Tax form prompts questions

Plymouth residents have until March 1 to turn in the paperwork for a homestead property tax exemption. Local officials say the statewide mandate is creating questions.

Those homestead property tax exemption forms that must be turned in by March 1 for homeowners to qualify for tax breaks are sparking lots of questions and activity at local government offices.

Mary Brooks said nearly 1,000 residents started returning the completed forms in the past week

Schools look for 'ideal' superintendent

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

There's no guarantee such a person exists, but Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' ideal new superintendent has been profiled in detail by a district consultant and the Superintendent Search Criteria Analysis Committee.

Committee member Liz Givens told the school board last week that over the last two weeks, 400 to 500 people have shared their concerns about issues the new superintendent will face and the criteria by which we will select a superintendent. The board hired Bickert, Prophet & Associates Ltd. of Chicago to recom-

State starts new search for airport manager

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

The state is starting over in its search for a permanent manager for Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport.

State aeronautics officials issued new requests for proposal Friday, Feb. 11, to the 70 individuals and businesses originally interested in bidding to be the airport's manager and fixed base operator, who can sell equipment and services.

A group of six or seven individuals and businesses bid to provide services to Mettetal in late 1993. At the time, aeronautics officials wanted creative bids but soon found that it was difficult to evaluate the bids received, said Randy Coller,

Mettetal manager and state Bureau of Aeronautics licensing and enforcement manager

We could see the proponents had to struggle to put bids on it," Coller said. "We had a problem evaluating bids we received. It was our So back to the drawing board. Before the new requests for proposal wafe completed, however, seronautics officials talked with those who originally submitted bids about their concerns.

"We tried to consolidate their concerns," Coller said.

The same panel selected in November to review the bids will evaluate the new ones that are due back at the state March 7. The panel includes John Vergonna, a pilot who also sits on the Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport Advisory

When the first set of requests for proposal were sent out in late 1993, Coller said the state expected to offer one contract for both services manager and FBO. The current FBO is Dan Malone with Emerald Aviation. He is expected to submit another bid under the new request for proposal.

Coller said that to be fair, all 70 individuals and businesses originally interested would be sent the new proposals. A bid is expected to be selected by March 30 with a contract hammered out by April 30, Coller added.

Township officer rams truck in early Sunday chase

Two Plymouth Township police officers followed the driver of a stolen truck to Livonia, where the driver and a suspected accomplice were caught and arrested with Livonia police at the scene.

After police received a report at 3:48 a.m. Sunday that someone had stolen a pickup truck parked in a driveway - and that an apparent accomplice was accompanying the stolen truck in a midsized car - Officer Michael Lego spotted the two vehicles headed east on Ann Arbor Trail, according to township police.

He followed the vehicles as they turned onto Ann Arbor Road, then headed east on Plymouth Road

The vehicles reached speeds of 50-55 mph on Levan Road as Lego turned on the patrol car's flashing lights, and the vehicles continued east on Plymouth Road. At Wayne Road, with four Livonia police cars providing a blockade. Lego rammed the truck to keep its driver from driving off, as township Officer Kathy Wood appeared on the scene, the report

The driver of the truck, an Oak Park man, 34, and the driver of the mid-sized car accompanying it, a Detroit man, 35, were arrested by township police on charges of car theft

Stolen car recovered

A rental car was reported stolen Monday from the Signature Inn, 40455 Ann Arbor Road, then recovered hours later in Detroit.

A Florida woman, 45, who was renting the car reported the theft at 7:56 a.m. The car was found at 1:58 p.m. by Detroit Police at Pilgrim and Lahser. The steering column was damaged and the tires and wheels were missing, according to the report filed by township police.

Microwave stolen

A microwave oven in an unlocked house under construction on Adams Court was reported stolen at 9:55 a.m. Monday.

Police have no leads on the theft, according to the report filed with Plymouth Township police.

Plymouth police and EMS workers were called to the Main Street Deli on Feb. 8 where a 50year-old woman from Westland was complaining of chest pains. Cardiopulmonary resuscitation was administered and the woman's condition stabilized, but she later died in St. Mary Hospital. The woman had no medical history that would explain her death. Her husband said that she'd shoveled snow that morning.

Domestic violence

About 3 a.m. Feb. 13, Plymouth police responded to a call regarding a domestic dispute at an apartment complex on Blanche Street. A neighbor reported a couple were fighting. Officers were greeted by a woman who had a cut on her foot, a bleeding bite wound on her left hand, and another bite wound on her right shoulder. She told officers her live in boyfriend was arrested. The woman didn't want her boyfriend to be arrested, but because her wounds were serious, officers apprehended him anyway.

The woman later advised she wanted her boyfriend to return home. Police advised against it, and asked her to call them about any further problems. The man was given a court date and re-inflicted the wounds. The man leased. He was advised to stay away from the residence.

Geologist traces tracks of ancient mastodon

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI Imagine uncovering tracks of an ancient mastodon. You can see where the mud dripped off his foot," said geologist Dave Thomas, who teaches at Washtenaw Community College.

The Canton resident will talk about his experiences excavating the bones of a mastodon and discovering an ancient trail. The program is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, Feb. 21, at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road. Interested people may register for the presentation either in person or by calling the library at

With the help of slides and bones from other ancient animals. Thomas will explain the excavation in 1992 at a farm west of Saline where the mastodon was

"I'm also going to talk about di-Mosaurs. I want the public to know there's a lot of prehistoric animals that are not dinosaurs," Thomas said.

In January 1992, as workers at the Harry and Lillian Brennan farm and soil business west of Saline were digging a site, they came across bones. The Brennans called in professionals, such as Daniel Fisher, professor of geological and biological sciences at the University of Michigan.

Thomas assisted Fisher. By the end of the excavation - in an area on the farm that was a glacier-formed lake in another era -Fisher, Thomas and others unearthed the bones of an adult male mastodon.

We excavated about twothirds of him," Thomas said. You rarely get 100 percent of the bones in an old peat bog like Scientists found a jawbone with molars, half a pelvis and two vertebrae, a rib, and half a limb bone as they dug deeper through layers of the land. It's believed the mastodon was about 21 years old, stood eight feet at the shoulder, and weighed about five tons.

"Halfway through the excavation in July (1992), we began to find small depressions in the sand that resembled footprints," Thomas said. "We set up a separate team and indeed we found a set of footprints some 20 inches in diameter. They were not of the same animal that we excavated.'

Thomas and other scientists developed a theory about the trail. It's believed the mastodons were hunted by Paleo Indians in the same general area where the bones were found. After killing the mastodon, it's theorized the Indians removed part of the animal and left other remains under the ice of the ancient lake for future retrieval.

These were old takes or old ponds." Thomas said. "Bones buried in water are preserved much better.'

The trail also gave the scientists some idea of the mastodon's behavior simply by studying the footprints. "We found the prints also at a different place. We found a log. We theorize he either hit the log or stepped over it," Thom-

Bill Joyner, president of the Fieger said he has been traveling the country discussing the rights issue.

Of the American Medical Association, which has not backed Kevorkian, he said "You have to drag them into the future.

Canton Chamber auction provides evening of fun

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

What would you bid for a topof the line IBM compatible computer? Or how about homemade desserts each month baked by Canton Place residents?

The stuff we are getting in is unbelievable," said Ginnie Hauck, co-chairwoman of the Canton Chamber of Commerce annual dinner auction.

Hauck and co-chairwoman Janet Volante are gearing up for the annual chamber fund-raiser that will boast more than 75 items to be auctioned. Blackwell Ford is the major sponsor of the event on Saturday, March 12, at Fellows Creek Golf Course Clubhouse on Lotz Road.

There will be only 15 live auction items. The rest will be raffle or silent auction," Volante said.

The evening begins with a 5:30 p.m. preview of the auction items including everything from rubies to romance. A variety of jewels will be a major part of the silent auction, while weekend escapes and trips will be up for bidding.

The preview, which will open with a full service bar, will continue until 7 p.m. at which time dinner will be served until 8:30 p.m. The auction will take place 8:30-10 p.m., followed by dancing with Silver Sounds Professional Disc jockeys from 10 p.m. to midnight.

All members of the community are invited. Tickets are $35 per person and includes entry to the dinner-auction-dancing. For reservations by March 7, call the chamber at 453-4040.

Proceeds from the auction will be used for the chamber's general operation budget and the building fund, said Linda Shapona, chamber executive director.

For the silent auction, guests will write their bid number each guest will get one - their name and amount they bid on for a particular item.

Former Livonia school trustee named to SC board

BY SUSAN ROSIEK STAFF WRITER

Carol Strom, a past president of the Livonia Board of Education. has been been appointed to the Schoolcraft College Board of

'I'm thrilled, honored to serve.' said Strom, upon learning about her appointment late Wednesday.

Strom emerged as the frontrunner on the fourth ballot. Trustees then cast a unanimous ballot for her appointment. She will be sworn in Feb. 23.

Schoolcraft trustees voted on the appointment after interviewing the final four of 13 candidates. Strom was among the final four interviewed Wednesday

She will serve the remainder of Michael Burley's term, which expires June 30, 1995. She plans then to seek election to the board

Burley of Canton Township submitted his resignation in October. His resignation was effective Jan. 26. Burley was elected to the board in 1979 and re-elected in 1985 and 1991.

House twisting travel bureau's arm to promote parks

BY TIM RICHARD

A reluctant Michigan Travel Bureau would be ordered to promote state and local parks under a bill before the House of Representatives.

"Our position is reasonably neutral," Travel Bureau director Tom Altemus told a House panel promoting it.

We're concerned about being locked - into supporting constituency groups rather than responding to needs of tourists. We approach it from a marketing point of view.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Tom Alley, D-West Branch, bawled out the Legislature and Department of Natural Resources for neglecting state parks in both money and promotion.

"Fat cats" take care of the Waterways Commission and Mackinac Island Commission, Alley said, but no one fights for recreational opportunities for reation and Tourism Subcommit-

"DNR is not boisterous and does not fight for approproiations. DNR itself allowed the parks to slide. We (legislators) have been as negligent," Alley said.

A simple policy statement, the Alley bill is the first of a dozen pieces of legislation to beef up state park funding in a heavy campaign as the park system celebrates its 75th anniversary.

All members of the House Rec-tee, including Rep. John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township, voted to send the bill to the House floor for debate

The bill declares it's the Legislature's intention to promote recognition of state and locally managed recreational opportunities including camping, hunting, fishing, boating and other outdoor recreation experiences.'

It tells the Travel Bureau to include that policy in its master

Altemus, however, said the administration should be guided by public demand rather than suppliers' desires to sell.

"We've got to be careful the marketing program isn't so fragmented. We have changed our focus to be customer and demand oriented," he said, citing requests to promote bed & breakfast houses, urban tourism and local the-

Altemus said the Travel Bureau already promotes state parks 'enormously.'

In other testimony, Rick Jameson of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs urged lawmakers to establish an endowment fund whose interest earnings would pay for state park operations.

"MUCC has made this a priority - to get our state parks back into shape," said Jameson, chief lobbyist for the conservation and environmental group.

WC3 truck driving class cruising along

Wayne County Community College corporate services director Kathleen Gilevich reports that 245 graduates of the college's truck-driving program went to work for the J.B. Hunt trucking company in 1993.

Ninety-seven percent of them were still working after 12 weeks, she added.

Ron Horn, the director of safety at J.B. Hunt's New Boston, Mich. terminal, said, "Out of our 15 training sites, Wayne County Community College's students are No. 1 in job retention and in promotions to first-seat driver also trains drivers for KLLM Transport Services on contract

Staff members in WC3's confracted training department are 'developing a generic truck-driving "curriculum that meets recognized safety standards and regulations for the industry, Gilevich said.

" The curriculum design will allow flexibility so that employers can add their own company specifications. In addition, instructors will be cross-trained in classroom, road and range curriculum.

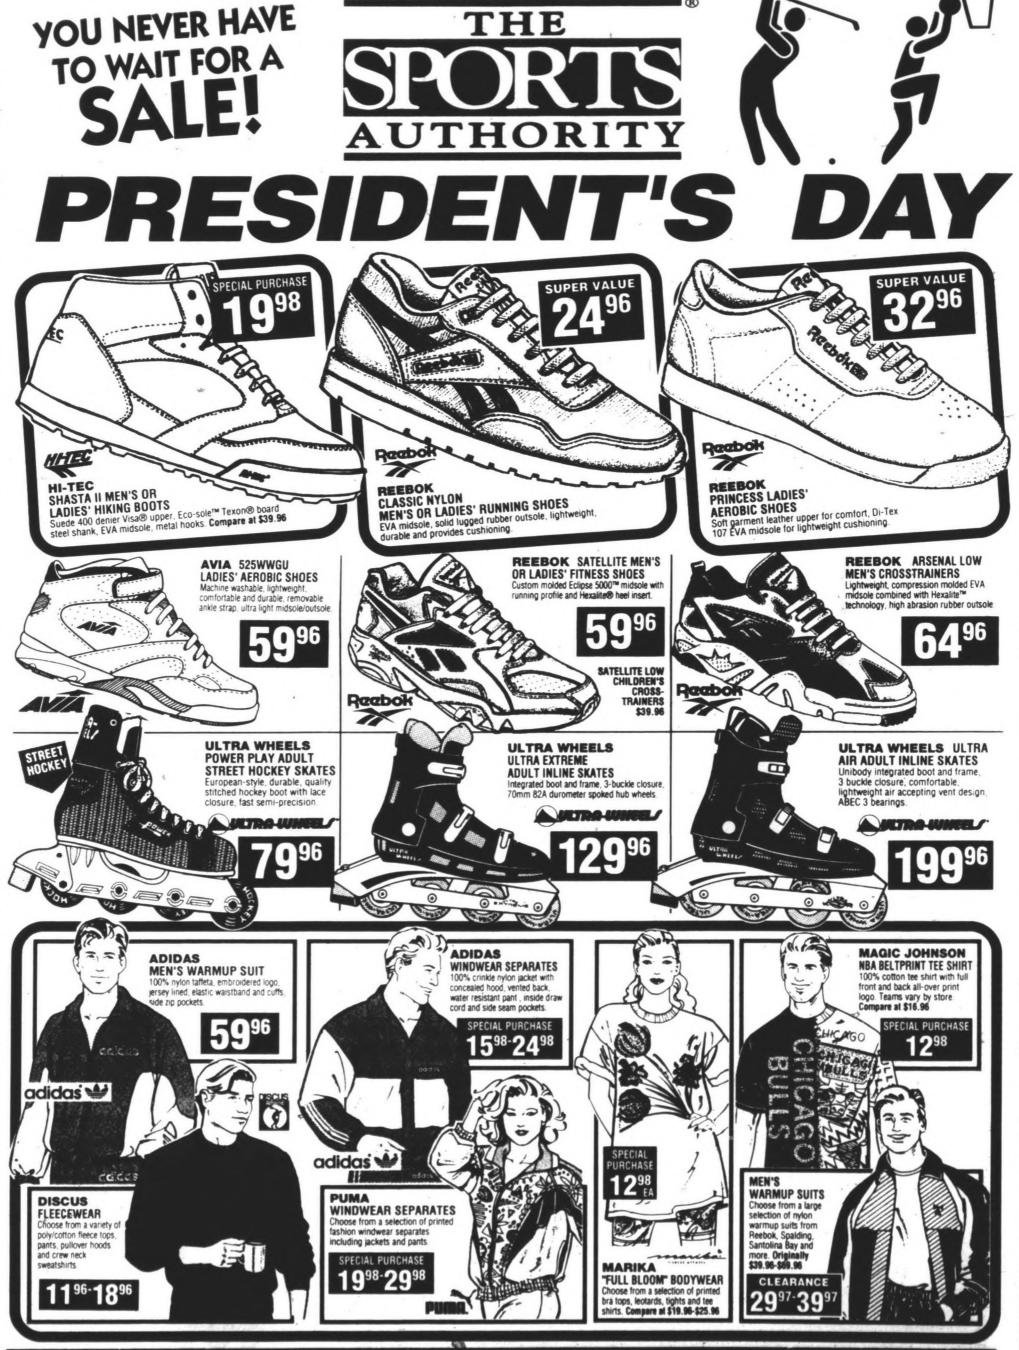

The preceding information was taken from the Jan. 26 report from WC3 President Rafael Cortada to the college's board of trustees.

MU teachers awarded for excellence

Six Madonna University teachers have been given 1994 Faculty Excellence Awards.

They are Sister Jacqueline Anderson and Timothy Brennan of Livonia, Father John Sajdak and Donna Kallie of Plymouth, Kevin Eyster of Lincoln Park and Joel Hearshen of Oak Park.

Anderson is credited for strengthening Madonna's journalism and English departments. She also won the University of Michigan's Thorpe Dissertation Award for writing "Deaf Student Mis-Writing, Teacher Mis-Read-ing: English Education and the Deaf College Student."

Brennan is noted for his ability to "make economics come alive for students," according to school of business dean Charlotte Neuhauser. Brennan has a master's degree from Wayne State University and a doctorate from the University of Detroit.

Sajdak, an assistant professor of religious studies, is an expert on medical ethics. He has a bachelor's degree from Marist College, a bachelor of sacred theology and licentiate of sacred theology from Gregorianum, Rome, and a master of theology from the Western School of Theology. Kallie, a flute player, is a parttime music teacher. She has a bachelor's degree and master's degree from Eastern Michigan University.

"Natural resources are a defining aspect of our state," said Jameson. MUCC wants an $800 million fund set up to be fed by $40 million from sale of the State Accident Fund, a state-owned workers comp insurance firm, and annual contributions from oil and natural gas taxes.

Critics say that in the last 10 years, general fund support of the 100 state parks has slipped from 70 percent of their operating budget to 30 percent. The difference has been made up from higher user fees. Critics say many parks have deteriorated and that poorer people are being priced

The women asked a Senate committee to toughen alreadytough bills designed to deal more harshly with husband-wife vio-

"We need to include intimate relationships," said Virginia Nicoll of Farmington Hills, "where people are not necessarily living together. I have only anecdotal evidence," said the leader of the Older Women's League (OWL).

"We're looking at homosexual and lesbian partners," added Clementine Rice, who teaches psychiatric nursing at Oakland University.

"There's a lot of date rape and date violence, especially on university campuses," said Rice, adding that 19 to 25 percent of injured adult women in hospital emergency rooms are domestic violence victims who claim 'I fell down the stairs.

Hedy Nariel, executive director of the Haven in Oakland County, agreed the definition should be expanded to "dating violence" and to cover women who "have children in common with someone they haven't lived with.'

"That (expanding the defini-tion) may prove difficult," replied Sen. William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison. Author of the Michigan Crime Victims Rights Act and constitutional amendment, Van Regenmorter agreed to study suggestions for a broader defini-

Senate Judiciary Committee, which Monday brought its series of public hearings to Farmington Hills. Reps. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, and Sharon Gire, D-Macomb County, sponsors of some of the bills, joined him.

Fourteen bills are designed to make police and prosecutors treat charges of domestic violence more seriously. They limit the number of dismissals, stiffen penalties for what are now short-sentence misdemeanors, provide for more civil penalties such as court orders, and require that domestic reports be entered into the statewide Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN).

In southeastern Michigan suburbs, the situation is improving, but not fast enough, witnesses said.

The Haven's Nicoll praised the 52nd District Court in Walled Lake for referring an increasing flow of violators to her group. "It's not counseling. It's not therapy. It's re-education. It (domestic violence) was a learned behavior, and they have to be retrained."

"Are police becoming more responsive?" asked Rep. Dolan.

'No. I wish we could say yes, Nicoll replied. "Police don't ask, Can't you come out and train us (to deal with domestic cases)?' We have to force the issue. It's not happening.

Laws needed

Andrea Solak of the Wayne County prosecutor's office urged prompt adoption of the bills.

"In Wayne County, some of your proposals have been implemented as policy. We will not drop a case," Solak said, adding that the policies need to be made law everywhere.

"There should be automatic prosecution of assault," said Lenore Dunn of Livonia. "It (the law-enforcement system) didn't work in my case, but it's really, really important.

Sandra Abbott, a Redford resident active in First Step, said she fled her abusive husband, now deceased, and spent two months in a shelter. "My spouse filed a missing persons report and told detectives I was abusing my child," she said.

Suzanne Fabian, of the Junior League of Birmingham, said her group has worked in several areas. helping the Haven expand its program to a new Novi location serving southwestern Oakland Coun-

The Detroit College of Law has approached Oakland University about moving the college to the Rochester Hills which would give campus, Oakland County its first law school.

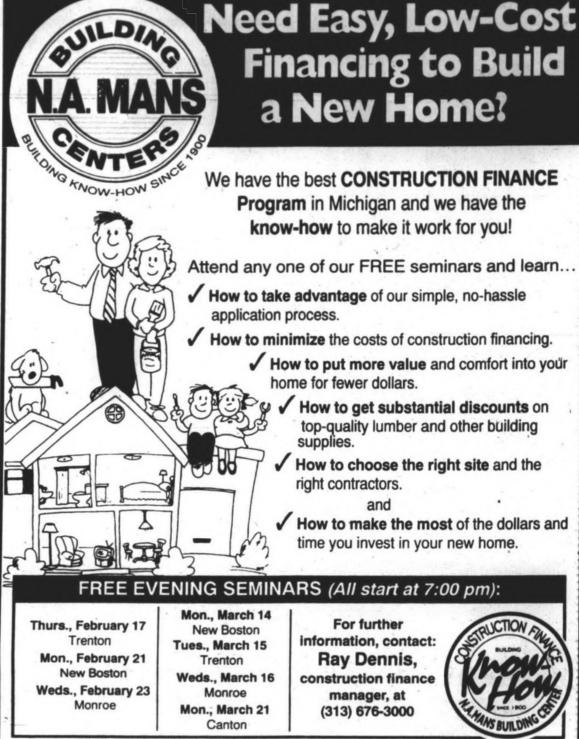

"Should these initial conversations prove fruitful, subcommittees representing constituent groups, on and off both campuses, will be formed to develop specific details of a possible collaboration," said OU board Chairman James Sharp Jr. in a press release. Sharp and trustee Rex Schlaybaugh Jr. are the only members of the exploratory committee.

Schlaybaugh said DCL officials definitely want to move the college's entire operation to OU. DCL Dean Dave Favre has worried aloud that a new Tiger Stadium built near DCL's could make it difficult for night students to attend class-

Bill to bill criminals sent to Eng

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Rep. Jerry Vorva's first bill is on its way to Gov. John Engler's desk to be signed into law.

The Senate on Feb. 10 gave 34 to 0 approval to his bill to charge convicts a $150 fee when the State Police forensic lab is used to help prove their guilt. Judges would be required to levy the fee in addition to any other punishment.

House Bill 4245 is the first by Vorva, a freshman Republican from Plymouth, to make it all the way through the Michigan Legislature. But there was some grumbling.

"It sounds innocuous - $150," said Sen. Joe Conroy, D-Flint. "The reason they're thieves in the first place is they don't have any money." Conroy voted yes any-

An estimated 90 percent of people charged with felonies ask for court-appointed lawyers to aid in their defense.

Senate action came almost five months after the House approved it. All area senators voted yes except two who were absent - Robert Geake of Northville and David Honigman of West Bloomfield.

The bill will become law immediately when Engler signs it.

missing the vote. Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, praised Geake's conduct of public hearings into complaints about the operations of Friend of the Court offices.

"Not one person had anything good to say about the Friend of the Court at the Pontiac hearing,' Faxon reported. "We may call it 'Friend of the Court,' but they're the Enemy of the People." Most criticism has centered on the Wayne County office.

Friend of Court offices in each circuit accept child support and alimony payments and forward the money to the custodial parent. Geake's hearings have shown that many custodial parents are destitute because money isn't forward-ed although the paying parents have sent checks.

Sue the dealer

People victimized by drug dealers will be able to sue for civil damages under a bill given final Senate approval Feb. 9.

"This opens the opportunity to completely change the war on drugs," said sponsor Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo. Criminal prosecutions would continue, he said, but "a community, individual or parents (could) file a civil lawsuit against the drug dealers."

The idea came from a U.S. attorney in Hawaii and benefited from the work of Michigan drug czar Robert Peterson, Welborn

Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, though often at odds with Republicans, praised the bill as "an excellent idea" and applauded Welborn. "It is time we use every resource we have to go after drug dealers," Smith said.

The Senate concurred 37 to 0 in House amendments and sent the bill to Engler for signing. It will take effect immediately.

County sends out 'user friendly' tax forms

Regardless of whether Proposal A is approved by voters March 15, property owners still must fill out a form to get a big property tax

March 1 is the last day to file Form T-1056, an "Affidavit for Homestead Exemption," with your local assessor. The form allows taxpayers to obtain homestead status for their principal residence and avoid higher school property taxes. Taxpayers who don't submit the form by March 1 could pay four times more in school taxes.

four times more in school taxes.

If you own and occupy your principal residence, and you register your home as a homestead, it will be exempt from a part of the new education finance authority

If Proposal A passes, the state's education tax on homestead property will be 6 mills. If Proposal A fails the tax will be 12 mills.

Vacation homes or income property do not qualify for the exemption. Renters are not eligible, but they may take advantage of a higher renters' credit on the 1994 Homestead Property Tax Credit Claim to be filed in 1995.

Wayne County government has prepared user-friendly homestead forms for registered homeowners in each of its 43 communities. The forms were mailed Friday, February 11. Unlike the forms mailed by the state, these forms are personalized for each homeowner, including name, address and property tax identification number.

All cities and townships in Wayne County except Dearborn, Detroit and Livonia have turned over computer tapes listing all registered homeowners so that the County can directly mail forms to those households.

Garden club looking to increase membership

A local garden club is looking for a few good women - or men. Membership in the organization has been on the decline and officers are looking to expand the club.

BY KEVIN BROWN

Local farm and garden clubs aren't just for society ladies holding fancy teas.

The Lake Pointe Village Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, active in the community for more than 30 years, is seeking new members from around Plymouth and Canton, as membership is declining.

Sarah Ann Overs, president of the branch, said that membership has dropped to 20 members since the club's founding.

"We're almost dying out," she said, adding that when the club was founded in 1960, there were 40 members and a waiting list.

Overs said that while the focus is garden-related, the clubs traditionally perform a range of public service activities - from planting perennials to sprucing up public areas to providing scholarships.

The Lake Pointe Village Branch is one of three Plymouth branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association

Founded in 1936, the Plymouth Branch has 56 members. The Trailwood Garden Club has 14 members. All three branches perform community service projects.

In December, an auction held in conjunction with a potluck dinner coordinated by the Lake Pointe and Trailwood branches raised more than $200 for the Salvation Army.

work outside the home, monthly meetings - on the second Thursday of the month - are scheduled in the evening, Overs said.

The club meets from September through May. Speakers talk on subjects ranging from backyard plantings to attract birds to winterizing gardens. "People think our membership is limited to women. It is not." Overs said, adding one East Coast branch is made up entirely of males.

Woman's National Farm and Garden Association branches also typically work with schools and offer scholarships. The Lake Pointe branch has traditionally planted perennials around the subdivision and at Farrand Elementary School.

For people involved in such clubs, winter is not devoid of gardening-related activity.

"Around Christmas, you start getting your garden catalogs," Overs said. "In February, you get your window sills cleaned off," she said, for sprouting seedlings. Spinach and peas can be planted in April and early May, followed by other plantings in May and June.

The Woman's National Farm and Garden Association also sponsors an exchange program by which members travel to foreign countries to discuss farm and garden issues.

A talk on perennials and ground covers is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 11, at the Farrand School library.

For more information on the Lake To accommodate women who Pointe branch, call her at 420-2912.

School closing

Board made right decision

he Plymouth-Canton Board of Education did the right thing by delaying a decision on the closing of Gallimore Elementary School.

The board was to decide the issue on Feb. 28, but has delayed that decision until April. That makes sense. But it also shows that the board can take the lead on an issue rather than be pushed around by the school administration.

The proposal to close Gallimore and make other housing changes was made by Superintendent John Hoben in an effort to save $1.1 million for the coming school year.

But while the intent was good, the proposal raised many questions. The first was the cost savings. Closing Gallimore would save the school district about $300,000. In the words of one parent: "I don't think $300,000 is enough savings to warrant all this disruption."

We agree. There must be other ways to save that amount. However, there were no public school board discussions about the overall budget and possible savings.

The agenda was set by Hoben and board members haven't challenged it. Other ways to keep Gallimore open should have been discussed. They weren't.

On this issue, the school board failed in its leadership role. Members should have been questioning the administration's school-closing agenda.

Board members also should have been aware of the confusing school financing picture as seen by the average voter. On March 15 the public will be asked to decide on a ballot question that will shift school financing to an increased sales tax. And it that fails, the state income tax will be increased.

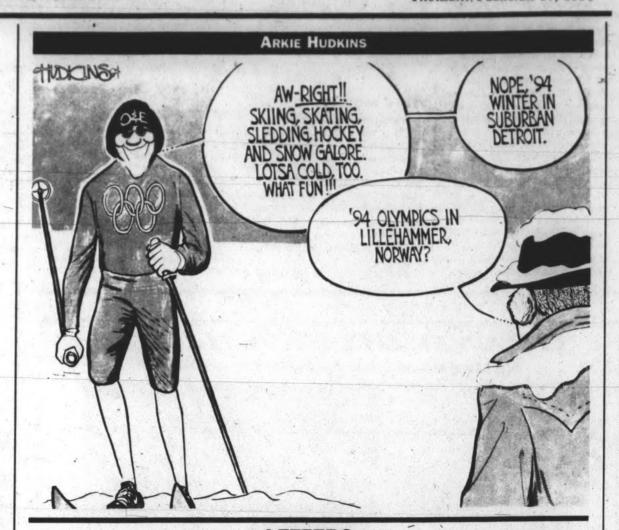

According to Raymond Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, the school district's financial picture will look the same no matter which plan is put in place.

However, it would seem that all financial facts and situations should be known before making such a drastic decision as closing an elementary school. Neighborhood schools are near and dear to the hearts of residents in Canton and Plymouth, and even proposing closing one becomes an emotional issue.

So, when it comes to closing a functioning elementary school, the board owes the public a full hearing on the matter. Other options must be discussed.

The board made a good decision to delay a vote on the Gallimore issue. By the time April rolls around, the vote on the way schools are financed will be over and the situation will be clearer.

The board has its homework to do before April. It should make sure the public understands the entire school finance picture and how a decision to close a school fits into it.

This program, the 29th annual PCEP Bands presentation was chock full of talent, ability, intelligence, wit, humor, satire, and fun.

But this tremendous show was only one example of the talents and abilities of our children in our schools, both of which we can be justifiably proud. There are also the kids in the National Honor Society, Quiz Bowl, Closeup, Debate, Chess, Fine Arts, and many, many other "co-curricular" activities in which our children participate.

This Plymouth-Canton School District has many fine teachers, administrators, involved parents, and great students. And that's what we pay for. It's not just bricks and mortar.

I am extremely grateful that we have such talented people in our district, and I am especially grateful for the opportunity to see these students grow and mature for all of our benefit. I'm happy to see how beneficially my tax dollars are put to work for the good of all of us.

Reform taxes best with Prop A his newspaper endorses Proposal A because it is a good deal for public schools, and because it eases the burden of school property taxes for most people.

When we vote March 15 on Proposal A, the most important thing for suburban districts is protecting school taxes for school use.

Proposal A would lock into the Michigan Constitution the rule that the sales and use tax increase will go into the school aid fund. That money cannot be raided by the Legislature and diverted to any other use such as prisons, perks or pensions. It's reserved for schools. Proposal A also will cap most of our school operating property taxes. It says those rates may be changed only by "the approval of threefourths of the members elected to and serving in the Senate and in the House of Representa-

Not even the Michigan Education Association will be able to pressure a "super-majority" of lawmakers into raising property tax rates, the way it pressured school boards and frightened voters. If Proposal A is rejected, however, a simple majority (50 percent plus one) vote of the Legislature can raise those rates.

Also important statewide is the issue of equity. That is achieved under both plans with a promised minimum of $5,000 per student in aid. The difference comes in how a minimum equity is reached.

People, businesses, labor unions and civic groups can and will debate the merits of a sales tax versus an income tax. They will debate whether various taxes are deductible from the federal income tax. They will hassle over whether tourist money is being tapped. They will fill the air with rhetoric over the incumbent governor's personality.

Those issues are comparatively unimportant. Only one thing is important: locking school revenue into the school aid fund with a constitu-

Both Proposal A and plan B, the fallback statutory plan, will raise $10.2 billion for public schools. Both will set a short-term goal of providing $5,000 per pupil in every district. Proposal A will do it by raising the sales tax rate from 4 percent to 6 percent and landing hard on tobacco use; plan B will do it by increasing the income tax rate from 4.6 to 6 percent and the single business tax from 2.35 to 2.75 percent.

Only Proposal A can lock that money safely into the Michigan Constitution.

Proposal A would raise the sales tax, a device often denounced as regressive. We point out, however, that (1) food and prescription drugs would continue to be entirely exempt from the sales tax and (2) the tax on utilities (electricity, gas and telephone) will remain at the old 4 per-

The sales tax increase should not be an undue burden on lower income folks. The state ranks about in the middle nationally in sales taxes, which will be partially borne by our tourism industry.

On the other hand, an increase in the income tax will have an impact particularly on residents of Detroit, who also pay a city income tax.

Furthermore, the ballot proposal reduces slightly the income tax from 4.6 to 4.4 percent.

Finally, we note the Legislature, in both plans, preserves some of the property tax - a stable and realistic source of revenue that never can be entirely obliterated, even in recession

Proposal A deserves a yes vote on March 15.

This portion of the population is the visually impaired; those people who are not completely blind, but whose limited vision prevents them from doing easily many of the normal things other people take so for granted. Some people are born to this state of life, many reach it through various accidental or medical ways, but the number of them is rapidly growing with the increase in life expectancy.

Perhaps at the top of the list of unfortunate effects of the condition is the inability to drive a car. In today's world, driving a car seems to be as common as sliced bread. For the visually impaired, getting around becomes a very complicated issue. Preparations for doctors, shopping, or personal appointments must be extensively thought through and planned around the cooperation and convenience of friends or relatives.

As public transportation is almost non-existent, and handicapped methods must be arranged far in advance, there are not any quick trips to the drug store for medicine, personal needs or Lotto tickets. The freedom to decide that now is a good time for a haircut or a quick trip to the mall for a spontaneous shopping trip or lunch does not exist for the visually impaired.

The inability to drive is more than an inconvenience, but can be the cause of frustration and discrimination at times because the visually impaired do not have that magic document called a 'valid driver's license." These handicapped people must rely on the acceptance of the state's I.D. which is obtained through the Secretary of State driver's license bureau and which numbers are supposed to correlate in the system.

Possession of the state's I.D. does not, however, guarantee, service as it should. For instance, a lady went into a bank to cash a travelers' check, which is said to be generally cashable anywhere - but not in this bank. When the lady reached her turn at the teller's window (at a bank in her own neighborhood) she, as directed by the custom of travelers' checks, signed the check in front of the teller and handed it and her I.D. to the teller for cashing. The teller's reaction was to ask imme diately for a valid driver's license. Upon explaining that the condition of legal blindness prevented her from driving, but that her Michigan State I.D. was equal, she was promptly told that without a valid driver's license, there could be no check cashing.

Upon demanding the opinion of a supervisor, the answer was still the same. Now the situation was a countersigned travelers check that would be difficult to be cashed elsewhere, with a 'valid" banking institution waving its hands with a casual "too bad."

In another instance, a widow was in line at a large discount drug store with a basket of items she had selected. Her married daughter immediately in front of her paid for her selections with a check, showing her driver's license as proof of identification. The widow also attempted to write a check and pay for her items, but was refused acceptance of her check because she did not have a 'valid" driver's license. The explanation of legal blindness and the validity of the state I.D. was ignored and the check refused.

There are many situations that daily occur which create problems for the visually impaired that the average person does not realize he or she is causing. A blind person has the immediate identity that indicates the need for aid; a visually impaired person is not easily identifiable. As a result, when we ask for directions or a pricing of an item, we are told "over that way" with a vague point of a hand, or "the price is written on the item." That response is of little use to those who barely see.

Airports have schedules viewed on TV screens high above the heads of travelers; fast-food restaurants have their menus written on a far wall neither of these items viewable by a visually impaired person.

Public phones and elevators are fast becoming another difficulty for the visually impaired. As the numbers and positioning of these items are lowered for the physically handicapped, they become unseeable for the visually im-

Not only does the lack of vision reduce what the visually impaired do for themselves, it also prevents them from participating in any volunteer program for others which necessitates getting to the location of the service.

So if someone asks for information or directions, be patient and helpful; or if someone ignores your smile or wave, don't think they are stuck-up or hard to get along with. They simply may not see your greeting. These people are asking you to "look out" for them for they simply cannot see what you are

Legalization of drugs presents danger to society

ohn Telford's advocacy of drug legalization (in previous columns) illustrates how uninformed even the literate can be. That's sad because he fails to recognize the incongruity of what he deems "a gamble worth taking." History shows the odds of his side winning are insurmountable.

For example: Today, most of us agree the increase in the consumption of our two legal addictive drugs, tobacco and alcohol, is responsible for enormous social and individual damage, and therefore steps are being taken to limit their

In the face of this social damage, Telford wants to compound the problem by making the illegal addictive drugs - marijuana, cocaine and heroin legally available. Telford overlooks, or is unaware of, some very significant pharmacological and historical studies.

Any advocate of drug legalization must understand that the distinction between licit and illicit addictive drugs is not arbitrary, for while both types of drugs have properties in common, they also have basic differences. It's these differences we should be aware of.

Legal addictive drugs, the nicotine in tobacco and ethyl alcohol, in moderation do not alter the thought processes. Cocaine, heroin and marijuana do even in the smallest quantities. Moreover, the addictive power of the latter is far greater than that of the legal drugs, and they are also mind-altering and therefore dangerous.

With a little homework, Telford would learn that studies show the use of illegal drugs affects behavior - even in minute amounts. It takes very low exposure to cocaine or heroin to become addicted to these drugs. Epidemiological studies on drugconsuming populations show that among those who drink alcohol in whatever form worldwide, only 8 percent drink enough in daily amounts to damage their health and society at large. On the other hand, studies of populations of marijuana, hashish, cocaine and opiate consumers show that about 50, 90 and 95 percent, respective ly, will use these drugs daily in doses damaging to the user's health and to society - when these drugs are readily available, as would happen if these drugs were legalized per Telford's gam-

In the 15th century, all restrictions on hashish were lifted in Moslem medieval society and the general debasement of the people followed. In the mid-1800s, opium was introduced into China and 50 years later, 90 million Chinese were addicted to the drug. In the 1920s in Egypt, the unrestricted commercial availability of cocaine and heroin resulted in a drug epidemic. In the 1960s, Japan experienced a major epidemic of heroin use when it became readily available.

The uninformed intelligentsia who advocate the legalization of drugs are tampering with a trigger that, if ever pulled, might well blow us all away. Telford is a lousy gambler.

caught a mess of fish - enough for two meals - through the ice. With my bare hands. Just like Robert Redford tries to do in the opening scene of "Jeremiah Johnson."

Kirsten the Norwegian elkhound is my witness. All dog fanciers know an elkhound never

It happened one balmy, 22-degree day in mid-February when I took Kirsten out on a picnic in the Island Lake State Recreation Area. To an elkhound, 22 degrees is balmy. Besides, elkhounds are a bit balmy.

Island Lake has lots of oak trees, and deadfall oak branches make quick, hot-cooking fires. We cooked diet-busting breakfasts of bacon, chopped onions and eggs, mopped up with firetoasted bagels and the help of a dog tongue. Kirsten used to catch her own warm meals of field mice and sometimes a bunny, but 13 summers, 12 winters and arthritis have slowed her down, so she mainly consumes dog biscuits and polishes the frying pan.

But about the fishing: It actually is a sad story known as "winterkill."

There's a pond about the size of a hockey rink, five feet at its deepest. It drains a large swamp and flows through a narrow channel into the Huron River. I've written about it before. The swamp is where Kirsten found two bodies of beaver that the park rangers didn't even know lived as far south as Livingston Countye

The pond was ice-covered except for the upstream end, where a tiny creek oozes out of the swamp and fills the pond. In six feet of open water were dozens of bluegills, some dead, the others gasping at the surface for air.

Winterkill occurs where ice freezes deep in a tiny pond, and snow blocks rays of sunlight that nourish plants. Plants supply oxygen to the pond water. Lack of oxygen suffocates the fish. I had read about it but never had witnessed it. The fish were going to die, so with a bare to catch fish, and limit netting, but nowhere does it say a guy can't use his bare hands.

Since then, I've heard of an angler who visits the area each year during winterkill. He chops a large hole in the ice with an ax and takes out a bucket of dying ones.

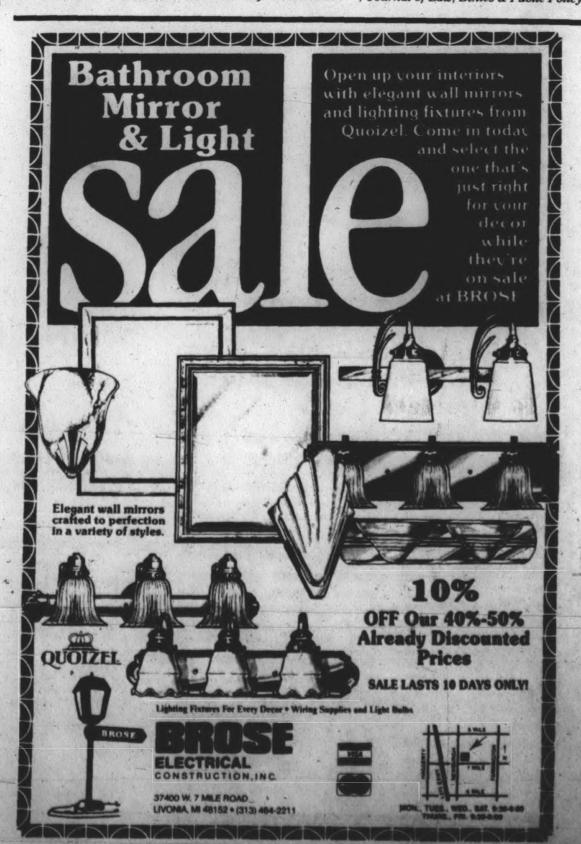

Winterkill is a sad phenomenon, but part of nature. Vast proportions of our wildlife populations die during winter. In Wisconsin DNR literature, I've read that 75 to 90 percent of fish populations die in the course of a year. One fry in a million grows into a trophy-sized lunker. First-born fawns of young, inexperienced does have a poor survival rate. Rabbits have several litters a year because so many predators feed on Bluegill are a pretty fish, almost as pretty as the angel fish you see in tropical fish tanks. On the hook, 'gills turn their slab sides perpendicular to the angler and put up a stiff battle on light tackle.

Kirsten likes her 'gills raw - head, fins, scales, bones and all. The rest of us like 'em coated with cracker crumbs and pan fried. Their flavor is sweet and pleasant, unlike the bland packaged fish you get from the supermarket

Oakland County sent out forms for every community except Novi a week ago.

Livingston County is mailing out forms for all communities.

In other areas, cities and townships are mailing out their own forms.

The form takes literally one minute to fill out and mail - "pretty user friendly," in Patterson's words. It's best to wait for the mailed form because it will contain your PIN (property identification number), an essential piece of information.

Q. What is this "hold harmless" millage, and is it likely to go up? What is "enhancement" millage?

They are two different things.

"Hold harmless" millage ap plies to school districts spending more than $6,500 per pupil, mainly in southern Oakland County. Under finance reform, the state will make all school operating payments, but only up to $6,500. The 40 or so school districts spending more than that are permitted to ask voters for more.

A hold-harmless millage will be levied on homestead property only until the rate reaches 18 mills. Beyond that, it's levied on all property. In some districts, millages approved in the past can be continued, but at some point voters must approve a renewal. Every district is different.

The odds are these millages won't rise. School spending will be pretty much tied to the rate of growth of sales tax revenue and property taxes.

"Enhancement" millage is extra money approved by voters to improve its program. Enhancement money must be pooled within an intermediate (county) district. Says the Senate Fiscal Agency: "If District A levied two mills and District B levied three mills, the districts would have to pool the revenue from two mills (on a per-pupil basis), but District B could keep the revenue from its additional one mill.'

Firm makes loans available to individuals with troubled credit

There are many reasons why millions of Americans fall victim to credit problems every year. From maxing out credit cards to more sobering causes including loss of employment, family growth, medical emergencies and poor training in personal and household financial management.

Fortunately, there is now a local company making consolidation and new purchase loans available to people in these situations. We asked Bill Cunnington, Vice President of Security Home Loan...

Who is eligible for one of these loans?

We will work with individuals who have equity in their homes and have had debt problems of one type or another.

How does the loan work?

We take people who are living from paycheck to paycheck and consolidate all of their obligations into one lower payment. In fact, the average person will save from 30 to 40 percent a month with a consolidation of this type."

How can someone apply for one of these loans?

At Security, we pre-approve people over the phone at no charge. At that time, we also give the person an idea of how much money we can save them.

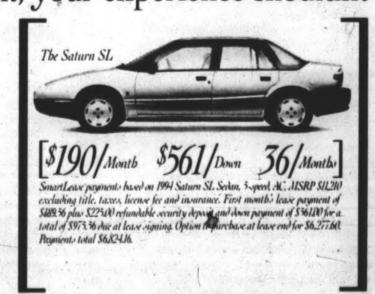

Call Bill Cunnigton at Security Home Loan (810) 669-4334 if you are interested in having a payment anaylsis done.

Wow! Chiefs net 105 in rout

Could it have been worse? For Livonia Stevenson, it's hard to imagine how. The Spartans have been floundering all season, but on Tuesday their struggles reached a new depth, courtesy of Plymouth Canton, which tatooed them with a 105-39 rout.

By C.J. RISAK

Sometimes everything works. Plymouth Canton is in the midst of just such a streak. On Tuesday, the Chiefs extended it into its ninth game eight of them are wins - and they did so with an impressive array of ofiting Livonia Stevenson. The final score was 105-39, and it was as lopsided as indicated. Indeed, the outcome was never in doubt, not fensive fireworks leveled against vis-from the start. Stevenson coach Jim McIntyre should have known what was in store for his Spartans when, in the game's opening 21/2 minutes, they grabbed offensive rebounds on their first four possessions — but could score on just one putback.

"If we hit some of those at the beginning, it might have changed some things," he said.

Instead, it merely set the stage for what lay ahead. Canton is not big, but the Chiefs are very quick, very explosive. They apply pressure against opposing guards well, they pass well and they have been rebounding bet-

In short, all facets are flowing smoothly, in unison.

Canton took immediate advantage of Stevenson's early struggles. The Spartans managed to convert just one of their first 14 shots; during that same stretch, they turned the ball over six times - which let the door open for the Chiefs. By the time Stevenson got its second basket, Canton had already put 19 points on the

By the end of the first quarter, the score was 23-4. It didn't end there, either — not at all. The Chiefs scored 16 straight to start the second quarter; at that point, Stevenson was 2-of-22 from the floor. The score was 39-4.

By halftime, the margin had grown to 51-16. And you know what? Canton's leading scorer, Matt Paupore, had hardly been a factor in the scoring. He had just five points in the first two quarters.

That says a load about how far the Chiefs have come since the start of the season. Tadarius Rachal scored 15 first-half points for them.

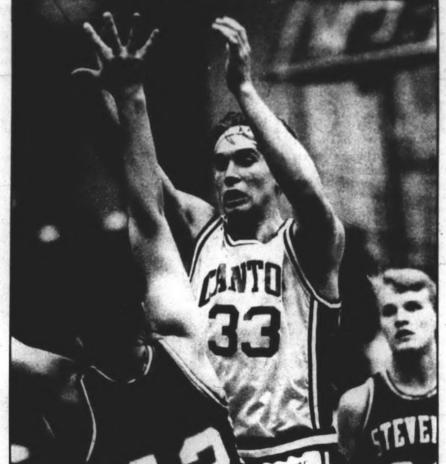

"We're definitely playing good said Canton coach Dave VanWagoner, stating the obvious. His team is 10-5 overall, 7-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. "This was just one of those games where everything clicked."

Indeed it did. The Chiefs were 20of-38 (52.6 percent) from the floor in the first half and never let up, hitting 22-of-36 (61 percent) in the second. Overall, they were 42-of-74 (56.8 per-

"The guys have been talking a lot about starting hard and finishing hard," said VanWagoner, mindful of a near loss at Farmington Harrison earlier this season after the Hawks charged back in the fourth quarter. "We've got a good streak going."

And as VanWagoner has noted: In every game, everyone is contributing. In the humiliation of Stevenson, five Chiefs reached double figures in scoring - including Paupore, who enjoyed a productive second half to finish with 22 points. Rachal scored 20, Ron Hunter and Ryan Ostach had 13 apiece, and Ted Docks netted 10.

By the way: It was Mark Sanborn who converted a short jumper while being fouled with a minute left that put the Chiefs over the century mark. Stevenson had one player reach double figures: Brett Ferris, with 14 points.

The effect of such a lopsided loss on McIntyre and his assistant coach, Tim Newman, was apparent - especially coming off an impressive 75-71 victory over highly regarded Farmington last Thursday. The Canton loss left the Spartans at 3-13 overall, 3-7 in the WLAA.

Depth difference

Salem just too strong for Canton

The depth of Plymouth Salem's swim team was again put on display Tuesday in the Rocks' 112-74 win over rival Plymouth Canton at Salem.

Salem improved to 7-2 in dual meets. The Rocks are still unbeaten in the Western Lakes Activities Association, and they are 3-0 against Lakes Division foes.

Canton won five of the 12 events, with Mike Orris accounting for two: the 200-yard freestyle (1:49.59) and the 100 butterfly (57.27). The Chiefs also got wins from Jason Fowler in diving (252.25 points), Jeff Clark in the 100 free (48.85) and Jason McMann in the 100 backstroke

But the Rocks pretty much dominated everywhere else. Other individual winners for Salem were David Bracht in the 50 free (23.94), Rodolfo Palma in the 200 individual medley (2:12.79), Tom Satwicz in the 500 free (5:26.11), and Andy Dettling in the 100 breast stroke (1:05.36).

Salem also swept all three firsts in the relays. Mark Dettling, Palma, Brian McMullen and Bracht won the 200 medley (1:50.65); Joe Ervin, Bracht, Eric Seidelman and Fred Locke combined in the 200 free (1:33.70); and Aaron Berlin, Ervin, Seidelman and Locke teamed in the 400 free (3:26.55).

Salem hosts Farmington, its biggest rival for the WLAA crown, in its final dual meet at 7 p.m. Thursday. Canton swims at Livonia Franklin at 7 p.m. Thursday. The WLAA meet starts next Wednesday, with Salem again serving as host.

Rocks post state's best

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

Gymnastics teams from around the state knew it would happen. It was just a matter of when and where.

Plymouth Salem was, after all, the defending state champion. And the Rocks had plenty of talent returning from that team. So a score surpassing the 140-mark was anticipated.

They managed it once in a dual meet, but on Saturday they did it in a more impressive setting: at the Freeland Invitational, in a field of 17 teams that included five of the state's top-10.

Salem won with a 141.1 pointtotal. Freeland was second with 139.5, followed by Hartland at 137.5, Muskegon Mona Shores at 135.5 and Plymouth Canton at 134,25

Canton's Katey Gilles remained the state's best gymnast. She won three of the four events to finish first in the all-around once again with a 37.25 total. Gilles, a freshman, has not lost in the all-around this season.

Nearly as impressive was the performance of Salem's Melissa Hopson. Hopson posted a 36.65 all-around score to finish second; she was first on the balance beam with a 9.35.

"She's become more consistent," said Salem coach Johanna Anderson of Hopson. "The beam is definitely her best event. She's very strong, graceful.' Hopson was also third in the floor exercise (9.3), fourth in the vault (9.05) and fifth in the uneven parallel bars (8.95). Gilles' wins came in the vault

(9.55), floor (9.65) and bars (9.15). She was third on the beam (8.95). "Actually, we had a very good meet," said Canton coach John Cunningham. "Except on the beam. We had four falls on beam for the second-straight (invitational). Again, that's a correctable thing, but it's frustrating because beam's always been a Canton strong point. Salem also got a strong per-formance from Sarah Makins, who was sixth in the all-around (35.15). Her best event was the bars, in which she was third

Canton got some good second tier scores from Kim Nowak, who was ninth in the all-around (32.7), which included a seventh in the floor (8.65); and Brie Wall, who placed 14th in the all-around (32.4), with a sixth in the bars (8.45)

Feb. 10 at Brighton, Canton won its eighth-straight dual meet, 128.5-120.05. The Chiefs are 8-1.

Cunningham juggled his line-up; there were no all-around per-formers. Gilles competed in the bars and beam, winning both with scores of 9.25 and 9.05, respectively. Nowak won the floor exercise with an 8.95; she also had fifths in the vault (7.75) and beam (7.45).

Wall placed second in both the bars (8.25) and beam (8.6). Angie Lamerato was second in the vault (8.05), with Katie DeMay third (7,85). Lamerato also placed third in floor (8.55).

Other top scorers: Adrienne Brenner, fourth in beam (8.15) and fifth in bars (7.0), and Kari Jackson, fourth in bars (7.35) and fifth in floor (7.65).

Canton has a busy week ahead. The Chiefs host Westland John Glenn at 7 tonight, travel to Traverse City for a dual meet Saturday, then go against Salem at 7 p.m. Monday.

Ocelots turn up defensive pressure to upset Monarchs

The record doesn't show it. Actually, what Schoolcraft College's record in men's basketball indicates, if anything, is that the Ocelots don't deserve any respect.

Maybe that accounts for what happened Monday night. Perhaps Macomb Community College got caught looking ahead. The Monarchs would have two games left after Monday's date against SC, and they were one game out of first place in the Eastern Confer-

Well, now they're two games behind. And they can just about kiss their hopes for a conference title goodbye, courtesy of the Ocelots, who shredded those comb.

What magnified the frustration for the Monarchs against cellardwelling SC was that they had a 12-point lead with four minutes left in the game. And they lost to a team they had beaten on the road by 20 points (88-68) Jan. 8.

The spark that ignited the Ocelots? Defense, according to coach Dave Bogataj.

"This is the best defensive unit I've had there, by far," Bogataj said. "There wasn't a loose ball we didn't have a Scraft jersey going after. The other team wasn't getting the garbage shots they were getting early on.

"The whole defense, every level is so high. They were just playing belly-to-belly . . . just sticking them. It's really nice to see. It was SC's season will still end Saturday at Alpena. The Ocelots are only 8-17 overall, 2-13 in the conference. Macomb fell to 8-6 in the. conference; leader Delta CC was 10-4. Both teams played Wednes-

The Ocelots trailed 44-36 at the half and were down 70-58 with four minutes left. That's when they found a new level of defense, allowing just one basket and four points the rest of the game.

The offense was sparked by Todd McNeil, who riddled Macomb for 36 points and 16 re-bounds. Dan Perttula (from Redford Thurston) added 15 points and Tony Maciejewski contributed 11, including two baskets in SC's closing 19-4 run.

Quincy Bowens topped Macomb with 23 points, but no other Monarch reached double figures in scoring.

Bogataj traced the turnaround in defensive intensity to the last half of the Mott CC game last Wednesday (Feb. 9). It certainly was evident last Saturday against Oakland CC, when the Ocelots nearly bumped off the Raiders, losing 57-56 at SC.

McNeil led SC with 15 points. Tim Burns contributed 12. OCC got 14 from Tony McNeal, 12 from Willie Payne and 10 from Corey Young.

SC 82, OAKLAND CC 58 (WOMEN): Woah! Who was that team Saturday night?

The uniforms and scoreboard indicated that it was Schoolcraft's Lady Ocelots, but the team on the floor hardly resembled the team that had struggled around .500 most of the season.

whose team falls to 2-26. "This is all part of the maturing process. We are a young, young team, and we are all finding the transition to be tougher than we ever expected. It's going to take time to grow

Many of Madonna's mistakes were made on the defensive end. The Crusaders were cited for 32 fouls (compared to 17 for Concordia) and were outshot 22-10 from the free-throw line. Concordia, led by Jim Ross (20 points, 12 rebounds) and reserve Anthony Singleton (18 points), built a four-point lead with just seconds left in the overtime. Madonna's Shawn Branum nailed an insufficient three-pointer at the

"Maybe us coaches are the only ones who can see it, but we are getting better," Sharpe said. "Our defense isn't where we want it to be, but it has improved. The selfishness that plagued us earlier is gone. In many ways, the kids have dealt with this better than we have. Their development has been amazing."

Mike Slone (from Plymouth Salem), despite frosty 3-for-15 three-point shooting, led Madonna with 26 points. Branum scored 18 off the bench. Brandon Slone (Salem) chipped in with 16 and Eric Furlotte had 10 points in just 13 minutes.

■ GR BAPTIST 113, MADONNA 91 (MEN): The Crusaders' performance Tuesday at home against Grand Rapids Baptist wasn't nearly as impressive. They fell behind by 11 at the half and were fortunate to be that close, considering they hit just 42.5 percent of their floor shots.

But instead of making a run, they stumbled further - against a team that was without three of its best players. Matt Jansen (21 points, nine rebounds) and Jason Pranger (12 points) have been suspended and Jared Crandell (19 points) was sidelined with an eye

"I thought we had made progress, but there are still no wins,' said Madonna coach Bill Sharpe. "We still have a problem with them going out and doing what they were told to do. And as long as they do that, we're not going to Madonna's shooting was still poor (39 percent for the game) and the Crusaders' rebounding was worse (53-30, Baptist). They were led by Doug Soper's 17 points; J. Dimes had 14, Kurt Carlos 13, Brandon Slone 12 (and eight rebounds) and Mike Slone and Dan Dombrow 10 each.

Baptist, now 16-13, got 39 points and eight rebounds from Terry Durfee; 25 points, 14 boards and eight assists from Lance Morrow; 18 points from Ted Smith; and 16 points and 12 rebounds from Cameron Currie.

The loss dropped Madonna to 2-27, with three games left.

Lackluster Rocks win

Don't be deceived: Plymouth Salem's volleyball team, despite its impressive record, is struggling. Sure, the Rocks improved to 9-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association by beating Westland John Glenn Monday. They are 30-5-4 overall.

But it took them five games to subdue the Rockets: 16-14, 9-15, 15-11, 13-15, 15-8 at Glenn. And it was the secondstraight difficult challenge against WLAA competition for Salem — Feb. 9 at Northville. they slipped past Northville 6-15, 15-10, 15-6, 15-5.

'We played up and down," said co-coach Allie Suffety after Monday's narrow victory.

"We're playing just good enough to win right now.

"We lack intensity. We need to mature. Jamey Viau led the Rocks against Glenn with 15 kills and 26 digs. Shellye Sills contributed 11 kills, three solo blocks and five block assists; Paula Dombrowski had nine kills. three solos and five block assists; and Karen Gundry collected eight kills, 31 digs and four service aces.

Lynn Little's 15 kills and 15 blocks paced Glenn, which fell to 17-7-4 overall, 5-3 in the WLAA.

Salem plays at the Creston Classic Saturday, then hosts Livonia Churchill Monday.

Livonia Stevenson unburdened itself of an also-ran label and accepted the new mantle of powerhouse in Western Lakes Activities Association wrestling Satur-

The Spartans made it official by doing what everyone expected they would and winning their first WLAA title over runnerup Westland John Glenn and defending champ Northville. See results on

"I never expected anything like this in my wildest dreams," Stevenson coach Don Berg said after the Spartans earned their fourth first-place trophy. "Maybe Plymouth Salem or Catholic Central have done it, but I don't think anybody ever thought little ol' Livonia Stevenson would do anything like this. 'Last year we won the division, and this year we moved up to the league title. One of these days we'd like to win a regional title. Our team goal all along has been to go to Battle Creek."

The Spartans hadn't won a league championship since 1981 in the old Inter-Lakes League, but Stevenson is back on top as wrestlers who benefitted from a middle school program begin to

"We had some lean years," Berg said. "We had only nine kids one year, but they stuck with it.

"In this sport, nothing replaces hard work, and you get better by wrestling good people. And we have great kids, unbelieveable."

With six wrestlers in the championship finals, Stevenson had the title all but locked up after the preliminaries, leading 140-111 over Glenn.

The Spartans had four champi-

ons — heavyweight Dave Ross, Chris Jaztrembski (135), Ben Lewis (171) and Craig Martin (189) - and runnersup in Scott Goldman (140) and Chris Mullett (145). All are juniors.

Stevenson wrestlers placed in 11 of the 13 weight classes. Sophomore Jon Sata (130) was third, sophomore Dan Christenson (103) fourth, freshman Matt Allison (112) sixth, sophomore David Falzon (119) and junior Ryan Vartoogian (125) seventh.

"We knew we might not take all the firsts (possible), but it's the fourths, fifths and sixths that get you points and help you win," Berg said.

"We had four champions at Trenton and were elated to be third with 177 points. Other times we've won with two champions, because it's the other kids who win tournaments for you."

Glenn had three champions: seniors Anthony Underwood (119) and Mike Henry (130) and junior Brian Kolb (160). The other winners were Farmington's Matt Michalski (103) and Mike Prough (140), Walled Lake Central's Lee Southard (125) and Frank Lovio (145) and Walled Lake Western's Rob Fritz (112).

Martin (29-0) defended his title at 189, pinning Farmington Harrison's John Amayo in the final as he did a week earlier in the Observerland tournament.

Lewis (28-3), who was runnerup to Livonia Franklin's Jesse Shakarian at Observerland, avenged that loss by winning 4-3 in the WLAA final. Lewis has won four of five bouts between them, and all four have been de-

"I knew I could beat him; I just had to wrestle good match," Lewis said. "I really wanted to be Observerland champion, but since I couldn't win that I wanted to be sure I won today.'

Jaztrembski (26-7) had -just wrestled Northville's Corey Keranen in a WLAA crossover match Thursday and won again in the tournament final, 11-4.

"After some people on the team started winning, I went out there fired up," he said. "We came here wanting to win and we did."

Ross (24-8) was one who helped motivate Jaztrembski by beginning the final round of matches with an 8-6 win over Glenn's Shawn Arbogast in the heavyweight bout.

"I just wanted to wrestle smart," said Ross of the seemingly slow, calculated bout. "Whenyou're wrestling bigger guys, you just want to be more cautious and not make a mistake."

The most action-packed bout of the day was between defending champ Goldman (24-6) and Prough, who was third at 135, for the 140 title. Goldman closed a 9-3 deficit at the end, but Prough never gave up the lead.

"I was going to let him shoot on me, spin behind him and get some points that way," Goldman said. "It was working for awhile. I'm disappointed I didn't win, but I'll get another shot at district.

"I'm just really proud of my team. I'm happy we're champions. We've been working really hard for this and finally got it."

Mullett (25-5) also had a disappointing loss in the finals as he ended up second for the second straight year at 145. Lovio, a tall, wiry senior who was second at 135 last year, won an 8-4 decision.

"I wasn't really prepared for him the last time," said Lovio, who won in overtime when they met in a dual meet. "My takedown was a little better. I took him down four times and last time only once. I knew he was going to be tough. He's the only one who gave me a tough match in the league this year.

"I'm very happy with a second-place finish from (Goldman and Mullett)," Berg said. "There's no shame in losing to those guys. Lovio has an advantage being that tall, too. You have to reach a long way to get to him."

Underwood, who was third at 112, and Henry, who was second at 125, had better success at higher weights this year. Underwood won 9-7 over Salem's Scott Hughes, who eliminated defending champ Jason Tarrow of Northville in the semis, and Henry won a hard-fought battle over Franklin's Adam Hill, 5-4.

"I just tried to keep a calm head and stay aggressive all the way to the end," Underwood said. His thoughts in the end? "Finally, yes, a league championship."

It was the first time I wrestled Hill, and I had to see what he was going to be like in the district," Henry said. "I didn't know how he was going to wrestle."

In a repeat of the Observerland final, Kolb (31-6) defeated Salem's John Svec 15-7. Kolb was fourth at 171 last year while Svec moved up after winning at 152.

"I knew from the first time I could take him down because he didn't defend the legs too well," Kolb said. "Coach has been working with me on taking the arm off the head. That's been the whole key to my season. Once a guy locks up, I take him down, or at least I try.'

"It's frustrating," Newman summarized. "We came off a very good effort to this."

And in the final analysis, "this" wasn't anywhere near enough against a team that's steamily streaking.

SALEM 79, W.L. WESTERN 61: Plymouth Salem remained unbeaten in the WLAA as it headed into its final regular-season game - and biggest league challenge, Friday at Westland John Glenn (12-3 overall, 9-1 in the WLAA).

The Rocks got 15 points from Adam Hammonds and 10 from Joe Measel in subduing woeful Walled Lake Western Tuesday at Western. Salem improved to 15-1 overall, 10-0 and first place in the WLAA. The Warriors remained at the ith a class load of 18 credits, award-winning pianist/composer Anthony Bonamici said he doesn't have much time for composing but adds things are going well for him at the Shepherd School of Music at Rice University in Houston, Texas.

Concerts feature young musicians

He's majoring in math in science and had been up all night studying for a music history test when we talked on the telephone. With the test behind him, Bonamici was relaxed and enthusiastic as he talked about performing in a new addition to the Cranbroook Music Guild Series called "Undiscovered American Artists" on March 1.

"I'm thrilled," he said. "In choosing a program I chose music from a wide variety of time periods from Baroque to post romantic.

A 1992 graduate of Stevenson High School in Livonia, Bonamici has won numerous performance competitions locally and nationally and performed extensively in the Detroit area. He has studied piano since he was 5.

Tony is a remarkable young man who appears to have enormous musical talent and yet is definitely not a prodigy. He accepts his gifts without being impressed with himself and also works at the piano long hours," said Elaine DeWolfe, program director for the Cranbrook Music Guild Chamber Series.

Bonamici's concert 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 1, in the library of Cranbrook House will include works of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and Cesar Franck. Tickets are $15 and available at the door or by calling 751-2435. Cranbrook House is on Lone Pine just west of Cranbrook Road. A reception to meet the artist will be after the concert.

■ Young artists need our support. Don't miss the Pontiac-Oakland Symphony Young Artists Concert 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 20, in Varner Recital Hall on the Qakland University campus in Rochester. Tickets are $10 general, $5 seniors and students and may be purchased through the Music, Theatre and Dance box office at (810) 370-3013.

Battle of sexes wages on in comedy change, the more they . .

George Bernard masterful Shaw, playwright and political wit, had great fun sticking pins in the political correctness of his day. Though Shaw was a socialist, in a rather genteel British fashion, he could aim his barbs in all directions with equal sting. The Meadow Brook Theatre is presenting a zestful, stylized production of Shaw's still funny, still relevant battle of the sexes comedy "You Never Can Tell."

Though Shaw begins with a tooth extraction, his play is anything but painful. He has a high old time lampooning the feminist movement, the anti-feminist reaction, the British class system, the rudeness of youth, the staidness of age. All these were hot topics in 1896 and are hot topics still 98 years later.

The play, and the production, take a while to pick up steam. The affected British accents are a little too stiff. But once things get rolling they get rollicking.

Mrs. Clandon, femnist author and new age thinker, has returned to England after 18 years in Madeira with her three young adult children. She must face the irascible husband she left behind. Add to this mix an unsuccessful roguish dentist, a once free-spirited but now staid solicitor, a wise waiter and a brilliantly goofy the youngest Clandon children, not quite legally adults. These new age children are quick witted, rude, exasperating and totally winning. Shirley Ann Kaladjian nearly steals the show as the effervescent Dolly. Her face is like putty, twisting into one look after another and her continuing retorts are performed with innocent guile and pinpoint timing. Frank Polito as brother and co-agitator Phil keeps pace, especially in their shared word play and verbal games. His cockiness is just right.

This is a production, however, that is also blessed with solid older character actors. Jayne Houdyshell, just recently a triumph in "Shirley Valentine," is a force to be reckoned with as Mrs. Clandon. Arthur Beer sputters and growls as the intimidating but really soft-hearted father Fergus. His emotional shifts are hilarious. But it is Wil Love who draws the heartiest laughs as the waiter who knows his place. Love's wheezy laugh, twinkling eyes and his impeccable timing on Shaw's sly twists on class prejudice are acting perfection.

The rest of the cast is uniformly enjoyable. The centerpiece lovers, played by Peter Gregory Thomson and Deborah Staples, are burdened with Shaw's weighter views on sexual relations but handle the dialog with aplomb. Paul Hopper is fine as once "hippie" idealist transformed into uptight lawyer (see how relevant this still is).

Director Carl Schurr, in addition to staging a clear, witty and fast moving production, comes on at the end to give a splendidly off-the-wall performance as the obligatory character who ties it all together for a happy ending. But he does it in the most bizarre fashion. As a director Schurr uses color and artificial sets, by Peter Hicks, to enhance the playfulness of Shaw's story. He also gives us ensemble acting of the highest quality.

Bartkiewicz began his piano studies at the age of 6 and in 1978 won the Young Polish Pianist Prize, which designated him as Poland's top young

Coach bets on 'Blue Chips' to turn his life around

Bell loves his work. He loves the game. He loves the boys he transforms into disciplined men on the basketball floor. He loves to win.

The coach hates excuses. He hates cheating of any kind. He hates the hypocrisy and the hype that undermine his sport.

Coach Bell is at a crossroads in his career and in his life. Bell's career is in jeopardy, and his devil's choice involves the search for "Blue Chips" - the cream of the high school basketball crop, the players every college program covets - the finest amateur athletes money can buy.

Opening Friday at metro De-troit movie theaters, "Blue Chips," a Paramount Pictures release, stars Nick Nolte and is directed by Academy Award winner William Friedkin from a screenplay written by executive producer Ron Shelton, and produced by Michele Rappaport.

The film co-stars Mary McDonnell, Ed O'Neill, J.T. Walsh, Alfre Woodward and Shaquille O'Neal. The cast includes Louis Gossett Jr., Anfernee "Penny" Hardaway, Matt Nover and Bob Cousy; with appearances by Larry Bird, Indiana University eoach Bobby Knight and other key figures in the game, past and

Nick Nolte is Pete Bell, head coach of the Western University Dolphins, former national champions who have slipped out of the national rankings in recent years. Under pressure, Bell and the school's athletic director (Bob Cousy) begin a search for players who can turn their ailing program

Bell is tipped to the availability of some bona fide prospects: Neon Bodeaux (Shaquille O'Neal) in New Orleans, Butch McRae (An-fernee "Penny" Hardaway) from a parochial academy in Chicago, and Ricky Roe (Matt Nover) from the Indiana cornfields.

While wrestling with the ethics of using readily available alumni funds to compete for these athletes, the voice of his conscious is echoed by that of his school teacher ex-wife Jenny (Mary McDonnell), who knows his failings don't include a willingness to corrupt the game he loves.

What is less certain is whether his respect for the rules or his desire to win - even at the price of his principles - will determine his actions. A local reporter (Ed O'Neill) is trying to prove he's already lost the battle, and a powerful alumni booster (J.T. Walsh) is waiting to cover the spread that will ensure that loss.

"There are two reasons I'm incapable of cheating," coach Bell explains. "One is, I might get busted and thrown out of coaching - which means I won't be teaching these kids how to play basketball and how to become

And the second reason? "I" might not get caught.'

"I love basketball," said Friedkin, who has worked out with the Boston Celtics for each of the past 17 years. "For a long time now, I've wanted to make a film set in that world. And 'Blue Chips' was simply the best basketball script I'd ever read."

First written 12 years ago by Ron Shelton, "Blue Chips" dealt with themes of corruption, morality and ambition that have been at the heart of much of Friedkin's work, from his Oscar-winning 'The French Connection" and "The Exorcist" to "To Live and Die in L.A.'

These conflicts as represented in the world of sports — specifi-cally in basketball — had previously caught Friedkin's attention in "The Killer Instinct," a book written by basketball legend Bob Cousy. In it, Cousy explores his own incessant drive to succeed in a business whose unrelenting pressure often compel its most passionate champions into alliances with the very forces that corrupt the sport they cherish.

In the central roles of the "Blue Chip" recruits, the filmmakers decided to hire athletes who had some acting ability rather than actors who could perform on the court with lesser skill.

'I wanted to look at the players in this film and know that these guys are really playing," said Friedkin. "I wanted there to be no doubt that you are watching great athletes in competition.'

'Frankly, I didn't know if we could have found good enough actors in the sports world," said Michele Rappaport. "Now I'm convinced we couldn't have gotten anyone better than Matt (Nover) and Anfernee ("Penny" Hardaway). And Shaquille's smile just lights up the screen.'

Explosive thriller marks Seagal's directing debut

Warner Bros.' new action thriller, "On Deadly Ground," starring and directed by Steven Seagal, opens Friday at metro Detroit movie theaters. In addition to Seagal, the film stars Michael Caine and Joan Chen.

Filmed on location in Alaska and northern Washington state, "On Deadly Ground" tells of the aggressive drilling activities of Aegis Oil, an independent company under the leadership of its renegade president, Michael Jennings (Michael Caine). When Forest Taft (Seagal), a roughnect who puts out oil-rig fires for Jennings, learns of Aegis' environmentthreatening behavior, he attempts to stop the company from drilling on native Alaskan (Inuit) land, but instead, finds himself fighting for his own life against Jennings and his men.

Taft teams with Masu (Chen), an Inuit activist, to defend himself and his homeland against the oil company, which culminates in

PREVIEW an explosive battle of wits and

After starring in five hit films and becoming one of the world's most popular action stars in recent motion picture history, Seagal now expands his skills as a director on a story which appeals not only to his sense of adventure, but also responsibility to our fellow human and natural surround-

muscle

As a first-time director, Seagal would have to contend with a script that called for Alaskan blizzards, explosions, oil fires, dogsleds and horse chases.

Chen traveled to Alaska before production began for "On Deadly Ground" to understand her char-

"I tried to learn the Inuit language and something about their culture," said Chen. "Their way of life is so beautiful. It's a simple, basic life, with a complete lack of greed. They have big families and are content to live in and around the same area. They are a very cooperative people, and that's a great learning experi-

Prior to stating the film, Chen had never ridden a horse. "At first I was scared of the horses," recalls Chen, "but after we got to Alaska we started riding three or four hours at a time and they made a rider out of me. I enjoyed it so much. I'm in the process of buying one!"

For Robert Watts, the opportunity to produce an action film with a conscience was too great to resist. "What really appealed to me about "On Deadly Ground" is what underlies the basic action adventure story. I look at it as a film about human responsibility, and that's my reason for doing it. However, Steven's action-adventure fans are not going to be disappointed in the least. This movie is crammed with a great deal of very exciting action.

"We have helicopter explosions, martial arts battles, gun battles, mountains exploding, oil wells blowing up," adds A. Kitman Ho, one of the producers. "The action is exciting, but the majestic Alaskan setting will really remain in people's memories. Watchign this gorgeous - and fast-disappearing landscape, we're all reminded of how priceless our environment is, and how easily we can lose what we take for granted."

Cadillac wins award from women's group

Cadillac Motor Division was honored with this year's Women in Communications Diamond Award, which recognizes companies, organizations and individuals for actively communicating the progress of women as equals in the work force.

WICI also awards annually a Dog Award, good-naturedly citing organizations that are in the dog house because of their communications concerning today's women. Cadillac's 1994 Auto Show exhibit entitled "He Says, She Says" employed a "sensible and balanced positioning of both man and woman," said WICI President Susan Schwandt. The exhibit featured a female narrator who informed a male narrator about Cadillac innovations.

Cadillac, a former Dog Honorable Mention award winner, was represented at last week's awards dinner by Rory Gambrell, senior sales promotion specialist, who said the company is "going to continue to support women in communication efforts in the fu-

FAMILY LIFE

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

Slow meals are good for fast families

besides a good burp. Food is one thing, but juicy conversation is another. Simmering pepper steak and rice can get tongues wagging at my house. It's great when teenagers talk about what's going on in their lives and about friends, school, teachers and the special help available from counselors during crisis situations.

Like many other parents of teens, I find it's a precious and sometimes rarer occasion when your schedule and theirs connect, especially around dinner time. At my house, either my husband and I eat together, alone or with one or more of the children or the children eat together.

Getting all the family to sit down to dinner together during the week is an accomplishment. Weekends, usually Sunday, is our breakfast and dinner time together. Cheerleading practice, track, football, basketball and work make it quite difficult for those "Brady Bunch" family dinners. Even my oldest son's part-time job after school keeps him busy on top of being a senior.

But as wonders never cease, just this week there we were, all five of us together, same time and table - and on a week day. Wow! What did we talk about between chewing and swallowing? As if there was nothing to say. Teachers first . . . characteristics about teachers teens can re-

One thing I found out as I reached for more rice was my younges. son of 13 years experiences displeasure when a teacher makes statements like "Someone in this class is talking and being disruptive." To Brandon, as he explaine not being upfront" on the teacher's part. "Say who it is that's being disruptive."

He indicated that it didn't make sense, especially when the teacher knew who was yapping it up. In his opinion, kids take it better, respect a teacher's straight-up approach rather than use what he calls a kindergarten statement. Surely they don't expect us to say who it is?

'Getting with them'

A statement, such as this one made by a junior high instructor, even I know can tickle students and cause more good than harm. As Brandon put it, "Give us more credit than that; come to our level." His comments reinforced in my mind the real in connecting with teens, "getting with them," so to speak, and doing away with the hopscotch way of communicating.

Because teens are on the pathway, fast approaching adulthood, already coping with adult problems, adults must step up to the plate and be ready to get to first, second, third base and home in relating to teens.

Another teen and teacher relation tip, according to both Brandon and my 15-year-old daughter Andrace, is for the teacher to use age-appropriate speaking voices for teens. My younger son balked about one teacher talking in a voice suitable for second graders. I didn't get the impression he didn't like teachers being too nice to kids or or even too fair. His concern was "know your audience" - a school load of 12- to 14year-olds, not second graders.

My daughter joked about a teacher who so sweetly told a student doing one of the latest dances in the classroom, "It's not time to boogie your knees down." Andrace thought her teacher's statement was so funny and sweetly out of touch. I thought it was funny, too, but kind of witty.

A Little character

As my husband, my oldest son John and I listened with great interest for more on what's happening on the school front, something else was said. (Oldest son John was less talkative, giving the floor - table - to the two younger ones.) What both teens shared with us was about a 14-yearold peer who they addressed as Little before his first name. Little is described by the kids at school as being quite a character - not so friendly, irritating and outspoken. He got the name Little because he's extremely short and small in Little kicks chairs and tables, throws ketchup in the lunchroom and disrupts the class. He's a regular visitor in the main school office. His not so friendly attitude and expression of displeasure, kids say, come from not liking as well as his inability to change his physical size and height. Compared to his peers, his size is marked well below other kids. His football uniform had to be altered to accommodate his small frame. Even then a belt was needed to hold his pants in place. The belt end, I was told, met his knees.

Zoo's gardens get Burton touch

■ Barry Burton's previous jobs didn't quite prepare him for his new position. The landscape architect for the Detroit Zoological Park, he's taken on the task of restoring the once famous grounds to their former splendor.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

If Barry Burton had his way, the Detroit Zoo's gardens would once again flourish.

"Ideally,

overall goal is to make the grounds as famous as the zoo itself; I'd like to make it as famous as it used to be," said Burton, the zoo's landscape architect.

When the zoo moved to its present location in 1928, the park was known for its memorial flower garden, honoring military personnel killed in the line of duty. Another section of the park was a successful transplanting of a Northern Michigan woodland habitat. Native trees, shrubs, wildflowers and ferns grew along a trout stream.

Through the years, however, ideologies clashed. Weeds and grass were allowed to grow freely because previous zoo directors felt it would create the "natural" look the original planners designed.

That, however, has done more harm than good and will take a lot of work to restore the gardens to their original beauty, according to Burton, Canton Township's landscape architect from September 1990 to December 1992.

The park, modeled after the Hagenbeck Zoo Gardens in Hamburg, Germany, was the first zoo in the United States to be designed with barless exhibits. Instead moats and wells create the safe borders between the animals and zoo

"Landscaping was a low priority for a long time; there were vines cov-"I'd like to make it lush . . . balance horticulture and design.'

Important asset

Ron Kagan, director of the zoo staff, said that it's thoughts like those that make Burton an important asset to the zoo.

"Barry is extremely qualified, and I think he has exceptional potential. He's very creative; that's important for everything at the zoo," Kagan said. "He has a very profound understanding of people places and natural places and how the two need to come together."

Burton started working at the zoo in July 1993. He has begun replacing the weeds with ornamental grasses and flowers. His design will create privacy for the animals. Zoo visitors will be able to see the animals but grasses will keep viewers on the opposite sides of the exhibit from seeing each other.

Burton's landscape architect position at the Detroit Zoo is his first at a zoological park. Aside from his position in Canton Township, the Michigan State University graduate has worked as a landscape designer for Grosse Pointe Farms, as a city planner in New Rochelle, N.Y., and as a planner and landscape designer in Winnetka, Ill. The Grosse Pointe native said that Detroit is where he

"I really do like Detroit." Burton said driving through the zoo. "I get to be a part of the Detroit Zoo which plugs me into the rest of the world.

"Although I never thought I'd end up at a zoo, it's the crux of my career." His former jobs couldn't prepare him for some of the problems he has faced during his tenure at the zoo. Because of the animals, Burton and his 12-member staff stay away from using pesticides and herbicides to kill weeds and bugs.

"When most people want to kill weeds, they take weed killer and spray it. We can't do that. There's so many issues other than just horticulture," said Burton, who has studied in Finland and Japan. For example, in the zebra yard he had to mix grass seeds so the grass could withstand the animals' stomping.

At times he also gets to be playful with the animals - sometimes without trying. Once while pulling out a mulberry tree he got into a tug of war with a sloth bear.

"I tried to yank it, and I got pulled back and I thought, 'hey, what's going on?" "

Commingling with the animals is in unexpected surprise for Burton.

"I didn't think I'd grow as fond of the animals as I did. I didn't think I'd be as interested to learn about wildlife conservation. Now he rides around the zoo on what he calls his "wicked witch of the west bike" complete with a basket and a bell. He rides through the zoo feeding the animals vegetation from the zoo's plants. Sometimes he just drives around and rings the bell to perk up the sleepy animals. Contrary to popular belief, the winter season doesn't give Burton a

Cookie game: It's sales

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Who would have ever thought that ordering Girl Scout Cookies would be confusing?

Sometimes it can be if you're ordering cookies from Girl Scouts on different sides of town. It turns into a name game. What's a Carmel De-Lite in one area is a Samoa in another. Meanwhile some may be ordering Do-si-Does as others prefer Peanut Butter Sandwiches.

The reason is the two area Girl Scout Councils - Michigan Metro and Huron Valley - use differ-ent bakers. Girl Scouts in the Westland, Plymouth and Canton areas use ABC InterBake Foods Inc., chosen by their Huron Valley council. Michigan Metro groups, which includes Redford, Garden City and Livonia, use Lil Brownie Bakers.

Huron Valley's cookie committee chose ABC

for business and taste reasons.
"We have a committee that has presentations given to them. They felt that ABC had a better product and better support material," said Lisa Miron-Wack, spokeswoman for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

Let her go outside and chase after a squirrel, or walk around the green grass with all its promising smells - and she'd have a good-natured grin wrapped around her face for the rest of the afternoon. Simple things made the old girl happy. Her gusto for an extra dog biscuit showed us what it means to give thanks for all things.

Good ole Blaize. Our days are richer for her presence with us. Isn't it amazing how an animal can teach us how to be more humane? Musician Elliott shares message through singing

By CHRISTINA FUOCO

Brian Elliott is an intense believer in sharing the message of his music.

"I feel a need to return in whatever way I can," he said. "If I have some talents, then I have to share them. If I don't share them . . . I have to share them, that's all there is to it. If there's any healing or anything in my message, then I have to share it"

He and the Haney Sisters will perform during an 8 p.m. program Saturday, Feb. 19, The Spiritual Nature of Addiction," at Church of St. Dennis, 12 Mile and Stephenson Highway in Royal Oak. Dennis Trestain, a recovering addict with Sobriety House in Detroit, will be the guest speaker. His opic will be "The Truth Will Set You Free." Elliott, who once played drums for Ted Nugent, is a recovering addict himself. He has noticed that his music changes as he recovers.

'My music is evolving as I recover and understand more of who I am," the Plymouth resident said. "My music necessarily has to change. It has to change. It just does. As I grow as a person, my music should expand and grow right along with me."

The Saturday show marks the first time Elliott will perform his songs in public. That makes him a little nervous.

"Yes, these are my lyrics, my music, my idea, the whole shot. I guess if it doesn't go over very well, it's me," he said with a Elliott said that his music is fitting for the program because he deals with "real life." The program is free and open to the public. For more information about the lecture, call the Eastwood Residential Clinic of Royal Oak at (810) 542-6070.

"Whosoever BELIEVETH that Jesus is the Christ IS BORN of God." "Beleiveth" is PRESENT TENSE showing action happening now. "Is born" is PERFECT TENSE meaning action completed BEFORE he began believing. Thus belief in Christ is PROOF but NOT THE MEANS of eternal salvation.

The cold you feel right now is how thousands of families feel 24 hours a day.

This year, thousands of men, women and children will be cold due to a financial hardship. For them, the thought of snow only brings doubt and fear. Whether they are physically or mentally disabled, unexpectedly unemployed or the working poor, these people will endure the chill of winter without the protection of a warm home. That is until The Heat And Warmth (THAW) Fund.

THAW is a non-profit organization which helps struggling families in 11 Southeastern Michigan counties keep their heat on. It is the last resort for families: who have exhausted all other possible resources. Since 1986, THAW has assisted over 11,000 families, more than half with children. Yet, THAW is not considered a handout, but a helping hand, for less than 10% of the recipients are repeat cases.

Once again, Detroit Edison is supporting THAW's efforts. Every dollar you donate will be matched by Detroit Edison and will go directly to those in need. So, as the nights grow longer, please remember the families who grow colder.

against the cold. Animals must insulate themselves too. They don't go down to Kmart and pick out a new coat, but they do grow new coats. In winter, mammals, like deer and squirrels, grow additional fur. Those additional fibers of hair help to trap air warmed by the body. In the case of white-tailed deer, each hair is hollow like a straw. Warm air is trapped between hairs and inside each, air provides double insulation. A deer's coat also is darker in winter, which allows more heat to be

Birds do much the same only they grow more feathers in winter. Some of our winter finches may increase the numbers of feathers on their body by 50 percent. A feather's filamentous features allow air to be trapped easily. By fluffing feathers, birds can control the layer of warm air they trap from escaping to the outside.

Odd as it may seem, snow is a very good insulator. Mammals and some birds burrow into the snow and remain much warmer than if they were on the surface of the snow. Like the air spaces between the hairs of a mammal, or the feathers of a bird, air spaces between snow crystals reduces heat from being drawn away from the animal. As snow gets old and becomes more dense its insulative qualities decline.

Cottontail rabbits and ruffed grouse in southeastern Michigan frequently burrow under the snow for warmth and protection. Temperatures may be 30-60 degrees warmer under a layer of snow. Predators, such as hawks and owls, would not be able to see them under the cover of snow. Some small mammals also group together under the snow to help conserve heat.

Fat on mammals can be beneficial in insulating the animal from

Some species that may have survived during our mild winters may not be able to tolerate this cold winter. Those that can survive are those that can insulate themselves from the cold.

Plymouth arts walk holds lots of promise ook for an evening arts crawl in downtown Plymouth when the weather warms up - if a volunteer coordinator steps forward. The Plymouth Community Arts Council envisions a spring crawl. "I threw out the idea at our January board meeting and it generated high interest," said council president Karen Tripp. "It's an exciting concept. But we're as strapped as any organization relying solely on volunteers. It's just a matter of getting a committee together. The bulk of our volunteers right now is working real hard to put us in a permanent home. A gallery crawl may have to wait till next year.

If a volunteer from the chamber, DDA or arts council served as coordinator, the arts council board definitely would lend support, Tripp said.

An arts crawl is a great idea - what with Kellogg Park, an historic downtown, two cappuchino bars and springtime as the backdrop. Like Art in the Park, Fall Festival and the International Ice Sculpture Spectacular, it would draw out-oftowners to Plymouth's central business district.

The thought is to spotlight the variety of downtown spots with original artwork while staging a fund-raiser for local arts programming. The accent would be on fine art, fine crafts, and arts and There'd be a leisurely stroll embracing nine or 10 stops after regular business hours. A program and map would be provided. One stop could include the best of Plymouth-Canton student art. Participating merchants would offer special exhibits, giveaways and hors d'oeuvres. The Kellogg Park bandshell could showcase hometown talent like the Plymouth Symphony or Plymouth Community Chorus. Artists — a glassblower, a jeweler, a sculptor, a painter — could do demonstrations at the new Michigan Art Exchange at Forest Place

Stops would include the council's Art Rental Gallery in the Dunning Hough Library. The gallery houses 400 original paintings, reproductions and limited-edition prints. Themes include landscapes, florals, country scenes and abstract realism. Most of the artists are from Michigan.

"We rent framed pieces for a two-month period for $6 per picture per month with an option to buy on pieces in the collection at least a year," said Therese Gall, gallery co-chairwoman.

Many renters choose seasonal pieces. "It's a good way to change the art in your home or to see how piece might fit in," Gall said. "There's nothing worse than spending $400 on a picture, then getting it home and saying, 'Oh, God. It's awful.

Gallery pieces that are sold bring $250 to $600; profits go toward buying new art. Rental fees are applied toward communitywide arts programming.

Gall is upbeat about an arts crawl: "There are people who have lived in Plymouth 20 years and still don't know we exist. It takes events like this to bring our gallery and others into focus.'

A merchant for 11 years, Scott Smith sees promotions like a crawl as "essential to this community moving ahead.

'It's something that'd portray Plymouth in a different light, something that'll bring it into the '90s," said Smith, owner of Penniman Showcase of Arts and Crafts, which features "three-dimensional handmade work with a human touch" from around the world, especially the United States.

"We have several galleries here that don't necessarily have the recognition they deserve," he said. "A crawl also would portray Plymouth as something other than a so-called provincial town, which some people think it is.'

Smith took part in a 1991 arts crawl that took place in November and involved a trolley tour of 10 Plymouth and Northville galleries. The arts council assisted but two gallery owners organized

See .

Smith sees a Plymouth crawl as a sort of "personalization of shopping in town. My philosophy of retailing in the '90s is that shopping is entertainment. Galleries are one aspect of that. They're multigenerational, appealing to all ages and income levels.

"When clients walk in, they come to be entertained. What I offer isn't something they can't live without nor something that's vital for survival.

"But this type of gallery makes life more interesting, exciting and fun. One of the rewards of hard work is to come here, or any other gallery, and spend your money."

Bountiful Islands: Artist Audrey DiMarco captures the vibrance of Virgin Islands culture in "Young Warriors," an earthly gouache painting. She refers to her work as a collaging together of texture and color.

Virgin Islands color artist's paintings

 Audrey DiMarco brings the islands home in a series of paintings on exhibit to March 6 in a Livonia Arts Commission show of 30 vibrantly colored pieces in the Livonia Civic Center Library Art Gallery.

■ EYEING WATERCOLORS

Observerland residents are eligible to enter slides for the Michigan Water Color Society's annual exhibition June 12 to July 1 at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association. Paintings are limited to watercolor on paper.

Awards totaling $5,000 will be presented. Juror is Al Loving, a Michigan native now living in New York City and a faculty member in City College of New York's art department. He earned his MFA from the University of Michigan.

"I found their culture absolutely fascinating," said the 35-year veteran of painting, motioning to a work featuring five young warriors. "I asked them why their stomachs were protruding. It's a sign of bounty, they said, there's plenty of fish in the waters."

Several of the paintings speak to the dark side of island traditions. "Danger at the Gate," an acrylic-based mixed media, illustrates the culture's tradition of sacrificing the first-born girl child to the God, Pele. A man with a knife in his hand appears ready to appease the God so the island's volcano remains silent. Vibrant island colors cast shadows over the event about to occur.

Initially, DiMarco "laid out the paintings in her head" two summers ago, after hurting her back while golfing.

"I did the masks because I wanted to do people. I decided I wanted to paint expressions of where I'd been. I had to put down emotion. I had to put down what I felt," said the 1988 winner of the prestigious Scarab Club Gold Medal.

"The people there are so wonderful, gentle and kind. The world we live in is kind of scary. I found a gentleness there that is something lost for us."

Fellow artist Jeri Fellwock of Farmington Hills followed the development of DiMarco's island and mask paintings over the last year. "Her colors are vibrant, her brush strokes are energetic, the way she paints in layers, the way she lets her colors show through, the story she tells," Fellwock said.

As a 9-year-old girl, DiMarco learned the most valuable lesson of her life, one that guides not only how she lives that life but how she approaches her art.

"It was the last time I saw my mother before she died. I wanted to do something but backed away from it saying I couldn't. My mother said, 'Always try. If you have an idea no matter how abstract, how do you know you'll fail if you don't try. Always try. Not to try is to fail.'

DiMarco learned from the best. Studies at Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts (now Center for Creative Studies) under Sarkis Sark isian and Guy Palazolla, and at Eastern Michigan University, gave DiMarco the knowledge necessary to develop her drawing

An active member of the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association and Scarab Club in Detroit, DiMarco has taught multimedia painting at the Birmingham Community House, Visual Arts Association of Livonia and privately in her own studio 15 years.

On March 4, she begins teaching a series of three workshops in pastel at VAAL.

"Art doesn't have rules but you have to study to understand color compatibility. Some people call me a colorist, but I not only use color, I know the capability of color, how to place fuschia next to red separated by only a thin black line and offset by the coolness of Raku," she said, referring to "Masks," an acrylic painting that incorporates pieces of ceramics.

DiMarco is proud of the many awards and prizes she's received but says she doesn't keep track of them anymore. That isn't why she paints.

"If I'm not involved in a painting, I'm kind of down but if I have something in progress, I wake up happy as a lark," she said. "I enjoy painting. I need to paint. I

DiMarco has exhibited at the Belian Art Center in Troy, Birmingham Community Center, Edee Joppich's Bay Street Gallery in Northport, Detroit Artists Market, Detroit Institute of Arts rental gallery, Farmington Community Library, Livonia City Hall and Atrium Gallery in Northville. Her work is in collections across the United States as well as Canada, Germany, Japan and England.

DiMarco likes to have three paintings in the works at any given time. The beginnings of her newest series focusing on impressionistic sunflowers raises its head for the first time in this show. Energetic bursts of gold light play on the canvas in all their magnificence.

Other paintings in the show continue a theme that thrives on social and psychological mores. 'From the Caves" deals with the fact that women have always submitted to men's needs and wants.

On the other hand, "Masks in the Men's Room" toys with the premise that "men don't show their feelings the way women do.
'Most of the things I do, have to do with people. I want to emotionally and psychologically get the viewer involved with the paint-

VICTORIA DIAZ

"If you live with people like my mother, who are utterly pow-erful simply be-cause they are famous, you come to know that they can say anything or do anything, and will never be questioned,

Maria Riva, daughter of the late Marlene Dietrich and author of the just-out-in-paperback biography, "Marlene Dietrich" (Ballantine, $14).

"After a while, you simply want to scream the truth."

It's difficult to imagine the petite, soft-spoken Riva screaming about anything. Nevertheless, via her written words, she has gained the attention of thousands of fascinated readers worldwide.

The book's original hardcover edition from Knopf last year became a blockbuster bestseller. And with its paperback re-release this month, audiences are sure to Stopping off at Borders Novi last week in the midst of a whirlwind U.S. tour to promote the paperback re-issue, the trim, blonde author (who resembles her famous mother only slightly) emphasized that she could hardly remember a time when she didn't want to write a book about the woman she still refers to as "Dietrich."

"When I finally sat down to write (the book), I felt, in a sense, as if I'd been researching it all my life," she said. "There were all the conversations I remember, all the phone calls I remember. My mother, you see, trained me to remember and repeat to her entire conversations when I was very young and so I have an especially retentive memory. Then, there were all her letters and diaries that I had access to. My greatest problem was that I had so very much to say.'

Actually, Riva (who was never permitted by Dietrich to attend school) ended up saying a lot. The memoir is 700-plus pages (with more than 200 black-and-white photos included) and apparently, as the New York Times pointed out on its 1993 release, "leaves no sequin unturned."

Riva, who did not want the book published until after Dietrich's death (in 1992), insists, however, that her story is not just another literary event in which yet another glamourous "movie mommy" is trashed by her offspring. On the book's original release, a number of major reviewers agreed with her.

The San Francisco Chronicle called the memoir "extraordinary," adding that "the greatest tribute to Dietrich may be that Riva . . . is . . . fair and decent." The Chicago Tribune declared, "Riva does not attempt to take over the narrative, parading invectives, exhibiting hurts . . . She actually has much good to say about her mother."

True. Riva does give the great star her due, especially when it comes to her professionalism. "My mother was beautiful and utterly fascinating," she com-mented recently. "And, profes-sionally, she was greatly disciplined. But I have no regard for my mother as a human being. She simply had no conscience, and the cruelty she directed toward others was outrageous.'

As an example of this singular cruelty, Riva recounts in the book a story of a time when Dietrich spotted a news photo of an emaci-ated, dying Yul Brynner, a former lover who had long since rejected the great star. "Goody," she scrawled across his photo (and sent it to Riva). "He has cancer! Serves him right!"

"Sometimes, I'm rather frigthened of my gene pool," Riva said, recalling the event.

Dietrich's cruelty was not just directed toward lovers whose ar-dor had cooled but toward "any-body and everybody," according

"I was always fascinated by the fact that people — even people with great minds — were always willing to take the cruelty almost as if it felt good to be beaten by the great Dietrich."

Riva's written words do, in-deed, provide luscious bits of grist for a gossip mill - in addition to Brynner, Dietrich's lovers included such diverse types as Adlai Stevenson, Frank Sinatra and Edith Piaf — but "Marlene Dietrich" goes a lot farther than just movies, movie stars and gossip.

rect you. "Finding suitable plants and other uses for shady gardens is sometimes quite a challenge. At the symposium you will learn to appreciate the many possibilities in such an area, whether you choose to grow shade-loving wildflowers, enjoy the subtle textures of foliage or elect other options.

Starr Foster of Lake Angelus was very instrumental in bringing these programs to this area.

"It's wonderful to have these speakers," she said. "I'm thrilled that new, fresh ideas from all over the country are being shared here.

"Nan Sinton, director of horticultural programs, Horticulture magazine, was formerly in charge of programs at the Arnold Arboretum, Harvard. Since coming to Horticulture she is doing a fine job of expanding their program. She is very good at finding the most current and knowledgeable Four excellent speakers will participate in this symposium. Vicki Ferreniea, former director of horticulture for the New England Wild Flower Society, and author of "Wildflowers in Your Garden," will explain how she designs and maintains a woodland wildflower garden from the earliest spring bloom to the end of fall.

Stephen Morrell, a graduate of the New York Botanical Garden School of Horticulture, a horticultural designer specializing in Japanese-influenced gardens, will show ways to create a path through the shade by the judicious placement of stones, foliage plants and moss.

Charles Cresson, author of several books including "Charles Cresson on the American Flower Garden," will share his thoughts about combining native and exotic plants and how to merge the edges of shade gardens with sunnier areas.

A design forum with the speakers will round out the program. Attendees are invited to submit questions with their registration. Questions from the floor will also be encouraged.

One of the two of the books available for purchase will be Ferreniea's "Wildflowers in Your Garden" (Random House $35). This is a practical guide that explains how to mix wildflowers and other plants to create natural areas and includes 10 landscape plans for many types of gardens.

M ASSOCIATE BROKER

Bill McCully of Plymouth was named associate broker with The Prudential, William Decker, Realtors, 670 S. Main, Plymouth.

He holds a Graduate, Realtors Institute of Michigan designation and maintains a Valuation Specialist License issued by the State Board of Appraisers.

He's a member in good standing of the Western Wayne County Board of Realtors, the Michigan Association of Realtors and the National Associa-McCully will serve customer needs in western Wayne, south Oakland and eastern Washtenaw counties.

SALES UP

The Southfield-based Detroit Metro Region of RE/MAX showed expansion in 1993, including increased sales volume of more than 40 percent. The number of closed transactions also rose, exceeding 1992 totals by more than 20 percent.

Ed LeVoir, regional director, cites more than record-low interest rates. "First-time and move-up buyers ar taking advantage of the opportunities available, but that's not what has made us one of the fastest-growing real estate organizations in North America," LeVoir said. "We owe our success to the professionalism, dedication to service and experience of our staff. There are no part-timers here.

RE/MAX associates average 10 years of real estate experience, more than three times the national average, he said.

ON THE MOVE

Grubb & Ellis Co. and Axiom Real Estate Management Co. have moved to larger quarters in Suite 500 the 2000 Tower of the Prudential Town Center, Southfield. Both previously were on different floors.

"We are very pleased to be moving to a larger space because of the need to accommodate our growth," said Dennis Burnside, senior vice president.

With 100 offices nationwide, Grubb & Ellis offers commercial brokerage and consulting, properties and facilities management (through its Axiom subsidiary), appraisal, residential brokerage, mortgage brokerage and auction services.

Industrial, office outlook mostly bright

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Area Realtors who specialize in industrial and office properties painted a positive picture generally during their recent annual state of the industry review.

They reported that:

■ Industrial vacancies, primarily manufacturing facilities, have decreased on the east side of the metro area, including Rochester Hills and Auburn Hills, due to growth in the

■ Industrial vacancies, primarily warehouses, have decreased on the west side, including the I-275 corridor, due to growth in service indus-tries, especially video-related.

Office vacancies decreased in smaller submarkets like Livonia, Farmington Hills, Bloomfield Hills and West Bloomfield due to business expansions sparked by improvements in the economy.

Consequently, landlords and property managers in those communities find it less necessary to offer incentives like rent concessions and financing leasehold improvements.

'Last year, we were predicting we'll come out of the bottom. Now, we're out of the bottom," said David N. McNabnay, president of McNabnay & Associates in Bloomfield Hills and president of the Society of Industrial and Office Realtors Michigan Chap-

"We've got it good now compared to other parts of the country," said Paul S. Hoge, an associate broker with Signature Associates in Southfield.

"I think most people look at real estate brokers as perpetual optimists," he said. "I think this year, they're going to have to take us at face value.

SIOR's annual report indicated an overall office vacancy rate of 19 percent with an inventory of some 51 million square feet in Detroit and suburban markets combined as of the end of last year.

That compares to 26 percent for the Dallas market, upwards of 25 percent in some sections of Los Angeles and 23 percent in Cleveland and New Or-

The U.S. office vacancy average

Detroit's city/suburban industrial vacancy rate was 9 percent with an inventory of 213.6 million square feet, the SIOR reported.

That compares to industrial vacancy rates of 15-17 percent in the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens boroughs of New York City; 12-20 percent in major sections of Los Angeles, 14 percent in Memphis and Phoenix, 12 percent in Houston and 11 percent in Cleve-

No nationwide industrial vacancy average was reported.

"What you're seeing basically throughout this marketplace (is) business is improving, people are getting contracts, feeling more optimistic about themselves, their companies, the economy," said Gary F. Sallen, an associate broker with Signature. "They're now feeling the energy to go out and find new space.

Different office submarkets are doing better than others.

Absorption increased dramatically in communities along the I-275 corridor such as Livonia, Novi, West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills, said Michael L. Gerard, a senior marketing consultant with Grubb & Ellis of Southfield.

"We're finding with absorption a supply of 1.8 years left," he said.

However, the situation is bleaker in Southfield and Troy, with a 12- and 20-year supply, respectively, Gerard porations like IBM and EDS, massive movings of companies like Volkswagen to owner-occupied facilities in other northern suburbs and a large inventory to start with.

The reasons - downsizings at cor-

Landlord incentives probably will continue in Troy and Southfield, the panel agreed.

A few other trends were reported.
"A lot of (financially troubled) buildings were bought by users . . . smaller buildings, 15,000-40,000 square feet along Northwestern High; way and some in Troy," said Joan R. Bassey, vice president of Trerice Tos. to in Bingham Farms.

"Some corporate clients we're deal"ing with in Detroit have put relocation plans on hold. They're looking for action from (new Mayor Dennis) Archer," said John R. Boyd, executive vice president for Signature.

"Business doesn't want to move,"
Boyd added. "The cheapest thing to do is stay put."

"Before you see major (office) building, I think some people will be pushed back into existing markets," McNabnay said. "There will be some construction, some built to suits, smaller buildings."

"If auto sales are going to be mater-ializing, there absolutely will be a". shortage of industrial space by the end of the year," Sallen said.

Managing agent owes disclosure covered our management company operates an affiliated company as a landscaping con-tractor, which has been doing business with our association but which is owned by the managing agent.

Q. We have dis-

ROBERT M.

We were never MEISNER advised by the managing agent that it owned the landscaping company, which always managed to have the lowest bid against other landscape contractors we solicited.

I am concerned that the management company utilized its position of obtaining bids to make sure it was always the lowest bidder, precluding other contractors from getting involved in the project.

I also am concerned about the nondisclosure and want to terminate the management company. The other board members say we got a good deal so why complain. Your comments?

A. It would appear your association has not been treated fairly by the managing agent in that it did not disclose to you its relationship with its affiliated landscape contractor. You also have been denied the opportunity to seriously consider the other contractors who were at a distinct disadvantage in the bidding process because of the preferred position of your management company in securing the

Your managing agent, as a fiduciary to the association, should have disclosed its relationship with respect to the landscape contractor to the board. This may be the tip of the iceberg in regard to other abuses that may have taken place by the management company, which may be under-mining the ability of the association to operate in its own best interests.

Moreover, an obligation of this type should have been clearly set forth in the management agreement between the association and the management company.

I would suggest that the board consider the fact that even though it may have gotten the cheapest bid on the landscape contract, it may not have gotten the very best services, as is clearly manifested by the fact that it has hired a management company that has not been totally honest with the board.

The board may wish then to consider retaining a new management company, which is more straightfor ward and may have "cause" to do so. "12

Barrier-free house offers teen a new start

A teenager paralyzed in a 1990 auto accident looks forward to a fresh beginning. This month, the 16-year-old moves into a new home specially designed by a Bloomfield Township architect.

By Janice Tigar-Kramer SPECIAL WRITER

Like other architects, Michael Trautman started his latest project by looking at structure and space. But this undertaking, started a year ago, called for a third element that is essential to his work as a designer of barrier-free buildings sensitivity.

The president of Trautman Associates in Bloomfield Township began specializing in barrier-free architecture for people with disabilities, many confined to a wheelchair, about two years ago.

For an architect like himself, who runs a small practice, the work is more chailenging and more satisfying than designing conventional buildings, he said.

This project, ready for occupancy in a few weeks, is a tightly planned, 1,700-square-foot ranch style house in Lake Orion. It's designed for Beau Wern, the architect's youngest client, a 16-year-old Lake Orion youth, who suffered a traumatic brain injury in a 1990 auto accident

Beau has been in a wheelchair since an eight-month stay at University of Michigan Hospital following the accident, which left him with limited use of his left side, but otherwise paralyzed and unable to eat or speak, said his mother, Beverly Wern, a registered nurse.

"Beau's excited when we drive past the house. It's very frustrating to see what he goes through to entertain himself (in the apartment where they're staying). We've been able to make some alterations here for the wheelchair, but basically it's like living in a prison for him." Beverly Wern said.

Trautman started the house's preliminary design by looking at the home's core - Beau's bedroom, study and bath.

Beau can park his wheelchair under countertops in the study, where he'll have an Apple computer with a left-hand control board.

The house sits vertically on a large treed lot backing to Paint Creek, so Beau has views from his bedroom and adjoining study. He has access to the main living area through wide double-action doors in the bedroom. A wrap-around deck, whose construction is similar to conventional decking, runs from his room to a second bedroom.

"Emotional well-being is a subtle thing, but it's as important as the functional parts of the house. After my first trip to the lot and after meeting Beau, I knew we needed to take full advantage of the site. He Beau's excited when we drive past the house. It's very frustrating to see what he goes through to entertain himself (in the apartment where they're staying).

> Beverly Wern Beau's mother likes what we've done and even gave me a thumbs-up sign when we designed the computer area," said Trautman, a University of Michigan graduate, whose first assignment with Albert Kahn Architects in 1965 was to the design team of Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit.

Trautman's latest undertaking presented two giant challenges: Giving Beau complete access to all areas of the house and sticking to a budget of $150,000, an insurance settlement earmarked for the lot, architect's fee and construction.

The builder is Daniel Olmack of Olmack Builders Inc. in Rochester

The cost for most new home construction runs $100-$125 per square foot; this house cost about $70-$75 a square foot, Trautman said.

To stay on budget, the architect whittled down original plans by 300 square feet by taking out all single-purpose areas. Since Beau can't eat regular meals, Trautman designed a great room in place of a separate dining area. The galleysized kitchen is large enough for storage and some meal preparation for Beverly Wern.

"We tightened things up and developed the house without sacrificing spaces that are important to Beau's lifestyle. Waste was minimized by eliminating places that he can't use, like hallways that would be impossible for him to navigate in wheelchair," Trautman said. The garage opens to the street and is designed around a side-loading van that requires eight-feet to load and unload the wheelchair. A cement walk leads to a courtyard that is sheltered on three sides, so

Beau be outside through late fall. Trautman adhered to Building Officials & Code Administrators of America (BOCA) rules and to local codes for barrier-free building, but he made alterations along the way. For example, the exterior door off the courtyard is flush with the ce-

A bright laundry area overlooking the courtyard has front-loading appliances that Beau can operate with his left hand; awning-style windows are operated with a lefthand crank. Windows are 39 inches from the floor, so he can see outside from the wheelchair.

The all-ceramic bath has separate shower and toilet areas, a change made after the room was framed.

"We altered the bathroom after seeing how Beau could get around in the wheelchair. He needed extra room to park the chair and to turn himself around in front of the toilet. You can't anticipate these things without driving through," said Trautman, who made changes before costly plumbing and drywall were installed.

All light switches are operated by remote control and electrical boost the chair over a conventional tops, giving Beau some control of countertops that Beau can reach.

Trautman believes the lower level walk-out will add to the home's value. A chair lift gives the teenager access to the 1,600-square-foot room, which may be finished later.

The architect used low maintenance materials, such as vinyl windows and siding, and altered the height of stock cabinets and closet fittings instead of buying custom.

He splurged on four skylights around Beau's living area because they create a bright, pleasant environment, said Trautman, who made a video of the construction for use at University of Michigan Hosptial.

"I'm happy with the way we've solved problems and I wouldn't have done anything differently, the architect said. "It's difficult getting beyond the emotional part of this, but your attention must be on how much you can help, not on how tragic the situation is Electronics magic: EdPrimeau produces AudioGram and VideoGram business cards and brochures from his studios in Southfield.

Primeau's specialty: production

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

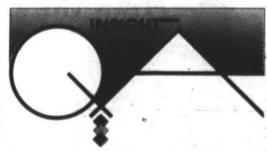

Ed Primeau has the idea that people will pay a premium to stand out from the crowd with an AudioGram or VideoGram business

Then there are those who really want to make an impression on friends and family by sending audio cassette invitations to parties and special events complete with appropriate background music and sound effects. Primeau can do it.

He also records radio commercials, tapes videos for motivational speakers and trainers and puts together in-store direct advertising promotions for malls and individual retailers.

He started his company, Primeau Productions, in 1984 as a sideline while working for another firm as a sales manager and recording engineer.

Since cutting the cord three years ago and going independent Primeau has grown his business from the basement of his house to a suite of offices on the 17th floor of North Park Plaza in Southfield.

We're a production company, not a recording studio," the 35-year-old Troy resident said. "A production company is a fullservice facility with professional voice talent, professional script writing, directing and producing."

Building contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, architects and engineers - not always an optimistic lot by nature - apparently feel encouraged about business prospects that lie ahead.

Fully 25 percent of 622 members of the Construction Association of Michigan who responded to a December survey indicated that they plan to hire more people this year. Only 13 percent anticipate layoffs.

Seventy-four percent indicated that their cash flow position was the same or better than 12 months ago.

Nearly one in four reported an increase of 10 percent or more in their volume of work during the last half of 1993. Only three in 10 reported any kind of decline.

Nearly 60 percent said their material prices had remained the same or increased less than 5 percent during the past six months.

'What we do impacts all residents of the metro Detroit area,' said Jim Edwards, a Farmington Hills resident, owner of Vulcan Iron Works and chairman of the Construction Association of Michigan.

"We represent an industry that is a large proportion of the gross state product. The construction industry basically is the best barometer of business. If the economy starts down, we are down. If it's coming back up, we're up.

"Not one person builds a building," said Richard Schneider, president of the Construction Specifications Institute, metro Detroit chapter. He basically has subcontractors. There's an architect. Then there's manufacturers and suppliers.

"It's amazing how many people are involved in one construction project," Schneider said.

Specifiers write, interpret and enforce construction documents. "We all spend 89 percent of life in buildings from our residences to where we work," said Eugene C. Hopkins, an Ann Arbor architect and president of American Institute of Architects-Michigan.

"Quality of the building environment plays a major role in performance level and psyche. To have architecture that continually improves the home and environment is good for all of us," Hopkins said.

Edwards, Schneider and Hopkins were interviewed during the annual Design and Construction Expo recently co-sponsored by their professional associations.

Edwards said he wasn't really surprised by anything that surfaced in the survey of the CAM membership.

"Activity appears to be on a slow, gradual uptick," he said. 'Hopefully, that will continue. After the last couple of years, any increase in volume is positive.

"Housing is up. Every aspect of construction with the exception of office is up or as good as 1992 and 1992 was better than '91. Ninety one was probably the bottom of the roller coaster.

"I've been in the business my whole adult life," Edwards said. "It's always been a roller-coaster ride. What we're seeing now probably is the most gradual recovery we've ever seen.

Hopkins also sees a change for the better.

"From an architectural standpoint, we are encouraged," he said. "It's been a difficult last couple of years. A lot of architects have found different careers. We see a lot of enthusiasm and optimism.

Schneider said he's observed more planning in recent months.

"Last year, everything was fast track," he said. "This year, everyone knows when they're building, if they're building. Basically, we see more backlog. We're seeing more projects out there six, nine, 12, 18 months down the road.

Dealing with governmental agencies at various levels continues to be a major problem facing the construction industry, Edwards said.

"The biggest challenge we see is the ability for business to get enough education to be able to deal with government controls that are being put on us almost every day," he said. "Small business today has a real tough time filling out forms for real small projects."

A statutory increase in the single business tax if the school financing ballot proposal fails next month also will hurt members, Edwards said. "The single business tax is very hard on a labor intensive industry like construction.'

One goal is to get more members directly involved in the political process early, especially on issues that affect their livelihood, Edwards said.

Apply for stop-smoking grant

There's good news for employers who want to institute smokefree work environments. The Michigan Department of Public Health is offering employers up to $5,000 each in free funding for smoking cessation programs.

The trend toward smoke-free work envitonments has escalated with recent medical data. A 1993 Environmental Protection Agency study shows that at least 3,000 deaths per year can be attributed to secondhand smoke. Also, packa-day smokers have 18-percent higher medical costs than nonsmokers and cost employers about $620 annually in extra expenses, reports the Southeastern MIchigan Health Association.

Employers often offer employee smoking cessation programs before going smoke-free to ensure a smooth transition to the new environment.

MDPH's Worksite & Community Health Promotion Program helps employers adopt non-smoking policies by footing the bill for about half of the employer's smoking cessation program costs. Employers select a service provider from a list of vendors offering multi-component programs. The focus is to help employees understand why they smoke and learn techniques for quitting perman-

The funding process is simple, requiring an application form that takes about 15 minutes to

Joan Sheridan, program coordinator for the Worksite & Community Health Promotion Program Health Promotion Program offers funding for other employee health promotion services such as blood pressure and cholesterol tests and control, fitness tests, health risk surveys, weight loss and healthy eating. If they qualify, employers can apply for funding more than once and for more than one program up to a $15,000 total.

E CAR PHONE DEMAND

Visitors to this year's North American International Auto Show at Cobo Conference/Exhibition Center, Detroit, had more on their minds than cars and trucks, according to an Ameritech Cellular survey.

A whopping 79 percent of the 5,400 surveyed said they would consider a cellular phone as an option for their car - up from just 10 percent a year ago. More than half said they would buy a car phone for convenience; 31 percent like the security provided by a cellular phone and 10 percent cited accessibility. More than 21 percent said they already own a car phone.

Ameritech has initiated partnerships with Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, Honda and Toy-ota to make cellular phones avail-able as a dealer-installed option. Ameritech Cellular's Michigan office is in Farmington Hills.
