The robber in all three incidents was described as white, in his early- or mid-30s, with a medium build, reddish blond hair and a mustache.

His partner was described as a heavy-set black man with a shaved head and mustache.

Engler education reform plan to include job skills training

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

It will be just fine with west ern Wayne County folks if Gov John Engler makes job skills training part of his education reform program Tuesday

Engler last week praised bills by Rep. William Keith, D Gar. den City, the Legislature's champion of employability training in high schools

A source close to the Republi can governor said Engler spent two hours discussing Keith's program. Engler will address a joint session of the Legislature at 2 p.m. Tuesday to reveal his plan for replacing the $6 billion in revenue caused by repeal of local school propertyt taxes.

House Democrats Monday surveyed 70 people attending a town hall meeting in Wayne Memorial High School set up by Keith.

New reps question veterans over hidden state spending

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

A band of freshman Republi cans gave senior state representatives a bad time over hidden items in state spending

Their targets aid to the Ponti ac Silverdome stadium, secret perks for the governor and Legislature, pay hikes and possible casine gambling.

For example, an $800,000 subsidy for the Silverdome is lumped in a single line item with $450,000 apiece in aid to horse race track cities such as Livonia, Northville and Hazel Park Senior politicos did that to prevent Gov. John En gler from vetoing the Silverdome

Reps. Greg Kaza of Rochester Hills, Jerry Vorva of Plymouth and Deborah Whyman of Canton made protest statements in the permanent House Journal as lawmakers finished work on budget bills prior to the Oct. I start of a new fiscal year.

They were joined by Dan Gustafson of Haslett, Mike Goschka of Brant (who toppled former speaker Lewis Dodak in 1992),

The Silverdome and track monev. along with $2.3 million to supervise Indian run casino gambling, were contained in the $59 million Department of Agriculture budget bill, which the House barely approved, 58 to 40.

Voting yes were Republicans

Dobb of Union Lake, and Jan Do lan of Farmington Hills, and Democrats Maxine Berman of Southfield, David Gubow of Huntington Woods and Richard Young of Dearborn Heights all senior lawmakers Opposed freshmen Kaza, Vorva, Whyman and Penny Crissman of Rochester, joined by second termer John Jamian of Bloomfield Township and senior member Shirley Johnson of Royal Oak Missing the vote were Democrats Justine Barns of Westland and William Keith of Garden

The battle got rougher as the House turned to the $2 billion general government" budget, covering the governor, Legislature, appellate courts, attorney general and several smaller de partments.

The House Fiscal Agency scandal underscores the need for more openness and good government in Lansing, said Kaza, a fiscal conservative and free mar-

Kaza was particularly unhappy about the oldtimers' tactics. In July he won 87 to 1 approval of an amendment to spell out the line items in Engler's staff budget and in legislative budgets.

Things fell apart in appropriations conference committees. however, where senators insisted on lump sum spending. Senators even objected to the House listing its line items because public pres sure would force them to do the same Kaza said.

That bill "omitted important provisions for accountability and openness in legislative budgets. added Whyman, Vorva, Gustaf son and others in a joint state

Other lawmakers complained that the bill contained a $4 million increase for Detroit courts $2.3 million for southeastern Michigan auto emissioins tests. $4 million for Lottery advertising. $1 million more for Civil Service and pay hikes for judges.

The executive office's $4.3 milhion budget contains 85 jobs. The Legislature's $84 million budget shows salaries for members and staff but not how many staff members are employed.

That bill squeaked through 59 to 38, with 56 needed for passage. Voting no were Kaza, Vorva and Whyman, joined by Dobb.

Other area members voted yes except the absent Barns and Keith RUnion Lake.

The bills also were passed by the Senate and sent to Engler for his signature. Many believe the governor may veto the combined Silverdome and racetrack line

MUSIC NOTES

After seven years on their own record label, Bad Religion has jumped from their own Epitaph Records to Atlantic Records

"The majors are more sophisticated about this type of music than they used to be, so there's less chance of us destroying our career than there used to be," said Bad Religion co-founder and songwriter Greg Graffin "And using a massive distribution network is something that should be explored.

'If all goes well, everyone will think it was a great thing to do.

Their first release on Atlantic, "Recipe for Hate," is also receiving more press because Eddie Vedder of Pearl Jam and Johnette of Concrete Blonde are guest vocalists. Graffin seems annoved with that attention.

You've got to understand, we have been around for awhile. We've influenced people who are far more famous than we are now

Bad Religion plays St. Andrew's Hall with Seaweed and Green Day on Friday, Oct. 8.

Former Riverview resident Tim Alexander is planning to return home when his band Primus plays the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward, Detroit. on Monday, and Tuesday, Oct. 18-19. "I'm going to go to where I used to live. I got friends there still." the drummer said. Alexander lived in Riverview 1975-1982 and attended Riverview High School before moving to Arizona.

The band will be in town promoting its album. "Pork Soda." Primus's last tour was Lollapalooza something Alexander wasn't happy with. "For the fields, we had Porta-Johns instead of bathrooms. A month of Porta-Johns got old . There were also a lot of politics about it that weren't too cool like vou couldn't bring water in. That was kind of ridiculous.

For those following the Seattle dress code, be warned that the new style is three-piece suits.

Lavne Staley of Alice in Chains nixed the T shirt and jeans and donned dark-colored suit with a multi-colored tie at his show at the State Theatre on Wednesday, Sept. 29. It was part of a new twist for Alice in Chains that included backdrops and guest appearances by opening bands Tad and Sweet Water. Alice in Chains added dramatics to the show by playing the first 11/2 songs behind a curtain lined with a grid made of rope. Backlit, Staley climbed up and down the grid hidden be hind a white sheet. The hourlong show included most of the hits including "Would" and "Angry

Speaking of the show, Sweet Water has been able to fill clubs in their hometown of Seattle since opening one show for Alice in Chains. Singer Adam Czeisler is anxious to see what will happen after the group finishes its 10-show U.S. tour with "My real goal is to make it so people in the ountry know we're a band." He doesn't want them to know just because of their hometown. Everyone always mentions Seattle. The word is so overused. It's not like it has this insane energy that makes hands great

It's hard to avoid asking them about the rainy city after their bit "part" in the film "Singles." In the movie, the character played by Matt Dillon posts a flier for a show by his band. Sweet Water is one of the opening bands listed on the flier. Their shows are what Sweet Water pride themselves on.

Things have changed for Dave Feeny since he be gan recording bands in his par ents' basement in their Livonia home

Armed with a simple mixing board and a 16-track recording machine, Feeny started The Tempermill recording studio

"My mother baked cookies and at the time we did a lot of punk, guitar groups," Feeny said with a smile. Any kind of problem which could have happened, happened. The furnace would be too loud and when we recorded vocals, I turned off the

The earliest visitors to the Tempermill included Hippodrome and the Orange Roughies - both of which have helped Feeny develop the company into a 80-hours-a-week business. After three years, Feeny's parents weren't too pleased with his venture under their roof, so he decided to make a professional effort and relocated to his present location in Ferndale

This used to be an old chiroprac tor office building," Feeny said, and what I thought would be a weekend and a case of beer turned into a six-month project.

Now more than three years later, six months of hard labor has transformed a 3,200- square foot building into a mammoth recording studio complete with massive mixing and recording equipment and Nintendo video games. With such groups as The Final Cut, The Charm Farm, Goober & The Peas, Elvis Hitler and Majesty Crush using his facility, the studio has made quite a tional performers who create their art regardless of style.

Typically larger studios are incognito, due to the enormous equipment value, hidden behind blackened windows or a simple doorway with an address number hanging

Each studio provides something different which adds to its charm whether it's roomy recording rooms or pool tables. Each contains the essentials: microphones, sound boards which capture each sound and tunes it mixing boards which take sound and combine it with others and track machines which record the sound onto individual cassette

STREET BEATS

The latest staple of modern recording studios are computers which assist in running sound and mixing boards as well as capture, dub, create and overlay sounds many times in chorus. Like many other performers and producers, Kevin Saunderson, president and founder of KMS Records and recording studio in Detroit, has his Macintosh Apple-compatible computer to assist him in recording and creating his techno-dance mu-

"I think it's very important for the sound, not for the technology, but to see what you're doing," said

Saunderson, a Southfield resident. With the help of his Macintosh computer and program, Saunderson can run tracks and create sound all from one spot.

"I don't have to get up from my chair to record or play," he said. "It's quite important for what technology is worth for the future. Feeny also sees the future of recording spearheaded by microchips. The Tempermill has a combi nation of vintage recording equipment and modern technology, such as a Macintosh II SE and IBM compatible computer to further sound quality.

"There are stuff on computers that you can't do on tape," Feeny said. "It gives you flexibilty. It gives you hundreds of extra fingers

The recording process varies from performer to performer depending on the musical style, medium, production and money allotted to the production. Nevertheless, studios are typically open 24-hours, seven days a week to accommodate recording demands. Some studios have a month-long waiting list even for the midnight slots.

The White Room Studios in De troit is renowned for its vintage equipment having housed bands like 700 Miles, Walk on Water, Every Mother's Nightmare, The Exceptions, Junk Monkeys, Spanking Bozos and Forehead Stew. The studio occupies 10,000 square feet of the third floor of an office building. Coowner Michael Nehra feels the classic API sound equipment is the draw of the studio.

"The studio has been revolving around vintage recording equipment, but now it's a good variety of old and new," said Nehra, one of the three owners. "I think we get a fatter sound; granted, it helps when you have a good engineer.

"We try to leave some rough edges in the music because that's our sound. Historically, studios start off small, but once incubated, they can develop into a multi-million dollar investment. Saunderson knows that pathway too well. As a Eastern Michigan University student Saunderson started recording his own dance music on an eight-track recorder, drum machines and keyboards in his Ypsilanti apartment.

"I got kicked out of several places because of my music," he said.

"Back then I didn't know what the hell I was doing. Now my sound sounds a lot cleaner.

To many, Saunderson is better known for his success in the European house band Inner City, which won several gold and silver records in the United Kingdom with hits like "Big Fun" and "Good Life," but is primarily only heard in dance clubs stateside.

Today, Saunderson rents out his facility for up to $60 an hour which includes an engineer, a far cry from his early days. Now his facility is used for recording for Mike Banks. Jennifer Williams and Kaos to remixing for New Order and the Pet Shop Boys

National acts have found inspiration and technological assistance in the metro area studios, but local acts are more inspirational, according to Feeny. The most memorable was when alternative dance hand The Charm Farm used the studio to remix songs

Masek and Rich Thompson — have switched from hardcore to a more alternative sound.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

For members of Fiction, growing up has been a lesson in safety.

Former diehard fans of hardcore bands, bassist Chris Masek and vocalist Rich Thompson, were disillusioned when in a former band they were able to open for their idols. "It was kind of scary," said

During that time, the two opened

Toddler's effort to dress self is normal behavior message: Barbara. My toddler for himself. He is, but the process is going very unevenly. Sometimes he is eager to help; sometimes he wants to do it entirely himself; sometimes he insists that I do it. and sometimes he won't let either one of us do it. If he does it, he insists that I watch. I don't know what to expect.

This is my first child, so I admit I am somewhat insecure about how I handle things. Should I insist that he do it himself or is his refusal appropriate, and should I go along with it? I sometimes get tired of sitting and watching him when he is so obviously capable of putting on his own shirt. Is he manipulating me?

Dear Caller,

Your son's erratic behavior is normal and appropriate. He is manipulating you, but that, too, is normal and appropriate at his stage of development.

During the toddler stage, the child learns to own his body and to care for it; physical selfcare is the toddler's life responsibility. As he learns to wash, go to the bathroom, feed, and dress himself, mother learns graciously to relinquish control to him, and thus to encourage his independence. It is during this time that the child becomes autonomous by mastering bodily care and control. The progression is: (1) mother does for child; (2)

er. (3) mother watches and ad mires as child does it by himself; and (4) child does it alone, without mother's admiration.

Usually, as you describe in your call, this is not a smooth process, but a jerky ride, starting, stopping, moving forward and moving backward. Often, it is a complicated power struggle between mother and child, not simply a physical changing of the guard. Your son may no longer need your physical help, but he does need your emotional support. Your gift to him of power and authority over himself must be continually reinforced by your appreciation of his ability to do the things you used to do for him.

In this relationship, as in any relationship, compromises must be made. What is best for one person is often not best for the other. That is true of your relationship with your toddler.

Sometimes you will be able to go along with your toddler's needs, then you will both feel great. At other times that won't be possible and often you will both feel frustrated. Handling the frustrating times without blame, guilt or anger will enable you to gain confidence in your mothering abilities. The goal is to respect his needs while understanding they cannot always be satisfied.

Practically, educating yourself by attending lectures, reading books, and learning from other mothers, are possible ways of overcoming insecu-Barbara

Shorts festival showcases originality

BY JOHN MONAGHAN SPECIAL WRITER

At their best, short films are satisfying worlds unto themselves. Short and to the point, they provide us with intimate character sketches in a startling economy of vision.

At their worst, they're 10 minutes of fancy camera tricks intended to open doors in Hollywood. Often accomplished technically, they project the sincerity and slickness of a Nike commercial.

"The First International Festival of Short Films," screening this weekend at the Magic Bag Theatre in Ferndale, offers a little bit of both. Consistently entertaining but not overly experimental, the package of 10 films from five countries tries hard to offer something for everyone.

The opening entry, New Zealand's "Lounge Bar," finds a man walking into a bar circa 1975 wearing a clumsy head brace. The bartender and a female customer MOVIES think they've seen him somewhere before, but, as the bell-bottomed lounge singer notes, "he could be almost anyone.

While we probably don't need yet another "Twilight Zone" takeoff, the color short is cleverly edited and does set the mood for the eclectic mix that follows.

Next comes an intriguing American-made documentary in black-and-white called "Stealing Altitude," about a daredevil parachutist who leaps from the tops of tall buildings. The diver calls it "Base Jumping" and supposedly it occurs almost daily in downtown Los Angeles.

The hyperactive "Urban Trage dy" forces laughs as a henpecked man and his "motorcycle mama" wife battle cockroaches in their seedy apartment. In Great Britain's "The Childeater," gorgeous pastoral scenery serves as backdrop for a dull story of a little girl forced to stay with her mysterious

uncle. Black-and-white cinematography by Yuri Neyman ("Liquid Sky," "D.O.A.") highlights "Tom Goes to the Bar," a surreal monologue about life from the perspecthe of the title character, who hangs upside down at the local saloon. It's a bizarre idea well-ex-

For me, the cleverest offering was "Safari Holiday" from the U.S., about a nerdy teenage boy and the sexy college girl he picks up while on vacation with his parents. You can almost see the hormones raging as he tries to make small talk with her at the pool, then coaxes her back to his hotel

His parents and kid sister are supposed to be en route to Sea World, but they've forgotten the camera. What follows could only happen in the confines of a short film. It's an engaging and hilarious little piece of fluff, all the more real for its low budget.

The two-hour program, which played across the country earlier this year, recently added "Omnibus," the 1993 Oscar winner from France. Here a man's love affair with the railcar that brings him back and forth to work ends when the timetable changes and he can't get off at his usual stop.

"Omnibus" not only marks the end of the show but also the end of a long-standing tradition, since the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has recently decided to drop the short subjects category from next year's Oscar ceremony.

For now, anyway, it's a pleasure to see short films given their due on the big screen.

Don't fret. The Jim Rose Circus Sideshow will still appear on Oct. 30 at the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward, Detroit. During his sold-out tour of Europe, Rose collapsed in his Amsterdam hotel room after eating too many light bulbs. He was rushed to the hospital and treated for severe stomach cramps and bleeding bowels.

Upon his return home to Seattle and a subsequent examination by his personal physician, Rose was cautioned to let his intestinal wounds completely heal before eating anymore light bulbs, swallowing swords or ingesting razor blades.

The incident occurred when he overexerted himself in an attempt to please television and radio journalists by recreating one of his most popular circus feats eating a light bulb. In one day, he consumed five bulbs; his system is used to one every 24 hours.

POINTS OF VIEW

Wall' between Detroit, suburbs must come down

y chance I was in Berlin in the summer of 1961 — the week before the wall went up.

By chance I was in Israel last month the week before the wall between the Palestine Liberation Organization and the Israelis came down by the signing of the mutual recognition agreement.

But it wasn't at all by chance that I was in Southfield last week when both candidates who would be Detroit's next mayor virtually declared that the wall between Detroit and its suburbs would come tumbling down.

"We must improve race relations in our cities and it's absolutely imperative that Detroit and suburban communities have mutual respect," Dennis Archer said

"Detroit is the front porch for the rest of Michigan," said Sharon McPhail. "The big problem is selfcenteredness and individualism. We have to get on the front porch togeth-

I needed to hear that. So, apparently, did a lot of other people, since the forum drew the largest crowd in the several year history of the Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Detroit's Econom-

The very fact that the two began their campaign for the general election by accepting the invitation to speak before a largely suburban audience at the Radisson Plaza in Southfield lent credibility to their words.

And David Page, president of the Jewish Federation, wasted no time in stating the interest and concern of suburban residents, like himself, who grew up in Detroit.

"We are indeed all Detroiters, irregardlesss of whether we live or vote there," Page said.

But make no mistake, Coleman Young is not the only person in Detroit who thumbs his nose at that kind of sentiment.

There are Detroiters who believe Detroit should be a city run by and for only those who live there - 76 percent of whom are black.

So it is significant that Archer and McPhail - with their outspoken, antiisolationist views - emerged victorious in the primary.

But it will take more than words. Actions to make Detroit safe for its residents and its guests are absolutely key to making Detroit economically vi-

JUDITH DONER BERNE

Both candidates stressed getting more police on the streets, dealing with the drug problem (90 percent of felonies drug-related, according to McPhail who's on leave as a division chief in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office) and making schools safe and more effective by getting parents involved.

'When we resolve our crime issue, that improves the likelihood of people coming to the city," Archer, the former Michigan Supreme Court justice, said.

Although their overall goals were . similar, some differences emerged, some overt, some more subtle.

I would say Sharon McPhail has a more grass-roots approach - creating 12 neighborhood community councils to empower the people, encouraging Detroiters to spend their money in Detroit and designating that added police officers be put in neighborhoods, not places like Greektown which she says is already safe.

Archer seems more systems-oriented. He wants to create a master plan for Detroit, with opportunities for community involvement in forming its parts. He is pushing for a merger between the Detroit and suburban bus lines. And he wants to market one of Detroit's biggest assets - the Detroit Medical Center.

Their most open disagreement is on taxes. McPhail wants to coax more businesses to the city by cutting the corporate income tax. Archer says Detroit can't afford to give up that money until it has a balanced budget.

There is no short cut to getting Detroit back on its feet. But there are already some pillars to stand on - pillars that have stood even as Detroit has struggled. They are as large as a Wayne State University and as small as a Joe Muer. (I know, I know he's opening a Southfield eatery as well, but lines still form to get in).

No small pillar has been dug by suburbanite Mike Ilitch - rejuvenating the theater district and pulling his own corporation out of the suburbs and into College re 10,059 st fall semes

Most of us suburbanites don't have the money and power of an Ilitch. But we have what we have. As we watch the outcome of the mayoral race and see what steps are taken to bring Detroit back, we should be prepared to lend a hand.

We can express our hope for the city when we travel or meet people from other places; we can include the Fox or Second City or the Gem as part of our entertainment landscape; and we can encourage with all our might a statewide educational plan that will give Detroit schools the resources to do their job.

We in the suburbs have been on our isolated backyard patios too long. Just read the home and hearth magazines. Front porches are back in style.

Reporters don't really take a secret oath to be nasty didn't know any reporters before I got into this line of work.

So I can understand people's suspicion when I call and say, "Hi, I'm a reporter and I want to talk to you.'

If you watch the TV news, you tend to see reporters as an unsmiling, cynical lot - always ready to find fault with somebody and share these faults with others.

So I could understand the dissatisfaction of some educators in recent weeks, when we didn't support a millage that failed.

But I think they over-rate our role in the millage being defeated by voters. Because at most papers I've worked for, candidates and issues we supported on the editorial pages often got whipped.

When I was a reporter at the daily Marquette Mining Journal, we used to joke about how our endorsements were the sure kiss of death to any aspiring political candidate.

Still, the overall theme of some calling to lambaste us at the Observer over the millage failure was to accuse us of having a thing against the schools, against teachers and, in general, against all that is good in the world.

If I were to tell them that, hey, I'm just a regular guy like you, our audience is all taxpayers, and our decision was made with no malicious intent, they in their anger probably wouldn't believe me.

So I'll say, yeah, what the heck, you're right. We just took that stand to college that you're serious about being a reporter, it's not long before someone from "The Media" contacts you.

First, they check to see if you - like them - were born evil. When you tell them that, yes, I was born to be nasty, they schedule a secret ceremony.

There - at a location I dare not disclose - you take a solemn oath, pledging to harass others at any opportunity. You pledge never to smile, unless you've made up another lie that hurts

You pledge to twist the facts to suit your evil purpose, because "they told you" to do it.

But if someone should ask how you approach your job, then it's a different

THIS WEEK ONLY

Tell them you got into this for the same reason most others in the profession did. You say pleasure comes from showing all sides of an issue. You try to get to the heart of the matter, and present it in a way most will understand.

You say there's a certain joy in giving all sides their say and presenting those views fairly, even if you personally might favor one side over the other.

Then explain it's just like when they do their job - they try to do a good job in their field, and we do the same in

Of course, those down on the press don't believe that one.

I mean, plain common sense suggests that just couldn't be true.

Hauntedhouseopen soon

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

So what is the ghoulish reason that eight offices in Canton Landings on Ford Road haven't been Area residents will soon have that answer when they learn the secrets of the haunted offices 44958 Ford Road, behind McDonald's, beginning Friday, Oct. 8, through Halloween, Sunday, Oct. 31.

"Rumor has it a UFO was seen. That's why this space hasn't been leased," said Bill Joyner, Canton Community Foundation executive

The foundation - for the first time - is sponsoring the haunted house with the Close Up program which operates in Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools. Construction has already begun on the house that will boast eight bone-chilling halls.

In one of the most haunted of

halls stands a casket, donated by McCabe Funeral Home. "For six years this (office) has sat empty. Why?" Joyner asked. There's even more questions: "Why does the copy machine only put out red paper?

To unravel these mysteries residents have to muster up some courage and take a stroll - really a crawl - through the haunted offices.

"The last person who walked upright was decapitated," Joyner

The haunted house will be open 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Mondays-Fridays; and 5 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. Admission is $5 for children. Adults are free if accompanied by a child. Sunday is discount day with a $1 off admission.

All proceeds will be distributed to the Close Up program and Growth Works. Refreshments also will be for sale.

Because of the nature of some of the scarey effects, parents are urged to use their discretion in allowing younger children to visit the haunted house, Joyner said.

The Close Up students are building the haunted experience: Bayview Electric, headquartered in Redford Township, is donating the $1,000 to $1,500 electrical work needed for the hauntings, while lumber for the effort was provided by National Lumber through Smith-Lewiston Realty.

'With the donations it means we can give more to each of the two agencies," Joyner said.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Readers hooked on simple fish recipes

he phone has been ringing off the hook, and if your recent comments about my fishing column are any indication, there are a lot of readers out there who have a love-hate relationship with fish.

Many callers said they would rather eat fish in a restaurant. When they do cook fish at home, callers said they look for recipes that are simple and easy, that can be made with minimal fuss.

Your calls also indicated that there are quite a few of you who enjoy fishing not just as a sport, but also to put food on the table.

Rosemarie Otterman of Troy and Shirley McCullum of Livonia requested more recipes for fish butters to cook fish in, and to serve on the

Here are some reader requested recipes.

BASIL BUTTER

- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons fresh chopped basil (or 1 teaspoon dried)
- 1 stick butter or margarine (1/4 cup )
- Combine ingredients, and mix well. Makes 34 cup.

MUSTARD BUTTER

- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons good prepared mustard (Dijon or stone ground)

Combine ingredients, and mix well.

You can melt both of these butters in a skillet and pan fry the fish. Another option is to mix the butter, chill, and dot slices of the butter over grilled or baked

Jane Rutter of Farmington called to say she goes wild over the spinach/artichoke dip served as an appetizer at Cooker Bar & Grille. My sources followed up with a recipe that they say is as close to Cooker's

SPINACH ARTICHOKE DIP

- 1 (15 oz.) can artichoke hearts, drained and rinsed, finely chopped
- 1 (10 oz.) package frozen chopped spinach, defrosted
- 1/2 cup fresh grated Parmesan cheese 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 small onion, grated or finely chopped

In a large bowl, chop artichoke hearts. Squeeze as much of the water out of the defrosted spinach as possible and mix with artichoke hearts.

Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Spoon into individual or small oven-proof crocks and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes, or place under a broiler and broil for 5 minutes until golden brown and heated throughout.

Serve immediately with crackers, toasted pita bread or vegetables.

Sandy Russell of Livonia called to tell me that a few weeks back I mentioned something about a zucchini-carrot bread and failed to give the recipe in one of my columns

Sorry about the omission, Sandy, and I'm pleased to pass along my recipe for this quick bread that even the kids enjoy in their lunch boxes!

CARROT-ZUCCHINI BREAD

- 11/2 cups sifted flour
- 11/2 teaspoons baking soda 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 3/4 cup sugar 2 beaten eggs
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 11/2 cups grated carrots
- 1 cup grated zucchini
- 34 cup chopped walnuts (optional)

In a large bowl, sift together the flour, soda and cinnamon. Add sugar, eggs, oil, vanilla and salt. Mix to moisten Stir in carrots, zucchini and nuts and mix to blend.

Pour this into a greased loaf pan or into individual paper lined cupcake pans. For bread, bake for 1 hour, then cool in pan for 10 minutes, remove and continue to cool on a rack. For muffins, fill 3/4 full and bake for 40-50 minutes. Makes one 5 by 9-inch loaf or 12 large muffins

Cook Chinese even if you've little time to shop, chop

Cookbook author Nina Simonds takes the mystery out of Chinese cooking by showing cooks how to stock their pantry with easily purchased staples, and create delicious, authentic dishes quickly with minimal fuss.

BY GERI RINSCHLER SPECIAL WRITER

Five years ago, before her son was born, Nina Simonds, author of the newly published "China Express," said she cooked Chinese food for dinner almost every

Having a baby was only part of what inspired her to write "China Express," (William Morrow & Company, 1993, $25) explained Simonds during a cooking demonstration on Sept. 26 at Kitchen Glamor's West Bloomfield store. The other part was having a friend who called and asked how to cook chicken Chinese style in Simonds is certainly no newcomer to Chinese cooking as she has been teaching for the past 20 years. She became immersed in the subject when she moved to Taiwan at age of 19.

"I was very lucky to have studied with a woman who was a master chef and taught regional Chinese cooking," said Simonds. For 31/2 years Simonds studied with master chefs from all over China and translated three Chinese cookbooks into English. She later moved to Paris and worked at La Varenne cooking school before returning to the United States.

When the assignment to interview Simonds arrived I was very excited to meet a writer whose work I had read and admired in "Gourmet," "Harper's Bazaar," and "The New York Times." I also eagerly anticipated getting some dearly needed inspiration for getting out of the rut of cooking the same things for dinner.

I wasn't alone. Sonia Faigenbaum of Farmington who attend ed the demonstration at Kitchen Glamor on Sunday shared my "I looked forward to coming to this class to get some new ideas for sauces and seasoning Chinese food. We all get in a rut cooking everyday," she said. When the demonstration be-

BY KEELY WYGONIK

Practice makes perfect are words that pastry chef Kristin Jablonski of Redford lives by and passes along as advice to his students at the William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center in Westland.

"People say I'm driven. I'm consumed by my career. If you enjoy what you do, you won't struggle," said Jablonski. "I'm always trying to create new things. Dessert is like the chef's final signature on a meal. It's what helps make meals memorable.'

Jablonski earned a spot on the team to represent the Central Region of the United States, which includes the Midwest, at the 1996 "Culinary Olympics" in Frankfurt, Germany. He tried out in 1989 for the contest held every four years, but didn't make the cut.

'In the preliminary competition the judges taste with their eyes, they know exactly how it should look without tasting it. In the final competition, they judge with their eyes, and by tasting the final product," said Jablonski who won the spot after several rounds of tough competition in Orlando, Fla. He was one of 35 chefs from all over the nation

Also chosen from Michigan were Kenneth Goodwin of the Fairlane Club, Dearborn; Derin Moore of Pike Street, Pontiac; and Matthew Bronski of Loon River Cafe, Sterling Heights.

For the past three years he's been the pastry chef, and a teaching assistant at the William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center in Westland. He's also taught at Washtenaw Community College and Schoolcraft Community College.

'I give them the basics," he said. "I like working with high school students because they're eager to learn, and willing to accept what they see you do. I like to see them start picking up what I've taught them. They're the next generation of chefs.

Jablonski has won numerous awards for his work. He's won two gold medals for his gingerbread houses at the "Festival of Trees" held every November at Cobo Hall in Detroit, silver and bronze medals at competitions sponsored by the American Culinary Federation, and a special judges award at the Epicurium Eiffel Competition in France.

How did you get interested in cooking?

"I took a home economics class at St. Agatha High School in Redford in the 10th grade and enjoyed it. I had entered the kitchen once in a while at home before that. A teacher recommended I apply for the culinary program at Schoolcraft College. There was a 21/2 year waiting list. I got on the list.

"At Schoolcraft the pastry chef, Leonard Stec, took me under his wing, and I seemed to fit into

After graduating from Schoolcraft College in 1987, Jablonski continued his education by studying in France and Switzerland, and by taking classes in chocolate and pulled sugar from master pastry

What do you like about being a pastry chef?

I like the challenge of being able to create something no one has seen before. It's fun to take a concept like a centerpiece and give it an Art Deco theme. A lot of times chefs look at other fields like architecture for ideas. We use some of the same tools like palette knives for spatulas.

Who does the cooking at your house?

I live at home with my parents (Dolores'and Walter Jablonski). When I get home, mom's got dinner on the table. At first I learned from her, now she's learning a few things from me. She lets me into the kitchen sometimes, and gives me time to create things on my own.

What are some baking tips you can share with

Instead of flouring and greasing a cake pan, line the bottom of the pan with parchment paper and grease the sides. Your cake won't stick to the bottom of the pan. "When you're making a cake don't over mix the batter, and don't pull it out of the oven too soon. If you press your finger on the cake and it springs back, it's done. After about five minutes, turn the cake upside down on a cooling rack, otherwise it will continue to cook."

plied, but Simonds got their attention when she said - "I like to look at my audience even if they've had some Chinese cooking classes as if they're all virgins because all teachers have different methods of cooking.

'China Express' is as my publisher likes to describe it, a faster, fresher, lighter and easier way to Chinese cooking.

In order to do that Simonds reduced the amount of ingredients used in a recipe, and incorporated condiments which are available in your local supermarket. She reduced the time it takes to cook a recipe by reducing the amount of techniques without losing the essence of classic Chinese style.

Basic ingredients

Before any of the slicing and chopping started, Simonds introduced the class to some basic Chinese condiments - soy sauce. rice wine, rice vinegar, sesame oil and hoison sauce.

"With the arrival of my newborn, I didn't have the time to travel to China Town to buy ingredients. Yet, I longed for the vibrant flavorings as well as a healthy approach to eating," she

First on her list was soy sauce. Depending upon the manufacturer soy sauce changes in flavor from brand to brand. To prove her point, Simonds passed around samples of a variety of brands for the class to sample. She recommends using a medium grade soy sauce for everything. Heavy soy sauce she explained has molasses in it, which gives it more viscosi-

Simonds said she tested the recipes in her book with the Kikomann brand. She recommends low-sodium soy sauce for those who must restrict their intake of salt. Increasing the amount of seasonings such as minced garlic, fresh grated ginger and finely chopped scallions used will increase flavor and compensate for the lack of salt.

When a recipe calls for rice wine, Simonds said she prefers to use sake because it doesn't have added salt. Toasted sesame oil also found in the grocery store is used as a flavor enhancer and not for stir-frying.

The first dish which Simonds demonstrated was quite simple, Barbecued Chicken Wings. The sauce is easy to make and versatile enough to be used with pork, chicken or turkey. While the chicken wings were baking she went on to make a stir-fried dish Spicy Turkey with Peppers and Snow Peas

Successful stir-frying

"The key to successful stirfrying, is organization," she said. 'Get everything done a head of time. I use a tray to organize my ngredients.

As she cooked, Simonds explained everything step-by-step. As most Chinese chefs do, Simonds did the slicing and chopping by hand with a Chinese cleaver, and explained that it's fine to use a mini-food processor for fine mincing ingredients such as garlic and ginger when you're pressed for time.

Ronald Michalak of Bloomfield Township who loves to cook but only does a little Chinese cooking at home said he thought Simonds was a good teacher.

"Not only did she explain every step and the significance of every step but, but she was able to teach how to balance flavors for a good end result," he said.

To prepare the stir-fry turkey dish, Simonds used a rolled steel. flat- bottom wok. She suggests that if one is not available a castiron deep sided skillet is a good substitute. No matter which pan you use, the first step should be to heat the wok or skillet then add some oil such as corn or canola and add the first ingredient in the recipe to be stir-fried when the wok is hot.

Then, continue stirring constantly over high heat. Throughout the cooking process, Simonds explained that the vegetables in the recipe should be cooked until

When you're through cooking, Simonds recomends washing the wok with soap and water. After rinsing, set it on a low burner for a few seconds to dry.

In the opening chapters of "Chir: 1 Express" you'll find an explanation of basic Chinese ingredients and substitutions for when they're not available. There are also detailed descriptions for steamlining classic techniques. The book certainly does meet the needs of folks on the go who enjoy cooking Chinese meals from scratch, with little time to shop and chop.

If your diet is well balanced this may not be a problem. Aneggs using some whole eggs and some egg whites.

When using eggs in cooking, you might cut fat content with fewer nutrient losses by using whole eggs and cutting the amount of added fat by a quarter to a third.

Long-term investment pays off at Guenoc Winery

Some 90 miles north of San Francisco, and far from mainstream northern California wine country, is Guenoc (Gwen'-ahk) Valley, an uncommonly beautiful, but extremely isolated, and under-developed area. Here the wine lover finds the 23,000 acres of the Guenoc Estate Vineyards and Winery which in total represents the area of a sizeable city.

Vineyards in Guenoc Valley grow at optimum elevations between 1,000 and 1,500 feet. Grapes reap benefits from the rich California sun by day and very cool temperatures at night. Soils are either loamy with gravel bands or rocky and lean. The former are superior for chardonnay, while the latter simulate the conditions of the Medoc and make a favorable home for the Bordeaux varietals - cabernet sauvignon, merlot, cabernet franc, malbec and petit verdot.

The Guenoc Winery label bears a portrait of the famous stage actress Lillie Langtry who was the darling of both European and American theatergoers in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Langtry owned property in the FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

Guenoc Valley where she produced wines from her vineyards. Today, more than 300 acres of vineyards surround the original Langtry House, restored to its original Victorian elegance by Guenoc's proprietors Orville and Karen Magoon.

In 1963, Orville Magoon's family exchanged 23 acres of prime real estate in Hawaii for the 23,000 acres in Guenoc Valley because the University of Hawaii needed to expand its campus facilities. At first, the property served as a livestock ranch only, but Magoon's mother Genevieve wanted to plant grapes, considering them more romantic than hay. And so it happened!

White wine fans will love these selections

Attention white wine lovers, these are some of the best we've tasted recently:

Sauvignon blanes: 1991 Quivira Reserve ($14), 1992 St. Clement ($11), 1992 Murphy-Goode Fume Blanc ($11), 1992

Both the wine louse phylloxera and Prohibition destroyed the school when he first made wine from plums.

In 1981, Guenoc Valley became the first single-proprietor viticultural appellation recognized by the federal government Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

It's not just Guenoc's wines that appeal to us, but the care that's given to the vineyards. The term organically grown (natural farming) is the buzz word in grape growing. "The logical way to approach natural farming is with what we call 'sustainable agriculture,' "said Holstein. "At Guenoc, we utilize natural cover crops indigenous to our area. Planting these cover crops creates a natural environment for predators of the pests which are particularly hazardous to grape vines." Building a predator population has allowed Guenoc to eliminate chemical sprays for these pests.

The following is a profile of the extensive product line from Guenoc. The estate selection wines produced entirely from the Magoon's Guenoc Valley vineyards include Chardonnay ($15) and Sauvignon Blanc ($12) as the white offerings. Labeled as North Coast are Cabernet Sauvignon, ($13), Petite Sirah ($15), Zinfandel ($10) and Meritage Red ($13). Two vineyard-designated reserve wines are produced. Chardonnay from the Genevieve Magoon Vineyard ($21) on the estate and a Cabernet Sauvignon from the Beckstoffer Vineyard ($30) in Napa

At the top of the line are the Langtry Meritage bottlings. If you've seen the term "meritage" on California bottlings and don't understand the term, we'll state it simply. The term meritage rhymes with heritage — it is not a French word and it denotes wines of merit made with grape varietals that are the heritage of the Bor-

Langtry Meritage White ($18) is a blend of 84 percent sauvignon blanc and 16 percent seminon. Langtry Meritage Red ($37) is a blend of all five Bordeaux varietals grown on the estate and named above. In our opinion, the Langtry Meritage wines have few peers in the meritage category. # Win Schuler Foods back home

As part of Campbell Soup Company, Win Schuler Foods known for their Bar-Scheeze Spread, got no respect.

They were a sleepy business in a large multi-million dollar corporation, and weren't getting any attention," said Robert Nunez who with his partner Tom Bitterman, bought the product line from Campbell Soup Company in March, and opened an office in Livonia.

Detroit's Vlasic Pickle Company bought the Win Schuler food line from the family in 1982. Just four years earlier, Vlasic had been purchased by the Campbell Soup Company.

Bitterman and Nunez left Vlasic two years ago to go into business for themselves. After scouting a number of food lines, they decided to bring Win Schuler Foods back to Michigan.

'Campbell's, with hundreds of products and over $6 billion in annual sales couldn't devote the sales and marketing energy that the Win Schuler line deserved," said Bitterman, who managed the products for a time at Vlasic.

The partners have introduced some new products, and changed the packaging of your favorite Win Schuler products, but not the price.

"We felt the Win Schuler brand name was strong and highly respected," said Nunez. "Everyone's got a Win Schuler

Bitterman and Nunez have introduced a new line of frozen, heat and serve, appetizers including Win Schuler barbecue meatballs, which were served at Win Schuler's Restaurant before dinner with a complimentary crock of cheese.

The two other new products are Grilled Chicken Chunks in a Thick & Rich Barbecue Sauce, and Smoked Sausages in a Mild Chili Sauce. They are available in five pound plastic buckets at membership clubs like Source, Parti-Giant and in two pound supermarket containers at Spartan stores.

Other products in the Win Schuler food line are five flavors of Bar-Scheeze Cheese Spread, Cheese logs and balls; and eight flavors of Bar-Schips snack crackers.

Fall and football season bring back a lot of fond memories for Nunez who attended Albion College and used to sample Bar-Scheeze "at the source" in nearby Marshall. The Schuler restaurants in Marshall, Jackson, Stevensville and St. Joseph Michigan remain independent, and are run by the family. Win Schuler, died in May at the age of 85.

"We all remember Mr. Schuler's touch, his smile, the sparkle in his eye, his insistence on quality products,' said Nunez,

Spicy beef roast low in fat, simple

 Because weekends are filled with lots to do, here's an easy low-fat weekend dinner. Surprising as it may seem, this beef roast is fuss-free.

Just rub on a few seasonings and pop it into the oven. A couple of hours later, you can stir up the creamy mushroom mustard sauce while the roast stands. The sauce is made with skim milk, so it's low in fat too.

Tomato pasta with lamb zesty

trying lamb this-fall. American lamb is mild, offers a new spark for tired menu plans, and is easy to prepare. Demands for boneless, lean lamb have created some new cuts which are much more consumer-friendly.

For an extra special treat, nothing is more tender than a loin or rib chop grilled with a basting of garlic seasoned marinade or a simple seasoned bread crumb coated rack of lamb.

For those unfamiliar with lamb, the rack of lamb is a section of rib chops. It serves one to two, depending on size, and is on the table in an hour or less.

Score a touchdown with healthy tailgate picnic

the game is perfect for joining together with family and friends to celebrate the fall season.

For many, a great tailgate picnic includes lots of socializing, sandwiches, drinks and a chance to toss around the football. This year, why not be a little more creative, and healthier, with the pregame picnics?

By-pass the chips and dip and start your tailgate with a tasty, nutritious appetizer. To celebrate National Seafood Month, serve crisp, fresh vegetables with Hot Crabmeat Dip.

Even though it's getting chilly outside, don't put away that barbecue - you'll want to use it for Mushroom-Turkey Kabobs. Kabobs are so easy to prepare and eat, especially at tailgates. Make them ahead of time and marinade at home. Once you get to the picnic, they'll be ready to throw on

Deep, rich colors style fall tables

or most of us, the rich, warm colors of fall inspire change. As the leaves seem to magically turn from a pale green to golden yellows, vibrant oranges and harvest reds, we put away summer's lightweight linens and set a table

I wandered through Jacobson's tabletop department in Birmingham last week and admired their artful table linen displays. One of my favorites included these handpainted placemats by Nancy Cohn ($10). The whimsical apples are yellow and red, accented with green leaves.

Blue and cranberry borders highlight the artichoke and the golden sunflowers seem to dance across their canvas. Any of the patterns would add a dash of fall fun to your kitchen or dining room.

For a more formal setting I spotted an elegant. fringed ivory brocade runner from the Austin Horn collection ($112) and a dazzling pearl-incrusted and gold-embroidered table square with tasseled corners ($155). What glamour for a special holiday

They are a palette of tapestry toppers in autumn-rich colors, making them a classic choice for the season. Jacobson's displays a floral and leaf design tablecloth with multi-color fringe ($185) and a lined fruit motif square ($142). Their tapestry selection from France includes a Metropolitan Opera-inspired orchestral scene in hunter green and rusts.

Hudson's also features tapestry placemats and runners in its tabletop department. An eyecatcher by Creations de France weaves a garden of wildflowers with friendly forest animals and birds, and borders the playful scene with blossoming tulips

Global spirit

Ethnic-patterned linens impart the same richness of color and design as the traditional fruit and floral motifs, yet they add a new global spirit to our table dressings.

Last year, Hudson's and Harlem Textile works challenged local students from Cass Tech High School in Detroit to create patterns that could be printed on textiles. Hillary Herring's design was chosen to be reproduced as part of the company's collection and sold at select Hudson's award-winning design, inspired by "the royalty of ancient African womanhood. superimposed over vibrant rhythms." Hillary's original sketch in black on green was ultimately printed on placemats, tablecloths and napkins in a spicy shade of paprika.

'I started with 10 thumbnail sketches," says Herring. "My favorite was the mother and child. I then added the shelter and the pedestal." A junior this year, Herring is considering a career in fashion design and created a stylish and imaginative outfit out of her signature fabric.

Herring visited with customers recently at Hudson's Fairlane store and received well-deserved accolades. "I think it's a beautiful, universal design," said Jane Mazza of Dearborn as Herring autographed her purchase. Her daughter, Allison, concurred. "I think she'll probably be famous one Herring took her celebrity status in stride, chatting with interested bystanders and friends. Andrea Powell of Detroit was not the least bit surprised by her young neighbor's achievements. She proudly ordered a tablecloth and secured the promise of an autograph. Eunice Wheeler of Detroit was equally impressed.

Rukeyser rips new tax burdens

Louis Rukeyser pontificated on the state of America's economy for almost two hours last week, delighting a sold-out audience brought together by Hudson's at the Fairlane Grand Manor. His comments prompted three standing ovations. Here are the highlights.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

Television financial journalist Louis Rukeyser said he knew he made it when Rolling Stone magazine published a list of people's favorite programs and Fab Five Freddie of Yo! MTV Raps revealed, "I watch Wall Street Week with Louis Rukeyser, because it's about money and he's cool."

"I am now a hero to my children," the veteran of 24 years of economic analysis broadcasts quipped. "Young people have found that staying home and watching public TV on a Friday night is something better to do. I'm considering a Wall Street Week All-Rap Special.

Rukeyser came to town Sept. 29 as guest speaker for a Hudson's evening of "fashion, insight and information." The financial iconoclast drew a crowd of 650 investors, business leaders and just plain fans, who enjoyed dinner, a fast-paced fashion show and Rukeyser's prognostications.

Rukeyser used the occasion to poke the Clinton Administration's tax plan, "Clinton's made the wrong diagnosis and proposed the wrong cure." He countered that "when governments pull back, people move ahead. Prosperity is not created by an ever-expanding government."

He said tax increases from the Bush Administration and tax increases proposed by the Clinton Administration will put America at the highest level of taxation in its history - at 44 to 45 percent when state and local taxes are added in. This can only hurt the economy and prolong the recession.

Rukeyser said the recession is over, the economy is coming back slowly, and Clinton should not intervene and screw it up.

"Don't just do something, Mr. President, stand there!" he urged to a round of applause. Rukeyser offered six tips families should be following until prosperity returns:

- Don't panic. "Nothing revolutionary or fatal is going on.'
- Pay down your own debt.
- Get the household budget in order. Reassess your career. "Take a look
- at your job and your company. If your assessments raise any doubts, market your talent, train for a new career, always be in the business of you.'

Wall Street words: Louis Rukeyser delivered a pro-business, anti-tax, anti-Congress message to interested listeners, urging them to buy common stocks and avoid naysayers who preach doom and gloom about the U.S. economy.

Retailers promote service that dazzles

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

Ever hear of the 3-11 Rule of Retail? It could make or break your business, according to Bob Dery of Consumer Dynamics.

Dery came to Livonia from Cleveland recently to discuss customer service with managers of the Laurel Park Place stores.

"The 3-11 Rule is based on human ature" he told the crowd. "If a cusor she will tell three other people how customer base," he explained. "Al- that is to make sure you provide the great the service is. If he or she is not happy with the service, they will tell 11 people how lousy your store is.'

The moral of the axiom is good service builds business. OK. What constitutes good service?

Dery said it's service that's A.B.C.D. - Above and Beyond the Call of Duty. Without A.B.C.D. service you get customers that D.C.B.A. - Don't Come Back Again.

"Eighty percent ways remember that a customer is not an interruption of your work, but rather the purpose of your work.'

The current retail atmosphere makes customer service even more important than ever because customers have more shopping options than before, Dery pointed out. People can shop by catalog, by television, in strip centers, malls, discount centers, specialty stores or warehouses.

You've got to cut down a tomer is treated well in your store, he ness comes from 20-percent of the options," Dery said. "The way to do best customer service of anyone." Dery also advised sales consultants to become actors and actresses, who are always "on," always giving a fine performance.

"A customer should never know when you are down, bored, mad at your husband or worried about your kids," he said. "You must maintain a high energy level, smile, acknowledge and welcome a customer, and be ready to give service above and

At the annual style show of the MarioMax Salon of West Bloomfield last week, Mario Bitonti, Max Rieger and their staff of 24 stylists, created a variety of looks a la the glamour girls of Hollywood in the 1940s. Models enchanted guests riding the Detroit Star Clipper Dinner Train as they walked down the aisles in unique retro outfits from Patricia Miles on the Boardwalk in West Bloomfield, sporting waves and flips, and long strands of pearls.

Makeup was added by Britain Tod, also of MarioMax.

"Hair styles are very natural today," said Eric Bitonti, stylist and son of salon co-owner Mario. "The hair products we use to create these looks last longer and give more shine than products of the past, but the styles are very similar - soft curls. flips, french twists with curls on top, Grace Kelly waves.'

Bitonti said the latest hair style for men is longer on top. A European look is very fashionable right now, too. The salon is located within the Crosswinds Mall on Orchard Lake and Lone Pine.

Richard Asztalos, owner of the Charisma Salon of Laurel Park Place in Livonia said the softer, romantic hair styles are in right now.

"It depends on what part of the country you live in, but here in the Midwest, perms are still big as are french twists, "up" hair, very sophisticated styles. In California it's highlighting and streaking. Redheads are popular now and styles are influenced by the retro fashions. Spikey is out and the ever-popular Dorothy Hamill wedge now comes layered."

Self-discovery is workshop topic

The PRH Institute is offering 30-hour "Who Am I" session, Wednesday and Thursday Oct. 6-7, and Wednesday through Friday, Oct. 13-15, at St. Valentine Catholic Church, on Beech Daly south of Five Mile in Redford Towhship. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

PRH is a French acronym for Personality and Human Relations. It's a non-denominational, international organization founded 25 years ago in France that now has chapters in 40 countries.

"Spend one week discovering the most precious asset you have - yourself," said Mary Ryan of Redford, a PRH animator who has conducted PRH workshops in Michigan, Ohio and South Dakota and will offer the Redford session.

'Who Am I" seeks to help individuals grow in self-knowledge, inner strength and happiness, said Ryan.

"It helps you to discover gifts you are not aware of and heal old hurts. You'll be given a tool to help continue your growth," said Ryan, who has spoken on PRH at judicial conferences and before community groups. To register for the session, which costs $160, call 533-3294.

The fee can be paid over time. Ryan also offers "Helping My Children to Grow" and "My Central Course of Action" as well as sessions for couples Similar workshops are gaining popularity in Indonesia, India, Africa, Papua New Guinea, England, France, Ireland, Canada and throughout the U.S.

PRH has helped people from all walks of life, Ryan said. Judith Darlington, a Livonia psychologist, came to a session "at a time when she was trying to make an important decision in her life," said Ryan. "Judith said this was the best decisionmaking tool she has ever witnessed.

While PRH helps individuals work on emotional healing, it also emphasizes self-discovery, appreciating gifts and inner Dery spent 25 years working in sales at Dalton Industries, a women's apparel manufacturer. He began as a salesman and rose to the position of senior vice president. For the past 15 years, he has traveled the country giving seminars about customer service.

Davis, Boeheim pay Head visit

all is here, summer is dead, but winter (basketball) is still ahead.

Speaking of hoops, I heard of some recent developments out in the Plymouth-Canton area.

Inside sources tell me that Dr. Tom Davis (Iowa) and Jim Boeheim (Syracuse) were both in town recently to meet and greet Plymouth Salem's 6-foot-7 James Head.

My eye in the sky tells me that Head performed well at the all-star camp held over the summer at Eastern Michigan University.

Also, the word is out that Plymouth Canton's 6-5 Bryan Whittle, the highly-touted transfer from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., has returned home after only one year with the Chiefs.

Whittle, who struggled last season as a junior. apparently is back at Spackenhill High where he dominated his county circuit, averaging 23 points

Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner, who learned of Whittle's departure after he returned from vacation in late August, said the New York transfer had a good summer season and had attracted interest from Mid-American schools.

No kickers in Livonia

It's becoming more common in high school football that kickers are a valued commodity.

Most grid coaches look no further than their own soccer teams

Redford Catholic Central borrowed Kerry Zavagnin and now use Adam Borchert, both outstanding soccer players. Walled Lake Western made a run all the way to the state Class A finals last year behind the leg of Travis Ilacqua.

This season, Canton's Jeff Fliss does double duty; so does Plymouth Salem's Mike Kley and Redford Thurston's Brian Mlynarek.

But in Livonia, school policy prohibits athletes from playing two sports during the same season.

The issue was apparently discussed last spring when an athlete tried to play both softball and run track. The arrangement had the athlete running in the meets, but not practicing with the track team. Livonia's athletic council couldn't justify that setup, so the policy still stands. Too bad, because a lack of a kicker has hurt 0-4

Livonia Franklin in a couple of games. It was only last year that Eastern Michigan University utilized walk-on Bill Adam as its No. 1 placekicker after he used up his eligibility on the soccer team. Adam played soccer, but never placekicked when he was at Franklin. What a shame.

It seems Livonia schools are somewhat at a disadvantage when competing against their counterparts from the Western Lakes Activities Association, in lots of ways.

Gyms and practice facilities are rarely available on weekends, unless a paid custodian is on duty. Meanwhile, the rest of the WLAA has carte blanche when it comes to access to their own facil-

If they want their schools to be competitive. maybe Livonia interim superintendent Dr. Ken Watson should reevaluate the policy. Or have his schools join a less competitive league.

Chuck Donaldson update

I paid a visit to University of Michigan Hospital last week to see Clarenceville football coach Chuck Donaldson, who was seriously injured last summer in a car accident. Donaldson is making progress, but a lengthy rehabilitation process lies ahead.

He was named Clarenceville's new head coach only a few weeks prior to the accident.

U-M assistant football coach Lloyd Carr stopped by to see Donaldson while he was in intensive care. He has also received great support from family and friends, including Schoolcraft College Trustee Richard DeVries and former Central Michigan star Mike Nettie, a teammate of Donaldson's at Stevenson.

I was uplifted to see Donaldson sitting in a wheelchair. We talked about Clarenceville football, Stevenson football and the Michigan-Notre Dame game. Donaldson is tired of hospital food, so maybe somebody could sneak him in a good Italian dish (his favorite).

He's antsy to get out of the hospital. He may get a chance to go home for a few days before returning to U-M for rehab.

The doctors say I should to be out of here by Christmas," he said. "Being in here three months is long enough.

Donaldson is on floor 6-A, Room No. 6410. Keep Chuck in your prayers.

This and that

■ I hope Bishop Borgess athletic director Rob Allaire wasn't serious about his threat to keep our reporters out of his gyms if we decided to mention that his football team was involved in a post-game altercation with Hamtramck St. Florian.

Our relationship with that school and its coaches has been too good over the years to let something as petty as that ruin our good rapport. I'm sure principal Sister Joan Charnley understands the situation and will handle it according-

Canton runners topple Western

The Plymouth Canton boys and girls cross country teams managed to do what no other school has done for several years Thursday — defeat the Walled Lake Western teams in dual-meet competition.

Plymouth Canton scored a pair of important victories Thursday in boys and girls cross country.

The Chiefs knocked off defending Western Lakes Activities Association champions Walled Lake Western, 17-42 in the boys race and 20-36 in the girls. Both teams are 2-0 in the Western Division and 3-0 overall.

The Western boys, three-time defending WLAA champs, had won 24 consecutive dual meets and the girls 15. The boys hadn't lost since 1989 and the girls 1990.

N'ville outguns Canton

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

Power football prevailed over the finesse game Friday as host Northville defeated Plymouth Canton 14-0 in an important Western Division

The Mustangs rushed for 250 of their 296 total yards and made their running game the dominant feature of the contest. Northville also was able to contain Canton's passing game and limited it to 91 yards through the air. The Chiefs had just 57 yards on the ground.

"It goes to prove the point you have to be able to run the ball," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle, who expressed that concern previously when ing. "It's nice to throw the ball, but you have to be able to run it effectively when you have to. Northville improved to 4-1 overall while snapping a three-game winning streak for the Chiefs (3-2). Both teams are 2-1 in the division.

Tailback Aneil Kersey did most of the damage for the Northville, rushing for 126 yards on 23 carries, including touchdown runs of 38 and 6 yards. But fullback Bryan Kelley added 72 yards on just five attempts, and quarterback Marc Golden added 29 but was always a threat to break a long run.

Late goal allows Rocks to tie Chiefs, 2-2

Plymouth Salem soccer player Drew Drummond took a modest view of his game-tying goal Thursday.

With the Rocks just minutes away from a second loss to Plymouth Canton, Drummond's perfectly placed shot allowed Salem to escape with a

Salem was pressuring in front of the Canton goal when the ball went out to Drummond, who put it in the upper left-hand corner just over the reach of goalie George Tomasso.

"He's a great goalie," Drummond said. "It was pretty much luck. It was a team effort, not any one person out there. I can't take all the credit; it's the team. The outcome put Canton at 4-6-1 overall and 2-2-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, the Rocks 5-4-2 and 4-2-1. Drummond's goal with 4:07 reof Chad Dale goals and made the lead stand for most of the second half.

"We would've liked to win it, but since we haven't been winning games, a tie will hold us over," Canton coach Don Smith said.

"If George had touched it, it would have been a super save. It was a beautiful hit. (Drummond) bent it right around.' 'That's one thing I always say about this team: They never give up, Johnson said. "It's like a morale victory when you come back and tie in a good game. It's not disappointing.

Salem scored first when Scot Buczek redirected a cross from Mark MacInnis, who had an earlier goal disallowed because of an offsides call, at 14:54 in the first half.

Little more than a minute later, Dale lifted the ball past a pair of defenders, and it rolled into the net before Salem keeper Paul Dood could get to it.

Two minutes before halftime, Dale raced up on the left side to head the ball into the corner of the net after Jeff Fliss crossed the ball from the other side. Salem coach Ken Johnson thought

The Rocks had chosen that end in the first half, thinking if the game were close late, they would have drier ground at the north goal.

Country Day defeats CC

BY STEVE KOWALSKI STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central star soccer player Rich Walos was asked if he knew a lot of Birmingham Country Day's players.

"Too many," Walos said. "I know practically the whole team." That was a bad sign for CC.

Several of Country Day's players played alongside Walos during the spring and summer on the talent-rich Michigan Wolves Under-17 team. Six others from Country Day also played this summer on the Vardar III U-16 national champion team.

Country Day used its superior talent on Wednesday night to beat visiting CC, 1-0. The game might have turned into a rout were it not for the outstanding goalkeeping by CC senior Mike Kokoszka.

Country Day has won six straight small-class championships, including the last two in Class B. CC, unranked in Class

A, is 4-2-3 overall. "We knew we were underdogs and had to play our hearts out,' Walos said. "I don't think the ball got to the front much.' Country Day is 13-0 this fall with nine shutouts and hasn't lost since 1991 when Warren De-LaSalle won in overtime, 3-2. Livonia Stevenson, one of two teams to tie the Yellow Jackets last year, plays Friday, Oct. 8 at Country Day.

"Without a doubt, this is our best team talent-wise," Country Day coach Paul Bartoshuk said.

Country Day broke a scoreless tie with 25 minutes left in the second half with a goal by junior midfielder Dan Brody, assisted by junior midfielder Brandon Moggio. Brody earned some redemption since his hard shot from point-blank range was stopped minutes earlier by Kokoszka.

"I was standing in the middle, someone dropped the ball back and I had a shot at the far post," Brody said of his goal.

Brody set up teammate Tino Scicluna a couple minutes later but Scicluna's shot headed toward the upper right corner was knocked away by a diving Kokoszka.

"They play pover football, and they have the kids to do it," Khoenle said. "They have a pretty good trio there.

They run the ball well and don't throw it well. We throw it better than average and don't run it that well. There comes a point you have to be able to run it.

Canton's longest pass play went for 15 yards, in contrast with the previous game when the Chiefs beat Walled Lake Western with long gainers. Ryan Ostach and Tim Moritz caught four passes each for 41 and 35 yards, respectively.

'Their passing game was giving us trouble, but we could control the ball longer than they could," Northville coach Darrel Schumacher said.

The Mustangs had big defensive ends John Gatti and Jason Hollman applying a hard rush, and that forced Canton to throw early and run a lot of short sideline patterns.

"Our game plan was to keep them from setting up, Schumacher said. "If we keep the pressure on the quarterback, that keeps him from throwing long. We were coming with our two (ends) to keep him inside and force him to throw it early.

Senior Kevin Shankie started for Canton, but Khoenle settled on junior Brett Elledge after alternating the two for a couple series.

Khoenle thought the running ability of Elledge would allow the Chiefs to get outside of the Northville ends on the option. Shankie was 3-of-6 passing for 23 yards, Elledge 9-of-15 for 68.

"We weren't afraid to throw it (deep), but we were having trouble blocking their ends and we were holding guys in to help,' Khoenle said. "We thought we would be more successful throwing short than deep and moving the ball by first downs.

"We were trying to figure out what the pattern was," Schumacher said. "We weren't sure if (Elledge) was the option quarterback or the throwing quarterback. They had our kids guessing, but then we said, 'Go get,' and they did." Northville scored the first time it had the ball, executing a fake punt at its own 42-yard line for a 16-yard gain by Kersey, who made his 38-yard TD run three plays later at 7:56 in the first quarter.

"We thought about (the fake punt) against Churchill but decided, 'If you don't need it, don't show it,'" Schumacher said. "I thought we needed to score early because they have the ability to score and score often. You have to get up, so they have to play from behind.

The Chiefs drove to the Northville 13 in the second period but lost a fumble. Canton's Kevin Kovachevich, who stopped a possible Northville TD at his own 4-yard line late in the first half, and Derrick Young intercepted Golden passes.

The Mustangs scored again off the second-half kickoff, going 71 yards in just six plays. Kelley ran 43 yards to the Canton 26, and Kersey scored three plays later at Canton moved the ball to the Northville 8 with 8:22 remaining. but Elledge was thrown for a loss on fourth-and-inches. The Mustangs used their ground game to hold the ball for the last 7:58.

"I thought our kids did a real good job and gave a good effort," Khoenle said. "We had chances to score; we made a few mistakes, but overall it wasn't too bad."

Plymouth Salem completed a perfect season in boys golf Friday, winning its 12th consecutive dual meet by defeating Farmington 200-203.

The Falcons bettered their previous best score by 10 strokes, but it wasn't enough to top Salem at San Marino Golf Course.

The Rocks finished 11-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, while Farmington is a deceiving 2-9.

Livonia Stevenson's latest fall lineup is sure to earn high Nielsen ratings.

The Spartans made it a clean sweep in September, running their girls basketball record to 8-0 with a 48-37 victory Thursday at Plymouth Salem.

It was a dogfight until intermission with Stevenson clinging to a 27-24 advantage. But the Spartans turned it on during the third quarter, outscoring the Rocks 13-

After giving up four threepointers during the opening half two each by Lisa Craven and Jenny Massey - Stevenson clamped down by holding the Rocks without a field goal in seven third-quarter tries Salem had only one more threepointer the rest of the night and finished with only 14 of 43 from the field (32.5 percent).

The catalyst once again was first-team All-Observer guard Mo Drabicki, who scored eight of her team-high 14 points during the charge. She had seven steals, including two converted into layups, in that third period.

Stevenson never let the Rocks get any closer than 12 points the rest of the night. Junior Claire Schrader's basket put it away with 1:17 remaining. Her hoop made it 48-33, ending a four-minSalem coach Fred Thomann Drabicki led a balanced Stevenson scoring attack.

Sophomore center Stacey Nichols and junior forward Jill Van Tiem each contributed 10 points. Nichols also grabbed eight rebounds, while junior forward Ann Marie Aquino, who may be the team's most improved player from a year ago, collected six points and six rebounds.

Canton bench helps deliver hoop win PLY. CHRISTIAN 58, BAPTIST PARK

Plymouth Canton led from start to finish Thursday and knocked Farmington Harrison out of the unbeaten ranks in Western Lakes Activities Association girls basketball, 62-44. The Chiefs, 8-1 overall and 3-0 in the league, used balanced scoring and near-flawless basketball to give host Harrison its first loss in three WLAA games. Hawks, who had a five-game winning streak snapped, are 6-3 over-

"Canton played super," Harrison coach Pete Mantyla said. "They shot the ball well, passed the ball well and played defense well, too.

They did a good job running their motion offense. When they weren't shooting the ball well, they were rebounding well. For us, it was a tough night.

We have to pull together because we have to play Livonia Stevenson (8-0) Tuesday. We have to come back stronger than we did tonight."

The Chiefs took control of the game early by jumping to a 14-6 first-quarter lead and stretched the margin to 34-19 by halftime.

Erica Anderson led the way for Canton with 12 points and nine rebounds. The Chiefs also got 11 points from sophomore Sara Warnke (six rebounds), 10 from Amicie Crayton and nine from Jackie Nicastri. Canton converted eight of 14 free throws.

"We got in foul trouble early and had to go to our bench," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. Britta Anderson, Alyson Noune and Crayton drew early fouls.

"We had great play from Sara Warnke, Jackie Nicastri and Becky Vachow. They gave us some great minutes off the bench. Everyboyd who got in the game did a nice job and played well.

Senior forward Carey Perkins paced the Hawks with 13 points. Erin LaCosse and Amanda Ault added 11 and eight points, respectively. Harrison made 13 of 18 free throws

■ LADYWOOD 58, DIVINE CHILD 44: A 20-10 third quarter surge carried Livonia Ladywood (6-1, 2-0) to a Catholic League Central Division win over visiting Dearborn Divine Child (8-2, 1-2) Thursday. Junior forward Tara Overaitis sparked the uprising with 10 of her game-high 25 points. . Melissa Campeau led the Blazers' defense, holding held DC's top guard Carrie Carpenter to seven points. Campeau contributed nine points of her own. "We got much more aggressive in the third quarter," Ladywood coach Ed Kaznaugh said: We eliminated a lot of our first-quarter defensive mistakes. It was a big win against an excellent team."

Emily Gibson scored 13 for the Falcons.

37: After falling behind early Friday at Taylor Baptist Park, Plymouth Christian Academy regrouped and pulled out an easy victory in girls basketball. "We were down 10-3 and called a timeout,"

PCA coach Rod Windle said. "We started out flat defensively. We weren't moving. We turned it around after the timeout. Junior Karin Reed led all scorers with 19 oints and six assists, while sophomore Lisa Erickson added nine for the Eagles (3-6). PCA took control of the game in the second and third quarters by outscoring Taylor 28-11.

WEST HIGHLAND 46, AGAPE 42: For Plymouth Agape Friday, it was a case of too little too late as West Highland Christian of Milford hung on for the victory.

Agape trailed 14-5 at the end of the first quarter, 26-11 at halftime and 38-22 entering the final quarter. A 20-8 outburst in the orth wasn't enough for Agape, however. West Highland (3-1) was led by Chris Sy ons, who netted 15, and Erin Guthrie's 12. Gretchen Baisch scored a game-high 19 fo Agape (4-2).

IT AND REAPS

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

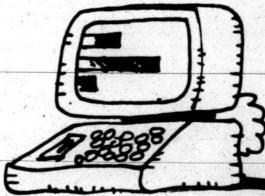

l. Include the price. Don't vaste your time or a potential ouyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond o your ad will be those who are renuinely interested. Surveys how that readers are more nterested in those items and ervices they know are within heir price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations: Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
