Officials scoff at stadium story

Local officials are skeptical about stories that a new Tiger Stadium will be built on county-owned property at Five Mile and Sheldon. They agree Detroit's a better location for the ballpark.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Local officials are giving little credence to rumors that a new Tiger Stadium could be built on county-owned property at Five Mile and Sheldon roads in Northville Township.

But Plymouth Township police Chief Carl Berry says it would be "one monumental headache" if it happened.

"It would probably cost us lots of money in overtime that we don't have," said Berry. "We don't have the facilities or the staffing levels to handle that kind of situation."

The site is among several in Wayne and Oakland counties being considered by Detroit Tigers owner Mike Ilitch.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy said she hasn't given serious consideration to it. "The township has always maintained that for the best interest of the entire southeastern Michigan community, it would be better for the stadium to remain in the city of Detroit. I think that (Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara) has always taken that position," she said.

"Rumors are rumors. I truly believe that with the new mayor and the improved sense of cooperation between the city and suburbs that it's in the best interest of all of us to have a dynamic, revitalized Detroit."

McCarthy declined to speculate on the potential impact of a stadium on the community. "I don't want to speculate; it gives credence to the rumor, and I don't think that's helpful to anyone."

The supervisor sees a suburban stadium as a negative.

"I would hate to see a decision made that would be detrimental to the whole community. Suburbs are strong when the city is strong. Look at Cleveland. Their new stadium has been dramatically beneficial to surrounding communities," she said.

Music fills local parks

When summertime comes, Plymouth-Canton parks are alive with the sound of music.

The Plymouth Community Arts Council presents concerts noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays in Kellogg Park, through Aug. 24. Downtown Plymouth's Kellogg Park is also the site for the 8 p.m. Thursday concert series of the Plymouth Community Band, continuing through July 28.

Canton's summertime concert series began July 7 in the Heritage Park amphitheater, near the Township Administration Building. Concerts are at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays, continuing through Aug. 25.

The July 14 concert in Canton featured Doug Jacobs and The Red Garter Band, performing Dixieland-type music. "They're very well-known around the Detroit area," said Bob Dates of Canton, recreation supervisor for Canton Township. The group performed in Canton's 1993 summer concert series.

The series is sponsored by Canton Township Parks and Recreation and by Woodland Meadows Landfill. All concerts are free, except for the Thursday, Aug. 18, performance featuring The Shirelles. The opening act will be George Bedard and The Kingpins. Price is $6 per carload.

Local schools setting new goal

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton school board members are seeking input from the community as members discuss goals and objectives for 1994-95 at a workshop set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 18, at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

A prime goal is enhancing communications between the board and the public. Education is changing, and the district wants to examine "how can we better include the community in decision-making about education," said community relations director Richard Egli. "That's one of the goals

'We are making some major gains in terms of way we educate students today.'

Richard Egli

(Superintendent) Dr. (Charles) Little has talked about; how can we be more inclusive of the community in arriving at the goals we're seeking for young people?"

The board also will brainstorm on cost containment, student achievement, student housing, and the establishment of a citizens advisory committee.

"A goal is helping the total community better understand what's happening in education generally, and specifically in the district itself," said Egli.

"We are making some major gains in terms of way we educate students today. Most people don't recognize education has changed or what's really taking place."

The district faces a lot of unknowns in preparing students for the future, he added. "Twenty years ago, we could predict that people were going into factories. Students sat in straight rows of seats because they were going to be working in straight rows of machines in the factory. We knew a smaller percentage would go to college, do other things. Now we're told students will change careers about every decade."

In addition to the basics, students need interpersonal skills because of the growing importance of being able to work in teams, he said.

Egli said citizens are being sought for an advisory budget committee that "could include other things than just looking at the budget, per se. It could include areas like how do we better communicate the budget to the community, and what areas might we look at within budget? It would be wider-ranging than the specifics of the budget and how it's put together."

Candidate debate

The candidates running for 35th District Court judge will debate from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday, July 21, at the Water Club Grill on Ann Arbor Road, just east of I-275.

The event is being hosted by the Plymouth Republican Club. So far eight of the 11 candidates have confirmed.

Each candidate will be allowed to make a brief introduction, then answer five questions provided them in advance. Later, questions will be taken from the audience.

"We want the forum to be as interactive as possible, but with 11 candidates, we have to use a fairly formal structure to stay on track," said Carl Berry, club chairman.

The event is free and is open to the public. For more information, call Berry at 453-3669.

Pet tags

Sarah O'Hare of Plymouth lost her cat on July 1, and to keep others from going through the same pain, she is offering to pay for pet tags for cat and dog owners.

The tags are available at Specialty Pet Supplies, 1498 S. Sheldon Road, Plymouth.

"I had my cat Stewart since I was 10 years old," said O'Hare. "He didn't have an identification tag on and we never found him. We passed out 600 fliers and didn't get a response."

For more information about obtaining a free tag, call O'Hare at 451-2051.

Candidate forum

United We Stand America Michigan 13th Congressional District will present a forum for U.S. Senate candidates at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 27 at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road in Canton Township.

The candidates have been asked to address balancing the budget; campaign finance reform; health care reform; line item veto power; term limits; budget reform; congressional accountability; lobbyists; education; welfare reform and waste.

Audience members will be given scorecards to rate the would-be senators.

For more information, call 459-2195.

Teacher will visit Florida space camp

BY JILL HALPIN STAFF WRITER

A local teacher will be blasting off next week to U.S. Space Camp at Cape Canaveral in Titusville, Florida.

Erin Wenrick, fifth-grade teacher at Fiegel Elementary in Plymouth Township, will visit the week-long camp as part of a five-day workshop for teachers called "Space Academy for Educators."

Aimed at helping teachers generate excitement among youngsters in science and technology, the workshop includes a tour of NASA's Kennedy Space Center, two simulated shuttle missions and use of the Educator's Resource Laboratory at the Space Center for Education. The workshop is sponsored by Rockwell International.

For Wenrick, a 1986 Plymouth-Salem graduate who majored in math and science at Michigan State University, this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

"I'm really excited about this. From what I understand, this program is supposed to enhance my ability to create enthusiasm about math and science. It's a great chance to motivate the kids," she said. Wenrick said elementary teachers are being targeted for the program because "research indicates that interest levels among students in these subjects tend to drop in elementary school."

Erin Wenrick

The opportunity to visit the space center is also an honor for Fiegel, one of just two metro-Detroit schools selected to go to space camp. Wenrick said the school was approached about the workshop after catching the eye of a Rockwell Automotive official whose child attended the school. A teacher selection committee, formed within the school, picked Wenrick to represent them.

Wenrick will work with Rockwell team leaders to develop lesson plans for her class, and looks forward to putting them to use.

"I've checked the itinerary for the program, and it looks very useful," she said.

Wenrick's trip is also very timely. Her visit to the space center will coincide with the 25th anniversary of the Apollo Moon Landing on July 20.

School hosts open house

Gibson School will hold its summer open house 2-4 p.m. Sunday, July 24, at the school, 12925 Fenton, near Telegraph and the I-96 (Jeffries) freeway in Redford. Guests will be given tours of the facility and will have an opportunity to talk with faculty, board members, and current Gibson parents.

Gibson is an independent, co-educational day school serving families from more than 20 communities in southeastern Michigan. Its program consists of two components: Gibson Child Development Center, for children ages 2 1/4-5; and Gibson School, an educational program for gifted youngsters ages 4-13.

For more information about the school or the open house, call 537-8688.

Pet adoption program planned

The Michigan Animal Adoption Network (MAAN), a non-profit group that uses computer technology to aid lost and homeless dogs and cats, will hold an open house/pet-adoption program at the Canton Pet Supplies Plus store at 43665 Ford Road on July 23.

Founded earlier this year by a group of volunteer animal rescue workers, MAAN operates the world's first computerized adoption network for dogs and cats. The pet adoptions are run much like a human dating service. People call MAAN's toll-free number and describe the kind of pet they want, in terms of its breed or breed type, age, sex and size; then MAAN draws on its computer database to match callers with the animals that best fit their descriptions.

On Saturday, MAAN will exhibit over 30 dogs and cats available for adoption at the Pet Supplies Plus store. The adoptable pets will be from the animal rescue clubs and "pet foster home" volunteers that provide dogs and cats for MAAN's computerized adoption service. All animals put up for adoption by MAAN have been examined by a veterinarian, and have received the recommended vaccinations for their age.

Visitors to the store on Saturday may also register their pets with MAAN's computerized lost-and-found network free of charge. Every pet that is registered in the network is issued an identification number, and a collar tag with that number as well as MAAN's toll-free phone number. Anyone who finds a lost pet wearing the tag can call MAAN, which will quickly identify the animal and contact its owner.

For more information, call MAAN at 1-800-990-4343.

Music comes naturally for him

BY JILL HALPIN
STAFF WRITER

When Jay Berkley, 18, was in the third grade he had a very unusual Christmas gift request. Forget G.I. Joes and baseball trading cards, Jay had bigger things on his mind: He wanted to see pianist Liberace perform. His parents, George and Debbie Hoadley of Plymouth, obliged him, and took him to a concert at the Premiere Center. They've never regretted it.

"Jay has always loved music. I played the flute at one time, and his grandmother plays the piano a bit, but he was naturally drawn to music," said his mother, Debbie.

This became even more obvious to his mother a year later when Jay approached her with his summer savings, money he had made cutting lawns. Again, Jay's request was pretty unusual for a 9-year-old boy: "Help me buy a saxophone, and I promise I'll practice.

Perhaps what was more unusual was that he did practice, often spending long hours after school and forgoing weekend activities learning to play the instrument.

"It was a pretty funny sight at first, the saxophone was almost as big as he was. Now, Jay is over six feet and it looks like a toy in his hands," said Debbie Hoadley.

Toy or not, Jay's hard work paid off. The 1994 Plymouth-Canton graduate will attend the University of Michigan's School of Music in the fall on a full-tuition scholarship and has turned into an accomplished musician.

Drum major of the Plymouth Canton Educational Park Band, principal saxophonist of the U-M Youth Band and the high school symphony band are only a few of Jay's accomplishments. Active in a variety of student community activities, Jay was just 13 when he earned his Eagle Scout designation, making him one of the youngest recipients of the award in Wayne County.

"He is just so into the music. He plays at a lot of local fundraisers. All you have to do is mention music, and he just takes off," said Debbie. His love for music is evident to others, too. At high school graduation honors night this past June, Jay received the honor key in music.

Over the years, his musical tastes have evolved. No longer into Liberace, symphony music is now where Jay's interests lie. He has formed both a quartet and sextet that play locally. Instead of the typical high school graduation party, Jay opted for something more unique. With the help of an uncle, he rented a hall and held a recital for close friends and relatives.

Jay is attending the Interlochen arts camp near Traverse City on a two-month scholarship, where he is taking part in a national concerto competition. But the nine students that he spends time teaching are anxiously awaiting his return.

"He is so great with the students. He takes so much time with them, trying to encourage and develop their music appreciation," said Diane Bauer of Livonia. Bauer's 12-year old daughter, Melissa, is one of Jay's students. "I've seen him inspire so many kids with his music."

Despite Jay's hard work, he still faces an uphill struggle. In January, Jay's father, George was laid off from his job. Although he has started his own business, it still takes time to recover from such a financial setback.

And although Jay's college scholarship covers tuition, the Musician: Jay Hoadley of Plymouth is a recent Plymouth Canton High School graduate, and an accomplished musician. He will attend the University of Michigan's School of Music in the fall.

housing, books and music are still very expensive. Instrument maintenance is expensive also and Jay currently spends at least $65 a month on reeds for his saxophone.

But for Jay, education is a priority.

"We'll keep trying, and eventually things will get better. His education is the most important thing," she said.

Women's programs offered by Growth Works

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Offering services for women isn't anything new at Growth Works.

"We've been doing women's programs and women's therapy groups for about seven years," said Elizabeth Broderick, addictions specialist for the human services agency which serves the greater Plymouth-Canton area.

Mainly, those services have been for chemically dependent adolescents and adult children of alcoholic and dysfunctional families. "Now we want to broaden the scope of that to make the programs available," said Broderick, who's been with Growth Works in various capacities since 1985 and has a bachelor's degree in psychology and addiction studies from the University of Detroit Mercy.

That will include expanding the young women's element, so that it meets three times a week. That group is for those ages 14-19. The additional session is intended to be particularly helpful to women who are new to recovery. It will incorporate a 12-step recovery process and be disease-concept oriented.

Sessions will include a monthly lecture section substituting for a discussion.

Adult women will also meet in weekly therapy sessions, covering such subjects as women in depression, sexuality issues, attention deficit disorder in adults, nutritional needs of women, spirituality and the recovering woman, eating disorders, financial management, self-defense and empowerment. Speakers will be brought in on a monthly basis to address such topics.

Organizers would like to work with both adolescents and adults and eventually establish a mentor relationship between the two.

"We're hoping to draw people from western Wayne County," said Broderick, citing such communities as Plymouth, Canton, Westland and Northville. The agency has been receiving some referrals from Garden City and Dearborn Heights as well.

"There is a need in this community," she said. Broderick has found women are reluctant to travel to Ann Arbor to get help. Some may have trouble with getting a baby sitter, she said.

"A lot of them think Ann Arbor is a foreign country and just will not go the distance."

Four therapists will coordinate the sessions. In addition to Broderick, others are Amanda Eidemiller, Kathleen Singer and Nancy Grob.

"We have decided we needed to expand and make ourselves available," Broderick said. When

Growth Works staffers took women into groups, they realized those women had other issues, such as incest and self-esteem. "We found the need to just incorporate more people and make ourselves more available to the community."

The older women's group has been expanded since February of this year. Organizers hope to do the mentorship and monthly lecture series by September.

For more information, call Broderick at 455-4902.

Student from Plymouth places in flying competition

Scott Burns is a member of Sky Broncos, the Western Michigan University precision flying team that took second place in national championship of the National Intercollegiate Flying Association.

He is a 1988 graduate of Plymouth Christian Academy and the son of Sally and Russell

Burns of Plymouth. He plans to receive a bachelor's degree in aviation technology and operations in April 1995.

Twenty-six teams, chosen from among 76 that competed at regional competitions, participated in the national championship.

The WMU team took first place in regional competition in October and third place in the nation last spring.

This year's national competition was held May 18-21 in Cahokia, Ill., near St. Louis, Mo. The sponsor was Parks College of St. Louis University.

The University of North Dakota placed first, and the University of Illinois was third.

Fourteen WMU students competed in nine events. Flight events are power of landing, short field approach and landing, navigation, and message drop.

Ground events are computer accuracy, ground trainer, aircraft preflight inspection, aircraft recognition, and simulated comprehensive aircraft navigation.

Awards are also given for safety, progress, top pilot, coach of the year and sportsmanship.

Coaches are Mark Serbenski, Donna Godfrey, and Greg Robbins.

The School of Aviation

Sciences at Western Michigan University is the only public school in Michigan offering a four-year, bachelor of science degree program in the field. Degree options are professional pilot, aircraft maintenance engineering technology, aviation maintenance management and aviation technical management.

Services for parents available

McAuley Outpatient Services of Plymouth is offering a series of discussions for parents that focus on difficult-to-manage behaviors in children.

"Parents will be encouraged to share experiences in order to better understand, cope with and enjoy their children," said Reena Liberman, who will facilitate the program. "Raising children is a constant challenge that often requires more than one's own resources. Our group discussions will help parents address daily struggles in order to create a better relationship between them and their children."

Alternate months focus on the younger child or pre-adolescent/adolescent child. The Young Child will be covered in the months of August and October, and the Pre-Adolescent will be covered in the months of September, November and December. The sessions will meet weekly for four weeks and cover:

- Personality development and self-esteem.
- Recognizing emotional needs

- and messages.
- Effective communication.
- Setting limits.

Lectures will be Saturdays from 10:30 a.m. to noon at 2006 Hogback Road in Ann Arbor. Classes will be Aug. 6, 13, 20 and 27. The cost is $40 per person or $60 per couple. For more information, or to make reservations and arrange payment, please call Liberman, (313) 712-2551.

District issues warning

Residents are being warned against scam artists peddling advertisements that supposedly will be printed on book covers used by students in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"Please be aware that the Plymouth-Canton Community School District has not endorsed any sale of advertising on book covers and does not pass out such advertising to students," said Dick Egli of the schools' community relations office.

The Michigan Association of School Administrators alerted school districts of the scam after learning that a firm in southeast Michigan has been selling advertising to local businesses. Businesses are told the book covers will be distributed to students through the schools.

"The salesman then keeps the money for the fictitious book covers and the merchant loses valuable advertising dollars," said Egli. "The book covers are delivered with schools knowing nothing about it ahead of time."

While some book cover sales may be legitimate, Plymouth-Canton has agreed to no such arrangement, he said.

If a stadium is built in Northville Township, "all the traffic — and 40,000-80,000 people — will enter through Plymouth Township on Sheldon via the expressway," said Berry, adding that no one has contacted him with any proposals on how the situation would be remedied.

Pre-game traffic wouldn't be as big a problem as post-game traffic. "Exiting would be a problem, because everyone leaves at the same time. In addition to the traffic, you have buses, accidents, pedestrian traffic, and obviously the other things that go with the stadium, like parking and concessionaires," he said.

"Along with it comes some crime problems; pickpockets, larcenies and auto thefts." Events at the Northville Downs race track could further complicate things, he said.

Berry agrees with McCarthy that the stadium should remain in Detroit.

"It's where it belongs. Detroit is staffed, and has the ability to deal with it. We don't," said the chief.

Plymouth Realtor Robert Bake said he doubts a Northville Township stadium "would negatively impact residential real estate values any more than the institutions of medium security that have been in the community for decades."

"If they could satisfy the traffic concerns, funneling people in and out efficiently, then I don't really see any measurable effect either way."

Bake doubts the site is being seriously considered. "I think it's a red herring to give the city of Detroit and the state Legislature a wake-up call to get something moving along for downtown Detroit."

Music

"We did some research and got them through a connection with one of the talent agencies," Dates said of The Shirelles, known for such classic tunes as "Mama Said" and "Soldier Boy." "That'll be a real nice show."

On Thursday, Aug. 25, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will perform at Canton's Heritage Park. Concert series organizers urge those attending to bring blankets and lawn chairs. Food is sold.

Blankets and lawn chairs are also needed for the Plymouth Community Band concerts, which began this year on June 23. The group has some 50-60 members who perform 8 p.m. each Thursday through July 28.

"The group has existed for 35 years now," said Carl Battishill of Plymouth, band director. Band members perform throughout the year, with the summer the highlight of the performing season.

The summertime concert series started in 1959, and have been offered each summer since that time, said Battishill, who's been director since 1979. He's also band director for West Bloomfield High School.

The Canton summer concert series allows organizers to showcase Heritage Park and its amphitheater, Dates said.

McNamara vows to serve full term if re-elected

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said people who claim he will not serve his full term if re-elected are wrong.

"Unless the good Lord decides I'm not going to stay on this earth, I plan to stick around for four years," said McNamara in an interview last week. "And there's nothing that says I won't run after that."

The former Livonia mayor, 67, has been Wayne County's chief executive officer since 1987. This year he seeks re-election. He is challenged by Detroit City Councilman Clyde Cleveland in the Aug. 2 Democratic primary.

Among McNamara's priorities for the next four years are improvements in public transportation, completion of Metro Airport renovations, a new Tiger Stadium in downtown Detroit, success for the new community development bank and an increase in the size of the county's family homeless shelter in Westland.

"All those things can happen in the next four years, no doubt about it," he said. "If we can't get it done in the next four years I don't deserve another four years."

Calling Metro Airport "the single most important economic generator we've got in the state of Michigan," McNamara opposed Cleveland's idea to impose a 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew at Metro.

"It shows what lack of knowledge Clyde has," McNamara said. "If you close that airport at 10 you no longer have a hub operation" which would cost many jobs.

Asked to name his accomplishments as county executive, McNamara cited the new jail, built in his first term, the new morgue, which he said will open within 60 days, the alternative workforce, a work program for non-violent offenders, improvements to Hines Park, Elizabeth Park and the Warren Valley Golf Course.

The critics

McNamara acknowledged the frequent criticism of him by county commissioners, tracing its genesis to the creation of the county executive position and the concomitant diminution of commission powers.

"Before I came along the commission was both the administration and the legislative body," he said. "And if you look back 19 years it shows what a lousy job they did, because they had a deficit for 19 years. What we've done is diminish the responsibility of 'The auditor general is a political arm of the Wayne County Commission. If she functioned as a true professional person she'd do like every other auditor does; keep (the results) in house. You don't make it a public record.'

county executive

the commission. They now are no longer administrators."

One of McNamara's recurring complaints is the integrity of the county's auditor general, Ramona Henderson, who performs audits of all county departments to promote efficiency.

"The auditor general is a political arm of the Wayne County Commission," McNamara charged. "If she functioned as a true professional person she'd do like every other auditor does; keep (the results) in house. You don't make it a public record."

Henderson, said McNamara, goes easy on the clerk and treasurer departments in regard to auditing, but hits the executive branch hard.

"She makes excuses for breakdowns she finds there (in the clerk and treasurer offices). She indicts us. Her tone is that we should know better, that we're screwing up. Until she learns to be a professional person, we're just not going to cooperate."

However, McNamara also acknowledged that the commission complaint that he uses the corporation counsel for political purposes is similar to his beef about the auditor general. "I don't think it's that serious," he said. "I think we can work those things out."

Moonlighting

McNamara has also been criticized for employing people in county government who hold public office in municipal government. The implication, which McNamara denies, is that these people somehow do his bidding when serving on city councils and school boards.

He defends their right to run for public office, and if they represent him in any way, "I hope they represent good government."

"The people we attract here are political beings. They love politics and they want to be involved."

Although McNamara has enjoyed a long honeymoon with area media, a fair amount of critical stories have surfaced in the last two years.

McNamara said the unfavorable coverage has the potential to undermine confidence in his administration.

"Where you guys go wrong in my opinion is you don't give balanced stories," he said. "It's important that if we want to accomplish something in this county we have to have the respect and we have to have the confidence of the people we represent. If we don't have that we won't be successful."

Wayne County sheriff likes Geiss for Congress

David Geiss, a Wayne resident and Democratic candidate for U.S. Congress in the 13th District, has announced the endorsement of Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano.

The 13th District includes Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia.

The other Democratic candidates are state Rep. Lynn Rivers of Ann Arbor and Fulton Eaglin of Ypsilanti.

The Republican candidates are John Schall of Ann Arbor, Dennis Fassett of Belleville, Glen Kassel of Wayne and Cynthia Wilbanks of Ypsilanti

Township.

The primary vote is scheduled for Aug. 2.

"It's critical that we choose the right person to represent us, especially since the federal government is playing a more active role in legislation that affects crime," said Ficano in a press release. "Right now it appears as though the crime bill is stalled in Congress. I want to make sure that adequate funds come to Michigan for future crime legislation, and that local units of government get their fair share. David Geiss has shown us that can happen."

Realtors, farm bureau endorse Wilbanks

Cynthia Wilbanks, an Ypsilanti Township resident and Republican candidate for U.S. Congress in the 13th District, has announced endorsements from the Michigan Association of Realtors, Michigan Farm Bureau and a good rating from Civic Searchlight.

The 13th District includes Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia.

The other Republican candidates are John Schall of Ann Arbor, Dennis Fassett of Belleville and Glen Kassel of Wayne.

SAT information session set

The Princeton Review sponsors a free information session on the Scholastic Aptitude Test 7:30-9 p.m. Tuesday at the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Township.

To date these information sessions have been standing room only, according to the Princeton Review. For additional data, call (313) 663-2163.

The Democrat candidates are David Geiss of Wayne, state Rep. Lynn Rivers of Ann Arbor and Fulton Eaglin of Ypsilanti.

The primary vote is scheduled for Aug. 2.

Dan Mullen, chairman of the political affairs committee of the Western-Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors, said in a press release, "We found Cynthia to be electable and favorable to private property ownership rights and Realtor business interests. She definitely is not from the Washington, D.C., mold."

Albert Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau, said in a press release that Wilbanks has "the best understanding of and appreciation for agriculture" of the candidates.

Civic Searchlight has given Wilbanks a "well qualified" rating, the highest mark given to primary candidates.

Pageant seeks youngsters

The national Miss Renaissance USA Pageant will occur Aug. 28 at the Renaissance Center in Detroit.

Auditions are planned to select six girls age 3-8 to comprise the pageant's "Princess Court."

No experience or talent is needed. Call 422-8700 to schedule auditions. No auditions will be scheduled after July 31.

Commissioners like Abraham

Wayne County commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Andrew Richner, R-Grosse Pointe, have endorsed Spencer Abraham in his bid for the GOP nomination in the U.S. Senate race.

McCotter also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township. Abraham's opponent in the Aug. 2 Republican primary is Bloomfield Hills resident Ronna Romney.

Abraham said in a press release he was honored to have the commissioners' support.

Board salutes Maxwell

A volunteer in the athletic department for more than 26 years, Russ Maxwell has been named as an outstanding volunteer by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and the "I Care" Committee.

Maxwell was born in Plymouth and has lived here for all but eight years of his life when he lived in Livonia. He graduated from Plymouth High School in 1960.

Maxwell said, "I was taking my 6-year-old son home one night when I saw the lights of the football stadium turned on and we went to see the game. I've been hooked ever since."

Athletic Director Paul Cummings lauded Maxwell's assistance. "He takes care of parking, meets and greets visiting teams and helps the officials to get situated. He's been with us so long and helps us so much that most teams think he's part of our staff," said Cummings.

"You can count on him for games, tournaments and any other activities where he's asked to help."

Assistant Athletic Director Jim Finn said, "When you look in the dictionary under 'dependable,' there's probably a picture of Russ Maxwell."

Maxwell was recognized recently as the "I Care" Volunteer Recognition Night as the longest serving volunteer in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Among his many acts of volunteerism was his service as president of the Football Booster's Club in 1972.

Ronna Romney endorsed by Kirksey, Vorva, Juarez

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

In her quest for "the big banana," as she called Michigan's open U.S. Senate seat, Republican candidate Ronna Romney visited Livonia recently to reveal in the endorsements of area officials.

Dressed in a blue business suit topped with a red, white and blue tie, Romney entered the Livonia Chamber of Commerce office to accept the praise of state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, state Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, former Livonia schools administrator Jack Kirksey and Garden City Councilman Ed Juarez.

Also supporting Romney, but not at the press conference, are Schoolcraft College Board Chairman Steve Ragan, Livonia treasurer Robert Bishop, Grosse Pointe Shores Mayor John Huettner III and Dearborn City Council President Nancy Hubbard.

Romney, a Bloomfield Hills resident, is competing with Spencer Abraham of Auburn Hills for the Republican nomination in the Senate race. The primary vote is Aug. 2. The Democrat candidates are William Brodhead of Bingham Farms, U.S. Rep. Bob Carr of East Lansing, Joel Ferguson of Lansing, state Sen. John Kelly of Grosse Pointe Woods, Macomb County Prosecutor Carl Marlings of Sterling Heights and state Sen. Lana Pollack of Ann Arbor.

Juarez said he used to listen to Romney's radio show on WXYT and decided to support her as soon as she announced her candidacy. "I was so eager when she announced, I said, 'I have to contact her. I have to support her,'" he said. Juarez added that Romney has a "common sense approach" to issues as opposed to "looking at the political correctness of things."

Vorva said that Romney understands what average people want. "Ronna is one of those few people that are listening to what they're saying," he said. "Ronna has captured that feeling. She understands it. We're looking for something different. We want to change the status quo, and that's what Ronna is about."

Geake said Romney has "energy and enthusiasm" and "I think she's going to save us this year."

Kirksey told Romney that the secret to winning against the Democrats in November is to "get the most dynamic candidate out of the primary, and that's you."

Romney reports spending about 90 percent of her time raising money. She said she has $700,000 so far, but expects to be outspent by Abraham.

She also said that four U.S. senators support her publicly and more are in the pipeline. Those in support now, she said, are senators Orrin Hatch and Robert Bennett of Utah, John McCain of Arizona and Alfonse D'Amato of New York.

Romney added that she is "part of the Ronald Reagan legacy" and, given her druthers, would prefer to face Pollack in the general election.

Parked outside the chamber of commerce office was Romney's campaign bus, a red, white and blue former school bus with large photographs of the candidate peeking out the windows and a public address system blaring patriotic music.

Romney allowed that campaigning agrees with her. She's learning things about herself and having a ball. "Everybody should run for the U.S. Senate once," she said. "What an experience!"

State Chamber of Commerce rates Senate, House members

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce has released the Job Providers Index for the 1993-94 legislative session, and announced its legislative endorsements for the fall elections.

The Job Providers Index provides the business community and other interested parties with a measure of how each member of the Michigan Legislature voted on a range of economic issues of importance to employers.

The Chamber's positions on these issues were established by Chamber members and communicated to the Legislature. Any legislator who earned a cumulative rating of 70 percent or better on the 1991-92 and 1993-94 Job Providers Index automatically receives an "earned endorsement."

State House

- Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, 86 percent.
- Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, 86 percent.
- Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Ply-outh, 95 percent.

■ Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, 95 percent.

Senate

- Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, 83 percent.

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce represents 6,100 businesses across Michigan. About two-thirds of members are small businesses with fewer than 100 employees in both the service and manufacturing sectors.

Jeff Foxworthy brings 'necks' back to Detroit

Georgia native Jeff Foxworthy has made it to Beverly Hills. How did he get there? By being one of the best stand-ups in the business? Sure. But he also came up with a signature bit that has endeared him to thousands.

BY BOB SADLER
SPECIAL WRITER

Yes, I'm referring to the "You know you're a redneck if..." thing. But do you know the rest of the story? (Sorry, Paul Harvey!)

The initial idea for the whole bit originated in the metro Detroit area. Foxworthy was doing a show at Chaplin's East, a large club in Clinton Township. There he was, a Southern boy caught well north of the Mason-Dixon Line.

"They were kidding me about my accent, seeing I must be from the South — where all the rednecks are," recalled Foxworthy, who was an engineer at IBM before taking up comedy. "And here they are, the club was attached to a bowling alley. And they had valet parking! I mean look out the window, you don't think you've got rednecks around here. That's a baited field for rednecks. You couldn't keep a redneck away from a bowling alley with valet parking."

And so, an idea was born. It grew to the point where it became a five-minute chunk of Foxworthy's act. Soon, the bit started to develop a life of its own.

"It became a game for my wife and I when we were on the road," Foxworthy said. "We'd be driving to the next town and see somebody with their bare feet out a car window. We'd look at each other and go 'write that down!' So, then we had 50, then 100, then 200."

"Pretty soon, I was typing all of them up and taking them with me on the road. I would show the list to people, and they would say this is really funny, you should do something with this." So, we approached some publisher about it.

There must be a bit of redneck in all of us. The first "You Know You're a Redneck If..." book sold about a million copies. Foxworthy has also done an album and a series of Showtime cable specials on the topic, now being sold for $19.95 through the proverbial special TV offer.

This fall, Foxworthy will release his sixth book, tentatively titled "Games Rednecks Play." Focusing on sports, the book contains a few jokes at Foxworthy's hometown of Atlanta and its upcoming hosting of the Summer Olympics in 1996.

"You know they won't have a flame that big without a pig on it," Foxworthy said. "When they release the doves, you know there'll be a bunch of guys in the parking lot with shot guns."

Another subject close to Foxworthy's heart is getting older. Life has settled down quite a bit for the ace comic, with a home in California and two young daughters, ages 2 and 3 months. Aging was the subject of Foxworthy's 1993 book, "You're not a Kid Anymore." The book successfully duplicates the "You know you're a redneck if..." formula.

"You're not a kid anymore when you actually call about that adjustable bed on TV," Foxworthy said. "Or you can live without sex, but not without your glasses."

"My wife bought me an electric nose hair clipper for my birthday. That in itself didn't bother me; it was the replacement blade that came with it. Like I'm going to wear this thing out!"

Foxworthy is excited to be coming back to the Detroit area. A huge baseball and Atlanta Braves fan, he has been to just about every ball park in the country, thanks to his job. However, there are a couple of notable exceptions.

"Everytime I've been in Boston and Detroit the teams have either been on the road or playing while I'm doing a show," he said. "I've driven by Fenway Park and Tiger Stadium, but never been able to see a game."

The Tigers are taking on the Oakland Athletics the afternoon Foxworthy comes to town. Here's a bet that Foxworthy — and a bunch of rednecks — will be there.

Jeff Foxworthy appears at 7:30 p.m. July 30 at Meadow Brook. Tickets are $15 for pavilion and $10 for lawn, available at the Palace, Pine Knob and Meadow Brook box offices, as well as Ticketmaster outlets By charge, call (810) 645-6666.

AT THE MIKE

Not exactly a bum steer... Glenn Steer provides the laughs tomorrow through Saturday at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle in Royal Oak. Call (810) 542-9900 for reservations.

And now for something completely different... Long dormant, the old Northland movie theater in Southfield has found a new life as the Millennium Theatre Center. Among the entertainment planned for the venture of the Southfield Downtown Development Authority is a series of Friday appearances by Mr. Paulie's Fruit & Vegetable Company. Billed as a troupe in the tradition of Monty Python and the Kids in the Hall, they appear at 8 p.m. Aug. 5, 12 and 19. Tickets are $10, available at all Ticketmaster outlets or charge at (810) 645-6666.

Tour offers a H.O.R.D.E. of fun

■ The H.O.R.D.E. tour will spend the summer touring in the shadow of the acclaimed alternative festival Lollapalooza. But this festival has something more going for it — none of the bands have fallen victim to radio overplay.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Hype is what the Lollapalooza Festival is all about. Organizer Perry Farrell has been on the cover of most major music magazines within the last few months. MTV covered the first night by having Smashing Pumpkins singer Billy Corgan interview fellow Lollapaloozers.

All the publicity, however, has left other big concerts like the "H.O.R.D.E. Festival" ("Horizons of Rock Developing Everywhere") in the dust. That tour hits Pine Knob Music Theatre's stage July 21, three days before Lollapalooza rolls in.

If Lollapalooza is the bearer of the world's top alternative acts, then the H.O.R.D.E. tour is the stepbrother who is shy before you get to know him.

The main difference between the two festivals is, obviously, the bands. The groups playing Lollapalooza have fallen prey to radio station programmers who inundate the airwaves with their music (like Smashing Pumpkins, The Breeders, The Beastie Boys). The blues/rock-inspired musicians on the H.O.R.D.E. bill are acclaimed for developing a solid following by touring diligently — without a lot of help from radio or retail.

It's not that the bands don't have hits. The Allman Brothers Band have toured all spring (including a few sold-out shows at the State Theatre in Detroit) and recently released "Where It All Begins," on Epic Records. Blues Traveler will release "Four," their fourth album, on Sept. 13. Sheryl Crow has seen her fair share of hype following the success of her hit "Leaving Las Vegas." Big Head Todd and the Monsters, who recently appeared on "Late Night With David Letterman," are finishing their follow-up to their successful debut "Sister Sweetly."

Similar goals

The two really do have a lot in common, however. For example, the 3-year-old H.O.R.D.E. festival has similar goals to Lollapalooza.

"Anytime you're getting a lot of people together, it's a very positive thing. That's what both tours are trying to accomplish. The bands just are not as big as the bands on Lollapalooza — or as commercial," said Chandler Kinchla, lead guitarist for Blues Traveler, the band that created the H.O.R.D.E. tour. "The nature of the bands is a lot different (however)," Kinchla added. "With the majority of the bands the focus is on playing live. Most of us formed friendships before the tour. It's like a community and this is an outlet for that community to get together and jam."

Terry Thomas, drummer for second stage band Screamin' Cheetha Wheelies, said that he believes the

To spice it up a bit, organizers recruited Bill Graham Presents, producers of last year's Lollapalooza, to help out.

"They're upping the level a bit... making the concourse more accessible and more intelligent," he said.

Some of the highlights include an "LSD flight simulator," which is an enhanced kaleidoscope/mask that when held up to the light creates a psychedelic visual experience; the "Jimi Hendrix Exhibition," a museum that travels in a 45-foot tractor trailer which includes an interactive music machine; a bungee trampoline as well as a robo-surfer (like an electronic bull, but with a surfboard.)

"The idea is to get things where people can get over the nervousness of interactive and get silly," Kinchla said of the concourse's goal. "When people get silly they let their guard down and start opening up. It's really conducive to good music."

This year, a secondary stage has been made a considerable part of the show.

"The secondary stage is a much more integral part of the event. Last tour we did it but it was very much on the sidelines," Kinchla said.

The side-stage bands include South by Southwest Music Conference favorites Ugly Americans and Chicago's Rollover. The Los Angeles-based band April's Motel Room is using their side-stage appearances on the H.O.R.D.E. tour to promote their Epic Records' debut "Black 14," which was released last week. April's Motel Room occupant Sam, Nickell was his first national tour without doing his pretty nonchalant about idols the Allman Bros.

"No one in this band (was set on) getting a record deal; playing parties was really cool, makin' a couple bucks here and there," the 20-year-old said.

Joining the three bands on the side-stage is the Screamin' Cheetha Wheelies Terry Thomas, the band's drummer, is most impressed with the family atmosphere that has created as a result of the H.O.R.D.E. tour.

"I always liked the Allman Brothers. I always knew I'd be in the band that had the same kind of brotherhood. That's the thing I always dug," Thomas said in his slight southern accent.

That's what Kinchla had in mind when his band dreamed up the H.O.R.D.E. Festival.

"We're really proud to be able to create this whole entity. Big Head Todd is someone we get along with personally. It's about creating good music. We're not trying to outdo the year before. We want to just create a good bill."

The H.O.R.D.E. tour comes to Pine Knob Music Theatre, 1-75 and Sashabaw Road, Clarkston, at 3 p.m. Thursday, July 21. Tickets are $25 pavilion, $12.50 for lawn. For more information, call (810) 377-0100.

it makes sense considering the fact that Clinton is the most-sampled artist in history. De La Soul, Hammer, Gerardo, Eric B., Too Short, Ice Cube and Digital Underground have used bits of his lyrics to make hit records.

The "Bow wow wow yippee yo yippee yay" that Snoop Doggy Dogg raps with Dr. Dre — that's a Clinton original. "Free your mind and the rest will follow" as sung by R&B divas En Vogue is based on an old Clinton song.

Half of the fun for Clinton is watching the faces of the primarily young audience when they recognize his lyrics from other people's songs.

George Clinton: At the Lollapalooza Festival.

At the Detroit Music Awards last December, funkster George Clinton commanded attention wherever he went. With his rainbow-colored dreadlocks and kinglike robe, it wasn't hard to miss the Brooklyn, Mich., resident.

"I used to work in a barber shop. I know all the hair tricks," the gravely voiced legend said with a laugh.

His hair will be in full effect this week as Clinton returns to Pine Knob Music Theatre to play Lollapalooza. They'll be no mistaking Clinton and the Parliament-Funkadelic. He'll be the one on stage with a 20-member band that looks like it stepped straight out of a costume party.

At first Clinton may not seem to be a logical choice for Lollapalooza. But it makes sense considering the fact that Clinton is the most-sampled artist in history. De La Soul, Hammer, Gerardo, Eric B., Too Short, Ice Cube and Digital Underground have used bits of his lyrics to make hit records.

MTV, they (don't realize that they) know quite a bit about it," Clinton said.

He admits that in the back of his mind he always knew his music, some of which dates back to the late 1960s, was going to be "in" again.

"I knew the music was going to come back and be famous again. I never expected it to be as big as it really is. We thought we'd come back as nostalgia. When it did come back, it came back literally."

The Lollapalooza Festival comes to Pine Knob Music Theatre, 1-75 and Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, July 23-July 25 and July 29. Tickets, priced at $30.50 for pavilion and lawn, are still available for the July 29 show. Call (810) 377-0100 for more information.

Red Cross honors Observer editor

Sue Mason, Suburban Life editor at the Observer Newspapers, recently received the Buddies for Life Award from the Southeastern Michigan Blood Services Region of the American Red Cross.

The award is presented to a news person in southeastern Michigan who has displayed continued dedication to maintaining an adequate blood supply in times of need.

"When Sue Mason covers a story about blood for the Observer, it is never a halfhearted effort. Red Cross has had the pleasure of working with Sue Mason for a little more than a year and in that time she has demonstrated all the ingredients that comprise a top-notch reporter. She is objective, yet maintains a concern for her community and the issues that affect it," said Belinda Pickle, spokeswoman for the Southeastern Michigan Blood Services Region of the American Red Cross.

"Sue has the ability to take a complicated subject and make it easy to understand for her readers. She always shows enthusiasm in her reporting and this shines through in her writing. Most of all, Sue is a reporter that cares about her community, and this is what separates her from others."

Mason, a graduate of Wayne State University, edits the Suburban Life sections in Livonia, Redford, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth and Canton.

She joined the Observer nine years ago as a reporter. She worked as a general assignment reporter in Westland and then as an education writer in Livonia and Redford before being named an editor in January 1988.

Before joining the Observer, Mason worked as editor of Associated Newspapers.

Last year she received awards for writing and editing from the Michigan Press Association and the Suburban Newspaper Association.

Married, Mason and her husband share their Westland home with two English setters, Beaner and Willie.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Swedish popovers and other reader requests

The warm weather hasn't kept people out of the kitchen. In June I received more than 60 calls from readers seeking answers to questions, copies of recipes from previous issues, and hard-to-find recipes.

■ Marilyn Began of Southfield searched high and low for a recipe that uses an ebleskiver pan she recently acquired. This recipe came from my friend Jean, who loves to make ebleskivers, those indescribably delicious Swedish popovers.

EBLESKIVERS

- 1/2 cup butter, melted
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 cup whole milk
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground cardamom
- Butter to grease pan
- Optional fillings: Apple sauce, jam or powdered sugar for sprinkling on top

In a large bowl, blend together butter, egg yolks, milk and sugar. In a medium bowl, combine dry ingredients. Stir into egg yolk mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff and gently fold into batter mixture. Heat ebleskiver pan at medium low heat until a drop of water sizzles when applied.

Spoon 1/2 teaspoon of butter into each cup. Drop 1 rounded tablespoon of batter into each cup and cook over medium low heat for 1 minute. Turn ebleskivers over gently using a skewer or basting needle and cook one additional minute. Remove from pan and fill with filling of your choice. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen ebleskivers.

■ In the spring, Martha of Redford requested a recipe for Hawaiian Bread. We received three different recipes from helpful readers. The best one came from Paula Maake of Huntington Woods, who sent along a copy of a recipe reprinted many moons ago in "Sunset" magazine.

PORTUGUESE SWEET BREAD (HAWAIIAN BREAD)

- 1/4 cup instant mashed potatoes (granules or powder)
- 1/4 cup boiling water
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup instant non-fat dry milk powder
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 1/4 cup warm water (about 110 degrees F)
- 4 1/2 to 5 cups all purpose flour
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 teaspoon lemon flavoring
- 1 egg, beaten

In a small pan, beat instant potatoes into boiling water. Stir in the sugar, dry milk and the butter. Allow to cool to about 110 degrees F. Meanwhile, in a large bowl of an electric mixer, dissolve the yeast in the warm water. Blend into cooled potato mixture. Add 2 cups flour and beat to blend. Stir in the eggs, salt, vanilla and lemon flavoring until thoroughly blended. Then beat in 1/2 cups more flour.

With a heavy mixer or by hand, mix in more flour to make a stiff dough, about 1 to 1 1/2 cups. Turn onto a floured board and knead 5 to 10 minutes or until smooth and satiny, adding more flour as needed. Turn dough over in a lightly greased bowl; cover and allow to rise in a warm place until doubled, about 1 hour. Punch down, allowing to rest 10 minutes.

Divide dough in half. Shape each half into a flattened round, about 8 inches across in a greased 9-inch pie pan. Cover lightly and allow to rise until almost doubled for about 35 to 45 minutes. Brush with beaten egg and sprinkle with a bit of sugar if desired. Bake at 350 degrees F for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool on racks. Makes 2 loaves.

■ Mrs. Kohl of Livonia wanted to know why her potato salad gets runny. She uses Miracle Whip, just like Momma does, along with mustard, celery, onions, cheese and other seasonings. Momma said to mix the potato salad after the potatoes are thoroughly cool and refrigerated. Mixing the salad when the potatoes are still warm thins the salad dressing. I hope this works.

THE OLIVE GARDEN ITALIAN RESTAURANT

Pasta: Capellini Pomodoro, created by The Olive Garden Italian Restaurant, features angel hair pasta, fresh tomatoes, and freshly grated Parmesan cheese seasoned with basil and olive oil.

Pasta offers the perfect dinner solution for hot summer nights. Pasta can be served cold with vegetables in a hearty salad with, or tossed with a sauce of lightly sauteed garden-fresh tomatoes, basil and garlic.

BY BARBARA WILSON
SPECIAL WRITER

With more than 130 shapes to choose from, and fresh vegetables ripening in gardens, it's time to experiment with pasta salads and entrees.

Italians consider cold pasta to be an appetizer. In this country we have come to accept it as a healthful and filling meal that requires little work.

A good pasta salad or entree made with freshly picked, lightly sauteed vegetables, and hearty bread will satisfy the biggest appetite. Because dinner's a snap to make, you'll still have time to enjoy outdoor activities with your family.

The shape of pasta you choose will depend on the dressing. Frank Chimento, owner of Chimento's Italian Market on Plymouth Road in Livonia, says a lighter dressing is best complemented by a curved pasta or one with a hole in it. This will help the dressing cling to the pasta.

A pasta with ridges will also work well with tomato and oil-based pasta sauces or dressings, he said.

A heavier cream-based sauce can handle a straight pasta.

Specialty shapes are available, too. Chimento said he can order heart-shaped, flag-shaped and Christmas tree pastas, just to name a few.

Flavored pastas add extra flair to the appearance and taste of a pasta salad. Mama Mucci's in Plymouth specializes in vegetable and herb pastas.

Frank Mucci said pastas such as their sweet basil give cooks a head start on their salad, allowing them more time to experiment with vegetable add-ons and dressings.

Mama Mucci's will also be introducing a spicy red pepper pasta that has already received rave reviews at some local restaurants.

While a hot sauce is sometimes able to handle a mushy pasta, pasta served cold must be cooked just right. Mucci said to buy only pastas made of 100-percent durum wheat or semolina. These will hold up best for salads.

You should add one pound of pasta per four quarts of boiling water and not try to cook too much at one time.

"Pasta should be added to rapidly boiling water and should be tasted during cooking to make sure it is done," Mucci said. Pasta continues to cook even after it is taken off the heat so it is important to place it in a strainer and cover with cold water right away to stop the cooking process.

Mucci recommends putting a little salt in the water to keep the pasta from sticking and to toss pasta with a little canola oil after it is drained. The old tale about adding a little oil to the boiling water is malarkey, according to Mucci because the two liquids never mix.

The possibilities for pasta salad dressings are endless. Oil-based dressings are the most popular. Chimento says to use extra virgin olive oil because a smaller amount will be needed to cover the salad.

Chalk Hill produces flavor-dynamic wines

FOCUS ON WINE

turn around wine quality in a short period of time at a winery that, before his winemaking tenure, was making relatively undistinguished wines.

We're even more impressed today and want you to know the whole story about some of the most flavor-dynamic wines being made on California's North Coast.

Chalk Hill Winery, the only estate winery in the Chalk Hill appellation, is not a new kid on the block. Grapes have been growing (and wine has been made) on the property since the mid-1970s. After each visit to the winery during the 1980s, we'd leave with the belief that such a seemingly perfect steep hillside location with impeccably manicured vineyards should be making exceptional wine. But it was not.

It all came together in 1990, when proprietor Fred Furth hired Dave Ramey as winemaker. Ramey came armed with experience at Simi Winery and Matanzas Creek and fresh from a stint working in Bordeaux for the Moueix family at Chateau Petrus. His penchant for experimenting and curiosity for French winemaking techniques have paid off in some handsomely crafted wines showcasing complexity and character.

Ever the experimenter when it comes to winemaking, Ramey is not averse to using every winemaking tool available in the creation of each bottling.

"These tools can only be used with ripe fruit," he said. "Excellent vineyard techniques are essential to ensure quality. At Chalk Hill's 260 acres of estate vineyards with elevations ranging 200 to 600 feet, I choose chardonnay fruit from a variety of clones and sites with a multiplicity of exposures and soil types."

Once in the winery, Ramey utilizes vineyard blends, wild yeast, different barrel makers, barrel fermentation, malolactic fermentation and extended aging on yeast lees to make a more complex chardonnay. A proponent of wild yeast, Ramey quickly moved in this direction and has not used cultured yeast since 1991.

"I'm not ashamed to be straightforward about the fact that I use analyses of white Burgundies as a model in Chalk Hill's chardonnay production," he said. "Natural yeast fermentation consumes an overt buttery character of malolactic fermentation in chardonnay and makes the wine's flavors more balanced - more like a fine white Burgundy."

A recent tasting of the 1992 Chalk Hill Chardonnay ($17) proved Ramey's comments. Oaky accents from barrel fermentation were balanced against fruit. There is a buttery character, but it's integrated, and the wine is textured and elegant in the mouth.

CHALK HILL WINERY

Winemaker: Dave Ramey, winemaker at Chalk Hill Winery, among one of his favorite winemaking tools - French-coopered barrels.

Sauvignon blanc, the other white from Chalk Hill, has benefited from many "chardonnay cellar techniques." It is barrel fermented, in Bordeaux-coopered barrels, with natural, wild yeasts and undergoes malolactic fermentation and remains on the yeast lees for about seven months. Don't misunderstand, the wine does not imitate chardonnay in its flavor profile. It just benefits from the tools.

The 1992 Chalk Hill Sauvignon Blanc ($16) is a happy blend of ripe tropical, melony fruit with the slightest hints of new mown grass. It has tantalizing palate texture that is creamy, rich, full and flavorful. The bad news is that this wine is targeted principally for on premise sales in your favorite restaurant — ask for it specifically and complement just about any seafood dish you choose.

This was the general consensus of our table as we sampled it with a variety of seafood at Charley's Crab in Troy. The wine made a perfect match to soft shell crab, crab cakes and several species of broiled white fish. Yes, the wine's a touch pricier than many other sauvignons on the market, but there's none more stylish.

We compared the 1990 and 1991 Chalk Hill Cabernet Sauvignon ($18.50) side-by-side.

It was a he-said for the 1990 because of its overall bigness and Bordeaux-like flavors and she-said for the 1991 for the brighter fruit expression and resolved tannins. You should still be able to find both wines — although the 1990 may take a search — and make a similar comparison.

At Chalk Hill, the cabernet is aged exclusively in Bordeaux coopered barrels, 50 percent new each vintage, for a period of about 20 months. Shallow, gravelly soils on the estate are ideally suited for cabernet sauvignon.

Pasta

Faye Fitzgerald, a HeartSmart dietician, recommends working with juices to flavor pasta salads without the fat.

Other salad dressing might incorporate yogurt or mayonnaise. If packing for a picnic, these are best avoided because of the bacteria that may grow as a result of exposure to the heat.

Basil is perhaps the most basic seasoning for pasta salad dressings. In the summer months, Chimento said only go for the real thing. The fresh basil is readily available and will make a big difference in the taste. Italian parsley is another flavorful addition to a pasta salad. It is more robust than the traditional curly American variety.

Mucci recommends going crazy with the vegetables. They make a dehydrated pesto sauce (available in area markets) that combines garlic, sweet basil, red bell pepper and spinach with a chicken stock for a wonderfully fresh dressing.

"Try all kinds of vegetables," Mucci said. "You might saute them or grill them before tossing them in. People too often go with the traditional vegetables, but there are so many great vegetables available this time of year."

He suggests experimenting with different types and colors of peppers and squashes along with the traditional carrots, broccoli and tomato.

"You want your pasta to be beautiful to the eye," Chimento said. "Most of the time you eat with your eyes before the food ever reaches your mouth."

If you'd rather leave the cooking to someone else, visit your neighborhood Olive Garden Italian Restaurant. Through Sept. 5, the restaurant will be offering several light pasta dishes on its new summer menu.

Reader-requested recipes for peppers, pan-fried bass

See Larry Jones' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

Eva Gent of Westland wanted to know about Goatshead peppers, an elongated Italian roasting pepper that's she's growing in her garden. Gent wanted to know the best way to roast them.

Roasting peppers eliminates the bitter skin. Slice peppers in half lengthwise, remove the seeds and place peppers under a broiler or over hot coals to char and blacken the skin.

Place blistered peppers in a small brown paper bag to steam, and then run them under a faucet. The skins should peel right off. You can use them in sauces or purees.

Here's a recipe to try with roasted peppers.

PASTA WITH ROASTED PEPPERS AND PORTABELLO MUSHROOMS

- 1 pound pasta, cooked and drained
- 4 roasted peppers, skins removed, diced
- 1 large portabello mushroom, diced thick
- 3 green onions, chopped
- 1 tablespoon garlic, finely minced
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- ½ cup fresh basil, chopped

Saute the mushrooms with the green onion and the garlic in the olive oil for 2-3 minutes. Add peppers and chopped basil. Mix well and toss to heat throughout. Place pasta over top and mix in pepper mixture.

Drizzle with a splash of olive oil, if desired, and a sprinkling of fresh grated Parmesan cheese.

Mrs. Gross of Troy wanted to know if you can dehydrate fresh tomatoes. All tomatoes can be dried using a food dehydrator, but the best ones are Roma tomatoes, which have less water and an intense flavor when dehydrated. Follow manufacturer's directions for dehydrating.

For a special treat, you might want to pack dehydrated tomatoes in sterilized jars and cover them with olive oil. Use these tomatoes in sauces, bruschetta, or toss them into chilled pasta salads.

Bob "Julio" Torres of Livonia wanted a recommendation for cooking some bass he and a few friends caught on a houseboating excursion. Bob chartered a 72-foot houseboat on Dale Hollow Lake and claimed the bass were rampant. Well, Bob, here's a recipe I know you'll want to share with all your fishing buddies. Maybe you can make it next year with your fresh catch.

PAN-FRIED BASS WITH GREEN PEPPERCORN SAUCE

8-10 bass filets

- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 green onions, finely chopped
- ½ cup dry vermouth
- 1 ½ cups chicken broth
- 1 tablespoon green peppercorns, drained
- 1 ½ teaspoons fresh thyme or ½ teaspoon dried
- 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
- ½ cup whipping cream

Dip bass filets in beaten egg and then roll in seasoned bread crumbs. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter or margarine in a large skillet over medium heat. Saute bass for 2 minutes on one side, flip and continue cooking for 1 minute. Remove from pan, cover and keep warm.

Meanwhile, melt remaining butter in skillet and add green onions. Cook 2 minutes over medium heat. Add vermouth and bring to a boil and boil until reduced to a glaze, about 5 minutes. Add stock, peppercorns and thyme and boil about 10 minutes or until reduced to about ½ cup of sauce.

Whisk in mustard, remove from heat, stir in cream and season with salt and pepper, if desired. Simmer until sauce thickens slightly. Pour over bass and enjoy.

Chef's note: If you think this recipe is good with bass, try it with perch, walleye or even pork tenderloins sliced real thin.

Toss pasta, vegetables for quick summer supper

See related article on Taste front.

CAPELLINI POMODOR

- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 pounds plum tomatoes, seeded and diced
- 1 ounce fresh basil leaves, minced
- 1/2 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 3 ounces Parmesan cheese, freshly grated
- 12 ounces angel hair pasta, cooked
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper

Cook pasta according to package instructions. Keep warm. Meanwhile, mince garlic and basil. Set aside. Seed and dice tomatoes. Grate Parmesan cheese. Heat olive oil in large skillet over medium heat. Add garlic and cook until it turns white. Add tomatoes and pepper and heat through, stirring constantly, about 2 to 3 minutes. Tomatoes should not lose their shape. Remove from heat. Transfer hot, cooked pasta into a large bowl. Toss pasta gently with tomato mixture, basil and half the Parmesan cheese. Serve immediately and pass remaining cheese.

Recipe provided by The Olive Garden. Although this is a warm dish, it is a great summer main course because of its simplicity.

HEART SMART PASTA SALAD

- 1 pound rotini pasta
- Boiling water for cooking pasta according to package instructions and 1/4 cup boiling water for cooking broccoli
- 8 ounces fresh mushrooms
- 1 cup broccoli florets

- 3 cups ice water for cooling broccoli
- 1 green pepper, seeded and diced
- 1 sweet red bell pepper, seeded and diced
- 2 green onions, including green tops, diced
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 1 teaspoon dried tarragon or dried oregano (or 1 tablespoon of either herb fresh)
- 16 cherry tomatoes, halved

Cook pasta al dente according to package instructions, eliminating any salt called for in the directions. While pasta is cooking, clean and slice mushrooms. Place in a non-stick skillet over medium heat and saute until mushrooms are tender and give up their liquid, about five minutes. Drain well and set aside. Either steam or microwave broccoli and once cooked plunge into ice water. Drain pasta and let cool 5 minutes. Mix pasta, mushrooms, broccoli, green and red peppers and onion in a large serving bowl. Set aside in refrigerator.

In a covered jar, combine oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, parsley, tarragon or oregano and shake well. Pour dressing over pasta-vegetable mixture and toss well. Chill about three hours before serving. Just before serving, add tomatoes. Makes 11 or 12 cups.

GRILLED CHICKEN PASTA SALAD

- 12 ounces pasta
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup olive oil
- 3 cloves garlic, crushed
- 2 tablespoons basil
- 2 teaspoons oregano
- 1 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 grilled chicken breast, boneless and skinless
- 1 zucchini, sliced 1/4-inch thick
- 1 summer squash, sliced 1/4-inch thick
- 2 cup thin slivers red onion
- 1 cup thin slivers red bell pepper
- 2 Roma tomatoes chopped
- 6 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
- 4 tablespoons chopped Italian

parley, fresh
Cook pasta in 4 quarts of boiling water. Put two tablespoons of salt in the boiling water with pasta to prevent sticking. Cook pasta until al dente, about 4 minutes. Drain, rinse with cool water, toss with 2 tablespoons oil and refrigerate. Mix 1/2 cup olive oil, 1 clove garlic, 1 tablespoon basil, 1 teaspoon oregano and 1/4 teaspoon black pepper.

Pat chicken breast, zucchini and summer squash with oil mixture; grill (vegetables should only stay on the grill about 1 minute). Cut chicken into 2-inch strips, combine with remaining vegetables and place over pasta.

Combine remaining olive oil, garlic, spices and vinegar and pour over salad; toss lightly. Chill and serve. Serves 4.

Summery dishes showcase season's fresh vegetables

Here are some more summer pasta recipes to try.

SEAFOOD VEGETABLE PASTA SALAD

- 8 ounces uncooked spaghetti or vermicelli
- 2 pounds shrimp and/or scallops, cooked
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped water chestnuts
- 1/4 cup snipped cilantro or parsley
- 2 medium carrots, shredded
- 10 ounces asparagus, blanched and cut into 2-inch pieces

Break spaghetti or vermicelli into halves. Cook as directed on package without added fat or salt; drain. Rinse in cold water; drain. Prepare Ginger Dressing (see below). Toss dressing, spaghetti, seafood, water chestnuts, cilantro, carrots and asparagus in large bowl.

GINGER DRESSING

- 1/2 cup non-fat mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup plain non-fat yogurt
- 1 tablespoon light soy sauce
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- Dash of red pepper sauce

Mix ingredients together in small bowl.

HeartSmart recipe courtesy of Faye Fitzgerald.

RAVIOLETTI IN MUSHROOM-WALNUT CREAM SAUCE

- 12 ounces ravioli or tortelli, tri-colored
- 2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
- 8 ounces mushrooms, sliced
- 1/4 cup walnuts, chopped
- 1/4 cup heavy whipping cream
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 2 cups freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta according to package directions. Meanwhile, heat olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Sauté mushrooms and walnuts until mushrooms are golden. Add heavy cream and cook stirring frequently for 5 minutes until slightly thickened.

Turn heat to warm, and when cream stops simmering, add pepper and Parmesan, and stir until sauce is smooth. Do not boil. Drain pasta and place on a warmed platter or individual serving plates. Pour sauce over pasta and serve immediately. Serves 4 as an appetizer.

Recipe from the Olive Garden Italian Restaurant.

LINGUINI WITH MIXED SWEET PEPPERS

16 ounces fresh Olive Garden

linguini pasta or 12 ounces dried pasta

- 1 cup red bell peppers, cut 1-by-1-inch
- 1 cup yellow bell peppers, cut 1-by-1-inch
- 1 cup tomatoes, preferably plum type, seeded, jelly removed, cut 1-by-1-inch
- 4 medium garlic cloves, peeled and finely chopped
- 4 tablespoons fresh basil, finely chopped or 1 teaspoon dried basil
- 3 Tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese, freshly grated

Preheat two quarts of lightly salted water in a pan to a slow boil. Preheat a heavy skillet on medium heat, add olive oil and saute garlic until just white. Add all ingredients except pasta and Parmesan cheese and saute, stirring constantly until the peppers are crisp-tender.

Simultaneously cook pasta according to package directions.

Remove the cooked linguini from the heat and drain thoroughly. Add the pasta and Parmesan to the saute pan, blend well with vegetables. Add salt and fresh ground pepper to taste and serve.

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

Sunscreens may not yet be available in pill form, but new research indicates that vitamin intake may well reduce the risk for the most common form of skin cancer. Specifically, a study presented at the American Society of Preventive Oncology showed that getting more than 100 international units (I.U.) of vitamin E daily was linked to a 70 percent drop in the risk of developing basal cell carcinoma. The survey of the vitamin-taking habits of 131 people with basal cell carcinoma also revealed that daily consumption of 5,000 I.U. of vitamin A cut the risk of this type of skin cancer by 90 percent. In fact, the study showed that vitamin supplementation of any type was associated with a 60 percent reduction in skin cancer risk.

With skin cancer on the rise, this is very good news. We should all arm ourselves as best we can against the harmful rays of the sun. Gone are the glory days of sunning ourselves for the sake of a tan. Come on into the GOOD FOOD CO. We are Michigan's largest natural food supermarket. Along with our fine food products we offer an array of vitamins and supplements. Give us a try—we offer great food at a great price! If you have any questions, please feel free to call us at 981-8100. We are conveniently located at 42615 Ford Rd. We are open for business Monday through Saturday from 9:00 to 9:00 and Sunday from 10:00 to 6:00.

Savor a special steak duo from your grill

Pick your tomatoes for flavor

NATIONAL LIVE STOCK AND MEAT BOARD

Spicy steak: Savor summer with steaks on the grill. Steak prices are down, and enjoyment is up when Peppery T-Bone Steak and Chili Corn are on the menu.

Savoring a steak grilled to perfection is one of the quintessential joys of summer dining. While the marriage of beef and the charcoal grill is a happy one, today's "backyard barbecuers" have discovered many more grilling options — even for the basics like T-Bone and top loin.

This summer when beef steaks are at their best prices in years, experiment with some new ways to prepare them.

For example, go steak and corn on the cob one better. Grill T-bones and corn side-by-side and serve with a drizzle of zesty chili butter. The corn needs to soak in water about 30 minutes prior to grilling to help keep it tender and moist, but it's worth the 30 minute wait. Soak the corn while the coals are heating.

Grill steaks over medium coals to make sure they cook evenly. Many a backyard chef has had the experience of the coals being too hot — a steak can char on the outside before the inside is cooked. Another tip for foolproof grilling — brush glazes on during the last few minutes of grilling as in Mexicali Barbecued Steaks. This way, the steaks get the full flavor without burning the glaze.

While prices are low, stock up and fill the freezer. Properly stored, steaks can be frozen up to one year. Steaks should be wrapped and tightly sealed in heavy-duty aluminum foil or plastic freezer bags. You can help prevent freezer burn by pressing out as much air as possible from the package. Label each package with the name of the cut, the weight or number of servings, and the date. Freeze at 0 degrees F up to 12 months.

Recipes from the Test Kitchens of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

PEPPERY T-BONE STEAKS AND CHILI CORN

- 2 well-trimmed beef T-Bone or Porterhouse steaks, cut 1-inch thick
- 4 ears fresh sweet corn, in husks
- 1 to 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon coarse grind black pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cumin

Pull back corn husks from each ear of corn leaving husks attached to base. Remove corn silk. Fold husks back around corn; tie at end of each ear with string or strip of one of the outside corn husks. Soak corn in cold water 30 minutes.

Remove corn from water; place on grid over medium coals. Grill 20 minutes or until tender, turning often. Meanwhile combine garlic and pepper; rub into both sides of beef steaks. Place steaks on grid 15 minutes before corn is done. Grill approximately 10 to 14 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness, turning once. Meanwhile in small bowl, combine butter, chili powder and cumin; mix until blended. Remove bone; carve steaks crosswise into thick slices. Serve with corn and seasoned butter. Makes 4 servings.

Recipe may also be prepared using beef top sirloin or sirloin steak; cut 1-inch thick; cook steak approximately 16 to 20 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness.

MEXICALI BARBECUED STEAKS

- 4 boneless beef top loin or rib eye steak, cut 1-inch thick
- Glaze:
 - 1/2 cup mild or medium prepared salsa
 - 1/4 cup ketchup
 - 2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
 - 1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard

In small bowl, combine glaze ingredients; mix until blended. Reserve 1/4.

Place beef steaks on grid over medium coals. Grill 12 to 16 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness, turning once. Brush both sides of steaks with remaining glaze during last 4 to 5 minutes of grilling time.

Trim fat from steaks. Carve steaks crosswise into thick slices. Serve with reserved glaze. Makes 4 servings.

Choosing the right tomato for the right recipe can make a difference between a good dish and a great one, according to Jim Roach, general manager of the newly opened Dearborn Olive Garden Garden on Ford Road near the Southfield Freeway.

"Once you know a little about the common tomato types, you can select — and even interchange — tomatoes to create new or unusual effects in summer dishes."

Commonly classified as a vegetable, the tomato is actually a fruit. According to Roach, the four tomatoes most commonly used for cooking are Beefsteak, cherry, Italian plum and Italian pear.

Beefsteak tomatoes are the largest, generally weighing more than a pound. They are sweet, with little acidity. These are most commonly used cut into wedges for salads; stuffed and baked; or simply sliced to complement a sandwich or burger, said Roach.

Cherry tomatoes, typically an inch or less in diameter, have smooth skins and tend to be sweeter than larger hybrids. Available year-round, they can be used for garnishes, eaten raw or baked.

Mold will haunt your refrigerator if you don't clean

LOIS THIELEKE

Do lifeless, soggy, sticky, dry or tough foods show up in your refrigerator? Science experiments maybe? The problem could be that you haven't taken the time to wrap or store the food properly.

Almost everything that goes in the refrigerator needs to be protected from moisture and odors.

Just about any food left in the refrigerator long enough will grow mold, the furry kind. This mold may be green, pink, blue, white or black, and some of them can be harmful to you. Molds like cool, damp places, so they love the refrigerator. Spills, crumbs or scraps of food are a great place to grow yeasts, molds or bacteria.

Regularly clean the shelves, drawers or bins with baking soda dissolved in water.

Eggs, milk and butter and some other food absorb odors, so they need to be kept in closed containers. Strong smelling foods such as sliced onions, cauliflower or cantaloupe should be wrapped securely to help trap their aromas. Eggs should be stored in the original carton, not in the refrigerator door. Eggs pick up odors and lose moisture, so if you plan to store them four to five weeks, take care of them.

Keeping milk fresh

Fifteen to 20 minutes is long enough for all fresh milk and fresh milk products to be out of refrigeration. Milk keeps best at 40 degrees F.; a higher temperature starts the bacterial growth. Fresh milk should have a sweet clean taste, not a off-flavor.

Try not to take the carton of milk out of the refrigerator and let sit on the table during a meal. Pour the amount of milk you need into a pitcher and put the carton back in the refrigerator. Don't pour the room temperature milk leftovers back in the milk carton.

Instead, have another pitcher for leftover milk.

Your milk will stay fresh longer if the warmed milk is not added to the cold. Usually, fresh milk will stay fresh from one to five days beyond the "sell by" date. Low-fat and skim milk generally do not keep as well as whole milk. If you have more milk than you can keep fresh, freeze it.

Nuts and seeds become rubbery and their natural oils turn rancid if they are not protected against moisture, high temperatures and air. Always store them in a tightly covered container or airtight plastic bags. The refrigerator is often the best place for them.

Nuts in the shells stay fresh longer, whereas shelled nuts will become stale in a matter of days uncovered at room temperatures.

Crisp crackers

Warm humid days can make opened packages of crackers and crisp breads soggy. They become stale if exposed to air and moisture so that they lose their crispness and can turn rancid. As soon as these are opened, transfer to another container, something that is airtight with a snug lid. In the summertime you can store crackers in a plastic bag in the refrigerator and they will stay fresh. Remember, when you take crackers out, reseal immediately and refrigerate quickly so no condensation forms inside the bag. Soggy crackers and crisp breads can be spread on a cookie sheet and put in a 300 degree F. oven for about five minutes and they will crisp up and stay that way for a week.

Fresh vegetables need to be stored in the refrigerator to keep them fresh. Most vegetables last longer at a low temperature and high humidity. Keep some of these vegetables in the vegetable crisper drawer because it can close off circulating air that draws moisture. Tomatoes and potatoes do not do well in the refrigerator. They both like a warmer temperature and lower humidity. Don't wash peel or cut vegetables until you are ready to cook or serve them. Wipe out the refrigerator frequently as you rotate the vegetables.

Freshness in food does matter. If the food doesn't look or taste good and no one eats it and it is thrown away

Lois Thieleke of Birmingham is an extension home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service, Oakland County office.

Sun soothers will aid summer skin

It seems that the message finally sunk in — all the way into the deepest layers of our epidermis. Even the die-hard sun addicts are worshipping beneath wide-brimmed hats and underneath layers of SPF 30. Those who baked on beaches or in lawn chairs or on beds in tanning salons are now aware of the risks — skin cancer and irreversible skin damage.

But an occasional day in the sun is too alluring to give up altogether. Though pale is fashionable, the feel of warm rays on our skin is energizing, especially after a cold, gloomy winter.

If you're feeling a bit parched and a little overexposed after a day in the garden or on the lake, the following "sun soothers" should help revitalize your body and your spirit.

Fun with fragrance

On the hottest summer days, a refreshing scent is as welcome as a cool breeze. Mimosa Pour Moi is the favorite of Linda Bloom of Bloomfield Hills. "The fragrance is exquisite," says Bloom of the L'Artisan Parfumeur scent from the French Riviera. Available at Lori Karbal et al, 554 N. Woodward in Birmingham ($70).

Lori Karbal, the owner of the skin care boutique that bears her name, recommends several products to nourish sun-dried skin. Kneipp's Camomile Bath Oil ($11) soothes and heals the skin while you languish in a relaxing tub. La Natura pampers with its vanilla flower bath soak ($34), and Kiehl's Creme de Corps ($21.95) is a rich all-over moisturizer, the absolute best according to my teenage daughter who uses it every day. For the lowdown on the entire Kiehl's time-tested product line, stop by Lori Karbal 2-6 p.m. July 19. Representatives will be available to answer questions and demonstrate products.

Stephanie Burstein, a sophomore at the University of Michigan, didn't hesitate when asked her favorite sun-soother. "I love Seascape sea salts," she said. This revitalizer is almost as good as a day at the beach ($30). Also at Lori Karbal.

Help on the way

A few more must-haves: French Shea Butter for blistered lips ($4.50), pure Rosewater ($19) and Ophelia bath oil by Kiss Me in the Garden, a luscious combination of vanilla and magnolia ($18). Tiffany & Co. created its Spa Collection this summer to de-stress your skin, hair and body with botanically based treatments. The clean, fresh floral fragrance is available in a Smoothing Body Scrub, Hydrating Body Milk, Purifying Body Soap, Conditioning Shampoo and Refreshing Body Mist, at the Somerset Collection in Troy, $15-$40.

Bloomie's Face and Body, 27859 Orchard Lake Rd. in Farmington Hills, offers a variety of services for summer-weary souls. Their exclusive Facial Firming Treatment ($55) refines skin tone, softens and diminishes lines and wrinkles and stimulates cellular renewal. "It's a great first step to help recover from sun damage," says owner Anita McCachren.

The Body Scrub ($65) is perfect for after vacation, as it removes dead cells, then re-moisturizes the skin with collagen and essential oils.

Facials soothe

Cecelia Allen of Bloomfield Hills has indulged in a monthly facial ($50) at Bloomie's for the past four years. "It makes all the difference in my dry skin," she says. "Summer is so hard on my face. Before I started the deep moisturizing facials, I had itchy, flaky skin."

Facialist Amy Regal, recommends two essentials from her product line — Augenfaltent Balsam eye cream from Germany ($38) and Dr. Renaud's Hydrax, a moisturizer with aloe that doubles as a makeup fixative. Try refrigerating the Hydrax for an icy sunburn cooler.

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her column ideas at 953-2047, mailbox 1889, or fax them to her at 644-1314.

Opening doors: Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer tells suburban retailers that safety and jobs are the top priorities of his administration.

Archer: City is open for retail business

More than 400 retailers showed up at the Ritz Carlton to hear Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer's hopes for a retail resurgence in Detroit. He got the nod from suburban developers who thanked him for making their jobs easier.

"Detroit is open for business," Mayor Dennis Archer told a room packed with retail brokers, leasing agents, shopping center managers, marketing directors, security officials, architects, planners and bankers. "We need you in the city of Detroit."

Archer was the guest speaker at the annual Michigan Idea Exchange sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers at the Ritz Carlton in Dearborn, July 12.

"If you give us a fair, objective view," Archer told retail developers.

"You'll see things are changing... Police are out on the streets, in neighborhoods. Safety and security is being restored. A pro-business team is working to expedite economic development matters. A task force is analyzing our licensing procedures, building permits and other city regulations. We're prepared to implement their recommendations. We want you to make a profit in Detroit."

Archer said the results of a land use study due in August should produce a blueprint of what the city should look like along the wa-

Retailers study business stats at meeting

Building permit numbers, buying power statistics, and consumer confidence ratings are the topics when retailers and developers get together.

Here are a few of the facts they shared during roundtable discussions and leasing confabs at a recent International Council of Shopping Centers meeting.

■ The metro-Detroit (seven county) area is the 7th most populated market in the United States.

■ The average household income in Detroit is $39,940. It's $48,030 in Oakland County. It's $33,290 in the U.S. (The metro-Detroit wages are higher due to the auto industry and its related manufacturing companies.)

■ Oakland County alone, has the buying power of 16 states. (That's the nation's smaller states.)

■ Most residents agree that the metro-Detroit suburb's are over-retailed. Farmington Hills, for example, has about 60,000 residents and 1.5 million square feet of retail space. That's 25-feet of retail space per person.

■ Conversely, the city of Detroit is considered to be under-retailed with about 1 million residents and only 2.5 million square feet of retail space. That's 2.5 feet of retail space per person.

■ Michigan ranks 9th in the nation in terms of the most new residential construction.

■ This is the retail decade of the Big Box User. Category superstores are opening around major shopping centers, expanding in regional markets across the country.

■ There are 38,466 shopping centers throughout the U.S. — a 15-fold increase over 30 years ago.

■ In 1992, 10 million people worked in America's retail industry.

Lane Davis puts her spin on classic designs

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

At the ripe old age of "early 30-something," Lane Davis of Springdale, Arkansas is embarking on her third, or is it fourth career?

Her private label fashions are sold in upscale boutiques across the country from a workroom staffed by 16 veteran tailors in Los Angeles. Locally, Roz and Sherm carries the Lane Davis Collection at Maple and Telegraph in Bloomfield Hills.

Davis came to town recently to host a fall trunk show, taking some time to talk about her jetsetting lifestyle and gorgeous fashions.

She is one of two daughters of Charles Davis, who has served Arkansas as a mayor, state representative and judge. Her good looks and size 4 figure landed her a lucrative modeling career in Dallas, but after graduating from the University of Arkansas, she headed to New York to study acting with Geraldine Page and Shelley Winters.

"I also worked in the city as an upscale real estate broker," she explained. "My boyfriend at the time was selling international properties so I got the opportunity to spend time in both Italy and France. There I met people like Valentino, Iman, and I became familiar with classic European craftsmanship. It is this type of fashion quality I have now in my own company."

Designing clothing comes easy to Davis who said she has been doodling designs since childhood. She moved to L.A. and became an apprentice to Manuel fashion doyen to the stars (read Elvis Presley, Dwight Yoakum, Sylvester Stallone, The Beatles and Ronald Reagan) for over 37 years. Her designs developed a small, but exclusive clientele which brought her to the attention of John Paul DeJoria, the owner of Paul Mitchell hair products.

DeJoria offered to become a business partner after he got to know Davis' design plans and how hard work she works.

Davis and DeJoria took over the business of fashion designer Manuel, who moved to Nashville. They hired his tailors and built a workroom and luxurious studio.

Pulling out her fall collection at Roz and Sherm, Davis highlights the European craftsmanship behind each garment.

"Notice the hand-sewn Austrian crystal on this lapel," she says with motherly pride. "The material behind it is lightweight wool. This blazer can be worn all year long. It fits right over this dress and these slacks."

JACOBSON'S MASSAGES
Jacobson's Salons now offer 20-minute Shiatsu massages in all their styling salons. A scalp massage is $5, a scalp and neck massage is $15, and the works, everything from the shoulders up, is $25.

According to the history of Shiatsu, the body's energy, "Ki," flows in central meridians through the body. This flow can be blocked at the nerve points, "Tsubo." By massaging correctly at these points, energy flows again to promote overall well being.

Additionally, two other special treatments are available with a massage: a light conditioning treatment and a intensive heat treatment.

SCHOOL CLOTHES
Hoping to get a jump on the back-to-school market, The Children's Place offers a "New Traditions Collection" at Twelve Oaks, Oakland Mall, Lakeside and Fairlane Town Center. The collection features kilts, riding pants and barn jackets in brilliant colors.

WONDERLAND STAR
Greg Zweng was named Employee of the Month in May at the Wonderland Mall in Livonia. After proving his abilities during an internship from the Northwest Skill Center, Greg was hired in June 1986 as an interior maintenance custodian. He was nominated by his supervisor for going beyond the call of duty during promotional set-ups, and for keeping the mall commons areas clean.

NEW AT LAUREL PARK

A Disney Store is under construction at the shopping center with a fall opening planned.

M-Den, formerly The Rival, opened June 30. The M-Den carries a selection of University of Michigan and Michigan State paraphernalia from sweatshirts to tiffany lamps and marble bookends. The shop is managed by Mark and Lisa Hirth.

The grand opening date for Parisian Department Store at Laurel Park Place is Monday, Aug. 1.

TOY GUIDE
Toys R Us has published a directory of toys evaluated by experts for "differently-abled" children. The guides are available in Toys R Us stores, free to interested shoppers. Co-authored by The National Parent Network on Disabilities, the guide is a resource to assist caring adults in selecting "off the shelf" toys for special children.

The guide has over 20 pages filled with more than 75 toys, each ability-coded for differently abled children. All toys meet the standards set by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. They have also been professionally tested by children with disabilities.

TIE SALE
Mark McClellan owner of The Tie Man on Five Mile east of Middlebelt in Livonia, has reduced the price on all ties through July. The Tie Man has over 500 ties on display including cartoon, occupational, hand-painted and sports designs.

HUDSON'S GRANT
On behalf of Hudson's, the Oakland Mall store manager Jean Sinclair recently presented several checks to benefit local non-profit programs. A check for $16,000 was awarded to support student musician performances during the Montreux Jazz Festival; a check for $25,000 was presented to Channel 56 to support the "Great Performances" series; and a $4,500 grant was awarded to the Arab-American and Chaldean Council to sponsor a high school drop out program.

LAUDER PROGRAM
Estee Lauder announced that it is the first cosmetic company to measure skin improvements when its multiple skincare products are used together. In the company's "Power of Three" skin support system, (Fruition Triple ReActivating Complex, Advanced Night Repair and an appropriate moisturizer) are integrated in a daily regimen, a three-fold boost for the skin is achieved according to clinical test results with improvement of up to 54-percent in some cases.

Fall traditions: When the weather gets chilly and the school bells ring, The Children's Place offers a new collection of barn jackets, plaid jumpers, vests and jeans.

"This blazer has hand-embroidered silk velvet trim. It travels beautifully, just what you'd expect from a couture separate."

With pricetags of $1,000 and $1,200 the blazers are investment pieces. Other items in the fall collection run between $145-$575.

Davis ignores the ups and downs of fad fashion, focusing on classic silhouettes that provide timeless elegance for her clients. She shows her flair in colors, offering midnight navy, ivory, cherry red, subergine and cinnamon for the new season.

"And the styles can be worn by anyone," she insisted. "I design for Cher who is a size 4, and Winona Judd who wears a size 18."

To relax, Davis, a country girl at heart, heads home to spend time with friends and family in Arkansas. She is single. She enjoys walking everyday for exercise.

"I'm really putting in lots of hours and wearing lots of hats right now to get this two-year-old business going," she said. "Eventually, I'd like to design sportswear and fashion accessories. I'd like to give American women products with the Old World quality that European women enjoy."

Archer said the results of a land use study due in August should produce a blueprint of what the city should look like along the waterfront into the neighborhoods. He said a lack of places to shop in the city is a major concern, especially in the downtown area.

"Detroiters spend $3.6 billion inside the city annually, and $4 billion outside the city," he quoted statistics. "If I had money to invest in retail development, I'd invest in Detroit."

Removing road blocks
Addressing other concerns, Archer said he would like to reduce taxes in Detroit, "but before I can, I must build up my tax base." He said the city is working with the Department of Natural Resources to win a reprieve from what he considers standards too high on environmental contamination sites in the city "that expect us to restore the soil to a pristine quality before the French arrived."

In the fall Archer said he would look at education in the city with an eye on creating a workforce that will support and serve new business. Archer said he would continue to push the state legislature for support for a Tiger Stadium within the city, and has filed an application for $100 million in federal aid through the Empowerment Zone program.

A top priority of his DART force (Development Assistance Response Team) is to expedite building inspections and work with developers to find vacant land and buildings to improve upon. He would support gambling in the city only if it were approved by ballot and under some controls by the mayor and city council.

Following his speech, a developer came forth to offer a testimonial to the cooperation he's received from the city recently.

James Stokas of CB Commercial based in Southfield also supported the mayor's claims to a city with a new business attitude. "You'd get the runaround before," Stokas said. "You'd be sent department to department — a real zig-zag producing nothing. Now, everything is streamlined. Someone shepherd's you through the system to get you what you need, answers, maps, documents and cooperation."

Stokas said he's currently representing Home Quarters which is looking at sites for a supermarket within the city of Detroit.

Danny Moore vice president of leasing with Robert Aikens & Associates of Troy, owners of Meadowbrook Village Mall in Rochester Hills among other properties, said the mayor's plans "could only benefit everybody."

"It was a great speech, pro-business. What we like to hear," he said.

In 1992, U.S. retail sales generated $750 billion dollars, or 56-percent of non-automotive sales. In a typical month, 177 million adults shop at shopping centers

— 94-percent of the U.S. population 18 years or older. In 1992, retail sales produced over $30 billion in state sales tax revenue.

PLYMOUTH SPORTS SCENE

Piece by piece

A new cast must lead SC's return to prominence

Wolverine champs

The '82 Michigan Wolves won the Under-12 division of the Wolverine Soccer Tournament on July 10.

The Wolves, coached by Don Gemmill and Julius Pachy, outscored opponents 17-1 in their first three games. In the fourth game, the Wolves beat the NWO Tourney, an all-star team from Ohio, by a 2-1 margin. In the final, the Wolves won a 1-0 decision against the Fraser Strikers on Byron Vince's goal late in the first half.

Playing for the Wolves were Brandon Bethell, Curt Bonn, Jeff Budd, Tommy Eller, Matthew Epacs, Tim Haffey, Rob Nerenz, Frank Raburn, Josh Ray, Ryan Rzepka, Byron Vince, Tony Wampler, Michael White, Mark Willoughby and goalkeeper Joe Zawacki.

The Wolves also captured the Little Caesars Division II championship this spring with a 7-1-1 record.

Roadrunner run

Doug Kurtis' baby is having its 11th birthday party Saturday night in Northville.

His baby, of course, is the annual Redford Roadrunner Classic.

"It was born in my basement 11 years ago, so yeah, I have always considered this run to be my baby," said Kurtis, who owns national marathon records for most sub-2:20.0 runs (74) and wins (37).

Kurtis and the rest of the Redford Roadrunners will be on hand Saturday to help organize the funning and running.

The Classic is for all levels of runners. There is the junior classic one-mile fun run/walk and the Classic 8K race for runners, race-walkers and wheelers. The race-walkers will be timed for the first time.

The 8K race costs $13, the others $8. Proceeds will benefit the Northville High School Scholarship Fund.

The race will begin on Main Street in Northville and finish at the Community Center. A party featuring a disc jockey and dancing will commence after the race. To attend the party alone costs $8.

For registration information, call Running Fit, 347-4949.

Wanted: Female golfers

The Foxy Lady Golf Classic is searching for women who want to tee off against breast cancer.

The third annual Classic, sponsored by the Detroit chapter of Eastern Airlines Silverliners, will be at Tanglewood Golf and Country Club in South Lyon Thursday, Aug. 11. Proceeds support the Michigan Cancer Foundation's breast cancer research, education and prosthesis development programs.

Cost for the Classic is $90 per person, and it includes golf and cart, breakfast, lunch and golfing contests throughout the day.

For information, call Beverly Wolfe at (810) 348-2454.

Softball registration

Canton Softball Center is accepting men's teams for its summer morning league. The season begins Monday, July 18. Double-headers are played 9:30 and 10:40 on Mondays. The 20-game season costs $495 per team plus umpire and game fees.

Call Bob at 483-5600.

Canton Softball also will be accepting registration for the following tournaments:

- July 16-17, USSSA men's C and E and women's D qualifiers.
 - July 23-24, USSSA men's D qualifier and men's black state championship.
 - July 30-31, USSSA men's C and E qualifiers.
 - Aug. 6-7, "New My Sponsor Drives a Lincoln-Mercury Tournament."
 - Aug. 13-14, USSSA church state championship; men's C and women's D and men's E "Last Chance" qualifiers.
 - Aug. 20-21, USSSA men's D state championship; Hochmans E 1-dayer (Sunday).
- Call 483-5600.

Madonna hoop camps

Madonna University men's basketball coach Bill Sharpe is conducting a pair of camps, starting with boys entering sixth grade all the way up to boys entering 10th grade.

Both sessions are July 25-29 at Madonna University. For boys entering grades 6-8, the camp will be 9 a.m. to noon; for those entering grades 8-10, the camp will be 1-4 p.m.

Cost is $65. Call 591-5135 for a camp brochure or more information.

Hockey try-outs

The Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey Association will hold tryouts at the Westland Ice Arena on the following dates: 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 7, and 10-11:30 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 21.

Applicants must be at least 35 years of age with a valid driver's license. Full equipment is necessary. A $7 fee will be collected at the door. Contact Tom at 595-0420 or Walt at 538-0824 for more information.

Only one player returns to Schoolcraft College's volleyball team, which suffered through its worst season in Tom Teeters' coaching tenure last year. Among those chosen to rebuild the program are some familiar faces.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

There are a couple of things one should know about Schoolcraft College's volleyball team: ■ Because Schoolcraft is a junior college, it is constantly changing. The lineup is never the same from year to year;

■ And with Tom Teeters as coach, the Lady Ocelots can never be counted out.

SC endured its worst season since Teeters became coach (again) in 1985. The Ocelots were 6-3 in NAIA Region 12 Eastern Conference play — suffering more conference losses last year than they had in Teeters' previous eight.

The major reason was the ineligibility of starters

Cornerstones: Schoolcraft College has been an NJCAA power for the past decade, and coach Tom Teeters believes Jamey Viau (above) from Salem and Janet Zabiwnik (right) from Canton could help keep the Ocelots on top.

Danielle Pfeffer and Kristen Barnes, which went undiscovered until the season was one-third over. That resulted in the forfeiture of some wins and cast a gloom over the remainder of the season.

Of course, it's worth noting that most coaches would savor a "gloom" similar to this — a 28-19 final record, 28-16 against NJCAA foes.

And yet, typically, Teeters is looking for something more this season. And it hardly matters that all but one of last year's players is gone.

"Adjusting, rebuilding, adding to . . . 'rebuilding' is an overused cliché for a junior college," the SC coach said.

The only returnee is Livonia Churchill graduate Julie Campau, a 5-foot-9 sophomore who played part time last season.

Everyone else is new — and, according to Teeters, the outlook isn't so dreary.

"Our size isn't bad, and our speed is represented by girls like (Shannon) Gottschalk, (Anne) Faba, (Jannel) Hemme, (Megan) Heslip and (Janet) Zabiwnik," he said.

The somewhat smaller, more athletic teams are usually Teeters' best. The team he guided to the NJCAA national championship in 1988 did not have a starter over 5-10.

This team has some size, some quickness, some versatility, and — according to Teeters — potential. His first objective is finding a setter; he has a couple of candidates. Problem is, neither was a setter in high school.

Gottschalk, a 5-9 transfer from Henry Ford CC (and Clinton High School), is one possibility; Zabiwnik, 5-5 from Plymouth Canton, is another.

Teeters sees Gottschalk as an all-around performer of exceptional ability. "I think we could play her anywhere," he said. "And she's a very good setter."

Zabiwnik is "the fastest player we've got," Teeters said. "We're looking for her to really step in for defense." Zabiwnik was an outstanding defensive player and outside hitter at Canton; Teeters believes she could add setting to her list of skills.

Hemme is a 5-9 transfer from Michigan State; she graduate from Livonia Ladywood in '92 and enrolled at MSU, but did not play there. "She was one of the unsung heroes on that Ladywood team," Teeters said. "She makes fantastic digs. Defense and blocking are her forte."

Heslip, 5-8 from Pontiac Oakland Catholic, boasts a "consistent arm swing and a good jump." Being left-handed helps, too.

And Faba, one of two Teeters' recruits from Harper Woods Regins, is a 5-7 leaper. "She has a great jump," said Teeters, "and a good arm swing. I think she's capable of playing very good defense. There's a lot of undeveloped potential there."

Those five account for just half of Teeters' recruiting class. There's also Jamey Viau, 5-8 from Plymouth Salem, whom Teeters thought "was Salem's top outside hitter. She was good even when they lost. She was their most consistent player — and very coachable."

And Vicki Rohraff, 5-10 from Wayne Memorial and another Henry Ford CC transfer. Rohraff sat out last year, so it may take some time for her to get into shape. "In high school, she had a good spin serve," said Teeters. "She has good height, good reach . . . she might be able to help."

Others Teeters has signed who could be of immediate help are Sarah McDowell, 5-11 from St. Clair Shores Lakeview, the "best player on a very weak team. Sarah's a sponge, she learns a lot. And she's fast, mobile, and she has good upper-body strength."

And Kendy Newman, 5-10 from Ida, was recruited by Ida junior varsity coach Nancy Ehlert, who played for Teeters. The SC coach compared Newman to Barnes: "She's very strong, and she's a better passer, better server (than Barnes)," he said. They need to work on her footwork before counting on her.

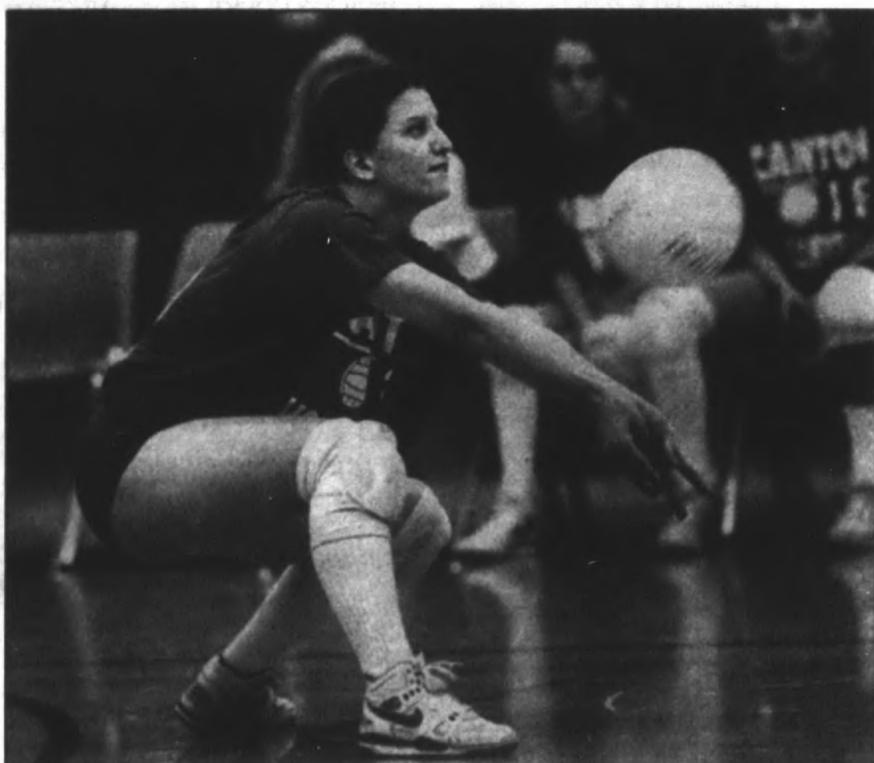

Then there's Brook Galichansky, 6-1 from Regina. Teeters ranks her as one of five candidates to fill the vacancy at middle-blocker, but she needs work on her speed and jumping ability first.

Even with all the losses, considering the variety of players he's recruited, one might believe Teeters is happy with his team.

Think again. "I'm never happy with it," he said. "I always see someone better."

"I see things we can make use of. I just hope we can get the right combination of size, strength and speed to take advantage of those skills."

SC officially opens training camp Aug. 8. The season starts at Concordia College Sept. 6.

A late rally sparks Wolverines — again

It appears certain the Wolverines' fate will be decided in stretch runs.

An early flurry in the third period of Thursday's Metro Summer Hockey League game put the Wildcats in front, 11-9 with six minutes left. But the Wolverines weren't finished; they netted five goals in the last 5:34, including both the game-winner and an insurance score in the final :32, to post a 14-12 victory at Plymouth Ice Arena.

Tony Guzzo was the offensive star, pouring in six goals and assisting on two others. Jim Hubenschmidt added three goals and two assists, Scott Lock contributed two goals and six assists, Eric Bilyeu had two goals and two assists, Mike Kneiding had a goal and four assists, and Paul Schloss collected four assists.

The Wildcats got four goals from Jeff Mitchell, two goals and four assists from James Mitchell, two goals and an assist from Brady Priest, two goals from Matt Nihrans, and a goal and two assists from both Bobby Davis and Ian Crockford. Dale

HOCKEY

Domas and Rick Lance chipped in with two assists each.

Three of the Wolverines four wins (against two losses) have resulted from come-from-behind efforts in the final period. The Wildcats slipped to 4-3.

■ SPARTANS 13, HUSKIES 6: The Spartans' eight-goal avalanche in the second period buried the Huskies Wednesday at Plymouth.

Vic Decina scored three goals and assisted on three others in the decisive 8-1 second-period assault to lead the Spartans (2-2-1). Kris Kane and Bob Nagy contributed two goals and two assists to the Spartan victory, and Tony Migliaccio had two goals and an assist.

Paolo Decina also scored twice. Steve Nelson had a goal and three assists, Dave Bovol had a goal and an assist, and Matthew Surowiec and Tim McConnell each had two assists.

For the Huskies (1-5), Damon Whitten had a goal and two assists, and Chris Smith, Tom Cole and Josh Wiegand each had a goal and an assist. Jason Schneider and James Wheaton also scored goals; Rich Kelly had two assists.

Gary Rye was in goal for the Spartans; Kris Kubalak was in the nets for the Huskies.

■ BULLDOGS 7, REDSKINS 1: Marc Chiapelli continued his scoring assault for the Bulldogs, notching three goals and an assist, to ignite the offense Wednesday against the winless Redskins at Plymouth.

The 'Dogs, behind the strong goaltending of Shawn Greene and Brian Guillery, built a 7-0 lead after two periods and coasted to their Bakes Division-leading fifth win (with one loss). Bobby Jones added two goals and two assists to the offensive output, and Patrick Hultman had a goal and an assist.

Steve Jones contributed two assists. Dustin Sventy and Jody Kaufman also scored goals for the 'Dogs.

Jack McCoy netted the Redskins' only goal, midway through the final period. Jeff Beasley and Stephen Trauchaud split time in goal for the 'Skins.

■ WILDCATS 14, HUSKIES 6: A third-period surge carried the Wildcats to a lopsided victory over the Huskies Tuesday at Plymouth.

James Mitchell netted four goals for the winners, three coming in their 7-1 third period. Matt Nihrans, Brady Priest, Ian Crockford and Ben Blackwood each added two goals; Kevin Berger (Livonia Stevenson) and Rick Lance scored once apiece. Jeff Mitchell had five assists for the Wildcats, with Bobby Davis getting three and Priest, Blackwood, Lance, Matt Capaldi and Tyler Brush adding two apiece.

Dominic Catanzarite (Livonia Franklin), Josh Wiegand, Frank Graney, Chris Smith and James Wheaton each scored a goal for the Huskies. Joe Sellers (Plymouth/Ohio State) had two assists.

Hines Park breaks losing streak

Garden City Collegiate baseball coach Fred Holton has heard the whispers around the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

After Friday night's key 4-3 win over Walter's Appliance at Livonia's Ford Field, Holton was prepared to fire back.

If there is a coach in the LCBL filing a protest about Garden City using two ineligible players, Holton said he has proof of their eligibility. Holton would rather talk about Garden City being undefeated in its last 10 games (nine wins and a tie) than about eligibility, but he was eager to set the record straight.

The two players in question are from Livonia and to join Garden City needed releases before the season from Livonia based teams Walter's and Little Caesars. Walter's coach Harvey Weingarden, who took over prior to the season when Mike Keller decided to take the summer off from coaching, had no comment.

"Somebody filed (a protest) and said we had two ineligible players," Holton said. "We have both releases, got them signed January 16, 1994, by Walter's coach Mike Keller and Little Caesars coach John Moraitis. I had a meeting with LCBL co-director Lyle (Trudell), showed him the releases and he said they were two legal players."

Friday's victory moved Garden City to 12-9-1 overall (25 points), seven points ahead of Walter's (9-12-1, 18 points) for the fourth and final playoff spot. Each team has eight games remaining.

"When we were 3-9, no one was saying (about ineligibility), now that we've won nine and tied one, everyone's getting worried," Holton said.

Garden City gave winning pitcher Dan Pydyn a 4-0 lead in the first inning against Walter's starter Ed Valdez.

Brian Hicks (Redford Catholic Central) and Brian Theis (Redford Union) contributed run-scoring singles for Garden City. Dan Taylor provided most of Walter's offense, driving in a run in the third with a triple and adding a two-run single in the fifth.

Walter's on Wednesday defeated Delwal 3-1, scoring single runs in each of the last three innings.

Mike Zielinski threw a four-hitter in six innings to earn the win for Walter's and Tim Holland got the save.

Shawn Penzak was 2-2, including a triple and an RBI.

HINES PARK 14, LITTLE CAESARS 13: Hines Park broke a four-game losing streak but it had to survive some tense moments in Friday's first game at Ford Field. Second place Hines Park led 13-4 at one point before third place Caesars rallied to tie the score. J.R. Taylor's three run homer and Dave Roman's (Livonia Franklin) two-run double sparked the comeback.

Hines Park won the game in the top of the seventh, scoring with two outs. Ed Gundry (Plymouth Salem) singled and came home on Jason McLenehan's second double of the game.

Brian Paluk (Redford CC) started for Hines Park before being leaving with a 13-5 lead in the fifth inning. Dan Miller was the new pitcher but lasted only 1/2 of an inning before Craig Benedict entered with the score tied.

Benedict pitched 2 1/2 innings of scoreless ball to earn the win. Gundry, Brian Burns, Heath Fowler and McLenehan were the hitting heroes for Hines Park.

Caesars got pounded Wednesday by Garden City 10-1.

Hicks and Marcus Saranovsky were 3-for-5 with three RBI each. Brent Miller and Jason Holton (Garden City) scored three runs each.

Mark Rutherford was the winning pitcher, scattering three hits, striking out four batters and walking one to move to 3-2 on the mound.

WESTLAND 11, WENDY'S 4: Westland quiet moved into first place after Wednesday's win over Wendy's at Westland John Glenn.

Westland is 15-7 with 30 points.

Andy Reynolds scattered four hits, struck out two and walked one in six innings of work. He also was 4-for-4 at the plate with five RBI. Joe Vondrack was 2-3 with a homer and two RBI and Pat McCormack of Livonia had a double and two RBI.

ROCK FINANCIAL IS SEARCHING FOR A FEW STARS ★★★★★ We are looking for "special" kinds of people. We are looking for competitive experienced sales professionals who possess the "Just Do It" attitude. We are looking for people who have an inner need to be the best, and know what the phrase "sense of urgency" means. We are seeking people who want the opportunity of a lifetime to contribute and grow with an INC. 500 company! If you are currently a top Mortgage Loan Officer or other sales professional consider the following: There is a reason why Rock Financial has grown to become one of the Midwest's Largest Independent Mortgage Banks. There is a reason why Rock Financial has the best marketing, technology, processing, products and customer service in the nation. There is a reason why Rock Financial closed over 1 Billion dollars in residential mortgages in 1993 and continues to grow in this new market. There is a reason why Rock Financial has become the 2nd largest purchase lender in Michigan. We are the most innovative mortgage lender in the nation and we demand results from our sales force. 'America's Junior Miss' doesn't have to shine in a suit

By SARA BENNETT

"Unfortunately, a majority of the general public's perception is kind of stuck back in the '50s," Daniel Funk says. "And whenever they hear about or see an event like this, they kind of have a stereotypical locked-in sensibility about what it is."

To what could Funk possibly be referring? Beauty pageants, of course!

The days of crowning smiling airheads are behind us, for the most part, and "America's Junior Miss," airing live Saturday, July 23, on NBC, is helping to keep the past where it belongs.

Notice that the could-be offensive word is not in the title?

"Pageant" isn't really even the right word," says Funk, co-executive producer. "I think that's a holdover."

The event, which has survived to see its 37th year despite an eight-year absence from television, still draws 50 attractive girls — that aspect will never change. But they're doing more with their talent, and they're competing for something far more worthwhile than a tiara.

"The girls who participate (all high-school seniors) in this (are there) for a single reason," Funk says. "And that is scholarships. There aren't as many scholarship opportunities nationwide for young women as there are for young men. It's a way for this program to offer these young women some aid and some assistance to help them reach, in many cases, very ambitious career goals."

One pageant winner off to an outstanding career start is former Miss America 1993, Leanza Cornett, co-host of "America's Junior Miss." "I think the level of importance (of pageants) is certainly changing," Cornett says. "For me, it's what is still helping me get through college, and helped me start college three years ago. If it's a pageant that offers scholarship money, it can be very important."

Cornett, a reporter and substitute host for the syndicated "Entertainment Tonight," believes "the scholarship aspect of the Miss America Organization somehow gets lost in the age (of the contestants)," whereas "America's Junior Miss" makes the $30,000 first-prize scholarship the focus.

The contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, creative and performing arts, presence and composure and personal interviews. Missing from the event, and making it seem less like a 1950s relic, are the swimsuit and evening gown competitions.

Funk describes the girls as "well-rounded," and to bring the event into the 1990s, another category has the girls creating "their own workout routine. They were all given the same piece of music, and it's up to them to come down to Mobile (Ala.) prepared with a routine, which involves a lot on their part, (using) their creativity and their dedication."

Along with Cornett, 21-year-old Brian Austin Green ("Beverly Hills, 90210") serves as co-host — with a little less pageant experience than Cornett.

"Just because it's live, I'm a little bit nervous about it," he admits. "There's no room for error. I may just get up there and have no problem at all. Then again I may get up and get completely tongue-tied and never work again. It could go either way."

Cornett, who interviewed Green a few months ago for a "Beverly Hills, 90210" segment that aired on "E.T.," isn't worried at all.

"The rapport between us, the chemistry, is really there," she says. "He has a wonderful sense of humor. I think it will be a lot of fun."

Remembering the entertainment aspect of the show, the co-hosts must keep the audience engaged. Cornett, a mature 23, fills the straightforward role. She's cool and composed on camera. Green's outgoing, affable demeanor should mesh nicely.

"We hope it will have a much more contemporary, 'hipper' feel to it so people will feel like it's a program of now," Funk says. "We don't want them to feel as though they're watching a program that was shot in the '50s."

SOAP WORLD

Frances Heflin dies at age 71

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me what happened to the actress who played Mona on "All My Children"? She has always been one of my favorites, and a friend of mine told me she had passed away.

I've often wondered how such a kind character could have a daughter like Erica, and a granddaughter like Kendall. What a family they made. -J.F. in New York

Dear Reader: Frances Heflin (Mona "AMC") died of cancer on June 1 at age 71. At the same time her character was fighting the deadly disease, Heflin was waging her own real life battle. She complimented "AMC" on several occasions for the accurate portrayal of her character's suffering with cancer.

The actress had played the strong, kind hearted role of Mona since the show's beginning in 1970. Her character often lamented that she had felt so guilty about Erica's father leaving that she had let the girl get away with too much. She often blamed herself for spoiling Erica and causing the young girl to act so selfishly.

Erica continues as the show's No. 1 vamp. Since Erica's trial, mother and daughter had become much closer, and Erica was mortified when she discovered her mother had cancer.

Before "AMC," Heflin had a distinguished career in the theater. She appeared on Broadway with Marlon Brando in the original production of "I Remember Mama," and in London with Helen Hayes in "The Glass Menagerie."

Heflin had three children with her husband Sol Kaplan, a composer and conductor, who died in 1990. She was also the sister of the late movie actor Van Heflin.

She is survived by her children, all of whom followed their mother into the entertainment business. They are film director Jonathan Kaplan and actresses Nora Heflin and Mady Kaplan. She also had several grandchildren.

At press time there were no plans to recast the role, as the producers thought no one could ever take the place of Heflin in the role of Mona.
