Trustees to select sewer p

A residential development project in Plymouth Township will take sewer lines into Canton. But, residents want to save the trees in the area.

BY DIANE GALE STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Township trustees will decide Tuesday whether to send a sewer line down Joy Road, taking with it trees and wild flowers.

Trustees will choose between two sewer plans at a meeting that begins at 7:30 p.m. in township hall.

The township master plan calls for building the sewer down Joy Road. Since a water line runs down the middle of the road, the sewer would be built on property easements, taking with it hundreds of trees. The project would cost about $1.4 million. Additionally, easements on

Plymouth Township houses would have to be condemned and bought by the township.

The other sewer option is to build a lift station at the southern end of the township and pump back up to Powell Road, which would cost about $400,000. However, there's a higher operating and maintenance cost.

For example, parts of the the pump might have to be replaced in 20 years. Currently the parts cost between $4,000 to $6,000.

"On an economic basis alone the idea stinks," said Eric Krupp, co-chairman of Northwest Canton Homeowners Association.

Krupp and other Canton residents are trying to save the natural beauty of the area. They attended a recent Plymouth Township meeting, trying to convince trustees to build the lift

The sewer is needed to accommodate Country Club of Plymouth, a proposed single-family residential and condominium project on 400 acres near Napier and Ann Arbor roads.

City can decide if vote conflicts Attorney:

Questions of whether Plymouth City Commissioner James Jabara had a conflict of interest voting on a downtown development project re-

City attorney Ron Lowe reported late last week that he couldn't find case law that would prohibit Jabara from voting on a $2.4 million streetscape rennovation project.

Lowe plans to present that decision to the city commission at 7 p.m. Monday, in city hall during the board meeting.

However, according to the city ethics policy, commissioners could request a vote on the question.

The conflict issue was raised by Commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury at a board meeting last week. He said he believed if "someone," referring to Jabara, had an interest in the project it should be disclosed.

Jabara voted last week in favor of advertising for bids on a bond sale. The vote was 6-1, with Commissioner Bill McAninch as the lone abstainer.

Administrator leaves district after 16 years

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

Michael Homes, Plymouth-Canton's assistant superintendent for instruction, will be addressed as Superintendent Homes beginning next month when he moves to Fond du Lac, Wis., to take the helm of that community's public schools. Homes leaves the district after 16

Homes will certainly be missed," said Superintendent John

Hoben. "He made an outstanding contribution and saw the district through a number of curriculum changes. He did an outstanding job with his organizational work. There's no question his presence will be missed."

Homes, who earned his doctorate in education before he was 33, accepts his new post with mixed emotions.

"I guess when you have been a part of a district for 16 years, you take a piece of it with you," he said. "Relationships with people I've worked with and those in the community I've come to know; those relationships are the richest part of anyone's experience. I've always felt a sense of friendship here, and that we could live our lives in a way that was most productive and meaningful to us." Homes and his wife Lynne have two sons, Mike, 20, and Matt, 18. Both are Plymouth-Canton graduates now attending college. Born and raised in Devil's Lake,

Foundation seeks college students to fill 3 positions

The Canton Community Foundation has openings for interns and volunteers who would like to work in television, public relations and community organizing.

Foundation president Mitch Howard announced that three scholarships are available for college students who wish to work in one of three areas: cable television, producer/director of Wednesday Report, a live weekly news show; community organization in developing programs aimed at strengthening the volunteer sector, including creation of seminars and programs; and corporate development with daily administrative tasks relating to annual fund-raising for a non-profit organization.

'The foundation has reached a point where others are contacting us about how our programs and projects are being run," Howard said. "We would like to begin developing a system that will allow us to share our success with others, especially in the area of strengthening the volunteer sector. By tapping into the enthusiasm of college students we can work on developing manuals and seminars to share our ideas and concepts with others.

Positions available include: ■ Cable television producer/director: This position will be responsible for directing and producing a weekly one hour cable show seen in 36,000 homes. The program, "Wednesday Report: Live," is now entering its fourth season. You may apply for either half of the season, or both. The position offers a scholarship.

Community organization intern: This position is responsible for developing programs aimed at strengthening the volunteer sector in a new and developing community, including the creation of seminars and programs dealing with public relations, membership recruitment, and communication techniques. The position has a scholarship available.

Corporate development intern: This position assists in the database maintenance and daily administrative tasks relating to annual fundraising for a non-profit organization. This positions has a scholarship available.

For more information, contact foundation executive director Bill Jovner at 454-5427.

Superintendent Homes: Mike Homes, Plymouth-Canton assistant superintendent for instruction, will take the helm as school superintendent in Fond du Lac, Wis., next month.

He's pleased with what he's accomplished.

"I feel really good about what we've been able to do with the organization and structuring of the curriculum in a district this large, with its diversity, and with creative, innovative ideas that exist here; not just among the staff, but the community. 'I'm pleased that with the fact that this district has always encouraged initiative and supported people who have been willing to look at things differently," said Homes. Homes would like to see student assessment broadened so that "we can paint the best picture possible of where our kids are, nationally and international-He'd also like to see a meeting of the minds among those with differences of opinion concerning developmentally appropriate practices in the classroom.

Having fewer resources and larger classes hasn't helped in that area.

"I'm saddened that we weren't successful (with the millage increase) in June," he said. "It has negative effects on students of the district. But I'm really pleased that clearly, the community was willing to continue its commitment with the 17.74 -mill renew-

It concerns Homes that the district has opted not to replace him, at least for the time being. "I have a hard time with that, but it happens to be the situation the district faces, at least for the near term," he said.

Homes said he's hopeful the administrative re-structuring will result in effective teamwork to meet the challenges of molding the curriculum, staff development and student assessment.

He's also a believer in the fact that Plymouth-Canton needs to continue pioneering new ideas. "If "The question of a confict of interest is not an inappropriate question," Lowe said. "This commission has stressed that they want to make sure that everything is done on the up and up and they don't want any appearances of impropriety.

Jabara owns property on Ann Arbor Road.

"It was publicly discussed," Lowe said. "It could have looked like a behind the door thing. Everything was exposed and it is up to the commission to discuss whether Commissioner Jabara should abstain. If someone makes a motion to require Commissioner Jabara to abstain, they vote on it. Otherwise it's a moot point."

Most of the commissioners said at the meeting last week they believed Jahara was above reproach and an inference of impropriety was inappropriate.

"I've always done what I think is right," Jabara said. "If we as a city commission voted to reduce taxes for all residents and it benefited everyone, including the seven of us on the commission. what's the difference? It's a benefit to me and all the seven people.

"I'm not getting any more personal benefit from the streetscape than the piece of property next door. If in fact there is that benefit, the benefit comes in an intangible form. But whatever it is it's the same as my neighbor."

Everything else imaginable, and some things you wouldn't have dreamed of, were on display during the 13th annual art fair in downtown Plymouth during the weekend.

"We live in town and invited relatives over to see it," said Gene Charette.

He went to the Wyandotte fair earlier in the week and plans to go to the Ann Arbor art fair this weekend.

Donna Adams, who once lived in Canton and now lives in Mansfield, Ohio, planned her trip to visit a friend, Barbara Austin, also of Canton, to fall on the weekend of Art in the Park.

They spent Saturday morning wandering by some 350 artists selling leaded glass, jewelry, photography, paintings, bonsai plants, wreaths, country wood work, T-shirts, vases, clothes, purses and hats.

Aspiring artists tried their hand at sand sculpting. Lisa Velick, 9, of Grand Rapids, was visiting her aunt, Debbie Ford, of Livonia. Velick took time out from her journey through the que of vendors to create a sand sculpture in a bottle. She knew exactly where it would go. "I'll put it up in my room on top of my shelves so my baby brother can't get it," she explained.

Gladys Martin, of Arizona, was also in town visiting family.

"It's my first time here," she said. "We have lovely ones (art fairs) in Arizona. This even tops them. There's more clever designs on their T-shirts. There's such a variety that you have."

Johanna Naimola of Livonia was an early comer.

"It was beautiful," she said. "I was surprised about how much they're offering." Kelly Haar of Canton thought there was a lot to choose from,

"but it's pretty much the same arts and crafts show.'

Entertainment in the park, along with food booths, were a good diversion for those who were tired of looking at the displays.

Carol Eggan and Candice Swiger, both of Livonia, took a break in Kellogg Park.

Parents declare senior party a huge success

That's entertainment: Parents threw a party to remember for Salem and Canton graduates.

BY M.B. DILLO

Sandy Fercho of Plymouth Township would like folks to know that not everything associated with Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is doom and gloom in the wake of the millage defeat.

Fercho and the 1,004 Canton and Salem high school graduates who attended the recent senior party pronounced the all-night extravaganza a huge success.

They're busy thanking the 400 individuals and local companies — ranging from AAA Travel Agency to Yer Grandpa's Mustache — who donated a semi packed with Pepsi, lumber used to recreate King Tut's tomb and countless other items and edibles.

Parents, hosts of the party, began working on the event last December and are still on a high, said a euphoric Fercho, systems manager at 35th District Court.

Fercho is encouraging parents of seniors to get involved with next year's party when planning kicks off in a few months. "This is the culmination of your child's high school career; the end of a wonderful time of Salem and Canton. Parents end up staying until 4 a.m.," she said. "It's really exciting, seeing kids having such a good time. The community support is awesome. Parents should realize that because of all the support, we should be dedicated to doing a good job and keeping kids in a safe environment.

"It's a fun experience kids will remember the rest of their lives."

This year's party went off without a hitch. If students left early, their parents were notified. That wasn't the case last year, when two graduates left about 1 a.m. and ended up in a roll-over accident on Canton Center Road, Fercho said.

Entitled "Time Warp 1993," the bash at Salem High School featured historical and futuristic themes. The new graduates entered the party through a tunnel illuminated with fluid lights. Welcoming them were towering, multi-colored pharoahs, realistic-looking mummies wrapped in teastained strips of material. Ensconced among gilded pillars and spotlighted was King Tut in his tomb.

You wouldn't have recognized Salem's cafeteria. It was transformed into a gambling casino, replete with four foot-by-four foot dice dangling from the ceiling.

Adorning the walls were images of Dick Tracy and movie figures — some of them 17 feet tall. Entertainment was furnished by a deejay; caricature and tattoo artists; handwriting analyst; palm reader; even an Orbitron ride. Karaoke and pinball machines greeted kids upstairs.

On the wall in Canton/Salem 2020 campaign headquarters, resplendent in red, white and blue bunting and banners, was every graduate's name. "They'll all be eligible to run for president in the year 2020," Fercho explained.

"Parents were up preparing and painting all night," said Fercho, who went without sleep for 33 hours. "Every generation has higher expectations for the party. Each year, it goes on to greater things."

Fercho figures at least one school board member would have been duly impressed. "He told me it really was going to be too much for a woman; that my husband should work on this. I was absolutely amazed," said Fercho, adding that a teacher, who's attended every senior party, said the 1993 edition was the best ever.

Throwing the party required ingenuity, and plenty of work and patience. Blueprints for the recently remodeled cafeteria showed the entrance into Salem cafeteria was eight feet wide. The contractor made a mistake, and instead there are three, three-and-a-half-foot doors. Too big for the entrance, furniture has had to be dismantled and reassembled inside the room. The same fate befell the giant dice custom made for the party.

Fercho gave high marks to the hard-working custodial and security staffs, high school area coordinator Pat Fitzpatrick, his secretary Ruth Kasic and Salem principal Jerry Ostoin who helped out. "They were terrific," Fercho said.

Students' reaction made it all worthwhile, she addded.

"The kids were very grateful; I've never seen a bunch of 18-year-olds so humble in my life," said the former church youth director. "Their reaction was, 'Our parents did this for us? Wow!' Usually, senior year, parents can go to hell. But that night, kids were very grateful."

Plymouth man elected to Community Leadership board

John S. Lore, a leader in the Detroit area, has been elected to serve on the board of directors of the National Association for Community Leadership. The association, headquartered in Indianapolis, is a coalition of organizations and individuals dedicated to transforming communities through leadership development.

Members of Community Leadership include organizations at the local, state and national levels in the United States. International representation includes members in Australia, Canada and Great Britain.

Lore is senior vice president of the St. John Health Corporation and St. John Hospital and Medical Center. As of Oct. 4, 1993, he will accept the position of president and chief executive officer of the Sisters of St. Joseph Health System. He is a 1989 graduate of Leadership Detroit and serves as their selection committee chair.

"Committed volunteer leadership is perhaps the most important resource to insure the future of our respective communities," says Wendell J. Walls, executive director for Community Leadership. "It is no less important to Community Leadership. No group of volunteers is more important to the future of our organization than the board of directors." Walls continues.

As a community volunteer, Lore is chair-elect of the National Society of Fund Raising Executives in Washington, D.C. and serves on the board of directors for many statewide as well as national organizations. A few of those include the Michigan Nonprofit Forum, Starr Commonwealth Schools, Western Michigan University's Foundation and National Philanthropy Day.

Committed volunteer leadership is perhaps the most important resource to insure the future of our respective communities.

Part II of the Wayne County Budget Battle opened Friday as the executive and legislative branches of Wayne County government began arguing about how to close an $11.75 million deficit.

Commissioners voted 9-4 to approve a roster of cuts that's vastly different from the cuts suggested by the executive branch. Deputy Executive Michael Duggan said Executive Edward McNamara will veto the commission's action, but 215 layoff notices will go out this week anyway. It was unknown at press time just who would be laid off.

"This is the most irresponsible action I've seen in nine years in county government," said Duggan, who went on to call the commissioners who voted against his plan a "phony group of hypocrites."

didn't vote. Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, voted for the commission's cuts.

McCotter particularly objected to the commission's cut of $600,000 in public services rent and utilities because he doesn't think it's possible. "If you can't get 600 grand out of rents and utilities, where are you going to take it from?" he said. "Elected officials should sacrifice before the general public.

One of McNamara's most controversial suggestions was to take $500,000 from the commission's $6-million-plus personal budget.

The commission voted to eliminate half of that cut, but still reduced the salaries of commission and executive branch appointees by 31/2 per-

The commission also voted to contribute $500,000 less to the abused and neglected children's fund than McNamara wants to contribute.

Fight looms over state school aid bill

A big fight over the same sized

That's how the battle over school aid is shaping up in House and Senate appropriations com-

On one side will be Reps. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township, and Maxine Berman, D-Southfield. They will try to keep outstate lawmakers from taking away state payments for Social Security and retirement from their suburban districts.

On the other will be senators trying to eliminate all state categorical payments so that per-pupil spending in poorer districts can be raised.

"Get your amendments drafted," chair Bob Emerson, D-Flint, told members of the subcommittee on school appropriations. "We'll have serious discussions Tuesday. There are substantial

Here are the numerical tools House members are working with: Student enrollment - projected to drop 0.6 percent to 1.65 million in fall.

■ Total state aid - up 0.5 percent to $3.54 billion.

Per pupil aid — up 1 percent to $2,140. "Recapture" of categorical aids up 9 percent to $79 million. "Recapture" is a takeaway item - the amount Lansing subtracts from school districts with high property tax bases with the left hand after voting it with the right

Components of the total state aid dollar figure are taking a significant turn. The $3.54 billion stricted fund that includes part of the sales tax and the Lottery, which will rise 9.4 percent to $2.6 billion; and a general fund contribution, which will be cut 20 percent to $832 million. On balance, it's an increase of 0.5 percent and most will go into job training.

Chief reason for the declining general fund component is a decade of hefty increases for prisons.

Bankes said she will seek to guarantee the bulk of the job training money goes to the "at risk" unemployed, people on the economic margins, rather than retraining already skilled workers.

On the Senate side, Dan De-Grow, R-Port Huron, is reported ready to attack all categorical money, Social Security and retirement payments to wealthier suburban districts.

sions reflect, to different degrees Lansing's tendency to put as much of a flat budget as possible into general school aid (up 4.7 percent) and reduce line items for special programs.

To suburban districts, most of which receive no state aid because of high property tax bases, it's a continuation of the bad news they've had for the last five or so

All districts will be expected to absorb up to 25 percent of their Social Security costs. But wealth-ier districts will be told to shoulder up to 50 percent of the cost. And when "recapture" is figured in, a district like Bloomfield Hills may get next to nothing from that state line item.

One exception may be an $18 million item for schools with high enrollment growth.

gives non-smokers more space in restaurants

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Cleaner restaurant air? Or overregulation of business?

The clean air side won a 79 to 16 battle in the state House of Representatives as it approved a bill to require that half of all restaurant space be reserved for nonsmokers.

"Since approximately 85 percent of Michigan's population are nonsmokers," said sponsor Greg Pitoniak, D-Taylor, "I believe state law needs to move closer to protecting their right to dine in a healthier environment."

All area lawmakers agreed with three exceptions: Rep. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester; Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, who said the bill "would restrict the private property rights of any entrepreneur who operates a restaurant or small business, and Pitoniak's bill, which was sent to the Senate, would:

Michael Homes, Plymouth-Canton's assistant superintendent for instruction, will be addressed as Superintendent Homes beginning next month when he moves to Fond du Lac, Wis., to take the helm of that community's public schools. Homes leaves the district after 16

"Dr. Homes will certainly be missed," said Superintendent John

A residential development project in Plymouth Township will take sewer lines into Canton. But, residents want to save the trees in the area.

Plymouth Township trustees will decide Tuesday whether to send a sewer line down Joy Road, taking with it trees and wild flowers.

Trustees will choose between two sewer plans at a meeting that begins at 7:30 p.m. in township hall.

The township master plan calls for building the sewer down Joy Road. Since a water line runs down the middle of the road, the sewer would be built on property easements, taking with it hundreds of trees. The project would cost about $1.4 million.

Additionally, easements on 12

Plymouth Township houses would have to be condemned and bought by the township.

The other sewer option is to build a lift station at the southern end of the township and pump back up to Powell Road, which would cost about $400,000. However, there's a higher operating and maintenance cost.

For example, parts of the the pump might have to be replaced in 20 years. Currently the parts cost between $4,000 to $6,000.

"On an economic basis alone the idea stinks," said Eric Krupp, cochairman of Northwest Canton Homeowners Association.

Krupp and other Canton residents are trying to save the natural beauty of the area. They attended a recent Plymouth Township meeting, trying to convince trustees to build the lift

Attorney: City can decide if vote conflicts

BY DIANE GALE STAFF WRITER

Questions of whether Plymouth City Commissioner James Jabara had a conflict of interest voting on a downtown development project remain open.

City attorney Ron Lowe reported late last week that he couldn't find case law that would prohibit Jabara from voting on a $2.4 million streetscape rennovation project.

Lowe plans to present that decision to the city commission at 7 p.m. Monday, in city hall during the board meeting.

However, according to the city ethics policy, commissioners could request a vote on the question.

The conflict issue was raised by Commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury at a board meeting last week. He said he believed if "someone," referring to Jabara, had an interest in the project it should be disclosed.

Jabara voted last week in favor of advertising for bids on a bond sale. The vote was 6-1, with Commissioner Bill McAninch as the lone abstainer.

The vote could be tainted if the commissioners decide there was a conflict.

"If the city commission took a vote Monday night and determines that commissioner Jabara should abstain, the appropriate thing to do at that point would be to re-vote without Commissioner Jabara's participation.

Foundation seeks college students to fill 3 positions

The Canton Community Foundation has openings for interns and volunteers who would like to work in television, public relations and community organizing.

Foundation president Mitch Howard announced that three scholarships are available for college students who wish to work in one of three areas: cable television, producer/director of Wednesday Report, a live weekly news show; community organization in developing programs aimed at strengthening the volunteer sector, including creation of seminars and programs; and corporate development with daily administrative tasks relating to annual fund-raising for a non-profit organization.

"The foundation has reached a point where others are contacting us about how our programs and projects are being run," Howard said. "We would like to begin developing a system that will allow us to share our success with others, especially in the area of strengthening the volunteer sector. By tapping into the enthusiasm of college students we can work on developing manuals and seminars to share our ideas and concepts with others.

Positions available include: ■ Cable television producer/director: This position will be responsible for directing and producing a weekly one hour cable show seen in 36,000 homes. The program, "Wednesday Report: Live," is now entering its fourth season. You may apply for either half of the season, or both. The position offers a scholarship.

Community organization intern: This position is responsible for developing programs aimed at strengthening the volunteer sector in a new and developing community, including the creation of seminars and programs dealing with public relations, membership recruitment, and communication techniques. The position has a scholarship available.

■ Corporate development intern: This position assists in the database maintenance and daily administrative tasks relating to annual fundraising for a non-profit organization. This positions has a scholarship available.

For more information, contact foundation executive director Bill Joyner at 454-5427.

Superintendent Homes: Mike Homes, Plymouth-Canton assistant superintendent for instruction, will take the helm as school superintendent in Fond du Lac, Wis., next month.

Plenty of people: Crowds marked the 13th annual Art in the Park in Plymouth this past weekend. There was plenty for everyone, except parking spaces.

The only thing that was hard to find was parking spaces during Art in the Park.

Everything else imaginable, and some things you wouldn't have dreamed of, were on display during the 13th annual art fair in downtown Plymouth during the weekend.

"We live in town and invited relatives over to see it," said Gene Charette.

He went to the Wyandotte fair earlier in the week and plans to go to the Ann Arbor art fair this weekend.

"This is probably the best," Charette said. "It's not too big and the prices are a little bit better."

Donna Adams, who once lived in Canton and now lives in Mansfield, Ohio, planned her trip to visit a friend, Barbara Austin, also of Canton, to fall on the weekend of Art in the Park.

They spent Saturday morning wandering by some 350 artists selling leaded glass, jewelry, photography, paintings, bonsai plants, wreaths, country wood work, T-shirts, vases, clothes, purses and hats.

Aspiring artists tried their hand at sand sculpting.

Lisa Velick, 9, of Grand Rapids, was visiting her aunt, Debbie Ford, of Livonia.

Velick took time out from her journey through the que of vendors to create a sand sculpture in a bottle. She knew exactly where it would go.

"I'll put it up in my room on top of my shelves so my baby brother can't get it," she explained.

Gladys Martin, of Arizona, was also in town visiting family.

"It's my first time here," she said. "We have lovely ones (art fairs) in Arizona. This even tops them. There's more clever designs on their T-shirts. There's such a variety that you have."

Johanna Naimola of Livonia was an early comer.

"It was beautiful," she said. "I was surprised about how much they're offering."

Kelly Haar of Canton thought there was a lot to choose from, "but it's pretty much the same arts and crafts show."

Entertainment in the park, along with food booths, were a good diversion for those who were tired of looking at the displays.

Carol Eggan and Candice Swiger, both of Livonia, took a break in Kellogg Park.

"So far it's better than it has been in previous years," Egan said. "We come to see the same artists. This year there's new ones, and I like the variety better this year."

Swiger thought the quality of the work had improved from years past.

This was the first time Bonnie Rowe of Taylor had been to the Plymouth art fair.

"So far so good," she said. "It's a lovely day."

The streets were packed with people from the onset.
"Every parking lot in town is full and they were full at 10 a m

"Every parking lot in town is full and they were full at 10 a.m. when it started, according to Paul Sincock, Plymouth assistant city manager.

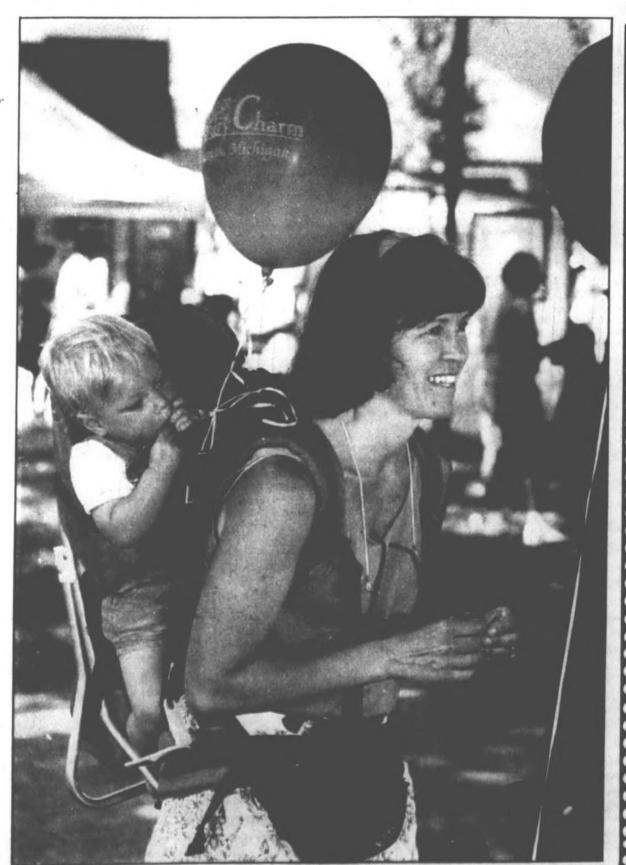

"There are a lot more people than we expected."

Twinkle, twinkle: Christopher Harrison, 4, gives his rendition of "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star," with Guy Louis Sferlazza of the Chautauqua Express during Art in the Park.

Busy at work: Charlotte Potes of Plymouth paints wearable art behind her booth in Kellogg Park.

Taking a break: Mary Jo Childs and her son, Andrew, 1, take a moment to enjoy entertainment in Kellogg Park during Plymouth's 13th annual Art in the Park Saturday.

Parents declare senior party a huge success

That's entertainment: Parents threw a party to remember for Salem and Canton graduates.

Sandy Fercho of Plymouth Township would like folks to know that not everything associated with Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is doom and gloom in the wake of the millage

Fercho and the 1,004 Canton and Salem high school graduates who attended the recent senior party pronounced the all-night extravaganza a huge success.

They're busy thanking the 400 individuals and local companies ranging from AAA Travel Agency to Yer Grandpa's Mustache - who donated a semi packed with Pepsi, lumber used to recreate King Tut's tomb and countless other items and edibles.

Parents, hosts of the party, began working on the event last December and are still on a high, said a euphoric Fercho, systems manager at 35th District Court.

Fercho is encouraging parents of seniors to get involved with next year's party when planning kicks off in a few months. "This is the culmination of your child's high school career; the end of a wonderful time of Salem and Canton. Parents end up staying until 4 a.m.," she said. "It's really exciting, seeing kids having such a good time. The community support is awesome. Parents should port, we should be dedicated to doing a good job and keeping kids in a safe environment. "It's a fun experience kids will remember the rest of their lives." This year's party went off without a hitch. If students left early, their parents were notified. That wasn't the case last year, when two graduates left about 1 a.m. and ended up in a roll-over accident on Canton Center Road, Fercho said.

Entitled "Time Warp 1993," the bash at Salem High School featured historical and futuristic themes. The new graduates entered the party through a tunnel illuminated with fluid lights. Welcoming them were towering, multi-colored pharoahs, realisticlooking mummies wrapped in teastained strips of material. Ensconced among gilded pillars and spotlighted was King Tut in his

of Dick Tracy and movie figures some of them 17 feet tall. Entertainment was furnished by a deejay: caricature and tattoo artists; handwriting analyst; palm reader; even an Orbitron ride. Karaoke and pinball machines greeted kids upstairs.

On the wall in Canton/Salem 2020 campaign headquarters, resplendent in red, white and blue bunting and banners, was every graduate's name. "They'll all be eligible to run for president in the year 2020," Fercho explained.

"Parents were up preparing and painting all night," said Fercho, who went without sleep for 33 hours. "Every generation has higher expectations for the party. Each year, it goes on to greater things.

Fercho figures at least one school board member would have been duly impressed. "He told me it really was going to be too much for a woman; that my husband should work on this. I was absolutely amazed," said Fercho, adding that a teacher, who's attended every senior party, said the 1993 edition was the best ever.

Throwing the party required ingenuity, and plenty of work and patience. Blueprints for the recently remodeled cafeteria showed the entrance into Salem cafeteria was eight feet wide. The contractor made a mistake, and instead there are three, three-and-a-halffoot doors. Too big for the entrance, furniture has had to be dismantled and reassembled inside the room. The same fate befell the giant dice custom made for the party.

Fercho gave high marks to the hard-working custodial and security staffs, high school area coordinator Pat Fitzpatrick, his secretary Ruth Kasic and Salem principal Jerry Ostoin who helped out. "They were terrific," Fercho

Students' reaction made it all worthwhile, she addded.

"The kids were very grateful; I've never seen a bunch of 18year-olds so humble in my life,' said the former church youth director. "Their reaction was, 'Our parents did this for us? Wow!' Usually, senior year, parents can go to hell. But that night, kids were very grateful."

Plymouth man elected to Community Leadership board

John S. Lore, a leader in the Detroit area, has been elected to serve on the board of directors of the National Association for Community Leadership. The association, headquartered in Indianapolis, is a coalition of organizations and individuals dedicated to transforming communities through leadership development.

Members of Community Leadership include organizations at the local, state and national levels in the United States. International representation includes members in Australia, Canada and Great Britain.

Lore is senior vice president of the St. John Health Corporation and St. John Hospital and Medical Center. As of Oct. 4, 1993, he will accept the position of president and chief executive officer of the Sisters of St. Joseph Health System. He is a 1989 graduate of Leadership Detroit and serves as their selection committee chair.

'Committed volunteer leadership is perhaps the most important resource to insure the future of our respective communities," savs Wendell J. Walls, executive director for Community Leadership. "It is no less important to Community Leadership. No group of volunteers is more important to the future of our organization than the board of directors," Walls continues.

As a community volunteer, Lore is chair-elect of the National Society of Fund Raising Executives in Washington, D.C. and serves on the board of directors for many statewide as well as national organizations. A few of those include the Michigan Nonprofit Forum, Starr Com-monwealth Schools, Western Michigan University's Foundation and National Philanthropy

Part II of the Wayne County Budget Battle opened Friday as the executive and legislative branches of Wayne County government began arguing about how to close an $11.75 million deficit.

Commissioners voted 9-4 to approve a roster of cuts that's vastly different from the cuts suggested by the executive branch. Deputy Executive Michael Duggan said Executive Edward McNamara will veto the commission's action, but 215 layoff notices will go out this week anyway. It was unknown at press time just who would be laid off.

"This is the most irresponsible action I've seen in nine years in county government," said Duggan, who went on to call the commissioners who voted against his plan a "phony group of hypocrites.'

Commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, voted against the commission's cuts. Commissioner Kay Beard, D-

Westland, was absent and didn't vote. Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, voted for the commission's cuts.

McCotter particularly objected to the commission's cut of $600,000 in public services rent and utilities because he doesn't think it's possible. "If you can't get 600 grand out of rents and utilities, where are you going to take it from?" he said. "Elected officials should sacrifice before the general

One of McNamara's most controversial suggestions was to take $500,000 from the commission's $6-million-plus per-

The commission also voted to contribute $500,000 less to the abused and neglected children's fund than McNamara wants to contribute.

Fight looms over state school aid bill

A big fight over the same sized

That's how the battle over school aid is shaping up in House and Senate appropriations com-

On one side will be Reps. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township, and Maxine Berman, D-Southfield. They will try to keep outstate lawmakers from taking away state payments for Social Security and retirement from their suburban districts.

On the other will be senators trying to eliminate all state categorical payments so that per-pupil spending in poorer districts can be raised.

"Get your amendments drafted," chair Bob Emerson, D-Flint, told members of the subcommittee on school appropriations.

"We'll have serious discussions Tuesday. There are substantial

Components of the total state aid dollar figure are taking a significant turn. The $3.54 billion figure has two sources — a re-stricted fund that includes part of the sales tax and the Lottery, which will rise 9.4 percent to $2.6 billion; and a general fund contribution, which will be cut 20 percent to $832 million. On balance, it's an increase of 0.5 percent and most will go into job training.

Chief reason for the declining general fund component is a decade of hefty increases for prisons.

Bankes said she will seek to guarantee the bulk of the job training money goes to the "at risk" unemployed, people on the economic margins, rather than retraining already skilled workers.

On the Senate side, Dan De-Grow, R-Port Huron, is reported ready to attack all categorical money, Social Security and retirement payments to wealthier suburban districts.

sions reflect, to different degrees, Lansing's tendency to put as much of a flat budget as possible into general school aid (up 4.7 percent) and reduce line items for special programs.

To suburban districts, most of which receive no state aid because of high property tax bases, it's a continuation of the bad news they've had for the last five or so

All districts will be expected to absorb up to 25 percent of their Social Security costs. But wealthier districts will be told to shoulder up to 50 percent of the cost. And when "recapture" is figured in, a district like Bloomfield Hills may get next to nothing from that state line item.

One exception may be an $18 million item for schools with high enrollment growth.

gives non-smokers more space in restaurants

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Cleaner restaurant air? Or overregulation of business?

The clean air side won a 79 to 16 battle in the state House of Representatives as it approved a bill to require that half of all restaurant space be reserved for nonsmokers.

"Since approximately 85 percent of Michigan's population are nonsmokers," said sponsor Greg Pitoniak, D-Taylor, "I believe state law needs to move closer to protecting their right to dine in a healthier environment."

All area lawmakers agreed with three exceptions: Rep. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester; Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, who said the bill "would restrict the private property rights of any entrepreneur who operates a restaurant or small business, and

Usually the presence of swelling is evidence of excess fluid in the knee, "getting a shot," rarely resolves the problem.

The condition of your knee can be compared to lubrication for a car. If the specifications for the model call for four quarts of engine oil, than adding five or more quarts causes as much harm as putting in three or less. Nature is just as exacting. Your knee needs only a few drops of fluid for lubrication. More causes the joint to jam and places strain on your whole leg. return of knee function requires both medication to the joint to prevent more fluid from forming, and removal of the excess already present.

Furthermore, when a physician injects steroid into the knee, the way he assures himself that the needle is in the joint is to extract at lease a drop or more of fluid, a procedure called aspiration. Once he aspirates a drop, then the work of removing excess vluid can proceed without undue discomfort to you.

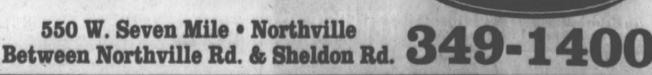

Use of the language "shot" to describe an injection, while accepted by physicians, is not appreciated. The Mafia "shots" people, physicians "aspirate and inject." Physicians become upset when you imply that they are initiating a hostile act when their intent is to lend a helping hand.

Sports fans with impeccable taste won't mind having these baubles to toss around. The folks at Heslop's say the solid Waterford Crystal paperweights, fashioned into hefty baseballs, footballs and basketballs, make great keepsakes and unpredictable gifts for sports buffs ($100-$125 each).

Face it, the sports lover will hang on to these offerings longer than a pair of sweatbands, for example. Waterford also makes a limited run, 21/2inch crystal paperweight with the Detroit Tigers logo ($120)

Sportswear by Mirage salutes Negro League Baseball and the 2,600-plus players who rounded the bases from 1920 to 1945. T-shirts, shorts, baseball shirts, caps and outerwear include the league logo and historic renderings of teams that included the likes of Satchel Paige, Josh Gibson, Cool Papa Bell and Judy Johnson.

This ramie/cotton logo jacket is reversible ($110). Part of the proceeds go to the Negro League Baseball Museum in Kansas City. Sold at Hudson's Young Men's Department at Northland and Fairlane Town Center.

MUSIC NOTES

As Dwarves fans probably (hopefully) figured out last week at the band's show at the Marquee in Detroit June 19, guitarist Hewhocannotbenamed really isn't dead.

The story, which said Hewho was killed in a bar fight, was concocted by Hewho and vocalist Blag Dahlia. Dahlia convinced his band's label Sub Pop records that it was true. When officials at the Seattle label found out it was a hoax, Hewho and the boys were officially dropped from Sub Pop.

Stylish hipsters now have their own discount card. The Avant-Carde allows holders to receive discounts on vary music items at independent stores, such as The Beat Hotel in Berkley, The Record Collector in Livonia and Repeat the Beat, including the Plymouth store. They also can get into clubs like Industry in Pontiac, the State Theatre and The Shelter, both in Detroit, for reduced cover.

The card, which sells for $10 per year, also provides discounts at stores that sell accessories, art, books, clothing, coffee, collectibles and lingerie. Hair salons and new age stores are also included. For more information, call founders Lew Perrotta and Wendy Sorek at 476-1634.

Plymouth-Canton/Plymouth-Salem's radio station WSDP 88.1 FM is looking for bands to appear on its local band show. For more information, call Sweena Aulakh at 451-6266.

Warren Zevon has joined the production team of "Route 66." NBC-TV's remake of the popular 1960s television series. Zevon has written and performed an original composition for the show's theme. His new responsibilities include composing and scoring all music featuring in the series. The show stars Dan Cortese ("MTV Sports" host) and James Wilder ("Equal Justice").

Forget Jimi, Lenny; try Jason

He's been compared to Jimi Hendrix and Lenny Kravitz. His smooth, soulful voice has been likened to Peter Gabriel, Sting, Seal and even D'Arby. But Jason McCauley Berry would prefer to be judged on his own merits.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

The first time Jason McCauley Berry laid eyes on pop star Terence Trent D'Arby, he saw a "ray of

"When I saw him for the first time, I thought I had to get hair like that," Berry said with a laugh. "I didn't even know what it was called or anything.'

A few years later, after friend and fellow musician Geoff Corman of Black Mali got dreadlocks, he followed.

Now, Berry's hair and guitar styles have collected for him comparisons to Jimi Hendrix and Lenny Kravitz. One club's radio spot even advertised his show as "If you love Jimi Hendrix or Lenny Kravitz, you'll love Jason McCauley Berry."

Berry sort of sees the comparisons as shallow.

"It's just the obvious comparisons that they latched on to, the dreads, we're a trio, a black guy leading two white guys," said McCauley Berry about his band, The All Night Fish Market.

He admits there's a few viable comparisons. They deal with the respective musicians' musical tastes, however, not styles.

"Me and Lenny don't have much in common except I'm just as confused as he is about the state of music, about what's hot." 'He's so into the '70s . . . I don't think I've completely given up on something new. Berry said, however, that some comparisons are nice. "Jimi's a guitar God; any comparisons guitar-wise is flattering, but I have a long way to go.'

His smooth, soulful voice has

"It's weird; I really dig these cats. I know that's (comparisons) gonna be a hurdle that I'll always have to face.

Berry has only had his band since early this year when he graduated with a degree in classical guitar from Olivet College. Berry prepared himself for his band by joining Weeping Rachel prior to graduation. In high school, he gigged with a "positive" rap band and a heavy metal band.

Although he plays mostly bluesy rock, Berry said he feels "rap to me is the only music."

"Rap is what rock'n'roll used to be. It's still developing in all these different divisions. It's the only music I can get into."

Along with doing original material, he has rapped at his shows. Recently, he did a medley of DAS EFX and Brand New Heavies/Grand Puba raps. But because he's antsy about performing new stuff, he dumped them. 'We have to keep the pace of our writing at a steady click," he said. "I get bored. Plus there's the people who have never seen us before. I'm trying to please both sets of people." He also works hard to please his band.

"I never tell (bandmates) Frank (Corl) and Tim (Carney)how to behave on stage; I just say, do what you do, develop your own thing.'

Def Leppard: Getting Ugly on stage

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Def Leppard has toured so much in support of its 1992 album "Adrenal-ize" that drummer Rick Allen has yet to enjoy some of the finer points of Allen's going to make up for some of that when the tour ends.

"I'm going to go on my honeymoon," said a gushing Allen. "We've been married twice already. (He's English; his wife's American.) I think that's worth two to three honey-

The first half of his marriage has been a sort of honeymoon. Right after the wedding(s), Allen brought his wife on tour with him.

"I'd rather her be with me than try to explain what's happening over the phone," he said. "We're a good team."

Def Leppard's tour may close by the end of the year, but currently they're touring with labelmates Ugly Kid Joe. The bands will play Pine Knob Music Theatre Friday, July 23. Ugly Kid Joe bassist Cordell Crockett said the camaraderie between the two bands is "amazing." "It's cool; we jam together. They're the nicest guys," said Crockett.

Ugly Kid Joe, which has scored hits with "Cats in the Cradle" and "Everything About You," visited Pine Knob last summer as well opening for Ozzy Osbourne. Crockett was probably the most memorable member, having had his ankle covered in a cast and a "Fruit Stripe" sock. He injured his foot after falling off a four-foot high rickety stage ladder. "It's all better now. My leg's all back to full size," said Crockett, whose latest album "America's Least Wanted" is charting in the top 10. Like Def Leppard's early career, Ugly Kid Joe has made a name for itself by touring with acts like Ozzy. This is sort of what Crockett expect-

"I had visions of playing big shows but I never thought about the interviews, the photo sessions, signing autographs.

But he does like seeing the world. "It's amazing where playing a bass guitar can bring you around the world.

Def Leppard and Ugly Kid Joe perform at 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 23, Pine Knob Music Theatre, I-75 and Sashabaw Road, Clarkston. Tickets are $22.50 pavilion or $20 lawn. For more information, call 377-0100 or 645-

BY JOHN MONAGHAN BY AFF WRITER

You have the limited-edition collectors' plates. You've memorchord of the Max Steiner score. You even stood in line for your copy of "Scarlett," the long-awaitsequel to Margaret Mitchell's original novel.

So it's not surprising that you're off to catch "Gone With the Wind" once again during its current run at the Fox Theatre through July 25. Try these reasons to justify seeing it for the 35th time:

■ The history — The fascinating details in the "Making of Gone With the Wind" documentary may have piqued your interest. You want to see if the burning of Atlanta (actually the old "King Kong" sets) still looks real now that you know how it was done.

■ The King — Some biographers and former leading ladies will tell you that Clark Gable had horrible breath, but he looks fantastic as Rhett. He was originally reluctant to take the part (he thought it was too big for him), but this remains by far his greatest role.

■ Goose bumps — The swooping crane shot that reveals countless dead and wounded soldiers at the railroad station. The silhouetted shot in the setting sun where Scarlett looks to tomorrow, only topped by Rhett's "Frankly, my 'final line.

■ The color — For years, prints of the 1939 MGM classic had faded to washed-out sepia. The green fields turned brown and everyone's skin registered rosy pink. The silver anniversary re-release of the film, funded by colorization king Ted Turner, restored new prints back to their former glory.

And, of course, the fabulous Fox - The movie reportedly never played here before and it looks great in such opulent surroundings. There will also be an organ concert before the film and a souvenir program/theater tour guide given to each moviegoer.

MOVIES

And then there are others. Frankly, you don't give a damn that "Gone With the Wind" is back in town. You've seen it, maybe even liked it, but don't plan to shell out a sawbuck to catch it again. Couldn't the Fox screen something a little more unusual, perhaps the 25th anniversary rerelease of "2001: A Space Odyssey?" Besides, there's:

■ The length — At more than four hours (with intermission), the movie can be rough on the old joints. Did it really need to be this long? There's no pause control here and the bathroom is much too far away.

■ Melanie and Ashley — As played by Olivia de Havilland and Leslie Howard, the goody-goody lovers just drip with sweetness and sincerity. Yuck. ■ That look — Feminists still have trouble with the scene where Scarlett, after being raped by irascible husband Rhett, wakes up grinning like the cat that ate the canary. (For loyal fans, refer to Goose Bumps above.)

■ The slavery issue — The smiling, loyal servants reflect fondly on the good old days before the war, just like the entire film does. And what can you say about a film whose second most memorable line is "I don't know nothin' 'bout birthin' no babies?"

■ History in general — Civil War historians should stay home and watch PBS instead. Although preferable to the KKK stroking in Griffith's silent "Birth of a Nation," this recounting has its own lapses into myth and fantasy.

■ No T-Rex — It was made more than 50 years ago, making it old, but not old enough to have dinosaurs in it.

Chance to just say 'no' appeals to taxpayers

Question: As a committed teacher for more than 20 years, it seems like we are getting bashed by some of our public. Millages are going down, while teacher strikes are seen as holding a hammer over the heads of residents. Are we educators losing the confidence of the public? What are your thoughts about millage issues and teacher strikes in today's environment?

Answer: Let's look at the issues individually!

Millage, bond issues

This is the only voting opportunity in which citizens can go into a booth, close the curtain and say no. It has to be a great feeling for some residents frustrated with rising costs in all areas food, clothing, cars — to say no to a tax increase.

Name one opportunity, other than a school millage or bond issue, in which a resident can say no to a cost increase. There are none! All other cost increases in our country are determined by company boards of directors or through our political representatives.

Recently, at a backyard party with some auto executives (some driving $40,000 cars), whose kids are now out of school, a recent millage issue in my community came up. They made it clear they were tired of paying school taxes and therefore voted no on the June 1993 school millage. Their kids' education was paid for by other taxpayers over the years.

I asked the execs why I didn't get an opportunity to vote yes or no on that $400 window-sticker price increase on the car I wanted to buy. They laughed and thought I was joking! I said, "I don't think it's funny. As you have a right to vote on a school cost increase, I want the right to vote on a car cost increase. I want my right to say no."

Their answer was, "Car costs go up every year." My response was, "Do you think educational costs go down every year?"

Indeed, a school millage is the only opportunity for frustrated residents to say no to a cost increase. And, in fairness, some simply can't afford a higher millage!

Teacher strikes

Teacher strikes this fall will gain about as much sympathy as Israel and our country have for Saddaam Hussein. With IBM laying off another 50,000, plants and air bases closing, and college graduates with no jobs, these situations indicate to me (a former president of the Plymouth Education Association) that a teacher strike this fall will accomplish nothing more than driving away residents who might otherwise have been swing votes in future millage elections.

One supportive parent (whose pay has been frozen for two years) told me "they (teachers) can walk 'til they wear their legs off at the knees . . . as far as I'm concerned."

Michigan Education Association

The MEA has done wonders for teachers over the years, and I benefited from their efforts. In these tough times, members of the MEA and the MEA leadership will show their "colors.

If it comes down to increasing elementary student class sizes from, for example, 24 to 38 children, or taking a pay freeze, I would assume the MEA and teachers, who supposedly got into the profession to help children, would take a minimum increase or a pay

A teacher pay freeze, of course, would mean that the superintendent and other administrators would also take a pay freeze.

And if those who know me say, "Well, he's retired now and changing color," that's not true. I have never voted no on a millage issue, and that includes during my retirement years.

Teachers' salaries and benefits in Michigan are among the top four when compared to those in other states.

Times are tough in Michigan right now. Communities need this time to see what is finally coming down from Gov. John Engler and his Lansing buddies.

This fall, it will be interesting to see whether teachers in districts with a cash crunch go for a strike or for a "vote for kids" — the same scenario educators have used on parents in school millage elections for the last 30 years.

If teachers want to maintain the confidence of a public that has cared for them so well since negotiations started in 1965, it's now their moment to demonstrate they recognize the tough economic times of the '90s.

Will they vote for "kids" or for money? A teacher strike this fall will have residents using a new word: anathema, a thing or person to be greatly detested.

Parent involvement necessary to child welfare hese are difficult times for parents. It isn't easy for children. The excesses of pop culture constantly bombard them, from Madonna and other rock stars to the lurid drug and sex stories found on network television. What child above 5 hasn't heard of Long Island Lolita?

We also can't shield them from harsh local or global realities, whether butchery in Yugoslavia or starvation in Somalia. What's worse, many negative media messages are aimed right at children.

While children know more at earlier and earlier ages, they also want more. Society has spawned much of this. Time-stressed, two-income families must rely on day care centers as well as the latchkey. Children are independent as never before, living in their worlds of Nintendo and MTV.

Our problem as parents is twofold. On one hand, the experiences of children continue to get ahead of value system and family standards. At the same time, quite frankly, many parents are timid about enforcing limits of behavior. I'm talking about limits at all levels: from the family dinner table and regulation of viewing and reading material to dating curfews, driving privileges and even choice of friends.

Good parenting demands standards of behavior for the sake of a child's positive development. What is our own homework that we need to complete before setting this value system?

First, know what you are talking about. Read the magazines your children want to read; watch the movies and television shows they want to see. Know which heavy metal records contain vulgar or obsene lyrics; know which movies feature scenes that don't fit your family's value system. Dealing from such knowledge will establish credibility when you set limits.

THOMAS HERBST

Our problem as parents is twofold. On one hand, the experiences of children continue to get ahead of value system and family standards. At the same time, quite frankly, many parents are timid about enforcing limits of behavior.

Second, know your children's friends, their peer group. Don't worry if the living room rug gets dirty. I don't mean to be smug, but let's get away from this overly secretive world that today's children inhabit. Encourage your children to play with their friends in the presence of your entire family. Take your children and their friends with you on that trip to the hardware store.

When children know you, they will trust you.

Third, know the parents of your children's friends. A good way to start is when your teen, for instance, is attending a party outside your home. Pick up the phone and introduce yourself to the host parents. Make sure that adults will supervise the party. Again, base your actions on knowledge, not first emotions.

When done properly, what might have seemed to be old-fashioned behavior becomes reassuring behavior to children. Remember, we all harbor as many or more fears than we articulate.

By doing the things I have mentioned, we go a long way toward embracing the responsibilities as well as [the rights of parenthood. Above all else, you must be in charge of your child's agenda. Guide and mold the "common sense" that will lead to responsible, consistent decision-making powers throughout life.

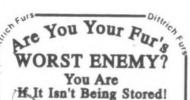

Sound value systems lead to respect for family and self, and, in turn, respect for others — a foundation of our entire society.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Cherry growers cheery about this year's crop

rops are failing because of record rains and flooding along the Mississippi River, but this has been a good summer for farmers in Michigan, especially cherry growers who are looking forward to a record harvest.

The Cherry Marketing Institute, a national research and promotional organization representing tart cherry growers, predicts this year's crop will be one of the biggest ever. This will ultimately lower prices on one of my favorite snacking foods cherries

Just how big a cherry crop is big? Jane Baker, marketing coordinator for the Cherry Marketing Institute, said latest figures for June indicate a crop totaling 329.7 million pounds, up dramatically from the 215 million pounds harvested last

In Michigan, tart cherries are grown from Benton Harbor to Elk Rapids with Traverse City, and the Grand Traverse region, serving as the heart of cherry country. Leelanau County has the most cherry trees, and is therefore titleholder of the largest crop of tart cherries in the state.

Harvesting cherries

The third week of July is usually the peak of the harvest. Cherries are harvested with a mechanical shaker which resembles an upside-down umbrella.

Momma never was one to get too excited about cherries. Jam and jelly making were left to Aunt Phyllis. Big sister Rosie, who undoubtedly inherited momma's feel "for the perfect pie crust," made the cherry pies.

Cherries that made it home usually were sweeter varieties. I remember them so well. They were kept in a colander in the refrigerator for

According to the Cherry Marketing Institute, sweet cherries are grown primarily in the Pacific coast states. Michigan ranks fifth in production of sweet varieties of cherries including Emperor Francis, Rainier and Schmidt. Bing cherries are not grown in Michigan; the Schmidt variety is

In the past, most of Michigan's sweet cherries were processed — many of them into maraschino cherries.

Most of the tart cherries harvested in Michigan are processed into canned cherry pie filling and dried tart cherries. Dried cherries are similar to raisins, packed with flavor, they make great snacks and are tasty additions to lots of recipes.

Pie filling

If there's one thing that cherries are noted for, it's their ability to adapt to a variety of recipes. Canned cherry pie filling can be used to make a delicious and quick barbecue sauce - just stir in some powdered ginger and bottled teriyaki sauce to a can of pie filling — or a simple ice cream topping.

A Janes' Gang favorite is a casserole made by mixing canned cherry pie filling and canned sweet potatoes together in a greased casserole dish that's baked for 30 minutes at 350 degrees F.

Here's a dish to try later in the summer, when acorn squash becomes more plentiful. Top acorn squash halves with butter and brown sugar, drizzle a can of cherry pie filling on top and bake the squash halves at 350 degrees F. one hour or until tender for a sweet vegetable treat.

Add tart cherries to muffin batter. They'll boost the taste and nutrients in everything from cornbread to any kind of sweet muffin mix.

Planting the seed

European settlers had hardly stepped on the soil of the New World before they began planting

Peter Dougherty, a Presbyterian missionary, is credited with planting the first cherry orchard and, in essence, starting the cherry industry in the Grand Traverse region.

Against the advice of an Indian farmer who had grown other fruits in the area, Dougherty planted a cherry orchard in 1852 on the Old Mission Peninsula. Much to the surprise of the Indians and others, Dougherty's cherry trees flourished and soon other residents of the area planted trees. The area proved to be ideal for growing cherries because Lake Michigan helps temper arctic winds in the winter and cool the orchards in the summer.

Today, there are more than 2 million cherry trees in the Grand Traverse Region.

Tart cherries are available in many forms. In addition to tart cherry pie filling, they are available frozen in individually quick frozen polysealed bags, a concentrate that can be reconstituted into juice or used for flavoring and food coloring. Dried cherries both sweetened and unsweetened can be snacked on or used in baking, cereals, meat sauces or trail mixes. Don't forget specialty cherry products like cherry butter, cherry wines, cherry sausages and sauces.

The Janes Gang loves cherries. See recipes inside for new ways to prepare cherries. Bon Appetit!

FRUIT

Gemstone fruits would be a more appropriate name for such succulent fruits as peaches, plums, nectarines and cherries. When they're juicy ripe they need no embellishment. They lend themselves to many culinary delights.

SPECIAL WRITER

"Stone fruit" is an inelegant name for such succulent fruits as peaches, plums, nectarines and cherries. Gemstone fruits would be more appropriate, in celebration of their rich colors and lush flavors.

The most accessible of foods, stone fruits at their best need no embellishment. While they lend themselves to all manner of culinary delights, what chef could concoct a treat more luscious than a tree-ripened apricot or sweet cherry?

If poets would just come down to earth and look about, they'd forget about romance and dedicate sonnets to fruit.

Imagine William Shakespeare writing - How beauteous peaches are! Oh, brave new world that has such tastes in it.

grown produce," says Joe Maiorani Jr., co-owner of Joe's Produce, in Livonia. "It eats better because it's closer to the tree. It's picked riper, so it's juicier and more flavorful.'

Peaches

Peaches are everybody's favorite. Not many people realize that Michigan, with more than a million peach trees, is the nation's fifth largest producer. Most peaches are eaten out of hand, but a good number of people Maiorani cautions that there's more to stone fruit than just a pretty peel. For example, one of the tastiest peaches available is the Loring available from early to mid-August.

"A lot of other peaches are cosmetically superior, but you can't beat Loring for eating and canning," he said. Chef Michael Haggarty, of South-field's Cafe Lamour, takes advantage of Michigan peaches to make a French peach tart. "Peaches are almost accident-proof," Haggarty said. 'Michigan peaches are the greatest in the world. They're firm, and they hold a glaze well. They're not too moist, and the flavor is more intense after cooking. A French peach tart is easy to do, and it makes a phenomenal presentation."

When shopping for peaches, look for a fruit with a creamy or yellow (not green) background color. Ripe peaches give to gentle pressure; avoid green, extra-hard and badly bruised

Plums

Instead of "And what is so rare as a day in June?" James Russell Lowell could have written "And what is so rare as a plum in June.'

Plums come in gorgeous colors red, green, scarlet, blue and purple with flavors ranging from tart to sweet. Michigan growers specialize in the purple Italian plum, and are the passed from father to a son or daughter who was educated at the world's best winemaking schools. Nowhere is this better exemplified than at M. Chapoutier in France's Northern Rhone Valley. The House of M. Chapoutier was founded in 1808 and has been managed by the Chapoutier family for six generations.

In 1988, Max Chapoutier turned over winemaking duties to his son, Michel, who took charge with enthusiasm. To gain more concentrated flavors, Michel turned his attention to the vineyards.

"Everything that makes a great wine is in the soil and the vines," he said. "My aim is to reduce the winemaker's signature in the wine, to downplay the character of the grape varietal and go back to

Although the winery is in Tain-I'Hermitage in the northern Rhone, Chapoutier produces wines from both the northern and southern regions of this marvelous winegrowing area. Chapoutier's more than 200 acres of vineyards, in six appellations of the Rhone Valley (Condrieu, Cote Rotie, Crozes-Throughout Hermitage, Hermitage, St. Joseph and Chateauneuf-du-Pape) are organically farmed.

"In the Chapoutier vineyards, we've done more than replace chemicals with natural products," said 30-year-old Michel Chapoutier. "That's biological farming, not organic viticulture. Our vineyards are deep plowed two to three times annually to remove weeds. No herbicides are ever used. Shallow roots develop when topical chemicals are applied. Deep roots are needed for absorption of the natural chemicals in the soil.

"Three years ago, specifically selected trees, flowers and hedges were planted around the vineyard periphery to harbor predators of vineyard para-

Chapoutier elaborated the methods of maintaining an average vine age of 50 years in their vineyards. Since individual vines are free-standing (not supported on a wire trellis), it is possible to replace an individual plant when it dies or is no longer a good producer.

"Grape vines are like people, some have a longer life," Chapoutier said. "There are some vines on our estates that were planted in 1901 and they are healthy with flavorful fruit."

Located on some of the Rhone's steepest hillsides, the vines are severely pruned and today's yields are 20 to 30 percent less than they were before Michel took charge. In the cellar, Chapoutier replaced large chestnut casks with small oak barrels coopered in Burgundy, 20 to 30 percent of nation's second largest producer: As a rule, it isn't necessary to peel plums before cooking. The peels add to the flavor and aren't unattractive.

It's hard to judge maturity of dark-skinned plums by color, but try to choose fruit that's full colored for its variety. Ripe fruit is slightly soft at the tip end and gives when squeezed gently.

Nectarines

Or you could imagine Joyce Kilmer writing - "I think that I have never seen a poem as lovely as a nectarine.

No less an authority than "The Joy of Cooking" states that nectarines are a cross between a peach and a plum. They aren't. Nectarines were cultivated in China as a distinct variety of fruit at least 2.000 years ago.

"Michigan-grown nectarines aren't appreciated enough," said Maiorani "They're juicy and very tasty, but they lack the 'star quality' of the California product. Customers who try them are delighted with their flavor."

Choose nectarines that have an orange-yellow (not green) background color between the red areas. Ripe nectarines give to gentle pressure but are not as soft as a ripe peach. Generally, nectarines can be substituted when recipes call for peaches.

Most of the Michigan crop is processed, and only 6 percent of the California crop is sold fresh.

A good fresh apricot is precious, so eat it at once, perhaps with a dollop of yogurt or creme fraiche. Look for plump fruit with as much golden orange color as possible. Avoid fruit that's pale or greenish yellow, very firm or

Cherries

"Oh my luve is like a red, red, cherry/That's newly sprung in June," (Robert Burns).

The pits of several species of cherries have been found in the Stone Age deposits of Swiss lake dwellings and in the mounds and cliff-caves of prehistoric America. The early colonists brought cultivated varieties with them.

In Michigan, the first commercial crop was harvested in Traverse City in 1896. The dark, sweet, Bing cherry was developed in the Western hemisphere and named for a Chinese workman.

Sweet cherries increase in size, they ripen. Look for plump, bright-colored cherries: Avoid overly soft or shriveled cherries. Cherries should have stems attached.

The key to maximum enjoyment of all stone fruits is to remember that they're not carrots. Eat them now! If necessary, ripe stone fruit (except cherries) may be stored, unwashed, in a paper bag in the refrigerator for up to three days. Two days is better.

Cherries are quite perishable. To keep them for up to three days, line a shallow pan with several layers of paper towels. Arrange cherries, unwashed, on towels in a single layer; top with more paper towels and plastic wrap. Better yet, just eat them!

To ripen fruit, place in a paper bag, close bag loosely, and leave at room temperature. Check daily for ripeness by placing fruit in palm and squeezing gently. If it gives to light pressure and has a fragrant aroma, it's ready to eat.

Stone fruits are fairly low in calories (a medium peach has about 50 calories), and are rich in vitamins and minerals. They're low in sodium and fat, and filled. with carbohydrates for quick en-

Summer school features big dog, little bugs New Morning School of Plymouth Township is in the midst of its annual summer fun classes, called "Discovery Days" for kids aged 3-6 years. According to teacher Marilyn Romack, students meet for 90 minutes a day, three days a week for two weeks to learn a few things while drawing, assembling and catching any number of arcane stuff.

The idea, Romack said, is to combine activities with education so that the lessons might better adhere to the neurons and synapses of the children's

Jennifer Goshorn teaches a class called Peanut Butter Picasso, where kids "get to do a lot of crazy things with food that they can't do at home."

What kinds of things, pray tell? How about finger painting with pudding, lathering toast with milk and food coloring, then crafting bread sculptures.

The result, Goshorn said, is that there's "as much education as there is fun in the classroom, and that's what makes it enjoyable."

Tammy Jenkins, a Westland resident, taught a class called Fun Physics, where kids embarked on projects like assembling breath-powered rockets from paper cups and construc-

Fran Brady taught a class called Creepy Crawly, where kids caught bugs, drew pictures of butterflies created faux bugs and baked "sugar cookies that looked like ladybugs, but were very tasty.

Brady, who ordinarily teaches in the Wayne-Westland district, said it was nice to have a small class at New Morning, where summer class sizes are limited to 12 kids each.

In another class, called Romping with Rudy, kids created telescopes from toilet paper tubes and drew pictures of Rudy, a big friendly rottweiler dog owned by teacher Bonnie Schneider.

New Morning's regular classes will assemble again in the fali. Romack reports that there are openings in the preschool and kindergarten classes. Altogether, New Morning is a cooperative that has about 110 students ranging from preschool to the eighth grade. Students come from throughout western Wayne County. Parents who do volunteer work for the school get a break on tuition. Call 420-3331.

What is it? Rudy, the big friendly dog owned by teacher Bonnie Schneider, watches as Brittany Weiss of Canton Township draws a picture of him. Scary, huh? Zack Zrull of Plymouth, left wears the mask he created and decorated in pottery class.

Spread the word about umbrellas century ago, a lady didn't make an appearance in public without her three must-have accessories. Her kid gloves were essential to her wardrobe; her short, high-button shoes were the only style in her armoire; and a parasol with a folding handle, often trimmed in lace and ruffles, swung from her gloved hand and protected her from the rain or sun.

Umbrellas were actually introduced in ancient Mediterranean and Oriental civilizations, and often associated with high rank. They vanished from Europe after the collapse of the Roman Empire and were reintroduced during the late 16th century as elegant fashion necessities. Often made with shades of silk and shafts of ebony or ivory, parasol manufacturing grew steadily in importance until, by the end of the 1800s, it was a major industry in England.

We can look to the charming artwork of Victorian illustrator Kate Greenaway to realize the importance of the umbrella, even in children's attire. Her frolicking lasses are often seen dancing with their parasol or leading a procession, umbrella held high. Her 1883 and 1886 almanacs feature bonneted umbrella-toting young girls.

It is possible even today to complete an outfit with an eye-catching bumbershoot. Forget those boring black nylon Totes. Walk into Lisa Parks' eclectic boutique in Birmingham and look up. There, hanging like decorative artwork from the ceiling, are an array of colorfully patterned umbrellas.

"You really need an umbrella for each season," said Parks. "At least a light one and a dark one. It can accent an ensemble and make a fashion statement while, of course, being entirely functional."

We picture the Liberty design ($60), a vibrant splash of red-orange tomatoes bursting from the vine on a black back-

'Glyph," a black on white southwest Indian motif of cave pictures, or petroglyphs, adorns Parks' window. Other stun ning designs include the whimsical "Raining Cats and Dogs"; "The Country," an elegant jacquardlike green-on-black negative image of forest animals; a fun melange of vintage postcards and cowboy kitsch; and a gorgeous purple and white Victorian scene that depicts cupids and birds with stylized suns and a seashell border. All have velcro fasteners and some have shoulder straps.

Classics count

Of course, traditionalists out there will want to opt for a tasteful beige Burberry Check umbrella from the original Burberry's of London in the Somerset Collection. The fine cotton poplin style features a one-piece continuous teak handle ($190).

"The handle is like a walking stick," said general manager Patricia Rosen. Burberry's is known for its raingear, and once you own the classic trench, a scarf and an umbrella are needed accouterments. Though Burberry's bumbershoots are guaranteed to stand up to the hardest of winters, Rosen can even direct you to the country's premier umbrella repair shop, Uncle Sam's in New York, if you should need a minor adjust-

You know, the umbrella business has expanded to include a variety of sun shades. There are beach umbrellas and market umbrellas, even umbrella strollers. Remember the old collapsible, one-position stroller that was a welcome introduction in the late '70s? Well, the all-new umbrella stroller is improved beyond compare.

Clamp one on

Bellini, the children's furniture and accessory store at 1875 Woodward in Birmingham, carries the Pliko stroller by Perego ($239). The navy dotted and striped carriage folds like a golf bag to fit in the overhead compartment of an airplane, yet it has a three-position recliner, a front bar restraint and a full bonnet or hood.

"It's great," said Sharyl Ackerman, a satisfied owner. "It lays back, it's lightweight, it's really all you need. I keep mine in the trunk of the car.'

Bellini also offers Le Parasol, a clip-on umbrella in a variety of patterns and colors. Clamp it onto the stroller or baby carrier. Perfect for the beach ($27, special order only).

Finally, to add a decorative touch to a sunroom, Jacobson's at Laurel Park Place in Livonia displays hand-painted canvas umbrellas. The oversized sunflower and the tropical garden designs are both unique works-of-art ($35). Matching directors' chairs and watering cans complete the col-

Two for brew: Tom Cory Sullivan of Birmingham serves coffee at the Grand Cafe in the Cook Building in downtown Farmington to Karen Heidacker of Rochester Hills and Tim Baessler, who lives upstairs in the Cook building.

Coffee shops brew the good times

It's enough to make Juan Valdez stand up and shout. The successful rebirth of the Coffee House on Mainstreet and in some malls is proof that what goes around comes around. For the enlightened crowds of the '90s, that's news that is good to the last drop!

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

Take away the smoke-filled rooms, add imported granita and espresso machines, hang a few reproductions of classic paintings, decorate in mahogany wood with brass and frosted glass accents, plan a few poetry readings and book a folk or jazz musician, and voila! There you have it, the Coffee House of the hip and happenin'.

When the Grand Cafe coffee house opened last week in downtown Farmington, it joined the ranks of such establishments as The Java House in downtown Rochester and Royal Oak, The Outback in downtown Plymouth, The Coffee Exchange in downtown Birmingham and The Coffee Trader in West Bloomfield. Proprietors report standing room only crowds on weekends and a clientele that ranges from medical stu-dents sipping coffee while studying textbooks to couples in their 60s discussing the latest summer film over an espresso and fresh fruit tart.

"Coffee houses of the '90s are an alternative to the smoky bar scene," said Jimmy Mazzola, who with his partner Arthur Handy operates The Javas in Royal Oak and Rochester. 'There's a new awareness of the wonderful ambiance of the new coffee houses and folks old and young seem to appreciate a place to read, meet, take a first date, discuss the doings of

"Coffee shops are inviting, relaxed, not pretentious. They're replacing the bistros of the '80s and the disco bars of the '70s.

Jenny Stieger of West Bloomfield said she and her friends bicycle up to the three-month-old Coffee Trader in West Bloomfield's Crosswinds Mall "to meet other kids and talk."

Changing industry needs fresh approach

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

No one had to tell the retail crowd at last week's Michigan Idea Exchange that "it's a different industry now," but keynote speaker Rebecca Maccardini, new president of the International Council of Shopping Centers, thought it best to remind them.

Maccardini, 50, of Ann Arbor, is di-

"Things have changed in the marketplace over the last two years, certainly five years," she cautioned the gathering of asset managers, leasing agents, property owners and retailers at the Ritz Carlton in Dearborn.

"Everything's compressed into some kind of microcosm of what it once was. Trends that traditionally took two years to cross the country seem to happen instantaneously now. Food courts, unheard of a few years back, are now a normal part of doing business. Supermarkets and theaters are in, then out, of the malls. Talk at national conventions is of Chinese and Mexican markets.'

To help her associates successfully create, package and market their mall projects, Maccardini called on 20 years of experience in the retail sector to suggest five courses of action. She Owners Pat and Robert DuPell transformed a former Domino's pizza outlet into a sleek, Eurostyled coffee house complete with framed artwork, designer drinks and a no-smoking atmosphere.

"It's a quiet place to stop in and have a conversation," said Darryl DuPell, the day manager. The music stays in the background. There's Yahtzee and backgammon games for whoever wants it. Lots of newspapers to read. Customers are welcome to linger. You can't hang a 'No Loitering' sign in a coffee house.'

Thought stimulator

Coffee houses have a long history linked to literacy, politics and philosophy. The coffee tree is native to Ethiopia where historians believe the first coffees came from. Traders took the beans to the Middle East and from there into Europe in the 1600s.

Europeans were sold on the stimulating hot beverage and coffee houses serving the drink sprang up everywhere. Coffee houses became centers of literary and political discussions, which so worried King Charles II that he banned them as "seminaries of sedition," according to World Book Encyclopedia.

However, the beverage had become so popular he was forced to reopen the shops. From 1650 until 1850, there were 500 coffee houses in London alone.

Before newspapers came along, people visited coffee houses to learn news of the day. With the advent of newspapers, reporters found them a natural source of news and gossip. Businessmen kept regular hours at coffee houses, which eventually became separated according to the professions and religious beliefs of the clientele. This eventually led to the establishment of the private club.

Espresso, brewed by forcing steam through finely ground darkly roasted coffee beans, grew popular in the 1940s. Espresso was the beverage of choice in the coffee houses that flourished on college campuses. In the '50s and 60s, beatniks and hippies frequented coffee houses to enjoy poetry readings and folk singers who performed their social commentary to music.

Brewing success

Business is brisk at The Coffee Exchange in downtown Birmingham these days. Owners Nemir Nadhir and Ed Miri have done so well in the 15 months they've been pouring java that they are opening two new coffee houses at the Boardwalk in West Bloomfield and University Plaza in Rochester Hills.

"We see all ages, all crowds," Nadhir said. "During the day, it's a business crowd, ladies lunching. walkers stopping in for a drink. At night, it's a place to go with a date, after a movie, or just a place to get out of the house for a drink and dessert and meet others.'

Behind the Outback Gallery in downtown Plymouth, a cozy coffee shop is entering its second year serving an assortment of drinks and desserts. The gallery upfront lends itself to poetry -readings 7-9 p.m Thursday.

Owner Denni Englehart said Friday evenings are the busiest, a place to see and be seen.

That's the hope of Bob and Dennis Secuda, entrepreneurs who want to see their Grand Cafe (a few doors up from the Civic Theatre in downtown Farmington) become a community gather-

We studied, we meticulously worked out details, we went firstclass in preparing this coffee house," Bob Secuda said. "We're perfectionists and I think patrons will see that when they visit our establishment."

It's really quite a place. Custom counter orders travel via computer to the kitchen where chef and manager Jack DuBay creates soups, specialty salads and unique sandwiches. Patrons can sit at tables or on long-legged stools where the lamps can be adjusted for reading or romance.

Sense of fun

The artistry of Janisse Lahti Larson and Dennis Larson leaps off a giant wall mural of ripe, red coffee beans over to a side wall where they've humorously turned some classics into charmers. The American Gothic, Whistler's Mother, a famous Dali, Lichtenstein, and a portrait of George Washington - all manage to be holding coffee cups.

Thought-provoking wisdoms have been lettered across the coffee house's beams by the artists. Janisse has painted whimsical coffee art along the walls of the staircase leading into this lowel level beanery.

Tom Corey Sullivan of Birmingham works at the Grand Cafe and will also get a chance to perform his folk music on Tuesday evenings beginning at 7 p.m.

"You know what I like best about this place?" Tom McCoy, a Farmington retiree, said during his second visit to the Grand Cafe. "It's comfortable for a man. It's genteel. You don't feel conspicuous sitting here. I don't have to scream over loud music. I'm not rushed. It's very sophisticat-

Lois Taylor of Farmington just finished lunch and said the food was delicious.

"I'll be back," she said. "The place is lovely."

The Grand Cafe sells 38 flavors of coffee, granita drinks (coffee and fruit), 40 different flavored Italian sodas prepared from allnatural syrups with soda water, 14 custom hot steamed coffees and six ice-chilled coffees.

There is also a dessert menu and different chocolate fondues with fruit are served after 5 p.m. each day.

Most coffee houses stay open until 11 p.m. or midnight on weekends. Decaffeinated brews are also available, along with teas and soft drinks.

"What creates the value, is how we tenant our center. How we take care of our center. How we market our center and what wrapper we put around it architecturally," she said. "That is the secret to creating value.'

Jeanne Hildebrant of the Livonia Mall, attended the Idea Exchange and called it "interesting and successful."

"It was a good day," she said. The audience was attentive. I especially enjoyed the roundtable discussion on mall security where I learned a few things from the ex-

Hawks 2nd in Midwest

he Michigan Hawks 1977 girls under-16 soccer team was runner-up in the Midwest Region II Championships last month in Springfield, Mo. The Hawks lost to J.B. Marine of Missouri in the final

The players are Jenny Bazzarelli and Mari Hoff, Canton; Kelly Lukasik, Plymouth; Aimee Cousino, Michelle Fatute, Laura Fedrigo, Amy Marcoe, Angie Siggia and Elizabeth Szkrkybalo, Livonia; Jessica Jones and Katie Kohl, Northville; Charlene Ramsey, Belleville; Mariana Muiruri, Lansing: Kelly Hamann, Milford; Kathryn Sobrero, Bloomfield Hills; and Kari Westveer, Troy. The Hawks are coached by Paul Scicluna, Ken Hamann and Linda Hamilton.

Girls fast-pitch softball

he Canton Cobras rallied twice Thursday but were successful in just one game Thursday as they split a softball doubleheader with the Livonia Lasers in the Incredible Girls Fast-Pitch League.

The Cobras were down 7-2 in the first game but made it close only to lose 8-7. Canton had the bases loaded in the seventh inning when the game ended with a popout.

Laura Logsdon had two hits and three RBI, Kelly Nelson one hit and two RBI. Kari Jackson was the losing pitcher. Kelly Reeber's three-run triple in the seventh inning gave the Cobras a come-from-behind victory in the nightcap, 10-9. Reeber had two hits and four RBI. Denise Butske also had two hits, and Jackie Nicastri was the winning pitcher.

The top hitters in the league: Amy Rogissart (Cobras), .553; Laura Logsdon (Cobras), .500; Anna Song (Bombers), .500; Renee Dolak (Diamonds), .471; Jenny Myslinski (Hornets), .464; Nicole Kovachevich (Cobras), .458; Courtney Pines (Bombers), .417; Becky Thursam (Diamonds) and Holly Foster (Hornets), .400.

Taekwondo medalists wo Canton residents won medals at the 19th U.S. National Taekwondo Championships in St. Paul, Minn., last May. Daniel Holguin and Gail Gerstenlauer, students of Master Sang Sop Kil at his Canton Taekwondo school, participated in both forms (choreographed fighting patterns performed solo before judges) and sparring (full contact bouts). Gerstenlauer, competing in the Executive Senior Women's Division, won a gold medal in sparring and a bronze in forms. Holguin earned the sparring bronze in the Executive Senior Men's Division.

Medal winners: Gail Gerstenlauer and Daniel Holguin, both of Canton, earned medals in the recent U.S. Taekwondo championships.

Competitors age 40 and over compete in the executive senior divisions. Other divisions were 33-39 and 17-32.

More than 2,000 people participated in the national championships, and New York City will be host for the World Taekwondo Championships in August.

Master Kil, a ninth-degree black belt and former Korean national champion, has trained a number of national champions since becoming a martial-arts teacher in the U.S. He also serves as president of the state chapter of the United States Taekwoudo Union.

Wildcats coast in MSHL

he Wildcats pushed their league-leading totals to 65 goals and five wins Thursday with a 13-6 rout of the Wolverines in the Metro Summer Hockey League.

Kevin O'Connor led the Wildcats, who lead the Bakes Conference at 5-2, with five goals and three assists. Dave Mathews and Bob Nagy added three goals apiece, and Duane Roe had two goals and one assist for the Wolverines (2-4).

The Huskies (4-1-1), who are tied for the Eagle Conference lead with the Broncos at nine points apiece, rallied from a 6-4 deficit after two periods to topple the Wildcats 9-6 Wednesday.

Darren Stoody had two goals and one assist, Andy Watson four assists, for the winners. Bobby Davis paced the Wildcats with a pair of goals.

Plymouth's Joe Sellers, who plays for Ohio State University, scored six goals and had two assists Wednesday as the Bulldogs won a shootout from the Redskins, 15-10.

Teammate Rick Bernard chipped in two goals and four assists. Mike Kneiding had a six-goal performance for the Redskins, and Dave Weaver chalked up three goals and five assists.

Dignitas romps to Mile win

It's no secret, picking the winner of the state's richest, most prestigious thoroughbred race. Simply wait until just before the race, then put money on the three longest odds.

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

Forget the charts. Never mind recent performances, who's beaten whom, the caliber of competition.

If Saturday's 45th running of the Michigan Mile, at Ladbroke DRC in Livonia, proved anything, it was that the charts don't always tell the whole Dignitas is a prime example. His race previous to Saturday's Michigan Mile was the Stephen Foster Handicap on June 19 in Louisville. Dignitas was in the Foster until it counted; then he faded, finishing sixth, well behind winner Root Boy.

The chart only reveals that Dignitas "lacked late response" in the Foster loss - which is accurate. The reason he lacked a late response wasn't provided, however. Until Saturday's Mile. Dignitas, with Larry Melancon aboard, had the response this time, overtaking favorite Root Boy down the stretch to collect the $120,000 first prize in the $200,000 race.

Root Boy hung on for second, with Powerful Punch edging Split Run by a nose for third. It kept alive what is becoming a tradition in the Mile: Longshots reign. Dignitas went off as a 22-to-1 shot, paying $47.60 to win. Last year, Classic Seven carried 35to-1 odds into the winner's circle. Only nine times in 45 Michigan Miles has the favorite won. The reason for Dignitas' improved Dignitas 'ranks among the best I've ever ridden. He's definitely right up there with them.'

> Larry Melancon winning jockey performance? "I knew something was wrong with him in the Stephen Foster - he just wasn't himself that day,' jockey Melancon explained. "He moved up to second, then flattened out. We found out something was wrong with him, an infection.

"Today he was himself." According to assistant trainer Chris Goodwin, Dignitas "had an excuse for his poor performance in the Stephen Foster - he had a lung infection. We didn't find it until after the race, and that explained a lot of things. We cleared it up, and he worked nicely at Churchill and we knew things were back to normal."

Indeed. The race couldn't have broken better for Dignitas. Melancon figured there were some speedsters to contend with, and he didn't want to get caught up with them. "I wanted to lay off the pace," he said. "My main concern was, I didn't want to move too soon."

He didn't. Punchy, Dave's Bold Boy, Candid Cameron and Root Boy were early leaders, but their margins were never much, and Dignitas rode the rail just behind. Root Boy got to the lead before the stretch run, with Punchy inside of him. Powerful Punch was running third, but slid outside entering the stretch run, creating a hole that Dignitas obligingly slid through.

The stretch duel was between Dignitas and Root Boy, who went off as the 2-to-1 favorite. Unlike in the Stephen Foster, Dignitas ruled this time.

"He ranks among the best I've ever ridden," said Melancon, a 37-year-old who's been racing thoroughbreds for 22 years. "He's definitely right up there with them.'

He also up there as champion of the Michigan Mile.

Lady Ocelot team both bigger, better

Last year was nearly disastrous. This year's early picture is quite the opposite.

The Schoolcraft College women's soccer team struggled through a losing season in '92, mustering just a 7-8-3 record. It was so bad, SC administration officials figured it wasn't worth the expense to allow the Lady Ocelots to even attempt to win the NJCAA national championship.

They just weren't good enough. All that has changed. True, two strong players from last year's team have completed their eligibility: sweeper Amy Krajewski, who's still attending SC, and keeper Kim Owczarzak, who will attend St. Bonaventure in New York this fall.

But six others are certain to return, and three more are possibilities. The certainties: Kelly Greaves, a midfielder; Becca Raymor, a defender-midfielder; Cindy Tolstead, a defender; Tiffany Graves, a defender-midfielder; Dee Lorenz, a utility player; and Kara Kramer, a forward.

The three others who may be back are Jami Alex, who suffered a knee injury playing basketball for SC and is still rehabilitating it, and Shelly Archibald and Joi Hazinski. Should they add their names to the list of returnees, the Ocelots will have a nucleus to build around - one that finished the '92 campaign with six wins in its last eight matches.

However, that's not the best news. One must examine the list of recruits coach Nick O'Shea has landed to find that.

Thus far, nine players have given O'Shea verbal commitments which means he should take his biggest team ever into camp. That isn't the highlight, though - the players coming include some top-notch tal-

"This year's squad is definitely better than last year's," said O'Shea. "We're improved up the middle."

That they are, particularly with the addition of Danielle Priebe, who played sweeper for O'Shea's Livonia Churchill team but is projected as center midfielder, allowing Raymor (from Plymouth Canton) to switch from midfield to sweeper.

"She's more offensive than Becca," said O'Shea. "And (Priebe) played for me for four year at Churchill, so she knows what I want.

Offense was SC's biggest problem last season. It shouldn't be this year - not with the addition of Priebe. Andrea Zawislak, a teammate of Priebe's at Churchill, and Christina Stancil, a '92 graduate from Canton.

"We never could find someone who could score consistently," said O'Shea of last year's troubles. Zawislak, who possesses "lots of speed," and Stancil will combine with Kramer to upgrade the forward

CC dumps its hockey coach

In three months, Jack Gumbleton went from being named Observerland's hockey "Coach of the Year" to a coach without a job.

Gumbleton will not have his contract at Redford Catholic Central renewed for the 1993-94 hockey season despite winning his 400th game while guiding the Shamrocks to the Class A final last winter, CC athletic director Bob Santello said.

Santello, reached Friday at the school, said Gumbleton is being removed because "basically, the administration felt it was time to make a change.

Gumbleton's teams won three Class A regionals and reached the state final twice in 15 years. The 1992-93 team finished 19-6-4 overall and lost to Alpena in the championship game, 2-1, despite losing three potential star players before the season to travel hockey teams.

"We have always felt that Jack was a gentleman and represented Catholic Central well," Santello said in a press release. "However, we feel that at this juncture in our hockey program, it is necessary to seek new direction. 'Obviously, I don't want to go into great detail as to the reasons for not renewing his contract, but simply stated over the years, we have had some serious problems in the area of communication between the coach, his players and their parents."

Gumbleton, who wouldn't say his age but is probably in his late 50s, said he planned on remaining CC's coach.

"Yeah, I would have come back, at least for one year," said Gumbleton, who teaches at Pierce Middle School in Redford. "I really enjoyed working with the players. Look at (new Red Wings coach Scotty) Bowman. Age doesn't mean anything.

Gumbleton won two state crowns at Detroit Benedictine in the 1970s and also coached one season at Hillsdale College and three at Oakland Community College before taking over at CC in 1978-79. Each of his previous coaching jobs ended because hockey was dropped as a sport, Gumbleton manship, according to the players. If there were problems on his teams, the players said, they came from parents who felt their kids weren't getting fair ice time. "As a captain, I noticed a few of the kids who didn't get ice time, their parents had complaints, but that's the way the game goes," said Mike Giordano, who was a senior right

"Yeah, I would have come back, at least for one year," said Gumbleton, who teaches at Pierce Middle School in Redford. "I really enjoyed working with the players. Look at (new Red Wings coach Scotty) Bowman. Age doesn't mean anything."

Gumbleton won two state crowns at Detroit Benedictine in the 1970s and also coached one season at Hillsdale College and three at Oakland Community College before taking over at CC in 1978-79. Each of his previous coaching jobs ended because hockey was dropped as a sport, Gumbleton

Zawislak was a 12-goal scorer and team co-captain last spring at Churchill, earning first-team all-Western Lakes Activities Associfast," said O'Shea. "And she scored some big goals for us.'

Stancil is tough in front of the net, which should combine well with Zawislak and Kramer.

The biggest soccer story of the season will be keeper Jenny Emmett's comeback. The Plymouth Salem product missed her senior season due to leukemia; she had to have bone marrow transplants. That was two years ago; she has recovered enough to resume playing, and is playing in the Great Lakes Women's League this sum-

"She's working hard, but she needs to get her timing back," said O'Shea. "After two years, it takes a while to get your timing back.

Reeves, like Stancil and Raynor, is a product of Don Smith's Canton program, which reached the Class A state semifinals this season. "What I like about them. Don teaches them how to win,' said O'Shea. "And that can go a long way.

Grabowski was described as "a tough player" when she played at Henry Ford, and Thomas had "decent skill at midfield." Nelson was a "versatile, intelligent player I can move around." She missed a year at Missouri Valley due to a knee injury, but has since recovkid doesn't play, you can't take away from the coach.

Frank Novock was one of CC's leading scorers in his only year on the team last winter as a junior. Novock said he liked Gumbleton's style but some of his teammates objected to Gumbleton's rules, which included no swearing.

"He (Gumbleton) didn't like to talk to the parents a lot, he'd stay behind the bench and concentrate on the game and personally I liked it better that way," Novock said. "He did his job and whatever happened off the ice (complaints from parents) he didn't care about. He did a good job with us. He was a quiet guy but if you do what he tells you and things get done, that's all he asks. I don't know who will fill his shoes but they'll be some tough shoes to

Said Larry Bsharah, who played on the 1987 and '88 teams: "I knew it would come to an end soon because he's getting a little older but what surprised me is I thought he'd get to end it on his own terms.

Jim McBroom, Gumbleton's assistant coach, said he is not applying for the head coach's job.

"I don't think I'd have the time or meet their qualifications," McBroom said. "I would think there'd be a line up (of applicants) once word gets out."

McBroom was shocked at Gumbleton's removal.

"It's a shame he couldn't go out in another fashion, on his own accord," McBroom said. "It's kind of sad. What's CC without Gumbleton? I feel bad for Jack. He might have a hard time going over there or supporting the team in the fashion he was released."

Birmingham Brother Rice coach Mike Brown, a CC graduate, is a prominent name mentioned with the vacancy. Those interested in applying for the head coach's job should contact Santello at 534-1140.

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item ... and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

P.S. When you place your garage sale ad, you're entitled to a free garage sale kit containing two signs, an inventory sheet, tips for a successful sale, sale tags and stickers. Just pick up your free garage sale kit in our office when you place your ad!
