Hoben seeks 17 teacher red

A $2-million-plus bonus school aid package for the Plymouth Canton schools will probably be used to rehire 17 teachers and support workers, and also buy supplies. The teachers' union had hoped that 25 to 30 teachers would be rehired.

With the $2-million-plus Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is receiving from the state, many teachers and parents hoped 25-30 teachers could be hired to help bring down class size, particularly at the elementary level, where classes have as many as 36 children.

It appears likely that 17 K-12 teachers will be hired.

Despite the pleas of teachers union president Chuck Portelli and Classsize Action Partnership co-chairman Sue Feiten, the Plymouth-Canton school board's finance committee is going along with Superintendent John Hoben's recommendation that a total of 17 teachers be hired.

School board members and finance committee members Dave Artley, Jack Farrow and Dean Swartzwelter met Monday night and reviewed Hoben's plan.

Hoben is suggesting the state aid be spent as follows:

- $720,000 for 17 certified teachers. ■ $150,000 for five maintenance em-
- $168,000 to rehire the auditorium manager, technology aide, computer technician, and fleet manager.
- $132,000 for equipment and com- puter repair and replacement. $100,000 for textbooks.
- $85,000 for student assessment.
- $42,000 for block grants for building supplies.
- $58,000 for part-time secretaries in special education, maintenance, se- curity and data entry.
- $35,000 for the Talented and Gifted shuttle and schedule adjustments.
- $100,000 for staff development
- $324,000 in fund balance money.

Model planes take off this weekend

By Joanne Maliszewski Staff Writer

Watching the yellow miniature Piper Cub on the runway ready for takeoff can't be much different than watching its real counterpart taking off from an airport such as Mettetal.

The machine is gassed up. The propeller begins spinning and the sounds - a little softer - are the same as with an actual aircraft. With remote control in hand, Canton resident Bert Brian, president of the Flying Pilgrims Model Airplane Club, guides the 13-pound, quarterscale J3 Cub into the air.

"You can see it bouncing," Brian said, as his plane shifted through the winds Monday afternoon at the club's field at Van Born and Lilley roads. "The ideal day is a little wind."

The field will be the site of an end-of-the-season demonstration of model airplanes 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday this weekend. The public is invited.

Officially called the "Fall Fly for Fun Phase Out," the Flying Pilgrims will present the International Miniature Aircraft Association Chapter 31 demonstration. And it's all for fun.

"It can do loops and rolls," said member Jim Smith of Canton. One of his eight or nine planes is a Sukhoi ,a Russian acrobatic plan. "The control functions are the same," said Smith, a former DC-6 pilot. "In a model plane, you've got to visualize yourself sitting in the airplane. As Smith explains it, model airplanes are a hobby for some people who would love to fly but can't afford it. And for others it's an extension of flying actual aircraft. The weekend event will draw an expected 50-60 pilots with about 80 model planes to the field. You have to turn north off Van Born - behind Valley Towing - to a gated entrance to the field, which the Flying Pilgrims lease from Canton Township for $1 annually.

Like the real thing: Bert Brian, president of the Flying Pilgrims Model Airplane Club, demonstrates his quarter-scale Piper J3 Cub at the club's field. The club presents the International Model Airplane Association Chapter 31 fall demonstration this Saturday and Sunday.

"This will be strictly demonstration," said Brian, certified as a single-engine pilot. "We allow four (planes) in the air at a time. Everyone takes a turn and everyone has a good time.'

Members of the Flying Pilgrims can have any size of miniature plane. The international organization, of which many Flying Pilgrims members are also members, is a special interest group for giant model aircraft. That means planes with a minimum wing span of 80 inches or quarter-scale or larger. Bi-plane models, however, can have wing spans of less than 80 inches.

In addition to having a good time, the clubs are meeting this weekend to encourage the public and anyone else interested in model planes, to take a peek. The Flying Pilgrims is designed, Brian said, to promote the Admission to the event is $3 a carload. That money will go right back to the club, which uses it for maintenance and upkeep of the field that boasts runways.

"People will be on hand to talk about the sport," Brian said.

"I think it's going to be a longtime," said Joe Knollenberg, R-Bloomfield Hills, whose district includes Redford, most of Livonia and Southfield, Farmington, Birmingham and Bloomfield.

Omnicom, communities begin franchise negotiations

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

Negotiations with Omnicom for a new cable television franchise agreement have begun.

"I think the first couple days, the talks went fine," said Canton Township Trustee Phil LaJoy, a member of the Intergovernmental Cable TV Committee.

Omnicom representatives and members of the four-community consortium - Canton and Plymouth townships and the cities of Plymouth and Northville - met for two days Sept. 15-16 to get the ball rolling on the long-awaited negotiations for new franchises between the cable company and the individual communities.

Canton's existing 15-yearagreement expires in 1995 while the city of Plymouth's, for example, expires in 1994.

Officials on both sides want to get under way. "We want to get moving on this. If we can get new things for the community and get it all moving, that will be good,' LaJoy said.

Officials on both sides will not specify exactly what each is looking for in a new franchise. The consortium has a cable television consultant, Larry Monroe, working with them. Lisa Boland, Om-nicom general manager, said the cable company does not have a consultant working on negotia-

"It was very productive," Boland said, referring to the two days of negotiations. "We walked away with issues that both sides need to discuss with their respective sides.'

Omnicom will negotiate separate franchises for each of the communities. "There may be some minor differences among them," Boland said.

And both sides of negotiations are trying to wade through the pile of rules and regulations in the federal 1992 Cable Act. "We're trying to keep up to speed as best as we can. These things are changing. We constantly need to keep on top of it," LaJoy said.

Boland said she hopes federal officials will leave the regulations alone for awhile. "It's caused confusion in the minds of cable people as well as customers," she said, adding the federal government changed some of the rules after the act became effective.

Meanwhile, Omnicom is negotiating with the Detroit area's broadcast channels WJBK-2, WDIV-4, WXYZ-7 and WKBD-

Under the new federal regulations, those channels can charge cable companies for their programming on Omnicom. Oct. 6 is the deadline for agreements, Boland said.

"We hope there is no disruption. We believe this would be a win-win situation (for broadcast and cable)," Boland said. "We are diligently negotiating. The fax machines are busy. Negotiations are continuing."

If there is no settlement between cable and broadcast, antennas will have to be hooked up for those cable customers who want the broadcast channels.

LaJoy said the cable consortium is not taking a position either way on the cable-broadcast negotiations. "I would imagine they will get that worked out," he add-

As of Sept. 1, Omnicom adjusted cable rates for its customers. The new rates mean reduced bills for some customers. The shift in rates was due to the cable act's mandate that cable companies' charges reflect the actual cost of a service. Before the act, companies could keep the price of basic service artificially low by shifting its cost onto additional services, such as remote controls.

2 men face charges in Plymouth shooting incident

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

Two men face a preliminary examination before 35th District Judge Charles Kaufman at 9 a.m. tomorrow in connection with a shooting incident in Plymouth Sept. 15. No one was hurt in the altercation, which stemmed from a dispute over a girl.

It was not gang-related, according to police.

The men pleaded not guilty at their arraignments Friday before District Judge James Garber.

Charged with felonious assault in the commission of a felony is Christopher Weycker, 18, of Canton. The offense is punishable by four years in prison.

Johnathon Bartush, 18, of Plymouth is charged with attempted felonious assault, punishable by two years in prison.

Weycker was released on $4,000 bond, and Bartush was released on personal bond.

The shooting occurred outside the Harvey Street Home of a 17year-old Plymouth youth.

Plymouth Township police have been left holding the bag, 11 bags in all, and filled with 118 pounds of marijuana.

While looking inside the unit, officers discovered the marijuana, which has a street value of about $177,000, police said.

The unit was rented by a man with a California driver's license, which turned out to be fake. Employees told police the man was last seen at the unit in May.

Weeping at the wedding

A 53-year-old Westland woman had less than a good time at her daughter's wedding reception at Plymouth's VFW Hall the evening of Sept. 18. During the festivities, someone stole her purse, containing $325 in cash and her driver's license. The purse later was recovered in a water tank in the men's room, minus the money and the license, police said.

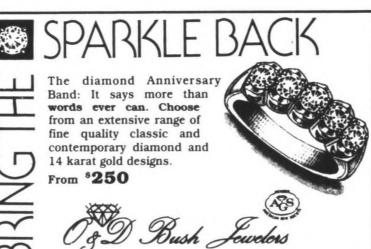

Dry wall in the men's room was damaged. It's not known if the incidents are related in any way.

She notified the VFW of the damage, and didn't expect to receive her $200 security deposit

Moving Civil War Memorial sparks clash

It wasn't exactly a battle.

But some veterans and supporters of an effort to move the town's Civil War memorial from Riverside Cemetery to a side area of Kellogg Park made their case before the city commission on Monday.

And opponents of the move, including other veterans, made their case that it should remain at the cemetery.

While the views clashed, points raised on both sides of the potentially emotional issue were presented in a mannered way on Monday. But arguments are likely to get a second airing when city commissioners review the issue at their Mon. Oct. 4 meeting.

That's when an overall policy of how to review requests for memorials in Kellogg Park is scheduled for consideration.

Henry Giles of Plymouth-Canton VFW Post 528 brought the issue before the commission, reading a letter from John Pappas, a Vietnam veteran heading a Plymouth Civil War Association. Pappas couldn't make it Monday due to work considerations.

In his letter, Pappas called for bringing the statue, known as 'The Lady," "back to her place of honor in Kellogg Park, back as a reminder of that terrible conquest known as the War Between the States.

"We feel it was a great shameful injustice to remove it from the eye of the people," Pappas

Veterans say that moving the statue next to the Vietnam memorial in the triangular area near the Wilcox house would allow vets to go to just one place to conduct ceremonies on Memorial Myrilla Schrader of the Plymouth Branch of the National Farm and Garden Club said the club headed the effort to move the statue in 1969.

"The object of the Garden Club was to make Kellogg Park an open park of just flowers, trees, green grass and park benches for all to enjoy, and we might add, had wonderful support of the entire city in doing

Schrader said the city should also be wary about bringing the statue back because kids who like to climb it could fall, sparking lawsuits.

The move of the statue is backed by two local vets groups, the Plymouth Canton VFW branch 528 and the American Legion Mayflower post, veterans at the meeting said.

Authority takes look at new downtown parking plan

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

A draft of a downtown parking management plan to meet a goal of providing convenient customer parking is being reviewed by the downtown development authority.

DDA members got a first look at the plan Sept. 16. "The overall goal is to try to develop a strategy to basically manage the various aspects of a parking system in downtown Plymouth," said DDA director Steve Guile.

Among the aspects addressed in the plan are employee parking, rate consideration, ratio of longterm to short-term parking and parking lot maintenance, Guile

The cost to hire a full-time parking enforcement officer could involve an initial expense of $40,000 from the DDA budget, to pay for insurance, uniforms, a car and an annual salary of $15,000 to $22,000, Guile said.

In drawing up the draft plan, the DDA and Carlisle Associates Inc. have inventoried employee parking needs and developed al-

Workers employed by the more than 100 businesses downtown occupy a significant portion of the available parking spaces within the downtown development district," the draft plan found.

Ninety six percent of the businesses responded to a survey, showing "that as many as 1,000 employee cars would utilize private and public parking spaces' downtown, the draft stated. These include many spaces "which should ideally be reserved for shoppers."

Possible employee parking could be suggested for the upper deck of the central parking deck, or large private lots including the First of America lot, the Mayflower Meeting House lot and the Westchester Mall lot.

The plan identified 971 munici-, pal parking spaces and 1,294 private parking spaces downtown.

Employers downtown "must be educated as to the problems of employee parking," the plan states, as "nearly 30 percent of all close-in and convenient parking spaces are occupied by employ-writing tickets for violations, and possible installation of on-street parking meters to encourage short-term turn over, the plan

Among other items, the plan also calls for reduction and proper enforcement of loading zones, a uniform parking rate of 25 cents

Formerly known as Wayne County Intermediate School District, RESA links Wayne County's 34 school districts to the state department of education. RESA offers consulting, technical assistance and training to 37,500 school employees responsible for the 363,000 public school students in Wayne County.

In addition to helping districts develop their own programs, RESA directly operates special education programs for more than 500 students, ages 3 to 26 with severe mental and physical impairments and a program for 190 students ages 5 to 18 with severe emotional impairments. RESA also runs Head Start programs for more than 3,500 kids. The RESA superintendent oversees an agency with more than 900 employees and a budget of $125 million in federal, state and local money.

Flanagan was unanimously selected to replace Simmons as RESA's superintendent by a 5-0 vote of the board at a special meeting Sept. 15. His official starting date and terms of his contract are yet to be determined.

In announcing the board's decision, President Mary Blackmon said, "The RESA board believes that Mike Flanagan has the experience, ability and character to lead Wayne County RESA into the next century. Mike is a man of great vision who will complement the organization while helping us stretch. We are confident that he will recognize and maximize the staff talent, serve our constituents well and positively impact education throughout the state. Mike Flanagan is one of the nation's outstanding educators and leaders. We are fortunate to have found a person with these exceptional qualities. We look forward to working with him."

Flanagan worked in the private financial sector from 1971 to 1973. His career in education began in 1973 when he served as a teaching assistant at Eastern Michigan University. In 1974 he joined Farmington schools as director of student services. From 1977 to 1985 Flanagan served as assistant superintendent of the Huron Valley Schools. He then returned to Farmington schools as assistant superintendent (1985-86), then as deputy superintendent (1986-89). Flanagan has been head superintendent of Farmington schools since 1989.

"I look forward to this career change," Flanagan said. "It will provide me the opportunity to make a larger contribution. In Farmington, I've been able to influence the education of thousands of students. Through RESA the potential is much greater. Wayne County is a microcosm of the whole nation. If we can make changes here, we've created a national model. That potential is exciting."

Flanagan, 44, earned a bachelor's degree in finance and economics from the University of Notre Dame in 1971 and a master's degree in educational leadership from Eastern Michigan University in 1974.

Flanagan is the chairman of the state board of education's administrator waiver commission, vice chairman of the national superintendency institute, a member of the state superintendent's school finance advisory committee and a member of the Michigan Association of School Administrators Council.

Originally from Brooklyn, N.Y., Flanagan and his wife, Anna, have three children, Mike, 15, Brian, 13, and Christa, 10.

New Chief: Farmington Public Schools Superintendent Michael Flanagan has been chosen to take over the reigns of the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency, which serves Wayne County's 34 school districts

Hiring 17 teachers would raise the number of total staff to 745. Enrollment is just shy of 15,000, reflecting zero growth over last Hoben emphasized the governor has not yet signed the state aid bill, and that the exact amount of revenue the district is receiving won't be known until then.

"Teachers gave $1.1 million and to bring back 30 jobs," said Portelli. "The same day, we came into $2.7 million. We would like to see you match the $1.1 million with $1.1 million.

Portelli said short of that, he'd like to see the board at least spend $420,000 more to bring back 13 additional teachers. 'We'd see a significant decrease in class size across the board.' While the district did recall 30 certified staff after teachers agreed to defer their 3-percent raise, the action didn't decrease class size, as many of the recalled employees were counselors, social workers, media specialists and the like.

Farrow said he favors bolstering the fund balance to avoid being hit with an unexpected expense the district can't cover. Farrow also favored restoring support "Theoretically, we could reduce class size to 23 or 24. But if we eliminate support staff, teachers can't do their jobs as effectively." Feiten said three first grades at Bird have 32 students, and that at Miller Elementary, third- and fourth-grade classes have 34, 35 and 36 students. "Originally, you were going to operate with a smaller fund balance," she said, adding that she hasn't suggested removing support staff.

"Agreed, but we have a dire need in the classroom," said Feiten. "Based on restorations happening mostly at the middle schools and at the park, I would like to see more equity at elementary." Feiten suggested cutting costs by perhaps having counselors teach a class or two, or by hiring nurse interns instead of recalling a full-time nurse at the high school.

Swartzwelter and Artley said they'd like to get Hoben's plan ready to implement. "If the governor signs this on Friday and we have the cannons loaded and the fuses ready, we can approve this on Monday and be ready to go," Swartzwelter said.

"I agree with Dean," said Artley. "We have to be ready to act on the 27th. I'd like to see the recommendations included in the budget process.

Upon noticing a reporter enter the room at the outset of the meeting, which was not publicized, chairman Artley directed Errol Goldman, executive director for employee relations, to beware of disclosing "items that are about adversity.

Currently a Schoolcraft College student at Radcliff Center, Zaharie walked a long way to get to that institution of higher education. Her walk began in Cujmir, Romania. It was 1988, she was 32 years old and Communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu still lorded it over the country of 23 million peo-

Zaharie's husband, John, had already escaped to Italy, and now it was her turn to flee.

With her two sons, 5 and 7 years old, Zaharie and four others walked throughout the night, 60 kilometers across the border into Yugoslavia.

"I escaped," she said. "It was very difficult."

But the trip wasn't over. Zaharie and her sons rode a train to Belgrade, the former capital of Yugoslavia, then on to the western side of the country. From there she walked a few miles into Italy, officially passing out from under the Iron Curtain.

Reunited with her husband in Italy, Zaharie waited an additional 15 months before getting permission to come to the United States in December 1989, sponsored by a Romanian family in Detroit. "We didn't know them, but they want to help us," Zahar-ie said. "They advised us to live in Detroit because it's more cheaper.'

A year or so ago, Zaharie got a job with Garden City's John Santeiu and Son Funeral Home as a cleaning woman, recommended by a fellow member of Sts. Peter & Paul Romanian Orthodox Church in Dearborn Heights.

So perhaps it's no surprise that Zaharie wants to be a professional cook. Such is her aim at Schoolcraft, where she is currently enrolled in her sixth and seventh

"I like (school) very much, but it's difficult for me," Zaharie said. "I'm studying hard to have a good grade. When I came here I didn't know one word of English."

Helen Dembicki was Zaharie's English teacher at Schoolcraft. 'She worked 10 times harder than anyone else in class," Dembicki said. "Her work was precise. It was done. She always had the an-

As a teacher, Dembicki said, dealing with students from Communist Bloc countries is not all bad. "What's nice about Eastern European people is that they respect the teacher," she said.

Respect, yes. But sometimes fear, too.

Zaharie was apprehensive when contacted for this story, said her employer, John Santeiu III, who is also of Romanian heritage. In Communist Romania, Santeiu said, the only person who wanted to "interview" you was someone with the government. And no one welcomed the news that an interview was sought.

"At first she thought, 'Oh no, I came here to get away from this and now it's starting again," San-

Thought sought on school reform

BY TIM RICHARI

Three months after the Michigan Legislature repealed local property taxes as a source of funding public schools, the issue of reforming education is coming to a head

Next Monday, House Democrats will conduct 13 simultaneous public hearings from 7-10 p.m. around the state. Closest to this area: Wayne Memorial High School, Glenwood east of Wayne Road in Wayne; Dearborn City Hall, Michigan Avenue east of Schaefer; and Mott High School in Warren.

Gov. John Engler will address a joint session of the Legislature at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 5, on his tax and reform proposals.

Engler is expected to ask for "schools of choice" within public schools, competitive bidding on school district health insurance, speedier teacher tenure hearings, and a tax program to replace some of the $6 billion in lost property

Whether Engler will agree to an income tax as partial replacement is unknown. So far the governor has said he won't.

Ever since the Legislature in July suddenly repealed the source of 65 percent of public schools' funding — "we cut the Gordian knot," in Engler's words — leaders of both parties have been floating tax and reform ideas.

Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, said parents in particular will be heard at the Democrats' hearings. "Over the last several weeks, the task force has traveled around the state hearing from educators, business people and school administrators. Now we want parents to tell us what is on their minds," said the veteran chair of the House Education Committee.

"The U.S. education system is miles behind foreign countries," Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, told Keith's task force recently.

Shanker called for better paid and better trained teachers, higher standards, a more defined curriculum, more relevant textbooks and better methods of assessing students.

Rep. Lyn Jondahl, D-Okemos, listed revenues from 14 existing taxes that might be increased to make up the $6 billion loss in local property tax revenue. Jondahl, an announced gubernatorial candidate, had voted against the property tax cut, arguing that the state constitution permitted only a $3.8 billion increase in state replacement taxes. On his list:

Sales and use tax — $927 million per 1 percent; voters would have to amend the constitution. The rate has been 4 percent since the 1960s.

■ Personal income tax — $1.18 billion per 1 percent. It's now 4.4 percent.

■ Single business tax — $806 million per 1 percent. It's now

2.35 percent.

Cigarette tax — $8 million per

■ Liquor tax — $5 milion per 1 percent.

Meanwhile, Sen. Jack Welborn,

R-Kalamazoo, applauded a state insurance commissioner's investigation into the activities of the Michigan Education Special Services Association (MESSA), an arm of the MEA which acts as a third-party administrator of health insurance.

MEA union contracts designate that school districts must deal with MESSA. Engler's program likely will call for mandatory competitive bidding rather than direct dealings with MESSA.

"I am concerned about possible collusion, violation of insurance laws, anti-trust laws, and conflict of interest," Welborn said last May when he called for the investigation of MESSA. He argued that school districts pay $1,000 more per employee to buy through MESSA than if they bought identical coverage from Blue Cross/

Proposed law would benefit city managers

City councils would be able to give their hired managers longerterm contracts under a bill before the state House of Representatives.

Sponsored by Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, the bill already has passed the upper chamber. It received a 7-0 recommendation Tuesday from the House Local Government Committee.

"Currently one council can't bind another," Hongiman told the panel — that is, a council can't give the city manager a contract beyond the council's term of office. Nor can the contract specify the manager's severance pay if a new council wants to fire him.

Honigman's SB 325 would amend the Home Rule Act governing cities. It says a council "may enter into an employment contract with the chief administrative officer extending beyond the terms of the members of the legislative body unless such an employment contract is prohibited by the city charter."

Later it says, "If the chief administrative officer serves at the pleasure of the legislative body, the contract shall so state and my provide for severance pay or other benefits" if the manager is fired.

Honigman said he introduced the bill at the request of the Michigan Municipal League and the city managers' organization. "You probably know how insecure the jobs of city managers are," he said.

Whyman's first bill toughens penalties on food stamp fraud

BY TIM RICHARD STAR WRITER

For passing Rep. Deborah Whyman's food stamp bill, state representatives will get — food stamps.

They're just spoofs," said Whyman, a freshman Republican from Canton. Her "stamp" is a coupon, with her picture, that her 109 fellow members may turn in to her for cookies and milk.

The gift is a House tradition. When a new lawmaker's first bill is passed, he or she is expected to treat other members to a gift, preferably some food product.

Rep. Whyman should understand the Legislature runs on its stomach. That's food, not food stamps," quipped House Democratic floor leader Pat Gagliardi of Drummond Island.

Serious bill

If Tuesday's debate closed with jokes, however, Whyman's House Bill 4985 is serious. It tightens penalties and raises sentences for people who traffic in food stamps issued to the low-income people by the state Department of Social

Her bill passed 105-0 with five absent. All local lawmakers voted ves except Justine Barns, D-Westland, who missed the vote.

There was a floor battle, however, over the penalties in Whyman's bill. "The penalties are too harsh," said Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods. "Judges won't impose full sentences if the penalties are out of whack. though politically we look good."

Whyman said the current top penalty is $10,000. Her bill raises that to $250,000.

The House defeated Gubow's amendment to ease penalties on a vote of 33 yes to 70 no. Among area lawmakers, only Gubow and Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, voted yes, and Barns missed the vote. All others voted yes.

Bullet ballots

Officials debate ways to speed up voting

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Michigan voters could begin trooping to the polls 13 days prior to election day if Secretary of State Richard Austin has his way.

But some lawmakers - like Rep. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, on the House Local Government Committee - fear Austin's plan "will put a strain on local clerks." They prefer expanding the right of absentee voting.

Whichever side prevails, voters would be able to avoid long lineups at polling places, particularly during presidential and gubernatorial elections. Many waited 30 minutes to two hours in 1992, Austin said.

"We've gone far in increasing voter registration," Austin told the panel Tuesday. "Now let's make it easier for them to cast

How it works

In his 19th year as Michigan's top election official, Austin endorsed House Bill 4964, sponsored by Rep. Agnes Dobronski, D-Dearborn. It would:

Allow any voter to show up at the city or township clerk's office prior to the election and ask to vote "as soon as the ballots are ready — usually 13 days before an election.

■ Vote the ballot right there or take it home and mail it back.

The voter could not ask for the ballot by telephone or mail. He or she would have to appear in person with identification in the local clerk's office.

Reason, said Austin, is that the federal "motor-voter" act, which takes effect in 1995, would allow mail registration. At some point, the voter should appear in person, he said, adding, "People who register by mail have never appeared before a clerk."

Texas and Colorado use the system successfully, Austin said.

Absentee different

Currently, Michigan has an absentee voter system for the elderly, the ailing, persons who expect to be out of town on election day, and prisoners awaiting arraignment or trial.

The voter may either visit the clerk in person or apply in writing for an absentee ballot. And the voter must cite a reason for voting

Austin said his early voting plan is different from absentee voting (AV). "Any elector could do it by visiting the clerk's office. Absentee voting is restricted to certain classes of voters," he said. About 15 percent of Michigan voters use the AV method, said state elections director Christopher Thomas. "I expect 25 to 30 percent would vote early," he

In affluent areas, the absentee vote is 30 percent, leading officials to speculate privately that some voters are fibbing about "being out of town" election day.

Local burden?

Austin and Thomas said the early voter system should place no additional burden on local clerks. Whatever costs they encountered through early voting, they would save by having fewer precincts and less equipment.

But Crissman, a freshman lawmaker and former mayor of Rochester, disliked what she called "a two-tiered system" of early voting and absentee voting.

Crissman also saw security problems with early ballots, particularly in rural areas where township clerks work in their

Other lawmakers wondered how clerks would handle the problem of electing political party precinct delegates in the August primaries of even-numbered years. A differ-ent ballot would be required in every precinct - 110 in Dobronski's home town of Dearborn.

Thomas said that could be handled by using a separate paper ballot for precinct delegates.

Refer to House Bill 4964 when writing to your lawmaker in the State Capitol, Lansing 48913. The bill is assigned to the House Local Government Committee.

Highland Superstores Inc. vacated the site after going out of business in March.

City of Plymouth officials said then the property would likely draw interest from other companies. "I knew there were several organizations out there that were interested in the property," said city finance director Bill Graham.

The site at 909 N. Sheldon provides 35 acres and 530,000 square feet of warehouse and office space.

"It has rail access, access to major north and south expressways that's a heck of a deal," Graham said. "It would be extremely expensive to replace that building as it currently exists.

"Essentially we're really most pleased that something of a positive nature is happening over there," Graham said.

Restoration of tax-base sharing money restricted by the state and held in escrow the past two years is a victory for proponents of local school control, state Rep. Jerry Vorva said this week.

"We are pleased to see a major portion of the Robin Hood money coming back where it belongs, said the Plymouth Republican. 'As an advocate of the need for proper school funding in the past and as an opponent of unnecessary school millage, I have worked hard to get these funds returned, and hope local schools will invest the money into smaller class siz-

Under a provision of Public Act 108 of 1991, better known as taxbase sharing or Robin Hood, 50 percent of tax revenue growth from commercial and industrial expansion was to be shared with in-formula districts.

The Macomb County Taxpayers Association obtained a restraining order to prevent the cal schools will invest the money into smaller class sizes.' funds from being distributed, and the money has been held in escrow by the Oakland and Wayne county school districts pending resolution of a suit before the Michigan Supreme Court. Plymouth Canton Public Schools have withheld $737,888 and expect to receive $368,944 back. Northville Public Schools have withheld $54,948 in the past two years and Livonia has set aside $704,054.

"With the elimination of property taxes as a base for school funding, the tax-base sharing provision isn't even relevant," Vorva said. "This year's school aid funding bill includes a repeal of the Robin Hood laws.

Funds will be returned to the districts that have contributed to the escrow account as soon as legislation is passed to release them. Because the school aid act is an appropriations bill, the Attorney General's Office has ruled the repeal language is not adequate to free the money.

"I hope the money will be used by the school directly for the classroom either for teaching materials or to limit class size," Vor-

President's Clinton's health care proposal will mean sweeping changes in how health care is delivered and financed in the United States. Here is a summary of the major points

Universal coverage includes all U.S. citizens and longtime alien residents.

Everyone will receive a health security card.

· Guaranteed health care benefit package. A minimum requirement for health services covering hospitalization, surgery, immunizations, regularly scheduled physical examinations, ambulance service, hospice care, mental health coverage, vision services, child dental service.

· Regional and corporate health alliances will be formed to purchase health care plans. Corporations with more than 5,000 employees will be allowed to Regional and corporate alliances would choose from available health care providers including HMOs, PPOs and traditional. States would be responsible for establishing alliances or submit a plan of health care reform. States may opt for a single payer system.

· Alliances must be established by Jan. 1, 1997.

· Mandatory employer contribution of 80 percent of premium, employees will pay 20 percent. Small businesses would be eligible for subsidies. Major employers would receive a break on retirement health benefits.

Self employed and unemployed would be responsible for family and employer share unless they are eligible for assistance based on income

Creation of National Health Board which would oversee requirements for state plans, interpret and update guaranteed benefits, issue regulations concerning implementation of national budget for health care spending, establish performance based system of quality management and improve-

National Quality Management program would develop quality information and accountability program.

Encourages move away from medical specialization to primary care and internal medicine, including a student loan forgiveness program.

Business leery of government

By Doug Funke Staff Writer

For business, it boils down to a question of trust. Can government overhaul the health care system to meet the needs of both employers and employees?

Frank Zuccaro, owner of Aerodata, a computer services consulting business in Plymouth, has his doubts. Zuccaro employs his wife, Gloria, and two other persons, all three of whom are covered by their spouses' health plans.

"I don't object to there being a national health care plan in spirit," Zuccaro said. "I just don't think government can pull it off. I don't think he (Clinton) can cure a system in five years that has taken a lifetime to be as screwed

Zuccaro said he employs so few that if he had to pay part of their health care premiums it wouldn't make much difference one way or

But he couldn't afford to pay the entire premium for all employees as he did several years

"It just wouldn't be affordable," Zuccaro said. "It's gone up tremendously. It's been in a runa way mode. A family of four will run you $600 a month.

At the other end of the spectrum is the Ford Motor Co. The automotive giant spent $1.35 billion last year on health care for its employees and retirees, said David Caplan, a company spokes-

"In general, we do support national health care reform," Caplan said Monday. 'We look forward to the release of the president's plan. Despite some of our cost containment programs, the company's health care costs have risen to the point where they jeopardize our ability to compete on a global basis," Ca-

"I think we are hopeful a national health care program will reduce costs," he said. "But in the end, it may reduce only the rate of "Contractual business aside (who pays what in a labor agreement with the UAW), health care costs have been rising 8 percent each of the last five years, the consumer price index, 4 percent,' Caplan said. "That's intolerable."

Kmart, one of the nation's largest general retailers with headquarters in Troy and stores throughout the metro area, declined comment earlier this week on specifics about Clinton's plan.

"We're very much monitoring legislation, very much involved in discussion," said Shawn Kahle, Kmart spokeswoman.

The company, which employs 250,000 in the United States and Canada, currently has a self-insurance medical coverage plan in partnership with a Blue Cross-Blue Shield-type provider, Kahle

"Kmart always has had the sort of health-care structure where some of the costs are carried by the worker and some are carried by the company," she said. "Kmart has discovered a niche in the discount area. Cost control is an inherent part of business." Only full-time employees, or about half of the total, are eligible for medical care coverage, she

Kahle declined to comment on what percentage the company now pays compared with the 80/20 ratio for employers/employees in large companies proposed by

Clinton. Regardless of where an individual works or in what capacity, any new health care plan likely will be measured - and accepted - by changes in existing costs and

Ron Brown, executive assistant to the president of Local 876 of the United Food & Commercial Workers Union, makes that point very clear. His union represents some 20,000 workers at major food stores like A&P, Farmer Jack and

"Members certainly want to maintain the level of benefits they have now," Brown said, adding that employers currently pay all health premium costs.

"Members feel the cost of health care, with employers saying they only have X amount of dollars to spend with X amount to wages and X amount to fringes is part of a total compensation package," he said.

Single-payer system works in Canada

Editor's note:In the debate over health care alternatives, many liberal Democrats favor a singlepayer system, similar to that in Canada. Reporter Mary Rodrique has lived in Canada for many years and is familiar with both the Canadian system and the current U.S. health insurance system.

BY MARY RODRIQUE STAFF WRITER

As an American who has spent the last dozen years residing in Ontario, I've experienced health care Canadian style.

A lot of the complaints I hear about OHIP (Ontario Health Insurance Plan) from Americans aren't true or are at least exaggerated.

Granted the system isn't per-fect — what is? But I believe it is far better than the mishmash that passes for health care in the United States, with employees paying an ever increasing share of their paycheck for less coverage and more than 35 million Americans with no health care insurance

At least in Ontario, everyone is covered by the plan. All pregnant women have access to prenatal care. Young children can receive immunizations and regular checkups. No one need fear putting off a trip to the doctor for financial reasons. Almost as gratifying as not having to bring your wallet to a doctor's appointment is not having to deal with insurance companies.

One of the complaints I've heard is that OHIP is fine for treating mild illnesses, like bronchitis or a sinus infection, but anyone with a life threatening problem is put on an interminable waiting list for treatment.

I know of two Canadian women who have been diagnosed with breast cancer within the past three years. Both received timely treatment. Both are doing fine.

When my gynecologist discovered a small lump two years ago, I had an appointment with a surgeon within a week. A breast biopsy, thankfully, turned out Another complaint I've heard is that patients overuse the system because it's free. How many people do you know who enjoy going to a doctor? I don't think I have ever overused the system.

There is also a common belief that treatment is second rate less than state of the art. When I was pregnant with my first child 10 years ago, my American obstetrician encouraged me to deliver the baby here, implying the care I would receive would be better than in Canada. Because I was working full time in Livonia with job related health insurance, I heeded his warning. Everything went off without a hitch. I would rate my prenatal care and hospital delivery as first rate.

Two and a half years later, I had a second child. Working part time with no American health care coverage, daughter number two was born in Windsor. I would also rate my pre and post natal care by my obstetrician (a graduate of Wayne State University Medical School) as first class all Another complaint I've heard

- to get an appointment with a specialist requires a very long wait. Again, that hasn't been my experience.

I know that OHIP is experiencing problems - some doctors are leaving to practice their specialties in the more lucrative American market. But Canadian doctors are certainly living a comfortable lifestyle.

Hospitals are downsizing, money is getting tight. But overall I think OHIP is a great system.

The other complaint I hear is that Canadians are taxed to death to support the health care system. I'll agree with the first part of that. Canadians are certainly taxed to the hilt. But it is a myriad of social programs supported by a tiny middle class that is the real culprit.

Canadians will take a lot from their government. But I truly believe they would never stand for anyone tampering with their health care system.

How health care would change under Clinton

Know that term - and how it is defined by the Clinton Administration task force — and you have a pretty solid understanding of how the healthcare system would change under the plan unveiled Wednesday.

Regional health-care "alliances" would be responsible for virtually every aspect of health care — from determin-ing who's eligible for which services, to how fees are set. The move would presumably create a market-driven healthcare system more responsive to competition than the current, insurance-driven industry. Here's a look at the way

some things will change in southeastern Michigan: COST TO USERS

■ Current system: Employees with employer-provided insurance pay a portion or nothing toward their premiums but deductibles and co-pays are often required for services rendered. Employees in lowpaying jobs and the unemployed have no health insurance and rely on Medicaid to pay for services.

Clinton plan: All employees have insurance. Most smalland medium-sized employers will be responsible for 80 percent of premiums with employees paying about 20 percent (as low as $60 per year for singles, as high as $1,140 for families). Small businesses will be eligible for subsidies. Large employers may create their own alliance. Senior citizens still covered under Medicare, which has a separate budget.

DOCTORS' FEES

Current system: Dr. Gerald F. Robbins, a neurologist with a practice in Garden City and president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said over-head costs (staff, insurance, rent, etc.) and community economics are factors.

"There are certain regulations (anti-trust laws), which have really been enforced the last couple of years, where doctors can't sit down and discuss fees," he said.

"Frequently, we look at what our rates are and, if insurance is paying that, we might raise 5 percent (annually) so we can keep up with inflation." Clinton plan: A national health care budget - determined through an average of premiums for the guaranteed standard benefits package

Dr. Gerald F. Robbins: A neurologist with a practice in Garden City and president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

ensures that costs rise at the rate of inflation or less. Alliances can negotiate with providers but fees are set within those paramaters. Savings to providers come from administrative simplification and increased negotiating power through the alliances.

WHAT ABOUT PRESCRIP-TION DRUGS?

■ Current system: Insurance companies are the middle-people, said Gilbert C. Gerhard, vice president of finance and administration for Arbor Drugs, headquartered in Troy.

"In any contract with a third-party insurer, what we usually have is an arrangement that they pay us a certain amount for a prescription which is pretty much based on our cost - what we pay the manufacturer.

"And they (insurers) give us a dispensing fee (which averages $3 per perscription) for the work of professional services.

"Usually there's a co-pay of some sort collected from the customer depending on what the contract is with the carrier.

Profits are generated by the number of prescriptions sold, not by the cost of the medication, he said.

Clinton plan: Presciptions are part of the basic benefits package. Alliances become the middle-people in the supplierretailer equation.

Insurance terms:

Traditional: Medical insurance that includes some type of major medical coverage, covers emergencies and includes more doctors and hospitals. This type usually does not cover office visits and many preventive tests or physicals. It also often requires a deductible.

PPO: Preferred provider organization, such as Blue Preferred or Select Care. A PPO network usually includes subscribing doctors and health providers at specified hospitals and clinics. This type offers full benefits as long as participating doctors and hospitals are used. It pays a portion of the insurance if a doctor or service not in the plan is used. HMO: Health maintenance organization - Blue Care Network and Health Alliance Plan are examples. This covers 100 percent of health costs, including doctor's office visits, physicals, major medical and emergency, second opinions, and aftercare. But it is limited to a certain group of doctors, hospitals and other facilities and does not reimburse at all if a patient goes outside the network, except in emergency.

Mary Ellen Lehikoinen is an example of most of what's right and much of what's wrong with U.S. health care.

The 31-year-old Northville Tewnship woman — whose fight against diabetes and related illnesses goes back to her childhood — has no complaints about doctors, treatments or hospital Medical care she has received has been "fist-rate," she said.

The downside: sky-high costs and horrible bureaucracies that dominate the health-care provider and insurance systems.

Lehikoinen's experience will likely make her an early beneficiary of the health-care reform propesal outlined Wednesday by resident Bill Clinton.

Had the Clinton plan been in lace three years ago, Lehikoinen might still be working as a recepionist at a Southfield psychiatric

"I loved working there," she aid. "But because I was under somuch strain, quitting was the est thing for me to do at the

Had health-care reform been around in February 1992, Lehikoinen's $53,000 pancreas and kidney transplant surgery would have been been covered under federally mandated insurance.

Instead, the bill was added to a $400,000 pile of medical expenses many still outstanding — that has robbed the Lehikoinen family of its life savings.

More important though, said Urho "Al" Lehikoinen, is the time and energy lost to endless, usually unproductive phone calls and letters to insurance companies, not spent with his ailing daugh-

Diagnosed as a diabetic at 4, Lehikoinen began taking insulin and suffered few complications until her senior year at Temple Christian High School in Redford Township.

"I noticed my vision was getting worse and then during a check-up my doctor asked if I knew I had experienced a renal failure.'

She embarked on an odyssey of lengthy, on-and-off hospitalization and daily dialysis treatments for her failed kidneys, still managing to graduate high school (a year behind her class) and even-tually earning a degree from the Detroit College of Business. Dialysis and extended hospitalizations have been eliminated with the transplant surgery. However Lehikoinen still takes 30-40 prescription medications daily and is constantly sending blood and urine samples to the lab for evaluation.

When coverage on her parents' insurance policies ended in her mid-20s, the Lehikoinens used Social Security and Medicare benefits to help defray medical

The kidney/pancreas transplant, done at the University of Minnesota Hospital - slipped through the cracks in their coverage, according to Al Lehikoinen.

The operation, which would have been covered by Medicare, was done after Mary Ellen's 90day hospital benefit and reserve coverage had expired.

Blue Care Network refused payment, calling it "experimental surgery." "It's unbelievably frus-trating. We have all this insurance and I'm still falling through the cracks," Mary Ellen Lehikoinen said.

Health administrators skeptical on financing

BY BILL COUTANT STAFF WRITER

Most hospital administrators will tell you the idea of universal health care is not only one they endorse but one that could end up saving the health care system in the long run.

The same administrators will tell you that the Clinton health plan's mechanism for paying is either "scary" or so much "smoke and mirrors."

"The intention is good," said John Labriola, vice president and CEO at Troy Beaumont Hospital. 'Coverage for the uninsured is something we all want. But the administrative costs of health care are already totally out of con-

Hospitals and the health care system are already regulated by the government. But the idea of a stepped up role strikes several administrators, doctors and other health care professionals as the vrong direction. Gerald Lo Duca, Crittenton Hospital's director of patient accounts, said the Rochester hospital's billing is already simplified, with most patients using one of two forms. Part of the high cost of billing, clerical and other costs comes from the number of insurers. But going to a one payer system, such as Canada's, would make the system even slower.

"It takes 4-6 months for repayment in that monster," he said. 'In our system, the maximum amount of time is 75 days."

Worries about cost: John Labriola, vice president and CEO at Troy Beaumont Hospital, says everyone is for universal health care but that costs have gotten out of hand.

Lo Duca, who supervises 64, said President Lyndon Johnson had said the Medicare system would cost $9 billion by 1990. It now costs $90 billion, he said.

"They're talking about savings," he said. "But nothing the government does is going to save and Medicaid as one part of the

And speaking of Medicare, that's what has led many health care professionals to mistrust the Clinton proposal, which earmarks cuts in the growth of Medicare means of financing. "They've been cutting Medicaid for years," said David Marcellino, chief financial officer at Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills. "You can only go to the well Hospitals reimbursements from Medicare and Medicaid have not matched what it costs hospitals to provide them in many cases. That leaves patients with other forms of insurance to pick up a bigger tab. But with the prospect of regional health networks or alliances called for in the plan, hospitals will have a harder time making up the difference, said Wayne George, CFO at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

"It's going to limit hospitals from recouping from their other payers," he said.

George said the proposal relies on government projections, which have always been inaccurate.

"I have no confidence in their figures," George said.

Donald Potter, president of Southeast Michigan Hospital Council of the Michigan Hospital Association in Southfield, said bringing the 37 million or so uninsured Americans into the system would alleviate the inefficiencies of using emergency rooms for the uninsured, which is expensive and often forces the patient to wait until a condition becomes serious before treatment is sought.

And hospitals combining services could also save the system money. But the conflict between the Department of Justicewhich comes down against such combinations as anti-trust violations - and the Department of Health - which encourages the idea of sharing technology, staff and facilities to save money — is another conflict indicative of the problems the government will Add the time it will take for any proposal (the Republicans, conservative Democrats and others planned) to make it through the gauntlet of regulations, enabling legislation and state departments of health, social services and insurance regulators, and it could take six to 10 years for a plan to be in force.

"If 85 percent say they like the insurance they're getting and they realize that they will have to pay so that everyone is insured, does everyone believe we have a health care crisis.?"

With small businesses picking up 80 percent of an employee's health insurance tab and emplo ees having copays for care and prescriptions, the plan faces opposition, he said.

Potter said the recent agreement between Ford and the UAW did not address a fundamental change in health care delivery or payment.

"They couldn't even pull it off at that level," Potter said.

Doctors welcome malpractice reform

BY BILL COUTANT STAFF WRITER

Although the Clinton health care plan offers some relief to the present system, it presents problems for the people who provide health care.

Dr. Max McKinney, an osteopath in private practice in Farmington Hills, said the plan has some features he hopes will fly, but as a primary care physician and a small businessman, he also has concerns.

"It offers some malpractice reform," he said. "If we as physicians did not have to worry about malpractice, there are a lot of tests we would not do and that would save the system a lot of

McKinney, who employs another doctor and 10 other employees, also sees the continuation of a fee for service approach as an important issue.

But as a small businessman, McKinney, who now pays about $15,000 in health insurance premtims for employees, said the new higher burden on small businesses will also hit him. And the emphasis on primary care physicians will make them the "gate keepers" for health care at a time most doctors opt for a specialty.

Like McKinney, Dr. Gerald
Robbins, a neurologist who practices in Garden City and is presi-dent of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, headquartered in

Farmington Hills, says providing access to the system for an additional 37 million patients is a tall

"We believe universal access to health care is something every Amercian is entitled to," Robbins said. "We want to keep up the quality of our work as in the past and keep improving. "Probably one way to reduce costs is paperwork. I spend probably two hours in every 10-12 hour work day on paperwork. It takes away patient care to do that."

Dr. Susan Hershberg Adelman, a pediatric surgeon and member of a health professional review group appointed to critique the work of the 500-member Clinton/ Ira Magaziner health care task force said fears that universal health care, one of the plan's main goals, won't be an easy task.

'My greatest hope is we finally et universal coverage," said the Bingham Farmns resident. "My greatest fear is we'll make a mess of it and still not get universal coverage. The whole system will change and we still won't get it because we don't have a way to pay for it."

Dr. Paul LaCasse, medical director at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills, said although the plan puts big demands on primary care physicians, it also emphasizes the training of more primary care physicians.

"One of its strengths is that it encourages patients to choose alliances with primary care physicians," LaCasse said.

Because medical students often go into debt to complete school and specialists can command bigger fees, doctors have been reluctant to go into primary care, he

LaCasse said malpractice reform could also make it easier for obstetricians to practice in Michi-

Dr. Richard Herbert, medical director at Troy's Beaumont Hospital, said paying for universal health care and keeping choices available are going to be tough to juggle under the plan.

Universial health care is a great idea," he said. "But how we are going to do it is the question. The Amercian public is going to continue to expect a high level of health care.

Carol Zenas, acting dean of nursing at Oakland University, said she is concerned that the plan may not provide adequate access to the uninsured, especially women and young children.

And although nurses are the largest group of health care providers, the plan leaves doctors in control, which will leave nurses and nurse practitioners under

The plan will also get some resistance over concerns about managed care, which limits the choices of doctors for patients.

"They (patients) know their own doctor, but how do they know their own doctor is any good?" she

Ed Hodges, Botsford's chair-man of the board, said the plan is a good start, but a lot of people are afraid of change.

"It's not as complicated as it seems," he said. "Some complications will be eliminated by the plan. There are just a lot of groups with their own biases.

"We're all going to take some hits," he said. "But on balance, it's a good plan."

about the proposal.

"Basically he's dodged the issue. It's a political response to a financial and economic issue," Nahra said.

Nahra said a political compromise will probably be reached. He said a Republican posal by Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I. might be used to define a middle ground.

"The true impact of health care reform will be at the state level," Nahra said. He said states have already taken a lead in this area and two proposals are already being considered in the Michigan Legis-

Gary Horvat, MPRO's chief executive officer, said his organization had reviewed the Clinton health proposal that was leaked to the press last week. He said his initial reaction is that the proposal is ambitious and will have a major effect on how health care is distributed.

"In general we support what the president is doing," Horvat said. "There will be a coalition formed about managed comp tition. One concern we have is that a lot of consumer protec-tion items are fragmented throughout the report."

The need for more toilet facilities for women is obvious to anyone who has seen the unacceptably long lines outside women's restrooms in buildings which host large crowds," said Engler of the bill that took eight years to become law.

Fisher's art to benefit AIDS awareness campaign BY MARY KLEMIC STAFF WRITER Many people know Mary Fisher for the stirring words she has spo-ken on AIDS and AIDS research. But Fisher also expresses herself strongly in another medium: handmade paper works, an exhibit of which is at the O.K. Harris/ David Klein Gallery in Birming-ham through Oct. 2. Some of the proceeds from sales of the one-

Call for compassion
In 1991, Fisher's former husband told her he was HIV positive. After testing, she learned she was infected with the HIV virus, which often is a precursor of AIDS. She went public with this in February 1992.

Since then Fisher founded the Family AIDS Network and told her story nationally and internationally, calling for thoughtful policies and AIDS awareness and compassion.

Taking responsibility is a big part of her message. "I find that people believe it will not happen to them," she The Family AIDS Network addresses three areas: increasing

"I get a tremendous amount of mail and calls."

Fisher has heard many moving stories firsthand. One was from a young woman whose father died of AIDS. The woman was having difficulty accepting not just his death but the hidden part of his life. An older woman lost her son to AIDS and never told anyone for five years, unable to grieve in front of others or ask for help.

Speaking out

Fisher spoke about AIDS at the 1992 Republican National Convention in Houston.

"It was an incredible experience, just being there with so many people."

The buildup during the week of the convention made her nervous, but Fisher believed "I was doing the right thing." She says the same thing in her speeches today that she did at the convention.

"It wasn't different words, it was a different audience.'

Last week on the Miss America Pageant, Fisher gave a televised message to the 1992 Miss America, who had pushed for further AIDS education during her reign.

"That was quite an honor. I feel inspired by her." The two women became friends a year ago, Fisher said.

Board plan short on teachers

he Plymouth Canton Board of Education on Monday will forge ahead and make a decision to pork up the local administration rather than do something for the 15,000 students in the district.

Board members, headed by David Artley, sided with school administators who are pushing a plan to spend $2.6 million in "extra" state school aid on what basically amounts to administration and fluff.

-The school administration backed plan calls for rehiring 17 teachers, while the teacher union plan called for rehiring 28.

We agree with the teachers' union. The Plymouth Canton school district has 28 fewer teachers than it did two years ago, even though the number of students has remained about the same.

Fewer teachers translates into larger class sizes, less learning and in some cases more discipline problems.

Also, because of a union contract, classrooms with more than 32 students must have a teacher's aide. There are now 175 aides, compared to 135 two years ago when the district had more

The decision made by Artley and his cohorts reveals much about the mindset of the Plymouth Canton school board which is to feather the beds of administrators and short the class-

There is something the public can do. The final decision will be made at 7:30 p.m. Monday when the school board meets. Residents can attend that meeting in the board chamber at 454 S. Harvey St. and voice their concerns before the final vote.

Here's what the school administration wants to do with the money: Put $324,000 in a fund balance; rehire five maintenance workers; call back administrators; repair equipment; purchase text books; allocate $35,000 for busing talented and gifted students; $58,000 for secretaries and spend $100,000 for staff develop-

The administration plan for "educational spending" will do nothing to help the average student in the Plymouth Canton schools.

It's no wonder education spending puts local legislators such as State Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, in a tailspin. They work to come up with money for education, and all that happens is more administration,

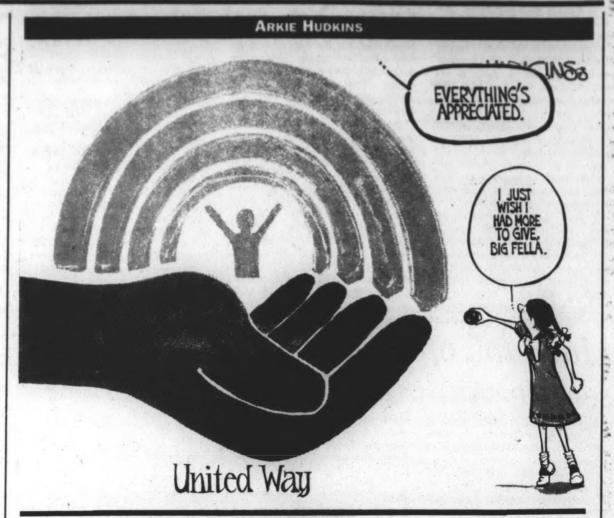

Just take a look at the administration's proposed spending. There's $168,000 to rehire what the district now calls support staff. They called them administrators when they laid them off. That's enough money to hire back two possibly three classroom teachers.

Then there's $58,000 for seretarial work. At the cost of another teaching position, a couple of administrators won't have to type their own

The big item is the $324,000 for the fund balance, which is really a savings account, a rainy day fund that can be used to replace a boiler in a school if it blows up. It's the same thing most folks would do, if they had the money; save for a

It's time for the Plymouth Canton schools to invest in children, not in a bank account or in paper shuffling.

Scrap developmental wholeheartedly agree with M.B. Dillon's article in scrapping the developmental curriculum. I hope to read more informative articles like this in the future.

What stinks right now in our school district? Teachers? No. students and parents? No. Board? Well . . . Curriculum? Yes. So if it's the curriculum that is so bad, it's the curriculum directors and planners that should be fired.

I recall the science and math advisor saying that students don't need to learn long division because they have calculators.

If citizens want an excellent school district, these positions should be filled by a voluntary panel of parents (not chosen by the school). ope and sequences are available for free fron many of the textbook publishers. I have three of them myself from different publishers to plan my homeschool curriculum. Parents, get on the ball and call some textbook publishers immediately so you can have new curriculum next fall. If parents wait for the schools to respond with curriculum, they will never get the desired re-

Imagine what would happen in Canton if people found out the parents actually chose the curriculum. People would be rushing to Canton to build new $250,000 homes. The community would flourish without having to raise tax rates.

Second, once OBE, or developmental, is scrapped, elementary students would not need to each see the school psychologist. One or two counselors for the district would suffice if we had an academic curriculum as opposed to a personality development curriculum. Special ed labels would magically disappear.

"Learning disabled" normal youngsters would become normal again, especially when supplied with a curriculum designed to be taught, and not "facilitated" or "remediated," as the mastery learning approach necessitates. This would be a cost savings at a time of tight

Third, parents, get a candidate for the board for this fall. Prepare campaign strategies and set up your organization now. Get your own PAC, with fundraisers and coffees. If you work hard, your candidate will win. Local control will only happen if parents get involved in curriculum planning and the school board instead of fundraisers and popcorn days china-shop approach to trimming government causes far more harm than good. The latest example of the governor's heavyhanded actions involves eliminating a series of state Department of Natural Resources boards and commissions. With a stroke of the pen, the governor will delete 19 of 27 DNR panels. And a recent, unanimous state Supreme Court decision ensures him that right.

We agree that state government needs trimming. Still, there is a big difference between downsizing government to make it more responsive and less costly, and hamstringing it alto-

Given this governor's shredding of the state mental health care system — not to mention the sacking of public school financing - we see this latest action continuing a dangerous trend.

Make no mistake, finding the proper role of government is the central political issue of the Experience has shown us we can't depend on government to solve all society's ills, as was hoped by the 1960s.

But by now we should realize the anti-government approach of the 1980s isn't working either. Engler's wholesale restructuring of the DNR worries us for several reasons.

For starters, he never mentioned it in the 1990 campaign. Second, he never consulted with the heads of the abolished panels before making his cuts.

Their duties, covering everything from air sizing government to make it more responsive and less costly, and hamstringing it altogether.

pollution control to plastics recycling to hazardous waste management now pass to the alreadyoverworked DNR itself.

Several of these boards, including the Act 61 Oil and Gas Advisory Board, staffed by industry types, were born of special interest group lobbying. To them, we say good riddance. But others, like the Marine Safety Education Commission, have a legitimate role yet to serve.

Clearly, Engler's action doesn't make this critical distinction. As such, it is more based on short-term political expediency than of any genuine desire to make the DNR more responsive to the public it serves.

In his re-election campaign, the governor can boast of taking action to trim governemnt.

It's action, all right. But it's action without regard for consequences.

There does appear to be an alternative. The national governmental restructuring plan currently being touted by President Clinton and Vice President Gore is broad-based and farreaching - something that cannot be said of Engler's trash-a-department-at-a-time antics. It also appear to be gaining bi-partisan support.

It's this kind of leadership we need from our next governor, whoever he or she might be. And it's that bi-partisan spirit we need from our thus far too divided and cowardly Legislature.

Teacher sacrifice

s the parent of children in the Plymouth-Canton Public Schools, I would like to thank two groups for their part in restoring teachers and programs

First, I would like to thank Jim Vassello and all the parent coalition members for their long hours and hard work in putting together the proposal that made the restoration of programs possible. I'm sure it's impossible to imagine how much time went into this effort.

Secondly, I would like to commend all the members of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association. Voting to defer a scheduled wage increase had to be difficult. "Teacher-bashing" seems to be "politically correct" right now. People claim that teachers don't care about kids. The Plymouth Canton teachers literally put their money where their mouth is and proved to us that kids and education come first. I extend a heart-felt thank-you.

Election control

believe the 1993 Plymouth City Commission election may be the most important election in the city's history. It will be the most expensive for candidates. This election will determine if political control will remain in the hands of the city residents or if it will return to those inside and outside the city who have controlled the commission in the past and are now prepared to buy it back with bumper stickers and signs on our lawns.

The ex-congressman from Plymouth Township has announced that "I am going to retake control of the city." The congressman had $220,000 left over from his congressional war chest that gives him and his candidates access to funds that others may not have.

Candidate Tom Prose has stated he will spend $5,000, and candidate Vos spent about that amount for his 1989 campaign. The six independent candidates all have indicated they hoped to keep expenditures to about $1,000. (All of this for a position that pays $10 per meeting or about $250 a year before taxes.)

The City Commission in the past two years, under Mayor Bob Jones's leadership and City Manager Steve Walter's management has: Held the city budget at zero increase; established policies in key areas including ethics, purchasing, and organization that provide essential communication and control; encouraged and permitted participation by citizens in the process of gov-

Does the ex-congressman from the township want "control" so the city can return to having citizens sued by one of its commissioners; to setting up a joint agreement to maintain and operate a recreational airport? Or is he unhappy that the commission canceled the bond issue for Streetscape when the legislature and the governor eliminated property tax support for public schools and thereby reduced funding for downtown development?

If residents of the city want to turn over control to the ex-congressman from the township, they should plunk for Vos and Prose on Nov. 2. If citizens do not want to lose control, they should consider four of the six independent candidates: Stella Greene, Ron Loiselle, Mackie, David McDonald, Doug Miller, and Rosita Smith.

As a Palestinian growing up in Israeli-occupied territory, we became accustomed to the sounds of gunfire, bombs and the blaring of soldiers ordering us to obey their curfew.

We have been accused of being terrorist and terrorist sympathizers simply because we are Palestinians. Our grief was cheered and death was applauded by those who support the state of Israel.

With the signing of this historic agreement between the PLO and the state of Israel . . . for the first time in my life, I feel I am able to display my pride of being a native Palestinian without fear of repercussions.

Before the formal ceremony began, Arabs and Jews shared their hopes and aspirations for peace. For the first time, I finally realized that Israelis, too, have suffered and, just like me, they aspire to live a normal life without guns and fear.

Like it or not, the Palestinians and Israelis are inextricably linked. Yet, because of our claim over the same piece of land and because of historical injustice, we never connected and

All that was accomplished was the death of thousands of innocent people and increased hatred toward each

With the symbolic handshake and the signing of the peace agreement, the world witnessed the beginning of hope, reconciliation and cooperation, transferring negotiations from the battlefield to the diplomatic field. However, the world must realize that peace has not yet been achieved, but rather just begun. For Palestinians, many issues about their destiny have yet to be resolved, such as the refugee status, the implementation of U.N. Resolution 338, 242, which orders the return of the land to the Palestinians, which they lost in 1967 and the questions of the status of Jerusalem. Also, the Palestinians are deeply concerned about the status of the 13,000 Palestinian prisoners in Israeli jails and the future treatment of Palestinians under occupation outside Jericho and Gaza who will remain during the negotiations.

Despite these concerns, we are optimistic about the success of this initiative. The enemies of peace are many. Therefore, we must all work together to bring an end to the bloodshed and slaughter.

This excerpt taken from the Declara-tion of Principles on Interim Self-Gov-ernment Arrangement sums up the hope that all people yearn for: "It is time to put an end to decades of confrontation and conflict, recognize their mutual legitimate and political rightsand strive to live in peaceful coexis-tence and mutual dignity and security and achieve a just, lasting and compre-hensive peace settlement and histori-cal and reconciliation through the agreed political process."

This agreement brings forth the hope that the children of that region will be allowed to be children, instead of ammunition experts as they have been for the last four decades.

Terry Ahwal, a Livonia resident, is president of the local chapter of the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee. She works as Wayne County executive assistant.

Other Mideast countries now hold key to peace

s this was written, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and PLO Chairman Yassar Arafat were arriving at the White House for the historic signing ceremony. I never expected that I would witness such an event in my lifetime, and my heart is filled with heightened and conflicting Clearly, this is a momentous breakthrough, one that may bring an end to the violence directed at Israelis and Palestinians for so many years. It may enable them to live together as neighbors, at peace with one another. It may even usher in a period of regional cooperation, involving economic linkages and scientific and cultural exchange.

Mideast peace will further envelope

the region if Syria, Lebanon and Jordan conclude separate peace agree-ments with Israel. While the Palestinian issue has attracted the most attention in recent years, there are other significant disputes between Israel and its neighbors that must be resolved in order to proclaim a true and lasting peace in the Mideast.

That true and lasting peace is possible only if other Mideast counties, particularly the Gulf states, support the peace process with both words and action. They can play crucial roles by providing economic development aid to the West Bank and Gaza and by abandoning their economic boycott of Isra-

Therefore, American Jews, Arab

DAVID GAD-HARF

Over time, the Mideast nations will be able to reduce their military expenditures, geared to the next war, and replace them with investments in education and human welfare. Israel would be able to reduce its reliance upon the United States for arms and aircraft, and would be able to channel its citizenry into productive purposes.

These objectives would be difficult enough to accomplish in their own right. But, added to the equation are extremist groups that will use every weapon at their disposal to undermine these steps toward peace. Israel, its neighboring countries and the PLO must be unified in their determination to discredit and marginalize those who want to disrupt the peace process.

Extremism feeds on feelings of hopelessness, insecurity and rootlessness As Arabs and Israelis focus on the attainment of their basic needs for security and well-being, we can all hope that war, violence and hatred will be a thing of the past.

Hopefully, Monday's ceremony will provide the spark of hope that will mean the birth of an era of peace in the Mideast, making it a source of inspiration for the entire world.

Dismal findings in reading match national averages eople in my line of work get a lot of press releases - we call 'em "handouts" and I'm no exception. I've never seen as many handouts as now, all announcing hearings on what's to happen with Michigan's kindergarten through 12th grade school system.

The State Board of Education is holding hearings. So is the state Senate Republican caucus. Sen. Debbie Stabenow, a Democratic andidate for governor, is holding hearings. Democrats in the state House are holding hearings. The MEA, Michigan's largest teachers union, isn't holding hearings, but it's testifying like crazy.

This is all to the good, although grumpy folks like me can't help suspecting that all this frenzy for public input is just window dressing for what will be entirely insider power plays when the deals finally get cut about how to fund and structure Michigan's schools.

For readers interested in attending hearings and keeping their heads clear in the blizzard of emotion and hype, claim and counterclaim, here are a few facts and conclusions to keep in mind: According to a recent national study, "Reading Report Card for the Nation and the States," 41 percent of Michigan's fourth graders cannot read at a basic level. Despite that dismal finding, Michigan's scores ranked just above the national average. Our schools are failing; so, too, are schools throughout America. Another national survey recently concluded that just a little more than half of America's workers were "workforce illiterate" - that is, could not read instructions, understand blueprints, operate tools and machinery and make simple job-related computations. Surprise! Poor schools produce poor workers.

■ Harold Stevenson, a professor at the University of Michigan, has been studying the differences between American and Asian schools for 14 years. Comparing fourth grade math achievement between 30 Chicago-area schools and 30 in Japan, he found only one American school attained a score as high as the lowest score charted in Japan. No wonder the Japanese are beating us in international economic competition. Over the past 15 years in Michigan, inflation-adjusted spending on schools increased by about 25 percent while the number of children in schools dropped by about a quarter, and test scores declined somewhat. Throwing money at the schools doesn't help.

PHILIP POWER

According to a recent national study, 'Reading Report Card for the Nation and the States,' 41 percent of Michigan's fourth graders cannot read at a basic level. Despite that dismai finding, Michigan's scores ranked just above the national average. Our schools are falling; so, too, are schools throughout America.

While you're listening to the testimony, you might also want to remember that some important steps already have been taken in Michigan to improve school performance.

The state now gives MEAP (Michigan Educational Assessment Program) tests annually to kids in various grades. This newspaper publishes results for local schools, building by building. Thousands of parents are learning just how their local schools are stacking up and, where necessary, demanding improvement.

Beginning with the class of 1994, state-endorsed diplomas will be given only to graduates who measure up on assessment tests. At a time when jobs are scarce, this may have real impact. I don't know many employers interested in hiring kids with inferior diplomas.

These are good steps, only now beginning to show some results. You might want to remind the various holders of hearings that throwing out the baby with the bathwater is a mistake,

Gourmet sampling benefits SC students

The scholarship coffers at Schoolcraft College are $38,000 richer thanks to 1,000 hungry patrons who spent Sunday afternoon sampling the wares of some of metro Detroit's finest restaurants.

"Outstanding," "delicious,"
"great" were some of the comments heard in between bites from guests who paid $35 each to sample ribs from the Caucus

Salem golfers now 8-0

lymouth Salem won the showdown between unbeaten golf teams Tuesday, 207-223 over Plymouth Canton at Hilltop Golf Course. The Rocks (8-0) were led by Mark Wesner, who shot 39 and has broken 40 in the last four dual meets. Ryan Andrzejewski finished at 41, Brian Covington and Mike Hjelmstad 42, Jeremy Fox and Bryan Proctor 43.

"Two-o-seven is our best score there, and our average has been steadily going down," Salem coach Rick Wilson said, adding the Rocks shot 201 at Fox Creek recently. "We have really improved from week to week.

"But we've only had two away matches, so the test will be how well we play away from home." Matt Paupore shot 41 for Canton (6-1), Andy Uhtoff and Adam Gilles 44, Derek Baer and Brian Carlson 47.

"It was the typical Canton-Salem thing," Wilson said. "It doesn't matter if it's basketball, football or golf. There's a lot of excitement when you're playing each other.'

Chiefs win 3rd invite lymouth Canton won its third straight invitational in girls cross country Saturday, scoring 71 points to finish ahead of Troy (101) and Brighton (104) at the Holly Invitational. Plymouth Salem was sixth (170).

The Chiefs had won the West Bloomfield and Ypsilanti Early-Bird meets in the previous week. 'We wanted to continue our momentum, and I was happy with the way the kids raced," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "We were extremely strong over the last quarter mile of the race." Canton was led by senior Lana Boroditsch, who placed sixth with a 19:35 time. Kathleen Landelius was eighth (19:54), Laura McWilliams ninth (19:58), Becky Wolfrom 22nd (20:27), Beth Knight 26th (20:47), Tracey Cavin 56th (21:56) and Meghan Barresi 70th (22:21).

"It was gratifying to see three of our kids run in the 19s and all five under 21," Przygodski said. The Chiefs will try to win their fourth in a row Saturday at the Monroe Jefferson Invitational.

Kicks win 5th tourney

he 1981 Plymouth Kicks under-13 boys premier soccer team won its fifth consecutive tournament last weekend, finishing first in the Capital Area Classic in Lansing.

The Kicks won their last four games by shutout, including a 4-0 win over the Livonia Meteors in Plymouth opened with a 3-1 victory over the Midland Magic and then defeated the Royal Oak Rallye 7-0, the Okemos Storm 2-0 and the Waterford Warriors 2-0.

The Kicks have won their last 27 games (21 by shutout) and outscored their opponents 94-7.

Chiefs rebound with rout of Falcons

Soccer action: Salem's Mike Kley does a high-flying maneuver in front of North Farmington's Darrell Bruckseiler to get a foot on the ball Monday.

■ Plymouth Canton had an easier time than Plymouth Salem, but both were winners in Western Lakes Activities Association boys soccer Monday.

Plymouth Canton cut short a threegame losing streak Monday, scoring six second-half goals to rout visiting Farmington 7-0 in boys soccer.

The Chiefs, who had lost close games to No. 2-ranked Troy Athens, Redford Catholic Central and No. 1 Troy by a combined 4-0 score, are 2-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and 4-3 overall.

"They're a pretty good team; we just did a really good job," Canton coach Don Smith said. "I think we were hungry for the net tonight.

"After we lost three in a row, we were getting a little upset with ourselves, and we took it out on them. We hope to keep the momentum going.' Evan Sabourin scored two goals for the Chiefs, who outshot Farmington 27-4. Canton goalkeeper Shaun Conway got credit for the shutout.

Jeff Fliss and Chad Dale had one goal and two assists apiece. James Bossieux, Anthony Riemma and Jeff Knysz had one goal each, and Brian Kaminski added one assist.

"It was a nice solid team effort," Smith said. "We scored from a lot of different angles, which we hadn't been getting the last few games."

SALEM 4, NORTH 2: There aren't anymore pushovers in WLAA boys soccer, according to Salem coach Ken Johnson after the Rocks edged host North Farmington Monday.

"They're very improved," said Johnson of the Raiders. "The whole league is improved. It wasn't easy. But it's best for the kids to keep them playing hard all the time."

Salem, which won 9-0 last year over North, got first-half goals from Mark MacInnis, Jason Oberhelman, Ronny Mashni and Scot Buczek to lead 4-1.

Assisting on the Salem (3-4-1) goals were Buczek, Doug Herriman, Mike Kley and MacInnis. The Rocks outshot the Raiders 20-6.

Veteran duo plays key role on Salem girls tennis team

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

Question of the day: What do Jenny Clack and Deepa Sreenivasan have in common? Give up? These two are the only players returning to their spots on the Plymouth Salem tennis team, which has begun the year 2-2 entering a matchup Friday against rival Plymouth Can-

The uncertainty about the rest of the lineup after Clack and Sreenivasan, the returning Nos. 1 and 2 singles players, wasn't the only question facing coach Judy Braun.

After going through the summer not knowing if there would be a season due to lack of funds, the Rocks were supposed to have newly resurfaced courts by Aug. 31, but they won't be ready until Braun also had to decide how to replace several players from a year ago, including Kelly Kirkpatrick (No. 3 singles) and two of her top doubles players in Natale Graves and Ann Bartalucci.

Salem placed fifth in the Western Lakes Activities Association but finished second at the regional and qualified for the state tour-

"This is somewhat of a rebuilding year," Braun said. "We'd like to make it to regionals and qualify for the state, but I can't really say right now what we're capable of doing.

"When we met last spring to get the team together, I thought we could be as good as last year. But at that time I didn't know we'd go through so many dramatic things like the millage.

'First, we had a team, then we didn't, then we did. Then our courts were ripped out and we didn't know where we would practice. It has been hard to get a cohesive group of girls together."

Braun solved her biggest problem - where to practice and play home matches - when the Huron Valley Tennis Club agreed to lend its courts. The club is on the corner of Cherry Hill and Plymouth roads near Ann Arbor and will be the site of the Canton match at Clack, a junior, returns for her third year at the No. 1 spot and was runner-up in the WLAA tournament last year. She is 3-1 this

"She has improved each year," Braun said. "She is more consistent and has been working on her aggression and strategy. Deepa is good at keeping the ball in play. She's a fighter who will make comebacks and never give up."

After the top two spots, the rest of the lineup might change. Senior Cindy Wierzbicki is a good bet to hold down the No. 3 singles job. Junior Christy Moyer has been in the No. 4 slot in the past couple of matches.

The doubles teams look a little more solid. Senior Melissa Kowalis and freshman Katie Anderson make an impressive No. 1

"Katie was a singles player and has been training for singles. But by her staying in doubles, that gives us a solid doubles team." Braun said. "Melissa likes Katie's style and wanted to be partners with her. That's a nice complement when a senior requests to e with a freshman.

The No. 2 doubles team is seniors Julie Coyle and Katie Sullivan who have similar styles. The third team is junior Sara Stanley and sophomore Jessica Engle Seniors Bridgette Bak, Melissa DeLong, junior Mika Kobayoshi and freshman Suzanne Theodore have rotated as members of the No. 4 doubles combination.

Brooks accepting no short cuts

His presence was Mike Brooks no more evident than in Saturday night's MIFC tussle at Hillsdale College where two of the NCAA Division II's top teams squared off before a record crowd.

Brooks made team-high 19 tackles (seven solos and 12 assists) as the Bulldogs and Chargers battled to a 13-all draw.

Revenge motive big

"This game is something special because they (Hillsdale) really waxed us last year," Brooks said. "They had us down 36-0 at halftime. They just embarrassed us (36-14 final score).'

Brooks' sideburns and the Bulldogs' confidence began to grow after they rebounded from the 1992 Hillsdale defeat. A 1-2 start was quickly erased after Ferris downed Wayne State.

The Bulldogs proceeded to go on a nine-game winning streak,

Good luck charm

"My teammates dared me to grow them," Brooks said of his sideburns. "Once we started winning, they didn't come off until after the season was over. I knew they'd grow back anyway.

Brooks made his mark last season at outside linebacker during his first year as a starter. The freshman was in on 75 tackles, ranking sixth on the team.

When All-American Monty Brown, the team's leading tackler, graduated and moved on to the Buffalo Bills, Brooks was more than willing and able to step in and take his place.

"Both inside linebackers graduated," Brooks said. "All I wanted was the chance. A lot of people said I was undersized and doubted I could fill his (Brown's) shoes. I don't like anyone saying that until they see me play.'

In the season opener Sept. 4 at Edinboro State (Pa.), Brooks picked off two passes and returned one for a touchdown in a 23-9 victory.

"One of my goals this year was to have a couple of 'picks,' Brooks said. "But to score a touchdown was just an incredible feeling."

Bulldogs' leading hitter

Brooks is now the team's leading tackler (18 solos and 22 assists) heading into Saturday's home game with Wayne State.

"He has good instincts, a nose for the football and he's a tough kid." Ferris head coach Keith Otterbein said. "He's like an extra defensive back out there with good mobility and strength. He's stepping it up and getting it done.

"He may have a small body, but he's got a big heart. A lot of people said the same thing about Chris Spielman when he came out of Ohio State. They said he was too small, but he made All-Pro."

Brooks, an all-around athlete, was selected first-team All-Observer his senior year as a tailback/linebacker at Churchill, even though the Chargers went winless in 1990.

Brooks got his break early in the '92 season when one of the Ferris starters got hurt. He hasn't relinquished starting spot since, and doesn't appear to be giving it up anytime soon unless somebody named Delilah shows up.

"This is my job and it's tough," said the biology education major. "I get paid to play football."

Last summer, Brooks ran every morning for an hour at Churchill before coming home to lift weights. And when he wasn't at home lifting weights, he was working out at a local gym.

"I didn't have a summer job, my parents support me so I don't have to work," Brooks said.

Hillsdale back tough

Brooks held his own Saturday night against Hillsdale's Scott Schulte, one of the nation's top Division II runners. Schulte had to earn just about every inch of turf. He finished with a hardearned 114 yards in 28 carries.

But even the satisfaction of stopping the Hillsdale star left Brooks and his defensive mates feeling a bit empty.

"A tie feels as bad as a loss," he said. "We like to win. A tie doesn't take us out of the race. They (Hillsdale) already have a loss, but we can still control our own destiny."

Crusaders beat Saginaw Valley

Blame it on the time of year. Or the weather. Yeah, that's what it was - the weather.

Well, what about . . .

To be honest, no excuses are necessary. Really. Tuesday night's volleyball match, between Madonna University and visiting Saginaw Valley State, was non-league. Nothing was at stake.

Winning would be nice. Losing wouldn't matter.

Madonna won, but it took four sets against a mediocre member of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference: 12-15, 15-12, 16-14, 19-17.

It was as close as the scores indicate. Madonna, ranked in the top 20 in the NAIA, shouldn't have had so much game, rarely displaying any dominance. The first game went by with the Crusaders holding the lead just once, and that was at 4-3. In the second game, the Cardinals led 12-9 before Madonna rallied; in the third, the visitors had a 14-12 advantage before bowing. The final set was more of the same: Saginaw Valley was up 13-9 and 14-13.

But if the Crusaders showed anything, it was determination.

Freshman middle hitter Julie Martin, from Livonia Stevenson, was a prime example: Sure, she missed some shots she should have converted, but she made some when it counted, too. Martin finished with 15 kills and 10 blocks.

Junior outside hitter Mo Paulin (Livonia/Farmington Hills Mercy) was equally effective, with 15 kills. Senior setter Mazie Pilut (Redford Bishop Borgess) had 50 assists to kills, senior middle hitter Kari Van Deusen (Schoolcraft College) collected 10 kills and junior outside hitter Julie Wood (SC) had 22 digs.

It wasn't pretty. But it was a win, and perhaps a lesson.

Last weekend may serve as an example. The Crusaders reached the finals of the St. Francis College Tournament in Fort Wayne, Ind., Saturday against NAIA District 23 foe Spring Arbor College - and were upset, 15-6, 1-15, 15-7. It was the same Spring Ar-meanwhile, earned a hard-fought win over Farmington, 14-7. PICKS: Stevenson makes it four straight.

Cranbrook at Clarenceville (4:30 p.m.): The Cranbrook Cranes (2-1) looked anything but Ichabod after dispensing of Class D state-ranked Detroit Lutheran West last week, 20-6. The Trojans (1-2), led by breakaway artists Mark Kalaj and Mark Juncaj, earned their first win by pouncing on Lutheran Westland last week, 26-8. PICKS: The Cranes stay in first place in the Metro's West Division.

Northville at Liv. Churchill: The Mus-tangs (2-1) were corralled last week by Harrison's defense, but still rate high in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Churchill's defense has been outstanding, but the Chargers (0-3) resemble the Pontiac Pussycats on offense, having gone scoreless in three games. PICKS: Northville pins loss No. 31 in a row on the Chargers.

Farmington at Westland Glenn: It appeared the state-ranked Rockets (3-0) would miss defensive back/return specialist Matt Howton, who is out for the season after suffering a collarbone injury vs. Harrison. But Glenn punished previously unbeaten Walled Lake Central last week, 31-0. Farmington (0-3) has been in three close games, but coach Lauri Niskanen will have to wait another week to try for his first win. PICKS: Glenn has

W.L. Western at Ply. Canton: Westem (2-1) has won two straight after losing to Novi in the season opener, 7-0. The Warriors, however, may be without running back Alex Gillert (ankle injury). Canton (2-1) was shaky on offense last week against Churchill, needing a turnover to beat the Chargers. PICKS: Canton has week, but could be the difference this time around. Central (2-1) is still smarting from last week's pounding administered by John Glenn. Quarterback Ken Shiller was badly shaken up. PICKS: Salem gets back on the winning track.

Dearborn at Garden City: Dearborn (3-O), led by sophomore quarterback Kevin Kreger, has outscored its opponents 58-6, but the three opponents are nothing to 6, but the three opponents are nothing to write home about. GC (2-1) boasts Jason "the Workhorse" Workman, who is coming off a 216-yard rushing performance against Southgate. PICKS: Emons says the Cougars' tougher schedule pays off, while O'Meara rides with the Pioneers in the Mega-White Division encounter.

Redford Union at Taylor Kennedy: Both teams are 0-3. So what can we expect out of this Mega-White Division tus-sle? Wide receiver Greg Knight is RU's big-play threat, while Dana Mitchell is the man to stop for JFK. PICKS: RU breaks through, according to Emons, but O'Meara flies with the Eagles.

Red. Thurston at Dbn. Hts. Crestwood: Thurston (2-1) is playing an old Tri-River League opponent, so that's the good news. The Eagles, led by do-it-all receiver Jeff Lance (193 yards in receptions), drilled Gibraltar Carlson last week, 48-13. Crestwood (1-2), coached by Floyd Carter, is hoping to rebound from losses to Garden City, 7-3, and Allen Park, 22-6. The Chargers' only win is a 6-O triumph over Carlson. PICKS: Thurston quenches its thirst.

Wayne Memorial at Monroe: The Zebras (2-1) were supposedly inexperienced coming into the 1993 season, but have outscored their last two opponents, 56-2. Monroe (2-1) gave Mega-White favorite Fordson a tussle last week before losing 6-0. The Trojans own victories over Plymouth Canton (12-6 in overtime) and Woodhaven (16-14). PICKS: Emons says Monroe by shade, but O'Meara earns his stripes with the Zebras.

Lirtheran Westland at Detroit Lirther-an West (neon): West (2-1) is no longer best in the Metro Conference West Divi-sion after losing to Crambrook last week. The Leopards, however, have the advan-tage in speed led by Robert Walker. Lu-theran Westland (1-2) has a fine tight end in Jeff Lichtner and a fine linebacker in Troy Smith, but coach Dennis Tuomi, who coached by years at West before moving out to Cowan Road, feels a little like Wayne Fontes these days. Where's the offense? PICKS: The Leopards are too fast and elusive for the Warriors.

Bishop Borgess vs. Orchard Lake St. Mary's (1:30 p.m. at Garden City Junior High): The Spartans are 0-3, but at least they went down fighting in last week's 7-0 loss to Hamtramck St. Florian. Meanwhile, St. Mary's (3-0) is No. 1 in Class CC and loaded with talent. Defensive end Cameron Binion, a 6-foot-4, 225-pound senior, is Big 10 material. PICKS: St. Mary's is the safe pick of the day.

Redford CC vs. Warren DeLsSalle (7:30 p.m. at Clarenceville): The de-fending state Class AA champion Shamrocks had their 15-game winning streak snapped by St. Francis of Toledo, gaining only 85 yards in total offense. Several players got banged up in the process. De-LaSalle (3-0) is still an underdog even with wins over Lake Orion (40-7), Jackson (35-14) and Benton Harbor (20-7). But word has it that Sterling Heights Steven-son grounded the Pilots badly in a preseason scrimmage. PICKS: CC rider all the way in the this Central Division opener.

SUNDAY'S GAME

St. Agatha vs. A.A. Gabriel Richard (2 p.m. at Ann Arbor Pioneer): Both teams are 2-1 and possess two-game winning streaks. Richard's Matt Strozeski piled a career-high 245 yards, including a pair of 53-yard TD runs, in a 35-14 romp last against Allen Park Cabrini. Agatha is coming off a 21-0 win over Marine City Cardinal Mooney. PICKS: The Aggles

"We didn't play badly early; we just had a hard time scoring,' Blohm said. "Once we got into a flow, we scored 34 points. (Regina) got some good putbacks and that carried them down the stretch.'

Britta Anderson scored 18 points to lead Canton. Alyson Noune made four of the team's six three-point field goals and finished with 14 points.

Erica Anderson added eight points and seven rebounds and Amicie Crayton seven and eight, respectively. Lisa Pertile tossed in nine

Chiefs get chance to display talents

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton boys golf coach Fred Libbing thought about retiring when it appeared a millage failure would eliminate the entire sports program.

When the school and community worked together to find a solution to keep sports, Libbing didn't mind coming back to

"I'm glad for the kids that we pulled this off," he said. "That's the only thing that keeps me going, is to see the kids come out and be enthusiastic. They keep me fired up."

The Canton players are glad to have the opportunity, because it's been quite a season for them so far. The Chiefs started 6-0 in dual meets before losing their first Tuesday to unbeaten Plymouth Salem.

Senior Andy Uthoff has been the overall leader, finishing as team medalist in the first six matches. Libbing believes Uthoff has big-time potential.

"He's won some tournaments and I look for him to go to state like (Brad) Paskievitch did," he said. "I'm going to recommend him to the golf program at Ferris State.

"He's been on the team four years and has really developed. He's definitely a college level player. He'll be a club pro or touring pro someday, or doing something connected with golf."

The other varsity golfers include seniors Derek Baer, Todd Blakeney, Matt Paupore and Adam Gilles and sophomore Brian Carlson. The seniors are steady and consistent golfers who have plenty of experience.

"We count on them to score in the low 40s and keep the team going," Libbing said.
"They'll always be real good players. They show up every day and are interested in improving their skills and helping the team."

Carlson is already a varsity player and will be a key part of the team for several years. In his case, it's a matter of age and maturity, not of ability, Libbing said.

Other young players are sophomores Chuck Newsome, Chris Wilson and Albert Hamood and freshman Matt Ammons.

The Chiefs opened the season with wins over Westland John Glenn (240-252), Farmington Harrison (216-244), Farmington (211-231), Walled Lake Western (213-223), Livonia Franklin (207-237) and Livonia Churchill (211-220). In the latter match Monday, Uthoff shot 36, Gilles 42, Baer 43, Paupore and Carlson 45 apiece and Blakeney 48.

The Western Lakes Activities Association meet will be Tuesday, Oct. 5, at Brae Burn Golf Course on Five Mile and Napier roads in Plymouth Township. The Chiefs expect to be in contention despite the loss to Salem.

Harrison gridder gets extra semester to play

By Dan O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

Farmington Hills Harrison football player Scott Gurke has been granted an extra semester of eligibility by the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

Gurke, who was entering his senior year, and the school petitioned the MHSAA after he suffered a seasonending knee injury during a preseason Scott Gurke scrimmage.

The 6-foot, 197pound running back underwent reconstructive surgery Wednesday at the University of Michigan

Hospital in Ann Arbor. Harrison coach John Herrington was pleased by the decision, "but he's got a long way to go," he said. "He'll be off his feet for five weeks, and it will take six months of rehabilitation." Gurke will drop out of school for the fall semester and re-enter in January. He started school at age 4, is only 16 and won't turn 17 until Oct. 17. The MHSAA rule states a player can't be 19 before Sept. 1 of his senior year.

"We don't want to get into redshirting, but in special situations the rule is good," Herrington said.

Gurke rushed for 600 yards as a junior and was anticipating a big senior year. Herrington considered him his No. 1 player.

He also won the 100-meter dash at the Western Lakes Activities Association track finals last year and was a member of Harrison's sprint relay teams.

"He definitely has a chance at a college scholarship if he can rehabilitate and come back," Herrington said. "He has the size and speed.

"We're just glad he has a chance, and we haven't thought much beyond that. We're concentrating on this year."

North girls 3-peat in city meet

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

North Farmington's third straight championship in the annual girls city cross country meet was impressive in itself.

What was even more impressive was how the Raiders did it, competing without two of their top

North still managed to capture the top three places, scoring 23 points followed by Farmington (39) and Harrison (66). Jamie Brenner set the North freshman record on the Oakland Community College course with a first-place finish (21:00). Keegan Keefover (21:11) was a second better than her previous best time, and Amanda Hough was third (21:21).

"Going 1-2-3 was a surprise," North coach Bill Pinnell said. "I figured we would have three of the top five places, but I was not expecting to go 1-2-3."

That put the Raiders on solid course for another title. Becky Naglik was eighth (22:06) and Elaine Wolff ninth (22:16).

North ran without Alicia Cross-land, who had shin splints, and Kerrie Simpson, who tore a hip flexer muscle in gym class. Simp-son set the freshman record of 22:03 last year.

"I told the team we weren't going to run Alicia and everybody was going to have to step up a notch to fill in for her," Pinnell

"We have a lot more depth this year than I expected. We had a lot of young runners at the beginning of the year, and all the girls have been stepping up."

Pinnell, also citing the performances of Naglik and Wolff, said the Raiders have been running very consistently.

"Right now we're at a plateau in our training and racing, and I'm pleased with where we are at this point in the season," he said. "We've dropped our times and are waiting for the breakthrough to the next plateau.'

Farmington had the Nos. 4-6 runners in Aimee Cameron, Ann Grimaldi and Dana Goba. But the Falcons are dealing with a rash of injuries, too.

Goba ran despite suffering a sprained ankle last week. Pam Buha developed an achilles prob-lem in the third mile and was un-able to finish, and Katie Clinard also is sidelined with an achilles injury.

"I'm happy with the results, considering everything we've been through," Farmington coach Lis Zynda said. "The girls are really trying to work through the injuries and get healthy again."
Harrison was led by Allison

Noe, who was seventh but the only one from her team in the top 10. The Hawks also were missing two of their top runners - Erin Schwartz (illness) and Sheri Stolnack (injury).

Harrison coach Mark Babcock was impressed by the performances of the Raiders and Falcons.

"We ran better than we did last year (and finished second), so that ought to tell you a lot about the quality of these two teams," he said. "We're better than we were last year, so North and Farmington are better, too."

Falcons capture boys championship

By Dan O'Meara Staff Writer

Farmington had the individual winner and five of the top 10 runners Tuesday to win the boys title in the annual city cross country meet.

Kevin Afflerbaugh finished first in 17:03 at Oakland Community College, two seconds ahead of North Farmington's Tom Stamboulian.

The Raiders had the next three runners after Afflerbaugh, but Farmington claimed the victory with Jason Jackson (sixth), Mike Langdon (eighth), Tom May (ninth) and Mark Kurzer (10th) rounding out its top five.

The Falcons nipped North 34-35 in the city meet and 27-29 in the Lakes Division dual. Harrison was third with 53 points. "Just before the two-mile mark when I saw we had a bunch in there, I felt pretty good because I knew we had six guys inside of their five," Farmington coach Chip Bridges said. "Usually, when you have that, good things will happen.' Afflerbaugh was well ahead of his closest teammate Tuesday, but the Falcons have a balanced team, according to Bridges.

"I think, one through eight, we've got a nice group," he said. "Kevin has been our leader, but May, Jackson and Langdon are not far behind.

"A key for us was to have our Nos. 4-7 guys (including Brett Kotrba and Tripp Adams) improve as the season goes on, and they did today." Afflerbaugh had prepared well for the season and deserved the victory, Bridges said, and May competed despite being ill Tues-"He ran hard all summer and came into the fall wanting to do some things," he said of Afflerbaugh. "Hopefully, this is the first step in a real nice season for Small game sea-son opened last week signalling the official start of the 1993 fall hunting seasons. But a couple O&E readers got a head start on the rest of us by participating in Michigan's early bear and elk hunting seasons.

Wills took a husky 305-pound black bear on Sept. 18 while hunting behind hounds in the Upper Beninsula's Alger County.

Hunting with Frank Rallo, of Utica, and Mike MacEachron of Mac's Guiding Service in Grand Rapids, Wills set out behind the dogs at 7:15 a.m. The hunt ended at 9 a.m. following a single shot from Wills' Tompson-Center Scout 50 caliber muzzleloader.

"I had never hunted bear behind dogs before and it was a real rush," Wills explained. "I hunted over bait the day before and saw a sow and her cub. The next day I had an opportunity to hunt with the dogs so I did. With the dogs it's a different kind of hunt, but it's very exciting. I really enjoyed it. I'd do it again in a minute.

The green-score on the skull appears to be enough to earn Wills recognition in the muzzleloading division for bear in the Commemorative Bucks of Michigan annual record book.

Daddy bags bull

What a week for Chris Dunlap. What an understanding wife.

The Northville hunter hit the jackpot earlier this year when he received a hunter's choice permit for the first September Michigan elk hunt, which started Wednesday, Sept. 8. The only hitch in Dunlap's plan was that Sept. 8 was also his wife Linda's duedate for their second child.

Elk hunters are required by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to attend an orientation class the day before the start of each hunt. The class was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 7, so Dunlap and his father had planned to leave home about 5 a.m. to make the four-hour trip to Gaylord for the "Frankly I thought I was going to miss out on it," explained Dunlap. "My wife's water broke an hour before I was going to get up and leave. Her labor started and we went to the hospital.

About 11 (a.m.) I realized the baby wasn't going to be born for a while so I called up there (Gaylord) and spoke with Glen Mathews of the DNR and explained my situation. He was very accommodating. They (DNR) really cut me some slack.

Mathews agreed to meet with Dunlap early the next morning and give him a one-on-one orien-Annmarie Dunlap was born at at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 7. Her father left for Gaylord a few hours later after making sure his wife and new born daughter were healthy and resting comfortably.

'My wife is pretty understanding," Dunlap said. "She was great about the whole thing.'

On Friday, Sept. 10, Dunlap capped an exciting four days when he shot a 5x5 bull which dressed-out at 525 pounds.

"It was pretty funny once I got up there," aded Dunlap. "It was the talk of the town. Everyone heard about my daughter and kept telling me I should call her 'Elkie,' but I had to draw the line

Elk, bear hunters get early start | Marriott's loss is Gentile's gain

BY C.J. RISAK

Ask the inevitable question, knowing the answer is buried under years of frustration, and what do you get?
A laugh?

That's how Oakland University soccer coach Gary Parsons replied when asked about his annual journey of disappoint-ment — otherwise known as the Marriott Soccer Classic. Each year for the past decade, OU has hosted some of the best soccer talent in the NCAA Division II; each year for the past decade, the Pioneers have failed to win their own tourna-

The caliber of the talent has made Parsons almost immune to his team's failure to win the Marriott, year after year. Therein lies the reason for his

But it wasn't the only reason. There was much that happened over the weekend that pleased Parsons - even in the 2-1 overtime loss to Florida Institute of Technology Sunday.

"They played hard," was how Parsons evaluated his team after the defeat. "You have to give them credit for that. Today, we played well in spots. We've got some guys playing on sore legs."

What made Parsons happy was the return of senior center midfielder John Gentile from a torn groin muscle. Gentile was a major contributor to the happiest part of OU's weekend - a 2-0 win over Central Region rival Lock Haven Saturday.

Making his first appearance of the season, Gentile powered a shot from more than 20 yards out into the net for OU's first goal Saturday. Eli Tiomkin converted a pass from Mali Walton 12 minutes later to increase the Pioneers' lead to 2-0 by halftime.

"We had a very good game yesterday, and it was a big game," said Parsons after the loss to Florida Tech. It was more important than Sunday's game; the win will boost OU over Lock Haven in the region standings, helping solidfy the Pioneers' playoff berth.

Parsons wasn't the only one others were somewhat forced. Gentile, still far from fullstrength, smiled weakly; he looked worn out after the Tech match. He had played almost all of both games, even though by his estimate he was only 'eighty percent."

And then there were the far-from-jubilant Panthers of Florida Tech, the No. 1-ranked team in the NCAA II. They had lost their All-American striker, senior Richard Sharpe, to an Achilles tendon injury Saturday. He did not play against OU.

It was only part of their troubles. Sunday's match was their fourth in six days. When they straggled off the field with the win, they had to be prodded to appreciate it.

"We won, boys," defender Paul Robertson said. "We can be (bleeping) proud now." The celebration that followed was muffled, to say the least.

Coach Rick Stottler knew his team was physically spent. "They're tired and happy," he dominated at the start, they couldn't score. Tech turned it around in the last 20 minutes of the opening half, getting the game's first score from All-American forward Eddie Enders, who converted a through pass from Jeremy Wall at 31:06.

With just 3:36 left in regulation, OU knotted it when Mike Thornton slipped behind the Tech defense, taking a pass from David Ankori. He beat one defender to the inside and lined a shot that hit the crossbar and bounced in.

Tech got the game-winner late in the second OT, taking advantage of freshman defender Paul Doreh. Kieran England's corner kick slid through to an unguarded Kirk Mackey at the far post, and he headed it in with 2:03 left in OT.

The loss was OU's second in six matches. Tech is 5-0. Earlier Sunday, Lock Haven defeated Grand Canyon (Tech beat

COLLEGE SPORTS

SPARKLING START

For first games, this one would be hard to top. Actually, it would be hard beat anytime.

Eric Stover got his first start at quarterback for Grand Valley State Saturday, and the Westland John Glenn responded. And then some.

Stover tossed four touchdown passes, hitting 17-of-24 for 286 yards, in leading the Lakers to a 35-0 triumph over Northwood University. A junior who played two years at Grand Rapids Junior College, Stover's TD tosses covered 38, 6, 9 and 20 yards - three of them going to Youssef Sareini.

It's safe to assume Stover will start again this Saturday, when Grand Valley hosts Indianapolis.

TOP FINISHER

Michelle Gayney, a senior at Western Michigan from Redford Bishop Borgess, was the top Bronco finisher at the Redbird Cross Country Classic in Normal, Ill., Saturday. Gayney was eighth overall, covering the 5,000-meter course in 18:27.

WMU was fourth in the team standings with 80 points, finishing behind Iowa (31), Wisconsin (60) and Illinois

B GREAT BEGINNINGS

If the rest of his cross country career at Erskine College (Due West, S.C.) is this successful, Dave Clinard will have a superb run.

A freshman from Farmington, Clinard finished first in a field of 44 runners at the Lander University Invitational Sept, 11 in Greenwood, S.C. He completed the 8,000-meter course in 26:49.

It was Clinard's first collegiate race.

E GETTING BETTER

A year ago, University of Michigan placekicker Peter Elezovic suffered through a season Wolverine supporters felt was sub-par.

But, as the saying goes, that was last year.

Elezovic has been near-perfect this season. The senior from Redford Catholic Central has connected on 2-of-3 field goals and all seven of his extrapoint attempts. He is third on the team in scoring with 13

A year ago, Elezovic was 7-of-12 on field goals and 52-of-55 in his extra-point placements, scoring 73 points.

Cormorants enjoy wetlands hunting ago on Telegraph Road between Long Lake and Lone Pine roads, I saw a sea crow or shag, or as it is now called, a double-crested cormorant.

TIMOTHY NOWICKI surprised to see it at such a small wetland area, but not too surprised to see it at all. Several people lately have asked about cormorants and told me of their Double-crested cormorants are relatives of the pelican. They have a small patch of skin under the throat reminiscent of the large gular pouch of the pelican. Their feet are also like those of a pelican. Intead of webbing between three toes, like ducks, they have webbing between all four toes. This webbing helps them swim through the water, catching fish.

In some Asian countries, fishermen actually use cormorants to catch their fish. They tie ropes around their necks so they cannot swallow the fish, but they can still capture them. What is even more amazing is that each fisherman may have several cormorants on strings, and though they may be swimming in all directions to capture fish, they seldom get tan-

Fish have resulted in fluctuating populations of cormorants in the State of Michigan.

When my grandfather, who is now 95, first came to Michigan, he would not have seen a cormorant. It was not until the 1930s when they were recorded as nesting on some of the Lake Erie islands. From the 1930s to the 1950s, their populations grew and expanded to the Upper Peninsula.

Then during the height of the DDT era, their numbers dropped to zero. DDT concentrated in the adults, from fish they ate, caused total reproductive failure in some colonies and ultimately they disappeared from Michigan waters.

After an absence of several years, their numbers are starting to recover. Unfortunately, chemicals in the Great Lakes may cause their population to fluctuate again. Some birds have been discovered with crossed mandibles. These birds would be unable to catch food and would eventually die. Just recently, four bald eagles were found with crossed mandibles. They too eat fish from the Great Lakes.

ness in Mexico to get the picture. As one friend who makes fuel filters in plants in Detroit suburbs - the kind of part that could just as easily be made in Pakistan — put it: Mexican wages are cheap, labor is expen-

in Livonia.

All this is not to belittle the number of jobs that have, in fact, gone south of the border in the last decade or so. Seat belt manufacturing, which got its start in Troy, is mainly done in Mexico today. So-called cut-and-sew operations, done mainly by women, by hand, were among the first to go, despite the fact that they were mainly minimum wage jobs in rural areas to begin with.

Some major assembly as well, including the aforementioned Mexican operation where Ford builds Tracers, sold by Lincoln Mercury and engineered in Japan. It's tough to say exactly what wages are in Mexico, since the constantly fluctuating currency distorts it at best. But a couple of bucks an hour, in a land where a U.S.-built car is about $30,000, is the ballpark.

There is a small but growing middle class, consisting of managerial types, as well as some of the wealthiest people on earth. These are the ones who buy cars, including the ubiquitous Volkswagen Beetle, still the mainstay of Mexican transportation.

It's not often that an international policy debate comes quite so close to home, but auto manufacturing and Mexico are linked closely today, and the debate over the North American Free Trade Agreement will, in fact, have an impact on the local industrial

Oddly, the debate has centered on the loss of jobs, something that has been building for a couple of decades, since the Mexican government offers not only cheap labor, but numerous tax and financing incentives to any plant willing to relocate. What is bizarre is that on the surface, NAFTA is the first serious attempt to open the Mexi-can border to U.S.-made goods, services and investment.

As it turns out, the Mexicans are hungry for a telephone system that works. Exactly why this is a threat to the U.S. auto industry is something of a mystery - but organized labor has brought together some strange bedfellows to argue just that.

The actual terms of NAFTA may not, in fact, open Mexico to U.S. goods - and that's worth careful examination. It's tough to imagine any concession that makes it more attractive to build a plant down there than it already

After all, wages are cheap, trucking is expensive, utilities are virtually non-existent, the telephones don't work very well, and machine repair and supplies are several thousand miles away. Not to mention the bandits.

Mexico shouldn't be much of a threat to manufacturing in Michigan. Then again, if things get much worse around here, it might be in the near future.

emitting presumably dangerous levels of VLF or ELF electromagnetic radiation.

Craig said while there has been no concrete evidence to suggest ELF and VLF electromagnetic radiation is harmful, there is a growing body of evidence that suggests there is a connection.

When scientists measure populations, they have a fixed number of incidence of diseases and conditions like cancer and tumors. When you put ELF and VLF (electromagnetic radiation) into the loop, the numbers go up.'

Further complicating the issue is the fact there are few standards for what is harmful, Craig said.

In the United States there are no standards.

In Europe, where workplace health concerns have been an issue longer, standards — generally referred to as MPR II - set by the Swedish National Board for Measurement and Testing have been generally accepted.

Many computer monitor manufacturers have accepted these standards, so when these companies advertise a low-emission monitor, they are stating its emmissions fall below 3.5 milligauss.

There are hand-held testers, but these devices cannot meet the requirements of an MPR II standards test, Craig said.

MPR II standards requires the monitor be tested at three levels from a distance of 50 centimeters. Readings are taken in a circle around the monitor at 22 degree

All told, a MPR II standard test includes 101 readings, Craig

Craig said the idea for Magnagard Laboratories began when he and his partner, a computer engineer, were discussing the then-little-known issue of ELF and VLF electromagnetic radiation over lunch in February 1992.

Craig, who has been involved in computer industry for almost 30 years, and his partner struck upon the idea that a mobile workstation that could test computer monitors could be an extremely useful tool and began developing such a workstation.

They brought Dr. Casper Sun, a noted radiation physicist at the Brookhaven Institute in New York, on board as director of the company. Then they contacted a certified public accountant and attorney to begin drawing up the necessary documents of incorpo-

Raising startup and operating capital was done primarily through nine stockholders, many of them friends and family members of the principle players, and including personal investments from company officers.

A third company officer, Steven Barkley, will join the company before the end of the year. Barkley, a marketing executive with IBM in Texas, is retiring to take on the marketing duties of Magnagard Laboratories.

Future looks positive

Magnagard Laboratories could really take off, said Eric George, a marketing director with Ergonomics Inc., a Pennsylvannia-based distributor of scientific measuring Growing concern about the issue could propel Magnagard into the forefront of monitor testing, said George. In addition to being an Ergonomics distributor, George has also spoken in forums on the subject of ELF and VLF electromagnetic radiation and has contributed to study on the sub-

"Labs (that do testing) have been around for some time now, but the key to their success is the portability and flexibility (of their mobile workstation).

"I think they have an interesting idea," he said. "As long as they market themselves correctly, they can be very profitable."

Granted, George said, there aren't many companies interested in testing computer monitors for emissions, but that number is

When companies do decide to undertake testing, it is unlikely they will do it inhouse because the equipment is expensive and most would prefer an outside, candid appraisal of equipment. 'And the employees may demand it (an outside tester)."

The federal government has already appropriated millions of dollars to conduct a multi-agency study headed up by the U.S. Department of Energy. That study will help in formulating policy on computer monitor emission standards, he said.

"This could very likely lead to some legislation," George said.

Check up: Robert Craig, president of Magnagard Laboratories in Livonia, believes growing health concerns will prompt increased monitoring of the radiation levels in the work place.

Selling piece of mind computes

BY GERALD FRAWLEY STAFF WRITER

Odds are, if you're in an office, there is one right next to you.

We're talking computers, or more specifically, computer monitors. And although there is no hard evidence, there are growing concerns that monitors may be ticking time bombs.

Fact: All monitors give off some degree of electromagnetic radiation.

gree of electromagnetic radiation.

Fact: Electromagnetic radiation has been linked to cancer, miscarriages in pregnant women and other medical ailments.

Fact: There are an estimated 75 million computer monitors perched on office desks, in homes and in schools.

Supposition: We may have a problem here.

Robert Craig, president of Magnagard Laboratories in Livonia, has — if not all the answers — part of a solution and a little peace of mind.

"There are millions of monitors that are a potential health hazard," Craig said. "What we do is test them to make certain they meet certain standards — and if they don't, we can shield them.

"When we first started this company, I would make calls and people didn't want to talk about (ELF and VLF electromagnetic radiation). Now when I call, I may not sign a contract, but people want to talk.

"I think in the future — the near future — people will want to test."

Going mobile

Magnagard Laboratories has introduced a mobile work station that enables technicians to quickly and accurately test monitors for very low frequency (VLF) and extremely low frequency (ELF) electromagnetic radiation on site — meaning at the off-

Prior to this innovation, companies interested in testing monitors would have to pack up and ship the monitors to a testing center, wait for testing, and then have them shipped back

In addition to testing monitors, Magnagard Laboratories also can add shielding to those monitors that are

Customer focus as a goal escapes survey respondents

Is it genuinely improved service or just lip service?

Becoming more responsive to customer needs has become the goal for many companies, but a survey done by the Corporate Calling Center of Detroit seems to indicate that business is not making a concerted effort in that area.

"Michigan customers do not feel that their opinions have a significant impact on the quality of service provided by the businesses on which they rely," according to the CCC.

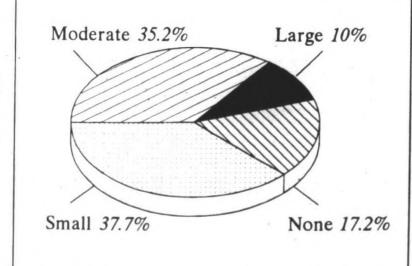

"Specifically, 17.2 percent of respondents said that their opinions have no impact, 37.7 percent said their opinions have only a small impact, and 35.2 percent said that their opinions have a moderate impact on improving customer service. Only 10 percent of respondents feel that their opinions have a large impact."

Survey respondents believed businesses choose not to solicit their opinions. Fourteen percent indicated that all or most of the businesses they patronize ask for feedback while 66 percent say only some or a few seek their opinions. More than 19 percent said that none of the businesses they patronize ask their opinions.

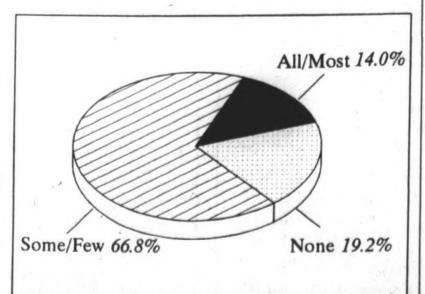

A cross-tabulation of the two questions showed that, of the customers who say that all or most of the businesses they frequent ask for their opinions, more than twothirds believe their opinions have a large or moderate impact on service quality.

Conversely, of those who said that none of the businesses they buy from ask for their opinions, less than one-third believe their opinions bave large or moderate impact.

The CCC survey was based on interviews with 490 Michigan residents during June, using random digit dialing to select respondents. Margin of error is plus 3 percent.

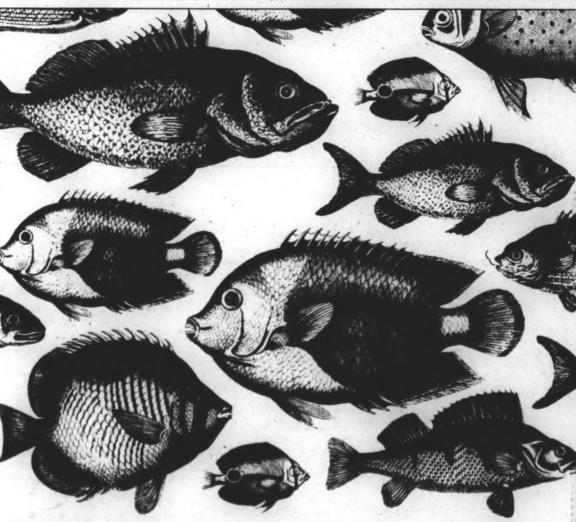

"How much impact do you think your opinions have on the quality of customer service you receive from the businesses on which you rely?"

"How many of the businesses you frequent or buy from ask your opinion of their service?"

Career ideas can be found in caregiving

Thinking about a career in early childhood education? What are the options? Are there plenty of good positions available? What about salary range and decent benefits? Can you climb the ladder and advance in the field? Are there identifiable paths you can follow to get to a desired goal or position/job?

The field of early childhood education is a great one. Early childhood educators recognize that the future of our children rest on building good foundations and strong beginnings. An according to the National Association for the Education of Young Children, working with young children is an investment in the future.

Many educators can relate to the phrase, "put a little in, get a little out . . . put a lot in, get a lot out." Such is true when investing in children and promoting "whole child" development.

Children from birth through the age of eight are growing, changing and learning at a remarkably rapid rate. The teachers and parents who guide these young children are responsible for providing rich experiences that will influence them all their lives.

Teaching is a challenging responsibility, but the personal and professional rewards are many. The profession is also demanding, both intellectually and physically, because children are curious and active. Competent and loving child care contributes to the total development of children and the well-being of families.

Early childhood educators provide planned educational experiences for groups of young children and/or services to their families

Children's mental, physical, emotional and social growth is stimulated through activities designed to promote learning and the joy of life. As such, selecting appropriate activities for children is difficult and requires knowledge about how children learn and think as they develop.

Under the guidance of a loving and knowledgeable teacher, children become more competent in their use of language, learn to deal more effectively with others while understanding themselves, and develop their imagination, curiosity and concepts about the world through play and concrete experiences.

Early childhood educators recognize that caring for children in groups requires special expertise. They have skills in setting up a safe, healthy and stimulating environment, emphasizing good nutrition and providing opportunities for active play, quiet play and rest.

Observing children's behaviors is an important way in which to learn more about the young children in your care so you can guide them in their growth. A teacher's interactions with children, parents and colleagues should serve as a positive model of interpersonal relationships.

Most careers in early childhood education involve either working directly with children, or working with students, families or other adults in the profession.

Many names are used to describe programs for young children - nursery school, child care, Head Start, kindergarten, family day care, primary school, school-age day care. These programs are found in a variety of settings with many different funding arrangement.

Good programs, regardless of sponsorship, all have one goal - to provide for the needs of young children in a professional and loving manner. Job titles that reflect work with children include early childhood teacher, elementary teacher, family day care provider, kindergarten teacher or hospital child-life worker. Many careers in the field involve work with adults as well as, or instead of with young children. Job responsibilities vary greatly. Many professionals supply information or support families in parenting skills. Others supervise adults who work with, or for, young children.

Some prepare future teachers or seek more knowledge about how children grow and learn. Careers working with adults generally require additional professional education and/or previous experience in working with children. Job titles which indicate work primarily with adults include early childhood program director, social worker, nutritionist, child development researcher, licensing specialist, recreation planner and therapist.

So how do you prepare for a career in early childhood education?

Talk with your guidance counselor, if you're in school. Or volunteer to work with a child or small group of children. You can also take courses in areas such as child development, health, family living, sociology or psychology or enroll in a college or university program in early child-hood education or child development.

Empowered: Mary Lou Butcher (left) of Bloomfield Hills and Susan Temere of Lake Orion share their experiences with other women, through

WINGS.

WINGS fights discrimination

For two women, the Anita Hill-Clarence Thomas hearings were a wake-up call. The vicitims of sexual discrimination on the job, they formed an organization that offers support to women experiencing the same treatment.

BY ETHEL SIMMONS STAFF WRITER

Two Oakland County women, Mary Lou Butcher of Bloomfield Hills and Susan Temere of Lake Orion, both say they have experienced sexual discrimination on the job.

A few years back, Butcher, then a journalist, filed and won a class-action suit against the Detroit News where she worked. She has gone on to develop a successful career as a businesswoman in the communications field. Temere, a security guard at General Motors in Pontiac, is still fighting against her employer of 18 years, whom she is suing. Despite their own struggles, the two women joined forces last fall to help form support groups for metropolitan-Detroit women facing sexual discrimination and/or sexual harassment in the workplace. The organization is called WINGS, an acronym for Women Involved in Giving Support. This fall we received our grants and funding from the Nokomis Foundation of Grand Rapids," said Butcher, who is president of WINGS. Nokomis provided funding for the printing and distribution of brochures offered by WINGS enabling women to identify discrimination in the workplace and learn what steps to take to stop such discrimina-

Although WINGS encourages women to try alternative methods before considering a lawsuit, the brochures also outline how to to find an attorney and how to prepare for legal action.

Until now, there have been five WINGS support groups - in Detroit, Downriver (in Taylor), Howell, Lansing and Rockwood. Some Oakland County women have traveled to Detroit or Howell, the closest support groups, for meetings. But the WINGS board has just announced that an Oakland County support group will meet 7-8:30 p.m. every third Monday, beginning Sept. 20, at the Baldwin Public Library in Birmingham.

Information about WINGS is available by calling the group's hotline at 693-0840. Temere, who is executive director of WINGS, said women can call anytime to leave a message. For an immediate personal response, "I'm always there seven days a week mornings to talk to Recalling the start-up of WINGS, The planning and organizing stages tooks several years. It predated Anita Hill," Butcher said. But with the Anita Hill-Clarence Thomas hearings, "It was like a wakeup call. It gave women the courage to come forward and say this was happening to me, and to take positive action. It taught women that these acts were illegal too," she said.

Although many employers are more enlightened today than in the past about sexual discrimination, Butcher pointed out, "There is still the problem of the 'glass ceiling,' keeping women at low level with the corporation.

WINGS hopes to establish support groups in all the main cities throughout Michigan.

Susan Temere, executive director f WINGS, said that at General Motors she has been sexually harassed and propositioned by hiring superintendents. She said that during her 18 years with the company, she has been denied 100 job openings.

"It's living a nightmare that you don't feel you're ever going to get out of," she declared. "It has serious effects economically, the quality of my

Referring to her start at GM. Temere said the corporation recruited her from Michigan State University, where she graduated from the law enforcement program with honors. She received a master's degree in organizational communication from Wayne State University.

Butcher, in talking about her legal battleagainst the Detroit News, said, "I initiated that lawsuit that became a class action. It took eight years to resolve. We figured we won. We settled it with a $330,000 settlement on behalfofaclass of 90 women. Even more than a dollar amount, we felt we won on behalf of women. It forced the News to go out and hire women and give them good assignments in the newsroom." She said one of the women, hired as a result of this, later won a Pulitzer Prize.

spontaneous writing sample. I am curious about what my handwriting may or may not reveal about

S.M., Ann Arbor

I couldn't resist analyzing such a flattering letter!

Even an untrained eye can recognize the fine spacing of today's handwriting. This carries a positive connotation and points up a spirit of orderliness.

She is well organized and conscientious. Her efficiency and determination make an excellent partnership. Her memory is retentive and she pays assidious attention to all details. She likes to work with good equipment.

This young woman is self-disciplined and aware of time. Being a punctual person she appreciates the trait in others. She is clearly able to see and act on the essen-prone to show her feelings. Before committing herself emotionally she wishes to get all the facts. She refrains from impulsive actions and will usually consider how the situation or decision will affect her personally.

Culture and high intelligence are quickly discerned in this handwriting sample. Her thought processes are fluent. She expresses herself well both in words and ideas. Literary aptitude is a strong possibility. Often her mind is working ahead, finding new and viable ways of handling tasks and solving problems.

Intuition is also pervasive in this handwriting. It can be an asset in assessing people and/or situations. She probably does well at solving puzzles and unraveling mysteries.

Seemingly, she has a good feeling for language and sound. Music will be important in her life.

An innate sense of aesthetics can also be seen here. Her home and/or office would be interestingly arranged. Tastes would lean more toward the plain or original than the ornate.

Beauty often calls out to her. She can become delighted at the sight of nature's grandeur.

A desire for recognition and love is inherent in all of us to a degree. This young woman appears to have quite a strong need for it at this time, especially from the opposite sex. Some early life deprivation is hinted at here.

Our writer is caring and helpful. Great empathy for others is seen. Her generosity, however, can be carefully calculated at times. There are some things to which she clings tenaciously.

Emotional confrontation is distasteful and she tries to avoid it wherever possible. She has a likable personality and wants to relate to others in a harmonious way. She also enjoys time to be alone to pursue her own varied in-

Her sense of humor should be ingratiating to those around her. It can also help put things in perspective for her when the going gets rough.

Although this versatile young woman has many commendable traits the writing suggests her self-esteem may need a little reinforcement. Seemingly, she wants to appear more sophisticated than she may inwardly feel.

Benefit 'lights up' for Angela Hospice

Angela Hospice Home Care, the Italian American Club of Livonia and Jacobson's are putting the finishing touches on the sixth annual "Light Up a Life" benefit and fashion show.

This year's gala will be Tuesday, Nov. 9, at the Jacobson's Laurel Park store in Livonia and promises to be an evening of holiday shopping, food and fun.

Doors will open to ticket holders only at 6:30 p.m.

WJBK-TV anchor Rich Fisher will be honorary chair for the benefit. Fisher, an Emmy-winning news anchor, began his broadcasting career in 1968 at WATZ AM-FM in Alpena. He also worked at WJRT-TV in Flint and WXYZ-TV in Detroit before joining WJBK.

He has worked for numerous charities, including the Muscular Dystrophy Association, American Lung Association and American Cancer Society. He is former gen-eral chairman for the Cystic Fi-brosis Foundation of Genesee County and has been involved with St. Jude's Children's Hospi-

WKQI radio personality Col-leen Bumar, WDIV-TV meteorologist Paul Gross, Detroit Tiger announcer Rick Rizzs, WDIV-TV personality Sara Barr and other local celebrities will model a selection of holiday fashions avail-able at Jacobson's while more than 20 of the area's favorite restaurants will provide food for the Special jewelry, crystal and accessory presentations are also planned for the evening along with a raffle, featuring such prizes as dinner for two with Mr. and Mrs. Mort Crim at Stewart's Restaurant, two round-trip continental United States airline tickets donated by Northwest Airlines and a $500 Jacobson's gift certificate, to name just a few.

Angela Hospice Home Care has been serving the communities of Southeastern Michigan since 1985 and is sponsored and operated by the Felician Sisters. Proceeds from the event will benefit the new Angela Hospice Care Center, a 34,000-square foot inpatient facility that will provide a home-like environment for people who suffer from a terminal illness when they have no one to care for them or nowhere to go.

"We are overjoyed by the support we have received and the Light Up a Life' benefit and fashion show is just one way of showing the people who suffer from an incurable illness that they are part of a caring community and will never be alone," said hospice president and founder, Sister Mary Giovanni.

Tickets for the event are $30 and can be purchased by calling Loretta at 473-9464 or Dorothy at

Holy time Jews celebrate start of New Year

This year, Jews all over the world, with a mixture of solemnity and festivity, are marking the beginning of the year 5754.

Based on a lunar calendar and on a tradition that year one was the year of Creation, the Jewish High Holy Days spans three weeks and started with with Selichot, the special services held the Saturday night (Sept. 11) preceding the New Year. The penitential prayers signal the approach of the High Holy Days, according to the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Detroit.

Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are the two most sacred holy days in the Jewish faith and are referred to as the "High Holy Days." Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, begins the 10 Days of Penitence, which conclude with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atone-

Following the 10 Days of Penitence, other holidays usher in the New Year. Sukkot is the Jewish Festival of Thanksgiving on the occasion of the final gathering of the harvest.

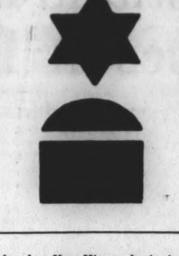

After the seventh day following the beginning of Sukkot, Shemini Atzeret, the Eighth Day of Assembly, is celebrated as the concluding festival of the season.

The next day is Simchat Torah, Rejoicing in the Torah (Scrolls containing the Pentateuch, the first five Books of the Bible), which officially begins the new cycle of Torah reading.

'Head of Year'

Rosh Hashanah literally means "Head of the Year" in Hebrew. It coincides each year with the first day of Tishri, the first month of the year on the Hebrew calendar. This year the 10 days began at sundown on Sept. 15.

During the 10 Days of Penitence, "mankind passes in judgment before the heavenly throne. The "Book of Life" is opened by God on Rosh Hashanah and closed on Yom Kippur, beginning at sundown on Friday, Sept. 24. In this book, tradition holds, it is inscribed who will live, who will die, who will be born and who will prosper or suffer during the coming year.

Jews observe a period of deep reflection, pondering their deeds and spiritual behavior over the past 12 months. On Yom Kippur, prayers are recited asking God to release persons from vows undertaken but not fulfilled.

In spite of the solemn nature of Rosh Hashanah observances, the New Year is a time for joy and warm sharing between families. A festive meal is held before sundown of the evening beginning the Holy Day. At the meal, it is customary to dip a piece of apple or bread into honey symbolizing hopes for a sweet New Year.

Relatives and friends are greeted with "L'Shana Tova Tikatevu" "May you be inscribed in the Book of Life for a good year."

One of the most important symbols of the Rosh Hashanah observance is the shofar, or ram's horn, which is sounded in synagogues as a call to worship on New Year and on each of the 10

Days of Penitence. In ancient times, the shofar was as instrument of communication used to reach the entire nation of Israel in a matter of moments with shofar calls from a row of mountain

During the services, Jews are called upon to repent for their misdeeds of the past year, to re-turn to God in humility and to distinguish between the trivial and the important in life, so that the next 12 months may be richer in service to God and man.

Before the sun sets on the Eve of Atonement (eve of Yom Kippur), families gather for a festive meal when candles are lit and all ask forgiveness for the wrongs they have committed against one another and God. It begins 24 hours of prayer and fasting.

Fasting is the symbol of man's ability to conquer his physical appetites - a demonstration to God that the individual is able to deny the natural cravings for food and drink and will also try to control all of his selfish desires.

Traditional chant

Synagogue services on the Eve of Yom Kippur open with the traditional Kol Nidre chant led by the congregation's cantor. It is a prayer for absolution for the breaking of vows made to God. Prayers during the services are recited in terms of "we" and not "I" because collective responsibility is taken for the shortcomings of mankind.

Sukkot is the Festival of Tabernacles, which begins five days after Yom Kippur (the 15th day of Tishri on the Hebrew calendar). It will begin at sundown on Sept. 29 continue for seven days. It is a reminder of the celebration in ancient Israel when the crops had been gathered and the rainy season was approaching. A booth or hut (sukkah) is erected near synagogues and at many homes. This is usually an improvised structure of boards with a roof of leaves and branches. The building of the sukkah is described in the Bible as an eternal reminder of the temporary dwellings used by the Israelites during their 40 years of wandering through the desert after captivity

Also marking the Festival of Thanksgiving are the citron, or esrog, related to the lemon, and the lulav, a palm branch tied with myrtle and willows. Both symbolize man's dependence on the soil and obligation to God who causes the earth to be bountiful.

Special services are held on the first two days of Sukkot and on the last day which is Hoshana Rabbah. Traditional blessings are recited and congregants march in a processional circle, bearing the palm branch and the citron.

Shemini Atzeret (beginning at sundown on Oct. 7) and Simchat Torah (beginning at sundown on Oct. 8), following Sukkot, are dedicated to the glorification of the Torah. Simchat Torah is the gayest day of the year, symbolizing the everlasting continuity of Ju-

Memorial services to honor and remember the dead are held on Shemini Atzeret. On Simchat Torah, worshipers read from the Torah the last chapters of the Book of Deuteronomy and immediately afterwards the first chapters of Genesis. This ritual declares that the Torah is eternal, having no real beginning and no real end.

The evening service is elaborate with the Torah scrolls being carried in a processional through the congregation. Children carry banners, kiss the Torah scrolls and receive candies and other sweets. During the morning services, the ceremony is repeated.

From Simchat Torah of one year until Simchat Torah of the following year, the entire Torah will be read in the synagogue.

Royal Rangers observe anniversary

The Tri-City Assembly of God Royal Rangers is ready for a new decade. A program for boys, Royal Rangers Outpost 5 will celebrate its 30th anniversary Friday, Oct. 1.

The program was started by the National Assemblies of God in 1963. It was designed by the late Johnny Barnes who served as national commander from its founding in 1962 to his death in 1989. Ken Hunt is the current national commander.

The program has more than 5,300 groups in the United States with more than 128,000 members involved weekly, and now is in 43 countries worldwide.

The Royal Rangers continue to minister to boys by reaching them with the gospel of Jesus Christ, teaching them practical steps to adulthood and spiritual truths, and keeping them on the right path toward a responsible Christian life.

Outpost 5, its Senior Commander Manfred Heck and Tri-City Assembly of

The national

God will host the 7 p.m. celebration at the church's new Outreach Center at 39390 Michigan Ave., Wayne. A dinner and a special program, featuring slides and testimonials about the Royal Ranger Outpost 5 are planned. Key people will be recognized for their past contributions to the Outpost.

Outpost 5 has operated for 31 years; the first year was unchartered within the Michigan District. The group, however, was the first operating Royal Ranger Outpost in the State of Michigan, receiving their first charter in 1963.

Outpost 5 has kept up their charter most of the 30 years they have operated. The Rev. David Pace, the first senior commander, and Rev. E. W. Raimer were responsible for starting Outpost 5 at Wayne Assembly of God in Wayne. Pace also was the first Deputy Michigan District Commander.

Still a member of Tri-City Assembly of God, he is the retired District Home Missions Director for the Michigan District Assemblies of God. Very active in the Royal Ranger ministry, Pace will be the guest speaker at the 7 p.m. anniversary banquet. Other leaders during the Outpost's early years were Gerald Bovia, Joe Docusen, Hubert Lovvorn, Fred Waits, Don Davis, Tony Music, Harold Parrott and Ray Clayton.

Outpost 5 was instrumental in establishing the Southeastern Section of the Michigan District and started the first District Training program. It also participated in the first District Pow-Wow at Fa-Ho-La Bible Camp at Grass Lake in 1963. The first Sectional Pow-Wow was held at Nankin Mills in Westland and was also attended by Outpost 5 to this day is one of the best organized, staffed and best attended Outposts in the entire Michigan District.

Tickets are $2.50 per person or $10 per family and are available at the church information desks or by calling the church office at 326-0330.

It's a long walk from 'me' to 'we' discussion for and against the North American Trade Agreement has raised an issue much larger than the matter of trade practices. As with most issues that provoke paragraphs SCHADEN of prose and reams of rhetoric, this one is only one of many debates that ride on a highway much more far reaching than the issue itself.

In a recent discussion of the proposed agreement, I was told that NAFTA was "something about us and the Mexicans. Therein lies the clue as to what really matters regardless of the issue on the table. "Us and the Mexicans" betrays a mind set, the likes of which has influenced our approach to far too many of life's issues. "Us and the Mexicans" characterizes an Us-Them mentality that ignores the we reality of living on this planet.

Least I be at all misleading in this space, my intention is not to assess the wisdom of NAFTA, but rather to suggest that a mentality which sets us into artificial groupings on a shrinking planet is simply not workable.

Quite sometime ago John Naisbitt ("Megatrends") pointed out that the concept of a national economies is an illusion. The world is indeed too small for that. What happens on Wall Street is reflected in Tokyo, in Bonn and in London. What happens in those places influences what happens here. The job market in one place has an effect in another place, be it immediate or down the road. We are all members of a world economy.

The restrictive mentality of us and them is not relegated to economic matters. Whenever we flex our military muscle, we hear talk of American lives, when in fact, the issue is one of human lives. If Somalia is teaching us nothing else, it certainly demonstrates that what transpires in one corner of the globe transcends to the other corners as well.

Regardless of our subgroup affiliation, we are human beings one and all. If we could begin to see ourselves in terms of a collective we rather than the me and you, us and them mode which captivates us, we might stand a If Somalia is teaching us nothing else, it certainly demonstrates that what transpires in one corner of the globe transcends to the other corners as well.

As long as we remain Americans and Mexicans, Arabs and Jews, blacks and whites, straights and gays, city dwellers and suburbanites, men and women, etc., etc., etc., there will always be the likelihood that a versus will find its way between us.

Even on an individual basis the reality holds. Marriages defined by me and her or me and him are never as life-giving as those in which the concern has moved to a we mentality. It is a long walk from me to we. It is perhaps an even longer walk from us and them to we. But the walk must begin. Be it between husband and wife, Mexican and American worker, city and suburban resi-dent or whatever other grouping has been devised to keep us at one another instead of with one another, the walk to a center where we can discover the we is impera-

Such a walk always exacts a cost. Perhaps this is why we shy away from it. However, the energy required to maintain a we is lifegiving, while the energy required to maintain the edge of us over them is not only life draining, it is fraught with mistrust, the kind of which keeps an entire world on guard. No wonder we get tired! No wonder we learn to live in a protective mode!

In the long run, however, the cost of moving to we is never as exorbitant as the one we continue to pay when our mode of living is "Us and the Mexicans" or us and anybody else at all.

Dan Cooney, a grad-uate of John Glenn WYGONIK High School, as the Che Guevera, helps revolutionary piece together the story of Eva Peron who married Juan Peron, president of Argentina in the 1940s and became one of the most powerful women in the world. She died of cancer at age 33 but her legend survives.

Cooney's fine tenor voice and energy help keep the show moving. He's all over the stage, running and changing roles like a chameleon. One minute he's the narrator, the next an observer, a waiter, even a reporter. During Act II, he's dragged from the crowd by soldiers, a victim of the Peronist regime.

Cooney is handsome and likable as Che. Dressed in army fatigues with a beard, he looks the part of a revolu-

Delightful cast saves 'God's Favorite'

The Plymouth Theater Guild's current production of "God's Favorite," directed by Nancy Harrower, succeeds despite some heavy odds against it.

Neil Simon has said that he regards this comedy-drama VICTORIA as his most personal play. Created shortly after the death of his first wife, this story of a modern-day Job served, he says, as a kind of therapy when he underwent a personal crisis of faith at that time.

One is glad for Simon that he had access to such a lucrative form of therapy, of course. Maybe it worked well for him. Whether his therapy works successfully as a play is another matter entirely, of course. Perhaps it is no accident that "God's Favorite" is one of Simon's lesser-known land, dispense tidbits of down-toearth wisdom, speak in "funny" accents (here, it's Southern, I believe), and shake their weary heads at the antics of their well-to-do employers.

Each player does as well as could be expected with these old stereotypes. But, really, how far can they be expected to go? Some of them are doubly handicapped in that their characters are often simply unlikable.

Fortunately, lead character Joe Benjamin, played by Jerry Salas, and God's messenger from Jackson Heights, Sidney Lipton (Salathiel Baldwin), provide delightful relief.

Though the beleaguered Joe does tend to speechify occasionally, Simon has drawn him more fully than the cardboard family over which he presides. He appears to have brain cells that function, for instance, and, in his misery, is ultimately a likable, sympathetic guy. Salas, with a kind of wiry, simmering energy, makes his character a pleasure to watch.

And speaking of pleasure, you'll get lots of it via Salathiel Baldwin as God's definitely offbeat messenger, Sydney Lipton. Dressed in what has to be the costume of the year (bring your sunglasses!) Baldwin's Sydney moves around the stage like a neon sprite. Dispensing movie trivia and other delightful bits of information, she will win you over from the time she's first discovered hiding behind that sofa in the Benjamin's fancyschmancy Long Island mansion.

Costumes by Jan Paver and Mary Lynn Kuna, are a definite plus. Sets, designed by John Jordan and Nancy Harrower, and constructed by Jordan's crew, help to make the production look first-rate.

Angelic face masks evil heart in 'The Good Son'

Henry Evans (Macaulay Culkin) is a boy with secrets in "The Good Son," opening Friday at suburban movie theaters.

On the surface a bright child who is loving to his parents, protective of his sister and loyal to his friends, Henry has a deadly sense of play, which would horrify those around him if they knew the thoughts he keeps hidden behind that angelic face.

But what an adult cannot - or will not - see is often visible to another child. When Mark Evans (Elijah Wood), Henry's cousin, comes to live with his relatives following the death of his mother, Mark quickly comes to learn that evil has many faces. But will anyone believe him?

Twentieth Centry Fox presents "The Good Son," a Joseph Ruben Film starring Macaulay Culkin and Elijah Wood. The film is directed by Joseph Ruben, produced by Mary Anne Page and Joseph Ruben, and written by Ian and Jacqueline Brookes. It is rated R (Restricted Under 18 requires accompanying parent or guardian).

"The movie is about two kids one good, one bad," said director Joseph Ruben, previously responsible for such hit thrillers as "Sleeping With the Enemy" and "The Stepfather."

"But at its core, it's about evil, pure unexplainable evil. It's about evil in an unexpected place inside a beautiful, charming 2-year-old boy. I think the story is almost primal in that it's saying there's not necessarily any cause for this evil. Despite having great parents, Henry, at his very core, is truly bad." In "The Good Son," Mark knows what Henry is up to, but no one will listen because what he's acusing Henry of is impossible to believe.

Susan Evans (Wendy Crewson) portrays Henry's mother and the one person Mark views as a kindred spirit in the Evans house. But Susan silently carries a huge child was her fault.

"The Good Son" also stars Daniel Hugh Kelly as Wallace Evans, Henry's father, who struggles to understand and protect his family from Mark's seemingly bizarre behavior.

David Morse portrays Jack Evans, Mark's father, who with great reluctance leaves his only son in the care of his brother's family shortly after the death of his wife.

"Elijah (Mark) has such as wonderful face and such a winning way about him," said director Joseph Ruben.

"I thought this movie was going to be a kind of nightmare, directing two 12-year-olds, but both Mack and Elijah are actors. They concentrate, they stay focused; they're not like kids in that re-

'Into the West': It's likable though unbelievable

Like wide-eyed kids huddled around the campfire of an old Irish storyteller, we're all suckers for a well-spun yarn.

Take "Into the West," the story JOHN MONAGHAN of two boys and a mystical horse that works a rare kind of magic once you're willing to check your disbelief at the door. On the outskirts of Dublin, a majestic white horse appears out of nowhere and follows home an old gypsy tinker. The animal immediately takes a shine to the nan's grandsons, who try to board the horse in their apart-When the police impound the horse and sell it to a wealthy businessman, the boys find him and gallop away. Fancying themselves cowboys from American movies, they head west with a posse in hot pursuit. The idea that the whole country takes such an interest in a single horse is one of the smaller pills you have to swallow in "Into the West." The movie doesn't work so much on logic as on heart, a specific brand of Irish heart seen roy and David Kelly, lack any most recently in "Hear My Song," "The Playboys" and even "The Commitments." Jim Sheridan, who wrote "My Left Foot," provides the screen-

uinely charming moments. When the boys, Ossie and Tito, tire of sleeping outdoors, they sneak into a movie theater after hours and gorge themselves on popcorn and fruit punch. So does the horse.

Director Mike Newell pulls in the reins on overtly precious moments, something he was unable to do in his gooey and overrated "Enchanted April."

Sometimes, the shaggy horse story does get away from him, especially in relation to Papa Riley (Gabriel Byrne), who loves the kids but has been unable to do right by them since their mother died. We hear what a fearless man he once was but never feel we know him, even when he finds redemption at film's end.

Ellen Barkin co-stars as a redhaired tinker woman, but her brogue is so bad that she only has a handful of lines. When she picks up a hunk of coal at a buried campsite and announces that the boys have been gone for six hours, we can't help but snicker.

The boys, played by Rory Consuch Hollywood pretensions. They're cute all right, but in a grimy urchin sort of way. They look truly pathetic when singing for shillings or in the dreary confines play, a road movie with some gen- of The Tower, the Dublin housing project where they live instead of the open road.

"Into the West" pays tribute to the romance of tinkers, whose caravans still dot the Irish countryside. "We all have a bit of the traveler in us," Papa Riley announces, "but we never find what we're looking for."

The movie is about that endless search, the child-like faith, that something better lies just around the next bend. For the boys, the horse symbolizes the protective, free-spirited mother that died during Ossie's birth.

Stunning shots of the Irish landscape contrast with the abandoned cars and burning garbage cans of the city. Waterfalls, ancient ruins on emerald green fields and the crashing coastal waves tempt us all back to a life on the road.

Call it the luck of the Irish that "Into the West" got made at all and a minor miracle that it has received wide distribution. While well-crafted and inherently likable, the offbeat approach and thick Irish accents can't help but disappoint family audiences expecting a four-legged cousin to "Free Willy."

the date of their wedding. Their match embodies the character of New York with its tyranny of family lineage and social standing.

Ellen Olenska (Michelle Pfeiffer), May's cousin, has just returned from Europe. Newland is captivated by Ellen. Her honest nature and mysterious authority of her beauty point up the constraints of his own society and inexperience of his fiancee. He finds kindred soul in Ellen, and they fall passionately in love.

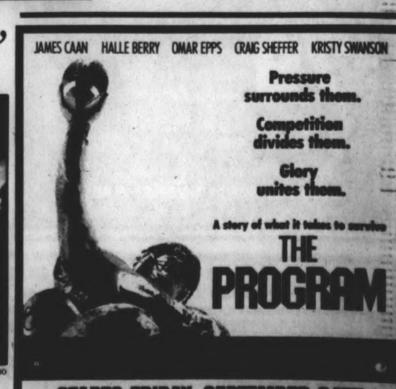

Now Newland must choose between May and the world he knows and Ellen the world he dreams of having.

The story takes place among the privileged of old New York, an insular, highly structured world concerned mainly with keeping up appearances and maintaining strict social order.

As Wharton, who grew up in this "privileged" society de-scribes, it was "a hieroglyphic world where the real thing was never said, or done, or even thought."

To survive, symphony must stay multifaceted

hallenges are as varied as the crescendos in a work by Beethoven as the Livonia Symphony strives to broaden its audience.

Facing fewer government grants and more entertainment competition, the Livonia Symphony Society this year wisely adopted a multifaceted plan to diversify during this 20th anniversary season.

Spicing concerts with rousing selections of contemporary music is one tack the finely tuned community orchestra and volunteer-driven board of directors have taken. Another is variety: chamber concerts, children's concerts, holiday concerts, music under the stars, fund-raising events, even a bookstore performance.

Versatility is the keynote of the musicians whose concert fare includes classical, jazz and pops. The orchestra also has accompanied ballets, operas and chorales.

"Programming should not seem stale, repetitive or predictable," warns the symphony board in its five-year strategic plan.

But the board is well aware too much pop could scare off "quality musicians . . . attracted to symphonies because they perform a challenging repertoire in the traditional setting.'

Board checklist

From my perch as an arts booster, the board would do well to forge ahead in 1) seeking revenueproducing sponsors and an impressionistic audience for winter young artist competition, and 2) offering Symphony in the Schools programs to counter budget cuts that affect Livonia Public Schools elementary-level music. Such competition and programs are invaluable tools for attracting young talent and new concert goers.

The board also must invigorate its marketing pproach to stem the national decline in philanthropic contributions to symphonies and extend its audience base to neighboring towns and young

Other pursuits should include improving grant applications, hosting more concert afterglows, tightening budget controls, increasing corporate support, creating an endowment fund, boosting season ticket sales, and sharing unsold tickets with seniors and other potential patrons. Subscription concerts typically draw 425 patrons to an auditorium seating 900.

The LSO has endured a triple financial whammy over the past five years in its dogged bid to maintain quality: more concerts, higher musician salaries and higher-than-expected fees for guest artists. Concerts cost upwards of $7,500, but even $25 to $50 donations mount up.

Whatever marketing strategies are decided, the symphony can't stand pat. Says board president Ken Kelsey: "According to the American Symphony League, the American orchestra as we know it today has to market itself differently to pull in new people. It has to rid itself of that stuffy look on stage and make going to the symphony a more casual kind of thing. We came up with the same conclusions as part of our strategic planning. We've got to market ourselves to a new generation of potential music lovers. And we can't take our time doing it.'

With no general admission ticket more than $12, the LSO offers an affordable way to bring younger people closer to the classics. And it's a godsend for amateur musicians with full-time

Music director and conductor Francesco DiBlasi founded Oakway Symphony in 1973 to serve parts of Wayne and Oakland counties. But lack of identity with one community hurt attendance so Oakway Symphony became the Livonia Symphony in 1988 'Today, the orchestra's much, much better." said DiBlasi, a former Detroit Symphony assistant first trumpet who has guest conducted symphonies from New York to San Diego as well as the St. Cecilia Orchestra of Rome after training at the renowned Julliard School in New York. "I truly believe the people of Livonia want an orchestra here. Having an opportunity to hear good music helps make it a nice place to live. It certainly adds to culture within the city.'

'One of the reasons we've survived," says Livonia Mayor Bob Bennett, a 15-year board member, "is that we ultimately became identified with one community as opposed to our former status as

That partly explains why she and husband, Karl, sold their new house in Plymouth three years ago to renovate a forgotten 1927 brick colonial located in a neighborhood of similar homes on the city's south side.

Fine art to accentuate Laurel Park Place

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN SPECIAL WRITER

Watercolor, oil, acrylic, monotype, mixed media and pastel paintings will draw the spotlight as Laurel Park Place Mall presents the third annual Livonia Artists Club fine art exhibition and sale Saturday-Sunday, Sept. 25-26.

The Livonia mall is at Six Mile and Newburgh. Show hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Eighteen of the club's more than 40 members will focus on subjects that include floral, still life, figurative, abstract and landscape.

"I'd like everybody to come and see the work. It's very good work and it's such a nice setting," said Marge Masek of Livonia, event co-chair with Lorraine Whitacre of Farmington Oakway when, in a sense, we tried to represent much too large an area. I don't think we would've survived had we remained Oakway."

During DiBlasi's tenure, the orchestra's board of directors has grown from 20 to 45 members. "We've got a wonderful board and things are going quite well," DiBlasi said, "but we need more help from individual board members to make calls and work in the office." Conductor's keynotes

DiBlasi's career keynotes include the 1971 Oakway Symphony concert when 200 high school singers from Birmingham, Southfield, Farmington and Livonia joined with the 50voice Kenneth Jewell Chorale to perform Verdi's Requiem. "It's something I'll always remember," DiBlasi said.

Flutist Alexander Zonjic's tantalizing performance with the LSO last year is another high note. "The audience just ate it up. He's such a fine musician," DiBlasi said.

The success of top winners in the winter young artists competition holds a special place in DiBlasi's heart.

Contestants come from diverse musical backgrounds: Oberlin, Grinnell, Curtis, Julliard, Cleveland, Peabody, Wayne State, MSU.

Past winners have gone on to the Chicago Symphony, New York Philharmonic, Kansas City Philharmonic and Chicago Lyric Opera Company as

Even the winners who didn't make it big in music landed major positions within their chosen careers, DiBlasi said.

Bennett has seen the orchestra grow from 45 to 75 musicians and the season from three to seven major concerts. "I've also seen the orchestra mature in its ability to perform complicated pieces but interesting music," he said.

Classical music seems to enjoy a local following. "But so many of us have so many diversions in the way of entertainment and things we can do," Bennett said, "that this kind of music too often comes up on the short end.

"There's support out there, we're sure of that. We just have to continue to work hard at securing it.

But as soon as you begin to acquire extra lenses, a flash unit, filters and other accessories, a good camera bag becomes a necessity. A camera bag not only gives you adequete protection for all your photo equipment, but it makes it easy to locate a particular item in a hurry.

Camera bags come in two types: soft bags and rigid cases. Soft bags are by far the most popular. They're more portable and therefore easier to move around and travel with. Rigid cases are more often used by the professional photographer who works mostly out of a studio.

The range and quality of camera bags on the market are immense. Here are some tips on what to look for:

To start with, keep in mind the wise saying, "You get what you pay for." So don't waste your time looking for a cheap bag. After all, you've probably invested wisely in a good camera system, so why house it in a flimsy bag?

Look for something with quality. Check out the material. It should be a durable nylon weave with good stitching. It should be fairly weatherproof and have adequate protection on the bottom. A rigid bottom protects your equipment if you should put your bag down sharply on a hard surface.

All sides along with the top should be padded and the strap also padded for comfort while carrying your bag.

Many bags today have adjustable partitions on the inside that attach by means of a Velcro fastener. This means you can compartmentalize each piece of equipment to assure a tight and Don't buy a camera bag that will just exactly house your existing equipment. Plan for the future. Buy one that's a little larger to allow for that extra lens or second camera body you've been thinking about obtaining.

If you're a backpacker, check out some of the new bags that easily convert into backpacks. For comfort on a long hike, it's the only way to go.

One further hint: Always carry your camera bag with you when traveling by air. Never include it with your check-through luggage.

So take your camera equipment and bag it . . . in a good camera bag that will serve you well.

The deadline to reserve space for your arts or cultural organization in an Oct. 9 workshop conducted by the Accounting Aid Society of Detroit has been extended to Sept. 29.

Sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission, "Effective Fund-Raising: The Basics" is aimed at arts and cultural groups.

Chuck Kleber of Charles F. Kleber and Co. and Jeanne Vogt, AAS president, will present information on fund-raising for projects, programs and organizational needs.

The workshop will run 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturday, Oct. 9, in the Heritage Room of the Livonia Senior Center, Farmington Road and Five Mile. Cost is $10 per person for up to two people per organization.

For an agenda and questionnaire, call the Livonia City Hall Community Resources Office: 421-2000, ext. 221.

AAS has a record of assisting non-profit groups in improving administration and addressing financial concern.

Holiday scenes: Besides exhibiting watercolors, Marge Masek will demonstrate painting on glass ornaments. She will have about 50 of the bulbs decorated for holiday

STAFF PHOTOS BY JIM JAGDFELD

Inherited treasures: Livonia painter Marge Masek painted "Blue and Gold Things," a watercolor still life from a setup of objects that once belonged to her mother.

ing any kind of flowers. I love flowers," said Harkins, who has a one-person show of florals running through the end of September at the Farmington Community Library in downtown

"There's no messages in my paintings. I paint because I love to paint," said Harkins. "I hope the viewer sees the beauty that I see in what I paint. I hope they feel that beauty."

Harkins, with four solo exhibitions to her credit, has been juried into group shows presented by the Michigan Watercolor Society, Farmington Artists Club, Visual Arts Association of Livonia and The Scarab Club in De-

After 12 years of seriously painting with watercolors, Harkins continues to study the medium and attend workshops, like the weeklong one given every summer by Farmington Hills artist and gallery owner Edee Joppich at Lake Leelanau.

"With watercolor, you have to let the color and the paper and the water work together," said the LAC past president. "Watercolor is one of the most thrilling, exciting and satisfying media to work in. It's a compulsion, an

Weber concurs: "I get frustrated if I go very long without painting."

Since his retirement from Ford Motor Co. as a clay modeler in 1982, watercolor has been Weber's paint of choice. "Oil was too slow for me," said the painter with an enthusiasm for capturing old cars, animals, horses, and historic buildings of England.

Design is a key element in "Grandmother's Quilt," painted from a live model in a creative workshop run by Christine Unwin in Farmington Hills. For background, Weber weaves a blue and red quilt.

"I invented the colors in the quilt to work off the colors in the model. In watercolor, you want to be accurate with the drawing and derive your excitement from the color," Weber said. "I want people to get involved with the excitement of the painting. I'd like to stir up a little more nostalgia about quilts.'

Weber studied industrial design at Art Center College of Design in Pasadena and also at Purdue and Indiana University. He has taken workshops with Robert Wilbert, Nita Engle, Bill Borden, Christopher Schink, Electra Stamelos and Frederich Wong, to name only a

Solo exhibitions by Weber have colored The Scarab Club, Southfield Cultural Center and Dearborn Chamber of Commerce. He will exhibit figure, floral and landscape at Laurel

Founded in 1960 by Olive Herrington, who was looking to network with other artists in the Livonia area, the club initially met in members' homes. When the Carl Sandburg Library opened, it enabled the LAC to accept a larger membership.

"We have a program each time that's very helpful to the artists," Masek said.

Exciting Livonia watercolorist Audrey Harkins enjoys being able to transpose what she sees to the paper such as the beauty found in "More Petunias."

Electronic theater

BY HELEN DIANE VINCENT SPECIAL WRITER

Home is where the heart is. It's also the place for great entertainment and information coming to us by way of the electronic indus-

Americans already own a lot of electronic equipment. By this time, nearly everybody has one color TV (97 percent) and most have VCRs (up to 80 percent) and this doesn't include other equipment and personal comput-

It was inevitable the marriage between electronics and furniture would take place, especially prodded by growing interest in home theater.

Prospects of this happening has generated a lot of excitement at local home furnishings retail

Scott Shuptrine is adding Bob Timberlake's Home Theater that accommodates up to a 60-inch television. Newton Furniture in Livonia and Novi is going with Berhardt's entertainment centers in various styles that hold up to 35-inch televisions. Classic Interiors in Livonia has expanded its popular Pennsylvania House line for a unit for 52-inch televisions.

Meanwhile, Ethan Allen already has introduced its Concept Six, designed to accommodate most 35-inch televisions, laser discs and surround sound compo-styles of major furniture lines: The American Impressions, Georgian Court and the Country French Collection.

Concept Six goes well beyond the typical armoir or bookshelf that had provided space for a household's TV and stereo.

Richard Howard, founder and driving force behind The Gramophone in Birmingham since 1976, has been among the first to sell and install total audio and video systems as well as intercoms, paging and alarm devices. For the past 10 years, he has pioneered home theater, using high-quality components for custom installations. Howard logically can be credited with contributing to the growing popularity of home theater except, in this instance, the units are inconspicuously builtin, allowing one to experience sight and sound, uncomplicated by furnishings. For those who require portability and flexibility in their viewing and who enjoy TV images pro-jected up to 100 inches (over eight feet), then the Sharp XV-12OZUA LCD (liquid crystal) projector is the answer. This compact video projector (which requires a VCR to use it) is available at Hawthorne Home Appliance & Electronics in Birmingham. Prices range from $1,900 to $7,000 for the maximum size.

Another version of projection television recently has been of-fered by Mitsubishi Electronics in the form of the VS-4571 Table Top Big Screen, which features a 45-inch screen, weighs only 130 pounds and fits on the same size shelf as a 27-inch, direct-view television. Legitimate claims are made that this new Table Top is the big screen design of the future because, among other reasons, it is ideal for spacesaving apartment dwellers yet provides high-quality

The new Kallista Collection from Thomasville includes a canopy bed with an optional leather backrest and a built-in rack for a small television hidden under the canopy, along with all the necessary wiring. For those who like viewing TV in bed, this Thomasville item can be found at Classic Interiors in Livonia among other select retailers.

The only thing new about having a television in the kitchen is that it's become part of an overall media and communications center and can be built to custom specifications. The Madison Design Group in the Michigan Design Center in Troy, for example,

Ethan Allen Concept Six unit accommodates a large-screen television with the sensation of theater-quality sound. Components for the American Impressions and Country French styles are $5,000; the Georgian Court style is ! $5,300. At Ethan Allen, will adapt its Heritage kitchen cabinets to any size television, intercoms, radio and tape players. Siematic, also in MDC, is finding one out of four of its custom-built kitchens is being specified to include a personal computer.

Perhaps the last word about electronics and the home belongs to Mark Stockwell, a 1993 graduate of Cranbrook Educational Community in Bloomfield Hills. He created an entirely new way of viewing television, influenced by traditional Japanese interior design that defined space through minimal but strategic use of furn-

The Media Blanket, through counterbalancing devices anchored to the floor, can be held in an upright position or wrapped around the viewer. The remote control is built into one of the small pillows offering back sup-

Stockwell's Media Blanket was recently featured as Best in Student Design by the 39th annual design review of ID (International Design) magazine.

We'll have to wait and see whether the built-ins, structural furnishings or wrap-around blanket will be the wave of the future. For now, consumers seem to have plenty of options.

In just six months, they finished this restoration, which included new plumbing, upgraded electrical, central air, wet plaster repairs, two new bathrooms and a new kitchen. They hired a contractor to sand oak floors throughout the 2,400-square-foot house only because "it involves too much dust."

Charlotte thoroughly redecorated in the French country style she has recently embraced and expertly placed colonial furnishings used in their previous houses.

The two also tended to the overgrown yard and removed a partially downed fence that blocked views of their pretty cor-

Even the couple's real estate agent (who had the house on the market for a year) was stunned when she toured the finished house last spring during the Plymouth Symphony League Home Tour, Charlotte said.

For starters, Karl gutted the neglected kitchen, which included an "ugly shower stall" and drop ceiling that concealed tell-tale signs of do-it-yourself plumbing: leaky pipes from the upstairs bath wrapped in plastic.

The couple replaced the kitchen's original metal cabinets with light oak and used hunter green counter tops with oak trim. Charlotte combined green check wall covering in the kitchen with burnt orange floral paper in the adjoining eating area. There, she has a rooster chandelier (once candle lit) over a white parson's table and four Chinese Chippendale chairs; seats are covered in casual gray and white check cotton.

"For some reason, the house needed lots of green, so I added it wherever I could," Charlotte said.

Since Charlotte disliked the location of the powder room (between the kitchen and family room), she searched for ways to tie the three areas together. For the half-bath, she selected pale pink Chantilly lace wallpaper and a double floral border.

She likes adding beautiful touches, like the gold-tone turnof-the-century faucet and antique gilt mirror that are visible from connecting rooms. Karl installed ceramic flooring for the first time in both baths.

Charlotte waited two years for the arrival of a colorful needlepoint rug with a fruit and vegetable motif designed by Nina Williams, editor of Country Living magazine. It fills the sunny family room and blends with colorful balloon valances and a sage green Chinese needlepoint rug in the adjoining living room.

Throughout, the designer blends styles, such as a favorite Oriental tea table in glossy black and brass with a Shaker-style pie chest. Other collectibles include a dove base lamp with a dark green paper shade, vintage perfume bottles, antique pitchers and P. Buckley Moss prints collected before the artist was well known.

"Mixing makes a room interesting. I used to be very country. Now I love the French look. It's more sophisticated, but all beautiful things you enjoy living with blend together," Charlotte said. Around the living room fireplace, the couple chose handpainted Italian tiles in white and bottle green with a vegetable motif. The room also includes a pair of rose slipcovered chairs, over-stuffed floral print chair (bought half-price at a warehouse sale) and a pair of twig chairs from Harbor Springs. The family will soon select birds for a newly acquired French-style bird cage.

The dining room tiger maple table is one of Charlotte's early finds. Matching chairs were recently covered with gaily colored floral slipcovers. For floor covering, Charlotte's sister painted a canvas cloth with a floral border and Monet wash in the center.

By far, a favorite part of the house is the grand foyer. Northville artist Julie Albanese painstakingly applied a faux marble finish to the hard wood in rose tones with a bottle green border. Visitors often examine it on hands and knees to make sure it's not the real McCoy, Charlotte said. French doors open to the liv-

Upstairs, the decorator applied six-color stenciling in the master bedroom, which includes light pine furniture and heirloom linens. Charlotte used youthful Victorian paper in daughter Lindsay's room; matching pink and green canopies cover the windows. Lindsay's own framed artwork decorates the room.

The couple often picks up antique fixtures and linens at a Saline market and while vacationing around the state. Charlotte has a garage full of antique windows and doors that she plans to use

The decorator also shops furniture clearance sales. She found a large reproduction Victorian fixture for the second floor at Builder's Square. Though the Kennedy's are considering another renovation or new construction, Charle ly favors this project: "I love the house. I love what's going on in

Register for OU writers seminar

One of the most prestigious writers conferences in the nation will take place Friday-Saturday, Oct. 15-16, at Oakland University in Rochester Hills.

The annual writers' conference, co-sponsored by Detroit Women Writers and OU, will celebrate its 32nd year. It will offer an array of subjects for the novice and aspiring writer as well as the experienced writer. A detailed brochure describing all facets of the event is available by calling OU at 370-3120.

Registration is open. Early registration is encouraged to guarantee personal choices of workshops offered. The conference will take place in the Oakland Center on campus.

Friday, Oct. 15, hands-on writing workshops in such subjects as fiction, non-fiction, screenplays, mysteries, short stories and writing for children and teens are on the agenda. Participants will have an opportunity to read their work and receive critiques from professional writers/workshop leaders.

An afternoon session on individual manuscript critiques is also offered, where professional writers read the manuscripts and prepare a written critique. Poets are offered a special workshop where they submit poetry for critiquing.

All three sessions will take place 1-5 p.m. in the Oakland Center. Deadline for manuscript submission is Friday, Oct. 1.

Saturday, Oct. 16, the conference begins 8:30 a.m. with registration, followed by a day packed with learning ous published writers will be present to head various workoppportunities. Five sessions are offered with eight sepa- shops, sharing their tried and true experiences as authors.

rate workshops in each session, addressing interests in every genre.

The Agent's Role, Mystery Writing, Investigative Reporting, Writing a Column, Plotting, Playwriting and Writing a Romance Novel are subjects included along with Writing for Children, Poetry Writing, Marketing Your Fiction, Historical Romance and Selling to Magazines. These are just a few of the 40 workshops offered on the Saturday schedule.

Keynote speaker at the Saturday luncheon is accomplished author Tom Kakonis. His talk, "Writing As a Career: Chasing Your Dreams, Assessing the Costs," will provide food for thought to the audience of writers.

The popular and successful author will focus largely on the "costs" of writing as a career, a sober but not discouraging look at some of the significant factors involved in a writing career. Most of the information Kakonis will present will be taken from his own experience, much of it anecdotal.

In addition to the keynoter, a number of prominent editors/agents will be at the conference to share their expertise, including Zebra senior editor Tracy Bernstein, Bantam Books editor Linda Gross, Atheneum Books for Children senior editor Marcia Marshall, editor Barbara Norville and New York agent William Thompson. Sharpen your artistic talents via class study

Drawing, oil painting and photography need not remain unattainable skills. As September's school bells ring, resolve to draw on your inner talents. Learn or hone an art or craft.

Classes in media ranging from the fine art of painting to crafts like counted cross stitch are beginning throughout Observerland the next few weeks.

With the holidays around the corner, why not make a quilt for a special family member or friend?

Along with weekly classes offered by area arts organizations, studios, stores, high school/college continuing education programs, parks and recreation departments and art clubs, workshops allow students to try their

Livonia offers a range of classes by professional artists like Edee Joppich of Farmington Hills. Her "Creative Approach to Watercolor" is a popular class for not only instruction but demonstrations in innovative techniques, color and composition, and critiques. The seven-week session is geared to serious beginners as well as advanced painters. Other popular VAAL classes are "Still Life in Watercolor" with Ann Loveland and V. Janus Benda's use of watermedia and collage to "Free Up With Abstracts."

Workshops running one to three days offer students the opportunity to experiment or specialize in several areas, including hand at something new with a "Design, Design and More Deminimum of expenses. sign" with Donna Vogelheim, Visual Arts Association of "The Night Scene" with Marge Chellstorp and, just in time for the holidays, "Making Your Own Greeting Cards" with Benda and "Paint Glass Ornaments" with

> "VAAL offers a variety of classes amd workshops so students learn about different media and techniques. They seem to enjoy it, too," Masek said.

The Livonia painter will demonstrate at the one-day workshop focusing on use of acrylic to paint barn scenes, sleighs and horses, toy shops and fireplaces on the glass ornaments.

"I'll give them tips on how to do them," said Masek, who has painted 24 years. "Practically anybody can do them."

Livonia watercolorist Audrey Harkins took the class last fall and highly recommends it. Her Currier & Ives scene was a smash with her daughter who received the ornament as a present for

This fall finds Harkins returning to Loveland's and Vogelheim's classes

"Even though I've taken them before, you always learn some-thing new. I think learning is a lifelong experience," Harkins said. D & M Art Studio in Plymouth offers an array of classes ranging from preschool art to cartooning for teens and oil painting for senior citizens. Locations include the art studio, Plymouth Cultural Center, Canton Parks and Recreation and the Westland Bailey

Free-lance artist Pam Gross-man teaches drawing classes to students from age 16 to senior citizens at D & M and the Plymouth Cultural Center. Grossman, who has taught for 10 years, will lead her students from pencil to other drawing-based media such as colored pencil, pen and ink, scratch board, pastel and watercolor.

For the first time, Madonna University in conjunction with Academy Neon in Taylor, will offer courses in glassworking, including "Introduction to Stained Glass," "Lampworking I" and "Introduction to Neon" along with "Airbrushing."

All classes are taught at Academy Neon by appointment. Madonna University also offers "Modern Art: Late 19th Century and 20th," a detailed study of art movements, artists and new me-dia found in Europe and America at that time.

Well-lit kitchen serves 2 masters

Reading recipes and searching dabinets for beans and beaters are a few kitchen tasks made easier when illuminated properly. But your ability to see well as you work isn't the only benefit: Careful design and decorating decisions profit under the glow of good lighting as well. The appearance of colors and surfaces remains vivid, and your kitchen's cheerful countenance doesn't disappear just because the sun outside does.

With those incentives in mind, follow Country Kitchen Ideas magazine guidelines to create a sound kitchen lighting plan. You'll learn to successfully blend the three types of illumination: general or ambient lighting, task lighting and mood or accent lighting. Here are some tips that will benefit you during your kitchen's use and when you go to sell.

Your first challenge is to place fixtures that cast general or ambient illumination around the room. The number and location of fixtures depends on the size and Layout of your kitchen. Ceilingmounted and recessed fixtures make good choices. In a mediumsize kitchen (under 120 square feet), you could center one ceilingmounted fixture (two or more for larger kitchens) and add recessed spetlights around the perimeter of

When selecting a ceilingmounted light, look for models that hang flush with or very close to the ceiling. The fixture should cast light through the sides of a translucent shade, not just down-

For recessed downlights, use care in positioning them near cabinetry. "Choose downlights with a widespread beam," says Mi-chael Janicek, an architectural lighting designer from Washing-

Dr. Mary Pickett, who teaches interior and lighting design to Iowa State University students, points out another plus of perimeter downlighting - especially in smaller kitchen quarters: "I love lighting around the perimeter of a space because it can psychologically push that space back and make it look larger," she said.

■ To place task lighting, consider what chores and activities you and your family perform in the kitchen - and where. Then, make sure each work area has its own bright, directed light source.

Every countertop needs light over it. under-cabinet lighting works well for counters with cabinets above. When selecting under-cabinet lighting, make sure the manufacturer lists this application as suitable for the fixture you select. Place shallow undercabinet fixtures, strips of lowvoltage mini lights, or fluorescent channels as close to the front edge of cabinets as possible. Run the lengths of light into corners to eliminate shadows.

For countertops with no cabi-

■ To keep from dining in the dark, locate lighting over your eating area. Chandellers should hang over the center of your table and about 30 inches above the surface. So it's not a head-bumper, buy a fixture that's at least 6 inches narrower than the table. Augment this central light source with recessed fixtures. Your buffet or sideboard could benefit from a few well-placed recessed downlights.

nets above, install a long wallmounted fixture about 2 feet above the counter. Choose a shielded model that casts light downward and across the work

Enlightened geography. Evenly space directional track-light fixtures; a group of pendants that shed light downward; or adjustable recessed spotlights.

Station brighteners. Your sink and range require their own light source, too. Over each work station, center two 75-watt reflector flood track lights. You can also use two recessed downlights spaced about 18 inches apart.

Shining dining. To keep from dining in the dark, locate lighting over your eating area. Chandeliers should hang over the center of your table and about 30 inches above the surface. So it's not a head-bumper, buy a fixture that's at least 6 inches narrower than the table. Augment this central light source with recessed fix-Your buffet or sideboard could benefit from a few wellplaced recessed downlights as well.

Now comes the more artful side to kitchen illumination, called accent or mood lighting. Several approaches and a choice of fixtures let you direct intense beams of light on a prized collectible, a special surface material or a notable architectural feature.

Put accent fixtures above and inside cabinets. Even the cabinet toe space can twinkle with tiny lights. Or, simply shut off ceiling fixtures and let your under-cabinet lights cast a moody glow.

Site condos provide greater flexibility

doing a site condominium is quicker and perhaps cheaper than complying with the legal rigors of the Plat Act. In addition, the several advantages of a site condominium include:

■ the ability to establish common elements.

■ the time required to obtain approval of a plat is longer, and there is extensive review by state agencies, whereas in a condominium, it is merely the recording of the documents with the Register of Deeds. The exception is the Departament of Health when public water and sewer are not available.

the avoidance of some public scrutiny that is part of the plat approval under the Subdivision Control Act.

site condominiums are easier to expand, contract or make other modifications to, whereas the amendment of a plat requires 100 percent approval of all lot owners or a circuit court order. A condominium developer needs no permission of the coowners if the master deed has been properly drafted to amend the change. ■ There is greater flexibility, particularly with respect to commercial and industrial applications such as less stringent setback, open spaces or other local requirements.

■ A condominium facilitates cluster development for residential applications.

General common and limited common elements can be designated and regulated in ways that would be impossible under the Subdivision Control Act.

Flexibility to amend and expand a site condominium makes financing easier; you need only to finance a small portion at a time, for example.

How interested are you in selling your home?

Interested enough to spend a few moments and discover the best place to advertise the fact that your home is for sale?

Good. We knew you were intelligent. In fact, more than 40% of our readers have college degrees or better.*

And if knowlege is power, let's look at a few powerful facts: this newspaper, the one you're reading right now, reaches some of the most affluent households in Wayne and Oakland counties:

Wayne and Oakiana Couniles.

HOUSEHOLD INCOME

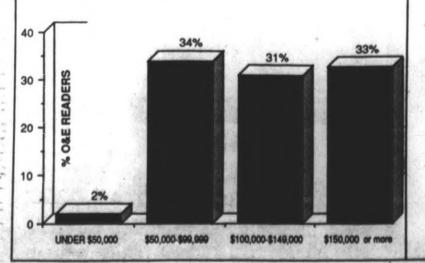

That's a median household income of more than $50,000—$10,000 more than the income of the people who don't read our newspapers. So when you advertise in your Observer & Eccentric newspapers, you not only reach thousands of smart people, you reach people with substantial incomes.

Now, that's something to smile about.

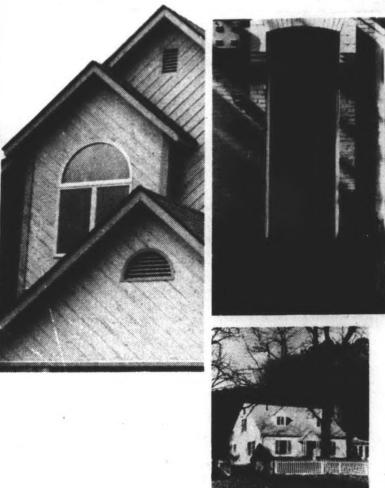

Our circulation area has 90% home ownership and look at the value of our reader's homes:

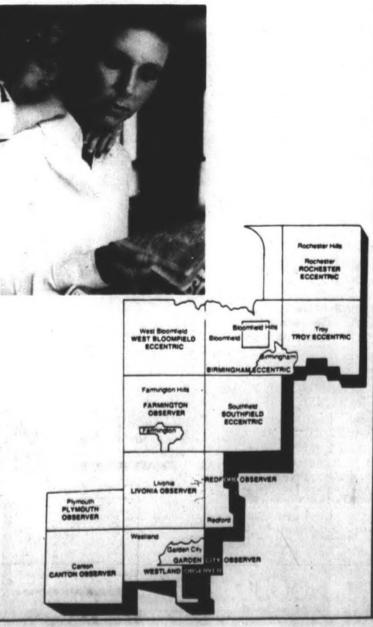

FACT: When you advertise with us you will reach 9 out of 10 adults in the Observer & Eccentric market area who have read weekly classified advertising.*

FACT: 91% of the adults in our market area who had read classified advertising in the past seven days had read it in the Observer & Eccentric*.

So, we can offer you one quarter of a million adult readers and a very rich market, what else do we have for you? How about an award-winning newspaper— a newspaper that people trust and look forward to reading? One that reaches 25 communities with important local news that's not available anywhere else.

That's us.

By the way, did you know that all those little ads in the back of this newspaper—the ones placed by people like you—are published in all 12 newspapers?

Therefore, when you advertise anything from a horn to a home, you will automatically reach this huge, interested reading audience.

What else can we say? We've had years of experience in publishing newspapers and are proud of our record for successfully putting home buyers in touch with home sellers.

In fact, we've just introduced HOMELINE, a great new way to find out about open houses simply by using your touchtone telephone.

Be sure to mention it to your Realtor® so that when it comes time to show your home, it will be described on HOMELINE.

Dial M for masonry

The Livonia-based Masonry Institute of Michigan will celebrate M-Day with a rostrum of speakers and a product exposition Thursday, Oct. 14, at the Sheraton Oaks, Novi.

M-Day speakers are: Lynn R. Lauersdorf, chief of the bureau of architecture, architectural services section, state of Wisconsin. The topic will be "Preventative and Corrective Maintenance of Masontry Systems."

Lucas E. Pfeiffenberger, consultant to the concrete masonry and lightweight aggregate industry in Alpena. He will speak on "Quality Control Checks in Manufacturing Concrete Masonry ■ Elizabeth Rhine Baird, architect and director of quality control for O'Neal Construction, Ann Arbor. She will address "The Total Quality Approach to Masonry Construction.

Jacob W. Ribar, senior principal masonry evaluation engineer, structural engineering department for Construction Technology Laboratories, Skokie, Ill., speaking on "Everything You Wanted to Know About Mortar and Grout.

Registration starts at 7:30 a.m., followed by the first seminar at 8:30 a.m. The program ends at 4:15 p.m. followed by reception.

Joe Gurka and Vlasta Siler, Bloomfield Township builders, specialize in large chateaus, villas and Tudors that carry seven-figure price tags.

That's fairly unusual in and of itself. What's even rarer is that the husband-and-wife team always has a spec model in process.

Gurka and Siler's most recent mansion nearing completion and waiting for a buyer, Villa Baronna, contains some 13,000 square feet of living space on 31/2 acres overlooking Lower Long Lake in Bloomfield Township.

Under construction for three years, the model contains five bedrooms with their own baths, a four-room master suite, nine fireplaces, a great room, family room/solarium, a library, music/reception room, formal dining room, billiards room, game room, media room, plus a pair of attached two-car garages.

It can all be yours for $2.9 million. "The house is so unique, we offer so much value," said Siler, a design specialist. "It's a lot of money, but still a good deal for the person who

"They're designed to look like they have been standing a long time and (still) have all the modern conveni-ences," she said. "We like to strive for permanency, stay around and be enjoyed for a long time, centuries."

Gurka tends to the construction de-

"I build so someone walks in and says, 'This is one of a kind. I've never seen anything like this,' "he said. "My second goal is preservation of arts and crafts, to bring European culture for those who can afford it here.'

Fine touches - plaster, tile treatments, moldings and doors - can be found throughout. Smooth-cut limestone blocks on the facade give the villa a stately appearance.

Originally from Czechoslovakia, Gurka and Siler have developed an appreciation for and specialty in large, baronial French and Britishstyle mansions. They've finished about a dozen since moving to Michigan from California eight years ago. The least expensive sold for $1.4 million. Several other spec houses sold fairly quickly at completion, Gurka said. 'Houses don't sell during construction. People want to see. Potential buyers who qualify financially and who might be interested in that lifestyle somehow seem to gravitate to them by word of mouth, Gurka "We build them and they (buyers) come along. We don't market. A corporate owner can afford it, maybe a bank president, famous sports personality, doctors.' Neither Gurka nor Siler believe they go out on a limb when they build

Home theater sound suffers

AP - Sophisticated video equipment available is capable of bringing theater-like quality into a consumer's home. But no aspect of setting up a home theater is more misunderstood than the sound portion of the performance.

While surround-sound has the power to produce a theater-like environment, it is often defeated by the user, according to Video Maga-

First of all, the speakers don't have to cost a lot of money. Their location is what's most important. While the performance of the highestpriced speakers can be ruined by improper location, a moderately-priced group of speakers placed properly can produce excellent sound.

For example, the voice of someone speaking in the center of the screen will be carried by the center channel. Something happening to the left, will be handled by the left speaker, etc.

Location of the speakers carrying the rear channel is where the problems start. The rear speakers should not be located directly behind the listener and pointed directly at the listener.

The job of the rear speakers in a surroundsound system is to produce broad dispersion of sound. Ideally, the sound carried by rear speakers should seem to come from all directions, but no single direction. Speakers placed behind or directly to the side of the listener and pointed directly at the listener will produce sound that seems to come from these locations - and these are not sound moves.

Instead, the speakers carrying the rear channel can be mounted high on the side walls, and aimed at the back wall. Or they can be placed a bit lower on the side walls and aimed at the ceiling. Or they can be positioned high on the back wall and aimed at the side walls.

"We trust our judgment," he said. "From design and culture, we believe exactly what a client should want. We haven't missed

"There are people who cannot visualize what they want," Siler added. "The whole process is very painful. There's no visualization. These people are happy to walk into a home that's glamorous, ready to move in. They don't have to go through a brain exercise to design."

Gurka said he's seen many arguments among family members who can't agree on exactly what they want in a luxury house.

"Better to walk in, both will love it," he said of building to his specs. "They'll say, 'This is it. Let's move in.'

Gurka said he knew for years that this model probably would be used as a fund-raising showcase for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. While he's pleased to show off his work, Gurka maintains that it does nothing to secure a buyer.

"I'm opening the door and revealing all my secrets," he said. "Thirty thousand people come by and none is my customer."

Gurka and Siler found the acreage for Villa Baronna after conceiving of its design. A smaller house was demolished on the site before the villa arose.

It's difficult to get bank financing for spec jobs, Gurka said.

"I cannot approach them at the Gurka declined to reveal construction costs or margins on their most recent effort. "Our profit is probably a tenth of what people think," he said.

SATURN

Saturn of Plymouth 9301 Massey Drive 1-275 & Ann Arbor Rd. 453-7890

A standard driver-side airbag may not seem like a big deal. Or a spaceframe with "crumple zones" that help dissipate the energy of a crash. Or even optional anti-lock brakes.

Combined, however, they make your decision to buy a Saturn that much easier to live with.

M.S.R.P. of the 1993 SL2 is $11,795 including retailer preparation. Tax, license, transportation and options additional.
