Old Village in line for grant fu

The city of Plymouth will receive about $80,800 in federal block grant money. There are ideas for using the money, but a March 7 hearing will be conducted to see if there are other needs.

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

A study to boost business potential for the Old Village is being considered by city officials.

City manager Steve Walters said such a study could also seek to market Old Village to shoppers. The work would be funded by federal grant money the city receives for projects to benefit low- or moderate-income

Walters said plans call for forming a steering committee of business owners and residents, hiring a con-sultant to study Old Village's business potential as the city did in 1992 for downtown, and possibly sharing ty director's time with Old Village.

Plymouth commissioners on Tuesday reviewed the proposed plan for the city to spend an anticipated $80,800 in federal Community Development Block Grant money.

By federal rules, the money must benefit people of low to moderate income, seniors, the handicapped; physical areas where 51 percent of residents are of low or moderate income; or long-range city planning. Part of the grant goes to pay administrative costs to run the program.

Spending for proposed 1994 projsenior van driver, $5,200 for the senior van radio dispatcher, and $11,000 toward senior van replacement; $20,000 toward a city master plan; $9,600 for an Old Village development project; and $6,000 for administering the block grant program.

A public hearing on the proposed allocation of the block grant money is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, March 7, in the commission chambers at city

April 11 cutoff to file school board petitions

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

If you are interested in running for any of three seats on the Plymouth-Canton school board, you have until 4 p.m. Monday, April 11, to file nominating petitions. Two four-year terms and a single one-year term will be open.

The two four-year seats are held by Carl Battishill and Lester Walker, both of whom are undecided about whether to seek another term. The third seat is held by Susan

Feiten, appointed in November to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Dean Swartzwelter. Feiten also is undecided about running Nominating petitions are available for any resident of the school district who is registered to vote. They are available at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Battishill, an area teacher nearing the end of his first four-year term, said his plans "are kind of up in the

Feiten plans to make her decision by early March. "I enjoy working on the board and I'm very grateful to have had this opportunity. But I really need to evaluate how this fits in with my family," said Feiten, who has a third-grader at Isbister and a preschooler. A registered nurse currently on leave, Feiten is educational coordinator for the University of Michigan Hospital's Home Peritoneal Dialysis

Feiten said her priorities, if she serves again, will involve working with the new superintendent, student housing, and class size.

Nominating petitions must contain a minimum of 45 valid signatures. The figure is based on the number of votes received by the highest votegetter in the last election.

Candidates will have until 4 p.m. April 14 to withdraw from the race. Voting will take place 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, June 13, at school election

Man, 23, arrested following high-speed chase

After leading area police on a high-speed chase, an Ypailanti man crashed his car in Plymouth early Monday and was jailed pending charges, Plymouth Township police said.

At about 3:30 a.m., police were asked to join the pursuit of a Pontiac Grand Am driven by an Ypailanti man, 23. Novi police patrol officers, chasing the man for speeding, pursued him south on I-275 and then west on M-14, police said.

Upon joining the chase, a township patrol offi-cer pursued the car to Gotfredson Road, where the Grand Am exited and then headed back east

Veterans pitch military park

Some local veterans wanting to create a Plymouth Military Park off of Main Street in front of Central Middle School pitched the plan to city commissioners on Monday.

The first step toward creation of such a park would be moving the Civil War memorial now at Riverside Cemetery to the intended park.

To win approval for the move, the plan will be put before the school district, some city boards and veterans groups for review. Their comments will be reviewed by city commissioners, before a decision is made on whether to create such a park.

The city commission could vote on whether to move the statue and create the military park in late March, city manager Steve Walters said.

John Pappas, president of the Plymouth Civil War Memorial Association, told commissioners, "There's just too many benefits"

One benefit, he said, is that the Civil War statue could encourage learning about the war for students at the nearby middle

"The area we picked has access to the historical museum (across the street) and the school is very happy over it," Pappas said.

In a letter to the commission, school principal Patricia Moore said she supports the effort. Pappas said plans call for having all memorials placed in a crescent shape in front of the school.

space and nearby parking to accommodate those attending ceremonies honoring veterans.

To win approval, the move of the "Our Lady" statue must be presented to the planning commission, cemetery board, school district and local veterans organizations, by city policy.

Pappas has already presented the plan to the planning commis-

'You just can't find a more perfect place," Pappas said, adding that creating a military park "keeps with our conception of keeping it all one area."

Pappas told commissioners the move of the statue would cost less than an earlier proposed move to Kellogg Park, "not even $2,500. We're going to take care of that," he said.

Keith Thompson, a Civil War re-enacter from Livonia who attended the commission meeting dressed as a Civil War Union soldier, told commissioners, "People don't often go to cemeteries to look at a monument.'

"These men wouldn't want to be forgotten," he said, adding the statue should be moved to where it can be appreciated.

William Hayes, president of the Vietnam Veterans Association 528, said in a letter to the city commission he also supports moving the statue and the creation of a military park.

"That area would provide the veterans groups in the Plymouth community an area they could meet for ceremonies without having to crowd into an area as small

Aninos said she and daughter Nicole, 6, and son Paul, 2, started feeding the birds last fall. "We usually feed them five days a week before she goes to school," Aninos said.

Even before unwrapping the bread, dozens of geese and ducks begin approaching them in anticipation of food.

"Once in a while, the kids get their fingers nipped," Aninos said. On this morning, the birds don't get that close, as they wait a few feet away before spearing pieces of bread tossed on the muddy ground.

"See the one with the broken wing? We always have to make sure we get him something because she's always worried about him," Aninos said.

Tim Payne, district wildlife biologist for the state Department of Natural Resources, said, "We're very strongly against feeding Canada geese or ducks for that matter. "We discourage that because usually they're not getting a good diet," he said. Canada geese naturally graze on grass in the summer and eat corn and other grains in the winter — and wetland vegetation year-round. They're even known to eat apples, Payne said. The DNR does relocate young Payne said geese and ducks have enough insulation to survive a severe cold snap like the one in January, adding they need open water and food.

He suggested that people who have in effect made pets out of the birds by feeding them in summer should continue to feed them in

School board sets pay for superintendent

The person who replaces John Hoben as superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will earn a minimum salary of $106,000 plus benefits that may include a car, a tax sheltered annuity and insurance.

The figure was recommended by trustee Dave Artley, who heads the board's superintendent search subcommittee.

"Our consultant thinks we will be lucky to get someone for under $110,000," he said. In addition to salary, "most districts offer a car, deferred compensation, vacation days, paid holidays, sick days, long-term disability, vision insurance, health insurance and dental insurance."

Working with the board is the firm Bickert, Prophet and Associates Ltd. of Palos Heights, Ill., which is charging a consulting fee of $13,000 plus expenses.

The board reviewed superintendent salaries and benefits offered in 16 Michigan school districts at its Monday night workshop. Just three (Southfield.

West Bloomfield and Farmington) pay more than Plymouth-Canton, the state's ninth-largest school district.

Trustees Les Walker, Susan

vored advertising the position at a salary of $100,000 or more, commensurate with experience. A citizen suggested advertising the job at $80,000 - $106,000, depending on experience. "I'd have concerns about $80,000. That would infer we are looking for bargain basement, when we are not," said Feiten. Said Walker, "A savvy individual will look at our minimum, conditions in the district and get impressions from peers. I don't think a minimum will set a posture by itself. I'd rather go lower

Thomas suggested getting the consultant's opinion, but recommended going with $106,000. "Good people won't apply if we pay less. That's our consultant's experience," he said.

Board members said provisions of a contract, including its length three years maximum - will be determined in public at an

Pig in apartment: A Canton woman wants to keep her Vietnamese pig in her apartment.

It's her pet project: Giving pig a home

By Joanne Maliszewski Staff Writer

A Canton woman wants to know why cats and dogs are allowed as pets in some apartments but pet pigs aren't.

"The first thing people think is - barnyard. A big, dirty barnyard. And that's not true. These pigs are easier to train than a dog or cat," said the woman, who asked not to be identified for fear of eviction.

The woman and her family have a new Vietnamese potbellied pig, weighing in at a little more than four pounds and sporting a pinkish body and black hair. She's checked around at apartments, including her own, and the answer is no, she is not allowed to have a

But the woman wants to see that changed, especially when communities, such as Canton Township, view the non-farm pig as pets.

"Pot-bellied pigs have become fashionable lately," said Miles Davis, township inspector. "They are considered a domestic animal. I just don't see anything (in township ordinances) that would prohibit

That really doesn't matter to most apartment owners and managers. They don't want pigs in their apartments. "I don't have to let them in my building," said David Sparrow of Management Corp. of Michigan, as well as the vice president of the Apartment Association of Michigan.

By far, Sparrow said, cats are more prevalent and more accepted in apartments. While some apartments allow dogs, size restrictions apply. "Generally dogs are more difficult. They bark and there's no place for them to run," Sparrow said.

The Canton woman, however, sees her pet pig, named Curley QP Quincy, about 12 weeks old, as more similar to a cat than a dog. Consequently, she reasons, the pig should be acceptable in an apartment.

Like a cat, Curley uses kitty litter. Unlike many cats, she's affectionate and loves to be handled. "And she doesn't stink like a dog or cat. She doesn't chew," the woman said.

Curley eats food prepared specifically for pot-bellied pigs. She can eat fruits and vegetables, but no meat, salt or choc-

Like other domestic pets, pot-bellied pigs are given the necessary vaccinations, they have their hooves clipped and can be trained.

Pot-bellied pigs are generally short, reaching only about 15 inches at the shoulder, but they can weigh up to 50-60 pounds, said Elizabeth Duncan, a pot-bellied pig breeder in New Boston.

"They are very quiet. They are a lot easier to house train than a dog. And they don't jump up on a table like a dog.

Despite an administrative recommendation to delay its budget workshop, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will meet 8 a.m. to noon Saturday, Feb. 26, to discuss the 1994-95 budget, which could include up to $2 million in

Associate superintendent for business Ray Hoedel suggested that the board wait until after voters cast ballots next month. The March 15 special election will determine whether an increase in sales tax will fund

Hoedel recommended that the workshop be delayed until March 26, when more in-district budgetary information will be available and Lansing will have passed more enabling legislation on school finance.

School board president Roland Thomas said that if the board wants to allow time for public input, the workshop shouldn't be delayed. The superintendent search is going to require a large time commitment for the board in the upcoming months. "The only thing controlled by the people of Michigan will be the ballot proposal. The Legislature can continue to tinker with every part of that until October,' Thomas said.

The board agreed to discuss criteria for cuts rather than prioritize cuts at Saturday's session.

Hoedel said indications are that funding methods for vocational education and at-risk students will change. "Voc ed is going to be removed from the revenue picture, and at-risk students will be another problem for us,"

No longer will the district be able to place the $33 in state revenue for each at-risk student in the general fund. "They will tell us how to spend that money,' Hoedel said of the state.

Concerns were raised about prematurely alarming the public about proposed cuts.

Board member Susan Feiten said, "There's a very fine line between concern about creating anxiety and involving the public. I have concerns about doing this too early.'

Trustee Les Walker said that while sometimes the board intends things as pure discussion,

This is a process; nothing will be set in cement. We need to review the process earlier and involve the public more completely.'

Roland Thomas school board president

"unfortunately when we talk about them early in the process, it goes out as firm positions.

"This is a process; nothing will be set in cement," said Thomas. We need to review the process earlier and involve the public more completely.'

Superintendent John Hoben told the board "the straw dog you'll receive assumes we are opening two new elementary schools and maintaining the same staff ratios.

Hoben said he pursued a parent's suggestion to see whether Livonia Public Schools would consider leasing Lowell Middle School for a lesser amount.

The suggestion was raised after the board discussed the possibility of leaving Lowell, transferring students to the four existing middle schools, and closing Gallimore Elementary to save money.

Livonia responded that on an extended lease of five to seven years, Livonia would reduce the lease price by $25,000.

"We will have to address the funding issue for middle school over the next three to four years,' said Hoben. A bond issue "seems to be the best option we have at this point."

A more pressing concern, said Hoben, is capacity at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park. "Capacity is 4,200 and we have 4,400 students at the park" with enrollment projected to hit 4,800 in the next few years.

The budget workshop will be at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey in downtown Plymouth

Lauri Gaylord of Plymouth Township got to spend this past Christmas at home, but then it was off to London, England.

Gaylord, 17, is a senior at Plymouth Canton High School and co-captain of the varsity cheerleading squad. Her late December-early January trip to London was for a parade.

"I went to cheerleading camp this summer," said Gaylord, daughter of Joyce and Gary Gaylord. At the camp, held at the University of Michigan, she tried out for and made the all-star

"That meant I was to go to London, England, and represent the United States as a cheerleader in the Lord Mayor of Westminster's New Year's Day parade."

She left home Dec. 26 and returned on Jan. 2, traveling by herself. In addition to the 31/2-hour parade Jan. 1, Gaylord and the other cheerleaders had time to do some sightseeing and see a show, "Buddy," about the life of the late musician Buddy Holly. The parade, the highlight of the trip, included some 1,500 cheerleaders from throughout the U.S. Cheerleaders aren't customary at athletic events in the United Kingdom, and the American cheerleaders were a big hit with the many Britons who lined the parade route.

"It was a huge parade," said Gaylord. "It's like the biggest in all of Europe. We were on TV and in the paper. We were the hit of the parade.

"It was fun. We performed a dance; 22 times we had to do it. It was tiring." The parade route took the cheerleaders and others by Big Ben, Westminster Abbey and other London landmarks.

Graffiti found on garage door

Ethnic slurs were found painted on the garage door of a Plymouth Township man's home Monday, just after a stolen van crashed into the garage, causing $15,000 in damage, according to Plymouth Township police.

The incident happened on Aspen Drive. The homeowner, 30, told police he heard a loud bang at about 3:25 a.m. and found the van crashed into his garage.

Written on the door were "KKK," "nigger lover" and "bitch," according to the police Police Chief Carl Berry said the homeowner is white. Police are investigating a suspect who the victim claimed called him a "nigger lover" earlier. The van was stolen from where it had been parked on General Drive, police said. A truck and crash, along with the garage.

Berry said he was considering calling in the FBI to investigate the incident, as it could involve ethnic intimidation.

Assault charged

A man who pulled a knife on other men he was arguing with Monday was charged by police with felonious assault.

After midnight, the man came into the Shell service station on Ann Arbor Road just east of I-275 and got in an argument with the owner and another man, Plymouth Township police said.

The man left, then returned a short time later, pulled out a knife and told them "You're dead," police said.

The men called police, who arrested the suspect on foot in nearby Livonia, Plymouth Township snowblower were damaged in the County residency requirement sought

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

A Wayne County commissioner wants to force almost all the employees of the county government to live in Wayne County.

Currently, of 5,137 county employees (not including court employees), 439 live outside Wayne County.

Commissioner Bernard Parker, D-Detroit, has introduced an ordinance that says, "Each person who is hereafter hired to a position as an employee of the county of Wayne shall maintain their principal residency within Wayne County. The chief executive officer shall place the highest priority upon implementing this policy when bargaining with each (union) of Wayne County employ-

Furthermore, Parker's ordinance gives the commission and Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara an option to waive the residency requirement "in those cases where particular skills are required which are not possessed by a county resident."

The commission has scheduled a public hearing on the ordinance for its next meeting, 10 a.m. Thursday, March 3, at 600 Randolph in Detroit. Interested people may comment on the proposed ordinance at that time. Commissioners can adopt the ordinance after the public hearing.

Commissioner Thaddeus

McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, opposes the ordinance, but thinks it will be approved. "This is all just gut-level policy making at its worst," he

It would be nice if county emloyees all wanted to live in Wayne County, but they shouldn't be forced to do so, McCotter said.

Commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton Township, opposes the ordinance, too. "We need to have the freedom to get the best and brightest (employees)," he said. "From the taxpayers' perspective, you want to get the best, most qualified people you can."

Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, voted for the ordinance in committee.

Michelle Commissioner Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford Township and part of Livonia, opposes the ordinance. She fears that neighboring counties might also adopt residency require-ments, making it more difficult for Wayne County residents to Howard Rubenstein, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Local 101, said the union's position is that a residency requirement, if implemented, should apply to all employees.

'One of the things unions want to be about is fairness," he said. Other than that, the union doesn't support or oppose Par-ker's ordinance, Rubenstein said.

Parker could not be reached for comment. Homeowners object to SS number request

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Homeowners who object to giving the local assessor their Social Security numbers may have to prove by other means that they're eligible for the lower school property tax rate this year.

Citing fears of "Big Brother," some homeowners are refusing to give their Social Security numbers when they send city or township hall the affidavit entitling them to a six- or 12-mill tax rate on their domiciles.

Without some proof, they may have to pay 24 mills.

The Michigan Department of Treasury has the legal authority to use Social Security numbers for tax purposes," according to the state treasurer's Feb. 10 advi-

'Federal law prohibits the state or local governments from releasing a Social Security number to unauthorized persons. Local governments may not use Social Security numbers for any purpose other than to administer the Treasury's answer: "The Department of Treasury may ask for further verification of your homestead exemption claim." It does not say what "further verifica-tion" might be.

All property will be taxed at 24 mills for school operations except your principal homestead. If Proposal A, a constitutional amendment, is approved March 15 by voters, the rate will be six mills; if it's rejected, 12 mills.

Deputy treasurer Madhu Anderson said the state requests the number to "preclude any person from having or claiming more than one principal residence at any time.

Readers' questions on Prop A answered

Most of your dozens of ques-tions on Proposal A continue to be about the homestead exemption affidavit — the simple form you must sign to make your home eligible for the 6- or 12-mill property tax instead of 24 mills.

Salem High School senior channels his talents into 'Jeopardy'

E.J. Sieracki is bringing some TV fame to Canton Township.

If you were tuned in to WDIV-TV at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday or last Friday, you saw the Plymouth Salem High School senior in "Jeopardy Teen Tournament," filmed recently in NBC's Burbank, Calif., studios.

Sieracki, who competes on his high school Quiz Bowl team, survived the quarterfinals and made it to the semifinals, which were shown Tuesday on Channel 4. Sieracki, who placed second among contestants Tuesday evening, was eliminated as a finalist.

Sieracki and several of his fellow Quiz Bowl team members filled out postcards and sent them into the game show, hoping to be chosen for consideration as a contestant.

"Some of them sent in 10 to 50 postcards, and none of them got picked," said Sieracki. He sent in a single postcard. "Karma is karma," he said.

Sieracki and a handful of high school sophomores, juniors and seniors from New York, California, Iowa, Missouri, Connecticut, Georgia, Florida and Kentucky qualified at tryouts last fall.

Of the group of 175 in preliminary competition, just Sieracki and one other teen passed the written test and received a ticket to Hollywood.

Friendly folks

"Everyone there was really nice," said Sieracki, who's also participated in the Science Olympiad and the Social Studies Olympiad at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

Alex Trebek (Jeopardy's host) is really intelligent," said Sieracki, who was accompanied to California by his parents, Ed and Rosemary. "He's loose with everyone and relaxes people. Just by his nature, he makes everyone feel welcome.

Sieracki enjoyed the contestants as well. "A big part of it was their personality. Everyone there was open and very friendly."
Sieracki and his fellow contestants fielded questions on non-fiction; anagrams; Euro Disney; state flags; transportation; and dogs. "The questions weren't that hard, but the pressure was. The TV cameras got to me at first. At the beginning of each show, the pressure got to me a lot and I couldn't concentrate. Consequently, I missed the first two questions. After a minute or two, it was easier."

Sieracki and several of his fellow Quiz Bowl team members filled out postcards and sent them into the game show, hoping to be chosen for consideration as a contestant. 'Some of them sent in 10 to 50 postcards, and none of them got picked,' said Sieracki. He sent in a single postcard. 'Karma is karma,' he said.

The answer to one of the first questions Sieracki fielded was Experts now say it was traveling too fast for the ice in 1912 when it had its first accident.'

"As soon as I said the automobile, I cringed; it was bad. The answer was the Titanic." Sieracki correctly answered a Euro Disney question about a ride called "Le Monde Est Petit." "I'm taking French, so I knew it was 'It's a Small World,' "he said.

Sieracki said Quiz Bowl questions actually are tougher. "They're extremely more difficult; the questions get a lot more in-depth," said Sieracki, who coaches the junior varsity Quiz Bowl team.

Sieracki celebrated Friday with a small gathering at his home. He walked away from competition with cash and gifts including "Hooked on Phonics," hair care products, throat lozenges and a copy of the "Jeopardy" home

'Final Jeopardy'

Sieracki correctly answered Tuesday's "Final Jeopardy" question about poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Earlier during Tuesday's show, he did particularly well in the "Star Trek: Deep Space Nine" category.

On Tuesday, he also shared with the TV audience a story of falling down the Lincoln Memorial steps in Washington, D.C., during a school trip. Sieracki was on crutches at the time and, fortunately, didn't suffer further injury. On Friday, he amused the audience with his imitation of

Ross Perot playing "Jeopardy." Salem history teacher and Quiz Bowl coach William Beaman encouraged Sieracki to compete, even accompanying him to the travel agency to buy his ticket to Omaha, Neb., for the preliminaries. "I really had no doubts, once he sent the card in and was accepted as an interviewee, that he would be accepted for the TV program. I knew he had the knowledge, and he has a great personality," said Beaman, who taught Sieracki in an advanced placement history class. "I was pleased, but not really surprised, to tell you the truth (that Sieracki did well)," he said.

"He's a delight to work with and one of the finest young people I've ever worked with."

Sieracki was grateful for Beaman's support. "I can't stress enough how much he helped me and encouraged me to go," said Sieracki, who's also competed in Sieracki, who plans to become a physical therapist, said his family made a mini-vacation out of their trip to Hollywood. They toured the West Coast, stopping at the Hearst Castle and the Mount Palomar Observatory, and visiting relatives.

Sieracki plans to go back.

Group honors career woman

Ina N. Otto of Livonia has been named 1994 Young Careerist by the Suburban West Business and Professional Women of Livonia.

Competition was held during the Suburban West BPW's monthly meeting Feb. 7 at the Holiday Inn at Laurel Park.

Otto is a corporate attorney employed by Olde Discount Corp. She will represent the Suburban West BPW at the district competition April 9 at the Embassy Suites Hotel in Southfield. Candidates were judged in four phases of competition: written biographical information, judges' interviews, group interaction, and prepared speeches on the topic of The Most Influential Person in Your Life.

She earned her law degree from Cooley Law School in Lansing. Otto also holds a master of business administration degree in management from Wayne State University and a bachelor of arts degree in business administration/marketing from Michigan State University. Otto is a graduate of Livonia Stephenson High.

The other candidate who participated in the Young Careerist program was Margaret Goff of Novi, an account manager for Dynamic People. Judges were: Nancy Browning, the principal at Bentley Center; James Preble, instructor at Detroit College of Business; and Susan Rosiek, managing editor of the Observer Newspapers.

The Young Careerist Program is sponsored by Business and Professional Women/USA to highlight the achievements of women and men between the ages of 21 and 35 who have been employed for at least one year full time in their career area, and support the goals and objectives of

Q. I rent a room to a boarder. May I still claim an exemption? A. Yes, but only the portion of your home you live in, not on the portion you rent out. On the affidavit, find section 3, and enter the percentage of your home that you occupy and explain with a note on Q. My home and an additional lot are on the same deed and mortgage. But the lot has a separate PIN (property identi-fication number) on the tax bill. Can the vacant lot qualify for an exemption?

A. Yes, you may claim an ex-emption for the lot if it's adjacent and contiguous to your home, according to Treasury. If it's across the road, the lot is still contigu-

Q. Is the state really going to change the March 1 deadline for filing for the lower homestead tax rate?

A. A Senate bill is being prepared to extend the deadline to May 1. A lawmaker tells us: "May 1 is the consensus date." Nothing's certain, but this Lansing watcher would bet yes.

Q. I am having a new home built in 1994 which I will be moving into later in 1994. May I file an affidavit on my new A. That continues to bother

Q. Your paper is offering a fax-mail service to homeowners who didn't get a homestead affidavit from their local assessor. People should know they can get these free from the assessor's office.

A. Only the owner-occupant may file for the exemption.

Q. My home in Bloomfield Township has been for sale for a year. I live in my second home. My CPA tells me not to change my voting address in order to qualify for a federal capital gains tax break.

A. This reporter is neither a CPA nor an attorney and isn't licensed to give such detailed advice. Treasury's answer is short and sweet: "You must claim the exemption for the home you occupy as your principal residence." Treasury does not check your affidavit against your voter registration. It checks only to make sure you're claiming only a single homestead.

"Because some taxpayers may inadvertently make errors on their affidavits or improperly claim more than one homestead exemption, we ask for a Social Security number to verify that the property is properly claimed," she said, citing three sections of the Social Security Act.

Here's how it works: If a local unit raises a question about whether you are seeking more than one exemption, Treasury uses your Social Security number to run a computer check to see if you've filed more than once.

County road officials expect nasty potholes this spring

Wayne County roads officials have seen the future of road conditions around here - and it isn't

Last week county road workers discovered that this winter's frost has penetrated four feet into the ground beneath paved roads, and three feet beneath unpaved roads deeper than in recent years.

That means there's more water than usual trapped under the roads. The simple translation is this: Paved roads may be rougher this spring and gravel roads im-

So county road crews are already beginning preparations for the "big thaw," which may have already begun. "We are making sure that all of our yard locations are stocked to the ceiling with large-stone gravel for the unpaved roads and cold patch for the potholes," Wayne County director of roads Robert Mahoney reported in a press release. The way it works is this: Thawing frost near the surface, unable to drain through the frozen ground below, mixes with soil to form a soft mud unable to support the weight of pavement and vehicles. This causes areas of the road to collapse and potholes to form.

On gravel roads the three feet of frost-bearing ground can become three feet of slick mud, as was experienced across much of the eastern United States last spring.

The only way motorists can avoid a bad spring is if the tem-peratures rise gradually, allowing moisture to be released slowly, and if there are no significant spring rains. But if the thaw is really fast, large-stone gravel will be dumped by the truckload on unpaved roads, which will later be graded, or scraped to smooth out

"If things get really bad," Mahoney said, "we may be clos-ing unpaved roads."

Homestead form

Engler attempts to extend deadline

Homeowners are likely to see a May 1 deadline for filing a homestead exemption affidavit to get a major break on the school property taxes.

The state has taken two steps to push back the deadline from the original March 1:

Gov. John Engler issued an executive order extending the deadline two months effective if Proposal A is adopted by voters March 15. Engler said he lacked authority to push back the dead-line under the statutory plan that takes effect if Proposal A is rejected.

The state Senate Tuesday approved a bill to extend the deadline under the backup plan and sent it to the House, where passage may come as

The March 1 deadline has caused a great deal of confusion and anger — and I don't blame tax-payers for being upset," Engler said. "I've made it clear that I think our property owners should have more the to file, and I will sign a bill that extends the deadline."

Affidavit forms weren't mailed out until mid-February, giving vacationing homeowners too little time to file.

Meanwhile, freshman state Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, learned a major lesson of politics: There's no limit to what you can accomplish if you don't care who gets credit.

Whyman, a member of the House Taxation Committee, drafted the bill to extend the deadline, but it ran into problems in committee.

"I got a call from Posthumus (Sen. Dick Posthumus, GOP majority leader) asking if the Senate could use my blue back (original copy of the bill)," Whyman said. She consented. Senators then introduced her bill as their own and passed Officially the sponsor will be Sen. Gil DiNello, R-Eastpointe. Among 23 co-sponsors are area Republicans Michael Bouchard of Birmingham, Robert Geake of Northville, Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville and Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion.

The bill also allows a homeowner to reapply for an exemption every two years instead of annually. It requires the state treasurer to reimburse the taxpayer for overpayment if an affidavit is filed

The school finance reform package taxes principal homesteads at a lower rate, but homeowners must file an affidavit stating that a property is their principal residence. The affidavit must include the PIN (property identification number), co-owners' signatures and their Social Security

In an effort to speed the process of everything from road building to redevelopment of property, the Wayne County government is trying to take over many of the key oversight responsibilities of the state Department of Natural Resources.

"We have major problems with the DNR now, as I suspect everybody does," said deputy county executive Michael Duggan. "Ultimately, what we'd like to do is be free of the DNR bureaucracy."

Specifically, Duggan objects to the DNR's performance regarding permit applications, which must be submitted whenever building activity occurs near water or requires soil to be moved.

Some developers, Duggan said, have waited more than two years for the DNR to act on a permit application. Wayne County won't take as long, he said. "The answer may be no, but we promise them a prompt answer."

So far, thanks to a Clean Air Act bill passed in Lansing last year, Wayne County has the responsibility to administer air pollution laws that the DNR handles everywhere else in Michigan. All air pollution emission fees in Wayne County are now paid to the county instead of the DNR.

County officials hope to get authorization this year to add ground contamination and wetlands to its list of responsibilities.

The commission would be amending a re-organization plan that doesn't exist, Beard said.

Several other commissioners argued that a ballot proposal approved by voters in 1992 requiring the county executive to submit a re-organization plan to the commission every four years makes Beard's point moot.

PLYMOUTH

lymouth-Canton kindergarten registration for next year is set for March 7-11. Children must be 5 years old on or before Dec. 1 to enroll.

To register, parents or guardians should bring their child's birth certificate, social security number, proof of residency and record of immunization to the elementary school in the child's attendance area.

Questions can be answered by pupil accountant Ginnie Murdoch at 416-4842. Other resources include the Wayne County Health Department, 467-3319 and (for birth certificates), the Office of State Registrar and Center for Health Statistics, Michigan Department of Public Health, (517) 335-8655.

A "Kindergarten Round-up and Information Night" is set for 6-7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 3, at the Discovery Learning Center, 45678 Helm St. in Plymouth. For more information, call 455-5490.

Girl Scout week

lymouth Mayor Doug Miller has declared March 6-12 as Girl Scout Week, and commended the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council and its members "for their outstanding contributions to our community." The council serves girls in Livingston, Monroe, Washtenaw and western Wayne counties since 1958 and has a membership of more than 13,000 girls in more than 1,000 troops.

Women of Artistry

haron Dillenbeck of Plymouth is among a group of five women artists featured in an exhibition from 1-4 p.m. March 6 at the Livonia civic center library, 32777 Five Mile Road. Feeding hungry program's goal

The Food To Share program, in which Kroger stores team up with volunteers to provide food for the needy, is already under way in Livonia. A group of area clergy plan to bring the program to the Plymouth-Canton community this spring.

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

Good ideas tend not to stay in one place. That's certainly true of the Food To Share program, in which the Livonia Education Association teachers' union and Kroger have teamed up to help feed the hungry.

The Rev. Bryan Smith, pastor of Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton, read about that program and thought it would be well-suited to the Canton-Plymouth community. He contacted Nancy Spinelle, LEA board of directors member and community relations representative.

"It allows people to purchase perishable items," said Smith, a Canton resident, in describing the local effort, being organized by more than 20 local churches.

Work on the Plymouth-Canton program began late last year. "Geneva sees it obviously as part of our mission," Smith said. "It really ties in well to our mission statement."

In Livonia, shoppers at Kroger are able to spend a certain amount over their grocery bill, keeping their receipts for tax purposes. Kroger handles the accounting and, based on what was contributed the previous month, makes so much available the following month for needy families and individuals.

"Our program got going almost a year ago," said Spinelle, a Westland resident and kindergarten teacher at Tyler Elementary in Livonia. To date, some $5,000 in donations has been made available to needy customers at the two Kroger locations in Livonia.

In Canton-Plymouth, the Kroger stores on Sheldon north of Ford in Canton and at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon in Plymouth Township will be included. Clergy organizers and Kroger representatives hope to get the program going by April, Smith said.

Shoppers will begin making donations in April, and vouchers for the needy will be made available one month or more after that. "We had a similar program going out in California," said Smith, a California native. The article he saw about the Livonia program served as a reminder of the churches' mission to help those in need.

Geneva operates a food bank, as do some other area churches, but most aren't able to provide such perishable items as fresh produce, meat and dairy products, which require refrigeration. "It also helps to give a little more dignity to people," Smith said of the grocery store program, which gives needy people the opportunity to make their own choices.

Local churches will contribute $1,000 to the Plymouth-Canton effort, to get it going. The local Salvation Army will serve as a clearinghouse in the Canton-Plymouth community, making sure help goes only to those who need it.

Several Livonia churches - Holy Cross Lutheran, Ward Presbyterian and St. Edith's - provide such a service in that community, Spinelle said.

"People are very good about coming in on an as-needed basis," she added.

Such a program helps to avoid "double-dipping," in which dishonest recipients take advantage of generosity, said Bill Roberts, director of social services for the Plymouth-Canton Salvation Army. "This'll help out a lot of the churches that don't have the resources we have," added Roberts, a Detroit resident.

Participating churches will distribute certificates for contributions in worship bulletins. A letter on the program just went out to local clergy, Roberts said.

The Salvation Army also operates a food bank, and demands are considerable, which means donations of non-perishable food items are much-appreciated. Donations pour in for Thanksgiving and Christmas, he said, but help is needed throughout the year.

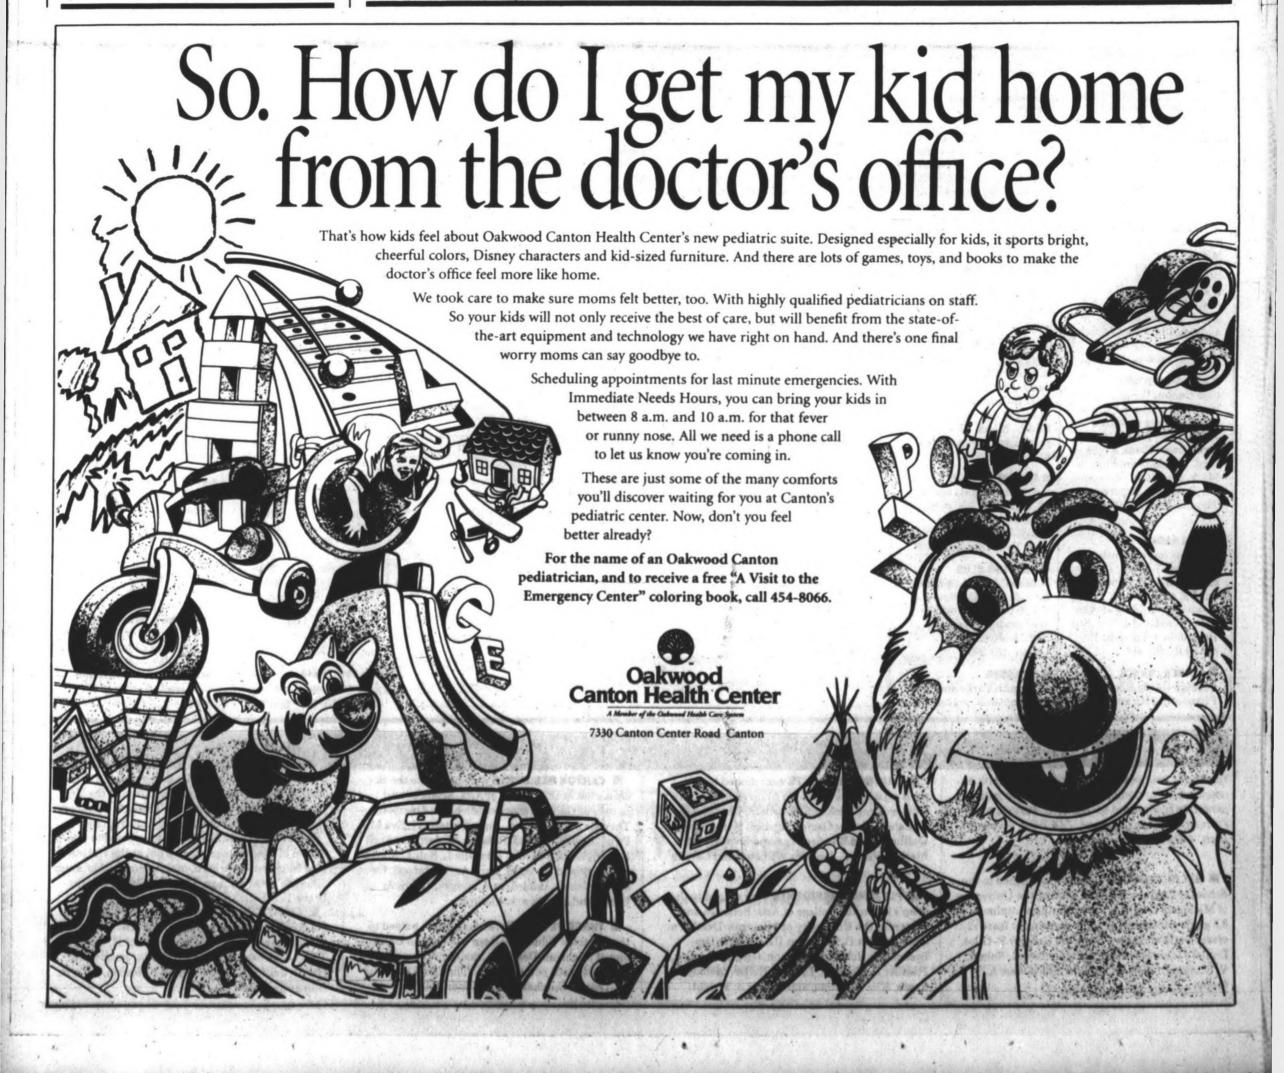

"Then we have to keep it going through the whole year. Usually the fall is when most of the need arises." The help of other churches with Food To Share will allow the Salvation Army to work within its budget, Roberts said.

"Right now, we're still working out all the bugs," Roberts said.

Smith, Lt. Jeffrey Beachum of the Salvation Army and other clergy representatives hope to be able to speak to local service clubs about the program, which benefits the working poor of the Plymouth-Canton community, "to better meet the needs of people who don't have enough food to feed themselves and The Kroger stores on Sheldon north of Ford in Canton and at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon in Plymouth Township will be included.

their families adequately," Smith said. Cigarettes and alcohol can't be purchased with the vouchers at any of the area Kroger stores.

Program planned for teens, parents

The Plymouth-Canton Educational Park counseling department will present "Preparing to Live and Work in the 21st Century," a program for high school juniors and their parents, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 16, at Canton High School.

The program is sponsored by the PCEP counseling department in conjunction with Eastern Michigan University, Schoolcraft College, the University of Michigan and local employers.

"The junior year is when most students become motivated to start planning for post-secondary opportunities," workshop continues to grow each year. Last year, more than 500 students and parents participated and we expect even more this year."

The program will begin in the Canton High School cafeteria with introductions and an explanation of the timeline of events which take place for students now through their senior year. The program offers information to help students plan their senior year and to begin planning their futures, according to Salem High School counselor Jan Kavul-

The program is free and open to all juniors and their parents. For more information,

Musical sounds to abound at show

The "Pirates of the Barbershop Coast" will invade the area March 4-5 when the Renaissance Chorus of the Wayne Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) puts on a show.

The chapter's annual show will begin 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 4-5, in Our Lady of Mercy High, on Middlebelt north of 11 Mile in Farmington Hills.

The 40-man chorus, directed by Captain Matt Coombs, will explore the vast seas during their voyages of adventure and piracy.

Among the songs their crew will sing to entertain their "hostages" will be "Safe Harbor," "The Pirate's Life," and "Slippery Sal."
Two quartets will be featured at the show - "The Cascade Convention" and "The Patch

"The Cascade Convention" features a lead and a bass from Oregon and a tenor and a baritone from Wisconsin. The quartet has been district champion and has competed twice in international competitions.

"The Patch Chords" from Lansing entertain audiences of all ages with a fast-paced show pack-age that includes rib-tickling antics mixed with show tunes, upbeat contemporary numbers, and nostalgic favorites.

Tickets are $10 for either per-formance. Persons 62 and older or full-time students may buy tickets for $7 each. Tickets may be ordered by calling John Lynn of Redford at 937-1322.

Timing train: A Plymouth police officer waits for a train. The city tickets CSX for blocking crossings for more than five minutes, however, a new state law increases that time to seven minutes. City officials are weighing fighting the new law.

Railroad crossings

City should drop fight

he city of Plymouth should drop its battle against the CSX railroad over the length of time train crossings can be

A new state law extends by two minutes the length of time a railroad crossing can be blocked, from five minutes to seven.

Plymouth, using a local ordinance, is looking at continuing to ticket CSX for violating the five-minute limit. If the city does, a legal battle with CSX is expected. Such a battle isn't worth

The new state law is a good one. Railroads operate under many more regulations than the trucking industry. Railroads build and maintain roadbeds while the trucking industry uses roads built with public money and then competes with railroads.

Granting the railroads two more minutes eases the restrictions. Also, the new law puts money into a fund to pay for improvements to rail crossings. Such improvements will allow trains to move faster.

The city is trying to block those changes because of money. Railroads regularly block crossings for up to 10 minutes and find it cheaper to pay fines than make up smaller trains.

Writing tickets to CSX has been a gravy boat for the city, which has used the fine money for its general coffers. Under the new law, that money will go to make needed repairs.

That makes sense. Making improvements to crossings helps speed up trains and cut down on traffic delays. The new law addresses the real problem, track conditions.

And of course, the city of Plymouth doesn't like it because a revenue source has dried up.

The entire Plymouth community owes much to the railroads for its development and character. It's time for the community to learn how to live with the railroads.

Trading lawsuits with CSX and ignoring the new state law do nothing but harm the residents. Money should be spent on improving crossings not on court suits.

Marketing ploy a useful tool hen someone advises you to "call New York," it's usually a sarcastic inference that you're incapable of handling things yourself.

Well, some Oakland County folks did call New York — actually The Wall Street Journal recently. But, in so doing, they lead us to believe that they're handling things just fine. Oakland County will be the subject of a 12page advertising supplement in the Journal. Stories and pictures will tell and show how good it is to live and do business in Oakland County.

The supplement makes Oakland County look good. A similar effort could do the same for Wayne County, we believe.

Oakland County is the fifth wealthiest in United States, according to one estimate, and is certainly "the epicenter of business in Michigan" in the words of Ken Rogers, the economic development director for county government who helped secure the deal with the Journal.

The supplement will appear tomorrow, Friday, Feb. 25, in Wall Street Journals that are sold in 15 Midwestern states.

If Rogers and Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson are smiling over this deal, it could be because all the positive publicity about their turf apparently didn't cost the county one single tax dollar.

The Wall Street Journal wrote the stories, took the photographs and sold the advertisements that appear in the supplement.

That's fine with us. Oakland County is blowing its horn on somebody else's battery juice. But the important thing is that the horn gets tooted and the county's story gets told to some very important Midwestern readers who are eoncerned with business.

And, if it works in Oakland County, why not try it in Wayne County, too? After all, western Wayne County is certainly no slouch when it comes to providing good places to work and do business.

When Ed McNamara was mayor of Livonia, we remember, the city administration engaged in a lot of one-on-one promotion, advertising and recruiting.

Such efforts haven't been very noticeable for a long while south of Eight Mile and west of Telegraph. It's time to revive them, and something like this Wall Street Journal supplement would be a good way to do it.

"We think it (the Journal supplement) is an opportunity for everyone to explore," said Oakland County's Rogers.

Rogers said he thinks the Oakland supplement will recur next year and the year after and

"It's a demonstration of government not settling for the status quo," he said. "We need to find new ways to talk to the people we want to do business with. We're trying to do new things, getting off with the old and on with the new."

Back on track

'm writing in response to the letter submitted by Holly Coppiellie regarding the nonresident fees charged for the roller skating class she signed up for through the City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department. First, let me state why we charge a non-resident fee for all our classes. The majority of our participants are non-city of Plymouth residents and do not pay taxes to the city to help support the recreation department.

However, after talking to Coppiellie I realized that for these particular skating classes the non-resident fee of $8 was not appropriate. The recreation department gets a percentage from the Skatin' Station for signing up participants. The classes are not held in any city facility and we are not paying the instructors as is the case with all our other classes. These roller skating classes are the only classes we offer that fall into this category.

In order to rectify the situation a voucher for $8 was sent to each non-city of Plymouth resident who signed up for the roller skating classes through the recreation department. This voucher will allow them an $8 savings on any future class they wish to sign up for.

I have talked to Coppiellie since her initial call, and again after her letter appeared in your paper. She is satisfied and happy with the result of this matter.

The city of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department must continue to charge non-resident fees for the reason stated above. However, we will not charge a non-resident fee for future roller skating classes run completely by the Skatin' Station or any other class that is completely run by an outside agency.

I appreciated Coppiellie's phone call. I am always willing to talk to any participant of our programs in regard to problems or concerns.

Job talk becomes a political constant et a job" is more than just a pop-ular song by the Silhouettes from the late 1950s. It's the politically correct thing to talk about. "Jobs, jobs, jobs," Jim Blanchard would sing out back when he was gov-

His replacement, John Engler, crooned in his state of the state address this year that not only were good paying jobs important, but unemployment was lower than the national average for the first time in 23 years. Wednesday, U.S. Rep. Bob Carr added his voice to the chorus by declaring himself a candidate for the U.S. Senate, saying the issue was to grow the economy in order to promote - you guessed it - jobs.

Making it a quartet is the Detroit job summit now in the planning stages.

But it seems that always has been a tune for the times. Those of us attending the University of Detroit back in the '60s studied medicine or marriage, as sometimes still happened at that time. But basically we were there to get jobs, and when the university president declared that we were an urban school with a mission to the community and to ourselves personally, we figured he was just tooting his horn.

I switched to journalism while in col-lege and found not only a way to earn a living but a way of living.

However, my college career hit a high note while on the job as an editor with the Varsity News at U-D. It's about this time each year that I remember when in 1968 Martin Luther King Jr. came to speak at the original Grosse Pointe High School.

My job that cold night, as we crossed the picket line of right-winger Donald Lobsinger, was to photograph King as he spoke before a packed auditorium. A writer by training, it would be the first time my photos would be published.

I did my job and got the pictures, but I often wonder how much richer I would have been had I been able to listen to his words.

Smith, a Bloomfield Hills resident and former chairman of General Motors who spoke to our Observer & Eccentric editors group: If you don't like the job you're doing, switch.

Some years after college graduation, I met one of the editors I had worked with on the Varsity News during the great Detroit daily newspaper strike the year that King died. While daily reporters walked the streets that year, we published a special edition. I met that former editor at a suburban art show. He said that he now traveled the coun-

That's why I'm concerned about a political refrain that is fast becoming public policy - whether we like it or not. There are spin doctors out there who tout training high school students

While it's one thing to provide them with work skills, it's quite another thing to train them for one specific job. High school students may still be exploring their interests, and the job market is in a continual state of flux, now that high school grads are no longer guaranteed slots in the auto indus-

Jordan, the most celebrated athlete to ever arch a jump shot, is trying out for the Chicago White Sox. I say more power to him.

There's been a fair amount of grousing, from fans, sports commentators and some of his would-be teammates about the appropriateness of all this. "He's not a real baseball player," they moan. They're right, of course. Even though he can run faster and leap higher than almost all the other men in the White Sox training camp, even though his physical stamina and competitive instincts would leave them in the dust,

Michael Jordan hasn't spent most of his adult life as a professional baseball

He's only dreamed of being one. In that aspect, he, I and several generations of American men are brothers under the skin.

Baseball was the first sport I wanted to play - ballplayer the first job I wanted to hold - and there are at least a dozen 30-, 40- and 50-something guys in my workplace, and yours, who can make that same claim.

My own baseball dreams died early. Even as a 12-year-old, I realized that my beloved New York Mets had no room for a player who ran as if his legs were sinking in sand and who fielded batted balls warily as if they were hand

But my few heroic moments - those fly balls that cleared backyard fences, those curveballs that sent other batters down to defeat with a frustrated whoosh — still burn brightly.

Few kids today share such moments. Today, they play basketball, or soccer, or Nintendo

Today, baseball is a troubled sport. Maybe even a dying one. If Jordan's presence on the ballfield ignites the interest of young American boys and girls, that would be great.

For me, it's providing a good, solid, vicarious thrill. It's better than any imagined trip down an Olympic luge run; much better than living out the rest of my life as Donald Trump. Or Bruce. Springsteen.

Just think of this. Michael Jordan, a basketball megastar recognizable from Chicago to Calcutta, left it all behind for an infinitesimal chance to be the last man on the Chicago White Sox bench.

Or is it all a stunt? I don't know. I do know that if the Mets, the Tigers or the Toledo Mud Hens called, and if they invited me down to spring training, and if they let me get even one time at bat, I'd dig right in, swinging with all the strength I could muster; simultaneously praying to dear God the ball wouldn't plunk me smack in the head.

If I struck out - when I struck out - and if they asked me right there to hand back my bat, my shiny batting helmet and my uniform with the big numbers of the back, I'd not only do it but I'd also walk over to shake the hand of the man who asked me down there in the first place. I'd go home a winner, as proud of my one strikeout as Babe Ruth was of any of his 714 home

That's the appeal of this ancient, pastoral game.

Maybe you understand. Maybe you don't.

But I believe Michael Jordan under-

State coffers are losing bet on funding through wagers ambling may be going the way of smok-

Both horse race wagering and the State Lottery are losing customers and yielding shrinking revenue for state and local govern-

Why? You hear lots of reasons: the economy, competition from other states' lotteries, simulcasting of races in Windsor. I would like to think people are getting smart.

talk taxes instead of preying on gamblers. Horse racing is regulated by the Michigan Department of Agriculture. In the old days, horses were considered a farm industry deserving of promotion, the way apples, cherries and beans are promoted today. Clearly, horse racing's heyday is past. Ladbroke DRC in Livonia set its attendance record Memorial Day 1952; Northville Downs, May 15, 1950; Hazel Park, Memorial Day 1965.

From the tax standpoint, Michigan's record horse racing year was $28.9 million in 1975. Since then, state taxes have slipped more or less steadily to the $21 million mark, accordingto the racing commissioner's annual report.

Michigan has been trying desperately to raise the take by expanding the racing season from 590 days in 1975 to more than 900 days currently - even as wagering and attendance have

It was silly, in my opinion, to expand racing dates because the horse supply is down -17,000 in 1991 compared to 19,000 in 1984, according to the Senate Fiscal Agency.

Fewer horses and more races mean poorer quality. A decade ago, I went to Northville Downs on a Wednesday night. The first five or six races were "maidens" - horses who never had won a race. Handicapping (rating) horses of such poor quality is impossible — like predicting the weather without satellite maps or looking out the window at the sky. Any bet is a sucker bet. I haven't been back. Obviously, other ex-fans agree

The Michigan Lottery is having a similar experience. A decade ago, ticket sales were less than $600 million a year. They topped in 1988 and have been slipping since then.

Lottery Commissioner Jerry Crandall notes that Michigan pays out only 45 cents of each $1 bet. State taxes eat the lion's share. The retailer gets a fee.

Clearly, lottery players are making a wager with poor payoff odds.

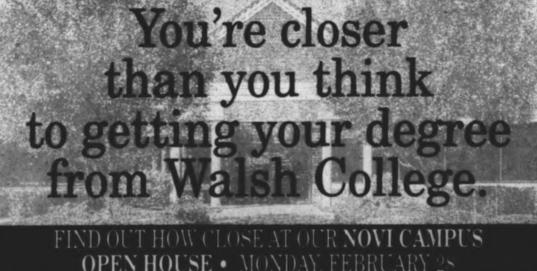

Crandall thinks taxes should be cut. He thinks legislators biundered when they exempted lottery winners from the Freedom of Information Act. Newspapers used to give the lottery a lot of free publicity when they published feature stories on local winners. No more.

Crandall also thinks lottery fans become distrustful when Lansing doesn't (can't) tell them winners' names. Folks suspect bureaucrats are hiding the money.

Some lottery players believe fervently that certain numbers have "luck," as if luck were a measurable quality like radiation or calories. That's raw superstition, unscientific and antireligious. The chances that any digit will come up are always one in 10. Ask your pastor. Ask your kid's math teacher.

If gambling casinos ever come to Michigan, I bet they go broke.

Canton man faces break-in charge

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Three young men wanted to steal weapons when they broke into a house in the 35200 block of June, near Wayne Road and Palmer, a prosecutor said.

The allegation — voiced by Wayne County assistant prosecutor Maria Petito - came last Thursday as defense attornevs tried to convince a judge to reduce bond for the defendants, including one Canton

"They were looking for guns," Petito told 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos.

Bokos refused to reduce bonds ranging from $10,000 to $25,000 for defendants Aaron Michael Thomas, 18, of Livonia, Ryan Donald Morrison, 18, of Canton Township and Jeffrey Brian Parsons, 20, of Auburn Hills.

Bokos, noting that the defendants fled from police and had to be captured on foot, said he feared the men would also flee the area and try to avoid being tried on breaking and entering charges.

Moreover, Bokos said the allegation that the three men were trying to steal guns is "a great concern to the court." The incident was reported at 9:45 a.m. Feb. 7.

Three men broke into the June house while they knew the homeowner was in court on another matter, Westland po-lice Sgt. Steve Ryskamp said.

But the homeowner returned home and caught them in the act, prompting the three suspects to flee the house and leave behind a Ford Bronco that they drove to the scene, Ryskamp said. The vehicle didn't belong to any of the sus-

Police arrived quickly on the scene and caught one suspect just three blocks away. The other two were later apprehended separately during foot chases that ended in Wayne, police said.

Thomas, Morrison and Parsons appeared in 18th District Court on Thursday for a preliminary hearing to determine if they should stand trial. All three volunteered to waive the hearing, in a move that automatically sent their cases to Detroit Recorder's Court for

All three could face up to 15 years in prison if convicted. Not guilty pleas had been entered for them in court, prior to Thursday's hearing.

Cancer Society plans Lock Up

The American Cancer Society's ninth Great American Lock Up will be Tuesday through Friday, March 1-4, at 14 sites throughout southeastern Michigan, including Laurel Park Place mall at Six Mile and Newburgh in Livonia.

This event, the largest of its kind in the nation, raised more than $700,000 last year. Organizers hope to raise $750,000 this

Funds raised during the Great American Lock Up are used to support the American Cancer Society's research, education, and service programs.

Last year, nearly 15,000 pa-tients and their families in southeastern Michigan received services from the American Cancer Society. And Michigan is home to some of the finest cancer research facilities in the nation, with studies being conducted at University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Michigan State University, and Henry Ford Hos-

Now serving his fifth consecu-tive year in this role, Wilson and the Pistons organization continue to provide broad support for the event. Other co-sponsors include AT&T, joining the event in an of-ficial capacity this year, and Wendy's, which will promote the Lock Up at area locations for the third year in a row.

During the Lock Up, anyone can have fun and help arrest cancer by sending a friend to jail to raise pledges for the American Cancer Society. Participating in the event is as easy as picking up the phone and scheduling an arrest. Here's how it works:

fee of $25, anyone 18 or older may schedule an arrest by calling 1-800-543-JAIL. Prisoners may include friends, family members, co-workers, bosses, or anyone deserving to be put behind bars. Arrests may be scheduled now to reserve prisoner jail space.

2. Officers will go to prisoners' work sites to make arrests in clear view of co-workers.

3. Prisoners will then be transported to the nearest jail site and go before a volunteer judge in a mock courtroom to be charged, convicted, and sentenced to raise

4. Prisoners will raise their bail by phoning for pledges while in jail. Prisoners will don prison stripes and receive bread, water, or other refreshments while jailed.

Vital to the success of the Great.
American Lock Up is widespread, community support. Hundreds of volunteers from around the metropolitan Detroit area are scheduled to participate this year along with several hundred area businesses that will contribute donated goods and services throughout the four days of the event.

An unusual part of the Great American Lock Up is the "Most Wanted" program. Included among the "Most Wanteds" are prominent business people and professionals from Oakland. Wayne, and Macomb counties who have pledged to raise an impressive $2,500 each.

Current statistics indicate that one out of every four families is affected by cancer. The "Most Wanteds" have made a personal commitment to seeing cancereradicated in their lifetime.

Defendant's sentence reduced in appeal

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER

A man who pleaded guilty in a robbery that left a Livonia motel manager paralyzed had his prison sentence cut in half Friday.

Roby Davis, 25, was resentenced by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Bruce Morrow to 14-30 years in prison for the December 1991 incident at the Comfort Inn, east of Middlebelt at I-96 in Livonia.

Davis' original sentence of 45-70 years was vacated by the Michigan Court of Appeals. The appeals court ruling called the sentence handed down by Judge George Best in July 1992 "too lengthy, too far outside sentencing guidelines."

A second defendant, James Arthur Hayes, is serving 35-70 years after being found guilty at trial on two of three charge stemming from the incident.

Thomas Hoatlin Jr., then of Redford Township, remains paralyzed from the chest down after being shot at point-blank range with a .44-caliber revolver during the robbery. No one was convicted of the shooting.

Hoatlin, 30, who attended the resentencing, couldn't be reached for comment this week.

Livonia Police detective Capt. Mike Murray said Hoatlin made an emotional plea for a tough sentence the second time around.

But Morrow, who inherited the case after Best-failed to win reelection, said guidelines wouldn't allow that because "excessive brutality" wasn't involved.

"There was no additional bodily injury since the initial act" during the robbery. Morrow said.

The judge delayed a ruling on whether Davis would serve the new sentence consecutively or concurrently with time being served for two armed robberies in Macomb County.

If served consecutively, he could spend as much as 361/2 years in prison. Concurrent sentences could mean parole in about 12 or 13 years.

Canton shocks 'nervous' Salem

In the minds of both coaches, there was no real doubt which team was better when Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton met in the final gymnastics dual meet of the season for both. But, as both teams and both coaches discovered, the best team doesn't always

By C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

Some things in sports are relatively predictable, particularly when the season is winding toward its finish, a time when athletes are performing at a peak level.

Like Northwestern residing at the bottom of the Big Ten standings in nearly every sport — it's expected.

Picking a winner in Monday's gymnastics meet between Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton wasn't nearly as clear cut, but considering Salem is the defending Class A champion and has posted the best team score in the state this season, it seemed safe to make them the oddson favorite.

Still, the outcome is always in the hands of the athletes. And Salem wasn't quite up to the challenge against Canton Monday, dropping a 136.4-135.6 decision.

The Chiefs concluded the dualmeet portion of their season with an 11-1 record - including 11 consecutive wins. They also beat Traverse City Saturday, 131.5-128.5, at Traverse City.

"They seemed nervous," said Canton coach John Cunningham of Salem. "I don't know why. Plymouth Salem has the better team, but what I've said all along is that the teams are very close. If they come in a girl short, we can beat them.'

Which, basically, is what happened. Rocks' coach Johanna Anderson was willing to shoulder some of the blame for the loss.

"They were so nervous," she said of her team. "But we didn't have our whole lineup in, so I take responsibility for the loss. I underestimated Canton's strength."

The Chiefs' strength, of course, starts with freshman Katey Gilles. The premier gymnast in the state, Gilles turned in another spectacular and solid - performance, bettering 9.0 in every event. She won the vault (9.3) and uneven parallel bars (9.35), and tied Salem's Melissa Hopson - another of the state's best for first in the floor exercise (9.45).

Gilles' 37.4 total — she was second in the balance beam (9.3) - was good for first in the all-around, once again. She has yet to be beaten in the allaround this season, in either dual or invitational competition.

Hopson, a senior, will give her a battle. The two teams will meet in every remaining competition: at today's Western Lakes Activities Association championship at Westland John Glenn, at the state regional at Canton March 5, and probably at the state final at Glenn March 11-12.

Hopson beat Gilles in the beam, scoring 9.5 to finish first, and tied her in the floor exercise. She was second in the bars (9.1).

Sarah Makins, who has been outstanding for the Rocks this season, struggled in this meet. Makins was third in the vault (8.55) and beam (8.4), tied teammates Kristen Kosik and Zoe Yockey for third in the bars (8.4) and tied Canton's Brie Wall for seventh in the floor exercise (8.4). Her 33.75 all-around was second.

Salem's Kosik was also second in the vault (9.05) and third in the floor (9.0). Yockey tied Canton's Angie Lamerato for fourth in the floor (8.8).

Canton's Adrienne Brenner and Wall tied for fourth in both the vault (8.35) and beam (8.35), and Lamerato

Well-balanced: Salem, in pursuit of its second straight state title, is led by several stellar gymnasts — including Melissa Hopson, one of the best in the state — but they weren't enough to best Canton Monday.

Salem's set to defend its WLAA crown

By C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

Call it a preview to the big event.

In truth, last Saturday's Michigan Swimming Coaches Association Invitational at Eastern Michigan University attracted tougher competition than what will appear over the next three days at Plymouth Salem in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship meet.

And that's not meant to belittle the WLAA - particularly considering this season's meet, which promises to produce one of the best and most talented fields in the league's 12-year history. But when the swimmers with the 40 best times in the state are invited to a meet, and quite a few attend, well . .

What do you expect?

There were some outstanding performances turned in, none better than Jeff Clark's. The Plymouth Canton senior won two events: the 50-yard (21.58) and the 100-yard (47.95) freestyle. He has the fastest 50 time in the state this year, and his time in the 100 is among the top three.

Not to be overlooked was Plymouth Salem's Fred Locke, who was second to Clark in both the 50 (22.02) and 100 (48.87). Both swimmers bettered the MHSAA state qualifying standards in each event - which was the object for those competing.

Livonia Stevenson's Jeff Buc-kler showed that the WLAA will have solid representation in the 50 at the Class A state meet the big event previously referred to — by finishing fourth with a state-qualifying 22.62.

Other state cuts were turned in by Canton's Mike Orris in the 200 (sixth in 1:46.98) and 500 (12th in 4:56.52) free; Livonia Franklin's Randy Cobb in the 100 breaststroke (third, 1:01.75); Stevenson's Falk Roading in the 100 breast (seventh, 1:02.48); and Livonia Churchill's Jon Carlson in the 200 free (seventh, 1:48.59). Salem's 200 medley relay team of John McLenaghan, Andy Dettling, Aaron Berlin and Locke (eighth, 1:43.01) and its 400 free team of Joe Ervin, Eric Seidelman, Dave Bracht and Locke (second, 3:20.67) also qualified.

So did Canton's foursome of Clark, Jason Stirling, Jason McMann and Orris in both the 200 free relay (third, 1:31.66) and the 400 free relay (sixth, 3:22.86).

In diving, Farmington Harrison's Mark Strohmaier (third, 388.35 points) and John Hovey (seventh, 367.45) performed ably; so, too, did Canton's Jason Fowler (ninth, 365.10) and Daryl Ballios (11th, 355.55).

So now several of the WLAA's top swimmers can concentrate on the task at hand - the league meet. Salem, the defending champ - indeed, the Rocks have won seven of 11 titles - is favored to repeat.

The reason is the same that

Daly double puts Shamrocks in final Madonna can't keep Redford Catholic Central senior center Joe Daly said he tries to avoid taking outside shots unless he's at the free throw line.

The 6-foot-6 Daly followed the game plan Wednesday, scoring a career-high 25 points to lead CC to a 61-40 win over Dearborn Divine Child in a Catholic League boys basketball semifinal playoff game at Schoolcraft College.

Daly made nine of 12 shots in the paint, 7 of 8 free throws and also led the Shamrocks with 11

With DC's tallest starter being a guard, 6-5 junior Dan Geoghegan, it figured there would be a Daly Double: double figures in points and rebounds for Daly. "All of the guys told me before the game they'd look to me be-cause of the mismatches," Daly said. "They didn't have a whole lot of height and we had to get the ball in the post.'

CC. 13-4 overall, advances to the Catholic League title game for the first time since winning the championship in 1989. The winner of tonight's Redford Bishop Borgess and Detroit St. Martin DePorres game will meet CC for the championship at 4 p.m. Sunday at the University of Detroit-

Mercy's Calihan Hall. For CC coach Bernie Holowicki, these Daly performances have become the norm.

"Joey is a nondescript player but he can shoot and has good touch around the basket,' Holowicki said. "We ran a couple things for Joey and luckily it panned out."

Another key to the victory was CC's defense against Geoghegan, one of the state's top juniors. Geoghegan led DC with 24 points but made only 7-22 shots from the

The Shamrocks led 43-30 after three quarters and scored the first 10 points of the fourth quarter to gain their biggest lead, 53-30.

CC guards Andy Kummer, Andy Slankster and Justin Hoener took turns guarding Geoghegan. The three finished with a combined 10 fouls, but the attention was worthwhile.

"He's one heck of a player,"
Holowicki said. "I told the team before the game we had to keep him in his limit and hold the rest of the team down."

"Every game, Dan is double teamed like that," DC coach Joe Charnley said. "They did a good job on him. Usually, the other guys look to score but today, they

CC made 23-53 shots from the floor (43 percent) and had a 39-32 rebounding advantage.

Junior forward Mike Ridley scored nine of his 10 before halftime and grabbed eight rebounds. Kummer had eight points and seven rebounds, Slankster had seven points and six rebounds and Anthony Hesano scored six.

Madonna finishes its season at 12-13. Brescia improves to 20-9 and advances to play rival Georgetown (Ky.) College Saturday at Georgetown. The two teams split during the season.

The Crusaders kept pace with Brescia throughout the first half and trailed by just one, 32-31, at the intermission. But Brescia was able to open the game up in the second half behind 6-foot senior swing person Jennifer Marcum, who led the winners with 32 points, connecting on 10-of-11 from the floor, both three-point tries and 10-of-11 free throws. Joyce Hensley added 10 points.

Madonna countered Marcum's assault with Jill Burt, the team's only senior, who scored 18.

The Lady Crusaders had a four-point halftime edge over Siena Heights Monday in Adrian and they maintained it throughout the second half to end their regular season with a record-evening 72-68 triumph.

Madonna took a 13-13 record into the regional playoffs at Brescia College in Owensboro, Ky., Wednesday. Siena Heights ends its season at 10-19.

"I thought we kept our poise very well," said Madonna coach Bill Potter, adding, "The refereeing was atrocious.'

Three Crusaders reached double figures in scoring: Mary Bieniewicz (from Farmington Hills Mercy) and Stephanie Crelley with 14 points apiece, and Rachel Emery with 11. Crelley also had seven rebounds, four assists and three Tracy Prybylski added nine points and four assists and Vikki Koenig had eight rebounds, five assists and two steals.

The Saints got 14 points from Melissa Foster and 10 from both Christa Halfield and Lisa Polanski.

Victory escaped Madonna last Saturday, however, but not by much.

And the opponent was no Aquinas College, slouch which edged the Crusaders 64-61 at Madonna, is ranked 20th in the NAIA. The win improved Aquinas' record to 19-8.

The Crusaders kept it close throughout, trailing 30-26 at the half. They had a shot at tying the game in the final seconds, too, but Prybylski's threepoint attempt bounced out.

Jill Burt closed out her homecourt career for Madonna by scoring 23 points. Koenig turned in another strong performance, netting 15 points, grabbing 11 rebounds and making four steals. Pryblski dished out six assists.

Aquinas got 21 points from Nikki Tuttle, 12 points and nine assists from Kim Zydbel and 11 points and five assists from Ronna Russell.

Madonna coach Bill Sharpe wouldn't disagree - but he wouldn't stop at defense and rebounding, either. "Everything comes off the defense," he conceded. "But if you shoot 38 percent (Madonna: 31-of-80 from the floor) you're going to lose.

"We dig holes for ourselves, and when we dig holes we don't get out.'

The hole the Crusaders dug against the Saints, who improved to 8-18, was 54-39 at the half. They never got closer than 12 in the second half.

Dan Dombrow's 15 points was best for Madonna. Mike Slone and Eric Furlotte each had 14. No one had more than five rebounds. Aquinas got 27 points and 16 rebounds from Steve Van Vliet, 25 points from Nate Niewiek and 14 points from Derek Donnelly.

On Saturday at Alpena CC, the Lady Ocelots took the lead with 12 minutes to play and never again surrendered it in besting the Lady 'Jacks 73-69. The win allowed SC to finish its regular Eastern Conference season at 6-8; Alpena ended up 2-12.

Angie Cerne, named to the conference all-star team, paced the Ocelots with 16 points. She finished the regular season by reaching double figures in every SC conference game; she averaged 15.8 per game, shooting an incredible 91 percent from the free throw line.

"She's kind of our anchor," said SC coach Jack Grenan. "We always know we'll get 15 to 20 points from her."

Cerne will represent the Eastern Conference at the MCCAA all-star game Saturday at Kalamazoo Valley CC.

Cindy Muha added 13 points, 11 coming in the second half, and Sockow - who scored 86 points for the victorious Hawks (20-6 in the last five regular-season games - netted 10. Julie Klos and Tricia Kazyaka scored eight apiece, and Alisa Wechter had four points and 11 rebounds.

Certainly, free throws decided the game. SC was 10-of-16 (65 percent) from the line; Alpena was 21-of-31 (69 percent). In the second half, the Lumberjacks were 16-of-24 to SC's 3-of-6.

The Ocelots' inside game, centered around Todd McNeil, wasn't as effective. McNeil, who leads the Eastern Conference in scoring, managed just 15 points and eight rebounds. "We missed a lot of shots from the 7-to-10 foot range," said Bogataj. Three-point shooting helped offset the inside misses: SC converted eight (a season-high) in 13 attempts. Mike Pichan led the Ocelots with 17 points. Dan Nunnery had nine and Dan Perttula eight.

Alpena got 18 points from Travis Smith, 14 from Omar Nicholson, 12 from both Andrew McClellan and Richard Jenkins, and 11 from Mono McDonald.

SC finishes its season at 8-18 overall, 2-14 in the conference. Alpena ends up at 7-19 overall, 3-13 in the conference.

After faltering down the stretch to a bigger Northville team last Friday, Plymouth Canton's basketball team rebounded Tuesday to bounce Livonia Franklin 68-59 in a make-up game Tuesday at Canton.

The victory finalized the seeding for the eight-team Western Lakes Activities Association tournament, which starts Friday. For Canton, the win clinched the No. 3 seed and a 7:30 p.m. home game against - Franklin.

It clinched something else for the Chiefs, too: a share of the Western Division title, with Northville. It's their fourthstraight crown.

Plymouth Salem, the No. 2 seed, will host North Farmington at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Westland John Glenn, which defeated Salem to earn the top seed, must travel to the Western Division

Canton coach Dave VanWagoner credited his upperclassmen with the Western title. "Our seniors have done a great job," he said. "That's an accomplishment they can look back and say they continued the tradition.'

Friday's rematch is not something VanWagoner relishes. "Franklin's a good basketball team. It'll be a tough game . . . it's hard to beat the same team twice in the same week.

"But our kids are focused. After they won the division, their goal was to play in the (WLAA) championship game. I think our guys are going to step in and go for goal No. 2. They weren't celebrating (after beating Franklin). They were rather subdued. They want to go on and make some noise in the (league) tournament."

A concerted effort helped Canton quiet Franklin Tuesday. Matt Paupore poured in 18 points, Ron Hunter had 17 and 11 rebounds, and Tadarius Rachal contributed 11 points. Tim Moritz snared 11 rebounds, and Ted Docks dished out seven assists.

Greg Maple and Mark Baluk had 14 points apiece for Franklin; Jason Maschke scored 12. Canton concludes its regular season at 11-6 overall, 8-3 in the WLAA. Franklin, also 11-6 overall, ended up 6-5 in the WLAA.

carried them to the championship last season: depth. "It's tough for teams to take advantage of us anywhere," said Sa-lem coach Chuck Olson, who guided the Rocks to their first unbeaten WLAA dual-meet season since 1987. "We're just tough all the way through."

Those expected to challenge are North Farmington and Farmington. North is led by Jon Kershaw in the sprint free, Karl Kozicki in just about anything, and Drew Sopha in the butterfly, breast and individual medley. Farmington has Don Boyer in the sprint free, Jon Reed in the distance free, fly and IM, Dan Belanger in the breast and IM, and Scott Brown in the backstroke.

Throw in standouts like Canton's Clark, Orris, Fowler and Ballios; Franklin's Cobb; Stevenson's Roading and Buckler; Harrison's Strohmaier and Hovey; and Churchill's Carlson; and it's easy to understand Olson's prediction: "I think our league will have someone in the top six at state meet in every event."

With swimmers like Locke, Dettling, Ervin, Seidelman, Bracht, Berlin, McLenaghan, Rodolfo Palma and a half-dozen others, and a diver like Woodie Thomas, it will be difficult to upset Salem. But as Olson said: "We can't afford any mistakes; that's for sure. We don't have any glaring holes in our lineup.

"It should be fun, but it won't be easy."

The swimming preliminaries start at 1 p.m. today. Diving prelims begin at 2:30 p.m. Friday. The finals will be at 2 p.m. Saturday.

possession of second place in the Metro Conference at 6-3. The 49ers are 13-8 overall and with five regular-season games and the Metro Conference Tournament remaining, have renewed hopes of earning a berth to the 64-team NCAA Tournament. Kummer made all seven of his free throw attempts to finish with nine points and seven rebounds. He also played strong defense, holding Louisville's star forward Dwayne Morton to 14 points on 6-15 shooting from the floor.

The 49ers lost the earlier meeting at Louisville, 76-55. A possi-point range (21-60). Kummer scored a career-high 17 points, including five triples, in a 60-58 win over Butler on Dec. 29 in the Cable Car Classic in Santa Clara, Calif. He had 14 points, five rebounds and three assists on Feb. 5 in a 76-71 win over Tulane.

Kummer's confidence has carried over to the free throw line, where he is shooting 78 percent

"Last year I played, but it was a pretty simple role: scrap and get garbage baskets," Kummer said. 'This year, I'm counted on for defense and to hit the open threes. If I have an open shot, I know I will make it. Whereas last year, if I made a shot it was like it kind of took a load off my shoulders, like Thank God, it went in.'

Kummer has been a can't miss in the classroom, carrying a 3.65 grade point average overall as a history major concentrating in secondary education.

He had a 3.75 GPA last semester and in December was the first-UNCC basketball player to ever be honored as the Metro Conference Student-Athlete of the Month.

He has been nominated for the GTE/Co-SIDA Academic All-America team, but in his own family has the distinction of being only the second smartest child behind brother Andy, a senior at CC who carries a 4.5 GPA.

"I'm catching up to him," Bobby joked. "My mom and dad get more excited about those (academic) awards. I go for the bas-ketball awards. The academic ones keep my mom and dad at peace.

UNCC coach Jeff Mullins said Kummer has adjusted well to his roles for the 49ers. On defense, they ask Kummer to prevent open shots. On offense, they ask him to find open shots, for himself and

"He's had his hands full a lot of nights (defensively) but we feel very comfortable and he does a good job," said Mullins, who played 10 years in the NBA for the Golden State Warriors. "We've asked him to play defense, rebound and make the open shot. We play him like a 'point forward.

"He is the spirit on the team. Everyone knows he gives it all he's got and he's also feisty enough, if a teammate isn't (giving 100 percent), he'll say something. He's also taken that intensity to the classroom, where he's great as well."

Lally seeks a turnaround

Brett Lally says his next fight, scheduled for Tuesday, March 15, in Boston, Mass., is "sort of like a do or die situation.

Lally, a Westland native who turned 31 last month, will meet 22-year-old Dana Rosenblatt in a 10-round super middleweight bout that will be shown live on USA Cable.

Rosenblatt, ranked 12th by the North American Boxing Federation in the middleweight division, is 18-0 with 15 knockouts. Lally, once ranked as high as No. 2 in the junior middleweight division by the World Boxing Council, has lost three of his last five fights.

Lally, 31-9 overall and currently ranked 16th by the WBC, fought twice in 1993. He lost to Vinny Pazienza on a six-round TKO last March and lost on a fourth-round TKO to Otis Grant in an NABF title fight in August.

Lally suggested a name change for his opponent, Rosenblatt, who was 10-years old when Lally became a professional.

"As my dad would say, his name is Dana 'Rosensplat' " said Lally, making fun of his opponent's name.

Lally, nicknamed the "Irish Hawk," said he's a natural for a BOXING fight scheduled two days before St. Patrick's Day in Boston.

Cast does a good job in 'Guys and Dolls' and closing numbers, the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "Guys and Dolls" gets off to a flying start and finishes up with a big bang. In between, though, it's an odd mishmash of ingredients that is sometimes delightful, sometimes disappointing. With music and lyrics by Frank Loesser, "Guys and Dolls" is, as you'll remember, a story about a zany group of Runyonesque card sharks, horse players, etc. who hang around the sidewalks of New York, and eventually meet up with a group (also zany) from a Salvation Army mission. Romance plays a large part, of course. After all, this is musical comedy.

Adam Carey is the suave Sky Masterson, who eventually wins the hand of the Salvation Army's Sister Sarah Brown (played here rather inconsistently by Lisa Brandow). Carey has a pleasant voice and a distinctly appealing way with a song. In the acting department, he does a good job, too (although one sometimes wishes his Sky were a bit more "shady" and a little less sweet).

The irrepressible Ivory Mckay plays Nicely-Nicely Johnson, one of the most lovable crooks you'll ever encounter. When McKay is onstage, his sense of fun is of epidemic proportions. His appearances seem to literally energize this cast and, consequently, the audience benefits, of course. His big number, "Sit Down, You're Rockin' The Boat," is a veritable showstopper.

Stephanie L. Hindmarsh as the frustrated songstress, Miss Adelaide, punches up this production too. A gifted comic who can really belt out a song, she's also cute as a button, even when she's wearing some pretty frowzy costumes.

Nathan Detroit, a character afflicted with probably the worst fear of matrimony in the history of musical theater, is played by John Jordan. Although Jordan is fun to watch, his portrayal of Nathan seems slightly off the mark. Isn't 'good old reliable Nathan" in fact about as slick and slippery as a sewer rat? Here, he just seems flustered and overwrought most of the time, which is kind of funny in itself, but is it Nathan Detroit?

Jeannette Sowman, as Sister Arvine Abernathy, has an especially nice moment with Loesser's fine creation, "More I Cannot Wish You." And Wendy Sielaff, along with

Nathan Detroit (John Jordan of Westland) and Miss Adelaide (Stephanie Hindmarsh of Canton) in a scene from "Guys and Dolls."

Brandon Gauvin, Amber Thrift, and Andrea Gauvin as Gen. Cartwright and her sidekicks, are always a riot. In general, the sizable supporting first-rate fun.

Much of the show's disappointment has simply to do with the exasperating acoustics at the Water Tower Theatre. The snappy dialogue — so much a part of the fun in "Guys and Dolls" - is often lost to the audience. Even more regrettable, many of Loesser's great lyrics are Also, though musical director and conductor Cheryl A. Bubar appears to try hard, her musicians often fail to do right by Loesser's splendid tunes. It's not that they bungle the music or miss cues or overpower the singers onstage. It's just that spark and verve needed to really deliver this great score glimmer only now and then. Consequently, this musical comedy, directed and choreographed by Sally Dubats, is left frequently with a very real struggle.

Now a freshman at Rice University's Shepherd School of Music in Houston, Texas, Bonamici studies piano performance with John Perry.

Bonamici has won numerous performance competitions locally and nationally including the 1991 Yamaha/Music Teachers National Association High School Piano Competition. He won the 1992 William Schuman Prize at the 40th International BMI Student Composer Competition for his piano quartet. Competing against 352 contestants up to age 26, Bonamici was awarded first prize for the score judged most outstanding.

American Dream. For the most part, director David Fox, captures the naturalness of the story that won wide acclaim in the 1930s as a masterpiece for the author, John Steinbeck.

"Of Mice and Men" is a symphathetic look at lonely, unfortunate souls who are unlikely to achieve their impossible dreams; given their inade-quacies and lack of opportunities offered by society.

Two characters dominate the story - George Milton and Lennie Small. George is a compassionate, street-smart sort of a man. Lennie is big, strong and simple-minded. There's not a mean bone in his body. But he has trouble remembering right from wrong.

better life, moving from place to place as farm laborers in California during the Depression. At one stop, Lennie (who likes to pet soft things like rabbits) becomes too rough as he strokes the hair of a woman. She begins screaming. He attempts to quiet her. Not realizing his strength, Lennie breaks her neck.

A posse takes off after him, intent on making Lennie pay for his misdeed. His friend, George, must make a decision. Should he put poor Lennie out of his misery rather than leave him to the shot guns and rope of a lynch mob? We won't reveal the dramatic ending for those who may see the show. Suffice to say, it will leave you with second thoughts on what's right and wrong.

Mark Flanders gives a splendid performance as Lennie. His childlike speech and mannerisms are consistent from beginning to end. There's nothing artificial to evoke undue sympathy.

Phillip Matora scores as the conflicted George, one moment filled with compassion for Lennie, the next exasperated at his incompetence.

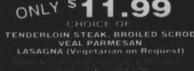

Remi Esordi is very good as Curly, the cocky son of the boss. You know right away that his meaness is going to cause trouble.

The big troublemaker is Curley's wife (a seductive little tart) played superbly by Wendy Shapero.

erything to drugs in "Sugar Hill" opening Feb. 25 at metro Detroit movie theaters.

Abandoned by their father, the Roemello (Wesley Snipes) and Raynathan (Michael Wright) battle their way to the top of their own crime empire. Roemello weary of the violence that surrounds him, and offered the promise of a better life with a new love, Melissa (Theresa Randle), has decided to walk away from this destructive world. The painful decision threatens to bring down not only the lucrative business he and his older brother Raynathan have built together, but the last vestiges of his family

"Sugar Hill" is talen from the legendary neighborhood that represented the aspirations and hopes of all Harlem.

'Part of the film is in black and white to show the golden age of Harlem," said Clarence Williams III who portrays Roemello's father A.R. "Sugar Hill was where all the entertainers and professionals lived. The decline of Harlem is a metaphor for this intense family drama. It's about how things can go radically wrong.

When the film begins, Raynathan and Roemello are boys. Williams and Randle agree "Sugar Hill" is a reality-based story which illustrates both sides of street life. It shows that the strong-willed do survive and that the streets take a toll on young victims. "Sugar Hill" is about the quicksand effect of the drug business - of trying to climb out of a hole to rise up to a certain level, and getting pulled back down.

change your set of circumstances, love conquers all," said Randle. 'Melissa is a strong, yet vulnerable woman. She's a woman who, in the midst of some tough circumstances, wants to strive for a better life.

Musical star Leslie Uggams makes a dramatic appearance in "Sugar Hill" as Melissa's embittered, yet over-protective mother. "We have a love/hate relationship," said Randle. "I think it's a must-see movie.'

The seeds of the story and screenplay of "Sugar Hill" were planted in the weeks following the opening of the film "New Jack City," also written by Barry Michael Cooper. Brought back to New York for the film's production and opening, Cooper, born and raised in Harlem, suddenly found himself besieged by other young black men he had grown up with who had since made their careers and fortunes in street life. Tense encounters developed between once-childhood friends whose lives had followed different director John G. Avildsen comes an unforgettable portrait of a true American hero. "8 Seconds, based on a real-life story, chronicles the turbulent world of championship bull-rider Lane Frost, played by Luke Perry, whose am-bitious and meteoric rise to fame was cut short by his rough-and-tumble lifestyle. The movie, opening Friday at local theaters, begins as Frost is Just a boy living on a small ranch in Oklahoma. The son of Elsie (Carrie Snodgress) and Clyde Frost (James Rebhorn), a former bareback champion, Lane inherits his father's passion to ride professionally and become a recognized champion.

When Lane is old enough to hit the circuit, he goes on the road with his closest friends, Tuff Hedeman (Stephen Baldwin) and Gody Lambert (Red Mitchell). He quickly distinguishes himself as a young master of the sport and suddenly his career takes off. But

From Academy Award-winning not before he falls in love with and marries Kellie Kyle (Cynthia Geary), a champion horse rider.

The perseverence and sacrifice he dedicates to his craft tests the boundaries of their marriage as the young couple struggles with the pressure and hardships that come with Lane's burgeoning fame. "8 Seconds" provides a vivid glance at the roughest and most dangerous of all sports professional bull riding. It's a grueling competition that requires staying on top of a 2,000 pound bull for eight while holding a mount with one hand. Equal parts skill, courage, luck and determination are required from those willing to risk all for the ultimate thrill.

Perry, best known for his part in the hit series "Beverly Hills 90210", studied the art of bull riding for the movie and even did

UPCOMING MOVIES

There's something for everyone at the movies. Here's a list of what's in the wings:

Opening Friday, Feb. 25: ■ "Body Snatchers" - A new telling of the classic science fiction tale of alien invasion. Stars Gabrielle Anwar, Meg Tilly, Terry Kinney and Forest Whitaker.

"You So Crazy" — A one man stand up comedy show starring Martin Lawrence, star of the hit Fox series "Martin. "8 Seconds" — Based on the true story of Lane Frost, a champion rodeo bull-rider and his meteoric rice to fame.

Opening Friday, March 4:

"With Honors" — The true story of Harvard University students who befriend a homeless

■ "The Chase" — A romantic comedyd about a falsely convicted bank robber who takes a beautiful heiress hostage and makes a run, for the Mexican border. Stars Charlie Sheen, Kristy Swanson, Henry Rollins, Josh Mostel and

"What's Eating Gilbert Grape" - The story of a young boy's plight in Iowa and the effect on him by the arrival of a mysterious teenage girl.

"China Moon" - A steamy thriller about seduction, blinding love and bloody murder. ■ "Angie" — A comedy about a funny irreverent and vulnerable unwed mother who shuns advice and sets out to discover her own way in the world.

■ "Greedy" — Comedy about a shameless bunch of money-hungry cousins who battle one another for the fortune of their manipulative uncle who (they hope) will die soon. Opening Friday, March 11:

"Guarding Tess" - Tess is the beloved former first lady who is running her secret service detail ragged. Tired of being at the mercy of her imperious will, one young agent squares off with her in a class of wits as unremitting as it is hilarious.

Firm makes loans available to individuals with troubled credit

There are many reasons why millions of Americans fall victim to credit problems every year. From maxing out credit cards to more sobering causes including loss of employment, family growth, medical emergencies and poor training in personal and household financial management.

Fortunately, there is now a local company making consolidation and new purchase loans available to people in these situations. We asked Bill Cunnington, Vice President of Security Home

Who is eligible for one of these loans?

We will work with individuals who have equity in their homes and have had debt problems of one type or another.

How does the loan work?

We take people who are living from paycheck to paycheck and consolidate all of their obligations into one lower payment. In fact, the average person will save from 30 to 40 percent a month with a consolidation of this type.

How can someone apply for one of these loans?

At Security, we pre-approve people over the phone at no charge. At that time, we also give the person an idea of how much money we can save them.

Call Bill Cunnigton at Security Home Loan (810) 669-4334 if you are interested in having a payment anaylsis done.

False spring fools nature

Animals, plants get caught short of food

ly starts in just a few weeks but last week our weather was spring-like. In combination with longer daylight periods some thought spring was here.

Animals and plants are aware of these changes too. The lengthening daylight period begins to stimulate changes in the body that initiate changes in behavior. Migration and courtship begin. But animals must wait for the right condition before mating begins.

Warm periods, like the one we experienced last week, may cause birds and plants to act like it's spring. Redwinged blackbirds may come north and establish nesting territories. Buds on trees may begin to swell.

Spring may be recognized as a period of regrowth, but it can be one of the hardest times for plants and animals. Warm conditions at about the right time can be premature. If a bird migrates north too early, it could encounter a severe storm that would put the animal in jeopardy.

Many migratory birds are insect eaters. Not many insects are available early in spring. They could get trapped here because of ice and snow and not be able to find food.

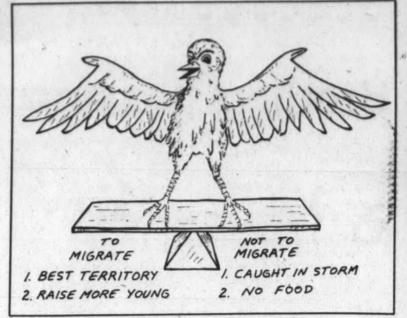

Trees may open their buds too early because of the warm weather and force flowering too early. If freezing temperatures occur during blooming, the flower dies and no fruit will form. Since fruits are what make more trees, the chance to replace dead or dying trees has been lost.

Food supply for winter residents also is at its lowest point. If there has been a hard winter and spring temperatures are late in arriving, there many not be enough food to last until new food supplies occur.

On the other hand, if a bird arrives early and can find food and a nesting territory, it may be able to raise more young than those birds who do not arrive early. If a tree blooms early and leaves come out early, because of the warm temperature, it will set seed early and have leaves to produce food for a longer period. Producing more food for storage will help the tree to survive during periods of is adapted for the average conditions of the area. They can tolerate some of the extremes, but sometimes they can get caught short. Getting caught short for some animals means death.

Tantrums: Some ways to stop them friend and associate of mine talked shop over a cup of coffee the other day. We were between meetings, so what did we talk about? Whining, teary eyes and temper tantrums, of course.

Although Helen is a child care consultant and teacher, she admitted her weakness in dealing with and handling her own daughter's temper tantrums. Helen's youngest child of three years apparently has been giving her the blues with her whining and wailing while stiffening her young body, making it hard to hold or move her. By the time we reached our respective cars, I had given Helen some written information that I had in one of my many file folders in the back seat. It apt offered tips on how to stop temper tantrums.

Many young children show their angry feelings by screaming, kicking, throwing themselves on the floor or banging their arms. These temper tantrums are no fun for parents or children. Here's how to help curb them:

(1) After making sure your child cannot hurt him- or herself, someone else or objects around him or or her, ignore the temper tantrum. Don't talk to your child during the tantrum.

(2) Walk away from your child, if you're having trouble ignoring the tantrum.
(3) If your child follows you, close yourself in a bedroom or bathroom until the tantrum ends. (4) When the tantrum is over, tell your child, "I like being with you when you are smiling (or sitting quietly or playing with your sister, etc.)" Say nothing about the tantrum.

(5) Don't give in to a tantrum. That is, do not give your child what he or she wants to make he or she stop screaming.

(6) If the tantrum is over something your child does not want to do, wait until the tantrum is over, then calmly but firmly say, "Now it is time to do . . . " Again, say nothing about the

With company

It is often difficult and embarrassing if your child has a temper tantrum when you have company or are visiting. At these times, it might seem easier to give in to your child. However, if you give in to tantrums only when company is present, you may teach your child that temper tantrums work when company is around. It is best to respond as consistently as possible to tantrums whenever they occur. When possible use the six steps listed earlier and alert your visitors to your plan. If you're unable to carry out this plan, you might try the following:

(1) If you or your guests are unable to ignore the tantrum, lead or carry your child to his or her room, saying, "Your behavior is not OK. You may come out when you're finished."

(2) If your child comes out of his or her room before the tantrum has stopped, lead him or her back to the room without saying anything. If your child leaves his or her room repeatedly and you are uncomfortable leaving your guests, try to ignore the tantrum as much as possible. When your company leaves, you can then lead your child back to his or her room.

(3) Once the tantrum is over, let your child leave his or her room, saying, "Would you like to join us?" or "I like the way you are behaving." Say nothing about the tantrum.

(4) In some cases, you may not be able to allow your child to "scream it out." If your child is starting to throw a tantrum in front of company, you might try distracting him or her. Another approach is to give your child a choice other than what he or she is demanding. For example, if your child is demanding a drink of soda, you might offer him milk or juice.

(5) Sometimes it is difficult for young children to share their parents' attention, particularly if they are used to being with them much of the day. You may be able to prevent tantrums for your attention if you spend a few minutes helping your child become acquainted with your company and by giving your child a little special attention during the visit.

In public Some children seem to wait until they are in public places before they throw temper tantrums. Not only is this behavior highly embarrassing, but also many parents don't like to let their children scream in public because they are afraid of what people might think. Again, it is important that you not give in to tantrums in public unless you want your child to learn that tantrums sometimes work.

Finding food for thought

■ Classroom learning can have a few limitations, especially if the subject is culinary arts. That's why a group of Plymouth Salem High School students took to the road to see what goes on behind the scenes at two hotels in the metropolitan area.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

At one time, high students school dabbled in home economics. The student of the '90s, however, is into the culinary arts.

A name change for turning out scrambled eggs and buttermilk biscuits for the family? Nope. It's the first tentative step toward a possible career in the food service industry.

For culinary arts students at Plymouth Salem High School, the class gave them a chance to see what goes on behind the scenes at two of Wayne County's better known hotels - The Ritz-Carlton and Hyatt Regency, both in Dearborn.

"Most kids say 'I want to work in a hotel' . . . this gives you an idea of what you have to do," said senior Paul Montresor.

The students, most of whom work at their school's Salem Rock Cafe. learned that it takes an army of people to run a hotel. They toured the laundry facilities, the kitchens, VIP suites (which seemed to be a favorite), health clubs, restaurants and management offices.

At The Ritz-Carlton, the teens participated in the India portion of the hotel's International Cultural Festival, watching a demonstration by visiting chef Jeet Reen of Shalimar Restaurant in Farmington Hills. Afterward, the students tasted Reen's Tandoori Chicken spiced with ginger, pepper, allspice and paprika.

While waiting for the school bus ride to the Hyatt, aspiring hotel manager and high school junior Chris Weidman took the opportunity to inquire about future employment. Others quizzed The Ritz-Carlton's employees about their experiences and pay at the hotel.

At the Hyatt Regency, the teens got a bird's-eye view of the hotel through the glass walls of the elevator, visited with the hotel management team, and compared the hotel's facilities with those of The Ritz-Carlton.

The students also gazed at the view of the Detroit skyline from the revolving restaurant atop the hotel. They finished the day by having lunch at Kyoto Steakhouse in Dearborn

In retrospect, Stephanie Fill, a senior, said she was impressed with the benefits that hotel employees receive like "how the staff gets to eat free, how they take care of them," she said.

The tours and meal were scheduled to prep the students for their participation in the Salem Rock Cafe, said teacher Carey Garey. The restaurant, open to the public, offers a variety of dishes, including Cajun

"We have a set menu for entrees, salads and sandwiches and grill items and desserts to our specials that we have everyday," she said. The restaurant, which opened in 1971, is open to the public and teachers. Plymouth Salem and Canton students - except those who work in the cafe - cannot eat in

"That's part of the perk for giving up their lunch period. The time we need to be open is during lunch so they have lunch after our doors close, but they eat in our dining room," Garey said.

The students have also toured the restaurants at Henry Ford Community College and Schoolcraft College. In March they will tour Oakland Community College and

These field trips, Garey said, offer orientations to the different schools' programs.

Her students have gone on to become chefs on cruise ships, managers of restaurants in Hawaii and at Disney World in Florida. Another student was presented with the first bachelor's degree from Johnson and Wales College and has since become a teacher's assistant. That's the part of the job that makes Garey proud.

"That's one of the best things about this job, training these kids for actually doing something."

Students who choose to go onto other fields still learn valuable employability skills, she said.

Even if a kid decides they are not going to be interested in culinary arts . . . all the employability skills are all the same no matter which job they go to," she said. "They have a time clock that they have to punch. We try and treat it as a regular job. They don't get paid but what they do get in terms of experience and experiences that they wouldn't have gotten otherwise.' Junior Heather Anderson wants to go into marketing but she agrees with Garey. Her experience and experiences have taught her valuable skills of dealing with people. "The people . . . I like to work with people. I love serving people," Anderson said. "Except for the people that come through and yell at me because their food isn't ready or something. They don't understand that I don't cook.

That's part of maturing, however, Garey said. The students find "out a lot about themselves which is part of the learning process."

'Mattress' is musical at Rosedale

BY SUE MASON

When the curtain goes up on Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church's annual musical next week, Martha Kuykendall will be there . . . just like she's been for the past 23 years.

The Livonia resident has been directing musicals at the church since 1971 and is putting the finishing touches on this year's production of "Once Upon a Mattress," a musical version of the fairy tale of "The Princess and the Pea."

Prejudice and intolerance, racial and group hatred are tragic walls which people build around themselves. Our age has unfortunately witnessed the erection of many such forbidding walls walls that divide, separate and sunder the peoples of this earth. Robert Frost said it well: "Something there is that doesn't love a wall. Before I build a wall, I ask to know what I was walling in or walling out, and to whom I was to give offense.'

Over the centuries, people have had enough religion to hate each other, but not enough to love each other. Minority groups have found themselves excluded from participation in the social and economic life of the societies in which they lived. The original meaning of the word "ghetto" is a walled-off section of a city, physi-cally separating Jewish inhabitants from contact and commerce with others. Such walls, actual and symbolic, have become symbols of degradation and destruction for all groups that have been forced to be separated and thereby rejected.

The fomenters of group hostility are still active in the world today. Even in our own country, whenever there is unhappiness, discontent or unrest, racial and religious bigots creep over the land and sow the pernicious seeds of suspicion and hate.

There are nations that put their trust and security in strong walls, in iron curtains and man-made fortresses. But they all crumble agree on even more. We collective-sooner or later. The mighty walls of Jericho fell and the broad walls of Babylonia were utterly overthrown and, in our own age, we have seen the fall of the Soviet empire.

Our shared heritage of faith teaches us to be builders of bridges, rather than of walls. It is good to remember the word of the Prophet Malachai: "Have we not all one father? Hath not one God created us all? Why then do we deal treacherously with one another?" We need to build a bridge of tolerance as we affirm the truth that there are many highways to heaven and many rooms in God's mansion.

America is a pluralistic society in which diverse religions, races and nationalities are free to express different points of view. It is almost self-evident that we shall disagree on many things. But it is more important to note that we ly believe that American life is built on a common acceptance of the Judeo-Christian ethic as the foundation of American society and government.

We have vital concerns in American life where we should continue to build bridges. Our joint efforts can make a major contribution, and our common action can change the present and shape the future.

The condition of family life is of primary concern. We are faced with the disintegrating family. The high divorce rate, the decline of standards of sexual morality and the attenuation of parentchild relations have all assumed epidemic proportions. In the past, standards of ethics and responsibility have been communicated in the family from one generation to another. The challenge to us, all religions, races and creeds, is to restore the quality of family life.

There are many other areas where we have joint concerns. Among them, the problems of the aged, health care, drugs and the ever-rising rate of crime. While the executive and legislative branches of government seek so-lutions for these problems, we must recognize that such solutions require the collective strength and moral consensus and shared support of the American people.

We must be builders of bridges rather than of walls. Charity, compassion and magnanimity are such bridges. So are friendship, tolerance and brotherhood. "Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself" is the noblest and most enduring of all the bridges ever devised.

The following suggestions should help you stop your child's public tantrums.

(1) In some cases, you may be able to end tantrums quickly by saying nothing and/or walking out of your child's line of sight, but staying where you can see your child. Although it is difficult for most parents to be comfortable with this technique, it is highly effective for many children.

(2) If you cannot ignore the tantrum or comfortably walk away, lead or carry your child to the car, saying, "Your behavior tells me you do not want to be in the store (or the mall, or McDonald's, etc.). You can try again tomorrow (or the next day).

(3) If you have taken your child home because of a tantrum, be sure to give him or her another chance within a day or two.

(4) If your child throws a lot of tantrums in public, start out with very short (15-20 minutes) trips close to home. As the tantrums occur less and less, you can go out more often and for longer periods

(5) It often helps to control their behavior, if you include something they enjoy as part of your outing. For example, when going to the mall, you can stop at the pet store or after shopping for shoes, you could go to the play-

'Evening of Hope' benefits hospital

More than 1,000 people are expected to fill Burton Manor in Livonia when Leukemia, Research, Life, Inc. (LRL) holds its 13th annual "Evening of Hope" dinner-dance Saturday, March 5.

The largest annual fund-raising event for the group, proceeds, expected to top $60,000, will benefit LRL, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the elimination of childhood cancers through research at Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit.

The dinner-dance will feature a dinner buffet, including a salad, fruit and dessert table, an afterdinner auction and dancing to the music of the Take Five Band. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Ray and Lucie Shepard of the Detroit Red Wings and Jim Fitzgerald, Detroit Free Press columnist, are honorary chairmen of the dinner-dance. Rich Mayk of WDIV-TV Channel 4 and Colleen Burcar of WKQI-FM are the master and mistress of ceremonies.

Tickets to the event are $50 per person. Benefactor tickets are priced at $75 per person. They are available by calling the development office at Children's Hospital at 745-5373.

Since its inception in 1981, LRL has raised more than $1.2 million for childhood cancer research at Children's Hospital, a private, nonprofit 260-bed pediatric hospital organized in 1886.

Children's Hospital is a member of the Detroit Medical Center, the academic health center of Wayne State University.

read. What do you think? I am 36 years old and am right-handed. Eagerly awaiting your reply.

T.B., Livonia

I personally do not think this handwriting is difficult to read. To me, it represents creativity and independence.

While I realize I have said this before, I think it bears repeating here. First we learn to write as we are taught, then as we wish. People like T.B. who have a need to express their creativity will usually change from their copybook training.

Our writer was raised in a home with strong female influence. Very early in life, she wanted to be independent and may have been a little rebellious to gain the free-dom she needed. And yet she sometimes feels a need to return emotionally to the mother figure when things are not going well.

She wants both variety and action in her daily life. At the time this letter was written, she had many irons in the fire and may not be entirely satisfied with things. Fulfillment seems to be eluding her.

Cultural leanings are here. She is much aware of the arts, literature and music. She is a creative and probably gifted person.

You will know when this woman is around. Her ego craves success and attention and she wants to do things in her own way. Her need for status and/or stroking serves to propel her on toward higher achievements.

I've always been industed in handwriting analysis. I'm amazed that you can pull out so much about an individual simply by looking at their handwriting.

She can make quick decisions and get right to the point. She is not rebuffed by sudden new demands.

Here is a woman of strong convictions and appreciation of hard work. She sticks to essentials and has the ability to keep things simple. She clearly recognizes the importance of getting down to fundamentals.

This is a risk taker. She knows who she is and has a need to remain aloof from the demands of conventional society.

In a position which offers stimulation and challenge, she will excel. If involved in routine chores with too much detail work, she will soon become restless for a change.

For relaxation, she would probably like sports or activities that require physical endurance and/ or an opportunity to compete.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Doctors to discuss prostate cancer

NEW VOICES

Dr. Philip Lafata, chief of general surgery, and lecturer Dr. Ali Rahmanian, senior urological sur-geon of the Horizon Surgery Center and St. Mary Hospital, will be the speakers at a health education program on prostate cancer 7 p.m. Thursday, March 3.

Lafata will introduce Rahmanian. The lecture, at the Horizon Surgery Center, on Haggerty south of Eight Mile, will include a slide presentation as well as a question-and-answer session.

A packet of information will be available to members of the audience, courtesy of the Michigan Cancer Foundation and the National Cancer Institute. Light refreshments will be served.

In the United States, prostate cancer is the leading malignancy in men, and the number two cause of cancer deaths. Current estimates are that a 50-year-old American male has a 40 percent chance of developing microscopic prostate cancer during his lifetime, a 10 percent chance of being diagnosed with the disease and a 2-3 percent chance of dying of prostate cancer.

Data from the Center for Disease Control's National Center for Health Statistics shows an alarming increase in the incidence of the disease since 1980. The number of prostate cancers diagnosed increased 8-10 percent annually the past few years.

This trend may be due in part to aging of the population (prostate cancer occurs with a greater frequency in elderly men), to improved diagnostic procedures that discover tumors that may otherwise have been undetected in the past, or to increased awareness and health-seeking behavior of

As a member of the Plymouth BPW. Szilagyi was vital to the group's scholarship program. She realized the impact a scholarship could have in helping women who alone supported their families.

The scholarship program was founded in 1990 by the Robert J. Szilagyi family with memorial contributions from family and friends of Elizabeth Szilagyi to benefit women preparing to re-enter the business, financial, technical or educational fields. Since then, more than $2,000 has been given to recipients.

To apply for the EJS Scholarship, an applicant must be a single, female head of household, have a high school diploma or equivalent, be accepted to or at-

LACTOSE DEFICIENCY

Lactose intolerance is a common digestive problem. It has been estimated that 30 million americans are lactose intolerant. 50 or 60% of these people will experience abdominal bloating, flatulence 2-6 hours after ingesting 1 or 2 glasses of milk, or a large amount of ice cream especially on an empty stomach.

Lactose intolerance occurs as a result of lactose deficiency in the intestine. Symptoms of distention, bloating, abdominal pain, flatulence, or even diarrhea occur frequently but the severity of these symptoms varies widely between people who have this condition. Reducing the exposure to milk or milk products will help to alleviate the symptoms, lactose enzymes supplements are also available in capsules and tablets form. Which will also hoep to digest the lactose containing product or products and help to avoid symptoms of lactose intolerance.

Savor flavor, aroma of homegrown herbs ave you always wanted to have an herb garden, but thought you didn't have enough sun?

A surprising number of herbs do grow well in a partially shady location. Some of them are perennials, meaning they grow from year to year without having to be replaced, while others are annuals, those that need to be replanted each

Herbs generally don't require much effort and don't need a lot of fertilization because flavor is sacrificed when there is lots of growth. And fresh herb flavor can't be beat! Herbs also are fragrant and pretty and reward the gardener in many ways.

Herbs do like a rich soil. Compost or spaghnum peat worked into the existing bed will accomplish this. Good drainage is necessary. Herbs don't like wet feet any more than we do.

Most people begin growing herbs for the part they play in our culinary world, so that is the type of garden I have planned. Start small - the garden can always be enlarged and I don't want you to be discouraged with too much work. But as I said, what little is required is well worth the effort.

Garden planning

I've designed a small rectangular garden about 20 feet by 5 feet. It doesn't have to be "squared off" - it could be oval in shape or some other configuration. Use this plan as a guide (see related story).

A raised bed will allow the soil to warm up earlier in the season, but isn't necessary. It will be easy to reach all the plants from all sides, but if the garden abuts a building or hedge, a path of stepping stones, gravel or wood chips will make it easier to care for the plants. A layer of newspaper or landscape fabric under the latter two will reduce weeding chores.

Some perennials will form the bones of the garden and will do fine in the semi-shady location. They can be bought as plants in May, while the annuals can be started from seed indoors in early March or sown directly into the garden when the soil warms up.

Savory characters

Perennial plants include Lavender, which blooms a beautiful deep blue-purple and will provide a fragrance as you brush the foliage - Munstead and Lavender Lady are good choices. Common Thyme is a relatively short upright plant with deep green foliage, while the foliage of Lemon Thyme is tinged with yellow. Sage plants are lovely with gray-green, purple or variegated foliage. Taste the leaf of the French Terragon plant before you buy it to be sure the flavor is strongly aniselike. Space them 18 inches apart.

Livonia shows African art objects

■ In honor of Black History Month, the city of Livonia exhibits its African art collection thought to be objects of the Ovimbundu tribe of Portugese Angola.

By Linda Ann Chomin Special Writer

Black History Month, the Livonia Arts Commission presents an exhibition of the city's African artifacts through Feb. 25. The turn-of the century art, thought to be tribal objects of the Ovimbundu people from Portugese Angola, is on display in the circular showcases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile. This is the appropriate time to display our African artifacts, in honor of Black History Month," said arts commissioner Lee Alanskas. "It is an expensive exhibition that belongs to the residents of Livonia and they should be able to enjoy it."

Donated to the city 30 years ago by The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Haskell Clark of the Pilgrim Congregational Church in Livonia, the art objects were collected by the missionary supported by the congregational church.

The collection was originally assembled by Brewster Pilgrim Congregational Church of Detroit, which became Pilgrim Congregational Church when it moved to Livonia in 1957. It was the wish of the church that the artifacts be shared with the community as a whole.

Handcarved figures and drums, baskets, war clubs and corn cob dolls reveal a culture where art was a part of daily life.

Appraised in 1985 by David Ack-ley on the recommendation of Evan Maurer, director of the University of Michigan Museum of Art, the value of the collection was placed at-

Most of the objects were readily identified and appraised, being comparable to known objects in the literature and on the art market, stated Ackley.

However two of the objects, a handcarved mask and a female figure with child, posed problems of evaluation, leading Ackley to believe they could be priceless due to the fact the existence of such a mask, if it is a tribal work of the Ovimbundu, until that time had been unknown.

When arts commissioner Dorothy Wilshaw found the collection tossed haphazardly into a library closet in 1992, she took it upon herself to see that the objects were stored properly in acid free paper.

"I think since we have this valuable collection, it should be looked after," said Wilshaw.

City librarian Michael Deller says that when he first came to Livonia, he was impressed by the quality of the African art collection. He considers the residents of Livonia very lucky to have these artifacts. In his travels, he has seen comparable pieces only at museums in New York and California. Of course, that's not to slight the fine collection of the Detroit Institute of Arts, whose collection former Gov. G. Mennen Williams was instrumental in assembling during the time he served as ambassador to Africa. "The items themselves are important because they represent a culture that's rapidly disappearing as we know it in Africa," Deller said.

Over the years, the collection was loaned to local schools and colleges as well as the University of Michigan Art Museum.

Hollowed from a tree stump, a tribal drum with pyro-engraved animal crawling up the side. The animal and drum were carved from a single piece of wood. In 1985, the drum was appraised at $375.

Another of the art objects, female figure holding a child has the word fetish carved into the back. It is more than likely a fertility image.

The figure of woman with child according to Ackley is a rare object that he roughly valued at $2,500.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Very Special Arts seeking performers

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN SPECIAL WRITER

Very Special Arts of Southeast Michigan is searching for performing artists with disabilities to participate in its fourth annual festival, "A Celebration of Arts-Ability" May 6-7 at Wonderland Mall in Livonia.

Performing artists with varying disabilites are invited to apply, including adults and children with sight, hearing, mobility, emotional and development impairments.

The festival celebrates the power of the arts to triumph over physical and mental challenges. It serves to expose and educate the community to the artistic talents of individuals with disabilites.

"We want to showcase the talents of artists with disabilities. We're focusing on ability, not disabilities, said Connie Lott, chairwoman of Very Special Arts Southeast Michigan headquartered at FAR Conservatory in Birmingham.

'We want to share with the community the impact that the arts can have on disabled people. The festival spotlights art skills honed in Very Special Arts programs throughout the year. Performances will include, but are not limited to, instrumental and vocal music, dance, drama, comedy, mime, puppetry, baton and pompon.

"For the first time this year, we're going to have drama. We will have hands-on activities for the participants not only with disabilities but for the people from the communities who attend the festival," Lott said. 'We will also have the touring art exhibit showcasing artists with disabilities from around the state.'

Interior design seminar planned

A free interior decorating semi-nar will take place 7:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday, March 10 in the Holiday Inn of Livonia, I-275 and Six Mile.

The seminar, "Home Decorating: Pickle or Panache?", is hosted by Linda Kittredge and Nadine Henderson, both sales associates with Quality Real Estate/ Better Homes and Gardens of Plymouth and Livonia; and interior designers Patricia Newman and Kathleen Tomassi. Purpose of the seminar is to identify decorating pickles and gain practical solutions for achieving personal panache.

For reservations, call 462-3000 by Saturday, March 5.

The seminar is a result of Kittredge's "realization that many homeowners have refinanced their homes and will not be moving in the near future.

Because she wanted to continue providing services to her clients and friends, Kittredge thought a free home decorating seminar would be a great idea. "I wanted the seminar to provide practical, yet fun decorating ideas that could be put into operation immediately when the attendee got home," she said.

Newman owns Patricia Newman Interiors. Residential homes, condominiums and apartments are a few of the specialties she has developed over the past 20 years. She was an award winner at the 1991 HOMERAMA, was involved in the 1993 Parade of Homes and has been featured in the Creative Living section of the Observer & Eccentric.

"Good taste and good design do not necessarily have to be expensive," Newman said. "Color, form and scale can deliver a lot of panache without being made of pricy materials."

Tomassi started M.K.T. Interiors of Grosse Pointe in 1986. An interior designer for more than 17 years, she started out making drapery and soft furnishings for residential homes. She also worked for a company that custom-designed aircrafts for the likes of a Saudi Arabian princess. She has done residential and contract work throughout the United States as well as serving as a consultant to other interior design-

Because of experiencing firsthand eight moves in 20 years, both domestically and internationally (Brazil, Mexico and Venezuela), she says she understands how helpful the Realtor can be in locating services, interior decorating, painting, carpeting, etc. "My primary goal is to create customer and client satisfaction," Henderson said.

Before beginning her career in real estate, Kittredge was an admissions assistant at Henry For Community College. 'In my previous position, I worked to market the college to the community.

Now, as a sales associate, I can apply my experience to marketing homes," she said.

The annuals include Basil, which comes in several "flavors" - large or small leaves. Choose your favorite and include one with purple foliage. Flat-leaved (Italian) and curly-leaved parsley will both be used. Summer Savory is low-growing with light green foliage. Coriander grows two to three feet tall - the seeds are coriander and the foliage is known as cilantro. It, as well as the parsley, may self-sow.

The seeds of the basils and savory can be started indoors in March, although they can be sown directly into the garden as can parsley and coriander. Follow the directions carefully that are printed on the seed packets - they contain a wealth of information.

It's always fun to have some special adornment in an herb garden, perhaps a bee skep, or a pedestal topped with a gazing ball (the latest "new" rage), or a potted plant. Bay, aloe, rosemary, scented geranium or a mint of your choice all will grow well in this area, as they can tolerate some shade. Set this "pretty" in the center of the garden and surround it with the Lemon Thyme.

Let me know how your herb garden is doing.

Photo essay can tell whole story on a single picture to record an event or happening. And, done would "tell" a lot about that particular circumstance. But a picture

series or photo essay can add much more information and convey an entire story. A sequence of pictures for your photo album can be as few as four or five shots.

For example, imagine the children going for a walk in the woods on a blustery day. You could start with a shot of them putting on their boots and windbreakers. The next picture could be of them entering the woods along a leaf-strewn path. Halfway could be a shot at the top of the hill showing the children excited but windblown. Your series can be completed with a photo of the youngsters emerging from the woods with smiles on their faces.

Do you see the impact a series of photographs like this can have rather than just a single shot?

There are numerous other possibilities: a family member's birthday party, going to the zoo, heading out to the beach or a Sunday barbecue. Linking together pictures with a common theme will "tell a story" about a meaningful event in your life.

Travel offers excellent opportunity for photo essays. In most cases when we are looking for a way of photographing a particular place, we tend to look for the definitive picture that sums up our impression in one shot. Yet it can often be more interesting and sometimes more effective to produce a series of pictures that combine to create a record of a particular occurrence.

REMERICA EXPANDS

When Remerica Family Realtors opens Friday at 33018 W. Warren, it will mark the second Remerica office to open in Westland in two weeks.

Political and business leaders will attend the public grand opening 4-7 p.m. Friday. Refreshments will be served.

Welcoming David James and Richard Eisiminger as brokers of our newest office is another positive community step for us as the fastest growing real estate company in southeast Michigan," said Jim Courtney, Remerica corporate Remerica has grown to 15 offices in three years.

Judy Banyai, of Real Estate One in Rochester, has completed the specialized real estate business course, "Business Development for the Residential Specialist," conducted by the Realtors National Marketing Institute's Residential Sales

The course is one of the required classes that must be taken by real estate agents and brokers who eventually qualify for the Certified Residential Specialist designation.

"There are many new marketing techniques that can effectively serve our real estate customers," Banyai said. "I have already begun to apply the procedures covered during this course in my work at Real Estate One."

Realty show markets homes via cable

The Real Estate Show, a method of "showing" houses on cable TV, is going great guns as it approaches its first anniversary. That's the word from Sam Cherrin of Farmington Hills, the local founder, organizer and producer of the program, and a couple of Realtors who use that marketing strategy.

Sam and his wife, Bonnie, buy onehour blocks of time from Metrovision franchises, then go out and sell 15second bites to real estate agents to tout individual houses they have for sale. A couple hundred houses can be shown in a fast-paced hour.

'We take still shots of different houses supplied by Realtors, the facade of the house," Sam Cherrin said. "We do a 15-second voice over for ■ 'We've had homes as low as $20,000. The most expensive property to date, I think, was $1.8 million. Typically, they range from $70,000 to $250,000."

> Sam Cherrin The Real Estate Show

"On the screen, we show a picture of the home, a picture of the Realtor, two phone numbers and the price of the home during the voice over," Cherrin said.

The tape is updated weekly. "Currently, I'm running 20 different companies," he said. "We've had homes as low as $20,000. The most expensive property to date, I think, was $1.8 million. Typically, they range from $70,000 to $250,000.

Q. We're sick of our management company, which was hired by the developer, and we want to get rid of it at the time of turnover. The contract runs for about six months after the turnover. Can we do anything?

A. Under the condominium act of 1978, to the extent any management contract extends beyond one year after the transitional control date, the excess period under the contract may be voided by the board of directors of the association by notice to the management company at least 30 days before the expiration of the one-year pe-

To the extent the contract does not extend beyond one year, you may be limited to the express terms and conditions of the management agree-ment, although you should check your condominium documents to determine whether the condominium bylaws authorize the board of directors to enter into the type and nature of contract that was signed, i.e., by way of example, did the contract last for a period longer than that authorized by the condominium bylaws.

Also, confirm that the management company is not in any way affiliated with the developer which would, under the condominium documents, give you the right to void the contract on the transitional control date, or within 90 days thereafter, or 30 days notice at any time thereafter for Realtors are charged $25 weekly per house for a minimum of 67 exposures and up to 127 in Redford and Livonia (Channel 51) and Farmington Hills, Farmington and Novi (Channel 22). Discounts are offered for more extended buys.

Cherrin, a former Realtor, was introduced to the concept while vacationing in Florida.

"I actually sat there and wouldn't turn the TV off," he said. "The concept is very simple and very effective. It's a good way to comparison shop for a new home and determine the value of your own home.

"Recently, we've done a survey to see how effective it's been," Cherrin said. "One thing that kept coming up was Realtors were happy about the exposure it gives them. They're excited when people come up to them in a store and say, 'I know you from television. I recognize you.'

Cherrin said he has no figures on how many people tune in. "There are approximately 72,000 households with Metrovision in the viewing area," he said.

Cherrin said he looks at his service as complementing rather than competing with print advertising.

"Our program and your advertising really work in tandem," he said. "In real estate, it's very important the public believes there's a lot of advertising out there on houses: We're reinforcing what's in your newspaper and your newspaper reinforces what's on our show.'

Cherrin also distinguished his show that airs continuously from similar productions with much more limited air time. "We're bulk. We have as many as 127 hours per week." Connie Isbell, a Realtor with Red Carpet Keim in Farmington, said she's enjoyed much success with The Real Estate Show.

"By far, it's our best source of advertising," she said. "Yesterday, I had four calls from The Real Estate Show. To get four calls in one day from any source of advertising is unheard of.

The other thing we're impressed, with is a lot of buyers calling who watch the show are just starting to look," Isbell said. "We meet them. early in the process, start on the right foot. That makes for a much easier transaction. They don't always buy the house advertised . . . but the contact was made as a result of the show.

Isbell continues to advertise in newespapers and magazines, but says her best results come from cable TV. "I think it's because this is the age of the clicker," she said.

Sue Heglin, a Realtor with-Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Livonia, also has enjoyed her 21/2-month experience with the show.

"It works well for me," she said. "It gives me exposure, gets my name out there. When I call on people to list their houses . . . they recognize me.

"I definitely get calls on them," Heglin said of listings. "Whether I get direct sales or not, I'm not sure. This is very new for me.

Jack Padley, classified advertising manager for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, said he's familiar with shows like Cherrin's.

"It's a neat, new twist on an old concept that could complement traditional advertising," Padley said. "But" on a cost or response basis, real estate ads in newspapers have always and will continue to be the most effective advertising.

Cherrin's next expansion will be to cable systems serving other communities.

The Chichester: This 2,400-square-foot model, with four bedrooms upstairs and a brick and vinyl siding exterior, is available at White Oak from James Joseph Enterprises.

White Oak boasts north Michigan feel

Builders and developers who work together on several projects tend to build good rapport and quality subdivisions. Three with Rochester connections are combining efforts on a 35-acre parcel a few miles north of The Palace of Auburn Hills.

A residential subdivision that attracts buyers with no models on the site must be something special.

That's how Rochester builders James Rutkowski, president of James Joseph Builders, and Mario Cerqua, president of Stella Homes, view White Oak in Orion Township.

subdivision, you're right by Bald Mountain State Recreation Area, Rutkowski said. "I was out here Sunday and people were riding horses through here."

You feel like you're in northern Michigan, but a quarter mile away you're in town," Cerqua said.

Rutkowski controls 36 lots. Cerqua 12, each at least 100 feet wide, in the subdivision off Clarkston Road just east of Lapeer Mike Foley of Rochester develthe natural beauty and seclusion will be big draws.

"It's somewhat wooded off a gravel road," Foley said. "The site is surrounded by wooded, wetland areas.

"Our intent and the builders' intent was to keep homes with a base price in the $190s, which is considered affordable here today in northeast Oakland County," Foley

"Both of these builders have been with me through several subs - Paint Creek Ridge in Orion, Oakland Farm in Oakland Township," he added.

The models should be up by June, Cerqua and Rutkowski said.

Prices range across the spectrum from $179,000 for a threebedroom, 1,800-square-foot ranch to $209,000 for a four-bedroom, 2,425-square-foot two-story to oped the parcel and figures that $255,000 for a colonial of 3,000 square feet.

Standard features include sideentry, two-car garage; first-floor utility room; basement; and range, dishwasher and garbage disposal in the kitchen. The site is serviced by city water and sewers.

Foley bought the land at the right price," Rutkowski said. "The land is inexpensive now for the area and it got passed along to us."

"These houses probably will be second time (new) buyers," Cerqua said. " That's what I'm dealing with at Silver Bell. Most have kids less than 10 years old."

"I'm getting a lot of interest from the Chrysler Tech Center," Rutkowski said. "What are we eight minutes away?

"I talked to one customer and she said she preferred the (Lake Orion) schools in this part of town, the wooded area," he continued. "It's wooded sites, schools and upgraded homes."

Home banking: David J. Morin, product manager with Michigan National Bank, demonstrates how to write a check on a personal computer using Microsoft's Money program.

Bank at home through your PC

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Michigan National Bank, founded in 1941 and now headquartered in Farmington Hills, impacts the community in many ways. With 191 branches statewide, it touches virtually every corner of the Observer & Eccentric coverage area. The bank reported:

■ Some 900 employees at headquarters and about 3,500 overall in the tri-county metro area A mortgage service portfolio of $13.6 billion, which includes $4 billion of its own originations. Consumer loans outstanding of some $596.6 million.

About 8,000 individual and insti-er software manufacturer, has developed a home banking service where its customers can write checks and manage their financial accounts from a personal computer at home. The service became available here earlier this month exclusively for its customers, Michigan National officials said.

Following are edited excerpts from recent interviews with David J. Morin, product manager; Alan M. Ostroff, senior vice president for corporate marketing and retail products; and Douglas E. Ebert, newly appointed president and chief opering officer:

What's home banking all about?

Ostroff: We've given our customers the ability to bank with us from home with a personal computer. They can do just about everything except receive cash.

It tracks loan accounts, investments. You don't even have to make (check register) entries with this. It reconciles automatically.

Morin: What we have in addition is the ability to categorize. You know where you spend your money and know your net worth at any given time.

What's needed to get the service?

Ostroff: A personal computer with 386 or better processor, which is the speed of the machine. It needs Microsoft Windows 3.1. That comes with most computers now. You would need a modem and you would need a bank account with us. And, of course, Microsoft Money (software) version 3.0.

What does this cost the individual consumer?

Ostroff: We can order the software for $29.95. In addition, we provide a $20 rebate when they sign up for the ser-

The Bank On-Line allows automatic reconciliation of up to 10 accounts, balance inquiries and electronic mail to the bank for $7.95 per month. Pay On-Line, where we make 20 payments per month is $9.95. The two together, which we would expect most people to get, is $14.95.

What did you have to do at your end from a technical standpoint to make this service possible?

Morin: There was programming done on our main frame. We make files available . . . customers' data. The customer dials in, the personal computer takes it and brings the data down.

Who is your prime target group? Who is most likely to use something like this? Ostroff: There's a large segment of people who want to keep all their finances well organized. Morin: A lot of people write the checks for the same amount every month. They have an ability to press a button and we'll send the checks for them. Ostroff: There are people who don't like to reconcile a checkbook, but want to know how much money they have all the time. To do a good job, we have to provide a delivery system that satisfies all kinds of custom-How long will it be before your competitors offer a similar service? Ostroff: Exclusivity (with Microsoft) is a provision of our contract. The agreement is long enough to give us an advantage.

Morin: The software business always has been innovative. I think they will start testing, but it will be a full year before they put a system in

Mr. Ebert, you joined Michigan National in December. How do you think the bank is perceived in the community? Ebert: The most important constituent, of course, is our shareholders. That's why we're here. Shareholders fall into two categories. People who bought our stock, will never sell and look at it for income. Over time, this group has done well with us and will continue to do so,

Another group who buys for capital appreciation is happy when the price goes up, unhappy when it goes down.

Then there's the customer group. Our market share of deposits has grown faster than all but one major bank in the state. We're 8 percent market share. In a market that's mostly stable, we're growing.

On the commercial business borrowers and government institutions, we probably have one of the strongest and loyal customer base of any financial institution.

Our third constituent is our employees. We have a quality of team members. I don't know how our turnover compares to other banks, but it's quite low. We want to keep it that way.

What do you see as your biggest challenge?

Ebert: How do we expand beyond our brick and mortar to allow people to transact business with us regardless of where they are . . at the lowest cost?

Jim LeGray and his fiance, Roxanne Lee, plan to build a story and a half model on a back lot.

"We prefer the great room and master bedroom on the main floor and two bedrooms upstairs," LeGray said. "I work for Chrysler and expect to be at the CTC in the near future," he said. "My girlfriend works in Flint. We were interested in Orion Township for that reason, plus she grew up there.

"The development is quite heavily wooded off Lapeer Road which moves pretty good," LeGray added. "We were looking for a walkout lot that backed up to Bald Mountain Recreation Area. We were looking for privacy."

David and Lynette Ormsby, with two children, will build a ranch in White Oak. 'We've looked around," David said. "We looked at what he (Rutkowski) built. He does pretty good work. That's what a lot of people do - look through plans then find a builder. "We're moving up a little bit from the first new house we built. I'm in the country, but near the city, too," he said.

Kevin and Sabrina Morelli, also with two children, ordered a story-and-a-half from Cerqua with the master suite on the main floor and three bedrooms upstairs.

"It's our first new house," Sabrina said. "It's so wooded, a real country atmosphere. Yet, we have access to the highway to get where we have to get fairly quick. We fell in love with the lots in general.'

The current property tax rate to provide school, township and county services in the subdivision is $54.54 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owner of a $179,000 house in White Oak would pay about $4,881 annually now in taxes.

However, that will change when voters decide a new school financing plan.

Rutkowski's sales trailer at White Oak (call 810-814-0375) is open 1-6 p.m. daily, closed Thursday. Cerqua's sales trailer (810-693-4004) is open 2-7 p.m. weekdays, noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, closed Thursday.

"The huge crowds at the spring show indicate the popularity of this type of event," said Robert Jones, president of the non-profit

Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and Robert Jones Associates in West

"The spring show ran Feb. 3-6 at the Novi Expo Center, with rave reviews from show-goers who are looking forward to the 'granddaddy' of all home and garden shows: the Cobo Builders show."

The Cobo show is the largest show of its kind in the Midwest.

BASM is the event sponsor.

Builders show hours will be 210 p.m. Monday-Friday, noon to 10 p.m. Saturdays and noon to 6 p.m. Sundays. Admission is $5.75 for adults, $3.50 for children age 6-12 and seniors, and free for children under 6. Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack/A&P for $8. Discount admission coupons were mailed to homeowners in their Detroit Edison bills. Free admission coupons for Monday, March 21, are available at all Builders Square stores. For more information, call 810-737-4478.

More than 400 exhibitors will pan 500,000 square feet of display space showing the latest technology, products and services for kitchens, baths, doors, windows, yards and gardens, remodeling, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, appliances, heating

Special highlights at the show will include the Riverwalk Gar-dens created by the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association, PBS-TV's "Victory Garden" guest host Gary Koller March 19-20, Discovery Channel's Ms. Fix-It Beverly DeJulio March 24-27, Parade of Homes featuring new homes and a free plan book, ex-pert demonstrations on garden-ing, decorating and remodeling, entertainment such as dancers, musical groups and singers, House of Nails and Treasure Chest contests and a Chevy truck

BASM is also sponsor of the second annual Fall Remodeling Show at the Novi Expo Center.
