Merchants like new parking plan

City commissioners talked about scrapping the parking credit system used downtown. Fears are that such a plan will spark lawsuits by downtown business people who have paid into the system. However, there was little opposition to it.

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

The plan is to eliminate strict parking requirements for businesses seeking to locate downtown.

And what was most striking about a public presentation on the plan Monday at city hall was the level of criticism it generated - just the mild

That's because some city officials say that while cutting parking requirements is necessary - too-strict requirements have driven interested businesses away - they're afraid of lawsuits from businesses who've already paid thousands of dollars for parking credits under the current city ordinance.

The worry is that lawsuits could rain down on city hall once the current ordinance is changed.

But of the 25 downtown business people who attended the meeting, only a few rose to criticize it - and they also said good things about the plan.

"We're on the right track," said Pam Wild, a downtown landlord. "I think a few things need to be ironed out, too.

At the special city commission meeting, mayor pro-tem Doug Miller presented the downtown development district parking plan put together by the city commission-appointed parking committee charged a year ago and headed by Miller.

The plan calls for:

Eliminating the parking credit system, whereby downtown businesses lacking sufficient on-site parking must pay thousands of dollars for the future creation of off-site parking.

Yank diners honor the Outback, mate

By Joanne Maliszewski Staff Writer

While you're trying to save for that once-in-a-lifetime trip to Australia, the Outback Steakhouse in Canton might be just the thing to keep you holding on.

'We sort of played off the Crocodile Dundee theme. Everyone seems to have a love affair with Australia. And some never get to go there,' said Gary Harchelroad, managing partner of the popular restaurant in the Canton Commons shopping center on Ford Road.

The wood-paneled interior decor is designed to give patrons a taste of the Australian outback, complete with boomerangs and road signs, like "Wombats 10 km," decorating the walls.

That's not to mention the even more familiar reminders of Australia - a mother kangaroo and a joey or lovable koalas that warm up the restaurant.

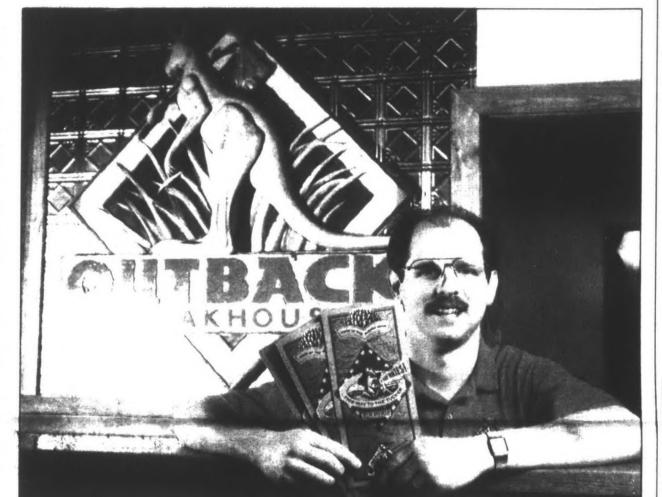

The menu and the cuisine also boast an Australian theme. Appetizers such as Kookaburra Wings and Walkabout Soup say it all. Entrees Alice Springs Chicken, Jackeroo Chops and Ribs on the Barbie - are no different, including the Joey Menu for the tykes. The Outback was recently voted a top restaurant by readers in Michigan Living magazine's third annual 'Best of Michigan" Treasure Awards. The Outback won in the Best New Restaurant category. Canton had the first Outback in Michigan. Two others are now located in West Bloomfield and Shelby Township.

Even if you haven't taken a trip to the Outback, you're probably familiar with it. It's the place where the parking lot is always full. It's also the place where 10 months after opening, you still have to wait a good 45 minutes.

"You can tell them it's a 45-50 minute wait and people still want to wait," Harchelroad said.

In fact, some people have a system. On their way home, they will stop, put their name on the list and go home or do some errands until their 45 or so minutes have passed.

No doubt the restaurant boasts an atmosphere that piques patrons' interest. But Harchelroad is convinced the homemade cuisine and the service are what keep people coming back.

"We spend all day getting ready for dinner. Everything is homemade. We don't do anything prepackaged," Harchelroad said.

If you've dined at the Outback, you've probably noticed the distinct flavorings of the hefty portions of fish, steaks and chicken. Most patrons leave with doggie bags.

"All of the food is uniquely seasoned. Most places where you go, you order a steak and you get a steak. We use 17 different seasonings," Harchelroad said.

Towns press for 3rd district judge

The push from local officials to add a full time third district court judge is on

All five communities served by the 35th District Court Northville, Northville Town ship, Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township are passing resolutions by May 1 stating their intention to pay for staff for a third judge.

Should the state approve of adding a third judge here, the judge's more than $100,000 salary would be paid by the state.

The local district court au thority completed a third courtroom last month and has hired a part-time third judge, Charles Kaufman, to meet a rising case load. 'Although Judge Kaufman's efforts have been most helpful, it is believed that a full-time elected judge would be a better solution," wrote court administrator Marion Belding to 35th District Court advisory board members

Belding said a full-time

judge would be "directly re sponsible to the communities and the people, and all but $4,107 of a full-time judges sal ary would be paid by the state

The cost to local govern ments of the part-time judge is projected at $35,000

Due to a rising case load, the state court administrator first recommended adding a third judge at the court in 1990, and the state legislature approved

But the local governments decided to postpone the creation of the position until a third courtroom was built.

In 1992, the local units agreed to the new judgeship, but the legislature balked due to a budget crisis.

The case load per judge is 20,140 compared with the state wide average of 11,138 per judge.

The state Supreme Court is surveying local state courts to determine if judges should be deleted or added to courts.

Montessori stresses child's freedom

BY JILL HALPIN

Some 20 years ago, Kay Neff of Dearborn Heights, was looking for a preschool for her oldest child when she stumbled upon a small non-profit school with seven students

Impressed with the program's hands-on approach to learning, she enrolled her child and "watched him thrive."

The school was Dearborn Heights Montessori school, one of the only Montessori schools in the area at that time.

"I wanted a school that encouraged curiosity and a desire for knowledge," Neff said.

As her other children reached preschool age, she also enrolled them, only to learn that the school was closing. After talking with other Montessori parents who were as pleased with school as she was, Neff purchased the school. She now owns and operates three of the six Montessori centers in western Wayne County.

Physician's theory

Based on the philosophy of Italian physician and educator Maria Montessori (1870-1952), the schools focus on the development of the whole child — emotionally, socially and academically.

Montessori, who was the first woman in Italy to receive a medical degree, became interested in education as assistant physician at a university psychiatric clinic. She spent time working with disadvantaged youths and formed very distinct opinions on how children learn, said Navaz Bhavnagri of the school of education at Wayne State University.

"One of Montessori's hallmarks is the profound respect it holds for children," said Linda Meyers, an administrator at the Plymouth-Canton Montessori.

"Montessori believed that children are unique individuals who are able to operate in the environment we give them . . . they grow through learning on their own," Meyers said.

Montessori students are taught to respect themselves as well as one another. One of the first lessons a Montessori student learns is to step carefully around a fellow student's work.

Orderly atmosphere

Respecting one another helps create an orderly atmosphere that is conducive to learning, said Sister Mary Paulita of Our Lady Montessori Center in Livonia.

A member of the Felician Order, Sister Paulita has been involved with Montessori for the past 13 years.

Montessori programs emphasize the "completion of cycles," she said.

At Our Lady of Montessori Center, children learn to finish projects and put them away before heading to another activity area. She believes this helps children acquire patience and independence.

Area has 6 Montessori schools

There are six Montessori schools operating in the area. All offer preschool and kindergarten classes and are equipped with day care facilities. Two of the schools also have elementary programs. Parents may contact the school to set up a time for observation prior to registering.

In keeping with the Montessori philosophy, preschool and kindergarten children attend five classes weekly. All centers offer morning and afternoon classes with before and after day care. The Northville Montessori center also offers a full-day Montessori program for preschoolers and kindergartners

Rosemary Harvey said residents should see a 13-percent increase in water charges and a 24.7 percent increase in sewer charges.

The rate increase was made necessary after two water rate increases by the city of Detroit, and sewer rate increases from Wayne County - sparked by Detroit raising its rate to the county.

The city of Detroit raised water rates 9.8 percent in July, but the township did not pass on the rate increase to township residents.

"We're anticipating at least some increase in July this year,' Harvey said, explaining the need for township officials to pass on the increase.

Meanwhile, sewer rates charged by Wayne County rose by 19.7 percent Jan. 1. The township is raising sewer rates 24.7 percent to pass on the county's increased charge, and to undertake a sewer cleaning program, Harvey said.

"The township's sewer system had not required a lot of maintenance, but we're getting to a point where if we don't do maintenance, things will start going wrong," she

Asked to suggest how much more in dollars an average township water-sewer user will pay, Harvey said it's impossible to identify an average user, as water sewer use varies greatly.

City of Plymouth sewer rates were last raised in June 1988 and water rates in July 1991. The increase in water and sewer rates from the city of Detroit has sparked a review by city officials, but no water or sewer rate increase has been decided on yet, City Manager Steve Walters said.

The township recently sent residents a guide on saving water in the bathroom, kitchen and outdoors.

Ways to save water include: ■ Put some food coloring in the toilet tank to check for leaks, and put plastic bottles in the tank.

■ Take baths, shorter showers, and fill the bottom of the sink with a few inches of water to rinse

■ Use dishwashers and washing machines for full loads only.

program is "quite structured."

A typical Montessori classroom will include six areas: language, mathematics, science and geography, sensorial, practical life and art. Most centers also offer foreign languages such as French or Spanish.

Maria Montessori firmly believed that children learn though their hands. This sensory motor stimulation is called active learning and classroom materials are specifically created for the handson approach, explained Meyers.

The materials are designed to minimize frustration and are aimed at a child's particular level of ability, said Neff, a former public school teacher who holds a master's degree in educational leadership from Wayne State University.

Children are introduced gradually to the materials by the instructor and are encouraged to master the concepts before progressing to the next step.

By making sure that the child is working with materials at his/her own level, the potential for failure is eliminated. This is called a "prepared environment" and helps a child develop a "quiet self-confidence," Neff explained.

Not without critics

Montessori has its critics. Some educators dispute the value of the "prepared environment" that a Montessori school provides and say that children need to learn through their errors.

"Children need to explore and come up with their own answers. Errors are informative. Based on these errors, children's cognitive thinking is resolved." said WSU's Bhavnagri.

Samuel Meisels, professor and assistant dean of education at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, agrees.

"Montessori schools provide some excellent materials, but I would differ in how they are used," said Meisels, a former science teacher in a Montessori

Although only two area Montessori schools offer elementary programs, all have preschool and kindergarten programs featuring mixed-aged grouping. In mixed-aged grouping, children ages 21/2-years-old attend the same class as the 5- and 6-year-

Freedom stressed

Montessori proponents believe this method fosters independence and allows a child to advance at his/her own pace.

"Mixed-aged grouping gives a child the ability to progress at their own level. the older children help the younger ones and the younger children learn from example," said Kathy Saur of the Livonia Montessori school.

Even Montessori's critics agree that cooperative learning can be found in mixed-age grouping and that "it's a desirable attribute of a classroom '

Most area Montessori schools accept children as young as 21/2, except for Our Lady of Montessori Center in Livonia.

'We used to accept students at that age . . . we found it takes a long time for them to adjust,' said Sister Paulita.

Meisels noted that 21/2 year olds may have trouble adjusting to a Montessori environment.

"It is hard to generalize, but it's a very intensive program for a 21/2year-old," he said.

The adaptation process "depends on the individual child" and parents are the best judge of a child's readiness, said Linda Meyers of Plymouth-Canton Montessori.

Role of teacher

Montessori theory also maintains that children educate themselves, rather than be educated by others, including teachers, said Neff.

For instance, a Montessori teacher is called a directress, and his/her main purpose is to observe the children and introduce them to new materials.

Montessori recognized the importance of skillful observation as opposed to standardized testing as a method of assessment, WSU's Bhavnagri explained.

Contemporary educators agree that skilled observation is the best method of assessment in the classroom and "we encourage all schools to move to this," added Bhavnagri.

As a result, Montessori students are not graded on their performance, said Lynn Gall of Northville Montessori Center. Instead, teachers observe their work with classroom materials and hold conferences with parents.

"This gives parents a better idea of what concepts their children have mastered," Gall said.

No grades

The absence of a grading system also encourages children to learn for the sake of learning, said

A former public school teacher, Neff said she recognized that children learn quickly what they have to do to achieve a passing grade.

said WSU's Bhavnagri. "Much of what is practiced today (in early childhood education) has its roots in Montessori.

For example, Montessori believed that a child's physical environment should promote autonomy and independence in children. Most preschools and kindergartens now regularly provide childsized furniture

Although Montessori has helped many children thrive and learn some educator say that it's not for all children.

'Children who have a problem with a delay of gratification may not do well, said Meisels.

Popular schools

Yet, Montessori schools are very popular with some parents. Most schools report full enrollment in past school years.

The Plymouth-Canton and Livonia Montessori schools, both non-profit organizations were opened at the request of parents said Neff.

"At the time I opened the Plymouth-Canton school there was an exodus from the Dearborn area to Plymouth. There is a very low turnover in our schools, once a parent is involved - they tend to stay," she said.

Some, like Lynne Homes, stay even after their own children have finished the program. Homes had two children go through the Montessori program, she now works in the Plymouth-Canton school as a classroom aide. "I was impressed with the independence the program fostered, said Homes, a Plymouth Township resident.

"My children are now in high school and college. I've never had to say, 'Do your homework.' They are very self-motivated. They set themselves a schedule and get things done," said Homes.

Despite their popularity however. Montessori schools have typically suffered from an elitist image, said Bhavnagri.

'It is an emotionally charged issue. Montessorians feel they are not understood. I see the strengths and weaknesses," she said.

Gall agrees that the schools have developed an elitist reputa-

"I'm afraid they brought it on themselves," she said, noting that as more people become aware of what Montessori is, the elitist reputation is "breaking down."

We will just continue to work to help the students appreciate and respect the work of ourselves, others and the environment," she

BY M.B. DILLON STAPF WRITER

Here's a look at the five candidates running in the June Plymouth-Canton school board race for one slot.

The incumbent

Dave Artley. First elected in 1983, Artley and his wife Patricia have five children.

He's running again because "I believe in public service and I believe it's the responsibility of every citizen to give back. I have experience, dedication and commitment to the community, and I think I've been a good representative of the citizens in general and students in particular."

Another reason he's seeking reelection is his son Matthew, a student at East Middle School. "I have a son who will graduate in 1997. If I were to win re-election, this term would end in 1997.

"I think time spent on education is a good investment in future, Artley added. Either we educate kids today or we spend a great deal more to educate them as adults. The amount of money we spend on prisons is 20 times higher than it was 20 years ago. A diploma isn't the key to success, but it's a major building block."

Artley favors both the 4-mill tax increase and millage renewal. Artley, 48, is director of development for the Human Services Department for Kalamazoo Coun-

He says he's proud of his perfect attendance record and to be the first board member to attend the Michigan Association of School Board's boardmanship academy.

Hoben factor in race

The Rev. William Myers. Several factors prompted Myers, a friend of Artley's, to run. First, he says he believes it's time for Superintendent John Hoben to announce when he'll retire.

"I think he deserves all the respect for what he has done in the past, but we are slipping," said Myers. "The best indicator of that is the board's last evaluation." Hoben scored lowest in the student achievement category.

Myers says he never entertained political aspirations, but could no longer remain on the sidelines after witnessing what happened to Robert Gale, a Farrand Elementary teacher who in a recent jury trial was found not guilty of striking a student.

"My sense is they (the administration and the board) are focusing on minutiae at the expense of the big picture," he added. "This millage has to be taken to the electorate. If we don't get this renewal and increase, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will cease to exist as we've known it."

Myers, 46, and his wife Beth have two children who attend Plymouth-Canton schools.

Millage opposed

Steve Kilijanczyk, 43, says he's running because "I don't believe the way we are making decisions and implementing them is working out."

Kilijanczyk does not support the 4-mill increase. "As far as school finance, I'm leery. Given the amount of growth there's been (in housing in the district), it should add up to a couple of million dollars extra."

Kilijanczyk is a systems analyst for Hospice of Southeastern Michigan. He and his wife Gwen have five children, all of whom attend Plymouth-Canton schools.

Kilijanczyk, treasurer of the Pickwick Village Homeowners Association, also is concerned about the developmental approach being used in the elementary grades. The number of parents upset about its effectiveness shows there's an implementation problem, he said.

A member of St. John Neumann Catholic Church, Kilijanczyk says the fact he lives in Canton is a plus, given the number of Plymouth residents currently on the board. "We are under-represented in Canton. I think that is going to change. It's a growing area."

Kilijanczyk doesn't necessarily see the superintendent's retirement as an issue. "I don't know that there is a great necessity for change. He has a lot of valuable experience."

Former teacher runs

Robert Burger taught school for 35 years before retiring in 1989 from the South Redford school district. A 1942 Plymouth High School graduate and an active member of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Burger is making his first bid for public office.

"I would just like to be in on the process of helping to set the course for the schools," he said. "I've always wanted to run for school board, but while I was working, I didn't feel I had the time to put in."

Burger taught elementary school and high school social studies for 11 years before retir-

Burger and his wife Joan have a son, Rob, 17, who is a junior at Plymouth Canton High School.

Burger says he isn't running because of dissatisfaction with the district.

"I'm really pleased with what they've done in the past," he said. "They have done a remarkable job with kids in the Talented and Gifted Program." The Burgers' son was enrolled in TAG in elementary and middle school.

The candidate hasn't yet decided whether he supports the 4-mill tax increase. "I know they have a real problem now with finances."

Burger also stresses the value of parental involvement in children's education and a good relationship between administration and staff.

"You can't be divided in any endeavor. If you are, you're not going to accomplish much."

Seniors get food, fun at area center

BY MARY LOU SONG STAFF WRITER

For years, Bob Cochrane made a habit of eating lunch at Shelden Park Senior Center in Livonia and playing table tennis with the guys until his wife, Mary, finally agreed to accompany him.

The first day I came, there was something wrong with the power," she said. "They served us bologna sandwiches. I said, 'Is this why

I'm coming here?' She laughs about bologna sandwich day now, but the Livonia couple say they still come to the center for the fellowship. "It's not the food," says Bernie

Hart, 71, with a laugh. Actually, the food has brought and brings — many senior citizens together.

Monday through Friday yearround, Shelden Park serves lunch to senior citizens - anyone 60 or older - through the Senior Nutrition Program. The non-profit meal service is offered through the Wayne County Office of Nutrition Services.

DATE:

Three other centers in Livonia participate in the program - Civic Park Senior Center, McNamara Towers and Brashear Towers.

About 45 centers in 35 western Wayne counties participate, including: Maplewood Community Center in Garden City; Redford Township Community Center; Tonquish Creek Manor in Plymouth; Canton Township Recreation Center; and Friendship Center, Building "D" at 30712 Michigan Avenue, Kirk of Our Savior and Whittier Center in Westland.

The menu is designed by registered dietitians for senior citizens. Specia I consideration is given to age and medication, but the meals provide one-third of daily nutritional requirements. Home delivered meals are taken to any senior who is unable to leave home or prepare their own meals. Liquid diets are provided for seniors who are unable to ingest food.

Area reps split on family planning bill

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending March

Yes on Family Planning Funds: By a vote of 273 for and 149 against, the House sent the Senate a bill (HR 670) to fund the approximately 4,000 clinics nationwide that use federal money to provide family planning services to the poor. Critics noted that the bill's $238 million cost in fiscal 1994 is 37 percent above the 1993 level. The bill also was challenged for permitting clinics to provide abortion counseling, which was voting yes were: Bob Carr, D-Pontiac, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, William Ford, D-Ypsilanti. Voting no: Dale Kildee, D-Flint and Joseph Knollenberg, R-Birmingham.

No on parental notification: By a vote of 179 for 243 against, the House rejected a bid by antiabortion lawmakers to require clinics to alert parents at least two days before a scheduled abortion on a minor, except when delay would cause the girl's death or the pregnancy was caused by her father. It went beyond language in HR 670 (above) requiring federally funded clinics to comply with state laws on parental notification.

SENATE

Budget Resolution Approved: By a vote of 54 for and 45 against, the Senate approved the fiscal 1994 congressional budget resolution (S Con Res 18) that projects spending of $1.5 trillion, revenue of $1.25 trillion and a deficit of nearly $250 billion for the year beginning next October.

Even with its $502 billion in deficit reduction by fiscal 1998, the measure allows the overall U.S. debt to expand from $4.1 trillion at present to about $5 trillion over the five years.

A yes vote supported President Clinton's fiscal plan. Michigan Sens. Carl Levin and Donald Riegle voted yes.

Preserved Taxing Social Security: By a vote of 52 for and 47 against, the Senate preserved President Clinton's plan to raise taxes on Social Security payments to the well-off as part of S Con Res 18 (above). This killed a GOP amendment to eliminate his plan to increase from 50 to 85 percent the portion of Social Security benefits subject to taxation for singles earning more than $25,000 and couples with salaries above $32,000.

A yes vote supported the Social Security tax hike. Levin and Riegie voted yes.

Killed Entitlement Issue Amendment: By a vote of 51 for and 47 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment capping the growth of non-Social Security entitlement spending in the Clinton economic plan. A yes vote was to kill the amendment. Levin and Riegle voted yes.

"If they est alone, they don't oother fixing meals for themselves or they don't feel like esting — that's why this program is here," said Terri Derderian, field coordinator of the program.

Each center serves more than 200 seniors daily, and Derderian says the program is going well, but the Office of Nutrition wants to reach more seniors in the community.

"So many people don't know about us," Derderian said. "Seniors are invited to come in and as part of their activities, lunch is served. Lunch is part of their socialization. It's an opportunity to get together and socialize with their peers."

Carol Scott, home delivered meals coordinator, said, "Eating proper meals keeps them active so they can get out and meet people. We're not reaching people who could really benefit from the program - the ones who shut themselves in the house."

At the centers, seniors can also play table tennis, billiards or the piano, paint or make crafts, or talk with friends. Each center has a personality and the seniors attend the center where they feel most comfortable.

Derderian said seniors find new friendships at the center. The Cochranes met Hart and his wife, Dorothy, through the nutrition program. Later the couples learned that they had lived two blocks away from each other in Detroit. Bob Cochrane and Bernie Hart play table tennis together and recently won the Senior State

Good writers can win a trip

The American Library Association is offering three free trips to New Orleans June 26.

All you have to do is write a moving essay of 100 words or less regarding the great affect libraries have had on your life.

The three contestants with the most original and inspiring stories will win a trip for two and be honored at the association's annual conference.

The trips will be paid for by Microsoft Corp., which will also give a personal computer to the top winner.

Turn your essay in to participating libraries by May 18, or mail it to: American Libraries, American Library Association, 50 E. Huron, Chicago IL 60611.

Have a heart, give a heart

The Michigan state department is encouraging everyone to get stickers on the back of their driver's licenses saying they will donate their internal organs for transplants if they die.

On Tuesday, April 20, transplant recipients will visit 35 secretary of state offices between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. to answer questions and pass out material on organ and tissue donation.

Organs and tissues may be recovered from any dead person 75 or younger at no charge to the donor or family. Organ and tissue donation is supported by all major religions and doesn't affect customary funeral arrangements or alter body appearance. Among the organs and tissues they might want to take from you and install in someone else are heart, lungs, kidney, liver, pancreas, bone, eyes

It's estimated that 1,400 people in Michigan are waiting for transplants right now.

Drunk boating laws toughened

Drunken boat drivers caught by police will face tougher penalties this year as a new law takes effect.

A first conviction of "impaired boating" is a misdemeanor punishable by up to 45 days community service, up to 90 days in jail and/or a fine up to $300.

A first conviction of "operating a watercraft under the influence of alcohol" is punishable by up to 45 days community service, up to 90 days in jail and/or a $100 to $500 fine and suspended boating privileges of six months to one Drunken boaters involved in a crash causing a serious injury face five years in prison, 15 years if they kill someone.

The new law also creates an "implied consent provision," meaning that all boaters have agreed by virtue of operating a boat to submit to a Breathalyzer or chemical test for alcohol or illegal drugs if a cop wants them to.

To refuse the test will cost you a suspension of boating privileges for six months to a year and a $100 fine.

Are you a Compulsive Overeater?

Do you eat when you're not hungry?
 Do you go on eating binges for no apparent reason?
 Do you have feelings of guilt and remorse after overeating?

4. Do you give too much time and thought to food?5. Is your weight affecting the way you live your life?

6. Do you use fasting, strenuous exercise, vomiting or laxatives to control your weight?

7. Have you tried to diet for a week (or longer), only to fall short of your goal?

If you answer "yes" to three or more of these questions, you may be a compulsive overeater. You are not alone. Millions of Americans suffer from this disease.

Compulsive overeating is a painful, relentless illness that interferes with every aspect of life. It is a disease that gets progressively worse if left untreated.

Weight gain often accompanies this illness. But not always. Many compulsive overeaters maintain normal body weight by strict diets, fasting, strenuous exercise, vomiting, or excessive laxative use. These methods are ineffective and medically dangerous.

Weight is not the problem, and dieting is not the solution. The problem is the disease of compulsive overeating, and the solution is a program of treatment and recovery.

The Eating Disorders Recovery Center (EDRC) of St. Mary Hospital offers an outpatient

The Eating Disorders Recovery Center (EDRC) of St. Mary Hospital offers an outpatient treatment program that leads to lasting recovery. Our approach is comprehensive. We help our patients make lifestyle changes that give them renewed confidence in themselves and more control over their lives. Gradually, the chronic binge/diet cycle is replaced by a healthy, more satisfying, and more productive way of life. With food in its proper place, weight normalizes.

At EDRC, we work as a team -- psychologist, psychiatrist, physician, nutritionist, and specially trained therapists -- to diagnose and treat eating disorders. This experienced staff provides treatment with understanding and sensitivity.

If compulsive overeating is a problem for you, or someone you love, take the first step toward recovery. Call us today at 591-2936, WE CAN HELP.

Spring cleanup

Our annual suggestion list

ell, spring is here, kind of. The Tigers are in town and winter weary plants are popping up their heads. The seasons are changing, but nothing much else. And things do need to change in the Plymouth-Canton area. Here's our annual spring clean up list: ■ The dreaded school funding formula. As one local wag said, they "just don't get it." He meant the Plymouth Canton school district. "We don't want them to spend more money, we want them to spend less." He's right. A recent issue of Forbes magazine looked at the escalating cost of college and concluded that schools act like they're forced into tuition hikes, but in reality chose to charge more. That's true with the local schools.

■ But there are others who "just don't get it." The opponents of Mettetal have become a joke and they don't know why people are laughing at them. The reason is the federal government and the state are playing Suger Daddy, probably for the last time, by offering to pick up the nearly $4 million price tag for the airport. Get the joke? Who would turn down the money?

■ Plymouth City Commissioners "just don't get it" that they should muster up the guts to scrap the city's bizarre system of parking credits that prevents businesses from moving in. There is parking in Plymouth. The parking credit system pretends there isn't. And the city commission continues to drag it's feet on the issue. The meter is going to run out on these guys if they don't do something and development will go elsewhere.

■ The plan is to tweak up the streets with brick paving and other adornments. The opponents "just don't get it that a face lift tells the public Plymouth cares about its image.

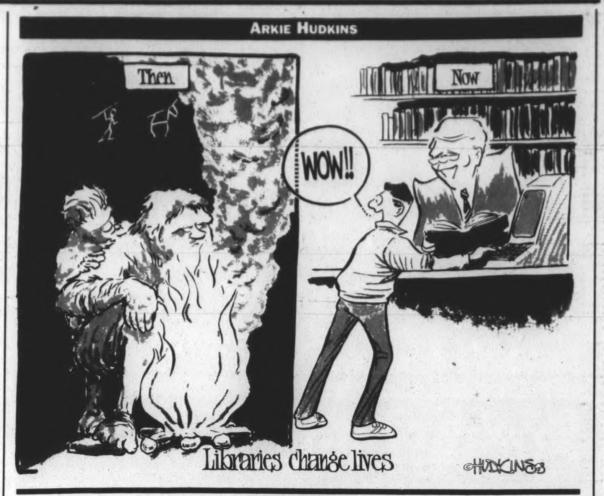

Street scape plan opponents. Yes, there are a couple who oppose the quick face lift proposed by the Downtown Development Authority. The plan is to tweek up the streets with brick paving and other adornments. The opponents "just don't get it" that a face lift tells the public Plymouth cares about its image.

A put the cat on a lease ordinance. Again, the they "just don't get it" factor is at work here. People want a leaner, meaner government that stays out of their backyard. A cat ordinance is nothing more than a make work project for government.

■ The Mayflower Hotel. It's the subject of much debate now that it's in receivership. According to a Plymouth Observer telephone poll, residents would like to see it kept in the Lorenz family. Let's face it, the hotel is downtown Plymouth's anchor. We wish the Lorenz family could get it on its financial feet.

That's our spring wish list. But chances are not good that much will be accomplished by the time the leaves start to turn in the fall.

But we can hope.

he letter from Mr. Harold Long of Canton labels as "fear mongers," those of us opposed to the state purchase of Mettetal

My home is also located beneath the traffic pattern of Mettetal. I have been told its appreciation is less because of its sitting near the airport. Should there be expansion of a state owned Mettetal I am indeed fearful that my property's value would fall.

Those wishing to preserve Mettetal have ignored the concerns and wishes of the surrounding community. Whether in blood or ink the purchasers of Mettetal have not signed anything regarding its expansion as a state-owned facility. Despite assurances to the contrary there is nothing to prevent a change of mind once agency bureaucrats gain the power of property condemnation and decide they want a larg-

Mr. Long's somewhat murky rationale appeals to the common sense of these individuals as well as to that of non-residential aircraft enthusiasts; I doubt that either group has the least interest in what happens to the value of our homes

Mr. Long is correct in stating that the air traffic has decreased in the past 20 years. I am sure that the state's management would work to increase use of the facility with whatever options it could command, including expansion. If Mr. Long honestly believes that modern aircraft are quieter than those of 20 years ago, I can only, respectfully, suggest the possibility of progressive hearing loss.

His own enthusiasm for flying seemingly allows Mr. Long to accept noisy and intrusive small aircraft only a few hundred feet above his home and to discount the possibility of Mettetal's future expansion. Most of us do not share that enthusiasm nor derive any benefit from the airport. Despite that fact, a small number of bureaucrats and enthusiasts seek to impose Mettetal's detractions on the entire community.

Sam Barnes, Canton

interests make their last desperate political says, "The purchasers of the airport have done everything short of signing in blood that the airport will not be expanded."

Then on page 3A of the same paper a piece by Joanne Malisewski says that a six member committee is being appointed to study the economic impact, control and regulation, such as expansion and public private issues of the airport. Where is the truth?

Robert J. Rups, Plymouth

Sales tax a drain

overnor Engler and the legislature propose to reduce property taxes and increase sales taxes. For individuals, property taxes are deductible for federal tax purposes but sales taxes are not. Thus, cutting property taxes by $100 and increasing sales taxes by the same $100 sends between $15 and $31 (depending on the taxpayer's federal tax bracket) out of Michigan and into the federal coffers.

According to the pie chart on the back of the 1992 Michigan Income Tax Returns booklet, the state collects more than $3 billion in sales and use taxes each year. Increasing the sales tax rate from 4 percent to 6 percent would raise another $1.5 billion.

According to the Michigan State Tax Commission report certified May 26, 1992, the value of all the real property in the state is approximately $270 billion. Of this total, approximately $71 billion is commercial and industrial. Thus, approximately 74 percent of Michigan real property taxes are paid by individuals.

If we assume that Michigan individuals who pay property taxes also itemize their deductions for federal tax purposes, and if we assume that these people are in the 31 percent tax bracket, decreasing the property tax by the same amount that the sales tax is increased ($1.5 billion), takes an extra $344 million ($1.5 billion times 74 percent times 31 percent) from Michigan individual taxpayers and sends it to the Internal Revenue Service in Washington. Isn't Washington taking enough out of Michigan already?

J. Gutek, Plymouth

Stop attack on abortion rights

nough already. The Michigan Senate again is making an attempt to limit reproductive freedoms for women, an issue that has been argued, legislated, overruled and reconstituted to the point where all are tired of the ongoing machinations.

One court ruling isn't yet cold when the Senate tries another tack. Don't they get it? Not only does the U.S. Supreme Court see the issue as one of privacy - something so personal that it refuses any attempts to ban abortion. Last year the high court said that any law to limit abortions could not place an undue hardship on the patient. "Undue hardship" all depends on whose point of view is being considered.

The Michigan Senate now is trying to pass an informed consent law, which would require physicians to provide detailed information to a woman prior to her abortion. The bill also includes a 24-hour waiting requirement. It's another attempt to manipulate women.

Informed consent is an idea that has been voted on before by the Legislature. A year ago - before the last Supreme Court ruling - the more conservative faction of the Legislature went after an all-out ban, chipping away at the rights, especially the rights of poor women to Medicaid-funded abortions. And those under 18 must submit to parental or court consent.

Now that a more drastic ban won't fly, the Michigan Senate wants to pass a bill that would make pregnant women who already have decided to terminate their pregnancies listen to a laundry-list of medical and social rhetoric and then wait 24 hours, which is especially a hardship for women in rural parts of the state who don't have easy access to abortion.

Under this bill, a physician or another quali-

How many men would opt for vasectomies if they had to follow the same procedure? How many men could listen to details of the procedures, look at pictures and then return to the doctor's office 24 hours later? It's an interesting

Again, the Michigan Senate should look for better things to do than to make taking away reproductive rights for women a perennial quest. It's obvious that the majority of people in the state don't want the Legislature to interfere with parts of their lives that are unquestionably private.

If the Legislature wants to do something about abortion, it instead should require sex education and counseling for teenagers. It seems that informed consent should be a part of a sexual encounter — when knowledge can stop an unwanted pregnancy - and not a punishment for women who become pregnant because they were ignorant of or unable to obtain birth cons your paper just reported, the legislature has debated and passed meaningful auto insurance reform. Not only will the new law provide us with relief from high auto insurance rates, but the law will also keep a lid on the ever increasing cost of medical care and law-

Unfortunately, the special interests in the medical and legal community can't accept that the battle is over. Despite the inevitable fact that the bill was passed and will become law, a minority of state senators insist on vindictively making motorists wait an extra year before our rates are reduced. They are accomplishing this by voting no on a procedural vote known as "immediate effect." The result is that they are holding hostage hundreds of dollars of savings from every car-owning family in Michigan.

I urge all readers of this paper to contact their state senators and urge them to provide immediate effect to auto insurance reform. Those senators who opposed auto insurance reform

Unless it is utilized under the supervision of a professional substance abuse counselor, it could actually do more harm than good. Because, according to police and substance abuse professionals, dealing with suspected drug use by our kids may be more than we as parents are equipped to handle.

Rather, the impact of such a kit is that it gets people talking about drug and alcohol abuse in our local communities again.

It hasn't gone away. It has decreased. But the new, hot-off-the-presses results of the annual national survey of secondary school students are less optimistic than past reports by the University of Michigan researchers.

In particular, the report keys in on increases in the use of drugs and alcohol by eighth graders, who are mostly 13 and 14 years old. And the researchers found that these eighth graders, and to a lesser degree 12th graders, don't perceive drugs as cocaine, crack and marijuana as being quite as dangerous as students did the year before.

"The drug abuse issue has pretty much 'fallen off the screen' in this country, both figuratively and literally," said U-M's Lloyd Johnston. "... Political leaders and the press talk about it less, television networks have backed off on their prime time placement of anti-drug ads, and in general, national attention has moved away from the issue."

He's right.
Thinking that drug and alcohol abuse was well on the downward trail, our communities and our newspapers turned to other areas: particularly diversity, abortion rights, sexual and physical abuse, educational equity,
AIDS. Somehow neither the local press nor our local communities are able to keep all of our concerns in proper

And I know it is frustrating to those agencies, such as the local chapters of Families in Action, because they know

JUDITH DONER BERNE

the problem, and especially in our area the alcohol problem, is still alive and

That's why it was neat to see Southfield-Lathrup High School force us back to the drug and alcohol arena with their "Grim Reaper Day." It was deliberately held last week just prior to spring break.

Sponsored by the school's Students Against Driving Drunk chapter, it was designed to remind that someone dies every 24 minutes in an alcohol-related accident. So every 24 minutes, junior Joanne Sitto rang the school bell, and the Grim Reaper, Jennifer Gruber, dressed in hooded black, selected a student from a S-L classroom to represent an alcohol-related fatality.

By the end of the day, 14 students were dressed in black representing the 14 people who had died somewhere in the country at the hands of a drunk driver.

The SADD chapter at Southfield-Lathrup got the idea from other schools that have done it. And it certainly seems to be a project that should be modeled at all of our local high schools.

Then each of our papers could do a story.

And that is, according to Johnston, some of what we need. Keeping the problem in the public eye.

He had a good analogy:

"Just as we think of drug dependence for the individual as a chronic, sometimes relapsing disease, we need to think of drug problems in society as chronic, relapsing problems."

"Like it or not, we are in this for the long term," Johnston said.

A hopeful sign is the thrust to put warnings on televised beer and wine ads that the products could be hazardous to your health. And the recent publicity that many of our local health and educational institutions hold stock in alcohol or cigarette companies is causing them discomfort — and already some have said they will sell their

I remember that one of my daughters was out ill for the two weeks of middle school in which grammar was taught.

We can't afford to have that happen on the subject of drugs and alcohol. We owe each generation a thorough education on a subject so potentially hazardous. And the press isn't excused from this endeavor.

He was in my audience Saturday when I spoke about the state Freedom of Information Act.

FOIA is a law that applies to "all persons." You don't have to be a white male adult, an adult, or even a citizen to make an FOIA request. A 12-year-old Mexican wetback has the same rights under FOIA as the Wayne County prosecutor, who once had to use the act to pry evidence from a certain mayor.

I'm not an attorney and don't file FOIA lawsuits. The Michigan FOI Committee does stock copies of the law and major court decisions. We encourage people to exercise their rights under Michigan's twin "sunshine laws," FOIA and the Open Meetings Act.

The inmates were upset over a ruling against David DeSorcy, who sued the Department of Corrections and its library. DeSorcy wanted to inspect final orders in prison discipline cases and their supporting records.

But the state Court of Appeals held that the Legislature had removed disciplinary hearings from the Administrative Procedures Act, thus removing those hearings from the definition of "contested cases" for purposes of FOIA.

Inmates can't learn the underlying reasoning, just the final order. They want to know why, when four men have done the same thing, one gets off, one gets five days discipline, and so on. Does personal favoritism have anything to do with it? Or maybe race? It's an official secret.

They grouse over having to pay the state 20 cents a page for FOIA requests.

At the State Law Library, one floor

Superior

below the Michigan Supreme Court in Lansing, I pay 10 cents a page for copying. Most libraries charge 10 cents. Some commercial copiers are even cheaper.

At that, prison inmates are better off than people requesting information from the Livonia Police Department, which charges $5 for the first page and $2 for the second page. Police in Farmington Hills charges $4 and in Redford Township $3 for the first page.

A black inmate wanted to know how juries were selected in an outstate county. The county seat city has a large black neighborhood, but somehow his jurors came from the white population of the surrounding townships.

The prosecutor wrote him that the jury selection process was "exempt" under FOIA. The inmate smelled a rat.

The inmate smelled right, too. I had discussed jury selection with the clerk of that county. Yes, indeed, he did put older white township residents on the jury panel because they were looking for something to do and needed a bit of extra cash.

We chuckled over the obtuse Pontiao police sergeant who denied an inmate's FOIA request because "the case was still under investigation." Not even a Bloomfield Hills lawyer could get Pontiac cops off the hook in the Court of Appeals for that booboo.

Some friends think I'm nuts for being nice to inmates.

It's not Liberalism. I learned my lesson. When authoritarian government intends to shaft people, it starts with minorities like inmates, high school editors, Gypsies and Jews. To protect the suburban white middle class, we have to protect other groups first.

Schools, teachers must focus on children, not power plays

UESTION: At a social outing, I heard a group of parents talking about the 1993-94 teacher contract negotiations that are going on in our community. Some were saying the Michigan Education Association will target our district for a strike next fall because we have some money. Some of these parents have already been laid off from General Motors and other parents are in fear being laid off. I didn't hear much sympathy for teacher strikes this year. Do you think there will be many teacher strikes this fall?

Answer: The Michigan Education Association is at a crossroad. The days of the militant teacher strike to gain community support—that hopefully raises the anger of local citizens toward school administration and boards of education are over. The MEA, over the years, has performed superbly for teachers. Salaries are decent, benefits excellent, working conditions improved far beyond what I experienced as a young teacher in the '60s. An era when my former Trenton High School classmate, driving a dump truck, made much more money than I—and didn't hesitate to rub it in. An era when I paid my own retirement, Blue Cross, dental and other benefits.

Auto unions in the metropolitan Detroit area were the role models in the '60s when the right for teachers to negotiate was made law — when I was president of the Plymouth Education Association. Indeed, I can remember Ken Bannon, Reuther's right hand man, telling me, "Jim, you have to get this in your mind — it is no longer professional begging, it's professional bargaining. Take your hat out of your hand and quit shuffling your feet in front of the superintendent"

Good advice at that time and appropriate for those of us who got into education, not for money, but to teach kids. Which is still true for most educators today.

However, this is a new era! The MEA and local teacher organizations need to consider G.M., Chrysler and Ford automotive unions' change of philosophy since their plants started relocating in Tennessee and with Mexico breathing down their back.

Automotive management and union leadership is now moving into a more collegial relationship — a sharing of the decision making power for survival as opposed to the old adversary position of striking until it hurts them in the pocket. Auto union's focus now is on survival — how to save the company and keep employment in the good ole USA.

Similarly, teacher and administrative representatives, in this era of diminishing resources, need a very clear focus on the needs of the children as opposed to power plays.

The truth is that teacher wages in Southeastern Michigan, along with New York and California are the highest in the country. And the California union will need a trip to Fantasy Island if they think the upward wage trend over the past 20 years is going to continue. California is flat broke!

And in Michigan, increased millage votes are in for troubled times. However, it will be a tragedy for education if citizens vote down any and all renewals to keep present programs going or bond issues for roofs that keep the rain off children's heads. A "destroy the system" position is not the answer for the '90s.

No more an answer is a teachers' strike led by verbally abusive malcontents who hate any and all administrators — for whatever reason.

You ask, "Do you think there will be many teacher strikes this fall?" Very few, if any. The uncertainty of Engler's plan, the economy, Sears turning into a WalMart, G.M. possibly going under leads me to believe the MEA will not promote strikes as the answer. The MEA would be committing professional suicide in these trying times.

So let's hope Boards of Education, Central Office Administration, the MEA and local teacher organizations finally figure out how to work in a collegial atmosphere, an authority-and power-sharing model, as opposed to more of the same — the strikes, the angry citizens, the kids deprived — an antiquated system that has no support of the citizens — an anachronism for these times.

espite being without a number of key players, Plymouth Canton defeated host Midland Dow 1-0 in girls soccer Saturday. The Chiefs (2-0) were minus eight players — six seniors who went away during spring break and two others who are injured. "The other girls played well," Canton coach Don Smith said. "They just don't score as well. It was good work for the young kids, because they got to play a lot. They had pressure put on them, and they had to play (hard to win).' Angie Page scored the lone goal four minutes into the game with an assist from Julie Majewski.

Jori Welchans, the only senior besides Kelly Reeves to play, was in goal for the Chiefs. Canton attempted 22 shots and Dow four. "(The Chargers) were not bad," Smith said.

Canton split with visiting Birmingham Brother Rice Monday, winning 6-1 and losing 2-1, after dropping a twin bill to Redford Catholic Central on Saturday, 3-1 and 12-1.

"We feel, in the four games we played against two of the better teams in the state, we held our own and, by the end of the season, we're going to be very competitive," LaPointe said. The Chiefs led 2-1 in the first game with defending Class A champion Rice when Chris Johnson's pinch-hit, three-run homer in the bottom of the fifth inning clinched the win.

Senior Mike Stafford made a strong showing in his pitching debut, tossing a three-hitter over seven innings. He struck out three and walked two.

Senior Matt Horn had the first of two RBI singles in the second, scoring Ryan Fordham with the tying run. Horn doubled and scored the goahead run on Matt Paupore's thirdinning single.

Johnson cleared the left-field fence at Central Middle School with his 315-foot homer. Fordham scored another run on Horn's third hit in the sixth.

Canton should have won the doubleheader, according to LaPointe, but base-running errors cost the Chiefs that opportunity. Canton had a runner at third base three times and failed to score the run.

Craig Benedict, considered the team's ace pitcher, had an excellent game but still suffered the loss.

He was working on a perfect game through five innings and ended up throwing a two-hitter. He struck out seven and walked three.

Two walks and Rice's first hit tied the score in the top of the sixth, and Benedict gave up a bases-loaded walk for the winning run in the seventh.

"We're 1-3 but we've played great baseball teams; we haven't played any cupcakes," LaPointe said, adding the Chiefs also scrimmaged defending Class B champ Dearborn Divine Child and Howell.

Trivia question for the day: Which softball team from Plymouth won its league last year by going undefeated?

but they played pretty tough."

You're wrong if you said Plymouth Canton, who did win the Western Lakes Activities Association. But if you said Plymouth Christian Academy, you're right.

The Eagles, who finished 12-4 last season and won the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference with an 8-0 record, are used to being the other team in Plymouth-Canton. That doesn't bother third-year coach Steve Ritchev.

"I realize we're not Plymouth Canton," Ritchey said. "That's a totally different league. We're only class D. Instead of having 1,000 girls to choose from, I have about 40."

Even though he fell just short of proposing a challenge to the Chiefs, Ritchey did speak optimistically of his team's chances of winning the expanded MIAC and advancing past the district tournament.

"I don't want to sound like I'm bragging, but our only weakness is a bad day," Ritchey said. "We're solid on defense and pitching, but I suppose our hitting can be stronger. It's early though and it will improve."

PCA's hitting was impressive last Tuesday as the Eagles displayed some of their promise in a 15-3, opening-game drubbing of Taylor Baptist Park. PCA stole 19 bases in that game.

"They really surprised me," Ritchey said. "We heard Baptist Park was good. They were 2-0. The team was nervous and so was

"But this season, the team has that attitude, kind of like the University of Michigan (basketball team). They want to win and have the desire. (Kristina) Tilly is determined to win the league's most valuable player award. I don't have to prime them to play, and that makes my job easier.'

The MIAC has added Oakland Christian, Southfield Christian and Fairlane Christian this year. Ritchey expects the toughest competition to come from Oakland and Southfield.

Ritchey's reason for optimism is simple: only one starter from his first-place team is gone. Christen Thomason, a first-team, all-conference catcher who batted .520 last season, graduated and is now Ritchey's assistant.

The top returnee is Tilly, a junior pitcher, who finished a vote away from being named the conference MVP last season. The right-hander compiled an 11-3 record and allowed only six hits and 13 walks in the eight league games. She also batted .582.

Tilly, whose forte is speed and control, is faster this season and hopes to duplicate her performances from last season. In a 4-2 victory over Huron Valley, Tilly threw a one-hitter and struck out 18 batters.

The lone senior on the squad is Jill Adams, who played left field and batted .380 but has moved to third base this season.

Speed is a strength for PCA. The top base burners are Nancy Cobernick and Karin Reed, both of whom stole 21 bases in league games last season.

Cobernick, an all-conference center fielder, bats leadoff and hit .480 last season. Reed, who led the team with a .605 average as a freshman, has moved from shortstop to catcher.

'She's the type that would rather win than be a superstar," Ritchey said. "She loves shortstop but made the move for the team. That's the way she is."

Canton golfers rely on veteran trio

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton's hope for finishing atop the leader board this season will depend on the swings of three seniors.

The Chiefs, who went undefeated and captured the Western Lakes Activities Association title two years ago, finished 5-4 last season, good for fourth in the conference and second in the West-

Canton coach Dan Riggs said the Chiefs will rely on seniors Audrey Meissner, Kristine Wertanen and Val Smith to return to the top of the WLAA.

"The three seniors will be the key to how well we do this season," Riggs said. "We've already talked about it. It's up to them how badly they want it.

Meissner, who shoots in the mid 40s, returns for her fourth year on the varsity. She has been a steady performer for the Chiefs, even as a freshman when she sank a hole-in-one in a varsity match.

"She's a good athlete and a good leader," Riggs said. "She hits the ball hard and is good around the green. She is capable of scoring very well."

Wertanen (mid 40s) is one of the longest drivers on the squad, according to Riggs. Smith (low 50s) will see considerable action on the course for the first time in her four-year varsity stint.

Making up for the losses of cocaptains Katie Konavliv (high 40s) and Ann Vernon (mid 40s) to graduation is freshman Allyson Meissner. The newcomer reminds Riggs of her older sister.

'She's a good athlete and has shown a lot of promise," said Riggs, who expects Meissner to shoot in the mid 50s. "If I had to compare Allyson with Audrey as freshmen, I'd say they're about

The other two who will contribute are junior Karen Kelly and sophomore Michelle O'Brien. both of whom shoot in the high

Riggs, who enters his 10th season as coach, is concerned about a lack of practice time outside but added all of his competition is experiencing the same problem.

Whatever it takes.

Both could be mottoes for this year's Madonna University softball team. The Lady Crusaders have thus far been extremely efficient at finding ways to lose.

They did it Monday in an important double-header against NAIA District 23 foe Aquinas College at Massey Field in Plymouth. Facing the top pitcher in the district, Jodi Borowicz, didn't bother them - they rocked her for six hits and three runs in the first four innings of the opener.

In the second game, they scored five times in the first inning. But they couldn't manage to gain a win in either, losing 5-3 and 7-6.

"It seems like we're playing to lose," said a frustrated Dave Racer, Madonna's coach. "Our two pitchers pitched well enough to win. It's very hard to take. You jump out to a lead like that (in the second game) and you figure you're going to win one. But it

What doomed Madonna was its fielding. The Crusaders committed 14 errors in the twinbill eight in the first game, six in the second. Julie Terrasi was the losing pitcher in the opener, but she allowed just two earned runs.

Lynda Weichel was the second game loser; just three of the seven runs she allowed were earned. Borowicz, the district's MVP last year, pitched three innings of shutout ball in relief in the second game to earn the victory.

In the first game, Madonna got a two-run single from Weichel in the second inning and a triple from Kim Supron followed by a run-producing base hit from Jill Burt in the third. But Aquinas, now 4-0 in the district, regained the lead with a run in the fifth, then added an insurance run (unearned) in the seventh.

Supron and Burt each had two hits in the game, with Supron scoring twice.

No team goals? Stress individual accomplishment? If this sounds strange for high school athletics, don't blame Steve Bauslaugh.

The Plymouth Christain Academy track coach is in the odd position of coaching a team that emphasizes individualism. With 15 of the school's 115 students on the team (five boys and 10 girls), the Eagles can only participate in about a third of dual-meet events.

'We have a small team and can't compete against the larger schools, but we do receive some outstanding individual efforts," Bauslaugh said.

'We have to go into each meet with that idea. We have to concentrate on individual achievements. We have to do the best we can with what we have."

Senior Lee Nowicki is the leading returnee. She was the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference champion in the 100-meter sprint and the 100 hurdles. Nowicki finished fifth at the Class D meet in the 100 jump.

dash (12.7). She also will com pete in the long jump and 200 dash this season.

"When Lee placed in the state meet, it was exciting for her, but it was also very exciting for the school," Bauslaugh said.

Senior Chris Martin, who missed half of last season with an ankle injury, has fully recovered and is the top thrower. Martin throws the shotput 38-4 and the discus 103 feet.

Senior Eric Jefferies hopes to bring some of his cross country success to track. The three-time state qualifier in cross country will run the mile and participate in the high jump.

Sprinter Scott Frans also returns for his fourth season and will provide experience and leadership, Bauslaugh said. Junior transfer Heather Belch will showcase her talents in the high

Eagles put emphasis CC, Divine Child content with split

BY STEVE KOWALSKI STAFF WRITER

There was some real good baseball played Monday at Dearborn Divine Child's Levagood Park.

Redford Catholic Central and DC agreed to move the site of the double-header from Livonia's Madonna Park to Levagood because of field conditions and neither coach went home upset.

DC sophomore pitcher Luke Bonner threw a one-hitter and his teammates scored an unearned run with two outs in the bottom of the seventh to win Game 1, 1-0.

CC came alive in the second game, scoring three times in the seventh to gain a split with a 5-2

Divine Child, the defending Class B champion, went home with a 2-3 overall record and the feeling it can play with one of the best teams in Class A. CC is 6-1

"I'm pleased with the split," DC coach Mark Falvo said. "CC's a very good club and we'll battle, too. We have nothing to be ashamed of. We're a small Class B school and I think we can play with them.

CC's junior right-hander Andy Kummer lost Game 1 despite allowing only three hits, striking out seven and walking four. Kummer, who was sick last week and pitched only one inning prior to Monday, was victimized by the bottom of the Falcons' order in the seventh.

After getting the first two hitters out, Kummer walked the No. 8 hitter Dave Terski, and the No. 9 hitter Todd Pratt (Garden City resident) singled to send Terski to second. CC second baseman Mike Brusseau dropped Matt Hansen's pop fly while backpedaling in short right field, allowing Terski to score the winning run.

"Andy threw real well," CC coach John Salter said. "He had decent control and came back when he got down on some hitters. Their first kid (Bonner) really threw well and was around the plate."

CC was hitless through five innings before Bruseau led off the sixth with a double. But DC's first baseman Greg Ryan, who is from Redford, speared a line drive hit by Brian Hicks and threw to second for a double play to end the threat. The Shamrocks also had runners on first and second after consecutive walks with two outs in the fourth but Jeff Gutt grounded out to end the inning.

at the plate in the second gar collecting eight hits off losing pitcher Steve Guibord. Gutt, Andy Slankster and Juan Sanchez (two RBI) keyed the attack with two hits each.

Jerry Nozewski, pitching in relief of starter Dave Kapla, earned the win after pitching out of a jam in the fifth and allowing no hits and striking out four in 21/4 inn-

The Shamrocks scored three runs in the seventh to break a 2-2 tie. Four straight walks produced one run with one out and Sanchez and Gutt drove in the other two runs with singles.

DC scored a pair of runs off CC Kapla. Pratt tripled in the third and scored on a sacrifice fly by Hansen. Ryan doubled in the fifth to drive in a run.

The youthful Rocks were facing a senior-dominated Kimball team that is ranked among the top 20 teams in the state.

Mike Marsella was the winning pitcher in Game 1, tossing a sixhitter in five innings of work. Marsella allowed one run and struck out seven. Nirav Kher pitched two innings of one-hit relief with four strikeouts to pick up

Salem scored all of its runs in the bottom of the fourth after

Kimball had jumped to a 1-0 lead in the top of the inning.

Eric Stryker started Salem's rally with a single, and Marsella was hit by a pitch to put runners on first and second.

Stryker and Marsella tried a double steal and Stryker went home on the play when the Kimball catcher's throw sailed into the outfield to tie the score 1-1.

Jamie Owens was safe on an infield error with two outs and Charlie Winstel, Eric Kida and Brandon Los followed with singles for a 4-1 lead.

"They opened the door and we took advantage of it," Salem coach John Gravlin said. "We played an almost perfect game in Game 1. But we can be very, very good or very, very mediocre.

Mediocrity overcame Salem in the nightcap as the Rocks committed five errors in an 11-1 loss.

after 3% innings and giving up seven Kimball runs. The Rocks took a 1-0 lead in the first after Matt Abbott led off with a single, went to third on an error and scored on John Klask's groundout.

"I was pleased with our pitchers, especially in the first game and given the way Kimball swung the bat in the second game Gravlin said. "But Dave Knight deserved better."

Boots to coach Churchill boys

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Mark Mason is out and John Boots is in as Livonia Churchill boys soccer coach.

Boots, who went 32-8-3 during two seasons with Redford Catholic Central (1989 and '90), was elevated to the varsity position after spending the past year as the Chargers' JV coach.

Mason's exit, meanwhile, was not unexpected and had been in the works for the past several Churchill principal Rod Hosman decided before the start of last season that Mason's contract would not be renewed. Boots, one of three candidates interviewed for the vacant position, was hired last week.

"Mark did a good job and he was successful in terms of wins and losses, and we thank him for the work he did for us," Churchill athletic director Don Albertson said. "But we had a difference in philosophy as far as communication and training practices for all concerned."

Mason coached one of the state's premier teams for three seasons, going 45-9-8 overall. His 1990 squad fell to Warren DeLaSalle in the state Class A championship final.

Mason's 1991 team, featuring five Division I college players including Under-20 U.S. National Team members Jeff Cassar and

Mike Gentile, was upset in the district final by Plymouth Sa-

"Before the season they (Churchill administration) said they were going to post the job," Mason said in an interview two months ago. "I guess my train-ing methods were too aggressive even though I stayed within the state's (athletic association) parameters. As far as fitness and conditioning, I guess I worked them too hard. They wanted it to be conservative and low key, and I didn't want that.

"I got off to a rocky start. They felt the communication between me, the athletic director and the principal was not what it should be.'

Mason said he also differed with Churchill administration over travel, scheduling, practice fields, equipment and uniforms.

"It was a combination of things each year," Mason said. "I wanted to play the toughest teams from Ohio, Indiana and Ontario."

Albertson said he received a 'number of phone calls" last fall from parents concerned about training procedures and communication.

"We needed to change a few things," Albertson said. "The school district has a different philosophy, as far as traveling and scheduling. We cannot go more than 60 miles and cannot leave the state. There's a difference between high school soccer and running a club soccer

Boots, an Indiana native, is currently the girls varsity coach at Brighton High. He has also coached extensively at the club level. His 1990 Metro Magic, an under-16 boys team, reached the final four of the U.S. Youth Soccer Federation nationals.

"We're very happy he accepted the job at Churchill High School," Albertson said. "The kids are having fun with John around and there's communication. He'll become part of the school. He'll be a visible person with interest in some of our other activities besides soccer.'

Boots, a sporting goods sales representative, said he is looking forward to the challenge of coaching the Chargers.

"I saw a difference in the way they (Churchill) approached soccer," said Boots, who ironically had differences with CC's administrators about that pro-

"We had three key players graduate and we lost a great goalkeeper (Kal Kaliszewski), but we have a good nucleus for next year's team. It's a Livonia school. They'll always have a good nucleus."

Another all-conference player, first baseman/pitcher Melissa Yoder, also returns. The clean-up hitter could be the team's best clutch hitter, according to Ritchey. After hitting .600 as a freshman, her average dropped to .433 last season.

Sophomore Dawn Muneio (.400) has moved from third base. to second. Last year's second baseman, sophomore Shruiti Nandani (.300), will play left field. Sophomore Beth Copeland, who has the strongest arm on the squad, will play right field.

Ritchey is happy with what he has seen from freshman Lisa Erickson, who has filled the void at shortstop. Erickson, who also pitches, had two RBI, two walks and a hit in her debut against Baptist Park.

Rounding out PCA's roster are sophomore outfielders Tina Williams and Keri Mandeville and freshmen outfielders Carrie Whitaker, Krissy Zedan and Leah

The allure of fire to man is both its compelling and fearful nature. And in the tradition of Native American Indians, fire also is allfrom the myths and modern problems of Native American Indians to pen this terror-suspense story.

The Ojibwa Indians protest a planned excavation of an ancient burial site led by anthropologist Christopher Fielding. Attempting a compromise, Fielding recuits Native American Indian anthropologist Jean Shawshequay to supervise the dig, hoping to assuage any accusations of sacrilege.

But a radical Indian rights group, headed by an intense Ojibwa named Blackbear, is insulted by this compromise. His group first responds with petty terrorism against the dig workers. But Blackbear takes it one step further by summoning the spirits of The Ancient Ones. And the death and destruction, by fire, be-

Engler to sign trailways act to mark Earth Day

Gov. John Engler will use an Earth Day observance April 20 to sign Sen. Robert Geake's trailways act.

"Citizens of Michigan and all outdoor enthusiasts are big winners today," said Geake, R-Northville, after the Senate unanimously concurred in House amendments.

The plan is to turn idle rail corridors into recreational facilities. Under a package of bills, the Department of Natural Resources will work with local units to develop multi-use trail-ways for bicycling, hiking and equestrian uses.

Geake's bill would:

Set criteria for designating a
"Michigan Trailway" and determining permitted uses.

Allow creation of local trailway management councils to run trails under agreements with DNR.

Establish a trailway trust fund to cover administrative expenses, land acquisitions, improvements, and grants for law enforcement.

Concert features Trinidad Steel Band

Southfield's Concert in the Garden Series will present Hugh Borde's Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band 11 a.m. Sunday, April 18, at the Marriott Hotel, 27033 Northwestern Highway, Southfield.

Concert and continental breakfast served at 10:30 a.m., $7.50, concert and coffee only, $4. For information, reservations, call 354-

The band performs a repertoire of music that ranges from calypso and reggae to classical and rock'n'roll on oil drums.

During the days after World War II, when it was impossible to get instruments to play their calypso music on, the natives of Trinidad discovered that they could play tunes on abandoned steel oil drums. Thus began the original steel band, from which this group evolved.

The Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band has performed at Rockefeller Plaza, Central Park and Lincoln Center Plaza in New York, the Pan American Union in Washington D.C. and the Montreal Museum of Fine Art. The band also toured two years with Liberace.

MARY JANE

Colline may seem like a minor role in Giacomo Puccini's 'La Boheme" for bass James Patterson of Bloomfield Hills to debut with Michigan Opera Theatre. However, it is this selfless bohemian's last act effort that brings real meaning to the op-

"This story is about the camaraderie among the bohemians and the extent friends will go to support each other," said Canadian Patterson, a graduate of Lahser High School and the University of Michigan Music School.

In the opera's final touching moments, Patterson will sing the aria, "Vecchia zimarra," as the philosopher Colline sets out, in the dead of winter, to pawn his overcoat to pay for a doctor for his sick friend Mimi.

This story is about the camaraderie among the bohemians and the extent friends will go to support

— James Patterson

"Often we see Colline portrayed as self-centered because in this aria he bemoans the loss of his valued coat, but Colline is really socially awkward. He backs off when dealing with people, preferring to crawl inside himself instead," Patterson said.

This is the third time Patterson has sung in this opera, the opera he debuted in at the San Francisco Opera 10 years ago. Since then the 34year-old singer, whose 6-foot-6-inch appearance is more like a basketball player, has been singing Fafner in numerous "Der Ring des Nibelungen" (Richard Wagner's four series opera masterpieces) and appeared in the vi-deo of Peter Sellers' avante-garde 'Don Giovanni."

"Colline is the first role I have sung where the character is younger than I am." said Patterson.

Age is vital to the visual success in any "La Boheme" production which is one reason Mitchell Krieger, director of artistic resources, is thrilled with Patterson and other cast members in this production. They are all look like the young bohemians.
"La Boheme" is one of the ABC operas, one of the three most often produced operas in the world's major houses. ("Carmen" and "Aida" are the other two.) Loved, because it centers on the artist's need for freedom of expression and their libertine life style, the parallels with America's Greenwich Village, the Beat Generation, and Hippiedom are obvious.

"Even today, artists are still strugling to pursue their art," said Peggy O'Shaughnessey of Troy, a chorus member and veteran of 14 MOT productions. This will be her second "La Boheme" with MOT.

The young, struggling bohemians, talented and free, living in a garret has the romantic stuff that make Puccini the composer of passion while Patterson's interpretation of the meaning of the opera seems closer to the truth. The opera is about friendship. Colline returns in the final act with bread and a herring, more like a red herring when the fun loving youths engage in playful antics turning away from the inevitable doom that follows. When Mimi arrives, sick and near death, the feeling turns to anguish. Musette goes off to pawn her earrings for a hand-muff for Mimi.

As Colline, Patterson will sing Colline's aria bidding farewell to his youthful utopia as Mimi bids farewell to life. The opera ends with the final bars from that aria.

"It is not often a bass has the opportunity to be the focus of the audience," said Patterson.

'Oklahoma' brings actress home

Performances of the Birming-ham Theatre production of "Oklahoma!" continue through May 2. For ticket information, call the box office at 644-3533.

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

Until her "big break" comes, Jennifer Laura Thompson of Birmingham says she'll continue doing regional theater.

She's back home, on the Birmingham Theatre stage for the first time, in the chorus of "Oklahoma!"

"Everyone in the chorus has a name," said Thompson, a graduate of Birmingham Groves High School and the University of Michigan's Musical Theatre

"It's one of the few productions where the chorus isn't nameless. I play Vivian, one of Laurey's many friends. I'm one of four women in the chorus. People tease me because I look like a schoolmarm.'

Look for Thompson in the first and second acts. We talked shortly after the show opened.

"It was great. The audience was overwhelming. Everyone is having a great time," she said.

Thompson recently returned from a six-month European tour of Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Jesus Christ Superstar" that took her to Italy, Germany, Switzerland and Austria.

She portrayed Mary Magdalene. Her other credits include the role of Polly Peachum in "The Threepenny Opera," Ra-chel in "Reckless," and Florinda in "Into the Woods."

Since graduating from the University of Michigan in 1991, Thompson, 23, said she's been able to "mostly support myself performing.

"I'm always doing other jobs," she added. "I hope to be on Broadway, someday.'

After she finishes her stint at the Birmingham Theatre, Thompson will travel to Shawnee, Pa. to perform the role of Louisa in "The Fantasticks" at the Shawnee Playhouse. Rehearsals start June 6.

"Louisa is 16 years old. She's special, but she has a lot to learn," said Thompson. "I seem to be playing younger and younger women as I get older."

It's not likely she'll forget her role as Vivian in "Oklahoma." This is the musical's 50th anni-

The U.S. Post Office has even issued a stamp in honor of "Oklahoma!" which opened in New York on March 31, 1943 at the St. James Theatre. This Rodgers and Hammerstein musical has since become a Broadway legend. It ran for five years, 2,212 performances.

After the phenomenal impact of the show, the national tour criss-crossed the country for over 10 years; there were five Broadway revivals and a hugely successful film in 1955.

that's the way we would go."

How it works

After the car is started, the computer locates itself by signing into the Global Positioning System, a network of U.S. Air Force satellites that transmit navigation data. The computer locates several satellites, triangulates its current position, cross references with the computer database and pops up a map of where the car is. This takes about two seconds.

The database also includes points of interest ranging from hotels and businesses to golf course and amusement parks.

'Could we do it with just the satellites? No. Could we do it with just the database? Again, no," O'Connor said.

Satellite triangulation works by line of sight and needs several satellites to get an accurate fix on a car's location - impossible in an urban area with buildings.

The extensive database needs the satellites to fix its starting point," O'Connor said. "We needed both for this to be accurate enough to be useful."

Simply identifying a car's location isn't enough, if the driver can't figure out where he or she is or where he or she is going, O'Connor said.

Zexel originally designed the overhead map to always display with the map in one position, but preliminary testing showed a preference for a heads-up display with a constant north so drivers could more easily follow their progress. Another addition is the use of arrows to signal turns, rather than a map. "We felt the map would be too distracting — the arrows com-municate a direction more succinctly than an overhead map."

This "turn-by-turn mode" has been so well accepted the overhead map has become secondary and may be offered as an option rather than a part of the system.

The system also warns people if they've deviated from their selected route and will recalculate another route — sometimes by sending the driver back to the previous route.

Powerful future tool

While the thrust of the system is currently a means of navigation, it will one day be part of more complex system that warns drivers of traffic snarls and directs them around the problem.

The system itself is already capable of such feats, O'Connor said, but the infrastructure is not yet in place.

In such a system, a central computer receives data on traffic from sensors installed along road ways, collate and tabulates that data and then transmits the information to receivers in cars.

The computer, once alerted to a traffic snarl, warns the driver and computes the best way around it.

O'Connor said it's inevitable that - as communities search for a way to alleviate traffic congestion - an intelligent highway vehicle navigation system will arise.

An experimental program is al-ready in place in Oakland County, he added.

Whether these systems are government or privately run is uncertain, O'Connor said. He speculated a privately run group would be a more likely option if for no other reason than the cost.

A private group could possibly offset the cost of equipment through advertising.

One of the reasons NAVMATE was developed was to improve safety on the roads — is there anything more dangerous than a person trying to read a map on a congested freeway?

The trick, O'Connor said, was to make certain the NAVMATE was a safety improvement and didn't just replace a map.

'The first thing we did was design the system so it can only be activated while the car is not in motion," he said. Destinations are input after the car is started, but before it is put into gear.

No system is foolproof, O'Connor said. Databases will have to be updated to account for road changes and new construction.

The computer also warns the driver when the system is first turned on that the NAVMATE is a tool and should not replace the driver's own common sense. "If the NAVMATE tells you to turn the wrong way onto a one way street, obviously you shouldn't turn," he said.

The data base is accurate, but it is also complex, he said.

Digitizing every road is daunting task, O'Connor said, so it will take a while before the entire road network is complete.

Taking money out of their IRAs or the 401(k) to meet expenses would result in high taxes (ordinary income tax plus a 10 percent early distribution penalty). It would also leave their retirement planning in a shambles.

Walter has expressed an interest that he may want to "pur-chase a business venture for Jody, possibly a franchise." Before they enter into this type of commitment, they need to review the situation carefully and do a lot of investigation. Typically, these business ventures require a significant initial cash investment. If they do not have liquid assets, they would have to resort to borrowing, which we do not rec-

One glaring financial weakness is their insurance coverage. Walter carries only $75,000 of personal insurance, plus the $140,000 of group term at work. If he were to die, the potential income generated from policy proceeds and cur-rent assets would not replace his current earnings.

Because Walter is a diabetic, the cost of life insurance is more expensive for him. We suggest two avenues to pursue. First, Walter should check with his employer to determine if he is eligible for additional group term insurance. The rates for this type of insurance are typically identical for all employees in a similar age group, regardless of health. He should maximize this opportunity.

Second, there are some insurance companies that specialize in underwriting people with certain health problems. It could be worthwhile checking this out.

Walter and Jody should also review the amount of property insurance. Although they value their house at about $290,000, they list only $185,000 of coverage. Replacement value, not market value, is the gauge of the proper coverage. We suggest they check with their insurance agent to make sure that their property is covered for 100 percent of this replacement cost. Most homeowners' policies offer a rider thatguarantees replacement cost covererage for their dwelling regardless of the face amount listed on the policy. They should seriously review this possibility with their

"There are only two lasting bequests we can hope to give our children. One of these is roots; the other wings."

This month's couple, Walter and Jody Hepfer, hope to help give their children wings by the attainment of their primary goal for them, a college education.

Walter, 41, is sales representative for an auto supplier. Jody works part time as a receptionist in a dental office. Walter earned $67,000 last year, but his income can fluctuate significantly from year to year because it is based partly on commissions. Last year, Jody earned $5,000.

The Hepfer children are 13 and 11. Walter and Jody have an advantage in that they saved on a regular basis for college expenses by using Uniform Gifts to Minors Act accounts, but their concern is whether they have done enough and if there are better investments for these accounts.

Walter and Jody's other major goal is to provide for retirement.

In analyzing their need for additional education funding, it appears that the Hepfers are in very good shape. They expect their children to go to in-state public universities at a total cost of $9,000 per year in 1993 dollars.

Currently the accounts for the 13-year-old are worth $31,000. If we project a reasonable rate of return for these assets, while also assuming the cost of education continues to rise faster than the Consumer Price Index, we project that they are only about $1,000 short of fully funding their son's educational costs.

For the 11-year-old's needs, it appears they are about $10,000 short (in 1993 dollars) in funding her education. We calculate that they need to place about $125 per month between now and the onset of college for their daughter to meet this goal.

They are currently using mutual funds as an investment vehicle, and these are performing satisfactorily. During the junior years of high school, they should begin looking for a favorable time to lock in their profits and move into more stable assets.

Walter and Jody have made good financial decisions in the past. They have kept their debt load to a minimum, which Walter credits to his "conservative German upbringing." Their only debt is their home mortgage, which they refinanced to take advantage of favorable rates.

No pensions

But their goal of retirement requires more thought. Neither Walter's nor Jody's employer have any type of employer-funded pension or retirement plans. Walter does participate in an employ-ee-funded 401(k) plan. He has elected to fund this to the maximum every year, which is a decision we strongly support. Walter and Jody have also been contributing to non-deductible IRAs every year.

Even after maximizing 401(k) contributions, there are dollars available for discretionary savings. Both Walter and Jody say they would "love to minimize or defer more taxes."

But for now they have few options. We suggest they look at investments that earn tax-exempt income and compare the net return on these investments to the net after-tax return on their current investments.

rent investments.

Liquidity or accessibility is a potential problem area for Walter and Jody. Less than 15 percent of their total investment assets are liquid (their stocks and bank accounts). We would suggest that they build up their non-retirement assets, especially in the

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

Celebrating our children during April

In 1971, the National Association for the Education of Young Children proposed that a week in the month of April be designated as the Week of the Young Child. In 1985, Jan Nieuwenhuis, a board member of the Michigan Association for the Education of Young Children, felt that the concept was important enough to extend the celebration for the entire month of April.

So today children are celebrated nationally by parents, early childhood educators, child care providers and professionals and those individuals working on behalf of youth throughout the month of April.

Although the key focus is children, the celebration would not be complete without saluting those individuals who care for America's children.

We hear and read so much about children being our hope for tomorrow, our most precious resource. Somewhere I either heard or read these words: "And a child will lead," "Out of the mouths of babes," "We must become as little children," "Children are our future," and "Children live what they learn."

All of these phrases are symbolic of the real asset, value and importance of children. "Children live what they learn" is a real thought-provoking statement. The very thought of children today living what they learn somehow isn't very comforting, considering the chaos in our society and our world. (I could spend hours on this.)

On the bright side, children should be celebrated for their unique ways and abilities to learn what they live, yet somehow successfully fitting into difficult situations and sometime difficult people without losing their innocent childlike appeal. Truly, children are special, so let's celebrate!

Here are some ways to celebrate Michigan's Month of the Young Child. Offered by the Michigan Association for the Education of Young Children, it focuses on parents and families.

■ Plan at least three sit-together meals during the week. Use the time to take a break from the stress you all are feeling. Talk to each other about your day.

■ Plant a "family tree" in your yard, on the streetside, in a park — anywhere you will be able to visit it. If you can, plant a tree for each family member. You can also take advantage of Earth Day being just around the corner this way! ■ Finally get around to sorting out, labeling and displaying family pictures. This can provide wonderful opportunities for reminiscence, stories, family facts and history and sharing the growth of your family.

Bring out the tape or video recorder and create a family history tape. Use this as an opportunity to chronicle the "days of your lives" for this and future generations. Take a tour of your neighborhood, visit the aunts, uncles, grandparents, godparents, cousins, etc., to capture their impressions and stories for the future.

■ Plan a family reunion of any sort. Why not include your child's caregiver(s) and teachers(s), as they truly become part of our extended families.
■ Spend an evening writing letters to out-of-town family — people your children know and haven't seen in a long while. Strengthen those family ties.
■ If it is feasible, visit the family cemetery. Again, this is a wonderful manner in which you can share personal memories with your children, stories of your childhood and how those now departed helped you to grow and shaped your life — and therefore your children's!

Take the week to write a family history. Interview each other about life facts, hopes, dreams, funny memories, favorite vacations, etc.

Be sure to do something for families less fortunate than yours. Rejoice in your sharing some time with the homeless or orphaned. You can arrange for this by calling various human service organizations in your area. Do give them enough time to set up the arrangements.

Create a time capsule with each member of the family donating certain items, each with a note identifying the importance of that item.

If you haven't done it already, designate a door jamb, basement wall, or some other inconspicuous place to serve as the "Growing Zone." Use this space to mark and date each person's height. Include the babies, too, marking their length along with everyone else's height.

■ Take the time to finally get a family portrait done. Either by a studio, a friend or self-timer — just get it done!

just get it done!

Visit your child's daytime place of activity.

Schedule a visit to each classroom or center that your schedule will allow. And, if possible, have

At last:

Livonia Town Haller Susan Rigley had just one short sentence for Sue Bender. "I've been waiting for you to come," she said, while waiting for the author to autograph her book, "Plain and Simple."

JIM JAGDFELD/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHE

Amish way: 'Plain and Simple'

It started with some quilts and has turned into a 20year obsession for Sue Bender, a former New Yorker who recounts the simple nature of the Amish way of life in her book "Plain and Simple" and has captured the beauty of their quilts in a companion diary.

By SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

Sue Bender tells you up front. She's "not a new wave Californian that hears voices" although she admits to a quirky obsession. Wife, mother and author, Bender has spent 20 years learning — and savoring — the Amish lifestyle.

"They have three things — family, faith and the farm," said Bender who closed out the 29th season of Livonia Town Hall. "They pray for five minutes in the morning and five minutes in the evening and the rest of the day is spent doing what they believe in.

"They live each day by what they believe in and it made me question whose life was richer."

Bender discovered the Amish when she saw the Amish quilts used as backdrops for men's suits. That chance encounter started a 20-year saga that culminated in a best-selling book about the Amish, "Plain and Simple," and a companion diary, filled with photographs of Amish quilts.

The quilts attracted Bender to the Amish and it was the faceless Amish dolls that told her to "risk your heart's desire." With the help of two quilt dealers and an "Englishman" who worked with the Amish, she eventually found a minister's family who took her in for seven weeks.

For Bender, the unhurried lifestyle of the Amish was refreshing. She discovered that they value work. No one's job is unimportant.

"They have a high standard, but they're not competitive," she told the Town Hall crowd. "For them, it's do the best you can, don't do it to be the best. I had one woman tell me, 'Sue, if you make vegetable soup, it's not right to say the carrots are better than the peas or the peas are better than the cabbage. It takes all of the vegetables to make a good soup."

Bender rejoined the Amish the next year, staying with two sisters, both midwives. One was single and the other had 12 children. They have now become the Amish family she goes back to every year.

Pitching in

She left at home her husband Richard and two sons, who "pitched in" while she was gone. Bender likewise pitched in and did what the Amish women did — "My husband said I was an au pair for the Amish; I did what the women did."

what the women did."

Bender found Amish society patriarchal in nature. Men have the power and women have a complementary role although "their work is appreciated." She also found an absence of sibling rivalry, much of it because of "the emphasis on we and not I."

"The emphasis is on the community," she said. "In a catastrophe I would want to be Amish because I know the community would take care of me. They have no insurance on their house; their insurance is brotherly love."

Amish children don't have a lot of career choices. They are not allowed to go beyond the eighth grade. They are very smart about their natural world and when they have time to read, it is the Bible and The Budget, the Amish newspaper, that they peruse.

"I was brought up with the idea that more choices you have in life the better," Bender said. "But in looking back, I realize I was drowning in choices. With the Amish, I learned the difference between having a lot of choices and making a choice. When you make a choice you eliminate something on your plate.

"The Amish don't spend their time wishing for something else or wishing they were someone else. Whatever is on their plate is enough."

Conscious choice

But while their choices are limitted, there is one choice each and every member of the community must make. The Amish are Anabaptist and members wait until they are adults to decide on baptism. They make a conscious choice and those who decline membership generally join the more wordly Mennonite sect, Bender said.

"When the children become teenagers, they're given a lot of space, especially the boys," she said. "It's not in keeping with their beliefs, so they have to trust that the values imbued in them as children will lead them to choose the Amish way of life. Every family has a few who leave, but overall the community is alive and well and many of the children choose to

As serene and ordinary as Amish life appeared to Bender, she admitted she "smelled a rat" — the dark side of Amish life. There is no room in Amish society for deviation, for people who may be an artist, poet, gay or lesbian. And if that person isn't brave enough to leave the community, life can be hard. As a result there is a lot of depression and suicide in the Amish community, Bender said.

The Amish also practice shunning. If you break the rules, they cut you off and among the sins deserving of shunning is "extramarital anything," Bender said.

"It seems like such a terrible thing, but if they didn't shun, how would they hold the community together," she said. "If you're willing to confess your faults, the community is willing to welcome you back. Otherwise, you can't defend yourself."

No more questions

It was during a fourth or fifth visit to the Amish community that Bender realized she had no more questions and that all the answers were within herself. About six months later "a voice deep inside" told her it was "time to tell the story."

She didn't want to listen and tried to ignore it. Bender had never taken notes during her visits and when she finally gave in to the voice she found herself writing notes about her experiences on scraps of paper and tossing them on the floor of a room in her home.

"As I began working on the book, I realized that the scraps of paper were forming patches; I realized I was writing a quilt," she said. "It took five

Among the candidates for district honors are Laura Letobar, representing the Garden City Chapter; Sherry Zylka, representing Livonia's Suburban West Chapter; Diane Young, representing the Plymouth-Canton chapter, and Theresa Margerm, representing the Southfield chapter.

Laura Letobar

As the Garden City YCW candidate, Letobar also believes in the benefits of education. In her case, education comes in the form of providing quality information about low-fat eating in "a very easy to read format."

While Letobar works with cancer patients as a clinical therapist in radiation therapy at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, it was questions posed by the patients that have steered her in a new direction—speaking to cancer support groups and now stroke groups about good eating.

"My goal . . . is to educate as many people as possible on this topic," said the Livonia resident.

"To do this, I plan on focusing on ways to make this information available on a national level."

She's already started. With the help of a home computer, she is publishing "Laura's Fat-Free Kitchen," a monthly eight-page newsletter, filled with fat-free and low-fat recipes. Sponsored by the American Heart Association and the American Cancer Society, Letobar, 30, encourages her readers to send in their favorite recipes which she converts to low-fat versions, thereby showing readers products that can be used in a recipe to reduce fat in everyday cooking.

A graduate of Dearborn Fordson High School and Wayne State University where she earned her bachelor of science degree in radiation therapy, Letobar also is doing a cooking show for cable television that like the newsletter "provides helpful tips and kitchen hints to reduce dietary fat."

In fact, at age 30, she considers that — "educating people and providing quality information" — as her most significant career accomplishment.

Sherry Zylka

As the Livonia YCW, Zylka also believes in education and what it offers people at every facet of their lives. Part of that belief stems from her work as the coordinator of Continuing Education Services at Schoolcraft College. As program coordinator, Zylka is responsible for the detailed planning of approximately 800 classes per year. But Zylka we can be.

Today we are studying the handwriting of a genteel young woman, one who often wears her heart on her sleeve. Empathy, compassion and caring glide along these lines. Others are quick to sense this and are attracted to her

Her sympathies are easily aroused and she can be drafted into working for worthy projects and/or causes. I have always

This is a lover, not a fighter! She is adaptable and promotes peace and harmony in her interpersonal relationships. Occasionally, she may look at certain people in a critical manner.

Our writer wants to experience . as much of life as she can. She reaches out to embrace people and the future. Still she remains grounded in the past. When feeling down as she sometimes does, she looks for emotional support from the mother figure.

I realize my next statement may sound like a contradiction, but it really isn't. Both attitudes exist within her and may cause indecision at times.

Her security needs are strong. She is not a big risk-taker and may feel safer with the tried and true. When attempting something new she can be cautious and hesitant. By nature she is idealistic and seeks culture, refinement and self-improvement in her life. Mental attitudes are often conforming, possibly for fear of stepping out of line. Has she been under the influence of someone with a strong personality.

She has a nice way with words and expresses herself very well. She can be fluent, persuasive or tactful, depending upon what she feels is most appropriate at the

It is not easy for her to conceal the way she is feeling. Whether sad, happy, upbeat, tired, etc., her body language gives her away.

Our writer enjoys variety and change in her life. If things become too routinized she may become bored. At times she is nervously on the go, moving from one thing to another.

When this letter was written I think she was a little overly involved. This could be either emotionally or physically. There are some pent up emotions here that are not finding release. In spite of her need to be busy and active, she does not appear to be completely satisfied with present accomplishments.

Seemingly there are many things she wants, probably small things. Is she a collector?

This young woman tends to rationalize when things do not turn out as she hoped they would. Is she refusing to face facts because the situation is beyond her control? Or is she simply disinclined to obtain all the facts? Whatever the answer, she can easily come up with a plausible sounding excuse for what she did, or did

A bit of humor found here tells us she makes time for fun in her life. Although she may not be the humorist herself, she can appreciate another's funny side.

Intuition weaves through this handwriting. She often feels or knows things but would probably have difficulty telling us how she lagy, palm reading knows. This is a very valuable trait, both in the world of business as well as in friendships. If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C.

■ Spend the week showing each other how much you care, and how important you all are to each other. Hug a lot, smile a lot, kiss a lot - and be sure to say "I love you" even more than usual. It's important to feel important, for young and old.

■ Write letters to the president and governor, letting them know how important family legislation plans are to pursue a doctorate "to provide the qualifications needed to work toward an executive level position in an academic institution or in the business world."

She hopes to become a director of a continuing education center in the next five years.

She has worked at Schoolcraft for the last 12 years, starting out as a student assistant.

"Fortunately, each position has provided measureable milestones," said Zylka. "I feel the experience I have gained in a department considered one of the state's best has helped prepare me to provide leadership in this field.

While attending U-M, Zylka and her husband Tim Schmieding, a technical engineer, started an electrical subcontracting company and hired four people to assemble circuit boards. Zylka says the experience gave her "an opportunity to develop my business Facts You Should Know About Breast Cancer Every Woman is at risk for breast cancer. The risk of developing breast cancer increases as a woman ages, if she has a family history of breast cancer, has never had children or had her first child after age 30. However, most breast cancers occur in women who have no identifiable risk factors. The American Cancer Society recommends an initial mammogram by age 40 (and earlier in some cases.) In cases where abnormal mammograms appear, Women's Breast Centers now offers a new non-surgical stereotactic biopsy procedure that is accurate, less expensive & less painful with no disfigurement of the breast. Be an active participant in your breast health care.

We welcome your questions.

Have you ever wondered why Jesus spoke in par-ables? Most Christians think that parables made the gospel easier to understand. The truth is that Jesus spoke in parables so that his listeners would NOT understand what he was saying (Matt. 13:10-17). Jesus explained his parables to his disciples later in private (Matt. 13:44-54). While te (Matt. 13:34-36). If you're interested more about the real Jesus of the Bible,

Saintly work still needs people

BY DIANE HANSON SPECIAL WRITER

This priest worked a job to earn money just so he could give it all away to the poor. He would bring sick people into his home so that he could personally care for them. Poor children clung to him and he would give them food, toys, clothes and a heartful of love. What a saint!

And, indeed, he was. Saint Vincent de Paul was canonized by the Roman Catholic Church and is the patron of charitable societies. Today, more than 300 years since his death in 1660, the Society of St. Vincent de Paul is alive and very active right here in the Detroit area.

While the society has a Catholic foundation, one only need consult a dictionary or watch the organization in action to appreciate the "all-inclusive" application of the word catholic.

"What makes us catholic is that we take and we give to everybody," said James Carron, executive director of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. "As Catholics, we say the word catholic is universal. We help everybody and we don't ask questions. That's what makes us catholic.

The word help requires a bit more clarification. We provide help for people to begin to reconstruct their lives," Carron said. "It's important to know that we are an emergency organization. My recommendation is that we empower individuals rather than just helping individuals. If someone comes to us and they are three months behind in their rent, to help with one month is OK, but we need to go further.

"The society reaches beyond the rent, beyond what is the prob-

To reach beyond that problem, the society has its own employment agency. De Paul Employment was opened at the central office on East Grand Boulevard in Detroit in 1985 and expanded to St. Alfred's Parish in Taylor and St. Timothy's Parish in Trenton last year.

There is absolutely no cost for those seeking jobs or the potential employer. In 1992 alone, more then one-third of the 1,400 applicants were employed by the end of Carron, formerly self-employed in public relations/marketing, has served as the highest classified individual in the society for nearly two years. Even so, he views himself as "the lowest of the serv-

Referring to the paid staff, he said, "We're employed by volunteers to administer their programs which they own. The volunteers own the stores. The volunteers own everything. They own my office, they own my desk. They can come in and see them any time they want. We're the servants of the volunteers."

There are some paid workers and administrators, but Marcy Moynahan of Garden City is one of those who generously donates her time and talent.

Moynahan is the manager of the St. Vincent de Paul store on Michigan Avenue in Dearborn, one of 16 in the Detroit Archdiocese. That store services much of western Wayne County and was specifically requested by Moynahan and her husband 12 years ago because they believed there was a real need in that area.

Moynahan has worked there all 12 years and volunteers 30 to 40 hours each week as the store's

"I enjoy meeting the people," she said. She treats everyone with respect and warmth and appears to embody St. Vincent de Paul's philosophy that the poor must be allowed the dignity to be poor before they can be helped.

She asks that donors send in items in good repair.

"We don't want to give junk to the poor just because they are down on their luck at the time. You don't want to make them feel any worse.'

Items in great demand are stoves, particularly gas since they are less expensive to operate than electric, beds and children's furniture and clothing.

"Bed frames are next to impossible to get," Moynahan said. "A lot of times, we don't have the frames but will give them box springs and a mattress. We figure that's better than sleeping on the

The demand for infant items far exceeds the incoming supply, according to Moynahan: "We get calls for cribs, sometimes three or four a day.'

All the items received in the stores, food for the society's 14 food depots, and money for operating costs and other society programs are received through donations.

All with donations

"We are a non-funded organization," Carron said. "All the funds we receive are donated funds.' Most of the donations come from Catholic parishes supporting St. Vincent de Paul activities. One hundred ninety-five of the 310 parishes in the Detroit Archdiocese support such activity and are known as conferences. They have special drives for funds. There are food drives and poor boxes and they also have Bundle Sundays.

On such Sundays, a St. Vincent de Paul truck is parked in a church's lot all weekend to collect goods on Bundle Sundays. The goods are then delivered to the

Trialogue offers a blend of 3 faiths

The melodious sounds coming from Temple Israel in West Bloomfield Sunday, April 18, will be an unusual mix of voices those of Jews, Christians and Muslims — for an unusual program, a Musical Trialogue.

"Never before have Muslims. Jews and Christians raised their voices in song together at one time under one root," said Cantor Harold Orbach, the originator of the historic Musical Trialogue. "Not only is the program an exciting one, but it also represents an important bridge in getting to understand each other better in a world marked with altogether too much friction between us."

Society needs grandparents' stability and grandfathers are important people. Why? My two sons have a relationship with their grandparents which is both amazing and wonderful to me. What I have noticed between my sons and their grandparents is an appreciation of history, a respect, an interest in how the older family members lived through the years of their lives. Grandmother and grandfather have been reference points for my sons' identities. Grandparents are different from parents or from peers. They are not a parental kind of authority. They are dependable, wise and experienced in the world. Even when my boys were young, there was a conservative, stable, connected quality in their relationship with their grandparents.

I believe that children suffer when loving grandparents are not available either because of dis-are needed to serve as a stability in society. Grandparents become a reference point in identity as a child grows.

Children can face change and tension if there are relationships that matter which remain the same. In the words of Ross Snyder, "A person who trusts us and we trust, continues us." Nurtured by this relationship of a second generation past, we are enabled to envision the future.

The social fabric of life is strengthened by those who have already lived through most of their years. What are the key elements in this intergenerational weaving of life?

The first key element is that a person from the past recognizes a grandchild as special, important. What is of most value in this kind of relationship is both the recognition of specialness and emotional space. The grandchild is both engaged with the older adult and is free to test himself or herself against that reality. The stories about how it used to be years ago are important. My sons love tance or because of death. They to hear these stories told by their grandparents.

Second, a key element is that the older adult wants the young person to thrive. Snyder suggests, 'Like a freshman football coach, he is solely concerned to help us make the team." Grandparents do not worry if their grandchildren will win, but they hope they will make the team.

Third, the older adult offers the new generation wisdom. What this means is that the older person helps the young person to un-derstand life. This happens through stories, convictions and values that are offered but not forced upon the younger person. Such a person can become a door to meanings and even to religious

Perhaps the most important elnent in the positive impact of older adults upon young persons is a transmission of a vital hope for the future. If an older adult is living a vital, future-oriented life, their impact upon young people can be tremendous. Older adults who live on the edge of a new time rather than falling back into the past attract young people.

Older adults who have a growing edge approach to life are powerful mentors. The Hasidic saying, "Every day we shall go forth out of Egypt, out of distress," suggests how such older adults may impact the new generation. Every day they continue to live out the dream of freedom.

We witness in our society today the breakdown of generations. This is a painful dilemma for our time. We who value religious meaning must pay attention to this tearing of the fabric of society. We and the world will pay the costs if young people only belong to an anonymous youth culture.

The costs will be counted in the agony of the Vietnam War, or race riots, or in psychic and spiritual destruction. No generation has the final truth. We need to be woven into a fabric of compassion and of discernment if we as a human race would avoid the dark-main warehouse in Detroit where some minor repairs can be done on appliances. The goods are then distributed to the stores according to needs.

"A lot of people get upset because we sell things," said Moy-nahan, adding that those who can't afford to pay may obtain vouchers to receive needed goods at no cost.

A Vincentian (a volunteer from one of the parish conferences) will come to the home to determine need and will write a voucher for those items that can be taken to the store or food depot. Vouchers may also be written by others, most notably the Department of Social Services.

Carron estimates that the 16 stores combined donate $1 million worth of goods each year. The money acquired from sold goods is first used to pay the bills.

'After the bills are paid, we send money to our council," Moynahan said.

"The council has a poor and needy fund that's set up so we can help with utilities, medical bills, even if you need gas for your car," Carron said.

Rising demand

And help is exactly what the society does in a big way. In western Wayne County alone, the 25 parish-level conferences spent more than $59,000 last year to help with housing emergencies. Those emergencies included back mortgage payments, back taxes and emergency home repairs. That amount was up more than 50 percent over the 1991 figures.

Assistance with utilities was up 29 percent over last year at more than $35,000. Transportation assistance rose a whopping 146 percent and medical assistance soared 179 percent above the 1991 expenditures.

The society assisted a total of 37,407 families last year in the six counties covered by the Archdiocese of Detroit and spent more than $1.5 million in direct emergency assistance. Many of those families were within the parish conferences in Plymouth, Canton, Redford, Westland, Livonia and Garden City.

Moynahan's husband, Jerry, volunteers as a Vincentian involved with the home visits and is also the society's Metro West District Council president.

'Our society and other charitable organizations are rapidly reaching the limit of their ability to respond to even the most basic emergency needs of the poor and disadvantaged in our community," he said. "Since we rely, for the most part, on donations given by parish members, our resources are necessarily limited. We've done our best in the year just past, but frankly, we just cannot keep up with the needs of people in our communities."

Carron voiced similar concerns. "How long can we keep it up? We're reaching the limit of our ability," he said. "I think it's rather noble to have state cuts, but can the charitable organizations and non-profit organizations and volunteer organizations pick up the slack with all the cuts?"

Carron anticipates that both needs and costs will continue to rise. In fact, business is booming and the society needs donations. High on the list of needed donations is money. In addition to all the other charitable activities, the society also supports two Christian summer camps for needy children. Camp Ozanam for boys and Camp Stapleton for girls, both on Lake Huron, were attend-ed by 1,360 needy children last

Cash donations are greatly appreciated for running the camp. The cost per camper per day to the society is $36 or $360 for the entire 10-day period. There are many areas to put cash donations to work at the camps from the cost of buses to camp counselors to a gallon of milk. Private and corporate donations are gratefully accepted. And money donated can be specifically earmarked for a particular area or it can be put in the general fund.

Carron also expressed the need for more volunteers.

"The society acts as an apostolic vehicle for 1,900 Vincentians," he said. "If you want to help people — through the De Paul em-ployment, through the camps, through the food depot, through the stores, as an individual — you are being given the opportunity to help people through the society. If you really want to do something for someone, become a Vincen-

Canton book to trace 1-room schoolhouses

oan Palmer's reason for writing a book about the history of Canton's 10 one-room schoolhouses during the years they doubled as school districts is simple enough:

'Our past is part of us. I want to save that history. Children of today should know something about what these country schools were like," says the Canton Historical Society trustee and Canton Historical Museum volunteer.

Canton Historical Society will publish "Canton Country Schools" this fall. All proceeds will go to the society.

Three years in the making, the book will help researchers of Canton's pioneer families and schools. Each chapter will chronicle a different schoolhouse via factual accounts verified by the author and personal memories elicited from former students and teachers.

Palmer is tracing the 10 schools from their primitive log beginnings between 1830 and 1850 to their brick or frame successors to when they were consolidated into larger school districts in Plymouth-Canton, Wayne-Westland or Van Buren Township. School district consolidation was complete by the mid-1950s.

Spotlighted schools are Hough, Cherry Hill, Sheldon, Canton Center, Hanford, Walker, Truesdell, Palmer, Bartlett and Kinyon.

Memories solicited

Palmer will help former teachers and students record remembrances from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesdays and Saturdays in May at the Canton Historical Museum, Canton Center Road at Proctor. Or call her at 453-5231.

She's also looking for class pictures, building snapshots, report cards, play programs, souvenir holiday cards and other school artifacts. "On report cards, I'm interested in the year and the teacher's name, not the grades.'

Responses so far have topped 75. "But I don't want anybody to say after the book is published, 'I went to a one-room school in Canton but I'm not included," Palmer said.

"Canton Country Schools" will include a township map pinpointing each school's location, a partial list of teachers at each school and the years they taught, student newspaper excerpts, land acquisition records and selected records like annual school district meeting minutes. Schools often went up on a corner, within two or three miles of the farms they served. Families in each district teamed up to build and support the school, paying a tax for each child attending and donating a cord of firewood for the school stove.

Three of the 10 one-room schools are gone: Bartlett (Canton Center Road, south of Warren), Palmer (at Geddes and Beck) and Kinyon (at Joy and Ridge just inside Plymouth Township).

The other seven are still standing. Hough, at Warren and Old Haggerty, is vacant. Canton Center houses the Canton Historical Museum. Cherry Hill, at Ridge and Cherry Hill, is a restored public facility.

Sheldon, on Michigan Avenue west of Sheldon. is being restored for use as leased space by a nonprofit group. Hanford, at Ridge and Hanford, has been converted to a single-family residence.

Where Walker stood on Michigan Avenue east of I-275 is now a modern Wayne-Westland elementary school. Where Truesdell stood on Haggerty south of Cherry Hill is now a modern Plymouth-Canton elementary school annex.

In 1850, Aaron Palmer, great-great-grandfather of Joan Palmer's husband Richard, leased an acre to the Palmer school district for as long as a school existed there. A frame school came about 1851 and a brick school about 1935. Palmer School was consolidated into the Van Buren school district in 1953. It later reverted to Aaron Palmer's heirs. It housed a church and businesses before burning in the late '60s. Palmer family members have lived in Canton since 1833, a year before

'We live three and a quarter miles from where Aaron first settled — and we've lived here 40 years," said Joan, a Northville native who grew up in Plymouth. Last year, Canton resident Duane Rodenberg donated to the township the Palmer School treasurer's record books from 1866 to 1925. From these yellowed pages, Joan Palmer learned that, in 1866. Louise Corwin earned $48 for teaching 16 weeks of summer school, just $28 more than William Artley was paid for five cords of winter firewood!

"Country schoolhouses were such a pervasive way of life in our country throughout its history, said Canton historic district commissioner Melissa McLaughlin. "It's only been since the mid part of this century that we've moved away from them.

'Folks who went to these one-room schoolhouses are moving into their later years," she added. "And a lot of stories and memories and pictures and documentation they have will be gone once they're gone. We've got to capture these memories now or they'll be lost — forever."

Dixieland provides peek into Thomas Wolfe's life

VICTORIA

Not long after novelist Thomas Wolfe's untimely death from tuberculosis at age 38, his devoted editor, Maxwell Perkins, said of the young writer: "I think no one could understand Thomas Wolfe who had not seen . . . the place in which he . . . grew up." Fortunately for all of us, the childhood home of the author of such American classics as "Look Homeward, Angel" and "You Can't Go Home Again" still stands. Even more fortunately, it's well-preserved and open to the public. If you're ever in or near Asheville, N. C., don't pass it

As you may recall, Dixieland, as it was known during Wolfe's childhood (he was born in 1900), was not an ordinary, garden variety home. It was a rambling, twostory boarding house, a kind of hodgepodge of rooms, niches, nooks, and crannies - all overseen by Wolfe's efficient, extremely thrifty mother, the "Eliza" of his early, strongly autobiographical novels.

In the pages of "Look Home-ward, Angel," Wolfe wrote of the actual/fictional boarding house and the "braided clamor" of conversations around the dining tables. Today's visitors may imagine echoes of those long-ago conversations as they pass through the large, high-ceiling dining room. The tables are always set as if awaiting the imminent arrival of a dozen or more clamorous boarders. A massive sideboard and the dark, spindlebacked chairs pulled up to the tables are typical of pieces found in many middle-class homes during the era, and most were in the house when the Wolfes lived there, according to tour guides.

Back in the no-nonsense, unpretentious kitchen, a gaspowered Oriole cookstove, plus a coal-driven range and oven stand opposite a sturdy worktable and unadorned cupboards, where Wolfe's mother oversaw and helped prepare the hearty Southern fare she served boarders.

Framed family portraits, an upright piano and small organ dominate the lace-curtained, antimacassared parlor. Atop the piano sits the original photo of the author, which appeared through the years on the jackets of many of the books he wrote.

Upstairs, the spartan bed-rooms, with their iron bedsteads, flimsy coverlets and slightly sagging mattresses, look vaguely sad. (Wolfe sometimes likened the house to a tomb, using words like "dank" and "chill" to describe its feel.) His mother's tiny bedroom, with newspapers and magazines strewn about, resembles Eliza's "small dark room with a window opening on the uncertain light of the back porch" in "Look Homeward, Angel." The bedrooms are connected by a narrow, almost tunnel-like hallway, leading to the little cave of a bathroom that was shared by Dixieland's resi-

Before you leave, you may sit for a spell on the front veranda in one of the many cane-bottomed rocking chairs provided for visitors and look out on the wide, sloping lawn where Wolfe played as a young boy beneath enormous Carolina maple trees. The neighborhood has changed considerably since Wolfe left one day in 1916, on his way to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill to study theater and playwriting before eventually making his indelible mark on the literary world as a novelist. Across the street now, you'll see a bustling office complex and hotel. The home itself, however, according to guides, remains much the same.

The Thomas Wolfe home is at 48 Spruce St. It is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday. (From November 1 to March 31, the home is closed on Mondays.) Admission is $10 for adults and 50 cents for children. A beveled glass window with broken panes leans up against the wall awaiting repair. Custom orders and stained-glass restoration are their specialty. The Lindens spend long hours lavishing loving care on heirloom windows, doors and panels.

"It's a workshop, not a showcase. We try to learn as much as we can about stained glass so we can teach," Jack said as he and Marie wrapped copper foil around the glass pieces for one of eight traditonal Victorian stained-glass windows commissioned by the Seventh Day Adventists for their church in Plymouth Township.

"This is one of the most important parts of stained-glass work because when these are foiled, they'll be ready for solder-

Marie added, "Putting the foil on the glass, this makes the channel that makes it all work."

The Lindens use both methods of framing the glass pieces in their work: leading and copperfoil.

"The oldest method of glass working is 3,000 years old. Louis Comfort Tiffany came along at the end of the 19th century with copper foils," Marie said. Tiffany's copperfoil method allowed very small pieces of glass to be framed and joined. It enabled him to create his magnificent wisteria lamp shade. As one of the earliest crafts, stained-glass making was a major art form before painting in Europe. The earliest surviving example in an architectural environment is the 11th-century Augsburg Cathedral in Germany, which used techniques thought to be after sixth- and seventh-century Byzantine mosaics in Italy. Records of stained-glass windows exist for a 12th-century synagogue in Cologne.

Artists through the ages have used the faceted jewel-like colors of these dazzling stained-glass windows as canvas. Russian artist Marc Chagall, in his well known work for the synagogue in Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center in Jerusalem, created 12 magnificent windows. Each represented one of the 12 tribes of Israel.

Although today's stained-glass artists could never hope to produce the likes of such master works, the art form offers opportunities to create architectural and other pieces on a smaller

Classes, instructional videos, books and supplies offered at the shop provide young and old alike with fun projects crafting cabinet door panels, sidelights, windows. kaleidoscopes, clocks, candleholders and lamps.

Beginner and intermediate classes run four weeks at a cost of $30 with a 10 percent discount on supplies and tools while attending classes.

"It's a contagious type of a class. The very first night they make a suncatcher. It gives them glass cutting skills, how to use the tools," Linden said. "This isn't the kind of craft you can go out and buy a kit so we keep our beginner's patterns simple. They'll have a nice 10- by 14-inch panel when it's done."

Advance classes in Tiffany lamps and lead cane, by appointment only, last three to six weeks at a cost of $30-$45. In late spring, the Lindens will offer glass beadworking classes.

Count on spending about an additional $60 for an initial investment in tools. "People say isn't this a little bit expensive, but you end up making a $400-$500 lamp," Jack said.

The Lindens first became interested in stained glass 14 years ago when they decided to take a class together. For many years, they sold their wares at arts and crafts

Six years ago, when Jack retired after 33 years at American Airlines, they opened their Plymouth shop. Every five weeks, they travel to Chicago to hand pick and buy the glass from Germany, France, Italy and America stocked in the shop.

"Glass is really interesting. If you hold it up to a bright light, you've one color, hold it up to a different light and it's opaque. Stained glass combines artistic endeavors and enjoyment. It's a wonderful way to escape from re-ality," Jack said. "I tell my students this is not a hobby or a craft. This is a fine art."

LIVONIA CIVIC CENTER LIBRARY

Continuing — Livonia Arts Commission presents a retrospective of 40 watercolor and oil paintings by artist/architect/author Louis G. Redstone through May 15 in the Art Gallery. An opening reception for the painter will be held in the gallery 3-6 p.m. Saturday, April 17, in honor of his 90th birthday. Vibrant watercolors in the tradition of representational abstraction, although nonobjective abstract also is represented here, dominate the exhibition, which spans more than 60 years. Oil and watercolor from the 1930s and 1940s sound a somber note in keeping with the times. Farmington Road and Five Mile. Hours: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday and 1-4 p.m. Sunday. LIVONIA CIVIC CENTER

LIBRARY Continuing — Romulus artist

Rich Katuzin will exhibit his pen and ink drawings of naval ships and Michigan lighthouses to April 25 in the Livonia Arts Commission second-floor showcases at the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile. W. 10 Mile. Redford Township Public Library, noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, April 24, 15150 Norborne.

Copies of "Second Fire" ($5.50) will be available for sale

The allure of fire to man is both its compelling and fearful nature. And in the tradition of Native American Indians, fire also is all-powerful. "Second Fire" draws from the myths and modern problems of Native American Indians to pen this terror-suspense story.

The Ojibwa Indians protest a planned excavation of an ancient burial site led by anthropologist Christopher Fielding. Attempting a compromise, Fielding recruits Native American Indian anthropologist Jean Shawshequay to supervise the dig, hoping to assuage any accusations of sacri-

But a radical Indian rights group, headed by an intense Ojibwa named Blackbear, is insulted by this compromise. His group first responds with petty terrorism against the dig workers. But Blackbear takes it one step further by summoning the spirits of The Ancient Ones. And the death and destruction, by fire, begins.

The police and Fielding cannot stop the force of the Ancients. Only Jean may be the answer. But can she convince Chris of the true source of these deadly fires? And, more importantly, will she be able to stop them?

Other Wilson suspense thrillers include "Crooked Tree" and "Icefire."

Loving touch: Evelyn Henry of Redford Township won second place in the Palette Guild spring show for this

"The Guard:" This pastel by Betty Shaw of Redford Township took first place in the Palette Guild spring

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN SPECIAL WRITER

Artworks featuring cats, horses, dancers, apple blossoms, barn scenes and a historic white clapboard house offer plenty of one-ofa-kind gift ideas for occasions such as graduations, weddings, house warmings or Mother's Day.

acrylic portrait of her grandson, Donny.

You can find this artistic variety at the Palette Guild's spring art show and sale continuing through April 29 in the lobby of Livonia City Hall, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Watercolor, acrylic, oil, pastel, pen and ink, colored pencil, graphite, collage and mixed media art works shine for prices ranging on average from $30 to $300.

A reception to meet the artists and learn more about their work takes place 7-9 p.m. Friday, April

"It's very colorful, striking, electric and just so alive. It's a tremendous show," said chairwoman Pat Quiery of Farmington Hills.

Florals, landscapes, portraits and still life in this 110-piece annual show were judged by Christine Unwin of West Bloomfield. Unwin, a watercolorist featured in American Artist magazine, will teach workshops in May as part of a Royal Odyssey cruise to Italy, France, Greece and Mexico.

Betty Shaw of Redford Township won first place for the pastel, "The Guard." Shaw gives life to this lone sentinel rendering the lights and shadows impeccably. Metals of silver and gold in his outfit dazzle the eye.

"I want to thank the judge. I was quite surprised she chose to pick one (that was) more realistic," Shaw said. "The guard was kind of a challenge because of the small features. It was difficult to do in pastel.'

Shaw took a honorable mention for a graphite drawing, "Saturday Matinee.

A consistent award winner, she began drawing in charcoal 12 years ago. For a long time, she favored working in black and white.

Seeking instruction in pastel and colored pencil at Art Store & More in Livonia opened a world of color to Shaw. Before long, she was teaching others the art of "seeing" many hues.

Redford Township artist Evelyn Henry took second place for an acrylic portrait of her grandson "Donny," as well as honorable mentions for two pastels, "Bloomin' Time" and "Sixteen."

Wispy brush strokes capture the fine hair of childhood in "Donny." As light and shadow play on his face, a lifelike expression of curiosity reveals nothing escapes these big brown eyes.

Although "The Way" did not receive a prize, this inspirational work captures a mood as Henry portrays somewhat of a yellow brick road to a rainbow sky and hot white sun on the horizon. Lyrstick trees add rhythm, motion and a sense of peacefulness to the scene. "It's one of the first things I've tried from my mind," Henry said. "It's sort of a religious piece. It came as an inspiration to me." Henry worked 21 years in the art department of Campbell-Ewald in Detroit. Design skills and color sense carry over into her She started painting with oils in the 1950s. Her work has been exhibited in one-woman shows at Livonia City Hall, Farmington Community Library and the Scarab Club in Detroit. Third-place honors went to Marlene Zazoulinsky of Farmington for an untitled acrylic painting. Impressionistic brush strokes color this garden scene primarily in tints of green and blue.

Honorable mentions went to: Shirley Ceasar for a watercolor, "Fish Town"; Jackie Daniel, oil, "The Ballerinas"; Sofia Taj, watercolor, "Deusenberg 1931"; Callie Thomson, collage, "Waiting for Tea"; Marie Tuthill, watercolor, "The Old House"; Joan Welsh, watercolor, "Tea Time," and mixed media, "Emergence.

Founded in 1954, the Palette Guild numbers around 60 members. Members meet at noon the fourth Monday of the month in the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

City hall lobby hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday and 7-9 p.m. April 20-21, 26-27.

Winners chosen

Award winners from Artifacts Art Club's second annual exhibition of membership artwork at Livonia City Hall have been announced:

People's Choice: 1st) "Anybody Down There?", Sherry Eid, Livonia; 2nd) "Wolf Head No. 1," Diane DeLuca, Dexter; 3rd) "Crowned Crane," David Messing, Livonia.

Artists' Award: 1st) "Water Lilies," June Weidel, Livonia; 2nd) tie, "Platter Dish," Judy Blanchard, Northville; untitled abstract, Elaine Major, Livonia.

The versatility of the show is evident in the variety of media chosen for recognition colored pencil, clay title, scratchboard, watercolor, pottery and watercolor collage," said Joyce Colaluca, Artifacts publicist.

Selected members juried the 60-piece exhibit in March. Three artists had sales from the show and two commissions were requested.

Open houses a sign of spring marketing efforts the real estate business because they get people who were previously only thinking of buying a home into action, he said.

"It welcomes people into homes and makes it convenient." At least 500 homes in the seven-county metropolitan region are scheduled for open houses on April 24 and 25. More than 10,000 homes will be part of Century 21's nationwide open house.

Michael Bartlett, vice president sales management at Real Estate One, said his company is planning its first spring open house promotional April 25.

"We have open houses every weekend - and this isn't our first open house promotional of the year," he said, "but this is are first spring effort."

Open houses are a particularly valuable tool in the spring because that is when people are out and about, Bartlett said.

The real estate industry has become increasingly more sophisticated with the use of computers, marketing studies and sales techniques, but in some ways selling a home is the same as it's always

"What we find is that these tools are a tremendous aid, but it all starts with people selecting an an open house, but if Bartlett wanted to sell a home, he'd take advantage of the marketing tool. area and driving around," he said. Is there an The court noted that commercial leases are typically of long obligation upon a landlord in a duration, and potential lessees, commercial settherefore, need full information as potential purchasers. The rule set forth by the court is similar to that applied to landlords in cases of personal injury to tenants caused by latent defects of the In a recent property that are known to the landlord.

The tenant is liable for failure, intentional or not, to disclose the potential danger. This case opens a new area of potential liability for commercial landlords. The landlord may well want a lease to contain a clear statement that the landlord has made no representations or warranties other than those explicitly set forth in the lease and is relieved of any implied warranty or representation as to the condition or suitability of the premises for the tenant's proposed use.

Recenity the neighbors in the condominium above us had some work done in their kitchen. Water was spilled on their floor that seeped into our kitchen, leaving a stain on our ceiling. The man they hired was unable to remove the stain and carries no insurance. There is no clause in our association bylaws that covers this situation. Do we have any recourse?

In answer to the question, it would apear that you have recourse against the co-owner upstairs for negligence as well as the co-owner's contractor. The fact that the contractor has no insurance is unfortunate but does not relieve the contractor from liability to the extent that it caused injury to your unit through negli-

Moreover, the association may have recourse against the coowner or the contractor to the extent that any common elements were damaged for which the association has a responsibility. I would also double check your condominium documents with an attorney to make sure that there is not a specific provision covering this situation, which is normally the case.

FREE SEMINAR

How to Buy a Home

How much home can you afford? What are your financing options? Do you know the basic steps in the home buying process? You will need the answers to these common questions if you are considering one of the most important purchases of your life - buying a home.

This free seminar is provided to you as a public service of the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of REALTORS. No individual REALTORS or real estate companies will be promoted, as this is a strictly informational program. You will receive an excellent packet of information and your questions will be fielded by the panel of speakers. Make your reservation today. Canned good donations for the Saivation Army will be accepted at the door.

Property management

Axiom Real Estate Management is the newly formed joint venture of Grubb & Ellis and IBM in which Axiom is providing property and facilities management for IBM. Axiom has inherited the former Grubb & Ellis national property management division and its network of offices in 26 markets across the country. IBM turned over 17 million square feet of its space to the new venture. The resulting 90 million square feet Axiom now manages makes it one of the largest property managers in the country. Grubb & Ellis is the parent company with 70 percent of Axiom. IBM owns 25 percent, and 5 percent is owned by Axiom's senior officers. Southfield is home to the Michigan headquarters and two satellite offices. Other Michigan offices are in Jackson, Birmingham and Troy. The main focus of the local business is office, industrial, retail and facilities management.

Bathrooms polish old, stodgy image

Once the hidden room, the bathroom is making its own fashion statement.

By Doug Funke STAFF WRITER

What is perhaps the most private room in the house is taking on a new dimension.

"The bathroom is not just a place to go and take care of business," said Bob O'Brien, general manager of Kurtis Kitchen & Bath Center in

"They are now the heartbeat of the house," said Mary Ellen Vigna, showroom manager of Classic Baths in Birmingham. "You have a lot of twoincome families who want something luxurious to relax in.

'One woman came in and said, 'My husband likes to sit in the tub and he has a telephone, TV and stero right

"Bathrooms aren't hidden in homes," Vigna added. "Whirlpools look out over a window and onto a wooded lot."

"People want a separate shower, a stall shower, and a whirlpool tub,' said Ellen Whitefield, marketing director for the Selective Group of Farmington Hills.

"When we do that, we try for a dramatic window around the tub," she said. "Sometimes, we'll do a window that's half round on top. Sometimes it will be decorative.

"If it (bath) is upstairs, we're in good shape. If it's downstairs, we'll do something with glass blocks where you can't see in or out but you can get light," Whitefield said.

Whether people use them (whirlpools) or not, they want them in the house," said Joyce MacLeish, a decorating specialist and vice president of a custom building company in Troy.

"Deck tubs are absolutely a must, a flat surface surrounding on at least two sides where you can set plants or towels." she said.

Sherry Wheeler, a Jacuzzi consultant for a plumbing supply company, has seen tremendous growth in whirlpool tub sales in recent years.

"Six years ago, we sold 451. Last year, it was 2,038," she said. "On almost anything over 1,200 square feet. it's mandatory.

John Bollan Jr., a Troy builder, doesn't necessarily find that to be the case, though, in his $159,000 to $190,000 price range.

"I kind of think my buyers find things more important to them . . upgraded windows, cabinet types, flooring, carpeting," he said.

Whirlpool prices vary according to size, material, jet stream and heating capacity. Wheeler's most popular standard model is six feet long, three feet wide and 20 inches deep lists for about $1,800.

But whirlpools aren't eyed only by buyers of new homes.

"A third of people coming by here ask about replacing an existing tub," Wheeler said at the recent International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show. "They don't want to knock out a wall, but they ask about what's available."

A five-foot whirlpool lists for as low as $600. Some rewiring may be needed to install a whirlpool in an older

Saftey concerns

"Another thing becoming very big in the '90s for bathrooms is safety," Vigna said. "People want grab bars and higher toilets.'

That only makes sense, she added, when you consider concerns about getting in and out of a higher tub and the increased possibility of straining muscles and the onset of arthritis with aging.

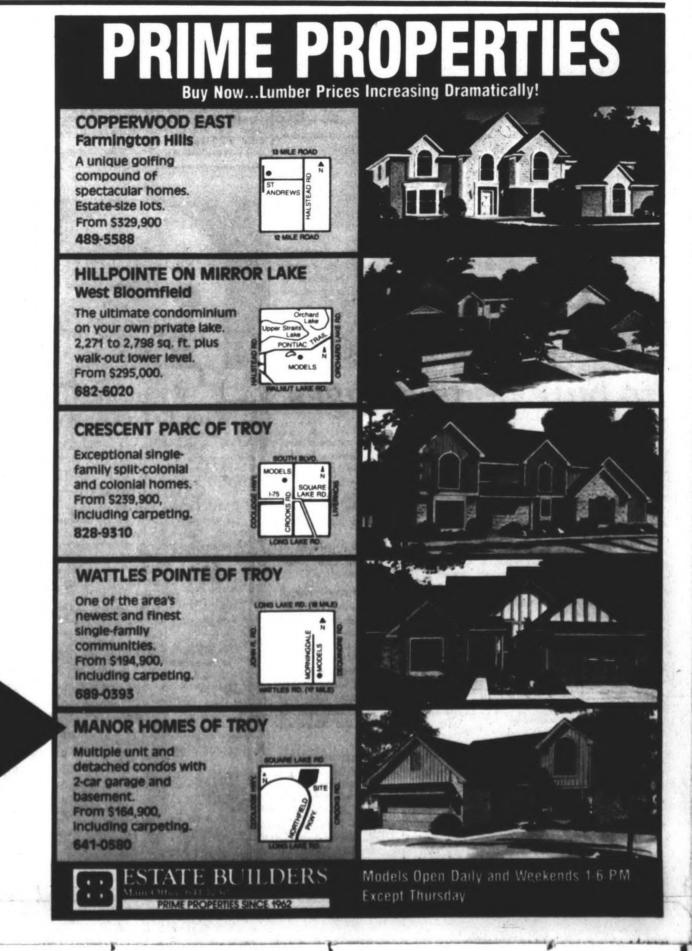

"The biggest population is over 50, isn't it?" Vigna said.

There are all kinds of available sink basin styles. "China holds up better," she said. I think the finish will stay on longer.

Luxury bath: Some homeowners prefer to relax in the lap of luxury. This master suite, built by Holtzman & Silverman in the Franklin Ravines Subdivision in Bloomfield Township, features a step-up tub, separate shower, double vanity, mirrors and recessed lighting.

Electronic zoning available for homes

Some people aren't as cool as others. The opposite is true, too: One person might be hot, while another reaches for a sweater.

Building Ideas magazine says it's rare when everyone in a household agrees on the optimal air temperature. Many people even like to vary temperatures from room to room. Unfortunately, most homes have a single thermostat to control the heating and cooling for the entire house.

What to do? Install electronic zoning, an advanced heating and cooling system allowing independent control of temperatures in each room or group of rooms. Though the concept has been used in commercial buildings for anv vears, affordable equipment (usually about $2,000 more than standard equipment) for homeowners has only recently reached the market.

The idea is simple. A thermostat or temperature sensor is installed in each zone, along with motorized dampers in the air ducts serving these zones. Activated by the thermostat, a duct's dampers open to allow heated or cooled air into a zone. When the temperature reaches a preset level, the dampers close. Each zone can be temperature tailored to fit you. These systems are a practical solution in homes of more than 3,500 square feet, where maximum comfort has often required installation of two heaters and two air conditioners.

A typical two-story house might have four zones: the living room and dining room; kitchen and family room; upstairs master bedroom suite and additional upstairs bedrooms.

Though electronic zoning is usually installed in new construction, it can be fitted to an existing house. Cost will be determined by how difficult it is for installers to gain access to a home's duct sys-

Electronic zoning made such economic sense to Tom Gabrilson, owner of Gabrilson Heating and Air Conditioning Co. in Davenport, Iowa, he installed it in his own home. "You wouldn't buy a house with one light switch, so why buy a house with one thermostat?" he says.

Effective zoning can save as much as 30 percent in fuel costs by heating or cooling only those zones that need it.

Some utility companies offer rebates for installing a zoning sys-

More efficient use means longer life for heating, ventilating and air conditioning equipment.

Larger homes may not require expensive tandem furnaces and air conditioners.

Thermostats can be programmed to cool or heat at those times of the day when rooms are generally occupied.

Some systems are so sophisticated, they will draw solar-heated air from one side of the house to the other without turning on the home's furnace.

Refinancing makes up bulk of mortgages

AP — The lowest interest rates in 20 years are spurring the highest volume of mortgage refinancings ever, a banking trade group said Thursday.

The Mortgage Bankers Association of America said its weekly surveys showed that refinancing activity, which has been on the rise for three months, reached a record during the week ended March 12.

At that time, the association's refinancing index stood at 1523.1, surpassing the previous high of 1428.4 set during the week of Jan. 17, 1992.

Refinancing means trading in existing mortgages with high interest rates for new loans with lower rates. That usually translates into lower monthly payments for homeowners.

Warren Lasko, association executive vice president, said refinancings saved homeowners $16 billion last year.

'We are projecting similar savings this year and this increase in spendable income should give a significant boost to our recovering economy," he said.

Refinancing activity has not been limited to homeowners. Businessmen and corporate leaders have been taking advantage of the low rates to cut interest costs. The Mortgage Bankers survey found that refinancing activity represented 62.1 percent of all mortgage applications during the latest reporting week. That was 3.4 percentage point higher than the previous week.

The remaining 37.9 percent of applications were for new mortgages to purchase homes.

Overall, applications totaled $4.1 billion during the week ended March 12, a 10.5 percent increase over the previous week and 112.9 percent above the comparable week a year ago.

In addition to making more money available to homeowners, the lower interest rates also have cut the mortgage delinquency rate, according to the Mortgage

They reported last week that the delinquency rate had fallen to 4.24 percent during the final three months of 1992, down from 4.60 percent during the July-September quarter and the lowest in 18

"The outlook for continuing improvement in delinquency rates is excellent," association President Herbert B. Tasker told a news conference.

'Another thing we have done which people have suggested is mirrors to the ceiling," MacLeish said. "It gives a volume look and people are willing to pay extra for that."

Buyers look for large mirrors and counter space in bathrooms, Bollan concurred.

Two separate vanities are very important for most people," said Janet Compo, a Farmington Hills builder. Other popular amenities include "walk-in closets for him and her and a dressing area intricately connected with the bath," she added.

"I don't think people are saying, 'I want to spend a lot of money,' "Vigna said. "They want value, something that's going to last."

"People are looking for some perk," she said. "We have a wall-hung vanity with a light underneath for some drama. It may be some special treatment for a countertop, marble or granite.'

"Budget definitely dictates a lot of this," Compo said. "Bathrooms are the most expensive rooms. There's a lot of plumbing and electrical connections.

Country flavor in a contemporary ranch

A farmhouse porch adds a dash of country flavor to the Toucan, a 11/2 story contemporary ranch style house designed for a family with older or grown children. The owners' suite is downstairs, leaving the upper rooms for children or guests.

Both upstairs bedrooms have skylights, vaulted ceilings and walk-in closets. A walkin linen closet is tucked into an alcove in the hallway and the skylit compartmentalized bathroom has twin vanities.

Descending the stairs into the high-ceil-inged vaulted entry you can enjoy the view through a dormer window above the front door. A plant shelf on top of a closet next to the woodbox provides a space to display art objects or hanging plants. Basement access is directly under the main stairs.

On the main level, vaulted ceilings give an open, spacious feeling to the large family living and entertainment areas. The tiled hearth, see-through fireplace provides a cheerful focal point in both the dining and living room. Slid-ing glass doors brighten the dining room and allow easy access to a small deck. Windows cover most of the bayed back wall of the kitchen, creating a bright, welcoming work area for informal gathering. Counter space is augmented by a central work island, and a walk-in pantry adds to the ample stor-age capacity. A small bathroom is between the kitchen and family room.

For a study plan of the Toucan (332-300), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, Or. 97402, specifying plan name

BEFORE THE PRESSURE OF BUILDING A HOME GETS TO YOU, CALL US.

Deadlines. Delays. Questions. Answers. If you're building a home, the last thing you need is a lender that adds to the pressure. At Great Lakes Mortgage Company, we don't. Unlike other construction loans, ours only require one closing, letting you lock in one interest rate through construction and after the home is finished. And our experience keeps things as manageable as possible. It's a big step. But we make it easy. Equal housing lender.

Layered Financing Strategy Overcomes Tight Real Estate Issue To Bolster Stonebridge Community

A creative financing strategy, borne out of economic necessity and involving numerous Ann limiting the amount that a bank could loan to $2 Arbor-area investors, has resulted in success for million from $20 million. Firstate was at $3.8 Stonebridge, the areas premier planned golf, million for Stonebridge and the new regulation course community located just south of Ann Arbor meant it had to be paid in full Stonebridge

The residential community and golf course, situated on 650 rolling acres of woodland amid strategy, use local investors and "lavered" takes and streams is in its second year of investments development with a variety of custom homes and golf view villas. The 18 hole golf course designed. local lending capacity. This direction drove them by renown course architect Arthur Hills, is in its second year of play and has already received national recognition. The course was recently ranked 17th in Golf Digest's 1992 survey of America's best new public courses, adn was ranked third among courses in Ohio and Michigan

Development of Stonebridge did not take place overnight however Rather it required the innovative financing strategy of "layering" to involve area investors in various segments of the project's development

Devised by Don Chisholm, president of the Vernon Development Company, which is building Stonebridge, the strategy enlisted the participation of area business and professional people and

Explained Chisholm In 1988, Myron Serbay and I were partners in Stonebridge We began to work with Firstate Financial, a savings and loan in Orlando Florida which had some experience in golf course communities and some familiarity with Ann Arbor

Bank regulations changed drastically in 1989. completed the payoff, by using the new financial

The Stonebridge partners sought groups with to the "layered" financial strategy, which said they would cut the entire project into smaller pieces with good loan-to-value ratios and prudent first mortgage collateral.

Chisholm's background included sound familiarity with the complexities of financing. 15 years on the board and loan committees of the former National Bank and Trust as well as four years of teaching at the University of Michigan Business School

He engaged First of America, with local expertise and authority for the first-phase development of roads, sewers and water on 110 acres

Michigan National was interested in a golf course loan only when the golf course was operating as a business. The problem how to get

A local investment firm. Beacon Investment, saw the ment of the development for the area and structured a conservative first mortgage financial package that would utilize funds from local

In late 1990, 30 Ann Arbor-based pension plans invested more than $5 million in Stonebridge Larry French and Sam Edwards of Beacon play an active role in supervising the program

In 1991. Ann Arbor Commerce Bank invested to help finish the golf course construction. Then Michigan National stepped up with the golf course

Now, the golf course is open for its second season and 10 of the areas best builders are building custom homes throughout phase I The Villas are being offered in 4 different, spacious floor plans and all border the golf course This summer Vernon begins their building of duplex townhomes, also with golf course views

The utilities for the first phase of 164 homes-sewer, water, electric, gas and cable television - have been installed through financing associated with the Town of Southfield special assessment bonds. Nine other property owners joined to form the West Side Utilities Consortium. in which the tax money was used and property owners pay all costs

Stonebridge is located 21: miles southwest of Briarwood Mall-take 1-94 to the State Street exit and head south on State to Ellsworth Turn right on Ellsworth and follow for a 12 mile to Lohr Road, turn left onto Lohr and Stonebridge is down 12 mile on the right. A Mix of Old and New

Two Story Great Room Soars to Open Balcony Above

This plan is designed to fit a narrow lot. The covered porch entrance is to a private fover with a commanding view to the second-floor bridge, the U-shaped stairway and to the spacious great room. The great room boasts soaring ceiling treatment, a fire place and deck

The extraordinary kitchen and dining room are to the rear of the plan with access to the sun deck and two car garage. A powder room and laundry facilities flank the garage

There are three large bedrooms shown for the second floor, the master including a tray ceiling and private bath. The remaining two bedrooms share a central bath. A crawl-space foundation is shown.

The country exterior is accented by multiple roof breaks, horizontal wood siding and a covered front

The plan is Number 477. It includes only 1,477 square feet of heated area and is drawn to comply with FHA and VA requirements. It is a computer-generated plan. For further information write W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA, 30345.

Exceptional Character Defines Luxury Home Plan

Spacious Two Story Entry Is Graced by an Open Stair

The great room and breakfast room are a full two stories high in this plan, and a view from the second floor is through an open rail in the upstairs central hall. The kitchen is designed with a breakfast bar room activity or the breakfast room, while the full formal dining room is separate for those formal gatherings.

complete with an enormous walk-in closet and private master bath with garden tub and shower The location of the master bedroom suite is intimate.

There are three additional bedrooms and two additional full baths included on the second floor. Each bedroom is provided with a walk-in closet

The impressive European exterior is achieved through decorative corner quoins, classic windows, gable roof design and stucco finish.

The plan is Number 2372. It includes 2,397 square feet of heated area, the upper foyer, activity and breakfast room adding another 636 square feet of volume It is a computer-generated plan All WD. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency For further information write W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA, 30345

"AWARD WINNING" NOVI SCHOOLS ...

At Chase Farms...presented with novi's most beautiful community award.

Chase Farms is a single family home community with sidewalks that is a must see for anyone buying a home. Four quality builders have made their mark in this countrylike setting with spectacular homes on estate-sized lots featuring side-entry garages. Chase Farms offers country charm, yet you're never far from the things you want and need including minutes from Twelve-Oaks Mall, access to 1-275 & 696 and within close proximity to MeadowBrook Country Club and numerous other golf courses. Come see for yourself why Chase Farms is everyone's "must see" community.
