him, and pack the courtroom during the trial. A lighted sign outside a local restaurant keeps drivers updated on trial results while just below it reads "Pork and Ham Dinners $3.99."

And while it is sometimes hard to tell "the boys" apart beneath their shaggy gray beards and baseball caps (and harder yet to understand what the heck they're saying), the movie paints vivid portraits of all three. Perhaps the most unforgettable sequence shows brother Lyman (by his own account "the nervous one") shaking, almost dying of fright on the witness stand.

Long after the jurors read the verdict the lingering question remains: Did Delbert really slay his brother? Ultimately, this grows less important than the question of whether or not the justice system is suited to handle a case as delicate and extraordinary as this.

If you have a comment for John Monaghan, call him at 953-2047, mailbox number 1866, on a touch tone phone, or write him care of Street Scene, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

"MAC" (USA — 1993). John Turturro makes his directorial debut in this moving story of three Italian brothers who try to cash in on the residential construction boom in the 1960s. A heartfelt tribute to Turturro's father handled with charm and insight.

"OLIVIER OLIVIER" (France — 1992). In this new film from director Agnieszka Holland ("Europa, Europa"), a missing boy returns after several years and many wonder if he's the real thing.

"FANNY AND ALEXANDER" (Sweden — 1983), 3:45 p.m. April 12. In this lyrical story set at the turn of the century, Ingmar Bergman tells the tale of a Swedish family through the eyes of a small boy. Bergman decided this would be his last feature film as director, and it turned out a masterpiece. "Strictly Ballroom" (Australia — 1992), through April 15 (call for show times). For description, see Maple listing above.

RABBLES COFFEEHOUSE
22010 Harper, St. Clair Shores. Call 779-0707 for information. (Free)

"CAPTIVE WOMEN" (USA — 1952), 11 p.m. April 12. In 29th century New York a post-atomic society has evolved into peaceful Mutes harassed by violent Norms. Sounds like a winner.

"Giant" (USA — 1956), 8 p.m. April 16, 2 and 8 p.m. April 17 (organ overture begins a half hour before show time). "Gone With the Wind" wears a Stetson in this epic family saga starring Rock Hudson, Elizabeth Taylor and James Dean (in his final role).

"LET'S KILL ALL THE LAWYERS" (USA — 1993). Local filmmaker Ron Senkowski takes on the legal profession in this one-joke comedy filmed on location in Detroit and Ann Arbor. Talented stage actors James Vezina and Rick Frederick play a shameless shyster and his apprentice who watch colleagues one by one bite the dust. Occasionally clever but mostly a trial.

record company so they gave us money. We said we could make 11 of them," Manspeaker said. Much to the surprise of Zoo — and themselves — Green Jello completed the task. "They're happy and they're shocked at the same time. They didn't really expect us to do it. It was a big farce," he said. It's such a big farce that Manspeaker can't believe anyone watches it. "It was kinda like watching 'Three's Company,'" he said. "By the time it was over, a half hour of your time was already gone. When they're done watching our video, 45 minutes will go by. People will say, 'What happened to my 45 minutes? I got robbed!'" It's even more of a surprise to him that the six-minute song "Three Little Pigs" is played on the radio. Manspeaker admitted that his group's live shows are even more farfetched. The show begins with Manspeaker, dressed as a cow, driving up on a moped while other cast members throw desserts at him. "It's gonna be like a cartoon parade," Manspeaker said. "If you're expecting to see some giant Broadway production, stay home. You'll have a miserable time. Expect to see something funny and real cheesy." Green Jello opens for Testament on Thursday, April 15, at Harpo's, 14238 Harper, Detroit. Doors open at 9 p.m. Tickets are $10. Must be 18 to enter. PLYMOUTH SPORTS SCENE

Gymnast wins state title

Kim Berres of Plymouth won the United States Gymnastics Federation Level 9 state championship April 4 at the Saginaw Gymnastics Club.

The Plymouth Canton sophomore scored 37.15 in all-around competition to finish first among 43 gymnasts in the Senior Division, ages 15 and up. Berres was first on balance beam (9.4) and floor exercise (9.25), second on vault (9.4) and fourth on the uneven bars (9.1).

Katie Gilles of Plymouth was second in the Level 9 Junior Division (12-14) with a 36.2 all-around total.

The West Middle School eighth-grader placed second on beam (9.05) and third on floor (9.05) and vault (9.25). Gilles scored 8.85 on bars. She was one of 21 gymnasts in the division.

Livonia seventh-grader Erin McWatt was third in the Level 9 Junior Division with a 36.1 all-around score. She was first on beam (9.1), third on bars (9.1) and fourth on floor (9.05). Her vault score was 8.85.

All three girls are members of the Ann Arbor Gym America Level 9 team, which won the state championship.

Borgess to stay in AA

Redford Bishop Borgess was denied in its bid to rejoin the Catholic League Central Division for girls basketball by the league's executive council.

The Spartans, who once were members of the Central, finished 20-3 and rolled through the AA Bracket with a 9-1 record last fall.

With star players Maxann Reese and Adrienne Bryant returning next season, Borgess coach Dave Mann hoped to join the tougher Central Division.

Mann said the Spartans were refused because they waited until February to apply, after schedules had already been made.

Rocks lose soccer game

Livonia Stevenson scored a pair of second-half goals Wednesday to defeat visiting Plymouth Salem (0-1) in an early-season clash between perennial girls soccer powers, 2-0. "I thought we played well for the first game," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "We had a lot of shots but weren't quite on the mark. We outshot them 15-6 but just couldn't hit the goal."

"For the first game, I thought the kids played pretty well. We'll see what happens down the line. It's a long season and, hopefully, we'll get going." Sophomores Laura Fedrigo and Rola Khoury scored the Stevenson (2-0) goals. Karen Groulx was in goal and made five "major, game-securing saves," according to coach Mary Kay Hussey.

Plymouth Canton was scheduled to play Farmington Hills Harrison at home Wednesday, but the game was postponed until April 29.

Schoolcraft's Brady medalist

Using a borrowed putter, Schoolcraft College's Michael Brady (Redford Catholic Central High) took medalist honors with a 73 as the Ocelots opened their men's golf season April 3 at Tri-State University.

Brady helped SC to a third-place finish in the eight-team field. Lansing CC won the team title with a 305 followed by Parkland, Ill. (311), Schoolcraft (313), DuPage, Ill. (319), Henry Ford (320), Muskegon (334), Glen Oaks (362) and Mott (382).

SC's Dennis Alcock, last year's Region 12 medalist and National Junior College Athletic Association finalist, finished with a respectable 77 under cold and blustery conditions.

Other SC finishers included Dan Alcock and Steve Brining, each with an 81, and Pete Theophilus, 89.

Blazers sweep twinbill

Livonia Ladywood began Catholic League softball play Wednesday by sweeping a doubleheader from host Harper Woods Regina, 9-3 and 4-2.

Mary Jo Kelly was the winning pitcher in both games, holding the Saddlelites to 10 hits total, striking out seven in each contest and walking only four (none in the opener).

Freshman Stacey Judd and junior Lisa Donnelly had two hits and scored two runs apiece in the first game.

Judd, who also had three RBI, was the leading hitter in the nightcap, too. She had three hits, stole two bases and scored two runs, including the game-winner.

With one out in the eighth inning, freshman Katie Law singled to score Judd and then scored the final run on sophomore Christie Soter's double.

The Blazers are 2-0 in the division and 3-3.

CC lacrosse victory

Redford Catholic Central scored four first-quarter goals en route to a 12-1 lacrosse victory Wednesday over Troy.

Brian Ronayne led CC with three goals and two assists, and Jamie Ronayne contributed two goals and two assists. Tim Williams added two goals for CC, which also scored four third-quarter goals.

Senior starter: Senior Jenna Stanton steps into a starting role at third base for the Rocks, who begin the season Monday, April 19.

Rocks solid in softball

Plymouth Salem returns a veteran, senior-dominated softball team and has the talent to match or surpass its winning record of a year ago.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

With eight starters back from a winning team, Plymouth Salem already has the foundation in place for another successful softball season.

The Rocks were 18-8 and third in the Lakes Division behind Walled Lake Central and Westland John Glenn with a 6-4 record.

The key position, as it is with every high school fast-pitch team, is pitching and the key question: how good is it?

Salem has a solid pitcher in senior Jenny Garvey, who begins her fourth season on the varsity. She was 18-6 and an all-division player.

Garvey isn't a finesse pitcher with a lot of fancy pitches but a consistent, dependable one who throws strikes, which is the most important quality of a high school thrower.

"Jenny is a very key player," second-year coach Al Campbell said. "Keep her from getting injured and we'll be competitive. Jenny is going to have a good year."

Campbell's only concern about pitching is depth and a possible injury to Garvey. Her backup is junior Amy Ruthig, who has only JV experience.

"Amy is going to get some; we're going to throw her," Campbell said, adding pitching is most crucial and a team is blessed with a player like Plymouth Canton's Kelly Holmes "once in 50 years."

The catcher again will be senior Amber Trombetta, a good defensive player who works well with Garvey, Campbell said.

Stacy Sinke is only a sophomore

Backup backstop: Junior Lisa Girardin is the backup to catcher Lisa Trombetta.

Salem, Canton girls coast in dual meets

The Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton girls track teams offered a glimpse of what opponents can expect this year when they routed a pair of Western Lakes Activities Association teams Wednesday.

In their first dual meets, Salem trounced host Livonia Churchill 99-29, and Canton reached the century mark in its 100-28 bashing of visiting Westland John Glenn.

Salem's Sarah Makins won both hurdles races, and defending state champion Tonya Wheeler won the 400-meter run and anchored a pair of relays.

Makins ran 16.9 in the high hurdles and 49.8 in the intermediates. Wheeler had an impressive, early-season time of 59.8 in the quarter.

"I was real pleased with the way Sarah Makins ran the hurdles," Salem coach Mark Gregor said. "She had some good times and looked real strong. I think she'll just get better."

"Tonya ran the 400 real well. For her to break 60 seconds this early in the season is a pretty good accomplishment."

Salem's Dana Driscoll and Stacy Witthoff also won individual events and were on two winning relays, and Sarah Hamilton was the lead runner on three relay teams.

Driscoll won the long jump (15-6) and Witthoff the 800 run (2:34.5). Hamilton, Driscoll and Marcia Parker combined with Vanessa Benning to win the 400 relay (54.6) and Wheeler the 800 (1:52.1).

Hamilton also got the Rocks started in the 1,600 relay (4:14.6) and was followed by Courtney Sheldon, Witthoff and Wheeler. Witthoff, Lynda Sebestyen, Kelly Stankov and Sheldon captured first place in the 3,200 relay (10:38.5).

Other Salem winners were Melissa Hopson, high jump (5-3); Karen Boudreau, 1,600 (5:48); and Emily Farrell, 3,200 (12:39.9).

The Rocks compete in the Lady Chief Relays on Saturday, April 17, and have an important dual meet following spring break at Livonia Stevenson on Thursday, April 22.

"That's the one we've been thinking about for quite awhile," Gregor said. "Since I've been coaching here (sixth season), we haven't beaten them at Stevenson, so we're looking forward to this one."

Canton track victory

Selena Bastine set a school record in the discus and there were plenty of other highlights Wednesday as the Chiefs kicked off the dual-meet season by thumping Glenn.

Bastine threw the discus 117-6 and broke her own record of a year ago (115-4). She also won the shot put with a throw of 33-1.

Karina Kilpelainen also won two events and, including a relay leg, had three first places. Ndu Okwumabua and Tracey Cavin also had three apiece, which included two relays.

Kilpelainen won the 100 and 300 hurdles in 16.6 and 49.5, and she joined Becky Bockstanz, Olive

Madonna remains positive

One thing is imperative when playing baseball for Madonna University coach Mike George: You can't afford to get down.

He wouldn't let you, anyway. George is the kind of coach who believes every possible date should be filled. Combine his attitude with Michigan weather, and you get a season that lasts a little more than a month with double-headers six days a week (at least).

That's why letdowns can't be allowed. Get down for a moment, and you're mired in a six-game losing streak (in just a three-day span).

George is well aware of this. Which is why he searches for something positive in every outing.

Example: Last Wednesday and Thursday, Madonna played three games — one at Ohio State Wednesday, and a double-header at home against Northwood University Thursday. The Crusaders lost two of those three. Was George unhappy?

"Not at all," he answered. "The guys did a good job, they just couldn't finish it. The guys have done a good job all year, really. The record doesn't necessarily show it."

Maybe it's not quite as good as George would like, but the record's not bad: 15-8 overall, 3-1 in NAIA District 23.

The 11-10 loss in 10 innings Wednesday at Ohio State had George's juices flowing. "We had our chances to win the ball game," he said. "One base hit here, one base hit there, and it's a different ball game."

"It was a thrill. It was fun going down there. I'll tell you, I think we earned their respect."

Madonna led 6-0 going into the bottom of the fourth and was still clinging to a 10-7 advantage entering the bottom of the ninth. But with one out, the Buckeyes' Todd Jones clubbed a game-tying three-run homer off Madonna reliever T.C. Raptis to force extra innings.

In the 10th, OSU's Bill Marsh singled, stole second and scored the game-winner on Mike Repasky's base hit.

The Crusaders collected 18 hits in the game, but left 10 men on base and managed to score just once after loading the bases with none out in the seventh.

Madonna's assault was led by Craig Overaitis (Livonia Franklin), who was 4-for-4 with two runs batted in, and Bill Terski, who had three hits and four RBI.

Jim Solak had three hits, and Jeff Pendell (Livonia Churchill), Jeff Miller and Rich Roy (Livonia Clarenceville) contributed two hits apiece, with Pendell and Miller each scoring twice. Joe Brusseau (Redford Bishop Borgess) added a hit and two RBI.

Jeff Kugelmann (Plymouth Canton) started and lasted six innings, giving up five runs on seven hits and three walks, striking out four. Raptis relieved and took the loss, surrendering six runs on six hits and a walk in 3 1/2 innings.

See MADONNA, 2C

Madonna

Overaitis powered Madonna past Northwood in Thursday's first game, slamming a pair of two-run homers in the 7-2 triumph at Madonna University Park.

The Crusaders scored three times in the first, two coming home on Shaun Hayward's double. Hayward was plated by Teraki, who singled. Hayward, Brusseu, Pendell and Overaitis each had two hits in the game. Overaitis homered in the third and fifth innings.

Sophomore righthander Ryan Grabetz was the beneficiary for Madonna. He went the distance to improve to 2-0, stopping the Northmen on three hits and two walks, striking out five. Rick Bush took the loss, allowing seven runs on 10 hits and two walks.

In Thursday's second game against Northwood, the Crusaders couldn't get their offense in gear against senior righthander Ron Roth and it cost them a 3-2 defeat.

Roth held Madonna at bay, allowing six hits and three walks, striking out four. The only runs scored against him came in the fourth. Pendell was hit by a pitch and Miller slugged a two-run homer.

That narrowed the gap to a run, but Madonna never tied it. Northwood scored on Ed Lynch's solo homer in the second and Mike Beltinck's two-run single in the third.

Madonna starter Mike Coleman, a junior righthander, deserved a better fate. He gave up all three runs on six hits and two walks in six innings, fanning seven. Coleman is 1-2.

but has a year of starting experience at first base. The other infielders are senior all-division second baseman Lori Thomczek, senior shortstop Kristin Stackpole and senior third baseman Jenna Stanton.

Stanton is the only new member of the starting unit, replacing Emily Giuliani.

The Rocks have a veteran outfield with seniors Amanda Tu-baugh in left, all-league senior Dawn Morocco in center and junior Jenny Coleman in right.

"Amanda is probably the best power hitter," Campbell said. "Jenna hits the ball hard and so does Dawn. Hopefully, those three will keep us alive. Jenny Coleman is coming along and hitting the ball well, too."

Salem also returns senior outfielder Mary Londo, and senior Christy Parimucha has never played softball but has made progress and adds depth to the outfield.

The Rocks have added four former JV players: sophomore twins

Michelle (outfield) and Jennifer (infield) Gibson, juniors Jamey Viau (first base) and Lisa Girardin (catcher) and sophomore Brenda Klask (infield).

Campbell sees freshman Kelly Knight as the Salem pitcher of the future and plans to rotate her between the varsity and JV.

"She's going to be a fine ballplayer," he said. "She's a good hitter and a very talented athlete."

The Rocks will be tested right away in their first four games. They open April 19 with a double-header against Ann Arbor Huron and play Livonia Churchill and Walled Lake Central after that. Salem plays Canton Monday, May 24.

"Our team strength is that we are fundamentally sound," Campbell said. "I don't think mistakes will beat us. We'll hit and field the ball. The question is how far is pitching going to carry us? With this lineup back, I think we're capable of doing the same thing (as last year)."

North loses opener, 12-6

Birmingham Groves spoiled visiting North Farmington's baseball debut Wednesday by defeating the Raiders 12-6.

The Falcons scored five first-inning runs off sophomore pitcher Darin Glasser, who later returned to pitch 1 1/2 innings and allow eight runs in all. A trio of North pitchers combined to walk 13 batters.

Corey Meurer and Glasser were 2-for-3 with two RBI apiece. Alex Bitoff and Mark Herman had a hit, one RBI and scored two runs each for the Raiders.

Kevin Gracely, Yasushi Higuch and Pat Maxwell had two hits apiece for Groves (1-1), which out-hit North 9-7. Higuch drove in four runs and scored two, and Gracely hit a home run, had two RBI and scored twice.

Groves starter Mitch Rivet pitched four innings and earned the victory before Pete Savojic entered to work the last three.

Crusaders regroup to win softball DH

Maybe the corner has been turned. Couldn't they have come too soon, either, for Madonna University's softball team. The Lady Crusaders were burdened with a six-game losing streak entering Wednesday's double-header against NAIA District 23 foe Tri-State University. The last two in that streak had come against Northwood University, which swept Madonna's district-opening games Tuesday, 6-2 and 7-6.

That magnified the importance of the Tri-State twin bill. A split wouldn't be enough; the Crusaders would have been saddled with a 1-3 district record, with all four games at home.

No worries. Madonna bounced back from first-inning deficits in each game to beat Tri-State twice, 5-2 and 14-9, at Massey Field in Plymouth.

Dawn Terrasi allowed just one earned run on five hits and a walk (with four strikeouts) in the opener. Tri-State bunched three of their hits with an error to score twice in the first.

Madonna tied it in the second on a two-run double by Lynda Weichel, scoring Jill Burt and Holly Jondro, who reached base on singles. The Crusaders went in front in the third, the two-run rally starting with a double by Michelle Birchmeier (Redford Thurston). Birchmeier scored when Tracy Parenti reached base on an error.

An error on Weichel's grounder brought home the second run in the third. Gerylyn Kephire's sacrifice fly supplied an insurance run in the fifth. Jondro led Madonna's six-hit attack with two.

Coach Dave Racer was happier with his team's overall play in the second game. "In the second game, they showed a bit more aggressiveness," he said. "They've all been waiting for the other person to come through, and the other person hasn't gotten the job done."

Another annoyance: the first inning woes. According to Racer, opponents have scored in the opening inning in four of Madonna's last six games.

Tri-State did it again in the second game, getting two runs in the first and rocking Crusaders' starter Kristen Wasil (Garden City) for nine runs on nine hits. But it wasn't enough; Madonna collected 13 hits and took advantage of seven Tri-State errors to score 14 times.

Burt led the attack, going 4-for-4 with two runs batted in and three runs scored. Jondro had three hits, four RBI and scored twice, and Mandy and Megan Armstrong each had two hits and two runs scored.

The two wins lifted Madonna's record to 7-15 overall, 2-2 in the district, with an important double-header against Aquinas College at 3:30 p.m. today at Massey Field. Aquinas is led by pitcher Jodi Browski, the district's most valuable player last year.

Canton, Salem boys earn track victories

The boys track season had a good beginning for the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem teams Wednesday as each claimed victory in its first dual meet.

The Chiefs scored an impressive 76-56 win over host Westland John Glenn with the help of two event winners Tom Raven and Rob Lemasters.

"We're pleased to start with a victory," Canton coach Bob Richardson said. "A year ago we ran into a buzzsaw in Walled Lake Western, and it's a much better feeling this year to walk away with a win."

Raven showed why he is one of the top throwers in the area, winning the shot put (44-29) and the discus (136-2).

Sprint specialist Lemasters won the 100- and 200-meter dashes in 12.03 and 24.5, and he also anchored the winning 400 relay team. Mike Gurchak, Neil Haremaki, Damon Collier and Lemasters ran the relay in 46.9.

The Chiefs dominated in the distance runs as Kevin Gudeth won the 800 (2:05), Jeff Keith the 1,600 (4:46) and Shawn McNamara the 3,200 (10:30).

Canton's strength in the distance events also was evident in the relays as Keith, Justin McClain, Todd Smith and Gudeth won the 3,200 in 8:36.57.

The Chiefs also got first places from Collier in the long jump (18-10) and John Martin in the 300 hurdles (41.7).

"Some of our kids ran real good times and we used a lot of kids," Richardson said. "We held two (Matt Demey and Casey Moothart) out because of injuries and when we get them back we're going to be even more competitive."

Glenn (0-2) won the high jump, pole vault, high hurdles, 400 and 1,600 relay.

Rocks rout Chargers

Salem also made a strong showing in the distance runs and swept the relays in the process of defeating Livonia Churchill 87-49 at Salem.

The Rocks had a quadruple winner in Don Johnson and a triple winner in Derek Cudini, each of whom won two individual events.

Johnson had the lone Salem win in the field events, going 20-1/4 in the long jump, and he took first place in the high hurdles at 15.5.

Marcus Zevalkink, Steve Schumacher, Johnson and Jay Casey won the 400 (46.4) and 800 (1:35.5) relays for Salem.

Cudini won the 1,600 and 3,200 runs in 4:50 and 10:40.4, and he led the 3,200 relay, which included Justin Richardson, Andy McDonald and Josh Stickney and finished in 8:48.4.

Adam Bakowski won the 400 relay team. Russ Polcyn, Brian Herc, Schumacher and Bakowski completed the relay in 3:42. Herc also won the 300 hurdles (42.9) and Stickney the 800 run (2:11.2).

The Chargers won four field events and the 100 and 200 dashes.

Despite hardships, Roseanne's character follow that dream

By Steven Alan McGaw

It's hard to ignore Tom and Roseanne Arnold. For one thing, each is the star of a weekly half-hour comedy series on ABC. Her show Roseanne is a solid hit and sure to stay on the air for as long as she wishes. His (The Jackie Thomas Show - he's Jackie) has received generally favorable response from viewers and critics and is likely to be back next season, though he was saying it's a sure thing long before ABC made any decision.

But those shows just scratch the surface of the Arnolds' presence (some would say choke hold) on the collective American consciousness. Separately and together, Tom and Roseanne are ubiquitous on the nation's talk shows and in the pages of newspapers and magazines.

Understandably, this kind of overexposure, as well as their come-out-swinging approach to their detractors, has given the Arnolds more than their share of naysayers, a sizable public that shuns their every appearance. These are the people who won't give a fair shot to The Woman Who Loved Elvis, a telefilm starring Tom and Roseanne that airs Sunday, April 18, on ABC.

It's their loss. From Laura Kalpakian's well-regarded novel, Graced Land, writer Rita Mae Brown (Ruby-fruit Jungle) has fashioned a clever, peppery script that is both weirdly funny and honestly moving. Bill Bixby's direction, though a little sluggish at times, generally serve the story well. Most importantly, the performances by the Arnolds and the rest of the talented cast keep the dignity of their respective characters intact, never opting for the easy or mean-spirited laugh.

Roseanne gives a remarkable performance as Joyce Jackson, an indefatigable mother of two whose front porch is given over to a garish, candleladen shrine to Elvis Presley. Her simple home is similarly decorated and her wardrobe seems mostly to consist of T-shirts bearing the King's smoldering likeness. Her daughters are named Cilla and Lisa Marie (after Presley's wife and child), and her conversation is punctuated with references to the singer's troubled life and chart-topping songs. She even owns a shaggy dog she refers to as The Colonel.

Buy Joyce's feelings about Presley run deeper than joining the Love Me Tender Fan Club or hoarding commemorative stamps. In Presley's rags-to-riches story, Joyce finds hope for her own redemption. In the beauty of Presley's music that outlasts the lurid details of his later years, Joyce sees the transcendent good in life and dedicates herself to the same charitable spirit that led her hero to perform countless benefit shows, donate anonymous thousands and even give away Cadillacs. Joyce eschews a Presley fanatic's pilgrimage to Graceland, instead distributing boxes of clothing to grateful needy families "in the name of the King."

But Joyce herself is on welfare, and her unconventional lifestyle, precarious finances and surprising charity work continually attract the attention of local social workers. When her cynical supervisor at the welfare office (Liz Muckley) tells her to check up on Joyce, newly hired Emily Shaw (Cynthia Gibb) is quickly enchanted by the determined single mother's idealism and knack for survival.

Tom Arnold offers a credible, if unengaging, performance as Jack, the ne'er-do-well husband who fathered Joyce's daughters then left to live with another woman across town. He returns periodically to give Joyce some money or wash his motorcycle, but flatly refuses to acknowledge his wife's abiding belief that he will someday come back home to stay.

Danielle Harris and Kimberly Dal Santo are appropriately appealing as Joyce's girls, and Sally Kirkland (Anna) lends her customary fire as Sandee, Joyce's supportive, colorful best friend.

The film makes the most of its sunny Midwestern setting and the soundtrack boasts six Presley tunes

LET'S TALK

'Lassie' was a state of mind; Jeter lost in 'Evening Shade,' not space

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I am a big fan of the old Lassie show from the early 1960s with Paul, Ruth and Timmy Martin. In what state did they live? —Joshua Bintz, Coleman, Wis.

A: The mythical Martin family resided in the city of Calverton. Which state Calverton was supposed to be in is anybody's guess.

Q: Please help solve a problem at work. Who starred in Three Coins in the Fountain? Are we right with Dorothy McGuire, Clifton Webb and Hope Lange? Who else? —Elizabeth Hendrickson, Manteno, Ill.

A: I assume you are talking about the 1954 version, and yes, you are mostly right. McGuire and Webb star in the film, but Hope Lange does not. In addition to McGuire's, the other two coins are tossed by Jean Peters and Maggie McNamara. Louis Jourdan and Rossano Brazzi also lend fine support.

Q: I am trying to remember the name of an old movie made by MGM in the late '40s in which Katharine Hepburn plays the role of Clara Schumann. I also can't remember just who co-stars in that film. What's the title? —Dr. Thomas Renfroe, Mt. Pleasant, Texas.

A: The name of that picture is Song of Love, released in 1947. It's a historical musical detailing the lives and loves of Clara Schumann, Robert Schumann (Paul Henreid), Johannes Brahms (Robert Walker) and Franz Liszt (Henry Daniell). The stars' greatest accomplishments in the film may be their ability to act like they're really playing the piano. (Pianist Artur Rubinstein ghosted for them all.)

Q: I would appreciate it if you could settle a bet for me. My husband says Michael Jeter of Evening Shade is the same person who played Will Robinson in the old series Lost in Space. I'm sure he is not, but I can't prove it. If I win, I get a trip to Las Vegas, but if I lose, my life is over. —Gina Charlton, Macks Creek, Mo.

A: Viva Las Vegas! The role of Will Robinson was played by actor Billy Mumy.

Q: I am a big fan of Bob Saget. I would like to know his birthdate, birthplace and what his first acting appearances were. —M.W., Nathalie, Va.

A: Saget was born on May 17, 1956, in Philadelphia, Pa. After graduating from Temple University in 1978, Saget appeared on the stand-up comedy circuits around the country. In 1986, he appeared in the Richard Pryor film Critical Condition, and the following year he and his wife, Sherri, moved to New York, where he had signed on with Mariette Hartley for CBS' The Morning Program. Then, of course, came the smash hit Full House and his job as host for America's Funniest Home Videos.

Q: On the day that President Kennedy was assassinated, I was watching a movie about an Indian uprising starring Claudette Colbert when it was interrupted. I have never seen this movie again. What was the name of it? —Pauline Ball, Larimer, Pa.

No home state for Lassie and Timmy

A: That film is most likely 1939's Drums Along the Mohawk, a Revolutionary War drama directed by John Ford and also starring Henry Fonda, John Carradine and Edna May Oliver. The wonderful early use of Technicolor is a big plus.

Q: I'd like very much to know the name of the weekly series that ran a few years ago starring Lee Horsley, as a former gunfighter trying to make a home for his sisters' three children. —Lena Sprague, Chillicothe, Mo.

A: That series was called Paradise, a Western saga that premiered on Oct. 27, 1988, but met an early demise in 1991.

FAMILY FAIRIE

Kids on Nick 'Plan It for the Planet'

By Chris Carpenter

In January of this year, cable channel Nickelodeon sponsored a party on Capitol Hill for the members of the 103rd Congress and, more importantly, their children.

Rep. Pat Schroeder (D-Colo.) proved herself to be a shrewd host that night, gaining wide support for her family-oriented legislation by appealing to her colleagues not as lawmakers, but as parents. Before the night was through, Schroeder and Nickelodeon had also set the groundwork for future projects, those that would hold children and their viewpoints in higher esteem.

Beginning Friday, April 16, and continuing through Sunday, April 18, Nickelodeon invites kids from around the world to discuss environmental issues at the first meeting of the Kids World Council at Nickelodeon's studios in Orlando, Fla. The theme is "Plan It for the Planet," and the cable network will also premiere several new specials to coincide with the big event.

In Letters to the Earth, a half-hour special debuting Saturday, April 17, video essays by children from across the globe eloquently sum up what it is like to grow up fearing for a future which is getting more polluted by the second.
