Tuesday vote cuts city field to 8

Eight of nine candidates for city commission will survive Tuesday's primary in the City of Plymouth and move on to the November general election. A 20-percent turnout is expected. Four seats on the commission are up for grabs.

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

It's been said that the city commission primary election on Tuesday won't decide a whole lot - but tell that to the candidate who'll be eliminated from the race.

City voters are asked to choose eight of the nine candidates running for city commission in the primary.

The eight who survive the primary go on to a November general election, where four will win election to the commission.

City clerk Linda Langmesser predicts that about 20 percent of registered voters will turn out, as typical for primary elections in Plymouth.

"We've got 610 absentee ballots that have been issued and I've only got a third of them back," Langmesser said Friday.

While turnout is typically low for a primary, it rises to 30-35 percent for a general election in November, she

The candidates are:

■ Michael Caffery, events coordinator for the Michigan Boating Industries Association who ran unsuccessfully in November as a Democrat for the Wayne County Commission.

Stella Greene, appointed to the city commission earlier this year and a former downtown development authority co-chairwoman who cites experience in community affairs, background in financial matters, and a desire to contribute.

Ron Loiselle, partner in a Plymouth public accounting and condo property management firm. The former city commissioner cités his financial background and experience as

Vorva pushes overhaul

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

With property tax scrapped as the chief source of financing for schools and a millage proposal on the ballot Aug. 17, Plymouth-Canton school administrators are anxious to meet with legislators to make them aware of the district's needs.

At least one legislator, state Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, says it's time school officials look not to the state but at what's being done within the district.

"The school board must be responsible, accountable and accessible," said Vorva. "People asking themselves how they're going to vote (on the 4-mill proposed property tax in-crease Aug. 17) are asking themselves just that. Has my school board been accountable, responsible, accessible and operating in the best interests of "People are going to realize all they want to do is continue the same system with the same problems, and that their only answer and solution to problems are, 'Give me more money,' as opposed to reworking the system. It's time for people to say, 'It's got to stop,' and it's going to stop now.

Serious discussion is needed about what's going to happen to education in Michigan, Vorva said. "I'm very excited about the prospect of having the opportunity to restructure public education and then fund it at the appropriate level."

School board president Roland Thomas isn't happy with Vorva's, or Gov. John Engler's, approach to the educational dilemma.

"The governor doesn't have children. He's never faced the concerns of parents. Control and power are on his agenda. What are we going to do? Name him the president of the school board of the State of Michigan?"

The big issue is local control, said Thomas. "The state is already talking about what courses we will offer

Sassak, who invents toys for a living, said only two of the cars were built by Ferrari engineer Giotto Bizzarrini. It was featured in Road and Track in 1988. Sassak's father, John Sassak, knew a former Bizzarrini investor who lived in Detroit, and bought the car from him.

"He sold it to my brother John Jr. in 1969; I bought it in 1971," said Sassak, who "thoroughly enjoyed driving the car for 10 years before undertaking a full restoration," completed in 1988.

Bizzarrini was at the peak of his career and had put his lifetime of engineering, design and race know-how into the car, Sassak said.

Bizzarrini's claim to fame was that when he worked for Ferrari in the 1950s, he designed the original Ferrari GTO. The competition race car "was winning most of the races back in the '60s," Sassak

The designer then left Ferrari with six other engineers and started his own company in Italy. "He was a great engineer, but he did not have the business sense," Sassak said. Among unique features of the Spyder is its roof design. "It can be transformed from a coupe to a full convertible," he said.

"The cockpit was filled with Italian leather, fine polished wood, wool carpeting, all complementing the precise row of Veglia instruments," Sassak continued.

At the 1988 Meadowbrook Concours d'Elegance show in Rochester, the car won Best Sports Car in two classes over 35 other cars.

Sassak said the car has been popular in other shows, including this year's Pebble Beach, Calif. Concours d'Elegance, where it won an award in the postwar Italian coachwork class.

The Bizzarrini Spyder had a 327 horsepower Chevrolet Corvette engine, modified so it has.

"He took a race car and put it on the street and sold it as a semi-production car," Sassak

The show is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 8 at Meadow Brook Hall. Other Plymouth and Canton car owners are participating in the show.

CONSULTING YOUR DOCTOR

At some time, you may experience the following: a prolonged aching in your joints or muscles, a discomfort that comes daily, lasts hours, but subsides by evening. You believe that a muscle strain or virus infection that lingered is finally leaving. Yet you awake the next day to find the same ache dogging you; you find that you lose the best part of the day, every day, to discomfort and fatigue.

Physicians may not know the answer, but without doubt should see you concerning this question. Prolonged joint or muscle ache is not normal, even in advancing age. Your appointment on this matter will not lead to definitive treatment, but can provide substantial help. Likely, your doctor can tell if your distress will lead to long-term impairment. The visit will dispel concerns about cancer, a hidden fracture, or the emergence of arthritis that "runs in the family." You can rid yourself of worry about your work and its effect on your health.

The appointment is of equal importance to the doctor. He can gather initial data and obtain a asis to monitor your condition.

Follow-up will reveal changes in the process, progress, and features of your ache. Then your octor can provide a judicious answer to the questions: "do I need treatment, will I get better?"

Camp Korea

Adoptees learn of homeland

BY MARGARET O'BRIEN STAFF WRITER

"Han nyung ha seh yo" does not pop up often in conversations among American children - except at a new Korean culture camp, where the greeting was exchanged frequently.

In fact, the word "hello" was banned for the week so that the students would learn to greet each other the Korean way: with those words and a deep, polite bow.

Nearly 90 children adopted from Korean families learned about their heritage at the summer camp this month at the Korean Presbyterian Church in South-

"We have them learn that first because it is very important to be able to greet people in the Korean culture. And we want to make sure they learn to speak (Korean) here because they never will at home," director Clara Nam said on the last day of camp, July 16. She was surrounded by children enthusiastically polishing newly learned Tae Kwon Do routines, putting the last few strokes on theater masks, and preparing Kim Bob, a Korean rice and seaweed sandwich.

For Nam, that enthusiasm was a sign that the camp's goal — to give adopted Korean children a sense of their past and make it a source of pride - had been met.

Stepping into the basement of the church, which volunteered its building for the camp, was a little like taking a quick trip to Korea. Children sang songs, played games and painted calligraphy in groups. Many wore traditional clothing. Brigit Fitzgerald, 6, of Plymouth, showed off her bright, colorfully embroidered Korean dress for the closing ceremony.

All choked up: Matthew Anderson, 10, demonstrates a strangle hold on his new friend Kevin Kortman, 10.

"I like my dress. It's pretty. It makes me feel like Korea," Brigit

Most children said they learned to really like having a Korean heritage, but Nam pointed to another interesting aspect of the camp, where others learned what it was like to be in the minority or feel out of place.

Nam referred to the many siblings, who are not Korean, but participated in the camp to better understand their brother's or sister's culture. Parents said enrolling all the children was a valuable experience for the whole family.

Ed Grima of Livonia said the experience has been good for both of his daughters; one is biological, one is Korean.

"They come home every day singing Korean songs and they seem to have an idea of what they are singing about," Grima, father of Stephanie, 9, and Jennifer, 7, said. "We want to make sure (Stephanie) learns about her culture and this was a good way.'

Helen Detrych of Northville also has a biological and a Korean-adopted child in her family and said her biological son, Nicholas, 7, has learned how Christopher, 8, feels living in a culture where he looks different than

"I thought it would be a good experience for Nicholas from the perspective of being a Caucasian in a room filled with children different from himself . . . It gives him a sense of what Christopher feels like, a chance to look

"That is the first thing people notice when the family is introduced. They look different from their parents and they can't blend, so we want them to feel comfortable with who they are,"

Parents said, enthusiastically, that the entire camp was an excellent pride and awareness experience for their children, especially Deborah Corey of Rochester, who said it has made her son Tynan Min, 61/2, interested in his history.

Because of this experience, he is now getting really interested in his culture," she said, adding that that was one of the goals she hoped the camp would achieve.

'And I think having him understand his culture and where he came from is important to his well-being," she said. "We're the ones who snatched him from his country and we all know where we came from, and he has the same right to know where he came from.

Chris Casselman of Waterford said the camp has been equally beneficial for her two adopted children, sisters Kristina and Molly, who are learning to become more comfortable with their cul-

This is the first time in their lives they can walk into a room where they are not a minority. It's relaxing for them because they don't have to feel different," she

Court system aids hearing impaired

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

Lots has changed in the world of court reporting since 35th District Judge James Garber, then a newly named assistant Wayne County prosecutor, worked with Lamont Chestnut, the one-legged court reporter.

"Literally, Lamont had lost his leg in a childhood accident. My first assignment as an assistant prosecutor was in Recorder's Court before Judge Vinny Brennan," said Garber, who is impressed with a computerized system recently purchased by his court reporter, Carole Goodfellow.

"Vinny was a brand new Recorder's Court judge, I was brand new, and Vinny's dad, Marty, was the clerk. The only one who really knew what was going on was Lamont," the judge said. 'If you didn't speak up, or spoke too fast, he'd warn you once. He'd tell you to speak up, slow down, or whatever the case may be. If you didn't, he'd take his crutch and and whack you in the leg."

In 30 years, court reporting has evolved in many directions. Thirty-fifth District Court features a video court-reporting system in Judge Charles Kaufman's court; a court recording system with audio equipment in Judge John Mac-Donald's court; and computeraided transcription in Garber's

The beauty of the computerized system is that it's practical, costeffective, and can assist the hearing impaired, while providing numerous other advantages to the judge, prosecutor and defense attorney.

It utilizes a traditional steno machine linked to a computer lap-top "notebook" with an extensive dictionary. As the reporter types testimony in steno shorthand, the computer translates it into English, which appears instantaneously on the lap-top video screen.

Screens can be placed throughout the courtroom for use by deaf defendants to read what's been said; by attorneys to review testimony and conduct word searches; and by judges to research law, write opinions and select specific jury instructions. The technology allows the hearing impaired to serve as jurors.

Recently, a hearing-impaired youngster visited District Court with his classmates from Bird School. Without the computerized system, David Marks would have been reliant upon teacher aide Donna Caracostas to interpret testimony during the drunken-driving proceeding.

But the judge had David come up front and sat him in front of the monitor," said Carcostas. "He could watch as Carole was typing. He was reading testimony word for word, just like closed captioning. It worked out marvelously.

The mother happened to be on the field trip, and thought it was the most thoughtful thing anyone had ever done for him. It was a wonderful experience for him."

Goodfellow sees terrific potential in the technology.

"There are 9.2 million hearingimpaired people in the United States. One in 10 people is hearing-impaired to some degree," she said. The hearing impaired, even those skilled at lip reading, miss about 60 percent of what is said and have to do considerable guessing to follow conversations, lectures and dialogue, she said.

Goodfellow foresees the technology's use in classrooms, at governmental and PTO meetings; even in church. "A lot of reporters are volunteering their time pro bono for the satisfaction of helping someone else in settings like these," she said. Goodfellow herself has volunteered at her church. She'd like to see a large screen installed and her equipment used so that the reverend's words can be displayed in text. 'We need to get the message out to the hearing impaired that there's tremendous opportunity here," she said.

For Goodfellow, a mother of two who recently earned her bachelor's degree in business administration from Northwood University in Midland, it's a labor of love.

"All we need is a pool right here to jump in," said Dan "Pig Pen" Wrobleski, a Redford Catholic Central student.

Wrobleski was out getting some vigorous exercise Thursday afternoon with his three Catholic Central buddies, Jason Maschke, Dave Morelli and Chuck Kelly. Morelli said the four of them play ball at the courts along Edward Hines Drive just east of Ann Arbor Trail four times a week.

Delano Voletti, a Westland resident and former Observer carrier of the year, plays frequently as well: "(Volleyball) is a pretty good sport," he said.

"It keeps you moving constantly."
Even though the Wayne County Parks Department installed two additional sand volleyball courts this year, the players report that most evenings it's a matter of waiting to get a court. But it's of his band, his marriage, and a less than sober lifestyle, Paul Westerberg returns with his first full solo outing, after contributing two songs to the "Singles" soundtrack. The former leader of the legendary Replacements, Westerberg pens his usual gems in his usual smart, soulful, and sarcastic manner. Particularly outstanding tracks include the single "World Class Fad" and the gentle "Even Here We Are." Most people go to museums to see masterpieces. Much rarer, and more magical, are beautiful moments reflected by mirrored shards in out of the way places. Could it be that a newly sober, high school dropout from Minnesota is the greatest American songwriter since John Fogerty? Just because it doesn't seem likely, doesn't mean it's not true. Duran Duran puts vivid in tour

■ The band MTV made? In the 1980s, Duran Duran zoomed to stardom with vivid, thought-provoking videos that aired on the cable rock channel. Now, the troupe has turned to an opera set designer for a "new look."

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

After setting a precedent with their vivid, thought-provoking videos, Duran Duran is hoping to duplicate that success

by the spectacle of their summer

"It's definitely going to be on a whole new level," said keyboardist Nick Rhodes about the tour which hits Pine Knob Wednesday, Aug. 4."I really think that we've managed to pull off something that we didn't think would be possible.

The interactive set was designed by opera set designer Stephanos Lazaridis.

"I went to see a couple of this guy's operas in England. I was so stunned that I wondered if he'd be interested in doing anything for us," Rhodes said.

It was a nice surprise — for both

"He was thrilled that we asked him to be involved; he's done the most extraordinary job of any rock set I've seen," Rhodes said.

He quickly corrected himself. 'It's more like a Broadway set than a rock set," he said.

It's safe to assume that Rhodes is quite thrilled about this tour even though at the time of the interview, he had only seen the scale model.

"I'm a great music fan myself. It's incredibly spectacular if you see a good one. I'm really, really excited about the thought of this one," he

Aside from the set, a three-member string section will join the band, which also includes original members vocalist Simon LeBon and bassist John Taylor, as well as recent addition guitarist Warren Cuccurullo and touring drummer Fergus Ger-

The tour is to support Duran Duran's recent release, "Duran Duran." Although Duran Duran released an album with that name in the early 1980s, the group decided to name the album after a graphic artist designed the cover without being given a title.

After seeing the proof, the group realized there was no appropriate place for a title. So they left it off.

STREET BEATS

Plus, Rhodes said, there wasn't an apt title.

"No song (on the album) represented the whole of the record. It's so eclectic. Nothing showed what the record was about. After 12, 13 years it was time to re-establish the name," he said.

"Eclectic" certainly describes the album, which blends techno, Brazilian, pop, dance and acoustic music.

That, Rhodes said, was the result of recording in Cuccurullo's living

"It was a relaxed vibe, sitting on sofas," he said. "We hadn't really used much before. We're keen to experimenting in different sounds.'

So far, the album has spawned three different-sounding hits, "Ordinary World," "Come Undone," and "Too Much Information."

The third single, the first song on the album, is the most controversial or seemingly hypocritical of the organization that helped launch them. The opening lyrics are: "Destroyed by MTV I hate to bite the hand that feeds me too much information.'

Rhodes said that's not the case.

'It's not an indictment (of) MTV. The first thing I did when I got to New York was turn on MTV," he said. "The truth was MTV was very important to us. Early on, it helped make the band in America."

The song, which knocks news organizations as well, was actually inspired by the commercialization of the Gulf War, he said.

"It was inspired by the Gulf War being beamed into our living rooms by cable networks. It was something | For more information, call 377-0100.

. reduced to like a TV game show almost. There wasn't any attention paid to the body bags, the misery and the destruction.

'It was just sort of glossed over." Video, however, is what made Duran Duran the band of the 1980s. Since then, however, they've been unable to shake the associations with their early videos like "Rio."

'Everyone pictures us sitting on the front of a boat; that was one day of our lives.

He hopes the tour will change

"I think word will probably start spreading (once the tour starts). They'll have to come along and see,"

Duran Duran performs with special guest Terence Trent D'Arby at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 4, at Pine Knob Music Theatre, I-75 and Sashabaw Road, Clarkston. Tickets are $21.50 pavilion and $12.50 lawn.

Bosstones enjoy being mighty boss

As a fledgling band, The Mighty Mighty Bosstones opened for established ska bands like Fishbone.

Now that they're headlining large venues, The Mighty Mighty Bosstones are offering local bands the same opportunities they had.

"We give the local bands a chance to open for us. We like to give that back," said the band's goateed dancer/backup vocalist Ben Carr.

This time around, the Bosstones have chosen Warren-based The Exceptions to open for them at Harpo's in Detroit on Saturday, Aug. 7, along with the Bosstones Mercury Records label mates Shootyz Groove from the Bronx, N.Y. This will be the third time The Exceptions have opened for the Bosstones in the Detroit area.

'It's nice to see when a band makes it big, they still remember the little guys," said The Exceptions' trombone player Jim Hofer.

Members of Shootyz Groove, who play a mix of rap and hard rock, are good friends with the Bosstones making touring even more boss for the "They're friends of ours. It's one of those kinds of bands that you generally would not see play with us," said bassist Joe Gittleman from his Boston-area home.

Choosing local acts to open up for them has also opened the band members' eyes to the talent in each city.

"It gives us an idea of what kind of bands are hot in the city; it puts us more in touch with each city," Carr said. "There's a lot of bands out there that are really good.' The Mighty Mighty Bosstones certainly understand since they were in both bands' shoes five years ago when they formed in Boston. "We used to play in little clubs around Boston. It was just us and our friends. We didn't think it would become what it is but now that it is, wow.

That fame has given them the opportunity to sign with Mercury and star in commercials for fellow Boston establishment Converse shoes.

"It got embarrassing," said Carr. 'Every time we turned on the TV, there were The Mighty Mighty Bos-

DFT unveils its lineup for fall series

BY JOHN MONAGHAN SPECIAL WRITER

The Detroit Film Theatre saw some of its biggest successes last season with premieres of "Indo-chine," "Brother's Keeper," and especially "The Crying Game." So what do you do for an encore? If you're Elliot Wilhelm, curator of the Detroit Institute of Arts film program, you just keep booking quality movies. "Orlando," a new British import, opens this weekend.

"We don't measure our success in terms of attendance," Wilhelm said. "We book what we like and what's of exceptionally high quality. Some come off incredibly Believe it or not, "The Crying Game" was a gamble.

"Last December, I asked people and surprisingly few had even heard of it," Wilhelm said of the Oscar-nominated film, with a much-publicized sexual identity twist that helped it break box office records nationwide.

MOVIES

Coincidentally, "Orlando" also deals with gender bending. Based on a novel by Virginia Woolf, it follows the title character (played by Tilda Swinton) who lives for 400 years, first as a man and then

The two-weekend run will be followed by "Un Couer en Hiver" (Aug. 20-22), a typically French scenario about two men in love with the same woman. Claude Sautet directs.

Other intriguing titles this season include "The Music of Chance" (Sept. 3-5), an American movie about gambling and the nature of luck; "Farewell to My Concubine" (Oct. 22-24), an epic study of two actors and their relationship over 50 years; and "The Long Day Closes" (Nov. 19-21), the follow-up to Terence Davies'

brilliant "Distant Voices, Still

A fall fixture, "The International Tournee of Animation," screens Nov. 26-28, this year in its 24th edition.

With the success of movies like Roger and Me," "A Brief History of Time" and "Brother's Keeper, it's no surprise that the DFT offers four new films in the documentary, or as Wilhelm likes to say, "non-fiction" category.

"I don't know if they're becom-ing more fun per se," Wilhelm said, "but the people who make them are becoming more than just chroniclers of events. They're experimenting and coming up with some incredibly strong work."

"Road Scholar" (Aug. 27-29) follows Andrei Codrescu, Transylvania-born and now New Orleansbased National Public Radio commentator, as he takes to the road in search of the American Dream. Detroit is one of the stops on his 4,500-mile, coast-to-coast

In "Time Indefinite" (Oct. 8: 10), Ross McElwee, who made the very personal and funny "Sherman's March" in 1986, focuses on the events of everyday life. "Rock Hudson's Home Movies" (Dec. 3-4) uses clips from the actor's moviies as clues to his sexual preferIn

No films on the new schedule were made prior to 1991, which may disappoint fans who enjoy seeing bright new prints of vintage works on the DFT screen.

"There were so many strong. films to choose from that we didn't have time for the restored. films on this schedule," Wilhelm, said, then promising, "We willhave at least two next season for our 20th anniversary."

stones. I thought, 'Enough!'"

Like many ska bands, the Bosstones' fan base averages about 18 years of age. That's all right with

"I hate playing over 21 shows. Most of the people are at the bar, getting totally drunk and they don't watch the show.

Because the crowd is so young - and dedicated - they enjoy catering to them.

"We like to play the clubs and keep ticket prices low - especially considering we bring in 15year-olds who don't have a lot of money," he said. They keep the ticket prices around $8; T-shirts are $12-15.

Another way the Bosstones reciprocate their fans' admiration is by answering all the group's fan

"Dicky (Barrett, lead singer) goes down to the mailbox everyday. He'll answer them or if it gets too full he'll hand everyone a few letters.

Recently, they signed to Mercury, a Polygram subsidiary. Even though they're signed to a major label, they're still given the freedom to do as they like. Their first release, "Ska-core, The Devil and More," is a case in point.

"A lot of people think it's very odd that our major label debut is mostly covers (of heavy metal tunes). Mercury lets us do that,"

That was quickly followed by a full-length album, "Don't Know How To Party." The tour began shortly thereafter. Carr is impressed with Mercury's attention.

"It's moving so quick (that) my head's spinning," he said. The band wants to keep up the pace by recording another EP soon.

"Bands that totally play out an album don't offer anything new to listen to for like two years," Carr said. "We don't want to do that. We want to always give fans something new and fresh to listen

After all, the Bosstones are devoted to their fans.

"If it weren't for them, wouldn't be," Carr said.

The Mighty Mighty Bosstones The Exceptions and Shootyz Grooves will perform Saturday Aug. 7, at Harpo's, 14238 Harper Detroit. Doors open at 9 p.m. Tickets are $10 in advance. Those attending must be 18 years or older with ID to enter. For more information, call 824-1700 or 645-

Boarding school presents home environment

QUESTION: I have a son who is very bright. However, he skips school, doesn't do his homework and, I'm afraid, he is getting in to the wrong crowd - a drug crowd. He is in the eighth grade and in a good school system. Someone told me that there are some private boarding schools that may help my situation. Do you know of any and where they are located? I would like one out of this immediate area but within driving distance.

ANSWER: You need to get a copy of the Boarding School Directory for the United States (1-800-637-8308). After a bit of research, I found there are 242 of these boarding schools in the country.

Of course, we have the internationally known Cranbrook Kingswood School, a day and boarding upper school in Bloomfield Hills with students from about 25 states and 15 foreign countries. And there is the Interlochen Arts Academy, an intensive fine arts school, which is second to none in the nation and maybe the world. There are other boarding schools within driving range of your home in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and other nearby states.

The only other boarding school in Michigan is The Leelanau School, an eighth to 12th grade co-educational, non-denominational college preparatory, boarding school in Glen Arbor near the Sleeping Bear Dunes — a beautiful

A look inside

Having been in public education all my life and not really having a full handle on boarding schools, I took it upon myself to talk to Leelanau's assistant director of admissions, Pam Touhey. Candidly, I was interested in looking at a private boarding school's curriculum, rules, activities etc. to make a comparison with what I lived through during 35 years in the public school trenches as a teacher, principal and assistant superintendent.

What a dream environment The Leelanau (boarding) School would be to work in. There is a class ratio of six to eight students per teacher. Study periods are mandatory 8-10 p.m. except Fridays and Saturdays. If a student is not maintaining a good grade point average, increased study hall time on the weekend is allotted.

Grades are posted every week and parents know how their child is doing each week in school, not every six weeks via a report card.

DOC DOYLE

There is mandatory, periodic drug testing (if parents feel this is against their constitutional rights, then take your kid home). Can you see public education demanding mandatory drug testing to keep drugs out of school? It would be a feeding frenzy for lawyers.

Yet when one of our public kids flips out on drugs, it's "what are those funny school people doing about this?" It's the principal, the teachers, the superintendent, the board and its policies that have failed.

Get out of line in The Leelanau School, i.e. cheating, foul language, fighting, and you meet with a disciplinary review committee consisting of the principal, head master, teachers and student representatives. The peer pressure, having classmates on the review board, makes it a total school family issue. And peer pressure, in a safe and caring environment, does work. The students can't just leave the campus and "tool around in their car at the malls" or roam the area. Students take trips to Traverse City and other immediate areas on weekends, take other educational and experiential trips (white water rafting, skiing, camping, cultural activities), but always on a school bus and they are always chaperoned.

Sound a bit regimented? I'm not sure! I always thought we adults were responsible for our children. How about a trade-off where 100 percent of the Leelanau student population is accepted to four-year universities?

Each student has other home type responsibilities, such as dishes, raking leaves and there is a daily room inspection. These were the standards I was brought up with under a naval chief petty officer and so were my children. Didn't hurt me or my children.

A home away from home

But The Leelanau School (you can find others in the boarding school directory) offers more than clear rules and structure. It becomes a "home away from home." Staff members live on campus with the students. There are Family Advisory Units, that is, staff members assigned to five or six students, creating the family-oriented environment.

The curriculum standards are of high quality, offering advanced or accelerated classes similar to what is found in many local quality school pro-

A drawback for me, thinking as a former typical high school student, would have been to leave all my friends, However, in your case, since you have the money and you see your son drifting, a boarding school may be a wise choice.

Keep in mind these are not schools for delinquents. Most of the students are well put together young adults. This type of atmosphere should rub off on your child since he is young and not quite yet into the drug scene you see him heading toward.

Educational industry tries to hoodwink taxpayers ne of the best family stories that I grew up hearing was the one about my grandfather standing up to the KKK during the early 1930s.

It's something we could all learn from. The difference now, though, is that the educational establishment has become the KKK, hiding behind white sheets and trying to scare us into propping up an old system whose time has come. But back to the South during the Depression. Then as now, there wasn't enough state or local money to support two school systems, one for blacks, the other for whites.

So to save money, the local school board decided that black and white students who lived in the same country neighborhoods should ride on the same school bus. They went to separate schools, of course; this was nearly 30 years before southern schools were integrated. But consolidating the bus routes would save some money.

The thought of black and white kids on the same school bus prompted the local chapter of the white-sheet boys to tell their neighbors to keep their kids off the buses.

For some reason that's lost to time, my grandfather decided to put my father and uncle on the bus. And for a week they were the only white kids on

But then came Friday night, and the KKK got together for an informal barbecue on my grandfather's farm.

Grandpa was the subject of the roast. There they stood in their finest. I've often wondered if the guys' wives ever complained about missing sheets. Anyway, they called my grandfather out of the house and told him to keep his kids off the bus.

Grandpa recognized the voice of the grand dragon, or whatever he was, and using country terms suggested that he would keep his kids off the bus if the grand dragon would refrain from his visits to places where black prostitutes were employed.

The KKK went away and after a couple of weeks there were black and white kids on that school bus. And about 25 years later that neighborhood in Arkansas became the first in the South to have an integrated system.

But now back to the modern day KKK in Michigan, which is composed of school administrators, teachers unions and school boards.

JEFF COUNTS

Like my grandfather, voters are standing up to the modern day KKK and saying: "No, we're not afraid of your threats and we're not going to pay for duplicate bus routes just to prop up an old social order."

No matter how much liberal rhetoric school officials put out for public consumption about equal opportunity for students, we've still managed to create exclusive school districts for a privileged few that leave poor, rural white kids and blacks in urban areas out in

It's not just racial segregation, it's economic segregation that would make Selma, Ala., look like a center of liberal

The state Legislature's scrapping of the property tax system for education is the best thing that's happened to this state in 30 years. We've got a chance to redesign a system that ensures that every kid has an equal chance at life.

However, the modern-day KKK will be staging plenty of raids in Lansing and in local school districts. They'll be fighting needed school district consolidations, controls on teacher strikes and the sweet deal that the Michigan Education Association has on medical insurance that sends about $1,000 per year into union coffers to finance political campaigns.

Like my grandfather did in the 1930s, it's time for us to call the KKK's bluff. They tend to go away when you figure out who they've been sleeping

nissioners balk at county budget agreemen

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Feuding Wayne County officials put aside their differences long enough last Wednesday to shake hands on a set of budget cuts designed to close an $11.75million deficit.

The county commission was scheduled to have a special meeting this morning to approve the budget cuts. But commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, said Friday he doubted if his colleagues would agree on anything

Ficano returned to state council

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano has been reappointed by Gov. John Engler to the Correctional Officers' Training Council.

The council is responsible for establishing the standards and requirements regarding the training and education of state and local prison guards.

Blackwell, D-Detroit, vice chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, and commissioners William O'Neil, D-Allen Park, and George Cushingberry, D-Detroit.

"I think we resolved our prob-lems," McNamara said. "We're maturing or starting to get tired."

But members of the commission's Ways and Means Committee, who met Friday, spent 90 minutes arguing about whether Wednesday's result was an agreement agreement or an agreement to negotiate, McCotter said.

Beard said that McNamara's people made many changes in what was agreed on Wednesday. "They went back to practically the beginning of this process, she said. "It was a big disappoint-

The problem is that, based on projections from county spending in December, January and February, there's a deficit of $11.75 million that must be eliminated to be in accordance with state law. The actual deficit might be bigger or smaller, but no one will know the answer to that until spending figures from March, April and May are ready. And those numbers aren't ready yet, unless you be-lieve the rumor that McNamara's people have them, but are keeping it a secret.

The story thus far goes like

McNamara submits a plan for budget cuts to commission.

Commission disregards McNamara's plan and passes one

McNamara starts passing out layoff notices to county employees, including 66 commission staffers, but no one from his own

McNamara vetoes commission's budget cut plan. Commission votes to cancel layoff notices.

Then came the alleged agree-ment between McNamara and Blackwell on Wednesday.

There's also been a whole lot of name-calling. McNamara's No. 1 aide, deputy executive Michael Duggan, called the commissioners who opposed McNamara's plan "a phony group of hypocrites.

of nasty things about Duggan, like this from Beard, "He runs off at the mouth and it's too bad because he hurts his boss and makes himself less admirable.

Asked if Duggan's confronta-tional style hindered the process, McNamara said: "Everything is hardball down here. Too often you'll find that kindness is misinterpreted as weakness."

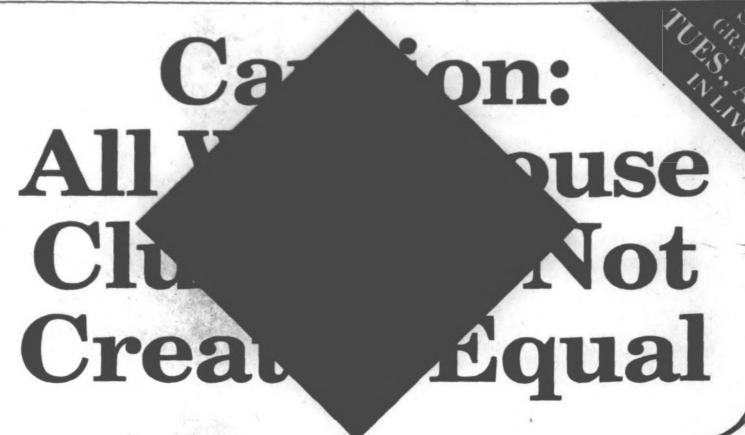

McCotter wonders why a Democrat executive and a Democrat commission can't agree on budget cuts and wishes McNamara were more involved in the process.

"If Mr. McNamara was handling more of this, there would be less of a problem," McCotter said, adding, "If Republicans write

The pivotal point of the argument, according to O'Neil, is whether the commission's nearly $7 million personal budget should

Many commissioners, O'Neil said, don't care a lot about where cuts occur in the $350 million general-fund budget, as long as they don't occur in the commission's portion of that budget. "That's what it boils down to too often," he said.

Later this year, the budget battles are likely to increase in intensity, because everyone says there won't be as much money to go around as in years past.

Here's a primer on everything you ever wanted to know about ribs.

Rib vocabulary

First off, let's tackle the different kinds of ribs. Regular spareribs are from the front of the rib cage and are held together by the sternum bone, and in most cases are the most difficult to cut and eat, mainly because of the attached sternum bone. Most supermarkets carry only pork ribs.

Beef ribs can be up to two feet long and would require a meat cooler all by themselves. Also, most slaughterhouses trim the beef ribs so well that there really isn't much meat left on the bones to make it worth your while. Regular pork barbecue ribs are spareribs with the sternum bone removed. Baby-back ribs are generally cut from the loin, are about 2 inches wide, and have more meat on them than either of the other two. Expect to pay about 20 cents more per pound for barbecue ribs over regular spareribs and about 40 cents more per pound for baby backs over barbecue ribs. Country ribs are really not ribs at all. They are the meaty section of the rib end of the loin split in half and then cut into chop-like strips. All of the above mentioned ribs are delicious, especially when finished with a sauce under the grill. The lighter-weight ribs cut from small hogs have a tendency to be more tender than those from larger animals. For portioning purposes, the general rule of thumb is to allow at least four ribs per person, with two full racks of ribs being enough to feed six average people. "The Joy of Cooking" recommends allowing about 1 pound of ribs per person.

Prep work

Is parboiling or parbaking the ribs before cooking really necessary? All of the cooking manuals I researched for this story indicate parboiling or parbaking is necessary for the tenderest and leastfatty ribs. Parboiling ribs for five minutes in my estimation boils away some flavor. Momma always soaked her ribs in about two cups of vinegar to break down the tough fibers and then parbaked them, drained and uncovered in a 400-degree oven for about 30 minutes.

Many soul-food cookbooks suggest parbaking in the vinegar, and I have done both, finding that the parbaked ribs actually baked in vinegar have more of a "bite" because of the vinegar.

Through experience, I have observed many rib aficionado's "mopping" their ribs with vinegar seasoned with paprika, garlic and onion during the cooking process to keep them moist.

In my estimation, this mopping during the cooking process is by far the most critical step when making ribs because it is important to keep the ribs moist during the cooking process. All publications used as sources for this story indicate that this step should be repeated every 10 minutes during the cooking process, whether in the oven or on the grill.

Cooking times will vary. Allow at least 1 hour of actual cooking time on the grill or in the oven for ribs. Here's a tip from "Jack Daniel's Old Time Barbecue Cookbook" to tell if the ribs are done -"Pinch the meat between the ribs; when it's done, it will 'give' under your fingertips." It is a matter of personal preference whether or not to sauce ribs during the cooking process.

Sauce

Personally, I have found that slathering on a sweet sauce loaded with brown sugar, molasses or honey has a tendency to burn when added directly during the cooking time. Therefore, I prefer to wait until the last five minutes to slather on some sauce, and pass more sauce on the side. Occasionally, I prefer to forgo sauce and coat the ribs with a dry rub of salt, pepper, spices and herbs. Again, this step is usually done during the last 5 minutes of cooking. Ribs cooked in the oven should be cooked at 350 degrees on a rack to allow the fat to

When grilling, it is imperative that coals be kept gray and that a squirt bottle of water or broth be kept handy to avert any flare-ups that might happen from the dripping fat.

If necessary, ribs can also be broiled in the broiler, again on a rack and frequently basted, as you would ribs on an outdoor grill.

■ Hiram Warker is working with area chefs, including Lorraine Platman of Sweet Lorraine's, to get liquor out of the cabinet and into the pantry.

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

Many cooks sneak into their liquor cabinet for spirits to enhance favorite dishes. Chefs who have stocked with lots of different kinds of liqueurs do it too. Now Hiram Walker & Sons Inc., the Windsor-based Canadian distiller whose Midwest office is in Farmington Hills, wants to stop all this sneaking around by taking liquor out of the cabinet and into the pantry.

Consumers got a taste of Hiram Walker's Culinary Collection, comprised of 12 premium brands of spirits that lend themselves to use in cooking, at the Michigan Tastefest in Detroit's New Center area July 2-5. Fifteen chefs from some of metro Detroit's finest restaurants including Sweet Lorraine's, Excalibur, Restaurant Di Modesta and Morels: A Michigan Bistro, prepared new recipes featuring spirits and liqueurs from the Hiram Walker Culinary Collec-

Informally called "Chef's in a Bottle," spirits in the Culinary Collection will be sold to consumers in 9-ounce size bottles, available individually for about $3 each or in a rack that holds eight bottles for about $25 this fall.

Consumers will be able to pick and choose flavors, and the company will add new ones depending on demand. The prototype we saw contained cream of banana, anisette, creme de menthe, ginger brandy, cherry brandy, triple sec, creme de cassis, and amaretto.

"If we're going to encourage people to cook with spirits we have to make it available in smaller quantities," said company president Donald Coe of Birmingham. "We want people to think of these liqueurs as spices that enhance cooking. The cost is comparable to what you pay for a bottle of spice. These liqueurs are concentrated essences of fruits, roots and vegetables.'

It's no secret that liquor sales in the United States have been steadily declining over the past 10 years, about 19 percent, with increased emphasis on healthier living. The mar-

Anyone who lives in the western suburbs, and loves to cook, has probably heard of chefs Chili Joe Wnuk and Chef Curtis Rellinger of Westland.

They co-host, write and produce the award-winning "Microwave Today - The Cooking Show of Tomorrow" on the Omnicom cable network serving Plymouth, Canton and Northville. Their show is also shown on Metrovision in Livonia.

Both chefs also claim the title "Champion Chili Cooks," and have been recognized by the Guinness Book of World Records as inventors of "The World's Longest Chili Recipe," assembled with a mind-boggling 1,000 different ingredients.

During the day, they both work as engineers. After work, they don chef's toques and head for the kitchen. They just finished writing their first cookbook - "Excuse Me Waiter, There's A Fly in My Soup," (Enterprise Publishing, $12.95).

"We were getting hundreds of letters a week for our television recipes, and people were looking for fun-to-make recipes," said Wnuk. "We said 'let's write a cookbook.' It took us one year and six months to organize the recipes. It's a collection of old-time classics and recipes from relatives. These are recipes that people will use.

I agree, this is a cookbook that everyone will enjoy. If you're a beginning cook, you'll appreciate the explicit diagrams and recipe directions coupled with basic and gourmet recipes

Partners for 10 years, Wnuk and Rellinger first joined forces to produce a championship chili recipe at the annual National Kidney Foundation Chili Cookoff.

Known to their viewers as a zany cooking duo, their weekly show resembles a local spin-off of 'Saturday Night Live," coupled with no-nonsense facts and cooking hints that one might see on a PBS cooking show.

It's evident after spending some time with them in the kitchen that these guys love to cook and do so in harmony. For a copy of their book, send a check or money order for $12.95, plus $3 for shipping and handling to — Chili Joe and Chef Curtis Enterprises, 7527 Berwick, Westland, Mich. 48185-

Both chefs love Mexican food and frequently mull over an afternoon taping of their show at Xochimilco on Bagley in Mexicantown, Detroit. Margaritas and Botanas are their favorites. The allyou-can-eat fish and chips at Bode's in Plymouth are another perennial favorite.

Tips help lessen health risks of barbecuing

Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension, said she often receives calls in the summer from people asking if it's safe to barbecue.

"The best advice we can give to consumers is that barbecue or grilling should not be used every day as the main method of cooking," said Treitman. "Grilled fatty meats are suspected of increasing the risk of cancer. If meat is allowed to become charred even when broiled or pan fried the same risk occurs.

So here are a few tips to lessen the risk when you want to barbe-

- Pick low-fat meats, or at least trim all visible fat before grilling.
- Wrap meat in foil to protect from the smoke. Don't place the heat source di- rectly beneath the meat put coals to one side.

Place aluminum foil or a metal pan between the meat and the coals to catch the dripping fat. For other food and nutrition, food safety or food preservation questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hot line, 8:30 a.m. to 5 Scrape off charred parts of p.m. Monday-Friday, 858-0904.

Recently, we tasted some new Italian wines that please both palate and purse. These wines will make your summer entertaining more flavorful.

Tasting wines without food can be deceiving since a wine's character usually improves with a well-selected dish. Fortunately, our tasting included some exceptional Italian cuisine. Since most wine is consumed with meals, we have selected a number of wines that are especially food-worthy.

The 1988 Kotari Brut Riserva ($10-11) is a delightfully refreshing sparkling wine made from 90 percent chardonnay and 10 percent pinot noir, the varietals used to make French champagne. Greet your guests with this well-chilled bubbly. Although Italian Asti Spumante is sweet, this wine is totally dry. We think you'll find it a bargain at this price. Several restaurants in the area are using it as a house pour, so look for it when you dine out.

Summer entertaining emphasizes white wines and light reds that can be chilled before serving. Let's take a look at the white Italian wines first.

The 1990 Lamberti Bianco di

Costoza ($9) is a blend of five white varietals from northern Italy. It is a great aperitif with a variety of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres such as fried calamari, soft shell crabs, melon and prosciutto or cheese raviolis with cream sauce.

Gavi is a white wine produced in Italy's Piedmont region from a grape known as Cortese di Gavi. The 1990 Ca' Bianca Gavi di Gavi La Centuriona ($14-16) has aromas and flavors that highlight pineapple, pear and lime in a style that brings you back for another sip. Grilled white fish is a perfect complement.

Spicy microwave broccoli spread delicious

AP - Mediterranean seasonings and handy kitchen appliances turn broccoli into a tantalizing appetizer spread. First cook the broccoli in your microwave oven, then skillet-saute the onion and garlic in olive oil. Skillet cooking imparts a toasty flavor and golden color that microwave cooking just can't mimic. This spread tastes delicious, served at room temperature or chilled, on crackers and French bread.

SPICY BROCCOLI SPREAD

- 2 cups broccoli flowerets 2 tablespoons water
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 small clove garlic, minced ¼ teaspoon crushed dried red
- pepper flakes 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Assorted crackers or thinly sliced French bread, toasted

In a 1-quart microwave-safe casserole cook broccoli and water, covered, on 100 percent (high) power for 5 to 7 minutes or until tender. Drain.

Meanwhile, in a small skillet cook onion, garlic and red pepper flakes in hot olive oil until golden, about 10 minutes.

In a blender container or food processor bowl container combine onion mixture, broccoli and Parmesan cheese. Cover and blend until smooth. Transfer to a small bowl or ramekin; smooth top with spatula. Serve at room temperature or cover and chill for up to 24 hours. Let stand at room temperature for 30 minutes after chilling. Serve with crackers or toasted bread. Makes about 31/2 cup.

Colorful sweet peppers brighten any

AP - Not that many years ago. sweet peppers signified one type green bells. Thankfully, now you can buy red, yellow, orange, purple and even brown sweet peppers. When you substitute these colorful varieties for the more familiar green bell peppers, they brighten just about any dish - casseroles, fillings, rice, pastas

During the off-season, colored sweet peppers generally are more expensive than green peppers. But come summer, all varieties are so plentiful that you may find them priced about the same.

Sweet peppers are attractive, easy-to-grow additions to home gardens, too. Take advantage of the price break or your garden bounty by cooking with them this

Though sweet peppers aren't peppery tasting, they belong to the same plant family - capsicum - as hot peppers. Like tomatoes, sweet peppers are classified botanically as a fruit, but are used mainly as a vegetable in

Buying peppers

When you're shopping for sweet peppers, you'll find some are rounded, with thick walls; others may be long and slender, depending on the variety. Select brightly colored peppers with a full shape. Avoid shriveled, bruised or broken peppers. Choose among the following pepper colors, coordinating them with the colors of other ingredients in your recipe. They all taste about the same mild and slightly sweet.

Chocolate: This dark brown bell pepper has a green stem and interior. Serve it fresh to preserve the brown color. It turns green when cooked.

Golden or Orange: Warm up the look of any dish with this redorange bell pepper. It has an orange interior and a green stem.

Green: You can always find the traditional green bell pepper with a green stem and interior. If you leave this pepper in a vinaigrette or other acidic marinade, it will turn from bright green to an olive color. It is still safe to eat.

Purple: Like the chocolate pepper, this vivid purple bell pepper turns green when cooked, so serve it fresh to preserve the color. It has a green stem.

Red: When ripened on the vine, some green bell peppers turn red. These peppers have a red interior and a green stem. They do not change color in vinaigrettes and marinades.

■ Yellow: This sun-colored bell pepper has a green stem and yellow interior. Match it with red and orange peppers for a sunsetcolored salad or stir-fry.

Storing sweet peppers

Cover and store fresh peppers in your refrigerator for up to five days. You can freeze sliced or chopped fresh peppers in freezer bags or containers for up to six months, but they will loose their crispness.

Roasting sweet peppers

Aficionados of Mexican and Mediterranean-style foods love the smoky, sweet flavor of roasted red peppers. Roasting loosens and makes the skin easy to remove. Some people like to remove the skin because they feel it has a slightly bitter taste.

To roast peppers, cut them in half lengthwise and remove the seeds. Place pepper halves, cut side down, on a foil-lined baking sheet. Bake, uncovered, in a 425degree F oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until the skin is bubbly and brown. Place the peppers in a clean paper bag. Seal and let stand for 20 to 30 minutes or until the peppers are cool enough to handle. Pull off the skin gently and slowly, using a paring knife.

LINDA BACHRACK

Back to school a retro look

f you've started window shopping for knockout "make a statement" back-to-school accessories, you're well aware that the new fall fashions are actually just darker-hued versions of your spring and summer clothing.

With few exceptions, the designers recycled last season's popular retro look. So if you lacked the fashion courage to try those bell-bottoms, crocheted vests and mega-platforms a few months ago, you have the opportunity to experiment with them this fall. Crocheted accessories add a touch of romance to your wide-leg pants and long-fitted jackets. Look for lace and crocheted scarves, vests, chokers and skullcaps. We picture a selection from Hudson's that includes a belt (great with jeans or cut-offs), hair ornaments and a jacket clip on a shawl. When you think crochet, think ruffled white blouses and empirewaisted granny dresses with long full skirts. A newer romantic look for fall is the addition of crushed velvet accessories. Tie a long, sensuous velvet scarf around the collar of your jean jacket or buy an Edwardian waistcoat with velvet detailing. Look for anything trimmed in a deep jewel-toned velvet.

The layered vintage look might include a lacetrimmed velvet bodysuit, paired with denim or velvet bell-bottoms and topped with a patchwork vest in hunter green, wine and black. Clunky shoes or heavy work boots balance the total outfit. Hudson's displays all of these "out of the attic" necessities.

Romantic touches

Elizabeth DeLorean of Birmingham favors a Victorian-look choker to accessorize her eclectic outfits. She noted a black lace fabric choker with an emerald charm that she admired at The Groovy Rainbow Planet, 124 S. Woodward in Birmingham. Dianna Carlin, the creator of this imaginative shop and the designer of its wares, has transformed the tiny space into a vibrant and celestial work of art.

Carlin specializes in hair wraps, the intricate wrapping of hair strands in a multi-colored embroidery toss embellished with beads and charms. Prices range from $4-$6. "The young teens really love it." she said.

DeLorean, a high school freshman, added platform shoes and bell-bottoms to her list of favorite fall fashions. And she thinks the new looks are meant to "show some curves.

Tie-dyed recycled jean shorts trimmed with long heavy fringe, a Carlin original, are the first choice of Jill Spencer of Birmingham. Spencer likes the idea of being yourself and dressing accordingly. "People aren't ashamed of who they are anymore," she said. Anything goes, according to this "untrendy" trendsetter.

If sweet and romantic or '60s vintage are just not you, opt for the rugged, outdoors look - think canvas or leather backpacks, plaid flannels (cropped and fringed are newest), thermal undershirts and thick nubby natural cotton socks. Add your most comfortable pair of broken-in jeans and an oversized fishing vest. These should get you across campus in style.

Ready for school

Let's not forget the younger set. They need snazzy accessories for the first day of school, too. A glance at Kiddlywinks' eye-catching window says it all. The shop, at 120 B. Maple in Birmingham, can outfit kids from head to toe in the hottest new fall "must-haves." Start with an essential backpack, sophisticated solid colors for boys, pink and purple paisleys for girls ($16). A wool beret in a bright color will add sass to any outfit ($22), as will a pair of pure fun art deco-inspired socks by Celeste Stein ($8). (You must see these to believe them.)

Wonderful color block cotton knit vests by Earth Kids feature tie closures in vintage prints ($50) and caps and mittens to coordinate. A wool 'back to school" sweater pictures a yellow bus, apples and a schoolhouse — all knit in a charming picture-book design.

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her column ideas at 953-2047, mailbox 1889, or fax them to her at 644-1314.

At The Source: Warehouse club shopping is where it's at these days, with industry officials planning to double the number of stores across the country within the next five years. On Aug. 10, Meijer's SourceClub opens in Livonia at Haggerty and Eight

New SourceClub promises savings

Ho hum. Another warehouse club is opening in the area. "Not so!" says SourceClub president Paul Boyer. This new Meijer-owned store in Livonia is one shoppers have just got to see.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

"We're a warehouse club like no other," said Paul Boyer, pitching the debut of the fifth Source Club in Michigan, opening Aug. 10 at Haggerty, south of Eight Mile in Livonia.

'We've got a bright interior, sky lights, painted walls, wide aisles, the lowest membership fee around, and responding to concerns that warehouse shopping means you have to buy more than you need, some individual items . . . Oh, and some really hot prices!"

One Westland family who has been shopping at the Source Club at Newburgh and Ford roads since it opened in May agreed with Boyer.

"We also have a Pace Club membership," said the mother, who did not want her name published. "With three school-age kids to feed, we find we're saving about 20 percent off our grocery bill by buying staples at these warehouses once a month. It's fun too, because you never know what you're going to find. Some surprise items they get from buy-outs are really unique. I bought a name-brand recliner for the family room for under

Two kinds of shoppers

Boyer said Source Club targets two groups of shoppers - one in the business of running a business, the other in the business of running a home

"Both groups want to improve their bottom line," he said. "Businesses use us as a wholesaler, buying things like motor oil, computer paper, restaurant products, cigarettes and candy by the gross, to pass the savings onto their customers. Homeowners use us to stock up on paper products, detergents, frozen foods and soft drinks, to pass the savings onto themselves.'

Boyer said additionally, Source Clubs offer members a marketplace with fresh and frozen foods, a bakery, optical center, one-hour photo finishing and a food court. The stores also move large volumes of books, audio and computer equipment, home furnishings, tires and clothing.

Why you save

The savings come from the retailer's ability to eliminate operating costs through the no-frills setting. Signage is kept to a minimum. Shelving is rack-style. The floors are concrete. There are no warehouses to maintain because merchandise is shipped directly from the manufacturer to the selling floor. Purchasing in large quantities also guarantees the best price.

Warehouse clubs charge customers a membership fee which Boyer said is used "as part of the margin we need to run the business." At the Source Club, a $20 fee entitles the bearer to a photo ID which must be shown each time a shopper enters the store. Other warehouse clubs charge annual membership fees of $25 to $30.

"Club membership allows us to communicate with our shoppers on a personal level," Boyer said. "We know them. We can respond to their comments and concerns immediately. We stay in touch with them.'

One-day trial passes are available to interested newcomers through newspaper advertisements for the Source Club as well as inquiries at each management office.

"I read somewhere that the average household can save $1,300 a year shopping from a club rather than a supermarket," Boyer said. "That easily pays the price of membership quite quickly.'

Janet Brown walked the aisles at the Westland Source Club with a calculator in her hand.

"I recommend shopping this way," she said. "Per unit price. That's what I want to know. Per unit price.'

In her basket were several cases of Hi-C boxed drinks and Del Monte Warehouse-style shopping came from California some 16 years ago when Price Club stores opened, offering the average person the chance to shop like businesses shop. Since then, key players have included 212 Wal-mart-owned Sam's Wholesale Clubs, Kmart's recently sold-off 101 Pace Warehouses, 85 Costco Clubs, and 78 Price Clubs.

Currently, more than 21 million people in the United States hold club membership cards. Last year, warehouse club sales topped $29 billion. That figure is expected to reach an estimated $100 billion by the year 2000.

Jeff Lupu led the Bulldogs with five goals and one assist and teammate Eric Bilyeu added a goal and four assists. The Spartans were led by Jeff Mitchell (Wayne) with three goals and four assists and Jim Mitchell (Wayne) with three goals and three assists.

"It certainly was a shooter's game," Baker said. "Our team couldn't move up or down in the standings. Lupu is a small guy but he's tough. He is very quick and has a great set of hands.

Results of Sunday's first-round playoff games will appear in Thursday's Observer. ■ The Redskins outscored the Huskies 3-0 in the third period en route to the upset win at Plym-

Collegiate all-stars blast Lansing

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League all-star team was too strong and deep for its opponent from Lansing and won the annual game played Wednesday at Ford

BY STEVE KOWALSKI STAFF WRITER

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League all-stars did just fine Wednesday night, even though some of them had their minds far away from Ford Field.

Livonia routed the Lansing All-Stars, 16-7, in a nine-inning game that took more than three hours to play. Livonia collected 19 hits off Lansing pitching, and midway through the game it looked like they already were getting bored.

Livonia had 29 players on its roster - enough to have an all-star game of its own - and most had nothing to do in the latter innings but mill around the dugout and talk about what they're doing the rest of the Starting pitcher Mark VanAmeyde of Little Caesars was the most resourceful Livonia player. After allowing a two-run home run by Lansing's Luke Wilcox in the first inning that landed in the evergreen trees over the right-field fence, VanAmeyde used the dugout as a study hall.

Instead of concentrating on the strike zone, VanAmeyde read a book called The Erroneous Zone the last VanAmeyde, who attends the University of Detroit-Mercy, had a paper due the following day for a class in interpersonal communication.

"My mom had the book in her car and since I was only going to pitch the first inning I figured I might as well read the book," VanAmeyde said. "I got 49 pages done."

Livonia had 11 pitchers on the roster and nine were used.

Some of Livonia's players grew tired of watching and spent the last few innings near the fence talking to Hines Park's Tom Davey and Little Caesars' Aaron Mach, both of whom failed to make the All-Star team after participating in last year's game. Super fan Bob Kurashige and Walter's Appliance fan Tim Neher (the guy who always has the baseball mitt on at Ford Field) also got the players'

Hines Park's Gary Pierce thought Davey should have made the team so he wore Davey's No. 35 for the game even though it's a couple sizes too

"I'm wearing 35 in honor of Davey," said Pierce, a shortstop from Westland John Glenn.

Lansing, a four-team league, didn't have much of a chance against Livonia, which has seven teams and a bigger population base.

Little Caesars' Dave Roman (Livonia Franklin), Westland Federation's Joe Vondracek (Redford Catholic Central) and Little Caesars' Jerry Shippe (John Glenn) enjoyed the most productive nights.

Finesse girls pursue national crown

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

The 18-and-under Finesse slopitch softball team will attempt to become the first Michigan entry in 10 years to win a USSSA world tournament this week.

Finesse, comprised mostly of players from communities serviced by the Observer & Eccentric newspapers, will compete against nearly 70 other teams from around the country Aug. 5-8 in Muncie, Ind.

Using the national rankings to support its cause, Finesse is considered a legitimate contender and just might return with the championship.

"We're anticipating a big finish," Finesse manager Barry Patterson said. "Our motto is 'They have a seven-foot trophy they're waiting for us SOFTBALL to pick up in Muncie.'

"Like any other team, we need some good breaks, but I feel more confident about this (Finesse) team than any other I've coached."

The last Michigan team to win a world title was Jake's Harley-Davidson of Garden City, which won the 15and-under championship in 1983.

Patterson was told by a USSSA official the team will probably be ranked in the top five going into the world tournament.

The rankings are based on a point system, and teams earn points based on how they do in national invitationals and state tournaments.

Finesse, which finished fourth in the world last year, has won three of five this year and was second in the

"I'm thinking one or two based on what I know the other teams have done," Patterson said. "There are carryover points from the previous year and we did very well. I think there's very little doubt we'll in the top three.'

Lots of area talent

The Finesse players, their hometowns and high schools are third baseman Lynda Allison, Garden City; infielder Amanda Ault, Farmington Hills (Harrison); outfielder Jamie Cook, Westland (John Glenn); second baseman Jenny Czach, Union Lake (Walled Lake Central); first baseman

Salem's Winstel among OU recruits

It didn't take Steve Lyon long to assert himself as the new coach of Oakland University's baseball Of course, Lyon's position as assistant coach for five years under Paul Chapoton, who resigned in June, helped - particularly in recruiting, something Lyon was heavily involved in anyway. Last week, he signed eight players to national letters of intent, including four who played in the MHSAA East-West All-Star Game at Tiger Stadium.

Among Lyon's top recruits is Charlie Winstel, a first baseman from Plymouth Salem who was second team all-state and was runner-up MVP in the MHSAA All-Star game. Winstel set a Salem school record for hits in a season, batting .450.

Another Western Lakes Activities Association star headed to OU is Jeff Ross, an outfielder/pitcher from Walled Lake Central. Ross hit .309 and was 6-2 on the mound with a 2.39 earned run average. OU's other "all-star" recruits - those who played in the MHSAA All-Star game - are right-handed pitcher Fritz Coyro, from Grosse Pointe

South; Sean McDonald, an outfielder from Madison Heights Lamphere; and Jason Paul, an outfielder from Utica Eisenhower.

Coyro was 9-1 as a senior and 20-1 in his career at South. McDonald batted .510 with 35 runs batted in his final year at Lamphere, earning league MVP honors. Paul hit .419 his senior season and was Macomb Athletic Conference Red Division MVP; Coyro was MAC White Division MVP.

The others signed by Lyon are Eric Carlson, a right-hander from Clarkston who was 7-2 with a 2.50 ERA as a senior; Jeff Harwood, an infielder from St. Clair who batted .458 and stole a schoolrecord 50 bases as a senior, while setting another school mark for runs scored; and Luis Mendoza, a catcher from Royal Oak Kimball who hit .368 and threw out 68 percent of the attempted base stealers.

More swim signings

Amazing.

That's the only way to describe OU coach Pete Hovland's recruiting triumphs. After years of frustration, including two consecutive sub-par recruiting efforts, the Pioneers have hit the jackpot.

Their list of newcomers for the upcoming season swelled to 19 - 14 of whom have already swam times fast enough to qualify for the NCAA II championship meet - with the addition of two foreignborn transfers, Arthur Albiero from Sal Paolo, Brazil, and Jens Kristensen, from Glesborg, Denmark. Albiero comes to OU from California State-Bakersfield, the NCAA II champion the past eight years. Albiero was a four-time All-American in last season's NCAA II meet, placing third in the 400yard individual medley, fourth in the 500 freestyle, sixth in the 200 backstroke and 10th in the 100

Youth bowlers learn early bowlers?

pen to have a slew of great It's a fact that we have both quality and quantity among the bowling population.

There is a reason, partly because of the well-managed youth leagues, and especially the three prevalent youth traveling leagues. Most of today's All-Stars are members of either the SYC (Sunday Youth Classic), The Cecil Ward Youth Traveling Classic or the WWYTC (Western Wayne Youth Travel Classic).

If there are some youngsters in Observerland who think they are good enough, it's best to try out for one of these three leagues. These kids receive the best coaching around and get to bowl in a variety of houses, which in itself, is quite a learning process. This is also an opportunity to establish friendships with other kids with similar interests.

For those who are interested, the youth leagues are conducting tryouts during the following times and dates:

Cecil Ward — 7 p.m. Tuesdays, Aug. 3 and 10, and Thursdays, Aug. 5 and 12, at Astro Lanes in Madison Heights (for more information Betty Heider at 542-5690);

Sunday Youth Classic — 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 9, at Taylor Lanes; 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 10, at Cherry Hill Lanes; 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 11, at Thunderbowl; 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 12, at Super Bowl;, 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 12,

There must be Fairlanes Skore; 2:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 13, at Drakeshire; 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 18, at Novi Bowl; 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 19, Clover Lanes; and 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 20, Satellite.

These houses are all on the SYC traveling schedule with the addition of Parkway Lanes. Any new bowlers must attend three tryouts at three different houses. Cost of the tryout is $5 per person. For more information, call Ed Wright at 477-5047.

For information on the Western Wayne Youth Traveling Classic, call Norm Kluska (522-1243) or Hal Winters (455-5521).

Bowling buddies from the Wednesday Nite Merchants League at Town 'N Country Lanes in Westland helped Bluie" Leatherman celebrate his 90th birthday with a breakfast.

He was born July 30, 1903. Bluie was an active bowler for more than 60 years, the last 40 at Town 'N Country with the Merchants League. Leatherman had to retire last season because of vision problems. The breakfast was sponsored by fellow bowlers and friends, Bob Burnie, Lloyd McNab, Jay Wiseley, Colin McPhee and Ed Szmansky, along with his daughter and son-in-law, Judy and Chuck Howton.

■ The Inter-Lodge League is looking for "A Few Good Men" who would like to have some good fun and good bowling, 9:30 a.m. Sundays at Country Lanes. For more information, call the league secretary (yours truly) at 422-coaches Don Dreher (Plymouth) and Dennis Schlimgen (Walled Lake).

Horosko and Selmi graduated from high school in 1992 but met the age requirement and were able to play another season with Finesse. They are among seven players who received college scholarships in the last two years.

Horosko, Flood, Dawn Godfrey (Walled Lake) and Laura Apligian (Northville) play for Eastern Michigan University, Selmi for Henry Ford Community College and Czach for Madonna University. Kintz will choose between Henry Ford and Daytona Beach Community College. Lehnis and Selmi are returning all-world players. Desentz (MVP), Flood and Marley made the all-tournament team this year in Smyrna, Tenn., and Selmi, Wasiak and Lehnis were so honored at the All-America NIT in Cincinnati.

Finesse won the Spirit of Smyrna, Metro Sports Unlimited (Shepardsville, Ky.) and state (Sterling Heights) tournaments and was second in the Canton and All-America NITs.

In addition to its travel tournaments, Finesse competes in a women's league at Softball City but emphasizes the youth games in which it has a 32-9 record.

Slo-pitch helps players

Though all of the Finesse players have distinguished themselves as fast-pitch players, they have no trouble adapting to the different style of softball.

"Defensively, the girls improve tremendously playing slopitch because everybody is involved on defense," Patterson said. "There isn't a game goes by that each player doesn't have to make two or three plays; whereas, in the fast-pitch game, you can go the whole game or tournament without having to make a play. "My contention is we learn to swing the bat more aggressively in slo-pitch because you hit every time up.

"Kintz, Flood and Horosko were all-state in fast-pitch and played slo-pitch in the summer. Obviously, it didn't affect them negatively. I'm a firm believer the slo-pitch game helps them become better ballplayers." Selmi leads the team with a 531 batting average and is second in RBI (36). Kintz, who bats cleanup behind Selmi, is hitting .467 and leads Finesse with 46 RBI, six home runs and 10 triples. Flood is the leadoff batter, is second with a .525 average and has scored a team-leading 40 runs. Lehnis (.421, 23 RBI) and Wasiak (.404, 26 RBI) also are among the top producers of of-

"We're a power-hitting team,"

Patterson said. "We can explode like no team I've coached. I don't know of any other team in the country that can pile up the runs like us when we're on. "Hitting and outfield defense are our strengths. Those are the real keys in slo-pitch. The outfield becomes so much more important. So many games are won or lost because of what happens out there."

Finesse overcame deficits to win the Metro Sports and state tournaments. It trailed the Louisville Grayhawks 11-2 in the third inning but rallied to win 18-13 in Shepardsville. After finishing second to the Club Hollywood Flames of Euclid (Ohio) in two tournaments. Finesse erased a 6-5 deficit and won the state final on Wasiak's two-run single in the seventh inning, 7-6.

"We didn't think an Ohio team should win the state tournament," Patterson said.

All-Stars

Roman had two hits, scored two runs and had an RBI and the only time he was out came on a line shot to the third baseman with two runners aboard in the third. Vondracek was 3-for-3 with a double and two runs scored and Shippe was 3-3 with one run scored and two RBI.

Shippe, a second baseman playing his last game at Ford Field, turned a double play with Roman during the pair's final inning in the field.

Shippe played in last year's all-star game also when Livonia lost to the Canadian National Team, 13-2.

"It's more fun when you're able to run around the bases a lot," said Shippe, who has recovered from a knee ligament sprain earlier this season. "It felt good to turn a double play on the last ball hit to me, especially with Dave at shortstop.

He's my best friend and it felt good to be out there with him."

Gundry, John Collins, Lawrence Scheffer and Heathe Fowler delivered RBI singles and Tom Kretschmer had a tworun double and RBI single.

Brian Burns had one of the longest hits of the night, off the right-center field fence, but he had to settle for a single with a runner ahead of him. Del-Wal's Todd Boike was the only pitcher on either side to retire the side in order. Working with two days rest after throwing nine innings in the LCBL championship on Sunday, Boike struck out two and in between got Wilcox to ground out to second in the sixth inning.

'My arm usually gets stronger as the game goes along, so with one inning (of work) I didn't know if I could do it," Boike

Concealed starts 2-0 in district

The Concealed Security Connie Mack baseball team won its first two games in last week's American Amateur Baseball Congress district in Flint.

Concealed, 26-15 overall, was scheduled to meet Mt. Clemens, the two-time defending district champion, on Saturday.

Concealed beat Clio, 6-0, on Friday behind the one-hit pitching of Tim Holland (Madonna University). Holland struck out 13, walked two and improved his record to 5-2. "Tim threw nothing but strikes SANDLOT and had command of all his pitches," Concealed coach Lou Pirronello said. "I scouted Clio the night before and saw them score 13 runs on 15 hits. They were the only team in the Flint league to beat Grossi but he just shut them down.'

J.R. Taylor went 3-for-4 with a two-run home run and three RBI. His homer came in the three-run ate, had a two-run single to highlight a three-run first inning. Concealed had nine hits and received eight walks on Thursday en route to a 14-2 five-inning mercy victory over Flint Sealey Drugs. Winning pitcher Mike Murray allowed the first three batters he faced to get hits but gave up only one more hit the rest of the way.

Murray, 4-2 overall, walked two and struck out seven. Paul Kuhn was 2-3 with three RBI. Eric Marcotte (Canton) and seventh inning. Brett Walter, a Tim White had one hit and two Redford Catholic Central gradu- RBI each.

Recruits

Kristensen was attending NCAA I Cal State-Northridge. His times would have placed him in the top 10 at the NCAA II meet in the 100 back, the 200 back and the 200 IM.

Both will have sophomore eligibility.

Other newcomers to the OU program include Ken Ehlen from Birmingham Brother Rice, Chris Knoche from North Farmington, Jay Judson from LaHabra, Calif., Isaac Farnsworth from Las Vegas, and James Collins and David

Paxton from England. "This is our best recruiting class ever, both in numbers and talent," said Hovland, whose Pioneers have placed second in six of the past seven seasons. "Of our 19 newcomers, 14 have swam times as fast as last year's qualifying standards. Last year we took 10 swimmers total (to the NCAA II meet).

That in itself speaks volumes. It gives us instant credibility, and a chance to compete (for the championship)." OU was second to Bakersfield last March.

The cost is $70 per child and $65 for a second child in the same ational teams are invited. For in-

Revved-up Grieco hits

By Carl Spinks

Richard Grieco's been in the fast lane for quite a while now. In high school, he played hockey and lacrosse and was named an All American in football. He went to college on an athletic scholarship, but soon left the slow pace of academia to try his luck at modeling in New York City. Quickly signed by the prestigious Elite agency, Grieco appeared in ads for Chanel, Giorgio Armani and Calvin Klein before he switched paths again, this time deciding to become an actor.

Once more, success was not long in coming. His very first television audition led to a year-long stint in the daytime drama "One Life to Live," after which Grieco moved to Los Angeles. There, guest shots in "Rags to Riches" and "Who's the Boss" propelled him into the Fox network's popular "21 Jump Street" series. His good looks and dashing demeanor made him so popular, he was given his own spinoff series, "Booker."

The big screen has beckoned to Grieco as well, offering him starring roles in "If Looks Could Kill" and "Mobsters." He's slated to star in his own CBS series late this year, and is negotiating the publication of a volume of original poetry titled "Fragments in a Dirty Ashtray.

But the handsome performer's latest work, a high-octane drama titled "Born to Run," roars into view Monday, Aug. 2, on Fox. Directed by Albert Magnoli ("Purple Rain," "Tango & Cash"), the film stars Grieco as quiet Nicky Donatello, a young man who still lives at home, working in his widowed father's small grocery. But on Friday nights, for a few adrnaline-charged moments, Nicky feels truly alive. Gifted with mechanical prowess and a steely calm behind the wheel, Nicky is the toast of the local drag strip. Despite the best efforts of arrogant Phil Landi (Joe Cortese), a small-time crime boss who controls all gambling at the strip, Nicky just can't be beat.

But Phil knows the way to get to Nicky is through his luckless brother Richie (Jay Avacone), a chronic gambler (and loser) who takes the meager profits from his used-car lot to pay his mounting debts. Still, he can't keep up and one day discovers he owes Phil a dismaying $12,000. Fearful for his life, Richie defies his brother's stern orders and bets everything he has on Nicky's next race

But "Born to Run," written by Randall M. Badat and Frank Bidetto, is more than just one drag race, and the Donatello brothers find themselves caught in a vortex of violence and treachery Illtimately, Nicky knows it's up to him to save both his brother's life and his own future.

Grieco wisely eschews many of the threadbare mannerisms a character like Nicky might suggest, avoiding movie rebels' customary screaming and posturing for an understated, gentle portrayal. His performance instead suggests a restless, quiet child, just wanting to find his niche. Jay Avacone is effective as Richie and Joe Cortese is colorful in his portrayal of Phil. although he tends to overact in the more intense moments. Christian Campbell makes the most of his small role as the teen-age mechanic who idolizes Nicky.

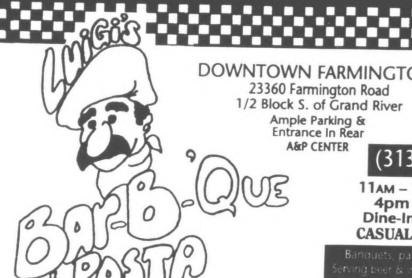

Shelli Lether, on the other hand, is little more than set dressing as Sally, the Manhattan model who leaves her perch on Phil's arm for Nicky's bed. Her shrill cries of "I believed in you" are startlingly amateurish.

But then, what might one do with such shopworn dialogue? Badat and Bidetto have devised a complicated, interesting story, but saddle their actors with lines few thespians could deliver convincingly.

PBS dusts off the charming animated feature "The Point" for a summer run. complete with original narration by Dustin Hoffman, (Other versions were overdubbed by Alan Thicke and Ringo Starr.) For viewers unfamiliar with the production, which premiered on ABC in 1971. "The Point" tells the story of a boy named Oblio (voiced by Michael Lookinland, best known as Bobby on "The Brady Bunch") who lives in a village where everything is pointcd. The landscape, wildlife and architecture all bear points. The townsfolk even have pointy heads. Oblio, however, was born with a round head. Though he is a polite and well-regardbanished from the village amid concerns that his roundness will corrupt the town's moral fiber. Oblio and his dog Arrow must then adventure through the sinister Pointless Forest.

"The Point" was adapted from a story by singer-songwriter Harry Nilsson. who also performed the original songs, including the memorable "Me and My Arrow." Simple, appealing animation, a solid, meaningful story ed member of the community, he is and an unprefentious tone make. The Point" a winner whose message of tolerance rings with poignancy today

Muldoon thankful for 'Days' work

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Just a few years ago Patrick Muldoon was attending the University of South em California on a football scholarship and preparing for law school But Muldoon was bitten by the acting bug and his life took a different path.

Just one year after graduating from USC. Muldoon has become one of the hottest male stars in daytime television Starring as the street-wise but big heart ed Austin Reed on "Days of Our Lives." Muldoon has given new meaning to the phrase "soap opera hunk"

"Days" has a loval fan tollowing and the fans were quick to accept the talented Muldoon. "In the beginning it was kind of strange for all these people to want to know about me. The says "It still blows my mind sometimes

The young actor has settled into his new home on "Days" and is grateful for the opportunity to work. "My life has changed drastically over the last year. says Muldoon. "I get up earlier, and I have a job to go to every day Before this job I went from one acting job to another, and then I would have to wait a few months for the next job to come along. It is nice to have a consistent place to work.

Daytime is an excellent training ground for a vounger actor. There is so much to learn from the people who work here, especially the ones who have been here a long time. The place runs like a machine, and it amazes me how much is accomplished each day."

Working in daytime means long hours for Muldoon, so how does he kick back and relax? He goes to acting classes. I am involved in an acting studio, and that pretty much takes up all my time off." He does take some time to get together with a group friends and jam They have a small band called Hard News, "but it is all just for fun-

Muldoon lives in what he calls a box." but there is a reason for that People would be surprised to know what a slob I am," says Muldoon If you saw my dressing room or home you would understand. I'm not the neatest guy in the world, so I am happy to have four walls, a desk, stereo and bed. There is a lot less for me to clean up
