Split board OKs tax-break plan

The Plymouth Township board of trustees has approved a new point system that will be used to award tax breaks to firms moving to the community. But trustee Ron Griffith opposes the measure, calling it like "kindergarten."

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

New guidelines on granting tax abatements to firms in Plymouth Township have been approved by the township board of trustees.

But at Tuesday's board of trustees meeting, at which the guidelines were approved by a 5-2 vote, one trustee spent several minutes criticizing the change.

"This penalizes companies that can create jobs for our community and economic wealth," said trustee Ron Griffith. "I don't like the taste of it and I'm opposed to it."

But supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy defended the guidelines, which award points to firms seeking tax abatements here if the firms meet certain criteria.

While the township has usually granted maximum 12-year, 50-percent tax abatements, the new guidelines suggest tax abatements for less than 12 years in some cases, depending on total points awarded to the request.

McCarthy said the new guidelines "help protect the residential community because taxes that aren't paid by the businesses are paid by the residents."

She said other communities also use a point system in determining a company's eligibility for receiving tax abatements.

Griffith challenged this. "It reminds me of going back to kindergarten," he said.

He also challenged the criteria on which companies would be awarded or denied points, including one by which a bigger company would get more than a smaller firm.

Rouge gets 2nd trout planting

The Rouge River system isn't known as one of Michigan's blue-ribbon trout streams.

But that could change. For the second year, the state Department of Natural Resources planted brown trout in the upper reaches of the river system that runs through Plymouth and Northville Townships.

Last year, about 4,500 brown trout were planted, and this year they were joined by another 5,000 across six sites.

"Brown trout are territorial," said Bob Laich, president of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs. "That means they stay pretty much where they were planted."

But when can anglers expect to try their rods on the trout? Not for a few years, said Laich, adding that the DNR is trying to get the fish to reproduce naturally before allowing a fishing season.

Homes to leave district

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Michael Homes, 53, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' assistant superintendent for instruction, will take the helm as superintendent of Fond du Lac Public Schools in Fond du Lac, Wis., Aug. 1.

Homes, who's been with Plymouth-Canton for 16 years, said he leaves with mixed emotions.

"After 16 years, I will miss our many friends and colleagues here in Plymouth-Canton; however, I'm eagerly looking forward to being superintendent in Fond du Lac," he said.

Homes will replace Fond du Lac Superintendent Al Osterdorf, who is retiring at the end of this school year.

"It has been a real pleasure to work in Plymouth-Canton because we have been able to be on the cutting edge of the many changes taking place in education," Homes said. "Fond du Lac enjoys a reputation for educational excellence similar to Plymouth-Canton. The challenge will be to build on this excellence. Meanwhile, through the balance of this school year, I'm looking forward to the work which needs to be completed here in Plymouth-Canton."

The Fond du Lac district is about half the size of Plymouth-Canton, with about 7,500 students. It's located at the end of Lake Winnebago within an hour's drive of Green Bay, Madison and Milwaukee.

Homes joined Plymouth-Canton schools in 1977 as assistant superintendent for instructional services, moving from a position at St. Louis Park, Minn., where he served as director of elementary education. Before that, he worked in administrative positions in Grand Ledge and Woodhaven. He began his career as an elementary teacher in Battle Creek. He's also been an instructor for Michigan State and Madonna universities.

Substitutes say new form invades privacy

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Substitute teachers in the Plymouth-Canton school district are upset about an administrative practice that they say amounts to an invasion of privacy.

The teachers are being asked to sign a "Consent to Release Information" form that says in part, "I hereby authorize educational institutions, employers, law enforcement authorities, organizations and individuals having relevant information concerning me to release all information from their files or other sources pertaining to my personal background."

The information can include "but is not limited to, academic and athletic achievement, attendance, personal history, disciplinary action, credit, police, or other records . . . for official use."

An accompanying letter sent to substitutes by Errol Goldman, assistant superintendent for employee relations, said a recently enacted state law, Public Act 99, requires districts to, "beginning with the 1993-94 school year, request and receive a criminal history record for every employee requiring state board approval, including teachers, substitute teachers and administrators."

Reason for form

"In an effort to avoid a cost to those substituting for the district, we enclose a form giving us permission to do the criminal history check. Note that the records check will only indicate convictions or arrests," Goldman wrote.

The district has used a criminal history check procedure for the last several years, but it hasn't been implemented for substitutes until now, according to Goldman.

Teacher Barb Masters retired from Plymouth-Canton schools after 26 years. Currently, she's substituting for six months as a favor to a friend.

In a letter to Goldman last month, Masters questioned the form's legality.

"I consider it an invasion of privacy," she said. "Secondly, I don't know if it's legal. Since I didn't receive a response, I would tend to assume they don't have a legal right to the information." Goldman was on vacation and unavailable for comment.

Golf benefit

Fox Hills Country Club hosts the 15th Annual Jimmy Varon Invitational-Amoco Dealers & Jobbers Against Cystic Fibrosis golf outing June 14.

The tournament was named for Varon, a Detroit News photographer who died at age 28 from cystic fibrosis.

Tournament day participants get a one-page ad in a program book, continental breakfast, golf scramble, lunch, dinner and mementos. The evening includes a live auction, casino gambling and raffle.

With test animals being successfully treated for this disease through gene therapy, human gene therapy is set to begin soon. Proceeds from this event could help fund that cure, according to the

White Cane Week

The Plymouth Lions Club announces that Friday marks the start of White Cane Week, and Lions will solicit donations on street corners and malls Friday and Saturday.

In observance of the week, school education assemblies on concerns of the blind will be conducted by three blind people Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. at St. Peter's Lutheran Day School, at 12:45 p.m. at Our Lady of Good Counsel School, and at 1:30 p.m. at Galimore Elementary School.

Guest readers

Local elected officials, judges, prominent business people and others are scheduled to take part in Great American Read Aloud Night from 3:30-7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library in conjunction with National Library Week.

The local "celebrities" will read from their favorite books to share the pleasure they get from reading.

The program is intended as a treat for all ages, especially children, and takes place in the library children's room.

Scholarship ball set for Thursday

The Woman's Club of Plymouth is celebrating its 100th anniversary by once again offering college scholarships to graduating high school seniors.

The annual event, held this year on Thursday at Plymouth Manor, honors the top students from Plymouth and Canton communities.

Last year, the awards totaled more than $6,200.

The first ball was held in 1983 and was such a success that club members decided to continue to hold it annually.

It is sponsored by The Plymouth Manor and The Plymouth and Canton Observer newspapers.

■ The program is for high school seniors whose parents live in the Plymouth-Canton community or own a business in the community. Students must be planning to attend college in the fall. Service to school, community and place of worship are also considered. All students invited are recognized at the Scholarship Ball. All are further honored as recipients of scholarships or merit awards. Financial need is not a consideration.

The program is for high school seniors whose parents live in the Plymouth-Canton community or own a business in the community. Students must be planning to attend college in the fall.

Students compete in several categories, and a student with a 3.35 grade-point average doesn't compete directly with a 4.0 student.

Service to school, community, and place of worship are also considered. All students invited are recognized at the Scholarship Ball. All are further honored as recipients of scholarships or merit awards.

Financial need is not a consideration, although the monetary awards do help students, an organizer said.

The scholarship and merit awards given to students at the ball are donated by individuals and businesses.

St. Joseph Mercy to honor volunteers

Two Canton/Plymouth residents are among several people being recognized for their volunteer efforts at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital during an April 28 awards banquet that will mark the 25th anniversary of the hospital's Volunteer Services Department.

"We have approximately 800 volunteers who assist patients and staff," said JoAnne Desmond, director of Volunteer Services. "Running the gift shop, delivering flowers, distributing communion, directing visitors, or talking to patients are just a few of the many invaluable services our volunteers provide. For the past 25 years people have generously donated their time to make patient stays more comfortable, and the hospital functions much more effectively due to their assistance."

Virginia Larmee and Rose Grace Faucher of Ann Arbor will receive awards for their 20 years of service to the hospital at the banquet, which is held during National Volunteer Month. Larmee and Faucher currently volunteer in the Pastoral Ministry Department.

Jacquelin Stack of Canton is among the following volunteers receiving recognition for 10 years of service: Virginia Harris, Mary Ackerman and Mary J. Hovey of Ann Arbor; and Shirley Brooks and Anita Henlein of Ypsilanti.

Betty Hayes of Plymouth is included among those receiving recognition for 1,000 hours of service. Others are Betty Southard and Betty Overall of Ann Arbor; George Jewett and Jean Weaver of Ypsilanti; Elaine Washburn, Charlotte Zabell, Bertha Lambert and Jean Lamont of Northville; and Rose Geiger of South Lyon.

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is a unit of the Catherine McAuley Health System, a not-for-profit health care provider based in Ann Arbor. Other CMHS units include McPherson Hospital in Howell, Saline Community Hospital, and outpatient facilities in Washtenaw, Livingston and western Wayne counties.

Canton police use 'sting' in booze crackdown

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

With high school prom and graduation season around the corner, Canton police are seeking cooperation from stores and restaurants in a beefed up effort to curtail underage drinking.

Beginning May 1, Canton police will begin a new liquor control enforcement program to prevent the sale of liquor, beer and wine, to anyone under 21 years of age, the state's legal drinking age.

"This is the first program we have set up and run like this," Capt. Alex Wilson said. "This isn't just because of graduation. There seems to be, in my opinion, more of an awareness of alcohol consumption by minors and drunk drivers."

The program is a two-pronged enforcement effort, including covert operations and inspections.

The police intend to use an underage decoy who will enter liquor-licensed establishments and attempt to buy an alcoholic beverage. "The underage decoy will behave in a prescribed manner that will enable us to issue violations," Wilson said.

If licensees or employees sell to the decoy, the licensee will be reported to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission. Violators will be charged under state LCC rules and regulations.

Penalties include warnings, fines, license suspension or revocation and shutting down the business. In the last five years, liquor licenses for two businesses were suspended by the LCC.

If police find repeat offenders selling to minors or a willfulness on the part of licensees or employees to sell to minors, criminal prosecution also will be considered, Wilson said.

"We are not going to issue any warnings," Wilson said. "Businesses can become a partner in this community effort by ensuring they are in compliance with all existing licensing rules and that their employees are aware of this requirement of the law not to sell alcohol to anyone under the age of 21."

The enforcement effort also will include inspections of the businesses. "Every establishment that sells alcoholic beverages is required to comply with certain regulations established by the LCC," Wilson said. "We have kind of waned over the years from doing inspections as much as we would like to."

Businesses were informed by letter recently of the planned enforcement effort.

YOUR FOOTPRINTS IN THE SANDS OF LIFE
Do not be alarmed if you find your shoe size changing from a B or C width to a D or E size. Feet only get bigger with time.
The reason is that as we age, the veins in our feet and legs lose their elasticity. Blood distends the venous channels, and tissues swell because fluid return slows. The effect of both changes is to cause feet to swell, i.e. become wider.
Often this change is so gradual, you do not notice it. Or, if your shoes are naturally of a pliable material, your footwear will give way to accommodate the change.
However, you may have foot pain if you must wear a fashionable shoe with a tapering toe design. The site of discomfort is either the outside edge of the foot at the base of the fifth toe or the inside of the foot where the big toe begins. If the swelling begins abruptly, you may feel pain on top of your foot and believe you are coming down with gout or possibly a fractured foot.
Before you make a doctor's appointment or consider an x-ray of your foot, try walking in a pair of comfortable sneakers. If your pain subsides, then you have made the diagnosis of aging foot.
Of course, seek a doctor's evaluation if your foot pain starts intensely, swells markedly, or does not let us with rest.

Fan returns opening-day find

STAFF WRITER

Like other Detroit Tigers fans, Alberto Medellin of Canton got a kick out of being on hand for the team's opening-day 20-4 drubbing of the Oakland A's.

But it was an action of his son that day which overshadowed the big Tigers win for Medellin.

That's because J.R., 12, a student at East Middle School, found a wallet stuffed with money in the stands as the game wound down. He didn't give a thought to keeping it, turning it over to his parents immediately.

For most, it may be one small story amidst the hoopla of opening day. But not for one dad.

"I'm really proud of what he's done," Medellin said.

"Even without flipping it open you can see money sticking out," Medellin said.

"My son's a Boy Scout; I try to teach him good values in life. He had no qualms. He just turned it over and off he goes again; he didn't give it a second thought," Medellin said.

"I'm thinking to myself, 'I worry about him sometimes, like any father,' and here's an example of a kid who's learned some values."

Medellin, who grew up near the stadium, used to clean off seats there as a boy. He and J.R. attend six or so games a year, and like to get players' autographs and pictures with the players. They have one showing J.R. with his arms around one of Cecil Fielder's biceps.

The Medellin family attended opening day with two neighbor boys. The afternoon included seeking celebrities' autographs before the game.

Father and son had attended an open house at Tiger Stadium the weekend before, and dad snapped a picture of Tigers owner Mike Ilitch with his arm around J.R. They found Ilitch on Tuesday, and he autographed the photo.

It was as the game was winding down when Medellin, who couldn't find a game program, asked his son to scan the emptying stands near the Tiger dugout for a program.

"I said, 'Let's see if we can find one on the floor somewhere.' He came back with this wallet with money sticking out of it and handed it over," Medellin said.

Medellin identified the owner from a business card in the wallet. He called and she picked it up Thursday.

Of J.R., Medellin said, "He's not tempted by doing the wrong thing."

Helping refugees: Peggy Haarz of Plymouth works with the Archdiocese of Detroit to help resettle refugees.

Social work student of year enjoys assisting refugees

Peggy Haarz of Plymouth is Madonna University's social work student of the year.

The mother of two and volunteer with the Archdiocese of Detroit's department of Christian service said her work for the church in refugee resettlement brings her closer to the original purpose of her chosen field.

"At the turn of this century, social workers had a lot more to do with immigration issues," Haarz said.

"The U.S. had more of an open border, and many people coming to our country needed special help adjusting. My experience has brought me nearer to the grass-roots movement that ultimately became the field of social work."

Haarz is scheduled to graduate with a bachelor of science degree in social work next month.

She recently completed an internship with the Archdiocese of Detroit's department of Christian service, helping refugees resettle upon arriving in the United States.

Haarz said she sought the internship to meet her desire to work in a parish setting, and to meet people from other cultures.

"Growing up in Plymouth is very monocultural; I needed a wider experience," she said.

"I really found that there is great diversity in life. We need to strive for understanding of one another."

Most people Haarz works with in the program are from Albania and Iraq. "After spending sometimes as many as five years in refugee camps before their arrival in the U.S., they often experience culture shock," she said.

"I help them with housing, clothing, and food; explain safety concerns; and, if they have one, work closely with their sponsor to make sure these needs are met."

The refugees have mixed feelings on coming to the United States. "They are happy for the opportunity for what faces them, but (experience) feelings of sadness for what they've left behind," she said.

Haarz also volunteers for the Michigan AIDS Hotline through Ferndale's Wellness Network.

Those with AIDS "are people at the prime of their lives, but many of them are marginalized in society and their value is minimized. I don't believe anyone in our society is disposable," she said.

Haarz plans to begin work soon on a master in social work degree at Eastern Michigan University.

Upon graduating, "I'd like to have a non-profit agency that addresses the needs of families and children," she said.

Committee on Mettetal Airport seeks questions from residents

Canton and Plymouth residents who want to express what they perceive as key issues about the proposed state purchase of Mettetal Airport are asked to contact a citizens committee.

Committee co-chairman Bruce Patterson of Canton said members are not interested in more opinions, but rather concern and questions about the issues surrounding the airport that residents believe are important.

Michigan Department of Transportation Director Pat Nowak told residents and Plymouth and Canton township board members in March that he is willing to hold off on the airport purchase until he hears from the citizens committee.

At its first meeting, April 14, the six-member committee identified issues related to the state purchase and planned to meet a May 14 deadline for a report that will go to Nowak. That report will present the pros and cons of issues surrounding the airport, including expansion, economic impact, and control and regulation. The committee, however, will not make recommendations about the proposed purchase.

Residents who would like to provide the committee with their views should send their comments to Canton Supervisor's Office, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, Mich. 48188, in care of Patterson or co-chairman Bryan Amann. Comments should be in the supervisor's office by May 1.

Other committee members include John Vergona, an airport proponent; Mark Merlanti, an airport opponent; Barbara Bergenty, president of the Canton Homeowners Association Advisory Council; and Margaret Slezak, a Plymouth Township resident.

Student station to broadcast speech by newspaper editor

WSDP will air a tape-delayed broadcast of the Canton Economic Club meeting from the previous week on Monday, April 26.

The Canton Economic Club meeting will feature a speech from Joe Stroud, editor of The Detroit Free Press. Stroud's speech is titled, "Children First — Making Them Our First Priority."

WSDP's broadcast is sponsored by Plymouth attorney Dennis Shrewsbury.

"We're excited to air the speech," said Bill Keith, WSDP station manager. "We see it as one way we can support the community."

WSDP is owned and operated by The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The station has been serving Plymouth and Canton since Feb. 14, 1972.

Canton reduces some assessments on farms

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton farmer Don Gill still isn't sure if he's going to appeal his property tax assessment to the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

"I'm debating. If I don't try to get relief this year, who knows what will happen next year?" said Gill, who owns 200 acres.

Gill was one of those many farmers who own land west of Canton Center Road who got hit this year with triple-digit assessment increases. Like his farming neighbors in western Canton, Gill appealed his 282-percent increase to the Canton Board of Review.

"I got a reduction. But it's still a 32-percent increase," Gill said.

According to Canton assessor John McLenaghan, the board of review had 1,051 appeals this year and gave $2.89 million in reduc-

'I got a reduction. But it's still a 32-percent increase . . . I'm committed to doing nothing else with (the land). We have had no one try to buy this land for over 20 years. In my opinion, a speculator will not buy my land. The speculator will hope I can't pay my taxes and he'll buy it at a tax sale.'

tions, including hardship cases. McLenaghan, of Wayne County Appraising Co., said assessments were reduced on about 100 properties west of Canton Center Road. "Individual parcels were looked at. There was no cut across the board," McLenaghan said, referring to the farmers.

Supervisor Tom Yack said he plans to meet with the assessor again to see how the farmers' land was reduced. "I believe substantial reductions were made based on information from the farmers and on sales information," Yack said.

McLenaghan said previously that the farmers' assessments were based on market value. "The master plan now reasonably reflects what is expected to happen there, and it's residential."

The language of the master land use plan — that triggered the increases — is something township trustees plan to study. A study session is planned.

"We'll be looking at the whole issue of classification, assessments, zoning and what was done in 1990 (with the master plan)," Yack said.

Farmers took exception to the fact that the assessor reclassified their agricultural property to residential for tax purposes. That's something Gill, for one, plans to appeal if he goes to the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

Gill, like many Canton farmers, operates with a government contract under Public Act 116, which locks him into farming the land for a certain number of years.

"I'm committed to doing nothing else with it," Gill said. And it's not like anyone is knocking down his door to buy the land. "We have had no one try to buy this land for over 20 years."

That's why Gill doesn't understand the reclassification of his property. "In my opinion, a speculator will not buy my land. The speculator will hope I can't pay my taxes and he'll buy it at a tax sale."

Yack said he's still studying the issue, including reclassification. "It's been the assessor's contention that he works off the market value and not necessarily does the classification work into it," Yack said.

But he and Loren Bennett, township clerk, and Elaine Kirchgatter, township treasurer, have met with the assessor. "We identified areas we thought could be improved as it relates to customer service," Yack said.

About 20 changes will be made next year, including appointments for those who wish to appeal, two boards of review, more evening sessions, and more computerization, Yack said.

Farmers, who first complained to township trustees about assessments in March, are still urged to file appeals with the Michigan Tax Tribunal even if they got reductions from the local board of review.

"If they would start an appeal with the tax tribunal, we would be able to meet with them again in hopes of settling the appeal," McLenaghan said.

Bennett urged farmers a week ago to file and meet with the assessor before the July tax bill comes out.

"It seems to me we should try to help the smaller business person develop," Griffith said.

He also challenged one criteria by which a firm never before receiving an abatement would get five points, and a firm that had would be assigned no points. "There seems to be no rationale to that at all," he said.

Among trustees defending the guidelines were K.C. Mueller and clerk Marilyn Massengill.

Mueller said the board should seek companies which want to stay in Plymouth Township long term, and let them know "we will reward them for doing so."

"This at least gives us a guideline or something to follow," said Massengill. She and other trustees favoring the guidelines stressed that they would not be used as the only measure of a firm's worthiness to get a tax abatement.

McCarthy said that in reviewing other communities' approach to offering tax breaks, there were some with written guidelines and some with unwritten guidelines.

Treasurer Mary Brooks also voted against the policy.

"I don't like tax abatements," she said, adding she only votes for them if a company is truly deserving.

Brooks said Plymouth Township is a nice enough community to attract firms without offering tax abatements.

Township officials have traditionally said offering tax breaks is a necessary evil, as they must compete with other communities that offer tax breaks for light industrial and research firms.

Masters said she empathizes with substitutes. "Most subs don't want to jeopardize their chances to get a job by taking a stand on an issue. If I were a young teacher trying to get a job, I might have a different way of feeling about it. I might feel a bit harassed."

"What organizations and individuals are they talking about? Does that mean they can go ask my neighbors about my personal life? No one has a right to look into stuff like that. That is Big Brother."

Walter Bartnick, administrative assistant for employee relations, said the district is simply complying with the law.

Following guidelines

"That's why we're doing it; because of the new Public Act 99 of 1992. It requires public and non-public schools to conduct criminal history checks of new teachers, school administrators, school psychologists, counselors and other personnel approved by the state. We're just following the guidelines. This is a standard form to release information that we use for everyone."

"All this is is protection for the school district for liability purposes," added Bartnick. "It wouldn't be done unless it met legal obligations, and it's not unlike the standard forms other school districts and businesses are using today."

Substitute teachers aren't represented by the Plymouth-Canton Education Association. But Tom Cotner, chief negotiator for the PCEA, agrees with Masters.

"That's what I think it is: an invasion of privacy. But there isn't much the PCEA can do because our members haven't been asked to sign anything like that."

Sensitive jobs

Because teachers do have sensitive jobs, Cotner said he wouldn't have a problem with a criminal history check. "But a credit history? What possible difference could it make to the district what the financial background of someone is? I think they have the subs in kind of a hammerlock, because they could blackball them if they don't sign."

A sub who asked not to be named vehemently opposes the district's action. "This seems to be an illegal type of request. But since we are not part of the bargaining unit of the PCEA, we're powerless. We have no representation and no rights."

"We sign on to a district and they can walk all over us. One sub said this is beyond what the Army requires for security purposes."

Public Act 99 says that beginning with hiring for the 1993-94 school year, districts must do criminal background checks on employees.

"The district or non-public school shall request from the criminal records division of the department of state police a criminal history check on the individual," the law reads.

"For an applicant for a position as a substitute teacher, instead of requesting a criminal history check, a school district may use a report received by another district to confirm that the individual does not have any criminal history."

A teacher found to have a criminal record may have his or her teaching certificate suspended, or revoked by the state board of education.

Language contained in the district's consent form is not included in the act.

"I'm happy for him," said Superintendent John Hoben, adding that he'll miss their long association.

"Mike will do a good job. He's conscientious and does exceptional detail work. He will gain experience in finance. The big issue is politics, and I don't know how you learn that, except to do it."

The fact that Homes and other Plymouth-Canton administrators have been sought out by other districts speaks well of Plymouth-Canton, Hoben added.

Asked whether Homes will be replaced, Hoben said, "not necessarily. We don't know yet. He doesn't leave until Aug. 1, so we have a long time to make a decision. I'm sure Mike will give us his full measure until then. That's the type of person he is."

Replacing Homes will be the board of education's decision, and a lot will depend on the district's financial situation, he said. The 1992-93 salary range for Homes' position is $78,604-$89,675.

"We will go with what we have, and do the best job we can," said Hoben.

Homes earned his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees at Michigan State University.

Homes; his wife, Lynne; and their sons, Mike and Matt, expect to move to Fond du Lac during the summer.

Now we're cooking: Schoolcraft College Chef Richard Benson, who is retiring April 30, shows student Megan Conley how to get it right the first time.

SC chef to be 'braised,' he's too tough to roast

STAFF WRITER

Ask Schoolcraft College chef Richard Hans Benson to talk about himself, and he expounds on the college's primo culinary arts program and the joy of teaching cooking.

Benson, who will retire from Schoolcraft April 30 after 26 years of employment enjoyment, is one of those lucky few people whose vocation and avocation coincide like sour cream and chives on a twice-baked potato.

"It's kind of like a job and a hobby in the same thing," he said. "You hate to go home some days. I don't like to leave because there's always something new going on."

Indeed, with possession of four of the country's 27 master chefs, the Schoolcraft kitchen is well-known for having "something new going on" most of the time. Graduates of the program, more than 4,000 of them taught by Benson, populate the kitchens of fine restaurants all over the Detroit area.

The students have likewise won several awards in cooking contests, often called "Culinary Olympics," and Benson thrills vicariously to an extent almost equalling the euphoria of the winners themselves.

Oh, what a feeling

"The feeling I get is almost as much as the feeling they get," he said.

Chris Moore is one of those award-winning students, having captured a silver medal at the last Culinary Olympics in Frankfurt, Germany. Benson loaned him the money to make the trip.

Moore, a chef at The Golden Mushroom in Southfield, said that Benson is the best cooking teacher he's ever had. "When (former students) come back to visit, they come back to visit this guy," he said, gesturing to Benson. "The man is full of energy. He never stops. Even when he was sick he was here."

Larry Janes, an Observer & Eccentric Newspapers food columnist, is also a big Benson fan. "He has been one of my mentors," Janes said. "Always has a smile. I've never seen him down. He will be sadly missed at Schoolcraft."

Born in Detroit in 1936, Benson found it exciting early to "cook in the kitchen with my mother" and later began formal training as a 14-year-old Chadsey High School student.

Mayors bash county juvenile program

STAFF WRITER

Five western Wayne County mayors plan to hand deliver a resolution to Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara detailing the massive misgivings the Conference of Western Wayne has for one of McNamara's projects.

The CWW, an alliance of 18 supervisors and mayors from western Wayne County, unanimously passed a resolution Friday regarding the way McNamara intends to spend money generated from one-tenth of a 10-year, 1-mill levy approved by voters in 1988.

The five mayors, including Westland's Robert Thomas and Plymouth's Robert Jones, will deliver the resolution to McNamara as soon as they can get an appointment.

Although the CWW doesn't have any legal authority as a public body, its opinions carry political clout because it represents more than one-third of the communities in Wayne County.

The original ballot language says the 0.1 mill money ($2.5 million a year) must be spent to "build and operate a juvenile offender work/training institution."

But McNamara intends to spend it on a program whereby non-violent juvenile offenders are dealt with in their homes instead of incarcerated in juvenile centers like the W.J. Maxey Boys Training School.

McNamara says he can do this instead of build a building because his lawyer says a "program" is the same thing as an "institution."

The CWW members believe that the legal opinion McNamara relies on is faulty. Northville Mayor Chris Johnson called it "a fairy tale."

The resolution passed Friday asks McNamara to put a ballot question to county voters asking if it's OK for him to spend that 0.1 mill money on programs instead of a building. Failing that, the CWW wants McNamara to give back all the money that has been collected so far, more than $10 million. Then each individual city and township could use its share of the money for local youth programs.

Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett, after reading the committee report on McNamara's program, said "the program as now outlined is not well-financed, not well-structured. I don't know that (McNamara) really knows what's happening."

Plymouth Mayor Jones, who was on the CWW committee that met with deputy executive Dale Jurcisin and youth services deputy director Lynn Burdell-Williams, said their "descriptions of the program were rather fuzzy." Jones also said he's unsure "whether (the money) is really being used for programs."

County Commission Vice Chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, claims that the 0.1-mill money is just being funneled into the county's general fund to help balance the budget, whereas it's supposed to be kept in a separate account. "We're on the horns of a dilemma all the way around," Beard said. "They've been scoundrels on this."

The resolution that the CWW passed Friday comes as a surprise because members seemed sold on McNamara's plan after he personally pitched it to them in February.

Both Livonia's Bennett and Dearborn finance director Keith Archer said Friday that they agreed with McNamara in February, but have since changed their mind.

"I did buy what McNamara told us," Archer said. "It sounded great to me."

Bright whites bring smiles

White butterflies in the air; White daisies prank the ground; The cherry and the hoary pear Scatter their snow around!

Robert Bridges
'Spring Goeth All in White'

Spring and summer whites — irresistible, crisp, pure, dazzling, romantic, soft, lacy, fresh. These are but a few of the descriptive words that come to mind when I contemplate my vision of the season's color (or non-color) of choice.

My idea of the perfect spring white can be as simple as a white wicker basket filled with daisies, or as elegant as a keepsake blouse fashioned of heirloom lace and cutwork linen.

I asked friends and neighbors and springtime shoppers to share their favorite sunny whites and their answers were varied and personal. White straw hats, peonies, garden roses, gardenias, cotton tees, wicker porch furniture, lace curtains and vanilla ice cream were but a few of their preferences.

What follows is a result of my search for some of the season's best examples of light, bright whites, those that bring a smile to the face and a prayer of thanks for sunny spring days and warm summer days to come.

For morning walks and afternoon picnics, a spring wardrobe essential is the sweater vest. We picture a lacy eyelet stitch tunic from Lisa Parks, 244 E. Maple, Birmingham ($285). This v-neck design, named "Mother & Child Reunion," is typical of Parks' one-of-a-kind hand-knit creations. Each of her exquisite sweaters is fashioned in unique shapes and exhibits finely knit details. They actually emit distinct personalities via their signature antique and custom-made buttons.

Micheline Wentworth is a Lisa Parks devotee who recently bought the style sweater we picture and touts its timelessness. "I'll have it forever," said the French teacher at Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills. "It's classic, yet fashion forward." She also bought one for her mom for Mother's Day.

More wonderful whites... Shiny white wooden porch swing complete with chain and hardware. Perfect for wiling away a spring afternoon with a good book. Crate & Barrel, Somerset Collection, ($129).

Large white ceramic platter emblazoned with a smiling sun. Eddie Bauer Home Collection, Twelve Oaks Mall, ($29).

Charming white knit romper with lace-trimmed sailor collar ($26). See this and other delicate whites for infants and toddlers at the brand new Jordan Marie children's shop in Twelve Oaks Mall.

Vintage 1950 glossy white bird cage ($295). This old-fashioned, ornate home for summer songsters graces the sidewalk outside Watch Hill Antiques, 330 Maple, Birmingham.

Comfy, cozy plush chenille robe for chilly spring nights ($48). Victoria's Secret, Fairlane Town Center.

Heirloom lace pillows. The lovable lamb wears a collar of pink roses ($90) and the graceful swan is elegant in snow white lace ($110). At The Coach House of Metamora, 429 N. Washington, Royal Oak.

Also at The Coach House, shop owners Greg Valenti and Sue Lindstrom demonstrate their exquisite work in a tall Victorian white wicker flower basket overflowing with antique cabbage roses, hydrangeas and hops ($395). I can't imagine anything more beautiful at a wedding ceremony or reception.

Crochet — a favorite this season. I spotted an intricately crocheted long-sleeve cropped sweater, in white of course, by Esprit at Hudson's in Fairlane Town Center.

Hand-embroidered fine linen and batiste handkerchiefs ($7-$200). A Touch of Lace, Ltd., 555 S. Woodward, Birmingham.

Soft white terry cloth tote. Carry this fluffy parcel to the pool or beach and unzip to transform into a generous 7 1/2-foot towel. By Susan Barry at Lisa Parks, 244 E. Maple, Birmingham. Now that the trees are budding and the bulbs are poking through the still-cool earth, welcome the season with your own selection of spring and summer whites.

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her your column ideas by dialing 953-2047, Ext. 1889 from your Touch-Tone phone.

Making a point: Nathan Forbes, of The Somerset Collection in Troy, predicts the shopping center will succeed because it does not try to be all things to all people.

Retailer warns:

Malls must find their '90s niche

Before they renovated the old Somerset Mall, Frankel/Forbes/Cohen had a plan: just bring in the best.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

To survive in the 1990s and beyond, shopping centers must specialize, and not try to be all things to all people, warned developer Nathan Forbes.

On the occasion of the Somerset Collection's six-month birthday, Forbes discussed the center's success story with the Fashion Group International's Detroit-area chapter.

Forbes is a partner in Forbes/Cohen properties, co-owners of Troy's upscale shopping center along with Frankel and Associates. He told a sell-out crowd of interested fashion retailers that the days of shopping center grand openings are over.

"The department store industry has taken on a new shape in the last five years," he said. "Too much debt has forced stores like Macy's, Marshall Field's, Saks, the Federated Department stores which included Burdine's, Bullock's and I. Magnin's to reorganize. They had to sell their successful stores to raise capital. The future will be in expansion and renovation of existing successful centers."

Just like The Somerset Collection. Since its renovation and reopening in the fall with exclusive-to-Michigan stores like Tiffany's, Crate and Barrel, and Barneys New York, sales have been strong.

"The last six months have been difficult for everyone in retailing," Forbes said. "There is the threat from off-price competitors like Walmart and Kmart which plan to build shopping centers that hold their own stores like Sports Authority, Builders Square, Borders and Walden bookstores. Suburban areas are reaching their retail saturation point."

Discount centers like those in Birch Run, Monroe and West Branch also pull shoppers dollars. Forbes said these centers serve as dumping grounds for seasonal goods that don't sell. They allow the manufacturer to mark down old merchandise, but not as drastically as a department store would at clearance time.

In planning the "new" Somerset Collection, Forbes said his team sat down and discussed how to take the tony center to the next level of merchandising without jeopardizing the clientele they had.

"We pre-identified the retailers we wanted to bring to Michigan, then we worked out the economic deals," he said. "When they punched Michigan Zip Codes into their computers, these sales figures did the talking. Michigan sales from catalogs and Chicago stores impressed them. It was easy after that. The Detroit market is misunderstood. We've been overlooked."

The Frankel/Forbes/Cohen plan for Somerset also included an architectural renovation that extended the charm and classic beauty of the nearby Cranbrook educational community to the interior of the mall. The stone and wood used in the renovation was copied from Cranbrook.

"At the Somerset Collection we've found our niche and we won't deviate from that niche. We won't try to be all things to all people. We're focused," he said.

Forbes admitted the need for more restaurants, a card shop and a music store within Somerset Collection. He took a bow over the addition of J. Crew and Crate and Barrel to the Somerset Collection, agreeing that these stores provided the center with "a broader customer base without sacrificing the high taste level."

Forbes, 30, graduated from the University of Michigan with a degree in communications. He studied retail every chance he could, he explained.

"I read rental contracts, trade publications and interviewed the staff of my father, Sidney Forbes. He started in the business at 26 with his partner. Their first project was the Universal Mall in Warren."

Sydell Schubot of Schubot Jewelers, stood to thank Forbes for "bringing quality and high style to our area." Her comment met with a burst of applause.

Cop fight

Sheriff foiled as deputies join airport police

STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano's worst dream came true Friday as Metro Airport Director Robert Braun started taking away Ficano's cops.

With the final details ironed out in the labor agreements, Braun began swearing in sheriff's department officers as official Detroit Metro Airport Police Officers.

Most of the 95 sheriff's department officers assigned to Metro were expected to switch over to the airport police at press time.

Braun said it was necessary to form the airport police because Ficano had been interfering with Braun's authority over the airport deputies as laid down in federal law.

"(The officers) have a stressful enough job without having to worry about who they work for," Braun said.

Ficano has opposed the airport-police plan all the way, calling it a power grab by county Executive Edward McNamara.

Nancy Mouradian, Ficano's chief of staff, says McNamara's aim is to get revenge on Ficano for beating Redford resident Kevin Got cops: McNamara gave the final OK Friday to establish a separate police department under his control for Metro Airport.

Lost cops: Ficano says McNamara is playing politics with public safety.

Braun said he wouldn't have started swearing in airport police officers "if we weren't confident this was within our legal authority."

Metro Airport now becomes the 13th of the 19 largest airports in the country to form an airport police department.

Braun said that he wanted to get the airport police established in a hurry because Ficano was escalating his alleged threats to the officers.

The sheriff has already gone on record in a March 16 letter to county commission Chairman Arthur Blackwell saying that "current members of this department electing to join with this newly formed agency will lose all rights to transfer back to the Sheriff's Department."

Braun is confident the officers will be able to transfer back and forth between the airport police and the sheriff's department, citing union contracts and county ordinances.

The two sheriff's department union presidents, Bob Sheldon of Local 3317 and Don Cox of Local 502, say Ficano has issued the same threat, and others, verbally to the deputies in various meetings of late.

Kelley (whom McNamara heavily supported) in the Democratic primary for sheriff last year.

Making himself unavailable to reporters, Ficano issued the following statement: "It is regrettable that the county executive has chosen to play politics with public safety and with the career path of nearly 1,000 officers. He has absolutely no basis for this move other than wanting to play sheriff."

Mouradian said the fight isn't over, but didn't get specific about what Ficano will do now. "I'm very confident there is much more to come," she said.

Humane Society plans 'Mutt Derby' race

The Michigan Humane Society will hold its eighth-annual "Rosey's Grand Mutt Derby" Sunday, April 25.

Dogs can compete in five categories according to size. The races begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Michigan State Fair Coliseum. The dogs will run 60 yards to their owners, who will be waiting at the finish line calling.

Preregistration is requested for the event. Entry fee is $6 per mutt. Entry forms are available at Humane Society shelters in Detroit, Westland and Rochester Hills, and at the society's Paw Pourri Gift Shop in Royal Oak. General admission to the mutt bowl is $3 for anyone 12 and older. Everyone else gets in free. Proceeds will help fund Humane Society programs.

Volunteers at St. Mary provide vital services

Health care is the fourth largest volunteer sector in the U.S., with 24 million people volunteering in the field.

And the health care professionals at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia are assisted by more than 135 volunteers — one of the largest volunteer groups in service in the area.

In recognition of National Volunteer Week (April 18-24), St. Mary Hospital salutes its corps of volunteers who logged more than 30,000 hours in 1992, said Sherri Fletcher, director of volunteer services.

The hospital volunteers range in age from 18 to 92, include both men and women, and come from area communities such as Redford, Plymouth, Canton, Westland, Garden City, Northville, Farmington, Wyandotte, Belleville, Novi, Dearborn, and Dearborn Heights, as well as Livonia.

"Many volunteers feel they have something to give back to the hospital and the community, and they give back by volunteering. Young people who are aspiring to the medical profession come to the hospital looking for experience," said Fletcher. "Students receive an introduction to the medical field they wouldn't receive until later on."

Volunteers serve 42 areas of the hospital in various positions — from visiting patients and assisting with clerical work to an artist painting for patients waiting for radiation therapy treatments. Some, like Maurice Chateauvert, believe volunteer work is a vital part of their life.

Chateauvert, 68, of Garden City has served as a volunteer in admitting/registration for about a year. He helps out with mailings and transports patients to their hospital destinations.

"We talk about the weather, kids, or whatever they're interested in," said Chateauvert. "It helps alleviate their fears or stress."

Why did he decide to become a volunteer? "I retired, and I had the time. I wouldn't give it up for anything in the world."

His daughter, Denise Kaetz, a registered nurse in the emergency department at St. Mary, encouraged her father to try volunteering after retirement.

"It has made me appreciate my own good health to talk with people who have medical problems," said Chateauvert. "In fact, I'm thinking about devoting another day to volunteering. The staff is friendly, and they really make the volunteers feel at home."

While volunteers won't be found administering clinical care, their contribution to the daily hospital routine makes a monumental difference, Fletcher said.

"Their commitment to the patients, staff, and employees is an addition that is not only cost-effective but adds a warmth that exemplifies St. Mary's philosophy of quality care."

"Volunteer rewards are generated by service and commitment — unselfishly given. Our volunteers bring community spirit into the hospital and take the spirit of St. Mary out into the community."

Special Olympics program celebrates many successes

BY JANICE JONES
SPECIAL WRITER

Fourteen-year-old David West of Canton wants to be a pitcher for his softball team.

And thanks to the Plymouth-Canton Special Olympics, he'll probably get his wish. This year marks the 25th anniversary of Special Olympics, and the 15th year for the Plymouth-Canton group.

Many mentally, physically or emotionally impaired athletes are unable to participate in regular school sports programs. Special Olympics gives them a chance to compete with their peers.

David's mother, Shari West, said, "The motto of Special Olympics is, 'Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt.' They (the athletes) give their all."

"It's competitive, but there's a lot of camaraderie," said Gail Bowers, track and field coach. "It's about doing your best and feeling good about it." This year Bowers will take 21 athletes to the state games at Central Michigan University, to be held in early June. Bowers' 14-year-old son, Sean, is entered in the 100 meter, the 200 meter, and the relay races.

Besides track and field, the 66 athletes in Plymouth-Canton's program can participate in softball, bowling, basketball and swimming. Athletes are grouped according to their abilities. The softball team won the gold medal at the state games last year, and the basketball team took the silver this year.

Bowling

"I like the bowling because I get to be with my friends," said 14-year-old special Olympian Carrie Schilling of Canton. "At first I didn't like it because it was hard to roll the ball. Now it's my favorite thing to do." Carrie is also a member of the swim team.

"When I win, I feel happy," she said. When asked how it felt to lose, Carrie said, "I feel sad, but happy, too. I tell my friends, 'I'm glad you won.' I give them a hug and a high five."

Carrie's mother, Valerie Schilling, said, "Special Olympics has helped with Carrie's self-esteem and provided a social setting where she can meet other people. We can be walking through downtown Plymouth and people who know Carrie from Special Olympics will stop to talk to her, making her feel she's a part of the community."

Jim Gusfa, one of a core group of parents who founded the Plymouth-Canton group, said, "The games aren't only for the athletes and parents, but for the observers and volunteers as well." Volunteers, called huggers, meet with a participant prior to the event. The hugger fires up their athlete at the starting line, then waits at the finish line to greet them and give them a hug. These personal cheerleaders participate both emotionally and physically by jumping up and down, shouting their athlete's name, and trying to outdo the hugger next to them.

Hugger helps

"Some athletes have difficulty finishing an event," Gusfa said. "The enthusiasm of the hugger is there for the one who comes in last, as well as for the winners."

Gusfa's daughter, Lauren, was a special Olympian until her death two years ago, but he continues to volunteer his time to the group.

"None of our monies go to pay any of the staff," he said. "Our monies go totally to pay for athletic equipment, uniforms, transportation to and from events, and residence facilities for the three-day state competition. We're a small-budget operation."

While local service organizations provide some financial support to Special Olympics, parents and volunteers work hard to raise enough additional funds to keep the program going. West is donating the proceeds of her garage sale.

Another mother gives a percentage of the profits from her business. Other fund-raising activities have included selling coupon books and calendars, and holding bottle drives and bowl-athons. Gusfa even gave a party at his house for the purpose of raising money for Special Olympics.

Donations needed

"In the last three years or so, the effect of the economy has hurt us drastically," Gusfa said. "Some of the organizations that have helped us in the past have had to tighten their purse strings."

In addition to financial support, the Plymouth-Canton group needs volunteers. "If it weren't for the volunteers, we couldn't operate the program," Schilling said.

Volunteers get something back from the athletes. Said Schilling, "When you see someone who can barely walk, struggling to get across that finish line, and all the other special Olympians stand up to cheer them in, the enthusiasm is catching."

The next event for the Plymouth-Canton group is the county games to be held on May 7 at Franklin High School in Livonia. Special Olympics are open to the mentally, physically or emotionally impaired, age 8 and up, including adults. To make a contribution, volunteer, or get more information, contact Jim Gusfa, 44815 Deer Run, Plymouth 48170.

Subsequently, Benson spent three years cooking simple meals for 1,000 Marines at Camp Pendleton near San Diego, Calif. Returning to Detroit in the late 1950s, Benson found work teaching cooking at his old high school, then switched to Schoolcraft in 1967, lured by the founder of the college's culinary arts program, Robert Breithaupt, who taught Benson how to cook at Chadsey.

Chez Dairy Queen?

Along the way, Benson has owned two restaurants, the first being a Dairy Queen in the days before those stores sold anything more than ice cream and milkshakes. "I was one of the first (Dairy Queen owners) to have food," Benson said. "I could see an opportunity to make more money selling hamburgers and fries along with the milkshakes."

In 1985, Benson partnered up with a few former students and opened Park Haus, a German restaurant in Northville. Today, the restaurant is under new ownership and known as Riffle's.

Two months ago, Benson opened his third restaurant and catering business, Benson's Marion House, in Howell. Technically, he's retiring from Schoolcraft, but realistically the 56-year-old chef is trading one job for another and perhaps proving that those who teach, can often do, too.

Benson refers to the career move as "retiring to work more."

Watching Benson flit about the Schoolcraft kitchen, dispensing wisdom regarding everything from meatloaf to twice-baked potatoes, it's obvious that he's an incurable culinary aficionado. "Like any other artist, you have to have a love for what you're doing," he said.

Judging by his circumference, it's easy to conclude that Benson enjoys more than just the aesthetic artistry of his student's creations.

"You have 50 students coming to you every day saying, 'Here, taste,'" he said. "Eight hours a day I have to taste, taste. My problem is that I swallow it all."

Benson will be honored with "The Chef Benson Braise, because he's too tough to roast" beginning 4 p.m. Sunday, April 25, at Schoolcraft's Waterman Center. The event includes chili tasting, champagne and roast tenderloin dinner. Tickets are $25. For more information, call 462-4417.

Park walk features wildflowers

The 16th-annual wildflower walks on the nature trails of the Livonia Bicentennial Park will be held on selected dates between now and May 29.

Individuals and groups such as scouts, garden clubs, retirees, churches, or any other organizations are welcome. Call Roger Sutherland at 668-8568 to set day and time.

The 45-minute tours are free and cover about 50 percent of one mile. Tours are conducted by Schoolcraft College teachers and people who have taken a wildflower class at Schoolcraft.

Bicentennial Park has more than 35 species wildflowers. It's located on Seven Mile between Newburgh and Farmington roads.

S'craft recycles

College says participation high

STAFF WRITER

Joining an ever-expanding roster of organizations that would rather preserve trees than fill landfills, Schoolcraft College has recently begun a paper recycling program.

Since October the college has been collecting cardboard for recycling, and now officials have added white paper to the list of material to rescue from landfills.

"I don't know if it's saving money, per se, but that's not our goal," said college spokeswoman Sandra "Sam" Florek. "(And) everybody has been very interested right from the start."

Bob Wielechowski, the college's director of physical plant, said he hopes the recycling effort can reduce the number of trash pickups from five days a week to three, which would save money.

Since October the college has been collecting cardboard for recycling, and now officials have added white paper to the list of material to rescue from landfills.

The recycling collection bins have been placed in all of Schoolcraft's offices, and participation is high, Florek said.

However, minor problems have arisen over the shape of the bins. "We don't like the bin itself," said an employee who requested anonymity. "It's like a wastebasket, and the paper doesn't fit in it properly."

In the office where this employee works, they've taken to setting the bin on its side so as to stack the paper inside.

Oakland Community College and Oakland University also have recycling collection systems. Like Schoolcraft, OCC collects white paper for recycling, but has been doing so for three years. This year OCC is adding polystyrene, aluminum, tin, cardboard and newspapers.

College spokesman George Cartsonis said the cost is $50 a month per campus, but that will be more than made up for in reduced garbage hauling costs.

The OCC program is expected to be in place at all five campuses and the administration center by September.

Oakland University plans to begin collecting white paper beginning in August or September.

POINTS OF VIEW

Travelers find economic stress a beastly show

The beauty and the beast is more than just an entertaining movie; it's an apt description for the way we live.

Two colleagues besides myself were struck by this phenomenon as we traveled in recent weeks from points ranging from New York to Vietnam. The New York visitor and I enjoyed man-made creations: She scouted out museums and scoped plays. I rolled out of bed each morning, sniffing the daffodils at my bedside, to hunt for Virginia antiques or wander about the wonders of our nation's capital.

She had a good time, she said, "but, oh, the homelessness." I winced, remembering the man who cringed under a tarp next to a statue in a D.C. park. It was raining. Hard. And at the time it seemed hard to justify my purchase of a perfectly useless piece of old furniture that I had to have.

The Vietnam veteran made his second return trip to the country, on a tour that included remarkable scenery and visit to a countryside monastery. Unlike the two of us, however, his mission was to take a group of physicians, showing them the conditions in the "country of children."

"No matter how bad you saw it," said veteran Steve Barnaby, O&E managing editor, "it wasn't as bad as it is in Vietnam."

Country of children

That's where most of the people we fought are dead, either from the war or from natural causes, according to Barnaby. Hence, he calls it a "country of children" and doesn't understand why the U.S. continues its embargo, prohibiting trade with the population of 70 million. Exports could include oil, minerals and "enough food to feed all of Asia."

Health care is "just unimaginable," he said. "People die prematurely and unnecessarily. . . . The worst case scenario here would be better over there."

The biggest problem is in the countryside, like mountain village tribal communities, which are so remote due to a crumbling infrastructure. Unfortunately, malnutrition is also a problem due to lack of roads and cultural practices, Barnaby said.

"They're just learning how to live together," he added, noting that 1975 was the first time the country was united.

Unlike travelers to other destinations, Barnaby is trying to do something about the situation. He has warehoused $1 million in donations of medical equipment for Vietnam, but it's just sitting there, waiting for a winged angel(s) with about $100,000 to help send it there.

Not many of us have that kind of resources to tap, nor do we have to travel far afield to find the need for our help.

Homelessness here

Detroit's COTS shelter director Che'row Johnson notes that the problem of homelessness is not just a winter phenomenon somewhere else. "It's year round. A year or so ago it (homeless residents) was up in the hot summer months (over winter)," she said.

Just this one shelter served 5,000 homeless persons last year, she added. However the face of the person in their program is changing. Their intake statistics show a decrease, but that's deceiving. While the previous length of stay used to be 13 days, it's now 33 days. Other shelters let the homeless stay for just one day before having to leave for a day. COTS lets a person stay as long as the person is "actively pursuing housing."

The economic climate has changed those who are homeless and coming into the shelter. Many are single because there are other programs for families. About 50 percent now have General Education Degrees, high school degrees or some college, Johnson said. There is even a "percentage with Ph.D. and master's degrees or a 22-year work history of employment who have lost their job. If there is no paycheck . . ."

COTS offers a learning center, a PALS literary center, child care center, job search program and a seven-unit transition center for families teaching budgeting and parenting skills.

While COTS relies on grants and city, state and federal funding sources, donations also play a big part of its budget. It does have a wish list, said

Johnson, which includes such small items as diapers, hygiene supplies and clean underwear for adults and children. Most clothes, however, aren't needed because the shelter already receives that.

Truth is, what they could use most is money. It's like this, Johnson said, "someone could go out and spend $8.99 on diapers when we could go to another company and have some money left over." Contact Sister Cecilia, director of hospitality, at 831-3177, or send monetary donations to 26 Peterboro, Detroit 48201.

There are a lot of definitions to beauty. For me, there was real excitement at seeing someone putting in a dock on silvery Orchard Lake last week. And the antique is sitting out of harm's way. But whatever beast drove the man under the tarp in D.C. to homelessness may be with him still. There may not be anything I can do about that; closer to home, however, there are other beasts to slay.

April brings new season for trout, outdoors show

It never does much good, but I go anyway. The trees are bare, the rivers cold, and sometimes snow is still in the woods. But the last Saturday in April is special; it's the opening of trout season.

You hope to spot a rising trout, but the only thing that comes to the top is the foam on the beer you order at the nearest tavern, where you've gone to console yourself. You wonder if the real reason for trout fishing is to give you an excuse to spend a Saturday afternoon in a northern Michigan bar without your wife.

Whatever the reason, suburban Detroit fly fishermen are going to be better armed to do battle with the salmonids this year because of a radio show put together by Farmington Hills resident Joe Derek.

Derek, a naturalist outdoor educator and fly fisherman, is doing something new with a radio show, "Naturally Michigan Afield," which airs from 10-11 a.m. starting Wednesday on AM radio station WCAR, 1090-AM.

He's trying to take the products out of the reporting and produce a show that will appeal equally to the bird watchers and the bird hunters. "It's time to quit bickering," he said. "If we don't get the nature buffs together with the hunters and fishermen, we're going to lose what we all love."

He's right. Bird watchers and nature buffs are folks who have been able to give up their lust for blood, unlike folks like me.

And when it comes to overbuying gear to satisfy that lust, I'm guilty. I spend my winter Saturday mornings tuned to fishing shows on ESPN.

Most outdoors shows are a showcase for products. You've seen them. Joe Bonehead, a former NFL lineman, looks at the camera, holding a large fish, and says: "I never could have done it without my Bozo reel."

Such outdoors shows create the impression that if you don't have your vest stuffed with at least $500 worth of gear, you won't be able to catch that two-pound trout that sells for about $3 in the grocery store.

Derek is on a crusade to straighten things out. It's probably a losing battle. Fly fishing has become trendy, especially this year with the Robert Redford movie, "A River Runs Through It."

My own spending on piscatorial pursuits keeps the Visa to the max. There are waders, flies, the rod from L.L. Bean, a fancy wooden landing net, numerous silly hats and a vest filled with tools.

But I'm changing my ways, thanks to my son, John. It started on an Upper Peninsula river. My kid was 11 years old then and didn't like to be bothered with too much gear. He asked: "Have you ever caught a fish without a rod?"

As I prodded my bourbon-soaked brain for an answer, the kid pulled a brook trout out of the river without the use of his rod. All he used was a $1.25 fly and about 15 cents worth of fishing line.

Fancy landing nets that sell for up to $50 also aren't part of John's fishing outfit. He'll never be a cover boy on an Orvis catalog. He reached in the water, unhooked the fish and let it loose.

Fishing stories like that don't often make it on outdoors programs or into magazines. They don't sell equipment. But they'll be making it onto Derek's program.

But because he has to pay the bills — this isn't National Public Radio — there are sponsors. They include Backyard Birds, Wild Wing Galleries and Panetta's Landscaping of Livonia.

Let's just thank the hunting and fishing gods there are folks around like Derek and his sponsors. We need some honest reporting on this beat, and somebody who can get the nature buffs and hunting and fishing people together.

Madonna program helps LPNs get nursing degree

Madonna University will have two information sessions at 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Thursday, May 6, for licensed practical nurses interested in getting bachelor's degrees in nursing.

Interested LPNs need attend only one of the sessions.

Because LPNs can skip some of the required classes by taking proficiency exams, it's possible to complete the nursing course requirements in five part-time semesters.

Tuition for nursing students is $180 per credit hour. For more information, call 591-8320.

DIA seeks area volunteers

The Detroit Institute of Arts is looking for volunteers to join the Art to the Schools Committee.

Committee members will train with the DIA's department of education staff, then pass along their knowledge to area school children in grades four, five and six.

Applications to join the fall class are now being taken. Call 833-7975.

Significant other lupus series scheduled

Are you a "significant other" of a lupus patient? Then you can join other family members and friends of lupus patients at a four-session series to be offered in Garden City beginning Monday, April 26.

The series will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Garden City Hospital Medical Office Building, North Inkster Road between Ford Road and Warren roads. Advance registration is required, and there is a voluntary registration fee of $15 for individuals or $25 for two or more for the entire series.

The series explores such questions as do lupus patients really feel that bad, what are appropriate expectations, must the lifestyles change and why does the partner lose interest in sex.

The series is for significant others only not lupus patients.

Sponsored by the Michigan Lupus Foundation, the sessions will have Dr. Larry Silve, a rheumatologist, and social worker Donna Oram as leaders.

Michigan Lupus Foundation Add 1

Lupus is a chronic, inflammatory, auto immune disease in which the body's defense system, instead of serving its normal protective function, forms antibodies that attack healthy tissues and organs.

Common symptoms include joint pain, low-grade fever, chest pain, unusual swelling, fatigue and sometimes a sun-sensitive rash. These symptoms are chronic — they come and go over a long period of time. The majority of patients have symptoms 3-10 years prior to diagnosis, and many have been labeled chronic complainers.

If not controlled, lupus can be life threatening. Because the characteristics and course of lupus may differ significantly among people, a thorough medical evaluation and ongoing medical supervision are essential to ensure proper diagnosis and treatment. Although there is yet no cure for lupus, medical treatment can usually control the disease. While persons of any age and sex can be affected by lupus, the majority of lupus patients are females. Between the ages of 13-45, lupus strikes one in 400 white women and one in 250 African-American women.

To register for the series or for more information, contact the Michigan Lupus Foundation at 26202 Harper Avenue, St. Clair Shores 48081, or call 775-8330.

ROLL CALL REPORT

Local reps, except Knollenberg, OK Clinton budget

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending

HOUSE

Committee spending OK'd: The House voted 224 for and 196 against to approve the 1993 committee funding resolution (H Res 107). The $52.3 million budget is down 5 percent from last year, but covers four fewer committees because special panels of narcotics, hunger, aging and children were abolished on April 1. The measure funds about half the cost of staff salaries and other expenses for 22 panels. Remaining committee costs are covered by the legislative branch appropriations bill. Supporter Norman Mineta, D-Calif., said "trying to make a big deal out of cutting this resolution is like trying to lighten the load of an airliner by emptying the ashtrays." Opponent John Boehner, R-Ohio, said "the only reductions in this bill are as a result of the four select committees that were allowed to expire."

A yes vote was to approve the resolution. Area representatives voting yes were: Bob Carr, D-Pontiac, Dale Kildee, D-Flint, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, William Ford, D-Ypsilanti. Voting no: Joseph Knollenberg, R-Birmingham.

Committee cuts rejected: The House rejected, 171 for 246 against, a Republican bid to cut the $52.3 million committee budget (above) by 25 percent across the board and give Republicans a higher proportion of committee staff slots.

A yes vote was to reduce House committee funding by 25 percent. Area representatives voting yes were: Knollenberg. Voting no: Carr, Kildee, Levin and Ford.

Final budget OK'd: By a vote of 240 for and 184 against, the House gave its final approval of President Clinton's five-year program (H Con Res 64) to retool the U.S. economy. All but 15 Democrats supported him, Republicans unanimously opposed him.

The plan is for Congress to enact massive spending slowdowns, entitlement curbs and tax hikes to slow the growth of red ink by nearly $500 billion over five years. Still, the national debt would swell by 25 percent to over $5 trillion in fiscal 1998. In annual terms, Clinton would reduce the $302 billion 1993 deficit he inherited to $193 billion in his fourth year as president.

A yes vote supported the Clinton economic plan. Area representatives voting yes were: Carr, Kildee, Levin and Ford. Voting no: Knollenberg.

Debt ceiling increased: The House passed, 237 for and 177 against, a bill (HR 1430) raising the government's borrowing authority from $4.145 trillion to $4.37 trillion. The $225 billion increase will carry the Treasury until Oct. 1, when it will give way to a higher debt ceiling included in President Clinton's economic program (H Con Res 64).

A yes vote was for a $225 billion hike in the national debt ceiling. Area representatives voting yes were: Carr, Kildee, Levin and Ford. Voting no: Knollenberg.

Motor voter changes retained: By a vote of 192 for and 222 against, the House refused to accept Senate changes in a bill (HR 2) that spurs voter turnout by enabling people to register when applying for a driver's license and other public certificates. In part, the vote reaffirmed a House requirement that states allow registration at social service agencies such as welfare offices.

A yes vote was to strip a requirement for voter registration at social service agencies from the "motor voter" bill. Area representatives voting yes were: Knollenberg. Voting no: Carr, Kildee, Levin and Ford.

SENATE

Federal pay raises denied: By a vote of 51 for 49 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an attempt to shave President Clinton's pending $16.3 billion-plus jobs bill (HR 1335) by about $3 billion to free up money for federal civilian and military cost-of-living increases scheduled for next year. The increases are to be withheld in 1994 as part of the president's economic recovery program.

A yes vote was to kill the amendment. Michigan Sens. Carl Levin, D, and Donald Riegle, D, voted yes.

Highway funding preserved: By a vote of 68 for and 32 against, the Senate preserved the formula for distributing highway funds against changes that would have favored so-called "donor" states. Those are generally fast-growing, high density states like Florida and California that contribute more to the highway trust fund through gasoline taxes than they get back in project grants. The vote occurred during debate on HR 1335 (above).

A yes vote was to keep the highway funds formula intact. Levin and Riegle voted no.

Amtrak funding preserved: By a vote of 61 for and 38 against, the Senate tabled an amendment to strip HR 1335 (above) of $188 million for capital improvements and rehiring by Amtrak, the federally subsidized rail passenger agency.

A no vote opposed emergency funding for Amtrak. Levin and Riegle voted yes.

Clinton's economic plan OK'd: By a vote of 55 for and 45 against, the Senate sent President Clinton's economic program (see preceding vote) to the White House for his signature. All Democrats except Shelby of Alabama and Krueger of Texas voted yes and all Republicans voted no. For fiscal 1994, the first year of the five-year plan, the blueprint is for spending of about $1.5 trillion and an annual deficit of nearly $250 billion.

A yes vote was to implement the president's economic plan. Levin and Riegle voted yes.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Don't let your spices, herbs lose their flavor

I think it was momma who taught me that if a recipe called for just a half teaspoon of something, it probably wasn't worth running out to buy it.

First, a call would be made to Aunt Phyllis, and if that failed, she might even try Stella and Louie next door, but never would she run to the store and pay top dollar for a lot of something she might never use again.

Fortunately, I seldom have that problem because when I go spice shopping, it's usually a trip to Rafael's Spice Company at the Eastern Market in Detroit where I can buy as little or as much of what I need.

Prior to the closings of most of the bulk food stores in my area, it was always nice to know that they could also fill my need for just a teaspoon of something or another.

So I was intrigued the other morning during my thrice weekly visit to the gym when I was approached by a lady who asked me to write a column on the many uses of cardamom.

Seems that Easter Saturday night while checking her ingredients for a vegetable recipe, she noticed that it called for a half teaspoon of cardamom. Not having any change, she sent her son to the store with $10 and asked him to buy a small jar of that spice.

When he returned with the jar, and placed her change — a dollar and some coins on the counter next to the jar. She couldn't believe her eyes — the jar cost almost nine bucks! Now she has a 2 1/2 ounce jar of powdered cardamom that in her own words "would certainly last till the day I die."

Well dear friend, cardamom is expensive and what's worse, anytime you buy spices that are already ground or powdered, they will lose much of their potency if not kept airtight and out of the light.

Spicy tips

Here are a few suggestions I offered — powdered spices can lose up to 15 percent of their flavor every year. If you don't have airtight jars, place a small piece of plastic wrap over the top then screw the lid on real tight. For optimum sealing, invert the jar upside down and keep in a cool dark space.

By the way, the old spice rack hung over the stove is probably the worst place to keep your spices because of all the heat and humidity generated when cooking.

When possible, buy spices in their whole form. Cardamom comes in powdered and pod form. The pods are very easy to grind or grate.

In addition to a very low cost electric coffee grinder that doubles as a spice grinder, I invested in a small marble mortar and pestle that is just perfect for grinding and mashing, especially more flavorful spices that might linger in an electric mill or wooden bowl.

If all else fails, a small plastic bag and a rolling pin will pretty much do the same thing.

Flavorful soups

You don't always have to grind whole spices. When making soups or a sauce, for optimum flavor, place whole spices in a homemade cloth bag or stainless tea ball.

Cheesecloth works best but an old towel that now finds its home in the rag box can be cut into squares and then tied with kite string or kitchen twine. When the soup or sauce is done, simply remove the bag or tea ball and toss the used spices!

Fresh herbs

Now that summer is fast approaching, good cooks can grow their own herbs and spices. Nothing beats the fresh flavor of parsley and chives and basil, oregano, thyme and rosemary grows well in any sunny garden or window sill.

A good source for fresh herbs locally is Graye's Greenhouse located across the street from Mettetal Airport on the southern fringes of Plymouth.

Two fresh herb growers have stalls at Eastern Market in Detroit. Shoppers were flocking there last week to buy them so get there early for the best selection.

Fresh herbs dry and freeze well. Many upscale grocery stores and fruit markets are now selling freshly picked herbs and plants. Shopping Center/Food Emporium always has a nice selection of fresh dill, basil, oregano, thyme and cilantro as well as Joe's Produce on Seven Mile just east of Farmington Road in Livonia.

Hang the herbs upside down in a sunny dry window for a week to dry or freeze them in marked, sealed plastic bags and use before defrosting in the same amounts you would use fresh herbs.

Bon Appetite.

PRECUT
A HEALTHY
CONVENIENCE

Precut salad mixes and vegetables are perfect for singles, two-career families, and people who don't have time to fuss with cutting, cleaning, and shredding vegetables for salads, side dishes and stir-fries.

BY JOAN BORAM
SPECIAL WRITER

Every once in a while, economic, technological and cultural paths converge and produce radical changes in everyday life. There was the auto, the computer, the compact disc, and, now, veggies — rabbit food has gone low tech.

Goaded by the new United States Department of Agriculture's "Five-a-Day" program, which urges all of us to eat at least five servings of fresh fruits and vegetables daily, Americans have become more diet conscious.

Precut carrot and celery sticks, salad mixes, and other ready-to-eat produce items are perfect for a single person, a two-career family, or anyone who's short on the time (or patience) it takes to wash, scrape, peel, trim, cut, or otherwise process fresh produce.

"I'm not a cook," said Cathy Corozon, of Livonia who works full-time and copes with a lively 17-month-old child in her spare time. "Salad mixes are the answer to my prayers. It's hard to come up with something different for dinner every day, but salad mixes are something that I can count on. I can add different items, like onions and tomatoes or cheese or leftover meat to vary the flavor, or to create a main course. And when I go to my mom's house for dinner, I always volunteer a salad."

Salad mixes also make it possible for Corzon to incorporate works of mercy into her schedule. "At St. Genevieve's Parish we provide a funeral luncheon for the bereaved family. Obviously, there isn't much advance notice, so I always pick up an extra bag of salad mix, as a potential contribution to the luncheon."

Salad mixes are popular with customers who shop at Joe's Produce in Livonia, said co-owner Joe Maiorana, Jr. "Older people like it because they can enjoy several varieties of greens right out of the bag, with no waste. Working people like it because it's quick — they just open the bag, empty it into a bowl, and add dressing. Most people add refinements for color and flavor, but it's a matter of taste."

Precuts, such as broccoli and cauliflower florets and carrot sticks are prepared at the store to keep the price as reasonable as possible. A sign of the times, adds Maiorana, is the "fantastic" demand for vegetable and fruit trays for holidays and special occasions.

"Just as a thoughtful host provides non-alcoholic beverages, he or she provides an alternative to potato chips and cold cuts. Health-conscious guests appreciate the choice."

Emily Murphy of West Bloomfield, host of the "Emily Murphy Show" which airs on PBS Channel 56, and volunteer publicity chairperson for the Village Antique Show and Sale at Greenfield Village in Dearborn, relies on salad mixes to distract her from coffee and cookies.

"If a salad mix is in the vegetable drawer, I'll eat it," she said. "If it isn't, I'll opt for a sugar fix. These mixes are wonderful for busy people. There's no waste, and they encourage healthy habits just because they're there. I've never had one that wasn't really fresh."

Murphy said she believes that every meal should be a special occasion. Even when she's dining alone she puts a place mat and linen napkin on the table, and uses a salad bowl from her collection. "Some people collect teapots — I collect salad bowls," she said.

"Phenomenal!" is how Phil Riggio of Rochester, president of Aunt

Mid's describes the demand for the venerable Detroit firm's celery and carrot sticks, and broccoli and cauliflower florets. "We entered the pre-cut market two years ago and sales have increased by 150 percent since 1991," he said.

"It's a convenience item that busy people appreciate. The consumer gets 12 ounces of ready-to-eat product. It's a very labor-intensive product. Every piece is cut by hand to assure a standard size, there's no mechanization." Aunt Mids will be offering cut fruits soon.

Jean Wass, catering manager for Nino Salvaggio's strawberry Hills, has been in the catering business for 15 years, five of them at the Farmington Hills market.

"People are increasingly aware of good nutrition," she said. "Vegetables used to be secondary at a meal. Now, people are making a meal out of a prepared salad. The trend is toward emphasis on vegetables, and meat is secondary."

"We prepare all of our salad mixes and precuts in-house. The precuts are especially popular on weekends when people entertain and serve them with a spinach or Mexicali dip. They're great for stir-fries, as well."

Similar qualities create wine, food harmony

has been touted as having "the best California cuisine in San Francisco" (even though the restaurant is an hour's drive north of the city!). In addition to supervising his restaurant, Ash is Culinary Director at Fetzer Vineyards.

He was in metro Detroit recently hosting several charity dinners, in particular two connected with WineFest, the annual fund-raiser for the Ann Arbor Art Association in which Fetzer Vineyards is making significant contributions.

We caught up with Ash during his visit to discuss our favorite topic — wine and food. Ash didn't waste any time explaining easy ways for people to pair wine and food at home.

"There are five tastes, not just four," he said. "They are bitter, sweet, sour, salt (the four we knew) and pungent or pepper. The pepper taste varies most from person to person. That's why some people really like hot-spicy food and others don't."

Ash suggests pairing food and wines according to their similarities. If the food has sweetness, the wine should have some sweetness. If the food contains citrus or lemon, be sure the wine exhibits some tartness or lemony qualities.

If the food is salty or smoky, the wine should be low alcohol and off-dry. Spicy or peppery foods require low alcohol, off-dry wines that are low in tannin. Rich, fatty foods need a wine with richness and body.

In California's North Coast wine country, the name John Ash is synonymous with expert food and wine harmonies. His Sonoma County restaurant John Ash and Co.

"One of the great failings of restaurants is they usually present the customer with the wine list before seeing the menu," said Ash. "Restaurants need to help the diner make a good wine and food match. A restaurant patron cannot know what the food will taste like by reading the menu. What I describe on my menu as being hot and spicy and what you may describe as hot and spicy may be two entirely different things."

Ash suggests that restaurants need to make wine recommendations on the menu. For each menu item, at least three wine recommendations should be included. If not specific wines, then at least, a style recommendation. Ash's point is that the chef spends significant time and effort creating a dish that people will enjoy, but then allows it to be ruined by a poor wine selection.

"Restaurants should offer a small wine tasting with the entree," he suggests. "A taste of three wines, selected to complement the food, would allow the diner to make an experienced selection when ordering wine by the bottle or by the glass."

Ash contends that cabernet sauvignon and chardonnay are much more difficult to pair with food than gamay, riesling, chenin blanc, sauvignon blanc or gewurztraminer.

"The worst wines to serve with spicy Thai or Latin foods are cabernet and chardonnay because they have too much alcohol and tannin," Ash said. "The fruitier the wines, the better they match with food."

Try your hand at preparing some of Ash's recipes inside, and match them with the recommended wine.

See SIMILAR, 2B

At Fetzer's Valley Oaks testing kitchens, John Ash keeps referencing wines like gamay and gewurztraminer because of their great versatility with food.

"French food is heavy with one-dimensional flavors," he said. "With the infusion of Latin, Asian and Mediterranean foods, our American table features a light, flavorful, healthy cuisine. The same thing is reflected in the wines of America with their lower alcohol and tannins."

We then asked Ash to make specific wine and food recommendations using the Fetzer wines with which he is so familiar.

The Fetzer Sundial Chardonnay ($9) has clean, citrus flavors with apple overtones. Ash takes his own advice about pairing similar flavors in wine and food by suggesting a grilled chicken breast marinated in an apple cider-citrus sauce.

The Fetzer Barrel Fermented

1991 Lyeth Chardonnay ($12) is a textbook perfect wine with sensational aromas and complete integration of fruit and oak flavors. The lengthy finish keeps you coming back for more. It's superior to many priced at twice its price.

Chardonnay ($13) is a big, round wine with noticeable malolactic character. Ash selected an oyster stew prepared with butter and cream to bring out the buttery character of the wine. He also suggested fresh pasta with pine nuts or hazelnuts, cream and basil, topped with grated Asiago.

These foods emphasize the toasty flavors of barrel aging.

Ash recommends a gratin of salmon prepared with gruyere to accompany the Fetzer Reserve Chardonnay ($18). The nuttiness and richness of the wine and food make a great match. If the salmon is grilled, Ash prefers the Fetzer Reserve Pinot Noir ($17). He recommends painting the salmon with olive oil infused with roasted garlic and grilling over charcoal. "Toss a little rosemary on the hot coals near the end of cooking time," he said.

Ash said he prefers Fetzer Gewurztraminer ($6.25) with Asian food. He is partial to soy steamed chicken or game hen. Prepare a bouillon containing fresh ginger, chili, soy, sugar, white wine, a cinnamon stick and star anise. Steam the fowl in the liquid and then let it rest in the pot to absorb the spices.

He likes a clean, crisp sauvignon blanc, such as the Valley

Oaks Fume ($6.25), with grilled fresh fennel and roasted peppers with grilled scallops in a lemon-tarragon vinaigrette.

His favorite meal to accompany Fetzer Gamay Beaujolais ($6.25) is a Mexican pot roast (beef brisket) covered with tomato and peppers and served with crisp roasted potatoes. Ash said tomatoes and tomato sauces go best with red wines that are low in tannin. The acid in tomatoes serves to magnify the tannins in a big red wine.

Nino Salvaggio's offers several salad mixes. The most popular mix is an assortment of baby greens, flown in daily from California.

Jeffrey Thompson of Troy, manager of Fabrique of Birmingham, munches on carrot sticks instead of peanuts while he's watching television. "And I have a big salad from Kroger's salad bar for supper," he said. "Before I discovered the convenience of ready-to-eat veggies I ate an awful lot of pizza. Who wants to cook after working all day? Now, I feel better and I'm not consuming as many calories." "There just isn't a typical salad bar customer," said Mike Layne, spokesperson for Kroger's.

"Prepared fresh produce is popular with everybody. Of the 77 Kroger stores, 38 have salad bars, typically offering a variety of 60 fresh vegetables and fruits. Clearly, people on the go like the convenience."

Just a few years ago, if you had told John Lang, produce manager of Shopping Center Market in Bloomfield Hills, that sales of prepared produce would reach the current height of popularity, he wouldn't have believed you.

"I can't think of anything prepared that doesn't sell," he said. "A couple of weeks ago, I introduced a julienne mix of carrots, cabbage and broccoli, and it's a big seller already. Working women run in and buy a bag of prepared salad mix. They just don't have the time to prepare it themselves. 'You're a life saver,' they call over their shoulder, as they dash out of the store."

Chef shares recipes, harmonizes wine with food

WARM RED CABBAGE SALAD WITH PANCETTA AND CALIFORNIA GOAT CHEESE

- 1/2 pound good quality pancetta, sliced in rounds
- 1 teaspoon peeled and minced garlic
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 1/2 tablespoons wild honey
- 1/2 cup red wine vinegar
- sea salt and fresh ground black pepper to taste
- 1 pound red cabbage, cored and finely shredded
- 5 ounces fresh California goat cheese

Cook pancetta until just beginning to color. Remove. Coarsely chop and set aside. Reserve the fat and combine in a bowl with the garlic, olive oil, honey, vinegar, salt and pepper. Taste and correct seasoning.

In a large saute pan over moderately high heat, briefly warm the olive oil mixture, add the cabbage and toss quickly for a minute or two just to warm through. Add chopped pancetta and place on warm plates.

Thinly slice goat cheese and arrange attractively on top along with baby frises, mache or watercress, and nasturtium flowers. Serves 6-8.

This recipe pairs handsomely with the 1991 Fetzer Vineyards Barrel Select Chardonnay ($13) or the 1989 Fetzer Barrel Select Zinfandel ($10.50)

GRILLED SCALLOPS, FENNEL AND LEMON-TARRAGON VINAIGRETTE

- 1 large fennel bulb, tops removed
- olive oil
- 12 medium, fresh jumbo sea scallops
- salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
- Lemon-Tarragon Vinaigrette (recipe follows)

Slice fennel lengthwise into 1/4-inch thick slices. Lightly oil and season and grill over coals until attractively marked and crisp-tender. Arrange on warm plates. Lightly oil and season scallops and grill until just done. Be careful not to overcook — centers should still be slightly translucent. Arrange on top of fennel along with garnish ingredients. Drizzle vinaigrette over to taste and serve immediately. Serves 4.

Garnish: Roasted red pepper strips; salmon caviar and tarragon sprigs along with available baby vegetables such as asparagus, carrots and peas.

Pairs with Fetzer Barrel Select Sauvignon Blanc ($10.50)

LEMON-TARRAGON VINAIGRETTE

- 1/2 cup fresh lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon zest
- 2 tablespoons white wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon minced shallot
- 2 tablespoons minced fresh tarragon
- 2 teaspoons honey (or to taste)
- 1/2 to 1 cup olive oil
- salt and freshly ground white pepper to taste

Either whisking by hand or in a food processor combine all ingredients except oil and salt and pepper. Whisk in oil slowly or pulse 2 or 3 times in the processor to form the vinaigrette. If using the processor be careful not to emulsify. Vinaigrette should be very light in body. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Yields approximately 2 cups.

Note: Reduced defatted chicken stock can be substituted for part of the oil to reduce fat. Store refrigerated for up to 3 days.

CREAMY POLENTA WITH WILD MUSHROOMS

- 1 cup finely chopped yellow onion
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped garlic
- 1 ounce dried porcini or ceps mushrooms, rinsed, soaked in 1 cup water for one hour, drained and roughly chopped
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 2 teaspoons finely chopped fresh basil
- 1/2 teaspoon finely chopped fresh oregano
- 4 cups flavorful chicken or vegetable stock
- 1 cup coarse polenta cornmeal
- salt and freshly ground white pepper to taste
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1/2 cup finely grated aged Asiago or Fontina cheeses

In a large sauce pan, saute the onion, mushrooms, garlic and porcini in olive oil until very lightly colored. Add basil, oregano and stock to pan and bring to a boil.

Slowly, stir in polenta with a wooden spoon to prevent lumps. Reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes, stirring regularly. Polenta should be thick and creamy. Add more stock if necessary. Correct seasoning and keep warm.

Just before serving, add the cream and cheese and stir vigorously. Spoon onto warm plates and garnish with lightly sauteed wild mushrooms and a sprig of fresh basil. Serves 6-8.

Garnish: Fresh porcini or chanterelle mushrooms, cleaned and quickly sauteed, fresh basil sprigs.

SHRIMP NICOISE

- 1 bag (10 oz) Dole French Blend Salad Mix
- 18 medium shrimp, cooked and cleaned
- 12 small red potatoes, boiled and sliced
- 1 1/2 cups cooked green beans
- 12 black olives
- Hard-cooked egg, sliced (optional)

To prepare salad: Toss salad mix with 1/4 cup tomato vinaigrette. Arrange shrimp, potatoes, green beans and olives on top of salad mix. Garnish with sliced egg, if desired. Drizzle with additional dressing. Serves 6.

TOMATO VINAIGRETTE

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 2 to 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon tomato paste
- 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Pepper to taste
- 1 small tomato, diced
- 2 tablespoons chopped red onion

Whisk together oil, vinegar, tomato paste, mayonnaise, salt and pepper. Stir in tomato and onions. Pour into jar and refrigerate. Shake before using.

Salad mix suggestions

Give your salad mix an individual touch. Here are some suggestions from Jean Wass, Strawberry Hills market, Farmington Hills.

- For a basic garden vegetable salad, select from snow peas, slices of red and green pepper, baby carrots, sweet onion slices, toasted walnuts, cucumber slices, zucchini slices or cherry tomatoes.
- Add zucchini, tomatoes, Genoa salami, Provolone cheese and Italian style dressing for an Italian salad.
- Add a diced red apple and a diced green pear, crumbled blue cheese, and walnut halves. Serve with buttermilk dressing.

Use up leftover holiday spices

See Larry Janes' column on Taste front.

SPICED NUTS

½ cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cardamom
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg white
2 tablespoons cold water
¼ pound nutmeats (walnuts, almonds, pecans, etc.)

Combine dry ingredients and mix well. Set aside. Combine egg white with the water and beat slightly. Dip nuts into the egg white wash, then roll in spices. Shake off excess and place nuts on a baking sheet, separated.

Bake at 250 degrees for 1 hour. Remove from oven, shake off excess sugar and store in a tightly covered container. Makes ¼ pound.

SCANDINAVIAN COFFEE CAKE

2 eggs
¾ cup warm water
1 package active dry yeast
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup butter
1½ teaspoons powdered cardamom
1½ cups butter

Beat the eggs and add the warm water. Dissolve the active dry yeast in this mixture. Allow to stand for 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, blend with a pastry blender or by hand the flour, salt, sugar, ½ cup of the butter and the cardamom. Make a ring of the flour mixture in a large bowl and pour the egg/yeast mixture in the center.

Work this gradually into the flour mixture and knead until smooth, about 2 minutes. Form the dough into a ball and allow it to rest, covered in the refrigerator, for 20 minutes. Roll out the dough as lightly as possible into a rectangle about ¼-inch thick.

Beat remaining 1½ cups butter until creamy and spread onto pastry leaving ¼-inch on all sides. Fold the dough and roll again. Do this 4 times (layering). Roll the dough into a rectangle and fill with any rich streusel topping — ground nuts with cinnamon, sugar and ¼ teaspoon powdered cardamom or poppy seed pie filling, available at most markets.

Gently roll the dough into a log shape. Cut the dough in 2-inch intervals to make slits on each side. Place on a lightly greased baking sheet and brush with beaten egg. Bake for 25 minutes at 375 degrees. Serves 8.

Get acquainted with beans

AP — Jack was smarter than he realized when he started his climb up the beanstalk, yet even he couldn't have guessed what a giant beans would become.

Far from being the poor man's food of fairy tales, beans today are lauded for their high fiber content and for being an inexpensive, low-fat source of protein. They also offer lots of room for creativity. In restaurants across the country, beans are starring in salads, soups, pilafs and exciting entrees. Chefs are experimenting with beans of different sizes, shapes and colors. You can, too, once you bone up on beans.

Stalking Beans

You can tell a bean by its size, color (black, brown, red, white, or speckled), and shape (round, oval, or kidney-shaped). The different kinds are sold either in bags or in bulk at the supermarket. If you buy them in bulk, choose plump beans and discard any that are shriveled. Store beans in a covered container at room temperature for up to 1 year or in your freezer indefinitely. Choose from the following varieties:

- Black: Small, black and oval. Cook them for 1 to 1½ hours.
- Black-eyed pea: Small, cream-colored and oval. One side has a black oval with a cream-colored dot in the center. Do not precook or soak. Cook them for 45 to 60 minutes.
- Chick pea or garbanzo: Medium, yellow or golden, round and irregular. Cook them for 1½ to 2 hours.
- Cranberry: Small, tan-colored (with specks and streaks of burgundy) and oval. Cook them for 1¼ to 1½ hours.
- Fava: Large, brown, flat oval. Cook them for 15 to 30 minutes, then cool and peel. Cook for 45 to 60 minutes more.
- Great Northern: Small to medium, white, kidney-shaped. Cook them for 1 to 1½ hours.
- Lima, baby: Small, off-white and wide oval in shape. Cook them for 45 to 60 minutes. Lima, large and butter: Medium, off-white and wide oval in shape. Cook them for 1 to 1½ hours.
- Navy or pea: Small, off-white and oval. Cook them for 1 to 1½ hours.
- Pinto: Small, tan-colored (with brown specks) and oval. Cook them for 1¼ to 1½ hours.
- Red kidney: Medium to large, brownish red and kidney-shaped. Cook them for 1 to 1½ hours.
- Soybean: Small, cream-colored and oval. Cook them for 2 to 2½ hours.

Most beans, unless otherwise noted, must first be soaked. To soak, rinse beans. In a 4½-quart Dutch oven, combine 1 pound beans and 8 cups cold water. Bring to boiling, reduce heat. Simmer for 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Cover and let stand for 1 hour. (Or, omit simmering; soak beans in cold water overnight in a covered pan.) Drain and rinse.

To cook, in the same pan combine beans and 8 cups fresh water. Bring to boiling, reduce heat. Cover and simmer until the beans are tender, using the timings given above as a guide for each bean. Stir occasionally during cooking. One pound of dry beans (2½ cups) will yield 6 to 7 cups of cooked beans.

Jazz up your plate with colorful veggies

FLORINE MARK

LITE SUCCESS
It's no secret that the best sources of nutrients are vegetables. But you may not know that the new food pyramid recommends that we consume three to five servings of vegetables each day.

Jazz up your plate with some color! Did you know that brighter and deeper-colored vegetables are healthier for you? When preparing vegetables, it's also important to remember that you get the most nutrients from fresh, raw vegetables. If cooked, they should be steamed for best results.

Vegetables can be included in your diet in a variety of ways. Cut up celery and carrot sticks to take to the office, dice green pepper into an omelet, have a salad for lunch or stir-fry spring's very best. One thing is for sure, eating your vegetables does not have to be boring — especially if you're serving Broccoli Cornbread, Mexican-Style Gazpacho or Marinated Vegetable Salad.

So, eat your vegetables and stay healthy.

BROCCOLI CORNBREAD

- 2 cups frozen chopped broccoli (one 10-ounce package), thawed and well-drained
- ¾ cup nonfat cottage cheese
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup egg substitute
- 2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons margarine, softened
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 6 ounces self-rising white cornmeal

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Spray a 9-inch glass pie plate with nonstick cooking spray; set aside. In large mixing bowl, combine broccoli, cottage cheese, onion, egg substitute, margarine and salt until blended; stir in cornmeal.

Be a budget gourmet

AP — If April 15 brought thoughts of belt-tightening, you can save money deliciously in the food department.

Learn how to be a budget gourmet. Shop the supermarket for values; use unit pricing to determine which choices are the best buys. Stock up on sale items that your family likes — and that you have space to store properly. Make use of seasonal produce — it's less expensive than out-of-season items.

For example, at this time of year, fresh asparagus is in season. Stretch it by pairing with other ingredients to make a one-dish meal, complete with sausage, vegetables and pasta. Dried pasta is only pennies per serving. You can vary the flavor of the dish by choosing mild or hot Italian sausage. Check the store brands of sausage — many supermarkets make their own, and it's sometimes less expensive. Italian bread or garlic toast is all you need to round out the menu.

SAUSAGE PASTA PRIMAVERA

- 1 pound fresh Italian sausage, cut into 2-inch pieces
- 1 medium onion, cut into 16 wedges
- ¼ cup water
- 1 cup uncooked spiral or wagon wheel-shaped pasta
- 8 ounces asparagus, cut diagonally into 1-inch pieces, or 10-ounce package frozen cut asparagus, thawed
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 teaspoon dried basil leaves
- 2 medium tomatoes, coarsely chopped
- 2 tablespoons freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Place Italian sausage, onion and water in a large skillet. Cover lightly; cook over medium heat 11 to 13 minutes, turning once. Meanwhile, cook pasta according to package directions; drain and keep hot. Stir asparagus, garlic and basil into skillet with sausage.

Continue cooking 7 to 9 minutes or until sausage is cooked through and browned and asparagus is crisp-tender, stirring occasionally. Add tomatoes and reserved pasta, tossing lightly to combine. Cook 1 minute or just until heated through. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Makes 4 servings.

MEXICAN-STYLE GAZPACHO

- 1 ½ cups peeled seeded diced plum tomatoes
- ½ cup pared seeded diced cucumber
- ½ cup diced red onion
- ½ cup diced green bell pepper
- 1 garlic clove
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro
- 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 2 cups spicy mixed vegetable juice

3 ounces cavatelli or fusilli
Chopped cucumber, red onion, and bell pepper to garnish

In food processor, combine tomatoes, cucumber, onion, bell pepper, garlic, cilantro, and vinegar; pulse briefly, just until vegetables are chunky. Pour into large bowl; stir in vegetable juice. Cover and refrigerate until well chilled.

Just before serving, cook pasta following label directions; drain. Ladle soup evenly into 4 chilled soup bowls; top evenly with hot pasta. Garnish with chopped vegetables. Makes 4 servings.

- 1 cup sliced carrots
- ½ cup chopped green bell pepper
- ½ cup thinly sliced red onion
- 4 ounces drained cooked kidney beans
- 4 ounces drained, cooked chick peas
- 10 small green olives, pitted and sliced
- 10 small black olives, pitted and sliced
- ¼ cup reduced-calorie Italian salad dressing (6 calories per tablespoon)

In large bowl, combine all ingredients, tossing well. Refrigerate at least 3 hours or overnight to develop flavors. Makes 8 servings.

Chinese chicken salad low calorie, delicious

AP — Sesame oil has such a bold flavor that you don't need to use much. To make the sesame-soy vinaigrette for this low-fat salad, you'll use about a tenth of the amount of oil that's standard for most vinaigrettes. Plus, the sesame oil gives the dressing a pleasant, nutty flavor. You'll find sesame oil displayed alongside the other oils in your supermarket, or with the Oriental ingredients.

CHINESE CHICKEN SALAD

- 1 cup finely chopped cooked chicken
- ½ cup fresh or canned bean sprouts
- ¼ cup chopped water chestnuts
- 1 green onion, thinly sliced
- 4 teaspoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar

- ½ teaspoon sesame oil
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 large tomatoes
- Lettuce leaves

In a medium mixing bowl combine chopped chicken, bean sprouts, water chestnuts and green onion. Set aside.

In a custard cup, stir together soy sauce, vinegar, sesame oil and pepper. Pour over chicken mixture; toss to coat. Cover and chill.

To serve, cut out ½ inch of the stem from each tomato. Invert tomatoes. Starting at top of tomato, cut each tomato to, but not quite through, stem end, making 6 wedges. Spread wedges slightly apart. Fill tomatoes with chilled chicken mixture. Serve on lettuce leaves. Makes 2 servings.

Healthy, low-fat grains energize

Eating more grains. You know it's the smart thing to do because in addition to being low in fat and calories, grains are a great source of energizing complex carbohydrates. Yet, getting the recommended number of servings may seem more challenging than it needs to be.

"When consumers look at the USDA Food Guide Pyramid and see the six to 11 grain servings, their first thought is 'I can't possibly eat that many servings and still have room for all of the other foods I need each day,'" said Mary Mullen, a Chicago-area dietitian who counsels consumers interested in improving their eating habits. "What they often don't understand is how many servings are right for them."

"The Food Guide Pyramid gives a range of servings because the number of servings each of us requires depends upon our calorie needs. And, calorie needs are based upon a variety of factors such as age, sex, size and activity level. Many older adults, for example, need about 1,600 calories which can be obtained by eating the lowest number of servings from each of the five major groups."

According to Mullen, many consumers also don't realize that at least some of the grain servings they're already eating are actually two servings. One grain serving is equivalent to — 1/2 a bagel, hamburger or hot dog roll; 1 slice of bread; 1/2 cup cooked rice or pasta; 1/2 cup cooked cereal or grits; 1 tortilla; 1 whole grain waffle; and 2 tablespoons of wheat germ. This means that a sandwich, many pasta entrees and a bagel all count as two grain servings.

One way to get in the habit of eating more grains is to think of cereals and other grain-based foods as ingredients and snacks. Here are some ideas from the Quaker Kitchens.

■ Use nutrient-rich wheat germ to coat chicken and as an extender when making meatloaf and meatballs.

■ Sprinkle wheat germ over salads, soups, baked potatoes and frozen entrees for a nutrition boost.

■ When the urge to snack strikes, reach for unbuttered popcorn, pretzels, mini bagels, rice cakes, bread sticks or graham crackers. Or, combine peanut butter and wheat germ and spread over apple, pear or banana slices and raw vegetables.

Wheat germ can also add a nutrition boost to homemade muffins and yeast breads. A serving of wheat germ (2 tablespoons) contributes 2 grams of fiber, is a good source of six essential vitamins and minerals and provides 50 calories.

Muffins are one of the most popular members of the grain group, and hearty Garden Patch Muffins, feature the goodness of corn meal and wheat germ. Flecks of zucchini, carrot and green onion along with zesty seasonings and Parmesan cheese make these muffins perfect accompaniments to soup, salads, pasta dishes and broiled meat, poultry and fish.

EASY HERB FOCACCIA

- One 16 ounce package hot roll mix
- 1 1/4 cups water
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons margarine, softened
- 1/2 cup wheat germ
- 1 tablespoon fresh basil or 1 teaspoon dried basil
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh oregano, or 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1 1/2 teaspoons garlic, minced or 1 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 cup thinly sliced onion rings
- 1 tablespoon olive oil

Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Lightly spray 2 large baking sheets with no-stick cooking spray. Prepare hot roll mix according to package directions, stirring in wheat germ, basil, oregano and garlic with water, egg and margarine.

In nonstick skillet, saute onion in olive oil about 1 minute. Divide dough in half. Pat dough out into 8-inch circles on prepared baking sheets. Lightly press cooked onions on top of loaves. Sprinkle with additional wheat germ, if desired. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Yield 2 loaves.

Nutrition Information: Each serving (1/2 loaf). Calories 140, Protein 5g, Carbohydrate 22g, Total Fat 4g, Saturated Fat 0g, Cholesterol 15mg, Dietary Fiber 1g, Sodium 200mg. Percent calories from fat: 23 percent.

GARDEN PATCH MUFFINS

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup wheat germ
- 1/2 cup corn meal
- 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)
- Dash to 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 cup skim milk
- 2 egg whites, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1/4 cup shredded carrots
- 1/4 cup shredded zucchini
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions

KRETSCHMER WHEAT GERM

Savory bread: Hot roll mix is the secret to making Easy Herb Focaccia. Garlic, fresh herbs and sauteed onions flavor this bread while wheat germ added to the dough and sprinkled on top adds nutty taste and whole grain texture.

Heat oven to 400 degrees F. Line 12 medium muffin cups with paper liners or grease bottoms only. Combine dry ingredients; mix well. Add combined remaining ingredients; mix just until moistened. Fill muffin cups 3/4 full. Bake 15 to 20 minutes or until light golden brown.

Yield 12 muffins.

Pickin' hits: Readers get to air views

Everybody has an opinion, be it sports, politics, movies or music... especially music.

There are those who enamored with opera and classic music; there are those who hate it. There are those who believe music began with rock 'n' roll and those who are convinced it ended there.

And it's even hard to get an agreement on rock 'n' roll considering it's so varied a category that it has almost as many subgroups as fingers on a pair of hands. There's rap, alternative, pop rock, R&B. Don't forget grunge rock, top 40, heavy metal, rockabilly and industrial/techno dance.

Which brings us to the point of all this: Having an opinion about a style is one thing, having a place to express it is another. That's why Street Scene is introducing a new feature, Reader's Choice, that's as easy as picking a telephone number and there's no 900 number charges involved.

It's a simple process. Just buy a new release and listen to it. Then dial 953-2030 and tell us what you think.

Of course, we'll need a bit more information than just your opinion. Information like your name, age, address, city, telephone number, title of the release, the band or individual featured, record label and whether it's a CD, cassette tape or album.

To make it easier, take a few minutes to compose your thoughts. We're looking for three-four sentences (50 words or less) about the release and time is limited — just 45 seconds for your review.

For those too shy to do it by phone, reviews can be mailed in. Just clip the accompanying coupon, attach it to your short review and send it to Street Scene, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

The reviews will begin appearing in Street Scene in May and will include the reviewer's name and city where he or she lives. All calls and letters will be verified before publication, so forget the wild pseudonym. And, please, no profanity.

LIVE REVIEW

Yes he showed up April 13, yes it was before midnight (10:10 p.m. to be exact), and yes he used Tele-prompters to remind him of the lyrics.

W. Axl Rose and his cohorts Guns 'N Roses finally played The Palace of Auburn Hills after canceling two shows within the last year. The Jan. 17-18, 1992, shows were rescheduled after Rose cut his hand in Dayton, Ohio. Rose skipped out on the April 13-14, 1992, gigs to avoid being arrested for misdemeanor battery charges against a biker who had provoked Rose during a previous St. Louis show.

Guns 'N Roses, who is notorious for arriving late for shows, played The Palace this time and didn't appear sorry for past mistakes.

"Didn't we play here with Soundgarden?" Axl cracked about one of the ill-fated shows.

Detroit wasn't his only target for the night. He announced that he was no longer friends with Metallica, who on its latest videotape talks about Rose's spoiled behavior while on tour with the group.

Well, OK, he did show a little sentiment toward Detroit. Rose sang a line from "Patience" ("Shed a tear 'cause I'm missing you") while pointing to his MC5 T-shirt.

Guns 'N Roses fans who had the patience to wait exactly a year for the band to come to The Palace were well treated to an almost three-hour show. The energetic Rose, also clad in a bandana and Guns 'N Roses shorts (no kilts), shimmied across the stage in his usual MTV video manner.

The band, which also included an extra percussionist/keyboard player, welcomed the crowd with "Welcome to the Jungle" and continued with other hits such as "November Rain," "Sweet Child O' Mine" and "Yesterday."

He puts the mix in mixed drinks

■ He does more spins than a Waring blender and twirls and whirls like a dervish... all for the sake of a mixed drink. Dan Kotwicki's show easily explains why he's rated the best bartender in the metro area.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Dan Kotwicki always wanted to be in a hard core rock band. When he couldn't realize that dream, he did the next best thing.

He became a bartender. Unless you've seen Kotwicki at work at Industry in Pontiac or the Shelter below St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit, you probably wouldn't see the correlation. He leans over the steel bartops screaming, yelling, jumping or twirling around, pointing at people — and of course sticking out his tongue. He's always obnoxious — in a fun way — but never rude.

"It's a loud, angry, aggressive thing," Kotwicki said comparing his job to his former passion. I can't play any instruments, so I scream and yell and tell kid stories of what goes on in my head."

Besides screaming, he also tells his stories through his newsletter, "Big Hard News." All copies are personally signed and numbered. In his one-page production, he sometimes gives away prizes and urges readers not to "accept imitations." He started "Big Hard News" to let his fans know a little bit more about his energetic self.

"I could only spend so much time with each customer, I was getting away from the zaniness," he said. "I was bartending more than the performing thing. I wanted to let people know why I act the way I do and include a little about myself."

Copies of his newsletter have become collector's items. Soon, copies may be even more scarce. He's cutting down the number of copies and distributing them at clubs and his favorite record store, Play It Again Records in Royal Oak.

"Only the really close followers will get one. If you have one, hopefully, you enjoyed it and lucked out."

But don't worry, he always keeps a few on hand for those who miss an issue.

WILLIAM HANSEN

Quick flip: The metro area's favorite bartender, Dan Kotwicki, flips a drinking glass as he holds court at Industry in Pontiac.

"I always keep 10 for myself or for people who are bummed out who don't have one. People say, 'I have every single copy but I don't have the last one. Do you have the last one?' I think, 'Whoa, that's cool.'"

All this recently garnered Kotwicki the Detroit's Best Bartender award as voted by readers of the Metro Times. Although he cam-aigned for the spot through his newsletter, Kotwicki said he didn't expect to win and doesn't really care if he repeats the title.

"If I'm bartending another year and I don't get bartender of the year, it's no big deal," he said. "I know what I do is kind of unique and anyone else is just a copy. (If I) slack off and have someone sort of surpass it then I'll feel bad. That's why I don't want to slack."

He doesn't appear to be cutting anyone short. Soon after winning the award, the Wayne State University student was given his own night at Industry. At the "Insane Asylum," he uses some of the spectacles that he created when he manned the VIP bar at The Love Club, Saturdays in The Shelter. That includes sing-alongs to older rock tunes like "Angel Is a Centerfold" by J.Gells, or serving drinks with remote control cars.

He offers an often-changing menu of goodies, all concocted by on his own time, such as spiked pudding and Jell-O, and his special Formula 44-D and Gray Matter.

Concocting things isn't new to Kotwicki. He's been messing around with "recipes" since he was growing up in Macomb County.

"I had a dumb chemistry set in my basement when I was like 8 years old. I wanted to blow up stuff, but I never had the right chemicals," he said with a laugh.

The modest Kotwicki doesn't take all the credit for his success. He gets some of his ideas from customers and is thankful that the two clubs allowed him to create his show. Whether he likes it or not, Kotwicki and his protruding goatee have become a cult figure in the area.

"It's like crazy because it's almost too big. I never wanted it to get that big... It started out as a joke. A joke I thought would be cool for some people to enjoy."

Local bands sound off to help homeless

BY JOSEPH HOFFMAN
SPECIAL WRITER

Chip Pepitone is well aware that the U.S. spends millions every year for famine relief and military aid to countries around the globe. That's great, but he also knows that there are needs right here, right now, in his own community.

As a result, Pepitone has organized several concerts to help the homeless in the area.

All proceeds of these benefit concerts go to the Wayne Metropolitan Community Service Agency in Westland. The agency has a department to aid the homeless in obtaining food, shelter, and some job skill training.

"I first became interested in helping the homeless when one of my friends needed help," he said. "Then I noticed there was a need to help community services raise funds to provide opportunities to these local people in need."

But there was a bit more to it.

"I also love working with local bands and this provides me the opportunity to do that," he said. "For the bands, it gives them more exposure."

Pepitone has been contacting several bands in the area and booking dates at local bars around town to benefit the homeless in metro Detroit. At one charity concert, two bands — Never Say Never and Mr. Know It All — rocked the Studio Lounge in Westland.

"We were contacted to do the show and were pretty excited about it," said Trina Manning, the rousing fast-fingered guitarist of Never Say Never. "We recently banded together and we were looking to get some more exposure."

On stage, these two bands cast forth some high-energy performances, both having their own personal flair.

BARBARA SCHIFF

Voice Mail Message: Barbara,

I am very upset about what I am about to tell you. I feel anxious about it, even panicked. I am 30 and have been dating a man my age for about a year. Our relationship is quite flawed but we are both in therapy and so I have hoped that enough would change that we could be happier and more intimate together.

This week my boyfriend's sister called. She told me that she, too, has been in therapy and through it has discovered that she was repeatedly sexually abused as a child and teenager by her father. She believes my boyfriend experienced similar treatment. She told me that she recovered memories of abuse when her therapist gave her "The Courage to Heal," a book by women who have suffered this treatment.

She called to tell me all of this because she was afraid my 3-year-old daughter would not be safe with her father. She wanted to warn me.

I feel so confused. I called my boyfriend's therapist to tell him what I had learned. He thanked me for the information but would not discuss it with me further. My own therapist will only say that there is no way to know if this information is true. She says that I must make decisions about my relationship with him based on what I know about him, not on what his sister says. She also says that memories of abuse that are recovered after reading "The Courage to Heal" are not necessarily valid.

If I knew for sure that his father abused him, I would want to break off the relationship. I feel that kind of treatment in childhood is too hard to overcome. I would never feel that my daughter was safe with him. He is a nice man but often flat and not involved. He has been very nice to my daughter but sometimes he avoids her. Can you give me any insight into this mess?

Dear Caller,
You ask a number of questions; most importantly, you don't know if you want to be with the man you are dating or if you want to break up with him. This is crucial because of what it says about you. It says you do not know yourself well enough to be confident about what makes you happy or unhappy.

Choosing a partner is inadvisable from that position of relative weakness. The disturbing information you have just learned about your boyfriend and his family looms large because of your lack of confidence in yourself. It is not necessarily because of the information itself.

In your panic, you are declaring that you do not feel the freedom of choice. Freedom and confidence are based on the ability to keep trying new ways of solving problems until a satisfactory answer is found.

In your current situation that means that you could be fine without your boyfriend, if you don't like him enough to stay with him. Or, that you could make a relationship with him work if that is the course you decide to take. In either situation, there is no cause for panic because you are in control of yourself and can manage well with different outcomes. That is freedom.

You have brought up some current issues surrounding sexual abuse. First, when "The Courage to Heal" has been read before memories of sexual abuse have been recovered, such memories are often not accepted in a court of law. Legally, the book is considered so suggestible that it can plant memories that are not true. There are children and adults who are prone to suggestibility and fail to distinguish between what really happened and what was suggested to them.

Second, you think that early sexual abuse cannot be overcome so that a person could live a normal life. I have seen many cases where you are right. I have also witnessed a few when a person conquered his or her past to become fully functioning and possibly even deeper because of his or her past experiences.

If you decide to stay with your boyfriend, you will need to be vigilant when your daughter is with your boyfriend's father. I hope I will hear from many of you who are familiar with the depression and anxiety that sexual abuse causes. I am especially interested in whether you can become whole, despite it.

Barbara

'Proposal' poses $1 million question

SPECIAL WRITER

The moral question that frames "Indecent Proposal" has heated up conversation around the office water cooler. Chances are many of those gab sessions prove far more fascinating than what unfolds on the screen.

Woody Harrelson and Demi Moore play young marrieds madly in love since high school. David, an architect, starts to build his California dream house while Diana peddles real estate. When recession hits and jobs grow scarce, the two scramble to make payments on the property while the house is stalled in mid-construction.

Enter John Gage (Robert Redford), the handsome financier and gambler who poses the $1 million question: Will Diana sleep with him for a seven-digit check? Moreover, will David let him do it?

Director Adrian Lyne and producer Sherry Lansing, who last collaborated on "Fatal Attraction," recognize a hot property when they see one. Unfortunately, the movie's slickness only proves how out-of-touch Hollywood is with real life and real people.

Lyne, who also made "Flashdance" and "9½ Weeks," left his heart and head in MTV. A story like this should work on script and acting alone, but he jazzes up virtually every shot with quick-cutting and fancy camera tricks choreographed to popular music.

Harrelson, perfectly suited to the jock comedy "White Men Can't Jump," simply doesn't handle drama well. Despite his much-publicized off-screen affairs, he's too gangly and goofy to make a

In one especially hokey scene, and one that might sum up the entire movie, starry-eyed architecture students hang on every word of David's inspirational slide presentation. We might be similarly captivated with "Indecent Proposal" until we realize that the movie, like the lecture, is all slickly delivered emotion with no substance behind it.

Redford, meanwhile, gets another chance to play "The Great Gatsby" and does it just as weakly. Dressed in a white suit, leaning against the railing of his yacht, he gazes dreamily at a flickering light across the bay. And like Jay Gatsby, Gage's background and the origins of his wealth remain shadowed in mystery.

The part would be played far less woodenly had it been given to Seymour Cassel (so clever as a flamboyant moneybags in "In the Soup"), here relegated to the role of the millionaire's bodyguard.

Demi Moore is the only performer who leaves a mark on "Indecent Proposal." She sheds that irritating squeak from her voice and depicts a believable woman facing complex choices, even though her final decision between the two men revives the most overworked cliché in movies.

As stupid as it was, last year's "Honeymoon in Vegas" delivered basically the same theme and story in an entertaining and less pretentious package.

If you have a comment for John Monaghan, call him at 953-2047, mailbox number 1866, on a Touch-Tone phone, or write him care of Street Sense, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

five-piece techno-metal band, with two powerful lead guitarists, a commanding drum/bass combination, and a vocalist who is an austere mix between Ronny James Dio and Rob Halford of Judas Priest. Together they unleash a primal sound with a technical structure.

A pinnacle of their performance was an epic original, called "Withered Stone," a moving piece that starts out dulcet and crescendoes into a raucous dual guitar performance.

"This was our second live performance as a group," said Ron Rollins, the band's drummer. "Although I wasn't sure until after the show what charity it was we were performing for, I was just happy to help and be out in public again."

Mr. Know It All kicked off their segment of the performance with a couple well-harmonized cover songs from Kansas and Van Halen.

Then they performed a canny pop style original "Mirror, Mirror" that ignited the stage. They're a foursome that packs some punch.

"When we were called upon to do the show, we kind of all said sure we'd love the chance to do a charity spot," said Mike Conception, the band's guitarist, who incidentally placed second in the 1992 Motor City Guitarist Contest.

The benefit performances are a dream come true for their organizer.

"I have been working to get this thing off the ground for a while, having had about five other charity shows in the past," said Pepitone. "I plan to set up a few more in the spring too."

"Some of the other local fundraising performances have been around town at Skateland and at Ashley's and we plan to have more on the west side."

In the future, there are plans to work for other charities like the Red Cross and the Salvation Army, Pepitone said.

All in all, the concerts are entertaining evenings with a good cause.

For more information about the next charity concert or how you can help the homeless, call the Wayne Metropolitan Community Service Agency at 843-2550.

Second City auditions for Detroit troupe

The Second City will hold auditions for its Detroit cast Monday and Tuesday, April 26-27, at the Fox Theater in Detroit. The auditions, open to the public, will take place 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2-5 p.m. each day.

Actors and actresses with improvisational training are encouraged to try out for "six to seven" openings in the new troupe, according to The Second City.

"Our goal is to eventually have a completely home-grown cast; that's the way Second City works," said associate producer Kelly Leonard in a 1992 interview.

ond City is still going strong in its original home of Chicago with two city stages and one suburban venue playing to packed houses.

The still-thriving Toronto stage has spawned great talents like John Candy, Rick Moranis, Dave Thomas and most recently Mike Myers.

The Second City also has three different touring companies in addition to the four resident stages. The new Detroit stage, to be next door to the Fox Theater, will take its logical place between Chicago and Toronto. It's slated to open by late summer.

For more information about auditioning, call 965-2222.

Conference attracts teachers from around nation

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

If last week you drove past Plymouth-Canton Educational Park, you might have noticed license plates from South Dakota, Oregon, California, Canada, Missouri and Indiana.

Nearly 200 educators convened in Plymouth-Canton for the Network for Outcome-Based Schools' first annual conference. The three-day seminar was hosted by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, and about 40 teachers helped out, volunteering their services with registration, transportation, and group sessions.

Superintendent John Hoben has served as president of the OBE organization for the past five years.

Rather than failing students, outcome-based programs give students the chance to relearn material and retake tests until they master desired objectives.

Many of the conference presenters are disciples of Professor Ben Bloom of the University of Chicago, who adapted the work of John Carroll, said Hoben. "Carroll said you could improve instruction if you improve time management. He developed mastery learning, getting more people to achieve at a higher level. Outcome-based education grew out of that."

"We've had some excellent speakers," said Hoben during a break in the action Friday. Hoben conducted several demonstrations of the high technology which soon will be in use in schools throughout the district.

Eight of the conference participants were educators from the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation south of Rapid City, S.D.

Joe Brown Eyes is Pine Ridge school board president. "The conference is pretty good. I've learned a lot of things that will be useful," Brown Eyes said. "What we have to do is to get OBE accreditation. Part of our job is to get accredited so when our kids come out of school, they can go to any school they choose."

Terry Rouillard, a school board member on the reservation, said outcome-based education makes sense. "This way, kids really learn the stuff. You're not just brushing them off with a grade."

Curriculum developer Fedelia Cross and teachers Sharon Bowman, Linda Lyons, Roberta White, Howard White and Deb Bordeaux also traveled here from South Dakota's Loneman school.

Loneman has more than 300 students enrolled in preschool through eighth grade.

Albert Mamary, formerly superintendent of Johnson City Schools, N.Y., spoke Friday morning. His talk dealt with applying OBE in practical ways and his belief that students have a better chance at success if teachers can help them build their self esteem.

"He was fantastic. I'm going to try to get him back for the opening day for teachers (next fall)," said Hoben.

John Champlin, described by Hoben as the father of the movement, also was well-received. The executive director for the National Center for Outcome-Based Education compared healthy organizations which foster excellence to diseased organizations which inhibit excellence.

Other notable speakers included John Hillary, director of instruction at a high school in Arlington Heights, Ill., who addressed implementing OBE; and Alan Cohen, director of the Center for Outcome-Based Education and a professor at the University of San Francisco, who spoke about research.

Joan Hyman, also a professor at the University of San Francisco, addressed instructional strategies to increase achievement.

James Block, professor at the University of California at Santa Barbara, spoke about how mastery learning relates to emotional and mental health.

Kathleen Fitzpatrick, assistant superintendent of instruction in Arlington Heights, Ill., talked about how to restructure a school to accommodate an outcome-based framework.

Bill Smith, executive director of the Network for Outcome-Based Schools, highlighted brain research and its connection to control theory and reality therapy through "connected, not fragmented," curriculum development.

"Students know something when they see the relationship of one thing to another. That's when there's profound connectedness," Smith told a group session. "When there's profound connectedness, kids get passionate about rote memorization. They'll tear the place down for you."

Madonna women split

A doubleheader split was reason for the Madonna University women's softball team to be pleased Wednesday.

The Crusaders (8-18) managed to win a game from Wayne State (20-7), which is ranked ninth nationally in NCAA Division II.

Carolyn Nagel's RBI triple in the eighth inning allowed Madonna to edge the Tartars 4-3 in the nightcap.

Kristen Wasil was the winning pitcher. Tracy Parenti's RBI triple in the sixth tied the score. The Crusaders outit Wayne State 12-11.

The Tartars won the first game 3-2. Madonna had a chance to break open the game in the third inning, according to coach Dave Racer. The first three batters reached base with the Nos. 4 and 5 hitters coming up, but the Crusaders got only one run out of it. Dawn Terrasi was the losing pitcher.

College baseball

Observerland has several former prep baseball players enjoying fine collegiate seasons in 1993.

Westland John Glenn graduate Clint Straub, a senior at the University of Detroit-Mercy, leads Midwestern Collegiate Conference pitchers in earned run average through games of April 12. Straub, 2-0 as a pitcher, has allowed two earned runs in 18 innings for a 1.00 ERA. UD-Mercy, which leads the MCC in team pitching with a 3.24 ERA, is in second place behind Notre Dame in the MCC at 7-1, 9-7 overall.

The University of Michigan has struggled to a 3-9 Big Ten start and a 9-24 overall record but because of Plymouth Salem graduate Todd Marion. The right-handed senior reliever, who is the all-time saves leader at U-M, owns a 0.47 ERA in 19.1 innings pitched. Marion, who is 0-1, has allowed 15 hits and struck out 21.

Brett Welling, who graduated from Redford Catholic Central, is on a hitting tear as a junior at Adrian College. Welling is second in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association with a .722 batting average and first in RBI with six. Welling, a Westland native, is second in total bases in the MIAA with 14 and has 13 hits in 18 at-bats. Adrian is in second place behind first-place Alma in the MIAA with a 3-3 record.

Fishing derby

The Sixth Annual Kids Fishing Derby will be Saturday and Sunday, May 1-2, at Heritage Park in Canton Township. The event is sponsored by Canton Parks and Recreation Services and is open only to Canton residents.

Boys and girls ages 3 (by May 1) to 15 are eligible. The fee is $1 per child to be paid the day of the event.

Times will be 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and noon to 3 p.m. Sunday. Participants may register for one one-hour time period.

The Heritage Park ponds will be stocked with rainbow trout, and awards will be given for the largest fish caught. First prize is a $100 savings bond.

Advance registration can be done in person at 1150 S. Canton Center Road or by calling Canton Parks and Recreation at 397-5110. Children can register the day of the event if space remains.

Hoop officials camp

St. Cecilia's second annual Basketball Officiating Camp for men and women age 18 and over will be held July 9, 10 and 11. The camp is for those interested in becoming high school officials and will be held 6-9 p.m. Friday, July 9, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, July 10-11.

St. Cecilia's is located in Detroit at 10400 Stoepl near the intersection of Livernois and Grand River. Cost is $70. For more information, call Smith at 272-4608.

Bunny Hop race results

Dave Chomet of Royal Oak nudged out Chuck Block of Livonia at the tape to win the annual Metro-Macomb Runners Four-Mile Easter Bunny Hop on April 10 at Metropolitan Beach.

Both runners were clocked at 21:39. Chomet placed first in the 18-24 age bracket and Block was first in the 35-39 bracket.

Several area runners finished in the top three of their age groups.

Livonia's Rob Block was first in the 13-under boys (28:56); Farmington Hills' Dave Peterson won the 25-29 men (22:10); Westland's Brett Milley was first in the 30-34 men's (22:45); Larry Wibright, Plymouth, won the 45-49 men's (25:55); Plymouth's Herb Seegert was first in the 55-59 men's (28:26) and Del Siser of Livonia was second (31:39); Fred Gurol, Farmington Hills, was first in the 70-74 men's (33:00).

Basketball team MVP

Sawn Respert, a Redford Bishop Borgess graduate, was presented the Charles S. Phillips Award as the Michigan State basketball team's most valuable player, as selected by the media. The 6-foot-3 sophomore guard led MSU in scoring and was fourth in the Big Ten, averaging 20.1 points a game.

Keystone duo: Seniors Kate Strahan (foreground) and Dani Mortiere return to handle the second base and shortstop duties for the Chiefs. Both are among the team's top hitters.

Chiefs set for softball success

Plymouth Canton's tournament run took it to the Class A softball final last year, but the Chiefs settled for second place. Canton and defending champion Jenison are among the top teams again in the coaches preseason poll.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

This much is certain: Plymouth Canton remains a fine softball team and will have another good year.

Some people might use more glowing adjectives to describe the Chiefs, but greater superlatives would refer only to potential since they have yet to play a game in 1993.

However, the Chiefs begin a new season with expectations of continued success following an outstanding campaign last year.

Canton was the runner-up in the Class A tournament, won the Western Lakes Activities Association championship and posted a 32-4 record, setting a school record for single-season victories.

With the return of all-state pitcher Kelly Holmes and other key players, it's likely the Chiefs will do as well and possibly win the state title.

The players and coaches have discussed such matters and decided "We're not going to talk about going back to Battle Creek," said coach Jim Arnold, who is 52-9 in two years.

"If we achieve all the goals we set for the team, yes, we will be back. But we can't talk about that now, because I don't think you stay focused as well."

The Chiefs believe if they do the right things game after game they will have built the foundation for another successful tournament run in June. Thus, the team has set goals for each game:

■ Score at least four runs and hold the opposition to three or less.

■ Do not strike out any more than four times a game. "That means you're hitting the ball and if you hit the ball anything can happen," Arnold said.

■ Do not look at a called third strike; be alert on the bases; play good, fundamental defense.

Canton is ranked No. 2 in the preseason coaches poll, but defending state champion Jenison remains No. 1. The Wildcats defeated Canton 1-0 in nine innings in the state final.

"If our goals are met, sure, we'd like to have another shot at Jenison," Arnold said. "If everything happens right, we'll go at them again."

"The way I see it now this team will be very similar to last year's team. We're looking for a lot of positive things to happen."

Holmes top returnee

The Chiefs return 11 of 16 players, but the five who graduated were starters: catcher Renee Dory, infielders Julie Nicastrì (first) and Nicole Sequin (third) and outfielders Sarah Schimmelpenneg and Holly Miller.

But Canton returns the key player in Holmes, who will be a scholarship player at the University of Michigan next year.

She was 23-3 with 289 strikeouts (47 walks) and an earned-run average of 0.35 in 178½ innings. She is 53-9 over the last three years and has a school-record 635 strikeouts.

"I think she'll pick up where she left off last year," Arnold said. "She's been pitching all winter long and she's ready to go. She's a real competitor and also a team player."

Madonna stays close to district leader

The Madonna baseball team was about as stable as the Michigan weather in a pair of double-headers Wednesday and Thursday. It blew both hot and cold.

Yet, after splitting a pair with Spring Arbor (down 6-3 in the first, up 19-7 in the second) and Concordia (down 2-1, up 4-0), the Crusaders were still just percentage points behind first-place Spring Arbor in NAA District 23 play.

"The last three years we've gone to Spring Arbor either in first place or tied for first and came out in second place or worse," said coach Mike

BASEBALL

George. "At least this year we came out still in first."

More or less. Spring Arbor is 9-3 (.750 winning percentage) in the District, 15-8 overall. Madonna is 7-3 (.700), 19-10 overall. Technically, Spring Arbor is in first by .50.

"Still, to come back and win that second game kind of got the monkey off our backs," George said.

The Crusader bats, which have been hitting at a healthy .295 clip, were subdued in game one by Spring Arbor right-hander Jim Knight. He allowed six hits, two of which were solo homers by Joe Brusseau and Shaun Hayward, in a 6-3 win.

Tracy Lacky's two-run homer and Tim Symington's solo shot were the big blows for Spring Arbor. It was the first loss of the season for Madonna right-hander Louie McKaig (3-1).

"We had some opportunities," George said. "We hit a couple of balls that they chased down right at the fence that would have turned the game around."

The Crusaders may not have cleared the fences in game one, but they tore them down in a 19-7 romp in game two. The Crusaders smacked the Cougars with a school-record 15-run fifth inning that featured grand slam home runs by Jim Solak and Rich Roy.

"How often do you see two grand slams in one inning?" George said.

Jeff Miller and George Leung also homered for Madonna. It was the first homer of Leung's career.

Ryan Grabetz, 3-0, was the beneficiary of the hit and homer parade.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth Salem baseball wasted no time getting to the business of hitting and scoring runs Thursday.

In two games, the Rocks scored a total of 12 first-inning runs and swept a home doubleheader from Southgate Anderson, 9-7 and 7-4.

The Salem batters were no doubt eager to do that following a pep talk from coach John Gravlin after so-so showings the previous two days.

"Most of all, I was pleased to see us come out swinging the bats so well," said Gravlin, adding the Rocks didn't Tuesday against Royal Oak Kimball and Wednesday in a scrimmage with Howell.

"I sorta read them the riot act and suggested they get more aggressive at the plate. We like our guys to swing the bat and they did today. They came up and really attacked. There were no cheap hits in the bunch."

In the first game, Salem (3-1) scored five runs in the first inning and led 8-0 after three before the Titans rallied to make it close.

Jamie Owens led the 13-hit attack, going 3-for-4 with two doubles and scoring two runs. Brandon Los had two hits and three RBI, and John Klask also scored a pair of runs.

"That's the way it's supposed to be," Gravlin said. "The first two (Owens and Klask) scored a lot of runs, and the rest got a lot of RBI."

Salem had six hits in the first inning, which included a two-run single by Los and RBI singles by Charlie Winstel and winning pitcher Eric Kida.

BASEBALL

Eric Stryker added an RBI double in the fourth to score the ninth run.

Kida threw three scoreless innings before giving up four runs in the fourth. Brandon Walton worked the last three. Southgate had 12 hits but only one walk off the Salem pitchers. The Rocks turned two double plays.

Southgate shortstop Chris Chapo, who didn't play last year while he battled leukemia, was 3-for-4 including a two-run double, stole two bases and scored a run. He also made two rally-stopping plays on defense, Gravlin said.

In the second game, Salem scored seven times in the first inning. The big hit was a three-run homer over the left-field fence by Bryan Zarosely.

"He usually bats ninth, and his job is to bunt, get on base and steal," said Gravlin, adding the ball landed a foot from the creek. "We knew he had a little power, and he showed it off today."

Mike Marsella contributed a two-run single, Allan Moran and Los RBI singles in the first inning. Zarosely was the only Salem player with two hits, the other being a drag bunt to contrast with his homer. Both teams had seven hits total.

"We threatened the rest of the game, but their catcher made some big plays," Gravlin said. "We got real aggressive on the bases and tried to make some things happen, and he threw out three of our runners."

"But as high as we were after that game, we were laid low again the next day," George said.

Concordia broke an 18-game losing streak at the expense of Madonna in the first game Thursday, scoring a 2-1 victory. Mike Cooper shut the Crusaders down on three hits.

"He pitched a great game, and so did our guy," George said, referring to Mike Coleman, who allowed just one hit and one earned run while striking out eight. Concordia scored a run in the fourth on a wild pitch and another in the fifth on an error.

second-year coach

"Mike is 1-3 this year and he ought to be 4-0," George said. "He lost a 3-2 game to Northwood, 2-1 to Concordia and 5-1 to Grand Valley. He pitched well enough to win all those games."

In the second game, Joe Jentzer (2-1) blanked Concordia on six hits, winning 4-0.

"I just can't say enough about our pitching," George said. "Our team earned run average (2.89) is lower than our batting average (.295) and that is real rare. I have five guys that I can call my No. 1 starter."

Hayward and Grabetz are 3-0, McKaig is 3-1, Jeff Kugelmann is 2-1 and Coleman is 1-3.

"When we lost our ace reliever (Sean Henkel), that put a lot of extra pressure on the starters and they've really come through for us," George said.

Henkel, a junior who stretched some muscles in his throwing shoulder, is lost for the season. George said he will petition the NAIA for a medical waiver so that Henkel doesn't lose a year of eligibility.

"It's nice to be where we are at this point in the season," George said. "But I really don't think we've played as well as we are going to. Our defense has got to get better and we still have a couple career .300 hitters who aren't hitting .300."

He does have eight .300 hitters, however, led by Hayward (.340, four homers), Brusseau (.337) and Miller (.326). Craig Overaitis (.319) is tied with Solak and Hayward for the team lead in homers with four, and leads with 19 RBI.

The most unsung player might be senior pitcher Colleen Baker, who would be a starter on most teams. She was 8-1 and worked 51 1/3 innings. Junior pitcher Jamie Sikora will divide time between the varsity and JV.

Other key returnees are senior infielders Dani Mortiere at shortstop and Kate Strahan at second base.

Mortiere, another all-stater and team co-captain with Holmes, broke a finger on her glove hand in January. She is replaced by sophomore Sarah Rowe, who started in the outfield, but should be able to play soon.

"Dani is one of the sparkplugs of the team," Arnold said. "She's a real competitive ballplayer and keeps our team together with her spirit."

"She can play anywhere; she's a natural. She's one of the most complete ballplayers I've had."

Strahan, who was an all-state honorable mention, and Mortiere are two of the biggest producers on offense besides being good defenders.

Mortiere hit .398 (45-113), Strahan .305 (25-82). Both had 20 RBI and scored 38 and 28 runs, respectively.

"I would predict (Strahan) will be all-state this year if she has another year like last year," Arnold said. "She's excellent with the glove, hits well and is a good, smart softball player."

New starters in lineup

Senior Laura Ciantar will be the catcher with backup help from junior Stacy Movinski. When given the opportunity to play last year, Ciantar hit .394 (13-33).

"She has improved a lot and has taken command of the team," Arnold said. "She's worked real hard and we're going to give her the shot at being the No. 1 catcher."

Senior Karrie Drinkhahn takes over at first base. The left-handed hitter had a .338 average (22-65), scored 27 runs and had 17 RBI. Senior Lisa Nicastrì also can play first.

"Karrie has paid her dues," Arnold said. "She has a good work ethic and is determined to be the best she can be. She'll fill the spot well."

"It's a position that's extremely important when Kelly Holmes is pitching, because most balls are going to be hit to that side of the infield."

The third baseman will be one of three returning seniors: Tina Schafer, Michelle Metzger or Traci Ligner. The other two will play in the outfield.

Schafer batted .394 (13-33) and Metzger .333 (18-54) with 12 RBI. When Mortiere returns, Rowe will return to right field. She was a key contributor as a freshman, hitting .258 (25-97) with 23 runs scored and 14 RBI.

Nicastrì can play the outfield, too, and the Chiefs also have juniors and former JV players Heather Schafer, Heather Lagrow and Renee Jones.

"We don't have a power hitter like we had in Renee Dory but that's OK," Arnold said, regarding the team's offensive potential. "Give me the singles and we'll beat teams. They're hitting off our pitchers and, if they can hit off Kelly, they can hit off anybody in the state."

Area players do their part for U.S. team

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

When the U.S. Under-20 National Soccer Team competed last month in the seventh annual World Youth Championships for the FIFA/Coca-Cola in Australia, Michigan was represented more than any state on the 17-member squad.

Specifically, all three Michigan players were former All-Observer players including goalie Jeff Casar and Mike Gentile, both of Livonia Churchill High; along with Plymouth's Kerry Zavagnin, a product of Redford Catholic Central.

While Casar's stellar play was the most talked about as far as the U.S. team was concerned, Under-20 National Coach Bobby Howe also appreciates the efforts of Zavagnin and Gentile, a pair of midfielders.

Zavagnin, now a freshman at the University of North Carolina, had a goal and an assist in a 2-2 tie with South Korea.

He started in all four matches as Team USA finished 1-2-1 over all. The U.S. was ousted by Brazil in the quarterfinals.

"When Kerry came to us in November of 1991 from the region tourney selection process for our team, he was probably the last of our 24 players selected," Howe said. "During the past 18 months, little by little, Kerry has worked himself into the starting group, and I'd say for the past six months, he's been our most consistent player."

During his freshman year at UNC, Zavagnin started all 20 games and finished tied for second in goals with six. He gained All-Atlantic Coast Conference and All-South honors as a freshman for the Tar Heels.

Zavagnin has made 35 starts and played in 43 games since joining the Under-20 National Team.

Gentile, an All-Big Ten performer as a freshman last fall from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, was plagued by injuries during the Under-20's trip to Australia.

He did not see action in any of Team USA's four games.

"Mike has to regard himself as the most unfortunate of players," Howe said. "He two injuries, one in our training camp and another before our first game."

Jon Paul Patete was the starting winning pitcher. He went four innings and left with a 7-3 lead. Jay Daneek worked one inning and Nirav Kher the final two.

"Southgate battled us all the way and we responded," Gravin said. "That was good to see early in the year, especially with young kids."

"When the guys come to the ballpark next Tuesday, I think they'll be more aggressive, because they found out how much fun it can be."

PLYMOUTH CANTON

The Chiefs also swept a double-header on Wednesday, finishing the first game and starting the second with a big display of offense to defeat Redford Union 11-5 and 12-5 at Central Middle School.

Canton trailed 4-0 in the first game before scoring 11 runs in the late innings. Brian Lemke had the game-winning hit to put the Chiefs ahead 6-5 in the sixth.

"We didn't come to play in the first game, and I was mildly upset for 4 1/2 innings," Canton coach Mark LaPointe. "Matt Horn and Mike Staford got things going from an attitude standpoint. We needed an attitude check on the bench."

Stafford, Brad Paskievitch, Chris Johnson and Lemke had two hits apiece, including a two-run homer by Paskievitch. Stafford also scored three runs; Johnson, who had two RBI, and Eric Marcotte scored twice each.

Dean Rovinelli was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Scott Valimont. He worked the last four innings, allowed one hit and one walk and struck out three.

In contrast to the first game, Canton scored all of its runs in the first three innings of the nightcap and led 12-0.

"In the second game, we came back and played the way we should have started the first game," LaPointe said. "But we got too big a lead and sat back and lost focus."

"I have a tendency to be Ebenezer Scrooge and not let the guys enjoy themselves. But we were enjoying ourselves too much, and it could have gotten away from us."

The big hit for the Chiefs (3-3) was a two-run homer by Ryan Ostach. The ball landed on Adams Street, and LaPointe estimated it traveled 380 feet.

Stafford, who had three RBI with a bases-loaded double, Lemke, Mark Schankowski and Adam Gilles had two hits apiece. Schankowski (one RBI) also scored three runs, Gilles (two RBI), Lemke and Horn two each.

"We started to play the way we're capable," LaPointe said. "We're a good team, and I think we're improving on a daily basis."

Jesse Sund hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning for the Panthers (1-4). Brian Berryman added a solo homer and Larry Narkiewicz a two-run triple.

Paskievitch pitched six innings and was the winner. Horn worked the seventh.

A Better Way To Settle Conflict

There is a better way to settle a divorce dispute than a costly courtroom battle. You can control the decisions that affect your family with a mediator. A mediator is an impartial person who helps people in conflict make practical, informed decisions when tension is high.

DIVORCE MEDIATION

- is typically less costly than litigation,
- benefits children and others by reducing conflict,
- is a voluntary settlement process around financial and child visitation issues.

Scenery, score among few assets in tepid remake

By Steven Alan McGaw

Like many, Rick Schroder first read Jack London's Call of the Wild when he was a boy.

"I read it straight through, in a single sitting," Schroder recalls. "It was so vivid, the sights, the sounds, even the smells. It made me feel like I was in the Yukon. It's a wonderful book."

It is indeed, and one that seems a perfect source for the movies. William Wellman directed Clark Gable in the first film version of London's story in 1935, an effort that perhaps told more about Hollywood than the Yukon, but thrilled nonetheless. Charlton Heston headed the cast of a lackluster 1972 remake that offered little besides beautiful scenery.

London's evocative story of the rush for gold and the mysterious bond between a young prospector and his dog was effectively captured in a 1976 made-for-TV film. Scripted by author James Dickey (Deliverance), the work walked a delicate line between violent adventure story and philosophical remination on the natural world and man's place in it. The film was anchored by John Beck's performance as John Thornton, the young man who renounces his father's wealth to test his mettle in a new and merciless environment.

Now, Schroder plays Thornton in a new version of Call of the Wild airing Sunday, April 25, on CBS. Sadly, this telling of London's tale has more in common with the Heston film than the other two movies or the deceptively simple source novel.

Most of the blame must be placed on Christopher Lofton's shallow screenplay. His approach to the material is reminiscent of the old Classics Illustrated comic books, faithfully re-creating the skeleton of the story, but denuding it of any of the excitement or emotional resonance that has brought London's novel generations of readers since its first publication in 1903.

In Lofton's version, we never understand why Thornton chooses to leave his father's handsome Seattle home and profitable lumber business, or the source of the mutual re-

Lofton's biggest mistake is his abrupt handling of the warm, almost mystical bond that develops between John and Buck, the German shepherd he rescues from a sadistic sled driver. With no help from the script (and little from Schroder's performance), we are left to chalk it up to kismet.

Schroder struggles gamely with the role but, most of the time is simply unbelievable as the hot-headed young rebel who thinks he's prospecting for gold until he learns he's really looking for himself. His best moments come in his warm off-screen narration, using passages taken directly from London's text.

Schroder says he identified with Thornton when he reread the novel prior to the start of filming.

"John Thornton was not only looking for answers, he was looking for questions," the actor explains. "Being a young man myself—22 years old—I know how he feels. I don't know everything I want to know, I haven't seen all that I want to see."

Tootoosis brings more dignity than warranted to Lofton's corny depiction of Charlie, and Mia Sara is radiant and appealing as Jessie, with whom John has a brief romance.

Filmed in British Columbia, the movie offers beautiful, striking scenery and an implicit message of environmentalism that is personally important to Schroder.

"John Thornton is definitely a naturalist," Schroder explains, "and what I get from the book is that Man is a part of the Earth. He's not some god-like creature that doesn't belong here, or an alien that was just put on the planet. But some people seem to have no connection to the wind or the sea or the forest. All they're connected to is the pavement."

Call of the Wild is sponsored by Kraft General Foods, and the company is distributing free copies of the novel and other materials to schools around the country. Perhaps the best result of this disappointing film is that more young people will be moved to read London's timeless tale of individuality and discovery.

It is, after all, a wonderful book.

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

You will most likely be bogged down with paperwork with little time left for fun. Things may seem bleak, but success is on the horizon.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

You may be confused about a personal dilemma. Look inward and you will find the answer. Someone close to you needs your help but is afraid to ask.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

You may be surprised by a fortunate adjustment in your love life. Ideas and creativity will flow freely, and you will accomplish more than expected.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

An unexpected financial opportunity is headed your way, and you should make the most of it. Tackle your problems one at a time.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)

Use your charms and resources to get your point across to authority figures. You will need their help later on, so it is best not to make them angry.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

An unexpected caller will bring you a gift or special message. A short trip could be in the works for you, and it might be with a special friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

Plans for a social outing with family or friends will be more fun than you thought. There could be problems with paperwork and presentations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

You may feel tired and run down, but cheer up - many good things are on the way for you. You may begin to formulate ideas on a new line of work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

A declaration of love is on the way for you, and it could come from a surprising source. Tensions will ease off soon and you will feel free.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)

Sometimes striving for constant perfection could be a tiresome thing. Give yourself a break and create a more comfortable environment for yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

No matter how much you may want a certain item, do not take it if all is not right. If something is meant to be, it will happen on its own accord.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You will solve a problem quickly if you take a little time to look at all the angles. Important news will bring about a feeling of great satisfaction.
