Shared firefighting up in smoke

Sharing fire services between the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township has long been discussed. But that all ended last week when the parties finally came to an agreement: They can't agree. Talks have broken down again.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Once again, joint Plymouth-Plymouth Township fire services talks are off.

After three years, off-and-on discussions on the matter have produced one agreement.

That was a three-paragraph press release on Friday, which stated that the fire unions and administrations couldn't agree.

"Despite the sincere and honest efforts of the municipalities and the fire unions, joint service discussions between the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township have come to an impasse," it read.

"If I was sitting outside watching this, I'd be saying, 'Come on; what's the problem? Why can't you do this?'" commented James Haar, president of the township firefighters union.

"But there are many tough issues to deal with; we just couldn't get anywhere," he said.

Both Haar and township Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy said they weren't blaming the other side for the impasse.

"The way I looked at it, we all failed," Haar said.

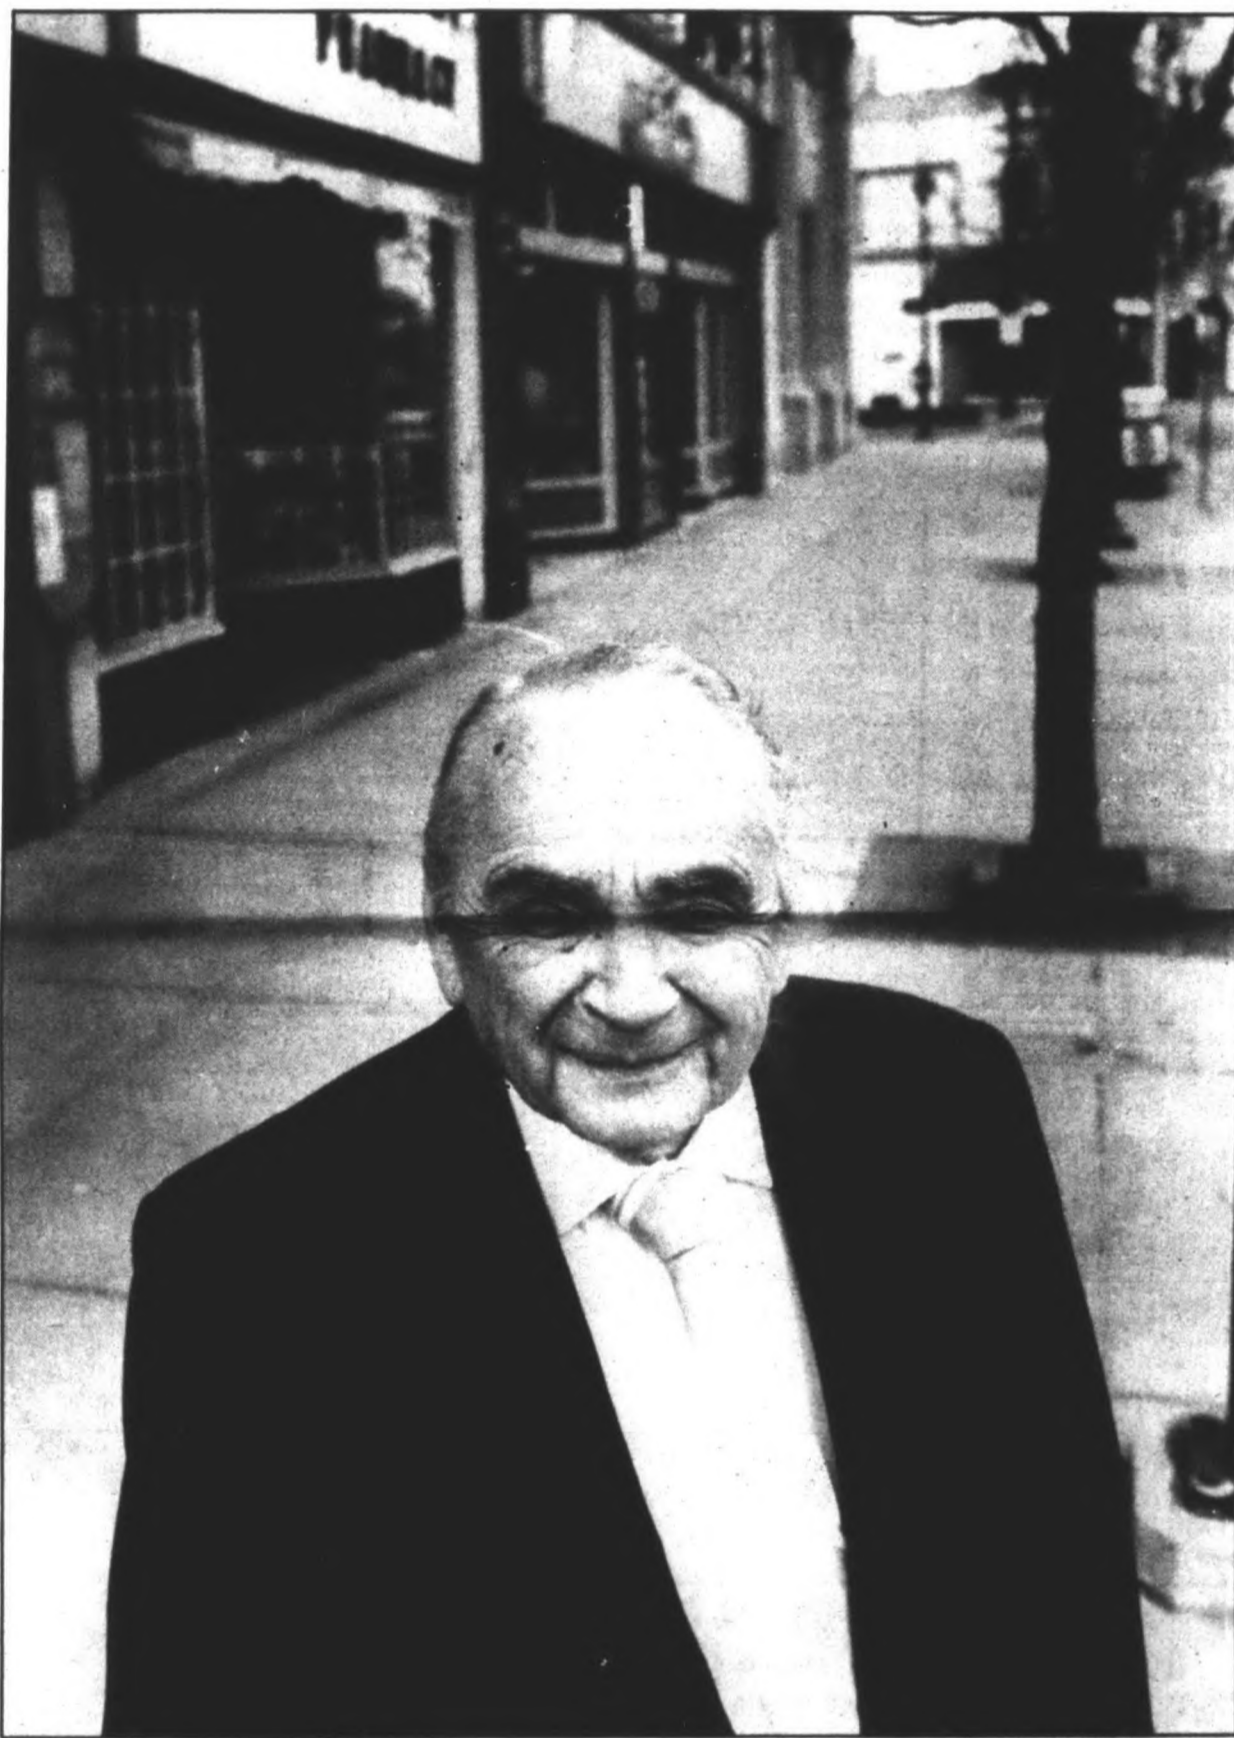

"We're all disappointed we've reached the impasse," McCarthy said. "All sides worked real hard at trying to make this go."

The parties said the sticking point was the number of firefighters to be on staff to serve the city and township.

Jones and McCarthy first proposed a department with 22 firefighters, and the fire unions proposed 30.

The two administrators eventually came up to 24, and the unions down

Streetscape: Jean Morrow of Plymouth wants to put up for a vote a plan to make street and sidewalk improvements.

Petition would put street plan on ballot

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Jean Morrow says people should have a chance to vote on the planned $2.4-million street and sidewalk improvement plan.

"It's not so much to say I'm against the whole concept, but I think the voters should have a chance," said Morrow, a former city commission candidate and long-time commission watcher.

"If we don't get the bonds (state backing), it falls back on the city," he said.

So Morrow and some friends are seeking petition signatures, enough to put the streetscape renovation plan on a citywide ballot.

"I need 714 signatures of registered voters; we have 7,146 registered voters in Plymouth," said Morrow.

He started the effort April 8 and has until May 24 to collect those signatures.

Helping him are Plymouth residents Tom Moody, Paul Nastoff, Bob Kinchular and Sandy Koski.

How's the petition drive going? "It's been raining the last few days," said Morrow on Thursday, from his home at the Mayflower Apartments.

Residency up for 2nd city vote

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

City of Plymouth voters will be asked in November to change the city charter to allow the hiring of department heads who live outside the city.

In November 1992, voters rejected a measure that would have ended the current residency requirement for all department heads, except the city manager.

But with city commissioners and a charter study committee agreeing that some change is still in order, the commission on April 19 approved putting a revised charter change on the ballot.

"The major thing is last time there were no border limits," said Hugh Harsha, of the charter revision committee.

This time, voters will be asked to extend the boundary for such hiring beyond the city limits, to include Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville and Northville Township.

By the proposed change, the city manager will still be required to live in Plymouth.

The theory behind the change is that extending the residency boundary would better serve city residents, as a larger talent pool could be drawn from.

"The city has an area of about 2.2 square miles compared with 73 square miles in the communities proposed, and a population of less than 10,000 compared with about 115,000," according to a committee report.

The committee found the city "is becoming more at risk for less than superior city management if a residency restriction continues."

"The choice of housing also is less available in the city than in surrounding areas so that a burden may be placed on a candidate who can find more attractive and available housing close by but not necessarily within the city limits," the committee reported.

The only alternative, the committee found, is to pay a prospective department head more to afford housing in the city.

The committee rejected the ideas of a five- or 10-mile limit.

The ballot question must go to the secretary of state and the governor before it can officially be placed on the November ballot.

Harsha said the committee will probably start trying to publicize the proposed charter change in June or July.

Radios stolen from 2 auto dealers

Radios were reported stolen April 19 from two Plymouth Township car dealers. According to a report filed with township police, an employee at Hines Park Mercury, 40601 Ann Arbor Road, discovered at 10 a.m. that radios had been taken from several cars and there was $1,200 in damage to the cars parked at the dealership. There were no other missing items, according to the report. Then at Fox Hills Plymouth, 111 Ann Arbor Road, an employee discovered at noon that several radios were missing from vehicles on the lot.

Locks to two Jeep Cherokees were reported damaged, and damage was estimated at $400, the report continued. Police are investigating the thefts.

Angry borrower threatens credit union employee

A 34-year-old Community Federal Credit Union employee told police that she was threatened by someone upset about a car loan April 22. The suspect, a 20-year-old Canton man, said, "I'm going to take her out and she'll be taken care of." The threats were made in the presence of the suspect's mother and other credit union employees, police said. The man was reportedly upset that a car he was purchasing was seized in a drug forfeiture, and that a subsequent investigation by the credit union resulted in a second vehicle financed by the credit union being repossessed.

Glengarry owners upset over running of association our term." Glengarry resident Willie Schroeder is another who resents the way things were handled. "We got this letter from Vic Gustafson saying, 'I'm your new management company. Send me money.' My question is, how did he get chosen? Who chose this guy to be our leader?"

A portion of the dues — $500 — will pay for a newsletter. "Nine or 10 homes in our sub have home computers capable of putting out a little newsletter," said Schroeder.

Instead of operating it themselves and paying dues of $30 as they thought they were going to, homeowners say a management company has been hired for them, and that residents are being charged $200 a year in association fees.

"Mr. (Richard) Lewiston (the subdivision developer) hired him, and we didn't have a vote on it. They want us to elect a board of directors, but that is fruitless," said Cathy Johnson, a Glengarry resident and Canton planning commissioner. "If we are going to have a board of directors and be involved, I think we are quite capable of making our own decisions and managing our development."

Schroeder said he was told that once 100 homes were built, the association would be turned over to residents. "What happened? Once they got 99 homes in, they went and made a change in the covenant, deeds and restrictions giving three-year control to a management company and charging homeowners with dues of $200. Part of that money pays the management company. The guy who's head of the management company is also on the planning commission, which I found kind of interesting. I think it's a conflict of interest."

Gustafson says the management company is acting with homeowners' best interests in mind. "There was a homeowners' association meeting last night, and there was a board of directors elected," he said Friday. "In the next few weeks, officers will be elected, strictly by the bylaws. The whole design of a management company is to work in harmony and tandem with the board of directors of the association, providing the best possible services that are available in the marketplace."

Membership in the association is automatic upon occupancy. Residents say they were told by builders that once enough home buyers have moved in, administration of the association would be turned over to them.

Wolverine could hardly be called an interim manager, she added, because it's been hired for three years.

Gustafson said he doesn't know where residents heard dues would be $30.

The multi-phase subdivision is off Canton Center and Proctor roads across from the township administration building.

Johnson isn't sure what she's getting for her $200. "As far as I'm concerned, it isn't much. They've hired a snow removal company and a lawn maintenance company for our boulevards and

Adults show schoolkids that reading can be fun

The Great American Read Aloud program at the Plymouth District Library on Wednesday featured local government officials and other community notables reading aloud to kids.

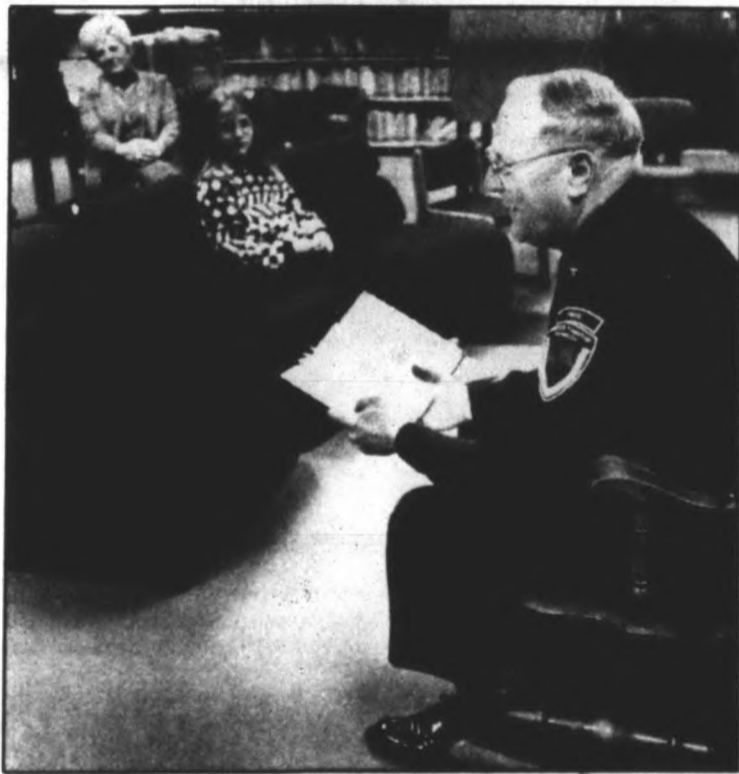

The event was organized by the Friends of the Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library. About a dozen kids and adults showed for the first-ever read-aloud program, which took place 3:30-7 p.m.

"It's been done at other libraries, having people from the community come in and read," said Pam Rawlinson, library deputy director.

The event was in conjunction with National Library Week.

Among those reading were Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy, township police Chief Carl Berry, city police Chief Robert Scoggins, former U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, Plymouth city attorney Ron Lowe, and former library board president Carol Davis.

"They chose their own favorite," Rawlinson said.

Manager gets positive review

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth has a winner in City Manager Steve Walters.

That was the general opinion expressed by city commissioners Thursday in an annual performance review of the city manager.

Several commissioners cited Walters' knowledge of city government, his ability to bring the budget under control, and an readiness to quickly provide information to commissioners when needed.

"We're very satisfied with the type of work he's doing," said Mayor Robert Jones.

Commissioner James Jabara, who first served on the commission in 1963, said, "I've probably seen eight or nine city managers in that time."

"Steve Walters stands head and shoulders above any of them," Jabara said.

The review took place during a special commission meeting, and Walters was given the option of attending or staying away.

"He did not attend; he felt that would allow the city commission to be more open and spontaneous and not inhibited by his being there," said commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury.

Still, in reviewing Walters' performance commissioners tried to raise areas in which the city manager could improve.

While Shrewsbury praised Walters' overall performance, he said he had one concern: how Walters may be perceived by city employees.

"There was generally high praise in just about every category we were looking at," Shrewsbury said. "Most agreed that he was good at getting information to us."

"There may be a perception of a lack of communication or autocratic behavior where he appears to be inaccessible to employees," Shrewsbury said. "I was concerned with how he was perceived by employees and how that affects their morale."

To keep city taxes from rising, Walters in recent months reorganized city departments, laying off some employees and shifting job duties for others.

Shrewsbury and commissioner Doug Miller had been charged with creating a form to rank the city manager's performance, but the commission decided to abandon that approach for an oral review, Shrewsbury said.

Walters, a former Northville city manager, started as Plymouth city manager on June 1, 1991. His employment contract runs through May 31, 1994.

"I think generally everybody is very pleased with the job Steve's doing," Miller said.

"I think he's particularly good at planning, collecting and analyzing data, and recommending a course of action. I think he's extremely analytical; I think he has a very good handle on the law which relates to the city, the applicable state laws," Miller said.

"We had to think hard of things we weren't pleased with," he added.

In overall performance, Jabara said he gives Walters "an A plus."

"Quite frankly, he's straightened out the financial problems we've had; he knows where to make cuts," Jabara said, adding Walters often puts in 70 hours a week.

"I would hope that the people in general appreciate what he's done for the city," Jabara said.

Jones met with Walters on Friday, to review commissioners' comments.

Students take action to celebrate Earth Day

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Earth Day was commemorated in a big way at Our Lady of Good Counsel school in Plymouth.

More than 500 students and teachers teamed up to clean up the school grounds, make posters and pennants, read about the environment, and begin an in-school recycling program.

The science club made a special effort to spruce up the grounds in readiness for spring.

The day's activities culminated with the entire school body assembling in the courtyard Thursday with a "piece ribbon," a mural made by students showing their concern for the ocean, earth and animals.

Eighth grader Aaron Moracain introduced the program, coordinated by the seventh graders.

Eighth grader Danielle Orelewicz spoke about the rain forests and mentioned that the science club is buying an acre of rain forest in the name of the school. Geoffrey Rahie, an eighth grader, spoke about recycling, and eighth grader Melissa Poma talked about endangered species.

Jon Page, a seventh grader, led a prayer service that closed the activity, and third and sixth graders sang Michael Jackson's "Heal the World."

"This was the first time we were able to get the whole school out there," said seventh-grade teacher Mary Thompson, who coordinated the event. "It was a lot of work. Each grade had a section of the school grounds to clean up as part of a week-long project."

"We thought this would be a nice way to get everyone together. There's so much enthusiasm at Good Counsel, and the weather cooperated, so it was just great." Students agreed.

"It was nice to be out here and enjoy Mother Earth," said Scott Malinowski, 12. "Probably, the message will get through. It really could make a difference if everyone did recycle. More people would probably do it if we start doing it."

John Rieger, 11, said, "I think if everybody listened, it could really help. There might not be as much pollution in the sea and litter on the roads."

Matt Lenhoff, 9, said, "It was a fun day. I really had fun drawing the stuff."

"I liked the singing and coloring on the poster," said Jeff Andonian, 8.

"It was fun, and I like just having fun," said Kathleen Carpenter, 9.

School activist dies at 84; called 'father of I CARE'

Ray Buckman of Plymouth Township, retired legislative liaison for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, died Friday at the age of 84.

A funeral Mass was to be held at 10 a.m. today at St. Fabian Catholic Church, 12 Mile and Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills. Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society in his memory.

Buckman was instrumental in forming the district's I CARE Committee that worked to pass a 4-mill, two-year tax increase when the schools were experiencing financial difficulty several years ago.

His activities earned him the title of "the father of I CARE," and a subsequent post as the district's legislative liaison.

When he retired, then-state

Ray Buckman school activist

Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, noted the occasion.

"An asset to the community, Mr. Buckman has distinguished himself as an extraordinary intermediary to the Plymouth-Canton School Board and state legislators and is well-deserving of the highest recognition.

Buckman grew up on a farm in Sterling Heights. He graduated from Utica High School and studied engineering and accounting at Northwestern University in Chicago and Wayne State University.

He worked for Briggs Manufacturing, the Hudson Motor Defense Department, International Detrola, and Masco Corp. A member of the Signal Corps, Buckman was drafted into government service on special assignment during the Persian Gulf War to work on applications of the Patriot missile. He was preceded in death by his wife, Mary Lega. He is survived by his son, Robert; daughter, Shirley; and five grandchildren.

Car wash to aid veterans group

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Phil Pursell is offering Plymouth/Canton Vietnam Veterans a new light on an old theme — a car wash.

But this car wash to raise money for the local chapter 528 won't be in a parking lot with buckets, hoses and rags. This fund-raiser will take place 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, May 2, in Pursell's Main Street Auto Wash, 1191 S. Main, Plymouth.

"It's more environmentally sound the way I'm doing it with the vets," Pursell said. Car washes in parking lots mean soapy water goes down storm drains and into the Rouge River.

Pursell said his system is tied into the sanitary sewer and the soapy water is treated before being released by the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department.

"We're trying to stress the ecological aspect with not flushing soapy water down the drain," said Don Dignan, past president of the veterans chapter 528.

But Pursell also wanted to help the chapter, which is hosting the Memorial Day Parade this year. "I was talking with my barber Greg Houddas (of Plymouth) and we were discussing car washes and he brought it up. So I said, 'I might be interested in helping them out.'"

At this event, patrons will receive a professional wash while donating what they can to the local Vietnam veterans chapter. "We will keep all the donations," said Don Dignan, former chapter president. "The money will go into our general fund."

Pursell and some of his staff will be on hand for the car wash. "The Plymouth/Canton vets will do the prepping and wiping at the end," Dignan said.

Chapter 528 also will participate in the Canton Literacy Spelling Bee and plans to use some of the money raised to buy materials for the event. The chapter also helps needy families and veterans in the local community, Dignan said.

to 27. But they couldn't agree jointly on a number.

At present, there are 25 firefighters employed in Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

According to both sides in the talks, the administrators said there wouldn't be any savings to the city or township to go to 27 firefighters. Meanwhile, the unions said fire staff couldn't be trimmed, as it is already at bare minimum.

"While all parties are hopeful that negotiations may resume and move forward in the near future, the municipalities must proceed with a review of the options available to provide services to the community," according to the joint statement.

Plymouth Mayor Robert Jones stressed the idea that negotiations could resume soon, adding, "We'll just see what happens."

The impasse means the township for the short term will continue to staff the new third fire station serving the township's west side only part time, McCarthy said.

But so far they've collected more than 100 signatures.

Once tagged at $5 million, the now $2.4-million project would be funded by a bond issue, paid back annually until 2008 by downtown development authority proceeds.

Plans call for new sidewalks and curbs, brick accents, tree guards, new underground wiring, refurbished lighting, a boulevard between Penniman and Ann Arbor Trail, and moving the clock on the west edge of Kellogg Park to the boulevard, a la Northville — among other design features.

While city commissioners have given the project a tentative go-ahead, they've yet to give it final approval.

City officials say that if voters pass the proposed tax shift plan in June — which would boost the sales tax to 6 percent while cutting property taxes — the DDA's budget would be cut.

Morrow said he's concerned about plans to move the clock, about fire truck access downtown, and about maintenance.

Unions accuse sheriff of threats, intimidation

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Two police union presidents attacked Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano last week after he allegedly threatened officers with disciplinary action regarding the formation of a Metro Airport police department April 16.

"There's no doubt in my mind that (Ficano) is a vindictive person," said Sgt. Robert Sheldon, the president of Local 3317 representing sergeants and lieutenants. "We have no respect for him."

The airport police unit was formed, according to airport director Robert Braun, because Ficano had been interfering with Braun's authority over the airport's 95 sheriff deputies as laid down in federal law. (All but two of the 95 deputies agreed to be sworn in as airport police.)

Ficano has opposed the airport-police plan since it became public knowledge five weeks ago, calling it a power grab by county Executive Edward McNamara. The two politicians haven't been friendly with each other since at least 1986 when they each sought the Democratic nomination for county executive.

Sheldon said Ficano sent 24 command officers, including internal affairs investigators, to Metro as the police department was being formed April 16 to intimidate and threaten the deputies assigned to the airport.

"I can't begin to tell you how humiliated my people were out there," Sheldon said. "It was so ridiculous that (Ficano's men) told our people if they walked out of the building with a sheriff's patch on, they'd be arrested."

Ficano asked Circuit Judge Diane Hathaway to block the formation of the police department the day it happened, but Hathaway refused.

Then last week the unions got Hathaway to issue a "temporary protective order" barring Ficano from taking action against airport police officers pending a second hearing May 5. (In the past, Hathaway has supported Ficano politically, and each have been heavily backed by the United Auto Workers.)

Deputy Don Cox, president of Local 502 representing the sheriff's department deputies, is mad at Ficano, too. He said Ficano's intent was "to create as much havoc as he could for his own political purposes."

Ficano didn't return the Observer's phone calls last week, instead letting chief of staff Nancy Mouradian do the talking.

She called the charges of Cox and Sheldon "nothing more than subterfuge. There were no threats. There was no coercion. There was no duress. The real villain is the union leadership. The victims are the men and women of the sheriff's department."

Mouradian also criticized McNamara for refusing to speak for publication on the airport police issue.

Last week McNamara's chief deputy, Michael Duggan, agreed to talk about it.

He said Ficano had been "terrorizing" the airport officers, and that "we handled it the only way it could possibly be handled."

Duggan also speculated that since the UAW "did not lift a finger" to help Ficano as he fought the formation of the airport police, that union's support for the sheriff might be drying up.

But Robert King, the UAW's director of region 1A, said the UAW still backs Ficano "1,000 percent" and didn't get involved with the airport police snafu because it wasn't asked to.

Sheldon and Cox said they believe Ficano is getting ready to run against McNamara for executive next year. Mouradian said, "Sheriff Ficano has his hands full being sheriff. I wouldn't go too much on what Bob Sheldon thinks."

Madonna gets Japanese certification

Madonna University of Livonia has become the first private institution of higher education in Michigan to offer teacher certification in the Japanese language.

Madonna has taken this initiative and believe this certification program will strengthen the competition in this area, thereby increasing quality," said John Chapman of the Michigan Department of Education.

The four-year certification program, borne of the recently incorporated Japanese language and culture major at Madonna, is geared for would-be language teachers in kindergarten through the 12th grade.

LINDA BACHRACK

Some lingerie is designed to show

Have you noticed that the sexy intimate apparel that we used to reveal in the privacy of our bedroom has emerged from the lingerie department and into the designers' ready-to-wear collections?

Madonna may have first popularized the concept of exposing beautiful lingerie, but the idea is definitely mainstream today. The differences between underwear and outerwear have blurred to the point that sheer, lacy bodysuits are peeking out from under tailored business suits.

If you browse through the lingerie aisles at Neiman Marcus, for instance, you'll find lace knit camisoles, Natori linen bodysuits and soft cotton knit tank bodysuits, all of which can also be seen in the adjoining sportswear department. Even bras have come out of hiding. A white lace flower-appliqued bra is featured on the cover of last month's "W" magazine, visible under a sheer chiffon dress.

The hottest look for summer is the long filmy, floaty dress. Often these dresses feature open weave crochet or see-through lace tops. And what do you wear underneath? Sexy, designed-to-be-seen lingerie.

Back to bodysuits

An ideal choice would be the stretch lace bodysuit ($39), seen at Diane M. 100 N. Woodward in Birmingham. Available in white, ivory, toast and black, it's great under a suit or with jeans and a denim jacket. Diane M shows it under a sleeveless linen dress.

A less daring option is a white cotton knit camisole with lace trim ($55) or a lined off-shoulder lace bodysuit ($49).

To stand out in the crowd, wear your new waist-high see-through dress over Diane M.'s kelly green lace bra, adorned with clusters of handmade silk roses ($150).

But for all-out glamour, choose the sheer black lace bustier we picture ($166). Wear it alone with a long chiffon skirt or fluid crepe pants, or pair it with a crocheted vest and black jeans.

Fogal, in the Somerset Collection, has been in the hosiery business since 1920. Their Swiss-imported hose is manufactured in over 100 colors and a myriad of styles. You may not think of hosiery as alluring, but this legwear is different. It is meant to be seen and to make a statement, as in the $230 hand-embroidered pair that could be worn as a legging.

"You can change your whole wardrobe by changing your leg," says Nicole Dreyer as she displays the luxurious hosiery, known for its cotton and silk waistband.

The Calais lace thigh high is designed to be worn with a hemline that comes just to the top of the stocking. The lace is too pretty to cover. The Lingerette ($65) is a garter attached to a lycra thigh-high, again meant to be seen. Also in the collection are mini fishnets ($37), a silk and lycra blend ($54) and opaques.

Fogal's bodysuit is the one we picture, and is versatile in that it can be worn under a suit or as a tank with jeans or flowing silk pants. It has a matching stocking or thigh highs and includes detachable garters ($175).

The store also carries lingerie by La Perla, including a knockout lace and chiffon bodysuit ($240), and exclusively designed bathing suits.

Next time you visit the intimate apparel department, think about the meaning of that name. Intimate: "most private, personal." Not anymore. The bra you choose may be the top half of your next cocktail party ensemble. So opt for silk and lace, not white cotton. Lingerie is definitely out of the bedroom and into the boardroom and the ballroom.

For an instant organic style, just slip on earth-safe clothes

Can clothes made from recycled pop bottles, soybean inks and unbleached organically grown cotton, possibly be chic? Several designers say, "yes!" and area retailers are offering shoppers the chance to see for themselves.

Before you leave the house you take one more look in the mirror . . .

Is the slip showing? The tie on straight? The fabrics environmentally responsible?

Last year, according to a study by pollsters Gallup, Roper and Hartman, eco-garment sales topped $30 million in the U.S. Retailers are scrambling to meet the demand for "green clothing."

So now you can buy an entire wardrobe manufactured from environmentally friendly stuff — recycled materials and fabric that is organically grown, unbleached, undyed, untreated with resins, formaldehyde fixatives or chemical washes.

And you can hop out of the shower, knowing your shampoo, soap and body lotion came out of recycled plastic containers holding lotions made from renewable natural sources.

Check out the Deja line of Envirolite shoes available at Jacobson's. These casual, cushy, canvas walkers are made from recycled coffee filters, polystyrene cups, soda bottles, wet-suit trim waste, old magazines and file folders, and disposable diaper trims.

When the shoe wears out, the manufacturer suggests you send it back to them, cardboard box and all, so it can be recycled.

"I've sold 15 pairs since we got them in a month ago," said Lila Tibbets of Jacobson's Miss J shoe department. "Even sold a black pair to a guy who liked the high-top style and the idea that the shoes are recyclable. Most gals like the T-strap style."

The shoes are priced between $48 and $55.

Jacobson's is also experimenting with O wear clothing at its East Lansing and Ann Arbor stores.

Retired retailers still serve

No. It's not an early 4th of July promotion.

The red, white and blue ribbons you've seen around the badges of some Hudson employees in April means they are community volunteers.

Hudson's is proud to acknowledge members of their staff who in addition to working and raising families find time to volunteer at their church, school or favorite charity.

Even Hudson retirees find time to volunteer. A special association was founded three years ago to put senior citizens in touch with nonprofit agencies who could use their help.

The Hudson's Retiree Volunteer Association (HRVA) has grown to 1,200 members who volunteer their time at the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Cancer Foundation, St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Home, Veteran's Hospital and Capuchin Kitchen, to name a few.

They also take pledges for public television, distribute gift items at local hospitals and collect cans of food for the hungry.

Last year the association donated 27,619 hours to community service. Members of their 18-officer board represent Bloomfield Hills, Southfield, Garden City, Livonia, Redford and Farmington Hills, making sure projects that help, have the helpers to serve.

"Our purpose is to promote active lives and companionship for retirees through volunteerism," said Chris Morrisroe, Hudson spokeswoman. Joyce Davis, a Hudson's retiree from Garden City, was quick to agree.

"I look forward to volunteering for projects," Davis explained. "I've learned so many new things. I've been meeting new people, making new friends. I'm sure not having a boring retirement." Davis pointed with pride to the fact that a few weeks ago her group raised $30,000 in four days for the downriver branch of the Great American Lock-up for cancer research.

"And that sure makes a person feel good," she added.

Edward Metz, of Royal Oak, retired after 45 years of managing Hudson's men's clothing departments. This year he is president of HRVA.

"I'm a husband, father and a grandfather," he said. "I have plenty to do around the house, but I still find time to work on getting volunteers or pairing them with projects. We find that seniors like to work in

Dolan's 'potty parity' bill heads for full Senate

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Rep. Jan Dolan's "potty parity" bill moved with ease through the Senate Commerce Committee Tuesday and will be before the full Senate this week.

"It won't affect the Silverdome or the Michigan Stadium, but it would affect the next Tiger Stadium and future construction," said Dolan, R-Farmington Hills.

Dolan's bill has the effect of requiring seven women's water closets for every five toilets for men in places of public assembly. It would cover theaters, exhibition halls, libraries, sports arenas, restaurants, passenger terminals, grandstands, amusement parks and carnival structures.

Her House Bill 4120 doesn't set the number. That's set by the state construction code, set by an administrative board and approved by a joint legislative committee.

Rather, Dolan's bill requires that local units enforce the state code on toilets rather than giving them the choice of several nationally recognized codes.

"The bill makes sense, unquestionably," said Sen. Gil DiNello, R-Macomb County. "I'm not sure the Legislature should force them. It would seem to me a community would do it (adopt a liberal code) on their own."

"They could. They don't," Dolan replied in a committee hearing.

Lynn Briggs of the Construction Association of Michigan said Dolan's bill is like the law requiring barrier-free design — a local unit can't opt out.

Committee chairman Paul Wartner, R-Portage, asked if the seven to five ratio would be adequate.

"I don't know," replied Briggs. Wartner said there were predictions women would ask the construction code panel for higher ratios for women.

Dolan's bill was passed by the House last year, but died in the Senate. Last month, the House passed it with just two dissenting votes.

The Senate committee approved the bill on a 3 to 0 vote. Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, was absent.

How the two chambers viewed the issue can be told by the committees the bill went through. In the House, it went through the Civil Rights and Women's Issues Committee; in the Senate, through the Commerce Committee.

A Senate Fiscal Agency impact statement said the bill would have no effect on the state budget, but might increase construction costs for private and governmental public buildings.

The issue was raised in a 1985 series of articles by Penny Wright Steele, then a free-lance writer for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Steele's research showed women were reticent to talk about their anger at the shortage of restroom facilities and long lines. Steele's work also showed male architects and building managers were unaware of the complaints.

making practices," according to an O wear brochure.

"Chemicals used in traditional cotton farming contribute to our country's worst pollution," O wear continues. "Every year, more than 800 million pounds of insecticides, herbicides, fungicides and other pesticides are used on America's farms. These chemicals end up in the lakes and rivers. Cotton is the most heavily sprayed crop."

O wear cotton is grown on farms that refuse to use synthetic chemicals. All finishes, dyes and silkscreen inks are non-toxic. The shelves and fixtures in O wear stores are made from recycled cardboard and plastic.

O wear is a division of Vanity Fair, which also markets Girboud, Wrangler, Lee and Jantzen.

Local Target stores have a line of green products. Their Naturals socks, selling for $1.99 a pair, are made from "pure, unbleached cotton," in packaging made from recycled materials and printed with vegetable inks made from soybean. The line also features sheets, blankets and towels in unbleached, natural cotton.

Hudson's picked Earth Day, April 22, to premiere its new line of personal care products. Goodnest shampoo, conditioner, bath gel and body lotions ($9 each) come in biodegradable 12-ounce bottles containing ingredients derived from "renewable natural sources."

"In October, Hudson's Twelve Oaks store set up a concept shop called "The Natural Shop," said

Chris Morrisroe, Hudson's spokeswoman. "The Natural Shop features an entire collection of products that are without bleaches, dyes or chemical finishes."

The shop includes textile products such as table linens, rugs and bedding.

Parents create paper protesting schools' approach

By M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

There's a new newspaper in town. The P.C. Parent to Parent Educational Times published its first edition April 20.

The paper, printed on "100-percent recyclable paper," was begun by James and Susan Mills of Plymouth because of their concerns regarding the "developmentally appropriate practices" being used in the elementary grades.

The educational philosophy sounds good on paper, but is leaving students without basic skills as they move into the middle elementary grades, the Millses say. School officials say the developmental approach allows for students to learn at their own, individual rates.

The first issue recounts parents' efforts to get the Plymouth-Canton school board to listen to their concerns.

"Our questions have been asked for the last six months, and as of this date, no one either in the administration or our school board has even attempted to try and answer it," said Jim Mills in the lead article.

Other articles describe the developmental curriculum, where it came from, and how it works. Copies of letters submitted to the school board by other concerned parents also are included.

The newsletter also urges people to attend a workshop at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 17, at a location to be announced. The school board session will be held to discuss developmentally appropriate practices.

"Our major goal here is to try to educate some of the other parents as to what is going on," said Mills. "It's amazing. Most of the parents, when they bring a question to the schools, get cut off, and the problem is reverted to (the) individual child."

The Educational Times mailing list includes a few hundred. The intention is to increase that, and to publish every week or 10 days, Mills said. "We have a firm belief in putting your money where your mouth is. We're trying to make some noise, and get some people to listen."

So far, Mills said, he's gotten little response from the school board. "Any response I've gotten from the school board has been a case of me picking up the phone and calling them," he said.

Mills said he does see some progress. "No one is going to acknowledge what's being done isn't working. But there are places we can go, and those people will admit there's some movement. But it's at a snail's pace," said Mills, who describes Plymouth-Canton elementary students as "teaching disabled, not learning disabled."

"I have a problem with anyone who refuses to accept reality. The school board is spending more time and effort to not listen to me.

I'm not going to disappear."

Mills said that making mistakes while educating students isn't like producing a defective pickup truck. "Kids can't be recalled."

"You have limited, finite time to work with them. The longer you take to make an adjustment in a program that's not working, the harder and harder it is to fix."

"This is a David and Goliath situation, but David is taking on some strength."

School board president Roland Thomas said no one has proved to him that developmental practices don't work.

"I think many of our staff members are making it work with kids.

"Mr. Mills is making a subjective judgment. We are going to examine it May 17. I've put together an outline and given that outline to (the) administration so they can develop a review process for us. Many of the questions he is asking, we are asking. There have always been kids at the lower end of the learning curve. That doesn't mean we aren't concerned about that, and aren't trying to take steps to correct that situation.

"He can say what he wants, but our SAT and ACT scores have been going up the last five years, and that is in fact the bottom line. How are kids doing when they graduate?"

Curtain drops on George Burns Theatre

By TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER

The show is over for the George Burns Theatre.

The Broadway-style theater closed its doors and filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy April 20, just 6½ months after raising its curtain in a remodeled former movie house on Plymouth and Farmington Roads in Livonia.

Ticket holders have been promised exchanges through other area venues but no cash refunds, according to a letter posted on the doors.

Some 20 full-time employees were let go April 19. The house manager and technical director will stay on through this week.

Stuart Gorelick, theater president, called the move "temporary" and said he would try to "reorganize and reopen."

But a theater employee on April 20 called that scenario unlikely.

"That doesn't happen too often in this business. Once you're shut down, that's usually it," said Mel Williams, house manager.

"If someone else like Mike Iltich or the city wants to come in and do something with a different format — that's always possible."

Signs of financial troubles at the former Mai Kai theater had appeared in recent months.

Theater officials said attendance was lower than expected and at least one promised show, "Many Faces of Man" starring Anthony Quinn, was postponed from this week to next fall.

An employee said there had been "problems" with recent paychecks and advance payments for booking shows.

Gorelick had reportedly been seeking new investors for Center Stage Productions, the theater's parent company.

In addition, the theater is facing a lawsuit asking back pay for work performed during the renovations last fall.

"This is a bummer," said season ticket holder Kathy Mase of Livonia.

seeking information after receiving a letter on the closing, and her mother are out $80 each — half the cost of season tickets purchased last fall.

They saw two of four shows in the package and enjoyed them both, she said. "What we liked most was finding something on this side of town."

Tickets may be exchanged on a one-for-one basis for shows at the Palace of Auburn Hills or Pine Knob music theater in Clarkston. Exchanges and a list of available performances will be available at the Palace box office beginning May 15.

Williams said business "just didn't materialize," especially for contemporary shows like "Six Degrees of Separation." Ticket sales were better for musicals or shows with established stars.

"This is a difficult market to bring in something esoteric and charge people $40 a ticket," Williams said. The theater tried different tactics, including lowering ticket prices and charging for parking to increase revenues.

Three companies filed a lawsuit March 15 in Wayne Circuit Court against the theater. The plaintiffs claim they are owed a total of $64,328 for renovation work, although earlier bills they submitted were paid.

Burns vice president Peter Goldman said at the time there was no imminent danger of the theater closing its doors. He characterized the lawsuit as a contract dispute.

The 30-year-old movie theater reopened last fall, 4½ years after its run as the Omni Star, a Las Vegas-style concert hall, ended in failure and fraud charges under different ownership.

THE ANKLE IN ARTHRITIS

Arthritis brings up images of swollen hands, people limping because of painful knees, or wearing oversized and shapeless shoes. We forget the ankle. It is a major joint that takes on a large load — ultimately half the body weight falls on the ankle.

The most common arthritic problem is injury. You can develop excess fluid in the ankle from a strain or blow just as you can incur "water on the knee." Since the ankle is a tight compartment, the swelling is not as readily seen as in the knee; often the initiating event is insapparent.

When fluid is present, you may awake in the morning with little discomfort in the ankle, but as the day goes on and your walking time accumulates, so does joint pain. Wrapping helps ligament strain, but not joint impairment. Anti-inflammatory drugs at best, partly remove the ache. Time may suffice to repair the damage, but the best treatment is removal of the excess joint fluid.

Ankle pain occurs in rheumatoid and osteoarthritis, psoriatic arthritis and gout. Usually the setting permits your physician to diagnose these other conditions and prescribe daily medication.

Finally, you need to distinguish ankle pain from ankle swelling. Swelling without discomfort reflects poor circulation, not impaired joints.

POINTS OF VIEW

Question those pervasive education code words

Two themes pop up across the state when public schools get heavy duty discussion:

Concerned Parents.
Excellence in education.
You hear the same code words so often that you suspect there's a new political party in the state, in addition to Democrats, Republicans and the Perotists.

The Concerned Parents line recurred last year in hearings chaired by state Sen. Gil DiNello, R-Macomb County, on the Michigan Model for Comprehensive Health Education. Social engineers have taken over public schools. They are substituting their values on sexuality and social decisions for the parents' values. Liberal educators have an anti-family bias.

If a newspaper had said that, it would be called sensationalized yellow journalism.

A dissenter, Sen. Jim Berryman, D-Adrian, blamed "vocal and well organized extremist organizations" for the attack on the Michigan Model. He blamed "overactive and suspicious imaginations" for stories about anti-Christianity, satanism, occultism, New Age and Hindu rituals in the Michigan Model.

Berryman noted much testimony came from a handful of people who followed the hearings around the state. Their anecdotes were surprisingly repetitive, he said.

There's a growing body of national literature, much of it in journals the public rarely sees, about attacks on public schools.

In Costa Mesa, Calif., Robert Simonds, founder of National Association of Christian Educators/Council for Excellence in Education, has chapters in 50 states. His goals: restore "academic excellence, Godly morals, and traditional American values to the classroom." His eyes are on 15,700 school districts in America.

Sounds like good old-fashioned grassroots politics. Why, then, do his adherents insist they are purely local groups of concerned parents? Simonds sees public education as having been taken over by a pantheistic New Age religion inspired by Satan. Every institution in the United States needs to be reclaimed from Satan for Christ's second coming.

In this framework, the notion of "separation of church and state" is a figment of the imagination of infidels. America is a Christian nation, and Christian parents should take back their schools.

The Rev. Pat Robertson's delightful "700 Club" TV program is tracking what he perceives as attempts to bar Jesus and the Bible from public schools.

Robertson's Christian Coalition this spring held 70 programs nationwide to train evangelicals in local politics. The Detroit News reported that one was held last month in Pontiac. It was closed to the press.

Well, you know what they say about the press: pals of the abortionists, propagandists for perversion, protectors of porn.

This well-disciplined, nationally organized effort has merit when you first bump into it.

But we should all be bothered at the way the neighborhood cadres masquerade as purely local efforts.

We should be curious that they parrot a line but deny that they're getting their research from the outside.

We should wonder what they really think about dismantling the State Board of Education, ripping up curriculum legislation, substituting "creationism" for geology and genetics, removing the Michigan Constitution's ban on spending tax dollars on ministers and religious edifices, and installing a voucher system for every fly-by-night charlatan wishing to set up a school.

Concerned parents. Excellence in education. They're code words. Watch for them in the school board campaigns.

Life on the farm is doggone good for canines

If there really is reincarnation, I'd like to come back as a farm dog.

See, on weekends when I was a kid, I used to hop in my grandparents' station wagon and head out of the suburbs for the country.

The farm was near Fostoria, just south of Michigan's thumb.

There were small towns like Vassar, North Branch and Caro, and the big town, Lapeer, site of the county fair.

My Aunt Buela — actually a great-aunt because she was my grandmother's sister — lived with my Uncle Leo and their two sons, Stanley and Leo John, on a farm in Fostoria.

It was off a shady, dirt road. For a 5-year-old city boy, there was plenty to stimulate the senses as we drove up: the rattle of stones bounding off the undercarriage of a 1961 Mercury station wagon, a whiff of pipe smoke and high roadside grass. Finally, there was the driveway.

It led 80 yards or so to the house. Then again, a proper farm driveway doesn't end. It forms a loop at the end, like a subdivision cul-de-sac.

Opposite the farm house was a gray, cinderblock milk house.

Muddy boots stuck with straw, cow manure and morning dew tramped heavily across its painted cement floor each day. At an open stainless steel tub, my kin emptied buckets filled with foamy cow's milk.

Just beyond that was a muddy pen ringed by a rough wooden fence. Amidst the dark earth and manure sat a pale salt lick, its once square edges now rounded.

Cows hanging out nearby swished their dirty tails to chase flies, and lifted their huge heads on occasion at the barking of a dog.

Did I mention the dogs?

Canines, of course, are a superior creation when compared to other creatures. These include religious fanatics, corporate types, network news people and other overly serious breeds.

At my Uncle Leo's farm, as at scores of other farms throughout the country, there were about four resident farm dogs.

Their presence was heralded promptly. The second a car turned into the driveway, they made a bee-line for it.

As the car proceeded up the drive, the four would scuttle alongside in no special order, barking gleefully with tails wagging so hard their backsides waved.

Upon exiting the car, they'd be all over you. To kneel down in greeting would get you a face wetted with happy dog slobber and clothes dirtied by a dusty dog paw or two, but no matter.

Ah, to be a farm dog. Quiet afternoons napping in the sun, cats to chase, kids and adults to play with, a creek to jump in, no job or responsibilities, and free food.

They have no language. And in a world dominated by the news about Waco, the finger-pointing and the cries for placing blame afterward, to not understand the chatter would be a blessing.

Let people lecture each other to death. They don't know about living.

I'll take the farm and a flea collar.

Madonna auction nets more than $200,000

Madonna University's fifth annual scholarship fund-raising auction raked in more than $200,000 last week, and Plymouth resident Dominic Persichini, president of Air Gage Co. of Livonia, got a cool set of wheels.

Held April 17 at Livonia's Laurel Manor Banquet and Conference Center, the auction attracted more than 500 attendees who paid $60 each to compete with one another to buy 1,000 items donated by area businesses.

Auction proceeds, which haven't been entirely counted yet, are applied to Madonna's scholarship endowment fund.

To spur interest in the auction, a raffle was also held to give away a Sedan DeVille from Don Massey Cadillac of Plymouth. Persichini, for an investment of $200 (the cost of a raffle ticket), won the car.

"I thought it was a joke," Persichini said. "I've bought raffle tickets for years and this is the first time I won anything."

Already a Cadillac fan, Persichini has had a few already, and bought most of them from Don Massey.

Among the items auctioned were:

- Muhammad Ali's boxing

- shorts for $2,600.
- a Red Skelton lithograph for $1,400.
- a tennis bracelet for $2,900.
- a Charlie Gehringer autographed golf tournament program for $100.
- and a walleye fishing trip with Sister Lauriana and Capt. Fred Benson for $1,300.

Still available are a number of $100 tickets for a ride on the cruise ship Infinity, scheduled to occur Aug. 29.

Proceeds from the cruise sale will benefit the Bishop Moses B. Anderson Scholarship, student athletes and merit scholars.

3 MYTHS ON BEDWETTING

- 1. It is a behavioral problem.
Wrong! A child should never be punished for nighttime bedwetting, it is basically a sleep disorder.
- 2. Your child will outgrow it.
Probably not. Many suffer into adulthood - continuing the heartache and humiliation.
- 3. There is no effective cure.
Wrong again. At the Enuresis Treatment Center we have been treating bedwetting for 14 years and we have a success rate of 95%. Without drugs or surgery.

Please don't let the hurt go on. To find out why you or your child wets the bed and how you can stop it, call us today.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Chef glad to be home after New Orleans visit

Having just returned from an eating orgy in New Orleans while attending the International Association of Culinary Professions conference, I'm delighted to be home again. Not that I didn't enjoy the many culinary Cajun treats that New Orleans has to offer, but as far as I'm concerned, I could care less if I ever see or taste another crawfish again.

I have been fortunate to have enjoyed the many tastes of traveling around this great country of ours. From the oysters of Washington to the maple syrups of Vermont, I'm getting quite a taste of America. I am amazed at the various culinary traditions that each region has to offer.

Crazy for crawfish

Take New Orleans (or should I say Nawlins) for example. These people eat crawfish for breakfast, lunch, brunch, snacks and dinner. Even with a personal lesson from native Louisianian Paul Prudhomme on the proper way to enjoy these cheap replicas of shrimp, I was not impressed.

Call me spoiled if you must, but eating crawfish is like sucking out those tiny bits of meat from a lobster leg, there's far more work involved for the tiny amount of pleasure received.

Instead of dwelling on negatives like that quasi-coffee watered down with chickory that everyone drinks down there, and those god-awful things called grits, I would be remiss if I didn't mention the great drum and catfish (blackened, of course) pralines and by far my favorite, powdered sugar choking beignets.

The Jambalayas, Boudin sausage, dirty rice, sweat inducing etouffees and red beans are the mainstays about as much as a platter of smelts, kielbasa and mashed potatoes are up here.

International cuisine

But think about this. Isn't it great that we can hop on an airplane or, better yet drive, to an ethnic eatery and enjoy various ethnic treats like couscous, quesadillas, General Tso's chicken and corned beef?

Do you realize that the metropolitan Detroit area has some of the best ethnic food restaurants, many of which are a short hop, skip and a jump from the suburbs.

You haven't lived till you have enjoyed an authentic Mexican tamale from Evie's tamales located directly behind the old train depot just one block north of Mexican town.

The flavors of the Orient are as vast as the number of Oriental restaurants with places like Hunan Palace in Farmington Hills dishing up a whole fried fish and champagne glazed shrimp, and Sechuan Empire's lemon chicken in Livonia. Oceania Inn in Rochester dishes up some might fine dim sum all the while the Mongolian Barbecue brings stir-fry to a new self-serve light in downtown Royal Oak.

When it comes to enjoying Italian, I'm holding my breath for the reopening of Nino's, rumored soon to be happening in the northern burbs, but for the time, getting my pasta fill Giovanni's, and my calamari fix at De Palma's.

Old country Polish cuisine still beckons me to Zosia's and the Polish Yacht Club in the big city limits all the while the Greeks still entice me down to Greektown for lamb chops, Saganaki and avolomongelo.

The beignets of New Orleans could barely stand up next to the decadent French pastries and baguettes from the French Epi in Livonia and Baking by the Auers in Southfield.

Don Ricardo's in Redford has the Spanish cuisine sewed up with a paella you could die for.

Ethic grocers

If dining out isn't quite your cup of tea, and you would surely opt for a quiet evening at home with friends and family, the area offers a multitude of ethnic grocers which carry hard-to-find ingredients.

La Cantina is the newest Italian grocery on Telegraph in Dearborn. The Orientals are flocking to the Six Mile-Newburgh area otherwise known as Laurel Commons for lichee nuts and garlic pepper oils. The Honey Bee/La Colomona on Bagely reigns supreme for Mexican foods ranging from munedo to blue corn masa.

Hamtramack still is the place to go for Polish and Eastern European foods, but Wyandotte (mamma's home) still boasts a few small markets and bakeries. If you ever venture Down River, you must try the half and half bread from Oak Leaf bakery.

So while New Orleans might be home to Creole and Cajun, our area with it's vast array of ethnic restaurants and stores continues to beckon me back saying, without a doubt "there's no place like home."

Look inside for a few of my favorite dishes from New Orleans!

Restaurants roll out the welcome mat for busy, budget-conscious families that are looking for places to take their children out to eat.

Say "dinner out" and Don Turner and his 5-year-old son Collin dream about pizza.

The Turners recently enjoyed an evening at the Shield's restaurant in Southfield, where pizza is king.

"This is one of our favorite places to come," said Turner, a technical analyst at Ford Motor Company. "We knew we wanted pizza."

On Tuesday evenings, Anita Harmon of Livonia takes her three daughters to a nearby Ground Round. On that weekday, kids aged 12 and under pay what they weigh for meals on the children's menu.

"We can eat for under $8," said Harmon. "It's our night out."

Busy, budget-conscious families are looking for restaurants which cater to them. Myriad gimmicks are offered to build loyalty.

Jack and Kathy Maxwell of Livonia and their children have their own special spots for omelettes, chili dogs and burgers. They like the Senate Coney Island and Ground Round, both in Livonia, and Old Country Buffet in Westland, where it's all-you-can-eat.

"I like an atmosphere that isn't too stuffy," said Kathy Maxwell, a full-time homemaker and PTA leader at Grant Elementary School, where three of her children are students.

"I look for value," Maxwell added. "We can't hit the Ritz."

Plan ahead for pleasant meal out

BY ARLENE FUNKE
SPECIAL WRITER

Arriving at a crowded restaurant with hungry, restless kids can spoil an anticipated dinner out.

Common sense and planning can make a restaurant meal much more pleasant. Just ask Kathy Maxwell of Livonia.

Maxwell and her husband, Jack, a General Motors employee, have four children. Melanie, 12, attends Emerson Middle School in Livonia. Jeffrey, 9; Devin, 7; and Julianne, 5, are students at Grant Elementary School.

When they're going to popular restaurants, the family tries to arrive a little early.

"Otherwise you have to wait in line," Maxwell said.

Preparation eliminates unpleasant surprises. Let these tips help make dining out easier.

Patronize restaurants that are geared to families and offer children's menus. When in doubt, phone ahead. What kinds of foods do you like? Does the restaurant fit your budget? Do you need a booster chair?

Order quickly. Bring along crayons, puzzles or other small games to pass the time.

Don't be too rigid about what the child orders. Stick with foods the child enjoys.

Don't let your children wander around, distracting other diners.

If your child is disruptive, take him or her to a quiet place, such as a restroom, to calm down. Never make a scene.

Clowning around: Bingo the Clown weighs Courtney Gregson, 2½, before dinner at the Ground Round in Livonia.

WINNER DINNER

BETSY BRETHEN

This week's Winner Dinner Winner is a regular action man. He studies; he fishes; he plays hockey; he plays baseball; he collects sports cards; and yes, he even cooks!

A veritable "Boy Wonder," 11-year-old Jonathan Linton of Rochester Hills originally hails from London, Ontario. The son of Dorothy and Bruce Linton, he has a younger sister and brother. He is a big help to his mom in the kitchen, thanks in part to a survival skills cooking class he took at Van Hoesen Middle School in Rochester Hills. Always having felt comfortable and capable in the kitchen, Linton has no fear of cooking and will often whip up a batch of cookies or even a complete dinner like the one featured today.

Although he enjoys cooking and considers it a very useful hobby, playing hockey is what really makes him happy. For the past nine months, he was the goalie for the Mighty Ducks, a squirt-level hockey team that played out of the Birmingham Ice Arena.

Now that spring is finally here and with his goalie equipment packed away until he goes to hockey camp this summer, Linton is getting his batting arm limbered up and ready for baseball season. Lucky for him, he can practice his pitches by tossing a salad, throwing dinner together or

Winner Dinner Recipes

JONATHAN'S LEMON CHICKEN

Marinade:
½ cup oil
½ cup lemon juice
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3 cloves garlic, minced
3 tablespoons soy sauce
3 split, boneless, skinless chicken breasts

Preheat the broiler or grill. In a small bowl, combine the marinade ingredients and mix well. Pound the chicken breasts with a meat mallet to make them more tender and place them in a baking dish. Pour the marinade over the chicken breasts. Grill or broil for about 4 minutes a side. Serves 6.

PARMESAN TOMATOES

3 fresh, firm tomatoes
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 garlic clove, minced
2 tablespoons chopped onion
¼ cup fresh bread crumbs
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Pinch of salt
Pinch of pepper
Pinch of dried or fresh chopped basil

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Cut the tomatoes in half and scoop out some of the pulp. Chop the pulp up. In a small frying pan, sauté the garlic and onion in the olive oil for 2 minutes. Add the chopped tomato pulp and continue cooking for a few more minutes. Stir in the bread crumbs, Parmesan cheese and the seasonings. Fill each tomato cup with the filling. Sprinkle each filled tomato half with more Parmesan cheese. Place the tomato halves on a baking sheet and bake for 20 minutes.

JONATHAN'S FAVORITE BROCCOLI AND CHEESE SAUCE

2 heads broccoli, cut into florets
Sauce:
3 tablespoons margarine or butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
¼ cup Cheese Whiz
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Pinch of salt
Pinch of pepper

Steam the broccoli until just tender and drain.

In a saucepan, melt the margarine or butter. Add the flour and stir until the mixture becomes a paste, usually a couple of minutes. Add the milk and cook over medium heat until the mixture begins to thicken, adding more milk if it becomes too thick.

loons, video games, large-screen television sets and coloring books to entice kids.

The Ground Round has its popular penny-a-pound concept on Tuesdays. Children aged 12 and younger are weighed in and charged accordingly for items on the kiddie menu.

Marketing pioneer McDonald's is testing a new, health-conscious Happy Meal called "Build Your Own Happy Meal."

This plan allows children and parents to select additional choices, including carrot sticks or applesauce, and 1 percent low-fat milk or a small low-fat milkshake.

Shield's recently introduced a gimmick in which the kiddie choices are presented on a View-Master. With each click of the View-Master, children see cuddly stuffed bunnies, koala bears and elephants showing off the nachos, spaghetti, pizza and chicken strips.

"The kids seem to enjoy it," Moraitis said.

At Ground Round, the "penny-a-pound" gimmick on Tuesdays is a roaring success.

Parents love saving money on their children's meals. Kids go gaga over cartoons, clowns and other assorted excitement.

"It keeps the kids involved so mom and dad can enjoy their dinner," said Frank Gotts, regional director for several Ground Round restaurants, including outlets in Livonia, Farmington Hills and Royal Oak.

On a recent Tuesday evening, families streamed through the doors of the Livonia Ground Round. Children were quickly weighed, then given a sticker so servers know how much to charge.

"Daddy, I weigh 46 pounds," exclaimed a small, pony-tailed girl in pink sweats. Her meal, chosen from the kiddie menu, would cost 46 cents.

Bingo the Clown, a.k.a. Bob Fenoff, of Northville, kept very busy making balloon animals and schmoozing with customers.

Meals (burgers, chicken fingers, etc.) include fries, applesauce and beverage. These children's meals cost around $2.50 every day but Tuesday. Harmon and daughters Valerie, 10; Stephanie, 8; and Lauren, 5, munched complimentary popcorn and took in the busy scene. "The kids are fascinated," Harmon said. "This breaks up our week."

Adults can choose from several burger varieties, barbecued ribs, chicken, pasta and Mexican fare. Prices are in the $5 to $6 range.

What's that commotion? Several hand-clapping, singing servers through the dining room, bringing complimentary ice cream cake with fudge sauce to a group celebrating the 11th birthday of Ryan McKay, of Livonia.

Nearby, Sharon and Steve Turbiak of Livonia with children Elizabeth, 6; Kristin, 2; and Emily, 3.

"The people are very friendly and seem to like children," said Sharon Turbiak. "They understand. They bring extra napkins and are very accommodating."

The Turbiaks were clearly having a good time. "We come often," Sharon Turbiak said. She added, with a laugh: "Once they start weighing mom and dad we'll stop coming."

Shield's, which introduced its deep-dish pizza back in 1946, also has large-screen television sets, video games and a laid-back, friendly ambience.

Calvin Newby, a Detroit accountant, and his wife Vickie, a teacher, both like the picante pizza, extra cheesy and spiked with tangy salsa.

The Newbys' 11-year-old son Ronald dashed off to play video games.

"Ronald always orders spaghetti," Vickie Newby said.

Sampling the kiddie menu were Scott Funke and his pizza-loving pal, Phil Snyder. The boys, both 8 and Redford residents, are second-grade classmates in Helen Carano's class at Vandenberg Elementary School in Redford.

Both boys enjoyed the novelty of the View-Master and kept busy with crayons and puzzles. Scott finished off his spaghetti and Phil had enough pizza to take some home for a later snack.

Most items on the Shield's kiddie menu are priced at around $3. Cheese pizza is around $5, and is enough to feed two or three children. Desserts are 99 cents.

Shield's has other outlets in Troy, Sterling Heights and Novi. A carryout store is in Royal Oak.

Families with children now account for 40 percent of Shield's business, Moraitis said. The chain is hoping to substantially increase that segment.

"The one thing parents love is that they don't have to worry about (children) running around," Moraitis said. "This keeps them busy so they don't get restless."

F. In a large bowl, cream the butter, sugar and brown sugar together until light and fluffy. Beat in the egg and vanilla. Add the flour, soda and salt and mix until all the ingredients are blended. Add the chocolate pieces to the batter.

Drop teaspoonfuls of the batter on cookie sheets, leaving 2 inches between the cookies. Bake for 8 to 10 minutes.

Here are some other restaurants that cater to kids — Elias Brothers Big Boy has an extensive children's menu and reasonable prices. The kids can keep busy with puzzles and crayons furnished by the restaurant.

Kathy and Jack Maxwell of Livonia also like the Old Country Buffet in Westland which has an all-you-can-eat concept. "They (the children) like to make their own choices," Kathy Maxwell said. "With a buffet, they can choose their own."

Cooking tips to use, share

Here are some cooking tips from Betty Crocker to use or share with a friend.

■ Make a simple cake spring-fancy: arrange edible flowers such as pansies or rose petals and fresh herbs on cake top with a few cascading down the side.

■ Frozen bread can be stored up to a year. It will thaw best if left in the original wrapper, standing at room temperature for about three hours.

■ To prevent cupcakes from pulling away from the liners, fill papers as recipe directs. Second, make sure you don't overbake the cupcakes. Test them for doneness at the minimum time. Finally, take the cupcakes from the muffin pans immediately after baking so steam can't form and loosen liners.

■ Pasta and noodles are an excellent source of complex carbohydrate and, when combined with small amounts of meats, poultry, dairy products or dried beans and peas, are an excellent source of protein.

Chef shares taste of New Orleans

See Larry Jones' column Taste Buds on Taste front.

EULA MAE'S JAMBALAYA

- 1 1/2 pounds chicken, skinned and boned, cut into cubes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon fresh ground pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1/2 pound cooked ham, cut into cubes
- 2 large onions, chopped
- 1 green pepper, seeded and chopped
- 1 cup chopped celery

- 4 cloves garlic, peeled
- 3 cups chicken broth
- One 16-ounce can whole tomatoes, chopped with juice reserved
- 2 tablespoons fresh chopped parsley
- 1/2 cup chopped green onions
- 2 pounds shrimp, peeled and deveined
- 1 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
- 2 cups rice, rinsed and drained

Sprinkle the chicken with the salt, black and red peppers. Add the oil to a large heavy pot over medium-heat and cook the chicken until browned on all sides, about 8 minutes. Remove chicken. Add the ham to the pot and cook 5 minutes, then add ham to the chicken.

Put the onions, green pepper, celery and garlic in the pot and saute for 5 minutes, scraping the bottom to incorporate all the browned bits. Add the chicken and the ham, reduce the heat to low, cover and cook 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Add the chicken broth and reserved tomato juice, cover and cook 30 minutes. Mash the cooked garlic against the side of the pot and stir into the mixture. Add remaining ingredients, cover, bring to a boil, lower the heat and stir occasionally, covered for 30 minutes or until the rice is tender and fluffy and all the liquid is absorbed. Serves 6-8.

One of my favorite spots in New Orleans was a little dive called Mother's. I had a blueberry cobbler there that made my heart flutter.

BLUEBERRY COBBLER

- 2 pints fresh or frozen blueberries
- 1/2 cup sugar, divided
- 1/2 cup apple cider
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 cups flour

- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup milk, divided

Rinse blueberries, drain well. Combine blueberries, 1/2 cup sugar, cider and cornstarch. Set aside. Combine flour, remaining sugar, baking powder and salt and mix well. Cut in butter with a pastry blender or fork until the mixture resembles cornmeal. Add 1/4 cup milk; mix until the dough leaves the sides of the bowl. Turn dough onto a lightly floured surface; roll to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut into six 4-inch rounds. Pour blueberry mixture into an oven-proof baking dish.

Top with rounds of dough and brush dough with remaining milk. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes or until topping browns and blueberries bubble. Sprinkle with powdered sugar before serving, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Bread has fruity flavor

AP — Fresh apricots don't have to be in season for this quick bread. Instead, canned and dried apricots team up to give it a tangy, fruity flavor. The recipe makes two loaves, so you can take one to work or freeze it for later.

DOUBLE APRICOT BREAD

- 16-ounce can unpeeled apricot halves, drained
- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 3/4 cup whole-wheat flour
- 3 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
- 2 beaten eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons cooking oil
- 1 cup snipped dried apricots
- Margarine or butter (optional)

In a blender container or food processor bowl blend or process canned apricot halves until smooth. Set aside.

In a large mixing bowl stir together the all-purpose flour, sugar, whole-wheat flour, baking powder, salt and pumpkin pie spice. In another mixing bowl combine the eggs, milk, cooking oil and the apricot puree. Add the egg mixture to the flour mixture, stirring just until combined. Stir in the dried apricots.

Pour the batter into two greased 8- by 4- by 2-inch or 7 1/2- by 3 1/2- by 2-inch loaf pans. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 45 to 50 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the centers comes out clean. Cool in the pans on a wire rack for 10 minutes. Remove from pans. Cool.

Go bananas with cookbook

AP — There's more to a banana than slicing it over cold cereal or baking it in bread. And Carol Lindquist knows — and shares — at least 80 ways to cook, bake and broil 'em in "The Banana Lover's Cookbook."

In her 104-page cookbook (St. Martin's Press, $10.95), Lindquist shows readers how to grill bananas for breakfast, stir them into hot banana-peanut soup and bake them in a sweet banana toffee crunch.

For kids, Lindquist offers jungle S'Mores, banana bonbons, birthday candle salad, banana boat salad, banana fruit pops and banana blitz cupcakes. For more adult tastes: banana-shrimp curry, West Indian stuffed chicken and, to start the morning, banana breakfast shake.

There are no photographs of finished dishes, but a nutritional profile of the banana, and banana buying and storage tips are included.

BANANA TOFFEE CRUNCH

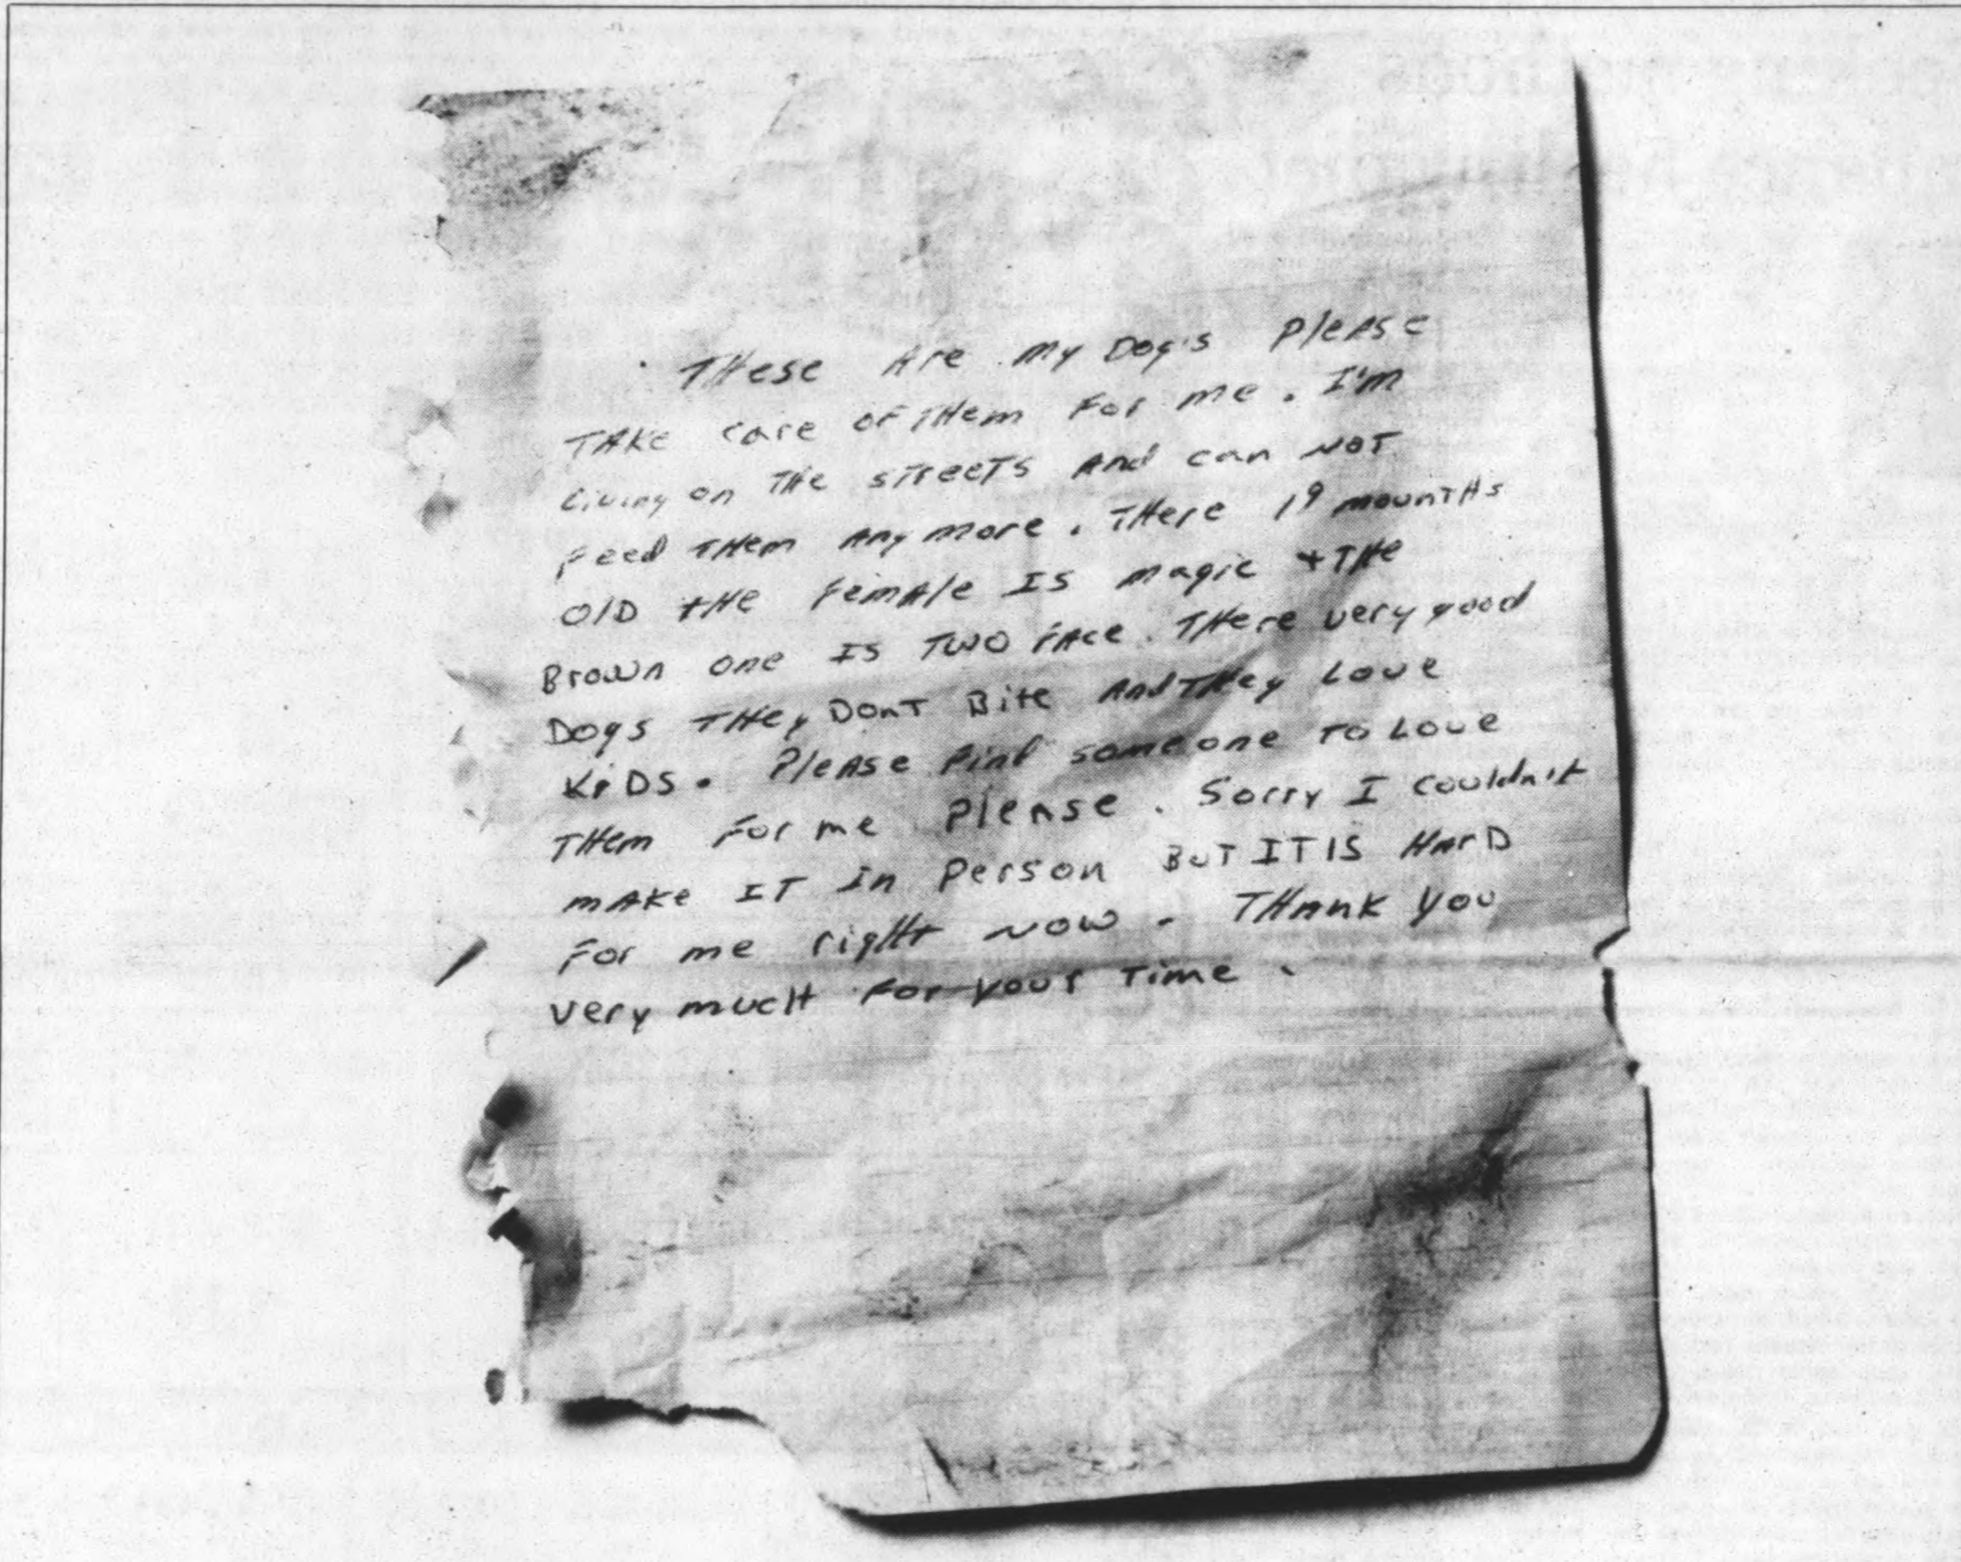

- 6 medium bananas, diced
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup rolled oats
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 3/4 cup butter

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Grease an 8- by 8- by 1 1/2-inch pan.

In a medium-sized mixing bowl, mix diced banana, the 1/2 cup sugar and nutmeg. Pour into the prepared pan.

In a large mixing bowl, combine the brown sugar, flour, oats and pecans, stirring well to mix. Cut in butter with a pastry blender until crumbly. Sprinkle over bananas. Bake in a 375-degree F oven for about 30 minutes or until crisp and browned. Serve warm with cream or ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

Recipe from: "The Banana Lover's Cookbook" by Carol Lindquist. St. Martin's Press. $10.95.

Last year one person gave us everything she owned.

Without your donation we couldn't have accepted.

Please read the handwritten note on this page. It's from a homeless woman. It was left at our door in the middle of the night along with two dogs, Two Face and Magic, pets this woman loved but could not care for. And could not keep.

Fortunately, we could care for Two Face and Magic. We took them in, gave them food and a warm place to sleep, and found them homes with the two families you see pictured above. This story had a happy ending.

But we get more and more cases like this each year. It's sad. And it gets worse. Some people don't care about animals as much as the woman who left this note.

Some people don't feed their pets. Some maliciously abuse animals in other ways. Which is why we need your help.

Happy endings for animals like Two Face and Magic only begin with your donation. Please send us your check today. All we can ask is what a homeless person asked of us: help.

Yes, I would like to help.

Spicy Tex-Mex salmon dish ready in a hurry

It's been a long day, and you have neither the time nor the inclination to stand in the kitchen and cook a full-fledged dinner. Yet you do not want to subject your family to the standard choices of spaghetti or a ready-made microwave meal. You want something different, and something healthy.

"Speed scratch cooking" is the name of the game — a meal assembled from healthy "scratch" ingredients in double-quick time. After all, a nourishing and tasty dinner need not take hours of fussing in the kitchen to create.

This one is a spicy Tex-Mex salmon concoction that will have your taste buds tingling. Salmon is generally perceived as a "stand alone" dish—either baked or grilled. But as this "Lone Star" dish will show, salmon lends itself easily to a variety of spicy combinations.

The ingredients — bought at the supermarket and stored, or scrounged at short notice from the refrigerator can be assembled in a jiffy. They do not contain artificial flavorings or preservatives. And this easy to prepare dish, which uses a boneless, skinless salmon fillet, is an ideal meal for the entire family.

This recipe wraps the delicate flavor of salmon in the delights of Southwestern cuisine — along with all the benefits associated with farmed salmon. Farmed salmon are harvested only after they reach a certain size and level of fat content. This gives every bite of farmed salmon a moist, rich texture. Farmed salmon are also subject to stringent inspection procedures.

Farmed salmon is currently produced in Australia, British Columbia and New Brunswick in Canada, Chile, the Faroe Islands, Iceland, Ireland, Norway, Scotland, the Shetland Islands and the United States, all members of the International Salmon Farmers Association.

SALMON IN TORTILLAS WITH SALSA CREAM AND AVOCADO

- ¾ cup prepared salsa, medium or spicy depending on taste
- ¾ cup diced fresh tomato
- ¾ cup peeled, seeded and diced cucumber
- ¾ cup sour cream
- 1½ pound skinless salmon fillet
- 1 ripe avocado
- 4 ounces sprouts of choice (radish, alfalfa, onion, etc.)
- 4 flour tortillas (approx. 9 inch)
- 1 packet fresh salsa spices, (Lawry's Fresh Salsa Spices & Seasonings for example)

Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Wrap the tortillas in foil.

To make the salsa cream, combine the salsa, tomatoes cucumber, and sour cream. Season with salt and pepper, if desired.

Cut the salmon fillet into four equal portions and arrange in a baking dish. Brush the salmon with oil, and sprinkle generously with the salsa spices (you will not use the whole envelope).

Put the salmon and the wrapped tortillas in the preheated oven. Cook until the salmon is done. The cooking time may be determined by using the rule of 10 minutes of cooking time for every inch of the fillet's thickness. For example, a fillet that is ¾ of an inch thick would cook for 7½ minutes.

While the salmon is baking, peel, pit, and slice the avocado. Set aside. When the salmon is done, unwrap the warm tortillas and lay them out on plates. Arrange one portion of salmon on each tortilla, top it with a generous spoonful of the salsa cream, followed by the sliced avocado and a small handful of sprouts. Fold the tortillas over the filling, and serve with the extra salsa cream on the side. Serves 4

Cooking methods enhance healthy diet

LOIS THIELEKE

Diet downfalls can be caused by the way you're cooking food. Healthier diets demand a new cooking lingo: Frying and sauteing are "out," steaming, baking, broiling and poaching are "in."

The first rule of healthier cooking is to avoid all cooking methods that add fat or allow food to cook in its own juices. Changing some of your cooking methods does not mean you can't enjoy foods you love; it just means trimming excess fat and calories.

Steaming foods

Steaming vegetables or fish keeps the loss of vitamins to a minimum. Steaming can be done on top of the stove in a steamer, in parchment paper in the oven, or in the microwave. Steamed vegetables retain their bright colors and do not lose texture or flavor. When steaming in water, the food should be at least one inch above the surface of the boiling water.

There are many types of steamers available, or you can make your own by using a deep saucepan and suspending a colander or strainer above the water. Make sure you can cover it tightly to keep the steam inside. Bring the water to a boil, add your vegetables to the steamer and steam until crisp-tender which could take from five to 20 minutes.

If you have a Chinese style stacking steamer, many foods can be steamed at once. Make sure the heat source is strong enough to circulate the steam through the racks to cook the foods. Leftover rice, pasta and other grains can be put into a steamer pot, cover tightly, use a moderate heat to re-warm, steaming keeps them moist.

En papillote is a technique of steaming foods in parchment paper that eliminates cleanup. The paper seals in the natural juices and flavors and eliminates the need for a cooking pan and any additional oils. Fish is well suited for this method, but pieces of boned chicken and other delicate foods can also be prepared this way. These paper food packages are then cooked in a conventional oven or microwave. Just to be on the safe side, set the parchment paper food package on a cookie sheet to avoid a possible leak of juices in the oven.

Cooking vegetables in the microwave is steaming in little or no liquid. Covering the microwave vegetables creates the steam and speeds the cooking. Using little or no liquid in the microwave, the vegetables lose very few of the nutrients, and the shorter cooking time also helps retain the flavors of the foods better. The key to steaming vegetables in the microwave is to have them cut into uniform pieces for more even cooking. Put the thicker portions of the vegetable toward the outside of the dish so they cook quicker.

Roasting, cooking

Roasting or baking are the same process. Generally we refer to the cooking of whole meat or poultry as roasting, while fish, bread or cut-up poultry is called baking. The exception would be ham, which is baked. Always place a rack in the bottom of the roasting pan so that the meat or poultry does not sit in its own fat drippings. Use fat-free liquids such as wine, tomato juice or lemon juice for basting meats. Broiling is also a method of cooking to lower fat in meats. Trim any excess fat from the meat or poultry for two reasons. First, you don't want to eat the extra fat; and second, fat can ignite from a high heat and start a fire in the oven. Use a broiler pan, so the fat can drip off the meat and not be cooked swimming in the fat.

Poaching is cooking food gently in a hot liquid. Fish is probably the most suitable food to poach. Fish can be poached in herb-seasoned water, broth, vegetable juice, dry wine or even skim milk. Poaching keeps the fish moist and the liquid gives it a delicate flavor.

Do not overcook foods when poaching. Put the fish into the cold liquid and heat just until the surface liquid barely moves. Using a cold liquid start prevents the outside of the fish from cooking before the inside and helps keep the fish from falling apart. Handle poached fish carefully, as it is very delicate. Use a slotted spatula so the liquid drains off the fish before serving.

Stir-frying can also be a low-fat dish, if you lightly spray or oil the pan. Cook for a short period of time and stir frequently so the oil is not absorbed by the food.

Healthier foods need to be cooked in a healthier way to lower the fat and the calories. Create new ways of cooking by learning the updated cooking lingo. Remember: To eat lean, you have to cook lean.

Lamb is prime in spring, shop for tastiest cuts

AP — Leaner, tastier and more tender than ever, lamb is in prime time during spring. That's good news if you like to serve lamb for special occasions.

Shopping for lamb is similar to shopping for beef. Top-quality fresh lamb can range in color from reddish pink to bright red. Look for meat that has a compact, fine grain, and a thin layer of firm, white fat surrounding it. A cross section of the bone should be red, moist and porous. Meat from older lamb is darker in color; the bones are drier and whiter. Look for the latest date stamped on the package to get the freshest — and mildest flavored — meat.

Symbols of quality

Domestic lamb is inspected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for quality. It is graded for tenderness, juiciness and flavor, just like beef. USDA Prime, the most tender, usually goes to restaurants. USDA Choice is most often sold in supermarkets and is also a very tender cut. About 90 percent of all lamb graded by the USDA is classified as Prime or Choice.

Under a special certification program administered by the American Lamb Council, lamb may also be graded according to how lean it is. The leanest of the five grades (grades one and two) means that the lamb can be labeled as Certified. Certification helps you identify a superior lamb product. The amount of fat and the age of the animal are two main factors that are used to judge whether the lamb can be certified.

In the supermarket, lamb will probably be labeled as USDA Choice, perhaps with a sticker indicating the certification of leanness. Not all lamb producers participate in the certification program, so you may find lamb that is lean, even though it may not have a sticker. Below are some different products you may see:

- Certified American Lamb: Meat from a U.S. — raised sheep that is less than 1 year old. It cannot have more than a quarter inch of fat around the edge. Certified American lamb is the highest quality lamb available.
- Imported Lamb: Often from Australia or New Zealand, this lamb arrives frozen and therefore is not graded or certified.

- Yearling: Meat from a sheep that is between 1 and 2 years old. It cannot be called lamb. Yearling meat is inspected for wholesomeness but is not graded. It is seldom sold in the United States, except in ethnic and specialty markets. You can special order it.

- Mutton: Meat from a sheep that is 2 years old or older. Mutton is stronger in flavor. Like yearling meat, mutton is inspected but not graded.

Cinnamon sauce tops chops

AP — Lamb is one meat the microwave oven treats well, cooking the tiny chops to tender, juicy perfection. The only secret to making sure the chops cook evenly lies in turning them once during cooking. An easy cinnamon-charged sauce tops them off.

YOGURT-TOPPED LAMB CHOPS

4 lamb leg sirloin chops, cut ¾-inch thick
¼ cup plain yogurt
1 tablespoon brown sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
Dash onion powder
Snipped parsley (optional)
Trim excess fat from lamb chops. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. In a 2-quart square, microwave-safe baking dish, arrange chops with the meatiest portions facing the outside of the dish. Cover with waxed paper. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 3 minutes. Turn chops over. Cook, covered, on high for 2 to 4 minutes more or until desired doneness.

Meanwhile, for sauce, in a small mixing bowl combine yogurt, brown sugar, cinnamon and onion powder. Spoon sauce over chops. Sprinkle with parsley, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

EXPO I-275 close to sold out for its return on May 18-20

EXPO I-275, the annual West Suburban Product and Services Exposition, is a hot selling show, according to Michael Cooney, show coordinator for the Livonia Chamber of Commerce event.

The Livonia Chamber of Commerce has been producing the event for seven years. EXPO I-275 is scheduled for May 18-20. The event draws business visitors from all parts of western Wayne County and Southeast Michigan.

Cooney said the show is close to selling out. He attributes this to the show's reputation for getting results for exhibitors, Gov. John Engler's opening night appearance, and an increased awareness of cost-effective marketing techniques.

Planned for this year's event is also a free Business Resource Center sponsored by the Livonia Chamber. Business people, from professional to novice, can benefit from the free advice available from government-sponsored business assistance agencies, including the Michigan State Department of Commerce and the Service Corp of Retired Executives.

More than 130 businesses participate in EXPO I-275, which is produced by the Livonia Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Belleville, Canton, Garden City, Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Bedford, Wayne, and Westland.

She keeps appointment wheel spinning for Guv

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

"When John Engler comes back from his road trips through the 83 counties," said Anne Mervenne, "he gives me a stack of business cards. He's his own best source."

Mervenne is director of appointments for the governor. In the Olds Tower, across the street from the Capitol, the former Birmingham resident heads a staff of seven.

"They screen people for 300 state boards, commissions, committees and judicial vacancies. In 27 months, Engler has made a whopping 1,300 appointments."

"For those we probably have 13,000 names on file," Mervenne said. "For every appointment, there are 10 applicants — sometimes more, sometimes less."

"For the Natural Resources Commission, we have 100 people on file. It's a popular spot. For the Public Schools Retirement Board, you have to ask people to apply."

Six months crunch

Nowadays, Mervenne has a little time to herself, but at the beginning there were six months of 18-hour days, six days a week. Reason: Democratic Gov. James Blanchard delayed all appointments in election year 1990. "Blanchard didn't want to give (Senate Republican leader) John Engler the opportunity to reject any appointees. He (Blanchard) was so confident that he decided to wait until after the election to make them."

A narrow winner, Engler found he had a year and a half worth of appointments to make in six months.

Ann Mervenne

"It gave John Engler an opportunity to put his fingerprints on government much earlier than usual," said Mervenne. "It was an enormous headache for me personally — I should say, challenge."

Half the people who apply for appointments are self-starters. The other half are recommended by legislators, "close friends, people he meets on the road," she said.

In 20 years in the Legislature, Engler traveled every corner of the state, including Detroit and other urban cities. "He knows more than anyone I've met about state government. People think of him as from Beal City. No one gives him the credit he deserves," Mervenne said.

Sister Elizabeth

"I think I knew in second grade I wanted to be in public service," said Mervenne.

A big influence was the late Sister Elizabeth Girardot, IHM, who taught government, debate and forensics at Marian High School. Sister Elizabeth took her students to places like the Economic Club of Detroit where they lunched with Joseph L. Hudson Jr. and friends.

Mervenne's mother, Rosemary Ledwidge, campaigned for Gov. George Romney in the 1960s too. Four younger siblings are interested but not politically active.

After graduating from Marian in 1978 and Michigan State's James Madison College in 1982, Mervenne worked on an ill-fated congressional campaign, did a stint in Washington as an intern, then returned as a state Senate staffer. From 1984 to 1990, she worked for Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, doing constituent relations, legislative work, political strategy, staff and budget.

"I was very content with Doug," she said, but just the same she threw her resume into Governor-elect Engler's pot. After working with Sens. Cruce and Engler on the regulatory budget, she was interested possibly in a place in the Labor or Commerce departments.

Before her resume surfaced, however, Colleen Pero, a top Engler aide, offered her the job of director of appointments. "I was totally astounded, totally flabbergasted, that I got this job," Mervenne said. "There's really nothing you can do to prepare for this job. It takes good instincts about people, self-confidence, trust in your own judgment, willingness to listen and work with others. This sort of is my life."

Fess up to sins if you apply, they ask Suppose your name lands on director of appointments Anne Mervenne's desk, either because you wrote a letter or gave Gov. John Engler your card.

First you'll get a letter acknowledging your interest along with a two-page form and a request for a resume. The form will ask questions about charges of breaches of ethics, criminal charges and civil lawsuits.

It will ask about interest groups and trade associations who support (or oppose) you. "We definitely call legislators. Legislators have good input. They know many people that it's hard for the seven of us to know," she said.

You'll be asked about handicaps, ethnic heritage and party affiliation because some commissions require handicapper and bipartisan representation. There are the usual law enforcement and credit checks. Said Mervenne: "I'd rather read about it from them than in the Free Press."

Few appointees have had trouble over background: the head of the unemployment office and a Natural Resources commissioner (fishing violations). Other controversies have been largely over policies.

Engler does geographic ticket balancing for posts requiring it, like the Transportation Commission. Mervenne reports to chief of staff Dan Pero, but her appointments reports go directly to Engler, with copies to those who need them such as the legal counsel.

"If they're all exemplary," she said, "I'll list them in alphabetical order. A lot of times, I'll have an A list, a B list and a C list. Every board is unique. Every applicant is unique."

Sometimes Engler will surprise her because he has a policy objective she isn't aware of, or he knows a lot personally about an applicant with a sketchy resume. She summed it up: "It's gratifying."

Engler

Meanwhile, Mervenne had her own political career, winning two terms on the Ingham County Board of Commissioners as a Republican in a marginally Democratic district. After redistricting, she didn't run for re-election in 1992.

"This job requires too much energy and concentration," she said.

Search for quality

News people find that Engler doesn't give his college board appointees an agenda to carry out. Mervenne confirms that impression: "He looks for quality."

Number of appointed positions is staggering

Here are some of the appointments — in addition to 19 department heads — made by Michigan's governor:

- Judicial — all vacancies in all courts. Appointees serve until the next election.
- University boards — Oakland University, Eastern Michigan, other regional universities; vacancies on the elective boards of University of Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State universities.

- Environmental — natural resources, environmental review, air pollution control, toxic substance control, Great Lakes fishery, forest products, waterways, Mackinac Island, trust fund, water resources,
- Education — higher ed facilities, higher ed assistance, special education advisory, teacher tenure,

- Labor — construction code, barrier free design, boiler rules, elevator safety, plumbing, employment relations, workers comp appeals, handicapper concerns.
- Licensing and Regulation — accountancy, architects, athletic, barbers, residential builders, carnival safety, professional community planners, cosmetology, engineers, foresters, hearing aid dealers, marriage counselors, polygraph examiners, real estate brokers, social examiners, health occupations, nursing, optometry, osteopathic medicine, pharmacy, veterinary medicine.

Rocks rout soccer foes

Plymouth Salem girls soccer coach Ken Johnson hopes the Rocks have worked things out and hit their stride with a pair of wins last week.

After struggling in its first two games, Salem rocked Farmington Hills Harrison 10-0 on Wednesday and Livonia Franklin 9-0 on Friday.

Marie Hoff, Kelly Lukasik and Caryn Tatterton scored two goals each in the most recent game. Charu Sinha, Stacey DeLong and Kris Goff contributed single goals. Lukasik also had two assists.

Mesha Chicon and Mandy Blumberg played one half each in goal and shared the shutout for the second straight game.

Hoff had three goals to lead the Rocks (2-1-1) against Harrison. Michelle Cronan and Tatterton scored two each; Goff, Alexis Marinis and Jaimie Krueger had one apiece. Goff and Sinha had a pair of assists.

The Rocks also have settled on a set lineup, Johnson said. Goff, who had the freedom to roam the field at the start of the season, will remain at sweeper as a defensive guarantee.

Goff went forward in a season-opening loss to Livonia Stevenson, but "We didn't get the goal; we kept missing, and we didn't have her in the back," Johnson said. "Stevenson got the through balls and she wasn't there."

"She'll come up for set plays but not dribbling through, especially in the (Plymouth) Canton (tonight) and Troy games."

Salem led 2-0 at halftime Tuesday against GPS, but the Blue Devils rallied in the second half to take a 3-2 lead. Goff got the tying (3-3) goal with five minutes left. Mackenzie Emmett and Hoff scored the other Salem goals.

Ladywood soccer victory

Livonia Ladywood scored three times in the second half in its 4-1 victory at Harper Woods Regina Thursday.

The Blazers (2-1 overall and 1-1 in the Catholic League) scored just one minute into the game. Jackie Tuggle set up Betsy Monczka to give Ladywood a 1-0 lead. Regina's Ann Diamond tied the score with just over a minute left in the half.

Kelli Colliton scored the first of her two goals nine minutes into the second half. Kelli Kavanaugh recorded an assist.

Val Adzima scored off a Colliton pass to make it 3-1. Colliton added an unassisted goal.

Easter soccer champs

Vardar, an under-14 boys soccer team, recently won the Ninth Annual Countryside Easter International Tournament in Clearwater, Fla., with a 2-0 victory over F.C. Richmond, Va.

Kyle Marshall and Tony Moucoulis scored goals for Vardar in the championship game.

Vardar reached the final with a 2-0 win over Delco Aztecs (Pa.). They also scored wins over B.F.C. Suderling (Germany), Florida Thunder and Richmond.

AAU volleyball champs

The Schoolcraft-Ocelot Volleyball Association 16-and-under team, coached by Maria Evans and Christine Paciero, recently won an AAU tournament at Portage Northern High School with a 15-9, 15-7 victory in the final.

Anne Poglits (Livonia Ladywood) provided some timely hitting, while setters Lenay Truchan (Livonia Franklin) and Renae Rozelle (Ladywood) also stood out.

Amber Wells (Plymouth Salem) and Erin LeSage (Ladywood) contributed to the team's outside hitting attack.

RU baseball invite

Eight high school baseball teams will vie for the Redford Union Invitational title Saturday at two sites (Capitol Park and Thurston High).

In first round games, host RU will meet Dearborn Heights Crestwood at 10 a.m. followed by Wayne Memorial and Livonia Stevenson, both games at Capitol Park. The semifinals will be at 2 p.m. at Capitol.

At Thurston, the host Eagles take on Farmington at 10 a.m. followed by the Trenton-Plymouth Canton matchup. The semifinals will be at 2 p.m. at Thurston.

The championship is scheduled for 7 p.m. at Capitol Park.

Girls golf results

Christine Wertanen shot a 56 Thursday, leading Plymouth Canton (2-0) to a 249-255 WLAA win over host Livonia Stevenson.

Other Canton scorers included Audrey Meisner (60), Val Smith (64) and Michelle O'Brien (68).

Kara Carlson led the Spartans (0-2 overall) with a 60, followed by Kristen Bartholomew (62), Mo Drabicki (65) and Laura Blazok (68).

Holmes pitcher perfect in debut

The season opener was one to remember as Plymouth Canton senior pitcher Kelly Holmes threw a perfect game and the Chiefs blanked Farmington 13-0 in five innings Thursday.

The Plymouth Canton softball team couldn't have wished for anything more perfect than what occurred Thursday in its season debut.

Senior Kelly Holmes pitched a perfect game as the Chiefs opened with a five-inning, mercy-rule victory over visiting Farmington, 13-0.

Holmes faced the minimum 15 batters, struck out 10, allowed no hits and walked none.

"She was right on today," Canton coach Jim Arnold said. "It looked like she started where she left off last year."

The closest the Falcons came to getting on base occurred late in the game when they tried to bunt and Holmes went to a 2-2 count.

"She bore down and struck the girl out," Arnold said. "I couldn't believe the speed on the ball; she threw it harder than I've ever seen her throw. She's faster than she was last year and improved."

Arnold also cited the outstanding play of senior catcher Laura Ciantar, who saved the perfect game for Holmes when she made a diving catch on a popup.

Holmes swung a mean bat for the Chiefs, too. She had two hits, including a bases-loaded double, a sacrifice and four RBI.

Sarah Rowe had three hits and scored three runs; Tina Schafer had two hits and two RBI, and she also scored three runs.

"The girls were anxious; they were ready to play," Arnold said, adding Canton had practiced a long time and had two scrimmages.

"They also know it's not going to be like this all the time. But it looks like we have a well-balanced team this year."

Suzanne Carlson was the losing pitcher. She struck out two and walked six. Canton had nine hits.

"I told my girls 'That is the best we'll face all year,'" Farmington coach Julie Ingalls said.

PLYMOUTH SALEM

Junior pitcher Karen Jose was nearly as perfect as Holmes in Livonia Churchill's 9-0 victory over the visiting Rocks Thursday.

Jose tossed a one-hitter, struck out 16 and didn't issue a walk. Jamey Viau had the only hit for Salem (0-1).

Chrissy Daly had two hits and scored four runs for the Chargers (1-0). Dayna Landry and Jose had two RBI apiece.

Salem's regular pitcher, Jenny Garvey, was ill and didn't play.

Rocks win key contest

Plymouth Salem staked an early-season claim to Observerland superiority in girls track by defeating Livonia Stevenson 78-50 Thursday.

The Rocks proved they are a dual-meet power as well as an excellent invitational team, having previously won the Spartan and Lady Chief Relays.

Salem is 1-0 in the Lakes Division and 2-0 overall.

"It puts us in good position in the division, but we have four more to go," Salem coach Mark Gregor said. "We'll look forward to those and our dual with (Plymouth) Canton (in the annual Mangan Meet on May 4). We're on pace to do some good things down the road."

The Rocks won everything but two field events, two distance races and one relay in their dual with the Spartans.

Gregor cited the contributions of Melissa Hopson, Dana Driscoll and Sarah Makins for their importance and excellence.

Hopson won the high jump (5-3) and 100-meter dash (12.9), and she was the lead runner on the winning 400 relay team.

Driscoll, Marcia Parker and Vanessa Benning also participated in the relay and helped Salem post an impressive 51.8 time — the best Gregor can remember a Salem running.

Makins won the 100 hurdles in 15.8 and the 300 hurdles in 49.8, and she was second in the long jump at 16 feet.

Driscoll won the long jump (16-2) and also helped the Rocks win the 800 relay (1:50.8), which included Sarah Hamilton, Parker and Tonya Wheeler.

Prophecy holds true in Canton victory

BY CHRIS MCCOSKY
STAFF WRITER

It was halftime, his young team had been out-hustling and out-muscling undefeated Plymouth Canton for much of the 40 minutes and led 1-0 when Livonia Churchill soccer coach Nick O'Shea muttered this warning:

"If we play the same way in the second half," he said, "we're in trouble."

Prophetic words. Visiting Canton, buoyed by a fluke goal, scored twice in the final 25 minutes and staved off a late Churchill flurry to take a 2-1 victory and command of the Western Lakes Western Division.

O'Shea saw his team's hustle and aggressive play at midfield and in the defensive zone in the first half. But he didn't see any intensity in the attacking zone. And that troubled him.

"You noticed how we picked up the intensity after Canton scored the second goal," O'Shea said. "We really went after it, but we don't play with that intensity for 80 minutes. They seem to want to turn it on only when they have to."

Freshman Kerri Verardi headed in Erin Stachurski's well-placed corner kick to put the Chargers ahead just 2:16 into the match and they sustained pretty good pressure, much of it generated by flashy freshman Marie Spaccarotella, for the next 20 minutes.

But for the last 15 minutes of the first half and the first 32 minutes of the second, Churchill managed just three shots at Canton goalie Jori Welchans.

"They beat us up in the first half, to say the least," said coach Don Smith, whose Chiefs are now 4-0, 2-0 in the Western Division. "But we came back and played them pretty even in the second half — well, I guess we maybe played just a little better, eh? We scored one more goal than they did."

Canton tied the match on a strange play with 24:28 left in the match.

"Hey," said O'Shea, "fluke goals count."

Canton sophomore Mellissa Tomei lofted a lazy shot toward the middle of the Churchill goal. As goalie Sarah Fabirkiewicz and two defensemen came out to play it, the ball deflected toward the goal. A trio of Chiefs plunged forward and wound up on their backs in the goal. To their surprise and delight, the ball rolled in with them.

"The last time I saw the ball it was above my head," said Canton's Leah Hutko, who was credited with the goal. "The next thing I knew I was on the ground and in the net and the ball rolled in. I don't know if I touched it or not, but I'll take it."

Said O'Shea: "After the deflection, our goalie and defensemen were back-pedaling and their forwards were charging. That made it easy for them to overpower us."

There was nothing fluky about the game-winner. "That was a great goal," O'Shea said. "Our goalie didn't move till it was past her."

With 8:10 left, Hutko fed a swift cross to Amy Westerhold who one-timed a low hard shot past a helpless Fabirkiewicz.

The rest of the match belonged to Welchans. She made three big saves in the final minutes, one on a high shot from Andrea Zawislak, one from Stachurski and another on a head from Aimee Cousino.

"This was a big win for us," Hutko said. "We've been thinking about it since Tuesday and we were real serious in warm-ups. We knew they would be good, and they were."

While the Chiefs sit comfortably in first place, the Chargers, at 0-1-1 in the division (1-1-2 overall), must reassess their goals.

"This was a big set-back. We're pretty much out of the division race now," O'Shea said. "But there's still the state playoffs and other goals to go after. We have good young players, but we don't have a real boisterous leader who will take charge when things get tough. We tend to just let things happen instead of trying to change the course of things."

The Chargers won their first game of the season on Wednesday, whipping Farmington 7-0. Spaccarotella had two goals and two assists and midfielders Cousino and Stachurski each contributed a goal.

The Chiefs, on Wednesday, topped Livonia Franklin, 5-1, behind Mandy Salin's hat-trick.

Salem, Canton boys post dual-meet wins

Don Johnson and Marcus Zevalkink paced Plymouth Salem to an 88-49 victory Thursday over visiting Livonia Stevenson in its Lakes Division boys track debut.

Each athlete had three first places, with Johnson taking two in individual events and anchoring a relay.

Johnson won the long jump (20-2) and 110-meter hurdles (15.3), and he finished the 400 relay.

Zevalkink, Steve Schumacher and Jay Casey preceded Johnson in that relay (46.4) and combined with Adam Bakowski to win the 800 (1:38.7). Zevalkink also was the 100 dash (11.4) winner.

Brian Herc, Russ Polcyn, Josh Stickney and Derek Cudini were solo and relay winners for the Rocks.

Herc was first in the intermediate hurdles (42.8), Polcyn, 400 (56.0); Stickney, 800 (2:07); and Cudini, 3,200 (10:44).

Bakowski started the 1,600 relay and the baton went to Mike Redmond, Herc and Polcyn for a 3:45.7 time. Cudini and Stickney finished the 3,200 relay (8:55) after Justin Richardson and Andy McDonald had done their parts.

Salem had three of five field-event winners, including Jeff Schumacher in the shot put (42-8½) and Rockland Johnson in the discus (128-9).

PLYMOUTH CANTON

The Chiefs are 2-0 in the early season after taking out host Livonia Churchill 102-35 in their Western Division dual-meet debut Thursday.

Damon Collier and John Martin led Canton with three first places each. The Chiefs swept the relays and won all but three events.

Martin won both hurdle races, running 16 seconds flat in the highs and 44.2 in the intermediates. He also anchored the winning 800 relay.

Collier was tops in the long jump (19-4) and was part of two relay teams.

Tom Raven posted a pair of field-event victories, throwing the shot put 47 feet and the discus 139-2.

Matt Demey and Jeff Keith won individual running events and contributed to one relay victory apiece. Demey ran 55.2 in the 400 and Keith 2:08.8 in the 800.

Mike Gurchak, Andy Ingersoll, Collier and Rob Lemasters circled the track in :46.5 to win the 400 relay. Collier, Mike Erickson, Marques Nelson and Martin made up the 800 team, which finished in 1:38.2.

Nelson and Erickson also were part of the 1,600 team as the lead and anchor runners, respectively. Rich Smolarek and Leon Black won for them with a 3:52.3 time.

Demey and Keith were the middle runners in the 3,200 relay (8:49.6), which included Justin McClain and Kevin Gudeth.

Canton had three other winners. Mark Koziol jumped 5-8 in the high jump, Dave Yack won the 1,600 run (4:47) and Ian Bedford ran the 3,200 in 10:37.8.

is 1-0 in the Western Division and 2-0 overall.

Ndu Okwumabua won the high jump (5-2) and 200-meter dash (26.9). She also anchored the winning 400 relay team, combining with Becky Bockstanz, Olive Ikeh and Karina Kilpelainen for a 52.4 time.

Canton's Selena Bastine was a double winner in the shot put (33-6) and discus (119-3).

Bockstanz, Kilpelainen, Meghan Barresi and Angela Fountain had individual wins in addition to their relay contributions.

Bockstanz won the long jump (14-8½), Kilpelainen the 100 hurdles (16.3), Barresi the 400 run (1:05.1) and Fountain the 300 hurdles (52.4).

Fountain, Tracey Cavin, Teri Scott and Shawn Champlin won the 800 relay (1:56.5). Barresi and Cavin connected with Brooke Larson and Judy Taasan to win the 800 (4:34).

Jenna Williams, Erin Barresi, Casey Swanson and Melissa Bastine started Canton's sweep of the relays by winning the 3,200 (11:25.2).

The Chiefs made their usual strong showing in the distance runs, with Lana Boroditsch winning the 800 (2:28.6) and Laura McWilliams the 3,200 (12:55.5).

The team of Stacy Witthoff, Kelly Stankov, Courtney Sheldon and Lynda Sebestyen gave Salem a victory in the 3,200 relay. They combined for a 10:06.3 finish — "a great time at this point in the season," according to Gregor.

"Everyone ran under 2:32, which leads us to believe if they continue to progress and stay healthy they can run under 10 minutes in the near future," he said.

The Rocks also got first places from Hamilton in the 200 dash (26.5), Wheeler in the 400 (1:01.5) and Witthoff in the 800 (2:29.9).

Stevenson's Rachel Clark won the shot put (33-1½) and discus (104-6), and A.J. Koritnik won the 1,600 (5:30.9) and the 3,200 (11:42).

PLYMOUTH CANTON

In past years, a Canton-Livonia Churchill meet would have been a pretty good duel.

Benedict's pitching superb

BASEBALL

If anonymity was Craig Benedict's goal, he's going about it all wrong. As it stands now, not too many people in Observerland baseball circles know about the senior right-hander from Plymouth Canton.

Well, it was a 10-hit attack in LaPointe's book, with two Falcon errors. The Farmington book credited the Chiefs with six hits, and charged itself with seven errors. Canton is 5-3.

PLYMOUTH SALEM Livonia Churchill improved to 3-0 — its best start since 1984 — with a 10-0, five-inning shut-out at Plymouth Salem Thursday.

Jason Carter went the distance to record his first win of the season. Carter scattered four hits, while striking out four and walking two.

Jon Paul Patete gave up seven Churchill runs and failed to survive the third inning as he took the loss for the Rocks (3-4).

The Chargers had eight hits from eight different players. Junior Vince DeMassa collected two RBI with a third-inning double. Pete Owens had a pinch-hit RBI single in the fifth.

"I'm very happy with the win," Churchill coach Herb Osterland said. "Things are going well for us and we are receiving a balanced team effort."

The Rocks committed 11 errors Tuesday and lost a doubleheader to visiting Walled Lake Western, 7-3 and 13-6.

In the first game, Western's Mike Christensen pitched four innings and surrendered only one run by scattering five hits with six strikeouts. He helped himself at the plate, by going 3-for-4 with a home run and two RBI.

Mike Marsella threw the first 4 1/2 innings for Salem. He was knocked around for seven runs; however, only three were earned.

Brandon Los ripped a homer, double and two RBI for Salem. Bryan Zarosely and Charlie Winstel chipped in two hits apiece.

Mark Schankowski contributed two hits each to Canton's 10-hit attack.

Nine of the Warriors' 13 runs in the nightcap were unearned. Western put the game away with a nine-run second inning. Pete Lindsay hit a grand slam in the decisive inning.

Marsella provided the Rocks with a bases-loaded, three-run single.

Lefty Dave Knight was the victim of Salem's shoddy defense, as he lasted only 1 1/2 innings and gave up nine runs — all unearned.

"We're young and have the Jekyll-Hyde syndrome now," Salem coach John Gravin said. "Hopefully, we'll get the mistakes out of our system by the time the conference starts."

CATHOLIC CENTRAL Redford Catholic Central lost a non-leaguer 5-1 Thursday to Grosse Pointe South as the host Blue Devils exploded for five runs in the bottom of the fourth inning, pinning the loss on Shamrocks' starter Andy Slankster.

Reliever Jerry Nozewski singled and scored on an error for CC's lone run in the fifth.

On Wednesday, CC (8-6) was swept in the Catholic League Central Division double-header by Birmingham Brother Rice at Redford's Capitol Park.

Chris Smolky tossed a no-hitter in the opener as Rice topped CC, 2-0. Center fielder Brian Donohoe's two-run double in the fourth inning proved to be the difference.

Smolky struck out 11 and walked only two, outdueling CC right-hander Brian Paluk, who went all seven innings, allowing only five hits and two walks. Paluk fanned nine.

CC managed only two hits in the nightcap off Donohoe, losing 3-1.

Rice scored twice in the opening inning off losing pitcher Dave Susalla.

Andy Kummer worked six strong innings in relief, allowing two hits and one run.

Proper exercise helps reduce fat

EXERCISING OPTIONS

MYRNA PARTRICH

I am a naturally overweight person. I have been watching my food intake closely. I eat low-fat foods, drink a lot of water and exercise about four times a week. I run the treadmill for about 30 minutes each time. I seem to be at a point where I can't lose any more weight. What do I do?

This is really a common problem, especially if you say you are a "naturally overweight person." Do you like to eat? You may be eating low-fat food, but too much of it. Portion control can be a factor here.

Your exercise regimen is not demanding enough. Aerobic activity, four times a week for 30 minutes a time, is more a maintenance program if you have been at it awhile. The key to permanent weight loss is to make your muscles more active so you can burn calories more easily.

It works like this. The fat/sedentary metabolism shunts a large percentage of calories into its cells after eating. Inactivity will keep the fat cells full of fat. The thin metabolism, however, uses calories quite differently — burning hundreds of them each day in physical activity.

Part of the fuel used for that activity is stored in the muscle cells and liver. After eating, the active muscles and liver grab and store a larger part of your calories. These calories never see the inside of your fat cells.

Simple explanation, yes! Outcome, small fat cells!

Using your lower body muscles properly and often (treadmill is fine, but try to vary your activity), your body becomes a fat-burning machine. After aerobizing for 30 to 45 minutes six days a week (some days harder than others), your body keeps right on working internally for several hours afterwards, repairing, and refueling the muscle tissue you have just used.

Generally, you can burn 20 percent more calories just sitting around after exercise. In fact, you burn the greatest number of calories in any given activity when your metabolic rate is already at a high point.

I might also try exercising at a different time. What about a light dinner and a nice healthy run around 8 p.m.? Changing times that you work out (a few hours after meals) can also help.

Just think if you burn an extra 50 calories a day, this can mean five pounds a year.

My advice is to check your food portions and increase exercise to six days a week, changing your activity and the time of the day you work out to give yourself more variety.

Ladywood has new athletic director

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Ladywood High's athletic department is under new management.

Sister Mary Ann Smith, Ladywood's principal, announced last week that Sal Malek will take over the part-time position effective immediately.

Ladywood had been without an A.D. for nearly three months after the sudden resignation in January by Joe Peruski.

Malek, business manager for 12 years (1977-89) for the University of Detroit's athletic department, is no stranger to the Catholic League athletics.

During his days at U-D, Malek helped run both the boys and girls Catholic League basketball playoffs at Calihan Hall.

"I was impressed with his energy level," Sister Smith said. "He's someone with strong organizational skills and he's good at fund-raising."

"He loves athletics and loves students of all ages. Plus, his expertise at U-D and at Calihan was also important."

Malek, a Detroit native, graduated both from U-D High and the University of Detroit (1975). He started out working in the athletic department offices during the Dick Vitale years with Titan basketball.

Malek's family currently runs the Soccer Locker in Farmington. The retail store has been in business for five years.

"With the job I have right now, I'll be able to do as many hours (at Ladywood) as I can," Malek said. "I really miss being in athletics. I miss the kids.

"This is a great opportunity for me. And I like the Catholic League setup. I enjoy the camaraderie."

"I'll work within the guidelines of the school and do the best I can for the young ladies at Ladywood."

Malek resides in Dearborn Heights with his wife and two children.

"He has a special charisma about him," Sister Smith said. "He's a guy we need for our program at this time. He's a darn good man and I'm excited. I think he's a man who will get things done."

Malek said he has met with only a few coaches on Ladywood's staff, but plans to sit down and talk with all of them before the school year is out.

"I enjoy this kind of opportunity," he said. "They have a nice program and beautiful facilities (the school's new gymnasium is barely two years old). I will not be coaching, just handling the building along with the other administrative duties."

Tom Rashid, director of the Catholic League, also applauded the hiring of Malek.

"I think Sal's the perfect person for the job," Rashid said. "He has background in facilities, a knowledge of athletics and he's been very active in the Catholic League."

"He's got personality and he's a take-charge person. He knows just about everybody. He'll do great job. He's a real good coach. He also has experience hosting state tournament games."

S'craft runner-up in golf

It was close. Schoolcraft College's golf team came within a couple of strokes of capturing the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's Eastern Conference Championship Friday, finishing tied for second behind Macomb CC on the par-72, 6,902-yard Flint Elks Golf Course.

SC's four scorers totalled 321, as did Oakland CC's. Macomb, led by medalist Mark Zuraw's 74, won with a 319.

In fourth place was St. Clair CC and Henry Ford CC (337 each), with Mott and Delta tied for sixth (340) and Alpena eighth (366).

SC's scorers were Dan Alcock, 78, and Dennis Alcock, Michael Brady and Steve Brining, each at 81. Pete Theophilis shot 89.

Last Tuesday, the Ocelots got a medalist performance from Dan Alcock and finished tied for third at the St. Clair CC Invitational at the par-71 Port Huron Golf Club.

Alcock led the field with a 72. Other SC scorers were Brady (83), Dennis Alcock (88) and Brining (90). Ron Kapio shot 102.

Grand Rapids CC won with a 316, with host St. Clair second (328). SC and Macomb tied for third (333), followed by Delta (339), Henry Ford (346), Alpena (349), Kalamazoo Valley (359), Glen Oaks (381) and Mott (no team score).

CC wins lacrosse game

Redford Catholic Central took advantage of a nine-goal first quarter Tuesday and defeated visiting Warren DeLaSalle, 15-10, in a boys lacrosse game.

CC stayed undefeated in four games.

"We finally played a quarter like we're able to play," CC coach Jim Ryan said. "The key is moving the ball. Our midfield is very good and when we push the ball we're very good on the fly."

Brian Ronayne got the Shamrocks off to a flying start, scoring 10 seconds into the game. He finished with four goals and three assists.

Justin Ronayne and Brian Rice scored three goals and two assists each. Tim Knoth, Paul Nemzek, Tim Williams and Jeff Lachapelle had a goal and an assist apiece.

Jamie Ronayne collected two assists and Tim McArthur and Terry Griffin added one each.

The Shamrocks enjoyed an 11-3 lead after halftime and were ahead 14-6 after three quarters.

BY LISA RUDY
SPECIAL WRITER

If what you know about Polish cuisine is limited to "pigs in a blanket" and you find yourself craving an adventure, the Polish Village Cafe, located in downtown Hamtramck, just might be the place to broaden your ethnic horizons.

Waitresses dressed in authentic Polish dress can be found bustling from table to table, and toward the back of the restaurant, patrons can sneak a peek over the counter at the cooks, tending the huge frying pans and pots on the kitchen stoves.

The whole place is a hubbub of noise and activity. The restaurant dining area is small, and tables for four are pretty much packed together to give the place a real close-knit dining hall atmosphere.

Vinyl red-checked tablecloths, antique photographs of Polish ancestors, some beautiful wood-working and old accordions and trumpets make up most of the unassuming decor and piped-in polka music is played for those serious patrons of authenticity.

For those willing to take a walk on the wild side, tripe stew (yes, that means pigs intestines) is a big hit with many of the regulars. The place serves it up hot and steamy, with plenty of bread for dunking. If you want to start your lesson in Polish cuisine a little more conservatively, dill pickle soup is also on the list, along with a few old standbys, including homemade chicken soup.

The menu is in both Polish and American, and there's no pronunciation key, so if you decide to take a stab at ordering in a language unfamiliar to you, realize that tripe stew and meatballs sound very similar when they're mispronounced, so order carefully.

Potato pancakes and potato cheese dumplings with sour cream are offered either steamed or fried, and they both make good appetizers. The Polish "eggroll" is a neat twist to the old Chinese favorite and is filled with tangy sauerkraut.

Entrees include stuffed cabbage, pork chops, boiled beef and a Polish/American creation called city chicken (breaded chunks of pork, browned and baked on a skewer). Most of the entrees are accompanied by vegetables, potatoes and sauerkraut.

At first glance, a new patron might be horrified at the fact that this place serves its mashed potatoes up in the perfect shape of an ice cream scoop, but don't be alarmed. They might look like the stuff you used to get in the school cafeteria, but they taste better than they look.

A glass of imported Polish Blackberry or Honey Mead Wine is a great way to relax after your meal. And in keeping with the adventurous spirit, you're invited to try dessert — a slice of cheesecake, a torte, or if you're real daring, a prune blintz.

1-7 p.m. Sunday

Have you ever dreamed of sitting around a campfire, drinking steamy hot robust coffee? Do you spend Monday nights watching "Northern Exposure," wishing you could hang out at the "Brick" with Maggie and Chris? Are you running out of ideas about what to do with those deer antlers left over from last fall's big hunt? Can you hold your own at a game of darts, do you like hot chewy chocolate chip cookies, and DO YOU OWN A DOG?

If you've answered yes to one or more of those questions, then the Moose Preserve Bar and Grill is one place you shouldn't hesitate to check out. This outdoorsy, semi-yuppie, kind-of-like-your-Dad's American Legion and your mom's kitchen restaurant offers some fantastic menu items and has an atmosphere that is so fresh and welcoming it would be hard for you not to make it a regular hangout.

A stuffed moose welcomes you at the door and invites you to seat yourself at any one of the many tables located in the fairly large two-room lodge. One side of the restaurant features a well-stocked bar, two dart boards, juke box, plenty of solid pine tables with naugahyde chairs and chandeliers made out of antlers. The other side has another smaller bar, more tables and a huge stone fireplace, well suited for telling old camp stories.

The food is varied enough to be interesting and homey enough to be unpretentious. Venison chili is a popular item on the menu, and is served with a big spoonful of sour cream and a handful of green onions. Daily specials are rotated, but usu-

Music buffs get hooked on used

First it was second-hand clothes, then it was second-hand furniture. Now the trend is to second-hand music. Not the kind that's recorded by several artists, but one person's unwanted albums, tapes and CDs.

BY KYLE GREEN
SPECIAL WRITER

Many metro Detroiters are discovering that what is old is new again or rather, what may be old to some is new to others.

Used music, regardless if it's on vinyl, compact disc (CD), cassette or 8-track, has established a demand which many independent music stores are having a hard time keeping pace with the tempo.

Retailers have discovered that "music lovers are interested in deals on used materials if they know they're in good shape and less expensive than new releases. As a result they're prone to buy more."

There's no stereotypical used music buyers, simply people who love music, according to Lorna Kuschel, manager of Solo Records, CD's & Tapes in Bloomfield Hills.

"Older people — retirees who are into records who refuse to give up their record players to college kids — they always make the summers," she said. "They are the main collectors. They come in and stock up at the end of August before the kids go to school."

"Some are looking for strictly Top-40 which we are not too good at and a lot of the others are looking for hard to find releases which we are good at."

Solo has earned a solid reputation in Oakland County in the last 11 years by carrying less specialized materials and by being one of a few retailers specializing in albums which sell $1-$5 depending on the condition of the record and the artist. Nevertheless, Kuschel maintains, that used cassettes are the store's best seller.

"When records were going out of style you had two options — cassettes or CD's... basically the younger kids of today only know of CD's and cassettes," she said. Cassettes normally sell $1-$4 at Solo which sell typically 100 a day and has approximately 6,000 in stock, Kuschel said. The store's used CD selection will be expanding in the near future.

Many used music buyers are looking solely for records. These fanatics of the flat, black, circular objects are a breed of their own, according to Warren Westfall, owner of the Record Collector in Livonia.

"There are people who when holding a LP cover — it's more tangible," said Westfall. "There is something about its graphics which a small CD cover doesn't capture. People who collect tend to be a little more different than your typical consumer and they know what they are looking for."

"If you are a collector or a fan you are out to fill (your) collection and get more material."

Westfall claims he has "thousands" of used records, cassettes and CD's in stock which all could sell between $1.99 and $9.99. The used aspect to his business has flourished so much that Westfall rarely sets out latest releases.

"The only difference between a new and used CD is the price," he said.

Shoppers at Record Time in Rochester simply want to find material regardless if it's new or used, said assistant manager Michael LaVoie. Customers typically head for the used CD section before examining the current releases, he said.

"If they don't find it used they will buy new," he said. "There really aren't people who only buy used, but people will buy both. People really don't have a preference, just as long as it's in stock but there are some who will only have used — who may not have a lot of money, typically college students."

Record Time stocks imported records and new material as well as used records, CD's and cassettes, priced $2-$6.

Typically stores acquire their stock through what is known as "dumping" — when people dump old material for newer items. Generally, stores offer cash and a trade-in value for material, while others offer strictly cash.

Mark Shearer, manager of Rock of Ages in Garden City, knows dumping first hand. He deals with it daily sighting the fact that his store offers only cash for used materials.

"People sell their stuff for money; I had a guy come in to dump a lot of cassettes to get money to repair a transmission," Shearer said.

Rock of Ages pays $1 for cassettes and $4 for CD's and tries to keep to heavy metal, hard rock and pop titles. Shearer says his biggest turnover is artists like The Doors and Led Zeppelin.

People who are into music need to buy because it's like self-induced high for them, according to Kuschel. "A music lover is like a junkie," she said. "They need music and will go out and find it."

Painted Glass shuns love for an 'idea'

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Don't mistake Painted Glass as another Detroit-area alternative rock band singing about broken hearts. The word "love" isn't even in their vocabulary.

The group is more of an "idea" band.

"I just write things that are familiar to me," explained vocalist/guitarist Daryl Kenny. "Words like 'love' don't get repeated. I don't write the word. We're trying to be more sincere about the music. We're all very serious about it. That's for sure."

"Plus, we've never had any problems with that (relationships)."

"That intellectual style of writing allows more listeners to relate to his music, Kenny said.

"I write about a feeling I got from a situation, or a lot of times about people," he said. "If they're (songs) vaguely enough written, (listeners) can sort of apply them to themselves."

Painted Glass — which also includes bassist Jim Hohner, drummer Phil Langbeen and guitarist Keith Petropoulos — only formed a year ago

Armstrong returns to 'Down Under'

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

The sound of a crumpling potato chip bag disturbs her from the solace of long-distance driving. She snatches the bag, which her father has tried for an eternity to open and rips it with her teeth. When he refuses to eat the liberated chips, she munches them herself.

Beth (Lisa Harrow) of the new Australian film "The Last Days of Chez Nous" are surprisingly entertaining and true-to-life. And despite the film's occasionally contrived plot twists, the characters are as real as the people next door.

Kerry Fox, brilliant as writer Janet Frame in "An Angel at My Table," plays a young woman whose closeness with her sister seems cemented by their startling differences.

Beth is a published writer. Vicki talks about being one. While Beth is organized and hard-working (she writes down snippets of everyday life for possible book material), Vicki looks for a job only when she feels like it. When Vicki comes home pregnant, she expects her sister to make the tough decisions for her.

German actor Ganz (he played the main angel in "Wings of Desire") makes a surprisingly good Frenchman here. You can sympathize with the love-hate relationship he has with his adoptive country while despising him for the way he mistreats Beth.

Director Gillian Armstrong was among the first wave of moviemakers who made Australian films so exciting in the late 1970s and early '80s. But unlike expatriates Peter Weir, George Miller and Bruce Beresford, who have scored huge Hollywood successes with "Dead Poets' Society," "The Witches of Eastwick" and "Driving Miss Daisy," Armstrong is still known primarily for her 1979 feature debut "My Brilliant Career."

She has returned now to her native Australia with almost regenerative results. The movie, like a first feature, is low-budget, grainy and delightfully claustrophobic.

This is no "Howard's End." The house itself doesn't bind these people together and there is little conventional beauty in the cinematography. Scenes of the Australian desert vistas are pretty much a study in blandness, a point which Beth and her father comment on when a tourist bus in front of them stops inexplicably to take photographs.

Instead, the movie focuses on quirks and complicated personal histories that you sometimes have to guess at. I'm still not sure how long Beth and J.P. have been married. And it took me well into the middle of the film to find out that the young jazz lover in horn-rimmed glasses was not only Beth's daughter's boyfriend but a lodger in their home.

Could it be that Armstrong and screenwriter Helen Garner use this ambiguity to show the lack of clarity between the characters themselves?

With "The Last Days of Chez Nous," less is often more. One thing the film doesn't lack, however, is sensitivity and carefully drawn performances. Catch it soon during what may be a brief run at the Maple.

"The last thing I ever want to have is a false confidence. (But) of course you think you're good. You wouldn't do something unless you thought it was great."

Still, Painted Glass, which recently recorded its demo at White Room studios in Detroit, is trying to evolve its live show by adding new twists to performing live. For example, when the group plays The Ritz Wednesday, the performance will be part of a party called "Click." At a Christmas show at the same club, Painted Glass dressed as elves. Sometimes, Kenny said, he worries that the group's sense of humor will turn off serious music fans.

"Sometimes it's a little misleading," he said. "People don't look at it too seriously. If we put too much goof into it, we will attract a crowd and actually what we think is our worst song is the one that gets the most attention."

"Let's Kill all the Lawyers" (USA — 1993). Local filmmaker Ron Senkowski takes on the legal profession in a one-joke comedy filmed on location in metro Detroit and Ann Arbor. Ballroom dancing has returned to the historic Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills, where Henry Ford I and wife Clara often danced through the evening.

Traditional ballroom dancing to live Big Band sounds will be heard at 8 p.m. every Wednesday at the Botsford Inn, 2800 Grand River at Eight Mile Road.

Dances will include the fox trot, tango, samba, rumba, mambo, waltz, polka and cha-cha. Music will be provided by the area's top bands, which are being lined up by event coordinators Jack Ennis of Livonia, Jim McNabb of Inkster, and Joe Thorton of Livonia.

Anyone attending the weekly dances will have the unique opportunity to dance in the same ballroom where Henry Ford I met Clara Bryant and dance on the only Spring Board Dance Floor in the area.

The dance floor was designed by Ford himself, when the auto maker owned the Botsford Inn. When Ford purchased the Botsford Inn in the 1920s, among the many improvements he ordered was a new dance floor which he designed with disk washer-like devices at strategic locations along the floor joists so the floorboard would "spring" beneath the feet of dancers.

The movement, although slight, is sufficient to prevent the legs and feet of dancers from tiring after two or three hours on the dance floor. Ford not only ordered the dance floor to be constructed to achieve maximum comfort, but provided for excellent acoustics in the ballroom, both because of his great love of dancing.

The ballroom pretty much has been left in the condition as when it was first built for Ford, except for the introduction of air conditioning. Dance lovers today can rediscover those pleasures each Wednesday from 8-11 p.m.

Admission is $4 per person and for the novice or non-dancer, private dance lessons will be given for $2 per person from 6:45-7:45 p.m. The dance instructor, Nora Nader, is a former Arthur Murray teacher who now instructs dance for international competition.

Fears ease that Oakland opposes Base Line project

By PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER

Fears that Oakland County's new executive does not strongly support the fledgling Eight Mile Boulevard Authority eased a bit Friday.

That happened when Oakland County deputy executive John Grubba supported a resolution that SEMCOG (the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments) endorse a $5,000 grant from the Municipal Affairs Corp. to the authority.

The grant was relatively small. But support for it was symbolic for some, including Southfield Mayor Donald Fracassi, who questioned the commitment of County Executive L. Brooks Patterson to south Oakland County in general and the Eight Mile corridor in particular.

Had Grubba, as Patterson's representative, opposed the grant as Fracassi and others feared, it would have confirmed fears the executive doesn't support the new authority.

"But apparently they've reached some compromise," said SEMCOG executive director John Amberger. "Because Grubba made the resolution (endorsing the grant to the authority)."

Amberger said he and others heard rumors that Patterson was at best lukewarm toward the authority. "But this is an Oakland County issue. It would be inappropriate for us to comment."

The Metropolitan Affairs Corp. (MAC), a privately funded organization formed to promote efficient government, wanted to give $5,000 to the authority, which has existed for almost three years as the Eight Mile Corridor Task Force.

That task force, however, is in the process of upgrading to an authority with a formal board of directors and a dues structure to support a $90,000 annual budget.

SEMCOG's approval of the grant was necessary before MAC would give the $5,000 grant to the authority.

Patterson — and Grubba — were reportedly concerned about whether or not the new authority would have taxing power.

Patterson's support — or lack of — for the authority is likely to come up tonight when the agency meets at 8 p.m. in the National Guard Armory on Eight Mile Road.

Hospice seeks more volunteers

Hospice of Southeastern Michigan is looking for volunteers to help terminally ill patients and their families.

The four types of volunteers are:

■ Patient care volunteers who help patients by running errands and lending support. With additional training, volunteers may perform simple health care tasks like giving baths, transferring patients and changing linen.

■ On-call volunteers are called whenever a patient or family needs their services. Services include driving, barbering, hair-dressing, lawn care, snow shoveling and simple home maintenance.

■ Office volunteers provide clerical support. Volunteers with computer skills who are available three to four hours a week are in great demand.

Anyone over the age of 16 is welcome to volunteer. Volunteers are asked to work at least two hours a week for at least a year. Call 559-9209.

AFI tribute affirms Taylor's place in film history

By Steven Alan McGraw
Elizabeth Taylor was born in London on February 27, 1932. At the age of three, she performed in a ballet recital before Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret and was reportedly so taken with the sound of applause, she refused to leave the stage. Even though the recital was finished. Even though there were hoarse, embarrassed entreaties from backstage. Oblivious to all but her audience, the little girl with the black hair and violet eyes just stood there beaming, and the applause continued.

At the outbreak of World War II, Taylor's family moved to America and settled in Los Angeles, where her father opened an art gallery. Soon, her beauty drew the attention of movie scouts and in 1942, she made her film debut in Universal's There's One Born Every Minute.

Other pictures followed (Lassie Come Home, The White Cliffs of Dover), but Universal then let her go, saying her luminous eyes made her look 'too old.'

MGM wisely disagreed, signed the young actress to a long-term contract, and made her the star of 1944's National Velvet. The world has been watching ever since.

Nearly 50 years later, Taylor's peers and inheritors in the film industry gather to honor her distinguished career and enduring appeal in The American Film Institute Salute to Elizabeth Taylor, airing Thursday, May 6, on ABC.

In the program, taped March 11 at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, Taylor receives the AFI's 1993 Life Achievement Award. In accepting the star-shaped trophy, she becomes only the fourth woman to be so honored, joining Bette Davis, Lillian Gish and Barbara Stanwyck. Other recipients of the award include James Cagney, Orson Welles, David Lean, Henry Fonda, Jack Lemmon and Sidney Poitier, the 1992 honoree.

Carol Burnett, whom Taylor co-starred in HBO's laudable Between Friends in 1983, serves as host of the festivities. The daughter of a movie-theater proprietor, Burnett recalls watching Taylor on screen and marveling that, decades later, her idol became not only her co-worker but her friend.

Peers and admirers from all phases of Taylor's career are on hand to offer their memories and tributes. Roddy McDowall, her co-star from Lassie Come Home, recalls how the director kept asking

STAR NOTES

'Herman's Head' star has much on his mind

By Dan Rice

William Ragsdale, like fellow Arkansan Bill Clinton, has a job in which he is guided by advisors. While President Clinton has his Cabinet, Ragsdale, in his Fox TV role, takes his cues from Angel, Animal, Genius and Wimp, the alter egos inhabiting Herman's Head.

Ragsdale enjoys playing aspiring writer Herman in the Sunday comedy series and believes the concept of competing appetites "is something that everybody is vaguely aware of in their own personalities, as far as the different desires they have. No one is just one person."

Ragsdale, who holds a bachelor's degree in humanities, auditioned for the Fox role while immersed in his studies at Santa Monica College.

"I was taking a math class, and I had an exam that day, so I was preoccupied with that," Ragsdale recalls, and consequently gave a pretty good reading of the material. "I didn't have too much time to get nervous."

Earlier in his career, Ragsdale attended the London School of Drama in Berkeley, Calif. During this time he made his feature-film debut in Smooth Talk. After his next role in the horror film Fright Night, Ragsdale appeared in the Broadway production of Neil Simon's Bloxi Blues.

Hourolong format hampers honor

Taylor to remove her false eyelashes - until he realized she wasn't wearing any. (She has a natural double set.)

Michael Caine says he expected Taylor to be arrogant and aloof when they worked together in 1972's X, Y and Zee. 'But she was wonderful,' the actor says, 'and had quite a good sense of humor about herself.'

Also on hand to share their reminiscences of working with Taylor are Angela Lansbury (National Velvet), Dennis Hopper (Giant) and Dr. Mathilde Krim, co-founder (with Taylor) and chairman of the American Foundation for AIDS Research.

Presenting the actual trophy to Taylor is the show's writer and producer, George Stevens, Jr. Before the honoree ascends the stairs of the stage, Stevens recalls an evening in 1952, riding home from the Academy Awards with his father, director George Stevens. Between them sat the Oscar the elder Stevens had just received for this work on A Place in the Sun, starring Taylor, Montgomery Clift and Shelly Winters.

Stevens says his father was pleased by the award, but that he emphasized one thing: the real test of his work would only come years later. Would people still watch A Place in the Sun? Indeed they do, the younger Stevens says, for both the film and Taylor's performance in it 'have stood the test of time.'

Taylor's truest fans will perhaps feel most rewarded simply by watching the show's several montages of scenes from her best known films. Included are clips from National Velvet, showing the beautiful child in her performance as the ambitious Velvet Brown, and a fiery moment from 1966's powerful Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? As Martha, the shattered, drunken heroine of Edward Albee's scathing story, Taylor gave one of her best performances. She was rewarded with her second Academy Award as Best Actress.

But the scene that draws the most applause is the famous, highly charged first kiss between Taylor and Montgomery Clift in A Place in the Sun. Shot in extreme close-up, the screen is filled with two of the movies' most beautiful and fascinating faces. 'There's so much I want to tell you,' Clift gasps between kisses. 'Tell mama,' Taylor replies.

Taylor's remarks are gracious and characteristically self-effacing. 'Thank you for making me feel once more like an actress...I never took myself that seriously,' she says. She compliments all those who have come to honor her, then turns her focus, as expected, to the cause that has dominated her life in the last decade.

'We have come a long way in the fight against AIDS,' she notes, 'but we have so much further to go. I know this community will be there with me.'

And she is generous, too, even in this moment of personal and professional glory.

'South Central' kids welcome ABC guests

By Chris Carpenter

"The social unrest that raged in Los Angeles last year was born out of a video event," says Tom Avitabile executive producer of an original ABC Saturday Morning Special providing a retrospective look at the L.A. riots. "And one year later, six teams of youths, armed only with video cameras, go out and become part of the healing process."

As Los Angeles heals, children and their parents are invited on an hour-long video tour of the ongoing reconstruction in South Central: Kid to Kid debuting Saturday, May 1.

Avitabile says the utmost pains were taken to give the young South Central residents "a clear channel, with minimal editorial guidance."

The results, he says, were astounding. University of Southern California media professors, who volunteered hundreds and hundreds of hours to help the kids with video instruction, watched in disbelief as the young videographers screened their five-day tapes for their approval.

Avitabile, half-jokingly, says "The professors and chief administrators at USC were thinking, 'Hey, scholarship bait
