Deal expands township park

An agreement has paved the way to expand a Plymouth Township park. Plans first called to develop the parcel, but now a portion will be spared. The school district had held the land as a possible future school site.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth Township park will expand, by an action approved by township trustees last week.

The township administration had long sought to buy from the Plymouth Canton Community Schools land just north of the township park, at Ann Arbor Trail and McClumpha.

The school district had held the land for potential use as an elementary school site, if population growth suggested such building.

But after deciding the land wouldn't be used for a school, school officials considered selling the land to the township, which wanted it badly to expand the park.

But because the township didn't have the money to buy the land, and an attempt to win a government grant to buy it failed, school officials eventually opted to sell the 17.1-acre site to a developer, Michael Horowitz.

On Tuesday, the township board of trustees approved a plan calling for the east half of the site to be used for 18 house lots, and the west side added to the township park.

"I think this is a classic case study of everybody being flexible and being reasonable," said Trustee Charles Curmi.

Trustee Ron Griffith said, "I think they did a remarkable job salvaging a piece of land that has a lot of trees on it."

"There were numerous meetings between all parties," township public services director James Anulewicz recalled. "It was finally determined between the developer and the school district, they worked out a solution advantageous to all parties, and citizens were part of the process," he added.

Anulewicz said a path system will probably be devised for the wooded area to be added to the park.

Rezoning was sought to allow house construction in an area zoned a public lands district.

Mature trees on the wooded parcel being added to the park are mostly beech with basswood, maples and oaks.

Because most trees are 30 inches or more around, "these specimens are very likely to exceed 100 years of age," according to township planner Tod Kilroy.

The developer is considering starting construction on the houses this year, township planners said.

Because the land being rezoned is deemed public land, the rezoning takes effect in one month.

The sale price for the land parcel has yet to be negotiated, a spokeswoman for the developer said.

Fraser recalls UAW

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Former UAW president Doug Fraser told a group of Plymouth community leaders on Thursday that opposition in Congress to the North American Free Trade Agreement should succeed.

"Opponents have a very emotional, easy-to-understand argument: 'It's going to cost us jobs.'"

"All they do is keep saying that over and over," Fraser said.

Now a professor in the labor studies department at Wayne State University, Fraser was invited to speak at a lunch meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth, at the Roundtable Club downtown.

In the NAFTA battle, "I think both sides are sincere," he said. Pro-NAFTA forces, he said, make a point by saying that in 15-20 years U.S. companies will be able to more easily sell products to more affluent Mexican consumers, if the agreement passes.

"I know the labor movement has vigorously opposed it; it's out of fear," Fraser said.

Fraser said he was confident that UAW leaders will get members, possibly this week, to ratify the contract negotiated last week with Ford Motor Co.

Most of Fraser's remarks centered on his time spent as UAW president, from 1977-1983.

A highlight of the period was an agreement in which the federal government agreed to make loans to Chrysler Corp. to keep the auto company from failing. Fraser was also the first UAW president invited to sit on the board of a Big Three automaker, Chrysler.

Fraser said the initial problem of auto companies in the '70s was the huge rise in gas prices.

As consumers turned to small cars, U.S. companies weren't ready, and that allowed Japanese car makers to grab a big market share.

"GM had the Vega and Ford had Pinto, and both of them were dogs," Fraser said. "It took a hell of a long time to recover."

"Japanese cars were of excellent quality; there was no question about it, and we suffered in comparison," Fraser said.

Of the government loan deal that saved Chrysler, Fraser said, "The idea that Iacocca did it is a myth," adding that sacrifices were made by unions as well as bankers and others.

"It was people working together to save the Chrysler Corp.," he said.

While Fraser said some had the perception that it was natural for the auto industry to go the way of the domestic TV industry, this couldn't happen as so many are employed supporting the auto industry.

For example, there are 24,800 franchised U.S. auto dealers and a $22-billion payroll to support them, Fraser said.

"That shows you the enormity of the auto industry and the importance of turning things around," he said.

The auto industry formed joint labor-management committees and worked to get quality up. Now, "There is not enough difference in quality (between Japanese and American cars) to base a purchase decision on," Fraser said.

"Last year we took 2 percent of the market away from the Japanese, and that's huge," he said.

"We've turned the corner; we've hit the bottom," he said.

Local charities unite on the way to $520,000 goal

BY KEVIN BROWN

Plymouth Community United Way has kicked off its 1993 Campaign, and seeks to raise $520,000.

"For 50 years the Plymouth Community United Way has been there in time of need for our community's residents and workers," said Don Keller, 1993 Campaign chairman.

The campaign opened Aug. 1 with the Pacesetter Campaign. Plymouth Community United Way director Marie Morrow said companies willing to increase their donations and run their campaigns early contribute at this time.

During that Aug. 1-Sept. 1 period, "We reached about 5 percent of the goal," Morrow said.

Money raised by the Plymouth Community United Way pays for operations of 15 community service agencies, including Growth Works, Plymouth Family Service, Plymouth Opportunity House and the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

"In some cases, such as local agencies, the Plymouth Community United Way support is the only United Way support they receive," Keller said.

Last year, the drive exceeded its goal of $510,000.

Keller said that this year, "We are trying to place our focus on new firms that have come into town and we're trying to have additional company employee campaigns and spread our base of contributors."

Keller, who has worked the last four years on the campaign team, said, "I've always been active in community activities and believe very strongly in the philosophy of United Way."

He said that by contributing to United Way, "You can help many more agencies than you could ever do alone."

The Sept. 1 kickoff of the 1993

Campaign was marked with an event at the Mayflower Meeting House.

Organizers said about 60 percent of the annual campaign funds are raised through appeals to Plymouth industry, with the rest coming as a result of donation cards passed out to employees of other Plymouth firms.

The campaign runs through November. A campaign closing event happens traditionally in December.

Morrow said now that the fall festival is over, the traditional sign showing contributions to date during the campaign will be erected in Kellogg Park downtown.

Treatment month recognized

Personalized Nursing Light House of Plymouth, which provides a recovery program for those who've faced alcohol and drug abuse, celebrated National Alcohol and Drug Treatment Month with an open house Friday, with State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, scheduled to attend.

The open house is part of a month-long public awareness campaign to highlight local resources, suggest ways to increase community involvement, and focus on a need for quality treatment, said Joseph Paliwoda, PNLH associate vice president of operations.

"The most important fact established by the scores of outcome studies conducted in the past 15 years is that alcohol and drug abuse treatment work," said Dr. Edward Senay of the department of psychiatry, University of Chicago.

PNLH offers a licensed and accredited substance abuse treatment program.

The Plymouth Train Show returns Sunday, Oct. 3, to the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer, offering a day of family fun.

Thousands of toy trains and accessories will be on view and available for sale. The show features more than 100 dealer tables of new, used and antique toy trains. Refreshments will also be available.

Show hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is $3 per person and $1 for kids under 12 with an adult. For more information, call 455-2030.

'Robin Hood' money returning

The Plymouth Canton schools which are expected to receive an additional $2.6 million in state aid could also be in line for another bonus, the return of $737,888 in "Robin Hood" money, according to State Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth.

The money has been held in escrow for two years, said Vorva, who added: "We are pleased to see a major portion of the Robin Hood money coming back where it belongs. As an advocate of the need for proper school funding in the past and as an opponent of unnecessary school millage, I have worked hard to get these funds returned."

Under a provision of Public Act 108 of 1991, better known as tax-base sharing or Robin Hood, 50 percent of tax revenue growth from commercial and industrial expansion in richer school districts was to be shared with poorer districts.

The Macomb County Taxpayers Association obtained a restraining order to prevent the funds from being distributed, and the money has been held in escrow by the Oakland and Wayne county school districts pending resolution of a suit before the Michigan Supreme Court.

"With the elimination of property taxes as a base for school funding, the tax-base sharing provision isn't even relevant," Vorva said. "This year's school aid funding bill includes a repeal of the Robin Hood laws."

Funds will be returned to the districts that have contributed to the escrow account as soon as legislation is passed to release them. Because the school aid act is an appropriations bill, the Attorney General's Office has ruled the repeal language is not adequate to free the money.

"I have met with community representatives and Governor John Engler to discuss the philosophy of equity in school funding," Vorva said.

Canton wants feds to deliver post office

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Progress is slow, but no one is giving up the idea of getting a full-service post office for Canton.

"We decided we would carry on with the petitions," said Canton trustee Bob Shefferly, co-chairman of the relatively new Essential Services Committee. "We're trying to get as many signatures as we can."

The committee has approximately 1,600 signatures — plenty more than the 500 suggested by Wayne-Westland Postmaster Florence Richardson.

"Our intent isn't with seeing a building with Canton on it. We're interested in providing services to residents," said Township Supervisor Tom Yack.

Committee members plan to wage an all-out effort to solicit even more petition signatures, designed to show postal officials the amount of public support for a post office. High School Close-Up students will distribute petitions.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce also will get involved, Shefferly said.

A petition available for signatures is in township hall at the reception desk where Doris Kelley sits. A sign is posted nearby.

Some members plan to make a presentation of the community's case for a post office at the committee's next meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 14, in the supervisor's conference room on the third floor of township hall.

"We want to knock their socks off," Yack said, referring to postal officials.

Yet committee members have encountered some stumbling blocks with the postal system. They've had a hard time getting answers to questions, let alone support for the effort. "We're not getting too much cooperation. At least we can't see it," Shefferly said.

Yack and other committee members have tried contacting officials in the postal system with little response. Their next step is to talk to Vernita Martin, district manager for the Detroit postal district. "We're hopeful she will be more tolerant and understanding because she is a resident of Canton," Shefferly said.

Martin told the Observer she can't discuss the issue until she has talked with Yack and other committee members.

As far as committee members understand, postal officials want to expand the Wayne-Westland post office instead of giving Canton its own facility. "We think part of this is emotional. We think a community needs pride and one thing is that the federal government needs to recognize a community," Shefferly said.

With a population of more than 60,000, committee members think Canton needs a full-service post office. The office in the Harvard Square shopping center at Ford and Sheldon roads is a finance branch that offers basic postal services, such as sales of stamps and money orders. The other postal finance office is in Meijer at Ford and Canton Center roads.

Postmaster Richardson of Wayne-Westland apparently told committee members that her post office is at capacity and cannot add one more Canton route. Mail carriers would like an office closer than Westland on Wayne Road, as well, according to committee members.

Committee members also are working to have the finance center in Harvard Square moved from its existing location to somewhere closer to Arbor Drugs where more room and parking is available.

Many communities smaller than Canton have full-service post offices. In Wayne County, Canton ranks fourth in population with only Detroit, Livonia, Westland and Taylor exceeding it. In the surrounding area, communities with full-service post offices include Belleville, Garden City, Plymouth and Plymouth Township. These communities have smaller populations.

Engler sells out Economic Club speech

If you were interested in hearing what Gov. John Engler has to say when he stops in Canton, you're out of luck.

"We're sold out," said Bryan Amann, president of the Canton Economic Club, which is featuring Engler as the guest speaker Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Three hundred guests will be on hand to hear Engler at the monthly club's kickoff luncheon at St. John Neumann Catholic Church, 44800 Warren. Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack is expected to introduce the governor.

"My guess is he is going to be talking about property taxes," Amann said, referring to Engler.

The club's season will boast high-profile speakers such as Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, as well as economist David Sowerby. Amann is trying to get Vice President Al Gore to speak, as well as Detroit mayoral candidate and former Michigan Supreme Court Justice Dennis Archer.

He is also working on coordinating the Democratic candidates for Michigan governor at the end of the club's season in spring 1994.

WHO CARES FOR YOUR ARTHRITIS

Doctors treat illness, but the responsibility for maintaining health is yours.

How does this approach apply to arthritis?

First is weight and nutrition. No foods or dietary supplements make your arthritis better or worse. What helps is appropriate weight combined with eating habits that reflect your need for protein, calories, vitamins and fiber. Food preferences can be as personal as fingerprints. Finding what fits you comes from your experience, not from a sheet your doctor hands you.

Second is the balance between rest and activity. The contradiction is that you must take more repose and at the same time remain active. Fatigue from impaired joints requires you to take extra rest. Stiffness from inflamed joints demands that you move frequently. No doctor can tell you how to reconcile your daily living conditions with these conflicting needs.

Third is attitude: you need to balance caution with confidence. You should avoid goals beyond the capability of your joints, while forgoing self-pity that would result in a sullen withdrawal from society. No doctor can prescribe mood elevating drugs that would substitute for your own reasoned judgement on this matter.

Who cares for your arthritis? Many people do, but the person of most importance is you.

Crews get fired up for mock disaster

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

What would Plymouth Township firefighters and police do if a small airplane crashed into the Ford Motor Co. plant on Sheldon Road, threatening the release of hazardous materials?

That was the reason for a drill Wednesday from 8 a.m. to noon.

Firefighters and police, and other members of the township hazardous-materials team, knew a drill was scheduled for Wednesday. But to more accurately measure their response, the site and extent of a potential disaster were kept secret until the drill began.

By 9 a.m., incident commander Capt. Fredrick Honke and some other emergency personnel stationed in the Ford plant parking lot were shooping reporters asked to participate — to make the drill more lifelike — back to the command center at the township police station.

Emergency personnel were in the parking lot because "we can't go check it," Honke said, as the potential danger had yet to be determined. Meanwhile, they waited for the arrival of special suits that would provide protection near a potential hazardous-chemical release site.

Until determining the extent of the potential danger, the area from Six Mile Road on the north to Ann Arbor Road on the south, and Ridge on the west to Haggerty on the east, would be cordoned off, officials said.

That area was determined by a formula, which early in the drill pegged the situation as a "code 4" emergency.

By 9:40 a.m. back at the township police station, clerk Marilyn Massengill — public information officer in the drill — reported, "The place is on fire. We're not going in until they can go in safely."

By 10:10 a.m., she reported that about 100 people deemed to be injured by the release of a chemical stored at the plant "have been transported to five hospitals."

The "injured" were complaining of dizziness and nausea, Massengill said.

By 10:30 a.m., a secondary "explosion" was reported, involving a liquid nitrogen derivative. The plant by now had been evacuated.

As the drill continued, "We have contacted Detroit water and sewer," Massengill said, to report "contamination" of water lines.

The "pilot" of the small plane that "crashed" into the plant was determined to be killed.

By 11:20, an all-clear was sounded, ending the drill.

The drill was organized by Charles VanVleck, administrative assistant to the fire chief and deputy emergency management coordinator.

While township officials were to meet today to assess the performance of those participating in the drill, VanVleck said Friday the drill went "great."

"We accomplished more than I expected," he said. "The reviews I'm giving back so far for the most part are, 'We're very happy with the outcome.'"

"The best thing about it is it gives a chance for police and fire to work together in the field simulating an actual hazardous-material incident," he said.

Old school provides home for service agency, day care

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

The historic Sheldon School on Michigan Avenue will soon become home to Child and Family Services as administrative and training offices and a part-time adult day-care facility.

"We've been negotiating and working with them all along," said Canton trustee Melissa McLaughlin, a member of the historic district and planning commissions.

A lease has been drafted, though not signed. But the social service agency, funded by Senior Alliance, is expected to move into the building by Oct. 1.

Two programs actually will occupy the 3,000-square-foot building. One called Canton Adult Day Care will serve Alzheimer-type clients 1-5 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The second program, called Learn and Care, will provide workshops to care givers, senior citizen centers and day care centers. Topics will include legal empowerment, stress management and hands-on care, said Cindy Lockman, adult day-care services director.

Canton planning commissioners recommended approval to township trustees a week ago of a special land use approval to allow the adult day care facility in the commercial zone. Canton trustees are expected to consider the issue Sept. 28.

Township planning intern Angela Wolosiewicz told planning commissioners that ordinances require a fence around the building. The fence can match the historic nature of the building. "It's an uncontrolled site there," she said, noting the building is close to Michigan Ave.

Planning commissioner Tom Sullivan questioned McLaughlin about liability at the facility because it will be used as an adult day-care facility. "In my mind it's an issue," Sullivan said.

McLaughlin, however, later said that township attorneys had reviewed the lease. "Liability is addressed in the lease so the township is protected."

Though many groups have used the former one-room Victorian-style schoolhouse thought to have been built in the 1870s, Child and Family Services is the first and only group since the building was recently restored. The building, bought by the township in 1987 for $70,000, served earlier as home to a Baptist Church and the latest, as a motorcycle gang clubhouse.

Separate building on the property, known as the auction house and later used as the Sheldon Dance Hall, was demolished after it was determined to be decrepit and costly to restore. McLaughlin said she had hoped that building could have been used as a teen recreation center.

Federal Community Development Block Grant money, as well as some township money, was used to restore the schoolhouse in the historic Sheldon Corners district.

"It was pretty rough. It wasn't as rough as the Cherry Hill schoolhouse, but it was rough," McLaughlin said, referring to the Sheldon school.

Minor carpentry and landscaping remains to be completed at the schoolhouse. But otherwise, the building is ready for occupancy.

McLaughlin said. "Eighteen months ago, we began to brainstorm on ideas as to who could use it."

Child and Family Services will pay rent to the commission, which by law is required to use that money for maintenance and upkeep of the schoolhouse. "We can't take money from the schoolhouse and put it into something else, like the (historic) Travis House," McLaughlin said.

The schoolhouse sits back from Michigan Avenue, west of Sheldon Road, in the heart of Sheldon Corners, which received a historic designation from the state.

Some of the work on the house included a new roof, some asbestos removal, as well as fixing the basement, which was full of water. Work also was completed on the interior and exterior of the building, as well.

Originally, the idea was to provide food service — through Meals on Wheels — to the senior adults who will be at the schoolhouse. "We were told they didn't have the capacity to absorb the additional meals," McLaughlin said.

Child and Family Services later determined it wouldn't be safe to install a kitchenette at the schoolhouse, she added.

LINDA BACHRACK

Personalize your presents

In this age of high-tech computers and fax machines and the dreaded voice mail, we've lost much of our personal identity. How many times are we distinguished by number instead of by name? Rarely do we have the opportunity to talk to a real live person anymore. Monotone recordings have replaced the friendly, helpful voice that talks back.

Alas, there is a way to put a little individuality back into our lives. We can give a special gift that is customized for a specific personality, a keepsake created "just for you."

Add a name

Golden Unicorn Gifts, 329 Main Street in Rochester, specializes in unusual personalized gift items. Much of the merchandise in the store can be personalized on the spot by artists Chamaine Sharp and Alli Perkowski. I watched as Chamaine transformed a plain kelly green photo album into a work of art with the detailed drawing of a gold and white unicorn. The addition of hand calligraphy further enhances the book. Chamaine and Alli have their own workspace set up in the store and can help with your gift selections and offer ideas for personalization. They prefer to work with familiar stock items to guarantee their results.

A book of custom designs includes sport motifs, zoo animals and nursery characters. And their color palette is "like a Crayola crayon box," says Chamaine. They can coordinate with almost any decor.

Kids love giving birthday presents that convey their friends' names and hobbies. Choose from lunch boxes, acrylic clipboards, portfolios and canteens. Bulletin boards are popular for teens. Decorate with a school name and mascot and "Class of . . ."

Hand-painted pictures by Personal Preference are available to customize as you like. For example, the soccer scene includes an athlete, a ball and a goalpost. The Golden Unicorn artists personalize the setting with names, dates, team victories, etc.

The scene pictured illustrates an old-fashioned cozy kitchen with wooden table, cabinets, place settings, rug and various kitchen utensils. Add family member names, personal notes on the refrigerator, the family cat and special foods and knickknacks, and you've created Grandma's kitchen and a memorable keepsake (8 by 10 is $15 and 11 by 14 is $20). "You're only limited by your imagination," says store owner, Denise Therkalsen. Baby gifts also abound at Golden Unicorn.

Ceramic mobiles are $22 and the hanging figures can be painted with baby's name, date of birth and weight ($3 to personalize). Wooden clothes hangers are customized with hand-painted borders. "One girl bought an outfit to match the hanger for a baby present," said Therkalsen. Also, note the charming banks and music boxes.

Monogram messages

Monograms give an identity to any number of practical gift ideas. Debbie Payne of Bloomfield Hills enjoys a successful monogram business operated out of her home office. "If you need a gift for any age group, Debbie has an idea," said Betsy Coats of Birmingham. She enlists Payne's expertise for baby blankets ($20-$25) and book bags.

Payne stocks woven white receiving blankets, sweatshirts and towels, and her computerized monogram machine can decorate these staples with names, holiday designs and appliques in a myriad of colors.

Backpacks, school bags, laundry bags and aprons are ideal for monograms. Take her your plain purchase and she'll make it special. A large orange pumpkin, for example, dresses up a solid black sweatshirt, as does an abstract red and blue sailboat on a white shirt. High school and college names emblazon run-of-the-mill sweats. And Payne adds sport-themed appliques.

Her most unusual request? A pair of Jockey underwear with Dick Purtan's first name embroidered a bit indelicately across the front (3-letter monograms $5-$6, designs $8). Call 737-4267 for more information.

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her column ideas at 953-2047, mailbox 1889 or fax them to her at 644-1314.

Storyteller: Jim Harper of WOMC radio reads "The Teacher from the Black Lagoon" to a spellbound audience last week at the Fairlane Town Center. Harper and his morning crew have hosted Storybook Sunday at the mall since its debut last year.

What happens next? Children and parents both seem to be enjoying the story at Fairlane Town Center.

Mall has a few good tales to tell

Center court at Fairlane Mall becomes a mini theater Sunday afternoons when little lovers of literature gather to hear their favorite morning radio crew take turns reading classic children's books.

They wiggled down to business as the story teller opened his book.

"You know they sit right in front of me and they stare right at me, but you can tell their imaginations have taken them far, far away," said Jim Harper, morning radio personality and chief reader at Fairlane Mall's Storybook Sundays. "The remarkable way these children's books are written makes them especially good to read out loud. It's a lot like when you were a kid and the teacher would read to the class. Wow. That was cool."

Harper and other members of the WNIC Breakfast Club staff rotate reading to the crowd that gathers in the center court each Sunday at 1 p.m. Other readers are Steve Gannon, Linda Lanci, Chris Edmunds, Stacey DuFord, Gene Maxwell and Lori Bennett. Last week it was Harper's turn to do a couple back-to-school favorites, "The Teacher From The Black Lagoon" and "Sam's Sandwich." The audience varies from 100 to 1,600 children, depending on the time of year. After the stories are read, children hand in book reports to show mall marketing director Linda McIntosh that they love to read.

The kids get plastic tokens for each book report they hand in, redeemable for 25 cents-off merchandise in the mall. Book report forms are available at each session. On the top of the form is a picture of program mascot, Fergie, a 7-foot tall green and purple dinosaur who loves to work the crowd before and after the readings.

"We just passed our first-year anniversary with this program and we plan to continue it for another year," McIntosh explained. "The librarians who run similar reading programs for children in the summer months just love what we're doing because we send kids to the library. They want to check out the books they've heard, and they want to get others for their book reports."

Members of the audience come from all over metro Detroit to participate in Storybook Sunday. A sampling of the front row included children from Ypsilanti, Warren, Garden City, Troy and Southfield.

"We're regulars," said Lillie Johns of Ypsilanti and son Logan, 8. "He likes to read, but getting the tokens is an added incentive. I'm a preschool teacher who knows a worthwhile program when she sees one."

Jane Hysell of Allen Park agreed. "We come every Sunday we can," she said. "One of Jason's favorite

The Sears at Oakland Mall in Troy has begun a Models Club for girls it hopes to also launch at the Lakeside and Fairlane stores.

Registration is under way and girls 8-17 years old are welcome to attend - the only requirement is an interest in fashion.

"The Sears Models Club is designed and open to girls of all races, nationalities, weights, heights, religions, as well as any girl that might qualify as an individual with a disability," said Tracy Ridenour of Birmingham, the director. "The program is not designed as a competitive program, but rather is designed to improve the self confidence of all girls that enroll in these sessions."

The classes will be taught by the mother-daughter team of Ridenour and Lorraine Schultz. Schultz used to direct a Detroit model agency. Coordinators for the program at other Sears locations are being sought. Sears Models Clubs have been successful in the Florida and east coast markets for the past two years. Now the Midwest Sears will have the program.

New retail programs focus on community

What's new in the malls and main streets? Several unusual programs, products and purveyors have arrived in time for fall.

Target, Hudson's and Mervyn stores will display reference copies of "Choosing Family Child Care" throughout September. Order free copies by calling the National Council of Jewish Women, 1-800-622-NCJW.

The stores will also collect entry forms from families who want to thank their child-care providers with a sweepstakes drawing for $100 gift certificates. The top half of the entry form can be redeemed for free gifts by child-care providers. This program will run through Sept. 25 in all Children's Departments.

Gymboree Shop

A Gymboree children's clothing store has opened near center court in Laurel Park Place in Livonia. The clothing is primarily 100 percent cotton active wear, featuring "growth cuffs" on pants and sleeves. There is also a Gymboree store in Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

Salute to Livonia

The recent Livonia Mall Celebrity Auction raised $22,000 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The auction lasted until midnight, but it was well worth it, according to mall manager Jeanne Hildebrandt. "We were up $5,000 over last year," she said. Hildebrandt and auction organizer Bill Checks, the mall's marketing director, appeared on the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to present the check.

Fragrance debuts

Jacobson's has expanded its Hermes Collection with the Hermes line of fragrances. For women, Caleche, Amazone and Parfum d'Hermes is now available. For men, Equipage and Bel Ami, and for men and women Eau de Cologne Hermes. The line includes body products for women and aftershave lotions for men.

The store will also carry the new Valentino fragrance Vendetta, a floral oriental, and Vendetta Pour Homme, a woody scent.

Hudson's has announced a partnership with Christians United in Business Endeavors (C.U.B.E.) for a program called Genesis Ventures.

GV will create 100 jobs for disadvantaged youths, 15-21 years old, after training them in computer lab and creative design to package gifts including T-shirts, hats, greeting cards and food baskets.

Fresh fruit packages ordered from Hudson's Marketplaces during the holidays, will be put together and delivered by GV employees. Cosmetic and fragrance baskets will also be assembled by this group. Customers will note special labels on the packages that indicate GV participation.

This year's Neiman Marcus Christmas Catalog is out with unusual gifts in all price ranges. Retail Marketing Services Inc. is offering a free service to retailers considering a move into Detroit market. It's a half-hour overview of the demographics, economics, retailing and infrastructure of southeast Michigan. The WNIC staff receives no financial compensation for their book interpretations, but gets lots of hugs and wide eyes of appreciation.

"This is the age of instant gratification with television and the electronic games craze," reasoned Harper. "But, reading is the oldest form of entertainment and it's important that a love of books and the written word remains a part of our culture. These 37 intimate and beautiful paintings are favorites from the extraordinary private collection of Richard and Jane Manoogian, but for just a short time they're on public view, at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Opening night: The neon lights shine bright for first night at the newest jewel in the Ilitch crown, The Second City — Detroit.

First night jitters bypass Second City

BY BOB SADLER
SPECIAL WRITER

The laughter was so uproarious last week at the premiere of The Second City — Detroit, it could have knocked the fresh paint right off the walls.

At the actual first performance on Wednesday (Thursday's gala opening featured appearances by John Candy and George Wendt and a live preview show on WDIV-TV), there was quite a buzz in the lobby about the transformation of the former Hughes & Hatcher building into a theater, restaurant and bar.

As loud as that buzz was, the buzz got even louder when Detroit mayoral candidate Sharon McPhail made the scene. Despite her best attempts to just be a mom rooting for her daughter, Angela Shelton, a member of the cast, she was swamped by television reporters within seconds of her arrival.

From the overall appearances of things, it looks like the Chinese fire drill construction job worked out just fine in this latest Ilitch family venture, much like the rapid assembly of Tiger Plaza at Michigan and Trumbull — completed just before the first pitch on opening day. In comparing the theater digs at Woodward and Montcalm to the other Second City stages in Chicago and Toronto, Detroit stands alone.

"They (those in Chicago and Toronto) would be envious, of course," said Lyn Okkerse, producer of The Second City — Detroit and the person responsible for preparing the cast for the opening. "But you didn't hear me say that."

Once seated in the 350-seat theater, the anticipation really began to build. To borrow the overused cliché, there isn't a bad seat in the house. The cabaret-style seating is arranged in a seven-tiered semi-circle, so that tall people in front don't obstruct the view and no one is more than 35 feet from the stage.

A computer glitch in the Risata (Italian for "to laugh" by the way) restaurant Wednesday caused some late dinners, which in turn led to later seating in the theater. As a result, the nervous cast had to wait an additional 40 minutes to go on stage with their first revue, entitled — in typical Second City fashion — "Power to the People Mover."

Alligators: Singing the blues

For The Alligators, perseverance is paying off. Although they've yet to be signed to a record deal, the group has found plenty of enthusiastic blues freaks in the metro area who like their sound.

BY MARK GALLO
SPECIAL WRITER

Blues has been slandered and ignored by the mainstream music-buying public for decades, but it just doesn't go away.

The Alligators know all about perseverance. During the past nine years, since forming out of the ashes of Houndstooth Jones, they've grown into one of the strongest draws in the area, both for blues cognoscenti and dancers alike.

Certainly, it's an advantage to have some of the most knowledgeable and enthusiastic blues freaks in town banded together, but this is a band that comes fully equipped with chops and substance, too.

"This band got together about the same time Stevie Ray Vaughan came out of the chute," remembers vocalist/frontman Dave Kramer. "All of a sudden blues was becoming popular."

The problem was the first incarnation of the band just wasn't cutting it for Kramer, particularly in light of the exposure that Vaughan, Robert Cray, the Fabulous Thunderbirds and other bands were bringing to the genre. Reshuffling was in order.

"Once Wailin' came in, the thing went from being a sappy R&B/top 40 blues band to something with a little more substance, a little more heart," he said. "He used to show up at my house on a Friday night with an arm load of album and say, 'Here, learn this. This is the blues.' He educated me."

STREET BEATS

Fast approaching 42, Kramer's been at this since he was 13 years old, but he defers to Wailin' Dale and guitar sensation Steve Schwarz as the resident blues professors in the ranks. He's the first to admit that it took a lot of hard work, little bit of luck to arrive at the enviable position of one of the local pillars.

"We've worked hard," he said. "Some of the changes have been painful . . ."

"And then the scene's changed, too," added Dale. "At first you could go out and do all the blues hits — 'I'm a Man,' 'King Bee,' 'Hoochie Coochie Man,' 'Sweet Home Chicago.' Well, you can't do that stuff anymore. Through the years, we've evolved into doing more originals."

Adds Kramer: "The scene has definitely matured with a lot of bands coming on, and with the maturity of the scene and the fact that we've been able to stick, that forces you to become more creative; forces you to adopt an attitude where you listen to a Stevie Ray Vaughan or a Thunderbirds, or any of these contemporary, relatively new acts and say, 'yeah, that's cool stuff.'"

"Then you realize, 'Why sound like them?' Sound like yourself, so people listen to you! I don't want to be compared to anybody. I want people to say, 'Hey, there's the Alligators! I think our sound is unique. There aren't a lot of people around who do it the way we do it.'"

"I have yet to find a band that functions anywhere near the level of this one," said Robert "R.D." Jones, a veteran of the local legends, the Progressive Blues Band.

Drummer Mark Seyler Jr. attributes much of the band's success to their familial relationship, and attempting a discussion with the band is to expect answers from all corners.

"We have a nice base of some traditional Chicago and swing," Seyler said. Dale finishes for him, "We try to be a more diverse group instead of just doing, like Chicago blues. For awhile, we got into a few ruts, but we want to be a danceable blues band instead of a drinking blues band."

There aren't many bands who belong in the same category with the Alligators who are without a recording contract. To a man, this is a band on a mission. Guitarist Schwarz brings to mind West Coast heroes like Junior Watson and Joel Foy; bassist Jones is one of the busiest, walking-est players I've heard; Seyler works a shuffle and second line riff as tight as any drummer out there.

The appropriately monikered Wailin' Dale has no problem with pulling a cord through the crowd or standing on a chair and earning a nickname; and Kramer infuses everything with an electric soulfulness that works crowds in some of the best and least known clubs in the area into a frenzy. This band is the real deal.

"This is a music of emotion," Kramer said. "Let's face it, playing blues is an emotional style of music. Blues is born of emotion, it's carried by the emotions and it touches the emotions of all the people you're with. I think about this all the time. I want to be doing this when I'm 67 years old."

The Alligators will perform Oct. 1 at Stan's Dugout, 3350 Auburn Road, Auburn Hills. Call 852-6433 for more information. They will also perform Oct. 8-9 at the Rivertown Saloon, 1977 Woodbridge, Detroit (567-6020); Oct. 22 at Moby Dick's, 5452 Schaefer, Dearborn (581-3650); Oct. 23 at Red Doggy, 449 N. Main, Milford (685-2171); and Oct. 29 at the Soup Kitchen Saloon, 1585 Franklin, Detroit (259-1374).

Spectacle serves up a mellow 'light rock'

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

For Spectacle, the term "light rock" doesn't mean the type of the music patients would hear in a doctor's office, or visitors would hear in an elevator.

It's the type of music that the Dearborn-based quartet prefers and cares to share with its audience.

"It's the type of music that's mellow and soothing," said drummer Eric Campbell who cites Lollapalooza side-stage veterans Sebadoh as another example.

"I don't like music with a hard edge; I like music that massages my brain. For me, that tends to be beautiful-sounding stuff," he added.

Campbell and the rest of Spectacle — vocalist/guitarist Travis Hawthorne and bassist Nicholas Sheren, both of Dearborn, and guitarist Loren Jackson of Livonia — don't compromise any musical preferences for Spectacle. They carry their direct influences into their music. Recently, they showcased their wavering, melancholy-guitar sound on the CD "Developing in a World Without Sound" on Royal Oak's Constellation Records.

Although released in late summer, the group's CD, its first, has already received positive reviews from area

Writing advice column can have its ups, downs

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Readers, Recently, I was invited to give a talk about what it is like to write an advice column. I spoke to a group of psychotherapists who wondered about the pitfalls, and joys, of responding to people when little is known about them. Those to whom I spoke are accustomed to understanding people intimately before they give advice. I want to share that talk with you today.

call, responding with comments that might prove me right, but would be hurtful to the writer or caller, or putting my own feelings of injury aside and responding with as much warmth and support as is possible.

This last case creates the greatest tension, because while it is important to be supportive, it is as important to stay within the boundaries of what is valid, rejecting the distortions and denials that were present in some vitriolic defenses. Although I am careful and thoughtful in my replies, I don't always have good answers.

Sometimes, letters and calls are received which are pure propaganda for that person's position. I try not to allow this column to be used to promote unbalanced positions. Although such letters are often entertaining and even stimulating, they could hurt the reader by swaying the naive or unknowledgeable. To this end, value judgements must be made, always tempered by respect for the writer, no matter his or her position.

The goal and the struggle is to do what is best for the reader. It is with humility that I consistently find how much more there is to learn and how little I know. The joy of responding is greatest, when every now and then someone writes or calls to say yes, they understand my meaning, thanking me because they have learned something.

All of you who take the time and trouble to share your thoughts and opinions are co-authors of this column. You are fulfilling your civic responsibility to return a piece of yourselves to the community which supports you. It is upon your generosity of spirit that the success of this column truly rests.

Barbara

In last week's column answering criticism to an opinion about a patient asking a therapist to a party, should have read: "I am expecting someone to call to say that his or her therapist accepted a gift or attended a party without interference to his or her therapy. A call, complaining that a therapist's refusal to do so, creates hostility in the relationship is as likely."

'Innocence:' A Scorsese masterpiece

By JOHN MONAGHAN
STAFF WRITER

With "The Age of Innocence," Martin Scorsese proves himself the true Renaissance man of American movies. Who else could follow up a nasty thriller like "Cape Fear" with such a sumptuously romantic and genteel study of New York City in the 1870s?

Daniel Day-Lewis plays Newland Archer, a wealthy, cultivated man who questions the rules of polite society but is also tied to them. His frustration mounts with the arrival of his fiancée's cousin, the Countess Ellen Olenska (Michelle Pfeiffer), who has left her philandering husband and now seeks a divorce.

The idea is scandalous to the Countess' family and the other pillars of high society, especially since the Count has made accusations of his own. Newland, as her legal counsel, successfully talks her out of the divorce, but in the process finds himself hopelessly drawn to her.

Unlike the steamy stories of obsessive lust that usually fill the screen, "The Age of Innocence" focuses on stifled passion and unrequited love. It replaces NC-17 sex scenes with tasteful shots of Newland slowly unbuttoning the Countess' glove and ravaging her wrist.

Visually, the movie is a stunner. Few directors have this kind of control on the wide screen. When Newland examines a thin, obscenely long painting, the camera follows him along with it from end to end. A shot of Ellen at the end of a dock, gazing lazily at a sailboat in the bright yellow of midday, could easily pass for an Impressionist painting.

Like Orson Welles in "The Magnificent Ambersons," Scorsese both harkens lovingly back to the past while cleverly pointing out its foibles and sturdiness.

He effectively outlines the hierarchy of New York society and where each of the characters fit into it. Newland is justifiably paranoid about everyone at dinner knowing that he secretly loves Ellen. We share in the realization that Newland has never had control of his life.

Period details are key to "The Age of Innocence." The director revels in the customs of the 19th-century aristocracy, obsessed with the proper way to clip the tip of an expensive cigar. We are treated to each course of an elegant dinner, right down to narrated introductions of the silver and china.

Scorsese, whose movie trademark has been an unflinching fascination with violence, directs old-fashioned romance much better than you'd think. Like the early scenes in "New York, New York," he taps into the genuine magnetism between characters in love.

Perhaps, there are too many shots of fireplace logs at the moment they crumble into ash, but this adds to the movie's literary feel. The story is adapted from a novel by Edith Wharton, whose "Ethan Frome" also made a recent (and less successful) leap to the screen.

Pfeiffer, Day-Lewis and Winona Ryder (as Newland's wife May) all have period movies under their belts. Ryder is especially successful as a woman who appears one-dimensional at first glance but who, as it is ultimately revealed, has her own way of coping with the restraints of society.

Although the Maple features it on two of three screens, "The Age of Innocence" probably won't burn up the box office. While some critics have barely stifled yawns over the leisurely pacing and subtly drawn relationships, consider it among Scorsese's most fully realized works.

If you have a comment for John Monaghan, call him at 953-2047, mailbox number 1866, on a touch-tone phone, or write him care of Street Sense, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Two of the better entries in the science fiction genre. "Still" boasts credible performances from Michael Rennie and Patricia Neal as an alien and his protector (not to mention that Bernard Herrmann score). "Aliens," the high-powered sequel to the Ridley Scott original, proves why James Cameron is often called America's best action director. (Free)

"TV Cartoon Rarities," 8 p.m. Sept. 23. Animated works from the '50s and early '60s, featuring Clutch Cargo, Diver Dan, Gumby and Pokey, Beany and Cecil, Tom Terrific, Felix the Cat, and Rocky and Bullwinkle. ($3 for Thursday series)

"Gay and Lesbian Film Fest," Sept. 24-26 (call for show times). South East Michigan Pride presents a weekend of gay-related shorts and features, including the AIDS-related shorts "Relax," "R.S.V.P." and "The Dead Boys Club." "The Wedding Banquet" (Taiwan/USA — 1993). In this international hit filmed in New York, a simple wedding of convenience turns into an epic deception when the groom's parents arrive from Taiwan.

"The Age of Innocence" (USA — 1993). Martin Scorsese's heartfelt tribute to New York high society in the mid-19th century isn't nearly as schmaltzy as the previews would lead you to believe. Daniel Day-Lewis and Michelle Pfeiffer play unrequited lovers in a masterpiece of period detail and emotion.

MICHIGAN THEATER

"The Magnificent Ambersons" (USA — 1943), 7 p.m. Sept. 21-22. Orson Welles looks back to a family around the turn-of-the-century having difficulty changing with the times. Welles' second film as director was cut mercilessly by RKO, but what remains is still a treat.

"Roman Holiday" (USA — 1953), 8 p.m. Sept. 24; 2 and 8 p.m. Sept. 25 (organ overture begins a half hour before show time). Director William Wyler's delightful romantic comedy about a newspaperman (Gregory Peck) who falls for a lonely princess (Audrey Hepburn in her film debut) traveling incognito in Rome.

STAR JOHN R THEATER
John R. (at 14 Mile), Madison Heights. Call 585-2070 for show times. ($5.75; $2.95 twilight)

"Boxing Helena" (USA — 1993). The admittedly sick story — about a surgeon who amputates a woman's arms and legs in the hopes that she will become dependent on him — might have worked as a short story. The feature film, the first by David Lynch's 25-year-old daughter Jennifer, is so badly done it's almost funny.

"The Ballad of Little Jo" (USA — 1993). The story of the Western frontier as seen through the eyes of a woman, who finds her freedom by taking the identity of a man. Suzy Amis, Bo Hopkins and Ian McKellen star.

publications and reputable national magazines like Alternative Press (AP). In a recent edition, AP named the band to its sort of "dream team," saying Spectacle "floats above the Motor City's crime and grime, like angels with effects boxes and songs to make Slowdive and Pale Saints weep in their well-ogled footwear."

Campbell said that Spectacle's longtime musical desires helped mold the stellar sound.

"From the moment I wanted to do music, I wanted to create what other people made me feel when I listened to music," Campbell explained.

Hawthorne shared the same sentiment: "That feeling inside... music is so powerful. I just wanted to create that. Give them an escape."

Since Spectacle formed a 1 1/2 years ago, the band has more perfected its sound than evolved since the release of its debut single, "Monody," on band Majesty Crush's label Vulva Records.

"Every new song we write keeps growing in leaps and bounds. We go nowhere but up," Hawthorne said.

He attributes that to the sometimes eerie similarities between all the members.

"No one's in their own little world. We are a collection of four people whose minds happen to lock very well."

Spectacle will perform Friday, Oct. 1, at Finney's Pub, 3965 Woodward Ave., Detroit. For more information, call 831-8070.

Considering that cast of eight has worked together for a very short time, just taking the stage was a remarkable achievement. Seven are home grown Michigani-ans, and Suzy Nakamura, the most recent addition and a two-year veteran of The Second City National Touring Company, is from Chicago.

They were not performing any self-written, original material for this revue — that will come later with more experience and improv sets from which to draw ideas. Instead, the capacity crowd saw a sampling of the best sketches and shorts The Second City has put together in the last "thirtysome-thing" years, with enough Detroit references thrown into the existing scripts to provide a local flavor.

And it was a treat. Without revealing too many of the show's better moments (don't you just hate reviewers who do that?), let me just say that the cast showed an unexpected polish and worked as a genuine ensemble. There is no one person who outshines the others, despite the group's diversity and varying degree of stage and improv experience.

Tim Pryor of Farmington Hills and Jerry C. Minor of Fenton opened the show as two unemployed businessmen with a new vacation. Jackie Puritan of West Bloomfield, daughter of the WKQI-FM morning personality, distinguished herself in a clever "rent-a-boyfriend" sketch opposite Nakamura, which also featured Robin Bucci of Sterling Heights as a ditzy blond Bennigan's Blues Buster.

Considering that cast of eight has worked together for a very short time, just taking the stage was a remarkable achievement.

Andrew Newberg, who caught the acting bug at Rochester High School, starred in a hilarious clown sketch with Colin Ferguson of Birmingham. Shelton, was well cast as Ferguson's wife in a sketch dealing with the pros and cons of moving from Howell to Detroit.

The show moves quickly and has its share of risque and edgy humor, so be prepared. People accustomed to seeing The Second City shows in Chicago or Toronto will probably be familiar with some of the sketches, but should appreciate the sprinklings of Detroit added to keep them fresh.

Whether you're a fan of classic architecture, good food or great humor, just get to The Second City — Detroit as soon as possible.

New educational movements twist old theories

QUESTION: You have indicated, in some of your columns, that a balance is needed between so-called new educational movements and basic skill teaching. How does higher level thinking fit in? It seems I hear different views of outcome based education, the developmental process and other movements. Not all are favorable. Are these movements something new?

ANSWER: You need to understand how educational movements affect what is taught in any given era and the problems these movements get into. In the last two years, we've seen great emphasis placed on higher-level thinking and problem-solving skills. The latest theory is that students should learn basic skills in a manner more meaningful than drill and practice.

This movement means to overcome our focus on basic skill mastery as preparation for the MEAP, the Michigan Educational Assessment Program test, which gets big-time print in the newspapers every year.

But is this higher-level thinking concept a new movement? Are any movements educators come up with new or do they just rehash history? The answer, in my opinion, is that education flip-flops from one movement to another, depending on which professor wrote the latest bestseller or came up with a new twist to an old concept.

Historically, one of our greatest teachers, Socrates, believed in higher-level thinking and problem solving skills. He was an inductive reasoner. Inductive, of course, meaning, "Let's look at all the evidence, reason together and draw conclusions." Socrates would fit in well with those educators promoting higher-level thinking today.

Socrates probably felt that his students would pick up basic skills along the way. This seems to be the theory of some of our whole-language advocates today. Drill and practice are too isolated from reality, the theory goes. I doubt it. All great artists, writers, musicians and athletes drill and practice to master fundamental skills.

And remember, Socrates ended up with a drink of hemlock.

Deductive reasoning

But moving on in history, we had a deductive reasoning (stating a belief and proving it) theory, such as the medieval monks writing the "truth," as they saw it, and supporting it with data they generated. This went on for some time until the Renaissance, the renewal of thinking, of art, the revival, the back to higher-level thinking. Look at the last hundred years.

We had the industrial revolution. Education began to focus on basic math and science skills, which helped lead to the cotton gin, the automobile.

DOC DOYLE

Education for children was primarily drill and practice, the memorization of sound mechanical principles (a deductive approach).

In the 1920s, John Dewey, one of our greatest educational philosophers, believed children could learn through problem solving and higher-level thinking. Students could plan and work together on research issues. The fundamental skills would be learned along the way. He was the father of what was called core curriculum.

Today's core curriculum, as far as language study goes, is the whole-language approach. There is no difference between Dewey's theory and those of educators who believe the whole-language approach is something revolutionary. Dewey was driven out of education by those who believed his students were just having fun and not learning. The newspapers of his day labeled his educational model progressive, and they did a lot to drive off support from those who believed children need to learn the basics, first and foremost.

Today's theories

Does all this sound familiar with what is going on today? Terms such as whole-language approach and the developmental process are called insidious plots to twist and destroy children's minds. In fact, the developmental process is nothing more than a theory that says, "Take a child from where he/she is, and recognize that all individuals learn at different rates and have different learning styles (some audio learning, some more visual).

I learned about the so-called new developmental theory in my first education class in the 1950s. The professor said, "All children are unique and children learn at different paces." It wasn't a problem then because we didn't give it a label. Give anything in education a label and you've got problems. Nor did we promote it to the point that it caused confusion among teachers in a school district, many of whom were already using a developmental approach.

That is one reason that in many years as an assistant superintendent for instruction, I never promoted any theory by name. Yet, I recognized that all theories had merit if a balance was maintained.

Nothing new

In regard to your question about what is outcome-based learning, again, it is not new. I used it in my first year of teaching. The concept simply means you state measurable outcomes, such as that students will be able to multiply three digit numbers. You teach to that objective, then reteach and retest until mastery occurs and don't just pass the kid on to another teacher.

In theory it is sound; I believe in it. In reality, it still leaves us with the same problems: big class sizes, funding problems, parental distrust, etc.

The major problem with outcome-based education, in the eyes of some people, is that in some cases, it overlapped into teaching values. Regardless of what title or theory educators come up with, teaching values is believed by many people to be a responsibility of the home.

So don't get thrown on new titles in education. Children who become good learners use both thinking skills and drill and practice for perfection, and children are great survivors of titles given to educational concepts.

Schools of choice can update our education

From mounting foreign trade deficits to the continued export of jobs, economic realities threaten the fabric of our society. The challenge is obvious. We need to prepare our children to prosper in a global marketplace.

Many say our American education system — once the envy of the world — isn't up to the task: the list of charges is quite long, low SAT scores, poor math and sciences skills compared to countries like Japan and Germany, too few hours spent in school year, insufficiently trained or motivated teachers.

These discussions usually end up pointing a finger at the lack of sufficient financial resources. Yet, I believe that the issue is not how much money we spend on education, but how well we spend the money we do allocate.

One possible path to improved education is the "Schools of Choice" concept, an idea being suggested more and more across the country. The plan converts school tax dollar allocations into vouchers. Parents "cash" these vouchers at any school, public or private; nearby or farther away. Schools would bow to the marketplace forces of supply and demand as parents settle on the criteria for choice. These criteria can range from student-teacher and college entrance ratios to religious affiliation and extracurricular programs.

Hopefully, the meaningful will prevail over the frivolous with this free market idea. Overall, top-notch schools should survive and flourish. Lackluster schools will be forced to improve or possibly face extinction.

THOMAS HERBST

The school of choice concept is not meant to be an indictment of our public school systems. Rather, the goal is to encourage improvement by all schools, public and private. Better use of available dollars, new efforts by teachers to stimulate learning in both high and low achievers, and more involvement by parents in education are all part of this picture.

Some of these ideas are already taking root. Many public school systems across the nation have created "consumer-driven," districtwide schools. These schools typically offer special programs or services and have highly competitive admission criteria. They include the already familiar performing arts or technical arts high schools. I believe these schools reflect a new appreciation for values, discipline and hard work by parents and students.

This is all very encouraging but choice also brings responsibility. As suggested before, a voucher system would challenge parents to choose wisely as they become more involved in their child's education. As schools concentrate on core educational objectives, they will, for example, need more volunteer help with transportation or supervision of extracurricular activities. While some of these changes will strain "time-poor" households, they will also promote creativity and commitment. Education, once again, will be a community endeavor.

If America's education system and competitive posture are to improve, we must explore alternatives to business-as-usual. From my vantage point, schools of choice is an idea whose time has come.

It is my personal belief that fear played a dominant role in the severe decisions handed down. Fear of racial problems also seemed to have affected the superior officers decisions to release these men prior to their cases being

It is my sincere belief that these men are not guilty of murder. I can't believe they had any

Woman helps rescue Bosnian refugees

BY GREG KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Imagine leaving your teenage daughter at home while you take the rest of the family over to mom's for dinner.

Imagine being stopped by police on your way back and being told you can never go home again or see your daughter.

That nightmare came true for the family of Fardus Muranovic, an 18-year-old Bosnian Muslim who lived in Sarajevo.

Her plight led her family on an international effort that involved Ireland, the United Nations and Birmingham resident Lynne Partington.

Partington works for the International Rescue Committee, a private organization, serving as a liaison officer for the UN in its Refugee Settlement Office.

For nine months she helped refugees in Sarajevo and Split, cities in what used to be Yugoslavia, to try to make their way out of that war-ravaged land.

"The stories I heard were absolutely incredible," said Partington. "This is the Holocaust all over again. Neighbors tortured them."

The setting in Sarajevo these days is surrealistic, said Partington. Most of the press people stay in the Holiday Inn. The front of the building has been blown off by shells. You have to speed into the parking garage to avoid snipers. But the hotel restaurant is open.

"The waiter will ask you how you like your soup and salad. And 300 yards away it's a war zone," Partington said.

Serbs are shelling Croats and both are fighting Muslims. It's a complex political mess that has more to do with power grabbing than religion, said Partington.

And caught in the middle are the refugees.

They are all former neighbors, even friends, who have now turned on each other with a viciousness not seen since World War II, she said.

The International Refugee Committee was founded as an independent organization in the 1930s by Albert Einstein to help rescue Jews from Nazi Germany.

The Muranovic family was lucky, despite their agonizing separation. When they were turned away from their home town by Serb soldiers, they appealed to the UN to save their daughter and eventually found refuge in Ireland.

Fardous Muranovic's father came back to Bosnia in an effort to get her but was stopped by red tape. Finally, he appealed to Partington and she was able to help him locate his daughter and take her out of the country.

"We will never forget what you have done for us," Fardous Muranovic wrote to Partington. It's because of responses like that that Partington wants to go back.

"I just want to help as many people as possible get out of Bosnia," said Partington. "If this goes on, they will exterminate the Muslims. I've heard stories that were absolutely incredible."

Stories of concentration camps where prisoners were shot for no reason. Stories like the man who was methodically beaten by his former English teacher, a woman, who became a vicious tormentor. Stories of neighbors burning the homes and businesses of former friends.

Her work isn't over. Many refugees remain and as part of her job she is documenting the atrocities for future war crimes trials.

Area woman witnesses peace signing

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

With a big wave and a smile Livonia resident Terry Ahwal said, "Hi Henry!" and Henry Kissinger stared back as if to say, "Do I know dis woman?"

It's not often that Terry Ahwal, an executive assistant to Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, and Henry Kissinger, a former secretary of state to President Richard Nixon, encounter each other at social functions. In fact, it has never happened before. But this was no ordinary social function.

The occasion was the Sept. 13 signing of a peace treaty between Palestinians and Israel, ending a 45-year undeclared war between two peoples who claim the same bit of Mediterranean real estate the size of New Jersey for their ancestral home.

Tickets to the treaty tryst were some of the most coveted items in Washington, D.C., since the Redskins went to the Super Bowl. Ahwal came by her ticket because she serves on the national board of the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee and is president of the Detroit-area chapter where the largest concentration of Arabs outside the Middle East exists.

Sitting in the second row from the front surrounded by the governors of several states, Ahwal found herself to be much in demand. Once the political mountain climbers heard she was born and raised on the West Bank, they pressed Ahwal for her opinion of all that was occurring.

Later she counted herself lucky to shake the hand of her favorite former president, Jimmy Carter, whom Ahwal admires for his highly visible concern with human rights during his presidency.

Originally, Ahwal hails from a family of nine, all raised in the town of Ramallah on the West Bank.

When Ahwal was 10, the Israeli army occupied the West Bank during the 1967 war. "I was under 20 million curfews," Ahwal said. "Houses were broken into by soldiers searching houses at four in the morning for no reason. The experience was not pleasant to say the least."

Ahwal witnessed her share of violent death and "became old within seconds." To Israelis, Ahwal said, the word Palestinian was about the same as "terrorist, liar, no good, sub-human."

In 1972 Ahwal's parents, Jabra

Livonia resident Terry Ahwal attended the peace treaty signing between Palestinians and Israelis last week in Washington, D.C.

and Hannah, sent her to live with her grandmother and other relatives in Livonia. Jabra and Hannah Ahwal followed two years later and the whole family was together again.

Ahwal went on to graduate from Franklin High School, Schoolcraft College and the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Perhaps due to her experience in seeing the victim become the aggressor in Israel, Ahwal gravitated to activities involving the protection of human rights. "If I don't do anything else but advocate for human rights, then I will have achieved something in life," she said. "Human rights violations, no matter who commits them, are wrong."

As for the peace treaty, Ahwal believes it can last so long as extremists on both sides can be checked. "The majority of people, Palestinian and Israeli, want peace," she said. "We don't want to bury children before they graduate from high school."

Chancellor's inauguration leads to UM-D activities

The University of Michigan-Dearborn will inaugurate its fourth chancellor, James Renick, on Oct. 1.

Formerly the vice provost for academic initiatives and external affairs at George Mason University in Fairfax, Va., Renick is widely recognized as a consultant and researcher in the areas of organizational leadership, organizational development and minority access to higher education, according to a UM-D press release.

At George Mason University, in addition to his responsibilities for the coordination, advancement and reorganization of academic programs, Renick served as liaison with the state council of higher education for Virginia and the Washington area consortium of universities.

Renick got his bachelor's degree from Central (Ohio) State University, his master's degree from Kansas University and his doctorate from Florida State University. He serves on numerous national boards, including the American Association for Higher Education and the Washington Center's fellowship advisory board.

Some of the events during the week-long celebration will be free and open to the public, including:

- Poetry reading by Pulitzer Prize winning poet Gwendolyn Brooks at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 28, in the Recreation and Organizations Center.

- Exhibition of items from the UM-Dearborn Permanent Glass Collection, on display through Oct. 4 in the Mardigian Library.

- Exhibition of books, articles, art work and videos produced by UM-D faculty Sept. 27 to Oct. 5 in the library.

The inauguration ceremony will occur 2:30 p.m. Oct. 1, in the Fieldhouse. "We're especially interested in including our many alumni in this celebration," said teacher Charlotte Otto, chairwoman of the inauguration planning committee.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Freshly caught fish, there's nothing better

I have to stop and think for a minute what it is I enjoy more. Is it the thrill of the catch, sitting in a boat wondering if this will be the day I hook the big one? Or do I relish more the sizzle of the fry pan, the splash of a freshly squeezed lemon, and the delicate tastes I savor while I consume the fruits of the lakes and my labors?

Anyone who knows me is keenly aware of my love of fishing — or is it my love of great-tasting fish? Anyone who has ever fished the Great Lakes and their vast tributaries would be hard pressed to choose. In all honesty, what it boils down to is that there is nothing that compares to the stellar taste of freshly prepared, fresh fish.

That's not to say I haven't enjoyed the taste of Atlantic salmon grilled to perfection over an alder-wood-smoked grill purchased from my local fishmonger. Nor would I ever turn up my nose and palate against a cheap fillet of scrod properly prepared. But when it comes to having some of the world's best fishing within a short drive from your doorstep,

I succumb to a few personal rules of habit when I get the opportunity to cook fresh fish. I never rely on heavy sauces, salsas or coatings. A fresh fillet of walleye, lake perch or bass requires a simple dusting of bread crumbs, period. The skillet should be heavy. A scant dollop of real butter and a light drizzle of good olive oil is all that's needed to coat the skillet. A microscopic pinch of salt and a few cranks from the white pepper mill, coupled with just enough freshly squeezed lemon juice to induce an intoxicating aroma and delicate taste are all that is needed.

Momma's method

Momma always deep-fried her lake catches in a well-seasoned batter comprised of Drake's Batter Mix and a heavy shot of half-and-half. If the belabored grease from the family deep fryer proved as fresh as the fish, all was not lost. The flavor was compromised however, when the pint bottle of store-bought tartar sauce was spooned over the crusty fillets. She would be disappointed knowing I have never opened a bottle of tartar sauce, nor have I ever even served a homemade version with my catch since leaving the realms of Wyandotte. Instead of masking the flavor of well-prepared fish with the taste of Miracle Whip and pickle relish, I have discovered the subtle tastes of fresh chopped parsley Cuisinarted with butter and fresh lemon juice. My electric stove, when set somewhere between six and seven on the black dial, offers the perfect amount of power to handle the 10-inch cast-iron skillet. Those grilling grates that rest securely on a white ash strewn Weber grill work equally as well with delicate fillets, just as they do with green onions, eggplant and a freshly sliced bulb of fennel.

My first choice would only be to enjoy fresh lake fish, leaving the freezing of an overabundant catch, and it's subsequent cooking to that in momma's deep fryer, surrounded by Drake's batter. Couple the fresh fish with a handful of small Michigan potatoes, steamed in their jackets till barely tender, then roasted in a hot oven drenched in butter and sprinkled with more parsley or maybe an ear of Peaches and Cream corn on the cob and that could be all that I would ever ask for.

I discovered these simple tastes after my first fishing expedition when all I had to cook with was a skillet and Coleman stove. I remember crumbling the bread with the back of a hatchet and almost choking on a bone I had neglected to remove. I have also learned that when the time comes to prepare fresh fish the pan should never be crowded. I would rather dine like the Chinese and have great tasting small servings served in repetition than risk covering the entire skillet with fish that were unevenly cooked and mushy from the elimination of their natural juices. Butter and even low-cost margarines and spreads magically change when generously blended with a handful of fresh parsley, chives or cilantro. There's little need to melt the butter into oblivion, simply allowing the spread to come to room temperature and then briskly mixing in the delicate flavors is all that is needed. A day in the refrigerator does wonders, but a few hours will suffice.

If bread crumbs seem too bland, cornmeal, day-old cornbread and an additional light sprinkling of Parmesan cheese can, as the fishermen say, blow prepackaged seasoned bread crumbs right out of the water.

A Fish out of water and into the pan

Fishermen share tips for cooking pan fish

It's fun to fish, but what do you do with them after you catch them? Fish in our area's inland lakes and you might catch bluegills, panfish, perch, walleye or bass. Local fishermen say they're tasty, and they offer tips on how to cook and freeze them.

BY ANITA FITCH PAZNER
SPECIAL WRITER

The tepid waters of inland lakes makes fishing for food an interesting task. The temperatures and depths of local fishing holes seldom get low enough to sustain cold water salmon or tasty brown trout, two of Michigan's best known fish.

According to Bill Blacha of Lakeside Fishing Shop in Farmington, what you may catch is bluegills, panfish, perch, walleye, trout or bass.

"Most people who fish on inland lakes primarily try to catch bass because it is a larger fish," said Blacha. "The problem is that bass is not a good table fish."

The smaller fish are actually better tasting, said John Giordano, owner of Annie Up Charters in Royal Oak.

They are also safer to eat according to the Michigan Public Health Department. Bluegills and other sunfish are much less likely to have unsafe amounts of mercury in them because they eat insects instead of other mercury carrying fish.

Growing up fishing on Kent Lake in Kensington park and on Pontiac Lake gave Giordano a great fondness for the smaller panfish.

"Panfish are basically bluegills, crappies or other types of sunfish," said Giordano. "They just happen to be the perfect size for a pan and they taste great."

The problem with bluegills and other panfish is that it is hard to make a really healthy meal with them, said Giordano who prefers to batter fry them.

Chef Pascal Paviani, manager of Scallops in Rochester, disagrees.

"There are many things you can do with panfish," said Paviani. "They can be sauteed over a campfire with a little olive oil and fresh herbs such as dill or thyme."

For a more gourmet approach, Paviani, who was trained at the Culinary Academy of Paris, suggests sauteeing shallots and capers with your fish in a teaspoon of butter. Add white wine and lemon juice. Let the liquid reduce by half and serve.

To reduce the fat and cholesterol when frying your fish in batter, Giordano recommends using Egg Beaters or egg whites only to moisten the fish, dip it into seasoned flour and fry.

Bob Mitchel, known as the Hangman on local lakes, has been fishing for 44 years. He suggests deep frying bluegills.

"I clean my fish thoroughly, pat it dry with a paper towel and dip it in a thick pancake batter made of Bisquick. I use ginger ale instead of milk or water and I add a pinch of salt, white pepper and garlic powder to the mix. Then I deep fry the fish until they are crisp and ready to eat."

According to Mitchel, the most important thing to remember when preparing fish is to not over cook it. The second thing is to keep it fresh once you've caught it.

"Don't put the fish on a string or toss them in the bottom of the boat. Kill them instantly and pack them in a cooler full of ice," said Mitchel.

"The instant a fish strikes a lure and begins fighting his body creates an acid build-up in the muscle tissues that can affect the taste of the meat. It is similar to adrenalin in people."

Once the fish are safely in the kitchen, Mitchel separates his large fish from the small, fillets them and follows one of his freezing processes.

The first is for large fish like pike, salmon and trout. He calls it — Three Stage Wrapping Process. Mitchel rinses the fillets thoroughly with cool water then wraps them in two layers of plastic wrap, a layer of aluminum foil and finishes them off with a layer of freezer paper.

"Be sure to label and date the freezer packages," said Mitchel. "You don't want to keep them more

Napa wineries weather uncertain times

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

A recent trip to California bore witness to the fact that all is not well in wine country — especially the Napa Valley. The spread of phylloxera continues to play a pivotal role. Napa Valley winegrowers are in the early stages of replanting with new, phylloxera resistant rootstock — a most expensive undertaking that will continue until the year 2000.

It is estimated that over the next four to seven years, 50 percent of the Valley's 34,000 vineyard acres will be replanted.

Current decline of Napa Valley vineyards (and others in California wine country) is caused by a strain of phylloxera that feeds on AxR#1 rootstock. Approximately 50 percent of the vineyards in Napa Valley are currently planted on AXR#1.

Only last year at this time, there were economic forecasts of a grape shortage beginning with the 1993 harvest. This has not come to pass. Recent record harvests and inaccuracy in assessing actual plantings have in fact created an oversupply of grapes causing a sea of wine, especially chardonnay, that has dropped from $1,200 to $800 per ton. Will the consumer see a drop in prices? Not for premium wines.

Remember, there will always be a shortage of grapes from the best vineyard sites. However, prices for premium and ultrapremium wines will stabilize.

Our prediction is that the consumer will witness heated competition among the fighting varieties.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK - CALIFORNIA BEST BUYS

The Monterey Vineyard has consistently made quality wine at affordable prices. The following represent exceptional values from this producer: 1991 Classic Pinot Noir ($6); 1991 Classic White and Red (both $5); 1992 Classic Sauvignon Blanc ($5.50).

The following wines, priced well under $10 are also exciting values: 1992 Pine Ridge Chenin Blanc; 1992 Marion Sauvignon Blanc; 1992 Napa Ridge Chardonnay; 1992 Gundlach-Bundschu Gewurztraminer; and 1992 Sterling Vineyards Sauvignon Blanc.

At $10, the tastiest pinot noir is the 1991 Buena Vista.

than six months." The second process is for small fish like bluegills, crappies and other panfish. Mitchell doesn't have a name for this technique, but it is just as effective at preventing freezer burn as the Three Stage Wrapping Process. Mitchell begins by rinsing the small fillets thoroughly and placing 12 pieces in a freezer bag. "Make sure to squeeze all the air out," said Mitchell. "Freeze the bags overnight. The next day take the bags from the freezer and drizzle a small amount of water over the fish in the bag. Just so they are damp. Freeze over night and repeat the process two more times. It creates a fine coating of ice which prevents freezer burn." Mitchell's favorite inland lake fish is pike. Its pure white meat and mild flavor is perfect accompanied by a minimum of spices. "White pepper is much better than the standard black variety for pike," said Mitchell. "Sesame oil instead of butter also enhances the flavor." Mitchell recommends placing the top of a roasting pan on a barbecue grill to prevent the fish from over cooking. Before placing the fish on the grill, brush it with sesame oil and cook three minutes on each side. The only problem with pike, according to Mitchell, is learning how to remove the Y bone in the back of the fish. It takes quite a bit of practice, but it is well worth it. Pike is one of the least fatty fish in local lakes. Removing the fat from your fish is very important because that is where many of the toxins reside, said Mitchell.

"Since pike doesn't have much visible fat, check for dark flesh on the meat," said Mitchell. "That is where the fatty content is. Leaving it on adds a negative flavor as well as toxins to the meat." Another thing to remember when cooking fish is that bigger is not necessarily better. "Fish that live to be trophy size deserve to be let go to make more fish," said Mitchell. "Plus it's better for the environment to take several small fish versus one large. It keeps the fish from over populating." Taste is also an issue. According to Mitchell and Giordano, small fish taste better than large fish. If you catch walleye, keep the one- to three-pound fish and throw the others back, said Mitchell. Pike should be between three and 10 pounds to be considered keepers. Mitchell offers this mouth watering cajun recipe for local trout that can also be used on big lake salmon. He begins by carefully cleaning and filleting the fish. Pat it dry then rub a mixture of salt, garlic powder, white pepper, black pepper and cayenne pepper into the meat. Put that aside and place sesame oil in a cast iron skillet, be sure to get the oil smoking hot. "The hotter it is the better it works," said Mitchell. Cook the fish for only 30 seconds on each side. This sears the fish. Then place the fish in a broiler pan and bake at 350 degrees until done, allowing the fat to drip off into the pan.

And this time, the fracas will include producers of these modestly priced ($5-$8) bottlings from southern France, Chile and South Africa where wines have improved significantly over the last three years. There'll be plenty of quality, everyday drinking wine at some of the best prices ever.

While the Napa Valley realtor multistate is nearly as thick as the area's Yellow Pages, many Napa Valley wineries are doing just fine, thank you, and that's the upside of the report.

Released this month is Fire-break ($19), a new wine in the Shafer stables. It is truly a smokin' and hot offering of 61 percent sangiovese and 39 percent cabernet sauvignon. The Italian Super Tuscan blends set the style that is the new wave in California reds. Shafer's bottling is up to the competition in this category. The downside here is that this wine is in very limited quantity. Also dynamite from Shafer is the 1990 Cabernet Sauvignon, Napa Valley, Stags Leap District ($19). This focused, nearly seamless wine is complex and rich. Shafer 1991 Merlot ($18) is power-packed in flavors with a seducing finish. Coming soon to this market is Shafer's 1992 Chardonnay ($15). Buy this one for winter drinking. You'll vision yourself in a tropical paradise. When you purchase wines at this price, you want to make certain they fully complement the meal they accompany. Four sure-fire recipes tested in the Shafer kitchen follow inside.

Over the next several months, we'll be reviewing several California wineries and their wines. These producers are practicing their craft well and remain sound amid uncertain financial times. To leave a message on the Healds' voice mail — dial 953-2047, mailbox 1864. See recipes inside

Experts share recipes for catch of the day

See related story on Taste front.

CAPTAIN JOHN'S FISH PARMESAN

The catch of the day (1 pound fillets)
3 to 4 cups spaghetti sauce
1 tablespoon Parmesan cheese
1 1/2 cups mozzarella cheese
Fresh garlic or garlic powder to taste
1 chopped onion
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Pour two cups spaghetti sauce into the bottom of a baking dish, sprinkle 1/2 cup of mozzarella, a tablespoon of Parmesan, and onions into the sauce. Lay fillets on the cheese and continue layering the pan with sauce, cheese and fish. Save a layer of mozzarella. Top with seasonings and bake for 30 minutes. Sprinkle the top with remaining mozzarella and broil until cheese is lightly brown and bubbling. To create a lasagna effect just add cooked lasagna noodles when layering the fish, cheese and spaghetti sauce.

FISH AND FRESH VEGETABLES FOR TWO

Enough fresh fillet fish for two people
1 medium cucumber, sliced
1 large tomato, sliced

1/2 lime, sliced
Pinch fresh dill
Tablespoon butter, (optional)
1 cup white wine, preferably dry
Aluminum foil

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lay a piece of aluminum foil, at least twice the size of the fish, on the counter. Cover half of it with the fillets, cucumbers, tomatoes and lime slices. Add a pinch of dill. Drizzle the wine and the optional butter on top of the ingredients. Wrap and bake until the aluminum foil puffs up. Then serve.

Recipe submitted by Chef Pascal Paviani, manager of Scallops in Rochester.

FISH PACKETS

Aluminum foil
Fish fillets
Potatoes cut in 1/4-inch slices
1 onion, sliced
1 lemon, sliced
Set a piece of aluminum foil down that's larger than the fillet. Cover it with sliced potatoes, leaving enough room on the edges for folding. Cover the first layer of potatoes with a fish fillet. Place onion slices, lemon and butter over the fish and cover with a second layer of potatoes. Finish with another piece of foil and securely roll up the ends creating a packet to toss on the grill. Cook the first side for 20 minutes then flip over and grill the second side for 10 minutes. Remove the foil and eat. The fish will be steamed and the potatoes will be grilled.

KEN'S FAMOUS FISH CHOWDER

The catch of the day filleted and cut into chunks
2 medium potatoes, diced
1 medium onion, sliced
1 quart of half-and-half
Flour
Salt and pepper to taste
Boil a half a pot of water, add potatoes and cook until almost done. Add fish chunks and half-and-half. Bring nearly to a boil. You don't want the ingredients to come to a full boil because it will scald the milk. Thicken with flour and water mixture. Salt and pepper to taste.

Biscuits quick and easy

AP — You can't top these quick-and-easy biscuits, because they top themselves! A glistening pineapple glaze forms during baking, just like on an upside-down cake. Because you start with refrigerated biscuits, you only need one baking dish. In it, you can heat the glaze in your microwave oven, then bake the biscuits in your conventional oven. Serve them warm for breakfast, brunch, dessert, or a coffee-time snack.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE-DOWN BISCUITS

2 tablespoons margarine or butter
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
8 1/4-ounce can pineapple slices, drained, or 13 1/2-ounce can pineapple tidbits, drained

1 package (10) refrigerated biscuits
In an 8 by 1 1/4-inch round microwave-safe baking dish, cook margarine or butter, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 40 to 50 seconds or until melted. Add brown sugar, corn syrup and cinnamon; stir until sugar is dissolved. Arrange drained pineapple slices or tidbits in the dish. Separate biscuits; arrange in a single layer atop pineapple. Bake in a 400-degree F oven for 18 to 20 minutes or until biscuits are golden brown. Carefully invert onto a serving plate. Serve warm. Makes 5 servings.

Spicy roast beef wins cook-off

BY LARRY JANES
SPECIAL WRITER

The search for America's best amateur beef recipes is over. Winners of the 1993 National Beef Cook-Off have been chosen.

"Pronto Spicy Beef and Black Bean Salsa" took top honors at the National Beef Cook-Off in Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 11-13.

There were no finalists from Michigan. Sylvia Harber, of Boulder City, Nev. won $20,000 and the title "Best of Beef" for her original recipe, which uses a beef tri-tip roast in a delicious year-round meal that can be grilled or broiled. Once flavored with a Southwestern seasoning blend and cooked, the roast is sliced and served with a homemade salsa made of black beans, tomato, onions and cilantro.

In addition to the cash prize, Harber also earned state-of-the-art appliances and great grilling equipment.

The second-place winner, "Chili Salsa Beef" by Robert Logan of Kansas won $10,000 cash plus prizes. Third place went to Robin Bonifay-Hill of Arlington, Texas. She won $5,000 and prizes for her winning recipe, "Calypto Steak."

I attended the cook-off, and was one of the first people to congratulate Harber, and sample her winning recipe.

"My butcher suggested the tri-tip roast because of its great marbling and flavor," said Harber. "It was easy to spice it up with great seasonings, toss it on the grill and enjoy it with the family or for entertaining."

A four-time cook-off finalist, Harber said she had her doubts about winning, because of the great looks and tastes of the competition, but yet felt confident that she would "finish in the top five" because her recipe was easy, fast, great tasting and fairly inexpensive to prepare.

Harber's recipe uses a beef tri-tip roast, which isn't as prevalent east of the Mississippi. Check with your local butcher to see if they'll accommodate your request. Matt Martin of Martin's Butcher Block in Livonia said his store will specialty cut a tri-tip roast, but also suggested substituting a top sirloin or sirloin tip roast.

Rest assured that with the winning recipe featuring a tri-tip roast, you'll be seeing them soon.

The tri-tip roast, named for its unusual triangular shape, comes from just below the sirloin and just above the flank and is usually cut into culotte steaks. Most butchers should be able to accommodate your request for a specialty cut.

Harber's recipe follows, and if you would like copies of all the 15 finalist recipes, or need information for the 1995 cook-off, send your name and address to: The National Beef Cook-off, 444 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60611 or you can 1-800-621-7011.

PRONTO SPICY BEEF AND BLACK BEAN SALSA

- 1 beef tri-tip (bottom sirloin) roast or top sirloin steak, cut 1 1/2 inches thick
- 1 can (15 ounce) black beans, drained and rinsed
- 1 medium tomato, chopped
- 1 small red onion, finely chopped
- 3 tablespoons coarsely chopped fresh cilantro
- Fresh cilantro sprigs (optional) for garnish
- Seasoning:
 - 1 tablespoon chili powder
 - 1 teaspoon ground cumin

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground red pepper

Combine seasoning ingredients; reserve 2 teaspoons for salsa.

Trim fat from beef roast. Press remaining seasoning mixture evenly into surface of the roast. Place tri-tip roast on grid over medium coals (medium low coals for top sirloin). Grill tri-tip 30-35 minutes (top sirloin 22-30 minutes) for rare to medium doneness, turning occasionally.

Let stand for 10 minutes before carving.

Meanwhile, in a medium bowl, combine beans, tomato, onion, chopped cilantro and reserved seasoning mixture; mix until blended.

Carve roast across the grain into slices. Arrange beef and bean salsa on serving platter, garnish with fresh cilantro sprigs, if desired. Serves 6.

Should you not wish to barbecue, you can make the roast by placing the roast on a rack in a broiler pan so that the surface of the roast is 4-5 inches from heat. Broil 25 to 30 minutes for rare to medium doneness, turning once.

Total preparation and cooking time is 40 minutes.

Contest winner: Pronto Spicy Beef and Black Bean Salsa is the winning recipe of the 1993 National Beef Cook-Off.

Dip fish in seasonings

See Larry Janes' column Taste Buds on Taste front.

I can't really imagine why anyone would want to mask the taste of fresh fish, especially with something as potent as cajun spices but a recent Voice Mail request from Dan Huvenier of Garden City prompted this recipe.

CAJUN PAN FRIED PERCH

- 1 tablespoon onion powder
- 1 tablespoon garlic powder
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Pinch cayenne pepper
- 1 pound perch fillets
- 1 lime, cut into quarters

Combine all the spices in a small bowl and set aside. Dip the perch fillets in some melted butter or margarine, then roll and coat in the cajun spices.

Place the coated fillets on a platter and refrigerate until ready to cook. Heat a heavy fry pan over high heat. Make sure the vent fan is operating.

Place fillets in hot skillet and cook for 90 seconds on one side, flip, then continue cooking for 2 minutes or until fish is cooked. Serve immediately with lime slices. Serves 4.

COATING MIX FOR PAN FRYING FISH FILLETS

- 1/2 cup homemade bread crumbs, cornmeal or crumbled dried cornbread
- 3 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
- 3 tablespoons fresh parsley, finely chopped
- A pinch of salt and fresh ground white pepper to taste

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Dip fish fillets in an egg wash and gently roll in coating mixture. Shake off excess.

Place on a plate but do not stack as coating will come off.

Wine tasting to benefit MDA

Guests will be served a myriad of exquisite European wines and an outstanding four course dinner while being entertained by a cabaret musical on board elegant fine dining cars.

The dinner train will be leaving the depot at 7 p.m., boarding up to 45 minutes prior, and will travel to Wixom and then to the West Bloomfield state and federally protected bird sanctuary and wetlands, stopping briefly at Woodpecker Lake.

ROASTED PORK LOIN WITH BLUE CHEESE AND BLACKBERRY SAUCE

- 2 pound pork loin, trimmed and trussed
- ¼-pound pork trimmings (no fat) from above
- 1 large carrot, diced
- 2 stalks celery, finely diced
- 1 medium onion, finely diced
- 1 tablespoon shallots, finely diced
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 cup red wine
- 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 1 cup rich beef stock
- 4 tablespoons hazelnuts, toasted, skinned and ground
- ¾ cup blackberries
- 1 ounce blue cheese
- 1 sprig fresh thyme
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- Salt and pepper to taste

Season loin and sear sides until brown. Place in roasting pan and into a 350 degree preheated oven. Using a roasting thermometer, roast until internal temperature is 160 degrees. Meanwhile, heat oil in a pan over a medium flame. Brown pork trimmings. Add carrots, celery, onions, shallots and thyme. When vegetables are translucent deglaze with vinegar and wine. Reduce to almost dry.

Add stock and reduce by ½ until it coats the backside of a spoon. Strain and add blackberries to warm. Blend blue cheese and butter together to a smooth consistency. Break cheese/butter mixture into very small pieces, and partially whisk into sauce. Slice roast thinly and place on plate, coat with sauce, top with chopped nuts. Serve with Roasted Garlic Mashed Potatoes (recipe follows) and green or yellow vegetable.

Complements Shafer Merlot. Yields 4-6 servings. Prep time: 1.5 hours.

ROASTED GARLIC MASHED POTATOES

- 4-6 potatoes
- 1 medium head garlic
- ½ tablespoon olive oil
- Salt and white pepper to taste
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup milk

Slice off top of garlic. Pour olive oil into opening and wrap in foil. Place garlic into 350 degree oven for 30-45 minutes until soft. Remove from oven and allow to cool. Squeeze out garlic cloves. Remove any skins. Mash into a smooth paste.

Bring 3-4 quarts of salted water to a boil. Peel potatoes and cube ½-inch. Add potatoes to boiling water and cook until soft (approximately 10 minutes).

Drain and place in bowl with garlic and remaining ingredients. Mash until well incorporated and smooth. Serve with Roasted Pork Loin. Yield 4 servings. Prep time 30 minutes.

VEAL CHOPS WITH RAGOUT OF MUSHROOMS

- 8 ½-¾-inch thick veal chops
- ½-pound Shitaki mushrooms, sliced
- ½-pound Brown mushrooms, sliced
- 1 medium shallot, finely minced
- 1 clove garlic, finely minced
- ¾ cup red wine
- 1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 cup beef stock
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

Salt and pepper veal chops and set aside. Heat oil in pan. Sauté mushrooms and add shallots and garlic. Deglaze with red wine and red wine vinegar. Reduce to almost dry. Add stock and Worcestershire sauce, reduce by half or until a thick consistency. Salt and pepper to taste. Set aside.

Heat oil in oven-proof pan. Sauté veal chops until nicely browned. Finish in 350 degree oven for approximately 10 minutes. Place veal chops on a bed of mushroom ragout and serve with roasted garlic mashed potatoes and seasonal vegetables.

Complements Shafer Cabernet Sauvignon. Yields 4 servings. Prep time: 45 min. to 1 hour

APPLE-LEEK TART COMPLEMENTS

- One 9-inch pie crust
- 3-4 apples, green and red (Granny Smith and Red Delicious)
- 4 medium leeks
- 1 tablespoon unsalted butter
- ¼ cup walnuts, toasted/rough chop
- 2 ounces Havarti cheese
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon white pepper
- nutmeg to taste
- 1 lemon, juiced

Remove green from leeks, slice, rinse well and dice ¼-inch. Core apples and cut in half. Dice one of the green apple halves ¼-inch and add to leeks. Melt butter in skillet and sauté leeks and diced apples. When apples and leeks are soft, season with salt and white pepper. Add pinch of nutmeg and reserve leek mixture. Slice apples ½-inch thick across. Coat slices with lemon juice.

In tart shell, arrange apple slices in rows standing up 1-inch apart. Between rows fill half-way with leek mixture. Sprinkle lightly with ½ walnuts and cheese. Cover with remaining leek mixture making sure the rows of apples are still showing. Top with remaining walnuts and cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until apples are soft. Let set for 5-10 minutes, serve warm.

Complements Shafer Chardonnay. Yields 4 servings. Prep time 45 minutes.

Spam stuffed peppers blue ribbon entree

KEELY WYGONIK

One of the most enjoyable things I get to do as Taste editor is judge cooking contests. Recently, Lois Thieleke, home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service, and an O&E columnist, and I judged the Spam cooking contest at the Michigan State Fair. I wasn't sure what to expect.

When my brothers and I were small, my dad used to take us camping every summer. One of the things he packed for special Sunday breakfasts was Spam. We would cut thin slices, and fry it in a cast iron skillet with eggs. That's about the only time we ever ate Spam. It was "camping food."

Not anymore. Spam isn't just for breakfast or sandwiches, and there's a "Lite" version too.

There were 19 contest entries including Sally Sibthorpe of Rochester Hills, Lillian McDivitt of Rochester Hills and Ellen Williamson of Troy. They made casseroles, quiches, and appetizers with Spam.

The winner was Linda Cole of Lennon, Mich., who made Spam Lite and Healthy Peppers. It was a special day for Cole, she was celebrating her birthday. Winning the contest made it a "blue ribbon day."

Second place went to William Title Jr. of Clawson for Zesty Spam Cheeseball. Diane Title won third prize for Sweet and Sour Spam meatballs.

If you, or someone you know, won a ribbon at the Michigan State Fair this year for cooking, please call me at 953-2105. We'll be featuring our prize-winning cooks in the Taste section on Monday, Oct. 11.

Here's the winning Spam recipe.

SPAM LITE AND HEALTHY PEPPERS

- 2 cans Spam Lite, julienned
- 1 cup zucchini
- 2 cups cabbage
- 1 medium onion
- 1 large carrot
- 1 teaspoon chopped garlic
- 1 (28 ounce) can diced tomatoes
- 1½ tablespoons chopped basil leaves
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- ½ to 1 teaspoon red pepper flakes
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1½ cups quick cook rice
- 8-10 green peppers, cored, seeded

Saute Spam Lite in a dry skillet until warm and slightly crisp. Remove and set aside.

In food processor with shredder blade — process zucchini, cabbage, onion and carrot.

Deglaze skillet with ½ cup cold water. Add shredded vegetables. Add garlic, basil, oregano and red pepper. Lower heat and cook until vegetables are tender crisp.

Drain juice from tomatoes. Add tomatoes to vegetables. Add enough water to tomato juice to make 3 cups. Add to vegetables. Add rice and Spam Lite and brown sugar. Stir well.

Cover and cook over low heat for 10 minutes. Boil peppers for 5 to 7 minutes until tender crisp. Stuff peppers with Spam mixture and garnish with basil leaf.

Debate rages over underground storage tanks

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Taxpayers, through their legislators, must decide how badly they want to clean up leaking underground storage tanks.

"The costs of the program are pretty tremendous," said state House Conservation Committee co-chair Tom Alley, D-West Branch, after hearing governmental, industrial and environmental groups argue for 90 minutes last week. "A lot of groups are saying 'we need some more money.' I don't know where you're going to get it."

"The dilemma is: Will funding be adequate?" said James Hill, a member of the state Natural Resources Commission, the appointing group which oversees the Department of Natural Resources. "Put a money figure behind the program, and either fund it or scale back the responsibilities."

"The Sierra Club opposes the DNR cleanup standard proposals that are currently before the subcommittee," said Alison Horton, spokesman for the politically active naturalists. Sierra Club wants DNR to require double walls for underground storage tanks and, other relatively costly steps to protect land and groundwater from leaks.

Clean vs. safe

Here's the crux of the argument:

DNR's proposal shifts emphasis from protecting resources to human exposure control. As Skip Pruss, an assistant attorney general put it, "DNR prefers cleanups that don't clean up groundwater. It just wants to protect the public from exposure. . . The goal is to make cleanups cheaper."

Pruss said his department, "a co-trustee of our natural resources" with DNR, is concerned about the constitutionality of DNR's proposed rules and their conflict with other laws.

Commented Alley: "DNR wants to contain, and the attorney general wants to take it all out."

Michigan service stations and business users have some 40,000 "active" underground storage tanks, mostly for petroleum products, said Lt. Arthur Nash of the State Police fire marshal division. About 10,000 are relatively new, and 1,600 have double walls.

"The average cost increase of a double-walled tank is $32,000 to $35,000. Some 30,000 tanks need to be removed or upgraded by 1998. It will be a great cost to owners — substantial cost to smaller dealers and 'mom and pop' operations. We don't want to discourage people from upgrading tanks," Nash said.

Nash was cool to requiring double-walled tanks statewide. He said they can be pierced by stakes driven into the ground and thus aren't totally safe.

Trying to steer a middle course was Bill Rustem of the Michigan Economic and Environmental Roundtable, a group of industrial, union and environmental interests formed in 1992.

"The state's environment and economy are inextricably linked and must therefore be considered together if successful strategies for continued development and environmental quality to emerge," said Rustem.

Top principle, he said, is redeveloping urban land rather than developing greenfields. A general criticism of Michigan's current "polluters pay" law is that it leads developers to seek new sites and abandon older cities where cleanups may be necessary.

The roundtable includes business interests such as Consumers Power, Farm Bureau, Dow Chemical, AAA Michigan, and chambers of commerce; unions such as the AFL-CIO federation and Steelworkers; and environmental groups such as Michigan United Conservation Clubs and Michigan Environmental Council — but not Sierra.

Law in works

Meanwhile, lawmakers are trying to iron out differences in a package of bills to fund the cleanup of leaking underground storage tanks (LUSTs).

Gov. John Engler's budget director said last fall that the current fund, based on a tax of 0.875 cents a gallon on petroleum products, will be $350 million in the red by 1995.

Lawmakers are working to update a 1984 law requiring registration of underground storage tanks by setting up a state authority to deal with cleanups.

Refer to Senate Bills 644 and 645 and House Bills and 4875 when writing to your legislator.

Emmett's trials outweigh game

It's difficult for Jenny Emmett to condense all the conflicting endeavors in her life. Not surprising, really, considering what she's been through, what she's experienced.

College soccer may be important, serious stuff, but it's not a life-and-death struggle.

At present, Emmett can only be thankful the latter is behind her, the former ahead.

But how far ahead? How long will it be, how much more pain will be endured before Emmett reaches the level of play she was at before all this happened? How long before the disease that nearly cost her her life can be put completely behind her, before she can focus on the game she loves?

It started nearly two years ago. Emmett was already recognized as one of the state's premier high school keepers, making all-state twice; she was looking ahead to a superb senior season at Plymouth Salem.

Then she was diagnosed with leukemia. There would be no senior season. A minor casualty, really. Emmett was facing death, with only transplants and radiation treatments separating her from it.

That, and her indomitable spirit. June 19, 1992. It's a date she won't forget. With her sister acting as a donor, Emmett underwent surgery for a bone marrow transplant. It was a success. Emmett will tell you that tests show her bone marrow is clean.

But not so fast. Chemotherapy treatments continued. With her immunities down due to the radiation, infections set in. She spent the better part of last year in the hospital, for one reason or another.

Soccer as a goal

Then last December, she contracted pneumonia. She was in intensive care for several days, her life hanging in the balance.

"They don't know how I came out of it," Emmett says now. But she did. She survived. And what helped boost her spirits was a determination she would someday play soccer again.

Of course, having that determination is fine, but realizing it is something else entirely.

Emmett's journey back is on-going, understand that. It's not over yet. She knows it. She feels it in every practice, every game.

"I feel like I'm 40 years old," she said. "I'm trying real hard, but there's only so much I can do. I just can't keep up with all the girls yet."

"I'm so tired." She hadn't played in 18 months before trying out for Schoolcraft College's team. Nick O'Shea, the SC coach, was only too happy to have her — as long as her health allowed it.

"(The doctors) told me I could play, it would be up to me," Emmett said. "But they told me I wouldn't be as good, that I'd be tired. . . they were trying to steer me clear."

"But I really wanted to play. I love soccer." There were other factors involved, as well. Other people were part of the equation.

"I did it for myself mostly, but for others, too," she explained. "It's not just for me, but for people in the hospital, to give them the inspiration that they can do it, too."

The body says no

Emmett paused, then added, "I had countless friends die." She recited a half-dozen names, people she met in the hospital and knew well enough to call them friend, people who were there one day, gone the next.

This self-imposed responsibility, to inspire others, together with her love for the game and dogged competitiveness, drive her. Still, a body can only be driven so hard, so far.

Emmett's been told this, but it's not easy for her to accept. She was working out long before pre-season practice began, trying to rebuild withered muscles. "All I can do is give it my best and try real hard," she repeats, as if trying to convince herself it will be enough. She hopes it will satisfy her coach.

It will. O'Shea is all-too-acquainted with the ordeal Emmett has endured. When he was 17, his sister Eileen was stricken with leukemia. She died, only six years old.

It is a difficult position for O'Shea. A team fabric must be woven carefully if it is to compete for a national title. This team has the ability to do just that, but motivation has either been lacking or it's disjointed. Last week, the Ocelots lost 4-1 to a first-year team from the College of DuPage and 3-1 to Oakland University's club team.

He does not need a perception of playing favorites to distract the team. And yet, he must make allowances.

Emmett has been struggling with her game. She knows it, and it frustrates her. "I'm real hard on myself," she admitted. "My body just won't do what I want it to do."

Not true, Jenny. It survived, bringing with it the spirit of a young woman who in the years ahead will help others realize how valuable life is.

Spartans stun Rocks on last play

Livonia Stevenson pulled out another miracle victory, a-la Joe Montana to Jerry Rice as No. 16 Kevin Szczembara hit No. 80 Brad Morgan for a touchdown on the game's final play Friday to beat Plymouth Salem, 19-14.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Do You Believe in Miracles II? Livonia Stevenson played out the sequel Friday night, stunning Plymouth Salem with no time remaining on a 32-yard touchdown pass from Kevin Szczembara to Brad Morgan, giving the host Spartans a 19-14 football win.

It was only a week earlier that Stevenson pulled one out of the hat when Szczembara beat Livonia Franklin on the last play, a 30-yard TD toss to Nick McLaren for a 35-33 victory.

Stevenson, which defeated the Rocks for the first time since 1986, is off to a 3-0 start.

Morgan, a 6-foot-2, 170-pound senior split end/punter/defensive back, had a game that former Stevenson great Dave Hall would admire.

He caught seven passes for 123 yards, including three on the final drive when Stevenson marched 73 yards in only 24 seconds.

"I was just praying to God it would happen again," Morgan said. "I felt dog-tired, my legs were cramping up at the end.

"I saw Kevin scrambling and I just tried to find a seam. He made another perfect throw. It was just instinctive. I caught it, and I looked to see if I was inbounds."

Morgan was mobbed by teammates and fans following the improbable win.

Salem, meanwhile, had victory within its grasp, gaining its first and only lead of the night, 14-13, with only 30 seconds to go when senior fullback Rob Shepley (76 yards on 12 carries) scored on a 17-yard run. Senior tailback Brian Neal (85 yards in 10 carries) then bounced off-tackle and into the end zone for the two-point play.

On a gutsy call, Salem opted for the two-pointer after the Spartans' Craig Martin had earlier blocked an extra-point and field attempt by Mike Kley.

"We wanted to win it right there," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer, whose team fell to 0-2 overall. "We asked the kids and they said go for it. We didn't take long to decide to go for two."

But the Rocks' defense folded down the stretch.

Szczembara, at his own 27, started the game-winning drive by hitting Morgan twice on sideline routes for gains of 12 and 16 yards.

The Stevenson quarterback then scampered out of bounds on a 13-yard run as the board read 0:00, but officials ruled he stepped out with two seconds to play.

"I didn't think they (the referees) would put time on the back on the clock because it read zeroes when they made the signal," Moshimer said. "I give the clock operator credit. He didn't stop the clock. He waited for their signal."

"I thought the game was over, but it's our fault. We just played too soft back there. They threw to the corner and the kid (Morgan) caught the ball. They showed a lot of poise."

Szczembara hit 10 of 22 passes for 144 yards and rushed for 19 yards in three carries.

"We just wanted to put the ball up and hope to have enough time to throw," Stevenson coach Jack Reardon said. "Kevin had enough time to throw it because the offensive line gave him time all day long (he was not sacked)."

"Kevin put the ball up where it belonged and Brad made a nice catch. Kevin has worked hard for this kind of success. We always know he'll be there. He's very dependable."

Chiefs win 7-0, 2C

Stevenson opened the scoring in the first quarter when Szczembara threw an 8-yard TD toss to Morgan.

It was only a preview of things to come by Morgan, who also intercepted a pass, made several key hits and even scrambled to get off a 34-yard punt. (The snap from center sailed over his head deep in Spartan territory.)

"They (Stevenson) have great athletes," Moshimer said. "And they're much bigger and stronger this year. Their quarterback can throw and they have a whole ton of receivers."

Salem scored its first TD with 6:46 left in the second quarter on a 54-yard TD dash by Neal, but Stevenson took a 13-6 halftime edge when Chris Mullett intercepted a Rocks' pass and took it in from 39 yards out.

Stevenson carried that lead deep into the fourth quarter, only to cough the ball up near midfield on an errant pitch-out. Linebacker Jay Perko made his third recovery of the night to set up Salem's go-ahead TD drive.

"We made every kind of mistake in the first half, but our kids hung tough and came back," Moshimer said. "But they (Stevenson) made mistakes, too. They beat us, and I guess the better team won."

Chiefs outduel Rocks

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton managed to keep its unbeaten record (6-0) and state ranking intact Thursday, but Plymouth Salem was not awed by either one.

The underdog Rocks (1-3) weren't bowled over by the No. 5 Chiefs. Salem played an inspired girls basketball game and was in it until late as Canton prevailed 40-33.

"Close games are part of the history and tradition," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "Every once in awhile one of us sneaks a team in there that pulls away from the other, but the kids have a lot of pride and they play well in games like this."

The Chiefs were led by the Anderson cousins, Britta and Erica, with 15 and 11 points, respectively. Lisa Craven scored seven points for Salem, Kelly Lukasik six and Shellye Sills five.

Canton led 38-27 early in the fourth quarter, but Sills (two), Craven (three) and Lukasik (one) combined for the next six points and a five-point difference.

After a Britta Anderson field goal, the score stayed 40-33 for nearly the last five minutes as the teams exchanged a series of turnovers.

"It's hard to get a spurt against that team because they're so doggone good defensively," Thomann said. "But I was very pleased that our kids made some plays to get back in the game."

Stevenson tops Salem, gains Lakes edge

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

In a five-game league soccer season, there's no overestimating the importance of any match. But the Livonia Stevenson-Plymouth Salem clash is always of particular importance.

The outcome will produce one title contender — and eliminate another.

This game has had a direct impact on the Western Lakes Activities Association championship every year. So if form holds, Salem will be hard-pressed to get back in the chase after Stevenson out-finished the Rocks, 2-0 Thursday at Salem.

Both coaches agreed that both teams had plenty of scoring chances. The difference was the Spartans, now 3-1-1 overall, found the net on theirs.

"Plymouth Salem caught us on some switches, and they did it very nicely," said Stevenson coach Walt Barrett. "But you know what they didn't do? They didn't finish."

Salem coach Ken Johnson could hardly argue. "We played well, but we didn't score any goals, did we?" he said after his team sunk to a 2-3-1 record. "We've been in every game, we're just not clicking."

"Yes, everything went well, but we didn't finish." The way Stevenson scored wasn't lost on Johnson, either. "All on counterattacks," he noted.

The Spartans' quick attack struck quickly at the start. The game wasn't five minutes old when Nick Deren converted a pass from Mike Miller, putting Stevenson on top and Salem in pursuit.

The desperation showed as the tempo of the game evolved. There were no deliberate, planned attacks that succeeded; indeed, connecting on two consecutive passes was a rare event. And patience was absent, as both sides opted to try to out-kick and out-run each other.

"We won in typical Livonia Stevenson style," Barrett said. "Not pretty, not flashy, we just did the job."

Deren, in particular, did the job. Both teams pressured throughout the second half — Salem twice narrowly missed: Matt Simmons rifled a shot off the crossbar and Mike Kley lined a shot hard from 15 yards out, but right at Spartan keeper Mo Lanspeary — but it was Deren who made a difference.

His second-straight impressive performance (Deren scored three times in a win over Birmingham Seaholm, but was red-carded and had to sit out last Monday's scoreless tie with Livonia Franklin) was capped by the game-clinching goal.

Deren's offensive prowess was much-needed. And yet, Barrett knew who else deserved praise for the victory. "It was obvious it was our defense that made the difference," he said, lauding sweeper Scott Sersen and marking backs Joe Brach and Arty Knack.

The road from here isn't without potential pitfalls for Stevenson — tonight's game against Walled Lake Central (7 p.m. at Stevenson) is a prime example. But getting through the Rocks without stumbling is a major coup.

Chiefs overcome winless Chargers

Livonia Churchill held Plymouth Canton's offense scoreless on Friday, and the Chargers still managed to lose for the 30th-straight game, 7-0.

Canton, 2-1 overall and 2-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, scored its only touchdown in the second quarter on a fumble recovery in the Churchill end zone. The Chargers fell to 0-3 and 0-2.

With the line of scrimmage inside Churchill's 10-yard line, Chargers' quarterback Eric Kelly was sacked by Canton's Tony DeGiorgio in the end zone. Canton's John Mogelnicki fell on the fumble for the TD, and Jeff Fliss kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Canton gained 140 total yards while holding Churchill to 83.

Lenny Gardner led Canton with 78 yards rushing on 31 carries, and Eric Arnold gained 31 yards on seven attempts. Quarterback Kevin Shankie completed four of 12 passes for 34 yards with two of the passes going to Ryan Ostach for 20 yards.

Paul Martus gained 17 yards on two carries for Churchill.

WAYNE 27, LINCOLN PARK 0: Freshman quarterback Lorenzo Guess threw three touchdown passes in the second quarter Friday, leading the Zebras to a win over host Lincoln Park.

Wayne improves to 2-1 overall and 2-0 in the Red Division of the Mega Conference. Lincoln Park is 1-2 overall, 1-1 in the Red.

Guess, who has thrown six TD passes in the past two games, completed nine-of-18 passes for 174 yards and two interceptions. Gerald Adams caught all three of Guess' TD passes and finished with five receptions for 109 yards.

The Zebras' attack also featured 132 yards rushing, with Willie Bush leading the way with 52 yards on 10 carries.

The Zebras opened the scoring with 11:35 left in the second quarter as Guess found Adams for a 16-yard TD pass, completing a five-play, 43-yard drive. Scott Wetmore kicked the first of three extra points for a 7-0 lead.

Wayne's Mike Kennedy recovered a fumble on Lincoln Park's 25 to set up the Zebras' next score. Adams scored on the next play, catching a 25-yard pass from Guess for a 14-0 lead.

The Zebras also wasted no time in scoring on their last possession, going 53 yards in two plays to lead 21-0 at halftime. Adams caught a pass for 17 yards on the first play and finished the scoring with a 36-yard TD reception with 1:10 remaining in the half.

The Zebras ended the scoring in the third quarter, capping an eight-play, 55-yard drive with a four-yard run by Reggie McCarthy. John Lloyd's fumble recovery at Wayne's 45 set up the score.

Glenn stomps Central

BY BILL PARKER
STAFF WRITER

After starting the season with a pair of road wins, Walled Lake Central was entertaining thoughts of a 3-0 football start entering Friday's home opener at Tom Evans Field.

The only thing standing in the way was fourth-ranked Class AA Westland John Glenn. The obstacle was too-high to overcome.

Glenn used a rugged ground game and a timely passing attack to roll up 316 yards of total offense en route to a 30-7 victory over the Vikings.

"We hit some big plays on them. We were fortunate," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon, whose team improved to 3-0. "That's a good football team. Walled Lake Central plays hard. I expect them to win a lot of football games."

The Vikings managed just 115 yards of total offense, were penalized six times for 55 yards, gave up a safety and fumbled a punt away at their own 16-yard line which led to a Glenn TD in the second quarter. They also lost their coach for arguing a call in the third quarter and lost their quarterback to a rib injury in the fourth.

"They're a great football team," said Central coach Darrell Harper. "We felt we could play with them pretty well, but you can't give them field position like that. We're a lot better than what we showed tonight. My only concern right now is that our quarterback is all right."

Central signal caller Ken Shillar completed just 5-of-20 attempts for 57 yards against the Rockets.

With his team facing a 3rd-and-10 situation at the Rocket 30 early in the fourth quarter, Shillar was flushed from the pocket. The senior tucked the ball and turned upfield, but was met with a stinging tackle by Glenn senior linebacker Mike Bint. Shillar went down and was momentarily knocked unconscious and also suffered a rib injury.

The Rockets took advantage of some big plays to build an early lead. Senior fullback Jerome Cosby put Glenn on the scoreboard less than five minutes into the game with a 30-yard run off tackle. Senior quarterback Brian Morrison connected with senior tight end Bryan Besco on a 35-yard TD late in the quarter.

Good start propels Rocks

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

Before the boys golf season started, Plymouth Salem coach Rick Wilson and his team decided their No. 1 goal was to regain the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Perhaps Wilson was being realistic after a season that saw the Rocks go from Lakes champions to a 6-5 mark. Or possibly he didn't know how good a team he had.

Salem has established itself as the team to beat in the Lakes, winning all six of their dual matches — four in the conference.

"We're already better than we were last year," said Wilson, now in his 12th year at Salem.

Salem took its play up a notch Friday when toppled Howell in a non-league match at Hilltop Golf Course, 210-211. Howell had been a state-ranked team and boasted the top junior in the state in Scott Koch.

The nationally ranked Koch was the medalist with a 36, but the Rocks finished strong behind him. Junior Mark Wesner took second with a 38, while senior Jeremy Fox (40), sophomore Mike Hjelmsstad (41) and sophomore Ryan Andrzejewski (44) followed.

Wilson took a gamble against Howell and won. He inserted two freshmen into the lineup — Jeff Lear (47) and Brian Fox.

"I wanted to see how they would respond," Wilson said. "It could have backfired on me. A couple people were not all that happy with me, but I want to get as many people as I can onto the course."

Wilson is carrying 15 players, which is the most he has ever had. As many as 10 or 12 might find themselves in the lineup during the year, he said.

"In the past, it's been clear cut which six should be out there," Wilson said. "Now it's like a revolving door and there will be competition."

Wilson said his golfers were fired up for Howell, which placed second at the 28-team Brighton Invitational earlier in the season. Salem was 10th in the same tournament.

But the Rocks have been accustomed to winning this season. The Howell victory marked the fourth win in five days for Salem.

On Thursday, Salem beat Walled Lake Western 208-232 as Wesner (38) and Jeremy Fox (40) took top honors. The Rocks beat North Farmington Wednesday 208-233 with Wesner and Andrzejewski shooting 41. Livonia Stevenson fell victim to Salem Monday 218-240 with Hjelmsstad leading the way with a 40.

Players have experience

Wesner has established himself as one of the top Salem golfers after a rough start this season. After failing to score in an early match, Wesner found himself on the JV but eventually got back into the lineup.

Jeremy Fox has become "Mr. Steady" for Salem. He consistently shoots 40 to 41 and is the team's quiet leader, Wilson said.

Hjelmsstad improved his game in the off-season by changing his stance and fine-tuning his fundamentals. Andrzejewski, whom Wilson calls a student of the game, isn't very big but hits the ball hard.

Senior Bryan Proctor and junior Brian Covington will probably be the regulars among the top six golfers. Proctor didn't play against Howell but shot a 37 on the JV team.

Brian Fox shows promise for a freshman, Wilson said. The other freshman, Lear, has made himself competitive by hitting the ball straight.

Other golfers who might find themselves contributing on a regular basis are juniors Alex Bain and Chris Weidman and senior Josh Edgar, a four-year varsity golfer.

"I want to keep the competition going for the top six," Wilson said. "I don't want anyone to get complacent and think they will always be in the top six. I want everyone to be hungry to play."

With the goal of winning the Lakes Division nearly met, Wilson said he would like to achieve his other goals — win the WLAA and qualify for the state tournament, something the Rocks have not done in eight years.

Canton clears early obstacles

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

Though the Plymouth Canton girls tennis team began the season with several hurdles to clear, coach Barb Hanosh remains confident the Chiefs will do well.

They didn't know if there would be a season because of budget woes at first. After clearing that obstacle, Hanosh had to replace her Nos. 1 and 2 doubles teams and Nos. 3 and 4 singles players.

Furthermore, Canton doesn't have a home court, or for that matter, any court. The tennis courts at Canton are being refaced and won't be ready until after the season.

The Chiefs, who tied Plymouth Salem for fifth place in the Western Lakes Activities Association, have their top two singles players back.

Senior Ellen Gaston will be in the one spot again and hopes to shake off an early season injury. Junior Olive Ikeh returns in the two spot and will be better thanks to experience.

"Ellen did well last year and held her own against some tough competition," Hanosh said. "She suffered a knee injury at the beginning of practice but seems to be better now."

When Canton plays Plymouth Salem Friday, the match will take place at the Huron Valley Tennis Club beginning at 3:30 p.m.

With Lynne Cessante and Pam Reynolds gone, two newcomers will handle the final singles spots. Senior Kara Fiegenschuh, a No. 3 doubles player last year, and senior Cassandra Gut will take the vacant positions.

"Kara has really improved her ground strokes and has become more consistent," Hanosh said. "That has helped her reach a higher level of ability. She has made the adjustment from doubles very well."

"Cassandra has also adjusted to singles very well. She earned her varsity letter last year by filling in at singles when we needed her."

The doubles teams were hit hard by graduation, but the Chiefs will have no problems with replacements. Senior Noel Kilgore and Jenny Staszal, whom Hanosh says work and communicate well with each other, will be the top team.

Sophomores Nikki Rahner and Rupa Patel, the top JV team last season, will be the No. 2 team.

The third and fourth teams are composed of juniors. Amber Spencer and Lis Layman are the third team while Mandy King and Melissa McNamara are the fourth. The two teams accounted for the only victories last week in a 6-2 loss at Farmington Harrison.

As for the lack of a home court, the Chiefs will work with their opponents to schedule away matches. When Canton plays Plymouth Salem Friday, the match will take place at the Huron Valley Tennis Club beginning at 3:30 p.m.

SC encouraged by early win over Macomb

SC SPORTS

The big event. That's what Schoolcraft College's men's soccer games against Macomb CC used to be. It was a showdown . . . the winner of their round-robin series would advance to the NJCAA's Inter-regional Tournament.

Quite often, the home-and-home regular season meetings decided nothing — each team won a match, forcing a playoff. It became such a regular event that last year SC coach Van Dimitriou left an opening at the end of his schedule to allow for it.

It's not necessary any longer. The Ocelots swept Macomb last year as they streaked through the Region 12 schedule unbeaten. This season looks much the same, if Wednesday's match at Macomb is any indication — a 3-0 SC win.

"They have a number of solid players," said Dimitriou of Macomb, then added, "but they're not solid across the board. They're not as talented at every position."

Depth was definitely a factor in the SC victory. Indeed, according to Dimitriou, the bench personnel he inserted into the lineup with the game scoreless late in the first half made the difference.

Feeling he needed more aggressiveness in the midfield, Dimitriou called on Armando Andoni and Livonia Churchill grad Vince Troiani. Five minutes after they entered the game, SC had its first goal — scored by Troiani, in the 37th minute.

The halftime intermission did not slow SC. Seven minutes into the second half, Matt Lividini powered a low drive from 20 yards out into the net, increasing the Ocelots' lead to 2-0. Troiani closed out the scoring in the 72nd minute, pouncing on a loose ball near the Macomb net after Lividini poked the ball away from the keeper and looping a shot in over the defense.

SC ran its overall record to 5-0; its region mark is 3-0. The Ocelots have surrendered just one goal this season, in a non-region match vs. College of DuPage.

He applauded his entire defense: keeper Matt Stable, sweeper Billy Joker, marking back Bill Lanspeary, stopper Matt Lee. Marking back Tim McCarley, however, will be lost for 2-3 weeks with a sprained knee. Joel Schmidt and Tom Kuzak filled his position against Macomb.

For the Monarchs, it was their first loss in four region matches. They've already beaten Cuyahoga, the other possible title contender.

Perhaps the two teams' next meeting — Oct. 13 at SC — will be another showdown, with the region title hanging in the balance. But it's been two years since Macomb has beaten the Ocelots — five-straight matches, if you're counting.

Women's soccer

It was not a happy situation. Mistakes continued to plague SC's women's soccer team, culminating in a 3-1 loss to Oakland University's club team Wednesday at SC.

The Lady Ocelots are 1-2-1 overall.

Jodi Grabowski scored the only SC goal, midway through the second half, and she did it on her corner kick. The goal cut OU's lead to 2-1, but the Lady Ocelots could not find the net again.

"We pressed pretty hard in the second half," said SC coach Nick O'Shea. "But we never got on anything around the net. I wasn't disappointed with the way we played, but we need to be more aggressive around the net."

Defensive lapses led to all three OU goals. One came on a long shot that keeper Jenny Emmett should have handled easily, but didn't. The other two were both marking mistakes by defenders. O'Shea was also upset with the failure of his midfielders to loft passes over the OU defense. But he believes the mistakes are correctable — and he is sure his Lady Ocelots will make a run in the NJCAA Tournament.

Volleyball

It wasn't pretty, but it was a win, and it came against a four-year college. SC defeated University of Michigan-Dearborn 15-12, 15-8, 15-8 Thursday at UM-D.

Shannon Capstick paced SC with 11 kills and 15 digs. Danielle Pfeffer had nine kills and four service aces, Kristen Barnes had eight kills and Tracia Clendenen dished out 19 assists to kills.

The win lifted SC to 7-1 overall.

Hoops

"We made them back the pressure off, hold the ball a bit because the game was in jeopardy and freeze the game instead of just playing it out."

"Kelly Lukasik did a nice job handling the pressure and dealing with their double team. She really got us into some good offensive stuff."

Canton led 12-7 after the first quarter but made five of its first nine shots in the second and built its lead to 22-10.

But the Rocks made four of their last six shots and rallied to within 28-21 at halftime when Karen Gundry scored on a put-back at the buzzer.

"Salem played a nice game and hung in there well," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "They came emotionally ready to play, they defended well and, from the second quarter on, rebounded well."

"They came at us with a lot of energy, and our kids deserve credit for hanging in there."

The Chiefs are an excellent defensive team and use pressure effectively, but Salem was able to advance the ball without a rash of turnovers. Canton had 23 turnovers and the Rocks 15.

"We probably stayed with the three-quarter-court press a little too long, because we got a little tired and they started dealing with it," Blohm said, adding the Chiefs should have fallen back to a half-court defense earlier. "They got the ball over our heads a couple times and dumped it inside."

"One of our approaches with pressure is to get there and make them work, but we got beat on the drive. We wanted to do the steal thing instead of getting down and doing the defensive thing, and that will hurt any defense."

The Chiefs played the second half without center Lisa Nicastri, who scored four points in the first half before a knee locked on her.

Amicie Crayton also had four points for Canton. Gundry, who rolled an ankle Tuesday and played 20 minutes when she wasn't expected to play, and Nicole Van Hees added four apiece for the Rocks.

BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Senior power: Canton senior Erica Anderson scored 11 points in the win. Salem's Nicole Van Hees is the defender.

Canton made 16 of 38 shots for 42 percent, Salem 12 of 44 for 27 percent. The Chiefs sank eight of 15 free throws, the Rocks six of 12.

"I was very happy with the intensity and effort our kids displayed," Thomann said. "We still have a difficult schedule, and I get the sense our kids are getting better every day."

S'FIELD CHRISTIAN 33, PLY. CHRISTIAN 29: Plymouth Christian Academy let a six-point, fourth-quarter lead get away Friday as the Eagles lost to Southfield Christian 33-29 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference opener for both teams.

After a 14-14 halftime tie, PCA pulled away to a 24-18 lead into the final quarter. But the Eagles had trouble stopping Southfield's Channing Bennett, a center who scored 17 points — nine coming in the fourth.

"Bennett was determined to get the ball in the post and when she did we couldn't stop her," PCA coach Rob Windle said.

The Eagles, 1-4 overall, was led by junior center Amy Jefferies with 10 points. PCA was 11-for-24 at the free throw line. Southfield (5-1) struggled at the line, where it made nine of 29.

"We just didn't play defense in the fourth, or offense for that matter," Windle said. "It's disappointing to start the league out with a loss but, hopefully, we'll rebound against Fairlane Christian."

Fox stars in bowling movie

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Bowling goes to the movies!

That's right, and starring Michael J. Fox in the role of a professional bowler.

The movie "Greed" is scheduled for an early 1994 release. Fox portrays a good pro bowler who never quite makes it to the TV finals. The fact in the matter is that Fox, mostly known for his role in "Back to the Future," has not been a bowler at all.

Johnny Petraglis, a hall of famer and all-time great PBA bowler was Michael J. Fox's coach during the production.

As Petraglis said, "Because Michael had never bowled before, it was easy, as he had no bad habits to correct."

Fox will definitely look the part when this movie comes to your neighborhood cinema.

These movies have often had bowling scenes as part of a story: A Streetcar named Desire, in which Marlon Brando was the league bowling leading man; The Deer Hunter, Frankie and Johnnie, The Wanderers, Grease II, and Sorority Babes in the Slime Ball Bowl-O-Rama.

Awards missed this classic, starring Sam Groom.

The Wednesday Mayflower Senior Men's Classic League began its inaugural season last week with the veteran bowlers in full stride. There are still a few openings for men ages 55 and up with at least a 170 average.

Jess Macciocco led the scoring with a 231/636. Jarv Woehlke had a 217, Alvar Freden (217), while yours truly chipped in with a 222. Interested parties should call Mayflower Lanes at 937-8420.

There are still openings on many squads for the Taylor Lanes Pro-Am when the Greater Detroit Open PBA tournament hits town on Oct. 22-27. The Pro-Am still has open squads at 5:30 p.m., 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 22; also 2:30 p.m., 5 p.m., 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Saturday. Every entry receives a new Rhino Pro (TEAL) bowling ball, in addition to competing for cash prizes with the help of three different PBA bowlers. For details, call Taylor Lanes at 946-9092.
