This pooch ferrets out pests

BY KEVIN BROWN

Good dog, Molly! This year-old beagle sniffs out carpenter ants and termites for owner Tom Thompson, who operates Thompson Pest Control out of his Plymouth house.

"A lot of people are in disbelief until we bring her in," Thompson said.

Molly, trained by Beacon Dogs Inc. of Annapolis, Md., begins sniffing along wood floors when Thompson tells her, "Search!"

Upon detecting the odor of termites or carpenter ants, she begins scratching the wood. "If it's a big nest, she goes crazy," Thompson said.

The insects, which like to eat wood dampened by leaks the homeowner may not spot, can cause serious damage to a home. Thompson said a homeowner may not even

Retiring educator will miss challenges

BY M.B. DILLON

Things won't be the same when school opens this fall at Plymouth Township's Fiegel Elementary School. Missing will be a warm and caring teacher, Lois Santer, retiring after 22 years.

A 1956 graduate of Michigan State Normal, now Eastern Michigan University, Santer taught in Garden City public schools for two years before quitting to raise four children with her late husband, Tom.

She joined Plymouth-Canton Community Schools in 1975, and taught in the high schools' child care program as well as at Fiegel, where she's

Church move prompts neighbors' complaints

Temple Baptist Church's plan to move from Redford to Plymouth Township drew more opposition from neighbors last week, and township officials put off a decision on the proposed move.

The Plymouth Township planning commission had been asked to approve the move by the church, known around Detroit for major programs at Christmas and Easter, and for scheduling concerts of touring Christian performers.

Plans call for two baseball fields, two large ponds, walking paths, benches, grassy areas, landscaping and a church that will seat 4,000 on 56 acres at the southwest corner of Ridge and North Territorial.

On May 23, more than 20 residents turned out for a public hearing on the plan and five rose to challenge it. On Wednesday, about 100 people neighbors showed for the planning commission meeting.

Chairman Dennis Cebulski said most of the nearly 30 who addressed the commission spoke against the project, citing traffic and other activity at the planned church.

Charles Curmi, planning commissioner and township trustee, said the planning commission will now take time to study data on the development's likely impact on traffic, as that is a concern raised by several neighbors.

"There's a lot of traffic data being thrown around, but what does it mean?" said Curmi, adding the township's planning consultant is being asked to study the effect on the area.

"We want to look at the (traffic) impact today, and when the area's fully developed," said Curmi.

There is some residential development near the church, and more is planned. The M-14 freeway is just west of the property.

Church officials say they plan to be a community asset, and say the public can use baseball fields and church grounds for recreation.

Cebulski said planning commissioners could rule on the church development as early as July 20, the next commission meeting.

Signs create stir

■ Perhaps it's a sign of the times. One candidate for district court judge has taken criticism for a campaign sign that says "criminals beware." There are also other complaints in the race that has attracted 11 candidates.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Some candidates in the race for 35th District Judge are taking offense at others' campaign tactics:

■ Kevin Simowski and Dennis Shrewsbury question Ron Lowe's use of the slogan "criminals beware" on some of Lowe's yard signs.

■ Simowski maintains that some Lowe, Stephen Boak, Carol Levitte and Michael Gerou signs violate the sign ordinance, as the signs are larger than the ordinance specifies.

■ While at the Farmer's Market recently, Simowski said, a woman gave him a coupon for free coffee, doughnuts and lemonade at Boak's office across Kellogg Park. "What's next, kissing babies?" Simowski asked.

JUDGE RACE

Also running are Maria Petito, Jacqueline George, Karen Woodside, Ed Zelmanski and Victoria Hariri; 11 in all running in an Aug. 2 primary.

The top two vote-getters will survive the primary and square off in the general election in November.

"I am sorely disappointed in the course the campaign for 35th District Court has taken thus far," Simowski wrote.

Shrewsbury, a Plymouth city commissioner, wrote to Lowe, Plymouth's city attorney, over Lowe's "criminals beware" slogan:

"It is my opinion, based upon reading the code of judicial conduct, that your lawn signs . . . are in violation of the code," Shrewsbury said.

Shrewsbury quoted a section of the code that states a judge should not "seek popularity or publicity either by exceptional severity or undue leniency" in sentencing.

"Please let me know how you intend to rectify this violation," Shrewsbury asked Lowe in the May 27 letter.

In a June 15 response, Lowe wrote, "The words 'criminals beware' are meant to communicate my general philosophy that convicted criminals should be punished . . . 'Criminals beware' simply communicates a cer-

Adistra Corp. founder, 87, dies

William Colwell Scott, founder of Adistra Corporation of Plymouth, died at his home in Sarasota June 13. He was 87.

Mr. Scott graduated from Redford High School in 1924 and from the University of Michigan in 1928. His lifelong business career included sales training for Jam Handy Associates and the Ford Division of Ford Motor Co.

In 1958, he founded Distribution Service Inc., designed to "increase the effectiveness and reduce the cost of marketing by providing a central location for warehousing, assembling, shipping and invoicing marketing materials to automobile dealers."

This pioneering venture, now known as Adistra Corporation, grew rapidly and in 1961 relocated to the vacant Daisy Air Rifle plant in Plymouth. Current production and warehouse operations are located in Northville, Dexter, and Southfield.

Mr. Scott was active in the Presbyterian Church and the Rotary Club. He is survived by sons, William P. Scott of Rogers City and John R. Scott of Petoskey; a daughter, Shirley J. McKeon of Plymouth; 14 grandchildren; and 25 great-grandchildren. Nellie G. Scott, his wife of 61 years, died in 1988.

New Legion post being organized

Area veterans and members of The American Legion have joined together to start a new American Legion post in Plymouth Township.

"Over the past 48 years, Plymouth Township and the surrounding area has grown and developed quite quickly. So have the veteran population of these areas," said organizer Gary McCoy. "With this growth in mind, the Plymouth Township and surrounding area veterans not only deserve, but need, an American Legion post to associate with and call their own."

The American Legion, which celebrates its 75th anniversary this year, was founded on the principles of providing a veteran service organization full of camaraderie for its members; providing assistance to veterans, their widows and dependents through numerous American Legion programs; and a dedicated commitment to service to the community from which its members came.

"It will be in this same spirit that the new post will operate. Aware that as a new post, our initial membership and funding will be low, we will direct our attention to programs that directly benefit veterans and the community. In addition, we will make our manpower available to other organizations in the community, and of course, we will participate in patriotic observances, such as Memorial Day, Veterans Day, and Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day," added McCoy.

The new American Legion post will be named the Beasley-Zalesny American Legion Post. It is named after Morris F. Beasley, who, on Sept. 4, 1950, became missing in action and was subsequently declared dead while serving in Korea; and Harry F. Zalesny Jr., a helicopter pilot in Vietnam, who on Dec. 22, 1969 was shot down and killed while serving with the Army. Both servicemen were from the Plymouth-Canton community.

The newly forming American Legion post invites all veterans, including active duty personnel, reservists and merchant marines to join. Veterans joining the new Beasley-Zalesny Post at this time will be classified as charter members of the post.

Fest organizers expect big crowds

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

Organizers anticipate larger crowds than ever before when the Third Annual Canton Liberty Fest with new and expanded activities gets underway June 24-26 in Heritage Park.

"If everything goes as expected and the weather is good, we are expecting bigger crowds," said Bob Dates of Canton Parks and Recreation Services.

The fest will kickoff at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 24, at the park amphitheater with a free concert by Steve King and the Dittilies performing oldies. "Everything else begins Saturday morning," Dates said.

Just before the concert, however, the public is invited to a special service scheduled at 5 p.m. to mark the first anniversary of the Canton Veterans Memorial dedication in Heritage Park.

"It will be the last hurrah of the (Veterans Memorial) association," said chair John Spencer, township finance director. Responsibilities for the memorial will be given to the township.

While miniature golf won't be part of the three-day line-up, there will be a host of new and expanded activities for attendees, such as a fife and drum muster competition, a Civil War encampment, a Taste of Canton food festival, fun inflatables for kids to play on, as well as a new host — America's Most Wanted Car Club — for the popular Classic Car Show.

Saturday, the big festival day, will conclude with a fireworks show that drew about 25,000 visitors last year. This year's event will feature more fireworks and a longer show, Dates said. The show will be preceded with a performance by the 70th Division Army Band.

"We encourage those coming to the fireworks that if they want to get into the park they should arrive no later than 7 p.m.," Dates said. Fireworks are expected to begin about 10 p.m. Parking is free.

In this election year, the Liberty Fest Committee has prohibited the distribution of campaign literature during the three-day event. The rule will apply to all candidates," Dates said.

Senior adults or other visitors who may have difficulty getting around Heritage Park may use a shuttle service, new this year.

Events that will entice visitors this year include a Saturday and Sunday line-up of performances at the amphitheater and gazebo; fine arts show, which is juried and includes art demonstrations; art workshops for kids, which allows them to take home projects; face painting; paddleboat rides on the park pond, concessions, a mini-midway for kids 10 years of age and younger; Picnic in the Park, hosted by the Plymouth-Canton Drug Abuse Resistance Education board with food provided by the Outback Steakhouse; Taste of Canton, featuring area restaurants.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce will sell raffle tickets for a chance to win a four-day trip to Cancun. The chamber also will feature a new Business Expo. The Canton Historical Society will do the same for two winning raffles each for a quarter side of beef.

Community service and informational booths also will be set up. The Canton police and fire departments will display their equipment. A special rappelling demonstration is planned as is a demonstration by Canton's canine unit. The fire department will have the Children's Fire Safety House available.

Police will crack down on seat belt law

The Plymouth Township Police want more people to buckle up and will be sending the message any way they can. As part of a campaign to encourage the motoring public to use their seat belts, officers will be enforcing the mandatory seat belt law as well as educating the public on the importance of buckling up.

Communities across the state will be involved in the campaign in an effort to increase the use of seat belts to 70 percent. Currently, 64.4 percent of the drivers in Michigan wear seat belts.

"We want the people of our community as well as those who visit Plymouth Township to realize that using seat belts do in fact prevent injury and save lives," said Sgt. Antal.

"The old saying that accidents happen near home is true and that is why it is so important to remember to buckle up every time you drive or ride in a vehicle. As part of our campaign, the officers will be watching for drivers who do not wear their seat belts and we will have citations for those who do not wear them and small rewards for those who do."

Michigan law requires that all front seat passengers wear seat belts, even in cars equipped with air bags.

Antal said air bags were designed to work with the seat belt, not to replace it. The law also states that infants up to one year must be in an approved child car seat. Children 1-4 years of age must be in safety belts if sitting in the back seat.

The Plymouth Township Police will be promoting the use of seat belts by installing signs to remind drivers to buckle up. We will also be available to speak at community meetings. Literature will also be available at the Plymouth Township Police Department. Area businesses are donating items to be given away to those who buckle up and think safety.

Fourth of July events planned

Businesses and individuals are being invited to participate in the Fourth of July celebration in Plymouth by sponsoring parade entries and fireworks displays.

Sponsorship of a parade entry or fireworks display will provide the sponsoring business with suitable advertising to a captive audience, say the Plymouth-Canton Jaycees, who put on the fireworks celebration in cooperation with the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees can provide interested sponsors with a price list, showing how much donors can buy related to the parade or the fireworks show.

For parade sponsorship call Scott Kappler at 454-0080. For fireworks, call Cameron Miller at 455-1230.

Tax relief

Small businesses in Michigan which gross less than $250,000 a year will not have to pay the single business tax under legislation so-sponsored by state Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, and passed Tuesday by the state House.

The bills cut the business tax rate from 2.35 to 2.3 percent and lower the alternate profits tax rate from 3 to 2 percent, among other provisions.

"This is the kind of support our small businesses need to continue to thrive in Michigan," Vorva said. The legislation must pass the state Senate to become law.

Restrictions

The city of Plymouth public works department is telling residents that the city is under an odd-even by-house-number water use restriction placed by the Detroit Water and Sewerage Dept.

Residents with even-numbered addresses may water outdoors on dates with even numbers, and odd-numbered residences on odd-numbered dates.

Meanwhile, the Kellogg Park fountain will remain dry, and the watering of city parks has been reduced. The City Commission is expected to discuss a water emergency ordinance at its meeting today at 7 p.m. at city hall.

Volunteer lauded

Pat Pulkownik of The Patriotic Group will be honored at Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Volunteer of the Year from 8-9 a.m. Thursday at the chamber office.

Refreshments will be served and no invitation is needed as the public is invited to attend.

Thanks for Sticking with Us.

Gray fox's arrival the talk of the neighborhood

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

It's no big deal to spot a squirrel, raccoon or opossum in your subdivision.

But a gray fox?
Along Gold Arbor street, just a few hundred yards north of Ann Arbor Road, some neighbors have spotted a gray fox - with three young.

Clint Stroebel first saw the fox June 10. "It's as tall as a sheltie but longer, with a big bushy tail," he explained.

"It was in our back yard and the neighbor's back yard; the pups were playing out in the flowers and the mama was watching," he said.

The appearance of the fox family has sparked discussion along the street. "It's not a red fox; it's gray - I think they're more rare," Stroebel said. They suspect the animals live to the west, in a wooded area near the Plymouth Elks hall.

Tim Payne of the state Department of Natural Resources said, "20 years ago it would be an extremely rare occurrence for a gray fox to be in southeast Michigan."

"It's an animal that is moving north and east," Payne said, adding gray foxes are now as common as red ones in this area.

On the fox's appearance in the subdivision, he said, "A lot of people think of Plymouth as residential, but if you just go outside of town . . . you've got some wild lands."

Payne said he had a chance to watch a gray fox closely last year, as one appeared outside his office window at Seven Mile and Haggerty roads in Livonia.

He describes red foxes as "a little bit more aggressive" than red foxes. "They feed primarily on small animals, mice, rabbits; a little bit more of the vegetable matter, fruits and invertebrates than red foxes do," he said.

Payne said gray foxes pose no danger to humans, but may choose to attack a cat as prey.

While the animal may draw a comparison to a small dog, a closer look reveals it's no dog. "The tail is a giveaway," Stroebel said.

On June 11, the Austin family, which lives just north of Stroebel, got the animals on video.

"One of the fox cubs had made it over here to my back yard," Susan Austin said. The mother came over and they went across the street, she said.

The family cat was in the back yard at the time. "The cat and the fox looked at each other; they didn't do anything," she said.

"The neighbors saw them playing in the flowers like kittens or pups," Stroebel said. If people approached the pups, "They would keep a distance. The mother keeps an eye on you," he said.

Payne said because the gray fox has claws that are more hooked than the red fox, it can climb trees on an incline, which gives the animal its other name, tree fox.

"It really uses more of a wooded habitat than the red fox does," Payne said, adding a fox's young are called kits.

On the run: Residents on Gold Arbor spotted this gray fox, with her young, along the street in recent days.

Hearing planned

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

A public hearing on the Plymouth-Canton school budget is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 27, at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

Board members Monday night discussed expenditures that possibly will be added to the district's $85.8 million budget. By law, the district's 1994-95 budget must be passed by July 1.

Trustees agreed to spend up to $300,000 on instructional materials. "It's not all we need, but it's a start," said trustee Sue Feiten. Board members also agreed to spend $20,000 on assessment and $37,000 on a fifth teacher for the Talented and Gifted program. Hiring more teachers and fewer para-professionals also was discussed.

The board is considering other additions to the budget. Included are expenditures to hire elementary counselors, a grant writer, marching band director, and educational aides; reduce class size; purchase curriculum center materials and equipment for the high schools' attendance office; fund transportation to the high school for the middle school orchestra; bolster the vocational education and summer school budgets; and fund the "school-within-a-school" proposed for the high schools.

Also budgeted is $300,000 for "negotiations contingency." Recently-passed legislation that makes it illegal for teachers to strike won't be effective until March 1995.

The board hasn't yet decided whether to charge students to participate in sports and extracurricular activities.

A number of parents urged the board to hire a fifth teacher for the Talented and Gifted program. Smith Elementary School learning specialist Nancy Martinez pressed the board to hire learning specialists for the two new elementary openings in the fall.

Schools look at ungraded program

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

A plan to merge grades K-3 and 3-5 in multilevel, ungraded classes was proposed to the board of education by Farrand Elementary School staff Monday night.

The program - funded by a grant and backed by Principal Ann Kuhn and seven Farrand teachers - would be voluntary for both students and teachers if approved by the board.

"It's a multi-age program that would be a learning community to use the best of the current research to be supportive of children and to provide them with opportunities in K-3 and 3-5," said Richard Egli, community relations director.

"It wouldn't be mandated. It would be permitted to grow based on voluntary support from both teachers and parents. There's a lot of teamwork and involvement of parents."

If adopted, the plan would be designed for a three-year period.

"If it got big enough, the district might want to set up a segment in every school or set up a program like TAG (Talented and Gifted)."

Kuhn expects there'll be more requests for enrollment than spaces available. "We will try to honor parents' requests, but we can't honor them all. We haven't committed to all parents. We've said we will do our best," she said.

Trustee Carl Battishill, a teacher in another district, said, "I would challenge teachers involved to discuss your concerns and responsibilities up front, rather than as a grievance."

Egli said the program will evolve. "It's not something we're going to do and say this is the end point. It's something where we are able to continually review what's best for the program."

Kuhn said one of the reasons for the program is to accommodate the different rates at which students learn. "Too often we see kids who can go far beyond where teachers are taking them. But given the structure we have, it can't be done. This provides a vehicle to take them far beyond. I see it benefiting both ends of the spectrum."

The school day would include time for journal writing, sharing, group reading, activities to apply learned concepts, reading, math, cooperative projects and review.

Board president Roland Thomas asked whether research and testing data were examined.

Teacher Deborah Greenwood said it's difficult to find effective testing instruments for young children. "We want to make sure what we are doing is good for kids. We prefer the portfolio. If we find something cheap, we will let you know."

Superintendent John Hoben said the program could lend itself to distance learning, perhaps via an inter-active video with Michigan State University, an idea he's exploring with educators there.

Parents spoke in favor of the idea. "We endorse this," said Tom and Susan Porter. "The teachers involved have put a lot of time and effort into this."

Ron Lazzarini said "parents have been intimately involved from the beginning. We are monitoring what's going on. We have a vested interest in seeing this and hope it has a good chance to succeed."

Trustee Barbara Graham said, "The key is involvement of parents. The concept strikes me as one of the best keys we are going to have."

Trustee Sue Feiten said she hoped parents would continue to take part. "This is an interesting, exciting idea. I'll be involved."

Thomas said programs that "start at the bottom and work their way up are the most successful. I'm sure we'll have a positive result."

New school superintendent attends first board meeting

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Charles Little, who will take over as Plymouth-Canton Community Schools superintendent July 11, attended his first board meeting in the district Tuesday night.

Currently superintendent of Fróntier Central Schools near Buffalo, Little sat at the board table, but didn't participate in the meeting.

Routinely, board members introduce themselves to the audience prior to each meeting. Little stated his name and said he's looking forward to becoming a resident of the community.

He was in town for three days but was so busy he had little time for house hunting. Tuesday, he stopped in every school building in the district and lasted through a long evening board meeting. Meetings on Wednesday began at 7 a.m. and ended after 9:30 p.m. with a superintendent's advisory committee meeting.

Thursday's activities also began at 7 a.m., and ended with a dinner with school board president Roland Thomas.

Little succeeds Superintendent John Hoben, who will retire June 30 after serving the district for 39 years, 23 of them as superintendent.

Little has worked as a social studies teacher, an assistant principal, and principal of a middle school and high school. He's held superintendencies at progressively larger school districts, beginning with Garrison Union Free Schools in New York. Frontier Central has 5,050 students.

Little's early training included service as a sales trainee and a stint in the U.S. Army.

He earned a bachelor's degree in history from Rutgers University, a master's degree from the State University of New York, and a doctorate in school administration from Indiana University. Little; his wife, Diane; and their three children plan to move to Plymouth-Canton sometime this summer.

"While I wasn't looking to move at this time, Plymouth-Canton was such an exceptional school district that I was pleased to be asked by the search firm and pleased to be considered for the superintendent's position," he said.

"I'm looking forward to continuing the excellence in education which I've seen in my visits to the district. I'm also looking forward to having my own three children attend school in Plymouth-Canton so they can benefit from all the educational opportunities available there.

"It's clear that there are some areas of concern in the district, finances and the settling of contracts to name two. However, I'm looking forward to the challenges which these concerns bring. I've been warmly received by all the people I've talked with on my visits. I look forward to being a part of the community and to working with all the staff and administrators to move the district forward in its task of preparing young people for living and growing in the 21st century."

earned a reputation as an outstanding first-grade teacher.

"She lays the foundations, and she lays them well," said Fiegel principal Barbara Young. "We'd hoped to keep her a few more years. Lois has always been a champion for children. She's challenged us to look at what we were doing and how it was we were doing it."

September will find Santer volunteering in an elementary school, albeit many miles from here. "I'm moving back home to Newberry, in the Tahquamenon National Forest in the Upper Peninsula," said Santer. "I'll be in there helping them open the elementary school."

A prime reason Santer is retiring is to spend time with her children and grandchildren. She's a big believer in being there when children are young, to help shape their minds and lives.

Daughter Laura has two young sons and is an entrepreneur in New Zealand. Daughter Amy McKaig is a lawyer in Dallas. Daughter Lisa Santer is a pediatrician at the University of Alabama, and son Kevin, father of a 6-month-old son, is an engineer who lives in Plymouth.

After biking through England this summer with her sister, Santer plans to rent a home for three months next winter near her family in New Zealand.

"There's something really strong about appreciating your roots and your heritage. I think it brings us closer to real life," said Santer, whose parents were raised in lumber camps in the Upper Peninsula.

Santer and her husband, also active with youth, took their children for extended stays in the U.P. every summer. "The values there are different," said Santer. "In the suburbs, it's almost like being segregated. Everybody has wall-to-wall carpeting and buys the same thing, whereas up there, each home is different. You wonder what the story is. When you die, does the person with the biggest pile win?"

Santer's father and mother, whose parents homesteaded north of Newberry, had lots to be proud of. Neither went past sixth grade. "But six out of seven of us have college degrees," said Santer, who earned a second degree while her children were in school.

Santer, who also teaches parenting in Plymouth-Canton's community education program at Fiegel, shared some hard-won wisdom:

■ On parenting: "There are so many books written that parents are afraid to follow their instincts. I think it makes them hesitant, and not as free to follow common sense."

■ On poverty and low test scores: "It's not the lack of money. It's the lack of time spent with children that's doing it."

■ On high technology in the classroom: "I'd very frankly like to sell the closed circuit TV and telephone in my classroom and hire an aide so kids could have another warm body instead of a machine. Children have less and less time with their parents, they're in larger classrooms, and the teacher is more fragmented. In the early grades, children need someone to talk with them. I question whether we are losing the humanistic approach."

■ On developmental education: "Children need more one-on-one so we can take them from where they are and have them meet success."

Leaving Plymouth-Canton is bittersweet, said Santer, who one day last week was giving antiques away to relatives and friends. "I will miss the children," she said.

Momentum

Canton playscape gains support

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Plans for a volunteer-built wooden playscape in Heritage Park have gained momentum with financial support from Canton Township.

Township trustees agreed to give organizers of the Canton Community Playscape up to $30,000 to hire an architect from the Leathers Company to work on the design for the playscape.

"Children, adults and teens take part in the design of the structure," said Canton resident Christine Donaldson, who has spearheaded the effort.

The play structures can be as small as 10,000 square feet or large as 20,000 square feet. Volunteers also raise money for the playscape, which can cost $65,000-$85,000. When materials are ready, volunteers put it together.

"We're getting a great community effort going here," said Canton resident Scott Lowes, representative organizer for Carpenter's District Council of Detroit and Southeastern Michigan. The carpenter's union has volunteered to help build the playscape.

Organizers have formed committees, such as public relations, volunteers and children. They will have a booth at the Liberty Fest June 25-26 where kids will be asked to suggest an official name for the playscape. Prizes, one of which will include a hand-painted shirt bearing the new name and logo, will be awarded.

Anyone who would like to join the effort is asked to call Donaldson, 397-5909, Jan Pickard, 416-9428, or Lynne Eckardt, 454-9745.

Township parks and recreation staff also will ask kids signed up in summer recreation and parks programs to develop designs for the structure.

"Canton lacks play equipment for toddlers and all children," Donaldson said, including an informal place for parents to gather with their children. "So far, community support has been nothing but overwhelming."

Plans are to design the structure in the fall and build it in the spring or early summer with an unveiling at the 1996 annual Canton Liberty Fest.

The children's committee chaired by resident Michelle Hall said designs for the playscape will be gathered from kids. Information has been posted at area restaurants and the Friday night Rock 'N Bowl at the Super Bowl on Ford Road.

"We're also targeting the older child," Hall said. Approximately 50 kids of those who submitted their ideas will be invited to Design Day in September.

The Leathers Company has worked on similar structures in Livonia, Farmington Hills, Allen Park, Ann Arbor and Grosse Pointe. "If you follow this system very closely you will be successful," Donaldson said.

A fund-raiser for the playscape will be hosted by Fran Mintz of Jazzercise 9-10:30 a.m. Saturday, July 9, in Heritage Park. All proceeds from the $10 per person registration fee will be donated to the playscape. Before the fund-raiser, Mintz will demonstrate Jazzercise at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, June 25, at the Liberty Fest.

McDonald's, Bob's of Canton, Meijer and Kroger have made donations of food and beverages for the fund-raiser.

Organizers will also have a meeting Thursday, July 21, in the south pavilion at Heritage Park near the site where the playscape is planned. "Bring a picnic, bring your families," Donaldson said.

spot one ant or termite, yet a whole nest can exist right under his or her feet.

While pest control firms typically return monthly to spray chemicals to head off the problem, he said using Molly cuts down on chemical use — and some customers favor that approach.

After spotting an ad in a trade magazine, Thompson looked into Beacon Dogs. In Maryland, he underwent 10 days of training himself, to learn how to use Molly, who cost $10,000.

By a licensing agreement with the firm, Thompson is the sole pest control businessman in a several-county area able to offer the dog-detecting service.

To demonstrate Molly's detecting ability, Thompson scatters pieces of wood and other objects along a line about 30 yards long in his backyard.

After placing just a few termites and carpenter ants in closed containers underneath a few objects, he drags a pointer along the line and Molly follows on a leash as he repeats the command, "Search!"

Even though the test run involves just a few of the insects, Molly is able to find them. She demonstrates this by scratching at the ground where the containers have been randomly placed.

"Good girl! Good girl," Thompson says, giving her a small treat each time she detects the pests, as per Molly's training.

Why a beagle, and not another breed of dog? "Hounds all have good sensory processes, they seem to have a lot bigger response," Thompson said.

By the agreement with Beacon Dogs Inc., someone from the firm comes to Thompson's home every few years to make sure the dog is still in top training.

Summer art programs offered

Special summer art and photography classes will be offered for students in the Plymouth-Canton School District through the Talented and Gifted Art Program (ARTAG). The classes, Monster Mania and Fotomania, will be held at Pioneer Middle School. Registration forms for both classes are available at all elementary and middle schools.

Monster Mania, for any students ages eight to 11, is a two-week course that runs June 27 through July 8. Two sessions will be offered: 9 to 10:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. In this class, students can express their creativity through the medium of papier-mache. Fanciful creatures, from tiny monsters to huge monsters, will be created by the students individually and as group projects. The fee for the class is $28.

Fotomania, a photography class for students ages 10 to 15, is also a two-week course which runs July 11 through July 22. Class time is 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and the fee is $38. As a part of the course, students will build their own cameras and develop their own photos. The photographs students will take will include pets, natural framing, portraits and wildlife. There will be field trips to a professional portrait studio, a commercial photo lab, a newspaper photography department, a greenhouse and a nature preserve. Students are required to supply their own film and be responsible for developing costs. Each student must bring a 35mm camera to class.

Following the classes, the best student works will be exhibited at the Canton Public Library. For more information, call ARTAG instructor, Mary Mack at 459-9355.

Simowski, also questioning Lowe's use of "criminals beware," wrote, "The only person who has had to beware of Mr. Lowe thus far was Mr. (Maurice) Breen." Lowe earlier this month challenged the validity of Breen's petition signatures, and Breen was disqualified.

Responding to Simowski's charges of illegal campaign signs, City Manager Steve Walters said

Gerou and Lowe campaign signs are permitted business identification signs for which they obtained building permits. Walters said Levitte and Boak were both notified June 13 that they had signs in violation.

Levitte has maintained the city ordinance pertaining to campaign signs is illegal.

By the ordinance, political signs can't exceed 4 square feet in area, and may be no higher than 4 feet.

STREET CRACKS

Dennis Wolfberg

Wolfberg ready for his make-up

BY BOB SADLER
SPECIAL WRITER

A not-so-funny thing happened to Dennis Wolfberg on the way to the forum . . . I mean Royal Oak Music Theatre for a sold-out May 4 performance. He broke his hip.

It all happened in a hotel room in Charlotte, N.C., where Wolfberg was getting ready for a performance.

"I had been booked to play for the Jewish community there," Wolfberg deadpanned. "I guess all three of them were invited."

After taking the painful spill that caused the injury, Wolfberg struggled for 25 minutes before reaching the phone.

"The one thing that was going through my mind at the time was whether the honor bar in the room had morphine in it," Wolfberg said.

Wolfberg spent a few weeks off his feet at a home in Los Angeles recuperating, needless to say, before returning to the road two weekends ago in Seattle. Of course, the whole experience has provided him with a wealth of new material.

"If my pain can benefit people in some way by making them laugh, then it's all been worth it," Wolfberg said.

Ironically, if there was anything that moved Wolfberg in the direction of comedy, it was fear of pain. A native New Yorker, he was a sixth grade teacher in a public school in the South Bronx for 12 years. The area was so bad even Mother Teresa referred to it as a "hellhole," Wolfberg joked.

"You've seen the clips of D-Day all over television recently. Think of my teaching experience as a daily D-Day. It was relentlessly challenging. You reach some kids, and others you don't, but you give it a good try.

"By the time a lot of these kids reach the sixth grade, they're already beyond helping."

Wolfberg had five goals — he called them fantasies — when he started doing standup comedy, and he's already achieved all five. The final one was reached when Wolfberg won the Best Male Comic category at the American Comedy Awards a couple years ago.

"In no particular order, the first fantasy was to be able to travel the country and entertain people — and get paid for it," Wolfberg said. "Number two was to be able to play a place called the Westbury Music Fair, which was five minutes from the house I grew up in.

"Number three was to play Las Vegas, which years ago was the culmination of comedy club success. Number four was to do 'The Tonight Show,' and five was to win an Oscar."

The Oscar was the last one — and an unlikely one, Wolfberg admitted. But the American Comedy Awards are presented at the Shrine Theatre in Los Angeles, are televised by ABC, and have the same format.

AT THE MIKE

One of the funniest dogs around. . . He adds his irreverent wit and inimitable tone to those Acura Integra "spots" (pun intended — he supplies the voice of the dog), and became one of the first performers to release an entertainment CD-ROM. Yes, Dennis Miller is back in town this week for two shows Thursday at the Royal Oak Music Theatre (where the laughs will still be echoing from Dennis Wolfberg). Westland's own Jim McLean is slated to open. Tickets are available at all TicketMaster outlets or charge at (810) 645-6666.

If you can't make it to Woodstock '94, man . . . You could check out "America's Last Hippie" Jim Wiggins in Ann Arbor. He makes his way out of a purple haze and to the stage of the Main-Street Comedy Showcase for shows Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Call (313) 996-9080.

All-American humor at Meadowbrook. . . Richard Jeni, the "Platypus Man" from New York City, returns to the area for an appearance under the stars at Meadowbrook July 1. You can always count on Jeni to deliver top-notch laughter. His show marks the first three really cool comedy shows at Meadowbrook this summer. Tickets are available at The Palace box office, all TicketMaster outlets or charge at (810) 645-6666.

Vancouver's sound heads East

■ The musical hoopla surrounding the World Cup games takes on a definite Canadian flavor with performances by two Vancouver groups — The Odds at CIMX's third birthday party and 54.40 at St. Andrew's Hall.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Vancouver may have lost the Stanley Cup, but bands hailing from the western Canadian city are hoping to win over fans in the Detroit area within the next week.

The Odds will be in town Saturday, June 25, to help radio station 88.7-FM (CIMX) celebrate its third birthday with a free show, featuring a host of alternative rock acts, at the Phoenix Plaza Amphitheatre in Pontiac. The show is also part of a massive 1½-week long celebration of the World Cup games that includes a "restaurant row," artists' booths and retailers.

With harmonies and storybook lyrics similar to Squeeze's Chris Difford and Glenn Tilbrook, the Odds' 1993 album "Bedbugs" is by far one of the year's best releases.

The album is a tongue-in-cheek, loosely based concept album about a young man's coming of age. Descriptions next to the songs like "Gets lost" "Gets offed" tell the listener which part of the man's life the song represents.

The Odds didn't set out to do a record like that. The band members wrote songs separately, and when they got together to record "Bedbugs," they realized that their songs all had a common bond — relationships.

"When we finished the record, we started putting the songs together in some sort of order, and we realized that there was some (similarity)," said Craig Northey, the Odds' lead singer. "It turned out to be interesting, cheesy and serendipitous at the same time. We put the little descriptions next to it, so everyone could read along."

The Odds, whose follow-up album will be released by Warner Bros. in late fall, are excited about returning to the Detroit area. Northey figures the band's biggest crowd was when they played the Freedom Festival in Windsor, Ont., last year.

"I think that was the highest attendance figure we ever had — if you counted the fish flies," he said. "They were mostly all over Doug (Elliott, bassist). They were covering him like the Guinness Book of World Records' guy with the beard made of bees."

Needless to say, he's pleased that the Odds' show Saturday is nowhere near water.

Fellow Vancouverians, the quirky alternapopsters 54.40 will perform at St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit on Monday, June 27, to promote its latest Canadian release "Smilin' Buddha Cabaret." The title of the album, due to be released here in the fall, pays homage to the landmark Vancouver club where 54.40 made its debut. Although the club closed in 1989, its spirit has remained at the heart of 54.40. Smilin' Buddha's neon sign, which the band recently bought, is the centerpiece of 54.40's show.

STREET BEATS

"It's a Vancouver landmark," said drummer Matt Johnson of the club. "The history of it goes back to, I believe, . . . the mid-'50s. There's a lot of lore that goes along with it. Cheech and Chong supposedly met there. (Jimi) Hendrix has played there. It's deep rooted in Vancouver history."

54.40 is fairly planted in Vancouver as well. The quartet was formed 15 years ago by vocalist/guitarist Neil Osborne and bassist Brad Merritt, who were inspired to start a band after seeing shows at the Smilin' Buddha. Although 54.40's most frequently played hit around here is the snappy "I Go Blind," Johnson said that in Canada many have overlooked the band's quirkiness in lieu of its political statements.

"Our prior releases were taken too seriously, especially in Canada, because of our songs and the benefits we do," he said. "I think for a number of years we were kind of pegged as a politically correct band."

"I think the band's always had a sense of humor. I don't think it's been translated that well."

Nevertheless, Johnson, who's been a member of 54.40 since 1985, is pleased with the success of his band, which also includes guitarist/vocalist Phil Comporelli.

"It does say a lot that fact that we have stuck around this long. For us, success has always been the longer we stay around, and we enjoy what we're doing. That's successful enough for us."

The free 89X Birthday Bash on Saturday, June 25, also includes the Afghan Whigs, Beck, Superchunk, Scrawl, Polvo, Sponge and Truman's Water. It starts at 4 p.m. at the Phoenix Plaza Amphitheatre, 10 Water St., Pontiac. Call (810) 335-4850.

54.50 plays St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, with Junkhouse and Sonic Boomerang at 8 p.m. Monday, June 27. Tickets are $9. Call (313) 961-MELT.

Ball, Burns bring blues to Frog Island

Marcia Ball: At the Frog Island Festival in Ypsilanti.

BY MARK GALLO
SPECIAL WRITER

"I woke up to one of those steady, tropical rains this morning," Marcia Ball related by phone from her Austin, Texas, home last week. "Now it's a sauna."

Ball knows a lot about heat, particularly the injection of it in performance. One of the premier boogie pianist/vocalists in the country, she's guaranteed to add a few degrees to the Frog Island Music Festival, the annual rite of summer set for Ypsilanti's Depot Town this weekend. Outside of Katie Webster, who Ball calls "the Godmother I'd never known before," and whose Lake Charles, La., home is 20 miles from Ball's Vinton birthplace, the list of truly incendiary female pianists is a short one. That she's in such constant demand is no surprise.

And with a new CD to promote, her first in five years, this appearance promises to be a major treat.

"It's in the can," she said of the new Rounder CD, to be entitled

"Blue House."

Expected to be out in August, there will be a few new stylistic things to grab the ear on "Blue House," but "not anything too radical, she promised.

On the subject of the blues, legendary Detroit bluesman Eddie Burns, making an all-too-rare local appearance, is sure to be one of the highlights of the weekend.

As much as the blues enjoying its most substantial popularity in years, Burns is proof positive that, as with all manner of U.S. pop culture, blues is far more appreciated across the oceans. Just back from a tour that took him to Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland ("It was the first time I'd played Helsinki in 25 years."), he has some pretty harsh thoughts on the local blues scene that has turned its back on many of the players that put Detroit on the musical map.

"It's all rock'n'roll and rockabilly; it's a joke," he said. "I played here when they were playing blues. Now, it's all dog-eat-dog. The people who deserve the right money aren't getting it."

The internationally renowned guitarist/vocalist knows where of he speaks.

Born in Belzoni, Miss., in 1928, it was as a 20-year-old that he first came to Detroit.

Stranded in Iowa with his guitar-playing compatriot, John T. Smith ("I was a harmonica player. Wasn't no clubs to play in Waterloo, so we played on street corners and at house parties."), they met a woman, visiting a relative from Detroit. In short order, she convinced Smith that Detroit was a much more happening town, and the two of them convinced Burns of the same.

When they first hit town, Hastings Street and Black Bottom, the birthplace of the local blues scene "were already happening." Within a couple of weeks, he met John Lee Hooker, and his life was changed.

"John T and I were playing a house party. John Lee lived in back, and we didn't know it." Although they were playing acoustic, Hooker never heard it.

"He knocked on the door and he told me he liked the way I was

"There are five nominees who don't know if they're going to win," Wolfberg said. "You have to give an acceptance speech, and you face the press afterward. It's really the Oscars of comedy."

In addition to his extensive list of comedic achievements, Wolfberg has also done some acting on the big and small screen in more dramatic roles. Most notably, he played Gushie, one of a group of scientists working on a time travel project on the NBC series "Quantum Leap." The critically acclaimed show, which starred Scott Bakula and Dean Cain, was canceled last year after four seasons. The show's producers hope to revive the story in a future made-for-TV movie or even a big screen feature, according to Wolfberg.

"It was a wonderful show, in spite of my involvement," Wolfberg said. "After auditioning for the part, Wolfberg was in Detroit for shows at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, when his wife called with good news and bad news."

"The good news was I had gotten the role; the bad news was that they were shooting my scene on Friday," Wolfberg said. "The scene was an important one, the first minute of the pilot."

Wolfberg ended up flying back to the West Coast on Thursday to film the scene, then flew back to Michigan to perform shows Saturday and Sunday to make up for the missed performances.

Dennis Wolfberg will appear tomorrow for a sold-out show at the blowing the harmonica. He had cut 'Boogie Chillun,' but it wasn't out yet."

In addition to years of work with Hooker, including playing guitar on the "Let's Go Out Tonight" LP with Willie Dixon and Fred Below as well as on Hooker's classic version of "One Bourbon, One Scotch, One Beer," (which can be found just in front of Burns' own "Jinglin' Baby" on the four-CD "Chess Blues" boxed set), Burns was an early Motown artist. He'll bring Motown session aces Joe Hunter and Frank Bryant along for the Frog Island appearance.

Burns has a relatively new disc out, too. Entitled "Detroit," it's available on the Evidence label. He also has one of the standouts cuts on the "Blues Factory, Vol. 1" compilation, entitled "Don't Let Money Change You."

He's more excited about the next project, though.

"I'm ready for one now, if I get a good deal," he said. "I've got a whole album, or I guess CD, cut now. It's quite different from what I've been doing."

The Frog Island Music Festival takes place June 24-26 at Depot Town (Cross Street) in Ypsilanti. For ticket information, call (313) 487-2229 or (313) 761-1800.

Nothing is fishy about seaside art

Gone fishin'! Scrawled on a weathered chunk of driftwood, these two words are synonymous with summer. They conjure sun-warmed afternoons by a lazy stream and brilliant sunrises on sandy beaches. Time to kick back, relax, and ponder life through the watery treasures that are washed in on the tides of time.

To bring the season home, catch a school of seaworthy finds and scatter them on your deck or patio, in the powder room or among the flowers in your garden. Our tropical-hued finned friends bring a little bit of seaside paradise to all of our summer living spaces.

A bright blue-green Tang fish, sculpted in metal by Dean Petaja, would happily float on the sun-room "sea" wall. Check him out in the window of Objects of Art, 6243 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield ($240).

An equally vibrant metal sculpture fish can be found at Ilona and Gallery, 6385 Orchard Lake Road in the Orchard Mall, West Bloomfield. This smaller fish is handpainted in watercolors and sits on a wooden block. I see him decorating a corner of a sunny tiled bathroom counter ($140). Entertaining on the patio? Serve grilled seafood on a bright melamine fish-shaped tray from Hudson's Marketplace shops ($9.99). Keep the occasion festive and fishy with colorful acrylic serving pieces that include a set of four double old-fashioned ($15), a set of four beverage glasses ($15), a three-quart pitcher ($22), three-quart ice bucket ($25) and a large acrylic tray ($22). Also from Hudson's, a flag to beckon guests to your "beach party" — a 28-by-40-inch pink, yellow and turquoise tropical fish ($19.99) plus pole, $10).

Seashore scenes

A brand new gift shop opened recently in the Orchard Mall it entices with handpainted walls and borders, and some fun, one-of-a-kind merchandise. Among the "beckoning bait" at Wrap It Up, are Susan Painter's charming pastel ceramics that feature seashore scenes ($30-$100), brighter fish-designed Hungarian ceramic casseroles and platters ($35.50-$66.50) and green glass fish-shaped candles in crayon colors (4 for $12). A painted wooden picture frame is aptly named "Under The Sea" ($26) and whimsical Fimo fish pins float in a counter display box ($21 and $30).

Though you normally turn to Lisa Parks, 244 E. Maple in Birmingham for hand-knit sweaters, the eclectic boutique displays a myriad of trend-setting fashion accessories, unique jewelry creations and artfully designed accoutrements. Included is a wonderful cotton canvas "fishing hat" complete with a cascade of netting ($63). Don't be surprised if you see Aretha sporting this jaunty topper. She just snagged one for her summer wardrobe.

In Royal Oak, the Deborah Roberts Design Room, 206 W. 11 Mile, showcases Roberts' jewelry designs as well as works of other local artists. Roberts often incorporates nature themes in her work, and includes a folk art fish design in a white bronze bracelet highlighted by jet beads ($95).

Also at the shop, a northern Michigan sculptor crafts wooden fish with copper fins ($36), and another Michigan mold oxidized brass into fish-shaped drawer pulls ($21). Laurie Eisenhardt's mermaid platter is an eye-catcher ($182) as is Huntington Woods artist Eve Louise's painted and decoupaged mirror ($72). Also spotted, a primitive wooden frame decorated with bronze fish ($30).

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her column ideas at (313) 953-2047, mailbox 1889 or fax them to her at (810) 644-1314.

Melrose star says: Don't just sit there, let's Do Something!

A guest appearance by Melrose Place star Andrew Shue drew hundreds of fans to Hudson's Oakland Mall store in Troy. The actor signed Guess? T-shirts created to benefit his Do Something campaign.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

"It's up to us!" television hunk Andrew Shue of "Melrose Place" told a 99-percent female crowd at Hudson's Young Men's Department one recent Friday afternoon.

But it was hard to tell whether the burst of applause that followed was meant for the cause or its founder.

"He's sooo cute," said Jenny Cavanaugh, 16, of Livonia. "I came to get his autograph — oh, and I also came to support the cause."

The cause is Do Something, a national non-profit organization of which Shue is a co-founder. Do Something strives to "inspire and assist young people to take problem-solving actions to improve their communities."

Based in New York City, Do Something is run by a full-time staff of the under-30 set with assistance from a board of advisers. Local branches give grants up to $500 to peers who have creative community building ideas. Do Something oversees their projects, then builds in-network to raise the fund to endowment size. As of April 1994, there are Do Something funds in Newark, N.J., Boston, Mass., and Selma, Ala.

Shue came to Michigan to spread the word about the year-old organization and inform young people that grant applications are now available through Blockbuster Video stores, Guess? merchants like Hudson's and the local Boys and Girls Clubs.

Hudson's spokeswoman Chris Morrisroe said Shue's local visit produced about $7,500 for Do Something from the sale of about 500 T-shirts.

Do Something ads have appeared in all media, supported by MTV, Fox Television, Channel One/White Education Network, Rolling Stone, Us, Vibe, Seventeen, Entertainment Weekly and Emerge.

A phone number was established recently for anyone who wants to contribute to "the constructive energies of young people" — 1 (900) ALL OF US.

Designer adds jazz

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

What fine jewelry designer has the nerve to add antique Chinese poker chips to an elegant pearl necklace trimmed in 14-k gold?

Or finish the ends of a black onyx lariat with sterling silver trinkets found in Afghanistan?

Why, Sharon Meyer of Amalgamations, that's who!

The Troy-based designer produces about 250 one-of-a-kind necklaces a year, selling her pieces to clients like Jacobson's Department Stores, the Chicago Art Institute and the New York Public Library Museum.

"Eleven years ago, when I was 24 years old, I decided to go into the fine jewelry business for myself because working for an established jewelry company, Charles Warren, I didn't have the opportunity to be as creative as I wanted to be. I used my credentials and experience from Warren's as the opportunity to go it alone. I've been growing steadily ever since and most of my business is with repeat customers."

Meyer decided to name her company Amalgamations, from the verb amalgamate, to unite or combine complementary materials. That's her design style, combining precious and semi-precious stones with unique components from around the world using custom 14K gold and sterling silver, both antique and contemporary.

Meyer's creations are not faddish, but classic and fashionable. The price range is $250 to $3,600. Following her precise sketches, a close-knit staff of three creates one-of-a-kind necklaces and earrings using amber, gemstones, turquoise, peridot, jade, lapis, pearls and onyx.

"I offer the discriminating jewelry lover value," Meyer explained. "I'm a wholesaler in beads. I buy my own components from all over the world. The way I string them produces a fashion look, a rich look, but without the high price tag. I love to use color. I love to combine black with color."

Meyer graduated from Troy High School, taking every art class available, including metalsmithing, pottery and macramé. She said her jewelry career grew out of an appreciation for beautiful jewelry, her desire to work with her hands and the fact she was "not good at drawing or painting."

Jacobson's spokeswoman Janice Hayes said the company has done very well with Meyer's line of fine jewelry. "She represents the kind of unique talent we strive to feature," Hayes said.

Meyer said Amalgamations takes her energies every day of the week because she is always contemplating a new design, a new component purchase, a better way to do something. To relax, she sews and spends time with her two young children, "who also love to string beads," she said with a wide smile.

She hopes Amalgamations will continue to grow slowly so she can control the quality and uniqueness of each piece. But expansion awaits as a new sales representative is pitching the collection on the west coast and museum business is increasing.

"One of the best features of my business is that because we are small and personal, I can design whatever a customer has in mind. This works at Jacobson's where sales people put me in touch with clients so I can transform a button earring into something dangled for someone with a round-face, or tailor-make a colored stone piece to go with a shopper's latest outfit. That inspires me."

Meyer said she doesn't have any mentors or heroes, "I just go with my own inspirations." She plans a fall "trunk" show at area Jacobson's. Currently, her ethnic-looking necklaces are in demand to go with the light tones of summer.

"Fashion dictates whether beads will be long or choker-length," Meyer said. "But the Amalgamations Look will always make sure they're classical."

Shue became a teen heart throb for his portrayal of aspiring writer Billy Campbell on the Fox Television series "Melrose Place." His film credits include "The Karate Kid" and "Adventures in Babysitting."

He attended Dartmouth College where he majored in history and played soccer on the Ivy League championship team. With his coach's encouragement, he went to Africa to teach math at a government school. He played soccer for the Bulawayo Highlanders, an all-African league.

When Shue played in Zimbabwe before a cheering crowd of 70,000 fans, he was named "Man of the Match." His team went on to win the national championship. Shue went on with a deepened social consciousness, which led to Do Something.

Nicole Nance and Kelly Soles of Rochester came for an auto-

Compromise is needed on high ed budget bills

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

In dollar terms, the state House and Senate budget bills for public universities look alike — $1.36 billion for the next fiscal year.

"There are many differences," said Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, as he asked the Senate to reject the House version and send the bill to a conference committee.

Senators voted overwhelmingly to reject the House version. A panel of three senators and four representatives will spend the next week working out a compromise that can survive possible line-item vetoes by Gov. John Engler.

Senate Bill 986 aids 15 state universities and colleges. The universities also charge tuition, obtain federal grants and raise private contributions.

Some of the differences:
■ Tuition restraint. The House asked universities not to increase resident undergraduate tuition and fees more than the rate of inflation. Engler and the Senate wanted to delete it.

■ Caps on nonresident enrollments. The Legislature said its intent is that nonresident enrollments be limited to 30 percent of the total. Engler wanted to delete it.

■ Moratorium on off-campus expansions. The Senate asked a one-year moratorium on expansion of off-campus academic programs by public universities. Neither Engler nor the House wanted it.

■ A "one-time" funding adjustment for universities getting less than $3,500 per full-time equated student (FTES). Affected would be Central Michigan, Eastern Michigan, University of Michigan's Dearborn and Flint campuses and Grand Valley State University. Engler recommended $8.48 million, the Senate $3.2 million, the House $9.3 million.

■ University inflation increases. Engler recommended 2.27 percent across the board after the "one-time" adjustment. The Senate voted 2.3 percent. The House also voted 2.3 percent but applied the adjustment to the King-Chavez-Parks aid programs for minorities.

■ Additional funding. The Senate favors increasing higher ed appropriations "to the extent possible" depending on results of the next consensus revenue conference. Engler did not recommend it, and the House did not include it.

■ "Buy American." Engler recommended deleting a section that prohibits use of state funds for purchase of foreign goods when competitively priced American goods are available. Both Senate and House voted to keep it.

■ Research Excellence Fund. Engler recommended dropping it, and the Senate concurred. The House appropriated $28.5 million, same as last year.

■ Resident tuition rates for children of economically dislocated parents. The Legislature expressed its intent that universities charge resident tuition rates for children whose parents transferred to Michigan because of a plant closing in another state. Engler wanted to cut it.

Both chambers agreed on:
■ A 14.8 percent increase in the Indian tuition waiver program — to $400,000. It will provide funds for 2,500 tuition waivers versus 2,375 for the current year.

■ A 27 percent increase in the high school completion/tuition incentive program (TIP), to provide $1.9 million in tuition payments for 6,750 eligible students.

Tax cut bill

Suburban retirees won't benefit

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Half of suburban retirees will get little help from a $70 million tax break for pensions passed by the state House of Representatives.

"Over one-half of Michigan seniors do not have public or private pensions," said Rep. Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, who came 14 votes short in an effort to extend the break to those living on investment income.

Dobb, an accountant in private life, said she studied U.S. Census data before concluding that many retirees across the country have no pensions.

"Many of these individuals are small business owners or self-employed," she said, "and have not had the option of joining a pension plan. They have worked hard to secure retirement income. It is grossly unfair to cut them off from discussions as the Legislature works to exempt private pensions from taxation."

The tax cut bill, as passed and sent to the Senate, would allow seniors who have no pension exemption to deduct investment income (dividends and interest) of up to $1,000 for individuals and $2,000 for couples filing jointly.

Dobb's amendment would have hiked the investment income deduction to $5,000 a couple, including capital gains as well as dividends and interest. "More than 90 percent of the (retiree) population would have been covered under this provision," she said.

Late Tuesday evening, her amendment failed in a 42 to 46 vote after long delays and heavy lobbying by the bipartisan leaders.

Area lawmakers voting yes: Republicans Lyn Bankes of Redford, Dobb, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Shirley Johnson of Royal Oak, and Greg Kaza of Rochester; and Democrat Richard Young of Dearborn Heights.

Voting no: Deborah Whyman, R-Canton; Justine Barns, D-Westland.

Missing the vote: Maxine Berman, D-Southfield; David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods; William Keith, D-Garden City; John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township; and Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth.

The bill that passed 97-2 increases exemptions on private pensions to:

■ $30,000 for individuals from $7,500.

■ $60,000 for couples filing jointly from $10,000.

(Dobb would have paid for her tax break by lowering the pension exemption for couples to $50,000.)

The bill had twin purposes. First, the Legislature has been under political pressure for tax equity — either increase the exemption on private pensions, or apply the tax to governmental pensions, notably those of unionized teachers.

Second, the state general fund appears to be heading for a $400 million surplus. Lawmakers must either cut taxes or salt away the surplus in a "rainy day" fund.

One negative vote came from Rep. Don Gilmer, R-Augusta, co-chair of the House Appropriations Committee, who said the excess should have been put in the rainy day fund. "This (bill) is about 99 percent political and one percent policy," Gilmer said.

Altogether, the House voted $155 million in tax cuts — $70 million for pensioners and $85 million for single business tax (SBT) payers.

Some adjustment is necessary because the Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution caps the percentage of personal incomes that may be collected by state taxes. Michigan was about to exceed that by $180 million.

There was no shortage of ideas for using the surplus.

Gov. John Engler wanted to end the inequity of tax treatment between governmental and private pensions.

Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, proposed a bill to lower the personal income tax rate from 4.4 to 4.3 percent.

Sen. Jim Berryman, D-Adrian, suggested prefunding health benefits for the teachers retirement fund.

Local program explores trade options in Vietnam

Le Van Bang

Those interested in learning about trade and investment opportunities in Vietnam will get a firsthand account on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 28 and 29, when Vietnam's Ambassador to the United Nations, Le Van Bang, visits the suburban Detroit area.

The Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Wayne State University Center for Peace and Conflict Studies is sponsoring the events, according to Birmingham resident Lynn Partington, program organizer.

The U.S. government recently lifted its trade embargo against Vietnam, allowing the American business community to invest in that country.

On June 28 a reception for the ambassador is planned 5:30-7:30 p.m. in the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn. Cost is $20. The Ritz is on Southfield Road on the southeast end of the Fairlane shopping complex.

The June 29 event is at Troy's Northfield Hilton on Crooks Road. The day will begin at noon with a luncheon and address by the ambassador. That is followed by a seminar conducted by Vietnam's trade minister, Doan Van Ban. Participating on that panel will be Birmingham businessman John Lynch, president of Lynch & Associates.

Lynch frequently travels to Vietnam, acting as an intermediary for businesses that are seeking to build relationships with the Vietnamese government.

The cost of the June 29 event is $35 for the lunch and seminar. Those only able to attend the lunch pay $20.

To make reservations for either event contact the Center for Peace and Conflict Studies at 577-3453.

The ambassador is visiting Detroit because of its long history of manufacturing expertise, according to Partington.

Vietnam, a country's whose infrastructure is in disrepair after years of war, the economic embargo and a population boom, is in need of business expertise in most areas. Health care, telecommunications, computers, auto parts, law/accounting/banking services and tourism are among those areas which have potential for success in Vietnam.

Vietnam's population now stands at more than 70 million.

Senate OKs amendments to 'pain management' bills

As the assisted suicide debate drags on, state lawmakers on both sides agree there should be better "pain management" by medical care providers.

Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, won 34-0 approval last Tuesday when he asked the Senate to agree to House amendments in two of his pain management bills.

"They are part of a five-bill package, with three bills coming from the House.

"The biggest change is that they've increased the membership and removed dental hygienists,"

Dillingham said of his key measure, Senate Bill 961.

That measure would set up, within the Public Health Code, an interdisciplinary advisory committee on pain and symptom management.

ROLL CALL REPORT

House votes to release files on post office probe

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending June 10

HOUSE

Post Office Probe: The House voted 399 for and two against to publicly release the files of an internal investigation into alleged criminality at the House Post Office, U.S. Attorney Eric Holder no longer objects to the release, now that he has secured an indictment of Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., a figure in the post office scandal that erupted two years ago.

The material, which includes the testimony of dozens of witnesses, was gathered by a House task force as a preliminary step toward a possible Ethics Committee probe into reports of misconduct, such as drug sales and embezzlement at the post office.

Supporter Scott Klug, R-Wis., said: "Today we are finally going to open up our files and let the American public know what an absolute open sewer the House Post Office operation really was. It's shoddy, embarrassing operation... has already led to the indictment of nine employees of the House of Representatives and guilty pleas" in addition to the Rostenkowski indictment.

Opponent Al Swift, D-Wash., said that because witnesses had been promised anonymity, "we will break our word to some of those in this institution least able to object and protect themselves. We will do it for high-sounding reasons, or ruthless political advantage, or craven political cowardice, take your pick. But when we do it, make no mistake, we will dishonor ourselves and this grand institution."

A yes vote was to release post office probe files. Area representatives voting yes were: Dale Kildee, D-Flint, Joseph Knollenberg, R-Birmingham, Sander Levin, D-Southfield. Voting no: William Ford, D-Ypsilanti. Not voting: Bob Carr, D-Pontiac.

Defense Budget: By a vote of 260 for and 158 against, the House passed a FY '95 defense budget of $262.27 billion, up slightly over military spending in the current fiscal year. The bill (HR 4301) was sent to the Senate.

The legislation provides $3.7 billion for building the Navy a CVN-76 nuclear-powered aircraft carrier and $2.7 billion for strengthening theater-based defenses against incoming missiles, among other major weapons purchases. It funds a 2.6 percent military pay raise for active duty and reserve personnel, reduces active duty strength by 86,000 slots to a 1.5 million troop level, and reduces reserve ceilings slightly to 987,000 positions.

It authorizes a $300 million American contribution to United Nations peacekeeping operations, $11.1 billion for environmental cleanup at military bases and $3.6 billion to help defense-dependent industries and communities convert to a civilian economy, among thousands of other provisions.

A yes vote was to pass the FY '95 defense authorization bill. Area representatives voting yes were: Bob Carr, Dale Kildee, Sander Levin, William Ford. Voting no: Joseph Knollenberg.

Bosnia: By a vote of 244 for and 178 against, the House adopted an amendment to HR 4301 (above) authorizing President Clinton to send up to $200 million in arms to Bosnian Muslims. To do so, we would have to disobey the United Nations ban on arming the former Yugoslavia, an embargo the administration has supported. The Senate has called upon the administration to begin arming the outgunned Muslim militia in their war against Serbs and Croats.

A yes vote was to send American arms immediately to Bosnian Muslims. Area representatives voting yes were: Carr, Levin, Ford. Voting no: Kildee, Knollenberg.

UN Command: By a vote of 185 for and 237 against, the House rejected a motion to limit United Nations command of American forces, as was the case in Somalia, for example. The motion to HR 4301 (above) sought to require the president and Congress to agree case-by-case it is in the national interest to relinquish sovereign control of U.S. troops.

A yes vote was to limit a president's power to put GIs under UN command. Area representatives voting yes were: Knollenberg. Voting no: Carr, Kildee, Levin and Ford.

AIDS: The House adopted, 227 for and 192 against, an amendment giving the military, not Congress, authority to determine whether to discharge those in uniform who test positive for AIDS or have some other serious but not yet debilitating illness. The amendment continues the autonomy of each service to retain individuals who are still judged fit for duty despite their ailment. The vote headed off Armed Services Committee language in HR 4301 (above) to virtually require the discharge of AIDS-infected service personnel.

A yes vote supported a more discretionary policy toward military personnel who have the AIDS virus. Area representatives voting yes were: Kildee, Levin, Ford. Voting no: Carr, Knollenberg.

Schoolcraft graduate eager to get down to business

BY BILL CASPER
STAFF WRITER

Erin Sheehan-Silveira, a 35-year-old Redford mother of two young daughters, can't wait to get off of welfare and start working again. And now that she has a college degree, Silveira hopes to get back to work real soon.

Silveira began receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits about four years ago, shortly after enrolling at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

The monthly AFDC benefits, including about $400 in checks plus another $180 in food stamps, helped pay for food, shelter and utility bills while Silveira went to school full time.

Although AFDC benefits helped her get through four years of college, Silveira has mixed emotions about the welfare program, which was not a pleasant experience for her.

"Life didn't get much easier on ADC," Silveira said Monday during an interview in her northeast Redford Township house. "It was horrible, and I didn't want to tell anyone about it. ADC personnel made me feel like dirt, and when I wanted to get a job, they told me to go home and wait for the checks like everyone else. I think ADC recipients should work or go to school."

Silveira is not real comfortable being called an AFDC success story as her sister, Margaret Lapinski of Waterford, did in a letter to the Redford Observer. But Silveira said she is grateful for the benefits that helped her get through college.

"ADC kept us in house and home. I've been able to live four years and go to school on the system.

"But I don't want to stay on ADC, and I'll quit on the day someone says 'you're hired,' and I have a real job to pay the bills," Silveira said. "I'm not proud about being on ADC, but I've learned I'm not less of a person because I receive welfare. I had to go on ADC to improve myself."

"I could live the rest of my life on ADC if I wanted to; I think they'd probably let me. But I want a job. I can't ever remember not working."

"I'm actively looking for full-time employment," Silveira said. "I would like to some day work for a small business as an office manager. I may even run for township office one day."

Troubles begin

Silveira's world came crashing down around her in the late 1980s, when her marriage crumbled and she divorced her husband of five years.

Raised in Detroit, Silveira moved to Grand Rapids to live with her husband but, after the divorce, wanted to move close to her parents in Farmington Hills.

Silveira got a job in Plymouth where she worked for about a year, but was fired in August 1989. "I did my job and I did a good job, but I didn't like the way they did business and they didn't like me. I wouldn't quit because I needed the job."

But after Silveira was discharged, she couldn't find another job that would support her and the two children, Annette, 9, and Amy, 7.

"I went back to school because I didn't know what else to do to support my children," Silveira said. "I knew I wouldn't find anything without a college degree."

Earned honors

She didn't just squeak through. Silveira has been a member of the Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society for academic excellence since 1991 and graduated magna cum laude Saturday from Cleary College in Ypsilanti with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

Initially, Silveira had no idea what to study. But she recalled an accounting class she enjoyed in her second or third semester at Schoolcraft College and she eventually received an associate's degree in accounting from Schoolcraft in 1992.

Silveira then enrolled at Cleary, a business-oriented college, and earned her four-year degree in just two years, she said.

"She sacrificed a lot to get her degree and it's a tremendous accomplishment for her," Silveira's father, Tom Sheehan, said. "She worked hard at her marriage, and after her divorce, she was devastated. It was hard for her to go for welfare, but I told her to bite the bullet and try going to college. We all think she did a terrific job in school and that lifted her spirits. Now, she has to make it pay off."

Silveira admits that as a homeowner she's not the typical AFDC recipient. Federal Pell grants, which are available to low-income families and don't have to be repaid, funded her college education.

Her family helped with the house payments.

She had a lot of help from family and people in the neighborhood where she lives.

In addition to her own education, Silveira has gotten involved in school programs at Keeler Elementary, where her daughters are in the second and third grades. They recently marched in Redford's annual Memorial Day parade for being named outstanding citizens at Keeler.

"I went to watch them and I cried," Silveira said.

She said her proud family is making a "big deal" over her college graduation.

"They're having a big shindig at Proud Lake. One of my sisters (Maureen Heimsath) is coming in from Texas with her family, and another sister (Eileen Scott) is coming from Ohio with her family."

Silveira also has two brothers living in Livonia.

"I've waited so long for the day they hand me the degree that will save us. I feel like one part of my life is complete and now I can start living again."

A proud grad: Erin Sheehan-Silveira, a 35-year-old Redford mother of two young daughters, had earned her degree while attending Schoolcraft and Cleary College and raising two children.

Hospital plans reorganization

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

To cut projected losses, St. Mary Hospital has launched a major reorganization which eliminates several top jobs and which brings in a new management team from Royal Oak's William Beaumont Hospital.

Sister Mary Modesta, president and chief executive officer of St. Mary Hospital, announced the restructuring of its management team in a June 1 memo to department heads.

"Changes in the health care environment continue to increase the pressure for reduced reimbursement," Modesta wrote. "These pressures have resulted in a projected loss for St. Mary Hospital for fiscal year 1994 and this has created the need for a cost-reduction initiative."

"Management restructuring is a major component of this cost-reduction initiative."

As part of the restructuring, the hospital eliminated the position of vice president. This includes vice president of finance, vice president of nursing, and vice-president of physician recruitment.

Hospital spokeswoman Julie Sproul said most employees in the eliminated positions have been reassigned to other jobs in the St. Mary/Beaumont organization.

On July 1, the new management team from Beaumont Hospital comes on board. The new executive team includes John Graham, hospital director; Michele Chulick, associate hospital director and director of operations; and Michael DeRubeis, associate hospital director and chief financial officer.

"Our new management structure and partnership with Beaumont will position St. Mary to accomplish its goals of becoming the provider of choice for the residents of Livonia and the surrounding communities," Modesta said.

Graham, Chulick and DeRubeis join the St. Mary administrative team of Modesta; Sister Mary Renetta, executive vice-president and chief operating officer; Mitchell Salhaney, M.D., executive vice president, medical affairs; and Sister Mary Cynthia Ann, associate hospital director, mission effectiveness and community services.

To cut costs, the hospital is only doing what so many other businesses and organizations have been forced to do, Sproul said.

"Reorganization is different for every organization; we restructured our management team," Sproul said. "We're bringing in new people with fresh ideas, and we'll know more when the new team comes in. Departments may be consolidated. With health care reform on the brink of being passed, we need to wait and see what comes down."

Not getting back from insurance companies what is billed by doctors has contributed to this year's projected loss, Sproul said. "We have to absorb the difference. In a smaller hospital this becomes more difficult."

Since 1992, St. Mary Hospital has been affiliated with Beaumont Hospital. Through the affiliation, the two hospitals have done the following:

- Established at St. Mary a department of trained and board-certified emergency medicine physicians.
- Recruited six obstetrics/gynecology physicians on the staff of both hospitals who have offices in Livonia, Canton and surrounding communities.

- Launched operational improvements at St. Mary, including the new Miracle of Life Maternity Center.

- Coordinated a St. Mary campus development program to design and construct an addition to include 10 maternity rooms, a women's center, a surgical suite, and an enhanced emergency center.

- Strengthened Beaumont through the referral of patients for specialized procedures.

One major goal of the new management team will be to "streamline programs to avoid duplication," Sproul said.

The reorganization, Sproul said, will not affect patient care.

OBITUARIES

TIBOR MATYAS

Services were recently held for Tibor Matyas, 66, formerly of Plymouth.

He was born March 29, 1928 in Hungary. He died Tuesday, June 7, at Mercy Medical Center. He married in 1951 in Hungary. He and his wife left their homeland in 1956, and he became an engineer for many major companies in America.

He is survived by his wife, Maria Matyas; two sons, Thomas Matyas of Woodstock, Ga. and David Matyas of Lawrenceville, Ga.; two daughters, Audrey Roberts of Ventura, Calif., and Suzanne Tramel of Canton; one sister, Magda Bauer of Hungary; and six grandchildren.

Arrangements were made by Teahen Funeral Home.

He is survived by one son, David Koperski; two daughters, Janet Patton of Montgomery, Ala., and Sandra Keeling; eight grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Making homemade jam has never been easier

Momma never was a proponent of canning. She relied on stocking the fruit cellar with donations from Aunt Vicky, her cousin Josephine Wisner, and whatever she could pick up at the church fair. If memory serves me correctly, the straw that broke the camel's back was in 1957 when Uncle Eddie noticed a small spot of mold where the paraffin didn't set up against a jar of momma's strawberry preserves. I can't recall who was hurt more, Uncle Eddie when momma threw the jar lid at him or momma's pride.

"Times have changed," said C.J. Hacker, National Consumer Affairs director and staff home economist for Kerr Glass Manufacturing. "Paraffin was an acceptable sealant back then, but now paraffin is no longer recommended for sealing jams and jellies because air can get in around the edges and cause spoilage."

Canning tips

Hacker recommends that all jams and jellies be processed in a boiling water canner for five minutes. If you have an exceptionally large freezer or access to a deep freeze, and the day is as hot as it is long, Hacker suggests making freezer jam. It's a little known fact that canning jars and lids can be used in home freezing.

"Canning jars retain the highest quality in frozen foods, prevent drying out, mingling of odors and help preserve food value, color and texture," he said. Now is the time to "put up" a batch of Michigan strawberries to enjoy this winter.

The folks at Kerr have compiled a sheet of jam and jelly tips that's free for the asking. This information sheet explains all there is to know about "weeping" (when fruits separate), sugaring, pectin and how to test for true doneness.

One of the questions I asked, which wasn't on the information sheet, was "what's the difference between jam and jelly?"

Hacker claims the difference is "jelly is cooked to the jam stage and then cooked a bit longer until the temperature increases by eight degrees."

I made a long distance call to momma's Cousin Josephine in St. Mary's, Pa., and she agreed with Hacker.

Cousin Josephine claims the additional cooking helps make jelly sparkling and clear. When turned out onto a dish, jelly should hold its shape slightly, and have a little quiver to it.

Expert advice

Cousin Josephine should know as she has been the official jelly judge at the church fair every year for the past 27 years. She ended our conversation with "don't forget to tell them that a good jelly is one that you can cut with a spoon, but is still spreadable."

Making good jam or jelly has never been easier, especially with the availability of prepackaged fruit pectins which, when the directions are followed precisely, give a remarkable jell.

Health-conscious folks who know that a good jelly is half fruit and half sugar can drastically reduce, and almost eliminate sugar, with natural fruit pectins. These are readily available wherever canning supplies are sold, and at health and natural grocery stores. Successful canners swear by a mixture of three-quarters ripe fruit to one-quarter underripe fruit for optimum results.

Pick up a box of jars, seals and lids and you're on your way! As with anything canned or preserved, always sterilize the jars first. Successful canners say the jars should be "as warm as you can stand it, and as dry as possible."

A quick glance at some freezing and canning cookbooks at the local library suggested that when making jams and jellies, you should always work in single batches, and never double the recipe.

For more information about canning, jam and jelly tips, and a free copy of "The Kerr Kitchen Pantry" newsletter with tips and recipes galore, write to the Kerr Group, Consumer Products Division, 1840 Century Park East, Los Angeles, Calif. 90067.

The folks at Kerr Glass say that "any season is canning season." A copy of "The New American Cookbook" by Lilly Haxworth Wallace (Copyright 1942, Books Inc.) says that canning season starts "when gentle spring breezes brush the purple iris." Since the iris is presently in full bloom in the Janes Gang garden, this must be the time.

Momma says she can't wait for a taste from my first jar of jam. She promises to greet me at the door with a pan of piping hot biscuits.

STRAWBERRIES are ripe for picking

There's no finer way to spend a morning than picking dew-sprinkled, sweet, juicy Michigan strawberries with your family.

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Some things are worth waiting for. Michigan strawberries definitely fall into that category.

"The 1994 strawberry crop is shaping up to be a good one in Southeast Michigan," said Rob Long of Long Family Orchard and Farm in Commerce Township. "The cool nights that we experienced during most of May have moved the season back a bit. At our farm, I expect to start u-pick strawberries around June 20. It's a late season, but I think it will be a long season."

Other farmers I talked to agreed, and said the berries looked and tasted good. "They're real juicy," said Rose Timbers of Wiard's Orchards in Ypsilanti.

Michigan's strawberry season is short, only three to four weeks. By the middle of July they'll be gone, so get them now while you can. Prices range from $75 cents to $1 a pound. One quart of strawberries equals about one-and-a-half pounds.

It's fun to gather the family and head out to the berry patch. Nobody minds if you sneak a few to eat while you're picking. Always call ahead to check the availability of strawberries before

South African wines worth exploring

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

South Africa's dry, hot climate boasts a wine history spanning more than three centuries. But it was not until the mid 1970s that the region showed its potential for serious consideration among premium wine circles. In 1991, the renowned wine author Hugh Johnson wrote, "It is presumably a matter of a very few years before we see wines as excellent as Australia's bearing the bizarre Dutch names of lovely estates in Stellenbosch and Franschoek." The time has come, and such wines are available for your enjoyment.

And yes, they carry the "bizarre" names of Backsberg, Boschendal, De Wetshof, Groot Constantia, Rust en Vrede, Vriesenhof and Weltevrede. There are new regions to learn such as Stellenbosch and Franschoek, but they are joined by Constantia, Pearl and Robertson for starters. Then, there's pinotage, South Africa's own varietal. There's a lot to learn and a host of good drinking at reasonable prices ahead for those willing to expand their wine-tasting horizons.

The coastal Cape regions of South Africa offer a plethora of advantages and nearly idyllic wine-growing conditions. It is one of the most reliable winegrowing areas in the world.

Anywhere in the world, grapes from vines grown on slopes make better wine. Slopes in the Cape region face in all directions. An eight-month

Tasting South African wines

- Over the past several months, we have sampled a significant number of South African wines. They have, in general, been very good. They are available in this market. If your retailer does not have them, ask that they be ordered for you. We are recommending our favorites, but you should try others and discover what you like.
- 1992 Boschendal Sauvignon Blanc, Paarl ($10) has inviting grapefruit and gooseberry aromas. Its crisp, clean, fresh, lengthy flavors make it a superior complement to grilled seafood.
  - 1992 Backsberg Sauvignon Blanc, Paarl ($8.50) showcases floral and tropical fruit. This wine tastes just like it smells. Citrusy crispness matches it to seafood, especially crab.
  - 1991 Boschendal Chardonnay, Paarl ($16) is very buttery. The tastes of sweet creamery butter with oaky, tropical fruit elements and a smooth creamy finish are begging to be paired with lobster tail or lobster salad.
  - 1992 Neil Ellis Chardonnay, Stellenbosch ($15) is a knockout. Fragrant, spicy oak is well integrated with generous fruit to deliver a delicious, elegant and complex palate impression. Serve it with a broiled veal chop and be pleasantly surprised.
  - 1990 Springbok Pinotage ($8) will be best appreciated by those preferring a light red wine. It's soft with berry, jammy flavors and a hint of peppery spice.
  - 1990 Backsberg Pinotage ($9.50) is a fuller, more complex version of the varietal with berry fruit and bay and mint spiciness. It's rather rustic finish complements grilled meats.
  - 1989 Vriesenhof Kallista, Stellenbosch ($16.50) is a proprietary blend of red varietals offering a black cherry, spicy, smoky and delicious mélange of berry fruit, mint and toasty flavors. A very interesting, flavorful mouthful.

EASY HOMEMADE STRAWBERRY FREEZER JAM

1 box Sure-Jell Light Fruit Pectin
 3/4 cups sugar, divided
 4 cups crushed strawberries (2 quarts fully ripe strawberries)
 Mix fruit pectin and 1/4 cup sugar in a small bowl. Add pectin mixture gradually to fruit, stirring vigorously. Let stand 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.
 Stir remaining sugar gradually into fruit mixture until sugar is completely dissolved and no longer grainy, about 3 minutes (a few sugar crystals may remain).
 Pour into clean plastic containers; cover. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours. Jam is now ready to use. Store in refrigerator or freeze extra containers. Thaw in refrigerator. Store in refrigerator up to 3 weeks or freeze up to 1 year. Makes about 6 (1 cup) containers.
Recipe from Sure-Jell, Kraft General Foods, Inc.

SUGAR FREE STRAWBERRY PIE

1 baked 9-inch pie shell
 4 cups sliced or whole strawberries, washed and hulled
Glaze:
 1 box Jello sugar-free vanilla pudding, cooked type (not instant) 4 serving size
 1 box Jello sugar-free strawberry jello, 4 serving size
 2 1/2 cups cold water
 In a saucepan mix pudding mix, jello mix and 2 1/4 cups water. Stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat. Cool in refrigerator until slightly thickened. Arrange strawberries in pie shell.
 Pour cooled mixture over berries. Chill till set. Serve with whipped cream.
Prize-winning recipe from the North American Strawberry Growers Association from Mary Abbott, Warren, IN.

STRAWBERRY PASTRIES

2 (8-ounce) cans refrigerated crescent rolls
 2 (8-ounce packages) cream cheese, softened

1/4 cup sugar
 4 cups strawberries, washed, hulled and sliced
 1 egg white, beaten
 Fresh strawberries for garnish

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Press the dough from one package of the rolls into the bottom of a greased 9 by 13-inch pan. In a separate bowl, mix cream cheese and sugar until smooth. Spread on dough. With a rolling pin, roll out the second package of dough to a rectangle approximately 9 by 11 inches. Place sliced strawberries on top of cream cheese mixture. Top with rolled dough. Brush with egg white. Sprinkle top with 1 tablespoon sugar.
 Bake at 325 degrees for 35 minutes. Serve warm. Makes 24 small or 16 large portions.

Prize-winning recipe from North American Strawberry Growers Association from Mary Hardt Yingling, Mercer, PA.

STRAWBERRY SOUP

1 quart fresh strawberries, hulled
 2 cups freshly squeezed orange juice

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
 2 tablespoons honey
 1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
 1 tablespoon cassia
 1/2 cup club soda, or more if necessary
 Thinly sliced fresh strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, peaches and plums for garnish
 Fresh fruit sorbet and fresh mint leaves for garnish

Combine all ingredients except club soda and garnishes in the bowl of a food processor and pulse until mixture is well pureed. Transfer mixture into a bowl and chill. Just before serving, stir in enough club soda to make a thick soup.
 Ladle fruit soup into shallow soup plates. Garnish with little clusters of fruits, and a small scoop of fruit sorbet, and mint leaves. Serves 6 to 8.

you head out to the u-pick farm.

Strawberry fans won't want to miss these "berry" good events.

The Franklin Community Association is hosting a Strawberry Jazz Festival noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 26 on the historic Village Green, west of Franklin Road, between 13 and 14 Mile Roads. Admission is free to hear the Paint Creek Jazz Society, playing traditional Dixieland music, and Hayden Street, with a rhythm & blues-flavored sound.

Fresh strawberry sundaes, hand-dipped chocolate strawberries and other goodies will be offered for sale. The music begins at 12:30 p.m., and there will be an All-Star baseball game at 1 p.m.

The Garden City Hospital Volunteer Guild will sponsor its annual Strawberry Festival 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 26 on the lawn of the hospital at 6245 Inkster Road, four blocks north of Ford Road. There will be strawberry shortcakes and sundaes, and other goodies, a bake sale, kiddie booth and raffles.

Entertainment will be provided at 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. by the Rockin Rhythm Cloggers. Festival proceeds will be used to renovate hospital patient rooms.

Blake's Orchard and Cider Mill in Armada is having a Strawberry Festival Saturday and Sunday, June 25-26. It will feature strawberry desserts, entertainment, pony rides, and games for the kids. Call 784-5343 for information.

Symanzik's Berry Farms in Goodrich has designated Tuesday, June 28 as "Strawberry Tuesday." The day will feature a Teddy Bear Picnic 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and other activities including puppet shows, sing-a-long, crafts, and farm fun activities. Call (810) 636-2775 or (810) 636-7714 for information.

Here are some tips for picking and storing strawberries from the North American Strawberry Growers Association:
 ■ Large or small, every red berry is ripe, luscious and ready-to-eat. Pick all the red ones you can find in your assigned row.
 ■ Green berries will not ripen after picking.

■ Look under the leaves of each strawberry plant to find the berries; pinch or pull stem from plant. Be sure to leave the stem on each berry.

■ Strawberries are perishable, handle them with care.
 ■ Protect berries from sunlight, particularly in your car. Don't leave berries in a hot car.

■ Before storing or processing, sort berries; use the ripest ones first.
 ■ Place in shallow containers to prevent crushing.

■ Store immediately in the refrigerator.
 ■ Do not rinse or remove stems until ready to serve or process.

BASIC STRAWBERRY JAM

8 cups strawberries
 6 cups sugar
 2 tablespoons lemon juice (optional)

Wash, drain and hull strawberries. Crush strawberries. If they are very ripe and sweet, add lemon juice.

Place in a large non reactive (not aluminum) saucepan. Add sugar and cook slowly, stirring constantly until sugar dissolves.

Bring quickly to a boil and boil rapidly until the fruited syrup coats the back of a spoon and "slides off." Ladle into sterilized hot and dry jars to within 1/4 inch of top. Wipe jar rim; adjust lids. Process in a boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Remove from canner and complete seals unless closures are of the self-sealing type. Makes 6 half pints.

FASTER STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB JAM

1 quart strawberries
 3 cups diced rhubarb (about

1 1/2 pounds)
 6 cups sugar
 Mash strawberries. Combine with rhubarb in a large non reactive saucepan. Add 4 cups sugar; bring to a rolling boil and boil for 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Add remaining 2 cups of sugar and boil for 4 more minutes, stirring constantly. Ladle into sterilized jars and process in a boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Complete seal.

frost-free growing season makes even California winemakers swoon. There's no worry about hail, the plague of Burgundy and Bordeaux; no rain at harvest, a nearly universal wine region threat, and there are very few vine diseases. Days are warm, but nights are cool — just what the vine doctor ordered. All these conditions combined have catapulted South Africa to the eighth largest wine-producing region in the world.

Only a few years ago, one might have said that the Cape's finest wines were sherries and port-like fortified wines. This is no longer the case. There are balanced, not overly woody chardonnays, pleasant rieslings, and crisp sauvignon blancs among the white wines. Reds produced from merlot, cabernet sauvignon, cabernet franc and shiraz are mellow and full of flavor. Aen there's pinotage!

Pinotage is a regionally developed cross between pinot noir and cinsault. Until 1925, all wine grapes grown in South Africa were imports. Pinot noir is a case in point. This noble varietal from France's Burgundy region, and the backbone of all the great champagnes, was disease prone in the Cape region. Cinsault, from France's Rhone Valley, however, took well to the area's fertile soils, but the wine was thin and uninteresting.

By crossing the two varietals, it was hoped that the lusty growth of cinsault would combine with pinot noir's complex, rich and velvety flavors to produce both a vine and wine of promise. These expectations have been more than fulfilled. The flavors of pinotage enhance those of grilled red meats, games, pasta with red sauce and a variety of tangy cheeses.

Rich chocolate sauce, fat-free

AP — Attention, chocoholics. You can now stir up a fudgy chocolate sauce, completely free of fat, that rivals the real thing. Our fat-saving tips are simple. Use unsweetened cocoa powder and evaporated skim milk instead of chocolate and cream. To add silky thickness, stir in a little cornstarch.

For each tablespoon of sauce, you'll save more than 100 calories and 9 grams of fat over hot fudge sauce. Drizzle this rich topping, warm or cool, over your favorite low-fat frozen dessert or angel food cake.

WHERE'S-THAT-FAT CHOCOLATE SAUCE

1/4 cup sugar
 1/2 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
 4 teaspoons cornstarch
 1/2 cup evaporated skim milk
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 Low-fat ice cream, frozen yogurt or angel food cake
 Fresh fruit, such as strawberries, raspberries, peaches and apricots

In a small saucepan stir together sugar, cocoa powder and cornstarch. Add milk. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir for 2 minutes more. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla.

Serve the sauce warm or cool. To serve, drizzle sauce onto ice cream, frozen yogurt or angel food cake. Top with fresh fruit. Makes about 1 cup sauce.

These recipes refer to the Super Supper story that appeared on the June 13 Taste front.

PEDRO'S CHICKEN FAJITAS

4 whole chicken breasts
1 cup red wine
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup light soy sauce

Bone chicken and save bones for broth (to be used in Peter's yellow rice dish). Marinate chicken overnight in wine, lemon juice and soy sauce. Grill outdoors over low heat (lowest heat setting on gas grill). Turn chicken every five minutes, dipping it back into the marinade with every turn. Grill slowly until done, 25 to 35 minutes. Slice thinly and serve on soft flour tortillas with shredded lettuce, shredded low-fat cheddar cheese, diced tomatoes, diced black olives, your favorite picante sauce, and a dollop of low-fat sour cream. Serves 4.

To make chicken broth: place breast bones in 4 cups of water with 1 teaspoon salt. Bring water to boil, lower heat and cook one hour. Remove bones from broth and remove any meat clinging to bones. Remove chicken morsels for rice.

YELLOW RICE

3 cups chicken broth, homemade or canned
1½ cups Uncle Ben's (Converted) yellow rice
1 tablespoon salt
½ large Vidalia onion

2 tablespoons margarine, non-fat or regular

Combine all ingredients in saucepan and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to a simmer, cover and cook for 20 minutes.

Yellow rice, also called converted rice, is available at Hirt's in the Eastern Market area of Detroit.

GRILLED AND ROASTED LEG OF LAMB

1 whole leg of lamb, butterflied
3 cups red wine
½ cup light soy sauce
¼ cup finely chopped ginger
1 large Vidalia onion, sliced

Marinate leg of lamb overnight in wine, soy sauce, ginger, and onion. Reserve marinade, including onions.

Place metal pan of water (disposable aluminum pie pan works great) underneath the warming rack on your gas grill. Place lamb and onions on warming rack and cook with grill cover on for 2 hours at lowest heat. Check occasionally to make sure there is always water in the pan. Let the drippings collect in this pan for later use.

Remove lamb from grill and cut meat into ¼-inch slices. Place meat and reserved marinade in a large roasting pan. Add drippings from grill. Cover and bake in oven for 30 minutes at 325 degrees. Serve on hard rolls with generous amounts of the marinated-roasted onions.

FLORENCE STREET BARBECUED CHICKEN

1 whole chicken, cut into parts and skinned (including the wings)

3 cups saturated salt water (Add ½ cup salt or more to 3 cups of water, stirring continuously with your hand until salt no longer dissolves, but remains granular. Water will turn milky. Process takes about 1 minute)

3 cups white vinegar
2 tablespoons juice
Barbecue Sauce of your choice

Add vinegar and lemon juice to salt water and soak chicken in this mixture for one hour. Set your gas grill to lowest setting. Cook chicken, dipping parts into salt and vinegar solution every five minutes while turning. Grilling will take up to one hour.

At last turning, liberally cover the chicken with barbecue sauce and continue cooking until sauce is warm. Do not allow sauce to burn.

Peter makes his own barbecue sauce. He warms Delmonico Catsup in a saucepan on low heat and adds about ¼ cup of margarine until well blended.

MICROWAVE BAKED WHITE BEANS

30-40 ounces of pre-cooked white beans (2 small cans or 1 large jar)
2 large carrots, diced
1 Vidalia onion, diced
2 celery stalks, diced
½ red bell pepper, diced
¼ cup light soy sauce
3 tablespoons picante sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In a large casserole dish, stir carrots, onion, celery, pepper, soy sauce, picante sauce, and lemon juice. Cover and cook in microwave oven on high for 10 minutes. Add beans, mix well and microwave at ½ power for 30 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Spicy flank steak is stuffed with cheese

AP — Impress your family and barbecue guests with a lean marinated flank steak stuffed with cheese, combined with a flavorful mixture of onion, zucchini and Latin-style spices.

The cheese stuffing is wrapped by the steak, rolled up and tied, allowing the spicy flavors and meat juices to blend. Grill the steaks over an open fire of coals, serve them hot and slice them into rounds to display the melted cheese stuffing.

1 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 bay leaves
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
2 flank steaks, about 1½ pounds each, tenderized

In a small bowl, combine all marinade ingredients except steak. Place each steak in a plastic bag. Divide marinade equally, pouring on steaks. Rotate bags to coat steak with marinade. Seal and marinate for 2 to 3 hours.

Note: Ask your butcher to put the meat through the tenderizer.

¼ cup shredded zucchini
2 cloves garlic, minced
3 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro leaves
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground black pepper

1 cup dry bread crumbs (made preferably from bolillos)
6 ounces manchego or Monterey Jack cheese cut into eight ¼-inch-thick slices
String for tying meat

In a large skillet, melt butter. Sauté onion, zucchini and garlic for 4 minutes. Add cilantro, chili powder, cumin, salt and pepper. Stir in bread crumbs and saute until golden. Cool.

To assemble: Remove flank steak from marinade. Divide stuffing equally between steaks. Distribute stuffing on surface of meat. Place cheese slices in a row along upper third of longest side of steak. Starting with longest side, tightly roll up steak. Use string to secure roll, tying at 1-inch intervals.

Grill over medium-hot coals for 15 minutes total, turning three times. Allow to stand for 5 minutes. Remove string, slice and serve.

CHEESE-STUFFED GRILLED MONTEREY FLANK STEAK

For the marinade:
6 tablespoons red-wine vinegar
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 teaspoons oregano leaves, crushed
1½ teaspoons salt

CHEESE STUFFING

3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup finely chopped onion

Mix herbs for flavor

Here are some tips from nutritionists for Total cereals.

Combining two or more herbs can add a distinctive touch to your dishes. It works best to combine a dominant herb with small amounts of blending herbs such as basil or garlic.

Dominant herbs include: tarragon, oregano, cilantro and thyme. Medium blending herbs include: basil, garlic, mint and marjoram.

Mild blending herbs include: onion, chives, dill and chervil.

FOR WOMEN WHO EXERCISE

Women who follow a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet and also engage in regular, moderate exercise may want to look into iron supplements. A three-month study at Purdue University revealed that women ages 18 to 25 years who began aerobic dance classes three times a week suffered from iron loss in only four weeks. It was found that those women in the study who ate extra servings of red meat or took iron supplements made up most of their iron losses. Otherwise, the exercising women lost iron and never regained it. Those exercising women who are diet-conscious may also want to supplement their intakes with increased amount of beans, grapes, raisins, and tomato and apple juice.

If you are exercising on a regular basis it is especially important that your body receive the nutrients necessary to keep you functioning at peak condition. # Grillers flip over lean pork burgers

It's a match made in heaven — barbecue and burger. But any relationship can use a little spice now and then, and the freshest spin on the burger scene is the pork burger.

Pork offers a leaner, tasteful alternative to the ordinary hamburger. The best choice for pork burgers is pork that is about 80 percent lean. By blending well with a wide variety of herbs and condiments, it provides the foundation for a dramatic change of pace from the everyday grind of the humdrum hamburger.

It's easiest to grind pork from the butcher. "Ask for ground pork from the shoulder butt or picnic," said Anne Roberts, director of marketing and education for Michigan Pork Producers Association. "This will be about 80 percent lean. If you want an exceedingly lean burger, ask for pork ground from the loin."

It's also possible to grind pork at home using a food processor or meat grinder. If using a food processor, cut boneless pork into pork cubes and grind cubes using the processor blade. A few off-on turns do the trick.

Ground pork should be treated with the same care as other ground meats: purchase only as much as you plan to use during the next day or two. Wrap and freeze meat you won't use within a couple of days.

When you're ready to cook, handle the meat as little as possible to keep it tender. "Over-mixing burgers — made of any type of meat — tends to toughen them," said Roberts.

The Other Burger should be cooked to a "medium" degree of doneness. Don't overcook. Make sure the pork burger comes off the grill while still juicy. An internal temperature of 160 degrees is recommended.

It should take about 10 minutes over hot coals to cook a 3/4-inch thick pork burger, turning once.

One grilling tip — don't press your spatula down on the burger while it's on the grill. "You'll lose juices and could start unwanted flames," said Roberts.

Here are some flavorful options for the Other Burger.

MICHIGAN PORK PRODUCERS ASSOCIATION

Burgers: For a leaner, tasteful alternative to ordinary burgers, try the "other burger" pork.

THE BASIC OTHER BURGER

- 1 pound unseasoned ground pork
- 1 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Gently mix together ground pork and seasonings, shape into 4 burgers about 3/4-inch in thickness. Place over moderately hot coals in a kettle-style grill, lower hood and grill for 5 minutes; turn and finish grilling 4-5 minutes. Serve immediately, on sandwich ### buns if desired.

- Eastern Burger (for a taste of the Orient)
To Basic Other Burger mix, add 2 teaspoons soy sauce, 2 tablespoons dry sherry and 1 tablespoon grated ginger root.
- Veggie Burger (for a zesty, garden blend)
To Basic Other Burger mix, add 3 drops hot pepper sauce, 1 grated carrot, and 3 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Link-up with sausage

AP — Though today we tend to think of sausage as simply another meat choice, the first sausages had resourceful beginnings. They were created by Old World "wurstmachers" to make the most of every morsel of meat on a carcass.

The kind of meat used and the unique seasoning blend are what give each sausage its identity. During sausage making, sausage may be cooked, cured, smoked and dried. Or, it can be left uncooked and sold fresh. It helps to know what processing method was used for a sausage so you'll know what, if any, further cooking is needed.

■ Cooked: Here's a sausage made from fresh meat that is cured during processing and fully cooked. Although these sausages are ready to eat, some are heated before serving. Braunschweiger is made from cooked sausage.

■ Cooked and Smoked: These sausages are made from fresh meat that is cured, smoked and fully cooked. The all-American hot dog fits into this category. Serve these ready-to-eat sausages cold or hot.

■ Dry and Semi-dry: Ready for eating, dry and semi-dry sausages are made from fresh meat that is cured and dried during processing, and sometimes smoked. Most dry sausages are salamis (a category of highly seasoned fermented sausage having a characteristic fermented flavor). Most semi-dry sausages are of the summer sausage type, (mildly seasoned sausage with good storage qualities). These sausages are ideal for sandwiches and eating cold.

Choosing Sausage

Never before have there been so many different kinds of sausage available in grocery stores. You'll find fresh sausage available in the bulk, link or patty shape. Other sausages come in links, rings, chunks or slices. Brown-and-serve sausage comes in link or patty form. When selecting unwrapped sausage from the deli, make sure there are no off-odors and that the casing is dry and free of mold.

If you buy sausage in vacuum-sealed packages, check for meat that is fresh and moist. Look for a freshness date on the package and buy the sausage with the latest date.

Storing Sausage

Be sure to check labels for storing directions. Generally, you should store sausage in airtight wrap in the refrigerator. Although some dry sausages don't need refrigeration, they should be kept in a cool place. Once a dry sausage is cut, refrigerate it. Freezing sausage may cause flavor changes. However, if necessary, you can freeze sausage for a short period of time.

Stock up, be prepared for power outages

Be prepared for power outages! Here are some tips:

- Stock up on shelf-staple foods — canned goods, juices and the new "no freeze" dinners in paper cartons that last 6-8 months.
- Plan ahead for ice. Buy some freeze-pak inserts and keep them frozen. Buy a cooler. Freeze water in plastic containers.
- Know in advance where you can buy dry and block ice.

■ Develop emergency freezer sharing plans with friends in another part of town or in a nearby area.

If the power goes out — keep the freezer closed. Keep what cold air you have inside. Don't open the door anymore than necessary.

A full, freestanding freezer will stay at freezing temperature about two days; a half-full freezer about one day.

Book explores 'The Cooking of the Eastern Mediterranean'

On an icy morning a few years ago, in an ancient Caucasus mountain village perched nearly two miles high above the Caspian Sea, Paula Wolfert was awakened at dawn by seven elderly women in black dresses. They greeted her with kisses, she recalls in her new book, "The Cooking of the Eastern Mediterranean," (HarperCollins Publishers; June 1, 1994; $30/hardcover). "I can still feel the parchment-like texture of their deeply weathered cheeks," she writes, "They had come to teach us to make corn bread."

For Wolfert, unforgettable moments like this inspire her search for the authentic foods of the world's great cuisines, and her new book rebounds with vivid stories of her travels, the lore of the dishes and ingredients she discovers, and the lives of the real cooks who taught her. From many points throughout a gastronomic arc of the Near East — a pen-house terrace in Salonika in Northern Greece, a farmhouse kitchen in Turkey, a professor's dinner party in Amman, Jordan, and from the mountain villages and bustling capital city of the Republic of Georgia — Wolfert brings to the American table exciting cultural insights, marvelous new tastes and 215 "healthy, vibrant, and inspired recipes."

A legendary cook, teacher and teller of culinary tales, Wolfert's life is itself a great cooking story. As a college drop-out and young bride who "couldn't boil water," she sought cooking classes in the Manhattan Yellow Pages and, almost before she knew it, found herself protegee of the renowned Dione Lucas, the doyenne of French cooking in America.

Youthful wanderlust soon took the intrepid Wolfert on a Yugoslavian tramp steamer headed to North Africa, and disembarking in Tangiers, she began long residential sojourns in Morocco and France, learning all the while about the expatriate life, literature, the arts — and food.

Today — five books, hundreds of articles, thousands of recipes, and untold miles later — Wolfert has been hailed by her fellow culinarians as "the Mistress of the Mediterranean."

"The Cooking of the Eastern Mediterranean" takes readers to northern Greece and the Balkans, Syria, Turkey and the Republic of Georgia. From breads, soups and small uncooked salads to extensive collections of fish, poultry and meat recipes, Wolfert brings exotic tastes and techniques into the realm of the American home cook. Four useful appendices detail the Eastern Mediterranean pantry, including the preparation of essentials like red pepper pastes, spice mixtures, and yogurt dishes, and provides sources for special ingredients.

Here's a recipe to try.

SKEWERED SWORDFISH

3 tablespoons strained fresh lemon juice
2 cloves garlic, peeled and sliced
2 tablespoons olive oil
½ teaspoon sea salt
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
2 imported bay leaves, halved, or 2 pinches crumbled dried Mediterranean oregano
¾ pound swordfish, cut into 1¾-inch cubes
Lemon wedges for garnish

In a shallow glass or porcelain dish, mix the lemon juice, garlic, oil, sea salt, pepper and bay leaves or oregano. Add the swordfish cubes and let soak for at least 1 hour. Skewer the swordfish, alternating with bay leaves if you are using them. Grill over hot coals, 4 inches from the flame, about 2 to 3 minutes to a side. The cubes should be fully cooked but still moist. Serve at once with lemon wedges. Serves 2.

New cookbook: Paula Wolfert explores the vast culinary territory of the Eastern Mediterranean in her new cookbook.

Bulk up on fiber to reduce risk of health problems

LOIS THIELEKE

Dietary fiber once called "roughage" or "bulk" improves digestion and relieves constipation. New links between fiber and health are constantly being researched. At one time fiber was not considered as important as vitamins and minerals, but scientists are finding out differently. There is mounting evidence that increasing fiber may lower the risk of many health problems.

Why are we talking about fiber again? Primarily because we tend to be a pre-packaged, processed, no cooking, fast food society and forget the benefits of fiber. Breakfast cereal is an easy way to have fiber daily however statistics show that breakfast doesn't "happen" for a large portion of society. It's hard to eat a bowl of oatmeal in the car going to work.

Soluble and insoluble fibers are found in plants cell walls and are mainly pectins and gums. They dissolve during digestion to form a gummy, gel like material. Good sources of soluble fiber are apples, barley, cabbage, carrots, caulflower, citrus fruit, corn bran, cranberries, dry beans and peas, green beans, kale, oat bran, peas, plums, potatoes, rice bran, squash and strawberries.

Water soluble fibers found in oats and dried beans absorb water and retain sugar and starch which slows their absorption in the body thus aiding a diabetic by helping regulate the body's use of sugar. When foods from plants make up a major part of the diet, people appear to be at less risk of developing heart disease, cancer of the lung, esophagus, colon or stomach. The exact reason has not been identified.

Water-insoluble fiber also has many health benefits. These fiber include cellulose, lignin and many hemicellulose. Sources of water insoluble fiber include wheat bran and most grains, whole grains such as whole wheat and nuts, seeds and vegetables such as cabbage, green and wax beans and broccoli.

These add bulk to the diet, absorbing water and decreasing the time it takes food to move through the digestive system. This swift passage helps prevent constipation and is useful in the treatment of diverticulitis, spastic colon and irritable bowel syndrome. Studies also indicate that diets rich in insoluble fiber may lower the risk of some types of cancer.

The trick is to include both types of fiber to help provide different health benefits. Weight control is a good example of the team work of both fibers. High fiber foods take longer to chew and if the eating is slower you will be less likely to overeat. Slowing down the eating process gives the brain enough time to realize that the body has eaten. Fiber foods also create a feeling of fullness so you have a sense of appetite satisfaction.

PLYMOUTH SPORTS SCENE

Best score

Mureen Mead of Canton posted the lowest score at the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association's weekly tournament June 15 at Romeo Golf Club.
Mead shot a 45-47/92 to edge Cathie Heinlen of Bloomfield Hills by a single stroke for the low gross score in third flight.

Collegiate baseball wrap

Pitcher Tom Wakefield ran his record to 4-0 Wednesday, tossing a seven-hitter, as Westland Federation gained a 3-2 Livonia Collegiate Baseball League victory over Little Caesars in a game at Ford Field.

Wakefield, who plays for Spring Arbor College, struck out five in outdueling Caesars starter Dave Roman (Livonia Franklin/U-D Mercy).

Roman allowed just three hits in seven innings. Westland (8-3) scored twice in the third inning on an RBI single by Joe Vondracek and an RBI triple by Ryan Peavey (scoring Jason Gillespie).

Mark D'Antonio's sacrifice fly scored Mike Davis with the game-winner in the sixth inning.

Caesars' Mike Syjud collected two hits in a losing cause.

Earlier in the week, Westland and Caesars split a double-header.

Josh Vagi outdueling Jeff Belisle as Caesars won the opener, 2-1.

Keith Cooper (five innings) and Jarrod Hura (save) combined on the shutout as Westland took the nightcap, 2-0.

Delwal broke a four-game losing streak in the LCBL with a 3-1 victory Wednesday over Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury at Novi High School.

Pitcher Terry Hayden was the winner, throwing a four-hitter with 10 strikeouts and two walks.

Mike Pesci (Farmington Hills Harrison) went 2-for-3, including a solo home run in the fourth inning, and scored two runs. Dave Tykoski was 2-2 with an RBI and Tony Dilaura also drove in a run with a single.

Three pitchers combined on a four-hitter Wednesday, leading Ann Arbor Wendy's to a 4-0 LCBL win over Walter's Appliance at Ford Field.

Rich Dell worked the first five innings to earn the victory. Bernie Gibbons held Walter's scoreless in the sixth and Rick Wing pitched the seventh to gain the save.

Nick Callaway had an RBI double and RBI single for Wendy's (3-7 overall).

David Martin, the Walter's starter, took the loss. He allowed three runs in the opening inning. Jamie Oliver worked the final two innings.

Craig Petersen, Mike Zielinski and Tim Piccini each doubled in a losing cause for Walter's (5-4).

Division winners

The Plymouth Red Devils emerged as soccer champions in the under-11 boys division, posting a 7-1 record. They outscored their opponents 19-3, recording five shutouts.

State Amateur tees off

Del de Windt of Bloomfield Hills, who became the oldest player in Michigan Amateur history to win the title at age 49, returns to defend his crown against a field of 150 when the 83rd edition of the Michigan Amateur Golf Championship tees off Tuesday at Egypt Valley Country Club in Ada.

First- and second-round match play begins Thursday with the Sweet 16 and quarterfinals Friday. The semifinals and finals will be Saturday.

Earning exempt status for the Amateur is Livonian Brian Mills, '93 quarterfinalist; Westland's Claud Johnston, '93 USGA Senior Amateur match play qualifier; Farmington Hills' Greg Stefan, '93 Golf Association of Michigan Honor Roll.

Other local qualifiers include: Pat Stayer (Plymouth), Jason Buha (Farmington Hills), Matt Wiley (Canton), Gary Palarchio (Livonia), Michael Nolan (Farmington Hills), Doug Cumming (Farmington Hills).

Soccer sign-ups

Registration for the fall season of the Canton Soccer Club will be accepted through June 30 at the Canton Parks and Recreation office. Boys and girls 5-18 years old are eligible. Fees: $25 for those born between Aug. 1, 1986 and July 31, 1989; $35 for those born between Aug. 1, 1985 to July 31, 1986; and $45 for those born before July 31, 1985. Call Watson Zdrodowski at 459-0927 for more information.

Tryout for the Canton Hornets under-16 boys team will be at 6:30 p.m. June 27 and 29 at Canton Recreation Center field No. 3. Call Mike Shirley at 451-1470.

League is ready to open its 13th season

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Hockey players needn't fret. Nothing to worry about. The Metro Summer Hockey League will survive.

There was some concern. After 12 years, the league's founder and organizer, A.J. Baker, was leaving town, having accepted an assistant coach's position at Alabama-Huntsville.

Great news for Baker. Bad news for summer hockey league players.

At least until Keith Pietila stepped in. An insurance agent in Plymouth, Pietila has assumed the lead role to make sure the league would indeed continue operating.

"We'll run it the same," assured Pietila, who played for five years in the league until two years ago when he switched to a summer league in Howell. "We'll try to do it the same."

HOCKEY

The question is, why? What motivated Pietila to try to fill Baker's shoes?

"When I heard A.J. was leaving town, I didn't want to see it die," Pietila said. "I told him if he couldn't find anyone else to take it over, give me a call."

Baker did, and the 13th season of the summer league was assured.

Understand, this isn't exactly a for-fun-only, recreation kind of league. Some of the notable league alumni: Pat Neaton (Redford) of the Pittsburgh Penguins and University of Michigan; Mike Hartman, formerly of the Buffalo Sabres; Don McSween (Plymouth) of Buffalo and Michigan State; Jim Storm of the Hartford Whalers; Chris Tamer (West Bloomfield) of Michigan; Mike Gillette (Livonia) of Michigan State; and Joe Sellers (Plymouth) of Ohio State.

The 13th season starts Sunday, with nearly all of the 11-game regular season and the playoffs at the same location — the Plymouth Ice Arena. Eight teams will compete, each with an 18-player roster (including two goalies); a player draft has already been conducted.

Once the regular-season is completed, a single-elimination playoff tournament will be held, with all eight teams qualifying.

And for those who may be interested, Baker is still following the league's progress — from Alabama. "I just talked to him yesterday," said Pietila.

Which goes to prove, some things are difficult to let go of.

Great exchange: Salem's Dave Karmann deftly hands the baton to Andy McDonald in the 3,200-meter relay. The Rocks were nearly unbeatable in this event, winning at the WLAA meet and at the Observerland and finishing second at the regional. They established a new school record of 8:05.8 — best in the area.

Well-represented

Salem dominates all-area distance relays

It sounds ridiculously simple, but what makes a team succeed is teamwork — proven by the 1994 all-Observer track team. What Plymouth Salem lacked in outstanding individual ability, it made up for in overall talent.

tion champ Harrison and runner-up Salem took two relay berths each and have five and seven athletes on the first team, respectively. Catholic League runner-up CC was next with three.

Harrison relay runners Scott Gurke, Ehsan Allos and Gil Chavez are repeat selections as are Livonia Churchill's Greg Koehler (pole vault) and CC's Nick Kallas (shot put).

CC's Freddie Taylor (long jump), Livonia Stevenson's Matt Syverson (high jump) and Redford Union's Tom Kessel (800) moved up from the second team and Westland John Glenn's Shawn Arbogast (discus) from the third.

ALL-AREA TEAM

Greg Koehler, pole vault, Churchill: The senior consistently cleared 13-6 and had a season best of 13-10. Koehler is a two-time

Observerland Relays, Western Lakes Activities Association and regional champion and also was first at the Tiger Relays this year.

Koehler also was a member of three Churchill relay teams. He plans to continue his vaulting career at Eastern Michigan University.

"Greg worked very hard during the off season to improve his vaulting technique and spent many hours in the weight room to improve his strength," Churchill coach Fred Price said.

"He also is an excellent student and is involved in many other school activities."

All-American left out of pro draft

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Jerry Koester believes he's stuck in baseball purgatory.

The Westland John Glenn High product and center fielder the past two years with Siena Heights College was named first-team All-American in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

But what should have been welcomed news was spoiled by the fact that Koester, despite a .396 batting average during his two years with the Saints, did not receive a call from any of Major League's 28 teams during the recent three-day amateur draft.

Koester, who turned 23 on Wednesday, now finds himself with the Erie (Pa.) Sailors in the Frontier League, an eight-team Class A independent circuit filled with minor league cast-offs and Jerry Koester-types, many who hope that some Major League scout will give them a second look.

"It's nice being an All-American, but that doesn't mean one thing at all right now... maybe down the road," Koester said. "I'll just continue to play baseball and maybe somebody will give me a shot. All I want is a chance to play in the minor leagues. And if I'm not good enough? Then they can release me."

Koester is disillusioned about the draft process.

"I'm still looking for a reason not to draft me," he said. "I had scouts call my house and talk to my parents."

"They said I'd definitely go, and they get your hopes up. I don't think it's right. They do it to a lot of people. It's happened to other guys, too. It's eating me up."

Koester said a scout from the Astros told him he'd go in the 18th round.

"He said they needed a center fielder for their team in the Midwestern League," Jerry said.

The Giants, Dodgers and Yankees also made calls and expressed interest.

"Somebody told me the Giants would take me in the sixth round," Koester said. "It's crazy, some of the things you hear."

Speed and arm strength certainly rank high on Koester's resume.

This year he scored a school record 74 runs and broke the Saints' mark for stolen bases (51 in 62 attempts). As a junior he batted .413 and led the NAIA in hits with 95.

"I threw out 21 guys," he said. "I also hit more for power. I had 15 doubles, which is a lot more than I had last year. I still use all the fields and I can bunt."

The scouts, however, may look at Koester as too old (23) and too small (5 feet, 10 inches, 170 pounds). Plus, Siena Heights is a small college program.

"Last summer when I played in the Great Lakes (Wooden Bat League) I was in the top 10 in the league hitting," he said. "The scouts have seen me face good pitching. When we played Michigan State, I stole second and third right in a row and I hit the ball sharply."

"And if I get on a good weight program, I think I'll still keep growing."

Koester led Siena Heights (35-34 overall) to the NAIA World Series in Des Moines, Iowa, but he pulled a groin muscle against Dallas Baptist in an 11-0 tournament-opening defeat.

He was limited to one at-bat, as a pinch-hitter, in a 5-3 loss to Point Loma Nazarene (Calif.), as Siena Heights was eliminated in two straight.

"It's a pulled, stretched muscle, it's just a little sore now," Koester said. "Right now I'm working with the trainer and going to give it about seven days off. I feel just as good right now, but I don't want to take any chances. I want to be completely healthy."

Once he is healed, Koester plans to sign a pro contract with the Sailors.

He had second thoughts, however, driving home after making the cut after a Frontier League tryout held in Chillicothe, Ohio.

"My parents let me make my own decision," said Koester, who also played two years at Henry Ford Community College. "They knew what I had to do."

"It's hot here (in Erie), about 100 degrees. I'm in a small apartment. But it's nice here. The atmosphere is all professional and I like the guys. It's all first class."

All the former Walter's Appliance summer league player can do is make the best out of his current situation.

"Maybe the scouts will see my speed and I'll be signed by the end of the summer," he said.

That would certainly sound like heaven to Jerry Koester.

gional and Catholic League meet. Kallas placed third at the Spartan Relays and fifth in the state, and he had the top throws (shot and discus) at the Elks Relays. He was over 53 feet in seven competitions and has a season best of 56-2.

"Nick rose to the occasion for us in the championship meets," CC coach Tony Magni said. "His hard work in the off-season, running and lifting, carried him to some outstanding performances. Along with teammate Doug Brzezinski, he gave us an unbeatable one-two punch."

Shawn Arbogast, discus, John Glenn: The senior had the best area throw of 157-10, was a regional champion and placed 10th in the state. Arbogast was the WLAA champ in the shot put and was fourth in the Class A meet. He was invited to represent Michigan in the throwing events at the Midwest Meet of Champions.

"Shawn threw over 150 feet consistently and scored in every meet he competed," Glenn coach Jess Shough said. "He has excellent technique and a great knowledge of the throws."

Freddie Taylor, long jump, Redford CC: Taylor had the best jump among area athletes at 21-10½ and was over 21 feet five times. The senior was second at the Jackson, Catholic League and Operation Friendship meets, fourth at the Spartan Relays and regional. He just missed the state finals with a jump of 21-1¼. He was CC's leading scorer and MVP.

"Freddie put in lots of time in the weight room and started the season stronger than ever," Magni said. "He was very consistent in the long jump, 100 and 200 dashes and always ran a strong relay leg. It would have been a very tough season for us without him."

Matt Syverson, high jump, Stevenson: Syverson is the WLAA and regional champion. He broke Dave Hall's school record this year with a jump of 6-7½, which stands as the best Observerland effort. The senior also competed in relays.

Kevin Bryant, 110 hurdles, Harrison: The junior set a school record and ran an area-best time of 14 seconds in the state meet prelims. Bryant, who had never hurdled before this year, was the WLAA champion, placed second at the Oakland County and regional meets and finished eighth in the state. He also competed in the 400 dash and relays.

"Kevin is new to track and field; this was only his first competitive season," Harrison coach John Reed said. "He's a team leader who came through in the clutch. He will be one of the top athletes in the state next year with more experience."

Ken Riley, 300 hurdles, Wayne: The junior posted the fastest time in the area at 39.3 and finished seventh in the state. Riley was the Mega Red and regional champion, and he was undefeated in dual meets.

"Ken has a tremendous work ethic," Wayne coach Floyd Carter said. "He will run anything you ask him to run. He's a good student; he received all As this semester. He's the type of kid who makes everything worthwhile."

Jason Granger, 100 dash, Harrison: Granger was a state qualifier, placed third at the regional, was second in Oakland County and won the WLAA championship. The sophomore ran 10.6 — the fastest area time — in three of those meets. He also ran the 200 and relays.

"Jason has really dedicated himself to being a top sprinter," Reed said. "While extremely fast, he wins because he works consistently hard. Talent alone will not bring the type of success Jason experienced this year."

Gil Chavez, 200 dash, Harrison: Chavez was the Farmington city champ, finished second in the WLAA and placed fifth in the regional. His best time of 23 seconds was just one tenth behind that of teammate Jason Granger and Redford Union's Tom Kessel, both of whom made the all-area team in other events. The junior also ran 11.3 in the 100, went 20-10¼ in the long jump and is a valuable member of the sprint relays.

"Gil is an outstanding all-around track athlete," Reed said. "He is directly responsible for the Harrison team success this year. He was willing to do whatever was necessary for the team to succeed, putting personal achievements second."

Adam Bakowski, 400 dash, Salem: Bakowski was the WLAA champion, was first at the Mangan Meet and placed third at the regional. The senior had the best time in Observerland at 50.3.

"Adam worked hard all winter to get ready for this season, and it showed in his finishes," Salem coach Geoff Baker said.

Bakowski also was the anchorman on the 800 relay and 1,600 relays, and he received the scholar-athlete award from the WLAA.

Tom Kessel, 800 run, Redford Union: Kessel won the regional championship and ran the best area time of 1:57.2 at that meet. The junior is one of the most versatile Observerland athletes and is able to run anything from the 100 to the 1,600.

He was ninth in the state in the 800 and second in the Mega Conference in the 400. Kessel also participated in the 800 relay and carries a 3.5 grade point. Mid-American Conference schools already have shown great interest in him.

"He's a real team-oriented kid," RU coach Keith Holder said. "He helps the younger runners and encourages them. He's just a great, great kid."

Brad Polkinghorne, 1,600 run, Lutheran Westland: The sophomore was fifth in the Class C meet and was the regional champion. He had the best area time at 4:25.7. Polkinghorne also won Metro Conference and regional titles in the 3,200 run and finished eighth in the state. At the Class C championships, he ran 4:28.4 in the 1,600 and 9:48.1 in the 3,200.

"Brad became a racer this year and not just a runner of fast times," Lutheran Westland coach Mike Unger said. "Even though he is one of the best athletes on the team, he is very humble in view of his accomplishments."

Mark Leo, 3,200 run, Redford CC: The senior ran 9:40.9 — the fastest time among area runners in this event — while placing fourth at the regional. He was fourth in the Catholic League meet. Leo has been All-City the last two years and All-Catholic the last three. He is a two-time All-Observerland runner in cross country.

"Mark was our captain and epitomizes what a leader should be," Magni said. "That was true not only in races but also during practices when he led the other runners through his example of hard work and dedication."

400 relay, Harrison (Ehsan Allos, Scott Gurke, Gil Chavez, Jason Granger): The Hawks were undefeated in dual meets, first in the WLAA, second at Observerland and fifth in Oakland County. They had the fastest time in the area at 43.9. All are juniors except Granger (sophomore).

"All of these athletes are four-event runners and never ran the 400-meter relay rested," Reed said. "They probably could have run faster."

800 relay, Harrison (Ehsan Allos, Kevin Bryant, Gil Chavez, Jason Granger): The Hawks were undefeated against area competition, first in the WLAA and Observerland meets, second at the regional, third in Oakland County and ninth in the state. Their best time of 1:30.3 was a school record and the best in the area. All but Granger are juniors.

"They are truly the most dominant relay team ever at Harrison," Reed said. "They were a pleasure to watch. All return next year and look forward to improving their time and state placement. Again, all are four-event runners and never ran a rested 800 relay."

1,600 relay, Salem (Russ Polcyn, Jason Barylski, Brian Herc, Adam Bakowski): The Rocks were first at the Observerland and Elks Relays and regional runners-up. All are seniors except for Barylski (sophomore). Salem had the best area time at 3:26.9.

"The seniors really picked up the pace," Baker said. "It was nice to have a chance to coach a group like this. The guys worked hard for this."

3,200 relay, Salem (Russ Polcyn, Dave Karmann, Andy McDonald, Josh Stickney): The Rocks set a school record and had the best area time at 8:05.8. They won the WLAA title, placed first at the Observerland and Tiger Relays and were second in the regional and Elks Relays. Polcyn and Stickney are seniors, Karmann and McDonald juniors.

"Our distance team dominated this season," Baker said. "They accomplished everything they set out to do."

will make sure you Don't get lost!

Have you ever parked your car in a sea of other cars and found it easily because you'd tied an "attention getter" to the antenna?

That's the way our new Classified Ad Attention Getters work for you. Folks will notice your ad when you include one of these little faces or symbols. For only a one-time $5 add-on charge, your Attention Getter will appear as many times as your ad runs.

Ask for one the next time you're talking with one of our ad takers.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)
Someone close to you is suffering, and you may be able to help. Things may become difficult, but it is important that you do not throw in the towel.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)
You may need to try a different approach in a seemingly impossible situation. Do your best to see all aspects of what is going on.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
You will be well-blessed and can expect many wonderful things to happen in the near future. Health matters should be taken seriously.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
The obstacles you have been facing will be removed. There will be a chance for you to see the world in a different light. Do not dwell on the past.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
Being forceful is probably not the best way to deal with a problem. There is an indication that there will be a breakup or severing of a relationship.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)
It is time for a change of attitude, and you are the only one who can do it. Stop looking for the easy way out and deal with the problem as it is.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
You will soon find peace and satisfaction in your life. Plan to do something special with a friend or relative. You deserve some fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)
Think carefully before committing yourself to a major project. Use discretion in your personal life. There could be some problems at work.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)
It may be difficult to continue, but you are on the verge of major accomplishment. There is a need to take better care of your body.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)
A domineering attitude will get in the way of solving a problem. If you believe you are right, give the other person some time to realize it.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
You will lose new opportunities if you continue to hold on to the past. Stop worrying about what might have been and get on with your life.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)
You may have more influence in a situation than you think. It is important that you make a decision and then stick by it.

Summer fun blasts onto the scene for Universal Studios

BY JEFF PLASS

The summer season is practically here. And right along with barbecues, bikinis and beach blanket bingo comes the annual tidal wave of summer entertainment.

Offering a preview of some of this summer's most anticipated feature films, music concerts and all-around big events is Universal Studios' "Summer Blast," airing Friday, June 24, on NBC.

Bicoastal co-hosts Lisa Hartman Black and Jay Thomas will lead viewers through a fast-paced smorgasbord of what the summer has to offer, broadcasting from Universal Studios Hollywood and Universal Studios Florida, respectively. Comic Paula Poundstone will act as a roving reporter.

Hartman Black describes the upcoming event from Nashville, Tenn., where her husband, country music superstar Clint Black, is finishing work on his new album.

"It's basically to give everybody a look at what's coming up in the summer as far as concerts and movies, and just highlights of the summer's entertainment," Hartman Black states. "From what I gather, it's just gonna be like one big summer party. What's going on and what's out there to go and do with the family.

"And from what I understand, it's Universal Studios Hollywood's 30th anniversary, so you're gonna see some of the attractions there."

Throughout that 30 years, Universal Studios Hollywood has been host to more than 80 million guests on the famed Universal lot, where some of history's greatest motion pictures and television shows were produced and continue to be filmed.

Back in 1964, the Universal Studios tour consisted of a makeup demonstration, a costume display, a push-button monster and a stunt-man revue.

Today, Universal Studios' tourists can expect to be treated to such multi-million dollar movie-based rides and attractions as "King Kong," "Earthquake - The Big One," "Backdraft" and "Back to the Future - The Ride."

In addition to spotlighting the theme park's various attractions, the special looks at the biggest movies, Universal's "The Flintstones," for instance, and concert events of the summer.

The special features performances by some of the hottest names in music and comedy, including Jon Secada, Celine Dion, Richard Marx, All-4-One, George Wallace and many more.

Being the spouse of one of the country's top musicians, one might think that going to concerts is old hat to Hartman Black.

Just how many concerts does the successful couple get to see?

"Not as many as I'd like." Hartman Black says. "Clint and I...I see as many of his (concerts) as I want, which is as many as I can go to. When I'm out on the road, I always go to his shows.

"We're planning to see the Eagles. I think everybody on the planet is gonna try to see them."

Well, everybody who can come by a ticket to the highly publicized and equally expensive Eagles bonanza.

"Exactly," Hartman Black giggles.

Viewers not lucky enough to catch the "Summer Blast" on NBC can check it out on a variety of cable channels.

The special will subsequently air on TBS, FX, The Family Channel, and the USA Network over eight days, from Saturday, June 25, through Sunday, July 3 (check local listings).

"Through this unique packaging, Universal Studios' 'Summer Blast' will reach a larger audience than if we were to solely air on network TV," states Molly Miles, Universal Studios senior vice president of feature and television development.

"We are thrilled with this new concept and the predicted anticipated audience."

HIGHLIGHTS

Johnny Cash joins Clint Black, Reba McEntire and a host of other country music superstars for "The Roots of Country: Nashville Celebrates the Ryman," Saturday, June 25, on CBS.

The reopening of the Ryman Theater is celebrated in this once-in-a-lifetime homecoming event. The Ryman is known as "The Mother Church of Country Music" and it is the home of the Grand Ole Opry.

Bernstein on boxing: Friday fights on ESPN
BY JEFF PLASS

He's been called "The Prince of Pugilism" and "Bronco Bernstein." ESPN boxing analyst Al Bernstein is the network's, if not the world's, leading authority on the sweet science.

Friday, June 24, ESPN presents two fights. Heavyweight Jeremy Williams and flyweight Johnny Tapia spar with fighters who, at press time, had not been determined.

Bernstein sheds some light on the two fighters. "After that loss to Larry Donald," he says, "Jeremy Williams has a lot to prove. I think they rushed him into the fight with Donald. I don't think he was ready. But he has skills. He's a young guy and one loss doesn't end your life. So, I'm kind of interested in seeing how well he bounces back."

Bernstein adds, "Johnny Tapia is one of the most interesting stories around in sports. He was the NABF champion and about four years ago he got heavily into drug problems. For three years he was off of boxing. I mean, he did nothing but abuse his body. Finally, he somehow got back in the tracks and clean and came back fighting. He's had three fights back and he looks better than he did before he left."

"Actually, he's so good it's scary," Bernstein concludes, "For a guy to have that much time off, and be this good ... To my way of thinking, he'll have a title shot pretty soon."

TV FOR KIDS

'Degrassi' era finally closes on PBS
BY SUZANNE GILL

What started eight years ago as "The Kids of Degrassi Street" and evolved into "Degrassi Junior High" and "Degrassi High" reaches its conclusion this week with "School's Out!," an 86-minute film airing Monday, June 20, on PBS (check local listings).

Filmed in Canada by Playing for Time Inc., the 1992 finale has been delayed two years for U.S. audiences.

Series regulars Joey (Pat Mastrotianni), Caitlin (Stacie Mistysyn), Wheels (Neil Hope), Snake (Stefan Brogren), Tessa (Kirsti Bourne) and Lucy (Anais Granofsky) are all together as the graduating class celebrates the end of high school and the prospect of new adventures: jobs, college and even marriage.

Amanda Stepto returns in the role of teen mother Spike, while newcomer L. Dean Ifill plays Bronco, Lucy's boyfriend.

Under writer-producer Linda Schuyler, the "Degrassi" series have striven to portray teens and their troubles realistically. In the finale, some changes are for the better, while other choices lead to tragic consequences for several characters under the powerful influences of sex and alcohol.

Back when the "Degrassi" series debuted, such frankness was unusual. By current standards "School's Out!" may not be frank enough, as Schuyler chooses to pull several of her punches.

LET'S TALK

Yet another Gosselaar death rumor: This time Thiessen is involved too

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I have heard rumors about Tiffani-Amber Thiessen, Kelly of "Saved By the Bell," that she committed suicide because Mark-Paul Gosselaar died in an accident. Is this true? Are Tiffany and Mark-Paul really dead? -E.V., Monahan, Texas.

A: Where do the twisted minds that keep propagating this sort of rubbish come from?

No, no and no again! Thiessen, Gosselaar, Slater, Screech and the entire "Saved By the Bell" gang are all alive and well. In fact they'll all be appearing in a "SBTB" wedding special (guess who's tying the knot here?), set to air this fall on NBC.

Q: What was the name of the actor who played Elvis Presley on the short-lived "Elvis" TV series? -A.C., Port Arthur, Texas.

A: Michael St. Gerard was the actor who portrayed the King.

Q: I did not have a TV set when "Hawaii Five-O" originally aired, so I'm just now enjoying the show for the first time and have several questions. First, how long did the show run? Next, what has Jack Lord been doing since "Five-O"? Finally, what happened to the character of Ben? Arlene Adams, Portland, Ore.

A: "Hawaii Five-O" ran on CBS from September 26, 1968 to April 26, 1980, making it the longest continuously running police show in the history of television.

Lord made Hawaii his home after moving there for the show in 1968 and has become quite active in local civic affairs there.

The character of Detective Ben Kooka (Al Harrington) was simply written out of the show in 1974.

Q: What was the name of Stuart Whitman's character on the old Western series "Cimarron Strip"? -D. Harbeston, West Plains, Mo.

A: Whitman played the role of U.S. Marshal Jim Crown on the show.

Q: Demi Moore played in a movie when she had long brown hair. I know for sure that it wasn't "St. Elmo's Fire." I believe in the movie she met a guy in a bar and eventually moved in with him. I also know that she had a friend named Debbie who ended up sleeping with a guy, and Demi showed up at her apartment while he was still sleeping. I think Kevin Bacon played the role of Demi's boyfriend. Could you please give me the name of the movie and tell me if it's available on videocassette? -Debbie Lash, South Haven, Mich.

A: It sounds like you're referring to 1986's "About Last Night..." starring Moore, Rob Lowe, Elizabeth Perkins and Jim Belushi, although you may have some of the facts skewed. Rent the movie and find out. If you can't find it at your local video store, try writing to Columbia TriStar Home Video, 3400 Riverside Dr., Burbank, Calif. 91505-4627.

Q: Can you please help me with something that has been bothering me for a while? Is the little blond girl from "Poltergeist" dead? If so, how did she die? -Someone in Texas.

A: Heather O'Rourke died tragically, just four months before the release of "Poltergeist III," while undergoing a surgical procedure to remove an intestinal blockage.

Tiffani-Amber Thiessen

Q: I am a big fan of Linda Hamilton. Do you have an address where I could write to her and tell her how much I enjoy her acting? -T.D. Wells, Colonia, N.J.

A: Try reaching Hamilton through her talent agency, Triad Artists Inc., 10100 Santa Monica Blvd., 16th Floor, Los Angeles, Calif. 90067.

HIGHLIGHTS

Wheels (Neil Hope), Joey (Pat Mastrotroiani) and Snake (Stefan Brogren) (from left) gear up for fun in the sun as the "DeGrassi High" gang graduates in "School's Out!" Monday, June 20, on PBS (check local listings).

The film ends the evolutionary "Degrassi" series: "The Kids of Degrassi Street," "Degrassi Junior High," and "Degrassi High." Through the years, the series has revealed a realistic view of teen age life, one that doesn't always lead to "happily ever after" endings.
